When Car Rammed Truck—

DEATH CAR . . . A 29-year-old Route 1, Winterville Negro was instantly killed when this car struck the rear of a truck loaded with timber late Saturday night in Ayden.

Pitt's 6th Road Death Is Recorded

AYDEN — Pitt County's sixth traffic fatality was recorded at 10:35 Saturday night when a 20-year-old Route 1, Winterville, Negro, was instantly killed following a collision with a truck loaded with timber inside the Ayden city limits.

Investigating officers, Patrolman R. E. Tayloe and Ayden Police Sergeant Ralph Coley, identified the dead man as James Louis Ellison.

Ellison, according to the owner of the car, Charlie Fletch Swindell, 29-year-old Negro, also of Route 1, Winterville, was driving the car at the time of the collision.

According to a statement by Swindell, Ellison was driving the car east on Third St. at about 35 to 40 miles per hour. When he saw the truck, he was going to collide with the parked truck, he jumped into the rear seat of the old model car.

Ellison was found by officers pinned in the wreckage on the right side of the car. A local doctor, who pronounced him dead, said he apparently died instantly.

Swindell, suffering from a minor cut near the right eye was released by Coroner E. W. Harvey under a $500 bond for appearance at the Coroner's inquest to be held in the Ayden court room at 7:30 Wednesday night.

Investigators said damage to the truck was heavy and the old model car was a total loss. Investigation of the accident was incomplete, officers noted.

Begin Hunt For New President

A committee to nominate a president of East Carolina College to succeed Dr. John D. Messick began its work today.

Dr. Messick resigned effective Jan. 6 to become assistant director of a national committee on special education and rehabilitation in Washington.

Upon instruction of the ECC board, Chairman J. Herbert Walcott named a three-man trustees' committee to search for a successor to Dr. Messick.

Henry Belk, editor of the Goldsboro News-Argus, is chairman of the committee. Henry Oglesby, secretary to Rep. Bonner (D-NC), is secretary, and Charles H. Larkins, Klinton merchant, is the third member.

The committee in its search, Belk said, will seek especially the views from the ECC faculty and alumni.

Oglesby is an alumnus of ECC and has been active in its alumni affairs.

Communications regarding the new president, Belk said, should be addressed to Oglesby, the secretary to the committee, at Grifton. The first meeting of the committee will be held in a few days.

Kaiser Steel To Deal Separately

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Kaiser Steel Corp. today broke away from industry-wide negotiations in the 104-day steel strike and announced it would bargain separately with the United Steelworkers Union.

Edgar P. Kaiser, the corporation's board chairman, made the announcement in Washington only hours after the industry had announced that Kaiser had reached a separate agreement with the union. An assistant to Kaiser later denied that any agreement had been reached.

Union negotiators were scheduled to meet separately today with 95 other strike-idled steel firms.

The announcement that Kaiser, the nation's 12th largest steel producer, had reached agreement with the union was signed by the 11 other major steel firms. It did not say, however, that the agreement had been signed. Kaiser had been a member of the 12 steel firms bargaining as a unit.

By itself, Kaiser's statement did not deny that Kaiser had reached agreement, but instead explained why he had decided to bargain separately.

Later, Norman Nicholson, assistant to Kaiser, agreed to clarify the situation further. He denied that any agreement had been reached and added that negotiations would begin in Washington today.

Others of the industry said Kaiser's bolt from the ranks would not alter their position to resist what they called an inflationary wage increase.

Kaiser, which employs 10,615 of the half-million United Steelworkers, produces nearly 1,500,000 tons of steel a year—two per cent of the national output.

"We believe the decision to bargain separately with the union is the only responsible step we can take in the face of mounting national emergency caused by this 104-day strike," Kaiser said in his statement.

Top negotiating teams for the industry and the USW planned to resume peace efforts shortly after the separate meetings got under way.

Thirteen of the separate meetings were scheduled for Pittsburgh. The remainder were set up in scores of cities all across the nation.

All of the peace efforts are going on against a background realization that a Taft-Hartley injunction—presently inactive because of a union appeal—could go into effect anytime and end the strike at least for 90 days.

The U.S. Third Circuit Court at Philadelphia is studying the union appeal. A decision could come anytime this week—most likely today or tomorrow. The U.S. District Court in Pittsburgh issued the injunction last week.

Once before, USW President David J. McDonald succeeded in getting negotiations broken down to the company level. That was in New York nearly a month ago and nothing came of it.

The latest company-by-company contract talks were arranged by McDonald nearly 48 hours before the Kaiser development. Both the union and the industry are under a circuit court directive to keep negotiations going.

The other 11 companies estimated the Kaiser agreement—if they adopted it—would cost them between 45 and 50 cents per mag hour during the life of a three year contract.

C&D Board Discloses 'Exciting' Increase In Employees, Payrolls

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The chairman of the State Conservation and Development Board reported today an "exciting" 70 per cent increase in number of new employees and payrolls in North Carolina industry for the first nine months of 1959.

William P. Saunders, reporting to the board's fall meeting here, said there were 25,723 new employees and $85,785,000 added to industry's payrolls for the period. This compared with 15,094 new employees and $47,758,000 in increased payrolls for the same period of 1958.

Morever, Saunders said, the board's Commerce and Industry Division has now "more prospects with whom we are working than at any other time."

Now Told: Hodges Declares U. S. Had 2 A-Bombs Due Cooperation

WASHINGTON (AP) — America had only two atomic bombs when the decision was made to drop them on Japan in World War II, according to a posthumously published interview with Gen. George C. Marshall.

He described as "very exciting" a report from Director William P. Saunders of the Conservation and Development Department which showed a 4 1/2 million dollar gain in new plants and expansions for the first nine months of this year.

Europe, and plugged for a big vote in Tuesday's statewide referendum on $34,400,000 in state bonds.

Marshall said in the interview that America's military leaders had no idea of the destructive power of the A-bomb until one was exploded in New Mexico on July 16, 1945. Even after that, he said, there was no clear-cut plan on how to use the new weapon.

Hodges, as C&D chairman, presided at the morning meeting which heard Saunders report that the first nine months of 1959 have seen $171,689,000 poured into investments for new plants and expansions. This compared with $167,110,000 for the same period last year.

"I want to ask each person in this room to call two or three people between now and tomorrow and get them to vote. And, of course, be sure that nothing interferes with your own vote," he admonished. Hodges and his wife will stop off in their home town of Leaksville to vote, on their way back to Raleigh.

Court Will Give Steel Decision On Tuesday

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The decision by the U.S. 3rd Circuit Court of Appeals on whether the striking United Steelworkers Union must return to work under a Taft-Hartley law injunction or may continue their walkout will be given at 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Voters Going To Polls Tuesday In Bonds Election

Pitt County voters go to the polls tomorrow, along with other voters throughout North Carolina, to decide whether the state will issue $34,400,000 in capital improvement bonds, with assurance from state officials that a favorable vote will not result in tax hikes.

County seaport ($500,000) and the construction and restoration of historical sites ($250,000).

In its 25 precincts, which open at 6:30 a.m. and close at 6:30 p.m., Pitt County voters will join the state-wide bond election for an issue authorized by the 1959 General Assembly.

Greenville precincts — No. 1 — Tripp's Warehouse; No. 2 — Pitt County Court House; No. 3 — Third St. School; No. 4 — West End Circle Fire Station; No. 5 — Keel's warehouse; No. 6 — Greenville Fire Station; No. 7 — Elm Street Park; No. 8 — old hospital building.

Subject to the vote of the people, the lawmakers authorized the bond issue for capital improvements at higher education institutions, mental hospitals, the state rehabilitation center for the blind, historical sites in the state, and the seaport at Southport.

Nobel Prize In Physics Given 2 American Atomic Scientists

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Two American atomic scientists today were awarded the 1959 Nobel physics prize for the discovery of the anti-proton, proving that matter exists in two forms, as particles and anti-particles.

The physics winners are Italian-born Emilio Segre, 54, and Dr. Owen Chamberlain, 39, born in San Francisco. Both are attached to the University of California at Berkeley.

and Dr. Thomas Ypsilantis of the California University staff. Segre was born at Tivoli, Italy, and was a student at the University of Rome of Enrico Fermi, the pioneer nuclear physicist and 1938 Nobel winner. Segre taught at the University of Palermo.

Using the giant atom-smashing bevatron at Berkeley, Calif., they found that by clashing their newly discovered anti-proton and a proton together, both dissolved into light.

The awarding body said the anti-proton—the electrically negative mirror image of the proton, or hydrogen nucleus—had been predicted 30 years ago by Paul Dirac of Britain, who shared the 1933 Nobel Prize with Erwin Schroedinger of Berlin University.

Anderson-McCrary Wed

LEXINGTON—Grace Episcopal Church was the scene of the Saturday wedding of Miss Margaret MacDonald McCrary to Paul Champlin Anderson. The Rev. Rodney A. Horne, rector of the local church, and the Rev. Peter C. Robinson of St. Francis Church of Greensboro, officiated. A reception followed at the bride's home here.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. William Bryce Hunt of Lexington. She was given in marriage by her stepfather, Dr. Hunt. Her gown of medic d'esprit Chantilly lace was designed with Elizabethan neckline outlined with lace scallops, long sleeves and fitted bodice. The bouffant skirt of pleated tulle was edged with lace tier. She wore a fingertip veil of illusion which fell into graceful folds from a coronet of orange blossoms and forget-me-nots. The bride carried her confirmation prayer book covered in white satin and lace adorned with a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis. Mrs. Richard Hines of Chapel Hill was matron of honor. She was dressed in a gown of blue peau de sole and had a colonial bouquet of pink rosebuds. The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Paul Anderson of Clinton, Conn. and the late Mr. Anderson, had Walter Budd Champlin of Essex, Conn. as best man. Ushers were Willoughby Foster Young Jr. of Greenville and Carl O. Carlson of Clinton, Conn.

Mrs. Anderson is a candidate for a master's degree in the field of art, Columbia University. A graduate of Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, Greensboro, she has taught in Long Island Schools, New York State, for the past two years. Her husband, who was graduated from Hobart College, Geneva, N. Y., where he was a member of Delta Chi Fraternity, is with the advertising department of Modern Talking Picture Service, Inc., New York, N. Y.

After November 15, the couple will live at 306 West 15th Street, New York 11, N. Y. Dr. and Mrs. Hunt entertained wedding guests with a reception at their home, 7 Williams Circle. Out-of-town guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby Foster Young, Willoughby Foster Young Jr., and Miss Mary Ann Howard of Greenville; Mrs. Paul Anderson of Clinton, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. Carl O. Carlson of Clinton, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Budd Champlin of Essex, Conn.; Miss Ruth Lord of Mt. Vernon, N. Y.; and Mrs. Beiden Doebler of Long Island, N. Y.

Mrs. Gay To Represent Pitt In Study Tour

Mrs. Joe Gay of the Fountain Home Demonstration Club will be Pitt County's representative on the United Nations study tour to be held today through October 31. On each of the four days in New York, the tentative schedule provides for some phase of the United Nations to be studied.

Home Demonstration women of North Carolina have been making efforts to understand and appreciate the homemaker's role in world affairs since 1953 when the first Study Tour to the UN was planned by the Home Economics division of the Extension Service. These tours have been conducted each year with study at home beforehand, briefings by leaders of Specialized Agencies and delegates from foreign countries while on tour of the United Nations Headquarters and summary reports to home groups afterwards.

Approximately 80 counties have had representatives on the tours since 1953. This has been a decided factor in making the UN a part of family life. Knowledge and understanding of the UN by every family will make the UN safe and free to fulfill its purpose.

Children To Help UNICEF

This year "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" will be observed in Greenville on Saturday, October 31. At 5:00 p.m. the children will gather at their respective churches for refreshments.

After the party, the children with their UNICEF coin cans and their UNICEF tags will canvass the area assigned to their churches.

The money collected at this time will be used by the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund to extend help and Welfare Services to homeless children and their mothers throughout the world.

How long does it take to make a tradition? Some build up for centuries or decades of centuries. Yet within nine years, in thousands of communities, Trick or Treat for UNICEF has become a full-fledged tradition. Once again this Halloween, when doorbells start to ring and eager palms go out for trick or treat, the casual observer may see nothing different from the celebration as he remembers it from his own childhood. But in fact, a lot has changed.

A closer look reveals an orange and black tag with the name "United Nations Children's Fund" and the symbol of a child drinking a glass of milk. The tag is worn like a badge of honor by the ghosts and goblins, the smiling witches and the men from Mars. The same symbol is reproduced on milk cartons used by the children to collect their "treats" of coins.

The chant will be heard not only in some 9,500 cities and towns from Florida to Alaska, but also from Europe to Venezuela and from Puerto Rico to Hawaii — wherever American youngsters get together. A night once associated with vandalism and destruction has become a night devoted to the millions of children whose sleep is disturbed by hunger and illness in many parts of the world. Trick or Treat pennies go to some 100 countries where a glass of milk is a real holiday treat, and where diseases unknown in more developed areas assume epidemic proportions for lack of even the barest essentials in medical care. Last year, some 50,000,000 children and mothers received UNICEF help. But the number of children in less developed parts of the world is 750,000,000. When American youngsters chant Trick or Treat for UNICEF Saturday, they will be participating in a tradition which is recent in the number of years, but based on principles which are as strong and precious as any child's right to normal growth and good health.

Auxiliary Honored

Mrs. C. L. Dupree entertained the American Legion Auxiliary of Greenville at her home Thursday evening. Assisting her as co-hostesses were Mesdames Martha Forrest, Ethel Allen, P. E. Wells, J. B. Spillman and Lena Tyson.

After refreshments were served, the meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. W. C. Eagles. There were 19 members present and a guest, Mrs. Ellen Clark. It was decided that the Unit would send cigarettes to veterans in the hospitals to contribute one dollar to be enclosed in a Christmas card for each veteran assigned to the Greenville Unit, and to make contributions to the Auxiliary President's Project, the Hospital Memorial Library, the Day Nur-ery and the Martha Claverie Loan Fund.

The program was based on the subjects of the month, Membership and the Scholarship Fund. Mrs. Eagles spoke on the status of the Unit's membership and said nine new members were needed in order to reach the quota of 102.

Mrs. James Worsley gave a brief review of "Need a Lift?", a booklet put out by the Scholarship Information Service, National Child Welfare Division, American Legion, which lists scholarships offered by different organizations which are available for veterans' children.

She said the scholarships are plentiful but there is a problem of finding the right scholarship for the student, and how to go about obtaining it. The main idea of the Scholarship Fund, she said, is to insure care and protection of children of veterans and to improve educational opportunities for all children.

The next meeting will be held November 12 so as not to conflict with Thanksgiving and members are urged to bring to the meeting their gifts for gift shops in Veterans Hospitals.

Cooking Is Speaker's Topic

Mrs. Ann Gidley, Girl Scout Consultant for Cooking, was guest speaker at the October meeting of the Girl Scout Leaders Club, which was held at the home of Mrs. Ray Minges.

She emphasized that patience and praise are the most important points for both parents, and for troop leaders to remember when little girls are learning to cook. She suggested children be given simple recipes, and that they usually like to begin their cooking experiences with learning to make something sweet.

Mrs. Gidley gave a number of suggestions for troop cooking, both in the kitchen and over the camp fire. The leaders voted to change their meeting to the fourth Tuesday morning of each month.

Now A Synthetic

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—The first synthetic penicillin, more deadly to germs but safer for humans than natural penicillin, should be in doctors' hands in a few weeks, it was announced today. The new penicillin apparently destroys germs which have become resistant to the old penicillin—and causes fewer dangerous reactions. It can be taken by mouth and is so powerful that it promises to make penicillin shots obsolete, reported Dr. Amel R. Menotti, vice president and scientific director of Bristol Laboratories. The new product, called Syn-cillin, is a stripped down version of natural penicillin with a new chemical body style. Preliminary evidence indicates the drug does not produce as many dangerous side effects as shots of the natural penicillin.

Funeral Tuesday For Mrs. W. I. Skinner

Mrs. Laurine Davis Skinner, 78, widow of William Skinner Sr., died at Pitt Memorial Hospital at 10:30 Sunday morning following three weeks of illness. Funeral services will be held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by the Rev. John Drake, the pastor, and burial will be in Cherry Hill Cemetery. Mrs. Skinner had lived in Wilson until her marriage to Mr. Skinner in 1900 and had been a resident of Greenville since that time. Mr. Skinner died in 1929. She was a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Surviving are two sons: William Iverson and Tom W. Skinner of Williamston; two daughters: Mrs. Herman Neal of Greenville and Mrs. Watson Coffee of Douglas, Ga.; 13 grandchildren; 4 great grandchildren; and a brother, J. L. Davis of Washington, D. C.

Leadership Training School Opens Tonight At Presbyterian Church

Sponsored by the Greenville Larger Parish, the Leadership Training School for Christian workers will begin tonight at the First Presbyterian Church with a thirty minute worship service. The worship service will begin at 7:00 o'clock, and the classes will begin tonight and each night this week through Friday at 7:30. Four courses are being offered: "Teaching Kindergarten Children," to be taught by a specialist in work with young children, Mrs. J. S. Garner of Charlotte; "Teaching Primary Children," to be taught by the wife of a Presbyterian minister, Mrs. W. D. Morton of Farmville; "Teaching Pioneers," to be taught by a former Director of Christian Education, Mrs. J. Vines Cobb Jr. of Pinetops. This is the first major project undertaken by the Larger Parish, and Reverend Richard R. Gammon, pastor of the host church, and the ministers of the participating churches, feel that this school will be of great value to the Sunday School teachers, and others who plan to attend.

Blames Shot On A 'Wild Impulse'

SHENANDOAH, Pa. (AP)—Serge Lazusky, 46, was drinking beer with two companions early Sunday when one observed the time. "Say, Sarge, it's 2 o'clock, time to put the clock back. End of day, light time." Serge — called Sarge by his friends because they had difficulty pronouncing his name—looked at the clock and remarked: "I'm not afraid to die." He took a .38 caliber Spanish pistol from his pocket and fatally shot himself in the right temple. John Wassell, 48, told police "It must have been a wild impulse."

Pets Started A Burro Business

STRANG, Neb. (AP)—This southeast Nebraska community has a population of 100 humans and 39 Mexican burros. The animals belong to Lowell Mesman, who bought a pair of burros for his sons four years ago and was amazed at the interest aroused when the pair produced a colt. "It got me to thinking about raising burros to sell," he explains, with the result that what started out as a sort of hobby has become what Mesman describes as an "unprofitable but highly interesting little business."

Funeral Held Today For Louis A. Spear

VANCEBORO—Mr. Louis Augustus (Gus) Spear, 83, died at his home near Vanceboro at 10:30 Saturday night following six months of illness. Funeral services were conducted at Epworth Methodist Church at 3:30 Monday afternoon by the Rev. A. C. Regan, the pastor, assisted by the Rev. Ellis Bedworth, a former pastor, and burial was in the church cemetery. Mr. Spear spent all of his life in the Epworth community of Craven County and was a farmer until his retirement. He was a member of Epworth Methodist Church. His wife, Mrs. Lena Coward Spear, died a week ago. He is survived by a son, Odie Spear, of Vanceboro; two daughters, Mrs. Eddie Haddock and Mrs. Eby A. Hill, both of Vanceboro; ten grandchildren; eleven great-grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. Winnie Franks of Ennui. China produces about half the world's tea.

Associate Justice Clifton Moore To Address Bar Ass'n Meet Here

Honorable Clifton L. Moore, associate justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, will address the annual meeting of the Third District Bar Association here Saturday, according to J. W. H. Roberts, association president. The meeting will begin at 5:30 p.m. at the Proctor Hotel with a social hour and an address of welcome by Harry M. Brown, Pitt County Bar Association president. The local bar association is host of the annual session. A business meeting at 6 p.m. and a dinner at 6:30 p.m. will follow, Roberts said. Election of officers for the coming year will take place during the meeting. Chairman of the committee on arrangements this year is F. M. Wooten of Greenville, with M. E. Cavendish and C. W. Everett, both of Greenville, assisting on the committee. Present officers of the Third District Bar Association are J. W. H. Roberts, president; Gene Smith of Beaufort, first vice president; Norris C. Reed Jr. of New Bern, second vice president; and John W. Beaman of New Bern, secretary-treasurer. The garden, which seeks no profit, is not yet finished but already it is as beautiful and sacred looking spot as can be found anywhere—truly a Garden of Hope.

Garden Of Hope To Be Island Of Peace

By CLAUDE WOLFF COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—High on a hilltop overlooking the Ohio River sits an island of peace and quiet called the Garden of Hope. It is a place where thousands of persons of all religious faiths can slip away for a while to rest and contemplate in surroundings as close to the Holy Land as man can make them. The center of it all is a replica of the Garden Tomb in Jerusalem, believed by many to be the tomb given by Joseph of Arimathea for the body of Christ. Through a narrow door cut in stone, one can see places of burial for three persons. On the space like the one where Christ traditionally is believed to have lain is engraved: "He is not here, for He has risen." On the wall just above the slab is the quotation from John: "Joseph of Arimathea...took the body of Jesus. Now in the place where He was crucified there was a garden; and in the garden a new sepulchre, wherein was never man yet laid. There they laid Jesus..." The Garden of Hope is the realization of the dream of a young, personable and tireless minister, the Rev. Morris Coers, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church in Covington. The Rev. Mr. Coers first visited the Holy Land 21 years ago. Knowing that such visits were impossible for millions of people, he determined to reproduce part of it in the United States. In addition to the tomb, there is a carpenter's shop, constructed as it would have looked if the work were done 2,000 years ago. Inside are tools from Nazareth; hundreds of years old. A carpenter of Nazareth is portrayed in a mural. The "Glory Trial," stewn with reminders of the Holy Land, runs through the garden. By the side of the trial lie a

Question Boy In Sister's Slaying

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—A studious, lanky teen-ager who told police "I hate everyone" faces further questioning today in the fatal shooting of a sister. James Vogt, 17, is held for investigation of murder in the slaying of his sister, Gwendolyn, 14. He told police he "got kind of nervous" and shot the girl with a shotgun Saturday night after an argument over which was to sit in an easy chair before the family television set. Police said the youth fired the shotgun outside his house as officers pursued him later. Mary E. Root, 22, a bystander, was struck in the face by shotgun pellets. She is reported in good condition. Vogel was captured after exchanging shots with police. An officer suffered minor wounds as he took the shotgun from the youth in a city park. The Black Hills, in South Dakota and Wyoming, are neither hills, nor are they black. They are greenly wooded and are mountains.

Those Opposed Will Be At Polls

Tomorrow is the day designated for Tar Heels to say officially at the polls whether the state should issue $34 1/2 million in bonds for permanent improvements at various state institutions.

We are confident that well over 50 per cent of the eligible voters of the state are in favor of issuing the bonds which will provide permanent improvements for our educational institutions, mental institutions, hospitals and the like. Whether the actual vote in tomorrow's referendum will reflect this sentiment among North Carolinians, is a matter of conjecture.

By virtue of its importance to the state and its institutions, the bond issue should have generated a great deal of interest among the people of North Carolina. Unfortunately that is not the case. As often happens when bond issues are the only matter to be decided in a referendum, many people have a passive attitude about going to the polls... particularly those who recognize the need for the funds and who would favor issuing the bonds. They seem inclined to think that most people favor the bond issues, they will be approved by a wide margin so their individual vote will make no difference.

These people, unfortunately, stay away from the polls in droves on the day appointed to officially resolve the issue.

On the other hand, those opposed to the bond issues will be sure to cast their ballots tomorrow. Even though they too may feel the bonds will be approved, they will not miss their opportunity to express through a ballot their opposition.

North Carolina's educational institutions have almost $19 millions in potential permanent improvements at stake in tomorrow's election. They will include classrooms, dormitories and other necessary facilities to meet the great influx of new students to the campuses of our colleges and universities. East Carolina College alone has $1.45 millions in urgently needed permanent improvements riding on the outcome of tomorrow's vote across the state.

Mental institutions of the state, if the bond issues are passed, will have $12 millions for permanent improvements to meet the needs of the mentally ill in North Carolina. If the bond issues fail, the backlog of mentally ill for whom there is no room in state hospitals will continue to grow. Unfortunate men, women and children will continue to be denied care and treatment they need because facilities are not available to care for them.

Also at stake in tomorrow's referendum are items that include $1.5 million for permanent improvements to community colleges, $500,000 for state participation in improving community hospitals, $466,000 for improvements to correctional training schools, $140,000 for the state blind rehabilitation center, $250,000 for historical sites and $500,000 for construction of a port at Southport.

Whether these bond issues are approved tomorrow may well determine whether the state will be able to meet some of its most pressing needs in many fields in the immediate future. The issues will be decided only by those people who take the time to cast their ballots in the referendum. The Reflector urged the people of this area to go to the polls and cast a ballot in favor of the bond issues.

Necessary Step In The U. S. Space Program

Decision to turn the Army's space rocket program over to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration was a long time in coming. Now, perhaps, with part of the tangled skein of responsibility cleared up, the American venture into space may make greater strides.

To date, a large part of our success in the space field was made possible by a dedicated Army team. The heart of the troubles that had to be ironed out was "too many cooks spoiling the broth".

Somehow, there had to be a clarifying of responsibilities; and, logically speaking, who but the NASA should bear the burden?

The exploration of space is a field foreign to all past experience. And however ambitious they might be, the Army, Navy and Air Force are by nature limited to their own domains of activity.

With the lumping of space projects and the military rocket programs in budgetary considerations, it would be near-inevitable that military needs overshadowed progress into the blue-black void. Shifting the space program into a field of its own, its administrators and Congress can better evaluate the degree of effort to be made.

With that better evaluation may come more ambitious appropriations and more farseeing effort. Certainly the move does not bring with it any thought of economies in the space program. It is almost certain to involve greater spending.

For this we can be sure: this new frontier is going to prove a most costly one to develop. Perhaps its real exploitation will prove a greater financial burden than one nation can afford, greater than two or three nations can feel themselves equal to. In the end, we may find the far reaches of space are attainable only through a great international effort.

We shall see.

Invisible Trade Out Of Balance

By RALPH ROBEY

We are still selling more goods abroad than we are buying.

This is known as the invisible balance of trade, and it is "favorable".

But, the invisible balance is highly unfavorable. The latter includes all loans, payments for services, interest, payments for military expenditures, foreign aid, investments, and everything except actual commodities. The deficit over-all, including both visible and invisible items, now is running over $4 billion a year.

$7.5 Billion Invisible Balance

Most important in the invisible balance is military spending of some $3 billion a year, foreign aid of around $2 1/2 billion a year, and private investment of about $2 billion a year.

Up to the present most of the deficit has been taken by the foreign creditors in the form of increased balances held in this country. Last year, it is true, they pulled out $2.3 billion of gold, but this year the volume of gold exports has been at a much lower rate. One can not be sure, however, how long the foreign creditors will be willing to continue to accumulate American balances, and since they already have over $15 billion in cash or its equivalent, obviously they could cause us quite serious trouble should they lose confidence in our financial policies or in the soundness of the dollar.

Is there any real danger of such a development? There is no immediate danger, but there is no time for complacency. We must materially reduce the international deficit and in time, bring our international balance of payments into at least approximate equilibrium.

To accomplish this, certain steps are necessary:

1. We must work unceasingly to get foreign nations to move closer toward removing all restrictions on the export of funds. That is, we must convince foreign governments of the necessity of permitting American companies operating in their countries to transfer earnings back here. Many nations already have gone far in this direction, but there still is much room for improvement.

2. We must overhaul our farm surplus disposal program and eliminate it as a contributing factor to our international deficit. This will mean a new domestic farm program.

3. We must sharply reduce the amount we are spending on military and foreign aid abroad. This will take time and will be difficult. The Administration is generally believed to hold that this cannot be done. But Secretary of the Treasury Anderson in his address before the Annual Board Meeting of the World Bank and International Monetary fund a few weeks ago intimated that such a reduction might become necessary. More recently President Eisenhower in his address at Abilene hinted at the same thing. Both of these comments were extremely guarded, but they indicate the Administration may be willing to consider some modification in the present program.

4. We must continue to encourage private foreign investment. To the extent this takes place, and granting earnings can be brought back home, this will relieve the potential pressure upon dollar.

Do we have time to carry out these programs? The answer to that is, of course we have the time—if we buckle down and go to work.

Other Editors Saying ... Pay For Featherbedding Strength For Today

(Wilson Times)

There was a pathetic ad in The Daily Times on Monday. It was the one put in by the American railroads. In it the carriers were pleading for a fair deal. There was a plaintive tone, the old fight seemed to be gone.

This is to be expected. For the railroads have about reached the end of the line, that is unless the public wakes up to the situation. They are pleading for a good day's work for a day's pay.

We remember so well when the first diesel locomotive pulled into Wilson. We were down to the train with cameras. It was a big story and occasion. The new invention, running the engines with oil, would do away with coal stoking and make the trains cleaner. The innovation was lauded by all, employer and employee.

But not for long. Soon the union realized that there would be no need for firemen, so the union demands that the firemen continue to ride, if they have no boilers to stoke.

This practice became so rampant that it got and deserves the name of featherbedding. Out in the middle west on a line that now has practically no traffic, the same number of employes are kept as when all transportation was on the railroads.

This nation faces a real crisis in this kind of thing. We talk about the railroads, but the same applies to other businesses that have had to change with conditions.

What do you want, the government to run the roads? This is what must happen unless labor realizes that the railroads cannot pay out what they do not make. Economies must be put into force.

The ad is eternally right. You are paying for the featherbedding. If you do not realize it, just look how transportation charges have gone up. These must be passed on in every article you buy.

It is time this nation realizes that the railroads are an essential part of the security of this land. They can survive and pay their way if given a chance. No one wants labor to have to take less for the day's work. But no one should be employed who is not needed. There should be no featherbedding.

The railroads have to pay taxes, state and county in every state and county their tracks run through. The argument will be given that they are also subsidized. This will have to continue and on an even greater basis unless operational costs are cut to zero.

This does not mean cutting down service. If the railroads could spend their money for improved service then the roads could get back some of the business they have lost.

But if they have to pay men for just being there and the unions prevent the changes in time and conditions brought about, you, the taxpayer, are going to have to pay more. For the railroads must be kept alive. National security demands this.

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

TAKE IT

"What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits unto me? I will take the cup of salvation and call upon the name of the Lord."

"What shall I render?" "What shall I give?" "What shall I pay?" This matter of salvation is infinitely important to every one of us. Of one thing we are sure, namely, that we do not deserve it. It would seem, therefore, that we would have to do something to make ourselves worthy to receive it.

But the Bible makes it very plain that we cannot win salvation by anything we do. Salvation is not by work but by faith. What we have to do—what we can do and what we must do—is to make the life ready to receive this gift. This does not mean that we have to make our lives perfect or anywhere near perfect. It just means, first of all, that we have to be truly sorry for the mistakes we have made and the sins we have committed. Then it means that, if we can make restitution for any evil we have done, we will do that. At the end, we must still be pretty ineffective, pretty sinful people.

But it is to just people like us that God extends the cup of salvation. He asks nothing on our part save that we will extend our hand and take it.

God's love is so wonderful that we can only partly understand how it operates. "What shall I render...? I shall take..."

Burden On Our Unions

By ROGER BABSON

BERLIN, Germany—Although I am writing this in Berlin, one should not judge Germany by Berlin since it is an independent and separate community of its own. Now only is it divided between different nations, but it is entirely surrounded by Russian-controlled territory. It is a free economic island floating in a "sea" of Communism—nothing like it anywhere else in the world. Now for an answer to the question frequently asked me: Is the United States facing serious unemployment?

EVERY COUNTRY HAS LABOR UNIONS

Even Germany has its labor unions, but practically no strikes. The union leaders and employers unite to make better goods to sell at lower prices. Hence, they are more industrious and more productive, due to longer hours and a lower cost of living. There is very little installment buying in Germany.

American labor will try to keep German products out of our country by getting Congress to raise our tariffs. This would not only increase the cost of living in the United States, but might cause Germany to "gang up" with Russia, Japan, and China in an economic Hitler—just as powerful and ruthless as Adolf was in a military way.

BETTER WATCH CHINA

Germany is now making machinery and other products to export to us in the United States. If, however, we raise our tariffs so that she cannot export to us, Germany will export machinery to other nations, especially China. I have been to China and can visualize what could happen to us if these 400,000,000 workers should be sold tractors to farm with and machines with which to make textiles, steel, and other materials needed for exporting goods to compete with us. This is probably also true as to Russia, which I visit this week.

The above means that American labor leaders have a great responsibility. They could easily bring about much unemployment in the United States from which their membership, as well as their peaks due to their desire for ease and so-called security, Italy is constantly being undermined by Communist influences. The three Scandinavian countries I have heretofore commented upon. I now forecast that Germany will be one of the world's greatest powers, on a par with the United States and Russia.

This could easily occur if Germany and China should work together. Germany supplying the "know-how" and machines while China supplied the raw materials and cheap but efficient labor. The two combined could crush either Russia or the U. S. in an economic war of unparalleled intensity that could bring our prosperity to a sudden end, with a stock market and real estate crash. If this happens, the blame will be laid on the doorsteps of certain selfish labor leaders.

WHAT ABOUT EAST BERLIN. Anyone studying the map of Europe will see that Mr. K has some sense in desiring to solve the present crazy situation caused by dividing the great city of Berlin between the Russians and the Allies. With Berlin in the center of East Germany, which was given to Russia, a person cannot now enter or leave Berlin except by permission of Russia or by airplane. As I had not time to get a visa for East Germany, I was obliged to go from Copenhagen westward to Hamburg (one of West Germany's largest cities) and fly from there into Berlin.

What the solution will be no one now knows, but the people of Berlin believe it will be settled in some satisfactory manner without any ultimatum or resort to war. World War III may come sometime, but not so long as Mr. K is premier. He knows that if World War III were started now, not only would the U. S., Great Britain, Germany, and all the allies be against him, but also China, which he fears most of all.

To summarize this column, let me say that I worry more at this point about our United States labor leaders than I do about Mr. K.

Trend Is Up In Industrializing

By LYNN NISBET

UPWARD STILL—The progress report made by Director William P. Saunders to the Board of Conservation and Development at its fall meeting in Charlotte shows a continuing and accelerated upward trend in North Carolina's industrial advancement. Capital investment in plants during the first nine months of 1959 showed a first increase over the first nine months of 1958, about four and a half million dollars—from $167,110,000 to $171,689,000. The real value of industrial development is in terms of jobs and payrolls. In these areas Director Saunders seems justified in reporting "exciting increases."

The number of new jobs made available during the first nine months of 1959 is given at 25,723, compared with 15,094 for the comparable period last year. These additional jobs carried payroll increase from $47,758,000 last year to $65,785,000 for 1959, figured on annual basis. These are "firm" figures, representing industries already in operation or assured by construction in progress. While it is true that all of the more than 25,000 new employees may not presently be drawing the nearly $86 million in new wages, these estimates do not include many millions more in potential development capital expenditures or prospective jobs if and when these projects materialize. Director Saunders calls this a realistic report, based on certainty of achievement within the next few months.

Meanwhile, his department is working on the potentials, and he expects to be able to add a lot of certain projects to his next report. COMPREHENSIVE—So much emphasis has been placed on the industrial promotion activities of the C&D department, it is easy to overlook some of the other vital activities of that far-flung section of State government.

Reports of division heads, complementing and supplementing the master report of the director, showed that travel and tourism has moved up in contribution to the total state economy. It also has been proven that, despite protests about North Carolina's income and inheritance tax schedules being a definite handicap in this area, this state is a favored place for residence of retired business and military executives. A little known and largely unpublicized function of the C&D department is the aid it renders in community planning. This service ties in with industrial promotion, recreational area development, and all phases of community progress. The report of this division showed that presently eighteen communities are taking advantage of the cooperative Federal, State and local community planning program.

The report of this division indicates that new Federal housing laws may extend and expand its jurisdiction and permit trying in with urban redevelopment and rural zoning laws to greater degree than has been possible up to now.

Participating to date are the towns and cities of Conover, Clinton, Elizabeth City, Goldsboro, Henderson, Hickory, Jacksonville, Kinston, Lexington, Mocksville, Mooresville, Newton, Raeford, Salisbury, Spencer, Thomasville, Wilson and Carolina Beach. Twelve additional municipalities and one county have indicated purpose to seek Federal and State aid in community planning.

FORESTRY—The forestry division has experimented with a rented plane for dropping water on forest fires with very gratifying results. Adaptation of this type of equipment, along with two-way radio from scouting planes and fire towers makes it possible to get fires under control quickly. Scientific studies of air currents from stations at New Bern and Whiteville have aided in stopping fires before they get out of control. While devoting a lot of energy to conserving the forests, the division is not overlooking the development angle. The State nurseries this year will have available ninety-five to one hundred million seedlings for planting.

Because of so many rainy weekends total attendance at State parks was off for the first nine months of 1959 from the 1958 record, but cash receipts were up. That indicates more use of facilities made by visitors. A notable trend is toward family group use for camping, picnics, etc. The parks division is working on long range plans to increase recreational facilities to accommodate growing demand for such use of the parks.

Everybody Now Tax-Collectors

Taxes have made collectors of us all. It has been said that taxes have made cheats of everyone. They have also made the tax collector socially acceptable.

Time was when the tax collector socially acceptable. Time was when the tax collector, rated with the usurer and the huckster, considerably below the smuggler. Our grandmother may have hesitated as long over inviting a tax collector for Sunday dinner as she would over inviting a saloonkeeper. But now both grandmothers and saloonkeepers are tax collectors. There is no longer any opprobrium to this way of surviving.

In spreading the work of tax-collecting, the managers of our democracy have been wise. Time was when shooting tax-collectors or revenuers was considered a sport superior to treeing possum and only slightly inferior to bagging deer out of season. But today, the sport of winking tax agents is dead. Nobody ever shoots her grandmother or his bartender, even in sport.

And there is also a cost. A recent survey by the National Industrial Conference Board showed that of 127 manufacturing companies, 46 reported that the cost of collecting taxes and keeping required records amounted to between 1 and 2 per cent of their entire tax bill, and that 40 companies placed the cost at 3 per cent or more of their tax assessment.

And the survey indicated that the cost of collecting and handling taxes was usually higher for small companies than for large.

The Conference Board did not relate the cost of handling taxes to net profits, but it would seem as if the cost would be close to the total profits in the less prosperous concerns.

"WHADDA YA READ?" ONE STUDY TELLS

Americans spent almost $3 billion for reading matter last year, not counting books, the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association reports. Half, it boasts, went for newspapers.

All retailers of goods carrying Federal excise taxes must also be tax collectors.

EVERYBODY INTO THE ACT

Every housewife employing domestics more than casually becomes a collector of their Social Security levies or, as is often the case, a payer of them herself.

There are many others: cab drivers in New York, ticket takers in many places, bartenders, service station attendants, gas and electric men and countless others are tax collectors. Under some circumstances, school teachers, newsmen, Girl Scouts and bankers are required to become tax collectors.

There may be some humility to all this. People in every walk of life are forced to collect money, often pennies, in an occupation that was at times regarded on a level with acting and prostitution. There is also a certain democracy about it: everybody bathes in the same tax Ganges.

LET'S GET SERIOUS, ROESSNER!

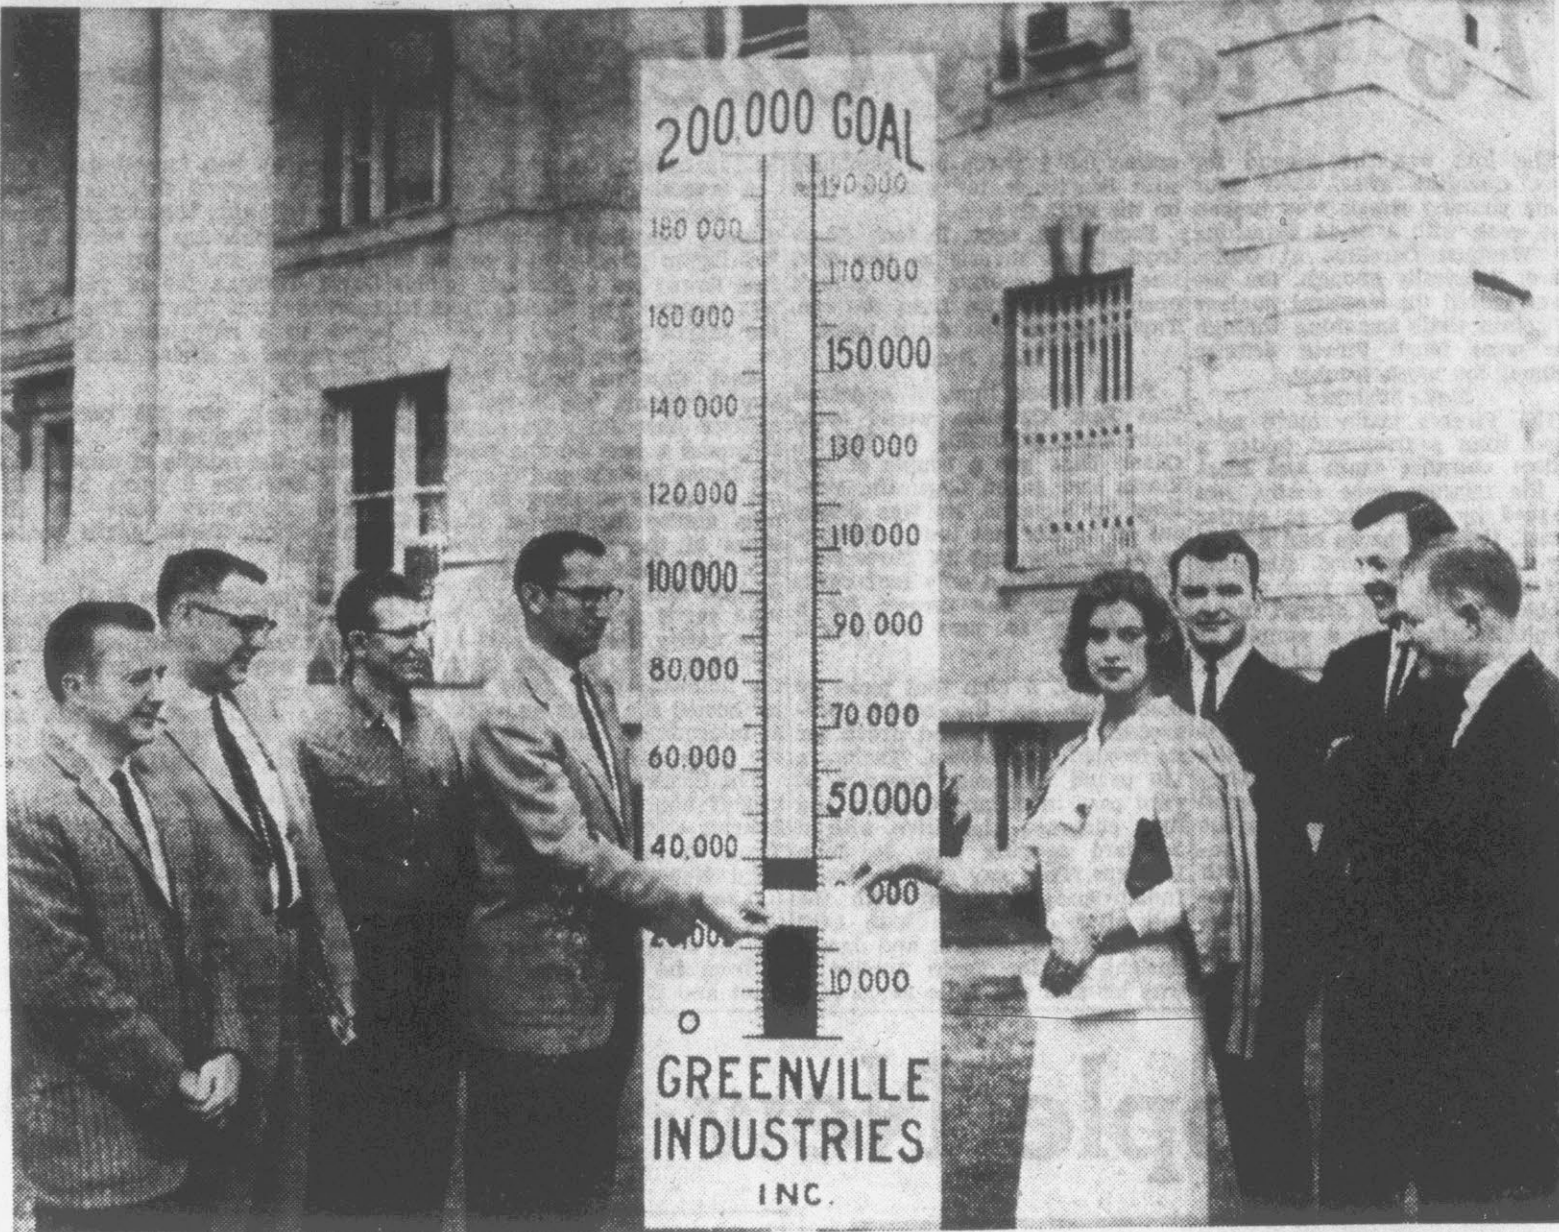

In a less puckish mood, it may be noted that state revenues from sales taxes in the last fiscal year amounted to one-fourth of all state revenues. They are levied by 33 state governments and many cities in addition.

That means that most of the nation's four million business firms are tax collectors for state and cities.

But that's only a small part of tax-collecting activities. Here's a rundown:

Every business is a Federal tax collector of Social Security and withholding taxes. Even a one-man hot-dog stand is usually involved in withholding part of the owner's profits as self-employment Social Security taxes.

Most businesses located in cities are involved in collecting and withholding a variety of city and county taxes. In many states every business is also charged with collecting activities.

School Bus Spokesmen Of Ten Counties At Meet

School bus transportation representatives from 10 counties in east-central North Carolina heard last year's school bus statistics and observations from Roy Williams, assistant head of the N.C. Board of Education Transportation Division, last Wednesday at a meeting in Washington.

Pitt representatives were Leiland Forlines, county transportation superintendent, and Cost Clerk J. R. Cox.

According to Pitt Supervisor of Instruction Arthur S. Alford, the statistics revealed at the meeting showed North Carolina to be tops in the nation in number of buses operated, number of students transported daily, and expenditures for passenger student.

Figures showed that the state has a total of 8,065 buses (the average per county being nearly 81). Pitt was rated eighth in the state with 151 transportation vehicles.

The state average cost per passenger was shown as $15.44 per year. Pitt's cost per mile was 11.1 cents—two-tenths of a cent below the state average.

According to Alford, the state is some 300 buses behind its schedule for this year. Orders were placed for 800 new vehicles for use this year.

The 500 that have already been delivered were used as additions to the state fleet, while the remaining 300 will be used as replacements for depreciated units.

Alford attributed the fact that all units have not yet been delivered to the current steel strike.

Counties represented at the meeting, which was held in the Beaufort County maintenance garage, were: Pitt, Beaufort, Wilson, Lenoir, Martin, Hyde, Washington, Craven, Edgecombe, and Greene.

Other members of the Pitt mechanic and maintenance staff are: Pittman Hines, Lonnie Smith, Jarvis Harris, E. C. (Junior) Hines, James Mizelle, Willie B. Smith, and Frank Richardson.

Six Victims Of Heater's Defect

CHELSEA, Mass. (AP)—A father and five of his six children were found dead in their home Sunday, victims of gas asphyxiation caused by a defective hot water heater.

Police said carbon monoxide fumes apparently filled the house while the father was heating water for the children's Saturday night baths.

A sixth child, 8 weeks old, was being cared for by relatives while the mother, Marguerite, 44, was in a hospital for treatment of varicose veins.

Firemen Answer 3 Alarms, Find Minor Damage

Greenville firemen responded to three calls over the weekend, none of which resulted in a damaging blaze.

About 12:50 p.m. Saturday, the department was called to 516 McKinley Ave. when a heater overheated. Fire officers reported some smoke damage resulted.

At 1 a.m. yesterday, firefighters were called to Box 261 at Brookgreen and Longmeadow Road when a television set in a house owned by Plato Evans on Rutledge Road developed a short circuit. Officials reported no damage resulted other than to the television set.

At 8:40 last night firemen went to 2506 East Fourth St. when a floor furnace flooded causing a small amount of smoke. Upon arrival, firemen cut the fuel from the heater and removed the smoke from the house with the aid of a suction fan.

Fullback Leads Newberry To Victory Over EC, 34-7

NEWBERRY, S.C.— Fullback Richard Seastrunk, South Carolina's leading ground gainer and scorer, scored three times here Saturday night in an offensive orgy that saw Newberry smack East Carolina, 34-7, before a band day crowd of over 2,600.

Playing on a field that had felt the burden of a heavy rain several days prior to the game but was in relatively good playing condition following an afternoon of sunshine and a late evening cold wind, Seastrunk was like a mole plowing through the wet turf and East Carolina line—overtaking the Pirates' Glenn Bass in the NAIA District scoring parade. The Indian fullback has now tallied 66 points while the ECC halfback has only 54.

The loss was the second for East Carolina after their four game winning streak was broken last week with a 34-14 thrashing by Western Carolina at Cullowhee. Ironically enough, the Indians scored the identical number of points while smashing through the once tough Pirate defense without too much trouble.

Make Mistakes
The Pirates made more mistakes than a freshman taking a college entrance exam and most of the miscues were costly. Not plagued by "fumbitis" in earlier games, the ECC backs had a field day against Newberry, fumbling five times and losing four of the bobbles. To top the dismal night, Ralph Zehring had a couple of his passes plunked out of the sky by Newberry defenders.

Fate seemed to be against the Bucs from the start as they lost the pre-game toss for only the second time of the season. They held the Indians and Wyman Taylor's punt rolled dead on the East Carolina 3. Newberry received their first break with James Speight, usually a glue-fingered ball carrier, lost the pigskin on the first play from scrimmage.

Taylor swept right end on an option for 1 yards and combined with Seastrunk for another first on the ECC five.

From that spot, it took Seastrunk three thrusts at the ECC line before scoring the game's opening touchdown from the one. Taylor booted the extra point.

Bass Runs
For a short time, it appeared that East Carolina would come right back. Following the kickoff, Glenn Bass got a couple of key blocks and raced down the sidelines for 5 yards. He was finally cut off by the last Indian defender on the Newberry 28. Three running plays netted only four yards and Zehring was thrown for a loss trying to pass on fourth down.

Newberry, a club that picks up momentum as the season progresses, took over and drove for its second touchdown. Taylor, a 140 pound halfback, tossed a 34 yard pass to Jimmy Graham and then climaxed the drive with a 14 yard scoring pass to John Higgins. The play saw the lanky Indian end come out with the ball after converging with ECC defenders, Glenn Bass and James Speight. Taylor again applied a true toe and the score stood 14-0 in the opening quarter.

A second unit backfield of Sonny Basinger, Nick Hilgert, and Tommy Matthews helped Ralph Zehring in picking up a couple of first downs but a Basinger fumble was recovered by Stanley Ross on the Indian 34.

Bucs Score
East Carolina broke into the scoring column late in the second quarter after Jerry Carpenter intercepted a pass on the Newberry 44. James Speight and Glenn Bass got a chance to show their running ability for one of the few times of the game and led the Bucs on their touchdown drive. Speight and Bass each picked up nine yards and then the Greenville native went 16 yards to the Newberry four. Speight scored on the following play. Jerry Carpenter booted the point and ECC left at intermission still very much in the game, 14-7.

The Pirates took the second half kickoff but a first down pass by Zehring was intercepted by Henry Team to set the stage for the third Newberry touchdown.

It took the Indians eleven plays to ground out the 38 yards needed for the score and Seastrunk scored from the two. Taylor booted the point and it was 1-7.

Down by two touchdowns, East Carolina showed their last signs of life following the kickoff. James Speight picked up 15 yards for a first down and Zehring hit end David Thomas for 14 yards and another first down. The attack came to a halt when Seastrunk intercepted a ehiring toss on the Newberry 30.

Seastrunk, the 175 pounds of packed "dynamite," crashed through the middle of East Carolina's line for 6 yards and the fourth Newberry score in the final period. Taylor again booted the point.

Reserves scored the final touchdown for Newberry. A fourth down pass by Zehring backfired for ECC in their own territory and the Indians took over on the Pirate 42. Bob Yarnall raced 32 yards for the score. The extra point was no good and the final score stood 34-7.

Seastrunk was the workhorse in the Indian backfield, carrying 28 times for 98 yards. Bass picked up 69 yards in seven carries and Speight had 48 in six attempts. Reserve halfback Sonny Basinger picked up 42 yards in seven stabs at the Newberry line.

'Deacs Still In ACC Race': Amen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wake Forest football Coach Paul Amen, still defiant and determined, says his Deacons can't be counted out of the Atlantic Coast Conference race.

"We're still in this thing and will be a mighty rough ball club from here on," said the former West Point English instructor in looking back on the bizarre game in which North Carolina handed Wake Forest a 21-19 setback Saturday.

The loss left Wake Forest with a 2-1 conference record, back of Clemson's 4-0 mark, but still ahead of North Carolina's 3-2 record card.

Amen repeated his immediate post game comment that he thought his team was the equal of North Carolina.

Bears Rest In Familiar Spot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"It looks like our team won't be very good and we hope we can win a couple of games."

Coach Chance Stasavich must have had his tongue in cheek when he made this statement before his Lenoir Rhyme Bears opened the 1959 season.

The Bears all but put a stranglehold on the North State Conference football title Saturday with a 28-7 drubbing of Western Carolina, its closest competition. The victory was the 13th straight for Lenoir Rhyme over a two-year period, its fifth of the season and the third in the conference this year.

Standing in the path of an undefeated season are Maryville, Tenn., this week, then East Carolina, Elon and Catawba. The Bears dropped Maryville last year 66-7.

The two league games this Saturday have Appalachian at East Carolina and WCC at Elon. Catawba is at undefeated Presbyterian College and Newberry is at Guilford in the only day game.

The only change in the standings came on the basis of Catawba's 21-8 victory over Elon. The Indians moved out of the cellar with their first victory of the year, leaving last place to Elon.

The other Saturday results saw Newberry down ECC 34-7 and Carson-Newman upset Appalachian 26-22.

Greenies Topple New Bern, 13-0

BEAR STOPPED—Billy James (12) and Larry Roberts close in to stop an unidentified New Bern ball carrier Saturday night. Greenville won the mud battle, 13-0.

Greenville, off and running at full steam once again, used just two big plays Saturday night to crush a stubborn New Bern eleven, 13-0, on the muddy turf of College Stadium. The game was originally scheduled for Friday night but was moved up due to a heavy rainfall in Greenville Friday.

The victory was the third in conference competition for the Phantoms and gave them an overall mark of 4-2. They journey outside of the loop this week to meet Scotland Nick on the latter's field.

After a scoreless first half, fleet-footed Alan MacArthur broke off his right tackle, headed for the sidelines, and raced 70 yards for the game's first touchdown and what proved to be the winning margin. The dash came on Greenville's first play from scrimmage in the second half. The attempted run for the point was short and the Rose High eleven took a 6-0 advantage.

Sophomore Billy James grabbed a New Bern pass in the final quarter and went 30 yards untouched for the final score of the game. Erskine Duff tossed a pass to Skip Wright for the extra point.

Greenies Topple New Bern, 13-0

BEAR STOPPED—Billy James (12) and Larry Roberts close in to stop an unidentified New Bern ball carrier Saturday night. Greenville won the mud battle, 13-0.

The Greenies had trouble moving the ball most of the night on the wet turf and the turning point of the game could well be credited to Coach Bud Phillip's stout defensive outfit.

New Bern dominated the offensive phase of the game, moving the ball without any trouble until reaching Greenville territory.

The Bears moved into Greenville domain frequently but each time found the Phantoms defense air-tight over the last 20 yards to paydirt.

Greenville made their only drive in the first half when it moved the wet pigskin to the New Bern three. The Phantank ran out of steam here and lost the ball when a fourth down play failed to pick up the needed yardage for a first down.

The visiting Bears, winless in conference competition, showed more strength than expected and kept local fans on the edge of the seats when in possession of the ball. The visitors led in a most statistic departments but fell short on the final score.

Phillips praised the defensive work of Lawrence Davenport, Billy Wade, Skip Wright, Billy James and Randy Bass. "Our defense looked real good most of the time. We were able to hold them when it counted," noted the Greenville coach.

Phillips also credited the New Bern with a good team but felt that the muddy sod had its effect on his club. "Our ground game is our big weapon and the mud slowed us down. I feel that we are much better on a dry field."

Ref Can Tell You They Hit Hard

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—If you think the bruisers in the National Football League don't hit hard, check with referee John Pace.

Pace was knocked right on his wistle during the opening kickoff play of the Chicago Bears-San Francisco 49ers game.

Abe Woodson, 49er halfback, trying to evade four Bears, ran around Pace and then a couple of the Bears hit the referee.

It took five minutes to revive Pace but he stayed on the job. How did it feel?

"With a smile—and a shudder—he replied: "Don't ask."

Jackie Robinson In NAACP Test

GREENVILLE, S. C. (AP)—Former major league baseball star Jackie Robinson backed up a plea for integration in South Carolina Sunday by using the white waiting room at the Greenville airport.

Robinson flew in for the final session of a state rally of the South Carolina branches of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

Using the white waiting room, and ignoring a request from the airport manager to use the colored waiting room, were Robinson and two state NAACP leaders, Billy Fleming of Manning and the Rev. H. P. Sharper of Florence.

Fleming told an auditorium crowd gathered to hear Robinson that the airport manager said "we could not sit there."

The state NAACP executive committee chairman said the Rev. Mr. Sharper, first vice president of the NAACP, "informed the manager that he was comfortable where he was."

Carolina League Teams Returning

GREENSBORO (AP)—The six-team Class B Carolina League said Sunday that all of its members will return for 1960.

The possibility of expansion for 1960 went out the window when four teams interested in franchises said they could not operate without working agreements which are not available.

High Point-Thomasville, Rocky Mount, Lynchburg, Va., and Salem, Va., which had preference on vacancies in that order, each reported no working agreements were available.

Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Burlington, Raleigh, Wilson and Durham each reported to President Bill Jessup they will play in 1960.

The meeting was the deadline for teams to make known their intentions for 1960.

George Frath, president of the Hi-Toms, Inc., told the directors: "We do not have a working agreement. Our assets have been frozen and the city will maintain our park, looking to the time when we can have baseball. We talked to the one major league team, the Chicago Cubs, which does not have a Class B operation. Gene Gene Lawing of their office told us that with a Class A team they did not have adequate players left for a Class B club, but that if something happened they would contact us."

Neither Rocky Mount nor Lynchburg was represented at the meeting.

SHADOW OF GUILT

CHAPTER 35
"I told you, Mr. Hadley," Lieutenant Trant continued, "you had both opportunity and motive to kill Don Saxby, but I didn't know at the time just how much opportunity and motive you had, did I?"

"I didn't know that you were seen less than twenty minutes after the crime at a spot only fifteen minutes away. Nor, speaking in terms of motive did I know that it wasn't merely a question of your wife and your daughter, it was a question of Mrs. Lord too."

"Don Saxby, who could always be depended upon for digging up scandal, must have been very pleased to find out about Mrs. Lord. He had you three ways, didn't he? If it had cost the irreproachable Mr. Duvreux ten thousand dollars to pay him off, how much was it going to cost you? More money, I'd say, than you were either willing or able to pay."

"I don't blame you at all. But it's too bad, isn't it, that your wife's attempt to get you an alibi just didn't happen to work out?"

They can't do anything to you if you're innocent! All the time that his voice had gone stabbingly on, I'd tried to cling to that shakiest of premises. And yet with every word his case had become more hideously plausible. "Well, Mr. Hadley," Trant's cigarette smoke was trailing between his face and mine. "What would you say now if I accused you of killing Donald Saxby?"

All this time Eve Lord had been sitting close to me on the couch. Now, as I let the situation flounder on with no power, it seemed, to control it, she rose to her feet. For a moment she stood glaring at Trant, then she turned back to me.

"Tell him, George," she said. "You've got to. You promised me. Tell him."

"Just what do you want him to tell me, Mrs. Lord?" Trant said softly. She stood there, looking at me, her face bleak with despair. "I know it's awful. I know how you feel. But—but it's got to be done. It's... No, maybe it hasn't. Maybe there's another way, a way which won't make it so bad for you later on."

She had turned toward the phone. For still another long moment she hesitated, then she went to it and dialed a number. "Hello. Can I speak to Mrs. Hadley, please?"

"Eve!" I exclaimed. I jumped to my feet. I took a step toward her, but before I reached her she was saying, "Mrs. Hadley? This is Eve Lord. Something's happened and I think you ought to know. Lieutenant Trant's just accused George of killing Don Saxby. He's accused him because he thinks George is the only one in the Hadley family without an alibi. This is my idea to call you, it isn't George's. I just think there might be something you want to say."

Her voice was icily calm. Somehow it had managed to paralyze not only me but Lieutenant Trant. We both watched her, keeping perfectly still. Faintly I could hear my wife's voice at the other end of the phone. Then Eve was holding the receiver out to me.

"She wants to talk to you." I took the phone. Everything seemed to be a long way off. I heard Connie's voice, very clipped and brisk. "George, is this true?"

"It's true." "Then, George, George, dear, you can't hold back any longer. You know you can't. You know Ala wouldn't want you to. Tell him."

"About Ala?" "It's too late now. We can't lie any more—any of us. We'll have to tell the truth—and face it."

"The truth, for example, about Miss Taylor?" "Miss Taylor?" said Connie. "What about Miss Taylor?"

No Remorse For Robbery Killing

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A poker-faced teen-ager who showed no remorse Sunday was charged with murder and armed robbery in the shotgun slaying of a service station attendant.

Raeford Thomas Smith, a 17-year-old with a duck tail haircut, bright red shirt and blue jeans, admitted the slaying of Clifford Eugene Chandler, 57, Mecklenburg County Police Chief Joe Whitely said. Smith, who lives in a run down shack at Rt. 7 Charlotte, was taken there Sunday by officers to get clothing the boy said he wore the night of the robbery.

A policeman told the family he had bad news, that young Smith had admitted the crime. "Rae, you couldn't have done it. Say you didn't kill anybody," screamed his mother, squeezing him close.

"Yes, I did it," the boy answered without emotion. Whitely said young Smith was picked up early Sunday for questioning in connection with a store robbery. The questioning turned to the robbery-slaying here early Friday. Whitely said Smith admitted it, and led police to a patch of woods where a .12 gauge shotgun and part of the $44 loot was recovered.

Police said Smith had been convicted twice for store breaking and larceny and had escaped twice from prison camps, the last time on Jan. 20, 1958. Chandler was found dead in the station, slumped in a sitting position. His hands were in his pockets, one grasping a .22 caliber revolver.

"Yes, I said. "Then—then what must you have thought of me? That I'd been doing it for myself? To try to make an alibi for myself? Oh, George... let me talk to the Lieutenant."

"But—" "Please, George, let me talk to the Lieutenant. I'll make him see. I'll tell him everything, but I'll make him see."

She'd make him see. Through all the conflicting thoughts and emotions, that was what came through to me the strongest. Connie being Connie!

I handed the phone to Trant. The instant I did so, Eve cried, "I had to, George, you do see, don't you?"

"Of course I see," I said. "I went to her and put my arm around her waist. We stood watching Trant while Connie made him see." He hardly said a word, just an occasional "yes" or "no." Then with a "No, not now. There's no need for you at the moment," he put the receiver back on its stand. He turned to look at me.

"So all along it's been Miss Hadley you've been protecting." "More or less," I said. The friendly smile came back again and for the first time its friendliness seemed totally without ulterior motive.

"Then I think this is the moment to tell you that in all my experience as a cop I've never met two people who lied so often and so badly as you and your wife. It's a relief to know it was in so admirable a cause. It's a comedy paid off. I apologize, Mr. Hadley, but you'll have to take my word for it that I had my reasons for accusing you."

His eyes moved from mine back to Eve. She was looking at him, her lips parted in astonishment. "Then you've known all along that George didn't do it?" "Not all along, Mrs. Lord. Until just about an hour ago. I was almost sure he was guilty. But just now when I went on with the accusation here, it was a bit phony, I admit. I was using a little pressure to squeeze out the facts. A cop on a case has to ascertain all the facts, you know. It says so in the detective's manual, page seventeen, I think."

I watched him with no feeling at all, knowing once and for all that I was never going to be able to understand him. "You mean you'd found out about Ala for yourself?" I asked. "Oh, no, Mr. Hadley. That was quite a surprise. In this case, I've turned out to be the most consistently surprised cop in the history of the New York police force."

He stubbed his cigarette in an ash tray. "You see, while I was talking to Mrs. Ross upstairs, a phone call came through from headquarters. After that even I could hardly go on believing that you were guilty, because the murder of Donald Saxby has been solved."

Staff Member Stroke Victim

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Russell A. McMullin, assistant communications officer on the White House staff, was in serious condition today from a stroke.

A spokesman at St. Joseph's Hospital said McMullin was resting comfortably but that there had been no change in his condition. McMullin, 61, was stricken Sunday while attending church a few hours before President Eisenhower flew back to Washington. McMullin has been with the White House communication-transportation section for 20 years.

Soviets Push Campaign To Sell Disarmament Plans

By STANLEY JOHNSON
MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet publicists have opened a new campaign to convince the West that complete disarmament offers it better economic opportunities than the continuation of the arms race.

The Literary Gazette this week took issue with Harvard philosopher Robert P. Wolf, who wrote the New York Times that Marx, if alive today, would say "capitalism prospers only on preparations for war whether a preparation is being carried on or not."

"Marxist-Leninists are very far from thinking that modern capitalism can prosper in any event— with or without the help of military profits," the magazine said.

Theorist Leonid Leontyev explained: "the simple truth is that capitalism is as pregnant with crisis as a cloud is with rain. Whether there is an arms race or not, crises are inevitable while capitalism exists."

But the article said that the end of the arms race, contrary to the "croaking of the arms merchants," would open up broad new prospects for increased international commerce, growing mar-

Young Governors Disagree As To Nixon's Chances

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The country's two youngest governors disagree over Vice President Richard M. Nixon's chances at the presidency.

Oregon's Republican Gov. Mark O. Hatfield, 37, believes voters in his state would choose Nixon if a presidential primary were held now.

He said he felt that both Nixon and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller "would make outstanding presidents."

But Democratic Gov. J. Howard Edmondson of Oklahoma—who appeared with Hatfield on the television panel "Meet the Press" Sunday said he thought Nixon had shown "a willingness to use tactics that are not high enough... to qualify him for the position of president of the United States."

Edmondson, 34, said he felt his party would find Rockefeller "the most difficult Republican to beat in a presidential race."

Hatfield declared that by the time his state's presidential primary is held next spring, Rockefeller could possibly carry Oregon.

Underworld Delegates To Apalachin In Court Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Twenty-three delegates to the Apalachin, N.Y., underworld convention go on trial in federal court today charged with giving evasive answers about the conclave.

The government has charged that the defendants conspired to give federal grand juries and other investigative agencies false information about the nature of the Nov. 14, 1957, meeting at the home of the late Joseph Barbara Sr.

Milton R. Wessel, special assistant to the U.S. attorney general, has marshaled more than 100 witnesses. U.S. Dist. Judge Irving R. Kaufman will preside at the trial, which is expected to take 7 to 14 weeks.

Kaufman has dismissed 90 pre-trial motions by the defense and has made it clear he expects to start selection of a jury today. There are 17 separate groups of defense lawyers.

Sixty-three men attended the Apalachin conclave, which was raided by state police. All the men were released after questioning, but the raid set off intensive investigations by state and federal grand juries, the U.S. attorney general's group to prosecute organized crime, and the State Investigation Commission.

For the most part, the convention delegates told each investigative agency the same story. They said they either were there to attend a party or to pay their respects to Barbara, who they said was sick. Barbara, 53, died after a heart attack last June 18.

Authorities have said the meeting was arranged to discuss rackets in narcotics, certain labor unions and industries.

Last May 22, a federal grand jury returned the conspiracy indictment against 27 defendants. The 36 other delegates were named as co-conspirators. Four of those named defendants have not been found.

The 23 defendants are free in bail ranging from $10,000 to $50,000 except for one, Mike Miranda, who was jailed Aug. 15, 1958, for contempt resulting from his refusal to answer questions before the State Investigation Commission.

Seek Ouster Of Fluoride Foes

ATLANTA (AP) — Leaders of the Georgia Dental Assn. have urged dentists to work for the removal of officials opposed to use of fluorides in public water systems.

A resolution adopted Sunday by the group's executive council reaffirmed for the ninth year the group's endorsement of fluoridation as a means of helping prevent tooth decay.

It said officials in some of Georgia's principal cities "continue to deprive their citizens of this time proven, safe, efficient, health measure."

The resolution urged dentists to use their influence as citizens to replace officials who continue to block fluoridation.

Shooting Ruled As Justifiable

CLAYTON, Ala. (AP)—A burly Negro wrestled a white policeman to the ground and grabbed his blackjack before the officer shot him through the head.

City Policeman Victor Sneed, about 55 and slightly built, killed Levi Williams, 48, Saturday while trying to arrest the 185-pound Negro for pulling a knife on a grocer during an argument.

The officer was commended by Sheriff William J. Adams and prosecutor Seymour Trammell, who ruled the shooting justifiable homicide. They said the policeman, flat on his back and about to be beaten, was unable to draw his pistol and fire until an unidentified passerby tried to pull the Negro off him.

Tobacco Markets In Waning Days

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Flue-cured tobacco markets of North Carolina and Virginia entered another sales week today against a background of decreasing volume caused by the waning season.

The Federal-State Market News Service reported that the North Carolina-Virginia Old Belt and the North Carolina Middle Belt showed a rise in prices last week while the big Eastern North Carolina Belt showed a price decline.

Although volume was off on the Old Belt, general prices increased with some leaf grades reporting their highest prices of the season.

The Middle Belt, with some grades showing increases of $1 to $2 per 100 pounds, sold 9,042,356 pounds averaging $56.48, up 32 cents from the previous week.

The belt sold 9,048,574 pounds averaging $57.77 last week, down 23 1/4 from the previous week.

Heavy Loss As Autos Collided

Heavy damage resulted late Saturday night when cars driven by Curtis Mack Ross of 206 Washington St. and William Walter Wingate of 203 Warren St. collided at the intersection of Fifth and Elm Sts.

Officers said Wingate, headed west on Fifth, was allegedly making a left turn onto Elm when the Ross vehicle started to pass him, causing an estimated $400 damage to the Wingate car.

Ross was charged by officers with passing at an intersection and careless and reckless driving as a result of the wreck.

Damage to the Ross car was placed at $300.

About 4 p.m. Saturday a car driven by Glenn Tyson St. address not given, allegedly backed into a parked car owned by Helen I. Grimsley, Negro, of Rich Square, at the Winn-Dixie parking lot on 10th St. causing an estimated $50 damage.

No charges were placed by investigators.

Yesterday Jessie Newborn, Negro, of Route 2 Greenville, was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and failure to report an accident after he allegedly struck a car owned by John D. Duncan, 32-year-old Negro, on Tyson St. Duncan is from Route 6, Greenville, officers said.

Damage to the Duncan car was estimated to be $35 while damage to the Newborn car was set at $20.

Sixth-Graders Mark UN Day

The sixth grade of Wahl-Coates School presented a chapel program based on the workings of the United Nations Friday in the school auditorium.

Miss Mary Thomas Smith, class teacher, said her 35 students represented the different parts of the United Nations, including some specialized agencies. During the program, students explained what U. N. Day was and explained the flag.

The United Nations prayer was offered as the devotional, Miss Smith said.

In addition to other grades of the school, many parents were present for the program.

Demonstrations At 4-H Meeting

The Winterville - Greenville 4-H Club had its October meeting at the home of Monroe Waters recently.

Fifteen members were present for the short business meeting and the demonstrations which followed. Mrs. Helen Mohan gave the girls' demonstration on "The Buying and Care of Skirts and Sweaters." Bob King gave the boy's demonstration on "Swine."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Wiley Waters, adult 4-H Club leader.

Five Arrested Here On Liquor Violations

Five Negroes were arrested in Greenville Saturday and Sunday by Pitt County ABC officers and charged with liquor-law violations.

ABC Enforcement Chief J. M. Ward said Officers H. B. Lillie and Walter Taylor, Saturday night, arrested William H. Barrett, 44, of 507 Contentnea St. on charges of illegal possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale when they found one and one-half gallons of illegal spirits in his house.

Barrett was released under a $200 bond for appearance in Greenville Recorders Court November 2.

Lillian Moye, Negro female of 1202 B. Davenport St., was charged with illegal possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale, also Saturday night, when officers found a small quantity of non-tax-booze in her possession. She was recognized by officers to appear in court November 2.

Yesterday Frank Streeter, 20, and Olivia Streeter, 26, were arrested by ABC officers when one quart of illegal liquor was found in their possession at 1400 West Fifth St.

Charged with illegal possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale, Frank was released under a $300 bond while Olivia was recognized to appear in Greenville Recorders Court

November 2.

Henry C. Ormond, 24, of Route 2, Ayden, was arrested on charges of possessing and transporting non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale when officers found six gallons of liquor on his car following a short chase yesterday.

According to Ward, Pitt officers Lillie and Taylor, accompanied by Federal ATU agents Jim Sanders, Paul Underwood, and Don Alpine, all of New Bern, spotted Ormond's 1951 model car at the intersection of 12th and Clark Sts. They pursued the vehicle to the end of Clark St. where Ormond jumped from the car and ran. He was caught by the officers after a short foot race.

A hearing for Ormond was scheduled this morning in Federal Court in New Bern.

FARMVILLE—Construction of nearly a mile of six-inch water main that will give the town an additional dozen fire hydrants is underway in Farmville after the contract was given to a Wilson firm early this month.

The project, which is costing the town about $20,000, is being done by the S. M. Cozart Construction Co. and will add the cast iron water system to three different sections of Farmville.

Some 1,600 feet of the water line will extend fire protection from N. Main St. down one block of Lang St. to Contentnea St. It will then run alongside N. Contentnea to the vicinity of Monk's storage warehouse.

On N. Wilson St. Ext., 1,500 feet of the piping will extend east from Davis Dr.

The remaining segment of the project will be installed alongside US 258 on the north side of town. It will extend 1,100 feet north from Bynum Dr.
