

New Town Manager Takes Over Ayden Post

NEW TOWN MANAGER . . . Cleveland Paylor (left) looks over a report with Mayor S. F. Peterson.

AYDEN — Cleveland Paylor assumed the duties of Town Manager of Ayden Thursday after being hired by the Town Board at a special meeting September 29. Paylor, who resigned in December 1958, as town clerk and Treasurer of the Town of Farmville after being with the town for 13 years. He has since been employed by the Nello L. Teer Co., a construction firm. Paylor is past president of the Farmville Rotary Club, member of the Board of Deacons of the Farmville Baptist Church and Treasurer of the Southern Roanoke Baptist Association. Now commuting to Ayden from Farmville, said he would move his wife and two children to Ayden around the first of the year.

Board Likes Electrical System

Pitt County Commissioners today tentatively approved a committee recommendation which would change the county electrical inspector's office from a fee-system office to a salaried office, and re-write the county's electrical inspection regulations. The committee which has been working on the matter was instructed by the Commissioners to continue its study and prepare for consideration of the board a new electrical ordinance, rather than amendments to the present ordinance. Under the committee recommendations tentatively approved by the Commissioners at their monthly meeting this morning, the county's electrical inspector would be employed on a salary basis rather than on a fee basis. The salary would be $4,800 and in addition the inspector would be paid seven cents per mile for travel. The proposed revisions would also set a flat fee for electrical inspections rather than a fee plus mileage as has been the case in the past. The fee for inspections would also be paid by electrical contractors rather than by the owner of the property inspected. County Auditor H. R. Gray said the committee had met with the electrical contractors of the county in reference to changing the inspection ordinance and outlined for the commissioners a number of changes which have been recommended. At present the county electrical inspector handles inspections throughout the rural areas and in the county's municipalities with the exception of Farmville and Fountain which have their own electrical inspectors. Under the new system a similar procedure would be followed and the commissioners said Farmville and Fountain will be given an opportunity to participate in the county-wide program if they so desire. In other action this morning the commissioners amended contracts between the State Board of Health and the Pitt County Health Department and Mental Health Clinic. The alterations in the contracts pertained primarily to policies concerning monies appropriated for these departments. The commissioners also passed a resolution altering the purpose for which a State Literary Fund loan to Farmville School District would be used. When the $30,000 loan was approved in July the funds were earmarked for lunch-room construction. Under the new resolution the funds will be designated for classroom construction. Also approved by the board was an appropriation of an additional $7,512.12 to the County Board of Education maintenance budget for the current fiscal year. The amount represented the insurance payment the board has received for the fire loss at Haddock's School recently. The new appropriation was made to offset repair work done at the school as a result of the fire and charged to the maintenance budget. A $172.25 insurance refund for the Board of Education was also appropriated for the school insurance account. Before recessing for lunch the commissioners appointed Keith Brunson of Chicod Township to the Board of Trustees of Pitt Memorial Hospital to replace L. C. (Roy) Venters who recently resigned from the board. The county auditor instructed $250,000 in county funds to invest in short-term savings. The matter was referred to the board's finance committee.

Hardee Again Heads State Association

RE-ELECTED . . . Roy Hardee, Captain of the Greenville Rescue Squad was re-elected Commander of the State Association of Rescue Squads in Salisbury.

By STUART SAVAGE, Reflector Staff Writer. SALISBURY — Roy Hardee, Captain of the Greenville Rescue Squad, was re-elected Commander of the North Carolina Association of Rescue Squads at the annual convention of the organization held in Salisbury this weekend. Hardee won out over Jack Clark of Granite Falls, who served the association as vice-commander last year. Jim Johnson of the Burke County Rescue Squad was elected vice-commander by the group. According to Hardee, the meeting of the association was the biggest and best in the history of the group. It showed the largest increase of squads with 35 member units as compared to last year's 21. Delegates to the convention heard a lecture by William Abbee, Chief of the Medical Division of Southern Oxygen Company from Washington, D. C. Abbee gave a lecture and demonstration on the pros and cons of various methods of resuscitation, and their effect on the victim. The members at the banquet Saturday night heard George Uzell, a Rowan County State Legislator, praise the squads in the state for their fine work. He said that, more and more, the good deeds of the squads are coming to the public's attention. He pointed out that in the past legislature, several bills dealing with the operation of rescue squads were passed. Also at the banquet it was brought out that several rescue units from the central and western sections of the state went to South Carolina to aid squads in that state during hurricane "Gracie" last week. Hardee noted the Second Annual Convention of the Ladies Auxiliary was also held in connection with the State Association meeting. A constitution and by-laws were adopted for the group and last year's officers were re-elected to serve a second term. They include: Mrs. Elsie P. Whitfield, president; of Henderson; Mrs. Elizabeth B. McDonald, vice president; from Goldsboro; and Mrs. Helen Eason, secretary-treasurer, also from Goldsboro. Hardee expressed appreciation on behalf of the state association, for the hospitality and "fine" program presented by the Rowan County Rescue Squad, which played host to the convention. Greenville Rescue Squad members attending the convention include Hardee, Claude Christopher, Jimmy Smith, Gene Brown, State Secretary-Treasurer Stuart Savage, and Harold Ross. The 1960 convention will be held in Burlington with the Graham Rescue Squad playing host.

Minister, Ike Differ On Talks

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH. PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — President Eisenhower's spokesman is saying one thing and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan another about how summit conference prospects stand. But there is no indication of any real conflict. It appears to boil down to a matter of the background against which the British and United States statements were made over the weekend. The first came from Macmillan, who is engaged in a hot national election contest to continue his Conservative party in government control. The prime minister, whose campaign strategy underscores his advocacy of an East-West summit meeting, told a news conference at party headquarters such a meeting "seems to be set except for the time and place — and the people who will represent Britain."

Supreme Court Begins New Term

By PAUL M. YOST. WASHINGTON (AP) — A 17-minute session today launched the Supreme Court on a new term expected to produce major decisions affecting national relations. The nine black-robed judges, appearing to be in good health and excellent spirits after summer vacations, marched to their places on the high bench at the customary stroke of noon. They faced a courtroom packed with Justice Department officials, attorneys, personal friends and relatives of the jurists plus run-of-the-mill tourists, and other spectators. Among these were retired Justices Stanley F. Reed and Harold H. Burton. For Chief Justice Earl Warren the brief session marked the start of his seventh year on the high tribunal. He first took his seat there on Oct. 5, 1953. Flanking Warren were Justices Hugo L. Black and Felix Frankfurter, both of whom have long since passed the voluntary retirement age of 70. Black will be 74 in February; Frankfurter will be 77 Nov. 15. Neither has given any indication of having retirement plans. Opening day ceremonies included the admission of 39 attorneys to practice. Then a loud bang from the crier's gavel gave notice the court would be in recess until next Monday. Two pilot appeals directly affecting enforcement of the 1957 Civil Rights Act are among the more than 800 cases already entered on the court's unusually heavy docket. Heading the civil rights cases is

Minister, Ike Differ On Talks

By PRESTON GROVER. MOSCOW (AP) — The flying Soviet space laboratory will reach its closest distance to the moon Tuesday and make mankind's first photographs of its hidden face, Tass said today. Slowed by the relentless gravitational tug of the earth, the flying laboratory should come within 4,350 miles of the moon at 5 p.m.—9 a.m. EST—Tuesday, the official news agency said. As it approached the moon, the interplanetary station—that's what the Russians call it—has separated from the last stage of the cosmic rocket that launched it Sunday, Tass added. The agency said that at noon Moscow time — 4 a.m. EST—the station was 248,000 kilometers or 154,000 miles from the earth and over the eastern part of the Indian Ocean. This was well over the halfway mark. Tass said the apparatus is moving toward the moon more slowly than the first and second Luniks. This is to enable it to pass round the moon and be pulled back to earth instead of flying off into space as did the first moon shot last January. Much conflicting data is being given out on what the satellite is doing or is likely to do. Tass put the flying laboratory about 20,000 miles farther from the earth at noon than did the Moscow Planetarium. The planetarium put the moon distance at 215,000 kilometers—133,515 miles. Tass' announcement today that the satellite would pass within 4,350 miles of the moon differed from the original Soviet announcement, which placed the distance at about 6,210 miles. The unmanned space station has a camera aboard. Its pictures were to be translated into radio signals which would be sent back to the earth. An unnamed astronomer declared triumphantly over Moscow radio: "It is now a new moon and that means that the other side of the moon is brightly lighted by the rays of the sun. What lies there? Soviet scientists will have the reply to this question before long."

but the official announcements gave no details on it. Y. K. Fedorov, member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, said, "The tremendous amount of data gathered by the many measuring devices is being regularly transmitted back to earth." An announcement said the satellite can broadcast two to four hours a day, drawing its power from solar batteries. Soviet physicist Lev Ponayeton of Leningrad said data from the unseen side of the moon will help to determine its shape and distribution of mass. He said this would be of tremendous help in manned space flights. Felix Zizel, scientific commentator for Moscow radio, said the project will not make an extensive study of the moon. That will be done later, he said, from a rocket timed to orbit around the moon. The original announcement said the space station is on a course that should take it around the moon at a distance of about 6,200 miles. Prof. Harrie S. Massey, chairman of the British National Committee for Space research, said the Soviets "certainly will be making a systematic study of the radiation belt in outer space revealed by the American pioneer rockets. They'll also be measuring the concentration of electrically charged particles in outer space and their nature."

In describing the launching early Sunday, the Soviet news agency Tass said: "Aboard the rocket is an automatic interplanetary station. The launching was made with the aid of a multistage rocket. The last stage of the rocket attained the prescribed speed and dropped the interplanetary station on the required orbit." Calling the space vehicle a "interplanetary station" created surprise in Western scientific circles. Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass., said Western scientists use the term to describe a big satellite which can be used to land on, live on and launch other rockets from. Britain's giant radio telescope at Jodrell Bank picked up signals from the Soviet station within minutes after Moscow sent a telegram pinpointing its position. The signals sounded for 20 minutes and then stopped, as though they had been switched off. The flying station was reported loaded with scientific equipment.

Little Joe Has Big Performance

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Little Joe booster rocket has turned in a big performance for space scientists. The rocket Sunday hoisted a dummy space capsule with an inert escape rocket system to an altitude of 40 miles above the Atlantic Ocean. They were intentionally destroyed according to plan about 2 1/2 minutes after launching. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration stamped the test successful. The launching from the Wallops Island, Va., research station was the first in a series for the Little Joe. The dummy space capsule was only a boiler plate mock-up of the type that will carry man into space. Neither the capsule nor the escape system was instrumented for the test of the rocket's booster, launching and destruct systems. The Little Joe is a 24-foot, 20,000-pound rocket. The 10-foot capsule it carries weighs one ton and is surmounted by a 16-foot escape rocket. The escape rocket is designed to pull the capsule several thousand feet above the main rocket if something goes wrong during a launching. It then is supposed to open parachutes and safely lower the capsule to earth.

Committee Rejects Strike-Ending Offer

By JOHN MOODY. PITTSBURGH (AP)—The United Steelworkers' decision-making Wage Policy Committee today rejected as "completely unsatisfactory" a steel industry proposal for ending the 83-day-old nationwide steel strike. USW President David J. McDonald said an immediate effort would be made to resume negotiations with the steel industry. He said he was hopeful a session could be arranged yet today. The 170-member Wage Policy Committee, which must act on all contract proposals, was told to stand by for a possible second session later this afternoon. The meeting — closed to newsmen — followed by one day a session of the union's 33-member Executive Board at which a new industry contract proposal, including a money package, reportedly was found unsatisfactory. A recommendation of the Executive Board was handed to the Wage Policy Committee shortly after today's session had started. Several members who had attended the Executive Board meeting said the industry offer was rejected unanimously. The pessimistic reports raised speculation President Eisenhower will invoke the Taft-Hartley law this week and send the half million strikers back to the mills at least for an 80-day cooling-off period. President David J. McDonald of the Steelworkers would not say if the executive board recommended rejection. But he did say he has the solid support of the striking members. After the board meeting, McDonald said: "Reports from the directors who have been close to the men back home during this strike indicate a remarkable degree of high morale, unity and determination among our people."

Textiles Are Used For Upholstery

RALEIGH — Many pieces of furniture are covered with fabrics and very little wood is visible. These fabrics are known as upholstery fabrics and may be found in many textures, designs, quality, and colors.

Miss Charlotte Womble, home development specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, says any textile may be used for upholstery provided the cloth is sturdy enough to resist fading, soiling and will withstand wear.

Fabrics should blend with the color scheme, decorative purpose, and style of furniture. Texture is an important factor to consider. Miss Womble says that smooth textured fabrics give a dressy appearance and are more formal while rough textures lend interest to casual living.

Miss Womble says, "When selecting upholstery, it is important to get fabrics which will not stretch, shrink, fade, deteriorate in sunlight, and will resist soiling."

Mrs. Josephine Dees Named 'Sponsor Queen'

Mrs. Josephine Dees of the Greenville Women of the Moose was named "Sponsor Queen" at the state conference of the Women of the Moose held in Winston-Salem yesterday and Saturday.

Mrs. Dees was crowned by Mrs. Enda Coniffie of Fayetteville, Deputy Grand Regent. She was presented with gifts from various members and chapters of the state, and received a bouquet of roses from H. Theo Lewis, president of the N. C. Moose Association.

Attendants to the queen were Mrs. Bonnie Singleton of Greenville, Mrs. Coniffie of Fayetteville, Mrs. Helen Hudgins of Burlington, Mrs. Ida Kimble of High Point, Mrs. Mamie Barger of Lenoir, Mrs. Billie Bowring of High Point, Mrs. Gladys Jenkins of Burlington, and Mrs. Nita Rowland of Greenville.

The queen was recognized for her work in obtaining new chapter members.

The local chapter won the attendance prize for having the most members from a single chapter.

At the General Sessions, three Greenville members participated in the program. They were Mrs. Earline Coghill, Jr. Graduate Regent, who spoke on Executive Meetings; Mrs. Josephine Dees, Senior Regent, who spoke on Membership Building; and Mrs. Thelma Evans Recorder, spoke briefly on Keeping Chapter Records.

Others taking part in the conference from Greenville were Mrs.

Emily Johnston, Mrs. Louise Car-Presser, Mrs. Hildred Darden, Mrs. Ruth Sutton, Mrs. Eisie Sutton, Mrs. Carrie Oakley, Mrs. Rachel Hubbard, Mrs. Marie White and Mrs. Bettie Smith.

Club Women Return From Meet

RALEIGH — Home Demonstration Club delegates recently returned from the meeting of the Associated Country Women of the World in Edinburgh, Scotland.

According to Mrs. Gilbert English, Trinity, Rt. 2, the meeting was a jewel with many facets — beautiful city, gracious people, friendly delegates, and marvelous programs. She said, "Although delegates were different in custom and costume, our aspirations and needs were similar. All were interested in subjects from how to improve family living to world conditions and international affairs."

Mrs. H. C. Little, Denver, Rt. 1, reported it was interesting to see so many delegates speak different languages but all speaking for peace and a greater understanding between nations.

"Wherever we landed, we were given a small bouquet of lavender healths for good luck," said Mrs. David Williams of Rose Hill. "That was the only passport we needed to become members of the Scottish Women's Rural Institute."

Other delegates were: Mrs. George Frady, Canton; Mrs. J. P. Morgan, Shawboro; Mrs. V. I. Hokaday, Roanoke Rapids; and Miss Verna Stanton, Charlotte. All reported that the aims and interests of the women from all countries were much alike.

Graduated

MISS ALICE CANNON . . . daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Cannon of Rt. 1, Ayden, graduated from the Park View Hospital School of Nursing on September 2 after completing three years of training.

AFTER SCHOOL

Most mothers like their children to change their clothes when they come home from school. If you do, start from the first day training them where to put their good school clothes. Have them put shoes where they can find them the next morning.

If the children know to put their soiled school clothes in the clothes hamper, you will not have to go to their rooms and pick them up yourself.

Revival services will begin tonight at the Winterville Pentecostal Holiness Church under the direction of the Rev. W. A. Renfro and Charlie Stepesons from Elizabeth City. Services will start each night at 7:30, and special singing will be featured each night. A singing convention is planned Sunday afternoon, October 11, at 2 o'clock.

Money Problem Forecast For 1961

Will state revenues brought about by economic growth in North Carolina during the current biennium make up for the withholding tax windfall of $27 million that will be spent for current operations between now and July 1961?

That question has been debated throughout North Carolina since Gov. Hodges proposed the withholding system of income tax collections early this year. It is likely to continue well into the legislative session of 1961 and to have a direct bearing on the financial policies for the state set by the legislature.

Just this week Gov. Hodges reiterated his opinion that the 1961 legislature will not face financial difficulties created by the spending of the windfall money for current operations in this biennium. He did so in defending the fiscal policies of his administration before the Young Democrats of the state.

While many North Carolinians are skeptical that economic growth during the biennium will provide sufficient new revenues to off-set the $27 million tax windfall, it is significant that many legislators who cannot be termed "pro-Hodges" have voiced opinions similar to those of the governor.

It is also significant, we believe, that the outlook for increased tax revenues because of economic growth now being voiced by the governor are much different from those he voiced before the 1959 legislature convened. Prior to the convening of the legislature, Gov. Hodges repeatedly warned citizens of the state that tax increases might be necessary to meet the increased demands being made on the state's government. In a conference with newsmen on one occasion Gov. Hodges expressed the opinion that revenues from the state's economic growth between 1957 and 1959 would not provide sufficient new money to meet the increased needs of the state in this biennium. Apparently, the governor was right, otherwise the windfall legislation would not have been necessary to balance the budget.

In order to prevent sharp tax increases for the biennium which begins in 1961, the economic growth of the state will have to be sufficient to make up for the $27 million tax windfall as well as the normal increases in the cost of government services and operations that might be expected.

There is no doubt that North Carolina is increasing its rate of economic development. It is adding more industrial plants and more new jobs with each passing month. There is every reason to believe that the rate of development will continue to increase throughout this biennium. Even so, if the rate of growth from '57 to '59 was insufficient even to provide enough new tax money to meet the normal growth demands of the state in that two year period, can we expect the growth from '59 to '61 to be sufficient to meet the demands brought about by growth in addition to providing an extra $27 million?

We have every confidence in the future economic development of North Carolina. We trust the predictions of Gov. Hodges and others prove correct. In the meantime we'll stick to our previous opinion—and hope we're wrong—that the 1961 legislature is going to be confronted with one of the most difficult financial problems in recent history because the 1959 legislators decided to spend a huge chunk of non-recurring state revenue for recurring state expenses.

Another Divorce In State Agencies

By Lynn Nisbet

DIVORCE? — There may be another major divorce action pending in State government. Many people think the next significant reorganization step will be separation of the Commerce & Industry Division from the Department of Conservation and Development and made the nucleus for an independent agency with full departmental status.

Such a step would follow precedent established in 1947 when control over non-commercial fish and field game was transferred to the new Wildlife Resources Commission. The 1959 General Assembly combined responsibility for water regulations, which previously had been vested in three or four agencies, in the new Department of Water Resources.

After control of inland, fishing, field game and water resources were taken out of the C&I department still has widely diversified responsibilities. The department has administrative divisions for State advertising and tourist-travel promotion; commerce and industry, for industrial development; commercial fisheries, including phases of conservation and promotion; community planning, for cooperation with local people in overall utilization of resources; forestry, for fire control and orderly reforestation; mineral resources, which is becoming increasingly important; and the administration of State parks.

There have been serious suggestions that the commercial fisheries and forestry divisions should be independently administered. Majority opinion of those who have studied the problems doubt such separation would be wise. From the beginning of the Umstead administration early in 1953 until now, the commerce-industry division has been so emphasized that it had become almost a case of the tail wagging the dog. Governor Hodges has made industrial development the major objective of his administration.

HISTORY — When Governor McLean in 1925 sponsored establishment of the Department of Conservation and Development, of which the old Geologic Survey and the Commercial Fisheries Commission were the chief components, the main idea was to conserve and develop natural resources — fish and game, forests and minerals — primarily for the benefit of North Carolinians.

The present extensive State advertising program grew out of the Governor's Hospitality Committee, established by Governor Hoey in 1937-38. A natural corollary of that idea was the development of a tourist business, now worth more than a third of a billion dollars a year to the State. Plans for industrial promotion were sidetracked in 1939 by war in Europe, followed by U. S. intervention in World War II.

For four or five years after that shooting war ended North Carolina faced necessity for rehabilitating its roads and schools, which had suffered deterioration during the hostilities. It was not until around 1952-53 that real attention could be given to industrial development in order to provide jobs for farm workers who were being displaced by machines. It would not be accurate or fair to say that conservation and development of "natural resources" have been neglected; but, certainly since 1953 major emphasis has been on industrial expansion. It is recognized that some balance must be maintained, but it is inevitable that sound economy depends upon North Carolina moving out of the strictly home-farm category.

With that present and probably continuing emphasis on industry, many people think the time has come to set up a separate department to deal with the problem. C&I will still have a big job to do with its other obligations.

COMPONENTS — The proposed new department in all probability would include the State Ports Authority along with the present C&I commerce-industry division as its nucleus. This tie-in has already been accomplished with removal of the Ports Authority offices from Wilmington to the same floor in the Education Building at Raleigh where C&I is quartered, and by designation of Ed Kirk, assistant director of C&I, as secretary of the Ports Authority.

The plan to incorporate the Ports Authority into a new department designed to promote industrial progress, contemplates that the ports section might give more attention to development of shipping on rivers and canals as feeders to the two big deep water ports at Morehead City and Wilmington. There is considerable feeling that ports management, present and past, given over emphasis to big business, passenger and freight cargo, in competition with Norfolk, Charleston and Savannah, and not enough attention to developing local service.

The concept that the deep sea ports should give more consideration to North Carolina needs than to those of big shipping companies is in line with the idea that any new industry sought to be located in this state should be evaluated on its appropriateness to improving our conditions rather than building out a factory which is in trouble somewhere else. Many people who have studied the problem think that the suggested new agency, which might be dubbed the Department of Industrial Development, can best serve these purposes. It would be free from administrative involvement with such more or less indirectly related problems of fishing, forestry and mining.

Budget Question Still Discussed

By RALPH ROBEY

In Washington there still is extensive and, frequently, heated discussion as to whether President Eisenhower won his battle to balance the budget. It would appear that this should be an easy question to answer, but it is not.

The controversy started last January when the new Congress convened. An extraordinarily large proportion of the members had been elected with the aid of labor union support. It was their clear intention to enact large proportion of the members had been elected with the aid of labor union support. It was their clear intention to enact large spending bills—as an aid to recovery — and an almost endless list of increased welfare proposals.

The President immediately made it clear that he was not going to travel down that path—that to the best of his ability he was going to hold appropriations down to the point where spending would be below receipts taken in by the Treasury.

The fireworks, of course, were not slow in starting, and they continued until the Congress adjourned.

To carry out his determination the President vetoed one spending bill after another. In some instances the veto was based upon the amount being larger than the President thought necessary. In other instances it was because the bill provided for a type of spending which was believed unwise. Perhaps the most surprising veto was that of the public works bill. This is known as "pork barrel" legislation and, according to reports, no president since Cleveland has had courage to veto it. The first veto of this measure was sustained, but Congress quickly passed another bill providing for all the same projects, but at an aggregate cost of 2½ per cent less. The President also vetoed this, but in this instance the President was over-ruled for the first time since he took office.

Why, then, should there continue to be a controversy over whether the President won his battle? There are two principal reasons. First, the Democratic leaders insist that they held appropriations about $1.5 billion below the President's budget requests, and superficially that is correct. The reply of the Administration and its spokesmen is that this does not take into account programs being started which will cost much more in future years.

Second, the total of appropriations does not determine or control the actual volume of spending. This is because of unspent balances from previous appropriations. Even if one grants the Democratic leadership claim of holding down appropriations, it does not follow that the budget will be balanced. That will depend upon how much the Administration is willing to release for actual spending. The Administration's mid-year budget review, released a few days ago, forecast a surplus of $95 million.

It is my personal opinion that for the fiscal year ending next June 30 we shall have not more than a billion dollar surplus, or more than a billion dollar deficit. Many careful students are of the opinion that the deficit will be two or three times this large, and it still is too early to attempt to prove that they are wrong. We may be sure, however, that if President Eisenhower had not entered this battle, we would be anticipating really significant deficits.

NEW YORK (AP) — Those who put a light in the window for the one way do not always depend on Thomas Alva Edison.

Last year some $1,196,000 worth of old-fashioned oil lamps lighted American homes. When I write this I think of an endless landscape in South Dakota with a distant twinkle in the dark.

How often did bandits interrupt the 1,966-mile delivery of U. S. mail from St. Joseph, Mo., to San Francisco during the 18-month life of the Pony Express? Only once was mail lost.

This marvelous record of American communications had a wry result — the completion of a coast-to-coast telegraph system made the pony run unnecessary and pauperized the genius that sponsored it.

Other Editors Saying.. Strength Losing Industrial Men For Today

(Hertford County Herald)

The fact that two top governmental industry-hunters have left the employ of North Carolina to go to South Carolina just when this State is supposedly in the midst of its great industry-hunting effort seems to indicate that maybe all is not as rosy in this drive as it might be.

Walter Harper, head of the Department of Conservation and Development's industry-hunting outfit, left in August to be chief industry-hunter in South Carolina. Then, this month, Gerald F. Albright, head of the small industries unit and a man who was perhaps next to Harper in ability, has left to join Harper.

These men, it would seem, would think that North Carolina is the place to be for their work. The state, according to its industry-hunting governor, is in an exciting period of industry-hunting and should be a good place for men who make that their game.

Of course, these men were tempted with hefty salary increases. Much of the reason for their moving was personal.

Still, there is some room for doubt that our industry hunt is all it is cracked up to be when its two top governmental practitioners feel that there are greener pastures in another southern state and that state is South Carolina of all places.

The fact probably is, our state's industry hunt is not much more and they are liberty, equality, and fraternity." — G. K. Cherterton.

How do you feel about a mised up desk? When I see a piled up desk, I think, "Here is something a man wants to come back to." When I see a spotlessly clean desk, I say to myself "He must dislike his task to make it so easy for the next man to come in and take his place. His desk has no identity. He probably has less."

Words are exciting things. You dislike them or like them for your own reasons. Words belong to you or they don't. I like the open sound of "hello," the mellow sound of "mellow," but brake my thought against "grudge" and "drudge" and always thought "mellifluous" was never spoken except by people who had marshmallows in their mouths.

There is no doubt that English has the worst word known in any language. It is "goodby."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

PEACE OF MIND

I sat with a friend of mine on the porch of his summer house late one hot afternoon. His dog lay stretched out in the sunshine, drowsing happily, occasionally rousing enough at the sound of his master's voice to open one eye and beat his tail lazily against the floor.

"Talk about peace of mind," my friend said, looking at the dog, "there's real peace and contentment."

In a way, of course, he was right. Not only was the dog happy and content at the moment, but he was entirely free from the worries that plague most of us: How am I going to pay my taxes? What will the doctor report about my child? Will business improve? Will there be an atomic war?

Some of us, when we wish or even pray for peace of mind, seem to want to be very much like that dog—free from work and worry. But that kind of peace is simply not possible for intelligent human beings—certainly not for Christians, who know that they are their brothers' keepers and that they cannot ignore their neighbors' needs.

Real peace of mind comes not from the absence of problems but from the possession of confidence and strength to face the problems. Christians know that only God can help them to that confidence and strength.

More Predictions For Business

By Elmer Roessner

It was predicted here August 8 that Khrushchev would attempt to create a climate for more Soviet-American trade; it was predicted that American producers and exporters would carry the ball after Nikita's kickoff.

The first part of this look-ahead materialized; this is to predict action in the next few weeks will fulfill the second part. Khrushchev played it just right. He mentioned possibilities of more foreign trade forcefully, but he did not beg for it.

Today, thousands of American businessmen are asking themselves, "Can I make a buck if there's more trade with Russia?" And those who think the answer is yes will spearhead the campaign to let down restrictions.

MAY BE GOOD IDEA. This is not to say that their mercenary interests will adversely influence American foreign relations, nor is it to say that everyone advocating more trade with Russia is moved by hope of personal gain. As was said here then: "No one ever shoots a paying customer."

Realization of that truism will increase agitation for more trade with Russia. Trade may not only warm up the cold war but also postpone the shooting war. Here are more predictions, based on analyses of the news: More juice: Most fruit and berry crops exceeded expectations this fall, generally exceeding demand. Surpluses are being converted into juices; canned and frozen juice will be bountiful and cheaper next year. More coffee houses: The European coffee-house idea is catching on in the U.S.A. They are springing up everywhere — late-

Moving Toward Middle

By ROGER BABSON

GOTEBORG I had been told by some of my Washington friends who have heard Premier Khrushchev that the forecast as follows: Russia will gradually become more conservative and the United States will gradually become more socialist, "until they meet on a middle ground, like Sweden." With this in mind, I have looked forward with great interest to visiting Sweden, where I now am.

Swedish People Have Security Stockholm the capital is a beautiful city with wide streets and handsome buildings. It has large supermarkets with co-operative managements. Railroads, utilities, and telephones are mostly government owned. The people have old-age assistance, free medical care, and many other things which give them "security." They seem happy, contented, and not overworked. They have only one complaint, namely, that "taxes are very high."

Not only is real estate heavily taxed, but excise taxes exist on most products used by the people from the "cradle to the grave." There also is an expensive bureaucracy of government employees. Even though there were government jobs. Until well after World War I the heavy taxes were cheerfully accepted, as Sweden was very prosperous from 1912 to 1927. But World War II was a different story. Sweden then got little trade, there was much unemployment, and the country went heavily into debt.

Cannot Balance The Budget We all know what happened to Germany, Poland, and many other European countries during World War II. They completely defaulted on their national debt and the value of their "dollars" declined greatly. The Swedish "dollar" — called a KRONA — is now worth only about 19 cents.

Sweden has not balanced its budget since 1952. In fact, the budgetary deficit has been in a decided upward trend, and in the year 1958 the deficit had risen to 1.5 billion Kronor, or to the equivalent of $290 million in American funds.

Sweden's Economic System Discouraging To Executives All the above is disappointing to me, especially as the Swedes do not admit that they are operating under a Socialistic Government. They talk only of a co-operative government. It is true that the Swedish people buy almost everything from the great "Co-operatives" which operate most of the factories and many of the farms and other producers.

Then what is the trouble? I hear no complaint of dishonesty; the workers are faithful and there is less "leaning on shovels" than in the United States. The difference is that the able Swedish executives leave the country, going largely to the United States where they can earn much more. Because of Sweden's economic system the country cannot get efficient managers; and this applies to the banks and all offices which receive high salaries in our country. The lid on executives' salaries is the great handicap to the Swedish Co-operatives, railroads, steamships, and utilities.

Our Capitalistic System I am sorry to find this state of affairs in Sweden. Government-operated businesses need the competition of privately owned, fairly taxed competition. But our privately owned companies also need more competition as they become bigger. This is especially true of the "Dow-Jones Industrial" concerns, which have recourse to unlimited capital. We further can get the world's best managers, since we can pay very high salaries. Our nation needs "small businesses," just as a church needs a Sunday School. Yet our good executives are being forced into the professions and government jobs because of the very high taxes levied on "big business."

Not only does the Swedish system lack the income to attract good managers, but Sweden is losing its best mechanics and artisans. Khrushchev may see this danger ahead for Russia. It may be his reason for keeping his workers at home and not letting them see how much better they could live in the United States than in Russia. This may be one reason why the Communistic nations want to make the whole world communistic, — namely, to prevent the moving of their best people to a so-called capitalistic country where business is privately owned.

'Back Slapping' To Be Withheld Until Performance Is Proven

By JOE F. KANE
WASHINGTON (AP) — American scientists have tipped their hats to the Soviets who launched a new space vehicle Sunday.

But they withheld any big slaps on the back until they see how the space traveler performs.

There was no attempt to discredit the Soviet launching itself — only a wait and see attitude on its performance. The U.S. space officials did not know for sure just what kind of a vehicle had been launched, where it was to go and what it was to do. Their information was limited almost entirely to that given out by the Soviets — and that was vague.

T. Keith Glennan, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said he had received word of the launching with considerable interest.

"We recognize the significance of this effort to send a probe around the moon and extend our congratulations," he said. "With the rest of the world scientific community we shall await the data from this new probe in its journey between the earth and the moon."

There was a question as to whether the vehicle was meant to make one or more circles around the moon or merely include it in a big orbit around the earth.

First Soviet reports described the vehicle as an "interplanetary station" that would whirl around the moon and then go into a cigar-shaped orbit around the earth.

Moscow Planetary experts said the vehicle was in fact only another earth satellite that for one circuit would include the moon within its flight.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory at Cambridge, Mass., also questioned use of the term "interplanetary station."

"I suspect they are using a fancy term to give people the impression they have something they do not," Whipple said.

Whipple said it was his impression the Soviets put into orbit not a space station but a rocket around the moon.

NASA scientists hope to make contact with the vehicle today through the Goldstone tracking station in the Southern California desert.

Body Of Youth Finally Found

PHOENICIA, N.Y. (AP) — The long, grim hunt for little David Raleigh is over.

A last intensive search, launched before the first snows in this Catskill Mountain area, uncovered the remains of the 5-year-old boy Saturday. His mother is a native of Southern Pines, N.C. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Grover, live there.

State Police Cpl. Nick Lecakes found the body in a glade a mile from the camp where the child vanished last June 13.

David had gone with his family to a vacation at nearby Lake Winnisook. He was last seen running up a path from the lakefront to the cabin after a boat ride.

A massive search failed to turn up a trace. For nearly four months his father, Stuart F. Raleigh Jr., a Syracuse businessman, led search parties over the area.

This time, with the forests cleared of summer's leaves, a selected group of police and woodsmen found the body near the end of a road.

They concluded the youngster took the wrong fork on the path to the cabin. Coroner Francis J. McCordie said David died of shock and exposure.

Group Opposes Waste Dump

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — A plan of the Atomic Energy Commission to dump radioactive wastes off the North Carolina coast has brought a protest from the State Wildlife Federation.

The federation, closing out its annual convention here Saturday, passed a resolution objecting to the plan. The AEC previously said the waste would not affect the shoreline.

Another resolution asked that North Carolina sportsmen be given the right of public hearings before season dates, bag limits and other regulations regarding hunting and fishing are set.

The resolutions included one protesting the pollution of the Roanoke River which the Federation says is killing striped bass in their spawning grounds.

Re-elected president of the federation was Thomas W. Reese of Hickory.

Group Says Apathy Causes Slack Vote

RALEIGH (AP) — A civil rights group has blamed apathy rather than discrimination as one of the chief reasons why a low percentage of Negroes register to vote in North Carolina.

However, the committee added, the number of Negroes on North Carolina voter rolls is substantial and is increasing every year.

The North Carolina Advisory Committee on Civil Rights, in its state's first survey of its type, revealed that while Negroes comprise a fourth of the population, they contribute only a tenth of the state's voters.

"There is some evidence that the smaller percentage of non-whites who are registered is due to greater apathy among Negro citizens," the report revealed.

The group said there may be some places where obstacles are placed in the path of Negro registration, but "in most counties this is not so."

The report said 17 complaints were received during public hearings. All came from three counties: Northampton, Greene and Halifax. Northampton and Greene were among nine of the state's 100 counties which did not reply to committee questionnaires.

The nine-member committee, headed by McNeil Smith, said

NASA's minitrack radio tracking stations in various parts of the world were alerted to be on the watch.

President Eisenhower, vacationing in California, was being kept informed on the new Soviet future.

If a U. S. moon vehicle had not exploded, 10 days ago on its launching pad, U.S. and Soviet moon-bound rockets might have been cutting through space in a fantastic lunar race.

The American vehicle, scheduled for launching Saturday morning, blew up during an engine test 10 days ago at Cape Canaveral, Fla. The Atlas-Able was designed to ram a 375-pound satellite above the moon.

Press Group Has Temporary Scribe

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Press Assn. has named a temporary secretary-treasurer and appointed a committee to study the possibility of having a full-time executive secretary.

The temporary secretary-treasurer named by the association's directors here Saturday was J. D. Fitz, general manager of the Morganton News Herald. He succeeds Miss Beatrice Cobb, Morganton publisher who died recently after holding the post for many years.

Relief Seen For Stricken State

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Weather weary Oklahomans, flooded and evacuated, waited for relief today from six days of disastrous rains.

The first break in the rains may come tonight. The Weather Bureau forecast light rain for the hard hit eastern and central sections today, but clearing skies to-night.

Oklahoma Civil Defense Director Tom Brett estimates flood waters from the autumn rains caused millions of dollars in property damage.

He said Sunday he would recommend to Gov. J. Howard Edmondson that he declare a major state disaster from the floods.

Red Cross headquarters in Oklahoma City estimated 6,000 persons were forced to leave their homes because of high water and that 729 homes and buildings have been damaged.

Water was highest today here and at Guthrie in north central Oklahoma. Hundreds of families were homeless in both cities.

Volunteers erected sandbag levees here to stem the overflow from the surging Arkansas River which crested late Sunday night almost three feet above flood stage.

The river forecast center warned fresh rains could send the Arkansas even higher.

At Guthrie more than 250 families remained homeless as waters from Cottonwood Creek continued to rise. National Guard troops were on duty.

Thus far, five lives have been lost in the bad weather. Four victims died in auto crashes attributed to the rain, a fifth victim died in a light plane crash.

Evacuations have been without panic. The heaviest toll from the floods may be human misery.

Airmen, Japanese In Bloody Brawl

TOKYO (AP) — Five U.S. airmen and a group of Japanese men clashed in a bloody brawl in near-by Tachikawa Sunday.

One U.S. air policeman was badly cut by a flying beer bottle. Another had to beat his way through an angry crowd of Japanese with his night stick.

The Air Force put an off-limits ban on two streets in the night club and bar district of the city, home of Tachikawa Air Base, America's biggest air supply terminal in Japan.

Japanese police held four Japanese men for investigation of assault. The Air Force said it does not contemplate any punishment of the airmen.

The injured air policeman was Airman Robert L. Greene, 22, of Howertons, Va. Fifteen stitches were required to close the gash in his head. The other airmen suffered only minor injuries.

He told a Ford Hall Forum Sunday night: "Capitalism in the minds of the people of Asia is almost synonymous with colonialism. It seems to me that we should not permit Mr. (Nikita) Khrushchev or any other Communist to write us down as the standard-bearer of capitalism.

"Our economic system has little resemblance to the century-old Marxist concept of capitalism, and we should abolish the word."

WESTCLIFFE, Colo. (AP) — Army vehicles churned through heavy snowdrifts today delivering hay to an estimated 6,000 starving cattle, marooned in mountain pastures.

More than 4,000 of the stranded cattle were reached Sunday by Army vehicles loaded with hay.

Dozens of cattle have died as the result of a vicious snowstorm that dumped more than three feet of snow in a three-day span ended last Saturday.

High Rate Bonds To Hit Market Soon

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—When the U.S. Treasury has to pay 5 per cent to borrow relatively short term money, the little businessman and the ordinary individual know that tough days are in store for those who don't have cash. Stock traders become nervous over what this might do to the business recovery and the expected boom.

The Treasury next week will offer two billion dollars of four-year, 10-month notes with a 5 per cent interest rate. In Wall Street the scuttlebutt is that the offering seems sure to be oversubscribed. U.S. Treasury notes are the best of risks in this unpredictable world. And a 5 per cent return on money lent for less than five years is handsome.

The Treasury is in this fix for several reasons.

1. The government has been spending more money than it is currently taking in. The Treasury has to borrow cash to pay the bills until tax collections pick up early next year. Also some old securities are coming due and the money must be found to retire or refund them.

2. Demand for credit is greater than the supply of lendable funds. The demand comes from businessmen either to finance their operations or to expand them. And it comes from individuals wanting to buy cars and appliances on time or to get a mortgage for a new home. The result is that interest rates have been rising for a year or more.

3. The Federal Reserve System holds that if it made money easier so that people could borrow more and with less pain, it would just be feeding a speculative boom which it fears will get along when

British Parties Even As Election Enters Final Week

LONDON (AP)—Britain's Labor and Conservative parties roared into the final lap of their election battle today running neck and neck.

Public opinion polls showed the Laborites led by Hugh Gaitskell had dramatically closed the gap with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservatives, seeking a third term in the nationwide election of a House of Commons Thursday.

But with only three days to go, a massive and decisive block of voters appeared still undecided. The Liberal News Chronicle's latest poll indicated the two major parties were each backed by 37 1/2 per cent of the nation's 35,400,000 voters.

With the Liberal party supported by only 4 per cent, the poll showed a huge 20 1/2 per cent had not made up their minds. But when these "don't knows" were asked which party they were more inclined to support, they put Labor ahead 42 1/2 per cent to 41.

When the campaign opened just over two weeks ago, the national opinion polls gave Labor little chance. The Conservatives' popularity then appeared sufficient to send them back with a big or bigger majority than the 32-seat margin they won in 1955. There are 630 seats in the House.

But Labor's vigorous grass roots campaign, their glittering promises of tax cuts and increased old-age pensions and some super-slick television electioneering combined to hack away at the Tory lead.

One newspaper survey didn't agree. The right-wing Sunday Dispatch surveyed 208 doubtful districts and concluded the Conservatives would get back with a 51-seat majority.

Gaitskell Sunday night wound up a 2,000-mile tour through the heart of industrial Britain with an explosive speech that lambasted the Conservatives with some of the campaign's strongest phrases.

He called his opponents the "party of the past, the party of jingoism and international anarchy, the party of out-of-date colonialism, the party of Cyprus and Suez, the party of privilege, the party of snobs and the servile and the stuffed shirt." He said it was the "party that must go for the good of Britain and the welfare of the world."

Macmillan continued to campaign on the plank that his forces had given Britain "peace and plenty," and that his personal diplomacy with the leaders of East and West promised more of the same. He predicted a Conservative victory, telling newsmen Sunday night, "I am more and more confident as the election proceeds."

Stassen Staying Clear Of Fight
 PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Harold Stassen, who was unsuccessful in three bids for the Republican presidential nomination, says he'll stay clear of any fight for the party's nomination next year.

Stassen referred specifically to a possible fight for the nomination between Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

Groucho's 'Acid Wit' Shows In Autobiography

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Scratch an actor and you'll find an author these days. Latest to succumb to the "writing dodge" is Groucho Marx.

His book, "Groucho and Me," is billed as "The Autobiography of Groucho Marx by (of all people!) Groucho Marx." But don't let the publisher's coyness fool you. The book is well laced with Groucho's acid wit and disregard for what is considered proper.

It is all Groucho. He writes that he eschewed the usual practice of celebrities in employing ghosts. "The fact remains," he adds, "that most autobiographies don't have too many facts remaining. Ninety per cent of them are 90 per cent fiction. If the real truth were ever written about most men in public life, there wouldn't be enough jails to house them. Lyne has become one of the biggest industries in America."

The book reads the way Groucho talks—irreverent, rambling, spouting whatever pops into his head. The result is an incomplete autobiography—the facts are available in other books—but an often stimulating view of Marxian philosophy. Among his opinions: Farmers—"No matter how many farmers we plow under, those fake rustics manage to rouge more money out of the government than all the other pressure groups combined."

Sex—"I don't want to be irreverent, but I think you will agree that whoever created sex certainly knew his business. Though everyone is crazy about it those who are not are beneath contempt and will bear watching," the word itself, small as it is, seems to frighten more people than antisestablishmentarianism.

Broadway—"Hokum and rough-house laughter have virtually disappeared from the stage. There are scores of plays about miscegenation, homosexuals, the beat generation, dysnomaniacs and hopheds, but there is very little fun left on the stage. I believe the absence of robust laughter is partially responsible for the present condition of the theater."

Chaplin—"Charlie lives in Switzerland now, but it doesn't make any difference where he lives. He's still the greatest comic figure that the movies, or any other medium, ever spawned."

Skelton—"Don't laugh, but I think the logical successor to Chaplin is Skelton Red. To my mind he is the most unclaimed clown in show business...."

Criminal May Face Deporting

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Deportation proceedings were started Friday against James Francis Duffy who was on the FBI's 10 most wanted list when he was arrested recently.

Duffy, 51, is serving 2 1/2 to 5 years in prison for robbing the Drexelbrook Inn of $5,200. The U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service said he was brought to this country in 1910, three years after his birth in England, but never became a U.S. citizen.

Pirates Continue To Roll; Crush Catawba Indians 34-7

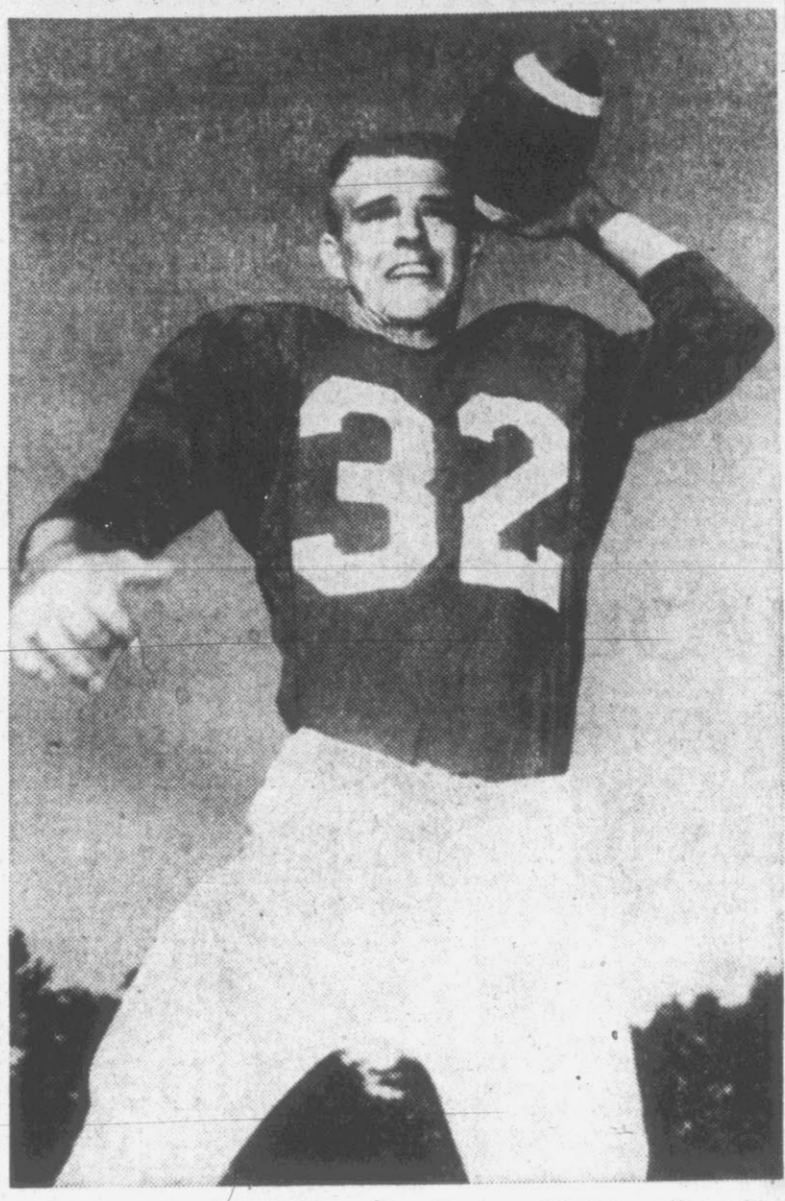

Bass And Speight Lead In East Carolina Victory

By JOHNNY HUDSON... SALISBURY — East Carolina's halfback duo of James Speight and Glenn Bass turned the Catawba Stadium into a race track Saturday night...

moved it to the two and Sam Morrow went over on third down for the lone Indian score. Bob Sittler converted the extra point. It was only seconds before East Carolina was back in the game. James Speight returned the kickoff to the 32 and then Glenn Bass cut off his left tackle and like a scared rabbit ahead of a pack of dogs, cut down the sidelines and was gone for a 68 yard tally. Jerry Carpenter came in to boot the point which tied the game. James Speight, the Bucs All-Conference star, set up the second ECC score with a 43 yard jaunt. After momentarily stopping on their own 39, Speight hit the center of the field on an inside reverse, fought his way past several would-be tacklers and stumbled into the open. Never regaining his balance, Speight was pulled down on the Catawba 18.

touchdowns cross the Catawba paydirt with the Pirate, third unit picking up the final score. Sonny Basinger got loose for a 23 yard gallop to set ECC on a march which almost resulted in another touchdown. The elusive Speight tip-toed off his tackle and scored from 30 yards out but a 15 penalty crossed out the score and threat. Zehring's pass was intercepted but Catawba was forced to kick and Basinger almost shook loose. The 155 pound Concord native sliced back and forth before finally being tripped up by an official. Basinger netted 21 yards on the punt return and ECC got another score this time. Speight picked up the tally by going the final 10 yards for paydirt. Zehring passed to Bill Cain for two points and the Bucs led 28-7.

FRESHMAN THREAT—Dan Rouse, a Virginia native, will be expected to pace East Carolina's offensive attack Thursday night when they meet Chowan Junior College in College Stadium.

Gamecock Club 'Sticks Together'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS "Hard-nose togetherness." That's how South Carolina football Coach Warren Giese describes his team's spirit after Saturday's 30-14 trouncing of Georgia. "I've never seen a team with such a will to play. The whole outfit sort of sticks together as one," he said in an interview. The Gamecocks, unbeaten in three games, are bidding for a higher national ranking. They were 16th last week. North Carolina and Duke had their first victory Saturday after two defeats each. Clemson and Wake Forest lost for the first time after taking their first two games. North Carolina, rebuilt by Coach Jim Hickey after the 8-28 loss to Notre Dame, beat North Carolina State 20-12, and Duke drubbed Rice 24-7. Defending ACC champion Clemson fell to Georgia Tech 16-6, and Wake Forest lost to Tulane, 6-0. For Virginia and Maryland, Saturday was another disillusioning day. Florida smothered the Cavaliers 55-10, and Syracuse shut out Maryland 29-0. Virginia has lost three straight, and Maryland the last two. Victory was sweet for Duke and North Carolina. Duke had lost close ones to South Carolina and Ohio State, but was primed for Rice. "We eliminated virtually all of our mistakes," said Coach Bill Murray. About the same time, in Chapel Hill, Hickey was saying, "I was real proud of our players. They showed a lot of spirit when things went badly against us." N.C. State Coach Earle Edwards thought the turning point was when his team didn't try a field goal when it had the ball on the 10-yard line on the first play of the fourth quarter. It was a fourth down situation, with three yards to go, and the attempt for a first down was stopped two yards short. "If we had made the field goal, we would have had a 15-7 lead and I don't believe they would have caught us," said Edwards. Clemson Coach Frank Howard was disappointed but not disillusioned. "This was our worst game of the season," he said, but quickly added, "we can still have a 9-1 record." Clemson is still atop the ACC standings with two conference victories, compared with South Carolina's one. Wake Forest's loss proved that Coach Paul Amen was correct when he said the team couldn't keep coming back Saturday after Saturday in the late stages of the game and win. The Deacons did it twice, against Florida State and Virginia Tech. They tried to rally after Tulane's third period score, but their drives fell short. There are three conference games on next Saturday's schedule, highlighted by the North Carolina-South Carolina clash at Chapel Hill. Clemson will be host to N.C. State, and Wake Forest plays at Maryland. Duke is at Pitt and Virginia meets Virginia Military at Lynchburg, Va. in nonconference games.

EC Junior Varsity To Play Chowan Thursday

East Carolina's junior varsity, with one victory and a defeat, started preparing for Chowan today. The EC freshmen take on the junior college powerhouse here Thursday night to get homecoming activities underway at the college. The "Baby Bucs" downed Frederick Junior College 6-0 in their opener and then faded in the final quarter to lose an 8-0 decision to the scholarship-laden freshmen of the Citadel last week. Coach Gary Mattocks will be trying to throw some extra offensive zest into his club Thursday when they battle Chowan in a night tilt. The freshmen coach has had high praise for the defensive work of his club but is still looking for a scoring combination. Boasting a large club, the freshmen will try to build their offensive machine around Dan Rouse.

The Virginia native has quarterbacked both games this season and EC coaches feel that he will be a future star here. Gary Parker, a bohnuk last season, is also slated to see action here. Parker is also a Virginia native and big things are expected of him next season following the graduation of Ralph Zehring and Jerry Carpenter. Billy Strickland has been the big runner thus far. A converted guard, Strickland has reaped much praise from Mattocks and his assistant, Lee Atkinson. James Strawbridge and Paul Eilers head the forward wall. Vic Garrison, a center, has also been a demon on defense in the opening games. The game, slated to start at 8:00 Thursday night, is being sponsored by the Greenville Jaycees and Touchdown Club with proceeds going toward a new scoreboard for the stadium.

Dodgers Edge Sox 3-1; Wynn, Craig To Pitch Today

Haney Resigns; Seek New Pilot

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves are seeking a name manager to succeed Fred Haney who resigned Sunday night after leading the club to two pennants and two second-place finishes in four years.

Lou Perini, who disclosed that Haney, 61, had been offered a one-year contract but had turned it down, said he had no idea who will handle the club in 1960.

He added, however, that the new manager will be a man with experience, reputation and a known ability to handle men.

This was interpreted in some quarters that Perini felt his club needed a leader with strong will and an iron hand.

"We will start from the top and work our way down," he said. "But we won't go down too far."

Perini left open the possibility that the job may go to Birdie Tebbets, the club's executive vice president, if the Braves couldn't find their man.

Tebbetts, who managed the Cincinnati Reds before turning to the executive end of the game, said however, he was not a candidate for the job.

The list of candidates was headed, of course, by Leo Durocher, who managed both the Dodgers and Giants to National League pennants, and Red Schoendienst, veteran Braves second baseman who was sidelined most of the year because of tuberculosis.

Others high on the list include Freddie Hutchinson, manager of the Reds; Eddie Stanky, now in an official capacity with the St. Louis Cardinals; Bobby Bragan, manager of the Spokane club, and former big league manager in Lou Boudreau, now in the radio field, and Bob Scheffing, recently ousted as Chicago Cubs manager.

Ben Geraghty, for years a successful minor league manager in the Braves farm system who led the Louisville club to an American Assn. pennant last season, was ruled out because he is no name manager and lacks big league managerial experience.

"I would think that Durocher would possibly fit the description of the type of manager we will be looking for," a Milwaukee official said. "But right now we have no one in mind. We only know that he must be a highly capable, experienced and strong type of manager. It is no secret that our club is not the easiest to handle."

Durocher, who recently parted company with NBC after serving in an executive capacity since he pressed a desire to return to baseball. He has insisted, however, on acquiring stock in any club with which he becomes connected.

Haney, who said he resigned "in order to be fair to myself and my family with whom I've not spent much time," said he had no immediate plans.

"No," he said. "I'm not interested in another job. You don't give up a $40,000-a-year job to go looking for another one. Right now, I have nothing in mind except to take a vacation with Mrs. Haney."

Haney took over as Milwaukee manager in mid-June of 1956, succeeding Charlie Grimm while the team was on a losing streak. The club promptly won 11 in a row but lost the pennant on the final weekend of the season to the Dodgers.

Haney won the pennant in 1957 and beat the New York Yankees in seven games in the World Series. He won the pennant again in 1958 but lost to the Yankees in seven games after winning three of the first four games. This year the Braves dawdled much of the season, catching up in the last two weeks but finally losing when the Dodgers beat them two straight in a best-of-three playoff.

Although Haney at times was reported to be hard-pressed in controlling his players, and was known not to be on intimate terms with Tebbets, the little-Californian denied that these factors had anything to do with his decision to resign.

"Nothing whatsoever that happened during the past season influenced my decision," he said. "All the officials of the club have given me their 100 per cent cooperation."

REMAINING GAMES

Fourth game at Los Angeles, Monday, Oct. 5

Fifth game at Los Angeles, Tuesday, Oct. 6

Sixth game, if necessary, at Chicago, Friday, Oct. 9

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Chicago's go-go White Sox, still running, but running second, turned back to old guy Early Wynn for today's fourth World Series game against the Los Angeles Dodgers, who have a 2-1 edge.

The Dodgers, now 2-1 favorites to win the world championship after taking Sunday's game 3-1 before a series record crowd of 92,294, are favored at 6-5 for the fourth game behind Roger Craig, the right-hander Wynn beat 11-0 in the opener at Chicago.

Wynn, who had to leave in the eighth inning of that game when his elbow stiffened, is one of the toughest clutch pitchers in the business. He's the right-hander even New York Yankee manager Casey Stengel "would have to pitch if I wanted to win one game."

And that's what the Sox need after blowing chances in every inning Sunday against winner Don Drysdale and reliever Larry Sherry, who put away his second straight series save.

Only two clubs—the 1925 Pittsburghs against Washington, and last year's Yankees against Milwaukee—ever have become world champions after losing three of the first four in a seven-game series. That's the task the Sox would face with another loss today.

"I still think we gotta helluva chance," said manager Al Lopez. "We've been doing things the hard way all year on this club, and we might as well end it that way."

Lopez shrugged when asked whether he still intends to try going in this park. Balls hit off the nearby left field screen plunge frighteningly fast into the fielder's glove. The White Sox, warned that the Dodgers throw out quite a few runners at second here, didn't try for doubles on shots to the screen. "We didn't run any different yesterday than we always do," said Lopez, whose Sox have stolen just one base in four tries against Dodger catcher John Roseboro. That lone steal came in Sunday's first inning. Jim Landis slid into second without drawing a throw from Roseboro, who was watching Nellie Fox, the runner at third.

The Dodgers are 3-3 in steal attempts against Chicago catcher Sherm Lollar, but didn't try any Sunday.

"That Roseboro's okay," said Lopez. "but we got some catchers who can throw in our league, too." Dodger manager Walt Alton, who before the series compared Roseboro potentially with ex-great Roy Campanella, said "We never had worries about his arm. It was his work as a catcher and hitter that worried us when he had to step in for Campy."

There was no base-running gimmick involved in Sunday's decisive seventh inning. Blanked on one hit for six, the Dodgers got rid of loser Dick Donovan on Charlie Neal's single and a pair of two-out walks that loaded the bases. Then they broke the shut-out on Carl Furillo's pinch single, off reliever Gerry Staley, that bounced over shortstop Luis Aparicio's glove.

The Sox, who waited 40 years to get into a World Series, had a dozen hits—all singles, at least one in every inning—and left 11 men on base. Los Angeles had only five hits, putting only one off the screen while the Sox plunked five into it.

The first series game ever played on the West Coast rang up a record $549,071 in receipts at the Coliseum.

The old one-game attendance record was 86,288, at Cleveland in the Indians' 1948 series against Boston's Braves. The single-game receipts record was $480,085.64 when the New York Giants, who swept the series, were at Cleveland in 1954.

Third game totals upped the money in the players' pool to $611,096.86. While the players knocked the Coliseum as a ballpark, it takes no rap as a concrete cash box.

By matching today's take, $280,026.67, this will be the jolliest player pool and the richest series from any angle. The pool now shimmers at $611,096.86. The record, set in 1954's four-game series, is $881,763.72.

SHADOW OF GUILT

A NEW THRILLER by PATRICK QUENTIN

CHAPTER 17

"George, I can't race the police without Mal," Vivien Ryson told me over the phone. "I simply can't. You've got to come over."

"How can we?" I said. "The moment we showed up, Lieutenant Trant would see through it all in a second."

"But . . . but . . ." Vivien stammered bewilderedly.

"If Mal's gun is the weapon that killed Saxby, then it's hopeless anyway. Trant's bound to trace it. But just do the best you can. Stall. And call us the moment he's gone."

"But George," she was moaning.

"I'm sorry, Vivien. There's nothing else to do."

I put down the receiver and turned to my wife. She was gazing straight ahead of her with an expression of such naked despair that it was painful to look at her. Then, after a long pause, she said, "So Chuck took the gun."

"It looks that way, Connie."

She spun on me almost angrily. "You knew last night and you didn't tell me?"

"Of course I didn't know. But last night on the phone Vivien told me about his being in her bedroom. It was only when Trant talked about the gun that I got the idea."

There was a little chair by the phone. She dropped down into it. Her hands were clenched together in her lap. "But if . . . if he look it . . ." She looked up at me. "George, did you notice anything about him yesterday?"

"You mean the way he looked?"

A shiver ran through her body. "Like his mother." She got up again abruptly. "That can't happen, can it? Something like that? It can't be latent in a family for years, never giving a sign and then . . ." She stopped as if she didn't dare put into words what she dreaded. "George, if he took the gun—if he went, like that, to Don . . ."

"I know," I said.

"And Vivien's hopeless. She's never going to stand up to that Lieutenant. She . . . oh, George, what are we going to do?"

I was painfully conscious of her suffering and of her need for comfort. But, as I put my arm around her, all I felt was a smoldering resentment, resentment of this demanding grief, resentment of Ala, and above all, resentment against the circumstances which were entangling me so relentlessly back into a life from which I'd thought I was escaping.

If there'd been something we could do, it would have helped, but there was nothing, absolutely nothing but to wait. I made her sit down on a couch. I sat down with her, plagued by inadequacy and guilt, longing for Tobago—no, not Tobago some nonexistent tropical isle thousands of miles from anywhere, where there would be no one but Eve and me.

Ala came back in about half an hour. We told her, at least I did. Connie just stood watching her, her face an icy, implacable mask.

It wasn't easy for Ala to pretend not to know as much as she did, in fact, know, but once again she handled it with a smoothness which was almost shocking to me. It was only when I told her about Chuck and the gun that the veneer cracked.

"No," she gasped. "No, it can't be true."

"It's true," said Connie.

Ala turned to her. "Then—then you're trying to say . . . ?"

"We're not trying to say anything. We're only telling you the facts," Connie paused. "Perhaps you have something to say."

"Me?" repeated Ala. "Why me?"

"Do you have to ask?"

"But George said that Chuck—"

"George said that no one knows where Chuck was yesterday afternoon and that Vivien's gun is missing. That's all he said. But if the police find out about it, you know what they're going to think. And if the gun does turn out to be Mal's, you're going to have a lot on your conscience, aren't you?"

The tone of my wife's voice was bitterly accusatory. I should have realized, of course, that this was bound to happen.

Connie's love for Chuck had always been the deepest reality of her existence, while her feeling for Ala was something artificial which she'd forced upon herself. Now that Chuck was in danger, it was Ala inevitably who had become the enemy, Ala, the adopted girl whose irresponsible "Hadley" behavior had brought on the disaster.

They stood there, the two of them, ignoring me, watching each other with a deadly intensity.

It was Ala who finally spoke. In a thin, tight voice she said, "Would you kindly explain what you mean by that remark?"

"What remark?"

"You know what remark. Why should I have anything on my conscience?"

"Good heavens!" said Connie. "You can't stand there and say that? You?"

"Why not? What's it got to do with me? Is there any law that says I've got to be in love with Chuck? I thought I could marry him. I thought it was the best thing to do. Then . . . then when Don Saxby came along . . . I know now what he was. Of course I know and I know what a fool I made of myself. But if Chuck was crazy enough to grab up Uncle Mal's gun and dash around and shoot him . . . what's that got to do with me? I'm not responsible for his actions, am I?"

As I watched them glaring at each other, I could have banged their heads together.

Ala had spun around to me. "George, she knows I know it's terrible about Chuck. Can't you stop her picking on me just for once?"

"Picking on her?" echoed Connie. "At a time like this, she can't . . ."

That's when the telephone rang. I jumped to answer it. It was Mal Ryson, his voice sounding thick, almost incoherent.

"George, will you please come over here? Right away?"

"What is it?" I said. "What's happened?"

"Please come. That's all. Just come, all of you."

He hung up. Connie said, "Was it Vivien?"

"Mal," I said. "He wants us to go right over. All of us."

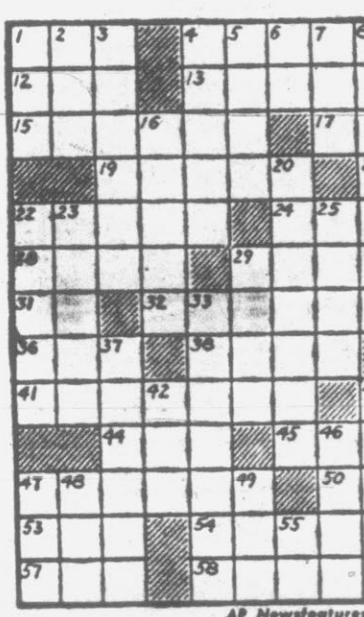

"All of us?" exclaimed Ala. Do

Lost: 800,000 Taxpayers From 1958's Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — Uncle Sam has lost 800,000 taxpayers. The Internal Revenue Service today estimated that the number of income tax returns filed this year dropped by about 800,000 from the 1958 record total of 60 million. Officials were inclined to blame the recession.

Final figures are not available yet and the drop may have been even greater. One official said it may have reached a million.

Bryce W. Bratt of the IRS statistics section, said the drop could not be taken as an indication that more Americans are trying to cheat the government on taxes. IRS statisticians said they believe most of the drop reflected a shrinkage last year in the number of part-time workers.

Despite the drop, tax collections increased by more than two billion dollars to 40 1/2 billions.

Leopold Is Suing For $1,405,000

CHICAGO (AP) — Nathan Leopold, now on parole for his part in the slaying of Bobby Franks, is seeking $1,405,000 in damages, charging that the book and movie "Compulsion" invaded his privacy.

In a suit filed Friday in Circuit Court, Leopold named 57 defendants, including book author Meyer Levin.

Leopold's suit, filed by his attorney Elmer Gertz, alleged that in the book Levin identified Leopold in the public mind as the chief character, Judd Steiner.

Leopold, 35, was freed from Stateville prison on parole in 1958. He and Richard Loeb were convicted of the 1924 so-called thrill slaying of 14-year-old Bobby Franks on Chicago's south side. Loeb was slain in prison.

Island make up almost four million square miles of the world.

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H. At your druggist. Money back guarantee.

Japanese Tourists 'Shaken' By Washington Policemen

By EDMOND LE BRETON
WASHINGTON (AP) — "I sure shook those tourists up this morning," said the handsome young policeman across the street from the White House.

Washington police treat tourists fine, so explanations were in order.

These tourists, it seems, were Japanese.

"They were really interested and asked a long question, but their accent was so heavy I only got the general meaning," the policeman went on.

Well, how did he shake them up?

"I answered in Japanese."

A Japanese-speaking policeman

In Washington — this one learned the language in the Army — isn't really much more of a curiosity than, say, a baby-delivering policeman elsewhere. After all, the Washington downtown scene normally includes strollers clad in kimonos, saris, turbans or a variety of resplendent uniforms.

A French visitor who wanted to see an exhibit in one of the government buildings was stopped by the Negro guard, who explained the department was closed on Saturday afternoons. The visitor went away, remarking audibly in his own language that something was lacking in American hospitality.

But he turned quickly when he heard, in flawless Parisian French, "Perhaps, monsieur, an exception could be made."

It was the guard. He made the exception with a flourish and a conducted tour — in French.

Washington's various police and guard forces — Metropolitan, Capitol, White House, Park and others — are federal agencies which recruit from all parts of the country. The system brings in not only an occasional linguist, but all the regional accents and, besides, a real friendliness toward people from the hinterlands.

Small Helicopter Puts On Show

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—With the Little Zipster helicopter, you can drop down at your favorite filling station, refuel and land in your backyard.

The tiny craft, called by its manufacturer the world's smallest one-man helicopter designed for private use, was put through its paces over the weekend at the Pine Needles Country Club golf course.

The helicopter weighs 450 pounds, sells for $2,000 in kit form, and its 60-horsepower engine attains a cruising speed of 60 miles an hour. Designer Igor Bensen of Bensen Aircraft Corp. says its top selling point is its use of automobile fuel.

This, he said, liberates the craft from the airfield and makes it suitable to suburban living. He visualizes the copter as a substitute for the second car.

Ready-made models are expected to sell for $6,995.

Soviet Spaceship Name Questioned

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory questions the Soviets' use of the term "interplanetary station" to describe their latest space vehicle.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple said Sunday night: "I suspect they are using a fancy term to give people the impression they have something they do not."

He said it is his impression the Soviets put into orbit a rocket around the moon, not a space station.

Western scientists, Whipple added, use the term "interplanetary station" to describe a big satellite which can be used to land on, live on and launch other rockets.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — General Motors and Du Pont were strong in a mixed and hesitant stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

Gains and losses of most key stocks were small, going to about a point at most either way.

GM and Du Pont surged ahead at the opening in relief over the federal court decision late Friday which provided Du Pont can retain its 63,000,000 shares of GM stock although it must pass on voting rights of a majority of the stock to public holders of Du Pont.

Rubbers were firm while chemicals and airlines moved higher. Rails, utilities, oils and coppers declined. Steels, motors, tobaccos and aircrafts were mixed.

As the session wore on, GM kept a gain of about 2 while Du Pont was up more than 3.

Such "big" stocks as American Telephone and Jersey Standard were off fractionally.

Rails resumed their backward habits.

The industrial average showed a good gain.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 20 cents to $223.00 with the industrials up $1.10, the rails off 70 cents and the utilities down 40 cents.

Corporate bonds were mixed in moderately active trading.

U.S. government bonds were firm in quiet dealings over the counter.

Wrecks Bring Heavy Damage Escapes Injury In Accident

IN CREEK . . . Ptl. Tayloe stands on overturned car in creek near Ayden. (Photo by C. L. Perkins.)

AYDEN—A 34-year-old Negro, Willie Junior Carmon of Route 1, Ayden, escaped injury and possible death yesterday about 5 p.m. when the car he was operating went out of control and plunged into a big canal about three miles west of Ayden on U.S. 102.

Investigating Patrolman R. E. Tayloe of Grifton, said the accident occurred only about 50 yards from the man's home.

Tayloe said the car apparently traveling at a high rate of speed, left the road and plunged bottom-up into the water filled canal. The officer added Carmon had to swim out of the car.

Carmon was charged with drunken driving and reckless driving after an investigation of the wreck.

"He was not injured, only wet", the patrolman said.

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina Young Democrats have been told that "the plight of the farmer gets worse rather than better."

Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.), speaking here Saturday to the annual convention of North Carolina YD clubs, said in his opinion "Secretary of Agriculture Benson has spent more money and helped farmers less than anyone would have thought possible."

Turning to the national scene, Gore said the policies of the Eisenhower administration "have already brought about two recessions and, unless they are changed, will inevitably bring another." He said the present "tight money policy is deliberately designed" to squeeze the credit supply and force interest rates up.

Elected president of the state group was Monroe Redden Jr. of Hendersonville, who had no opposition. Charles T. Kivett of Greensboro was elected national committeeman over Charlie Hodson of Chapel Hill; Tony Mallard of Trenton was named secretary and Charles G. Furr of Statesville was elected treasurer.

TOKYO (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev headed for home today after once more voicing Soviet Communism's determination to end the cold war. But there was no indication his Chinese Communist hosts were climbing on his peace wagon.

Khrushchev flew from Peking to Vladivostok, capital of the Soviet Far East. During his five-day visit to the capital of Red China, he told Chinese Chairman Mao Tse-tung about his talks with President Eisenhower and attended the celebration of the 10th anniversary of the Communist capture of the Chinese mainland.

In his third speech in Peking calling for an end to the cold war, Khrushchev said at the airport that the "forces of peace are stronger than ever" and "there is full actual possibility to bar the road to war."

"The common people of the entire world are becoming ever more confident that with the growth of the might of the world Socialist system," he continued, "it will be possible forever to eliminate war as a means of solving international disputes."

"This is why we Communists of the Soviet Union consider it as our sacred duty, our primary conditions, to utilize all possibilities in order to liquidate the cold war and guarantee the triumph of peace on earth."

Khrushchev did not say, however, that his Chinese hosts were joining in his peace campaign. No joint communique summing up the visit was issued.

City Policeman Gets Minor Injury

A Greenville Policeman, C. H. Stubbs, escaped serious injury Saturday when he was struck by a car while directing traffic on Dickinson Ave. near the intersection of Greene St.

According to investigators a car driven by Thomas Chapman, Negro, of 803 Venter St. Ayden, allegedly struck Stubbs from the rear, knocking him to the street.

The officer was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital, treated for abrasions to his right leg and released.

No charges were placed by investigators.
