Our College's Share In Bond Vote

What will be the share of East Carolina College if voters of North Carolina approve the $18.9 million bond issue for educational institutions when they go to the polls on October 27?

Of the bond money which would go to institutions of higher learning for capital improvements, a total of $1,490,000 is earmarked for projects at East Carolina College. They are improvements East Carolina must have if it is to meet the demands being made upon it. They are improvements which were requested of the legislature this year, but were not appropriated because of the lack of state funds for the current biennium.

A breakdown of the bond issue money which will go to East Carolina shows the following:

$189,200 for an addition to the campus heating plant.
$50,000 for improvement of the campus electrical system.

$96,800 for an addition to Graham Building, a classroom building.

$334,000 for a new wing to be added to Flanagan Building, a classroom building.

$73,000 for an addition to the infirmary.

$117,000 to renovate two men's dormitories, Slay and Umstead, to be used as women's dormitories.

$625,000 to off-set 50 per cent of the cost of a new dormitory for 500 men students.

These are permanent improvements which East Carolina College must have if it is to serve the students that will look to it in the immediate future for a college education. They are items which cannot be postponed two years, five years or 10 years if the needs of the college and the young people it serves are to be met.

Citizens of Greenville and Pitt County who are interested in East Carolina College, and citizens from throughout the area served by the college should recognize the fact that if the proposed bond issue fails to gain approval of the voters in the forthcoming referendum, these improvements may have to be postponed indefinitely. And if these permanent improvements are delayed longer, the college will be seriously handicapped in rendering the service expected of it.

The fact that East Carolina College is slated to receive almost one and one half million dollars for permanent improvements from the bond issue should prompt residents of this area to take an active interest in seeing that the bond issue is approved when voters go to the polls later this month.

The bond issue projects for East Carolina College, like those proposed from the bond money for other institutions of the state, are urgently needed.

While there is still time, we urge the people of Pitt County to see that they are properly registered for the state-wide bond election. When the time comes, we hope they will go to the polls and cast an affirmative vote for the bond issues which are needed by institutions throughout North Carolina.

'Minor' Regulations Add To Safety Factor

Pitt County's Highway Patrol organization is to be commended for its current campaign to impress upon motorists the importance of avoiding even so-called minor infractions of highway safety regulations.

The campaign, which emphasizes one particular kind of infraction each week, points up to motorists common faults of which many are guilty at one time or another, not because they intend to break the law, but simply because they are careless.

To make the campaign more impressive, patrolmen devote particular attention during the week to the kind of violation which has been selected for special attention. Just in case you're interested, this week patrolmen in Pitt will be on the look-out for drivers who let their vehicles drift across the center line of the highway.

In recent weeks they have given special attention to improper passing, drunken driving, failure to stop for a stop sign. In the weeks ahead, the patrolmen will have other phases of highway regulations marked for special attention.

While some motorists may take exception to this particular kind of campaign on the part of the Highway Patrol to emphasize the importance of obeying even the minor regulations, it is our opinion that the campaign will pay dividends in terms of safer highways in Pitt County.

After all, most highway accidents are caused by just plain carelessness on someone's part. It doesn't hurt us to be reminded now and then that disregarding even minor safety regulations can cause major highway accidents.

They Can Turn Into Capitalists

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
The Soviet Union's Communists will make conservative capitalists of themselves yet if they don't watch out.

And if the Soviet Marxists turn into old-fashioned Tories, Nikita Khrushchev's gambling will have played a large part in the transformation.

From reading the Soviet press lately, one gets the idea Khrushchev learned something from his tour of the United States. Indications are that he didn't like what he learned.

Since his return to his own stamping ground, the No. 1 Soviet Communist has been nagging, badgering, prodding and cajoling his Communists to get on with the job of accomplishing the improbable: Catching up with the over-all U. S. economy.

Strange items appear in the Soviet newspapers, where nothing is printed by accident. A likely conclusion is that the items are part of a deliberate drive to put pressure on the Soviet bureaucracy to build a fire under it.

Moscow dispatches tell of a letter to a Communist newspaper from a worker who said he was fed up with Sputniks and airliners and anxious for the regime to come down to earth and produce shoes.

The newspaper professed to be peeved by the outburst. It said the letter writer's fellow workers were angry with him for it. But then it went on to quote some of them as saying they also wanted better clothing, furniture, shoes and television sets.

This example is one of many such popping up since Khrushchev returned from America. He himself, added steam to the campaign. In Vladivostok, he cheerfully chided the bureaucrats for rushing goods to the stores in time for his visit. He demanded a more sensible approach to problems of supplying the consumer public. For some time, a key phrase in Khrushchev's program has been "material self-interest." Its obvious appeal to the acquisitive spirit sounds odd for a regime professing to be "building communism."

Last week Soviets for the first time began buying consumer goods on the installment plan, something they learned from Americans. Now the papers tell them to learn more from Americans—how to produce more goods per man, how to raise food output.

Possibly such things as material self-interest and installment buying are intended to be temporary, as stimulants to labor productivity. But in the background is an unmistakable note of impatience.

Unwritten, But Air Of Solidarity

By LYNN NISBET

KEYNOTE — There wasn't a regular keynote address at the Southern Governors Conference in Asheville, but the keynote idea was that the South is and will continue united in purpose, but without compacts or agreements of unity among the States. The expression "State rights" was seldom heard, but almost every Governor voiced the opinion that while each State should act for itself and the best interests of its own citizens, it is essential that they have common objectives.

Chief among the objectives is affiliation with the allegiance to the Democratic party. With almost monotonous repetition each of the Governors in press interviews and public statements followed the lead of Governor Hodges, who held the first news conference, in saying the South would be foolish to leave the party or to permit itself to be thrown out of a position of influence. Emphasis was put upon the belief that if Southerners keep cool heads they are in better position than in many years to exercise real influence in the national convention.

In answers to questions by some very smart newsmen, Governors Hodges, Collins of Florida and Patterson of Alabama, indicated belief that the South will stand together. At the same time they deplored any effort at agreed upon solidarity on specific questions.

Hodges set the pattern when a reporter asked whether he thought the North Carolina policy on race relations should be adopted by other States. He said he had no recommendation for action or policy by any other State, that each must meet the problem in light of local conditions.

There was unanimous agreement on the point that the States should handle the issue, without coercion on part of the Federal government. Governor Patterson said that one of the worst things that has happened to Alabama in many years was the visit of the Federal civil rights commission into his state. It made relations between the races much worse, and did great damage to relations between the State and the Federal government—and accomplished no good. He added there is not a single case pending in any court affecting the school integration issue in Alabama. Not a single Negro has applied for entrance into a white school, and there is pending a bond issue of $100,000,000 for schools, on top of the biggest annual appropriation for public education ever made. BULLISH — All the Governors present were "bullish" about the future of the South—economically, politically, and otherwise. There has never been a time when prospects were so bright for all-over development. They disagreed vigorously with conclusions voiced by Robert Kennedy, long time counsel for the Senate committee on labor-management relations, at the recent League of Municipalities convention, that labor conservatism is an inevitable result of industrialization. They did not question Kennedy's sincerity, but again Governor Hodges set the pace for comment when he observed that "if you spend five or six years working with patients in mental hospitals you are apt to conclude that everybody is crazy. Kennedy has lived so long and so closely with labor-management crookedness he thinks it is common everywhere."

POLITICS — The situation with respect to national politics among the Governors is very much like that found in any group of North Carolinians with regard to State affairs. Governor Patterson openly avowed support of Sen. John Kennedy for the presidential nomination, and Governor Collins (against the wishes of Hodges) said he thought Governor Hodges would make an excellent vice presidential candidate. For most part the politicians are watching developments waiting to see what happens during the next few months, before picking candidates.

Consensus seemed to be that unselected delegations to the national convention would be wise, but unpledged presidential electors (not committed to the Democratic nominee) would be a serious blow to party solidarity. Opinion expressed by Governors and other State officials generally supported Governor Collins' position that the Democratic party should seek the men, rather than having prospective candidates campaigning for President and Vice President like they would for the city council or county offices; and that the nominee for President should have large voice in naming his running mate.

There was no indication that the Southern States would get together on candidates before the convention. It seems virtually certain that, if the chief executives can influence their fellow citizens, the nominees of the Los Angeles convention next summer will have united support in all the States represented at the conference.

CONSTITUTIONAL — The American Institute of Certified Public Accountants said, "The disallowance of proper expenditures to promote or defeat legislation is an unfair penalty. Business enterprises should be permitted to combat injurious legislation or support favorable legislation and consider such expenses as part of the cost of doing business."

Persons opposed to the IRS rules can have a public hearing, if they file requests before October 19. They may write to the IRS, Washington 25, D. C. CO-OP DOLLARS A-BEGGING, SAYS ADVERTISING BUREAU
A folder telling appliance dealers how they can get extra promotional dollars by participating in co-op advertising campaigns has been published by the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, 485 Lexington Ave., New York 17.

Only one-third of eligible dealers are getting full shares of appropriations totaling $1 billion a year, the presentation states. It is designed to tie in with the national appliance promotion, "Make your Home Happier with a New Appliance," running from November 9 to 21.

More On That Society

About that SOB group which was recently formed at East Carolina College for male alumni.

The initials, according to Henry Oglesby who was named new Chief SOB, Saturday can stand for a lot of things.

In the case of this club they are an abbreviation for Society of Buccaneers. Of course, they can be used in the same sense that Pres. Truman used them a

Other Editors Saying... 'Frills' In Education

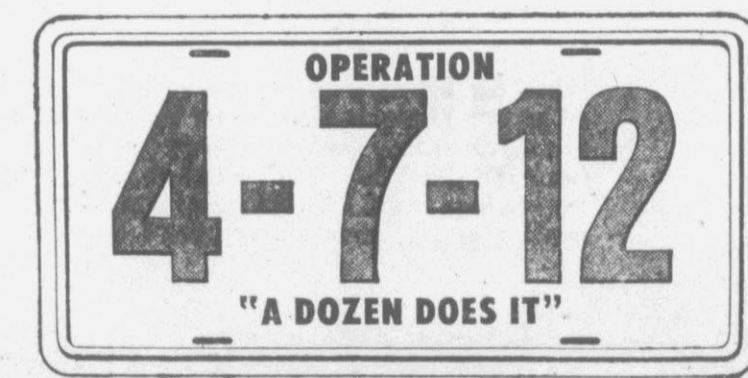

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

A continuing public discussion concerns the endlessly climbing costs of education. For those who are more interested in discovering why this is so than talking about it, a good yardstick is a comparison of the functions of schools of today with those of yesterday. The school in many communities has evolved from a center of knowledge to the hub of social activity.

Allowing for the many-fold expansion of legitimate education subjects which is largely the result of scientific achievements during the past decade, the modern school has assumed responsibilities far above those demanded by the three Rs. It has become a speech clinic, where handicapped children may receive the benefits of special attention and equipment; it has developed a long list of avocations, including dramatics, art, hand crafts and machine shops in which the young generation may cultivate interest in a hobby.

It has become a focal point for activities such as swimming instruction; band, choral and orchestra organizations; debating societies and a complete line of team ties.

It brings in paid lecturers and performers from many parts of the world to inform and entertain the student body in completely equipped auditoriums. It

The Bureaucrats Are Closing In

By ELMER ROESSNER

In the past year, there has been an upsurge of civic consciousness in business. Business leader after leader has declared, "We must face our responsibilities as citizens." And many have added, not exactly as an afterthought, "We must take as active a part in politics as labor does."

Now the bureaucrats are closing in. They aren't trying directly to stop business from participating in politics. But they are trying to make business pay for the privilege.

The Internal Revenue Service has proposed regulations that will make it more expensive for business to use either advertising or lobbying for political purposes—even if the purpose is the survival of the business itself.

It has proposed regulations that would limit deductions of money spent for advertising to promote or defeat legislation, even though anyway, in accepting the bull throwing trophy which makes him head of the Society of Buccaneers for the coming year, Oglesby said he wanted to make the initials stand for something else.

He urged all the society's members to make their motto "Service or Bust."

That sounds like a mighty fine motto for all alumni of the college. Some—perhaps many—who attend and graduate from the institution sever their ties when they walk out the doors that last time. This shouldn't be.

Oglesby, incidentally, carved a niche for himself in East Carolina College history back in 1932 when he graduated there.

Graduating in itself was an accomplishment in that dark depression year, but Oglesby was the first male student to receive a degree from the college.

Since, the Gritton resident has become secretary to Congressman Herbert C. Bonner. He also was recently appointed to the East Carolina College Board of Trustees.

Roy Hardee of television station WNCN and your columnist journeyed to Raleigh Monday night for a preview showing of the grandstand act of the N. C. State Fair.

If you should happen to make the trip to the fair watch particularly for the trained dog act in the Grand Stand show. Its hilarious.

There are also a couple of clowns—one turns out to be a girl—who play by xylophone. The gal for a finale plays the thing, first with a cover over it and then blindfolded.

The Rockets a chorus line of well trained girl dancers, is a precision group which is also worth seeing, in our opinion. Some of the other acts we saw, were good and others not so hot but all-in-all it was a pretty enjoyable show.

Quote...

"We gripe about the rising costs of hospital care and doctor's bills. Because they hit us 'when we are down' they seem worse than other costs of living. But there is an unnoticed silver lining. We live longer, stay well longer and get really sick less often than in days of yore. More sick people get well, and get well quicker than in the 'good old days'." — Houston (Tex.) Chronicle.

Worn Words Heard

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Teen-age remarks that parents get tired of hearing—or overhearing:

"I'll do it later."
"The trouble with you and Dad is that you've forgotten what it's like to be young."

"Hey, Sis, I hear Dad got a five-buck raise. Let's ask him to double our allowance."

"I know it's a weekend night, Joe, but you'd better go now—even if it is early. The old folks need their rest."

"Hey, Mom, can I borrow $19.95 to take this muscle—building course by mail?"

"Mother, pull—please act your age. You can't wear a dress that short. It makes you look ridiculous."

"You think the pictures in your family album are funny? Boy, wait'll you take a look at ours."
"What makes all parents such squares? Were they born that way?"

"Sure, I said 'I'd cut the grass and I will—tomorrow, when it's cloudy. You don't want a fellow to get sunstroke, do you?"

"You know how hard Dad says he had to study when he was a kid? Well, I found one of his old high school report cards in the attic, and guess what."

"Tell me, Mom, what was life really like in the old days, when you were young?"

"What's wrong with me, Mom? Here I am 13—and not even going steady."

"Yeah, I'm looking for a job after school, too—about five years after."

"I don't see why you're so shocked at what I wrote in my diary. I found some of your old love letters and..."
"Why can't I? Every other kid my age does."

"Every family in the block has a new car but us."

"If you think I tie up the phone so much, why can't I have a phone of my own?"

"Papa, what's a depression?"

"Yeah, and they danced something called 'the Charleston' and 'the Big Apple,' and made fudge in the kitchen. Weren't they quaint?"

"Wonder what Dad looked like when he had hair. Was he handsome?"

"He says that since it's Saturday night we can stay out until midnight. Big deal!"

"Well, if the television's broke, I guess I might as well do my homework."
"Go on, Dad, the walk'll do you and Mom good. I can't spare the car tonight."

"What do you and Pop know about love anyway?"

Opinions In Brief

"For your information, the Federal Government is the largest electric power producer in the country, the largest insurer, the largest lender, and the largest borrower, the largest landlord and the largest tenant, the largest holder of grazing land, and the largest holder of timber land, the largest owner of grain, the largest warehouse operator, the largest ship-owner, and the largest truck-fleet operator! In this year of prosperity, we are not requiring our government to live within its income from Federal taxes. We are going further into debt, borrowing from future generations devaluing the dollar more and more in order to obtain more government handouts today." — Benton (Mo.) Democrat.

SHADOW OF GUILT

A NEW THRILLER by PATRICK QUENTIN

CHAPTER 25
At Sixty-four Street the lights were on in the living room. The moment I opened the front door, my wife came out into the hall.

"Mal and Vivien went home. George, why did it take so much time?"

"I was waiting in the bar for a call, Connie," I said.

"But Mack, the barman, was there?"

I took off my coat and hung it on the hall tree which Vivien had made her buy because it was "amusing." "Yes," I said.

"What did he say?"

Her voice was never loud. In fact, it was a very pretty voice. But in its eagerness it seemed to be yelling.

I went into the living room and made myself a drink, not because I needed one but to give myself a moment's respite. She came hurrying after me.

"Well, George, tell me. What did he say?"

I turned to her with the drink in my hand. "It's no good. The police had already been there anyway. Chuck got to the bar just after two-thirty. It's only a ten-minute walk from Saxby's. It doesn't help."

"But . . . the man's quite sure?"

"Absolutely sure," I said.

"I'd known, of course, what that would do to her. She was always so pigheadedly determined to anticipate the best that when it didn't come it knocked her much harder than it would ever knock me. She sat down on the arm of a chair, her hands dejectedly in her lap."

"I was so sure . . ."

"I'm sorry," I said. "What about the lawyer? Didn't he have any bright ideas?"

"The lawyer? Oh, he tried to be encouraging. He's quite a nice man. But, well, a lawyer's got to be realistic, doesn't he? He said the District Attorney has more than enough evidence. In a case like this, he said, about the only really effective thing would be an alibi. That's what he's going to work on. That's—that's why I was hoping so much about the bar. That's why . . ."

She got up abruptly, grabbing at her coat. "But it is almost an alibi, isn't it? They say Don was killed between two and five. We know Chuck left just after two. If only there was some way . . . if somebody had heard the shots or something . . . and it was later. If we could prove he was killed later . . ."

She was looking straight at me as if she were willing me to come up with some staggering inspiration. Lieutenant Trant and now Connie. The irony was crippling. I told her about Ted Bradley and my call to Trant, not that it would help, but just to let her know. "At least they realize what Saxby was. Maybe something will come up."

"When?" she said. "When? All this time Chuck's there in that terrible place. He knows he's innocent and he's there. I keep thinking about him all the time and I can't stand it much more."

Her voice choked off but after only an instant she had pulled herself together again, smiling a pale, almost humble smile. "I'm sorry, I know it's as bad for everyone else as it is for me. It's just . . . well, it's been such a terrible day and I'm dead tired."

"Of course you are."

"And there's nothing else we can do tonight, is there?" She came to me and put her hand on my arm. "Let's go to bed, dear. We both need some sleep. I'd have to stall and sneak up to her when Connie was safely in bed."

I said, "Okay, you go on up. I'll just finish this drink."

"Couldn't you bring it up with you?" Her hand on my arm tightened its grip. "Please, George, bring it up. I can't face being alone any more. It's all too much for me. I . . . oh, George, George . . ."

She threw herself clumsily against me. "I know you hate me to be weak. I—I know you think I ought to be independent, ought to be able to stand on our own feet. And you're right. I know you are. That's what a good marriage should be. But now when everything's become such a nightmare, there's nothing to keep me going but you."

Her arms were around me, clinging to me desperately. The guilt was in me, the double, triple guilt, and, forcing a way through my defense, came pity for her and contempt for myself that I should still be pretending I could give her something which months ago, somehow, somewhere, had become lost.

"Be with me, George," she said. "Please be with me."

I put down the drink, feeling the entangling net of obligation closing around me. So when could I talk to Ala? Tomorrow morning? Early, before Connie was awake? I stood there holding my wife in my arms. Then I eased myself gently away and with an arm around her guided her up the stairs.

It was after eight when I awoke. As I glanced at my watch, remembering Ala, remembering Lieutenant Trant, I cursed myself for oversleeping. Connie was still asleep but she wouldn't be for long. I slipped out of bed, put on a robe, crept out of the room and hurried down the corridor.

Without knocking, I opened the door of Ala's room. The grayish November daylight, filtering in through the closed curtains, revealed her lying on her back, the dilapidated old elephant sprawled at her feet. As I looked at her, my love for her welled up in me, making it totally impossible for me to connect her with guilt.

"Ala," I said softly.

She opened her eyes and sat up, smiling spontaneously. "Gosh, is it late or something?" Then she was awake enough to remember enough and her face grew solemn. "Nothing's happened, has it?"

Once again she had managed to confuse me. Nothing's happened! I sat down on the edge of the bed. "Lieutenant Trant's coming today."

"I know, Connie told us last night. It's awful, isn't it?"

"That's one word for it," I said. "I mean, to think that Chuck, because of feeling that way about me . . . I never thought Chuck was capable of feeling like that, feelings that weren't just . . ."

She gave up as if she thought was too complicated for her. She was watching me from big, mournful eyes. "He did kill Don Saxby, didn't he? Connie doesn't believe it, of course. But . . . oh, George, I feel so terrible. I never dreamed, honestly . . ."

I said, "He didn't do it, Ala. 'He didn't?' Her face was suddenly radiant. "You mean they've found out? They know who did do it?"

"No," I said. "It's far more complicated than that." And I told her. Gradually, as she started to realize what was involved, her face seemed to grow smaller, thinner, pinched around the nose. When I'd explained it all, she said, "You're—you're sure the experiment with the spilled drink proves it?"

"Quite sure," I said. "That's why I've told you. Don't you see? If we tell we were in Saxby's apartment, we can have Chuck out of jail today."

"But if we told—that would they think about me?"

"Exactly," I said.

"They'd think I did it."

"Probably."

"Of course they would. The gun was in there. I'd found out about Don. I . . ." She clutched my arm. She stared at me wildly. "George, you're not going to tell. Please, please, you aren't going to tell!"

It was panic and I could understand it, of course. And yet as I looked at her desperate eyes, her mouth, I felt a bleak sensation of depression and doubt.

"You are innocent, aren't you?" George feels compelled to ask Ala. Continue Patrick Quentin's suspenseful thriller here tomorrow.

Mortgage Money Said Available To Fill Need

Greensboro — Current interest rate for home loans in most North Carolina towns is six per cent, according to a survey released today by the state association of realtors.

The survey also indicated that mortgage money is available to meet the present demand generally, but that the situation is "tighter" than it was five years ago in a few communities, including New Bern.

Here are other findings of the survey which will receive close study at the realtors' 38th annual convention which opens Thursday (October 15) in Asheville.

Savings and loan associations are the chief source of home loans in North Carolina. The percentage of home loans made by this type of institution varies from 99 per cent in Albemarle to 20 per cent in Durham and well exceeds 50 per cent for the state as a whole.

Insurance companies are the second most prevalent source of mortgage money, followed by banks and other sources.

Interest rates have increased slightly in the past 10 years. Durham, Burlington, and Greensboro, for example, reported that the rate five years ago was five and one-half per cent and that 10 years ago it was five per cent. Maximum number of years a loan is obtainable averages between 15 and 20 years. Savings and loan associations were reported making loans for 20 years in Concord, Kannapolis, Durham, Greensboro, and Shelby, and for 15 years in Statesville, Lumberton, Jacksonville, and Hickory. Insurance companies were reported as usually making loans for a longer period than savings and loan associations.

Veterans Administration guaranteed loans are available in very few North Carolina communities. FHA insured mortgage money is available in about half of North Carolina communities. Insurance companies are handling most of these loans and at a fairly high discount.

Student Fund Gifts Promised

MOUNT OLIVE — Mount Olive College has been advised that it will receive $1,000 per year, for five years beginning in September, 1960, from the James E. and Mary Z. Bryan Foundation for use in its student-aid program.

In notifying President W. Burke Raper of the gift, Robert E. Bryan, president of the Bryan Foundation, declared, "This gift is contingent upon it's being matched on a dollar-for-dollar basis by other interested parties. It is left in your discretion whether this money is to be used for loans of scholarships, the only restriction being that it be awarded to or loaned to North Carolina boys and girls who are 'needy and worthy.'"

President Raper expressed confidence that the College will have no difficulty finding interested persons who will subscribe funds to equal the grant from the Bryan Foundation.

From the time the College began operating here in 1954, President Raper declared, it has operated on the principle that no worthy student should be denied an education for lack of funds. Last year the College helped forty-one per cent of its full-time students through its student-aid program.

Ingemar Says Little In His Hollywood Interview

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Found: the successor to Gary Cooper. He is the heavyweight boxing champ, Ingemar Johansson.

It's too early to judge his acting prowess; he has only started his first film role in Hall Bartlett's "All The Young Men." But as an interview subject, Ingo beats the veteran Coop by three yups.

Here's a sample:

Q. Did you ever act before?
A. No.

Q. In school, perhaps?
A. Oh, yes.

Q. Do you remember what roles?
A. No.

Q. Are you a movie fan?
A. Yes.

Q. Who are your favorite stars?
A. Lots of them.

Q. Are you nervous about acting?
A. (Wry smile) No.

Admittedly, the champ may be more voluble in his native tongue and on matters concerning the ring. As an actor, he is going to give interviewers the fits.

In the Columbia makeup department, Ben Lane applied pancake to the broad face of the Swede, darkened his eyebrows and gave him a day's growth of beard. Ingo's brother Rolf, who also will play a role in the film, watched nearby and scoffed at the suggestion that the champ would be nervous.

Meanwhile, back in the makeup chair—

Q. How much money are you getting for the picture?
A. I don't know. (It is reported in the neighborhood of $50,000, which is the kind of neighborhood Ingo likes.)

Q. What are your plans after the picture?
A. I have to fight (Floyd) Patterson first.

Q. What about Archie Moore?
A. (Wry smile) I have to fight Patterson first.

At press time, he had this to say: "I like Hollywood. But where's the smog?"

EXTENDED WEATHER FORECAST FOR N. C.
Temperatures will average 3 to 6 degrees below normal for next five days. Cooler Thursday, with little day to day change thereafter. Showers Thursday and Thursday night, and again over the weekend will average about one inch.

Khrushchev Said Kept A Promise

LONDON (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has carried out his promise to President Eisenhower to discuss with Mao Tse Tung the possible release of five Americans jailed in Red China, diplomatic sources say.

The results of the reported talks is not known here.

The imprisoned Americans are Robert Ezra McCann, Pasadena, Calif.; John Thomas Downey, New Britain, Conn.; Richard George Fecteau, Lynn, Mass.; Hugh Francis Redmond Jr., Yonkers, N. Y.; and Roman Catholic Bishop James Edward Walsh, Cumberland, Md.

Four were charged with spying. Bishop Walsh has been held incommunicado since October 1958. No charges against him have been announced.

Laos Probers On Way To Report

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A U.N. committee left by plane today on the first leg of a return trip to New York after investigating Laotian charges of aggression from Communist North Viet Nam.

Findings of the committee during its month's study remained secret. But Shinichi Shibusawa, Japanese chairman of the four-nation commission, said it contains "no judgments" on the Laotian trouble.

WITH IMPORTANT PRICE REDUCTIONS

Prices importantly reduced on all Mercury models! Popular Monterey* now $136⁵⁰ lower. Now you can own a new Mercury for a very few cents a day more than a car with a low-price name.

* Comparison based on manufacturer's suggested delivered price for a Monterey 2-door sedan, 1960 v. 1959. Includes Federal excise tax and suggested dealer preparation and handling charges.

You'll be glad you bought a Mercury every time . . .

Why pay a medium-range price for a car with a low-price name? For this year, Mercury is in a new lower-price range. You'll be glad you didn't settle for less . . .

... every time you look at its Sleek-Line styling.

Every line is clean, trim. All excess metal has been pared away, shaped smooth. There's no unnecessary bulk. Just elegant simplicity.

... every time you feel its exclusive Road-Tuned ride.

Mercury's Road-Tuned wheels (see left) take bounce out of bumps. This ability of each wheel to "roll with the punch" is one of the most important ride advances in years . . . another reason why you'll be glad you bought Mercury . . .

Greenville Moose Enroll Eight Into Lodge

NEW MEMBERS are welcomed into the Greenville Moose Lodge by charter member George Johnson.

Eight new members were enrolled by Greenville Moose Lodge 885 Monday evening. Dr. J. O. Carson, of Grifton, served as class representative. Others in the class, were: Charles Knowles, D. R. Sullivan, Wayne Branscome, Edwin W. Reeves, Jr., Elbert Hudson, Joseph H. Goodson and William S. Pettit, 2nd.

Faculty And Student Art Being Exhibited

Faculty members of the department of art at East Carolina College are exhibiting this month in the art gallery of the Rawl Building on the campus examples of their works. Diversity in types, materials, techniques and subject matter is a keynote of the show.

Two other exhibitions now on display in the Rawl building are student drawings and woodcuts from a class in graphics taught by Dr. Bruce Garter and relief sculpture plaques done by students in a class in sculpture taught by Wesley Crawley. These works are placed, respectively, in the Kate W. Gallery and in the entrance hall of Rawl.

The public is invited to see the exhibitions during October. Hours are 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. each weekday and 2 p. m. to 10 p. m. Sunday.

Thirty works by seven members of the art department are included in the faculty exhibition. John Gordon, recent prize-winner in the Fourteenth Southeast Regional Exhibition in Atlanta, Ga., is represented by a group of drawings. Wesley Crawley, new member of the art faculty this year, contributed a bas-relief sculpture plaque.

Among works in the show is a plaque in dazzling colors by Paul R. Minnis, who recently returned to the campus from the School for American Craftsmen. Other

Van Doren Said Ready Accept His Subpoena

Striker's Family At 'Rock Bottom'

MORRISVILLE, Pa. (AP) — "It's getting difficult. As a matter of fact we are at rock bottom, although there are other families far worse off than we are."

This, explains Helen Galambos, 32, is how the steel strike has affected her family. Her husband is one of the 6,100 employees on strike at U. S. Steel Corp. Fairless Works. They have a 6½-month-old daughter.

Mrs. Galambos says they are a month behind on their mortgage payments and have not been able to pay other bills.

"We're cutting on food where we can," she adds. "We are not eating the way we used to. Many of our meals are stews. We are buying less meat and when we do get it, it's the cheaper grades."

Many other families like the Galambos are in financial trouble. Mortgages are going unpaid. Bills are piling up. Christmas is approaching and there's no money for children's toys.

But the wives are not pressuring their husbands to rush into a settlement. Most take the position that their husbands, since they've been out this long, might just as well stay out a little longer until they get what they want.

Margaret Gribbin, 28, feels that President Eisenhower "should have stepped in before this" to effect a settlement.

"Too many families are hard up for food, clothing and money to have allowed this thing to go this far," she declares. "As far as the strike is concerned I think the men are right. They are trying to take away things that the men fought for years to get."

Mary Riblett, 35, says her family is two months behind on the NEW YORK (AP)—Charles Van Doren, who won $125,000 on television, says he's ready to accept a subpoena to testify in a congressional probe of fixed quiz shows.

Van Doren arrived here Tuesday after a weekend in New England amid a furor over his whereabouts. The investigating subcommittee's chairman, Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.), has charged he ducked the subpoena. It was delivered to federal authorities here Tuesday.

The subpoena presumably calls for Van Doren's appearance before the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee Nov. 2, when the inquiry, now in recess, will resume.

Van Doren's lawyer, Carl J. Rubino, said the young TV personality would accept the subpoena as soon as its delivery can be arranged. Rubino said Van Doren had just learned about the subpoena.

"He could not evade a subpoena which he did not know had been issued," Rubino declared. Van Doren, a Columbia University English instructor, dropped out of sight last week when the subcommittee first sought his testimony in Washington.

The National Broadcasting Co. suspended him from a $50,000-a-year consultant's job pending the outcome of the investigations. He got the job after winning his prize money on NBC's "Twenty-One" quiz show in 1956-57.

Rubino said: "He had no thought of evading anything. He just became distressed when NBC took him off the air summarily last Thursday. He was disturbed and just went off. He telephoned me last night and I told him that allegedly there was a subpoena out for him. I heard it over TV."

Van Doren, member of a distinguished literary family, spent the weekend in New England, the lawyer said. He visited the farm home near Cornwall, Conn., of his father Mark Van Doren.

The son had obtained a week's leave of absence from his teaching post.

In Washington, Rep. Harris challenged Rubino's statement that Van Doren had not been avoiding the subpoena. He said the committee had sent Van Doren a telegram last Wednesday asking him to appear and had advised the attorney on the following Saturday that a subpoena had been issued.

Harris said he believed Van Doren got the wire because the committee requested it be notified if the message was not delivered.

The committee has heard testimony that "Twenty-One" was among the TV shows that were rigged by providing contestants with advance questions and answers.

Van Doren has publicly disclaimed any knowledge of fakery on the show while he was a contestant.

Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan said the information developed in the Washington hearing coincided with testimony obtained last year by a Manhattan grand jury.

That probe was started when the first complaints were received of quiz show rigging. The grand jury's findings were not made public.

It was carried by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The story quoted a committee source as saying the evidence showed that some contestants were given help in answering questions and that the program was "subtly rigged" in a manner more discreet than that used by the producers of "Twenty-One."

Harris declined comment on the show, the first of the big-money story. CBS officials were not immediately available for comment.

Two Accidents In City Tuesday

Greenville police investigated two accidents yesterday with total damage estimated to be over $600. A car driven by Bradford Enoch Brooks, 23 of 315 East 11th St. struck a utility pole after attempting to pass a truck at the intersection of Eighth and Evans Sts.

According to investigating officers, a truck, driven by N. E. Rogersen, 37, of 106 North Summit St. was headed south on Evans St. as was the Brooks car. The truck allegedly started to make a left turn at the intersection but stopped when he saw the car attempting to pass. An estimated $250 damage was done to the car when it struck the pole.

Brooks was charged by officers with passing at an intersection. The second collision, involving a car driven by Mrs. Violet K. Simmons of 909 Lawrence St. and a pickup truck operated by David L. Wilson of Route 2, Greenville, occurred at the intersection of 10th and Charles Sts.

Damage to the Simmons car was set at $200 by officers while damage to the Wilson truck was placed at $210.

No charges were brought by investigating officers.

Four Die In Army Plane's Wreck

BOERNE, Tex. (AP)—A single-engine Army liaison plane plummeted to earth Tuesday, killing all four occupants.

Two bodies were found in the wreckage. Two more lay nearby. They apparently tried to bail out, but were too low for their parachutes to open.

The Army withheld the names of the dead.

The airplane was an L20 on a cross-country instrument training flight out of Ft. Rucker, Ala. It was en route from Dyess AFB at Abilene, Tex., to Ft. Sam Houston in San Antonio when it crashed.

A woman at the scene said she heard a plane gunning its engine, looked up and saw the craft spinning. She said the plane appeared to fall apart and she saw two men jump free, but their parachutes failed to open.

Findings By Commission May Delay Return Fight

Spider Webb To Fight Fullmer In Title Bout

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gene Fullmer will defend his NBA middleweight championship against Spider Webb of Chicago Dec. 4 at Logan, Utah.

Promoter Joe Dupler said his partner in promoting the fight, Norm Rothschild of Syracuse, N. Y., approved the site after touring it Tuesday. The fight will be held in the 7,000-seat Utah State University fieldhouse.

Dupler said the bout would be televised nationally (NBC). Fullmer and Webb will split 40-20 the $100,000 television money. He said the fieldhouse was being scaled for $100,000 gate, with seat prices ranging from $10 to $30. The split of the gate also will be 40 per cent for Fullmer and 20 for Webb.

Logan apparently was selected because it is midway between West Jordan, Utah, Fullmer's hometown, and Pocatello, Idaho, where Webb, gained Olympic recognition while fighting for Idaho State College.

It will be the second fight between Fullmer and Webb. Fullmer won a unanimous decision here Sept. 11, 1958. After Fullmer beat Carmen Basilio for the National Boxing Assn. middleweight title, the NBA declared Webb the logical challenger.

Sugar Ray Robinson still is recognized as middleweight king by New York and Massachusetts.

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A heavy cloud today hung over the proposed return world heavyweight championship bout between Ingemar Johansson and Floyd Patterson in the wake of findings by the New York State Athletic Commission.

After hearing 800 pages of testimony on the manipulations of the promotion of the first fight last June 26, the commission Tuesday: 1. Directed Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, and Bill Rosensohn, promoter of the bout along with his former organization, Rosensohn Enterprises, to show cause why their licenses should not be revoked.

2. Banned Charles Antonucci (Charlie Black) from promoting or even attending a fight in New York state.

3. Recommended that the state Legislature enact a law requiring the licensing of the company or individual who controls the television, radio and movie rights to fights.

The action left the future of the return bout up in the air. Johansson, who is making a movie in Helena, Mont., declined comment, but a spokesman said he still was willing to fight Patterson if the mess is cleaned up.

One direct result of the commission's findings is that the return won't be held in New York. Vincent Velella, the current head of Rosensohn Enterprises, is not licensed in New York, so the commission couldn't bar him. By revoking the license of Rosensohn Enterprises, it achieved the same result.

Actually, Rosensohn, Rosensohn Enterprises and D'Amato all have an opportunity to go before the commission and make their pleas before their licenses are revoked permanently.

But it appeared that only Rosensohn wanted to go down fighting. He said he would request a hearing. D'Amato never answered the commission's call to testify despite their warnings.

The commission hearing was called when it developed that Rosensohn actually owned only one-third of Rosensohn Enterprises and that the other two-thirds was held by Velella. Rosensohn eventually was tossed out by Velella who brought in Irving Kahn, who held the TV, radio and movie rights.

The commission, in a 3,000-word statement, also criticized Rosensohn for accepting a $10,000 loan from Tony Salerno, whom it described as a shady character, and for failing to tell of Velella's role in the promotion.

It also said D'Amato or his corporation, Floyd Patterson Enterprises were partners with Tele-TV still have the contract for the TV, radio and movie rights. Finally, it blasted D'Amato for dictating appointments of promoters and managers in many of Patterson's fights.

Black was barred apparently because he worked for D'Amato. Where does that leave the fight? consideration.

Where does that leave the fight? consideration. "I don't think we should decide such an important thing in a few hours," Anderson said.

Bell Buried Today; Search For New Man

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bert Bell, the gravel-voiced beloved commissioner of the National Football League, will be buried today then the difficult hunt will be on for a successor.

The shoes of the portly Bell, who died Sunday at 65, won't be filled easily. Everyone in the pro game agrees there was but one Bell.

The 12 NFL club owners are serving as honorary pallbearers at services in St. Margaret's Roman Catholic church in suburban Narberth where Bell made his home. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery, near historic Valley Forge.

Thousands viewed the body Tuesday night in a Philadelphia funeral home. Top sport figures and fans walked side by side in silence past the casket. Tears were in many eyes.

After the funeral the owners will hold an informal meeting. Prompt agreement on a new commissioner is unlikely. The tempers of NFL club owners aren't known to be cool. They've boiled over frequently, and it always was Bell who patched up the quarrels.

Now that Bells gone, it is believed some old resentments may appear. Support of a man by one owner possibly will prejudice him in the eyes of another. It is expected that a committee representing all the opposing viewpoints will be formed. This group will screen the candidates and report to the NFL draft meeting scheduled for the end of November.

Some of the owners feel the successor should come from the NFL ranks, like Bell himself. Others prefer an outsider, a public figure—perhaps a judge or a governor. Frequently mentioned is Edwin J. Anderson, president of the Detroit Lions. Anderson said he would accept the post if it was offered, but cautioned against undue haste.

Bulldogs Face Homecoming Tilt

The Eppes Bulldogs dropped a third conference game Friday night when they were defeated 30-8 by Ligon High School in Raleigh.

The Ligon squad, taking advantage of Eppes fumbles, held the score to 6-0 at the end of the first quarter, 18-0 at the half and 24-0 at the end of the third time period.

Eppes made its only scoring play in the last quarter when, after six successive completed passes, Freddie Watson passed again to Galtin for the TD. A pass from Watson to Galtin was good for the two extra points to bring the Eppes total score to eight.

Final score in the game was 30-8.

Friday night Eppes will play host to Elizabeth City for a homecoming game.

Pitt Schools To Close Friday For NCEA Meet

Pitt County Schools will be closed this Friday to allow some 225 teachers, principals, supervisors, and other school personnel to attend a Rocky Mount meeting of the North Carolina Education Association Northeastern District.

Mrs. Margaret Farley, Junius H. Rose High school librarians; Mrs. Vivian Beach, elementary school, music; and Mrs. Kara Lynn Fenell, retiring District CTA president, will be present.

One of ten district meetings throughout the state, Friday's convention will include personnel from Pitt County and Greenville schools and from East Carolina College who serve the district NCEA as officials.

Frank G. Fuller of ECC is NCEA District Director. Pitt County officials are Susie Dixon of Ayden, classroom teachers division; Mrs. Annie Frances McDonald of Bethel, business education; Blaine Moye of Winterville, health and physical education and recreation; Elizabeth Edwards and Mrs. Leroy Rollins of Farmville, mathematics; Mrs. Beverly A. Batchelor of Farmville, school librarians; Jack Cherry of Winterville, science; and Mrs. Walter Latham of Bethel, social studies.

Bare Strategy In Conspiracy Case

RALEIGH (AP) — Both sides have bared their strategy for next week's hearing on the Henderson conspiracy case before the State Supreme Court.

From briefs filed by the state and by attorneys for the Textile Workers Union of America, it appears the role of an undercover agent will be one of the chief points of contention.

The state filed its brief Tuesday in reply to one turned in two weeks earlier by lawyers for the eight defendants — union officials and rank-and-file members convicted of the alleged plot in Vance Superior Court last July.

The three leaders, including TWUA Carolinas director Boyd Payton, each received six to 10 year sentences. Lesser terms were doled to the others.

All were convicted on three counts of conspiracy to destroy vital installations of Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills by dynamite and fire. The union has been striking the mills since last November.

The state based the bulk of its case on testimony given by Harold Aaron, a 32-year-old Leaksville machinist, who acted as an undercover agent while the alleged plot was being hatched.

Educator Raps 'Multiple' Role

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina teachers say they cannot be clerks, cops and money-raisers if they are to be effective in the classrooms.

They want the freedom to aim their energies and devote their time to the subjects they are assigned to teach.

Dr. I. E. Ready, director of the state's curriculum study, said Tuesday night that in view of this, "if we want a quality curriculum, we had better look closely at class size and teaching load."

Dr. Ready, speaking to an Associated Public Schools System regional meeting at Chapel Hill, suggested adopting an eight-hour day and 40-hour week for teachers, limiting it to "meaningful educational activities."

He said it would be desirable to allow others to handle non-teaching duties.

Dr. Ready recently completed a poll of North Carolina teachers. Many were dissatisfied with their own efforts, but put some of the blame on current conditions.

"Teachers want to be allowed to put their time and energy on teaching the subjects they are assigned to teach. They want relief from clerical duties. They want fewer extra-curricular duties. They don't think they should have to be money-raisers, policemen and probation officers."

Greenville teachers serving the district on special committees are Mrs. Margaret Farley, Junius H. Rose High school librarians; Mrs. Vivian Beach, elementary school, music; and Mrs. Kara Lynn Fenell, retiring District CTA president.

ECC personnel are Dr. J. K. Long (special address to the convention), Robert K. Stuart, Douglas Jones, Wayne Forbes, Jo Ann Tew, Dr. Francis Neel (to present an art exhibit), Dr. Elizabeth Uiterback (choral reading demonstration), James Miller, Robert W. Leith, and Dr. J. Roy Prince (special address to convention).

Nixon To Take Florida Holiday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon heads for West Palm Beach, Fla., Thursday for a vacation before stepping up his politicking next month.

At a time when New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller remains undecided whether he will contest Nixon for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination, the vice president gives every evidence of confidence he could win such a battle if it develops.

Although Nixon himself has said he doesn't put much dependence in polls, his associates are getting a big kick out of gathering the results of various public opinion surveys that show him highly favored over Rockefeller and running ahead of Democratic hopefuls.

Rockefeller once said he would take a look at the polls in November and make up his mind whether he thought he could offer the Republicans a better chance to retain the White House next year than Nixon could.

Alice Lon Begins A Fresh Career

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Alice Lon makes the big break tonight.

The former Champagne Lady of the Lawrence Welk television show starts a two-week engagement at the Coconut Grove.

"I've spent every cent I have in the world for the act," she said Tuesday.

Miss Lon, who broke with Welk last July, supports three young sons. She said she has turned down several offers because she wanted to prepare a solid act.

Sawed Off Mast To Clear Bridge

SEATTLE (AP) — The yell "Low bridge" didn't bother skipper Charles Ackley of the 85-foot ship Nuniyak.

He borrowed a saw from a tugboat. Off came three feet from the top of his mast.

Then he steamed under the Ballard Bridge, closed to ship movements along the Lake Washington ship canal during the 4 to 6 p.m. auto traffic rush hour.

Ackley, 39, explained that he wanted to reach a fuel dock on the other side of the bridge which closed 5 p.m.

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — If pretty Janice Smiley lives to be a hundred she'll never forget the Southern governors conference, most of the governors won't forget her either.

Gov. Patterson later admitted, "She completely snowed me. That's quite a sharp young lady. She mentioned some prominent people in Birmingham."

Janice, 15 and cute as a bunny in her plaid longies and white sweat shirt, stole the show at the meeting of the Southern chief executives.

The Alabama governor doesn't quite know how it happened, but he invited Janice to come to a big funfest, reception, banquet and dance that night, at which North Carolina was the host.

Bouncing all over the place, she kidded the heads of state. She made faces at Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina, who mugged back.

It was at a Mt. Mitchell luncheon that she persuaded Gov. Hodges and other chief executives to "live it up a little" by dancing on a bandstand.

Then she persuaded Hodges to dance the Charleston with her. She threatened to shove Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas off a precipice.

Hodges accepted her dare to do the Charleston. "I had no idea I could do it," said Hodges.

She won an invitation to be a house guest at the home of Delaware Gov. Caleb Boggs and his daughter Arlu, 13.

"Golly, you're real cool," said Janice. "At the end of the day, Janice said she had to get home and do her story."

Her animated chatter brought smiles to the politics. Most of them thought she was another governor's daughter or granddaughter.

But she may not become a real food reporter. "I'm just the awfulest speller," she confided to other reporters.

Truth is, Janice had never before met a real live governor. Her daddy is manager of a men's clothing store.

Another truth is that Janice crashed the bigtime meeting. More than anything else she wants to be on the staff of the Lee Edwards High School newspaper. Her teacher laughingly told her it might help if she'd wait outside the governors' hotel and interview one of them.

So Janice trotted into the swank Grove Park Inn Monday and strode up to Alabama Gov. John Patterson.

Would the police like it? Yes. Officers, anxious to dress the carcass, let the man get away without identifying himself.

"This," she said to a friend, "is my cute little governor from Alabama and that's where I used to live, sir, and do you know—"

The bear, which appeared to be about seven months old, yielded some 60 pounds of meat, police said.

Reuther Is Re-Elected UAW Head

By DWIGHT PITKIN
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The United Auto Workers convention has given Walter P. Reuther firm control of the 1,200,000-member union for another two years.

Amid the hoopla and trappings of a major party political convention, the 2,500 delegates re-elected Reuther president by acclamation Tuesday.

Re-elected with him were all his top officers and executive board members.

Nomination of Reuther, 52, for an eighth term set delegates marching through the auditorium carrying placards reading "Win with Reuther." They popped balloons, shut off toy flares, fired cap pistols, rang bells, sounded sirens and sang their union song "Solidarity Forever."

Then they crowded onto the platform to shake hands with their leader.

All other candidates nominated for top offices withdrew to make the elections unanimous.

Some of the Negro delegates, however, served notice they would insist on election of a Negro to the executive board next time. Wiloughby Abner of Chicago and Robert Battle III of Detroit were offered as Negro candidates for a vice presidency. Both withdrew.

In nominating Abner, delegate Horace Sheffield of Detroit said Negroes are sick and tired of being told to wait until they have a qualified candidate for a high-level office.

"It is not necessary to be a Rhodes scholar to sit on the executive board," he said.

In withdrawing as a candidate, Battle said he was prompted by Reuther's promise "that progress will be made in the near future to put a Negro on the board."

The UAW has several hundred thousand Negro members.

Reuther first was elected president of the UAW in 1946.

Re-elected with him were Secretary-Treasurer Emil Mazyk, Vice Presidents Leonard Woodcock, Richard T. Gosser, Pat Greathouse and Norman Matthews, Canadian Regional Director George Burt and 17 U.S. regional directors. They make up the executive board.

The convention voted a dues increase on a standing vote which Reuther said showed 80 per cent in favor. Opponents failed in their effort to get a roll call. Reuther ruled that less than 500 delegates stood up to vote for a roll call and the rules required at least 775. Basic union dues will be increased Jan. 1 from $3 to $5 a month.

The convention earmarked $1.25 of the $5 rate to build up the strike fund. When the new rate goes into effect, union members no longer will have to pay a $1 special strike assessment.

Separated Twin Gains Strength

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Jeanett Stubblefield today is breathing more easily than at any time since she was separated from her Siamese twin sister a week ago Tuesday.

While both still remain on the critical list, they are beginning to eat well.

Denett is up to 4½ ounces of formula every three hours. Jeanett's diet Tuesday was jumped from 2 to 4 ounces every three hours.

The girls were born June 29 at Nyssa, Ore.

Homework Plaint From Parents?

HOPKINGTON, R.I. (AP)—Parents, not pupils, find homework burdensome, according to a member of the Hopkington School Board which Tuesday agreed to parents' contention children were overworked. The board limited home study to two hours.

The unconvinced board member, Paul MacKay, himself a teacher, said:

"The main trouble is the parents have to do the work for the kids. That's where the squawk comes in."

ACTRESS BLALOCK—Film actress Lillian Blalock (above), 26, was stabbed to death with a kitchen knife at Bracketville, Tex. She had been working there on location with a Hollywood movie company. Her boy friend, Chester H. Smith, was jailed on a murder charge. Police blamed a tottering romance for the slaying. (AP Wirephoto)

W. German Relations Get Priority

By ARTHUR GAVSHON
LONDON (AP)—Britain is planning a major diplomatic drive to improve relations with West Germany after seven months of hickering with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Relations between London and Bonn have been frankly bad since Prime Minister Harold Macmillan journeyed to see Nikita Khrushchev in Moscow last February at the height of the Berlin crisis. Macmillan went without first consulting Adenauer.

Now the British leader has ordered his experts to get cracking on a program to restore relations between the two countries. He has given the task top priority.

Each government has its explanation for the strains and stresses existing between them.

Adenauer has tended to blame the British press, which he suspects is inspired by people he once described as "wire-pullers" in the Foreign Office.

Macmillan and his associates have been inclined to find fault with Adenauer himself. Some have speculated out loud whether the chancellor, at 63, is up to the burdens of office and is still able to follow new concepts of allied policy.

Adenauer told newsmen Tuesday that anti-German discord from the British public and press has saddened him. He said he had complained of this to Macmillan when they met last March.

Some British newspapers don't conceal their dislike of Adenauer. Lord Beaverbrook's empire-minded Sunday Express—an extreme case—discussed reports that the chancellor soon will be visiting London.

"The British people," it said editorially, "have no love for Dr. Adenauer. They know that he represents British power. They know that he has frustrated every British move for peace in Europe. They do not want him here."

Other British papers have been more tactful but no less critical. The London Times said in July he had cheapened the office of West German president in the eyes of the world by announcing he would take the post, then deciding to continue as chancellor.

The pro-Labor Daily Herald has also accused the West Germans of helping France to make nuclear weapons and said it placed no value on Bonn's denials of this. When then-President Theodor Heuss made a state visit to London last year, the public gave him a polite but chilly welcome.

On the essentials of foreign policy the two countries march in step, although they sometimes take different routes to get to the same objective.

British officials strenuously deny they inspire the newspapers to be unfriendly towards Adenauer's Germany. They resent suggestions that the West Germans have been the hily-whites and the British the dark schemers in the difficulties that have arisen.

British officials—and lately the British people—have insisted Macmillan was right to travel to Moscow in his trail-blazing initiative last February in quest of an East-West accommodation. Macmillan himself has boasted that his diplomatic exploit has opened the way toward a cold war truce.

The British and West German attitudes appear to be the result of rival interpretations of the world situation and the chances of dealing with the Communist world.

Adenauer evidently thinks any deal with the Soviet Union must be at Germany's expense. He rejects any role implying an inferior status.

Macmillan seems to reason that the facts of life in the nuclear age have to be faced and one is that Germany is not going to be united again on allied terms.

ACS Section To Meet Thursday

KINSTON—The Eastern North Carolina Section of the American Chemical Society will hold its October meeting at the Masonic Temple here at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Dr. George W. Watt of the University of Texas will be the featured speaker. The discussion for the evening is entitled "Mechanism of Electrodeposition of Metals."

Dr. Watt is a consultant for DuPont and General Electric, and his interests include: radiochemistry, reactions in liquid ammonia, and the inorganic chemistry of non-aqueous solvents.

Competition Interceptors In

TYNDAL AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—Twelve Air Force interceptor teams start combat-style missile and rocket shooting competition today in the "William Tell" worldwide weapons meet.

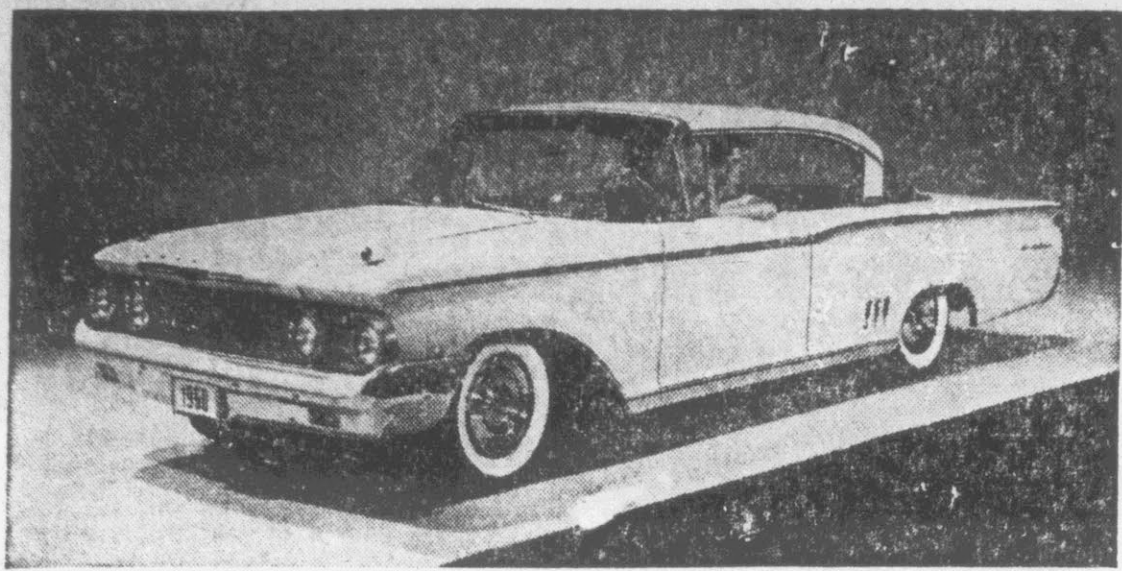

For 10 days they will fire at small jet drone targets over an 8,000-square mile Gulf of Mexico firing range.

The winning team will be decided after the final round Oct. 23. The planes will fire four types of missiles at 100 speedy drones, each one-tenth the size of a small bomber.

The Air National Guard team from Jacksonville, Fla., won the meet last year.

Mercury for 1960 is both distinctive and functionally clean in design. The car's soft, smooth ride is the result of the blending of body, frame, suspension, engine and transmission into a completely road-tuned car. Two-barrel carburetors increase economy of the low-friction V-8 engines. Two of the engines offer added economy by using regular gasoline. Mercury's spacious interiors with lowered transmission and driveshaft tunnel afford comfort for six passengers. Thirteen models in four series, all on 126-inch wheelbase, are available. Twelve-Nation Conference On The Antarctic Could Be Pilot Project

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — A 12-nation antarctic conference opening here Thursday may provide the world with a pilot project for an international inspection system against secret military bases.

Even though the project would operate in the frozen wastelands of the south polar area, experience gained by the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and other participating nations could prove extremely useful in developing more elaborate systems to safeguard eventual disarmament agreements.

For this reason, as well as for the prospect of a new venture in general international cooperation in Antarctica, the conference may prove to be of extraordinary interest. Some authorities in Western capitals see it also as a test of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's declared interest in improving relations with the United States and other non-Communist countries.

The Soviet government has assigned Vasily V. Kuznetsov, first deputy foreign minister, to head its delegation of diplomats, legal experts and scientists. The negotiations will open with a welcoming address by Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

The aim of the conference is to produce a treaty which would eliminate international friction by freezing national claims on antarctic territory, dedicate the south polar continent to peaceful use and assure scientific cooperation in exploring the vast regions of ice and snow.

Antarctica is more than 1 1/2 times the size of the United States and most of it is covered by many thousands of feet of ice. In preparatory negotiations over 15 months, representatives of the 12 conference countries are reported to have reached substantial agreement that a treaty provision committing the continent to peaceful uses should be backed up by an international inspection system.

If this understanding is now translated into a formal agreement, signed and ratified by all the interested countries, it will provide the first large scale system for international inspection requiring the cooperation of the U.S.S.R. and the Western powers. The prospect of a pilot project of this sort is especially important because the problem of inspection is at the heart of the long East-West deadlock over a disarmament program.

President Eisenhower first proposed an antarctic treaty in May of last year. His immediate purpose, he said, was to continue the international cooperation in scientific research in the antarctic continent which had been developed during the International Geophysical Year.

Eisenhower proposed that all the countries having an interest

NEW STUDY COURSE

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—Virginia schools in 1960 will offer a new course — one designed to give pupils a basic understanding of the free enterprise system, The State Board of Education authorized it.

The judges who decide the winners of the Nobel Prizes are the Swedish Academy, the Swedish Academy of Sciences, the Carolina Medical Institute (a Stockholm organization) and five members of the Norwegian parliament.

Plan Soil Test Project In Pitt

Persons interested in a concentrated soil testing program have been asked to meet in the auditorium of the Agricultural Building next Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

At that time an organization will be set up to begin a concentrated effort for securing a soil test on every farm in the county.

The director of the Soil Testing Division, N. C. Department of Agriculture, Dr. Eugene J. Kamprath and N. C. State College Extension Soil Specialist, Dr. W. C. White will work with the local group in setting up an organization to meet this need.

County Agent S. C. Winchester, who called the meeting, said, "This will be an organization meeting and plans will be made to use all the facilities in this county for carrying the program to every producer."

"I am certain that this program, if carried through to the fullest extent, would mean extra net income of several hundred thousand dollars to producers of this county."

The farm agent said he hoped that individuals and organizations would do all in their power to see that every farmer in the county participates in the program.

Continues Order Against Pickets

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Superior Court Judge Susie Sharp has continued in effect a restraining order curtailing picket line activity at the Swift & Co. plant here, where United Packinghouse Workers Union employees are striking against Swift.

Judge Sharp issued the original order when the company complained that pickets had prevented normal entry to the plant by non-strikers, had thrown eggs and otherwise harassed employees.

The union denied there had been any picket line violence. The company introduced 16 affidavits to back its charges.

The order limits the number of pickets, among other things.

Library Club Begins Program

With Betty Maynor of Burlington as president, the Library Club of East Carolina College has begun its program for the year. The group includes in its membership majors and minors in the field of library science and is open to other students interested in books and libraries.

The club holds monthly meetings and carries out a number of projects during National Book Week, on High School Day at the college, and at other times. Lectures and book exhibitions by authors, publishers, and others active in the field of literature are sponsored by the club also.

Serving as officers of the Library Club with Miss Maynor during the 1959-1960 term are Paye Benton of Rt. 2, Seven Springs, vice president; Mikki D. Cox of Jacksonville, secretary; Janice M. Mitchell of Durham, treasurer; and Linda Lee Hines of Wilmington, reporter. Mrs. Marguerite Crenshaw of the college library staff is faculty advisor of the group.

Committee heads just appointed by Miss Maynor for the school year are Sallie Carden of Varina, program committee, and Bonnie Howard of Rt. 3, Greenville, social committee. Other members of the program committee are J. Ashley Jarman of Morehead City; Grey Kelliham of Cerro Gordo; Rebecca Blue of Rt. 3, Carthage; and Janice Stallings of Rt. 2, Hertford. Members of the social committee have not yet been named.

Wife Divorces Pappy Boyington

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Gregory (Pappy) Boyington, 48, was divorced Tuesday on grounds of mental cruelty.

The former Frances Reiman, 45, testifying against the World War II Marine colonel who shot down 26 Japanese planes, said he frequently stayed away from their home without explanation. She said he sometimes went into tantrums.

Under their divorce settlement she gets half the proceeds of Boyington's autobiography and the movie version of it, and a split from a television series he is doing.

A CEMENT BOAT

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—Domimick Luca, a building contractor, recently built a 15-foot runabout boat out of galvanized metal, wire mesh and five bags of cement. What's more the boat, powered by an outboard motor, passed its first test on the Passaic river.

Robinson Union Work Organized

By MRS. T. A. LAWRENCE
Robinson Union's teachers and students are off to a good start for the school year 1959-60. Enrollment to date is 877. Classes have organized, some workshops have been attended, and committees within the school have submitted tentative plans for the year.

Mrs. S. Melton Adams is the new French and English teacher. Grade six boasts the distinction of having three sets of twins, the McKenzies, the Holloways and the Elberts.

Fire Prevention Week was observed throughout the school by fire drill practice, demonstrations by the fire department of Winterville, bulletin board displays, and home room guidance talks.

"Working for Better Education for All Children and Youth through Parents and Teachers," is the theme for the P.T.A. this year. The first meeting will be held October 20, at 7:30 p.m.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Steels, motors and rails were under pressure in the stock market today as effects of the nation's longest steel strike continued to spread.

Recently favored space age issues came in for profit taking. Oils weakened.

Tobacco displayed independent strength. In the steel list Lukens tumbled almost 3 while Youngstown was off about 2. U. S. Steel and Bethlehem lost about 1. Republic sank nearly 2.

Layoffs in the auto industry continued to grow with General Motors hardest hit. It lost about 1 1/2. Ford was down a similar amount. American Motors dipped only a small fraction. In the railroads, hard hit by the steel strike, sank under mild but steady selling pressure. New York Central fell more than 1 while Southern Pacific and Atlantic Coast Line gave up fractions.

Aircrafts declined. The Associated Press average of 50 stocks at noon was down 30 cents at $22.10. Industrials were off 50 cents, rails $1 and utilities unchanged.

Corporate bonds declined fractions in a quiet trade. U. S. government bonds were unchanged to slightly lower.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices steady to 25 higher. Tops of 13.75 to 15.00 at Wilson; 13.25 to 14.75 at Hillsboro; 13.50 to 14.00 at Nahant and Rocky Mount; 13.25 to 14.00 at Kinston, Benson, New Bern and Mount Olive; 13.00 to 14.00 at Smithfield; 13.00 to 13.50 at Tarboro, Enfield, and Scotland Neck; 12.75 to 13.25 at Albemarle, House's Mill and Lillington; 12.75 to 13.00 at Bethel, Murfreesboro, Sunbury, Edenon and Harrellville; 13.50 at Clinton, Fayetteville, Elizabethton and Goldsboro; 13.25 at Dux, Hayne, Burgaw, Siler City, Dunn, Clarkton, Four Oaks and Clayton; other markets unreported.

Scholarship For J. R. Newell, Jr.

John Richard Newell Jr. of Greenville, a senior in textile chemistry at State College in Raleigh, has been awarded a $500 scholarship by the Blackman-Under Co. of Spartanburg, S. C. Director of the Placement Bureau and director of the Scholarship committee in the college's School of Textiles G. H. Dunlap made the announcement.

Newell is considered a top-ranking student. He is secretary of Kappa Sigma Nu, cabinet member of the YMCA; and a member of both the Topkins Textile Council and the American Association for Textile Chemists and Colorists. His other affiliations include membership in the college chapter of the American Institute of Physics, various committees of the State College Union and Delta Kappa Phi.

Newell has also helped in presenting the "Open House" program and the "Phi Psi Fashion Show," annual events of the School of Textiles. A married student, he resides at 2712 Bedford Ave., Raleigh.

Quickly Approve New Ambassador

MANILA (AP)—The Philippine Foreign Office today announced formal acceptance of career diplomat John D. Hickerson as successor to U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen. The appointment was announced in Washington Tuesday. Bohlen leaves Thursday for Japan and the United States to become an adviser to the State Department on Soviet affairs.

Can Get Permit For Illegal Heels

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Spike heels are illegal in Mobile but a way is provided for women to wear them without breaking the law. Women will be given a permit which will relieve the city of responsibility in any accidents resulting from falls on city streets and sidewalks. The free permit would apply for all spike heels a woman owns.

An ordinance adopted by the city commissioners bans heels higher than 1 1/2 inches which are less than an inch in diameter. The ordinance was proposed last week after the commissioners were told that about 50 damage suits had been filed against the city during the past two years by women who had fallen on streets and sidewalks.

Mother Of Local Woman Dies Today

Mrs. Grace Moore Short, 152 Ransome Ave., Hampton, Va., died early today. Funeral arrangements are incomplete. Mrs. Short was the mother of Mrs. W. Kenneth Whichard of West Rock Springs Drive, Greenville. She had visited in Greenville on several occasions and enjoyed a number of friends here.

Mrs. Whichard and son Robert left this morning for Hampton. HAD $51.22 DAY - Greenville Tobacco Market sold 250,902 pounds of tobacco yesterday for $128,504. Average for the day was $51.22.

Brush Fire Scorches Los Angeles' Border

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A brush fire fanned by strong winds swarmed across Arroyo Seco Canyon today, devouring acres of valuable watershed and menacing foothill communities north of Los Angeles.

The east side of the fire, which has consumed some 1,200 acres, raged to within 1 1/2 miles of the Caltech jet propulsion laboratory, a key center in space research. But the laboratory was not considered in any immediate danger. Flames lit the slate-gray hills overlooking the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, south of the blaze.

The fire is blazing along a 15-mile perimeter. A spokesman for the county fire department said it is believed the blaze was caused by a careless smoker. He did not elaborate. Two fiery fingers of the southern front pierced the northern edges of the fashionable foothill community of La Canada, 30 miles north of Los Angeles. Flames damaged several homes.

The La Canada home of wealthy contractor Guy F. Atkinson was severely damaged. Atkinson estimated the loss at about $50,000. The flames also routed actor Dennis Morgan and his wife from their two-bedroom stone guest house, across the street from Atkinson's home.

The husky actor and his wife went to an emergency evacuation center, set up by the Red Cross at Flintridge Preparatory School. About 200 to 300 residents were evacuated but most of them returned by daybreak as the threat to La Canada eased.

Associated Press reporter Howard C. Heyn watched the fire from a command post about 1,000 feet from the flames and reported: "Flames were leaping into the air, 30 to 50 feet high. I saw a wall of flames coming down a ridge toward town, then flames on succeeding ridges."

"The fire looked strangely beautiful in the nighttime air, lighting up the sky as though it were daylight." The fire started Tuesday in dense brush alongside Angeles Crest Highway, which winds through scenic Angeles National Forest and then down to the desert.

Four firefighters have been injured, one critically. Forest Service crewman Patrick Bridge, 25, was struck in the stomach by the butt of a tree he felled.

There will be a Bible Conference held at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church in Greenville October 28, 29, 30. It was announced today by Frank Stawn of the St. James Methodist Church who is chairman of the Conference. He explained that not only will bible study be afforded those attending but also techniques in group bible study.

The Bible Conference being held at Jarvis Memorial is one of two being held for the whole New Bern District. Reverend Harold Minor, Director of Adult Work of the North Carolina Methodist Conference Board of Education, said that this study was initiated by the General Board of Education of the Methodist Church. The Conference Board has chosen Reverend Leon Couch, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church in Goldsboro, to be instructor and James H. Miller, Jr., as Group Leader.

To organize and promote the Conference the following committee has been working to achieve a successful bible study opportunity for as many as possible of the adult teachers and adult themselves: Chairman, Frank Stawn, St. James, Greenville; Promotion, R. L. Cannon, Jr., Vanceboro; Dis-

Two Fire Calls Here Yesterday

Greenville firemen responded to two fires yesterday, both of which did little damage. At 5:15 p.m. firemen were called to 2114 Dickinson Ave. when a road paving machine caught fire. Fire officials said the blaze was out when trucks arrived.

The second fire call was to 109 North Harding St. Responding firefighters said when they arrived, they found a lawnmower had been burning, causing light damage to the machine. Sunday night robbers entered the Thomas Radio and T.V. Service building at 906 Washington Street, taking several new transistor radios and several junked sets.

Investigating officers said the robbers gained entrance through a rear door. Investigation of the case is continuing.

Roberto Agrees Return Children

ROME (AP)—Roberto Rossellini said today he will return his three children by Ingrid Bergman to their mother but will continue to fight for a final court decision giving him custody of them. Mario Sotis, the Italian film director's attorney, said Rossellini will return the children to the Swedish film star as soon as their passports are in order. Miss Bergman lives outside Paris with her third husband, Swedish businessman Lars Schmidt.

Tips Tobacco

By S. J. WEEKS. Pitt County Tobacco Agent For the past few years farmers in Pitt County have participated in a tobacco variety performance survey. This survey is being conducted again this year. The purpose of the survey is to determine how various varieties compared in yield and value during 1959 on tobacco farms.

Cards are being sent to a representative group of growers in the county and growers who receive the cards are urged to fill out the card accurately and return it to the county agents office. Everyone who receives a card should send it in regardless of whether his yield is low, medium or high. This is essential if the summary of the variety data is to represent the actual performance of a given variety in the county and state.

Each farmer who sends in his information on the card will receive a copy of the data on the performance of the different varieties as soon as they all are accumulated. Since a special effort was made by many growers to plant non-resistant varieties, or divide their acreage between one or more varieties, this information should prove particularly interesting and helpful this year.

Other counties are also accumulating this information from growers so that we will be able to compare our results with that of the entire belt and state. HAD $52.63 DAY - Farmville's tobacco market yesterday averaged $52.63 in selling 133,528 pounds of tobacco. A total of $70,275 was paid out yesterday.

Mrs. Barbara Ann Artis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Moyer of 300 Cadillac St. and wife of Johnnie Ray Artis of 101 Causeway Ave., received her cap in nursing September 18 at the N. A. Memorial Hospital School of Nursing in Nassawadox, Va. Mrs. Artis was president of her class and a 1957 graduate of South Ayden High School. Mrs. Amelia S. Capehart gave a demonstration on Storage of Home Canned Foods, at the monthly meeting of the Swift Creek Community Club Tuesday night.

Highlights of the meeting were planning a lawn improvement tour to be held December 1 at 1 p.m., reviewing the community accomplishments for the year and making a suggestion program for 1960. William Pittman, president, presided at the meeting. Approximately 17 persons attended.

Funeral FARMVILLE — Aricamon Tyson died at this home, 504 S. Main St., Farmville, Monday after a lingering illness. Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. at St. John F.W.B. Church, with the Rev. F. L. Dixon officiating. Burial will follow in the Sunset Memorial Cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Ruth Tyson of the home; three daughters, Mrs. Willie Mae Pitt, Marjorie Ruth Tyson and Mrs. Evelyn Tyson of Farmville; four sons, R. L. of Philadelphia, Pa., Langston H., Robert E. and Charles H. of Farmville; five sisters, Mrs. Mary Parker, Mrs. Annie Blount, Mrs. Helen Brown and Mrs. Mable Richard of Farmville and Mrs. Blanch Parker of Greenville; six brothers, Rudolph and Marion of Washington, D. C., Aster of Baltimore, Md., Mildred, K. D. and Dennis of Farmville. The body will lie in state at the church Friday from 12 p.m. until the funeral hour.
