

General Rain Over County Is Greeted With Smiles

A general rain brought relief for parched crops in the fields of Pitt and surrounding counties last night, saving the area's vast tobacco crop.

It was the first general rain of the growing season although there have been local showers from time to time.

The precipitation brought smiles to the faces of hundreds of farmers who were forced to stand by while their tobacco, corn and other crops slowly dried up in the fields. There was also joy in the hearts of many farm laborers who had been working furiously during the past few weeks lugging irrigation equipment from field to field.

And for the town dwellers and farm folks alike there was welcome relief from the 100-degree temperatures which have gripped this area since last Saturday. The rain seemed to be almost perfect from the farmer's standpoint. Greenville Utilities weather station reported the precipitation for the night was 1.12 inches. The rainfall began with a heavy downpour, but later in the night it settled down to a steady, slower rainfall—the soaking kind that farmers wanted.

Skies were overcast today. Thus the baking sun which has shone on Eastern North Carolina this week wasn't around to dry out the parched fields.

A slight drop in temperatures yesterday heralded the arrival of better weather conditions for this area.

Greenville Utilities reported that the thermometer stood at 97 degrees at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It was the first day since Saturday that the temperature here hadn't reached or surpassed the 100-degree mark.

During the rain last night the thermometer dropped to a comfortable low of 68 degrees and it remained at that temperature at 8 o'clock this morning.

The river level today remained at three feet.

Clifton Everett, mayor of Bethel, said he felt the rain "will help crops a whole lot" in the northern section of the county.

He described the rainfall there as good. "We didn't have a heavy rain but it rained all night," Everett declared.

"I don't know how far it extended out from Bethel but it seemed to be pretty general."

Charles S. Edwards, mayor of Farmville, said the rain appeared to be general in the Farmville area. "It rained off and on all night. It was a slow soaking rain. As far as I've heard everybody is very happy."

"In our immediate area we are in much better shape than I thought we would be."

And from Grifton in southern Pitt County, Paul A. Bradley, agriculture teacher, reported the area "had a good rain."

He said it rained hard around 9:30 or 10 o'clock for about 45 minutes. Then it settled down to a softer rain which apparently went on most of the night.

The rain was needed in the Grifton area, he said, "and everybody is happy about it."

Highway Patrol Is Going All-Out For A Safe Weekend

The official traffic death toll for the July 4 holiday weekend will be logged for the period between 6 p.m. July 3 and 12 midnight July 5.

According to official figures, 15 persons died as a result of injuries received from holiday weekend accidents last year. This year, the State Highway Patrol, trooping to Capt. S. H. Mitchell, Troop A head, will have men on duty 24 hours a day in an effort to suppress the holiday accident record.

Holiday motorists should "leave early when it is cool and comply with all speed limit signs" for a safer and happier trip, Capt. Mitchell said. Another important factor, according to the captain, is to avoid getting fatigued.

"When you start to get tired of driving, stop the car, get out and walk around. A cool drink of water or a soft drink will also refresh you," Mitchell said. Do not drink alcoholic beverages while driving or if you anticipate driving, he emphasized.

Also very important is watching the distance between cars. Make sure you have plenty of room to stop, and at night don't overrun your headlights.

Capt. Mitchell pointed out official figures show seven out of ten drivers violate some traffic law when they are involved in an accident. "If all drivers will comply with the laws, this should be a safe holiday," he added.

Cpl. Titus Martin said Pitt County patrolmen will have all speed clocks set up and all unmarked cars in use in an effort to keep violations and accidents to a minimum over the weekend.

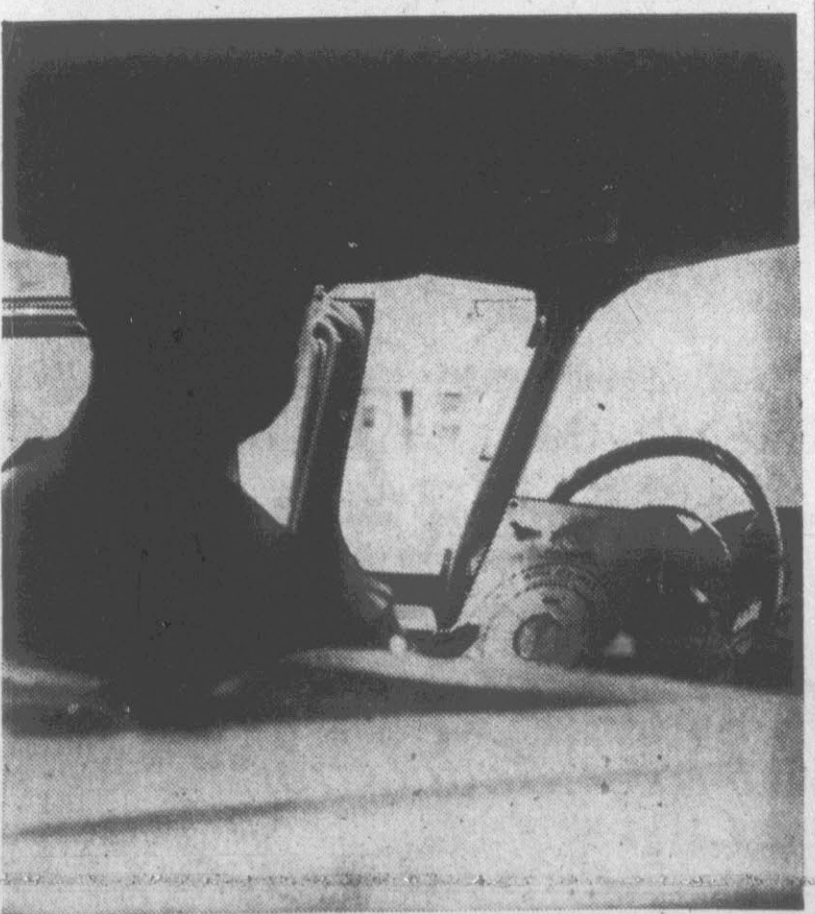

Martin said he had been informed by Squad Capt. Roy Hardee that the Greenville Rescue Squad would have at least two volunteer men on duty 24 hours per day over the weekend to assist the regular men.

Safety literature is being handed out today by patrolmen and Greenville Jaycees are serving free drinks, which have been donated by the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co., to all motorists stopped at check points.

For a safer holiday and a safer "everyday" . . . SLOW DOWN AND LIVE, drivers were urged.

Budget Hiked, Tax Rate Cut By Board In Ayden

AYDEN — The Ayden Town Board voted Tuesday night to reduce the present tax rate 10 cents per $100 valuation.

According to City Manager William Formyduval, the present tax rate of $1.50 per hundred will be reduced to $1.40 for the next fiscal year.

Along with the tax cut, the budget was increased by $18,000. According to the tentative budget, the income is estimated to be $30,000 including $50,800 from taxes; $22,200 from utilities; $17,800 from state collected revenue; and $94,000 from functions and services.

Estimated expenditures include: Legislative, $1,605; Administration, $25,736; Police Department, $27,010; Fire Department, $2,900; Public Works, $21,460; Utilities Department, $126,450; and water and sewer department, $16,390.

Garbage collection and sanitation, $9,061; Recreation Commission, $2,500; Community Building and Library, $2,440; Cemetery, $2,500; Civil Defense, $1,500; Recorder's Court, $4,930; Debt Service Fund, $28,018; and the Capital Improvement Fund, $27,500.

A copy of the budget will be available for inspection in the town office for inspection for 20 days before formal acceptance is made, Formyduval said.

Three Industry Prospects Visit

Three separate groups of "fair-sized" industrial prospects have visited Greenville and other Pitt County towns in the past two weeks, according to Economic Consultant L. A. Weston of the Pitt County Development Commission.

Weston told the Daily Reflector this morning that proposals are now being prepared for submission to the prospects at their request. These proposals will point out to the industrial interest groups just "what we can do in the way of buildings, land and other requirements."

Weston indicated that Pitt citizens have been very helpful in backing up the Development Commission's program. "We have had outstanding support from the people here," he said. "They have cooperated with us 100%."

Each town visited produced committees with every town firm represented to meet with the industrialists, according to Weston.

A Flag Of 49 Stars On July 4

First Official Raising To Be At Ft. McHenry; Rites In Philadelphia

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's new 49-star flag comes officially into existence at one minute past midnight tonight. It will take the place of the 48-star banner that has symbolized America for 47 years.

Designed for inclusion of Alaska as the 49th state, the new red, white and blue standard will be raised in colorful ceremonies at Ft. McHenry in Baltimore and at Independence Hall in Philadelphia.

The Capitol and the White House a mile away also will hoist new flags.

Many other government buildings will continue to fly the old 48-star flag because hundreds are still on hand. It will be legal, both for the government and for private citizens, to fly the old-style banners until they wear out.

Alaska became the 49th state last January, but under the law a new flag's birthday must await July 4. Hawaii is expected to become the 50th state soon, but a new 50-star flag will not become official until July 4, 1960.

The last change in the flag was in 1912. Then, in the administration of President William Howard Taft, stars were added for New Mexico, admitted Jan. 6, and Arizona, brought into the union Feb. 14.

The new 49-star flag has a field of seven staggered rows of seven stars each. It is not definite what the new 50th star flag will look like.

The first official raising of the 49-star emblem will take place at 12:01 a.m. at Fort McHenry after re-enactment of the British bombardment of the fort in 1814. It was then that Francis Scott Key wrote the words of the "Star Spangled Banner," while he was detained aboard a vessel in the rear of the bombarding British fleet.

Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton will raise the new flag.

In Philadelphia, at 11 a.m. Saturday, there will be another ceremony at Independence Hall. There, the first 49-star flag produced by the Army Quartermaster Depot in that city will be raised. It will later be sent to Alaska to fly over the state capitol and then be deposited in the Alaska State Museum.

The governors of the 13 original states have been asked to head delegations of descendants of signers of the Declaration of Independence to the Philadelphia ceremony.

Weather-Wise, A Pleasant Fourth

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pleasant, warm weather for the Fourth of July over much of the nation was forecast by the Weather Bureau today, though there is the possibility of showers in several areas. The forecast: "Fair weather with temperatures rising to the 70s or 80s is forecast across much of the Midwest, East and Northwest, July 4th."

Showers and thunderstorms will develop over the warm and humid South Atlantic, Gulf and Southern Plains states, mostly during the afternoon and evening. Others are indicated for central and southern portions of the Rocky Mountain region.

"Cool air spreading into the Central Plains and Upper Mississippi Valley will touch off thunderstorm activity which may reach the Great Lakes region during the day."

Opening Date

HENDERSON, N. C. (AP)—Tobacco markets of the Georgia-Florida Belt will open their 1959 sales season July 23 instead of July 16.

This was reported today by Fred S. Royster, managing director of the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn., who said he had been notified of the opening date decision by telephone.

Advisory committees of both Georgia and Florida last week recommended July 16 as the opening date. The date also had been endorsed by the board of governors of the Georgia-Florida Warehouse Assn.

Currie Reports Pay Hike For Teachers Is Possible

RALEIGH (AP)—Revenue Commissioner James Currie reported today that year-end revenues were sufficient to grant school teachers a 1.09 per cent pay increase provided by the 1957 General Assembly.

In his monthly report to Gov. Hodges, Currie said:

"The final general fund picture for the 1958-1959 fiscal year... was a good one compared with the previous year."

He also said all highway fund schedules posted gains for the year.

Total net collections included taxes and other revenue were $381,528,471 for the fiscal year. This represented an increase of 4.96 per cent over the year ended June 30, 1958.

The general fund receipts accounted for $253,670,949 — an increase of 4.77 per cent over the previous year.

"You will be pleased to note," Currie told the governor, "that in accordance with your expressed hope the general fund collections are sufficient to provide the contingent pay increase of 1.09 per cent for public school salaries."

The 1957 Legislature provided for the increase—to be based on revenues at the end of the 1959 fiscal year—as part of a compromise over teacher pay.

The commissioner also said collections would provide five million dollars for retirement of bond anticipation notes.

Currie said general fund schedules for June "did not behave uniformly." He said income tax receipts were off 7.69 per cent from 1958, and beverage tax receipts were down 8.35 per cent.

However, increases of 13.53 per cent were noted in the sales and use taxes and 3.74 per cent in privilege license taxes.

Total net collections for June were $28,713,643, an increase over June, 1958, of $1,037,463 or 3.75 per cent.

General fund collections were up 3.42 per cent and highway fund revenues up 4.24 per cent.

RALEIGH (AP)—Public School teachers will get nearly 5 per cent more pay during the 1959-1960 school year.

An average pay increase of 4.93 per cent was set Thursday by the State Board of Education as part of its $160,776,614 nine months' school fund budget for the fiscal year.

The increase was slightly shy of the 5 per cent permitted by the 1959 General Assembly. This allowed money for 237 more teachers to meet an unexpected enrollment increase.

The pay hike for the academic teachers included an average of 3.22 per cent in actual salary increases and the rest for working three additional days during the school year.

The teachers will report for work two days before school opens in the fall and will remain one day after it closes next spring.

The board hiked superintendents by an average of 3.25 per cent, principals' by 3.3 per cent, supervisors' by 3.29 per cent and vocational teachers' by 3.22 per cent.

The academic teacher salary schedules will range from $2,946 to $4,144 for A certificates and from $3,339 to $4,556 for graduate certificates.

The schedules now are from $2,799 to $3,951 for A certificates and $3,177 to $4,338 for graduate qualifications.

The increases will range from a high of $218 to a low of $147.

The big school budget showed a big increase over the $149,153,797 spent last year.

However, it included no pay increase for non-professionals because the Legislature made no provision for such salary hikes.

Kozlov Starting Sightseeing Tour

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov left today for a sightseeing tour of the United States with the remark that there is "nothing at all for us to fight about."

Kozlov, his diplomatic mission to Washington completed with no easing of the East-West deadlock over Berlin, took off in a chartered commercial airliner on a nonstop flight to Sacramento, Calif.

Starting a 10-day swing through half a dozen cities, he planned to lunch with California's Gov. Edmund G. Brown. Then it was on to San Francisco for more sightseeing and meetings with local citizenry.

Even as he was waiting to board the plane at National Airport, Kozlov continued his talks with U.S. officials. His discussions during a 2½-day visit to the capital produced nothing new on the U.S.-Soviet standoff on the German crisis.

Kozlov told Asst. Secretary of State Livingston T. Merchant, who was seeing the Red visitor off, that both the Soviet Union and the United States have great natural resources and made his remark about there being nothing to fight about.

The silver-haired, 50-year-old Kremlin official was all smiles as he formally bade farewell to the people of Washington and started off on what he has jokingly called his "Communist infiltration" of the United States.

Kozlov's diplomatic pursuits wound up Thursday night with a big reception at the Soviet embassy. The sum total: Neither Americans nor Soviets budged an inch on the Berlin crisis.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon had one 15-minute private chat with the Communist visitor. "He is a master at being friendly," Nixon reported afterwards, "but that doesn't mean that there was progress."

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter gave a similar account of his hour-long meeting with Kozlov before flying to his Manchester, Mass., home for a holiday weekend.

"Certainly there was nothing too profitable in the conversation we had yesterday; nothing new in it," Herter said.

And from the reports he had received of Kozlov's nationwide telecast Thursday, Herter said, there seemed to be nothing in it that he hadn't heard from the Soviet magazine in an article by Charles D. Deslier.

Deslier had received an account from his own grandfather, who was a boy of about 9 at the time, as to how the news was received in New Brunswick, N.J. The grandfather recalled that: "There was great excitement in the town over the news, most of the people rejoicing that we were free and independent, but a few looking very sour over it. (These were Tories, or supporters of the crown.)"

"The declaration was brought by an express rider, who was at once furnished with a fresh horse, and despatched on his way to New York."

The declaration then was read from an improvised platform and "at the close of the reading there was prolonged cheering."

Elsewhere through the colonies the declaration was made public in much the same manner, but with even more fanfare. Military units paraded to the drum and rifle, men fired volleys, cannons roared, the leading speakers of day thundered from platforms and effigies of George III were burned. Accounts from those days also viets in six fruitless weeks at Geneva.

The U.S. Foreign Affairs chief left the door open for a further discussion with Kozlov if he wants one before he leaves the country.

Kozlov's coast-to-coast telecast—a speech to Washington newsmen plus answers to six questions carefully screened by the Soviets—shaped up as his main public address in this country. He spoke in Russian, which an interpreter translated into English.

U.S. officials said the public utterance matched what Kozlov said in private conversations to President Eisenhower and others the past two days.

The Soviet leader called for a wiping away of the distrust which he said has marred Russo-American relations since World War II, to be replaced by a more friendly "peaceful coexistence" as a foundation of world progress.

Kozlov renewed the Kremlin's declaration that "if a war is reached" over Berlin, "if force is resorted to, then force will be met with force."

He said instigators of the cold war "reside not in our country." And he denounced as slander "accusations that the Soviet government is seeking to unleash a new war, that we have aggressive aspirations."

Moye Is Elected Mayor Pro-Tem

FARMVILLE — Farmville's town board of commissioners, at a special meeting July 1, elected Howard D. Moye, board member, Mayor Pro-Tem.

At the same meeting, the mayor and commissioners-elect officially took office. They were sworn in by Justice of the Peace C. A. Lilly.

The newly-elected Moye will serve as Farmville's mayor in the event of regularly-elected Mayor Charles S. Edwards' absence.

SPAN IS OPENED
LE HAVRE, France (AP)—Europe's largest suspension bridge, costing 16 million dollars, was opened for traffic across the Seine River today. The span, 3,149 feet long and 164 feet above the river in the center, shortens the trip from Brittany to Paris by 62 miles.

Hodges Meeting Ukrainian People

MOSCOW (AP)—The head of the Ukrainian Republic today told Gov. Robert H. Smylie his constituents back home don't know how to make good potato whiskey.

The comment came during a conference between nine touring American governors and G. Kalchenko, chairman of the Ukrainian Soviet Republic's Council of Ministers.

During the discussion on Ukrainian farm production, Kalchenko said that a few years ago Russians made liquor from potatoes, but now employ other grains.

Smylie said Idaho's efforts to make whiskey from potatoes didn't taste so good, whereupon Kalchenko laughingly answered, "You don't know how."

Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina mentioned that some of his state's surplus corn went into corn liquor.

Kalchenko conceded the Russians had learned a great deal from America about the varied uses of corn and as a result use more today than ever before.

Kalchenko said cornfields of the Ukraine, Russia's breadbasket, now look like Iowa's. Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois then pointed out that his state outproduces Iowa in corn the past two years.

Kalchenko, who as a Soviet officer during World War II met U.S. Gen. Omar Bradley, said that in the way days "we believed in the friendship of Americans and Russians—God help us live again that way."

The governor, except Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, started the day with a tour of Kiev, Russia's third largest city. On the orders of a Russian woman doctor, Collins spent the day in bed, resting from the affects of a cold.

During a visit to a housing development, the governors met Alexander Malinikov, a former Russian soldier anxious to hear from a wartime buddy, Peter Karpich of Akron, Ohio.

Malinikov said he and Karpich were prisoners of war together in Germany. He gave Gov. Stratton Karpich's address and asked him to put him in contact with his American friend.

Stratton gave the Russian a good luck coin. Hodges gave him a cigarette lighter. Both governors finally were able to keep Malinikov from gifting them his wrist watch.

In one of the apartments they visited, the governors came across a woman baking cakes. She insisted Hodges eat one and complained of not being warned of the visit, stating she otherwise would have baked enough for all nine Americans.

The Americans handed out chewing gum, pennies and pens to children who swarmed around them. The children pressed souvenir buttons on the governors.

One of the apartments visited, a three room affair, was occupied by seven persons. The other apartment—two rooms—had four tenants.

Gov. George D. Clyde of Utah noted that the "housing here is better constructed than anything we've seen in Moscow or Leningrad."

After visiting a park, where New Jersey Gov. Robert B. Meyner's wife was permitted to pick roses, the 11th Union St. Sofia Cathedral, the River Dnieper, Kiev University and shops the Americans took in an exhibition of agricultural and industrial production.

Stratton and Gov. Cecil Underwood of West Virginia leave the tour Saturday to fly home Sunday via Moscow, Copenhagen and New York. Stratton must be in Chicago by July 8 to greet Britain's Queen Elizabeth II on her visit to the city, and Underwood is anxious to be with his wife who is expecting a child.

Saturday, the other governors will visit Ukrainian Education Minister I. K. Velod, Ukrainian Public Health Minister P. S. Shupic and a collective farm. Then they will fly to Tiflis.

FBI Cracks Story Of $8.5 Million Bond Theft

CHICAGO (AP)—A story of international high finance was unfolded by the FBI in the wake of the arrest of three men in connection with the theft of $8½ million dollars in Canadian bonds.

The FBI called the theft the biggest burglary in the world.

The bonds, plus cash and jewelry, were taken May 3, 1958, from the Brockville Trust and Savings Co., Brockville, Ont., by a gang of safecrackers using blowtorches.

The FBI said men seized Thursday all were involved in attempts to dispose of part of the loot. One of their schemes, said U.S. Asst. Atty. James B. Parsons, was to try to purchase a European bank as a clearing house.

Arrested were three Americans—among five persons named in a suppressed indictment returned by a federal grand jury here June 30. The other two are Canadians, still at large.

Captured were Sam Mannarino, 53, New Kensington, Pa.; Norman Rothman, 44, Surfside, Fla., who is under indictment in Pittsburgh for running guns to Cuba; and William Rabin, 52, Chicago.

Mannarino was arraigned in Pittsburgh before U.S. Commissioner Alex McNaughton and freed on $5,000 bond.

Rabin, a business consultant, was free on bond at the time of his arrest in Miami on earlier charges he received $98,000 in stolen bonds.

Still being sought are Rene Robert and Giuseppe Coltroni, both of Montreal. Three other men had been seized last year in connection with the bonds.

The indictment charges that Rabin put up as security more than $138,000 worth of Canadian bonds at a Chicago bank in September and October 1958. It further charged him with fraud by wire in pledging $140,000 in stolen bonds to a Swiss bank.

Rabin has denied any knowledge the bonds were stolen.

The break in the case came, Parsons said, when a Swiss bank learned the bonds were stolen and notified police, who tipped the FBI.

Canadian police have located some of the bonds, Parsons said, and a man he named as Rene Martin has been sentenced to 12 years in jail in connection with the actual burglary.

Tax Ruled Void

RALEIGH (AP)—The week-long puzzle over the validity of a 50-cent property transfer tax is solved. The attorney general has done what the State Senate intended to do: Kill it.

Atty. Gen. Malcolm Seawell Thursday ruled the tax void because it was not given proper consideration when the House passed it in the scramble of adjournment day.

The tax, part of a bill providing funds for the mapping and survey section of the Conservation and Development Department, was stricken by the Senate.

The House then considered the entire bill—but not the Senate amendment—and gave it second and third readings by a voice vote on adjournment day.

The Constitution requires that tax bills be given roll call votes on separate days.

Revenue Commissioner James Currie sent telegrams to the 100 county registers of deeds telling them not to collect the tax.

Conway-Forbes Vows Spoken

FARMVILLE — Miss Marcia Dean Forbes became the bride of Bobby Dean Conway Sunday afternoon in the Farmville Christian Church. The Rev. Jack Daniell officiated during the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Elbert Forbes of Farmville and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Ethel Conway of Greenville and the late John Allan Conway.

Mrs. Haywood Smith, organist, and Mrs. Levi Peyton, sister of the bridegroom, acted as soloists, furnished the nuptial music in a setting of white gladioli, chrysanthemums, ferns and candelabra.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an imported hand-clipped Chantilly lace gown over silk taffeta designed with a Sabrina neckline and a fitted bodice accented with seed pearls and sequins. The lace skirt featured a sunburst pleating of tulle at each side cascading into a bustle back bow which extended into a chapel train. Tiny lace-covered buttons were used down the back of the bodice and on the matching mitts.

Her fingertip veil of imported illusion was attached to a matching half-hat trimmed with pearls. The bride carried a white show-ered Bible topped with a white orchid outlined in white tulle.

Sister of the bride, Miss Billie Sue Forbes, acted as her maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Conway, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Barbara Anne Whitehurst of Bethel; Mrs. Harlen Mosley of Rocky Mount; Miss Sylvia Gardner of Fountain; Miss Guita Cannon of Farmville, and Miss Claire Cannon of Farmville. Junior bridesmaid was Deborah Conway, niece of the bridegroom. Miss Gail Hackney of Petersburg, Va., cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

The maid of honor wore a blue dress of nylon dotted swiss, waltz length, designed with a circular skirt, basque bodice, and off-shoulder neckline. Her hat was a band of petals with matching tulle studded with pearls. She wore white gloves and carried a cascade bouquet of pink asters tied with pink ribbon.

The bridesmaids wore dresses and hats of the same style as the maid of honor's with different pastel shades. They carried bouquets similar to the honor attendant's with contrasting flowers and ribbons.

John A. Conway Jr., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Wallace Conway of Clayton, brother of the bridegroom; Donny Conway of Greenville, cousin of the bridegroom; Dixie Hobbins of Winterville, and Harlan Mosley of Rocky Mount were ushers.

Mrs. Forbes, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a French blue lace dress made Empire style. She wore a matching lace hat and accessories with a corsage of pink cymbidium orchids.

The bridegroom's mother wore a champagne lace sheath dress and matching lace hat and accessories. Her corsage was of pink cymbidium orchids.

For a wedding trip to various points in Florida the new Mrs. Conway wore a suit dress of grey and white shantung with white accessories. Her corsage was the orchid lifted from her Bible.

Following the trip, the couple will reside in Newport News, Va. The bride is a graduate of East Carolina College where she was listed among the "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges."

She is presently employed as a Social Studies teacher at Warwick High School and choir director at Hillen Christian Church in Newport News, Va.

While attending East Carolina College, the bridegroom was a member of the Kappa Sigma Nu Fraternity and is now employed as math teacher and assistant coach at Warwick High School in Newport News.

Reception
Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall in the church. Hosts were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Forbes.

Guests were greeted at the front door by Mr. and Mrs. George Allen. Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Smith Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Rouse Sr. directed the guests to the reception hall.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pollard introduced the guests to the receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. Forbes, Mrs. Ethel Conway, the bride and the bridegroom, honor attendants, the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Jane Forbes, and Rev. and Mrs. Jack Daniell.

Those attending were invited to the refreshment table by Mrs. Levi Peyton and Mrs. Haywood Smith. Mrs. J. Y. Monk Jr. and Mrs. James Duffy cut and served a five-tiered white wedding cake trimmed with pink and green. Mrs. Willard Woolard served the punch and the guests helped themselves to the pink and white mints and nuts.

Others assisting in serving were Mrs. John Barrett, Mrs. R. L. Joyner, Mrs. C. B. Mashburn Jr. and Mrs. Russell Mizelle.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moore and Mrs. Henrietta Williamson directed the guests to the register and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Moe and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Vernon Fisher said the goodbyes.

Those assisting in receiving were J. Y. Monk Jr. and Misses Janie Forbes, Sally Donat, Melola Dixon, Kay Bell, and Gena Allen.

Dinner Party
Miss Forbes was honored at a dinner party Thursday by Miss Barbara Ann Whitehurst.

A pink and white motif was used. On the appointed table an arrangement of pink carnations and white baby's breath, fern and pink tulle centered the table. The arrangement was flanked by candelabra holding pink tapers.

After the arrival of the guests they were directed to the table where they found their places by the use of place cards. A barbecue chicken dinner was served.

The honoree was presented a corsage to complement her orchid dress. She was also given a silver tray by the hostess.

Those present were Mrs. Forbes, mother of the bride; Mrs. Robert Whitehurst, mother of the hostess; Mrs. Walter C. Itham, Mrs. Jimmie Robbins, Miss Delores Ford, and Miss Sylvia Gardner.

Gardening Today

The Outdoor Living Room

The ideal layout for the landscape plans of the home grounds should consist of three areas. Each should be part of the complete picture and in no way detract from it. These areas are Public Service and Private.

In the Public area the stress is on neatness, simplification, and eye appeal. All plants should enhance the house — not hide it. This is the view that causes the passer-by to either shudder or envy.

In the Service area are things necessary for operating the house (oil tank, clothes lines, garbage stand) and care of the grounds. (Tool house, compost pile).

The Private area should be a world of its own. It should be designed for but one thing—comfort. The plants used should tend to create such an atmosphere. Avoid stiff plants with large coarse foliage. Use flowers that emphasize warmth in the spring, coolness in the summer and echoes of both in the fall.

Use garden furniture that is comfortable and allows you to relax. Iron and stone furniture have their place in a formal setting.

Social Notes

L. Walter Cherry has returned to his home from Veterans Hospital in Durham.

Major and Mrs. C. A. Silvester Jr. and son Charles III are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Shotwell. They will leave Tuesday for London, England for three years.

First Lt. and Mrs. S. E. Briley Jr. are spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Briley Sr. Lt. Briley recently returned from a tour of duty in Korea with the Fifth Cavalry Division. He is now attached to the Eighteenth Airborne Corps at Fort Bragg.

but not where the main theme should be comfort.

If possible use water in some form — placid or active. Water has a cooling and soothing effect in most any way it is used. A small pool, a fountain or just pans (tinted bottom) will add much to the garden. You can insert the pans in the grass area or in openings left in the terrace.

These pans should be square, say about 30" by 30". Several will make an interesting design. In this ulcerated and security seeking generation you may find some ease in surroundings that blend and harmonize with earth and sky.

Maybe your outdoor living room, with its walls of flowers and shrubs, floor of grass and ceiling of sky can be such a place.

Despite The Sizzling Heat, Summer School Carries On

SUMMERTIME . . . is schooltime too at Junius H. Rose High School and other city schools. Miss Frances Smith, above, is teaching algebra, one of the three courses offered this summer at the high school.

By MARTHA PIERCE
Reflector Staff Writer

Summer school is being conducted in most of the city schools for students who need to make up work missed, during the regular school year, and for those who wish to follow an accelerated school program.

According to George Spencer McRorie, principal of the Junius H. Rose Summer School, only ten per cent of the 68 students enrolled in the high school summer program are accelerating. English, American History, and Algebra I and II are being taught this summer. All courses will last six weeks except English 12 which is a 10-week course.

"The heat has been almost impossible the past few days," says McRorie. "All the rooms have fans and the classes meet on the side of the building away from the sun."

Average enrollment for the summer

mer classes is ten. "Students learn more in small groups," says McRorie. In some cases, they actually do more work during summer school than they do during nine months regular school." Summer

Collision Fatal For 5; 3 Injured

SAVOY, Miss. (AP)—A grinding two-car head-on collision during a rainstorm near here Thursday killed five persons and critically injured three.

State Highway Patrolmen identified the dead as Mr. and Mrs. Cecil H. Braden, both in their mid-40s, and Mrs. W. E. Braden, about 40, all of Anniston, Ala.; and brothers David Haggard, 4, and J. R. Haggard, 1, of Durham, N.C.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Haggard of (1119 Midland Terrace) Durham, parents of the dead children, were listed in critical condition. Haggard was the driver of one car.

Roy Stanley Braden of Anniston, driver of the other car and son of Cecil Braden, was also seriously injured. Officers said 10-year-old Gloria Ann Braden and a young daughter of the Haggards were also in the autos, but were not injured.

The accident occurred near Savoy about five miles south of Meridian. Both cars stopped on or near the side of the highway after the collision. Officers said four of the victims were thrown out of the cars.

Roberts; CWP president, Claude Manning; CWP president, Mrs. Amos Evans; and the chairman of the Board's Functional Committees.

Freedom and Democracy Day will be observed Sunday with the Rev. Howard James preaching on "The Law of Liberty." The Sanctuary Choir anthem will be "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" by Howe-Steffe. Flowers will be provided by Mrs. Joe Sutton.

Board Chairman Milton May urges all committee members and board members to be present for meetings at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. Boy Scout Troop 398 will meet Wednesday at 8:00 p.m. Jimmy Wynne and L. F. Worthington will return Friday from Philmont Ranch, New Mexico.

Red Oak's Christian Youth Fellowship will be host on Thursday, July 9, at 8:00 p.m. for an evening of recreation. Guest CYP groups will include Eighth Street, Hooker Memorial, Bell Arthur, Winterville and Farmville. Miss Nesa Ann Page will lead some games and the Rev. Jack Daniel will direct folk games. A Friendship Circle and meditation will complete the evening's program.

Books & Stuff

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

We want to call your attention to an editorial in the June 27 Saturday Review by John Ciardi, "The Book Burners and Sweet Sixteen." It's as cogent and powerful attack on intellectual censorship as we've seen in a long time. Immediate occasion for it is the suppression last fall of the Chicago Review by the Chancellor of the University of Chicago, and the subsequent seizure by the Post Office Department of "Big Table No. 1," a new magazine published independently by the Chicago Review editors who resigned in protest against the Chancellor's action. Ciardi who is Poetry Editor of the Saturday Review, deprecates these two acts of censorship in strong, frank and logical language, showing that both the Chancellor and the Post Office are dead wrong. "In matters of art," he writes, "what is official is always inhuman. . . . All censorship is a disaster that begins in ignorance and seeks to culminate in demagoguery. No occasion in the turbulence of a complex but still hopefully democratic society calls for stronger language in rebuttal. A curse on all of them as faithless men. . . . There can be no compromise with the book burners. There is only the duty to hold them in disgust, and hope that they can be made to understand the scorn of freer and better men."

Presidential Portrait?

Just out is "Richard Nixon: A Political and Personal Portrait," a full-length biography of the highly controversial and in some ways mysterious man who now occupies the office of Vice President of the U.S. Coming before a campaign year, this book should be either for or against him but, according to the reviewers, isn't. Written by Earl Mazo, a N.Y. Herald-Tribune political writer, it attempts to hit the middle of the road in presenting the true facts, both good and bad, about Dick Nixon. For those of you who want to know what manner of man the possible Republican presidential candidate really is, this new book seems to be the ticket, as the saying goes. . . .

Beauty and the Books

Gypsy Rose Lee began writing about a beautiful showgirl—herself—some time ago, with quite a lot of success. Now comes June Havoc, still a drama star of great physical charm, whose new "Early Havoc" about her life and times—good and bad—is creating quite a sensation in bookish circles. . . . And soon to be issued by a new publishing house in Chicago, the Pennington Press, is "Under One Roof," a novel about a devastatingly beautiful girl who ruins her rich family. Striking thing about the book—which we haven't seen—is its author, Eunice Gray, who according to the photo enclosed with the blurb about her novel, is easily the loveliest looking chunk of writer—including Misses Lee and Havoc—that we have seen in many and many a day. . . .

Some of you might remember Francis X. Bushman as he looked in "Ben-Hur." Gen. Lew Wallace's epic about a Roman gladiator and charioteer. Now a new movie version is being made by MGM, scheduled for its world premier in November, and publishing circles are all agog. During 1959 eleven—count them—new editions of the 19th century classic will come out, including four paperbacks, four children's versions or abridgments, a De Luxe Edition, a film souvenir book, and a coloring book. MGM is now looking for bona fide first editions of "Ben Hur," so look in your attic if you think you have one—it will have a light blue cloth cover with a floral design, later changed because Mrs. Wallace didn't like it, and the dedication inscription, "To the wife of my youth," later also changed because Mrs. Wallace didn't like it—it made her sound as if she were dead and participated much ardent female mail—which Mrs. Wallace also didn't like. . . .

RUNWAY ZERO-EIGHT

by Arthur Hailey and John Castle. New York: Doubleday & Co., 1959.

George Spencer has to get to Vancouver in order to clinch a deal for his company involving a large sale of trucks. Unable to get a seat on the regular flights, he is thankful for the tip given him about a charter flight coming in from Toronto and manages to get a seat on this plane. The flight was chartered by a group of avid football fans for the big game the following day. But this ordinary flight became a ride to disaster for George Spencer and the crew and passengers when half of the group are stricken with food poisoning. Dr. Baird, diagnosing those sick, prescribes immediate hospitalization. The weather makes flying anywhere except to Vancouver impossible. Tension among the passengers mounts but they remain under control until they learn that the pilot and the co-pilot are also stricken. Panic strikes. Heroes are born in the hour of disaster and so it is here as Janet Benson, the pretty young stewardess, George Spencer, the truck salesman and one time army pilot, and Dr. Baird pull together in an effort to save the lives of the rest. Helpless observers at the Vancouver airport wait for the crash of the four engine plane.

There are many paragraphs in this book which would be especially interesting to the reader who has some knowledge of aeronautics. But the breathtaking tension of the book would delight any avid reader of suspense.

Surrenders On Forgery Counts

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—After thinking it over, Mrs. Berteene M. Moura, 43, surrendered to police Thursday and admitted forging $7,650 in teachers' payroll checks during the last two years.

Mrs. Moura, payroll clerk for the Oakland Unified School District, was booked on six counts of forgery.

The district attorney's office was called in when one of the teachers finally realized they were entitled to checks during their vacations.

Mrs. Moura said she spent most of the money on a whirlwind fling in Reno, which included a sudden marriage, quickly annulled.

Obscenity Law Is Voided By Court

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania's 20-year-old obscenity law has been declared unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court, thus leaving authorities weaponless to combat movies and live performances they believe objectionable. In a controversial 5-2 decision Thursday, the high court voided the provision of the penal code which bans exhibitions "of a lascivious, sacrilegious, obscene, indecent or immoral nature."

The action followed the recent U. S. Supreme Court decision striking down New York state's ban on the movie "Lady Chatterley's Lover."

Drop Honeymoon In Bomb Shelter

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A prospective bride couple has called off the bomb-shelter honeymoon that was to follow their wedding Sunday.

Kelly Geiger, 25, and Nancy Belmyre, 23, said Thursday that they were dismayed at the publicity resulting from their original announcement.

Bomb shelter manufacturers, who dreamed up the stunt, said other couples are begging for the job.

Safely Guided Runaway Truck

ATCHISON, Kan. (AP)—Joseph Richard, 22-year-old driver for a contractor, was moving up a steep hill on Atchison's business street when the drive shaft broke on his 2½-ton truck.

The vehicle started rolling backwards. The brakes failed too. Using rear view mirrors on each side, Richards steered the truck down the hill at about 35 miles an hour.

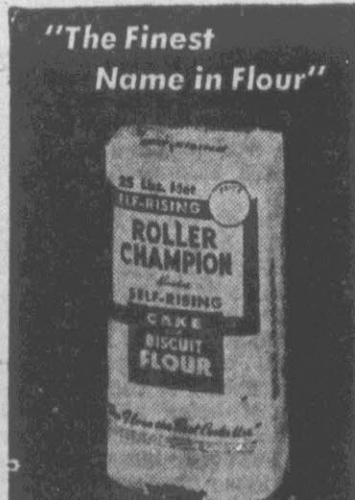

He barely missed several cars and pedestrians, but guided the truck to a safe stop at the bottom of the hill.

Drops Wallet To Chase Her Stick

DECATUR, Ill. (AP)—A woman who collects door-to-door usually stops at one house to throw a stick for a big dog which loves to retrieve things.

On one trip she accidentally dropped her purse containing the collection money and the dog grabbed it and raced away. The woman was in pursuit across lawns when she thought to throw a stick.

The dog dropped the wallet and chased the stick.

An Invitation Russians Can't Take

Imagine the ramifications which might result if by some unusual set of circumstances a group of Russian economic experts decided to become capitalists and accept the invitation of Gov. Hodges to set up a plant in North Carolina.

No one would be more surprised we are sure than Gov. Hodges who issued the invitation during his visit to Leningrad.

There might suddenly begin a whirlwind of events which would change the course of history.

Being distrustful of Americans, any Russians who decided to launch such a venture would certainly come to North Carolina to supervise the operation of their plant, or send trustworthy underlings to assume on-the-spot management.

If the plant were a success and the Russians realized a profit from their venture, they would immediately realize that the virtues of a capitalistic free enterprise of which they have heard from this side of the Atlantic isn't just so much propaganda. Their appetite would be whetted for more free enterprise ventures.

Russian managers in the plant would be confronted daily with the working conditions and living conditions of American people and find it is what Americans say it is rather than what the Communist propaganda organs declare it to be.

Successful and profitable operation of the plant almost surely would bring management officials offers from other American industries and firms to assume management posts and they would find themselves personally in a position to take advantage of the opportunities which are open to every individual under the free enterprise system.

They would get a look first hand at the productivity and aggressiveness of industry under the free enterprise system and be in a position to compare for themselves the free enterprise system with that of the state controlled economy of Russia.

It would be good for Russians who launched the venture but obviously it would be bad for the economic system which Communism imposes upon the people under its control. And in Russia, we must remember, the State and its welfare is supreme regardless of the consequences of the individual.

For that reason the invitation has no chance of being accepted. It's too big a chance for the Russians and their Communist system to take. The odds too heavily weigh in favor of free enterprise.

Sparing The Rod May Be Easier.. And Costlier

Under the eyes of a Florida court nine parents administered leather-belt whippings to nine sons after the 17 and 18 year old boys chose the whippings in lieu of 90-day jail sentences on trespassing charges.

Chances are the whippings will be remembered just as long and just as vividly by these youngsters as 90 days in jail would have been. And in all probability, the parents found it just as difficult to mete out the punishment as the boys did to absorb it.

Such punishment ordered by a court is unusual indeed in this day and time. It is even more unusual than normal parental whippings which also seem to have gone out of style in this generation.

One cannot help wonder, however, if firmer parental discipline in earlier years might have prevented these boys in their late teens from being before the judge in the first place. A few licks administered to a youngster at proper times in the proper place as he grows up somehow seem to impress upon him much more strongly than words the need for abiding by the rules which govern society. If he grows up getting by without punishment for disobeying his parents, it is only natural for him to guess that he might also get by without punishment if he disobeys the laws which govern our society.

Don't misunderstand us. We don't advocate taking the old leather strap to youngsters every time he gets a little out of line. Certainly not.

Yet, we must face up to the fact that parents have the responsibility of teaching their youngsters discipline, and if words are not sufficient to accomplish the lesson, some other tools must be used on occasions.

Distasteful as the thought may be, it is much better for the child (and for the parent) than for him to end up before the court as was the case with these youths in Florida.

Nixon Could Be Hurt By Silence

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Once again, in 1956, President Eisenhower refused to say whether he wants Vice President Richard M. Nixon chosen for high office. It was rough on Nixon once. It may be again.

Nixon, a man with many friends and many enemies, is both liked and despised.

In 1956, although he had some opposition within the party, he was front-runner all the way for the Republican vice-presidential nomination, yet the latest book on him indicates he must have had grave doubts about his chances.

Newspaperman Earl Mazo — in "Richard Nixon, a Political and Personal Portrait" — says Nixon three years ago, because of Eisenhower's reluctance or delay in endorsing him, seriously considered getting out of politics.

Now once again Nixon looks like a front-runner, this time for the Republican presidential nomination in 1960.

But Nixon never had in 1956 — as he does now — anyone of the stature or popularity of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller throwing a shadow across his path. Rockefeller isn't officially in the race — yet.

Wednesday, Eisenhower — in what sounded like an echo of 1956 — told a news conference he will keep hands off the choice of the 1960 Republican presidential candidate.

Both early and repeatedly in 1956, Eisenhower refused to say yes or no to wanting Nixon as his running mate again. At the same time he denied reports his advisers had urged him to "dump" Nixon.

Eisenhower said he would be "happy" to have Nixon on the ticket with him. But he said it only after Nixon had received a large number of write-in votes in the New Hampshire primary.

Now comes some inside look on those days in Mazo's book which, the author acknowledges, was written with considerable help from Nixon.

Although Eisenhower denied the dump-Nixon report, Mazo says the President asked Nixon whether it wouldn't be wiser for him — if he wanted to run for president in 1960 — to step aside and take a Cabinet job.

And Eisenhower, Mazo says, pointed out to Nixon that while Herbert Hoover moved into the presidency from a Cabinet job, no vice president in 100 years had been directly elected to the presidency.

Mazo says one of Nixon's friends told him Eisenhower's "reluctance to come out flatly and ask Nixon to be his running mate was one of the greatest hurts of his (Nixon's) whole career."

Even if Nixon is Eisenhower's personal choice for president in 1961, Eisenhower would be sticking his neck out if he said so now. The reason is simple enough.

A lot of things can happen between now and the Republican convention next summer. Besides, Eisenhower has no way of telling now how the convention delegates will feel by that time.

By next summer Rockefeller may be in the race up to his neck. And, while professional Republican politicians may be indebted to Nixon for many favors of one kind or another, they are still professionals.

If by convention time they think they can win with Rockefeller and will lose with Nixon, they're apt to forget the Nixon favors. But at least Nixon, working on the inside, will have a year to try to nail down the nomination.

Opinions In Brief

"There is probably nothing to the rumor that the 86th congress is going to be turned over to Reuther, Hoffa, McDonald et al as their personal representatives and a new elected for voters at large. The harassed and victimized public can enjoy the suggestion, however." — The Daily Oklahoman.

"Twice recently drivers elsewhere have made headlines when whole families have been wiped out in one traffic mishap — in one instance, a head-on collision; in another, a car-train crash. Every driver should be careful of his own and his passengers' safety. But when a car is loaded with loved ones, the driver should be doubly careful, intent and getting his precious cargo to and from his destination safely." — Memphis Press-Scimitar.

"Life is short and if something gives you pleasure, hang the fact that each perch or putt is costing you 20% of your hours and gold." — The Montgomery Advertiser.

"Here is one philosophical Ridger's definition of the forties: It's the time of life when you're really old enough to know better but you do it anyway — and you still can." — The Oak Ridge Oak Ridger.

Odd 4th Of July Hazard

Celebrating the Fourth of July doesn't present much of a challenge to most people around North Carolina. They will probably follow the pattern of other years—three-fourths of the holiday will be spent bumper to bumper en route to a beach or to relatives.

It's doubtful whether the North Carolinians miss the ego-building boom of firecrackers that have long been characteristic of the Fourth, and are prohibited by law within the boundaries of our fair state. Those who feel they must have firecrackers manage somehow to smuggle them within the borders.

A 1929 Daily Reflector reports that a Chicago woman was suing her husband for divorce because he "was stingy as a scotch." Among the scrooge qualities she listed for her husband were:

"He wouldn't permit her to use the vacuum cleaner for fear it would wear out the rugs. On July 4, the complaint went on, Johnson did not buy fire-crackers, but celebrated the day by going around the house shouting 'Boom.' On the same day, states Mrs. Johnson, he struck her, so she left. Johnson also filed suit charging desertion."

Besides requesting that all of you holiday travelers watch the road and use extreme caution in driving this weekend, take heed from the divorce case above and be careful in the way you celebrate the Fourth.

In the divorce suit of 1929, mentioned above, the story went on to say:

"He would set the alarm clock, then awaken before it rang, shutting it off to save the spring. He would further take the clock to his wife's mother's room upstairs thus saving the expense of a second clock."

Johnson must have truly been cracked. Not only was he giving his wife grounds for divorce, but his stinginess was leaving him wide open for mother-in-law trouble in case the divorce didn't go through.

The rains last night were a wonderful relief to most of the people, but as in most things, someone got more than he wanted.

The fire department received a phone call last night from a man who said he wanted them to come to his house and "flush out a snake." The fireman who answered the call had the man repeat his request to make sure he had heard correctly. "Flush out the snake" was exactly what the man had said.

It seems that the rains had driven a snake under this man's refrigerator. The fire department felt that they were needed at the station in case of a real emergency, and did not answer the call.

YOUR BUSINESS AND MINE

There is a beautiful story in the Bible of how the parents of Jesus brought Him, when He was a teen-aged boy, to the temple in Jerusalem. As they started back on their way home to Nazareth, they discovered that the boy was not with them. They returned to Jerusalem and found Him seated in the temple surrounded by the religious leaders of that day. He was talking with them and asking them questions. When in their anxiety they rebuked Him

Feast And Famine

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—My 6-year-old daughter, Tracy, and I were down on the floor struggling for an object she held in her hands.

"Let go, kid," I told her. "I'll give you 50 cents for it." "No, daddy, no," she cried. "Let go, baby," I grated, "or I'll break both your pretty little arms."

"No, daddy, no! It's mine!"

"Just then my wife, Frances, entered."

"What are you two fighting over?" she asked absent-mindedly.

"I was just teaching the kid a new judo hold," I said, rising. "He was not, Mommy," said Tracy. "He was trying to take my cookie away from me."

"I'd be ashamed," scolded Frances. "A grown man trying to steal a cookie from his own daughter!"

"I wasn't trying to steal it all," I answered. "I was only trying to steal half of it."

Actually, that a fib. I had meant to steal the whole cookie. And I didn't even feel ashamed. A desperate man on a diet knows no shame. All he knows is hunger.

Yep, I'm back on a diet again. That's been my life for 22 years—three months on the chow was on, three months off. Three months of building myself up, three months of tearing myself down. Three months of addition, three months of subtraction. Three months of living, three months of dietary dying.

This is my 88th diet. This time I went on it for a different reason. I thought I was getting hard of hearing.

"It's my ears, Doc," I told the physician. "I can't seem to hear what people are saying."

"Your ears are okay," he replied, after an examination. "The trouble with you is that you should weigh 170 pounds and you weigh 215. The extra 45 pounds are all on your stomach. It sticks out so far people can't get close enough to make you hear them unless they shout."

"Quit mumbling, Doc. I can't understand a word you're saying." "You heard me," he shouted, cupping his hands. "Go on a diet!"

And so I have. Everything reminds you of food. I catch myself stopping outside delicatessen stores just to read the names of the sandwiches in the window.

Twice a day I go out in the kitchen and watch the cat gorge itself. I'm hungry enough to eat a buffalo. That's why I don't dare go to the zoo anymore. They have a buffalo there.

"It isn't normal for anyone to be so interested in food after the age of 40," remarked my wife one day.

Well, by starving all day and staying awake half the night counting calories instead of sheep, I have taken off 15 of those excess 45 pounds.

My stomach is shrinking. I am beginning to hear people better again. And you know what? Nobody has said one darned thing I haven't heard a million times before in my life.

Is dieting really worthwhile?

for having stayed behind while they went on their journey. His reply was, "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?"

What is your business and mine? You are a businessman, a housewife, a manufacturer, a teacher, a farmer, a professional man. No, that is not your business. That is your calling. That is your everyday employment. There is a business far different and more significant than any of these things, and you and I are definitely commissioned by God to attend to this business.

Have you ever stopped to ask yourself how successful you really are? Don't be discouraged if the count seems to be against you. The important thing is whether or not you are earnestly and sincerely trying. Are you as a Christian sincerely trying to attend to "the Father's business" or is that something on the side?

Jesus even as a boy saw the importance of this matter. It is up to every follower of His to view it with a like seriousness.

Reliable Relief by Pap

The Pittsburgh Pirates insist that Roy Face is the outstanding relief hurler in the business and they have some mighty impressive evidence to back up their claims. Face's remarkable record of 11 straight victories without a loss, for example, and then, too, there is the fact that one has to go all the way back to May 30, 1958 to find the last time he was charged with a defeat. Over the stretch of a season and a half, Face has saved more than 20 games for the Pirates. If he isn't the best around, he's do as far as the Pirates are concerned.

Face has amazing durability for a slightly built 5-foot-8, 155-pounder. His stamina seems boundless and he can pitch every day without losing his effectiveness. Back in 1956, Roy appeared in 63 games for Pittsburgh and boasted a 12-13 record. He worked in nine consecutive games in 1957 for a league record. Last season, Face made 57 mound appearances and, at the rate he is going this season, he is likely to top his own record of 63.

Joe Page, the former Yankee relief pitcher great, can take a bow for Face's success as a reliever. Page taught Face how to throw the fork ball and, once Roy learned to control it, he changed from a so-so pitcher to a top relief artist.

"A relief pitcher is a specialist who must have two things—control, and a pitch that is different from anything the batters have been looking at during the earlier innings," explained Face. "That's why the fork ball has been so important to me. It is held between the index and middle fingers, with the thumb at the bottom of the ball. I worked hard to control it and now it's paying off big!"

Olmedo Captures Wimbledon Title

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Alex Olmedo, Peruvian star of the U.S. Davis Cup team, established himself as the world's No. 1 amateur tennis player today by smashing Australia's Rod Laver 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 for the Wimbledon championship.

Before a capacity crowd, including the Duchess of Kent and Princess Margaret, Olmedo cracked Laver's service in the opening game and never trailed, although he suffered mild lapses during the swiftly paced match.

Thus the copper-skinned Latin crushed the little left-hander's hopes of becoming the first unseeded player in history to win this most prized of crowns. Olmedo was seeded No. 1. Laver, a red-haired giant killer who knocked off America's Barry MacKay in the semifinals, was ignored by the ranking committee. Only three times has an unseeded player reached the men's final here—Wilmer Allison of America in 1930 and Kurt Nielsen of Denmark in 1933 and 1955—but both failed to win the championship.

Olmedo almost single-handedly won the Davis Cup for the United States last December despite a raging controversy over the use of a foreign player on the American squad.

British Tennis Fans Show Can Take It

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Britain still can take it—as far as watching tennis is concerned.

This year, for the first time since those distant days before the second World War when men wore long trousers and women hadn't heard of frilly panties and champagne wigs, a Briton—Bobby Wilson—was seeded in the men's bracket.

Two British girls—Christine Truman and Angela Mortimer—were given the two top places in the women's singles.

Now, with the tournament in its closing stages, all three have been ousted. Angry rumblings are going up from home sports writers who have accused all three of giving up without a fight.

But still the fans roll up in their thousands to see foreigners—mainly Americans and Australians—battle it out for the Wimbledon titles, regarded as the top prizes in the amateur tennis world.

Gonsalves and Matthews Meet In Ten-Rounder

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Lightweight contender Johnny Gonsalves, who was fighting when Lennie Matthews was in grade school, tests the young Philadelphia slugger in a 10-round TV fight at Convention Hall tonight.

Although Gonsalves, of Oakland, Calif., is ranked fourth by Ring and sixth by the NBA, the unranked Matthews has been established the 8-5 favorite.

NBC will broadcast and telecast the 9 p.m. (EST) fight as part of the weekly Friday night series.

This is another big test for the 20-year-old Matthews. He lost by decision to Paulie Armistead and then was stopped in the sixth round by Carlos Ortiz. Ortiz, now junior welterweight champ and top-ranking lightweight contender, outclassed Matthews on April 13.

Lennie came back from that debacle to outpoint Roger Harvey. Matthews' record is 17-2-1, including 13 knockouts.

Gonsalves, 25, has been a 9-11 yearer. He has won his last three fights and has a 52-13-3 record, including eight kayos. He has been stopped three times.

Warwick Course Rough For Pros

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—The touring golf professionals are finding sprawling Warwick Hills no easier the second year around.

The par-breakers were few and the frustrations many as a 52-man field, headed by brothers Jay and Lionel Hebert and Rookie Monte Bradley, strode into today's second round of the $52,000 Flint Open Tournament.

Only 16 players recorded sub-par scores in Thursday's first round over the staggering layout that extends more than 7,000 yards in nearby Grand Blanc.

The Hebert brothers and Bradley had two-stroke leads with 68s. Five players were two strokes back at 70 and seven more, including Sam Snead, were another stroke back at 71.

This 72-hole event is being contested over the longest course the touring pros play all year. By Sunday's final round, Warwick Hills will be played at its most terrifying length—7280 yards. Par is 36-36-72.

Last year Bill Casper, Jr. pulled down top money with a 285 total, only three strokes better than par. He carded a first round 71 Thursday.

'Doctor' Watches Ailing Red Sox

BALTIMORE (AP)—The tag-end Boston Red Sox, under growing pressure after losing their last five games, begin a four-game series against the Orioles tonight with the doctor watching every move.

The doctor is General Manager Bucky Harris, called in by owner Tom Yawkey to find out what's wrong with the sickly patient.

Rumors grew at home that Manager Mike Higgins' days might be numbered but Higgins flatly denied reports published in Boston that he might quit over the weekend.

Honduras, with an area of 43,277 miles, is almost equal to the combined area of the Netherlands, Switzerland and Denmark.

Fan Fights Ump On The Field

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—

"I'd never do it again," said a husky St. Louis baseball fan who lost his temper Thursday night, strolled onto the field and fought with plate umpire Bill Jackowski. It was the first such incident in major league baseball in almost 20 years.

"I feel like a convict," 25-year-old John Watts told a reporter, who interviewed him in jail.

"I just got excited and I had been drinking a little. That was a bad call. The umpires are running the Cardinals this year."

The 200-pound Watts was charged with inciting a riot, peace disturbance, resisting arrest and suspicion of assault. He'll appear in City Court today.

Watts' temper boiled over in the seventh inning. Rookie Gene Oliver of the Cardinals foul-tipped a two-strike pitch and Jackowski ruled that catcher John Roseboro held the ball for a third strike. The Cardinals claimed Roseboro dropped the ball.

Manager Solly Hemus and coach Harry Walker argued too vigorously and were promptly kicked out of the game.

Watts walked onto the field and advanced on Jackowski.

Jackowski saw him coming and the struggle was on. Several good punches were exchanged by both men before the 220-pound Jackowski apparently wrestled Watts down. Several players, including Roseboro and Oliver, helped subdue Watts. Watts had lost his personal vendetta and as it turned out the Cardinals lost the ball game 4-0 to Los Angeles.

The last umpire-fan fight was on Sept. 16, 1940, when Frank Germano, then 21, pummeled umpire George Magerkurth at Brooklyn's Ebbets Field.

Everette, West In Net Tournay

ROBERSONVILLE —

Maurice Everette and John West, a couple of East Carolina netters and finalists in the recent tennis tournament at Washington, were seeded first and third respectively as the fourth annual Robersonville Tennis Tournament was slated to begin today.

Everette, playing in his hometown, has been seeded number one for the fourth straight year although the competition is much stronger this year than in any of the previous years according to tournament officials.

Everette is the defending champion and will be seeking his fourth straight title in the hometown event.

John West, East Carolina's number one man, has been seeded third but has had some bitter matches with Everette in the past and if he reaches the finals it could call for another final such as the recent tournament in Washington.

Dr. Fred West of Raleigh, noted tennis netter in the Eastern Carolina Tennis Association, has been seeded number two in the tournament and young Bill Carrigan of Greensboro has been tabbed as the number four man.

Archie Wants To Postpone Match

MONTREAL (AP)—The Archie Moore-Vivian Durelle title rematch may be postponed two weeks from July 15 to July 29.

Jack (Doc) Kearns, manager of the world light heavyweight champion, said Thursday he has asked promoter Eddie Quinn for the postponement. He claimed Moore recently suffered a bad bone bruise in his head.

The 15-round title bout was a major promotion on the regular Wednesday night network television (ABC) program.

Absent Stars Have Impact On Struggling Milwaukee

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer

No Red Schoendienst, no Johnny Logan, no payoff power of late and almost no lead. That's the tale of Milwaukee's bid for a third straight National League pennant.

The Braves had it tough enough when they lost Schoendienst, batting TB, at second base. Now they've got a bigger hole in the middle with Logan, injured Sunday, missing at short.

The champs, who have gotten only three home runs from big guys Ed Mathews and Wes Covington in the past three weeks, have won only two of their last six games, all but blowing a two-game lead. They've made 10 errors in those half-dozen games—eight of them at second and third.

Felix Mantilla and Casey Wise, both filling in at short, and Johnny O'Brien produced three of four Milwaukee errors Thursday night that first game Pittsburgh enough for a tie, then booted the Bucs into a 4-3, 10-inning victory.

That left the Braves with only a half-game edge over San Francisco and Los Angeles, virtually tied for second place. The Giants lost 10-4 to the Chicago Cubs. The Dodgers closed within one percentage point of second by beating St. Louis 4-0.

Cincinnati split a two-night pair at Philadelphia, losing 7-6, but taking the second game 4-4. Don Newcombe won his eighth in a row.

In the American League, Cleveland retained a one-game lead despite a 6-4 loss at Kansas City. Detroit took third, two games behind, by defeating Chicago's second-place White Sox 9-7. Baltimore beat New York 3-1 and Washington rapped Boston 6-3 in 10 innings.

The fourth-place Pirates handed the Braves their second straight loss on boots by Wise and losing reliever Don McMahon (2-1) in the 10th. Bill Virdon's bunt single loaded the bases and Dick Groat broke it up with a single.

Warren Spahn started for the Braves and allowed only three hits in his seven innings, yet trailed 3-1. Two walks, errors by Mantilla and O'Brien and singles by Ramon Mejias and winning pitcher Vern Law gave the Pirates three runs in the second.

Southpaw Danny McDevitt (8-6) won his fifth in a row for the Dodgers and gained his second shutout although tagged for 10 hits, all singles. The Dodgers made four double plays. Rookie Dick Ricketts (1-4) lost it, giving up consecutive triples by Junior Gilliam and Charlie Neal in the third.

Ernie Banks' 21st homer was good for three Cub runs and Al Dark and Dale Long each hit two-run homers. Glen Hobbie (9-7) won it.

Newcombe (9-4) beat the Phils with a six-hitter and homered for the clincher in the sixth. Gus Bell drove in four Red runs with a homer and a double. Ruben Gomez (1-6) was the loser. In the opener, Gene Freese hit a grand slam homer as the Phils scored five in the third.

Old Ezzard Has Youthful Hopes

CINCINNATI (AP)—Old Ezzard Charles, a tired and somewhat meaty former heavyweight champion who says he still has the face of a fighter in his heart, enters the ring again tonight—against a lumbering 255-pound policeman.

Charles, who as a challenger and as a champion participated in three of the largest money bouts in fight history, will meet Dave Ashley. Ashley was a preliminary boy when Charles was starting on his way to fame, and now is a cop in suburban Lockland.

They will box 10 rounds or less in a high school gymnasium in Lincoln Heights, another suburb of Cincinnati. Charles, who earned $1,701,116 in three fights between 1950 and 1954 will get a few hundred bucks. Ashley will get a bit and what is left goes to the Lincoln Heights Recreation Commission.

Charles now 37, says this will be the start of another comeback. He was heavyweight champion in 1950-51.

In his last fight, on Oct. 27, 1958, the former champion was knocked out in the sixth round by Don Freeman in Dallas, Tex.

Ashley's last fight was on Sept. 1, 1958, when he scored a technical knockout in the seventh round over Claude Brown of Louisville, Ky.

Ingemar Begins Return To Home

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Ingemar Johansson who left Sweden as an underdog challenger, starts his return to his homeland today as king of world heavyweights. He was scheduled to fly home Saturday.

He plans to return to the United States within 10 days to consider numerous offers for personal appearances.

Annual Fourth Of July Field Day Scheduled At Park

A Field Day, the fourth such annual event sponsored by the Greenville Moose, will be held for Little League players at Elm St. Park Saturday.

The program will open at 2:00 p.m. and last through a picnic lunch to be given Little League players, their families and guests. The picnic will begin at 6:00 o'clock.

Field Days of other years have enjoyed singular success in numbers attending and numbers participating.

J. G. Proctor, Governor of the Greenville Moose Lodge will open the afternoon's proceedings with an address of welcome.

Field Day events are scheduled to begin at 2:15, followed by a Pop's All Star Game between the fathers of Tar Heel League and North State League players. Little League bats will be used, with the pitcher twirling a softball in an underhand pitch. Only two innings will be played, and if the score is tied, the team with most hits will be declared the winner.

At 4:30 o'clock there will be a regularly scheduled game between the Pepsi-Cola and Elks Little Leaguers.

At 6:00 o'clock, picnic will be served.

The contests scheduled for the Field Day will be divided into two age groups, for boys of 10 and under, and for boys of 11 and 12 years old.

Events include base-running, outfielders throw for accuracy, infielders throw for accuracy, catchers throw for accuracy, home run hitting, and throwing for distance. Only one boy from each team in each age group may be entered in any event, and no more than two events will be entered by any one boy.

New baseball bats will be awarded winners of each event. Winners of the Pop's All Star Game will be presented an appropriate prize.

Proctor says, "The Greenville Moose extends an invitation to all the parents of the Little League members to come out and enjoy an afternoon of fun and food."

Jaycees Defeat Texaco By 7-6

The Jaycees pushed across a single run in the seventh inning to break a 6-6 tie and defeat Texaco in yesterday's Little League action.

Charles Vincent, the starting pitcher, led off the extra inning with a single, reached second on an error, and then advanced to third on a wild pitch.

Charles Allen followed Vincent with an infield grounder which enabled the winning run to score. The Jaycees, trailing most of the game, came up with two runs in the bottom half of the sixth to tie the game. James Morton got his third double of the day to score both runs.

Benny Hooks had a double and two singles to pace the Texaco attack.

PATRICK HENRY:

*He Helped Kindle
The Fires Of The American Revolution*

DRAMATIC SPEECH: In 1775, Patrick Henry, regarding war as inevitable, rose in the Virginia House of Burgesses, to utter his famous words: "I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!" They were spoken while he was presenting resolutions for arming the Virginia militia.

As orator and statesman, Patrick Henry did much to help the American colonists in their struggle against England.

In 1765, ten years before the first blood was spilt on the fields of Concord and Lexington, Henry arose in the Virginia House of Burgesses, where he was a member, to utter these ringing words: "Caesar had his Brutus, Charles the First his Cromwell, and George the Third may profit by their example. If this be treason, make the most of it!" And in 1775, as war drew near, came his most dramatic speech—words that still reverberate to this day: "I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!"

Patrick Henry was Virginia-born. He had little schooling, but he liked to read much. He was a storekeeper for a time as a young man, then a farmer, but failed,

Deciding to study law, he was admitted to the bar at the age of 24 and rapidly acquired a considerable practice. Elected to the Virginia legislature, he rapidly became a leader. In May, 1774, Virginia elected him a delegate to the First Continental Congress. He was also a member of the Second Continental Congress. He became Governor of the new commonwealth of Virginia as soon as it was established. While Governor, he was successful in recruiting the state's quota of 6,000 men for the Continental Army, sent clothing, food and supplies to the fighting men, and imported and manufactured gunpowder for the army. He set up shipyards and docks to protect the Virginia coast, and arranged for foreign loans to finance the war. He was elected Governor for five terms.

In 1788, he returned to his law practice, refusing many requests to return to public life. He died in 1799.

CHAPTER 9

It was odd, Kirk Hammond thought as he lay unsleeping, that already he was beginning to hate the name Vramen.

He had never seen a Vramen. He had only a story Jon Wilson had told him to go on, and for all he knew that story might be, if not exactly a pack of lies, at least so colored by fanatical prejudice as to be anything but true.

He kept reminding himself how easy it would be for him to acquire a whole set of biases from these people simply because they had been good to him and he liked them, and because he had no other data by which to evaluate what they told him. Even the name they called themselves, Hoomen, was a semantic trap, aligning him automatically with them and against the non-human Vramen.

But no matter how judicious he tried to be about this, he could not help feeling a twinge of blind emotional hatred whenever he thought of the Vramen. Part of that, he knew, was transmitted to him from the intense feelings of everyone around him. But a good percentage of it was entirely his own, and he thought he knew why. It was because of space.

He had taken his modest part in that conquest, he had given his life for it. And now that that life had been miraculously returned to him, it infuriated him to learn that a new, strange breed of man had sprung up as a direct result of that space conquest and had preempted it, stepping arrogantly between human man and all he had worked for.

Who were these Vramen who arrogated to themselves the lordship of space? They were men and women of the same old Earth stock as the Hoomen, the ordinary humans. There was only one basic difference between them and ordinary humanity.

The Vramen did not die. Hammond went over the story Wilson had told him. It was an incredible story.

The Vramen had happened, it seemed, more or less by accident. Some two thousand years before, while Hammond in his satellite was an unnoted fleck of meteoric debris engrossed in his blind cold journey to nowhere, some scientists were exploring a region called the Trifid that was located in the densest, least-known part of the galaxy. And somewhere in the stellar wilderness of the Trifid, upon a world they had named Althar, they had found the secret of indefinitely prolonged life.

"What kind of a secret?" Hammond had demanded, half-skeptically. "What could do a thing like that?"

"It's generally believed," Wilson told him, "that they found on that world a deposit of superradiant matter with emanations unlike anything we know."

Whatever it was there on Althar, it did confer indefinite life on the normal perishable organism. The Vramen were not impervious to injury, but they were to disease and age. Nobody knew how long a Vramen could live because nobody had known one to die of old age.

The first Vramen were the discoverers of that secret hidden in the Trifid. They had enlarged their numbers by taking other carefully selected men and women in there to the mysterious world called Althar.

When there were as many Vramen as they thought suitable, that was the end of it. No one else was allowed to go to Althar, or even into the Trifid.

Because all the Vramen were picked scientists, with no arbitrary period put to their learning power, it had not been difficult for them to evade the disorganized attempts of the Hoomen first to force their secret out of them and then to destroy them out of sheer jealousy.

They made themselves impregnable with powerful weapons and defenses, and then over the decades they began quietly to assume a background control over the whole galactic civilization.

They did not take any official part in the government — the Fed, erated Suns, Wilson had called it — but their scientific knowledge was so great and so constantly growing and their contributions to the general welfare so important that the Hoomen were grudgingly forced to submit to this shadowy dominance, granting to the Vramen the one privilege they required — the privilege of keeping indirect control over all interstellar ships.

"According to the law," Wilson had explained, "every star-ship has a secret, tamper-proof device of the Vramen built into it. This can be used to explode the whole ship if it goes into the Trifid, which is closed to all but Vramen ships."

It was then that Wilson had dropped his final shattering bomb.

"There is one more thing I have to tell you, Hammond, and then you must make up your own mind what you want to do about it. 'You've been very curious about what we're doing down here in these dismal catacombs — why we're in hiding, afraid to show our heads above ground. It's very simple. We're engaged in an illegal activity, and if we're caught at it we'll get the extreme penalty.'"

He paused and then said quietly, "We're building a starship."

Hammond stared at him. "A star-ship?"

"Yes. It will not have the Vramen device in it. It will fly with a picked crew."

Hammond's pulses began to hammer. "To Althar?"

"Althar. It's a suicide attempt, Hammond. But if we should succeed, we will have given all mankind indefinitely long life, freeing them forever from the tyranny of the Vramen and the vastly greater tyranny of time. We think it's worth the risk."

He stood up, looking down at Hammond.

"I don't know whether you will think so or not. We hope that you will join us. But that's a decision you must make yourself."

Hammond looked up at him incredulously. "Why would you want me? I don't know starships or your technologies. I'm a primitive, compared to you people. What use would I be?"

"There's a big struggle ahead," Wilson said. "Even if we reach Althar and expose the Vramen's hoarded secret to the whole galaxy, that will only begin the fight. The peoples of the galaxy are used to the Vramen dominance and it will be hard for them to shake it off. And that's why we'll need you, Hammond. Once we prove to everyone you're what you are, one of the first of the oldtime spacemen, you'll become a symbol of the oldtime freedom of space we're trying to win back."

Hammond grunted. "I see. Propaganda value — I might have known."

"Think it over," Wilson had concluded. "Talk to the others. Then decide."

Big Homecoming For Billy Graham

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A gala homecoming was planned here today for evangelist Billy Graham, returned from Australia and the Soviet Union. Graham and his wife will be met by their three children, by Mayor Jim Smith and other city officials, and Graham's parents. Graham will have his next crusade at his alma mater, Wheaton College, Ill., in September.

Claims Women 'Missing Boat'

LAKE JUNALUSKA, N.C. (AP) — American women are being left at the launching pad in this space age because they are not taking enough graduate study. Miss Dorothy McConnell of New York City, editor of World Outlook, a Methodist missions magazine, said here Thursday that generally women are not taking enough higher education. "I'm almost convinced that women in the newly-emerging under-developed nations are taking their responsibilities to their countries more seriously than American women generally," she said.

Four Are Killed in Plane Crash

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — David Alex Garrick, 48, president of Cherokee Labs, Inc., a Tulsa, Okla., oil firm, and three others were killed Thursday when Garrick's twin-engine airplane crashed on a farm 12 miles west of here.

Garrick's 11-year-old son J.B. was injured critically. He was the only survivor.

Others who died were William Gibson Wood, 45, pilot and a vice president of Cherokee Labs; Harry J. Richey, 33, a chemist with the firm; and Edward Fletcher Rogers, 30, Tulsa attorney.

The men were en route to Indianapolis on a business trip. Witnesses said the plane's engines sputtered as though it was out of gas. Then it went into a spin.

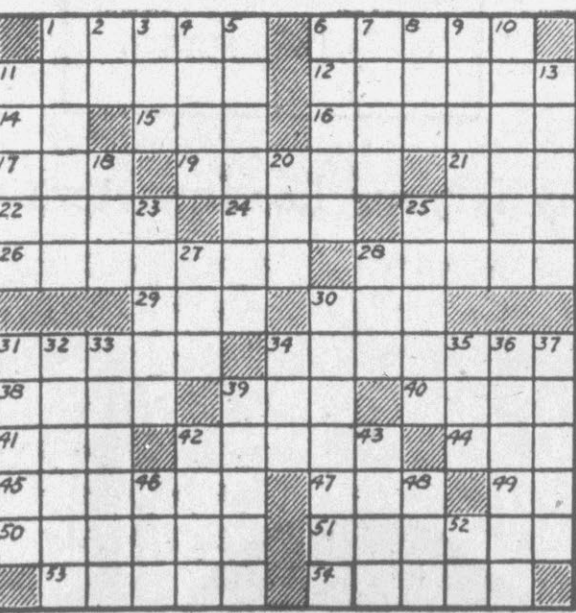

LIVING STANDARDS
NEW YORK (AP) — "A high standard of comfort and luxury is not the same thing as a high standard of living," the Rev. Dr. Robert J. McCracken told his Riverside Church congregation. "It may be only a high standard of covetousness."

Russian Sky Giant Is Popular Plane In Aeroflot Routes

By VERN HAUGLAND
MOSCOW (AP)—Every seat in the big TU104B jet is filled. Some of the smaller, propeller-driven planes of the Soviet Aeroflot fly half empty, but the new jets are popular for crossing the Soviet Union's vast distances.

As soon as the plane is aloft the two hostesses bring candies around. Pleasant faced, attractively uniformed and speaking English, the attendants shortly serve a well prepared hot meal.

After a couple of hours of smooth, uneventful flying, the plane lands 1,000 miles deeper into the Soviet Union.

To an American who spent a month in Moscow three years ago and returned for a 17-day Soviet visit this summer, the improvement in Soviet air service is striking.

True, a flight aboard the old DC3-type Ilyushin transports used in large quantities on many routes shows that Aeroflot still operates a service without stewardesses, without food, without seat belts, even without clean lavatories.

American aviation experts say the TU104 is inferior to the U.S. Boeing 707 jet in performance and economy. But the Soviets quickly point out that the TU104 went into service several years ahead of its competitors. The same American experts declare the new Soviet IL16 prop-jet is superior to anything the United States has in the field of jet-and-propeller combination.

Aeroflot folders advertise, in conjunction with British-European Airways, a London-Moscow fare of 885 rubles. At the 10-to-1 rate of exchange for tourists that is $88.50. The coach or tourist class fare is $73.90.

Flight times by TU104 from Moscow, as advertised, include 2 hours 20 minutes to Copenhagen, 3 hours and 45 minutes to Paris, 7 hours 5 minutes to Cairo, 7 hours and 55 minutes to Delhi, 10 1/2 hours to Peking and 11 hours 20 minutes to Pyongyang, North Korea.

Berths are available on longer flights at an additional fee.

The Soviet Union, aware of the value of the dollar, expects to play host to 15,000 Western tourists—most of them Americans—this year. The 1958 total of U.S. visitors was about 6,000; 1957, 2,500. The big drawing card: Western curiosity about this huge country, long closed to visitors.

As yet, however, only 22 cities are on the official itinerary of Aeroflot, the government travel agency with which every tourist deals. The tourist lands at the airports of other cities on Aeroflot's system without getting a chance to visit the cities themselves. Except for a stay in Irkutsk, In-

Electric Brain Machines Are Damaged In Fire

WASHINGTON (AP)—Electric brain machines that cost millions of dollars bore the brunt of the damage as a four-hour fire disrupted normal activities in the Pentagon.

The fire burned out the heart of the 400-square-foot Air Force statistical center Thursday but was limited to that area of the huge building, the nerve center of the U.S. armed forces.

Key personnel remained on duty, but most of the 30,000 military and civilian employees were sent home when the blaze affected electrical and water supplies. They will return Monday.

In the windowless, ground-level area where the fire burned, the computing machines stood today like the hulks of charred packing crates. Around them were shelves of film reels which had held about 7,000 rolls of magnetic tape—the "memory" devices for the expensive machines. They contained chiefly personnel data.

Some secret papers also were burned, but Pentagon officials said most if not all the lost data can be replaced.

Official estimates of damage will have to wait until after a thorough investigation.

The Washington Post estimated the loss at upward of 30 million dollars—about $200,000 of the building and the remainder to the International Business Machines leased by the Air Force.

Dense smoke overcame about 40 firemen fighting the blaze. Nine needed hospital attention.

The cause of the fire still isn't known. There was speculation that it might have been touched off by defective electrical wiring.

Officials said the area affected—through water and smoke damage and in fire-fighting operations to gain access to the blaze—covered the equivalent of about four square city blocks. That is only a fraction of the Pentagon's more than three million square feet of office space.

Widespread Troop Movements Are Reported In Cuba; Unrest Growing

Prince Phillip Cutting A Swath

By RELMAN MORIN
LONDON, Ont. (AP)—Prince Phillip is cutting a wide swath of his own on the royal tour of Canada with Queen Elizabeth II.

In the first place he is a glamorous boy—tall, trim, blond and handsome. The ladies often "oh" and "ah" over him even before they get through commenting on the Queen's dress.

More important, he contrasts sharply with Elizabeth on many points.

When she waves to the crowds, it's a limp, half-hearted flick of the wrist. But Phillip shoots up a long muscular arm and occasionally acknowledges applause like a prize fighter, with his hands joined above his head.

On the public platform the Queen looks shy and speaks in a high-pitched, girlish voice. The prince gets up and takes charge with his voice and manner and delivers a speech in solid tones.

The Queen's smile often looks artificial. Her husband has an infectious grin—call it near President Eisenhower's in voltage.

Reporters may have exaggerated his wit. Still, some of his comments are not bad. Introduced to a provincial minister of health, the prince smiled and said: "How are they?"

Going through industrial plants, Phillip often comes perilously close to stealing the scene. He will pause frequently, talking with workmen while the Queen goes on ahead. When she finds herself too far ahead, she waits for him to catch up and occasionally frowns slightly.

People who know the prince say he is her sponge for information, especially on details of technical operations, and prides himself on his knowledge of everything from logging to ship handling.

All of this naturally is good public relations.

Chosen Attend Health Sessions

Pitt County Health Director Dr. Georgia V. Mills and Mrs. David Proctor, Mental Health Psychiatric Social Worker, have been chosen by the N. C. State Board of Health to participate in the Fourth Community Mental Health Workshop to be held at Pisgah View Ranch, N. C., July 7-17.

The general purpose of the Workshop is to help develop a broad view of community mental health problems and programs from professional public health and clinical viewpoints as well as from other community leaders' viewpoints.

The meetings are designed to help develop a better understanding of the place and function of the clinic and public health department in stimulating, planning and executing community mental health programs.

Dr. Joseph Franzoni, Chief Pitt County Mental Health Service, and Psychiatric Social Worker Paul Curtis have attended this clinic in previous years.

Pitt County has one of the nine district Mental Health Centers in North Carolina and serves eleven counties.

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Widespread troop movements were reported today in Cuba with Fidel Castro's government showing concern over mounting counterrevolutionary activity.

Secret police seized an arms cache in a Havana suburb Thursday. They arrested eight men in a case they described as having "the most important counterrevolutionary implications."

Troop reinforcements are reportedly moving into eastern Cuba, where 41 persons have been arrested for acts of sabotage, and into western Cuba, where guerrilla bands are operating in the mountains.

Much of the unrest stems from the government's agrarian reform program breaking up big estates.

Among the eight men seized in the Havana raid were six police described as "former military men." The implication was they served in the forces under former dictator Fulgencio Batista.

Behind the plot, police said, were ex-Sen. Rolando Masferrer, now in Miami, Fla., and Jose Pedraza, a former general who now shares Batista's exile in the Dominican Republic.

The upsurge of anti-Castro activity during the past month, with a rash of minor explosions and acts of sabotage, has brought a government order decreeing the death sentence for counterrevolutionary acts.

The unrest shook the revolutionary armed forces when Air Force commander Pedro Luis Diaz Lanz resigned, charging Communist infiltration of both the armed forces and the government.

Prime Minister Castro told a television audience that Diaz's resignation was a "traitorous act" timed to coincide with a period of difficult international relations for Cuba.

Although Castro did not spell it out, his lengthy indictment of Diaz was heavily salted with suggestions that the airman was influenced by U.S. interests.

Castro said it was curious that American news agencies had the story of the resignation a day before the Cuban press got it.

He accused Diaz of inefficiency and nepotism, claiming he operated the air force for his family's benefit.

Diaz, Castro said, gave the second highest job in the air arm to his twin brother Marcos, whom Local farmers will soon be able to see the tobacco of the future.

New tobacco breeding lines being tested by the N. C. Agricultural Experiment Station will be shown at the field day scheduled for the local research station Wednesday (July 8).

Dr. Kenneth R. Keller, head of tobacco research at State College reports many promising lines will be shown.

"We showed some of the same tobacco at the Whiteville station in June," Dr. Keller said, "and we left growers with their tongues hanging out."

"Among other things," he added, "are lines with resistance of root knot. This is something no present commercial variety has."

Some of the breeding lines to be shown resulted from the college's new program to get promising varieties to growers as soon as possible.

Under the program one generation of plants is grown in Florida during the winter months. In this way, scientists get two generations of tobacco per year.

For example, last August tobacco seed were harvested in North Carolina and planted in State College greenhouses. In late October and early November the plants were taken to a field near Miami, Fla.

In February seed from the Florida crop were harvested and brought back to North Carolina for planting. The resulting crop will be shown to growers at the field day here Wednesday (July 8).

The field day starts at 9 a.m. J. R. Simpson, station superintendent, will give the welcome and introduce special guests.

L. Y. (Stag) Ballentine, North Carolina commissioner of agriculture, will then make a few comments. A tour of experimental and demonstration plots will follow.

The following topics will be covered: old and new varieties, Roy Bennett; progress in the development of resistant varieties, N.T. Powell and F. A. Todd; fertilizer rate and soil type, S. N. Hawks Jr.; budworm control, H. E. Scott; source of nitrogen and soil fumigation, S. N. Hawks Jr.; spraying and dusting equipment, J. C. Ferguson and John Glover.

The program will end at noon. Tobacco growers, business and civic leaders, and all other interested people are invited.

Columnist Sues Cary Grant

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP)—Actor Cary Grant is being sued for $500,000 damages by movie columnist Joe Hyams.

Hyams, in a complaint filed Thursday, alleged that Grant slandered him by saying that Hyams' claim of interviewing the actor was false.

Hyams wrote a series of articles for the New York Herald Tribune syndicate in which he quoted Grant as saying he had undergone psychiatric treatment.

The complaint said Grant stated that he hadn't seen Hyams in two years before the articles were published.

Grant declined comment on the suit.

Finds 2 Chinese Grave Markers

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP)—Anybody lose two Chinese headstones?

William McConnell, a drive-in restaurant manager, found the two heavy chunks of marble.

One was stuck in cement in a washbasin in the men's room of the restaurant; the other was hanging from a nearby telephone pole. Each weighed more than 100 pounds and was 2 1/2 feet high.

McConnell turned the grave markers over to police.

WELCOME DE GAULLE
DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland (AP)—Tribal chiefs and troops gave President Charles de Gaulle a colorful welcome on his arrival today in this seldom-visited territory. He will spend a day here before going on to Madagascar for an executive committee meeting of the French community.

Big Holiday Effort For Safety Officials

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Traffic safety officials across the nation mustered all their strength and ingenuity today to keep motorists from killing themselves and others over the Fourth of July holiday weekend.

The National Safety Council predicted that 350 persons will die in traffic accidents during the 54-hour holiday period from 6 p.m. local time tonight to midnight Sunday.

The Traffic death toll for the three-day July 4 weekend last year was 370.

State patrols prepared for a crushing volume of traffic.

In addition to swarms of patrol cars, plans called for the use of planes, electronic speed detection devices, "ghost" patrol cars strung along highways, roadblocks to watch out for tired or otherwise incapacitated drivers, and, in many instances, arrests instead of warnings for traffic law violations.

Civic and business organizations joined in to help stop the slaughter.

The Alabama Trucking Assn. planned to operate a 20-vehicle courtesy patrol on major highways during the weekend. The cars will carry signs reading "Safety Patrol, Courtesy, Alabama Council of Safety Supervisors." The council is a division of the trucking association.

American Legionnaires at 43 points of entry into Iowa will hand out "Slow down and live" pamphlets to motorists. The Iowa Outdoor Advertising Assn. posted 150 billboards listing speed limits and warning of patrol planes and radar enforcement.

The Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce will repeat last year's highway coffee break stands to slow down speeding motorists and wake up sleepy ones.

Connecticut, which boasts the nation's safest highways, adopted a new safety slogan and it's applicable all the time, not just this weekend. The slogan is "Drive safely—the car behind you may be a police car."

"Ghost" (unmanned) police cars will be waiting for the unwary driver on the New York State Thruway. Authorities feel the mere sight of a police car will cause speeders to slow down.

Gov. David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania called out all state police to operate in 900 marked and unmarked cars.

Massachusetts state police ordered into use all 160 patrol cars and instructed officers to keep blue-red dome beacons flashing day and night in an effort to keep drivers more alert.

California announced just ahead of the holiday that the driver's license of anyone convicted of drunken driving, including first offenders, would be suspended automatically for six months.

'Grass Root Meetings' Slated On Facilities Open To Youth

Pitt County citizens will begin a look at facilities and services available and projects under way for children in this county at a meeting set for Tuesday, July 7, in the Council Room of the Greenville Municipal Building. Hour of the meeting is 8 o'clock.

This will be the beginning of a series of grass-roots meetings being held all over the country preliminary to the 1960 White House

Conference on Children and Youth.

Dr. James W. Butler was named to head the Pitt County White House Conference Committee by the North Carolina Conference for Social Service which has been designated by Governor Luther H. Hodges to coordinate North Carolina's participation in this nationwide conference. Butler is assistant director of public relations at East Carolina College.

Mereb E. Mossman, dean at the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, is president of the N. C. Conference for Social Service and chairman of the State White House Conference Advisory Committee. Mrs. Tom Grier of Raleigh is executive secretary.

At this county White House Conference meeting, services, facilities, practices and conditions affecting local children and youth will be surveyed and plans made for further conferences during the summer.

The 1960 White House Conference, called by President Eisenhower for Washington, March 27-April 2, will be the sixth such conference held at 10-year intervals since 1909 when President Theodore Roosevelt called the first one.

This conference will focus on activities that clarify and dramatize problems affecting children and youth, and, by doing so, hope to stimulate fresh and broader attacks on these problems.

Meetings similar to the Pitt county meeting being held in Greenville are being held under local leadership all over North Carolina.

Invited to attend the preliminary White House Conference meeting in Greenville next Tuesday evening are representatives of both men's and women's civic, professional, and church groups, youth organizations, farm organizations of governmental bodies. Any agency, institution or group with a program or projects for children is invited to send representatives, and all interested citizens are welcome.

Pay Boosts For College Heads

RALEIGH (AP) — Ten college presidents and the chancellors of the three branches of the Consolidated University of North Carolina will receive substantial pay boosts.

The Advisory Budget Commission's action Thursday also raised salaries for higher education administrative officials and state health and administration officers, retroactive to July 1.

The Consolidated University increases were approved by the executive committee of the board of trustees. The Budget Commission granted the other boosts on its own.

The UNC raises will come from a $134,000 appropriation for non-academic positions passed by the Legislature. The other colleges will have to finance the increases from their own budgets.

The salary of William Friday, president of the Consolidated University, was raised from $18,000 to $20,000. The three chancellors were hiked from $15,000 to $17,000.

The largest increases were $2,000 and the smallest $346. They ranged mostly, however, between $1,000 and $1,500.

Wagon Train Is On 30-Mile Trek To Murphy, N.C.

TELLICO PLAINS, Tenn. (AP) — A wagon train of 121 wagons and 675 horsemen left here today on a 30-mile trek to Murphy, N.C.

The mountain crossing is the second annual aimed at making this district a tourist attraction and to attempt to get officials of North Carolina and Tennessee to join the towns by a highway.

The train will spend the night near the state line and move on to Murphy Saturday, in time for a big July 4th celebration.

Featuring the Independence Day festivities will be the Miss Wagon Train beauty contest between Linda Neward of Madisonville, Tenn., and Peggy Bowland of Sweetwater, Tenn.

Peggy won the beauty contest here Thursday night, opening the wagon train celebration, and Linda was the runner up.

More than 10,000 persons jammed the streets of this mountain town Thursday as the wagons and horsemen paraded. It took them nearly an hour to pass a given point.

Kiwanis Wading Pool Now Ready

The Kiwanis wading pool at Kiwanis Park has been painted and is now full of water and ready for use, Gordon Goodman, Greenville Recreation Department Director, said today.

Goodman pointed out children will not be allowed to use the pool unless accompanied by their parents, and the City of Greenville or the Kiwanis Club will not be responsible for any accident that may occur in or around the pool.

Goodman said the pool is for small children and asked that large boys and girls not use the pool.

Goodman also announced the theme for park activities next week is Drama and Storytelling week.

Police Checked 3 Wrecks In City Thursday

Three wrecks were investigated by Greenville Police yesterday with total damage estimated at almost $1,300.

Officers listed drivers of two cars which collided at the intersection of Second and Greene Sts. as Josephus Lawrence, 54-year-old Negro of 301 Nash St. and Mrs. Pauline Peacock Little of P.O. Box 404, Greenville.

According to officers damage to the Little car was listed at $300 and damage to the Lawrence auto was set at $500.

Investigators said Mrs. Little allegedly ran a red light striking the Lawrence car. Officers charged Mrs. Little with failure to stop for a red light.

An accident at the intersection of 10th and Charles Sts. caused an estimated $50 damage to a truck operated by James Muse, 29, of 1109 Simmons St., New Bern, and about $125 damage to a car driven by Charles O. Gladson, 39, of 103 West 13th St.

No charges were made as a result of the wreck and no one was injured.

A car driven by James Luther Kilgo, 71, of 2608 Jackson Drive, was involved in a collision at the intersection of Ninth St. and Dickinson Ave.

According to investigators, Kilgo's car was allegedly struck in the rear while stopped for a traffic light by a truck operated by Raymond Wallace McKenzie, 16, of 1730 Circle Drive.

No arrests were made by officers and damage to the truck was listed at $100. Police estimated damage to the Kilgo car at $200.

Swift Workers Vote For Union

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — Production workers of the Swift & Co. plant here will be represented by the United Packinghouse Workers of America (AFL-CIO).

Of the 239 eligible workers, 1399 voted for the union Thursday, 98 voted against the union and two votes were voided.

In voting last week, workers eliminated from consideration the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America (AFL-CIO).

Goldsboro Sets Budget
GOLDSBORO — A record budget of $1,174,356.50 for the City of Goldsboro for the fiscal year 1959-60 was presented by City Manager L. Page Benton at a special meeting Wednesday along with recommendations for a five cent hike in the tax rate. The proposed budget provides a five per cent pay increase for all salaried city employees, four cents an hour for hourly workers now getting less than $1 per hour and five cents an hour for those now getting $1 an hour or more.

Rodgers' Condition Critical
GOLDSBORO — The wife of George Woodrow Rodgers, who was critically burned taking steps to prevent an explosion of his burning Rulane gas truck near Fremont Wednesday, maintains constant vigil in his room at Wayne Memorial Hospital. Rodgers' condition is still listed as critical.

Near-Capacity
GOLDSBORO — A combination of heat and dry weather has sent water consumption in Goldsboro to near the daily treating capacity at the city water plant, according to Eddie King, plant manager. Despite dry weather, the raw water supply continues adequate. Average consumption during the past two weeks had been about 2,750,000 gallons a day.

Council Approves Budget
AHOSKIE — Ahoskie council Monday night tentatively approved a $235,282.16 budget exactly as City Manager J.E. Hulse submitted it to the council June 1. The levy will remain $1.70, the same as last year despite an increase of $13,144.36 over the last year's budget.

County Raises Levy
AHOSKIE — Winton County Commissioners Monday gave tentative approval to a $1.62 tax levy, an increase of 12 cents. The budget is to be finally adopted after lying open 20 days. Proposed pay raises were lowered to 5 per cent.

Pantego Forest Burns
WASHINGTON — A forest fire burned yesterday in the Big Pocosin near Pantego. Already some 600 acres have been seared. The Pantego fire jumped a fire line thrown around it Wednesday night, but was reported contained yesterday morning. Forestry officials said extreme dryness and intense heat have combined to make the woodlands tinder-dry. They urged all persons entering the wooded areas during the July 4 weekend to be extremely careful in handling fire.

Big Celebration
BELHAVEN — Celebration plans are complete for what this Punc Port city hopes to be the biggest Independence Day celebration that the community has ever seen. The most outstanding event will be the dedication of a Memorial Flag Pole and a retreat parade honoring the 49th state of the union. Events of the day will also include a water show, concert, and a contest to choose "Miss Independence."

Ten Applicants
KINSTON — Ten applicants filed with the City Council for the job as Kinston's city manager which has been vacant since Roy Robinson resigned May 30. Two Kinstonians are seeking the position which paid Robinson $10,500 when he was hired and $12,000 when he resigned.

Civilians Discuss Future Projects

Civilians last night discussed plans for boosting the high school band, retarded children projects and the fruit cake sale for the coming year.

Jack Morgan, new club president, presided over his first meeting.

Don Douglas, son of the immediate past club president, was a guest of the club.

Two Civilians from New Bern were also guests. They were Harold Orringer, state chairman for fruit cake sales and D. Livingston Stallings, new zone lieutenant governor.

Find No Trace Of Pilot In Crash

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Did the pilot of an Air Force jet plane perish when the plane's engine quit and it crashed and burned in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park?

A preliminary pathologist's report indicated Thursday night he was blown to bits when the F102 crashed 30 miles south of here and exploded Wednesday night.

But an Air Force rescue team said it could find no trace of the ejection seat or the pilot's parachute, indicating a slim possibility that he may have bailed out at 43,000 feet.

Three Air Force helicopters were ready to resume the search today for anything which would indicate that the pilot, 1st Lt. Russell Peterson of Skokie, Ill., actually managed to bail out.

The plane last was heard from at 7:48 p.m. Wednesday.

Peterson, with the 71st Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Selfridge AFB in Michigan, was piloting the plane alone, en route for Tyndall AFB at Panama City, Fla., about 750 miles away.

The plane had refueled at Lockbourne AFB near Columbus, Ohio. It did not stop at Knoxville.

Local Man Qualifies For 'Top Club' In Co.

A Greenville man, on the basis of outstanding sales, has qualified for membership in the 1958 Top Club of the New York Life Insurance Company.

According to E. T. Ridgeway, Jr., general manager of the insurance company's Raleigh general office, Louis Collie of 2612 E. 10th Street has been selected on the basis of outstanding sales records to the company's Top Club which is composed of the most successful agents among a field force of 7,000 full-time agents in 214 general offices in the United States, Canada, and Hawaii.

Ridgeway said that Collie also has qualified to attend an educational conference in Dixville Notch, New Hampshire, July 7-10.

The Greenville All Star baseball team will play the Kinston Braves at Guy Stadium Sunday afternoon at 2:30. The public is invited.

The Senior Choir of Corner Stone Baptist Church will have a "Choir Festival" at the church Sunday at 5 p.m. Several choirs have been invited to attend and participate. Rev. J. E. Tillett, pastor. The public is invited.

The Local Labor Union will meet Monday night at 8 o'clock in the educational building of Corner Stone Baptist Church. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected. Business of importance is to come up for consideration.
