Emergency Measures Are Quickly Applied When Pitt Hospital Power Fails

UTILITIES CREWS AT WORK ON HOSPITAL POWER LINES . . . 100-degree heat makes hot job.

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

Nobody knows why the hospital's main power lines went dead on the hottest day of the year. But they did.

And when they did, hospital routine, amazingly dependent on electricity, was badly crippled.

Lights throughout the building went out, portions of the building which are airconditioned became stifling hot and patients who had depended on electric fans to combat the day's 100-degree heat found the air still.

But those problems were minor compared to real emergencies caused by the three and a half hour interruption in electrical service.

An oxygen tent ceased pumping the vital gas to a patient who badly needed it when the power failed. An isolette containing a premature baby stopped its work. Elevators needed for transporting patients to upstairs rooms no longer moved.

Within minutes after Greenville Utilities received a call for assistance on the electrical problem, which occurred in lines owned by the hospital, several Utilities trucks rolled into the front drive.

The line crews were soon joined by higher officials of the commission including Superintendent Leonard Bloxam and Assistant Superintendent A.B. Goodson.

The officials frowned as they studied the problem. Only recently the Utilities Commission had vetoed the idea of placing additional transformer capacity in the underground vault room because they did not consider it an ideal installation.

Instead the commission agreed to install an entirely new transformer station above ground behind the hospital to be served by overhead lines. That installation is not to be made until work on a new section of the building is well underway, however.

Portable Generators
As the electrical crews worked, members of the Greenville Rescue Squad pulled up behind the building. They quickly unloaded three portable generators, 2,500 1,500 and 1,000 watt units.

Soon lines were run to the isolette on the main floor of the building. The 1,000-watt came to life when the starter rope was pulled and the isolette went faithfully back to work.

Other electrical lines were run to second, third and fourth floors of the building. Power from the other two portable units soon brought the oxygen tent back in operation. They also furnished lights on each floor.

In the meantime, the hospital electrician and workmen called from local firm were attempting to start the hospital's emergency power generator which had failed to operate.

The generator was finally started and it furnished power for the hall lights, operating rooms and delivery room.

Sickness Goes On
Sickness doesn't end when the electricity fails and as the rescue men rigged up the power generators outside the hospital, an ambulance rolled up to the emergency room door. The attendant had an oxygen mask clamped over the face of the patient who was obviously in critical condition. He had suffered a heart attack.

Since no rooms were available on first floor, the patient had to be taken to second. So the rescue squad and others were called to carry the patient on the stretcher up the stairs.

A short time later another patient was brought in to the darkened halls of the hospital. A pregnant woman was led by her husband up stairs to the delivery room to begin her labor.

The doctor cornered Rescue Squad Captain Roy Hardee. There were no lights in the delivery room, the physician said. So rescue squad members gathered all their battery powered hand lights and placed them in the delivery room. The lights were not needed, however. The hospital's emergency generator was put into service shortly thereafter.

Then another patient arrived. This one, a man who was unconscious. He had to go to the fourth floor a nurse told rescue squad members.

The sweating rescuers sighed, but they lifted the stretcher and made their way up four flights of stairs to deliver the patient to his room.

Blood Supply Endangered
Other problems arose to be coped with. A nurse called to Hospital Administrator C.D. Ward to remind him that the blood supply kept under refrigeration was in danger of spoiling. The alarm which sounds to warn when the blood is in danger had not gone off, however. Another line was strung to put the refrigerator back in operation.

In the meantime Mayo Allen of National Guard Battery A arrived with a 5,000 watt generator which furnished power for additional parts of the building.

As night fell, the Greenville Utilities crews had learned that one of the four underground lines was shorted out. By switching wires and stringing a new ground line above ground they eliminated the trouble.

Lights came on again in Pitt Memorial Hospital at 8 o'clock—three and a half hours after power failure.

But the hour-to-hour dramas which take place in a hospital had gone on schedule.

The heart patient on second floor died before the lights ever came on. The woman in the delivery room gave birth to a healthy eight and a half pound boy.

One of the Rescue Squad members suggested the parents should name the youngster "Rescue".

Hodges Invites Soviet Industry

LENINGRAD (AP) — Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina, who is touring Russia with eight other American governors, has invited a group of Russians to become capitalists.

In meetings with a group of economic experts Monday, Hodges invited them to North Carolina to build a surgical instruments plant. He said he was sure they could make money on such a venture, even at the wage rates in his state.

The Russians smiled. Then they said the invitation would have to go through the proper channels.

The nine governors talked shop with local government officials, including Nikolai Ivanovich Smirnov, chairman of the Leningrad Regional Council.

The Russian said regional councils are getting more voice in the operation of local governments.

The governors arrived here Sunday from Moscow on the first leg of their month-long tour of the Soviet Union.

Besides Hodges, the group consists of Govs. Meyer of New Jersey; George D. Clyde, Utah; William G. Stratton, Illinois; Robert H. Smylie, Idaho; John E. Davis, North Dakota; Cecil Underwood, West Virginia; Leroy Collins, Florida; and Stephen McNichols, Colorado.

City Council Will Ask Utilities For Extra Sum To Use In Budget

City Councilmen—nearly $22,000 short in revenue for next fiscal year's budget—will go before the Utilities Commission to ask that an additional amount be turned over to the city for the coming year.

City Manager Leonard Bloxam said at noon today a time for the meeting had not been set. However, he was attempting to arrange for a meeting of the two bodies for tonight. Bloxam said if all members could not attend tonight the meeting would be held at another time.

The councilmen are considering a budget for the year that would call for expenditures totaling $810,053.95. However, city income for the year, if the present $1.38 per hundred tax rate is maintained, would be $788,453.75.

City fathers considered the budget yesterday afternoon. At a meeting last week they had instructed City Manager Leonard Bloxam to add two additional policemen to the Police Department's budget. They also requested that $7,500 be placed in the capital improvements budget for the construction of a new building to house the Carver Negro Library.

At yesterday's session the councilmen added $2,000 to the Public Works Department contingency fund, $1,000 to the Sheppard Memorial Library funds and $500 for improvements to Greene Springs Park.

Mayor S. Eugene West indicated at yesterday's meeting he considered the budget to be the bare minimum for operation of the city for the coming year. He said he didn't want to pad the request for additional funds from the Utilities Commission.

"They've been pretty nice to us (in the past)," he declared. "They've been what I consider fair."

The Utilities Commission presently turns over $150,000 annually to the city government. Councilmen decided at yesterday's work session that the request for additional funds would be on a one-year basis.

As the budget now stands, only $35,098.30 would be set aside for capital improvements during the 1959-60 fiscal year. Last year capital improvements spending was set at $34,670.75.

Of this year's capital improvement funds, $2,900 would be spent for administration and general government, $1,000 for the Fire Department, $5,334 for the Police Department, $16,400 for the Public Works Department and $1,100 for the Recreation Department.

In addition to the regular governmental departments the city would spend $712 for new items at Sheppard Memorial Library and $7,652.30 for Carver Library including the new building.

It was not determined at yesterday's session how the additional $1,000 for Sheppard Memorial Library would be spent. The funds could increase the $712 improvements budget or it could increase the library's $22,175.50 operating budget.

Leaf Crop Sales Outlook Is Good

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — A government tobacco official said today that prospects for sale of the 1959 flue-cured crop appear favorable.

"I think they (buying companies) will buy tobacco," said S. E. Wraether, director of the tobacco division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service. He cited statistics to show that carry-over of tobacco has dropped to about a 21-month supply.

Wraether, who spoke at the annual convention of the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn., said the carry-over figure is "fairly normal" and is down from recent years. Carry-over refers to leaf stocks carried over by manufacturers from one season to the next.

Wraether said he felt buying companies "are in a fairly strong buying position . . . It's about time they were making their move."

Wraether, one of a panel of seven leaf experts who addressed the warehousemen this morning, added that in recent years tobacco farmers have drifted away from the production of "old fashioned flue-cured tobacco." Now they are producing more lower quality leaf, he said.

"We tell the farmers not to do it," but still pay them for producing the lower quality tobacco, he remarked.

He said he felt there would be no likelihood of a change "short of a market pattern that will encourage them to move" towards production of better quality.

Sen. B. Everett Jordan (D-NC) was on the program for an afternoon convention session.

The three-day meeting is in its second day.

The conventioners heard association officials blast the Eisenhower veto Monday.

General Counsel W. T. Joyner of Raleigh said that not since Depression days had tobacco growers faced as grave a situation.

Joyner told the tobacco men to gird themselves for a fight "to prevent destruction of the price support acreage control program."

Marketing Director Fred S. Royster said Eisenhower administration farm policies have been "greatly detrimental to agriculture throughout the nation."

The industry wants tobacco price supports stabilized so U.S. leaf does not become priced out of world markets. The bill vetoed by Eisenhower would have frozen supports at 1958 levels for the next four or five years.

Tobacco men also have taken issue with a substitute bill offered by Sen. Thurston Morton (R-Ky). His measure would freeze the supports for the 1959 and '60 crop years.

Royster said, "We simply can't support that legislation. It would be detrimental to the entire tobacco program."

Royster said the battle to enact the legislation represented what he called a great victory in spite of the presidential veto.

He cited formation of an industry-wide committee of 35 tobacco organizations which has scheduled a meeting July 6 in Richmond, Va., to consider action in the wake of the veto.

"If this unity remains, I think we are in a position to prevent passage of legislation that would cripple the tobacco program," he said.

Recent Scattered Showers Not Enough

"WE SURE COULD USE SOME" . . . rain, commented Robert Page of Route 3, Greenville, as he surveyed his dry tobacco field.

Pitt Farm Crops Are In For Trouble If No Rain Soon

Scattered showers over Pitt County last week helped the crop outlook considerably, according to County Agent S. C. Winchester.

However, these showers were widely scattered and the dry areas "will be in dire trouble if they don't get rain soon," he said.

Some areas of the county got as much as an inch of rainfall last week while other areas had limited rainfalls of 2 to 4 of an inch, Winchester told The Daily Reflector this morning. He added, however, that not nearly all the county had rainfall.

Winchester expressed optimism for normal yields in the areas which received rain.

In these areas, crops have improved considerably over their condition a week ago. They are not out of danger by any means unless "the weatherman changes his tune," Winchester said.

Crops in Pitt which did not receive rain are faring much worse, according to the county agent. "If the much-needed rain doesn't come soon, the crop situation will be very bad," he said.

Tobacco and corn are recuperating from the scattered showers in the areas which had rain, but are suffering more and more from the hot, arid weather in other areas.

The cucumber crop has suffered severe damage in all sections of the county, Winchester advises, since the dry weather came in the midst of the cucumber fruiting.

India Rebuffs Claim On Tibet

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Indian government made clear today it does not support the fugitive Dalai Lama's claim that he is running the real government of Tibet from his self-imposed exile in India.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said the Indian government does "not recognize any separate government of Tibet and there is therefore no question of a Tibetan government under the Dalai Lama functioning in India."

India recognizes the Chinese Communists as the legal government of China and also recognizes China's claim to sovereignty over Tibet.

Caught Carrying Sackful Of Loot

BRYAN, Tex. (AP) — Police stopped Hector Galvin, 20, to inquire why he was walking down Main Street in the middle of the night carrying a large paper sack.

The sack turned out to contain 100 rings, 25 watches, bracelets and other items of jewelry, Detective Ray Williamson said. Galvin explained he "saw some things he wanted" in the window of a jewelry store, so he kicked in the door glass and took them.

104 Degrees

Scorching weather continued to grip Pitt County yesterday and the Greenville Utilities weather station recorded a 104 degree high at 3 p.m.

It was the third consecutive day that the temperature had reached 100 degrees or higher.

Saturday at 3 p.m. the thermometer stood at an even 100 degrees. Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. high of 102 degrees was recorded.

There was little relief from the extremely hot weather last night. The Utilities reported the low for last night was 79 degrees. By 8 a.m. this morning the temperature had climbed right back up and it stood at 86 degrees.

The river was still low, standing at 2.06 feet, according to the Utilities weather observers. Its normal level is three to five feet.

Complete United Fund Budget Outline

STUDYING UNITED FUND BUDGET . . . Executive Committee members Dr. John Mewborn, Robert Wilfong, J. S. Ficklen, Jr., J. B. Hockaday, Dr. Ray Minges.

Members of the Pitt County United Fund admissions and budget committee last night completed a series of six meetings devoted to framing a proposed budget for Pitt United for the 1960 fiscal year.

The three-hour meeting last night was the last in a series of budget meetings held over a six-week period by the committee which is composed of members of the Executive Committee of the United Fund and chairmen of the community services committees of each of the townships of the county.

Budget proposals of the admissions and budget committee will now go to the Pitt United Board of Directors for approval. "Members of this committee have worked long and hard to come up with a realistic budget for Pitt United for the coming year," Dr. Ray Minges, President of the Pitt United Fund said following the meeting last night. "I believe they have succeeded in making a realistic budget which will please all the people of Pitt." Dr. Minges said the budget proposals must now go to the Pitt United Fund Board of Directors for review and approval before it is officially adopted.

Steele - Coburn Wed

ROBERSONVILLE—The First Baptist Church was the setting recently for the wedding of Miss Eva Ann Coburn and Joseph Robert Steele.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hedley Coburn of Robersonville and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. E. V. Stromlund of Champaign, Ill. and the late Joseph Robert Steele.

The Rev. Tommy Payne officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown of Chantilly lace designed with a scalloped neckline and long sleeves ending with points over the hands. The bouffant skirt had a scalloped hem. Her veil of silk illusion was attached to a coronet of seed pearls and lace. She carried a prayer book topped with a white orchid and showered with stephanotis, feathered carnations and satin ribbon.

Mrs. Elbert S. Etheridge of Norfolk was her sister's matron of honor. Miss Brenda Kay Davenport was the bridesmaid. Their mint green empress style dresses had V necks and ballerina length skirts. They wore matching green bows with circular veils. Their arm bouquets were of pink roses and carnations.

Vickie Gerald Etheridge, the flower girl, wore a white organdy dress with pink embroidery and she carried a pink basket with rose petals.

Dr. Stromlund served as his stepson's best man. The ushers were George Carrier of Kingsport, Tenn., cousin of the bridegroom; Elbert Etheridge of Norfolk, Va.; Henry Coburn and Eddie Perry of Robersonville.

Mrs. Robert K. Adkins presented a program of nuptial music.

The mother of the bride wore a navy blue lace dress with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a mauve eyelet-embroidered sheath dress with matching accessories and a cluster of white cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Steele is a recent graduate of East Carolina College and Mrs. Steele is a student at the University of Illinois.

For a trip to southern Florida the bride chose a blue lace dress and a hat of the same shade. She lifted the orchid from her prayer book.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the church annex.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Adkins and introduced to the receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Coburn, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Steele, Dr. and Mrs. E. V. Stromlund, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert S. Etheridge, Miss Brenda Kay Davenport, Mrs. Lida Coburn, Henry Coburn, George Carrier, Eddie Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Haywood Peaks.

Miss Jones, Bride - Elect, Given Shower

Miss Betty Ann Jones, bride-elect, was honored last night at a kitchen shower given by Miss Joanne Parks and Miss Iona Jones at the home of Miss Parks.

Upon arrival the hostesses presented Miss Jones with a white carnation corsage. Guests were greeted by the hostesses and honored. They were invited into the living room which was decorated with white gladioli and baby's breath.

Several games and contests were played by the guests. Bridal cakes and ices, nuts, and mints were served to the guests by Mrs. Calvin Jones, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Sherman Parks, and the hostesses.

Bride-elect, Miss Linda Whichard, and recent bride, Mrs. James A. Fiver, Jr., were remembered with white carnation corsages and gifts.

Miss Jones was presented with an electric perculator by the hostesses.

Mrs. Barbee Club Speaker

"A New Ambassador For Christ — The Tourist" was the topic of the program presented by Mrs. Carl Barbee to the members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church. She was assisted by Mrs. R. E. Riddick, Mrs. Wadley Carson and Mrs. W. P. Thigpen.

The purposes of the program were to lead the members of the group to an awareness of their responsibility as Christian Ambassadors during their travels, and to inspire each would-be traveler to dedicate himself personally to the task; and to deepen Christian concern for visitors and newcomers to one's own church, community, and country.

During the business session, it was decided that the society would send a Negro girl to the Leadership School in Winston-Salem.

Medical-Health Expert Advises Cleanliness

People are likely to forget the important basics that help to stave off illness, warns Dr. Bruce H. Pollock, Cabell-Huntington Health Director in West Virginia.

This authority advises everyone to follow these fundamentals: get plenty of rest, eat a balanced diet, drink plenty of liquids, dress adequately, be sure always to wash hands before meals and after going to the toilet. And wash dishes in hot soap or detergent suds and rinse with scalding water.

Beach Styles Go To All Lengths

The skinny pants and camisole top at right are of orlon-and-lastex, and are meant for either swimming or lounging.

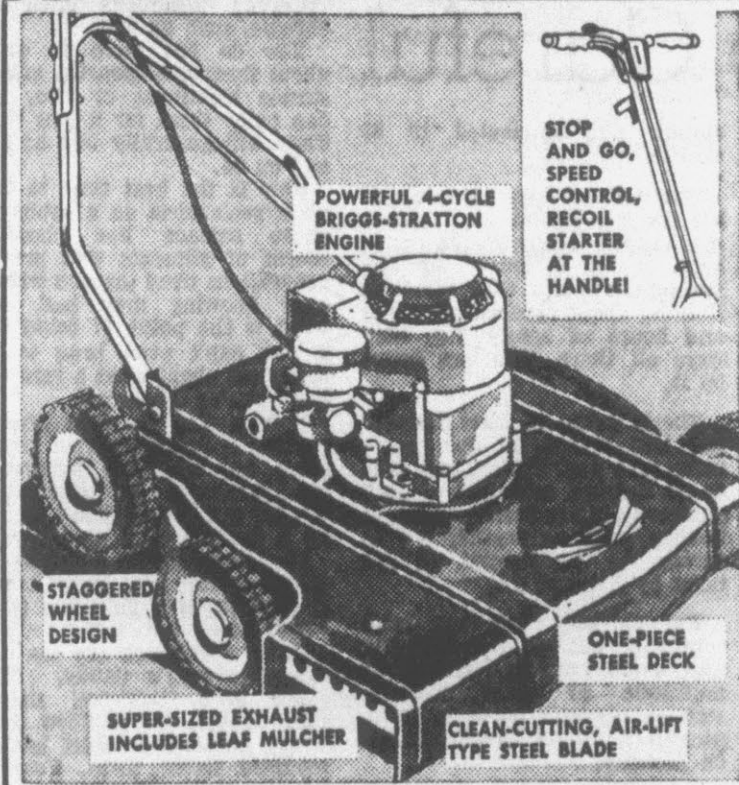

BARE MINIMUM . . . Theodore Devitt (left) and Sue Brown provide sightseeing interest on a Southern California beach with their "two-way two-pieces" designed by Rose Marie Reid in a gay kerchief print. This is a do-it-yourself Bikini, which may be adjusted according to the mood of the wearer. Theodore is feeling modest, and so manages to get considerable coverage from her suit. Sue is in a more daring mood, and has tightened the Bikini bows to achieve more exposure above and below. Says Miss Reid: "Let your conscience be your guide."

Board Confident, Public Should Be

Expression by leaders of the State Board of Higher Education that action by the 1959 General Assembly will not prevent the board from carrying out its purpose should be encouraging to North Carolinians.

Retiring chairman D. Hiden Ramsey of Asheville told the Board of Higher Education Friday, "If we do not do our job, it will not be for lack of power."

Following the controversy between the Higher Education board and trustees of the Greater University last year, there appeared for a while the possibility that the fight between these two bodies might be carried to the General Assembly to the detriment of higher education in the state. Before the legislature met representatives of the two groups met and worked out a compromise which was to establish more clearly the lines of authority between trustees of state-owned colleges and the Board of Higher Education.

As a result, legislation was enacted which changed the Education Board's authority to "approve" appropriations for institutions to the authority to "recommend." While some quarters expressed the opinion this change might cripple the Board of Higher Education, it is encouraging to know that its former chairman and its new chairman both feel the Board still has ample authority to carry out its duties.

Under the direction of Chairman Ramsey, the Board of Higher Education has made a constructive contribution to higher education in North Carolina.

Old Graveyards Raise Problems

By LYNN NISBET

GRAVES — Graveyards, particularly abandoned graves, are becoming a real problem as "progress" takes over in North Carolina. Reverence for burying places exists among savage tribes and is deeply imbedded in the written laws of most civilized countries.

The custom of family burying plots on the farm has given the highway commission considerable trouble in relocating roads. They are reluctant to disturb the ancient bones, but sometimes it appears to be necessary.

Downtown churches in old cities where the community has developed around them have an even more serious problem. Present law prohibits the removal or transfer of bodies until notice has been given to surviving relatives. But the statute fails to specify the kind of notice or the relatives to be notified.

The First Presbyterian church at Morganton has outgrown its facilities, desires to sell the property and build larger elsewhere. The adjacent graveyard was filled half a century ago and no new graves have been dug there in more than 40 years. The relatives of the people whose bodies are buried are scattered throughout the world.

Rep. Joe Byrd of Burke introduced a bill, which he later made applicable only to his county, providing for removal of graves or whole cemeteries upon notice by publication in local and state circulation newspapers, rather than personal notice to relatives, when no burials have occurred within the past 40 years. Byrd made it clear that his bills do not change the authority of government to move the graves, but only affords a reasonable procedure of notice.

GENERAL — Members of the committee which approved the bill agreed that it is good law and perhaps should be statewide. But because of the short time for discussion and in deference to the common attitude toward tampering with graves, requested it be limited to one county. Opinion was expressed that it will later be extended.

The cemetery business has gone commercial and few new graves are found in churchyards or small private grounds around cities and towns. The country churchyard is still popular. One cannot drive along the highways of North Carolina without noticing the contrast in the attention given to old graves. Many of the family plots are well kept and have attractive marker stones. Others are cluttered with weeds and brambles. Another impressive item is the improvement within the past in the brief period since it was formed. In the years ahead it will be in a position to make an increasingly constructive contribution to higher education in the state as demands upon all the state's colleges and universities increase.

If members of the board feel they have sufficient authority to do the job which is required of them, there should remain no doubt of it in the minds of the people of the state.

Hawaiians Underscore Desire For Statehood

The 17 to 1 margin by which Hawaiians approved admission of Hawaii as the 50th state shouldn't have come as a surprise to anyone.

Even though Hawaii was not approved for statehood by Congress until after Alaska became the 49th state, the people of Hawaii have been seeking statehood for a number of decades. Time and again they found the avenue to statehood a deadend street, but each time they renewed the efforts.

It shouldn't have come as a surprise, therefore, that Hawaiians approved statehood by such an overwhelming margin. They've worked long and hard for statehood. They have proved themselves worthy of statehood status. Certainly they would not miss the opportunity to indicate personally their desire for statehood when the matter was put to a vote.

While it probably will still be another month or two before Hawaii officially becomes a state, the remaining formalities—like those which have taken place since Congress approved Hawaii's statehood—remain only a formality.

It should be encouraging to the citizens of the other 49 states, however, to note how overwhelmingly the citizens of the 50th state voted in favor of becoming a full member of the Union.

Committee Has Political Value

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President's Cabinet committee on price stability for economic growth may serve an economic purpose. It also has a very useful political value for the Republican party.

This group, appointed by President Eisenhower last Jan. 31, produced a report Sunday after months of meditation. It cautioned against the dangers of inflation and made some recommendations for fighting it.

What it proposed was what Eisenhower himself already had proposed to Congress earlier in the year.

This was hardly unusual. The President's committee, made up of his own hand-picked, right-hand men, would hardly have made recommendations contrary to his own.

The group, headed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, is composed of members of his Cabinet, plus his top economic adviser Raymond J. Saulnier, plus one outside economist, W. Allen Wallis.

Wallis himself described the report as "a bombshell." He is dean of the Business School of the University of Chicago and is the Cabinet committee's executive director.

It is questionable whether any proposals by this group could be considered as objective and non-political as recommendations by a committee of outside economists.

Eisenhower, ever since the 1958 election campaign in which the Democrats in Congress won one of their biggest victories, has hammered away at the dangers of inflation and big spending that would unbalance the budget.

He resumed the theme the day after the elections and has pursued it steadily. At the beginning of this Congress the Democrats sounded as if they contemplated much bigger programs than Eisenhower had in mind.

Either they came around to his thinking or his anti-inflation crusade made the congressional Democrats self-conscious. Whatever the reason, they have been trimming their programs more or less to meet his desires.

As Eisenhower pointed out in a forward to the committee's report, which it recommends is what he has already suggested. Nevertheless, the report serves a purpose.

By echoing Eisenhower, it provides just that much more publicity for his ideas; it gives him the benefit of the Cabinet's public approval, although he hardly needed that; and it is added pressure on the Democrats to follow Eisenhower.

If inflation gets out of hand, the repeated Republican warnings against it will give them a political issue in the presidential elections of 1960. The Democrats, of course, will have something to say about Republican anti-inflation practices as opposed to theory.

By that time the voter — caught up in the economic arguments of both sides — should be completely confused. Briefly, the presidential committee called for balancing the budget, removing the interest ceiling on government bonds, and making price stability "an explicit goal of federal economic policy."

The committee so closely followed the presidential line that it lifted the quoted praise in the preceding paragraph right out of the President's economic report to Congress last January.

Like the President, the Cabinet is against price controls as such, pointing out that in time this would lead to wage controls, too.

Perhaps the most interesting part of the report is not what it said but what it promised the committee would look into in later reports.

For instance, it will explore proposals to use the federal government's antitrust powers against monopolies in both labor and management, as well as the breaking down of wage bargaining into smaller units.

The committee mentioned other ideas it will examine, too, some of which may make campaign issues in the 1960 elections when, or so it seems now, Nixon will be a sturdy contender.

BOOK OF LIFE

The Bible has been described as a book which lives in every land and in every age.

The difference between the Bible and other books is that the Bible has life in it. Other books reflect life; the Bible imparts life. And it imparts life because for some strange reason which is hidden in the mysteries of God, this book has the living God on its pages and in its words. Life comes from this book as from no other book. Shakespeare, Milton, the great novelists and playwrights — these make their contribution to the enrichment of life, and an abundant contribution it is. But the Bible goes further than any of these. The Bible actually confers life. There is a supernatural character to the Bible which other books do not possess. All the genius of men may combine to give them this life, but life comes only from the hand and through the will of God.

So indeed the Bible lives in every land and in every age. It is marvelous to observe how its inspiration in no way diminishes if the original is translated into a strange tongue. Furthermore, there is a likeness of style which runs through all the books of the Bible. You will not find this style in any other book.

It is definitely the Bible style. What a mysterious book — mysterious because it contains life, which is the most mysterious thing in the universe. And it contains life to such an extent that when we read the Book, life comes into us.

Umpiring And Calling Signals, Too?

By DON SCHLIENZ

You Can't Be Too Careful

Today's message could be summed up in one word: Survive.

It's timely.

We view the a-bomb and atomic fall-out with horror; read of hurricane warnings with a measure of apprehension; and cautiously look in both directions when crossing the street.

But that isn't enough.

The N. C. Department of Motor Vehicles is laying plans for dealing with the Fourth of July traffic casualties, and the Society of the Plastics Industry is waging a campaign to warn the public to use some discretion in handling plastic bags. On both counts, the grounds are the same: too many people are needlessly dying.

Now about this Glorious Fourth detail:

Last year 15 persons died of highway accidents over the holidays. Eleven killed outright, four were delayed deaths due to injuries.

The NCDMV even provides a breakdown of the violations involved in the 1958 total of 528 accidents that took place from 6:00 p.m. July 3 through midnight of July 6. Speeding led the rest by a great margin, 115 of the wrecks involved that one error. Not having the right of way was attributed in 75 accidents, that violation ran third; driving on the wrong side of the road (78 such violations) placed second; following too closely was attributed in 65 wrecks.

The toll of injured came to 246 for the period. No mention made of how many broken vertebrae, mangled limbs; or the permanent scars that resulted. Nothing about gashed rib cages and hours of agony. But they were all there. You can count on it.

Their's going to start tallying the 1959 Fourth of July accidents 6:00 p.m. Friday, and carry on through midnight of July 5. Nobody infers there will be no holiday accident deaths; it's as certain to the experts as are taxes to you and me.

I'm chicken. Our car isn't venturing out on the highway next weekend. So, barring a multitude of other hazards striking my way (such as lightning), I intend to be around on Monday.

The move in the N. C. General Assembly to ban use of plastic bags is symptomatic of what happens when a new scare item comes to the fore. The proposal didn't get beyond first base, but publicity attendant upon deaths caused by plastic bags has the industry worried.

have been counted across the fifty-nine deaths by suffocation have been counted across the country, all laid to polyethylene film. Seven of these were reported as suicides.

To set the record straight, the industry is going to considerable effort to remind that each year nearly 15,000 boys and girls under 15 years old die as a result of accidents. Choking, fire, motor vehicles, drowning, poisoning... they all statistically overwhelm plastic bags as child-killers.

But to avoid unnecessary tragedy, the following suggestions are passed along by the campaign material received by mail: keep them (plastic bags) away from small children; don't use them as makeshift covers in cribs, playpens, baby carriages, for mattresses or upholstery. Once the plastic coverings have served their purpose the user is advised to knot them or team them up, and throw them away.

Which, when you get down to it, is very reasonable.

Strike Threat Booms Business

By ELMER ROESSNER

The steel situation has provided a bonanza for foreign countries. In many ways it will prove more beneficial than a year's economic and military aid.

The dispute between the Steelworkers and the steel companies has long been foaming. Perhaps that was a consequence of tactics on both sides. To get into the best position, the companies indicated they were ready for a strike. The union, for similar reasons, let it be known that it wasn't afraid either. In fact, it engineered a few wildcat strikes to show mettle.

All this alerted both domestic and foreign steel interests. At home, manufacturers needing steel and intermediate dealers have been building up stockpiles.

That has accounted for the high level of steel production in recent months and was some sort of a factor in the recovery in recent months and was some sort of a factor in the recovery of business this year. That's an item for paradox-collectors: business was boomed by a threat of a strike which would be an economic depressant.

FOREIGN NATIONS GET SET

Abroad, most foreign nations got into position to clean up on an American strike.

Starting several months ago, many increased their shipments of special steels to the United States, both to users and warehouses.

Most of this steel was of premium grade. Even ordinary grades were priced above the American level. Foreign labor may be much cheaper than American steel hearties, but shipping costs must be added on.

However, some steel was offered below American prices, but as the strike deadline approached, prices stiffened.

Mean, foreign nations stepped up purchases of scrap steel here and in Britain, which has become a source of scrap. Purchases by Japan were especially heavy.

NEED STEEL

There were several reasons for this. Some nations, needing steel, thought it best to build up supplies of scrap in event a strike curtailed supplies of virgin steel. Some nations calculated that scrap, plus a mixture of new steel, could be sold back to the United States at high prices in event of a strike. And some figured that if a shutdown cut the American demand for scrap (most scrap is mixed with new steel), there would be good buys on the U.S. market.

There were good buys earlier this year, but a month ago prices started up. Steel producers, in their rush to fill orders resulting from fears of a strike, needed more scrap for their their mixtures.

The importance of scrap in steel production is shown by these figures: In December, the average steel melt was 44.3 per cent scrap and 55.7 per cent iron. The ratio rose to 46.5 per cent scrap in February and may have gone higher since.

RUSH FOR SCRAP

Since April, about 50 ships have been chartered to move scrap to foreign countries, mostly to Japan. Japan also bought the famed Ile de France and is converting the liner into a scrap

Novel Hobby Awaits

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Are you looking for a new and enjoyable hobby? Why not take up hypochondria?

"The desire to take medicine is perhaps the greatest feature which distinguishes man from animals," wrote one of the greatest modern physicians, Sir William Osler.

Dr. Osler said another memorable thing: "No man is really happy or safe without a hobby, and it makes precious little difference what the outside interest may be. Anything will do so long as he straddles a hobby and rides it hard."

Hypochondria, the morbid preoccupation with one's own health, is perhaps the most sensible of all hobbies after the age of 40—because, it is the most natural. After 40 if you don't worry about yourself, nobody will.

There is little point in taking up hypochondria in youth. During that period of life all one generally suffers from is the more uninteresting complaints — such as sprained ankles, broken limbs, busted hearts.

The golden age of suffering comes later.

It is only after 40 that a new world of disease opens to one. Is it then that one first becomes aware he is vulnerable to a wilderness of fascinating ailments ranging from agoraphobia—loss of ability to estimate weight—to zoster, an active nerve inflammation.

It is then you find out you can get anything, and anything—bug or virus—can get you. And, unlike the fly-by-night disorders of your childhood and youth, these latterday afflictions often are chronic, such as gout.

You do not have to worry about them disappearing after a simple treatment or two. You can enjoy them for a long time. They will generally last as long as you do.

Now is the best time to take up hypochondria as a hobby because science has classified scores of ailments that previous generations lived through without ever knowing they had. And what is the point of being sick if you can't even brag to the neighbors about what a rare malady you've acquired.

Now is also the best time to become a hypochondriac because there are available hundreds—even thousands—of medicines and wonder drugs that didn't even exist a quarter of a century ago.

Medicine used to come in two colors—white and dark brown. It used to have only two tastes—sour and bitter.

Today medicines are the middle-aged man's candy. They come in a thousand shapes, sizes, tastes, and rainbow colors. Every bottle and tablet holds a separate flavor thrill. You can take a two-tone, three-way acting capsule today—and it won't rattle your timbers until tomorrow. You get a delayed joy: you don't have to enjoy it all at once.

A fisherman can enjoy his sport only in season. So can the baseball fan. But hypochondria is a real year-round hobby. If the hypochondriac awakes with a sudden dull sense of health, he can always race to the medical dictionary and discover some heartening new symptoms of something fearful.

Hypochondria isn't merely for the rich. It is a hobby that fits any purse. On his days off the hypochondriac can always hang around pharmacies getting free samples of Bursigs he can't yet afford to buy.

Your true hypochondriac is as avid in search of an unusual malady as a philatelist is in pursuit of a rare stamp. There is the story of one veteran hypochondriac who, on learning his own physician had been stricken with an undiagnosed ailment, phoned the sick medic reproachfully.

"I hear you come down with something I've never had. Don't you been holding out on me?"

Rotarians Install New Club Officers

NEW ROTARY OFFICERS INSTALLED . . . Smiley, Browning (retiring president) Duncan, Martin and Stroud.

F. D. Duncan, vice president and business manager of East Carolina College, was installed last night as president of the Greenville Rotary Club for the coming year.

Duncan succeeds Dr. Elmer R. Browning who has been president of the club during the past year. Other officers installed last night by the local Rotary Club are Roy Martin, vice president; Wendell Smiley, secretary; and Lawrence Stroud, sergeant-at-arms. New directors installed along with the officers were George Coffman, Jack Edwards Jr., N. O. VanNortwick Jr. and Alton Barrett.

Installation of the new officers was conducted by past district governors James W. Butler and Howard McGinnis.

Retiring President Browning reviewed some of the highlights of the Rotary Club during the past year and expressed his appreciation to committee chairmen and members of the club for their work and cooperation during the past year.

He pointed out that six new members had been brought into the club during the year, the club had maintained its 100 per cent participation in the Rotary Foundation, had been host for the district convention, and had contributed $475 for permanent improvements at Camp Hardee, the Girl Scout camp.

The installation of officers last night marked the end of the 40th year of Rotary work in Greenville.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Municipal Recorder's Court Friday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found Joe Nathan Brown, Negro, 613 Howell St., guilty of five charges of assault with a deadly weapon and one charge of discharging firearms in the city.

In the first case, Brown was given 12 months on the roads. The second case, six months, to begin at expiration of case 7755.

Third case, six months, to begin at expiration of case 7757. In the fourth case, six months, to run concurrently with case 7755. In the fifth case it is to run concurrently with Case 7759.

The case against Joe Nathan Brown was for discharging firearms in the city, and the court gave him 30 days on the roads, sentence to run concurrently with sentence in case 7759.

Rosa Lee Sanders, Negro 1711 S. Green St., harboring a criminal, Judge Whedbee continued prayer for judgment to.

Willie Lee Cannon, Negro, R-3 city, possession and transporting non-tax-paid whiskey for sale, 60 days on the roads, sentence to begin at expiration of sentence in case No. 7401, suspended on payment of $100 and costs. The judgment provides that Cannon shall not operate a motor vehicle for six months; be of good behavior and not violate any law for two years. The court further ordered that the car is to be sold at public auction as ordered by law. It is further ordered that the Kinston Auto Finance Co. be notified of the time and date and place of sale and that they be allowed to participate in the proceedings to protect their investment.

Willie Lee Cannon, Case No. 7401, careless and reckless driving, 30 days on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. The judgment further provides that Cannon is not to operate an automobile for 30 days, and in furtherance he surrender to the clerk of court his license, to be held by the clerk unless required by MVD.

Speeding: William C. Clemmons, Negro, 515 McKinley Ave., $16; Vernon P. Gordon, Kinston, $16; Allen A. Pippin III, Zebulon, $16; Wilton B. Water Resources Survey Plan For Pitt Told Club

A review of the proposed water resources survey for Pitt County was presented members of the Greenville Lions Club last night by representatives of the U. S. Geological Survey.

Participating in the program were Phil Brown, district geologist, Sam Broadhurst, assistant state geologist and Connor Eagles of the Pitt County Soil Conservation department.

Earlier this month the Pitt County Development Commission recommended that Pitt enter into a cooperative program with the U. S. Geological Survey for a comprehensive ground water survey of the county.

Brown explained last night the program would cover a four year period and would cost approximately $26,000 per year, half of which would be paid by the county and half by the federal government. Such a study, he said, would provide permanent information as to the location and quantities of ground water resources throughout Pitt County.

The speaker also pointed out that Pitt has been included in a reconnaissance of ground water made in a number of counties of this area and the information received from the eight-county study would be published this fall. About the only conclusion which can be drawn from this reconnaissance, he said, is that Pitt has sufficient ground water to meet its current needs.

The more permanent survey, he said, would pinpoint the location of ground water, establish the quantities available as well as the qualities of the water in every location in the county.

A supper meeting to draw up constitution and by-laws for the recently organized Pitt County Firemen's Association will be held in Ayden tomorrow night at seven o'clock at the fire station.

According to Stuart Savage of Greenville, temporary chairman for the group, the Ayden firemen will be host for the supper and all firemen in the county are invited to attend and express their views on the association.

At a meeting in Greenville last week, a committee composed of Curtis Flanagan of Farmville, T. G. Chauncey of Ayden, and Roy Hardee of Greenville, was selected to draw up a constitution and by-laws for the association to be discussed at tomorrow night's meeting.

The purpose of the organization is to promote better firefighting in Pitt County through training and organizing other departments in the county. It will also provide an opportunity for fellowship among the county firefighters.

All firemen, whether paid or volunteer are eligible for membership in the association.

Fishermen Home After Captivity

SAPPORO, Japan (AP)—Thirty-seven Japanese fishermen came home today after a year in Soviet captivity on charges of trespassing.

Soviet Ambassador Nicolai T. Fedorenko warned that Japanese fishing boats will not be safe in northern waters until Japan signs a World War II peace treaty.

Signing a peace treaty was delayed because of a dispute over the Soviet-held Kurile Islands, which Japan claims.

Defense Plant Security Program Needs Overhauling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials studied today what changes they must make in security screening of defense plant workers to overcome a Supreme Court ruling that the program is not authorized.

But they appeared confident that the program, covering three million civilian workers in private plants throughout the country, can be continued in some way to protect the nation's defense secrets.

The ruling does not affect employees of the government itself, or those in private plants who do not need to have access to government secrets.

The court ruling struck hardest at an accused worker's lack of opportunity to clear himself under the present program. The opinion was one of many issued Monday as the Supreme Court ended its nine-month term and recessed until October.

Other major decisions restricted libel suits against policy-making government officials, military officers, and radio and TV stations carrying political broadcasts which, under the law, they cannot censor.

The court also struck down some sections of the New York state law under which censors had banned showing of the film "Lady Chatterley's Lover."

The security screening program required that workers in plants having defense contracts meet government security standards before they could see classified information. Secret information was used in the screening process, and some workers who were not cleared were fired when employers could not use them in non-sensitive jobs.

The decision was a victory for William L. Greene, who was fired in 1953 from an $18,000 job as a vice president of Engineering and Research Corp., in Riverdale, Md. The firing followed Navy revocation of a clearance for Greene. Chief Justice Warren explained the court's ruling.

"We decide only that in the absence of explicit authorization from either the President or Congress, the respondents (defense officials) were not empowered to deprive petitioner (Greene) of his job in a proceeding in which he was not afforded the safeguard of confrontation and cross examination," Warren said.

Some officials interpreted this to mean that the program could be continued if accused workers were given full chance to defend themselves.

Warren emphasized the court was not ruling on inherent authority of the President to set up an industrial plant security program, or whether action by Congress was necessary to do so, or what the constitutional limits on executive or legislative authority might be.

Four associate justices joined in Warren's opinion.

Three others, Justices Frankfurter, Harlan and Whitaker, said they went along with the majority only on the ground the program had not been authorized. They intimated nothing on their views about validity of the procedures used in Greene's case.

But Justice Clark in a biting dissent said the decision "puts a cloud" over both the program attacked by Greene and the federal employment loyalty program, which now is limited to government employees holding sensitive jobs.

"Let us hope that the winds may change," Clark said. "If they do not, the present temporary debacle will turn into a rout of our internal security."

In one of several libel rulings, the court held 5-4 that policy-making government officials are immune from libel suits in making statements to the press on matters under their control. The majority opinion said some injustices might result, "but we think that price a necessary one to pay for the greater good."

The Justice Department had contended in the case that democratic government depends on the public's knowledge of governmental policies and the conduct of government officials.

In a related 6-3 opinion, the court said military officers also are immune from suits in forwarding official reports to members of Congress.

Another 5-4 ruling held that radio and television stations have immunity from libel suits for statements made by candidates in political speeches. The federal law which requires stations to provide equal time to all candidates for an office also forbids censorship of such speeches by the station.

Calling for new arguments Nov. 19, the court put off a decision on an appeal by Junius Irving Scalés, former head of a Communist party district comprising North Carolina and South Carolina.

He was convicted of violating a clause of the Smith Act which makes it a crime to be a member of a group "knowing that it advocates violent overthrow of the government. Scalés has challenged the constitutionality of that clause.

Scalés' appeal had been argued before the court last April 29, and Justice Clark was sharp in criticizing the court's delay.

"All the reargument does is cause an inordinate delay," said Clark. "The case is as ready for disposition now as it ever will be, and we should not adjourn until it is handed down."

"Much has been said of late of the law's delay and criticism has been heaped on the courts for it. This case affords a likely exhibit A. It looks like Scalés' case will go on forever."

Clark pointed out the Scalés case first went to the Supreme Court over three years ago. Scalés has been convicted twice under the membership clause and faces six years in prison.

In other actions Monday the court:

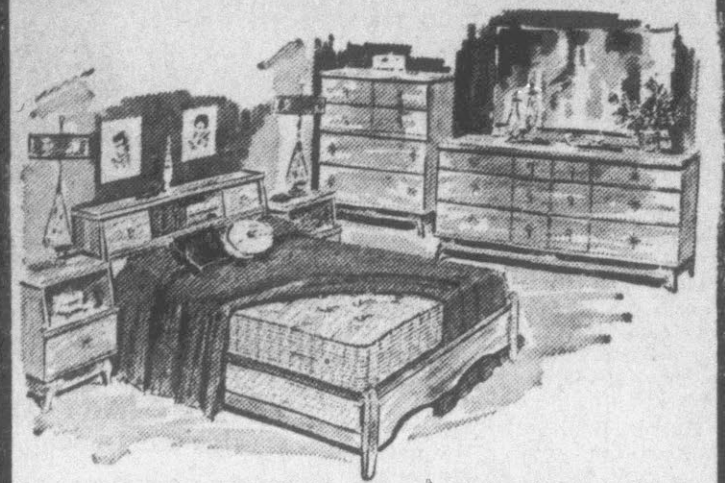

Denied a hearing to John Kasper, who was found to be in contempt for his activities in the 1956 school integration dispute at Clinton, Tenn. Kasper was sentenced to six months imprisonment.

Agreed to review next fall a decision by U.S. District Judge T. Hoyt Davis, in Macon, Ga., that portions of the 1957 Civil Rights Act are unconstitutional. Judge Davis dismissed a government petition charging that voting registrars of Terrell County, Ga., discriminated against Negroes who wished to register. Davis said portions of the act are invalid because they gave the attorney general authority to ask injunctions not only against state officials but private citizens as well.

Industrial Arts Exhibition Set

Projects carried out by students of industrial arts during the first summer session at East Carolina will go on exhibition Friday, July 10, in the College Union. The one-day show will begin at 9 a.m. and will be open to the public.

Approximately 40 students will be represented in the exhibition of projects. Various types of work on display will include woodwork, wood turning, metal work, and handicrafts.

Of especial interest to those interested in the training of young children will be projects carried out in a class in Handicrafts for the Elementary Grades. On display will be types of handicrafts suited to the capabilities and interests of pupils from the kindergarten to the eighth grade.

The exhibition has been planned under the direction of Dr. Kenneth Bing, head of the department of industrial arts at East Carolina College. Charles Wentz of Asheboro and Mrs. Martha W. Kallam, Rt. 1, Kingston, are assisting Dr. Bing in staging the exhibition.

Recall One-Time Church Concern Over Women

LAKE JUNALUSKA, N. C. (AP) — Women's clothing was a matter of concern to Methodist church leaders 175 years ago.

Among the rules adopted at the organizational meeting of the Methodist Church in America in 1784 was this one: "Give no tickets to any till they have left off superfluous ornaments. Allow no exempt case, not even a married woman. Give no tickets to any that wear enormous bonnets, ruffles or rings."

This was mentioned in a report Monday by the Rev. Dr. J. Manning Potts of Nashville, Tenn. at the annual meeting of the Southern Jurisdiction Methodist Historical Society.

Another item that brought smiles was one of 12 rules adopted in 1784 for young preachers. "Converse sparingly and cautiously with women, particularly young women," the preachers were told.

Gov. Long Plans To Chop Forty From State Payroll

COVINGTON, La. (AP) — Gov. Earl K. Long today was reported on the road to recovery from what psychiatrists have newly labeled a nervous breakdown rather than mental illness.

Along the road the governor carries plans to chop at least 40 persons from state payrolls. Some of them were somehow involved in his being committed to mental hospitals twice this month.

He already has fired three state officials — two of them medical men who held him in one mental institution — and he is divorcing his wife, who had him committed. Three psychiatrists Monday night said Long, a voluntary patient in a small town motel, suffered from "a nervous breakdown from overwork."

Their report said the fiery, fast-moving 63-year-old governor recently suffered a small stroke or strokes which, combined with his overactivity, "resulted in a marked rundown state."

Noting that Long had a heart attack nine years ago, the doctors said: "At this time there is nothing that would indicate that the governor cannot make another recovery."

Italian Prince Had Close Call In Skin-Diving

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Italian Prince Victor Emmanuel, 22, who had a close call with death in a skin-diving mishap, was recovering today in a sick bay aboard the submarine tender Nerius.

The prince, son of exiled King Umberto II, said he felt fine when he emerged from a Navy decompression chamber aboard the Nerius Monday. He was to be held in sick bay another 24 hours for observation.

He was in the chamber 18 hours for treatment of air embolism, or bubble, which entered his blood stream when he surfaced without first exhaling compressed air while skin-diving off San Diego Sunday.

Lt. Robinson Kirkpatrick, a Navy doctor, said death could have come in minutes if an air bubble had reached the heart.

101st Airborne Says Goodbye

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP) — The 101st Airborne Division—the Screaming Eagles—said goodbye to its wartime commander and its young golden eagle mascot Monday.

The 4-year-old eagle died shortly after playing its part in the division's review for Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, who led the division in World War II.

The eagle was tied to a special perch in front of the reviewing stand. The excitement and the heat were believed to have been too much for him.

The pygmies in Africa, mostly in the Belgian Congo, average about 4½ feet tall.

'Barn-Downing' Was First Step

READING, Pa. (AP) — Barn-raising is in the old Pennsylvania Dutch tradition of helping a neighbor. And now a group of 75 Mennonites have taken to "barn-downing."

The Mennonites tore down a two-story barn on the farm of Mrs. Elma Leininger Monday at nearby Mohnton. They worked in 95-degree heat to raze the 45 x 45 foot structure.

When they were done, they hauled the dismantled barn to the farm of William I. Lamm, 35, of Wernersville.

Mrs. Leininger had offered him the barn after his own burned down. The Mennonites will rebuild the barn on Lamm's farm.

Report Satellite Rocket Failed To Build Up Speed

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Why didn't the Discoverer IV rocket fired Thursday from the West Coast go into orbit? Not enough speed, says the Air Force.

To hurl a capsule-bearing satellite into a course around the earth's poles, as planned, the vehicle would have had to reach 18,000 miles an hour.

A Ballistic Missile Division spokesman declined to say whether the first or the second stage was to blame for the insufficient velocity.

The first was an intermediate-range, Douglas-built Thor missile; the second, all of which was designed to enter orbit, was made by Lockheed.

Discoverer IV, carrying a 300-pound capsule that was to have been ejected over the Pacific, was launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base, 170 miles north of this Los Angeles suburb. The instruments in the capsule were secret.

No-Hitter Hurlled By McGowan

Connie McGowan of the Moose hurled the first no-hitter in the Tar Heel league yesterday afternoon, taming Pepsi Cola, while his teammates exploded for their biggest offensive show of the season in taking a 16-0 decision.

McGowan was the master all the way as he retired the first three men he faced and his teammates clubbed two Pepsi pitchers for ten runs in the first inning.

Four base on balls, a hit batsman and two errors kept McGowan from a perfect game but Pepsi Cola managed a serious threat in only one inning, the sixth.

Rodney Johnson drew a walk to lead off the sixth and then with two outs, Michael Prewett lined a scorching infield grounder which was muffed. McGowan got out of the inning when he forced Jack Gordon to line out to Gary Hodges, the shortstop.

Five walks to the first six batters enabled the Moose to take a big lead in the opening inning. Hubert Evans had a single sandwiched between the base on balls.

The Moose batted around in the first inning and finished the frame with six hits and ten runs.

Wins For Dairy And Graniteers

Bob Moore had a perfect night at the plate last night as Carolina Dairy humbled a weak Coffman's Men's Wear club, 21-2, in the opener of an Industrial League softball doubleheader.

Graniteers brushed off Greenville Parts and Metal Company, 11-4, in the second game with Jessel Curry hurling a two hitter.

Moore had four consecutive hits in the opener to lead his club to their one-sided win. Jerry Warren, the winning pitcher, helped his own cause with five hits in six trips to the plate and Tom Boyd collected three hits.

ROMEY BROCK was presented the "Player of the Week" award last night by Jim Gills, member of the Optimist Club. The newly formed club plans to make weekly awards to the outstanding player in the Teen-er League. Gills is the chairman of the Boys Work Committee. Brock is a member of the Guaranty Bank team.

Thomas Shoots 72 To Pace Qualifying Round

By JOHNNY HUDSON

Young Bobby Thomas stood out over the rest of the field yesterday as the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce Junior Golf Tournament got underway with the first 18 holes.

Thomas became almost assured of a spot in the state tournament as he shot a 37 on the front nine and then finished one under par on the second nine for a par 72. The hot and humid day, which definitely had some effect on the young golfers, saw Thomas move eight strokes ahead of his nearest competitor, Chappy Bradner.

Bradner had a 39-41 for 80 to finish one stroke ahead of Buddy Murray and Ed Smoot, each with 81. Rick Saue had an 82 to remain in the running and Sonny Parkinson was needing a good round today after finishing with an 86 yesterday.

Only the top four will be eligible to attend the state tournament at Kingston next month and Thomas has practically clinched one of the spots.

Dallas Clark, the only other active golfer besides Thomas that attended the tournament last year, did all his qualifying on Sunday. He finished the first 18 with a 78, which would rank second only to Thomas. Clark faltered in his iron-man attempt for 36 holes in the single day and finished with a low 84 on the final 18.

Clark's 162 wasn't looking too good as the golfers teed off yesterday morning but was looking better and better as the linkmen

Jessel Curry continued to keep the league ablaze with his pitching as he hurled the Graniteers past the Greenville Parts & Metal Company.

Curry's pitching was backed by the hitting of Johnny Foell and Ike Riddick. The latter had three hits while Foell picked up a couple.

Ingemar Willing To Talk Of Ring Fiasco

By MURRAY ROSE

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The night of Aug. 2, 1952, at the Olympic Games at Helsinki, Finland, was a glorious one for Uncle Sam.

It was the night five of his nephews won Olympic boxing championships—the first boxing gold medals for the U.S. in 20 years—and rolled ahead of the Soviet Union in the unofficial team scoring of the games.

Then 19, Johansson was disqualified after the second round of his heavyweight final with giant Ed Sanders for "not trying."

There were 10,000 fans, mostly Scandinavians and many of them Swedes, at the finale.

When the bell sounded, Sanders lumbered towards Johansson. Ingemar retreated, Sanders kept after him, poking with his left at the elusive target. Soon fans started whistling, Europe's equivalent of the boo.

The referee cautioned Johansson twice and officially warned him (that takes away points) three times, before giving him the heave-ho at the end of the second round. The piercing din of whistling was ear-splitting.

Johansson wiped out the bitter memory and became his country's sports idol long before he knocked out Floyd Patterson to win the world pro heavyweight title.

He is not reluctant to discuss the incident. He feels most of the criticism was unfair.

"I wasn't in the best condition that night," Johansson said. "Our team was not properly trained. By the night of the finals I was tired."

"My coaches told me my only chance to win against Sanders was to keep back and wait for an opening. Then I was to shoot my right. I couldn't go all-out for three rounds. I was to depend on getting an opening for the right."

"But Sanders was a counter-boxer just like I was. He moved in on me, yes. But he would take a step and wait for me to throw a punch. The referee warned us both twice. Then the third time I was disqualified."

Next: Ingemar's rise to ring glory.

AL Contenders To Begin Probable 10 Telling Days

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer

The American League pennant race, so far a scramble of winning streaks and slumps, gets rolling tonight on what could be 10 telling days for the five contenders—Cleveland, Chicago, Baltimore, Detroit and New York.

In those 10 playing days, sandwiching the break for the All-Star game at Pittsburgh a week from today, two of the three western wonders will face each other every day.

Cleveland, first a game over Chicago, plays four games with the White Sox in that span and six against Detroit. The Tigers, four games behind and tied for fourth with New York after a 10-inning, 10-3 loss to Kansas City in the only AL game scheduled Monday have a half-dozen games with the White Sox.

That gives either of the three—the Indians, White Sox or Tigers—a chance to break away, but a stand-off is more likely. And a stand-off would give Baltimore and New York a chance to take charge.

The Orioles, third, 2½ games back, and Yankees play each other only three times in the 10-day period. Baltimore splits a dozen games between Washington and Boston, while the Yankees have 10 with the Senators and Red Sox.

A stand-off among the Indians, White Sox and Tigers would make Kansas City the tie-breaker, and the seventh place A's could snarl things but good.

They jumped from behind for a 2-2 tie on Kent Hadley's ninth-inning home run at Detroit Monday then turned another batch of Tigers bobbles into a record-tying, eight-run 10th. The Tigers now have lost nine of their last 14 games, and while dropping three of their last five, 16 of the 30 runs against them have been unearned.

The A's eight runs tied the AL record for 10th inning scoring. The Tigers set the mark against Washington in 1943, and Cleveland matched it against Philadelphia 10 years later.

An error by losing reliever Barney Schultz (1-2) got the A's started. Then reliever R. G. Smith gave up a walk and the tie-breaking and winning runs came in when Smith threw wild on Dick Williams' bunt. Hadley, 3-for-5, singled Williams home and the A's went on to send 12 batters to the plate.

Bud Daley (8-5) was the winner with Ned Garver's relief after the Tigers, blanked for five frames, added one run in the 10th.

Right-hander Jim Bunning started for Detroit, but was sidelined for five to six days when hit on the right wrist, by Jerry Lumpe's line drive in the third inning.

In the only National League game, San Francisco ended Los Angeles' winning streak at seven and reclaimed second place from the Dodgers with a 6-4 victory on 13th-inning home runs by Jim Davenport and Willie Mays.

Youngsters in the Wisconsin and New York area were the only beneficiaries in the Braves 8-3 victory over the Yankees Monday night before a crowd of 30,554 at County Stadium.

The Braves added plenty of extra dollars and presented a check of $100,000 to the Milwaukee Braves' Foundation established to provide college scholarships.

The Yankees earmarked their share of the receipts—close to $30,000—for the New York Sanlot Baseball fund.

Pre-game festivities included a home run hitting contest, much to New York's sorrow. Not only did the Braves' Joe Adcock edge teammate Hank Aaron 5-4 in a hitoff, but the Yankees' great Mickey Mantle aggravated an injury.

Mantle twisted his right ankle while managing to put only one of five fair balls over the fence. He limped back to the dugout, but he probably will not miss any American League action. He originally injured the ankle two weeks ago.

The World Series rivals of the past two seasons put on quite a show, though. The Braves pushed across three runs in both the seventh and eighth innings to win.

The Yankees looked like sand-lotters on occasions as they committed five errors. But the spotty play was done mostly by reserves who haven't seen much action.

More Than 400 Students Will Attend Music Camps At ECC

East Carolina College's Sixth Annual Summer Music Camp, scheduled for July 19-August 1, will bring to the campus more than 400 junior and senior high school students from several states. Plans for the event, one of the most popular of the special summer programs offered by the college, are now being completed by Earl E. Beach, director of the department of music, and a large corps of assistants.

George Burns Hitting His Stride As A Single

By BOB THOMAS
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — It certainly looked like George Burns up there on the stage.

He grinned knowingly at the audience and punctuated raucous with puffs of cigar smoke. Flicking the ash with his little finger, he went into a suave soft-shoe, then sang a few of his inimitable songs—inimitable because no one else will sing them.

Yes, it was George, all right—and without Gracie Allen.

Twice nightly he is pleasing audiences at the Hotel Sahara with his show-wire routines, and the audiences are no more pleased than George. "I'm too old to retire," he says, explaining why he continues though Gracie chose to quit.

Between shows he was glowing about his success as a single.

"If I had known what I have learned playing night clubs, I never would have gone off TV," he remarked. His solo effort of last season, the George Burns show, had rough going and wasn't renewed.

"Now I know how to write for myself," he explained. "For the first 13 weeks, I was still writing a TV show for Gracie, but she wasn't on with me."

"It's hard to get out of the habits of 35 years with the same act. And in filmed TV, you can't correct your mistakes in a hurry. You're nine shows ahead before you go on the air and see what you did wrong."

What are the chances of the Burns and Allen team resuming? "It'll never happen," he said with finality. "Gracie is perfectly happy to stay retired. Our daughter has children now, and Gracie likes to fuss over them. And she takes care of the house and sees her friends and goes shopping. She's never missed acting for a minute."

World War II Dead Are Home

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Eighteen Americans aboard a military plane that crashed into a cloud-covered mountain in remote New Guinea 14 years ago came home Monday to a common grave.

At the graveside were 34 relatives of the dead from 13 states. Tears rolled down some cheeks as the remains of their loved ones were buried in three flag-covered caskets.

The grave at Jefferson Barracks National Cemetery was marked with a single tombstone inscribed: "Died May 13, 1945 in air crash in Hidden Valley Dutch New Guinea."

The crash of the C-47 killed 21 persons, including seven members of the Women's Army Corps. Three persons survived the disaster which occurred an hour after the plane left Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea on a navigational training flight.

This was the second funeral service for the victims. In the first, a C-47 circled over the area while Catholic, Protestant and Jewish chaplains read the services from the plane.

The only survivor at the graveside was John S. McCollom of Dayton, Ohio. McCollom, 40, an Air Force engineer, said: "I am still thankful in my prayers."

His twin brother, Robert, died in the crash.

Space Agency's Budget Trimmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has cut more than 10 per cent from the new space agency's budget for the fiscal year beginning Wednesday.

The bill, which provides $462,075,000 for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, goes to the Senate.

Meanwhile, the House considers today a proposal to provide emergency funds for federal agencies that still have not been voted appropriations for the new fiscal year. The present government year ends at midnight tonight.

President Eisenhower had asked $530,000,000 for the NASA. By voice vote, the House decided to give him $68,225,000 less.

The space money was included in a $609,843,845 appropriations bill covering several agencies. The biggest cut in the omnibus bill was $187,285,072 for expanding the defense stockpile of critical materials.

The Senate passed and sent to the President a $13,463,500 appropriation bill to pay his salary and run the White House and other executive agencies in the new year. It was $145,000 less than he had asked.

Crowd Jostles Ike And Kozlov

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower appeared to enjoy himself thoroughly. But it's something of a minor miracle if he doesn't have a few bruises today. Chances are that Soviet Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov, who is due here late today, could match Eisenhower one black and blue spot for another. However, the Kremlin official seemed to have a good time, too.

It all happened Monday in the New York City Coliseum, where Eisenhower met Kozlov for an hour-long official tour of the Soviet Union's scientific and cultural exhibit.

"I think it is a very, very admirable exhibit," Eisenhower said as he completed his visit. "I think it is lovely."

But during their tour, the two men were propelled — pushed, jostled, shoved — around the big exposition hall as the crowds of spectators and newsmen crushed in from all sides.

Scores of New York police were hard put at times to stay on their own feet. The Secret Service agents especially responsible for Eisenhower's security also had a rough time. The Soviets assigned to Kozlov must have had some anxious moments.

But the President and Kozlov, who arrived from Moscow Sunday, smiled through most of it.

Eisenhower laughed heartily at one point and assured his Soviet hosts: "I've been pushed around for six years. I'm used to it." Kozlov took it in apparently equal good humor, replying: "Well, we won't resort to tear gas and clubs."

They didn't even appear to be aware that some of the top United States officials who accompanied the President to the fair, including Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Maj. John Eisenhower, the President's son, got hopelessly cut off from the touring party after the first few minutes.

Missing After Noise Protested

CHICAGO (AP)—Several times Sunday night Hyde Park police received complaints about loud and dissonant music coming from clarinetist John Williams' South Side apartment.

Three squads responded and each told Williams to "exclude the sour notes and hold the noise down."

Monday Williams reported to the police his clarinet was missing.

Traffic Deaths Are Above 1958

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's traffic deaths, showing a rise in each of the first five months this year, are five per cent higher than for the first five months of 1958.

Traffic accidents from Jan. 1 to June 1 killed 13,940 and probably accounted for a half million disabling injuries, the National Safety Council reported Monday.

First Half Of 1959 Sees Most People Better Off

Editor's Note—At midyear most of us are better off than we could have hoped New Year's Day. Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, reviews an exciting first half of 1959 in the following story, first of two on the economic outlook.

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Most Americans fared well in the first half of 1959—despite all the threats to their peace and prosperity at home and abroad.

They have more money than six months ago, are spending more, going into debt more, working longer hours at a record number of jobs.

At midyear the cost of living is rising at only a moderate, if insidious, rate.

Total personal incomes have risen steadily and now are at a record high. They are being boosted along by higher wage scales, overtime pay, bigger dividend checks, and higher returns on services rendered.

Job opportunities have increased more than seasonally. And the stubborn total of unemployment began to melt as spring brought more outdoor work. Industrial output has climbed to new peak.

Money supplies have tightened and interest rates are rising. But only recently has the individual begun to feel any pinch. Until now, the chief complainers have been the federal, state and local governments seeking to raise cash and corporations who are charged more when they borrow.

So far Americans have been able to find enough mortgage financing to start an increasing number of homes.

The citizenry is taking on a record amount of instalment debt. It has added to its mortgage obligations and personal loans, but still has managed to save almost as much money as a year ago.

For the first time in several years, motorists have greeted spring with a burst of auto buying—much of it on the cuff.

And, attracted by the bull market with its promise of capital gains, more Americans than ever have become shareholders—either as investors for the long run or as traders for the quick profit.

There have been alarms. But most citizens have taken them quietly. These include the Berlin crisis which could have, but didn't, upset everything; the threat of a steel strike—still unresolved at midyear; and the hullabaloo about the approach of another round of inflation, which may or may not materialize.

The biggest thing of all in the first half of 1959 has been the up-surge in public confidence. Recession born eagerness melted with the snow drifts. Reassured by the speed of the recovery, Americans are buying goods and mortgage future incomes at a great rate, and in general living it up.

They'll Walk To N.Y. On Beaches

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Two young men are hiking to New York—along the beach.

Why? To prove it can be done. Don Jenkin and Frank Culy said as they set out last Saturday.

The plan to trudge via Los Angeles, San Diego, the peninsula of Lower California, the west coast of Mexico and Central America, along the Panama Canal, then up the east coast of the North American continent to New York.

They figure it will take them 18 months.

Each carried a machete, hunting knife, two changes of clothes, a compass, maps, knapsacks, blankets, first-aid kits, flashlights, toilet articles and 20 pounds of food. But no money; they plan to live off the land.

Jenkin, 22, originally from Victoria, B.C., and Culy, 21, of Oakland, Calif., recently have worked on construction projects here.

MAN WHO MISSED THE MOON

by EDMOND HAMILTON

From the book, "The Star of Life," published by Torquill Books. © 1959 by Edmond Hamilton. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER
The blue man pointed to Kirk Hammond's head and then to his own, then at the fiery craft flickering over the sea.
"Vramen! Vramen!" he repeated sharply.
Hammond could not understand. He looked at the man more closely.
He saw now that the tight turban that partially covered the blue man's skull was of a gleaming metallic fabric.
"Vramen!" yelled the other suddenly, pointing eastward.
Hammond looked and saw that the distant fireflies were now separating. One still hovered low above the sea out there. But the others were now quartering westward over the ocean, in a search-pattern that was rapidly approaching the coast.
The blue man abruptly dragged Hammond down to the ground in the deep black shadow beside the big boulder.
Hammond struggled angrily but the blue man held him without effort and fiercely motioned him to be still.
Hammond looked up and saw one of the fireflies approaching at a low altitude. It was a craft that flew silently and at great speed. Beside him, the blue man had suddenly released his hold and was frantically active. He had unwound part of his metallic cloth turban and was using a thin knife to cut off the length he had unwound.
It was so incomprehensible a thing to do that Hammond gawked in wonder.
And suddenly Hammond heard a clear voice speak inside his mind. It was a commanding voice resounding in his brain, carrying an hypnotic weight of authority.

"Come from hiding and show yourself," it commanded. "Signal your whereabouts to us!"
Hammond, totally without volition, found himself getting up and starting mechanically out of the shadow toward the starlit beach. The blue man grabbed his ankles and tripped him.
As Hammond sprawled, the man hastily wrapped around his head the length of metallic cloth he had cut from his own turban. At once the hypnotic metal command stopped.
Hammond lay in the shadow, trembling like a hunted animal. What kind of an Earth had he been thrown into?
The blue man crouched, looking up shrewdly at the fiery craft. Those flitting, silent fliers were moving along the coast in a continuing regular search-pattern. Now Hammond began to understand a little.
That very metal command must have come from the searching craft — and because it was mental there had been no language difficulty, a thought directly transmitted would not require any translation.
The metallic turban was of a material that provided shielding against that hypnotic attack. The blue man wore it for that reason, and a length of it had screened Hammond from it.
The blue man now uttered a grunt of satisfaction. The fiery craft were flying straight back to the one that still hovered far out over the sea. They had, obviously, given up the search.
Sitting up, the blue man looked at Hammond. He touches his own chest and spoke.

"Rab Quobba," he said.
That, at least, was unmistakable. Hammond touched his own chest and spoke his name.
"Hammond?" the other repeated, accenting it oddly. He pointed west toward the dark land and asked, "Do Ruooma?"
That meant nothing at all. Hammond made a shrugging gesture to show his ignorance.
Rab Quobba frowned. He pointed inland again and repeated, "Ruooma? Dal Vramen?"
It sounded to Hammond as though he was being asked if he came from the place whence the searching fiery craft had come. He could not be sure, but he took a chance. He shook his head.
Quobba seemed to make up his mind. He motioned to Hammond to accompany him, and started southward with long strides along the beach.
Hammond had not the faintest idea where they were going or who this big man with e oddly bluish skin might be. But he had sensed menace in the searching fiery craft — that uncanny hypnotic attack had been upsetting. And Rab Quobba had been friendly, at least so far.
He took a dozen steps and then stopped, swaying. His legs were too weak and leaden, he couldn't keep up. Quobba turned swiftly and came back to him. The blue man seemed to take in Hammond's weakness. He grunted and put one arm around Hammond to help him along.
Quobba kept wherever possible in the shadow of the great boulders that studded the beach. He seemed in a great hurry to get where they were going.
Then far to the west inland, a sword of light struck upward into the starry sky. It was like a monster lightning-bolt going up, leaving a livid fiery trail.
Quobba, in answer to Hammond's wondering look, pointed briefly westward and then straight upward at the stars. Hammond wondered. That fiery flash had looked like the trail of an ascending spaceship.
Then, if all those centuries had really passed, men had fully conquered space by now? Perhaps even interstellar space?
But if that were so, why were some of the men of Earth furiously hiding — and from whom?
He was reeling and knew he could go no farther when Quobba finally stopped. They were in the shadow of a huge boulder on a rocky ridge. The blue man looked carefully all around the starry sky. Then he spoke sharply.
"Shau Tammas- Quobba — aben!"
A section in the side of the great boulder swung inward, disclosing a dark aperture. At first, Hammond thought that his eyes were playing tricks on him. Then he realized that the whole boulder must be a hollow camouflage.
He had little time to look, for Quobba drew him hastily inside.
There was a sighing sound as the aperture closed behind them, and they were in utter darkness. Then a globe overhead flashed into light.
Hammond stood rocking on his feet and staring. The interior of the big fake boulder was a small room.
There were three other men in it. Two of them were quite ordinary young men of his own age. The other man, whom Quobba was addressing as Tammas, was not ordinary at all.
He was a wizened little chap with a wrinkled golden-yellow face and beady black eyes.
He exclaimed in wonder at the sight of Hammond, and the other two stared in dumb amazement.

Motorcycles Are 'Raining' Down

KYOTO, Japan (AP)—It's practically raining motorcycles at Shigeo Tanaka's house.
The things have been falling in his garden and on his house for two weeks. Ten so far have dropped in.
Tanaka's home lies at the bottom of an S-turn on a highway. Saturday night, a policeman was surveying damage done by one motorcycle when another whizzed in, scoring a near miss.
On June 14 seven plopped into Tanaka's yard within an hour. Tanaka has asked the highway people to put up a fence.
KILLIAN CONFIDENT
BOSTON (AP)—Dr. James R. Killian, former chief science adviser to President Eisenhower, said Sunday the Soviets are progressing in many areas but the United States will lead the world in science and technology. Killian is returning to his post as board chairman of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.
The new Boeing 707 jet planes can transport 180 passengers at a cruising speed of more than 605 miles per hour for 4,000 miles.

Chicago Takes On Glitter Segregation Issue Now To Honor Visiting Queen Raised Within NEA

CHICAGO (AP)—Brawny Chicago, giant of industry and agriculture, will be the center of a glitter next Monday as the city welcomes Queen Elizabeth of England.

High society is shivering with anticipation. Workmen are sweating on overtime to ready streets and displays. Protocol experts argue the rules and chefs mull the menu.

There will be a 21-gun salute, a marching band, motorcade, horsed escort, a 600-man honor guard of Naval Academy midshipmen and fireworks for the royal party's 13-hour visit.

"The idea that Americans have no interest in royalty is for the birds," says Col. Jack Reilly, Mayor Richard J. Daley's director of special events who is in charge of preparations.

One of the 1,000 persons invited to dinner with the Queen put it differently: "This is the first time I ever told my wife to go out and buy a new dress."

Queen Elizabeth and her husband, Prince Philip, are coming here in honor of the dedication of the enlarged St. Lawrence Seaway, which has added bigger business to the Chicago port.

Chicago is the only American city on their tour of the away and the Great Lakes.

Their visit has touched off a booming cleanup.

Last Sunday—a scorcher at 96 degrees—workmen returned a median strip on Lake Shore Drive near Congress St. in the area where the Queen and her consort will arrive from the royal barge.

Bright, pastel-colored wastebaskets have been placed along downtown streets.

Hotels are redecorating and refurbishing rooms where the Queen will rest.

Along the Chicago River, where once was sagging wharves and refuse, flowers and grass grow.

An estimated 1½ million persons are expected to see the royal couple.

The society ladies were in a dither, of course, especially about clothes for Monday evenings' dinner. The State Department solved one dilemma when it said the Queen "prefers ladies to wear gloves when they are being presented."

Not all Chicagoans were impressed with the Queen, however. Speaking for what probably is a minority was city Councilman Paddy Bauer, a saloon keeper. He received a coveted dinner ticket, but declares he won't use it.

"What's the Queen mean to me?" he asked. "Nothing, I never get out of my class."

Okay Rate Hike For Bus Firms

RALEIGH (AP)—Five bus companies operating in North Carolina will be able to boost their fares 5 per cent under a State Utilities Commission order.

The commission okayed the increases Monday after the firms complained of less travel and more expenses.

Despite economy measures by the firms, the commission said, "the combination of unfavorable, and to a great extent, uncontrollable circumstances have resulted in an increase in operating ratios to a dangerously high level."

The firms were Atlantic Greyhound, Carolina Scenic Stages, Queen City Coach, Smoky Mountain Stages and Southern Coach Co. Virginia Stage Lines filed for the increase, but was turned down because it did not appear at a commission hearing to justify the boost.

The 5 per cent increase would bring the five firms in line with federal laws which permit them to receive a basic rate of 3.15 cents a mile.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The issue of segregation in public schools once more is threatening to split the nation's largest educational organization along geographical and racial lines.

While delegates from the South want the National Education Assn. to adopt the same mildly worded resolution that was accepted after a bitter fight in Cleveland last year, Negro delegates, with the support of some Northern whites, want a strongly worded statement condemning racial segregation.

Advocates of a strong stand lost a skirmish Monday, but indicated they plan to keep fighting. The showdown will come at Friday's general session.

The resolutions committee held an open hearing on resolutions that will be up for consideration by the full convention Friday.

The proposed statement on integrating public schools called for a "spirit of fair play, good will and respect for law," and said the problem can be solved at local levels "by citizens of intelligence, sense, and reasonableness working together."

The resolution was attacked as wholly inadequate by Charles J. Suddeth, Negro principal of an elementary school in San Pablo, Calif., who said "this resolution takes no stand at all. It represents a victory for those who favor segregated schools."

Southern whites protested that anything stronger would be resented in the South.

"We in the South are as deeply dedicated to equal education (for Negroes) as anyone in the country," said Robert Williams, executive secretary of the Virginia Education Assn. "But we are on

Latvian Sailors Claim Asylum

TORONTO (AP)—Two young Latvian crewmen who stayed behind when their Soviet trawler left Newfoundland Sunday night told a nationwide TV audience they had been granted political asylum in Canada.

Berthold Vilnis and Adolph Olinis, both 21, turned up in Toronto after the skipper of the trawler Neman claimed that the Canadian Mounted Police had prevented the men from returning to their ship.

Their backs to the TV cameras, they said through an interpreter they had jumped ship June 20 because they wanted to live in a free country.

Asks Disapproval Of Smart Alecks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Police Chief Tom Cahill has asked San Franciscans to turn thumbs down on smart-aleck drivers over the Fourth of July weekend.

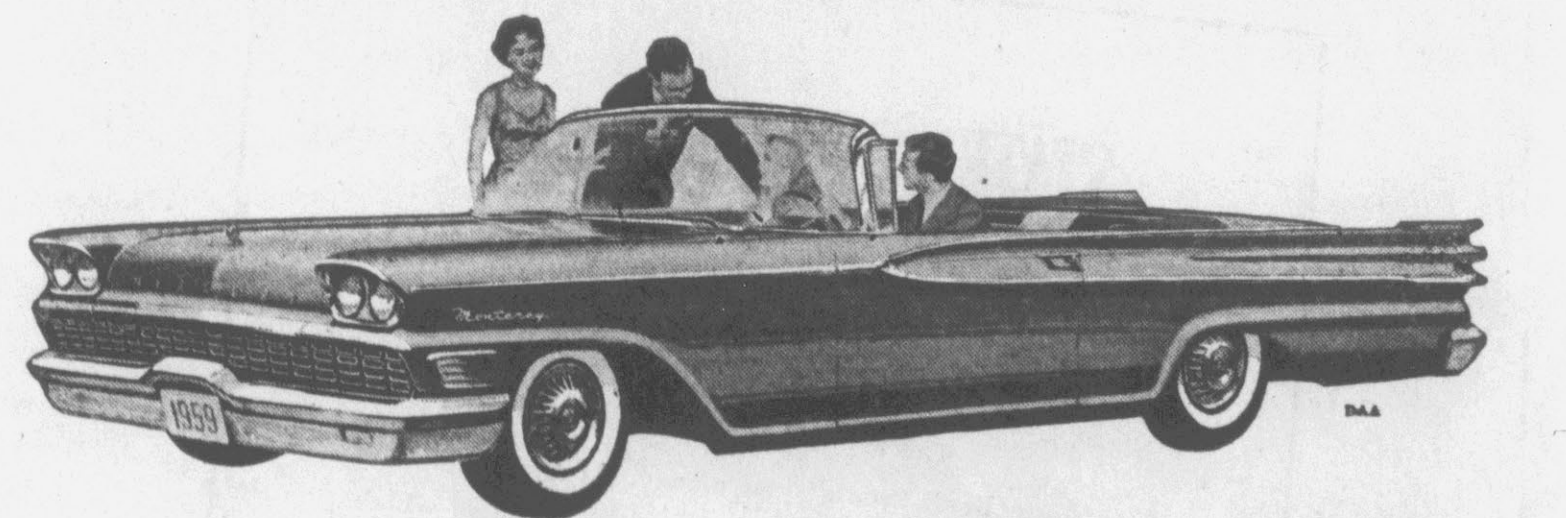

Cahill said the Police slogan is "thumbs down means don't clown" and that if enough people give the sign of disapproval to naughty drivers maybe they'll get the idea and behave.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market tried again to set a new high in the industrial average and once again faltered, leaving prices mixed early this afternoon.

A slightly higher balance remained from a fairly vigorous start early in the session but volume fell away and most major sections of the list showed an assortment of plus and minus signs. Steels, motors, rails, chemicals and aircrafts were irregular.

American Motors, the most active stock of the past five sessions, started the day with gusto, opening on successive blocks of 10,000 and 4,000 shares and posting a fractional gain. In the general softening that ensued, American Motors erased its gain and showed a fractional net loss before steadying again.

American Machine & Foundry retained a gain of more than a point. Cutler-Hammer jumped 3/4 to 80 on a block of 1,000 shares.

Tains of more than a point were made by Westinghouse Electric and Caterpillar. Also ahead about a point were Radio Corp., U.S. Rubber, and American Cyanamid. Kennecott dropped more than a point.

U.S. Steel and General Motors eluded fractional gains. D. P. Pont was off about a point as was Al Chemical. Small losses were shown by Texaco, Goodyear, International Nickel and United Aircraft.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 30 cents to $228.10 with the industrials up 50 cents, the rails off 10 cents and the utilities up 30 cents.

U.S. government bonds eased.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — Hog prices were steady to 50 lower. Tops of 15.75 to 17.25 at Wilson; 16.25 to 16.75 Nahant; 16.00 to 16.75 Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive; 16.00 to 16.50 Rocky Mount; 15.25 to 16.25 Albion, House's Mill, Lillington, Greensboro; 15.50 to 16.00 Tarboro, Enfield, Scotland Neck; 15.25 to 15.75 Bethel, Murfreesboro, Edenton, Grimesland, Sunbury, Harrellville, Farm 111, 16.25 Clinton, Fayetteville, Elizabethtown, Goldsboro; 16.00 Smithfield; 15.75 Siler City, Rich Square; 15.50 Clarkton, Laurel Hill, Clayton, Wingate, Four Oaks, Whiteville, Dunn; 15.25 Castle Hayne, Burdick.

Jet Fighter Crashes Into Okinawa School; 21 Die

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—A pilotless U.S. Air Force jet fighter crashed into the corner of an Okinawan schoolhouse today, then sprayed fiery fragments over a residential area.

A control center set up by U.S. military authorities said 21 persons were killed and 100 injured. Rescue teams were seeking more bodies.

It was not yet known how many of the dead were school children. The plane struck the roof of the school's sixth grade classroom, where a class was in progress. The teacher was hospitalized.

All of the victims apparently were Okinawans, police said that 60 of the less seriously injured were schoolchildren playing near the school.

The blazing wreckage set fire to 30 houses. Thousands rushed hysterically to the scene after a broadcast that 150 had been killed and 300 hurt. The milling crowds hindered the

Soviet To Apply Automation Plan

MOSCOW (AP) — The Central Committee today put before the Soviet people a master plan to cut corners in the race with the United States for industrial supremacy.

The plan, adopted at a five-day meeting of the committee at which Premier Nikita Khrushchev made the main speech, was spread over 3 1/2 pages of the Communist party paper Pravda, and the government paper Izvestia.

It calls for widespread automation in industrial plants, retooling and mass mobilization of scientific and efficiency experts.

It also calls for tightened central control by the party and government to assure a uniform industrial advance on a broad front to achieve goals of the seven-year economic plan.

The seven-year plan aims at surpassing the United States, but one industrial expert, Averk B. Aristov, frankly told the committee the task of modernizing is too big to be accomplished in the seven-year plan.

The five-day session at the Kremlin disclosed that Soviet industry is modernly equipped in some fields and badly out of date in others.

Last Rites Set For Mrs. Alonza D. Boyd

Mrs. Mary Duffy Boyd, 75, died early Monday afternoon at Pitt Memorial Hospital after seven years' illness.

Funeral services will be held at the Wilkerson Chapel Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock by Rev. R. B. Crawford, pastor of Greenville Free Will Baptist Church. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery, Tarboro.

Mrs. Boyd was a member of the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church. She was married to Will Barnes and after his death was married to Jim Wilson. After his death in 1949, she was married to Alonza D. Boyd, who survives. Also surviving are a sister, Mrs. Mae Cahoon of New Bern, and six stepchildren, Ivey B. Boyd of Norfolk, Va., Jesse R. Boyd and Mrs. R. P. Gurgans of Greenville, Mrs. A. H. Jackson of Kinston, Mrs. Louis Perkins of Greenville and Mrs. W. Davenport of New York City.

Unveil Portrait Of Late Judge

ASHEVILLE (AP)—A portrait of the late Chief Judge John J. Parker of the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals was to be unveiled here today during the 29th annual judicial conference of the circuit.

Among the scheduled speakers prior to the ceremony were Justice Tom Clark of the U.S. Supreme Court and Ross L. Malone, president of the American Bar Assn.

Curiosity Traps A Curious Cat

BALTIMORE (AP)—It was curiosity all right but it didn't kill the cat. Just left him with his head stuck through a small hole in a wooden garbage can lid.

Neighbors found the trapped tabby Monday and called police. Patrolman Walter Holtz fed the kitten a plate of milk then took him to a lumber mill where workers carefully removed his giant-sized collar with hammer and chisel.

Block Meeting For Third Time

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the third time in a row, a scheduled Senate subcommittee meeting to consider civil rights measures was blocked today.

The subcommittee on constitutional rights said Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-NC) has objected to a meeting while the Senate was in session.

The Senate met two hours earlier than usual today, overlapping the same set for the subcommittee session. Committees may meet while the Senate is in session only if no objection is raised.

Lions Listen As Stripper Speaks

ROYAL OAK, Mich. (AP)—Stripper Libby Jones with an angelic look in her green eyes, defended her art before the Lions.

Under the watchful eyes of wives who came as surprise guests, members of the Royal Oak Lions Club were captivated by the speaker at their weekly luncheon meeting Monday.

The statuesque 5-foot-8 burlesque queen looked coolest of all in a clinging white dress that accentuated a 36-26-36 figure.

The temperatures were near 90 and the Lions had stripped off their coats.

Libby scored all her points without stripping to music as she does nightly at a nearby Detroit bar. She said she had been making a psychological and historical study of the strip tease "because it is important to me in my career to know why this profession exists."

Her audience of dignified businessmen and professional men and matronly housewives looked most impressed when Libby confided that she earned from $750 to $1,250 a week.

Libby agreed she would be contributing more to society if she had become a schoolteacher. But she argued there was a popular demand for her art.

"Up to date it has never been suggested to me that a man could do my job better than I," she said.

Club President Sam Marinaro awarded Libby a certificate of appreciation.

"Bless you," said Libby. "I will go in my scrap book."

Violence Follows Cutting Off Fire Hydrants

NEW YORK (AP) — Violence flared in Manhattan and the Bronx Monday night after firemen turned off hydrants.

The hydrants were turned on by youths, a common practice in New York in hot weather. Monday's 96-degree temperature was only one degree away from a record for the date.

In the Bronx, a lighted bottle of gasoline was tossed from a rooftop into a group sitting on a front stoop.

The victims told police they thought the fire bomb was tossed by youths in retaliation for the residents' calling police after a hydrant was turned on. A 72-year-old woman, Louise Blaskiewicz, was hospitalized with burns. Several others were treated for burns and sent home.

In Manhattan, two firemen were attacked by a gang of 25 youths when the firemen tried to turn off a hydrant.

One fireman was struck on the head with a garbage pail, and the other was stabbed in the left arm. The firemen who were struck on the head was hospitalized and the other treated and sent home.

Satch Ventures Out Into Sun

ROME (AP) — Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong ventured out into the blistering noonday sun today although doctors had advised him to stay in his hotel room.

The king of jazz, recuperating from a serious attack of pneumonia, donned dark brown shorts and a matching shirt to attend a luncheon at the home of Boston-born Countess Alicia Paolozzi.

It was Armstrong's first time outside of the hotel where he had been resting on doctors' orders.

Satchmo plans to fly to New York Thursday to be home for his 59th birthday July 4.

Eastern Carolina News Roundup

RECORD BUDGET SET

AHOSKIE — The Northampton County Commissioners has tentatively approved a record budget of $681,554.45. Final approval of the budget will come at the July 6 meeting. The new budget is about $90,000 above last year's budget.

GETS 4-H TITLE

AHOSKIE — Miss Audrey Holloman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Holloman of Harrellville, was crowned Saturday at Miss Fiftieth Anniversary of 4-H Clubs in North Carolina. Miss Holloman plans to enter East Carolina College next fall.

ISSUE TOBACCO CARDS

NEW BERN — Tobacco Marketing cards will be prepared and issued soon, announces J. T. Meredith, manager of the Craven county agricultural stabilization and conservation program. Each card will be made out in the name of the farm operator as shown on the office records. This procedure is being done to protect the farm

COLORED NEWS

The Junior Usher Board will meet tonight at 7:30 at Mt. Calvary Free Will Baptist Church. Edward Laughinghouse is president.

Members of Loving Tent No. 464 are asked to meet at the home of Mrs. Dollie Staton Council at 2 p.m. Wednesday to attend her funeral. Transportation will be provided. Mrs. Hattie V. Forbes is leader.

WATER EMERGENCY

CORNING, N.Y. (AP)—The water shortage here abated somewhat today, but this city of 19,000 remained in a state of emergency. Officials said the long dry spell or perhaps a major break in the water system has caused the city's two reservoirs to go dry. Water began seeping back into the reservoirs late Monday, providing residents enough for their immediate needs.

Construction Decreased

ROCKY MOUNT — Rocky Mount construction for the year 1958-1959 totaled $2,871,401 according to figures released by G. K. Abbott, city building inspector. The figure is far below the $4,165,532.70 for the year 1957-1958. However, building that year was boosted by City Housing Project building at the Weeks-Armstrong Housing development.

PROBABLE CANDIDATE

GOLDSBORO — Following his address to the veterans of World War I Saturday night, State Treasurer Edwin Gill told a News-Argus reporter that he is "seriously considering" running for Governor. Gill said that he had received a great deal of encouragement, but would probably not reach a definite decision until fall.

COUPLE FILL POSTS

GOLDSBORO — Mr. and Mrs. James E. Dayton of Asheville were elected to top posts as the veterans of World War I closed out their three-day convention Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Dayton were installed as state commander and Ladies' Auxiliary president respectively during ceremonies at the Hotel Goldsboro.

NAMED TO BOARD

GOLDSBORO — Thomas M. Benton, a native of New Hope, has been named administrative assistant in the office of the Wayne County Board of Education. Benton received his B. S. degree in physical education and science from East Carolina College in 1950. He received his master's degree in education from the University of North Carolina in 1954.
