Khrushchev Assails Co-Existence Foes

Ike's Conditions For Summit Session Met

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev returned from his American visit today with a declaration that "those who are afraid of coexistence are unwitting tools in promoting the cold war."

The Soviet Premier, given a hero's welcome, told a jam-packed throng at the Moscow Sports Palace that the cold war might spark off another armed conflict.

"Then it would be too late to ask questions about coexistence, when atom-bomb-carrying rockets started flying," he said.

Smiling broadly Khrushchev called out "okay" to welcome at Moscow Airport on his arrival after a 10-hour, 28-minute flight from the United States.

He spoke the word in English from the top of a ramp leading down from his plane in apparent summary of the results of his tour and talks with President Eisenhower.

He was met by President Klement Y. Voroshilov, Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan and many others in the government. Mrs. Khrushchev followed the Premier off the plane.

Khrushchev looked very well. He showed no signs of strain from the flight and the strenuous two weeks which preceded it.

Thousands cheered him and tossed flowers into his car on his 30-mile drive from the airport to the Sports Palace. Beaming and looking well rested, Khrushchev waved back.

At the Sports Palace, before 15,000 or more, he assured the Soviet people that progress was made in lowering tensions. He said Eisenhower showed a statesmanlike mind in assessing the situation.

The Premier came back with much credit in his own country. He went to the United States hoping to get a joint statement with Eisenhower that war would be renounced as a means of solving international disputes. He got it. It wasn't important except for local and foreign propaganda purposes for this guarantee is in the United Nations Charter, to which both the Soviet Union and the United States subscribe.

He didn't get a nonaggression pact, but got an agreement to discuss disputes, a thing which was available without a trip but which can be converted into useful proof of the value of the trip and the strength of Soviet enterprise in foreign affairs.

Most of the major Soviet personalities are already in Peiping—Khrushchev's next stop—or on vacation. In Peiping Khrushchev will tell Mao Tze-tung of his talks with Eisenhower.

Literally millions of Russians were undoubtedly glued to their radio or TV sets to hear of or see

Hurricane Gracie Moving Toward U. S. Mainland

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane Gracie whirled ominously in toward the mainland today and the Miami Weather Bureau ordered a hurricane watch for coastal areas from Savannah, Ga., northward to Wilmington, N.C.

Gale warnings were issued from Daytona Beach, Fla. north along the coast to Morehead City, N.C. as Gracie's outer winds moved within 75 miles of shore. The hurricane packs a 90-mile-an-hour punch around the center.

Winds will increase gradually and are expected to reach gale force tonight from the upper Florida coast to North Carolina.

Southern Red Cross headquarters at Atlanta dispatched 14 staff members to the Georgia and northeast Florida coasts to prepare for Gracie's possible arrival. A spokesman said staffers would be stationed at Savannah and Brunswick, Ga., and at Jacksonville, Orlando and Cocoa, Fla.

Air Force planes were scheduled to make daylight penetrations today to get a more definite fix on Gracie's intentions.

The leading edge of gale winds of 40 miles an hour or higher were expected to spread to within about 100 miles of the northeast Florida, Georgia and Carolina coasts this afternoon.

The Weather Bureau said: "The present course makes it important that all interests in these areas keep in close touch with all advisories and bulletins for possible display of warnings later today for specific areas."

Ike's Conditions For Summit Session Met

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today his talks with Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev that the threat to Berlin no longer exists and his personal conditions for holding a Summit Conference have been met.

But Eisenhower declined to say in so many words that the Soviet leader had given him personal assurances which amounted to lifting the Berlin threat.

He replied to news conference questions on that point by saying he did not want to put words in anybody's mouth.

Eisenhower said he agreed with Khrushchev that the Berlin situation is abnormal—because of the existence of a group of free people inside Communist territory. He said that some system must be found which would be acceptable to both sides.

He disclosed that in the course of the talks which he had with Khrushchev at Camp David, Md., from Friday night to Sunday afternoon, Khrushchev had said that in a friendly way he would take up with Chinese communist leaders the problem of five Americans still held prisoner in Chinese Communist jails.

He said they spent very little time talking about Communist China, however, because they immediately found that their views were totally opposed.

The President began his unusual Monday morning news conference with glowing praise for the American people's treatment of Khrushchev.

He called them very sophisticated in being able to listen to the other fellow's arguments and criticism while remaining strong in their own conviction.

Eisenhower spoke with a slight nasal stuffiness. He said he had

President Hints Action By Govm't In Steel Deadlock

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he is "getting sick and tired of the apparent impasse" in the steel strike.

He strongly indicated the government is planning some action soon to try to end the 76-day-old shutdown.

At a news conference, Eisenhower called the situation intolerable. But he declined to say whether the Taft-Hartley law—with its court injunction provision for sending the steel workers back to their jobs for at least an 80-day cooling off period—would be invoked.

At the outset of the news conference, Eisenhower indicated that he expected most of the questions to deal with his talks over the weekend with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

He added that he first wanted to say something about a matter of great importance on the domestic scene. Then, his voice hoarse from a cold, Eisenhower read a prepared statement.

Referring to the strike, Eisenhower said emphatically: "I am not going to try to assess any blame, but I am getting sick and tired of the apparent impasse in the settlement of this matter—and so are the American people. Free collective bargaining, the logical recourse of a free people in settling industrial disputes—has apparently broken down."

Formal negotiations between the steel companies and the steel union broke off Friday.

The, long strike, Eisenhower said, already has had a noticeable impact on the nation's economy.

Now, with negotiations abandoned, "the prospects become serious for every individual in the nation," Eisenhower said.

At that point the President said

Japan's Typhoon Takes Heavy Toll

TOKYO (AP)—Japan staggered today under mounting casualties from the whiplash of a weekend typhoon which left at least 2,618 dead or missing and 927,708 homeless.

Weary officials at national police headquarters worked around the clock to keep up with the rising toll as rescuers dug through mud and debris for bodies. By noon they listed 1,161 known dead, 1,487 missing and 4,668 injured.

Widespread crop damage sent prices of rice and vegetables skyrocketing, heaping more hardship on the grieving populace.

Eyewitness accounts of one of the mightiest typhoons ever to hit Japan told a cruel story.

A Japanese newsmen who visited Nagashima, a town in central Japan, reported: "I could only guess the location of the main street. It was completely submerged by floodwaters. So was the railway station and the movie theater. Everything was gone, it seemed, except for the old man and old woman on whose boat I hitched a ride."

A newsmen in nearby Handa told of weeping relatives digging through mud and debris for bodies of those believed buried there.

At Kuwana city 85 bodies had been recovered but 685 persons were still missing.

The harbor of the industrial city of Nagoya was described as a "sea of dead," with seven ocean-going ships grounded like beached whales and debris floating everywhere. Hundreds were killed or missing in the city of two million. There also was heavy industrial damage.

Nagoya, Nagashima, Handa and Kuwana all border Ise Bay, on the Pacific coast of central Japan, where Typhoon Vera first struck Saturday with maximum winds over 160 miles an hour.

The storm swept up the main island of Honshu, crossed Hokkaido Island and finally swirled into the Okhotsk Sea and the northern Pacific with diminishing strength Sunday night.

Japanese government leaders said a special budget allocation will be made for rehabilitation work. The damage extends over 38 of Japan's 47 prefectures.

National police said property damage included some 20,000 homes totally destroyed, over 60,000 partly destroyed, and some 400,000 homes flooded.

Satellite Takes Photos Of Earth

WASHINGTON (AP)—Explorer VI, the Paddle Wheel satellite, has provided the first crude pictures of the earth and its cloud cover from out in space, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced today.

The picture, taken when the satellite was 17,000 miles out in space, covered the area of Mexico.

It was made from signals received by the South Point, Hawaii, tracking station Aug. 14.

"Thus the area photographed was more than 20,000 miles from the satellite," the NASA said at a news conference.

While the earth was in the camera's field of view, the relative positions of earth, sun and satellite allowed only a crescent of the sunlit earth to be seen.

A black indentation on the upper right part of the crescent was caused by loss of data.

The signal transmission from which the picture was made was received early Aug. 14, or at 3:45 p.m. Hawaiian time, Aug. 13. At that time the central part of the Pacific was lighted, the North American continent was dark and Asian land masses were over the satellite's horizon. Explorer VI was launched Aug. 7.

Serviceman Held For Forcing Way Into Pitt Nurses' Home

A Camp Lejeune marine, who had wrecked an automobile, between Ayden and Grifton earlier, is accused of entering the Pitt Memorial Hospital nurses home shortly after midnight Saturday.

Deputy Sheriff Duke Andrews identified the man, who is in Pitt County Jail under $700 bond, as Pfc. Stanley Anthony Holder, 21.

He is charged with breaking and entering without intent to commit a felony. Such a charge is a misdemeanor and Holder will be tried in County Court before Judge Dink James on Oct. 6.

Deputies Andrews and Gerald Davis arrived first at the nurses home followed by Deputies G. W. Riley and Ralph Tyson and city police cars.

The officers surrounded the building and Andrews said he found three screens torn from the windows. The deputy pushed aside the blinds at one of the windows and by the light of his flashlight saw a man lying on the bed of the room.

The intruder was taken into custody and later identified as Holder.

Andrews said no one was in the room at the time it was entered.

Holder had been drinking, according to the deputy. Investigation showed he had gone to the front door first but occupants of the building did not let him in.

The car which Holder had wrecked earlier was reportedly owned by a nurse who lived in the nurses home. She was not identified.

Highway Patrolman R. E. Taylor reported that Holder was involved in a wreck about four miles south of Ayden on N. C. 11 around 11:30 Saturday night.

As a result of the wreck, the patrolman charged Holder with careless and reckless driving, having no operator's license and operating a vehicle on the wrong side of the road.

The patrolman said the vehicle was traveling apparently at a high

Results At Camp David

WASHINGTON (AP)—What did President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev accomplish in their weekend Camp David talks?

NEGOTIATIONS — They agreed problems should be settled by peaceful negotiations rather than by force.

DISARMAMENT — The two agreed it is the most important question facing the world today. Khrushchev said he favored appropriate disarmament inspection and control, but was not specific. The Western powers long have insisted on fool-proof controls.

COLD WAR — Khrushchev said he and Eisenhower found a great deal in common "in our understanding of our positions and of the need to improve relations between our two countries."

GERMAN REUNIFICATION — Apparently no progress.

BERLIN — Some progress. They agreed to reopen formal negotiations—subject to the approval of other countries concerned. This could be at a sub-foreign ministers level, at a foreign ministers meeting or a summit conference.

EISENHOWER VISIT — The two agreed that Eisenhower's visit to the U.S.S.R., scheduled tentatively for this fall, will be deferred until spring.

U.S.-SOVIET EXCHANGES — Substantial progress with respect to an increase in exchanges of persons and ideas. Certain agreements expected soon.

SOVIET PAYMENTS — Agreed to reopen negotiations on U. S. claim of 800 million dollars against the U.S.S.R., mostly for lend-lease aid.

Multiple Charges Against Pair After Fights, Chase

Multiple charges were placed against two out-of-county youths, one 16, and the second 25, after allegedly they assaulted two other youths and a Greenville Police officer and resisted arrest Saturday night on Evans St. near the Armory.

Carroll Borden Johnson, 25, of Route 3, Rocky Mount and Billy Ray Jenkins, 16, of Route 1, Walstonburg, were arrested by Officer R.B. Elks after a series of fights and chases which lasted from 9:30 p.m. until about 10:30.

According to Elks, Johnson allegedly assaulted two unidentified men just south of the National Guard Armory here at a filling station. As Elks was investigating the incident, he was allegedly assaulted by Jenkins who was said to have been drinking.

While fighting with Jenkins, the officer said, Johnson interfered by trying to help the youth but later ran from the scene as the officer summoned help.

With the aid of several civilians, Elks subdued Jenkins and later, with the aid of other citizens and officers apprehended Johnson at the intersection of Third and Colaniche Sts.

Johnson, charged with resisting arrest, two cases of simple assault, drunk and disorderly, and assault on a police officer was placed under a $600 bond. Jenkins was placed under a $450 bond after he was charged with assault on a police officer, being drunk, and resisting arrest.

Elks was not hurt in the fighting.

Warns Of Hazard In Industry-Push

He called for government planning to protect rural beauty and promote efficient land use.

Today's league convention session is to hear Sen. E. Everett Jordan (D-NC) discuss "The Impact of Federal Legislation on Municipal Government." Other discussions will cover fiscal problems, highway planning, and details of annexation.

Howard-Davis Marry In Candlelight

ROCKY MOUNT—The marriage of Miss Betty Louise Davis of Washington and Wilmington and Henry Bizzell Howard II of Greenville took place Saturday evening in a candlelight ceremony in the Arlington Street Baptist Church in Rocky Mount.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Garland Davis of Wilmington, and the bridegroom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. C. B. Howard of Buies Creek.

The double ring marriage vows were pledged before the bridegroom's father, the Rev. Mr. Howard, before a traditional setting of white and greenery, featuring white gladioli, chrysanthemums and candlelight from tapers in branched candelabra.

A program of nuptial music was played by the church organist, who used the traditional Wedding Marches for the processional and recessional offerings. Miss Mary Jo Howard of Lincolnton, Ga., sister of the bridegroom, was soloist. Her selections were "I Love You Truly," "O Perfect Love," and as a benediction, "The Lord's Prayer." Miss Howard has received a degree in music from Westminster, N. J.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a wedding gown of imported Rosepoint lace over bridal satin. The gown was fashioned with a low, scalloped neckline and long fitted sleeves. A satin cummerbund crossed at the front and fell into a bustle-bow in back, cascading on a back satin panel which extended into a chapel length train. The bride's chapel veil of silk illusion was attached to a headpiece of satin adorned with pearls and sequins, and she carried a white Bible with a showered, white orchid.

Miss Polly Faye Allen of Greenville and Wilson was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Judy Whitehurst of Bethel, Miss Ann Harris of Robersonville, Miss Gayle Davis of Bethel, and junior bridesmaid, Miss Hope Lane Davis of Hamilton, all cousins of the bride. The bride's attendants wore matching afternoon dresses in Jade green iridescent taffeta, made with wide boat necklines which dipped into a point at the back. Jade and bronze bandeaux with circular veils and green shoes completed their costumes, and they carried bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Henry Bizzell Howard, II

Later for the wedding Mrs. Davis wore a mauve pink lace sheath dress, using matching accessories and a lavender orchid corsage. Mrs. Howard's costume was in deep lavender lace, lavender accessories and her corsage was also an orchid.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Betty H. Bishop of Scotland Neck, and the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. J. S. Dark of Louisburg, attended the ceremony. Both wore racy blue costumes and white carnation corsages.

Following the ceremony the bride and the bridegroom received wedding guests in the vestibule of the church. Later for traveling the new Mrs. Howard changed to a black jersey sheath worn with grey bolero jacket. This was complemented by black accessories and white orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of the New Hanover High School in Wilmington, and the University of North Carolina School of Medical Technology. She was presented to Wilmington society at the debutante ball in 1956, and served as registered X-ray technologist at the Beaufort County Hospital in Washington before marriage.

Mr. Howard, after graduating from Buie's Creek High School, finished at Campbell Junior College before attending N. C. State College where he was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. Later he graduated from the North Carolina University School of Journalism and is now on the news staff of the Greenville Reflector.

After a wedding trip to Western North Carolina Mr. and Mrs. Howard will live in Greenville.

Miss Cooper Talks On Religions

AYDEN—Miss Virginia Belle Cooper was hostess to the Book Lovers Club for the September meeting at her home on Second Street.

Mrs. Robert Booth, president, directed the business session. Two new members, Mrs. Stephen Sudor and Mrs. Mark E. Dixon, were welcomed. New books were put in circulation by the group for the current year.

The program chairman presented Miss Cooper who gave as her surprise program a paper on "World Religions."

Her opening observation was, "Man is a religious being and from his beginning he has worshipped. The most influential religions of the contemporary world, Hinduism, Buddhism, Islam, Judaism and Christianity, have many differences but have lived because they have supplied answers to many of the great questions aroused in every human mind by the mystery of life."

Each of the leading religions came in for detailed discussion and many of the sacraments and practices were illustrated with colored pictures. Miss Cooper pointed out that a Christian would not conceal his belief that Christianity has been the most effective of all.

In discussing Christianity, Miss Cooper spoke of the fact that, although it is universal, the precepts and doctrines taught by Christ are fragmented as it faces the present era.

The Protestant Church, however, offers some indications of a desire to bring all its followers together through the World Council of Churches. More than three out of five people in the United States hold church membership, but there is still much to be desired in Christian devotion and support.

The hostess concluded with the statement that Christian Unity is the ultimate goal of the World Council.

Chapters Honor Leaders

AYLEN—Four neighboring chapters of the Seventh District of the Order of the Eastern Star, Griffin Chapter No. 134, Greenville Chapter No. 149, Farmville Chapter No. 146 and Ayden Chapter No. 52, were hosts on Friday evening when they entertained at a banquet in the Ayden Masonic Hall honoring the Worthy Grand Matron and Patron, Mrs. Mildred Beck Fisher and Dr. John Robert Bender, of the Grand Chapter of North Carolina, Order of the Eastern Star.

A color scheme of pink, green, silver and white was used in the decorations and the guest table held an arrangement of pink roses in a silver bowl flanked with burning white tapers.

Mrs. Lucille S. Craft, Ayden Worthy Matron, was mistress of ceremonies. The welcome was extended by Mrs. Iva D. Gardner with Mrs. Eula G. Edmundson, District Deputy Grand Matron, giving the response. The entertainment was furnished by Mrs. Raymond L. Collins Jr. and Mrs. Jaxie Kinsaul, soloists, and Mrs. Becky W. Glenn who gave a reading. Instrumental music was presented by Mrs. Jessie J. Davidson.

During the meeting the Worthy Grand Matron paid her official visit and gave some general instructions, closing with one of her chosen watchword, "Noble Minds." An address was also given by the Worthy Grand Patron.

Mrs. Fisher and Dr. Bender were presented gifts and Honorary Membership Certificates from the hosts chapters and the Farmville Chapter presented a program honoring them.

Among the other distinguished guests introduced were Mrs. Reva L. Butler, Grand Conductress; Mrs. Mary W. Rhyme, Grand Marshal; Mrs. Rosella T. Edwards, Grand Warder; Grand Representatives Mrs. Glenn W. Garner to Kentucky, Mrs. Ola Dell Wilson to Louisiana and Miss Alya R. Taylor to Minnesota; Mrs. Varina Harrison, District Deputy Grand Matron of the 6th District, and Hayes Burdick, District Deputy Grand Patron of the 7th District.

Following the retiring march of the officers a social hour was held in the dining room. The refreshment table was covered with a white cutwork cloth over green and centered with a silver bowl of pink roses and white candles in silver candelabra.

Mrs. Edna Whichard, Worthy Matron of the Greenville Chapter, poured punch, and the Farmville Worthy Matron, Mrs. Mary Taylor, served individual cakes. Minis and salted nuts were served by Mesdames Jo Ross, Maggie McGlohon and Clara Jenkins. Mrs. Raye D. Bissette, Griffin Worthy Matron, and Mrs. Lucille Craft heard the goodbyes.

Christian Emphasis Week Set

Dr. Robert W. Cousar Jr., pastor of the Nevins Presbyterian Church, Charlotte, will be the principal speaker for Christian Emphasis Week at East Carolina College October 11-14, which is being sponsored jointly by the college and the Campus Christian Council.

Dr. Cousar is a former missionary aviator-evangelist of the Presbyterian Church to Brazil, serving there from 1954 until 1958. He spent three years in the U. S. Air Force during World War II as a P-47 pilot, after which he returned to his college studies.

He graduated from the University of Chattanooga in 1948, with a major in psychology, and from Columbia Theological Seminary in 1951 with the Bachelor of Divinity degree. In 1954, Dr. Cousar received the Ph.D. degree from the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, culminating his graduate studies in theology.

Theme for Christian Emphasis Week this year is "Life—With or Without?" Seminar topics which have been selected include "Security or Sacrifice—Can You Have Both?", "What Are You Doing Here?", and "Why Do You Do It?"

The seminar meetings will be held each afternoon under the leadership of members of the ECC faculty, with pastors of Greenville churches serving as Biblical resource persons. Discussion groups will meet in each dormitory following the evening service in Austin auditorium, with faculty members and local ministers present.

The Campus Christian Council is composed of students, ministers, and student center directors from nine denominational groups, who are uniting their efforts with the college in maintaining an evangelical Christian witness on campus.

Membership is open to any group with a vital interest in making Christ known to the college community. Purpose of the group, according to its own statement, is "to bear witness to God's redemptive work in Christ and to appeal to the college community for commitment of their lives to Him."

Student leaders of the Council include Barney West, chairman; Elida Owens, vice-chairman; and Sally Morris, treasurer. Rev. S. F.

There remains the real question of whether it is more democratic to have a few convention delegates nominate candidates from a wide field, or to restrict popular voting to choice among the few candidates who have paid a filing fee for the privilege of having their names printed on the ballots.

Whether a special session of the Congress should be called is fairly easy to answer. If it were called and the ceiling was removed, it is unthinkable that a long term bond would be issued at present rates. mon Market. It is challenged also by the growing importance of Great Britain. She is now busy with a plan to organize the non-Common Market nations—Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Austria, Switzerland, Portugal, and herself—into a Free Trade area. Finally, our commerce is challenged by the increasing stature of Russia and Japan as exporters in world markets.

We are in the midst of tremendous world economic changes. These will deeply affect our foreign trade. They will also affect to the full our technological and industrial capacity. In fact, they may place in danger our position as the economic leader of the Free world. I predict that during the next few years U.S. foreign trade will suffer some bad jolts. Pressure will go back to high, but I believe it will increase, but I believe we will stand firm. And in the end we can come out on top, provided we do not fritter away our natural advantages by failing to control wage and materials costs.

WHAT ABOUT RUSSIA AND UNION LABOR?

There has been a lot of scare talk with regard to Russia's engaging in an economic war with the West. So far, I see no conclusive signs of such a development. At present, the Soviet Union does not appear to be in a position to wage such an economic war, though she may well desire to do so. In order to be successful in such an enterprise, Russia would have to establish some kind of a gold international equivalent for the ruble.

Right now the foreign trade of the West is much greater than that of Russia. Unless we become panicky, we can hold our own in any such trade contest with the Kremlin. Eventually our side could be strongly bolstered by a solid trade alliance between the U.S., the Common Market, and the proposed Outer Seven European Free Trade Area now being promoted by Britain.

In the meantime we must fight inflation, keep our costs down and boost our productivity. This is primarily up to our union labor leaders, who appear to be largely responsible for much of our present unemployment.

Some Indications U.S. Tour Changed Nikita's Ideas

EDITOR'S NOTE — Saul Pett traveled with Premier Nikita Khrushchev throughout his tour of the United States.

By SAUL PETT
NEW YORK (AP) — What impact did America have on Nikita Khrushchev?
While in the Soviet Union, Vice President Richard M. Nixon said the Soviet leader suffered from misconceptions about the United States, which could be corrected by visiting us. Well, Khrushchev has been here and gone.

Did he change his mind at all? Indications are that he did, unless, of course, he never believed his own propaganda to begin with. Reporters on the Khrushchev tour repeatedly asked him whether his visit was altering his own image of America. Repeatedly, Khrushchev ducked a direct answer. But there were several indirect answers from the round, volatile Communist chief.

In San Francisco, Khrushchev said — maybe he was merely being polite, but he said it — that he saw no difference between the American government and the American people in their desire for peace.
For the last 14 years of the cold war, Communist propagandists have been saying that Americans as a people want peace but the government is warlike.
For years Pravda has been screaming that American business leaders and the "ruling classes" had to keep the cold war going because to end it would bring a depression.
But after meeting with top businessmen in New York, Khrushchev conceded that the United States could move from a war economy to a true peace economy without economic disaster.

Traditionally, the Moscow propaganda mill has insisted the American worker is oppressed, exploited, underpaid, ill-fed, ill-housed and eternally afraid of sudden unemployment.
But the Khrushchev we saw on this side of the Atlantic said the American worker's situation is "not a bad one at all." He remarked several times about American prosperity and our high standard of living.
While he criticized some of our industrial and farming techniques, he also had high praise for others. He publicly admired our "beautiful cities" and our "wonderful roads." He even committed the heresy of conceding that most American newspapers had been objective in reporting his hectic tour.
In many places he noted the friendliness of Americans, although in some of those places he definitely mistook polite curiosity for friendship. He spoke warmly with businessmen, political leaders, farmers, intellectuals, workers and ordinary Americans.

Curiously, in this listing, the world leader of the proletariat usually mentioned businessmen first and workers last.
But any appraisal of America's impact on Khrushchev must bear this in mind: he evidently never intended for it to have any impact. He obviously came to talk, not see, to persuade, not learn.
His talks with so-called ordinary Americans were perfunctory, fast and hectic — a handshake and a question or two — all on camera, all part of a mob scene.
He never saw the inside of an average home. The only homes he did enter were the White House and the houses of two rich men — W. Averell Harriman in New York and Roswell Garst in Coon Rapids, Iowa.

But still, there was much for Khrushchev to notice if he happened to look. From his car or train window, he could see thousands of American homes as big or bigger than the one exhibited in Moscow, which he had insisted was not typical.
He could see TV antennae on the rooftops, the huge flow of cars and trucks and planes, the well-stocked shelves of the supermarket, the factory pickets in Pittsburgh and Des Moines, the many Americans who were not afraid to talk back to their police.
He crossed the country twice. He saw Washington, New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Des Moines and Pittsburgh, and he must have seen something of the vitality and variety and freedom of America.

But if, as a result, anyone thought Khrushchev was about to turn in his Communist card, the master of the Kremlin disposed of that remote possibility in his farewell appearances in Washington.
"Your country," he said, "has not changed my opinion that our political-social system is the fairest and most productive."
Reporters who followed him from coast to coast concluded that you can tell Nikita Khrushchev anywhere but you can't tell him much.

Move Seen Affecting Only Marginal Risks

By SAW DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Only marginal risks need fear being turned down by the small loan companies because of scarce money. That's the opinion of a cross section of consumer finance companies.

They say funds will be available, although at higher rates, despite any efforts to keep credit tight.

The total of outstanding consumer credit will grow despite that, almost all of those in the field believe. It's already at a record high.

The Securities & Exchange Commission says consumer debt of individuals rose 2.2 billion dollars in the April - May - June quarter. And latest Federal Reserve Board figures put total installment debt at 36½ billion dollars.

A poll of executives of small loan companies on the eve of the annual meeting of the National Consumer Finance Assn. in Seattle Tuesday shows all agreeing that the big companies expect to find the necessary funds to finance increased credits, expect a high rate of repayment and a rapid turnover of money. But here are some of the changes the coming year may see:

L. M. Curtiss, president of America Investment Co., St. Louis, says, "It will be easier for larger companies to obtain additional credit than for smaller ones."

Agreeing with him is H. E. MacDonald, president of Household Finance Corp. of Chicago, who says increasing demand for bank loans will mean that "some individual companies without satisfactory bank lines may find it necessary to curtail their operations."

But Stephen B. Strasse, president of Sun Finance & Loan Co., Tampa, Fla., says, "Bankers are now turning down capital investment loans but not curtailing loans for consumer credit because of its importance to our economy."

And L. M. Boyd, president of Thrift Industrial Bank, Denver, thinks the consumer's record for repayment will aid the consumer finance business find the money it will need.

To this Leland M. Feigel, president of Interstate Finance Corp., Evansville, Ind., adds: "The trend toward credit is so unmistakable that a downturn in its legitimate users will not be possible." He also notes "a general trend today of larger loans."

How are borrowers reacting to the trend toward tighter credit and higher interest rates?
M. L. Goeglein, vice president of Pacific Finance Corp., Los Angeles, says: "Where incomes rise fairly steadily, and people are optimistic about continuance of the rise, consumers are likely to consider future installment payments, including charges, as less of a burden than full cash outlay at the time of purchase."

Richard K. Steinman of Little Loans Corp., Phoenix, Ariz., says "Tight money shouldn't affect the good consumer borrower, only the marginal ones."

But Lyle S. Woodcock, vice president of Liberty Loan Corp., St. Louis, sees tougher days ahead. He says: "Eventually higher costs will have to be passed on to the customer. Legislation increasing rates and ceilings will be required in some states to induce capital to meet the ever-increasing demand for installment loans."

And he holds: "Past progress of this nation has proven that we can have prosperity and at the same time have low interest rates. We have doubts as to the wisdom of present monetary policies."

Two Fishermen Die As Boat Hit By Ship In Fog

SEATTLE (AP) — Two Seattle men lost their lives when a freighter knifed out of the fog and through their halibut boat off the entrance to the Strait of Juan de Fuca Sunday.

1-3-4-0

Three crewmen of the 56-foot fishing boat Jane were pulled from the water as she sank four miles northwest of Tatoosh Island. The Jane was struck by the Moore-McCormack Lines freighter Mormacpine which was about to enter the channel that separates Washington state from Canada's Vancouver Island.

The Coast Guard conducted an extensive air and sea search for the missing men.

Lost were Harold Toft, 38, the Jane's skipper and co-owner, and Per B. Jorgensen.

The survivors were Darvin Hoel, 62, and Harold E. Hansen, 55, of Seattle and Alfred Horn, 52, of Blaine, Wash.

Khrushchev Charmed Some, Others Infuriated; Americans Are Hopeful

EDITOR'S NOTE — Relman Morin was with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev during his tour of the United States.

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev crashed into the consciousness of the American people with the impact of a rocket to the moon.

He charmed some, infuriated and worried others. Many were amused by him. Even more who saw the shiny-pated Soviet leader were impressed with him as a smart, capable man.

Nobody, it seems, was left with a ho-hum attitude.

"As an individual, he's a likable person," said Francis Scott, a Brooklyn attorney.

"In one word — rotten," said Frank O. Clark, a retired New York state builder.

"He has come a long way for himself and has to be admired for that," said Helen Tupper, a La Canada, Calif., housewife.

These and other assessments of Khrushchev and his trip through the United States derive from two first-hand sources.

Associated Press offices in 10 major cities questioned people in all walks of life. The surveys were taken in the cities where Khrushchev went — Washington, New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Des Moines and Pittsburgh.

Reporters made samplings in Atlanta, Dallas, Boston and Denver, where he did not appear.

In addition, a team of AP correspondents covered Khrushchev and talked with his audiences on the whole 12-day tour.

The following findings emerged: 1. Most of those questioned said they were uncertain whether Khrushchev's visit would help ease international tensions.

Tabulations showed 37 per cent holding this view. Many expressed hope. Many said "it can't hurt."

2. However, almost as many — 34 per cent — answered "yes" to this question.

3. Those who said "no" accounted for 29 per cent of the total.

Asked to give the reason they thought Khrushchev's visit might help ease the tensions, the overwhelming majority gave one of two answers: "He'll get to know us better" and "We'll understand him better."

"The exchange visits and the way Khrushchev explains conditions in Russia, all combined, will prevent a war," said Harry Reed, a San Francisco taxi driver.

"I hope this seeing our country and meeting our people will make him realize we don't want war," said Kenneth J. McCumber, Atlanta shipping executive.

"He'll find that people in this country are strong and not afraid," said Leo Bannister, a Queens, N.Y., accountant.

"I think he'll take back a feeling and convey it to the people of Russia that Americans want to be friendly," said Roland Mapelli, Denver meat company executive.

"It does give us a better understanding of the individual we've heard so much about," said Mel Hansen, Los Angeles aircraft factory foreman.

"He didn't come here to learn about us. He came to show off," said Charles Corbett, a New York City salesman.

"It's a grand big show for him," said Maryanne Day, a Washington library researcher.

"It's the biggest hoax that ever happened to this country," said W. B. Williams, Atlanta power company executive.

"The purpose of Khrushchev's trip was propaganda. I'm afraid he scored more points for his side," said Thomas Keenan, Los Angeles insurance adjuster.

Quite a number saw value in the fact that Khrushchev was able to get first-hand knowledge of the United States.

"It will give Khrushchev a more accurate picture of this country than he has been getting from his own sources," said the Rev. David Brown, of Dallas, Tex.

"Perhaps it will disprove some of the propaganda he has been hearing," said Elliott Harris, a New York City magazine executive.

"He impressed me that he's not an ogre," said George Visnic, San Francisco window cleaner.

Khrushchev impressed many Americans unfavorably.

"I got the impression he'd sooner lie than tell the truth," said Hubert Anderson, Glendale, Calif., warehouse shipper.

"A great showman but not to be trusted," said J. L. Oliver, Atlanta service station operator.

"He smiles but I don't think he's sincere," said Connie Birkhart, Pittsburgh secretary.

"A first-class diplomat with a terrific temper, and once in a while it gets the best of him," said Dr. Wallace Drake, Weymouth, Mass., physician.

"His temper seems childish and indicates instability," said Robert Anderson, Dallas housewife.

"He's astute, but his refusal to discuss issues on their merits indicates weakness," said Hudson McKee, Dallas public relations counselor.

"He got some straight questions but I noticed he wouldn't give any straight answers and that's where he lost me," said Nicholas Andruie, Pittsburgh truck driver.

Khrushchev impressed many Americans unfavorably.

"I got the impression he'd sooner lie than tell the truth," said Hubert Anderson, Glendale, Calif., warehouse shipper.

"A great showman but not to be trusted," said J. L. Oliver, Atlanta service station operator.

"He smiles but I don't think he's sincere," said Connie Birkhart, Pittsburgh secretary.

"A first-class diplomat with a terrific temper, and once in a while it gets the best of him," said Dr. Wallace Drake, Weymouth, Mass., physician.

"His temper seems childish and indicates instability," said Robert Anderson, Dallas housewife.

"He's astute, but his refusal to discuss issues on their merits indicates weakness," said Hudson McKee, Dallas public relations counselor.

"He got some straight questions but I noticed he wouldn't give any straight answers and that's where he lost me," said Nicholas Andruie, Pittsburgh truck driver.

In his final television address Sunday night Khrushchev said he had received "many thousands" of telegrams and messages from Americans expressing friendliness and inviting him to their homes.

Others, however, told AP men covering his tour that they had been prepared to be friendly — until they saw and heard him.

Whatever Khrushchev's grand objective, he emerged in his tour as a unique figure in world diplomacy — admired, disliked, respected, feared by Americans whosaw him at close range.

"He didn't come here to learn about us. He came to show off," said Charles Corbett, a New York City salesman.

"It's a grand big show for him," said Maryanne Day, a Washington library researcher.

"It's the biggest hoax that ever happened to this country," said W. B. Williams, Atlanta power company executive.

"The purpose of Khrushchev's trip was propaganda. I'm afraid he scored more points for his side," said Thomas Keenan, Los Angeles insurance adjuster.

Quite a number saw value in the fact that Khrushchev was able to get first-hand knowledge of the United States.

"It will give Khrushchev a more accurate picture of this country than he has been getting from his own sources," said the Rev. David Brown, of Dallas, Tex.

"Perhaps it will disprove some of the propaganda he has been hearing," said Elliott Harris, a New York City magazine executive.

"He impressed me that he's not an ogre," said George Visnic, San Francisco window cleaner.

One Woman Dies In Bus Accident

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A Greyhound bus with 18 passengers aboard skidded into a power pole Sunday, killing a Texas woman and injuring 12 persons, including her young son.

Marcella Burton Eaton, 24, of Dallas, formerly of Columbia, Ky., was thrown from the bus to her death against a brick wall.

Her son, James Travis Eaton, 3, was thrown into the aisle of the bus, suffering minor head cuts.

Six of the injured remained in local hospitals. All were reported in fair condition.

Hunt Minnesota Grave Robber

HOLLAND, Minn. (AP) — A hunt for a possibly mentally deranged grave robber began today following the weekend discovery the body of an 11-year-old girl had been stolen from her casket.

Sheriff Leonard Stelling said the body of Jean Pensyl apparently had been dragged out of the buried casket the night of her funeral, Sept. 8.

The theft went unnoticed until Saturday when a part-time grave digger and Holland town constable, Garrett Becker, noticed the grave had been disturbed.

The girl, one of nine children of Mrs. Ida Pensyl, died of leukemia.

GUILFORD COLLEGE—The capacity crowd had filed out of Hobbs Field here on the Guilford College campus but Coach Herb Appenzeller remained on the field, talking with Quaker Alumni. The Guilford coach was disappointed over his clubs licking, but was quick to discuss the game.

"We worked real hard this week—as hard as we have for any other game and I just wish we could have given them a better game. We didn't look as good as last week and we didn't have the breaks go our way," noted the soft-spoken Quaker coach.

What about East Carolina? "Not taking anything away from East Carolina, they have a fine ball club but we didn't feel that they were as strong as last year when they beat us 20-0 in Greenville. They have an explosive ball club and are always dangerous. They can run sweeps, have a good passing attack, and can trap up the middle.

Quakers Can't Stop Speight

"East Carolina got an early lead and it is the type of team that is hard to catch. ECC has always been the type of club that once they got ahead they would beat you to death. It is just hard to comeback on a club like that. No doubt about it, they have a good ball club but they will have a hard time against such clubs as the Bruins (Lenoir Rhyne) and Appalachian," stated Appenzeller.

The Quakers had set their defenses to stop ECC's James Speight but they were unable to stop the Greenville native and the Pirates chalked up their second victory of the season. Speight couldn't shake loose for a long touchdown run but he made good yardage on several occasions and was always able to pick up the needed short yardage for first downs. Speight finished the night with 55 yards in 14 attempts.

Meroney Stopped By Bucs

Coach Jack Boone and his coaching brigade didn't set their defense for Guilford with the sole purpose of stopping the bull-like charges of All-Conference halfback John Meroney but as it turned out, the Guilford senior had one of his worse offensive shows in his four years as a starter for the Quakers.

The All-Conference redheaded picked up only 37 yards during the evening and he never showed the qualities of an All-Conference runner. Only once—in the final quarter—did he show any power and this came against a reserve unit when he picked up 12 yards, his largest thrust of the evening.

Ray Pennington, former ECC co-captain, was at the game. Ray is now coaching in Greensboro . . . Bill Loving, a pitcher for Coach Jim Mallory in his stay at ECC, came up from Columbia, S. C. to see the game. Bill coached at Clinton before moving to Columbia High as head basketball coach . . . Jimmy Ellis, former Daily Reflector reporter, was down to see the Pirates in action for the second time. Jimmy had seen ECC lose their opener to Presbyterian . . .

GUILFORD COLLEGE — East Carolina College scored on the third play from scrimmage and then relied on their mail tough defense to topple highly touted Guilford 27-0 Saturday afternoon in a North State tilt.

The win surged the Pirates into a first place tie with Appalachian who downed Western Carolina 14-12 Saturday night, and kept their "Boone jinx" over the Quakers. Guilford has never scored on a Boone coached club.

The Pirates, showing the same dazzling speed that swept past Albright the previous week, shook speedster Glenn Bass loose on the third play from scrimmage for a 45 yard gallop and the only needed score of the evening.

Bass received the kick-off and Mac Thacker returned it to the 44. James Speight was stopped for no gain but Thacker jammed into Guilford territory with an 11 yard run. From there, Bass carried off his left tackle, hit the secondary and then outran his way down the sidelines. Jerry Carpenter booted the point and the Bucs were off to the races.

Guilford showed some of the power that carried them to an opening game romp of Elon with three scoring drives in the opening quarter. But the Quakers never had the scoring touch against the hard charging Pirate line.

The biggest Quaker threat came in the final moments of the first quarter when Coach Herb Appenzeller's "Flying Wing" offense found temporary success and carried to the ECC two where they were stopped inches short of the needed first down.

Linebacker Lynn Barnett and tackle Ed Emory came tearing through to halt the threat which was to be the last Guilford thrust of the evening.

Bad Pass

Shortly after the second half had started, Jerry Carpenter intercepted a Brodie Baker pass and scampered 35 yards for another East Carolina score. Carpenter missed the point after touchdown but the story was all over except for the final score.

East Carolina marched 67 yards for their third score late in the final period. Thacker intercepted a Quaker pass to start the drive. George Turner, playing for the injured Thacker, ripped off a 29 yard gain and then the rifle arm of Ralph Zehring found Glenn Bass loose and hit him with a pass—the play covering 42 yards.

Bass was pushed out on the six but James Speight found a hole on the following play and scampered into the end zone. Zehring, Mr. Sky King, found Bill Cain open for a two pointer and East Carolina retired at halftime with a 21-0 victory.

Coach Jack Boone dipped into his barrel of reserves in the final half to give his club more experience and depth but the locals managed to add one more tally to their victory.

With Bass and Speight grounding out yardage, the Bucs rolled 46 yards for their final score with Bass going the final five for the TD—his second of the evening. The extra point attempt was no good.

The final quarter saw the ball change hands several times due to intercepted passes but neither team was able to score.

Backs Scamper

A couple of reserves added luster to the ECC victory as they ripped through the battered Guilford line for a couple of sizable gains in the final period. Tommy Matthews broke loose for a 15 yard pickup and then Melvin Riff, a fullback, played through for 11 more yards. The threat was stopped when a Bert Stafford pass was intercepted.

East Carolina's stout defensive line held the Quakers' new offense to only 91 yards on the ground and 56 through the air while rolling to 314 yards.

Glenn Bass was the leading ground gainer for the winners with 69 yards in eight carries and the ever-dependable Speight had 55 yards in 13 stabs at the Quaker line. Zehring, the other offensive weapon of Boone, picked up 66 yards through the air with three completions in eight attempts.

East Carolina completely bottled the touted offensive power of All-Conference halfback John Meroney. The Guilford red-head picked up only 37 yards during the evening.

Boone's hard charging linemen headed by Lynn Barnett, Ed Emory, James Gordon, Wayne Davis, Henry Kwitkowski, and Vernon Davis reaped much of the success for the victory. The Pirate line dumped Guilford backs for several losses and was especially tough when backed up against their own goal.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Havana's Sugar Kings, serenaded by Cuban natives in the stands and playing to the rhythm of maracas, are off to a rollicking start in the Junior World Series.

Behind the six-hit pitching of big Ted Wiandt, the Havanaans beat Minneapolis 5-2 Sunday in the opener of the annual series between champions of the American A.S.N. and International League.

It was a raw, chilly, drizzly day, but a noisy band of transplanted Cubans kept things warm for the Sugar Kings by chorusing songs, playing the maracas and waving Cuban flags.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
This was the year North Carolina was going to beat Notre Dame. After nine straight licks, the Tar Heels were going to get revenge.

That was the thinking around the Atlantic Coast Conference.

North Carolina fans pointed to the inexperience of the Irish team, and to the fact that starting quarterback George Izo and halfback Red Mack would sit out the game with injuries.

How could the Tar Heels lose? Notre Dame supplied the answer. The Irish walloped the Tar Heels for the 10th straight time, 28-8. North Carolina just couldn't contain Notre Dame's speed, and cracked under the defensive pressure that forced them into fumbles, mistakes and poor punts.

That was just one of three defeats suffered Saturday by ACC teams against outside opponents. Texas slaughtered Maryland 26-0 and Ohio State edged Duke 14-13.

In other non-conference games, South Carolina ran over Furman as expected, 30-0, and Wake Forest nipped Virginia Tech 27-18 with a brilliant rally.

In the only conference game, Clemson shut out Virginia 47-0 to give the Tigers sole possession of first place in the ACC standings. N.C. State was idle.

North Carolina Coach Jim Hickey had this observation about his team: "The one thing that hurts us the most was our kicking game. It completely collapsed, and I can't understand that because we have fine kickers."

Hickey added that his club had trouble containing Notre Dame's speed, as had been expected.

Duke, meanwhile, made a sensational showing in a losing cause. The Blue Devils, trailing 7-0 from early in the game, scored 13 points in the last quarter and all but won it.

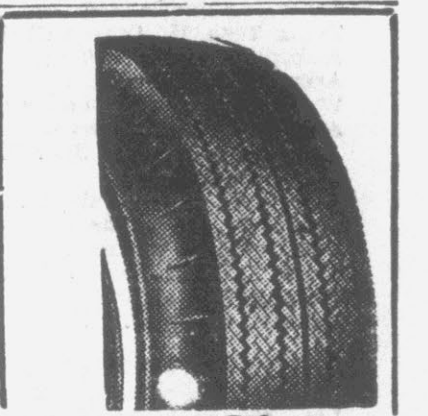

Then Ohio State hit on a fourth down pass play that was good for 25 yards and a touchdown. It came with 1:11 left to play.

Said Duke Coach Bill Murray: "That was the worst kind of loss. We came back so well and worked so hard, it's tough for the boys to take."

The loss broke Duke's tradition of never having lost to a Big 10 team.

The Wake Forest Deacons, who came from behind to beat Florida State 22-20 the previous Saturday.

Other non-conference games include Maryland at Syracuse, Virginia at Florida, Wake Forest at Tulane (night), Georgia at South Carolina, and Rice at Duke.

North State rivals may find that East Carolina College's football warriors are a bunch of "Scrooges" when it comes to giving away yardage and touchdowns and Coach Jack Boone is hoping that, unlike the age-old Christmas tale, his charges won't have a change of heart.

For the fourth time, a Boone-coached club has gone against a Guilford club and emerged with a victory and in doing so, have blanketed the Quakers without a score. This time it was 27-0.

Scribes felt this was the year that Coach Herb Appenzeller's club would make the scoreless jinx, especially, after their strong offensive showing against Elon last week.

If Guilford had envisioned a parade of touchdowns against the visiting Pirates, it was quickly erased early in the game when East Carolina's stout wall once again proved to be too much to penetrate within the ten yard line.

'Takes Pride'

"The club has taken pride in their defense," stated Coach Jack Boone, who was not completely satisfied with his team's performance but was happy with his second victory of the season, "and they have become a real good defensive club since our opening game."

"The spirit has been good and boys are determined not to let those rival backs score. They have done a good job and this was one of our brightest spots against Guilford. They (Guilford) had a good offensive team and stopping them was quite an accomplishment for our club," noted the ECC head coach.

East Carolina stopped the previous week powerful offensive machine of Guilford for only 91 yards on the ground and 56 through the air. The stout forward wall put up by East Carolina never gave the new "Flying Wing" offense of the Quakers a chance as they racked Quaker backs in their own backfield on several occasions.

The turning point of the game could be attributed to the Pirate defense. Trailing 7-0, Guilford drove to the East Carolina twelve but were stopped inches short of another first down on the two and ECC punted out of the hole. Moments later, Jerry Carpenter plucked a Guilford pass out of the air and raced 35 yards for a touchdown and this broke the backs of the host outfit.

Many Stars

There were defensive stars galore in the victory. Husky Ed Emory once again played his steady game and his mates, James Gordon, Wayne Davis, Vernon Davis, Bill Cain, and David Thomas, came in for praise. Lynn Barnett continued to show outstanding form at his linebacker post. Henry Witkowski, Bob Gregson, Clayton Piland, and Johnny Wike stood out for the number two unit.

The defensive backfield was also outstanding, coming in to aid in stopping the ground attack and grabbing four Guilford passes out of the air. Tommy Matthews, Mac Thacker, Jones Lockerman, and Carpenter had the interceptions but Sonny Bassinger was also a defensive demon in the East Carolina victory.

The Pirates came out of the fray with several injuries but nothing serious was reported. Two frontliners—Jerry Carpenter and Mac Thacker—were banged up but the extent of their injury was unknown. Carpenter received a bruised hip while the hard-blocking Thacker was forced to sit out the second half of the game with an arm injury.

On the last Friday of the season, the Dodgers had a day off but gained a tie for the National League pennant. They kept it through Saturday and Sunday, although losing 4-0 to the Braves in the final game, and for the first time in major league history a playoff decided a pennant.

That was 1946. The Dodgers, then a Brooklyn bunch, lost the flag to the St. Louis Cardinals, who swept the first two games in the best-of-three playoff.

Five years later, on the last Friday of the season, the Dodgers dropped into a first-place tie with the idle Giants with a 4-3 loss at Philadelphia. Both won on Saturday, and again on Sunday, the final day, setting up the second pennant playoff in NL history.

That was 1951. And if you don't remember how the Dodgers lost that one, you're only seven years old.

Eight years later, on the last Friday of the season, the Dodgers won 5-4 in 11 innings at Chicago and took a one-game lead. Saturday the lead was a tie, after they lost 12-2 to the Cubs and Milwaukee's Braves beat Philadelphia 3-2. It stayed a tie Sunday, the final day, when the Dodgers beat the Cubs 7-1 and the Braves beat the Phils 5-2.

So the Dodgers head into their third pennant playoff, and the NL's third, at Milwaukee today against the Braves.

Manager Fred Haney was undecided between right-handers Lew Burdette (21-15) and Carl Willey (5-8) as the Braves' starting pitcher. Manager Walt Alston has decided only that he'd pick a lefty—either Johnny Podres (14-9), Danny McDevitt (10-8) or Sandy Koufax (8-6)—for the Dodgers, only club with a season edge (12-10).

The Braves, with Burdette, are 5-7 favorites to win the opener. With Willey, it's 10-11 and pick 'em.

The playoff, to be telecast nationally by ABC, gets under way at 2:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time in the Braves' County Stadium, then shifts to Los Angeles for the second and, if necessary, third game. The winner will get a day off before jumping into the World Series against Chicago's American League champion White Sox either Thursday or Friday at Chicago's Comiskey Park.

The Dodgers and Braves, either destined to win with the fewest victories (88) in NL history, junked any chance for an unprecedented three-way tie by winning Sunday. That killed San Francisco's Giants, who made it doubtful by losing a doubleheader at St. Louis, 2-1 and 14-8.

Roger Craig (11-5) put it away for the Dodgers, winning his fifth in a row with a six-hitter and driving in a pair of second-inning runs with a single off Bob Anderson (12-13). Charlie Neal and John Roseboro made it a breeze with two-run homers.

Earl Averill homered for the Cubs' run in the fifth—their second hit off Craig.

The Braves, playing with the Los Angeles victory on the scoreboard, kept the deadlock with all their runs unearned. They beat Jim Owens (12-12) with three runs in the seventh.

Two singles, an error, a walk, a passed ball and a balk, by reliever Humberto Robinson, clinched it, giving the victory to Bob Buhl (15-9) after he had been tagged for a fifth inning homer by Carl Sawatski that tied it 1-1. Sawatski, like Robinson an ex-Brave, doubled home the other Phillie run in the ninth, off reliever Don McMahon.

The Giants, beaten in the opener when the Cards scored two unearned runs in the eighth, lost seven of their last eight games—after leading by two with nine days to go.

Cincinnati tied Chicago for fifth place in the final standings, beating fourth place Pittsburgh 9-7 in the other NL game.

Southern Loop Has Rough Sat.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

George Hart of Davidson and Paul Maguire of the Citadel are tied for the scoring lead in Southern Conference football today in the wake of one of the most depressing weekends the league has ever experienced.

After two games both Hart, a senior halfback, and Maguire, a senior end, have 24 points. Both added to their season's total last Saturday, but neither could save his team from defeat.

Davidson lost a 25-21 squeaker to Presbyterian although Hart scored twice on runs of 2 and 5 yards. The Citadel was floored by Florida State 47-6 despite a 43-yard touchdown pass reception by Maguire.

The conference had only two weekend winners in eight games. West Virginia nudged Richmond 10-7 in the first league game, running its conference winning streak to 29 games. George Washington squeezed past Boston University 18-14.

Wake Forest stormed from behind to down Virginia Tech, 27-18; Navy conked William and Mary, 29-2; Penn State defeated VMI, 21-0, and South Carolina whipped Furman, 30-0.

Three players—halfback Alser Pugh of Virginia Tech, halfback John Traynham of VMI, and fullback George Angelica of Furman—trail Hart and Maguire in the individual scoring derby with 12 points apiece. Next in line is halfback Earl Stoudt of Richmond, with 10.

Family competition begins in earnest in the league this week. West Virginia, now 1-1 for the season, bids for its 30th straight conference triumph at George Washington (1-1) Friday night while Furman (0-2) plays at non-conference Chattanooga.

Saturday afternoon finds Virginia Tech (0-2) meeting William and Mary (1-1) at Roanoke. Saturday night, Davidson (1-1) is at The Citadel (1-1), and Richmond (0-2) and VMI (1-1) tangle at Portsmouth, Va.

Playoffs May Help Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—The National League playoff between Milwaukee and Los Angeles isn't going to make any difference to the Chicago White Sox.

Manager Al Lopez said Sunday night: "It's hard to say whether it will be to our advantage but I don't think it'll hurt."

Because of the playoff, the World Series will start either Thursday or Friday instead of Wednesday.

"At most it means two days," said Lopez. "And it could be only one day if somebody over there takes two in a row. It'll help Lollar (Sherm) but I don't think it'll make any difference in our pitching setup."

Lollar, the Sox star catcher, has a bruised hand as a result of being hit by a pitch last week. The extra rest will insure his being fully healed.

Coach Everett Case will be the speaker at the North Carolina State College Wolfpack Rally in Greenville tonight. He will review plans for the 1959-60 season.

SHADOW OF GUILT

A NEW THRILLER by PATRICK QUENTIN

CHAPTER 11

I took a last look around the room, as unmoved by the corpse of Don Saxby as if he'd been a sack of cement. No, there was nothing, surely, to show that Ala had been there.

I went to the door and opened it a crack. The radio music still blared from behind the closed door of the neighbor's apartment. What about the neighbors and the shots? Had the radio drowned out the noise? Or had the neighbors just been typical New Yorkers about it? Didn't that sound like shots? Just a car backfiring, baby.

The elevator was still at our floor. Turning, I beckoned to Ala. She slipped out with me into the corridor. I closed the door and tried it. It had locked itself.

I drew back the cage door of the steps. A couple of people were strolling toward Fifth Avenue on the other side of the street, paying no attention to anything. That was all.

In a few minutes we were in the car, driving toward Madison. It was twenty minutes to five.

I had got her away, but this of course was only the beginning. When Don Saxby was found, the police could certainly trace a connection between him and my family. There would be interviews, questions, detectives to be outwitted. The whole thing would be a rat race.

Now that the immediate danger was by-passed, I felt an enormous exasperation with Ala. The little idiot, blundering about, threatening us all with catastrophe!

She was sitting very close to me in the car, reminding me poignantly of the tense child who used to sit tightly wedged at my side when we drove to the shore on summer week ends, while Connie lay down the law. "Ala dear, do sit up straight. . . No, darling, it's quite absurd to want any ice cream." Connie! I thought.

Connie, the great-raiser of children, Connie, Mrs. Boomerang. For a while neither of us said anything. Then when we were headed up Park Avenue, Ala turned to look at me with shy awkwardness.

"George, I'm terribly sorry. . . I mean, about getting so mad with you this morning, about everything."

"That's okay."

"And you were right, weren't you—you and Connie? I mean Don must have been what you said he was. And that's why somebody killed him. Somebody we don't know—somebody with no connection with us."

"I suppose so."

"What a fool I was. And how awful I've been to poor Chuck." She paused and then added explosively, "George—please, George, don't tell her. I . . . I couldn't face it, not if she knew I'd been there. There'd be no end. She'd go on and on. Oh, please George."

There had been too much happening for me to think about Connie's reaction. How, in fact, was my wife going to take it?

Wasn't it just possible that, with her rigid canons of behavior, she would go civic-minded on us? Of course we must tell the police everything. Of course it's Ala's duty as a citizen. . .

Then I thought: If we tell Connie, I'll have to admit I was at Eve's. How could I explain that away? Could I say there were some letters I'd had to dictate? Would that sound convincing? Or rather, would I be able to make it sound convincing?

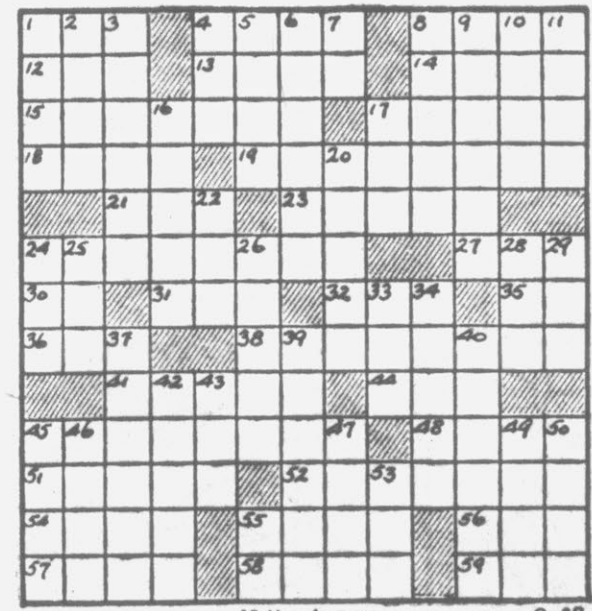

I began to see all the intricacies with which I would now have to live. It was an octopus situation with tentacles stretching in every direction.

I turned to Ala. "Is there any way we could keep her from knowing?"

"Of course. She doesn't even

Meekly Gave Up To A Minister

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. (AP)—A pistol packing Marine fugitive who pulled a daring escape from three guards was behind bars today after surrendering meekly to a minister who found him in a church closet.

Pvt. John L. McManus, 18, a native of Augusta, Ga., surrendered to the Rev. Lloyd Hales, 29-year-old pastor of the Barlow Vista Baptist Church, at nearby Hampstead Saturday morning. McManus, sentenced to a year in the brig and a dishonorable discharge for housebreaking and larceny, escaped Tuesday from a detail taking him to the brig. Camp Lejeune officials said McManus, carrying two pistols, was considered dangerous. However, when Hales and a church member, Wayland Matson, 42, confronted McManus in the church closet, the young Marine took the clip from a .45 caliber automatic and surrendered quietly.

After a two-hour talk with the minister at his home, McManus was driven to the base, where he surrendered.

Marine officers said McManus got the weapons from his barracks where he picked up his belongings before being taken to the brig. He pulled the pistol on the guards, tied them to a tree, and escaped in a jeep. Hales and Matson became suspicious when they saw strange tracks in front of the church Saturday. They followed them inside to a closet. When Hales opened the closet door, McManus stood inside, the .45 revolver leveled at the minister.

"When he found out I was a minister, he took the ammunition clip from the gun, handed the clip to me and put the gun inside his belt," Hales said.

Truck Drivers Call For Boycott

DANVILLE, Va. (AP)—Virginia traffic laws have drawn the ire of truck drivers who are calling for a month-long boycott of the state.

A letter, circulated by W. A. Winslow of Greensboro, N. C., a driver for Central Motor Lines, calls for the boycott from Oct. 4 to Nov. 4. During that time, drivers are asked not to spend any money in Virginia.

The boycott is in protest of what the letter calls "antiquated traffic laws enforced unfairly, in many areas."

"We are arrested, fined and deprived of origing rights on charges of operating 46, 47 or 48 miles per hour in 45-mile zones. The speed limit is unreasonably low for modern roads and equipment. Our earnings are taken from our families. It is a serious problem."

The boycott apparently was started by the drivers and is not union-inspired, although Lloyd

Higgins, secretary-treasurer of the Chauffeurs and Teamsters Union, Local 391, Greensboro, said the union will help "all we can."

William C. Honeycutt, a driver for Hennis Freight Lines at Winston-Salem, N. C., said he will post notices in trucking company terminals in Winston-Salem asking drivers to support the boycott. He said in his opinion Virginia state police discriminate against truck drivers in enforcing speed laws.

Compiles Demo Women's Record

RALEIGH—Mrs. Mary Laurens Richardson, vice chairman of the North Carolina Democratic Executive Committee, is having a good time, and finding it a bigger job than she thought, getting together a record of the activities of women in Democratic party circles.

Discovering that records on party activities prior to woman suffrage in 1920 were very scanty, Mrs. Richardson has broadened her project to include filling in the gaps.

It started some months ago when W. S. Powell, custodian of the North Carolina collection at the University library, wrote Mrs. Richardson about some missing volumes in the series of handbooks published by the party every election year. Powell and Richardson are working together to complete this file. Mrs. Richardson is searching further for unpublished data on women's participation. She has contacted every living former state vice chairman and national committeewoman.

She is not very happy about the results, but when she completes the project there will be a much fuller and more accurate history of Democratic party activities than has heretofore been available.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

Temperatures will average 3 or 4 degrees above normal for next five days. Warm Tuesday, not as warm Wednesday and then cooler Thursday and Friday. Showers in coastal area Tuesday; rain Wednesday ending Thursday. Rainfall will total one-to-three inches except possibly heavier in some eastern sections.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—An uncertain stock market churned unevenly in moderate trading early this afternoon.

Key stocks showed gains or losses going from fractions to about a point.

Motors and steels were fairly active and irregular. Rails moved generally higher.

Some of the steels and other industrials seemed to get a temporary lift after President Eisenhower called the steel strike "an intolerable situation" but the stocks made no follow through.

The industrial section of the market showed a slight downside drift.

American Motors, which advanced 8 1/2 last week, was off about a point.

U. S. Steel trimmed a loss slightly and was off about a point after the Eisenhower statement.

General Tire rose a point or better following an excellent earnings report.

The rail average was bolstered by gains of about a point by Southern Pacific.

Phelps Dodge fell around 2. Down about a point were U. S. Gypsum, American Cyanamid and United Aircraft. Goodrich rose about a point.

The Associated Press average of 30 stocks at noon was up 10 cents to $220.10 with the industrials down 20 cents, the rails up 40 cents and the utilities up 10 cents.

Government bonds were unchanged.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices steady to 25 lower. Arrested 10 For Failure To Stop

Pitt County Patrolmen arrested ten motorists for failure to stop for stop signs during "Stop Sign Violation Week" last week, according to Cpl. T. M. Martin.

In an effort to make Pitt County motorists more safety conscious and reduce the mounting accident rate of Pitt roads, the patrol is publicizing a special violation each week and the officers have been instructed to be especially watchful for these violations while on duty.

This week, September 28 to October 4, has been designated as "Improper Passing Week" by the Patrol and a special effort will be made by Patrolmen to make the public aware of their passing habits.

Improper or illegal passing includes such things as passing at an intersection, passing on a curve, passing to the right of a vehicle on a regular two-lane highway and many more, Martin said.

Six per cent of the highway fatalities result from improper passing, Martin commented. Eight per cent of the fatalities result from stop sign violations, he added.

Martin stated several people have been arrested recently for violating pedestrian laws, including walking on the right side of the road. Martin concluded by saying about 21 per cent of the fatalities in North Carolina are caused by people not observing the laws pertaining to pedestrians.

Local Man Held In Shooting Case

A 27-year-old Negro, Joe Stallings Jr. of 211 West Moore St., has been held by the Weldon Police Department since early this morning when he surrendered to them after allegedly shooting a Greenville Negro in the leg following an argument here earlier.

According to officers, Stallings allegedly wounded Bennie Wilson, 20, 115 East First St., in the leg after a fight between the two men at 211 West Moore St. Wilson signed a warrant charging Stallings with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill. The weapon was a shotgun, officers noted.

Police were called to the scene about 10:10 p.m. by a neighbor who reported there was a fight, and added she had heard two shots.

Investigators said the wound to Wilson's right leg was not serious. He was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital and released.

Reached Limit In 'Togetherness'

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. J.L. Owens and Mrs. Gene F. Washington, both 26 and the best of friends, are about as staunch opponents of togetherness as you'll find.

Both are (1) pretty brunettes, (2) were born Dec. 19, 1932, (3) have 27-year-old husbands and (4) live only two houses apart in the same block.

Now they're in the same hospital with new babies, born Saturday. There was one departure from pattern—Mrs. Owens has a daughter, named Stacy Lynn, and Mrs. Washington a son, named Steven Lee.

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP)—Walter F. Munford, 59, president of U.S. Steel Corp., is reported in critical condition with a cerebral thrombosis at Cape Cod Hospital.

Munford was taken to the hospital last Wednesday with a knife wound suffered accidentally in the family summer home in Chatham. The following day Munford suffered a cerebral thrombosis which paralyzed his right arm and hindered his speech. Sunday his name was placed on the critical list.

Its transmitter will be moved to the Greenville station as an auxiliary transmitter. An electrical generator will be moved here also to allow the station to remain on the air in case of a power failure.

With its present power the station will cover approximately a 25 mile radius including all of Pitt and a portion of the surrounding counties during the daytime. At night it will cover Pitt County.

Plans are being made to increase WOOW's power to 1,000 watts during its daytime operation, according to Ray.

The station will start with five announcers and two ladies in the office. Dick Jones will serve as sales manager and Carl Rochelle as announcer-engineer.

Ray comes to Greenville from WBBB and WBBB-FM in Burlington where he has been operations manager for the past six and

Cautions Against Believing Nikita

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Richard Cardinal Cushing, Catholic archbishop of Boston, says the American people should not be deceived by Nikita Khrushchev's insistence the Soviet Union wants peace.

He told a meeting sponsored by the Catholic Daughters of America Sunday night: "Don't think him (Khrushchev) a hypocrite and don't think the Russians are hypocrites when they talk of wanting peace."

"It is the golden day of their dreams, but peace, in the definition of communism, is world conquest."
