CHARLESTON, S.C. — (AP) — Tropical storm Gracie, no longer a hurricane, plodded slowly across western North Carolina today.

Locally, Little Effect From That Hurricane

Hurricane Gracie proved to be no more than a usual storm last night and today with winds reaching only 25 miles per hour.

50 miles northwest of Charlotte. Her path was northward at about 12 miles an hour, but she appeared turning more northeastward and was expected to pick up forward speed as she moves across Virginia this afternoon and early tonight.

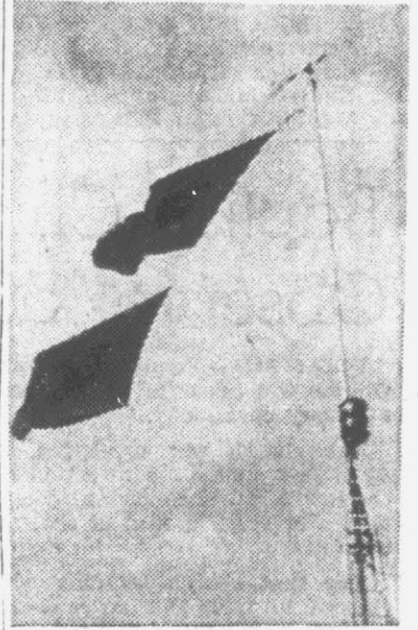

The storm swirled ashore in the Charleston area yesterday morning with winds estimated up to 140 miles an hour, mountainous waves, high tides and torrents of rain.

She wrought damage all along the coast from Savannah, Ga., to Myrtle Beach, S.C. and moved inland to slash lowland communities along a 100-mile path.

Mrs. Mildred Andrews Bullard, 49, of Sanford, N.C., killed on a rain-swept highway near Charlotte, N.C.

William M. McCallum, 33, of Rt. 1, Carlisle, S.C., killed west of Chester when his car ran off wet highway.

All over the Carolinas and in border Georgia areas balmy Indian summer dissolved into heavy rain and cool, strong winds.

Ike Sets Oct. 8 Deadline For Steel Peace

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today set an apparent deadline of Oct. 8 for progress toward settlement in the steel strike.

Steelworkers. He called on them to renew negotiations looking toward a voluntary settlement of the 78-day-old strike that would be fair and just to everyone concerned.

Hagerty said no government action whatsoever was discussed by the President. The press secretary was asked whether Eisenhower hoped for progress in negotiations by Oct. 8 or a completed agreement by then.

Hagerty replied that he thinks Eisenhower's hope that "an agreement can be initiated" by Oct. 8 was a fairly broad expression.

But neither side indicated much chance in their far-apart positions as a result of their talks with the President. The President was due to leave later today for a rest at Palm Springs, Calif. He is due back Oct. 8.

Nikita Tells Mao Keep Asian Peace

Delivered against the background of Peiping's crushing of the Tibet rebellion, its border dispute with India and the Red revolt in Laos, the planeside talk sounded like a pointed suggestion to Mao to keep the peace in Asia.

Baptist Church To Observe 50th Year

FOUNTAIN—Fountain Baptist Church will celebrate its 50th anniversary on Sunday.

The church was organized in April 1909, under the direction of the Rev. N. H. Shepherd, with one man and seven ladies as charter members.

The first church building was erected in 1910, and all worship services were held in this building until 1952 when it was sold to Negro Primitive Baptist Church and moved to the new location. Services were then held in the new brick structure which had been erected on the original site.

This building was dedicated on Nov. 21, 1954. In 1956 plans were made to build a pastor's home. This was completed and dedicated in 1958.

On Sunday, Sept. 13, the church was called in conference and voted to go on a full-time basis and to extend a call to the Rev. Horace T. Thompson of Mars Hill Baptist Church. Thompson accepted the call and will be on the field to begin services on the third Sunday in October.

The morning services will be led by the Rev. John A. Davis. The message will be brought by the Rev. R. L. West. Among other former pastors assisting in the service will be the Rev. Roy Keller and the Rev. J. E. Kirk.

Following the morning services, dinner will be served on the church grounds. All former pastors, as well as former members and interested friends, are invited to be present at the service and dinner.

A thorough eye examination now may save years of heartache. Stop in with your school-agers. Enjoy the peace of mind that comes with knowing they see well enough to do well.

Children "outgrow" glasses just as they outgrow clothes. If your child's prescription has not been checked recently—or his glasses adjusted... be sure and stop in before school starts.

Room For Still More Scholarships

Many different things go into building a major educational institution and not the least of them is the provision for scholarships that can be made available to deserving young men and women.

It was only a few years ago that East Carolina College, recognizing its deficiency in the number of scholarships it could make available each year, appealed to its alumni and other supporters to provide funds that could be used for such purposes.

This week it was announced that $100 scholarships have been awarded to 155 students at ECC from the Pitt County Foundation Scholarships for East Carolina College and the East Carolina College Resources Scholarships. The scholarships to these 155 students are in addition to scholarships at ECC which are made available annually by individuals, firms and organizations.

While these scholarships of $100 each may seem small by some standards, the 155 awarded for this school year from the two funds represented $15,500 provided in scholarships to these students. In some cases the $100 scholarship may mean the difference between a young man or woman being able to attend college and not being able to attend.

In every case, these scholarships represent an investment in a higher education for a young person, and there are few investments which can return a better dividend than that of educating the youth of a community, a state or a broad area.

The program of scholarships at East Carolina College has made great strides in recent years because of the efforts of college officials and because of the response to their appeals by supporters of ECC and of higher education. In spite of this progress, however, the need for scholarship funds available for students at East Carolina College has not nearly been met. Many more thousands of dollars annually could be used profitably by the college and by prospective students through scholarships. Compared with other institutions of its size and smaller, ECC has extremely limited funds available to provide scholarships. In many instances this handicaps the college in attracting talented students in various fields who are attracted to other institutions simply because they need financial assistance to complete their education and other schools can better provide that assistance.

Those interested in the progress of East Carolina College have every reason to be proud of the strides which have been made in providing scholarships at the college, but they should also realize that steps which already have been taken should represent only a beginning. Much more is needed.

The Annual Class Trip

If the weather didn't deter them, and it would take a lot of bad weather to do it at this late date, a party of fifteen students left Grimesland High this morning on an annual pilgrimage.

You'd think they were going to Mecca; but that isn't the case. It's the annual class trip to New York City.

"Why did you pick New York?" I asked my favorite GHS seniors. "Why didn't you pick New Orleans, or Key West, or Havana?"

"We always go to New York," says Elizabeth with a heavy accent on the "always". So that was that. Tradition counts.

Class trips are nothing new to schools in this part of the country, and parental approval seems to be so automatic that I know now my high school classmates and I missed out on a good thing when we had our chance.

"Well, what are you going to see and do in New York?" was the next obvious question. "Mount Vernon and the Washington Monument," began Jacqueline.

"My eyebrows rose to the bait. 'But they're in Washington!'" "I know," says Jackie. "We stop there too."

"And in New York, we're going to take a tour of the city."

To which Elizabeth added a few details:

"The tower of the Empire State Building, a visit to the Statue of Liberty, Chinatown, Wall Street, Harlem, the Battery, New York Harbor, Fifth Avenue, Central Park, a Broadway play, Rockefeller Center, Radio City Music Hall, the Bronx Zoo, maybe a rodeo and tickets to a TV show."

When are they going to leave the Big City?

On Monday, October 5. They expect to roll into Grimesland that same day not later than 10:15 p.m.

All this sounds pretty much like the itinerary of any number of sightseers from eastern North Carolina schools. For the sake of availability and simplicity I suppose some standardized format is necessary.

Needless to say, the kids are under close adult supervision. The Grimesland crowd, for instance, has almost as many parents and teachers going along as there are students.

As previously indicated, parents and teachers seem anxious for their charges to get a first-hand look at the world outside. It helps break the bonds of provincialism at an age when I thought the rest of the world was in orbit around my own little part of the country.

Parents Really Find Out

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Every minor's parent has a major problem.

Parenthood is so sudden — at least from the father's viewpoint. One moment life is just a wild, wild shared snuff of the rosebud or lilac bush, a whisper together in summer under a tawny moon. So it is to him.

Then—bingo! A husband is a father. There is posterity. This is what comes from marriage. It is bad enough when the nurse calls you to a hospital window and points at a bundle of blob and says, "You belong to it!"

The blob grows older in public—and squirms. It is yours and you cannot ask for a new deal. You try to be blasé about it. It haunts you like a bright shadow. You know you have to feed it, but every time you feed it, it gets even bigger.

By the time you get used to calling it by its first name, it quits crawling and starts lollygagging around the place on its own two feet as if it owned the place.

Then it goes to nursery school, and when you ask it what you're getting for your money it sucks its thumb, which it did before it went to nursery school.

Next it goes to kindergarten and is the class of the crowd. If you just say "Hello" to it, well it starts declaiming:

"The little toy dog is covered with dust."

"By sturdy and staunch it stands."

Until now it—your offspring—is only going by memory. Then you send it to the first grade. That is the big mistake.

A child starts going to first grade at midnight before the opening day. It dreams nightmares. At dawn it is like a tiger. You cannot hold it back.

The second day and every day after that it is like a pretzel. It has to be bent into its pants, its sweater and each shoe, one after the other.

Meanwhile, the thing claims it has learned to read.

"The cat saw the rat," it leers. "And the dog saw the cat."

Then it hands you a copy of "War and Peace" by Tolstol and demands, "Tell me the rest of the story."

Triumphantly it lolls back in your arms like so much melted butter, as you try to stuff it into its clothing so that it can face new victories in the first grade.

And it has to get there on time, though all else in the world end. This is the desperate major problem of a parent of a minor in our time.

"The cat saw the rat," it leers again. "And the dog saw the cat."

The echoing bus bears it away. And it's on a round trip.

Rank And File Do The Choosing

By LYNN NISBET

BATTLE — The 1956 gubernatorial primary was in many respects a decisive battle between factions in the Democratic party. Clyde Hoey had been a recognized candidate for a decade or more. A.H. (Sandy) Graham, Lieutenant Governor and former Speaker of the House of Representatives, had announced his candidacy the previous year. A contest was shaping up between them, when Ralph McDonald, who had captured popular imagination with his fight against the sales tax in the 1955 Legislature, threw a monkey wrench into the machinery. The ensuing primary campaign was as bitter and hard fought as any in history.

Graham was eliminated in the first round. So was John A. McRae, who barely scored as an also ran. Hoey led with 193,972 votes, followed by McDonald with 189,504. In the run-off Hoey won by a margin of 52,000. There were charges then, as there had been in 1950, that vote-counting rather than vote-casting provided the lead. In neither instances could there be any doubt about the second primary winner. Only question had to do with which of the two high men would be required to call the run-off.

FREE FOR ALL — The 1940 campaign was a veritable free-for-all with seven candidates entering the primary—J.M. Broughton, Tom Cooper, Paul Grady, Lee Gravelly, Wilkins Horton, Allen Maxwell and Arthur Simmons. Cooper, Grady and Simmons were never rated real contenders. The other four set up fully staffed headquarters and waged vigorous campaigns. Maxwell had been running since 1932, Horton and Broughton for at least two years. Gravelly was a relative new comer entrant. All of them were "in good standing" with the potent leaders of the dominant faction, and each had reason to expect support of the "Shelby dynasty."

In the showdown that support was divided and first primary voting gave Broughton 147,386; Horton 105,916, and Maxwell 102,095. The combined vote of the other four was 104,999. Horton decided not to call for run-off and Broughton was conceded the nomination with 31 1/2 percent of the total primary vote.

NO CONTEST — The 1944 primary hardly rated the designation of a real contest. Clyde Hoey was running for the Senate, so the "Shelby crowd" accepted Gregg Cherry as a candidate for Governor. He was challenged by Ralph McDonald, who had been defeated by Hoey in 1936. Also in that race and getting the full complement of 2,069 votes was Olla Ray Boyd. Cherry was nominated in the smallest primary vote since woman suffrage. One reason for the small total, only 321,757, was that so many men were in military service and did not vote in the primary.

UPSET — Then came another history-making primary, the upset of 1948. Charles M. Johnson had been a potential candidate for years, and as late as January of 1948 he and his friends thought, pricked that balloon by surprise he was a shoo-in. Kerr Scott entered in February. Also there were four others on the ticket—Mayne Albright, Oscar Barker, Olla Ray Boyd and William Stanley. Their combined vote was less than 100,000. John led the first round 170,141 to 161,293 for Scott. In the run-off Scott won the nomination 217,520 to 182,664. The 1948 election did more to upset the belief that Governors are picked in advance than any other event in recent years—although there are other instances supporting the negation of the theory.

KNOCK-OUT — It had been apparent for a long time that William Umstead would seek the governorship. The time came in 1952. Just when it looked like he might move in with as little trouble as Gardner did in 1928, or Cherry in 1944, Judge Hubert Olive entered with full backing of Governor Scott.

Again factional lines were crossed, because Olive and Umstead belong to the same school of political philosophy. Umstead won by 294,170 to 265,675, with a third candidate Dunaway getting 4,660 votes.

The 1956 primary was purely perfunctory. Governor Hodges was seeking a full elective term in his own right, after serving 18 months as chief executive following the death of Governor Umstead in November of 1954. He received 401,082 votes against a total for the other three entrants—Earle, Sawyer and Stokely—of 65,572.

UP TO NOW — That brings us up to now and the desire of many voters to have somebody tell them who to bet on and vote for Governor in 1960. A review of political history will prove that nobody can give such assurance. Except for the 1956 primary when Luther Hodges got 86 percent of the total vote, and 1940 when J.M. Broughton got less than 32 percent, successful candidates have won by margins ranging from less than 51 to 60 percent.

The highly gratifying aspect of this record is that the rank and file of North Carolina voters choose their public officials. Even in the balmy days of the "Simmons machine" and the "Gardner influence" no little clique had the power to hand-pick governors or senators. There hasn't been a primary in which a switch of about five percent of the voters could not have produced a different result.

Who will be on the ballot next year for Governor is at this time uncertain. The certain lesson to be learned from history is that each voter must pick what wagon he wants to ride. There is no boss, individual or factional clique, with authority to assign a seat on the vehicle which can be guaranteed to get to the end of the road first.

Experience Helped To Keep The Losses Down

Residents of coastal North Carolina, battered eight times by hurricanes in the past five years, can sympathize with people of the Charleston area and the South Carolina coast who took the brunt of Gracie's stiff punch yesterday.

Along the South Carolina coast there was extensive property damage and some loss of life as the hurricane with 140 mile winds swept into historic Charleston. Farther up the coast along the beaches of North Carolina, damage was relatively slight, resulting mostly from the backwash of the big blow.

For what it's worth, perhaps there is some consolation in the fact that the coastal areas of both the Carolinas were prepared about as well as they could be for the tremendous force which Gracie unleashed. In the years since 1949 the coastal areas of the two states have gained a healthy respect for the gigantic storms which bear charming feminine names. Residents of the area have learned through bitter experiences what to do when a hurricane is on its way. Civil Defense teams have come to know what to expect and how to cope with the unexpected. And by no means least, weather information on the movement of such storms has become much more complete and much more reliable affording coastal residents ample warning to prepare for the storms.

There is nothing the people of the hurricane-ravaged areas can do to prevent the storms that batter them, but at least they have learned a great deal about how to cope with the situation when it is upon them, thus keeping losses to a minimum.

Tops Among The Foxy Grandpas

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world's No. 1 foxy grandpa is Nikita Khrushchev.

He dreamed up a crisis and then, at no cost to him, got one thing after another he wanted. President Eisenhower's news conference Monday added the latest chapter to the Soviet chief's saga of success.

Take it step by step and see how he did it.

For a long time he talked of the need for relaxing the cold war so he could build up the Soviet Union at home. He said one way to do it would be at a summit conference with President Eisenhower and the leaders of Britain and France.

Particularly he wanted to talk with Eisenhower. The President wouldn't agree. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was calling the shots on American foreign policy then.

Then suddenly last November Khrushchev out of nowhere created a crisis over West Berlin.

Everything that has happened since can be traced back to that beginning.

He demanded that the Allies get their troops out of West Berlin where they had been stationed since World War II. He wanted Berlin made a free city. He picked a tender spot.

West Berlin has always been in a precarious position, so far as the West's ability to help it and defend it goes. Its lies are with West Germany but it is 110 miles inside Communist East Germany.

Its supplies from West Germany have to move by train and truck through East Germany, which means they could be pinched off any time the Soviets who control the supply routes, wanted to prevent their getting through.

The Allies were given six months or until May 27—to get their troops out. The Soviets said if by that time the Allies hadn't agreed to a reasonable settlement, control of the supply routes would be turned over to the East Germans.

They could—but of course they wouldn't without the Soviet go-ahead—shut them off. If the Allies tried to bully their way through, the Soviet Union would then help the East Germans. The result might be war.

So Khrushchev had made a threat. To succeed to a summit conference under such terms would look like submitting to blackmail.

Khrushchev kept saying there was no threat. He even said the deadline could be extended well beyond May 27. The West argued before there is a summit meeting, let's have a foreign ministers meeting.

Khrushchev insisted only a summit meeting could settle anything but he let the ministers meet.

Eisenhower said there would have to be some sign of progress at the ministers' meeting before he would agree to go to a summit get-together. The foreign ministers got nowhere.

What worried the West was this: Once it was plain the ministers were stalled, no one could tell whether Khrushchev might crack down on Berlin. He proposed he and Eisenhower exchange visits.

Eisenhower agreed, even though the ministers had made no progress and Khrushchev had made no concessions. So long as Khrushchev was here, of course, there would be no showdown on Berlin. And talks with him might even avoid one.

So Khrushchev had won a round. He and Eisenhower met. And Monday the President indicated there could now be a summit meeting.

But Khrushchev had made a threat about Berlin. But that is exactly what Khrushchev had been saying for months. So that was hardly new.

Eisenhower said there could be negotiations on Berlin, but that he and Khrushchev agreed they would not be unduly prolonged. But Khrushchev had previously said any deadline on Berlin could be extended.

So, while Eisenhower might think Khrushchev had made a threat, Khrushchev had made a threat.

Other Editors Saying.. News About Teen-Agers

(Richmond Times-Dispatch)

A Richmond policeman, who does a twilight job working with juveniles called the other day to tell us about two public dances for teen-agers held at a local hotel last week end.

The policeman, who was present at the affairs, said the dress and behavior of the boys and girls was exemplary. He said some of the youths there previously had been "customers" of his, so to speak, when they had run afoul of the law, but that their conduct at the dances was excellent.

Some of the young people, he went on, had come to him suggesting that something be put in the newspapers about the good behavior at the dances. He quoted them as saying that if the dances had turned into brawls with fighting among the youths, the news would have been in the papers.

First off, we'll say that we're happy to hear the good report from the dance, but we are not surprised. The great majority of teen-agers are law-abiding youngsters, and violence when they get together is the exception rather than the rule. Secondly, this is a good opportunity to point out a fact that many young people and their older friends overlook. Contrary to what sometimes appears to be popular misconception, there is far more favorable news about teen-agers in this newspaper—and doubtless in other papers—than there is unfavorable news.

We made an inch by inch check of this paper during a single week earlier this year, after this question had been raised. We found that there were 17,008 inches devoted to news of all kinds. Of this total, 903 inches was devoted to news favorable to juveniles and 315 inches to news that was unfavorable. In percentages, 5 per cent of our total news space was given to good news about juveniles and 1.7 per cent to bad news.

Human nature being what it is, people remember startling, shocking events reported in the press and tend to forget the less exciting pleasant reports. Just the other day, for example, we devoted more than a quarter of a full page to a story and pictures about a 16-year-old Chesterfield county girl who conducted a vacation Bible school in the basement of her home. Many people read that story with interest, we hope, but we wonder how many of them recall that any similar stories when someone remarks that the papers never print anything but bad news about teen-agers?

But don't take our word for it, teen-agers. Keep your own news space tally and see if you don't find a surprising amount of type devoted to the fine achievements of today's young folks.

Strength For Today The Public Forum

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

In Garson Kanin's amusing comedy "Born Yesterday," a coarse, self-made millionaire decides to have his ignorant and uncultured girl friend given a little polish so that she will not disgrace him in public. Of course, as the audience expects, the transformation in her mind and personality raises her right out of his hands and causes the downfall of the underhanded schemes of the millionaire and his dishonest associates.

Transforming people, awakening them to the truth and their relationship to it, is always dangerous. When the new truth dawns, the old half-truths are shown to be falsehoods. When the loftier goal is revealed, the old satisfactions become entirely unsatisfactory. The vision of a better way of life blasts the view right out of the old, predictable way so familiar—and acceptable—to those around him.

Transforming people is a dangerous business. Yet that is exactly what the Christian gospel is doing all the time all over the world. Men and women are being hoisted right out of their old, blind, sinful lives with what is sometimes a terrible jerk on the rope. People who think of religion as a meek, milk-and-water experience simply do not understand what is happening.

The impact of the gospel of Jesus Christ on human lives is a tremendous force—still, in the age of atomic power, the greatest force of all.

Pitt County Mental Health Association

To The Editor: —

Thanks very much for the wonderful editorial appearing in the DAILY REFLECTOR of Saturday, September 26th.

It is indeed unfortunate the staff of the Pitt County Mental Health Clinic has been depleted to its present state. I believe the County Board of Health and the County Commissioners realize the wonderful service that can be rendered by the Pitt County Mental Health Clinic and will go to work immediately to acquire a full staff.

This is very important, not only to Pitt County, but to Eastern North Carolina and can render a tremendous service. Your editorial pointed this out and did a wonderful job of urging the county authorities to replace the staff so that full service might be rendered. Greenville, to me, is definitely a small medical center for we have some wonderful doctors here. The Mental Health phase of treatment certainly should not be neglected and I sincerely hope your editorial will bring results from the county authorities.

Again, many thanks for your great interest.

In Jail Because Of The Costs?

By Elmer Roessner
How many men are wrongfully held in jail because of the high cost of printing?

This is a logical question following a study reported by the American Judicature Society. It found that briefs must be printed for appeals in 18 states, court records in 6. Three of the 11 United States Circuit Courts still require printed briefs.

Since few copies are needed of briefs and the trial record, printing costs are far greater than simpler reproduction methods, the study showed. A New York legislative committee found that from 30 to 50 per cent of the costs of appeals would be saved by allowing mimeographed or offset reproduction of records and briefs. The committee found that such reproduction would be satisfactory.

What effect does the high cost of appeal have on justice? The Public Administration Bulletin, "Upstate New York lawyers surveyed recently called that nearly half the cases they felt should be appealed were dropped because of high appeal costs."

It may be assumed that this applies largely to civil cases. Criminal cases, if the prisoner cannot afford the costs of an appeal, courts generally provide funds. And while the Public Administration Bulletin does not allege that any convicted persons has lost the right to appeal because of high costs, such indeed may be the case under existing regulations.

Take the case of a middle-income person convicted of a felony. Suppose he has a family; suppose that after his conviction he has a few thousand dollars left. Should he drop appeals and leave the money to care for his family, or should he gamble with their subsistence and pay printing costs?

If there aren't such men wrongfully in prison, there could be.

WHERE FAULT LIES
The investigators, Prof. Bertram Wilcox and Ruth Roemer of Cornell, and Prof. Delmar

Karlen, of New York University, said:

"The one simple and sure way to reduce costs without imposing serious burdens on the lawyers and the courts is to concentrate on inexpensive methods of reproductions and briefs."

This seems to imply that the courts and the bar are to blame for the denial of justice in so many cases.

Dissent.

The fault lies with the huge corporations that manufacture mimeographing, offsetting and other duplicating machines. It is their responsibility, since they stand to profit most, to convince legislatures and higher courts that various modern methods of reproducing legal matter is just as satisfactory as the old Johannes (or was it Henne?) Gutenberg system devised just over 500 years ago.

Indeed, these corporations may have a duty to the public to spend as much for lobbies to change the law as the printing industries spend to lobby against change.

Now comes Gerald E. Amerman, president of Clupak, Inc., to announce that his company is promoting Clupak, a new paper invented by Sanford L. Clupak, the one who invented "S... etc." Because of the grave danger of saying paper has been "Clupaked," and of resulting indignant letters from vested interests, we're going to duck the whole thing and never mention "C...etc..K." If Mr. Amerman wants to get into this newspaper, he can get lineate rays from the advertising manager.

Dodgers Edge Braves In Twelfth; Series To Start

Lopez Inks Contract As World Series Opens

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox, eyeing what will be the biggest World Series melon in history, are ready to take on the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Armed with a new contract calling for the highest salary ever paid a White Sox player or manager, Al Lopez feels his team has a great chance for the title. Lopez called Los Angeles "a pretty good ball club with a few guys who can run." He wouldn't say if he thought the Dodgers were faster than his "go go" Sox but said "their catcher (John Roseboro) can run. I saw him steal a base against the Cubs."

Lopez signed a one-year contract calling for an estimated $50,000. The highest paid Sox player is believed to be Nellie Fox who supposedly is receiving around $40,000.

When White Sox president Bill Veeck unveiled a replica of Lopez' contract — a giant-sized board with the terms printed clearly — he was sprayed with questions as to why it was for one year.

Veeck said Lopez could have any tenure he wanted but insisted on only one year.

"They might get tired of me after a year," laughed Lopez.

Veeck tried to rehire Lopez last Aug. 20, Lopez's 51st birthday, but the former catcher said he wanted to wait for the end of the season.

Under Lopez, the White Sox finished second in 1957 and 1958.

Lopez is the only manager who has cracked Casey Stengel's monopoly of Yankee pennants. Lopez won with Cleveland in 1954 but lost four straight in the World Series to the New York Giants.

With Los Angeles winning the pennant, Lopez called off plans for an intrasquad game today. "We'll just take a little batting practice," he said.

Lopez was mum on his opening pitcher but it is expected that sometime today he'll announce it will be Early Wynn, his veteran 22-game winner.

With Los Angeles as the opponent, southpaw Billy Pierce could be a likely starter in the second game. That would give Bob Shaw, the young righthander, the assignment in the third game in Los Angeles.

Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The champion Los Angeles Dodgers moved into Chicago today, ready to take on the White Sox for the world championship.

The Milwaukee Braves, shorn of their National League pennant, headed for their homes.

But the scene in Memorial Coliseum Tuesday as dusk settled was still a vivid memory to the 36,528 fans gathered in the place, and the thousands who watched on television.

Two of the great heroes of the Dodger old guard, first baseman Gil Hodges and outfielder Carl Furillo, were all but dismantled by their teammates as the battle came to its quick end in the 12th inning.

Hodges scored the winning run in the 6 to 5 victory on Furillo's hit back of second base, a tally made possible when Felix Mantilla threw wild to first base.

The entire Dodger team suddenly became one rolling, tangled mass of happy ballplayers.

Silently, in typical Indian single file procession, the Braves walked out of their dugout, down the long tunnel and into their dressing quarters.

They said not a word during the march, and very little as they showered, dressed and took off.

There was no champagne celebration in the Dodgers quarters. For one thing, liquor is barred from the city-owned Coliseum. For another, the team had less than three hours to take off for Chicago.

But there was a joyous interlude. Hodges poured a soft drink over the head of the winning pitcher, young Stan Williams. Then he got on the rubbing table to have his chronically sore leg massaged.

Manager Walt Alton, a soft spoken, kindly sort of man, was speechless for moments but finally said: "At the moment, I can't think of much to say."

After further thought, he said: "No season gave me more of a thrill than this one. It would have to rank with the time we won the World Series from the Yankees."

"But those three big ones we won from San Francisco a couple of weekends ago were the big ones. That was the big push we needed."

Presently Alton excused himself. He showed up, still in uniform and spiked shoes, in the Braves dressing room to shake hands with Brave manager Fred Haney.

"You came from behind to win and you deserved it," sportsman Haney declared. "Now go after the White Sox."

Haney declined to comment on his possible retirement as pilot of the Braves.

With a wide grin he reminded his interviewers: "Remember, I picked this club as the one to beat last spring."

Repeatedly, Haney declined to criticize his little shortstop, Felix Mantilla, for the throwing error that permitted Hodges to score.

"Give the other club credit. They came from behind and beat us fair and square."

Haney did say that veteran Lew Burdette had remarked that he should have fielded two of the hits that went through the box in the exciting ninth inning when the Dodgers tied it up. But, Haney pointed out, they were well hit balls.

Haney said he couldn't recall when he had to use four pitchers as he did in the ninth — Burdette, Joey Jay, Warren Spahn and Don McMahon.

Mantilla, stoic, explained the play: "It was the only play I had. I was off balance when I grabbed the ball. I had to get rid of it."

Mantilla was shifted from second to shortstop when Johnny Logan was knocked out of the game by Norm Larker of the Dodgers in the seventh inning.

Logan, who has been murdered at bat for the Braves against Los Angeles, was carried off the field on a stretcher. But it developed the terrific impact as Larker raced to second on John Roseboro's double play grounder had simply knocked the wind out of

Southern Loop Has Top Stars On Injury List

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The injury lists aren't notably longer than usual but they include an unusual number of distinguished players as Southern Conference football teams prepare for this week's games.

In the entire nine-team league, there's hardly a squad that doesn't have at least one star performer on the shelf.

Since the fight for the conference title gets up a full head of steam Friday and Saturday with four league games scheduled, recovery of those standouts may be crucial. But not all will play this week.

Most illustrious of the wounded is VMI fullback Sam Horner, an All-Conference choice last year. A leg injury stopped Horner after one quarter of VMI's opener and limited him to punting duty last week.

However, he did his first running Tuesday in nearly a week, leading the Keydets to hope he'll play Saturday night against Richmond.

Chief among the casualties are quarterbacks. Among those who won't play this week, and perhaps for a much longer time, are a couple who suffered dislocated shoulders—William & Mary's Bob Stoy and VMI's Jimmy O'Dell.

The Citadel's Jerry Nettles is sidelined with a concussion. Richmond's Joe Rossetti still is out with a knee injury. So is No. 2 quarterback Chuck Packan of George Washington.

Less seriously hurt in last week-end's action, and expected to play this week, is quarterback Charlie Benson of Davidson.

Furman is at Chattanooga and George Washington will play West Virginia in Friday night games.

Saturday games include Davidson at The Citadel (night), Virginia Tech vs. William & Mary at Roanoke, Va., and VMI vs. Richmond (night).

Furillo's latest hit was 1,907 of his career. It was one of his shortest but probably the most important. It came with two out

Furillo May Play Another Season

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — There was a time this season when Carl Furillo, feeling old, weary, worried and unwanted, was talking about quitting baseball.

Today, the oldest Dodger of them all, in point of service as well as in age, is not only talking excitedly about playing in another World Series, but returning for next year, the year after and the year after that.

That's what one little hit can do for a guy, even if he is going on 38 with 14 big league campaigns under his belt.

Furillo's latest hit was 1,907 of his career. It was one of his shortest but probably the most important. It came with two out and two on base in the bottom of the 12th inning and led to the decisive run in the Dodgers' 6-5 pennant-clinching triumph over Milwaukee in Los Angeles Tuesday.

With Gil Hodges on second and Joe Pignatano on first, Furillo bounced a 1-2 pitch over pitcher Bob Rush's head. Shortstop Felix Mantilla came over behind second to field the ball but his throw to first base was low.

It bounced past Frank Torre, hit Dodger Coach Greg Mulleavy and bounced away. Hodges, who had stopped, after rounding third, picked up steam and galloped across the plate with the game and pennant-winning run.

The official scorer ruled it a hit for Furillo and an error for Mantilla.

The oldest of Scotland's four universities, St. Andrews, was founded in 1411.

The game is being sponsored by the Greenville Jaycees in conjunction with the Greenville Touchdown Club. Tickets have already been printed and the selling campaign is slated to get underway tomorrow.

Money taken in from the ticket sale will go toward purchasing a new scoreboard for the college. The old one, installed some ten years back, has almost reached an end of service.

The EC Junior Varsity edged out Frederick Junior College 6-0, in their opener last week. They play The Citadel tomorrow before their big tilt with Fork Union next Thursday.

SENSATIONAL STOREWIDE

STOCK SALE

A Plain Statement By The Owners

Here are the reasons in a "nutshell" why we are having this sale: A recent study proves conclusively that Greenville is one of the fastest growing cities in North Carolina. New homes are being built at a terrific pace; many homes are being enlarged and improved; most all housekeepers are entering into a new program of revitalizing their present homes; all of these calls for more furniture. It being our desire to keep in pace with this progressing parade we plan to add new departments, enlarge others, adjust some, and in this process we will make many store innovations. To complete this parade we have thousands and thousands of dollars worth of surplus stock including complete home outfits, room outfits and occasional pieces . . . and this surplus stock must be sold at once.

We're starting this sale right "AFTER-SUPPER" in order that all our old customers, new customers, friends and tourists may each have an equal opportunity to share and share alike in these tremendous values . . . and, too, our friends in neighboring communities will likewise have an opportunity to participate equally.

U. S. Officials Consider Improving Soviet Trade

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. officials are considering a series of possible measures to improve trade relations between the Soviet Union and the United States in the wake of the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said last week trade improvement could be considered one test of U. S. good will in promoting world peace.

Nevertheless officials believe that any large increase in the exchange of goods between the two countries is out of the question. The reason given boils down to this: the United States does not need large volume of raw materials such as chrome and manganese which the U. S. S. R. would be able to sell, because it gets them from other sources. Nor will this country grant huge credits to Moscow to finance what it wants to buy here.

The Soviet Union is more interested in buying whole factories than it is in purchasing consumer goods or even materials of immediate strategic importance.

It wants factories which could be put into production of primarily consumer goods in the Soviet Union. It is particularly anxious to build up its chemical and plastics industries. If wants long-term credits to pay for them.

U. S. officials are thinking in much more limited terms. Among developments under consideration is removal of embargoes on crab meat and a variety of furs which the Soviet Union has to sell.

There is also some talk among officials of narrowing the list of items which are prohibited for shipment to the Soviet Union. The basis of the embargo list is machines or materials which might directly contribute to Soviet military strength. But some officials consider that many items on the list, among them steel tubing, have a marginal importance in respect to denying strategic goods to the Soviet government.

Possibly improving trade chances is Soviet agreement to resume negotiations toward settlement of lend-lease obligations dating from World War II.

When the exchanges were broken off several years ago the United States was asking 800 million dollars by way of final settlement. The Soviets were offering 300 million dollars.

In addition to lend-lease there are still Russian debts outstanding from before the Communist revolution during World War I. Officials put the total of these including principal and interest at 573 million dollars.

Both legal and policy reasons were cited to indicate that further large-scale U. S. credits to the Soviet Union are unlikely in the near future.

On the legal side the Johnson Act prohibits the extension of private credits to any country which is in default on its obligations to the United States and which is not a member of the International Bank and Monetary Fund.

As for policy, the United States is focusing its government loans toward underdeveloped countries, and officials said there is no prospect whatever that it will modify this policy in order to help a highly developed industrial country like the U. S. S. R. further develop its industry.

No Trends Seen For Leaf Prices

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
No definite trend was discernible Tuesday in flue-cured tobacco sales on Carolinas and Virginia markets.

The Federal-State Market News Service reported:
Border Belt—Sales Monday 959,344 pounds for an average of $62.72 per 100 pounds, $2.27 over Friday's average. Because of Hurricane Gracie, sales will be extended through Thursday at Fairmont and Lumberton, N. C., only markets still open on the belt.

Eastern Belt — Volume fairly light Tuesday, gains and losses about evenly balanced, variations mostly $1-$2. Best quality baskets sold for $75-$80. Monday's sales 10,086,056 pounds at $62.48, up $2.21 from Friday and the highest average of the season.

Middle Belt — Averages were firm to lower for most grades. Losses ranged from $1 to $4, and there were a few $1 gains. Quality mostly unchanged. Monday sales were 4,176,556 pounds at $59.15, up $1.79 from Friday and the highest average since opening day.

Old Belt — Prices fluctuated mostly $1-$4, with a few more gains than losses. Increases chiefly were for lugs, primings and nondescript, declines for leaf and black lacquer. An older brother, James, 32, took Paul to a hospital for repairs.

$2.72 from Friday. North Carolina markets sold 3,796,668 pounds at $55.79, Virginia markets 4,328,736 pounds at $57.06.

May Britt Wins Divorce Appeal

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Swedish actress May Britt, charging her husband's dedication his law studies excluded marriage, obtained a divorce Tuesday from Edward Gregson. Gregson, 21, wealthy one-time actor, is a student at Stanford University. Miss Britt, 24, accused him of mental cruelty.

The slender actress testified she made every effort to help the marriage succeed. "I offered to give up my career," she said. "He suggested the divorce."

The couple, married 18 months ago in Tijuana, Mexico, separated Sept. 8.

Girls Dominate Class Offices

PEEKSKILL, N. Y. (AP)—It's a woman's world at Drum Junior High School.

The student body president is a girl. So is the vice president — and the secretary, treasurer, tax collector, court clerk and police chief.

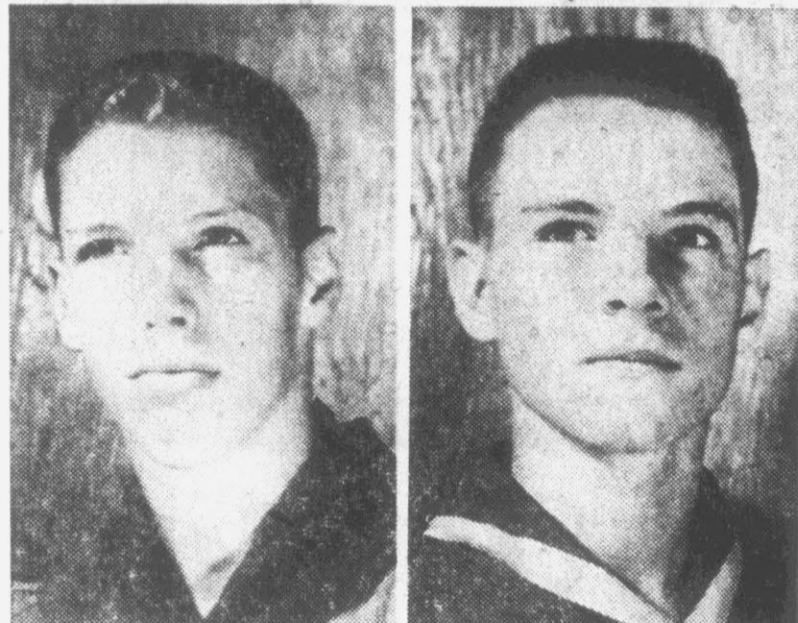

The reason? The girls' superior leadership qualities, says Principal Joe Donly.

Black Day Indeed For 7-Year-Old

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—It was a black day, indeed, for Paul Henkels, 7.

The youngest of 14 children, he stepped on a pressurized can of spray paint at his home Tuesday and was sprayed head to toe with black lacquer. An older brother, James, 32, took Paul to a hospital for repairs.

Two Win Eagle Scout Awards

Eagle Scout awards were presented to two 14-year-old Pitt County boys at the District Court of Honor held at the Pitt County Court House last night.

James B. Newman Jr., (left) of Greenville, and Joe Hunnicutt (right) of Bethel were presented the high scouting award for meeting certain standards and becoming proficient in certain fields connected with Scouting.

Newman is from Troop 386 of the St. Paul's Episcopal Church here and has held many offices in Scouting since becoming a Scout in 1953. Hunnicutt, a scout for five years, has also held many concession, the Soviet Union could argue he hadn't. What seems to have happened was that when the two men met they agreed to start dealing with each other on good faith.

That may not seem spectacular. It's a wispy, thin kind of thing which will have to be proved by deeds. But it seems to be the most tangible result of the meeting.

Yet it's better than the vacuum which existed before. Relations between the U. S. S. R. and the United States seem a little more relaxed. They may get better. If they do, it's foxy Khrushchev who brought it about.

Pre-Set Figures Hard To Control

WILSON. — Atlantic Christian College officials have learned that it is difficult to control enrollment at a pre-set maximum figure.

Mrs. Bethany R. Joyner, College Registrar, reported this week that final figures show the college with 1,213 students enrolled for the fall semester which opened on September 9.

"We had hoped we would have no more than 1,150 students enrolled for the fall semester," Dr. Arthur D. Wenger, ACC President, explained. "In fact we had all machinery set in motion to control our enrollment at that figure," he said.

The highest percentage of returning students in the college's recent history shattered the plan set up in advance by the college. "We had less than 40 upperclassmen who pre-registered in the spring fail to show up," Mrs. Joyner reported. "Since we had expected more to drop out than this, our admissions office accepted more new students than we really needed to meet the 1,150 figure.

Therefore, instead of having a controlled five percent increase in enrollment for the fall semester, ACC has a 10.5 percent increase.

"We would have had more than that if we had to close down registration at the end of the first day scheduled for upperclassmen," Dr. Wenger said. "Several more people wanted to take courses at the college but we did not have the facilities to accept them," he said.

The Board of Directors of the Pitt County Mental Health Association will hold a meeting at 7:15 p.m. in the Pitt County Mental Health Clinic building.

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — Busiest animal at the Du Quoin State Fair was a sow by the name of Ringer. She entered the judging ring, gave birth to a pig, won the reserve champion ribbon for spotted Poland China sows, and then — after returning to a pen — gave birth to five more pigs.

Charge No Signalling In Bus Mishap

SCHOOL BUS WRECK . . . Highway Patrol Cpl. Titus Martin and Pitt County Transportation Supervisor L. C. Forlines look over the wrecked hood of the vehicle.

A 17-year-old substitute school bus driver and a 48-year-old man were charged with failure to signal their intended movements this morning following a collision between the bus and a truck about two miles from Greenville on the Pactolus Highway. Investigating Patrolman R. E. Taylor of Grifton, identified the driver of the school bus as being William Robert Garris of Route 5, Greenville and listed the driver of the pickup truck as Nathan Scott also of Route 5.

Taylor quoted Garris as saying he did not put out his "Stop" sign when he started to make the turn from N. C. 30 onto Azalea Road near Parker's Chapel.

Taylor said Scott was attempting to pass the bus and quoted Scott as saying he did not blow his horn before he started by the bus.

None of the 25 children on the bus, enroute to the Stokes-Pactolus High School, were injured. Damage to the School Bus was estimated at $75 while damage to the truck was set at $75.

Conservatives Take Off Gloves

LONDON (AP)—Alarmed by the pro-Labor trend of recent public opinion polls, Britain's Conservatives and toughened up its elective party has pulled off the kid glove campaigning.

The party chairman, Lord Hailsham, sounded the alarm at a meeting in North Wales Sunday night. He called for "plenty of Daily Mail, which supports the hard hitting above the belt."

With the election of a new Parliament only nine days away, the Daily Mail, which supports the Conservatives, published a poll showing the Laborites had cut the Conservative lead to 2 per cent.

The name of the ship which Henry Hudson sailed into New York, discovering the Hudson River in 1609, was The Half Moon.

Unknowning, Gave Away His $200

CINCINNATI (AP) — A sedan stopped in front of Mrs. Herbert E. Keller's home Saturday and a blonde woman asked for something to aid a child with an upset stomach.

Mrs. Keller fetched a half empty box of tissues from the house and said, "Take them along if you like." The car drove off.

But when she told her husband of the incident that night, he said, "Do you know what you gave away?"

"Just a few tissues," she said. "What do you mean?" "Oh, something like $200 or $210," he said. "I hid the money in the bottom of the tissue box when I emptied my wallet last night."

Two Attended Kinston Session

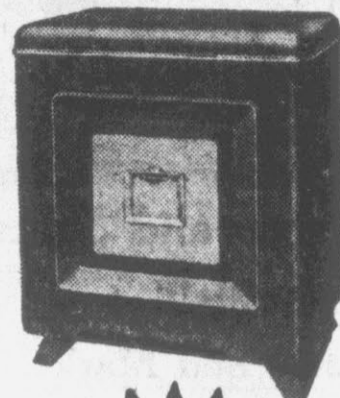

James M. Howard and Miss Patricia Daniels of the Pitt County Welfare Department attended a monthly orientation workshop at Caswell Training School in Kinston last week.

The workshops were in the field of mental retardation and they were attended by North Carolina county public health nurses, public welfare workers and county health directors.

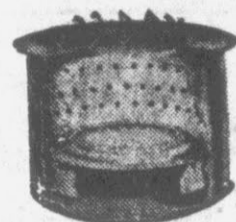

The population of The Netherlands is about 10 million persons.

SHADOW OF GUILT

A NEW THRILLER

From the first second that Eve Lord was in my arms, nothing mattered any more.

I told her everything about Ala's finding Don Saxby's body in his apartment and how I got her out of there. But it was just a story, something that could have happened to somebody else, for the thought of Eve's leaving me was now as unthinkable to her as it had been to me. If I needed her, it was with me she would stay. It was as simple as that.

The magic had come, our magic which brought its miracle, obliterating the old festering guilt about my wife Connie, transcending anxiety and fear—even time. "George, it's eleven," Eve said. "It can't be. It can't possibly be." "It's eleven. You must go home," she insisted.

"No, darling. No—not yet."

"Yes, darling."

"But it's all right between us again, isn't it?"

"It was never wrong," she said. "I couldn't ever have left you—not when it came to the point. I couldn't have had the courage."

"We'll wait. We'll go on waiting and everything will get cleared up."

"Yes."

"They're going to find Saxby's body," I said. "Tomorrow probably. It'll be in the papers. It'll all begin."

"No."

"But Ala's safe. There's nothing else that's really bad, is there?"

"Then let it begin."

"Let it begin..."

It began on the afternoon of the next day. Eve brought a newspaper to my office after lunch. There was a paragraph on a middle page. It wasn't much.

It merely announced that Donald Saxby, an employee of the Ellerman Art Galleries, had been discovered dead in his apartment that morning by his cleaning woman. He had, the paragraph said, been shot twice. The gun from which the shots had been fired had been lying beside the body. That was all.

While Eve stood behind me, I looked at it uneasily. Thousands of people all over Manhattan were glancing at it right now, giving it a bored second, moving on to something else. But there it was. Donald Saxby, employee of the Ellerman Galleries. Mr. Ellerman.

The phone rang and Eve picked it up. "Mrs. Hadley's office. . . oh, yes, just a moment." She put her hand on my shoulder, looking at me warningly. "Connie," she whispered.

I took the phone. I knew what was coming.

"George, have you seen the afternoon paper?" My wife went right on without waiting for my answer. "George, please. Keep calm. Whatever you do, don't lose your head. It's Don Saxby. He's dead."

Eve's hand on my shoulder was warm, reassuring.

"He's been found in his apartment," said Connie. "Shot. Twice. George. Someone must have killed him."

It wasn't hard to sound rattled, and sounding rattled, I knew, would do just as well as sounding surprised.

"Killed?" I echoed.

"It's only a little paragraph. I just happened to see it. George—what are we going to do? Don't you see? It mentions the Ellerman Galleries. Mr. Ellerman will tell the police I got Don the job. They'll come to us and . . . and what are we going to do about Ala? We can't tell them the truth. How can we? George, can you get away now? Please. Can you'd gone to Idlewild, I called her. I knew she probably had nothing to do. I invited her for lunch and we did the crossword together. She left only a few minutes before you came back. So that's settled. There's just the other thing—the trip to the Greens."

Just the trip to the Greens! Nothing more than that! I thought: If you only knew. She went on, making it into a neat little pattern like one of her agenda.

"Now, this is what I've decided. We'll have to rehearse Ala, of course, when she gets back. But listen, George. We have to admit she and Don went to the Greens' on Friday. We can't get out of that. But we can say that she just knew Don slightly that she met the Greens at some party and the Greens invited them both to Massachusetts. They went but Ala got bored. She asked Don to bring her home. We'll say Don brought her home Saturday evening and that was the end of everything."

She paused, watching me rather severely. "Why should the police have to know there was this—this crazy infatuation? What possible need is there? Can't we do it that way? Isn't that all right?"

Although it was taking a terrible chance of being found out later in a lie, it was, I supposed, as all right as anything could be. At least, it would have been except for one thing. . . .

There was, of course, nothing to stop the Greens. It seemed inconceivable that I hadn't prepared myself for that.

"So," said Connie, "there's only one thing to do. He's dead. It doesn't matter who killed him. Anyone might want to kill a man like that. It's nothing to do with us. But we've got to think out a story and stick to it—you, me and Ala. We've absolutely got to. If it all came out about Ala, it could ruin her whole life."

As I looked at my wife, I thought how invariably I got her wrong. Connie wasn't going to be civic-minded at all. All that civic-mindedness was reserved for juvenile delinquents, museum directors and slum-property owners. To her this was a family affair. All her clashes and tensions with Ala were forgotten because Ala was a Corliss, even though an adopted one. And for the Corlisses Connie would fight as relentlessly and unscrupulously as Father Corliss himself.

"Listen," she said, "I've thought it out and I'm sure it'll be all right. Thank heavens we don't have to worry about the time he was killed. Sunday, I mean. We both know Ala was here in the house all day. Of course, she was locked in her room most of the time, but we don't have to tell the police that. We can just say she was here for the whole day, and you and I and Milly Taylor can prove it."

"Milly Taylor?" I said. "Was she here?"

Connie gave a little impatient shrug. "Didn't I tell you? After

Screwballs Help To Keep Business Brisk

NEW YORK (AP)—Screwballs, says Fred Birkner, help keep him in business.

Take the time he came up with a live pink elephant for a wild New Year's party. Or when he supplied 1,000 fleas for a television show. Or the perfect gift for the mother-in-law: a skunk, deodorized, of course.

Birkner's zany business is supplying animals, mainly to Broadway and television shows. His Chateau Theatrical Animals farm on 48th street boasts these animal characters:

Maudie, the midget mule who can sit in a chair.

Butter Hyacinth Bertram III, a cow with measurements of 108-82-82, who has been big on TV.

King Solomon, a lion who sits in a barber's chair for a shave and haircut, or who takes frequent bubble baths.

Birkner, 38, a native of Austria, got into the animal business accidentally. He had a riding academy near Central Park before he started supplying cows and other animals to theatrical and TV producers as a favor. The animal supply business soon replaced the riding academy.

Birkner also has a goodly supply of wagons, chariots, sleighs and dog carts. A man in Vermont once specified in his will that he be taken to his grave in a horse-drawn hearse. Birkner supplied the hearse—as well as the horse.

"For Vermont," said Birkner, "that was carrying coals to Newcastle."

Birkner recalled some of his more weird requests.

"The 1,000 fleas were for a Milton Berle show at Center Theater," he said. "But during rehearsal a stagehand kicked over the jar and the fleas got out. Maybe that's why they tore down the Center Theater."

But Birkner thinks his strangest request might be the one from a man who wanted a pony delivered to his bathroom.

"The guy just wanted to tell his wife: 'There's a pony in the bathtub.'"

Winterville Seniors To Present Play On Friday

Speakers Named On Family Life

DURHAM — Dr. Thomas Bland of Wake Forest will be one of the principal speakers on the three-day program of the annual conference of the N. C. Family Life Council meeting in Durham, October 18-20, it was announced this week.

"Strengths of the Family" will be the subject of Dr. Bland's address, which is scheduled for Monday. Speakers at other sessions include Dr. William Bunche and Dr. N. L. Kelly, both of Raleigh. Other speakers will be announced at a later time.

Persons interested in strengthening family life in North Carolina are invited to attend the conference sessions. The meeting will begin with registration and an evening session Sunday, October 18. There will be three sessions Monday and the final session Tuesday morning will close at noon. The meeting will be held in the Washington Duke Hotel.

"Changing Roles Within the Family" will be the subject of an address at one session. Other subjects which will be considered include: "Mounting Social Problems Facing the Family," "Available Resources in the State to Strengthen Family Life," and others.

The senior play, "Calling All Carrs" will be presented Friday night at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium. The three act play, under the direction of Miss Mavis Brown and Mrs. Eva Jackson, has 13 characters.

Tommy Oglesby, a senior and a member of the clarinet section of the Ayden-Winterville Band, was named drum major by Boyd Elliott, band director. The Ayden-Winterville Band performed during half-time at the Ayden-Robersonville football game last Friday night. The band played "Tea for Two Cha Cha," "Anchors Away" and "On Wisconsin."

Plans were made by the Beta Club to include the following projects for the school year in their activities, making a bulletin board for the library, dusting the bookshelves in the library, buying tassels for each senior in the Beta Club for graduation and selling soap to make money.

The magazine drive, sponsored by the Future Homemakers of America and the Junior class, has continued for three weeks. Captains of the drive, Sue Ellen Hunsucker and Wilton McLawhorn, urged the students to sell more subscriptions.

The new officers for the Glee Club are, Thomas McLawhorn, president; Romana Nobles, vice-president; Dilly Ann Harris, secretary-treasurer; Paul Castello, reporter; and Judith Mobley and Jack Davenport, managers. Mrs. Barbara Howell is director.

Plans were made by several of the members of the Future Homemakers of America to attend the district rally in Pamlico County on

An Hour Of Bing Crosby Lacked Familiar Zest

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—People who enjoy watching Bing Crosby sing had a golden opportunity Tuesday night—almost a solid 60 minutes, in fact—as that well-known golfer and parent made one of his occasional television appearances.

But "The Bing Crosby Show" was a disappointment in spite of the host and such hard-working, talented guests as Frank Sinatra, Peggy Lee and Louis Armstrong. Crosby seemed indifferent and tired. The sets were ornate and dowdy and what conversation there was seemed pretty tired stuff: Bing's age and his money, Sinatra's lean frame. The songs, however, were pleasant, mostly old familiar ones.

Infinitely more entertaining—positively in fact—was the opening Gary Moore Show on CBS. Moore had great comedy help from Gertrude Berg, Durward Kirby and Marion Lorne. There were Vic Damone and Jane Powell, both in excellent voice and a new feature, Allen Funt and his candid camera with two very funny sequences.

The premiere of CBS' "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis" had the misfortune to turn up at the moment when, on ABC, the Braves and the Dodgers were tied in a critical extra-inning game. This is a comedy series about a girl-crazy, money-crazy teen-ager and his teen-age pals and probably will be popular with those who enjoy comedies about teen-agers. The commercials are enunciated by the author. Better he should spend more time writing his series.

I don't buy shoes from my butcher, and I don't need comedians to supply my enlightenment and uplift. Let Steve Allen, Jack Paar and—yes, Dave Garroway—stick to chuckles-making and leave the lecturing to others. Allen's curious exhortation in the middle of an alleged comedy show—that we all buy and read "The Conduct of Life" by Lewis Mumford was wildly out of context. And I resented his suggestion that if I didn't like the book that I "turn in my head." Come on, fellows, play "Hamlet" if you must, but not on my viewing time.

Cliff Arquette was accidentally stuck in a guillotine during the taping of his first "Charley Weaver's Hobby Lobby," and the result was so funny, the producer

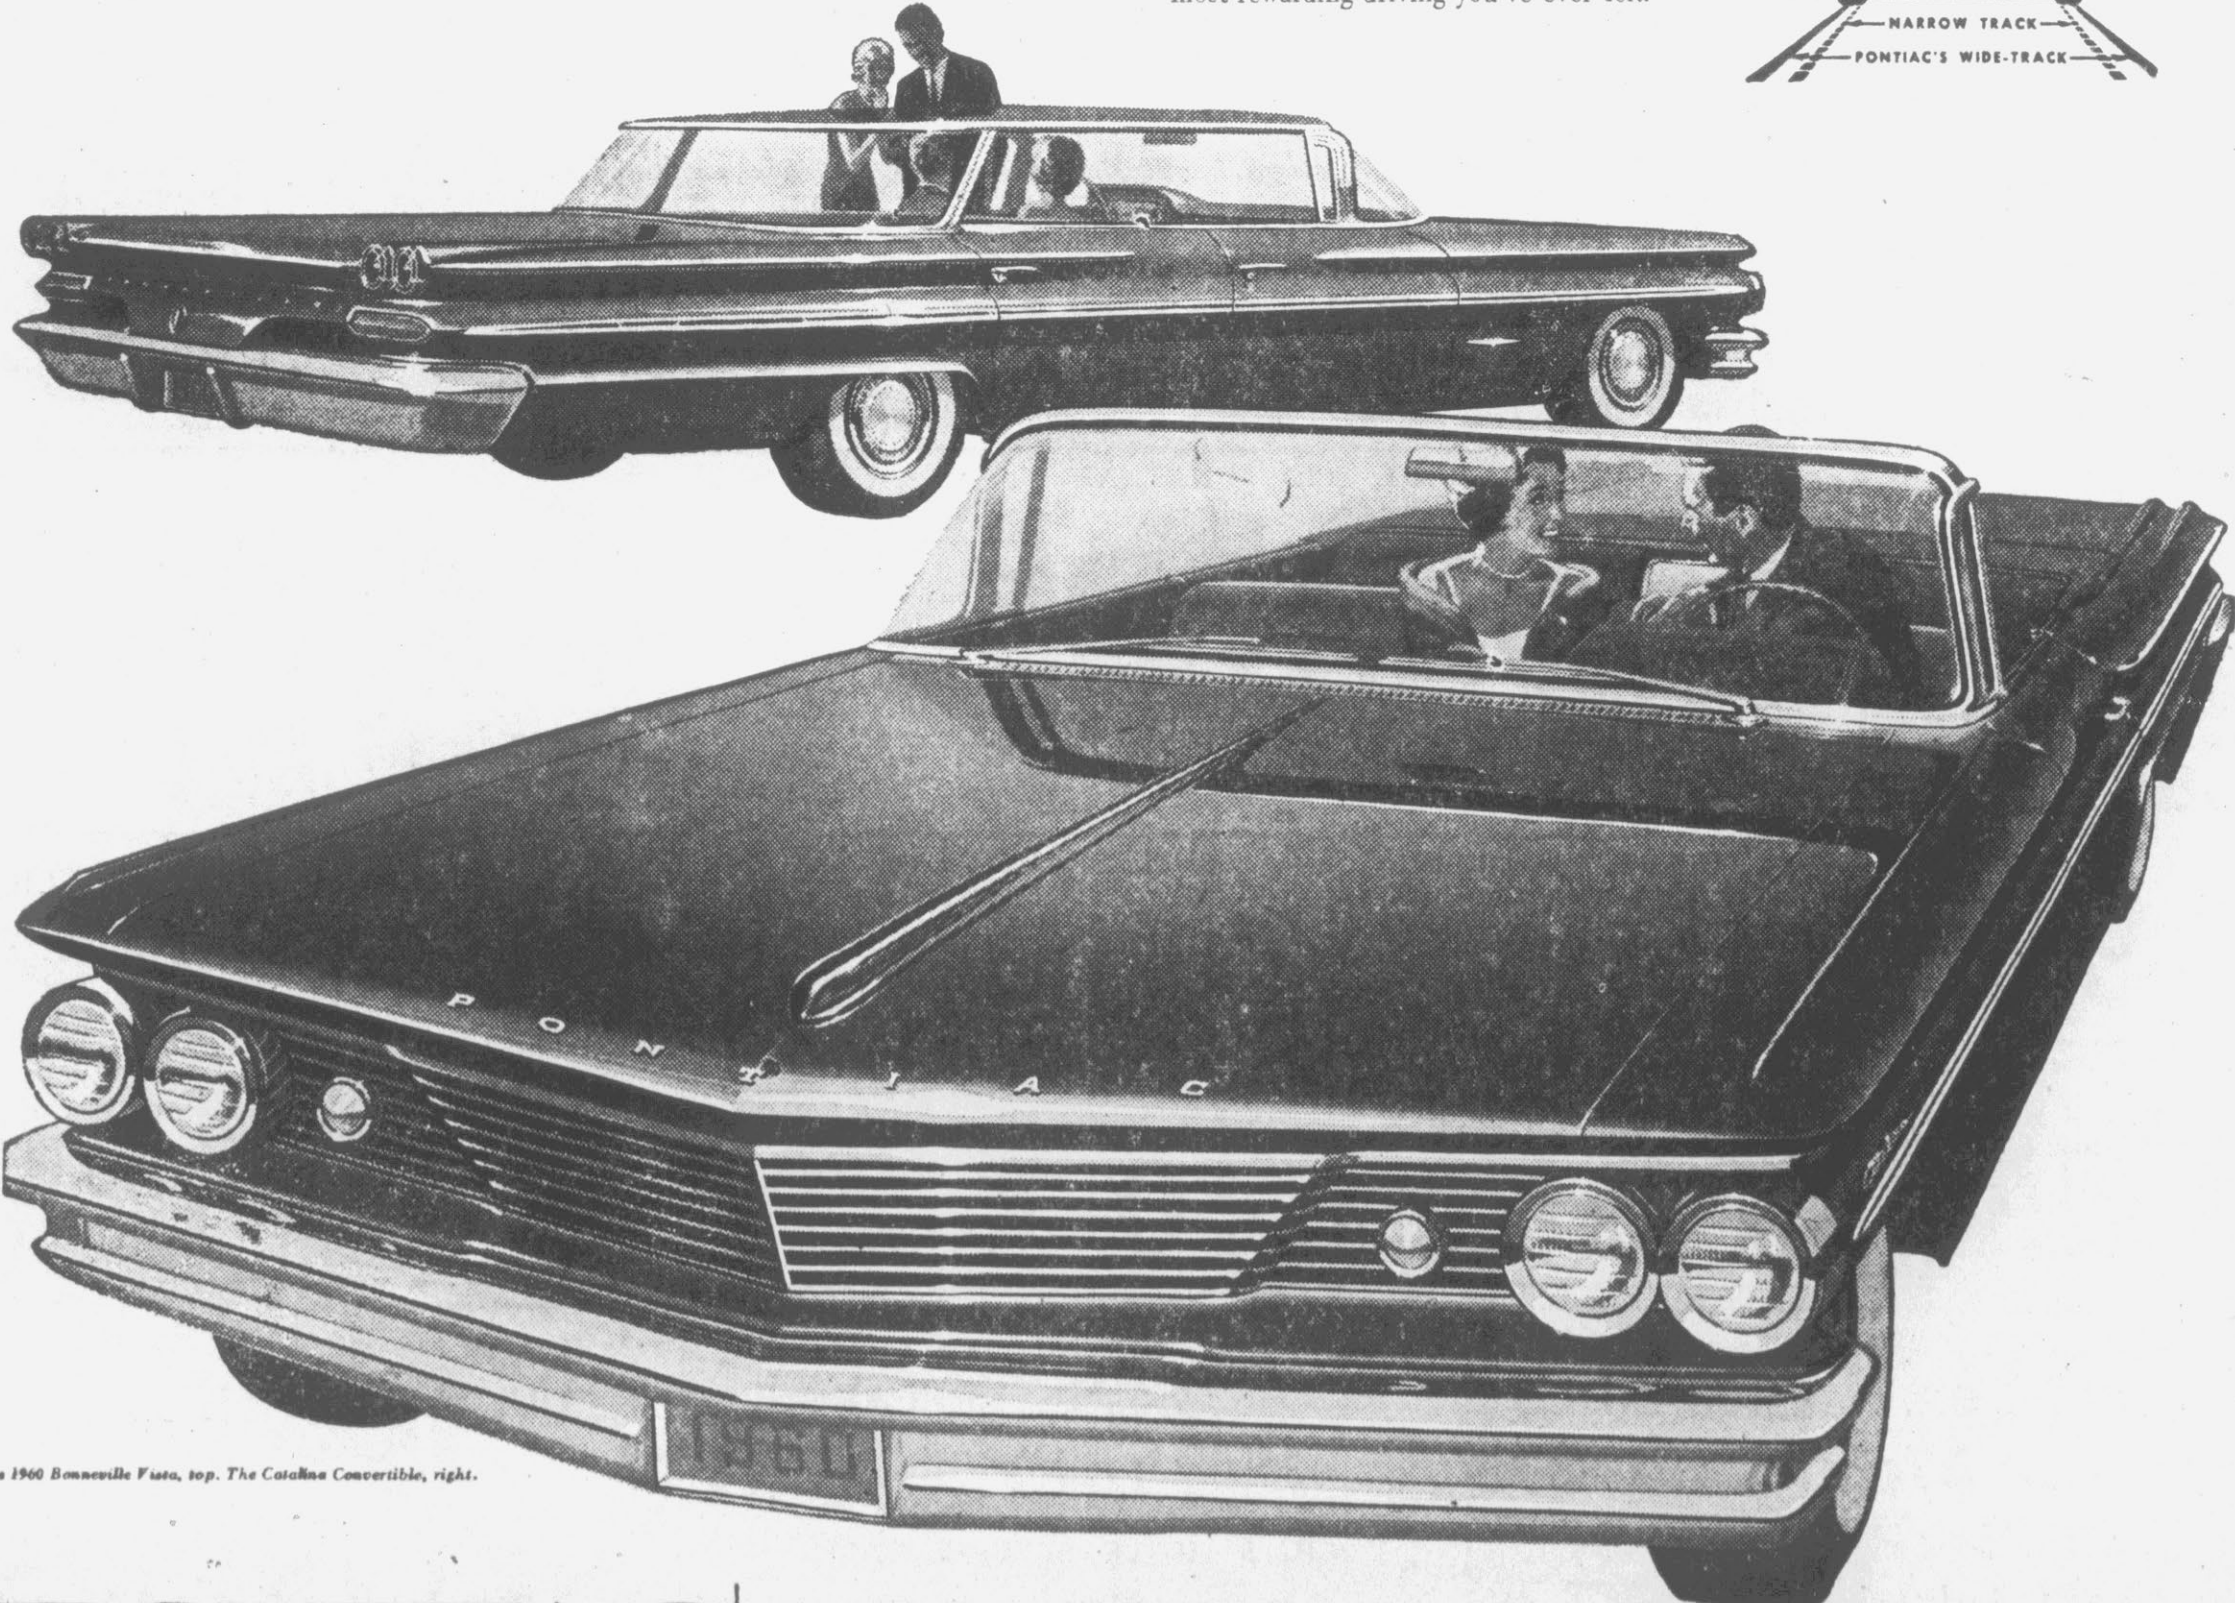

OBSERVING HOLIDAY

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China announced today that it will withhold artillery fire against Quemoy and other offshore islands Sept. 29 and Oct. 1 because of celebrations marking the 10th anniversary of the Red victory on the China mainland. The Communists for months have been bombarding the islands only on odd-numbered days of the month.

The origin of silk weaving in China is unknown. Earliest examples found were in Chinese Turkestan in 1914, these being attributed to the First Century B.C.

the important shapes for fall...

—Consult your favorite fashion periodicals! All say Color and Texture are equally important this autumn season as silhouette and detail. We gleaned our selection after careful consultation with the leading fashion authorities . . . and we predict you will be just as excited about it as we are.

—Entirely new grape reds, black-board greys, rich tones of brown and beige, glorious reds, sea and tree greens in sumptuous nubby weaves, dashing tweeds, to soft 'n cuddly cashmere-like fabrics. And to see them all executed in the most flattering fashions you've laid your eyes on in many a season is a treat you can't afford to miss.

The Happiest Returns Are Those Planned Ahead

"REMEMBER THE BIRTHDAYS but not the years," quips Grandfather to cover his surprise. And what a treat for young Bobby to join with his mother in sharing such a happy moment (he put the candles on the cake).

Over this delightful scene is spread an umbrella of financial protection... an invisible shield, but nonetheless real. Carefully planned trust arrangements have been provided by Grandfather for the welfare of his daughter and her son.

We admire the logic and the love that motivated this businessman to put his thoughts into constructive action! Now the fruits of his labors will be preserved as intact as possible. Through a Trust Under Will, his estate will provide for the future benefit and enjoyment of succeeding generations.

CAREFREE SECURITY FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

And why choose our Bank as Trustee? Because we have the necessary background, understanding and resources, plus the advantage of group judgment. Most important, we are always available, through the years, to serve each generation.

Your financial "umbrella" can be arranged in much less time than you might think. Please visit our Trust Department with your attorney for a preliminary analysis.

Officers Elected By Campus YDC

Woodrow W. Davis, a foreign language major from Asheville, will head the Young Democratic Club on the campus for the following year.

Other officers elected at an organizational meeting September 22 were Tony Mallard of Trenton, 1st Vice President, Roy Martin, of Greenville, 2nd Vice President, Marie Bryant of Conway, Secretary, Tom Strickland of Fayetteville, Treasurer, and Sandra Porter of Greenville, Reporter-Historian.

Members-at-large to the executive committee are Gloria Hoffer of Sunbury, Charles Dyson of Rockingham, and Bryan Harrison of Asheville.

At the first meeting plans were made to send delegates to the State YDC Convention in Asheville this week. A membership drive was launched, and further meeting plans were made.

On election, Davis stated, "The Young Democrats hope to create an interest in local and national elections and to stimulate on the campus an enthusiasm for the work of the Democratic party."

"We are entering an election year and politics will be on everyone's lips. The students of East Carolina should participate in local and national elections. That is our major objective on the campus this year."

According to the secretary over 40 paid members have joined the club, open to all students, faculty and staff members, and more are joining each day.

Forty young Canadian sturgeon have been shipped to Russia in exchange for live Russian sturgeon. The two-foot Russian sturgeon matures in two years, while the 40-inch Canadian sturgeon takes at least 15 years.

Car Hits Log Truck West Of Stokes

SLIGHTLY INJURED . . . The driver of this car escaped with minor injuries after the car struck a loaded log truck early last night near Stokes.

STOKES—The driver of a late model car, identified as being L. H. Mizzell of Washington, N.C., escaped serious injury last night when the car he was driving struck a truck loaded with logs on N.C. 903 about two miles west of Stokes.

Investigating Patrolman Howard Winslow said the log truck had been parked on the road since 11:30 a.m. yesterday repairing a broken wheel and axle. He added that at the time of the collision about 6 p.m., there were burning gas cans at each end of the truck and a flagman to warn passing motorists of the obstructed highway.

The car struck the log truck from the rear, causing an estimated $1,800 damage to the car and about $800 damage to the truck.

Mizzell was taken by a passing motorist to the Robersonville Clinic where he was treated for severe bruises to his chest and small lacerations, and released.

Winslow said he had been unable to talk to the driver of the car and at present, the investigation is incomplete.

The driver, who parked the truck on the road, was identified as Robert Staton, Negro, of Jamesville, N. C.

Principals Hear 4-H Club Work Details

Farm Agent S. C. Winchester, Assistant Agent Bob King and Assistant Home Demonstration Agent Helen Mohand discussed 4-H Club work before the Pitt County Principals Association Monday night.

Winchester discussed the history of 4-H Club work and gave statistics on the club. He discussed its accomplishments on the county, state and national level. The principals agreed to assist in the further growth and development of this organization.

Mrs. Edna Baker, County High School supervisor, gave the group additional information on the National Defense Education Act. She explained what the Federal government would do to help the schools in the further growth and development of science, math and modern foreign language programs. She also mentioned the district typing contest which will be held March 21.

Ott Alford, Elementary School supervisor, called for a vote to decide whether the county schools would participate in the College Choral Music program this year.

The principals voted against participating in the program this year. It was pointed out that the students miss too much of their regular school work by practicing the program. It was also noted that the parents did not seem to be particularly interested since few of them attend the programs.

The group voted to discontinue naming of an honor roll and principal's list for grades below the ninth.

New report cards and reasons for changes were also discussed. Superintendent D. H. Conley gave a report on the condition of the school buses. He reminded the group of the first County NCEA meeting to be held Oct. 7 at Stokes High School beginning at 7:30 p.m. He also pointed out that the district NCEA meeting will be held in Rocky Mount on Oct. 16.

The superintendent reminded the group to be particularly careful concerning the safety of the students. He asked the principals to conserve fuel and electricity whenever possible.

Conley urged that everything possible be done to keep students in school for the full class periods of every day.

The principals issued an appeal asking that parents not get their children out of school except for an extreme emergency.

E. F. Johnson, principal of Ayden Schools, reminded the group of the State Principals' Conference to be held in New Bern Nov. 4 and 5.

N. C. Triangle Research Functions Told Rotary

Functions and objectives of the North Carolina Triangle Research Institute were outlined in detail to members of the Greenville Rotary Club in an address Monday night by President George Herbert who heads this new venture in North Carolina.

Although the Research Triangle Institute is located in close proximity to the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, Duke University in Durham, and North Carolina State College in Raleigh, President Herbert emphasized that its services in research are available for state-wide benefit.

A comparatively new operation, the Triangle Research operations have attracted national attention and already a major industry has announced its plans to locate its research in the industrial park, an area of near 4,500 acres in the Raleigh - Durham - Chapel Hill community, and other industries will be expected to begin moving their research groups into this site, President Herbert forecast.

Presently there are about 50 persons working with the Research Institute, and Herbert predicted a growth in personnel to more than 1,000 persons as the various phases of industrial studies, projects and laboratory surveys expand.
