

Additions To Pitt's School Bus Fleet

COUNTY SCHOOL BUSES . . . lined up at Winterville School Garage.

Four new buses and ten replacement buses are being added this summer to the County School bus fleet, bringing the total number of buses operated by the County to 155. Last year the County's 151 buses carried 8,452 school passengers a total of 928,161 miles.

The new buses were added to the fleet at a cost of $3,290 each. Money for new buses and replacement of worn-out buses is included in the annual budget of the County Schools.

Summer repair of the buses includes complete going over of motors, steering mechanism, brakes and lights. Mechanical overhauls and work on the interior of the buses are done, if needed. The buses, now in the hands of the highway patrol for safety checks, will be turned over to the schools for operation on August 27.

Ancient Fire Truck Retired From Service By Council

The fire department's 1933 Reo Speed Wagon is to be retired. The faithful old fire truck, which answered every call in Greenville for years, will become a plaything for children at South Greenville Park.

The city fathers authorized a letter to be written to the County Commissioners informing them of the situation and offering to assist the county in the fire fighting problem "in any way we can so long as it does not jeopardize our (Class 5 insurance) rating."

The ordinance giving the fire chief power to use his judgment about sending fire trucks outside the city limits in the case of a fire which involves a life.

Workers Separate Cars To Save Eight Persons

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Two cars crashed in flames near here Thursday, trapping four women and four children. But three quick-thinking construction workers using a wrecker pulled the cars apart and freed the eight from certain cremation.

One automobile carried the pregnant wife of Col. Francis Gabreski, commander of the Myrtle Beach, S.C., Air Force Base and the nation's top living air ace with 38 enemy planes destroyed to his credit.

Spivy said he and the two workers, Hamp and Lionel Sandlin, who are brothers, pried open the doors and got the women and children out, although the two Gabreski children were uninjured and got out by themselves.

Explosion Kills Ten, Wrecks City

ROSEBURG, Ore. (AP) — A truck loaded with 6 1/2 tons of explosives blew up with shattering force here early today. At least 10 persons were killed.

Buildings were smashed and a raging fire spread over the downtown area in this city of 12,200. In the truck were two tons of dynamite and 4 1/2 tons of ammonium nitrate, a fertilizer with explosive nature that caused the Texas City, Tex., disaster a number of years ago.

The blast came soon after fire was discovered in a building beside which the truck was parked three blocks from the center of the business district.

The driver, George Rutherford, Chehalis, Wash., said he was walking back to it and was knocked down by the blast. He was hospitalized, with injuries believed not critical.

At the height of the fire the six-story Umpqua Hotel's 65 guests and employees were evacuated. The manager, Dick Smith, said that at his home, two miles away, windows were blown out.

Public Hearings A public hearing was set for Sept. 10, the next council meeting, concerning the re-zoning of some property on Memorial Drive in North Greenville.

Approval of an ordinance requiring proper installation of temporary electrical service at construction sites was given by the councilmen.

Accept Money City councilmen lost no time last night in accepting the $250,000 federal grant money for construction of a sewage disposal plant.

Eisenhower Calls For New Law To End Racketeering

Thor-Able Rocket Orbits Satellite

WASHINGTON (AP) — Explorer VI satellite is in orbit and will remain aloft for more than a year, the Space Administration announced this afternoon.

The 142-pound "paddlewheel" satellite was launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., at 9:23 a.m. It will reach a peak altitude of 23,000 miles at 3 p.m., directly over South Africa.

The satellite will take about 11 hours to complete each of its elongated orbits. That is very close to advance calculations.

A spokesman for NASA said the small "kick" rocket attached to the satellite, to provide added speed if necessary at the perigee or low point of the orbit, has not yet been fired.

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE WASHINGTON (AP) — Criticizing Congress' actions on a labor bill thus far, President Eisenhower called Thursday night for a new law strong enough to end racketeering in labor-management relations.

Speaking out as the House headed toward a bitter battle over the issue next week, Eisenhower addressed a nationwide radio-television.

He put his prestige behind a substitute sponsored by Reps. Phil M. Landrum (D-Ga.) and Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich.) and said that bill offers "a good start toward a real labor reform law."

Vegetables Are Plentiful Now

RALEIGH—Fresh vegetables are now available on the market in large quantities and can be bought in bulk amounts for freezing.
 According to Miss Nita Orr, frozen food specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, now is the time to get the lima beans into the freezer.
 In freezing lima beans, Miss Orr advises homemakers to be sure to select well-filled pods that are not overmature. The beans should be washed in pod for better flavor. After shelling, remove damaged or over-ripe beans.
 Remember to always blanch or scald to stop changes in the vegetables that occur if they are not scalded. Lima beans need to be scalded from 2 1/2 to 3 minutes. Unscalded vegetables develop a shuck-like flavor, lose color, toughen and lose food value.
 Chill quickly after scalding, cooling the product thoroughly before packaging. Label, freeze and store.

New Decorating Trend: Two Rugs In The Room

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
IF YOU ARE a two-rug-in-the-room woman, you've got your finger on the pulse of good decorating sections.
 The current trend in home furnishings is to make life easier for the homemaker as we put charm without clutter into home decor. Two rugs offer many advantages.
 It is easier to roll up a pair of rugs for cleaning, than to try to roll up one big size carpet.
 It can give the effect of making a room look larger or if furniture is properly placed it may give the effect of dividing a room into two sections.
 Two rugs cut down on the yardage requirement of one large rug. The rugs may be used together whenever you wish a change of scene. It gives you an opportunity to display your hard flooring.

 They may be used easily in smaller rooms when you move to new quarters or change the decor in the room.
 A small rug can give the effect of coziness used in a particular area of a room such as in a tete-a-tete section where sofa or love seat and arm chairs are grouped.
 There is great emphasis on texture in the new crop of soft floor coverings. Many of the cotton ridged rugs give the effect of chenille texture with rows closely woven into acetate yarns. There is a wide variety of color effects available from the brilliantly matched colors to the softer shades of olive green and turquoise.

THE TWO-RUG SCHEME . . . The ridge effect of these twin rugs designed by Waite looks like chenille, offers depth to the floor and separates the living and dining area of this room. Typical of the newer rugs it has been treated with spray to protect its light colors, chalk, haze, beige, green.

New Club Hostess Honored At Open House

The new Woman's Club hostess, Mrs. J. L. Bishop of Erwin, was guest of honor yesterday when the club members held Open House. Mixed summer flowers decorated the clubhouse.
 Mrs. J. H. B. Moore and Mrs. S. L. Daughtridge greeted the guests and directed them to the social area. Mrs. W. C. Harris and Mrs. John A. Clark introduced the guests to the receiving line which was composed of Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr., immediate past president; Mrs. Harvey H. Tripp, president; and Mrs. J. L. Bishop, club hostess.

A central table covered in green satin with organdy overskirt held a centerpiece of pastel flowers flanked by candelabra holding deep green tapers. Guests were invited to the refreshment table by Mrs. P. E. Wells and Mrs. R. V. Keel.

Open-faced sandwiches, cheese straws, roses, banana bread, nuts and cookies were served with punch. Mrs. M. W. Maxwell, overall chairman, Mrs. Tigie Gardner, Mrs. Vance Perkins, Mrs. Ethel Allen and Mrs. J. Hicks Corey alternated at serving at the refreshment table.

Those attending registered at a small off-center table presided by Mrs. J. E. Ricks.

Mrs. Claude Gaskins, music chairman, provided music during the calling hours.

In a front parlor a gift table was set up for practical gifts for the clubhouse brought by members. Mrs. H. R. Rogers presided at the table. Mrs. J. A. Piver also assisted in receiving during the social gathering.

Goodbyes were said to Mrs. Ralph Brimley.

State Garden School Planned

Course 1 of the State Garden School will be held August 17-19 at Appalachian State Teachers College in Boone.

Instructors will be Mrs. E. L. Smith of Greensboro, Mrs. W. W. Levi of Radford, Va., and Dorothy Riddle of Pleasantville, N. Y.

Registration is scheduled for 9:00-9:45 on Monday, August 17, in the lobby of the Fine Arts Building. The course will be conducted by the N. C. State College Extension Division in the auditorium of the Fine Arts Building.

A special feature of the school will be an exhibit of wild flowers. This course is open to all garden club members and others interested in flower arranging and horticulture. It gives basic information on both topics as well as necessary information for competing in flower shows.

Wednesday, Aug. 19, is set aside for the written examination. Those who attend all sessions of the course and pass all parts of this examination will receive five points credit toward earning a National Amateur Flower Show Judging Certificate.

MAKE A JUMPER

If a child has a pretty woolen sweater that is too short, remodel it into a jumper. Material from the sleeves may be used to make a yoke and this will lengthen the garment. Little girls love jumpers. Make attractive mittens, caps and bags from old woolen garments. A matching set of these may be secured from an old skirt.

SAVE THE COAT

If a small child has outgrown a good winter coat in length, buy some contrasting cloth of equal quality and put a band around the bottom of the coat and cuffs on the sleeves. You could make her a hat or cap of the new material, also a draw string bag. Brown and white checked material makes a nice contrast to a solid brown coat, for instance.

Women Can Cause No Need For Summit Conference, Tug-Of-War

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
 If the women of the world could get together over a quilling bee or a covered-dish supper, there soon would be little need for summit conferences and diplomatic tug-of-war.

There are some things that all women instinctively understand and enjoy, whether in Iowa, the Soviet Union or Timbuktu. That's conversation about children, recipes, kitchens and clothes.

Striking proof of the common international language of women was the sensation created by Pat Nixon during her recent visit to the Soviet Union and Poland with the vice president.

Newsman accompanying the Nixon party reported that when Pat and her husband took a stroll down a Moscow street, they practically stopped traffic. Women gathered to stare at Mrs. Nixon's fashionable pointed shoes, her smart suit, her attractive hairdo and modish hat.

In her own sight-seeing about the city, the friendly, personable Pat probably did more to convince the Russians that Americans are nice people than could years of diplomatic exchanges.

Women the world over know how to size each other up, whether they speak the same language or not. And the women of Moscow had only to look at the vice president's wife to see that here was a friendly, happy, cultured woman. They also saw her as one who had access to more attractive clothes and cosmetics than are available to Mrs. Ivan.

Similar instances have been reported again and again after the many trade fairs in which the United States has participated around the world during the last few years.

Representatives of food manufacturing companies and appliance manufacturers have brought back reports of the fascination of foreign women for such things as an electric blender, a modern range, or a packaged angel food cake mix.

When people of other countries can taste American home-cooked food, can see how American kitchens work, can take a trip through an American supermarket and talk, even in sign language, with American women, understanding grows by leaps and bounds.

You can't hate somebody with whom you've just exchanged recipes for cornbread or pizza.

 Celery and Carrots Green Salad
 Tangerine Jelly Beverage

TANGERINE JELLY

Ingredients: 1 1/2 cups cold water, 1 envelope unflavored gelatin, 1 can (6 ounces) frozen concentrated tangerine juice.

Method: Remove tangerine juice from freezer and open so it will thaw a little; you can immerse the can in hot water. Pour 3-4 cup of the cold water into a 1-quart saucepan; sprinkle gelatin over to soften. Place over low heat and stir until gelatin dissolves; remove from heat. Stir in remaining 3-4 cup cold water and the tangerine concentrate, just as it comes from the can. Turn into 5 individual molds, each about 1/2-cup size. Chill. Unmold at serving time. Makes 5 servings. If indentations are used a little fresh fruit may be placed in jelly indentations as a garnish.

Senator's Wife Has Short Role

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Why does a senator's wife leave a busy life to do a walk-on in a movie?

This is the riddle posed by Marion Javits, bright-eyed wife of Sen. Jacob Javits (R-N.Y.). She is here for a role in "Who Was that Lady I Saw You With?" She has three brief scenes as secretary to the New York FBI chief, performing with Tony Curtis, Dean Martin, James Whitmore and John McIntire.

The whole thing started, said the pretty brunette, when she had lunch one day in Lindy's in New York City. Her lunch mate was a friend of George Sidney, who was eating there, too. Mrs. Javits told the director she had always wanted to act.

"You've got a job!" he replied. "But her yen goes deeper than just the desire to act. It has to do with the life of a senator's wife."

"It can be a lonely life," she remarked. "The campaigning is exciting and fun, but there is little that a wife can share with him."

"Some women can live with loneliness. I think it's easier for the older wives to adjust to it. But for the younger ones — and there are only about a dozen of us—it can be very difficult.

"I remember attending a luncheon which Mamie (Eisenhower) gave for the Senate wives and talking to one of the young wives. She was pregnant, and she was miserable about her existence. It's too lonely," she said.

Mrs. Javits has chosen to keep her home in New York City. She goes to Washington for social occasions.

She does not entertain in Washington, but the Javitses maintain a strenuous social schedule at home from September to January, or during the congressional recess. Besides her duties as a senator's wife, she has three young children to look after and campaigns for mental health and the National Arts Fund her husband is sponsoring.

Then why does she need to act? "Because I always wanted to," she explained. "I studied dramatics at the New School of Social Research in New York and with Gertrude Lawrence at Columbia. I even made the rounds of the producers in my early days; I never got one job. But I did work as a production assistant."

Retired Assistant Police Chief Has Seen Changes

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

"It is wonderful to retire with good health. So many people do not have the privilege," former Greenville Assistant Police Chief H. E. Wooten said.

Wooten, who joined the department in 1925 and has seen "the major improvements in police work" such as the patrol car, the telephone and the radio, retired effective July 12.

According to Wooten, when he came to work here in 1925, the officers had to walk everywhere they went. It was not until November 1926 that the department got a motorcycle and Wooten started to ride.

In those early days, if an officer wanted to take a prisoner to jail he had to walk the prisoner to the police station or stop a dray which was a horse-drawn cart used to carry freight, and get the driver to haul both officer and prisoner to jail. If a dray was not handy, the policeman would get a city garbage cart, powered by mules or horses for the trip.

In 1925 only three officers were on duty during the night with four officers pulling the day shift. An officer assigned "time in the office" seldom stayed in there but patrolled uptown, which usually consisted of Evans Street to the Post Office and back down Cotanche. At that time the Police Department, along with other city offices, was located on Fifth Street between Evans and Cotanche.

If anyone came to the office and needed a policeman he rang a large gong or bell outside the office and waited for the policeman to walk to the station to talk with him. When outside call boxes and telephones were installed much time was saved.

The third great improvement which has come to police work is the radio-telephone or two-way radio that gives headquarters instant contact with the patrol cars; enables one car to talk to another car, even if they are on opposite sides of town.

Now, when a complaint is telephoned to the department, the dispatcher gives the traffic to one of the police cars. Before radio, the car would have to come to the station for instructions or stop and call the station by phone.

"Mr. Wooten" as he is known by many, will long be remembered by many now-grown-ups for his duty at school crossings. Many is the time the devoted lawman has directed traffic at school crossings. According to Wooten he is "especially fond of the youngsters" and feels "it is a loss when I see a policeman at a school crossing now and know I can't get out and be there myself. I still feel that it is part of my duty."

Commenting on the city manager form of government, Wooten said in the years of progress he has seen in Greenville the "change from the mayor to the city manager form of government is one of the finest."

When asked what he planned to do now, Wooten commented, "Just take it easy and rest." At 70, the retired officer is very active and in good health.

During his 34 years in police work, the retired officer said, he has seen law enforcement become a profession. "In the old days," he commented, "only men with weak minds and strong backs became officers. Now, much training is needed to become a good lawman."

Now Wooten, who feels "very kindly towards police work," can be found sitting on the porch of his house on Summit St. with his wife enjoying the new-found freedom of walking in the yard enjoying the beautiful plants. He also likes to walk the downtown streets he has patrolled many times.

According to City Manager Leonard Bloxam, "Mr. Wooten's retirement will mean a great loss to the police department and the citizens of Greenville should be very grateful to him for his loyal and sincere years of service."

"It is difficult," Bloxam continued, "to evaluate the worth of persons who have been so faithful in dollars and cents. However, there would not be any reasonable way of compensating him for his efforts and interest."

"Wooten more than earned the years of rest which we hope will be many," Bloxam added. "Even though he formally retired he has offered his services to the department at any time they may be needed. He will be missed by all concerned but we feel sure our loss is his gain."

WOOTEN . . . relaxes on porch of his home.

NATO's Chain Of Command Ruled By Members' Absolute Veto Power

Editor's Note — NATO, the united effort of 15 nations to defend themselves from possible Soviet aggression, is now in its second decade. After 10 years, how smooth are its administrative channels? Here's a report, last in a series of four articles.

By BEM PRICE

PARIS (AP)—The military command structure of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization consists of nine major commands divided into 44 subcommands.

All are headed by a 15-nation Political Council in which each member has an absolute veto.

Tiny Iceland, for example, can veto a decision by the 14 other member nations, including the United States, the United Kingdom and France.

The only way the NATO nations can get around such a veto is by agreements outside the NATO structure.

Further, within the NATO military organization itself, a senior officer from one nation cannot give a direct order to a junior officer from another. He can only request his cooperation.

If the senior officer complains vigorously enough about lack of cooperation the junior probably will be transferred. It has happened.

NATO exercises no direct command over any troops or any air forces in peacetime. While troops and aircraft are assigned to NATO operations, direct control is retained by the various nations. In time of war each nation has to decide for itself whether to release forces to NATO operational control.

While NATO is hailed as a great cooperative enterprise, it sometimes falls short of its goal.

For example, NATO is dependent upon the separate intelligence services of the 15 participating nations for information on what the Soviets are doing. NATO has no organic, operating intelligence service of its own.

The NATO supreme commander, U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, relies chiefly on U.S. military sources for intelligence information. He is briefed regularly by the U.S. European command intelligence officer who draws on the sources of the Army, Navy, Air Force, Central Intelligence Agency and embassy military attaches.

Norstad wears two hats. He is Allied supreme commander and commander of the U.S. forces. If the supreme commander were a non-American he would have to rely on his own nation's intelligence services. Why?

A U.S. intelligence officer explained: "Each nation is pretty jealous of its intelligence service. They give some information to NATO but there is always a tendency to hold something back."

A high ranking French officer said it was "three or four days before I received a report on the 1956 Hungarian uprising through NATO channels." He commands an important segment of the NATO forces.

Under the NATO command structure over-all control is invested in the 15-nation Political Council which has an elaborate headquarters in Paris. All decisions by the Council must be unanimous.

Once the Council makes a decision orders are passed through a secretariat to the military committee, which has permanent headquarters in Washington, 3,000 miles away.

This committee has a sort of executive subcommittee which then passes the orders along to Supreme Headquarters, Allied Forces, Europe which is located just outside Paris, about 20 miles from where the original decision was made.

Implementation of the Council's decisions by SHAPE involves a plea for cooperation. SHAPE can't just go out and order things done.

In theory NATO is founded upon the principle that an attack upon one is an attack upon all. Still, each nation retains the right to say whether an attack upon one really is an attack upon all.

For example, there is no guarantee that an attack by the East Germans upon the West Germans would be considered an attack upon NATO. Some might consider it just a nasty family affair.

Field Marshal Lord Montgomery, once Britain's top representative to NATO, has characterized the NATO command structure as "cumbersome and grossly overstuffed."

There is scant doubt, by the way, that the bulk of Europe's present defenses are provided by the United States.

The United States currently has 330,000 soldiers in Western Europe, 150,000 of whom are classified as combat troops. The rest are involved in staff work, logistics and communications.

The U.S. Air Force has some 115,000 men in Europe along with around 1,100 aircraft, according to an educated press. Actual aircraft figures are classified.

Added to all these men are 271,000 U.S. servicemen's dependents. Thus the number of Americans directly connected with military operations in Europe is around 716,000 men, women and children.

This lack of a strong European contribution to NATO admittedly has irritated some U.S. officers, an irritation that appears only in private conversations.

The question is: What can be done about it? Nobody has come forward with an answer yet.

from where the original decision was made.

N. C.'s School Teachers Will Receive Supplement

RALEIGH (AP)—Thanks to the state's revived economy, North Carolina school teachers will receive a pay supplement check within the next few weeks.

The State Board of Education Thursday cleared the way for the pay boost. The 1957 Legislature authorized the contingent supplement for the 1958-59 fiscal year if revenues were sufficient to provide the necessary $1,219,495.

The pay supplement will be about $35 for the average teacher. Checks will be dated Aug. 25 and will be distributed by local units.

School supervisors and building principals, who are paid as teachers plus an amount for principalship, will share in the extra money. The supplement will not go to substitute teachers, classified principals, or vocational teachers paid on an hourly rate for teaching adult or evening classes.

Meanwhile, the board set up machinery for three additional days of supplement for school teachers. Two days will be added at the beginning of the term and one at the end. This will permit teachers to handle school work in connection with the opening and closing of school.

The board also approved regulation for an experiment in television teaching, which will continue the program as it has been conducted with support of the Ford Foundation's Fund for the Advancement of Education. The 1959 Legislature appropriated $75,000 to continue the in-school TV experiment for the current biennium.

Phony Name Gets Approval

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (AP)—Lt. Col. Jay Casagrande was enroute to a new assignment at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base at Tucson and stopped to spend the night at Casa Grande.

When he signed the register as Col. Casagrande and wife, the motel owner protested.

"I'm tired of people signing phony names, Sign correctly," Casagrande argued, but to no avail.

He signed again and was allowed to spend the night. His second registration card read, "Mr. and Mrs. George Washington."

State Withholding Tax Plan Explained Revenue Agents

CHARLOTTE (AP)— Today might be a good day to send a sympathy card to that bachelor friend of yours who's making $150 a week.

He may not be sick now, but he may be in pain come Jan. 1 when the state takes a $5.28 bite out of that check every week. It depends on his long range view.

The pleasant part of the whole business comes in April, 1961, when he doesn't have to dig up a chunk of cash to pay his state income tax.

The state's income tax withholding law was explained to revenue agents here Wednesday.

The withholding tax law goes into effect Jan. 1. Employees will deduct the state tax from paychecks, just as they already do for U.S. income tax.

Suppose that man who makes $150 a week is married but has no children. The tax will amount to $4.19 a week. With one child, it would be $3.90 and with two children $3.33.

State Revenue Commissioner James Currie said NC-4 forms will be distributed to employers.

These will be filled out by employees, who will list marital status and number of dependents.

Self employed persons must file declarations of estimate income, as they do now for the federal government.

The individual state tax rate has not been changed. It's 3 per cent on the first 2,000, or fraction, of net income; 4 per cent on the next $2,000; 5 per cent on the next $2,000; 6 per cent on the

Organized For Successful Competition

Greenville's Committee of 100, now officially organized and its officers elected, becomes another agency to exert its efforts in helping the community realize greater economic achievement.

Like other similar groups which have been organized in Pitt's communities, the Greenville Committee of 100 adds strength to the overall effort of Pitt to raise its economic level. While each community group is primarily interested in its own community, all of the community organizations collectively strengthen the development effort of the county as a whole.

To some degree they may, from time to time compete with each other. More often than not, however, they will work hand-in-hand with each other and the county-wide Development Commission to strengthen the county's economic growth.

The degree to which interest in the county's development has grown is indicated by the number of these community groups organized in recent months. In addition to the Greenville organization, similar groups recently have become active in Ayden, Grifton, Winterville, Grimesland, Fountain and Bethel. Farmville, of course, has had an active organization for several years and that community as visibly profited by the excellent work of the group.

Individually, these groups place their respective communities in an advantageous position to quickly move into action when an industrial prospect expresses interest. Collectively, they place Pitt in a position to offer any prospective industry a variety of communities and locations in which to set up new operations.

In the competitive field of industrial development, good organization seems to be one of the keys to success. Pitt County in recent months has made significant strides in organizing itself to compete successfully with other counties of this and other states.

Demos Have Edge In Planning Attack

With 1960 national political conventions less than a year away now, speculation still runs over a broad field when the question of a Democratic nominee comes up.

Not so in the question of a Republican nominee. Most of the veteran political observers agree the GOP will name either Vice President Nixon or perhaps New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller. In most cases, Nixon appears to have the lead.

In the Democratic fold, however, the story is altogether different. The question of a party presidential nominee still brings forth at least a half-dozen names, any one of which—or perhaps none of which—could receive the nomination. Kennedy, Stevenson, Johnson, Symington, Humphrey, Brown, Williams, Meyner and others are regular names in most lists. Although Kennedy at the moment might appear to have an edge, there is nothing concrete to indicate he has sufficient support at the moment to come close to getting the nomination.

With only two principal contenders to concentrate on, it would seem the Republicans have an edge so far as promoting the man who is most likely to carry GOP colors in the presidential campaign. On the other hand, this might well prove a liability. It also gives the Democrats—looking to 1960 also—only two men to crack down on in the pre-campaign campaigning which will take place between now and next summer.

If the Republicans attempt to set their sights on the man who may get the Democratic nomination, they'll have to attack a whole field.

Unless the 1960 presidential campaign is different from previous campaigns, both Democrats and Republicans will spend as much time talking about the opposing party's nominee—in not-so-complimentary terms—as they do praising the nominee of their own party. Even at this early date, Democrats can be fairly safe in concentrating such attacks on Nixon and Rockefeller. Republicans will have to wait further developments in the Democratic party before selecting their prime targets for attack.

In the period between now and next summer, this factor may give the Democrats a distinct advantage in laying groundwork for the real campaign push which will come between July and November. At least the Democrats know pretty well who their opponent will be in the presidential race next year, and they can plan accordingly. For a while, Republican leaders cannot make such plans to oppose the Democratic nominee.

Congressional Redistricting

By LYNN NISBET

REDISTRICTING — It becomes more certain every day that the 1960 General Assembly will have to do something about redistricting the state for congressional representation, even though it may continue to ignore the constitutional mandate for reapportionment of representation in the Legislature.

Your reporter is indebted to Rep. Carl T. Durham of the sixth district for copy of a memorandum issued by Robert W. Burgess, director of the census, outlining procedure for congressional apportionment. The 13 original States were allotted 65 representatives in the Constitution. After the first census of 1790 the size of the House of Representatives was increased to 105 and seats were added as new States were admitted. Through 1910, the size of the House was increased after following census, except 1940, when the membership was reduced temporarily. Since the 1910 census, membership in the House has remained fixed at 435.

With the admission of Alaska as a State in 1958, membership in the House was increased temporarily to 436, to make provision for "at least one representative" as required by the Constitution, and it will rise to a temporary 437 total with the admission of Hawaii this year. Under the current law, the size of the House will revert to 435 seats after the new population figures for the States are determined by the 1960 census.

Mr. Burgess sets out procedure for allotting these members as follows:

"The census is to be taken as of April 1, 1960. According to law (Title 13, U.S.C., 141), the Secretary of Commerce must transmit to the President by December 1, 1960, the official population total for every State and computation showing the number of Representatives for each State which results from the census. These computations are carried out according to the formula prescribed by law, known as the method of equal proportions, and are for a House of 235 members.

"The President is required by law (Title 2, U.S.C., 2a) to transmit a message to the Congress giving the census figures and the apportionment resulting therefrom. This message is to be sent within the first week of the first regular session in 1961.

"Unless the Congress takes action to the contrary within 15 days of the receipt of the message from the President, this apportionment becomes effective. The Clerk of the House then informs the Executive of each State how many members his State will have in the House of Representatives in the next Congress. The apportionment becomes effective in the election for the 88th Congress, in November 1962. The Congress, of course, can set aside the apportionment, or modify it, at any time, since this is a matter of legislation.

"The steps taken by the States to redistrict, as necessary, are entirely within their own jurisdiction. If after the new apportionment is effective a State fails to redistrict, three situations may exist:

(a) If the number of seats is equal to the number of districts, the old districts continue.

(b) If the number of seats exceeds the number of districts, the additional seats are to be filled through election at large.

(c) If the number of seats is less than the number of districts, all Representatives are to be elected at large.

FLUCTUATING — It seems practically certain that North Carolina will lose a seat in Congress unless the total membership of the House is increased. There may be considerable effort made to increase total membership, since the eastern States will be reluctant to lose voting strength in Congress, and more particularly in the electoral college for electing a President.

Since 1940 fourteen states have lost representatives, eleven have gained, involving a total of 22 seats. California was the big gainer, three after the 1940 census and seven after the 1950 count. Florida gained one after 1940, two more after 1950. (Forecast is that California will gain eight or nine, and Florida perhaps three more, after 1960.) Besides California's ten and Florida's three, the following States gained one each since 1940: Arizona, Maryland, Michigan, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oregon, Texas, Virginia and Washington.

Pennsylvania lost four seats, Oklahoma lost three, Illinois, Missouri and New York two each; Arkansas, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Nebraska and Ohio, one each.

Five States—Delaware, Nevada, Vermont, Wyoming and Alaska—have only one member each in the present House.

MUST — Significant provision in the present law is that if North Carolina loses a seat, and the General Assembly fails to redistrict prior to the 1962 election, then all eleven Representatives will have to be voted upon by the State at large just as Senators are now elected. That provision makes redistricting a must. And while at it, the Legislature might just as well go on and revamp State senatorial and solicitorial districts.

Ticket Sales Headaches

According to reports going around, the Jaycees had quite an ordeal with the so-called "agents" who were sent to Greenville to help promote ticket sales for the Clyde Beatty Circus which will be sponsored by the local Junior Chamber Group in early September.

Some of the ticket committees were definitely flabbergasted at some of the antics carried on by the circus' "forerunners."

It came to light last night at the Jaycees' regular meeting that both the agents had been given an "unconditional release" from further ticket sales (or other activity in the Greenville area.

It seems that these agents, were very acutely bent — especially "bent" on selling stacks and stacks of tickets to persons who, in the first place, didn't particularly want so many and, secondly, didn't even know they were buying them.

According to the committee spokesman's report, here's something like what was going on: One of the guys (we'll call him Jack) who seemed to be the most disagreeable, provoking, and perverse, was approaching potential ticket-buyers in this manner:

He would call a phone number. If anyone answered, he'd try to sell them a book of 100 tickets. If the person didn't want "quite that many," old Jack'd offer to "break regulations" to allow a smaller purchase or either "just happen to know somebody" who'd split a book with him.

Now this is a wonderful way to recruit an impressive list of outgoing tickets, but it's a heck of a way to collect money for them. Anyway, the main object of selling tickets is to get hold of that "long and folding green."

Another of Jack's pet tricks was to call some of the wealthier set and prey upon their consciences to donate something like 100 tickets to dependent or crippled children. This was okay, but the closing statement was something like: "Now be sure you give those tickets to children who can't afford to buy 'em,

'cause, if you give 'em to somebody who can buy his own, that's a ticket we ain't gonna sell." Is that sly? Well, check this one:

Jack'd call somebody like — well, let's say a service station operator. He'd say: "Just think, Mack, how much you'll benefit if you'll buy these 100 tickets. With all them 150 Jaycees up yonder—every last one of 'em will be down at your place in no time filling up with gas."

Then he'd say: "But, of course, on the other hand, you'd really hate to have 150 furious men on your neck, wouldn't you, Mac? Maybe you better buy those tickets."

Well, so went the brief episode of the ticket salesmen. If space permitted, there could be much more included here — boy, would everybody could have heard it all — but maybe there's enough here to give a general picture of the cause for considerable Jaycee headaches.

Quite recently, the ticket committee gave its foreign ticket salesmen the boot, and will begin to do their own ticket-peddling for the September circus.

Apparently, the committee thinks they'll have smooth sailing from now on.

But just think — all the apologies the Jaycees will be making in the next few days for a couple of dudes who came in here and all but loused up the whole campaign!

Sisters Started In Choir

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—The McGuire sisters started singing in an Ohio church choir just 25 years ago.

The beanpole-slender youngsters of 1934 now are the highest paid girl trio in show business today, and perhaps of all time. The one thing most people want to know about them—particularly people who come from large families—is now they settle their quarrels.

The answer is simple. They settle their disputes the same way the U.S. Congress does—by majority rule.

"Our policy is that if two agree on anything the other has to give in," said Phyllis, who acts as spokesman for the girls, although she has the least seniority.

"We generally manage to keep out of each other's hair. But occasionally we do have arguments. When we do we speak our piece, take a vote—and forget it."

"But we try to avoid the friction that might come from being together too much. On the road we stay in separate rooms, and meet just before the show."

As in any household, each of the sisters has her own chores. Chris, the eldest, picks the wardrobe. Dorothy, whom the other refer to as "the normal one," handles the props. She also acted as family treasurer until the trio hired a business manager. They have recorded nearly 300 songs. Teen-age polls rate them the top trio. They have sold more than 10 million records.

They started out at $210 a week. This year, one soft drink firm alone is paying them $250,000 — plus all the soda they can swallow — for a year's supply of TV and radio commercials.

They also spend some 20 weeks a year on the supper club circuit.

Their smash success hasn't turned any of the girls' heads. Here is their reaction to it: Dorothy—"You're public property. You have no privacy. Your life is not your own."

Phyllis — "You can't take backward steps, but success has proved more than I bargained for. I've learned that success is getting what you want, but happiness is wanting what you get. But right now I'm still riding on cloud No. 9 — and looking for flying saucers."

Chris—"Success is something you strive to get, but when you get it you don't have it. It has you."

The McGuire sisters have one thing that sets them apart from most entertainers. They pay 10 per cent of their income to an agent — but they also just as regularly give another 10 per cent to the church in whose choir they first sang together as children a quarter of a century ago.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
CAN THIS BE TRUE?

It is amazing the extent to which Christian workers and particularly workers among young people, maintain that there is a tremendous amount of blasphemy going the rounds these days. This is something more than profane swearing. It is profane swearing of that lurid variety which makes even the most worldly people wince. It is an attitude toward divine realities characterized by disdain, ridicule, and hatred.

Is it true that we are having a resurgence of this sort of thing today? Christian workers seem to think it is. They say that there are any number of people with whom they come in contact who go out of their way to be as offensive and degrading as they can when they refer to divine things.

If this is true, then it is quite alarming. For while swearing— which had enough— involves carelessness and a disregard of sacred things, blasphemy is a positive attack against all that is holy. If God were not merciful to the weak and careless, most of us would perish morally. But what must be the attitude of God toward those who definitely go out of their way to be offensive and hostile toward God, sacred truth, the action of the divine spirit, in the lives of men. This is blasphemy.

If it is as prevalent as some people say it is, then we may well be alarmed.

What Will They Talk About?

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — What will President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev talk about when they exchange visits? Berlin, that's for sure. If it were not for Berlin, there probably would be no meeting at all now.

And three of the four main problems they discussed the last time they met—at the 1955 Geneva summit conference — are still pressing points of conflict: German reunification, American bases overseas, and disarmament.

Geneva dissolved one of them. One thing discussed there in 1955 was improved: cultural and scientific exchange between the United States and the Soviet Union.

The two men are playing down the idea they will negotiate. American Allies understandably may feel uneasy for fear of deals when the two giants, the United States and the Soviet Union sit down together.

Eisenhower is going to Europe to talk with the Allies before he meets Khrushchev in September. But the two leaders are not meeting to play beanbag.

They don't have to call what they do negotiating. They can use a less sensitive word by saying they are trying to reach an "understanding." The effect would be the same.

But an understanding is not necessarily a flat agreement. After reaching an understanding with Khrushchev, Eisenhower could delay any flat agreement or commitment until he got Allied approval.

Yet, except for some understanding which eases tension over Berlin, it's hard to see Eisenhower and Khrushchev at this time settling any of those three major problems which separated East and West at Geneva and still do.

"It's a good bet Eisenhower will not build up American hopes for great results, or even any results, from the upcoming talks. He had one lesson on this — the Geneva summit conference — and got burnt.

Other Editors Saying Escalated Era Here

Wichita Falls Times

A great many things are at stake in the steel shutdown but its effect on the nation's economy and inflation and the federal purse, which comprise the general subjects of commentary on the steel crisis, do not cover a further point which Business Week magazine sees in the situation. "An era — of escalation for all" is being brought to an end, the magazine says, regardless of the final outcome of the negotiations.

Escalator clauses which provide automatic pay increase tied to the government consumer living cost index barometer have been a feature of some of the major contracts entered into by management and labor. "Why—after the years of fun for all, years of high employment and economic growth — need the era end?" Business Week asks. "Was any one really hurt — since there was formal or informal escalation for all: escalated wage boosts for labor, escalated price boosts for agriculture and business, escalated tax revenues for government, even escalated pensions for social security beneficiaries? Why not let the happy whirl go on?"

The magazine gives two reasons which it says have been "painfully driven home to business, to government and even to the workers. There's growing evidence that the U.S. is in danger of becoming a relatively high-cost, inefficient producer — and this can mean continuing loss of markets at home abroad to more efficient foreign producers. Spreading knowledge of the effects of inflation on savings is making increasingly tough to manage our public debt without causing further inflation and dangerously feeding the speculative fervor of the people."

Both Great Britain and France, our major allies, already have passed the turning point to end inflationary wage settlements and to eliminate wage-price escalation. The principal thought behind this tougher line on wages, Business Week says, is recognition of the fact that the "inflationary game has become self-defeating."

Steel companies have served notice that the escalator has stopped running. If they make it stick, and the resistance against escalator clauses spreads, it will remove at least one built-in device that could be a contributing factor to more inflation. Its effect in this regard, both real and psychological, will be watched with nationwide interest.

Israel Stepping Up Its Appeal

By ELMER ROESSNER

Israel is stepping up its appeals to foreign investors. A revised "Law for the Encouragement of Capital Investment" is now before the Knesset (parliament) and passage is expected in the next few weeks, according to advices received here.

The law will liberalize a capital investment act passed nine years ago. It will provide substantial new inducements to investors, ranging from tax exemptions to accelerated repatriation of profits.

While foreign investors are now allowed to take only up to 10 per cent of their investment out of the country in the form of profits in any single year, the new bill would allow them to transfer abroad all profits. In addition, the bill would exempt dividends from income taxes for five years, and would offer other benefits to investors. The Israeli government is attempting to bring about an investment in industry of $110,000,000 a year for the next ten years. At present, the annual capital investment in industry and mining is around $86,000,000, of which 40 per cent comes from government funds.

Investment in the Israeli economy by Americans has averaged $10,000,000 a year for the last nine years with an accelerated flow in the last two years.

This rise in American investment in Israel enterprises is largely due to "definite improvement in the general economic conditions," according to spokesmen for the Palestine Economic Corp. of New York, a 34-year-old company now devoted entirely to Israel investments. The company has put $17,000,000 into Israeli industry, agriculture, banking, finance and commercial concerns.

Its latest investment consists of $2,500,000 in a syndicate which has just acquired a concession to own and operate a $20,000,000 16-inch oil pipeline from Elath on the Gulf of Aqaba to Haifa on the Mediterranean. This 257-mile pipeline is expected to be completed in July.

There is more than passing economic significance to this project. It will permit the transportation of oil from somewhere east of Suez to Europe, North Africa and the Western Hemisphere without paying Suez Canal tolls to the Egyptian government.

Ships will be able to pick up oil in Arabian and other Middle Eastern ports, take it to Elath and discharge cargoes. The oil can be refined at Haifa and refined or not, be shipped on westward.

Arab nations under Egyptian influence will undoubtedly resist such a system, but the promoters think there will be enough "free oil to keep the pipeline full. If so, it will make Israel stronger, economically and politically, in dealing with the United Arab Republic.

INTERNATIONAL SITUATION IS FIT TO KILL
There's a grim note in "Economic Affairs," a New York University economic newsletter edited by Haig Babian, of the N.Y.U. Institute of Economic Affairs. It says:

"As Dickens once put it, this is surely the best of times and the worst of times. A few years from now men shall be traveling to the moon in 1959. One day men could go from London to Paris only fifty years ago. Yet we stand on the brink of international disaster, perilously poised above the abyss of a war that no one says he wants. There is grandeur and stupidity in this era of ours. Like so many preceding eras, it has the making of a comic opera—the kind where audiences could die laughing."

Life--Vanity or Victory

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture--Ecclesiastes.

Solomon, King David's son, called the Preacher, wrote: "Vanity of vanities; all is vanity. What profit hath a man of all his labour? ..."

"When thou vowest a vow unto God, defer not to pay it. Better is it that thou shouldst not vow, than that thou shouldst vow and not pay. Suffer not thy mouth to cause thy flesh to sin."--Eccles. 5:4-6.

Solomon warned against the vanity of wealth. "He that loveth silver shall not be satisfied with silver; nor he that loveth abundance with increase: this is also vanity. ..."

"It is good and comely for one to eat and to drink, and to enjoy the good of all his labour all the days of his life, which God giveth him."--Eccles. 5:18-19. MEMORY VERSE--Proverbs 23:17.

Vanity Or Victory?

A WISE MAN FINDS THAT WISDOM, PLEASURE AND GREAT ACHIEVEMENTS DO NOT SATISFY. ONLY THE RECOGNITION OF GOD MAKES LIFE WORTHWHILE.

Scripture--Ecclesiastes.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL THE ENTIRE BOOK OF Ecclesiastes is much too long to be covered in one lesson, so I will follow Dr. Wilbur M. Smith's suggestion in his Peloubet's Select Notes, and quote Ecclesiastes 6:1-2, 4-6, 8-12, 18-19. The teachers, of course, will read the entire book before they decide what is most important to stress to the pupils.

The Bible says that the book was written by "the Preacher, the son of David, king in Jerusalem."--Ecclesiastes 1:1. Dr. Smith writes that "many modern writers deny the author as Solomon, but no one else was ever suggested who satisfactorily meets all the requirements of authorship that this book demands."

"Vanity of vanities . . . all is vanity," are the opening words of Solomon, the wise son of the good King David--Ecclesiastes 1:1-2. "Keep thy foot when thou goest to the house of God, and be more ready to hear, than to give the sacrifice of fools. . . . Be not rash with thy mouth, and let not thine eyes be hasty to utter any thing before God: for God is in heaven, and thou upon earth: therefore let thy words be few."--Ecclesiastes 5:1-2. Do not most of us talk too much, even when we are in our place of worship? Let us keep quiet and meditate on our behavior during the past week, asking ourselves if we have lived according to our ideals and asking God to forgive us if we have not, and asking Him for strength to do better.

"When thou vowest a vow to God, defer not to pay it; for he hath no pleasure in fools: pay that which thou hast vowed."--Eccles. 5:4. "Suffer not thy mouth to cause thy flesh to sin; neither say thou before the angel, that it was an error: wherefore should God be angry at thy voice, and destroy the work of thine hands? For in the multitude of dreams and many words there are also vanity."

that the children, both young and older, might be introduced to the lesson by a story which he read in which a man, born into a poor family, gained wealth and fame by his industry. When he was old, however, he asked over and over, "Is life worth living? What is it all about?"

Is it vanity if a man works hard, enjoys the fruits thereof, and thanks God for it? I think not, and so did the wise Solomon. "Behold that which I have seen: it is good and comely for one to eat and to drink, and to enjoy the good for all the days of his life, which God giveth him; for it is his portion."--Eccles. 5:18-19. We may take honest pride in good work done, but we need not be vain and boastful about our accomplishments as some are. And we will find life is worthwhile if we trust in God, live righteously and remain humble.

Carolina Dairy Eliminated By Last Inning Rally

Graniteers In Finals Tonight

ECC Coaches Have Busy Month Ahead

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of articles written by Coach Jack Boone of East Carolina College, previewing the 1959 football season.

By COACH JACK BOONE A NEW SEASON

I am very happy to write for the next few days on the subject of football, and especially football at East Carolina College. I hope to go over some of the things that pertain to the school, coaches, players, and football in general. Some things will be humorous, some sad, and some plain hard unadorned work, and even heartbreak at times. Many factors are important in moulding a unit of forty or more players into a well-oiled machine that will function efficiently.

For the past few months our coaches have been busy with the many details of getting a team on the field. It is my personal feeling that no coach looks upon these chores with delight, but he knows they are very essential if he hopes to put a representative team on the field in the fall.

At the present time we have sent out 69 invitations to football players—forty-seven of them will report Sunday, August 30. The remaining twenty-two freshmen will report September 2 for the College Orientation program, and will report for official practice on September 7. We have found it beneficial to get our freshmen started right, adjusted to the college campus, and get classes arranged before putting them through the rigorous pre-season training drills.

It is a must that we keep these freshmen busy as no one would ever dream we coaches are plagued with a common disease called "home sickness," which has taken many outstanding stars out of school before ever attending a class.

Most of our pre-season details are behind us. The many letters have gone out to our boys encouraging them to come in good shape, schedules have been sent to coaches, press, TV, and radio. The stencils have been run-off with the precious gems of offense and defense—I know Mrs. Dickens, our secretary, will be glad to get rid of all of us! In fact, outside of the coaches, she is the only person who knows what plays and defenses we will be using this fall. She has pledged to keep this top secret!!

Anyway it feels good to have these things out of the way. A few clinics are still left and two more All-Star games are to be watched by our staff. The main thing is to keep checking on our new boys from time to time because hunting season is still on — up until the boy registers in school. Never will I forget the three boys I lost to larger schools on the 31st of August. I went by car to pick them up, but it seems a free airplane ride was more fascinating to them! Maybe, I should buy an airplane!!!

Tomorrow's article—Reporting In and Getting Underway for the Season.

White Sox And Orioles Play 1-1 Tie, Indians Whip Senators

Caps Win Close One, Keep One Game Loop Lead

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox and Baltimore Orioles can put in for overtime pay after struggling through 18 innings—the longest game of the season—with nothing to show for their work except a 1-1 tie, stopped by the curfew law.

Baltimore has a special curfew that permits no innings to start after 11:59 Baltimore time. They were just getting into No. 18 at that time.

Hoyt Wilhelm, relieving Billy O'Dell in the ninth, pitched 8 2-3 hitless innings and wound up by allowing only two singles in a 10-inning workout.

Billy Pierce, Chicago's stylish left-hander, had the longest tour of duty of any major league pitcher this season when he worked the first 16 innings. Turk Lown came on to finish it.

Wilhelm was thrown out at the plate in the 15th, when the Orioles had three hits. The pitcher was trying to score from second on Billy Klaus' single to left.

Wilhelm's knuckleball got Baltimore in a jam in the 18th. A combination of a single by Sam Esposito, a passed ball, an intentional walk and another passed ball by catcher Joe Ginsberg on Wilhelm's knuckler put men on second and third with two out. He worked his way out when Billy Gardner raced back from second to take Al Smith's bloopier in short right.

In the last of the 18th, Willie Tasby singled with one out. He moved to second on an infield out, but Walt Dropo bounced out.

Tonight's games: Durham at Winston-Salem, Raleigh at Burlington and Greensboro at Wilson.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Raleigh's Caps pulled another close game out of the fire Thursday night to maintain their one-game lead in the Carolina League.

The Caps, which defeated Winston-Salem 6-5 Wednesday night, repeated by the same score Thursday in a 10-inning thriller to sweep their two-game series at Raleigh.

A long single by Yogi Hergenrader scored Dean Robbins from second with two away to win the game. Merlin Nippert came on in the sixth to relieve Ben Tench with the bases loaded, none out and the score tied at 4-4. He held the Red Birds scoreless until the ninth when they got an unearned run.

An error by first baseman Jerry Webb allowed the winning run to score as Wilson edged Burlington 3-2. Webb erreded Larry Elliott's grounder, allowing Mervyn Lerner to race home with the winning run.

Sanderlin Meets Lenoir In Net Finals Today

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Dave Sanderlin of El Cajon, Calif., the surprise of the National Jaycee Tennis Tournament, today faced his toughest test in top-seeded Bill Lenoir of Tucson, Ariz.

Sanderlin was a last minute replacement for the junior division fourth-seeded Ramsey Earnhart of Ventura, Calif. It was too late to juggle the pairings, so Sanderlin was left in the No. 4 spot.

He proved he deserved the rating Thursday by winning a quarterfinal match from fifth-seeded Henry Kamakana of Honolulu 5-7, 8-6, 6-1.

Lenoir breezed into the semifinals with a 6-2, 6-0 victory over Keith Stoneman of Greenville, S. C., the last unseeded player in the running.

Ferrier, Cooper Lead In Tourney

CLEVELAND (AP) — Long absent and colorful Jim Ferrier was back in the golfing wars today, his potent putter as hot as ever.

The Australian-born 1947 PGA champion gave up the tour some five years ago in favor of teaching. He settled in California, made infrequent appearances in the near-Hollywood events and hasn't won a tournament since 1952.

But the 44-year-old pitch-and-putt master from Down Under was tied for the top today as the $25,000 Cleveland Open wheeled into the second of four 18-hole rounds.

Deedlocked with him was Pete Cooper, 44, of Lakeland, Fla. Each fired a 67, four under par at Seneca Golf Club's 6,966-yard layout.

The two veteran campaigners—each a pro for more than 20 years—used their putting skill to stave off par and younger opponents.

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP)—Ken Folkes of Concord, N.C., Thursday fired a 36-39-75 over the famed par 72 Pebble Beach golf course in a special one-day consolation event for first round losers in the USA National Junior tourney at Stanford University.

Bob Kostelecky of LaJolla, Calif., was runnerup with 40-38-78. Four tied for third with 80s including Mike Dawes of Greenville, S.C., and Randy Glover of Cheraw, S.C.

ROANOKE RAPIDS—A last-inning rally by Seymour Johnson last night sent Carolina Dairy soaring to their second consecutive defeat and eliminated them from the district softball tournament.

Carolina Dairy, defending champions of the district, saw a two-run lead go down the drain in the bottom half of the seventh inning as the Goldsboro outfit scored three unearned runs to post a 6-5 win and advance into tonight's finals against the Graniteers of Greenville.

Tonight will mark the Finals of the double elimination event and starting time will be at 7:30. If the Graniteers win the game, it will be all over but in the case that the Seymour Johnson should win, a second game would be played at 9:00.

The Dairy opened strong, scoring two runs in the first inning. Boyd walked and Carpenter reached base on an error to start things off. Outland hit a long fly for the first out and then Brownie Trip, a thorn for Seymour Johnson pitching, hit a single, scoring both runners.

Tripp kept his club out front

East-West Gridiron Tilt Features Running, Passing

GREENSBORO (AP) — Hard running halfbacks, needle threading passers and rock ribbed line play could turn tonight's East-West high school all-star game into one of the best in the 11-year history of the event.

The starting halfbacks for the West will be a pair of touchdown twins — Cecil Lowery of Brevard and Mark Leggett of Asheville. The two scored 44 touchdowns between them last year.

Hal Beaver of Myers Park will open at quarterback and fully Dunham of Winston-Salem at fullback.

The starting East backfield will have plenty of its own power in quarterback Junior Edge of Mass. Hill, halfbacks Jimmy Addison of Durham and Ed Throver of Rockingham, and fullback Joe McLamb of Clinton.

Sanderlin Meets Lenoir In Net Finals Today

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Dave Sanderlin of El Cajon, Calif., the surprise of the National Jaycee Tennis Tournament, today faced his toughest test in top-seeded Bill Lenoir of Tucson, Ariz.

Sanderlin was a last minute replacement for the junior division fourth-seeded Ramsey Earnhart of Ventura, Calif. It was too late to juggle the pairings, so Sanderlin was left in the No. 4 spot.

He proved he deserved the rating Thursday by winning a quarterfinal match from fifth-seeded Henry Kamakana of Honolulu 5-7, 8-6, 6-1.

Heavyweight Champ Will Defend Title

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS, France (AP) — World Heavyweight Champion Ingemar Johansson said today he is ready and willing to meet Floyd Patterson in their title return bout in New York on Sept. 22.

The champion said in an airport interview he came to Paris Thursday to discuss the muddled heavyweight situation with Bill Rosensohn, promoter of the June heavyweight title bout in which the Swede dethroned Patterson with a third round knockout.

Asked if he would meet Patterson in a rematch on Sept. 22 at New York's Yankee Stadium, Johansson replied:

"Yes, that's the way it looks now."

When Johansson arrived Thursday he went into seclusion. News-men were unable to locate him, and where he met with Rosensohn remained a secret.

He was vague about where the meeting with Rosensohn took place. Was it the plush hotel (Prince De Galles) where New York's Truman Gibson, head of National Boxing Enterprises stayed?

Johansson replied:

"I didn't notice where we were. I had a long talk with Mr. Rosensohn and I didn't notice the surroundings."

Rosensohn himself still was among the missing.

Gibson denied his presence in Paris had anything to do with fighting.

Back in New York the district attorney's office continued its investigation of the promotion of the Johansson-Patterson June fight by questioning Charley Black, pal of Gus D'Amato, manager of Patterson.

These were the late developments in the baffling picture of the promotion of the June 26 affair and plans for the rematch, which tentatively had been scheduled for Sept. 22.

Edwin Ahlquist, Johansson's advisor, previously announced he and Ingemar would fly to New York "some day next week" to discuss fight plans and find out what all the squabble is about.

Gibson, who with Johansson and Rosensohn did a disappearing act shortly after arriving in Paris,

Champ Ready For Title Match

NEW YORK (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson has agreed to defend his title in a Massachusetts version of the world middleweight championship against Paul Pender at Boston.

The scheduled 15-rounder, announced Thursday night by promoter Sam Silverman, has been set for the first week in December but the exact night has not been determined.

Robinson, whose middleweight crown no longer is recognized by the National Boxing Assn., will be defending his title as far as the Massachusetts commission is concerned, according to Silverman.

Hardy, Nobles Star; Rose Hill Beats Top Team

Rose Hill knocked off loop-leading Winterville Baptist, 11-8, last night and Piney Grove had an easy time in downing Bethany, 17-4.

Floyd Hardy and Red Nobles led the Rose Hill in their victory with three hits apiece. The latter had two doubles and a triple. Mac Worthington had two hits in a losing cause.

Jimmy Mills and N. Craft belted homers to pace the Piney Grove club to an easy win. They collected only five hits but has the aid of 15 base on balls in building up their large score.

More 'Old Line' Varieties To Be On Local Markets

By W. L. WHEDBEE, Supervisor, Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, Inc.

Customers who place their orders on the Greenville Tobacco Market this year will be pleased to find on its warehouse floors a much larger percentage of the standard old line varieties of tobacco than they have seen in many, many years.

Pitt County, along with other counties from which the Greenville Tobacco Market draws tobacco for its auction sales, this year has planted less of the new type varieties and more of the old line varieties of tobacco.

No area will have for its many tobacco customers more of the standard old type tobacco in 1959 than the Greenville area.

Our tobacco farmers are well aware of the increasing worldwide demand for these old line tobacco and the consequent advantages of raising them to supply this demand.

Our farmers will do everything in their power to supply exactly the type tobaccos that the tobacco trade wants and in sufficient volume to fill its needs.

Pitt County tobacco farmers are specialists in their field. They are uniquely favored by nature with perfect soil and climate and can produce tobaccos in almost unlimited quantities, with any desired characteristics.

With a substantial increase in the amount of old line varieties and a decrease in the percentage of new type tobaccos which will be appearing on our warehouse floors this year, the Greenville Tobacco Market should be the perfect market for both export and domestic customers, in 1959.

Also our farmers have become more and more careful in the handling and grading of their tobacco in order that our many customers may get exactly what they want from every order that is placed in Greenville.

Our farmers have also returned to the old time cultural practices of proper topping, suckering, spacing and fertilization. These are the varieties and the practices, which, over the years, have produced in our area flue-cured tobacco that has been famous all over the world because of its outstanding body, flavor and aroma.

Each year the U. S. Government makes allocation of the number of acres of flue-cured tobacco permitted to be grown in each county. In 1959, as it has for many years, Pitt County, whose greatest tobacco market is Greenville, has again received the largest tobacco acreage allotment (25,147 acres) in the entire U.S.A.

Every pound of tobacco produced in Pitt County, however, is not sufficient to make up the total pounds of tobacco sold each year in Greenville.

Each year to this home production is added many more millions of pounds of tobacco which are brought by farmers from adjoining counties to the Greenville Tobacco Market for sale.

W. L. WHEDBEE

Greenville Tobacco Market's fine record of annual sales, which since 1935 have varied from 43,807,402 to 79,045,070 pounds of tobacco bears testimony of the popularity of the Greenville Market with the tobacco farmers in this entire bright leaf, flue-cured area.

Last season, sales on the Greenville Tobacco Market increased substantially over sales for the previous season. This increase in producers sales for one year only amounted to over 11 million pounds of tobacco, or a 28% increase in sales in 1958. Last year was indeed a good year for the Greenville Tobacco Market and we are looking forward to an even better year in 1959.

Greenville operates five sets of buyers simultaneously, every sales day, over its warehouse floors.

There are 19 tobacco warehouses and 12 warehouse firms in Greenville.

When the tobacco market opens in August, representatives of all the tobacco buying companies in the world will be here in Greenville anxiously awaiting their chance for competitive bidding for the world's finest bright leaf tobacco.

Set out here is a list of their respective Presidents and Branch Managers: American Suppliers, O. L. Hull, Branch Manager; Export Leaf Tobacco Company, L. T. Shotwell, Branch Manager; E. B. Ficklen Tobacco Company, L. S. Ficklen, President Greenville Tobacco Company, C. W. Howard Jr., President; Imperial Tobacco Company, Ltd., Jesse R. Moye Jr., Branch Manager; International Tobacco Company, Inc., P. K. Andersen, President; Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company, Jack Cobb, Branch Manager; Person-Garrett Company, W. S. Bost, President; and R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Lawrence Reese, Branch Manager.

The entire tobacco world knows and honors L. S. Ficklen, President of E. B. Ficklen Tobacco Company, C. W. Howard Jr., President of Greenville Tobacco Company; W. S. Bost, President of Person-Garrett Company, Inc., and P. K. Andersen, President of International Tobacco Company, Inc. You will not find four men who are more highly respected by the entire tobacco profession.

These four experienced independent companies pride themselves in being the finest graders, handlers and processors of leaf tobacco in the world. Each of these four companies is staffed with capable and experienced tobacco men. They know exactly the types and grades of tobacco their many customers want. Their men are particularly adept at securing them.

For them, perfection in purchasing an order is not enough. They are equipped with the finest and most modern machinery obtainable at any price. They are operated by skilled workers. By infinite attention, to even the smallest details, Greenville's four independent companies follow perfection of purchase on the warehouse floors with perfect processing in their modern plants.

With recent improvements to their plants and equipment, they are now prepared in this same satisfactory manner to buy, process and put in hogsheads almost an unlimited amount of tobacco on orders of any kind. I am listing below a brief sketch of each of these firms.

E. B. Ficklen Tobacco Company, Inc., established in 1886, is one of the oldest companies serving the tobacco trade. Now in its 63rd year of furnishing quality packed tobaccos to foreign markets throughout the world and doing a substantial domestic business, the facilities of the company have been improved and enlarged over the years.

The company was founded by E. B. Ficklen who served as its head until his death in 1925. He was succeeded by James S. Ficklen who served as President from 1925 until his death in September, 1955. L. S. Ficklen, formerly Vice President, was elected President in October, 1955, which office he now holds. L. S. Ficklen is a past President of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade and is currently Treasurer of the Leaf Tobacco Exporters Association. He is chairman of the executive committee of the Leaf Tobacco Exporters Association and is a member of the board of governors of the Tobacco Association of United States.

James S. Ficklen Jr. is Vice President and Treasurer of E. B. Ficklen Tobacco Company, Inc., and is past President of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade. He also is a member of the board of governors of the T.A.U.S.

A. C. Ruffin is Vice President and Supervisor of Buying and past President of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade; J. T. Chestnut Jr. and C. C. Skinner are assistant Vice Presidents; O. L. Alexander is Secretary; and E. O. Parkinson Jr. is assistant Secretary. J. W. Baker is Ficklen's Factory Manager.

The three modern Proctor and Schwartz redrying machines operated by the company have a daily capacity of about 500,000 pounds. With their highly skilled and experienced personnel in all departments, E. B. Ficklen Tobacco Company, Inc. is fully prepared to buy, expertly process and pack orders for tobacco for both foreign and domestic manufacturers. Ample storage facilities enable this company to store satisfactorily tobaccos for their customers.

C. W. Howard, Jr. is President of the Greenville Tobacco Company. M. T. Simpson, who has had many years of practical experience in the purchase of leaf tobacco in the flue-cured and burley belts, is Vice President and Supervisor of Buying. John L. Howard is Secretary and H. L. Naron is assistant Secretary.

By continual modernization of their plant, together with the assistance of their highly trained personnel, each individual order is filled exactly as the customer wishes it, the Greenville Tobacco Company has been a large factor in building for the Greenville Market, and for themselves as well, an enviable reputation in world-wide tobacco trade.

It is proud of its fine personnel. But also, it is proud of the fact that there is no company, in the trade, which has finer or more complete and modern equipment. Constantly, from year to year, improvements are being made to its physical plant.

Person-Garrett Company was established in 1924 by R. M. Garrett, who served as its President from that date until July of 1950 when he was succeeded by W. S. Bost, who is now President of Person-Garrett Company and also past President of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade.

The Vice President of this Company are now L. G. Stanfield, R. M. Garrett, Jr. and C. Dwight Garrett, the latter being sons of the late R. M. Garrett. Person-Garrett Company has its main office in Greenville, but also operates branches in Fairmont, N. C., and Lumberton, N. C. L. C. Stanfield is in charge of its Fairmont branch and R. M. Garrett is in charge of its Lumberton branch.

In Greenville, Person-Garrett Company's plant superintendent is O. R. Waters. This plant has a present capacity of approximately one-half million pounds per day. The company purchases and processes leaf tobacco for both foreign and domestic concerns, and is also equipped with modern steel and concrete storages.

The International Tobacco Company, Inc. was organized in August, 1950 by the late Mr. O. C. Molgaard Christensen and Mr. P. K. Andersen. They maintain and operate a subsidiary, The International Tobacco Company A-S, of Copenhagen, Denmark, which was founded in 1915 by Mr. Molgaard Christensen.

P. K. Andersen is President, O.

L. Alexander is Secretary and Treasurer and K. E. Andersen is Assistant Secretary.

O. Holl heads the Copenhagen organization. The International Tobacco Company, Inc. are leaf tobacco dealers and exporters. They buy all types of American tobaccos on all principal markets on order and contract for foreign and domestic trade and maintain adequate stocks at all times.

The reputation of the International Tobacco Co., Inc., is well established and the firm has a rapidly expanding trade through its operations in all parts of the world.

The floor space in Greenville devoted exclusively to the sale and processing of leaf tobacco is well over three million square feet.

The names of the owners and operators of these warehouse firms are as follows: Bennett's Warehouse, Elbert Bennett and Wiley Tripp, Sales Manager; Cannon's Warehouse, W. T. Cannon, Carlton Dall; Farmers Warehouse, W. Arthur Tripp, T. P. Thompson, Dal Cox, Aubert J. Brannen, Sales Manager and Willie S. Edwards, Assistant Sales Manager; Harris & Rogers Warehouse, R. E. Rogers, H. R. Rogers, Assistant Sales Manager and Bruce Strickland, Assistant Sales Manager; Keele's Warehouse, L. W. Edwards, Ashley Wynn; McGowan's Warehouse, C. H. McGowan, C. H. McGowan, Jr.; New Carolina Warehouse, Floyd McGowan; New Independent Warehouse, J. R. Collier, F. L. Blount, Jr., S. O. Ives, Tom Andrews, Jr., S. A. Whitehurst, Frank Jolly; Planters Warehouse, J. A. Worthington, G. B.

Jones; Raynor & Forbes Warehouse, Noah Raynor, Alf Forbes, operators; Star Warehouse, B. B. Sugg, Sr., Harding Sugg; Victory Warehouse, Harold Forbes, O. L. Joyner, Jr.

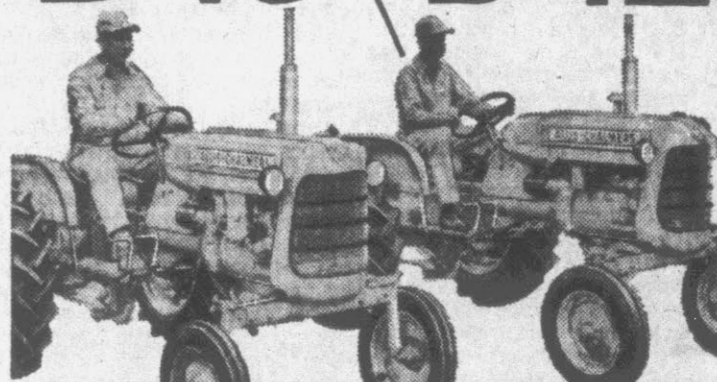

To give you some idea of the size of the Greenville Tobacco Market, it has not been uncommon in the past few years for the Greenville Market to pay out over a million dollars a day for the purchase of tobacco upon its warehouse floors. Daily sales have been as high as 2,353,592 pounds per day for $1,508,571.27, bought by Greenville's five sets of buyers.

Farmers in the Greenville area have had 70-odd years experience handling of old type tobaccos. In the cultivation and proper handling of old type tobaccos, they are unsurpassed in this field.

With the return by farmers in the Greenville area to the increased cultivation of old type tobacco, and their return to old time cultural practices of proper topping, spacing, suckering, fertilization, grading and handling, the tobaccos appearing on the Greenville Market in 1959 are expected to be the kind of tobaccos which manufacturers all over the world recognize as the most desirable tobacco grown.

TOUGH SADDLE By MATT STUART

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

The only girl who ever stirred Link Asbell has become a worry to him. Her father's death left Sue Vincent with the responsibility of maintaining the Big Five ranch against range rivals and outlaws. She has given her attention to little except a round of gala parties. As foreman of the ranch, Asbell has had to make all the decisions and face all the problems alone. In making the rounds of line camps on the Big Five, Asbell found a cabin burned to the ground, and his sole occupant, Packy Lane, dead in his bunk. Convinced it was a case of murder, Link rode to Big Five headquarters to inform Sue. He had difficulty wrestling her away from a noisy party. She was angry at his suggestion that Packy may have died as a result of the old feud of Jonas Dalmar and Bardo Sampson with Sue's father, Jonas is the father of one of Sue's suitors, Frank Dalmar.

The poker table in Ben Dillon's Imperial bar, Doc Jerome spread his cards and glanced across at Bardo Sampson. "Three tens, Bardo." Bardo Sampson had his look, cursed spread stubby fingers and let his eyes card flutter down like drifting leaves. "Kings and jacks," he growled. He was a thick, stocky man with coarse, grizzled hair. This wasn't the first hand to cost him. There had been several before it, and with each successive loss the color in his naturally florid face had deepened. At Doc Jerome's left, Jonas Dalmar leaned back, fished a cigar from a vest pocket and bit the tip off it with an impatient, twisting snap of his teeth. Gaunt and deersie, he was long of face, with a narrow jaw and a tight, sardonic mouth. His eyes were coal black, and despite his near seventy years, his equally black hair showed only a slight dusting of gray. As Bardo Sampson's partner and joint owner of the Double Diamond brand, he felt free to comment as he pleased. So now, while searching another pocket for a match, he made nasal, caustic observation. "Bardo, you can be the biggest sucker! Won't you ever get it through that thick head of yours how weak two pair can be? If, in one pile, I had all the money you've lost, trying to buck three with two pair, I'd need a wheelbarrow to haul it away!" On Bardo's right, Whit Henderson murmured, "It's the picture cards. To Bardo they always seem bigger than they are." Bardo had taken his partner's sarcastic jibe in glowering silence. But now he half turned and erupted savagely. "Any time I need a two-bit storekeeper to tell me how to play a poker hand, I'll let you know, Henderson. Until then, keep your mouth shut!" With his remark, Whit Henderson had meant only a casual joshing, for he was a mild, quiet man. When aroused, however, he had plenty of spirit. So now his retort was quick and to the point. "The devil with you, Sampson! If a man can't lose a hand or two at poker without turning sore-headed as nasty, then he should not play at all!" Doc Jerome, shrewdly reading the signs, glanced at the clock on the wall above the bar. He pushed back his chair. "Getting along toward my sleep time. If I don't get home pretty quick, Addie will be coming after me. On the strength of this last hand, I'll stand a nightcap all around, Ben!" Behind the bar, Ben Dillon spread glasses and began opening a fresh bottle. "Over against the far wall, where he'd been sitting in a tipped-back chair, Sage Wingo stirred and showed interest. Better than a full hour ago he had come into the Imperial with the reek of fresh horse-sweat strong upon him. He had met a guarded, questioning glance from Jonas Dalmar and had answered with the faintest of nods. Now Doc Jerome was buying, and whiskey on someone else's money was a thing Sage Wingo never refused, so he moved up to the bar with the rest of them. Physically, he was a vastly ugly man. In body and limb he was bony and angular and loosely put together, while his head was startlingly large and round. Casually observed, the man was colorless and seemingly self-effacing. But he was the long time riding boss of the widespread Dalmar & Sampson holdings, and he owned a reputation for savagery and cruelty when aroused. The hands of Ben Dillon's bar clock showed after eleven. Outside, the town of Garrison lay dark and quiet under the stars. On riding in, Link Asbell figured the probability of finding Doc Jerome in bed at this hour of the night. However, there was light in the Imperial bar, and a buckboard and two saddle broncs at the hitch rail, so he decided to have a look here, first. For sometimes Doc sat in on a Saturday night poker game. Ben Dillon was just pouring the drinks when Asbell pushed through the door. Doc Jerome's greeting was immediate and hearty. "Link! Get in on this one, boy. I'm buying - with Bardo's money." Asbell did not answer until he'd had his full, careful look at the barroom and all it held. Then he nodded and dropped in between Doc and Whit Henderson. "Thanks, Doc," he said, and acknowledged the others with a single word, "Gentlemen!" Jonas Dalmar took the cigar from his lips and reached for his drink. But he held the glass half lifted while he made sarcastic remark.

"Gentlemen, eh? Well, well! That sounds good, Asbell—but I wonder if you mean it?" Asbell caught the taunting glint in the black, glass-hard eyes. "It doesn't pay to jump at conclusions, Dalmar," he said curtly. "For as it happens, I wasn't referring to you." Jonas Dalmar was no man to enjoy having the bite of sarcasm turned back against him. The glint in his eyes deepened. "I hear there's another soiree going on out at Big Five tonight. How is it you're in town, Asbell? Or is it that the hired help don't rate getting in on the fun?" From the moment of his grisly findings on Rosebud Creek, Link Asbell had been fighting back the pressure of bitter, steadily deepening feeling. Or is it that the hired help don't rate getting in on the fun?" From the moment of his grisly findings on Rosebud Creek, Link Asbell had been fighting back the pressure of bitter, steadily deepening feeling. No Pink Elephant Says Engineer

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Charles Mathis, engineer on an Illinois Central passenger train, complied with regulations after his train hit a camel tethered too close to the tracks by its circus keeper. Mathin telephoned this terse report to the dispatcher. "Train No. 15 hit a camel at Belleville and broke one of its legs."

The dispatcher decided he wouldn't be outdone. He replied: "Take another look. Make sure it isn't a pink elephant." Mathin, remaining factual, answered: "It has a hump on its back and it does not have a trunk." The camel? Its leg was put in a cast.

LOSES HIS BADGE

NOGALES, Ariz. (AP) — A member of the Tucson police department's Counter Intelligence Corps asked Nogales police for some help in solving a case. The officer said he lost his badge while visiting Nogales.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Space age issues continued to take sharp losses as the over-all stock market declined slightly in routine trading early this afternoon.

Pivotal stocks fell from fractions to about a point while the electronics - missile - rocket fuel group was battered badly.

Texas Instruments, one of the outstanding gainers in the past spring's upsurge in electronics, dropped about 10 points.

Steels, rails, aircrafts, building materials and drugs took moderate losses. Tobacco and copper edged ahead as balance. Airlines, oils and chemicals were mixed.

Prospects of an easing cold war tension still dominated Wall Street's mood and investors were switching out of the recent high-flyers into a selection of more conservative stocks.

Liton Industries fell more than 5, Zenith more than 3 and Ampex more than 2.

Thiokol and General Tire, which has a rocket-making subsidiary, Aerojet, on the American Stock Exchange dropped about 2 apiece.

U. S. Steel, down about a point, was the worst of the major steels.

Richfield Oil, up more than a point, was about the best of the oils.

Investment money was attracted to Allied Chemical, up about 2, International Paper, American Can and American Tobacco, all ahead fractionally.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 30 cents to $234.10 with the industrials down 30 cents, the rails down 50 cents and the utilities down 20 cents.

Government bonds were steady.

Bill Moore Host Group Kiwanians

Kiwanian W. O. (Bill) Moore, member of the Kiwanis Club's Board of Directors, was host at a "country ham and chicken supper" at the Elks Club last night to the club officials and some committee chairmen. President John A. Collins presided.

Plans were completed for the club's last "family picnic" at Kiwanis Park Friday evening at 6:30. A tentative date was set for holding the club's annual "Charter and Ladies Night" banquet in October.

The Greenville club will be well represented at the Carolinas Kiwanis District convention to be held in Greenville, S. C., in October. A period of fellowship followed the reading of Secretary Tommy Snowden's report for July.

Guests including the host, Director Moore, President Collins, and Secretary Snowden, were: Past President Dixie McGlohon, Vice President, Charles P. Gaskins, directors Eli Bloom, Grover Everett, Kenneth Hite, Dr. Allen Taylor and committee chairmen John G. Proctor, underprivileged child; Robert Elks, cuisine, Roscoe King and Chester Walsh, public relations.

July Fire Calls Numbered At 37

Firemen answered 37 calls during the month of July according to Fire Chief George Gardner.

In his report Gardner said firemen answered two box alarms, 10 telephone calls, three county calls and investigated smoke sightings during the month. Twenty rescue calls were answered by the department's rescue units also.

According to the Chief, total fire losses thru June 30 were $15,258. Losses for July have not been adjusted to-date, he added.

The volunteer payroll for the month was $123.00 while the total payroll for the fiscal year is $162,000.

All fire department and rescue personnel are continuing their weekly train courses and classes the Chief added.

Local Scouts On Expedition

Forty-three Explorers and five leaders are participating in the First Annual Mountain Expedition of the East Carolina Council, Boy Scouts of America, being held on the 1300 Acre Scout Reservation of the Winston-Salem Council, located 17 miles from Mount Airy.

The Explorers with the advice of their leaders, planned the program that they followed while on the expedition. Some of the highlights of the program included a trip to Roaring Gap, to the State Trout Hatchery and the Girl Scout Camp, a two-day hike on the Appalachian Trail, swimming, rowing, canoeing, and marksmanship. A square dance will also be held tonight with 40 girls from the surrounding area to be present.

The expedition will leave the scout reservation at 9 a.m. Saturday for the return trip. The buses are expected to arrive in Wilson, about 4:30 p.m. and in Greenville at 5:30 p.m.

Carl Knott, Field Staff Director of the East Carolina Council, is in charge of the expedition and is assisted by Robert Hunt, District Scout Executive of the Beautyway District and the following volunteer scouters, J. B. Newman of Greenville, Arthur Monson of Wilson, and Wilber C. Ormond of Ayden.

Explorers attending the expedition from the Pitt District are: Jackie Cox, Ronnie Cox, Marshall Evans, Jonny Godley, Bobby Hardee, Andrew Kilpatrick, Jimmy Newman, Paul McGlohon, Kenneth Pollard and William Stancil, all from Greenville; Lloyd W. Allen, Wilber C. Ormond and Jimmy Pratt of Ayden; and Moses Moye and Bob Newton of Farmville.

turned into it from Second and Third Sts. The mayor said a 36-inch pipe would be needed for the ditch. Such pipe costs $6.72 per linear foot.

The city's normal policy on such projects is to require the property owners to pay for the drainage pipe with the city paying the installation charge.

"We have stuck to it on several occasions but I don't believe we have had occasion to use this large pipe," the mayor stated.

He said he didn't believe it would be fair to the property owners to require them to pay the entire cost in this case.

The council approved a motion by Councilman Aldridge that the property owners be requested to pay $2 per foot for the pipe with the city bearing the remainder of the cost.

Dispense With Tax
The councilmen voted to dispense with a $50 tax for a city police dance. They authorized a letter of appreciation to R. Markham, retiring highway engineer, and a letter of congratulation to C. W. Snell, who is replacing Markham as the division engineer.

Councilmen also authorized the city manager to accept a Ford truck bid which is $9.77 higher than the International truck low bid. Bloxam explained that a truck body and other equipment could be switched to the new Ford making the overall cost of the unit lower.

Stafford, Bloxam and West were appointed to a committee to look into a request from the Moose Lodge for closing an alley which runs between the Moose building and its swimming pool. The Moose pointed out in a letter that the alley is hazardous for children leaving the pool entrance.

Also heard was a letter from the local American Legion Post asking the Council to consider a regular appropriation for the Rescue Squad.

West said he would answer the letter pointing out that the budget for the coming year has already been approved.

Police Post July Arrest Record

Of the 168 cases known to Greenville police during the month of July, 89.4 per cent were cleared by arrest, Police Chief S. G. Gibbs said today.

Officers made 119 arrests, with 40 being for violations of motor vehicle laws, according to the Chief. Officers also made 37 arrests for other authorities.

Police vehicles drove a total of 15,711 miles patrolling the city in July.

Over $9,000 property damage was reported during the month as a result of the 16 traffic accidents investigated. Thirteen of the accidents involved motor vehicles while two involved pedestrians and one a fixed object.

Ten of the accidents occurred at intersections which had traffic controls and the remaining six were non-intersection collisions. The majority of the accidents occurred during night hours, with Thursdays being the worst day for weeks with six Tuesdays and Saturdays next with four each. Two were reported on Sundays.

Five personal injuries were reported, none of which was fatal.

Funeral Services For Mrs. Sudie Harvey

Mrs. Sudie Sutton Harvey, 77, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock after several years of declining health.

Funeral services will be held at the Salvation Army Hall Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Lt. Walter J. Norris and Maj. W. H. Stanley. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Harvey, daughter of the late Jesse and Susan Boyd Sutton, was born and reared in Pitt County in the Black Jack community. She was married to Jesse Harvey and he died in 1930. She had lived in Greenville since 1939. She was a member of the Salvation Army where she was employed for a number of years until her illness. She had made her home with Simon Beachum for 12 years.

Surviving are a brother, Ben F. Sutton of Farmville; a sister, Mrs. Betty Jones of Vanceboro, and a number of nieces and nephews.

The family requests that no flowers be sent.

Fire

Greenville firemen were called to 308 Manhattan Ave. yesterday about 11:30 a.m. when a pan of grease on a stove caught fire.

Responding firefighters said the small blaze was out when the trucks arrived and no damage was reported.

By ROBERT TUCKMAN HONOLULU (AP) —

A howling hurricane turned the enchanted movie island of Kaula into a mass of devastation today.

It blew down houses, unroofed others, knocked out communications and power, flooded some sections, left roads impassable, cut water supply to some communities.

The rare mid-Pacific storm, known as Hurricane Dot, swirled up on Kaula from the south, hit it with 75 miles-an-hour winds and torrential rain, and moved north out to the open sea where it began to disintegrate.

Damage could run into millions. Officials, hampered by knocked-out communications, waited for daylight for a full assessment of the havoc, especially to the sugar and pineapple plantations.

The hurricane first struck Kaula head on Thursday night after dealing the rest of the islands of the Hawaiian chain only glancing blows in the previous two days.

By early today, the Weather Bureau said, "The worst is definitely over."

The island is the northernmost of the Hawaiian archipelago and the locale of the movies "South Pacific," "Beachhead," "Fagan Love Song" and others.

It was the only island to feel the full force of Hurricane Dot, much the same as it bore the brunt of the last hurricane to hit Hawaii early in December 1957.

It has 28,000 inhabitants. Defense officials attributed the lack of casualties to advance notice and preparation.

Volume, Prices Continue Decline

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—Volume and prices are continuing to decline on the Georgia-Florida flavored tobacco markets.

Markets at Jasper and Lake City, Fla., are holding their final days of sales. Final sales are scheduled at Live Oak and Madison, Fla., Tuesday, Aug. 11.

Volume of sales was heavy on only about half the markets Thursday. Prices again showed a weakening trend.

Most averages by grades decreased $1 to $3 a hundred pounds. Some nondescript grades dropped sharply.

Stabilization Corp. receipts declined to less than 1 per cent of sales this week.

Clerk Makes July Report To Board

Municipal Recorder's Court Clerk Lester D. Page's report of July proceedings shows that there were 56 convicted or guilty pleas; 7 acquittals; 3 cases not pressed, and one case sent to Superior Court. Total, 67, cases disposed of.

Jaycees Sponsor Bloodmobile

The Greenville Jaycees will sponsor the Bloodmobile here Wednesday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Moose Temple at West End Circle.

Persons 21 through 59 are urged to donate a pint of blood. People from 18 to 21 may also donate blood but must secure a signed release from their parents or spouse, unless they are self-supporting or a member of the armed services.

According to local doctors, donors should not come to the center hungry but should eat normally.

Red Cross officials pointed out that Pitt County fell behind in their quota of 1,500 pints for last year. Only 71 percent of the quota was obtained in 1958 units. Over 1,420 units of blood were used for Pitt County residence last year.

The 1959-1960 quota for Pitt has been reduced to 1,450 pints which means over 120 units of blood must be collected each time the Bloodmobile visits the county.

According to a local doctor, if the Pitt County Blood Program is to continue to serve the people of Pitt County it must have blood.

Attend Meeting In Chapel Hill

CHAPEL HILL—Among the approximately 150 agents and insurance employees who are attending the annual Institute of Insurance this summer at the University of North Carolina are Martha Ann Branch of Greenville and E. B. Whichard of Robersonville.

The week-long study, now underway for its tenth summer session, is sponsored by the N. C. Association of Insurance Agents. Courses are offered for beginners, experienced agents and advanced underwriters.

Farmville Pool Begins Courses

Both junior and senior life saving courses started today at the Farmville swimming pool, according to Pitt County American Red Cross representatives.

The courses are being taught by Johnny Thorne, Jonny Dixon and Charlotte Donat.

Anyone interested in taking these water-safety courses should report to the Farmville pool. Classes start at 8 a.m. each day.
