President Says Inflation Top Issue For 1960 Race

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the matter of inflation will be one of the main issues of the 1960 presidential campaign.

The President also told a news conference that he not only looks for a balanced budget in the new fiscal year starting today—he expects a start on paying off the $286-billion-dollar national debt.

And, he said, he believes the Democratic-controlled Congress also expects the administration to start paying off the debt during the next 12 months.

He noted that Congress has just approved legislation—which he signed Tuesday—providing for a new permanent debt ceiling of $285 billion dollars.

The legislation also sets a temporary limit of 295 billion.

Final figures have not been released on the government's deficit in the fiscal year which has just closed. But it is in the neighborhood of 13 billion dollars.

Eisenhower was asked whether he believes inflation will be the main issue in next year's presidential campaign. He replied it certainly will be one of the principal issues.

Then he added that he had thought this in the 1958 elections, but the outcome of the congressional campaign did not lead him to believe the people were as greatly concerned as he had expected.

Eisenhower, in reply to a question, said he had no knowledge of any confidential government report predicting a three per cent increase in the consumers price index in 1960.

Today is the 43rd wedding anniversary of the President and Mrs. Eisenhower. Despite the sweltering heat, Eisenhower turned up for the news conference wearing a vest with his gray business suit.

The first question brought a big smile to his face. It was a request that he set forth his formula for 43 years of successful marriage.

To a round of laughter, Eisenhower replied that he really has no formula. His marriage, he smiled, has been a very happy experience. Then he added that a successful marriage gets happier as the years go by.

In the course of the news conference, the President touched on

Man Found Dead Near Barn Curer

A Route 5, Greenville, man, father of two children, died while working on a recently-installed tobacco barn curer about 8:30 a.m. today.

The Greenville Rescue Squad was called about 8:35 a.m. to the farm, located one mile from Greenville on the Paoletus highway. They were told William H. Tripp, 32, had been electrocuted.

Responding rescuers found the man outside the barn when they arrived. According to Lt. Claude Christopher of the squad, rigor mortis had started to set in when the squad arrived and the victim's face had turned blue from lack of oxygen.

The rescuers administered oxygen and artificial respiration to Tripp but to no avail.

Investigating Sheriff's Deputy Duke Andrews said one of Tripp's brothers, Burney Tripp, found the victim lying on the ground in a shed which housed the heating controls for a tobacco barn curer which the victim installed just yesterday.

Officers quoted Burney Tripp as saying he then called for help and a third brother, Cary Tripp, helped remove his brother from the shed.

Investigators found a three-inch burn on the victim's right shoulder, presumably caused by contact with a source of electrical current.

However, investigators say the victim may not have been electrocuted.

According to the dead man's brothers he was subject to fainting spells and may have fainted or had a heart attack and fallen against the heater controls causing a short circuit which made the burn on his shoulder.

An autopsy will be performed to determine the exact cause of death.

Surviving the victim are his wife, Marie Lum Tripp, who was visiting relatives in Virginia, at the time of his death, a four-year-old son, and a 13-year-old daughter.

Morganton Plant Strike Is Ended

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP)—A two-month strike of 400 workers at the Great Lakes Carbon Co. here has ended.

Agreement was reached Tuesday night at an emergency bargaining session. A short time later, Local 427 of the International Chemical Workers Union ratified the agreement by what a union spokesman called an overwhelming vote.

Details of the new contract were not made public. It was announced, however, that new employees hired to replace strikers, and strikers who had returned to work, will continue on the four-week strike pay.

The firm said Tuesday 22 strikers had returned to work.

Prior to the strike production and maintenance workers averaged about $2.00 an hour. The company's latest proposal offered a six-cent hourly wage hike; three-weeks paid vacation starting with the 10th year of service; paid sick leave increase from 40 to 60 hours a year and a yearly increase from $40 to $20 in the number of hours of sick leave an employee may accumulate.

Pickets were removed from outside the plant today.

A company spokesman said the union men would return to work as soon as schedules are arranged.

He indicated this might be two or three days.

The union struck the electrode plant April 30 after the two sides failed to reach agreement on the new contract.

Principal issues were minimum production standards for workers, and wages. Later, the matter of dues checkoff and seniority rights for new workers emerged as issues.

There have been reports of violent incidents in connection with the strike, particularly since the company began hiring workers to replace the strikers. The company had told the strikers they would be replaced if they didn't return to their jobs.

Only Tuesday, District Solicitor B. T. Falls Jr. of Shelby announced he had requested a special one-week term of Superior Court to convene July 13 to dispose of strike-connected cases.

On Monday, David Rich pleaded guilty at a preliminary hearing to an attempt to blow up a power substation of the truck company.

Rich was jailed in lieu of $25,000 bond pending trial in August.

A guard at the substation fired a shotgun blast at a man he said was attempting to light something near the building. Dynamite later was found where the man had been standing.

Soldier Dies Of Bullet Wound

PAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Sgt. Jack E. Hammer of nearby Fort Bragg died at an Army hospital Tuesday night after being accidentally shot in the stomach.

A friend, Sgt. William J. Taylor was demonstrating the use of a 22 caliber revolver when it discharged, striking Hammer in the stomach.

No charges have been made pending an investigation.

Hammer is survived by his widow, Nancy Jo, their son, Michael, 5 and his mother Mrs. Martha Hammer of Rutledge, Tenn.

President Signs Tax Extension

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has signed a measure extending for another year the wartime rates on corporation income and excise taxes.

Also signed by the President Tuesday was a bill boosting the national debt to a temporary limit of 295 billion dollars.

Both measures had to be signed by midnight to avoid money troubles. Without the new legislation, the current tax rates would have dropped today.

Methodist Bishop W. W. Peele Dies In His Sleep

LAURINBURG, N.C. (AP)—Bishop W. W. Peele, Methodist bishop formerly in charge of the Richmond, Va., area, died in his sleep before dawn today. He was 78.

Bishop Peele retired because of poor health in June of 1952 and has lived here since then. He was born at nearby Gibson.

Mrs. Peele discovered his death when she went to rouse him this morning. He had been in recent good health and had visited friends last night.

In 1938 at the General Conference in Birmingham he was named a bishop and assigned to the Richmond area, which covers Virginia and eastern North Carolina.

Later he was made president of the Council of Bishops.

He was the fourth of 10 children born to parents who farmed 60 acres and sent eight of their children through college. He was named William Walter when he was born in 1881.

After he was graduated from Trinity College (now Duke University) he became a teacher and later was made president of Rutledge College, a junior college in Burke County. Next he became pastor of the St. John's - Gibson church, near his birthplace.

He returned to Trinity College as teacher of Biblical literature and attended Officers Training School at Plattsburg, N.Y., in World War I.

Later there followed a series of major pastorate assignments in North Carolina—at Edenton Street church in Raleigh, at Trinity church in Durham, and at First Methodist Church in Charlotte. He also served as superintendent of the Greensboro district.

Later in the 1940s, he and Mrs. Peele built an unpretentious home three miles from Laurinburg. When they came here in 1952 they quickly entered into the life of the community.

Bishop Peele frequently filled pulpits of the area, spoke at community meetings, fished with friends, and came to be known as a familiar figure throughout Scotland County.

He once told a Laurinburg audience that the Methodist church had given him many honors but that all had been overshadowed by "a love of people and the joy I received from working with them in my pastorate."

The Peeles had no children.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Friday at the First Methodist Church here. Bishop Paul Neff Garber of Richmond will officiate, along with the Rev. H. G. Ruark, pastor of First Methodist, and the Rev. Grady Kinley, pastor of Gibson Methodist Church, Gibson, N.C.

Utilities Agree To Provide City With Needed $20,000

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

Councilmen will have an additional $20,000 with which to balance their budget for the 1959-60 fiscal year as the result of Greenville Utilities Commission action last night.

The commissioners approved a plan to buy back seven acres of land needed for a proposed sewage disposal plant for $7,000 and to turn over an additional $13,000 to the city to make up the deficit.

However, in approving the plan, the commission members also approved an amendment to the motion offered by Charles Horne. The amendment binds the commission to find a "more businesslike way" of turning over funds to the city each year from the Utilities operation.

Action by the Utilities Commission last night gave virtual assurance that the city's $1.38 per $100 valuation tax rate will be held for another year.

The councilmen at a meeting Monday night found their budget to be $21,600.20 out of balance after they had added two additional policemen and $7,500 for a new Carver Negro Library building to the original budget proposed by City Manager and Utilities

Superintendent Leonard Bloxam.

Councilmen also increase the Public Works Department contingency fund by $2,000, Sheppard Memorial Library funds by $1,000, and they added $500 to the budget for improvements at Greene Springs Park.

The city fathers were to hold a meeting this afternoon at 4 o'clock in City Hall at which the tentative budget was expected to be quickly approved.

Finding the final $1,600.20 needed to balance the city's record-breaking budget is expected to pose no problem for the city officials.

The councilmen and the Utilities Commission met jointly last night as Mayor S. Eugene West placed the city's request for the additional funds before the group.

Council members then retired to another room while commission members discussed the request.

Commissioners approved the turn-over of additional funds by a unanimous vote, but Commissioner Horne pushed hard for his amendment before the final vote was taken.

"I'm not concerned about the amount requested," he declared. "They are asking for something that belongs to them. I want to see us determine in some matter a fair share of income from the commission. Somewhere, somehow there ought to be a more businesslike way of turning over profits to the citizens."

J. Ed. Waldrop made the motion to purchase seven acres of land behind Greenwood Cemetery for $7,000 and turn over $13,000 in additional funds to the city during the year.

It was seconded by Dr. Ray Atinges.

However, Horne said he would not vote for an "increase or decrease" until the commission agreed to study a plan to put the turn-over of funds matter on a more businesslike basis.

Horne then offered an amendment to authorize "the chairman to appoint a committee to find a more businesslike method of turning funds over to the city."

The amendment was accepted and approved along with the motion.

It was stipulated in the motion that the additional turn-over would be for one year only. As matters now stand the commission's turn-over to the city would revert back to the $150,000 permanent figure next fiscal year.

The seven acres of land bought from the city by the Utilities Commission last night was originally purchased from the commission by the council for $940 an acre. However, it has since been determined that additional land will be needed by the commission for its sewage disposal plant. For the city will need less land for expansion of its cemetery than had originally been anticipated.

Mayor S. Eugene West this morning expressed his appreciation to the Utilities Commission "for the cooperation they gave us."

"As long as we have this type of cooperation, I feel sure the problems of the city can be solved without too much difficulty," the mayor declared.

The budget under consideration by the council is largely a "hold-the-line" budget.

The new Carver Library building is the only new building construction authorized.

Among the regular city department's capital improvements budget calls for an expenditure of $27,598.30. However, much of the amount will go for replacing of present equipment.

For instance, the capital improvements budget calls for trading three city police cars.

Most of the increase in expenditures for the coming year comes in the operational budgets for the various city departments.

Adopt Tentative Farmville Budget

FARMVILLE—A tentative budget of $488,686.39 was approved Monday by Farmville Commissioners.

The budget, expected to be given final approval next week at the board's regular session, would permit the town to retain its $150 tax rate.

Included in the tentative budget are appropriations of $156,230.05 for General Fund operations, $13,612.50 for Debt Service, $306,500 for water and light operating expenses, and $12,343.84 for sewerage plant salaries and expenses.

Revenue for the General Fund is anticipated to include $59,761.58 from the town's 1959-1960 tax levy, $58,286.40 from the Water and Light Department, $13,000 from the Powell Bill restricted fund, and $25,182.07 from other sources.

Debt Service revenue of $13,612.50 is all expected to come from the 1959-1960 tax levy. Water and Light Department revenue is expected to include $306,500 from water and light sales, plus $1,500 from other receipts. The sewerage plant's revenue will be allocated from the Water and Light Department funds.

General Fund appropriations set out in the tentative budget include $12,052.79 for administrative salaries and expenses; $61,656.20 for Street Department salaries and expenses; $13,000 for Powell Bill expenditures; $32,884.66 for Police Department salaries and expense; $2,900 for maintenance of cemeteries; $3,000 for Town Hall expense; $3,000 for alterations in the Town Hall; $350 for the National Guard; $2,400 for the Health Department; $4,000 for the Farmville Economic Council; $3,060 for the Recreation Commission; $8,991.98 for the Library; $750 for insect and rodent control; $2,648 for general expenses.

Hodges Visits Cigarette Plant

LENINGRAD — (AP) — Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina, touring Russia with eight other state chief executives, broke a front tooth while visiting a state farm Tuesday.

Hodges broke the tooth on a cherry pit but got a quick repair job and kept a date to see a Soviet cigarette plant now far from Leningrad.

He was told the factory produces papyrossi—short cigarettes attached to a long cardboard holder—at the rate of 90 million a day.

Hodges had the plant manager exclaiming in amazement when he told him North Carolina produces several hundred billion a year. He said afterward he didn't quote the actual figures for fear the Russians wouldn't believe him.

Take Up County School Budget

Pitt County Commissioners were scheduled to meet today with representatives of the Pitt County Board of Education in efforts to complete preliminary work on the 1959-1960 fiscal year budget for county operations.

Chairman R. L. Martin of the commissioners was to have presided at the meeting calendared for 3 p.m. in the Commissioners' Room of the Court House.

Martin said yesterday the county board has gotten the current fund for the coming fiscal year in "good shape," but that additional work needs to be done before final appropriations for schools could be made. He added that most of the work on other portions of the budget was done in an eight-hour session June 23.

The chairman also said the board may adopt an interim budget at today's meeting, although it has until its regular meeting to do so. The regular meeting of the board will be held at 10 a.m. July 7.

County Offices To Close Monday

All Pitt County offices will be closed on Monday, July 6, in observance of the July 4 holiday, an authorized holiday for county governmental offices.

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners will meet at 10 a.m. Tuesday, instead of on Monday, as regularly scheduled.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

Temperatures will average 2 or 3 degrees above normal through Monday, turning cooler Thursday and Friday, somewhat warmer Sunday. Scattered showers Thursday and possibly Sunday or Monday will average one-half to one inch.

Hail And Wind Lash Some Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tar Heel farmers, their parched lands lashed by Tuesday's damaging hail and wind storms, hoped for rain today.

The state forecast for today called for continued hot weather with only a few widely scattered afternoon and evening thunderstorms, mostly in the north and east portions. The predicted high was for 100 degrees outside the mountains.

Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine warned that continued drought would multiply crop damages, especially to the state's multi-million-dollar tobacco fields. The state has not received a general soaking rain since June 3 and 4.

Temperatures reached new 1959 highs in many eastern and Piedmont localities Tuesday before the heated air, rising swiftly, produced the ravaging hail storms.

The hail brought damage up to 100 per cent on some lands in Franklin, Johnston, Robeson, Lee, Wake and Onslow counties.

A two-hour storm in Lee pelted crops and started several fires. It was the "worst in 37 years," Superior Court Judge Clawson Williams, a long-time resident, said.

Rain, most of it brief showers which didn't register on Weather Bureau gauges, extended from Elizabeth City to Jacksonville and Swan Quarter on the coast and from Maxton to Warrenton in the inland area of eastern North Carolina.

No rain fell at New Bern, Kingston, Goldsboro, Wilson, Smithfield, Weldon and Rocky Mount, all in the heart of Tar Heel tobacco land.

Earlier in the day, the thermometer sprung to 104 at Louisville, struck later by devastating hail. It was 102 at Raleigh-Durham and Charlotte, 101 at Cherry Point and Greensboro and 100 at Wilmington, Winston-Salem and Hickory.

Only the mountains and the Outer Banks were spared the 100-degree readings. Asheville recorded 93 and Hatteras 94.

100-Degree High

It was not quite so hot yesterday but the temperature still reached 100 degrees.

The Utilities weather station reported a high for the day of exactly 100 at 3 p.m. Low last night was 76 degrees and at 8 o'clock this morning the thermometer stood at 82 degrees.

River level yesterday was up over preceding days, standing at three feet.

Yesterday was the fourth consecutive day during which the temperature had reached 100 degrees.

Georgia-Florida Markets' Opening To Be Set Friday

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP)—A date for opening of Georgia-Florida cured tobacco markets will be announced following a meeting in Atlanta Friday. The date is expected to be July 16.

A. J. Brannen, president of the Georgia-Florida Warehouse Assn., said the Georgia Tobacco Advisory Committee will meet with Commissioner of Agriculture Phil Campbell who will make the final decision. Campbell likely will confer with Florida Agriculture Commissioner Nathan Mayo, who has the final say-so in his state, so that the opening—as always in the past—will be on the same date in both states.

Opening dates for other flue-cured belts will be set later by the individual belt warehouse associations.

Brannen, who is here attending the annual convention of the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn., said there is some opposition to the July 16 date which has been recommended by Georgia and Florida Tobacco Advisory committees and the board of governors of the Georgia-Florida Warehouse Assn.

But, Brannen added, "I have no reason to believe it won't be July 16."

The possibility had existed that the Flue-Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corp., which operates the government price support program for flue-cured tobacco, might not be able to get ready for a July 16 opening. However, Brannen said, "We feel that will take care of itself."

Brannen announced that warehousemen of the Georgia-Florida belt will meet at Valdosta, Ga., two days prior to the belt opening to get stabilization contracts and final instructions for market operation. He said warehouse owners and bookkeepers should attend.

Rocket Fuel Plant Slated In Asheville

ASHEVILLE (AP)—The Celanese Corp. of America which announced some months ago its decision to enter the rocket fuel field, is buying a plant on a 1,300-acre site near here to produce the fuel.

However, the company did not predict, in making the announcement Tuesday, when the plant might begin operations or how many workers it eventually will employ. The firm explained that the project still is in the development stage.

When the company announced its decision to enter into production of rocket fuel, it retained J. M. Zeigler, a noted research scientist, as manager of high energy materials operations.

The plant is to be operated near here to produce high energy fuels for rockets and guided missiles, the company said.

The plant is now owned by Oerlikon Corp. of Zurich, Switzerland, a leading producer of rockets and missiles. It will be operated by Amel Propulsion Inc., in which Celanese will have controlling interest.

The plant site includes a test firing range and research laboratories and equipment, for fuel production.

Celanese Corp. President Harold Blanche said in New York that several products supplied by the company's chemical division can be used in the manufacture of the newer rocket propellants.

He also said Celanese is working to develop other chemicals that could figure prominently in missile fuels of the future.

The plant east of here has been idle for several years. Oerlikon has been trying to find a buyer for the property since 1956. Earlier plans for the plant failed to materialize, and Oerlikon said in 1956 that it had found it difficult to operate a plant in this county because of security regulations.

Here Comes The Lovely July Bride

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

HERE COMES the bride of 1959. She is younger than the brides of a few years ago, and better informed about fashion.

If she is today's average American bride she is 18 years old, marrying a young man of 19 or 20. Both bride and groom may still be in college, and planning to get their diplomas before starting a permanent home. Their parents will still foot the bills.

There are years of scrimping and hard work ahead of her, but on one thing she's firm—she wants a formal wedding with all the trimmings. The bridegroom may vote for a quick ceremony before a justice of the peace, but the bride intends to have her big day.

Her gown may be organdy, tulle, or tulle, but more than likely it will be white, strictly formal, full-length, with chapel or cathedral train, and she will wear a veil.

She'll choose her bridesmaids' dresses in pastel tints—either all one color or all different—to complement her own romantic gown. Bridesmaids' dresses may be full-length also or waltz-length, but will be chosen to do duty through the summer as dance dresses.

The teen-age bride should choose a simple wedding gown, cut on classic lines. Most popular style has a fitted bodice with sweetheart neckline, and full skirt, complete with crinolines and train. If the gown has short sleeves, the bride should wear long white gloves, reaching above the elbow.

She may carry a bridal bouquet or merely a white satin prayer book—perhaps with a small corsage pinned to it. Her veil may be of ancestral lace, but with a modern wedding gown she probably will prefer a short circular veil of tulle, attached to a small diadem headress.

TRADITIONAL BRIDE . . . Her romantic gown is white tulle, which looks like pure silk peau de sole but costs less. Skirt has side pouf and train, by Murray Hamberger.

BRIDESMAID . . . Her gown is pastel acetate tulle, cut on simple lines with basque waist and huge side-draped skirt. Color will never fade, through many seasons of dance duty.

Mobleys Have Family Reunion

ROBERSONVILLE—On Sunday the children of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Mobley and their families held a reunion at the family home near Robersonville.

The tables on the lawn were spread with white cloths. A dinner consisting of ham and fried chicken was served buffet style.

Those present were the Rev. and Mrs. John Hemingway, Douglas and Jackie from Corapeake; Mr. and Mrs. Billy Hurley and son Mark from Fayetteville; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Edwin Roebuck and daughters, Becky, Lou Ann and Susan; Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Jones and Carroll Jr. from Williamston; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Woodcock and children, Sandra, Woody and Donna Kay from Wilmington; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mobley and son Jake and daughter Carolyn, and Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Mobley, all of Robersonville.

Film Shown At Service

FOUNTAIN—The film strip describing the work of the General Fund Agencies was shown in the Fountain Presbyterian Church Tuesday night during the prayer meeting service.

Following the showing of the film strip the Women of the Church held their regular monthly meeting.

The president, Mrs. Paule Burnette, presided. Mrs. Mark W. Owens gave Ephesians 6:10-20 for her scripture lesson and closed with prayer.

During the business session the secretary, Mrs. Clarence Everett gave the minutes of the May meeting. Mrs. J. L. Dozier, treasurer, gave her report.

Reed Baskets Add To Income

RALEIGH—Mrs. Jim Singleton, Haywood County, adds about $250 to her yearly income by making and selling reed baskets. Mrs. Singleton learned how to make a simple roll basket at the Western (Extension Service) District Craft Workshop in 1954.

According to Miss Marjorie Shearin, food conservation and marketing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, Mrs. Singleton has read all available books and instructions on basketry. She now excels in the craft. In classes during the past five years, she has taught 250 Home Demonstration Club craft leaders to make baskets.

Money realized through the sale of craft articles is being used to add her first electric range and kitchen cabinets. All of Mrs. Singleton's projects and activities have been an outgrowth of Home Demonstration influences.

In 1958, home economics agents in North Carolina reported $84,494.61 income from the sale of craft articles by Home Demonstration members. This figure does not include the value of articles made for gifts or home use.

North Carolina offers in resort areas and along interstate highways a ready market for good craft articles, according to Miss Shearin. Articles made from native materials that are representative of North Carolina—wood carving, articles from corn shucks, pine needle baskets, etc.—are in great demand.

NYLON SETS

Cool news for spring-into-summer accessories are sheer nylon scarf-and-glove sets printed with enchanting surrealistic flowers to perk up a dark ensemble.

They can look fresh and new continually because they can be washed speedily between wearings. Use warm soap or detergent suds and rinses. Then let them drip-dry quickly, no ironing needed.

Women Drivers' Trouble Is Men

The trouble with women drivers is men, says blonde, breezy Pat Jones, of Wichita, Kan., professional stunt driver who teaches driving in her spare time.

"There's always some man either in the front seat or the back who gets the woman at the wheel rattled," says Pat. "If he's a husband, it's fatal. No woman can be expected to keep her mind on her driving when her husband is sitting beside her saying 'Watch that car ahead!' . . . 'Don't forget to signal!' . . . 'Wow! You just missed that one!' . . . or 'Baby, can't you stay on your own side of the road?'"

Pat was interviewed in New York after winning an economy mileage test run, driving a standard Dodge from Kansas City to New York and beating the men drivers. She has driven 50,000 miles in the last seven months, and is a member of Jack Kochman's Helldrivers, doing fireball crashes, crash rolls and ramp-to-ramp leaps.

"It gives you confidence in ordinary driving to know how to crash," says Pat. "Maybe that's why most women are so nervous when they're at the wheel—they've never crashed."

Miss Jones does not advise women drivers to go out and crack up to gain confidence. You have to have special cars and special gear for that. But she thinks nothing of driving a car head-on into a brick wall when she's prepared.

"Once when I was racing I got to thinking about a boy I'd met, and I turned over seven times going around a curve," she says. "It was okay. I wasn't hurt. Only I didn't win the race."

Pat was born in Ebano, Mexico, daughter of an American oil man, and has lived in Fort Morgan, Colo., and Casper, Wyo.

Meals In Minutes Demonstration Topic

"Meals in Minutes" was the topic of the demonstration given by Mrs. F. L. Allen at the June meeting of the Red Oak Home Demonstration Club. Mrs. Allen

Food and Nutrition leader, had prepared several tasty dishes to show how meals could be prepared in advance in order to save that last minute rush. She compared planning a meal to that of making a dress and showed how the seven basic foods were needed to complete the "garment."

Mrs. J. T. Manning, Jr., president, presided and welcomed the 11 members and one visitor, Nesa Ann Page.

Mrs. Carl Crawford called the roll and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Thurston Wynne. Plans were made for a Hamburger Cookout for the July recreation meeting at which time many games, contests, etc. will be conducted. The entire community is invited to attend.

Mrs. Leota Tyson and Mrs. Lucy Allen represented the Club at Farm and Home Week June 9-12.

Two projects were approved by the Club. First, the Club voted to donate $20 to the Pitt County 4-H Development Council. This is to be applied to the $50 goal set by the Red Oak Community. Also, they planned a campaign to obtain items in the Community to benefit Caswell Training School.

Plans are being made by the Club to have a Nursery each month so that the mothers of small children will be able to attend the meetings.

Mrs. W. T. Page stressed the importance of canning food and gave a report on "Canning Tips" and Mrs. Manning gave the Garden Report.

After the group prayed the Club Collect, the hostesses, Mrs. Leota Tyson and Mrs. Nina Tripp, served an ice cream dessert in keeping with the theme, "June is Dairy Month."

The tonic of warm soapsuds is about as fine a tonic as anybody has ever prescribed.

Hamburgers Never Had It So Good

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

IT NEVER FAILS! Add a surprise to a perfectly ordinary dish and you'll entertain as well as nourish family and friends.

Do it the easy way! Use the smorgasbord technique. There's nothing tastier like better than to pick and choose among a surprise trayful of accompaniments.

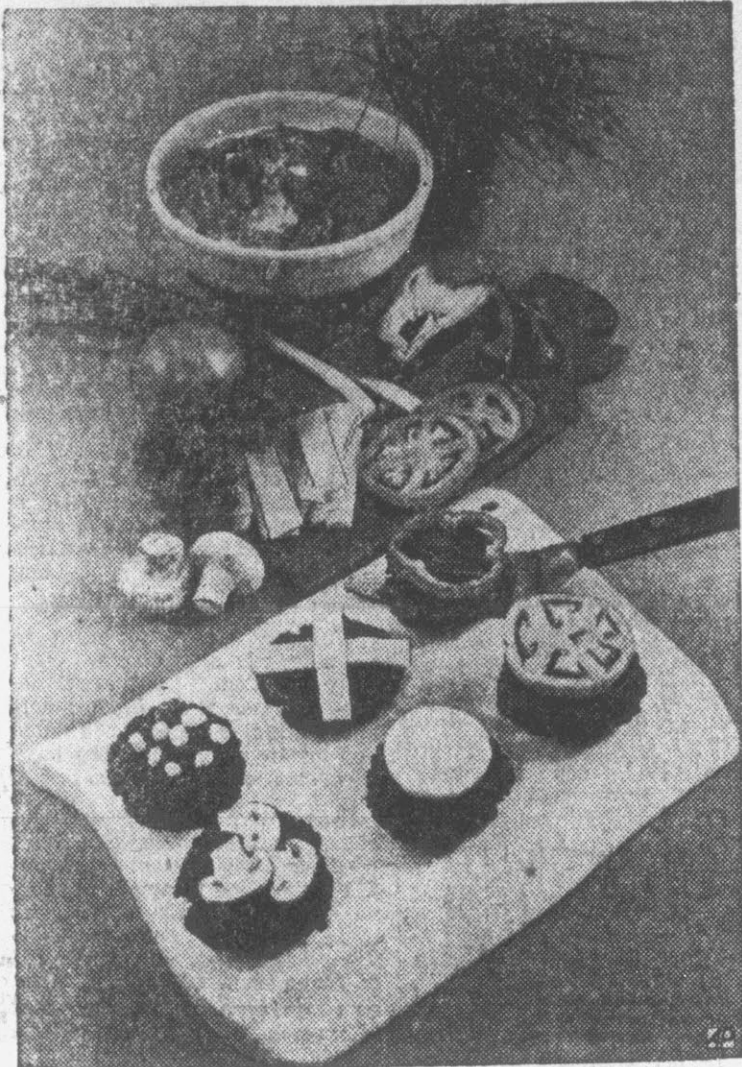

Take the hamburger routine. Maybe on the outdoor grill, maybe in the old black frying pan in the kitchen, but one thing is sure — you'll be cooking burgers this summer.

First off, make that old standby into a flavorful light-textured meat cake as in the following rule. Then add the fun: a battery of toppings other than the usual relish. Strips of ceddar or Swiss cheese, sliced scallions, crisp green pepper rings, sliced fresh mushrooms (some people adore them raw), rounds of mild sweet onion and sliced tomato are half a dozen suitable burger toppings you can gather without trouble. Minced chives, parsley, pickled onions, capers, pimiento, mango chutney, anchovies, Roquefort cheese, walnut or pecan halves belong in another group easy to come by.

Make the service glamorous! Put the toppings in small matching bowls and plates on an attractive tray. And have enough for a lavish display. There's something about the help-yourself-idea that encourages guests to throw conservatism to the winds. They'll think this is a new version of the hero sandwich and pile two, three or all of the tidbits between those split buns holding the burgers.

BURGERS
Ingredients: 1 1/2 pounds lean ground beef chuck, 1 egg, 1/2 cup finely crushed crackers, 1 can (6 ounces or 2 3/4 cup) evaporated milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1/4 cup finely chopped tart 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt, 1/2 cup finely chopped celery, 2 tablespoons (1 small) finely grated onion (pulp and juice).
Method: Mix together the beef and unbeaten egg. Mix in well the cracker crumbs, undiluted evaporated milk, salt, pepper, mustard, garlic salt, celery and onion. Make into 6 to 8 patties (using about 1/2 cup of the meat mixture for each). Grill over charcoal or in a little butter in a hot skillet; use high heat to get outside brown and crusty, then reduce heat and cook until patties are just pink inside. These burgers should not be rare. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

DRESSED UP—Give hamburgers a variety of toppings so guests may choose among them. Technique is borrowed from the smorgasbord table.

Housework Serves As Post-Surgery Exercise
Hanging up the wash is recommended by an outstanding New York surgeon as an excellent post-surgical exercise when arm muscles have been involved and must be strengthened and stretched.

This doctor explains to his patients that many of their routine housecleaning tasks — such as washing windows, dusting and washing venetian blinds, and hanging up clean curtains — are beneficial supplements to formal "wall climbing" exercises. And they have the additional value of accomplishing needed housework!

SWISS TWIST

Ingredients: 1 1/2 cups milk, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, 1/2 teaspoon salt, nutmeg, 2 teaspoons instant onion, 1-4 cup farina, 1/2 cup well-drained chopped cooked spinach, 1 egg (beaten until thick), 1 1/2 cups medium-grated lightly-tasted cheddar cheese.

Method: Bring milk, butter, salt, a dash of nutmeg and onion to the boiling point; slowly stir in farina. Cook and stir constantly until thick—3 minutes or longer. Over low heat mix in the spinach, egg and 1 cup of the cheese; remove from heat. Cool slightly; turn into buttered 8-inch heat-resistant glass pie plate (8 1/2 by 1 1/4 inches); sprinkle with remaining 1/2 cup cheese. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 20 to 25 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Serve at once. Makes 5 servings.

Note: Cook 1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped spinach according to package directions and drain thoroughly; use 1/2 cup (about half of the spinach) in the above recipe.

King-Letchworth Wed

FARMVILLE—Miss Doris Marie Letchworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Letchworth Jr. of Farmville, became the bride of Mack King, son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. King, also of Farmville, in a candlelight ceremony at Central Baptist Church in late June. The Rev. Donald R. Bryan, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Music was presented by Miss Donna Bryan, pianist, and Mrs. F. M. Corbett, soloist.

The bride wore a blue ballerina gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta with a fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil was attached to a half hat edged in tulle. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

The bride and groom had no attendants. They entered the church together. Ushers were Ronnie Ellis of Kinston, cousin of the bride, and Bobby Harris of Rocky Mount, friend of the groom.

Mrs. Letchworth chose for her daughter's wedding a navy dress with white accessories and white carnations. Mrs. King wore a rose dress with accessories and white carnations.

After a trip to the coast, the couple will be at home in Rocky Mount where Mr. King is employed with an electric company.

Two Tobacco Industry Problems

Two points continue to be paramount in almost every discussion of the problem faced by the tobacco industry and particularly farmers who produce the golden wood.

1. Quality of the leaf produced . . . the kind of tobacco which is in most demand by domestic and export companies, will continue to a great extent to determine the demand and the price for tobacco.

2. The tobacco industry as a whole must present a solid front in an effort to bring about a more realistic stabilization program that will help prevent American tobacco being priced out of foreign markets.

Both these principal points were sounded again this week at the meeting of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association.

Farmers were reminded again that quality tobacco—the kind most in demand—will bring the higher price while other grades and types of tobacco of secondary importance to domestic and export companies will continue to be a drag on the market.

It is true that the demand for various kinds of tobacco have changed so rapidly in recent years that farmers have found it difficult to gear their production from one year to the next to meet the rapidly changing demands of their purchases. Nevertheless, it is well established now that body and aroma are key qualities both domestic and export companies want in their leaf.

Tobacco which does not possess these qualities are not going to command the price that farmers want and expect when they go to market.

A gradual adjustment has been made by producers, but there still remains a lag between the qualities which purchasers are demanding in tobacco and the qualities in a large portion of tobacco now being produced.

So far as the price support program of tobacco is concerned, President Eisenhower's veto of the bill which would have frozen supports at the 1958 level for four or five years has been a blow to the entire tobacco industry. While possibility of overriding this presidential veto are not optimistic, the industry as a whole is faced with the problem finding some new approach which will produce the same end result.

It is not a problem which will be easily resolved even with concerted effort by all segments of the industry. It is a problem which will not be solved in the best interest of the industry as a whole if there is a division of effort.

Suffice it to say that the tobacco industry faces two major problems, neither of which can be solved overnight.

It remains a fact, however, that both the problems must be solved and in the near future unless the industry is to suffer further economic setbacks.

A Beginning - Point To Meet Future Needs

Greenville's City Council should follow the recommendation of its Planning and Zoning Commission to cooperate with the State Highway Commission in developing a long-range arterial traffic system for the city.

After hearing the preliminary proposal by the Highway Commission for such a system, the Planning and Zoning Commission indicated that such a development is needed for Greenville. It is now up to the City Council to approve or disapprove the action of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

The proposals of the Highway Commission for developing such a system certainly does not provide the solution to all the traffic problems Greenville will face in the future. It must be realized, however, that long range planning in this direction is needed if Greenville is to cope with increased traffic problems in the future. The gradual development of an arterial traffic system for the city is a step in the right direction. It is a beginning point for something that will be desperately needed in the future.

Unless long-range planning is made in that direction, Greenville's traffic problems will become more complicated and its traffic congestion become increasingly serious.

By cooperating with the Highway Commission in the development of such a system, Greenville will be making a sound approach to reaching the solution of one of its long-range problems.

The Council should, in this case, follow the recommendation of its Planning and Zoning Commission to launch the cooperative program.

Decision Needs Another Ruling

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has opened a door which may get so crowded with intruders that another Supreme Court decision will be needed to clarify what the court did Monday.

It said in a 5-4 ruling that policy-making government officials are absolutely immune to libel suits against them for something they said or did in what they considered line of duty. But Chief Justice Earl Warren, one of the four who disagreed with the majority opinion, raised the specter of these officials defaming their critics under the protection of absolute immunity to libel suits.

"It will sanctify the powerful and silence debate," Warren said. Under the majority opinion could a policy-making official, angered by newspaper criticism of him, deliberately and dishonestly, under the guise of official concern for his agency, defame the newspaper with immunity?

It's not clear. The opinion doesn't seem very clear to Warren. He said the court, by its reasoning, has set up an uncertain standard which is not a guide at all for these policy-making officials to follow.

He suggested the court will have to give new appraisals — BECAUSE he does not think this opinion is clear enough to be final — on almost every charge of defamation by a government official.

Monday's opinion involved two government employees who were suspended and denounced in a press release in 1953 by the director of rent stabilization for the way they handled cash annual leave settlements for some agency employees.

Justice John M. Harlan, writing the majority opinion, said the problem was one of balance: the protection of an individual citizen from oppressive or malicious damage by a government official against the protection of the public interest by shielding government officials from the "harassment and inevitable hazards of vindictive or ill-found damage suits."

Harlan wrote: "In this instance it has been thought in the end better to leave unaddressed the wrongs done by dishonest officers than to subject those who try to do their duty to the constant dread of retaliation." Justice William J. Brennan couldn't accept this reasoning. In his dissenting opinion he said absolute immunity for officials below Cabinet rank goes too far. That kind of immunity makes them libel free even though they

REG-MANNING

By JIMMY ELLIS

And So, To You Adieu

This is a sort of a finale.

It will be the last of these columns to carry the by-line which has occurred with a sort of personally startling and nerve-shattering frequency on The Daily Reflector's editorial pages for the past three years.

My Fair Gwen, Wee Urchin, The Twinkles and I are leaving. We are moving from Greenville to Charlotte, where a new job and a new life are waiting for us.

The new job does not include writing columns, reporting graduations, sitting in on meeting of local government boards, listing names of recipients of marriage licenses, and many of the other things which have become so familiar since June 17, 1956.

What will be involved in public relations work with The American Cotton Manufacturers Institute, central organization of the American textile industry.

It promises to be an interesting and challenging assignment in new surroundings and under new conditions.

We hardly expect the rest of the world to make much of a fuss over the change. However, it has considerable meaning for us.

In a not-so-elegant way, the change will include leaving what is "home" for all of us; interrupting the pleasantly large number of good and true friendships which have been established in Greenville and other parts of the county; departing from a routine which has been built over a period of years; and facing the uncertainty which is a natural part of anything new.

The change will also mean answering an opportunity which, to us, seems remarkable, and accepting the challenge of new and slightly different work.

For the little ones — Wee Urchin and The Twinkles — we presume the change will come easier than for My Fair Gwen and me. They have, certainly, their own little worlds here, but little people seem to forget so much faster than their parents, and memory of things past seems of much less importance.

If we could have our way, My Fair Gwen and I would have them forget none of the life we have had in Greenville and Pitt County. The time and timing of it have been important for all of us, but especially for them.

Whether they do or don't realize it now, the little ones will have ties here forever. They are perhaps stronger than the ties My Fair Gwen and I have.

Realizing all these things, it is hard — harder than usual it seems — to say good-bye to the people and the things we have come to love. Under the circumstances, this is probably the best way to do it. It is certainly the easiest way.

Other Editors Saying . . . Quote . . . Bird Brains, Egg Heads

Greenville (Miss.) Delta Democrat-Times

Dr. John Guy Fowlkes of the University of Wisconsin came down to Oxford last week to urge the University of Mississippi Education Conference not to overemphasize the "gifted student."

He said more concern should be given the uneducated persons who exhibit "smallness, intolerance and prejudice." But where there are minds of unusual ability, we are robbing our nation of its hope for the future when we do not provide for them special opportunities to realize their full capacities and when we insist on boring them to waste full distraction by holding them back with the slower students.

We would agree with Dr. Fowlkes that "every human being is gifted in some way" and that each such talent should be allowed to develop, but there seems to have been considerably more effort made in colleges all over the country to getting everyone into schools of some-kind rather than offering full opportunities to those among the more gifted in the population. If it comes to a choice between the bird brain or the egg head, and we hope it does not, we think that the old middle should finally be resolved and let the egg come first.

One mindedness is the real threat to democracy, not the prejudices of the ignorant. A continued alert leadership stemming from the inquisitive minds of exceptionally bright students is the genius of the phenomenal progress America has made over such a brief span of history. The quality of a full education is more important than the quantity of the semi-educated.

Certainly each person should have the opportunity to learn; to develop his mind to the extent of its capacity so that each can reason with logic, communicate with intelligence and enjoy the finer aspirations of man. But where there are minds of unusual ability, we are robbing our nation of its hope for the future when we do not provide for them special opportunities to realize their full capacities and when we insist on boring them to waste full distraction by holding them back with the slower students.

We would agree with Dr. Fowlkes that "every human being is gifted in some way" and that each such talent should be allowed to develop, but there seems to have been considerably more effort made in colleges all over the country to getting everyone into schools of some-kind rather than offering full opportunities to those among the more gifted in the population. If it comes to a choice between the bird brain or the egg head, and we hope it does not, we think that the old middle should finally be resolved and let the egg come first.

Needs Of Commercial Aviation

By ELMER ROESSNER

Domestic aviation needs five things to increase its service to the public and its own prosperity, holds Harman D. Denny, retiring member of the Civil Aeronautics Board, on which he has been a frequent and outspoken dissenter.

These five things are:

1. More feeder lines, bringing passengers in from smaller places to make connections with main airlines.

2. Greater state and municipal action to generate (that's the word in airline lingo) more traffic for feeder lines.

3. New planes combining the small-space landing of helicopter and the forward speed of conventional planes with low-cost operation. Such planes have been designed but Commissioner Denny says their performance and economy are still to be proved.

4. The generation of more domestic cargo.

5. Unscrambling the routes across the Canadian and Mexican borders.

The increase in the number of feeder lines has been a pet project of the commissioner. The CAB has been conducting a number of so-called area hearings, weighing applications for new feeder lines. The country has been divided into eight areas, and hearings have been held in each area in an effort to work out patterns so that new feeders will furnish passengers for the major lines, and the major lines will provide passengers for the feeders.

"The Federal Government, through the CAB, is now subsidizing feeder lines to the extent of $60,000,000 a year," he said. "That is the only subsidy the government is paying airlines. All the major domestic and American international lines are now making profits without subsidies."

"However, to get all the new feeder lines we need, subsidies may have to be increased to about $80,000,000."

"States and cities, and civic organizations must help these feeder airlines. Feeder lines must pick up an average of five persons a day at each stop. If local governments don't want to lose plane connections with the rest of the country, they must encourage at least that many people to travel by air."

MANEUVERABLE, LOW-COST PLANE NEEDED

One difficulty, Colonel Denny said, is the cost of establishing airports close to smaller cities. "The answer will be a plane with a 200-mile-an-hour forward speed which can land like a helicopter. A helicopter can land in an average parking lot, and that much space is almost always obtainable. But such a plane must be cheap to operate because of the relatively light traffic."

"In addition, these feeder lines must have more freight. The Trans-Atlantic lines have done a great job in selling their freight services, largely because competition is so keen. But domestic lines have not yet convinced business that domestic air freight can sometimes be cheaper than other forms."

"The two biggest mail-order

They Keep Coming

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Every year they troop here — the kids with the big hope.

They all have the same goal — to make a name in show business, to carve themselves a niche in the American theater.

They come from every part of the land, from every kind of background. Some are the sons of laborers, some are the spoiled daughters of the wealthy. Some wear the stamped neatness of the Ivy League, some look like the born beatniks they are.

Many of them share a startling lack of talent. All share a single thing — a vision of stardom, a picture of themselves posturing before an applauding world.

Why does anyone set out to be an actor or an actress? What motivates them? I can never decide whether it is blind ignorance, blind courage, or a blind and mystic compulsion they have no control over whatever.

It can't be sheer ignorance, because most of these kids know what the odds against them are. They know many actors are lucky to make $1,000 a year at their craft. They know the average performer doesn't earn a fifth as much as a plumber, a tenth as much as a dentist. Yet each is sure in his heart, for a time anyway, "I'll beat the odds."

There is something magnificent and tremulous in the way these young people smash against the impossible. It is rather like watching massed infantry march, singing, into certain disaster against massed artillery. It inspires you even as it breaks your heart.

In the beginning art is everything with them, and money means nothing. They take all sorts of odd jobs to keep them alive while they wait for "the one break."

Few ever get "That big chance" and even fewer go on to real success. Most of them succumb to these twin eroders of most dreams — time and common sense. They give up and go away.

And the one in a thousand who does come out on top in show business? If he is lonely before, he is now twice as lonely — and three times as fearful.

Success, he finds, is not a perch but a prize fight ring with no real rest between the rounds. Finding "the right role" is now even more terribly important than getting "that big break" used to be.

He can't afford to take a chance. He is a big financial human pie, cut into many pieces — for the producer, his press agent, his manager, his family, the tax collector.

But if you asked him why he doesn't get out of the business, he'd say, "Are you crazy? After what I went through to get here!"

Why does anyone really want to be an actor? Only an actor knows — and he probably couldn't tell you!

THE ETERNITY BEYOND

The Book of Revelation has often greatly troubled Christian believers. It is a mysterious book describing heavenly things. Most of its symbolism appears to be beyond human comprehension but its beauty is lost upon no one who appreciates beauty of thought and language. Also people whose hearts aspire for higher things find in this Book of Revelation an assurance and comfort which greatly supports their spiritual lives.

In the 21st chapter of Revelation, John says: "And I saw no temple therein." He had just been describing the glories of high heaven. Amazing as it may seem, John declared that there is no church in heaven. He saw glorious things in that heavenly setting, but he saw no church.

Why? Because there never was and never will be any need of a church in heaven. Here on earth we have to set aside times, places, buildings which we use to the deepening of our spiritual capacities. But in heaven there are no set-aside areas of holiness. The whole of heaven is sacred. There is no need for a holy church in heaven because heaven is holier than any earthly church could possibly be. It is the enlargement to infinity of what we have in small compass here on earth.

No church in heaven! And for good reason. No area in heaven set aside for sacred use because all of heaven is completely sacred.

We begin to live the heavenly life here on earth; we complete it in the eternity beyond.

Cuban Air Force Commander Resigns, Believed In Hiding

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's government today sought the arrest of Maj. Pedro Luis Diaz Lanz after he resigned his command of the Cuban air force and charged that Communists had infiltrated Castro's armed forces.

The whereabouts of Diaz were a mystery. There was speculation that he had gone underground or fled from Cuba.

Diaz turned in his resignation to President Manuel Urrutia and leveled the Red charges after returning to duty from a month's absence attributed to typhoid fever.

Maj. Juan Almeida, who commanded the air force in Diaz's absence, was named to succeed him. A few hours later Almeida ordered his predecessor's arrest and accused him of desertion, treason, robbery and dealing with members of ex-president Fulgencio Batista's regime.

Diaz in his letter of resignation had accused Almeida of trying to supplant him because of his outspoken opposition to Communist influence on Castro's government and his army.

Almeida ordered Diaz's arrest after conferring with Castro and his brother, Maj. Raul Castro, commander of Cuba's armed forces.

The new air force chief said Diaz had been under investigation for crimes "to which he must answer before revolutionary tribunals." He charged that Diaz had raised the cry of Communist infiltration "when he saw he was unable to continue with his robberies."

Almeida added that, as a result of Diaz's defection, some persons already had been arrested.

Diaz's charge was the first from a member of the revolutionary high command. Castro has repeatedly denied similar charges from outside the ranks of his revolutionary forces.

Meanwhile official sources said that a police raid on the home of a former U.S. Navy pilot had foiled a plan to invade Nicaragua by air and sea.

The raid on the suburban home of Capt. Paul Hughes of Atlanta, Ga., who had been an adviser to the Cuban rebel air force, led to the seizure of a large arms cache and the roundup of nearly 200 volunteers—most of them Nicaraguans—for the reported expedition against President Luis Somoza.

Two other Americans were reported detained with Hughes. They were identified as Efrén R. Pichardo, a Miami attorney, and Joseph Bardor of Los Angeles, who said he was a movie producer.

Concert July 2 Band To Present

East Carolina College's recently organized Summer Concert Band will present a program Thursday, July 2, at 6:30 p.m. on the quad- rangle in front of the Joyner Memorial Library. Those to wish to hear the 40-piece ensemble in a program of light, popular music are invited to be present.

Presented by the college department of music and the College Union as an entertainment feature of the summer session, the program will include community singing and the concert by the band.

Herbert L. Carter, director of bands at East Carolina, is conductor of the new instrumental organization. Members of the band include a number of students in the J. H. Rose High School of the city.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

We never thought we'd see the day when we'd be writing about the painting of swimming pools. In the first place, there weren't enough persons owning swimming pools a few years ago to make it worthwhile.

In the second place, anybody who owned a swimming pool in those days was hardly the type who would do his own painting.

But today swimming pools are owned by the butcher, the banker and the candlestick maker, all anxious to enjoy the advantages of backyard recreation. There are pools made of concrete, of masonry blocks, of steel, of aluminum, of fiber glass and of vinyl, with new combinations of materials hitting the market almost every week. One of the latest uses specially treated wooden sides, which are covered with a plastic lining.

Makes More Attractive Obviously, some of these materials require less maintenance than others. But painting makes most pools more attractive, keeps concrete from chipping and metal from corroding and gives a smooth surface that is easier to keep clean and sanitary.

Paints for concrete must be resistant to the alkali that attacks ordinary paints and must be able to resist the chemicals used to purify the water. There is a special type of paint formulated to meet these problems and is known quite naturally, as swimming pool paint. It covers about 200 square feet per gallon. Since this paint dries rapidly, it is important to follow the directions of the label very carefully.

Portland cement water paints also are used for pools but have a tendency to chalk as they age. And it is difficult to repaint unless the chalk is removed. A combination latex-cement-water paint has been developed to meet this objection. There is also a vinyl solution paint that gives excellent services but it must be applied by experts to give a completely satisfactory result.

Steel Pool Advice Steel swimming pools must be given a first coat of marine anti-corrosive primer. This is followed by a topcoat designed for marine use that will withstand continuous immersion. Solvent-thinned rubber resin paints also are recommended. Proper preparation of the surface is, of course, essential for a good result. A concrete pool that has never been painted should be scrubbed to remove oil, dirt, algae and other foreign materials. Use a stiff bristled brush and any household detergent, then hose the pool thoroughly. If what appear to be dirt does not wash off, it may be that a mold is present. Destroy it with a household bleach and again hose down completely.

Another recommended operation in previously unpainted pools is to etch the concrete with an acid wash to provide a roughened surface that will give a good mechanical bond. Muriatic acid in a 10 per cent solution will do the job, but goggles, rubber boots and gloves are necessary.

Scrub Old Surfaces Old painted surfaces should be scrubbed. But where the old paint is in poor condition, chalking and peeling, it should be removed by sand blasting, usually a professional job. In the case of a steel pool, all rust should be removed when the sand blasting is done. The pool should be primed immediately with the marine anti-corrosive primer previously mentioned.

The method of applying the paint depends on the smoothness of the surface. For a concrete pool that is not extremely smooth, a spray or brush will do a better job than a roller, but a roller will lay down a heavier coat of paint faster. A spray will penetrate pits and holes in the surface.

It's a good idea to use a skid-resistant paint on walkways and around the pool to reduce the likelihood of falls.

Stopgap Funds For Over Score Of Agencies

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was an unhappy fiscal year today for more than a score of government agencies.

They started off the new government year of 1960 not knowing where their next million—or billion—dollars was coming from. But they had assurance that they would get it sooner or later, and they had definite plans on how to spend it.

They are the agencies whose budgets for the new year had not been acted on finally by Congress when the old government year faded out last midnight. Among them are some of the biggest spenders in government, like the Defense Department and the International Cooperation Administration.

Rather than leave them technically penniless, Congress rushed to their rescue Tuesday with its traditional "stopgap" appropriation bill.

This provides money for the month of July only, normally at the rate of about one-twelfth of what would be available if the 1960 budget bills were not snagged on Capitol Hill. In the case of the Defense Department, for example, this is a little over three billion dollars and will finance normal activities for one month.

These temporary measures are nothing new. Congress has been enacting them for years when it reached the sudden realization late in June that a lot of bills financing the year starting July 1 were still kicking around.

Tuesday's measure was passed with the customary cautions against excessive spending and with a mild rebuke to the Senate for increasing appropriations voted by the House.

Statistics compiled by the House Appropriations Committee show that the House had cut about $1,175,000,000 from new funds requested by the President for the new year, but that the Senate had added approximately $52 millions to the House figures.

LIONS IN THE STREETS

NEW YORK (AP)—There are lions in the streets of New York—about 40,000 of them. Lions International is holding its annual convention here. Tuesday they staged a parade down Fifth Avenue, with representatives of every state and 50 foreign countries among the 25,000 marchers.

The area of the Rock of Gibraltar and the accompanying British naval base is two square miles.

Distribute $90,899 To Employees Of Local Plant In Savings Project

A cash distribution of $90,899 under an employee savings plan in which the Company adds as much as 30 per cent of the employees' savings was made today to more than 160 employees of the Greenville plant of National Carbon Company. The employees saved $88,850 of their own money through this plan during the last two years and the Company added $22,049. Throughout the country employees of Union Carbide Corporation received more than $60,750,465. National Carbon Company is a division of Union Carbide.

Under this plan, employees set aside up to 7½ per cent of their earnings and the Company adds 10, 20 or 30 per cent to this depending on whether the employee has one, two, or three years or more of company service. The plan contains provisions for short-term savings and long-range investments or a combination of both. This flexibility, which is one of the outstanding features of the plan, permits employees to set aside cash for a distribution every two years and also provides the choice of long-range investment in either U.S. Savings Bonds or Union Carbide stock. Savings plans were made available to Union Carbide employees as early as 1935.

Gen. MacGruder New Commander Of Eighth Army

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Gen. Carter B. MacGruder today succeeded Gen. George H. Decker as commander of U.N. and U.S. forces in Korea and of the U.S. 8th Army.

Decker left by plane for Japan and the United States. He is due in Washington July 10 to become U.S. Army vice chief of staff. The mayor of Seoul planned an outdoor rally for the departing commander but rain forced its cancellation. Decker paid a farewell call on President Syngman Rhee, who decorated him with South Korea's highest military award, the Order of Taeguk with gold star.

In the brief change-of-command ceremony MacGruder said the Allied forces in Korea face the "ever present threat of a renewal of hostilities."

Decker said the Allied forces "stand ready to meet any type of attack that may be launched."

President Ready To Advise Kozlov West Determined

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is reported ready to caution Soviet Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov against misjudging the West's determination to stand firm in Berlin.

The touring Soviet leader meets with Eisenhower at the White House after an hour-long foreign policy talk with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter at the State Department.

The smiling Kozlov, 50, a top candidate to succeed Premier Nikita Khrushchev, arrived Tuesday for a two-day round of talks. He had no sooner stepped off his plane than he began plugging "friendly coexistence" between the Soviet Union and the United States as a path to enduring peace.

But both Eisenhower and Herter are understood to have decided to pull no punches in discussing the Soviet demand that the Allies pull out of West Berlin within 18 months.

Eisenhower especially was reported primed to emphasize that the United States is not bluffing when it says it will never abandon its rights to protect West Berlin's 2½ million free Germans.

Few administration authorities expect that Kozlov will give any hint of Soviet readiness to offer concessions on the deadlocked Berlin quarrel.

Any Soviet concession, it was believed, would be carefully held back until the Big Four foreign ministers resume their talks in Geneva July 13.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who greeted Kozlov on his arrival, also was given the assignment of emphasizing to Kozlov that the Soviet Union can not force more concessions from the West.

Nixon particularly was to make clear that Eisenhower will refuse to meet Khrushchev at a summit meeting unless the East-West foreign ministers conference makes solid progress in bridging the East-West differences.

Kozlov will be Nixon's guest tonight at a diplomatic reception in the President's guest house across the street from the White House.

He is due to leave by chartered plane Friday morning for quick visits to San Francisco, Detroit, Chicago and Pittsburgh before returning to New York.

Hocutt Dismissed By ABC Board Chairman

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board was to pick a successor today to Ronald Hocutt, dismissed Tuesday as director of the malt beverage and wine division.

Also expected was a statement from Hocutt answering charges that he was untruthful, disloyal and incompetent during his year's service in the newly consolidated division.

Hocutt declined to comment Tuesday night after he received a stinging, four-page letter from Board Chairman William S. Hunt.

The letter charged: 1. "Since you were entrusted with the duties as director of the newly consolidated division, you have clearly demonstrated to the board that you have not merited the board's confidence and that you have not attended to your duties properly."

2. "There have been instances when you have demonstrated to me personally your lack of truthfulness."

3. Hocutt was disloyal in statements made to other employees concerning Hunt. "The employment relationship with this board, as in any ordinary case of employment, necessarily involves some degree of loyalty to the employer, at least to the extent that your activities are not deliberately destructive."

Hunt said on one occasion Hocutt was to have discussed board law enforcement policies with a municipal police department, told the board he had discussed it and "I later learned beyond any doubt that you had not."

"I can only conclude," continued Hunt, "that your conduct on that occasion was deliberate and that you either did not care whether the board maintained a desirable cooperative relationship with local law enforcement agencies or that with deliberate intent, you set out to create controversy and to make it appear that the State Board of Alcoholic Control was completely remiss in its law enforcement activities."

Hocutt took over the $7,720 a year job July 1 when the ABC board's malt beverage and wine divisions were combined in an agency reshuffling. He had been director of the malt beverage division.

Will Give Medal To Standout At Music Camp

The Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia of America, national music fraternity, has presented to East Carolina College a silver medal, to be conferred upon the outstanding junior or senior high school boy participating in the 1959 Summer Music Camp at the college. The camp, scheduled for July 19-August 1, will bring to the campus more than 400 young people from North Carolina and other states.

Recipient of the medal, awarded for outstanding leadership and musicianship, will be chosen by administrative officers and faculty members of the East Carolina camp. Announcement of the winner will be made locally and in the nationally circulated publication of the fraternity, the "Sinfonia," and his name will be inscribed upon the medal.

For the past several years Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia has awarded a medal at seven outstanding music camps in the nation, including, the Transylvania Music Camp at Brevard, N.C. Because of the successful operation for the past five years of the Summer Music Camp at East Carolina, the college is now privileged to award the fraternity medal.

Lay Boy's Death To Curiosity

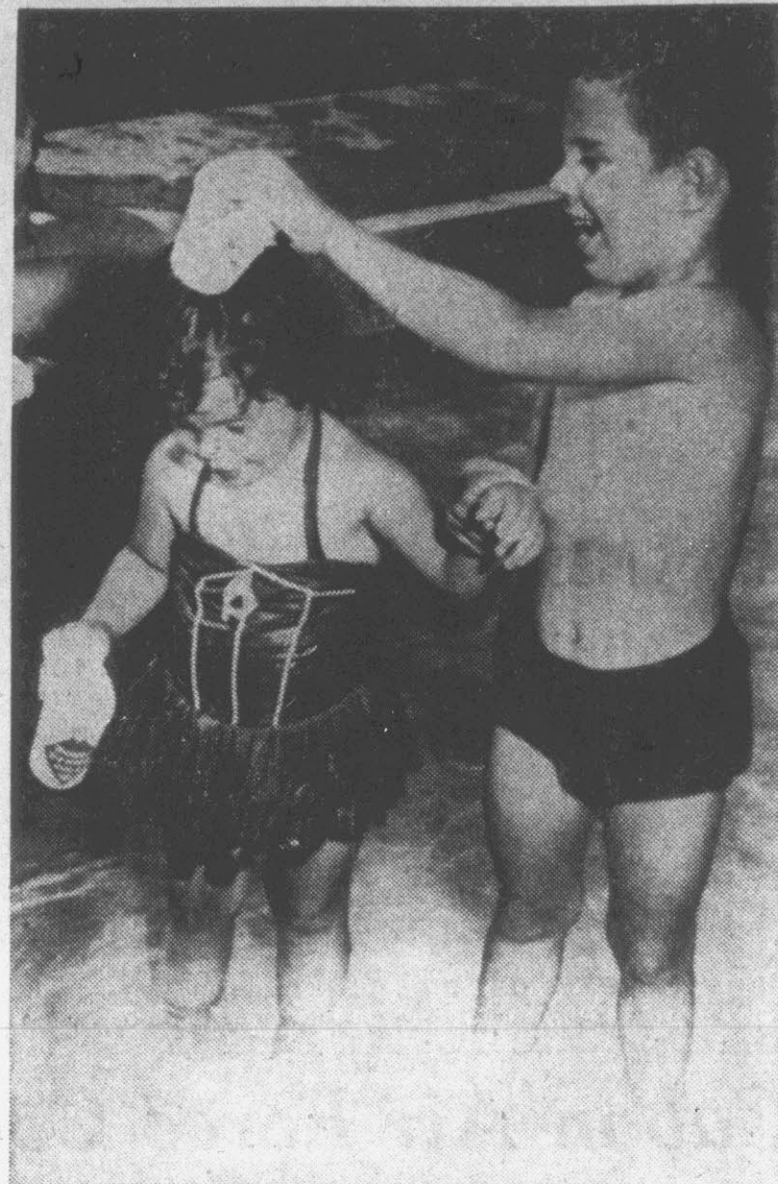

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Did curiosity lead a 7-year-old boy to a tragic death inside of an automatic clothes dryer?

Detective E.B. Meals says that probably was the reason Jerome Brown crawled into the coin-operated machine early Tuesday.

His body, mangled badly, was found about an hour and a half later by two women who were the first customers at the laundromat which is unattended.

The youngster, son of Dorothy Gale Brown, was identified by teeth and clothing.

Meals said the machine started after the boy closed its door. Housewives of the area had been using the dryer free because a coin had stuck in the starting mechanism. They operated it by merely closing and opening the door.

Louisiana Politicians Converge On Gov. Long During His 'Rest Cure'

COVINGTON, La. (AP)—Louisiana politicians hurried today into this piney woods town where Gov. Earl K. Long—beset by divorce, income tax and health problems—is busy running for re-election. They moved in and out of his motel room like worker ants, some on the business of running state government, some seeking a spot on the Long ticket, others merely expressing friendship. The parade of politicians formed a part of one of the strangest rest cures in history. Gov. Long, 63 and ill, made scores of telephone calls as visitors came and went.

Although physicians say Gov. Long has suffered a series of mild strokes, Louisiana's chief executive continued his mad pace after midnight. A few minutes after state police set up an oxygen tank in his room, Gov. Long bellowed so loud during a telephone talk he could be heard outside his room. Long himself ordered the oxygen. His doctor was out eating. The governor has an asthmatic condition that is helped by oxygen.

Forty minutes after midnight, Gov. Long climbed into his limousine for a five-mile drive to an all-night restaurant.

"Turn on the air," he told his driver, who flipped on the air conditioning.

Gov. Long apparently still toyed with the idea of going either to Tucson or Phoenix, Ariz., for two weeks. It seems certain there would be no rest if he stays home. This would send Lt. Gov. Lether

Frazier to the trenches at the state Capitol as acting governor again. Frazier, who wants no part of trying to be acting governor while Gov. Long is within state boundaries, led the list of politicians who visited Long Tuesday.

The lieutenant governor declined to discuss what went on at an hour-long conference except: "We did mention state business but I didn't hear him discuss any removals."

Despite that, it was apparent Gov. Long's anger at politicians he figures did him wrong smolders just beneath the surface. He has said these office-holders number at least 40 and all are slated to be ousted.

One of the hapless 40 may be the governor's own cousin, Dr. Roy Wright, of the department of public welfare.

The Monroe, (La.) News-Star quoted State Sen. Ralph E. King of Winnboro as saying Gov. Long telephoned Mrs. Mary Evelyn Dickerson Parker, public welfare director, "He told her to fire Dr. Wright," said Sen. King. "I don't know," the newspaper quoted King, "but I think Dr. Wright was at the mansion when the governor was carried away to Galveston."

The reference was to May 30, when mental hospital orderlies and some politicians lashed Long to a stretcher and flew him to John Sealy Hospital in Galveston, Tex.

The governor filed suit for divorce from his wife June 18 while he was still in a state mental hospital. He said he would have divorced her long ago were he not in politics.

Mrs. Long, who had been out of state at a secret hideaway more than a week, came back quietly Tuesday and filed a counter-suit. Claiming Long tried to kill her in a rage May 28 before she sent him to a Galveston, Tex., mental clinic, she asked $2,500 a month alimony.

An attorney for Mrs. Long later indicated the temporary alimony plea was left in the suit inadvertently. He added he would amend the petition to remove the request.

Adding to the governor's woes, federal agents investigating his income checked the bank safety deposit box of his public relations adviser who said what they found "wasn't much."

Circus Museum Opens Its Doors

BARABOO, Wis. (AP)—The new Circus World Museum opens its doors today in the home of the Ringling Brothers with all the fanfare that formerly surrounded the hazy days when the "Greatest Show on Earth" came to town.

Circus Day, proclaimed by the Wisconsin legislature, included a gala parade with elephants, bands, a steam calliope, floats and circus wagons once used by the Ringlings and official opening of the new museum.

The museum, festooned with brilliantly-colored banners depicting the freaks and curiosities of the old midway, occupies two large Ringling buildings that once housed horses and camels when the circus had its winter quarters here.

Reconstructed famous old circus wagons and floats, a $50,000 miniature circus built to scale of the Ringling colossus when it traveled on four trains, and other authentic items of circus paraphernalia, are on display. There also is a regular circus tent that is occupied by Blanche, a 4,000 pound Indian elephant and other animals.

Movie actress Rhonda Fleming, one of the stars of the movie "The Big Circus" was scheduled to ride in the parade, perched atop the head of one of the elephants.

Miss Fleming will appear at the Ringling and Julliard Theaters in the evening for the world premier of "The Big Circus." Proceeds of the showings will go to the museum.

The festivities were scheduled near the yard of the Baraboo jail where in November, 1882, Al. Alf T., Otto, John, and Charles Ringling and others started the first performance of the "Ringling Classic and Comic Concert Company" with a display of dogs, cats and stuffed squirrels. The Ringling Brothers later joined Yankee Robinson to form Yankee Robins and Ringling Bros. Circus which opened at Baraboo May 19, 1884.

The circus expanded to become the ruler of the outdoor show world.

Boys Chose Take Court Whipping

TAVARES, Fla. (AP)—Nine teen-age boys had marbling bottles today as mementoes of their trespassing foray and their subsequent visit to the court of County Judge W. Troy Hall Jr.

Hall, an ex-Marine and father of two girls, gave the boys, 17 and 18 years old, their choice Tuesday of going to jail for 90 days or taking a whipping in the courtroom.

They chose the whipping. The room was cleared of spectators except for court officials and Emmett Peter, a newspaperman.

Eight fathers and one mother stood with the boys when Hall asked if the parents would whip the boys themselves or let them go to jail.

"I for one would rather punish my boy right here," one parent said. The others nodded agreement.

A deputy sheriff provided a leather belt four inches wide. The boys were led to a desk singly and received 20 to 25 blows each. Hall rapped his gavel when he thought each had had enough.

"They were not token spankings," Peter said.

When it came the mother's turn, the judge asked if she would prefer to have a man do it. She insisted on swinging the belt herself.

ECC Bible Workshop To Feature Visual Aids

Through the cooperation of the American Bible Society, East Carolina College's summer workshop in "The Bible and Its Background" will make use of some of the most up-to-date and effective visual aids on the subject.

The workshop, planned to meet the needs and interest of teachers, church workers, ministers, and others, will cover the two-week period of July 16-July 29. Dr. Cleveland J. Bradner, Jr., director of religious activities at the college, will act as director.

Four full-length films, supplied by the American Bible Society, will be shown and discussed as part of the workshop program. They are "Our Bible—How it Came to Us," a history of the Bible; "God's Word in Man's Language," dealing with the problems of translators of the Scriptures; "The Word Giveth Light," demonstrating the usefulness of the Bible; and "Bearer of the Book," showing the use of the Bible in various parts of the world.

Several exhibitions of materials about the Bible will be on display during the workshop. These include Facsimile Pages of Nine Historic Bibles and Testaments in English and Volumes of the Scriptures in Various Languages.

Registration for the workshop will be completed July 15, opening day of the second summer term. Those who are interested in enrolling should apply as early as possible to Dr. Bradner or to Registrar Robert L. Holt, East Carolina College.

Free Lemonade In Over-Hot Town

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (AP)—Free lemonade will be on tap today in this mountaintop city, thanks to an overheated thermometer.

Bluefield, often called "Nature's Air-Conditioned City," likes to boast that a temperature of 90 is seldom reached. The Chamber of Commerce has a standing offer of free lemonade to all comers when that occurs.

The chamber was caught unprepared by Tuesday's 90-degree reading but promised free lemonade today.

The last time the chamber went into the lemonade business was in mid-July 1957.

GI Dental Plate Has Extra Use

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—If you have a GI dental plate, it may come in handy for something besides chewing. One did for a man at the Citizens and Southern National Bank.

Teller Mary Neatherly asked him for identification when he presented a government check for cashing.

He took out his dental plate and pointed to its GI number, which corresponded to the number on the check.

The check was cashed.

(EDITORS NOTE: The following is a letter received from Jake Hadley, Fund Raising Chairman for the new Little League Park.)

Second Park Is Under Construction

"This past spring when the baseball fever hit the young boys of Greenville, they turned out by the hundreds to play Little League baseball. This created quite a problem for the Greenville Little League officials because their was not enough playing area to take care of these boys.

"A meeting was held and it was decided to add one extra team to each league for the 1959 season to help the situation temporarily, but a larger and more expensive plan was needed to really help these boys. With this thought in mind, a new and second Little League Park was suggested. This would give room to increase the number of Little League teams from eight to sixteen, or double the number of boys who could play.

During the first part of the summer a fund raising committee was appointed to raise at least $4,000 to underwrite the cost of this park. At the present time about $3,000 of this amount has been raised. Now, that the park is under construction, the balance of $1,000 will be needed shortly to complete the building program.

"To those merchants, clubs, and individuals who have not been contacted to aid in this project, we solicit your financial aid. A check made payable to Little League Building Fund will help us assure the boys of Greenville the completion of this field as soon as possible. Please mail checks or money to Jake Hadley, Chairman, Little League Building Fund, P. O. Box 507, Greenville, N. C.

"To those who have already given to this program, we, the fund raising committee, on behalf of the Greenville Little Leaguers thank you.

"Next baseball season, twice as many young boys will play Little League baseball because of the generosity of you, the people of Greenville, who always have and will show a vital interest in the youth of our city."

Thanks a Million,
Jake Hadley

New Club Shows Youth Interest

A new organization, the Optimist Club, has begun operation with their main function being to help help the youth movement in Greenville.

The first project that they have taken on has been to recognize the outstanding Teen-er League player of the week.

According to club officials, they plan to be very active in the future toward helping promote the various activities for youth in Greenville.

New Ballpark Is Shaping Up

NEW FIELD—The new Little League field located in the vicinity of Guy Smith Stadium, has been under construction for some time now and the field is expected to be ready for action in the near future.

Thomas Leads Field In JC Junior Golf Play

Bobby Thomas picked up six more strokes yesterday as he breezed to his second Junior Chamber of Commerce Junior golf title, firing a one-over-par 73 on the final 18 holes yesterday afternoon at the Greenville Country Club course.

Rick Sauve, traveling in the foursome with Thomas, got off to a hot start and was pacing Tuesday's field for the first five holes. Thomas finally overtook him on the sixth but Sauve continued to lead the rest of the field and gained second spot in the tournament with a 77 yesterday for a total 159.

Dallas Clark gained the third spot on virtue of his 162 total score. Clark did all his qualifying on Sunday afternoon.

Finishing in the fourth and final spot was Chappy Bradner, yesterday's second place linkster. Bradner fell off to an 83 yesterday to a final 163.

Buddy Murray had a 165 to become the alternate representative for the state tournament. Murray made the trip last year but had a 45 on the first nine holes yesterday and had to come back with a 39 on the final nine to edge out Sonny Parkinson and Ed Smoot.

Thomas finished the 36-hole tour with a 145, only one stroke over par. The two-year champion once again opened with a bad start, taking a seven on the first hole, but finished with five birdies.

The four winners will journey to Winston July 13, 14, and 15 for the state tournament.

State Bank Tops Builders, 10-4

State Bank retained their narrow lead in the Teen-er League last night as they routed the Home Builders, 10-4, at Guy Smith Stadium.

The loop-leaders tallied three runs in the first and then came back with four in the third to put the game out of danger. They climaxed their scoring with three more in the fourth inning.

Texaco Defeats Kiwanis By 6-5

Kiwanis teed off on Jerry Sumrell in the final inning yesterday but it was too late, as Paul McGlohan relieved him and preserved a 6-5 victory over Texaco.

Sumrell had worked the first five innings, giving up only one run and three hits, before running into trouble in the sixth.

Bill Wilkerson rapped a double in the sixth to drive in three runs. He later scored on an infield grounder.

Texaco had moved out front with four runs in the first and were leading 6-1 at the time of the Kiwanis rally.

Benny Hooks and Danny Singleton pounded a couple of doubles for the winners.

Nothing To Gain For Rudy Stutch

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Ruddy Stutch, with everything to lose, takes on Rudy Sawyer, who has everything to gain, in a scheduled 10-round welterweight fight tonight.

Stutch was expected to weigh 147 and Sawyer 149 for the nationally televised (ABC) bout at 9 p.m.

Stutch, from Louisville, could rest on his laurels without the match. The National Boxing Assn. ranks him No. 2 contender. He has a 20-5 record.

Sawyer, an unrated New York fighter, lost a decision to Kid Paret June 1 which damaged a previous 18-1 record. One other fight was a draw.

If you don't think Hoyt Wilhelm is having trouble these days, consider this: even the New York Yankees can beat him now.

The knuckleballing right-hander considered the choice as the American League's starting pitcher in next Tuesday's All-Star game at Pittsburgh, was the league's unbeaten ace after his first nine decisions. But he hasn't won since, losing his third in a row Tuesday night as the Yankees rapped third place Baltimore 4-1.

And if you don't think rapped is apt for a four-run scoring spurt, you may have forgotten that the Yankees had managed only four earned runs off Wilhelm in 59 2-3 innings before Tuesday night.

Fact is, this is the first time the Yankees have beaten Wilhelm in five decisions since he became an Oriole last year.

The victory left the Yankees in a fourth-place tie with the Detroit Tigers, who beat Kansas City 4-0, and four games behind Cleveland.

The first-place Indians gained a two-game lead by defeating Chicago's second place White Sox

3-1. Washington beat last-place Boston 6-1.

In the National League, Sam Jones pitched a one-hitter as second-place San Francisco beat Los Angeles 2-0 and closed within a half-game of Milwaukee, beaten 8-7 by Cincinnati. Pittsburgh defeated Philadelphia 4-3 and St. Louis beat Chicago's Cubs 4-1.

The Yankees, playing without injured Mickey Mantle, got three in the third on a walk and four singles, capped by Yogi Berra's two-run hit. Art Ditmar (7-5) was the winner with 4 1-3 innings of two-hit, shutout relief. Duke Maas started and gave up the Birds' other three hits, one Gene Woodling's 10th homer in the fourth inning.

Wilhelm (8-3) allowed eight of the Yankees' nine hits in his seven innings. Winless in his last four starts, he's been tagged for 14 earned runs in 27 2-3 innings over that span for a 4.50 earned run average. Before the slump his ERA was 1.00. Now it's 1.83, still tops in the AL.

Vic Power's two-run, inside-the-park homer in the third and Rocky Colavito's 23rd home run in the sixth backed Cleveland's Cal McLish (9-3), who held the White Sox to four singles and didn't walk a man while winning his fourth straight. Chicago scored in the third with an unearned run on an error, sacrifice and Luis Aparicio's single. Nellie Fox followed with a single, but McLish then retired 14 in a row before Jim Landis singled for the Sox' final hit leading off the eighth.

Billy Pierce (8-9) was the loser. He's won only three of his last 10 decisions.

Frank Lary (9-4) blanked the A's on five hits for his first shut-out since June, 1958. He struck out seven, walked none and put down 13 in order before Jerry Lumpe and Dick Williams led off the ninth with singles. Lary then fanned Kent Haden, and retired power guys Roger Maris and Bob Cerv. The Tigers scored in the first on Charlie Maxwell's 17th homer, and added two unearned runs in the second on an error by lower Rip Coleman (2-7).

Faye Throneberry, who homered, and Harmon Killebrew had half of Washington's 10 hits and each drove in two runs, both getting RBI singles as the Nats scored four unearned runs in the second against loser Tom Brewer (5-5). Pete Ramos (8-7) made it four out of five against Boston this season with a six-hitter.

Managers Eddie Sawyer of the Phillies and Danny Murtaugh of the Pirates were named as coaches. Chicago's Bill Henry and Pittsburgh's Bob Porterfield, will be the batting practice pitchers. Coach Sam Narmon of the Pirates will be the batting practice catcher.

The veteran Milwaukee pilot Tuesday selected 17 players to go along with the eight starters picked by the players themselves for the 26th annual All-Star game in Pittsburgh, July 7. The lone surprise was Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Although Stan was named on only three players' ballots, Haney saw to it that this National League great was on the squad 12-0 for the 16th straight time. Musial's batting average is .262 with seven homers and 29 runs batted in.

Other pitchers chosen by Haney included San Francisco's Johnny Antonelli (11-4), Milwaukee's Warren Spahn (10-8) and St. Louis' Wilmer Mizell (9-4), all south paws; and Milwaukee's Lew Burdette (11-6) and Los Angeles' Don Drysdale (8-5), right-handers. Face is 12-0 and Conley 5-4. The aggregate won-loss record, through games of Monday, June 29, was 66-30.

With one exception, Haney's "second team" choices followed the vote of the players. He named St. Louis' Bill White and Joe Cunningham and Cincinnati's Vada Pinson as his alternate outfielders, and Cincinnati's Frank Robinson, Pittsburgh's Bill Mazeroski and Dick Groat, and St. Louis' Ken Boyer as his alternate infielders. Groat replaced shortstop Roy McMillan of Cincinnati, who is out of action with an injured hand.

Haney selected two catchers — Smoky Burgess of Pittsburgh and Hal Smith of St. Louis — to support Milwaukee's Del Crandall behind the plate. In addition to Crandall, the first team consists of Orlando Cepeda, Giants, first base; Johnny Temple, Reds, second base; Eddie Banks, Cubs, shortstop; Eddie Mathews, Braves, third base; Willie Mays, Giants, center field; Henry Aaron, Braves, right field and Wally Moon, Dodgers, left field.

Wilhelm (8-3) allowed eight of the Yankees' nine hits in his seven innings. Winless in his last four starts, he's been tagged for 14 earned runs in 27 2-3 innings over that span for a 4.50 earned run average. Before the slump his ERA was 1.00. Now it's 1.83, still tops in the AL.

Vic Power's two-run, inside-the-park homer in the third and Rocky Colavito's 23rd home run in the sixth backed Cleveland's Cal McLish (9-3), who held the White Sox to four singles and didn't walk a man while winning his fourth straight. Chicago scored in the third with an unearned run on an error, sacrifice and Luis Aparicio's single. Nellie Fox followed with a single, but McLish then retired 14 in a row before Jim Landis singled for the Sox' final hit leading off the eighth.

Billy Pierce (8-9) was the loser. He's won only three of his last 10 decisions.

Frank Lary (9-4) blanked the A's on five hits for his first shut-out since June, 1958. He struck out seven, walked none and put down 13 in order before Jerry Lumpe and Dick Williams led off the ninth with singles. Lary then fanned Kent Haden, and retired power guys Roger Maris and Bob Cerv. The Tigers scored in the first on Charlie Maxwell's 17th homer, and added two unearned runs in the second on an error by lower Rip Coleman (2-7).

Faye Throneberry, who homered, and Harmon Killebrew had half of Washington's 10 hits and each drove in two runs, both getting RBI singles as the Nats scored four unearned runs in the second against loser Tom Brewer (5-5). Pete Ramos (8-7) made it four out of five against Boston this season with a six-hitter.

Managers Eddie Sawyer of the Phillies and Danny Murtaugh of the Pirates were named as coaches. Chicago's Bill Henry and Pittsburgh's Bob Porterfield, will be the batting practice pitchers. Coach Sam Narmon of the Pirates will be the batting practice catcher.

The veteran Milwaukee pilot Tuesday selected 17 players to go along with the eight starters picked by the players themselves for the 26th annual All-Star game in Pittsburgh, July 7. The lone surprise was Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Alcoholism-Health Workshop Had 97 Participants In ECC

An objective and constructive approach to the problems of alcohol in a course taken by 97 students enrolled in the 9th annual workshop dealing with Alcoholism in Health Education at East Carolina College, in the opinion of Dr. N. M. Jorgensen, workshop director, makes the two-week session just ended here the most productive of any he has conducted.

Purpose of the workshop has been to help teachers, prospective teachers, and community leaders enrolled for the 30-hour course to develop a better understanding of the numerous problems—emotional, sociological, psychological, and physiological—which accompany the "use and misuse" of beverage alcohol.

Co-sponsor of the workshop is the North Carolina Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program, East Carolina College, which has provided facilities and through Dr. Jorgensen, director of health and physical education at the college, a number of off-campus persons have contributed to the workshop program.

The instructors who have enrolled in workshops at the college and then gone out into North Carolina and other states to extend a better understanding of the problems of alcoholism must now number more than 500 individuals, according to Dr. Jorgensen. Some of these have been coaches and physical education teachers. Others have been workers in recreation and church schools.

From time to time, Dr. Jorgensen has called upon ministers to offer counseling of a religious nature; at other times, he has invited judges and court officials to discuss legal aspects of the problem. Members of Alcoholics Anonymous have discussed the "AA 12-step program."

This year Dr. Norbert L. Kelly, executive director of the N. C. Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program, and Dr. Fred W. Ellis, associate professor of pharmacology, University of North Carolina, were guest lecturers at the East Carolina workshop. In addition to their class discussions, they also illustrated their presentations through the use of films dealing with causation and treatment of alcoholism, physiology and metabolism of alcohol, and dynamics of personality development.

North Carolina's facilities and program for studies in alcoholism, public institutes, workshops and clinics, and other "action" programs were cited by Dr. Kelly as indications that the public is becoming actively interested in these problems as they relate to individuals and social groups.

Among other studies related to alcoholism, Dr. Kelly noted the relation of alcoholism to traffic violations, industrial and highway safety, driver education, and law enforcement.

Following up the lectures, the students considered the variety, complexity, and intensity of problems related to "misuse" of alcoholic beverages, and proceeded to the outlining of an educational philosophy for instruction about alcohol, and the organization of materials, procedures and techniques for instruction about alcohol.

The North Carolina school program was discussed in two seminars in which students noted the social, emotional and physical health problems which compel the attention and concern of the public and which are often times discussed in church and school.

Students agree that there are no easy and immediate solutions for the problems which grow out of alcoholism, but that through a considered study of human behavior and forces shaping the culture of the times, sound ways and procedures of treating and dealing with them may be discovered. Plans are already being made for two groups in the 1960 alcoholism workshop, since the number of interested persons increases annually.

Train Explosion Toll Is Now 20

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — The death toll from Sunday's freight train explosion on the Ogeechee River stands at 20.

The count increased Tuesday when James R. Smith of Savannah, 26, died of burns that covered 80 per cent of his body. His wife, Majorie, was in grave condition in a hospital. Their children, Wayne, 3, and Timothy, 1, died earlier.

The explosion occurred at a recreational area near Meldrim. Still at issue was whether the train derailed and caused the explosion or the butane cars exploded and caused the derailment.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has ordered a hearing here July 9.

Michigan requires a special license for hunting with a slingshot.

Drapes Provide More Red Faces

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force, already roundly criticized by Congress for the cost of its new academy at Colorado Springs, is suffering fresh embarrassment in the case of the $4,500 drapes.

It seems the Air Force spent around $90,000 to build a 21-foot overhanging roof around its glass-walled academy dining hall to keep out the sun.

In justifying the expenditure, Air Force Secretary James H. Douglas last year told the House Appropriations Committee the overhang would eliminate any need for drapes.

In this year's appropriations committee hearings made public today, Rep. Harry M. Sheppard (D-Calif.) disclosed that drapes costing $2,000 already have been installed in the dining hall with another $2,500 needed to finish the job.

That, Sheppard noted, was for only one of the three glass-walled sides of the room.

Under-secretary M.A. MacIntyre had no explanation. But he said he was sure Douglas "would be quite upset in learning about the facts."

The subject was dropped. Apparently the drapes stay up. So does the $90,000 roof overhang.

The Red Cross was founded 100 years ago.

Most Americans Believe Still Better Times Ahead

Editor's Note — Seldom have more people been more confident that the American economy is climbing to a new peak of prosperity. In the following second of two articles on the midyear outlook, Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, discusses the probabilities and uncertainties ahead.

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Still better times acoming? Most Americans think so.

The second half of the year holds the promise of being better than the first. Both consumers and businessmen know that the first half was a sleeper. They'd been promised improvement over 1958. But what they got was surprisingly better than that.

Now they're being promised a measure of prosperity in the months just ahead that once was thought a year or more away. It adds up to more jobs, fewer jobless, bigger incomes from wages and investments. It also seems likely to add up to slightly higher prices, a bigger load of personal debts, still tighter money, and more taxes at the state and local levels.

The outlook is a bit more clouded for housing, stock prices, the status of the dollar in world eyes, and the acceptance of Detroit's new cars.

The immediate question is how much. If any, of a summer lull? And what part will the steel industry play in it?

If there's a steel strike, several hundred thousand workers in that and allied industries will be out of work. How long steel users can live off stocks they've built up is the subject of much guessing.

If there isn't a strike, how long these users will live off their strike-insurance stocks before re-ordering is also uncertain. Some industries — notably textiles—expect to do so well this summer that they plan to hold vacation periods to a minimum.

A slow but steady rise in wage scales is widely expected during the rest of the year. Further shrinking in unemployment is looked for by most.

Most items in the cost of living have crept higher during the first half of the year and seem likely to go right on that way, perhaps at a faster pace. The moderating item has been the important one of food, but the summer is expected to see a seasonal rise in food prices.

Farmers saw their prices shrink during the first half of the year but expect total farm income to be fairly stable the rest of the year.

MAN WHO MISSED THE MOON

by EDMOND HAMILTON

From the novel, The Star of Life, published by Torrey Books.
© 1959 by Edmond Hamilton. Illustrated by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 7
Kirk Hammond's dazed eyes swept from the men to the big instrument that occupied much of the room.

It looked like a six-inch refracting telescope mounted on a heavy pedestal, and yet there were things about it that didn't fit a telescope at all.

He noticed that a section of the ceiling above it was so mounted that it could be swung aside, allowing the big tube to sweep the sky. The unfamiliar instrument, the unfamiliar technology it represented, completed Hammond's bewilderment.

Quobba took the protective turban off Hammond's head and drew him by the arm toward a well-mouth that yawned at one side of the chamber. A narrow spiral stair of metal dropped down this vertical shaft.

Hammond went down it with the blue man going ahead and reaching back to steady him. The wizened little yellow man named Shau Tammas came after them with monkey-like agility.

There was bright white light below, and they went down into the light, into a great room or hall that had been cut or blasted somehow out of solid rock.

The room was big and lofty. Brilliant white globes in the rock ceiling shed an almost shadowless illumination. Around the walls were unfamiliar machines, tables of whirling instruments, glittering metal assemblies. There were more than a score of people working busily at the machines—most of them were men, but some were women who wore skirts and short.

The majority of these people were of a perfectly familiar type but there were a few who looked as unusual as Quobba and Tammas—a couple of stocky men with dull red skins, a lanky hollow-eyed man with a curious smooth gray complexion. They turned from their work to look at Hammond in surprise and quick-rising alarm.

He stared back, seeing their faces as though in a dream. He knew that he was nearly out. He would have sunk to the floor if Rab Quobba had not steadied him as he led him across the hall. Behind him wondering and excited men and women followed, their voices rising in a buzzing chatter.

They went through connecting rock-cut halls to a smaller chamber that seemed their destination. Here were shelves of curious astronomical diagrams, a couple of littered desks. "Ex Jon Wilson, I am do nos Hoomen," Quobba said to Hammond, pointing to the man who was coming toward them.

Jon Wilson was past middle age. He overwhelmingly reminded Hammond of someone, and suddenly he remembered.

There had been a man named John Brown of Harper's Ferry, a long time ago. A harsh, fanatic leader. He had seen pictures of that man and this one was like him—the same gaunt, narrow face of iron-hard planes, the same iron-gray hair, the deep hollow-cavemed eyes, everything but the beard.

The impact of those eyes was like a blow, and in them was an alert anxiety as he looked at Hammond.

There was a girl at his side, slender in her brief garment, her dark hair falling to touch her shoulders. She was pretty as a hawk, and her dark eyes were wide with wonder.

"Ex an do Vramen?" she asked quickly of Rab Quobba.

"Nun, Iva!" the blue man said. His battered face was earnest as he made rapid explanations, pointing excitedly upward toward the rock ceiling.

To Hammond it was more like a dream every minute. The whole scene was blurring. He had kept going on sheer nerve, but not the inevitable reaction hit him like a mountain falling on him. He tried to hold on, to fight back the shapeless darkness.

He became aware that an altar-cation was going on. A tall, hard-eyed man with sandy hair was speaking rapidly to Jon Wilson, gesturing at Hammond with suspicion in every line of his face. Suspicion, and hate.

"Dito, ex fa Vramen!" the sandy-haired man said, and a mutter crowded in behind Hammond. But Quobba shook his head in angry denial.

"Ex nun, Lund."

But the sandy-haired man only talked louder, against Quobba. It was pretty obvious, Hammond thought, that at least some of these people thought he was a spy or ally of some enemy of theirs called the Vramen. And, ignorant as he was of their language, how was he going to tell them the truth about himself?

Even more important, how was he going to make them believe it? His eyes fell upon the astronomical charts on the wall, and a thought came into his mind. He went unsteadily toward the charts. Most of them seemed to be star-maps of various regions of the galaxy, but one was a diagram of the solar system with all the planets depicted in their orbits. Hammond picked up a pencil and hastily drew a small picture on this chart.

He drew a tiny rocket-propelled satellite speeding away from Earth, with the crude figure of a single man visible inside the sphere.

He pointed to the satellite and the little figure in it, and then pointed to himself. It did not seem to lessen the hostility of the crowd.

"How the devil can I tell them I slept in the satellite for centuries?" Hammond wondered groggily.

Then he saw that one of the charts depicted the northern constellations as seen from Earth, with the crossed lines of the celestial pole at the star Delta Cygni. He reached up and drew new crossed lines at the star Polaris.

He pointed to that, then pointed again to the picture of the satellite leaving Earth and to himself. He hoped they would understand that he meant he had left Earth when Polaris was the pole star.

Some of them understood at once. Jon Wilson, the leader, did. The hostility on his gaunt face faded into an expression of incredulity. He looked at Hammond and seemed about to voice his skepticism, but something in Hammond's appearance stayed him. There came into his deep eyes a hint of dawning awe.

"Do phram?" he said. There was disbelief in his tone, but it was not violent, not sure.

He and the girl Iva and the others stared at Hammond, more startled now than suspicious.

The man Lund spoke up with harsh denial strong in his attitude, and Quobba answered him loudly and excitedly, but Hammond did not care any longer what they said.

The cumulative effects of his ordeal were closing down upon him and the whole room seemed to darken and move slowly around him.

Two Hitchhikers Missed O'Brien

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Two girls hitchhiked here from St. Louis to see TV's Wyatt Earp, actor Hugh O'Brien, only to learn that he's in Laconia, N.H., playing in summer stock.

The hikers are Jean Thacker, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Thacker, Vienna, Ill., and Jean Holman, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Holman, London, England.

They met in St. Louis at a Salvation Army hotel for girls while working at vacation jobs. Finding a mutual admiration for O'Brien, they headed west on U.S. Highway 66 Wednesday night.

"The only man who got fresh was the first one who picked us up," said Miss Holman. "He's still driving around St. Louis with two black eyes."

Monday they thumbed a ride from Earl Abbott, 40, an engineer, who telephoned his wife, who said bring them home. She manages a Hollywood apartment house.

Buses are now used by pilgrims to the holy city of Mecca. Heretofore, camels were used.

NEA Told Solution Is In Tax Law Revisions

By G.K. HODENFIELD
Associated Press Education Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Local and state governments must overhaul their tax laws to produce more money for public schools. Even so, says a group of experts, the federal government will have to pay a big part of the bill for quality education.

A committee on tax education and school finance, which has been studying the problem for the National Education Assn., said poor education is a national problem, no matter where it is found.

The committee will report its findings to the NEA convention here.

The convention Tuesday almost unanimously supported a proposal that the various state groups send a flood of telegrams to their congressmen asking support of the Murray-Metcalf bill.

That bill would provide federal grants to the state of $25 for every child between the ages 5 to 17.

The money could be spent for school construction or teachers salaries or both.

Several delegates from Virginia opposed any federal aid program. Delegate Harold Bell said it seems incongruous to him to "send a dollar to Washington to get 60 cents back." However, the Virginia Teachers Assn., a Negro organization, voted for the proposal.

Some Southern delegates are reported to be afraid that there might be an attempt to write into the Murray-Metcalf bill a stipulation that funds would be withheld from states which had not integrated the races in their public schools.

The special tax committee said local communities are the most inefficient tax collectors.

It said there should be: A fair and equitable assessment of property.

Removal of unrealistic state limitations on the amount of tax money which a community can raise.

A study of such exemptions from property tax as those given to veterans.

Dr. John K. Norton, professor emeritus of Teachers College, Columbia University, said poor education cannot be considered strictly a local problem.

"A book publishing company in New York, for instance," he said, "can't sell many of its books in Mississippi because Mississippi can't afford to buy them. The best way to stimulate the economy in the South would be to insure the people of the South a better education."

Russian Exhibit Drawing Crowds

NEW YORK (AP)—The newest show in town—the Soviet Exhibition—looks like a smash hit.

A dazzling, 10-million-dollar extravaganza, it opened to generally favorable press reviews and played its first performance before a packed house in the New York Coliseum.

There were 1,000 people standing in the hot sun Tuesday when the doors opened. A spokesman for the 42-day exhibition estimated attendance between 40,000 and 50,000.

The aim of the show, like the aim of its American counterpart which opens in Moscow July 25, is to show people how the other side lives.

Newspapers generally found it a good show. But they pointed out that in some departments, such as housing, clothing and automobiles the Soviet goods didn't come up to American standards.

Apparently they were somewhat above Soviet standards, however. Max Frankel, a former Moscow correspondent, wrote in the New York Times: "A visitor can see far more here in two hours than this correspondent saw in two years in the Soviet Union, far more especially of the stuff of Soviet wishful dreams."

"The exhibition projects a glistening Soviet future, but strains some facts of Soviet reality."

TO RING ATHENS

ATHENS (AP)—The Greek government is going to ring Athens with Nike missile bases to protect the capital from air attack, an Air Ministry spokesman said today. Greek officers and men are already in the United States training to use the surface-to-air anti-aircraft missiles, he said. Construction of the bases on mountains overlooking Athens is due to be completed by the end of 1960.

Russia Is Losing More Diplomats

WASHINGTON (AP)—A record number of Soviet diplomats are reported to have defected to the West in the past week.

Responsible officials who reported this today said it was the biggest flight to freedom by Soviets that they could remember. They declined to reveal the numbers.

Some of the defectors are understood to have been granted asylum by American authorities in keeping with the government's long-standing policy of providing a haven for such escapees.

A young Soviet diplomat who took refuge in the U.S. Embassy in Burma is reported to be only one of many similar cases.

Most of the others are described as of medium-rank and "knowledgeable" in the inner workings of Soviet activities in their particular fields.

Officials who talked about the defections in most guarded terms said the reasons for the record flights appeared to be:

1. Soviet diplomats overseas are becoming disillusioned with the continued round-the-clock secret police watch on their activities.

2. An increasing number have succumbed to the lure of better living conditions, plus freedom, to which they are exposed daily in their diplomatic life outside the U.S.S.R.

Authorities cautioned, however, against viewing the stepped-up flow of defectors as any sign of a deep-rooted restlessness among Soviet diplomats.

PAY SCALE RISING

TOKYO (AP) — The average Japanese salaried man was paid $51.41 a month before taxes in 1958—31 per cent more than five years before. The government Tax Bureau said after taxes monthly paychecks averaged $49.45.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced early this afternoon in a renewed attack on the old highs of the industrial average. Trading was fairly active. Gains of fractions to more than a point were posted for key stocks while some electronics and other selected issues made bigger gains. The market was pushing hard against heavy overhead resistance represented by stock for sale around the highs reached at the end of May.

Among the higher quality issues, Goodyear spurred about half a dozen points, Du Pont around 4 and Goodrich 3 points or so.

U.S. Steel and Republic Steel added more than a point each. U.S. Rubber advanced well over a point while Firestone was about unchanged.

International Harvester was up about 2 and Caterpillar more than a point.

Raytheon rose more than 4, Texas Instruments and Zenith about 2 apiece and Radio Corp. more than a point. Raytheon erased an early loss.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up $1.20 to $229.30 with the industrials up $2.40, the rails up 70 cents and the utilities up 20 cents.

U.S. government bonds were unchanged to a shade lower.

Tobacco Growers Again Urged Accentuate Quality

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — Flue-cured tobacco growers were urged today to improve quality of their leaf in order that it "may regain its former position of dominance in world tobacco trade channels."

A resolution adopted by the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn., at the closing session of its annual convention said the tobacco buyers, both at home and abroad, are increasingly and alarmingly dissatisfied with the quality of our tobacco.

The warehousemen urged growers to follow experts' recommendations on spacing, fertilization, irrigation and use by chemicals for control of suckers.

Regulations for sale of the 1959 crop adopted by the association are essentially the same as those of the last several years. They provide that hours of sale per day shall be fixed by the Bright Belt board of governors, the rate of sale shall not exceed 400 baskets per acre, and baskets shall not exceed 800 pounds. Regulations on spacing and placing of the baskets on warehouse floors were unchanged.

One approved change called for individual belt warehouse associations to fix dates for market openings after consulting with the sales committee of the Bright Belt Assn. In the past these have been set by the sales committee.

In Georgia and Florida, commissioners of agriculture have the final decision on fixing opening dates.

A resolution urged buying companies to estimate their needs so as to "insure their participation in the market on a regular, stable, and constant basis throughout the entire marketing season on all belts."

It also urged buying companies not to make a blanket condemnation of the crop produced in any certain producing area, which might result in a "drastic curtailment of their purchases in such areas."

Resolutions were adopted, as in former years, pledging the association's support in fights against increases in tobacco taxes and support of the tobacco growers' information committee in its fight against "vicious propaganda in the field of health."

Also, as in the past, the association endorsed continuation of price supports on tobacco at 90 per cent of parity and "earnestly request the administration and members of Congress to support this program."

In a business session yesterday, the warehousemen:

— Heard Director S. E. Wraether of the U.S. Agricultural Marketing Service's tobacco division predict competition among buying companies for the 1959 flue-cured crop.

— Learned that negotiations for sales of 20 million pounds of tobacco from stocks of the Flue-Cured Stabilization Corp. have been completed.

— Learned the 1959 sales season on the Georgia-Florida flue-cured belt may begin July 16 if the current price support program can be placed into operation by that time.

Jordan devoted most of his speech to Eisenhower's veto of a bill that would have stabilized tobacco prices by freezing supports at 1958 levels for the next four or five years.

The industry backed the measure for fear that constantly rising supports would price tobacco out of world markets.

Jordan also took issue with a substitute proposal by Sen. Thurston Morton (R-Ky) to freeze the supports only for the next two years.

He called the Morton bill a trap aimed at destroying the price support and acreage control programs.

Wraether, a U.S. Department of Agriculture official, said flue-cured carryover—the amount of tobacco on hand at the end of the year—has been reduced to "about a 21-month supply."

He said this was a fairly normal figure "and I think they (the buyers) will buy tobacco."

The Flue-Cured Stabilization Corp. general manager, Lloyd T. Weeks, announcing the corporation's sales negotiations, said the tobacco will come from Stabilization stocks of the 1955-56 crops.

The corporation buys tobacco in operating the government price support program. It has reduced its prices on stocks for 1955 and '56 in order to dispose of it.

Cut Budget $90,000

WASHINGTON — The city council squeezed $90,000 out of a proposed budget here Monday and plans to use the funds for construction of a city-owned parking lot to the rear of City Hall without issuing bonds for the project. This action is hoped to save the taxpayers an estimated $80,000 in interest alone, but does not affect the current tax rate of $1.80.

McAdams Resigns

KINSTON — Tuesday was the last working day for W.G. McAdams as superintendent of the Kinston Utilities Department. McAdams began his job in 1949. His departure came exactly 30 days after the City Council requested McAdams to submit his resignation effective in 30 days.

Need Over Half Million

WILLIAMSTON — It will cost nearly one million dollars to operate the several departments and support the schools in Martin County during the new fiscal year according to estimates advanced by Auditor J. Sam Getsinger this week. Based on an assessed property valuation of $3,000,000 a $1.69 rate on the $100 property assessment will raise approximately one-half of the needed revenue.

Drop Support of Health Dept.

WILSON — Wilson commissioners served notice on the county commissioners that effective next year, the city will make no further appropriation for the support of the health department, mental health clinic, and Mercy Hospital. The board had indicated for some time it objected to paying out monetary aid to agencies which fall under county jurisdiction.

Normally the city shared the costs in these departments on a 50-50 basis with the county. The city granted 25 per cent of the total funds requested by the three agencies.

Commander Cites Payroll

GOLDSBORO — Fourteen thousand and military and dependent personnel are now associated with Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, General Joe H. Moore, commander of the 4th Fighter Wing, told Goldsboro Kiwanis Club Monday. Military personnel of 5,731 and civilians numbering 329 earn a total annual payroll of $11,200,000.

Armstrong Retired

GOLDSBORO — Ray Armstrong retired yesterday after serving 32 years as superintendent of Goldsboro City Schools. Armstrong taught here from 1919 until 1921. He then served as principal of Gastonia High, one year as principal in Kinston, and superintendent in Monroe for two years.

Registration Is Growing At Ayden's Center

AYDEN — Registration at the Ayden Recreation Center is over 250 so far this summer, City Manager William Formyduval announced today.

According to Formyduval, the attendance is still improving and it is hoped that more people will take advantage of the facilities of the center.

The swimming program will get under way June 6, and volunteers are needed to furnish transportation and to keep the recreation center open while the swimming classes are being conducted. All who are interested in the program should inquire at the center for further information.

The teenage dance will be held Thursday night this week because many teenagers will be out of town for the Fourth of July weekend.

Fresh Shipment Of Las Vegas Beauties

By BOB THOMAS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Miss Bluebell is back with another shipment of European beauties, bare and covered. She is instructing them how to survive a year on this glittering American desert.

Miss Bluebell is an attractive, proper Englishwoman named Margaret Kelly, who has been exporting British dancers to the pleasure spots of the world for over 20 years. She is the mistress of the Bluebell girls, a stunning group of dance precisionists.

She first brought the troupe to North America a year ago as part of the Lido of Paris show that proved a 12-month sell-out at the Hotel Stardust.

"The Bluebell girls do not strip," she informs you firmly. "The models do—from the waist up. The Bluebells are largely English, rejects from the ballet schools because they're too tall."

The models are mostly English and German.

I asked Miss Kelly how the first Bluebell pioneers survived the year in Las Vegas.

"Very well, thank you," she replied. "Only one girl got too heavy by eating too many milk shakes and things. The others ate well but they worked it off by strenuous routines twice a night."

The ground rules for Bluebell girls are that all must return home after a foreign engagement.

"The reason is that I feel a responsibility to the parents of the girls," Miss Kelly explained. "Most of the dancers are around the 19-year bracket, and it's often their first time away from home."

Four girls returned to Brazil after a date there, but none plans to come back to Las Vegas, as Miss Kelly remarked, "You always hear about the fabulous Texan millionaires, but no one ever sees them."

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Municipal Recorder's Court Monday, Judge Charles Whedbee found probable cause against George Green, Negro, 1716 S. Greene St., on five charges of forgery of checks.

The court bound Green over to Superior Court for grand jury hearing in lieu of $1,000 bond.

George A. Dangerfield, Negro, 409 Ford St., damage to personal property, 30 days on the roads, suspended on payment into court for Folger Buick Company $54 for repairs to auto and pay court costs.

John A. Roberts, Negro, 1307 Mill St., speeding, $25 fine, costs deducted, and the judgment provides that he not operate a motor vehicle for 39 days and surrender his license to court clerk.

Francis Di. Lugio and John L. Epperon, both of Cherry Point, larceny of gas from a parked motor vehicle, each 90 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted.

Ray Nichols, 1009 W. Fourth St., assault on a female, two cases, 30 days on the roads in each case, suspended on payment of $20 in each case and provided that the defendant not harm, molest or threaten to harm or molest his wife.

Drunk: John Roberts, Negro, 30 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $16. Jack McLawhorn, Rt. 2, Ayden, defendant moves in open court to continue until July 27, with the understanding he is not to be arrested for any offense involving alcohol before that date or a compulsory road sentence will result.

Arthur J. Morris, Negro, 217 Center St., non-support, six months on the roads, suspended on condition that the defendant pay into court for use and benefit of children, the sum of $15 each Saturday, starting July 4, and each Saturday thereafter. This cause was retained for further order.

Charles V. Hammond, Negro, address unknown, larceny, case not pressed.

Wylie Clark, Jr., address unknown, non-support, was found not guilty.

Clarence Powell, Negro, 1108-B Pitt St., larceny of a bottle of wine, 60 days on the roads.

Wade T. Surratt, Jr., Winston-Salem, speeding, $16.

Jesse James Floyd, Negro, 601 Roosevelt Ave., failure to stop at a stop sign, $10 on costs.

West Germany's President Voted

BERLIN (AP)—Heinrich Lübke, 64, agriculture minister, was elected president of West Germany today.

Luebke was the candidate of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic party.

He defeated Carlo Schmid, the Socialist candidate, and Max Becker, who was the choice of the Liberal Free Democratic party.

Luebke won on the second ballot with 526 votes in the 1,038-member Electoral College. This was six more votes than needed. He had 517 votes, or three shy of the required majority on the first ballot. Schmid had 385 on the first ballot and Becker 104.

On the second ballot Schmid collected 386 votes, while Becker dropped to 99.

Luebke, a jaunty man, has been minister of agriculture six years, but he is little known outside farming circles.

He served in the Kaiser's armies in World War I and then became a member of the Catholic Center party.

When Hitler rose to power in 1933 the members of the Catholic Center party came under suspicion and Luebke was jailed for 20 months. During World War II he worked for a Berlin construction company.

Luebke was one of the first first members of the postwar Christian Democratic party. He is married but has no children.

He was a late choice of his party for the presidency.

The election was held here 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain despite Communist protests that it was an affront to East Germany.

Improvements Planned At Seymour-Johnson Base

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force plans to provide air conditioning and increased water supplies for Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, Goldsboro, N.C., if Congress appropriates the money.

The Air Force is seeking 2 1/2 million dollars for new construction at the base, headquarters for a tactical fighter wing, a heavy bomber squadron, an aerial refueling squadron, and a fighter interceptor squadron.

The House Appropriations Committee made public today a transcript of a closed hearing at which Col. E. R. Jackson of the Air Force Office of Civil Engineering testified about needs of the base.

Jackson said the base requires 2,000,000 gallons of water a day and has capacity of only 900,000 gallons now. He said rehabilitation of five wells, including pumping equipment, a treatment plant, a 500,000-gallon elevated storage tank and 12,500 feet of raw water main will do the job.

He said it is necessary to have air conditioning in new buildings to be constructed this year because "it is extremely warm in this location."

The new buildings, he said, will include an aircraft shelter for installed weapons of a fire control system; also an aircraft engine inspection and repair facility addition; an armament electronics shop to increase the 22,000 square feet to near the required 37,000 square feet; a storage base for ammunition; a dining hall to accommodate 600; and a dormitory for 400 airmen.

He said, "The dormitory we are requesting will not bring them up to snuff, so they are still going to be some difficulties of crowding, but this will be considerably better."

William H. Tripp Is Found Dead Today

William Henry Tripp, 32, was found dead near a tobacco barn near his home at a rural point at 8:30 Wednesday morning. Funeral arrangements had not been made.

Mr. Tripp was born and reared in Pitt County and attended the Pactivol schools. He was a member of Parker's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church and a veteran of World War II.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Marie Lum Tripp of the home; a daughter, Myrtle Ruth, and a son, Bobby, both of the home; his mother, Mrs. Bessie M. Tripp of Farmville; four brothers, Fred N. Tripp, Ayden, Paul Tripp of Farmville and Burney Ray and Cary J. Tripp of Greenville; four sisters, Mrs. J. B. Briley, Farmville, N. C., Mrs. B. F. Baldree, Williamston, Mrs. R. J. Brock, Jacksonville, and Mrs. H. E. Pritchard of Columbia, S. C.

Assistant Negro Agent Announced

The office of Pitt County Negro Farm Agent James M. Goode today announced the appointment of Miss Addie R. Gore, 1950 graduate of home economics at A. and T. College, Greensboro, as assistant Negro home economics agent for Pitt county.

She assumed her new duties in Greenville today.

Miss Gore is a former resident of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Wilmington, N.C. She held her field work in extension in Pender county.
