Firemen, Hampered By Smoke, Fought 12 Hours

By STUART SAVAGE, Reflector Staff Writer. Firemen, hampered by thick smoke, fought for almost 12 hours before extinguishing a blaze which caused heavy damage to the Rose's Dime Store building on Evans St. and ruined the majority of the stock in the building.

and did not notice the fire until smoke covered the entire ceiling. According to Gardner the fire was held to the second floor of the building but firemen were hampered in fighting the blaze due to the heavy smoke and the accessibility of the stock room. The chief said there was only one stairway to the room, which was blocked by intense heat and dense smoke.

fighters mounted to the top of the store and cut holes in the roof, using special nozzles designed to spread water in a room when inserted into a hole in the roof, but they had to leave the tin roof when fire weakened the supports. After the fire was brought under control, firemen entered the building and began putting out the blaze.

CONFER ON FIRE FIGHTING PROGRESS . . . Chief Gardner, Volunteer Stuart Savage, Capt. Ray Smith.

Rap Church Critics Of Visit By Nikita

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

Church leaders who have been outspoken against the visit of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to the United States were taken back last week by the influential weekly magazine "The Lutheran."

The Rev. Dr. Albert P. Staederman, associate editor, in an editorial questioned whether church critics of the visit "lack all confidence in the redeeming and converting power of the Christian faith."

"The proposed exchange of visits between President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev is an example of (a) more mature attitude" in international relations, wrote the Rev. Dr. Staederman.

"If each side can make its position clear to the other, there's a workable chance for an agreeable decision. The only alternative is desperate conflict which, with modern weapons, could destroy civilization."

"In view of this, it's hard to understand the attitude of some Roman Catholic bishops and some fundamentalist fanatics who are (trying to stir up opposition to Mr. K's visit.)

"Whether they know it or not, they are doing a disservice to their country and are playing directly into the hands of the Reds."

"Of course, a few visits between statesmen won't end tensions that have built up over the years. The most we can hope for is mutual understanding that will enable the world to live in peace."

"Once that is achieved, more complete world brotherhood can come in only one way — through the power of the Gospel."

Two of the leading critics of the Khrushchev visit are the Rev. Richard Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, and the Rev. Dr. Clyde J. Kennedy, president of the fundamentalist American Council of Christian Churches.

Cardinal Cushing compared the visit to "opening our frontiers to the enemy in a military war."

The Rev. Dr. Kennedy called it "morally wrong to extend an invitation to the bloody butcher of Hungary. Nothing but harm can come to our nation by welcoming and honoring this international Dillinger."

Some churchmen, while viewing the visit with something short of wild enthusiasm, see it as an opportunity for Americans to show the Soviet leader their religious life — for whatever good it will do.

Evangelist Billy Graham, who visited the Soviet Union this summer, has suggested that President Eisenhower should take Khrushchev to church while he is here.

And the Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, Episcopal bishop of California, has invited Khrushchev to attend services in Grace Cathedral in San Francisco.

Give Baby Chance To Exercise

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

HAVE YOU EVER watched a baby smile with his toes? When a grownup is amused the corners of his mouth twitch, his eyes crinkle up and his whole face lights up but his body remains still. The amount of muscular activity involved is not very great. But not so a baby. When he wants to say he likes it he smiles or laughs out loud he throws his arms out, he straightens his legs, points his toes and just plain wiggles all over. Every muscle in his little body takes part in expression of pleasure. The body uses everything he's got when he doesn't like it, too. He cries and yells, not with his voice alone but with every bit of him.

This is as it should be. A baby must use all his muscles if he is to grow strong. He will do it if we give him a chance. All he needs is a place big enough to wiggle and a reasonably appreciative audience. A baby crawls with delight when he plays all alone, but he does a lot more of it when you express some enthusiasm for his activities.

Wiggle Time
Don't keep your baby wrapped up in snug blankets all the time. He needs quite a bit of his waking time free from hampering clothes so that he can make full use of every muscle in his body. As soon as he is awake take him out of his crib and let him wiggle to his heart's content. A blanket on the floor is all right, but a playpen is a lot safer. Never, never, put your baby on a bed or a table top and leave him for a single minute. He will turn over before you think he knows how and you'll find him on the floor and maybe he's had a nasty blow on his head.

When your babe is struggling to sit up let him pull against your finger. He will grab your hands and use every bit of power he's got to raise himself up. He is developing strength in his muscles — help him.

When he is able to sit up and to crawl don't overdo the playpen. He needs more space to explore, big hollow blocks to push about, a ball to push and then dive for. You will have to keep him in his playpen some of the time, but try to fix up a larger area for him, too, a corner of the porch, or a streamlined corner of his own room or some other room. Make it safe, equip it with big light things he can push and tug. He will exercise if you just give him a chance.

Let Him Move
If you have a feeding table or a chair use them just for feeding. Don't keep your baby sitting for long at a time. He needs freedom to move about.
During his first year a baby will take care of his own exercise if you just provide the place and a little incentive. In winter he will have to be wrapped up for outdoors, so he will need extra play-time indoors free from the constricting warm clothes. In summer, however, outdoor time should, as much as possible, be a time for vigorous wiggling. Don't just wheel your baby along a street, get him out of the buggy in your own backyard if you're lucky enough to have one — or in the park, or on the roof if you live in the city.

Among The Debs

Has Pet Peeves

MISS MARIETTA NORTHROP . . . looks over deb fashions to be worn during the Debutante Weekend in Raleigh September 11-12.

(This is the seventh in a series of articles concerning the 1959 debutantes of Pitt County.)

By PEGGY SMITH
Reflector Woman's Editor

"Innocent people" needs the list of her pet peeves, Miss Marietta Northrop said in a recent interview.

Planning to attend St. Mary's Jr. College in Raleigh again this year, Marietta noted that she enjoyed "attending a small school which offers opportunities to make a lot of personal friends."

After graduation from the junior college, she will enter a merchandising training course or either go to Carolina and major in Journalism.

This summer she and some of the Greenville debs continued their favorite pastime art, playing bridge. The beach has offered activities which have filled this deb's time also.

Debutante Weekend

"The get-togethers and parties after the scheduled events are what I'm looking forward to," she commented concerning the deb weekend. "Comfort and relaxation will be welcomed after all the pomp and splendor of the deb presentation."

Her brother, Harris, will be the chief marshal. Other marshals chosen are Blackie Stith of New Bern and Jimmy Long of Greenville.

Madame Barnes of Wilson is designing Marietta's deb dress which will feature a sculptured neckline, seeded pearls, iridescent sequins and a full skirt.

Time For India To Take A Stand

India, which has long courted the dream of friendly relationships between itself and Red China, now finds itself a victim of aggression by Communist China.

For India, the time has come when it must use force as well as words to protect its own frontiers from the same Communist Chinese it has befriended even after the Reds had invaded and conquered one after another of its tiny neighbors.

In the years since it gained its independence, India has adopted for itself the role of friend of both the Communist and the Free worlds. In many instances it has refused to view objectively the aggressive acts taken by the Chinese Communists against smaller Asiatic nations. It has endeavored to follow a path of strict neutrality while freedom was stamped out inch by inch in its sector of the globe.

The aggression at last has led to India's own doorstep. Indeed, it has now entered India's border.

Prime Minister Nehru, in his statement to the Indian Parliament in which he announced the Red Chinese acts of aggression, did not say outright that India would fight to protect its frontiers. He did say, however, that India has no alternative but to guard its borders and its integrity. He said India will have to be vigilant.

The invasion of Tibet by Red China obviously prompted a rather sudden change in the attitude of India's leaders who have sought to be chummy with leaders of Red China. It is clear that sentiment against Red China heightened among the people of India when Tibet was overrun by the Chinese. There can be no doubt that this latest aggressive push by Red China against India itself is a direct challenge to India for leadership in Asia.

Indian leaders cannot help but recognize that their own nation has become the next goal for conquest by Red China. If the Chinese can gain their goal by bluff and piecemeal acquisition, they will certainly do so. That they would risk a full-scale war against India at the moment is highly doubtful.

For India, however, the ultimate result will be the same. If it allows Red China to violate its borders and take what patches of land it wants at the moment, India's position as a leader of free Asiatic nations will be lost. Ultimately, India itself will be lost and suffer the same fate it has allowed its smaller and weaker neighbors to suffer at the hands of the Chinese Communists.

India must now decide whether it will have peace at the price of losing the independence it struggled for so long, or whether its freedom and that of the rest of Asia is worth fighting for, if necessary, to preserve.

If Police Needed, No Point In Not Acting

When the crime rate in the nation's capital increases to the point where a member of Congress calls for several hundred Marines as auxiliary policemen, it is certainly time for action to increase the police force of the city.

Rep. Omar Burleson of Texas has proposed that a "few hundred" Marines be assigned to police duty in Washington to help regular police officers cope with the wave of hoodlumism that has swept the city in recent months. The rate of crime in Washington which has risen steadily over the years apparently has taken a sharp upturn in the past six months. Congress is considering adding 500 men to the existing 2,500-man police force for Washington, but reports say the legislation may not be passed until next year.

Certainly if the rate of crime in Washington has reached the level where Marines are needed as a stop-gap measure, Congress should be able to find time to pass legislation increasing the regular police force before it adjourns for the summer.

This nation, after all, prides itself in being a land of lawful communities. Washington, as the seat of the federal government and one of the show places of the nation, should by all means have sufficient law enforcement officers to protect its law abiding citizens from hoodlums and criminals. When the existing force of law officers is insufficient to cope with the situation, that city should not be forced to wait six months or a year before enough additional officers are obtained to do the job of enforcing the law.

Frankly we think it would be a mistake to call several hundred Marines to Washington for temporary duty as civil police officers. At the same time, we feel it would also be a mistake for Congress to adjourn its present session and leave the nation's capital without a sufficient force of law enforcement officers to cope with the task of preserving law and order.

Toughened Up On Missile Milk

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev took his time getting tough. Some men swear by nuts, berries or good, red meat for feeling fit. But Khrushchev acts like a man who got his muscles from missile milk.

You could see him grow, and his disposition change, if you went back day by day over his life since 1953 and read what he has said about the West. Stalin died that year and Khrushchev, comparatively unknown, became the in hands of people whom he had appointed for that purpose. This situation is in striking contrast to that in South Carolina, where the Legislature named the personnel of study committees and reserved the right to name the officers who would administer the program.

There may be question as to which plan is more democratic. The fact is that in South Carolina and some other states the Governor is not much more than a figure-head. In North Carolina the Governor is the big boss of the whole works. North Carolinians seem to like it that way.

Khrushchev didn't do any boasting in 1953. He didn't do any in 1954, either. He just held his lip. When he did talk, it was friendly. He said communism and capitalism must cooperate. This was the beginning of his coexistence theme.

Khrushchev didn't really begin to talk until 1955, when Malenkov got the gate and Nikolai Bulganin became premier. Khrushchev was still only party secretary but more and more he began to sound like the No. 1 man.

Khrushchev even sounded humble in mid-1955. Just before going to the Geneva summit conference with Bulganin he said no one should get the idea the Soviet Union was going there on broken legs. There was nothing boastful about that.

By early 1956, Soviet scientists must have been making impressive progress with missiles. For on April 26 that year Khrushchev began boasting; he predicted the Soviets would have a guided missile with an H-bomb warhead.

Still, he was willing to acknowledge the United States was the No. 1 power. He said on June 7, 1956, it was a "pat on the back" for the Soviet Union to be compared with this country as one of the two great Powers. This humble mood didn't last long.

In November that year, Khrushchev was boiling. Britain, France and Israel had invaded Egypt and there had been a re-

That Air Route Change

A lot of folks have been wondering why so many planes are flying over Greenville these days. Charles Crone, WNCT advertising man and member of the U. S. Air Force Reserve, knows the answer.

Crone, who as a member of the reserve, is attached to the Information Office at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, says two air routes were moved 14 miles east to allow for air corridors at Seymour Johnson.

There are two air routes involved, Victor 1 and Victor 157, according to Crone.

Victor 1 used to run from Wilmington to Lagrange over Farmville and Bethel to Norfolk. Victor 157 went from Wilmington west to Goldsboro, west of Wilson to Rocky Mount and then north. Because of the assignment of B-52 to Seymour Johnson, the Air Force established climb corridors from ground surfaces to 55,000 feet at the air base.

So that meant the two commercial routes had to be moved 14 miles east to the east. This put Victor 157 squarely over Kingston and Greenville. That is why the big planes can be heard passing over this city day and night.

The planes are commercial aircraft and they travel both north and south on the route—at different altitudes, of course.

It's just a week and a half until the big circus will be in Greenville.

The Clyde Beatty-Cole Bros. Circus is scheduled to show in Greenville Sept. 9. Jaycees, who are sponsoring the show here, are now selling advance tickets for the big show so if you need a ticket or two you can see any Jaycee.

5,000 Years Of It

By DAVID HINNAWI
CAIRO (AP)—Women will be women, now or 5,000 years ago.

It appears that Egyptian women as far back as 3,200 B.C. were old hands at the art of hair dying.

Remains of mummies recently discovered in a tomb in nearby Helwan had golden hair while others had fiery red hair. Since genuine Egyptian blondes and redheads are a rarity today, the chances are these ladies of ancient Egypt were no strangers to the tricks of hair dying.

Ancient Egyptian women also seem to have been experts on all kinds of cosmetics, particularly eye shades, or what is known here as Kohl. Pots of black, green, gray and brown kohl were discovered in the Helwan tomb.

Numerous vases were also found in the tomb containing several kinds of perfume and cosmetics. Analysis showed the cosmetics were mainly composed of fatty material mixed with red oxide of iron and ground limestone.

This composition apparently gave the face a rosy color due to the presence of the red oxide of iron, and the fatty substance contributed to a glowing complexion.

In the same tomb a copper mirror was found with a wooden handle. When well polished, the copper apparently gave a very good reflection, and these mirrors were much superior to any used by the ancient beauties of Rome.

Ancient Egyptian women were also sticklers for jewelry. There were many varieties of necklaces but a popular design was several rows of small cylindrical beads covering almost the whole upper part of the bosom. Each row of beads were a different color. Also popular were semi-precious stones. An average ancient Egyptian lady apparently had as many as seven necklaces and nine bracelets.

The Egyptian ladies of 5,000 years ago wore long robes reaching to the feet. The upper part of the robes varied in design. Some had sleeves while others were attached at one shoulder, in most cases the left by a ribbon. The shoulder knot does not differ from the bow knots we make today. Some of these robes had braces, which made the robe hang below the shoulder displaying a great deal of the back, like a modern evening dress.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THE LORD LOVES THEM
How seriously do you and I take our religion?

A minister was telling recently about the extreme seriousness of a certain congregation concerning human need. Many churches in recent years have made themselves responsible for a few refugee families. This church made itself responsible for fifty refugee families although the membership of the church was only of medium size. The minister had no income other than his modest salary, yet he and his wife went generously into their pocketbooks and contributed to help people come to this country from stricken areas across the sea.

You can usually tell the value a person puts on his religion by observing how much he is willing to sacrifice—especially to sacrifice financially. If his faith costs him something in money then he really has faith. It is very easy to talk about loving the Lord and loving our neighbors as ourselves, but it is something vastly different to put such beliefs into operation. Yet there are churches, usually made up of people of modest means, which would put some of the largest congregations to shame by their sacrificial gifts. They will let their own equipment go unrepaired and unpainted in order to send money to the poor in their own country and the broken and pursued living at the ends of the earth.

Here one sees Christian belief being put to work. People who are willing to make such sacrifices are Christian in the best sense of the term. Keep your eye on them. The Lord loves them.

Opinions In Brief

"A man's right to work at his chosen occupation is one of the most fundamental American rights. That right is being violated constantly by compulsory union membership. Men are being forced, against their will, to become members of labor organizations and pay tribute for the right to earn a living. Many union members are against this but are powerless to stop the big labor bosses." — Humboldt (Iowa) Independent.

"United States educators, by and large, are strong on soothing ing syrup where fears of an educational lag are expressed. The public likes to agree with its schoolmen that our schools are 'the best in the world'. But are they?" — The Dallas Times Herald.

Other Editors Saying Election Is Indicative

(Kinston Free Press)
The Democratic voters in Mississippi in a run-off primary have nominated Ross Barnett, a 60 year old lawyer for Governor. (The Democratic nomination is virtually an election as Mississippi is a one party state).

Mr. Barnett opposed Lt. Governor Carroll Gartin who took a more moderate view of the segregation question than did his opponent. Both men are reportedly members of the Segregation Citizens Council and both pledged a militant segregation policy if elected. The successful candidate seems to have been a little bit more emphatic in his promises to maintain segregation regardless.

The court decision has done irreparable damage to racial relations in the South and incidentally there is no evidence that there has been any improvement much in the North and West except in the loud mouthed professions of some of the holier than thou crowd who never lose an opportunity to condemn the South.

We wouldn't be surprised that if the present Supreme Court or its successor didn't find it in order to review this unfortunate decision and come to another one more like the 1896 ruling. There's a far better chance of meeting that goal than in the present mixing program.

Neither candidate in the Mississippi primary favored moderation or integration on a limited scale as some southern states are practicing. They simply expressed their opposition in no uncertain terms to any mixing of the races of the schools whatsoever.

The Free Press has frequently said since the May 1954 decision of the United States Supreme Court nullifying a decision of the same court in 1896 which provided for separate but equal school facilities was handed down that in the present generation total integration of schools in the South would not be realized and perhaps not in the next generation.

The election is indicative of the attitude of a great many people in the South who are not going to yield to integration of their schools regardless of what the courts may say.

More Car-Selling Competition

Three, Foreign manufacturers have already arranged to step up advertising and sales efforts. Both Volkswagen and Renault are increasing promotion in the United States, and other manufacturers are increasing their selling campaigns.

There are some indications that European markets are close to saturation points. That is spurring manufacturers to seek larger markets here.

This competition gets to be quite a daisy chain. Ford of England is making radical changes in the design of its Anglia and Prefect lines, presumably to be in a better position to compete for American sales, which will become harder to make because of competition by Ford of Detroit, among others.

Japan is planning to increase sales to the United States, especially on the West Coast, where freight rates from Tokyo are competitive with rates from Detroit.

and competition between the Big Three compact cars and Big Three standard cars. As if that were not enough, there is a new entrant in the larger car field, the Rover. This is popular in England, where it's advertised as "suitable for the vicar or the professional man." There are a few in this country but Rover is barking into the market in the coming year. It is priced just under the Lincoln-Cadillac-Imperial group.

Detroit is far from dismayed over prospects of rousing competition. It expects the excitement stirred up—plus the fact that incomes are rising and the boom is waxing—will make 1960 second only to 1955 when 7,200,000 cars were sold at retail. Guesses are that from 6,900,000 to 7,100,000 cars will be sold from October to October. Fear of higher prices because of the steel strike will also spur buying.

American manufacturers believe that sales of the compact cars will sharply check the sales of smaller foreign cars. (One poll showed that American autoists definitely prefer small cars as long as they are large enough to crush other small cars in accidents.)

Note: Dealers' inventories of 1959 model cars are generally heavy and concern over the public's interest in compact cars is equally heavy. Cool shoppers can get rare bargains under these conditions.

Fullmer Regains Title With 14th Round Knockout

Champ Says Basilio Can Have Rematch

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Managerial brains decided the NBA world middleweight fight championship Friday night.

Gene Fullmer, the bull shouldered West Jordan, Utah, slugger who regained the title he held 118 days in 1957, credited his manager Marv Jensen with supplying the tactics that won it with a 14th round kayo.

Carmen Basilio's co-manager John De John, who sat near ringside although barred from sitting in his boxer's corner, issued the order that stopped the fight.

Jensen changed Fullmer from his normal rush-and-crowd offensive style. Instead Fullmer jabbed Basilio off balance, then stiffened him with a right.

Gene didn't like the idea but followed orders and told reporters "that proves managers are smarter than fighters."

A hard overhand right that buckled Basilio's knees was the turning point in the eighth. Another overhand right draped Carmen onto the middle rope and ended the battle in the 14th.

Basilio—who held the title 183 days last year—said he had no objection to the fight being stopped, but he wished it hadn't been.

"I was putting on an act in the 14th, hoping Fullmer would come in to me, but he didn't," Basilio said through bruised and cut lips. "I was hurt, but I was exaggerating it."

Basilio said he had no alibis and no complaints, then ticked off these as reasons for his defeat: "I didn't have it tonight. "I hurt both hands; my left in the second round; my right in the fourth. (he soaked both hands in ice immediately after the fight. "I thought I was behind from the second round on. (He was on most if not all cards. "I was way off in my timing. My hands were slow. "Fullmer's awkward style bothered me all the way. "I knew my strength was gone in the 12th round."

Fullmer and his manager said Basilio deserved a rematch if he wants it.

Local Golfers Show Interest

Sixty-three golfers from this area have already filed for entry in the big Labor Day Golf Tournament which will be held at the local course during the three day holiday period, beginning next Saturday.

The entry number has continued to build up during the past two weeks and tournament officials announced this week that they expected at least 80 to enter which would be the largest number in the short seven year history of the late summer tournament.

Trophies, which will be awarded to the winners in the various flights, have been placed in Laureates Jewelers for display and will remain there prior to the tournament.

The tournament will be a medal play affair, the only such tournament held at the local club, and will consist of 54 holes of play.

A large scorecard will be erected at the club during the tournament and spectators are invited to follow the golfers.

Shaw Wins 14th As White Sox Win Opener

Lollar Homers To Pace League Leaders Victory

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago's White Sox have a little breathing room now in the American League pennant race. They have padded their lead to 2 1/2 games behind rookie Bob Shaw and Sherm Lollar.

Shaw, now 26, is the big right-hander everyone touted as sure-fire rookie bet for Detroit a year ago last spring. By mid-June he was just a so-so reliever and the Tigers peddled him to the White Sox.

It wasn't until last May that he broke free of the bullpen—busting out when he got his chance as a starter by shutting out Boston on five singles in his first complete game. He's been a whiz ever since.

He put away a 144 record at Cleveland Friday night. He did it with a seven-hitter backed by Lollar's tie-breaking, three-run homer in the seventh which left fielder Minnie Minozo couldn't hold. It was a 7-3 victory that crushed the second place Indians' winning streak at eight.

With the opener of the four-game, showdown series in the bag—and a three-game edge in the lost column—Manager Al Lopez substituted Ken McBride (0-1) for ailing Dick Donovan in today's game. The Indians, now needing a sweep of the last three games to take first place, picked right-hander Jim Perry (10-5), thus far the AL's top rookie.

In the other AL games Friday night:

New York beat Washington 4-0 on Art Ditmar's two-hit pitching and three RBI; Frank Lary became the AL's top winner with his 17th victory as Detroit tied the Yankees for third by beating Kansas City 6-5 on Eddie Yost's 10th-inning homer; and Boston spilled Baltimore to fifth, winning 6-4 on Dick Gernert's two-run homer in the 10th.

In the National League, San Francisco gained a three-game edge by beating back second-place Los Angeles 5-0. Sam Jones' eight-hitter and Willie Mays' three hits, one a three-run homer, did it in the opener of a three-game series.

Third place Milwaukee, 3 1/2 games behind, beat Chicago's 9-3 as Lew Burdette won his 14th, Pittsburgh rapped Philadelphia 9-0 behind Vern Law's five-hitter, and St. Louis defeated Cincinnati 3-2.

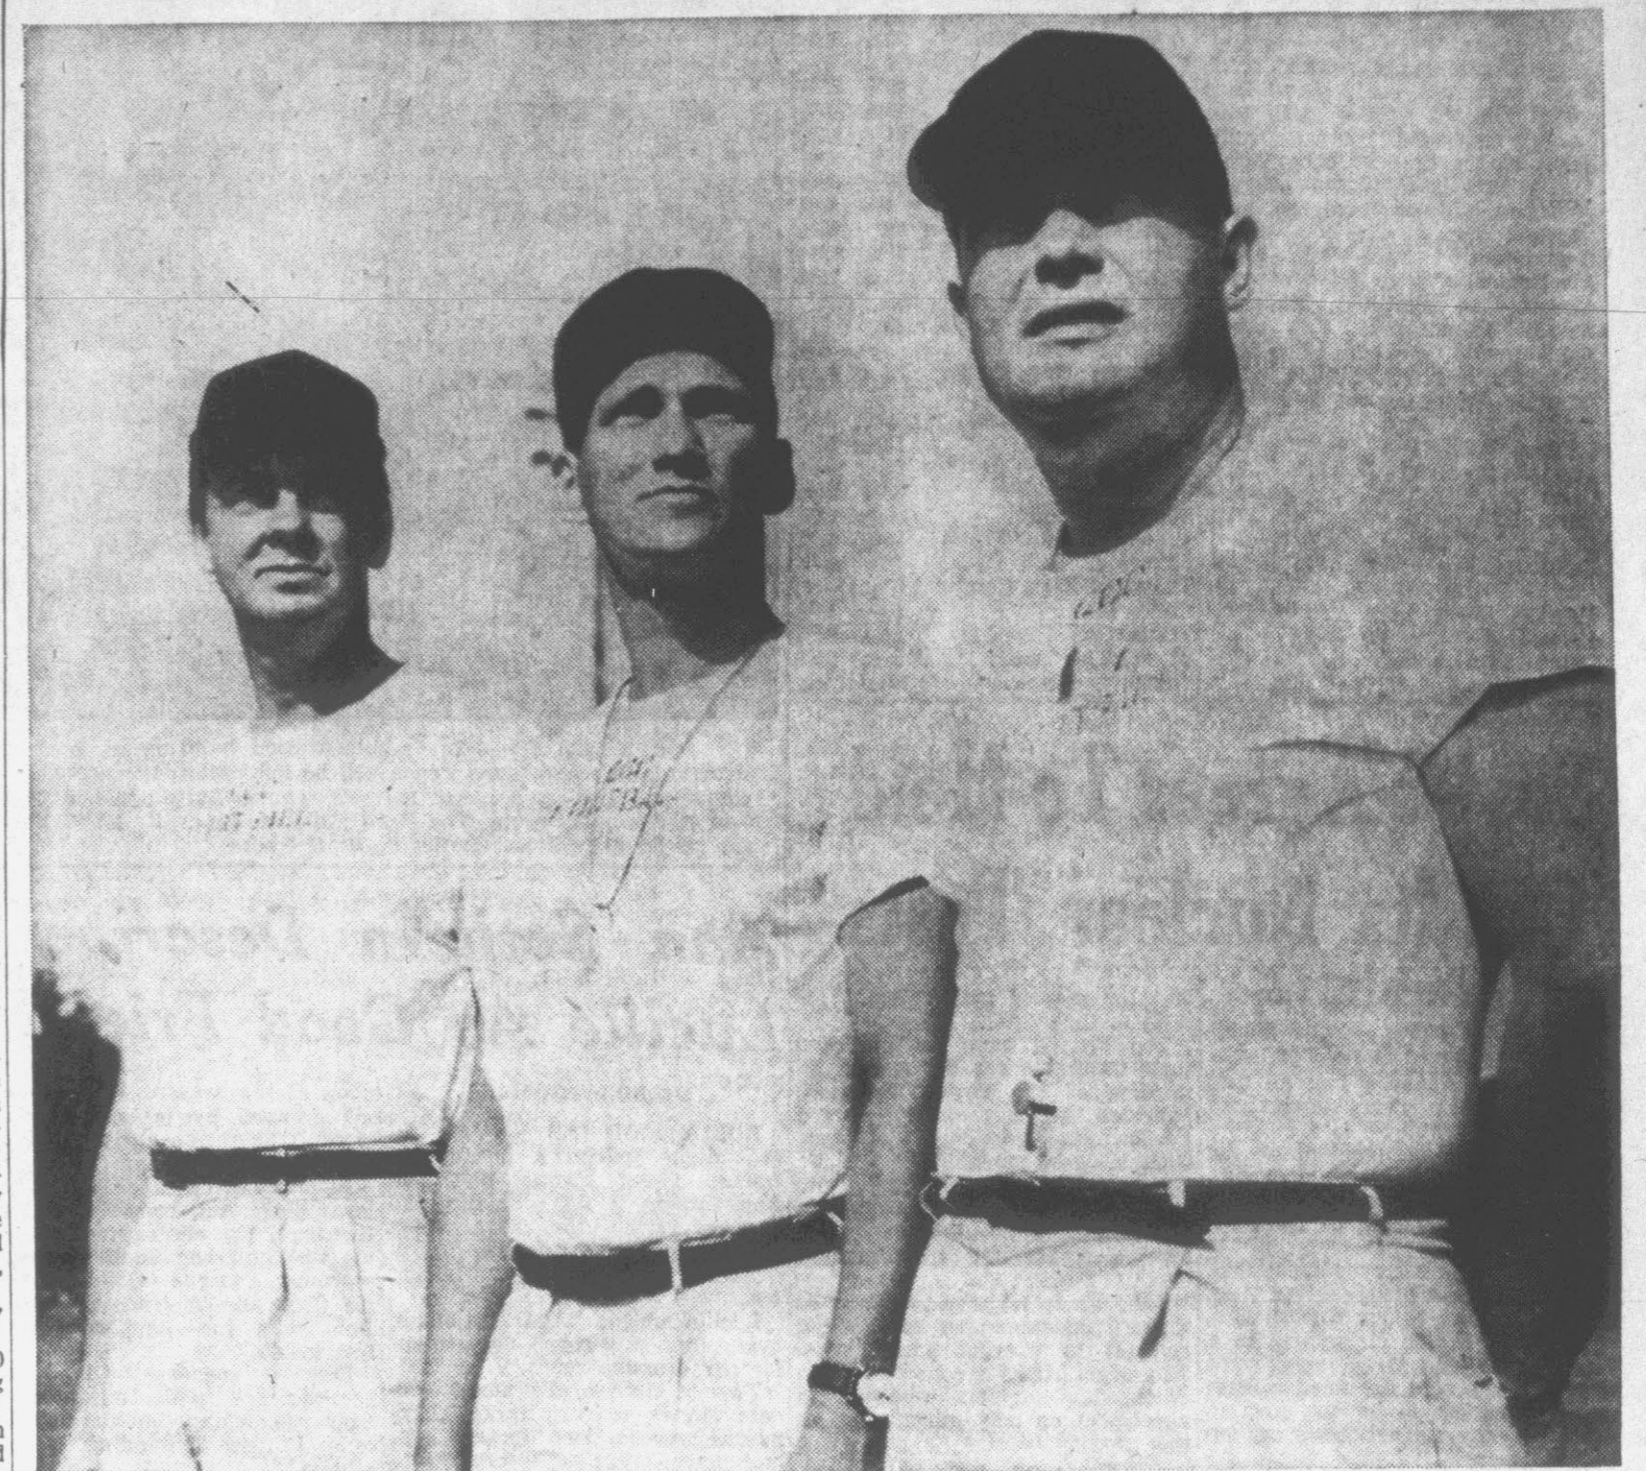

The White Sox, who have played 12 games in 11 days since leading by 4 1/2 games, blew 2-0 and 3-2 leads before nailing the Indians in the seventh against reliever Jim Mudecat. Grant (8-6).

With a crowd of 70,398, largest of the season in the majors, sitting at Cleveland, Nellie Fox and Jim Landis got the big frame started with singles. Then Lollar, at 35 a catcher always listed No. 1—behind Yankee Yogi Berra, hit his 20th home run, a shot that Minozo had in his glove before the ball plopped over the fence.

Ted Kluszewski then singled, bringing on reliever Larry Locke, and a wild pitch, sacrifice and infield out closed the scoring.

Shaw walked two and struck out five, blanking the Injuns on one hit after they had matched a single Sox run in the fifth.

Singles by Al Smith, Jim McAnany and Luis Aparicio had given Chicago two runs in the fourth against southpaw starter Jack Harshman, but the Sox then gave the Indians a quick tie on Aparicio's two-run error in the bottom of the fourth.

THREE RETURNING—Only three members of the 1959 East Carolina College coaching staff will be back. Head Coach Jack Boone (left) will have two of his young assistants, Frank Madigan (center) and Bill McDonald (right). Both are former ECC graduates and joined the local staff in 1957. George Tucker and Gary Mattocks, also ECC graduates, will join the staff this year.

What Type Of Boy Makes A Good Player

A RUGGED GAME

By JACK BOONE

Many times I have been asked what types of boys make good football players. Below is a question I asked of my boys.

Ask yourself this question:

If you were a coach, are you the type of boy that you would like to coach?

Unfortunately, there is no easy way to play football. It isn't that kind of a game. It is a hard game for hardy characters — for boys who are tough in body and in spirit. Players, coaches, and team, who tried to take the easy way have come to grief down through the years.

You cannot reap the benefits of football without paying the premiums. Premiums are paid in the form of strenuous and often punishing physical effort, in self-denial of luxuries and leisure, in subordination of self interest for the good of the team. Played wholeheartedly, football is a soul satisfying outlet for the rugged, courageous type of boy who likes physical contact. Played half-heartedly, football is a waste of time and energy. Football is no halfway game. To play it, you have to "get wet all over."

Reverend Howard, our minister, remarked in his sermon one Sunday, "If my boy asked me if he could play football, I would have to tell him this: 'You may get hurt, break a bone or two, sacrifice some of the things you like to do, punish yourself at times—

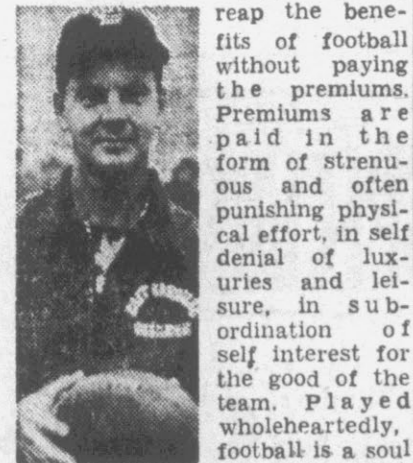

So if you decide to play, you are fully aware of these things and can expect them. If you don't want to get hurt, or punish yourself in strenuous practice, then don't play it." It is like I said you will have to "get wet all over!"

Life is the same way, it is a muddy road at times, it is never easy—takes hard work and much sacrifice. You can never stay clean all the time. Life is no halfway game, you have to work at it all the time."

All great football players were men who were self-reliant, believed in competition according to the rules, accepted the decisions of the officials as a true sportsman, and above all, does not want to be babied or coddled. All he wanted was the opportunity to show the fibers of which he was made.

Lastly there is an intangible and deep-seated motive behind college football that too many ignore—the heart interest, the emotional depth, the intense desire to bring honor and glory to your institution on the playing field. Call it what you will, in a sense it is like the patriot who gives his life for his country. He does not ask to have his life made fool proof easy, or safe. He wants a chance to fight his own battles. Remember mercenary soldiers have never been great fighters when the chips are down and the opponent is even or better they turn tail and run. Conversely, as good football player never knows what the word quit means, grits his teeth, bleeds a little, and works harder to accomplish his ultimate goal which he set up at the first of each week, and that is to do a good job on Saturday night.

Ask yourself again, are you this type of boy??? These are the types of boys that are needed for good football teams.

for the rugged, courageous type of boy who likes physical contact. Played half-heartedly, football is a waste of time and energy. Football is no halfway game. To play it, you have to "get wet all over."

Reverend Howard, our minister, remarked in his sermon one Sunday, "If my boy asked me if he could play football, I would have to tell him this: 'You may get hurt, break a bone or two, sacrifice some of the things you like to do, punish yourself at times—

Raleigh Downs Tobs To Close 1959 Campaign

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Everybody was getting into the act for regular season finals in the Carolina League Friday night.

Thirty-six players went on the field in Wilson, where Raleigh lived up to its first-place standing by defeating the second place Tobs, 6-4.

Durham ended on a triumphant note with a 7-2 decision over Alamance. Three Durham hurlers held the Indians to four hits for the win.

Winston-Salem shut out Greensboro, 6-0, with Gordon Richardson on the mound. Home runs by teammates backed up Richardson's four-hit pitching. Mike Shannon blasted a pair of circuit blows. Ed Sanders added another in the ninth inning.

Pitcher Bob Doig and catcher Joe Theis were the only two Raleigh players to play the entire final game, as other members of the team were shifted to give everyone a chance in the field.

Wilson will play Durham, and Raleigh is matched with Winston-Salem in the league playoffs which begin today.

Robinson May Be Next foe For Fullmer

By ALAN CLINE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gene Fullmer wants Carmen Basilio to get another crack at the NBA middleweight title which Fullmer won Friday night by stopping the New York onion farmer in the 14th round.

The nationally televised fight was a bruiser, but the underdog Fullmer led all the way.

When it was over, the Mormon Sunday school teacher from West Jordan, Utah said Basilio had earned a rematch with his courageous effort. Gene's eyes were swollen and nearly closed, Basilio looked even worse.

Basilio, his hands dipped in ice buckets, was too tired to talk about anything, let alone another fight.

"It was my toughest fight," said the 28-year-old Fullmer, who previously had won and lost in title fights with Ray Robinson. Basilio, 32, had a similar history against Robinson, who is recognized now as the middleweight champ in on-ly New York and Massachusetts.

It was also Fullmer's biggest payday—$80,595 from 25 per cent of the $122,380 net gate and the same percentage from $175,000 TV money. Basilio, ranked above Fullmer, got 35 per cent—$112,833.

The National Boxing Assn. stripped Robinson of his title May 4 for failure to defend within a year. In sanctioning this fight, it told the winner to meet the association's No. 1 challenger within 90 days.

That foe will be chosen next week. Fullmer said he thinks it should be Basilio. But if it is Robinson, or perhaps Spider Webb, well, that's OK too, he said.

But Fullmer made it plain Robinson would have to fight under Gene's terms.

"When I fought Robinson the first time," Fullmer said, "I only got 12 1/2 per cent of the gate and none of the TV money. If Robinson wants those terms I'll be happy to have him."

Fullmer, heavier by 3 1/2 pounds at 159 1/2, went after Basilio from the start, scoring with stinging left jabs followed by stiff rights.

Football practice will open for two schools in the North State Conference today and two others, including East Carolina, will get underway Monday.

Western Carolina and Elon got the jump on the other North State schools today, opening their fall drills 14 days prior to their opening game.

A change in North State regulations which permits teams 14 days of practice prior to their first game has brought about the change in initial drills for the North State schools.

East Carolina and Catawba are also subject to the same ruling but have set their opening dates for Monday. Other North State schools will abide by the usual Sept. 1 date.

Western Carolina, expected to be one of the powers in this year's race, was expecting 38 players, including 15 lettermen, to show up for their opening drills. Elon, blessed with the return of one of the leading backs in the conference, Charlie Maldon, will open with an expected 50 candidates available. The Christians will have only seven lettermen in the fold.

On the local scene, Coach Jack Boone will be expecting 48 candidates to show up for the Bucs first drill Monday morning. Included in the 1959 squad will be an expected 24 lettermen, the largest number of returnees for the Bucs in several years.

George Tucker and Gary Mattocks, new Pirate coaches, arrived on the local campus Thursday and players have been drifting into Greenville throughout the week but the largest number was expected to come in this weekend.

The schedule for tomorrow will include getting the boys squared away in their dorm rooms, a picnic for the players and their parents, and then physical examinations tomorrow night.

Coach Jack Boone, soon to be embarking on a rugged eleven game schedule, states that the club will set a "fast practice pace" with twice-a-day drills during the opening week of work.

Although bestowed with a large number of lettermen, Boone opens the 1959 season with a "cautious attitude."

The Other Day

We heard some facts about Egyptian mummies, and made some notes on the lesser known information which we thought you'd find interesting.

As you know, the Egyptians were preserving their dead long before many other parts of the world had reached a civilized state, and they had it down to a science.

For example, the soles of the feet of mummies, when unwrapped after as much as 3000 years, were still soft and elastic.

Historians estimate that by 700 A. D., when the practice had died out among them, the Egyptians had embalmed approximately 730 million bodies, almost one third as many people now living in the entire world, or more than thirteen times the number of all the people now living in the United States.

Of course many have been destroyed, or over the centuries disintegrated in the tropical heat of northern Africa, but several million are estimated to still be preserved in undiscovered tombs and burial places.

greatest respect for Wallace Wade as a person and as a coach."

He hinted that when he becomes commissioner he may move the commissioner's office from Durham to Richmond.

"I think perhaps Richmond is more centrally located," said Jordan. "But give me a little time on that. . . We won't move anything until I've talked with Mr. Wade."

Wade has had his office in Durham since he became commissioner.

Jordan is a graduate of Pitt, where he starred in football under Glenn (Pop) Warner. He was captain of the Pitt team of 1923.

Subsequently he coached in high schools, was head basketball coach and assistant in football at Colgate, and head football coach at Amherst for 17 years. He went to Harvard in 1950, where his teams won 24 games, lost 31 and tied three. He lost his job as coach of the Crimson in 1956 after a 2-6 season and since then has scouted for Boston University.

Wade had exercised tremendous authority during his 10-year tenure as boss of the sprawling conference which stretches from Washington, D.C., on the north to Charleston, S.C., on the south.

Jordan's salary was not announced but it is believed to have been set at about $10,000 per year.

When Jordan becomes commissioner next year, Wade will retire to his North Carolina farm, severing a long connection with collegiate sports as athlete, coach at Alabama and Duke, and commissioner.

U.S. Dominates Medals In Pan-American Games

By JERRY LISKA

Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—The powerful U.S. team was favored to grab at least five more gold medals today as the Pan-American Games, off to a bewildering start, moved into the second day of competition.

Finals were scheduled in four men's events and the 60-meter dash for women in track and field skirmishing in Soldier Field and Uncle Sam's athletes possibly could make it a sweep.

In Friday's opening round of nine sports, the U.S.A. captured three championships, while one each went to Argentina and Chile among the events in which gold medals were awarded.

The same sports continue today, including track and field (men and women), soccer football, tennis (men and women), volleyball (men and women), weightlifting and yachting.

Perhaps the zaniest opening day development could be called the tale of the shrinking tape. Several hours after hammer thrower Harold Connolly was proclaimed a record-breaking champion, his U.S.A. team-mate, Al Hall, was named the winner of the wired-ball event.

Meet officials, deciding to make certain Connolly had an accurate new mark of 195 feet, 11 1/4 inches, found in a survey it was a quarter inch short.

Under international rules, quarter inches are thrown out, so that left Connolly tied with Hall at 195-11. But, further following the rule book, the officials noted that Hall's second best throw was better than Connolly's, 192-1/4 to 191-5. So the championship was awarded to Hall but both men were called out record holders at 195-11.

Robert's 'Okay' In Diabetes Test

PHILADELPHIA (AP)

—Robin Roberts rejoins the Philadelphia Phillies tonight in Pittsburgh, advised that he does not have diabetes.

Dr. George Lauer, team physician, said "Friday that he was placing the 32-year-old right-hander on a special diet until he can determine what caused sugar in his system.

A routine examination recently revealed the excess of sugar, but a series of tests Friday was negative.

Mackay saved the day by crushing Rod Laver 7-5, 6-4, 6-1, after Fraser had shocked the U.S. camp with an 8-6, 6-8, 6-4, 8-6 victory over Alex Olmedo, the U.S. lend-lease ace from Peru.

Sideline experts tried to convince the 71-year-old Jones to substitute Mackay for Buchholz, a temperamental 18-year-old.

Australian captain Harry Hopman thought Fraser and Emerson have a "slight" edge on Olmedo and Buchholz.

Only in the second set, which Olmedo won, was there more than one service break. Otherwise, Fraser was content to ride along, wait for an opening and cash in on it.

Mackay was all over Laver. Big Barry, who gets out of the Air Force Sept. 5, never gave Laver a chance.

The only trouble Mackay had was in the fifth game of the third set when he had things all wrapped up. He served four straight double faults.

Soviet Agrees To Hold Off Its Nuclear Tests

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union has agreed to hold off testing nuclear weapons just as long as the Western powers do and said it hopes this will be forever. The Soviets responded to the U.S. and British announcements this week extending the Western ban on nuclear tests at least for the rest of the year. The Soviet government has made official a pledge given Aug. 10 by Premier Nikita Khrushchev. He told a British clergyman in a letter that the Soviets were "ready to accept the most solemn obligations not to be the first to conduct any further tests of nuclear weapons." But the Soviets' statement Friday night emphasized that they would be "free from this pledge" if any Western powers carry out weapons tests. France is hurrying to join the nuclear club—now exclusively the United States, Britain and the So-

Ann Sothern Describes Lucille As Good Friend

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—At a recent dinner party, a former co-worker asked Lucille Ball and Ann Sothern if RKO Studios had changed since the days when they worked there together. "Yes," replied Ann. "Lucille owns it." Lucille added: "And Ann made over the wardrobe department for her dressing room." Two of Hollywood's nicest success stories concern these glamorous tycoons. Two decades ago, both were struggling for roles and recognition at RKO. Today, Lucille and her husband Desi Arnaz are proprietors of the lot and Ann is their biggest customer. Though Ann and Lucille worked simultaneously at three studios—Columbia, RKO, MGM—they never appeared together until a year ago, when Ann was in a Desi-Lucy special. Now Lucille is repaying the visit by an appearance on the first Ann Sothern show of the season. "I dropped by to see them at work. The atmosphere was as cozy as a sewing bee. 'I love Lucille, and I know she loves me,' Ann remarked. 'Furthermore, I'm one of the few people who call her Lucille. I'm one of the few people that she is gruff and tough. But that's just her way. She's soft inside.'" Between scenes, Lucille gave her own key to the durability of their friendship: "Maybe it's because I'm not demanding. Neither is Ann." Neither could remember the occasion where they met, but their other recollections of the old RKO lot were vivid. "My career was built on the roles that Ann turned down," Lucille claimed. "I don't doubt that," Ann countered. "At any rate, they became fast friends." But Ann, unlike Lucille, has always been a lavish spender. "I've always spent money," Ann admitted. "My theory is that whatever you spend will come back to you eventually. I've spent money even when I didn't have it." Lucille has never been able to understand this. Even though she is a millionaire, she wouldn't buy herself a new dress for her show with Ann.

Plea For Peace In Juvenile War

It was the date marking the Festival of St. Augustine, an occasion heretofore celebrated with street dancing and gaiety. A statue of St. Augustine was borne aloft, but it was carried in a procession of clergymen and anxious mothers who distributed pamphlets urging people to pray for "peace on our streets."

A two-year gang truce, arranged by clergy and social workers of the area, terminated last Sunday with savage violence. ## Wants Probe Of Waste At Base

HERTFORD, N.C. (AP)—A paying contractor thinks there should be a congressional investigation into the "waste and stupidity" in the Harvey Point Naval Air Station project. Y. L. Brown of the Brown Paying Co. of Lexington told a reporter he had $250,000 worth of equipment tied up for a year on a job requiring "certainly not more than 90 days."

The Navy started construction of the Harvey Point station to serve as a base for its huge Seamaster seaplanes. Recently it announced it was abandoning the Seamaster program, and was halting construction at Harvey Point. Some $1 1/2 million dollars had been spent at Harvey Point and the project was about one third completed.

Brown, a subcontractor, cited one incident of delay which, he said, cost him heavily. It involved a change order on 15,000 feet of curb and gutter installations. "It took the Navy six months to clear that change and in the meantime, I had to pick up and move to another place there to pave a few more feet," he said. "We've spent the whole 12 months moving around and waiting and getting nothing done. It's being carried on like a bunch of school children playing."

Water Projects Veto Faces Indignant Solons

WASHINGTON (AP)—Outraged by the veto of the bill just before leaving for Europe this week. There was no word on why the announcement was held up until Friday.

The assistant Senate Republican leader, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, also was critical. He said he regretted the veto because the bill "includes funds for numerous highly important and indispensable federal projects in California."

The measure, sometimes called the "pork barrel bill" by critics, provides money for projects to curb floods, improve navigation, produce power, keep up beaches, and reclaim arid land.

After differences were worked out in conference this session, the Senate passed the bill 82-9 and the House by voice vote. The original version had been approved by a 390-20 vote in the House before it went to conference.

These figures represent far more votes than the two-thirds needed to override a veto.

The River Once Wore A Busy Look

MODERN BRIDGE . . . hardly resembles the first bridge built across the river in 1820.

By MARTHA PIERCE
Reflector Staff Writer

Many years have passed since a boat whistle on the Tar River sent people running to the banks to watch the boats come in.

Fallen trees, sandbars—the generally unkempt appearance of the river—make it difficult to picture a boat of any size making its way up the river.

River traffic has never been heavy around Greenville, but there was a time when the river was used for all traveling that the horse and buggy could not do.

Before the turn of the century, a big paddle wheel boat named Cotton Plaza plied up and down the river under the direction of a Captain Parvin. The government kept the river dredged out then, and cleared of sand bars. In fact, a report as far back as 1760 says that the Tar River was navigable for about 100 miles.

The first steamboats appeared on the river in the early 1830's, but as business ventures these boats were failures.

The steam boats that ran the course from Washington to Tarboro used wood for fuel and required three crew members—a fireman, captain, and a good cook. River boats were famous in those days for the good food they served. The slow moving boats served several meals to the passengers on the long trip to Tarboro.

Flatboats pulled behind the heavy steamers carried exports such as cotton. Around 1890 commercial fertilizers began being hauled up the river. People would listen for the boat whistles and meet the fertilizer-laden boats at the river bank with ox carts.

Name Is Mystery

Beginning in the early 1700's Pitt County forests of long leaf pines furnished a large share of the tar that was exported from the colonies. On a trip President George Washington made through this section of the country in 1791, he noted in his diary that Greenville exported more tar than Tarboro.

No written sources link the early tar export with the present name of the river. Records show that the Pamlico part of the river got its Indian name much earlier than this section. A generally accepted theory is that the name derived from an old Indian name of "Tau." Early maps of this county name the river "Taw." Another explanation for the river name comes from a historian named Hawks who says that "Tar" is a corruption of the first syllable of the Indian word "Torpoeo."

A free ferry established in 1791 by the Assembly gave way to the first bridge to span the Tar in 1820. A manually operated ferry was used later on unbridged parts of the river.

In the early part of the 20th Century boats named "The Tarboro," "The Shiloh," and "The Edgecomb" carried freight, goods, and passengers on the Washington-Tarboro route. The first gas operated boat on the Tar was the Lillian Fountain named by J.L. Fountain for his daughter. Every three or four miles the boats would stop at a landing to unload.

All activity has dwindled on the river. People still fish there, but the excitement is gone that once accompanied the shad season. Herring and shad were among the many varieties of fish netted on the Tar River.

Old memories connected with the river have faded too, as its usefulness has lessened. Few people remember the old civil war fort located about seven miles up the river from Greenville, or how it came to be built. The story goes that a Pitt resident had a big stock of brandy and decided the town needed a fort. He hired a company of soldiers traveling from Washington to Tarboro to build the fort in exchange for all the brandy they could drink.

With much of its history already lost, the old Tar River, a landmark in this section, flows sluggishly down from the center of the state. The face of the river, changed little in the last several hundred years, remains unconcerned that it is of little economic importance and a pit fall for disrespectful swimmers.

Six Signposts To World War II Ignored

By CARL C. CRANMER
Associated Press Staff Writer

The first wagonloads of dead and wounded returned to the German border at dawn Sept. 1, 1939. Adolf Hitler had announced his invasion of Poland a few hours before. World War II — with its mountains of dead — was on.

The immediate cause was controversy over the city of Danzig and the Polish Corridor, which Hitler insisted must be reunited to his Third Reich.

A world steeped in present-day tensions finds it difficult to recapture the moods and events of that day.

Briefly, six signposts pointed to World War II—Manchuria, Ethiopia, the Rhineland, the Spanish Civil War, Austria and Czechoslovakia. These were the signs that caused Hitler to imagine he could pursue his conquests without real interference from Britain and France, and that he could ignore the United States and the rest of the world.

Each sign, in its way, illustrated the disunity of world powers and their failure to act in time. The first aggression was in Manchuria in September 1931. The Japanese eventually took over Manchuria and put Henry Pu-yi, a former Manchu emperor, on the throne.

China appealed to the League of Nations. Japan withdrew from the League. U.S. Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson called for collective action, but no world power was prepared to act.

Japanese troops landed at Shanghai, starting a piecemeal war left undeclared until 1941.

Hitler, riding a crest of massed swastikas and supported by street rowdies and storm troopers, came to power in 1933.

By that time it was clear Japan had successfully challenged the League. Hitler's fellow dictator in Italy, Benito Mussolini, presented the next challenge.

Eager to avenge old defeats and expand his empire, he attacked Ethiopia in 1935. The spears and muskets of Ethiopian warriors were no match for Mussolini's bombing planes and mechanized columns.

Mussolini's ambitions directly concerned Britain and France. But France failed to support Britain, and the league could only declare economic penalties against the Fascists. This lesson was not lost on Hitler. In March 1936 his goose-stepping soldiers entered the Rhineland.

Britain's Stanley Baldwin now failed to support France. France mobilized troops along the German frontier but did not act. (It was discovered later that Hitler was prepared to evacuate the Rhineland if French troops moved in.)

The Rhineland was a 30-mile wide strip of German territory demilitarized by the Versailles Treaty. Hitler's remilitarization of the zone not only violated the World War I treaty but tore up the Locarno Pact which Germany had signed in 1925.

Events were marching so fast that they were stepping on each others' heels. The Spanish Civil War started in 1936 as a rightist revolt against a popular front government. It soon developed into an international testing ground for World War II. Hitler's divebomber Stukas and other weapons were tried out here. Both the forces of the Nazi-Fascist Axis and of international communism became deeply involved.

This conflict ended in 1939 only five months before the start of World War II. Hitler already had taken his first steps of foreign conquest. In 1938 he summoned Austrian Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg and cowed him. A Nazi storm trooper organization which murdered Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss in a 1934 attempt to seize the Austrian government was plotting a new putsch against Schuschnigg. He agreed to accept Nazis in his government.

The rest was easy. Within a month, the Anschluss of Austria with Hitler's Reich was arranged by telephone from Berlin. Schuschnigg resigned and Hitler flew to Vienna to receive the frenzied "heils" of Austrian Nazis.

The stage was set for the final aggression before World War II. Since 1936 Germany had been in a frenzy whipped up by Hitler's fiery oratory, the mass spectacles of party rallies and marching men.

Nazi propaganda began a drum-fire against Czechoslovakia. A German minority in the Czechoslovak Sudetenland was alleged to be persecuted. The surrender of the Sudetenland and its prized border fortifications was demanded.

Hitler's threats in defense of the Sudeten Germans found sympathy in Britain and France. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain believed it possible to appease Hitler by granting his demands. And French Premier Eduard Daladier flew to Germany to meet Hitler and Mussolini. The result was the Munich agreement of Sept. 30, 1938, which called on Czechoslovak President Eduard Benes to yield the border areas.

Benes' requests for British and French assistance were turned down.

Chamberlain hailed the agreement as guaranteeing "peace in our time." His hopes were soon dispelled. Benes, under pressure from both Germany and Poland, resigned. On March 14, 1939, his successor, President Emil Hacha, was summoned to Berlin and threatened with the destruction of Prague by air. Next day Czechoslovakia was declared a protectorate of Germany.

On April 8 Mussolini attacked and quickly seized a weak victim, Albania. The following month he concluded a firm military alliance with Germany, discredited, Britain and France were belatedly aroused. Poland, it seemed obvious, was in line for attack. They declared they would go to Poland's assistance, and they entered into negotiations in Moscow for a similar promise from the Soviet Union.

But the Soviet Union was suspicious. Amid the negotiations, Moscow announced on Aug. 21 a 10-year treaty of neutrality and nonaggression with Germany.

Hitler had a free hand with Poland for 10 years, so far as the Soviet Union was concerned. He attacked at the end of 10 days.

Heavy Volume Of Sales For Belt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy volume marked the end of sales for the week on flue-cured tobacco markets of the Carolina Border Belt and the Eastern North Carolina Belt. Prices were steady to higher.

Both belts noted a decline in quality, however.

The Federal-State Market News Service said Eastern Belt price increases Friday were $1 to $5 a hundred pounds. The largest gains were for lower quality offerings. Sample auction bid averages on the Eastern Belt:

Leaf—Low orange $65, poor orange $62, poor variegated orange $55.

Smoking leaf—Poor orange $66, poor variegated $59.

Lugs—Fair orange $68.

Primings—Fair orange $64, low orange $49.

Nondescript—Best medium body $51.

The South Carolina - Border North Carolina Belt prices Friday held about in line with the previous day, but there were a few more gains than losses. Some inferior grades showed price fluctuations of $1 to $5 per hundred-weight.

Thursday's Eastern Belt sales totaled 11,288,756 pounds, averaging $57.04 per 100. Thursday's Border Belt sales: North Carolina markets, 5,829,838 pounds, $63.46 average; South Carolina, 5,112,416, $63.31.

High Altitude Camera Planned

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—A 36-inch telescopic camera designed to photograph planets and stars during the night from beneath a high altitude balloon is expected to be in operation in about two years.

This was reported Friday by Dr. Martin Schwarzschild, who briefed newsmen on results of a camera-television study of sun spots made by a 12-inch remote controlled camera from some 80,000 feet.

Schwarzschild, a Princeton University astronomer, said the larger camera is expected to incorporate many of the features embodied in the one used in sun spot and magnetic fields exploration.

He said the sun spot pictures obtained through the telescopic sequence camera also produced closed circuit television for the ground crew controlling the study.

"The new camera enabled us to follow a specific event on the sun for a period of time," Schwarzschild said, "rather than obtaining only isolated photos. The pictures (200-400 prime ones) will help substantially in the understanding of the motions which we observe in the strong magnetic fields of the sun spots."

Tried To Block Off Coming Car

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (AP) — Mrs. Lois Biser drove into a narrow side street here last evening — and screamed.

She saw a car starting up from the curb. In front of it, too small for the driver to see, was a little boy.

Mrs. Biser tried to block the car with her own in an effort to stop it—too late. The car ran over the child.

It wasn't until Mrs. Robert L. Martin, the other driver, got out that she saw the child lying on the pavement behind her car.

It was her own son, Terry Martin, 1½.

He was hospitalized, and his condition was listed as serious.

Went Too Far In Stealing Kiss

DUARTE, Calif. (AP)—A pair of gunmen went too far when they kissed waitress Adela Picard after robbing a bar of $836.

Waiting outside for Miss Picard, 26, was her friend, Melvin Bergschneider. He saw the kisses and took down the gunmen's license number as they drove off Friday.

Fourteen minutes later police nabbed Billie Joe Simon, 30, Modesto, Calif., and Ralford Lee Malone, 24, Los Angeles, in nearby Arcadia. The loot was still in the car, officers said.

Simon and Malone were booked on suspicion of robbery.

WRITE DOWN THE LICENSE NUMBER OF YOUR ESCORT'S CAR AND KEEP THE NOTATION IN YOUR POSSESSION—JUST IN CASE.

THE TRAIN, WITH RHODENT'S CAR ATTACHED, IS FINALLY SIGNALLED TO A STOP—

THE GAS TANK CAUGHT FIRE FROM FRICTION WITH THE TRACKS. WE SAW IT FROM THE COPTER.

WE'LL PRY THE AUTO LOOSE SO THE TRAIN CAN PULL AHEAD AND PREVENT THAT FREIGHT CAR FROM CATCHING FIRE.

THESE HAND EXTINGUISHERS ARE PRETTY FEEBLE, BUT THEY'RE BETTER THAN NOTHING.

OKAY—IT'LL HAVE TO BURN ITSELF OUT. THE TRACK BACK OF THIS IS STREWN WITH DEBRIS.

FIRST THE FENDERS, THEN THE DOORS JARRED LOOSE—THEN THE WHEELS CAME OFF.

WHAT DO YOU SEE, SAM? ONE CHARRED BODY—

ONE? YES, ONE—A MAN. AT LAST, TRACY, WE'VE FOUND THE RAT FACED MAN. LOOK.

YES, THAT'S THE RAT FACED MAN! BUT—BUT WHAT ABOUT THE GIRL? YES, WHAT HAPPENED TO FATTY, THE GIRL?

IT SEEMS TO ME THAT IF SHE HAD FALLEN OUT OF THE CAR, WE'D HAVE SEEN HER FROM THE COPTER.

WELL, WE'D BETTER GO BACK OVER THAT ROUTE FOOT BY FOOT," SAYS TRACY. "WE'VE GOT TO FIND FATTY."

'Hardrock' Simpson Is Planning Another Run

BURLINGTON, N. C. (AP) — Paul (Hardrock) Simpson, Burlington's running postman, is planning a 55-mile jaunt to celebrate his 55th birthday next Wednesday.

Hardrock runs a birthday mile for each year of his age.

During the nine years he has done so, Hardrock has failed to make the distance only once, a failure he blamed on lack of training.

Not one to give up, he tried again a week later and was able to make it.

Hardrock's run this year will begin in Martinsville, Va., take him down Highway 87 through Lakesville, Spray, Reidsville and around Alamahaw - Ossipee into Burlington.

The run is being sponsored by Red Star Service Station here and Coble Dairy.

"I plan to start at 8 a.m. and finish the 55 miles by 4:30 or 5 p.m.," Hardrock says.

He fears that heat may bother him a bit. But he says he has learned to beat the heat in a number of ways. One of these ways, is to run with a little ice under his cap.

Hardrock is looking forward to the run this year. He says he is in better shape this year than he has been in a number of years.

He has been training daily. He does about 12 to 15 miles on the days he has to work, and 30 miles on his days off.

As a postman he walks an estimated 12 miles each day on his route. In addition to all this training, Hardrock has already had 12 running engagements this year.

These range from running constantly during doubleheader baseball games to racing youngsters less than half his age. One such race in Virginia last March found him soundly defeating six 20-year-olds in a 50-mile race.

"I won in a walk," he says. Hardrock's most famous race was against four horses and two other men last year from Salt Lake City, Utah to Roosevelt, Utah, a distance of 157 miles.

Hardrock, the last man to leave the race, was stopped by a mile of horses after running 123 miles. A horse won the race, but Hardrock is quick to point out that the horse later died.

Hardrock has been sore as a result of some of the races, but never sick, he says.

In fact, he claims he is getting better with age. "I don't even get sore any more."

Will the birthday runs continue indefinitely?

"I don't see why not," is Hardrock's comment.

TOUGH SADDLE

By MATT STUART
© By Matt Stuart, 1950; from the Dodd, Mead & Co. novel; distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 22
HIGH UP in the saddlebacks, some half mile north of where the rocky, precipitous ribs of the Palisades ran out into the more open hills, there jutted a lofty point, sparsely timbered. From here a man with field-glasses might survey a wide expanse of country and a great many trails. From here a man could look almost directly down, so it seemed, on the toy-like buildings of Running M headquarters. Well beyond and north and deeper into the plain. Big Five headquarters grumbled near the willow and alder marked run of Rosebud Creek.

and picked his horse. After he'd built his small fire, cooked and ate a frugal meal, then sat smoking by the dwindling fire while the night turned deep dark and the wind grew chill. That night, out at Double Diamond headquarters, Jonas Dalmar listened to reports from two of his men, Sage Wingo and Wiley Goss.

Frank had been of mixed incredulity and revulsion. Not warned by this, he had gone on telling what he planned against Big Five and Running M in the immediate future. Finally, still not content, and with the venom rampant in him, he had used the verbal lash wickedly on Frank.

More nearly directly east and deeply distant on the plain, flashes of reflected sunset light on ranchhouse windows marked Tom Grant's Drag 40 layout. Even farther into the plain and miles south, points of that same reflected light positioned Double Diamond headquarters, while in that same general direction, but closer at hand, the windows of Garrison town also struck up their shine.

"Frank didn't go back to town," Wingo stated. "Last night I saw him there when he got his horse and headed for home this morning. When Bob Custer brought in the Okadale stage I asked him if he'd seen Frank along the road, and he hadn't. So, if Frank's skipped the country he didn't take the stage road out."

These things, Jonas Dalmar realized now, had been damaging mistakes. For it was not beyond reason that Frank, because of his friendship with the Vincent girl, would carry the entire story to Big Five.

His rifle was stacked against the tree, ready to his hand, and several yards back along the rest of the point his horse waited ground-level and dozing.

"Not hide nor hair," affirmed Goss. "No sign of Asbell?"

He rolled his cigar across his lips and returned his glance to Wiley Goss.

For the past couple of hours Frank had been just as he was, watching and waiting. In that time he marked the movement of several people.

"No sign of Asbell?"

He rolled his cigar across his lips and returned his glance to Wiley Goss.

He watched Rupe Hahn and Pearly Grimes shifting about on the Running M, occupied with their ranch chores. He saw a buckboard peeling away toward town, guessing correctly that this was Doc Jerome.

"What's in them for him?"

He rolled his cigar across his lips and returned his glance to Wiley Goss.

Here earlier in the afternoon, Frank had set up camp, spreading his blankets and hanging his sack of food from a limb.

"What's in them for him?"

He rolled his cigar across his lips and returned his glance to Wiley Goss.

Now he unsaddled, watered

"What's in them for him?"

He rolled his cigar across his lips and returned his glance to Wiley Goss.

City's Cafeteria Fine, But Needs Customers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — On the roof of the new Los Angeles County Courthouse there's a $600,000 cafeteria which has almost every thing.

It has a beautiful view of the Civic Center. It has a machine that can wash 10,000 dirty dishes a day. It can feed 6,000 customers a day—and the food is good.

What it needs is customers. It's being boycotted. One day last week it had only 400 customers.

"It would appear," said County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, "that the operator got off on the wrong foot."

On opening day, Leonard Glaser, who operates the cafeteria on rental from the county, noticed a good luncheon trade. But few people showed up for coffee breaks.

He nosed around the big, new courthouse and found out why: on the first floor there was an employe-operated "Siesta Club" that was selling coffee and doughnuts by the gallons and thousands—at half the price charged in the handsome penthouse facility.

Glaser batted out a strongly worded letter to the Board of Supervisors. He charged:

His business venture on the roof was being undermined by amateurs on the first floor. He had to pay rent (it's 13 1/2 per cent of his gross), and the Siesta Club didn't. He had to pay his help and the Siesta Club used file clerks on the county payroll to serve refreshments almost all the time.

The county turned over operation of the snack bar to Glaser, too. He promptly raised the price from 5 to 8 cents. And the customers began to stay away in droves. Many employes complained Glaser was "highhanded."

"I'm only serving 400 meals a day," Glaser complained a little later. "I must sell 600 to break even." Even the snack bar was virtually deserted.

Everyone agrees the boycott was unofficial—but effective.

Supervisor Hahn suggested that if it didn't ease in two weeks—by Labor Day—the county should take the cafeteria operation away from Glaser.

To try to patch things up with his customers—the 5,000 county workers in the Civic Center—Glaser gave away free coffee and doughnut for three hours last Tuesday.

Business in free items was brisk.

New ABA Prexy Continues Policy

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — When the American Bar Assn. chose as its new president, a small city man from the corn belt, some lawyers wondered whether the ABA's hottest current project of seeking world peace through law would suffer.

Would a man whose 36 years of general law practice were in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, be thoroughly sold on it? Or would he fear this nation's freedom to run its own business might be endangered by the project?

John D. Randall answered the questions within minutes after taking the presidency of the legal group whose 95,000 members include some of the nation's top political figures.

Yes, he said, the ambitious project, whose ultimate goal is to convince nations to settle their disputes by legal means rather than by war—would be continued. And it will be pushed vigorously, he said.

One of his first official acts as president was to broaden the base of the committee laying the foundation for a global conference of lawyers in connection with the work. In addition to practicing attorneys, he named two United States senators and a federal district court judge to the group.

Randall, 59, is a native of Lisbon, Iowa, but he grew up in Cedar Rapids where his father was a lawyer. He got his law degree at the University of Iowa.

Most of his practice has been in and around Cedar Rapids.

He long has been active in the affairs of the American Bar Association. He held the organization's second highest post—chairman of the house of delegates—from 1954 to 1956.

Both before and after his term as chairman of the house, he headed committees working in specialized fields of the legal profession.

Win Accredited Rating For Year

The elementary department and the high school department of the Roberson Union School at Winterville were given accredited ratings as of the school year 1958-1959 by the State Accreditation Committee at a recent meeting, according to G. H. Ferguson, Director of the Division of Negro Education for the Department of Public Instruction.

The accreditation of these two departments gives the school the distinction of being the first and only Negro school in the county with accredited ratings in both high school and elementary departments, J. W. Maye, principal of the school, said.

Forced Off Road, Arrested Driver

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP) — Some motorists would have fumed. This one acted.

Forced to drive up an embankment to escape collision with a speeding driver, he wheeled about and overtook the offender after a three-mile chase.

In District Court Friday William F. Francisco Jr., 18, was fined $40 after pleading guilty to speeding and violating the law of the road.

The motorist he crowded was Police Chief Ernest Jay of nearby Belchertown.

WELCOME HOME

HAMLET, Ind. (AP) — A 600-pound black steer was struck by a truck on a highway and hurled to the parking lot of a roadside restaurant. The name of the restaurant: Black Steer.

Governor Names More To Posts

RALEIGH (AP)—Places on the State Prisons Commission, Veterans Commission, and Real Estate Licensing Board were filled Friday by Gov. Hodges.

The continuing flow of appointments also included a board of trustees for the firemen's pension fund created by the 1959 General Assembly.

Capt. Berry C. Gibson of the Charlotte Fire Department, I. Miller Warren of the Plymouth volunteer department, and Dr. Clyde Carter, business law professor at the University of North Carolina, were named trustees for the fund.

The other appointments: Prison Commission—James M. Parrott Jr., Kinston; Dr. Harley C. Shands, Chapel Hill; and reappointed, Edgar Gurganus, Williamston.

Veterans Commission—Chris C. Fordham Jr., Greensboro.

Real Estate Licensing Board—Peter Hairston, Mocksville; Henry V. Kooz, High Point; and reappointed, D. Russell Foster Jr., Kinston.

Sanford Suffers Damaging Fire

SANFORD, N.C. (AP) — Fire destroyed two businesses and damaged others here early today.

The alarm, about midnight, came from the Johnson Beauty Shop on Steele Street. While firemen battled the flames, the windows of an adjoining building, housing Sanford Optical Co., exploded and sprayed glass among spectators watching the fire.

No one was reported injured, however.

The fire destroyed both the beauty salon and the optical firm. Smoke and water damaged the adjoining Western Auto Store and Dossbach's Furniture Store, situated at the rear of the two destroyed businesses.

Fire Chief J. O. Bridges, whose men had the flames controlled about 2 a.m., said he believed the fire started in the rear of the optical company building, rather than the beauty salon as first thought. He said the damage seemed to be the heaviest in the rear of the optical firm.

The cause was not known.

Chief Bridges said there was smoke damage also to the Sanford Loan Co., Dr. C. C. Hatch's of dental offices and the J. D. Ennis accounting firm offices, all located on the second floor of the Western Auto building.

Law On Unused Cotton Allotments Is Explained

RALEIGH — President Eisenhower on August 18 signed a bill which provides a method for transferring unused cotton allotments in an orderly way from farm to farm within counties in each cotton growing State.

In outlining the benefits of this bill to cotton farmers in North Carolina Wiley J. Long, Jr., of Roanoke Rapids, President of the North Carolina Cotton Promotion Association said:

"Had this bill not been signed a farmer in 1960 would have had to plant or release 90% of his allotment each year. Underplanted acreage would have been lost to the farm, the county, and to North Carolina.

"Under the new law he will have to plant or release 75% or more of his allotment each year to retain full history. But, acreage lost to the farm on which it is underplanted will not leave North Carolina. It will be re-distributed into the farm allotment base of the active cotton farmers in the same county.

"Voluntarily released acreage, under the new law, will be credited to the farm, and also to the county from which released. Hereafter it was credited only to the farm. This is a major advantage to North Carolina, because no loss of released acreage can occur to the farm or the county and State," Long concluded.

"The signature of the President to this bill marked a major victory for the North Carolina Cotton Promotion Association, and its able executive 'Fritz' Heidalberg," added T. B. Upchurch of Raeford, Chairman of the legislative committee of the cotton organization. "Fritz" proved himself a masterful strategist in forging a powerful coalition of cotton forces for this bill in the old South

Trimmed His Car In Mink Skins

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Jay Bullen has a fleet of six new automobiles. His favorite is a 1959 custom-built Cadillac.

But Bullen, about 40 and heir to a tobacco fortune, wasn't satisfied. It hadn't anything to do with the black leather upholstery of the seats or the ostrich skin paneling. Then he hit on the perfect combination—silver-blue mink. Finding enough matched skins of the right shade was a problem.

It took 17 long distance phone calls. Finally Bullen had his mink—an eight-by-four-foot chunk from a Tucson fashion store.

The car went to customizer Charles Wortman. Wortman supervised the building of custom interiors for planes assigned to generals Eisenhower, Spaatz and Patton during World War II.

Wortman snipped carefully, soon had the rear floor board, the armrests and door straps covered. Bullen was enchanted. He brushed off a reporter's query about the cost, but a Phoenix furrier said it was at least $2,500.

Bullen, however, didn't want the mink for the rear seat. That, he said, would be overdoing it.
