Rule Two Deaths Accidental

Coroner's Jury Recommends No Action Be Taken Against Young Driver

By HENRY HOWARD

A Coroner's Jury last night ruled that the highway deaths of two pedestrians Oct. 10 were accidental and recommended that no criminal action be taken against Phillip Ray Jones, 19-year-old driver of the car which struck and killed the two Route 5, Greenville men two weeks ago as they walked along NC 30 near Pactolus.

A hearing for Jones was scheduled for this morning in Greenville Recorder's Court on charges of manslaughter and careless and reckless driving.

The charges were brought against the youth by investigating officer W. K. Chapman of the State Highway Patrol. Chapman said last night he expected, the city court to follow the Coroner's Jury ruling.

Chapman and Walter Lawrence Whitehurst testified at the inquest last night. Whitehurst, Pactolus upholsterer and refinisher, told the six-man jury that he was the driver of a truck which Jones was passing when the two men were struck.

One of the men, Lasel Edwards, 44, was killed instantly. The other, 45-year-old Bernie Ray Tripp, was pronounced dead upon arrival at Pitt Memorial Hospital. Edwards was reportedly totally blind in one eye and partially blind in the other.

Whitehurst testified that, as the Jones car passed him, he noticed the car jerked slightly as if "the back wheels had slipped off the pavement."

The driver of the truck said that he saw the two men walking on the left side of the road about 75 feet ahead of the two vehicles.

"The next thing I remember is seeing them flying through the air," he said. "One went straight up and the other came cartwheeling across in front of me."

Jones was quoted by Chapman as stating after the accident, that both men were walking on the pavement and that he (Jones) applied his brakes, turned the steering wheel hard to the left, and could remember nothing afterwards until he climbed from his overturned car, some 70 feet from the spot of impact.

Chapman told the jury that near the center of the left lane he found scattered cigarettes, broken glass, and other debris. He said that spot was apparently the point of impact since the debris was concentrated in that particular area.

Russia Urges Early Meeting At Summit

LONDON (AP)—Moscow urged today that the East-West summit meeting be called quickly—the earlier the better.

A Soviet statement in effect lined up with the United States and Britain, which have been talking of a December meeting. Moscow did not mention French President Charles de Gaulle's holdout for a spring session.

"The earlier a summit meeting is called the better it will be for the cause of peace," said a statement by Tass, the Soviet news agency, broadcast from Moscow.

"The solution of urgent problems with a view to relaxing international tension can and must be achieved by the heads of government."

Moscow's broadcast came while the Big Three Western powers deliberated over a preliminary meeting, perhaps in Paris.

The Tass statement sought to clear up what it called conflicting reports in the foreign press about Soviet views on the date of summit talks.

Diplomatic informants in Bonn reported De Gaulle—in no rush to the summit—has invited President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to the French capital.

The invitations apparently mentioned no specific date. In Paris, a government spokesman said these reports seemed untrue—"They do not appear to conform to reality." But he conceded it is possible a Western summit meeting could be held in Paris before the end of the year.

At President Eisenhower's vacation headquarters at Augusta, Ga., Press Secretary James C. Gaerly said regarding the reported De Gaulle invitation: "I don't know anything about it."

Asked whether that meant Eisenhower had not received such an invitation, Gaerly said: "All it means is that I have nothing on it—that the government of the United States has nothing."

Eisenhower has advocated a Western summit meeting as an essential prelude to any top level East-West conference.

Living Cost Index Again Edges Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs, as measured by the government, climbed three tenths of one per cent last month to another record high.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today that its index rose to 125.2 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

Every major item in the budget of the average city family went up except transportation.

The rising costs mean that almost 14 cents has been whittled from the buying power of the consumer's dollar in the last six months.

But Hershey S. Riley, price chief of the BLS, rejected a reporter's suggestion that "new creeping inflation" may have set in.

Much of the increase last month was normal for the season, Riley said. As a result of the rise, about 1,236,000 workers whose pay checks are geared to fluctuations in the price index will receive pay increases of 1 to 3 cents hourly.

These include 850,000 railroad, Pullman company and railway express employees whose pay is adjusted semi-annually for any rise in consumer prices.

These workers received no increase last March but now will get 3 cents more an hour.

Another 370,000 workers in the electrical equipment and aircraft industries will receive pay boosts averaging a cent an hour.

The companies include General Electric and Sylvania in the electrical equipment field and Douglas, Northrop, McDonnell and Hayes among aircraft firms.

About 16,000 workers in various other industries will receive 2-cent hourly increases.

The cent-a-gallon increase in the federal gasoline tax which took effect Oct. 1 is enough in itself to add one-tenth of one per cent to the whole living cost index.

Also car dealers will stop discounting prices as they receive the 1960 models.

In September, housing costs rose three-tenths of one per cent. Coal, gas and electricity rates advanced, but fuel oil declined slightly in apparent reflection of the generally mild weather.

Home furnishings went up four-tenths of one per cent chiefly because household textiles went back to regular prices after the August white sales.

Higher prices for bedroom suites and some other items were balanced off by lower washing machine and refrigerator prices. The latter appliances were reduced to clear stocks for new models.

ECC President Planning Submit Resignation Today

Dr. John D. Messick, president of East Carolina College for the past 12 years, said in an interview this morning he intends to submit his resignation to the Board of Trustees of the college at a meeting this afternoon.

The board meeting was scheduled to begin at 3 p.m. Dr. Messick said he will accept the position of assistant director of the National Committee on Special Education and Rehabilitation with headquarters in Washington, D. C.

His resignation will be effective January 6, 1960.

"I have poured 12 years of my life into the program of the college and even though I regret very much leaving the college and my friends, the new position of national scope in another area of interest I have had for years will give me much broader contacts and channels of service to be of more benefit to more people," Dr. Messick told The Daily Reflector.

"I have never been happier than during the time I have been here. The college has grown tremendously. The faculty, staff and student body have all cooperated beautifully and the multitude of people whom I have met have become such close friends that leaving them will be very difficult. I shall be coming back periodically and my intention now will be to make my home here after retirement."

Dr. Messick, 62, a native of Aurora, became president of East Carolina College in 1947 after having served as dean of instruction at State Teachers College in Montclair, N. J.

After being informed of Dr. Messick's announcement this morning, J. Herbert Waldrop of Greenville, acting chairman of the Board of Trustees of East Carolina College, later issued the following statement which he said he would present at the board meeting this afternoon:

"Dr. Messick, your resignation comes as a surprise and shock to our board. You have been such a great part of our college and of our community since you came here in September 1947, that neither can give you up without a great loss."

"I was a member of the board which elected you on July 1, 1947. We surveyed the field for a great man and a great educator, and we were convinced then, as we are now that you were the right man for the job."

"We needed a leading educator with vision, ability to build a super-structure on the already great foundation, including expansion of the physical facilities, acquiring an increasingly greater faculty and staff, and an organizer who could keep abreast of the times with personnel, curricula and instructional methods."

"We needed a man who could obtain and maintain the respect and confidence of the campus and the citizens. All this you have done."

"You have given to this college such splendid leadership that its growth has been amazing and its recognition nationwide."

"As a citizen of Greenville I have had the opportunity to observe your interest and efforts in behalf of the Church, the community and the state. You have indeed been a great citizen of whom East Carolina College, Greenville and the State are justly proud. Your place will be difficult to fill. But life is full of changes and we knew eventually that your place would have to be filled. We, the Board, regret, however, that you are not to remain with us longer but cannot blame you for accepting a position that gives such great magnitude of opportunities in assisting in a program that is national in scope."

"We regret your determined decision to leave us for the position of national importance that awaits you, but cannot blame you for doing what you think best. Therefore, we bow to the inevitable in accepting your resignation and ask God's blessings upon you and your family in your new area of interest and assure you of our continued goodwill and prayers."

This afternoon's meeting of the Board of Trustees of East Carolina College will be the first since four new members of the board were appointed by Gov. Hedges two months ago.

Prior to Dr. Messick's announcement today, it was assumed that the meeting would be primarily for the purpose of reorganization which would include the election of a new chairman of the board and other officers.

India Charges New Red Attacks

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India tonight charged Red China with a fierce new attack on an Indian patrol in the Ladakh sector of Kashmir. It said 17 Indians were killed in the fight Wednesday and that others are missing. Three were wounded.

Peiping claims the Ladakh sector among about 40,000 square miles of border territory under the Indian flag. Chinese detachments occupied parts of it months ago and have built a road across it to link Tibet and extreme western China.

A government statement said the attack took place 40 miles inside the Indian border.

The Indian detachment was "surprised by heavy and sudden fire from Chinese troops entrenched on a hilltop," it said.

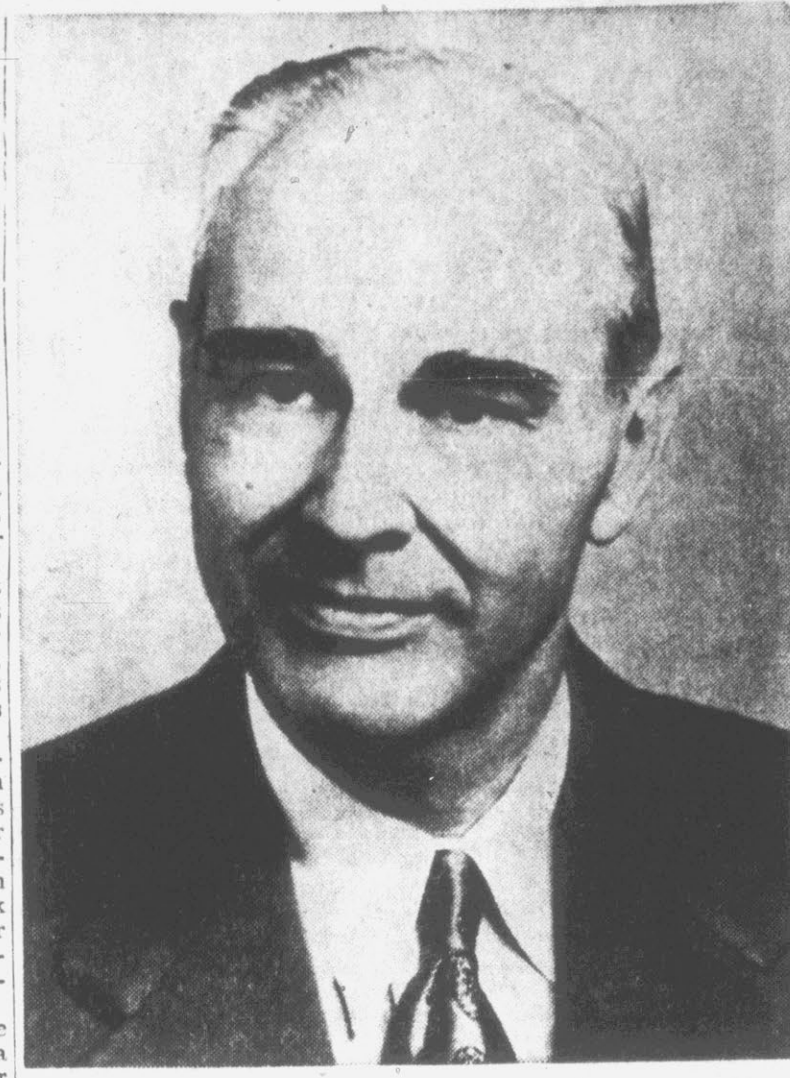

The Indian troops fired back but were reported "overwhelmed by superior strength and the use of grenades and mortars."

The Indian government, calling this a matter of "grave consequence," has protested strongly to Peiping.

"The area is about 40 to 50 miles west of the traditional China-India frontier which has been shown in official Indian maps," the Foreign Ministry said.

"The Chinese government could not be under any misapprehension about the traditional border."

Dr. Messick said he will accept the position of assistant director of the National Committee on Special Education and Rehabilitation with headquarters in Washington, D. C.

During Messick's Stay, College Has Had Great Growth

Dr. John Decatur Messick has seen a period of unparalleled growth during the 12 years that he has been at the helm of East Carolina College.

Under his administration, the college enrollment has tripled, the number of faculty members is three times what it was in 1947, 11 new buildings have been or are being built. Along with this, improvements and additions have been made to 13 existing buildings on the college campus.

Even the name of the college is different today from that of the institution which Dr. Messick initially headed in 1947. At that time the college was known as East Carolina Teachers College. But in 1957 by act of the State Legislature the Teachers was dropped from the name as an expanding curriculum warranted it.

It is doubtful that few, if any, institutions of higher learning of North Carolina can match the growth of East Carolina College percentage-wise during the past 12 years.

Along with the construction of new buildings there have been two purchases of additional land for the college campus made. The purchases added approximately 80 acres.

Campus Addition In Use The first campus addition is in use now with the opening of Jones Hall this year. A second dormitory for men is under construction on this section of the campus, located between Tenth and 14th Sts., and a third is included in next week's state bond issue.

Another campus addition was purchased this year beyond 14th St. Enrollment for the fall quarter of 1947 was 1,405 while for the fall quarter this fall 4,042 registered for classes on the college campus.

The 1947 faculty was 75 while last year there were 230 faculty members at work in the college's various departments.

The annual operational budget has increased from $1,028,960 to $3,666,850.

And if next week's bond issue is approved the college will have spent or had approved $11,809,329 for capital improvements during the 12 years.

Along with the physical and student body growth there has been a steady expansion of the college academically.

Since 1947 the college has added academic majors to its graduate program. A master's degree in counselor training and library science are now offered.

On the undergraduate level two-year curricula in forestry, agriculture, wood technology and pulp and paper technology have been added.

Pre-optometry and pre-pharmacy courses have been added to the professional preparatory courses since 1947. There is also a program leading to certification in special education now offered at the college.

Aurora Native Dr. Messick was born in Aurora in Beaufort County. He received his undergraduate degree at Elon College in 1922, did graduate work at the University of North Carolina and received the Ph.D. degree at New York University in 1934.

He received the Litt.D. from Elon College in 1948 and was named outstanding Alumnus for the same year. In 1957 he became one of the original 50 to be elected to Elon College Hall of Fame.

Dr. Messick was a school principal at Wade and Trenton, N.C. and became a school superintendent at Spencer, N.C. in 1929. He became dean of instruction at Elon College in 1934 serving until 1944. That year he became dean of instruction at State Teachers College in Montclair, N.J. serving until 1947 when he came to East Carolina College as president.

Dr. Messick is a member of Phi Delta Kappa and Kappa Delta Pi honorary fraternities, the National Education Association, North Carolina Education Association.

Jaycee System Is Again Rapped

RALEIGH (AP) — Eighth District Solicitor John Burney Jr. today called on Tar Heel lawyers to push for legislation abolishing the present justice of the peace system.

Burney, who cracked a lucrative JP embezzlement business which fleeced poor whites and Negroes in Columbus County, told the state bar:

"The only way the public is going to be protected from the type of people we have been dealing with is to do away with them and put them on salary."

He also urged the lawyers to look into the possibility of more up to date laws dealing with constables.

"Be fore a JP can fleece someone," the Wilmington lawyer said, "he must have a hatchet man. The constable is the hatchet man for the JP."

He suggested making it a misdemeanor for a constable to serve an unnumbered warrant which later can be thrown away.

Burney suggested legislation whereby justices of the peace be appointed by superior court judges after a careful screening by a local bar committee.

Presently, JPs are paid on a fee basis.

Burney also told the 26th annual meeting of the state bar, "We do have some good, honest JPs in Columbus County. Many of them want to do right and have expressed interest in a school we have set up for them."

Justices of the peace, nearly all ways laymen, are elected by the people.

Burney recently took the lead in bringing indictments against four Columbus County JPs. Three were removed from office. All four received suspended jail sentences after conviction of misconduct.

Burney said he knew of one who embezzled $18,000 in two years and of two others who were making more money "than any lawyer in this room."

"If we know of any JPs who are doing wrong," Burney suggested, "We should talk to the resident judge. We can do a lot of good right there."

Stock Sale Is Adopted As Jaycee Project

Greenville's Junior Chamber of Commerce last night approved the sale of Greenville Industries, Inc. stock as a club project.

The sale was approved unanimously by the club members on a standing vote during a special called meeting.

The Jaycees will have as their share of the drive the sale of $50,000 in stock. Overall goal of the drive is $125,000.

meeting heard Charles Horne, A. Harwell Campbell, J. H. Waldrop and club project chairman George Coffman explain plans for purchasing and utilizing the tract of land.

Committee of 100 president Speight told the group that he had been told by a state official, "One reason you're not getting industry in Eastern North Carolina and they are in the Piedmont is that your land is too high."

He said the land is not to be given to industries but will be sold at a reasonable figure.

to some industry that doesn't mean anything."

Guaranty Bank President Waldrop pointed out that the tract is located on a major highway and a railroad. It is well drained.

"I don't see how we could find anything any better," he declared. Campbell told the group, "We will never have industry here until we can locate them, nail them down, give them a site and give them something concrete."

"It's the most important thing you've ever been called upon to undertake for your community," Coffman reminded that the Jaycees portion of the campaign will be concluded next Thursday.

The money for the stock sale in by Nov. 15 and the option on the property expires Nov. 25. Greenville Industries proposes to sell 5,000 shares of stock at $25 per share to be paid on the $200,000 purchase price for the farm. The remaining money will be borrowed. Greenville Industries officials last night pointed out that more than $40,000 has already been subscribed in stock for the venture.

Salute To Martyrs On Hungary's Anniversary

By GEOFFREY GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP) — On this third anniversary of the tragic Hungarian revolution, the U.S. government says it "shall live in history as the symbol of a people's sacrifice in the cause of independence and freedom."

The State Department declaration said Americans "today remember and honor the Hungarian patriots who died in this struggle and those who, today, must live under a system which has been imposed upon them."

Unusually outspoken, the statement said the Hungarian people rebelled "in a spontaneous and valiant effort to achieve their long standing aspirations for a government which would be free of foreign domination."

"This effort failed in the face of ruthless Soviet military intervention."

In a report also timed to coincide with the third anniversary of the 1956 uprising, the House Un-American Activities committee said Hungarians are losing all hope of throwing off the Soviet yoke of oppression.

deducted Sept. 10, shortly before the Soviet Premier visited the United States.

Kovago said: "I think that Khrushchev is the best disciple of Machiavelli because if his own interest dictates it, he will kill. While he finds it useful, he will smile, will kiss children, will shake hands and show a good face."

Kovago said the Hungarian people are now "in a apathy of despair."

"The new wave of terror which took place in Hungary after the revolution is increasing, and the complete control by the Soviet Union of the country is so striking and so clear to every Hungarian that the people are gradually losing their hope of regaining freedom."

Kiraly added, "It means that Hungary today is a nationwide prison, imprisoned by Khrushchev's army units."

Peaceful coexistence with the Soviet Union, Kiraly said, is a dreadful fraud.

Pumped 18 Bullets Into Two-Year-Old

LAURENS, S.C. (AP)—A young Laurens County woman, who gave birth to her first child three weeks ago, pumped 18 22 caliber bullets into a 2-year-old adopted daughter today because "she was possessed with demons."

Mrs. Margaret Boyter was taken to the State Hospital in Columbia. Officers said the 25-year-old woman was completely out of her mind.

The shooting occurred shortly after midnight at the Boyter home in the Forks Section of the county 12 miles from Laurens. Her husband, Roy Boyter, 28, a mill employe in Greenwood, was sleeping in another bedroom at the time.

Mrs. Boyter, described by officers as almost completely incoherent, was nevertheless able to tell officers that 2-year-old Gwendolyn Boyter awoke for an instant when the shooting began and cried, "Mama, mama."

The investigators said the child died almost instantly.

Mrs. Boyter used a 22 caliber pump rifle which her husband borrowed Thursday because of trouble with prowlers. The weapon was loaded with extra short slugs.

The Boyters adopted Gwendolyn in her infancy. The little girl's second birthday was Oct. 6, about the time Mrs. Boyter gave birth to another daughter.

Boyter said he was awakened after midnight at the Boyter home in the Forks Section of the county 12 miles from Laurens. Her husband, Roy Boyter, 28, a mill employe in Greenwood, was sleeping in another bedroom at the time.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

If you have been living with the same foundation planting around your home for 10 or more years, a change is in order. No doubt you changed furniture, painted the inside of your house or at least tried several re-arrangements during this time. Why not do away with the overgrown and somewhat ragged plants that greet you every day when you return from work?

No doubt they were when planted, standard plants for such an area. Planting 10 or 15 years ago stressed cedars and arbutus at entrances and corners. Fillers between these usually were Ligustrum English Laurel and others of like habit and leaf.

The trend has been away from such plants for sometime. Now tighter plants with smaller foliage—plants that do not leap all over the place—are being used.

Japanese Hollies, Boxwood, and plants of such growth habit and leaf texture are used. Minimum care keeps these plants in bounds. All plants have some use in the entire landscape picture, but habit or growth—height—spread and leaf texture should be watched when choosing plants for use around the house itself.

Good corner plants are cleyra, some of the yews and yaupon. Glossy Abelia can be used in the foundation planting. Both the abelia grandiflora (white flowers) and abelia Edward Groucher (pink flowers with weeping habit) trim nicely, blend well with other foliage, and can be used in areas between entrance and corner plants.

The Baena shrub (Michella fuscata) and Japanese photina (Photina glabra) should be used more often, though you have to keep them within bounds. Osmanthus frangrans has sweet flowers and attractive foliage. The oleander (Nerium oleander) has a wide flower range and works well as a tub plant on the terrace or as a specimen on the grounds. It also has use in the foundation planting.

The old standby gardenia, when planted where winter sun and wind doesn't hit it, is still a favorite near the house. Gardenia radicans (spreading gardenia) is the answer for areas under low windows in the modern home; it is a good filler and face-down plant in almost any foundation planting.

Mahonia bealei, with its clusters of yellow flowers and purple fruit, is a plant of unusual interest.

Camellia Japonica and Camellia Sasanqua have a definite place in foundation plantings.

The climbing fig (Ficus pumila) looks good on either the stone or brick chimney.

Give your house a new look. Don't continue to hack at old worn-out shrubs. They have had their day. You will enjoy the new picture well-chosen, correctly planted shrubs will give you. Try it.

The Rev. John Blair, pastor of the bride, officiated at the impressive double ring ceremony.

Prior to the ceremony a program of wedding music was presented by Miss Margie Roop, organist, and the Rev. Edward Degville, soloist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding dress of frosty white silk organza and lace over taffeta. She designed and made her dress which featured a portrait neckline, long sleeves and a fitted bodice attached to a very full skirt.

Her veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a crown studded with sequins and pearls. The bride's flowers, a bouquet of white mums, was centered with a white orchid and showered with ivy and bridal ribbon.

Mrs. Melvin L. Worthington of Chocowinity, N. C., sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She was attired in a mint green waltz-length silk organza dress and matching accessories. Her flowers were an arrangement of yellow and bronze mums in a shallow basket, tied with yellow ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Jeanette Worthington, sister of the groom of Meredith College, Raleigh, N. C., and Miss Ginny Ench, a college roommate of the bride, of Chicago, Ill. Miss Wor-

Minister Takes Bride

UPPER DARBY, Pa.—In a ceremony characterized by beauty and dignity, Miss Dianne Ford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Ford of Upper Darby, and the Rev. Milton Wilbur Worthington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur L. Worthington of Peaceful Acres, Ayden, N. C., were united in marriage the first of October in the Llanerch Hills Chapel in Upper Darby.

The Rev. John Blair, pastor of the bride, officiated at the impressive double ring ceremony.

Prior to the ceremony a program of wedding music was presented by Miss Margie Roop, organist, and the Rev. Edward Degville, soloist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding dress of frosty white silk organza and lace over taffeta. She designed and made her dress which featured a portrait neckline, long sleeves and a fitted bodice attached to a very full skirt.

Her veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a crown studded with sequins and pearls. The bride's flowers, a bouquet of white mums, was centered with a white orchid and showered with ivy and bridal ribbon.

Mrs. Melvin L. Worthington of Chocowinity, N. C., sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She was attired in a mint green waltz-length silk organza dress and matching accessories. Her flowers were an arrangement of yellow and bronze mums in a shallow basket, tied with yellow ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Jeanette Worthington, sister of the groom of Meredith College, Raleigh, N. C., and Miss Ginny Ench, a college roommate of the bride, of Chicago, Ill. Miss Worthington wore a yellow dress and Miss Ench's dress was beige. Their dresses were identical to that of the matron of honor in material and style. The bridesmaids wore velvet headbands and satin shoes to match their dresses. They carried flower arrangements similar to that carried by the honor attendant.

Miss Debbie Ford, the bride's sister, was flower girl. With her full length pale orange silk organza dress she wore a matching headpiece. From an old fashioned flower basket she dropped rose petals in the bride's path to the altar.

The groom chose his twin brother, the Rev. Melvin L. Worthington of Chocowinity, Route 1, to serve him as his best man. Ushers were James Ford, brother of the bride; and Ken Hibbs of Philadelphia, Pa., a college classmate of the bride and the bridegroom.

The bride's mother was attired in a blue lace dress, a matching hat ornamented with sequins and blue satin shoes. She wore an orchid corsage.

The mother of the groom wore a brown lace dress brown accessories and an orchid corsage.

For traveling the bride chose a two piece dress of blue sheer wool. She wore navy accessories and the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

Mrs. Worthington received her A. B. degree in Religious Education from Columbia Bible College, Columbia, S. C. She was active in the extra curricula activities on the campus and was a soloist with the college Ambassador Choir.

The Rev. Worthington is a graduate of Ayden High School. He attended Asbury College in Wilmore, Ky., and is a graduate of Columbia Bible College, Columbia.

S. C. He was ordained to the Free Will Baptist ministry in 1957. At the present time he is serving as pastor of the Harmony Free Will Baptist Church in Lake Butler, Fla., where the couple is residing.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the Fellowship Hall of the Chapel.

For United Nations Day, Try An International Dinner

SPANISH-STYLE—Tortillas are made with potatoes and onions cooked in olive oil, then topped with beaten eggs.

LEAVE IT TO THE FRENCH—Even so prosaic a dessert as chocolate pudding turns out fancy when prepared the French way. This is mousse au chocolat, a delightfully smooth concoction, served in demi-tasse cups.

If you want to observe United Nations Day Saturday, why not serve an international meal?

Probably every country has its favorite way of preparing good old potatoes.

The Irish mash the spud, couple it with chopped cooked green cabbage, add butter and seasonings and call it Colcannon.

The French put the potato in a soup along with leeks and stock, cream and seasonings. This soup served cold has become an American summertime staple.

Danes like their potatoes small and well-shaped, and they peel and boil them. Next sugar goes into a skillet to be caramelized; after that, butter. Then the potatoes are dumped into the sugar-butter mixture and turned with a spatula until gold and shiny.

The Germans dote on potato pancakes—satisfying affairs for which the vegetable is mixed with eggs, salt and pepper and a suspicion of flour. Fried to a golden brown in hot fat and served with applesauce.

The Spaniards have a simple way with potatoes, onions and eggs plus seasonings and olive oil that they call a tortilla. Outside of Spain this dish is usually called an omelet, but it has no resemblance to the puffy egg mixture served with tomato sauce that Americans call Spanish omelet.

The flavor in this tortilla comes from the slow cooking of the vegetables with a generous amount of olive oil before the egg is added.

TORTILLA

Ingredients: 1 large onion, 2 medium-sized potatoes, 4 tablespoons olive oil, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 4 large eggs (well beaten).

Method: Chop peeled onion and potatoes into 1/4-inch cubes. Heat black iron skillet (9 inches); add olive oil and heat. Add onions and potatoes. Cook over very low heat until tender, chopping with a sharp knife as they cook and turning occasionally. (Do not brown.)

When tender, mix in salt; drain off excess oil. Add about one-third of the beaten eggs to the pan, lifting up as mixture sets to allow moist egg to run under. When this part of the egg is solid, add another third of the beaten egg, lifting in the same way; finally repeat with remaining egg. Keep heat as low as possible, using an asbestos pad under skillet if necessary. When a golden crust has formed, loosen omelet all around edge and underneath with spatula; invert plate over top of pan; turn out upside down on plate. Clean out any bits sticking to pan; rub with a little olive oil, then slide the omelet back in again, moist side down. Cook as before until solid. Makes 3 servings.

Note: If you wish, you may cut mixture into 4 pieces in skillet, after crust has formed; then turn each wedge with a wide spatula to brown top side.

A fish pudding from Malaya makes a big hit with Americans, according to its creator Mrs. Lim, a native of Malaya now living in New York.

She confessed in her brief description of the dish which appeared in the third edition of "Favorite Recipes from the United Nations" that the amount of pepper had to be cut down for most Americans. Malays enjoy the dish many times as hot as the recipes states.

KUIWE IKAN (FISH PUDDING)
Ingredients: 1 pound fillet of sole or flounder or haddock, 1 1/2 cups rich coconut milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon ground turmeric, 3/4 teaspoon garlic powder, 1-4 teaspoon ground cayenne pepper, 1 tablespoon paprika, 2 tablespoons onion powder, 5 eggs, thinly sliced cucumbers (scored).

Method: Cut fish into 1/2-inch strips and place in a buttered 1-quart casserole or baking dish. Combine coconut milk with the next 6 ingredients. Beat eggs only until foamy. Fold eggs into the coconut milk mixture. Pour into casserole over the fish. Place in a pan of hot water. Bake in a preheated oven at 325 degrees, 50 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Serve with thinly sliced cucumbers. Yield: 6 servings.

To Make Coconut Milk: Combine 1 grated fresh coconut with 1 cup cold water. Cook only until just before boiling point is reached, stirring constantly. Do not boil (coconut milk). Strain through 2 thicknesses of cheese cloth, being sure to squeeze out all of the milk.

There should be 1 1-3 cups.

Anyone for chocolate pudding? All you need are a few simple ingredients — chocolate, eggs, cream, sugar and flavoring. Combined by a special technique, the French make this pudding into a fancy dish.

They have special little cups with covers into which the preparation is spooned and chilled; then it is served in the containers. These traditional cups are small because the chocolate concoction is rich; their covers are practical during the refrigeration that blends flavors and improves texture.

Demi-tasse cups may be substituted for the French containers. Demi-tasse spoons are appropriate to use with either the covered containers or the small coffee cups.

The secret of making this dessert is to have the small chips of semi-sweet chocolate melted to just the right temperature for combining with the other ingredients. If one takes care here, they will have the smooth texture characteristic of mousse au chocolat and pot de creme au chocolat.

Traditional as the French are, when it comes to things culinary, their recipes for the two chocolate desserts vary. Sometimes mousse au chocolat includes water instead of cream; sometimes butter is worked in.

Pot de creme au chocolat is often a custard made with egg yolks and milk as a base.

Here is an American version of mousse au chocolat:

MOUSSE AU CHOCOLAT
Ingredients: 4 large eggs (separated), 1 cup (6 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate pieces, 1-4 cup heavy cream, salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons sugar.

Method: Beat egg yolks slightly with whisk or fork. Heat chocolate in the top of a double boiler over hot (not boiling) water until about melted. Remove from hot water and stir rapidly until entirely melted. Add cream, dash of salt and vanilla and stir in vigorously; the mixture may look streaky at first but it will be blended by the end of the stirring. With electric mixer at once beat egg whites until foamy; gradually beat in sugar; continue beating, if necessary to obtain straight stiff peaks. Fold chocolate mixture into egg whites until blended. Spoon into small French pots or demi-tasse cups; put on covers or cover tightly with transparent plastic wrapping. Chill 3 or 4 hours or overnight. Makes 8 servings.

Note: One tablespoon of brandy or dark rum may be substituted for the vanilla.

Mrs. Reynolds, Dr. Utterback Present Program To Book Club

The Arles Book Club met Tuesday night with Mrs. J. O. Reynolds on Rock Spring Drive. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. R. S. Moye, president. After the business was taken care of, Mrs. Reynolds turned the meeting over to Mrs. Reynolds who was in charge of the program.

For her short subject portion of the program, Mrs. Reynolds had a contest. She gave the members 34 names of women who distinguished themselves last year in several different fields. The object of the contest was to see how many of these women the club members knew. Prizes were given for high and second high.

Mrs. Reynolds then introduced Dr. Elizabeth Utterback who gave an account of her trip to Finland in the summer where she attended the world conference of the AAUW.

The Fluns are a very creative and artistic people, Dr. Utterback said. They are well versed in the theater, arts, and literature. Their main sources of income are fishing and woodcraft.

The predominant religion, the one supported by the State, is Lutheran.

Dr. Utterback closed her talk by describing the Finnish people as having integrity and honor and being most gracious and friendly.

The hostess served a dessert course and coffee, assisted by her daughter, Jane, and Mr. Reynolds.

A Great Role In Individual Lives

As a general rule the bigger an organization is the more difficult it is to distinguish the part an individual plays in the life of the organization and conversely, the part the organization plays in the life of the individual.

In an international organization such as the United Nations, the meaning of the UN to the individual citizens of its member nations is often obscured by major international problems, gigantic debates and international politics. Close examination, however, points up sharply the fact that the United Nations has been extremely meaningful in the life of individual citizens of the world in the 13 years since its organization.

Although it has failed to achieve all the things which were expected of it, the United Nations has proved an effective instrument for preserving world peace at times when open conflict between nations loomed had not such an organization been in existence. It has been a medium of better understanding between nations and it has been the instrument through which

We Hope Our Guests Enjoy Their Visit

The Daily Reflector welcomes to Greenville the newspaper men and women from Eastern Carolina who gather here today and tomorrow for the meeting of the Eastern North Carolina Press Association.

It has been several years since the association has met in our city, and we find it a source of satisfaction that they again have chosen Greenville for the site of their annual business session.

We trust the newspaper people, like all other visitors to Greenville, enjoy their stay in our community, find its people friendly and helpful, and will be anxious to visit Greenville again.

We are confident they will find that local citizens demonstrate in their every-day contact with visitors the city's motto, "Our Greenville, Yours If You Come."

Harriman Says It Will Be Nixon

By LYNN NISBET

HARRIMAN — What Averell Harriman said to reporters on his visit to Raleigh this week was more significant than what he said in his prepared speech at the United Nations dinner. The former Governor of New York and ambassador to Moscow, multimillionaire liberal Democrat, thinks the Republicans will have to nominate Richard Nixon for President next year. He said Nixon speaks the Republican language, while Nelson Rockefeller (who defeated Harriman for Governor last time) is an "independent Democrat" whose philosophy is incompatible with the cold-blooded hard-boiled element which controls the Republican party.

He was not nearly so sure about who would, or should, be the Democratic presidential nominee. He has Adlai Stevenson heading his list of five prospects, the others being Senators Lyndon Johnson of Texas, John Kennedy of Massachusetts, Stuart Symington of Missouri and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota. "Any one of them can win," he said. Considering the divergence of views from conservative to ultra-liberal in that group, he was actually predicting that any Democrat who is nominated can win in 1960. Because the Republican record for the past eight years, Harriman doesn't think much of that record, pointing out that the United States has lost face and prestige among the nations continuously since 1952. He thinks the people recognize this and will put a Democratic administration in power to recoup the loss.

He joins Governors Hodges of North Carolina and Collins of Florida in the belief that the presidential nominee should have large voice in picking his running mate for vice president.

COMMITTEE—Harriman was less critical of Chairman Paul Butler of the National Democratic Committee than most Southerners have been, but he confessed he saw no reason for Butler's evident effort to stir up sectional strife in the party. At the same time, he fully endorsed the Butler plan of an appointed "Advisory committee" which has assumed many times to speak for the party in declaring attitudes and positions not always in harmony with the elected national executive committee.

He is a member of the "advisory" group, along with Adlai Stevenson, Harry Truman and others who were not chosen by their states for membership on the authoritative policy-making committee of the party. Inasmuch as Butler named this extra group because he said the leadership in the Congress was not speaking accurately for the party, it was surprising that four of the five potentials for President named by Harriman are members of the U.S. Senate, with not a Governor in the list.

EVERETT — Harriman digressed to pay high tribute to Mrs. B.B. Everett, national committeewoman for North Carolina, and one of the few members of the committee to be named on the extra advisory group.

"She is a very lovely lady and an able person," he said. That in face of the record that on almost every issue Everett has voted with the minority against majority decisions supported by Harriman and Butler, and the dominant clique in the group, Mrs. Everett has said she dislikes being cast in minority role all the time, but she has won the admiration of her colleagues for standing up for her convictions regardless of the odds.

POTPOURRI—Governor John Patterson of Alabama is a nephew of LaFayette Patterson of Raleigh, who operates a travel service bureau here. The Raleigh man went to Asheville during the recent Southern Governors Conference "to see how my youngest brother's boy is getting along." He was not disappointed.

Multimillionaire Averell Harriman, connoisseur and patron of arts, stayed over an extra day on his Raleigh trip to visit the State Art Museum.

Mrs. Fred Morrison of Washington, Charlie Parker and Miriam Rabb of the State advertising division, were caught in a huddle the other day trying to figure out some way to get a more attractive float in the District of Columbia parade for North Carolina Society Day than the prize-winning job entered last year. They've got a real job, but odds are offered they'll come with something better than ever.

significant progress has been achieved by some of the world's most under-developed nations.

Nations, after all, are composed of individual citizens, and that which comes to bear on the life of the nation—good or bad—has its impact upon the individual citizens of the nation. As the United Nations has helped to relieve international tensions, resolve international disputes and maintain international peace, it has directly influenced the lives of individuals throughout the world. As the UN has helped bring cultural and economic progress to nations, it has brought cultural and economic progress to the citizens of those nations.

Without question, the average person feels himself far removed from the organization of the United Nations. Yet, the work of this great international organization in the past 13 years has done as much to influence the every-day life of nations and their citizens as any other man-made institution. Without the UN, the world pattern of international relations would have been different during the past 13 years. And if the pattern of international relations had been different, so would have the domestic life of individual nations and their citizens.

What the United Nations means to the world and to the nations and their citizens, it also means to the individual citizens of the world and the nations.

Need For Simpler Tax Rules Is Demonstrated

For those who have troubles with their income tax forms once every year, there may be some consolation in knowing that even the Internal Revenue agents sometimes have trouble filling out their own income tax forms.

The Tax Court has ruled that a Los Angeles agent for the IRS must pay an additional $220 in taxes because he deducted as an expense using his car for field trips rather than requesting reimbursement for the trips from the agency.

In all probability the agent was doing what he thought was the proper thing in filing his return the way he did. Being an agent for the Internal Revenue Service he had, in all probability, spent a great deal more time studying the rules and regulations governing income tax returns than the average taxpayer would in several lifetimes. Yet, his interpretation of what the regulations said differed from those of the Internal Revenue Service by which he was employed, and by the Tax Court as well.

All of which adds further support to the oft-heard suggestions that income tax forms and the regulations behind the forms be simplified so that the average taxpayer could understand better how to file his income tax return properly.

Familiar Smog Is Coming Back

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anyone bothered by the feeling the international air was getting too clear for comfort can breathe easier now. The smog is coming back. Things are getting to be their old fouled-up selves again.

It was like watching the departure of a busy tugboat, leaving behind a phosphorescent wake, when Premier Nikita Khrushchev barged away from here last September. He left behind a kind of glow.

The dark and sinister waters of the world seemed a little brighter, if only temporarily. There was a feeling, perhaps only a hope, that maybe now things would get smoothed out a bit, and better.

And maybe they will. But just Wednesday there was new evidence that for anyone who loves to see things get fouled up, this is a very wonderful world.

For example: It was generally understood that Khrushchev's meeting with President Eisenhower however would be followed, sooner or later, by a summit meeting between Eisenhower, Khrushchev, and the heads of the British and French governments. The only question left was when.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan favored a summit meeting all along. The sooner the better seemed to be his motto. Eisenhower reportedly had suggested to the Allies that it be held in December.

But Wednesday President Charles de Gaulle of France held out for a meeting not before spring, with a big if attached: If the world climate has improved by spring. That leaves the door wide open for de Gaulle to back out of any time he pleases.

Since word also came from Paris Wednesday that Khrushchev may visit de Gaulle in January, the possibility for snafu increased immeasurably. De Gaulle isn't easy to get along with. And Khrushchev can be difficult. If they don't get along, will De Gaulle want a summit meeting?

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

MAJOR AND MINOR VICES — One of the strictest disciplinarians among 18th-century sea captains was Bartholomew Roberts. He never drank liquor; gambling was forbidden in his ships; women were never allowed aboard; crew members off watch had to go to bed early; and he enforced a rest period on the Sabbath.

But Captain Roberts was a pirate. He captured more than 400 vessels before dying in battle with a British warship, and he was on a very large scale, a robber and murderer. Despite his strict avoidance of drinking, gambling, and so forth, he was a very evil man.

We are often inclined to judge other people—and some-at all. And between now and spring a lot of things can happen to kill the whole idea of a summit meeting.

Then there's the question of disarmament and Red China. While here Khrushchev talked in such a hearty way about the possibility of world disarmament that no one was quite simple enough to buy the package wholesale.

It was good propaganda for the Soviet Union, for there are a million details in disarmament and they have to be agreed on before there is any. No one expected it to happen soon, anyway.

And right in the middle of the disarmament notion was an enormous question: What about Red China? The Chinese Communists are armed. But the United States refuses to recognize them as the legitimate government of China.

Further, this country doesn't even think they're fit to be in the United Nations. Still further, the Red Chinese have vowed to take Formosa away from the Nationalist Chinese of Chiang Kai-shek, an American ally.

They can't do that without guns. And what good would an agreement on disarmament with the Soviet Union do if the Red Chinese stayed armed. But how can we make an agreement with them if we refuse to recognize them as a government?

These were all questions that couldn't be pushed under the rug. And Secretary of State Christian A. Herter even said this country holds the Soviet Union responsible in some degree for the actions of Red China.

If he really sticks to that, then things are really messed up. Late Wednesday the State Department said Red China shows no sign of abandoning its announced intention to use force, if necessary, to take Formosa.

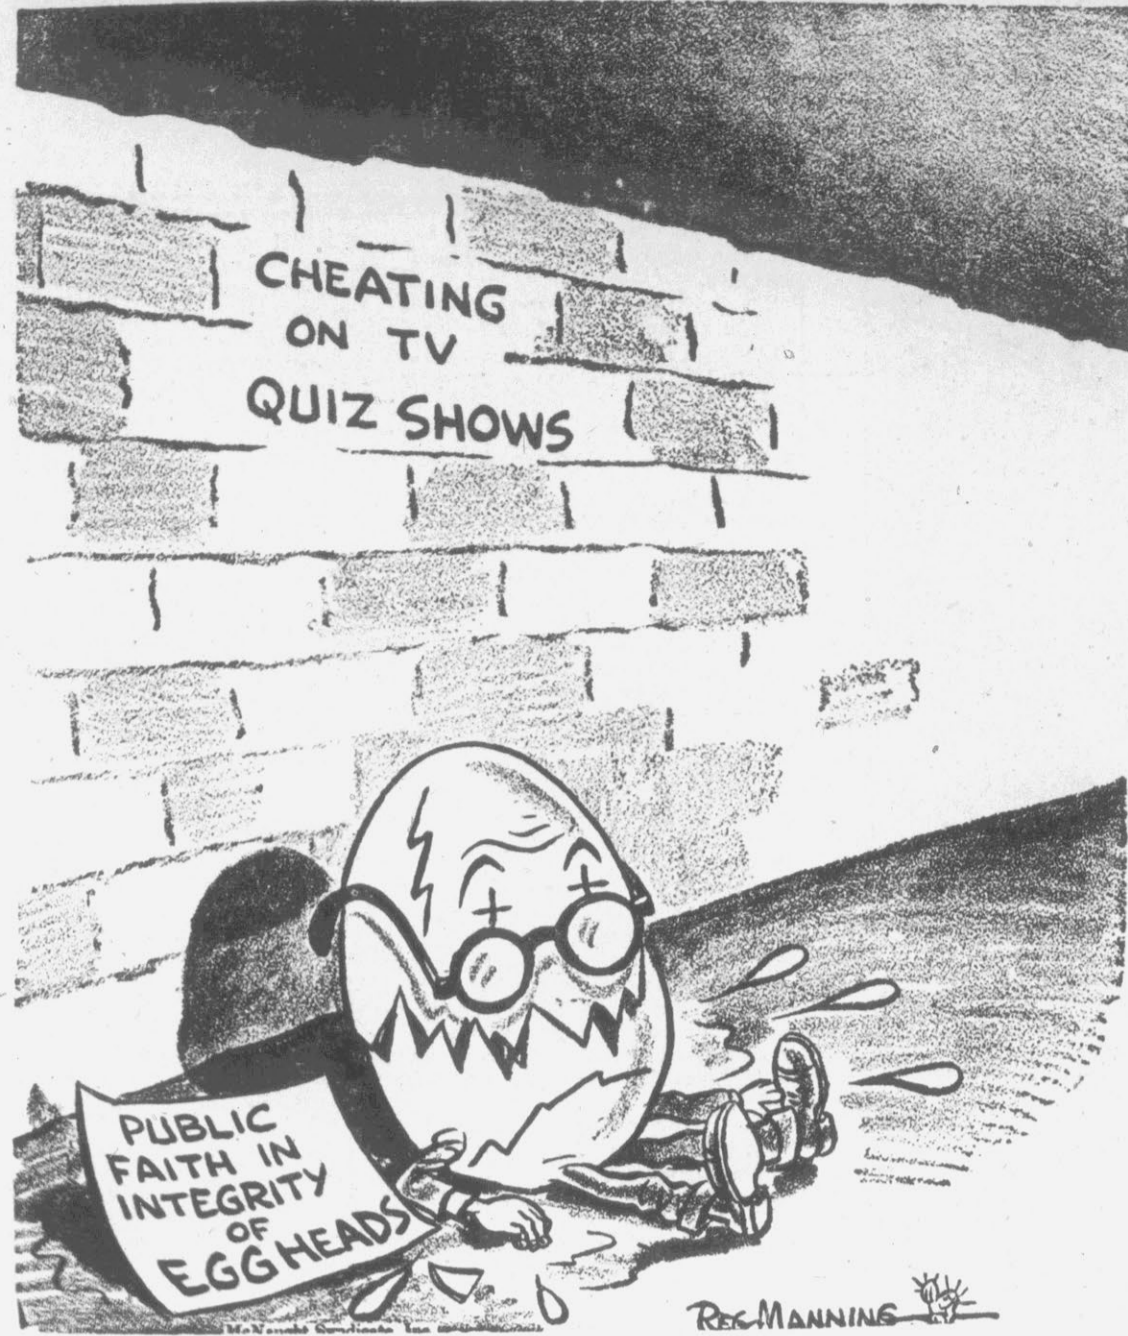

This news was issued after it became known that Khrushchev had sent Eisenhower a letter dealing with Red China. The letter said Moscow supports the Communist Chinese claim to Formosa.

It means even ourselves—by their minor virtues or vices. We observe a few obvious and perhaps unimportant good or bad traits and form a favorable or unfavorable opinion accordingly. We sometimes ignore much more central indications of character.

Had Captain Roberts lived to retire ashore and continue his ascetic habits, he would probably have been accepted by many people as a highly moral man.

A few superficial good traits do not make up for an essentially wicked nature. Other people may be taken in for a while by appearances, but usually not for long. And we do not deceive God at all. True goodness begins at the center with love of God and our fellow man—there is no substitute for these.

The 'Blockbuster' Books

It's a belated appraisal, but embarking these days on a 500-page (or more) novel can be a hectic thing.

Time available for that kind of reading comes in bits and pieces. Most mortals have obligations that call for their attention, and novels need must take a backseat.

Oh they are read, no question about that. Writers keep writing and publishers keep publishing, and paperback editions soon make bestsellers available to all.

My own idea of how to enjoy one of those lengthy literary blockbusters involves a complete lack of distractions for the length of time it takes to read the dedicatory note in front all the way through to the last printed word on the back of the jacket.

That way you can wade in up to your eyeballs, lose yourself in the make-believe world of the author. It doesn't happen to me any more.

The skein of carefully plotted characterization, the sub-plots and over-all tide of events, the occasional touches of coarseness, slick sophistication and the passages mirroring life... they all form a part of the spell of the whole.

To have it broken, not once but a score of times, can be trying.

And aside from those distractions occasioned by duty, there are other distractions by choice. For instance, the reader-of-novels is also apt to peruse two weekly news magazines, a couple of monthly publications and one or two other magazines on the side, a daily newspaper, a trade publication etc.

But a good novel leaves its imprint in the reader; distractions, whatever they may be, are only temporary breaks in the skein. The reader can sometimes shrug off his interruptions within a paragraph or two and be caught up again.

My own wonder at the novel is largely directed at the writer. To instill a logical development of character among the scores of characters who wander in and through the pages, to blend the many facets of activity into a unified whole, to keep constant his goal throughout the prolonged gestation period, to then go back and polish three-familiar phrases... all this would appear to make the writer an even more fantastic creature than the personalities he inserted in his work.

Harder yet to understand, the successful novelist doesn't stop with one. He keeps going.

Quote ...

"We believe the time has come when the State Department of Labor should devote itself to a study of the child labor laws and recommend the repeal or modification of many of them. It has been demonstrated that these laws cannot be enforced nor do they produce the salutary social consequences which were anticipated. In fact, recent studies of juvenile delinquency indicate that these laws may be a contributing cause to youthful wrongdoing. The lad who is idle, invariably is the lad who gets into trouble. Insuring his idleness and spreading the philosophy that honest work is an evil against which our young people must be protected is the surest way of encouraging the delinquency that is shocking the nation today."—Asbury Park (N.J.) Evening Pres.

Fought For His Success

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—"If I succeeded, anyone can succeed," said J. J. Freke-Hayes, whom courage made a millionaire.

"I don't understand healthy people who don't make the grade. You can do whatever you decide to—if you put your mind to it."

The life of Freke-Hayes, founder father of the nation's telephone answering industry, bears vivid testimony to the truth of his creed.

Jay, now 59, is a man who simply doesn't know how to quit. Thirty-nine years ago, as a young clerk in Akron, Ohio, Jay was paralyzed after injury in a dive into shallow water.

First the doctors said he would die, then they told him he would never walk again.

"I didn't believe it," he recalled. "I don't know whether it was faith or ignorance. But I knew I was going to walk." Jay worked at his reluctant muscles until he could move haltingly about.

In 1921 he conceived the idea of a direct telephone answering service for doctors.

"For a year I ran it myself, sleeping at night by the switchboard," he said. "Then I hired a girl to run the service during the day, and I set out to get new business."

Paralysis lingered in his left foot and made every step perilous. Fifteen to 20 times a day Jay would fall to the ground, pick himself up and move on to his next call.

By 1953 Freke-Hayes had 30 telephone answering exchanges, 7,000 subscribers and 500 employees. He sold out and moved to Babson Park, Fla., intending to retire and take life easy.

But he simply couldn't quit. He now has 10 more telephone answering exchanges, and is ready to launch out in a new field—organic farming.

But the mere act of walking remains a problem to him. He still falls down about 10 times a week.

"It keeps me physically exhausted all the time," he admitted, smiling ruefully. "I get so tired I can't trip over a matchstick. I have big bumps on my knees from falling on them so many times through the years."

His wealth enables Jay to indulge in many acts of quiet philanthropy, and his own long suffering has given him a deep feeling of kinship with all who know trouble.

Opinions In Brief

"Indeed, one of the most interesting aspects of the new labor legislation is the nonpartisan spirit in which it was adopted. Toward the end of the long congressional debates on this 'tough' bill, it seemed as though the bill were scarcely controversial; legislators who voice the union line seem to be almost nonexistent these days. Some liberals like Paul Douglas and Hubert Humphrey, who had shouted themselves hoarse against Taft-Hartley, this time stood on the sidelines and finally voted for the bill without a murmur. Even Pat McNamara, who went to Congress after eighteen years as president of a Detroit pipefitters' local ended up among the ninety-five Senators who voted yea."—Fortune.

THE UNITED WAY

solve crop problems together. If we accept historic precedents, the only thing we can do under these circumstances is to declare war on Canada and wipe it out. Powerful nations have never afforded disturbed nations along their borders. But if we are too chicken to declare war (and thank goodness we are!) the only thing we can do is to make economic adjustments to get along with Canada. And if we don't, the Canadians are likely to feel like marching down and knocking the daylight out of us.

OHIO RE-ESTABLISHES RETAIL PRICE FIXING

A new effort to enforce so-called fair trade in Ohio is in effect today. The Ohio courts knocked out a section of the existing law that required all retailers to fix prices for a product if the manufacturer made an agreement with a single retailer. The new law requires similar price fixing if the manufacturer also notifies all merchants of such an agreement.

Canada Resents Flow To South

By ELMER ROESSNER

American relations with Canada are worsening. Canada is still one of our nearest and dearest friends. We read the same comic books and speak the same languages. (C'est vrai, monsieur) And even bad relations with Canada are a thousand times more pleasant than good relations with Russia.

At the moment, we are making desperate efforts to improve relations with the Soviets and with democracies around the world, especially in Latin America at the moment. But America should not forget that Canada is more important to us than, say, Arkansas.

There are more United States citizens in Canada than in Arkansas; there are more Canadians in the rest of the United States than in Arkansas.

HOW RELATIONS HAVE DE-TERIORATED

These are the causes of Canadian resentment of the United States: Canadian industry. There has been a big flow of American capital into Canada since the end of the war. Canada has, in fact, invited it. It wanted capital to develop its aluminum, oil, uranium, and other industries. It wanted investors to finance plants and factories, and made the terms attractive.

American investors poured money in. They weren't being just friendly. They were looking for profits, often tax-sheltered gains. But it ends up with Americans owning sizable chunks. And a Canadian workman, trudging these chill fall days toward his job in a factory or mine, is inclined to ask, "Am I doing this for myself or those Yankees in sunny Florida?"

2. Now that investments have tapered off, the situation is worsened. The flow of capital has diminished, but the outflow of money to pay for borrowings has risen. This year Canada may have the biggest deficit in its balance of payments in its history.

BORDER — CROSSING DIVIDENDS

3. The flow of dividends, although included in the balance of payments deficit, is sharpening the situation. The shipment of dividend cash across the border hurts Canadian pride no less than Canadian bank statistics.

4. Canadians resent Yankee attitudes on the foreign exchange situation. People from south of the Canadian border have had to pay a premium when changing their money into Canadian currency. The sole reason for this has been the flow of American capital into Canada. Canadian dollars cost more simply because of the American demand. In other words, Americans are responsible for the rise in the value of the Canadian dollar yet Americans, as a rule, usually chide Canadians for the trouble. In fact, some Americans have been insulting, trouble-making.

5. American farm surplus policies have offended the Canadians. True, some of these policies have provided windfalls for Canadian grain growers. But on the whole, they have been put into effect, with little consultation with Canadian authorities. There has been almost no effort to

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 4:1-31.

As Peter and John preached to the people, priests and captains of the temple, the Sadducees, came upon them...

Next day they were taken before the high priest and his kindred, and were asked: "By what power, or by what name have ye done this?"

When they saw the boldness of Peter and John, and when they saw that they were but ignorant men who had, in Christ's name, healed a man lame from birth, they marveled.

After conferring together their questioners told them not to speak or teach in the name of Jesus. They answered that they must obey God.

MEMORY VERSE—Acts 4:19,20.

PETER AND JOHN PREACHED THE GOSPEL IN SPITE OF PERSECUTION

Scripture—Acts 4:1-31.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL OUR LESSON today tells of the "first persecution of the Christian church."

As Peter and John "spoke unto the people, the priests, and the captains of the temple, and the Sadducees, came upon them."

whom ye crucified, whom God raised from the dead, even by Him doth this man stand before you whole."—Acts 4:6-9.

"Neither is there salvation in any other; for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved."

them most was that Peter and John were unlearned, ignorant men, but they had performed a miracle of healing and spoke with authority.

"And they laid hands on them, and put them in hold unto the next day; for it was now eventide. Howbeit many of them which heard the word believed; and the number of the men was about 5,000."

"Then Peter, filled with the Holy Ghost, said unto them, Ye rulers of the people, and elders of Israel, if we this day be examined of the good deed done to the impotent man, by what means it is made whole; be it known unto you all, and to all the people of Israel, that by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, who is Lord and King, this man is healed."

unto you and more than unto God, judge ye. For we cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard."—Acts 4:19-20.

After further threats, Peter and John were released and they went to their own company and reported all that had been said and done.

After their prayer, while the apostles were still together, "they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and they spoke the word of God with boldness; and mockers, that with all boldness, they may speak Thy word."—Acts 4:29.

Former Siamese Twins Believed Out Of Danger

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Stubblefield Siamese twins, separated Oct. 6, no longer are in critical condition. "Their conditions are now satisfactory and the outlook is favorable," said a spokesman at the University of Oregon Medical School Hospital Thursday.

A team of 17 surgeons, technicians and nurses separated the two girls, Jeannet and Denett, now 3 1/2 months old. The girls had been joined from breastbone to navel. For a week after the operation Jeannet's condition was precarious but she rallied under constant care. The hospital said the twins were eating regularly and gaining weight. Jeannet weighed 11 pounds, 8 ounces; Denett 10 pounds, 6 ounces Thursday. They had a combined weight of 9 pounds, 10 ounces when born June 29 to Mr. and Mrs. James Stubblefield of Parma, Idaho. Each weighed about 8 1/2 pounds following separation.

May Be Asked Aid Phone Fight

WEAVERVILLE, N.C. (AP)—The State Utilities Commission may be asked to step into a campaign for rural telephone service in Yancey County.

This possibility arose Thursday after the Yancey County Rural Telephone Committee was told that Western Carolina Telephone & Telegraph Co. will not sell its Burnsville exchange, and will serve some 400 rural homes only if each person to be served pays an average of $196 each for aid in construction.

Major N. C. Oil Firms May Face Court Action

DUNN, N.C. (AP)—Major oil companies operating in North Carolina may be brought into court to defend policies which require retailers to sell gasoline at fixed minimum prices.

Bonn Is Given Missile Rights

LONDON (AP)—West Germany was granted permission today to manufacture guided missiles for anti-aircraft defense.

The Western European Union, European anti-Communist defense alignment, announced this decision was reached by the WEU Council after recommendation by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander, Gen. Lauris Norstad. The decision was unanimous, sources said.

The meeting here was attended by London ambassadors of member states: Britain, France, the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg, Germany and Italy.

The amendment announced today will not increase the types of weapons already on German soil. Rocket weapons already included in West German army equipment were manufactured abroad.

One weapon expected to be manufactured in Germany under the new arrangement is the British Hawk rocket, a guided weapon for use against enemy bombers. It does not carry an atomic warhead.

German industry already is producing jet engines and soon plans to build the Lockheed F104 Starfighter, which the Defense Ministry has selected as its basic jet fighter plane.

The Germans remain barred from producing nuclear weapons, chemical and bacteriological weapons, and other arms, including large naval craft.

Panel Program On UN Set For TV Saturday

Other weekend observations planned include the Saturday morning Parade of Flags, the sponsoring of two tables on Evans St. where members of the Woman's Club will sell Christmas cards and notes for the benefit of UNICEF, and on Sunday an informal reception honoring all foreign students at East Carolina College will be held on the campus.

Five Tiny Caskets Will Carry Quints To Separate Graves

TAYLOR, Tex. (AP)—Five doll-size caskets carry the Hannan quintuplets to their separate graves today.

Atop each tiny white coffin, a miniature spray of white flowers has a ribbon giving the name: Deborah Lynn, Janet Lee, Karen Denise, Melissa Jane, Suzanne Kay.

The one-in-42 million births occurred Tuesday at Lackland Air Force Base Hospital in San Antonio to 1st Lt. and Mrs. Charles G. Hannan. Four died Tuesday night and the last died early Wednesday. Doctors said the babies — three months premature — were not sufficiently developed to survive.

The quints were baptized by one of the attending physicians. A rosary service was held Thursday night after the bodies were brought from San Antonio. The caskets, each about two feet long, were in a row on a long platform about 26 inches high. The platform was draped in maroon velvet. Behind the caskets stood a large cross.

A Catholic priest said the rosary and the response was given by friends and relatives. (A Catholic layman explained that in such instances the prayers are offered not for the sins of the deceased but as prayers of consolation.)

Today a preliminary service was scheduled in the funeral home. After a prayer and the blessing of the coffins the bodies will be taken to the nearby pink brick St. Mary's Catholic Church. The white service of the Catholic church—"Mass of the Angels"—will be read. Priests will wear white, flowers will be white and each casket will be covered in white lambskin.

There will be a burial procession from the church to the grass-covered St. Mary's cemetery several blocks away.

Final prayers will be said and each casket covered with flowers. After the family leaves the caskets will be lowered into the earth. Hannan and their two sons, Robert, 5, and Pat, 4, will attend the services. Mrs. Hannan is still in the Lackland hospital. Doctors say her physical condition is good but she is emotionally upset.

Menotti Opera Is In Rehearsal

The East Carolina Opera Theater, student organization sponsored by the college music department, has begun rehearsals on this year's opera production, Gian Carlo Menotti's "The Medium." Production dates are February 15 and 16.

Paul Hickfang, Opera Theater director, has announced that the East Carolina College Orchestra will play for this year's opera under the direction of Donald Hayes of the music department. John Gordon of the art department will design the set. The dramatic directorship has been accepted by Dr. Robert Rickert of the English department.

The cast will include Martha Bradner, Greenville; Jane Murray, Roxboro; Allison Moss, Greenville; Ann Darden, Williamston; James Gillikin, Atlanta; Carolyn Elam, Roxboro; Ronald Knouse, Winston-Salem; Jessamine Hiatt, Clinton; Jeanne Peterson, Greenville; Mary Lee Lawrence, Tarboro; Kenneth Ginn, Greenville; Robert Tilley, Goldsboro; and Ashlyn Maulden, Kannapolis.

Girl Found, Tells Of Abduction

LYNDONVILLE, Vt. (AP)—A 14-year-old Maine girl, missing for six days, was found here today. She told a story of being abducted at knife-point by an ex-convict who held her captive with little food or sleep during that time before releasing her early today.

Sharon Simmons of Damariscotta, Maine, was raped during the time she was held captive. Sharon said Rodney Austin, 44, an ex-convict of Newcastle, Maine, grabbed her at the point of a knife last Saturday night while she was baby sitting in Damariscotta.

She said that for six days she went with little food and little sleep while they traveled through Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

The girl said that they slept in the car many nights and also stayed in an unoccupied home which the Austin family owns in Franklin, Vt.

Police said Sharon was brought by Austin to the home of his brother in Lyndonville about 1:30 a.m. Austin fled before police arrived and a statewide search immediately was initiated for him.

Rodney's wife gave birth to a daughter three days ago in Maine.

Sports Scope

by Johnny Hudson

East Carolina was hoping that another rainy Saturday was not in store for them as they left the campus this morning enroute to Newberry. The muddy turf helped in their downfall last week against Western Carolina.

For North Carolina sport fans this should be an interesting week with the football forecasters around the state having a rough time. In the North State, it's anybody's guess as to who will take the WCC-Lenoir Rhyne game and also the Catawba-Elon tussle. East Carolina is also rated on even ground with their foe, Newberry.

Depending on your alma mater as to the pick in the Carolina-Wake Forest contest and the Duke-N. C. State engagement. At least the Big Four can be almost assured of two victories this week.

Local Group Miss Boat

The Greenville crusaders who ventured up north this past weekend to take in the Carolina-Maryland game and also the pro encounter between Washington and Pittsburgh had little to shout about. Carolina and the Redskins finished on the short end of the games and neither made an impressive showing.

The local tourers did rave over the Maryland offense which varied from the Wing T, Double Wing, "I" Formation, and the "Spread". With their colorful game, the Terps were able to give the Greenville delegation some interesting although disheartening moments.

ECC Receives Check

Lou Collie, ECC Touchdown Club proxy, and treasurer John Farley presented Mr. F. D. Duncan, college vice president and treasurer, with a check yesterday—the first payment in the purchasing of a new scoreboard for College Stadium.

The Club dipped hard in raising the money and still fell short of the needed amount by about $500. Collie expresses confidence that this will be raised in the short future.

The new scoreboard will be installed next week prior to the East Carolina-Appalachian game. The old one is just about over the hill and the new one—modern in all ways—will be a sight for sore eyes. It should add something.

Predictions of the Week

Another cruise on picking the Saturday football winners. First, it's the Pirates back in the victory column by about ten points. Coach Jack Boone is hoping to see his scabbards cut loose again.

Tonight, Greenville should prove to be a couple of touchdowns better than New Bern—by at least 13. Farmville should have little trouble with Vanceboro. The championship contenders have a strong club and will probably push their foes all over the field. Our guess is by 25 points.

Carolina over Wake Forest by 7; No Tar Heel fan but they can't lose forever.

Duke over State by 10; Rugged schedule is telling on Blue Devils but they are due.

Western Carolina over Lenoir Rhyne by 3; Hunch here says Cats might just win this "big one" at Cullowhee.

Appalachian over Carson-Newman by 30; Could be more if Appes desire.

Elon over Catawba by 1; Both seeking first victory of season — on even terms and could go either way.

Semifinals For Seniors Tourney

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP)—The North and South Seniors Golf Tournament entered its semifinal round today with tall Tom Robbins of Pinehurst the favorite.

The 66-year-old Robbins, who won the U. S. Golf Assn. seniors last year and captured this tournament four years ago, was paired against Walter Pease, 56-year-old attorney from Plainfield, N. J.

The other semifinal match pitted Paul Dunkel of Hackensack, N. J., and W. E. Norvell Jr., of Signal Mountain, Tenn. The 18-hole finals will be played Saturday over the No. 2 championship course of the Pinehurst Country Club.

Robbins defeated P. C. Jarboe of Cape Elizabeth, Maine, 3 and 2 in the quarter-finals. Dunkel defeated Vincent Fitzgerald of New York city, 4 and 3; Norvell defeated Col. C. D. McAllister of Orlando, Fla., 3 and 2; and Pease eliminated George Frick of Pittsburgh, 4 and 3.

Phants Favored To Top Visiting Bears

Rose High Jayvees Bounce Back To Edge New Bern Juniors By 14-13

NEW BERN—The Junior Varsity gridders of Rose High bounced back from an early New Bern score for two quick touchdowns last night and then held on for a 14-13 victory over the Junior Bears here.

New Bern drew first blood after five minutes of the first quarter. The point-after-touchdown attempt failed and the Cubs took a 6-0 lead.

New Bern kicked off to the Junior Phantoms and Greenville marshaled for its first touchdown, with Jack Foley scampering the final 40 yards to paydirt. Foley ran the extra point over and the Junior Phantoms took a 7-6 lead and were ahead the rest of the way.

A 30-yard pass play added Greenville's second and final touchdown in the closing minutes of the first period. Kenny Joyner connected with Roger Collins for the six-pointer and Joyner ran the extra point into the end zone to give the Junior Phantoms a commanding 14-6 lead.

In winning its fourth game of the season against a pair of losses, Greenville's defense stiffened and held New Bern's juniors scoreless until the final four minutes.

At that point, the Cubs pushed across for the game's final touchdown and added the extra point to bring them within one point of the Greenville eleven. However, the little Phants held on as time ran out with the score standing 14-13.

Defensive linemen William Allen, Tommy Brown, and Kenneth Cox buttressed the Greenville defense. Fullback Dalton Owens turned in a sparkling performance both offensively and on defense.

Owens, taking over fullback chores for injured Bill Waters, made the shift from quarterback to the deep running back position. He weighs 110 pounds.

Eppes Host To Conference Foes

The Eppes Bulldogs meet Dillard High School of Goldsboro in a conference game at Eppes Stadium tonight.

The two teams have been rivals for more than six years. The Bulldogs have won four of those six games. The last time Dillard defeated Eppes was in 1954, by a 24-0 score.

Eppes, having won four straight games over Dillard, will be a target for tonight's visitors. And the Dillard team is much improved over last year's squad which the Bulldogs defeated 14-0.

Despite this, the locals are favored to win by a comfortable margin. Leading the Bulldogs into the fray will be Luke Williams and the Davis twins. In the backfield, Willie Adams and Woodrow Wilson at halfback, Freddy Watson at quarterback and Marvin Anderson at fullback.

Offers Finance Pro-Grid Team

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Ralph C. Wilson, Detroit trucking and insurance executive says he'll put up the $300,000 to $500,000 to field a professional football team here.

Wilson, who says he has a franchise in the budding American Football League and wants to put it in Buffalo, is in town for informal talks with city officials. "All we have to do so far as I'm concerned is work out a satisfactory stadium lease," Wilson said. "I'm prepared to put up the $300,000 to $500,000 I estimate it would take to open a franchise here."

Ayden Grid Squad Is Weakened On Eve Of Contentnea Contest

AYDEN—The Ayden Tornados will journey to Contentnea tonight for a conference game.

Coach Stuart Tripp reported yesterday that the Ayden squad has lost three of the starting lineup this week. Two of the boys, Rayvon Byrd and Brunson Tripp, were forced to leave the team due to low scholastic standings while a third, Willis Manning, hurt his arm in the Ayden-LaGrange game last Friday night.

Byrd was one of the team captains and a top notch tackle. Tripp played guard and Manning played tackle. Tommy Pittman, second string tackle, dropped off the team also due to grades. This leaves the Tornados lacking depth in the tackle slot.

Coach Tripp said, "This leaves us almost minus in linemen. We have moved some of our JV boys up to fill these positions, but we can't be sure yet how they will turn out."

He added, "We feel like we have a chance to win Friday night. Some of the boys who haven't played much before might surprise me."

"I think we played pretty good last Friday against LaGrange. LaGrange beat us on two long pass plays. All in all, I think we have moved the ball better this year than we did last year. Our only trouble seems to have been our inexperienced quarterbacks."

"The boys are in pretty good spirit for the game, especially the new boys who haven't played much before."

"We can't tell yet what will happen. We might be better, or we might be worse. Our backs are pretty well intact but we have some weak spots at tackle because the new boys are smaller and inexperienced. They are potentially good boys, but they are mighty light."

Maximum Penalty Handed Mississippi University

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Southeastern Conference Commissioner Bernie Moore has fined the University of Mississippi $1,000 for violating athletic recruiting rules.

It was the maximum penalty he can impose. He has no power as commissioner to put members on probation. This is up to the conference, itself.

Moore's action Thursday involved Elbert (Sonny) Holmes, Forest City, Ark., now a sophomore quarterback at the University of Arkansas.

Holmes was forced to quit Mississippi shortly after he signed a grant-in-aid in 1957, because Ole Miss Coach Johnny Vaught has a rule against married players on his squad.

The incident involves a guardianship relationship between Holmes and Dr. Reuben Chestman of Helena, Ark.

Moore said guardianship papers were taken out on Holmes and that the youth signed a grant-in-aid Dec. 7, 1957. Guardianship was granted Dec. 24, and Moore said the boy received Christmas gifts valued at about $100.

The commissioner said Holmes also was given the use of an automobile to attend the 1958 Sugar Bowl game. Other gifts worth from $5 to $10 were given Holmes from time to time, Moore said.

Moore said the guardianship arrangement was new to him and to the conference. He said the word "guardian" as used in some conference forms refers to an arrangement based on some family connections or other ties "and I do not feel that this relationship... meets these requirements."

CONFERENCE STANDINGS

Table with columns: Conf., All Games, W, L, W, L. Rows: Washington, Tarboro, Roanoke Rapids, Greenville, xJacksonville, xKinston, New Bern, Elizabeth City.

Roanoke Rapids took a 12-6 decision from Kinston last week to almost eliminate the Red Devils from the title picture.

As the season heads into the final stages, Washington definitely has the upper hand, having already knocked over their chief challengers, Tarboro and Roanoke Rapids. They have two more conference contests remaining on their slate and both could be troublesome. They meet Kinston first and then wind up the season against a dangerous Jacksonville eleven.

To round out the conference activity for the week, Kinston will be favored to register their first win against Elizabeth City. Jacksonville will be idle this week.

Games last week—Roanoke Rapids 12, Kinston 6 Greenville 13, Elizabeth City 0 Washington 19, Tarboro 6 Clinton 20, Jacksonville 13 Wilson 56, New Bern 0

Greenville will be favored to make it two straight tonight when Coach Bud Phillips' Phants play host to the Bears of New Bern in a conference game.

The Phants started getting back to full strength last week with a 13-0 whitewash of defending conference champion, Elizabeth City. It was the sixth straight loss for the once-powerful Yellow Jackets.

The local band of gridders will be at top strength tonight for their first home appearance since October 2 when they lost to Washington.

The defensive play of Randy Bass continued to stand out for the Greensies. The pint-size halfback grabbed an EC toss last week to start Greenville on their final touchdown drive.

Fullback Robin Wilfong and halfbacks Alan MacArthur and Wayne Sumrell will supply the ground attack and Erskine Duff will make his club a threat through the air.

The battle of the AAA circles will take place in Clinton tonight when the Dark Horses host the Northeastern AAA loop leader and pre-favorite favorite, Washington. Both teams are rated in the top ten among their prep foes and this could well be just a preview of the state championship tilt this season.

With the Pam Pack playing outside the conference, the best that the top challengers can do is hope to advance with another win. Tarboro dropped from the unbeaten ranks last week — losing to Washington—and will be trying to advance with another win. Roanoke Rapids when the two clubs meet on the latter's field.

Tigers Blank Gamecocks 27-0 In Finale

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Death Valley is what Clemson Coach Frank Howard fondly calls his home field, but his Tigers turned the South Carolina stadium into a Death Valley in the windup of their Big Thursday football series.

It was a long, dry unproductive afternoon for South Carolina as Clemson quarterback Harvey White led a 27-0 ambush of the Gamecocks before 47,000 frantic fans in the finale of the State Fair game.

White completed eight out of 10 passes for 162 yards. He hurled two touchdown strikes in plays covering 26 and 30 yards, set up the other Clemson touchdowns with pass plays covering 12 and 46 yards, and passed for a two-point conversion.

It was a sweet return against South Carolina for White, who went out of last year's game with a shoulder injury that hampered him the rest of the season. The Gamecocks upset Clemson in that one, 26-6. Only a week before, White had been named AP Back of the Week.

The victory gave 17th ranked Clemson a 4-1 overall record and a 4-0 record in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Starting next year, the game will be played on a home-and-home basis, the desire of Howard. "This is a good way to end this Big Thursday business. We're looking forward to getting those Gamecocks up in Death Valley," Howard observed.

The game, a feature of the State Fair, has been played on the South Carolina home field annually since 1896.

"I'm tired of standing with the sun in my eyes every year," Howard said, "I want to see what my boys are doing when they're doing as well as they did today."

After a slow first-quarter start, the Tigers scored twice in the second period and added touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters.

South Carolina didn't get past the Clemson 20-yard line until less than two minutes remained in the game, when the Gamecocks took to the air in desperation and pushed to the 13.

"We were never able to get our attack going," Gamecock Coach Warren Giese said, "and when we appeared to be getting somewhere, fumbles killed our chances." South Carolina lost the ball four times on fumbles.

Still ahead of Clemson's hopes for its second straight ACC title are three league foes. Each can be considered dangerous, particularly Duke, despite a 1-4 record, and Wake Forest, 4-1 overall and currently undefeated in its two league games.

But the three games must be played in Death Valley where Clemson hasn't lost since the eighth game of the 1955 season when Maryland dropped the Tigers 25-12.

Two other conference games Saturday will have a strong bearing on how much pressure Clemson will feel during the second half of the conference race. Duke invades North Carolina State and North Carolina invades Wake Forest. Virginia is host to Vanderbilt in a non-league game while Maryland has an open date before meeting South Carolina on Oct. 31.

Duke sharpened its passing game Thursday with quarterback George Harris showing up well. The Blue Devils also got the good word that Don Altman, their alternate field general who was injured in the Army game, will be able to play.

N.C. State Coach Earle Edwards said it is definite that first string quarterback Roman Gabriel will miss the Duke game as will halfback Claude Gibson. Gabriel was injured in the Wake Forest defeat while Gibson was injured in a weekend auto accident. The Wolfpack polished its offensive for the game, expected to attract a capacity 20,000.

At Wake Forest, Coach Paul Amen said he planned no personnel changes and that his squad all is in good shape. The Deacons spent equal time on offense and defense, as did North Carolina where quarterbacks Jack Cummings and Ray Farris split those chores.

Virginia, which has practiced this week on defenses against Vandy's powerful running game, ended its heavy work Thursday in the rain.

Add Farm Hands To Their Ranks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Senators today promoted four 21-year-old farm hands to their roster.

They are right-handed pitchers Fred Bruckbauer and Bill Topp, infielder Jimmy Hall and outfielder Lamar Jacobs. They will work out with the Senators at Orlando, Fla., next spring.

Air Force Starts Road Back Tonight While Auburn Meets Mighty Miami

By JACK CLARY

BACK OF WEEK CAN COOK, TOO—Quarterback Dean Look of Michigan State is handy with the skillet as well as a football. He serves his wife Mickey in their campus home at Lansing. Look was named Back of the Week after setting up one touchdown with a 41-yard run, and passing 52 yards for another Michigan State score in the 19-0 victory over Notre Dame Oct. 17. (AP Wirephoto)

Air Force, its Cinderella status gone, starts the road back Friday night against UCLA while Auburn, solidly back in its winning ways after an opening game loss plays high-flying Miami (Fla.) to blast off another college football week-end.

The Flyboys were stunned by speedy Oregon last week, losing 20-9 for their first loss in 14 games. They won't have an easy mark in UCLA. The Uclans tied Purdue 0-0, lost in the last quarter to Pitt 25-21 and beat California 19-12 last week. Air Force now has a 3-1 mark.

Auburn, ranked seventh in the current Associated Press poll, has won three straight since being upset 3-0 by Tennessee. The Plainsmen have a defense, the Hurricanes, (3-1) and quarterback Fran Curci will have a hard time solving.

Things settle down a bit tomorrow with some key conference games and a few dandy inter-sectional contests on the schedule that for once does not have any major undefeated meeting each other.

The only game between members of the top 10 pits fourth-ranked Mississippi, with a 5-0 mark, and 10th rated Arkansas (4-1) at Memphis. Arkansas, a Southwest Conference member, lost its game to third-ranked Texas last week. Ole Miss, with a fourth-ranked offense and fifth-rated defense, has fullback Charley Flowers all primed but may also be caught looking to its big Southeastern Conference game next week with top-ranked Louisiana State.

LSU (5-0) plays SEC neighbor Florida (3-1) to try and improve its 1-0 conference record and add to its 17 game winning string. Texas as meets Southwest Conference rival Rice, a team that knocked the Longhorns from the unbeaten ranks last year. Texas, which will be without injured fullback Don Allen, is 5-0. Rice has tied two and lost two.

Georgia Tech (No. 9) also tries to right itself after last week's loss to Auburn, playing an SEC game with Tulane.

In the East, Syracuse (No. 6) sends its top-ranked defense team against West Virginia (3-2). The Big Orange hasn't lost in four games.

Eighth-ranked Penn State (5-0) invades Cleveland's Municipal Stadium for a game with Illinois (No. 13).

Second-ranked Northwestern travels to Notre Dame (2-2). Northwestern is undefeated with 4-0 and its Big Ten lead is not in jeopardy this week.

Mammoth Southern California, unbeaten at 4-0 and ranked fifth, faces Stanford's passing whiz Dick Norman and his big end Chris Burford, both leading the nation in passing and receiving, respectively. This is a Far West Five Conference game.

The day's television game (in color) is at Purdue where the Boilermakers meet Iowa at 2:15 p.m. EST over NBC-TV. Another Big Ten highlight is the 50th Little Jug game between Michigan and Minnesota, both 1-3, at Minnesota.

The rest of the major unbeaten are busy. Yale (4-0), the nation's only unscored upon team, plays winless Colgate while Penn, co-leader with the Eli in the Ivy League, and also 4-0, plays Navy (2-3). Both are non-league games.

Some other key conference games find Oklahoma, who hasn't lost in the Big Eight in its last 74 games playing Kansas. Both are 2-0 to lead the loop. Furman and the Citadel, 2-0 in the Southern Conference, meet for that league's lead, while Georgia, co-leader with Ole Miss in the SEC with a 3-0 mark, plays winless (in SEC) Kentucky.

Clemson defeated South Carolina 27-0 Thursday in the annual Big Thursday game in South Carolina to stay atop the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Now Two Stadiums To Fret Walter O'Malley

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Now Walter O'Malley has two stadiums to worry about.

First there's Memorial Coliseum, the shape of which a lot of baseball people don't like.

Then there's the proposed lay-out in Chavez Ravine, the shape of which the city council doesn't like.

Right now, it's not the shape of the Coliseum that concerns O'Malley. It's the rent.

When the Dodgers moved in, their rental agreement provided they would pay a flat fee of $200,000 for both 1958 and 1959. In addition, for nine games only each season, they would pay 10 per cent of gross ticket receipts and would turn over concession profits. But the rest of the season they would keep the concession money.

The deal also provided, however, that if the Dodgers wanted the Coliseum in 1960 they'd have to pay a straight 10 per cent, like everybody else.

Club President O'Malley said Thursday that he would pay that 10 per cent — "if satisfactory arrangements are made in respect to the capital investment and the unusual expenses we have been paying."

The "satisfactory arrangements" were not defined but the "unusual expenses" were those absorbed in constructing the left-field screen and making other conversions.

One member of the Coliseum commissioner's baseball committee said the Dodgers should not be treated like other Coliseum tenants. "These are not ordinary people," he said. "They play 77 games here, not 10."

The Chavez Ravine situation, meanwhile, was unsettled. Dodger representatives showed the city council a tentative map describing how facilities might be laid out around the ballpark. They included a car wash, restaurants, a Dodger hall of fame and a service station. The council didn't like it and voted unanimously to postpone action on an ordinance that would rezone the property for commercial use.

Near Accord On Stadium Lease

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Tentative agreement for a four-year lease on Municipal Stadium has been reached by the Kansas City Athletics and the city council's baseball committee.

Under terms of the contract, the city would receive a flat $1,000 rental on the stadium, 5 per cent of paid admissions, 7 1/2 per cent of all concessions, and an extra $24,000 if attendance tops a million.

American League Considers 10 Team Prospects

NEW YORK (AP)—The American League, having vetoed another franchise shift and ignoring the National League's stand-pat attitude, today turned to the possibility of expanding to 10 teams.

An expansion committee, set up on the spot after representatives of the eight American League clubs heard a franchise plea from Minneapolis Wednesday, held its first meeting here today.

Toronto reportedly will receive top consideration by the three-man committee as an expansion partner for Minneapolis—already staked out with St. Paul by the proposed Continental League.

While no announcement was expected after the initial session of the expansion committee, it is understood that half of the AL club owners already are in favor of expanding. League rules call for three-fourths approval—six clubs—for expansion.

Just this week American League owners barred Calvin Griffith's bid to move his Washington Senators to Minneapolis in an informal poll by the Washington president.

That action, however, did not snub Minneapolis as a possible franchise site. Instead, it could be looked upon as appealing some congressmen who have, in effect, said major league baseball would be found a monopoly if it quit the capital.

SHADOW OF GUILT

A NEW THRILLER by PATRICK QUENTIN

CHAPTER 33
Bombarding me with an unbroken barrage of chatter, Vivien drove me home to change into fresh clothes. We were actually getting out of the car before I saw Lieutenant Trant.

He appeared from nowhere, it seemed, hovering at my side like a chauffeur ready to assist the descent of an elderly employer.

"Hello, Mr. Hadley. Good evening, Mrs. Ryson." He moved his grave smile from one to the other of us. "This is a piece of luck for me, Mr. Hadley. I've just been told by the maid that no one was at home."

"They're over at our house, Lieutenant," said Vivien. "We're giving a party. A celebration — after Chuck's terrible ordeal."

I said, "Did you want anything in particular, Lieutenant?"

"As a matter of fact, Mr. Hadley, I want to speak to you."

I turned to Vivien. "You go on," I said. "I'll come by in a minute."

"All right, darling," Vivien smiled at Trant again. "But don't keep him too long. Please, Lieutenant. We need him."

She wagged her hand at him, kissed me on the cheek and drove off. For a moment Trant stood looking after her, then he turned to me. I preceded him up the steps, opened the front door, and led him into the library.

I should by then have become used to the oppressiveness he always inspired in me, the sensation that ever since I'd first met him he had been biding his time, crouch like the most patient of tigers for a sudden, eventual pounce.

But now, although his smile was as unthreatening as ever and he had in so many words that morning dismissed us completely from the case, I felt tenser than I'd ever felt before with him.

I said, "How about a drink?"

I went over to the bar and was pouring myself a shot of bourbon before he said, "No, thank you. I don't think so. Not now."

"Of course not. You probably need one."

He took out his cigarette case and, selecting a cigarette, inevitably tapped it on the case and lit it.

"Cartier's," he said, "is a very impressive store, Mr. Hadley. I'd tried a couple of other jewelers first, but less than five minutes after I'd shown them that pearl bracelet at Cartier's, they were able to identify it as a bracelet you had them make for your wife seven years ago."

The nightmare's over! Vivien and her celebration! My hand was gripping my glass so tightly that with a hallucinatory sensation I could almost feel it crushing, driving splinters into my palm.

"I can't say I was very surprised," the Lieutenant's continuing voice sounded very slightly muffled as if it were coming to me through a thin barrier of paper.

"There'd already been several hints. The woman who heard the shots had seen Saxby on several occasions come into the building with a woman. She didn't know who the woman was, of course, but the general description could very well have fitted Mrs. Hadley. And then—well, the Duveroux story established a sort of pattern, didn't it? Begin as a protegee of the wife—switch to the daughter."

"Of course, Chuck confused the issue for a while, but he never sidetracked me too much. I mean from the moment the motel owners checked in and Mrs. Fostwick called from Toronto, I had a fairly good idea who killed Don Saxby. And now, since I've found out about the bracelet, I would say I have a very good idea."

He paused, but his eyes never left my face. I was looking back at him stupidly, I imagine, or how ever a rabbit is supposed to look back at a snake.

"Usually, Mr. Hadley, once you've found the best motive you've found the murderer. A man who discovers that both his wife and his daughter have been—what shall we say—betrayed?—by the same man, has a very good motive for murder, doesn't he?"

Somehow, I suppose, in the even flow of his words, I had gathered what he was leading up to. I had realized that after the long crouch the pounce had come. But that it should have come in just this way was so staggeringly unexpected that I felt nothing at first but astonishment merged with something that was almost amusement.

"You're accusing me?" I said.

"Accusing you, Mr. Hadley? No, I'm not accusing you. I'm only asking you what you would say if I did accuse you."

"I'd say it was ridiculous."

"Ridiculous that you would have wanted to kill a man who'd done what Saxby did to your wife and daughter?"

"No, not exactly, but—"

"But what?"

"They can't do anything to you if you're innocent. How many times had I been uttering that trite reassurance in the last few days?"

"Well, Mr. Hadley? You admit you had the motive. What about the opportunity? Wouldn't you say in your own defense that you couldn't have killed him because you had an alibi?"

I'd been waiting for that, waiting with the image of Miss Taylor hovering ominously in my mind. I knew as clearly as I knew anything that a lifetime thrown by Lieutenant Trant would be suspect but I grabbed it.

"Yes," I said. "I imagine I'd remind you that I had an alibi."

Trant turned away from me with maddening leishureness.

"We called Miss Taylor, Mr. Hadley. This morning when I borrowed your phone I told headquarters to get in touch with her. They got the South Carolina number. We talked to her the moment she arrived. She confirmed Mrs. Hadley's and Miss Hadley's alibi, of course. But when it came to you, her story was a little different from yours or your wife's. She said that, to the best of her knowledge, when she left at four-thirty, you still hadn't come home."

So much for Connie's arrangements. I might have known that in any contest of wits between Connie and Trant, Trant would certainly win. He had paused again, giving time for this body blow to make its effect.

Then he went on, "I'm sure that you've been planning to get in touch with her and ask her to drop the matter. For all I know, you've already done so. But I'm afraid I got ahead of you. And I spoke to her from the office. I have the conversation on tape. As the D. A. sees it and as I see it, Mr. Hadley, the only people, apart from yourself, who at the moment have any known immediate motive for murdering Don Saxby, were Mrs. Hadley or Miss Hadley. Miss Taylor has been able to give them both a definite alibi. But you..." He made a little gesture with his hand.

"Motive, Mr. Hadley, opportunity... and an alibi which didn't happen to hold up very well, did it? That's what I want you to think about. I know it's unorthodox for a cop to show his hand, but I've never cared much for being orthodox. And in a case like this where the murdered man, morally if not legally, deserved what was coming to him... I feel, well, shall we say that I feel holding out on you any longer wouldn't be cricket?"

Once again, at the least imaginable moment, he was stretching out his hand, smiling his exasperating smile of tolerance for all human frailty.

"Don't bother to see me out. I know the way. But there's one last thing I'd like to say. Even in cricket, I believe, the object of the game is to win. I have no actual proof yet. I'll even be frank enough to tell you that. But now is only now. Good evening, Mr. Hadley."

Lieutenant Trant isn't finished with George Hadley yet. He confronts him next in the Lord's apartment; Continue the story tomorrow.

Navy Trimming Civilian Payrolls

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 1,300 civilians soon will be dropped from the payroll at eight Naval air stations.

The Navy, announcing the cut-back Wednesday, gave two reasons:

1. Rising costs.
2. A Congressional order reducing civilian employment by 1 percent this year.

The stations involved and their payroll cuts include:

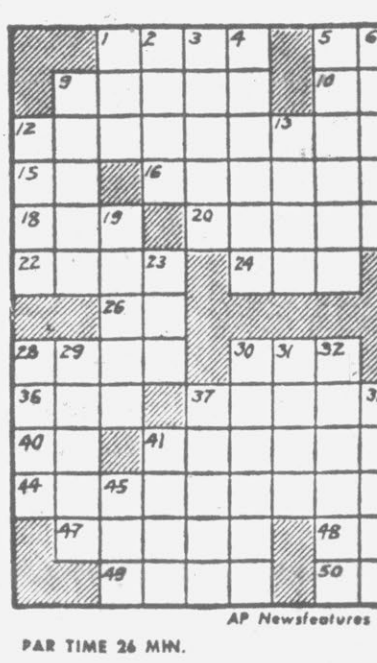

- Cherry Point, N.C., 102; Norfolk, Va., 202.

Shortest day of the year is in Fort Greely, Alaska, where the sun appears for only two hours out of 24 hours. This happens only during January and February. By the 21st of March the sun shines 12 hours a day.

Only Known Quintuplet Survivors In The U.S.

HIBERNIA, Ind. (AP)—Gailher Drury ambled home from his 15-cent-an-hour job at a Kentucky stone quarry 45 years ago unaware his wife Bertha was in labor.

He cut some stove wood, then walked a quarter of a mile to a neighbor's house and called Dr. J. F. Furnish.

An hour later he was the father of quintuplets.

Drury, 71, a school janitor, recalled with obvious delight today the momentous event of Feb. 11, 1914. Beside him sat his son Lloyd, who, with his brother Claude, are the only known survivors of any quintuplet birth recorded in the United States.

"Dr. Furnish arrived about 10 p.m.," Drury said. "He was riding that buggy with a top on it and driving his yellow horse."

The Drury home on a tobacco farm two miles west of Waterford, Ky., was lit by kerosene lamps and drew its water

Unconcerned By Policy Matters

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to the United States didn't stir up much interest in an adult education course on Russian foreign policy at the Oklahoma City library.

Walter Gray of the library says, "Oklahoma City residents are avoiding it like the plague." He said Russian foreign policy is the least popular of 40 courses offered.

Number 39 in interest, he said, is a course on American foreign policy.

By CHARLES BISSETTE THE THINGS YOU DID LAST SUMMER

Remember those great pictures you took on vacation last summer? Think you could put your hands on them right now? Probably wouldn't take more than five minutes of rummaging through your dresser drawer to fish them out. And that's my point. Half the fun of taking pictures is having them handy to look at and show off. If you need a show place for your snapshots, we'd be glad to show you a complete collection of family-size albums.

And speaking of summer pictures. Did you ever send those extra prints to all the people you promised? Now's the time to do something about it. Just bring in your negatives and we'll help you clear up your conscience.

If you have a couple of shots you're particularly proud of let us take a look at them. Maybe they'll look extra good as big enlargements, suitable for framing or sending.

All this jabbering about pictures reminds me of something I like to remind you of from time to time. Whenever pictures or picture-taking are the subject there's just one place we'd like you to head... to our counter. We're always ready to advise you on the purchase of a new camera for yourself or as a gift. And you can always bank on finding the latest in the world of photography on our shelves. (If you can't drop in, just smile as you drive by.)

Mental Institutions Due To Get Big Share In Bonds

RALEIGH (AP)—Expanded facilities for North Carolina mental institutions will get a big slice of a $34,400,000 bond issue to be voted on Tuesday in a statewide election.

Top money—more than 20 1/2 million dollars—goes to the state higher education institutions and community colleges. The mental hospitals would get 12,053,000.

State Rep. John Umstead of Chapel Hill, veteran legislator and leader in the field of mental

Michigan Again Is Short Of Cash

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—State officials tightened strings on a nearly empty purse today and hoped the Legislature would come up soon with a source of needed funds.

The state faced a new cash crisis as result of a Michigan Supreme Court decision Thursday knocking out a one per cent use tax designed to raise 10 million dollars and wipe out an 80 million dollar state deficit.

The state administrative board cut out virtually all out-of-state travel by state employees, filling of job vacancies and all but emergency purchases of supplies.

Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams was due back from a four-week vacation abroad to take on the Republican-controlled Legislature in a new tax battle.

The court split 5-3 in ruling that the use tax was basically a sales tax increase in disguise and to be valid would have to be submitted to popular vote. Earlier this year Republicans sought to do this but were blocked by Democrats who demanded a state income tax.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

Temperatures will probably average 5 degrees above normal through Wednesday, warmer Saturday and Sunday, turning cooler Tuesday and Wednesday. Showers Sunday and again about Tuesday may total one-half inch.

building "a place where they can be taught how to travel so they can get to and from work. A place where they can be taught coordination, muscle balance, posture, and to develop their other senses to compensate for the loss of sight."

Michigan has a three per cent sales tax, the maximum that can be levied under the state constitution. The use tax would have raised the tax to four per cent.

Before it was knocked out, the use tax raised 14 million dollars. The state revenue department estimated that 40 per cent of this might have to be refunded. But red tape was expected to discourage many taxpayers from attempting to collect.

The Legislature, which has been in a marathon session since January, will reconvene next Thursday to tackle the tax problem again. Republican leaders have gone to work on alternative proposals.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Steels, electronics and most motors paced the stock market early this afternoon to a moderate technical snapback after four days of sharp decline.

Trading was fairly active. Gains of pivotal issues went from fractions to 1 or 2 points. Advances among the rocket-missile-electronics group stretched to about 3.

Relieved of any further discouraging news at the moment, the market provided opportunities to traders and investors to pick up quality issues at reduced prices. Wall Street sources said.

The market was battered this week by successive disappointments over hoped-for use of the Taft-Hartley law in getting the steel mills back into operation. Meanwhile, the basic vigor of the economy was reflected by increasing store sales, another record in the consumer price index and an official forecast that housing starts will exceed 1,300,000 units this year.

U.S. Steel, more than 10 points below its high for the year, recouped about 2 points. Youngstown Sheet and Lukens were up about 3 each.

The "glamor" stocks still had plenty of gas for a continued climb. Zenith and Motorola rose more than 3 apiece. Varian Associates about 2. Thiokol, Lear and Raytheon rose about a point or better.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 80 cents to $219.80 with the industrials up $1.30, the rails up 70 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds rose.

Christmas Items Not Hurt By Steel Strike

A visiting expert in general merchandise for drug stores, Joseph Rosenwald, said this morning the steel strike will not affect Christmas merchandise already on order for drug firms.

Rosenwald, executive secretary of Affiliated Drug Stores in New York City, was here visiting a client of his firm.

Most of the Christmas merchandise has been manufactured and is en route or already in warehouses, he said. "However, if the store finds it necessary to reorder items, it will be much more difficult to get products involving metals," Rosenwald said.

He added that "The real effect of the strike will be felt in the first quarter of next year. How long that effect will be felt depends on the length of the steel strike."

The Affiliated Drug Stores deal with 8,000 different items of sundries or general merchandise, flashlights and the like. Rosenwald himself has been in the drug merchandise field for 32 years, starting at the age of 26. As an expert in his field, he has written articles for trade journals, including the American Druggist Magazine, where he published under the penname of "Pedlar."

He has done a considerable amount of speaking throughout the country in client organizations and in trade organizational meetings of one kind or another.

Rosenwald's father organized the Affiliated Drug Stores with 21 clients in 1927. The son, a graduate of Princeton University, entered the business, a year later.

Now there are 64 clients, three of which were charter members. Bissette's Drug Store here has been associated with the firm since 1932, the year it opened, according to Charles B. Bissette, manager.

Rosenwald, usually accompanied by his wife, Elsa, does most of the traveling for Affiliated Drug Stores. He said he covers some 25,000 to 40,000 miles per year, visiting about 1,000 individual stores in 150 cities throughout the nation. His wife studies the educational systems throughout the country.

The purpose of the traveling, Rosenwald said, is to analyze trends in the organizations and carry ideas from one to the other.

District PTA Meet Is Held In Greenville

At yesterday's District 10 Parent-Teacher Association Annual Conference held in Greenville, five principal speakers talked to representatives from the district's nine counties on the theme: "For Our Children—A Creative Life in a Changing World."

With Pitt, Hyde, Pamlico, Beaufort, Jones, Lenoir, Currituck, Craven and Onslow Counties represented, the group heard PTA Congress Pres. Mrs. J. Z. Watkins, 2nd Vice Pres. W. L. Flowers, Pitt County Rep. Walter Jones, Dr. Frank Fuller of East Carolina College, and Mrs. George Douglas of Greenville.

Mrs. Watkins, the featured speaker, urged the group to have a closer relationship or "inter-connection" between children and families and also among nations.

She stressed the idea that "we should not be spectators only, but participants." She told the group, "We, as parents and teachers, have the power to help our children to world understanding in order for them to have creative, happy lives in a changing world."

Flowers spoke on the topic: "Let's Look at Dues." He told the conference that it is necessary to increase PTA membership dues to 25 cents. For the past 34 years.
