Gracie Hits S. C. Coast With Winds Up To 140 MPH

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP)—Hurricane Gracie, with peak gusts estimated at 140 miles an hour, slashed across the South Carolina coast today.

Badly battering this historic port city and adjacent areas, the big storm headed inland where her torrential rains threatened serious flooding.

The Weather Bureau said unofficial estimates placed the wind velocity on nearby beaches at 120 miles an hour, with gusts to 140. At 1 p.m. (EST) the bureau said the storm center was moving inland a short distance southwest of here and moving toward the interior at 14 miles an hour. She was headed generally toward Walterboro, Orangeburg and Columbia.

The Charlotte Weather bureau issued a bulletin warning residents of probable serious flooding along the Yadkin, Pee Dee, Lynches, Black, Waccamaw, Edisto, Lumber, Little Pee Dee and Ashley rivers.

Some of Charleston's historic structures were damaged as high winds uprooted trees, tore down power and communication lines and unroofed buildings.

Mountainous waves pounded beach installations from Savannah, Ga., to Myrtle Beach, S. C. High tides ranging up to 11 feet above normal sent waist-deep water coursing through streets here and in nearby communities. Highways and streets were blocked by flood water, fallen trees, tangled power lines and smashed buildings.

Metal signs blown down sailed along almost deserted streets. Docks and smaller harbor installations disappeared.

There were no immediate reports of deaths or serious injuries.

An unidentified motorist was killed when his car overturned several times during the storm 10 miles west of Beaufort, S. C. There were no other immediate reports of deaths or serious injuries.

At 11 a.m., the U.S. Weather Bureau placed the eye of the storm slightly south of Charleston and moving inland at about 14 miles an hour.

But Gracie was not content with her blow at the South Carolina vacationland.

Hurricane force winds moved inland along with torrential rains and headed in the general direction of Charlotte, N. C.

The weather bureau warned that downpours would range up to 10 and 15 inches and might cause serious flooding in some areas. Heavy rains were falling in eastern South Carolina and southeastern North Carolina and were expected to move northward.

Flooding during past hurricanes frequently has caused greater loss of life and damage than the power of life.

As Gracie hurled herself on the mainland, another hurricane, named Hannah, was plodding along at 15 miles an hour some 500 miles southeast of Bermuda. Her highest winds were estimated at 85 miles an hour.

Gordon Dunn, chief of the Miami Weather Bureau, said it was too early to tell if Hannah would follow Gracie's path and hit the east coast, but, "We'll be extremely fortunate if she doesn't."

The Weather Bureau declared

an emergency hurricane warning from Savannah to Wilmington, N. C., with gale warnings from Brunswick, Ga., to Morehead City, N. C.

Extremely high tides were forecast from Charleston to Wilmington, ranging up to 11 feet above normal. They should be 4 to 5 feet above normal between Wilmington and Morehead City, the Bureau said. The next high tide along the Carolina coastline will be around 3:30 p.m.

The Weather Bureau said hurricane winds continued to extend some 75 miles north of the hurricane eye and about 50 miles south of it. Gale winds of 40 miles an hour range outward as far as 200 miles.

With the urgent warnings of the Weather Bureau, Red Cross and other officials, more residents of exposed areas had evacuated, but a few hardy souls remained on the beaches. With the summer vacation season ended, only permanent residents were involved.

Schools were closed generally along the coast and they were opened as shelters for those driven from their homes. Hotels and motels were jammed early. Many industrial plants and business houses closed.

Expected high water failed to materialize at Savannah and Police Chief David McCutcheon said it resulted from the wind direction which blew the water away from shore at high tide.

In Charleston, famous St. Michael's Episcopal Church, built in 1761 and once the worship place of George Washington, lost part of its steeple. The dock at the Fort Sumter Hotel where tours depart-

NATO Ambassadors Get Story Of Ike-Nikita Talks

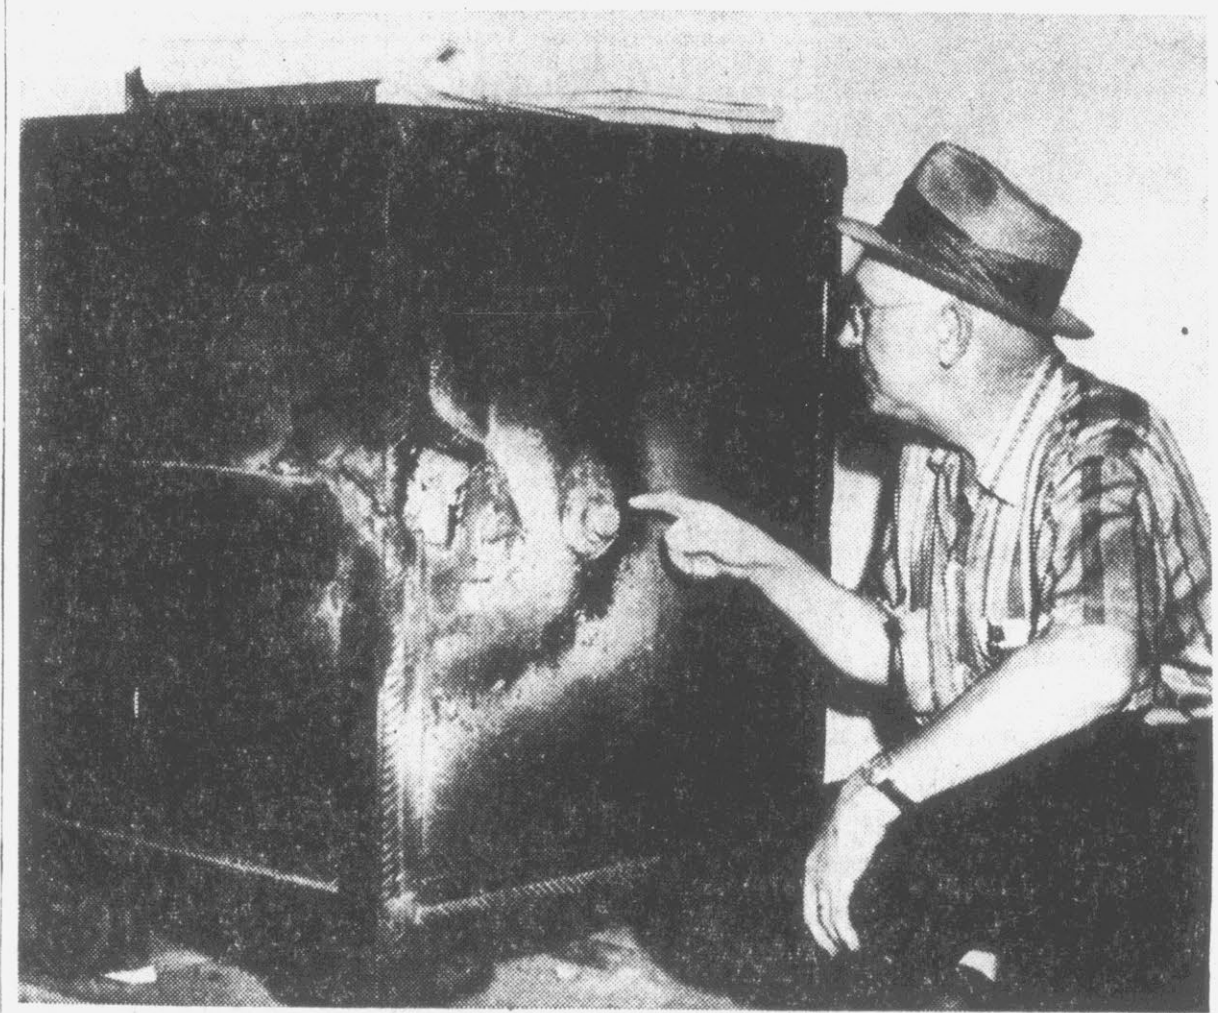

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States gave NATO ambassadors a 40-minute report today on the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks.

One ranking envoy said a summit conference or foreign ministers meeting in Berlin will very likely result from the talks.

French Ambassador Herve Alphand told reporters that as he understands the results of the Camp David discussions between the President and Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, "There was no change in the rights" of the Allied powers in West Berlin, but there was a change in that the Soviet threat to West Berlin was removed.

He added: "Anyway we hope

Safecrackers Didn't Finish Their Job

DETECTIVE R. T. ROGERSON . . . points to the hole cut in the safe at the Greenville Packing Company office on Smith St. by robbers who attempted to open the safe with a stolen gas cutting outfit.

Safe Robbery Interrupted, Cutting Torch Was Left

An acetylene cutting outfit stolen from a local welding shop last week was found this morning at the Greenville Packing Company on Smith Street.

Investigating officers said the robbers attempted to cut open the safe in the office of the firm but failed in their attempts.

The thieves apparently entered the office just after the night watchman left the building at 5 a.m. They left the scene before 6:45, when an employee of the company came down to open up

Pitt CD Ready For Emergencies

Gracie probably won't come ashore in northeastern North Carolina, according to the best guesses this morning.

But if she does change her mind and directions to head toward the Coastal Plains of North Carolina, Pitt County's Civil Defense set-up will be ready to cope with the emergency.

J. H. Rose, Civil Defense director for Pitt County, said that all CD units were alerted last night.

"We don't think it is coming in here at all but we've been ready," he declared.

The "umbrella of communications", which has been used in past hurricanes, stands ready to be placed in use around the county in case winds should become high enough to disrupt telephone service.

The umbrella of communications consists of 12 shortwave radio stations at strategic points

Nikita Apparently Regards Nixon As Opposing Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev appears to have nominated Vice President Richard M. Nixon as one of the Americans he says do not want to end the cold war.

The Soviet Premier left the broad implication in his Moscow homecoming speech that he regards Nixon as aligned with what he said are U.S. forces working "against easing international tensions."

"While he praised President Eisenhower for his 'statesmanship, wisdom and courage' and as a man who wants peace, Khrushchev said a speech Nixon made in New York Sept. 14 "was not of a healing nature."

"He added cold to toothache," Khrushchev said.

Nixon told the American Dental Assn. the day before the Premier's arrival in this country that while Americans should be courteous and polite to Khrushchev, they should not hesitate to talk back to him on major controversial issues.

Nixon publicly ignored Khrushchev's comment, and apparently did not disturb friends who are backing him for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination.

The Nixon camp seemingly is happy to have their man identified as one of those who talked tough to the Premier in Moscow and didn't let down his guard when Khrushchev put on his all-for-peace campaign in touring this country.

But there is an awareness among Nixon's associates that they are taking something of a gamble in permitting their man to appear to be an outstanding opponent of dealing with Khrushchev.

Time was when an American politician could have asked for nothing better than to be de-

Typhoon Left A Stench Of Death

NAGASHIMA, Japan (AP) — This central Japanese town of 7,000 people was a prosperous farming community lying between two peaceful rivers running into the Pacific—until Saturday.

Now it is a hell hole.

Bloated bodies—human and cattle—float in muddy, brown floodwaters that enveloped 95 per cent of Nagashima when Typhoon Vera turned the rivers into raging killers.

The stench of death is everywhere.

Co-Chairmen For UF Drive Named

Dr. M. W. Aldridge and W. M. Scales Jr. will be Greenville township chairmen for the United Fund campaign.

Announcement of the appointment of the co-chairmen for Greenville was announced today by John Ray Hardy, general chairman for the county-wide United Fund campaign which gets underway this week.

In a statement today the co-chairmen said late minute details for the fund-raising campaign in Greenville township are being ironed out before the campaign begins. Approximately 20 teams of volunteer workers are being assembled to handle the solicitations in Greenville, they said.

"It is our plan to cover Greenville township thoroughly and see

Turbulent Local Weather During Gracie's Advance

Turbulent weather in Pitt County today indicated the presence of Hurricane Gracie off the South Carolina coast.

It was cloudy and at times rain fell during the morning.

Greenville Utilities weather observers reported the temperature at midnight last night was 75 degrees. At 2 a.m. today it was 78 degrees and cloudy and at noon the thermometer stood at 84 degrees and skies were cloudy.

The river was at the 3.8 foot level this morning.

The highest winds, recorded at noon, were 17 to 25 miles per hour.

Observers said the barometer was beginning to drop at noon

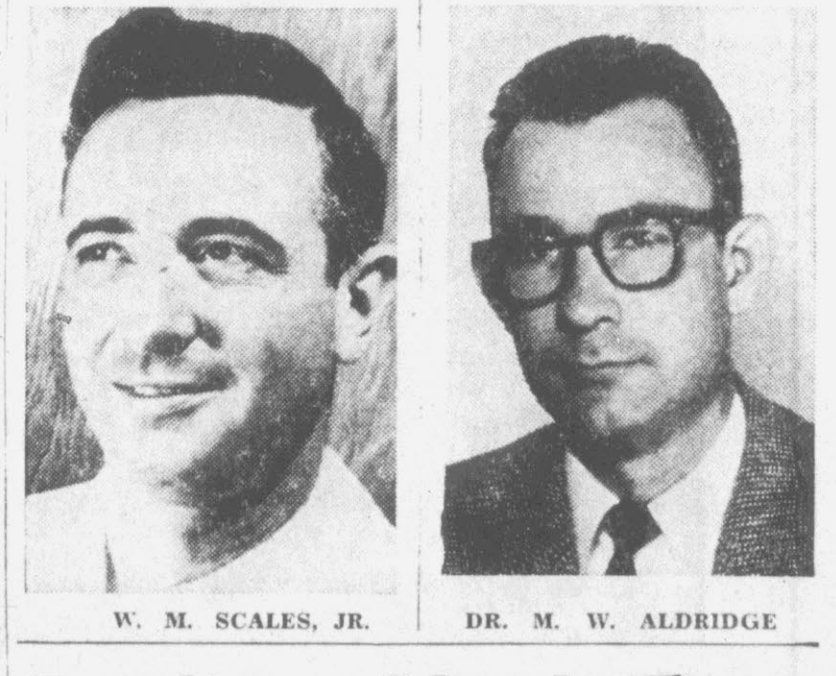

Safe Robbed In Bethel At Night

BETHEL — Thieves entered a seed and feed firm office here last night, moved a safe outside and broke it open.

Only a small amount of money was reported missing.

The firm's office is located on U. S. 64 east of Bethel.

Members of the Sheriff's Department, City-County ID officer Walter Thomas, Bethel Chief Walter Gray and SBI agent Clyde Pentress are investigating.

Justice Dept. Preparing For Action On Steel

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department today was reported gearing for quick action if President Eisenhower decides to invoke the Taft-Hartley law emergency provisions to stop the 77-day steel strike.

The President has called in top industry and union leaders to separate White House conferences Wednesday morning in a final effort to get fruitful bargaining without resort to the Taft-Hartley law provisions.

Officials said privately however they doubt that even a personal appeal from the President will budge the industry and the striking Steelworkers Union from their poles-apart positions.

In that event, Eisenhower is expected to trigger the emergency strike provisions into effect. This would call for naming a fact-finding panel to report on the issues. On receipt of the panel's report, the President could order the Justice Department to seek a court injunction to halt the strike for an 80-day cooling period.

Justice was reported well ahead on its preparatory paper work. It was noted that not only Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers, but the head of his department's civil division, George C. Doub, participated in a White House conference on the steel situation Monday.

All negotiations in the steel dispute are at a standstill. The union broke off New York talks conducted by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service last Friday. It said further such conferences were useless.

The President decided on the series of conferences as a final fling at getting both sides together to resume collective bargaining and seek an agreement.

Predicts Need For 'Population Policy'

NEW YORK (AP)—Sir Julian Huxley, author and biologist, said today a world population policy is necessary to prevent erosion of the world's resources.

"Man soon will be driven to plan a cooperative project aimed at securing greater fulfillment for more human beings," Sir Julian said at a symposium. "For this, he will need a vast program of research on human possibilities and methods for realizing them more fully."

Other panelists included Robert Frost, Pulitzer Prize poet; Dr. Hermann J. Muller, Nobel Prize zoologist; Devereux Josephs, chairman of the President's Committee on Education Beyond the High School; and Dr. Ashley Montagu, anthropologist and social scientist.

Lord Bertrand Russell, Nobel Prize philosopher, participated by videotape and short-wave radio from London. Milton E. Eisenhower, President of the John Hopkins University, was chairman.

They discussed how man can meet the problems of coming generations.

Frost conceded that science offers the possibility of controlled evolution, but he predicted test tubes would never supplant what he termed "passionate preference."

"As far into the future as I can see with my eyes shut, people are still pairing for love and money," Frost said.

Lord Bertrand warned that the next war would either wipe out all of civilization or return man to primitive barbarism.

Dr. Montagu also saw man's survival hinged on eliminating war but urged it be done through world wide education.

Girls Tell Of Experiences

Miss Sue Worthington and Miss Lois Tunnell, delegates to Girls State, reported on their experiences at the session to the American Legion Auxiliary, their sponsors, Thursday evening.
Each girl spoke of certain phases of Girls State, held in Greensboro in June, telling how much they had learned about parliamentary procedure, government, political parties, and Civil Defense programs in the state.

They also told the group of their opportunity to visit the State Capitol, Museum of Art, the Planetarium and Duke University, State College, University of N. C. at Chapel Hill and other points of interest.
The 23 members met at the home of Mrs. Annie T. Briley with Mrs. Durwood Worthington as a guest.
Mrs. Mary Bland and Mrs. Lucy C. Gray were recognized as new members.
The Auxiliary voted to place two books in Sheppard Memorial Library in memory of Mrs. J. O. Edwards and Mrs. J. Brooks Tucker.
It was announced that the First Area Conference would be held at Enfield in the Methodist Church on October 8, and reservations should be made for luncheon by October 5.
Mrs. Briley and her co-hostesses, Mrs. Jay Brantley, Mrs. A. T. Denton, and Mrs. K. T. Futrelle served cakes and punch during the social hour.

Bridge Club

AYDEN—At her home on Terrace Drive Mrs. Chester Hart entertained for her bridge club members on Thursday night.
At end of play skirt racks were given Mrs. Bonnie McCormick, high, while kitchen placemats were won by Mrs. Joe Tripp, runner-up. Mrs. Clarence Hart was remembered with love.
The hostess served a sweet course to Mesdames McCormick, Tripp, Hart, Tucker Tripp, Leslie Stokes, "Mac" Edwards, Raymond Cox and Wilbur Dunn.

Tenant House Converted

Conversion of a tenant house into a community building is taking place in Lee County.
According to Miss Monica Brown, home economics agent, members of the Cool Springs Club have been given a small tenant house and are now in the process of converting it into a place suitable for club and community activities. The club held its August meeting in the building to make plans for remodeling.
"Are your home grounds beautiful?" Mrs. Marion Wilson, Madison County home economics agent reports that Home Demonstration Club women have been taking a long second look at their home grounds.
Members have found that attractive yards are neat and clean, have attractive lawns, shade trees, well-placed shrubs, unsightly views screened off, well-kept walks and drives (only where needed), and do not have shrubs and flower beds scattered over the lawn.

Births Celebration
Danbury Home Demonstration Club recently had an unusual birthday party. According to Mrs. Gladys S. Jones, Stokes County home economics agent, club members had the party for their "adopted" foreign student, Dorothy King.
Miss King is from Taiwan and is a first year student at Bowman Gray School of Medicine in Winston-Salem. She talked informally about her home country so the women could learn more about her native customs. This type of program is strengthening the International Relations program in Stokes.

Home Improvement Month
Home Demonstration Club women in Edgecombe County are organized in a drive to contact every homemaker, landowner or other responsible individual in soliciting help in observing Home Improvement Month in September.
According to Miss Nancy Lewis, assistant home economics agent, the women are seeking help in: cleaning up unsightly areas such as woodpiles, machinery yards, and dump heaps; making any necessary exterior improvements on all buildings; and removing all unsightly unused buildings.
Extension Bulletins Available
Bulletin boards have recently been placed in the Irene Mills and Southern Paper Box Company buildings in Alexander County.
According to Mrs. Agnes W. Watts, home economics agent, the bulletin board features canning, freezing and other Extension Service bulletins available to home makers. In this way, many non-club members are reached with now, approved homemaking methods.

Four Girls Enter Nursing

Four Greenville girls have now enrolled in a four year program at the University of North Carolina School of Nursing.
They are Miss Jane Bass, of 207 Eastern St.; Miss Elizabeth Moore Whedbee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Whedbee, of 301 Latham St.; Miss Sylvia Sullivan Vincent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Vincent of 2401 South Dickenson Ave.; and Miss Patricia Ann Barlow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Barlow, Jr. of 1801 Circle Dr.
Dr. Elizabeth L. Kemble, dean of the School of Nursing, states that Miss Bass, a sophomore, is preparing for professional nursing and at the same time receiving a college education.
Miss Whedbee, Miss Vincent, and Miss Barlow were among the 75 to enter the program this September.

The Wesley Philathea Class met at the home of Mrs. W. G. Ward Monday afternoon with Mrs. Virginia Perkins, Mrs. Frank Wilson and Mrs. E. L. Willard assisting hostesses.
Mrs. E. L. Willard gave a devotional. She read several verses from the Bible on "Love" and an article "Love Letters."
During the business session dues were collected and contributions were taken for the orphan class sponsors.
The class voted to give a pointing to a needy family. Gifts are to be sent to Mrs. Frank Wilson, who will deliver them.
A plaque on which the name of the class was inscribed was shown. It was announced that "Family Night Supper" will be served in the Fellowship Hall on October 21.

Blackjacking Or Fall Fatal To Man; Jury May Have To Rule

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Was Marvin McGuire, 29, blackjacked repeatedly by the officer who arrested him and companions at a night spot in April? Or did the prisoner try to break away from lawmen, fall and strike his head, receiving injuries that ended in death eight days later? These are questions that may be decided by a Davidson County Superior Court jury at a future trial of Deputy Sheriff Bob Head. County Judge Joe H. Leonard found probable cause Monday for second degree murder charges against the veteran officer in the May 4 death of McGuire. The deputy was freed under $1,000 bond. Head told the court he arrested McGuire, of High Point, along with Mrs. Bobby English Collette and Donald Slack, at a High Rock

Lake night spot April 26. McGuire, he said, was drunk and resisted arrest. When they left the night spot, Head testified, McGuire fell and had to be carried. Both Head and Deputy Sheriff C. W. Long testified that McGuire resisted them. Head added that McGuire scuffled with him on the way to town, and that although the officer gave him a glancing blow on the forehead, he continued to scuffle. Head said it also was necessary to handcuff Mrs. Collette en route to town. She was charged with interfering with an officer and Slack with drunkenness. When they arrived at the jail, Head said, McGuire pulled loose, swung at him, missed and fell to the sidewalk, hitting his head. Deputy Frank Smith, inside the jail at the time, said he witnessed this. When Head saw blood coming from McGuire's ear, he took him to a hospital. Mrs. Collette testified Head hit McGuire with a "slap stick" (blackjack) "every time Booster (McGuire) opened his mouth." Slack backed up her testimony. Dr. R. H. Babcock of Winston-Salem testified that his examination of McGuire showed only one bruise on the back of his head and no cuts or skinned places.

Had TV Shows On His Telephone

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Jesse Gartman picked up his telephone and heard the TV show "The Verdict is Yours." He hung up and tried again. This time he got "The Brighter Day." The third try brought in "Truth or Consequences." Gartman reported the trouble to the telephone company. He said the people there were skeptical but checked his line and found themselves tuned in to television. Workmen finally stretched a new line to his home. Heavy rain was blamed for the trouble.

Rickover Happy With New Sub

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — Vice Adm. Hyman Rickover says he is pleased with the way atomic submarine Triton went through her paces in initial sea trials. Triton, at 447 feet the biggest of the Navy's nuclear subs, slipped away from her fitting-out dock Sunday and was back Monday afternoon. Rickover, the Navy's top authority on atom-powered subs, was aboard the giant radar picket sub. Triton was launched Aug. 19, 1958, at the Groton yards of the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp.

WGTC Offices At New Location

Radio station WGTC has moved its offices from Five Points to a new structure at the transmitter site, Joel Lawhon, manager of the station announced today. He said a new section was constructed adjoining the transmitter building to house the station's offices. The move from the Five Points offices was completed today. The move was made to "increase efficiency of operation by having everything under one roof," Lawhon said. The offices and transmitter are located west of Greenville on the Packland highway. Lawhon pointed out that under FCC requirements a station of WGTC's power cannot be located close to the city. "This location is about as close to town as we can get and still be within the rules," he said. WGTC operates on 5,000 watts, daytime.

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—Hurricanes have killed more than 750 people in the United States in the last 10 years, and caused untold billions of dollars in damage. High waves, floods, fires and other dangerous companions of the hurricane accounted for most of the deaths. Hurricanes, Diane, which brought death to 169 in 1955, and Audrey, which killed 353 in 1957, lead the count in deaths within the United States. Hurricane Hazel of 1954, which killed 99 in this country, brought death to 248 others in her path from Haiti to Canada. Here is a rundown on the most destructive hurricanes since 1949: 1953 — Barbara, hit Morehead City - Beaufort, N. C. Aug. 13, moved overland and out to sea near Norfolk, Va., two dead. 1954 — Carol, skirted North Carolina coast, hit Long Island and New England in August, 68 dead, damage 465 million dollars. Edna, passed off North Carolina coast, hit Cape Cod Sept. 11, thence to Maine, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick; 12 dead, damage 50 million. Hazel, ripped through Haiti, struck near South Carolina-North Carolina border Oct. 15, with winds 106 miles an hour, thence inland to Canada; 347 dead, damage 750 million. 1955 — Connie, sideswiped Carolina coast on way to Pennsylvania and New York, 25 dead, damage 50 million. Diane, hit Wilmington, N.C., Aug. 17, moved up to Virginia, then overland to Washington and Philadelphia; winds estimated at 115 miles an hour; 169 dead in northern floods, damage 832 million. Ione, hit Morehead City, N.C., Sept. 19, proceeded overland and back to lion. sea near Norfolk, winds of 107 miles an hour at Cherry Point, N. C.; seven dead, damage 160 million. 1956 — Flossy, hit Gulf Coast in September and blew itself out inland; killed 17, damage 25 million. 1957 — Audrey, hit Lake Charles, La. area in June; killed 353, damage 150 million. 1958 — Helene, skirted Carolina coast in September, winds 135 miles an hour at Wilmington, N. C.; no deaths, damage 10 million.

Leaves Estate Of $6 Millions

NEW YORK (AP) — Howard Gould, son of the late financier Jay Gould, left an estate estimated at 60 million dollars. Papers on file in Surrogate's Court disclosed Monday that the financier's son, who died Sept. 13, left 6 million cash and the remainder in blue chip stocks. The will divided the estate among a number of grandnephews and nieces.

Motorists Pause At Fort's Site

CHICAGO (AP)—Old Ft. Dearborn, founded in 1803, exists no more, but thousands of motorists each year are forced to halt at the location. The site of the fort now is the south approach to the busy double-deck Michigan Ave. bridge over the Chicago River. Motorists pause at the fort site every time the huge bridge opens for Great Lakes cargo ships.

Twin Lighthouse Now A Museum

HIGHLANDS, N.J. (AP)—Twin Lights Lighthouse, abandoned since 1951, is open again as a nautical museum. The old stone towers were first opened in 1862 and housed the first U. S. life saving station. Guglielmo Marconi conducted wireless experiments here at the turn of the century. The lighthouse-museum's chief attractions are seafaring momentoes and a 200-foot-high observation tower.

Public In The Middle Hurt Most

In the 11-week-old nation-wide steel strike, as in most disputes of that sort, the public and the little men involved are suffering more and more each day the deadlock continues.

And with each passing week more and more people across the country feel the pinch with the work stoppage in the nation's biggest and most basic industry. More plants which depend on steel are having to close down because their stockpile of material has been exhausted. Transportation is being hurt because there are less finished products to be shipped to distributors and customers.

As more and more people are temporarily laid off because of the steel strike the impact tends to mushroom throughout the economy. When a new plant is hit by the impact of the strike, the grocer, the retail merchants and the other businessmen of the community as well as the plant employees themselves suffer.

The steel strike has now gone far beyond the matter of a dispute between the major steel companies and the labor leaders who represent those who work in the steel mills. It created a national problem that is rapidly reaching emergency proportions. The longer it continues, the more serious it will become not only for those directly involved in the dispute, but also for the innocent public which sits on the sidelines and suffers because of the strike.

While we are of the opinion the government should remain out of such matters under normal circumstances, the steel strike has created a situation nationally which is far from normal. Even if the President continues to be reluctant to end the strike with an 80-day cooling off and fact finding period as he is empowered to do, certainly some high official should assume the responsibility of speaking up for the public which finds itself caught in the middle by the strike. Steel company officials and powerful labor leaders should show some recognition of their responsibility to the public interest as well as their responsibility to the interests which their positions represent.

As is usually the case in situations of this kind, the public which is made to suffer lacks an effective spokesman that it should have. The public interest has been relegated to a position of secondary importance so far as the principals in the dispute are concerned.

Nikita's Visit Poses Challenge To Analysts

With Premier Khrushchev back in Russia after his American tour, experts and laymen alike will spend the next days and weeks evaluating the impact of Khrushchev on Americans and Americans on Khrushchev.

For all the conclusions that might be drawn from the various events of the visit, it is probably safe to say that Mr. Khrushchev failed to sway the American people to the Kremlin way of thinking and the American people failed to sway Mr. Khrushchev.

Each knows more about the other now, but that doesn't mean they are any closer to agreement on the conflicting ideologies which separate them. Khrushchev still believes that Communism will eventually win the struggle for world domination, and the Americans are still confident that the democratic way of government and capitalist free enterprise can withstand any assaults made upon them by Communism.

It is doubtful that Premier Khrushchev thought prior to his trip that he would win friends for Communism or influence Americans in behalf of the Kremlin cause. Certainly he was better informed on the American peoples and their beliefs before his trip than to think anything of that sort could be accomplished. It is entirely possible, however, that his trip confirmed for him what he already knew of the American people, their love for freedom and their determination to exercise individual freedoms.

Whether these factors may have any secondary influence on the future course of Kremlin strategy or world events remains to be seen.

Khrushchev's visit to the United States has come to a close, but interpretation by the experts of what the visit meant in terms of international relations will be forthcoming weeks and months from now as new events take shape in various parts of the globe.

Nobody Certain What It Means

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev has finished his sensational and historic visit to the United States. What does it add up to? If you had to give the answer in one sentence, this would be it: "I can't be sure."

Reaction varies from skepticism to hope, mixed with wonder whether there's a gimmick in it, that he wants peace. One thing is sure. He didn't lose anything by his trip. He probably gained a lot.

So far as is known he didn't budge an inch on anything. Even that can't be said with certainty, since he implied that the full result of his talks with President Eisenhower won't be known for some time.

He tried to create an image of Khrushchev and the Soviet Union which was free of anxiety. And no doubt he did in some areas of the world, at least.

If he's not sincere, then the obvious question must arise in the most hostile minds: why did he go to all this trouble? That's an advantage he knew he would have when he undertook this trip in the first place. He never lost it.

He gave the impression of a man fed up with seeing the world's leaders frozen in fixed positions and determined at any cost to shove the world loose. That's exactly the impression he probably wanted to give.

Just because he created that impression, he put the Western leaders on a psychological defensive. They will perhaps feel compelled somehow, in some way, to do something to match in the world's eye Khrushchev's show of good intentions.

He demonstrated, to any one with a lingering contempt for the Soviets after the Sputniks and the moonshot, that both he and the U.S.S.R. must be treated as an equal. No one watching his energy, quick mind, and built-in strength could doubt it.

Rebaggled, he was full of conway past embarrassing questions, he was thin-skinned, and he never varied from basic Soviet dogma that communism is the best way of life.

It makes his talk of peace peace. But by this trip, by his down-to-earth performance, his hustle, bustle, his busyness poking around, his lack of bombast, his catch-as-catch-can willingness to take on all comers in a street-corner argument, he may have created a new era in international and diplomatic relations.

Other people who have watched Khrushchev here will feel like telling their own statesmen "come off it" if they get stuffy, particularly if they get stuffy and don't get things done.

It will take a long time — perhaps some summit meetings and certainly a number of meetings of foreign ministers — to show whether Khrushchev's whole trip was phony or whether he really wants peace.

The concessions the Soviets make in the future — or don't make — will tell the story.

But he crowned his almost incredible 12 days here with the truly incredible. Sunday night for almost an hour the head of world communism came into millions of American homes via television, lecturing on the beauties and goals of communism.

Ironically, for many Americans who had a strong distaste for traditions, he tried to bully his communism but only a vague knowledge of it, this lecture was probably the first time in their lives they heard it explained A-B-C, even if it was one-sided.

This hour's lecture, following another hour of questions and answers on TV, took gall and imagination. It showed how much American attitudes have changed in five years. Such a performance would have been unthinkable in 1954 when America was in the midst of the McCarthy era of hysterical anti-communism.

If you are skeptical about Khrushchev, then the net result of his trip has been suspicion. If you want to credit him with goodwill—in the sense, at least, of wanting peace in the world—then much he has done so far makes sense.

To prepare the world for the idea that the Soviet Union did want peace, Khrushchev first had to destroy the horror-image of communism built up by Stalin. Khrushchev has done that in a sound more plausible.

Since war, particularly hydrogen bomb war, could wipe out everything and probably wipe out capitalism, too, it would be logical to try to remove the possibility of war. This is what Khrushchev preaches.

The one thing Karl Marx didn't visualize was the hydrogen bomb and the fact it can wipe out whole nations, including Communist ones. This alone would cause a switch in Communist tactics. Khrushchev has switched tactics.

By denouncing the number of ways: by denouncing Stalin, de-emphasizing the role of the secret police, making Soviet society more open.

Then he set out on his seven-year plan to give Soviets a higher living standard and try to overtake the United States. This requires effort and it requires bushels per acre.

The GPO describes the book: "Based on the experience of many doctors, and designed to help parents understand their doctor's advice, many phases of infant care, such as feeding, clothing, sanitation, and others, are interestingly presented in this much requested book."

We'll Add To Surpluses

Will we ever work out of this farm surplus jam which mystifies the Russians but causes a continual headache to the United States government.

Lots of observers of the farm scene think we will. They say that the nation's rapidly expanding population will eventually consume the annual farm production and, indeed, create a shortage.

But one local farm observer is not so sure it will work out that way. He feels that the increase in yields will probably off-set the increased consumption. That should hold true at least for the lifetimes of Americans living today.

This farm observer, who did not care to be quoted by name, pointed out that corn yields, for instance, are continually increasing.

Whereas Pitt County's yields are about 32 bushels per acre, in the Midwest the yields are more than 120 bushels per acre.

And while there is a tremendous difference in the Eastern North Carolina and the mid-western yields, the potential is still far from reached.

It is possible that corn yields can be increased to perhaps 300 bushels per acre.

And so it goes, the yield per acre of almost all crops is moving continually upward and its apparently going to take a powerful lot of chomping by this and perhaps future generations to keep the agricultural surpluses down to reasonable sizes.

Nikita Khrushchev had a lot to say about how the Soviets will surpass the United States in various industries within a few years.

But, says a release from Engineering News-Record, Soviet construction methods still lag decades behind the United States.

It quotes Jacob Feld, New York consulting engineer who recently completed a 1,250-mile tour of West Russia construction sites as saying: "The general impression I got was that Russian construction is where U.S. construction was in the 1920's."

"The Soviets have launched many impressive housing projects, but there is an impressive scarcity of working labor and construction is slow."

"Probably was apparently slipshod; joints and edges were ragged. Concrete quality was poor, too. I didn't see any ready-mixed concrete during the entire trip."

Modern Soviet highway construction was notable for its absence. Feld reported.

"There just wasn't much pavement; cobbles were commonplace. Often highway pavement was crudely jointed and poorly aligned," he said.

And even major highways are only lightly traveled. A main route near Novgorod, comparable to U.S. highway 1 on the East Coast, carried, by Feld's actual count, only 50 vehicles per hour both ways, the article said.

Most of them were trucks, and the count was taken at mid-day, the highway's busiest period.

Opinions In Brief

"It is again being urged that the United States adopt the system of grams and liters, instead of ounces and quarts. Cooks, of course, will be allowed to retain the present units of pinches, dabs and quite-a-bits."—Asheville Citizen-Times.

Broken Record Theme

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks teen-agers get tired of hearing—or overhearing:

"At your age George Washington was already fighting Indians."

"Stand up straight, Rodney. Do you want to look like a man or a pretzel?"

"But Susie, you can't get steady with him. He's too old for you. Why, he's in his last year in high school."

"I never had to ask my folks for money. I went out and earned it myself."

"No, you can't have the car tonight—or any other night for that matter."

"If you play just one more rock 'n' roll tune, I'll break every record in the house."

"Where is this place called Endsville you children are always talking about?"

"In my day they didn't do homework over the telephone."

"Sit down, Rodney. I think it's time you and your dad had a real man-to-man talk about this whole girl question."

"Sure you can go to the movies—after you cut the grass and do all the other things I told you to do this morning."

"Why can't kids today talk in ordinary English? It was a good enough language for Shakespeare."

"It isn't that you don't look cute in blue jeans, Susie, but there is a law that says a girl can't wear a dress, too, now and then?"

"Does Susie really call that a haircut? It looks as if it had been gnawed by mice."

"Is that Susie's new boy friend in the living room? What's he doing, getting ready to enter a Halloween contest?"

"No wonder they've got pimples. All they eat is cheeseburgers and malted milks."

"You'll find it easier to read, Susie, if you sit up in the chair and put your head where your feet are now."

"No, you don't have to walk those three long blocks to the drug store. You can run or you can crawl."

"Well, I never thought I'd have a teen-age daughter who'd have to ask her mother to thread the needle when she had to sew on a button."

"Borrow my razor? Son, you sure you know which end to hold?"

"Look at that report card. You ought to have to go to the school of hard knocks, like I did."

"Certainly I could help you with your algebra. But right now I'm too busy."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
PRESENT AND FUTURE

It is a commonplace to say that we are all travelers on the river of time. Behind us, the past stretches upstream out of sight. At every moment the present flows by us. Ahead, farther than we can see, stretches the future—emptying someday into the great sea of eternity.

About the past we can do nothing—except to learn from it. We cannot really do anything about the future, either; we can speculate about it or even plan for it, but we cannot actually do anything in the future. Doing is always in the present.

The present is the time for action. Many of us tend to sell out the present for the sake of the future. We work at a hard, dull routine for many years to be able to enjoy our retirement. We put off doing things now so that we can do them better someday later on. Then how tragic it is to discover that after a life narrowly devoted to toil, we are so unfit for anything except toil that we cannot enjoy our leisure.

How ironic it is to find that what we put off to do better later, with more time, we still have less time to do, and can no longer do it even as well.

Don't sell out the present for the future.

Quote . . .

"It is necessary . . . to resort to all sorts of stratagems, maneuvers, illegal methods, to evasion and subterfuge, only so as to get no trade unions, to remain in them and to carry on Communist work within them at all costs."—Lenin.

Gov't In The Publishing Field

By ELMER ROESSNER
The Government Printing Office has announced its 10 best sellers. The all-time best is "Infant Care," a 106-page book selling for 15 cents—a price that certainly has private industry licked.

The GPO describes the book: "Based on the experience of many doctors, and designed to help parents understand their doctor's advice, many phases of infant care, such as feeding, clothing, sanitation, and others, are interestingly presented in this much requested book."

ted in wood than in space; however, the two wood books were published in 1955 and 1956 while the space handbook was published this year.

The Wood Handbook covers almost all facets of the use of wood, including physical properties, applications, grades, sizes, painting, fireproofing, etc.

The Space Handbook discusses such topics as space environment, trajectories, orbits, rocket vehicles, propellants, space stations, extraterrestrial bases, satellites, scientific space exploration, astronautics in the U.S.S.R. and

The titles of the other books fairly well explain the contents.

"While we have many popular publications among the 30,000 different titles sold by this office, these 10 books will undoubtedly find a place among the most popular government publications offered for public sale during this calendar year," said Carper W. Buckley, Superintendent of Documents.

WHEN IS AUTO ACCESSORY A RADIO PART?
Is a radio speaker located in the rear of an auto to be taxed as a radio and television component, as an auto part and accessory, or as both?

The Internal Revenue Service has weighed the question and come up with the answer: they are radio parts, not auto accessories, and subject to the manufacturers tax on radio parts.

A television monitor which reproduced the picture but not the sound is not a "television receiving set," the IRS said in another ruling. If that is no surprise, this may be: "It is therefore not subject to the manufacturers tax."

Mechanization Creeps Up On Salesmen, Too

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Mechanization is creeping up on the salesman as well as the factory worker. In both cases it's making the task easier. In both there's talk of threats to jobs.

But with today's keener competition in the industrial and business worlds the salesman's job looks more important than in any other postwar years.

Today's traveling man can carry along a kit the size of a dispatch case and set up equipment in a strange office and wow his prospect with sight and sound—even mood music.

The salesman does more than just operate a machine. For one thing, he must be there in person to get the signature on the order blank. But the equipment does help get the sales pitch across. And some think it does more than mere sales talk can.

The devices take many forms. There are closed circuit TV for big projects, industrial movies, tape recorders, sound effect records, magnetic recording tape, slide projectors, color prints and transparencies, animated films.

One New York-based corporation is said to have 60 different audiovisual devices it can turn to for special tasks.

Commercial and industrial purchases of audiovisual equipment are estimated at 200 million dollars last year. They are expected to go higher this year, according to exhibitors at the industrial film and audiovisual exhibition now in full swing here.

Schools and colleges bought 27 million dollars worth last year. Purchases by government agencies, religious, social welfare, civic, medical and health groups brought the total to an estimated 250 million.

One of the fastest growing selling aids is closed circuit TV. It also has been making great strides in the nation's schools.

Some big corporations are reported to be spending $100,000 or more a year on various audiovisual equipment. When they go in for industrial movies the cost can run to many times that.

These nontheatrical movies are reported to be one of the fastest growing segments of the industry. Communication itself is twofold. Management finds it increasingly necessary to keep in touch with, and instruct, its sales forces, its workers and its junior executives, its stockholders. Also it finds a new need to present its case to the communities in which it has plants or sales outlets.

Mechanization helps management tackle these problems.

FIVE YEAR PLAN
VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The outline of a new five-year plan for Hungary designed to increase the national income 150 per cent was announced today. Among other targets set for achievement by 1965 are an increase in industrial production of 65-70 per cent over 1958 and a raise of agricultural production by 30-35 per cent over the average for 1954-58.

Sen. Green Will Be 92 Friday

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Sen. Theodore Francis Green (D-R.I.), oldest man ever to serve in Congress, will be 92 Friday.

The senator returned home from Washington Monday to rest. But he has two radio talks, two meetings and testimonial dinners and a lecture on his schedule.

He said he doesn't know what sort of a birthday celebration he'll have.

"I suppose some of my friends or relatives might surprise me. They usually do."

Arrest Three In Break-In Cases

Three Greenville men were arrested yesterday and early this morning in connection with two break-in and entering and larceny cases, accordg to Greenville Police Department spokesmen.

Robert Barnes, 28-year-old Negro of 1317 South Greene St. was "caught napping" about 5:30 p.m. yesterday by officers after he allegedly broke through a rear window of a house at 700 Pamlico Ave. Investigating officers said the man entered the kitchen of the house, removed some food from the ice box and had a feast. He then entered a bedroom and went to sleep on a bed where he was discovered by a members of the family who summoned officers.

Barnes when arrested by officers was still on the bed "resting."

In addition to the break-in and entering and larceny charges brought against the Negro, a capias and a warrant charging him with assault with a deadly weapon were served on the man.

He is being held in city jail without bond.

Two white men, one 27 and the second 33, were placed in jail under $300 bond each after being charged with breaking and entering, and larceny of 25 cartons of cigarettes and a quantity of beer from the Grande Avenue

Freshman Plays Are In Rehearsal

East Carolina College's 1959 Freshman Plays are now in rehearsal. Two one-act plays, one a tense drama and the other a rollicking comedy, will be presented at 8 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium Wednesday and Thursday, October 7 and 8.

Sponsored by the East Carolina Playhouse, the Freshman Plays are staged each fall as a major production of the college dramatic club and a cooperative project of new students on the campus. More than fifty members of the Freshman Class are participating in this year's production as members of the casts and the technical staffs.

The two one-act plays chosen for the program this fall are "Night Club," a dramatization by Dan Toheroh of Katherine Brush's well-known short story, and the comedy "Why I Am A Bachelor" by Conrad Seiler.

A. Constance Erwin, Roanoke Rapids, is director of "Night Club," and Daniel Yanchisin, Kinston, of "Why I Am A Bachelor." Both are experienced members of the Playhouse. Dr. Joseph A. Withey, director of the Playhouse, is acting as supervisor and consultant.

Dynamite Plotters Plea In High Court's Hands

RALEIGH (AP) — The case of eight union men convicted of conspiring to dynamite property of a struck Henderson cotton mill is in the hands of the State Supreme Court.

Arguments before the high court are scheduled for the week of Oct. 20.

Lawyers for the group made 225 challenges of Vance Superior Court procedure in their record of trial filed Monday with Supreme Court Clerk Adrian Newton.

The eight defendants include Boyd Payton, Carolinas director of the Textile Workers Union of America. They were convicted of the plot after a two-week trial in Henderson.

Judge Raymond Mallard dealt long prison terms to each. Payton, Lawrence Gore and Charles Auslander, union officials, each received six to 10 year terms. Four members of the rank and file, Warren Walker, Calvin Ray Pegram, Edward Abbott and Johnnie Martin, drew five to seven year terms. And Malcolm Jarrell, another member, was sentenced to two to three years.

The appeal included a contention that the defendants were denied due process of law in Vance County. This action was regarded as an attempt to pave the way to the federal courts should the state appeal fail.

Lawyers for Johnny E. Newton, sentenced to 24 months on charges that he fired a rifle at a National Guard jeep in the Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills area, also appealed his conviction.

The Supreme Court will hear the conspiracy appeal, the Newton appeal and appeals in 17 other cases involving more than 50 defendants convicted of contributing to strike-connected violence.

The strike is in its 10th month. The mills, one on each end of Henderson, have been operating around the clock with nonunion employees.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — David Niven and his wife, Hjordis, are no longer separated.

A newsman asked the actor Monday if that meant they were reconciled.

"We purposely avoided the use of the word 'reconciliation,'" said Niven, "because we are not reconciled to the fact that we are together again. We are utterly delighted."

The Nivens separated last July. They plan a two-week vacation in Brazil next month.

Film Censorship Is Not Like Old Days

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Where were the censors when that picture got passed?"

You hear that question more and more these days from amazed movie goers, accustomed to decades of almost simon-pure entertainment on the screen.

The watchdogs of movie morality are still on the job. But films are undergoing a moral revolution due to these factors:

1. Loss of the movie habit. Millions of Americans used to go to the movies regularly with scant regard to what was showing. TV ended that. Movie goers are shoppers now. They are attracted by what is talked about. So producers are trying to provide what is new and often sensational.
2. Source of film material. Most film stories now come from books and plays. You need only to consult recent best sellers—"Lolita," "By Love Possessed," "Lady Chatterley's Lover," "Peyton Place"—to note the erotic nature of popular literature. And Broadway's top playwright, Tennessee Williams, has led the stage into new byways of sexual motivations.
3. Product shortage. Because the major studios are not making enough movies, theaters must rely also on foreign and cheap American products. An unclad Brigitte Bardot showed foreign producers the surest way to the U.S. dollar. Overseas films need not meet production code requirements. The same is true of quick-buck Hollywood producers who make and release teenage and horror films, most of them sleazy.

Churchmen have been alarmed at this revolution in film morality. Roman Catholics long have been a potent force in affecting moral content in movies.

Francis Cardinal Spellman urged in a speech last month that "pictures and books which corrupt and destroy the moral fiber and ideals of youth . . . be eliminated if we are to discharge our sacred duties to our children."

But what alarms Hollywood most is that Protestants, too, are up in arms.

Recently—George Heimrich, West Coast director of a film and broadcasting commission of the National Council of Churches, issued a blast against movies that exploited "sex for sex's sake and violence for violence's sake." He hinted at strong action by Protestants.

Lutheran H. K. Rasbach was a member of the Hollywood Ministerial Assn. that voted unanimously to support Heimrich. Rev. Rasbach's view:

"I don't think we should get back to the puritanical approach to movies of the '30s. That took all the realism out of films. But I do think our producers should be more careful about morality in view of our perilous position today."

"We must think how movies picture us abroad. Recently a minister in Italy wrote me that someone asked him, 'are most Americans prude?' That was the impression he got from our films."

Ad burbs for movies demonstrate the current appeal of the Hollywood product:

"It's what goes on when the lights go off."—"Pillow Talk."

"Do you want to know what I do? I am kept by a very rich man."—"That Kind of Woman."

"Silver, who wanted a thrill a night . . . every night!"—"Girls Town."

Blue Hose Look Good

An opening game victory over East Carolina is proving to be just what the doctor ordered for Coach Frank Jones and his Presbyterian Blue Hose.

Since that season opener, the PC club has taken victories over Furman and Davidson. This past week-end saw them come from behind 21-7 to nip Davidson 25-21. The PC club is making the Pirates look good.

Speaking of East Carolina, Coach Jack Boone stated that the big difference in the Guilford and Albright games was the execution of plays. "Our execution of plays wasn't as good against Guilford as Albright", stated Boone, but this could be attributed to several factors.

First, the hot weather was unbearable and left its effect on both clubs. Second, the Pirates did not get in any rough work last week due to seven or eight boys being on the sidelines with colds. Boone hopes to get in some heavy work this week to sharpen up his offense some.

Pirates Lead District Stats

A belated report from the District NAIA bureau shows that East Carolina led in many departments prior to last Saturday's activity. These are last weeks stats, but we will pass them along to you.

Glenn Bass and John Meroney were the leading scorers with three Touchdowns each. Of course, we will have a change here this week. Bass was second to Meroney in individual rushing with an average of 102.5 yards per game.

Ralph Zehring ranked at the top in passing for distance. The ECC quarterback had 10 completions of 17 tosses for an average of 90.5 yards per game.

ECC led the district in total offense with 710 yards and was also the scoring leader with 58 points.

Pitt Coaches Hold Meeting

The Braintrust of Pitt County basketball assembled at Respass-James last night to lay the groundwork for the 1959-60 basketball season. Walter Latham of Bethel presided.

One of the toughest small school conferences in the state, the Pitt Conference will soon be getting underway and the talk around the county has already turned to the hardwood sport.

Last night's business meeting varied from the election of several new officers to the discussion of taking in four new members from Martin County. Other business included the discussion of the tournament, officials, and ways of selecting an All-Conference team in the future.

The meeting went along smoothly and coaches were looking ahead to the fast-approaching new season. The loop will have a lot of new blood this season in the coaching field. Three new coaches—Bob Howell, Zeke Coggins, and Dan Wootton will be making their coaching debut and they have chosen a rough conference to make it in.

Grimm Returns To Cubs Again

CHICAGO (AP) — Charlie Grimm is back for the third time as manager of the Chicago Cubs. Club owner Phil Wrigley announced Monday that Grimm, 61, will succeed Bob Scheffing, 44, at the Cubs' helm. Scheffing, who resigned after three years in the post, guided the National League club to a seventh place tie and two fifth place ties.

Grimm, who also will keep his job as a vice president of the Cubs, first managed the team in 1922 when he succeeded Rogers Hornsby. He was replaced in 1938 by Gabby Hartnett, but returned to the post in 1944, taking over from Jim Wilson. Grimm was out again in 1949 when Frankie Frisch was named manager.

Wrigley said Scheffing will remain in the Cub organization, probably as manager of one of the team's minor league farms.

Dodgers Edge Braves In Playoffs, 3-2

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The quietly confident Dodgers, with one playoff victory already in the bag, returned to Los Angeles today. They need only one more triumph over defending champion Milwaukee for their first National League pennant since 1956.

A 3-2 victor in Milwaukee Monday, Dodger manager Walter Alton appeared to be in the driver's seat. He had his ace, Don Drysdale, set to pitch the second game of the best-of-three against the Braves, a team he has beaten 11 times in 15 lifetime decisions. Even if the Braves should upset the dope and hang a defeat upon the redoubtable Dodger righthander, Alton still has Roger Craig, currently the hottest pitcher on his staff, for a playoff game Wednesday.

Manager Fred Haney in a last-ditch battle to keep the Braves' flickering hopes alive, also went with his best righthander, Haney pinned his hopes on Lew Burdette, a 21-game winner. The game was scheduled to start at 4 p.m. Eastern Standard Time with ABC television coverage.

Haney, whose theme all season long was "we'll play them one at a time," declined to say who would pitch the third game should the Braves pull an even but it was regarded as a certainty that his choice would be Bob Buhl, a Dodger tamer from "war" back. Haney gambled and lost in the opener although he got a well-pitched game from Carl Willey, who has won only five games all year.

Fred had been expected to open with Burdette but a look at the past performance sheet shows why he didn't. Fidgety Lew has a 2-11 lifetime record against the Dodgers at Milwaukee. He is 2-0 against them at Los Angeles this year.

A crowd of 50,000 or more was expected to turn out at the Coliseum, where day games are a rarity. If the game were to be played at night it is conceivable that close to a sellout crowd of 90,000 would attend in the hope of seeing the Dodgers finally win a playoff after two previous failures.

In 1946, they lost two straight to St. Louis and five years later they dropped the rubber of a three-game series to the New York Giants.

A slim gathering of 18,297 on a dreary, rainy afternoon saw the Dodgers get a brilliant pitching exhibition from rookie Larry Sherry in Milwaukee Monday. Manager Alton summoned Sherry from the bullpen to replace his surprise starting choice, Danny McDevitt, when the left-hander ran into trouble in the second inning.

Sherry, a 24-year-old right-hander brought up from St. Paul in July, stopped the Braves cold after they had forged ahead 2-1, handcuffing them with four harmless singles over the last 7-3 innings. He throttled Milwaukee's big guns, holding Eddie Mathews, Henry Aaron and Joe Adcock hitless.

The Dodgers tied the score in their half of the third and won the game in the sixth on Johnny Roseboro's home run over the right-field fence.

The Dodgers played without Duke Snider, their leading hitter. The veteran center fielder, still hobbled by a bad left knee, was a doubtful starter today. Don Demeter, Snider's replacement, got one of the Dodgers' 10 hits off Willey and Don McMahon. Norm Larker, who took over Snider's cleanup spot, collected three hits and drove in a run. Gil Hodges singled in the other Dodger run.

The Braves, mired in a batting slump for a week, were hopeful of snapping out of it at Los Angeles, where they have won 6 of 11 this year.

"We've been coming from behind all year," said Haney, "and now we have to keep doing it. We just got beat. We can't win ball games on six hits. We couldn't come up with the big one when we needed it."

Haney said he probably would make a change in his lineup, starting Frank Torre, a lefthanded hitter, instead of Adcock at first base, and Lee Maye, another scutpaw swinger, in place of Andy Pafko in left field.

Alton, a man of very few words, remained his cautious self. "I admit we've got the edge," he said. "But we still have to win one more. They're still tough to beat."

West Virginia Tackles GW In Big Loop Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

West Virginia's football team, which hasn't lived up to its role as Southern Conference kingpin thus far, shoots for its 30th consecutive league victory Friday night against George Washington's Colonials.

Each team goes into the game with a 1-1 record. Each lost its opener badly, then came back last week with final quarter scores to edge their opponents.

Scouting reports at Morgantown emphasize the Colonials' passing attack. Apparently, Coach Art Lewis' biggest task will be to set up a defense against the passing of Colonial quarterback Ed Hino.

Hino guided GW to an 18-14 win over Boston University last Friday and was named Southern Conference player of the week.

The Mounties appeared to be in fair shape physically with only left tackle Larry Foltz out of action with an ankle injury.

Furman dropped sophomore halfback Billy Gillis from the active player list for 1959 due to a knee injury received against South Carolina. Gillis will undergo surgery today.

The Citadel counted two sideline players, but both were expected to be ready for the Davidson game Saturday.

Former Tennis Star Dies Of Heart Attack

NEW YORK (AP)—Vinnie Richards, the one-time boy wonder of tennis who died Monday night, used to laugh when describing his career.

"You know," he'd say, "I figure I played about 14,000 matches, and in each one I ran about four and a half miles. That means I ran 56,000 miles or about twice around the world."

Richards died in Doctors Hospital of a heart attack. He was 56, and although one of the great players of the world, he spent most of his days in the shadow of the great Bill Tilden.

Vinnie, vice-president of a tire and rubber company for two decades, was 10 years Tilden's junior. Yet their careers ran almost on a parallel.

"I kept track of all the matches I had with Tilden," Richards once said with obvious relish. "We played each other 1,002 times and I won 502 of the matches. I'll bet not many other players can brag that they hold the edge over Tilden."

Richards' name shows in the Olympic record book something else Tilden couldn't boast of. Tennis was on the Olympic Games' program only once. That was in 1924, and Vinnie swept through the likes of Manuel Alonzo of Spain, and Rene LaCoste and Henri Cochet of France to win the singles.

He also shared the doubles titles with Frank Hunter.

Vinnie was tagged the boy wonder when he teamed with Tilden to win the National Doubles championship in 1918 at the age of 15. Tilden was 25 and beginning his rise in the game.

Twenty-seven years later, when he was 42, Richards won his last championship, the professional doubles, and fittingly, his partner was Tilden.

He and Tilden won the National Doubles again in 1921 and 1922 and in 1923 and 1926, he paired with R.N. Williams for the title. He never did win the National Singles championship, but he won the National Indoor crown in 1919, 1923 and 1924. In 1919, his victim in the final was Tilden.

Richards was a member of four Davis Cup teams—1922, 1924, 1925 and 1926. All were victorious, but he took a back seat to Tilden. Only in 1924 did Richards get any great share of the credit.

LSU, Clings To First Spot In AP Poll; Clemson Moves To Sixth

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Louisiana State's defending national champions hung tightly to their No. 1 position but the rest of the top ten underwent a spirited shakeup today in the second weekly Associated Press college football poll.

Northwestern wrested the runner-up spot from its Saturday victim, Oklahoma, and Oklahoma dropped from sight. The Sooners, beaten 45-13, weren't listed among the first 20 teams—their lowest estate in years.

Meanwhile, Iowa, Georgia Tech, Notre Dame, Tennessee and Texas moved into the select group. Auburn, Southern Methodist, Wisconsin and Texas Christian—like Oklahoma—tumbled.

try's sports writers and broadcasters and amassed a total of 794 points—well below last week's 1,105.

Gamecocks Look Ahead: Trouble

Just a little bit south of South Carolina may lurk trouble this week for Coach Warren Giese, whose Gamecocks are among four unbeaten Atlantic Coast Conference teams looking a bit anxious to the weekend.

South Carolina (2-0) is at home to Georgia Saturday. Clemson (2-0) is at Georgia Tech. Wake Forest (2-0) is at Tulane and North Carolina State (1-0) is at North Carolina.

Giese thinks the Bulldogs this year are the finest team he's seen at Georgia in the 13 years he's been observing them. "The best passing team in the country," says Giese, looking at that record of 14 completions in 16 attempts.

Besides that, adds Giese, the Bulldog halfbacks and fullbacks "can ram the ball right down your throat — you can't let up ground defense a second."

Georgia, paced by the passing of quarterbacks Charlie Britt and Frank Tarkenton, also is unbeaten, having downed Alabama and Vanderbilt. South Carolina's victims were Duke and Furman.

"We'll be as ready as possible," says Giese, but "Georgia looks as though it might be on its way this season."

Clemson, like South Carolina, stressed pass defense in Monday's workouts. Center Ron Andre and guard Larry Wagner were back in action, and Coach Frank Howard expects the Tigers to be at full strength for the game with unbeaten Georgia Tech.

North Carolina State, idle last week after an opening victory over Virginia Tech, worked on defense and heard a scouting report on North Carolina. Injured first stringers Alex Gillespie, guard, and tackle Dick Reynolds missed the practice.

Wake Forest, a come-from-behind team against Florida State and Virginia Tech, worked briefly in light equipment. Tulane has lost to Florida and Miami, but Deacon Coach Paul Amen warned that the Green Wave should not be taken lightly. He said Tulane has a strong passing attack.

North Carolina, jolted twice this season by Clemson and Notre Dame, worked out in secret. Coach Jim Hickey hinted there might be personnel changes for the State game. "We were mighty bad against Notre Dame," he commented.

Virginia, also a double loser, sat through the movies of the Clemson game (a 47-0 loss) resignedly. But Coach Dick Voris said optimistically that he noted improvement in the Cavaliers' performance in that game, and the squad suffered no serious injuries. Virginia is expected to suffer a third defeat Saturday at Florida.

Duke Coach Bill Murray expressed pride in the Blue Devils' showing despite a 14-13 loss to Ohio State in the last two minutes of play. He noted that the Big Ten team departed from its usual conservatism to use wide flankers, passing and running on the pass option play. Duke is home Saturday to Rice.

Maryland, a solid winner over West Virginia and just as solid a loser to Texas, learned it may have lost sophomore quarterback Dick Novak for the game at Syracuse. Coach Tom Nugent said Monday X-ray reports on Novak's injured ankle were negative and he won't play Saturday unless the ankle responds to treatment. Novas engineered three touchdowns against West Virginia.

SHADOW OF GUILT

A NEW THRILLER by PATRICK QUENTIN

CHAPTER 12

I found Connie in the library, which had been her father's pride. It was lined with leather-bound books which he had probably bought by the yard.

Connie used it as a sort of shrine, withdrawing there to tap out her directives to her committee or to study her tolerance on child welfare or slum clearance or whatever it was she was currently being informed about. Also, on Sunday afternoons she sat there doing the crossword puzzle in the newspaper supplement.

When I went in, she was sitting in a red leather chair, her gleaming head bent over the puzzle. She had her reading glasses on and a silver pencil in her hand. She glanced up with the utmost composure.

"Hello, dear. Who was a goddess of war in seven letters beginning with B?"

"I haven't the faintest idea," I said.

I knew that she was totally ignorant of what had happened in Don Saxby's apartment, but she wasn't ignorant of all the turmoil and drama which had been going on in our house before I left for Idelwild.

Her habit of reverting to normalcy the moment circumstances made it even remotely possible had always annoyed me. Now, in my state of acute tension, it was infuriating. I sat down opposite her in another of the huge red leather chairs, fighting my anxieties about Eve.

Of course she wouldn't have left town. She'd given me her promise. It was all right and some-how, later on in the evening, I'd be able to slip away to her for a little while.

"Are you sure you don't know, dear?" said Connie. "A goddess of war beginning . . . Oh, well, never mind."

She dropped the pencil, put the magazine section down on a table and took off her glasses. "Well, how was it at Lew's?"

"Okay," I said.

"I've talked to Ala. I'm sure she's going to be sensible. She was tired, she said, so we won't disturb her, but when she comes down, you will talk to her, won't you?"

WHAT IS THE UNIQUE FAIR SECRET?

you?"

"All right," I said. "I am glad it all worked well at Lew's."

There it was. She'd established just any ordinary Sunday afternoon.

I'd been dreading the moment when Ala would come in, but I needn't have. Connie seemed more awkward than Ala, who with a glibness which slightly appalled me, put on a flawless performance of the contrite young girl who had seen the error of her ways.

In half an hour, I'd "talked" to her and Connie had "talked" to her and that was that.

"Well," said Connie when it was all over, "I must say it's a relief that you're being so sensible, dear. Now let's have a drink and celebrate."

We had a drink. Then we had supper prepared by Connie. It was exactly as if Don Saxby had never existed in our lives at all. After supper we all sat around in the living room, being so normal that I could have yelled.

It was almost nine o'clock when the phone in the hall rang. Connie got up to answer it, but I with a jittery premonition that it was Eve, jumped up too and managed to get to the hall ahead of her.

I shut the door and picked up the phone.

"Darling," said Vivien Ryson. "Darling George—tell Chuck he'd better rush right over here if he's going to pick up his brief case and make his plane. I do think he's been a little naughty to spend the entire day with you. He knows how much it means to Mal to have a teeny bit of father-son goings on. But don't bawl the poor boy out. I know what it is. Love, love, love."

I'd never given Chuck the slightest thought since I'd left him sitting on the bottom step of our stairs that morning with his face hidden in his hands; Chuck, to whom Connie had, on "principle," told everything; Chuck, who had been so frighteningly broken by the news; Chuck, who hadn't been with us since nine-thirty in the morning and who apparently hadn't been at the Ryson's either.

I said, "But Vivien, he's not here. He hasn't been here since morning."

"But that's crazy, darling. He only came back from Chicago to be with Ala."

"Wasn't he home at all?"

"Not for a moment. And he got up at the crack of dawn. George, darling, is something wrong between him and Ala?"

"There may be. I wouldn't know."

"Last night he seemed terribly strange. Even Mal noticed it. And then, getting up so early and not being with you . . . But George, his plane leaves at

One condition of her two-year parole on a bad check conviction was that she not associate with another person on parole.

Three weeks ago she married Larry Bascue, 18. Last Friday Bascue was sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined $100 on a car parking charge. He had been on parole.

They are in the same jail, but aren't seeing each other.

Can't Even Give Their Coal Away

BELMONT, Mass. (AP) — A Belmont couple has a weighty problem—how to be rid of 30 tons of coal worth $600.

Mr. and Mrs. David R. Johnson want nothing for the fuel. They say they have tried more than a year to give it away, but even welfare organizations have declined.

The Johnsons purchased the coal for an old heating plant in their 15-room, 1840 residence just before the furnace collapsed and they switched to gas.

"We've got to do something," says Mrs. Johnson. "Somewhere, somebody must want it. We don't."

Back To Jail Because She Wed

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—Betty Joan Gilbert, a 17-year-old parolee, went back to jail Monday because she married.

Middle Belt Has Price Increases

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The North Carolina Middle Belt continued its upward price trend Monday on flue-cured tobacco sales. But there was no noticeable increase in price averages at other North Carolina and Virginia markets.

Quality improved on all belts because of less nondescript offerings. Volume was fairly heavy, especially at larger markets.

The Federal-State Market News Service reported:

Middle Belt — Price averages continued upward. Leaf gained $1-$4 per 100 pounds. Good quality lemon leaf averaged $73, its highest level of the season. No marked changes on smoking leaf, cutters, lugs, primings and nondescript. Quality higher, volume heavy on most markets.

Eastern Belt — Change of $1-$4 per 100, gains and losses equally divided. Volume light to heavy; season's largest offerings of smoking leaf boosted quality.

Old Belt — Declines $1-$4 per 100. Some leaf and nondescript were exceptions to the downward trend.

Many Teachers Ignored The Law

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Thousands of public school teachers in Kansas and Missouri violated a state law Monday.

Missouri Law No. 163.060 reads: "Sept. 28 is Frances E. Willard Day and in every public school in the state of Missouri one-quarter of the school day shall be set apart for instruction relative to the history and benefit of the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors."

The Kansas law is similar.

Miss Willard campaigned for prohibition.

"We undoubtedly had mass violations of the law in this state," said Fred Rausch, assistant attorney general for Kansas.

But Miss Willard's life was discussed by teachers in one school—the Frances E. Willard Grade School in Kansas City.

"It seemed that it was the least we could do," said Principal Thelma Reed.

Juan D. Peron was overthrown as President of Argentina on Sept. 19, 1955.

East Carolina Awards Scholarships To 155 Students

East Carolina College has announced that scholarships of $100 each have been awarded by the college to 155 young men and women who are enrolled as students on the campus this fall.

From a number of applicants they were chosen by such criteria as good scholastic standing, promise of future success, excellent qualities of character and personalities, and need of financial assistance.

Those holding scholarships include 129 high school graduates who have just begun their freshman year and 26 students who entered East Carolina before this fall.

All but three of the recipients are from North Carolina and represent 43 counties in this state. Two are from South Carolina and one from Virginia.

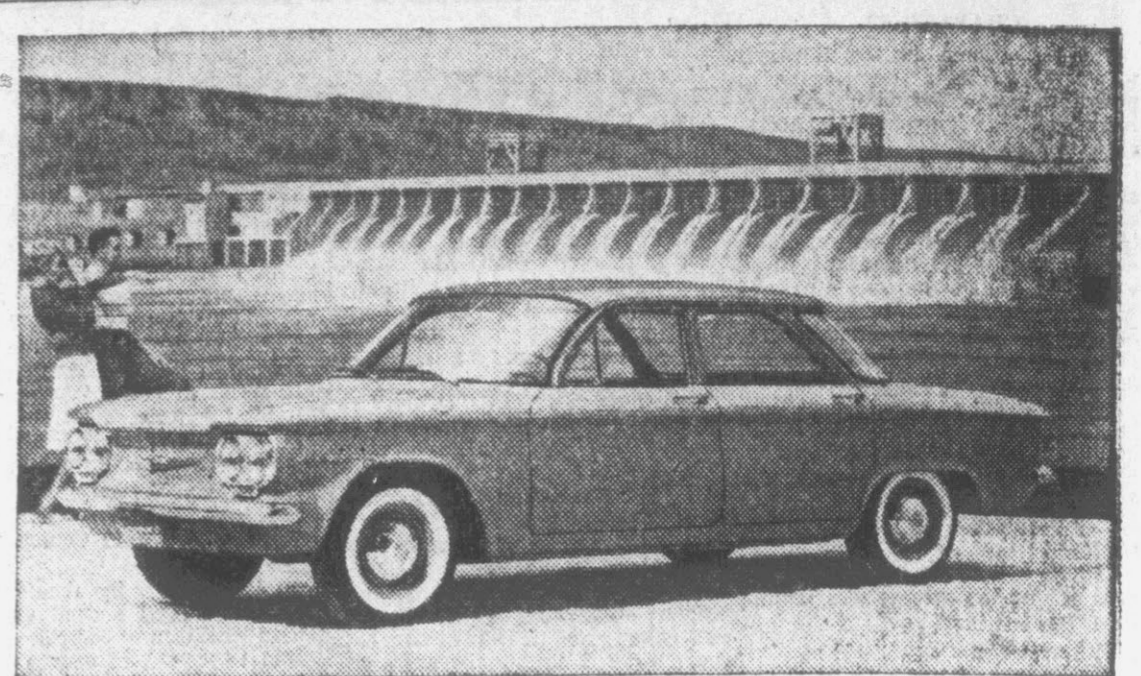

Made available to these students are the Pitt County Foundation Scholarships for East Carolina College and the East Carolina College Resources Scholarships.

Those selected as recipients have been announced by Director of Student Personnel and Placement James H. Tucker. Included in the group are the following:

Phyllis Jane Dudley, Route 1, Box 472, Grifton; Joanne Eagles, 300 Summit Street, Greenville; Betty Lane Evans, Greenville; Shelba D. CHEVROLET'S CORVAIR—An aluminum, air-cooled engine mounted at the rear is among a multitude of mechanical features Chevrolet has originated for its all-new Corvair. A car that seems small only when you park it, the Corvair boasts "big car" roominess and performance due to long-term engineering study of compact design. Low, fleet styling in accord with American tastes, a unique suspension system and unitized body-frame construction are among other features in the six-passenger four-door sedan. All 1960 Chevrolet cars will be on display in dealer showrooms on October 2.

President Planning To Fight Cold In Desert

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is planning to fly to a Western desert area this week, hoping its dry climate will help him shake a nagging cold.

In advance of an expected White House announcement, the Los Angeles Times named the site as the home of George E. Allen in La Quinta, Calif., a desert community about 20 miles southeast of Palm Springs.

The paper said Eisenhower would leave Thursday for a week's stay at La Quinta, but the White House declined to comment on either the time or the place.

Allen is a friend and frequent companion of Eisenhower. They have neighboring farms at Gettysburg, Pa.

Eisenhower visited the Palm Springs area in 1954, spending a week then at Smoke Tree Ranch. He is known to have been hoping for some time to return to that section.

La Quinta once was known as a hideaway for such notables as Sonja Henie and Greta Garbo. About three miles away is the Eldorado Country Club, which has one of 11 golf courses in the Palm Springs-Indio area.

Eisenhower turned up at a news conference Monday with an obvious cold. His voice was hoarse and he said he came back from Europe on Labor Day with the beginnings of a cold.

Despite doctoring of the President reported, the cold clearly was worse than it had been. Newsmen who regularly see him and hear him speak had detected no sign of a cold earlier.

"If I can get five days out in the desert somewhere, in the dry desert, I am going quickly," Eisenhower said. "I always have trouble with bad colds."

A White House source familiar with Eisenhower's current ailment said "it's what doctors call a nagging throat."

The President's doctor, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, is reported convinced that a few days in a dry climate will clear up the cold.

Safety Film To Be Shown Group

A film, "Accidents Just Don't Happen" will be shown at the Pitt County Safety Council meeting here Thursday at 12:30 at Respass Brothers.

In addition to the film shown by Linwood Kilpatrick of the Pitt County Health Department, a Fire Prevention Week program will be given by the Greenville Civic Affairs Committee and the Greenville Fire Department.

All individuals and organizations or businesses interested in safety are invited to attend the meeting and become members of the council.

Why we built two cars for 1960 . . . as different as night and day

On October 2—for the first time in Chevrolet's 49-year history—you will be able to walk into your dealer's showroom and see two totally different kinds of cars. ■ One is the conventional 1960 Chevrolet, brand new in appearance and more beautifully refined and luxurious than you can imagine. ■ The other is unlike any car we or anybody else ever built—the revolutionary Corvair, with the engine in the rear where it belongs in a compact car. ■ We'd like to tell you why we built two such different cars, how we built them—and for whom we built them.

Why two kinds of cars? Because America itself has been going through some big changes in the past few years. Our cities have been straining at their seams. Traffic is jam-packed. Parking space is at a premium.

And our suburbs have spread like wildfire. People are living farther from their work, driving more miles on crowded streets. There is new leisure time—but more things to do. There's a new standard of living—and more need for two cars in the family garage.

In short, America's automobile needs have become so complex that no one kind of car can satisfy them completely. That is why we at Chevrolet, keeping tab on these trends, have had a revolutionary compact car in the planning stages for more than nine years.

Thus, when we decided three years ago to prepare for production of such a car we were ready to build it the way it should be built. There was no need for a hasty "crash" program that would create only a sawed-off version of a conventional car.

That is why the two cars you will see in your dealer's showroom October 2 will be two entirely different kinds of cars. One is the conventional '60 Chevrolet—brand new in beauty, with new space inside, new spirit under the hood, a new feeling of sumptuousness and luxury never before attained by any car in its field. There is great V8 power linked with new thrift, plus Chevrolet's superb 6-cylinder engine. It is a traditional car that comes even closer to perfection—in silence, in room, in ease of control, in velvety ride—than any other car we have ever made.

The other is the Corvair, a compact car that is astonishingly different from anything ever built in this country. It has to be—because this is a passenger compact car, with a really remarkable performance . . . a car designed specifically to American standards of comfort, to American traffic needs.

The engine is in the rear. Among the basic advantages resulting from this engine location are better traction on a compact 105-inch wheelbase and a practically flat floor. But to be placed in the rear, the engine had to be ultra light and ultra short. So Corvair's engine is totally new—mostly aluminum and air cooled; it weighs about 40 per cent less than conventional engines. It is a "flat" horizontally opposed six—so it is only three cylinders long . . . and that leaves a lot more room for passengers.

Another weight saving: like modern airplanes, the Corvair has no frame; the body-shell supplies it great structural strength . . . it's a welded unit that is virtually rattle-free.

The ride is fantastic. But to get it we had to design independent suspension at every wheel; conventional springing would give a compact car a choppy ride. Right now we'll make one prediction: no other U.S. compact car will ride so comfortably, hold the road so firmly and handle so beautifully.

Now there are two kinds of cars from Chevrolet—because it takes two kinds of cars to serve America's needs today. If you love luxury—the utmost in luxury—and if you want generous interior space, breath-taking performance, automatic drives and power assists—then the conventional '60 Chevrolet may be your choice.

If easy parking, traffic agility and utmost economy are high on your list—then you should seriously consider the Corvair. But the best thing to do is to look these two new cars over at your Chevrolet dealer's . . . take them out for a drive. It may be that the only logical choice for your family between two cars like this is—both. They make a perfect pair.

No Worries For This Lost Boy

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Three-year-old Ronald Falone of Dormont was lost for about three hours Monday causing the usual worry to both his parents and neighbors.

But Ronnie was far from worried.

Ronnie was found sound asleep on a trolley. He was taken to a Pittsburgh police station where officers filled him with ice cream, taffy apples and cookies.

When the lad was finally united with his nearly frantic parents, all he could say was that he wanted to "go back to the cops."

Third Belt Of Radiation Found Girdling Earth

WASHINGTON (AP) — A third belt of intense radiation around the earth has been discovered by America's paddle wheel satellite.

The new radiation belt is closer to the earth than the two previously discovered Van Allen belts and it is not as thick.

The outermost Van Allen belt—they are named for their discoverer, Dr. James Van Allen of the University of Iowa—extends from 8,000 miles to 12,000 miles above the earth.

The second Van Allen belt starts at 1,400 miles and extends to 3,400 miles.

These belts loop out into space from the magnetic poles of the earth. At each pole there is an open area, and it has been theorized that space ships could safely reach outer space through these holes above the poles.

NASA scientists also disclosed that the paddle wheel satellite, Explorer VI, has radioed back the first crude picture of the earth taken from a space satellite.

One of the satellite's three radios has stopped working, but the other two are sending back much valuable information, NASA said.

The paddle wheel moon is named for its four paddle-shaped vanes that collect sunlight and convert it to electricity to operate the radios and instruments. It was launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., Aug. 7 and is expected to stay up for about two years.

Safety Steps If Hurricane Is Due

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — You're a resident of an exposed coastal area. There's a hurricane coming, an "extremely dangerous" one. What do you do?

Here are a few precautions suggested by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, and put into effect by coastal residents awaiting Hurricane Gracie today:

- 1. Get away from beaches and the low areas which may be swept by high water.
2. Put shutters in place, fasten securely.
3. Raise and tie awnings securely or remove them entirely. Fasten loose objects, such as garbage cans, porch furniture, and signs.
4. Brace doors against wind.
5. Have flashlights or other emergency lighting ready.
6. Be careful of fires at all times.

At Myrtle Beach, where several hurricanes have been felt in the past, the city fathers had standby power generators ready. They were to go into action, replacing the normal power source, at any time the wind reached hurricane force of 75 miles an hour.

E. A. Anthony, Myrtle Beach civil defense director, explained that this is a safeguard against live power lines being blown down.

On the Isle of Palms, Mayor Salvador Sotillo said the regular disaster plan was put into effect Monday night.

"We'll blow the sirens, then go around for a door-to-door check asking everybody to leave," he said.

All schools in Charleston County were expected to close today, and many others in the storm area.

On the Isle of Palms, Mayor Salvador Sotillo said the regular disaster plan was put into effect Monday night.

College YMCA Activities Begin

The YMCA of East Carolina College, under the leadership of President Eric Vernelson of Route 1, Harrells, has launched its annual membership drive and begun work on a number of projects for the school year.

Joint meetings of the YMCA and the YMCA have been planned for the first and the third Thursday of each month during the 1959-1960 term, Vernelson has announced.

Paper can now be made from all cellulose fibers which come from wood, linen, paper, rayon, etc. But, in 1955 wood pulp and waste paper comprised 96 per cent of the raw material for new paper.

Under and by virtue of power of sale contained in that certain deed of trust executed by E. L. Baker and wife, Joan D. Baker, to Milton C. Williamson, Trustee, on the 18th day of April, 1959, appearing of record in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County in Book Y-30 at page 286, default having been made in the indebtedness secured therein, the undersigned Trustee will offer for cash and sell at public auction for the court house door in Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina, on Wednesday, the 14th day of October, 1959, at 12 noon the following described lands, to-wit:

That certain lot or parcel of land situate, lying and being in the City of Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina, on the east side of Ridgeway Street, between Broad and Short Streets, and beginning at a stake on the east side of Ridgeway Street 150 feet northerly from the northeast corner of the intersection of Short and Ridgeway Streets at the northwest corner of Lot No. 9 in Block "D" of the Ridgeway Subdivision, as shown on map of said subdivision of record in Map Book 1 at page 71 in the Pitt County Registry, and running thence in an easterly direction at right angles to Ridgeway Street and with the northern boundary line of Lots Nos. 9, 10, 11 and 12 in Block "D," 160.5 feet to the southwest corner of Lot No. 17 in said block; thence in a northerly direction and parallel with Ridgeway Street and with the western boundary line of said Lot No. 17, 30 feet to a stake; thence in a westerly direction parallel with Short Street 160.5 feet to the eastern boundary of Ridgeway Street; thence in a southerly direction with the eastern boundary of Ridgeway Street, 30 feet to the beginning and being the southern half of Lot No. 18 in Block "S" of the Ridgeway Subdivision, map of which is recorded in Map Book 1 at page 71 in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, and being the same lot conveyed to J. B. Creech and wife by James A. Lancaster et al by deed recorded in Book M-29 at page 288, and the same conveyed to R. R. Forrest by Stuart Page, and the same conveyed by R. R. Forrest to E. L. Baker et ux.

Purchaser will be required to deposit 10% of bid on day of sale pending confirmation.

This 11th day of September, 1959. MILTON C. WILLIAMSON, Trustee. Milton C. Williamson, Atty. Sept. 15-22-29 Oct. 6

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Motors and steels paced a continued stock market rally early this afternoon. Trading was heavier than Monday.

Key stocks advanced from fractions to more than a point.

Chrysler, which has been backward lately, spurred well over 2 points.

Rails joined industrials in the advance which was based to some extent, brokers said, on anticipation that the federal government would intervene in the steel strike and get the mills back into operation.

The rally brought moderate gains to oils, tobaccos, aircrafts, rubbers, chemicals and some non-ferrous metals.

The market was a bit higher from the start than widened its gains under the leadership of automotive stocks and steels.

The continued upward drive surprised some analysts who looked for a pause following the four previous sessions of rebound.

American Motors dropped more than a point. Studebaker-Packard, besieged by buyers, rose more than 1 1/2 as did General Motors.

Among the steels, Lukens was up more than 2 for a while then chopped the gain to a fraction. Youngstown Sheet and Bethlehem were about a point higher.

Reynolds Metals rose more than 2. Southern Pacific about 2 and Texaco well over a point.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up $1.50 to $2.90 with the industrials up $2.00, the rails up $1.50 and the utilities up 30 cents.

Government bonds drifted lower.

Algerian Rebel Offer Spurned

PARIS (AP)—The outlook for an early end to the bitter Algerian rebellion appeared as gloomy as ever today.

A rebel proposal to meet with President Charles de Gaulle failed to draw any immediate response from the French President. First unofficial reaction was hostile.

The provisional rebel government announced Monday it is ready to discuss a ceasefire and details of De Gaulle's promise of self-determination for Algeria's nine million Moslems. They said there could be an early peace.

The carefully worded statement was in reply to De Gaulle's Sept. 16 declaration spelling out a new course for the rebellious North African territory.

The French leader promised a referendum in Algeria not later than four years after the end of fighting. He said the Moslems could choose either independence, integration with France or limited autonomy.

De Gaulle had asserted in his declaration he would not discuss Algeria's future with what he described as a "group of ambitious agitators"—the rebel government.

Some observers feel the rebel proposals will be totally unacceptable to De Gaulle. They look for a continuation of the war until the rebels are defeated. Others see little possibility of a military victory.

The rebel response to De Gaulle's declaration was moderate in tone. The communists said that "while reaffirming its will to battle until national liberation, the provisional government of the Algerian republic declares that it will neglect no occasion to give every opportunity for peace."

Peiping Applauds Russian Premier's Tour Of U.S.

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China today applauded the results of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's American tour. In warm words of praise it predicted an easing of world tensions.

Khrushchev himself was scheduled to fly to Peiping today for the celebration of the 10th anniversary of the Communist victory on the Chinese mainland. He sent an advance message hailing the Red Chinese revolution as one of history's great events and pledging eternal friendship between Moscow and Peiping.

The official Peiping People's Daily said Khrushchev's visit to America "without doubt will have a positive effect on the cause of world peace."

"World public opinion is fully justified in highly evaluating this visit. The Chinese people rejoice in comrade Khrushchev's success," the government organ said.

Ta Kung Pao, another Peiping daily reflecting official views, expressed "immense delight" over the trip. It said the Soviet Premier had made a positive contribution to the peaceful settlement of international disputes.

Peiping radio broadcast most comments. It was by far Peiping's most positive endorsement of the Eisenhower-Khrushchev meeting. Previously the Chinese media had been considered cool, reportedly disliking the possibility that U.S. and Soviet officials would discuss Asian problems without Peiping officials being present.

CONSERVATIVE—British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan heads the Conservative Party which seeks to retain control of Parliament in upcoming election.

Cool View For Debate On Tibet

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N.'s 21-nation steering committee is expected to act quickly on an Irish-Malaya call for a General Assembly debate on Red Chinese oppression in Tibet. But the move is getting a cool reception even from many non-Communists.

Ireland and Malaya requested Monday night that the Tibetan question be added to the Assembly's agenda. The Irish expressed confidence the committee would approve despite opposition from the Communists.

Neutralist and some colonial nations. They feel only the Reds will actually vote against a debate.

A U.S. spokesman said earlier the United States would welcome U.N. debate on the Tibetan question.

A confidential memorandum accompanying the request was said to cite a message from the Dalai Lama, fugitive ruler of Tibet, declaring that the Chinese Reds are trying to wipe out the Tibetan people.

If the steering committee approves the request for debate, the Irish have ready a resolution calling for respect for the "fundamental human rights of the Tibetan people and restoration of their civil and religious liberties."

Neutralist nations oppose a debate on Tibet because they feel it will only heighten East-West tensions.

Last Rites Set For Mrs. Gus E. Forbes

Mrs. Mary Emma Forbes, widow of Gus E. Forbes, died at her home on the Falkland Highway, near Greenville, Monday night at 9:45 o'clock. She had been in failing health for two years and critically ill for the past two weeks. She was 68.

Funeral services will be held at the home Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock by her pastor, the Rev. W. M. Howard Jr., assisted by the Rev. Henry G. Ruark, Methodist minister of Laurinburg. Burial will be in the Forbes family cemetery at the home.

Mrs. Forbes, daughter of the late William and Sallie Newton Clark, was born in Clarksville, Va. and came to Pitt County in 1900. She attended East Carolina College and taught school in Goldsboro for three years. She was married to Mr. Forbes in 1913, and he died August 4, 1951. Mrs. Forbes was a member of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Surviving are two sons, Harold Forbes of Greenville and Dr. Gus Forbes of Laurinburg; four grandchildren; four sisters, Mrs. H. L. Davis and Mrs. Milton Wright of Plymouth, Miss Allie Clark of the home, and Mrs. H. C. Smith of Falkland; and a brother, R. E. Clark of South Boston, Va.

Explorer Scout Communications Plan Is Set Up

Explorer Scouts with emergency training will be mobilized in Greenville for the present hurricane alert, according to an announcement today by scout officials.

Should local people need aid, an emergency phone will be set up at 206 Pitt Street. The number is Plaza 2-2998.

Scouts will also set up a number of short wave radio stations which will be used to pass official messages or a priority basis and "welfare" message for the public to other parts of the United States and Canada as soon as possible. These messages will be handled free as a public service if phone lines become clogged or go out. Such messages must contain the address and phone number of the sender and receiver and the text must be as brief as possible. Messages may be sent to the above phone number or address.

Two Accidents On City Streets Checked Monday

Two wrecks were investigated in Greenville yesterday afternoon, with only minor damage reported in either case.

Cars operated by Walter Leon Williams, 209 N. Library St. and Jessie Jones Baker, 28, 1806 Dickerson Ave., collided at the intersection of Sunset Ave. and Hill section Drive causing an estimated $40 damage to the Williams car and an estimated $50 damage to the Baker auto.

The second collision occurred on Ninth St. in front of McGowan's Warehouse.

A car operated by C. H. McGowan, 403 East Eighth St., and one driven by Evelyn Swindell Ward, addresses not listed, collided, causing an estimated $75 to the Swindell car. No damage was reported to the McGowan auto.

Injuries were reported and no arrests were made in either case, officers noted.

Motor Carriers Announce Grant

PINEHURST — Staying abreast and meeting demands of the state's ever-expanding economy of the state, the North Carolina Motor Carriers Association today announced the grant of $25,000 to the University of North Carolina School of Business Administration.

In his report to the delegates attending the 30th anniversary NCMCA Convention of NCMCA, President Paul H. Johansen of Charlotte, said the grant is known as the "North Carolina Motor Carriers Association Graduate Research Fund," for transportation research.

In the annual meeting here at the Carolina, the delegates heard Johansen warmly thank his committee and NCMCA staff members for their past year's work. In touching on the growth of the association, Mr. Johansen pointed out that the NCMCA, with a membership of over 7400, is still maintaining its position as the leading state truck association in the nation.

Children Helped Find Live Bombs

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Barksdale Air Force Base officials, with the aid of children, have found 16 live bombs dropped by British pilots while training at the base during 1941-42.

Officials said Monday the bombs were of the 25-pound fragmentary type carried in clusters under the wings of British dive bombers in World War II.

Children of base personnel playing in an old target area Sunday found two bombs and took them home. A check revealed the bombs were live.

Officials then ordered a search of the area and 14 more were found. The hunt will continue.

'Slight' Damage In House Fire

Greenville firemen were called to Brookgreen and Longmeadow Road at 10:35 this morning when a house, belonging to Royce Honeycutt, on Middleton Place, caught fire.

According to Assistant Fire Chief Berry Sumrell, the fire apparently originated from an exhaust fan in the kitchen and spread to the attic.

Chief George Gardner said damage to the dwelling was "slight." Firemen had the fire under control a few minutes after they arrived on the scene, Gardner said. High pressure fog lines were used to extinguish the blaze, he added.

Castro To Probe 2 U.S. Plants

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro said Monday night his government will investigate the concessions held by two major American-owned nickel and cobalt producing operations in Cuba.

The prime minister's remarks aroused speculation that he wants a bigger share of the profits from the two plants, or even might be thinking about taking over the two operations.

They are the Moa Bay Mining Co., a subsidiary of the Freeport Sulphur Co., and the Nicaro Nickel plant, owned by the U.S. government. Both are in eastern Cuba.

Highest Day For Local Leaf Mart

Greenville Tobacco Market posted its highest average of the season yesterday at $61.13 per hundred pounds.

The market sold 1,315,846 pounds of tobacco for $804,366.84.

Sales Supervisor W. L. Whebede said high prices are continuing on today's sale.

"Yesterday there were more company purchases of tobacco for $85 than on any other day during this entire year," Whebede said.

He also noted that a larger number of farmers averaged between $70 and $80 for their offerings than at any time during this year.

Yesterday more complete rows of tobacco sold for over $71 than at any time during the year, a sales supervisor declared.

"Yesterday was truly a record-breaking day for the Greenville Tobacco Market as far as high prices were concerned," he said.

Belgian King To Meet Elizabeth

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—King Baudoin of Belgium will meet Queen Elizabeth this weekend at Balmoral, a call expected to remove any coolness that may still remain between the British and Belgian royal houses.

Baudoin was the only European sovereign who stayed away from the funeral in 1952 of Elizabeth's father, King George VI. The feeling was that the young Belgian was resentful because King George was known to have disapproved of ex-King Leopold's capitulation to the Germans in World War II. Leopold is Baudoin's father.

Step Up Their Mosquito War

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—Anxious public officials in southern New Jersey stepped up antimosquito efforts today with the knowledge that encephalitis has probably claimed 12 lives.

The total number of suspected encephalitis cases has risen to 22 in an area covering the counties of Atlantic, Burlington, Cape May, Cumberland and Ocean.

State Health Department officials are trying to determine where suspected victims were when they were struck.

Apparently, mosquitoes contract the disease from birds and give it to both horses and humans. Not all mosquitoes are carriers—just the comparatively rare culex melanurus.

Spraying is continuing throughout the danger area.
