Nixon's Tour Carries Him On To Stop In Leningrad

MOSCOW (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon flew to Leningrad today after a weekend visit with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev capped by a six-hour discussion of East-West differences.

Neither side would say whether the marathon talk had boosted chances of agreement on Berlin's future. But Nixon said the exchange with Khrushchev was helpful "because it provided an opportunity for frank and complete discussions in a calm and objective atmosphere."

A crowd of 1,000 greeted the vice president and his party at the Leningrad airport. It was nearly three times the number who turned out for their arrival in Moscow last Thursday.

Two American tourists joined the airport and held up a hastily scribbled "Welcome Nixon" sign. The vice president was delighted.

Although there was no loud-speaker system, Nixon said in a brief arrival speech he and Khrushchev had a "constructive and full discussion of the many problems that we have between our two countries."

"I can say that we had some difference with Chairman Khrushchev at the points at issue. I would say it was not a case of his convincing me or me convincing him."

Nixon went on to tell the crowd, made up mostly of young men and women, and with some sailors in uniform:

"The differences between nations in today's world must be settled at the conference table and not on the battlefield. My message to the people of Leningrad, to the American people is this—peace."

Nixon used the Russian word for peace.

Most of the crowd remained silent, perhaps because they could not hear the vice president.

The Nixons paid an overnight visit to the Khrushchevs' big cream-colored country home, or dacha, in a wooded park about 20 miles outside Moscow. Nixon returned to the U.S. Embassy residence Sunday night and drafted a detailed report on the conversation for President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's press aide, hinted the talk did little to solve any of the major differences dividing the United States and the Soviet Union.

"There naturally were major differences of opinion," he said, "but the discussions at all times were calm."

The meeting, sixth between Khrushchev and Nixon since the vice president arrived last Thursday, may be their last. Klein said, however, a farewell meeting was not ruled out when Nixon returns from a five-day visit to Leningrad and Siberia.

The two leaders talked during a long Sunday dinner on a grassy, tree-shaded knoll overlooking the Moscow River. First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan and Frol R. Kozlov and their wives, and U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and President Eisenhower's brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, also were at the table. Aides said they sat silently as the vice president and the premier discussed the talks.

Mr. and Mrs. Khrushchev did not arrive at the dacha until shortly after noon. A U.S. reporter and photographer and a Soviet reporter were admitted to report the preliminaries.

The two leaders agreed that their rough and tumble debate at the American Exposition Friday had not offended either.

The exchange, they said, was hard hitting and frank — but not belligerent. Turning to Nixon, Khrushchev asked, "were you offended?"

"Never," replied Nixon. "Mr. Khrushchev and I have some real and honest differences but we are alike in this respect: we both came from humble families and both have a practice of speaking directly and not beating around the bush."

"I agree," Khrushchev said. Before lunch Khrushchev and Nixon went for a motorboat ride on the river, stopping eight times to shake hands and talk with bathers.

Selwyn Lloyd Said To Sounded Out Gromyko On Softening Terms

GENEVA (AP) — British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd was reported to have sounded out Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko today on whether Russia will make any cut in its terms for a Berlin deal.

Lloyd held a luncheon conference with Gromyko which lasted more than two hours.

As the East-West conference went into its ninth week of negotiations, a crowded schedule of talks also called for strategy consultations among the Western foreign ministers and a Big Four secret session at the end of the day.

When the luncheon at Lloyd's residence ended Gromyko was asked whether there was any progress toward East-West agreement. He replied, pointing to Lloyd, "You had better ask the minister."

Lloyd had no comment. The United States and France have been reported standing firm against British pressure to cut down on Western terms for a Berlin agreement in order to clear the way for a summit conference.

Associates said Secretary of State Christian A. Herter is still determined to try to get an agreement from the Soviets Andrei A. Gromyko to protect West Berlin. He is reported equally determined not to accept any deal which will put a deadline on Allied rights there.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, who conferred with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan over the weekend, reportedly believes that limited assurances already offered by Gromyko are the best the West can hope for and should be accepted conditionally.

The condition, British informants said, is that the U.S.S.R. for the time being drop its demand for agreement on direct unification negotiations between the West German and Communist East German governments. All three Western powers were reported to agree that this price demanded by Gromyko for a stopgap Berlin settlement is completely unacceptable.

Lloyd took the lead today in sounding out Gromyko on the possibility of a change in the Soviet position. He arranged a luncheon meeting with him to be followed by a meeting of the Western Big Three and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano.

After returning from London Sunday night, Lloyd dined with Herter. Diplomats said the differences within the Western camp undoubtedly were discussed.

The disagreement, centering on the summit conference issue, seemed too deep and persistent to be reconciled quickly.

Lloyd and Macmillan believe a summit meeting sooner or later is inevitable. They would like to get it on the basis of some agreement on Berlin here even though that falls short of what the West is asking.

Herter and President Eisenhower feel it is vital to stand absolutely firm in the face of Soviet threats even if there is no summit meeting. They believe the minimum the United States can accept is a Soviet pledge — with no time limit on it — not to take any action to interfere with Western occupation rights in West Berlin. The French view is said to coincide with the American.

Herter indicated an attitude of no further compromise in a speech he made when he visited West Berlin Saturday. He said Western rights in the Communist-surrounded city "are clear and cannot be terminated on the unilateral action of any other power."

"We have not accepted and we will not accept any deadline on them," he said.

Gromyko has offered an 18-month trace during which the Soviet Union would promise not to take any unilateral action against West Berlin. At the end of the 18 months, he said, more power negotiations could follow. The U.S.S.R. would take no unilateral action while those negotiations were under way, he said.

Some Congressmen Think Nixon A Match For Nikita

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon is proving himself a match for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in the opinion of several Congress members.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, said Nixon is "making the best of a very difficult and delicate situation" during his visit to Moscow.

"He is rolling with the punches thrown at him by Khrushchev," Mansfield said. "He is also sending back some good punches."

Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.), a former ambassador, said in a separate interview he thinks Nixon has matched Khrushchev in "directness and toughness" in their informal, caustic exchanges.

"Nixon is doing exactly what is needed," Cooper said. "He's talking the only kind of language Khrushchev can understand."

Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.) said in a statement that Nixon's verbal encounter with Khrushchev was "a superb example of courage and intelligence."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), the Senate GOP leader, told a television audience he thinks Nixon has helped both himself and the nation by his actions, and added: "Frankly, I'm quite proud of his performance in the Soviet Union."

Nixon and Khrushchev engaged in a series of spirited exchanges as they toured the American National Exposition which Nixon formally opened in Moscow Friday.

The two top officials, who met in a long secret session Sunday told newsmen they considered the Friday exchanges "hard hitting, direct, frank — but not belligerent." They denied any implication either was offended.

Because Nixon is all but an avowed candidate for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination, there has been a great deal of speculation in Congress about the political effect of his trip.

The vice president, seemingly caught off base by Khrushchev's original outburst, came back strong in the latter rounds in the infighting that left diplomats agast at their public exchanges.

The fact that Nixon tried to be polite and circumspect at first but was willing and able to return shot for shot when he found it necessary, was regarded by political friends here as a sign of the favorite's adaptability to any circumstances.

Along this line, Simpson commented that "for once Khrushchev ran up against a man who refused to be intimidated."

Mansfield, who is no Nixon rooter, said he thinks the vice president stands to benefit at home for the way he has conducted himself thus far in a decidedly cool and often hostile atmosphere.

Claim 'Lockout' By Red Delegates

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Non-Communist participants in the seventh World Youth Festival charged today the Reds are locking them out of numerous discussion seminars where the main political activity of the 10-day rally takes place.

The non-Communists, including about two-thirds of the 350 U.S. delegates, charged that the Communist festival organizers are deliberately keeping them out of the discussion meetings because they fear free debate on "Western democracy versus communism."

Foreign Press Frowns On Bickering In Public

LONDON (AP) — Two world statesmen bickering publicly over a kitchen sink provided an alarming spectacle for Western Europe, accustomed for hundreds of years to more formal brands of diplomacy.

If row you must, best to row behind closed doors. This was the lesson many Western European editors drew from Vice President Richard M. Nixon's verbal duel with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev Friday.

"The vigorous badinage need not be taken too seriously," said Britain's liberal News Chronicle. "It was all fairly good and not too clean fun, pleasing to people who like what are rather optimistically called frank exchanges and displeasing to those who prefer more traditional forms of diplomacy."

Belgium's Le Peuple said "Nixon so far revealed outstanding qualities" in Moscow. In neighboring Holland, the vice president was praised for keeping his temper per under provocation.

"Khrushchev was in rollicking form," said the London Daily Express, but Nixon in his first essay into the Soviet gladiatorial pit acquitted himself admirably."

Nevertheless, the Express maintained, the row was a telling argument in favor of secret diplomacy as the best hope for world peace.

It called the exchange a "disgraceful performance," disclosing a "lack of restraint which is completely deplorable."

Britain's conservative Daily Telegraph said the Nixon-Khrushchev tussle "raises fresh doubts whether a high-level visit does not sometimes do more harm than good."

Around the coffee houses and wine bars in neutral Austria, the sharp debate was looked upon as "somewhat undignified."

Russians Crowd U.S. Exhibition

MOSCOW (AP) — Thousands of Soviet citizens again crowded into the U.S. National Exhibition in Sokolnik Park today, and the Soviet press continued its sniping at the exhibit.

The fair has been drawing well over the allotted 50,000 attendance in the opening days and the swelling of so many feet already is wearing out the floor of the main building, American engineers were unable to persuade the Soviet contractors to put down more stable concrete.

Americans on the streets frequently are stopped by Russians who ask how they can get tickets. None are on public sale except through public organizations such as unions and factories.

"Naturally everyone wanted to learn more about various aspects of the life of the American people, the latest technical and scientific achievements," said Tass, the official news agency.

"The crowd was attracted at those exhibits which give an idea of the high technological achievements of American workers and engineers. American automobiles are among the main attractions."

Tass said "the cars are indeed fine" but commented that a group of Moscow automobile workers closely questioned guides as to why U.S. manufacturers do not produce cheap midget automobiles and why they change models every year.

NOW AUTOMATION

CHICAGO (AP) — Automation has come to religion. Choir, organ, altar and prayer books were replaced by two slide projectors, a motion picture projector, a spotlight and a large screen at a non-denominational worship service Sunday. An Episcopal minister preached the sermon. The service was held at the Audio-Visual Association convention.

Escapees Caught In Pitt County

Two long-term honor grade convicts who escaped from the Beaufort County Prison Camp in Washington Saturday about 3:30 p.m., were taken into custody at 9 a.m. this morning near Bell Arthur in Pitt County.

According to L. F. Dail, superintendent of the Pitt County Prison Camp, the two men were seen walking down a railroad near Bell Arthur by R. R. Webb, a store operator in the area. Webb called Dail and reported the suspicious men.

Dail said he and Webb went to the railroad to check on the pair. The two convicts surrendered to the camp head with no resistance.

L. L. Short, superintendent of the Beaufort County Camp, identified the two men as Herbert Leroy McAbee, 40, of Shelby, and Marvin Harp, 23, of Winston-Salem. Short said McAbee was serving a 7-10 year sentence for larceny while Harp was serving a 19-23 year sentence for two counts of larceny.

According to Short, both men have escaped twice before and have had two years added to their sentences for previous breaks. He added, both men would again be charged with escape.

STAGGERED HOURS?

NEW YORK (AP) — The city will soon begin a $200,000 study to see if staggered working hours would reduce the subway crush. It has been proposed that firms move the working hours of half the force ahead or behind half an hour.

Marine Jet Fighter Crashes Near Scotland Neck; Pilot Safely Jumps

SCOTLAND NECK — A screaming jet Marine fighter narrowly missed Scotland Neck last night crashing in a peanut field about one and a half miles outside of town.

The pilot had bailed out near Ahoskie when the plane experienced trouble.

The aircraft crashed about 7:30 last night northeast of Scotland

Neck. Residents said it had come out of the southwest and passed over the town at an extremely low altitude estimated at no more than three or four hundred feet. The plane was trailing a dark cloud of smoke from the afterburner.

At the time a heavy thunderstorm was making up in the area and residents said the approaching plane gave off a howling noise. Many persons ran into the streets thinking a tornado was striking the town.

Townpeople saw the jet pass over for that reason.

As the plane crashed witnesses said they saw a cloud of smoke and then a sheet of flame rise into the air. There was also an explosion. However, the noise was not audible in Scotland Neck because the wind was blowing in the direction of the crash.

One witness said the jet, later identified as an F8U, came over trailing a cloud of smoke and then apparently nosed over in a straight dive.

Newsman Roy Hardee who went to the scene said the crash left a hole approximately 25 feet deep and 30 to 35 feet in length.

The jet had been traveling with a companion aircraft and the pilot of the second plane reported the trouble. He said the crashed plane suffered a flameout and the pilot decided to eject after he hit a heavy cloud bank while trying to glide to a landing.

A helicopter from Seymour Johnson Air Base and medical personnel were flown to the scene. They flew on to Ahoskie where the pilot landed after bailing out.

The pilot, identified as Lt. Col. William H. Rankin, 38, suffered only a cut tendon in a finger. He was taken to an Ahoskie Hospital.

The aircraft was understood to have been flying at approximately 45,000 feet when the flameout occurred.

The two planes were on a flight from South Weymouth, Mass., to Beaufort, S.C., the home base.

When the pilot of the second aircraft radioed for assistance a search was initiated by the highway patrol and other law enforcement agencies in the area.

Rainfall apparently kept the flames caused by the crash from spreading into the wooded area.

Largest section of the jet to be found following the crash was a piece approximately three feet in length.

Five Lives Lost Heavy Losses In As 2 Cars Collide Wake Of 'Debra'

PITTSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Four sailors returning from weekend leave died Sunday night when a car swerved across the highway into the path of their auto.

The wreck's toll went to five with the death of the driver of the other car, which apparently went out of control when a front tire blew out. Two others were injured in the crash on U.S. 64 half a mile east of Pittsboro.

The sailors, on their way back to Norfolk, Va., were Edgar Donal Waters, 27, Greenwood, S.C.; Larry A. Gibson, 18, John R. Pigg, 19, and Tom Wilson Hollifield, 19, all of Charlotte.

The other victim was Harry Falton Erwin, 63, of Pittsboro. Highway Patrol Sgt. Victor Aldridge said the blowout of the left front tire on the Erwin car apparently caused it to swerve into the path of the other vehicle.

Two sailors, Roy T. Duncan of Gastonia and Garland Hendrick of Belmont, were taken to North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill with injuries.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Communities in the water and debris-strewn wake of Hurricane Debra surveyed today millions of dollars in damages left by the wind, rain and inconvenience of the tropical storm.

Debra's path extended all the way from the Gulf coast chemical and fishing center of Freeport, Tex., into southeastern Oklahoma. She left behind smashed fishing and pleasure boats, flattened and washed out crops, shattered roofs and windows, felled trees and snarled traffic.

Industrial areas, which expected to catch some of the heaviest damage, escaped destruction.

The heaviest blows from the storm which burst with only a few hours warning from the ocean were delivered instead to fleets of boats along the Gulf.

Small boats were swamped, shrimpers were slammed against pilings and other boats and pleasure craft were washed ashore or banged against docks and boat-houses by high and vicious tides

Kennedy 'Dares' Hoffa To Sue Him For Libel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The counsel for the Senate Labor-Management Committee, Robert Kennedy, has repeated charges of wrongdoing against James R. Hoffa and challenged the Teamsters Union president to sue for libel.

Kennedy, appearing Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press," said Hoffa had misused union funds, put gangsters on the Teamsters' payroll, made deals secretly with employers, and betrayed union members.

"I would welcome a suit," Kennedy said. "I have made these charges. I feel them strongly, and I think it would be well to submit them to a jury. But if Hoffa is not sustained in his libel action he should resign."

Hoffa made no immediate move to accept or reject the dare.

Hoffa himself appeared on CBS' "Face the Nation." Largely he answered a volley of questions about legislation and listed objections to pending labor reform bills which he called punitive rather than corrective.

Boll Weevils Reportedly Are Moving In Pitt; Action Urged

Boll weevils are moving into Pitt County's cotton fields and County Agent S. C. Winchester today urged farmers to take immediate action.

"The boll weevils are doing a tremendous amount of damage to the cotton crop and they need immediate attention," Winchester said.

He said he made a check of cotton fields Friday and found boll weevil-punctured-squares ranged from 10 per cent in some fields to as high as 36 percent in other fields.

In addition every field the farm agent checked has suffered some boll weevil damage.

On the basis of that "we could estimate that every cotton farmer has a problem," Winchester declared.

"In the heavier infested fields unless something is done and done rather quickly, the plants have all the cotton on them they will make because once the percentage gets that high it can rise to 100 percent mighty, mighty fast."

"We recommend every cotton farmer check his fields immediately and if he finds 10 percent of the squares are being punctured, he should start treatment immediately."

"Any of the good boll weevil insecticide put on properly will do a good job."

He listed Aldrin, Dieldrin, Endrin, Toxaphene, Heptachlor and Malathion as insecticides which can be used. Any of the brands and farmers should follow instructions on the package.

The boll weevil problem is due to the long rains. Farmers haven't been able to treat their crops for about two weeks.

Thus "it is imperative that they start treatment immediately," Winchester declared.

Another problem has also been found in the county's cotton fields, the farm agent said. Spider mites are affecting some plants.

For treating those, Winchester recommended Tri-Talon, 2 percent or Ethion 4 percent. The chemicals should be used as a dust at 25 pounds per acre. Or farmers may use Demeton as a spray at one-fourth pound per acre.

Pitt County has approximately 2,000 allotted acres of cotton.

Don't Scoff At 'That 'Sprain'

NEW YORK (AP)—If you expect to come back from that vacation fit and happy, be sure to attend to minor injuries as soon as they occur. Milder injuries, which patients are likely to minimize, may leave behind permanent handicaps.

"The common ankle sprain, which is really a momentary dislocation of the ankle joint, so very often leaves an ankle which dislocates partially every time a man steps off a curb stone," says Dr. Joseph E. Milgram, director of orthopaedic surgery at the Hospital for Joint Diseases in New York.

Social Notes

Mrs. Leota J. Tyson and Mrs. Lucy J. Allen have returned from a visit with Joe Tyson and family on Gwynn's Island in the Chesapeake Bay. While in this idyllic water area of Virginia they purchased many items for their antique shop.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Rice left Sunday for McLeansboro, Ill. due to the death of Mrs. Rice's step-mother, Mrs. D. H. Rankin.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Haddock and Miss Lou Nichols are vacationing in Florida.

Early recognition of its severity, he emphasizes, followed by sufficient local treatment for a long enough period (most often strapping for five to six weeks; occasionally even plaster casts) results in a normal joint.

"Too many young athletes and swimmers have dislocated a shoulder joint and had it reduced or have a friend pop it back disregarding an orthopaedist's insistence to keep the arm strapped to the body for a minimum of three weeks and probably longer," Milgram says.

"These patients too seldom understand," he continues, "that the strong ligamentous attachments, which hold the head of the arm bone in place, have torn free from the neck of the scapular or wing blade and have failed to re-attach themselves, because of too early use of the arm."

Far too often, operations must be performed later for frequently recurring dislocations which might have been prevented had correct attention been obtained at once, he says.

The same is true, says Milgram, of a sudden dislocation of the knee cap which pops back when an obliging friend pulls the leg. The patient limps a few days and seems well, for a while, when repeated redislocations begin, eventually ending in the operating room.

Serious back troubles may develop because a relatively mild "sprain" was not adequately treated by a period of uninterrupted bed rest. A torn ligament anywhere in the body takes three weeks before it begins to heal securely, says the doctor.

Bone injuries, too, should not be overlooked. The boat shaped bone in the wrist called the scaphoid may crack in a fall on the outstretched hand. "It seems to be a sprain to the patient, but it is not diagnosed (and it takes a good x-ray to show the crack) the bone falls apart into two pieces and the consequences are unhappy, prolonged and usually surgical."

Milgram advises that if a wrist "sprain" lasts more than 36 hours, it should be x-rayed.

A major enemy in the summer is often a tight vacation schedule, says Milgram, and we should learn to take it easy. He explains:

"There is no more glaring need for health supervision than in the group of amateur athletes who flood our beaches, playgrounds links and mountains each summer."

Unit Two of the North Carolina State Highway and Prison Employees Association unanimously elected J. D. Parker, 2617 Dickinson Ave., Greenville, as its new chairman at a meeting last Friday night.

Representatives from Pitt, Beaufort, Carteret, Craven, Pamlico, Greene, Jones, and Lenoir Counties elected their new chairman along with G. A. Taylor, 1404 Ragsdale Rd., Greenville, as new vice-chairman and E. D. Credle, 120 N. Liberty St., Greenville, as new secretary-treasurer.

Outgoing Chairman C. W. Snell Jr., who has been recently appointed to replace the retiring R. Markham as Division Engineer, presided over the meeting and was invited to be the Unit's guest at the State Convention to be held in Durham Sept. 24-26.

The following officers were elected:

Mrs. Nixon Takes Tour Of Leningrad's Museum

LENINGRAD (AP)—Mrs. Richard M. Nixon today made a rapid tour through sections of Leningrad's big Hermitage Museum, which houses one of the world's leading collections of European paintings and sculpture.

Going along with her, but having a hard time keeping up as they went through rooms which once were part of the Winter Palace of the czars, was Mrs. Frol R. Kozlov, wife of a Soviet first deputy premier.

Mrs. Kozlov was wearing a lavender dress and medium-heeled white shoes. She had to sit down

Beauties Given Chance In Movie

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Twenty-four Miss Universe contestants get their first chances at movie careers today.

Producer Buddy Adler of 20th Century-Fox Studios will entertain them at lunch and then give them screen tests.

The new Miss Universe, Akiko Kojima of Japan, and Miss Korea, Hyun Choo Oh, are under consideration for "Wake Me When It's Over," a story about the Korean war.

Miss Norway, Jorunn Kristiansen, who placed second in the contest, and Miss Sweden, Marie-Louise Ekstrom, will be tested for the film "Salammbô."

A possible role in "The Story of Page One" awaits Misses United States, Terry Lynn Huntington; Michigan, Sue Westergaard; Texas, Carelean Douglas; Maine, Carolyn Komant; and Missouri, Barbara Jayne Stell.

Interviews for a role in "Hound Dog Man" will be given Misses Oklahoma, Sonda Osborne; Louisiana, Margaret Lo Bianco; Georgia, Dorothy Gladys Taylor; Florida, Nanita Greene; West Virginia, Wilda Sue Estep; and Arkansas, Donna Sue Needham.

to rest at one point, but Mrs. Nixon strode rapidly through scores of galleries in her high heeled leather pumps.

She saw some of the large collection of Rembrandts. They are housed in some of the 1,500 exhibit rooms of the museum, said to rank with the Louvre.

However, Mrs. Nixon seemed to take little interest in the paintings, although she was struck by one big portrait of Czar Alexander I on horseback.

The vice president's wife marveled over a woven red and green rug showing figures of reindeer and horses. It was found in 1949 in a burial mound in Siberia and apparently preserved in all its original color from the fifth century B.C.

Mrs. Nixon was not recognized by the general public in her one-hour and 40-minute visit to the renowned museum.

'Nothing New' In Adlai's View

FLORENCE, Italy (AP)—Adlai Stevenson said today that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's verbal duel with Vice President Richard M. Nixon in Moscow Friday was nothing new.

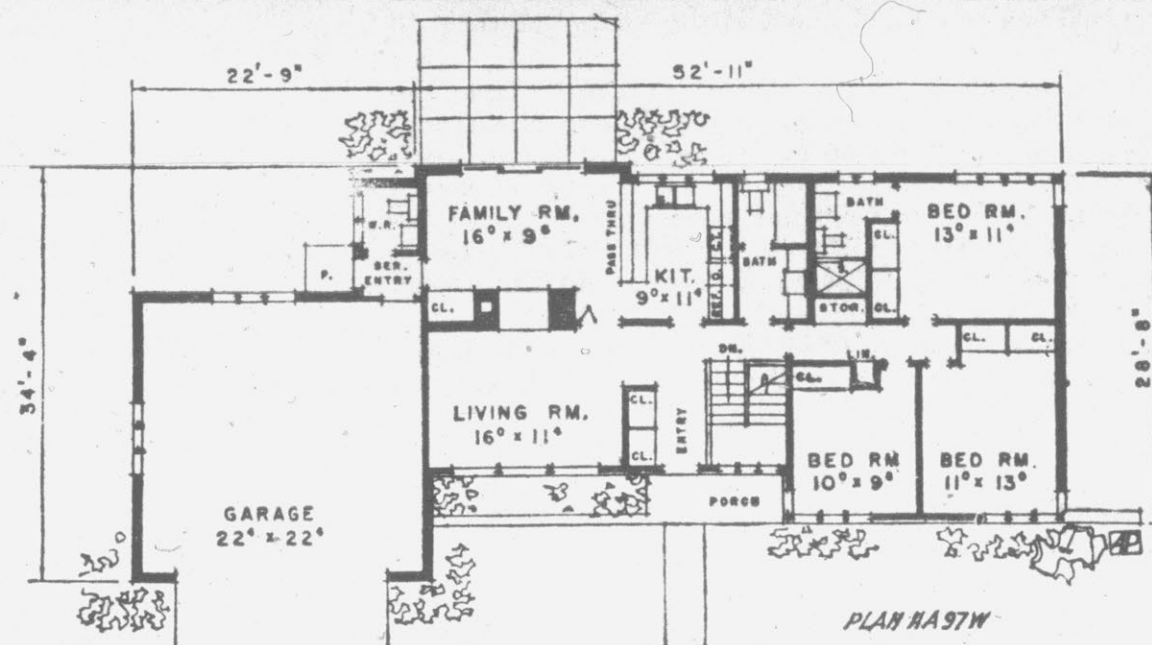

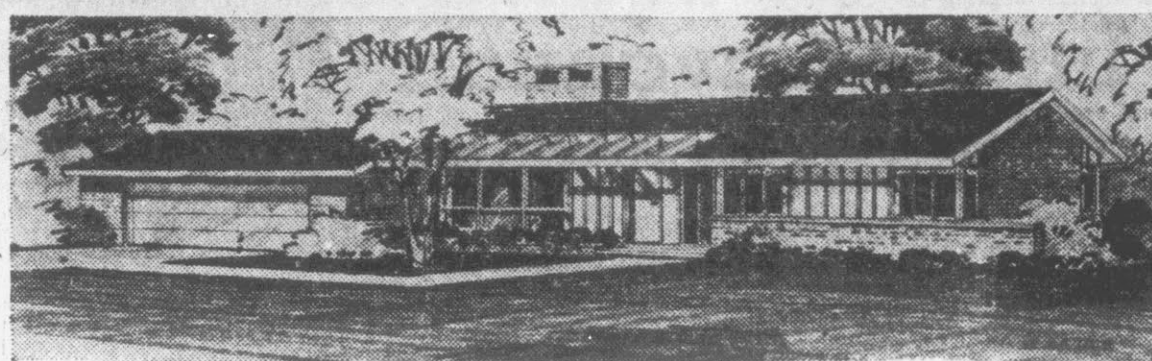

"Khrushchev is that way often," the former Democratic presidential candidate said. "It's no novelty. He behaves according to his sudden changes in mood. He has done the same with other Americans. He acted the same way with me when I went to the Soviet Union last summer."

Stevenson, here on vacation, said, he considered the international situation even more grave than it was a year ago.

Believes Russian Goals New Race

BLUE RIDGE, N.C. (AP)—Dean John W. Shirley of North Carolina State College says Russia is a "whole national educational venture dedicated to creating a new race of men."

Speaking at the sixth annual Southeastern World Affairs Institute here Saturday, Dr. Shirley, who toured Russia for five weeks last year, said he found no discontent with the communist system.

The Russians believe they will surpass the United States in industrial production and in standard of living, by 1970, he said, adding that the Russians believe they can beat the U.S. without a shooting war.

"I believe we could defeat the Soviets in a shooting war," Shirley declared, "but I am not so sure we can win a political and economic war."

Another speaker, Dr. Robert A. Rupen of the University of North Carolina, said, "The Russians believe that the United States is finished and that they will dominate the remainder of the 20th Century."

Reconsidering Gay Hart Wedding Day

SHORT HILLS, N.J. (AP)—A spokesman for the Ralph A. Hart family says there has been some discussion about changing the date of Jacqueline Gay Hart's wedding. It is scheduled for Aug. 29.

But the spokesman, George Gaines, did not elaborate for newsmen Sunday. He is the brother of Stanley Gaines, 25, Jacqueline's fiancé.

Hart, executive vice president of the Colgate-Palmolive Co., has ruled out immediate comment about the wedding, except to say: "As far as I know, they will be married."

The blonde, 21-year-old socialite arrived home by plane Saturday from Chicago, where she turned up after vanishing from New Jersey last Tuesday.

At first, she told police she had been abducted, but later admitted the story was a hoax.

The FBI says she "sort of exploded" from the tension of elaborate wedding preparations.

Gay saw her fiancé take a plane for Pittsburgh Tuesday night. Then, as she told police, she took a bus to New York and registered at a hotel there under the name of Dagmar Anderson of Allentown, Va.

She spent the night there, then took a bus to Chicago Wednesday morning. There, she heard radio reports of the furor caused by her disappearance.

FBI Chief Richard Auerbach in Chicago said Gay went to five movies on Thursday and then, "in a panic, and not quite realizing what she was doing, and being all confused, she took a cab out into the park. She walked for a while and hailed the first police car she saw."

Joseph Weldon, Newark police director, indicated no charges would be filed against the girl.

The chief assistant U.S. attorney in Chicago, Mitchell S. Rieger, also declined to prosecute Gay for giving false information about a kidnapping because of her "current and previous general mental and physical condition."

Gay herself cleared up one mystery—the disappearance of $5,000 worth of jewelry she wore when she left home.

She explained she mailed the gems from Chicago to a New York bus terminal. The FBI returned it to her Sunday.

Nearly Died In Gold Mine Hunt

BRAWLEY, Calif. (AP)—An Easterner who set out afoot to search for a legendary lost mine in the scorching desert was found near death Sunday.

Searchers found Joseph Pendginski, 42, of North Brooklyn, N.Y., unconscious and dehydrated in an abandoned mine shaft. He is in serious condition in a hospital here.

Pendginski left Niland, a small town north of here, Friday. A note to a hotel owner said he was headed for the Chocolate Mountains to look for the Pegleg gold mine, supposedly a rich producer in the 1890s.

Pendginski took only a small canteen of water and two cans of tomato juice. The temperature hit 130 degrees in the area.

Brothers' Cars In Head-On Crash

An estimated $1,000 damage resulted Sunday when two cars, driven by two brothers met head-on on the Belvoir Highway in front of the Pitt County Prison Camp just north of Greenville.

Investigating Patrolman W. K. Chapman of Bethel identified the brothers as Lewis McDowell Wallace, 23, of Route 6, Greenville, and Lewis Henry Wallace, 17, of Route 4, Greenville.

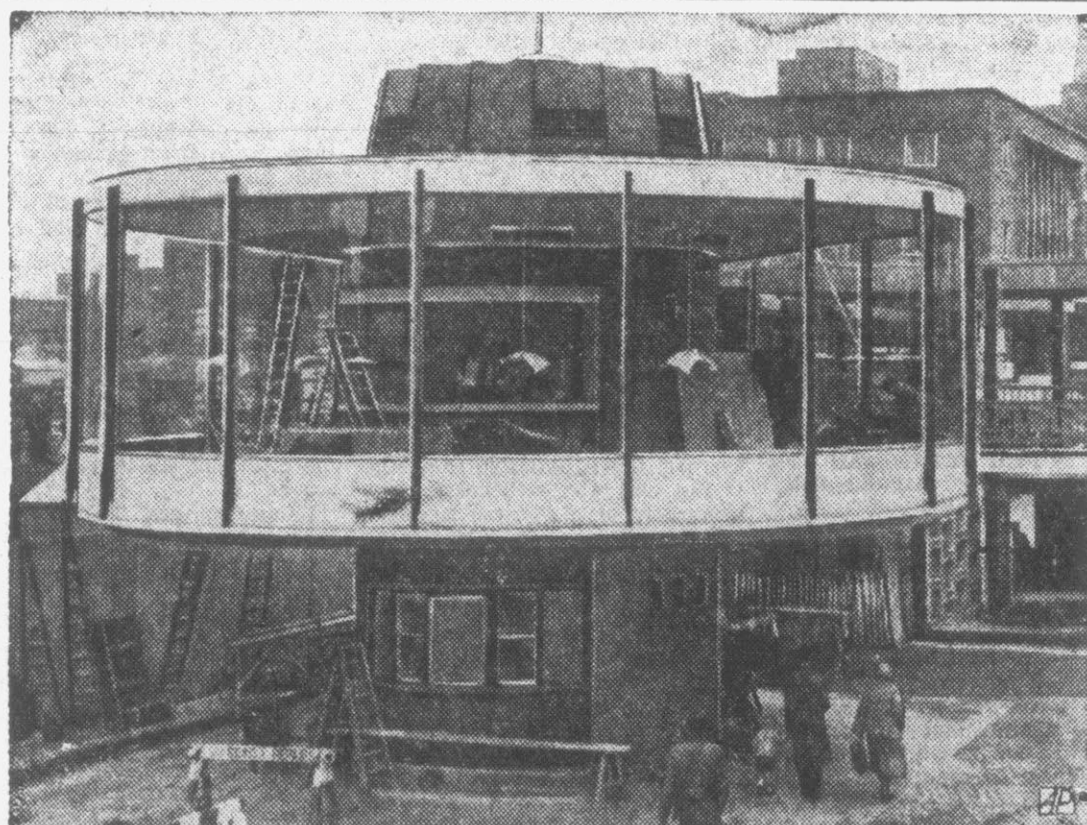

According to Chapman, Henry was headed East toward the intersection of the Belvoir Road and US 13 when he allegedly lost control of the car which skidded around a curve, crossing to the left side of the road and striking his brother McDowell's car head-on.

Damage to each car was estimated at $500 and young Wallace was charged with operating to the left of the center line as a result of the collision.

Chapman said Henry was driving his father's car at the time of the collision.

Chesapeake Bay, headed by Baltimore, is 180 miles long.

The London Police Force was organized by Sir Robert Peel in 1829.

We Have A 'Shar e' In The Savannah

Eastern North Carolinians had greater reason for interest in the launching of the nuclear ship "Savannah" than perhaps did the Ports Authorities of such cities as New York, New Orleans, San Francisco or the great overseas ports.

And the wonder of it is that the link between N. S. Savannah and a "small port" state exists. Certainly it would be more easy to comprehend had North Carolina boasted one or more of the great outlets to world sea trade routes.

One would expect the impetus for a nuclear-powered cargo-passenger vessel to come from a spokesman for an area more immediately concerned with ocean trade.

Instead, it was left for Congressman Herbert C. Bonner, of our own First District, to propose construction of the nuclear ship and then "sell" the idea to Congress.

The House was reminded of this near-forgotten aspect by Rep. Thor C. Tollefson (R-Wash.), who is ranking minority member of the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, shortly before launching of the Savannah.

In a brief statement, Rep. Tollefson said Bonner can "rightly be called the 'father of the nuclear ship Savannah'."

"It was his proposal which authorized the construction of the vessel and which was enacted into law. It was his idea that the ship should be a cargo-passenger vessel, and not simply a show boat for demonstration purposes," said Tollefson.

In another segment of Rep. Tollefson's remarks, he recalls that:

"Congressman Bonner was charged with the responsibility of convincing both Congress and the appropriate administrative agencies that his proposal was sound. This he did despite vigorous opposition. The vessel has now been constructed."

Paraphrasing, it should be noted that Rep. Bonner called attention to Rep. Tollefson's joining with him in the original proposal by introducing an identical bill.

Today the N. S. Savannah is being fitted out for eventual sea trials and then, in the course of time, to work.

Because it is such a radical departure from the present family of ocean-going vessels one is tempted to say it is the "ship of tomorrow" . . . the progenitor of future merchant fleets. As such, we may expect a certain amount of wrinkles to be ironed out, an adjusting of thinking and facilities—ashore and afloat—before the nuclear ships really come into their own.

But all of this may well come about sooner than later. A quick recollection of the changes in ocean shipping over the past hundred years should convince anyone that "Tomorrow" is always with us, is, in fact, a part of the present.

To keep the wheel turning there must be somewhere men with vision; and as a result, we of Eastern North Carolina have a link with that "ship of tomorrow."

A Word Of Thanks To Our Guest Writers

A word of appreciation is certainly in order to the men who have contributed guest editorials to this space for the past week.

The Reflector counts itself fortunate in having such friends as well as the opportunity to offer its readers the opinions of acknowledged authorities in a diversity of fields.

Favorable reception in other years of guest editorializing largely influenced the decision to do it again.

For their time and efforts expended in preparing their editorials we are most grateful, and offer our thanks to

Messrs. R. L. Martin, J. H. Rose, S. E. West, D. H. Conley, R. D. Minges, J. H. Waldrop, and Leonard Weston.

Gov't Finance Problems Again

By RALPH ROBEY

Some weeks ago this space was devoted to a discussion of the request of the Administration for an increase in the federal debt limit, for an elimination of the present 4 1/2 per cent ceiling on government bonds of over five years' maturity (there is no ceiling on obligations of shorter maturity), and for authority to adjust the rate of interest on E and H savings bonds. At that time it was the expectation that the House would meet the request promptly and without difficulty, but that in the Senate there would be a substantial squabble. We expressed the opinion that after the Senate argument the Administration would obtain what it had requested. Raising the debt limit was promptly passed, although by a smaller amount than the Treasury wanted.

A Guest Witness
The trouble started in the Ways and Means Committee, to which the Administration request was referred. That Committee had three days of hearings (June 10, 11, and 12) and all the witnesses with one exception were connected with the government. The one exception was Gerhard Colm. He is chief economist of the National Planning Association and appeared at the personal invitation of the Committee Chairman, Mr. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.). The questioning of the witnesses was lengthy but there was no intimation of revolt by the Committee against the wishes of the Administration.

Following the hearings the Committee went into executive session with Secretary of the Treasury Anderson and Federal Reserve Board Chairman Martin, for the purpose of working out a bill which would be satisfactory to all concerned. This objective was never realized, although a bill was adopted by the Committee by a fairly substantial majority.

This bill does not lift the interest ceiling, but it authorizes the President for two years to declare that it is in the national interest to offer more than 4 1/2 per cent on bonds of five years or longer maturity, and to make an upward adjustment in the rate paid on E and H savings bonds. The obvious purpose of this provision is to put the stigma of higher interest rates upon the Republican Administration, rather than upon the Democratic majority in Congress. The bill also carries a recommendation that the Federal Reserve System discontinue its limitation of open market operations to short-term government paper, and start to buy long-term government bonds. These purchases are one of the means by which the Federal Reserve System controls the lending power of the commercial banks. The recommendation was made by Gerhard Colm in the hearings, and it was agreed to by Chairman Mills.

Neither of its provisions is sound and neither will contribute to the public welfare. Requiring the President to declare that the national interest makes it necessary to offer more than 4 1/2 per cent rate on bonds is certain to upset the government bond market, and that market has been having enough trouble without adding a new disturbing factor.

Congressional Interference
The recommendation to the Federal Reserve System is just as bad, and probably worse. Chairman Martin says the recommendation is either meaningless, and if so it should not be in the bill, or it means what it says, and if that is the case then it is a direct congressional interference in the management of the money supply by the Federal Reserve Authorities. This is a logical and well taken point of view by Mr. Martin, for it is obvious that the Congress does not have, and cannot attain, the knowledge necessary to supervise the money supply on a day-by-day basis.

The most persistent argument made against removal of the interest rate ceiling is that it would cause an increase in the carrying charge of the public debt. This is not true. If the Treasury had the freedom to take advantage of the whole range of investment funds available, the total burden of the public debt might well be less than it is today. Further, present interest rates are not high by historical standards — they are high only in relation to the past several years. And forcing the Treasury to do its financing solely in the short-term market will not save money. This was proved in the recent issue of a $2 billion issue of one year bills.

What is taking place will help no one and, if continued, will cause trouble and embarrassment.

Strength For Today

BLESSEDNESS NEVER ENDING
Two friends of mine have made a considerable financial success out of a motion picture house they built and have operated now for some years. Practically every motion picture house in the state in which they live is open on Sunday. But not theirs. People often remark about this and when they are asked the question, "Why don't you stay open on Sunday?" the answer they get is "Because it's Sunday."

One has to ponder an answer of that sort a moment to appreciate its significance. It is based on a moral conviction. These two men as boys were taught the value and sacredness of Sunday by their consecrated, Christian mother. They have never departed from that teaching. And

Learn It In The Mails

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Are American cows getting soft? Are they too contented? They now lag behind the cows of six other countries in milk production. The average U.S. cow produces only 6,300 pounds of milk a year, compared to 9,040 pounds for a cow in Holland, the world leader.

You probably don't know how busy your little body really is even when you're resting. It destroys and replaces 10 million red blood cells every second.

Famous people sometimes have some odd drinking habits. Christopher Columbus put salt in his wine. And Frederick the Great liked to flavor his champagne by stirring in a little mustard.

One reason you have to watch your weight. The ordinary adult, according to Dr. Carlton Fredericks, the nutritionist, consumes his own weight in food every 50 days.

Marital truth: "A marriage goes on the rocks," says singer Lisa Kirk, "when neither party wants to be a mate — and both want to be captain."

Three of every five families in the United States now are protected by some form of health insurance.

The federal budget has been balanced only five times in the last 27 years. This was a big red ink year despite the fact the Bureau of Engraving and Printing turned out 35 million dollars daily in fresh bills.

Fashion news: This notation appears in Sir Samuel Pepys' Diary in the year 1669: "My wife this day put on her first french gown, called a sac."

One way to make a million dollars. Invent a cigarette with a built-in cough syrup. The Maori tribesmen of New Zealand believe that the moon is the permanent husband of all women and plays a more important role in reproduction than do earthly husbands.

Meteorologists believe the world is growing slightly warmer. One proof: The ice in the Arctic Ocean is only about half as thick as it was late in the 19th century.

You looking for some clean money? Japan is experimenting with a new kind of paper currency that can be laundered.

Men seem to be getting vainer than women. There's an example: Barber shops in New York City now outnumber beauty parlors 5,004 to 3,995.

The nicest old girl in America is the Statue of Liberty. She has proboscis two-feet-six.

Prosperity note: Latest statistics show 28 per cent of American families are living beyond their income.

There is one heartening fact about the growing problem of juvenile delinquency. Last year there were about 18 million boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 17 who were not picked up by the police for any crime whatsoever.

Our quotable notables: "There is no point high enough that one can say, 'This is the peak,'" — violinist Jascha Heifetz.

Hamsters, popular as pets and useful to science in laboratory experiments, are now being raised for their fur. It takes 120 of the little animals to make minky a coat.

Canine comfort: There's a summer camp in Westchester County for dogs.

It was G. K. Chesterton who observed, "the world will never starve for wonders; but only for want of wonder."

"A national news magazine says it's getting harder and harder to find much to worry about in today's world. Its editors just don't know what the score is in the depressed baseball areas." — Lexington Herald.

"Crime and subversion have become critical challenges due to the mounting success of criminal and subversive elements in employing loopholes, technicalities, and delays in the law to defeat the interests of justice." — J. Edgar Hoover.

Other Editors Saying . . . Need Raw Materials

(Wilson Times)

E.A. Resch, editor of the Chatham News, Siler City, is the author of an editorial that has had wide circulation in the newspapers in the state. Mr. Resch wrote on supplying the raw materials for the manufacturing plants that are here.

The spark for the editorial was the necessary layoff at Swift and company because of the lack of livestock. The company must have livestock, cattle and hogs in order to keep the wheels of the new plant working.

Mr. Resch spoke many truths, among them that processing plants are the crying need of this agricultural section, that manufacturing is the answer but raw materials are necessary in order to make the plants pay.

He told a true story. It was on Governor Broughton who liked peanut brittle candy. The Governor was in the peanut raising section so his mind was on his favorite sweet. He went in the drug store and bought a box of peanut brittle. Then he remarked, "chances are that the candy, produced in California was made of peanuts produced right in the area where I bought the finished product."

Everyone realizes that it takes time to raise livestock. It does not take as much time to raise hogs. But quantities are needed to supply a plant the size of Swift and company.

You recognize that this is primarily tobacco country and this is the busy season for the tobacco farmer. But a balanced economy is the sure way to success. And processing plants for the products are a must in an agricultural area.

Shipping cattle from Montana for the local Swift plant is not a profitable business for anyone. This attracted Mr. Resch's attention. And he wrote on the subject. It is hoped the time is just around the corner when the Swift demand can be supplied from Eastern Carolina.

Mr. Resch said he knew of an industry that buys millions of dollars worth of needed parts in a distant state, having to pay the freight which adds to production costs, because no such parts are made in North Carolina.

The editorial concludes with this sound advice: "The drive for new industry should always include an aggressive approach to the matter of making raw materials or parts readily available. Else we will see the day when needed industries will shy away from North Carolina in favor of states where raw materials are not in short supply."

Quote . . .

"Crime and subversion have become critical challenges due to the mounting success of criminal and subversive elements in employing loopholes, technicalities, and delays in the law to defeat the interests of justice." — J. Edgar Hoover.

"The Postmaster General will ban it and the courts will knock down the ban. "American morals and mores make it that way. The Postmaster wouldn't dare fail to ban a naughty book because that would lose votes for his party. Even people who like to read such stuff would denounce him as a wicked man. Then when the matter reaches the courts, it may be decided on the law because the judge doesn't have to run for office. Wait and see: the same thing will happen again." — We're waiting.

Choice Of Four Plans

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Before explaining these four programs, let me impress upon readers the importance of not mixing the programs. Each has its advantages and disadvantages. Hence, you should select one and stick to it. This advice is based on over 54 years of experience in the "school of hard knocks and hard work."

1. INVESTING BY THE CY. CLE. Program No. 1 calls for selling at a time like this and depositing the money received in a bank, waiting for the next big break which will come surely some day. Then you will again buy the most active good stocks and hold them until another bull market comes; then follow the same plan over again. This is the most profitable program for those with courage and patience.

2. THE LONG-GROWTH COMMON STOCK PROGRAM. No. 2 provides that investors pay no attention to stock market prices but purchase a little "long-growth" stock every few months as they have the money, keeping these stocks for a long time. This is satisfactory if the advisor makes sound selections. When, however, companies are young, it is difficult to know what they will be when they "grow up."

As an illustration, I am listing the names of some such stocks which are bought, in accordance with Program No. 2, by an intelligent Boston stock broker for his children and grandchildren. THESE STOCKS ARE NOW VALUELESS. Amalgamated Gold Dredging Co.; Black Diamond Anthracite Coal; Boston Mining & Exploration; California Fortune Oil; Deadwood Standard Gold Mining & Milling; Dorothy Gold Mining; Eastern Kentucky Oil; Goldfield Mutual Prospecting & Developing; Hidden Fortune Mining Co.; Invinible Gold Mining; Mount Gilneas Gold & Silver Mining Co.; Old Mexico Tin Mining & Milling; Santa Ana Tin Mining and Spearfish Gold Mining & Reduction Co.

3. BUYING GOOD STOCKS AND CUMULATIVE PREFERRED FOR INCOME ONLY. With Program No. 3 you would not sell your stocks in a high market, but would wait for a lower market before buying others. This Program is very suitable for older people.

4. THE FOURFOLD SYSTEM. Program No. 4 is the one I like best, combining profit, income and security. Such an investor today would have one third of his money in good common stocks as an inflation hedge; one third of his funds in bonds or good cumulative preferred stocks for income; and one third in cash, waiting for a break in the market. Thus, whatever happens, he would be able to take advantage of any future market situation. Although I am not strong for Program No. 1, I feel that Program No. 2 is dangerous and that it is wrong to ignore the "ups and downs" of the stock market.

CONCLUSION: During the more than 54 years that I have been studying the stock market, I have seen it go through three wars, four panics, and five booms. Although I admire young men for their courage and initiative, I think that investors should always consult both young men and old men. The younger men think that we are continually entering "new eras" and that panics can never occur again. Then they are bearish too long when the country is in a depression.

Old men, however, know that ever since there have been any reliable records — wars, business, investments, and even nations have moved in cycles. Periods of prosperity have encouraged carelessness, dishonesty, and an unreasonable increase in government, corporation, and personal debt. This has finally resulted in a decline and depression. A depression tends to make people industrious and more anxious to pay up their debts. This results in a period of improvement and another era of prosperity.

Although those who follow Program No. 1 may be unable to pick out the exact high spot of a bull market and the low spot of a bear market, yet they are

Johnson Says Majority's Bills Will Be Acted Upon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bills Congress will pass before adjournment will do all that a majority of its members and the President will agree can be done now, says Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson.

Hinting strongly at a willingness to compromise, the Senate Democratic leader said he must see that the Democratic-controlled Senate avoids a legislative deadlock with the Republican Administration.

Congress must do something, Johnson added in a week radio-TV interview, even if "we won't do everything that I would like to do."

"I think the people sent us here to do our job rather than to make issues or to play politics," he said.

Johnson said he feels that "the majority leader of the Senate must, in effect, try to be a leader of the Senate, not just the Democratic Party."

Johnson expressed his views during a radio-TV program with Sen. Everett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) recorded for Massachusetts and Texas stations.

What does Johnson think about these important issues still before Congress?

Labor regulation: He predicted passage of a good bill. Housing: He said he expects Democrats to find some area of agreement with President Eisenhower. He made no mention of a possible attempt to override Eisenhower's housing bill veto.

Civil rights: He said he hopes Congress will pass a civil rights measure this session, adding "I think it's very important that we have understanding and we have tolerance, but that we make progress."

Wheat and tobacco: The Senate will not hesitate to take another look at wheat and tobacco control legislation, he said, if Democrats can find common ground with the Republicans on measures to replace the vetoed wheat and tobacco bills.

Veterans' benefits: He predicted eventual approval of a bill the Senate already has passed providing educational and other benefits for veterans who served after the Korean war. The measure in its present form is likely to be vetoed.

Civilian Conservation Corps: He expects action on the Administration's proposed measure which comes before the Senate early this week.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, the minority leader, told a reporter he has real hope that a sound program for wheat can be worked out this session. He also said he hoped civil rights measure eventually will get to the Senate floor.

Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla.) said in a recorded radio-TV program he saw no need for a civil rights bill. Any new measure, he said, would serve "to agitate the situation rather than help it."

Search For Two Lost In Canyon

GRAND CANYON, Ariz. (AP) — National Park rangers pressed a search today for two persons missing and believed injured in the depths of the rugged Grand Canyon.

The body of a youth tentatively identified as Walter J. Mahoney, 26, of Savannah, Ga. — a companion of the missing pair — was found Sunday.

Rangers said Mahoney died of exposure and lack of water on a rugged, twisting trail at the bottom of the gorge apparently while seeking help for his friends — a Catholic priest identified only as Father Gavigan and Mason Owens, 16, both of Savannah.

The three hiked into the canyon Friday. The search began Saturday after tourists on the south rim reported hearing calls for help from deep in the gorge.

Rangers said Mahoney wrote a note in the sand along the Colorado River indicating his companions had been injured. His body was found about a half mile from the message.

Authorities expressed doubt the missing pair, if injured, could long survive without water in the bottom of the mile-deep canyon, where temperatures soar as high as 120 degrees during the summer.

Highest point in Louisiana is in Caliborne Parish with an elevation of 469 feet.

Castro Is Swept Back Into Premier's Post

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro, swept back into the Cuban premier's post as expected, by an enormous popular demonstration, served notice Sunday night he will be friends with the United States only if the United States does not get in his way.

The spectacular crowd estimated at nearly a million cheered wildly as he told them he would bow to "the will of the people" and resume office. The demonstration again underscored that the bearded, 32-year-old revolutionary leader is Cuba's strong man.

The vast sea of humanity sent up reverberating cheers as Castro by implication told off critics in the United States.

He asserted that Cuba is not a protectorate or colony of any other country but a free sovereign nation and "we have to account to no one."

Castro said Cuba wants to be friends with all nations but can not be with those "who offend us, who insult us and who exploit us" nor with any vested interest which tries to "impose itself on the destiny of our people."

But in 2½ hours of talk, Castro failed to mention communism by name at all. He referred to it only obliquely, when hitting at his critics, but apparently did not feel it necessary to deny their charges that he is letting the Reds influence his government. Uptown Havana's Civic Plaza was packed with the shouting, cheering throng. Castro told it emotionally that from now on the "symbol of our revolution will be the machete," the long, sharp knife used for cutting sugar cane.

The announcement provoked furious response during which some 400,000 campesinos — farmers — brought from the provinces to swell the demonstration clashed their machetes in unison to add to the general uproar.

Castro whipped up another ovation when he added that if his enemies should ever think of coming back to Cuba, "let them contemplate for just about five minutes those machetes."

Castro made it clear that such mammoth demonstrations will be held whenever it is considered necessary to demonstrate popular support for his policies. That of Sunday, officially celebrating the anniversary of his 26th of July revolutionary movement, was called originally to demonstrate support for his land redistribution program.

Castro claimed it was only the will of the people that persuaded him to resume the premiership he left nine days ago to force the resignation of provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

The first announcement of his return to office came from President Osvaldo Dorticos, Urrutia's successor. It set off a wild, jubilant ovation, with the campesinos joyously throwing straw hats into the air.

Enormous showmanship went into making the rally the spectacular thing it was. Gimmicks included the release of a thousand doves as Castro made his appearance and release of hundreds of red, white and blue balloons trailing the black and red colors of the 26th of July movement.

Planes and helicopters zoomed low overhead dropping small, multicolored parachutes containing candy.

Before the speech, a Cabinet minister presented Castro with evidence of recovery of 20 million dollars in cash and 51 million dollars worth of property from collaborators of Batista.

Half a dozen persons died here and elsewhere in the nation.

The Rochester, N.Y., Red Wings of International League refused to take the field for their scheduled Sunday contest with the Cuban Sugar Kings as a precaution against shooting. Spent bullets which hit a player of each team broke up their Saturday game in a 4-4 tie in the 11th inning.

There were reports that 17 persons had been injured in various parts of Havana. A number of army officers were arrested for unauthorized firing of their guns to celebrate.

Ballerina Uses Her Will Power

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A passerby would have seen a strange sight backstage at the Greek Theater the other night. There was prima ballerina Alicia Alonso addressing a spate of Spanish to her ankle.

Pointing a finger, she spoke sharply (rough translation): "I don't care if you hurt or not. You are going out on that stage and dance 'Copella.' And it did."

The incident helps explain why Miss Alonso, though a grandmother, is considered by many the top ballerina of the Western Hemisphere. To her, the ballet regimen is a conquest of mind over matter. So far, mind has been an easy winner.

"The body will do what you tell it," she reasons. "If you have a strong enough will, it can do almost anything. Most people grow old because they do not make good use of their bodies. They get lazy and fat when they should exercise."

Exercise is a way of life with Miss Alonso. She has been doing the strenuous ballet workouts since she was 9, continuing them even when she was pregnant.

"I don't even think about it any more," she said. "It just seems a natural thing to do. I never go more than a week without practicing."

On this score, she agrees with her partner, Igor Youskevitch. He argues that boxers and baseball players would not face obsolescence in their 30s if they trained year-around, as a ballet dancer does. Instead, many go to seed in the off-season and have to fight to regain trim when the time near for a contest.

Assails Inviting Soviet Industry

SANFORD, N.C. (AP) — There is enough industry in the United States to invite to North Carolina rather than inviting communist Russian industries, the head of the North Carolina Veterans of Foreign Wars said here Sunday.

"If we do not have the needed industries, I feel we have capable scientists who can create the needed industries for our nation," said J. Paul Henley of Greensboro, commander of the State Department of VFW.

Henley was critical of a statement attributed to Gov. Luther Hodges who just completed a tour of Russia. Hodges invited the Russians to consider North Carolina as a site for industry.

The VFW head, speaking to a District VFW meeting, called on VFW members to become "watchdogs" of high Russian officials making exchange visits in the U.S.

"I fear our nation may be swallowed up by the Russians with their 'honest John' attitude while gathering up needed information during their American visits," he warned.

She Loves Her Mouse In House

HAVANT, England (AP) — Stella Thompson thinks mice are nice. She would rather have a mouse than a house.

The mouse, a wild one which Miss Thompson tamed, has the run of her one-room flat. She calls him Will.

Miss Thompson, 37, has been left a large modern house by her late father, but she has decided not to move.

"I don't think Will would take to new surroundings," she explained. "He is shy and cannot fend for himself, and I just can't leave him."

Truck May Have Caused Accident

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Police today are searching for a truck which may have been responsible for a bus-car collision 25 miles north of here Saturday in which three Marine reservists were killed.

Twenty-one bus passengers and the bus driver were injured. Three passengers and the driver remained hospitalized Sunday, but none were reported in serious condition.

Robert Warthan, 44, driver of the southbound double-decker Greyhound bus, said a southbound truck swerved into the side of the bus, causing it to veer into the path of a northbound car. The accident occurred on heavily traveled U.S. 1 just after a heavy rain began.

Killed when the bus flattened the front of their car were Raymond Leo Lazere, 25; Charles Bartlett Judson Jr., 22, and Stanley Szymczyk, 19, all of Miami, Fla.

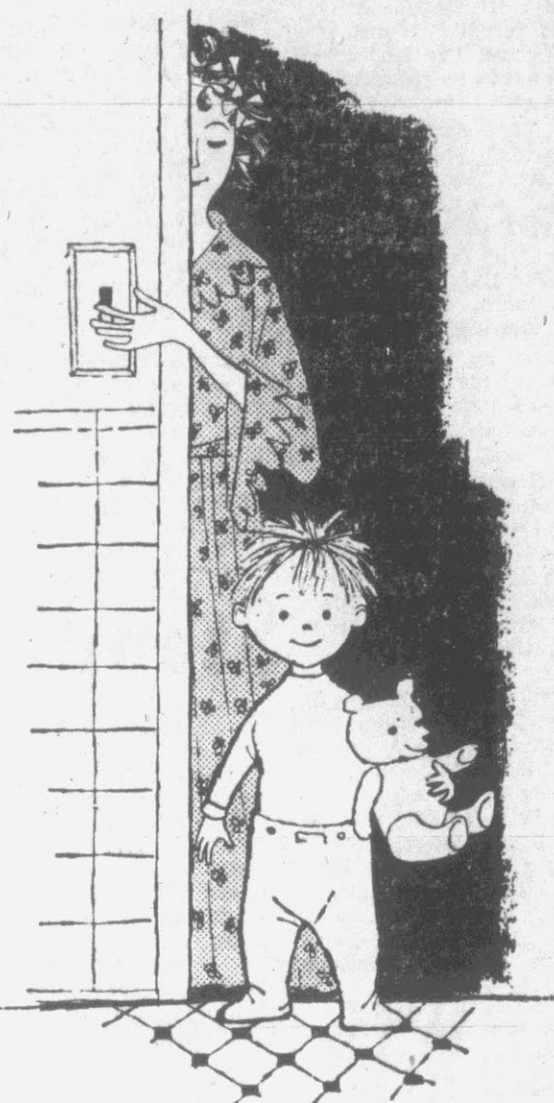

The victims were reservists doing a tour of duty at the Cherry Point, N.C. Marine base. They reportedly were headed for Washington, D.C. on liberty when the accident occurred.

Little Leaguers Open District Playoffs

Locals To Play This Afternoon

Little League district play-offs opened today at Morehead City and both Greenville teams, the North Staters and Tar Heels, had tough assignments in opening day action.

The North State outfit was slated to go against Morehead City this afternoon at 2:00 and the Tar Heel club had a game scheduled against Beaufort at 4:00.

Others in the play-offs are Shaw Air Force Base, Pope-Briggs, Warsaw, Tarboro, Robersonville, Havelock, Morehead City, and Beaufort.

The winner of the district tournament will advance on to Forest City next week for the state tournament.

The two Greenville clubs departed for Morehead City early this morning and both teams were given a good chance to win the three day tournament.

Included on the North State roster are Daniel Joyner, James Piliam, Branley Register, Melvin Hudson, Charles Vincent, Mike Morton, John Plana, James Ashby, Bill Wilkerson, and Thomas Jordan, Danny Singleton and Ray McGlothin, Donald Calloway and James Williams.

The Tar Heel squad will be made up of Frank Moye, Tommy Smith, Jerry Clark, Jimmie Mullen, Danny Cain, Wayne Evans, Ricky Webb, Connie McGowan, Danny Keel, Jack Boone, Larry Taylor, John Horne, Malcolm Beaman and L. B. Combs.

Drysdale Won't Admit Good Day

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If he threw a perfect no-hitter, or maybe a 25-inning shutout, Don Drysdale might admit under torture that he had a reasonable good day.

But as has been his custom after most of his 13 victories this season, the long, lean Los Angeles right-hander would make no such admission Sunday following a 9-2 win over St. Louis. The victory left the Dodgers 1½ games back of first-place San Francisco.

Drysdale, who drove in three runs with a homer and a single, said in the dressing room:

"I just didn't have real good stuff. This wasn't one of my best. It was really hot out there, but fortunately I didn't tire too much."

Drysdale did give up seven hits, one a two-run homer by George Crowe, and he struck out only five, which is below his normal rate. But he leads the majors with 159 strikeouts.

Drysdale has allowed an average of only 1.48 runs per game since June 15. He has won five in a row and eight of his last nine decisions. On the season he's 13-6.

The big blond, who won 12 and lost 13 last year, undoubtedly is thinking about a 20-game season. But he won't admit it.

"I wouldn't want to say anything about that," he said. "It's like putting your hand in a mouse trap."

Braves Are 'Up' With 4 In Row

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

No Milwaukee burgher is hanging Fred Haney in effigy today. Nobody is whispering that Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette are over the hill. The Braves are up and at 'em again with a four-game winning streak.

Trailing the league-leading San Francisco Giants by only two games after a sweep of Sunday's doubleheader with Pittsburgh, Milwaukee seems to have snapped out of its mid-summer slump.

Spahn's emphatic five-hitter in the 4-0 opener was the Braves' third straight shutout.

One unearned run in the fourth inning of the second game finally snapped a string of 30 2-3 scoreless innings for Pittsburgh but it didn't help much. They still lost 2-1 to Bob Buhl, making his first start since June 19 after a siege of arm trouble.

Spahn's 13th victory, the 259th of his long career, was impressive. Buhl tired after seven innings and Don McMahon finished up with two hitless innings.

The Milwaukee attack still sputtered and stalled. They had only six hits in the opener while handing Bob Friend his 13th defeat. One was Johnny Logan's 12th homer. They had only five hits in the second but one was Joe Adcock's 11th homer.

Bob Anderson pulled San Francisco back a little closer to the pack as he pitched the Chicago Cubs into fourth place with a 7-3 victory. The Giants' defeat and Los Angeles' 8-2 decision over St. Louis sliced San Francisco's lead to 1½ games.

Cincinnati snapped Philadelphia's five-game winning streak in the first game 4-2 but Gene Conley got the Phils an even break with a 6-3 triumph in the second game when Richie Ashburn led a 14-hit Phil attack.

Anderson grew stronger as the game progressed at San Francisco while the Cubs knocked out Mike McCormick in the fifth. Ernie Banks' 27th homer with Art Schult on base helped Chicago get off to an early lead. Willie Mays hit No. 17 for the Giants.

Don Drysdale drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a single and held St. Louis to seven hits while winning his 13th for the Dodgers. The smallest Sunday crowd of the year at the Coliseum, 14,553, saw the Dodgers break out of a hitting slump with 15 hits including homers by Drysdale and Charlie Neal.

Brooks Lawrence, taking over after Don Newcombe left because of a leg injury, beat Robin Roberts in the first game at Cincinnati. Ashburn's four singles in five trips helped him a fourth defeat on rookie Jim O'Toole.

Graham Pleased By All-Star Boys

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Coach Otto Graham says he is very pleased with the attitude of the College All-Star football squad.

The All-Stars will meet Baltimore's National Football League champions in Soldier Field, Aug. 14.

"They have good spirit and are willing to work," Graham said. "These are very important ingredients. You can always go on from there. The overall speed is good, too."

Sunday's practice was held to a single workout.

Major League Stars

Batting — Gene Woodling, Orioles, drove in all of Baltimore's runs in 4-0 second game victory over Chicago with three-run homer and single, boosting average to .340.

Pitching — Jim Perry, Indians, shut out Washington with two hits in second start of season 9-0, starting Cleveland on way to doubleheader sweep that regained American League lead.

Athletic Council May Pick Tatum Successor Today

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — A successor to the late Jim Tatum as football coach of the University of North Carolina was expected to be announced here late today following a meeting of the athletic council.

Two of Tatum's assistants, Jim Hickey and Emmett Cheek, were prominently mentioned for the post vacated by the death last Thursday of the 46-year-old Tatum who succumbed to a virus infection.

The official announcement was expected to follow a meeting of the athletic council along with University Chancellor William B. Aycock and Athletic Director Charles P. Erickson.

Aycock conferred privately Sunday with each of Tatum's assistant coaches. He said he believed today's meeting would reveal the name of the man who will guide the powerful Tar Heels through their 1959 schedule.

Speculation has narrowed the field to Cheek and Hickey, but Aycock said, "we really haven't eliminated anyone."

A university source said a third possibility, former head coach George Barclay, "has sort of removed himself."

It was felt the university would tap Tatum's staff for an interim successor for the 1959 campaign, then look elsewhere for an established coach.

Tatum's death came on the threshold of what he hoped would be his best season. Several factors have predicted this year's entry will achieve national recognition. Tatum, who had coached previously at Maryland and Oklahoma, returned to his alma mater in 1956.

Hickey, a native of Springfield, Pa., played football at William and Mary and later was football coach and athletic director at Hampden — Sydney. He joined Tatum's staff in 1956.

Cheek was with Tatum five years at Maryland. He also made the switch to Chapel Hill in 1956. A local resident, Cheek was head football coach at Guilford College after he was graduated from the University of North Carolina.

phone report of Saturday night's incidents.

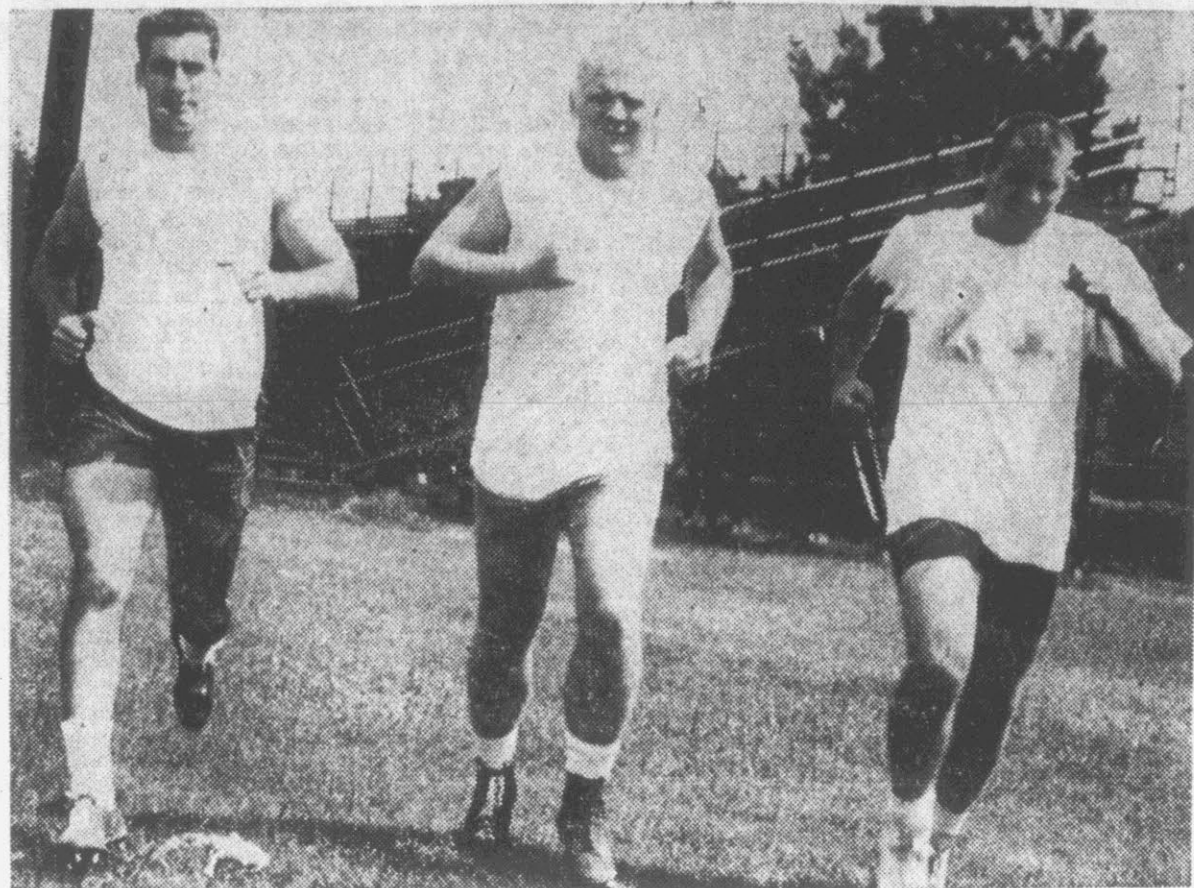

The Wings, whose Frank Verdi was knocked down when a bullet struck his plastic helmet, refused to play and appealed their decision to Shaughnessy.

"I told them (Rochester) if they didn't want to play they didn't have to. I wouldn't ask them to play under those conditions. This is the 26th of July and celebrations for Castro are still going on," Shaughnessy said.

Havana's Leo Cardenas was struck in the shoulder by a stray slug but was not injured seriously. The Havana management wanted to play the doubleheader but bowed to Shaughnessy's ruling.

Sunday's doubleheader was cancelled by approval of league president Frank Shaughnessy after he heard from the umpires a tele-

Jamesville Pitcher Helped Put Cleveland At The Top

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Six months ago Jim Perry and Bobby Locke were as widely unknown as Jim Baxes. To suggest that these young men would be largely responsible for boosting Cleveland into the American League lead would have been courting a trip to the booby hatch.

Perry was a good prospect who just had finished a fine season in Class A at Reading, Pa. Locke was in the Army or just getting out. Baxes, packing a little age, was just another infielder in the Los Angeles Dodgers organization.

Because Perry shut out Washington with two hits 9-0 and Baxes singled home the winning run in the 12th inning for a 4-3 victory in the second game on Sunday, the Indians are back on top in the American League. Locke pitched 11 of the 12 innings before giving way to a pinch hitter and Mudcat Grant, a 1958 rookie, picked up the decision.

Perry has all the earmarks of a real find for the Indians. Although his two-hitter was only his second start, it was his sixth victory. The fireballer from Jamesville, N.C. has been brilliant on relief. A pair of home runs by Woodie Held, who had four hits, eased his way.

Locke's effort was outstanding for a 25-year-old right-hander who was sent back to the minors.

Ewbank Praises Wofford Rookie

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — The Baltimore Colts have been training less than a week but coach Weeb Ewbank is already hesitantly comparing rookie Jerry Richardson with all-pro end Raymond Berry.

"He is already farther advanced at this period than Berry was when he first came up here," said Ewbank Sunday after watching Richardson drill with his National Football League champions.

"Stukey" drew a wild 185-pound rookie. "I'm just plain scared. Where I come from, Wofford College—we only have an enrollment of about 500—we'd tell the quarterback, 'I'm going in that direction.' Here I got to learn 20 routes."

Observers agree that Richardson, who has shown jackrabbit speed and sure hands, is learning his "routes" or pass patterns well. Only three or four rookies are expected to crack the club roster this season, and Richardson is rated an excellent chance to be one of them.

The United States Marines occupied Iceland in 1941 on invitation from that country.

Stengel Revises All-Star Team's Pitching Squad

BOSTON (AP) — Pitchers Cal McLish, Billy O'Dell and Camilo Pascual have replaced three other hurlers on the American League squad for 10 innings' second All-Star game, President Joe Cronin announced today.

The contest will be played at Los Angeles, Aug. 3.

Manager Casey Stengel, field boss of the defending world champion New York Yankees, has inserted Cleveland's McLish, Baltimore's O'Dell and Washington's Pascual in place of Jim Bunning of Detroit, Whitey Ford of New York and Billy Pierce of Chicago.

The latter were on the squad for the first All-Star game at Pittsburgh, July 7, won by the Nationals 5-4.

Stengel also added three outfielders when the squad limit was raised from 25 to 28 players for the second game. The additional fly chasers include Bob Allison of Washington, Kansas City's Roger Maris and Gene Woodling of Baltimore.

The rest of the squad remains the same as it appeared in Pittsburgh.

Gordon Goodman, local recreation director, took a seat, pumped on his cigar much in the fashion of Jimmy Dykes, and expressed a sigh of relief following the Teen-er League state championship tournament.

Although his work from the tournament wasn't over, Goodman was able to catch a breath yesterday and slow down his pace following a hectic week of activities.

Job Is Commendable

Goodman, the director of the tournament, did a commendable job in promoting the tournament which was described as "the best ever" and even Goodman expressed satisfaction in the tourney.

"We had things pretty well organized and it went off better than any other tournament in previous years," stated Goodman.

Plans have already been started for future tournaments and the type of tournaments may vary in the coming years. The new state commander is 100 per cent behind the Teen-er League program and Goodman feels that vast improvement will be made in the coming year.

Goodman remarked that re-districting of the state may take place and he also had a couple of other ideas which were still in the discussion stages.

Coaches Rave Over Facilities

The visiting coaches of the Teen-er League clubs had high praise for the facilities that Greenville had to offer in the way of the tournament.

The kids got the best of treatment while staying in the college dormitory and had their meals at the college cafeteria. Although they had little time for it, ample recreation was provided at the college.

Bill Frazier, coach of the Lenoir club, stated that Greenville was able to offer better facilities for the tournament than those received in Pennsylvania when they went to the National finals last summer. Needless to say more.

The coaches and players also volunteered praise for the officiating that they received: East Carolina College coaches, Jim Mallory, Jack Boone, and Earl Smith, handled the umpiring chores and their work was well accepted by the visitors and also local club.

Lenoir Isn't As Strong

Lenoir needed only three games to win the tournament but they still were not regarded as strong as the previous season when they advanced to the national finals.

The winners were weak in their pitching depth but as it turned out they got the breaks and did not have to panic for a starting pitcher as several of the clubs were forced.

They have a well-balanced team and could go far in the national tournament, but their lack of pitching could prove to be a handicap.

The field of six teams was considered much stronger over-all than in the past. It was a good indication that the Little League and Teen-er Leagues were showing results in the players' performances.

The eastern entries still showed much room for improvement as only the Greenville team could match the play of the western clubs. Elizabeth City and St. Paul bowed in two straight and neither presented much of a problem.

Tar Heel Coach Is Credit To Field

Coach Jim Tatum's death came as a shock to the state of North Carolina and to the coaching fraternity. The Carolina coach came from the U. of Maryland after producing a national championship club. He revived new hope in Tar Heel football fans and added many new followers.

Tatum was a frequent visitor to Greenville, seeking football talent and visiting friends here. He had a big following in our city and his loss will be a severe one to the Hill and also to his profession.

MAN WHO MISSED THE MOON

by EDMOND HAMILTON

The story of the man who missed the moon

CHAPTER 29

There began a buzz of feverish preparations in the star-ship, with Gurt Lund and Thol Orr designating what must be made ready for rapid unloading.

Wrenches clanged as men hastily unbolted machines, the very purpose of which was a mystery to Kirk Hammond. Sweating men skidded them toward the cargo ports, and others under Lund's direction rigged improvised power-winch equipment to get the heavy items out when they landed.

Hammond found himself with North Abel carrying in cartons of food-capsules which Iva Wilson brought out of a storeroom.

Iva asked him, as he took still another carton from her, "What did Thain Marden say?"

"A lot of things. Most of them intended to frighten us away from Althar."

She looked at him and unexpectedly she said, "Listen to her when she says anything, Kirk. About the rest of us she may not care but I don't think she wants you to die."

He was startled. "Iva, you're crazy if you're implying—"

He got no farther than that. Air roared suddenly loud outside the hull, and then the announcers throughout the star-ship bawled, "Strap in, everyone!"

There was a scramble for the reclining chairs. Hammond and Iva got two in the crew-room and then twisted their necks to stare up at the scanner in the wall.

It showed the view ahead, the sunlit side of the planet Althar looming up across the screen. There were no seas on it but the rolling surface was rough with forests of some kind.

The surface of the planet tilted sharply in the screen and then the ship seemed to stand on its tail and fall off in a dizzying roll.

The straps around Hammond cut into him and he heard a dismayed exclamation from Iva. They were in a spin, going down, and he wondered if Quobba was merely carrying out his orders to make it seem the ship was crashing, or whether this was a real crash.

He thought it was real, this was too wild a spin to be a fake. The air roared louder and in the scanner he could glimpse the forest rushing up toward them, a thick forest of grotesquely lumpy dark-green growths.

There was a crackling and crashing outside the ship and Hammond thought, "It's a crazy way to die. Then there was a bump and that was followed by the most breathtaking thing of all.

Silence. No sound, no movement, for the first time since they had left the planet Kuum.

The announcers instantly shattered the silence. "Outside, everyone! Get the equipment out!"

Hammond helped Iva out of her straps and she ran, with others joining them to crowd the corridors, down toward the cargo-ports.

The ports were already swinging open and outside there was a blaze of blinding sunlight slanting on tall, strange-looking clumps of green. The air swirled in, warm and light and dry.

Quickly the holds inside the cargo-ports became an organized madhouse of activity and noise. The gangways were run out, and men hastened to set up the power-equipment to winch the big atomic generators and other heavy machinery out of the ship.

Others, including Hammond and Iva and Abel, carried loads of supplies out and well away from the ship and set them down in an improvised dump that was located on the side of a low ridge.

Jon Wilson, out before the ship, kept driving them. "Faster! The ship could blow any moment! Get everything up to the dump—don't put down anything nearer the ship!"

A Vramen somewhere on this world could press a key and they would all be nothing. That knowledge spurred them, and the winches screamed and men bawled and sweated and the machines moved out with brutish stolidity.

Night lay over Althar, but it was like no night that Kirk Hammond had ever seen before. There was no moon in the sky, and no stars.

Instead, the whole heavens were a glowing sheet, a nebula sky that shed a glimmering, almost shadowless radiance down upon the huge dark masses.

The Hoomen were gathered in a tight group beside their dump of machines and supplies, and since the sun set an hour before they had shown no lights. Some of them, armed with shockers, walked to and fro on watchful guard. Others slept.

Hammond could not sleep. Neither could Thain Marden. He looked to where she sat at a little distance from him. Behind her and quite close to her sat Shau Tammas, and he knew that the monkey-faced little Mizarian kept his shocker trained constantly upon her.

Hammond could see the white blur of her face in the weird glow. He wished he could talk to her. He decided he would talk to her, and the devil with Lund and Wilson's orders.

He stood up. The whole world glazed to blinding white light that lit up startled faces and towering mosses, and there was a clap of thunder and a wave of hot air hit Hammond from behind.

He staggered, retreating his balance and trying to turn around fast. A chorus of astonished cries broke as the flare and the thunder died.

"The ship!" yelled Quobba's bass voice.

Swinging around, Hammond saw a column of steam arising in the middle distance where the ship had rested. A breath of super-hot air still eddied around him.

Jon Wilson had leaped to his feet and run a few steps forward but now he stopped and his stern voice rang above the babble.

"Stay back! The Vramen have detonated the ship. We expected that."

A cold feeling went up Hammond's back. That could so easily have happened when they were in the ship, at any time since they had first approached the Trifid. His nerves were shaken by it, and it made him suddenly hate the Vramen more than ever to realize that they had the power of life and death over every ship in the galaxy.

Wilson turned and went back to Thain.

She was standing up, and in moonish glow her face was unreadable in expression.

Wilson asked her harshly. "Your friends did that—why did they blow it instead of coming to your assistance?"

Thain said, "My people do not come this part of Althar. It is too dangerous. I tried to tell you."

"Oh, yes," sneered Gurt Lund. "The Third Men. The bogie that was to frighten us into the hands of the Vramen."

"I think," said Thain, "that the Third Men are coming now. At Sharanna, my people would be watching on the radar. If they detected hostile filers searching for this ship, they'd detonate it at once."

Her voice had a hopeless quality in it, and then it rose in a passionate appeal. "For the last time, I beg you—destroy the metal and machines you have here! If these fall into the hands of the Third Men—"

"Naturally you would like us to be without weapons or equipment of any sort," interrupted Wilson sourly.

He turned and raised his voice. "All of you keep sharp watch and have your shockers handy. But don't use them unless I say so!"

"Whoever these people are," Wilson opined, "if they're enemies of the Vramen it stands to reason they could be our friends." How wrong can he be? Continue the story here tomorrow.

Pennsylvania Jaypee Spends Sunday Handing Out Blue Law Convictions

BRISTOL, Pa. (AP) — "There's more than one way to skin a cat," figured Justice of the Peace Earl B. Dougherty. That, he said, is the theory he applied Sunday to Pennsylvania's Sunday blue laws.

Dougherty spent the day driving through Bucks County, just north of Philadelphia, handing out 159 conviction-on-sight notices. The recipients included actress Peggy Cass, two toll booth collectors, a radio announcer, numerous plant guards, a druggist, a newspaper, and the reporters and photographers following him.

"I'm actually against the Sunday blue laws," Dougherty said. "They're chaotic and outmoded and if they were strictly enforced would strangle Pennsylvania's entire economy."

"I'm a justice of the peace and it's my duty to enforce the law. So I did."

He reached the Bristol Playhouse, a summer theater, during the first act intermission and asked to see Miss Cass.

"Are you worldly employed?" he asked, after introducing himself.

"Yes," said Miss Cass. "Are you being paid?"

"Yes."
"I hereby convict you on view for violation of the Sunday blue laws." He handed her a notice. "Why I've never won a thing, and I'd rather not win this," the actress joked.

But, like the others, she must, according to the notice, appear today before Dougherty and pay a $4 fine plus $9 costs.

The same thing happened at the Levittown Times, where employees were working on the weekly paper, and at WBCB, Levittown, where announcer Mike Mayo allowed him to state his question on the air.

Then there was a taxicab driver, a Bell Telephone Co. maintenance man, bowling alley and golf driving range operators, and a variety of merchants and guards at a half-dozen factories, including a Radio Corp. of America plant and the struck Fairless works of U.S. Steel Corp.

Dougherty said he wanted to serve the workers in some of the plants, but he couldn't get by the guards.

Two toll collectors at an interchange of the Pennsylvania Turnpike referred the notices to higher-ups. A spokesman said the Turnpike Commission's legal department was studying the case, but the commission felt the turnpike is a necessary function.

"The toll collectors are being paid, aren't they?" said Dougherty. "They're worldly employed, and that is prohibited by the blue laws."

Dougherty's tour came at a time when the State House is considering a Senate-passed bill increasing the fine for violating the 1794 blue laws to $100 for the first offense and $200 for each subsequent offense. The purpose is to discourage merchants who consider the $4 fine a business expense.

For years, the blue laws were almost never enforced, but two years ago a department store objected to a nearby discount house doing business on Sunday. Since then arrests have been made throughout the state.

Dougherty conducted a similar tour last Sunday, issuing 66 conviction notices. This brought criticism from Dist. Atty. Paul Beckert of Bucks County. Beckert pointed out that Dougherty is allowed to keep the $9 costs.

"All you have to do is multiply 66 by $9 costs and you have $594," Beckert said. "That's a good morning or afternoon's work."

Dougherty said the fees are only a "by-product" of what he is trying to do and not the real issue at all.

ADMITS CHAINING

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Alonzo McEwen, an unemployed mechanic, admitted to police Sunday that he chained one of his 10 children to a bed for 24 hours as punishment for disobedience. The boy, 13, was placed in a foster home. McEwen was held on an open charge.

Holding Boy In Double Shooting

TUCUMCARI, N.M. (AP) — A handicapped 13-year-old boy was held for psychiatric examination today after he shot his father and mother with a high-powered rifle.

Gordon Ellis, a hare-lipped cripple with a cleft palate, told officers he used a 30-30 rifle on his sleeping parents because:

His father had "bawled him out" for failing to run an errand.

His parents had refused to buy him a motor scooter, and they wouldn't let him go to his grandmother's home to watch television.

His father, Ted Ellis, and mother, Charlotte, lay in Tucumcari General Hospital in serious condition. The father was shot in the cheek and left shoulder, Mrs. Ellis in the right shoulder and hip.

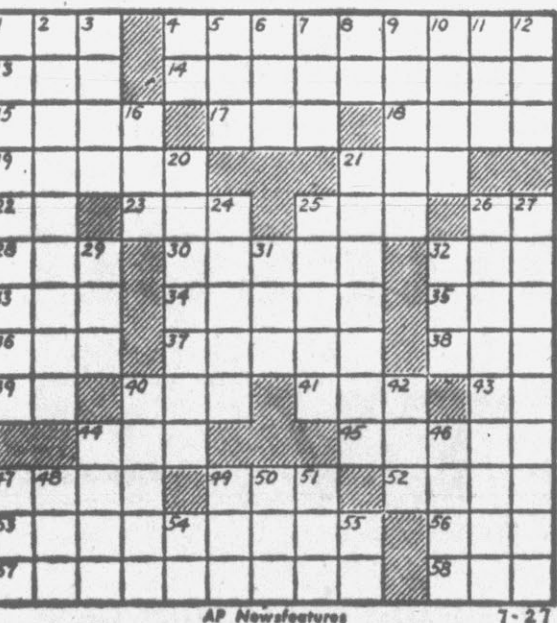

"He doesn't seem to appreciate the gravity of what he's done or appear remorseful," Dist. Atty. Victor Breen said. He ordered the child held in the juvenile ward of the Quay County jail for a mental checkup.

The first question young Ellis asked officers when they arrived near midnight Saturday after the shooting was reported was: "Do you think I'll get a spanking?"

Two Explosions Of Escaping Gas

ALBEMARLE, N.C. (AP) — Escaping liquid petroleum gas ignited and caused two explosions at a gas storage yard here today.

The second blast set fire to a gasoline truck parked about 40 feet from a 10,000-gallon storage tank.

Firemen feared the blazing truck might explode and touch off the storage tank.

The scene of the blaze is about one mile south of here. The area is sparsely settled, but there are four gasoline companies situated adjacent to each other.

One fireman was overcome by fumes and admitted to a hospital, but his condition was not believed to be serious. Asst. Fire Chief V. H. Whitley reported. No other injuries were reported.

Fire Chief C. E. Morris said trouble began when a tank truck parked at the Gantt Rulane Gas Service Co. leaked fumes. He said some of the fumes apparently entered a nearby building and caused an explosion which hurt no one, but which knocked out windows and damaged equipment.

Shortly after the first blast, a second explosion occurred when a valve blew off of the tank truck and the truck began burning. Firemen rigged a hose to spray the truck, then roped off the area and moved away.

She was released under $200 bond for appearance in Ayden Recorder's Court today at 9 p.m.

ABC officers Ward and H. B. Lilley assisted Ayden officers James Ross, Clifton Dennis, and Gerrold Branch in the raid.

Urge Supporting Industry Project

AYDEN — The Ayden Town Board of Commissioners, in a special meeting Friday night, passed a resolution to assist in bringing a proposed industrial plant to the community and urged other Ayden citizens to support the project.

It was announced last week that an industry which would employ some 300 persons with an annual payroll of about $250,000 has indicated a definite interest in locating in Ayden provided the town could raise about $60,000 for the construction of a "building shell" for the manufacturing firm on a 15-year lease-purchase arrangement.

The "shell" would consist of four walls, a floor and a roof. An out-of-state group would then be engaged by the business to finance the installation of heating, air conditioning, sprinkler system and machinery and equipment.

If the community is unable to raise the necessary funds it is considered a good possibility the project would then locate where a community is willing to finance and lease-purchase the initial structure, the announcement added.

Youth Escapes Injury In Auto Wreck

DRIVER ESCAPED . . . as this car went out of control and overturned.

A 20-year-old Greenville youth narrowly escaped injury early Sunday morning when the car which he was driving overturned about two miles west of Grimesland on U.S. 264.

According to investigation, Patrolman D. L. Minshew of Farmville, the youth, Ike F. Riddick, 113 North Library St., lost control of the vehicle on a rain-soaked curve. The car skidded across the road and turned over in a ditch.

Riddick was not hurt in the wreck, Minshew said, but $450 in damage resulted to the car, he added.

Riddick was charged with exceeding a safe speed limit due to the weather conditions.

A second accident investigated by Minshew Sunday occurred about nine o'clock last night three miles east of Falkland on N.C. 43.

According to the patrolman, drivers of the vehicles were Edgar R. Smith, 19, of 412 Rose St. Rocky Mount and Joseph Cooper, 46-year-old Negro of Route 4, Greenville.

According to the investigating officer, Cooper, driving a pick-up truck, was allegedly making a left turn off the highway when the Smith vehicle, headed east, struck the rear of the truck.

Minshew estimated damage to the truck at $50 while damage to the Smith car was set at $250.

Smith was charged with following too closely as a result of the investigation.

A third accident about 11:50 last night, on the Stantonsburg Road two miles east of Farmville saw an old model car demolished after the driver allegedly went to sleep at the wheel of the car which left the road and hit a ditch.

Minshew identified the 22-year-old Farmville Negro as Leonard Shackelford.

According to the officer, Shackelford, charged with reckless driving, received only minor injuries as a result of the accident.

Ralph Eppes, pastor of Grifton, officiated. Burial was in the Ayden cemetery.

Surviving Mr. Harrington are his wife, Mrs. Mamie Buck Harrington; three sons, Lloyd Harrington of Greenville, and Edwin and Glenn Harrington of the home; four daughters, Mrs. Allie Harrington of the home, Mrs. Galtier Riley of Greenville, and Mrs. Kemp Sharp and Mrs. Al Collins, both of Grifton.

Peace Talks On Steel Resumed

NEW YORK (AP) — The first joint peace talks between industry and union since the start of the nationwide steel strike opened here today under the auspices of federal mediators.

Joseph P. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, reiterated his warning that no early or easy settlement of the 13-day-old strike appears likely.

Finnegan, who arranged the joint talks last week, said on his arrival from Washington Sunday night: "They can't settle this strike by not talking."

Heading the negotiating teams for today's talks are David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, and R. Conrad Cooper, executive vice president of the United States Steel Corp.

The strike of 500,000 members of the United Steelworkers has shut down plants that produced almost 90 per cent of the nation's steel. The stoppage has idled an estimated 78,000 employees in other industries, with railroads the hardest hit.

The union's demands include a 15-cent-an-hour package increase in each year of a new contract, plus fringe benefits. The industry, rejecting the demands, contends that an increase in labor costs would force a rise in steel prices and thus help spur inflation. The union contends that industry profits and increased productivity make a wage rise possible without a price increase. Prestrike wages averaged $3.10 an hour.
