Tobacco Damaged By Sudden Winds

PITT CROP DAMAGE—Heavy winds and rain Friday morning from 1:00 a.m. to 2:30 a.m. damaged tobacco and corn in the Venter Crossroads-Haddocks Crossroads section of Pitt County, east of Ayden. Many tobacco fields, like this, took on a drab look as the plants were blown and beat down by the high winds and heavy rain. No official estimate of the damage could be obtained although one farmer said he thought a neighbor had lost about 20 per cent of his tobacco.

Slightly Less Production Of N. C. Tobacco Forecast

RALEIGH (AP)—Less production from more acreage is the Tar Heel flue-cured tobacco forecast, as the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service sees it.

The agency's first estimates of the 1959 season, released Friday, placed the crop at 723,450,000 pounds from 461,000 acres. This would be about 2 per cent, or 13 1/2 million pounds, less than harvested in 1958 from 32,000 fewer acres.

The forecast was based on conditions as of July 1, and reflected the long, dry June. Rains during the early part of this month reflect an improved outlook when the reporting service gets out its August forecast.

The North Carolina corn crop was estimated at 76,646,000 bushels, which would be 6.7 per cent under record 1958 production. Average yield was placed at 38 bushels, six short of last year's record.

Although flue-cured allotments this year are practically unchanged from last year, abandonment of the Soil Bank resulted in the planting of some 32,000 additional acres.

The reporting service said hot, dry weather had reduced potential yields, thus offsetting the increase in acreage. Harvesting is well along in the Border Belt, and started in a large area of the Eastern Belt. Generally, the crop is one to three weeks earlier than usual.

By belts, North Carolina production, acreage, and yield forecasts:

Middle and Old Belts: 259,550,000 pounds, 179,000 acres, 1,450 pounds per acre yield.

Eastern Belt: 372,900,000 pounds, 226,000 acres, 1,650 pounds yield.

Border Belt: 91,000,000 pounds, 56,000 acres, 1,625 yield.

The Tar Heel burley crop, grown in mountain counties, was forecast at 19,600,000 pounds from 9,800 acres for an average yield of one ton per acre. Last year, production was 18,600,000 pounds.

Three Demo Senators Join Butler's Swelling Critics

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three Democratic senators added their voices today to swelling criticism of National Chairman Paul Butler for his attacks on party congressional leaders.

Sens. John Sparkman (D-Ala.), Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) and Gale W. McGee (D-Wyo.) stoutly defended the course Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson has taken in attempting to tailor legislation to avoid presidential vetoes. Sparkman, Jackson and McGee are rated as liberals on most issues.

Butler will get a chance at an afternoon news conference to comment further on his previously expressed view that the party's congressional leaders are compromising with the GOP administration too often and thus are not welding a program on which the Democrats can win in 1960.

Sparkman, the 1952 vice Presidential nominee, wrote Johnson that what he called Butler's attack "on the record of the Democratic Congress generally and on the Democratic leadership specifically is unjustified and most unfortunate."

"The Congress is right to take into consideration the views of the executive branch," Sparkman said. "We would be wrong to strive only for issues and to disregard the importance of enacting greatly needed legislation."

"Just because the President and his advisers have chosen to play politics with the people's welfare does not make it wise or advisable for a Democratic Congress to do likewise."

Sparkman said Butler's duty is "to encourage, not to criticize extravagantly; to help bridge differences, not to widen them; to work for party unity, not party disunity," adding:

"By his unfair criticism of you, he has demonstrated extreme partiality when he should be impartial."

Jackson said he thinks Butler used poor judgment in broadcasting on television an attack on the leaders. He said it was pretty late for the National Chairman to try to explain them away.

"If he had these complaints in mind the first place to air them was with the leaders and not over TV," Jackson said. "So far as I know, he has never registered any of his complaints with Democratic members of Congress."

McGee said in a separate interview he regards Butler's tactics as unfortunate.

"In the first place the record of the Democratic Senate is good this far and, in the second place, we haven't completed our work yet," he said.

McGee said he thinks it's fine for individual Democratic senators to advocate progressive action and to propose long-range programs. But he said the Senate's party leader has different responsibilities.

"The majority leader is not completely free to play politics," McGee said. "He has the responsibility of producing legislation and, as everyone knows, that is always a process of compromise."

Navy Ships In Mediterranean Said Tiring, But Do Their Job

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Reporter

ABOARD THE USS INTREPID (AP)—"This old tub, now in the Mediterranean, pushed to its limits—and so are most of the aging ships in the U.S. Navy."

That sums up the opinion of many of the officers aboard this 17-year-old work horse of the world's waterways. But these same officers insist that the Intrepid, with all her aches and wrinkles of age, is the best ship in the Navy, and the happiest ship. She is an aircraft carrier, part of the U.S. 6th Fleet.

The high morale aboard the Intrepid reflects the caliber of her key officers—the skipper, Capt. Paul Masterton of Paterson, N.J.; the executive officer, Cmdr. Malcolm W. (Chris) Cagle, Knoxville, Tenn.; and on down the line.

They are proud of the Intrepid's record of launching and recovering planes. In June the ship set a new mark for itself of more than 1,500 airplane landings. By the end of July the Intrepid will have had more than 37,000 landings since her deck was angled and fitted with steam catapults in a modernization and conversion program, 1954-1957.

"I have a superb group of young men aboard, and they do a remarkable job," says Masterton. "The ship is old and tiring in spots, but they get a lot out of her."

To which Cmdr. William W. Kelly, New Castle, Pa., the ship's air officer, adds: "We are convinced that the Intrepid is the best ship in the Navy. We mount more sorties, steam more miles than anyone else. That can-do spirit in the carriers makes up for the shortcomings associated with the age of the equipment."

Even so Navy officers and some congressmen recognize that many World War II ships are approaching the period in which they can no longer meet requirements of modern aircraft and weapons.

Cmdr. Andrew B. Connor of Hampton, Va., the Intrepid's air group commander, says most World War II carriers are nearing the limit of their ability to handle new types of fast and heavy jet aircraft. He and other officers point to the Forrestal class and atomic powered carriers as forerunners of a modern fleet.

Meanwhile, says Connor, "We have the best weapons system available to meet an emergency situation that ends up in limited conflict."

"We can and do serve effectively as a deterrent, to contain the enemy at any spot where he wants to start trouble. At the same time, our aircraft have the same retaliatory terms, of nuclear capability."

Steel Industry Spokesman Sees No Chance For Averting Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel industry said today it saw no possibility of a contract agreement to avert a strike at midnight next Tuesday.

In announcing this, R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, said there was no other recourse but to notify steel firms later today to begin shutting down.

After an hour long negotiating session with the steelworkers union, Cooper said, "I regret to announce we see no possibility of an agreement."

Cooper said no further negotiating session was scheduled with union President David J. McDonald until Sunday morning, "but the outlook for an agreement is not hopeful."

The industry spokesman said the companies again had asked the union to extend labor contracts indefinitely so bargaining talks could continue while plants remained in operation.

Cooper said the union rejected any further contract extension beyond the two-week truce expiring at midnight Tuesday.

The two-week postponement of an earlier steel strike threat on July 1 was granted by the union at President Eisenhower's request for more negotiating time. But the union last Wednesday turned down Eisenhower's plea for a further contract extension.

Cooper broke off the practice of joint industry-union announcements to meet the reporters this morning in announcing the industry's view that it now appears no strike-free solution appeared possible.

So far, it was reliably reported from both sides that the top dozen steel firms have stood firm on their refusal to raise wages or benefits resulting in any cost increases.

Instead, the industry bargaining team headed by R. Conrad Cooper, U.S. Steel Corp. vice president, has been insisting on contract changes that would give steel firms more leeway in making work assignments and otherwise slashing operating costs.

David J. McDonald, Steelworkers Union president, has pledged "no backward step" from present contract terms.

But the industry has indicated it may come up with a money offer if the union gives ground on allowing more management prerogatives.

The bargaining was proceeding at an accelerated pace with many steel firms planning to start Sunday on the job of cooling open hearths and blast furnaces to get ready for a possible Tuesday night walkout.

This is a costly operation that the industry would like to avoid if it sees any chance of a peaceful settlement.

McDonald has called his union's executive board and 171 - major wage-policy committee to meet here Monday to consider either any settlement plan or strike preparations.

It was still impossible to tell whether the stepped-up talks would avert a walkout of half a million steel unionists that would close down about 90 per cent of the nation's steel-making facilities.

It was indicated the union's rock-bottom terms are about 10 cents an hour. Workers now earn about $3.10 per hour.

Escapee

An 18-year-old Greenville, Route 5, youth, serving a life sentence in a Columbia, S. C. prison for murder, escaped sometime last night and is still at large.

The Superintendent of the Prison Department at Columbia notified local officials of the breakout about 6:45 a.m. today. According to the Superintendent, Wayne Harris, 18, of Route 5, Box 19, Greenville, escaped by breaking through the rear of the building.

The South Carolina official said a car bearing North Carolina license plates was seen parked outside the building just prior to the discovery of the escape.

Harris was tried and sentenced to life in prison for the murder of a Charleston ABC Store operator last year.

Chief Highway Engineer Rogers Resigns Office

RALEIGH (AP)—W. H. Rogers Jr. Friday resigned as chief highway engineer rather than take another job, he considered a demotion.

The State Highway Commission announced Friday that with Rogers' resignation, effective July 31, the position of chief engineer will be consolidated in the office of Cameron W. Lee, assistant highway director.

Highway Director W. F. Babcock, in a letter accepting Rogers' resignation, said it was felt that combining the jobs would give "an even closer and more effective operation at the administrative level."

However, Rogers made it clear he felt he was forced out. In a letter dated July 6, he informed Babcock that he found unacceptable the director's proposal "for me to accept a position in the department other than that I now have so as to permit you to assign another person... as chief engineer."

Both Babcock and Chairman J. Melville Broughton of the highway commission expressed regret at Rogers' decision to resign.

Another top-level personnel change announced by the commission was the retirement of Louis W. Payne, 69, as assistant chief engineer for administration, effective Oct. 1, and appointment of Ivan (Sig) Hardesty as his successor.

Rogers, 63, was one of the last top-level holdovers from the wholesale reorganization of the highway department by the 1957 Legislature, at Gov. Hodges' urging. Rogers, a veteran of 27 years with the commission, was named chief engineer by the late Gov. W. Kerr Scott in 1949.

Lee, 44, will become chief engineer and assistant highway director on Aug. 1.

Tonight, A New Miss N. Carolina

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—A lovely new Miss North Carolina will be crowned here tonight, and a leggy preacher's daughter holds a slim lead over the shapely field.

Lisa Melton, 18-year-old Miss Roanoke Rapids, enters the final judging as the only double winner of the first three nights of preliminary judging.

The long-legged Lisa swirled through an original ballet routine from the overture of "Gigi" Friday night to win in the talent division. On Wednesday night she captured her swim suit division with her 33-23-31 figure.

Joyce Lockhart of Greensboro, Miss Guilford County, captured Friday night's swim suit judging. The 18-year-old Joyce who wants to study business in college gave the judges a course in beauty with her 33-23-31 figure displayed in a solid white suit.

Ten finalists will be announced prior to tonight's finale. From these, five finalists will be picked, then a new queen.

Recorded Winds Of Forty MPH

Winds as high as 40 miles per hour were recorded at the Greenville Utilities plant around 7:30 last night as freak winds played about the county.

The weather station reported a high of 90 degrees yesterday and a low of 69. At 8 o'clock this morning it was 76 degrees.

Rainfall for the 24-hour period was 0.2 inches bringing the total for the past three days to 2.51 inches.

Tar River stood at the three-foot level this morning.

Russians Refuse Permit Nixon To Fly Over Siberia

NEW YORK (AP)—The Soviets have refused Vice President Richard M. Nixon permission to fly across Siberia in an American plane on his visit to the Soviet Union, the New York Herald Tribune said today.

Nixon, who is going to Moscow later this month to open the U.S. exhibition, wanted to return home across Siberia by way of Alaska, the paper's Washington correspondent James E. Warner said.

The Soviets long have barred foreigners from the Siberian Pacific coastline and the interior of that region bordering on Communist China.

An aide to Nixon, asked about the reported Soviet action, said that so far as he knew the question of flying across Siberia still was in the discussion stage.

Wanted Water And Asylum

VIENNA (AP)—A Romanian who spent four days in a sealed railway freight car, half crazed with thirst, requested asylum here, police reported. Railwaysmen who heard a knocking opened the door and found the haggard refugee. "Vienna asylum, water, water," was all he could say.

Herter Takes Off For Geneva With 'No Great Expectation Of Success'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter took off today for the Big Four talks at Geneva with a pledge to strive for "a reasonable agreement with the Soviet Union on the problems of Germany and Berlin."

But, Herter said, he has "no great expectations for success" and that bargaining with the Russians requires "infinite patience and long labor."

Herter spoke at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., near Washington, just before soaring away in a brand new jet plane, a giant military version of the Boeing 707 airliner. It was one of three bought for President Eisenhower and other top officials. Herter's flight is the first official use of the new craft.

Aides said the U.S. foreign affairs chief is not ruling out the possibility of at least a temporary agreement on the cold war crisis at the second round of the foreign ministers' conference. Such an agreement could pave the way for a summit meeting later in the year.

"My colleagues of France and the United Kingdom and I will strive, as we did before, to reach a reasonable agreement with the Soviet Union on the problems of Germany and Berlin," Herter said in his airport statement.

"We go to Geneva resolved, as before, to negotiate in good faith, and equally determined to maintain our obligations to the more than two million free people of West Berlin."

"Before I left for the first series of discussions in Geneva I said I had no great expectations for success. Negotiations with the Soviet Union require infinite patience and long labor. That remains my view as we approach the second series of discussions."

"I am confident that the same close unity among the Western Allies which brightened our work at Geneva will again prevail."

Herter, who talked with President Eisenhower and other top officials Friday, planned to make his first stop in Ottawa today.

In the Canadian capital he will confer with Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and Foreign Secretary Howard Green.

He commented in mentioning the Canadian conferences that "in the difficult period ahead the continuing close friendship between Canada and the United States on the basic issues involved will be invaluable."

He will leave Ottawa at 6 p.m. for Geneva via a fueling stop at Harmon, Newfoundland, and is expected to arrive at the Swiss city at 9 a.m. Sunday.

Reports from London said Britain obtained a strong private indication from the Kremlin Friday that the Soviets are ready to respect Western rights in Berlin at least until early 1961.

It was the third assurance passed to the West that the Soviet Union is prepared to freeze the Berlin crisis if agreement can be reached on various "improvements" to ease tensions in Berlin and all Germany, competent sources said.

These developments, hitherto secret, clearly lay behind the confidence of Prime Minister Macmillan's government that an East-West summit conference will be held, the reports said. Some authorities in London are guessing that the first of a series of summit meetings would be held in Geneva in late August or mid-September with a series of rolling negotiations by foreign ministers on grave problems of Europe sandwiched between the summit sessions.

Strike To Cost Union 145 Jobs

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP)—One hundred former striking workers of the International Chemical Workers Union will be recalled to work Monday by the Great Lakes Carbon Corp. plant here. This gives the union 145 jobs less than it had when it struck the company April 30 charging a production speedup.

Company officials announced Friday night that a new contract with the union was executed, paving the way for the company to publish new work schedules.

The company also published the list of recalled workers, those subject to later recall and those who were being laid off.

The 100 workers to be recalled are the plant's force of 230 workers, including 105 replacements hired during the strike and 25 strikers who returned to work.

The company said previously that the work force would be cut because of a decline in orders and the fact that some orders were shifted to other plants during the strike.

All cases stemming from violence during the strike which ended June 30 will be taken up during a special term of Burke County Superior Court opening Monday. There are 44 different warrants involving 28 persons, including five men charged in connection with an attempt to blow up a substitution feeding power to the plant.

The company Friday said it signed the new contract and the committee of Local 427 had signed but that the contract needed the signature of a representative of the ICWU.

Brushfire Razes 28 Canyon Homes

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Twenty-eight homes are known destroyed in a brushfire, possibly touched off by an arsonist, which swept through 1,000 acres Friday in Hollywood's rustic Laurel Canyon.

Fifteen other homes were damaged. Three hundred persons were forced to flee for their lives.

Most of the homes were in the $30,000 to $40,000 class. Seven firemen were injured trying to save them. A woman resident and her son suffered burns running from their home as flames raced down upon it. It was destroyed.

A family in a 1959 auto barely escaped when the driver, blinded by smoke, drove off the road. The occupants fled on foot. Flames caught the car moments later and set it afire.

The blaze broke out in two different places on Laurel Canyon Boulevard and flared up minutes later a mile away on Mulholland Drive—leading firemen to suspect a firebug.

Mulholland crosses Laurel Canyon Boulevard, like the cross on a T, at the ridge line of the Hollywood Hills. The flames spread from Lookout Mountain Drive north through hills and canyons crossed by two dozen streets.

Over $2 Million In Construction For Greenville

More than $2 1/2 million in new construction has been authorized within the city limits during the first six months of the year, Building Inspector J.W. Wilson reports. The exact figure as of June 30 is $2,504,161.

Wilson reported that permits were issued during the month for $133,800 in new construction. Included were seven residences valued at $81,000; six residence additions, $12,900; two garages and car ports, $400; two residence alterations, $3,150; two business alterations, $16,500 and two new business buildings, $39,500.

Alterations for which permits were issued during the month were valued at $19,650.

There were a total of 21 permits issued during June, according to Wilson. He also made 41 plumbing and sewer inspections. He turned over $355 in inspection fees to the clerk's office.

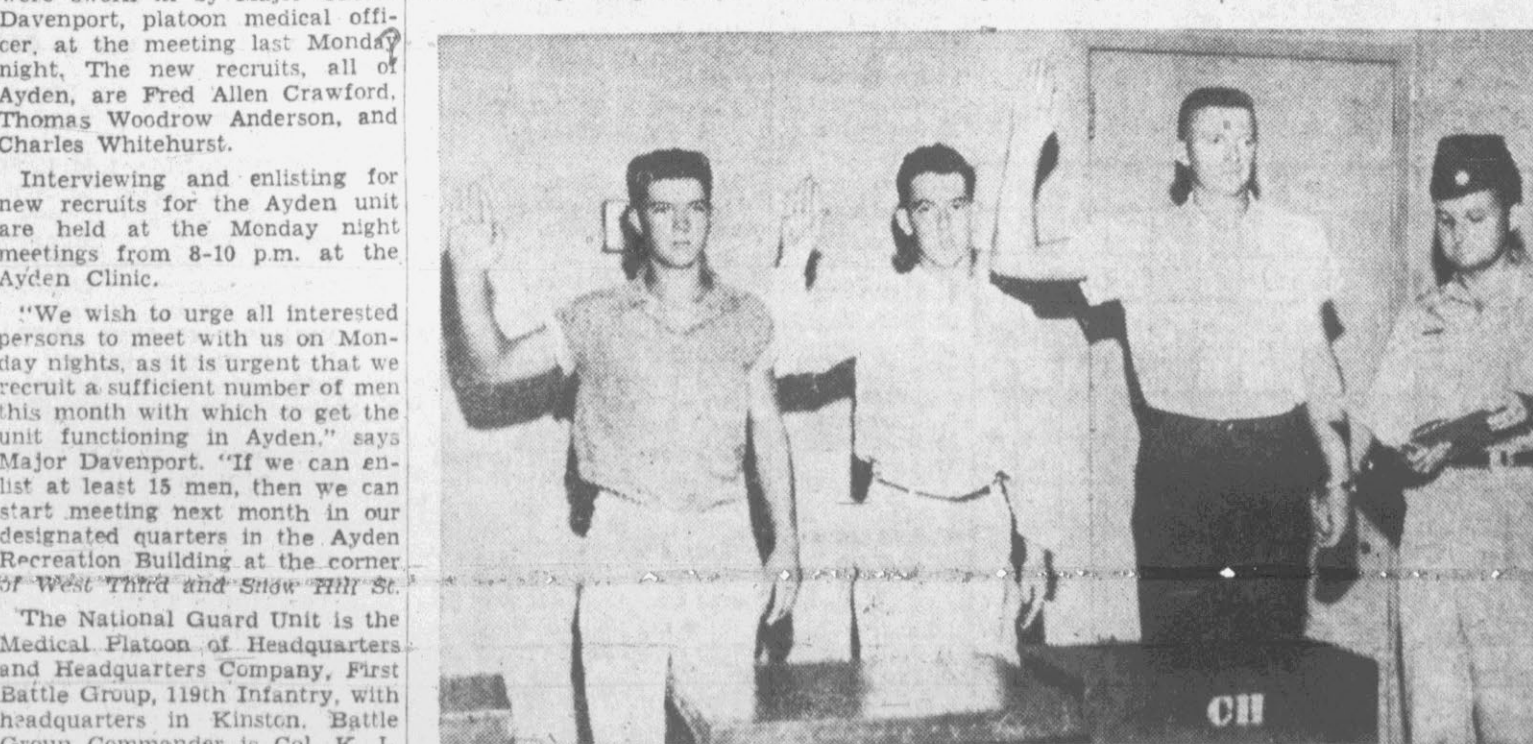

Ayden National Guard Unit Recruiting Members

First recruits of Ayden's newly-formed National Guard Platoon were sworn in by Major Clifton Davenport, platoon medical officer, at the meeting last Monday night. The new recruits, all of Ayden, are Fred Allen Crawford, Thomas Woodrow Anderson, and Charles Whitehurst.

Interviewing and enlisting for new recruits for the Ayden unit are held at the Monday night meetings from 8-10 p.m. at the Ayden Clinic.

"We wish to urge all interested persons to meet with us on Monday nights, as it is urgent that we recruit a sufficient number of men this month with which to get the unit functioning in Ayden," says Major Davenport. "If we can enlist at least 15 men, then we can start meeting next month in our designated quarters in the Ayden Recreation Building at the corner of West Third and Shaw Third Sts."

The National Guard Unit is the Medical Platoon of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, First Battle Group, 119th Infantry, with headquarters in Kinston. Battle Group Commander is Col. K. L. Guthrie, of New Bern; Deputy Commander, Lt. Col. William Buck

Missionaries Seek Learn Indian Tongue

By FRED L. STROZIER

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—A young missionary with an ear trained to unknown languages and a fine ability to mimic what he hears approaches the native chief of a savage Amazon tribe. The chief speaks, perhaps only a few guttural syllables. No facial expression shows the tenor of the remarks. The young white visitor responds, repeating the same sounds he has just heard, without knowing what they mean.

It is as good an opening as any. For the visitor has come to learn the unknown language of a remote tribe and reduce it to writing. His next step will be to train native teachers to spread knowledge of the language among the tribesmen. And finally he intends to translate the New Testament into the tribal language to help missionaries spread the Protestant gospel.

These intrepid pioneers sometimes live for months at a time in South America's wildest jungles. They come prepared for the work by the Summer Institute of Linguistics which is associated with Wycliffe Bible Translators, Inc., of Glendale, Calif.

These linguists in 25 years have spread their work to Mexico, Peru, Ecuador, Bolivia, Canada, Alaska, Guam, Australia, and Viet Nam.

They are new to Brazil, where 45 of their most scholarly are working with the Brazilian government's Indian Protection Service. The task is enormous. Brazil has 185 Indian tribes with 40 clearly distinguished language groups already identified. The linguists work only with tribes whose language has never been written.

Many times they are in danger from their savage hosts. They face wild animals, reptiles and threat to health from untreated water and food. In many instances two young women working along form a team.

The work in Brazil has just gotten an enormous boost. The city of Orlando, Fla., donated a PBV Catalina amphibian plane for work in the Amazon Basin. The plane has just arrived and will be used in Brazil, Peru and Ecuador.

Orlando got interested because it has "adopted" the Brazilian town of Goiana, on the central plateau, as its sister city.

The plane is named the Condado Rondon, in honor of Brazil's greatest worker with the Indians.

It will add strength to the most remote work of the Institute, which already operates a plane service to places in Peru where no other modern form of transportation is known.

Christian Science Society

The spiritual power of Christ Jesus' teachings and example will be emphasized Sunday at Christian Science services in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Sacrament." One of the key statements of Jesus to be read from the Bible is from John (6:63): "It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing; the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life."

Correlative citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include (25:26-31): "Implicit faith in the Teacher and all the emotional love we can bestow on him, will never alone make us imitators of him. We must go and do likewise, else we are not improving the great blessings which our Master worked and suffered to bestow upon us."

The Golden Text is from II Corinthians (13:14): "The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Ghost, be with you all."

Duchess Gets Into Swim

ROME (AP)—An aristocratic Roman designer who made the bathing suit into a thing of high fashion is giving the public a chance at her creations.

For the last eight years, Donna Vittoria, Duchess of Serra De Cassano, has made her bikinis and other swimming suits only to order. No two were alike. They adorned the noblest bodies and beaches.

Her customers included many of Europe's best dressed women, among them the Duchess of Windsor and the American-born Countess Consuelo O'Connor Crespi, of Rome, who tied with the American socialite Mrs. Winston Guest for best dressed woman of 1958.

Now Donna Vittoria is showing her one-piece, two-piece and three-piece swimming designs to the public. Her presentation is for the press and buyers during the Italian spring and summer snowings.

The creations she offers are not mass produced. There may be three models of the same material, but that's about as far as she will go, for she limits each fabric she uses to six meters, enough for two one-piece suits and one two-piece suit. Her prices vary according to the quality of fabric used, but generally they are under $30.

Donna Vittoria's maiden venture into the public fashion domain includes for the American market, one-piece models with elastic torsos and brief fillips of skirts starting low on the hip. Other one-piece suits are elasticized in back and draped gently in front to reveal the full pattern of a flower print.

What else does Donna Vittoria show?

Bikinis and bikinis, brief and brief, some with orange ruffles from thigh to thigh, some with a band of thigh-high bloomers held up by elastic ruching, some with a low-slung sarong effect in oriental gold, one with a minuscule flamenco skirt with a red-bordered white ruff. Matching pique jackets and chemises are also shown.

Donna Vittoria, an ebullient dark-haired woman, claims that bathing suits are much harder to make than evening dresses. Her reason: swim suits start from skin and conceal nature's defects with difficulty.

She favors the simple, functional suit with a fresh, gay air over sophisticated beachwear laid ed with high collars and heavy furberlows. After-swim wraps, she feels, should be sweet and coquettish, and not all covered up and buttoned up to the chin.

Winter Fashions Turn Toward Classicism In Rome Showings

ROME (AP)—Seamstresses are working in sizzling summer heat to put the final touches on suits and dresses Italian couturiers are preparing for next winter.

The results will be unveiled at high fashion showings in Rome and Florence starting Thursday. The designers insist they are working in secrecy, but, as usual, an idea of fashion-to-come has leaked out of the attic workshops. The word is that the trend will be toward calm classicism with an emphasis on manly tailored suits for every occasion.

Such a trend is a logical sequel to the shirtwaist dresses of spring and summer styles.

Buyers and fashion writers already are moving into Rome, where the Italian showings start. They continue here through July 19. The next day the scene shifts to Florence, where other designers will show through July 22.

When Italian showings are over, the European fashion focus shifts to Paris. Rumors filtering through the frontier emphasize the trend toward the simply tailored suit.

Designers are generally evasive, but several hints have been dropped. Fontana, for one, is featuring the suit from breakfast to midnight supper. Gattinoni's suit jacket is lengthening, as well as the suit skirt.

De Barenzenz probably will emerge with a loose-waisted two-piece solution with wide and flat shoulders and hips. Irene Galitzine, whose thigh-low jackets appeared ahead of the times last season, undoubtedly will show more of her hip-hugging neoprene.

In fabrics, smooth-surfaced materials are likely to be more important than last year's whiskery wools. Rock red, burnt-sugar brown and forever-black are the colors spied the most so far.

Freeze Corn When It's Right To Eat

RALEIGH — If you want good frozen corn, freezing cannot wait for your convenience. Freeze corn when it's right to eat. In our southern climate corn stays in its prime a short time. Freeze while tender and sweet.

If you freeze corn on the cob, try Seneca Chief variety. It has a small cob, and corn cobs take up large space that can be used for other food.

According to Miss Nita Orr, frozen food specialist for the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service, there are three ways to freeze sweet corn:

Whole Kernel Corn — Scald cleaned ears 6-8 minutes. Cool quickly in cold water. Cut kernels from the cob. Pack corn into containers. Close, label and freeze. Corn on the Cob—Scald cleaned ears 6-8 minutes. Cool quickly in cold water. Package, label and freeze.

Southern Style Cream Corn—Cut off tips of cleaned ears. (Make another thin slice, if you like.) Scrape cob. Add enough water to keep corn from sticking. Bring to a boil and let boil four minutes. Chill quickly. Package and freeze.

Remember to get corn from the stalk to the freezer early in the morning. Work with small amounts and work quickly. Put in home freezer with air space around each package. After 24 hours stack packages in the storage place in freezer. These things pay off in good frozen corn, Miss Orr concludes.

100 Years Ago Tomato Was Considered Poison

RALEIGH — Do you know that 100 years ago the tomato was but a garden curiosity, considered poisonous?

Today, over three-quarter million acres of tomatoes are grown in the United States. More acres of tomatoes are grown yearly in the United States than any other vegetable except white potatoes and sweet corn.

For best flavor and color let tomatoes ripen in a dry place. Ripen at temperatures between 55 and 70 degrees. Ripen in light or dark, but never place on a window sill. Bright sunlight will cause abnormal, uneven coloring. Green tomatoes should never be placed in refrigerator, ripening stops and they become watery.

According to Miss Iola Pritchard, food conservation and marketing specialist for the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service, tomatoes may be canned whole or cut. Pickles, relishes and chili sauce are other ways to preserve them.

Fruits and tomatoes are of high acid content and can be canned in the boiling-water bath (212 degrees).

Use only perfect, ripe tomatoes for canning. To loosen skins, dip into boiling water about one-half minute; then quickly into cold water. Cut out stem end and peel tomatoes. For further information, contact your county home economics agent.

For delicious tomato juice use ripe juicy tomatoes. Wash, remove stem ends, cut in pieces. Simmer until softened, stirring often. Strain. Add 1 teaspoon salt to each quart of juice. Reheat just to boiling. Fill jars with boiling hot juice to one-fourth inch of top. Process at 212 degrees for 10 minutes.

Skewered Scallops Steal Show

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Newsfeatures Food Editor

TRUST A MAN to know what is good to cook.

And trust a tired wife to encourage him.

One of the best dishes ever prepared for us by an amateur male cook is scallops en brochette. Only he didn't give the affair its French name. Nevertheless his method is the same as that of the fanciest Parisian chef.

Any man who wants to do likewise had better first round up his scallops. These are two sorts—bay and sea. The bay are small and expensive; the sea are about the size of a walnut and easier on the wallet. So let's settle for the sea—fresh or frozen.

Next bag some mushrooms—not too small, not too big. These are going to be put on skewers with the seafood and should be about the same size as the scallops.

Bacon comes next, with each slice cut into four neat squares. Now, in this order, insert a mushroom on a skewer, then a square of bacon; add a scallop, another piece of bacon and another mushroom; sprinkle the scallop with paprika. Go on with this ritual, filling your skewer. Don't push the bacon tight against the scallop; give it room to crisp.

You can dip a pastry brush—they're usually on hand at the range or grill—in a little melted butter and swab the mushrooms and scallops. Or, in the range broiler, where there's a pan for the bacon to drip onto, you can brush the mushrooms and scallops with bacon fat as it melts.

The important thing, whether you broil these scallops in the regular range or over charcoal, is not to overcook them. When we broil them on our electric rotisserie we place the skewers close to high heat because the seafood oozes out a lot of water if the cooking is slow. (Six to eight minutes of high-heat cooking about does it.) High heat plus paprika gives the pale scallop a pleasant glow.

FANCY FREE—Put scallops, mushrooms and bacon on skewers and broil; or add tomatoes and green pepper for a deluxe version.

New Tax Rate Reflects The Need

Pitt County's new tax rate of $1.23 for the current fiscal year reflects the continuous growth of Pitt County's needs and the burden placed upon local government and local taxpayers to provide for these needs.

The 15c increase over last year's rate represents the largest single jump in the county's tax rate since 1949 when the rate was increased to 90c from 70c the year before. It also is the highest county-wide tax rate for Pitt County since 1930 when the county wide rate was pegged at $1.35. In only four of the past 32 years has Pitt had a higher county-wide tax rate than it will have during the current fiscal year. Those were the years from 1927 through 1930 when the county's tax rate fluctuated between $1.29 and $1.35.

A recap of the county's year-to-year tax rate during the past decade shows the strain which has been placed upon the local government and local taxpayers to keep up with local needs. In the five years from 1949 through 1954, the county maintained a constant tax rate of 90 cents with the exception of 1954 when the rate was dropped one cent to 89 cents.

During this period, however, needs of the county were increasing as were annual appropriations to meet these needs. It was possible to keep the tax rate constant simply because the growth in valuation of taxable property in the county each year was sufficient to keep pace with the need for more tax revenues.

Since 1955 the increase in property valuations of the county has failed to advance annually in sufficient amount to compensate for the necessary annual increases in appropriations. The result has been that the county's tax rate went to 95c in 1955, to $1.00 for 1956 and 1957 and to $1.08 for 1958.

This year another rate hike of 15 cents has been necessary to meet the needs of Pitt. Eleven cents of this increase has been earmarked for retirement of hospital bonds approved by voters of the county last September.

Though the tax rate in Pitt has risen sharply in the past two years, the increase has been necessary to keep pace with the demands of the citizens that the county government maintain and in some instances improve the services it provides for its people.

While most residents of Pitt are aware of these reasons for the increases in the county-wide tax rate these last two years, citizens of the county and their elected officials should carefully guard against a continuation of the spiraling tax rate. The county can ill afford a continuation of the trend which has seen the county-wide tax rate go up 23 per cent during the past two years.

France And Its Allies Can't Afford A Split

Is the relationship between France and the other Allies deteriorating?

Is the NATO defense of Western Europe against possible Soviet aggression being weakened by France's attitude toward the stockpiling of allied-made nuclear weapons on French soil?

The answers to both these questions would appear on the surface at least to be affirmative in view of the decision of the United States to withdraw from France three fighter-bomber wings that have been stationed at French bases.

Whether President Charles de Gaulle will retreat in his determination to have France control any atomic weapons stored on French soil remains to be seen. It is highly doubtful the United States will change its law to enable France to have control of American-made nuclear warheads for weapons.

de Gaulle's increasingly independent attitude toward NATO defenses is a matter of concern to all the Western Allies, because France, in its position, should provide a key to the defenses of Western Europe. Moving of the fighter-bombers from France to bases in Britain and West Germany will reduce the effectiveness of the overall NATO defense deployment. And as tactical nuclear weapons become more important to ground as well as air defenses, the French attitude will present more of a problem to the NATO military picture.

France needs NATO if it is to be adequately defended against a possible Soviet move in Western Europe. NATO also needs France as a full and effective member of the alliance if an adequate defense system is to be built up in Western Europe. France's attitude already has created a crack in the NATO dyke in Western Europe, and unless the crack is repaired quickly, it could grow into a gaping hole in the Western European defense system. Neither France nor its allies can afford such a break in Western European defenses.

Sec. Herter Had A Word For It

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Christian A. Herter, a secretary of state — is a very frank man. His feelings as he returns to Geneva for talks with the Soviets, he says, might be unfit to print.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who prides himself on being brutally blunt, never outdid that one.

Twice at his news conference Tuesday — his first since becoming secretary of state — Herter tried to say he was pessimistic about success in the American-Soviet talks which resume Monday at Geneva.

He didn't actually say he was pessimistic. He just said he wasn't optimistic. Just a short time ago at Geneva he finished six weeks of talks with the Soviets and got nowhere. This next go-around may last weeks, too.

Then one of the 190 newsmen who crowded into the State Department auditorium to see him perform were his predecessor, John Foster Dulles, had held forth so often — asked him near the end of the 40-minute conference:

"Mr. Secretary, if you could use only one word to describe your feelings as you head back toward Geneva, what would that one word be?"

Herter grinned. Twice he had used lack of optimism as a euphemism. He seemed to search his mind an instant for that one word to describe his feelings. Then he said: "It might be unprintable."

That was a directness alien to the mind of Dulles, who died May 24.

The late secretary, a highly successful lawyer, talked like one. He used his great legalistic skill in getting across American viewpoints, stating policy positions and floating trial balloons. He handled his news conference like a stage manager.

But his sentences and his ideas — and this was the lawyer working — were interwoven with qualifications and implications that sometimes had to be dug out like shrapnel from under the skin.

He was a master at leaving the back door open in case he had to retreat.

Yet, unlike the rambling, disconnected, broken sentences and unfinished thoughts of President Eisenhower at a news conference, Dulles' sentences were always a little twisted and turned, grammatically sound and flowing. So is the sentence structure of Herter, a "proper Bostonian" from Harvard. But Herter is easier to follow. His sentences are shorter, more direct. He has a simplicity Dulles lacked.

Dulles ran the State Department out of his hat. Often he gave an impression of arrogance. Herter, who depends on teamwork, seems a less complicated man of good nature and good will.

He was relaxed Thursday, although crippled by arthritis. He smiled easily, was unpretentious, and it was clear he had done his homework in the three years he has been in the State Department.

The 64-year-old Herter was named under secretary late in 1956. He didn't become secretary until April 22. In between those dates he was completely overshadowed by Dulles and probably thoroughly ignored.

So he had time to learn his job. It showed Thursday when he knew detailed background of American problems in Europe and Asia. Nevertheless, it was a pretty drab news conference.

Herter for the most part — and particularly about his lack of optimism on Geneva — simply was restating what he had said or implied before.

His ease in handling the newsmen is no guarantee he will be a good secretary of state. The proof of the test lies before him. He has 18 months in the job before the Eisenhower administration ends.

So far he has shown very little sign of forcefulness. But that proves nothing — yet. He's not the type anyway to come in with a roar. He has a choice: Follow Dulles' policy or try to break new ground.

Dulles' policy was frozen and in many ways unimaginative. He just followed the Truman-Acheson policy of stiff-arming the Soviets on all fronts. That worked all right so long as the Soviet Union was comparatively weak.

It isn't now. American policy may have to prove far more flexible to meet the changing times, values of stocks have doubled while the value of the dollar fell to half. In some instances they produced windfall profits as well. Real estate values have often gone up as fast as the dollar

Brief Translation

-OF GROMYKO'S FIRST SPEECH AFTER TALKS RESUME AT GENEVA.

By HENRY HOWARD

Why Not REALLY Relax?

The old man slowly, almost tediously, made his way into the restaurant and carefully slid onto a stool by the counter. "Coke, please," he told the waitress in a low, raspy voice.

The waitress brought a small glass of ice and Coke. The old man gazed thoughtfully at the glass for a long moment before gently laying a nickel and a penny on the counter. The young waitress briskly scooped up the two coins and dropped them into the cash drawer.

Then the old man slowly fingered the glass for some time, as if trying to decide which side of the glass would be best to drink from. He raised the Coke to his dry lips and tilted his head backward to allow the cool liquid to flow down a dry throat.

Other Editors Saying New Kind Of Cigarette

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

Is there a practical idea for North Carolina's cigarette makers in what Governor Hodges found on a visit to a Russian cigarette plant. It could be.

Hodges found in the Lenin-grad plant the Soviets are turning out a new sort of cigarette. It is a short cigarette attached to a long cardboard holder. The report does not go into detail, but apparently the holder and the short cigarette are produced automatically.

The past 10 years have seen marked changes in U.S. cigarettes. We first had the introduction of "king size". Then new processes enabled the use of every particle of the tobacco plant, even parts which once were discarded. Latest marked the use of the filter-type cigarette.

Repeated "cancer scares", growing out of charges excessive smoking may be a factor in cancer, may extend the filter type still more.

Lately some complacent authorities have urged the smoker to throw away the cigarette before it is smoked up. This, the theory is, would by a natural process strain deleterious materials out of the smoke and deposit them on the cigarette itself to a degree.

Our guess is, however, that the Russians make this cardboard holder cigarette not so much as a health measure as a way to conserve tobacco. They get a great many more cigarettes out of less tobacco, even though the consumer may be cheated on the amount of tobacco he gets in his bag.

Would introduction of the cardboard holder cigarette attract American consumers? The same report from Lenin-grad says that our Governor Hodges did a lot of preaching to the makers of North Carolina flue-cured tobacco.

Hodges can be persuasive when he argues a good product. We shall not be surprised if Luther the Lion Hearted may come back with some sort of Russian offer for some of our surplus tobacco.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

LIFE MUST BE SHARED
"All who joy would win must share it;

Happiness was born a twin."

Biologists tell us that cells grow by division. All through nature there runs the principle that what we give away grows, and what we clutch and hold to for dear life withers and dies. The seed grows by first dying as a seed, decaying, and thus preparing itself to grow first into flower, then into an abundance of seed. The things in life really good can never be monopolized. Try to monopolize them and they soon deteriorate into something not worth possessing.

"Happiness was born a twin."

We can no more imagine a happy man locking himself in an ivory tower and devouring his happiness all alone, than we can imagine a trumpet locking his trumpet in a closet and refusing ever to take it out and blast forth notes of triumph and exultation. The only way to enjoy happiness is to share it. The only way to keep anything for ourselves is by giving it away by double handfuls to others. The only way to make anything out of our lives is by throwing them away in an utter abandon of good will and helpfulness.

When Christ fed the five thousand, the miracle appears to have occurred as he broke the bread and made ready for its distribution. This was not only a miracle but a parable. Life is made to be shared, not hoarded.

Fixed Income Folk Pay Heavily

By ELMER ROESSNER

Inflation is a tax on savers, pensioners, annuitants and others with fixed incomes, as most people have been told many times.

It also levies on other people, not as a tax but as a facade for sharp deals and swindles. It's long understood that the way to protect one's wealth when inflation threatened was to convert it into tangibles.

Stocks, if not strictly tangibles, represent a share in tangibles. Real estate, gold, jewelry, paintings, sculpture and stamps are some tangibles frequently used as hedges. They tend to rise in price as the value of money falls.

In many instances, they have proved perfect hedges. Many times in the past two decades, values of stocks have doubled while the value of the dollar fell to half. In some instances they produced windfall profits as well. Real estate values have often gone up as fast as the dollar has fallen. In some cases they have gone up even faster because of the population growth and the demand for living room.

BAIT FOR SHARP OPERATORS

These truths are constantly being used, by swindlers. Operators in boiler shops in Canada and the United States phone prospects and, after an exciting refresher on the hazards of inflation, invite investment in shares of doubtful value. In some cases the value isn't doubtful; it's nonexistent beyond doubt.

Promoters of underwater and otherwise unpromising real estate frequently use inflation to scare and snare prospects. They tell them, "If you don't buy now, you'll have a buying power of only $5,000 after 10 years, a not incredible statement. But, they add, the same sum put into real estate may be worth $20,000 in 10 years. That can scarcely be true if the land is almost worthless to begin with.

GOLD AND OBJECTS D'ART

Gold for centuries has been the perfect hedge against inflation. Sharp dealers have taken advantage of that, too.

They offered gold coins far above their actual worth. A $5 U.S. gold piece is $8.75 worth of gold. If it is in good condition, it is worth more as a collector's item. But the dealers' items are the only kind of gold coins you can invest in in the United States today.

But gold coins worth $15 to collectors are frequently sold to gullible purchasers at $25. The buyers are victims of the fear of inflation.

Similarly, gold jewelry, precious gems and art objects are constantly being foisted on the fearful at prices much above their true worth.

In many cases the United States would have to have twice as much inflation as it has today — the dollar would have to drop in buying power from its present 50 cents to 25 cents — before many

Movie Censors Losing

By ERNARD GAVZER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Censorship of movies — once an undertaking occupying censor boards in 90 cities and eight states — now is limited to four states and no more than 20 cities.

Successive court decisions have steadily hammered at the crumbling structure of official censorship. The latest was a U.S. Supreme Court decision which upset a New York State ban of the movie, "Lady Chatterley's Lover." The court said the ban violated rights protected by the First Amendment.

While the high court decision does not doom the New York censor setup, opponents of censorship say it will have considerable effect in removing "the heavy hand of official censorship of films."

Placing motion pictures under the protection of the Constitution marks a long step for the Supreme Court. The first time it considered the question, in 1915, the court decided movies were purely and simply entertainment and censoring them had nothing to do with Constitutional rights.

Basically, censorship is one of the answers man has devised to solve a problem that has long confounded him: how to deal with the obscene, the indecent, the subversive.

Those favoring censorship say that without it liberty would overflow into license and the moral fabric of our society would decay.

Opponents say there are adequate laws dealing with obscenity and immorality and that in a democracy no man should decide for another what he should be able to see.

While censors have been at work since antiquity, it wasn't until the advent of motion pictures that they became strong in numbers and power. The medium reached the greatest mass audience in American history and brought to the hinterlands a view of life that may have been acceptable in the sophisticated confines of Broadway but certainly could not be duplicated in Mendota, Ill.

Resisting the impact of these films, censor boards were set up. They were not concerned with the artistic value of the work but rather with questions of morality, obscenity, sacrilege, violence. Censors viewed movies and had the power to ban them in their entirety, delete certain portions, or limit the film to adult audiences.

The pattern for pre-censorship of movies was designed in Chicago in 1907. On Nov. 4 of that year, the police were empowered to deny a permit to any movie which showed "immoral or obscene, or portrays depravity, criminality, or lack of virtue of a class of citizens of any race, color, creed, or religion and exposes them to contempt, derision, or obloquy, or tends to produce a breach of the peace or riots, or purports to represent any hanging, lynching, or burning of a human being . . ."

Under this code, the censors were able to ban a newsreel which showed police attacking strikers at a South Chicago steel plant in 1935, an old movie based on the life of gangster Al Capone, a portion of a Walt Disney movie showing the birth of a buffalo.

It was in Chicago that the five-foot kiss was invented. This was a rule that a movie kiss could not last for more than five feet of film, or approximately three seconds.

In the 1920s, faced with a noisy outcry for national censorship, the movie industry decided to tend to its own house and named a czar, William Harrison Hays. The organization, now known as the Motion Picture Assn. of America, was popularly called the Hays Office. It subsequently set up a code of standards. In recent years, the code has been relaxed.

Those opposing censorship agree with those favoring it that there must be some kind of control. But they don't want the power in the hands of any official agency. They say that if a film is obscene, let the producer and exhibitor be brought into court and tried by a jury on such a charge. And they say there are many rating groups which can advise people on what sort of movies to see.

McLish And Minoso Help Tribe Grip On Loop Lead

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Cal McLish and Minnie Minoso, a couple of players who have had their ups and downs — perhaps more of the latter than the former — over the years could take the bows today for saving Cleveland's American League lead.

McLish, a veteran Oklahoman who broke into major league baseball as a Dodger whiz kid some 15 years ago, recorded his 11th victory of the season against the Indians Friday night as the Indians turned back the second-place White Sox 4-1 in a rain-delayed game and increased their lead to two games. Minoso was the leader in two rallies that ruined Early Wynn's hopes.

It was a rather important victory for Cleveland. It not only doubled the Indians' margin over Chicago, but it enabled them to gain on the Baltimore Orioles and New York Yankees, who were getting too close for comfort. The Washington Senators, held homeless and shut out twice by Baltimore on Thursday, unleashed their power again Friday night, hit four homers and downed the Orioles 7-6. The Boston Red Sox, with Bobby Avila and Ted Williams again leading the way, knocked off the Yankees a second time 8-5. The Detroit Tigers, also double shutout victims on Thursday, ended a six-game losing streak when Jim Bunning pitched them to a 5-2 decision over the Kansas City Athletics.

Dick Stuart's 17th homer of the season, with two aboard in the 11th inning, capped a four-run spurge that brought the Pittsburgh Pirates a 7-6 victory over the Chicago Cubs. The St. Louis Cardinals, scoring eight in the sixth inning, beat Philadelphia 9-7.

McLish, a 6-1, 200-pound husky who won 16 games for Cleveland last season, had to have help from Gary Bell in the eighth inning Friday night after rain had cooled him off twice. He lost an early 2-0 lead but bore down and took charge until Al Smith singled and scored in the eighth to bring Chicago within one run of a tie.

Minoso, Tito Francona and Rocky Colavito were the Indian hitters who handed Early Wynn his sixth defeat against 12 victories. Minnie hit two singles and scored twice. Francona had four hits and drove in three runs and Colavito knocked in three runs with three hits. Washington blasted starter John Fisher early and hard, gaining a 7-2 lead on homers by Ken Aspromonte, Bob Allison, Harmon Killebrew and Roy Sievers. But the Orioles got to Camilo Pascual and Tex Clevenger for four runs in the eighth before Billy Conson snuffed out the rally with a leaping one-hand catch of Albie Pearson's liner.

Yankee Manager Casey Stengel took a chance on starting Whitey Ford in Boston's Fenway Park, a trouble spot for southpaws. Ford found the trouble in the fourth inning when Avila and Williams contributed singles and the Yanks contributed three errors to a five-run Boston outburst. The Yanks came back to make it 5-4, but the Sox got three more runs on Marty Keoghs pinch double, singles by Avila and Jackie Jensen and a double by Williams.

Williams now has hit safely in 8 of his last 13 times at bat. Bunning allowed the Athletics only seven hits, including Jerry Lumpe's two-run homer that tied the score at 2-2 in the fourth, but Ted Lepcio sewed up the victory with a two-run homer off reliever Bob Grim in the sixth.

Texaco Edges VFW By A Walk

Vernon Carawan received a walk in the seventh inning yesterday with the bases loaded, forcing in the winning run, as Texaco edged out a 2-1 victory over the VFW.

Playing the first six innings in a 1-1 tie, Texaco loaded the bases in the bottom half of the seventh with two walks and a single by Benny Hooks. The VFW cut off one run with a fielder's choice but Carawan, who had just entered the tilt, drew his game-ending free pass.

Hits were scarce in the defensive tilt as the winners collected only four bingles and the VFW were able to manage the same number.

Johannson Says He Wants Fights

STOCKHOLM (AP)—"I'll be a fighting champion," World Heavyweight Champion Ingemar Johansson said today.

"Provided I'm still a champion after I've met Floyd Patterson again, I won't hesitate to meet any worthy contender," he added.

Johansson won't let such things as heavy taxation stop him from fighting as much as he likes. He is determined to look upon his profession as a sport and fight his contenders as they come.

But he is a businessman, too, and will not drop any good chance to earn money. Presently he is touring Sweden exposing his "mystery right" to his countrymen at a minimum price $1,000.

Friday Ingemar made his debut as a movie actor taking part in a film production.

Nebraska is believed to have the largest underground water supply of any state in the nation.

Elks Blank Moose To Win Crown

The Elks wrapped up the Tar Heel loop for the second straight time yesterday as they backed the one-hit pitching of Tommy Smith for a 2-0 win over the Moose.

The win gave them their second crown as they finished the first half of the season in a tie with Greenville Tobacco Company. They defeated the Tobs in a play-off game.

Smith was in complete charge yesterday as he pitched a near no-hitter. He ran into trouble in the sixth when he allowed two walks and then Hubert Evans broke his spell with a sharp single. Smith retired the next three men in order to sew up the game.

Danny Keel also did a good job on the mound in a losing cause. Keel gave up only two hits in the tilt but both came in fourth as the winners picked up an insurance run.

The Elks scored their first run in the first on a base on balls and an error.

OK Inter-Loop Trade Proposal

CHICAGO (AP)—Inter-league trading, a measure which could find top stars being traded from one major league to the other, was approved Friday by the American and National leagues.

The new rule allows clubs of one league to trade with clubs of another from Nov. 21 to Dec. 15 without waivers.

For example, the New York Yankees could trade Mickey Mantle to San Francisco for Willie Mays without getting waivers on Mantle from the seven other clubs in the league.

The rule first was passed last December by Commissioner Ford Frick asked the leagues to reconsider. The vote Friday was the same as it was last winter with both leagues in favor, the American 7-1 and the National 5-3.

Frick named a seven-man committee to work with any group seeking to establish a third major league. It consists of Frick; Warren Giles, National League president; Joe Cronin, American League president; Lou Perini, Milwaukee Braves owner; Bob Carpenter, Philadelphia Phillies owner; Tom Yawkey, Boston Red Sox owner; and Arnold Johnson, Kansas City Athletics owner.

Prescribes For Slumping Hoyt

WASHINGTON (AP)—Manager Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles has prescribed a possible cure for his slumping knuckleball ace Hoyt Wilhelm.

Richards wants the 35-year-old right-hander to throw a few more breaking pitches and fast balls. The Oriole manager also thinks an extra day of rest between starts might help put Wilhelm back in his winning ways. He's been seeking his 10th victory for nearly a month, losing four in a row after winning nine straight this season.

But One Catcher Left To Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies Friday night lost the services of catcher Valmy Thomas for an indefinite period, leaving the club with only one catcher, Carl Sawatski.

Thomas collided with Dick Gray of St. Louis in the sixth inning. Thomas' ribs were severely bruised.

Willie Mays Back In Form, Off On Late-Season Spurt

Willie Mays is looking like the old, carefree Willie again and that may be bad news for the teams that are trying to topple the San Francisco Giants from their newly won place atop the National League standings.

Up to the All-Star game last week, Mays wasn't doing especially well—if you think hitting 311 isn't a good performance. Now he apparently is off on another of the late-season spurts that have marked his major league career.

It was Willie who produced the winning run Thursday as the Giants moved into first place ahead of Los Angeles and Milwaukee. It was Willie again last night providing the highspots of San Francisco's 11-inning, 8-6 victory over the Cincinnati Reds that increased the Giant margin to a full game.

Wilson Again Is Leading League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Wilson took over the Carolina lead Friday night on the strength of a double-dribbling Greensboro gave to slumping Raleigh.

The red-hot Greensboro team blanked the Caps, 12-0, in an opener, and won the nightcap by an impressive 12-5 margin.

The Tobs moved upwards from a tie with Raleigh in spite of being idled by rain for the second straight night. To take up the slack, a Wilson-Durham twin bill is scheduled tonight.

Winston-Salem romped over Alamance, 9-2, in the other Friday night game. The Red Birds fashioned five runs out of five hits, an error by Alamance, and two walks in the third inning. The Indians found it impossible to get in the running after that.

Frank Carpin's pitching and the hitting of Don Lock and Dick Bogard helped Greensboro to its first win over Raleigh. The wildness of Cap pitcher Ben Tench and poor Raleigh fielding were factors in the second York triumph.

Carpin blanked Raleigh on only four hits. A fifth inning produced 10 runs, including Lock's three-run homer and Bogard's three-run double, for the first game rout.

The games tonight: Raleigh at Greensboro, Durham at Wilson (2), and Alamance at Winston-Salem.

The Other Day

We got to talking about the progress in transportation, and it is surprising to realize that the bicycle, for example, was not invented until 1816 when in that early model one had to propel himself along with long strides of his feet to the ground. It wasn't until 1876, eighty odd years ago, that the first bicycle somewhat similar to the ones we know today was invented. When we think of the comparative strides we have made in individual transportation in so few recent years, to say it has been revolutionary, is to grossly underestimate what has taken place. The first internal combustion engine that operated on the atmospheric vacuum principle was also developed in 1876, so we see that development of methods for individual transportation and motive power practically developed side by side although from widely separated beginnings and sources, which in itself is interesting.

As you know, our specialization is providing you with the very best transportation you can get, but our responsibility doesn't stop there. Jordan Defends His Welter Title In Convincing Display

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Tough Don Jordan of Los Angeles defended his welterweight championship convincingly Friday night. He now looks toward middleweight Ray Robinson for his next bout.

Jordan, a punishing body puncher, rammed solid hooks into the ribs of 19-year-old Benny Moyer, and uppercuts to the face as he scored a unanimous 15-round decision over the young Portlander in a nationally televised bout.

There were no knockdowns. Several times Moyer appeared about to do down, but each time called on some hidden resources to stay upright. He still was dancing gamely about at the end, flicking left jabs at Jordan.

The jab was his main weapon against the aggressive Jordan. It became apparent early that his right caused Jordan no fear. It was like a destroyer against a cruiser. Moyer was willing, but lacked the guns.

For Jordan it was his 11th straight victory, his third since winning the title. It makes his record now 46-11.

Moyer, who had hoped to become the youngest champion on record in the welterweight division, suffered his first loss in 21 bouts.

Of the possible fight with Robinson, Jordan's co-manager, Don Neseth, said, "We have been offered a lot of money to fight Robinson."

He said the offer came from an Eastern promoter, but disclosed no other details. Robinson recently was stripped of his middleweight title by the National Boxing Assn., but is recognized as champion in New York.

Two pre-fight incidents stirred interest in the bout.

One was Jordan's failure to make the 147-pound weight at his first weigh-in. He was 1 1/2 pounds over the limit, and had to sweat it off by exercising. Ninety minutes later he qualified at an even 147, but there was speculation the process might have weakened him.

If he was weak, Moyer would hate to face him strong.

The other was discovery that Mickey Cohen was in town, and had paid a 1 a.m. visit Friday to Jordan. This brought police into sudden activity, for earlier Neseth had said the underworld was trying to get control of Jordan—and the police suspect Cohen of having underworld connections.

Neseth is scheduled to testify before a federal grand jury in Los Angeles July 14 on the reported attempts to take Jordan away from him and his partner, Jack McCoy.

Neseth was noncommittal about Cohen's visit, but told police Chief William Hilbruner he was satisfied no threats had been made to Jordan.

Ben Harris, Portland Boxing Commission chairman, said he saw nothing wrong with the bout, and said purses would not be held back.

Promoter Tommy Moyer, Denver's uncle, reported the gate was $44,390 and attendance 4,813. Moyer earlier said he had expected a crowd of 10,000 and a gate of $100,000.

This fell short of the $70,000 that Neseth said had been guaranteed to Jordan, but there still was to come the money from the television.

Washington Swimming Team Has Heavy Edge

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—The Eastern Invitation age group swimming championships continued here today with the Congressional Country Club team of Washington holding a commanding lead.

Congressional stepped out in front in the boys' division Friday.

The finals of the Table Tennis Tournament, now in progress at the East Carolina College Union, will be held tonight with the starting time slated for around 10:00.

The first such event held at East Carolina and in this section of the state got underway early this afternoon with the juniors division.

A large field, consisting of state champions from South and North Carolina and Virginia, were on hand this morning for registration and the tourney was hailed as the biggest Invitational Open Tournament in the state.

The finals will be held at the College Union and spectators are invited.

fielder and pitcher. Both boys finished the season with averages well above the 300 mark.

The Greenville natives were popular among Kinston fans and Moye was praised for his defensive ability around his first base slot.

Bynum, a righthander, was the ace on the Kinston shallow pitching corps. He was also a key man in the outfield when not pitching.

Death Ruled Due Natural Causes

WELDON, N.C. (AP) — The death of Mrs. A. W. (Hosie) Ricks was by natural causes, a Halifax County coroner's jury found Friday night.

The body of the 43-year-old widow was found early Monday morning in the bedroom of Winfield S. Crew, prominent Weldon businessman and farmer. She was the daughter of a former Roanoke Rapids mayor.

Interest excited by the circumstances surrounding the death was alluded to by Coroner Rufus Britton when he admonished the six-man jury to "pay no attention to street talk or gossip."

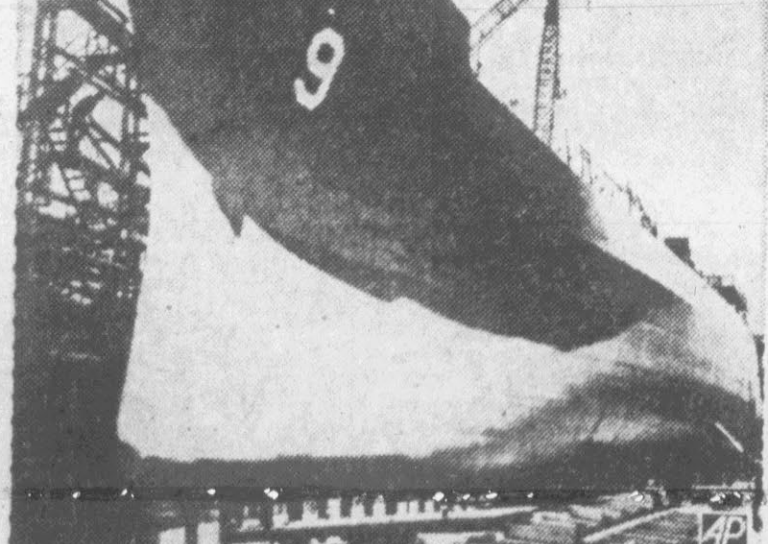

After hearing about 40 minutes of testimony, the jury filed out. Then minutes later, it brought in its finding that death was by natural causes.

Crew testified he came home early Sunday evening to find Mrs. Ricks, clad only in a slip, in the bathtub of his home. He said he had lunched with her Sunday, and was arranging for her to get a clerical job in Washington.

James Kimmell, a Negro yardworker, helped Crew get Mrs. Ricks out of the bathtub and into the bedroom.

Dr. R. B. Blow of Weldon said Crew called him early Monday morning. The doctor said Mrs. Ricks could have been dead six or seven hours when he examined the body.

Four empty beer cans and two empty vodka bottles were on the floor of the bedroom. Dr. Blow said it was his opinion Mrs. Ricks drank the beer and vodka. "It would have killed her," he added.

Pitt Scouts Home From Philmont Ranch

THEY SHOULD BE HERE . . . was the comment voiced by these scouts when they arrived and found no one to greet them on their return from Philmont.

Eighteen Pitt County Scouts returned home yesterday with 61 other East Carolina Council boys from a 26-day outing to the Philmont Scout Ranch near Cimarron, New Mexico.

The Explorers and Senior Boy Scouts pulled into the parking lot of East Carolina College's Memorial Gym on two air-conditioned buses about 5 o'clock and were greeted, for the most part by the outstretched arms of waiting parents.

A few of the scouts looked in vain for their families who, evidently, were running late and had not arrived to pick up the waiting boys.

The scouts spent 12 days on the 127,000 acre ranch and 14 days on the road for the round trip. Traveling to and from the "scouters' paradise," the group visited such places of interest as the Cherokee Indian Reservation, Oklahoma City, Amarillo, Texas, and the Grand Canyon.

The activities at the ranch included camping out, horseback riding, burro-packing, wilderness survival, trout fishing, archery and many other memorable experiences.

The boys collected such things as western boots, cowboy hats and belts. One lad was seen with a set of deer antlers and a partially dried deer head with antlers still attached.

Pitt County boys making the trip include: Joe Hunnicutt and Gene Carson of Bethel; Hardy Moe and Rickey Murphy of Farmville; Chris Heller, Erskine Duff Jr., Howard Hadley, Richard Taft, Tommy Taft, Jehu Taft, Stanley Bowers, George VanNortwick, Jack Cox, Melvin Hoot, Joe Waldrup and Tommy Webb of Greenville, and L. F. Worthington, and Jimmy Wynne of Red Oak.

A HAPPY HOMECOMING . . . when greeted by his mother, but this scout had a good time on the trip to Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico.

Extensive County School Survey Urged By Board

An "extensive" study of Pitt County schools, recommended by a special committee to the County Board of Education at its meeting July 7, would give a general overall picture of Pitt's educational program in terms of existing physical and other facilities, needs for all-round improvement, and possibilities for improvement.

The committee, consisting of W. L. Lathan as chairman, E. S. Simpson, Leon Simpson, J. L. Pierce, and Leo W. Jenkins, made a two-day survey of Pitt schools the first of April.

Suggestions from the group involved the careful study of the present courses of study in the county schools from two comparative points of view:

"What should our schools accomplish?" and "What are they now accomplishing?"

The recommendations, with maximum educational standards as the ultimate objective, further proposed that careful attention be given to school district organization, the tax structure, status of recent high school graduates, and the reasons behind students' dropping out of school before graduation.

A joint study with the Greenville City Schools was highly favored by the committee in order

Warm Welcome To U.S. Airmen

LONDON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force population in Britain will increase by about 12 per cent over the next few months.

"Let them all come," says the chairman of a good will committee near the big Ruislip base. "We've been getting along fine with the Yanks here for years."

His sentiments were echoed by owners of village stores near the American Air Force bases dotted over eastern England. Taking care of American families has meant business since World War II.

Some 4,000 U.S. airmen and about 4,000 dependents are expected to come to Britain from bases closing in France.

"They should love it," said Jean Marker, wife of a U.S. Air Force technical sergeant who has been in Britain three years. She comes from Manhattan, Kan.

"Their biggest problems will be the weather and the currency. I thought I'd never get used to either, but I did."

A more immediate problem will be housing. An Air Force spokesman said:

"We've been building and buying houses on the base or in the neighborhood but we still don't have enough for our needs."

"Most of our dependent families live in rented homes."

The Air Force has been installing trailer homes on some bases. An extra room is attached to each trailer to make a second bedroom.

The basic monthly allowance of $97 for quarters is adequate for British rents outside London.

The Air Force operates 21 American schools in Britain, including two high schools. By the end of next year it plans to have 14 new elementary schools for 3,000 youngsters.

The governors went on a sight-seeing tour Friday night.

Gov't Plans To Again Try Mack, Whiteside If It Can

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government says it will try Richard A. Mack and Thurman A. Whiteside again if it can. Their 14-week trial ended Friday in a hung jury.

They were charged with plotting to rig the award of a Miami television channel while Mack was a member of the Federal Communications Commission. Whiteside is a Miami lawyer.

But whether the government can bring them to trial again depends on a pending decision of Federal Judge Burnita S. Matthews.

Before the case went to the jury defense lawyers asked for a directed acquittal. Judge Matthews, in an unusual step, reserved her decision and sent the case to the jury.

If the jury had acquitted Mack and Whiteside, the acquittal motion would have become unnecessary. If they had been convicted, the judge then could still have ruled on the motion.

But the jury split 11 to 1, reportedly in favor of convicting the two men. After deliberating more

Life On A Farm Proves To Be Fun, Interesting To Boys

Life on a farm in Pitt County can be busy, interesting, and fun—especially when two boys aged 11 and 13 are involved.

Ashley and Lon Pierce, sons of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Pierce of Rt. 2 Ayden, are the two boys pictured here at work and play. Some of the things that look like work, both boys classify as things they like to do best, such as drive the tractor.

During the summer the boys play baseball. Ashley plays on the Pony League Team and Lon plays with the Little League. Lon's favorite sport is football, while Ashley says he "Likes all of them."

Helping on the farm means rising early. The usual rising time is 6 a.m., but during tobacco season the family gets up about 5:30. Ashley's job each morning is to feed the animals. Lon feeds the chickens each morning.

Another favorite pastime of Lon and Ashley is going fishing. To hear them, it is the only activity that will get them out of bed at 4 a.m.

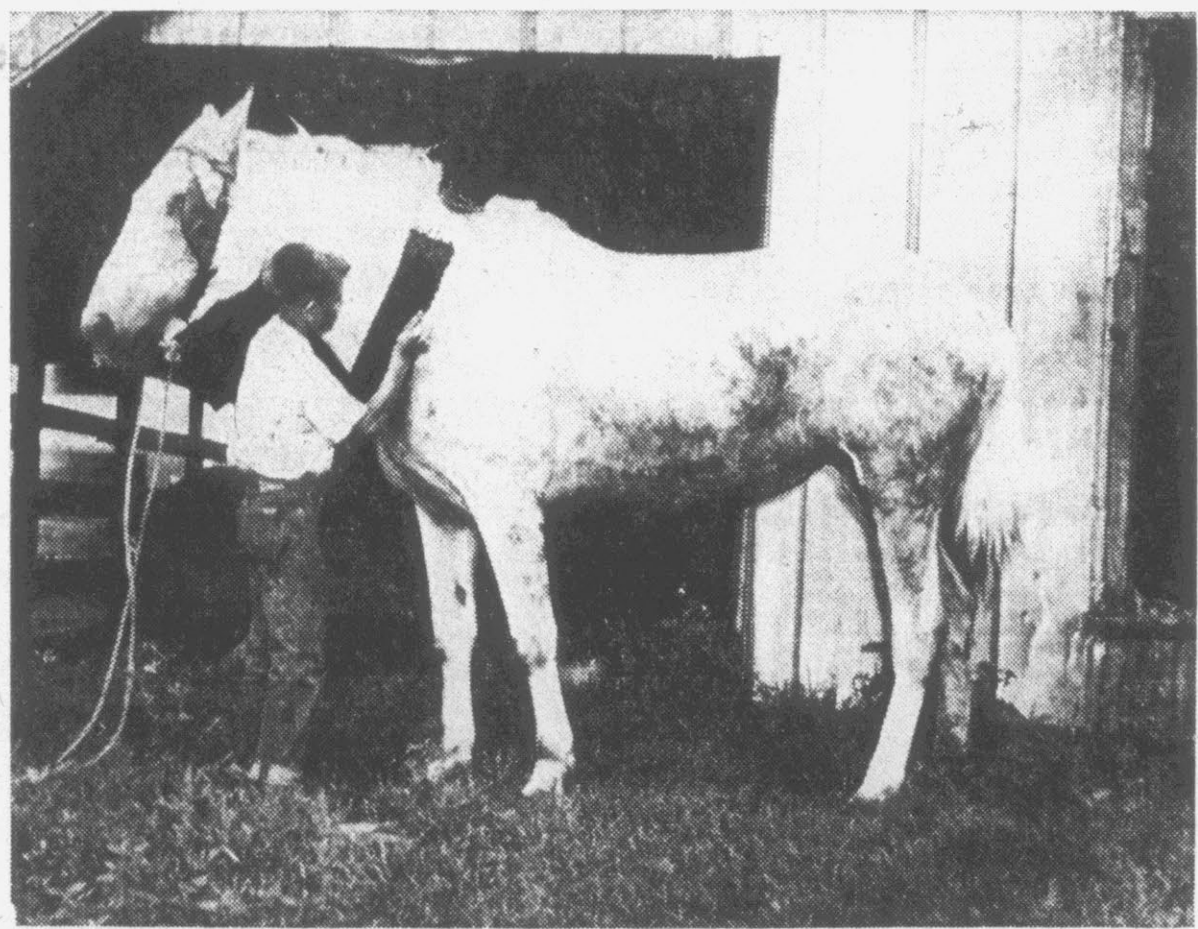

What do the boys like about living on the farm?

Ashley likes the things you can do on a farm, like riding the horse, driving the tractor, and having enough room to play any kind of sport. Lon likes to see things grow.

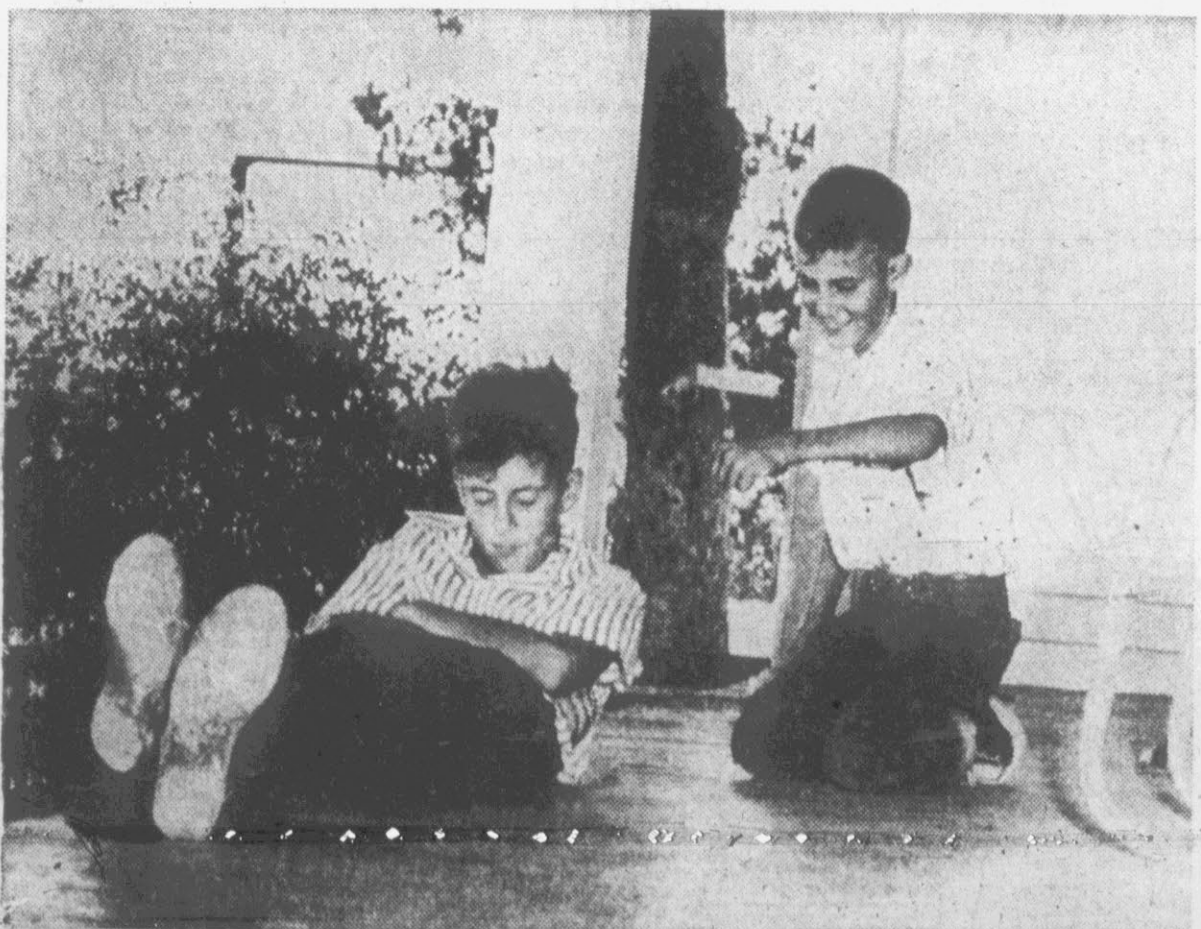

Ashley will be in the ninth grade in Ayden next year and he picked physical education as his favorite course. Spelling is the favorite subject of Lon, who will be in the seventh grade next fall.

Ashley is a member of the Future Farmers of America and raised a Black Angus Steer this spring. In June he attended the F. F. A. convention in Raleigh.

Sometime in the future, Ashley hopes to become a rancher. Lon thinks he might like to be a bachelor and a doctor."

DURING TOBACCO SEASON . . . the work horse has to be harnessed to pull the tobacco trucks between the rows of tobacco.

"I'LL BET HE'S JUST FAKING" . . . Lon attempts to get some action out of his brother who is taking an afternoon snooze.

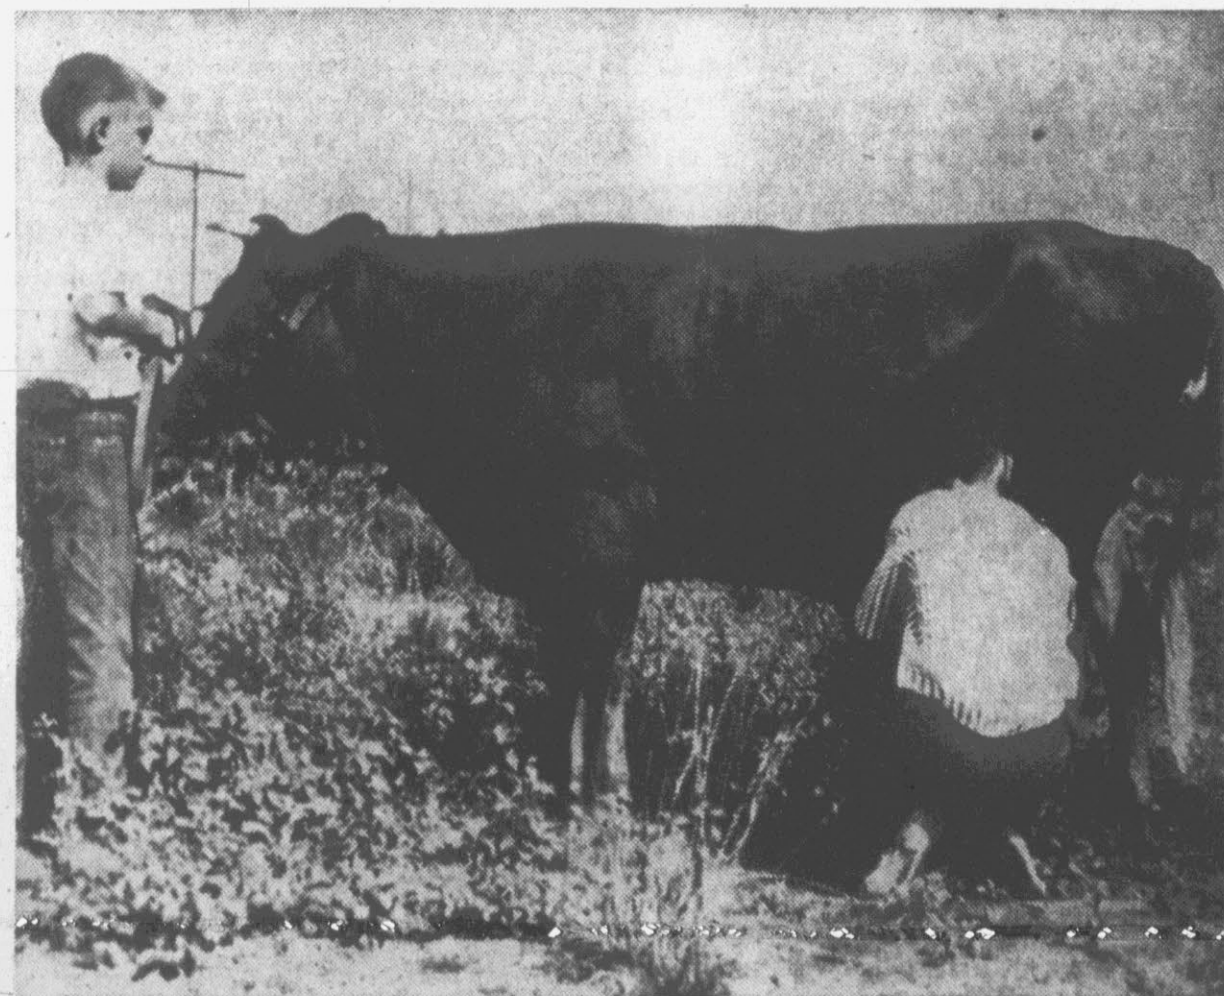

THEY LIKE TO HUNT . . . and during the summer when birds and rabbits are out of season, they hunt snakes.

WHOA-OA-OA-OA . . . With his shoulders barely above the tobacco, Lon guides the horse and tobacco truck between the rows.

Vandalism In County Schools Said Declining; Window-Breakage Costly

BROKEN WINDOWS . . . the most frequent type of damage in county schools.

Seminar And Field Trip To End Summer Institute

Major events marking the closing days of East Carolina College's Summer Institute for High School Science and Mathematics Teachers will be a seminar on Current Trends and Problems in Science Instruction Monday, July 13, and a three-day field trip this weekend by biology students to study marine life along the Morehead-Beaufort, Cedar Island area of the North Carolina Coast.

The Summer Institute, with 60 selected teachers of science and mathematics engaging in an intensive program of study has been in progress since June 8 and will continue until July 17. Presented with the idea of enabling outstanding teachers to continue their studies and to improve instruction in the schools, the Institute was financed through a grant from the National Science Foundation.

Speakers at the seminar Monday will present four different points of view on science teaching today. The meeting, open to the public, is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the air-conditioned auditorium of the Joyner Memorial Library on the campus.

Those participating in the discussion will be Dr. William F. Kieffer of the College of Wooster, Ohio, Editor of the "Journal of Chemical Education"; Dr. R. E. Wilfong, Technical Superintendent of the Dacon Plant at Kingston; Dr. A. D. Bond, Director of Student Teaching in Science, East Carolina College; and Dr. Henry Shannon of Raleigh, State Supervisor of Science and Mathematics for North Carolina.

First Paint, Now A Brush Stolen

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—A Columbia construction company reported a large paint brush stolen from a construction job Wednesday night.

The same firm reported a gallon of paint was taken Thursday night.

There was no clean-up help for the thief Friday night. Construction officials locked up the turnpike.

More than 80 per cent of Austria is mountainous, but more than half of this is under cultivation. Agriculture employs one-third of the population.

Vandalism in the county schools is on the decline according to information released through the County Board of Education. The approximate cost of vandalism for the past year is about $500 contrasted with the $1,500 vandalism cost the county school system during the same period of time several years ago.

The decline of vandalism is attributed by D. H. Conley, Superintendent of County Schools to the realization by teachers and students that it is a serious thing to damage public property. He referred to an incident about 15 years ago when some boys blasted out every window in one of the county gymnasiums with rocks. None of the recent vandalism has been as extensive.

Broken window panes, marred doors walls, and desks and small damage caused by minor break-ins, are, according to Conley, the most typical types of damage done to the school buildings. Some of the vandalism occurs after visiting teams have been defeated in athletic events. Accidental damage occurs most frequently on sides of the buildings facing athletic fields.

Public School Law places the duty of instructing the children in the proper care of public property on the principal and the teacher. If the children fail to exercise reasonable care in the protection of property during the day, they may be held financially responsible. If the damage is due to carelessness or negligence on the part of teachers or principal, they may be charged for the damage.

Highway patrolmen help scout schools where there is any trespassing. According to the County Board of Education, it is not easy to distinguish between malicious and accidental damage. Insurance carried by the Board of Education applies only to forced entry.

The county maintains a repair shop with facilities to make replacements for doors and windows, and refinish desks. Also included in the shop are repair facilities for the county buses.

The county schools, Grifton, Bruce, Sallie Branch, Stokes Elementary and Fountain, are carrying on experimental library centers which act as sub-stations to larger libraries during the summer months.

STRAC Planning Huge Cannonade

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — The Strategic Army Corps (STRAC) planned a huge cannonade today in the final phase of exercise Dragon Fireball.

Rainy weather forced cancellation Friday of an artillery air drop. Troops and equipment were moved into position by ground vehicles early in the day.

Brig. Gen. William A. Harris, exercise director and commander of the XVIII Airborne Corps, will evaluate the exercise for key personnel Sunday. Dragon Fireball assumes a brushfire war in a tactical air strike and a direct fire maneuver.

Mark Twain described cauliflower as "nothing but cabbage with a college education."

FORT PLAIN, N.Y. (AP) — Every year, when the circus came to town, George Duffy bought 1,500 tickets for the kids. He was not around Thursday, though, when the Mills Brothers circus arrived. He died a year ago. So they held a memorial service at his grave, and a wreath was laid there—by a circus elephant.

Bandits Acquire $25,000, All Of It Play Money

SOMERVILLE, N.J. (AP)—Two bandits, one armed with a pistol and the other with a club, held up a liquor store Friday and made off with $25,000—all of it in play money.

Frank M. Lozito, operator of the store, said he had stashed the money bills away playfully in a bank deposit bag at the request of his children.

He was working at his desk near the front when the man with the pistol entered. The other holdup man came in the back door, carrying what looked like a club wrapped in cloth.

"This is it," said the gunman. "Get over behind the counter and get the bag."

Lozito handed over the bag of funny money.

The bandits then ordered him to open the cash register. Before they fled, one of them scooped out $117—in real U.S. currency.

MAN WHO MISSED THE MOON

by EDMOND HAMILTON
Editor, The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N. C.

CHAPTER 16

Thayn Marden spoke rapidly to Kirk Hammond, her blue eyes blazing with excitement.

"The encephalogram was a Vramen invention," she said. "We taught the Hoomen how to construct it, but they all follow our original plan. The probe that has been built to use on me would have the same wiring diagram as every other."

Hammond stared at her uncomprehendingly. "So?"

Thayn said, "There is a small terminal board in the back of the instrument, inside the shield. It has twelve numbered binding-posts. It would be quite easy to change the whole wiring diagram."

"Two should go to Post Four, Wire Four to Post Six, and Wire Six should be disconnected completely."

Hammond began to understand. "What would that do?"

"Change the quality of the probe's radiation. I could resist it then without having my mind wrecked."

Hammond got to his feet. "I've sided with the Hoomen in this fight. I believe in their cause, and I don't see why the Vramen should hog all space and long life. Now you're asking me to double-cross them."

"It amounts to that," Thayn admitted. "But they won't get the information they want from me in any case. This would merely save my mind. I could, you know, pretend mindlessness after they use the probe."

Hammond shook his head. "No, I can't do it. I'm sorry you're going to do this thing to you, and I'm sorry you're so obstinate. But I'm not responsible for it."

Unexpectedly Thayn said, "You are right, it's not your responsibility. Well, I can't blame you. I only wish that when fate brought you from your past age, it had brought you to the Vramen instead of these Hoomen."

"And of a sudden, she smiled. 'Since nothing can be done about tomorrow, let us forget it. I want to hear more about that time when the first men went out from Earth. So long — so long ago.'"

That night Hammond could not sleep. He had made an appeal to Jon Wilson not to use the probe, and it had been rejected so sternly that he had known it was useless to carry the subject farther.

After a while he rose quietly from his bunk and without putting on his shoes he walked stealthily out into the corridor.

There was no one in the main laboratory and workshop rooms. The lights were dimmed and everyone slept except the watch on duty in the lookout above. Hammond made straight for the encephalogram. Thayn's description had been accurate. It took only a few moments to change the wires.

Hammond went back to bed and lept. When he awoke the next morning he was surprised to find that he did not feel guilty. He felt relieved. He realized now how much the thing had weighed upon his mind.

Nearly all the Hoomen went to the main laboratory early that morning to watch the 'probing. Thayn came quietly with Lund and North Abel. Her glance fell casually on Hammond's face but she did not speak or nod.

"Your last warning, Marden," said Jon Wilson grimly. "Resist the probe and what happens will be your own doing."

She made no answer. North Abel gestured toward the seat around which the complicated apparatus of the probe was arranged. Thayn silently sat down and looked stonily ahead as the big metal helmet was placed carefully over her head. Her face, the only part of her head not covered by the helmet, was white and cold and expressionless.

Abel went to the control panel and began turning switches. Thayn flinched slightly and suddenly closed her eyes.

"I'm starting," said Abel. He touched a switch, and a roll of paper tape began to come clicking out of a slot at the side of the coding unit of the machine.

Hammond felt a sharp shock. Had he failed, was the woman getting the full blast of the probe? Her face was very white and strange and he might have got the wiring wrong and Hammond exhaled a deep breath. Then he had not failed. Thayn was merely acting.

The guard came running down the spiral stair from the lookout, yelling, and every head turned toward him.

"Our radar in the lookout is picking up strong high-octave radiation that comes from down here!" he cried. "What are you doing?"

They stared at him, not believing. "You must be wrong," Jon Wilson said. "There's no radiation down here high enough to get through our shield."

"I'm not wrong," said the man, "and you'd better find the leak and shut it off before every Vramen flier along the coast has it on radar."

Suddenly Gurd Lund ran forward shouting at North Abel. "Shut the probe off! Now!"

Abel obediently reached out and turned the switches, and the dropping of the encephalogram died.

Thayn Marden opened her eyes. "You said the probe wasn't working right," Lund said fiercely to Abel. "It's the only thing that could be leaking high radiation."

Abel shook his head emphatically. "Impossible. I wired and tested it myself."

A fatal foreknowledge came upon Hammond then, as though he heard the rumble and cracking of the rock roof falling in on him. He looked at Thayn and there was a sickness in him, and a shaking rage.

"Check it," said Wilson to North Abel.

Abel took off the back shield. He looked at the wiring and then up at them with a stricken face. "The wiring has been altered. Deliberately — to make a signal that would reach the Vramen radar."

All Hammond could do at that moment was to stand and glare at Thayn, and out of the helmet her face looked at him calmly.

"You," he began, his voice choking.

Lund saw, and heard. "There's our traitor," he said, pointing at Hammond. "Look at him. I told you what would happen if you let Marden get hold of him. I told you."

Then it seemed that a clear, cold voice spoke in Hammond's brain.

"Put down your weapons, all of you," said the chill mental voice.

Down the spiral stair from the lookout post a half-dozen men were coming.

Two of them carried objects like bulky searchlights, from which sprang broad fans of pale force or light that enveloped every Hooman in the room.

It was the weapon of hypnotic attack, the hypno-amplifiers. And as he realized that, Hammond realized also that neither he nor any of them were wearing protective metal turbans now. He looked up at the calm faces of the descending men, and he heard Jon Wilson groan.

"The Vramen. This—"

No one said anything more. In Hammond's mind came another cold, hypnotic command. "Sleep! Sleep now!" it ordered. "Sleep! And darkness swept over Hammond's brain."

Hammond awakens to be told he's in love with a Vramen woman, as "Man Who Missed the Moon" continues Monday.

Safety Council Warns Traffic May Kill 39,800

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council says it is alarmed at what it called the nation's soaring traffic death toll. Unless the number of deaths are reduced sharply, the council says, there will be 39,800 traffic deaths this year. That is 2,800 more than in 1958.

Howard Pyle, president of the council, told a news conference Thursday that traffic deaths in the first five months are 5 per cent higher than in the same period last year.

"We are alarmed," he said. "If the public could also be alarmed and inspire adequate protective measure, lives could be saved."

Skunk Trap Too Cruel For Them

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "We have nothing against skunks; we just don't want them in our neighborhood."

So spoke Wanita Brewer as she rejected as too cruel a skunk trap offered by the city Thursday.

Problem of the exclusive Eagle Rock neighborhood in north Los Angeles: five of the little black and white critters. They've settled in Mrs. Brewer's garage.

A garden hose was no help when they were squirted with it the skunks deserted the driveway for the garage, good naturedly.

The Chamber of Commerce was no help. It advised calling the police, who advised calling the humane society. An inspector said:

"If I shoot one, lady, the others will surely raise a—uh—scene." So—that's where things stand.

Japanese forces in China when Japan surrendered in 1945 were estimated at one million men.

Bank Robbers In Busiest Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bank robbers were busier last year than in any year in history, the FBI reported today.

The report, for the fiscal year ended June 30, showed 764 violations of the federal bank robbery law. They included 445 robberies, 233 burglaries and 86 larcenies.

The total compared with 631 violations in the previous fiscal year and 606 in 1932, at the height of the gangster era.

In a year-end report to Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said:

"I want to point out that bank robbery has been, and always will be, a crime of the most serious nature."

"Every trigger-happy bank robber is a potential killer and should be treated as such."

"The only way to stem the tide of bank robberies is for witnesses to assist law enforcement agencies in identifying the robber, and this cooperative action must be followed by swift solution, vigorous prosecution, and the imposition of sentences suiting the gravity of the crime."

Hoover reported 11,719 convictions during the last 12 months in FBI-investigated cases, an increase of 262 over the previous 12 months.

He listed a total of $135,408,100 in fines, savings and recoveries in FBI cases during the 1959 fiscal year, and said bureau agents recovered 16,957 stolen motor vehicles during the period.

A record 5,198 car thieves were convicted in the federal courts.

Asks Right To Sue Hughes For Spending Funds

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A former aide of the Hughes Tool Co. has asked Superior Court permission to sue Howard Hughes personally, charging that the company is several million dollars in debt because Hughes used company funds for personal expenses.

An amended complaint for damages of $2,111,964 was filed by Noah Dietrich. The claim included one million dollars which Dietrich said Hughes promised him on retirement, plus unpaid salary and pension.

The complaint said the company is insolvent because Hughes used its funds for hobbies, living expenses and entertainment. It added that Hughes personally is capable of paying damages.

Dietrich's complaint said that although his claims are against the firm, he wants the court to allow Hughes to be held personally responsible.

Helicopter Nabs Its First Violator

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Highway Patrol sent out today its first citation for a traffic violation witnessed from a helicopter.

J. R. King, supervising inspector, said he and Lt. Earl Pugh looked down in astonishment last Friday morning at a big truck and trailer rig making a u-turn on a six-lane freeway outside Hayward.

King and Pugh, on a flight testing the effectiveness of helicopter observation of traffic, pursued the truck and noted its identifying markings.

The driver, Eric Tell, of Santa Maria, Calif., explained he had forgotten a cargo ticket in San Leandro and turned back to get it.

The citation charges Tell with making an illegal u-turn.
