Tropical Storm 'Cindy' Is Edging Toward S.C. Coast

Weather Bureau Advisory

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Here is the Weather Bureau's latest advisory on tropical storm Cindy:

Hurricane watch and gale warnings extended southward to Beaufort and are now in effect south of Cape Hatteras, N.C., to Beaufort, S.C.

All persons and interests in this area particularly in South Carolina should keep in touch with latest advisories and bulletins and be ready for quick action in case the hurricane watch is changed to hurricane warnings.

All small craft from Savannah to Hatteras should remain in port and vessels in the vicinity of the storm area should exercise caution.

At 11 a.m. the center of tropical storm Cindy was located by aircraft and land radar at latitude 32.4N longitude 78.4W, or approximately 110 miles east of Charleston. During the last few hours the storm appears to have been moving rather steadily west-northwestward at 5 m.p.h. Highest winds over a small area around the center are estimated at 60 to 70 m.p.h. with gale winds extending outward 125 miles in the eastern and 60 miles in the western semicircle.

There has been no intensification during the night but an increase to just about hurricane force is possible during today.

The storm is expected to continue west-northwestward at about the same speed during the next 12 hours with the center reaching the South Carolina coast near but probably somewhat north of Charleston this evening.

Storm tides average 1 to 2 feet above normal on the Carolina coasts and should continue to increase along the South Carolina coast from Charleston northward some 60 miles reaching a maximum of approximately 4 feet above normal this evening.

Winds and rains should gradually increase in the area of gale display this afternoon and this evening with gusts of near hurricane force on the central South Carolina coast as the center moves inland early tonight. Persons in this coastal area flooded by a 4-foot tide should evacuate.

The next advisory on tropical storm Cindy will be issued at 5 p.m. with interim bulletins. All persons in the area of the hurricane watch and particularly in the South Carolina coast should keep in touch for the latest advisories and bulletins.

The governor has indicated he would start an extended western trip Thursday.

Driver Crushed In Truck Wreck

GARLAND, N.C. (AP) — John Odie Carter, 23, died in the cab of his tractor-trailer rig early today after the big vehicle left a highway and dropped into a ditch. He was crushed against the steering wheel.

Coroner Coleman Carter, unrelated to the dead man, said Carter apparently went to sleep at the wheel while driving a load of raw asphalt from Wilmington. The accident happened on N.C. 411 six miles southeast of Garland, Carter's home town, about 1:30 a.m.

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP) — Tropical storm Cindy, an erratic disturbance approaching hurricane strength, moved today toward the South Carolina beaches, summer playground for thousands.

This sinister storm, which stood almost stationary Tuesday night, worked up forward speed of about 5 miles an hour and headed in a west-northwestward direction. The Weather Bureau in its 11 a.m. advisory placed Cindy about 110 miles east of Charleston, a forward advance of about 30 miles in the morning hours.

The Weather Bureau said Cindy might work up to hurricane intensity (74 m.p.h., or higher) by tonight.

The bureau added this in its 11 a.m. advisory:

"There has been no intensification (in internal winds of 60 to 70 m.p.h.) but an increase to just about hurricane force is possible during today. The storm is expected to continue west-northwestward during the next 12 hours with the center reaching the South Carolina coast near but probably somewhat north of Charleston this evening."

U.S. Moving Bombers From Bases In France

PARIS (AP) — Three fighter-bomber wings of the U.S. Air Force will soon be moved from French bases to fields in Britain and West Germany, the United States announced today.

U.S. Ambassador to NATO W. Randolph Burgess made the decision known at a meeting of the North Atlantic Council.

The move had been generally expected because President Charles de Gaulle will not agree to stationing U.S. atomic arms on French soil.

The transfer will involve 200 jet fighter-bombers which have been assigned atomic missions in case of war. The move is to be started immediately and will be completed before the end of the summer. The jets are based along the French-German frontier.

Anxious To Test Housing Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) said today President Eisenhower's veto of the housing bill showed that Democrats had adopted the wrong strategy in cutting the measure down.

"It was supposed to be veto-proof when we sent it to him, but the proofing didn't work very well," Douglas told a reporter. "We would have done better to send him a stronger bill, to make the issue clear."

The $1,375,000,000 bill Eisenhower rejected Tuesday was cut down from larger programs passed separately by the House and Senate. But most of the cut was accomplished by limiting it to two years, leaving the annual spending rate much higher than Eisenhower asked.

Douglas and Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.), both advocates of broad housing legislation, said they hoped the Senate leadership would call for a vote on overriding the veto even if the effort falls short of the necessary two-thirds.

"We ought to make the try," said Clark. "It will be a big help to use in states where this is an important issue."

Sen. Thomas H. Kurchel (R-Calif.), the Republican whip, said in a separate interview he did not think there would be such a test.

"I'm sure they don't have the votes to override," he said. "All they could do would be to put some Republicans from certain states on the spot and to try to win a political advantage."

Okay Tentative Griffon Budget

GRIFTON — The town board met in special session last night and approved a tentative budget of $51,400.

According to law, the budget will be available at the town office for anyone wishing to inspect it. The $51,400 budget is an increase over the $50,797.91 budget of last year, but according to town officials no tax rate increase is planned.

President Urges All Effort To Avoid Steel Walkouts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today called on management and workers in the steel wage talks to act for the good of the country and try hard to avoid a strike.

Eisenhower told a news conference that both sides should keep on negotiating just as long as is necessary for agreement on a new contract.

In New York, there was no comment from either labor or company officials. They were in what was called "detailed discussions" and for the first time in the negotiations decided not to break for lunch. Food was brought into the meeting.

The Steelworkers Union has agreed to hold off on any strike until next Tuesday midnight, but the union president, David J. McDonald, said Tuesday there would be no further extension of the strike deadline.

The President also dealt with these other matters in his news conference:

SEGREGATION — Responding to a question, Eisenhower said he believes racial segregation is morally wrong when it interferes with equal opportunity in political and economic fields.

Greene School Contracts Are Now Awarded

SNOW HILL, N.C. (AP) — The Greene County Board of Education, mindful of demands for improved facilities, has awarded contracts totalling $135,995 for an addition for a Negro school.

The board approved Tuesday the construction of a "gymnasium" — combination gymnasium and auditorium — for the Greene County Training School. The brick building, to contain 16,000 square feet of floor space and seat 4,000 as an auditorium, was one of the main goals last Feb. 10 in a strike of 32 Negro school bus drivers.

The strike led to a boycott of all Negro schools. They were closed for four days while demands were pressed for more classrooms and a larger school cafeteria. The boycott ended when the board promised to do all it could to improve facilities.

Contracts for the gymnasium will be signed at the courthouse here Thursday. The Hardy Harvey Construction Co. Inc. is the general contractor. Construction is to start soon, the board said.

Khrushchev Tells 7 Governors U. S. Friendship Is Wanted

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev told seven American governors Tuesday that friendship between the United States and the Soviet Union is the key to world peace.

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union "wants peace with all nations, but above all with the big and strongest — the United States of America."

"If there is friendship between us, there can never be war," the Soviet Premier declared in a 3-hour and 45-minute talk in the Kremlin with the U.S. state executives touring the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev said if another nation started a war, the Soviet Union and the United States together could halt it.

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev told seven American governors Tuesday that friendship between the United States and the Soviet Union is the key to world peace.

"If there is friendship between us, there can never be war," the Soviet Premier declared in a 3-hour and 45-minute talk in the Kremlin with the U.S. state executives touring the Soviet Union.

one other recourse. He said that would be to call a special session. Eisenhower said vigorously he is never going to give up the fight for the foreign aid program.

Johnson appealed to senators of both parties to stop additional cuts.

The Democratic leader told his colleagues they should not gamble with the nation's security, and should refuse to make any more cuts in the big measure. It was trimmed by $33½ million dollars Tuesday night.

Johnson asked the Republicans to "rally their troops as a body" and expressed hope that there would be many Democrats who felt as he did and would join in defeating further cuts.

The President was rebuffed twice Tuesday as the Senate voted cuts in the amounts Eisenhower had asked both for military aid and for economic help to arms pact allies which supply large numbers of armed forces.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) said he would seek roll call votes on other amendments to cut funds in the program.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas earlier had spoken out in an effort to head off further Senate cuts in the aid bill.

Eisenhower said if the authorization is reduced to the point where he can't go back to Congress next year for what he considers sufficient funds to carry out the program, he will have only 49-43 a second amendment slashing 83½ millions from the $35 million Eisenhower said was essential for economic defense support for arms allies this year.

But Eisenhower won a possible victory for the future on a 56-37 vote to provide permanent authorization for future military aid funds instead of the year-to-year action now required. The actual money requests then would go to congressional appropriations committees.

Eisenhower had asked such a change. The Senate approved a similar provision two years ago, but the House rejected it. House acceptance would be needed if the change is made this year.

As the Senate resumed work on the measure today, it carried $3,543,320,000 against the $3,909,400,000 Eisenhower asked and the $3,542,600,000 voted by the House.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) won acceptance of an amendment to authorize the President to spend up to two million dollars for international health projects.

Forty Democrats joined with 12 Republicans to cut military aid by 300 million dollars, with only 19 Democrats joining 22 Republicans in opposing it.

Forty-one Democrats joined eight Republicans in voting the 83½ million dollar cut in defense supports with 18 Democrats and 25 Republicans backing the President.

It was the first time since he took office that the President has expressed this specific view on the issue.

In bringing up the matter, a reporter asked whether—apart from the legalistic aspects—the President had any opinion on whether racial segregation is morally wrong.

Eisenhower said he assumed the newsmen was talking about segregation under local law. Then he went on to say that where such segregation interferes with equal opportunity in economic and political fields, it is—in his opinion—morally wrong.

Eisenhower, in his reply, made no mention of segregation in education.

KHRUSHCHEV — Eisenhower said he does not regard a visit to this country by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev as beyond the realm of possibility.

He spoke, however, of the difficulties he said such a visit would present if the purpose were talks regarding international problems.

If, on the other hand, such a visit were simply ceremonial, then the matter of what kind of reception Khrushchev would get in this country would be the only factor, he said.

Eisenhower was told that Khrushchev again has spoken of the possibility of the President visiting Russia. The President replied that this was the first he had heard of the latest Khrushchev overture. For that reason, he said, he has not reached any conclusion. He went on to say that such a visit, too, also raises several questions.

For example, he said, the United States is a member of an international group of nations—an obvious reference to NATO and the United Nations. Those nations work together for peace, he said.

In substance, Eisenhower thus ruled out any visits by himself or Khrushchev which could be construed as efforts by the Soviet Union and the United States to settle international problems without participation by other nations whose interest were involved.

HARRIMAN — The President hit indirectly at Khrushchev in expressing amazement—if not disbelief—regarding remarks attributed to the Soviet Premier by former Gov. W. Averell Harriman of New York.

A reporter said that Harriman, in an article in Life magazine, about his recent talk with Khrushchev, quoted the Soviet leader as saying that if the United States wants war, "you can have it."

When Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey reminded Khrushchev that Soviet debts for U.S. lend-lease aid during World War II were still unsettled, Khrushchev charged that the United States discriminated against the Soviet Union, as compared to England, even though the Soviet Union suffered more than all the other Allies put together.

Khrushchev said any settlement of lend-lease would be "just a fraction of the money spent in armaments against us." He then resumed his appeal for more East-West trade.

Collins complained that he has been unable to keep up with the baseball scores during his trip because he could not find American newspapers in the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev told the Florida governor to give his touring address to his hometown newspaper and he would see that copies of it are delivered. He said the reason U.S. newspapers are not freely circulated in the Soviet Union is that they do not have the right tone.

After the meeting, the governors expressed these reactions:

McNichols — "One of the most adroit men I have ever met. He has the complete ability to draw on an immense fund of information without any help. He is able to deal with you at any level — at the highest or in street fighting. Back home we would say he is a good alley fighter. He had an advantage over us in that he could pile up point after point while speaking alone. We would have to wait with our comments and we never got a full opportunity to go back and straighten out the record."

Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina — "He is as smart as the dickens. He is a worthy opponent and dangerous. One second he could be ruthless and the next second he would have a fine sense of humor that would get him over the rocky places."

The county pays the City of Greenville $1,450 a year for fingerprinting services. Each town in the county is asked to raise $20 a month to supplement this amount in case of the need for fingerprinting. All towns in the county maintain this special fund with the exception of Grimesland and Farmville. The Farmville request was that the county pay for recent unpaid-for fingerprinting services obtained from Greenville.

Final Board action of the day approved an amendment to the county electrical installation and construction ordinance. The amendment was suggested by D. S. Nichols, field examiners, and proposed by County Electrical Inspector Guy Dunn.

The new amendment provides that any person may install electrical wiring and appliances provided that he has a permit to do so. The permit may be obtained from the county inspector provided he is satisfied that the applicant is capable to do the job concerned. A penalty is provided for violators.

The new total budget stands at $1,547,000 pending some last minute calculations which must be made by County Auditor H. Reginald Gray. The revision, according to Gray, will not produce any great change either up or down in the total figure. Last year's total budget was $1,619,204.

The 15-cent tax rise occurred because of $173,000 used for the Debt Service Fund last year, which has been cut to $44,000 this year, and a $42,000 increase in the School Current Expense.

These two items amount to some $103,000 which must come from the taxpayers' pockets that they did not have to pay last year.

Debt Service money last year largely came from the Sinking Fund, a sort of emergency fund to aid the Debt Service exclusively. The Sinking Fund which has been used since its origin in 1919 to pay existing county debts, is rapidly being depleted and this year could not meet the demands of the new hospital bond issue.

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners yesterday unanimously approved a $1.23 county tax rate—15 cents higher than last year's — for the 1959-1960 fiscal year.

Voting on a motion by Greenville's Vance Perkins and seconded by Woodrow Wooten of Falkland, the Board enacted a record high tax rate for Pitt.

Chairman R. L. Martin of Bethel attributed 11 cents of the 15-cent rise to the bond issue which was passed by popular vote last Sept. 27, for the 70-bed addition to Pitt Memorial Hospital.

The remaining four-cent rise, according to Martin, was largely due to an increase in School Fund requests.

The School Current Expense Fund request jumped some $42,000 from $365,000 last year to this year's request of $407,000. The new figure for the School Capital Outlay Fund stands at $149,000 for fiscal 1959-60 as compared with last year's $261,400.

A large part ($105,000) of last year's capital outlay, however, had been previously raised to pay for gymnasiums at Ayden and Winterville and was not figured into the 1958-59 tax rate. Therefore, this year's capital outlay of $149,000 is only slightly lower than last year's $156,000 which was actually the only amount shown in school capital outlay to affect fiscal 1958-59's tax rate. This decrease is not enough to offset the current expense increase, since the tax rate rises one cent for each additional $7,000 (approximately).

The new total budget stands at $1,547,000 pending some last minute calculations which must be made by County Auditor H. Reginald Gray. The revision, according to Gray, will not produce any great change either up or down in the total figure. Last year's total budget was $1,619,204.

Ten Alcohol Tank Cars Derail, Burst In Flame

MARION, N.C. (AP) — Ten tank cars loaded with industrial alcohol, and 16 other cars of a Clinchfield Railroad freight train derailed near here Tuesday and the alcohol burst into flame. There were no injuries.

The fire, fed by 80,000 gallons of alcohol, sent flames leaping hundreds of feet into the air. The accident occurred two miles east of here at a point on the Clinchfield line where the Southern Railway passes overhead.

The fire damaged the Southern Railway trestle but engineers later determined the trestle safe enough for trains to pass over it. Two Southern trains delayed three hours by the accident were permitted to cross.

Clinchfield spokesmen said the derailment was caused by a derailed wheel Journal on a cement car 35 cars behind the engine. The derailment apparently set one of the alcohol cars on fire, and that touched off the others.

The tremendous heat twisted rails and cars into grotesque shapes. Smoke could be seen for miles around.

Firefighting equipment from Marion, Old Fort and Nebo remained at the scene into the night as fires continued to burn. Alcohol dripping from the cars kept firemen busy.

About 10,000 gallons of propane gas, used in homes for cooking, was in a tank car on a side track near the burning trestle. It was not touched off. Another 15,000 gallons of propane was in storage tanks of a gas service company nearby. It also did not catch fire.

D. H. Hendrix of Erwin, Tenn., Clinchfield superintendent, estimated that once the fires had been extinguished, at least a day and night would be required to completely reopen the line.

The train was No. 97 northbound from Spartanburg to Elkhorn, Ky.

will be paid by 1965 from the Sinking Fund and a constant tax rate instituted for that purpose in fiscal 1957-58.

Other changes in the budgeting for the separate county funds varied from a $13,000 cut in General Fund money to a $9,500 rise in the Health Department's share. These changes either up or down offset each other; the result being that the total budget for all departments (other than Debt Service and School Funds) this year is very close to the 1958-59 figure.

In addition to the budget approval, the Board reappointed Robert S. Moye as Pitt County Tax Collector and Tax Supervisor.

The Board delayed further action on a water survey proposal for the county until a later date. The survey, which would chart its underground water supply, would cost the county $14,000 a year for four years.

The Commissioners unanimously approved the inclusion of Register of Deeds Mrs. Blair C. Wheeler, Sheriff R. W. Tyson, and Clerk of Court D. T. House under workmen's compensation laws. This is provided for by a new state law.

An appropriation of $2,650 was approved by the Board to go to D. R. Hollowell, CPA for Pitt records, for his services.

Further Board action provided that County Attorney W. W. Speight write a letter to the Town of Farmville explaining Pitt County's position in a Farmville fingerprinting request.

Fish Dish Is Rainy-Day Special

FANCY FISH—A rainy-day special made from your favorite fisherman's catch. An electric food server keeps the dish warm.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Newsfeatures Food Editor

NOT QUITE a soup, not quite a stew, but a cross between the two. Borrowed from both New England and Finland—to be enjoyed anywhere. We call this fish dish our rainy-day special because it's perfect to enjoy for lunch or supper in front of the fireplace.

Make the dish with the fish your husband or best beau catches this summer or with the more prosaic sort from your market. But be sure to use fish that is firm of flesh, that doesn't go to pieces when it really feels the heat of the kettle. This is a main dish so you want it to have substance. There should be large filling chunks of fish into which you can sink your teeth.

With the fish go potatoes, onion, celery, bacon, milk, and that belongs to the New England way with a chowder. Its intriguing flavor comes from the Finnish manner of adding fresh dill to a fish-and-potato soup. If you live in the city, try to find some real country dill; the hothouse variety, often sold in urban markets, usually lacks flavor.

Pull up a table in front of the hearth and if you have an electric food server deposit it here. The fish dish, wide shallow soup plates and crusty bread and seeded rolls plus bread sticks can all go on this convenient portable appliance. Get out your best tureen if you like, or bring on the fish dish in the kettle in which it was cooked; either way the server will keep it beautifully hot. Our recipe serves four; you may double it if you feel your eaters will want seconds or if there are eight persons to feed.

All you need to add to your main course is a big bowl of salad greens; enliven them, if you wish, with strips of cheese, chicken and ham; or with hard-cooked eggs, anchovies and tomatoes. For dessert on this menu we like a luscious fresh fruit tart.

RAINY DAY SPECIAL

Ingredients: 1 slice bacon, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, 1/2 cup chopped onion, 1-3 cup celery, 2 cups (1 pound) diced potatoes, 2 cups water, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1-8 teaspoon white pepper. 1 pound firm-fleshed thick (fresh or frozen) fish fillets, 1 cup milk or light cream, 2 1/2 teaspoons minced dill. Method: In a wide-bottom kettle, cook bacon until crisp; remove. Add butter and onion to bacon drippings; slowly cook onion until golden; remove. Add celery, potatoes, water and half the salt and pepper to kettle; simmer, covered, until potatoes are tender. Arrange fish (thawed if frozen) over vegetables and liquid; sprinkle fish with remaining salt and pepper. Simmer, covered, until fish is opaque through—this may take only 5 minutes; do not overcook. Break fish into large chunks in kettle. Add milk, dill, reserved bacon and onion; reheat very slowly; do not boil. Serve in wide soup plates. Makes 4 servings. Note: Halibut is perfect for this recipe.

NASHVILLE—Miss Betty Jean Viverette and Rufus Wayne Pollard were married in the home of the bride June 25 in Nashville by the Rev. Eason of Rocky Mount. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Viverette of Nashville and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Pollard of Greenville.

Vows were said before a setting of white gladioli, fern, palms and candelabra.

Wedding music was furnished by Mrs. Mitchell Cockrell of Rocky Mount, pianist, and Mrs. John David Cannon of Greenville, soloist. Mrs. Cannon sang "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life" and "The Wedding Prayer." The traditional wedding marches were used.

The couple entered the room together. The bride was wearing a ballerina length wedding gown of Chantilly lace over satin fashioned with a portrait neckline. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached to a crown of pearls and sequins. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid and streamers.

Mrs. John David Cannon of Greenville served as matron of honor. She wore a street length dress of light green, organdy over taffeta. Her corsage was of white carnations.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Viverette wore an aqua dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

The bridegroom's mother wore a pink dress with beige accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Sisters Have Double Wedding On Holiday

Mrs. Ruben Clyde Wall

On July 4 the Center Hill Baptist Church at Tyner was the setting of a double wedding. Miss Melva Jane Wiggins became the bride of Ruben Clyde Wall. Miss Carolyn Privott Wiggins became the bride of Elton Ray Joyner. The Rev. Henry V. Napier officiated.

The brides are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Wiggins. Mr. Wall is the son of Mrs. Jack Wall of Ayden and the late Mr. Wall. Mr. Joyner is the son of Mrs. Fongie Parker of Rocky Mount and the late Mr. Willard B. Joyner.

Music was presented by the bride's brother, Joseph Wiggins Jr., pianist, and Mrs. Marvin White, soloist.

Miss Jane Wiggins entered the church on the arm of her father. Miss Carolyn Wiggins came into the church with her uncle, C. E. Privott of Rocky Mount. Both brides were given in marriage by their father.

The brides wore identical gowns of Chantilly lace and tulle designed with a fitted bodice of lace and a bouffant skirt of tulle appliqued with panels of lace and embroidered with iridescent sequins. Their fingertip veils were attached to a lace and seed pearl tiara. They carried bouquets of white roses and lily-of-the-valley centered with a white orchid.

Miss Jane Wiggins chose her sister, Mrs. Eugene Jordan, as her matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Mercer Jones of Portsmouth, Va., Mrs. Leon Brickhouse of Elizabeth City, Mrs. Joseph Wiggins Jr. of Chapel Hill, sister-in-law of the brides, and Miss Novella White, cousin of the brides.

Her flower girl was her niece, Susan Jordan.

Mrs. C. F. Edwards of Rocky Mount attended Miss Carolyn Wiggins as matron of honor. Her bridesmaids were Miss Mary Turner, Miss Ethel Fish and Miss Sarah Yancey of Rocky Mount and her cousin, Mrs. Sam Trueblood of Hertford. Joan Jordan, her niece, was flower girl.

The honor attendants wore street length dresses of pale blue net and chiffon with cummerbunds of taffeta and matching headpieces of taffeta and net. They carried bouquets of pink carnations and blue delphinium. The bridesmaids wore dresses of pastel pink styled like the honor attendants' and carried bouquets of pink carnations and blue delphinium. The flower girls wore dresses of white with blue cummerbunds.

Mr. Wall had as his best man Floyd Hardee of Ayden. Mr. Joyner's best man was L. G. Moore of Rocky Mount, his uncle.

Ushers were Eugene Jordan of Tyner, Z. O. Whitford of Newport News, Va., C. F. Edwards and Garland Mosley of Rocky Mount. Miss Anna Belle Privott was mistress of ceremonies.

The mother of the brides was dressed in a nice blue lace dress and wore an orchid corsage. Mrs. Wall wore a dress of pink lace and an orchid corsage. Mrs. Parker's dress was of white lace with an orchid corsage.

After the wedding the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home.

Following the wedding trips, Mr. and Mrs. Wall will live in Newport News, Va., while Mr. and Mrs. Joyner will reside in Rocky Mount.

Tobacco Must Keep Foreign Mart

By their action Monday, leaders of the tobacco industry have set for themselves during the coming year a task of utmost importance and tremendous difficulty.

The tobacco industry as a whole next year must see that federal legislation providing a tobacco program more in keeping with the needs of the industry is adopted by Congress, or watch the industry face one of its most difficult periods in decades.

Leaders of the tobacco industry at a meeting in Richmond Monday decided not to ask Congress to override the President's veto of legislation which would have frozen tobacco support prices at their 1958 level for the next four to five years. They also decided to oppose substitute legislation proposed by Sen. Morton of Kentucky that would put a two-year freeze on the support price of tobacco.

The actions of the past few weeks in effect puts the tobacco industry back where it was last year. It faces the same problems it sought to solve by the legislation which President Eisenhower has vetoed. Unless some change is made, tobacco support prices will continue to rise, weakening the position of American tobacco in world markets and further decreasing the volume of American leaf which moves into foreign trade.

In turn this means producers face a decline in the total demand for their product and as a consequence will eventually face further restrictions in acreage allotments. It might also mean that stocks of American tobacco will continue to increase and thus threaten the entire support program which would not operate effectively without Stabilization purchases of tobacco. And it would be obvious that Stabilization cannot indefinitely absorb tobacco for which it has no foreseeable market.

As a result of action taken at the Richmond meeting, efforts must be turned to securing in 1960 a tobacco program which will more nearly meet the needs of the industry as a whole. While prospects for such a program may be better next year, the tobacco industry will still have to face the opposition of Agriculture Secretary Benson, and President Eisenhower. It will also have delayed another year in making the readjustments which it must make in respect to foreign markets. It might well lose further ground abroad in the interim period.

Unless in the coming year it can muster sufficient support to assure adoption of the program it will offer, the tobacco industry as a whole might be forced by circumstances to accept the unwanted proposals offered by Secretary Benson.

The industry as a whole—from farmer to manufacturer—must therefore redouble its efforts to obtain in 1960 a program which will provide a satisfactory solution to the problems it faces. Time is running out if foreign markets for American tobacco are to be retained and the tide of declining foreign sales is to be stemmed. Further substantial losses in the sale of American tobacco in world markets may well prove a blow from which the American tobacco industry as we know it today will never recover.

Pitt's Interest Now

'Multiplied By Two'

Today marks the start of an exciting series of events in the lives of two lovely young ladies representing Greenville and Pitt County at the Miss North Carolina contest.

Alice Ann Horne and Cynthia Ann McLoon went to Durham yesterday, embarking on days of thrills and butterflies-in-the-stomach that are the lot of state beauty contestants.

The weeks that have passed since their respective selection for this distinction have all been aimed at fulfilling the role of contestants to the very best of their ability. We are sure that no matter what the outcome, their well-wishers will have ample grounds for pride in the showing of Miss Greenville and Miss Pitt County.

Beauty contests have come a long way since their inception. And the manner in which community and state beauty queens have presented themselves before the public eye has added a singular prestige to what once was known as a bit of summertime madness. These days it's a career-for-a-year, with the fortunate ones planning to further their education and future careers.

In other years the state event has held a measure of interest for Pitt Countians, and this time that interest can be multiplied by two. It promises to be quite a week.

No Retreat By Supreme Court

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Don't buy the idea the Supreme Court is backing down under criticism. The facts don't bear it out.

The attacks on the court in the 1958-59 term were bitter, although less widespread than in the past. But this was a fairly mild term.

There's a good explanation for that. The nine justices didn't have to cope with issues as explosive as some of those in recent years.

The court continued to plod along steadily in its role as guardian of individual rights and freedoms. Its most publicized decisions were in that field.

As usual, they didn't please everyone, not even some of the justices themselves. The harshness of some of their criticism of one another's opinions might indicate some conflict within the court itself. That's only a guess.

Justice Black, always voting on what is called the liberal side, complained in a moment of exasperation that the court is in retreat. Any impartial study of the court's work would have a hard time proving it. One example: In decision after decision the court never budged an inch from its 1954 ruling outlawing racial segregation in public schools.

Ever since that 1954 opinion — and subsequent ones protecting fair-treatment rights of Communists and non-Communists — the court has been battered with denunciations.

Those opinions cut across many fields: states rights, the federal employe security program, the sedition laws of the states, and congressional investigations of communism.

As a result the justices have been told they were going too far, that they were usurping power that belonged to the legislative and executive branches of government, and that they were a nuisance. Some Southern Democrats talked of impeaching them.

This year even the American Bar Assn. at its February convention was split between those who wanted to chastise the court in an ABA resolution and those who didn't. In the end the ABA avoided direct criticism.

In one grand congressional outburst this summer House Republicans, defying the wishes of the Eisenhower administration, joined Southern Democrats in ramming through a bill to offset at least one court decision.

The court had ruled in 1956 that when it comes to trying subversives, federal law supersedes state sedition laws. The House-passed bill would give state laws equal weight with federal laws in the same field unless Congress specifically says otherwise or unless there are direct conflicts between them.

Opponents charged — and the Problem In Convertibles

Owners of convertibles have problems that owners of cars with ordinary tops never think of.

We were walking by the post office the other day when we spotted a late model convertible with the top down parked at the curb.

On the dash board was a tube of sun tan lotion!

The local drugist, who is absolutely minus any hair on top of his head, was strolling along a New York street wearing dark glasses.

"Look," screamed a bunch of kids, "There's Phil Silvers." This didn't set too well with an old Navy man.

Charlie Wells, the local "ham" radio operator, received a splendid write-up in the amateur radio paper of Israel. He received a copy of it through the mail.

The only trouble is its all written in Hebrew. Of course, Charlie doesn't read a word of the language and he can't find any one locally who does.

It can be presumed the article is complimentary, however, Charlie was contacted by an Israeli "ham" operator some time ago. He was asked to telephone the Israeli embassy in Washington to ask them to forward a rare drug to Israel. The drug was needed for a critically ill youth.

Charlie did as instructed and he later heard that the ill man recovered.

He said a reproduction of this column describing the incident was run in the radio amateur newspaper along with the article.

He could read the reproduction, of course, but he could understand not one word of the main article.

The amateur radio operators of this area have organized into the Greenville Amateur Radio Club, incidentally.

The club will meet monthly and it also plans to have classes for persons wishing to learn radio code twice weekly.

Learning code is necessary before obtaining an amateur's license.

Danny Prigden is president of the club.

Other Editors Saying New To The Farmers

(Hertford County Herald)

A news story published last week carried the information that more than two thousand farmers in the Roanoke-Chowan section who are eligible for government retirement pensions under Social Security laws have not applied for them and, naturally, are not getting them.

To get in on this government gravy, a self-employed farmer — this generally means a tenant farmer or a landowning farmer — has to be 65 years old. That is the government's legal retirement age for collecting Social Security pensions. All wage earners come under the law automatically and many self-employed persons are entitled to its benefits.

Not many farmers know about this Social Security business. They have never had their checks for sale of cotton, peanuts, tobacco and other crops docked for Social Security deductions. The wage earner knows all about it, however. The deductions start as soon as he gets his first paycheck. The wage earner not only pays his Social Security before he gets his check, he is also subject to the check-off for Federal income tax, and since the last General Assembly also will be deducted for State income taxes.

It was just since 1955 that farmers, as self-employed entrepreneurs, have been able to come under the Social Security system. There is a whole lot of red tape to it and there is a catch or two that might prove to be pitfalls rather than a boon — the farmer has to make some back Social Security payments and fill out an income tax form. Nevertheless, there are a lot of government pensions that farmers over 65 may claim if they want them.

The folks who work for the government in the Social Security offices are anxious to get farmers to apply for the benefits. They want to give away the money. The more applicants they have the better will be the record of their offices in getting the Social Security benefits given away. And, then the more people they can put on the government payroll for their offices. At the same time, the more farmers over 65 apply for and get Social Security pensions, the fewer will be the number of the aged and dependent who are on the rolls of the government welfare agencies.

It is a complicated business, this thing of dispensing government pensions and charity. It even gets competitive between the different government agencies. One thing is sure and certain about it, not hid by the red tape and regulations. It makes a lot of government jobs and is plenty expensive to the taxpayers who provide the money for the government workers to give away.

Could Be, The FTC Forgot It

By ELMER ROESSNER

A century or more ago a charlatan roamed England, appearing at fairs with a number of assistants. They set up metal frames in the shape of cabins, a foot or two off the ground. The frames were then tied with straw or cotton waste.

The Fire King, as he called himself, appeared in the robes of a monk, holding a joint of beef in his hands, and entered the cabin through a door. His assistants collected coins from the crowd and when they had sufficient shillings and pence, they set fire to the straw or cotton.

Flames leaped up. It seemed impossible that anyone could live in such a fire. And just as it died down, the Fire King opened the door and stepped out.

He was unharmed. The joint was roasted crisp.

COULD IT BE POSSIBLE?

The crowd was aghast. Some believed the Fire King was so holy that flames could not sear him. Others thought they had witnessed a miracle.

My friend, the late Harry Houdini, and others exposed the trick or, at least, showed how it was possible. The charlatan entered the cabin and hung the meat under the apex of the roof. Then he lay down on the floor and drew his robes, made of fireproof material, over his head and feet, and stuck his nose down through an opening in the floor.

When the shack was set afire, fresh cold air came up through the floor, keeping the fatter cool. At the floor, the temperature was probably no more than 90 degrees; at the ridge it was 300 or 400.

The robe kept sparks from burning him. At the proper moment, he snatched the meat and stepped out unscathed.

I can't imagine why I'm telling you all this unless it is because of Federal Trade Commission

Order No. 7140.

A MODERN PARALLEL?

This concerned a television commercial for an auto wax. As the FTC said, "the wax is applied to a car and gasoline is sprayed on the polished surface and ignited. Within about 12 seconds later water is poured on the fire, extinguishing it. The announcer says, 'The only reason we burn the car is to show you that you positively cannot get down through that silicized finish.'"

Houdini would have understood that the heat of burning gasoline on a car surface would go up, not down, that the gasoline itself would form a film between the fire and the waxed coating, and that in 12 seconds it would be difficult to boil water, much less scorch a wax coating.

The FTC declared: "If a product is advertised in advertising, the demonstration must be a valid one in support of claims for the product."

Hildy Doesn't Fade

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"I always wanted to make money while I slept," said Hildygarde.

"I did it with my phonograph records—and now I hope to do it with oil wells."

In 1956 Hildy disposed of 85 per cent of her prize collection of modern art and started out to collect oil wells. She now owns an interest in 10 producing wells in Oklahoma.

But "the dear that made Milwaukee" is too energetic to sit idly by and let oil wells support her.

After more than 30 years of song belting before kings and butter-and-egg men, she is still a reigning queen of the supper club circuit.

She has long been called "The Incomparable," and she still deserves the title. None of the newer lady songbirds has quite her timeless feminine charm, her gay authority over a crowded room. Like Marlene Dietrich, she seems destined to roll along forever.

"I don't want to retire until I get fat—and I never intend to get fat," she says.

Success didn't come easy for the hazel-eyed, blonde singer. She dreamed, as a chubby young girl in Milwaukee, of becoming a concert pianist. She performed in vaudeville and played as an accompanist before she became a solo artist.

In Paris she sang for as little as $1 a night in small cabarets. Later, as a famous radio, recording and supper club star she earned up to $20,000 a week.

"I still practice on the piano and take singing lessons," she said. "You never reach the point where you can't improve yourself or learn something new."

Hildygarde journeyed more than a million miles by car, train and ship before she got over her fear of the airplane. Now she uses the sky lanes.

Hildygarde has a fabulous collection of gowns costing $400 up each, 10 times as many pairs of gloves—she plays the piano with her gloves on—and hundreds of the lacy handkerchiefs she uses in her act. They cost from $25 to $75 apiece.

"You have to live for others as well as yourself if you are to find any happiness. You should try to make this world a better place, not only by religion but by your own behavior," is her philosophy.

"We hear so much about evil. I think we should stress good more—and not be ashamed of good."

Hildygarde has never married. "I've been on the verge many times," she said, "but I'm still a bachelorette—trying to find Mr. Right."

"I wonder if I ever will. Everybody seems married lately."

Whatever means the Pentagon chooses to use to give American transport and patrol planes better protection against an enemy that is alternately "cold" and "hot" is in the military domain. But the American public is thoroughly fed up with these "incidents" in which U. S. policy appears to be to turn the other cheek. —Portland, Oregonian.

"Our forefathers fought to gain liberty; our struggle in this, the nuclear age, is to maintain and perpetuate it." —J. Edgar Hoover.

"Back in 1952, there were some 6,400,000 shareholders in American industry. A few years later, in 1956, the number had shown a healthy rise to 8,630,000. Of late, estimates have placed the shareholder army in the neighborhood of 10 million. But now we find that this was low, way low. Early this year the New York Stock Exchange conducted a census of shareholders and the total was 12,490,000. That large a number was not anticipated before 1955. So the American people have demonstrated a far greater enthusiasm for becoming partners in corporate enterprise than even the experts expected." —Industrial News Review.

Then it dismissed the charges. "It said they were not proved. The on evidence concerning the validity of the demonstration is the testimony of an expert called by FTC counsel," it declared. "His testimony as to the amount of heat transferred to a surface on which flammable liquid has been ignited and extinguished is too limited in certain respects," the FTC concluded.

TAX MEN SHARPEN NAILS FOR SUMMER TRAVELERS

If you want to save on taxes this summer stay at home.

Fourteen states have boosted gasoline, sales and cigarette taxes, Commerce Clearing House reports. In only four states can people buy cigarettes without paying tribute: Colorado, North Carolina, Oregon and Virginia.

In addition, more and more sales taxes are imposed by local governments. New York City, in addition, has boosted taxes on meals and imposed a new levy on taxi cabs.

Greener Pastures For Family And Triplets

SOUTHPORT, N. C. (AP) — Things are looking up for tenant farmer Nathan Miller and his family. They'll be on the way to greener pastures next week.

Miller said recently after his wife gave birth to triplet girls that they might have to offer the babies for adoption because of money problems. Miller made only $25 a week. That was in good times. He often made less.

But Monday, the Millers—who have three other children—decided they would keep the babies. And Tuesday, Miller accepted a $200-a-month job on an egg farm in Mecklenburg County, near Charlotte, N.C. The family also will have a house rent free.

The offer was made by Paul Jones, who has 17,000 hens on a 50-acre farm. He had stipulated that the Millers must keep the triplets.

Miller was released from his contract by his present employer, Cornelius Thomas of Clarendon Plantation.

"I'm very pleased for the Millers," said Thomas. "I wouldn't want them to stay with the chance of a better position."

Everybody was happy about the new job, including 12-year-old Jimmy Miller.

"Can I take Bogeys?" he asked Jones. Bogeys is the family dog. He was told he could.

The other Miller children are Peggy, 17, and Frances, 15. The triplets are Brenda, Glenda, and Linda.

Dr. Landis Brown of Southport said Tuesday that Glenda has jaundice, but the physician told the family it's nothing to be alarmed about, and should clear up soon.

The babies are to be examined by Dr. Brown Monday. This was requested by Jones, who said he wanted a doctor's permission for the infants to travel.

Jones made all the arrangements for the family's trip to their new home before leaving here Tuesday.

The United Nations has recommended a worldwide minimum age of 14 for both sexes to marry.

See Good Start For 'Bathyscaph'

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Navy officials said today that preliminary dives of the bathyscaph Trieste have convinced them that it is the forerunner of undersea devices that will carry explorers to the earth's last unknown frontier.

Eight preliminary dives by the Trieste in this area, the deepest 4,000 feet, have started a program that is aimed at giving man direct information about the three-fourths of the earth's surface covered by the oceans.

Capt. John M. Phelps, commanding officer and director of the Naval Electronics Laboratory, said the program was so vast that it would take much time and money to carry it through.

But he and Dr. Andreas B. Rechnitzer, oceanographer in charge of the Trieste operations, expressed confidence that a good start had been made.

Their views were supported by two internationally famous pioneers in the field, Prof. Auguste Piccard, Swiss scientist, and his son, Jacques.

The younger Piccard is under contract to the Navy to pilot the Trieste in its preliminary dives. His father arrived this week from Europe to assist in some modifications to the craft, which the Piccards sold to the Navy last year.

The Trieste is capable of dives down to 20,000 feet. The Piccards are planning a device that would be propelled downward into the depths by a rotor blade, similar to that on a helicopter, and would have twin propellers for cruising and turning. They call it a mesoscaph.

New Father Has Explaining To Do

AVOCA, N.Y. (AP)—Mother and daughter are doing fine, but father has some explaining to do.

James H. Young, 33, a migrant worker, "borrowed" a police car Tuesday when he couldn't find anyone to take his expectant wife to a hospital.

He turned on the siren and the blinking red light and started for the hospital in Bath, five miles away. Police in another car caught up and stopped him.

They let him continue to the hospital, but charged him with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Didn't Observe His TV Advice

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Hal Moser, University of Massachusetts home horticulture specialist, blithely handled shiny leaves last Thursday as he cautioned his television audience about similar contact.

Moser himself had suffered from contact with poison ivy. Now he hopes to recover from the mild case of poisoning he suffered so he can give his weekly TV lecture this Thursday.

Steelworkers Union Wants Nixon Help For Wage Hike

NEW YORK (AP)—The Steelworkers Union has appealed to Vice President Richard M. Nixon for help in getting a wage boost and other contract benefits from the industry.

Union President David J. McDonald presented the plea personally to Nixon, an avowed foe of inflation.

McDonald said he went to Pittsburgh and sought out Nixon to complain that the steel companies were "provoking a shutdown" by balking at offering any contract gains.

The union chief declined to tell newsmen what Nixon's reaction was. He said on that he supposed Nixon reported to President Eisenhower on the conference.

Negotiations between four-man teams representing the union and the 12 biggest steel companies continues here today.

McDonald's announcement Tuesday that he had been in Pittsburgh conferring with Nixon dispelled a two-day mystery about his absence from the stalemated contract talks here.

The union chief said he told Nixon the steel bargaining has gotten nowhere and that, as things stood, there was no chance of a new contract extension.

Present agreements expire at midnight July 14. That's when a two-week extension inspired by Eisenhower runs out.

McDonald said that unless contract talks develop considerably he will recommend a strike to the union's wage-policy committee.

R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, was obviously piqued at McDonald's journey to see Nixon, who was in Pittsburgh to attend the All-Star baseball game.

"With respect to Mr. McDonald's wanderlust," Cooper told newsmen here, "I have only to say that we think this is the place to do our collective bargaining and settle our differences. He has wasted precious time."

"None of these tactics can obscure the fact that the union is determined to extract another round of inflationary wage and benefit increase from the industry, and do it by the usual compulsory route of a strike if necessary."

"We think it is time for a change."

The industry has stood firm on its intent to give the half million steelworkers in the basic producing industry nothing more than has been contained in the expiring contracts. Even more, the companies have insisted on contract modifications.

McDonald has called for a substantial boost in wages — now averaging $3.10 an hour — plus pension and other concessions. He says industry profits warrant the changes without any price boosts. The industry maintains that now is the time to curb wage-price inflation.

Nixon heads Eisenhower's Cabinet committee on economics and inflation, which recently reported that big firms and big unions were pyramiding inflation through price and wage increases.

Nixon To Extend Tour Of Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon is reported planning to extend his tour of the Soviet Union to cover nine cities, including areas rarely opened to foreigners. His visit, starting July 23, may last two weeks.

He is understood to be willing to stay longer than the single week originally arranged — provided Kremlin authorities allow him to see more than the usual tourist attractions.

This became known today after more than a month of U.S. negotiations between the State Department and the Soviet foreign office. But details still are vague. Neither side wants to talk about them.

Soviet authorities are reported cooperating cautiously in meeting most of Nixon's requests. This Soviet attitude is due mainly to the all-out hospitality shown by the Eisenhower administration to visiting Soviet Deputy Premier Frol Kozlov.

Nixon's trip at present shapes up as a three-day stay in Moscow, ostensibly to open the American Exhibition, and follow-up visits in a Soviet airliner to Leningrad, Kiev and six other cities now being talked about as additional stopping points.

Three of these are Novosibirsk, the deepest Nixon will penetrate into Siberia, and the industrial cities of Magnitogorsk and Sverdlovsk in the southern Ural.

Soviet authorities are understood to have agreed to allow Nixon to speak to the Soviet people on television at the windup of his stay. Kozlov was given a similar hour-long appearance on American television at a combination speech and news conference last Thursday.

Unearth Palace Of Henry VIII

EWELL, England (AP)—Amateur archeologists following an ancient plan, have unearthed the remains of the last and greatest of the five palaces built by Henry VIII.

The foundations of Nonsuch Palace, were uncovered Monday by a volunteer team including housewives and students.

Started in 1538, Nonsuch housed four English queens including Elizabeth I, before it was torn down in 1673. Since then the foundations had settled below ground level.

DEPARTMENT STORES

City Street Project In Its Last Steps

WORK AT JARVIS AND FIRST ST. . . intersection being tied in with First St. cross town route.

City Department of Public Works crews are leveling the Jarvis and First St. intersection and lowering the Jarvis St. hill approaching the intersection.

City Manager Leonard Bloxam said two department crews are being used on the job in an effort to complete the work.

Grading, curb and gutter and other work has already been done at the First and Summit St. intersection one block away.

Completion of the two intersections is the last phase of the First St. project. Using money voted through a bond issue the city has opened the street from existing pavement at First and Cotanche to existing pavement at Woodlawn.

The project is designed to give another through street around the business area between the eastern and western sections of the city. Bloxam said he is unable to determine when the Jarvis St. intersection work will be completed. Involved in the job will be changing of a line leading from the elevated water tank located at the intersection. Utilities crews will also replace a one and a half inch water main serving some houses in that section with a more adequate six inch main.

When the grading and curb and gutter is completed at Jarvis and First, the two intersections, their approaches and a block of First St. in between will be paved with asphalt. The other portions of the new street including the fill across a ravine have already been paved.

Godfrey's Activity Rises As His Recovery Continues

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP)—Arthur Godfrey, now convalescing from lung cancer surgery three months ago, says that "I still tire easily, of course, but the energy lasts a little longer every day."

Godfrey, in fact, is making such a good recovery that his New York doctors have lengthened the periods between his regular check-ups from biweekly to monthly.

Except for flying visits to his doctors, Godfrey has been sticking close to home—his 2,500-acre farm near Leesburg, Va. In a note to this column, the TV and radio performer—who will be 56 next month—describes his usual program.

"A swim in the pool starts the day around 7:30 or 8," writes Godfrey. "I try to get in three or four swim sessions a day. No special diet has been prescribed, but having lost 16 pounds the hard way, I have no intention of regaining any part of it. So I am engaged in the same old battle of the bulge."

"I ride and work with the other animals about an hour a day. An hour's nap after lunch is a must, and I like to spend the last hour before dark hunting varmints. I try to study an hour or two a day which often includes some attempts at writing. After dinner, we (his wife Mary and himself) love to play cards with our neighbors until bedtime."

Godfrey says that, with this increasingly active life, he doesn't miss broadcasting at all. He adds he is already planning his next show—one of perhaps four specials which will be his only TV appearances next season—scheduled for September.

The Godfreys with their two teen-age younger children, live in a comfortable but not large ivy-covered, brick Tudor house. Horses are a passion with both Godfrey and his wife, and they have perhaps a dozen of them. It is, however, a profitable, working farm, for Godfrey raises Herefords for the market. Recently in New York he made arrangements to have his boat in condition, and plans to do a little fishing during the summer, too.

Friends say that he rarely looks at television or listens to radio—although he will pick up his daily, daytime radio show in the fall—but keeps up with the news via newspaper and magazines.

Caryl Chessman Called Up Again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Caryl Chessman returns soon to Los Angeles to hear his new date with death.

The appointment for his seventh execution date was set up Tuesday when the California Supreme Court upheld two death sentences imposed on the convict-author 11 years ago.

The court unanimously rejected the 38-year-old San Quentin Prisoner's contention the transcript of his Los Angeles trial in May 1948, was faulty.

Chessman, author of two well-publicized books while in death row, was convicted of kidnapping and assaulting two young women in Los Angeles. He has been fending off execution in legal actions, prepared for the most part by himself.

Harriman Declares Khrushchev 'Terrifying'

NEW YORK (AP)—W. Averell Harriman describes his recent talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev as "terrifying, shocking, worse than Stalin."

His account is carried in the current issue of Life magazine. The quotation, according to Life, was contained in Harriman's report to Washington.

Harriman is a former New York governor and a former ambassador to Moscow.

In his signed article in the magazine, Harriman says Khrushchev told him, in "blunt and brutal language" that:

"Your generals talk of maintaining your position in Berlin with force. That is bluff. If you send in tanks, they will burn, and make no mistake about it. If you want war, you can have it, but remember it will be your war. Our rockets will fly automatically."

Life also reported that Harriman told Washington that Khrushchev said the Soviet Union has shipped numerous rockets to Red China. These have been planted behind the coastline, according to the report, but have the range to blast the Nationalist fortress of Formosa.

If Red China decides to try to take Formosa, it can count on Soviet help, including direct military intervention—even if it means war—according to this report. Khrushchev also was said to have added that Communist strength is sufficient to destroy the U.S. 7th Fleet, now patrolling the Formosa Strait area.

Harriman said Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will be just as stubborn and inflexible when the Geneva talks resume July 13 as he was before the talks adjourned.

Harriman declared he is convinced that there should be a summit conference, and that the West should seize every opportunity to deal directly with Khrushchev, "since he alone determines Soviet foreign policy."

The State Department said the Soviet leader recently had made a number of tough statements, and denied any alarm.

Harriman saw Khrushchev at the Kremlin June 23 and later visited with him at his country home outside Moscow, while on a tour.

Barn Burns

FOUNTAIN—A fire completely destroyed a Wilson County tobacco barn laden with its first curing near Fountain about 1 p.m. Monday.

The barn, located on the R. F. Speight farm, caught fire after Bill Beamon, tenant of the farm, had begun to run high heat on the tobacco.

Fountain's fire truck was not in time to save either the barn or tobacco but prevented further spreading of the fire to other buildings near the burning barn.

Speight indicated that "the barn and tobacco were a total loss."

Cause of the fire was unknown.

Award Presented Local FHA Office Employee

AWARD . . . Mrs. R. R. White, local Farmers Home Administration employee receives an award for outstanding service from District Supervisor Paul Parks.

A local Farmers Home Administration employee was honored at a reception at the County office building yesterday about 10 a.m. when she was presented a cash award and a certificate of appreciation for her work with the governmental agency.

Mrs. Frances R. White, 2700 East Fourth St., an employee of the Farmers Home Administration for 19 years and resident of Greenville for three, was presented a check for $128 and a certificate of appreciation for sustained superior performance of her assigned duties.

Paul Parks, Area Supervisor from the State Office in Raleigh, presented the awards to Mrs. White. Parks pointed out that to his knowledge, no one else in North Carolina would receive the award this year and only one person received the award in the state last year.

Mrs. White is the County office clerk in the Pitt office.

Drowns Trying To Display Skill

SEATTLE (AP)—A boy who leaped into the Lake Washington Ship Canal with his hands and feet tied in what was to be a demonstration of his swimming prowess drowned Tuesday night.

Robert Waugh, 15, told two companions to tie his hands and feet and he would tie himself while under the water. With his hands and feet tied he jumped into the water. He didn't come up.

Shirley With Husband Few Weeks Each Year

By ROB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I know people don't understand it. I don't understand it myself. But we're making it work, and I know we'll get what we want."

This was Shirley MacLaine, explaining about her strange marriage to Steve Parker. She has seen him only a few weeks a year since 1956—she won't say how few for fear people will be shocked.

Their careers keep them apart. Shirley is the hottest female star in movies today. Steve has discovered a rich field as producer for films and shows in Japan.

Last year, he brought over the Japanese troupe that made a hit on Dinah Shore's TV show. Now he is importing an extravaganza to play the New Frontier in Las Vegas, and he and Shirley are together for one of their infrequent reunions.

How did they get into such a situation? "It just happened," she said. "Steve had lived in Japan when he was a boy—he went to all parts of the world with his father. But he liked Japan best. He went back there after the war and found a terrific field. Now he's branching out."

Contractual matters keep her here. She was plucked out of "Pajama Game" for a movie deal with Hal Wallis. All of the films she has made between "Around the World in 80 Days" and the upcoming "Can Can" were under salary. So she hasn't been able to cash in on her current popularity.

"I've got pictures lined up steadily into the spring of 1961," she said. "Then we'll be able to resume our marriage. I'll be independent and able to make my own deals, and Steve will have his situation consolidated. I don't think it's too much for us to be apart for another two years—as long as we can achieve everything we both want by that time."

But she admitted that her friends can't understand how she and Steve live.

"Sure, I'm lonely," she said. "But work helps me to forget about it. The way I've been working, I wouldn't be able to have much of a marriage, anyway."

Dean Robbins, former East Carolina College athlete and presently an outfielder with the red-hot Raleigh Caps, has seemingly come into his own as a diamond star and may start a steady climb in the Boston Red Sox organization.

Dean played under Coach Jim Mallory at East Carolina following his successful prep days at Lenior, N. C. The red-head only played one year for the Pirates as he was signed off the ECC campus in 1957.

His freshman season as a Pirate saw him gain a starting berth at first base, stepping into the footsteps of a departed All-Conference first sacker, Nick Smothers. He immediately became an offensive terror in the North State loop, hitting at a .330 pace and connecting with the long ball occasionally.

Mallory Has Confidence In Robbins

Coach Jim Mallory always had high praise for the Lenior youth and felt that he was a good prospect although he questioned the fact whether he was ready or not when he signed.

Mallory's second-guessing came true as Robbins had his troubles last season. After starting off with Raleigh, he had his ailments and was sent down to Waterloo to gain some experience.

Robbins came around at Waterloo under coaches Bobby Doerr, Rudy York and his present tutor, Ken Deal. He finished the season with a .290 mark after a slow start.

Popular With Local Fans

Robbins has been moved to the outfield since joining the Red Sox chain and the change has been favorable. "I prefer the outfield to first base," Robbins stated. "I seem to hit better when I'm in the lineup as an outfielder."

Popular with the local fans, Dean is the only Tar Heel native on the Raleigh squad. He has raised his average to .285 after a slow start and was instrumental in the spurt which carried the Caps to first place.

Ken Deal, Cap manager, put it bluntly. "Robbins started hitting and we started winning." Dean batted a fat .410 in the Caps 15-game winning streak and drove in 12 runs.

The likeable red-head has continued his college education in the winter and may return to East Carolina this year as a Red Sox hero instead of plagued with various uncertainties as of last year.

James Has No-Hitter

Billy James, a fire-balling righthander who can play almost any position on the field, became the first Teen-er League pitcher to hurl a no-hitter this season as he blanked the first half winners, State Bank, last night. James was in trouble only in the first as he pitched his masterpiece.

A rising sophomore at Rose High, Bill plays all three sports and was a regular on the Greenville diamond club this past spring.

The turning point in yesterday's All-Star game could very well have come in the eighth inning when Stengel replaced Louie Aparicio, the great fielding shortstop, with his own Gid McDougald.

The Nationals proceeded to collect back-to-back singles in the eighth and both were just out of the reach of McDougald. Aparicio, probably the top defensive infielder in the leagues, might have made both plays.

Stengel could not be criticised harshly because he used a pinch-hitter for Aparicio when the American League club had a rally going and the spunky short-stop isn't considered as a real danger with the bat.

Odds and Ends

Ronnie Finch hurled the first three innings in the recent All-Star game between the East and West in the Beaufort County League. The southpaw pitched one hit ball and held the East scoreless although not receiving credit for the win. Charlie Bishop, former ECC graduate, was a member of Finch's All-Star squad. . . . Jim Perry, ace Cleveland Indian reliever, was at his home in Wilmington during the All-Star break. . . . The College Union at East Carolina College will sponsor a Table Tennis Tournament this Saturday. Entries from Greenville and all other areas in Virginia, North and South Carolina are invited.

The Moose, struggling to remain in the Tar Heel race, had a narrow escape in their encounter yesterday, scoring a run in the final inning to nip the Exchange 5-4.

The victory kept the Moose hopes of a tie alive as they moved within a game of the league-leading Elks. The win set the stage for Friday's meeting of the loop leaders.

With the game tied at 4-4, Larry Godwin worked Jimmie Hale for a walk in the sixth inning after one man was out. Charles Hudson blasted a double and then Richard Cox who had just come in the game in the fifth, lashed out a game winning single.

No-Hitter
Tuesday By Billy James

Billy James hurled the first no-hitter of the Teen-er League season last night as he and his teammates blasted three State Bank pitchers to give Guaranty a one-sided 18-2 win over the first half season champions.

The crew-cut righthander struck out eight men in hurling his masterpiece although he had his control troubles. The first inning saw State Bank cash in on two walks and an error to score their only runs of the game.

Guaranty struck back with a single run in the first and then James poked a homer in the second with one male on base to put his club out front for good. Guaranty Bank hitters had a field day in the third inning as they batted around in scoring ten runs and administering State Bank their worst defeat of the season.

Romey Brock, Guaranty Bank third baseman, joined James in the hitting honors as he had a triple, double and single.

Stengel Hints Changes In 2nd All-Star Game

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP)—Manager Fred Haney plans to use the same starting lineup in next month's All-Star game in Los Angeles as the one which defeated the American League 5-4 for the National League's first victory in three years.

The American League squad, however, may have a few new faces. That was losing manager Casey Stengel's ill-concealed threat Tuesday after his athletes let the game slip out of their hands after coming from behind with a three-run rally in the top of the eighth inning.

"I got four or five fellows in mind I'd like to have for the next game," he said. "And I'm going to use a couple of them, too. And nobody is going to pick 'em but me."

Stengel didn't single out any player for the blame in the defeat but he made no bones about the fact that he wasn't satisfied with the pitching of Whitey Ford, his own star left-hander on the Yankees.

Ford was on the mound when the Nationals roared back with two runs in the bottom half of the eighth to overcome a 4-3 deficit.

Stengel also might have felt that if Mickey Mantle, his limping slugger, had been playing in center field, he might have caught up with Willie Mays' booming triple in the eighth that drove in the payoff run.

The ball, which Mays later admitted was the hardest he has hit all season, sailed over Harvey Kuenn's head and bounced against the right-center field wall. Kuenn, Detroit's right fielder, had replaced Al Kaline in center. Mantle, who normally would have played there, was in right field because of a sprained ankle.

When asked whether he thought Mantle would have caught the ball, Stengel growled: "You want me to put the rap on my players but I won't do it. I don't want to take anything away from Mays. It was no soft fly ball he hit, you know."

Although he was careful not to say anything that might be construed as criticism of his players, Casey indicated he was not very happy with their play. "They (the Nationals) played worse than we did," he said. "But they won and that's what counts. Those guys were lucky we didn't score more runs in the eighth, or else they were just playing with us when they let us fill the bases twice. It took a great catch to beat us."

Casey probably was referring to Hank Aaron's fine catch off Gus Triandos with two mates on base. That occurred in the fourth inning when the Americans scored their first run, on Kaline's homer. Two hits followed but Aaron prevented further scoring with his running catch in right center.

"To tell you the truth, I thought we were going to stay ahead after we got ahead in the eighth," Stengel said. "I had my knuckleballer (Hoyt Wilhelm) all ready to pitch the ninth but I never got a chance. Anyway, it was a good game. I don't want to criticize anybody."

Haney, on the other hand, had nothing but praise for all his players. The little Milwaukee skipper, happy as a lark over his team's come-from-behind triumph, hailed his first win in two All-Star managerial efforts, a team victory.

"You all saw it," he ejaculated. "It was a team victory all the way. They were all great. I defy anybody to single out any one player. Mays was great; Aaron was great; Banks was great; but so was Temple and Mathews and Crandall and Drysdale. We had some fine pitching and defensive work. Heck everybody was great."

Haney declined to take any credit even though it was his strategy that set up the tying run in the eighth inning when the Nationals scored twice to overcome a 4-3 deficit. Kenny Boyer of St. Louis, batting for winning pitcher Johnny Antonelli, singled to open it. Haney sent up Pittsburgh's Dick Groat to hit for Eddie Mathews although the National League's home run leader had socked a four-bagger in the opening inning. Groat laid down a neat sacrifice and Aaron came through with a sharp single to score Boyer with the tying run.

Mays then unloaded his triple, scoring Aaron with the payoff run. "Good strategy," Haney laughed. "Well, when it works, you're a genius. When it doesn't, look out."

Haney made just two changes, at second and third base. Six players—Mays, Aaron, Banks, Orlando Cepeda, Wally Moon and Del Crandall—went all the way.

"I'll play it the same way in L. A.," he said.

Stengel used 22 players, one short of the record. He had six different men batting in the seventh spot.

Antonelli, who threw six pitches in putting out the fire in the eighth, was credited with the victory but the best pitching was done by Don Drysdale. The Los Angeles right-hander, honored with the starting assignment, retired all nine batters he faced, striking out four. Lew Burdette scored Aaron with the payoff run. "Good strategy," Haney laughed. "Well, when it works, you're a genius. When it doesn't, look out."

The White Sox play three with Kansas City after the Indians' win, then have three at Boston and four at New York.

The Yankees, five games behind in fourth place, compared to an 11-game lead at this time a year ago, play six games with the Red Sox in six days, five at Boston.

The Red Sox put an end to their skid at seven games by sweeping a pair at Baltimore Sunday, giving new manager Bill Jurges a 2-1 record.

That sweep dropped third-place Baltimore 4½ games behind. The Orioles play five games at Washington before returning home for four games with Kansas City and four with the Tigers.

Detroit, still fifth after dropping three in a row to Cleveland, now trail by six. The Tigers play three with the As before tangling with the Indians again this weekend.

There will be no radio broadcast.

Promoter Cal Eaton predicted a crowd of 15,000 or more would pay upward of $150,000 to see the match, which serves as a kickoff sports event for Los Angeles' new 6 million dollar Memorial sports arena.

"I am ready to fight one to 15 rounds. I fully expect to win," said Halimi. "I promised my people and the president of Mexico I would win the championship," said the 23-year-old contender with the aid of an interpreter.

Halimi, in the second defense of the title he won April 1, 1957, will pick up a guarantee of $65,000. If he loses, he has a guarantee for a rematch within 90 days.

Becerra settled for $20,000 for a shot at the championship. The fight will be scored on a 10-point per round basis.

Major League Free-For-All
Resumes Again Thursday

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

With the first leg of the All-Star series out of the way, major league baseball now gets back to the pennant races, jumping into a swift schedule that could change the scrambles almost overnight.

The free-for-all gets started again Thursday night, although Boston's last-place Red Sox play at New York tonight in a make-up game on the American League schedule.

The National League, a 5-4 winner over the AL in the first All-Star game of the season Tuesday—August 3—picks up the pennant race with Milwaukee's Braves in first place by .003 percentage points over San Francisco and a half-game over third-place Los Angeles.

The Braves, who had a one-game lead—over the Giants—at this stage while winning their second straight flag last season, resume play with a three-game series at Milwaukee against the Dodgers, then play two against the Giants.

San Francisco plays three at Cincinnati before moving into Milwaukee. The Dodgers have two with the Reds, struggling in seventh with Manager Mayo Smith rumored on the way out, after leaving the Braves.

Fourth-place Pittsburgh, 3½ games out of first, is at home for three games with fifth-place Chicago and two with sixth-place St. Louis.

The immediate American League schedule is just as hot. First-place Cleveland, ahead by two games, is at Chicago for two games with the second-place White Sox Thursday and Friday. The Indians then are at home for a three-game series with Detroit—then play four games at New York.

The White Sox play three with Kansas City after the Indians' win, then have three at Boston and four at New York.

The Yankees, five games behind in fourth place, compared to an 11-game lead at this time a year ago, play six games with the Red Sox in six days, five at Boston.

Brantley Register banged out a double in the initial inning to pace the big rally. The Lions were also aided by five base on balls.

The winners came up with four more in the third while Danny Joyner and Melvin Hudson were holding the Kiwanis scoreless.

Joyner, the starter, ran into trouble in the first inning as he gave up all three of the Kiwanis runs.

Both teams have only one game left in the second half of the season play. The Lions final game will come today when they meet the Texaco.

Three Two-Team
Fights Shape Up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Carolina League shaped up today into three two-team fights for first, third and fifth places. Raleigh lost 8-5 to Alamance and Wilson knocked Greensboro 12-3 in a sequence which moved second-place Wilson back to 1½ games behind league-leading Raleigh.

Third-place Durham's 7-1 triumph over Winston-Salem carried it 1½ games over Winston-Salem. Alamance's victory pulled it out of the cellar by percentage points over sixth-place Greensboro.

Jack Kelley hurled a five-hitter for Wilson to break Greensboro's winning streak at five in a row. Larry Elliott's three-run homer in the sixth was the big blow for the winners.

The seventh and eighth hitters in the Alamance lineup batted in seven of their team's eight runs for the triumph over Raleigh.

Mike White hit a three-run homer and drove in another with a single. Tom Newton tripled home a run and singled in two others.

Fireballer Larry Foster helped Durham snap a three-game losing streak. He held Winston-Salem to four hits after his bid for a no-hitter was ruined by a three-blow outburst in the eighth.

The league shift tonight with Wilson moving to Winston-Salem, Greensboro to Alamance and Raleigh to Durham.

gave up one run in the middle three innings.

Elroy Face, Pittsburgh's unbeaten relief pitcher, was the victim of the Americans' eighth-inning outburst. After retiring the first five batters he faced, Elroy suddenly lost his stuff, yielding three hits and two walks with two out in the eighth. The most damaging blow was Triandos' bases-loaded double.

Ted Williams drew a walk as a pinch hitter in the midst of the rally. Stan Musial had popped out in a pinch hit role earlier in the game.

Whitey Ford Has
Mays On Mind

PITTSBURGH (AP)—"That Mays" muttered southpaw Whitey Ford after Tuesday's All-Star game. "He hits me like he owns me."

The Yankee pitcher referred to Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants who tripped off him in the eighth to drive in the winning run for the Nationals.

MAN WHO MISSED THE MOON

by EDMOND HAMILTON

Story by Edmund Hamilton. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

Jon Wilson pointed to the stair and said cruelly, "Down there, Thayne Marden."

"You might as well stop this nonsense and come with me to Ruruma," she said. "You know it won't be long before other Vramen come to look for me."

"They're not all as clever as you," Jon Wilson said. "And we now have you as a hostage. Go on."

The hatred in his deep eyes was mirrored in the faces of the others. Lund's face, in particular, was deadly as he looked at the Vramen woman.

Thayne shrugged and started down the little stair. They followed, leaving Tammam and another man on guard in the lookout.

Thayne's cool blue eyes missed no detail of the machines and lab in the rooms through which they went. And the astronomical charts upon the walls of Wilson's room instantly attracted her attention.

"So, you're attempting to build an illegal star-ship," she said. "Not attempting," Wilson said. "We're doing it."

Thayne frowned. "But you've only begun. This can't be the illegal ship we tracked on radar some time ago. You have another ship."

Wilson pointed to Kirk Hammond. "It was his craft you tracked. Do you want to know where it came from?"

"Yes," Wilson told her. The telling took quite a few minutes and in that time Hammond felt the Vramen woman's eyes searching every detail of his appearance. But her face showed only complete incredulity as Wilson finished.

"I don't know what part of your conspiracy this man represents," she said, "but it's a foolish hoax."

"No hoax, Marden," said Wilson. "You know all about hypothermia. He really comes from that time. Every bit of evidence about him proves it."

"How would you know?" retorted Thayne. "Even we know little about that remote age. And what would be the time that time being with you outlaws?"

"He's one of us now," Wilson said. "And when our ship is built he'll go with us to the Trifid, to Althar."

There was a moment of silence. Thayne's face did not change but it seemed to Hammond that it hid a deep and powerful emotion.

"No," she said finally in a low voice. "Oh, no, you will never go to Althar."

"But we will," said Wilson quietly. "And whatever the secret of life may be that you have hidden there, we'll find it."

"You are children," whispered Thayne. "You talk of things you do not know. If you knew what really lies at Althar..."

"You know," said Wilson. "That's why you're valuable to us. When our ship goes there it will not have any detonator in it, which eliminates one danger. You will help to eliminate any others by telling us exactly what and where they are."

Thayne's blue eyes flashed. "I will tell you nothing. You should know the Vramen better than that."

Wilson's face was gaunt and somber, unyielding as iron. "You will tell, and what you tell will be the truth. You will tell it under the encephaloprobe."

Thayne's face tightened. She said, "You don't have one."

"We can build one. There are workers from many fields among us who are quite familiar with the encephaloprobe. And if you try to resist, then—"

"You can destroy my mind but you will learn nothing," Thayne said. She added bitterly, "The encephaloprobe itself is one of the things that Vramen science gave you."

Wilson ignored that. He said, "It will take some time to construct a probe. You have that long to reconsider your decision. Don't mistake me. The thing will be used on you — and if you try to resist it, what happens will be your own doing." He turned abruptly. "Quobba, lock her in the small empty storeroom at the end of the north corridor. And set a guard outside the door."

Kirk Hammond felt a vague oppression as he watched the Vramen woman led away. He went out into the corridor and looked after her and Quobba.

Iva Wilson came out too, and he turned to her and asked, "What did she mean, destroy her mind? What's this encephaloprobe they were talking about?"

"It's an instrument psychotechnicians use," Iva said. "It has a long name but that's what people call it. It reads brains."

Hammond looked at her incredulously.

"It's true," she said. "I'm not a scientist, but the probe is common knowledge. It scans the synaptic patterns of a living brain and translates them into coded symbols. Of course, it can't scan everything in a person's brain, but it can search out the things most deeply imprinted on his memory."

"But — how would it destroy her mind?"

"If the subject resists the probe with all his will, it may wreck his main synapses and shatter his mind," Iva explained.

Hammond felt a thrill of horror. "It sounds ghastly. Surely your father wouldn't use such a thing?"

"Our lives, the fate of all Hoomen, may depend on this," Iva said. "Yes, he would use it." She looked challengingly at him and asked, "Is it because Thayne is so beautiful that you hate the idea?"

Hammond smiled.

"She is beautiful. But she's not human like us at all," Iva said. "The Vramen are loveless and childless, caring only for knowledge and power. Don't be deceived by her beauty."

Hammond saw that Iva's face was flushed, her dark eyes brilliant with some strong emotion.

"Why, Iva, you sound a little jealous," he said, and grinned.

She did not think it was funny. "If you think that," she snapped and turned sharply away. "your time Hammond felt the Vramen woman's eyes searching every detail of his appearance. But her face showed only complete incredulity as Wilson finished."

Just before darkness fell on the upper world, Shau Tammam was relieved and came down from his hours in the lookout with disquieting information.

"Two Vramen fliers went up the coast an hour ago and then came back. They're already looking for Marden."

Jon Wilson nodded grimly. "Pass the order to everyone — and be sure they understand. No one, for any reason whatsoever, is to go out onto the surface."

Looking at them, Hammond felt a sudden cold doubt that he knew these Hoomen at all. He had thought he knew them; in the long period of his recuperation and learning they had become familiar friends to him, people like the people of his own time.

Jon Wilson seemed like many a stubborn, upright man he had known in the old days, struggling indomitably for what he believed in. And yet Wilson was planning to do things to the Vramen woman that made Hammond wince back in repulsion.

Well, he had made his decision and it was right. He would go forward with the Hoomen and fight on their side. For the Vramen to own all space and dominate all its worlds was a wrong thing.

Too many men, back even to his own Twentieth Century, had died to win space for that to be suffered.

Imagine Kirk Hammond's feelings when a woman confesses to him, "I'm a little more than two hundred years old," as the story continues here tomorrow.

Wilson's face was gaunt and somber, unyielding as iron. "You will tell, and what you tell will be the truth. You will tell it under the encephaloprobe."

Thayne's face tightened. She said, "You don't have one."

"We can build one. There are workers from many fields among us who are quite familiar with the encephaloprobe. And if you try to resist, then—"

"You can destroy my mind but you will learn nothing," Thayne said. She added bitterly, "The encephaloprobe itself is one of the things that Vramen science gave you."

"If the subject resists the probe with all his will, it may wreck his main synapses and shatter his mind," Iva explained.

Hammond felt a thrill of horror. "It sounds ghastly. Surely your father wouldn't use such a thing?"

"Our lives, the fate of all Hoomen, may depend on this," Iva said. "Yes, he would use it." She looked challengingly at him and asked, "Is it because Thayne is so beautiful that you hate the idea?"

Hammond smiled.

"She is beautiful. But she's not human like us at all," Iva said. "The Vramen are loveless and childless, caring only for knowledge and power. Don't be deceived by her beauty."

Hammond saw that Iva's face was flushed, her dark eyes brilliant with some strong emotion.

"Why, Iva, you sound a little jealous," he said, and grinned.

She did not think it was funny. "If you think that," she snapped

and turned sharply away. "your time Hammond felt the Vramen woman's eyes searching every detail of his appearance. But her face showed only complete incredulity as Wilson finished."

Just before darkness fell on the upper world, Shau Tammam was relieved and came down from his hours in the lookout with disquieting information.

"Two Vramen fliers went up the coast an hour ago and then came back. They're already looking for Marden."

Jon Wilson nodded grimly. "Pass the order to everyone — and be sure they understand. No one, for any reason whatsoever, is to go out onto the surface."

Looking at them, Hammond felt a sudden cold doubt that he knew these Hoomen at all. He had thought he knew them; in the long period of his recuperation and learning they had become familiar friends to him, people like the people of his own time.

Jon Wilson seemed like many a stubborn, upright man he had known in the old days, struggling indomitably for what he believed in. And yet Wilson was planning to do things to the Vramen woman that made Hammond wince back in repulsion.

Well, he had made his decision and it was right. He would go forward with the Hoomen and fight on their side. For the Vramen to own all space and dominate all its worlds was a wrong thing.

Too many men, back even to his own Twentieth Century, had died to win space for that to be suffered.

Imagine Kirk Hammond's feelings when a woman confesses to him, "I'm a little more than two hundred years old," as the story continues here tomorrow.

Wilson's face was gaunt and somber, unyielding as iron. "You will tell, and what you tell will be the truth. You will tell it under the encephaloprobe."

Thayne's face tightened. She said, "You don't have one."

"We can build one. There are workers from many fields among us who are quite familiar with the encephaloprobe. And if you try to resist, then—"

"You can destroy my mind but you will learn nothing," Thayne said. She added bitterly, "The encephaloprobe itself is one of the things that Vramen science gave you."

Wilson ignored that. He said, "It will take some time to construct a probe. You have that long to reconsider your decision. Don't mistake me. The thing will be used on you — and if you try to resist it, what happens will be your own doing."

He turned abruptly. "Quobba, lock her in the small empty storeroom at the end of the north corridor. And set a guard outside the door."

Kirk Hammond felt a vague oppression as he watched the Vramen woman led away. He went out into the corridor and looked after her and Quobba.

Iva Wilson came out too, and he turned to her and asked, "What did she mean, destroy her mind? What's this encephaloprobe they were talking about?"

"It's an instrument psychotechnicians use," Iva said. "It has a long name but that's what people call it. It reads brains."

Hammond looked at her incredulously.

"It's true," she said. "I'm not a scientist, but the probe is common knowledge. It scans the synaptic patterns of a living brain and translates them into coded symbols. Of course, it can't scan everything in a person's brain, but it can search out the things most deeply imprinted on his memory."

"But — how would it destroy her mind?"

"If the subject resists the probe with all his will, it may wreck his main synapses and shatter his mind," Iva explained.

Hammond felt a thrill of horror. "It sounds ghastly. Surely your father wouldn't use such a thing?"

"Our lives, the fate of all Hoomen, may depend on this," Iva said. "Yes, he would use it." She looked challengingly at him and asked, "Is it because Thayne is so beautiful that you hate the idea?"

Soda Shop, Book Store At ECC Now Being Equipped

Installation at East Carolina College

College of an additional lounge and soda shop for students and relocation of the College Book Store, both on the first floor of the new South Dining Hall on the West Campus, are projects now underway at the college. The new facilities are expected to be ready for use by the beginning of the fall quarter. Both will be operated on a self-service basis.

Lack of space and consequent crowded conditions in both the College Book and Stationery Store, now located in the College Union on the East Campus, make advisable the use of the first floor of the South Dining Hall to relieve the situation, according to East Carolina Vice President and Business Manager F. D. Duncan.

The new facilities, he stated, will provide convenient and economical service on the West Campus.

The east half of the 1500 square feet of floor space available in the new South Dining Hall, Director Mahlon J. Coles of the College Union and Student Stores stated, will be used for the soda shop. Lounge furniture and chairs and tables are now being placed there. Seating space for 100 students, as compared to accommodations for 40 in the College Union Soda Shop, will be provided, he said. Soft drinks, sandwiches, and other light refreshments will be on sale. The College Book Store will be moved from its present location in the College Union to the west side of the first floor of the new South Dining Hall.

In the new store textbooks will be arranged so that students may make their own selections in the stacks and pay a cashier as they leave the store.

This arrangement, according to Mr. Coles, will result in speed and economy of operation.

After the removal of book supplies, the College Stationery Store will have additional space, Mr. Coles explained.

The new South Dining Hall at the College, East Carolina's fourth cafeteria, was completed last March. The dining room proper is located on the main floor of the building. The first floor has not been equipped for use until the present.

Preamble: The position of the Life Underwriter is unique in that he is the liaison between his client and his company. As a life insurance advisor he owes a high professional duty toward his client, while, at the same time, he also occupies a position of trust and loyalty to his company. Only by observing the highest ethical balance can he avoid any conflict between these two obligations. Therefore:

I Believe it to be my Responsibility . . .

To hold my business in high esteem and strive to maintain its prestige. To keep the needs of my clients always uppermost. To respect my clients' confidence and hold in trust personal information. To render continuous service to my clients and their beneficiaries. To employ every proper and legitimate means to persuade my clients to protect insurable obligations; but to rigidly adhere to the observance of the highest standards of business and professional conduct. To present accurately, honestly, and completely every fact essential to my clients' decisions. To perfect my skill and to add to my knowledge through continuous thought and study. To conduct my business on such a high plane that others emulating my example may help the standards of our vocation. To keep myself informed with respect to insurance laws and regulations and to observe them in both letter and spirit. To respect the prerogatives and cooperate with all others whose services are constructively related to ours in meeting the needs of our clients.

Not Bitter Over Prison Sentence

LONDON (AP) — A slight 38-year-old widow whose jailing shocked Britain emerged from prison Monday without bitterness.

"I did wrong and I have had my punishment," said Effitha Christos on leaving Holloway Prison after serving a month.

Her wrong was to keep quiet about doing sewing for extra money to support her four sick children while drawing government relief.

The jailing aroused protests in Parliament and in the newspapers, and Mrs. Christos' two-month sentence was halved on appeal.

Friends have found a job for her.

Michigan's Governor And Kozlov In Verbal Duel; Russian Termed Shrewd

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen Williams said Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was a shrewd and tough and it will take a Yankee trader to beat him.

Williams made the appraisal Tuesday night after what he called a "knock down and drag out" verbal fight with Kozlov.

The six-term Democratic governor, who has the backing of his state party for the presidential nomination in 1960, appeared to feel he had the better of his sparring with Kozlov as he described it to a news conference.

Kozlov leaves today for a three-day visit in Chicago.

For an hour Williams and Kozlov had a private conference in a Detroit hotel room following Kozlov's tour of industrial Detroit. Williams said he fired a series of written questions at the deputy premier. Then he said they argued through their own interpreters and at one point Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov got worried and intervened.

Williams said Kozlov flared up at a question of self-determination and free elections for the Soviet Union's European satellites.

Williams said Kozlov argued that the people of East Germany and other Soviet satellites had made their choice and that anything to the contrary was propaganda.

Adm. Harry Yarnell Dies After Illness

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Adm. Harry E. Yarnell, U.S.N. (ret), 83, who helped form the United States' firm policy in the Far East immediately before World War II, died Tuesday at the Newport Naval Hospital.

He had been hospitalized for two weeks. The cause of death was not announced.

Adm. Yarnell was commander of the Asiatic fleet when the Japanese sank the U.S. gunboat Panay on the Yangtze River in China in 1937. He was instrumental in bringing about the Japanese payment of $2,000,000 indemnity for the incident.

He served for many years in the Far East and was given a free hand in meeting diplomatic problems on the spot. He said

Animal Trouble For Railway Is A Growing Item

PORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — To say the Burlington railway lines are having trouble with animals would be putting it mildly.

On June 24, an armadillo wandered onto the tracks near Waxahachie, 35 miles southeast of here, and derailed a small motor-driven car. A train supervisor, Bill Moore, was bruised severely.

The same day, a rattlesnake slithered out of weeds near Childress, in the Texas Panhandle, and bit a section gang employee, F. A. Mitchell. He recovered.

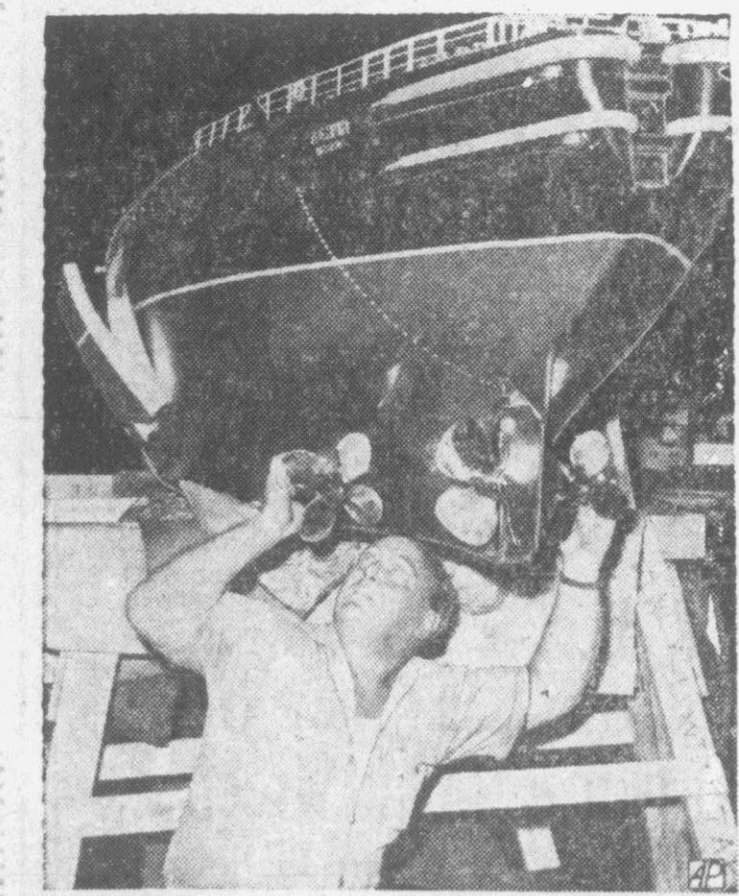

Monday night, a tiger gnawed its way out of a cage in a baggage car as a passenger train neared Colorado Springs, Colo. Baggage men promptly turned the car over to the big cat until the train reached Colorado Springs, where they managed to shoo the tiger into an empty boxcar.

Just Trying To Talk To Spouse

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Delores Pride, 26, pleading guilty to a reckless driving charge, told the court she was just trying to talk to her husband when her automobile struck another car from the rear.

Police said the car ahead was driven by the husband, Robert Pride, 27.

Mrs. Pride said she chased the other car for six blocks "because the driver was my husband." Pride told the court he thought a holdup man was pursuing him. Mrs. Pride was fined $50.

The governor said he told Kozlov that Soviet tanks "ruthlessly put down a revolt in East Germany six years ago."

"I pointed out that Poland, one of the most Catholic countries in the world, had been deprived of freedom of religion," Williams said.

"I told him that in Hungary the Soviets agreed to withdraw and did, but came back with Soviet tanks and troops and imposed their will on the people. I told him the Romanian people certainly did not feel the regime represented them."

"He told me that all I heard was a lot of propaganda. I told him the American people would not believe a single word he said."

The governor said that on the matter of the East German uprising Ambassador Menshikov put

Jail 2 More In Dynamite Plot

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — Two more men have been arrested in connection with an attempt June 26 to dynamite a power transformer serving Great Lakes Carbon Corp., bringing to four the number arrested in the case.

The State Bureau of Investigation, in announcing the arrests Tuesday night, said more arrests may be made.

The two, Ben C. Watkins Jr., 35, and Manley Harrison, 31, both of Rt. 2, Morganton, were charged with conspiracy and jailed in lieu of $25,000 bond each. They were to be given a preliminary hearing today.

The men previously arrested were David W. Rich, 25, who was charged with illegal use of explosives, and Robert P. Sisk, 48, of Glen Alpine, charged with conspiracy. Sisk was freed Monday on $25,000 bond. Rich remains in jail.

A guard at the Duke Power Co. transformer station said he saw a man trying to light something and fired at him. Dynamite later was found nearby. The incident occurred shortly before an agreement was reached ending a two-month strike by International Chemical Workers Union members.

Rich, who was wounded, pleaded guilty to the charge at his preliminary hearing. Sisk waived preliminary hearing.

Agreement was reached on a new contract June 30, just two months after union employees walked out after a disagreement over production standards.

Leonard W. Shaw, representative of the Chemical Workers, said the union committee probably would sign the pact today.

Beauty Must Go To County Jail

LITTLETON, Colo. (AP) — A former beauty queen who admitted she held up a drug store must serve an indefinite term in the Denver County jail.

She is Dixie Ann Gottfried, 19. Both the defense and prosecuting attorneys had asked that Mrs. Gottfried, Miss Colorado Jaycee last summer, be given probation.

But Dist. Judge H. H. Harrison denied probation, saying Mrs. Gottfried had "chosen to associate with police characters and partake in a serious crime."

Soft Drink Industry Is Also Enjoying Boom

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The weather — no matter what you think of it — is just dandy for the soft drink industry. So is the general recovery in business.

More thirsts are being quenched this year — and often. The industry expects to get well above last year's 2 billion-dollar sales.

"Everyone's excited about the first six month results," says one spokesman, "and the summer looks like a record for us."

But the competition is getting terrific. Whether you drink your favorite carbonated beverage out of a bottle or a can, or get it from a counterman's pump, or make your own from powders or a tablet, you're going to be wooed as never before.

Sales volume fell off in 1958 from the year before, breaking a long line of annual growth. Blamed were last summer's cool and wet weather in many parts of the nation, and the recession which closed many industrial plants, cutting into vending sales that depend so much on impulse selling.

This year factories are humming again. And the weather in most places has been hot and humid — making that impulse for a soft and cooling drink almost compulsive.

The American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages estimated that its part of the industry sold 32½ billion bottles in 1958, off a tenth of one per cent from 1957. But because of higher prices, value of the bottles rose from slightly more than 1¼ billion dollars in 1957 to nearly 1¼ billion in 1958.

Consumption per person slipped to 187 bottles in 1958 from 189½ the previous year. Booming sales so far this year make the bottlers confident that both per capita consumption and dollar value will rise notably.

The Can Manufacturers Institute estimates that 400 million cans of soft drinks were sold in 1958, a five per cent gain over 1957. It says that the first four months of this year found soft drink sales in cans up 43 per cent over the like period of 1958.

Bottlers and canners battle hard for shelf space in supermarkets. Bottlers have big investments in bottles and equipment and have been loathe to turn to cans. But the can makers stress to the supermarkets the chance to rid themselves of deposits, bottle returns, breakage and storage of empties.

Saving even more shelf space are the soft drink powders. Kool-Aid is stepping up promotion to make it a year-round drink.

And now there is the even newer effervescent soft drink tablet developed by Warner-Lambert Pharmaceutical Co. called "Fizzies." The tablets come in sheets of eight, about as big as an ordinary letter. The six flavors are aimed at both the child and adult markets and an artificial sweetener reduces the tablets to four calories.

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralls resumed their rally as the overall stock market churned near its latest record high early this afternoon. Trading was fairly active. Gains and losses of fractions to 1 or 2 points prevailed among key stocks.

The three-day upsurge to record highs left ample room for profit-taking. Some steels backed away sharply.

Marlin Installed By Bethel Rotary

BETHEL — Incoming President, R. L. "Bob" Martin was given the Bethel Rotary Club key by past President Bob Young at the meeting last week. Before leaving Young stated that the club had experienced a net gain in membership during the year and had operated within the budget.

The new president, Martin, commended Young on having done a good job as leader for the year and assured the club he would try to lead it in a good way this year. Martin stated that Rotary needs no justification since it is known all over the world as one of the oldest civic clubs and has given a good account of itself. "We want to have some good programs this year," said the new President, "and I want to allow 25 minutes each time for your program." Martin stated that he wanted to start on time at 6:30 and end on time at 7:30.

Other officers installed include C. W. Everett as vice president, Alvis Mewborn secretary and treasurer. Committee chairmen were also named.

Charlotte's Outstanding Showman SAYS ONE FOR GREENVILLE

Debbie, Bob and Bing captured the hearts of our preview audience: the bells of every heart rang out with praise for "SAY ONE FOR ME." Teenagers, critics, moms and pops, all raved. My personal advice: run, don't walk to see "SAY ONE FOR ME." It's two hours of pure movie magic.

Address By Junius H. Rose Opens Reading Conference

A city school administrator keynote, the Annual State Reading Conference at East Carolina College Wednesday observed that teachers want to make the American educational system better and are willing to accept a challenge to improve the schools of the nation.

Junius H. Rose, Greenville city schools superintendent, declared that school systems, including administrators, teachers, and school boards, must "have a philosophy, a soul and a heart" in the development of processes to help the child in a struggle to prepare for his place in the professions or vocations.

The veteran educator's address opened the conference being directed by Dr. Keith D. Holmes of the East Carolina College Education Department and participated in by a corps of teachers and publishers' consultants in reading.

Superintendent Rose discussed trends in pupil grouping and made a contrast with the systems of automatic promotion, departmentalizing, and platoons. He declared that teachers must read and raise questions, must let the parents of the community know what the schools are doing, and the schools must improve their public relations in order to get across the message of the school program.

Welcoming addresses were made by Dr. J. D. Messick, college president, at the luncheon which was addressed by Dr. Melvin P. Hoot, Greenville physician and consultant in Special Education, who discussed tragic implications of visual and auditory defects regarding a child's reading and academic success, and at the opening session Vice President and Business Manager F. D. Duncan.

A demonstration group from Caswell Training School in Kinston was directed by Mrs. Jo Ann Flowers Sutton, teacher, in the first project of the day and a meeting of the Council for Exceptional Children was conducted by Dr. Bernard Jackson, also of the college Education Department.

Teachers participating in the conference were Mrs. Lindsey Savage, Mrs. Elsie Simpson Eagan, Mrs. Thelma J. Allen, Mrs. Joyce Zeh, Mrs. George S. Franklin, and Mrs. Anna H. Carter, all of the Greenville city schools faculty; Dr. Mary Lols Staton and Dr. Ruth Modlin, ECC Education Department; Mrs. Isabelle Pillow, Houghton, Mifflin Company; R. L. Mansfield, Row, Peterson and Company; Miss Reba Pinney, American Book Company.

In the afternoon 13 reading clinic demonstrations were conducted for elementary and junior high school teachers, and Dr. Holmes appeared on a TV closed circuit demonstration in the Joyner Memorial Library.

Dr. Holmes, professor of education and director of the East Carolina College Reading Laboratory and Clinic, was aided in the demonstrations by 26 clinical assistants.

At the luncheon, a musical feature presented Miss Jane Murray, contralto, as soloist with Miss Ashlyn Mauldin as accompanist.

Fact-Finding Chairmen Named To Study Effects On Children

Pitt County Committee on the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth, meeting Tuesday evening in the Council Room of the Greenville Municipal Building, named Dr. Earl Trevathan as vice chairman and H. Reginald Gray and Junius S. Grimes, III, as joint secretaries.

Four fact-finding committee chairmen were appointed and names of four other committee chairmen will be released later this week.

Initial meeting of the group was presented in attendance by persons from county, agricultural, educational, religious and civic organizations.

Three-fold purpose of the Conference, pointed out by Pitt County Chairman James W. Butler in his introductory statement, is to take stock of the times and its effect upon children, examine achievements since the prior Conference of 1950, and determine what steps should be taken in the future.

Butler pointed out that the fact-finding reports will be consolidated in preparing the Pitt County statement which will be forwarded to the North Carolina State Committee by September 1, and made a part of the state's presentation in the national meeting.

The four committee chairmen were selected and they will complete their committees from citizens in the county. Butler announced. The committee chairmen:

Family Life, Dr. George A. Douglas; Education, Arthur S. Alford; Recreation, Gordon Goodman; Social Services, Junius S. Grimes, III.

Other committee chairmen will head groups studying problems related to health, church-related activities for youth, law enforcement, and employment.

At the reporting meeting in August, existing services will be appraised, evident unmet needs will be discussed and plans considered to attempt to meet these priority needs.

Some areas where there are "gaps" in services to youth were briefly touched upon in the informal discussions at the organizational meeting Tuesday night.

GRIMESLAND — Leslie Elks was named mayor of Grimesland by his four fellow aldermen at an organizational meeting of the board last week.

Elks, an incumbent member of the board, was sworn in along with incumbents J. Dalton Heath and Mrs. Leila Belle Hoyt. Two new aldermen took seats on the board. They are Josh Bell and R. Fred Elks.

Mrs. Della J. Galloway was re-named town clerk for the coming year. She has held the position for the past 15 years. William E. Ennis was re-named chief of Police. Ennis has served as Grimesland's chief for the past five years.

Board members named T. R. Rouse, a deputy Pitt County Tax Collector, as judge of municipal court. That office was created by an act of the 1957 State Legislature.

In years prior to this, the mayor of Grimesland was elected by the voters along with five aldermen. However, an act of the 1957 Legislature changed the town's charter so that the voters elect five aldermen and they in turn elect one of their members as mayor.
