Hoffa Accused Of Paying Debt With Teamsters' Funds

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate committee investigating racketeering charged today that James R. Hoffa paid "a long-standing debt to the Chicago underworld" with three million dollars of Teamsters Union health and welfare funds.

The committee in a report to the Senate, said that Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, personally swung the deals to please the underworld and benefit the family of Paul Dorfman. It said Dorfman is the man who introduced Hoffa to "Midwest mob society."

In Chicago, members of the Dorfman family were not available for comment.

The committee said Midwest Teamsters Union members paid dearly for the deals since 1950, in drastic reduction of health-welfare insurance benefits and inflated charges for the insurance.

The committee also filed two other reports with the Senate on its 1958 investigations, alleging:

1. That the brothers Max and Louis Block, who since have resigned as officials of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, "milked the treasuries" of two New York locals. The report said they got $241,000 out of the locals' treasuries for other purposes.

2. That the A & P stores' eastern division "participated in an elaborate conspiracy" with Max Block to force 10,000 A & P employees into his union under a 45-hour work week contract instead of the 40-hour week rival unions demanded.

In New York, E. L. Reynolds, A&P eastern division president, said full cooperation had been given the Senate committee in supplying information about company relations with the union, in which Block was a former power. "The records submitted," Reynolds said, "clearly demonstrated that A&P's negotiations with the union were fairly and ethically conducted in strict accord with all state and federal regulations."

The three reports followed one filed by the committee Tuesday charging that Hoffa will "destroy the decent labor movement" in this country unless someone curbs him.

The reports, filed by Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark), break a jam that has delayed an official statement of findings in the committee's far-reaching investigation last year.

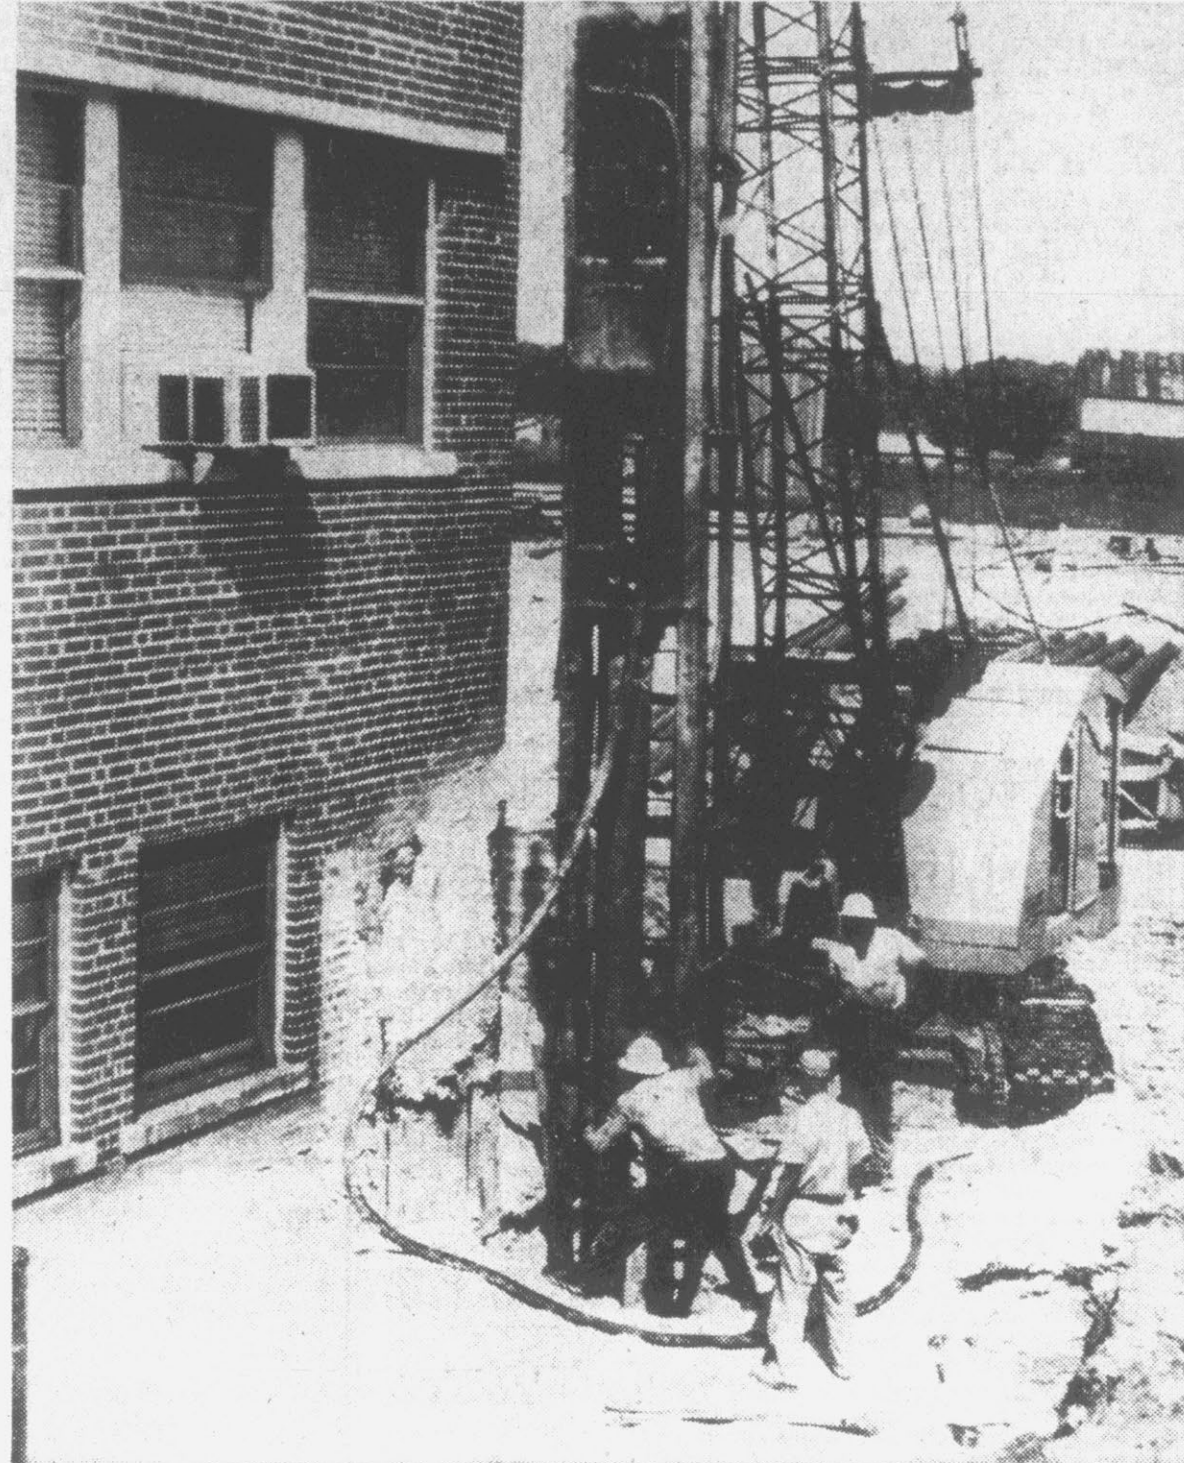

The senators still have not agreed on what they learned from a politically tinged 1958 investigation of Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers Union, and there was no indication of when they might agree.

In its blast at Hoffa, the committee said "there does not exist in the record of the committee a more shocking or flagrant story of betrayal of union members and their families."

It said the three million dollars represented commissions and fees paid since 1950 to Allen Dorfman and Rose Dorfman, son and wife of Paul Dorfman, and reported that $1,650,000 of the amount represented overcharges against the union. The Dorfman served as brokers for huge health-welfare insurance programs of the Central Conference of Teamsters and the Michigan Conference of Teamsters.

"The evidence is clear," the committee said, "that James R. Hoffa used these two (conference) funds to pay off a long-standing debt to the Chicago underworld and to the corrupt labor leader who introduced him to Midwest mob society—Paul Dorfman."

Pile Driver At New Hospital Addition

PILE DRIVER . . . at Pitt Memorial Hospital this morning started driving the 74 piles needed for the one-story west wing addition to the building. The 40-foot long piles are driven down by a 5,000 pound steel hammer that strikes the metal pilings with a force of 15,000 pounds per square inch when forced down from a height of three feet by air pressure. A total of 216 piles will be driven, including 16 for the new administrative wing and 126 for the four-story wing at the rear of the building. Completion of the one-story west wing is expected in from six to eight months.

Nixon Meets With Pres. For Report

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon, returning from talks with Nikita Khrushchev, meets today with President Eisenhower, who will entertain the Soviet Premier here next month.

Nixon's tour of the Soviet Union also has primed him to discuss with Eisenhower what the President faces in meeting with Khrushchev and in making a return visit to the Soviet Union later.

A full-fledged airport reception and a welcoming delegation headed by Acting Secretary of State C. Douglas Dillon awaited Nixon's return from his two-week tour behind the Iron Curtain.

The vice president was asked to proceed directly to the White House for a first-hand report to Eisenhower. In advance, Nixon had already sent from abroad a long written account of his views.

Eisenhower announced his exchange with Khrushchev while Nixon was still on tour. But the President, he had told Nixon of the plan before Nixon left, and Nixon pushed the idea during his travels.

Republican House members who had breakfast with the President today pictured him as enthusiastic about his forthcoming trip to Russia.

Negotiations were still under way on details of Khrushchev's 13-day visit.

Plans still in the discussion stage called for a three-day stop in Washington, where he and U.S. leaders would exchange state dinners amid talks on East-West issues.

On the proposed itinerary were New York, where Khrushchev might address the U.N. General Assembly, and Chicago and San Francisco. The Kremlin chief has expressed an interest in seeing these cities.

Officials who told of the tentative plan for a visit to a cattle raising area said Khrushchev had expressed a preference to go to Texas for that purpose. The House last reported today it had learned Khrushchev will visit Dallas and Houston.

Other possibilities included Texas, Florida and a Midwestern state. Khrushchev has said he would like to look at a Midwest farm and at a cattle-growing area. He may also want to see a factory producing plastics. The United States is ahead of the Soviet Union in this industry.

U.S. officials may prevail upon Khrushchev to tour an industrial center such as Pittsburgh or Detroit.

Eisenhower's plans for a trip to Europe the last week in August, before he journeys to the Soviet Union the fall, were running into unexplained delays.

The latest unofficial word was that he would stop in London to see Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and in Paris to see President Charles de Gaulle, instead of the previously expected arrangement for a Big Three Western summit gathering in Paris.

The French independent newspaper Le Monde said de Gaulle had torpedoed the Western summit idea because he did not want Eisenhower to appear to be speaking for the Allies when Eisenhower talks with Khrushchev. Available Washington informants would not confirm this.

The possibility of Eisenhower's visiting Poland on his Soviet trip was raised during Nixon's stop-over at Warsaw. Nixon declined to say whether he would recommend this. The Poles said no invitation had been issued.

Allied diplomats in Geneva speculated that Khrushchev may journey to Peiping for a meeting with other leaders of the Communist world soon after he leaves America. One purpose, it was reported, would be to consult with his Red partners between the times he sees Eisenhower in Washington and in Moscow.

Approve Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Judiciary Committee today approved a civil rights bill providing federal criminal penalties in cases of bombings, mob action against school desegregation and destruction of election records.

But in a last minute switch, the committee struck out of the bill all provisions for technical and other aid to school desegregation.

Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-NY) said this switch was the work of "the same, unholy coalition—Southern Democrats and a large number of Republicans."

It was the third major amputation on the bill accomplished by the coalition.

The bill, which now goes to the House, also would extend for two years the life of the existing Civil Rights Commission.

The measure follows in large part recommendations by President Eisenhower's administration.

But the committee, during more than a week of closed-door sessions, deleted an Eisenhower proposal for a special commission on equal job opportunity under government contracts.

Also deleted was a proposal strongly backed by some Northern Democrats to extend the enforcement powers of the U. S. attorney general. This section would have authorized the attorney general to seek federal injunctions in all kinds of civil rights cases, as he is now permitted to do in voting cases.

With Congress expected to adjourn within a month, time is running out for passage of a bill to broaden the 1957 Civil Rights Act, especially in fields related to school integration. Even if the committee finishes a bill today for House action, it faces possible Southern delay in the Rules Committee. Civil rights legislation has made slower progress in the Senate.

Some Republican members of the House Judiciary Committee more than a week ago joined Southerners in knocking the government contract provision out of the pending bill. President Eisenhower had proposed establishment of a commission to push enforcement of the provisions in government contracts against job discrimination.

No Sabre Rattling On Visit To U.S.

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev declared today in a news conference that he wanted to talk peace with President Eisenhower "without any sabre rattling."

Khrushchev told a news conference lasting an hour and a half that the talks with President Eisenhower were not intended to replace a summit conference but as a prelude to it.

He said his visit would afford an opportunity for talks — not negotiations.

He gave no precise dates for the exchange of visits. He probably will go to the United States in mid-September, he said, and President Eisenhower will come here later in the autumn.

"If these two powers establish good relations," the Soviet Premier said, "if they cooperate for peace, there will be lasting peace on earth."

He said he saw real opportunities for Soviet-American relations to be based on peace and friendship.

"There are no territorial disputes between our two countries, nor any in soluble contradictions, nor any issues which could prevent the establishment of a climate of confidence and mutual understanding," he declared.

To a question about whether he might show Eisenhower a rocket base, he replied:

"That might give a bad taste to the meeting between us."

When he went on with references to what it would look like if he went to America with a rocket peeking out of his pocket.

He said he knew the United States was strong and that if he were invited to see American military installations, "I would not go."

"I can go as a peaceful man," he said, adding that when Eisenhower comes here he would be introduced to good Russian food.

"We must talk peace without sabre rattling," he declared.

"I do not attribute any particular significance to the form of exchanges of views between us, whether they be talks or an unofficial discussion," Khrushchev said.

"It is important at the end of an exchange of views to find a common language and a common understanding of the questions which we will have to settle."

He added that the state of relations between the world's two major powers "is extremely important for peace."

"If there is an improvement in Soviet-U.S. relations," he said, "relations with other countries will also improve and the dark clouds in other parts of the world can be dispelled."

Pres. Will Talk On Labor Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will make a nationwide broadcast Thursday night to urge the enactment by Congress of effective labor control legislation.

Eisenhower will speak from his office at 7:30 p.m. (EDT) over the major radio and TV networks.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty said the White House had asked for 15 minutes on the networks "to permit the President to talk to the nation on the need of the Congress to enact this year effective labor reform legislation."

The move plunged the President into the midst of a roiling congressional controversy, and brought a swift flareback from some Democrats differing with his ideas of what legislation is best in that field.

Among the Democratic reaction was talk of demands for equal time from the networks to reply to the President.

In the Senate, Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas broadly suggested that Eisenhower would be wise to leave the matter to Congress.

Eisenhower presumably will ask for legislation much like that of the Landrum-Griffin bill, which has been offered in the House as a substitute for the bill drafted by the House Labor Committee.

At a news conference last week, the President spoke favorably of the measure sponsored by Reps. Phil M. Landrum (D-Ga.) and Robert F. Griffin (R-Mich.).

Union leaders claim this bill much tougher than the one reported by the House committee. The AFL-CIO is strongly opposed to it.

Eisenhower is known to want, among other things, legislation outlawing blackmail picketing and tightening up laws on secondary boycotts.

He has been represented as regarding both the House committee bill as well as the bill already passed by the Senate as inadequate to correct abuses disclosed by the rackety committee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.).

All three bills aim to provide some safeguards against misuse of union funds and abuse of rights of individual union members.

The committee bill contains a bill of rights for union members but without criminal enforcement provisions such as were included in the Senate bill. The Landrum-Griffin bill provides criminal penalties. The Shelley bill has no bill of rights section as such but calls for observance of the rights of union membership.

As to changes in the basic labor law of the land, the Taft-Hartley Act, the Shelley bill would ban picketing for purposes of extortion of money from an employer but not for organizational purposes.

The committee bill would ban extortionate or blackmail picketing and also "hot cargo" contracts. Such contracts permit a union such as James R. Hoffa's teamsters to refuse to handle cargo pronounced hot because of a labor dispute involving another union and an employer. This is sometimes described as a type of secondary boycott.

The Landrum - Griffin bill is more restrictive as to hot cargo clauses and would ban picketing to force recognition of a union rejected by employees, or of a union not representing enough employees to qualify for a representation election.

In connection with the congressional battle over labor legislation, about 200 Teamsters Union officials have converged here. They have been buttonholing available members of Congress and gave a banquet Tuesday night. So far as newsmen could learn, only one member of Congress—Rep. Charles O. Porter (D-Ore)—showed up for the banquet.

SENATE PROBE

WASHINGTON (AP) — An investigation into conflicting testimony over the operations of the foreign aid program in Viet Nam is to be continued, A Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee carrying on the probe voted Tuesday to go on.

Whether a new round will be launched to accomplish more than the negotiations which began here May 11, probably will depend on the outcome of the discussions between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. The decision to hold these talks has already discounted the failure of the foreign ministers at Geneva.

County Officials Gratified At Interest Rate On Bonds

Pitt County officials today expressed gratification at the interest rate of 3.1545 received on $675,000 of hospital bonds sold by the county yesterday.

Sold through the Local Government Commission in Raleigh.

The bond offer by the county attracted six bidders who offered to take the bonds at average interest rates which ran from the successful bid of 3.1545 to a high of 3.2492.

"I think we got a wonderful rate on these bonds," County Attorney W. W. Speight said this morning. The favorable rate, he said, appeared to come about because the bonds had a maximum maturity of 10 years which enabled banks to bid on them.

"I'm happy with it," commented County Auditor H. R. Gray on the interest rate. "I think we got a good bid considering the bond market now." By cutting the maturity schedule of the bonds, he said, more bidders were interested in the offer.

Proceeds from the $675,000 bond issue will provide Pitt County's share of the $1,500,000 addition now being constructed at Pitt Memorial Hospital. The bonds represent a portion of the $750,000 bond issue for hospital improvements approved by local voters last September.

The bonds have an average maturity of 6.44 years and the last of them will be retired in 1969. Gray said. He added that county officials had been told to expect between 3.6 and 4 per cent interest rate on the issue.

Successful bidders on the $675,000 worth of bonds were R. S. Dickson & Company and Wachovia Bank and Trust Company which offered the annual interest rate of 3.1545.

Other bidders and their offers were: McDaniel Lewis & Co., Vance Securities Corp., J. Lee Peeler & Co., Carolina Securities Corp., and Howard C. Traywick & Co. with a bid of 3.1758.

Guaranty Bank and Trust and Branch Banking and Trust Company with a bid of 3.1810.

Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Baker was serving a two-and-one-half-year sentence for forcible entry, trespassing and escape.

Also, Dail said, two long-term prisoners, George Brown of Kingston and Edward Harmon, a Virginia native, who escaped from a road gang near Ayden, are still at large. Both men are believed to still be in the area, he added.

The Soviet Premier long has urged a summit meeting. But recently he has seemed to want even more to visit the United States and talk directly with Eisenhower. The long negotiations have proved Khrushchev was unwilling to accept Western terms for a Berlin settlement in order to assure a Big Four summit conference. But Khrushchev nevertheless has his invitation to Washington, and possibly some new approach to the broader summit will result from his talks with the President.

West Blames Reds For Failure As Geneva Recedes

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP) — The East-West foreign ministers conference recessed tonight without an agreement for ending the Berlin crisis but with a decision to meet again at a date and place yet to be decided.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said that as far as he had been able to determine in almost 10 weeks of negotiation, the Soviet Union is "not really interested in improving the situation in Berlin."

"It is interested in getting the Western powers out of Berlin," he said in his final speech of the conference. "Apparently continued competitive coexistence of freedom and communism in Berlin is unwelcome to the Soviet Union."

"The Soviet proposals to date have seemed to us to be designed gradually to annex these people to the Communist system against their will. This cannot be permitted," he said.

Herter held the door open to another round of talks among the foreign ministers, perhaps late this year. A recess agreement worked out Tuesday night by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was reported to leave the door open.

Whether a new round will be launched to accomplish more than the negotiations which began here May 11, probably will depend on the outcome of the discussions between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. The decision to hold these talks has already discounted the failure of the foreign ministers at Geneva.

Herter said the West had been willing to accept a Berlin agreement limited in time provided its rights in West Berlin were not jeopardized. But he declared that he and his colleagues had never been able to get from Gromyko a "plain answer" to the question of what would happen to Allied rights.

The ministers agreed to recess the conference, not end it. But the date for resuming negotiations was left open. Far more important now are the discussions Eisenhower and Khrushchev will hold next month in Washington and later in Moscow.

The exchange of visits between the Soviet and American leaders, lessened for the time being the Soviet menace to West Berlin. Were it not for this prospective exchange, the failure of the foreign ministers to reach any accord on Berlin might have created an extremely hazardous situation.

There is increasing talk in diplomatic quarters here, however, that the new reprieve for West Berlin has not been obtained without cost. Khrushchev appears to have won more from smart manipulation of his Berlin threat than perhaps even he bargained for.

The Soviet Premier long has urged a summit meeting. But recently he has seemed to want even more to visit the United States and talk directly with Eisenhower. The long negotiations have proved Khrushchev was unwilling to accept Western terms for a Berlin settlement in order to assure a Big Four summit conference. But Khrushchev nevertheless has his invitation to Washington, and possibly some new approach to the broader summit will result from his talks with the President.

brought no softening of Soviet tactics in the closing hours at Geneva. Gromyko reportedly made a final effort to word the communiqué so as to recognize Communist East Germany as a virtual participant in the conference. The West adamantly rebuffed him.

In its final forum Tuesday night, the communiqué said that, despite frank and comprehensive discussion, the ministers had not found it possible to reach agreement on Berlin. But they said they consider the talks useful.

Gromyko reportedly sought to include in the document a more detailed account of the discussions than the West was willing to accept. His purpose, diplomats said, was to record concessions on a ceiling for troop strength in West Berlin, which the West offered in an effort to get him to guarantee Western rights in Berlin until Germany is unified.

Baking A Cake Can Be Easy As Pie

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Newsfeatures Food Editor

IF A KITCHEN godmother should grant you one wish, and you do not have a heat-control range, you might consider asking for this comforting piece of equipment.

Pay special attention to our advice if you have a worry-bird's temperament. Some cooks may be able to bake popovers and angel-food cakes in a range minus heat control without damaging their psyches. But after two experiences with such outmoded equipment—one stint in a small city apartment, and one in a summer country house—we know that disposition can be detrimentally affected by an old-fashioned stove's whims! There's a wonderful feeling of security in putting a soufflé in a heat-control oven, turning on a timer and at its ring finding your creation high, puffy and perfectly baked.

Any range needs care. It's always startling to find women who wouldn't dream of neglecting their refrigerators calmly letting grime and grease accumulate on top burners and ovens. Don't ask us the why of this phenomenon! Perhaps these cooks do not realize that keeping a range clean helps it cook and bake well.

Never, never, never use a heat-control oven to heat a kitchen; such use can ruin a thermostat. In preheating an oven, don't put the dial at a higher temperature than the one needed to bake by; this maneuver won't help matters at all. With the dial set at the required temperature, the thermostat's valve will automatically reduce the flow of gas in its own good due time.

CAKE BAKING

Every cooking contest we've ever attended has shown that women need to learn how to bake perfect cakes. Presuming you have prepared the cake batter by carefully following a reliable recipe, here are baking tips.

Prepare the pans appropriately. Use unsalted shortening for greasing their bottoms. You may, if you wish, also grease the sides of the pans. Research has shown that if just the bottoms are greased, cakes are slightly higher than if the sides are also treated. On the other hand, greasing the sides helps prevent raggedness—a blessing when applying frosting. Take your choice!

Then dust the pans with flour

CAKE CUE: Stagger layer pans to allow free circulation of heat in the oven. Make sure one pan does not touch another.

or line with waxed paper. Some paper. If parchment paper is on hand, you may leave the pans ungreased and line the bottoms with it.

Use cake pans with straight sides; they produce cakes with better volume and texture than those baked in pans with flaring sides.

The batter should be in fair proportion to the depth of the pan. If the pan is too big for the amount of batter, the cake will not rise or brown properly, and it will peak. If pan is too small for the amount of batter, the texture will be coarse, the crust may be crisp, and the batter will probably overflow before it sets.

'Citizens Of Two Worlds' Program Topic

FOUNTAIN—"Citizens of Two Worlds" was the topic discussed by Mrs. Mark Owens, when she spoke to the women of Fountain Presbyterian Church recently.

She asked the group, "Is it possible for a Christian to serve God and Law?" For her answer, she illustrated that a Christian can serve God and Law by referring to an article in the Presbyterian Survey, "The Christian Witness in Government," by Congressman Jim Wright of Texas, Mayor Nick Nuccio of Tampa, Fla., and J. C. McDonald, chief of police for Memphis, Tenn., a deacon at Bunty Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. W. W. Jefferson read the minutes of the last meeting during the business session due to the absence of Secretary Mrs. Clarence Everett.

Mrs. Paule Burnette, president, presided at the meeting.

Co-Hostesses Entertain For Miss Sue Tucker

Miss Mary Will Long and Miss Jeri Lassiter entertained Tuesday for Miss Sue Tucker, bride-elect, at the Coral Bay Club at Atlantic Beach.

After a period of relaxation on the beach, the guests were served lunch on the porch overlooking the ocean. The table was covered with a light green table cloth and centered with an all-white arrangement of assorted flowers. Beside each place card was a delicate miniature fan.

The main course of the luncheon included a salad of fresh fruits arranged in a mold of raspberry sherbert, assorted sandwiches, and iced tea. A dessert of Baked Alaska concluded the meal. The group then moved into the main ballroom for a few progressions of bridge.

Miss Tucker was presented gifts of silver by the hostesses. Mrs. Lyman Ormond Jr., a recent bride, was remembered with a gift of crystal in one of her chosen patterns.

A special guest for the occasion was Miss Susan Hatcher of Hamlet, sister of the bridegroom-elect.

Waistline Control

WAISTLINES are back in style for fall, and new underpinnings are important.

In order for new fall clothes to look their best, they should be worn with foundation garments designed to give a smooth, taut line through the midriff, with no bulges to mar the dress silhouette.

Sometimes the waist control is built into a high girdle, sometimes a long bra. The new styles do not require a tightly cinched-in waistline, but rather a slender, natural line, emphasizing but not straining the waist. The over-all look has a high, rounded bustline, flat midriff and gently curved hips and thighs.

Foundations on hand to do the required shaping are lightweight but firm, with beige the most popular basic color, and with new feminine touches such as lace, embroidery and applique trimmings. White and black are still in great demand, and the pastel tones are brighter.

Necklines come in for a great deal of attention by bra designers, who achieve adjustable features through convertible straps and tabs that increase or decrease the cup separation. Other new bra features are fabric slipper closures, cups contoured with polyurethane foam and cups encircled by mesh elastic for more precise fit.

For midriff control, bras extend to different lengths—three-quarter for the short-waisted woman, or to wear with a high-rising girdle; waist-length to meet a shorter girdle; bra-lette version to taper the waist as well as flatten the diaphragm.

Girdles offer many new waistline stylings, such as elastic inserts, front or side dips, boned top sections above the waist or a waistline cinch only partially attached to the girdle.

Pantle girdles are most popular in long-legged versions, to smooth and slim the thighs, for wear with sheath dresses and skinny pants.

New corselets, including strapless styles cut low in back, stress improved fit in the bra section, built-in waist control and elastic strips or panels to smooth hips and thighs.

How Can Nice Girl Meet Boys?

By VIVIAN BROWN

IT SEEMS pitiful that some girls just can't meet boys. One 18-year-old girl laments this condition, and says she just can't seem to get dates because she has none of the usual opportunities for introductions close at hand. She has no brothers and no friends living near her home.

What do you do about it, she asks, because summer is a particularly lonely time.

Some of the ways to meet a man include:

1. If you are summer school bound, let's hope it is coed and that you choose a boy-type course not pie making or sewing. There are a lot of home ec students in the bachelor girl bracket for that reason.

2. If you are going to a vacation resort, make sure it majors in golf, tennis and other man-size attractions. Get dad to take you on a fishing camp. (He'll be glad to get away from it all.)

3. Choose a hobby that attracts boys, and spend honest time at it. Take your choice:

(a) Photography: Attend classes, visit camera shops, go to lectures and exhibits.

(b) Art school: Take a course in painting, sculpting, drawing, visit the museums.

(c) Poetry and short story: These attract young men to classes, and it'll be fun attending discussion groups.

4. Attend shooting matches, car races, other sports programs. Invest in a small sail boat, learn how to sail it, enter the races.

5. Learn the types of men who are attracted to you. People who resemble each other seem to have some out-of-the-ordinary feature in common—long nose, protruding teeth.

6. When you meet a man casually, avoid being overly-familiar. There is more to be gained in an air of mystery than in telling all on the first meeting. Give him a reason to see you again and to yearn for a date.

7. If you haven't located a summer job, seek one that offers man-meeting opportunities.

8. Avoid time-wasting types who mean nothing in your future. (a) Engaged or married men (b) Those who plan long sojourns away from home or to other shores.

9. Attend church parties and those held by local organizations. There is a much better opportunity for romance when the boy is a local citizen who may be reminded of you occasionally, by meeting you at social gatherings.

10. Make friends with girls your own age who have older brothers. This is an excellent chance to advance your boy-meets-girl stock, and to keep in touch with the boys by seeing more of your girl friends at their homes.

New Lengths For Coats

NINE-TENTHS LENGTH . . . This is news in Rome fall fashions—violet wool overcoat in nine-tenths length, with new wide collar, loose cut, worn with matching skirt, hat and gloves, designed by Luciani.

CASUAL APPROACH . . . This dashing coat in burnt-brown wool has new sweeping cut, deep-set sleeves and defined waistline. Collar and lapels have polo-coat look, as designed by the Fontana Sisters of Rome.

The mannish overcoat and new versions of the polo coat also are shown by several houses, often teamed with coordinated dresses or suits.

A series of pre-nuptial parties have been given in honor of Miss Barbara Jean Lane and James Alexander Thorpe, whose marriage will take place Sunday, August 9, in the Timothy Christian Church near Ayden.

An open house at the home of Mrs. Thurman Williams was given July 28 in honor of the bride couple mentioned above. Miss Emily Nelson and Miss Frances Davis were hostesses.

Approximately 75 friends attended.

Miss Dottie Lou Thorpe, sister of the bridegroom-elect, entertained the couple at an informal party July 30.

Sunday afternoon Miss Lane and Mr. Thorpe were guests of honor at a Family Open House given by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hicks and Mrs. Catherine Nickels of Rocky Mount.

Having Trouble With Your Dog?

If Fido bites the mailman, it's probably because somebody stole his favorite bone when he was a puppy.

If he chews the furniture, he's expressing a frustration complex, and hunger for affection.

If he spots the rug, it's because he feels insecure.

All this can be corrected by scientific psychological treatment, says Yvonne Henderson, of London, a dog psychiatrist.

Mrs. Henderson is in New York to explore the possibilities of establishing an office here.

"I am appalled at the lack of understanding of dog emotions here," says she. "New York dogs lead a dog's life, shut up in apartments all day long, left alone, with no companionship, no freedom, no love. It's no wonder they develop traumas and bite people."

"In England everybody owns a dog—they're as numerous as cars in America. And public rules and customs are geared for consideration of the dog population. You can take a dog anywhere in England—bars, restaurants, hotels, trains and busses. There we understand that a dog must have freedom and company if he is to be happy."

Mrs. Henderson has spent most of her life understanding dogs, as an international breeder, exhibitor and judge, a writer for dog magazines, canine correspondent for the London Times and friend of all dogdom. She breeds French bulldogs, and has some of her prize pets in New York with her, together with their trunks of blue ribbons.

How does she psychoanalyze a dog? "Well, I don't usually use a couch," says Mrs. Henderson. "But if the dog likes to lie down, he may. I just talk to the dogs and find out what's worrying them. you know. How's that? Why, certainly I can understand what a dog is saying, and dogs always understand me."

Program Provides Better Opportunities

The merger of two more of Pitt County's small Negro schools approved Monday by the Board of Education is part of a continuing trend in public schools.

It is part of a continuing effort on the part of school officials to afford children better educational opportunities.

In Pitt, as in many other counties, there has been steady progress made in the consolidation of small schools over a period of years. The number of schools in Pitt has gradually decreased with consolidation. The last of the one-teacher schools—long a standard in public education in North Carolina—disappeared in Pitt County several years ago. As the years pass the three-teacher and four-teacher schools also are being merged to create larger units.

There have been, to be sure, some misgivings from time to time about the consolidation of schools.

Each community is naturally proud of its school. In many small communities the school is the focal point of many activities in addition to the formal education process of the youth of the community. In most cases, every community is reluctant to give up its school as part of the consolidation program.

Yet, in recent years more people have come to realize that from the standpoint of youngsters' education, consolidation is the answer to many problems. The demands being made upon public schools of today go far beyond those of a few years ago. Students need a broader background of study and more intensive training in specific subjects than used to be the case.

If the school is too small, it cannot provide the youngsters with a sufficient number of qualified teachers for all the specialized fields. Therefore the student in the tiny school sometimes misses the educational opportunity offered a student in a larger school. Experience has shown that through consolidation of the smaller schools more students are afforded better educational opportunities and they complete their public school training better equipped to cope with the problems which are before them.

Pitt has moved slowly, but steadily with its program of consolidation. The program has caused no great uprooting of community life throughout the county. Yet, it has provided better educational advantages than possibly could have been hoped for if the county's system were still made up of tiny schools scattered along every rural road.

The Board of Education is to be commended for following a sound, reasonable course in providing Pitt County youth with better educational opportunities through limited school consolidation.

State Growth Can Be A Two-Edged Sword

State Treasurer Edwin Gill foresees a rosy financial future for North Carolina during the next two years, and his optimistic outlook for more state revenues from a growing economy is most encouraging.

Gill declared in an address this week that the next governor and next legislature of the state should not be faced with the problem of levying new taxes to off-set the $27.5 million windfall the state will receive from its withholding tax collections. The state's economic growth in the current biennium, he said, should make up for the windfall.

Such words from the State Treasurer are reassuring. Although they conflict with opinions of other state officials—and some members of the 1959 legislature—Gill's opinions are not to be discounted when it comes to the state's fiscal matters.

It is entirely possible that the state's economic growth between now and 1961 will be sufficient to produce an additional $27.5 million in revenues from the current tax structure in the next biennium. We share in the hope that it will.

On the other hand, it would be a mistake for the people of North Carolina to dismiss from their minds the idea that appreciable state tax increases may be needed two years from now. If the state's economy grows sufficiently in the next two years to net an additional $27.5 millions in revenues, certainly the needs of the state and the demands on state government will grow appreciably also.

With the normal growth from one biennium to another, it is expected that more funds will be required to operate the state government. If an unusual rate of growth is experienced in the state's economy in the next two years, we may also expect the demands upon the 1961 General Assembly to be unusually large also.

The fact that the state in the current biennium will spend $27.5 million in non-recurring revenues for its operations is bound to leave a big hole to be filled in balancing the budget for the next biennium. It is entirely possible, as Gill says, that economic growth will fill the hole with enough new revenue in prospect to meet enlarged outlays that will be needed.

North Carolinians in the next two years must exert every possible effort to see that new economic growth will provide sufficient new revenue to meet the state's expenses. Otherwise the tax increases that will have to be levied in 1961 will be a staggering blow to all Tar Heels.

Nikita Getting What He Wanted

By JAMES-MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — How high is up? Or when is a summit conference not a summit conference?

No matter what they're called—and they are not being called summit conferences—the coming meetings between President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev get both men off a hook for a while, anyway.

Yet, as of now, Khrushchev is away ahead on points in his duel with Eisenhower over Berlin where he precipitated a crisis which he has never let subside.

He knows, and Eisenhower knows, he has the United States on a tight spot.

As a result of all he has done, he is getting exactly what he wanted: a personal meeting with Eisenhower.

It seems safe to say that if Khrushchev hadn't caused the Berlin crisis, and refused to budge an inch, Eisenhower would not be asking him to Washington in September.

The dictionary describes a summit as the highest point. Since Eisenhower and Khrushchev are the top men in their governments, no meeting between Americans and Russians could be any more of a summit than this one.

Still Eisenhower doesn't call Khrushchev's visit here and his later visit with him in Moscow a summit meeting. He says they will have "informal talks" which will afford an opportunity for an exchange of views about problems of mutual interest.

Actually, the two men can reach understandings on their problems without signing formal papers. That could be done even at a meeting officially billed as the summit—with Britain and France sitting in.

Whatever Eisenhower works out with Khrushchev will probably be acceptable to the Allies. He's making it plain he won't do anything behind their backs.

The Western alliance might have broken up if Eisenhower had let the Russians shut off Western access to West Berlin, as they had threatened to do, indirectly. So he couldn't afford to back down. Yet, if he called Khrushchev's hand and tried to run a blockade, the shooting might start.

For both men this ugly dilemma may be solved in their talks. If not, at least the talks will have postponed the showdown for some months.

Eisenhower is saved from embarrassment in another way, since the meetings with Khrushchev will not bear the title of summit.

He had repeatedly refused to meet the Soviet leader at the summit unless the foreign ministers at Geneva made some progress. Since they haven't, he couldn't very well agree to a "summit" meeting with Khrushchev without appearing to cave in.

This way, since the talks will be "informal," that dilemma is removed.

If the West didn't get its troops out of Berlin, Khrushchev threatened to let the East German Communists control the road and routes through which the West sends supplies to West Berlin.

If they shut off the routes and the West tried to force its way through, Moscow promised to go to the help of the East Germans. But couldn't the allies send in supplies with an airlift, as President Truman had done in smashing Stalin's Berlin blockade in 1948?

Eisenhower at a White House dinner and in news conferences has made it plain the West's position is potentially far worse than what developed in 1948. Red jamming of Western radar would make a mass airlift very difficult.

The Reds didn't interfere with the air transport in 1948.

And Western troops, overwhelmingly outnumbered by the Russians, admittedly would be no match for them on the ground.

Another Kind Of Foreign Trade

Overhead Wires Go Under

Walter A. Hasty, Jr., youthful office manager for the Pitt ASC office, is nursing a cut hand these days.

Hasty's hand and two fingers are bandaged and he is carrying the arm in a sling.

He said he thought his car motor was frozen and was attempting to turn the engine fan when someone inside the vehicle turned on the starter.

The fan cut his hand badly and severed a tendon in a finger.

Hasty is still on the job in the old hospital building however. Here's wishing him a speedy recovery.

Took a trip down in one of those big manholes which Greenville Utilities crews are cutting in the streets from time-to-time.

This one was the newest manhole next to the underground transformer vault on Fifth St. in front of City Hall.

As you disappear through the manhole in the street you find yourself in a good sized circular room below. In this one, beneath the streets nine conduits led in one side of the circular room. Ninety degrees around, several more conduits led out in the direction of the new Guaranty Bank building. As the system is extended more conduits will lead out the opposite side to carry electrical cable down the street.

Overhead, several cables forming complete circles were attached to the top. I was told the live wires would be attached to the overhead cables at one point. Then wires leading to transformers, the bank building and elsewhere can be attached along the circles to carry the current.

A window-like opening had been cut into another side of the underground room. This leads into the transformer vault and cables will pass through this to tie the transformer vault and cables will pass through this to tie the transformers into the system.

More and more such installations will be placed under Greenville's business streets as the years go by as more and more of the overhead electric system is placed underground.

Other Editors Saying Pressure Being Renewed

(Henderson Dispatch)

In some sections of the press, pressure is being renewed for withdrawal of National Guard soldiers from Henderson in connection with the nearly nine-months-long textile strike. The Greensboro Daily News lists the local situation as one of two which calls for reassessment by Governor Hodges upon his return from a month's absence from the State—much of the time spent in Soviet Russia.

That paper says "the strike, to all practical purposes, no longer exists." Reference is made to the absence of serious violence for weeks and outcome of the conspiracy trial in superior court here. "This development," the Daily News says, "is bound to have had considerable effect upon any one else who might have been contemplating violence," and "the SBI is presumably still keeping a watchful eye on the Henderson community, and that in itself should serve as a deterrent."

Every one, here and elsewhere, realizes that the soldiers cannot be kept here indefinitely. The problem is as to when the time is ripe for withdrawal. That time may have come. There is considerable feeling here that there would not be a recurrence of violence even with the soldiers gone. Other opinions expressed recently were that a much smaller force than is still here would be equally as effective, if any at all is needed.

On all sides there must be recognition of the fact that disorders do not settle disputes. They can best be overcome in an atmosphere of quiet and calmness and confidence. Whatever the future may hold for the former employees and the city as a whole will be attained through the exercise of good will and cordiality. All of us ought to be new to be conscious of that fact.

If the soldiers are ordered home, Henderson will do its best to maintain law and order, and with the cooperation, we are confident, of the textile people as well as the rest of us. There must ultimately be a return to normal, and this may be as good a time as any to attempt to bring that about.

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here's a strange and tragic fact: The United States government may make a profit on the War Between the States. It may collect more in taxes arising from the 100th anniversary of the war than it spent to fight the battles.

The Civil War started with the shelling of Fort Sumter on April 12, 1861, and ended with the surrender of General Robert E. Lee at Appomattox, Va., on April 9, 1865.

The Federal budget for the fiscal years of 1961-65, largely for the fighting of the war, was $2,132,140.

The celebration of the anniversary is already being planned. It will involve an enormous number of enterprises, some civic and paid for by taxes or contributions, others proprietary and designed to turn a profitable buck.

MOVIES, HOT-DOGS Countless and centennial promotions are being planned. One Civil War film (The Horse Soldiers) has already sparked the screens, and a pre-Civil War movie (The Jayhawkers) will appear later this year.

Shooting scripts are being written for scores of other movies with Civil War themes. America will have four solid years of movie premieres in cities and towns where the original event took place exactly 100 years ago to the day.

Television will keep pace. Television shows, also keyed to battle-field dates, are already in the writing.

Almost all the big battles will be re-enacted, right on the spot. Civic groups, with state and Federal aid, are now planning more re-enactments, each designed to attract thousands of tourists, filling local motels, hotels and room rental places, and providing a market for countless souvenirs, meals, candy bars and hot dogs.

POWER OF LOVE

There was a great catastrophe in a section of our country a few years ago and a frail young mother picked up her husky three year old child and carried that child thirteen miles. We do not know today how she did it. Neither do doctors nor police officers nor social workers. She just did it. She did it because she was a mother—because she was filled with love and concern. She could not have carried a weight such as this for thirteen miles even if the weight had been gold or precious stones. But it was a child—her child. She did not carry the child; love carried the child. The Bible tells us that God is love. The very essence of the life God has given us is love also. When we have love we have everything; when we lack love we are so poverty stricken as to be short of everything excepting life itself. Love is everything.

We all agree with this sentiment—but we agree with it as a sentiment. For how many is it a principle of life? Oh yes, if it were your child or mine in the same danger we could do as well as the mother did who walked thirteen miles. But why do we have to wait for a great calamity? Why do we have to have truth knocked into our heads? Why can we not learn—and learn through love?

"God is love." The universe is love—sacrificing, self-forgetting love.

There will be toys. Recipes. Reproductions of Confederate money. Speeches by Congressmen. More speeches by Congressmen. Interviews with people who remember when Civil War fashions, War Between the States drinks, Reproductions of old newspapers, old stamps, old posters about slave auctions.

In fact, if you're in business, it may pay you to determine right away how you can tie into this sentimental splurge.

Most of this wallow in history and emotion will be done with profits in mind. And the government's share, at up to 52 percent of corporate profits and even larger shares of personal income, may be easily one hundred times the money cost of the original war. Even a take of a thousand times as much—$2.1 billion—is not beyond possibilities.

Perhaps we should be careful in all these re-enactments and reproductions. This time the South might win.

When you get right down to it—and pray let's do—only about one in 10 girls has legs she can look at in the mirror herself without a feeling verging from mild depression to total despair.

They bow out too much or they bend in too much. They are too thick or too thin. Why should she expose them willingly in a losing competition with the few girls whose gams are charming?

All she has to do to bolster her in this decision is to glance in the family album and see how mom or grandma looked in the 1920s. That was a real short-skirted era, too—the dresses were above the knees, or seemed to be. And they wore rolled stockings!

Ugh! Women never, before or since, looked so outrageously ridiculous.

Can the House of Dior make them look that way again? We doubt it.

As a lady we have been married to a long time remarked, "Sure I'd wear one of those short skirts out of the house—if the house caught on fire!"

ASC Employees Join State Group

Pitt County ASC employees have all joined the recently organized North Carolina Association of ASC County Office Employees.

Local Office Manager Walter A. Hasty, Jr., said the Pitt County office is 100 percent signed up for the new association.

He said the association is open to county and community committeemen, ex-ASC employees and interested agricultural workers along with present employees of ASC.

"Its objectives are to help the relationship between the employees and the people they serve as well as to inform non-agriculturalists of the great service being provided by our agricultural force," Hasty said.

The association is also dedicated to promoting the welfare of its members.

President of the state association is Nelson Baker, office manager of Jones County, vice president is Lloyd Foster, office manager of Mecklenburg County, and secretary-treasurer is Mrs. Dorothy Spivey, office manager of Columbus County.

Hasty said the local group is in the process of forming a Pitt County chapter and electing members of a board of directors. Members of standing committees will also be chosen.

The state association will be affiliated with the National Association of ASC County Office Employees. Hasty is a member of the Legislative Committee of the National Association.

Regular meetings of the county association will be scheduled when organizational plans are completed. The state and national associations hold annual meetings.

National TV

Ocracoke Island, North Carolina's coastal paradise, will gain national acclaim Thursday morning, August 6, on the NBC Television Network's "Today" show.

Charles Van Doren, famous literary scholar and television personality will narrate the "Story of Ocracoke," telling of its unusual quaintness, remote area and historic value to North Carolina.

STILL OPEN

BONN, Germany (AP) — The choice of a meeting place this month between President Eisenhower and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is still wide open, a foreign office spokesman said today. The possibility of the Eisenhower-Adenauer talk taking place in Bonn was not excluded, he added. There was speculation in diplomatic circles that Adenauer might go to London.

KILLED IN BATTLE

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — Holland's Overseas Ministry announced today that 45 Papuans in West New Guinea were killed in a clash with islanders under Dutch administration. The announcement said the dead were all from unexplored parts of New Guinea.

'Brain' Gives Russians Cigarette Prices

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—If the electronic brain that answers questions at the U.S. Exhibition is any guide, the Russian people are most interested in how much American cigarettes cost.

The RAMAC computer on display at the exhibit has answers to 4,000 possible queries.

Of the 9,596 questions posed in the first 10 days of the fair, here are the 10 asked most often in order of popularity:

1. Cost of American cigarettes?

2. What is the American dream?

3. What is the direction of American jazz?

4. What is the Liberty Bell?

5. What is American rock 'n' roll?

6. What new ceramic material is used for cooking in America?

7. How many Negroes have been lynched in the United States since 1950?

8. Six, according to records compiled by Tuskegee Institute, a Negro college, was the answer.

9. What is the wardrobe of the average American woman in the middle-income group?

10. How old is Louis Armstrong?

He is 59.

coat, five house dresses, four afternoon dresses, three suits, three skirts, six blouses, three sweaters, six slips, two petticoats, five nightgowns, eight panties, five brassieres, two corsets or girdles, two robes, six pairs of nylon stockings, three pairs of short type socks, three pairs of dress gloves, one bathing suit, three pairs of play shorts, one pair of slacks and one play suit plus accessories.

Actor Rebukes Mates' Returning To Broadway

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Tony Curtis recently took a sium at actors like Tony Perkins and Paul Newman who desert their film careers to return to the stage.

"Being a movie star is a full-time job," argued Curtis. "These guys are out of their minds to go back there and play before a few thousand people a week. What are they learning—doing the same role for eight or 10 months? They should be doing pictures, which is a technique in itself. They should be building an audience throughout the world, not just the high-brows that go to the theater."

Strong words. I thought they might get a list out of Tony Perkins, and they did. Perkins' film career soared, then he took many months off to play "Look Homeward, Angel" on Broadway.

"It was the best thing that could have happened to me," he declared. "I learned more doing that play than I have ever learned in the movies."

As for the effect on his career of taking time away from Hollywood, Perkins acknowledged he hadn't been sure of his draw in films. None of his movies has been a runaway success, unlike the string of hits amassed by Curtis.

"But I was reassured by being asked by Josh Logan to do 'Tall Story' and by Alfred Hitchcock to do his next picture," Perkins said. "I just finished doing 'On the Beach' for Stanley Kramer, so that's three in a row with top directors. I guess I'm doing all right."

Perkins is getting plenty of rehearsal for "Tall Story"—on a basketball court. He shows up every morning at the UCLA gym to learn how to simulate a basketball tosser in the college comedy.

This is a repeat of his athletic rigors for "Fear Strikes Out," in which he played baseball star Jimmy Piersall. He not only had to learn how to look like an outfielder; he had to throw and bat right-handed. Tony's a southpaw.

ECC Student In 'Lost Colony'

MANTEO — Charles Worrell of Goldsboro is playing the role of Governor John White in Paul Green's symphonic drama, The Lost Colony, during the show's current 19th season in Waterside Theatre here. It is his second season as Governor White, his fourth season with the drama which has outlived all other outdoor production. Previously he had been cast as Barlow, the Landlord and Mark Bennett in the drama.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Worrell of 703 South Slocum Street, Goldsboro, he is a 1956 graduate of Goldsboro High School where he won 14 awards in drama while working with the school's Goldmasquers. He served as president of the school's drama organization during his senior year and outstanding were the roles he played in "Stalag 17" and "A Man Called Peter."

Worrell is now a sophomore at East Carolina College in Greenville and has worked with WWWS-TV and with their Theatre-in-the-Round, taking the lead in the production, "Angel Street." He also played in "Romeo and Juliet" produced by East Carolina College Playhouse.

In Summer School At U. Of N. Mex.

George Gardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gardner Sr. of Greenville, is now enrolled in summer school at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque. Nearly 2,000 students are attending classes, workshops, and clinics. Many are teachers returning for in-service training.

Gardner, a sophomore majoring in English and music, is married and has a daughter.

WANTS BILL DELAYED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert C. Byrd (D-W.Va.) wants Congress to hold up a vote on the foreign aid appropriation bill until there is evidence to show whether there has been any cover-up of mismanagement in the program. He said he believes there has been "considerable secrecy and coverup" by foreign aid officials.

'Brightest Spot' On Morning Television Approaching Grave

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—How do you like Sam Levenson?

Personally, I think his good-humored morning show on CBS-TV is the brightest spot on network morning television. It's wit-

Slight Reverse In Foreign Aid

ROY, N.M. (AP) — The letter was from Davenport, Iowa, but the writer was from India.

It was addressed to the mayor of this little cowtown, which went five days without water when antiquated equipment broke down and there was no money to replace it.

Write Vincent G. Thomas:

"I am certain that within the past several years the citizens of Roy have contributed to taxes for foreign aid. Much of this aid has gone to India for projects to bring water to many parched areas."

"As an Indian student who has been overwhelmed by the generosity of Americans during the past five years I have been here, I would like to help to reduce the city debt for a new pump."

The $10 he enclosed was gratefully applied to the cost of the still unpaid for pump which is forcing a reluctant stream of water again through leaky pipes to the town's 750 residents.

ty and it's wise.

There in the morning, tucked among the shrill give-aways and depressed soap operas and old reruns, sits Sam holding interesting conversations with interesting people.

But, sad to relate, they've prepared the obituary notice for Sam's morning show. They've dug the grave and will drop the show in it Sept. 25. They can't, of course, bury Sam Levenson — only this particular show.

In its place, unless plans are changed, will go a re-rerun of "December Bride."

Well, I'm tired of being a mourner at the funerals of good television programs. I know of only one thing to do. Let's give Sam a show instead of a funeral. If sponsors and networks pay as much attention to viewer mail as they claim to, the show might continue to live.

If you enjoy Sam's program and want it to remain on the air, write him at CBS-TV, 485 Madison Ave., New York 22, and tell him so. I hereby volunteer to help him carry the mail bags to the appropriate authorities.

On a happier note, good television programs don't always die permanently.

It now appears that the forthright, superb "See It Now" series will return to CBS-TV a year hence after Edward R. Murrow returns from his year's sabbatical leave. At least 10 hour-length, reporting in depth "See It Now" shows will be seen in prime evening viewing time during the 1960-61 season.

NBC News has offered Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev "equal time" to "reply" to Vice President Richard M. Nixon on NBC-TV. It's awaiting his reply...

American television comics are enjoying a vogue on Canadian TV this summer. Mort Sahl and Jonathan Winters are the most recent to go north of the border.

Peggy Wood and Gloria Vanderbilt will star in "Seed of Guilt" a week from tonight, Aug. 12, on the U.S. Steel Hour over CBS-TV. The theme concerns the destructive effects of a mother's snobbery.

Supreme Court Associate Justice William O. Douglas is being accompanied by an ABC-TV film unit on a mountain-climbing expedition in Washington's Cascade Mountains. The results will be visible on "John Gunther's High Road," which makes its debut on ABC Sept. 7.

NATO Shield Always Armed, Ready To Defend Its Members

By REM PRICE
FONTAINEBLEAU, France. (AP)—On paper 21 1-3 divisions constitute the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's shield for the protection of central Europe. These divisions supposedly are near full strength, well-equipped and combat ready—425,000 men. A reporter touring Allied headquarters, however, finds it difficult to believe the Allies could muster more than 250,000 troops, some in different equipment, against an attack.

Under NATO police this land force would meet any Soviet aggression as close to the frontiers of the 750-mile long Iron Curtain as possible and hold them there until the rest of Europe could mobilize. In discussing NATO policy a briefing officer at Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers, Europe (SHAPE), said, "We have no offensive plans at this headquarters." In response to a question, he added, "We do have counter-offensive plans."

The job of these 21 1-3 divisions is to guard the three main invasion routes into the heart of NATO from the east—the North European plain, the Mittelgebirge Gap in central Germany and the Danube Valley in the south. The shield force consists on paper of five U.S. divisions, four from the United Kingdom, two from France, seven from Germany, two from Belgium and one from the Netherlands, plus one-third of a Canadian division. But paper strength does not win battles. How many of these divisions actually are ready for modern combat?

Gen. Jean-Etienne Valluy, who has been a French soldier for 42 years, is commander in chief of the Allied forces in central Europe with headquarters at Fontainebleau.

In an interview, Gen. Valluy said that if he had to undertake a land war in Europe tomorrow there would be three divisions he could not commit immediately—one each from France, Belgium and the Netherlands.

Could the British really muster four divisions? "The British could muster three," Valluy replied. The general then was asked, "Do all the divisions assigned to your command really exist?" After a moment's reflection, Valluy said, "All the divisions exist but not at full strength."

Thus by Valluy's reckoning the shield force for central Europe now is 17 combat divisions ready for action, but that is not the whole story.

The seven German divisions exist, but four are essentially training divisions. The other three are heavily armored, highly mobile units of 9,000 to 10,000 men each. If the German training divisions are removed from the list of the combat-fit units, Valluy's land forces are reduced to 13 1-3 divisions, but again that is not the whole story.

Gen. Valluy noted that the British and Belgian forces contain large numbers of foot soldiers. In these days of atomic battlefield weapons and mechanization, the walking soldier may be an anachronism. Valluy was asked what he considered his major problem. "My main fear and worry is the feeling of moral disengagement some nations seem to have toward NATO."

In February 1957 Britain formally advised her allies that a strained economy was forcing her to reduce her NATO commitment in Germany from 80,000 troops to 50,000. France notified NATO of a similar intention.

Gen. Lauris Norstad, SHAPE commander, called the cuts dangerous. Aside from the economic angle, Britain said she felt the development of missiles and rockets had reduced the manpower needs of NATO.

As for the French, nearly all of the nation's first line troops are committed to the suppression of the Algerian rebellion. Once France had five divisions in the NATO shield. Now she has two—neither at full strength, according to an American source.

All this boils down to a single hard fact: there seem to be precisely eight divisions now in the NATO shield which are full strength, well-equipped and highly trained for atomic warfare—five U.S. divisions and three German.

If Norstad is going to get the 30 divisions he says he needs, even on paper, the West Germans will have to build five additional divisions in record time. The German goal is 12 divisions. Further, the French will have to return at least four divisions from Algeria.

Valluy was asked what sort of action he contemplated if a war began. "I don't contemplate a purely conventional war," he replied. "I can foresee a tactical atomic action. I don't think we should go to all-out war immediately. I think we can pass from the conventional to the tactical atomic—and stop half way through."

What does the NATO shield face? Western military men say: there are 20 Soviet divisions in East Germany alone—400,000 men. In addition, there are seven East German divisions, 95,000 men, 14 Polish divisions, 280,000 men and 14 Czechoslovakian divisions of 170,000 men.

In all, the Soviets have about 175 divisions, 160 of which are stationed west of the Ural Mountains. Soviet divisions range in size from 13,000 to 15,000 men. A standard U.S. division contains 14,500 men. Intelligence reports indicate the Soviets maintain all their active divisions at somewhere between 65 and 75 per cent of wartime strength.

There are published U.S. estimates that the Soviets have 4,000 of their medium T54 tanks in East Germany. Current intelligence estimates place the number at between 5,000 and 6,000 tanks. The T54, incidentally, outguns the U.S. M48 Patton medium tank. The T54 packs a 100 mm. gun on a low frame. The Patton has a 90 mm. gun on a high silhouette.

While the number of tanks available to the Allies is classified, an educated guess is that the Soviet and satellite nation tank forces outnumber those of the allies about three to one.

NIXON CRITIC
MOSCOW (AP)—Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, declared today Vice President Richard M. Nixon talked much about peace while visiting here but that he sidestepped queries when the United States intends to close its military bases abroad.

Nixon actually said in his broadcast that the United States would maintain bases abroad until the Soviet Union removed the causes of tension that had caused them to be set up.

CALLS NEWS CONFERENCE
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower unexpectedly called a news conference for 10:30 a.m. EDT today. There was no indication what he wanted to say. Press secretary James C. Hagerty would give no detail as to the purpose of the change.

Grandmother Resumes Hike

THE DALLES, Ore. (AP)—Grandma Emma Gatewood shook off the uncertainties of the night and set out westward again this morning. Her hike from Independence, Mo., to the Oregon Centennial Exposition at Portland was nearing its end. Late Monday a hot sun, a breath-clutching west wind and hordes of spectators frayed her temper. She ducked into a car near Celilo, east of here, and drove off with an unidentified woman for a rest. She said maybe the trip was too much for her, complained people were gawking at her as though she were a sideshow freak. She turned down a civic dinner in her honor. The 71-year-old woman from Gallipolis, Ohio, who started out on the 2,000-mile hike just because she wanted to, apparently was refreshed today. She took to the highway at 4:30 a.m., headed for Portland 83 miles away, state police said. Today the sun was warm and the wind gentle. At her recent rate of travel, she may reach Portland about Friday.

The Balkan Mountains extend through the center of Bulgaria, rising to a height of 8,000 feet.

Governors Disagree On Khrushchev Visit To U.S.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—South Carolina's governor opposes Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to the United States. The chief executives of Tennessee and Kentucky are for it. And the governor of Virginia straddles the fence. "A terrible mistake," said Gov. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina. In contrast, Gov. Buford Ellington of Tennessee commented: "I think any exchange or swapping of ideas, getting to know each other better, could be helpful."

Gov. A. B. Chandler of Kentucky took a similar position. He said he had instructed his office in Frankfort to ask the State Department to invite Khrushchev to come to the Blue Grass State. One of the nine governors who recently spent three weeks in Russia, Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina, said he would be glad to have the Soviet premier come to his state but he didn't know about inviting him directly. That would be a matter of protocol and up to the State Department, he said.

The chairman of the Governors' Conference, Leroy Collins of Florida, was not available for comment. But he is committed to welcoming Khrushchev to America. He was the leader of the nine governors who went to the Soviet Union and came back urging the exchange of visits between the Soviet premier and President Eisenhower. Gov. J. Lindsay Almond of Virginia said the decision to invite Khrushchev to the United States "has been made at the highest level" and therefore it is up to the people of the country to "demonstrate their true feelings" about it. "I've nothing to say about it beyond that," he added. Hollings said he just doesn't think much of the proposed visit, he isn't for it, and "I've got a hundred reasons for feeling that way."

"When you start dealing with the top fellow," he said, "you're playing right into the hands of cold war coexistence."

Chandler was as enthusiastic as Hollings was cold toward the visit. "It's a great thing," he said. "Nothing but good can come out of it."

Meanwhile, the 16 Southern governors announced Tuesday night that their 25th annual regional conference will be Oct. 11-14 in Asheville, N.C. Gov. James P. Coleman of Mississippi is chairman of the Southern Governors' Conference. Owls Look Wise, But Are 'Dumber Than Chickens' NEW YORK (AP)—Despite their scholarly appearance, owls are just plain stupid, says Roger S. Payne, a graduate biologist at Cornell University. He stopped by the Bronx Zoo Monday, and his scorn for owls knew no bounds. "They are even dumber than chickens, if that's possible," he said. Payne bases his knowledge on two years of research with owls. He said that in his laboratory he has seen owls take off from their perches and crash into the rafters time and time again. He had one owl that had to be forced for six months. When it finally did eat it attacked the man who fed it.

Carolina Dairy Raps Seymour Johnson In Tourney

Sports Scope

by Johnny Hudson

The fate of the second All-Star game in the future appeared uncertain today as the players rushed back to their respective clubs for the continuation of a couple of red-hot pennant races.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick states that he plans to take another vote of the players shortly to learn whether they want to continue the second game for next year.

"I don't think they're for it," he said. "However, it's their game and they'll have to make the decision. If they vote against it, I'll drop the game. I don't want to detract from the original one in any way."

Pros and Cons By Players

The players had their own pros and cons about the second game as they departed to join their clubs.

Yogi Berra, the star of the second tilt, expressed favoritism toward the game but pointed out that he would like to see both games played in a space of five days. He felt that this game was crammed in on short notice.

Speaking against the tilt were Early Wynn, veteran White Sox pitcher, and Frank Malzone, Boston third baseman who also homered in the game. "I think two All-Star games are stupid," said Wynn. "We just won," said Malzone, "and nobody gives a damn. This is a farce, and I'm going to be dragging my tail tomorrow."

Richards Attacks Second Tilt

Paul Richards, usually mild-mannered manager of Baltimore, was 100% against the second tilt. Prior to the game, Richards spoke out against it as a "money grabbing exhibition" and a "black mark on all of baseball."

Richards was disturbed over the fact that it was interfering with the American League pennant race. Jerry Walker joined Hoyt Wilhelm and Billy O'Dell on the American League roster, leaving Richards with pitching problems as his club opened a three game series against Chicago last night.

Receives Less Publicity

The game did not receive the coverage of the initial one and has still not been accepted by many sports fans. It did not present the keen interest of the first contest and interrupted a more important topic to the fan—the torrid races in both leagues.

Following the game, Frank Lane, General Manager of the Cleveland Indians criticized Stengel harshly for the way he used his pitchers. His big beef was the fact that he used three Baltimore hurlers and also the Indians' Cal McLish who had just pitched on Sunday. Ryne Duren, the Yankee relief hurler, was saved for the Yanks return to the pennant race.

The second game has brought on a lot of controversy and the reaction of the players when they vote should be interesting. If the game is continued, changes in the procedure will have to be made.

Red Oak became the victim of a couple of slugfests last night as the Winterville Baptist came from behind to take a 11-6 win and Bell Arthur scored ten runs in the last inning to win, 20-18.

Mac Worthington paced an uphill battle for the pace-setting Baptist as he collected four hits, including a homer.

Red Oak had scored four runs in the first inning to go out front but the leaders chopped off the lead gradually and then scored six in the fourth to sew up the game.

Red Oak, trying to get back in the win column, moved into an 8-0 lead in the second game but were unable to hold on as the Bell Arthur sluggers had a field day with a ten run rally in the seventh.

The victory was only Bell Arthur's third of the season and damped Red Oak into sixth place. Games Thursday night will pit Rose Hill against the Winterville Baptist at 7:00 and Piney Grove against Bethany at 8:15.

Dairy And Graniteers Meet Head-On Tonight

By JOHNNY HUDSON

Reflector Sports Editor

ROANOKE RAPIDS—Carolina Dairy made a strong initial bid to hold their district title last night, backing Howard Outland's pitching to the hilt, and defeating a highly respected Seymour Johnson club, 9-3.

The win sent the defending district champions into tonight's second game against arch-rival and city champions of Greenville, the Graniteers. Their tilt is scheduled to begin at 8:00, following the opener between the Romanos and Seymour Johnson.

The Dairy had only seven hits to accompany their nine runs but were constantly hacking away at two Seymour Johnson pitchers and had several timely hits to win their tournament opener.

After a couple of scoreless innings, the Dairy touted hitting attack erupted in the third with a three run outburst. Jerry Warren, who banged out three hits during the night, collected his first bingle with two runners on base to open the scoring.

The Goldsboro club came back with one in the bottom half of the third but the Dairy moved out of reach once again in the fourth on Brownie Tripp's homer.

Tripp's round-tripper came after Tom Boyd had reached base with a walk and Warren had singled.

The winners added another tally in the fifth and then climaxed the game with a couple of insurance runs in the seventh.

A double by Dash and singles by McRoy and Boyd produced Greenville's two runs in the final frame.

The service outfit picked up single scores in the fourth and sixth but were never able to master the offerings of Outland and Jerry Warren.

Deboski collected the first hit off Outland, a triple in the second inning. Cummings had a single in the third and Thompson had a double in the seventh.

Tonight's game will pit a couple of arch-rivals with both battling for the top laurels. Last year the Graniteers won the city crown but were ousted in the district tournament.

The Dairy became the first team to represent Greenville in the state softball play-offs last summer when they won the district title.

One of the four teams will be eliminated from the tourney tonight as both Romanos and Seymour Johnson have already dropped one game.

Clayton Scores Eight As East Loses, 53-52

GREENSBORO (AP)—The college coaches got a look into the future and the basketball fans got their money's worth when they saw a battle here Tuesday night called the East-West high school all-star game.

The West won it, 53-52, with a rally that had the fans in a frenzy.

Each college coach, of course, was hoping some of the all-stars would be on his team in the near future.

Asheville's Mike Groce, the game's leading scorer with 20 points, paced the West rally. The West built up a 53-48 lead in the final minutes, and it looked like the game was wrapped up.

But Larry Edens of Wilmington and Cotton Clayton of Zeb Vance shot the East back into contention with four points in the closing seconds. The West had possession of the ball with 15 seconds remaining.

From then until the game ended there was a wild scramble for the ball, but the West kept possession.

The West trailed most of the game, once by nine points, but outscored the East 13-9 in the third period and 17-14 in the last.

The East all-stars dominated the first half, and led 29-23 at intermission.

The West finally tied the score 40-40 in the fourth period, and then forged ahead. But the West didn't get a lead it could hold until the score stood at 41-46 with two minutes remaining.

Haywood Evans of Rocky Mount and Edens paced the East with 11 points each. The spectacular Clayton got 8.

The victory was the second straight for the West and the series now stands at 6-1 in favor of the West.

With the basketball rivalry out of the way, the scene shifts today to football.

Notre Dame Coach Joe Kuharich is on hand for the football coaching clinic.

The basketball coaching clinic, conducted by Navy Coach Ben Carnevale, ended Tuesday.

There were 380 coaches on hand for the clinic Tuesday, and about 100 more, mostly football coaches, were expected to arrive today.

The annual East-West all-star football game is to be played Friday night.

Young Golfers Tee Off Today

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—

Champions of the future tee off today in the opening round of the U.S. Golf Assn.'s Junior Championships.

The nation's outstanding young golfers, 128 of them, began match play at the Stanford University course. Half will be eliminated by nightfall.

The defending champion, Gordon B. Baker of Florence, S.C., isn't eligible this year. The tournament is for golfers under 18 and Baker has reached that age.

Two 18-hole rounds were scheduled on the 6,650-yard course for Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The town of Wagon Mound, N. M., gets its name from a wagon-shaped rock, a landmark on the old Santa Fe Trail.

Spahn Cools Giants As Braves Regain NL Lead

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

Warren Spahn has led the Milwaukee Braves back into the National League lead with a brilliant three-hitter against the San Francisco Giants Tuesday night.

The 38-year-old left-hander who has won 261 games, only five short of Eppa Rixey's all-time high for a National League southpaw, allowed only one hit in the first 7-23 innings. That was a single by Willie McCovey with two gone in the first. He walked Willie Mays in the fourth but not another Giant reached base until the eighth.

Jim Hegan's two-out single broke the spell and the Giants broke the shutout with two walks and Willie Kirkland's double in the last of the ninth.

The 6-1 Milwaukee victory put the Braves on top by .001 over the Giants with Los Angeles, a 4-1 loser to Cincinnati, another half game behind.

It was the first time Fred Haney's defending champions had held first place since July 8, just after the first All-Star game break and shortly before their disastrous seven-game losing slump. Except for one day, July 29, when Los Angeles edged ahead by a half game, the Giants had been on top.

Sloppy Giant fielding helped ruin the night for the capacity crowd of 22,959 at Seals Stadium.

San Francisco committed five errors, two by losing pitcher Mike McCormick.

Milwaukee, enroute to its 11th victory in its last 13 games, picked up unearned runs in the first and third and landed on McCormick for two more in the fifth. Del Crandall's 13th homer with Billy Bruton on base completed the scoring in the eighth.

While the Braves were winning the opener of this important three-game series, Los Angeles was blowing a chance to take over first place.

Vada Pinson hit a two-run homer and lefty Joe Nuxhall allowed only three hits in beating the Dodgers who led momentarily in the first inning on Wally Moon's ninth home run. Pinson connected for No. 15 over the left field screen during the three-run third. Roy McMillan walked, took third on Nuxhall's double and scored on Johnny Temple's sacrifice fly.

Then came Pinson's blow that hung defeat No. 5 on San Williams. Jerry Lynch also homered in the eighth off Roger Craig. Nuxhall was the first left-hander to start against the Dodgers and beat them in their Coliseum this season.

Pittsburgh's Vern Law subdued St. Louis 7-3 despite home runs by Stan Musial and George Crowe.

The Pirates routed loser Bob Gibson in the three-run fifth after scoring three times in the first inning. It was Law's 12th victory and Gibson's first defeat since he was brought up from the Omaha farm club.

Harry Anderson's two-run double provided Robin Roberts with enough runs for Philadelphia's 2-1 margin over Chicago in the only day game. Roberts 10th victory of the season was the 216th of his brilliant career.

Francona, Perry Defeat Nats; Lary Tames Yankees

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

With Tito Francona on the warpath there is new hope in the camp of the Cleveland Indians who now trail Chicago by only two games in the American League race.

Francona leads both majors with his .416 batting average but he probably won't have enough at bats to be eligible for the league title. He needs about 255 more appearances at the plate and the Indians have only 49 games to play.

Certainly the deal that brought Francona to Cleveland from Detroit in exchange for Larry Doby last March ranks with one of the best Frank Lane ever made.

Doby finally drifted to Chicago again and was shipped down to San Diego in the Pacific Coast League just the other day.

Francona helped send poor stumbling Washington down to its 17th straight defeat Tuesday night when he drove in four runs in Cleveland's 8-2 victory. The outfielder sparked a four-run surge in the third with his two-run triple and hit his 12th homer in the seventh after Minnie Minoso walked. In the meantime, Jim Perry was throwing a six-hitter to beat Bill Fischer.

Cookie Lavagetto's Senators, who haven't won since they beat Kansas City in the first half of a July 19 doubleheader, can beat the club record for futility if they blow Wednesday's doubleheader. In fact, the American League and modern major league record is only 20, shared by three clubs, the most recent being the 1943 Philadelphia A's. A Washington club lost 18 in a row in 1948.

Baltimore gave Chicago a dose of its own one-run medicine. The Orioles came up with two unearned runs in the eighth for a 3-2 decision over the White Sox, who had won 26 of 31 previous one-run games.

Rookie Ken McBride from Indianapolis left in the seventh with the bases loaded and Chicago leading 2-1 on Johnny Romano's two-run pinch homer. Relief man Turk Lown walked in the tying run before Gerry Staley took over. The Orioles scored the clincher when Luis Aparicio couldn't get off a throw after fielding Billy Klaus' grounder. Billy Hoelt was the winner and McBride the loser.

Frank Lary worked his usual magic on the Yankees as Detroit made it 11 out of 15 over New York with a 4-3 decision. Lary now has won five in a row over the Yanks this year and holds a 21-5 lifetime edge. Neil Chrissy, who has only nine hits, slammed his sixth homer for the Tigers and Mickey Mantle hit No. 21 and Elton Howard No. 13 for New York.

Kansas City dropped to fourth place by splitting a two-nighter at Boston. Pete Runnels drove in three runs in Boston's 4-1 opening victory for Tom Brewer. The A's scored six in the sixth to take the second game 8-6. Eleven men batted in the big inning that ruined Al Schroll and gave Murry Dickson his second victory.

Valdes And Liston Meet In Boxing

CHICAGO (AP)—Nino Valdes, the giant Cuban, will try to re-enter the heavyweight picture tonight by upsetting the third ranked contender, Sonny Liston.

Liston, No. 3 by both the National Boxing Assn. and Ring magazine, is unbeaten in 17 bouts and has lost only once in 25. He is a solid favorite to dispose of the 34-year-old Valdes in the televised (ABC, 9 p.m. EST) 10 rounder in Chicago Stadium.

Valdes, once the top-rated contender, knocked out Dan Hodge in eight rounds last April but a month later lost a 10 round decision to Alonzo Johnson in Madison Square Garden. In 19 years as a pro, Valdes has won 48 to 67 bouts, 35 of them by knockouts.

Liston, 27-year-old resident of Philadelphia, may have trouble with Valdes' best weapon, a left hook to the face or body, but Sonny never has been knocked out. He thinks his right will bomb out the Cuban, who has been kayoed four times.

Spahn Figures Braves Will Win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Warren Spahn doesn't figure he will ever pitch a no hitter, but don't fret about him. His left arm is still good enough to pitch the Milwaukee Braves into the National League lead.

"To pitch a no hitter or one-hitter, a pitcher has to be young and strong," Spahn said Tuesday night after beating San Francisco 6-1 on a three-hitter. "I'm neither."

The victory hoisted the Braves ahead of the Giants.

Spahn is 38. His record for this season is now 15-10 and he has a total of 261 victories in a major league career dating back to 1

TOUGH SADDLE

By MATT STUART

© By Matt Stuart, 1959; from the Dodd, Mead & Co. novel; distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 1

Putting his horse to the trail's steady lift, Link Asbell climbed out of the shadowed depths of Rosebud Canyon to the high meadows and timbered benches of the country beyond.

Here he was met with the boisterous push of the cooling wind that at this time of day and season of the year always poured down out of the loftier reaches of the Saddleback Hills to replace the arm, rising thermals of the plains.

Smoke odor rode the wind, which, mused Asbell, faintly smiling, was to be expected. For Packy Lane, as methodical in all the details of his daily living as he was crochety and stubborn and completely faithful, would be cooking supper at this hour.

By sundown the meal would be eaten, dishes washed and put away, and Packy sitting outside the line camp cabin door, nursing his rancid old pipe while watching twilight come down across the world.

At full dark he would knock the dottle from his pipe and seek his blankets. Tomorrow morning he would be up while the stars were still bright, and by the time dawn's first great flare exploded out of the eastern plains, he'd be done with breakfast and in his saddle, ready for the work of the day.

There was no better or more dependable line rider in the business than Packy Lane. AS Big Five foreman, Link Asbell made this wing every third week. One purpose was to get Packy's frugal, but always accurate report on the Rosebud Creek summer range and the condition of the Big Five cattle grazing it. Another was to fetch a fresh supply of food such as now rode in the well stuffed flour sack behind Asbell's saddle. His horse, a solid, clean-limbed buckskin, had been leaning steadily and sturdily into the lift of the hills. Now it broke stride and blew sharply, swiveling its head in sudden uneasiness. For the smoke scent had abruptly thickened and it was not the clean, tangy breath of good, fat pine stovewood.

Instead, it was shot through with a queer mustiness which changed the musing smile on Asbell's lips to a pull of dry distaste. He stood high in his stirrups and searched the world all about with probing senses.

Ahead, the trail crossed a narrow bench, climbed a short lift and circled past a thickset of jackpine timber. Beyond lay the little flat that held the line camp.

Asbell put the buckskin to a scrambling rush up the last rise and on past the timber thicket. Here he reined to an abrupt stop. Where the line camp cabin had stood was just a ragged area of charred blackness. From the center of this lifted waves of heavy, foul smoke, to be caught and whirled away by the wind.

Asbell sent the buckskin closer, the animal protesting with tossing head and a gusty blowing. It edged to another uneasy halt and Asbell let it stay so, while, through a long pause, his glance fixed on the blackened cinder pile.

In saddle and out, he was a tall, sparely built man, possessed of an unsuspected rawboned physical power. His facial features were ruggedly irregular, with a level mouth above a hard sweep of jaw line. He was very brown, and against this deep weathering of his skin his eyes were a strong, clear blue. Eyes that on the occasion of need could hold the bleakness of chill. The chill was in them now, and deepening.

For, jutting up out of the mounded cinders was the gaunt skeleton of an old iron bunk, its metal frame and springs having defied the flames. On that fire-scorched bunk lay an object that had once been a man. Now it was just a twisted, blackened nightmare.

Asbell reigned the fretting buckskin away and around to what had been the rear of the cabin. Here, a little apart, stood a small pole corral. Yonder, at the edge of the clearing was a boxed-in spring, its seepage feeding a straggling smear of green across the short flat. In the corral were two horses, and a saddle straddled the top rail of the fence.

Clear of the smoke, Asbell made another careful survey of the blackened debris. How had this thing happened? Without doubt, that object on the bunk was all that was left of the mortal remains of Packy Lane. Had he fallen asleep while smoking, with a live spark spilling from his pipe to set his bedding afire?

Possible, Asbell conceded, but not likely. Such conjecture did not jibe with Packy's fixed schedule of daily living. The old fellow did not take to his bed until he was prepared to stay there for the night. And this was Packy's supertime, not his bedtime.

What to do? Very little, right now, Asbell decided grimly. Those smoking coals and cinders were still far too hot to get into. By morning they would have cooled. Time enough to return then with help and tools to dig a grave. In the meantime he'd take Packy's horses and saddle back to headquarters with him.

It was a relief to turn to something that pulled one's eyes away from that object on the bunk. Asbell dismounted and moved up to the corral. He stopped, staring at Packy's saddle. Something was wrong, here. A moment later he had it.

Fashioned from long habit, even the chore of unsaddling had become a ritual of exactness with Packy Lane. When done, his saddle always occupied a certain space on the corral fence, marked to a darkened smoothness by much contact. Also, the blanket would be spread across the saddle to air and dry. Neither of these things was so now.

The saddle was a good two yards from its usual place, and the blanket, instead of being spread across it, was bunched under it. Asbell's glance, ever sharpening, searched the earth about the corral gate. Here was a tangle of hoof prints and the occasional gouge of a boot heel, all too blurred and mixed up to signify anything.

One final time Asbell marked the smoking pile with its grisly content, after which he moved with swift purpose. He caught up the horses in the corral and loose-cinched Packy Lane's saddle on one of them. Stepping astride the buckskin and with the two two animals at lead, he went back the way he had done, down through Rosebud Canyon and out the mouth of this along the creek into the far-running, and now deep-darkening miles of the plain.

The Big Five headquarters was an oasis of light in the plain's wide blackness. Windows of the ranchhouse were aglow, twinkling and beckoning. The hitch rail which curved in a quarter circle in front of the ranchhouse patio held several driving rigs along with some saddle mounts.

Swinging past these, well out, Link Asbell heard the babble of voices and the high glitter of a woman's laughter lift across the night.

At the corral the lank figure and slow drawl of Hughie Logan evolved from the star-shot shadows.

"What's this — what's this? Cowboy, you're not supposed to be back until tomorrow sometime. Wouldn't Packy put you up for the night?"

Asbell dropped from his saddle, bluntly giving out his grim information.

For some little time Hughie Logan was still. Then he swore softly.

"That sure is hell! Poor old Packy. How could it have happened?"

"You guess," Asbell said bleakly. "That's all I can do." He glanced over at the glowing ranchhouse. "Another lively evening going on, looks like."

"We're going to," Asbell said. "First thing in the morning we ride out there."

bluntly giving out his grim information.

For some little time Hughie Logan was still. Then he swore softly.

"That sure is hell! Poor old Packy. How could it have happened?"

"You guess," Asbell said bleakly. "That's all I can do." He glanced over at the glowing ranchhouse. "Another lively evening going on, looks like."

"Yeah—lively," Hughie's tone was disgruntled. "Darned if I can figure Sue Vincent any more. Seems she can't think of anything these days except a continual round of this whoop-de-do. But getting back to Packy. We got to do something, Link."

"We're going to," Asbell said. "First thing in the morning we ride out there."

Teacher May Lose Job For Running Sex Test

By RALPH DIGHTON
LOS ANGELES (AP)—A school teacher who could lose his job because of a controversial sex survey he ran in his class says the questionnaire showed some statistical results.

Of the 60 boys and girls who took the quiz voluntarily, 15 per cent of the boys and 16 per cent of the girls had experienced sexual intercourse.

Fifty-eight per cent of the boys and 34 per cent of the girls had indulged in petting.

Forty-four per cent of the boys and 32 per cent of the girls had intimately fondled members of the opposite sex.

None admitted any sexual perversion.

Cecil Cook, 37, physiology teacher in suburban Van Nuys High School, conducted the survey in two classes of 17-year-old boys and girls last January.

A hearing to determine whether Cook will lose his credentials poses this question:

Does a high school teacher have any right to ask his students about their sex life?

Cook ran the survey, he testified at the hearing Tuesday, at the request of some of the students who had heard of such a survey being given at another school.

"I agreed because I thought it was proper," Cook said. "It would enable each student to compare himself with his group and thus see for himself if he were normal."

So far during the hearing eight girls and two boys have testified in support of Cook's teaching practices. Three girls have testified they were shocked and embarrassed by the questionnaire.

Among the parents who came to Cook's defense was writer George Asness, whose daughter Diane, 17, was in one of Cook's classes.

"I was surprised—but not shocked—by the questions in the survey," Asness testified Tuesday.

"But I am glad to find that education has progressed to a point where children can be taught about their own bodies."

"Children have been given a gun by nature. It is up to us to teach them how to use it."

A dozen or more teen-agers, mostly girls, show up for each session of the hearing, expected to end today. During recesses some of them crowd around Cook as if he were a football hero—and he looks as if he could have been when he was their age 20 years ago.

Dark-haired and blue-jawed, Cook at 37 is tall and lean. With his dark horn rim glasses and quiet pin-stripe suit, Cook looks more like a doctor or a lawyer than a teacher.

Split Personality Seen After Cops Kill Bandit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Grand-scale business promoter by day, robber, posing as a policeman, by night.

That's the double life police say was lived by Daniel M. Snyder, ex-Marine, art lover, and man about town.

His honest path by day and dishonest path by night came to light after police had shot him to death during a drugstore holdup attempt Sunday night.

Officers said Snyder, 40, who wore elevator shoes to increase his 5-foot-7 stature, called himself Police Sgt. Cain L. Wood and carried a detective sergeant's badge that was a remarkably accurate duplicate of the real thing. He held up two markets and got away with $38,000.

By day he moved in high financial circles and was regarded as a shrewd investor with apparently unlimited income. He had no criminal record.

Sunday night he entered a drugstore, flashed his detective badge and told the manager, "I'm here to prevent a robbery."

The manager recognized Snyder from descriptions of the man who had robbed two markets. He tripped a silent burglar alarm. Officers arrived. Snyder bolted for the back door, then turned on the officers, gun in hand. They fired first.

ASC Elections Slated Sept. 10

ASC community elections will be held Sept. 10, Office Manager Walter A. Hasty Jr. announced today.

Farmers in each of the county's 22 ASC communities will elect community committees composed of a chairman, vice chairman and regular member.

There will also be two alternates in case any of the committeemen are unable to serve.

Hasty said the County ASC committee met last Thursday to select a slate of election boards for each of the communities. Three leading producers are chosen as election board members for each of the communities.

The election boards will nominate a slate of ten candidates in each community from which the voting farmers will elect their committee. High man in the voting will serve as chairman, second high as vice chairman and third high as regular member. The next two will serve as alternates.

All the election boards will meet in the ASC office Aug. 11 and 12 at 2 o'clock to nominate the slates of candidates.

Following the Sept. 10 election, the producer who is named chairman in each community will attend the county ASC convention in Greenville Sept. 25. The 22 community delegates will elect three county committeemen and two alternates to serve the entire county program for the coming year.

Each of the county committeemen will be nominated and elected separately at the convention.

Back in the 1880's the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern Railway in Arkansas tried to encourage travelers with the enticement that "there will be no charges for dogs and guns."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Selling accelerated in "war babies" early this afternoon as the stock market showed its worst loss since mid-July. Trading was fairly active. Losses among some of the electronics and aircrafts ran to as much as 6 points. Key stocks declined from fractions to a point or so generally.

Prospects of a thaw in the cold war were emphasized by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's latest statement. At the same time the market was due for a technical correction of its latest upsurge to record highs.

Many stop loss orders were touched off as the market continued to settle backward early in the day. These are orders to sell at a certain price below previous quotations to protect traders against excessive losses.

Steels, motors, rails, utilities, coppers, oils, airlines, chemicals, rubbers and drugs joined in the general decline.

Turnover was slightly above Tuesday's routine volume.

The decline, though sharp, was considerably less than the break of July 13 which was based on concern over the approaching steel strike deadline.

Motorola dropped 2 points and Polaroid more than 3. DuPont, a big gainer recently, slipped about 6 points on its high price.

Losses exceeding a point were taken by North American Aviation, Martin Co. and General Dynamics.

Losses of about 2 were shown by General Tire and Southern Pacific.

Jones & Laughlin, down more than a point, was about the worst of the major steelmakers.

International Telephone and Pan American World Airways were off a point or so in active dealings.

The Associated Press average of 50 stocks at noon was down $1.50 to $23.90 with the industrial down $3.10, the rails down 30 cents and the utilities down 30 cents.

Government bonds were firm.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — Hog prices today were irregular. Tops of 14.50 to 15.25 Wilson, Kingston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive; 14.50 to 15.00 Nahant, Enfield, Tarboro, Scotland Neck; 14.25 to 14.75 Greensboro, Belhel, Murfreesboro, Grimesland, Edenton, Sunbury, Harkersville, Farmville; 14.00 to 14.75 Albemarle, Lillington, House's Mill; 14.25 Goldsboro, Castle Hayne, Burgaw, Rich Square; 14.50 Lumberton, Clinton, Fayetteville, Elizabethtown, Shalotte, Taber City; 14.25 Siler City, other markets unreported.

Wilson cash cattle prices, steady: steers and heifers, choice 26.00 to 29.00, good 24.25 to 26.75, commercial 21.00 to 23.00; cows, beef type 16.75 to 20.25, heavy cutters 15.50 to 17.50; bulls, light-weights 16.25 to 19.75, heavy-weights 18.75 to 22.50.

RALEIGH — (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina poultry markets: fryers and broilers, farm price 15 to 15½, mostly 15.

Eggs — prices paid producers for clean, sized, minimum 80 per cent A quality: Raleigh and Charlotte steady, large 43; prices paid on graded out basis: Asheville steady. A large 38.

DETROIT, Mich. (AP)—Edgar A. Guest, famed poet whose works were known to newspaper readers all over the world, died today in his sleep. He would have been 78 Aug. 20.

Cause of death was not determined immediately but physicians indicated the poet had suffered a cerebral hemorrhage.

At the height of his popularity, Guest was among the most widely read men of his time. His name was most frequently associated with the first lines of one of his most famous poems: "It takes a heap o' livin' in a house t' make it home."

Guest's daily poem still appeared in the Detroit Free Press and other newspapers up to the time of his death, despite his bad health.

He was called the "poet of the plain people" and he preferred to be known as a newspaperman. He was a reporter, exchange editor and a columnist at the Free Press before devoting his life to poetry.

At his peak his syndicated daily poem appeared in nearly 300 American newspapers. He also produced 17 volumes of poetry and for several years appeared on a national radio program.

Guest was born in Birmingham, England, Aug. 20, 1881. He came to Detroit with his family while a boy. After attending public schools here he worked in a drug store before joining the Free Press.

While exchange editor at the Free Press he began to write poetry, often slipping it into the newspaper as an exchange item. When his secret was discovered, he was assigned to write poetry once a week. He later wrote a daily column, "Breakfast Chit-Chat."

Guest was associated with the motion picture industry for several months in 1935 as a writer and later had his own television show in New York. His son Edgar A. (Bud) Guest Jr. is widely known in the Michigan area as the philosophic master-of-ceremonies at a radio variety program.

Guest's poems extolled the everyday things of life. His last published poem appeared in today's Free Press and was entitled "The Little Mind."

The poet's wife, Ellen, died in 1945. Besides his son, Guest is survived by a daughter, Janet.
