Drake Talks To Patient Circle

The Patient Circle of The King's Daughters and Sons held its first meeting of the fall Tuesday in the Ladies' Parlor of the Eighth Street Christian Church. Joint hostesses were Mesdames Milton White, E. W. Harvey, T. T. Hollingsworth, L. B. Fleming, Janie Johnston, Nannie Evans and Miss Ellen Proctor.

The president, Mrs. C. A. Bowen, opened the meeting with the Prayer of the Order. She gave a few words of greetings to the reassembled group and then introduced the Rev. John W. Drake who challenged the members through his inspirational talk to carry on their deeds of charity and mercy. He stressed particularly the Circle's project, the building of a Home for the Aged, and expressed confidence that "In His Name" this worthy cause would come to fruition.

A short routine business session was held and the various committee chairmen made reports. Mrs. Milton White, social service chairman, told of help rendered during the summer months. Mrs. Clara Shackell reported that both of the Circle's rolling chairs were now in use. Mrs. Bowen informed the group about a state meeting which she, Mrs. Shackell and Miss Bert Quinerly had attended June 6 in Rocky Mount.

She further told of other transactions of Circle business during the summer months. She said the sick and bereaved members had been remembered with cards and visits. Before closing her report, she urged all of the members to begin making plans to attend the State Convention of The King's Daughters and Sons to be held in Raleigh October 25, 26 and 27.

The nominating committee, appointed in May, read the slate of officers for the years 1960-62: president, Mrs. Clara Moyer Shackell; first vice-president, Miss Bert Quinerly; second vice-president, Mrs. Luther Moore; treasurer, Mrs. C. A. Bowen; assistant secretary, Mrs. Cora S. Powell; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Milton White; treasurer of building fund, Miss Martha Lee Cowell; assistant treasurer of building fund, Mrs. H. W. Winstead.

The report was unanimously accepted and the new officers will be installed at the November meeting.

During the social hour, the hostesses served lime ice and homemade cake with salted nuts.

The club met for cards and coffee.

Mrs. Goldstein won the door prize. High score for bridge was awarded to Mrs. Etta Bloom, second high to Mrs. Sara Allen and low to Mrs. Peggy Govan. Winners for Canasta were Mrs. Martha Snowden and Mrs. Novella Thomas.

The Newcomers meet on second and fourth Thursday mornings. All newcomers to Greenville are invited to attend these sessions.

Eat A Good Breakfast

RALEIGH—Now is the time to plan a better breakfast for those back-to-school children. See that your son or daughter gets a good breakfast before leaving for school. It will help him to be more alert mentally and physically.

Miss S. Virginia Wilson, food and nutrition specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, says that it is especially important to see that a protein food of some kind is included.

It might be: milk in some form—on a cereal, a hot or cold beverage or even cream soups; or an egg, or some lean meat. Bacon contains a small amount of protein, but not enough to give you that comfortable stick-to-your ribs feeling that lean meats provide.

A good pattern for a well balanced breakfast for those who do mental or physical labor is a fruit; main dish of cereal, eggs or lean meat; bread and beverage.

If you want to be smart—eat a good breakfast.

Sugg-Allen Wedding Vows Spoken Yesterday With Farm Women

FHA Members Hold Session

The late summer wedding of Miss Gerald Wayne Allen and Ray D. Sugg was solemnized in the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church on Sunday afternoon. The Rev. Robert B. Crawford, pastor of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. J. W. Allen, and the late Mr. Allen of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ethel Sugg of Route 1, Ayden.

Baskets of white chrysanthemums interspersed with glowing cathedral tapers were used against a background of greenery. White chrysanthemums tied with white satin bows were used to reserve the special pews.

Prior to the ceremony a program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Bill Taylor, organist, Bill Moore soloist, sang "Because," "I Love You Truly," and as a benediction "Oh Perfect Love," was sung.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her cousin, Doyle Little, and given in marriage by her mother. She wore a waltz-length gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta fashioned along princess lines. The V-neckline was re-embroidered with pearls and sequins. The long tapering sleeves ended in points over the hands.

Her small cloche of lace, pearls and sequins featured a fingertip veil. Her bouquet was a cascade of roses, valley-lilies and English ivy centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Chester Don Worthington was matron of honor. Her light-pink brocaded taffeta and chiffon waltz-length dress was fashioned with a fitted bodice, scooped neckline and full skirt. Crushed chiffon panels marked the waistline which tied in back and fell softly to the hemline of the skirt. She wore a matching headdress and carried a cascade bouquet of asters in shades of orchid with matching satin ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sandra Allen, sister of the bride, and Miss Betty Lou Sugg of Washington, D. C., sister of the bridegroom. They wore ensembles identical to the matron of honor in heaven blue and each carried a cascade bouquet of asters in shades of pink with matching satin ribbon.

Flower girls were Pat and Pam Allen, twin sisters of the bride. Their full-skirted dresses were fashioned of sky-blue embroidered organza over taffeta and accented by matching sashes. Their headpieces were of tiny pink flowers and each carried a pink satin basket filled with rose petals.

Serving as best man was Chester Don Worthington. Ushers were Wesley Smith, cousin of the bridegroom, and Louis Flake.

Mrs. Allen, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a sea-foam green embroidered linen sheath. Mrs. Sugg, mother of the groom, chose a navy-blue crepe dress. Each wore a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Jack Corbett, maternal grandmother of the bride, was attired in navy-blue and wore a corsage of white roses.

The couple, their parents, and attendants received guests in the vestibule of the church immediately following their wedding.

The bride is a 1955 graduate of Greensboro High School and is presently employed by Refrigeration Discount Corporation of Wile.

The bridegroom is a 1953 graduate of Winterville High School and is presently in the U. S. Navy, stationed aboard the U.S.S. Roosevelt.

For a wedding trip to an unannounced destination, the bride changed to a two-piece costume dress of Royal-blue with matching accessories and the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

After a wedding trip the bride will continue to make her home with her mother in Greenville while the groom completes his tour of duty with the U. S. Navy.

Cake Cutting

Following the rehearsal of the Sugg-Allen wedding on Saturday night, Mrs. Jasper Jackson, Mrs. Alvin Lincoln, and Mrs. E. C. Travasso entertained at a cake cutting at the home of the latter.

The home was made festive for the occasion with the use of bridal flowers and burning candles. The dining room table was covered with a cut work cloth and centered with a tiered wedding cake, surmounted by a miniature bride and groom. The bride's cake was placed in the center of a large round mirror which was banked with a border of white chrysanthemums and fern. Double silver candelabra were used on either side of the mirror.

After the bride and bridegroom cut the first slice of their wedding cake, Mrs. J. W. Allen, mother of the bride, served the guests cake and Mrs. Ethel Sugg, mother of the groom, presided at the punch bowl. Nuts and mints were also served.

Miss Allen was presented a white mum corsage. At the close of the evening, Miss Allen presented gifts to her attendants.

Club Member 40 Years

Mrs. Rennie Alexander of Creswell Home Demonstration Club in Washington County recently celebrated her 99th birthday by entertaining members of her Home Demonstration Club. Mrs. Rennie was hostess to the first club meeting in 1919—which was held in her front yard with the old black wash pot used for canning tomatoes and beans.

Mrs. Frances Darden, home economics agent, says all through the years Mrs. Rennie has been active in promoting club work and putting into practice many new methods of homemaking. She still attends club meetings; but her activities are limited to knitting pot holders and wash cloths.

Do-It-Yourself Method

"The best way to get remodeling done is to do it yourself," says Mrs. Mervin Anders of Transylvania County. Mrs. Anders wanted to enlarge her living room by removing a partition between the living room and bedroom. So, she got her hammer, saw, and wrecking bar and went to work.

Miss Annie B. Priest, home economics agent, says all through the invites any women who want experience in the use of the saw and hammer to come around.

Removal of Spots

"Out with Spots and Stains" was recently demonstrated at Home Demonstration Club meetings in Halifax County.

Mrs. Estelle White, home economics agent, says members found out how to remove grease, candle wax, chewing gum, ink, fruit juice, and other beverages from stained clothes. Also, removal of rust and paint was discussed.

Conservation Pays Off

The Bill Marr family of Clay County's Shooting Creek community is getting ready for winter—when it comes to canned foods.

According to Mrs. Mena H. Woodie, home economics agent, Mrs. Marr has canned 349 jars of blackberries, corn, grapes, carrots, cucumbers, apple sauce, kraut, and many other fruits and vegetables. Her only expense was cost of containers since the food was produced at home.

Club Activities

With family vacations and plentiful gardens many clubs felt the effects of summer activity through smaller attendance and decreased activities. However, many Home Demonstration clubs were busy completing projects and planning new fall activities.

Mrs. Marilyn T. Hartsell, Durham County home economics agent, says 12 members of Glenn Club met at the new Ruritan Community House to finish hemming draperies for the building. Ten pairs of lined draperies were bought, made and hung by this group of active women.

Freezing Cooked Foods

Do you plan your meals ahead by freezing cheese biscuits, banana bread, fruit pie, or small sandwiches? Entertaining can be simple if you plan and freeze ahead.

According to Miss June Street, Yancey County home economics agent, Home Demonstration club women there are anxious for information on better and improved methods in freezing—especially cooked foods.

The FHA Song was sung by 27 Winterville Future Homemakers and their adviser, Miss Alya Ray Taylor, when they held their first meeting of the new year in the Home Economics cottage Thursday afternoon. Each new and old member alike sang to express their hopes for a most successful year for 1959-60.

Sue Ellen Hunsucker, president, called the meeting to order and gave a special welcome to the new members, Nancy Branch, Sara Branch, Lynda Hall, Jeannette Harris, Theradine Harris, Jamie Lou Jackson, Connie Jones, Mary Virginia Langston, Sara Pat Olive, Patricia Wilson, Corinne Jackson, and Virginia Manning.

The minutes of the executive board meeting and luncheon at the home of Miss Taylor on August 26 were read and approved. Dolly Ann Harris, vice-president, had charge of the devotions which she concluded with a prayer to God for guidance throughout the coming year.

During the business session, the date for initiation was announced as September 18. The Mother-Daughter banquet will be Nov. 18. District I Rally will be at Pamlico County High School October 3. Pitt County Rally is to be at Winterville High School October 22 at 4:00 o'clock.

The selling of magazines, knives, dish cloths, and Christmas cards was discussed and the club voted to sell them.

The regular meeting date was set as the first Thursday afternoon in each month. Refreshments were served.

Hints For Housewife

BETHEL—"The ideal housewife is one who never puts off until tomorrow the things that can be done today. A methodical housewife can help make a happy home."

This statement was made by Mrs. C. E. Brown, family life leader, at the recent Bethel Home Demonstration Club meeting.

She also gave other rules for a homemaker to abide by in order to become a perfect housewife.

Mrs. Maude Harris presented the devotional at the beginning of the meeting which was presided over by Mrs. R. R. Whitehurst, president.

Mrs. Herbert Brown with Mrs. W. J. Taylor and Mrs. Claude Williamson were joint hostesses for the September session.

In the absence of the garden leader, Mrs. R. R. James reported that now is the time for planting collards and turnips for spring use.

A nominating committee was appointed to select new officers for the coming year. Those on this committee were Mrs. A. J. Crane, Mrs. J. S. Moore and Mrs. H. L. Tetterton.

It was also announced that a book presented by the club had been placed in the Bethel Library in memory of the late W. E. Crisp. At this meeting, Mrs. Whitehurst was voted the outstanding leader for the year 1959.

Mrs. Dennis Hardy, foods and nutrition leader, gave a demonstration on serving a nutritious breakfast. She stated, "Teenagers and housewives are the worst offenders where a good breakfast is concerned. Studies have shown that workers who eat a well-balanced breakfast, high in proteins, tire less quickly and get more work done than those who skip their meals."

Mrs. Hardy ended her demonstration by serving Golden Crunchy bread. This bread was especially recommended for breakfast.

To the 24 members and one visitor, Mrs. Malena W. Powell, the hostesses served cookies, cake, pimiento cheese sandwiches, pickles and punch.

Moon Shot A Tool Of Cold War?

For the moment at least Soviet Russia has taken the undisputed place of leadership in the new space age with the landing of its new "cosmic" rocket on the moon.

Importance of the event so far as space exploration is concerned cannot be estimated. American scientists and military experts were quick to assert that if the Soviets were successful in landing their data capsule on the moon 240,000 miles away, there can be no doubt that they possess a guidance system which could place intercontinental ballistic missiles on potential global targets with pinpoint accuracy.

Neither can there be any doubt that the successful Soviet moon shot, coming on the eve of the arrival of Soviet Premier Khrushchev in the United States will add international prestige to the Soviet chief as he discusses international problems with President Eisenhower. Like other Soviet "first" of the fledgling space age, this latest achievement by Soviet scientists may well put Premier Khrushchev in a boastful mood. Certainly it will be used by the Kremlin propaganda organization in an effort to influence Western and neutral nations alike throughout the globe during Khrushchev's visit to the United States.

In spite of lip service which has been given by the Soviets recently of their desire for better international understanding, the timing of this latest moon shot with the visit of Premier Khrushchev to the United States makes it clear that the Kremlin has no intention of giving up the war of nerves that has been one of the focal points of the cold war. We must assume, therefore, that the Soviets will still continue to obtain new goals, geographically and otherwise, by using their new achievements in the cold war without resorting to open conflict.

In spite of this latest achievement of the space age by the Soviets, the United States and the Free World cannot afford to give ground to Khrushchev or his underlings on the basic points of the present international situation. If we retreat now, there will be new and more far reaching demands later. The Soviet appetite for world domination will only be whetted.

While this latest scientific achievement by the Soviets is bound to have repercussions in international affairs it must not panic the Free World or coerce the West into comprising its principles. To be so would be to invite tragedy to the free peoples throughout the world.

Bread And Water Is Not The Real Answer

Considerably more than a bread and water diet for juvenile-criminals is required of American Society if it is to deal effectively with the problem of juvenile delinquency which faces many communities of the nation.

The 45-day bread and water penalty imposed by Michigan judge on a 16-year-old boy who admitted a long string of break-ins and robberies is indicative of a growing tendency on the part of the courts in dealing with young offenders. In itself, however, these stiffer punishments are not the answer.

To be sure, the courts must deal sternly with juvenile criminals just as they do with adults if the spirit of the law and justice is to be carried out. It is a mistake, however, for society to leave entirely to law enforcement agencies and the courts the problem of youthful criminals. In many communities this appears to be the rule rather than the exception.

Most youths who become delinquents are well on their way in a set pattern before their first brush with the law or the courts. The job of rehabilitating a delinquent and making him a constructive member of society is much more time consuming, much more costly and much more complicated than preventative measures which might be applied to prevent his becoming a delinquent in the first place. So far as the law enforcement agencies and the courts are concerned, they are doing their job well considering the tools with which they have to work.

The failure—and certainly there is one when youngsters go astray—must be in the citizenry and with other groups and agencies. More attention must be given by the public to eliminating the causes of delinquency rather than relying so heavily on the courts to provide the cure. Generally, we know the causes. In some instances we have begun to take steps to remove the breeding grounds which spawn delinquents. But these efforts as a whole have been feeble indeed. The public is quick to voice its indignation when delinquency becomes widespread or appreciably publicized. Yet, the same public is slow to assume as individuals sufficient responsibility to join the effort to eradicate conditions which enable basically good boys and girls from becoming delinquents.

If society were more concerned about giving its youngsters a more wholesome diet than bread and water to prevent their becoming delinquents, it probably would not find it necessary to impose such diets in the attempt to rehabilitate its wayward youths.

Legislation Is Rushed Through

By RALPH ROBEY
Congress is trying to get in shape to go home. No one knows when this can take place. One result of this drive is that legislation is being rushed through at a terrific rate. And much of this legislation is of utmost importance. For example:

1. An attempt to override the President's veto of a $1.2 billion public works bill failed in the House by one vote. The President vetoed the measure primarily because it authorized 67 projects which had not been included in the budget. It is now assumed that a new bill, acceptable to the President, will be put together and passed. This is probable because Members of the Congress want public works spending in their districts, and to get this a new bill must be passed.

Major Labor Legislation Hammered Out
2. The House and the senate have agreed on a labor bill. It took 12 days of conference, and at one point it appeared there was no real chance of agreement. The bill is a compromise between the weak Kennedy measure which passed the Senate and the stronger Landrum-Griffin bill which passed the House. The compromise is substantially better than the Kennedy bill, and unquestionably is as good as could be passed by the present Congress. It is the first major labor legislation since the Taft-Hartley Act of 1947. Passage of the bill culminates the greatest lobbying in many years. Labor Union leaders swarmed over the Congress in an effort to prevent its becoming law and management worked as hard on the other side. The Administration also worked for passage, and President Eisenhower's appeal to the public over radio and television may have been the particular action which made final enactment possible.

3. A bill limiting the right of states to impose income taxes on out of state business, unless such companies maintain an operating office within the state, has been passed and presumably will be signed by the President. This problem arose because of decisions of the United States Supreme Court and, without legislative clarification, it threatened to create increasing difficulties.
4. A housing bill has been passed to replace the first one voted by the President. This second bill also has been vetoed by the President and the veto has been sustained by the Senate. Whether a third bill can or will be passed is an open question. Presumably an effort along this line will be made, but success is by no means assured.

Difficulties In Raising Cash
5. Many weeks ago the Administration asked for legislation which would increase the public debt limit, remove the present 4% per cent ceiling on government obligations of more than five years maturity, and authorize the Treasury to adjust upward the rate paid on E and H savings bonds. The debt limit was increased without delay, but the Ways and Means Committee refused to recommend legislation which would meet the other two requests. This decision still holds in so far as the 4% per cent ceiling is concerned, but a bill has been reported out which makes possible lifting the interest on the E and H bonds from the present 3 1/2 per cent to 3 3/4 per cent. Such action will be of no appreciable help in managing our public debt—and today the Government simply cannot sell bonds because many of its issues already are on the market yield appreciably above 4 1/2 percent. Adjustment of the rate on E and H savings bonds, however, should tend to diminish the rate at which they are redeemed, and thus reduce the cash drain upon the Treasury.
Many other pieces of legislation are being set aside for this session of the Congress. Some of these are desired by the Administration, but most have been sponsored by Members of the Congress and do not have Administration support. Taking the record of this session of the Congress as a whole, it can be said that it has been much better than most of us dared hope for after the November elections.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS FIRST ALWAYS

All persons have certain inalienable rights. They have these rights because they are men (or women). They have them no matter what the color of their skin may be, regardless of whether they are illiterate or highly educated, whether they are rich or poor. We know nothing on this earth superior to human rights. We all have such rights. We must accord such rights to others.

But having said this, we must face that fact, although all men are equals as regards rights, all men are not equal as regards endowment. The Gospel parable which our Lord spoke about the talents is a case in point. Some men are capable of handling great responsibilities. Some can handle only the most meager responsibilities. Some are high in achievement, some are low. Some have brilliant minds. Others have scarcely enough intelligence to get through a day's work. Some go through life making money hand over fist, yet everybody knows them to be failures—and last of all, they know themselves to be failures. Others live in poverty because they are too inept or lazy to get out of it.

But men are not to be judged on the basis of either achievement or failure. They are to be judged on the basis of human rights. We are all God's children. He does not permit us to slap one another about. We must live and let live.

Human rights come first.

Other Editors Saying... Pork Barrel Bill Passes

(Henderson Dispatch)
At long last and after many futile efforts, Congress has passed a bill over the veto of President Eisenhower. In his more than six years as President, he has rejected 146 bills approved by Senate and House, and this is the first one to be enacted after he had refused to sign.

This measure carries an appropriation of $1,185,309,093 for innumerable projects throughout the country. Many, if not most, congressmen were interested in various items calling for Federal expenditures in their districts. That is what made it so popular on Capitol Hill.

What interests us no little about this particular expenditure is the portion of the pork barrel bill that will come to North Carolina. Our understanding is that various activities in this State will receive an aggregate of something like three million dollars. But if each of the fifty States shared about equally each would receive more than $23 million. This means that North Carolina is being left out in the cold in the division of the loot.

It would be impracticable to make a distribution exactly equal for all the States. But there seems to be a gross disparity here. Some States evidently will get huge amounts of that nearly one and a quarter billion dollars at the expense of those sharing with hardly more than a pittance. Some of the outlays undoubtedly will be justified. Others will smack of politics pure and simple. But everybody had to receive a sop of some amount in order to create sufficient support to get the measure through, especially over the presidential veto.

North Carolina in this instance will be paying heavily to make some other States happy. They are entitled to their joy in the distribution, but not to the extent of the glaring inequalities that exist.

What North Carolina congressmen will say by explanation of this discrepancy will be interesting to learn—if we ever do learn. Much of the outlay would seem offhand to be what the name implies, that of pork barrel money. And it is being appropriated in the face of deficits and stringencies in Federal funds which of themselves are coming to be serious in amount and character.

The President would have accepted a measure carrying smaller appropriations, but would not buy this huge outlay. Congress thus at long last has succeeded in going over his head, and in doing so provides this much additional inflation, deficit and difficulty in government financing. But that's politics as it is carried on in the Federal establishment.

Revising Air Rates Downward

By ELMER ROESSNER

Revisions of both passenger and cargo rates are presently being prepared to land at Gander, Goose Bay, Iceland or Shannon in event of trouble, and these are seldom on the great circle route. But domestic flights in trouble can almost always find a landing field on its original course. Domestic flights do not require customs red tape and international paper work.

The differences in rates are great. Example: General freight shipments of under 100 pounds move from San Francisco to New York at 33 cents a pound. The rate from New York to London, only a slightly greater distance, is $1.09 a pound. Some special commodity rates are as low as 16 cents a pound, across the continent and down to 45 cents a pound across the pond.

Another source of embarrassment is the fact that domestic air rates, for both freight and passengers, are much lower than transoceanic fares.

It is slightly more costly to operate over the ocean; a trans-Atlantic line, for example, must be prepared to land at Gander, Goose Bay, Iceland or Shannon in event of trouble, and these are seldom on the great circle route. But domestic flights in trouble can almost always find a landing field on its original course. Domestic flights do not require customs red tape and international paper work.

international flights. First-class rates range from 9 to 14 cents a passenger mile on the international runs, and 6.8 cents a mile domestically. International tourist rates average 11.5 cents a passenger mile, while domestic rates go down to 4.5 cents.

Meanwhile, chartered flight rates are even less. Some organizations have been able to send flights abroad at about $300 a round trip per passenger, or a little more than 4 cents a mile.

Some airlines will ask I.A.T.A. to simplify both passenger and freight rate structure. They will want the various classes of passenger flight reduced from the present de luxe, first class, tourist and economy classes to two: first class and tourist. Jet surcharges will probably continue.

Babson Reveals System

By ROGER BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass., — Many have asked what is my definite system of investing. I hesitate to put this down in writing because it is easier to explain than to perform. The Babson System consists of three constantly changing factors, as follows:

CAPITALIZING THE COMPOSITE BUSINESS CYCLE
(1) The composite Business Cycle is a combination of a number of separate cycles. Most investment advisers forget that each commodity, each nation, and each family has its own special cycle. There are hundreds of these cycles, but we take about fifty and observe when the declines of most of them reach their low points at the same time and are ready to invest. In other words, if these different cycles were drawn one over the other every month, then — when most of the cycles were at their low point — that, according to the Cycle Theory, is the time to invest. This Cycle Theory, however, is only one of the three tests, all of which are very important.

STUDYING THE TEMPORARY TREND
(2) The Trend of the Market is determined by studying the combined earnings of the leading companies, the prices of their stocks, and other barometers such as the best-selling books and the character of what appears in the movies and on radio and on television. Bank statistics are considered, as well as the honest opinion of various advisory services which accept no advertising and are not interested in Mutual Funds. The Cycles mentioned in the above paragraph may last twenty years, with an average life of about four years. But the Trend of the market may change every thirty days. Another thing — we try never to be "wholly bullish" or "wholly bearish"; but to say that there are a certain number of "chances" out of ten that the market will advance or a certain number of "chances" out of ten that it will decline. We remember that there is always a buyer for every seller and that the reason the market goes up some months is because people are then more impatient to buy than to sell. When it goes down people are more impatient to sell than to buy. Therefore, whatever the 20-year Business Cycle may indicate, there are certain times when one should buy stocks rather than at other times. This especially applies to those who are buying primarily for income. Such people do not care to wait and depend wholly on the long Business Cycle; but then desire to buy whenever they have money to invest.

SELECTING THE BEST STOCKS
(3) The third factor of the Babson System is to select the stock to buy, either for profit or for income. The careful investor should, however, decide which of these two aims is his real goal. All investors should try to purchase safe securities, whether buying for income or for profit, remembering that there must be a buyer for every seller and vice versa. The question of impatience to buy or to sell is equally important in selecting definite stocks. At times investors are more impatient to buy some special popular stock than to buy some other less popular but safer stock. This means that an investor should especially study volume, remembering that in a "bear" market the volume signifies one thing, while in a "bull" it signifies another thing. Let me say that for a profit the Babson System demands the purchase or sale of active stocks as these will show the greatest increase in a bull market. On the other hand, these same very active stocks will decline the most in a bear market. When the odds are 50-50, then the investor must do some guessing or remain out of the market.

WHAT ABOUT BONDS?
We have not discussed bonds today in this column. Bonds have a maturity factor which stocks do not have. Also, when buying preferred stocks the investor should be sure that they are non-callable and their dividends cumulative. To study the outlook for common stocks, only three factors have to be considered. But when studying bonds or preferred stocks, a fourth factor is necessary. This complicates the situation.

Washington Girls Wed In Saturday Afternoon Ceremonies

Miss Alice Jeannette Stalls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack B. Stalls, of Rt. 3, Washington, and Charles Rosser Wilson, son of Mrs. T. S. Wilson and the late Mr. Wilson of Laurinburg, were married on Saturday in the Macedonia Church of Christ. The Rev. J. Spencer Arnold, minister of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Kenneth L. Stalls, pianist, rendered the traditional processional and recessional, and W. O. Peele Jr., soloist, sang "I Love You Truly," "All For You" and "The Wedding Prayer" as the benediction.

Vows were spoken before an altar of palms and tall baskets of white gladioli and mums. The bride, given in marriage by Joe Wilson of Nashville was his brother's best man and ushers were Paul Wilson of Red Springs, Gene Wilson of Fayetteville, and Tom Wilson of Nashville, brothers of the groom, and Kenneth L. Stalls of Greenville, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Stalls, mother of the bride, wore navy blue lace over taffeta with navy accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Wilson wore beige lace over pink with beige taffeta accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Wilson is a graduate of Washington High School and Wilson School of Nursing. She has been affiliated with Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville for some time.

Mr. Wilson graduated from Laurinburg High School and received his B. S. degree from Wake Forest College, where he was a member of the R.O.T.C. He is now a senior at the Dental School at the University of Maryland where he is a member of the Psi Phi Fraternity and the Gorgas Odontological Society.

For travel, the bride changed to a brown paisley print suit featuring a shawl collar with brown accessories and she wore the orchid lifted from her wedding bouquet.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the Wilsons will be at home at 914 Hooper Avenue, Apartment D, Baltimore 29, Maryland, where Mrs. Wilson will be on the staff of St. Agnes' Hospital in Baltimore. Mr. Wilson will continue his education at the University of Maryland Dental School.

Rehearsal Party
Immediately following the rehearsal of the Stalls-Wilson wedding on Friday night, Mr. and Mrs. Mack B. Stalls entertained the wedding party, out-of-town guests, and friends and relatives at an after-rehearsal party in the basement of the church.

After the bride- and groom-to-be cut the first slice of cake from the three-tiered wedding cake, Mrs. T. S. Wilson served cake from a table decorated with an arrangement of white and green carnations, pom poms, stock and gypsophylla, and white burning tapers in three-branched silver candelabra.

The table was covered with a white organdy cloth over green and punch was served by Mrs. W. B. Peele from a crystal punch bowl. Guests served themselves nuts from silver bowls.

Mrs. Hoyt Roberson Jr. presided at the register and Mrs. Jimmy Roberson said the goodbyes. Shower Compliments Bride-Elect Mrs. Gladys Duvall, Mrs. John Forbes and Mrs. Jake Dixon were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Dixon at a miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Jeannette Stalls.

The hostesses presented Miss Stalls with a corsage of white Fuji mums on arrival. Mrs. Dixon greeted the guests and directed them to the dining room, where refreshments consisting of open-faced sandwiches, party cakes, nuts and lime punch were served from a table covered with an Irish linen cloth.

The centerpiece was a mammoth arrangement of mixed flowers in green and white, flanked on either side by burning tapers in silver three-branched candelabra.

Goodbyes were said by the hostesses and the honoree after the gifts were opened by the honoree.

Informal Party
Miss Stalls was honored at an informal "ice cream" party by Mrs. Vicky Lynch and Miss Alma Poole at the Pitt Memorial Nurses Home in Greenville on Monday. Guests were greeted by the hostesses and the honoree after which they were served homemade ice cream, cake and nuts. The bride-elect was presented china in her chosen pattern.

Miscellaneous Shower
Mrs. Bill Jones was hostess at a miscellaneous shower complimenting Miss Stalls. Upon arrival the honoree was presented a corsage of white carnations.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Jones and invited to register. Mrs. Minton Beach assisted the guests in serving themselves party cakes, nuts and green lemonade from an appointed table, covered with a white linen cloth and featuring an arrangement of mixed summer flowers. Other arrangements were used throughout the house.

WASHINGTON—The marriage of Miss Carolyn Elizabeth Bilbro and Harry Donald Nash took place in the First Baptist Church on Saturday afternoon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bruce Bilbro of Riverside, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Rex D. Nash of Dunn and the late Mr. Nash.

The Rev. Earle J. Rogers heard the double ring wedding vows before a setting of banked palms, accented by white floor baskets filled with white chrysanthemums and gladioli. Twin branched candelabra holding tall white tapers completed the setting. Massed white gladioli arrangement was used on the piano.

Prior to and during the ceremony a program of nuptial music was played by Miss Gladys Allgood, organist, who used the traditional Wedding Marches as the processional and recessional offerings. Mrs. Dave Milligan was soloist, and her selections were "O Promise Me" and "Bless This House" as a final benediction.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a Chantilly lace and bridal mist taffeta formal wedding gown. The lace bodice was styled with a modified sabrina neckline encrusted in seed pearls and the fitted sleeves extended into pedal points over her hands. Appliqued lace medallions complemented the taffeta skirt which extended into a chapel train.

The bride wore a Swedish crown of lace and seed pearls attached to a fingertip veil of imported illusion, and carried a wedding bouquet of tuberose centered with a white, purple throated orchid knotted with tuberose and fern in the white satin streamers. Her only jewelry was a single strand of cultured pearls, a wedding gift from the bridegroom.

Mrs. Harry Driver of Dunn, matron of honor, was the bride's only attendant, and Mr. Driver served the bridegroom as best man.

Mrs. Driver wore a formal length peony pink chiffon gown over matching tissue taffeta, made with sweetheart neckline, puffed sleeves, and the bouffant skirt was highlighted by inserts of pink satin. Her pink headdress was fashioned with an illusion brow veil and she carried a bouquet of white roses tied with white satin ribbons.

Other groomsmen for Mr. Nash were David Bruce Bilbro, the bride's brother, and Graham Jeruigan of Dunn.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Bilbro wore a mauve pink silk organza with sequin and pearl applique on the bouffant skirt, matching accessories and her corsage was a lavender orchid.

Mrs. Nash, the bridegroom's mother, selected a mint green silk organza, using mint accessories and her corsage was also a lavender orchid.

Mrs. J. Reynold Toler was church hostess and assisted the wedding party.

Later for traveling the new Mrs. Nash changed to a white dacron dress suit with lavender blue print. Her accessories were of blue and she wore a white orchid corsage.

After graduating from Washington High School, the bride attended East Carolina College and was graduated from Watts Hospital School of Medical Technology in 1957. She was medical technologist at Beaufort County Hospital and before marriage was with the James Walker Memorial Hospital in Wilmington.

sonville High School, served in the U. S. Air Force, and later attended North Carolina State College School of Electrical Engineering. He is a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity.

The couple will be at home in Wilmington for the present where Mr. Nash is with the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Vitamin Content Differs In Various Forms

RALEIGH—An orange isn't a waxy, orange-colored ball — not always, anyway. You might pour it from a can and add water, or spoon it from a jar to mix with water. These "oranges" aren't exactly alike, though.

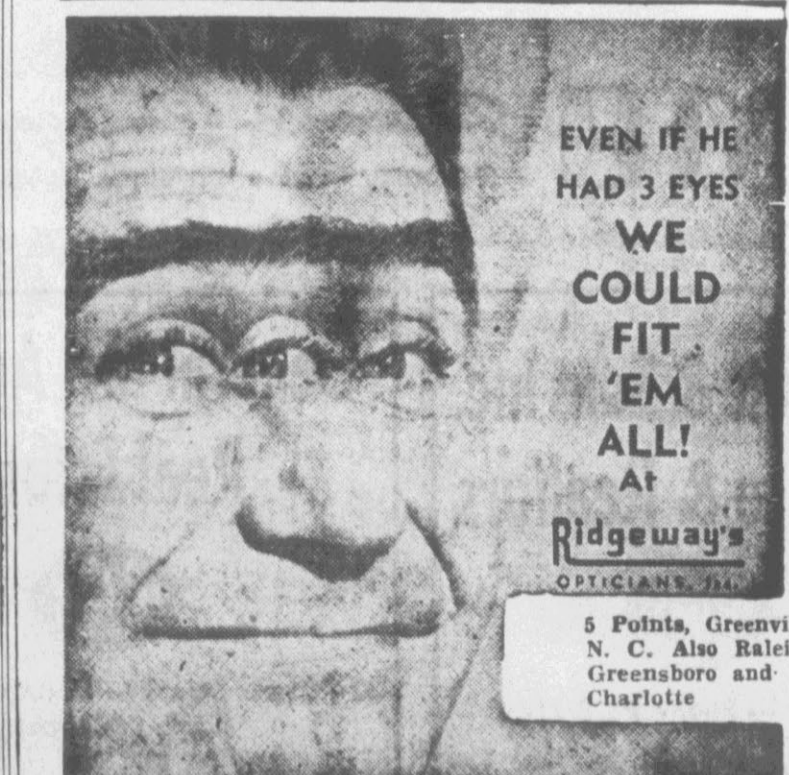

Miss Jo Earp, food and nutrition specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, reports differences in vitamin content of the various forms.

Frozen and powdered orange juice furnish vitamin C which is important to the human body. Vitamin C cannot be stored in the body so it is important to get a daily supply. Orange juice is an excellent provider of vitamin C and is recommended not only at mealtime but also as a between meal food.

Powdered drinks probably have more calories since there is usually sugar added to the powder. Frozen juice tastes like fresh orange juice and powdered tastes like sweet orange pop.

If you decide on the powdered orange drink, don't skimp on the amount of powder. It will cut down on food value, according to Miss Earp.

'Riverboat' Launched In Sunday Night Attack

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—THE National Broadcasting Co. Sunday night launched its big, colorful, expensive "Riverboat," hopeful its new challenger would sink ABC's popular "Maverick" without a trace.

The network, in planning an all-out attempt to capture the big Sunday night audience, has a gimmick in "Riverboat" which on paper anyway, makes it everybody's show. Because a boat moves, it can have everything from love interest to lynchings and different scenery and different cast each week. Maybe the trouble with the first show was that the network was too eager to show "Riverboat's" potential scope. It had everything.

But the opener gave us only a passing glimpse of the two central figures of the series, Darren McGavin and Burt Reynolds, attractive and muscular young men who play captain and first mate of the 1840 riverboat "Enterprise." The plot itself involved a mixed up young man played by Aldo Ray who caused the death of his best buddy—and for cash, too. Things got so complicated, what with love for a maid (Barbara Bel Geddes) guilt feelings and all that jazz, that the whole thing was resolved by dropping the unhappy fellow into the riverboat's paddlewheels.

However, "Riverboat" shows promise of being entertaining and it certainly is a handsomely mounted show. Whether it will keep the living room customers from switching to "Maverick" at the halfway mark or whether "Lassie" is going to suffer seriously, remains, of course, to be seen.

Full-Scale Steel Parleys Resume

NEW YORK (AP)—Full-scale negotiations in the nation's longest steel strike resume today in the shadow of a warning from the union that it will not budge.

United Steelworkers Union President David J. McDonald made the statement while appearing on a television program Sunday.

He said the union does not intend to back down on its demand for higher wages and its refusal to accept changes in current work practices. Pre-strike wages averaged $3.11 an hour.

NBC had a weekend monopoly on premieres. The Friday night adventure series "Troubleshooters" pits men and machines against raw nature.

"Bonanza," an hour-long Saturday nighter, is a Western in the old tradition and not afraid of a traditional plot. Heroes are a father and his three sons fighting to protect their ranch from assorted bad guys.

"The man and the Challenge," which follows, is a half-hour science fiction program full of such dialogue as: "We're trapped in a temperature inversion. The CO-2 will kill us."

Accusing the steel companies of trying to "turn back the clock," McDonald said the union would not retreat no matter how long the strike lasts.

Top-level negotiations were in recess Sunday.

The strike, which affects almost 90 per cent of the nation's steel production and has idled half a million steelworkers and an estimated 175,000 others, went into its 63rd day today.

All over the country steel inventories were low and the impact of the strike growing.

No federal intervention is expected before next month, but President Eisenhower has indicated he would force an 80-day resumption of production through provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act if he thought the strike was threatening national safety or health.

'Had To Confess' Slaying Woman

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—"I want to tell you about a murder," the caller told police.

He said he had smothered Thelma Stowe Townsend last Aug. 29 because she started hollering when they argued during a drinking bout.

Police checked their files and found that Mrs. Townsend's death had been listed as from natural causes, pending pathological studies.

The caller—David Watson Stewart, 32, a cook—said he smothered the divorcee by holding his hand over her nose and mouth. He said he had to confess to police Sunday because "I haven't slept" since the woman's death. He was booked on suspicion of murder.

Truman Asserts Congress Should Act On Rights

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman says he can't see how Congress can fail to adopt adequate civil rights legislation in view of the fundamental faith of this country and the clear language of our Constitution.

Truman said Congress has made a start toward such legislation but we must always be working to eliminate injustice and to create a society which carries out our ideals.

His statements were in a filmed address for the opening Sunday of the 45th annual national convention of Hadassah, the women's Zionist organization of America. More than 3,400 persons attended.

Israel's foreign minister, Golda Meir, said Israel is preparing for immigration of large numbers of Jews from European countries.

Dr. Miriam K. Freund, national president of Hadassah, said the organization will erect a freedom bell atop the 25-million-dollar Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Center being built in Jerusalem.

Visit To U.S. Unlikely Impress Nikita

Editor's note: Nikita Khrushchev arrives Tuesday to take a look at the bounding U.S. economy. What will be his yardstick? How will he measure U.S. life against the background of his Russian upbringing? Here is an appraisal of the system Khrushchev leaves behind when he flies to Washington.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Starting Tuesday Nikita Khrushchev will get a first hand idea of what he must do if he is to deliver on those promises he has made to the people of the Soviet Union—to match, and overtake the living standards of the United States.

The Communist boss likely will see America through the eyes of one whose life has been ruled by inflexible Marxist-Leninist theories. Probably he will remain convinced the U.S. system inevitably must collapse and that thus the superiority of the American way must be regarded as temporary.

The U.S.S.R. has come a long way, even in the five or six years of the Khrushchev era. Under any system, mighty development would have been certain in these modern times for so naturally rich a land. Its strides in science, technology and military might are well known. But it lags badly behind Western Europe, far behind the United States, in terms of people's material well-being.

The Soviet people should be much better off than they are. Their land is vast, three times the size of the United States. It has about every resource it needs. But its political system has impeded all-round development.

A Communist party of 8 million rules the nation's other 200 million, more than half of them Great Russians dominating numerous other races speaking scores of different languages. Khrushchev says this is the world's most democratic system because the party represents all the people and there is no need to choose between leaders. In the West, he adds, workers can choose only between parties intent upon exploiting them.

The system, however, has produced a privileged class. It's extremely difficult to become a Communist in the U.S.S.R. Membership is open only to those the party calls the "politically mature." Party members often have the best jobs, make the most money. A ranking Communist can have a private town apartment, a country dacha or bungalow, an automobile assigned for official or personal use. He often has a chauffeur and other servants. His wife may scorn Moscow dress-makers and have her clothes made in Riga—or even, if she's ultrafashionable, imported from Paris.

Many outside the party have good incomes, too. The class extends to professional people, scientists, writers, industrialists and more working members. Some improve their situations by having their own vegetable gardens, even cows and chickens, though this now is being discouraged officially in urban areas.

But about 60 per cent of the labor force—perhaps 55 million—are those the party calls "workers and employes," wholly dependent upon wages and salaries. Of these, eight million were in an extremely low bracket in September, 1957, when a decree fixed the minimum wage of 270 to 250 rubles monthly equal in terms of purchasing power to perhaps $27 to $35.

The average worker now probably earns 800 to 900 rubles monthly, on $80 to $90 in terms of purchasing power. Of this, about 70 per cent goes for food, 17 per cent for clothing and necessities, 9 per cent for rent and utilities, the rest for squandering or saving. The citizen is urged to deposit his surplus, if any, in savings banks.

Apart from rents, living costs are high. Families get by because usually each has two or three hours to earn enough for 500 grams—little more than a pound—of butter or bacon. The average American earns that in less than a half hour. A cheap suit costs more than a month's pay; a 15-inch television up to five months pay. The smallest automobile would cost the average worker more than 16 months pay, a university professor about six months pay, and a cabinet minister about two months salary.

Many earn well above the average. But consumer goods fall far below their demands for quality and quantity. For example, in 1958 the U.S.S.R. had only two million television sets in use, reaching about 10 million persons. Almost 40 million were in use in the United States. Similar gaps exist in virtually all phases of the consumer economy with regard to manufactured goods.

The U.S.S.R. income tax system accounts for only a tiny percentage of government revenue. The tax is withheld from salaries and wages. The highest rate is 13 per cent for that portion of income exceeding 12,000 rubles annually, and the burden falls on the lower brackets.

Sports Scope

by Johnny Hudson

The theory that the team that controls the ball will win usually holds true, but East Carolina gridders couldn't go along with this Saturday night as they left Clinton, S. C. enroute back to their local campus.

The Pirates controlled the offensive play of their game with Presbyterian and as Coach Jack Boone pointed out "had better field position than any other team that I have coached."

Final statistics show that East Carolina got in 73 offensive plays during the game while their rival was limited to but 42. The Blue Hose were able to get off only 15 plays from scrimmage in the opening half.

'Team Looked Real Good'

The East Carolina team reaped a lot of praise in their opening game although it was in a losing cause. The Pirates looked good against the veteran Presbyterian club and at this stage, it is hard to see a losing season ahead for the Bucs.

Coach Jack Boone was a little disappointed with the outcome of the score but lauded his club on their performance. "We made some individual mistakes which were costly but I thought our boys gave all they had, and over-all we were real pleased. Our field position was good all night and we were better prepared for this game than any other opener since I have been here."

The ECC coach was not the only one to bestow the Pirates team with high respect. The PC squad claimed the ECC club as "tougher than any we went against last season". Coach Frank Jones, PC head coach, was happy to settle for the touchdown victory. "You should really be the team to beat in the North State loop", said Jones.

But victories don't come with talk and Boone and his club settle back down to the rugged practice grind this week preparing for their home opener against Albright College Saturday night.

Punting Game Is Weak

The most apparent weakness in the East Carolina attack Saturday was the punting game. One of the strongest points last season behind the big right foot of Randell Holmes, leading booter in the conference, the Pirate kickers had their troubles Saturday with two of the Blue Hose touchdowns coming at the expense of the weak kicking game.

This will be the big hurdle Boone will have to overcome this week while erecting the scaffolding for their next game and the onrushing North State Conference season.

The answer here may be in a freshman, the only one figured in the 1959 plans of the Pirate coaching staff. Dennis Hampton, a rugged-looking flanker who prefers to kick the ball barefooted, may provide the Bucs with their much needed punting game. A native of the western section of our state, Hampton has been banged up since the freshmen started practice but kicks the ball with tremendous height and distance and will be a big aid with his availability.

Odds and Ends

Jimmy Ellis, former reporter for The Daily Reflector, came down from Charlotte to see his Alma Mater in action. "They looked better than any other ECC team in the past five years. They really raked," commented Jimmy, a long time follower and reporter of East Carolina. . . . Other Pirate spectators at the CLINTON, S.C.—East Carolina College fought from behind twice Saturday night but time ran out on the Bucs' third bid as Presbyterian held on for a 18-13 victory in the season opener for both clubs.

The Pirates, unleashing a well-balanced attack, showed more opening game strength than in recent ECC history but, after leading most of the game, ran out of time in their last minute bid to overtake the Blue Hose, who looked stronger than their 1958 team which won the Little Four title and brought "South Carolina Coach of the Year" honors to Frank Jones.

Final Bid

After losing the lead with a little less than five minutes remaining, Ralph Zehring geared up his club for a final drive which kept a capacity crowd of partial Blue Hose fans on edge right down to the final seconds.

Taking the ball on their own 32, Mac Thacker and James Speight ripped off a first down while fighting a losing battle with the clock, and then on a third-down situation, Ralph Zehring, passing with mid-season form, fired a pass which Glenn Bass leaped up to take away from two defenders on the Presbyterian 15 yard line.

With 1:15 left on the clock, the Pirates appeared to be back in business but it was temporary. James Speight sliced off his tackle on the first play for more yardage but a 15 yard holding penalty set the locals back to their thirty with the clock still in motion.

Zehring, going for the home run, almost found Speight open in the end zone but it was batted away at the last moment. The final gun went off with the firing arm of Zehring still trying to find a pass receiver on third down.

PC Scores

Presbyterian broke the scoreless tie late in the first quarter when Bobby Pate plunked a batted around Jerry Carpenter pass out of the air on his own 40 and scooted down the sidelines to the Pirate 40.

Working against the ECC second unit, Bill Hill smashed straight ahead for four yards and then the little Georgia speedster, Pate, cut off his right tackle, reversed his field and raced down the sidelines for 36 yards and a touchdown.

Presbyterian elected to kick for the extra point but Jon Vastine's boot was wide and the score stood 6-0.

The Pirates then battled back to dominate the offense for the rest of the half, driving to within scoring distance three times but striking for paydirt on only the final march.

Following the PC touchdown, the Pirates were unable to move but received their first break when James Gordon pounced on a PC fumble, the only one of the game, on the Blue Hose 36 yard stripe.

Speight Romps

James Speight, hailed by Presbyterian publicity men as one of the finest backs to play on the local field, carried the Pirates to the 14 before stalling. The flashy Greenville star picked up a first down with a 18 yard jaunt to the PC 18.

Speight then crashed for five more yards but Glenn Bass was stopped for a yard loss in two cracks at the stout Blue Hose line and a fourth down pass by Speight was incomplete to halt the drive.

The Bucs were knocking on the golden gate minutes later after taking over on the PC 49. Bass picked up a yard and then Jerry Carpenter passed to James Speight for 38 more. Bass picked up five but a reverse with Howard Beale carrying resulted in a yard loss. On third down, Carpenter kept the Bucs alive, firing a 12 pass to Bass on the PC six.

Once again the Presbyterian line would not budge and four plunges at the line by Speight and Bass resulted in only four yards and the ECC machine bogged down, this time on the two.

Behind the balanced attack called by Ralph Zehring, the Pirates were not to be denied in their third drive, which initiated on the Presbyterian 41.

Bass Scores

Walkie Hanford started the march, scampering for a two yard gain and then Zehring hit his favorite target, Howard Beale, with a nine yard pass and a first down. Mac Thacker picked up another first down with a 12 yard run and Speight, Hanford, and Bass combined on three running plays for another first and put the ball on the PC eight.

With less than two minutes remaining in the half, the PC line made a vital attempt to hold once again as they stopped Speight at the line of scrimmage and Thacker got only a yard on second down. Glenn Bass then scooted around his left end and wouldn't go down until picking up six yards and a touchdown with only 45 seconds left in the initial half.

Jerry Carpenter came in and his boot was true to push the Bucs out front, 7-6.

After the Pirate kickoff, Pate picked up only the second first down for PC with a 12-yard run as time ran out.

The two small college powers battled on even terms in the third quarter but the fourth quarter became a wild one with the host team cashing in on Pirate blunders.

A bad snap from center on a crucial fourth down punt situation saw Mac Thacker get pinned down on the Pirate 31 yard line and the enlivened Blue Hose taking over.

Fleet-footed David Morgan scampered three yards and then broke loose for 17 to the ECC nine. Morgan got loose for eight more to the one and Hill bucked the center of the line and twisted over for the touchdown. The extra point attempt was once again no good.

James Speight took the pursuing kickoff and saw temporary daylight, being pulled down by the last defender between the shifty halfback and the goal. With a 38 yard return, the Bucs set up for their second touchdown on the ECC 48 yard marker. Thacker carried to the midstrip and Zehring and Beale converged for a 50 yard pass play and the second Pirate touchdown.

Zehring hit his end on the PC 30, and Beale, boasting lightning speed shook off one defender and then outraced another for the touchdown. Thacker tried to plunge for the extra points but was stopped short.

Short Kick

The Pirates appeared to be in the driver's seat when they held the PC attack in check and took over after Vastine punted out of bounds on the Pirate 20.

East Carolina picked up a couple of first downs but George Turner's punt went only 20 yards and gave the PC crowd new life.

Pate and Hill broke loose for gains of 20 and 10 yards respectively. The two carried twice more for a total of 10 yards to put the ball in play on the Pirate nine.

Hill found an opening, went straight ahead for the remaining distance and the deciding score. The extra point was once again no good but it was needless.

The Pirates fought back in the dying moments but it was for naught as time ran out and found the locals on the short end of the 18-13 score.

Lead Stats

The Pirates led the host club in almost every statistical department with the exception of total rushing yardage with three plays accounting for their shortage here.

Speight, shooting for All-Conference honors, picked up 87 yards in 17 carries to pace the ECC backs. Bass carried 15 times for 39 yards. Zehring completed six of ten passes for 99 yards and Carpenter found the mark on two or three attempts for 50 more yards.

Morgan and Pate were the big runners for PC, both carrying 12 times. The former picked up 77 yards and the latter had 99.

Big Ed Emory, Wayne Davis, David Thomas, James Gordon and Lynn Barnett paced the strong line play of the ECC forward wall with Bill Ogden and Don Bridges, a couple of 200 pound guards, heading the neffy PC line.

NFL Clubs Vote Increased Limit

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—With an eye toward expansion, the 12 club owners of the National Football League have voted to increase the team player limit from 35 to 36.

League Commissioner Bert Bell said Sunday the purpose was to form a pool of seasoned players who could be used as the nucleus of new teams.

The owners are expected to take up the subject of expansion when the league meets here in January.

George Halas of the Chicago Bears, chairman of the expansion committee, recently recommended that Houston and Dallas, Texas, be given franchises.

Giants Blank Phils To Take Two Game NL Margin

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW! By FAGALY and SHORTEN

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

As tough to catch as a frightened jack rabbit, as hard to hold as a slippery eel. That may be the best way to describe Billy Rigney's San Francisco Giants as they continue to bounce back after every seemingly fatal knock-down.

Chicago's White Sox opened up a 5½ game bulge on Cleveland in the American League, defeating Boston 3-1 as New York was taking two from the Indians 2-1 in 11 innings and 1-0. Washington whipped Detroit 5-1 and Kansas City swept a doubleheader from Baltimore 9-5 and 4-1.

Jack Sanford pitched the Giant victory, limiting the Phillies to five hits. But he needed help from Mike McCormick in the ninth. There were two out and Harry Anderson on second, via a double, when McCormick took over and got Ed Bouchee to end the game with a fly to Willie Mays. The lone run, off loser Don Cardwell, came in the second and was driven in by pinch hitter Dusty Rhodes with a sacrifice fly. The stage was set for Dusty when Orlando Cepeda and Willie Kirkland singled and Hobie Landrith walked to load the bases. Rigney sent Rhodes in to hit for Danny O'Connell.

Four Pittsburgh home runs ruined the Dodgers. The last was hit by Hank Folles in the eighth, off reliever Chuck Churn, snapping a 3-3 tie. The others were hit by Ray Mejias, Bob Skinner and Dick Stuart off starter Johnny Podres. Ronnie Kline went all the way for his 10th victory.

Eddie Kasko's fourth hit, a seventh-inning single, scored Frank Robinson and enabled the Reds to break a 33 deadlock with Milwaukee. Bob Purkey yielded nine hits for his 12th triumph. The loser was Warren Spahn, who was attempting to register 20 victories for the 10th time. He lost his 14th, Eddie Mathews hit his 38th homer for the Braves.

Ernie Banks batted in five runs for the Cubs with a single, sacrifice fly and his 41st home run. Glen Hobbie blanked the Cards on five hits and snapped Ken Boyer's hitting streak at 29 straight games.

For the fifth time since they leaped past Milwaukee into first place a little over two months ago the Giants appeared ready for the knockout punch. For the fifth time they came back Sunday to win a big one and open more daylight between themselves and their relentless pursuers.

Their lead reduced to a mere half-game, the Giants had only to lose to Philadelphia Saturday to set the stage for a three-way tie for first place.

The Giants bounced back with a victory Saturday and Sunday for a 1-0 squeaker over the Phillies to boost their first place margin to two games over the Los Angeles Dodgers, who bowed 4-3 to Pittsburgh, and the Milwaukee Braves, who were beaten 3-2 by Cincinnati.

In the other National League game, Chicago shut out St. Louis 8-0.

Boros, Gustin In Tie At Dallas

DALLAS (AP)—Jon Gustin, sending a big pay day at last along the weary golf tour, and plodding Julius Boros were tied for the lead today as the $25,000 Dallas Open entered its final round.

Gustin, 27-year-old Birmingham native playing out of Gladwyne, Pa., shot his third sub-par round Sunday 3-under 67—to tie the faltering Boros, the veteran from Mid Pines, N. C., at 54 holes with 204.

Boros, who started the third round Sunday leading the field by two strokes with 134 for 36 holes, sailed through the front nine in 3-under-par 32. But his putting went sour on the first four holes of the second nine and he had trouble finishing with a par 70.

real bad." The score of the game came as a surprise after Ahooskie had stomped Scotland Neck last Friday night, 48-0. Ironically enough, Scotland Neck came back this week with a 61-0 victory.

Blocked Kick One of the highlights of the game saw end Bert Aycock crash through to block a punt and set up Rose High's final touchdown. A blocked kick is not a frequent sight in prep ball and Phillips could not recall a blocked punt in past years.

Phillips went with about 18 boys most of the game although most of the reserves got into action before the final whistle. The tilt saw the Greenville club come out in good physical condition with no injuries reported.

The Greemies bear down to serious business again today as they set their sights for Jacksonville here Friday night in their conference opener.

"They have a good club according to our scouts," says Phillips, "and we can expect a real tough game. They have a veteran club and have been rated as one of the top clubs this year. They have good team speed and a good quarterback," ventured Phillips as he prepared to review Friday night's film and start preparing for his loop opener. Jacksonville, usually a single-

Phillips Praises Phantom Victory

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Coach Bud Phillips readily admits that it was a pleasant surprise to see his Greenville team manhandle Ahooskie in the fashion they did Friday night, making their 1959 opener a huge success. "We hit real quick," states Phillips, "and I think this was the big factor in the victory." Greenville took the opening kickoff, marched for a touchdown, and then came back for another after picking up an Ahooskie fumble on the kickoff. The locals' lightning-quick offense had a 14-0 advantage before Coach Jack Young's highly-touted club had run a play from scrimmage and the lead was too hard to overtake.

The Greenville coach felt that the victory was due to a "team effort." It would be hard to single out any individual in the victory for we thought all our boys did real well. "We were pleased with the running of (Alan) MacArthur, (Robin) Wilfong, and (Wayne) Summerlin. (Erskine) Duff did a real good job of mixing up the plays and his passing kept them off balance. I thought our downfield blocking looked fine and our defense kept them pretty bottled up." The Phantoms were "up" for the game, more than Phillips had expected. "We didn't work real hard toward getting them up for the game but they wanted to win

CHAPTER 35
SAGE WINGO reached Garrison town along Cross Street, turning into a center. As he did so he saw light come on in Charley Tunison's law office, and then two men move past that light into some further corner of the office. Recognition struck instantly. One of those men was Link Asbell!

Wingo had intended riding directly along to the Imperial bar. Now he hauled sharply up, twisting in his saddle as he tested the run of the starlit street.

A few lights here and there. A saddle mount at the Prairie House hitch rack, another at the rail in front of the Imperial. Aside from these the town was empty and quiet.

At Wingo's right, an alley ran back between two darkened buildings, the mouth of it black with shadow. Into this he swung his horse, but after a little way he stepped down and ground reined the animal. After which, drawing his gun, he prowled back to the alley mouth, glance intent on that lighted office window yonder.

With bleak purpose he estimated the distance. Maybe twenty-five yards, no more. Not too far if a man pulled down carefully on a target lined against the light. This could be just like out at Double Diamond. A single careful shot, then into his saddle and out the back of the alley into the far night, with all debts evened and paid!

Wingo drew back the hammer of his gun, stood taut and ready. In the Imperial, Bardo Sampson had taken on several drinks, sour and sullen in mood, rankling over what had happened in Charley Tunison's hotel room. He had, as Jonas Dalmar suggested, tried to get a little rough with Tunison, only to have the lawyer pull gun from under the bed covers and order him out of the room.

All of which added up to another move that had gone wrong. So many things, Bardo concluded morosely, had gone wrong. The range coup, he and Jonas Dalmar had planned, seemed reasonably simple of achievement at the time. In practice, however, it had proven anything but simple.

The first big mistake had been in striking at the Big Five line camp up above Rosebud Canyon. That had merely alerted Big Five. The smart thing would have been to make certain of Link Asbell. It was plain, and growing more so every passing day, that Asbell could be the stumbling block to spoil everything.

All along it had been Bardo's way to let Jonas Dalmar do the thinking, the planning. Jonas had always seemed quicker in the head than he. But had he proven fundamentally smarter? This was a thought Bardo was now turning over and over in his mind.

By the way things were now shaping up, maybe Jonas Dalmar wasn't as smart as he'd thought him to be. Maybe his own big mistake was in first believing it was that way. In any event, Bardo was low in spirit and uncertain in mind. A final drink did not improve matters any, so he paid his score across Ben Dillon's bar, then stepped out into the night.

In Charley Tunison's office the lawyer crouched down on one knee as he unlocked his safe. Link Asbell stood beside him, watching. The lawyer selected the affidavit from a bundle of several other papers, closed and relocked the safe and stood up.

Here it is, he said. And, now that he had decided he must accept the inevitable, he tried to inject some cordiality into his tone. "You know, Asbell, I'm half inclined to thank you for getting me out of bed. Darned if I don't feel the better for it."

Asbell did not answer, just stepped closer to the lamp on Tunison's desk, where he unfolded the paper and began reading it.

Over across the street, when he saw Asbell's figure loom tall and still against the light beyond the office window, Sage Wingo knew cold exultation and settled his gun in line for that careful shot.

And in the office, Charley Tunison started to circle around Asbell and get behind the desk. Almost as one was the tinkle of broken window glass and the muffled thud of a bullet striking living flesh. Outside, gun report rocketed along the street. While here, close beside him, Charley Tunison gasped, mumbled some sort of fading incoherency, then collapsed to the floor.

Reaction came to Link Asbell on the instant. In a single long had it open and was through it into night's sheltering blackness, barely ahead of a second slug which hammered a doorpost only inches behind his dodging shoulders.

When Bardo Sampson, the reek of his final drink strong across his tongue, stepped from the Imperial bar, he saw something that brought him to a sharp halt, startled and surlily wondering.

Yellow lamp glow shone from the window of Charley Tunison's law office. Not so very long ago, when he'd come along the street from the Prairie House, that window had been dark, and the office obviously empty. Just as obviously, it wasn't empty now. Who was in there—and why?

Bardo moved to the corner of the Imperial, his protuberant eyes fixed on that lighted window with an angry staring. It had to be Tunison who was in there. The damned shyster was up to something; likely enough, something to do with that affidavit paper. Either he had brought it to his office, or he'd got out of bed and come to the office after it.

Well, Bardo vowed, here was where Mister Charley Tunison got the surprise of his life! Right now he'd step in there and relieve Tunison of that paper. And this time, he'd be holding the gun. With the thought, Bardo slid the weapon free and stepped out into the street.

At that exact moment, from the mouth of the alley a gun blasted harsh report, and in the lighted window yonder glass shattered.

Bardo hauled up, wary and hard and startled, and for the space of a long breath or two, the night huddled in stunned silence.

Then the door of Tunison's office slammed open, and from it a dodging figure whirled into the sheltering shadow along the front of the building. From the alley, a second shot blared.

Brief as had been his glimpse as the dodging figure, Bardo recognized Link Asbell. And now, from that far wall shadow, a gun spiked the night with pale flame and flung the shout of its report rocketing across the rooftops of the town. From the alley came a third shot, and from the far shadows a second one.

Bardo had no idea who was in the alley; and he didn't particularly care. All he could think of was that if, between the other fellow and himself, they could lay Link Asbell dead in this street, this night, then a major obstacle would have been removed from the trail of Double Diamond's range desires. So, with the thought, Bardo bought in, throwing a shot at where Asbell's gun had flared.

The bullet struck where Asbell had been, but was no longer. For he was on the move, low crouched and shifting to his right. And in him a gray and merciless anger piled ever higher and higher.

There was, it seemed, a pair of the sneaking killers on the loose. The first two shots had come from farther up the street, toward the Imperial. And now, caught against the dull glow of the Imperial's windows, Asbell glimpsed the head and shoulders of a man, a man who was definitely trying to kill him.

He laid his gun in line with that hostile figure and let off the shot.

The story comes to an end here tomorrow. Don't miss the last exciting chapter. . . .

French Army Officers Are Ready For Algerian Peace

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
ALGIERS (AP)—The great majority of French army officers in Algeria apparently are ready to accept French President Charles de Gaulle's plan for ending the Algerian war whatever it may be.

De Gaulle has secretly prepared a new approach to settling the costly nationalist rebellion. He is to disclose his plan in a nationwide radio and television broadcast Wednesday. Officially, all that is known is that it will "affirm the principle of self-determination" for the Algerians.

But two days before the expected announcement the hard core of the French army appears to be lined up solidly behind De Gaulle.

De Gaulle is the only man who can solve the Algerian problem and we have all reason to believe his solution will be compatible with the nation's honor and interests," a staff officer said.

Highly placed French administration sources said some officers remain hostile to De Gaulle, but that their number and influence is not enough to steer the army into an anti-De Gaulle rebellion.

De Gaulle's trusted friend Gen. Maurice Challe seems to be in complete control of the 400,000-man French force fighting the Algerian rebels, who seek complete independence.

More than 1,000 officers suspected of being plotters have been booted out of Algeria in recent months or have been removed from key posts.

Highly placed French sources said De Gaulle left his Algerian inspection tour late last month impressed by recent French military successes and by the army's loyalty to him.

Hence, these sources said, no radical change in his Algerian policy is expected. It probably will renew a peace offer to the rebels and promise the nine million Algerians the right to choose their own political future—once peace has returned.

Meanwhile, machine-gun fire rattles throughout Algeria and grenades explode in dingy Moorish cafes and bars.

Despite powerful swoops of the French army, rebel guerrillas continue to recruit conscripts in mountain villages.

Fifty miles east in Algeria's Kabylie Mountain range, crack French army units pursue a seven-week-old operation aimed at

Tells Police He Killed 2-Year-Old

HOUSTON (AP)—A husky 9-year-old boy told police Sunday night he accidentally killed a 2-year-old playmate with a heavy iron bar.

Craig John Licata was beaten to death Saturday. Police said he was struck at least three times on the head with a blunt instrument.

Detective Chester Massey said the older youth told him he accidentally struck Craig in the head while swinging the bar. No charges have been filed. In Texas the names of persons arrested can not be published until charges are filed.

The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Licata. Licata, who is a certified public accountant, moved to Houston five years ago from Ottawa, Canada. He became an American citizen last June.

Dalai Lama To Send Brother

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The Dalai Lama is sending his brother Gyalo Thondup to New York to explain the Tibetan situation to U.N. delegates, informed sources said today.

The refugee king has already sent a direct appeal to the U.N. for help. He accused the Chinese Communists of carrying out a program to exterminate the Tibetan race.

Homecoming At ECC Oct. 10

East Carolina College will observe its annual Homecoming Day for Alumni Saturday, October 10. Plans for a series of festivities to be staged in honor of visitors are being prepared by a committee headed by Dr. James W. Butler, assistant director of public relations at the college.

Top attraction for many alumni returning to the campus will be a football game between the East Carolina College Buccaneers and the Fighting Christians of Elon College. Kickoff will be at 2 p.m. in the College Stadium.

The Homecoming Day Parade, one of the most spectacular events staged at the college each year, is scheduled for Saturday morning and will feature bands, floats, and decorated cars.

The program for the day will include also open house in all campus dormitories, a round of reunion dinners by fraternities and alumni groups, and the fall dinner meeting of the Society of Buccaneers, recently organized by men who have attended East Carolina.

The annual Homecoming Dance in the Wright building will round out the day's activities. A name band will provide music.

Famed French actress Sarah Bernhardt first appeared in comedy roles and attracted little attention. She changed to emotional tragic roles and became the most acclaimed feminine star in the theater.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Space age stocks advanced on news of the successful Russian moon rocket but the rest of the stock market was mixed in moderately active trading today.

The missile-electronic-rocket fuel stocks advanced from fractions to 2 points or more.

Key stocks throughout the list showed gains or losses of fractions to a point. Most movers were active and lower. Rails were down fairly sharply as the steel strike dragged on. Most leading steel-makers took fractional losses.

The space age stocks were spurred by hopes of renewed expenditures for rocketry in view of the Soviet triumph. The rest of the market was feeling its way along.

Thiokol, the rocket fuel stock, advanced more than 2. General Tire, which has a rocket subsidiary, was a 2-point gainer.

Among the electronics, Raytheon gained well over a point. Texas Instrument backed away from an early gain of around 3, keeping about a point to the plus side.

General Dynamics was up about a point and Martin Co. more than that.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 20 cents to $222.50 with the industrials down 20 cents, the rails down 80 cents and the utilities down 10 cents.

Government bonds continued to fall, many issues reaching historic lows.

Legion Prepares Career Program For Tuesday Night

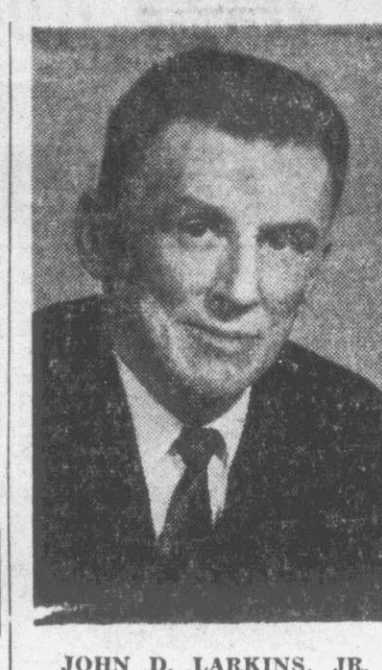

A program designed to aid students in planning careers in various fields will be featured at tomorrow night's regular meeting of the local American Legion Post No. 39 at the Rotary Building, according to an announcement today from Post Commander Al Brinson.

Legion members have been invited to bring boys and girls of junior high and high school age to the dinner meeting beginning at 7 p.m. tomorrow.

Speakers for the program will be Mrs. R. L. Wolff, Elmhurst School principal; Frank M. Wooten, Democratic Representative from Pitt County to the North J. B. Spillman, director of the N. C. Mental Health Association; and Sam Winchester, Pitt County Agricultural Agent. State Senator John D. Larkins, Jr., of Jones County, was previously scheduled to appear on tomorrow night's program; however, he will be attending a National Democratic Committee meeting in Washington, D. C., and will be represented here by a tape-recorded message.

These speakers will give short talks to the group on courses and subjects that should be included in a student's school curriculum to prepare him for further schooling or the pursuit of a career in their specialized field. Following these talks, the speakers will hold private question-and-answer sessions with the students to give them an opportunity to discuss their personal problems. Vice Commander George W. Evans will introduce the speakers.

Larkins' tape recording will be an introduction to the career-planning session. Mrs. Wolff will discuss education careers and Mrs. Spillman will emphasize careers and opportunities in the field of health as well as in the field of commercial work in her talk. Wooten and Winchester will discuss political and agriculture careers respectively.

Pupils Struck Down By Contaminated Water

RALEIGH (AP)—The head of the State Laboratory of Hygiene indicated today he is satisfied that contaminated water caused the mass illness that struck hundreds of pupils at a Goldsboro school last week.

Dr. John Hamilton said tests showed contamination was present in water samples brought here from the William Street Elementary school which was ordered closed Friday after the illness struck Thursday.

Meanwhile, the school reopened today with emergency facilities set up to provide the children with water. A Goldsboro National Guard unit set up canvas lister bags at the school to dispense the water and moved in tank trailers to haul it. Lister bags are normally used to supply water to troops in the field.

School authorities reported there were 127 absences today among his 1,096 student body and that at least 20 of these absences were for reasons other than the epidemic.

The school was closed Friday after some 115 students became ill Thursday and were sent home. Dr. A. H. Pate, chairman of the Goldsboro School Board, estimated 90 per cent of the students later suffered from the illness described as "infectious diarrhea."

Families of some students also were reported sick. Authorities said the illness seemed to run its course in 24 to 48 hours.

Minor Hurts As Car Left Road

A 19-year-old Route 2, Vanceboro, youth received minor injuries after the car which he was driving skidded 125 feet off the Tar Road about three miles east of Ayden late Saturday night.

Investigating patrolman R. E. Taylor of Grifton identified the driver of the car as Dalton Anderson. The owner of the vehicle, Rodney Wall, also of near Vanceboro, was listed as a passenger in the car.

Taylor said the vehicle slid through the intersection of the Tar Road and the Haddock Crossroads road, leaving and jumping an embankment. Estimated damage to the vehicle was set at $200.

Anderson was charged with careless and reckless driving and operating without a license as a result of the investigation of the accident.

The Greenville Rescue Squad took Anderson and Wall to Pitt Memorial Hospital where they were treated for minor lacerations and released.

Shrine Club Will Meet Thursday

The Pitt County Shrine Club will hold its regular September meeting Thursday at Red Oak Church beginning at 7 p.m.

Supper will be served by members of the Red Oak Home Demonstration Club.

Ell Bloom, Jessie Laughinghouse and Kelly Rowe will be in charge of the program for the evening.

J. W. H. Roberts, president of the club, have been invited said a number of important Shriners.

Service Station Break-In Sunday

GRIFTON—The Cities Service Station at the intersection of Queen St. and N. C. 11 was entered sometime yesterday and about $30-$40 was taken.

Police Chief Roy Jackson said the robbers gained entrance to the building through a window and took the money from the cash register.

Nothing else was reported missing from the station, Jackson said. Investigation is still continuing in the case, Jackson reported.

Heavy Damage In Three Weekend City Wrecks

Heavy damage was reported by Greenville police in three traffic accidents over the weekend.

Six hundred dollars damage was done to a car operated by Mabel King Lang, Negro, of 1210 Davenport St. about 10:05 a.m. yesterday when it collided with a vehicle being driven by Fred Robert Silverthorne, 34, of 124 Harris St., Williamston at the intersection of Green and Second Sts. Damage to the Silverthorne car was set at $100.

According to investigating officers the Lang car was headed West on Second St. while the Silverthorne auto was going North on Greene. The two cars met at the intersection.

Officers quoted both drivers as saying they had the green light at the traffic controlled intersection. No arrests were made.

Vehicles operated by Annie Johnson, Negro, of 1300 Colonial Ave. and David Lee Nobles, 30-year-old Negro of 1914 A. South Pitt St. collided at the intersection of Elizabeth and Third Sts. yesterday about 7:20 p.m.

Damage to the Johnson car was set at $100 while officers set damage to the Nobles vehicle at $300.

Nobles was charged by officers with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Both drivers involved in a collision on North Greene St. Saturday night were charged by officers after investigation of the wreck.

Police estimated damage to a car operated by Donald R. Warren, 24, of Route 1, Stokes at $700 while damage to a car being driven by Bobby Gene Whitaker, 19, of Route 1, Tarboro was set at $250.

Nixon Says Russian Shot Had 3 Failures

NEW YORK (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon says the Soviets failed three times in the last two weeks to hit the moon with a rocket.

He could not reveal the source of his information, he said.

Saturday's firing, which the Soviets announced was successful, apparently was the fourth recent attempt.

Before that only one Soviet lunar probe had been announced. That was Lunik I, fired Jan. 2, which passed the moon and went into orbit around the sun.

When Nixon was asked about Moscow's announcement that the Soviet rocket had hit the moon, his press secretary, Herbert Klein interjected, "There is no official proof yet."

"Yes," said Nixon, "that's right. None of us really knows that it is in the moon."

Nixon was interviewed Sunday night when he arrived by plane from Washington to address a national dental convention.

Until Nixon's statement, only seven lunar probes had been announced—five of them by the United States and two by the U.S.S.R.

Four of the U. S. attempts failed to reach as far as the moon. The fifth, on March 3, passed the moon, as Lunik I did, and went into orbit around the sun.

"The latest Soviet space exploit is nothing to get hysterical about," Nixon said.

"Scientifically and educationally," he said, "we are way ahead of the Soviets, and there is no reason to junk our educational programs. In science, sometimes we're ahead and sometimes they're ahead, but over-all, we are way ahead."

Farmville To Get Auto License Sales Office

FARMVILLE — Automobile license plates will be available here to motorists from Farmville and the surrounding area beginning Oct. 1.

The introduction of the new sales office includes Farmville in the 88 towns, rather than Raleigh, in the state which handle license tag sales.

Cooperation of Farmville's Economic Council, Darius White of the Western Auto Associate store here, and the Carolina Motor Club brought the sales office to Farmville.

After Oct. 1, the license tags will be on sale at the Western Auto store on N. Main St. Formerly local citizens obtained license plates every year through the mail or from other offices, the nearest of which is located in Greenville.

All types of plates will be available here except "for hire" tags.

Mrs. White will attend a four-day school on sales of license tags later this month.

Why Carolina Farmers Prefer COKER OATS

The best evidence of a quality product is a repeat order by a satisfied customer. These farmers tell in their own words why they keep coming back for Coker seed oats every year. Good reasons for you to plant them, too!

"I've been a certified small grain producer for years. I like your Moregrain oat very well; it's a good producer of top quality grain. My crop was very satisfactory."
J. KYLE RICHARDSON, Fremont, N. C.

"I had several contract growers of Moregrain oats in Guilford County this year. We were all well pleased with the variety. One grower averaged slightly over 100 bu. per acre and the average of all growers was over 60 bushels."
H. A. SHERWIN, Greensboro, N. C.

"Your Moregrain oats did exceptionally well for us this season and we're well pleased with the variety."
F. D. BISSETT, Spring Hope, N. C.

"I've been planting oats for 12 years and Moregrain is the heaviest producer that we've ever planted."
A. T. BYRD, Sims, N. C.

"We are certainly pleased with your Moregrain oats. Our oat yields were more than double the county average, and the test weight per bushel was 36 1/2 pounds from the combine!"
RICKY T. HAMILTON, Mebane, N. C.

"I tried one bushel of Moregrain on 1.2 acres and harvested 70 bushels per acre. It combined well and made good heavy oats. I'm well pleased with it."
R. R. FRYAR, McLeansville, N. C.
