Dynamite Plot Charged To British Cable-Laying Ship Burns, Union Officials, Strikers 98 Persons Rescued In Lifeboats

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP) — Three union officials and four strikers, including Boyd Payton, Carolina director of the Textile Workers Union of America, are scheduled for preliminary hearings in Vance County Recorder's Court Tuesday on charges of conspiring to dynamite a substation transformer feeding power to two struck Henderson cotton mills.

Payton gave himself up in Charlotte Sunday night after hearing about the warrants on a radio newscast. He denied the charge, adding that he did not know where the substation is located.

Lawrence Gore and Charles Auslander, the other union officials, were not immediately taken into custody, Payton said. Gore is a member of his staff and Auslander is chairman of the TWUA's Bi-City Joint Board at Spray, N.C.

North Carolina's attorney general, Malcolm Seawell, said in Raleigh that State Bureau of Investigation agents arrested the four strikers Saturday night. He said the four were "at a rendezvous where they were to meet for the purpose of carrying out their plans."

Seawell identified the four as Calvin Ray Pegram, Robert Edward Abbott, Warren Walker and Malcolm Jarrell. Bond for each was set at $25,000.

In Charlotte, where Payton lives, he posted $10,000 bond. His bond also had been set at $25,000 in Henderson, but was reduced by J. A. Dellinger, a Charlotte police desk sergeant who also is a magistrate.

The maximum sentence on a conspiracy charge conviction is 15 years.

"It is contended," Seawell said, "that there is evidence that these men and probably others entered a conspiracy to dynamite the Carolina Power & Light Co. substation transformer which feeds electricity to the (struck) Harriet-Henderson mills and to much of Vance County."

The attorney general said he had been informed by SBI Director Walter J. Anderson that "there is evidence also of a conspiracy to destroy the main office building on the Harriet-Henderson mills through the use of Molotov cocktails." This was described by Seawell as high octane gas in bottles which are set afire and thrown on a target.

The TWUA called the strike last Nov. 17 after the company insisted on removal of an arbitration clause from its contract. On Feb. 16, the mills reopened on a one-shift basis, touching off violence that erupted intermittently during the following weeks.

Gov. Hodges dispatched highway patrolmen to the scene, but withdrew them early in May. On May 12, he sent National Guardsmen to Henderson when local officers were unable to handle the strike situation.

LONDON (AP)—A crew of 98, including 10 Americans, was rescued 500 miles out in the Atlantic today when fire swept a British cable-laying ship.

The ship, the Ocean Layer, was completing the first telephone cable linking the United States directly with the European continent.

Hours after the rescue by the Hamburg-bound German freighter Flavia, the Ocean Layer was still burning.

The 10 Americans picked up were employees of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., supervising the cable laying. Among them was Ogden D. Gensemer, 50-year-old mayor of Summit, N.J., in charge of the operation for AT&T.

The 4,534-ton Ocean Layer was strung cable along the ocean-bottom toward France when a fierce blaze broke out in her engine room. Within 15 minutes after an SOS asking for help, Capt. A.

MacPherson Ross reported he had been forced to order the crew to take to lifeboats.

In the scramble, two men were left aboard the flame-swept hull. But they were spotted by lookouts aboard the 5,326-ton Flavia in time and were taken off by small boat.

The sea was calm and there was no word that anybody had been injured.

The cable being laid is part of a 40-million project underwritten by AT&T, and by the government-owned telephone services of West Germany and France.

Scheduled to go into service next fall, the new cable also is intended for service between the United States and Switzerland, Belgium, Netherlands, Spain and Italy.

An AT&T spokesman in New York said efforts were being made to obtain a ship to replace the Ocean Layer, the world's second largest cable-laying ship.

The Ocean Layer is a former German cargo ship taken as a prize by the British at the end of World War II. It was converted into a cable ship at a cost of about $2,800,000.

Flag Day Observed Sunday

SNOWDEN FLAG DAY SPEAKER . . . Watson chairman of Elks sponsored services.

"Our American flag is at once a history a declaration and a prophecy," J. T. Snowden told a Flag Day audience at the Elks Lodge yesterday.

"It represents the American nation as it was at its birth; it speaks for what it is today; and it holds the opportunity for the future to add other stars to the glorious constellation."

"Of all the flags of history the American flag is the oldest. It is an honest flag; a righteous flag. During the long years of its life our country has engaged in a number of wars, yet its flag has never ruffled in support of an unworthy cause, and has never known defeat. It has no taint of scandal, no spot of dishonor."

Snowden described the evolution of the American flag as being "interesting as the evolution of the American government."

"During the period of its growth it embraced parts of the canners of other countries, sometimes showing even shrubs and serpents, and being devoid of originality."

Snowden pointed out that the flag today bears 49 stars and reon with the admission of Hawaii to the Union it will carry 50 stars.

"The Red, White and Blue, the Star Spangled Banner, the Stars and Stripes, Old Glory, by whatever name it be called, all hail The American Flag — our Flag," Snowden declared. "Cherished by all our hearts — upheld by all our hands."

W. H. Watson, who served as chairman of the Elks sponsored Flag Day ceremonies, was in charge of yesterday's ceremonies.

Jake Dixon, as lodge chaplain, offered a prayer during the ceremonies. Also taking part in the program were E. L. Clark, John Dickens, Pace Fuller and Charles King.

Expropriation Action Ordered

GUATEMALA (AP)—President Miguel Ydigoras has ordered land expropriation proceedings against the United Fruit Co., charging it with trying to evict farmers occupying land it recently acquired.

The land involved is at Izabal, in northern Guatemala.

The government also announced it is drawing up an agrarian law to distribute government-owned and non-cultivated private holdings to peasants. The privately owned land will be purchased,

Attorneys Would Avoid Open Hearing On Governor's Sanity

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — A battery of attorneys huddled hastily today to avoid an open hearing where Gov. Earl Long of Louisiana wants to fight for release from a Texas mental clinic.

The 63-year-old Long, contending he was railroaded into John Sealy Hospital three weeks ago, has a habeas corpus hearing scheduled for today. The court granted the hearing when Long filed an application he was brought to the hospital under heavy sedation, shackled hand and foot.

But the attorneys hinted the hearing today may not come off. In view of a closed sanity session Tuesday.

Long's three court-appointed attorneys, together with legal representatives of the governor's wife and Sen. Russell Long (D-La.), the governor's nephew, indicated they did not want the open hearing today.

One other possibility, one of the attorneys said, would be to limit today's hearing to legal arguments and save Long from attacks as a credible witness until the closed session.

Attorneys said they had not talked with Judge L. D. Godard on the possibility of any change from the open hearing.

Long shouted to newsmen from his second floor room at the hospital Sunday night and told them, "I'm no more crazy than you are."

"They led me in here in handcuffs," Long yelled to James McLean, Louisiana Capitol correspondent for The Associated Press, and Margaret Dixon, managing editor of the Baton Rouge Morning Advocate. With them were Emile Comar of the New Orleans States and Bill Lynch of the Shreveport Times.

"They wanted to kill the long shark bill," yelled Long. "They wanted to pass the sales tax."

They wanted to kill my election bill."

The governor referred to the recent fiscal session of the Louisiana legislature. The loan-shark bill proposed a relatively minor change in the interest rate on small loans. The election bill was designed to change the state Democratic primary from Dec. 6 to 19. The sales tax law mentioned was not an issue. The other two bills died.

Long said he would call a special session of the Legislature to revive the bills.

None of these measures stirred public interest. It was legislative opposition to Long's proposal to liberalize voting qualifications, which would have permitted more Negroes to vote, that sparked Long's tirade before a joint session of both houses of the Legislature.

Psychiatrists at John Sealy Hospital never have publicly classified Long's mental illness. The governor has indicated he was persecuted in that he was drugged at the mansion in Baton Rouge, strapped to a stretcher, hustled to an ambulance, and flown to Texas.

Long said Sunday in a taped interview "There never has been a man brutalized and handed over to a governor or no governor — like I've been handled."

"They really wanted to run for governor themselves," Long said in a telephone interview with KTRB-TV. He named Sen. Russell Long (D-La.), his nephew, Blanche Long, his wife, and Raymond Huff, Louisiana adjutant general.

Senator Long, son of the late Huey P. Long, has said he was considering running for governor, but he was waiting until the question of his uncle's health was clarified. Mrs. Long has disavowed any political ambitions. Huff is not an announced candidate for governor.

Of his wife, Long said she is "the most jealous woman in Louisiana."

West Says It's Time For Action

GENEVA (AP) — The West warned the Soviet Union today, with the Big Four conference entering its sixth week, that the time has come for decisive action on the crucial issue of Berlin.

Some Western diplomats said the conference will end this week unless the Soviet Union does some retreating.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, returning here from weekend consultations in London, declared the Geneva negotiations cannot go on indefinitely. He expressed some hope that an understanding on Berlin might yet be reached, but left no doubt that in his view the talks here have reached the point of action.

U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter conferred with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville in midday and they arranged to meet Lloyd in a strategy session aimed at maintaining the Western solid front in dealing with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

U.S. officials said that if Gromyko came up with no new ideas today, the Western powers would expect the talks to go on for probably two more meetings.

Western diplomats still talked of some compromise which would lift the immediate Soviet threat to West Berlin and above the Gromyko's proposed new one-year time limit on the Western occupation.

Diplomatic sources in Moscow said they believed Premier Nikita Khrushchev and the Soviet Communist party Presidium were drafting new instructions for Gromyko. One diplomatic source predicted that the Geneva conference would end in an agreement preserving the Berlin "status quo with face savers on both sides."

The Western foreign ministers apparently vary in their determination to break off negotiations if Gromyko does not modify his position. Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain was reported to be far more interested in continuing negotiations than are U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville.

Opening the sixth week of the conference, the Big Four were to meet in secret session at Couve de Murville's villa this afternoon.

At the last meeting Friday, Gromyko said his one-year deadline proposal was not an ultimatum. But he called for agreement on a summit conference even if there is no accord on Berlin.

Lloyd returned from a weekend in London, apparently with instructions from Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to stick to a strategy of firmness and patience.

The possibility of a compromise seemed to depend on whether the Soviet government would shelve its threat to hand over control of the Berlin supply lines to East Germany while prolonged negotiations over Germany and related European issues take place.

The Western powers in return could be expected to agree to trim the size of their 10,000-man garrison in West Berlin, to curtail propaganda and spy activities from there against the Communist bloc, and to agree to a ban on nuclear weapons in Berlin.

The next big forum of negotiations then would be a summit conference, probably in September, with the prospect of more foreign minister and summit meetings to follow as progress warranted.

Railroads Asked For Wage Hike

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The 69,000-member Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers today asked the nation's railroads for a 14 per cent wage increase.

H. E. Gilbert, international president, said the brotherhood's general committee served the wage notices on individual railroads. The union also seeks a revised escalator clause and improvement in daily earnings guarantees for all road service engineers and firemen.

Gilbert said the productivity of rail workers, coupled with technological improvements in the industry, entitle the workers to a fare share of what he termed "mounting and significant profit figures in the industry."

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, representing 50,000 members, asked in February for a 12 per cent pay increase. The union coupled its wage demands at that time with the Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen, and the Switchmen's Order of North America.

The BLFE wants daily earnings to be $26 minimum for engineers in road service, and $23 for firemen in road service.

Basic daily minimums now are $20.49 for engineers and $18.54 for firemen in passenger service. For some freight service, rates are $21.83 for engineers and $18.34 for firemen. The requested pay rates would apply to all road service engineers and firemen.

Considering New Customs Union

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Seven governments are studying a 24-page plan proposing a second European customs union similar to the six-nation Common Market.

Ministers from the seven countries involved — Britain, Austria, Switzerland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, and Portugal — plan to meet here about the middle of July to act on the proposal.

Forty ministers from the seven governments met here June 1 to work out the plan.

Hearing On Pension Plan Today

RALEIGH (AP) — A committee hearing today on a proposed firemen's pension fund will mark the start of what may be the final week of the State Legislature.

A public hearing was set before the Senate Appropriations Committee on House-passed legislation which would levy a tax on fire insurance premiums to help finance a firemen's pension fund.

Two major issues, constitution and court reform and a state income tax withholding plan, remain to be cleared away between now and adjournment.

Legislative leaders are hoping adjournment can come by the end of the week. They admit, however, much work must be done if this is to be accomplished.

The House is expected to give speedy third reading approval tonight to the no-new-tax revenue bill, including the income tax withholding plan. The measure likely will come up Tuesday in the Senate, where an amendment may be offered to knock out the withholding plan for individuals.

The House beat down an attempt to kill the withholding plan for individuals and adopted an amendment to place the state's largest corporations—41 in all—under the pay-as-you-go tax method.

The House also is expected to give third reading approval tonight to: (1) Senate-passed bills to provide a 40½ million dollar program of capital improvements for state agencies and institutions, (2) legislation to give the State Milk Commission power to set minimum retail and wholesale prices.

A showdown battle is scheduled in the House Tuesday on a Senate-passed bill to revise the state constitution and revamp the state's court system. The package bill contains a controversial provision which says no county can have more than one state senator regardless of how large its population grows. An attempt may be made to knock out this provision.

There has been speculation, however, that an effort will be made to kill the package bill in the hope that the court reform amendment and possibly some other changes in the constitution can be presented to a vote of the people as individual issues.

British To Push 'Save Geneva' Plan By Lloyd

LONDON (AP) — The British government today backed a "Save Geneva" plan put forward by Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd in weekend consultations with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Informants in London indicated it seeks to avoid a fruitless adjournment of the foreign ministers conference and is pointed toward some kind of interim settlement for Berlin.

Details were kept secret, apparently to give Lloyd time to report to his American and French colleagues.

The plan was discussed by Lloyd, Macmillan and Cabinet members today just before the foreign secretary returned by plane to Geneva.

It was clear in London that the British are not enthusiastic about suggestions which have been made for a four-week break in the current Geneva talks.

The British would like a summit conference to take place in August if possible.

Rose High School Commended By Study Group

Junius H. Rose High School has drawn high commendations from a study committee of the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges which visited the school last month as part of an evaluation program for accreditation by the association.

The committee's report, forwarded to Superintendent J. H. Rose, cited work of the school staff, organization and management, educational leadership, and community relations. It included "a message of congratulation to the administration staff, to the teaching staff, to the student body and to the custodian staff on the organization and operation of a splendid school system."

The committee visited the high school on May 5 and included in its inspection two meetings with the school staff and discussions with individual staff members. Committee members also attended a student assembly, inspected the building and reviewed records.

In its report, the committee stated, "The administrative staff was considered adequate. Only in the field of Guidance would there seem to be need of an additional staff member."

Preparation by regular staff members for supervision of student teachers was commended by the committee. "Not only were they well trained for teaching," the report stated, "they were also well prepared for the important part of supervision of the student teachers who were evident in most of the classrooms."

Under organization and management, the committee said a "splendid system" of pupil accounting and reporting to parents had been developed. "There was abundant evidence to show that teachers were constantly in contact with parents on all matters pertaining to the welfare of the children," the committee said.

The report also stated, "School finances were in excellent order. Many opportunities were shown in the handling of finances and in making adequate reports of the manner in which these finances were reported."

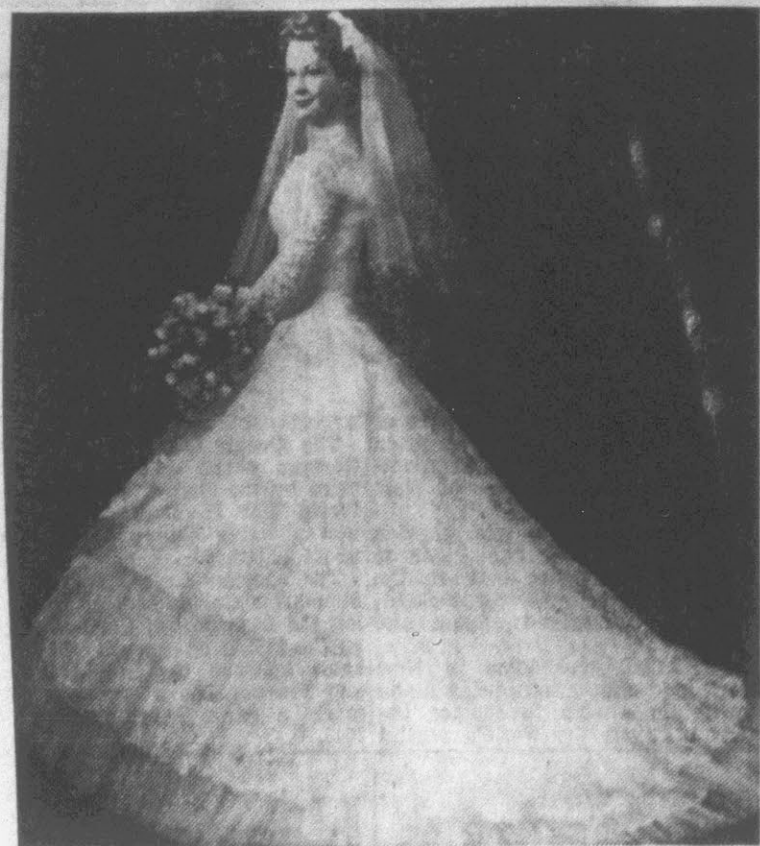

"The principal should be congratulated on the splendid manner in which this building was maintained. A visitor would have assumed that only recently the plant had been turned over to the student body. The grounds were well kept and a beautiful atmosphere maintained throughout."

Leadership at all levels in the school was cited by the committee which said, "Abundant leadership was in evidence, not only on the part of the superintendent, the principal, and teachers but evident in the student body. A fine program was observed in the installation of new officers of the student association for the coming year. Definite self-control was in evidence in the classroom, in the halls and on the playground. Leadership was individual rather than centered in an official."

Also included in the report was the statement, "We are certain that splendid community relationships exist. This was shown by the number of lay people attending the dinner on Monday night, the number of written articles in evidence and the splendid attitude shown in the relationship between students and teachers."

Couple Speaks Vows In Grifton

Mrs. John Robert Howell

GRIFTON — Miss Barbara Ella Windley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sylvester Windley of Pinetown, and John Robert Howell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edward Howell of Greenville, were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony Sunday. The ceremony, performed by the brides brother-in-law, the Rev. Ralph I. Epps, took place at the Grifton Methodist Church in Grifton.

Miss Margaret Ann Griffin of Columbia, soprano, and Mrs. Frances Johnson Cohn of Greenville, organist, presented nuptial music. Miss Griffin and Mrs. Cohn were fraternity sisters of the bride in Sigma Alpha Iota, a music fraternity at East Carolina College.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Charles Braxton Windley of Pinetown, wore a formal length gown of white tulle, fashioned with a long fitted bodice, portrait neckline, and the traditional long sleeves, ending in collar points over the hands. Her voluminous skirt featured alternating tiers of scalloped lace and tulle ruffles cascading into a chapel train. The scalloped detail was repeated on the neckline.

Her two tiered finger tip veil of pure silk French illusion was attached to a plateau of chantilly lace and handsome pearls. She carried a cascade of white roses and lilies of the valley with a white orchid.

Mrs. Kent Rogers Gurganus of Washington, D. C., former college roommate of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a full-length gown of white organza over pink tulle, made with a fitted bodice of embroidered organza. She was a white picture hat of swiss braid trimmed with seed pearls and carried a fan of pink shasta daisies, tied with white streamers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Douglas Furrin of Bath, Mrs. Leon Brickhouse of Elizabeth City, Miss Nancy Paye Howell of Burlington and Greenville, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Eleanor Sue Randolph of Raleigh and Miss Shirley Ann Gallimore of Washington, D.

C. They wore dresses like the honor attendant, and carried fans of pink shasta daisies, tied with pink.

Miss Barbara Ellene Epps of Grifton and Miss Adriana Patricia Van Wick of Panteo, nieces of the bride, were junior bridesmaids. Their dresses were similar to the bridesmaids. They wore white ribbon headbands and carried fans of pink pom-poms.

Robert Edward Howell served as his son's best man. The ushers were David Evans, Jr., Donald Patrick, Tommy K. Norris, and Howard Kink, all of Greenville.

For her daughters' wedding, Mrs. Windley wore a street length dress of pink embroidered cotton and used white accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of pink roses.

The bridegroom's mother was attired in a street-length, mauve rose lace sheath, with matching accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of pink roses.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina College where she was a member of Sigma Alpha Iota. She was a member of the Contentnea school faculty near Kinston, where she taught public school music during the past year.

The bridegroom is a May graduate of East Carolina College with a degree in physical education and social studies.

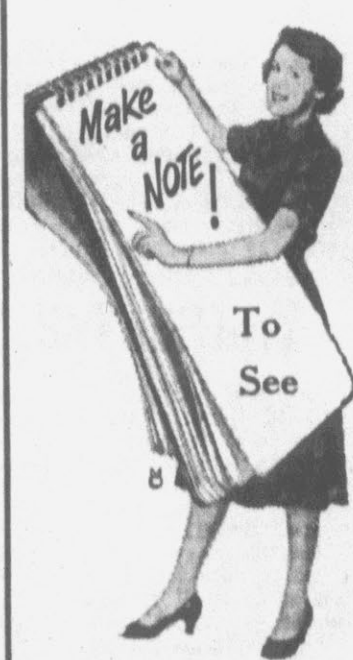

Following the ceremony the bride's parents and sister Mrs. Ralph I. Epps, entertained at a reception in the Church Fellowship Hall. The hall was decorated throughout with magnolia, white and pink summer flowers and white candles. The table was covered with a white lace cloth over pink satin and was centered with a floral arrangement in pink and white flanked with tall pink candles in silver candelabra.

For the wedding trip, the bride changed to a costume dress of flowered silk in tones of beige and brown, with a hat of beige. Her other accessories were of beige and she wore a white orchid, lifted from her bridal bouquet.

After the wedding trip, the couple will reside in Grifton until the fall when they will move to a new teaching location.

Borders-Collins United In Baptist Church

The marriage of Miss Katherine Lynne Collins and Andrew Johnson Borders, Jr. was solemnized in Memorial Baptist Church Saturday afternoon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Mann Collins, Jr., of Greenville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Johnson Borders, Sr., of Charlotte.

The Reverend Percy B. Upchurch officiated at the double ring ceremony, assisted by Dr. Robert L. Holt. Prior to the ceremony a program of organ music was presented by Mrs. Roland Pridgen, organist, of Bedford, Mass., and Mrs. Claude Kidd, soloist, Mrs. Kidd sang, "The Greatest of These is Love" by Bigood, which is the 13th Chapter of Corinthians put to music and "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee" taken from Ruth. As the benediction "Wedding Prayer," by Dunlap, was sung. The traditional wedding marches from "Lob-in-grin" by Wayne and "The Wedding March" by Mendelssohn were used as the processional and the recessional.

A background of Areca Palms and candles were flanked by baskets of white lilies and snapdragons. Pews were marked with white satin bows. The white satin kneeling bench had a single lighted candle on either side.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of candlelight mauve de soie, fashioned along empire lines which featured a bodice of re-embroidered chantilly lace. The full skirt which formed a chapel train was accented by soft back pleats. Her veil attached at a lace cap was embroidered with pearls. She wore pearl earrings a gift of the groom. Her bouquet was a Cascade of Valley Lilies and white orchids tied with white satin ribbons.

Miss Sara Collins, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a dress of blue crystal, fashioned with princess lines and a sweetheart neckline. The ballerina length full skirt was styled with soft back pleats. Her headpiece was a small fitting hat fashioned from the blue crystal and trimmed with sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink briarcliff roses.

Bridesmaids were Miss Joanna Hardee of Greenville, Miss Doris Cole of Winterville, former Mars Hill College classmate of the bride and Miss Patricia Pritchard of Lenoir, former Woman's College classmate of the bride. Their dresses were identical to that of the honor attendant. Their flowers were cascade bouquets of pink briarcliff roses.

Honorary bridesmaids were Miss Ray Turnage of Rocky Mount, Misses Kay and Barbara Clevenger of Winchester, Va., and Mrs. Aubrey Kelly of Jacksonville, Fla. all cousins of the bride.

Also serving as honorary bridesmaids were Miss Mary Kisin of Greensboro and Miss Mary Ann Carathers of Gastonia. They wore Cocktail dresses and wristlets of pink roses.

A. J. Borders, Sr. served as best man for his son. Ushers were Robert Morrison, of Jacksonville, Fla. cousin of the groom. Roger Mann Collins III, brother of the bride, Boyce Cox of Winterville, Joe Helms of Charlotte and Hugh Freeze of Chapel Hill.

Little Miss Susan Hall, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert L. Hall was flower girl. She wore a dress similar to those worn by the bridesmaids and carried a pink basket filled with rose petals. On her head she wore a small knit picture hat.

Mrs. R. M. Collins, mother of the bride wore a tea length dress of beige chiffon and lace with matching accessories, and a corsage of beige cymbidiums.

Mrs. A. J. Borders, Sr. mother of the bridegroom, wore a tea length sheath dress of mauve peau de soie and lace with matching accessories and a corsage of white cymbidiums.

The brides' maternal grandmother, Mrs. J. A. Turnage of Rocky Mount, wore a black lace dress and matching accessories and her paternal grandmother, Mrs. R. M. Collins, Sr. was attired in Navy. Both wore white cymbidiums.

Later, following a reception in the church parlor, the couple left for their Western North Carolina wedding trip. The bride wore a blue printed silk, sheath dress with matching accessories and the white orchid lifted from her bouquet.

Mrs. Borders was graduated Greenville High School and attended Mars Hill Junior College in Mars Hill, and Woman's College in Greensboro. She is a 1959 graduate cum laude of Woman's College with an A.B. degree in Primary Education. While at W. C. she was active in Baptist Student Union work.

Borders attended Mars Hill Jr. College and Wake Forest College where he graduated in 1958 with a B.S. in Chemistry. He is now an instructor in the Chemistry Department of Virginia Military Institute in Lexington, Virginia.

After July 1, the couple will be at home at 311 Jackson Avenue in Lexington, Va.

Reception Immediately following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception in the church parlor.

Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Holt greeted the guests who were introduced to the receiving line by Mrs. Lee Carr.

Rev. and Mrs. Percy B. Upchurch directed the guest to the refreshment table where Mrs. Linwood Russell of Jacksonville, Fla. and Mrs. C. Stanley Clevenger of Winchester, Aunts of the bride served raspberry ices.

The refreshment table was covered with a handmade Danish linen cutwork cloth, two silver candelabras with pink tapers, accented the centered arrangement of pink snapdragons, Carnations and baby's breath in a silver bowl. A silver punch bowl encircled with greenery was at one end of the table and petit forms in pink and white at the other end. Pink and white meats and nuts were served.

Magnolias and lilies, with single pink candles were used throughout the parlor. An old-fashioned nosegay was on the registry table. Soft music was played throughout the reception.

Others assisting were honorary bridesmaids and Mrs. Roland Pridgen, of Bedford Mass., Mrs. Claude Kidd, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mercer, Rev. and Mrs. E. Y. Cole of Winterville, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wilson, Mrs. Vernon Tyson and Mrs. Ruel Tyson. Presiding at the guest book were Mr. and Mrs. C. Celix Moller of Rocky Mount. Goodbyes were said to Miss Mary Borders of Lafayette Ga. and Mrs. A. N. Morrison, Sr. of Miami Fla., Aunts of the groom.

Out-of-town guests were present from Miami Fla., Jacksonville, Fla., Columbia, S. C., Lafayette, Ga., Charlotte, Winston-Salem, Greensboro, Lenoir, Rocky Mount, Kinston, Winchester, Va., Gastonia, Chapel Hill, Crewe, Va., Winterville, Washington, Cameron, Bedford, Mass., Portsmouth Va.

Nashville, and Washington, D. C.

Wedding Breakfast Mrs. Johnston Dees, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Byrd, Mr. and Mrs. George Respass, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Moore, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Weller of Rocky Mount, entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests at a wedding breakfast Saturday morning at the Red Oak Community Building.

An arrangement of white Mums, Snapdragons, and Baby's Breath formed the centerpiece for the brides table. Wedding Bells, with Tulle bows were tied at either ends of the table covered with a white cut work linen cloth. Covers were laid for 50 guests at the three-course meal.

Cake Cutting Following the wedding rehearsal Friday evening, Mr. and Mrs. C. Stanley Clevenger of Winchester, Va. and Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Russell of Jacksonville, Fla. entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests at a cake cutting at the home of Mr. and Mrs.

Sam Winchester on the Farmville highway.

The refreshment table was covered with a white linen cutwork cloth and featured a center arrangement of white and yellow flowers flanked on either side by crystal candelabra holding white burning tapers.

The three tiered wedding cake was decorated with yellow wedding bells and was placed in yellow tulle circle. Punch was poured over ice rings molded with sweetheart, roses.

After the couple had cut the traditional first slice of the wedding cake, the ribbons were pulled from the bottom of the cake. Mrs. Roger M. Collins, Jr., mother of the bride-elect, served the cake to the guests. Mrs. Andrew Johnson Borders, Sr., mother of the bridegroom-elect, presided at the crystal punch bowl. During the evening Miss Collins and Mr. Borders presented gifts to their attendants.

Miss Eleanor Ann Ruffin Marries Richard Norfleet Hines, Jr.

On Saturday evening in Saint Paul's Episcopal Church, Miss Eleanor Ann Ruffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alger Coleman Ruffin of Greenville, became the bride of Richard Norfleet Hines, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Norfleet Hines of Edenton.

The Rev. John Drake, assisted by the Rev. George B. Holmes of Edenton, officiated. A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. John S. Kittrell, organist; Miss Jane Fuller, soloist, and the choir under the direction of George Johnson of Oxford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk tulle, fashioned with a fitted bodice, short shirred sleeves and a portrait neckline. The bodice and voluminous skirt were appliqued with medallions of alencon lace trimmed with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The back featured a bustle which extended into a chapel train. Her fingertip mantilla was edged with matching alencon lace. She carried a prayer book centered with a white orchid and showered with white cymbidiums and shephoras. The bride followed family tradition by wearing pearl earrings and pin which the paternal great-grandmother of the groom wore at her wedding. She also wore a gold heirloom bracelet, a gift of the groom.

Miss Margaret Ruffin served her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Susanne Bowles of Richmond, Va., cousin of the bride; Miss Margaret Holmes of Edenton, cousin of the groom; Miss Mary Louise Bizzell of Goldsboro, and Mrs. W. Watson Barnes of Wilson. They wore gowns of white silk organza with draped off the shoulder neckline and bouffant skirts encircled with a wide band of embroidery above the hemline. A narrow satin sash formed a bow at the back. The hats, fashioned of pale pink organza flowers and satin leaves, formed a circlet on top of the head and they carried cascade bouquets of pink cymbidiums and English ivy.

Master Marion Holmes of Edenton, cousin of the groom, acted as ring bearer.

Serving as best man was Richard N. Hines, father of the groom. Ushers were Coleman Ruffin, Jr., brother of the bride; William S. Post, Jr., both of Greenville; James T. Cheatham, III of Chapel Hill; Francis S. Hicks, William B. Gardner and Jerry Smith of Edenton.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ruffin chose a sheath dress of blue silk organza and a hat of matching sequins and pearls. Her corsage was a white orchid.

Mrs. Hines, mother of the groom, wore a dress of champagne lace trimmed with frosted green satin, a matching half-hat of leaves and a green orchid.

The bride graduated from Saint Mary's Junior College and the University of North Carolina and for the past year has been teaching in the Greensboro City Schools. She was presented at the Raleigh Terpsichorean Club's 1956 Debutante Ball and is a member of the Chi Omega Sorority.

The groom is a graduate of Virginia Episcopal School and the University of North Carolina, where he is currently enrolled in the School of Dentistry. He is a member of Zeta Psi social fraternity and the Delta Sigma Delta dental fraternity.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home in Brookgreen.

For her wedding trip the bride changed to a costume dress of blue silk with matching hat and accessories and a white orchid lifted from her prayer book.

After a wedding trip to The Cloisters, Sea Island, Georgia, the bridal couple will make their home in Chapel Hill.

Reception
Immediately following the wedding ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception at their home in Brookgreen. Guests were greeted on arrival by Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Moye, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. W.S. Bost introduced them to the receiving line. Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Ruffin were parents and great-aunt of the groom, Mrs. H.H. Preston, and members of the bridal party. Arrangements of white gladioli, snapdragons and feverfew interspersed with burning tapers were used throughout the home. Guests were invited into the dining room by Mr. and Mrs. J.T. Cheatham, Jr.

An imported hand embroidered cut-work cloth was used on the dining table. A four branch candelabra holding an arrangement of white gladioli, snapdragons, and garlands of smilax centered the table. Serving punch and bridal sweets were Mrs. E.C. Wilkerson, Mrs. Robert Arthur, Mrs. J. Bryan Brown, and Mrs. John Adams. On the buffet, the tiered wedding cake was encircled with bridal roses and smilax. Mrs. Henry L. Rivers presided at the guests' register. Others assisting throughout the house were Mr. and Mrs. W.L. Whedbee, Mrs. and Mrs. L.T. Shotwell, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lloyd Horton, Misses Betsy Whedbee, Lillian Moye, Marietta Northrup, Stuart Bost, Louise Ficklen, Carol Ann Tadlock and Virginia Lang.

Out Of Town Guests
Other than members of the wedding party, out of town guests included: Mr. W. Watson Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. John Barnes Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Hicks of Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. E.G. Bowles, Mr. E.G. Bowles, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Ruffin, Jr. of Richmond, Va.; Mrs. J.B. Ruffin, Mr. Robert R. Ruffin, Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Edmunds, Miss Margaret Edmunds, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Meade and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Meade of Danville, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. W.A. Gravely, Mr. Allan Gravely, Jr., Mr. Ben Gravely, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Newman of Charlotte. Mrs. William D. Holmes, Mrs.

Harless, Sr., Dr. and Mrs. William Hart, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James E. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. S. Francis Hicks, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. W.P. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Bond, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Boyce, Mr. and Mrs. T. Bland Smith, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. T. Bland Smith, Jr., Mr. John A. Kramer, III, all of Edenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marrow of Warwick, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Marion Vaden and Miss Jane Vaden of Raleigh; Mr. and Mrs. Eric Norfleet of Jackson; Mr. Francis G. Morgan, Jr. of Bridgeport, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. William H. Gardner, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Morgan of Durham, Mr. and Mrs. Peyton Gravely, Jr., Miss Gordon Wilkinson of Rocky Mount, Mr. and Mrs. John Huske, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. John Huske, Jr. of Fayetteville; Mrs. Edward Sharp of Beaufort; Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Sugg of Snow Hill; Mr. and Mrs. William H. Page, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beales, Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Homes of Washington, Richard Lewis Taylor of Oxford; and Lt. and Mrs. Cledith E. Oakley of Camp Lejeune.

Luncheon
Miss Ann Ruffin and her bridesmaids were honored at a luncheon Friday by Mrs. L.T. Shotwell, Mrs. V.E. Wells, Jr. and Mrs. J. Bryan Brown, at the home of Mrs. Wells. The honoree was presented a corsage of gardenias.

A three course luncheon was served. An imported hand-embroidered cloth was used on the luncheon table. The wedding bell motif was used, white bells tied with white satin ribbon hung in a cascade from the chandelier, and carrying out the theme, small bells with bows of white satin ribbon and lily-of-the-valley marked the place of each guest.

Miss Ruffin presented each bridesmaid with a silver picture frame. A silver tray was given the bride-elect by the hostesses.

Open House
Honoring members of the Hines-Ruffin wedding party and out-of-town guests, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Folger, Jr., Mr. Lee Folger, III, and Garrett Folger received at Open House on Friday evening following the wedding rehearsal.

Receiving with the hosts, were Mr. and Mrs. Ruffin and Mr. and Mrs. Hines, parents of the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Forbes and Mr. and Mrs. J. Lloyd Horton presided at punch bowls at opposite ends of the long refractory table. Appointments on the table were a pair of antique candelabra with pink candles on either side of a pink lustre bowl filled with snapdragons on a silk damask pink cloth.

On the patio, party snacks, including dips and hors d'oeuvres were passed. Shrimp were served from an ice bowl surrounded with garden fresh vegetables and fruits.

Rehearsal Dinner
On Friday a dinner was given after the rehearsal of the Hines-Ruffin wedding, honoring members of the wedding party and the immediate families. It was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C.C. Skinner. The hosts, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Skinner, included Mr. and Mrs. J.T. Cheatham, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J.T. Clark, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Per K. Andresen.

The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of white gladioli, roses and snapdragons. White gladioli were also used throughout the house.

A three-course, seated dinner was served.

Buffet Dinner
Mrs. Louise D. Ficklen and daughter, Miss Lou Ficklen, entertained at their home on the Ayden Highway at a buffet dinner on Friday evening for out-of-town guests here for the Hines-Ruffin wedding. Arrangements of mixed garden flowers were used throughout the house and on the terrace.

Wedding Breakfast
A wedding breakfast honoring Miss Ann Ruffin and Richard Hines was given Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Moye, Jr. with Mr. and Mrs. M.T. Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. W.L. Whedbee, Mr. and Mrs. W.S. Bost and Mrs. E.C. Wilkerson as assisting hosts.

Guests were invited into the dining room for a two-course buffet. To carry out the bridal motif, gardenias, gypsophila, white mahua and miniature wedding bells were used.

Small Wonder School Costs Grow!

Why does it take more money each year for teachers, buildings, equipment and all the other items necessary to operate a school system?

Citizens of Greenville have to look no farther than their own school system to find the answer. For the school term which will begin next fall, the Greenville City Schools anticipate a total enrollment of approximately 5,200 which is 400 more students than were enrolled during the school term which ended early this month.

This 8.3 per cent increase in the number of students in public schools in Greenville obviously will mean more funds will be needed next year to operate the schools on the same level they were operated on last year. Take into consideration not only the increased number of students, but also the constantly increasing cost of operating schools and everything else, and you have an added cost factor. Further, if we are to improve our schools over what they were during the past year, we must add still another figure to the increased cost of operating local schools during the coming fiscal year.

Suppose, for example, Greenville schools were to be assigned 40 to a classroom, which is far too high an average for effective instruction. On that basis the influx of new students for the next school year would require the equivalent 10 new classrooms in the city's schools, 10 new teachers to instruct these students, the cost of equipping and operating these 10 new classrooms and the overall cost of handling 400 new students.

Individual And State's Rights

By LYNN NISBET
SOVEREIGNTY — Prolonged debate in the House on the question of State sovereignty and right of eminent domain produced some strange alignments. The immediate issue was a provision in the permanent improvements bond bill that no part of the appropriated funds should be used for acquiring by condemnation the lands of the Tom Wilson family at Steeple Gap near the entrance to Mount Mitchell State Park. The State wants some of the Wilson land to round out its holdings and to eliminate some unsightly business structures on the road from the Blue Ridge Parkway to the top of Mount Mitchell. The Wilsons do not want to sell.

There was a lot of oratory about the right of the sovereign State to take anything it wants, at a fair price; and about the rights of individual citizens to have their property protected against the whimsical desires of temporary public officials. Nobody questioned the sovereign power of the State to take private property for essential public use through due process.

Involved here was the question of whether the beautification and enlargement of pleasure recreation facilities constitutes a public purpose of justifying exercise of condemnation powers. Also involved was the fundamental issue of division of authority between legislative and executive branches of State government. Condemnation proceedings must be initiated by the administrative-executive branch; but within limits of constitutional and legislative authority, and under supervision of the courts. In other words, it requires cooperation among the legislative, executive and judicial departments to maintain the full sovereignty of the State of North Carolina.

CONFlict — It was argued on the one hand that the limitations in the bill as it came from the Senate constituted undue restriction upon the power of the State. That was answered by argument that the General Assembly more nearly is the State of North Carolina than either of the other branches, and that only the Legislature can set the rules, subject to judicial interpretation of the constitution, for exercise of sovereignty.

The test vote came upon a motion to table an amendment removing the limitations upon condemnation powers. Effect of that amendment would have been to break open the bond appropriation bill as it came out of the joint committee and passed the Senate. The debate found such staunch administration hold-the-line advocates as Humphrey of Guilford, who offered the amendment, and Kemp Doughton, traditional champion of sanctity for committee reports, seeking to overturn the committee. And Marcellus Buchanan, generally classified as anti-administration, joining with Chairman Clyde Harris to keep the bill intact.

The vote of 60 to 42 for retaining the restrictive limitation with respect to the Wilson land in the bill was a victory for legislative supremacy. It settled the one matter of the State's powers at Steeple Gap. The major question remains and probably will be debated for years, whether the sovereign rights of the State extend to the taking of private property against the will of the owner when neither the health nor safety of the people is at stake, but only desire to enhance the scenery for benefit of the public or provide tax free recreational facilities.

This same question is involved in the proposals to control use of private lands along the highways, not included in public owned rights of way against billboards. To larger degree it arises in nearly every zoning ordinance. WELFARE — Sen. Wilbur Currie of Moore as chairman of the committee on public welfare has throughout the session advocated larger allocations for welfare purposes than were included in the budget bills. He gave up the fight when the appropriations bill came to the floor of the Senate, and instead of insisting upon an amendment to increase allocations he read into the journal a statement quoting Governor Hodges as saying that allotments to old people and dependent children will not have to be reduced if the budget amounts are approved.

He notes that the Governor and Council of State have a contingency and emergency fund from which additional money may be allocated if the legislative appropriations prove inadequate. Senator Moore and his friends may find that the C&E fund is not available as a source of money for this purpose.

Several Attorneys General in the past have ruled that allocations from C&E could not be made for projects which the General Assembly had considered and turned down. The need for more welfare money was argued at length before the Advisory Budget Commission and the appropriate legislative committees. Strenuous effort was made to get about half a million dollars more than committee amounts. Whether later developments proving this need could be construed as a contingency or emergency arising when the General Assembly is not in session will depend upon the opinion of the Attorney General then in office.

Senator Currie might later regret that he did not incorporate in the journal record a direct comment from the Governor and an opinion of the Attorney General.

And these extra costs, mind you, would merely provide a minimum standard of education for these new students. If we are to raise the standards of our local schools year by year, the minimum requirements to meet the needs of students will have to be moved upward.

Little wonder, then, that the cost of operating our public schools is bound to increase each year. Greater demands are being made each year upon the schools not only in terms of the number of students to be taught, but also in terms of the quality of instruction made available to these students.

Those who are prone to view with misgivings the increase from year to year in the cost of public education should keep two things in mind. The schools are compelled to expand in terms of buildings, personnel, equipment and other items merely to keep pace with the increasing number of youngsters to be educated. If the quality of education offered our youngsters is to be improved—and certainly we should constantly strive to improve it—the per student appropriation for operating our schools must move upward each year.

Though the total appropriations for public schools each year may appear to some an alarmingly high figure, funds for better public education are by far the best investment any community has ever made.

In Fairness, People Should Have Had Vote

In all fairness to the people of North Carolina, it seems to us the House should not have objected to submitting the proposed $4½ million bond issue for a new legislative building to a vote of the people.

Most North Carolinians recognize the need for better quarters for the legislature than are now provided in the century-old Capitol. Moreover, most Tar Heels have considerable interest in their state and its government buildings. They want things adequate and modern for carrying on government operations.

Certainly there would have been votes against the proposed expenditure for a legislative building if the matter had been submitted to a vote of the people. By and large, however, we believe voters would have approved the measure.

By declining to include the item in the list of those bond proposals to be submitted to the people, members of the House have indicated they doubt the voters of North Carolina would have passed the measure.

One member of the house, opposing submitting the matter to the people, declared, "the people of North Carolina have confidence in our integrity and judgment."

That, of course is true, for certainly the voters of the state would not send to the legislature men in whom they did not have confidence.

But by its action in keeping the matter of a new legislative building away from the people, the House appears not to have confidence in the judgment of the voters of the state. Members of the House seem to fear the legislative building bond issue would not be approved if included in the referendum.

Weaknesses Of The Kennedy Bill

By RALPH ROBEY

To speak of progress on labor legislation may appear as unwarranted. Actually it is nothing of the kind. A bill has been passed by the Senate and the subject is now being considered by the House Labor Committee. There will be some bill reported out of the House Committee, and it will be discussed, probably at considerable length, on the floor.

The Senate measure, the so-called Kennedy Bill, was passed with only one opposition vote. That was by Senator Goldwater (R-Ariz.) During the Senate debate, McClellan (D-Ark.), the chairman of the Committee investigating labor and management, offered several amendments to strengthen the bill. One, which came to be known as the bill of rights, was adopted but later was materially watered down. The bill as it came out of the Senate, therefore, was weak and far from what is needed.

The AFL-CIO has come out against the bill, claiming it is anti-union. Whether this is an independent judgment or is the result of needling by the Teamster chief, James Hoffa, is not known. At least Hoffa made the charge that Meany, President of AFL-CIO, was not protecting labor.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce has stated publicly that it would prefer to have no labor legislation rather than the Kennedy bill. This view is based upon the Chamber's belief that the bill is so lacking in force that it could accomplish nothing significant in meeting the labor problem.

The NAM also is of the opinion that the Kennedy bill is inadequate, but it has not indicated that it would prefer nothing. Rather, the NAM has continued to emphasize that the bill needs to be strengthened, and apparently believed that this is legislative possibility.

No one yet knows, of course, what will be reported out of the House Committee. But no one believes that a really strong bill can come out. This is because the House Committee is strongly pro-labor. The Chairman, Graham Barden, (D-N.C.), is a conservative, and knows what should be done, but there is relatively little that he can accomplish with the membership of his Committee. It is generally assumed, therefore, that the bill which comes out will be about in line with the Kennedy bill, and perhaps even a little less adequate.

What, specifically, is lacking in the Kennedy bill? First, it does not deal with sufficient clarity with secondary boycotts, but the prohibition has become meaningless largely as a result of decisions by the National Labor Relations Board. Much the same is true with coercive picketing. Second, the bill does not touch the problem of compulsory union membership, which is a principal source of the monopoly power of labor union leaders and their monopolistic practices. This is a difficult problem, but it must be solved if we are to eliminate the double standard now prevailing as between labor and management.

Third, no real answer is given to what is known as no man's land, the area where the National Labor Relations Board refuses to handle a dispute, and where the states, because of decisions of the Supreme Court, are not permitted to take action.

The original Kennedy bill met this issue by providing that the NLRB must handle all cases, but this was drastically weakened by amendments and the resulting provision will do nothing to solve this most important problem.

Finally, no mention is ever made of the use of union funds for political purposes and political activities. Again, there already is a statute on the books prohibiting such use of funds by unions and by business organizations, but the unions pay little or no attention to the prohibition. This does not mean that there's nothing good in the Kennedy bill. All it signifies is that the bill, as stated earlier, is inadequate to meet the labor problem.

How much can be done on the floor of the House to convert the measure which is reported out of the Committee into a real labor bill is an open question. Little can be hoped for unless the public lets its Congressmen know that this is the year when we must have real labor reform. If we do not get such legislation this year, it will be a long time before we have another opportunity.

Opinions In Brief

"It is natural for a parent to worry about a non-conformist child, but it may be well to worry over the possibility that the pressure to 'adjust' may very well mean adjusting against his own better judgment and sense of values. It is easy to run with the crowd; it takes courage and initiative to follow one's own star — and we suggest these two qualities that are in alarmingly short supply." — Little Rock Gazette.

Beat Heat, Think Cool

WASHINGTON (AP) — So you're hot? Your clothes hang limp on you, sweat beads trickle down your chest, your vision fuzzes, your brain goes numb? Nonsense. It's all in your mind. You can beat the heat in a matter of seconds if you will just follow one simple rule: Think cool. Close your eyes. Imagine you are an ice cube. Shrink yourself into a refrigerator and drink in the delicious smells of celery, salami, and other goodies as you slowly freeze. Or play iceberg. Think of the frothy cool North Atlantic lapping your chin, with the bulk of you submerged in that blessed salty coolness. Don't make the mistake of being as cool as a cucumber. Once, in the interest of science, I took the body temperature of a cucumber. It was two degrees higher than mine, which averages 102.3. Think of frigid mountain lakes, or a car motor on a January morning in Alaska. Turn yourself into a mint julep. Sioch around luxuriantly in your frosted glass shell. Don't drink yourself, however. Alcohol raises the body temperature. This cool-think bit won't work for everybody, though. Some people get more relief by hot-thinking. That is: Imagine yourself even worse off than you are. Like you're unloading bananas on a New Orleans dock with the sun pouring globs of hot lava on you. Or you're a steak sizzling frantically on an outdoor grill, abandoned by a cook who has reeled off in search of something tall and cooling. Whew! It's enough to bring out a cold sweat. And that's what you're after, isn't it? This system of identifying yourself with something, or somebody, else is not entirely original. A Russian named Stanislavsky made quite a name for himself by teaching actors to make like chairs, cabbage leaves, mandrake roots and other unlikely objects.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
MAKING THE MOST OUT OF LIFE

Some decades ago a famous preacher called the attention of his hearers to an archer who always took his bow, put one end of it down beside his foot, elevated the other end, and made sure that the bow was precisely his height. If the bow were just the size of the archer, then he would go into battle with confidence. And the point the minister made was that our power to project good in the world will correspond directly to our own spiritual stature.

How do we stand with reference to all this? Do we think we can be protected by a little bow and arrow scarcely longer than our forearm? Do we think we can fight life's battles with little weapons? Sooner or later we all learn that life is a very serious proposition. Some people see more trouble than others, but all people have their problems, and for some these problems are dire and exacting.

Solutions are demanded. But also we have to protect ourselves against evils. Our body constantly fights disease. Our minds need to be on the alert against false ideas. Our spirits must be in tune with God if we would confront the tempting and diverting situations of life and handle them with character and forthrightness.

How large are your weapons of defense against life's evils? They should be the full measure of yourself else you will fall in the day of crisis. In ancient times each archer required a bow which exactly equaled his height. See that your life is lived to the full limit of your possibilities.

Notable Citrus Record

By ROGER BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — Less than 30 years ago practically all the citrus fruit shipped out of Florida was "whole fruit." The necessity of discovering some way to cut heavy marketing and transportation costs led to the formation of citrus cooperatives. Growers pooled their resources. With the aid of chemists and representatives of the canning industry, plus help from state and federal legislation, they developed methods of canning appetizing orange, lemon, grapefruit, prune, grape, and other juices. Somewhat later, research has succeeded in providing us with the splendid frozen juice concentrates.

What the citrus producers have accomplished by working together with the help of chemists and industrialists should encourage other fruit and vegetable growers. Although canned and frozen fruits and vegetables have made great strides in winning public acceptance, certain sectors of the overall food industry are poorly organized. Except for a few large operators, canning of fruit, vegetable, and fish is being carried on in haphazard fashion. Quality needs to be made more uniform, while processing and marketing operations could profitably be streamlined.

WHAT'S AHEAD FOR CANNERS?

Despite sharp increases in consumption of frozen foods, the canned-food industry appears to be maintaining its relatively strong position. Aided by population increases and higher personal income, canners have made good postwar gains. During the next ten years, it is predicted, canners will have to devote more time and thought to their raw material sources. Tighter control of plantings will be a "must." In some cases, it will be advantageous for canners to purchase outright the fruit groves or vegetable acreage needed to assure them of adequate supplies and to enable them to compete with truly synthetic products.

Canners' costs have been trending upward for some years now. They will rise in an even faster rate during the next ten years. Both skilled and unskilled labor on farms and in the groves and canning plants will command higher wages. More money will be needed for containers and for canning and freezing machinery, replacement, although I do not now foresee any early switchover to aluminum cans. However, food processors are becoming more interested in synthetic foods and drinks, such as "Tang" put out by General Foods as a substitute for orange juice.

FROZEN FOODS OUTLOOK

Vegetables are in Number One place as far as frozen foods volume is concerned. Other leading income producers are poultry, fruit juices, "prepared" foods, seafoods, eggs, and meats. Frozen poultry and "prepared" frozen foods have made impressive recent volume gains. The "prepared" foods of the frozen variety are those which have already been given certain preparatory operations usually performed by the housewife. They give her more leisure time and thus will become even more popular as flavor and appearance are improved upon.

Frozen food producers are more alert to the need for research than are canners. All products will win even wider acceptance as the results of research are translated into more flavorful and appetizing products. Also, frozen foods volume should make good gains as a result of the greater availability of mechanically refrigerated railroads and trucks, retail display cabinet space, and back-room refrigerated storage space.

"CONTRACT" FARMING WILL INCREASE

Farming is in the midst of a great change. Gradually, agriculture is being remade into a more vital part of our industrial economy. Fruit and vegetable production, canning, freezing, as well as marketing, are becoming "big business" on a huge assembly-line basis under advanced-contract basis. But, of all the products to watch, keep an eye on the purely synthetic foods for they may take the lead.

More Lookaheads For Business

By ELMER ROESSNER
Here are more look-aheads in business:

Tougher deduction checks. The Internal Revenue Service, which has tightened up its auditing of income-tax deductions for entertainment and travel, is planning another twist of the screw. It plans to disallow all claims not backed with adequate records.

Higher plastics. Rising costs of production are threatening to cause price rises for plastic housewares.

Merger crackdowns. Both the Department of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission have been quietly investigating some recent mergers. Civil proceedings will be started soon.

More plentiful meat. The buildup of cattle herds is continuing and promises a great increase in beef supplies. However, the increase will be minor until next year, when more cattle will be ready for slaughter.

WAR ON INFESTATIONS

New insecticide system. The Department of Agriculture is about to disclose a sensational new method of killing insects in grain. If it can be developed successfully, the system may save millions of dollars worth of grain a year — which would complicate the problem of surpluses.

Television in stores. A new system whereby television commercials will be beamed at captive audiences in supermarkets will be tested next month. Fifty monitors in a supermarket can flash 60 seven-second messages, then repeat endlessly. If found effective, the system will probably spread.

Cheaper dried fruit. Because of light crops last year, dried fruit prices have stiffened. But crop prospects in California are good this year, and prices will tend back to lower levels.

Rise in debt limit. Despite Congressional opposition to President Eisenhower's request for a rise in the debt limit, members will be forced to act this month. Failure to act would exhaust the Treasury's cash reserves, making it impossible to meet Federal payrolls — including that of Congress.

BOVINE COOLERS COMING
Air-conditioned barns soon. Several manufacturers are about to bring out special air-conditioning equipment for barns. The government has been studying milk production by cooled cows and its findings, expected in a few days, will stimulate the sale of equipment to dairy operators.

More new highs. Except for trouble on the steel front, all business portents are good at the moment. Whether or not there is a strike the steel situation will probably depress business a bit in the third quarter, after which production and sales are almost sure to rise to new all-time highs.

No credit controls. Both government and private economists are concerned with the rise in consumer credit, pushed even higher by credit cards and other easy-credit plans. While proposals to limit credit will be made, there is no likelihood of controls unless the situation gets critically worse. The Administration is opposed to arbitrary action. However, it may warn of the dangers of reckless charging, and encourage higher interest rates as a brake.

OLD PROMOTER WRITES WITH TONGUE IN CHEEK
A note from the Old Promoter:

"I suggest states enact a mattress tax. They are taxing people on everything they eat and drink, on all their purchases, on their earnings and on their fun. 'But people escape the tax collector's clutches when they go to bed at night. They get away without paying taxes for a third of their lives — a horrible thing in this country where taxing is one of the finest arts! The only solution is to put a special use tax on mattresses.'"

Peter Gunn Strays Far From Mother's, Enjoys N. Y. Trip

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Peter Gunn, the plump private eye with a Madison Avenue wardrobe and dynamite in his fists, recently strayed far from Mother's for the first time since the TV series hit the nation's screen last September. And, as Craig Stevens, actor, he's been having a wonderful time savoring the impact of television.

Stevens and his wife, actress Alexis Smith, were in Florida for a few days on sponsor business and then came on to New York for a period of intensive theatre-going and friend-seeing. "It's the first time I've been out of Hollywood since the show started," said Stevens happily, sipping a vodka-and-soda. "And it's been fascinating. People stop me on the street and tell me how much they enjoy the show; truck drivers yell hi at me. They call me Pete, Mr. Gunn—but, thank heavens, mostly by my own name. That was the only thing that has worried me about the show. It's the thing that worries all actors when they are cast in one role for a series: The loss of my own identity. But I'm satisfied now that people think of me as Craig Stevens who plays Peter Gunn."

Stevens, who has been a well-employed and successful leading man in films and TV for years, credits Blake Edwards with the show's great success. Edwards writes, directs and produces "Peter Gunn."

He knew exactly what he wanted," Stevens said. "When I saw the first script I was crazy about the show. It was fresh and had good dialogue, with a situation constructed around a basic theme. After all, how novel can you get with a story about a private investigator. But Blake has given it gloss and color and character."

Edwards added the musical scoring and tried to avoid all the clichés developed by the raft of TV whodunits. "He didn't want a detective in rumpled clothes or a trench coat," said Stevens. "He wanted a conservative, crewcut type in custom-tailored clothes. The first question he asked me was whether I'd have my hair cut for the pilot film. Not that my hair was so long—it was just an average leading man haircut. The clothes are a problem. I've got about 40 suits, and I've torn up six of my double suits in fights. You have to have these second copies because sometimes right after a fight I have to go on to a scene with Lola (Albright, who plays the girl) and I have to look natty. No time to make repairs."

Stevens says that he doesn't think he'll get tired or bored playing Peter Gunn. "Blake even thought of that," he said. "He gave me a piece of the production, explaining that if I were a part of a successful show, it would ward off boredom. But I don't think I'd have gotten bored any way—the stories have such wide variety from comedy to tragedy in 39 shows I feel as though I'd played 39 different roles."

Stevens won't get much vacation for many months. Back home in Hollywood, they are going to keep on making more TV shows—and Edwards is planning on making a motion picture based on Peter, Edie, Mother, and Hospitalized Lieut. Jacoby—as soon as Herschel Bernard's real-life fractured leg heals.

MISS BETTY ANN JONES, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Jones of 205 Columbia Ave., was graduated from Johnston-Willis Hospital School of Nursing in Richmond, Va. Friday night. She will be employed at Tucker's Hospital in Richmond.

Baudouin Gains New Popularity

BRUSSELS (AP)—King Baudouin's newly found sex appeal and a pretty Italian princess have worked a two-week wonder on the Belgian monarchy's sagging popularity.

The 28-year-old bachelor King found his smile on a three-week tour of the United States and remembered to use it on his return home.

Until then he had been an aloof, unsmiling young monarch, appearing never to have forgiven his people and politicians for forcing the abdication of his father, King Leopold III, in 1951.

After returning June 1 from the United States, Baudouin held his first news conference in his eight-year reign.

Nervous at first, he unlimbered and with emotion told how deeply moved he had been by the welcome his people had accorded him—the most demonstrative he had ever received.

The wonder-working princess is Dona Paola Ruffo di Calabria, who will become Baudouin's sister-in-law July 2 when she marries Prince Albert of Liege.

Albert is Baudouin's 25-year-old brother. Until the King marries and has a son, Prince Albert is also his heir.

Dona Paola, 21, a shapely blonde, arrived in the wake of Baudouin's new popularity. Almost immediately she began to capture the hearts of the people. Thousands flocked to Brussels International Airport to cheer her arrival.

Two days later, Paola and Albert rode through the Brussels streets with the route well advertised in advance. Significantly the ride included some of the capital's grubbier streets in sprawling working class residential and fac-

Deputy Prosecutor Assails Probers' Payoff Allegations, Quits In A Huff

GARY, Ind. (AP)—Metro Holovachka quit under fire as deputy prosecutor of Lake County (Indiana) Sunday after issuing a bitter blast at the special Senate committee which sought to link him to organized crime in the county.

"I can no longer tolerate the abuse which has been heaped on me and my community," declared the 50-year-old prosecutor. Denouncing racketeers' inducements he received hundreds of thousands of dollars in protection money from crime syndicate bosses. Holovachka maintained he had not taken "one thin dime" from ramblers or hoodlums.

Immediately after Holovachka's announcement, his boss, Prosecutor Floyd Vance accepted the resignation and then fired all three investigators in his office. "I want to start with a clean slate," he said.

The discharged investigators are Walter Conroy, James Dent and Michael Kampe. Conroy, who was chief investigator, and Kampe appeared before the Senate committee last week.

Holovachka, a veteran Democrat who served six years as prosecutor, made his announcement on a Chicago television program which was taped Friday. Irate Gary citizens had been demanding his ouster for days and the resignation was made on the eve of a mass meeting called to boom their efforts.

"I have been a whipping boy and victim of the most vicious character assassination ever made in this country," Holovachka said of the investigation by the committee headed by Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark).

He blamed his downfall on the committee, the Gary Post-Tribune and the Women's Citizens Committee of Gary and added he was the victim of a "vicious and malicious" smear and perjury by witnesses who testified in the Senate probe.

Of the committee's counsel, Robert Kennedy, he said: "About two months ago I was informed that I was to be a victim of a character assassination by Robert Kennedy and believe me he did the job well."

The resignation followed a series of committee hearings in which Holovachka and his top investigator, Walter Conroy, were pictured as recipients of money for putting independent coin machine operators out of business by confiscating their machines and allowing reputed racketeers to substitute their machines instead.

Holovachka was asked how he managed to accumulate $327,000 from 1952 to 1958—the years he served as prosecutor—on a $12,000 salary.

At first he told the committee that information was none of its business. Later he said held in trust $325,000 for clients in private law practice. The money was not his personally, he said.

He made general denials when McClellan asked him if the money came from reputed hoodlums Steven Sohacki and George Welbourn, who Kennedy said, made a monopoly of gambling in Gary and Hammond with Holovachka's aid.

Holovachka declared Sunday: "I know of no syndicate in my community now or in my time in office since 1950." He denied any association with the pinball machine racket the committee said flourished amid other forms on vice in Lake County.

"My job as prosecutor was not to worry about some insignificant pinball machines," he went on. "I had murders to try."

Ten years ago, Holovachka told his viewers, he would have "toughed this thing out" and proved his innocence. "My record speaks for itself," he said. But now, he said, he is too old and he has his family and other things to consider. He said he will go into private law practice.

God And Country Awards Go To Two Scouts Sunday

PARTICIPANTS IN GOD AND COUNTRY AWARD PRESENTATIONS YESTERDAY . . . The Rev. Mr. Owen, Mrs. Clapp, Alton Clapp, Stanley Bowers and Harold Bowers

God and Country Awards were presented yesterday to two members of Boy Scout Troop 340, sponsored by St. James' Methodist Church.

The awards were presented to Stanley Bowers and Alton Clapp, Jr., during the church's Sunday morning worship service. The presentations were by parents of the two Scouts, with assistance from the pastor, the Rev. J. Malloy Owen, III.

Clapp is the son of Mrs. Alton Clapp and the late Mr. Clapp of 1613 Beaumont Road. Bowers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. Bowers, 1308 East Tenth St.

God and Country Awards are presented to individual scouts who complete a minimum of a year's study of church doctrine, history and functions. The study is conducted under supervision of the minister, and the awards are made by the church.

Yesterday's ceremonies marked the first time that St. James' Methodist Church has presented a God and Country Award, and one of the few times a church in Greenville has ever presented two of the awards in a single program.

Other Greenville Scouts who have won God and Country awards include William Stancill of Grace Free Will Baptist Church and Explorer Post 340, and Angus Duff and Hugh Duncan, both of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

John K. David inherited the role of Chief Umpire at the Indianapolis 500-mile race classic in 1958 when his father, Tom David, retired from the post after serving as umpire and chief umpire from 1914 to 1957. The senior David has witnessed every "500" since the race was inaugurated in 1909 and his son isn't far behind. While John is well qualified for his post as an official at the racing classic, he is better known in Indiana for his prodigious golfing feats.

John is Mr. Golf around Indiana way. He won the Indiana State amateur championship for the fourth time in 1957, the other three titles coming prior to 1949. His fame as a long-ball hitter is wide spread and he once beat Sam Snead in a national driving contest. Built more along the lines of the Biblical Goliath rather than the David of sling-shot fame, John swings his driver with amazing accuracy as well as for prodigious distances. His 64 over the par-71 Meridian Hills Country Club course attests to that. The biggest moments in David's golfing career came when he twice outscored Ben Hogan in four-ball exhibition matches. John shot a 70 over the Meridian Hills course to beat Benam Ben by one stroke. But it was at the Logansport Country Club that John really stole the thunder from Hogan. Teaming up with Charley Harter in a best ball team match, David posted a stunning 67 to top Hogan's 68-stroke effort. Over one stretch, from the 10th through the 14th holes, David reeled off five straight birdies to insure his team's victory in the match. Indiana is a real hot-bed of golf and they couldn't find a better man to head up the game in the state than John K. David.

Sword Dancer To Rest After Belmont Stakes

NEW YORK (AP) — Gritty little Sword Dancer, who won a thrill-packed $145,000 Belmont Stakes that left jockey Eddie Arcaro in a hospital and his mount dead, is going to have a vacation. "Before the race we decided to rest him up come hell or high water," said Elliott Burch, the young trainer for the Brookmeade Stable of Isabel Dodge Sloane of Virginia and New York.

"He's had a hard campaign since the Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park, the rough Kentucky Derby, the Preakness, the Metropolitan Handicap, and now the Belmont. He is temporarily on the shelf. He's alright, but these hard races have to take their toll."

Burch expressed sorrow for the accident which befell the King Ranch's Black Hills, and Arcaro on the bend approaching the turn for home in the mile and one-half race. The colt broke a leg, throwing Arcaro into the mud unconscious. Lake Erie, another horse in the race, fell over them but jockey Walter Blum was unhurt.

Arcaro still was in a hospital today, recovering from a concussion, sprained neck muscle, contusions of the left shoulder and numerous bruises.

Asked if it would be as much as two weeks before he rides, Arcaro replied: "Hell, no. I don't figure to be in the hospital more than a few days. There's nothing broken. I'm still a bit dizzy but as soon as that goes away I'll be

FINAL TAR HEEL STANDINGS

Moose	2 6

Greenville Tobacco Company made the first half of their first season in Little League season competition a success Saturday afternoon as they won a 5-4 11-inning thriller from the Moose to finish in a first place tie with the Elks.

Horne and Keel were involved in a scoreless pitching duel for the first six innings but Little League rules do not allow a pitcher to work over six innings thus neither were around for the wild finish.

The pitching battle saw Keel of the cellar-dwelling Moose yield only one hit, a single in the fifth. Horne was having almost equal success as he gave up only four safeties and these were scattered.

Moose drew first blood as they broke the scoreless battle with four runs in the eighth. The pennant hopes of the Tobs were temporarily shattered but the "never-give-up youngsters" battled back with their own offensive punch in the bottom half of the eighth to tie the score.

Webb, the losing pitcher, walked the first three men of the inning and then third-baseman Beamon slammed a grand-slammer to tie the score.

Williams came on to relieve Webb and retired the side before another run was scored.

The evening-long tilt was finally decided in the eleventh inning when the Tobs scored a run on three singles to gain a tie for the crown.

Horne and Chandler Richardson collected singles and the same Beamon that had tied the game earlier came up and drove out a single to score Horne with the winning run.

The win for the league's newest team forced a playoff game between the Tobs and Elks for the 23rd of this month. Both teams finished with 6-2 marks and will be seeking to become eligible for championship play at the end of the summer.

WASHINGTON—Maurice Everett and John West, a couple of East Carolina College stars, put on an outstanding show here yesterday afternoon before Everett emerged as champion of the first Washington Invitational Tournament.

Everett, three times North State singles champion and one of the strongest players in the state, was forced to the limit before defeating the ever-improving Durham native.

The Robersonville native edged his former teammate, 6-1, 2-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Everett, who has been competing in tournaments throughout the state, is now doing work in graduate school. He was graduated in 1958 and spent this past spring as a coaching aide of the ECO netters.

For West, it was a bitter loss. Playing in the shadow of Everett for two years, the fiery Durham netter had his banner season this past year in leading the Pirates to the North State crown and lost the singles title in a heart-breaking match to Nick McCabe of Western Carolina.

West is a junior and will be around the college circles for another year.

Consolation Win For Bob Thomas

SALISBURY — Bobby Thomas continued his below par play on the Salisbury Country Club course Saturday afternoon to card a 68 and defeat E. P. Brinkley of Raleigh, 3-2.

The victory in the match play of the CGA gave Thomas consolation honors in the tournament. It was his fourth win in match play while his only defeat came in the second round of the tournament to Ken Polks.

The 68 was Thomas' lowest score of the four day tournament and gave him a total 75-73-69-68—285. He had qualified for the tournament with a 71 which was good enough for co-medalist honors.

Homerun Hitting

Rookie Is Called

VICTORIA, Tex. (AP) — "I've seen $100,000 bonus rookies before but if that's what they were then this boy is worth $150,000."

Veteran Texas League umpire Bill Ballentine spoke of Frank Howard, Victoria's slugger out of the field called up by the Los Angeles Dodgers Sunday.

The sensational rookie hit 27 home runs and batted in 79 runs in 35 games. He wound up with a .356 batting average.

The Dodgers sold third baseman Dick Gray to St. Louis to make room for Howard and expected him to be available against Milwaukee Sunday.

"In 25 years in baseball I've never seen anyone hit the ball like Howard," his Victoria manager, former Brooklyn outfielder Pete Reiser, said. "And I saw Kiner when he came up, and Greenberg in his prime, and I saw Ruth at the tail end of his career."

"If he keeps improving this kid will break Ruth's home run record and he'll hit .380 doing it. This can run."

Last season, the 23-year-old Howard hit .333 for Green Bay of the Class B Three-I League.

Howard, who stands 6 feet 6½ inches and weighs 245, reportedly got $107,000 for signing with the Dodgers in 1957.

Reiser thinks the former Ohio State basketball star's natural position is the outfield or first base. He has good speed, excellent range and a good arm.

Raleigh Moving Up On Wilson

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Raleigh's red-hot Caps, threatening to overtake Wilson, moved within two games of the front-running Tobs Sunday in the right Carolina League pennant race.

Manager Ken Deal's Raleigh team broke loose with five runs in the first inning and went on to hand Durham an 8-5 defeat.

Right-hander Walt Payne turned in an effective relief pitching job for Raleigh.

He came on in the third and allowed only four hits in 6.2 innings.

Raleigh collected 11 hits off two pitchers, with Dean Robbins, Joe Theis, Carl Yastrzemski and George Lewis getting two each.

Lefty Gordon Richardson pitched steady five-hit ball as Winston-Salem took a 5-2 victory over Wilson.

Richardson was touched for only three hits and one unearned run until the ninth when the Tobs got a double and single for one run.

Detroit's Charley Maxwell Is Clubbing Yanks Again And Again

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer
The woods are full of Yankee killers these days. Men like The Francona, Gene Woodling, Frank Lary, Don Mossi. But the greatest of them all is Charley Maxwell.

They call Babe Ruth "The man who built Yankee Stadium." Well, Maxwell could be the man who tore it down.

Maxwell has hit 14 home runs this year. Seven of them were against the Yankees. Against the rest of the league he is hitting .209. Against New York he is batting .390. Putting them together you have a man batting .250 with 45 hits and 42 runs batted in, 18 of them against New York.

"We keep this man working," moans Casey Stengel. Maxwell did it again Sunday. Whitey Ford was rolling along with a four-hit shutout. He had a 2-0 lead with two out in the eighth. Two singles then boom. Maxwell hit a tape measure drive into the first row of the third deck in right field. That did it, 5-2. Just to rub it in, the winner was Frank Lary who had just left the game for a pinch hitter.

It was Maxwell's ground rule double that drove in the first run of the second game when the Detroit Tigers knocked out Duke Maas in a four-run first inning. They went on to sweep the doubleheader 8-2, moving into third place.

Chicago clung to the American League lead by a half game. The White Sox came from behind twice to top Baltimore 9-6 and 3-2 in 10 innings, dropping the Orioles into fourth place. Cleveland kept right on Chicago's heels by beating Washington twice 9-5 and 12-6 with Minnie Minoso driving in nine runs. Boston's Jerry Casale held Kansas City to five singles for a 6-1 victory. Their second game was called off because of rain and cold.

Although Chicago's Dick Drott, just back from the disabled list, shut out Milwaukee 6-0, the Braves picked up a half game on the second-place San Francisco Giants who dropped a pair to Philadelphia 7-5 and 6-3, in the National League.

Pittsburgh's Elroy Face won his 10th straight while the Pirates were downing Los Angeles twice 6-3 and 5-2. St. Louis and Cincinnati split, the Cards grabbing the opener 5-4 but bowing in the second game 3-2.

A SPY at MONTE CARLO

CHAPTER 23

There was only one way to find out if Colonel Baudon had been trying to pass on a telephone number, Mark Travers decided, and that was to dial.

"Let me call, Mark," said Fleur Constant. "A woman's voice sounds less suspicious."

So Fleur picked up the receiver and dialed. Mark, watching her face, saw it grow suddenly rigid with tension.

Through the instrument he could hear a man's gruff voice, but he could not understand what was being said. Whatever it was, Fleur did not answer.

She put down the receiver gently, almost noiselessly, nodded to Mark and left the room. When he reached her, he found her leaning against the wall. She was very pale.

"What is it, Fleur? Who answered?"

"The Select," she said, in a far-away voice. "The Pension Select."

But that meant nothing to Mark. "Who lives there?"

"Louis Anet, my brother's right-hand man." Her voice trembled. "Guy's right-hand man," she repeated, as if she could not grasp an implication which was only too clear.

Virgil Baudon had died to give Mark the number that might lead to Timgard, and the number led to her brother.

For a moment Mark did not dare look at her, at the pale face, the harassed eyes, the trembling mouth; then he lighted a cigarette and pushed it between his lips.

Corinne dead, Baudon. And how much time do I have left? he thought.

Since terror is their tool, it must be applied. They must make good their threat or they lose all authority. They will try to kill me any moment now. Every minute counts. I cannot afford to waste what little time I have left.

"Fleur, I am going to see you home and then . . ."

"Oh, no," she straightened up. "I'm going with you."

"Nonsense."

"Don't be a fool. I may be of use. I may even be able to help you."

"I shall call Inspector Perrier and tell him to meet me at the Select. I simply cannot have you around."

But Perrier was not in. "I shall relay your message," a voice said. Mark put down the receiver.

"That settles it," said Fleur. "I'm going with you whether you want me to or not. Or I'll take a taxi and get there by myself."

And by the way she spoke, Mark knew that she meant it, that he could not stop her from following him to the Pension Select.

"How long has Louis been with your brother?" he asked when, after having checked his car carefully, they were driving toward Monaco.

"Three years. Maybe less than that."

"What kind of a man is he?"

"A quiet man," Fleur said slowly.

She had regained her composure, and the way she sat next to him, holding herself very straight, speaking softly yet precisely, she reminded Mark of her grandmother.

"A man proud of his skill. He could handle any boat singlehanded. He knew all about engines, and Guy, of course, had trained him to work the tanks. During the war he was a radio operator on a submarine. A rather stocky fellow, about thirty-three. He lives on the boat but has this place in town for his things and the weeks between work. He reads a lot and talks little. He is devoted to Guy. At least, he gives that impression."

"Would he kill? Do you think he could commit murder?"

"I never thought of him in connection with any violence or crime." She fell silent, and Mark drove on without interrupting her thoughts. "I don't know," she said finally. "Could you kill?"

"In self-defense, yes. But a cold-blooded murder? No. I have too much respect for life."

"I wonder if it is a question of respect. I think there are certain temperaments that, without being criminal, cannot control their passions. But Louis . . . I don't know him well enough. Possibly, yes."

They left the Rue Grimaldi, reached the Place d'Armes and turned left into the Avenue de la Gare. Fleur pointed to the corner. "There, where the lamp post stands."

It was a three-story house, painted white, with a marble plaque next to the entrance door which said, in gold letters, PENSION SELECT. Most of the windows were shuttered, only three on the second floor fell beams of light.

The front door was locked, and they had to ring several times before it was opened by an elderly man who was buttoning a green-and-black striped jacket sleepily over his nightgown.

Mark put his foot in the doorway. "Monsieur Anet. Louis Anet is 'tick in'."

"If he's in, he's probably asleep. I can't let you go up."

"He works for my brother," said Fleur. "Guy Constant. On the Anemone."

"I know," said the man. "Well, in that case . . ." He retired to the far end of the little lobby where he had made up a bed on a shabby couch. Mark could hear the springs creak as he threw himself on it, pulling a blanket over his head.

Mark turned back to the desk which was lit by a single lamp. Behind it was a pigeon-hole shelf with small red cards tacked neatly to each opening. The third row held the name he was looking for, Room 31.

"Let me go up," whispered Fleur. "I know him. He won't hurt me."

Mark shook his head. There was no telling how a man, who had in all probability murdered Corinne, would react to an unexpected visitor, even if she was the sister of the man he worked for.

Besides, he was not at all certain if they had not been seen leaving the Casino, fetching the car and driving to the Select. The man who had watched him all evening, until Baudon had died, might have picked up the trail again.

"And don't argue," Mark told Fleur. "Up there you would be of no use if he should attack me. But if you wait here, you can let Perrier know or, if Perrier doesn't come, call the police if I'm not back in twenty minutes."

"I can't believe it," she said. "It's a nightmare. I keep thinking I'll wake up any moment, that it isn't real."

Mark said nothing. He had opened one drawer of the desk after another without finding what he wanted. Now he went over to where the night watchman was asleep, snoring pitifully, a thin, wheezing sound.

On the chair next to him lay the bunch of keys Mark had been looking for. He took them noiselessly.

There was no elevator and he walked up to the third floor, careful to avoid any sound. To save electricity, the Pension Select had installed a device used in many French hotels and houses, a bulb that burned so many seconds, then went out, so that on each landing, Mark had to rush to press the button that made the light go on again.

In front of Room 31 he stopped, standing motionless, listening. No sound could be heard through the thin wooden doors, no sound anywhere. If people were asleep on the third floor, they didn't snore. He tried the handle. It didn't give. The door was locked.

He inserted the passkey, turned it slowly, then stepped aside, hugging the wall. Nothing stirred. He waited another instant before he opened the door.

Mark is going to be awakened to the fact that you can experience nightmares without being asleep. Continue the novel here tomorrow.

May Use Paper Items In Hospital

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Patients in hospitals may sleep in paper gowns on paper sheets and be treated by doctors and nurses wearing paper uniforms, if tests at Brooke Army Medical Center prove successful.

Maj. Gen. William E. Shambora, medical center commander, said the Army Quartermaster Corps is conducting the tests on the theory that paper items would be useful when laundry facilities were scarce and during emergency shortages of conventional cloth equipment and clothing.

The Canary Islands, which belong to Spain, are just off the coast of Spanish West Africa. There are seven islands.

Skindiver Killed By Giant Shark

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP)—A shark killed a skindiver while several persons watched from the beach 50 yards away Sunday.

No trace was found of husky Robert Pamperin, 33, a San Diego aircraft engineer.

"I was swimming about 15 feet from Bob," said his companion, Tom Lehrer, 30. "I heard him calling, 'Help me, help me.'"

"I swam over to him. He was thrashing in the water and I could tell he was fighting something underneath."

Lehrer said he ducked under the water and through his face plate saw a shark. "It was so big I thought at first it was a killer whale," he said. "It had a white belly and I could see its jaws and jagged teeth. It was a whopper—about 12 feet. It was between me and Bob and I could see him kicking his legs at it but it kept biting at him."

Lehrer said he popped to the surface.

"But it was too late to do anything. Bob just went out of sight and I couldn't find him. So I swam to shore." William Abitz, 18, standing on a rocky promontory, heard Pamperin's screams and saw him thrashing in 30-foot deep water.

"He was trying to get out of the water," Abitz said. "He looked like he was trying to run."

Pamperin's wife, Carolyn sat on a porch at a nearby house, hysterical and sobbing, while lifeguards in a boat and a Coast Guard helicopter scanned the water for 40 minutes.

They found nothing of Pamperin in an ex-lifeguard. But the copter crew reported seeing a large shark cruising beneath the unit water.

Lifeguards believed Pamperin was hit by a white shark—the same species blamed for fatally injuring Albert Kogler, 18, near San Francisco last month.

The white shark is a jagged-tooth brute which grows to 15 feet. Pamperin was the third known victim of sharks in recent years.

A white shark was believed the killer of a youth in Monterey Bay in 1952.

Somoza Seeking Proof Others Helped Invasion

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Luis Somoza's regime today sought proof for the Organization of American States that the young socialists who tried to topple his regime got substantial help from other Latin American governments.

Somoza's aides stepped up their efforts after the government staged a triumphal parade through the capital Sunday in a show of confidence that the small-scale, two-week-old revolt was over.

Officials announced, however, that further invasion attempts by Nicaraguan exiles might be made in the near future. This belief gave urgency to the charges and evidence being collected for the OAS investigating team expected here Tuesday.

The almost bloodless coup appeared to have sputtered out with the surrender of 16 rebel holdouts who were ambushed by National Guardsmen Saturday night when they sought to buy food in a village.

The exhausted, hungry men, most of them members of prominent Nicaraguan families, were led by Pedro Joaquín Chamorro, son of a prominent publishing family and former editor of the newspaper La Prensa. Forty-six others had given up earlier in the week.

Somoza's brother, Gen. Anastasio Somoza, commander of the country's armed forces, charged that Cuba and Venezuela probably would help 75 other Nicaraguans now training in Honduras for an invasion attempt.

Chamorro and his bedraggled band of holdouts were brought into Managua before dawn Sunday and hauled before Gen. Somoza.

Refusing to address them directly, he ordered them to about face, then delivered a 15-minute tongue-lashing.

He said later the surrender had marked the "end of a would-be attempt by these nonsensical kids to emulate Fidel Castro."

The government says the original invasion force of about 100 men has dwindled to fewer than two dozen stragglers, wandering about the Nicaraguan jungle in isolated groups. About 17 rebels were killed or wounded.

Somoza has said those captured will be tried for treason. The maximum penalty is nine years' imprisonment.

The victory parade celebrating the end of the revolt brought a show of popular support for Somoza. A huge crowd jammed the capital's narrow streets applauding the troops, as air force planes zoomed overhead.

Three plots to unseat Somoza have been thwarted in the past year. He was elected president a year after the assassination of his father, Anastasio, in 1956.

Soviet Medical Devices Praised

CLEVELAND (AP) — Soviet scientists may be going around the United States this year showing off medical equipment which a Cleveland industrialist hopes will find approval here.

H. James Rand, head of Rand Development Corp., called one device "a completely new approach to suturing." Surgeons who now sew patients back together by hand will find the suturing device will do the job much faster—with staples—said Rand.

Rand expects to have the Soviet scientists demonstrate their equipment at U. S. medical schools. If the surgical stapler and another device, a machine which puts a person to sleep with electricity, pass that test, Rand Development will exercise an option to import the "know-how."

Rand said he paid the Soviet $50,000 last week for a non-exclusive option, and must pay another $50,000 to exercise the option and bring the designs to this country. After that, Rand Development would pay the Soviets $25,000 a year for 10 years. Rand said his firm, primarily a research organization, would arrange for manufacture, sharing profits on a percentage basis.

The suturing device can be used on blood vessels and nerves as well as on body tissue. One operation in which it is extremely useful, Rand said, is the removal of a large section of stomach where cancer has spread.

The device has been used by Soviet doctors to replace a man's leg amputated in an accident, Rand said. U. S. doctors sent to the U.S.S.R. by Rand came back "with enthusiastic reports" on the device.

The sleep machine would be useful before surgery and also in the treatment of psychoses, "where you want to tranquilize the patient over a long period of time," he declared.

The machine induces physiological sleep by passing low frequency electrical currents through the head. After the patient is asleep, Rand said, local anesthetic would be used before operating.

OUTLOOK FOR N. C. Through Saturday, temperatures will average two to three degrees below normal with the coolest during first days of week followed by gradual rise of temperature. Scattered showers toward end of week will total around one-quarter inch.

Oranges are considered berries, botanically speaking.

Adlai And Lyndon Said Not To Be Counted Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Don't count Adlai E. Stevenson or Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), out of the 1960 Democratic presidential contest, advises Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.).

But the assistant Senate Democratic leader said he thinks as of today Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) is the leading contestant, and noted that Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) and Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) have increased their activities.

On the other side of the political fence, Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) predicted Vice President Richard M. Nixon will win the Republican nomination easily. Scott said New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller may well head the ticket chosen at some future convention.

When Stevenson arrived here to attend weekend meetings of the Democratic Advisory Council he brought along a scribbled answer for what has become to him the inevitable question.

"I am not a candidate for the nomination and will not be nominated," Stevenson replied when reporters put the expected query.

Mansfield indicated he can agree with the first part of Stevenson's answer, but not necessarily his statement that he will not be nominated.

"There is a lot of support for Stevenson within the party's rank and file," Mansfield said. "I don't think he can be counted out of the picture."

Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen Williams told a television audience Sunday Stevenson "is always a possibility."

Mansfield made it clear he is not discounting Senate Democratic Leader Johnson as a contender, either, despite Johnson's frequent statements that he isn't running and doesn't expect to be nominated.

Mansfield said he disagrees with the view expressed recently by Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler that the civil rights controversy will make unlikely the nomination of any aspirant from the South or Southwest.

"We Democrats are the only national party," Mansfield said. "While it might be difficult to nominate a candidate from the South, I anticipate no difficulty in nominating and electing a candidate from the Southwest."

Mansfield ranked Kennedy as the current leading contestant, due in part to an early start.

He said Humphrey had started late but is picking up strength. He noted that Symington has expanded his schedule of speaking dates.

Scott, a former Republican national chairman, said it doesn't make any difference whom the

Laborite Urges Red China Sales

OXFORD, England (AP)—Harold Wilson, leading Laborite legislator and former British trade minister, Friday urged a concerted sales drive to win "600 million customers" of Red China.

Wilson told the Oxford University Labor Club that Britain could not compete with the enormous production potential of Red China.

Predicting that Chinese output of machine tools will exceed the British figure this year, Wilson said.

"Although they may, as time goes by, need less and less of the traditional items we have been selling them, they are going to need more and more of other things."

Linked Medicine And His Racing

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Dr. Thomas R. A. Davis is a man of speed.

During the week he is chief of the Environment-Medicine division of the Army Research Medical Laboratory at nearby Ft. Knox. He had charge of getting monkey flight ready for her Jupiter space flight.

Sunday he came in sixth in a sports car race here.

Any connection between racing and space medicine?

Yes, Davis, 42, admitted. "I use hypodermic syringes to squirt oil into hard-to-reach auto parts."

UPRISING QUELLED

HONOLULU (AP) — Tear gas quelled an uprising Sunday in Oahu Prison where a half dozen inmates held a guard hostage 40 minutes.

Enrollments in the first two years of college are expected to increase by 44 per cent by 1966 and by 66 per cent by 1976, estimates the Population Research Report.

Broiled Insects Among Snacks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — How about a luncheon of steak, eggs, shark fins, reindeer seal and caterpillars?

Or perhaps lily bulbs and grasshoppers broiled in butter?

These and other unusual foods are on exhibit at a wholesale market fair that opened Sunday at a downtown hotel.

On display are exotic snacks from all over the world — hams soaked in whisky, caviar, cheeses, pink beer, and grasshoppers.

"These," confided the fair manager, Ted Droll, pointing to a plate of the broiled insects, "are for people who have eaten everything."

Plans To Steal Sweets Soured

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—The plan of three youngsters to nab some sweets went sour Sunday. The boys, aged 10 to 13, were arrested by police at the Rosen Candy Co.

Police were in the building investigating a break Saturday night in which some money was taken and candy strewn about.

BOUNCED OUT

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Fred Wray, 5, was bouncing on the upper bunk bed in his second-story bedroom Sunday and bounced himself through the window.

He landed on concrete steps 25 feet below, cut and bruised.

The length of Afghanistan is about 600 miles, containing about 230,000 square miles of mountains and fertile valleys.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Margaret Plump, 54, wed only nine days, was slain Sunday in her honeymoon cottage with an iron bar after a dispute over finances. Her husband, Herman, 74, was held for investigation.

Detective Sgt. Harry F. Dietrich said Plump signed a statement that he beat her over the head in wrath over taunts about his having to support her.

Dietrich said Plump, a retired Yonkers, N. Y., milk route driver, told him his bride deposited a $2,000 check of his to her account and refused to let him draw against the account. Sunday morning she woke him up and said, "I've got you where I want you, and you have to take care of me the rest of my life."

Enraged, he grabbed a 20-inch pinch-bar and fractured her skull.

Denmark, which is about half the size of the state of Maine, produces half the bacon and one-fourth the eggs and butter moved in world trade.

Jumped The Gun On Her Vacation

GREAT BEND, Kan. (AP) — Officials of the Great Bend Chamber of Commerce wanted to notify Mrs. Walter Rugan that she had won a contest sponsored by the chamber. The prize was a week's vacation in Colorado.

They finally located Mrs. Rugan. She's vacationing in Colorado.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Coppers, plywoods and selected issues took some sharp losses in a generally lower stock market early this afternoon. Trading was quiet.

Pivotal issues declined from fractions to about a point.

Georgio-Pacific Corp. dropped about 5 and U.S. Plywood around 2.

Magma Copper was a 3-point loser while Anaconda dropped more than 2 and Kennecott fell over a point.

The decline in coppers came as spot prices for the red metal in London and futures prices domestically continued under pressure as wage negotiations in the copper industry proceeded.

Steeles, some chemicals and aircrafts also took some fairly sharp losses. The trend was lower among rails, utilities, motors and oils.

A few issues bucked the trend with substantial gains. Goodyear was ahead well over 2.

Wall Streeters saw the market as still consolidating after its recent correction of record highs.

Losses of a point or more were taken by Republic Steel and Jones & Laughlin. U.S. Steel was off about a point.

Du Pont dropped about 4 while Union Carbide and Eastman Kodak were off fractionally.

American Telephone dipped more than a point to a new low for the year. Other utilities were irregularly lower.

General Dynamics took a loss of about 2. Douglas Aircraft declined more than a point. Chrysler and Ford dropped fractions.

U.S. government bonds were steady.

Funeral Tuesday For Miss Sallie Cowell

Miss Sallie Cowell, 92, died in a Tarboro nursing home Monday morning at 4:45 after three months' illness.

Funeral services will be held at the Wilkerson Chapel Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 by her pastor, Rev. W. M. Howard Jr. Burial will be in Oakdale Cemetery in Washington.

Miss Cowell, daughter of the late William Benjamin and Mary Bragg Cowell, was a native of Washington. She had lived in Greenville the past 20 years and had lived with her niece, Miss Martha Lee Cowell, until her recent illness. She was a member of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Claude Jordan Sr. of Washington; four nieces, Miss Martha Lee Cowell and Mrs. R. C. Henry of Greenville, Mrs. T. K. Weyer of Dade City, Fla., and Mrs. Ben Taylor Sr. of Washington, and two nephews, R. B. Cowell Sr. of Norfolk, Va., and F. H. Cowell of Hyattsville, Md.

Some Volunteer For Henderson

Several members of National Guard Batteries "A" and "B" have volunteered for a unit which will take over the patrolling of Henderson, W. O. May Allen said Sunday. The names of the volunteers could not be released until orders assigning them to the special unit have been issued, Allen said.

The National Guard Batteries are now in training at Ft. Jackson, S.C. The volunteers are expected to begin their duties in Henderson when the two-weeks training session ends this weekend.

Poked Policeman, Given 90 Days

TAOS, N.M. (AP) — Robert Riley Wagoner of Espanola, N.M., was sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined $500 for poking a Taos policeman, Eloy G. Montoya, in the ribs.

Wagoner was convicted of assault with a deadly weapon after Montoya testified that Wagoner had poked him in the ribs with a high powered rifle.

Dist. Atty. George T. Reynolds said the incident in the police station arose from bad feelings between Wagoner and the Taos police force. Wagoner's attorney contended his client was too drunk to know what he was doing.

NEW POST — Ogden R. Reid, 33, former president and editor of the New York Herald Tribune, is new U.S. Ambassador to Israel. He succeeds Edward B. Lawson.

Susan Laughter, Barbara Minges, Dennis Eagan, Billy Green, Bill Moye, James Poindester, Harry Williams, Jimmy Newman, Eddie Riddick, Allen Van Dyke, David Nobles, Mary Jo Peaden and Allene Squires.

Students who drew commendations for outstanding work in their particular groupings include Dan Rice, Jeanette Wainwright, Linda Heath, Thomas Smith, Billy Wayne Cherry, Doris Everett, Barbara Ann Williams, Vickie Louise Conney, Geraldine Rogerson and Betty Lou Williams.

Guard Units To Accept Enlistees

Greenville's two National Guard units will be able to accept enlistments for a limited time when the units return from summer training at Ft. Jackson this week.

WO Mayo Allen of Battery "A" said orders from the National Guard Bureau allotting North Carolina additional men affected the local units.

Allen said the two units have rank open from private to sergeant first class. However, he said, the freeze is expected to be lifted for only a short time.

Persons interested in joining the National Guard may visit the National Guard armory on Evans St. on or after June 21, Allen said.

The guard units have been at Ft. Jackson for one week and they will remain there for summer training through this week.

Allen said the 4th Howitzer Bn. of which the two Greenville units are members had "outstanding record" for the summer training program. It was considered the top battalion in training, Allen stated.

Attempted Burn Parents Alive

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Sterling Baker and his wife, Alice, know they were burned badly in a fire at their home.

But they don't know that their daughter Doreen, 14, and their son Bruce, 13, have admitted to police that they set the blaze after pouring gasoline on the bed in which their parents lay sleeping Friday.

Physicians said that knowledge of the children's admission might hurt the Bakers' chances of recovery. Baker, 62, was burned on the face, arms and abdomen. Mrs. Baker, 48, was reported in fair condition.

"We just didn't think about it," Doreen told police. "We were just all mixed up, I guess."

"I didn't realize it would be so terrible," Bruce sobbed. "I wish now we hadn't done it."

The brother and sister told officers they set the fire because they felt their parents were too strict.

"We thought if we got rid of them we could do more of the things we wanted to," police quoted Doreen as saying.

"We had been thinking about it for a week," Doreen told officers. "At first we thought of beating them to death with hammers but we thought that would be too risky."

Baker was running around the house screaming with his hair afire when neighbors came to his rescue. They pulled Baker from the burning bedroom.

Minor Hurts For Car-Struck Girl

Dianne Holland, 7, who was struck by a car on Cotanche St. Saturday, received only cuts and bruises as a result of the mishap.

No charges were placed against the driver of the car, David Earl Dickinson, of 1110 A Cotanche St.

According to officers, the child had started across the street and did not see the approaching auto. Dianne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Holland, lives at 536 Cotanche St.

Presented Medal 14 Years Later

KAMI SEYA, Japan (AP) — David W. Dease of Concord, N.C., Commissaryman 2.c. in the U.S. Navy, wrote a letter to Washington recently asking what medals he was entitled to wear as a result of five years of service in the Army during World War II.

The Army sent back word that he had been awarded the bronze star for meritorious achievement as a sergeant against the enemy in Europe on April 11, 1945. So Capt. Frank C. Dingfelder of Warren, Pa., commander of the Navy unit here, pinned the medal on Dease—14 years late. He has been in the Navy since 1946.

Father Slays 2 Children, Dies During Gun Battle

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — A Florida businessman, his two children and a policeman were dead today as the result of a gun battle. Officers said the businessman, James Hofer, 34, killed the children.

Detective Edgar F. Beazley said officers were called to the home of the parents of Hofer's estranged wife after Hofer crashed through the living room window with a .38 caliber revolver in his hand.

The first officers at the scene were Sgt. Sumner Lewis and veteran patrolman Joe Reynolds, 48. They were told that Hofer was upstairs with his wife, Dorothy Bailey Hofer, and their children, Vicki Ann Hofer, 4, and Katherine Hofer, 2.

Beazley said Hofer had been charged with kidnapping his wife in Florida while she was on the way to Pensacola, where he lived, for a divorce hearing there.

Funeral Today For Mrs. Clinton Harris

Mrs. Halease Garris Harris, 35, wife of Clinton A. Harris of near Ayden, died Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville. She had been ill three years.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Elm Grove Free Will Baptist Church, near Ayden, by her pastor, Rev. J. C. Lynn. Burial was in Ayden Cemetery.

Mrs. Harris was a lifelong resident of Pitt county and spent most of her life in the Ayden community. She was a member of Elm Grove Free Will Baptist Church and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos L. Garris of Ayden.

Prisoners Flee In A Stolen Car

NEWTON, N.C. (AP) — Two prisoners fled from a work gang south of Newton late this morning and escaped in a stolen car.

Prison officials identified the fugitives as Lawrence Williams, 25, of Camden, S.C., and Donald Shell, 20, of Rt. 4, Gastonia.

An auto belonging to B. B. Ikard of Rt. 1, Newton, was stolen shortly after the escapes. The car contained a shotgun, a pistol, ammunition, and clothing.

Driver Charged In Car Collision

Cars driven by William Jasper Harris, 48-year-old Negro of 605 McKinley Ave. and Willie Joyner, 35 also Negro of Route 6, Greenville, collided at the intersection of Evans and Third Sts. about 8:35 p.m. Saturday night.

Harris was charged with failure to stop for a stop light following investigation of the wreck.

Officers listed damage to the Harris car at $100 while damage to the Joyner vehicle was set at $150.

Caution Against Sharp Cutting Of Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House was cautioned today against cutting foreign aid spending too sharply despite instances of waste and some corruption in the program.

"I am sure that much more needs to be done to eliminate waste and improve the effectiveness of the program," Rep. Thomas E. Morgan (D-Pa.) said in a speech prepared for the opening of debate.

But he added at another point: "I am absolutely convinced that if we eliminate or drastically curtail the mutual security program, the loss of the cold war will be inevitable."

Morgan is chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, which recommended authorizing $3,642,600,000 of new money for the aid program next year.

To many House members, this is far too much for a program they contend is producing more enemies than friends and is getting no results. To others, it is too little for an undertaking they insist has effectively curbed the spread of communism and has shored up the defenses of the free world.

President Eisenhower asked for $266,800,000 more than the committee recommended, but the House is in no mood to increase the committee figures and might even cut them further.

The big fights over the size and direction of the program will come Tuesday or Wednesday when amendments to the bill will be considered.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee meantime was working on its own version of the bill, with indications it might cut deeper than the House group.

"There is no question," Morgan said in his prepared speech, "but that there has been waste and a limited amount of corruption."

But the important thing is what is done about those findings, he said.

Last Rites Held For Mrs. J. Lundy Baker

Mrs. Gladys Neal Baker, 31, wife of J. Lundy Baker of Greenville, died at Pitt Memorial Hospital at 10:30 Saturday night after two years' illness.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2:30 at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery. Rev. Robert Crawford, Free Will Baptist minister of Greenville, assisted by Rev. J. H. Daniel, church of God minister of Greenville, will officiate.

Mrs. Baker was born in Edgecombe county but spent most of her life in the Greenville community of Pitt county. She was first married to Clarence Tripp and of this marriage a son, Clarence Tripp Jr. survives. In 1954, she was married to J. Lundy Baker, and two survivors. Also surviving are her sisters, Mrs. M. O. Joyner of Wilson, and Mrs. Jack Deal of Ayden; two brothers, Elbert Neal and Johnnie Neal, of Greenville; and two step-sons, Graham Baker of Morehead City and Bobby Baker of Norfolk, Va.

Drops Charges, Woman Jailed

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — Willie Barnes, 44-year-old janitor, was early Sunday charged with rape and lodged in the jail here.

Today, in Recorder's Court, the prosecuting witness, Katherine Hines, Negro, asked that the warrant be withdrawn.

The woman told Judge Wiley L. Lane Jr. that she and Willie had been drinking together Saturday night. After repeated questions from the judge, she said that Barnes had not raped her.

Judge Lane ordered Barnes released and the charge dismissed, and he ordered the woman jailed on a charge of perjury.
