One Man Trapped In Wreck More Than 1 Hour

REMAINS OF TRACTOR-TRAILER ... in which two men barely escaped death early this morning.

Somehow, 2 Men Escaped Death, Injury In Wreck

Two Craven County men escaped death or serious injury, by a hair's breadth about 3 o'clock this morning when a tractor-trailer in which they were riding left the highway and jack-knifed into a ditch, pinning one man in the truck for more than an hour.

According to Investigating Patrolman H. R. Winslow, John Clayton Moore, 23, of Route 2, New Bern, was trapped in the cab of the tractor for more than an hour, with gas pouring from the gas tank onto the man, while members of the Greenville Rescue Squad worked to cut him out of the truck. A foam-equipped fire truck from the Greenville Department stood by during the rescue operation.

Winslow listed the driver of the van as Wayne Eugene Koonce of Route 1, Cove City. According to testimony given by Koonce, "everything went black" as he approached a curve about six miles from Greenville on the New Bern highway. The next thing he knew, Koonce said, he was lying half in and half out of the truck cab with his head in the ditch. He freed himself and, after seeing his attempts to help Moore from the cab were in vain, called the rescue unit.

The investigating officer said no skid marks were found at the scene and there was no evidence of high speed.

Moore, who was asleep at the time the wreck occurred, said he heard a loud noise and awoke to find himself trapped in the truck, with gas pouring on him from the truck's upturned gas tanks.

Moore, speaking of the rescue squad, said, "They deserve good thanks for cutting me out. They are on the ball." Patrolman Winslow also praised the squad on its work.

It was noted that one spark from the tools squad members were using could have caused a fire which would have possibly killed or injured the rescuers, and probably destroyed the truck's cargo.

Moore was freed from the wreck shortly after 4 a.m. and walked to the waiting ambulance. Spokesmen for the owners of the truck, McCotter Oil Company of New Bern, said the demolished tractor was valued at about $2,500. Only slight damage was done to the cargo of almost 7,500 pairs of men's trousers and other items valued at $80,000.

The truck left New Bern about 1 a.m. enroute to Fredrick, Maryland, and had stopped in Vanceboro to allow the operators a chance to eat.

According to attending physicians, Koonce is suffering from minor injuries, including chemical burns caused by the gas, while Moore is suffering from third-degree chemical burns over about 20 per cent of his body.

Investigation of the accident is still continuing.

Herter Reported Ready To Voice 'No Retreat' Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter is reported ready to proclaim an Allied "no retreat" stand in future talks with the Soviets on the deadlocked Berlin issue.

Herter is to outline his views in a nationwide television-radio report to the American people tonight. His 15-minute speech will seek to explain why six weeks of intensive talks at Geneva failed to ease East-West tensions over Germany's fate.

The address will be carried by all major radio networks and by NBC-TV and CBS-TV at 8 p. m. EST. A delayed telecast at 9:30 p. m. is planned by ABC-TV.

President Eisenhower is understood to have approved the main points of Herter's address during a White House meeting Monday. With Eisenhower's full backing, he is reported ready to tell the American people:

1. The United States, Britain and France have reached rock bottom in the concessions they will offer the Soviet Union in order to settle the Berlin crisis.

2. The Kremlin must rescind its ultimatum-like deadline for an end to Allied rule in West Berlin if a new round of foreign ministers' talks in Geneva is to avoid the same deadlock that caused them to recess Saturday.

3. President Eisenhower is determined to shun any summit meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev unless the Geneva talks first make readily apparent progress in blocking out a reasonable settlement of the Berlin quarrel.

Top State Department officials said Herter's main emphasis will be on a United Allied determination to stand pat in West Berlin despite the Soviet campaign of threats and intimidations.

Herter's aim, they said, will be to make it clear to the Kremlin that the Allies are ready to see the Geneva talks collapse in disagreement rather than surrender their rights to act as protectors of West Berlin's 2 1/4 million free Germans.

Herter and Eisenhower are reported to have agreed that prospects for convening a summit conference this year appear to be at an all-time low in view of the Soviet Union's tough attitude.

Eisenhower will not budge, these officials re-emphasized, on his condition that (1) he will not negotiate under any Soviet threats or ultimatums and (2) the ground-work for such a meeting must be carefully prepared in advanced by limited East-West agreements at the foreign ministers level.

Vanguard's 2nd Stage Fails Role

Only One Rocket Left For Program That Had 8 Failures, 2 Successes

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Vanguard missilemen, disappointed in their latest satellite flop, turned their attention today to their final launching vehicle.

The second stage, long a jinx to the program, failed to function properly Monday on the 10th Vanguard launching attempt. The rocket's 22 1/2-pound, basketball-size satellite apparently plunged to a fiery death in the earth's atmosphere.

An informed source reported a compression regulator in the second stage did not work, causing a small explosion that sent the rocket off course.

Eight of the Vanguard satellite attempts failed, six of them because of the second stage, which contains the control and guidance systems of the missile. The two successes hurled Vanguard satellites I and II into long-time orbits around the earth.

Only one Vanguard launching vehicle remains. It probably will be fired in the next few months, ringing down the curtain on the hard luck Vanguard program.

Originally, all the Vanguards were to be launched during International Geophysical Year, an 18-month, 66-nation probe of the earth's scientific secrets. Troubles delayed the Vanguard program and four of the launching vehicles still remained when IGY ended Dec. 31.

The final Vanguard is scheduled to be a repeat attempt of last April's three-in-one satellite shot, but sources close to the project said plans may be changed.

The three-in-one attempt also fizzled because of a second-stage malfunction. Its goal was to throw two scientific satellites and the third-stage rocket into orbit.

Monday's launching appeared near-perfect to Cape observers. But the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced two hours later in Washington that the satellite probably did not attain orbit because of a second-stage malfunction.

It was believed the satellite burned up as it fell into the earth's atmosphere from more than 200 miles in space.

Signals received from the rocket showed all three stages ignited but that it apparently was off course.

The satellite was designed to measure the heat balance between the earth and the sun.

Atomic Spy Flies To East Berlin

LONDON (AP) — Atomic spy Klaus Fuchs took off for Communist East Berlin in a Polish Airlines plane today.

East German spokesmen in East Berlin said Fuchs would be admitted to that country. Presumably he will go to live with his 64-year-old father, Prof. Emil Fuchs, at Leipzig.

The 47-year-old Fuchs was brought in a police-escorted car from Wakefield Prison, 180 miles from London, where he had served 9 years and 3 months of a 14-year sentence for spying on British and American atomic secrets for the Soviet Union. He was given credit for good conduct while in prison.

Self-confessed and smiling, and carrying a felt hat in his hand, Fuchs walked to the airplane with policemen on either side.

He was convicted of giving the Soviet Union atomic secrets that probably enabled the Soviets to produce an atomic bomb five years sooner than they could have otherwise.

British Launch Big New Liner

BIRKENHEAD, England (AP) — Queen Mother Elizabeth today launched Britain's biggest passenger liner in 21 years, the 38,000-ton Windsor Castle.

This steam turbine vessel, cruising at 23 knots, will cut two days off the 13-day Southampton-Cape Town run. She will carry 850 passengers and have massive refrigerated holds to carry perishables from South Africa.

Psychiatric Patients Riot, Hold Five Guards Hostage

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Rioting psychiatric patients seized five guards and took over a wing of the U. S. Medical Center here Monday night and an official said he feared it was part of a plan to escape the prison.

Sheriff Glenn Hendrix of Greene County said information from inside the prison indicated the convicts were trying to break through the wall on the north west corner of the "10 North" building.

Guards, state troopers, Springfield policemen and special guards from the Federal Prison at Leavenworth, Kan., formed three separate tight rings around the "10 North" wing of the Federal Prison system's General Hospital today. The unit is known as the "Country Club" because it resembles one from the outside.

Sheriff Hendrix said none of the prison authorities could get inside the building to actually "see what was happening." He said they heard terrific pounding and sent men around the walls to see if they could detect exactly where a break through was trying to be made.

"The walls are about 36 inches thick and I just don't believe they have got the equipment to get through," the sheriff said.

Hendrix said it was his understanding the riot was led by "six or seven" convicts and that one of them, who is serving a 20-year sentence, was considered desperate.

Guards, state troopers and city policemen formed three separate rings around the "10 North" wing of the federal prison system's general hospital, known as the "country club" because it looks like one from the outside.

The officers, armed with riot guns and gas grenades, were spaced only 20 feet apart to guard against the possibility of a break.

But the officers made no move toward the wing. Dr. Russell O. Settle, warden of the center, ordered his staff to avoid provoking the rioters.

The "10 North" wing is a prison-type building with barred doors and windows and individual cells. It is divided into three wards, each housing about a third of the 106 inmates.

Homosexuals are in one ward, "young aggressives" in the second ward, and "older aggressives" in the third. All are neuro-psychiatric patients and they are among the most dangerous of the hospital's 1,046 inmates.

Of the center's inmate population, 239 are trustees. About 60 per cent of the 787 patients suffer mental illnesses.

None of the rioters has been identified by the warden.

One inmate was seen holding a knife to the back of a hostage. A rioter told the center's control room by telephone: "Don't try to come in here or your men will get hurt."

Another inmate said in a second call, "We mean business."

Questioned by Settle on what started the riot, the man said: "We have our demands almost ready but we will call you."

That was at 10:20 Monday night. Nothing since has been heard from the prisoners.

There has been no sound at all from the wing. There are no lights. The prisoners smashed the lights when the uprising began.

Only one newsman, Jim Billings, city editor of the Springfield Daily News, was allowed inside the center.

There is no rioting in the general sense—no shouting and all that," Billings reported.

He said officials were "sitting around, sweating out" the riot and added, "There is not much anyone can do except wait."

Surrenders

FARMVILLE — Charlie Barnes, 47-year-old Farmville Negro wanted for the murder of a 44-year-old woman here Saturday night, surrendered to officers at the Farmville Police Station about 7 p. m. yesterday.

According to Chief L. T. Lucas of the Farmville Police Department, Barnes admitted shooting Ada Ellis in the stomach with a .12 gauge shotgun. He said they had been arguing prior to the killing.

Chief Lucas said the surrender of Barnes was due to the efforts of Barnes' uncle, Pat McConn. According to Lucas, McConn found where Barnes was in hiding, near Bell Arthur, and persuaded him to give himself up.

Barnes is being held in the Farmville jail on charges of murder pending court action on the case.

The pregnant woman was shot down in the street in front of her house at 706 Walnut St.

Near $50,000 In Travel Pay Seen

RALEIGH (AP) — Tar Heel lawmakers have received travel pay allowance totaling $49,726 for the 1959 legislative session.

A few more vouchers yet to come in will probably send the total to more than $50,000, Budget Bureau officials said Monday.

A bill was enacted in the waning days of the General Assembly to pay the legislators seven cents a mile for one round trip home each weekend. It was retroactive to the start of the session.

The Budget Bureau reported that House members have received a total of $38,248, while 48 of 50 senators reported a total travel bill of $12,472. Of the 120 House members, four have not yet filed for the travel expense.

Rep. C. R. Crawford of the far mountain county of Swain received the largest amount, $931.60. Another mountain representative, Leonard Lloyd of Graham, drew $799.68.

Of Pitt County's representatives in the General Assembly, Rep. Walter B. Jones of Farmville received $207.20 and Rep. Frank M. Wooten Jr. of Greenville $226.10. Sen. Robert Lee Humber of Greenville has not filed for the travel expense.

Pasternak Has New Book Ready

MOSCOW (AP) — Boris Pasternak has a new book ready and it will be published in the Soviet Union, a well-placed literary source said today.

"In contrast to his controversial novel, 'Doctor Zhivago,' Pasternak's new book of poems will be published," the source said.

Pasternak's novel on the Russian Revolution was not published here although it was awarded the Nobel Prize for literature. It contained many passages unfavorable to the Communists. Pasternak rejected the prize.

MM Undergoes Surgery Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Film star Marilyn Monroe underwent gynecological surgery today at Lenox Hill Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said her condition was excellent.

Miss Monroe is the wife of playwright Arthur Miller.

There was no immediate further explanation of the surgery.

The actress has twice experienced miscarriages. On Aug. 1, 1957 she underwent surgery at Doctors Hospital here following a month's pregnancy. She lost a second unborn child Dec. 17, 1958, while at work on a movie in California.

Battery B Earns 'Superior' Rating

One of Greenville's two National Guard units, Battery B, Fourth Howitzer Battalion, 11th Artillery, received a "superior" rating from Regular Army inspectors for performances at annual summer field training exercises which were completed Saturday.

Announcement of the rating, highest which can be obtained during the two-weeks summer encampment, was announced today by Captain Norman R. Harris, commanding officer of the unit. Reports of the rating for Greenville's other unit, Battery A, has not been received.

The superior rating was based on results of inspections of the battery in pre-firing checks, firing service practice, a division review, field exercises, tactical maneuvers, maintenance of equipment and individual inspections.

Battery B is a firing battery for 155 mm howitzers. The two-weeks summer training program was taken at Fort Bragg with other units of the 30th Division, North Carolina's Army National Guard organization.

In addition to Captain Harris, other officers of the unit are Lieutenant Alvin D. McArthur, executive officer, and Lieutenant Ralph H. Heidenreich, assistant executive officer. Master Sergeant Paul L. Jewett is first sergeant and full-time administrative-supply technician for the unit.

Captain Harris said today persons interested in becoming members of the unit can obtain preliminary information from Sergeant Jewett who is on duty at the Evans Street Armory from 8 a.m. through 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. He pointed out that strength levels of individual guard units had been frozen prior to the summer encampment, but that commanders have now been authorized to enlist additional members.

The unit is seeking both prior service personnel and non-prior service men to fill the recently opened slots.

Murder Indictment Is Returned By Grand Jury

Eleven true bills of indictment, including one for first-degree murder, were returned yesterday by the Pitt County Grand Jury which sat in conjunction with the opening session of a mixed term of Superior Court.

The murder indictment was returned against James Earl Cherry, 21-year-old Negro of Rt. 1, Winterville. Cherry is charged with the June 6 death of Robert Lee Whitehurst, 17-year-old Negro farm worker who lived on Rt. 1, Winterville.

Cherry, through his court-appointed counsel, William C. Brewer Jr., entered a plea of not guilty to the charge in formal arraignment proceedings yesterday.

The Grand Jury also returned three bills of indictment against Jack Blount, charged with the May 25 wounding of F. W. Satter-thwaite in the Farmville, business district. The bills charge Blount with secret assault, carrying a concealed weapon and larceny of a pistol.

Blount is presently confined to the State Hospital at Raleigh where he is undergoing examination and observation. The order committing Blount to the hospital was signed June 2.

Other indictments returned by the Grand Jury include:

Hubert Langley, assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, inflicting serious injuries not resulting in death; George Staples, escape; Duke C. Hanbury, escape; Worth Pennell, escape; Guy Thomas Elliott Jr., speeding; William Arthur Taylor, breaking, entering and larceny; and Asa Jones, assault on a female.

Compromise Housing Bill Awaits Final House Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — A chopped-down housing bill distasteful to many Democrats and not at all certain of White House approval awaited final House action today.

The compromise $1,375,000,000 omnibus measure was approved late Monday by the Senate and was expected to clear the House today.

What will happen when it reaches President Eisenhower is a matter of speculation. The strong possibility of a veto was raised Monday when Housing Administrator Norman P. Mason said the bill would cost too much and is not in the interests of most Americans.

The 56-31 Senate vote was well short of the two-thirds needed to override a veto. It also provided a smaller margin than the 60-28 vote by which the Senate earlier had passed a larger bill.

Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.), who helped hammer out the compromise, noted that its total was below what Eisenhower originally requested. Much of the reduction was accomplished by providing a two-year program rather than one for six years as Eisenhower suggested. Sparkman said he thought the President should sign it.

But Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Republican leader, said he didn't see how the President could approve the measure.

The Senate vote came only after a sharp debate in which Northern Democrats heavily assailed the strategy of chopping down economic bills to try to avert vetoes.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) led the attack on it because of the reduction in the urban renewal program. He vetoed it in the end because he said he had no alternative.

But Clark declared that the Democratic presidential nomination would not be worth much next year unless the Congress wrote a stronger record of action on the party's campaign promises.

Some Republicans argued that the bill was too big despite the cuts. They said that the reductions really were "sleight-of-hand" tricks which left the programs still much larger than the President wanted on an annual basis.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett (R-Utah) said that the total in the bill did not cover the cost of the 45,000 public housing units authorized.

Major stumbling block in the path of House approval was a removal of an original House provision requiring Appropriations Committee clearance each year of money to implement the authorizations.

The Senate originally passed a $2,675,000,000 authorization measure which the House cut to $2,100,000,000 compared with the $1,650,000,000 in future authorizations suggested by the President.

Major slash in the compromise was in the urban renewal program by which the government makes grants to cities to help purchase slum sites for redevelopment. The new bill provides for a two-year extension of this provision at a cost of 900 million dollars. The President called for a six-year $1,700,000,000 program.

"Regardless of whatever you may do, boost your hometown," is the advice of a local businessman who recently returned from a convention at which taking stock of the hometown was one of the real features.

"It matters not how small a town may be it has certain features that would prove attractive to other people, but these other people would never know of them without somebody telling of the advantages.

"Think of how many things in your hometown that would prove interesting to the outside world. Then get facts about them and talk them in such way as to interest people.

"Try the experiment and I believe it will bring rich returns."

Sew Your Own Bridal Gown

The bride-to-be cherishes tradition, and knows that one of the loveliest of all customs is to make her own wedding gown. A secondary consideration is that she can save money by sewing her own.

With just a little sewing know-how, a girl can turn out a beautiful wedding dress, using a standard pattern and following sewing and cutting directions.

For the bride who plans to sew her own gown, here are special tips from local sewing center experts. The first rule — take your time. Start well ahead of the big day. Two months isn't too long. The planning should be done slowly and carefully. You should check different patterns and fabrics, perhaps making up a couple of different designs in muslin to determine the line most becoming to your figure.

Select fabric carefully, too. There are all shades of white, ranging from pure white through pinkish, beige and ivory tints. The most becoming color will depend on your complexion tone and the makeup you plan to wear on your wedding day.

Pattern alteration before cutting into the fabric is essential. If you own a dress form, adjustments are easy. If not, check the pattern pieces against your own measurements and try on the adjusted pattern as a further check. It's a wise precaution to make a muslin version of the dress first. However, a girl experienced in sewing may be able to eliminate this step.

If you are planning to wear a Wash It, 'Patent' Won't Expire

Nothing makes feet sparkle and shine quite like patent leather footwear—but "patent" has always been limited to spring and summer shoes. Why? Because freezing temperatures make it crack and lose its beauty.

But this year you can treat yourself to shoes made of the so-called "Luxury Patent," and wear them straight around the calendar. Tests show that they wear 25 times as long as conventional patents—as they resist cracking, keep their luster through thick and thin, heat and cold.

The new patent finish also makes these shoes friendly to soap or detergent suds and water, adding even more to their beauty and ease of upkeep.

Top-Overs

New "top-overs"—ingeniously cut to fit one and all sizes 10 to 16—have made their debut in washable printed Orion jersey. These cleverly cut very short blouses look charming with skinny pants or tight "at home" wear, or with the new little skirts so popular for spring.

A plastic cover with linen-like surface and foam rubber backing brings new elegance to card tables. Of course, these are washable—even including their handsome white or gold borders in Greek key or scroll patterns.

waist cincher or a long-line bra, always put it on when you fit the dress, trying it on over the correct foundation garments. Therefore, shopping for foundations should be done before sewing the dress.

In determining the length of the train for your wedding gown, do not let romanticism betray you into too much length. Keep the train in proportion to your height. It takes a tall figure to manage a long train with grace. Also remember that you need practice with a train. Allow time to learn how to wear the train gracefully. A band of horsehair, four inches wide, will stiffen the hem of the train and give a more graceful sweep.

If your dress is of satin, remember that this fabric has a tendency to ravel, and also shows stitch marks. If you own an automatic zigzag machine or an automatic zigzag attachment, it's easy to slip quickly along seam edges with a zigzag stitch, to prevent raveling. If you do not have a zigzag stitch attachment, pink the edges of the seams and run a line of straight stitching just inside the pinkings.

A final suggestion — don't work too hard on the dress. A worked-over look is had. Put as much time as you need into preparation — shopping, choosing a pattern and making pattern alterations. Then when you start working with your fabric, proceed slowly but accurately. You'll be rewarded with a fairy-tale wedding gown.

EMPIRE WEDDING GOWN . . . This bride made her own wedding gown of white lace and satin, from standard pattern.

Wood Tips On Furniture

By ANDREW C. LANG

PLYWOOD IS DESIGNATED by the type of wood used for its face. If the top ply is cut from a birch tree, the finished product is called birch plywood—and so on.

Most popular of all plywood is fir, not only because it is so plentiful but because it is the cheapest. It's the kind you get when you walk into a lumber yard and ask for plywood without any further designation. Lumber yards don't mind stocking it in large quantities, since they know it will move quickly.

An exceptionally strong material that is fairly easy to work, fir plywood must be given a little extra attention when it comes to finishing. That's because it has a wild grain which when finished indiscriminately, insists on causing unpredictable results. But when properly primed or sealed, this material can be painted, enameled, varnished or given any other type of final coat.

Clean the Surface
As with all finishing, the first step is the preparation of the surface, which must be smooth, clean and without any traces of oil, grease or laminating glue. Nail holes and blemishes should be filled and sanded, followed by a wiping with turpentine or odorless solvent.

For an opaque finish which hides the grain completely, the first coat should be a flat oil or alkyd paint or a white resin sealer. Several companies make a resin sealer especially for sub-during the grain of fir plywood. This comes in white when the finish coat is to be paint or enamel — clear when the finish coat is to be clear, such as varnish, shellac or lacquer. Do not use a water-thinned paint for this first coat, as the water may raise the grain. When the initial coat has dried thoroughly, it should be sanded lightly and dusted clean. It may then be followed by one or two coats of the selected finishing material. If the finish coat is to be gloss enamel, the second coat can be a 50-50 mixture of enamel undercoat and the gloss enamel.

A blond effect can be obtained by using the white resin sealer or a white interior undercoat thinned about 50 per cent with turpentine or an odorless solvent. About 15 minutes after the sealer has been applied, it should be wiped, the grain will show through but the entire surface will have a blond appearance. Drying and sanding follow, after which another coat of resin sealer is applied — but this time the sealer should be the clear type.

Don't Skip Undercoat
This clear resin sealer must also be used as the first coat when the final coat is to be varnish, shellac or lacquer. If this undercoat is skipped, an uneven result will occur, with some of the grain showing very dark and some very light. Only exterior grade plywood should be used where the wood will be exposed to the elements. But even though waterproof glue has been used to laminate the various layers of wood, it is necessary to seal the exposed edges and ends of the plywood with an exterior primer.

Has Two Male Stars In Family

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Sue Carol Ladd, a woman of fortune and calm, has two movie stars on her hands—her famous husband, Alan, and her 11-year-old son David.

"Having been married to Alan for 17 years, I'm all prepared to cope with David," says she. "It's wonderful and slightly unbelievable to see the whole thing starting over again."

David, a normal boy who prefers baseball to dancing class, is receiving publicity for his part in the new movie "The Proud Rebel" in which he appears with his dad. His portrayal of a deaf-mute was so successful that now he is starting work on a new picture, "The Sad Horse," in which he is on his own. The Hollywood grapevine has it that even more exciting things are in store for David, who has a natural actor.

"David was asked to do a small part in a picture with his father last year," says his proud mother, "but he was such a standout in even a bit part that the studio decided to give him a real chance. Alan had turned down a part in 'The Proud Rebel' but when they offered the boy's part to David, he changed his mind."

The beautiful living room of the Ladd home, with picture windows overlooking a stage-light swimming pool and a tropical garden, is a constant beehive of activity. As we talked, 15-year-old Lonnie, a budding glamor girl, rushed in and out to ask her mother's advice on a new dance dress, an algebra problem and how to make David wash his hands.

Father Alan wandered in, picked up a thick envelope and put it down hastily as his wife said: "That isn't yours, dear. That's David's script changes."

"Oh, David's," muttered the elder Ladd. "David's script changes. Well, where's David?" "He's at dancing class, dear. We have to pick him up in an hour, and then there's a party he has to go to later. We'll just have time to feed him and take him to the next place."

"Anybody ask us to a party?" demanded Alan.

"No. Just David."

Mrs. Ladd is a former movie actress and Hollywood talent agent, who married her favorite client. In addition to Lonnie and David, there are two older children—Carol Lee, now Mrs. John Veitch, Sue's daughter by her first marriage, and Alan Jr., or "Laddie," Alan's 21-year-old son, now a student at USC.

"I was very happy to quit professional work when I married Alan," says Sue. "Taking care of him and the children is a full-time job. I don't think any woman can do several jobs at once without neglecting one of them."

Church Work Hinges On Women

The church always has depended on women to do much of the work, says Willard A. Pleuthner, New York advertising executive who believes in applying Madison Avenue methods to church work.

Pleuthner, a pioneer of brainstorming as a technique for dredging up advertising ideas, has made religion his avocation for many years, serving as a lay minister and writing books and articles on how to make the church a force in the community.

His latest book combines key chapters from two previous best-sellers, under the title, "More Power for Your Church." The book also contains a number of new chapters, including one on how to use brainstorming to solve church problems.

"No church could get along without the daily support of the women," says Pleuthner. "Women do so much more church work than men that the men in many families should be ashamed. Too many men have been visible examples of a description given by someone who resorted to a familiar hymn to read:

"Take my wife and let her be consecrated, Lord, to Thee; Help her now Thy will to see. But please, dear Lord, don't count on me."

Pleuthner lists a number of projects for women's clubs in his new book. Among them:

1. Provide your church with a tape recorder, with which the minister can bring church services to shut-ins.

2. Have club members write to motion picture producers encouraging them to make more religious pictures. Form a "motion picture committee" in your club, members of which report regularly on religious films that deserve the support of churchgoers.

3. Instead of giving just a certain percentage of money from your group's treasury for foreign missions, plan to earn or give money for a definite project. For instance: provide a horse and saddle for a missionary in the Philippines. Send automobile snow tires for a traveling missionary in South Dakota.

4. Establish a lending library of religious books for your church on the church grounds.

5. Form a "greeting card committee," charged with sending out birthday cards, get-well cards and congratulatory cards to all members of the congregation.

6. Have a bush planting party on the church grounds.

Pleuthner insists that brainstorming is one of the best ways to put new life into a church congregation.

"There's no reason why religion should not have the benefit of the newest techniques of big business," he says. "Advertising is good business for religion as well as toothpaste."

Promises, Always More Promises

The "balanced budget" pudding promised by GOP presidential nominee Eisenhower in 1952 sounded mighty tasty to American voters who went to the polls that November.

But proof of the pudding is in the eating, and so far the American voters in their dual role as taxpayers have had nary a bite of that luscious treat talked of seven years ago.

As a matter of fact six times in the seven years he has been in the White House, President Eisenhower has asked Congress for an increase in the national debt ceiling so Uncle Sam could stay in business and pay some of the bills he was running up.

This year it's the same old story. The House already has approved the request to hike the ceiling to its highest peacetime level and the Senate, after an appropriate amount of grumbling, is expected to follow suit. The Democrats blame this year the administration's tight money policies for bringing on the 1958 recession and the necessity of again hiking the debt ceiling. The administration on the other hand blames the Democrats for loose spending and budget-busting.

This time the ceiling is to be set at $295 billion, just $5 billion short of the peak temporary limit of $300 billion during World War II. The only difference is that now the federal government actually owes more money than it did in World War II. Furthermore, it is generally conceded that the administration will ask next year that the ceiling be raised again to keep the national debt under the legal roof.

Certainly such a condition is a poor commentary on those officials who are charged by voters with the responsibility for managing the federal government's fiscal affairs.

It is frustrating indeed to note that during the greatest period of prosperity the nation has ever known—the years since World War II—the nation has gone deeper in debt than it was after fighting a global war for four years with every ounce of its energy.

What's the sense of having a limit on the national debt if the limit is to be increased every year or so?

The solving of the nation's fiscal problems does not lie in constantly increasing the national debt ceiling, but rather in more fundamental methods which will prevent the debt from going higher. To put it more concisely, Uncle Sam must begin living within his means from year to year and start paying back some of what he already owes.

This will not happen of its own accord. It will happen only if Congress and the administration see that it happens. Otherwise we'll just continue to talk about the pudding that is to be and no one will ever get a bite of it.

Now It's Available The Desire Is Faded

Why is it that people who have anxiously waited for years for development of a preventive medicine to wipe out a particular disease neglect to take advantage of the preventive measure once it is perfected?

That seems to be the case with the polio vaccine. For years this nation literally waited breathlessly for a polio vaccine which could wipe out the dreaded crippling, killing disease. News of its development was hailed as the greatest of at least a decade . . . perhaps a quarter century.

Yet today, only a few years after the vaccine was released for general use, medical leaders still find it necessary to urge people to take advantage of the vaccine.

Last week Dr. Fred T. Foard of the State Board of health sharply criticized public indifference to the vaccine which has virtually wiped out polio. Dr. Foard pointed out that 11 cases of polio had been reported this year in North Carolina compared with only six during the same period of 1958. He further pointed out that nine of the cases this year have involved paralysis compared with only two out of six last year.

Last week also it was announced that the Pitt County Medical Society has gone on record as favoring a fourth polio booster shot for people who complete the initial series of three shots two years or more ago.

It is difficult to understand public indifference toward the vaccine which has proved its effectiveness in preventing a disease which constantly threatens our population.

We hope that these repeated warnings and urgings from our medical leaders will be heeded . . . before it is too late.

Steel Talks At Critical Stage

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The mumble-mumble game is coming to a climax.

Since May 5 the nation, which would be heavily affected by a steel strike, has watched the steel union and the steel industry go through the motions of bargaining on a new contract.

All the two sides have really done is mumble about what they want — and don't want — without ever getting very specific.

But the three-year contract between the union and the industry ends June 30. Unless there is agreement on a new contract by that time, the country faces a shutdown in steel production.

In these weeks of talks both sides have pumped out propaganda. What they seem to have been doing is jockeying for a favorable position in public opinion in case a strike and shutdown come. It can hardly be called collective bargaining.

The United Steelworkers Union demanded a substantial wage boost, plus pension improvements, more work opportunities for idle members, and a better unemployment compensation system.

The present average wage of a steelworker is $3.08 an hour. The 12 steel companies with which the union is talking argued that a wage increase is inflationary — that it inevitably would force them to raise steel prices. Therefore the industry proposed a wage-freeze for another year.

A price increase in steel, which is used in so many other fields of American living, traditionally has been regarded as the starting point for price increases in other businesses and industries.

The Steelworkers Union contends company profits are so high a wage increase could be absorbed without passing it on in the form of higher steel prices.

On June 10 the industry proposed dropping its wage-freeze position provided the union made concessions on about eight different parts of its contract. Union President David J. McDonald rejected this, calling it "industrial blackmail."

From the very beginning President Eisenhower has urged both sides to use self-discipline because of the effect he thinks their decisions will have on the rest of the economy.

He pleaded against setting off a wage-price spiral that would boost living costs generally. Last Friday the government's figures showed living costs hit a new record high.

The National Assn. of Manufacturers got in on the act by lining up with the steel industry. It urged a wage freeze to prevent inflation.

The AFL-CIO jumped in, too. Its executive council backed up the Steelworkers by arguing a wage freeze in steel and other industries would cause further unemployment and economic recession.

Meanwhile, both sides have tried to prepare the ground for blaming each other if a steel strike comes: the industry put the responsibility on the union, the union on the industry.

It may seem to the general public that both sides would look a lot more adult if they cut out the mumble — which is really stalling — and got down to cases.

Suppose there is a strike, what could the government do? The President — to prevent a shut down — could invoke the national emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act through a court-ordered 80-day delay in a strike.

The union might seek to deprive the President of this weapon by striking only one company instead of the whole industry. It could argue that loss of steel from one company was not a national emergency.

In the past it has been union policy to invoke complete industry shutdowns.

Opinions In Brief

"Somebody up in Illinois has calculated that in the well-fished areas of that state it takes an average of 13.3 hours to catch a pound of fish. These statistics turn up from time to time, obviously the work of corrupt statisticians in the employ of wives who can't understand how their husbands can spend all that time and money with so little to show for it." — Montgomery Advertiser.

"The laws necessarily govern the innocent as well as the guilty. But usually the innocent have nothing to fear from the laws. Similarly, the union leader who has no intention of becoming a racketeer himself should have nothing to fear from laws aimed at the racketeering of others." — The Daily Oklahoman.

Me Afraid O' D'Law?

By JIMMY ELLIS

Picking Up Bits, Pieces

Alvin Taylor, red-haired kingpin of the news staff of The Daily Reflector, is on vacation this week.

Such a thing is a fine and natural one. Everyone should take a vacation. However, the thought has come to mind that Alvin might not enjoy this year's trip to the seashore as much as he did last year's.

Last year, those readers with long memories will recall, Brother Taylor went to Atlantic City, N.J., as The Reflector's representative at the Miss America Pageant.

The trip to Atlantic City, Alvin says, was no vacation. While most agree, technically, that it was not, can anyone think of a finer way to spend a week than covering a Miss America Pageant at a famed seaside resort?

And speaking of the seashore: A note has come through the mail from the Cedar Island Banker-Pony Association, advising that the island's annual pony penning will be held July 4. The ponies to be penned roam free range on Cedar Island until the penning, which is a time for branding and sale of certain ponies from the herd. An estimated 75 ponies will be penned this year, with 25 to 30 of them going on the sales block.

No admission will be charged for persons who want to watch the penning operation, which will be held between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. In past years, the penning has drawn large numbers of persons to Cedar Island, located 40 miles east of Morehead City on U.S. 70.

It is amazing to note the amount of material which can build up over a three-year period.

My Fair Gwen and I are in the process of clearing out closets, cubby holes, drawers and shelves. We have already disposed of enough stuff, it seems, to fill a small truck and we aren't anywhere near the end of the process.

No doubt, when we are through we will both discover the loss of several items which we once held dear and for which a sudden need will come up. We are both resolved, however, to make no middle-of-the-night dashes to the city trash dump to recover any such items.

Anyone who has doubts about June's popularity as a month for marriages can rest easy. The Pitt County Register of Deeds Office is doing a land-slide business in selling marriage licenses.

Thus far, the office has issued 47 licenses to couples who want to tie the matrimonial knot this month. And there's still a week and a half to go before the month is over.

Through the proper use of food, we might win freedom and liberty and democracy for millions of peoples in this world who would not heed the appeal of words. When we realize that last night millions of people went to bed hungry, while in America we have too much, we then ought to ask ourselves a question. Just how wise and practical are we in our efforts to make friends over this globe?

Yes, we must keep up with Russia in the fight for outer space supremacy. At the same time we must keep ahead in many fields, including that of ideas.

Russia is concentrating on producing more meat, more milk, more butter, more wheat, corn, and other crops. In America today we have surpluses of many of the agricultural products. We just wonder what would happen if Russia ever gets a surplus of meat or wheat. Will she help feed hungry parts of the world with her surpluses, or will she store them?

In years gone by it has been said many times, and with some credibility, that when people of occupied countries faced Americans, we tried to feed their minds on democracy while the Russians fed their stomachs with food. A hungry man doesn't care whether a sandwich is of democratic origin or communist origin. He wants his longing for food satisfied ahead of any desire for freedom, liberty, and government. If the observation is correct, then Russia could get a foot into the front door while we couldn't even get conversation.

As we look today at our farm surpluses, we see a challenge to all Americans to stop worrying so much about cutting farm production and think in terms of using some of those surpluses to feed hungry peoples over the world. We suspect that we can make more friends with food than we can with ideas.

Last year we exported $2.9 billion worth of goods. This year we hope to export $3.19 billion — a modest increase that will not disturb foreign markets."

He gave me the breakdown, in millions of dollars: chemicals, 171; iron and steel products, 317; light machinery, 159; textiles, 931; heavy machinery, 698; porcelain, pottery and building materials, 124; agriculture and marine products, 384; paper and pulp, 30; minerals, 37; light industrial products (gadgets, souvenirs, toys, etc.), 327.

"No category is much larger than last year," Mr. Murata said. "We understand the dangers of sudden increases in any category." Sudden rises might bring demands for limitations from businesses in countries suffering from a rise of Japanese competition.

Official Predictions. Hiroshi Obori, director of the Economic Planning Bureau, is one of the men charged with plotting the future of Japan's economy. His figures show Japanese industry reached a peak in April, 1957, and then declined as did the American economy. Then in the fall of 1958 it turned upward, again paralleling the U.S. course.

The Japanese gross national product (the total of all goods and services) last year was about $30 billion. The American GNP was $437.7 billion.

Mr. Obori predicts a steady rise of about 6.5 per cent a year, reaching $62 billion in 1962. He told me the national budget is in balance, and that consumption and production are equal. However, he said investments are too large in comparison with currency holdings. Japan needs still more employment, more college-trained men, more production, higher living standards, and hence, more exports markets.

TYPICAL EXPANSION. Typical of the growth of business is the experience of the Sony Corp., an aggressive company but still not one of the giants of Nippon. It specializes in transistors and transistorized recorders and radio sets. While it sells 20,000 sets a month in Japan, it markets 50,000 overseas.

Yoshinobu Kagawa, counsel, and Koichi Kasahara, Harvard-grad director, said their company is seeking larger markets in the United States and every other country of the world.

One of the most promising products is a "people's radio" for low-income people of Southeast Asia. Sony will supply the innards and local companies can make the cases with cheap local materials and labor. The result will be an increase in Southeast Asia industry and employment; radios at prices natives can afford, and a channel of communication between democratic governments and the people.

Meanwhile, it is the working electronics products. Coming soon will be a 12-transistor AM-FM radio selling at $125 in the American market.

Joy In That Reunion

By HAL BOYLSTON
NEW YORK (AP) — It was Emily Dickinson who wrote that parting is all we know of heaven, and all we need of hell.

Certainly parting from a child for the first time is all the hell parents could ever want. But the reunion sometimes almost makes it worthwhile. You learn a lot from the experience.

Recently Frances and I had the opportunity to make a four-week vacation trip to Europe. But no children were to be included.

This posed a real problem. Since adopting our daughter, Tracy Ann, shortly after her birth nearly six years before, Frances and I had never been away from her more than a weekend.

How could we leave her for a whole month? We considered abandoning the trip, even though we felt we might not have such an opportunity again in our lifetime.

"You're crazy," friends counseled. "The separation will be good for both you and Tracy. Try it and see."

We finally decided to put the whole decision up to Tracy herself.

We explained to her it was a kind of business trip on which there would be no other children. We told her she could stay at the suburban home of our close friends, George and Helen Palmer, and sleep with the three Palmer daughters — Nina, Zona and Lella Jim — who are her goddaughters.

"You can go," said Tracy gravely. "If you don't stay away too long — and you promise to be good."

We promised — and she promised — and we sailed away.

The second morning out I awoke in our cabin to find my wife weeping.

"Now what have I done wrong?" I asked, figuring I must have talked in my sleep and said something incriminating.

"Who cares what you do?" said Frances. "I miss my baby."

"Having got that maternal line out of her system, she dried her eyes and ate a breakfast that would have felled Diamond Jim Brady. Have you ever noticed how, after a good cry, a woman is always hungry?"

After that we tacitly quit mentioning Tracy, and missed her silently and separately together.

Once in Paris, Frances saw a group of children run out of a school, hopping like little loud birds, and tears suddenly sprang into her eyes. But she didn't say anything.

A visit to the top of the Eiffel Tower brought me my worst moment. The view of Paris from there is one of the world's tremendous sights. I thought how much it would please my small daughter, and felt all at once drained and empty.

Would Tracy have missed us much really? How would she greet us?

"She'll just say hello, and run off and play," I ventured.

"No, she won't," said Frances positively.

We got off the ship, and took a train to the suburbs. A freckle-faced tornado rushed up and grabbed Frances fiercely around the legs.

"Mommy! Mommy! Mommy!" cried Tracy, and broke into uncontrollable sobs. I lifted her up, and she came to me and wept for five full minutes. Then the storm was over, and a rain-smile came out and dried the tears.

Later in the day Tracy took Frances aside and whispered to her, "Every day when I was alone I said to myself that when you came back I'd never be mean to you again."

In the week since then Tracy has kept the pledge she made to herself. She has been almost too angelic. She has only pulled the cat's tail twice, and the cat can't figure that out either.

Class Places 3rd In Nat'l Contest

A class in beginning accounting at East Carolina College won third place in the college division of the International Bookkeeping Contest sponsored by "Business Teacher," professional journal published by the Gregg Publishing Division of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Co., according to information just received here. Colleges in all parts of the world participate each year in this competitive event.

The beginning accounting class, offered by the East Carolina business department in the spring quarter, was made up of 23 students and had as instructor James P. White of the college department of business.

Each of the students in the class received a certificate of merit for successful participation in the contest. For outstanding work seven students in the class were awarded pins. They are Jonathan Felton, Ike Riddick, and Ovelia Melton, Greenville; Betty Joyce Hackett, Greensboro; Margaret Hardison, Jamesville; Johnnie Duncan Harris, South Mills; and Sarah Kay Tyndall, Kinston. Miss White was presented a Telepad, especially prepared by Gregg.

The honor won this year in the international event marks the second time that Miss White's class has received recognition for excellence. In 1958 her group of students in beginning accounting placed eighth in the contest. This year's award, a plaque, along with a banner won in 1958, has been placed on view in the department of business at the college.

Insured Saving Is Now Commonplace Feature

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Insurance of bank deposits and savings and loan shares is now a 25-year-old commonplace of financial life.

And — so far — neither agency that takes over for deceased institutions has suffered much loss. Nor have depositors or shareholders — so far — had to wait for their money longer than local laws dictated.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. celebrated its silver anniversary last year. The Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corp. observes its birthday June 27.

Each agency insures accounts up to $10,000 each.

Both agencies can pay off accounts in defunct institutions in cash or move the accounts to other insured institutions.

The FDIC has more than 13,000 banks insured and they have built its resources up to nearly two billion dollars. So far it has had 136 cases to deal with and its losses have come to about 29 million dollars, or about 1 1/2 per cent of its cumulative gross income.

The FSLIC insures 3,900 savings and loan associations. It has had 38 insurance cases with a total loss of 5 1/2 million dollars, or less than 2 per cent of its cumulative gross income of 324 million dollars.

The associations, like the banks, pay for the insurance — just as you pay for any insurance you may have.

Although set up by the federal government and supervised by federal agencies, the two corporations are owned by their members. The insurance payments await a failure come from funds the members have paid in — and not from the U.S. Treasury.

When a bank fails those who get paid off are depositors — whether they have checking accounts or savings accounts.

When a savings and loan group fails, those who get payments are shareholders, not depositors. They actually own a part of the business, and it is their share of ownership that is insured.

How long do you have to wait for your money if a bank or a savings and loan association fails and the FDIC or the FSLIC steps in?

The American Bankers' Assn. says bank depositors will get theirs almost immediately. FDIC says in most cases the delay has been just a few days.

The longest delay — so far — has been three months in the case of three Chicago banks folding in 1953. FDIC explains that this was because Illinois law at that time (since changed) allowed the state superintendent of banking to close banks for investigation, and FDIC's hands were tied.

The U.S. Savings and Loan

League says no shareholder has been delayed in getting insurance payments.

Both the Home Loan Bank Board, which rides herd on FSLIC, and the National League of Insured Savings Assns. say that — so far — shareholders have never had to wait longer than over a weekend.

The U.S. Savings and Loan League points with pride to speed in the most publicized default, that of the Commonwealth Building & Loan Assn. of Norfolk, Va., in 1953.

Its trouble arose when it found that a big-hearted spinster employee (Minnie Mangum) had embezzled nearly three million dollars over the years to lavish on friends.

On a Friday when the stricken association was still meeting withdrawal requests, the FSLIC moved in, transferred all accounts to another association, so that shareholders were able to get their money on Monday morning if they wished. The League says most didn't withdraw funds.)

But what would, or could, happen if there were a rush of failures — although nothing seems less likely at the moment?

In some states banking supervisors have the power to impose a waiting period before savings accounts (as apart from checking accounts) can be withdrawn. If they did so, many depositors might have to wait.

Shareholders can be required to give 30 days notice of intention to withdraw from savings and loan associations. They haven't had to wait — so far — but they might have to some time.

And it could be possible for a faltering association to number all withdrawal requests and honor them off on a wait-your-turn basis, paying off no more than $1,000 to any shareholder each time around. This could push final payment far into the future.

Both the bank and association insurance agencies insist that long before any of their members got in that bad a fix they would have moved in to protect depositors or shareholders.

Army's Big Playground Site Is Where Nazis Dreamed

By HERB ALTSCHULL

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany (AP) — Cozily nestled here in the scenic grandeur of the Bavarian Alps is a vacation playground operated by the American Army. The Americans call it: "The place in the sun for family fun."

But there are ghosts walking side by side with the thousands of American servicemen and their families who come here each year.

These are the ghosts of Adolf Hitler and his band of followers who dreamed of a thousand-year Reich and murdered millions in a vain attempt to make their mad dream come true.

The Americans don't seem to mind the ghosts. They ski and swim and golf and walk the lonely lanes of Obersalzberg, the hill just outside town where Hitler and his men once reveled in swanky villas.

Not much is left of the Nazi Villas that once dotted the sides of Obersalzberg here in the southeastern corner of Germany not far from the Italian and Austrian borders. The Americans bombed and dynamited them into rubble.

Only foundation stones remain of Hitler's extra-vagant villa Berghof, where the fuhrer met in September 1938 with Neville Chamberlain, Eduard Daladier and Benito Mussolini to draw up the Munich appeasement pact.

The former Hotel Plattershof, built to house Germans coming to pay their respects to Hitler, is the sole old building Obersalzberg. Now it's the Hotel General Walker, one of eight U. S.-operated hotels here.

Also surviving is the Eagle's Nest, the elegant hideaway which literally perches atop the mile-high Mt. Killstein.

The Eagle's Nest was a gift to Hitler from one of his key aides, Martin Bormann, on the fuhrer's 50th birthday, April 20, 1939. It took 3,000 people three years to build and it cost 7 1/2 million dollars.

Hitler visited the Eagle's Nest only five times.

Now it is a tourist attraction. Thousands wander through its halls each year. They take a 4 1/2-mile bus ride up Killstein Mountain and then finish the trip in a 400-foot ride in a brass-lined elevator that grinds its way inside the mountain walls.

Still standing in Berchtesgaden itself is the building that Hitler used as his summer headquarters. Here, according to legend, the campaign against Poland was planned.

From under the building stretch several miles of labyrinthine tunnels connecting the headquarters with the railroad station. The tunnels are now boarded up because of their bad odor.

The building is now headquarters for the U. S. Army Recreation Center. The office once used by Hitler is now the office of Col. John L. Paulrey Jr., Michigan-born commander of the center.

The American Army converted Berchtesgaden and Obersalzberg into a recreation center on April 9, 1946. Since then, 2 1/2 million American servicemen and their families have come here for holidays.

A Berchtesgaden vacation for an American serviceman costs anywhere from one to two dollars a night for a room in one of the swanky hotels. Meals are cheap and there is an unending amount of free entertainment.

All told it costs about $1,200,000 a year to operate the center. About 80 per cent of that sum is raised by the Army locally; the rest comes from money appropriated by Congress.

Any Army, Navy or Air Force man may come here on leave from anywhere in Europe. He must pay his own fare and that of his family.

A special retreat house, operated by the American Army, was once a center for pilots in Goering's Luftwaffe. Now Catholics, Protestants and Jews are invited to separate meditation periods.

Berchtesgaden is by no means limited to Americans. The town abounds with hotels for German and other tourists. Its off-season population of 7,000 jumps to 30,000 during the summer and winter vacation months.

The Germans are not exactly delighted with the American recreation center, but there is no serious ill feelings.

"They don't like Americans too much and they'd just as soon be running the hotels themselves," said one American officer here. "But actually we get along pretty well."

Germans on the street were generally inclined to agree that the two nationalities get along.

"After all," one German said, "when the American hotels are filled up, we get some of the overflow."

CHAPTER 30

"What makes you think you will get away with this?" Mark Travers asked, the gun pointed hard at him.

"I always do," Perrier replied. "But this time Fleur Constant knows where I have gone. She was there when Anet revealed the address."

"She knows me only as Inspector Perrier, not as Timgad. She will think you went with the police. And so you did, on your search for Timgad."

"If they find your body, nobody will suspect me. You were killed trying to prevent Timgad or one of his men from escaping. Very regrettable. And now, my friend, lie down on the floor. I told you once already that it is a pity you didn't take love more seriously."

"Just one more question," said Mark. "Why? Why do you do it? What justifies your actions in your own eyes?"

It was Perrier's turn to look surprised. "But isn't that quite clear? You believe in capitalism, but I see the only solution to the world's problems in communism. And until people all over the world grasp this . . ."

Carried away by his own fanaticism, he lifted both arms in a wide, expansive gesture.

This was the moment for which Mark had been waiting. Like a bull, shoulders hunched, head lowered, he rushed Perrier.

Perrier, off balance, almost fell backward, then caught himself, and, the instant Mark straightened up to throw himself on Perrier, he fired.

The bullet hit Mark's left leg and he pitched forward, face down. The sudden pain, the long hours of the day, the complete physical and mental exhaustion, all combined to render him helpless. Fleur, he thought, and, Dammit, I won't die in vain. And with that, strength seemed to come back to him.

"Don't move," said Perrier, pointing the gun straight at him. The next moment a shot rang out.

Perrier's hand opened helplessly. The gun dropped from it onto the floor. But before Mark could reach it, Perrier had spun around in the direction from which the shot had been fired, and his left hand whipped a pistol from one of his pockets.

Only then was Mark able to see who had come to his help so unexpectedly.

Half-hidden by the curtain, at the French window through which Mark had entered only a little while ago, stood Fleur's brother, Guy Constant.

"I advise you to give up. The house is surrounded," he was saying, when Perrier fired. With immense effort Mark managed to drag himself up from the floor, to lunge at Perrier, then everything went black before his eyes.

When he came to, the sun was shining brightly and for a moment he didn't know where he was. Then, looking about him, he recognized the pink light filtering through the awnings of the loggia, the mirrored ceiling above the bed, the basket of fruit on the writing desk, all of which he had seen before.

before. When?

Starting to move, he found he could do so only with difficulty. His left leg felt strangely heavy. But when he saw the bandage, his head cleared and memory came flooding back.

He was staring at the spot where he had stood, reading the message that warned him of death if he didn't give up his search for Timgad, when the door opened gently.

Fleur tiptoed into the room, then, seeing that he was sitting up, she rushed to him.

"You would wake up when I was out of the room for a minute." Her voice was a mixture of disappointment and relief. "How are you feeling, darling? In spite of the sedative, you kept fighting Timgad all night."

She knelt at his bedside and lifted her face to his. He looked at her for a long time before he put both hands on her cheeks, cupping her face.

"So it was you who saved my life."

"Guy did," Fleur told him. "You had hardly left when he came home. Of course I told him everything. The way we met and what happened later. He thought I had lost my mind, it all sounded so crazy to him. And when I came to Anet, he wouldn't believe any of it."

"You see, he had trusted Anet implicitly. I had forgotten the impact it had made on me when you first suspected Guy, so I was not aware at first how Anet's actions must strike him. I had no idea where he was going when he rushed out of the room. I just ran after him and jumped into the car."

"He was going to the police, of course, to clear himself. But when we got there, they knew nothing. Nothing," she repeated, in a tone of terror, as if she were reliving the moment in which it had dawned on her that Mark had been lured to his death.

"Nothing of the raid to be made on the Villa Mimosa," she continued, "nothing about Timgad, just that Perrier had interrogated a man he suspected of having had something to do with the murder of Corinne Javal, and that Perrier had taken the man with him."

Who would have dared interfere with an Inspector of the Surete? thought Mark. Who would have suspected him? Nobody. How satanically clever the man had been all along. And anger rose in him once more as he thought how he had taken for granted that he could trust Perrier, the sad eyes, the sleepy, understanding voice, the sympathy.

"I think all that mattered to Guy at that moment was that Anet had gone. He had to find him." She shuddered. "He would have killed him if he had had the chance. He insisted that the captain of the police accompany him, with some of his men. They got Anet and the man we noticed at the Casino. To fool you, Perrier had him wear the uniform of a policeman. He nearly escaped."

"And Perrier?" asked Mark. "Timgad?"

"He shot himself," said Fleur. "When he saw it was all over, he shot himself."

Mark lay back and closed his eyes, reliving in a flash the months that had passed since Philippe's death, which had made him set out to find Timgad. And the way it had changed his life. It had been worth while.

Then Fleur's voice again. "I drove with them to the gate — they wouldn't let me come any further — and I heard the shots. And all I could do, sitting there in the car, was pray for you, and for

NEW PICNIC TABLES—Recreation Director Gordon Goodman looks on as workmen remove the top of one of the Department's new cement picnic tables from a truck. Six new tables and seats will be installed at Elm Street Park to replace the wooden ones now in use. According to Goodman, the new tables and seats cost about $25 each and will last indefinitely. He pointed out that this was only about $5.00 more than the cost for constructing wooden ones. Plans are now being made to replace all wooden picnic units in the city with cement ones.

Ailing, Aged Vet Said Gaining

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Confederate veteran Walter Williams "looks pretty good" despite his two-week bout with pneumonia and may pull through, his doctor says.

Williams, 116, last survivor of the Civil War, developed pneumonia June 6. He apparently had recovered but then suffered a relapse. He has been under an oxygen tent most of the time for several days.

"He doesn't talk much because he is so weak," said his daughter.

Jones-Laughlin Plant Shutdown

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A strike by 12,000 production workers brought near capacity operations to a halt late Monday night at the Pittsburgh works of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp.

The plant's big battery of open hearth furnaces had been closed down 24 hours earlier by a labor dispute over incentive pay rates in that department. Picketing by open hearth workers brought production to a standstill.

Officials of J & L, the nation's fourth largest steel producing firm, said the open hearth dispute was a violation of the contract.

John Murray, director of United Steelworkers Dist. 16, charged the company violated the contract by cutting incentive rates without notifying the union.

The big plant, located on both sides of the Monongahela River, had an annual ingot capacity of 2,300,000 tons of steel.

There was no immediate indication of any union-management negotiations to end the dispute. Murray had announced plans to meet with open hearth workers today to discuss their grievances.

The dispute comes at a time when representatives of the nation's basic steel producing industry and international officers of the USW are meeting in New York to work out a new labor contract.

The old contract, negotiated for three years in 1956, expires at midnight June 30. If agreement is not reached by then the union will be free to call a nationwide strike.

There was no indication the J&L dispute was linked with industry negotiations.

D.G. Bell Named To State Board

RALEIGH (AP)—Effective July 1, Rep. D. G. Bell of Morehead City will become a member of the State Board of Conservation and Development, replacing Cecil Morris of Atlantic.

In making the appointment, Gov. Hodges said he would recommend that Bell replace Morris as chairman of the C&D Board's Commercial Fisheries Committee. Morris resigned for health reasons. Bell's appointment is for a six-year term expiring June 30, 1965.

Ed Rankin, Gov. Hodges' secretary, said Monday that because Morris headed a very active committee, Hodges felt he had to fill the vacancy before he left Sunday for Russia.

Two vacancies still exist on the C&D Board. These were created by the death of Robert M. Hanes of Winston-Salem and Leo Harvey of Kinston. Several other members' terms expire July 1.

Bell, a Morehead City merchant, has represented Carteret County the three past sessions in the Legislature.

Passing Of Minimum Wage Law May Be Best-Remembered Of '59 Work

By PHIL CORNER

RALEIGH (AP)—When the historians come to record the achievements of the 1959 General Assembly, they likely will write it down as the Legislature which passed a minimum wage law.

It was, indeed, among the more spectacular enactments of the 4½ month session.

It required reviving an issue which had been sent to the legislative canvas the last six sessions. It required overriding relentless opposition, both on the floor of the House and in the lobbies.

The act, which becomes effective New Year's Day, established a 75 cent wage floor. It will help some 55,000 Tar Heels, most of whom work in retail stores and service industries.

They are the persons alluded to by Labor Commissioner Frank Crane as the state's "forgotten souls."

With its passage, North Carolina became the first Southern state to enact effective minimum wage legislation. Arkansas has a 15 cent wage floor for girls and women and Louisiana has a wage board with no statutory wage floor.

The bill received the endorsement of Gov. Hodges as a means of elevating the state's low per capita income. It was a major part of his legislative program. He promoted it in speeches and news conferences.

A group of Tar Heel merchants, banded together in an outfit called the "Small Business Committee," fought the measure tirelessly in committee hearings and outside legislative halls. Lobbyists for other interests also worked in opposition.

The Assembly became minimum wage conscious at the opening gun. A former foe of such legislation, Cabarrus Rep. Dwight Quinn, introduced a bill on opening day. His measure later was sidetracked in favor of a measure introduced by Reps. Sam Burrow of Randolph, Steve Dole of Gaston and Frank Patterson of Stanly. This was the bill which became the law.

After the bill was scaled down from $1 to 75 cents in the House Manufacturing, Labor and Commerce Committee, foes went to work in an attempt to kill it.

When the showdown committee vote was counted, the score was 16-16. Then Chairman Ed Wilson of Caswell cast what perhaps was the most important single ballot of the Assembly session. He broke the tie in favor of the bill "to get it to the House floor."

There it touched off three days of stormy debate and tense maneuvering. It passed second reading 66-39 and third reading 62-48. Weakened by amendments, it still had enough life to send the lobby forces over to the Senate in another attempt to kill the measure.

The upper House, however, rode it through with almost as much ease as a local bill. After listening to the opposing lobby at a public hearing, the Senate Labor Committee sent it to the floor with a favorable vote. Only one vote in opposition was recorded.

It sailed through the Senate with a maximum of ease and was ratified as the law of the state.

Labor Commissioner Frank Crane, the bill's biggest supporter outside the Legislature, was glad by the action. He felt the measure, regardless of the amendments, still was effective.

It will guarantee increased wages to 34,900 employees in retail trade and 17,400 in service industries.

It will not help farm workers, domestics, newsboys, shoe shine boys, theater workers, outside salesmen on commission, bartenders, time working students, summer camp employees, seafood workers, children under 16 or persons over 65.

It will not apply to establishments employing five or less workers and it will not aid persons receiving tips or gratuities as the principal part of their wages.

These exemptions were included either in the original bill or lapsed during House debate. The Senate did not amend the measure.

Again Will Confer On Firemen Ass'n

A second meeting to consider formation of a Pitt County Firemen's Association will be held here Wednesday at 7:00 p.m.

Roy Hardee, president of the Greenville Volunteer Fire Department, said the meeting will be held at Respass Brothers, and representatives from all of the fire departments now organized in the county are expected to attend.

The Wednesday night meeting is a follow-up on a planning meeting held in Winterville a week ago. At that time, representatives from several departments voted to hold the second organizational meeting. All men present at the Winterville meeting agreed that there is a need for such an association. They expressed a willingness to form the organization which would promote better fire service in all of Pitt County and would work for additional community departments in areas which are now unprotected.

At the Winterville meeting, the representative heard Nash County Fire Marshal Perry O'Berry, who told of the formation of the Nash County Association and of the fire program which is in operation on a county-wide level.

Hunting Rapist In Six Assaults

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A Negro man has raped six women, two of them white, in an eight-block area here during the past four months, police reported Monday night.

It was the first public word on the attacks. Police Chief James C. MacDonald said the assaults had been kept undercover in hopes of trapping the man.

MacDonald said that in each case the rapist attacked in the middle of night while the victim's husband was away.

The area has been under police watch for weeks.

Traffic Jam For Panama Canal

PANAMA (AP)—The biggest peacetime traffic jam in the history of the Panama Canal is holding up ships from 24 to 36 hours, and no immediate letup is in sight. Monday 27 vessels were delayed. Another 24 are expected to be held up today. Officials blamed the congestion on an unprecedented flow of traffic. From June 15-22, a total of 282 ships arrived at the canal.

Hall explained that state corporations have contributed $1,500,000 to buy 4,200 acres of land for a Research Triangle that will touch N.C. State College, the University of North Carolina, and Duke University.

The aim, he said, is to develop a great research center for the Southeast.

Those attending the meeting included Dr. Howard Wilcox, deputy director of research and engineering for the Defense Dept.; Dr. Robert Brode of the National Science Foundation; and Frank Marriott, Jacob M. Roey, and Lloyd Wood of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Probe Purported Blow, Threats

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP)—Authorities here are investigating a report that a job-seeker was hit with a rubber hose and threatened with a knife near the struck Great Lakes Carbon Corp.

Police quoted Woodrow Price, 38, of Morganton, as saying he drove to the plant Monday for an interview. He said that as he left the plant, two cars forced him off the road and a crowd gathered around his car.

He said a man hit across the left cheek with a length of hose and then pressed a knife to his throat.

Meanwhile, James F. Hunt, plant manager, said many new workers were hired Monday. But he declined to say how many.

The company had told the strikers to return to work or be replaced, and began hiring new workers Monday.

About 400 members of Local 427 of the International Chemical Workers Union struck April 30 charging the firm with effecting a work speedup.

The plant has been operating on a limited basis since the start of the strike.

QUICKSAND, Ky. (AP)—A plastic house here is strictly for the birds.

The Robinson Substation built the house for chickens to determine its effect on poultry and egg production.

If the experiment is successful, the economical construction will allow more people to enter the poultry business, the substation reported.

Barely Missed Strikeout Record Over Philadelphia

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron are beginning to look like Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron again for the New York Yankees. But who would ever recognize Bob Turley?

The big right-hander, last year's top pitcher in the majors and the American League's top winner with a 21-7 record, failed to last again Monday night, almost blowing a five-run lead as Mantle and Skowron powered the Yankees to an 11-6 victory at Kansas City.

Mantle drove in six runs with his 16th and 17th homers and a triple. Skowron belted home a pair with his 14th homer. But it was Bobby Shantz, the stubby southpaw, who kept the A's from keeping pace, gaining a 2-2 record with five innings of two-hit, shutout relief.

Turley, who has won but six while losing seven, gave up five consecutive hits and four runs as the A's cut the Yankees' lead to 7-6 in the fifth inning before Shantz hurried in.

It was the only game scheduled in the AL and put the fifth-place champs within three games of first and within a half game of Baltimore and Detroit, tied for third.

In the only National League game scheduled, second place San Francisco beat Pittsburgh 4-1, moving within a single game of idle Milwaukee, and Los Angeles defeated Philadelphia 6-2. Dodger left-hander Sandy Koufax set a major league record for a night game by striking out 16.

Mantle and Skowron drove in five of the first seven Yankee runs. The Mick, who led AL home run hitters in three of the past four seasons, now is within seven of major league leader Harmon Killebrew of Washington (24) after his first two-homer game of the year.

He got his first with the bases empty in the first inning off loser Ray Herbert (4-7). Then, after Skowron's blast in the fourth inning, Mantle chased the A's right-hander with a two-run triple as the Yankees scored four in the fifth. His other home run, with one on, was a shot over the fence in deep right-center off ex-Yankee right-hander Tom Sturdivant in the seventh inning.

That gave Mantle four home runs and 11 RBI in the last seven games, his best spurt of the season. Skowron has done even better. The Moose has hammered four home runs and driven in eight in the last four games for 52 RBI, one shy of AL leader Killebrew.

Mantle has 44 RBI, tying Washington's Jim Lemon for fifth place.

Raleigh Trims Wilson's Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Raleigh's Caps were threatening to overtake Wilson in the Carolina League today after trimming the Tobs' league lead to 1½ games Monday night in the opener of their crucial series.

The two teams battle again tonight in a doubleheader at Winston. Raleigh grabbed a 6-5 decision in 10 innings at Raleigh. A near fight developed among the players and there were some heated disputes with the umpires. A crowd of 1,426 saw Joe Theis score from third with the bases full and none out when a pitch by Ben Rich got away from catcher Pete Peterson. Wilson had tied it up with two runs in the eighth to send the game into the extra inning.

Greensboro rallied for three runs in the ninth to grab a 7-6 victory over Winston-Salem at Greensboro. A bases-loaded single by catcher Bill Johnson with two out was the winning blow. Winston-Salem got 14 hits to Greensboro's 11.

Jerry Webb was the star as Burlington handed Durham a 7-5 defeat at Durham. Webb, a tall first baseman from Rome, Ga., blasted a pair of three-run homers to pace the attack. Durham out-hit Burlington 11-9.

Other games tonight: Greensboro at Winston-Salem and Durham at Burlington.

Buchholz Yarns For 'Pro' Dough

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—

"I want to turn professional. In fact I can hardly wait," said Earl Buchholz today in as blunt a statement as any tennis player has made in years.

Young Buchholz of St. Louis, Mo., whipped third-seeded Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy in the first round of the Wimbledon championship Monday. It was the time when a youngster of 18 usually acts coy and talks about his progress as an amateur.

But not the young American who is in a two and a quarter hour match raised America's sagging tennis fortunes.

"My father is a tennis professional at several St. Louis clubs and I certainly hope someday to be good enough to play professionally," said Earl.

He played almost that well in his 6-4, 3-6, 7-5, 7-5 victory over the Italian star. He played with a serious cramp in his left side and within less than six weeks after an operation. It was by far the top performance of opening day at the 73rd Wimbledon championship.

In two other notable matches the only former Wimbledon winners in the singles took beatings from young, little known opponents—1950 winner Budge Patty of Paris and Los Angeles losing to Jon Douglas, late of the University of Stanford football backfield, and 1954 winner Jaroslav Drobný, the Czech-Egyptian-Londoner, bowing to Alan Mills of England.

Alex Olmedo of Peru, seeded first, and Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, seeded fifth, won easily.

"FREE PLAY" will be held Wednesday morning by the Winterville Recreation Department as announced this morning. All parents are asked to bring their children of the ages 5-6 to the Winterville playground for supervised play and other activities.

Bobby Thomas Has 74 To Qualify For Tourney

GREENSBORO—Bobby Thomas, who should be feeling the effects of his third straight tournament, fired a 74 yesterday in the qualifying round of the Carolina Junior Golf Tournament to place in the championship bracket of the largest field in the history of the tournament.

Bobby had some trouble putting yesterday afternoon but was able to shoot good enough to place in the championship flight while several pre-tournament favorites fell out of the running in the qualifying round.

Chappy Bradner, veteran of only one year of golf experience, was able to shoot a 69 and remain in a lower flight of the tournament. Thomas opened his bid for the crown today, taking on medalist Doug Rangeley of Salisbury in the opening round. It was a hard opener for the Greenville native but a victory would give him an easier road ahead.

GREENSBORO (AP)—A 4-under-par 67 scored last week by Doug Rangeley held up through Monday's final qualifying round of the Carolina Junior Golf Tournament, and the Salisbury boy leads the field into match play today.

When the last of the 324 entrants had completed their qualifying rounds Monday, four, including Rangeley, had broken par, and one shot a par 71.

The cutoff point for the championship flight of 32 was 75. Absent from the championship flight were Archie Clark Jr. of Fayetteville, who was beaten by Larry Beck of Kingston in the final last year; Bill Moser of Salisbury, who placed second in the CGA Junior two weeks ago, and Donnie Hedrick of Lexington, the 1958 CGA Junior champ.

Clark and Moser shot 77s, and Hedrick had a 76. A stroke behind medalist Rangeley was Reid Tull of Salisbury at 68. The other par busters were Pat Harman of Burlington with a 69, and Sammy Estridge of Badin with a 70.

Jerry Thomas of Burlington shot a par 71.

Ted Williams To Play Tonight

DETROIT (AP)—Ted Williams returns to left field for the Boston Red Sox tonight ready to go again he believes, after the first benching of his major league career.

The 40-year-old outfielder has been out of Boston's starting line up since June 14 when Manager Mike Higgins sat him down after his average dipped to .189. Higgins said Williams would start against Detroit tonight regardless of whether a right-hander or left-hander pitched for the Tigers.

"I still see the ball well," Williams said today, "but my timing has been terrible. I've been way too eager instead of waiting on the pitch. There's been something else bothering my hitting but I'm not talking about it. But at least I found out what it was and now I hope to get going."

Standings Dairymen Topple Graniteers 10-6 After 17 Innings

The second half of the Industrial Softball League got underway last night and if the results of last night's game are any indications of the closeness of the race, the league scorekeepers are in for a rugged summer.

Two games were in slate for last night but only one was completed as Carolina Dairy and the Graniteers battled it out for 17 innings before the Dairy finally rallied for a 10-6 victory.

The two teams had been scoreless since the seventh inning when the Dairy pushed across the tying runs.

Doug Morgan led off the top of the 17th by securing a walk and eventually scored the winning run. Jerry Warren had a single and a throwing error allowed Morgan to score and Warren went to second.

Brownie Tripp drove out a run-scoring single and then Bob Dash and Earl Tripp had a couple of doubles to drive in two more runs.

The Graniteers were able to gather their offensive attack only in the sixth inning as they scored all their runs.

Dixie Hobgood led off with a double, Mac Roebuck had a two-bagger and Ike Riddick blasted a homer to feature the six-run rally.

Carolina Dairy moved out front on the strength of homers by Bob Moore and Brownie Tripp.

Moore, the hitting star of the evening, had a homer in the fifth and was robbed of another over-the-fence blast by a desperation catch.

Tom Boyd's long fly tied the game up in the seventh as Mitchell White scored from third. White had led off with a double and advanced to third on a wild pitch.

Jerry Warren and Howard Outland did the pitching for the winners with the latter getting credit for the victory.

Jessel Curry went the distance for the Graniteers and struck out 18 in the extra inning affair.

The Graniteers, shifting the lineup frequently, blew the game in the sixth when poor base running cost them what would have been the winning run.

Coffman's Men's Wear and Quality Oil started their game but at the end of the regulation seven innings were all tied up, 7-7, and the game was called. It will be completed Wednesday.

THE STORY of a TEEN-AGE GANG

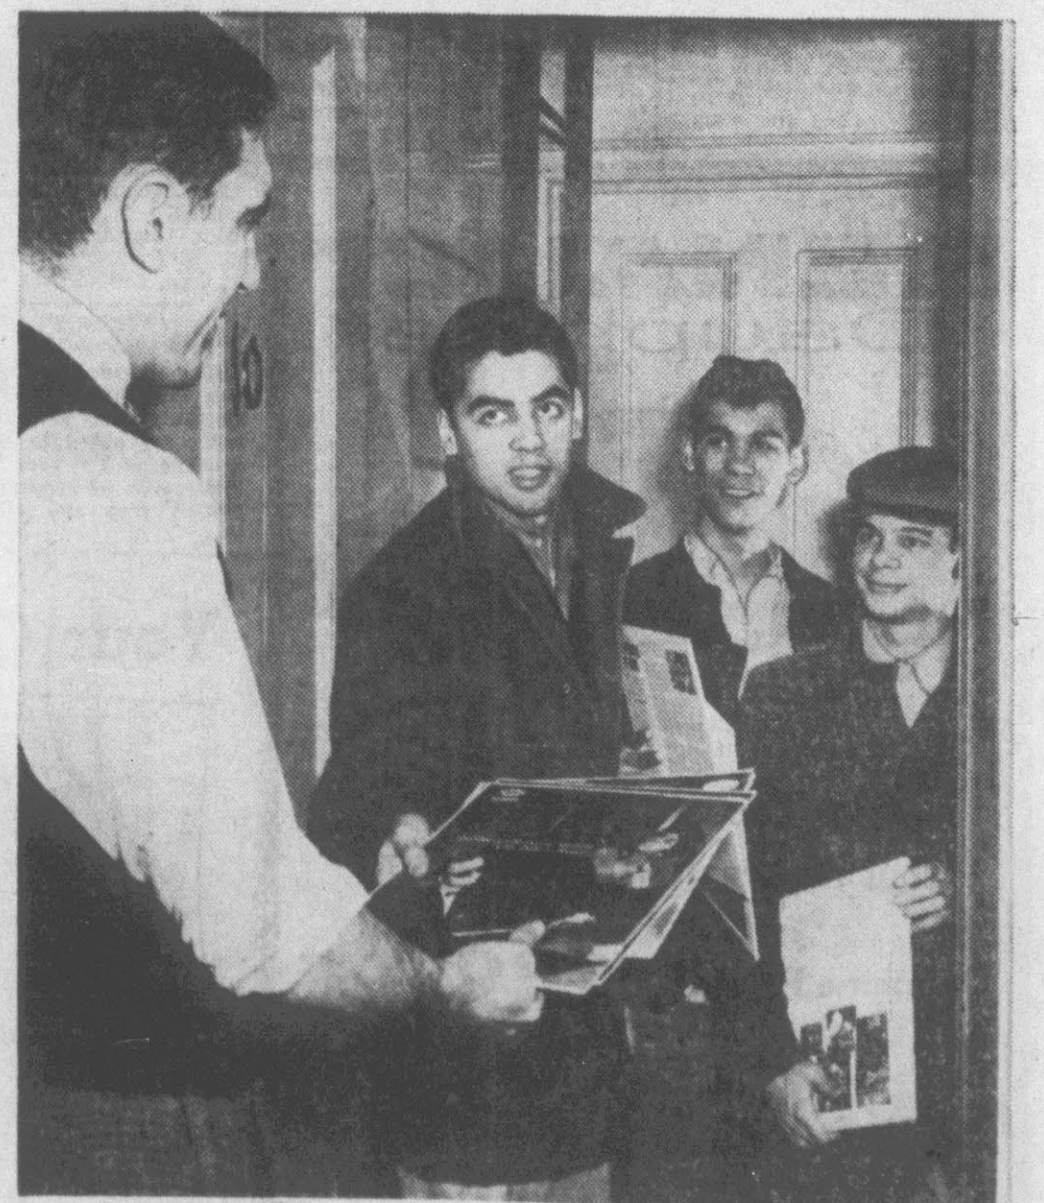

A New York City teen-age gang, now known as the "Social Lions," were once as tough as you could make them.

Like other fighting gangs that plague the public, the Lions vandalized, stole, and were picked up by the police many times. Their "rumbles"—fights with other gangs—terrorized the neighborhood.

Things have since changed. The gang members have not been entirely reformed—but apparently they're on the way. An eleven-year-old municipal government organization, known as the New York City Youth Board, charged with preventing and controlling juvenile delinquency, is helping.

A trained Youth Board worker, Tony Todaro, gained their confidence. That in itself was a feat with these hard-boiled, cynical youngsters. "I am here to help you," said Tony when he first met them. When they got into trouble, he got them legal aid. He helped them get jobs. At school, he would have talks with the principal or teachers. He would help to straighten them out at home with their families. To help their families, he would seek assistance from the Department of Welfare or the Housing Authority. He would take them on hikes and trips, and plan weekend outings. It took him six months, but he won out. The gang became a social club.

With the permission and cooperation of the Youth Board, the youngsters re-enact here their gang activities of the past—and are pictured here with the Youth Board worker at their meeting place and on their trips.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

It seems odd — until you stop to think about it — that there are hundreds of thousands of American families who have bought houses but never sold any.

There are certain things the first-time seller of a house should know. He should know, of instance, that it is important to decide, even before the house goes on the market, exactly what is and what is not being sold. Any item attached to the house or property that is not readily portable is considered a part of the sale unless a special provision is made exempting it. But there are many other things that may or may not be included in the sale, among them air conditioners, window exhaust fans, electric heaters, laundry equipment, refrigerators, carpeting and so on.

List Items Included
It is wise to make out a complete list of items that are to be included in the sale. To show the list to the prospective purchaser and to include it in the contract. Disagreements over comparatively minor matters have held up the closings of many sales.

Real estate dealers usually charge a fee of 5 per cent of the sales price of the property. For this, they pay for advertising the property, for the expense of taking prospective buyers to view it, and for advice about all matters connected with the sale. This last could very well be the most important part of a dealer's function, since his knowledge of real estate law sometimes can save you a lot of trouble before the transaction is completed.

There are three ways you can sell your house with an existing mortgage on it: (1) Have the buyer get a new mortgage to replace the old one; (2) have the buyer purchase the house "subject to" the mortgage; (3) have the buyer purchase the house and "assume" the mortgage.

One Method Recommended
Under today's conditions, the savings and mortgage experts of the American Bankers Assn., recommend the first method. Then there are no contingent liabilities hanging over the sale. If a buyer purchased a house "subject to" a mortgage, what he would really be seeking would be to have a mortgage executed in his name at the same interest rate you were paying. If your mortgage is at a rate lower than the present market rate, it is unlikely that any lender would enter into such a deal.

In the third case, where the buyer would "assume" a mortgage, you might be dealing with a relative or close friend who had only a small amount of cash. He would give you a note and sales contract for the difference between the mortgage and the sales price agreed upon. In this event, the buyer would not sign any notes at the bank. The title to the property would remain in your name until the first mortgage held by the bank was paid off. Then a first mortgage would be executed for the amount of the sales contract, which the buyer would repay to you on agreed terms. In such an arrangement, the seller is accepting a contingent liability, because he is still responsible for the mortgage. If the bank were forced to foreclose on the property and sold it for less than the unpaid amount of the mortgage, the seller would be responsible for a deficit judgment.

Near-1,000 Are Registered For Playground-Use

Almost 1,000 boys and girls are registered with the Greenville Recreation Department for the department's summer playground program. Gordon Goodman, Recreation Director announced today. According to Goodman, 854 youngsters were registered during the first week of operation of the city playgrounds. Approximately 200 of the children are listed on the small fry baseball lineups.

The theme for this week is Nature Week. Each week the theme is changed to provide variety and hold the interest of the youngsters.

Queen's Canadian Tour Beginning To Warm Up

QUEBEC (AP)—After a slow start, Queen Elizabeth's tour of Canada is beginning to assume the proportions of a major success.

The crowds are growing. There are more and more spontaneous signs of affection and enthusiasm as the Queen and Prince Philip sail up the St. Lawrence River aboard the royal yacht Britannia toward Canada's big cities.

Ancient Quebec, the only walled city in North America, is blazing with flags and decorations. The people are tingling with excitement over the possibility of catching a glimpse of the Queen wearing a diamond tiara and a regal gown for the state dinner the provincial government of Quebec is giving tonight.

But that's pageantry. Perhaps more significant indications are two thousand workmen in an aluminum factory at Arvida waiting after hours, clapping and cheering, as the Queen and her husband walk through the plant. Virtually entire populations of small towns and cities in the northern part of Quebec province — Bagotville, Chicoutimi, Arvida — standing hours in pelting rain to see the couple pass.

A housewife rushing to bring her washing from the clothesline as rain starts to fall, then forgetting it as police sirens signal the Queen's approach.

Members of the Queen's party are frankly relieved. They had been worried by what looked almost like apathy in the first days of the six-week royal tour of Canada.

For both Britain and Canada this trip has specific objectives. The Queen's purpose is to cement Commonwealth relations, firming up ties between Canada and Britain. The Canadians are using the tour to publicize their great industrial expansion.

Royalty Does Have Its Style Problems, Says U. S. Designer

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—American dress designer Don Loper said today that Queen Elizabeth II is a well-dressed woman but dresses too much her age.

"It's probably not her fault," he added. "It's the fault of those who dress her. Why, at times, she looks 33."

A reporter said that Her Majesty was 33.

"That's my point," he snapped. "Asked about Princess Margaret's clothes, Loper replied: 'The princess is not an easy one to dress, this is because of her size.'"

Margaret is short with plenty of curves. Loper said he had deep sympathy for the royal ladies and their clothes.

"Everyone's looking at them all the time and they look with a critical eye."

"They're on (on stage) from the minute they wake until they go to bed. And don't forget—because of their great activities—standing around at ceremonies and walking through factories and such—they've got to be comfortable, too."

Here with four Hollywood models and what he claimed was a million dollars worth of dress, Loper has been invited to put on a show for tonight's glittering Anglo-American Ball.

Somebody asked how he thought

Princess Grace Kelly of Monaco looks in her clothes.

"Her Serene Highness looks dreadful now that those Paris dressmakers have got at her," he said.

"I used to make her look like a princess—now she looks like just plain Grace Kelly."

Asked if he didn't like French and Italian dressmakers, Loper snorted: "Some of them are just a bunch of juvenile delinquents. It's taken one certain young Frenchman several years to learn that a woman's bosom is in front."

Brings Chauffeur And Cook To Style-Showing

By DOROTHY ROE

The models twirl with practiced ease in the showroom.

A hundred buyers scan each new fall costume, make small notations.

Members of the metropolitan fashion press eye the clothes for photographic possibilities.

A tiny figure in a modish suit and a white organdy hat at the microphone says:

"This is the way a woman wants to look this fall. Smooth, correct, well put-together, all-of-a-piece. The look of dignity and pride of possession."

Slender suits of supple fabrics, trimmed in precious furs, parade by. Beautiful costumes to see a woman through any occasion. Glittering theater and dinner outfits. Then comes the applause. The small designer is hidden in the rush of buyers and press eager to offer congratulations.

Adele Simpson accepts the plaudits like a prima donna after a triumphant opening. Then she hurries across the salon to grasp the hand of a large and well-scrubbed lady wearing a severe black hat and a plain dark coat.

"How did you like it, Jenny?" asks the designer anxiously.

"Very nice, mum," says the lady.

"You do understand what goes on here now, don't you?" continues Mrs. Simpson. "You do see why I can't always get home to dinner on time, and why I sometimes don't have time for breakfast?"

"I begin to see," admits the lady, breaking into a broad smile. "Now don't you worry, mum. I'll keep dinner hot for you."

The designer seeks out a thin young man standing near the door.

"Did you see it, Edward? Did you like it?" she asks.

"Yes, madam. And very interesting it was, too. Different from London. Much more efficient, I'd say."

In her office, the designer drops into a chair and confides:

"That was my cook, Jenny Lind, from Norway. The man was my chauffeur. He's been here only two weeks."

"I invited both to the showing, so they could see why I can't always be on time."

"Both are treasures — real treasures. I couldn't bear to lose them."

"But now you see what a busy woman has to do to keep her help."

Bandit's Widow Wants Insurance

RALEIGH (AP) — The widow of an accused bank robber, who died at the climax of a chase with officers, has filed suit to collect under a life insurance policy.

The suit was brought in Wake Superior Court Monday by Mrs. Janet D. Bradford of Raleigh against Occidental Life Insurance Co. She asked $9,556 for the death of Charles T. Bradford last April 6, contending he was insured under a policy with the company.

Bradford was charged with the robbery of a Ft. Bragg branch bank and the slaying of a teller. He escaped from jail at Fayetteville, and died of gunshot wounds as officers sought to recapture him.

Tom Ruffin, attorney for Mrs. Bradford, said the insurance company has taken the position that it will pay only the amount of the premiums paid under the policy, since death was by "self-destruction."

Ruffin said he contends that Bradford, already wounded, died when his gun accidentally discharged in a scuffle with officers, and that the death was not suicide.

Underwood outlined briefly activities at the convention which was attended by some 16,000 Rotarians from all over the world. Underwood described the convention as "a big Rotary Club meeting."

Also at last night's meeting three new members were inducted by Past District Governor James W. Butler. New members inducted were Roger Mann, Robert L. Holt, and Lt. Walter Norris.

Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, also was interested in aviation. He called it "mechanical flight."

Superman's Death To Be Probed

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Did television's Superman, George Reeves, really die by his own hand? Why did he leave the bulk of his estate to the wife of a high-ranking film executive? His mother hired a famous criminal lawyer to probe the suicide question Monday. Probate of Reeves will disclosed, meanwhile, that his fiancée wasn't left a penny. "There must be another will," she said.

The will filed with Superior Court leaves the bulk of Reeves' estate to Toni Mannix. Her husband, Eddie J. Mannix, is vice president of Loew's Inc., former general manager of MGM Studio and now an adviser there.

In Galesburg, Ill., Reeves' mother said she doesn't believe he killed himself. She has hired famed Hollywood attorney Jerry Giesler to investigate.

"It's not like my George to do a thing like that," said Helen Lescher Bessolo of Galesburg.

The 45-year-old portrayer of incredible feats on television shot and killed himself early last Tuesday, police said, shortly after saying good night to two house guests.

They were his fiancée, Lenore Lemmon, 35, and a writer Robert Condon, 45, both of New York, who said Reeves was depressed because he could find no roles other than as Superman.

The petition for probate, filed with the will in Superior Court at nearby Santa Monica, listed the value of the estate in excess of $25,000.

It left nothing to Miss Lemmon, a New York cafe society figure, who said she and Reeves had planned to marry in Mexico last Friday.

Arthur Weissman, executor of the will and Reeves' personal manager, said the actor had been a close friend of the Mannixes for many years.

He said Mrs. Mannix will receive Reeves' home and car and the money in his bank account.

Weissman said Miss Lemmon insisted Reeves left another will naming her a beneficiary but that no such testament has been found.

Most of the rest of Reeves' estate will go to his mother, Weissman said.

Giesler said he thinks the actor's house was heavily mortgaged and that the estate will amount to something between $25,000 and $40,000.

Reeves' mother said "I had talked to him the previous Saturday night by phone and he was in his usual happy mood."

"I want to know who the people are who were in the house at the time it happened and where he got the gun."

Giesler said Mrs. Bessolo is expected to arrive here within a day or so. He said they had talked two or three times by telephone and "she is suspicious of certain circumstances."

Giesler said he had information that $5,000 was taken from Reeves' home either before or after the coroner's seal was put on the door.

Girl Staters To Hear Speakers

GREENSBORO (AP) — Delegates to Girls' State were to hear an address today on the functions of political parties, and a discussion by a state official of the duties of state executive agencies.

Dr. Richard Bardolph, professor of history at Woman's College, was to speak on political parties. Paul Johnson, director of the state's Department of Administration, was to outline the functions of governmental agencies.

A total of 310 high school girls are here for the annual session of Girls' State, in which mock governments are organized to train the delegates in government and practical politics.

Believes Equal Racial Justice May Be Result

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—A Negro leader believes that decisions in the Tallahassee and Marianna rape cases will have a wide effect on racial justice in Southern courtrooms.

The Rev. David H. Brooks commented on life sentences handed out here to four white youths for raping a Negro coed and to a 16-year-old Negro at Marianna for raping a white woman.

The sentences were imposed two hours apart Monday in cases which have attracted wide attention. Marianna is 60 miles west of Tallahassee.

Brooks, who is an Episcopal church pastor and president of the Tallahassee chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, said that on the basis of these actions, Florida has taken the lead in the South "in efforts to erase the double standard of justice."

Circuit Judge W. May Walker, who sentenced the four white youths to serve life terms, said he saw nothing unusual in his actions.

"In the past six months I have sentenced two Negroes to life imprisonment for rape," he said.
"There are no racial distinctions in crime."

The Tallahassee youths were convicted June 14 by a jury which recommended mercy and thereby saved them from a death sentence.

Only one of the four is considering an appeal—Willion Collins-worth, 23.

The three others are Patrick
Scarborough, 20, David Erwin
Beagles, 18, and Ollie Stoutamire, 16.

At Marianna, Jimmie Lee Clark who had been doomed to the electric chair by a jury verdict of guilty without a leniency recommendation, escaped with a life sentence.

Granted a new trial, Clark pleaded guilty and was sentenced to life imprisonment. He had been convicted for rape of a 68-year-old white woman.

Starkweather Is Still Hopeful

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Mass
killer Charles Starkweather is still hopeful he will get a review of his case in the courts.

The 20-year-old killer was convicted in the slaying of Robert Jensen, 17, Bennett, Neb. Jensen was one of 11 persons Starkweather has admitted slaying.

Starkweather contends he did not have a fair trial in that he was not properly represented by his two court-appointed attorneys.
He asked the U. S. Supreme Court to grant a review of the case. The court denied the application without comment Monday.

Told of the decision, Starkweather said only that he still had hope. He returned to his oil painting of a snow scene.

Albert J. Ahern Jr., one of the two Washington attorneys who filed the Supreme Court application, said he will ask the court to modify its order to state that its denial was without prejudice to renewal of the constitutional issues in the Nebraska state courts.

Nebraska Atty. General C. S.
Beck said that when he gets a copy of the order he will ask the state Supreme Court to set an execution date. It will be the fifth death date for Starkweather.

Carl Ann Fugate, 16, was convicted and sentenced to life as an accomplice of Starkweather in the Jensen slaying. She, too, is appealing and now has applications before the state Supreme Court for a new trial.

Actress Is Badly Bitten By Dog

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)
—Actress Elaine Stewart, 26, was badly bitten on the jaw by a dog in the home of a friend Friday night, she has disclosed.

The attack occurred while she was watching television, she said
Monday night.

What the injury will do to the motion picture and TV career of the beautiful actress is undetermined.

"It depends on what happens when the bandages come off," she said in Doctor's Hospital, Beverly Hills. "They tell me doctors can do wonderful things now."

Her doctors were not available for comment.

Chimp Is Poor Zoo Attendant

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — A self-appointed attendant—a chimpanzee—caused regular zoo attendants some concern when he began releasing birds and animals at Washington Park Zoo.

Oswald broke out of his cage
Monday and scampered around the zoo, releasing animals and scattering bottles and other containers.

The chimp also released a bobcat in a cage of foxes.

The bobcat came out on the short end of the scrap and suffered a mangled leg.

Bob Shipp, City Director of Recreation, said Oswald may have been showing off for Amy, the female chimp who boards in the cage next to him.

First, The Girls Want Security

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — What do today's young women want in a husband?

"Men who will stay at home, help with the children and go on picnics," says Margaret Mead, anthropologist and author.

"The young women of today feel it's all right for a man to starve himself for art or to pursue some hazardous undertaking, but it's not all right for him to starve his wife and children."

"Wives don't want husbands so interested in a job that they play second fiddle to work."

Miss Mead, author of "And Keep Your Powder Dry" and other books, is a staff member of the Menninger Clinic and Foundation at Topeka, Kan. She visited Columbia as a consultant in the planning of a $2,500,000 construction project at Stephens College.

"Girls marry boys who will take the safe, easy job with tenure and fringe benefits," she says. "In the world we will have to face for another 50 years, that's not enough."

"It doesn't leave room for people to make exciting advances in science, art or exploration."

Miss Mead says a young woman's choice of a husband is influenced by her education. She says the younger generation's addiction to security can be attributed to their parents, who found precious little of it during the depression and World War II.

Actress Dorothy Dandridge Is Wed

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Dorothy Dandridge, 36, and night club owner Jack Denison, 46, are off on a New York honeymoon.

They were married Monday at the Greek Orthodox Cathedral of St. Sophia. It was the second marriage for each.

In New York, the Negro actress and Denison, a Caucasian, plan to attend the premiere Wednesday of "Porgy and Bess," a musical in which Miss Dandridge stars.

Problem Pupils Just Like He Used To Be

By MARK SHEEHAN

NEW YORK (AP) — The arts of handling troublesome children is the art of remembering how you felt when you were a child.

That's the philosophy of John H. Tully, and it works.

In 47 years as a teacher, 33 of them as principal of Public School 68 in the Bronx, he has had remarkable success with problem children. His formula is simple.

"It takes a bad boy to straighten out a bad boy, and I was a bad boy at school," he said Monday.

"I know all their ways and tricks because I tried them myself when I was young."

As a principal, he has had plenty of opportunity to test his ideas, and he never had to get tough. He believes in being firm, but he has never used corporal punishment. He says "no child is really bad or vicious if handled properly."

Tully's secret lies in what he means by handling children properly. It means liking them — enough not to miss a single day at school in 33 years as principal, enough to spend weekends walking around the neighborhood seeing that his pupils stay out of trouble, and even taking them home with him when they do get in trouble.

It also means finding time to work with a half dozen community youth groups — which, with his school work, has brought him as many awards from different organizations.

The gray-haired widower, who will be 70 next month when he retires, received an unusual award Monday — the Insignia Medal of Fordham University, for "extraordinary distinction in the service of God through excellent professional performance."

With it came a compliment from Fordham's president, the Very Rev. Laurence J. McGinley, S.J., who said of Tully that "in his long years of service he never thought of children as statistics."

Retirement holds no gloom for Tully. He smiled as he said it will give him more time to work with youth groups. After all, he grinned, "I'm still a boy myself."

Find 7 Dead In Resort Hotel Fire

STALHEIM, Norway (AP) — Fire raged before dawn today through the Stalheim resort hotel in which 130 Americans were staying. Seven bodies were found and six or seven persons were missing some hours after the blaze, a police spokesman said.

About 35 persons were injured, either by the flames or by jumping from hotel windows.

The police spokesman said the missing persons may not have perished in the flames.

"The guests are now spread over a huge area," he said. "The situation is confused. It may take some time to clear it up."

Other guests in the hotel included 12 British, 4 Swedes and some Norwegians.

The 99-room hotel was reduced to ashes in two hours although all nearby communities sent firemen to help against the flames.

The seven dead were not immediately identified. They were believed to have been guests since hotel employees live in another building. One woman burned to death in her room. At least one patron perished jumping from a window, police said.

The fire was discovered at about 2 a.m. by Harris Caldwell of Georgia.

"I woke because of roaring and snapping sounds," he said. "I ran out and saw the hotel burning."

"I ran down the corridor and screamed all I could, and continued down to the lobby where one of the hotel employees came running and helped to set the fire alarm working."

Witnesses said the blaze apparently began in one of the rooms. When it was over, only a concrete wing remained standing.

Mrs. B. Marver of Los Angeles was among the Americans injured.

Candidate Didn't Reach Them All

GADSDEN, Ala. (AP) — When he successfully ran for the sheriff's office, Dewey Colvard worked hard at making himself known to the voters. He made numerous speeches, had posters printed with his picture on them, and shook hands with every voter he saw.

But now he is wondering whether he's as well known as he thought.

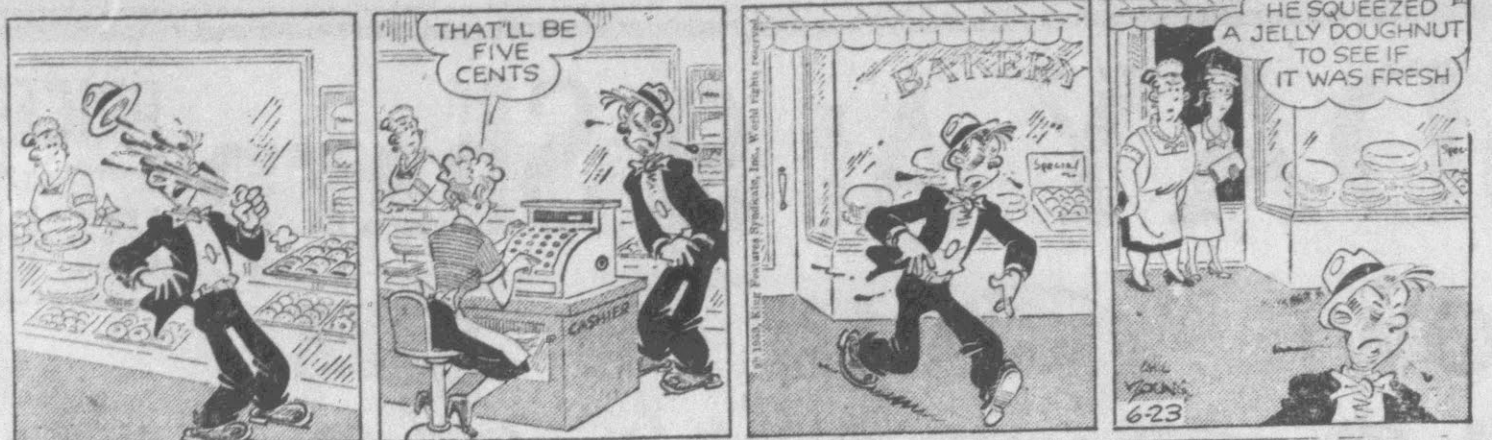

He walked into a hotel here, the seat of a dry county, and bought two pints of bootleg whiskey unrecognized.

Time For Change In Youth's Luck

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Roy Holmes Jr., 17-year-old Phoenix grocery clerk, thinks it is about time his luck changed.

A few months ago he cut his left hand with a razor blade. A short time later he fell while skating and broke a wrist. Then he slipped on some grease and broke his right foot.

Holmes was hunting near Phoenix recently and accidentally shot himself in the right foot.

New Effort To Revise Farm Programs Slated

By MARGARET KERNODLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new effort to revise general farm programs at this session of Congress will be made by the House Agriculture Committee.

Chairman Harold D. Cooley (D-N.C.) said today the committee will open hearings next Monday in an effort to reach agreement on new farm legislation.

"It is the objective of the majority of the committee to develop agricultural policies fair to farmers and consumers alike," Cooley said. "No other approach to the problems of farmers can be successful."

He gave no indication what changes in farm laws might be recommended by the committee, or even specific matters it plans to consider.

"There is now a condition of virtual paralysis in the development of public policies to deal with the mounting distress in agriculture," Cooley said. "Those who oppose programs for economic stability in agriculture have succeeded in pitting farm organization against farm organization, region against region, and crop against crop, and they have prejudiced many city people against farmers generally."

"Furthermore, Congress works constantly in the shadow of the veto power of the President, where the interests of farmers are concerned. The administration favors the withdrawal of government responsibility in the stability of the agricultural economy."

President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson long have advocated fewer governmental restrictions on farmers along with lower levels of government price supports.

Only in that way, they contend, can overproduction be cut down and farm output be based on actual market conditions. But many legislators from farm states contend this would drop prices sharply and force many farmers off the land.

Cooley said that experience gives little encouragement to hope of passing general farm legislation which Eisenhower would sign, but added:

"I am hopeful that the hearings will develop the background and the unity of direction which will result in the passage of a bill to stabilize the farm economy and to strengthen the family unit system of production in agriculture."

Faces Trial For 'Prank' Shooting

RALEIGH (AP) — A white man, Roger Williams, 38, faces trial in Wake Superior Court on a manslaughter charge in the shooting of a Negro friend, Williams was indicted Monday by the grand jury.

At a hearing last week, Justice of the Peace W. E. Daniels found no probable cause in the charge against Williams, who is from Wake Forest, and ordered him released. Williams told Daniels he was "just pranking" when he fired a rifle at the fleeing man, William Person, 20.

Solicitor Lester V. Chalmers presented the case to the grand jury which returned a true bill to the manslaughter charge.

NEW YORK (AP) — Aluminum resumed their rally as the stock market continued mixed in fairly slow trading early this afternoon. Gains and losses of most key stocks went from fractions to about a point. The aluminum shares showed some early hesitancy as profits were taken on their advance of Monday. Then they gathered renewed strength and made sizable gains.

Aluminum Ltd., Monday's most active stock, continued heavily traded, apparently on news of its joint venture with Chrysler. Aluminum was up a fraction while bigger strides were made by others in the group, apparently on hopes of greater use of aluminum by the auto manufacturers.

Reynolds Metals rose more than 3/4, and Alcoa about 2. Kaiser Aluminum added a fraction. Goodyear was about 2 points ahead and Goodrich more than a point. Texaco dropped a point or more and Superior Oil of California lost around 3/4 as profits were taken on the recent advance of both stocks which have been spurred by the merger proposal. Allied Chemical advanced about 2. Losses were shown by Boeing and Douglas. Also lower were General Dynamics, American Tobacco and Phelps Dodge. U. S. government bonds were unchanged to easier.

Military Threaten To Depose Frondizi

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentina's government crisis appeared near a climax today as a move grew among military leaders to oust President Arturo Frondizi despite his Cabinet's resignation.

Tension was heightened by Frondizi's refusal to accept the resignations of his three armed services secretaries, chief targets of the rebellious officers.

Open threats were voiced against Frondizi's regime by his military opponents. They reportedly feel they are strong enough to force out the embattled president unless he meets their demands for sweeping changes in his government and policies.

Leaders of the clique talked openly of installing a military junta to replace the president, a landslide victor 16 months ago in Argentina's first free election in more than a decade.

Striving to cope with the darkening crisis, Frondizi told Interior Minister Alfredo Vitolo, long an administration spokesman, to meet leaders of Argentina's political parties today to sound them out on the situation. This aroused speculation Frondizi was considering forming a coalition government.

Vitolo told newsmen the mass Cabinet resignation Monday indicated changes in the government's policies. He did not say what the changes would be, but observers believed they might have come too late to appease the aroused military.

Many of the military opponents of Frondizi's administration had key roles in the revolution which toppled dictator Juan Peron four years ago.

They have accused Frondizi's administration of failing to fulfill its election promises and of permitting Peron supporters, leftists and some Communists to infiltrate the government. They also contend the president has not acted firmly enough to solve the nation's many problems.

The president has bowed to military pressure before, replacing a foreign minister and three Cabinet secretaries. But the military feels he has not gone far enough.

The current crisis developed after the publication last week of a purported pre-election agreement between Peron and one of Frondizi's closest advisers. The president denied any such agreement, but a group of retired military leaders tried to raise a revolt against him.

That attempt failed and the leaders were arrested or went into hiding. Dismissal of Undersecretary of War Manuel Raimundo appeared to ease the crisis, but it flared up again Monday as dissent officers gathered support.
