

EISENHOWER, KHRUSHCHEV TO TRADE VISITS

Tension Eases In Geneva
With Ike-Nikita Visits

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP) — The chief Western Allies today acclaimed President Eisenhower's decision to exchange visits with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev as a step toward advancing East-West prospects of peace.

Diplomats said the most immediate result of the Big Two agreement for top-level talks would be to put the Berlin crisis on ice.

They were particularly cheered by Eisenhower's determination to maintain a Western solid front on cold war issues by conferring with the government leaders of France, Britain and West Germany in advance of Khrushchev's visit to Washington.

The Washington-Moscow announcement came as the Big Four foreign ministers prepared to end their talks on the German crisis Wednesday and go home.

Negotiations have come almost to a standstill. The only East-West talk scheduled today was a luncheon meeting between Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd. The British was to meet before and after with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville.

Before talk arose of an invitation soon from President Eisenhower to Khrushchev, all the Allied delegations here were concerned over what Russia would do about West Berlin when efforts to reach an agreement finally collapsed.

Now Allied diplomats, especially the British and West German, express the view that so long as high-level discussions are in prospect or under way, Khrushchev can be counted on to keep his threats against West Berlin in suspension.

Lloyd and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan see a

Khrushchev-Eisenhower meeting as a step toward a Summit conference, which they still ardently desire. They apparently believe talks between the Soviet Premier and the U.S. President would open up prospects for agreement at the Summit on at least one or two issues.

A West German spokesman said: "We have full confidence in our American allies that they will see to our interests in any talks on the German problem with Khrushchev."

"We think," he added, "that such talks would decrease the possibility of a threat of unilateral action by the Soviet Union in Berlin if the Geneva conference ends in failure."

The American delegation refused officially to discuss the possibility of an Eisenhower-Khrushchev meeting. A U.S. spokesman said the whole question is a White House matter and any information would have to come from Washington.

Diplomats of other delegations claimed Eisenhower had already decided to invite Khrushchev and that the invitation would be sent and announced before the end of the Geneva conference. But American quarters generally discounted such speedy action by the President.

If Eisenhower and Khrushchev do meet, the Berlin issue probably will be high on their agenda. But the Geneva conference fails to give any basis for hope that they can produce a formula for breaking the deadlock.

The central issues that have developed here represent real conflicts of interest between the two great power blocs and not just debating points to be ironed out around the conference table.

Russia is insistent that by one means or another the Western powers must withdraw from West Berlin. The Russians have proposed to guarantee it as a "free city" — that is, free of Communist East German control — and to delay for 18 months or more their threat to take action to force the Allies out if they do not go willingly.

The West maintains that the presence of the 11,000 U.S., British and French troops in West Berlin is the only guarantee that the 2½ million West Berliners have against Communist absorption. While offering to reduce the force somewhat, the Western delegates have repeatedly declared their determination not to withdraw.

Underlying the Soviet position is a clear determination to build up the East German Communist regime and increasingly win Western recognition for it. The Western powers accepted the East German delegation as advisers in the present conference. But they insist they will never recognize a Soviet puppet regime in East Germany as a legitimate government and thereby jeopardize chances for someday merging the two parts of Germany into a united nation with strong ties to the West.

Rockefeller Will Decide By November On Nomination

By JACK BELL

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York will decide by Nov. 1, on the basis of public opinion polls, whether he will seek the 1960 Republican presidential nomination.

The governor, who is teetering on the brink of an announcement, has told friends that he would be a candidate only if he had conclusive evidence that Vice President Richard M. Nixon is not likely to win against the Democratic nominee.

Rockefeller takes no stock in polls which point to the election of a Democrat as president.

But he apparently is unwilling to challenge Nixon unless the vice president unaccountably slips in the polls to a point where they indicate one of several Democratic opponents could defeat him.

Some of his strategists have told the New York governor that his timing is too late. They say the reaction to Nixon's Soviet visit will be a rise in the vice president's poll popularity at the time Rockefeller plans his decision. But the governor insists adamantly he will make no decision until fall.

Rockefeller clearly is the star so far of the 51st annual Governor's Conference, opening today.

Dressed in a conservative dark suit despite San Juan's muggy heat, he kept reporters laughing most of the way through a news conference in which he said he has no intention of seeking the presidency but—

He wouldn't preclude the possibility of completely changed circumstances under which he could become a candidate.

It was news to him that former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey had advised him to make a decision on the race this fall.

Neither had he heard, he said, of a prediction by Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) that accelerating events would force such a decision earlier than expected.

Yes, Rockefeller continued, he had a lot of letters urging him to run. No, he hadn't counted them, but they probably ran into the hundreds. What was his reaction to these and newspaper reports of his possible candidacy?

"I'm interested, like everybody else," he said with another wry grin.

Nixon, he said, "seems to be a leading candidate for the prize. He thought Nixon had 'handled himself with great skill under varied and difficult circumstances' in his tour of the Soviet Union and his encounters with Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The Democratic picture was clouded by the reluctance of most of that party's governors to speak out in favor of any particular candidate.

Decreased Volume
Seen In Border Belt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The South Carolina-Border Belt tobacco market entered its first full sales week today, with the prospects for decreased volume.

The 20 markets on the belt sold 15,199,300 pounds during the two opening days last week. The two-day average was $58.96, down 49 cents from the first two days of the 1958 season.

Grade averages showed improvement but lower quality dented the average.

Farmers were expected to concentrate on harvesting their tobacco this week, causing the drop in volume.

With the practical top $70 per 100 pounds, average prices by grades were up $1 to $3. Non-descript grades were down from last year, $1 to $2.

The Flue-Cured Stabilization Corp. under the government loan program took about 9 per cent of sales. The corporation took 11.4 per cent in 1958.

The Eastern North Carolina Belt will open Aug. 18 and the North Carolina Middle Belt will open Aug. 27. The North Carolina-Virginia Old Belt will select its opening date at a meeting in Danville, Va., Saturday.

Border Belt sales by states for the two days: North Carolina, 6,635,356 pounds averaging $37.35 and South Carolina 8,563,944 pounds averaging $59.79.

Auction bid averages on a limited number of grades:

Leaf—Good lemon $68, up $1; fair lemon $67, up $3.

Cutters—Low lemon $70, up $1; low orange $70, unchanged.

Lugs — Good lemon $69, unchanged; fair lemon $68, up $2; fair orange $67, up $1.

Primings—Good lemon $68, up $2; fair lemon $65, up 2; low lemon $6, up $2; low orange $52, up $1.

Non-descript — Best thin body $35, down $1.

Cumberland Has
3rd Polio Death

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Cumberland County has recorded its third polio death of the year.

Health officials said Theodore Roosevelt Stokes, 23-year-old Negro of Rt. 5, Fayetteville, died Saturday of polio in Chapel Hill Memorial Hospital. Two other deaths—children of military personnel at Ft. Bragg—came late last month.

Georgia Market
In Second Week

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP) — The second full week of sales began today on the 28 Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco markets where cash returns have been running more than a million dollars a year ahead of the corresponding period last year.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reported over the weekend that 86,430,243 pounds were sold the first seven days for $50,816,213. The average price per hundred pounds was $58.79.

That volume was up 15 million pounds from the 71,367,465 pounds sold at the same stage a year ago. The cash yield was more than 8½ million dollars above 1958's $42,147,242.

The USDA said about half the grades moved up 50 cents to $5 a hundred compared with opening week. Gains were mostly $1 to $2 in grades offered in heaviest volume.

Better lugs and primings were generally steady while some green tobacco and lower primings declined slightly.

Some Pitt Tobacco Probably Sold In Ga.

Approximately 437 tobacco marketing cards have been picked up from the Pitt County ASC office by farmers who probably sold a portion of their crop on the Georgia market.

ASC Office Manager said the number is greater than the number of cards which were picked up early last year.

There are 2,726 marketing cards to be issued from the county ASC office—one card for each tobacco farm in Pitt County.

Hasty said the marketing cards which are not picked up early will be mailed to farmers on Aug. 10, approximately one week before the local tobacco market opens.

Farmers have to have the marketing cards with them when they take their tobacco to a warehouse for sale. Thus those who intended to sell a portion of their crop in Georgia or on the Border Belt had to visit the local ASC office to obtain their cards. Those planning to sell their entire crop on the Eastern Belt would wait until the cards are mailed to them.

Hasty noted that there is no way of telling how many pounds of local tobacco have gone to other belts. The farmers who drew their cards would probably sell only a portion of their crop elsewhere.

The ASC office manager said more cards were issued the week before the Georgia market opened and the first week of sales than ever before for that period.

"However," he said, "the requests have decreased" since that time. "Not a great number of cards are going out at the present time."

Hasty felt that the weather conditions that have prevailed during the growing season accounted for the large number of cards drawn for early sales.

"So many farmers had tobacco drowned and ripening fast," he said. "It was not curing as well as it normally would have, causing many of them to want to market it as soon as possible."

In some cases the farmer feared the tobacco would spoil if it were stored for several weeks. In others the crop was coming in so fast individual farmers found themselves lacking sufficient storage space.

Hasty also noted there are always some farmers who take a load of tobacco to Georgia because they need the cash early.

Hasty said it is pretty well decided that total poundage sales this year will be less than last year.

However, the poor weather conditions have had much to do with this. The ASC manager said that Pitt tobacco farms produced 1,921 pounds per acre last year. He said most observers are predicting that the yield will drop to 1,500 to 1,600 pounds per acre in the county this year.

He said most people are hoping the quality of the crop will be acceptably to the buyers and "consequently increase the price." In that way price would compensate for lost poundage.

'Live 100 Years' Cries For Nixon

By A. I. GOLDBERG

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon was enthusiastically acclaimed today with cries of "live 100 years" by at least 5,000 people at Poland's Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

One man broke through police lines to give the American visitor a bear hug that almost swept him off his feet.

The crowd was small in comparison to the quarter of a million Poles who greeted Nixon on arrival Sunday. But it could even that great throng in vociferousness and enthusiasm.

Grinning, Nixon moved back toward his car, and the procession went off to the government offices for calls on Communist party leader Wladyslaw Gomulka. Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz and Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki.

Earlier, Nixon paid a protocol call on President Aleksandr Babinski, who invited him to Poland on Parliament Speaker Czeslaw Wyche.

The reception Sunday was the most rousing Nixon had gotten. For nearly 15 miles, ecstatic crowds cheered the delighted vice president and showered him with flowers after he arrived by plane from Moscow.

Nixon closed out his Soviet tour with a news conference at which he said that Premier Nikita Khrushchev should be invited to the United States to rid him of some "very real misconceptions" about the American people and their economy. He made plain, however, that only President Eisenhower can decide if and when such an invitation should be issued.

The White House has declined to comment on speculation about an invitation to Khrushchev. But Allied diplomats at the Big Four conference in Geneva generally believe the invitation would be issued. There was a general feeling of relief there, based on the belief that Khrushchev would not do anything hostile toward West Berlin to avoid spoiling his welcome in America.

Nixon's itinerary today called for a visit to Communist party chief Gomulka. Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz, Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki, and President Alexander Zawadzki, who invited Nixon. The laying of a wreath at the tomb of Poland's Unknown Soldier also was scheduled.

On his arrival Sunday, Nixon was greeted by Vice President Oscar Lange, former head of the Polish delegation at the United Nations, and Deputy Foreign Minister Jozef Winiewicz, former Polish ambassador in Washington. Since Nixon is not a chief of state, protocol did not require the top officials to turn out.

Nixon's tumultuous welcome to Warsaw exceeded that given Khrushchev last month, when he made a 10-day state visit to Poland.

"Nothing ever exceeded this," said the jubilant vice president after his drive through milling throngs from Warsaw's Babice Military Airport to Myslewski Palace at the edge of the capital, where he and his wife are staying during their three-day visit.

The crowds threw so many flowers into Nixon's open car that it had to be swept out four times. To protect himself from the barrage of bouquets, he smilingly caught them like a baseball player.

"We love you," cried onlookers, blowing kisses at Nixon.

School Transfer In Greene Considered

SNOW HILL, N. C. (AP) —

Greene County in eastern North Carolina, where Negroes boycotted schools last February, has another racial school problem. Five Negroes are trying to get into the white high school at Walstonburg.

The county board of education, which deferred action a month ago, is to consider the requests at a meeting here today.

The County Board of Education planned to take up the applications at an afternoon session. It delayed consideration when parents of the Negro children failed to appear at its morning meeting.

The officials explained they wanted to give the parents every opportunity to be present.

The county board had deferred action at its meeting a month ago.

Among the five are two children of Mrs. Dorra Farmer, president of the county Negro Parent-Teacher Assn. and a leader in the boycott.

The five have been assigned to the Greene County Training School, a consolidated Negro high school, and to the North Greene School.

The four-day boycott for better school facilities ended when the board promised to seek a bond issue to improve the county's Negro high school and five elementary schools. The last Legislature passed legislation to allow the county to divert funds from other source for that purpose.

Seeking admission to the white school are Jonathan David Farmer, 18; Edgar Lee Farmer, 16; Nathaniel Moses Forbes, 14, and his brother, Demetrius Forbes, 18, and John Moses Becton, 15.

County Board In Monthly Meeting

Pitt County Commissioners today approved State Highway Commission allocations for construction and maintenance work on highways in the county during the current fiscal year.

According to the report presented by representatives of the Highway Commission construction totaling $222,500 has been earmarked for Pitt this year. Of this amount $205,000 already has been approved in prior plans, leaving $17,500 for other projects during the year.

In addition there is budgeted for highway maintenance work in Pitt during the year $329,337 according to the report.

After hearing the report, the Commissioners adopted a resolution praising the work of R. Markham as division engineer for the second highway division of which Pitt is a part. Markham is retiring as division engineer.

Chairman R. L. Martin of the Board of Commissioners announced that dedication of the new county Mental Health building will be held on Sunday afternoon, September 20. The board deferred action on a request the county provide an additional $242.10 for aluminum lettering on the new clinic building. The Commissioners approved the transfer of $248.41 from the general fund to pay the balance needed for three plaques for the clinic which cost a total of $599.24. The Board already had given its approval for the plaques.

After hearing a recommendation from its finance committee the Board approved the transfer of $50,000 of county funds from one and three-eighths per cent interest certificates to four and three-quarter per cent certificates which will come due in August 1960.

In other matters of business this morning, the Board of Commissioners heard reports from various department heads of the county.

BULLETIN

WARSAW (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today he understands the date for Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's visit to the United States is around Sept. 15.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will exchange visits this fall—thus taking into a new phase of diplomacy the East-West differences on which world peace hangs.

Khrushchev's visit here — a historic first by a top leader of Soviet communism — will be in September, Eisenhower will go to Moscow later in the year. Exact dates for the visits have not yet been fixed.

(In Warsaw, Vice President Richard M. Nixon said he understood Khrushchev would go to the United States about Sept. 15.)

Almost identical announcements of the plans were made here and in Moscow — the differences apparently only those of translation. Winding up on the peace theme, the final paragraph, in the text released by Moscow, said: "Both governments express the hope that the forthcoming visits will promote the establishment of better understanding between the United States and the U.S.S.R. and will further the cause of peace."

Eisenhower called a special news conference to make the announcement here. Exchanges at this meeting with reporters developed also:

1. Before meeting with Khrushchev here, Eisenhower will go to Europe later this month to confer with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, French President Charles de Gaulle and West German's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.
2. Exchanges on the question of Khrushchev-Eisenhower visits have been going on for some time; they were initiated well before Vice President Richard M. Nixon went to the Soviet Union. Vice President Richard M. Nixon went to the Soviet Union.

Eisenhower said he told Nixon on the day the vice president left for the Soviet Union that negotiations in written form were in progress looking toward an exchange of visits between Khrushchev and himself.

Eisenhower said he told Nixon not to open the subject of the exchange visits, but that there was no prohibition on him discussing the matter once the subject was opened up.

In telling of his plans to go to Europe to confer with the heads of state of Great Britain, France and West Germany, Eisenhower said coordination between the Allied powers has been good.

But, he added, there are problems that ought to be talked out between heads of government.

As to whether all this may lead to a summit conference of East and West, Eisenhower said such a conference was absolutely impractical unless there were advance indications of positive results.

But, with the prospective collapse of the Geneva foreign ministers conference, it was obvious that there was opening up now a new, higher level of exchanges which the Western Allies hope may bring some alteration in Soviet positions on the great issues between the East and West.

First reaction in Congress to the forthcoming Eisenhower-Khrushchev visits was favorable, though not unanimously so.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Republican leader, said the talks if successful could "enshrine the President as the boldest and most determined peacemaker in many generations."

But Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.) protested that "it looks like we're again being taken in by the Russians."

Khrushchev is expected to visit Washington for two or three days to engage in, as the announcement put it, informal talks with the President.

Plans are for the Soviet leader to put in another 10 days or so in travel about the United States.

The hope obviously is that these travels may change some of Khrushchev's ideas about the strength and character of this country and its people.

The President spoke of his move as aimed to melt a little of the ice which seems to freeze this country's relations with the Soviet Union.

Eisenhower said it was his hope the exchange of visits might lead to a better understanding between the two countries and promote the cause of peace.

Eisenhower said Khrushchev, in addition to conducting informal talks with him, would be able to see some of this country. The President said his visit to the Soviet Union also would include visits outside Moscow.

The matter of an exchange of visits had been discussed with Western Allies, Eisenhower said, adding that they had agreed to it in the hope it would produce positive rather than negative values.

He also said congressional leaders with whom he had discussed the matter had reacted favorably.

Eisenhower gave no indication as to how soon he will return Khrushchev's visit, but noted that fall does not end until Dec. 22.

He described his visit to the So-

Police Check Three Accidents

THIS CAR . . . overturned on North Greene St. Saturday afternoon after the driver attempted to pass a second car and lost control of the vehicle.

Greenville police investigated three accidents Saturday, one involving a pedestrian.

According to investigating officers, a 62-year-old Negro woman was struck by a car near the intersection of Greene and Second Sts. but received no injury in the mishap.

The driver of the car involved Bobby James Cole, 30, of Route 1, Grimsland, told officers stated to run across the street and when he saw her, he could not stop.

No charges were placed as a result of the investigation. Officers quoted Cole as saying he was traveling only 10 miles per hour at the time he struck the woman.

About $25 damage resulted to a house at 617 Cooper's Lane when a trailer truck, attempting to back into a parking space in a vacant lot at the intersection of Allen's Alley and Cooper's Lane, struck the top of the porch of the dwelling.

Driver of the truck was listed as Cleophes Smart, 35-year-old Negro of 700 North 27th St. Richmond, Virginia.

No damage was listed to the truck and no charges were placed. Paul Manning, a Route 6, Greenville man, escaped injury when the car he was operating went out of control on rainsoaked North Greene St. about 5:33 p.m., rolled down an embankment and overturned.

According to Manning, he was attempting to pass his wife, who was in another car, when the car started to skid and he lost control of the vehicle.

The accident occurred between the Farmers Warehouse and Respass Brothers Barbecue Stand.

Police said no charges were placed against the driver and moderate damage resulted to the car.

Lancaster-McSwain Say Vows

Mrs. McLemore Lancaster

CHINA GROVE—Miss Gail Deanna McSwain of China Grove and McLemore Lancaster of Jamesville were married yesterday afternoon at China Grove's First Baptist Church, with the Rev. Raymond O. Brinkley, pastor of the bride, performing the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Worth McSwain of 502 South Main Street, China Grove, and Mrs. Cecil Riddick of Greenville.

A massive arrangement of wood-wardia fern, palms and a large basket of white gladioli and carnations, intermingled with rows of lighted tapers in seven branched candelabra, formed a setting for the wedding tableau. White satin bows reserved the special pews.

Mrs. Robert J. Davis, organist, and Miss Brenda Thomas, soloist, both of China Grove, were the wedding musicians.

Mr. McSwain entered with his daughter and gave her in marriage. Purvey James of Jamesville was best man for Mr. Lancaster.

The bride was attended by Miss Rae Britt of Fairmont, college roommate of the bride, as her maid of honor. Miss Davey Lee Parnell, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Troy R. Elliott, both of China Grove, were attendants.

Miss Emily McSwain, only sister of the bride of China Grove, was junior bridesmaid. Junior honorary bridesmaids were Miss Jamie East, Miss Susan Alexander, Miss Elvane McSwain, Miss Merley McSwain and Miss Becky Lou Miller, all of China Grove, and Miss Cinda Wood of Salisbury, all cousins of the bride.

Ronald McSwain, brother of the bride of China Grove, Clark Taylor of Winston-Salem and Paul Davenport of Pactolus, both fraternal brothers of the bridegroom, and Bill Jackson of Grifton were ushers.

The bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over tulle, with a fitted lace bodice and a bouffant skirt featuring a wide front tulle panel accented by side ruffles cascades. The skirt extended into a chapel train. The neckline was scalloped and long sleeves ending in calligraphy points extending over the hands. Her two tiered fingertip veil of fine illusion was attached to a tulle French style cloche appliqued with lace and embroidered with sequins and pearls. She carried a Colonial bouquet of fleur d'amour and stephanotis centered with white rose buds.

The honor attendant wore aqua silk organza over tulle styled with a fitted bodice featuring a round neckline in front and extending into a deep V in the back. The dress was fashioned sleeveless with a wide matching cummerbund and ballerina length bouffant skirt. She wore the bride's gift, a filtration veil of tulle attached to a matching velvet band of bows and pearl earrings, and carried a cascade bouquet of fuji mums centered with yellow shasta chrysanthemums and satin streamers.

The bridesmaids and junior bridesmaids were dressed identical to the honor attendant and also carried cascade bouquets of fuji mums and centered with yellow shasta chrysanthemums with satin streamers.

The junior bridesmaids were dressed in pastel colors of silk organza and they carried one long stem pink carnation. They wore the bride's gift of a tear drop pearl.

Mrs. McSwain, mother of the bride, wore beige Schiffli Embroidery and beige accessories. Mrs. Riddick, mother of the bridegroom, was dressed in blue lace and she wore blue accessories. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

Mrs. T. H. Wood, maternal grandmother of the bride, was dressed in mauve lace and wore matching accessories and Mrs. C. R. McSwain, paternal grandmother of the bride, wore gray cotton and both wore white carnation corsages.

The new Mrs. Lancaster is a 1955 graduate of China Grove High School and a 1959 graduate of East Carolina College, Greenville, where she received her Bachelor of Science degree in Primary Education. She will be employed as a second grade teacher in the Jamesville Elementary School this fall.

Mr. Lancaster has made his home with his grandmother, Mrs. Eva Heath of Grifton, for a number of years.

The couple, their parents, and attendants received guests in the vestibule of the church immediately following their wedding.

For a wedding trip to an unannounced destination, the bride changed to a Transitional cotton dress and wore brown accessories and the roses lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. McLemore Lancaster will be at home in Jamesville after August 15.

Among the out-of-town guests for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hedgpeth and Tommy Hedgpeth Jr. of Chester, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dixon Jr. and Ann, Alice Faye and Eddie Dixon; Mrs. R. L. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jackson, all of Grifton; Purvey James, Arthur Dempsey Jr. both of Jamesville; Mr. and Mrs. Clark O. Taylor, Mrs. Lollie Taylor, Mrs. Nannie Monreau, all of Winston-Salem; and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Riddick of Greenville.

Cake Cutting
Mr. and Mrs. Roy Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Davey Lee Parnell of China Grove and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hedgpeth of Chester, S. C. were hosts on Saturday evening at the First Baptist Church's Educational Building with a cake cutting and after-rehearsal party honoring their niece, Miss Gail McSwain of China Grove, and her fiancé, McLemore Lancaster.

For the occasion the bride-elect wore a chiffon over printed tulle dress and white accessories and an orchid corsage.

Arrangements of summer flowers carrying out the green and white color motif were used throughout the room in decorations.

The bride's table was covered with a white cloth of cutwork design caught up at the corners with tiny nosegays. Centering the table were arrangements of summer flowers flanked by lighted tapers in Cambridge Arms holding floating summer flower petals.

A silver punch bowl was at one end of the table and a three tiered white decorated wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom was on the other end of the table. Nuts and mints were placed on the table in silver compotes.

The cake was served by Miss Rae Britt of Fairmont after the couple cut the traditional first slice and Mrs. Davey Lee Parnell, the bride's aunt, presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Troy Elliott assisted in serving.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Miller and Mr. and Mrs. William Wood of Salisbury said the goodbyes.

HOME SEWING is getting easier all the time.

Nowadays a smart girl can sew her entire wardrobe, with the aid of modern automatic sewing machines, improved patterns and the many opportunities for professional sewing lessons—in school, at local sewing centers and even at department stores.

Pattern designers always are thinking up new shortcuts, and one of the latest is the idea of making three different dresses from one pattern, with different sleeve, neck and waistline treatments. This is a technique suggested in one of the new "easy" patterns, designed to be whipped up in next-to-no time.

If back-to-school sewing is on the agenda, here's a good chance to kill three birds with one stone. Try one dress in a light-weight wool, with plunging neck, bracelet-length sleeves and a wide satin cummerbund, for informal dances and parties. Make another in a gray fall print, with short sleeves and scoop neckline. Do the third in a dark cotton with a white neckline tie, for early fall wear.

You can set up an assembly line for this kind of sewing. First make all necessary pattern alterations, using the inch-rulers printed right on the pattern pieces. Cut out long-sleeved version of bodice; then cut pattern pieces along marked line for short-sleeved versions.

Fasten one dress together for a trying-on session then make identical adjustments in the other two dresses. You'll find you can sew them up in little time. Be sure to have three sets of thread and full bobbins, in the colors you will need. With the new sewing machines, bobbin changing is the work of a second, since bobbins simply drop into place in front of the needle—no need to tilt up the head of the machine. Threading is a cinch, too, with the new thread parts built into the slant-needle machines.

Each of these dresses requires about five yards of 35-inch fabric, and the pattern. If you select easy-care cottons, be sure that all other items—seam binding, trimmings

I.F.Y.E. Program

Pender County recently played host to an International Farm Youth Exchange delegate, Miss Turid Simonstad of Norway studied American farm and home life while there.

Mrs. Emily C. Johnson, home economics agent, reports the Harris' Saunders family felt that it was a real honor to have Turid in their home.

Home Improvement Tour

Homes are constantly being improved in Franklin County. Recently 33 Home Demonstration women visited various homes in the county to study improvements made.

Special emphasis was given to kitchen cabinets in the home of Mrs. Wesley Pendergrass. Storage room was studied at the J. P. Timberlakes. Mrs. Lillie Mae Dean, home economics agent, says the tour was completed at the L. C. Hasty home where zoysia grass rooting and transplanting beds were observed.

Publicity Champion

The Haywood County Home Demonstration club's publicity book won the tri-color award in state competition this year.

According to Miss Mary Cornwell, home economics agent, the book was prepared by Mrs. James D. McClure who followed suggestions made by the state committee in compiling the book.

Projects Important

Community projects have been important to Home Demonstration club women in Rowan County.

Miss Edith Hinshaw, home economics agent, says club members recently made 510 garments for the welfare department. Club women furnished zippers, buttons, and thread, while local stores and mills furnished material.

Saving Noted On Home Project

Mrs. Willie Garrison of Locust

Hill community in Caswell County recently covered her couch at a saving of $34.50. Although it was her first experience, she did a first-rate job.

Mrs. Garrison said, "It's finished and I have a good looking couch—thanks to my home economics agent, Miss Louise Homewood, for the instruction and inspiration."

Health Improvement

Good health is important to Home Demonstration Club women in Carteret County, according to Mrs. Floy Garner, home economics agent.

Mrs. K. F. Mason of the Harlowe Club obtained 100 appointments for women to attend the cancer detection clinic at the rate of 10 per week. Health leaders have recently received special recognition and praise for their educational work.

Tomato Hints

RALEIGH—"Pomme d'amour" the French called it. The English and Americans soon came to refer to it as the "love apple."

Call it any name you want, we all appreciate the eating qualities of tomatoes—a native American vegetable that had to go abroad to make good.

Mrs. Ruby P. Uzzle, consumer marketing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, says the average American eats yearly about 35 medium sized fresh tomatoes, nine cups of canned tomatoes, 13 cups of tomato juice and soup, and nine cups of other tomato products.

When shopping look for tomatoes that are: firm but well ripened (to insure flavor); free from blemishes (to reduce waste); of good color (depending on the variety); fairly well-formed (when serving sliced or whole).

Serve tomatoes now. Fresh locally-grown tomato season is in full swing. Now's the time when you can cut tomato slices thicker and serve fresh tomatoes often.

Ripe tomatoes can be stuffed with cottage cheese, other vegetables, meat or fish. Tomatoes may be stewed, baked, scalloped, or broiled.

Mrs. Uzzle says conserve tomatoes in juice, catsup, chili, sauce, relishes, and pickles for extra color and tempting flavor to any meal.

Good Marks Require Good Vision

The first step in back-to-school preparation is to be sure your child sees well. Anything less than good vision is a handicap that even the brightest young mind has trouble overcoming.

A thorough eye examination now may save years of headache. Stop in with your school-agers. Enjoy the peace of mind that comes with knowing they see well enough to do well.

Children "outgrow" glasses just as they outgrow clothes. If your child's prescription has not been checked recently—or his glasses adjusted . . . be sure and stop in before school starts.

Be prepared for young visitors by keeping an old suitcase packed with discarded jewelry, veils, both men and women's pocketbooks and hats and other grown up articles the kiddies can play with.

DATE ADVICE

Dates should be rolled in flour before they are cut. Then the slices will not stick together, nor will they cling to the scissors. The flour used should be a part of that called for in the recipe.

Summertime Is Sandwich Time

RALEIGH — Summertime is sandwich time. But if you're going to make a sandwich, you will want it to be just right.

According to Miss S. Virginia Wilson, food and nutrition specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, thin sliced bread should be used for the sandwich. Since bread is two-thirds of the sandwich, it must be fresh and good.

Butter or margarine or salad dressing spread thinly all the way to the edges is just right. Too much spread will make sandwiches soggy and unappetizing.

Fillings should be generous, but not bulky. Mixtures should be moist enough to spread well and not too dry, but not "drippy." If to be packed for traveling, soft mixtures should not be used, unless bread and fillings are to be packed separately and spread when ready for use. Lettuce, pickles, tomatoes should be packed separately and added just before sandwiches are to be eaten.

Sandwich mixtures should be seasoned when prepared. This gives a better flavor than sprinkling on later. A bit of sage, garlic, mustard, celery salt, relish, or special sauce may be added to give zest.

Make your sandwiches attractive and appealing even to the youngsters.

Mix together the nonfat dry milk (in dry form), flour, salt, mustard and pepper; sprinkle over surface of egg mixture; beat with rotary beater until smooth. Cook and stir constantly over hot (not boiling) water until thickened. Remove from heat; stir in butter, then gradually stir in vinegar. Store in covered jar in refrigerator. Stir, if necessary before using. Note: 12 calories per tablespoon in this dressing.

DAILY BATH NOW POPULAR.

The Occidental custom of daily sudsings is taking hold in the Orient. Now travelers in the lands of rice and curry usually have no choice but to take hotel rooms with bath. It seems that during the hot season people bathe so often that private bathrooms are a necessity, not merely a modern convenience.

Crystal beads need an occasional washing. Just brush over them lightly with lukewarm soap or detergent suds, next with clear water, and then blot them with a towel.

Speaking of drip-dries, some European hotels have added a jet-age touch to fast-drying wash-and-wear items by installing heated towel racks.

It's wise to buy accessories which can be laundered as often as needed. And in warm weather, that's after every wearing!

Young Rockefeller, Former Family Maid Plan Wedding

KRISTIANSAND, Norway (AP)—Steven Rockefeller and a former maid in his wealthy family's home plan a late summer wedding in a small Lutheran church in Norway.

Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York said they are delighted at their son's engagement to Anne Marie Rasmussen, 21, pretty blonde daughter of a prosperous Kristiansand grocer.

"She is a wonderful girl," the governor said.

Announcing their engagement Sunday, the young couple did not set a wedding date. But a friend of the Rasmussen family said it would probably be Aug. 22.

It will be performed by the Rev. Olav Gaustestad in the Lutheran Church at nearby Soegne. The pastor is an old friend of the Rasmussens. The Rockefellers are Baptists.

The governor has indicated he and his wife will come to Scandinavia for the wedding.

"I can't imagine that I would not participate in the wedding of any of my children," he told newsmen Saturday.

Steven, 23, and the third of his parents' five children, first met Anne Marie when she came to the United States in 1956 to learn English and worked for a time as a maid in his home. She left the Rockefeller employ in 1957 to work in a New York department store, then worked for an insurance firm in New York.

After serving an army hitch, young Rockefeller flew to Oslo July 10 and met Anne Marie. They came on to her home by motorcycle, and the romance rumors have been booming ever since.

The girl's father, Kristian Rasmussen, appeared with the couple at a news conference Sunday.

"If our daughter will be happy this way, we will not stop her," he said.

Radiant Anne Marie, wearing a charcoal grey frock with rose polka dots, showed reporters her modest-sized engagement ring—a diamond surrounded by smaller diamonds and set in platinum.

Steven said forms had been sent off Saturday for the publishing of the marriage banns, which in Norway must be done three weeks before the wedding. But this period may be reduced by the Department of Justice if the applicant shows cause.

Young Rockefeller, a graduate of Princeton University, said he will return to New York in September and enter one of his family's businesses.

"This will change my life completely," Anne Marie said. "Everything will become different for me, but what I have brought with me from the home of my childhood will always remain with me. I will remain the one I am."

She said she and Steven would live in an apartment in New York but that they haven't found one yet. Anne Marie added that she wants to keep house herself.

Steven said he will stay with the Rasmussens until the wedding and added he would like to get in some fishing. Putting his arm around Anne Marie, he added, "I was sure lucky catching this one."

Lee Jury To Act On Murder Case

SANFORD, N.C. (AP)—The Lee County grand jury was expected today to consider the case of Thurman Hicks, 34-year-old Negro charged with murdering a deputy sheriff during a manhunt near here June 8.

Hicks was released recently after about a month of observation at Cherry Hospital, a state mental institution for Negroes at Goldsboro. The staff there found him mentally sick.

If the grand jury indicts Hicks, he likely will undergo a sanity hearing in Lee Superior Court.

Solicitor Archie Taylor said he would ask for the death penalty if Hicks is deemed competent to plead to the murder charge.

The wayfaring Negro, who has criminal records in Florida, Virginia and Maryland, was charged with killing Deputy J. L. Powers in a wheat field near Sanford.

Powers was a member of a posse searching the area for the person responsible for a number of break-ins and shootings which had kept residents on edge for about a week.

Quakers Schedule Ministers' Meet

N. C. Violent Deaths Over The Weekend Total Twenty

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Knifings and shootings helped give North Carolina at least 20 violent deaths over the weekend.

At Hickory, Annie Inez Rutherford Connelley, 40, and Dethro Ophelia Thomas, 38, were charged with stabbing their husbands.

Dead are John Henry Connelley, 45, and Kenneth McKinley Thomas, 44. All are Negroes.

Amos Crouch, 58, was charged with murder in Winston-Salem. Police said he strode into a Negro Baptist Church during Sunday services and fatally stabbed his wife, 53-year-old Mrs. Nannie Crouch. The Rev. Manning Singleton was holding Crouch on the floor when police arrived.

J. L. Moore of Charlotte died of a shotgun wound and another Charlottean, Christopher Leroy Alexander, who said the men had staged a duel, was charged with murder.

Lee Anderson (Sonny) Blackman, 27, a Charlotte Negro, was charged with murder in the shooting of George Williams and assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill in the wounding of Dallas Peterson, 33. In still another shooting, involving Negroes, Broadus Minor was charged with murder in the death of Margaret Carson, both of Charlotte.

Kenneth Lamar Hicks, 4, of Winston-Salem died after he accidentally drank from a bottle of ant killer containing arsenic.

Drownings for the weekend included: Dale Settlemyer, Wilmet; Paul Jerman Parks, 13, and his brother, Walter Clayton Parks, 10, of the Clingmans community, Wilkes County; Charles Henderson, 10, of Cleveland County's Lattimore section; and Tommy Mode, 8, Lawndale.

On the highways these deaths were reported: Clarence David Adam and Hubert Amasa Mordock, both about 20, of near Morehead City; Virgil Jackson, 40, Gastonia; Paul Atlas Creech, 58, formerly of Goldsboro; Samuel Seay, 23, Goldsboro Negro; Collin Augustus Nelson, 69, Washington; Clinton Edwards, 51, Rt. 8, Sanford and Howard Clark Jr., 31, Stoneville.

12-Inch Rainfall Brings Flooding

ASHLAND, Neb. (AP)—Floodwaters swirled near Ashland early today after week-end rains which reached an unofficially reported 12 inches a few miles upstream.

Army Ducks stood by prepared to evacuate some 300 boy campers, members of a Woodmen of the World Boys of Woodcraft, at Camp Ashland on the Platte River to the east.

Observers could make no estimate of expected tremendous crop damage after the torrential downfalls of Saturday night and early Sunday. Heaviest rainfall points were Schuyler and Wahoo to the north.

The overflow just north of Ashland already had reached a higher point than residents could remember. At the town of Memphis, seven miles north, a store two blocks distant from surging Wahoo Creek and about 20 feet above the creek bed had water lapping at its doorstep as the crest passed.

The town of Wahoo was cut off from highway communication for a time. But as waters receded during the day, there was traffic from the south and the west.

In Omaha, up to three feet of water washed through basements in a new residential area, and there was flooding to the south near Offutt Air Force Base.

IRAQ AGREES

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—An Iraqi Foreign Ministry spokesman says Iraq has agreed in principle to take part in the projected Arab League technical meeting in Lebanon to discuss Palestine refugees.

Today two-fifths of Minnesota, or nearly 20 million acres, is in forests.

New Yorkers In History Fuss

NEW YORK (AP)—All you have to do to start an argument on Staten Island these days is ask "who was Giovanni de Verrazano?"

History tells us he was a footloose Florentine who came this way more than 400 years ago. He is credited with discovering Manhattan and the Hudson River in 1524.

The controversy started when the state decided to do him honor. It was suggested that the bridge over New York Bay which will link Brooklyn and Staten Island bear his name.

There wasn't peep from Brooklyn. But many Staten Island residents were outraged. They felt the bridge should be called Staten Island Bridge, and the Staten Island Chamber of Commerce agreed.

Indignantly these people will point out to anyone who listens that Verrazano, who sailed for the French, was an out-and-out pirate. As far as they're concerned, there's a Staten Island ferryboat named after him, and that's memorial enough.

One outspoken Staten Islander described Verrazano as nothing more than "a foreigner who made a navigational mistake." However, the same description could be applied to Christopher Columbus.

Queen's Health Worries Papers

LONDON (AP)—British newspapers today published pictures of Queen Elizabeth II looking tired, with a lined face, after her return from Canada. The papers voiced renewed concern for her health.

The Queen and Prince Philip returned Sunday from a 16,000-mile trip across North America. The monarch described it as "strenuous but intensely interesting."

Beneath the big headline "Never Again!" the Daily Herald printed a huge photograph of the Queen looking dull-eyed. Lines, not seen before, furrowed her brow and marred her famed peaches and cream complexion.

"The Queen's step 'seemed slow and her smile was not the quick infectious one which usually lights her face,'" said the Daily Sketch.

The Daily Telegraph and the Daily Mail agreed the tour was too arduous and that future royal tours should be more frequent but of shorter duration.

Newspaper criticism first came up several weeks ago when a stomach upset in the Yukon Territory forced her to rest for two days.

The Queen and Prince Philip were met at London airport by their children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret.

'Lost Stream' Swallows Man

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Is there such a thing as a lost stream?

A tragedy has revealed that there is.

It all started Saturday night when patrolman Joseph Reiss, 35, was checking a reported cave-in at a street intersection in northeastern Philadelphia.

Suddenly the earth below him crumbled without warning. He was swallowed into a gaping hole 43 feet deep, 60 feet long, and 60 feet wide. There has been no trace of him since.

City Water Commissioner Samuel Baxter said that the cave-in was caused by the collapse of an 11-foot arch over a forgotten stream that had been turned into a sewer 75 years ago.

Second Explosion Hits Negro Home

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—The home of the only Negro couple in the formerly all-white suburb of Collins Park has been hit by an explosion for the second time in less than five months.

The latest explosion Sunday buckled the walls and tore a large hole in the front of the $13,500 home of Mr. and Mrs. George Rayfield. They were not at home at the time.

Want Hodges On '60 Demo Ticket

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Seventy-one North Carolina editors believe the state's 1960 convention delegation should back Gov. Luther Hodges as the vice presidential candidate on the Democratic ticket.

The poll by the Goldsboro News-Argus showed that 22 editors voted against backing Hodges as the No. 2 choice.

The paper sent the question to 140 North Carolina editors. Ninety-three answered.

Sports Scope

by Johnny Hudson

There is little doubt that Little League baseball has been a big benefit, both to baseball and to the youth of our country, but there are many problems which accompany the system in a local community.

When first developed, the program was set up strictly to give the youth a chance to play baseball with his peers and an opportunity to develop sportsmanship. Yet, every year—with added pressure from the parents—winning usually becomes the prime goal of the kids.

Kids Are Under Pressure

Kids at this age are put under a lot of pressure and they should not be. Winning should be only the secondary goal. The Little Leaguers of a community are given the opportunity of playing in top flight ball parks, have the best of uniforms, travel in good style, and they receive ample publicity which includes the newspapers, radio, and TV.

Entering high school and playing on the prep team can come as a big letdown to the youth. Here, he is just another fellow striving to make the club and the conditions that he plays under aren't as good as the Little League system. His clippings are no longer of value except to the parents. He has little to look forward to—athletic-wise—upon entering high school and often drops from the team. His peak has already been reached while playing in a previous Little League Tournament.

The Little League program is a highly organized one. Thus, the children fall into our world of conformity with very little chance of originality and creativeness. Their play time is an organized and outlined affair without any doubt.

Parents Present Biggest Problem

The downfall of a program usually besets a community because of the parents and their desire for their child's team to win or for him to become an everyday hero. This puts tremendous stress on the little tot who only wants to play baseball—regardless of losing or winning.

The program is on its way down when parents develop this attitude. The purpose of Little League is misleading to them when they think of only the headlines in the paper, the length of the article about their son and other such items which only lead to put added pressure on the young players.

Rightly or wrongly, this columnist has tried to give the Greenville organization good coverage during the past summer. We have run daily boxes on the games—an oddity for most newspapers—and also a reasonable write-up has gone along with the box.

James Has Done Excellent Job

Our modern educators—including our physical educators look to the Little League organization with a cautious and even critical eye. They admit that the program can be utilized to reap fruitful results but they also cite the many problems that are usually always brought on by the parents.

Neely James has done an excellent job in building our local program and is to be commended for his work. Yet, we offer a plea to the community to let's leave it in the hands of James and his helpers. They would be able to accomplish twice as much if we realize that winning is only secondary in means to an end.

The late Jim Tatum stated that "winning is not everything, it is the only thing." This is the society that we live in and this philosophy can be applied to our sports on the college and even in some cases to the high school level. But we are carrying it too far when we extend it into our Little League program.

Stengel Has Pitching Woes With Second All-Star Tilt

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — There was a 24-hour truce in the red-hot major league pennant races today as interest switched to the season's second All-Star Game.

Casey Stengel, already beleaguered by the grave problems of his own New York Yankees, faced new troubles as pilot of the American League squad.

Intensity of the flag race in his league apparently left the old warrior with only two rested pitchers, Baltimore's Jerry Walker (8-5) and Pete Ramos (10-13) of Washington.

Manager Fred Haney of Milwaukee was set to lead off with ace right-hander Don Drysdale of Los Angeles for the Nationals.

Today's all-star affair was the second edition of 1959, and the American all-stars were seeking revenge for their 5-4 loss at Pittsburgh July 7.

The site is big Memorial Coliseum, the time for the game 4 p.m. and upwards of 50,000 are expected to brave 90-degree-plus heat for Los Angeles' first turn as host of the event.

The brass was here, including Commissioner Ford Frick and the rival league presidents, Joe Cronin of the American and Warren Giles of the National, plus other top names in the game.

But the eyes of the fans were set for the galaxy of stars, and doubtless the Coliseum's controversial left field screen, which stands 230 feet from home plate at the foul line and rises 40 feet.

Haney is well acquainted with the screen. Stengel is no total stranger to it. He saw it when the Yankees played Los Angeles in the Roy Campanella benefit earlier this year before a crowd of 93,103—largest in U.S. baseball history.

Casey, with right-hander Drysdale in mind, named no less than six left-handed batters to his starting lineup.

But what to do about pitching was something else.

Stengel was set to star fireballer Ryne Duren of New York. The read: Johnny Temple of Cincinnati, Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee, Willie Mays of San Francisco, Ernie Banks of the Cubs, Stan Musial of St. Louis, Wally Moon of the Dodgers, Del Crandall of the Braves, and Drysdale.

would have been a dilly. But he had to use Duren for 3 2-3 innings against Kansas City Sunday.

Four other American League all-star hurlers were pressed into action Sunday. They were Hoyt Wilhelm and Billy O'Dell of Baltimore, Cal McLish of Cleveland, and Bud Daley of Kansas City. Still another, Early Wynn of Chicago, has an injured ankle.

Walker was belatedly named Sunday to replace his teammate, catcher Gus Triandos, and Ramos was subbed for teammate Camilo Pascual. Triandos and Pascual had injuries.

Walker pitched one inning in relief Saturday, and Ramos last pitched Friday night. He has lost five straight.

So Casey had his problems.

His lead-off left-hand batters, barring further changes, are Pete Runnels of Boston, Nellie Fox of the White Sox, Ted Williams of the Red Sox, Yogi Berra, and switch-hitting Mickey Mantle of the Yankees, and Roger Maris of Kansas City.

The right-handers are Frank Malzone of Boston, Luis Aparicio of Chicago, and Walker.

Tobs Move Atop With Sweep Over Past Leaders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Syracuse, N.Y. (AP) — Surging Wilson stood atop the Carolina League pack today after whipping Raleigh twice during a weekend series.

The Tobs unloaded 16 hits Sunday for a 14-6 pasting of the erstwhile league leaders after coming from behind for a 9-3 triumph Saturday night.

In other games Sunday Alamance quelled noisy Durham 3-1 and Winston-Salem and Greensboro split a doubleheader, Greensboro winning 4-3 in the opener and Winston-Salem 4-2 in the second game.

Some 1,180 fans at Wilson watched their favorites bounce back into the league lead with a powerful attack which featured a five-run fifth sandwiched by three-run rallies in the second and eighth innings.

Tonight's action sends Winston-Salem to Wilson, Greensboro to Alamance and Durham to Raleigh.

Rosburg In Dramatic Finish To Win PGA

By JIM KLOBUCHAR
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Bob Rosburg, a stubborn man with a hacker's style, has shed his five-year role as an oddity of big time golf for the regal garb of Professional Golfers Ass'n. champion.

With a startling four-under-par 66 in the wind and gloom at Minneapolis Golf Club Sunday, the 32-year-old Californian confounded the skeptics and ended his long quest for a major prestige victory.

To do it he had to break the heart of Jerry Barber, the spunky little veteran who had his first national title within grasp only to run out of gas on the final holes. Barber struggled home with a 73 for a 72-hole 278, one stroke back of Rosburg and in a tie with another weird swinger, Doug Sanders.

Rosburg thus became the second man this year to win a big tournament using the so-called baseball grip that makes most golfing teachers wince. Art Wall Jr., its other leading exponent, won the Masters.

But it has been most closely identified through the years with Rosburg, and made him a curiosity wherever he played. He acquired a reputation for scrambling and finishing second.

With $8250 in first place money beckoning him, however, he delivered one of the great pressure rounds of the year.

Six strokes behind Barber, heading into the final round and all but discounted as a contender, he fired five birdies on the front nine for a 30 to equal the course record set just two days before by Barber. It pulled him even with Jerry.

Then, playing in the threesome ahead of Barber, he stayed shoulder-to-shoulder with the little man for four holes. Barber's birdie on the 15th thrust him back into the lead but he lost it by hitting into the trap on the 17th and lost the title by doing the same on the 18th.

Rosburg is a big man with a formidable girth who wears spectacles and a look of great weariness on the golf course.

Barber, aware all the time how Rosburg was going, thought he had the title when he tapped in a 20-foot putt for a par on the 16th after coming out of a trap.

"But on the last two holes I went out to lunch and forgot to come home," he said with pained humor afterward. He hit into a trap on the 17th and couldn't extricate himself without a bogey. Trapped again on the 18th he punched 18 feet past the hole.

By this time the daylong overcast was dumping rain on the course and 12,000 spectators lining the 18th fairway and rimming the green.

Barber, walking the line of his putt, squatted, study it, and intensely reading the green, was a forlorn figure in the rain. He stroked the ball, but his confidence was gone and the ball was short.

Sanders, one stroke behind Barber after 18, hung on all day and just missed tying for the lead when he fluffed a 2½ foot putt on the 17th.

Mike Souchak, two strokes behind after 54, knocked himself out early by gunning wildly on the front nine in an effort to catch up. Defending champ Dow Finsterwald stepped into the breach with a 70 to finish fourth at 280, three strokes off the pace. Barber and Sanders each won $3,562.50 while Finsterwald $2,500. Ken Venturi, Souchak and Bob Goalby, who closed with a 68, wound up with $2,000 each in a tie for fifth at 281.

White Sox Gain In Junior Loop

By JACK HAND
After Luis Aparicio and Nellie Fox bunt and run you dizzy, Al Lopez waves in Turk Lown or Gerry Staley to shut the door in your face.

That is the reason the Chicago White Sox are three games out front in the American League today and pulling away fast. Ex-bunters, the rest of the league is fading into the gloaming. Both Baltimore and Kansas City, tied for third, are 11 games back. And the Yankees? They are 12 games down in fourth place.

The little men did it again Sunday in the first game with Washington, slashing and racing to upset the punchy Senators. Trailing 2-1 in the last of the ninth, Aparicio opened with a single. Fox checked threw the ball away. Aparicio scored and Fox dashed to third. Two intentional walks loaded the bases and Billy Goodman plunked a fly ball single into left over a drawn in outfield for a 3-2 victory.

Lown, who took over after Billy Pierce left for a pinch hitter the eighth, won his eighth despite a shaky ninth inning. It was his fifth straight.

Again in the second game, when Bob Shaw began to stumble in the eighth, in came Staley to breeze through 1 1-3 hitless innings, saving Shaw's 10th victory. Gerry Staley to shut the door in your face.

Washington hit the only home runs. Faye Throneberry got No. 9 in the first game and Jim Lemon in the second. But the Senators lost their 15th and 16th in a row, only two short of their club record set in 1948.

Chicago now has won six straight and 11 of its last 12 games. Since the first All-Star break they have a 19-5 record. Their opening game victory was their 26th by one run.

Cleveland lost ground by dropping a 5-4 decision to Baltimore in 10 innings. Willie Miranda beat out a high bouncer to the mound. That one little hit minimized Rocky Colavito's 31st homer and Woody Held's 20th.

Tito Francona's seventh hit of the day, a three-run homer off Billy O'Dell in the ninth gave Cleveland a 6-3 decision in the second game.

In the first game and a double and single before his homer. The only time the Orioles got him out was when third baseman Brooks Robinson made a diving catch of a line drive.

Gary Bell won his 11th in the second while Al Cicotte lost his first on relief in the opener. Hoyt Wilhelm was Baltimore's winner and O'Dell, who worked in both games, dropped the second. Cleveland's attendance soared over the million mark to 1,009,562 with the turnout of 34,682.

Elston Howard drove in four runs with two singles and a double in New York's 7-5 victory over Kansas City. Ryne Duren struck out seven in 3 2-3 shutout innings but Duke Maas was the winner over Bob Griss.

Jackie Jensen's three-run homer and Frank Malzone's two-run blast provided all the runs in Boston's 5-4 decision over Detroit. Charlie Maxwell hit his 23rd and his 11th Sunday home run, Ike Delock won in relief over starter Paul Foytack.

Wilmington Wins District Title

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Wilmington, winner of its fifth Eastern championship in six years, will meet the winner of the Kannapolis Mt. Holly series in the West for the state Legion baseball championship.

The final series, a best of seven event, begins here Wednesday night.

The Wilmington juniors topped Rocky Mount 5-1 over the weekend to grab a four games to one triumph in the best of seven series for the Eastern crown.

Earl Cole struck out eight and gave up only six hits in taking his victory in nine games.

East And West Squads Shape Up For Tilts

GREENSBORO (AP)—The 11th annual North Carolina Coaching Clinic opened here today with a lecture by Navy basketball Coach Ben Carnevale.

About 500 coaches were expected for the week-long clinic which will feature lectures on football, track, tennis, athletic training and rules interpretation.

All-star games of picked high school basketball and football will highlight the clinic.

The football clinic conducted by Notre Dame Coach Joe Kuharich will start the activities. Other speakers will be Jim Kehoe of Maryland, track; Don Skakle of North Carolina, tennis; Fred Hoover of Clemson, athletic training; and Will Clary of Winston-Salem's Children's Home, 1959 rules interpretation.

Meanwhile, the all-star basketball squads scheduled their final drills prior to their game Tuesday night. Bill Sweel of Washington is the East coach and Melvin Rungles of Hilderbran is the West coach.

The East and West football teams held their daily drills with their game scheduled Friday night.

All-star, all-time squads for the past five years were announced Saturday.

The all-star basketball team for the past five years included Carroll Youngkin of North Davidson; Darwin Williams of Kinston; Arthur Wisnart of Hilderbran; Bobby Joe Harris of King and Bruce Hoadley of Raleigh.

The football team included ends Henry Newton of Raleigh and Dwight Bumgardner of Lexington; tackles Mike McGee of Elizabeth City and J. B. Vaughn of Graham; guards Jack Lineberger of Belmont and Ronnie Bosian of Salisbury; center Jimmy Jones of Greensboro; and backs David Burch of Canton, Ray Farris of Myers Park, Roman Gabriel of Wilmington, and Cornell Johnson of High Point.

No blows will be held tonight at Roanoke Rapids when the Graniteers, Greenville city champs, open the 1959 Northeastern Softball district play-offs against a club that is able to boast a fabulous record in North Carolina's short history of fast-pitch softball.

Romanco, the host club, will serve as the number one hurdle for manager N. A. Roebuck and his strong club. The Roanoke Rapids outfit has copied five state championships in the past and had won the district title six straight times until Carolina Dairy of Greenville snapped the streak last summer.

The tournament, sponsored by the Roanoke Rapids Presbyterian Church, will open tonight with the Graniteers and Romanco slated to start at 8 o'clock. The double elimination tourney will continue until Friday.

Carolina Dairy, 1958 district winners, will delay their opener until tomorrow night when they battle Seymour Johnson Air Base of Goldsboro.

Dan Gordon, Greenville's number one hurler in the past four seasons, will open tonight against Maxie Clifford, famed fire-baller of the Romanco.

The Greenville club will be stronger this year in depth than in previous seasons. Jessel Curry—one of their top stars—has departed from Greenville but Harold Ingram, a free-swinging pitcher of power, Tommy Nance, Bill Brantley and Charlie Odum have been added to the roster.

Hitting is no problem for the local club as they boast big bats in the personnel of Bobby Perry, Mack Roebuck, and Ike Riddick.

The Graniteers edged out the Romanco outfit in last year's action but went on to drop two straight to a surging Carolina Dairy outfit in the final of the district play-offs.

The winner of the district tourney, which will be decided Friday, will advance to the state tournament the latter part of this month.

1959 Is Bad Year For Favorites

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
This has been a bad year, generally speaking, for favorites in major horse races. So it shouldn't have been too much of a surprise when Sword Dancer, Silver Spoon and Bally Ache bit the dust in Saturday's three top events.

Exempt Hilsdale, Round Table in most of his races and the two C.V. Whitney fillies, Bug Brush and Silver Spoon, in a majority of their California starts and you'll find that in practically all of the top 1959 races the favorites have been beaten.

The trend started last winter in the Flamingo at Hialeah Park and the Santa Anita Handicap. It continued Saturday when Sword Dancer, a leading contender for 3-year old honors, bowed to Babu ($47.80) in the $113,300 Brooklyn Handicap at Jamaica, Bally Ache was edged by T.V. Lark ($68.00) in the $212,000 Futurity in Arlington Park and Silver Spoon wound up third as Royal Native ($15.40) won the $55,000 Oaks at Monmouth Park.

Francona Is Indian Hero

CLEVELAND (AP)—Tito Francona, the new hero of the Cleveland baseball fans, says he has no secret for his sensational hitting. "I just keep swinging at that ball."

Francona whacked seven hits in a doubleheader with the Baltimore Orioles Sunday, winning the nightcap with a three-run homer in the ninth inning to break a 3-3 tie. The Orioles took the opener 5-4 in 10 innings and Tito had four singles.

The only time he was retired in the twinbill was in the seventh inning of the second game and it took a diving catch by Orioles third baseman Brooks Robinson to snare Tito's hot line drive.

With his seven-for-eight spree, the 25-year-old Francona lifted his already lofty average 18 points to .417. He has only a slim chance to be eligible for the American League batting title, however, since he has been to the plate only 327 times. To be eligible he needs to come to bat almost five times in each of the Indians' remaining 50 games to fulfill the required 477 appearances.

MAN WHO MISSED THE MOON

by EDMOND HAMILTON

First Published in The Star of Leno, Va., by The Associated Press

CHAPTER 35

Kirk Hammond and Rymer flew to Sharanna shortly before noon, and it was already too late. In the sky low above the mountains there poised and whirled and slashed a colossal scimitar of light. The hand of a god might have wielded that stupendous sword of radiance but there was no hand visible.

There was only the great blade of destruction that slashed through peaks and sent them tumbling in avalanches of broken rock, that turned and came back and sliced again, cutting through all in its path.

Up from the hidden defenses all around Sharanna struck the weapons of the Vramen, the savage, raving sheets and bolts of force, the leaping missiles that exploded in the hellish flowers of flame. But the sword in the sky disdained them.

Some remote-controlled flying device at its heart might generate it but that was beyond the reach of Vramen weapons, shielded by the destructiveness it created.

No empty boast had been the promise of the Third Men that they could build a thing of terror when they had the materials! Out of long-cherished plans of a super-human science they constructed and sent this sword that was hacking Sharanna to bits.

Riven in twain was a great pylon that stood like a broken tombstone in its own wreckage. And down upon it again came the inexorable blade of radiance, cutting through the shattered building to quarter it, sweeping on in destruction.

"Make it stop, make it stop!" cried Kirk Hammond. "Thayn—" But it would not stop. It danced in the sky and exultantly flashed down again and again until all the mountains were a broken wilderness of stone around the broken stronghold of the Vramen. Then the sword of light faded swiftly from the sky.

"Rymer," said Hammond, "Rymer!" Rymer was sitting with his hand loose upon the controls of the flier and his face was stone mask. He had seen the destruction of Sharanna, the end of his personal world and era, he could not hear Hammond at all.

Hammond yelled in his ear, then cursed and beat him with his fists and pointed away to the southward where a covey of black midgets had appeared.

"Land!" Hammond yelled. "Damn you, land—they stayed back in safety till now but they're coming!"

Rymer turned a perfectly blank look upon him. Then he moved his hands on the controls. He sent the flier down toward the broken stone wreckage of Sharanna. He handled the craft with the stiff mechanical perfection of a robot pilot, and he brought them down smoothly onto the rock in front of the shattered pylon.

Hammond leaped out. Already the midgets had become big and black in the sky and they were beginning to circle and drop, whistling like hawks. Hammond left Rymer standing beside the flier white-lipped, and ran.

The air had a scorched smell. The ground was partly fused. He passed a queer spotlitch and realized that it was a puddle of melted steel. Wreckage lay everywhere, broken fragments of stone and metal.

There were bodies, too.

None of them was Thayn. None, at least, that was still recognizable. He ran on, heading for the pylon. He did not know why. Thayn Marden might have been anywhere on the plain, anywhere under the terrible blade of that apocalyptic sword. He sobbed as he ran. Behind him the black fliers fell whistling out of the sky.

He went into the shattered pylon. The doorway was broken, but inside there was a hundred feet of the high corridor that was undamaged. Amid the universal destruction it gave a curious illusion of peace and wholeness.

He saw Thayn. She sat quite alone in that long and empty place, her back resting against the mass of shattered, fallen stone and metal at its end. It was as though she had sat here waiting for him, and when she saw him she smiled and said his name.

She looked somehow like a broken doll and then he saw that her whole side had been crushed in and that she kept it pressed against the broken stone.

"Kirk," she said, and he went down on his knees beside her and took her in his arms.

"You must have help," he said. "I'll get help somewhere." Though where he would find it in fallen Sharanna he did not know, and anyway it was no use, no use at all, and he knew it. Only the human vitality of the Vramen had kept her alive this long.

She held him close, and the perfume of her hair mingled with the smell of burning.

"There's no help," she said. "Even the Vramen die sometime. I've lived a long time, but none of it was really good until the end, until I met you and love like any Hoomen woman—"

He could not say anything but her name, holding her as though he would keep the life in her with his hands, and all the time it was running out of her with every breath.

"I wish I could know that you'll be safe," she whispered.

"I'll be all right," he said. She said suddenly, "Kirk!" Her face had changed, it was no longer the proud face of Thayn of the Vramen, it had a scared, shy, little-girl look and she clung hard to him. And then her hands fell away, and he held her tightly and knew that he was holding nothing at all.

He sat there, not moving. He heard the whistling of many fliers landing and he knew that Sharanna had indeed fallen, but Thayn was dead and beside that the fall of empires was nothing. He sat there in the shattered pylon, until there came a sound so strange that it roused him from his stupor.

The sound of laughter.

Hammond got slowly to his feet and walked down the hall and into the brilliance of the opal sun. He heard a man's voice shouting, and then there was much more laughter.

Out in a clear space amid the wreckage of Sharanna, Rymer stood and raised his voice in curses at the Third Men.

He was a grotesque, gesticulating figure, all the dignity of his long living fallen away from him, as he raved and raged.

And the Third Men laughed. There were very many of them in wrecked Sharanna now, some of them alertly searching the debris, full of the business of conquest, others rounding up the few stunned Vramen who along survived. But a group of them stood here in the open facing Rymer.

They were tall and godlike, full of power full of confidence. They had triumphed, and the highest note of their triumph was the screaming, raging man before them, and they were happy. They laughed.

They had killed Thayn. Hammond, slowly and with heavy purpose, began to move out toward them. He might kill one, only one—but that would be something.

Rymer stopped screaming and looked blankly toward Hammond.

The Third Men looked too, and Hammond saw their faces become hard and ruthless. Then he realized that they were not looking at him at all. He turned.

From behind him, from beyond the shattered pylon, four child-like figures were coming. They were the Fourth Men, and he saw that one of them was Clede.

The story comes to an end here tomorrow. Don't miss the last chapter.

Veteran TV Show Dies After 7 Years

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — A veteran television program died last week and another veteran show was reborn.

"Omnibus" will not return to NBC-TV — or any other network — in the new season. The reason: an advertiser could not be found to sponsor it.

Bemoaning the increasing trend of advertisers to pitch their sponsorship to the so-called mass audience with filmed Western and adventure series won't bring back "Omnibus." But it's worth remembering these things about the program produced by Robert Sauter Associates:

"Omnibus" lasted seven years, at various times on each of the three networks. It's generally agreed that it enjoyed its best season last year, with its audience 28 per cent larger than in the previous season. It had collected 75 national awards for its imaginative, distinguished work.

It was tough and go for a while as to whether "Person to Person" would return to the air on CBS.

TV after Edward R. Murrow decided to take a year's sabbatical. Now it definitely will return in the fall, with sponsorship assured, and Charles Collingwood serving as interviewer.

Producers John Aaron and Jesse Zousmer have some new plans for the show, which they have not yet disclosed in detail. But it appears certain that the program will go abroad with tape for some of its guests.

"Playhouse 90," "Destiny Playhouse" and the new Ford series are all planning programs on the Mafia. CBS and NBC locked horns over specials both entitled "The Fabulous Fifties," and the conflict finally has been resolved in CBS's favor. Actor Tony Curtis and singer Johnny Desmond are in a scramble after discovering that each is working on a musical biography of crooner Russ Columbo. Both CBS and NBC are planning adaptations of Stephen Vincent Benet's "The Devil and Daniel Webster." The list runs almost as long as your arm...

'Big Mouth' Gets Driver Caught

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — "Hey! Why don't you get yourself a driver's license?" an irate motorist yelled at G. H. Mitchell, whose moderate pace angered the other driver.

Mitchell, a policeman, had a driver's license. He stopped the other car, identified himself, and inquired about the angry man's license. He didn't have one.

"Guilty," the man told Corporation Court Judge Lloyd Walker.

"That will be $30 fine and $5.20 court costs," Walker replied.

As the defendant left the courtroom, he was heard to mutter:

"Me and my big mouth."

George Shearing, composer and pianist, was born blind, but learned to play the piano at the age of 12.

After '7 Lonely Days' On Glacier, Single Flare Brings Men's Rescue

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — A single flare, saved for use at just the right moment, brought rescue Sunday to two men marooned seven nights and days high on the barren face of an Alaska glacier.

The flare was sighted by a helicopter pilot participating in a week-old sea and air search over the mountains and through the valleys and inlets of rugged Glacier Bay National Monument.

Although the two were saved, the body of a third man remained with the wreckage of a helicopter in which they crashed last Sunday at the 5,800-foot level Gilman Glacier.

Dead was Robert Baldwin of Ridgefield, Conn., a geophysicist for the Newmont Exploration Co., Ltd., of New York City. Another helicopter was to remove the body today.

Bearded and weary, bruised but otherwise not seriously hurt, were Robert Sheldon and Melvin Guerrero. They survived through chilling temperatures and heavy rain with the aid of a sleeping bag and emergency food rations.

"The first thing they wanted were baths," said Dr. Joseph O. Rude, who treated the men at Juneau's St. Anne's Hospital.

"There's nothing seriously wrong," he said, "nothing a few days rest and food won't fix."

Sheldon, a geologist from Spokane, Wash., was working with Baldwin at an oil exploration camp on Brady Glacier in the National monument area. Guerrero, 28, formerly of Reno, Nev., is a pilot for Petroleum Helicopters of Lafayette, La., working on charter.

The men were sighted near the scene of the crash, about 90 miles west of Juneau, by a helicopter operated by a Canadian mining company. It flew them to a sandy beach at nearby Tarr Inlet, where a Coast Guard amphibian, piloted by Lt. Comdr. Leonard Daniel, New Orleans, La., carried them to Juneau Harbor.

Adverse winds on the flight over the glacier a week ago Sunday apparently led to the helicopter crash, the U.S. Coast Guard rescue center here said.

Ambassador Quit Because Assassinations Asked

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Nicaragua's former ambassador to Costa Rica says he quit his post because President Luis Somoza's government wanted him to arrange assassinations of Nicaraguan exiles in Costa Rica.

Dr. Leonte Herdocia, who also has represented his country at the United Nations and in El Salvador, said the Somoza regime has been dragging a slander campaign against him since he resigned in March and joined other exiles seeking Somoza's overthrow.

Declaring himself a firm opponent of the Somoza family's rule, Herdocia told an interviewer the Nicaraguan government had tried to treat him like an insane person by claiming he had been under psychiatric treatment. Herdocia denied this.

After the rebel invasion of Nicaragua fizzled in June, Herdocia said the Nicaraguan government "distributed throughout the world the monstrous slander that 'Dr. Herdocia, acting as informer, had betrayed secrets of the Nicaraguan

2 More Charges Filed Against Local Negro Boy

Two additional charges of breaking, entering and larceny were placed against a 16-year-old Negro arrested Thursday by detectives after the youth admitted the break-ins.

According to detectives, William Dyer, 116 South Washington St., charged Thursday with entering three houses in the 500 block of West Fourth St. during May and July, admitted another robbery and break-in.

Following further investigation by police, Dyer admitted entering the home of J. F. Moye, 505 West Fourth St. on March 13, and taking $21 from the home of Briskine Duff, 807 East Third St., April 5.

Officers said Dyer was scheduled for trial in Recorder's Court today.

Strikes Gold But Can't Mine It

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Horace J. Tuttle is a well-digger with a problem. He's struck a vein of gold ore he can't mine.

His firm drilling at a new housing development has struck gold twice—at 120 feet and at 194 feet. H. D. McKnight, a certified mineralogist, says the strike at 194 feet apparently is a low-grade gold ore vein.

But the two won't turn Winston-Salem into a gold rush town.

McKnight says the ore can't be mined. "It's too near the city and the law wouldn't allow it," he says.

revolutionary movement."

"The (Nicaraguan) Foreign Ministry was cynical enough to thank me," he said. "The Somoza thought that in this way they could provoke a tremendous reaction against me, and they did this for vengeance."

The campaign did not work, Herdocia said. He declared he had the confidence of Enrique Lacayo Farfan, Nicaraguan exile leader here, as well as the Nicaraguan opposition and public opinion in Costa Rica.

Asked about Herdocia's charges, Nicaraguan Ambassador Juan Bautista Lacayo said he had no comment and didn't want to get into a public argument with his predecessor.

Funeral Will Be As He Planned It

WHITESBURG, Ky. (AP) — Uncle Jim's folks are going to bury him on a hillside near his home at Blackey tomorrow, following in detail the instructions he wrote before his death.

Tucked beside him in the coffin will be his extracted teeth, carefully saved during his 93 years, 9 months, 27 days.

The old-fashioned coffin — narrow at each end and wide in the middle — which he ordered several years ago will be placed in the grave and rocks piled atop it.

There will be four preachers at the service at Mount Olive Baptist Church which Uncle Jim, a carpenter, built.

Uncle Jim's correct, though less familiar, name was James Brown. He died Saturday of a heart ailment.

He wore a flowing white beard and was the patriarch of Blackey — the man who gave the tiny east Kentucky village its name — the nickname of his brother Joe.

Ten of Uncle Jim's 11 children survive. He had 54 grand children, 65 great-grandchildren and 17 great-great-grandchildren.

Boy Drowns In Attempted Rescue

PARKIN, Ark. (AP) — A white boy drowned Sunday while trying to rescue a floundering Negro youth.

Dead is Walter Edward Holmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Shelley Harris. He was swimming near five Negro youths in a water-filled ditch on a nearby plantation, police said.

Officers said two of the Negroes were trying to help Joe Duckett, 14, swim across the ditch when Duckett began to go under. The Holmes boy leaped to his aid but drowned. Another Negro, Odell Worthem, 12, tried to save both but failed.

Duckett was brought to safety.

Donate Blood All Around The World

BOSTON (AP) — A practice which will defy imitation by most folk is being pursued by a group of British tars, members of the crew of HMS Victorious. The big aircraft carrier is enroute home today after taking part in exercises with the U.S. Navy.

While she was tied up at Boston three of her crew appeared at the New England Medical Center and offered blood.

They said they made such donations at each port they visited. In proof of this, Richard J. McCollough, 35, of Newcastle, England, displayed 14 donation cards; Harry Barber, 24, of Sheffield, 10 and John Stephenson, 23, of Birmingham, 8.

Many distant ports were represented, including Hong Kong, Singapore and Malia.

The Turkish railroad system needs about 600,000 ties a year. Turkish forests supply about half, and the balance are purchased abroad.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Motors and oils paced a steadily improving stock market as it made further progress toward record high levels early this afternoon.

Gains of fractions to well over a point prevailed among key stocks. Turnover increased moderately over the slow Friday session. The opening was fairly active, then the pace settled down.

After a ragged start, steels also moved ahead and were joined by rubbers, selected chemicals and an assortment of nonferrous metals. The entire industrial section was up substantially while rails and utilities gained moderately on balance.

The continuing flow of good second round earnings was combined with various Wall Street recommendations to give the market an optimistic tone.

Royal Dutch, up a point, and Texaco, ahead more than a point were among gainers.

General Motors and Chrysler were up about a point each while Ford advanced more than a point.

Scheduled resumption of steel labor negotiations saw U. S. Steel ahead about 2 and Youngstown sheet, a stock split candidate, ahead around 3.

Goodyear added a couple of points while U. S. Rubber and General Tire were ahead more than a point apiece.

Caterpillar and Phelps Dodge took losses of around a point each.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up $1 to $236.10 with the industrials up $2, the rails up 30 cents and the utilities up 30 cents.

U. S. government bonds were steady.

Treasurer Defends Assembly's Action In State Withholding Tax

RALEIGH (AP)—State Treasurer Edwin Gill said today the 1959 General Assembly bet on the future of North Carolina in its use of 27 1/2 million dollars of non-recurring funds to balance the 1959-61 budget.

Gill strongly defended the Legislature's enactment of a withholding plan for collecting state income taxes. In a speech to the Raleigh Rotary Club, he also painted a bright picture of North Carolina's financial health.

Gill, mentioned as a possible 1960 gubernatorial candidate, said, "The General Assembly of 1959 has bet on the future growth and prosperity of our state. In using approximately 27 1/2 million dollars of non-recurring revenue in order to reach a balanced budget, it has really expressed its belief that the dynamic growth which has characterized North Carolina in the past will continue in the years immediately ahead."

The 27 1/2 million dollar windfall will result from the collection of two years' individual income taxes during 1960 — the 1959 taxes under the old system and next year's under the pay-as-you-go withholding system which becomes effective Jan. 1.

Gill predicted that Tar Heel school teachers would receive at least a part of a 5 per cent pay raise provided by the Legislature if sufficient funds are available at the end of the biennium.

"While no one knows what the future holds for us," he told the Rotarians, "if we look at our record of growth and expansion in the past, it would be a rash person who would assume that our teachers will not realize this contingent appropriation in whole or in part."

On another subject, he said he received the unprecedented number of 14 bids on three million dollars worth of permanent improvement bonds authorized by the 1957 General Assembly. The issue was sold July 21.

On the withholding windfall, Gill, a former revenue commissioner, explained that "dire predictions" met the 1957 Assembly's use of 32 million dollars of non-recurring credit balance money.

"This foreboding did not come to pass," he said.

"There are those who say the General Assembly should be blamed for using non-recurring revenue which they claim is putting off the evil day," the treasurer remarked. "My friends, I know of nothing better to do. Our General Assemblies have been putting off the 'evil day' for more than 25 years. Let us hope they can continue to do so."

After he took the boot off and tipped it, an 18 inch pilot snake fell out. The man suffered no ill effects from the snake bite.
