Interest-Raising Bill Signed Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed a bill permitting higher interest payments on government savings bonds...

comes back in January. Even as he made ready to sign the bill, Eisenhower told his news conference Sept. 17 that he hopes the new session will 'feel the heat of truth' and pass his proposal...

The President had asked for a 1/4-cent a gallon tax boost. Congress, reluctantly produced a compromise after first deciding against any tax increase.

The limited authority to increase the return on the "E" and "H" issues was as far as Congress would go toward meeting Eisenhower's insistent request for complete removal of the ceiling—now 4 percent—on all long-term government issues.

The administration contention is that the limit on interest rates puts the government out of competitive with long-term borrowers who will pay more, and forces the Treasury into inflationary short-term financing.

The total extra revenue of 3 1/2 billions is expected to keep the highway program going for the next five years, although at a slower pace than originally scheduled.

A woman identified as Helen K. Blythe of San Francisco hustles to wind up her camera to get a picture of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev leaving the Mark Hopkins Hotel for a stroll.

The Premier made the 20-mile trip from his hotel to International Airport in an open bus converted instead of a bullet-proof limousine.

He referred to his blowup there, when he became angry at a speech made by Mayor Norris Poulson, as "the unhappy incident."

Others believed the tough talk has done some good.

He saw America's gift to culinary culture, the supermarket.

He saw a housing development. He toured the bay by boat. He dropped in unexpectedly on the Longshoremen's Union near Fisherman's Wharf.

Several London newspapers suggested the Soviet Premier's trip to the United States can still change history's course and should not be endangered.

Special Five-man Committee

Special five-man committee is authorized to proceed to work out details of a disputes solution plan based on the arbitration principle.

Officials had said earlier the new VOA facilities in Pitt and Beaufort Counties will become the primary broadcast facilities of the federal agency on the East Coast. They will broadcast VOA programs overseas and behind the Iron Curtain.

It is an historic agreement between the top leaders of the biennial AFL-CIO convention to submit disputes between rival unions of whatever character to arbitration, putting conflict up to the decision of an outside neutral.

The peace plan is the real product and binder of the 1955 AFL-CIO merger. Leaders expect it to solidify labor as never before.

It would be submitted to a special federation convention in 1960 for required constitutional changes.

The transmitters will have a 4,800,000 watt power and will replace present VOA facilities now located in New York and New Jersey. Cost of the facilities to be erected in Pitt and Beaufort Counties has been set at $26 million by federal officials.

Joseph Westmoreland pleaded guilty Monday to raping a 7-year-old white girl here last June at knife-point.

Each dispute would be decided on its own merits, without setting a precedent.

Tryouts For Play To Be Held

Tryouts of Jean Anouilh's "The Waltz of the Tereadors," the first presentation of the Greenville Little Theatre for the 1959-60 season, will be held on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, September 23 and 24, at 8 p.m. in Room 206, Austin Building, East Carolina College.

They will be directed by James Gillikin and will be presented in Austin Auditorium on the ECC campus on October 29, 30, 31. Curtain time will be 8 p.m.

The play, which won the New York Critics Circle award as the best play by a foreign author during the 1956-57 Broadway season, is high comedy, exciting, funny, ironic, and cruel.

It concerns General St. Pe, quite a soldier and lover in his day; his wife, who spends all her time in bed abusing him roundly; two very plain daughters who bore him to tears; his secretary, a priggish young man who wakes up to the pleasures of love; Mlle. de St-Euverte, who has guarded her virtue for years following a waltz with the General and who returns to claim him; Dr. Benfant, the General's great friend and enemy; a flirtatious dress-maker; and two maids.

The General, who can bring himself to do all things except injure his wife, evades the issue of Mlle. de St-Euverte, who in despair turns to the young secretary. The long consultations between Dr. Benfant and the General's wife prove to be not entirely medical in scope—and so it goes.

Claude Garret, president of the Greenville Little Theatre, has this to say about the play: "This play is different, and it provides some excellent opportunities for actors to dig into some roles that are a little bit different, and have some fun while doing it."

Garret also urges all townspeople who are interested in Little

Now Is The Time For A 'Shoe Break'

THE FAMILIAR "coffee break" now an American office institution, is being joined by the "shoe break."

More and more usual is the sight of a secretary arriving for work in spike-heeled shoes which she changes for trim but comfortable flats kept in her desk drawer. When she goes out to lunch, on go the high heels. When she comes back, on go the flats. When she goes home she changes once more to the high heels.

Recent research by foot specialists reveals that a change of shoes during the day rests the feet, and since aching feet can affect the whole nervous system, the change results in a general pick-up of energy.

The average salesgirl covers the distance from Alaska to Hawaii during a year's work, reports the National Shoe Institute. The average letter-carrier could walk around the earth at the equator in the distance his route takes him every year. And the average housewife walks miles every day in the course of her household chores.

For all such people the "shoe break" is recommended as an effective antidote for fatigue.

Calorie Counting Creates New Behavior Patterns

NEW YORK (AP)—One out of three Americans is overweight. One out of 10 of us is currently on a diet—and a lot more of us are going to go on a diet, but tomorrow or the next day, perhaps.
In spite of the fact that the diet is fast becoming part of our way of life, it seems that most of us are largely unsuccessful in shedding pounds, for keeps, anyway. But the continuing American effort to slim down is having some interesting effects—social and economic.

Survey-makers, those indefatigable samplers, have been at work uncovering what might be called a "calorie snobbery." As "calorie" has evolved into a slightly unpleasant word, it has been getting chic to be slim. One survey, for instance, found that the chances of a lady fitting into a small size dress increased as her husband's salary and social position soared upwards.

A study made in a store revealed that among women in the $3,000 to $4,000 income bracket, only 42 per cent were able to squeeze into "misses" sizes. However, some 59 per cent of women with incomes between $5,000 and $7,000 were able to wear them. (This, of course, might mean that men making between $5,000 and $7,000 like skinny dames, but the interpreters of the survey suggest that, on the contrary, it means that there's a status symbol abounding around avoiddupis.)
Meanwhile, back at the factory, milady's passion for calorie counting is causing something akin to an industrial and farming revolution.

College Education Costs Bound To Rise Even Higher

(Editor's note: Higher education is expensive in today's world. The prospect of rapidly rising enrollment in the decade ahead makes financial concerns even more acute. The following article, one in a series, looks at the money angle of the coming enrollment boom.)

By BRYAN HANSLIP

Associated Press Staff Writer RALEIGH (AP)—Two may live as cheaply as one in marriage, but you can't count on educating college students that way.

The decade ahead has the possibility of putting two students on campus for every one there now. Higher education officials have the same worry as the anxious bridegroom when the honeymoon is over—how to pay the bills. There is no easy answer in either case. The only thing certain is that the money's not going as far as it used to.

Mounting costs of education at the college level is a concern for parents as well as college presidents, an issue for debate among politicians as well as church leaders. The next 10 years will sharpen the problem, as rising population in the college age group puts pressure on enrollments.

"The sobering question," said one man with long experience in higher education, "is this: will education be priced out of the market?"

For years, social patterns have encouraged sending the kids to college. Crushing expenses, particularly for today's families of several children, could force many boys and girls to settle for shorter, vocational-type courses near home.

The high finance side of higher education shows clearly in the budget which the 1959 Legislature wrote for the next two fiscal years. For all higher education purposes, it sets aside operating money of approximately $9 1/4 million dollars. It makes provision for another 2 1/4 million for buildings and other capital improvements.

These millions will be spent to operate the three branches of the Consolidated University of North Carolina (the University at Chapel Hill, State College at Raleigh, and Woman's College at Greensboro) and the state-supported colleges—East Carolina at Greenville; Western Carolina at Cullowhee; Appalachian State Teachers at Boone; Pembroke State at Pembroke; A&T at Greensboro; Winston-Salem Teachers; Elizabeth City State Teachers; Fayetteville State Teachers; and North Carolina College at Durham. Grants-in-aid and building funds on a matching basis with local money also will go to community colleges at Asheville, Charlotte, and Wilmington. The list includes white and Negro institutions. Court suits have broken segregation barriers, but only a modest amount of mixing has resulted. Educators do not look for segregation to be a major problem in the immediate years ahead.

Not all the $9 1/4 million in operating funds goes directly for teaching in the classroom. At the University level are broad functions only indirectly allied to instruction, such as Memorial Hospital at Chapel Hill, Agricultural Extension Service and Agricultural Experiment Station at State College. These and similar activities account for some 14 1/2 million in the present two-year budget.

The state-supported institutions last year had around 29,600 students in academic residence. By 1970, according to projections by the board of higher education, that figure may range between 35,900 and 50,300. Conceivably, it could go higher.

In the competition for the taxpayer dollar, will higher education manage to get the share it will need to keep opportunity open for the largest number of young people?

Private and church-related colleges are not immune to money worries. They have wrestled with them for years. Today, inflation has cut into endowment values in some cases. For many, income from such traditional sources as tuition charges, church bodies, and alumni is failing to keep up with rising costs of operation.

President Arthur D. Wenger of Atlantic Christian College in Wilson made the forecast that an important factor in a decade of growth ahead for church-related and private colleges will be the dollar-squeeze on state-supported institutions.

"It will be virtually impossible, in the era just ahead, to reconcile taxpayers to the fact that they are paying tuitions for students whose parents can afford to pay them," he predicted. The result, he continued, will be tuition rates at public institutions more in line with those charged by private colleges.

"This will be a boon to the private and church-related schools that have to raise their smaller subsidies from outright gifts."

Horse-Stealing, Even In Newark

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—You don't hear very much about horse stealing in Newark anymore.

But it's a big city and anything can happen—like Monday when three boys entered the Charlton Livery Stable and took three horses.

Sol Green, operator of the stable, told police he last saw the aged truck horses and the boys headed south.

Mother Forgot Human Factor

BALTIMORE (AP)—Katie O. Maddox took mechanical precautions but ignored the human factor.

When she set the emergency brake on her car Monday, she left her 22-month-old son, Ronald, inside.

He pushed the button that released the brake and went for a rollicking ride down the street. The car rumbled into the home of Blanche Pitts.

The house was damaged but the car and Ronald escaped without a scratch.

Wisconsin led the nation in the per capita consumption of beer and ale in 1958 with an average 24.5 gallons. Nevada was second with 22.2 gallons and New Jersey, Michigan and Pennsylvania third with 19.9.

Wenger noted. The head of the college supported by the Disciples of Christ (Christian Churches) pointed to another bright spot in the financial future. Industry will continue and increase its aid to higher education, he declared. "The simple fact is that educational institutions provide the human resources that allow industry to live and progress. Already industry is recognizing its educational needs. It will recognize them even more in the years just ahead," President Wenger added.

Public or private, no institution is likely to get the flow of dollars necessary to keep up with the stream of students.

The alternative, said Chancellor William B. Aycock of the University at Chapel Hill, is orderly growth, putting buildings and other campus facilities already on hand to the greatest possible use.

"We can't make it in one giant step," he cautioned. "We must go along, improving quality while raising quantity, maintaining a critical self-examination to determine to what extent we are using our resources."

"We can't ask the state for more, until we can show we are making efficient use of what we already have," the chancellor reminded.

Along with other institutions, the University is experimenting for ways to get better dollar mileage. Approaches include fuller use of buildings by afternoon classes, shuffling the curriculum by eliminating courses for which the demand is light, and stretching the faculty by expanding classes and by more use of graduate students as assistants.

How much steps like these will brake rising operating costs in the 10 years ahead is anybody's guess. The enrollment spiral, plus economic conditions and inflationary trends, will be the unpredictable in the picture.

A look at the past is disturbing. For the 10 years from 1946-47 to 1956-57, academic appropriations for higher education went from some 4 1/2 million to well over 13 million. While the cost to the state about tripled, enrollment went up only modestly from about 24,400 to approximately 28,000.

The appropriations give only part of the cost picture for the student and his parents. Appropriations supply only about one-half the money institutions spend.

For example, at the University in Chapel Hill, a Tar Heel student would pay $150 tuition, $14 registration fee, $15 medical fee, $4.50 library fee, $39.50 activities fee, $170 dorm rent, an estimated $450 for board, and perhaps $40 for laundry. That means an average cost a year of $903—not counting lab fees, books and supplies, and spending money.

The climb of costs, said Chairman L. P. McLendon of the higher education board, will bring the state to decide "whether it wants to continue to obey the injunction to supply education to every child as nearly as possible without cost, or whether the student should be required to shoulder more of the cost through higher tuition."

It is a serious question, the Greensboro lawyer conceded. "No one advocates diluting the quality of education. You can't expect to raise it for less cost," he added.

Bucking the cost squeeze calls for careful planning to get the best use from all resources, material and human.

Better space use is an approach suggested by the board of higher education, which pointed out that North Carolina institutions are using classrooms and laboratories fewer hours a week than the national average.

The board also has proposed steps toward year-round college use by a fourth academic quarter in the summer months. "Full use of existing facilities in summer academic quarters would increase the annual instructional capacity of institutions by approximately 20 per cent without requiring the curtailment of special programs for teachers which are currently being offered in summer sessions," the board observed.

Intelligent planning now will mean better results for money spent on higher education capital improvements in the decade ahead, in the board's view.

It has laid out a program totaling 90 million dollars, just under the approximately 100 million which the state spent for the purpose over the 1947-57 decade.

The board said the 90 million total would build the classrooms and provide other facilities for a projected minimum enrollment in 1969-70 of 40,400 students in state-supported institutions. With these minimum needs filled, it figured colleges should be able to care for the projected maximum enrollment of 56,300—if it should materialize—by increasing space utilization rates, and by making greater use of summer sessions.

The 1959 legislature went about one-fifth of the way on the 90 million program. The board had proposed about a two-fifths step on the ground that projects authorized now can't be planned, constructed and put to use in less than three years.

The legislature provided 3,543,500 for higher education permanent improvements by reappropriation of a 1957 fund, plus bonds issued without a vote of the people.

The remaining $18,673,000 is part of an issue of $34,400,000 in state bonds, which will be the subject of a statewide referendum next month.

Milwaukee Moves Into First Place Tie With L. A.

Glenn Bass Named For Top Touchdown Club Award

Glenn Bass, East Carolina College halfback, was named as the outstanding player of the week by the Greenville Touchdown Club yesterday.

Bass, a Wilson native, was the honored guest of the club yesterday at noon when they held their weekly meeting at the Cinderella Restaurant.

The flashy halfback paced East Carolina to their first victory of the season Saturday night over Albright, 45-0. Bass scored twice on runs of 32 and 90 yards and picked up a total of 166 yards in seven carries for the night.

Coach Jack Boone also praised Bass for his defensive ability. Excelling at defense in high school, the halfback knocked two would-be-touchdown passes down Saturday night to help the Bucs cop their first victory.

Bass played only defense in high school but has developed fast and saw some action on offense last season before being injured. Weighing at 185, Glenn is one of the fastest straight-away runners on the club.

Lou Collie, president of the TD club, presented Bass with numerous gifts from various Greenville merchants and then John Lauterbach honored him with a plaque. Donated by the latter and Collie.

The club plans to pick an outstanding player at each home East Carolina game and honor him in the same manner.

Business at the meeting included the discussion concerning a banquet, tentatively set for December 12, and also a new scoreboard for College Stadium. In conjunction with the Jaycees, the TD Club plans to sponsor the ECC Junior Varsity football game here October 8 with all proceeds going toward a new scoreboard.

Coaches Jack Boone and Bill McDonald showed film of the ECC-Albright game following the business part of the meeting.

Brave Southpaw Hurls 20th Win Over Pirates

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Warren Spahn has won 20 again and Milwaukee has barreled into a tie for the National League lead. But don't kid yourself. The Brave's big guy is Ed Mathews.

It was Mathews, belting five home runs in four games for a share of the major league lead with 43, who got the job done. The left-handed slugger drove in five runs Monday night with a pair of homers for an 8-6 decision over the Pirates at Pittsburgh that made Warren The Wonder a 20-game winner for the 10th time in a 15-year career.

The Braves, winning three in a row and 12 of their last 15, jumped into a tie with Los Angeles for a one-game edge over the San Francisco Giants. Each of the contenders has five games to play.

The Braves are at Pittsburgh again tonight with lefty Juan Pizarro facing Harvey Haddix, the slim southpaw who pitched 12 perfect innings against Milwaukee last May only to lose.

The Dodgers open a two-game series at St. Louis tonight with either Sandy Koufax or Danny McDevitt, both left-handers, going against the Cards' Larry Jackson, a right-hander who blanked Los Angeles on two hits the last time they met.

The Giants start a two-game set at Chicago this afternoon with right-hander Jack Sanford going against the Cubs' Art Ceccarelli, a lefty.

The Cubs clobbered St. Louis 12-3 Monday night in the only other game scheduled in the NL. Spahn, at 38 already tops among all-time left-handers for 20-victory seasons in the majors, made it for the fourth year in a row and tied Eppa Rixey as the winningest southpaw in NL history with his 266th.

Until the ninth inning, it looked as though he had it in a breeze. Mathews tied the Cubs' Ernie Banks, who hit his 43rd at St. Louis, for the home run lead with a two-run shot in the ninth off Bennie Dietz, the Bucs' fourth pitcher. But Spahn, 5-0 against the Pirates, suddenly was in trouble and the Cubs had three runs in before reliever Don McMahon fanned Don Hoak, to end it.

Pinch-hitter Dick Schofield and Bob Skinner tagged Spahn for singles and Dick Groat brought Schofield home with a double, the Bucs' 12th hit. McMahon then gave up a scoring single by Bob Clemente and Smokey Burgess sacrifice fly before getting Hoak.

Mathews, with 13 RBI in four games, cracked a 2-all tie in the fifth with a three-run homer off loser Bob Friend (8-19). It bounced off the right field roof at Forbes Field — a target 90 feet high and 300 feet from the plate.

Only five other hitters — Babe Ruth, Ted Beard, Wally Moon, Skinner and Mickey Mantle — had done it in the park's half-century history.

The Cardinals, hammered for home runs by Banks, Tony Taylor and rookie George Altman, who hit two, also lost Bill White when he crashed the left field wall chasing a second-inning drive by Banks that went for a triple.

White, probably lost for the closing Dodger and Giant series, needed 25 stitches to close a gash over his left eye.

Views Contrast On Coming Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The opposing coaches take contrasting views about the Richmond-West Virginia fracas at Morgantown next Saturday which launches 1959 competition between Southern Conference football teams.

"I don't care what Maryland did to West Virginia, they're still out of our class," says Richmond Coach Ed Merrick.

To which West Virginia Coach Art Lewis snorts, "Who, us?"

"I'll be darned if I know whose class we could possibly be out of," says Lewis, who was mightily upset by last week's 27-7 loss to Maryland.

If Merrick has his way, West Virginia will see a lot more of the "I" formation razzle-dazzle that drove the Mountaineers batty at Maryland.

Lewis showed his displeasure with the Maryland result by making five changes in West Virginia's No. 1 unit at practice Monday. Out went tackle Carl Dannenberg, injured guard Bill Lopasky, end Dave Hess, quarterback Danny Williams and halfback Dave Rider. In their places went Larry Poliz, Bill Winter, Carmen Pomponio, John Marra and Dick Herzig.

Coach Bill Dole sent his Davidson team through a dummy scrimmage in which offense was stressed. Dole said he expects a tough game Saturday from Presbyterian, a two-time winner already.

Furman worked for more than 90 minutes. Despite the 23-22 loss to Presbyterian last week, Coach Bob King praised his squad for its offensive showing, which piled up 336 yards.

LSU Ranks First In AP Poll; Clemson Is Fifth

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Louisiana State, Oklahoma and Auburn are the Big Three in The Associated Press college football poll and "X" marks the spot they occupy in the weekend games.

All three face formidable rivals capable of knocking them into the lower drawer.

The LSU Tigers, unbeaten-untied national champions of 1958 and preseason favorites to repeat, are host to Texas Christian's Southwest Conference champions in a game which probably will be rated a tossup.

Oklahoma, No. 2 in the poll, faces Northwestern at Evanston, Ill., in the TV game of the week while Auburn, No. 3, has a date with rugged Tennessee at Knoxville.

LSU, Oklahoma and Auburn, who were picked that way in the preseason balloting, held their positions in the first poll of the season, announced today.

There was a mild shakeup in the lower part of the order because of impressive victories by Clemson and Texas Christian. Clemson moved to fifth place, just behind Mississippi, after knocking off North Carolina 20-18. TCU usurped ninth on a 14-7 decision over Kansas.

LSU received 64 of the 96 first-place votes cast by sports writers and broadcasters and amassed a total of 1,105 points—more than double that of Oklahoma.

The top ten, with total points based on 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second, etc.—first place votes in parentheses:

- 1. Louisiana State (64) . . . 1,105
- 2. Oklahoma (12) . . . 506
- 3. Auburn (6) . . . 474
- 4. Mississippi (6) . . . 468

- 6. Southern Methodist . . . 262
- 7. Army . . . 248

Los Angeles Coach Sid Gillman — who doesn't pull his punches — doesn't want any more thrown by his rambunctious Rams.

Inflated by the numerous penalties assessed against his operatives as they edged Philadelphia 31-28 in a weekend National Football League exhibition, Gillman tersely cautioned his charges Monday against any repetition of the rough-house tactics that marked the contest.

Gillman said he didn't know what set off the fireworks but "that kind of stuff must be eliminated. We can't win games with severe penalties."

There weren't any pitched battles during the game, but Ram linebacker Les Richter and Eagle linebacker Bob Peligri had a tangle a go at each other.

After drawing one personal foul, Richter, 248 pounds, got into a brawl with Peligri, 235. It was quickly broken up. But as soon as the game ended, the angered Peligri jumped Richter and precipitated a rousing free-for-all.

The Rams lost defensive back Don Burroughs, whom officials suspended out of the fray.

Meanwhile, Coach Weeb Ewbank of the defending champion Baltimore Colts dismissed his team's two consecutive losses.

"We wanted to win the first one (against the College All-Stars), play our rookies in the next three and polish the first team the last two. And we did," he asserted.

What about the Colts' 31-17 thumping by Chicago's Cardinals Sunday?

"We didn't want to be ready for the season by this Chicago game," he responded.

"We have to get ready for the Lions (Baltimore opens against Detroit Sunday) in this week coming up. If we can't, we're in trouble. But I think we can."

Pittsburgh reported defensive back Jack Butler may miss the Steelers opener against Cleveland. Butler is sidelined with a severe sprain to his right ankle.

The Browns reached the 36-man player limit by cutting rookies Farrell Funston, an end from College of the Pacific and defensive back Dick Lebanon from Ohio State.

Green Bay trimmed its roster by placing tackle Ed Buckingham of Minnesota and linebacker Tom Braatz of Marquette on waivers.

San Francisco asked waivers on rookie halfback Paul Lowe of Oregon State. The 49ers must cut another player.

Nettles completed 8 of 12 passes for 133 yards and three touchdowns. He ran for 13 yards and banged over twice for two-point conversions.

Wake Forest Has Wide Open Offense In Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Signal stealing, a fine art in baseball, could become just as finely developed in football if more teams use the "double lonesome end" formation such as Wake Forest does.

The Atlantic Coast Conference team plays both its ends flanked far out near the sidelines, seldom calling them to the huddle. The Deacons used this offense last week in edging Florida State 22-20.

Coach Paul Amen says his team "didn't exploit this offense as completely as we had intended to." He told a news conference Monday the Deacs likely will develop more "wide open" tactics as well.

The double lonesome end formation enabled Wake Forest to get plays off faster. Amen explained, thus allowing the defense less time to figure out the play in advance.

But those ends out there all by themselves—they have to get the signals, too. How? Army, which developed the lonesome end attack last season, divulged later that one of the players in the huddle tipped off the end by the position of his feet as to whether the play would be a pass or run.

Whatever Wake Forest's signal system is, Amen's no stool pigeon.

The Deacons began preparing Monday for their Homecoming game Saturday with Virginia Tech. A scouting report said the Gobblers are particularly strong at ends, tackles and halfbacks.

North Carolina State, which beat Virginia Tech 13-12 in last week's opener—worked out lightly. The Wolfpack has an open date this week, and tangles next week with North Carolina.

Clemson's ego got a little punctured from Coach Frank Howard. "You can't win this coming weekend on what you did last Saturday," he warned the Tigers. They fought off a North Carolina rally last week to win 20-18, and jumped from No. 18 to fifth place in this week's Associated Press poll.

Clemson faces lightly regarded Virginia this week.

South Carolina, now No. 20 in the AP poll since the Gamecocks' 12-7 victory over Duke, faced a possible revamping of its offensive plans. This was the word from Coach Warren Giese, who said fullback John Saunders—last year's top blocker and leading ground gainer in the ACC—is lost for the season because of a shoulder injury. South Carolina's opponent this week is Furman.

Duke Coach Bill Murray optimistically told a news conference the "Blue Devils" now have the opportunity to become a better team. "South Carolina, he commented, played a "remarkably flawless" game. Duke plays next Saturday against powerful Ohio State in the Big Ten team's opener.

North Carolina practiced for Notre Dame. Standouts were fullback Don Knoch, halfback Miami Wall and tackle Earl Butler. Second string left tackle John Hegarty may not play because of a hand injury. The Tar Heels dropped from No. 12 out of the top 20 of the AP poll after losing to Clemson.

Six Clubs Post Gains In Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH (AP)—Three of the six Carolina League baseball teams posted attendance gains this season in spite of a shortened schedule.

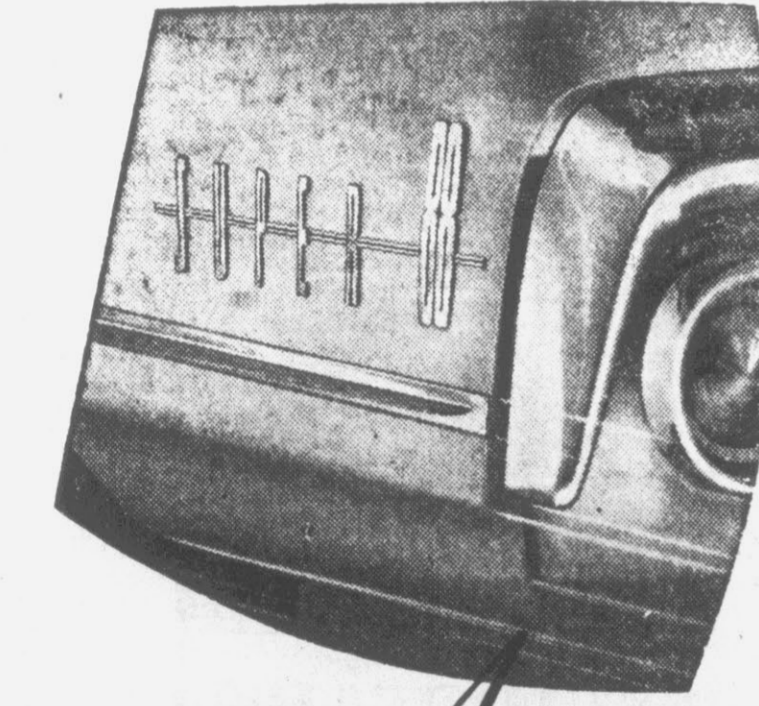

President Bill Jessup, who released the figures, told a Class B loop's annual meeting said he sees no reason why it should not continue to operate in 1960.

Jessup, who was to report on franchise plans, said the league could expand again to eight teams if major league working agreements are secured.

High Point-Thomasville, Rocky Mount and Lynchburg, Va., are interested in a league berth, he said.

Alamance, Raleigh and Durham registered attendance gains last year while Winston-Salem, Wilson and Greensboro fell off. Alamance gained the most—26,896.

In spite of the fact each of the six teams played 10 fewer games in 1959, their total attendance dropped only 2,795 from 1958.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower expects to ask an election year Congress to balance the budget, halt indirect financing, lift bond interest ceilings and overhaul the tax laws.

Outlining this course, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois made it clear he expects Eisenhower to bear down again in 1960 against what the administration calls unnecessary spending. Dirksen summarized his views for publication in the Congressional Record.

In an obvious reply to Eisenhower's contention last week that the Democratic-dominated Congress was guilty of "many disappointing failures," Johnson said he left little doubt that he would support a constructive Congress should be turned into a political football.

Of about a dozen major problems listed by Dirksen for consideration by Congress when it reconvenes in January, nearly half involved financial matters. The Senate minority leader said action is needed in the fields of general farm legislation, civil rights, education, self-employment retirement, depressed areas and extension of the wage-hour law to cover additional workers.

SHADOW OF GUILT

A NEW THRILLER by PATRICK QUENTIN

WHAT HAS HAPPENED ... George Hadley at 37 finds his revolving around three women. First, his wife, Connie, to whom marriage has meant wealth and authority in the business empire she inherited from her father. Second, his secretary, Eve Lord, with whom George has fallen in love and wants to marry. Third, Ala, George's niece and daughter by adoption. George has decided not to ask Connie for a divorce until after Ala's approaching marriage to Chuck Ryson—a match Connie set her heart upon.

George, the narrator of the story, feels annoyance when Connie asks him to accompany her to the opera on a night he has planned to be at Eve's apartment, but he dutifully goes with his wife. Upon their meeting Don Saxby, an acquaintance of Connie, George notes with surprise that Don's proximity seems to fluster Connie. Then she invites Saxby to the Hadley home after the opera. Saxby's attentions to Ala charm the young girl and she agrees to go with him to a party while her fiancé is away on a business trip. Connie, seemingly jealous, objects indignantly when she hears of the "date," but Ala enlists George's aid and he consents. Connie's enraged reaction gets George wondering if his wife's interest in Saxby is more than casual. A date that George has with Eve in a restaurant on an evening he's supposed to be attending to business places him at a disadvantage with Saxby. For Saxby, who has chosen the restaurant for a date with Ala, surprises George kissing Eve. When Ala arrives and tells George that Saxby has invited her to visit friends in Massachusetts with him over the week end, George feels compelled to consent.

Despite his misgivings he agrees to help mislead Connie about where Ala is going. He has reason to regret doing so on Saturday night when Connie tells George that Chuck has returned to town ahead of schedule and is coming to the house to see Ala. George is forced to tell Connie where Ala and Don Saxby have gone. When she telephones their supposed destination she is informed they stopped there only briefly. Upon hearing Saxby's name, Mal Ryson, Chuck's father, describes him as a swindler who preys on young girls.

CHAPTER 6 ... MY WIFE and I were glaring at each other. Then I remembered how little I'd bothered with Ala lately, how thoroughly I'd left her to be Connie's problem. "I'm sorry," I said. Connie's eyes didn't relent at all. "Being sorry isn't going to do much good now, is it?" Chuck Ryson arrived from the airport around seven. He came hurrying in with a brief case, all blond crew cut, grin and excitement. Seeing his blissful, scrubbed young face, and watching it change as Connie told him, made my feeling of guilt and idiocy almost unendurable.

"But a guy like that..." Chuck looked as if he were going to throw up. "Connie, she loved me. I know Ala loves me. She couldn't change in a week." He spun around to me, looking as nearly contemptuous of me as he dared to look. "You let her go. You've got to help me find her." "How?" I said. "Call these people in Massachusetts again." "But, Chuck dear, they don't a real uncle—and he isn't going to stand in our way..." "Wait a minute—I began. "But Connie interrupted. "Since you and George seem suddenly so close, has he had time to tell you, among other items, what your Uncle Mal found out about Mr. Saxby? Do you know that last spring Don Saxby tried to elope with the eighteen-year-old daughter of some rich people in Toronto?" "I expected that to throw Ala, but she merely laughed. "That!" she said. "A neurotic little girl who was crazy about him, who tried to trick him into running off with her. You think Don didn't tell me about that?" "So he told you, did he?" said Connie. "Did he also tell you that he was only using the girl to get money out of the parents, that he let the father buy him off with ten thousand dollars?" Ala glared defiantly. "That's a lie." "That's enough, Ala," I said. "It looks as if it's true." She spun around to me, the defiance ready for me, too. "How do you know whether it's true or not? Have you called these friends of Uncle Mal's? Or the people with the crazy daughter?" "No, I haven't, but..." She turned back to Connie, her eyes gleaming savagely. "I might have known you'd cook up something phony like this. You and the Rysons." "Ala!" I said. "Stop that." She turned back to me. "And you—you're just as bad as Connie after all!" Without looking at either of us, she swept past us and up the stairs. I started after her. "No," said Connie. "You've done enough damage as it is." The front doorbell rang. I was so close to it that I jumped. I turned and opened the door. Chuck came in, looking haggard and disheveled. "I've been waiting for you, hasn't she?" he said. "I saw her. I've been waiting across the street in a doorway since six." (Continued Tomorrow)

Mrs. Khrushchev Dodges Reporters, Goes Shopping

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — State Department officials helped Nina Khrushchev dodge reporters and crowds Monday for a few hours of calm shopping and a chance to look at a school.

Her day on the town, as a result, was a quiet contrast to that of her husband, the Soviet Premier.

Slipping out of the official Khrushchev motorcade in a sleek maroon car, Mrs. Khrushchev and her small entourage eluded their own local police escort. They were off for more than three hours before newsmen located them. But she was escorted by her own security guard throughout.

Even security officials were looking for the ladies, said Clement Conger, deputy chief of protocol, who was in on the ruse.

Rumors had spread about where they might go and a crowd of some 500 gathered to wait outside J. Magnin & Co., San Francisco's biggest exclusive women's store.

Mrs. Khrushchev went instead to a Sears Roebuck store, where she spent $150 buying clothes for grandchildren — just born and expected.

The outing, lasting from about 11 a. m. to 4 p. m., took her and the Khrushchev daughters, Rada and Julia, over the famous Golden Gate bridge, through a Chinese section of the city and into the suburbs.

They paused at 2:11 p. m. for a late lunch at Trader Vic's, a swank restaurant often frequented by San Francisco socialites.

A gardenia waited at each place in the small garden room reserved for the party in the Polynesian setting.

The Khrushchevs selected hamburger Hawaiian — served with fried banana and pineapple — from the two-foot tall menu of international dishes, including Russian caviar.

There were only a few other guests in the place and a few came to look at the foreign celebrity.

"Mrs. Khrushchev is much thinner than she looked in her pictures," one reported.

It was after lunch that the private journey ended. As the party set out for an hour and a half drive, a 10-car motorcade of newspaper people screamed past red lights and up the steep hills after them.

At Vista Point, seven miles outside the city, where they paused to see the breathtaking bay view, tourists came up to snap pictures with news cameramen.

Otherwise, Mrs. Khrushchev went unnoticed.

She went to the Anza Grammar School just in time to see children at recess play.

She shook hands and greeted the smaller children as they trooped back inside and then inspected classrooms and asked questions.

Asst. Principal Barbara Moore said Mrs. Khrushchev commented that the school was rich with plenty of supplies and equipment.

She noted a number of Negro children attending the school and asked if there was any tuition. When told there was no charge, she wondered how books and paper were paid for.

In a fifth grade classroom, Mrs. Khrushchev discovered a picture of herself tacked up on a board.

Principal Gertrude O'Halloran reported.

According to Fire Chief George Gardner, the 11 Negro firemen were treated to the free feed when a local woman requested donations from various people in order to reward firemen for their fine work.

Farmer Is Anxious To Show Nikita Techniques

By RELMAN MORIN

COON RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Iowa farmer Roswell Garst is ready to give Nikita Khrushchev some tips on how to produce more food in the Soviet Union when the Soviet leader visits his farm Wednesday.

But his larger purpose, Garst says, is to help with the task of "selling Khrushchev on an arms inspection plan to get rid of the burden of armaments."

Garst is a hybrid corn expert, livestock raiser, farmer, banker and proprietor of a general store in Coon Rapids—population 1,700—some 65 miles northwest of Des Moines. He met Khrushchev during his several trips to the Soviet Union and he was a guest in Khrushchev's home on the Black Sea last spring.

"You might say I'm constitutionally opposed to hunger," Garst said. "I think a hungry man is a dangerous man and a hungry nation is a dangerous nation."

"Khrushchev's primary interest is to find out why 12 per cent of the people in the United States can produce enough food for the 100 per cent, and with a diet high in the meat type of human protein—and why it takes 50 per cent of the people in the Soviet Union to produce a diet substantially lower in the meat type of protein."

"He is interested in finding out how to produce a better and better diet with less and less people. This is what I basically intend to help him discover."

Garst said Khrushchev already has considerable knowledge of new techniques in increasing corn production.

"He will know about as much about what I'm saying as most of the farmers around here," Garst said.

Garst, a big-bodied man not unlike Khrushchev in build and manner, snapped "utterly ridiculous," when asked if his business had suffered since the Communist leader accepted his invitation to visit the farm.

Garst's home is a rambling white farm house set on a knoll and sheltered with shade trees. The barns and silo are only a step away. A large tent has been pitched outside for the noonday meal for Khrushchev's family and 150 guests.

Civil Term Of Court Is Opened

The Pitt County Superior Court, with Judge William J. Bundy presiding, began a two-week fall civil court term yesterday by granting four absolute divorces and handing down a pair of court orders.

One of the orders directed the defendants in a restraint order violation case to appear Sept. 29 to "show cause" why they should not be punished for the violation. Hosea Allen and his wife, Ometa, are defendants in the case. The plaintiff is J. J. Perkins.

The other order allowed the law firm of James and Speight to withdraw as defense counsel in a case involving Melba Roebuck Tyson and Archie Reid Tyson.

Divorces were granted to the following upon grounds of the two-year separation qualification (defendants' names in parentheses):

White: Willie Jacob Lewis, Eleanor Terry Lewis; and Martha Evelyn Matthews, (Charles Daniel Matthews).

Negro: Mary Garrett Robinson, (Campsey Robinson); and Annie Jones Boyd, (Charles Louis Boyd).

Ailing Man Taken To Chapel Hill

At the request of a local doctor, a Greenville Negro man was taken to North Carolina Memorial Hospital by the Greenville Rescue Squad yesterday afternoon, suffering from a severe case of tuberculosis.

According to spokesmen for the squad, oxygen was administered to Jessie Williams of 1219A Battle St. over the entire length of the journey to Chapel Hill.

The unit left Greenville about 1:45 p. m. and returned about 9:30 last night.

Can 'Guarantee' Safety On Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington's police chief says his force is prepared to guarantee Nikita Khrushchev's safety "anywhere he wants to go" in the area after his return here Thursday.

The Soviet Premier has complained that security precautions at various points on his U.S. tour have kept him from doing some things that he wanted to do.

Chief Robert V. Murray said, "There is no place in the Washington area that if the chairman wants to go, we won't take him, and take him safely."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — A stock market rally fizzled and prices moved unevenly early this afternoon. Trading was fairly active. Gains and losses of key stocks went from fractions to a point or so.

The list staged a brisk rebound at the start after three straight sessions of serious decline. But after the initial buying was out of the way there was nothing to sustain the recovery and prices tumbled in a hedge-podge of plus and minus signs.

Motors and steels were pace-makers at the start and continued active in later dealings when most showed small losses.

Some of the space age stocks and other wide movers recouped 3 to 6 points at the start but fell again later.

The steel strike was in its 70th day. Uncertainty remained in regard to the outcome of Premier Khrushchev's visit.

Du Pont recovered all of Monday's 6-point loss then halved its gains. Polaroid won back about 3 of Monday's 8 3/4 loss then erased the gain and showed a net loss of another 5 points or so. Litton Industries kept only about a point of a 3-point rebound.

Initial gains of fractions to a point among the leading steels and automobiles were largely canceled.

Gains of about a point were shown by Goodrich, Zenith, American Smelting, Union Carbide, International Paper and U. S. Gypsum.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 20 cents to $214.50 with the industrials up 10 cents, the rails down 50 cents and the utilities down 10 cents.

Government bonds were unchanged to easy.

Rescue Squad Service Draws A 'Thank-You' From Edgemcombe

A letter of thanks, praising the Greenville Rescue Squad for their cooperation and help in transporting a critically ill paralytic polio case from Edgemcombe General Hospital to North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill last week was received yesterday by Fire Chief George Gardner.

The letter, signed by J. Lewis Ridgeway, Hospital Administrator and the patient's two doctors, said in part: "We sincerely appreciate the assistance that you... gave us Tuesday night by providing us with personal services and emergency equipment. Through your cooperation and help we were able to transfer a critically ill paralytic polio patient to Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill with the aid of your ambulance and respirator equipment. You certainly provided a vital contribution to save the life of this patient for which we are most grateful... The citizens of Greenville should be exceedingly proud to have an organization such as yours."

C. D. Ward, Administrator of the Pitt Memorial Hospital told reporters he also received a letter of thanks, praising the squad.

Presents Plans For Two 'Greater Greenville Days'

Motorists Said Rising Problem For Fire Dept.

"Cars, following fire engines and parking near a fire area have become an ever increasing problem, hampering fire-fighters in the performance of their duties," according to Fire Chief George Gardner.

Chief Gardner said, in recent months, volunteer firemen have been forced to park several blocks from the fire because sightseers have blocked the streets. "By the time a fireman runs several blocks to a fire he has to sit down and rest because he is too tired to do much good," he added.

"Then too," the Chief commented, "one-blocker block fire engines in and if one has to answer a second call or an engine has to move to a hydrant, it is impossible to get through the heavy traffic."

City Manager Leonard Blaxam pointed out that Section 24-45 of the Greenville City Code makes it illegal for a driver of a vehicle other than one of official business, to "follow any fire apparatus traveling in response to a fire alarm closer than one block or drive into or park such vehicle within one block where fire apparatus has stopped in answer to a fire alarm."

Blaxam added he has instructed both Fire Chief Gardner and Police Chief S. G. Gibbs, to make a special effort, and if necessary cite to court any and all persons violating the law, pointing out that according to the City Code, both the Chief and Assistant Chief of the Fire Department have the full power of a police officer of the city insofar as making arrests within the city during the existence of a fire.

A report on the "Greater Greenville Days," to be sponsored October 2 and 3, by the Greenville Merchants Association, was given by Chairman William Deavours at the monthly Board of Directors meeting held in the City Council Room of City Hall last night.

Deavours said 32 firms will be participating in the event, with free gifts being given to customers, drawings being held, and newest merchandise with the latest in fashions being displayed. Special offers will also be made by the firms.

This is the third year the Merchants Association has sponsored the city-wide shopping event and, according to the chairman, "looks like it will be the biggest."

The committee for a "Shoplifting Clinic" are working with law enforcement officers and plans are being formulated to sponsor the event in October. It was reported, J. H. Blount Jr. was welcomed as a new member of the Board of Directors, filling the unexpired term of E. E. Featherston, who moved from Greenville sometime ago.

J. H. Blount Sr. gave a report on the meeting of the Board of Directors of the North Carolina Merchants Association held in Roaring Gap recently. State Senator C. V. Henkel of Turnersburg in Iredell County was the principal speaker, talking on membership.

Two new members for the local association were announced as being Corey's Hardware Co. and Manning's Refrigeration and Electric Service.

Mrs. Cora Powell, secretary for the association, was instructed by the directors to attend the meeting of the Secretaries of North Carolina, to be held in Winston-Salem on October 12-13. The meeting will be in the form of a seminar and will study ways of rendering better service to members.

Vice President P. F. Steinbeck presided over the meeting.

Sum Allotted To His Star Study

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Dr. J. Allen Hynek, noted astronomer, is working on a method for observing the stars from a platform suspended high above the earth by huge helium-filled balloons.

The Air Force Office of Scientific Research Monday announced in Washington a $50,000 grant to further Dr. Hynek's project.

Dr. Hynek said he has been working on the assignment several months, with associates in the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

It reported "contingued lively guerrilla activities," in a scattered area around northern defensive headquarters.

The government cracked down on the press charging "some incorrect reports" on the actual situation there. It did not elaborate.

Some Western correspondents who returned from the northeastern front Sunday night had described government reports of heavy fighting as highly exaggerated.

Direct Phone Link To Europe

NEW YORK (AP)—A telephone call to Paris made history today.

The brief, chatty conversation among three men in New York and four in Paris marked the inauguration of the first telephone cable system to link North America directly to the European mainland.

Those doing the talking were American and European telephone officials.

A 40-million-dollar, 4,400-mile system, the cable extends from Nova Scotia across Cabot Strait and Newfoundland to Clarendville, Newfoundland, as a single cable.

From there a twin-cable system extends across the bottom of the Atlantic directly to Penmarch, France.

Telephone calls are relayed back and forth from New York to Nova Scotia by a radio relay system.

The two-year job of laying the cable was twice interrupted—once by huge ice fields off Newfoundland and again by a fire that swept one of two cableships, forcing her crew to abandon ship 600 miles west of the French coast.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. owns 64 per cent of the cable system. The remainder is owned jointly by the French and German ministries of Posts and Telecommunications.

A collision on Fairfax Ave. caused an estimated $90 damage when a car driven by Anna White, Negro, of 1117 West Fifth St., was said to have struck a parked car.

The parked vehicle was owned by Zebedee Carney, 35, of Bethel.

No charges were placed in connection with the collision.

Evangelist Opens Revival Services

"The Gospel We Preach" was the topic used by Evangelist Don Brown as he began the revival services at Calvary Baptist Church last night.

He stated that the Gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ and the Apostle Paul is the same message that is needed today.

Brown is a native of Missouri and will be speaking each evening at 7:45 at the Calvary Baptist Church located on Highway Bypass No. 13, two blocks north of the airport. The public is cordially invited.

Can't Expect To Be Always First

GREENVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Vice President Richard Nixon said Monday that Americans must expect the Soviet Union to be first in some of the great scientific breakthroughs.

"This does not mean," he added, "that our system is inferior or is wrong."

Nixon was at Thiel College to dedicate a new science hall.

Astronomers once thought there were oceans on the moon. Now they know, says the National Geographic Society, that there are none.

Close To Home

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Navy Ensign Derek Casady, whose home is in the San Diego suburb of El Cajon, and the San Francisco girl he married thought his service career might take them to new and far places. His first duty station was here. Then he was transferred to San Francisco.

All For A Penny

OKMULGEE, OKLA. (AP)—Some of the items that turned up among nickels and dimes taken from parking meters: one penny hammered to the size of a nickel; three pennies whittled to the size of a dime; one wrapped in plastic tape; five painted with fingernail polish; and two with paper glued to one side.
