Roux Is Convicted, Draws 20-25 Years For Robbery

Emory Joseph Roux, branded by the Federal Bureau of Investigation as one of the nation's sharp-sharp safe crackers, drew prison sentences of 20-25 and 10 years yesterday after the jury returned a verdict of guilty as charged on two counts.

Deliberating less than an hour, the jury returned the verdict of guilty to the charges of burglary by explosives and larceny late yesterday afternoon shortly before Pitt County Superior Court concluded a one-week mixed term with Judge George M. Fountain, Jr., of Tarboro, presiding.

Roux was convicted on charges growing out of a $29,000 jewelry store robbery last Oct. 25. The loot included diamonds, other precious stones, scrap gold, expensive watches, and cash.

Before pronouncing sentence, Judge Fountain instructed the defendant that consideration would be made in passing sentence if he should cooperate in aiding officers in the recovery of the stolen property of Lautares Bros. Jewelers. Roux declined to aid in the recovery.

Immediately after hearing the verdict, Roux stood and uttered his first words in open court: "I am completely innocent of these charges."

Apparently unshaken by the verdict, the convicted thief told the court of his innocence in an unwavering voice.

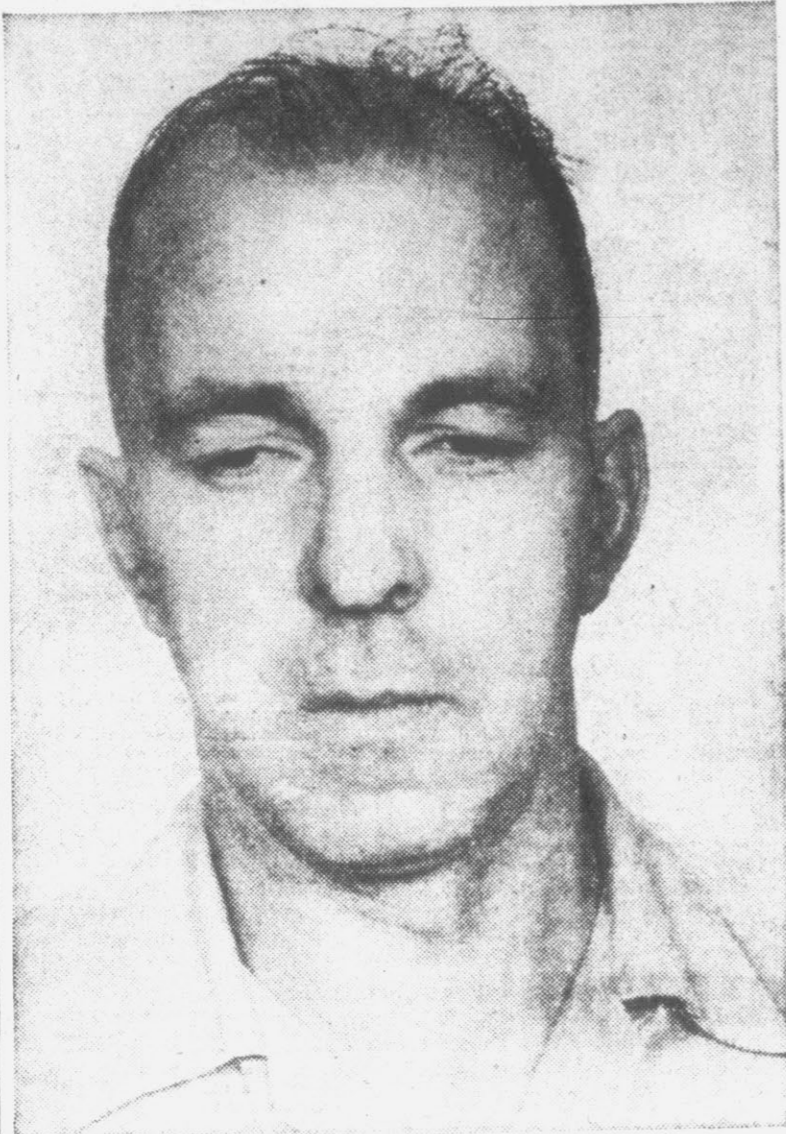

After Judge Fountain passed the sentence, Roux gave notice that he would appeal the case to the State Supreme Court. The Third Judicial District, which includes Pitt County, is due for Supreme Court review sometime next spring.

Bond was set at $50,000.

Solicitor Robert D. Rouse Jr. revealed Roux' past FBI record to the court immediately after the jury returned the verdict. According to the record, Roux began a long career of breaking and entering, larceny, and possession of burglary tools back in 1935 when he was convicted and sentenced on a charge driving a car away without the owner's permission.

The record showed that, later, in 1951, Roux was serving a term in the Virginia State Penitentiary. Roux also read FBI records which showed Roux "is well-known over the Eastern United States as a safe robber" and "is one of the best-known safe robbers in the nation."

Earlier, in his argument to the

EMORY JOSEPH ROUX

Jury. Roux had declared that "this is the biggest single theft that I can remember in this county."

"This case has more evidence than I have ever seen in a robbery case," he continued. He told the jury that the person who committed the robbery was a "skilled artisan" and was "practiced in his trade."

Referring to a match book found at the scene of the robbery, Roux said that this was "the only clue whatsoever" officers had to lead them to the thief.

He praised Greenville, Washington, and Pitt County law enforcement officials for working "harder in this case to tie Roux to this robbery than in any case I've ever seen."

"We made this case against Roux," he said, "with a little luck and a lot of good old hard work."

Roux added that, "though circumstantial, this evidence has fit together like fingers in a glove." He concluded his argument to the jury: "I ask you not to give him (Roux) a license to go out and prey upon your neighbors."

Harvey identified the victims as being Lesel Edwards, 44, and Burney Tripp, 43, both of Route 5, Greenville. He noted that Edwards was totally blind in one eye and partially blind in the other.

The driver of the car involved has been identified as Phillip Ray Jones, 18, of Route 6, Greenville.

The accident which occurred about 6:20 p.m. brought the total number of highway fatalities in Pitt County for the year to five. Of the five, three have been pedestrians.

Inquest Set Into 2 Road Deaths

The inquest into the death of two men, hit by a car and killed last Saturday night on N. C. 30 about one and one-half miles east of Greenville, will be held next Thursday night at 7:30 in the Pitt County Court House in Greenville, according to Pitt Coroner E. W. Harvey.

Speight Reminds Stock Sale Facing A Deadline

Committees reported that $38,500 has been subscribed in stock for Greenville Industries, Inc.

The committees taking part in the drive to sell stock met last night to report on the progress. W. W. Speight, president of the Committee of 100, said the goal for the drive is $125,000. The money is to be used to purchase a 269-acre farm 11 miles north of Greenville. The land will be made available for an industrial area.

Speight pointed out that the deadline for the drive is Nov. 25. That is when an option now held on the land expires.

He said that while last night's report was encouraging "we still have a long way to go."

Scalped, Dies

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Scalping victim Christine Hayes died today.

The 12-year-old eastern Idaho girl was scalped Monday when her hair was caught in a potato digging machine.

Only a small, heart-shaped patch of skin was left on her face. Ripped off with the scalp were her ears, cheeks, lids of the right eye, eyebrows, skin along the jawbone and neck.

Only Thursday doctors told of how well she was progressing after a six hour operation Monday night at the Latter-Day Saints Hospital here. They said both her morale and physical condition were good.

Train Strikes Rear Of Car At Crossing

BELL ARTHUR — A woman driver of a car and her three-year old daughter escaped serious injury and a possible death yesterday after a Norfolk and Southern Railroad train struck the rear of their car at a grade crossing here.

Investigating Patrolman J. B. Surles identified the driver of the car as Mrs. Elsie Bernon Vanderford of Bell Arthur. Mrs. Vanderford's three-year-old girl Kathy was a passenger in the auto.

Surles noted the train stopped after striking the car but left the scene of the accident before investigating officers arrived. The train was headed toward Farmville.

The car was heavily damaged in the wreck. Surles said investigation of the accident is incomplete.

Big Bomber And Tanker In Collision

Sky Lit Up As Nuclear-Armed 8-Jet Bomber And Flying Tanker Collide; At Least Four Dead

HARDINSBURG, Ky. (AP) — A nuclear-armed B52 bomber and its refueling tanker collided Thursday night in a fiery blast which lit the sky for 150 miles. At least four men were killed.

Four members of the B52 crew were unhurt or suffered only minor injuries. They parachuted to safety after the planes came together while refueling.

Four others were reported dead and four were missing.

"It looked like the whole world — the whole sky — was on fire," said one witness, Eliza Robertson. The Air Force would not say what type nuclear weapon the B52 carried. It said there was no danger of an explosion.

The eight-jet Strategic Air Command bomber, based at Columbus Air Force Base, Miss., carried a crew of eight. The four-jet KC135 tanker from the base had four men aboard. They were on a routine flight.

Columbus Air Force Base said among the known dead is S.Sgt. Paul E. Thomasson, 27, boom operator on the KC135. His wife is Mary E. Thomasson (143 Hamilton Ave.), Columbus AFB.

It listed the survivors, all from the B52, as: Capt. William G. Gushall, 36, aircraft commander, Aberdeen, Miss.; Capt. James W. Strother, 40, radar operator, Columbus AFB; Lt. Gino Fugazzi, 24, electronic warfare officer, New York City; and Maj. Milton E. Chatham, 38, instructor pilot, Columbus AFB.

The B52 came down in pieces on a farm about 12 miles south of here and three miles north of where the tanker crashed on another farm.

The B52, its wreckage scattered over a wide area, was still blazing four hours after it crashed.

One of the rescuers, Dr. John A. Kinchelov, said two men who parachuted from the B52 told him the first they knew of the collision was when "everything suddenly lit up" in flames.

"I don't think any of them got out of the little plane (the tanker)," he said.

Strategic Air Command headquarters at Omaha, Neb., which issued the statement on the nuclear warhead, said the accident was the first of its kind since SAC began its round-the-clock air refueling program nine years ago.

United Nations Day Proclaimed

Oct. 24 has been proclaimed United Nations Day by Mayor S. Eugene West.

The day marks the 14th anniversary of the founding of the United Nations established "to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war, which twice in our life time has brought untold sorrow to mankind."

"Thus far the UN has been instrumental in preventing open conflict between nations through conciliation, negotiation and pacific settlements," the mayor's proclamation read.

"Through its specialized agencies it has been helping to create the basic conditions of peace by encouraging greater production of food, better health, higher standards of living and greater educational opportunities.

"The future progress of the United Nations will depend to a great extent upon an informed public opinion in the United States."

Mayor West urged every citizen of the community to cooperate in observance of the day.

Paddle Wheel Satellite's Radio Suddenly Quits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Explorer VI, the Paddle Wheel satellite, has lost its voice after just two months of whirling in space.

Its sun-powered radios had been expected to last the life of the satellite, more than a year.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Thursday that the 142-pound moon went silent Oct. 6. Why was the announcement delayed? "We had hoped the signals might start up again," a spokesman said.

Explorer VI got its nickname from its four vanes or paddles extending from it. The vanes contained solar cells that were to recharge the batteries for the radios.

NASA had no explanation of why the radio went dead. Still, it broadcast a wealth of information back to earth before that happened, including the first crude pictures of the earth as seen from 19,500 miles out.

The satellite still is being tracked by radio telescope.

Steel Union Offers New Proposal; Will Be Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Steelworkers Union today made a new strike-settlement proposal to the industry. The industry said it would be studied.

The union proposal was advanced at the first session of new direct negotiations, undertaken at government prodding.

This meeting broke up after an hour and 15 minutes. David J. McDonald, union president, confirmed at that time reports of a new union proposal. He declined to give its details.

The negotiators will meet again at 4:30 p.m. (EDT) Saturday.

R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, said that meant the union proposal would be studied.

"Both sides," Cooper said, "are endeavoring to reach an agreement to settle this issue by collective bargaining."

Although McDonald would not give details, well-placed sources said that the union offer was for a 21-cent per hour package over a two-year contract period.

It would provide for increased insurance, pension and supplementary unemployment benefits during the first year of the agreement, according to these reports, and a wage boost in the second year.

There were unconfirmed reports that Kaiser Steel Corp. was near agreement with the union to accept this proposal. If so, it would crack the industry's solid front.

Pre-strike earnings of steelworkers averaged $3.11 an hour. Edgar F. Kaiser, board chairman of Kaiser Steel, got out a statement in response to inquiries about these reports. He said his company had no written or verbal (sic) agreement or commitment with the union as to a new contract.

Informants said the new union proposal, which it intended to press on all the industry, asked additional fringe benefits but no wage increase in the first year of a two-year pact, and a wage rise in the second year.

The new industry-union negotiators, undertaken at government prodding, got under way at 11 a.m. (Eastern Standard Time) in a suite at the Sheraton Carlton Hotel here.

Negotiators going into the room ran a gauntlet of questioning from newsmen.

David J. McDonald, president of the Steelworkers Union, declined comment on the various rumors and reports.

The chief negotiator for the companies, R. Conrad Cooper of U.S. Steel, said "I don't know of any" when asked for his comment. Cooper was accompanied by a three-man team. The others were R. Heath Larry of U.S. Steel, John H. Morse of Bethlehem Steel, and H. C. Lumb of Republic Steel.

Union negotiators in addition to McDonald were Howard Hage, union vice president; I. W. Abel, secretary-treasurer; and Arthur J. Goldberg, general counsel.

Before the doors were closed, Cooper and McDonald posed side-by-side on a divan for pictures. Cooper smiled for the cameras but the union chief appeared glum and impatient. "Haven't you got enough now?" he twice asked the cameramen.

A classical union maneuver in dealing with several companies is to try to split them.

The idea is that if one breaks away and gets back into production, the other companies cannot afford to hold out.

Hence the union undoubtedly was hoping to get Kaiser, or others, to break away from the industry group.

$6 Million Plantation Is Gift To Consolidated Univ.

RALEIGH (AP) — Mrs. Betsy Penn will give the Consolidated University of North Carolina her

Gov. Luther Hodges will accept the gift, valued at six million dollars, in ceremonies on the site next Tuesday. Other high state officials, and top university officers, will be on hand.

Details of the gift leaked out Thursday. University spokesmen confirmed the gift, but withheld direct comment until after the formal presentation. However, they made plain their delight with the property.

The plantation, gifts of cash and marketable securities, to be presented by Mrs. Penn will be known as "The Jeff and Betsy Penn Foundation." Under terms of the gift, Mrs. Penn will be a life tenant and will maintain her home.

An endowment of more than $750,000 will accompany the plantation to maintain it, the residence and its art treasures.

Uses to be made of the property include a 4-H Club camp to be built by the North Carolina State College Extension Division on a 25-acre lake at Chincqua-Penn. The State College Experiment Station will use the plantation herd of purebred Black Angus in a beef cattle production testing center.

The mansion and its works of art will be operated as a museum by Woman's College at Greensboro, another of the three branches of the Consolidated University.

DeGaulle Wins On Algeria Peace Plan

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle's peace plan for rebellious Algeria won overwhelming parliamentary approval today expressed confidence that France will not let go of the North African territory for generations to come.

Winding up a bitter three-day debate in the National Assembly, Debre countered right-wing cries that De Gaulle was giving away Algeria by declaring that any Algerian move to secede from France would be beaten "once and for all."

A threatened revolt against the government failed to materialize. The National Assembly in the early morning hours voted 441-23 to give De Gaulle a free hand to end the five-year rebellion.

Eighty-five members abstained or were not present.

Those who voted against the government included 10 Communists and several free-wheeling nonparty deputies, among them former Premier Georges Bidault. Most of the Algerian deputies boycotted the session because they fear De Gaulle's self-determination policy means an end to the rule of their French backers in Algeria.

De Gaulle on Sept. 16 promised Algeria three choices — integration with France, home rule in association with France, or independence, though he admitted he was opposed to independence.

Debre did not go back on this offer, but he promised that "no force will be withdrawn."

"We must succeed by pacification," the Premier declared. "Pacification" is the word the French use for their military measures against the rebels.

During the heated debate shouts of "treason" and "treachery" came from deputies who implied De Gaulle was giving Algeria to

Tax Count Faces Tax Consultant

Frank A. Edmundson, Greenville accountant and tax consultant for a number of years, was indicted yesterday by a Federal grand jury in Raleigh, according to an announcement from the district headquarters of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service in Greensboro.

Edmundson was indicted on two counts. He was accused of attempting to evade and defeat payment of taxes of a client by failing to file returns for the client for two years, by failing to pay over to the director of Internal Revenue the taxes due and by appropriation and converting the tax money to his own use, the IRS said.

Julian A. Gaskill, U. S. attorney, said the government charged that Edmundson prepared the income tax returns of Charlie and May Belle T. Cox in 1952 and 1953 and received the $395 that they owed for each of the years.

"It's a rather unusual question," said Gaskill, because the government charges "he evaded the payment of their taxes."

The Greenville man was charged with defrauding the Federal government of taxes amounting to $790 for the two years involved.

Tax liens were filed against Edmundson in the Pitt County register of deeds office May 5, 1958, in the amount of $19,484.44. The IRS announcement did not mention the lien in connection with yesterday's indictment.

The current case resulted from an investigation conducted by a special agent of the IRS intelligence division.

Ayden Board Moves To Expedite Sewer Work

AYDEN — A report on the Sewer Construction project was heard by the Ayden Town Board at their regular monthly meeting this week and it was decided, if agreeable with engineers, to prepare a waiver in order to expedite use of the sewer system North of the Negro school in South Ayden.

Town officials pointed out that when the system was inspected several weeks ago the section South of the school was found defective with the remaining part being in good shape. If the waiver is granted, it will permit the part of the system to be placed in use.

The commissioners approved several recommendations by the Town Manager Cleveland Paylor.

Other recommendations approved include: The town should collect and sell all scrap metal at the old power plant. The Town Offices should be painted. Contracts should be made to dispose of the old water tank at the rear of the town office. The new city dump area should be placed in service at the earliest possible time, repairing and leveling the dump.

All marketable timber at the new dump site should be cut and sold. If found satisfactory, the "ditch-witch" rented from the Murphy Body Works of Wilson to be used to dig ditches for six inch water mains to be laid in two sections of town, should be purchased.

The board, in addition to passing Paylor's recommendations, passed a resolution commending Walter Beddard who received a plaque as Fireman of the Year in Ayden.

The board also instructed the Town Manager to process the petitions for the Gary, Veners, and Washington Street paving projects at the earliest possible date so work on the projects can be started.

The recommendations were as fol-

Just Not Room For Everybody On Europe Trip

RALEIGH (AP) — The governor's office said today there just isn't enough space to take along all the Tar Heels who want to accompany Gov. Hodges on an industry-hunting trip to Europe next month.

That was the answer given when Ed Rankin, Hodges' private secretary, was asked for comment on the complaint by Heinz Rollman, Wayneville manufacturer, who said he had volunteered for the European trip but was not included among those selected.

Rollman, a German immigrant who made a fortune in this country manufacturing shoes, said he offered to accompany the industry hunters but "they didn't want to take advantage of me."

He said he had planned to be in Europe at the time anyway, but has decided to stay home "so I won't embarrass them."

Rankin said that when Rollman wrote saying he planned to be in Europe and volunteered to help in the industry-hunting, a reply was sent telling Rollman that "We would be glad to have you join us." He said several folks, non-members of the official party, are planning to join the group at one or more of their six European stops.

Rankin said the list of more than 50 selected for the trip was compiled from membership of the State Board of Conservation and Development, the State Ports Authority and persons recommended by these two groups.

The party is to leave by air Oct. 31 and return in mid-November.

Gallery Showing Handicrafts

The Community Art Gallery, located in the Sheppard Memorial Library, announces the opening of the current show—Handicrafts of the Southern Highlands.

The exhibit will be on display here until November 5.

Among the most appealing items in the exhibit is an old fashioned "kissing ball" made from fir cones, acorns, buckeyes, and seed pods in their natural rich shades of brown, polished to a fine sheen. These balls are nicely set off by a bow of green velvet at the bottom and a matching loop by which the ball may be suspended.

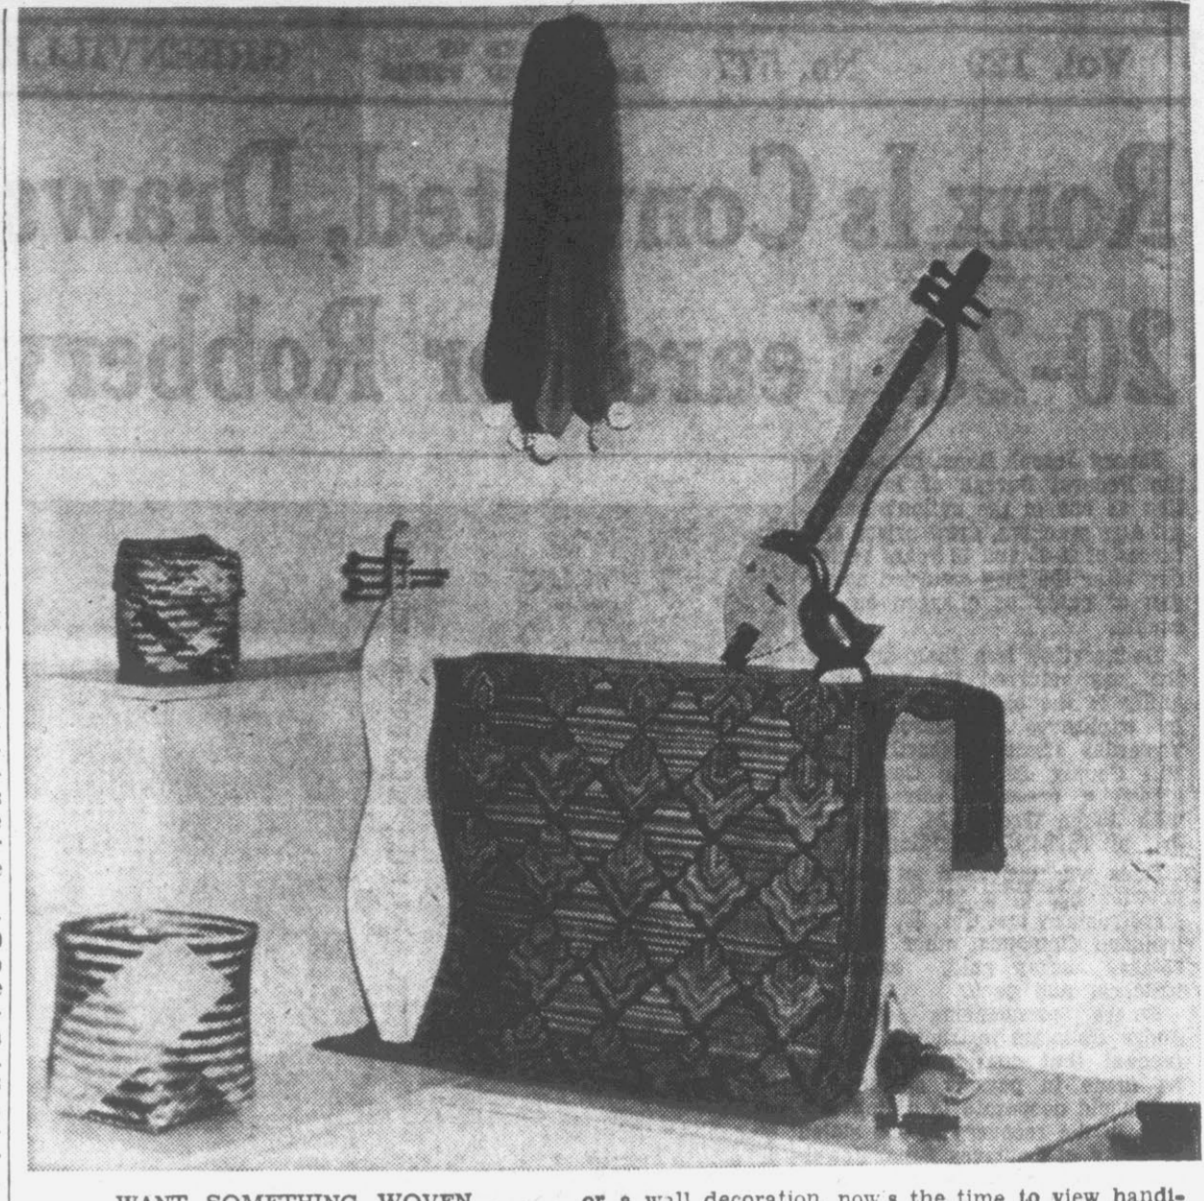

In the pottery line, there is a group of small bowls suitable for ashtrays, and several vases of striking designs.

One of the outstanding pieces is a bright turquoise and soft gray handwoven rug, and another of browns, greens and beiges, both suitable to either traditional or contemporary homes.

The exhibit's purpose is to encourage creativeness in design and the use of materials, and to preserve the traditional and indigenous crafts of the region; to improve the quality of the crafts taught, produced and sold in the area; to provide opportunity for the exhibition and sale of the crafts of its members.

The Southern Highlands Handicraft Guild was organized in 1930 and is a non-profit membership corporation of craftsmen in the mountain areas of Maryland, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North and South Carolina and Alabama.

Most of the items shown in this particular exhibit are samples, duplicates of which may be ordered from the individual craftsmen named in the show's brochure.

WANT SOMETHING WOVEN . . . or a wall decoration, now's the time to view handicraft articles in the current exhibit at the local gallery.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

The camera can take a place along with trowel, spade, rake, spray tank, and other tools needed in gardening.

Before and after pictures show the difference plants make in the home grounds. Not only do such pictures show the transition from bare field or rough wooded area, they (if taken year after year) note the steps toward maturity of your plants. The spindly sapling, its gangling adolescence over, becomes an adult offering shade and beauty.

Colored films record the gardens of yesterday. Their vividness is yours forever—only the turning of a page away. Not only can you show the trees in their new finery of spring—but also the color of their autumn cloaks.

Tell the story of the Dogwood season by season. White blossoms of spring—the sedate form of summer—autumn's foliage on fire—in winter red-berried stopping place of the birds, and cradle of the snow.

Catch the humming bird in its darting quest for nectar—visiting the sweet wells of fragrance. Look at the faces of the flowers looking out from their green-stalked houses. How the green sea of grass flows from house to lose itself in the border of azaleas. All yours to keep—the twine of time—caught by the camera's eye.

A garden should be a year-round pleasure. Not only the growing season—but also seasons of rest and climax. Pictures insure this; they speak the same, no matter what the day.

Let the diary of your garden be written on film. Records of your labor—your ingenuity—your hand guiding nature to the fulfillment of your gardening desires.

Catch the changing faces of the seasons—spring's welcome—the first inquisitive leaf. In summer the journey of the flowers—falling leaves frost touched whispering the colorful goodbye of fall—the busy wind mulching shrubs and trees with snow—readying them for their winter sleep.

Your garden story is being told—each year a chapter, each chapter rich with memories—yesterday's beauty caught and held—printed on film.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Despite three recent failures of the Polaris missile, the project's chief says he is satisfied with progress so far.

The project is on schedule, he said. Forty to 50 Polaris missiles remain to be fired.

The missile, designed for use aboard submarines, is to become operational in 1960.

Significance In Plant Modification

Decision of Greenville's Utilities Commission to alter specifications for the proposed sewerage disposal plant in order to save $303,000 in initial capital outlay on the project and an estimated $8,000 annually in operating costs is certainly in the best interest of the citizens of the city.

The trickle filter type sewerage disposal plant the commission has now authorized in the place of the proposed activated sludge plant, will, according to the Commission, meet the maximum requirements ever set for Greenville by the State Stream Sanitation Committee. That being the case, there is certainly little reason for Greenville to spend an extra $300,000 in capital outlay to build a better plant than it needs. If the plant will meet the maximum specifications of the Stream Sanitation Committee as well as the requirements of the city, it should be entirely satisfactory.

Changes announced by the Commission this week in the type of plant Greenville will build will mean the estimated cost of the project will be lowered from $1,678,000 to $1,375,000. That in turn means that the likelihood the project can be financed without a bond issue is also increased.

Greenville already has received certification for $250,000 in federal aid for the project. In addition it has for the past several years been accumulating in a sinking fund money to finance the sewerage disposal project. It acquired a sizeable nest-egg for the sinking fund several years ago when a portion of the rural electrical owned by the city was sold to Carolina Power and Light Company.

Several years ago when it became apparent that Greenville would have to construct a sewerage disposal plant, the hope was expressed that means might be worked out whereby the plant could be constructed without going to the voters with a proposed bond issue. While the prospects of a bond issue to finance at least part of the project has not been entirely eliminated, the Utilities Commission in recent years has taken significant steps in that direction.

The latest step which reduces the estimated cost:

Red China Has Hungry Future

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Natural calamities and other factors have combined to create a critical food situation in Red China. The Peiping government is instituting measures which have the look of rigid food rationing.

This information is gleaned from the official newspaper of the Chinese Communist party, the People's Daily. It has just announced details of what the party calls a "plan for food consumption."

While the party paper insists the food outlook in China is favorable, it acknowledges that it has undertaken a "shock publicity campaign" to cut down excessive consumption. Party members have undertaken to "explain the truth to the masses."

"They have raised the consciousness of the masses and extensively disseminated throughout all households the call of the party for the practice of economy in food consumption," the paper says. "Many refectories public dining halls and families have taken the initiative to draft their plans to economize in food consumption."

"Economy in food has thus become the social fashion. In preparing meals they have blended course and fine food grains, adjusted the cooking of food grains for both thin and thick mixtures, distinguished between greater and lesser consumption of meals, and rationed consumption according to the number of persons."

The party has directed that after the autumn harvest, these measures must be adopted in all areas.

The party blames its food woes in part on the number of natural disasters — floods and droughts — which ravaged many areas in Red China during the summer. But there are other factors.

One of the most important of these must be the shift of populations from rural areas to the cities in the intensive drive of the Red Chinese to industrialize at breakneck speed.

It is also more than possible that the commune system forced upon the farm communities has further interfered with farm production. There has been much reason to suppose that the regimentation of the Chinese farmers has met with serious resistance.

So the Communist party is faced with this situation: The autumn harvest, probably will mean a barely adequate supply of food for the fall and winter months, but there is little reserve to fall back upon next spring and summer, when the food situation can become so troublesome as to deserve the term crisis.

of the project by $300,000 may well mean the difference between financing the project without a bond issue and having to issue bonds for a portion of the cost.

The Doctor Is Right, Let Teachers Teach

With greater emphasis being placed on giving the school youngster more good, sound education in the classroom, perhaps the public which is demanding these things should give greater consideration to educator's assertions that teachers can't do their best teaching when they are required to be probation officers, clerks, and money-raisers as well as teachers.

Dr. J. E. Ready, director of the state's curriculum study, told an audience in Chapel Hill this week, "If we want better teaching, we had better look closely at class size and teaching load." He suggested adopting an eight hour day, 40 hour week for teachers, limiting it to "meaningful educational activities."

The fact that teachers want relief from the clerical and other jobs they must perform in addition to their classroom teaching does not come as a surprise to North Carolinians. Efforts in that direction — now without some success — have been made over a period of years. In far too large a measure, however, teachers throughout the state continue week in and week out to have to spend a disproportionate part of their time with record-keeping and other chores.

If our teachers are to be loaded down with so many other jobs that they cannot devote their full attention and energy to teaching, how can we expect the quality of our public schools to improve as rapidly as we would like?

"Teachers," Dr. Ready said, "want to be allowed to be allowed to put their time and energy on teaching the subjects they are assigned to teach."

If teachers were allowed to do that, education in North Carolina's public schools would immediately jump to a new and higher plateau.

Outsiders Laud Our Highways

Guest writer today, Sam Beard, Public Relations officer, State Highway Commission.

A few days ago we received a letter from Kenneth Fields, Traffic Engineer for the Indiana Department of Highways, in which he said, "speaking as a tourist and as a professional highway engineer, your state has the best maintained, best signed highways of any state that I have visited and I have traveled from the east to the west coast, both north and south."

Comments like this, though by no means rare from out-of-State motorists, deserve attention as a tribute to the work of the more than 8,000 highway employees whose daily job is the construction and maintenance of an adequate transportation system.

It would be a strange situation, indeed, if the Highway Department and the Commission didn't get a lot of complaints in view of the fact that the system measures more than 70,000 miles in length, all of it maintained by the State. Besides, criticism isn't bad. It's a natural outgrowth of our democratic processes which not only permits but encourages public interest. Without such criticism and concern no agency of government could possibly succeed or improve its methods and this applies to every Highway Commission since the first road-body was formed in 1921.

Traveling over the State a good deal, highway officials are finding considerable support for the state-wide approach to highway planning with emphasis on building permanence of carrying capacity into the facilities. They are finding support also on the policy of the Commission to move its meetings all over North Carolina and holding hearings where private citizens can air their complaints and suggestions before the full commission and in ear-range of the press.

North Carolina has a Secondary Road network of over 58,000 miles with 24,000 miles paved and 34,000 unpaved. Paving all the mileage is completely impractical with the initial cost set at $600,000,000 and an annual maintenance cost which takes the State through out-of-State contracting firms. Use of electronic computing equipment on routine design calculations has also stepped up design schedules and given the Highway Department greater versatility in computing earthwork and other costs on several possible locations before deciding on one. Even with this modern equipment, however, several weeks are required to determine highway location and design.

Once a general location is agreed upon and preliminary details of roadway and bridge design are ready, precise highway plans must be prepared for submission to bidding contractors and right of way must be appraised and negotiations begin. The right of way effort, now costing the State well over $12,000,000 annually, is one of the knottiest problems facing the Commission. Each parcel of land needed is appraised by outside appraisors (generally independent appraisors), often by more than one appraisor and right of way agents of the Department call on property owners to reveal offers. Present Commission regulations call for a second visit to the property owner to determine whether the right of way can be acquired through negotiation or whether it might be eventually obtained only through eminent domain.

Frequently we are asked the status of the Secondary Road Bond Issue and what the annual cost to the taxpayer is in terms of debt retirement and annual maintenance. As of June 30, 1959, $76,300,000 of the $200,000,000 issue had been retired leaving an unpaid balance of $123,700,000 to be retired over approximately the next 10-year period. Current payments on the bond issue run approximately $12,200,000 annually while maintenance on the 14,500 miles of bond pavement runs around $11,000,000. Thus total annual investment on these roads is around the $23,000,000 mark. Reviewed in another light, the 1 cent additional gas tax to pay for retirement of the bonds pays roughly half of the cost of the roads with an additional one cent required for annual maintenance.

Generally a period of 18 to 24 months is required between the time of Commission approval and the time advertisements are made for bids. It is during this period that location and design engineers, the Advance Planning Department, the Hydrographic Department and others complete their work. As many as a dozen different departments may work on a project and the work of one department must be completed before another can begin.

Under present policies of the Commission, the Highway Department works very closely with city planners to be in State plans with those of the municipality and to avoid working at cross purposes. The planners also decide whether a facility should be two or four lanes, whether additional right of way should be purchased and reserved for future expansion, whether intersecting roads should be at the same grade or be grade separated, whether full, partial or no control of access should be obtained and whether service roads should or should not be constructed. Decisions on these matters may save the taxpayer millions of dollars in future years, or, if improperly made, could cost millions for expensive improvements.

Location and design work on highway projects has been speeded by purchase of an airplane and installation of a photographic department to handle aerial surveys locally rather than through out-of-State contracting firms. Use of electronic computing equipment on routine design calculations has also stepped up design schedules and given the Highway Department greater versatility in computing earthwork and other costs on several possible locations before deciding on one. Even with this modern equipment, however, several weeks are required to determine highway location and design.

Time To Trade It In

By HENRY HOWARD

They Waited For Word

Yesterday afternoon, over at the court house, interested parties waited to hear what they'd been waiting for since the opening of the term of Superior Court that closed about 6:00 last night.

Several different persons waited and listened for several and various reasons.

Some apparently were just interested, perhaps, in "picking up a conversation piece" (and a good one it would make). Others had genuine interest — property interest — in what would be later set forth.

Still others, who had devoted countless hours of preparation to hear a single word, or two words, waited almost nervously. Some needed to find out so the facts could be relayed to interested persons not present.

At least one man sat nervously and impatiently, though it was hard to discern from his outward appearance, waiting to hear a jury's verdict that would have tremendous bearing on his future.

During the jury's brief but decisive deliberation, the whole court room and its ante rooms buzzed with excited murmurs, speculative suggestions, preferences, and wishes.

As the jury returned to climax four long days, everybody poured quickly into the court room almost like a hawk ready to swoop down upon its prey. Hawks, however, are vicious and daring — yesterday's hawks merely seemed eager to eye-witness justice done.

The foreman of the 12-man jury stepped forward in response to the judge's question.

"We have, Your Honor," he said, "guilty on both counts as charged."

After this point, the interested persons there heard for the first time words to the court from the defendant: "I'm completely innocent of these charges."

Shortly afterward, the judge, in the interest of those persons who were (and are) at a property loss because of the defendant, requested cooperation on the defendant's part in recovering the property — or at least some of it.

First seeming agreeable, the convicted man suddenly hardened and refused to be of any help in the property recovery.

Shortly, the judge pronounced: "Not less than 20 nor more than 25 years in the State penitentiary for one; 10 years for the other."

The long-awaited sentence pronouncement followed the reading of the defendant's long FBI record. According to the record, a long string of arrests and convictions began back in 1935 in Rhode Island.

As the solicitor read the record to the court, not one face showed surprise, only anticipated interest.

Other Editors Saying Teachers Rate Break

(The Charlotte Observer)

A commission created by the recent General Assembly has begun its study of an important and challenging question: How do you recognize and reward merit in paying public school teachers? Few goals in public education are more desirable than this one. Few subjects have been discussed more, and yet so very little has been done. This is simply because the practical difficulties have always seemed so great that they have defeated the goal.

Show us a way to test merit fairly and we will embrace merit pay in the schools, the teacher organizations have said. Show us a way to measure devotion, personality, the ability to impart inspiration, to a pupil. Show us how merit pay can be administered without favoritism or venality. Show us how a big job will not be mislabeled by the small minds of school committeemen an other officials.

Show us how you will measure those tiny but vital intangibles in a teacher's makeup, those things that go beyond mere control of subject matter but so often mean the difference between good and bad teaching. It is such questions as these that have kept merit pay out of the Tar Heel classroom. And because they have good teachers and bad teachers, excellent teachers and mediocre teachers are all paid alike. It is an arrangement that makes no sense save in expediency.

We do not know the answers to these questions that have barred the way until now; neither do intelligent professionals who have spent years in their study. We do know that it is time answers are sought in North Carolina. Negatives have too long dominated positives in this area, both in North Carolina and elsewhere. We can hope that a tremendous effort will be made by this commission to see what has been done in other places and what might logically be done here. Governor Hodges said it very well in a recent speech to an educational group at Southern Pines.

"What is the basis for the position that teachers cannot be distinguished on the basis of merit? What is so peculiar about public school teachers that they cannot be rated fairly on a merit basis, when administrators of our North Carolina University and colleges enthusiastically support the awarding of pay raises for college teachers on a merit basis? I know some of the problems which make this difficult, including political pressure at the local level, but I believe the public will back school leaders who try to do a conscientious job in this field."

As the Governor well knows, the problem is much more difficult in the public schools of an entire state than in the confines of a university system. But his point is still valid: the need must not forever surrender to the problems and the pitfalls, however great they may be.

This commission will play a key role in North Carolina's new, hard look at its schools, at the job they are doing, at their return upon the people's investment.

It is ably manned. We have great hopes for its work.

Advices Wives Listen

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — "Lady, don't object if your husband wants to talk about his business with you."
"Listen to him and be glad he wants to share his problems with you."

Mrs. Helen Dorsey, president of the world's largest baby pants manufacturing firm, has a hearty personal reason for giving this advice to wives.

"The fact I had listened to my own husband proved the only saving circumstance in my life when he died suddenly," she recalled.

Her husband, Dave, an ex-appliance salesman, founded his own children's wear firm in a garage 13 years ago with only $5,000. The postwar baby boom boomed his business rapidly.

"He was the kind of man who lived his business, and loved to talk about it at home," said Mrs. Dorsey, a former professional pianist.

"I didn't feel abused, although now and then at Sunday breakfast I did feel an inclination to put my fingers in my ears. But business is fascinating. I was interested in what my husband told me, and he came to value my opinion more and more."

In May, 1957, her husband returned from a business trip, died that night of a heart attack in the bedroom of their Los Angeles home.

Mrs. Dorsey, a gray-eyed, slender, handsome woman in her early fifties, had to step into the breach at once and take over control of the firm. She did so with eminent success. The company will turn out 18 million pairs of baby pants this year, do a business above $5,000,000.

What was the biggest difficulty in her emergency transition from sheltered housewife to woman executive?

"In business, before you get one problem solved, they pile two or three more on you," she said, smiling. "In keeping house you are more of a master of your own time. You can finish one problem before turning to another."

But she now firmly believes a woman can run her home well and have an outside career as well.

Opinions In Brief

"The AFL-CIO chiefs have pledged stepped-up political activity in 1960, particularly in Southern States. We predict that not one Southerner who backed the labor reform bill will be unseated because of his vote." — Charleston (SC) Evening Post.

"The National debt has grown from $540 per family in 1930, to $5,500 per family in 1959, an increase of more than 900 per cent. And in this year of great prosperity, we are not requiring that our government live within its income from federal taxes. We are about to go further into debt, meaning we will borrow from future generations and may devalue the dollar in order to get more government hand-outs today." — Poughkeepsie (N.Y.) New Yorker.

"The survival of liberty seems to depend upon the ability of the modified forms of Capitalism of the Western world to survive." — Prof. C. B. Hoover, Duke Univ.

"If the federal government says what shall be taught and studied, it may freeze the advancement of knowledge for an indefinite period." — B. C. Keeney, Pres. Brown Univ.

"The ability to speak in several languages is valuable, but the ability to keep your mouth shut is priceless." — Sen. R. Kerr (Okla.)

"We can't help feeling sorry for the modern young man. In our day, all you had to do was promise a girl indoor plumbing and electric lights; now it's a Ferrari and a swimming pool." — Jacksonville Times-Union.

THE REAL SELF

The famous preacher Dwight Moody used to tell his congregation that when they went to have their pictures taken, they always fixed themselves up to look their best, and were particularly pleased if the pictures turned out to flatter them. But, he would go on to say, if some device could be made to photograph the human heart and everything in it, not one of them could even be hired to have that picture taken.

There is no doubt that most of us are much more willing to be known by what we seem to be than by what we really are. The outside is generally prettier than the inside, and we like to look our best.

Yet it is the real truth about ourselves that we need to know — not the carefully combed, brushed, and dressed-up self, but the real self. For only when we face ourselves as we really are and learn to accept ourselves as we make any progress toward improving ourselves.

"But," you may say, "my real self is such a discouraging picture that my reaction would not be toward progress but toward despair. I won't improve—I'll just give up."

Remember the words of Jesus, "Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick; I came not to call the righteous, but sinners."

Profits Up, Lenders Advertise

By ELMER ROESSNER

When bread was a nickel a loaf, there wasn't much effort to sell it. Bakers didn't urge housewives to try their new cracked coconut loaf. There were no full-page brand advertisements in Life. In fact, there wasn't any Life as we know it.

No that it's from 22 to 35 cents a loaf—and 50 cents a loaf for four Italian bread on Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco—bakers everywhere are selling harder and advertising more.

When interest rates were held down a few years ago, lending institutions pushed credit lightly. For one reason, they didn't have to push hard. If a family could buy a house on a 4 1/2 per cent mortgage, a car on 8 per cent and furniture on 12 per cent, people needed little urging to borrow.

Now that interest rates are higher—often twice the figures above—lenders, like bakers, are pushing their biscuits. Credit cards have swept the country. Banks, getting into the act, have agreed to act as credit departments for small and medium-sized stores.

And banks have inaugurated revolving check credit: Customers establish their reliability and get checks to sign even though they have no money on deposit. They start making monthly repayments as soon as they write these checks—plus interest as going rates. That is, the high going rates.

"The revolving check credit romance is the hottest news item in consumer banking," says the Philadelphia Federal Reserve in its "Business Review." "The plans are sweeping the industry. Only a handful of banks offered revolving credit in 1958; now hundreds do and each week the total mounts."

Will it last? The Philly Fed concludes: "It looks as though revolving credit will earn a permanent place in the consumer credit framework." That's true if interest rates remain high. But if the Federal Reserve System is influenced to reduce interest rates down to where they were in 1940 (2.1 per cent average on short-term loans to business compared with almost 5 per cent now), these revolving credit plans would atrophy quickly.

Banks are charging 12 per cent on these loans, and making money at it because the rate at which they can get money from the Federal Reserve is 3.5 per cent. But if the Federal Reserve rate dropped to 1.5 per cent, which it was in 1950, banks would face competition from other lenders and be forced to cut their revolving credit rates.

That would give them a smaller "mark on" their funds and they would be less eager to spend money promoting revolving credit.

Meanwhile, because of the higher price of money borrowed, other granters of credit, such as department stores, are counting their costs again. Customers from charge accounts Many have been trying to shift to revolving credit plans, by which the charger pays about 12 per cent a year. And, at the last meeting of the Associated Retail Credit Men of New York, many credit men expressed the idea that stores cannot afford to keep on granting 30-day credit to charge customers without leaving some fees.

A store that pays 8 per cent interest on the money it needs to finance consumer credit may be losing one-third of its net profit on sales not paid for 30 days. That's why many will soon be asking customers to pay a charge on 30-day charge accounts.

Sharing the Living Christ

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 3.

The apostles Peter and John went to the temple at the hour of prayer. A man, lame from birth, had been carried there.—Acts 3:1-2.

Seeing Peter and John about to go into the temple, the man asked alms, as he did to all who entered the temple at this hour.—Acts 3:3.

Peter said: "Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk."—Acts 3:6.

Taking the man by his right hand, Peter lifted him up and he ran into the temple, praising God.—Acts 3:7-8.

MEMORY VERSE—Acts 3:6.

WITH CHRIST'S HELP, PETER HEALS A LAME MAN

Scripture—Acts 3.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

"NOW Peter and John went up together into the temple at the hour of prayer, being the ninth hour."—Acts 3:1.

The Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, editor and commentator of Peloubet's Select Notes, writes: "These are the two disciples who had been companions before the Pentecost, and were often together in the apostolic Church. They did not go up to the temple to offer a sacrifice, for all Christians had found Christ Himself to be the perfect and final sacrifice; but they did go at the hour of prayer."

They saw a man lame from birth who was carried daily (by his friends) and laid (at the gate of the temple which is called Beautiful, to ask alms of them that entered into the temple."—Acts 3:2.

Seeing Peter and John about to enter the temple, he asked alms from them. "And Peter, fastening his eyes upon him with John, said, Look on us. And he gave heed unto them, expecting to receive something of them."

"Then Peter said, Silver and gold have I none, but such as I have give I thee: in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk. And he took him by the right hand, and lifted him up; and immediately his feet and ankle bones received strength. And he leaping up stood, and walked, and entered with them into the temple, walking, and leaping, and praising God."—Acts 3:3.

All the people saw the man walking and praising God, and they were filled with wonder and amazement at that which had happened unto him. And as the lame man which was healed held Peter and John, all the people ran together unto them in the porch that is called Solomon's, greatly wondering."—Acts 3:9-11.

"And when Peter saw it, he answered unto the people, Ye men of Israel, why marvel ye at this? or why look ye so earnestly on us, as though by our own power or holiness we had made this man to walk?"

"The God of Abraham, and of Isaac, and of Jacob, the God of our fathers, hath glorified His Son Jesus; whom ye delivered up, and denied Him in the presence of Pilate, when he was determined to let Him go.

"But ye denied the Holy One and the Just, and desired a murderer to be granted unto you; and killed the Prince of life, whom God hath raised from the dead; whereof we are witnesses. And His name through faith in His name hath made this man strong, whom ye see and know; court action. These policies were adopted to give owners of private property as much notice of highway construction and as much time for negotiations as possible.

Finally after right of way availability is determined, final plans are prepared and engineering personnel are ready for assignment to a project for supervision and materials testing, bids can be taken for contract letting. Even after advertisement a period of a month to six weeks is required before a project may be finally awarded.

If, at any step along the way, problems are encountered—and they are not foreign to highway work, additional time is required—time which the average citizen may term just red tape delay if he doesn't understand the complexities of road construction.

Generally, however, citizens are very patient with the Highway Commission when they understand that neither Rome nor a Highway was built in a day. On the other side of the ledger, the Highway Commission in recent months can be proud of its record of contract construction. At the moment, $107,084,512.30 in contract construction is underway and 60.9 per cent completed. A good percentage of the work is on paving contracts which next spring, ready for traffic and ready to begin paying off dividends on the public dollar invested.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.
Temperatures will average 3 to 6 degrees below normal. Mild Saturday, turning colder Sunday and Sunday night with warming trend beginning Wednesday. Occasional rain Saturday, ending Sunday; and showers again Tuesday or Wednesday will average one to two inches.

Faculty members and students of the East Carolina College department of music will offer a benefit performance of music by Beethoven, Bach, and Brahms and turn to the lighter side of music when they present "Skitz-O-Phrenia" Thursday, October 29, at 8 p.m. in the Wright auditorium.

The entertainment will be staged by the department of music for the benefit of the East Carolina Music Foundation, an organization with the aim of providing scholarships and other educational aid to students. Both students and faculty members along with guest artists from Greenville will supply talent for an evening of fun and frolic.

The program will provide a full-length entertainment, all in the spirit of comedy. Opening number will be the "hysterical" opera "Jack and Jill" featuring members of the music faculty.

Other attractions include college-community singers in a "Barbershop Harmony" number; "Ye Old Timers" of the faculty vs. the "New Sounds" of the students in a "Battle of Jazz"; the ECC All-Girl Band; and a group of dancers, —good and bad—in "A Lesson in Hula."

Tickets for "Skitz-O-Phrenia" are on sale at the department of

His Car Wasn't Built For Signal

OCALA, Fla. (AP)—Harry Helveston's little sports car just wasn't built to cope with a mechanical traffic signal.

He says his problem began when the city installed a semiautuated traffic light at the intersection he must drive through as he travels to work at 5:30 a.m. His foreign car isn't heavy enough to trip the treadle which turns the light green.

Faced with a constant red light, he must wait the arrival of a heavier car to turn the light in his favor.

At this hour of the morning, however, there are few cars. Police have shown no inclination to give Helveston special dispensation to make a turn on red.

Pulled In Fish, $6,230 Got Away

BALTIMORE (AP)—When Bill Simmons pulled in a fish worth $25,000 over a year ago, he dreamed of putting it up as a showpiece and the money in his pocket.

He still has Diamond Jim III mounted on the wall of his home, but he's trying to reel in $6,230 that slipped away.

The 31-year-old former longshoreman, who was jobless at the time, has put his lawyer to work to try to get it back from government tax collectors.

The question is: Was the 31-year-old fisherman trying to produce income or was he simply fishing for recreation?

Simmons caught the 10-pound rockfish under the Chesapeake Bay Bridge Aug. 6, 1958. A local brewery had tagged the fish and released it earlier in the year, offering $25,000 to the lucky fisherman who landed it.

When Simmons began spending the money, the Internal Revenue Service seized $6,230 last Oct. 29 to be sure of getting a share before income tax filing time.

Through his attorney, Sheldon Briartman, Simmons argues that he was not looking for Diamond Jim III. He was just out for a good time and did not work for the $25,000. It therefore was windfall and not taxable, he contends.

Internal revenue officials haven't bitten on that one so far. Briartman tossed out another line. He reasoned that if going after a tagged fish is a business enterprise, every sportsman on the bay could say he is looking for Diamond Jim's annual successors.

So, they could deduct the expense of fishing trips in figuring income tax. And that, of course, could cost the government a lot more than $6,230 in revenue.

Flynn's Protege And His Wife At Odds Over Rites

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Errol Flynn's estranged third wife and his 17-year-old protege are both determined to take charge of his funeral services in Hollywood.

Patrice Wymore flew here Thursday from Washington to arrange the final rites for the swash-buckling actor, who died of a heart attack in Vancouver, B.C., Wednesday night.

Asked where Flynn would be buried, the pale, trembling Miss Wymore said she is making arrangements to have the body brought to Hollywood.

But blonde Beverly Aadland, who was with the actor when he died in Vancouver, apparently intends to contest Miss Wymore's rights. She said she and the 50-year-old Flynn planned to marry and live in Jamaica after he obtained his divorce.

Her mother Florence Aadland said Beverly would bring Flynn's body back to Hollywood.

Miss Wymore, estranged from Flynn for two years, declined to comment on the girl's plans, aside from saying: "She seems to be very busy."

She said that in addition to her plans for Hollywood funeral for Flynn she may arrange memorial rites in Jamaica, which Flynn regarded as his home.

Vancouver crowds flocked to the mortuary to get a glimpse of Flynn's body. Police had to lock the building.

An autopsy showed Flynn had died of coronary thrombosis. The coroner said examination showed hardening of the arteries, fatty degeneration of the liver, and an infection of the lower intestine.

"His was the body of a tired, old man—old before his time, and sick," the coroner said.

Fallout Shelter Termed Key To Survival In War

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Former Iowa Gov. Leo Hoegh told the annual conference of the United States Civil Defense Council Thursday that the key to survival in a nuclear war would be the nation's shelter program.

Hoegh, director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, told the city and county officials his agency is launching a major effort to implement the national shelter policy begun last year.

He called on them to help get shelters built by state and local governments, industry and business, property owners and home owners.

Hoegh cited a recent statement of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy saying civil defense preparedness could reduce fatalities of an assumed attack on this country from about 25 per cent to about 3 per cent.

Hoegh said he built a shelter for his own home for about $242.

Weston Speaks To ECC Class

Leonard A. Weston, economic consultant to the Pitt County Development Commission, as guest speaker Thursday, October 15, before students of municipal government and of investments at East Carolina College, discussed "Economic Development Planning" with his audience.

At the joint meeting of classes taught by Dr. Kathleen Stokes and Dr. James H. Stewart, Roger E. Thompson of Hoffman acted as student chairman.

Mr. Weston stressed the problems facing industry as it now moves South and problems of the community in attracting and absorbing industry.

Locating, planning and financing in this competitive field, he said, requires specialists capable of dealing with top management in studies of labor procurement and training, water resources, power resources, transportation, and related cost to farmers.

Emphasizing the relation of this development to community growth, he explained the need for a master plan imagination and flexible enough to adapt to changed conditions. He cited estimates made in various areas of the impact of 100 new factory workers on such items as number of new homes, school population, sales volume, and personal income.

Aircraft Relays Classroom Study

CHICAGO (AP)—Classroom instruction beamed from the sky to a six-state Midwest audience of five million students is educators' new hope to improve the quality of school curricula.

The multimillion-dollar television experiment using a DC7 plane—carrying equipment to beam both live and video tape programs to classrooms—may be a reality by September 1960.

This disclosure came Thursday from the TV sponsors, the Midwest Council of Airborne Television Instruction and the Purdue University Research Foundation at Lafayette, Ind.

The aircraft, circling some 20,000 feet above north central Indiana, would receive programs from ground-based facilities at Purdue and transmit to students in 13,000 schools and colleges in parts of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Officials visualize an area of 300 to 400 miles in radius.

Schools will participate on a voluntary basis, said Dr. John E. Ivey Jr., former executive vice president of New York University. Their only costs will be the receiving equipment. The costs were not disclosed.

The sky TV station will seek to offer instruction normally not available to many schools, such as demonstrations involving costly laboratory equipment, instruction in languages, art, music and science.

A seven-million-dollar tag was placed on the first phase of the experiment set for January 1960. Actual instruction is expected to begin next September.

Eight Are Sentenced In Big Bootleg Still Case

GREENSBORO (AP)—Eight men convicted of operating the largest bootleg liquor still ever seized in this country received prison sentences totaling more than 19 years and fines amounting to $20,000 Thursday.

Federal Judge Edwin M. Stanley imposed the fines and sentences. A jury which heard three days of testimony returned the guilty verdicts after deliberating 12 minutes.

The stiffest fines and sentences went to Frank Strokes Davis, 50, of Myrtle Beach, S.C., described as the leader of the whiskey operation, and Nollie Garnett Cope, 44, as the leader of the whiskey operation of Winston-Salem.

Cope, a co-owner of the bootleg still which was raided last year near Myrtle Beach, and Davis were sentenced to four years in prison and fined $10,000 each.

Grady Lee Estep, 30, of Winston-Salem, caught driving a tractor-trailer with 2,354 gallons of whiskey aboard, was sentenced to three years and fined $1,000.

Other defendants and their sentences: William McDowell, High Point, 15 months; Robert Lee Dowell, 47, Winston-Salem, three years; James Coleman Minter, 47, 18 months and $1,000 fine; Robert Lee Ellis, 30, Atlanta, $2,000 fine.

Agents testified the huge still was capable of manufacturing 1,300 gallons of whiskey per day. Judge Stanley commented that with this production, and with a $10.50 per gallon tax on whisky, a year's operation of the illegal plant would have defrauded the government an amount "approaching the national debt."

Several of the defendants announced they will appeal the convictions.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Mrs. J.D. Bullock of Columbia, S.C., frightened a burglar away when she entered her room at the Henry Grady Hotel.

Instead of carting off the Bullocks' clothing as he intended to do, police reported, the thief left his own coat behind while making a hasty exit through a window. Apparently he removed his coat before trying to squeeze under the screen on the window after climbing a fire escape.

Immigrant Left Near $1 Million

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Abraham (Murphy) Hirschberg, a Polish immigrant and former New York City newsboy, left an estate worth $968,591.

The size of Hirschberg's estate was disclosed Thursday in an appraisal submitted in Superior Court by attorney James O'Gara Jr. He left no will.

Hirschberg died here Jan. 13 at the age of 72. He had arrived in this country in 1901, with one dollar in his pocket.

Hirschberg made his fortune in real estate, horse racing and other ventures.

Cites Emphasis On Developing

COLUMBIA (AP)—Gov. Hollings says the most important aspect of the recently concluded Southern Governors' Conference was the emphasis on the economic and industrial development of the South.

Improvement of the economic picture for the entire region, he said at a news conference here Thursday, will have beneficial effects on South Carolina.

Hollings said he came from the governors' conference firm in the belief that the South is "growing political power."

"Political power has generally and historically followed economic power," Hollings said. "And as the South continues to grow economically it will grow politically."

The governor said he agrees with Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas that the South deserves consideration at the 1960 Democratic national convention. But he disagrees with Faubus' assertion that the South will get that consideration.

The South Carolina chief executive reiterated that the Southern fight for political recognition should be made within the national Democratic party.

But, he said, it is possible that leaders could come up with a presidential slate "so obnoxious" that Southerners will be forced to withhold support.

Hollings declared that taken in integration, viewed by Virginia Gov. Lindsay Almond as the best way to fight total integration, "wouldn't suit the beliefs of the people of South Carolina."

To Nixon, Basic Issue Is Peace

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon says the basic issue in the next 25 years is world peace.

Arriving Thursday night for a 10-day vacation, Nixon told newsmen that world peace in the next 25 years hinges on Soviet willingness to play the rules of international competition.

The visit of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to the United States improved the atmosphere of the cold war, he said.

"But now," he said, "we must watch the deeds to see if they go with the words that have brought about this better atmosphere."

Red Devils Meet Beaufort Tonight

By TOM JACKSON
FARMVILLE — The Farmville Red Devils will play host to a strong Beaufort team Friday night in a decisive conference tilt at 8:00.

The teams will go into the game undefeated, both having a record of three wins and no losses. The only other undefeated team in the conference is La Grange who will play Ayden Friday night.

Farmville Coach Elbert Moyer said, "We hope to win this game, but we know definitely that we will be playing one of the strongest teams in the conference. Last year they had 50 players and lost only about four.

Mexico's Boxing Fans Have A New Hero In Torres

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mexico's rabid fight fans had another hero to worship today in Raymundo Torres.

The 18-year-old fighter from Reynosa, Mex., scored a spectacular knockout in the second round Thursday night over fourth-ranked lightweight Johnny Busso of New York before a hysterical crowd of 10,200 at Olympic Auditorium.

Running his winning streak to 27 and his knockout string to 21, Torres decked the 25-year-old Busso twice in the first round and twice in the second, the last one for keeps after 41 seconds.

A lightning left hook to the head spelled run for Busso. It was the first clean knockout scored against him in 46 fights.

East Carolina Gridders Go West For Big Contest

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Sports Editor
CULLOWHEE — Two teams with a lot in common clash in the far, far mountains of North Carolina Saturday night and the outcome could well give new light to the 1959 North State Conference race.

It will be Western Carolina trying to enjoy some large-scale homecoming festivities against the eastern invaders of East Carolina College.

The two clubs have speed, power, and good defense. Both have ramsacked the early season statistics departments, leading in five of the top six, but either the offense or the defense will have to give when these two teams butt head on.

East Carolina enters the conference tilt in first place and a tight grip on total defense leadership. The Pirates have not done bad on defense either, yielding only 33 points which is second only to Western Carolina.

On the other side of the mountains, Western Carolina has been having a picnic against their foes and rank second to ECC in total offense and lead in the defensive department.

East Carolina will boast the loop's two top runners — Glenn Bass and James Speight — and the Conference's number three passer, Ralph Zehring. The Catawbas will counteract the headlines with their own stars. Bobby Cooper is the total offense leader and is the conference's top passer.

Tom Broadwater leads in pass receiving and is also among the top in rushing averages. The other Cat throat is Jamie Wilkes a line-busting fullback.

On paper, Western Carolina could be tabbed as favorites. Their opponents to date may have been stronger and playing on home soil is always an advantage for Coach Dan Robinson's outfit.

The Cats boast victories over Catawba, Tampa, and Carson-Newman. Their lone loss was a two-pointed to Appalachian and they have a non-conference tie with Catawba on their record.

East Carolina has bombarded Albright, Guilford, Catawba, and Elon with their explosive-type offense following an opening game loss to Presbyterian.

Catawba is the only foe that both teams have met and the Indians were no match for either.

Phants Invading Elizabeth City

Greenville will be trying to snap a two game losing streak and get back on the victory road tonight when they meet Elizabeth City in a Northeastern Conference game on the latter's field.

The Phants got off to a quick start with victories over Ahsoka and Jacksonville but got knocked off the track in succession by Washington and Tarboro — the loop's two pace-setters.

Long a victim of Elizabeth City's pulverizing attack during their championship era, the Phants have matured this season and will rank as favorites over the defending champions who are suffering their worst season in many years.

The host club has taken several bickings within the loop this season and their lack of depth and inexperience is showing. They have not been able to field a strong offensive attack and have rambled through their defense almost at will.

Coach Bud Phillips stated that this would be one of his better teams in pre-season dope and their first two showings indicated future fame. But the flu bug hit the Greenville camp and threw the club into a turmoil, postponing one game and playing two games with from five to twelve front-liners out of action.

The Greenville coach has reaped praise on the boys stepping in to do the job but inexperience against the loop's top two clubs has been too much to overcome.

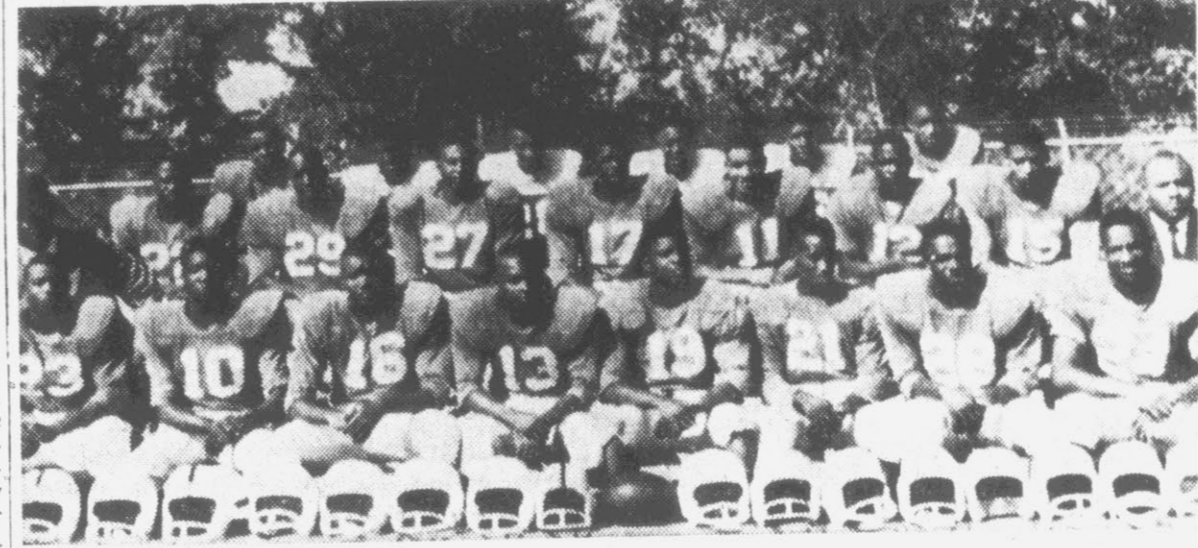

Tonight, several of the regulars are expected to rejoin the team and the team will be stronger than at any other time in the past month.

Erskine Duff will direct the Phantom attack and has made his club a threat through the air in past weeks. Alan MacArthur, Robin Wilford, and Randy Bass will probably form the starting backfield.

Jeff Fountain, Bill Wade, and Louis Dale have continued to pace the forward wall and will lead the attack tonight.

Greenville will be at home next Friday, meeting New Bern in another conference contest.

Ayden Host To La Grange Team

AYDEN—The Ayden Tornados will play a conference game against an undefeated La Grange squad tonight on the Ayden field. The Ayden club now stands with a two win, two losses record while La Grange is one of the three undefeated teams in the Coastal Conference. The game, which climaxes Ayden homecoming activities will start at 8:00.

Ayden Coach Stuart Tripp commented, "I think we are emotionally ready for the game. This is a change, because in the past we have had trouble with a defeatist attitude that seems to hurt our chances."

"We have had the best week of practice this week that we have had since school opened. We have had no injuries and all the boys are in pretty good shape. Dennis Mills is still having a little trouble with his shoulder, but I'm pretty sure he will play."

He added, "I know about La Grange's strength. I know that they are undefeated in the conference, but they haven't played the top teams yet. They haven't played anybody that will give us a good indication of their strength."

"We are optimistic and feel that this should be about one of the most evenly balanced fights we'll have this year. The boys are enthusiastic."

"One thing that does worry us a little is the Kennedy Home Orphanage boys that play for La Grange. Those boys love to play ball and they keep in shape for it. They are pretty tough boys and we don't know what to expect for them but I have seen them play excellent ball in the past."

After the game there will be a homecoming dance in the Ayden Recreation Center.

AL Manager-Of-Year Honor Goes To Lopez

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Lopez, manager of the Chicago White Sox, won the American League Manager-Of-Year honor for 1959.

Lopez, 51, is not accustomed to one-sided victories. In his nine seasons as a big league pilot, he has had more "seconds" than a starved boarding house tenant.

His teams, the White Sox and Indians, were runners-up seven times to Stengel's Yankees. Once, in 1954, his Indians came out on top in a close race with New York.

The past season Lopez utilized the Sox' speed to their best advantage. He recognized the unexpected pitching ability of Bob Shaw, who won 18 games; maneuvered his bullpen specialists, Turk Lown and Gerry Staley, with excellent results and kept the club morale at a high level.

bers of the Baseball Writers' Assn. of America. He collected 150 votes, with Joe Gordon of Cleveland polling 12 and Jimmy Dykes of Detroit the remaining three.

Lopez, 51, is not accustomed to one-sided victories. In his nine seasons as a big league pilot, he has had more "seconds" than a starved boarding house tenant.

His teams, the White Sox and Indians, were runners-up seven times to Stengel's Yankees. Once, in 1954, his Indians came out on top in a close race with New York.

The past season Lopez utilized the Sox' speed to their best advantage. He recognized the unexpected pitching ability of Bob Shaw, who won 18 games; maneuvered his bullpen specialists, Turk Lown and Gerry Staley, with excellent results and kept the club morale at a high level.

SIGHTSEEING in MANHATTAN • A CARTOONIST GOES ALONG

"Stop that bus! My film's inside!"

"So this is Chinatown! Now we can skip that trip to the Orient."

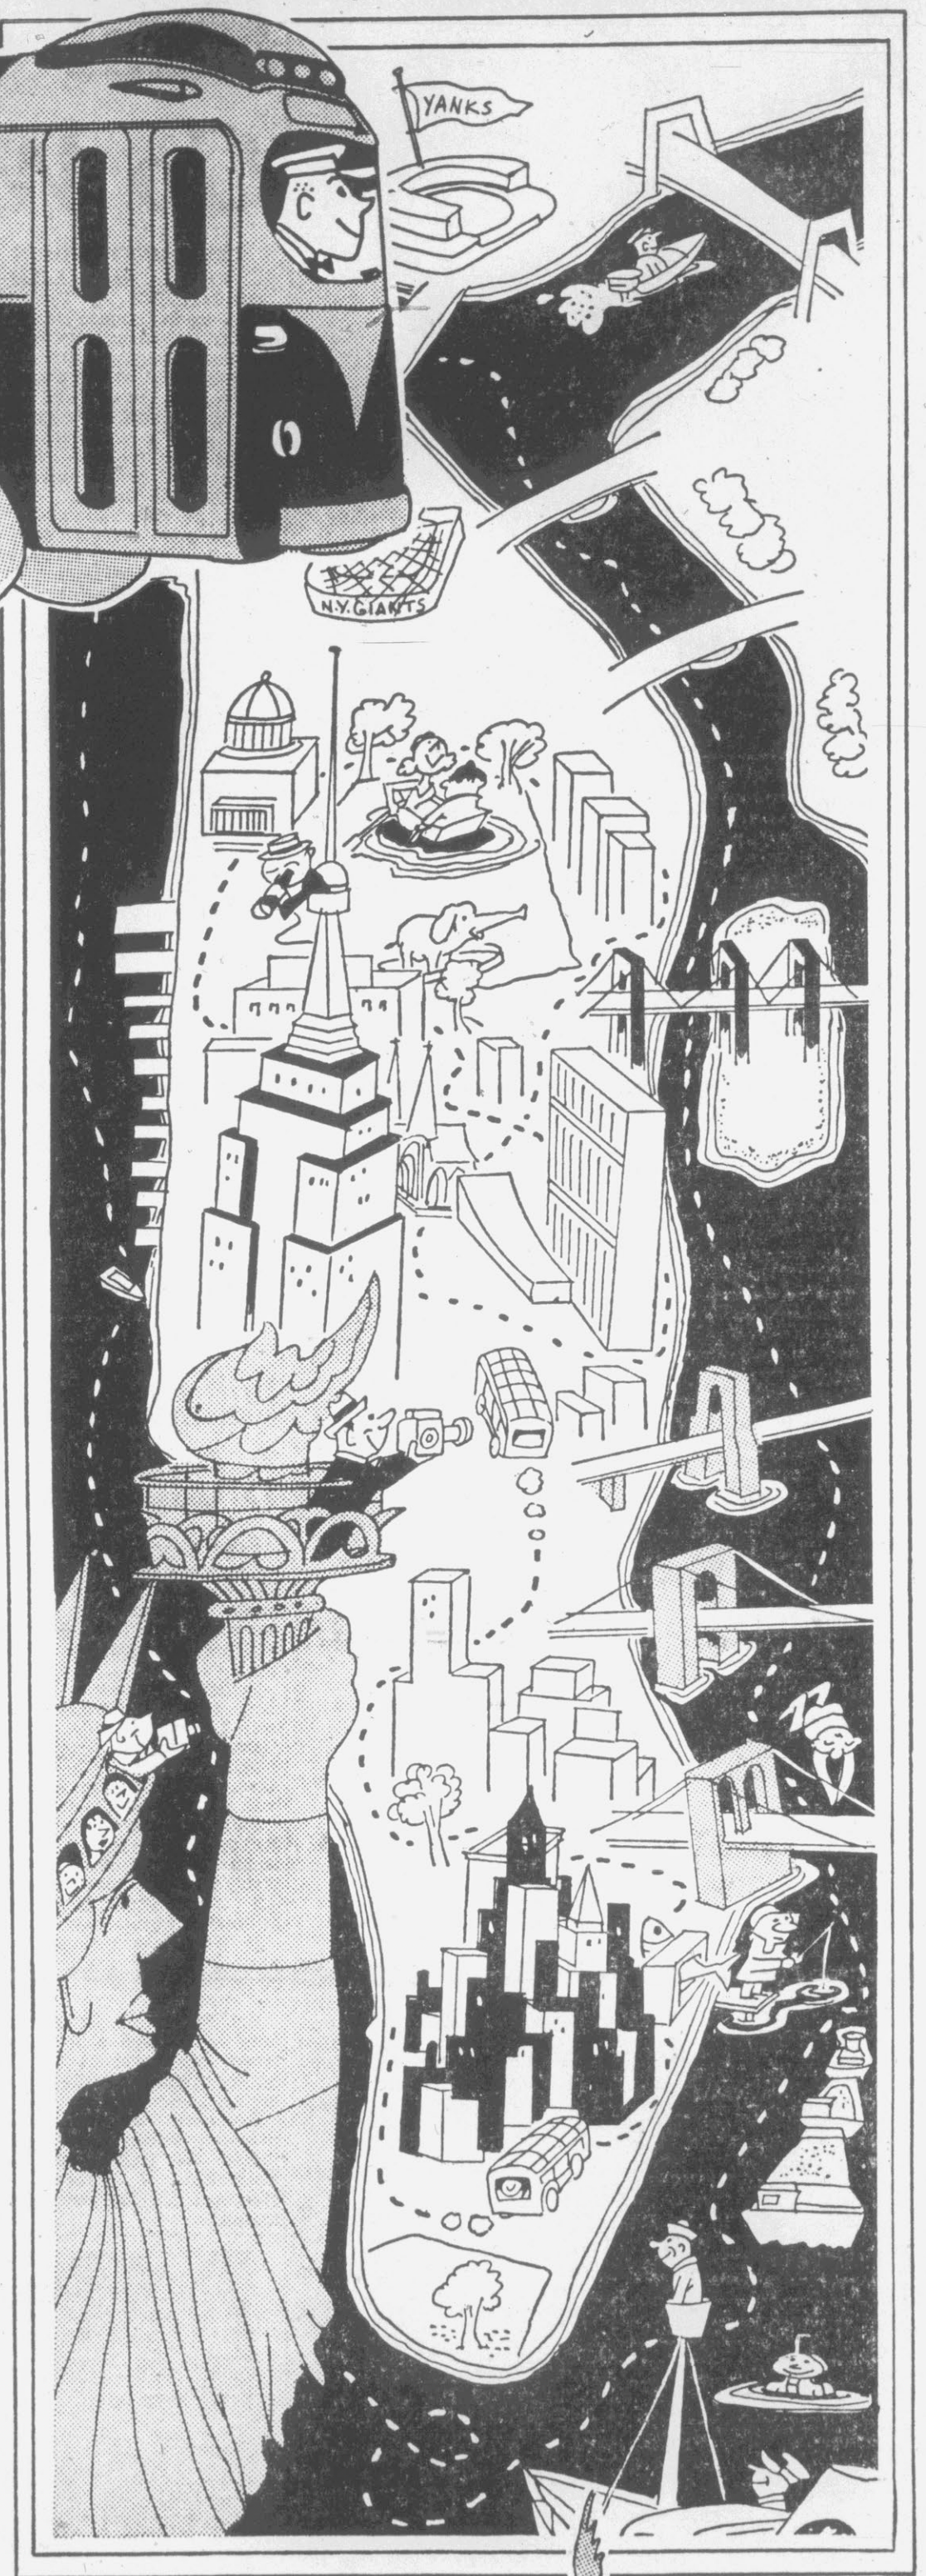

Every year some 14 million people stream into New York to gawk at the Empire State Building, view the Rockettes at Radio City and drop nickles and dimes into the slots at the Automat.

The sightseers are a curious lot. They want to see New York from every angle—from the ground (in glass domed buses), from the air (in helicopters) and from the water (in yachts that circle Manhattan). By the end of the year it is estimated that more than one million persons will have circled the island by boat and more than 2,500,000 will have viewed the sights from buses.

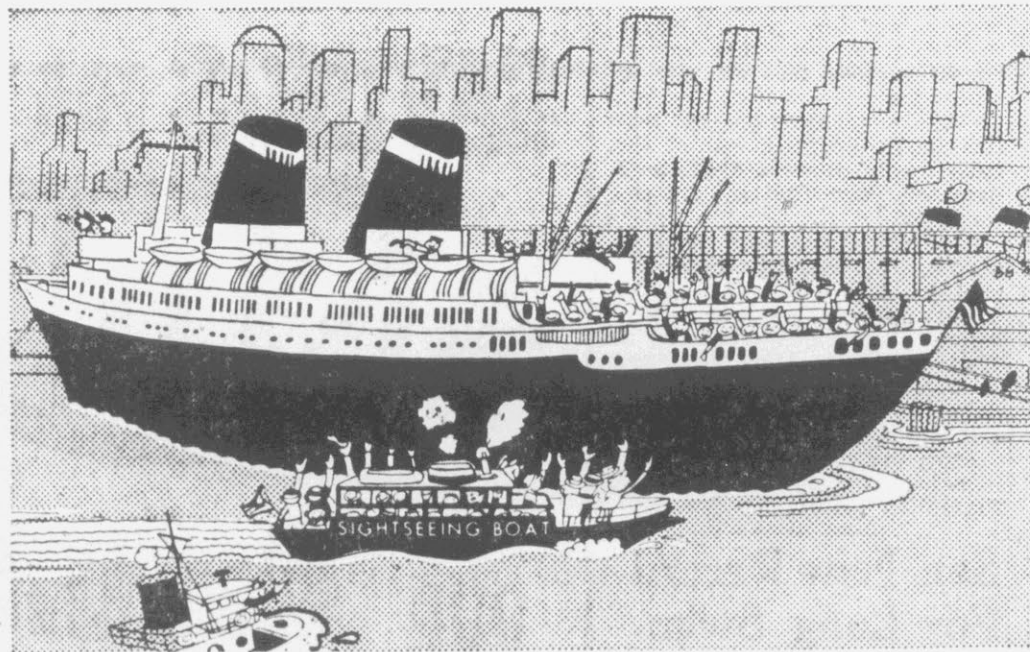

The traditionally famous sights—the United Nations Building, Rockefeller Center, Chinatown and Fifth Avenue—rank high on the visitors' lists of "Things to See."

On some of these trips the visitors will be heard to ask, "How many windows are there in the Empire State Building?" and "Are the Rockettes all the same height?" At least once a day the tour leader will have to smile at the query, "Who is buried in Grant's Tomb?"

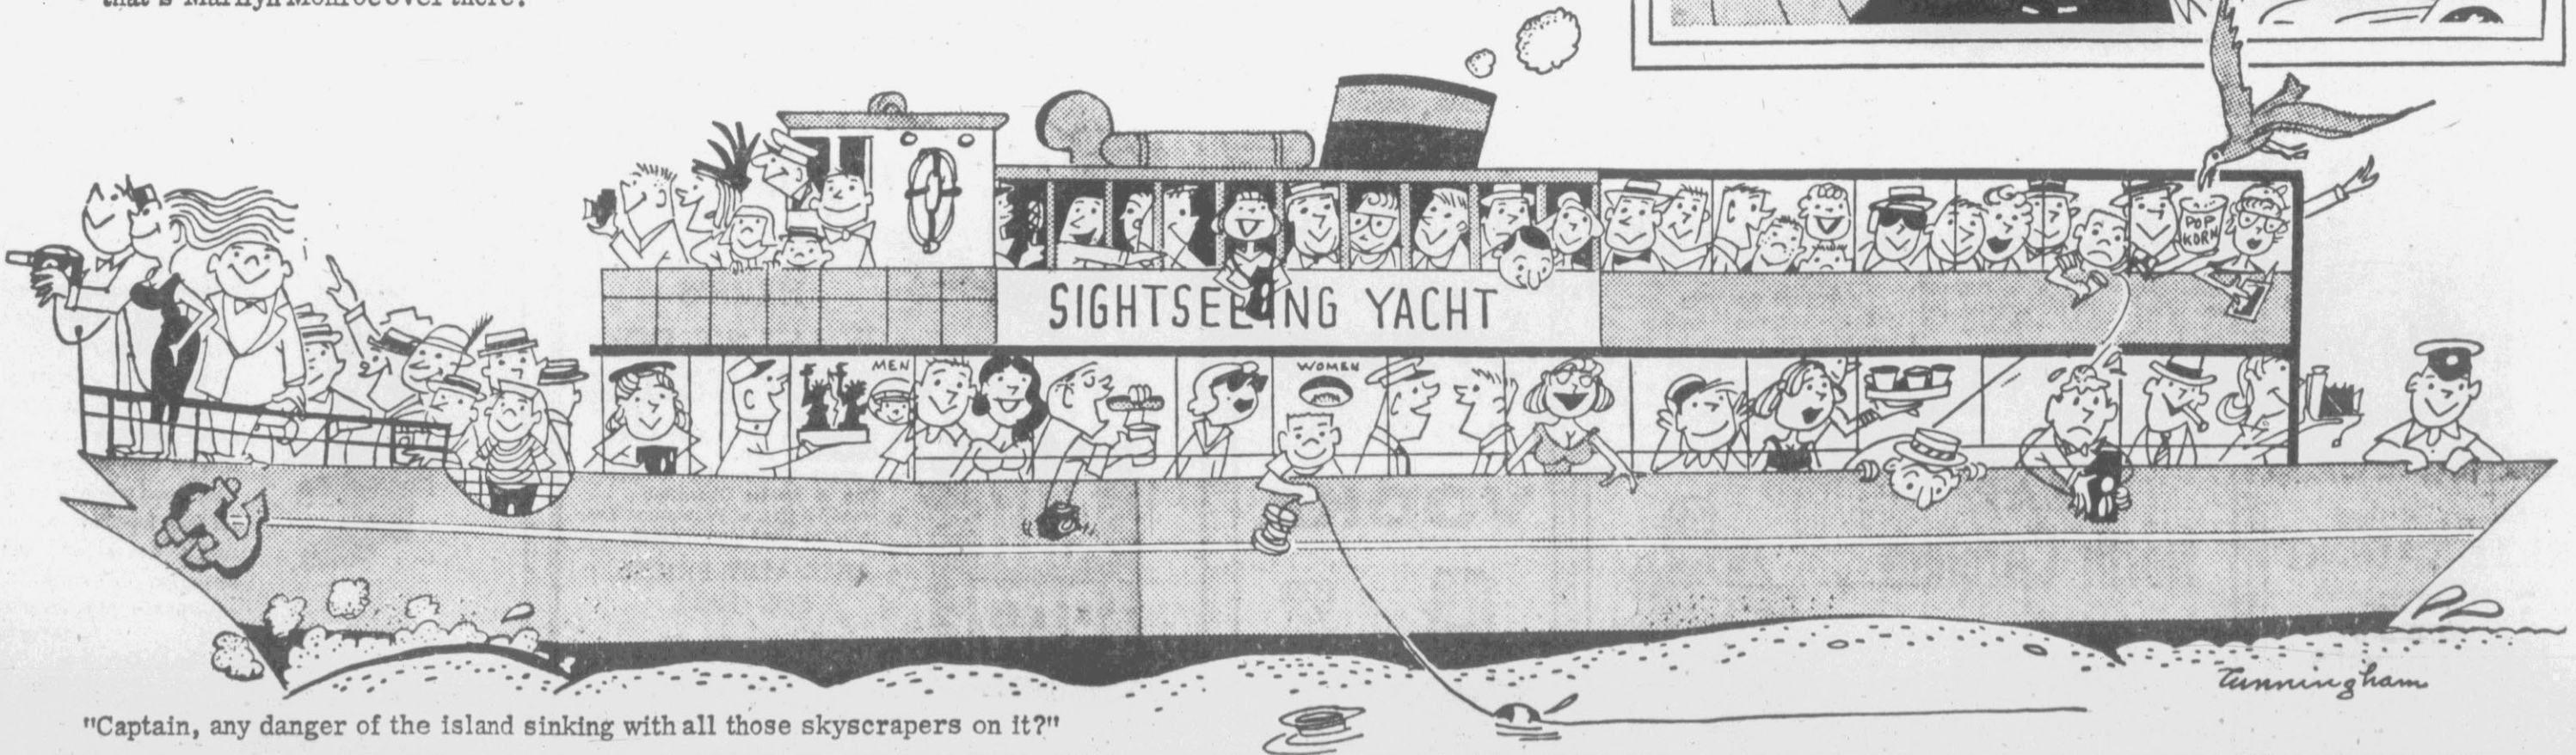

In addition to the camera-laden, sun-glassed out-of-town visitor, an occasional native New Yorker can also be found taking the sightseeing trip. Recently, one of these natives who went along was Joe Cunningham, Associated Press cartoonist. He brought along his pen and sketchpad—and the result were the drawings on this page.

"Captain, so you really believe that's Marilyn Monroe over there!"

"Hey, Dad, they must serve bigger hamburgers on that ship!"

"Captain, any danger of the island sinking with all those skyscrapers on it?"

SHADOW OF GUILT

A NEW THRILLER by PATRICK QUENTIN

CHAPTER 27

"George," Ala pleaded with me, "you do see, don't you? They never knew who was actually holding the gun in Richmond when it went off. It could have been me. Certainly they'd say it was me, wouldn't they? I mean, if they knew I was at Don Saxby's when he was murdered. If they arrest me... I wouldn't have a chance, would I?"

I looked at her, thinking again of the only thing that mattered at the moment—Lieutenant Trant of Police Homicide.

"No," I said. "I guess you wouldn't have a chance."

"Then—then you won't tell them that I was there?"

"No. Not now. We'll have to think of some other way for helping Chuck."

"Oh, George, if you knew how terrified I've been. She threw might have deserved, she certainly saw Don lying there in Richmond again only much, much worse. I thought I'd die. Before I called Mrs. Lord and you came and made it all right, I'd—I'd decided I'd have to kill myself."

"Oh, it's terrible about Chuck. I know it's all my fault he's arrested. I know I ought to tell—and let him go free. But I can't. I just can't. George, please, please, don't think I'm too awful."

I held her very tight in my arms. Her young body, under the white pajamas, was trembling. Poor kid, I thought; whatever she still didn't say anything. I couldn't believe it. It didn't seem possible that you could let them arrest him and just stand by doing nothing. But you did, didn't you? I was the same old thing again—Ala saving her own skin."

She gave the faintest shrug of her shoulders, a shrug which indicated total resignation to a truth which once and for all had to be faced.

"I've done my best for you. You can't say I haven't been protecting you to the point of idiocy. But that's all over now. When Lieutenant Trant comes this morning, you're going to tell him. You understand? If you don't, I will."

Ala was sitting on the bed with her back against the wall, looking at Connie as if she were her dog.

"Well," said Connie, "you might as well admit it now. You did go to Don's, didn't you?"

I knew it would be absurd, worse than absurd to lie to her any more. Surely Ala must realize it too. I stood looking at her, waiting for her to speak for herself, but she didn't. Her face had closed in on itself with the old, bitterly resentful antagonism.

Well, I thought, here it comes.

"You're right, Connie," I said. "She was there."

"George!" cried Ala. "It's no good now, Ala. You've got to see that. She was there, Connie. And so was I. I found her there. Saxby was dead. She hadn't killed him. She'd just let herself in with keys he'd given her and discovered him dead. I got her away."

Connie's mouth was so tight that she seemed to have no lips at all. In the beautiful, sculpted face, it was just a line—a line slashed with a chisel.

"You actually knew she was there? You saw her there in the apartment with the body—and you didn't tell? Not even after Chuck was arrested? Didn't it occur to you that there might have been something you didn't even notice which could have given Trant a clue—something which could have saved Chuck. Didn't you think of that?"

"There was something," I said. "I told Connie about the spilled martini. I couldn't bring myself to look at Ala. I kept my eyes on my wife's face, knowing that whatever it might involve, this at least was owing to her."

When I was through, she said, "And it was only last night you realized the spilled drink could save Chuck?"

"Yes."

"But the moment you'd thought of it, you knew you'd have to tell Trant."

Connie said that without the slightest indication of a query in her tone. It was a statement, letting me know that, from her point of view, no one but a monster could have made any other decision.

I did look at Ala then. She was even more deeply withdrawn behind the white, unrevealing mask. The blindness in her eyes was utterly denying me.

I said, "We can't tell Trant, Connie."

"Can't?"

"Not possibly. You must see that more than Ala. Ala's just let me know about Richmond."

"I'd thought that might soften her, but it didn't."

"All right. So you know about Richmond. What difference does that make?"

"What difference? Once they let Chuck go, they'll arrest Ala. They'll have all the evidence in the world against her. And when, on top of everything else, they find out she was involved with the shooting of another man's wife—"

"Well, she was involved, wasn't she? No one made her go off with that man, any more than Saxby. There's a limit, isn't there? There's got to be a limit somewhere."

Ala lets a cat out of the bag and Connie's claws are trimmed as "Shadow of Guilt" reaches a high climax here tomorrow.

Chessman Ends Plea For 'Vindication Or Death'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—George T. Davis, Chessman's San Francisco attorney, submitted, however, that the psychiatrist who had the girl committed concluded she already was suffering from schizophrenia and probably would have wound up in an institution anyway.

Chessman's attorneys have succeeded in staving off six execution dates.

Davis planned to file a new appeal before the United States Supreme Court today.

Brown opposed capital punishment. He spoke of the scheduled execution of the 38-year-old convict—a week from today as "that Roman holiday."

But the governor gave no hint whether he'll commute the death sentence to life behind bars—without hope of parole—or let Chessman die in the San Quentin gas chamber.

Brown said he would announce his decision before Monday. Noting Chessman's 11½ years in death row, he said, "I'm going to make a ruling one way or another and then I'm through."

Chessman, in a letter last week, demanded "vindication or death." His attorneys, however, pleaded for a commutation.

Chessman was convicted in 1948 as a Los Angeles lovers' lane bandit who forced two girls into acts of sexual depravity. He got the death penalty on two counts of kidnaping for robbery with bodily harm.

Brown made it clear at the outset he's convinced Chessman committed those crimes. Chessman, in his long fight in the courts and in his prison-written books, has insisted he was innocent.

The defense's big point was that Chessman was condemned on a technical charge of kidnaping and that he didn't kill anyone.

But Chessman's prosecutor, Deputy Dist. Atty. J. Miller Leavy of Los Angeles, called the mental hospital commitment of one of Chessman's victims—a 17-year-old girl—a living death.

"This bothers me," Brown interjected.

"Would not 11½ years in death row plus life imprisonment would not that satisfy the ends of justice in this matter rather than have that Roman holiday at San Quentin next Friday?"

"Not in my opinion," Leavy replied.

Brown said state psychiatrists informed him that the experience of the 17-year-old sex victim was "the most severe trauma" that caused her mental breakdown. She is still confined in a state hospital.

His Seeing-Eye Among Poisoned

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Ed Schultz paid a visit to the grave of his collie Rex, one of six dogs poisoned in a North Little Rock neighborhood during the past week.

"I can't imagine anyone's wanting to kill a dog for pleasure," Schultz told a newsman.

He added: "That dog was as important to me as one of my children."

Schultz remained at the grave for a time Thursday, seemingly lost in thought. He could not see where Rex was buried. He is blind, and Rex was his Seeing Eye dog.

Storks maintain their summer residence in the marshes of Denmark, and their winter homes on the banks of the River Nile in Egypt.

Peace-Time Air Losses Heavy

CHICAGO (AP)—An Air Force official says that since 1950 his service has lost 3,471 pilots and 7,062 planes in accidents—a larger air force loss than any country in the world now has except the Soviet Union.

Two-thirds of the accidents shouldn't have occurred, he said, but the over-all accident rate in the Air Force is steadily improving.

Maj. Gen. Joseph D. Caldara, deputy inspector general for safety of the Air Force, gave the figures Wednesday night during a talk on safety to the annual air safety forum of the Air Line Pilots Assn.

The accident rate has been reduced from 44 major accidents per 110,000 hours of flying time in 1947 to 9.3 in 1958.

For Once, All Appear To Be On Same Side In Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — For once, the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France appear to be on the same side in an important international conference.

In fact, the 12-nation meeting on Antarctica, which buckles down to serious treaty drafting, appeared to be as certain of success as any such gathering could be at the outset of its work.

A Soviet spokesman credits this to an improvement in the international atmosphere resulting from the recent talks between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. This is what the Soviet propagandists are coming increasingly to call the "Camp David spirit."

Nations participating in addition to the Big Four are Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Chile, Japan, New Zealand, Norway and South Africa.

Some nations with territorial claims in Antarctica, such as Chile, emphasized the importance which they attach to their right there. But generally the tone of all the statements was one of good will.

Speaking for the United States, Ambassador Paul C. Daniels said there was obviously unanimous agreement in favor of a treaty which would pledge all the participating countries to use Antarctica only for peaceful purposes.

The Soviet spokesman, Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov, pledged that his delegation would make "every effort to contribute to the success of the conference."

Referring to the Camp David talks, he said the conference here is meeting at a time "when the trend towards warmer relations between states is discernible."

He reserved the Soviet right to make its own territorial claim in the future but did not press any specific point in this respect.

UAW Votes Pay Boost To Reuther And Others

ATLANTA CITY, N.J. (AP)—The United Auto Workers convention has given President Walter P. Reuther and other officers pay raises based on a formula which the union considers noninflationary.

The convention voted by a substantial margin Thursday 3 per cent salary increases each year for the next three years. In the auto industry, UAW members get comparable increases each year. They are based on the theory that the industry's productivity increases about 3 per cent each year.

But the delegates by a close vote rejected a proposal to give union officers cost-of-living increases in addition to the 3 per cent annual improvement. Production workers get increases if the cost of living goes up.

Reuther gets $22,000 a year. He was given a $2,000 raise two years ago.

In recommending the 3 per cent increase, Harry Southwell, of Detroit, president of the Constitution Committee, said heads of the Steelworkers and the Teamsters made $59,000 and he committee felt its recommendation was modest.

Some delegates argued that Reuther and other officers should get a bigger increase. But Gordon L. Lambert of St. Catharines, Ont., said he believed present salaries were adequate, and as for presidents of other unions he said, "They're paid too darned much."

Other UAW salaries range from $8,000 for international representatives, or organizers, to $18,000 for the secretary-treasurer.

Before voting to raise salaries, the convention gave Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) a big ovation after he attacked the Eisenhower administration as reactionary and praised the political action program of the UAW.

The 15-minute demonstration for Humphrey, who appeared as a potential candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960, was the most enthusiastic given any speaker at the 81-day convention.

'Elmer Gantry' Film Critics Aiming Early

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Recently a studio head told me: "The main reason the Protestants are up in arms about movie morality is one picture — 'Elmer Gantry.'"

This is denied by Protestant sources, who say their current criticism of sex and violence in films is based on moral reasons alone. But it is apparent that the 32-year-old novel by Sinclair Lewis is destined to stir up another storm of protest.

"Elmer Gantry" was Lewis' attack on sawdust evangelism of the Billy Sunday school.

Now director-writer Richard Brooks and star Burt Lancaster are realizing a long-cherished ambition of putting Elmer on the screen.

"Most of our critics don't even know what we are doing with the production code office," Brooks said.

The code states: "Ministers of religion, or persons posing as such, shall not be portrayed as comic characters or as villains so as to cast disrespect on religion."

Brooks' answer to this is that Gantry is not portrayed as an ordained minister, as he was in the book. "He was a religious scoundrel in the book," Brooks said.

Receiving An Education For His Free Newspaper

CAIRO (AP)— A 15-year-old Egyptian newsboy is going to get an education because he offered an American a free newspaper.

Richard C. Kao of Los Angeles saw Abdel Razeq Hafny at Cairo's International Airport. Kao asked for a newspaper and then searched his pockets for one Egyptian piastre (about three cents). He did not have one.

The American businessman apologized to the young Egyptian and began to return the newspaper.

But Hafny insisted that he keep the paper. "You can pay me the next time you visit Egypt," he told Kao.

Kao got his name and address—then boarded a plane for the United States.

A month later Hafny received a letter from Los Angeles containing a check and Kao's thanks. A short while later another letter from Kao asked Hafny if he would like to come to the United States and study at an American school prior to attending a university.

"There is nothing in the world I would like more," Hafny answered. But the Egyptian could not get into an American school unless he brushed up on his English. Kao boarded a plane and came to Egypt for only 12 hours. He registered the boy at an exclusive English school in Cairo, paid his fees and dressed him in American clothes.

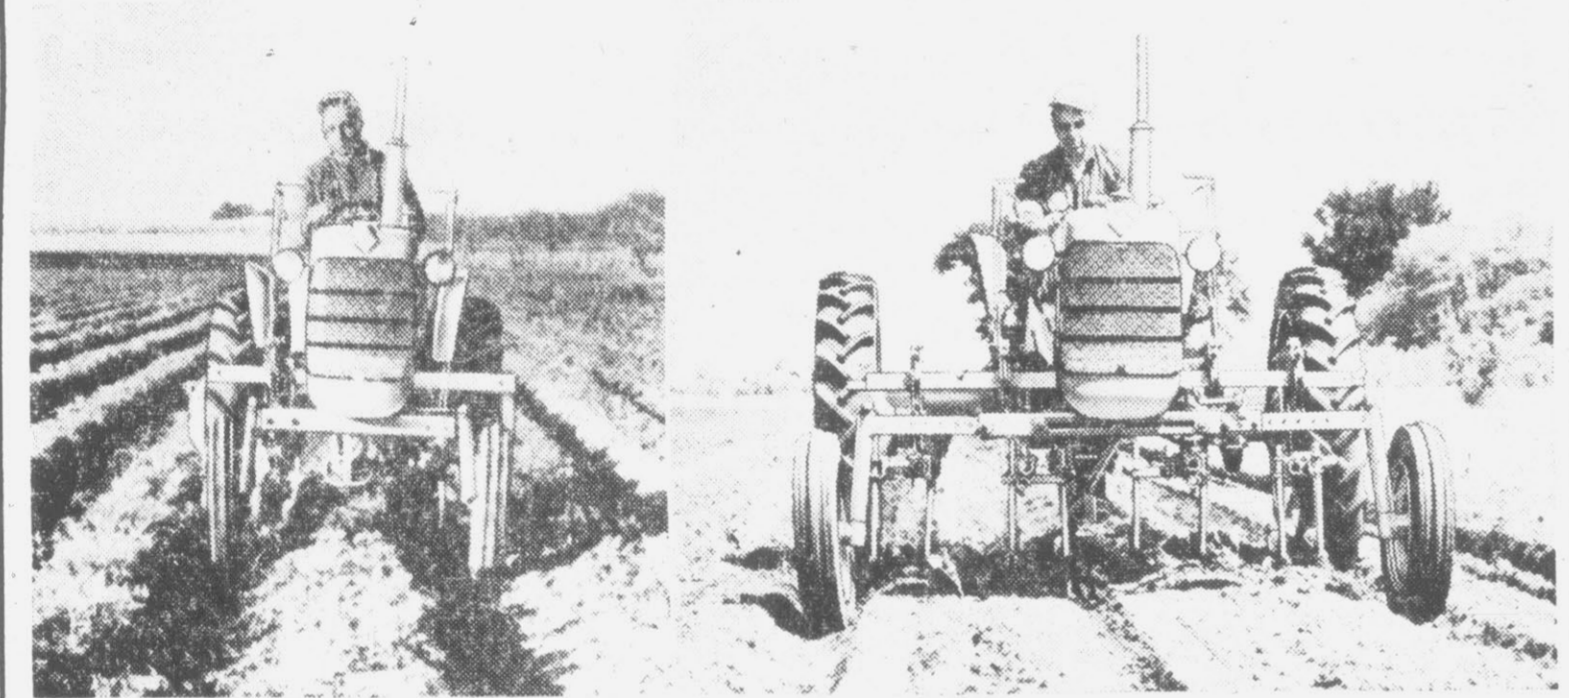

Hafny will leave for the United States at the end of two years, when he completes his English course.

The boy left school at the age of 12 to earn his living when his father died. For the past three years he has been selling newspapers at Cairo's airport and earning 75 cents a day.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Steels, motors and rails paced the best stock market rally in two weeks as progress toward settling the nation's longest steel strike was reported early this afternoon.

Key industrials and rails advanced from fractions to 2 points or more in fairly active trading. The market was higher from the start on word of a new offer by the union to the steel industry. Prices spurted again on a report that the Steelworkers Union was near agreement with Kaiser Steel Corp.

The major steel shares advanced in a body and rails came along almost as unanimously with more moderate gains.

Motors, which have been affected by layoffs due to steel shortages, went ahead on a broad front.

Selected tobaccos, aided by glowing reports on the cigarette industry, resumed their spurt of earlier this week. Oils, grains and mail-order retailers also gained. Most chemicals and rubbers were flat. Nonferrous metals and aircraft were mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up $1.30 to $224.10 with the industrials up $2.10, the rails up $1.20 and the utilities up 20 cents.

Corporate bonds were narrowly higher in fairly active trading.

'Go Forward' Theme In Sanford Address

BETHEL—Terry Sanford called for the state to "go forward" in education and devote more attention to agriculture in a talk to the Bethel Rotary Club Tuesday night.

He said that North Carolina needs to go forward in the cause of education and also to devote more attention to the development of agriculture and better farming so that essentials will not have to be brought in from far away places.

Sanford pointed out that North Carolina is probably the most ideally situated state.

"We are in a favorable position to industrialize," he said. "But we should put the same emphasis on the improvement of our farm economy as we do in industrial economy."

The state has greater opportunities now than when the colonies were settled, Sanford said.

He called attention to the North Carolina toast and said that in the state the weak have grown strong and the strong have grown great as great opportunities and advantages have been used.

Sanford, who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for governor, was introduced by W. Jasper Smith, formerly of Bethel and now of Rocky Mount.

Program Chairman Harold Stanton told the club that Dr. Bill Moody will be in charge of the next program. Rotarian the Rev. Carl Barbee gave the invocation.

A number of guests attended for the special program.

President of the Bethel Rotary Club, Bob Martin presided.
