Piedmont Airliner Carrying 27 People Vanishes During Night

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va. (AP) - Ground parties looking for a missing airliner since Friday night with 27 persons aboard reported spotting today what may be its wreckage.

What was believed to be the crash scene was on Piney Mountain, just north of the Charlottesville Airport runway. Drizzle, fog and mist hampered searchers from reaching the area.

The Piedmont Airlines DC3 had been due to land at the airport about 8:30 o'clock last night. It was last heard from when it received landing instructions.

About 100 searchers slogged through muck and dripping underbrush during the night seeking a trace of the plane.

The plane, en route from Washington to Roanoke, Va., checked in with the local airport tower at 8:24 p.m. and received landing instructions. That was the final word. The airliner had fuel to last only until 11 p.m.

Piedmont officials released the names of the 24 passengers and identified crew members as Capt. George Lavrine, the pilot; Lee Haley, the first officer, and George Hicks, the purser. No home addresses for crew members were available immediately.

Maj. Charles A. Rausch, Civil Air Patrol commander for the central Virginia area, said between 20 and 30 fixed-wing aircraft from as far away as Massachusetts are waiting for a break in the weather to join the search. Reports of hearing a low-flying airplane trickled in from throughout a four-county central Virginia area. Rausch said as soon as two reports came from the same location the search would be centered there.

A single-engine private plane with a Piedmont pilot as observer took off at 9:30 a.m., flying beneath a ceiling that shrouded the tops of surrounding mountain peaks, to check out a report of an explosion about 25 miles north of here.

Piloting the private craft was Boyd Perry of Charlottesville. Capt. Edward Clement, the Piedmont pilot, was riding as an observer. Rausch said all branches of the military were cooperating, and the Charlottesville National Guard was called out to help in the ground search.

Two helicopters which churned through the mists and rain during the night were sent back to Ft. Eustis, Va. today. Two more helicopters were standing by waiting for clearer weather and two more were en route here.

At one time the search was centered near the hamlet of Ruckersville, about 16 miles northeast of here, after several unconfirmed reports were received of a low-flying plane and an explosion. The searchers, using special vehicles brought in from as far away as Richmond, covered an area of about 20 miles radius during the night, but planned to expand the coverage area today. A Piedmont DC3 carrying seven airline officials set out at 6:45 a.m. but was forced to return 45 minutes later because of bad flying weather. Cloudy weather and occasional rain was forecast throughout the day.

The airliner, Piedmont Flight 349, had left Washington at 7:30 p.m. When it checked in here at 8:24 p.m. it was about 20 miles and five minutes from a landing. At that time there was a 1,500-foot ceiling and 10-mile visibility. Later in the evening, as the search started a drizzle began.

The terrain around this town, home of the University of Virginia, is rolling country side. Many farms and estates and dense woods dot the area.

Tonight: Have Broom, Will Travel

WITCHES AND JACK-O-LANTERNS . . . will be on the ride tonight trick-or-treating in observance of Halloween. Many little goblins and masqueraders attended Halloween parties at local schools last night but will be on the prowl tonight. This well-dressed witch complete with jack-o-lantern was found at the Wahl-Coates School party.

Doctors Report Ike Has Bronchitis But 'In Excellent State Of Health'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's doctors today confirmed he has mild chronic bronchitis but said that otherwise he "continues to maintain an excellent state of health."

The physicians issued a medical bulletin shortly after Eisenhower checked out of Walter Reed Army Hospital where he underwent his annual physical checkup.

The 69-year-old President told reporters in Augusta, Ga., last week that he had developed chronic bronchitis during the last three years.

Today's medical bulletin said regarding Eisenhower's head-to-head examination at Walter Reed: "The results of these all inclusive studies shows that the President continues to maintain an excellent state of health, with the exception of a persistent mild tracheo-bronchitis." White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told reporters in response to questions that the medical phrase could be translated into chronic bronchitis.

Hagerty added that Eisenhower's physicians had told him that "whenever possible it would be helpful for him to get into warmer climates, preferably dry."

Responding to another question, Hagerty said Eisenhower had no present plans to go to such a climate at this time.

The President went to Palm Springs, Calif., late last month in an effort to shake a nagging cold which he had caught in early September. His health was reported improved after that visit, but he still had remnants of the cold.

Last week he spent five days in Augusta, Ga., in another search for sunshine, but the weather was miserable during most of that stay.

The President was enthusiastic about the outcome of this latest physical examination, despite the doctors' confirmation that he has chronic bronchitis.

On leaving the hospital this morning, he smiled broadly and said regarding the result: "It's so good I'd like to go back often."

Lt. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, the Army's surgeon general, called results of the checkup "the best we ever had."

The official bulletin issued later was signed by Heaton and Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, the White House physician.

"The President underwent a complete physical examination, which included barium studies of the gastro-intestinal tract and appropriate laboratory tests, at Walter Reed Army Hospital on Oct. 29-31, 1959," the bulletin said.

"The results of these all inclusive studies show that the President continues to maintain an excellent state of health, with the exception of a persistent mild tracheo-bronchitis."

Except for the statement regarding bronchitis, the medical bulletin was the same as one issued 13 months ago when Eisenhower had his 1958 physical checkup.

Since 1955, the President has suffered a heart attack, undergone surgery for ileitis, and been stricken with a mild stroke. All of these major illnesses occurred in a little more than two years.

Prior to each the President had undergone a head-to-toe physical examination which produced official medical reports that he was in excellent health.

Shift To Missile Defense In Europe Near Complete

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Western powers apparently have practically completed a shift in European defense emphasis from bombers to missiles. Two developments make this clear:

1. The United States has agreed to close down its four air bases and one naval base in Morocco.

2. The United States has reached an agreement with Turkey to set up an intermediate-range Jupiter missile base in that country, strategically located on Russia's border.

The issue of the American air bases in Moroccan soil has been politically explosive since the little North African kingdom gained its independence in 1956.

The Moroccans have long wanted the American forces withdrawn. The State Department announced that plans for the withdrawal have been presented to the Moroccan prime minister.

Negotiations for the missile base in Turkey, which will offset the loss of the Moroccan bases, have been underway for some time. Formal agreement was announced Friday.

The abandonment of the air bases follows a change in strategy that began in December, 1957.

The Allied high command at that time decided to gradually shift emphasis from bombers, now becoming obsolete in the missile age, to rockets capable of carrying nuclear warheads.

Two Jupiter bases are being set up in Italy. Four squadrons of the $1,500-mile Thor missiles are being delivered to Great Britain.

The Pentagon said Friday it was cutting down the number of Europe-bound Thor squadrons from five to four. The four in Britain remained unchanged. The fifth was to have gone to another country.

But France and West Germany have balked at having these missile bases established on their soil. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has made pointed threats about countries that harbor Allied missile bases. Greece also was approached, but nothing came of it.

This probably was a factor in the cutting down of the number of Thor squadrons.

The bomber bases overseas cost many millions of dollars and in the postwar years were an essential part of the Allied defenses. But the medium range B47 bombers they were set up for are being out of date.

Bomber bases will be maintained, however, in Spain and England.

At the same time the United States is steadily increasing its force of B52 intercontinental bombers, which can be based in this country.

These bombers, the mainstay of the Strategic Air Command, eventually will be replaced by missiles. But until the intercontinental missiles are perfected, they remain an important defense requirement.

The use of the B52 also cut down the need for maintaining air bases in Europe and the Mediterranean area.

Khrushchev, in his wide ranging speech, dwelt on the easing of tension which he attributed largely to countries of the Communist camp.

He said there are still tensions around the world-in the Middle East, Near East, Far East and Europe-but they were not as bad as they were.

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union's line was to lessen international tension, mitigate the cold war and consolidate peace among the people. He said the situation used to be so tense that a spark would have touched off worldwide fire.

The "big stick" policy was pursued by some circles and some governments, he said. Some called it a policy of liberation, others called it "rollback," while others called it a policy of "ousting," he said, but in fact it was all one.

6. He called for withdrawal of foreign troops from South Korea to speed unification of the country.

7. He declared the Soviet Union desired that not even the "minute hotbed of war" should remain in Laos and said foreign countries ought not to interfere because of possible "undesirable results."

Khrushchev's wife, Nina, sat in the great Kremlin Hall with his eldest daughter, Julia, to hear the Premier speak. Both wore plain black dresses.

Be-Kind-To-Ghosts Night Is With Us

NEW YORK (AP)—This Halloween if you meet a ghost in a willed winding sheet, barely able to muster a boo, be charitable.

Among American apparitions, the old spirit just isn't there anymore. They try. Every so often you read a newspaper account of mysterious rappings somewhere or other, but it's a timid effort.

The truth is, modern living and its capsule comfort have taken the starch out of the spook who needs plenty of room to display his specialties.

What does a haunt want? A huge, gloomy, rambling house. Shattered windowpanes. Clattering shutters. Staircases with squeaking steps. Rat-infested attic.

Moldy cellar. Sprawling grounds overgrown with weeds and bushes. Great, brooding trees beating branches against the roof.

What does a haunt get? Carpet with ranch-type house attached. Tiny, trim yard dominated by barbecue grill too puny to keep the smallest imp comfortably toasted. If there's a basement, it's filled with table tennis equipment and automatic washer, enough to dampen any blithe spirit.

That's why life, as it were, is so ghastly for the ghostly.

For one thing, you can't expect a spectre to do without stairs. Consider the humiliation of an apparition doomed to haunt a single-level house after a successful career of terrorizing households with his slogging up and down, up and down flights of stairs all night long.

And what about the playful phantom who likes to peek-a-boo out of closets? Assuming he locates one—no mean feat in some cottages—likely as not he can't find hovering room in the jam-packed cubbyhole, no matter how thinly he spreads his ectoplasm.

The status-seeking shade who penetrates a penthouse becomes dispirited soon enough. He can't even find pots and pans to rattle. In ultramodern kitchens, built-ins and sliding panels carefully conceal evidence of cookery, completely mystifying even the ghost brought up on secret passageways and hidden doors of medieval castles.

And if all this weren't enough to move a wraith to wrath, modern technology is foiling the tried and true tricks of the trade.

Bloodstains that couldn't be scrubbed out used to send the tidy housewife into hysterics. But with today's miracle detergents, you

Uncle Says 'No'

RALEIGH (AP)—Two laws passed by the 1959 Legislature get at the problem of unwed mothers receiving welfare aid for dependent children have been knocked out by Uncle Sam.

Rulings from the U.S. Commissioner of Health, Education and Welfare that the laws conflicted with federal provisions killed the state laws.

One would have required district solicitors to keep names of unwed mothers receiving the welfare money, and to see that the women used the funds for support of the children. It was sponsored by Rep. Rachel Davis of Lenoir County and Sen. Wilbur Jolly of Franklin.

The other would have permitted county boards of welfare to supervise the spending of the money to assure it went for the proper purpose. Rep. Hubert Humphrey of Guilford was author of the measure.

The state attorney general's office advised the State Board of Welfare to ignore the laws after federal authorities advised federal money for aid to dependent children would be cut off if they were enforced.

Nikita Pushes Early Summit Meet In Speech

MOSCOW, (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev said today that President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Macmillan agreed with him that there should be a summit conference "the sooner the better."

In a major foreign policy speech before the rubberstamp Soviet parliament, Khrushchev made no direct reference to French President De Gaulle's suggestion the conference be held off until spring.

But the Soviet leader predicted that his forthcoming visit to France would be useful for France, for the Soviet Union and for world peace.

Wearing a gray suit with his usual medals, Khrushchev was widely cheered in his 1 hour 41 minute speech covering the whole international range.

Disarmament is the most important problem of the present day and its settlement depends whether there will be war or peace. The Soviets want complete disarmament but are willing to consider other proposals.

2. The Soviet Union supports Red China's determination to take Formosa "until the question is solved."

3. "We regret the incidents on the Indian-Chinese frontier, especially where they involved casualties and we hope they will not be repeated. We hope the difficulties will be solved by negotiations."

4. His visit to the United States convinced him the majority of Americans do not want war and he feels they now understand better the Soviet desire for peace.

Pitt Dedicates Building Sunday

Dedication ceremonies for Pitt County's new mental health building have been scheduled for Sunday afternoon at 2:30 with Rep. Walter Jones of Farmville delivering the dedicatory address.

The building, built in 1958, will bear the name of the late Dr. Walter Cowden Humbert who served Pitt County as Health Director from September, 1952, to August, 1957.

The modern structure is situated on the 17-acre site containing Pitt Memorial Hospital and the Pitt County Health Building.

Equipped with an assembly room, private conference and treatment rooms, and a reception lounge, the one-floor structure was built by cooperation of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners and the state of North Carolina.

Sunday's program includes, along with Jones' address an invocation by Lt. Walter Norris of the Greenville Salvation Army, plaque presentations by Dr. M. W. Aldridge of Greenville, a prayer by the Rev. Mr. Richard R. Gammon of Greenville's First Presbyterian Church, and the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Herbert C. Gravely of St. Johns (Grifton) and St. James Episcopal Churches.

Chairman Robert L. Martin of the County Commissioners will preside at the ceremony and Dr. Georgia V. Mills, Pitt Health Director, will receive the plaques from Dr. Aldridge in behalf of the Health Department.

Open house is scheduled for 3:30 to allow guests to inspect the new county building. Refreshments will be served.

High Court Will Hear T-H Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court has agreed to hear the United Steelworkers Union's appeal of a Taft-Hartley law injunction that would send the striking steelworkers back to work for 80 days.

This means the 109-day-old strike will continue at least until next week, when the court makes its decision on whether to let the injunction stand. The court set Tuesday for oral arguments.

The high court's action Friday was a triumph for the union, which is attacking the basic constitutionality of the Taft-Hartley strike-ending procedures. This process has never had a review by the Supreme Court in its 12 years of existence.

The government contends the strike is affecting national health and safety. It fought the union's request for a review, saying the constitutional arguments are "clearly without merit" and "there is no need for further review by this court."

If the Supreme Court had declined to hear the case, it would have left standing the ruling of a Philadelphia appeals court that the injunction is legal and valid. The appeals court had upheld the original decision of a Pittsburgh federal judge who issued the injunction.

But the appeals court, while ruling against the union, allowed the strike to continue until the union could take the issue to the highest court. The nine justices now have extended this period of grace until they had down their rulings.

The union wants the strike to continue because it feels it is at least beginning to hurt the big steel companies badly. Union President David J. McDonald argues that the companies refuse to make concessions to the union because they think they'll be taken off the hook by the Taft-Hartley injunction.

Arrangements have been made with W. E. (Bill) Horner, publisher of the Sanford Herald, and the only bona fide working newspaper man in the party, to provide a daily letter to all member papers in the N. C. Association of Afternoon Dailies.

His stories will cover interesting personal sidelights on doings of the Tarheels on tour, as well as the important industry-promoting developments, and report on economic and social conditions in the area visited.

It is expected that these subjects will be treated in lighter vein, rather than as heavy studies in economics and philosophy. The articles should make interesting reading.

Hunger, Disease Threats Facing Area Of Disaster

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Twin threats of hunger and disease hung over thousands of survivors in the hurricane and flood-stricken Mexican States of Colima and Jalisco today.

Officials feared the final death count from Tuesday's giant storm, and the floods that followed may reach 1,500. More than 500 bodies already have been recovered.

Large sections of the disaster area are still isolated. High waters blocked roads to many outlying villages, and residents had to depend on air drops by light planes and helicopters for food and medical supplies.

Tent villages were hastily thrown up to take care of the injured and homeless in the two hardest hit communities—the Pacific port of Manzanillo and the mining town of Minatitlan.

Dr. Javier de la Riva, an official of the Federal Health Ministry, estimated that at least 800 of Minatitlan's 1,350 residents had been killed. A large part of the town, 24 miles northwest of the state capital of Colima, was buried under mountain slides.

Officials said nearly 300 bodies had been counted in Manzanillo, where an estimated 60 per cent of the homes were crushed by the storm. The port city has a population of 15,000.

Medical teams inoculated long lines of Manzanillo residents for tetanus and typhoid. They gave vaccine injections to many others who had been stung by scorpions. Thousands of scorpions were driven from their nests in flood-crumbled adobe walls.

First-Hand Report On Safari To Europe

Readers of The Daily Reflector and other afternoon newspapers will have the benefit of first-hand on-scene reports of happenings when the industry-hunting safari led by Governor Hodges invades England and Western Europe.

Baptist Youth Congress To Conduct Retreat Here

The Baptist Youth Congress of the Old Eastern Missionary Baptist Association is sponsoring a Baptist Youth Retreat, to be held at the Corner Stone Baptist Church in Greenville November 6-8.

One of the highlights of the program is a talent program to be presented at the C. M. Eppe High School Auditorium, Friday Night November 6.

Several talents will be featured including will be Mr. Fulton Fryar, Baritone. Mr. Fryar is former student of the Segle Music Colony School, New York. Also will be featured Mr. Nathaniel Moore of the H. B. Suggs High School in Farmville and the Going Sisters in Greenville. Several other personalities in the out of the City of Greenville will be presented. This talent program is being sponsored for Shaw University.

The Theme for the Retreat is "STRENGTHENING OUR CHRISTIAN FAITH THROUGH LEARNING SERVICE AND WHOLESOME LIVING." Minister and consultant of the Retreat will be the Rev. Robert Miller, youth pastor of the First Baptist Church in Versailles, Kentucky. Rev. Miller serves on the summer school staff at the University of Kentucky and is currently working on his advanced degree on Philosophy at the same school. Rev. Miller is known for his work with young people and has had wide experience as a Baptist Minister in the South.

Dr. C. H. Hamlin, Professor of History at the Atlantic Christian College in Wilson will speak Saturday at 2 o'clock November 7th. Rev. John Taylor, youth pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist Church near Greenville will officiate at the 3 o'clock service Sunday afternoon. Rev. Taylor will also officiate at the Holy Communion.

A large group of young people and adults leaders from several Churches and Colleges will be represented. The Public is urged to attend all sessions.

Intergroup AA Meeting To Be Held On Sunday

The monthly Intergroup Meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous will be held Sunday at 4 p.m. in Austin Auditorium in Austin Building at East Carolina College. The meeting is open to the public.

The scheduled speaker is from Richmond, Va., and will be introduced by the master of ceremonies from Goldsboro.

There are now 60,000 known problem drinkers in North Carolina. A report says most of the crime, automobile accidents and divorces indicate unrestrained use of alcohol somewhere in their histories.

Excessive use of alcohol in the country causes more absenteeism from work than the current steel strike, the report said. Alcoholism is America's fourth ranking disease and with accompanying heart, kidney, and liver disorders brought on by it account for more deaths than any other human ailment, according to the report.

Little Attention Given To Castro

MOSCOW (AP)—It may be because the moon-voyage accomplishments of Lunik III and Soviet parliament activities take up most of the space, but Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro's latest attacks against the United States aren't getting any play in the Soviet press.

Another possible explanation is the continued existence of surface warmth toward America as a result of Premier Nikita Khrushchev's recent U.S. trip.

Americans consumed an estimated 32 billion bottles of soft drinks in 1958, an average of 184.7 per person.

Which of these Babies is J. D.?

This is the nursery of a large metropolitan hospital. Six times a day these precious bundles visit their happy mamas. And every night their proud papas gaze at them through the glass. Nurses watch over them constantly. Doctors examine them daily.

But the statistics in the files of the police department cast a black shadow over this innocent scene. For one of these babies is J.D.

J.D. is short for a juvenile delinquent. And from police records and census figures we can estimate the proportion of new-born infants who will become juvenile delinquents in ten to twenty years. The one factor that threatens the accuracy of our calculations is that juvenile delinquency is increasing.

There are just two ways to deal with the problem. One is to enlarge our jails. The other is to give every child's spiritual well-being the same thorough attention that this hospital gives his physical well-being.

Is yours a church-going family? Is yours a religious home?

Winter Weddings Announced

MISS JEANETTE HARRIS . . . is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman E. Harris of Rt. 1, Winterville, who announce her engagement to Homer Lee Hardee, son of Mrs. Helen Hardee of Rt. 2, Ayden, and the late Mr. Hardee. The wedding will take place December 27.

MISS BETTY LOU EASTWOOD . . . is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Eastwood of Greenville, who announce her engagement to Francis Durwood Tyson, son of Mrs. G. T. Tyson Sr. of Greenville and the late Mr. Tyson. The wedding will take place December 4.

Flye-Strickland Marry In Church

SMITHFIELD—Miss Charlotte Grace Strickland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Lewis Strickland of Smithfield, and Robert Earl Flye of Statesville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lester Flye of Greenville, were united in marriage last Saturday afternoon. The ceremony was solemnized in the Sardis Baptist Church.

Chaplain James Clayton Rittenhouse of Norfolk, Va., brother-in-law of the groom, assisted by the Rev. Glen Holt, pastor of Sardis Baptist Church, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Prior to the ceremony an interlude of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Roland D. Godwin, cousin of the bride, pianist, James Piver of Greenville and Newton Grove sang "I Love Thee," "Because," and as the benediction "The Wedding Prayer."

The church decorations consisted of palms, bridal arch, candelabra holding white burning tapers and floor baskets of white gladioli.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of Chantilly lace over tulle and taffeta. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a sabrina neckline. Her long sleeves of lace tapered into calla lily points over the hands, and the bodice closed at the back with a row of tiny self-covered buttons. Her ballerina veil of haberdolled French illusion was attached to a horseshoe crown of tulle and lace outlined with sequins and pearls.

She carried a white lace covered prayer book topped with a purple-throated orchid and showered with stampanotis and dainty ribbon streamers. Mrs. George Truitt Wheelock of Smithfield was her cousin's matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a waltz length gown of mist green chiffon over taffeta with a matching picture hat and mitts. She carried a cascade bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums.

Richard Ira Flye of Havelock, brother of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Alton Fletcher Flye of Dover, Del., brother of the groom; Charles Barfield Lewis of Greenville, brother-in-law of the groom; Hugh Kenneth Oliver of Clinton and George Truitt Wheelock of Smithfield, cousins of the bride.

The mother of the bride chose for her daughter's wedding a royal blue dress with matching accessories and a corsage of Bettertime roses.

The bridegroom's mother wore an Elizabethan blue lace dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was of Bettertime roses.

After the ceremony the bridal couple greeted guests in the church foyer. Later they left for a North-carolina wedding trip, after which they will be at home in Statesville.

Following the bride's departure, the bride wore a two-piece ensemble of brown tweed with a milk collar. She used matching accessories and wore the orchid lifted from the prayer book.

Mrs. Flye was graduated from Princeton High School and East Carolina College where she received her B. S. degree in Primary Education. She is a candidate for her M. A. degree next spring. Presently she is on the faculty of Harmony School in Irredell County.

The groom graduated from Greenville High School and East Carolina College with a degree in business administration. He is now employed with the State and Federal Health Department.

The parents of the bride entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests at a cake cutting at their home immediately following rehearsal Friday night.

The home was decorated with arrangements of fall flowers and candles. The focal point was the dining table, which was covered with a lace cutwork cloth over mist green. The centerpiece was an epergne arrangement of Fuji chrysanthemums and pom poms and white tapers tied of tulle and satin ribbons. The punch bowl was encircled with ivy and lilies-of-the-valley. On the opposite end of the table was the three-tiered wedding cake.

Following traditional cutting of the first slice of cake by the bridal couple, Mrs. Woodrow Strickland cut the cake and Mrs. Charles Barfield Lewis, sister of the groom, served punch.

World Community Day Set For Friday

Mrs. Keith Holmes, president of the United Church Women of Greenville, has announced that World Community Day will be observed Friday, Nov. 6, at 10:30 a.m. at the First Presbyterian Church.

The theme which is world-wide in its scope will be "Full Partners For Peace." The Rev. Terry W. Agner, minister of the United Lutheran Mission, will be the speaker for the occasion.

World Community Day is one of three annual observances held under the auspices of the United Church Women of the National Council of Churches of Christ. The other two are World Day of Prayer held in the early spring and May Fellowship Day.

Each year on the first Friday in November United Church Women through their local councils across the nation seek to increase understanding of the essentials for a peaceful world and to promote sharing of resources to meet urgent needs. The ultimate goal is to make the world neighborhood a brotherhood of all peoples.

The 1959 study will highlight the newly independent countries, the changing role of women, and the responsibility of the church in these areas. The new project this year is assistance to the women in Ghana to help them build a women's training center in Accra.

In the South Sea Islands continued support will be given to Women's Affairs Consultant Miss Marjorie Stewart and her staff who are working to develop new patterns to help women in those areas of rapid social changes. Education in international affairs and support of United Nations will move forward as church women express their concern on World Community Day.

All worshippers attending this service on November 6 are reminded to bring their "Parcels for Peace." In addition to the usual offering a special request is being made for clothing for babies and Executive Board, W.S.C.S. A called meeting of the Executive Board of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church will be held Monday afternoon, Nov. 2, at 2 o'clock in the Church Parlor. The purpose of the meeting is to consider a work project for the Church Building Fund. Every member is urged to attend.

Youth Help UNICEF

By CRAIG WORTHINGTON The Greenville Council of the United Christian Youth Movement plans to sponsor a UNICEF "trick or treat" project tonight. While dressed in traditional Halloween costumes, youths from the various member churches will collect money for this United Nations charity instead of collecting goodies for themselves. They will carry special jars with stickers identifying them.

The over-all leaders for this event include the officers of the U.C.Y.M. They are Reggie Johnson, president; Myrtle Moon Bilbro, vice president; Alice Walters, secretary; Erskine Duff, treasurer; and Betsy Bryant, publicity chairman.

Guilid Presents Program Representing the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild, William Knowles yesterday spoke to the Rose High School boys in the bandroom. Through the use of a filmstrip, he showed how the cars of the future will look and also some of the cars that are being tested today. He then gave each boy an application blank for the 1959-60 Guild car design contest. He stated that the winners of this contest will share $42,000 in scholarships.

Seniors Complete Sales The seniors this week announced the results of their recent stationery sales. Homeromms 109, Mrs. Elizabeth L. Mims; and 111, James D. Nickolson; were high salesmen for the sales, defeating homeromms 107, Miss Estelle Greene; and 105, George McRorie, respectively. Charles Taft served as overall chairman for these sales. Homerom chairmen included Ginny James and Goldis Starling, 109; Frances Clark and Frances Moseley, 105; Gail Stencil and Roger Hollingsworth, 107; and Lawrence Davenport and Bobbie Newman, 111.

Colorful Accessories Add 'Splash' To Bath

Don't neglect the bathroom if you are refreshing your home for the coming indoor season. Even if the permanent fixtures and tiles are in good condition, many of the smaller accessories undoubtedly will need some attention.

Check over your linen supplies first. Replace those that are thin and getting ragged. If a large number need replacing, this would be the time to introduce a fresh color scheme to the room.

It isn't difficult. Since many wall areas are being done in neutral or soft tones now, your accessories could easily establish the predominant color theme. Today, guest and bath towels, face cloths, mats and shower curtains come in a wide selection of colors to meet various decorating plans. They are being color coordinated, too.

After choosing the larger accessories, consider the colors for your bathroom and facial tissues, tumblers and other holders. These are important, little articles that will mark you as a discriminating home decorator.

Remember, though, no single color need be carried out in all of the accessories. Bathroom decorating trends today lean toward the two-tone effect in small rooms, one dominant and the other a soft pastel. In larger bathrooms you can successfully combine three colors.

Just As Unhappy As The Single

By DOROTHY ROE Associated Press Women's Editor Girls who get married sometimes are just as unhappy as those who don't, says Rona Jaffe, who looks like a teen-ager and writes like Boccaccio.

After writing about the love lives of New York secretaries in her sensational first book, "The Best of Everything," Rona is at work on her second, concerned with marriage and to be titled "Away From Home."

The first book catapulted this schoolgirlish beauty into fame, fortune, a movie sale and 5,000 proposals of marriage. "Of course I didn't take any of them seriously," says Rona. "Obviously they were mostly from lunatics. They came from all kinds of people — lots of college professors, doctors, lawyers and misunderstood husbands. At first I tried to answer them all, but now I've given up."

The setting of Rona's new book is Rio de Janeiro, where she investigated the modes and mores of Americans living away from home. "I'd never been any place out of the country before, but all of a

Another Achievement In Farmville

Since its beginning three years ago, Farmville's Economic Council has succeeded in bringing four new industries to that Pitt County town and there can be no doubt that others will follow.

Such a record is one of which officials of the Farmville organization and the citizens of Farmville who support the Economic Council can be justly proud. It is one which has changed the economic outlook for Farmville and one which is rapidly changing the face of Farmville.

This week Farmville announced its latest new plant, a wire fabricating firm, which will begin operations with about 10 employees and eventually hire 50 or more workers. Several weeks ago Farmville announced a garment-making firm would be located there and already the pilot plant for this concern is in operation, employing about 40 women now. Eventually the plant is expected to employ 200 or more people in its production operations.

In addition the Formica Flakeboard plant has been in operation employing upwards of 100 people and the Farmer's Cooperative Exchange has announced plans for a major grain storage facility in Farmville that will further boost the town's industrial employment.

Collectively these four firms add more than 300 industrial jobs in Farmville, and with anticipated expansion will mean a considerably greater number in the future.

These new jobs, in turn, have created other new jobs in the community in other phases of business activity. They have brought about an economic growth unprecedented in the community's history.

It is important too, that this growth which Farmville has enjoyed in recent years has been promoted by the citizens of the town itself through their combined efforts in the Economic Council. Farmville, through its development program, has set an excellent example of what a community can do when it determines to use the resources it has and the energies of its people to promote itself economically.

The citizens of Farmville, and the leaders of its Economic Council are to be commended for this most recent in their series of achievements.

Rather Odd Twist In Beaufort Vote Trend

While people of Pitt County Tuesday were trickling to the polls in small numbers to express themselves on the state-wide bond issues, voters in our neighboring county of Beaufort were also going to the polls to vote on the state bond issues and a county-wide school bond issue of their own.

The result of the Beaufort County vote was interesting, to say the very least.

Citizens in Beaufort County voted in favor of six of the nine state-wide issues, opposing only those pertaining to armories, a port at Southport and funds for historical sites. At the same time they defeated a million dollar county bond issue which would have been used for school construction in their own county.

Obviously there is no connection between the state-wide bond issues for educational institutions, community colleges and the like, and the Beaufort County bond issue which would have provided for public schools. Even so, it appears somewhat unusual that citizens of a county would be heavily in favor of spending money for improvements to colleges and universities around the state and at the same time opposed to capital improvements for public schools in their own neighborhoods.

The public school system of the state, after all, is the backbone of the whole educational structure. If the educational system at the local level lacks the support it needs, higher education in the state, regardless of how much money is poured into it, is bound to suffer in the long run.

Stassen's Hard Times Not Over

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—Harold Stassen has had a hard time selling whatever it is he thinks he has to offer.

He's more than just a hard man to discourage. He's a hard man to embarrass. And it doesn't necessarily follow that because he said something yesterday he will be saying the same thing today.

He's been trying for office ever since 1944, three times for the presidency. Then he aimed at the governorship of Pennsylvania. Always his Republican party refused to nominate him.

At last this year he got the Republican endorsement to run for the job of Richardson Dilworth, a Democrat and mayor of Philadelphia. This is quite a come-down for a man who panted for the White House.

It doesn't mean his ambition has dwindled. If he became mayor and got control of the Pennsylvania Republican organization and through that would win the governorship later, he'd be in a spot to try for the presidency in 1964.

Yet, if anyone looks washed up in national politics it's Stassen. As much as a political party can hit a man with the back of its hand, Stassen was hit in 1956 when he tried to prevent Vice President Richard M. Nixon's renomination.

Stassen was a pathetic political sight that year. He not only got no support that counted but wound up in a situation which to another man might have been unbearably humiliating; at the convention he seconded Nixon's nomination.

His 1956 repudiation, plus the other times his party had ignored his own personal ambitions, did not seem to dent him at all.

In 1958 he was back on the anti-Nixon theme again.

This time, after a conference with President Eisenhower, he walked out on the White House steps and announced he might run for the Republican presidential nomination in 1960 if only to stop Nixon from getting it.

That was in March 1958. Two months later this man, who was thinking in terms of a presidential race in 1960, sought but

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
SO MUCH TO THANKFUL

The famous British poet William Wordsworth tells of an experience he had had as a young man. He was walking alone across the moor one day in a black mood. Think of the uncertain future and how little assurance he had of making a living by his poetry to keep himself from poverty, he became very much discouraged.

Presently he met an old man. Engaging him in conversation, he discovered that this aged and infirm man kept himself alive by catching leeches—still used by physicians at that time—in pools, a very precarious livelihood at best. The old man was alone in the world and had no one to care for him. But most remarkable of all, he was happy and cheerful.

To understand the uplifting effect this experience had on Wordsworth, one must read the poem "Resolution and Independence." A great deal of the effect evidently came from his realization that determination and strength of mind can produce happiness under almost any circumstances.

But part of the uplift which the poet experienced on this occasion undoubtedly came from his sudden consciousness of how much he had to be thankful for in comparison with the old man: youth, vigor, education, opportunity—a life before him to make of what he would.

We all have many blessings—often taken for granted—that ought to help make us happy indeed.

Don't Bother Trying Hypnotism

By DON SCHLIENZ Big Man With A Horn

This brash young cat was filling me in with a rundown of his musical favorites (all rock-'n'-roll). Being the polite-type, I listened.

He was working pretty well down into a list of his "top fifty" when he paused. "I forgot," he said, "you don't like good music."

So I walked out mumbling to myself.

It's been on my mind for some time, now. And when it was announced Louis Armstrong was going to play here for a dance Tuesday night, I toyed with the idea of shoeing my R&R addict over to Raynor and Forbes warehouse so Armstrong could do a job of converting him.

Financing that operation proves to be impractical. The lad will just have to live on in the error of his ways.

But about this trumpet man: It's true to say, but you can call Louis Armstrong a living legend and be one hundred percent correct. He has been playing a horn since before he was in his teens, and people who know jazz call "Satch" the greatest single figure in that field.

The Armstrong trumpet has played for a thousand recordings, for uncounted (uncountable?) dances and concerts, and has been heard often on radio and television as well as in a number of motion pictures.

He has been just about anywhere and everywhere an audience could be found.

As a musician, Armstrong is known for extraordinary ability as both an improviser and as a master of his instrument.

True, some of his passages go beyond my ken; but my musical ear has its shortcomings.

At Tuesday night's dance, the lucky, happy people are going to hear some of the music Louis Armstrong played to fame.

A souvenir program reached my desk Friday, and a list of numbers was included. Understandably, the publishers were baffled by Satch's free-swinging style, so in printing the list they added a note to explain that "due to the ad lib quality of this music no formal program is possible. It is likely however, that the following numbers will be heard."

Well, the list is a long one; but some of the highlights include: Indiana, High Society, Struttin' With Some Barbecue, St. Louis Blues, Ain't Misbehavin', Rockin' Chair, St. James Infirmary Blues, Sleepy Time Down South, Kiss To Build A Dream On, Baby It's Cold Outside, Mack The Knife, Saints Go Marching In, Confessin', Blueberry Hill, Margie, Muskrat Ramble . . . It just goes on and on.

One more thing: A warehouse just doesn't have the acoustics of a theater, and there'll be as many people there to listen as there are to dance. So when Louis lifts his horn, and leans back to blow—yell softly, please. This is an artist at work and his fans want to listen.

"A headline reads: Woman President Seen Possible In '59. Well, that should give her time to dress for the occasion."—Atlanta Constitution.

"The average man now lives 32 years longer than he did in 1800. He has to, in order to get his bills paid."—Carlsbad Current-Argus.

"Senators object that elevators in the new Senate office building don't get them where they're going fast enough. Which also may be true, however, of some of their windier speeches."—Chicago Tribune.

"The long and painful history of mankind demonstrates that the use of force wielded by some against others, is a poor policy. We do not make others better by compelling them. Goodness comes from within. It is never imposed from without."—Lima (Ohio) News.

"One story we like had Nikita take one look at the Washington Monument, turn back to Ike and say: 'You'll never get it off the ground.'"—Placentia (Calif.) Courier.

Forecasts Of Business Trends

By ELMER ROESSNER
Here are new business forecasts, based on analyses of developing trends:

A pay-TV spurge. The networks have followed the ground for their pay-TV promoters are in position to point out that such shenanigans would not be possible under pay systems—and they will use that position effectively.

Crackdown on jewelry egypt. Better Business Bureaus have been intensifying work against phony jewelry dealers and auctioneers. Now that their lush season is approaching, BBB's in many cities are preparing to cry copper on phony deals.

Higher fire insurance rates. Spread of housing and shopping centers in suburbs is pushing more and more structures farther away from fire stations, mains and hydrants. The total risk is rising and will be gradually reflected in fire insurance rates in the next few years.

HEAVY PROFIT TAKING
Great activity on the stock market is immediately ahead. Recent price dips are compelling investors to realize losses by selling depressed stocks, thereby offsetting 1959 gains for tax purposes.

Agitation over steel. This forecast is so important it belongs higher up in this column. The steel strike has paved the way for two demands: nationalization of the steel industry, and the declaration that the industry is a public utility, subject to the same limitations as gas, electric and water companies.

Neither program will get very far, although nationalization may be urged by some of the New Dealish factions of the Democratic Party. The public-utility idea may get a little further, but there is no serious chance of either getting far until after two more strikes like this year's.

OLD PROMOTER PROPOSES TV ROOM IN EVERY HOME
"If we want to get the housing boom on the road again," the Old Promoter began when he dropped in today.

Doctor During The Day

By SY RAMSEY
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—By day Dr. Charles Pearce is a dignified general practitioner.

By night, he composes music at a piano "when the beatnik in me comes out."

"It's a mood swing," he says. "Sometimes I feel real low and start emphasizing the minor chords. Other times I feel great and the music comes out bubbling."

Four years ago Pearce found he would improve the musical ditties of his Little Theater group.

"Then a pickle company paid me 50 bucks for a television commercial," he says. "I guess I got in the groove after that."

Not quite. His first commercial song, "I've Never Been in Love Before," was a dud.

But that didn't discourage Pearce or his lyricist, housewife Wanda Reevever. When the doctor got a melody idea he played it over the telephone on tape to Wanda, who called him back with the lyrics.

They composed "Flip Kitten" and "Blue Jean Pop." This effort took the mild-mannered physician into the strange world of A & R (Artists and Repertoire).

"The trouble with those songs is they aren't bad enough," an A&R man advised.

Pearce correctly translated this to mean the melodies were too pretty and the lyrics intelligible.

"We butchered the record and he asked us to make just a little worse," the physician says. "We did, and the record went over."

Pearce says the trend now is toward songs that aren't too bad, and he has two ready.

"When" and "Are You Really in Love?" have been recorded by a well known singer and are scheduled for release this fall.

"If they go over, I've arrived," Pearce says.

Pearce, 36, played piano with college bands, but composed songs solely for his campus dates. Now the early listening is done by wife Clare and four daughters.

After nine years of medical practice Pearce views himself as "what people call a nice doctor, someone who listens to you sympathetically."

After four years as a tunesmith Pearce is reaching for Hollywood.

"But even if I get there," he said, "I'll still be a doctor in the daytime."

The Public Forum

To The Editor — On page eight of the Daily Reflector, Oct. 28, I read an article with the title: CAN TELL ABOUT TRISKAIDEPHOBIA.

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—Ever heard of Triskaidephobia?

My answer, to the above question, is that nobody heard and nobody will hear of such a word because there isn't any in existence in the annals of the lexicon, either in the modern Hellenic language except in the writer's mind, of this faulty synthesized word.

The printed synthesis of this word is: TRISKAIDEPHOBIA, meaning—THIRCE KAI, conjunction, meaning—AND DEKA or DECA, number—TEN (PHOBOS—PHOBIA, noun, meaning—FEAR.

The correct synthesis ought to be: DECATHOPHOBIA, which means the fear that some superstitious or scrupulous people have for the number 13 especially if it happens to be on Friday 13th.

Sincerely yours,
Nicholas J. Sideris

Quote . . .

"We have swollen government, socialistic government, and paternal government. It devours taxes, even as it discourages and sometimes destroys taxpaying private enterprise. That's one of the big reasons why taxes, direct and indirect, take about 30 percent of our income." — Blackstone (Va.) Courier-Record.

"Wait a minute!" we shouted. "That's no place for a housing boom. Let's get it off the road and on to the vacant lots."

He grinned. That was the time he gave me a cigar.

"The idea is to build a television room into every house. The set could be mounted on a stage in front of a room about 10 by 12 feet. The room would be filled with comfortable seats—about 12 well-padded ones would fit. The wall behind the set could be a projection screen, and at the other end of the room would be an elevation for a movie and color slide projector.

"The screen could be used for projected television when the industry gets off its conference chairs and produces it. The room could also have built-in speakers for stereophonic music. And the television set could be a lectern too, so that the father could lead his family in prayer every morning."

If that won't sell houses, we said, nothing will.

SCOTLAND NECK — Greenville's Phantoms continued to blaze a comeback trail last night, scoring almost at will in knocking off Scotland Neck, 28-6, of the Albemarle Conference.

Alan McArthur, the fleet-footed halfback that leads the Phantom offense, proved to be too much for the Fighting Scots, reeling off a couple of touchdowns in leading Rose High to their third consecutive victory.

Greenville took the kickoff and immediately sounded warning of their night's intentions, driving 56 yards for a touchdown. With Erskine Duff directing a balanced attack, the Phants picked up three first downs enroute to their first score.

McArthur registered the first score by scooting over from seven yards out on a crucial fourth down situation. Larry Roberts booted the extra point and Greenville was off to the races.

Two fumbles ended two more scoring drives by Greenville but the Phants kept coming back and added another tally just prior to the half. McArthur's 19 yard run highlighted the second scoring march which saw Robin Wilfong buck over from the Scotland Neck six. Roberts' kick was again true and Greenville led at halftime 14-0.

Greenville sewed up the contest in the third period with their third touchdown. McArthur swept the Scotland Neck ends with consistency and carried to the SN 44 in three plays.

The swivel-hipped halfback finished the drive from that point by finding daylight and going 44 yards for a touchdown. Larry Roberts booted the point after touchdown and it was 21-0.

With Greenville reserves in the game, Scotland Neck took advantage of several penalties to move for their line score. Dan Brady scored from the six and the extra point attempt failed.

Duff, taking to the air only a few times, tested his arm in final period and found Bert Aycock open for the last score of the game. The play covered 35 yards. Roberts booted the point.

Coach Bud Phillips expressed satisfaction with his club's victorious performance. "We got an opportunity to use a lot of boys which gives our second unit more experience. We thought our reserves looked real good on defense and they moved the ball well."

"They had a real good passer and with some good receivers Scotland Neck could have been dangerous. I thought we looked kinda flat in the first half but came back strong in the final half," noted the Greenville coach.

The victory left Rose High with a 5-2 record, their most successful season in many moons. Next Friday, they play at home meeting class AAAA Wilson.

The Other Day

We heard a fire chief impressing upon his audience that it is what you do in the first minutes of the beginning of a fire that counts. He said, "In fire fighting, you win or lose in the first few minutes."

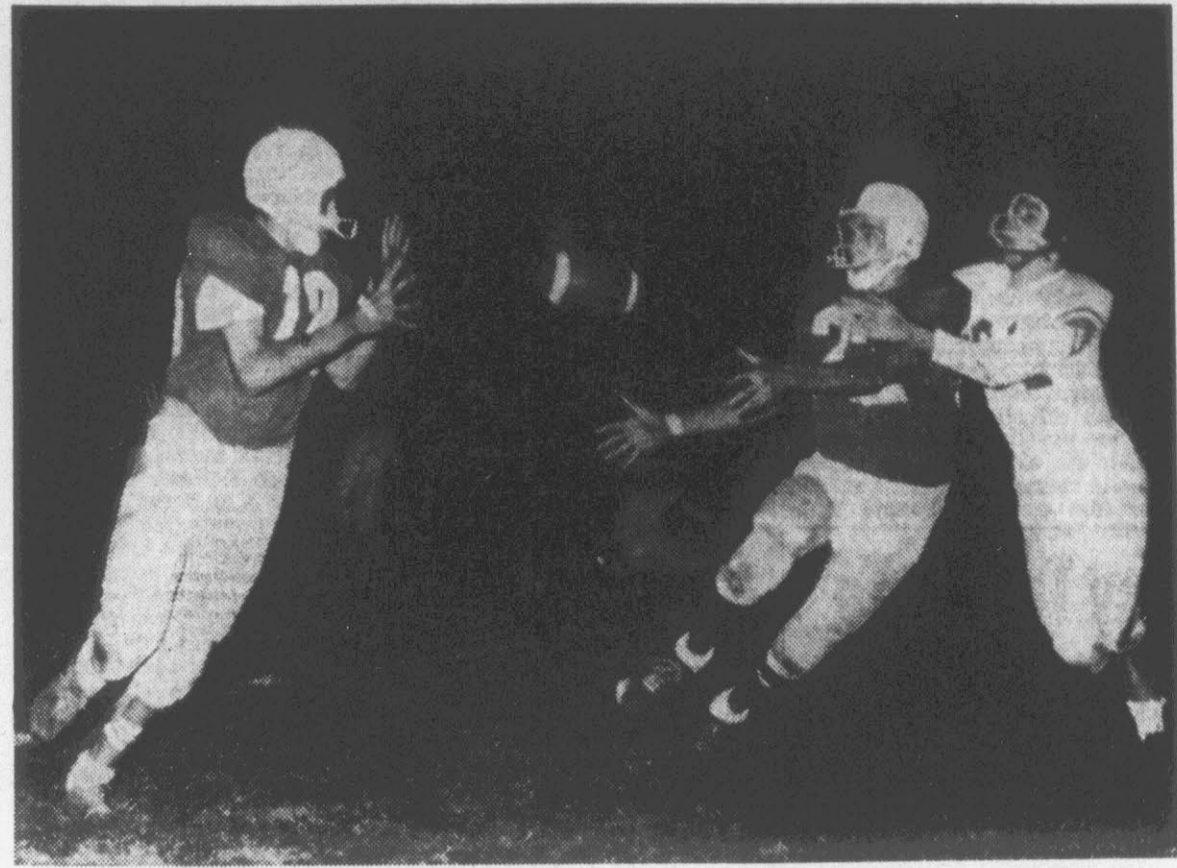

That's why everyone must make way for the fire department when you hear them coming down the street. . . . The minute they save in getting to a fire quickly may save human lives and tragedy, as well as property.

But in trying to think of other circumstances wherein haste does not make waste, we were hard put to come up with any ideas. If you will try to think of any other activity in our daily living where urgent hurrying will do more good than harm, you'll know what we mean.

That is why we never try to rush you into a fast decision on the car you buy, nor will we allow a hasty job to be done in our shop.

After all, your top satisfaction is our goal, and that can seldom come from hurried thinking or working.

The Ayden Tornadoes ended their 59 gridiron season last night as they bowed 48-0 to possible coastal conference champs, Beaufort High School, in a conference tilt on the Ayden field.

The game opened with Ayden kicking to Beaufort who returned the ball to their own 36 yard line. From there they scored in nine plays with Butch Hassell going over from the two for the TD. Ernest House ran the extra point.

Later, with Ayden receiving, Dinky Mills returned the kickoff to the 38 but Beaufort held and Ayden punted to the 49. Here Ayden got a first down as the quarter ended. The score at the end of the first quarter favored Beaufort 7-0.

The second quarter opened with Ayden in possession. The Tornadoes were forced to kick. Beaufort took over on their own 27 and drove to the Ayden 25 yard line by the 50 by the Ayden team and had to kick.

Again Ayden was held and forced to kick. The punt was taken on the Beaufort 47. Two plays later Beaufort scored with Butch Hassell passing 17 yards to Lonnie Dill for the TD. House again ran the extra point.

Following this Beaufort kicked to the Ayden 35 and on the first play David Jones intercepted an Ayden pass on the Ayden 40 and ran it back all the way for a TD. This time Edgar Taylor added the extra point for Beaufort. Score at the half was 14-0.

As the third quarter got under way Ayden received a kick off and again was halted by an intercepted pass. Beaufort drove to

Policeman May Conduct Fight Of Heavyweights

STOCKHOLM (AP) — A former policeman may wind up with promotion rights to the Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title rematch.

Joe Tepper, one-time policeman who served the New York State Athletic Commission as a deputy commissioner, chief deputy and executive secretary over a five-year period ending this summer, has received preliminary approval from Johansson's adviser, Edwin Ahlquist, to buy the promotion rights.

Ahlquist said today Tepper would hold the rematch in New York if he can buy the rights from Vincent J. Velella, head of Rosen's John Enterprises, Inc., which promoted the first fight last June.

"Tepper has been negotiating for quite some time to buy the promoter rights from Velella and I understand negotiations now are near their end," Ahlquist said.

New York Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan, along with the New York commission, investigated the promotion activities of the first fight with the result that the licenses of promoter Bill Rosensohn, Rosensohn Enterprises, and Cus d'Amato, manager of Patterson, were suspended and may be revoked.

Freshmen Games Show AC Balance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
If results of freshmen football games are any indication, the balance of varsity power in the Atlantic Coast Conference may swing back to Duke and North Carolina in future years.

Five of the eight ACC freshmen squads were in action Friday. The big surprise was the ease in which the Georgia Tech frosh handled Clemson 33-12. The Duke Blue Imps belted South Carolina 26-0 and North Carolina Tar Babies drubbed Wake Forest 32-0.

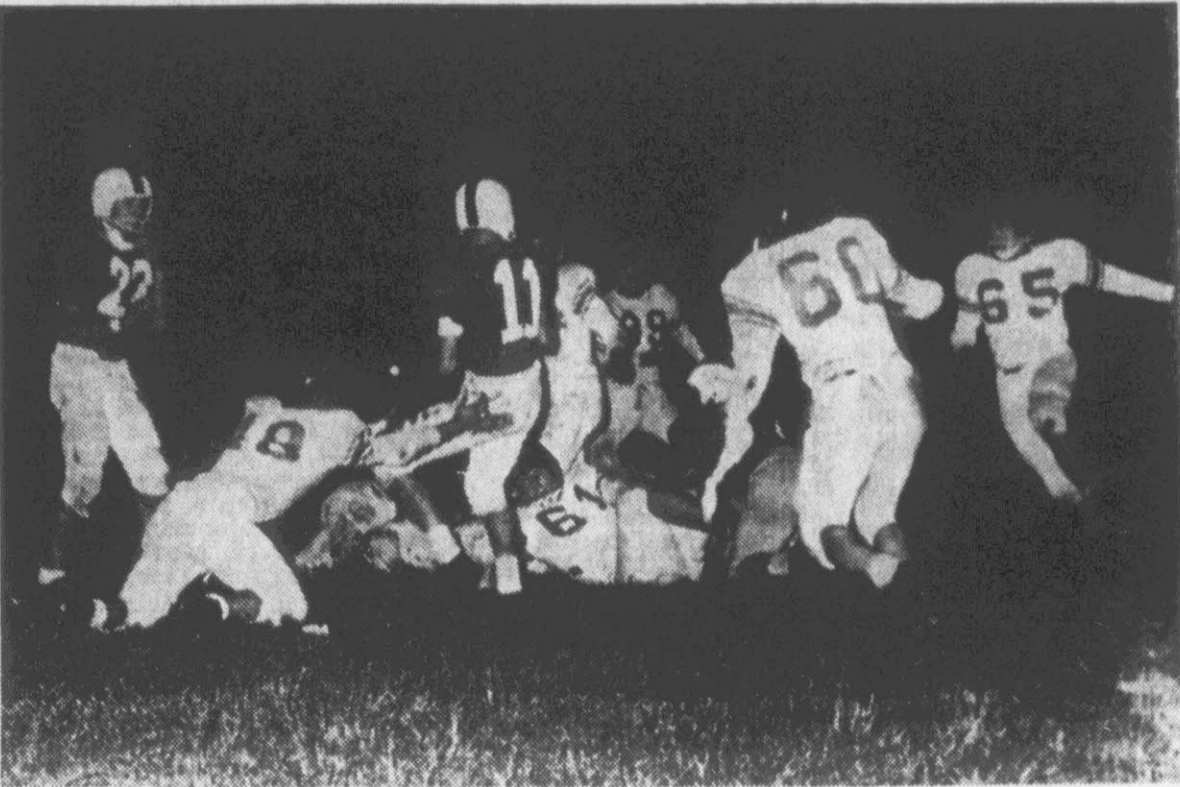

With the score 14-12 going into the final period, Georgia Tech opened up with 19 points in the final frame to win going away. Fullback Bill McGuirt was a big gainer on a Clemson 65-yard scoring drive with quarterback Joe Anderson scoring from the one. A 14-yard pass from Anderson to end Coleman Glaze completed the Clemson scoring.

The Duke frosh won their second in as many starts and uncovered a dangerous ball carrier in Mark Leggett, a 185-pound runner from Asheboro. Leggett scored twice on 19-yard runs each and set up the first Blue Imp score with a 73-yard dash.

North Carolina's Tar Babies showed strength in running over Wake Forest. Five Tar Babies contributed to the scoring including tackle Steve Serenko, who recovered a fumble in the end zone, halfback Dick McLamb, Walter Dunham and quarterbacks Butch Barrineau and George Bouscels.

Farmville 0-0	0 7 0-7

The Farmville Red Devils and La Grange battled to a 7-7 tie on the La Grange field last night. The conference game opened with La Grange kicking off to Farmville. During the entire first quarter both teams battled back and forth with neither scoring. Halfbacks Ralph Cash and Alton Hedgepeth both had long runs in this quarter for the Farmville squad, but La Grange managed to hold the Red Devils to a scoreless quarter.

In the second quarter La Grange drove 45 yards to the Farmville one yard line where they were held for two consecutive plays. However, on fourth and goal Jimmy Herring ended the difficult drive for La Grange when he went around left end from the one yard line for the TD. A pass from Farmville, during the entire first quarter, Robert Allison scored the extra point.

Near the end of the quarter La Grange kicked to Farmville and Danny Dilda made a 50 yard return which sparked a Farmville drive that was stopped on the 15 yard line by the ending of the quarter. The half saw La Grange leading by 7-0.

Scoring play in the third quarter came when La Grange, finding itself in a kicking position, attempted to punt its way out of trouble but a well timed block by Mitchell Cannon, Farmville tackle, gave the Red Devils possession of the ball on the La Grange 36 yard line.

Following two carries, one by Alton Hedgepeth and one by Ralph Cash, for a 23 yard gain, Howard Moye went up the middle from the 13 yard line for the Farmville TD. A pass play from Danny Dilda to J. Y. Monk scored the extra point.

The score at the end of the third quarter was 7-7.

In the final quarter both teams fought hard, but they were feeling the strain of a tiring game. The quarter ended with both keeping the other from scoring.

Some of the boys who hit the hardest last night for Farmville included Jerry Weisner, Douglas Gurganus, and Donnie Fulford.

Leading yard gainers for the Red Devils were Ralph Cash, Alton Hedgepeth, and Danny Dilda. Howard Moye made the only pass interception for Farmville in the second quarter.

The Bulldogs hit paydirt again in the second quarter when Calvin Gatlin scored on a pass from Freddy Watson. Marvin Anderson ran over the conversion.

Eppes was knocking on the visitors golden door again late in the initial half but time ran out and the score at intermission stood 16-0.

Jones High got back in the game in the second half when James Turnage scored on a 21 yard pass and added the conversion.

Eppes climaxed the scoring in the final period when Dalton Davis and Fredrick Staton combined their efforts to block a Washington kick in the end zone for a safety.

Outstanding for the winners were Alton Davis, Alton Harris, Luke Williams, Nathan Cromwell, and Joe Tyson. It was the final football game for seniors Willie Brewington, Woodrow Wilson and Fredrick Staton.

Eppes High went on a scoring spree last night to close out their 1959 season with an 18-8 victory over Washington here.

The victory gave Eppes a 4-4 record for the season and a 4-3 conference mark. After losing four straight, the locals completed their most successful season since 1956 with three consecutive victories.

Eppes kicked off to open the game but held their victories and took over deep in their territory. Woodrow Wilson, playing his last game before a home crowd, found daylight and raced 40 yards for the first score of the game. Willie Brewington threw a key block in the pass for the point conversion.

It was in 1933 that East Carolina fielded their first football team and that same year the rivalry between the Pirates and Appalachian was ignited.

Tonight, some 26 years later, these same two state supported rival clubs meet in another bitter game which is expected to determine the lone challenger to the North State Conference crown, currently firmly fitted on the head of the Lenoir Rhyne Bears.

The first meeting of this long-time rivalry ended in a 14-0 Appalachian victory. Since that time, the Mountaineers have dominated the series and lead 13-3 although Coach Jack Boone has cut the margin in his stay at the Pirate helm. East Carolina was unable to claim a victory over their cross-state rivals until 1952, the first year of the Boone era.

Appalachian has left their brand on East Carolina football history with their 64-0 slaughter of the Pirates in 1939 being the worst defeat ever suffered by a Buc eleven. The Apps attempted to duplicate the trick in 1958 when they took a 47-0 decision.

All past records will be thrown out the window tonight when the two clubs clash in College Stadium at 8:00. Both have identical loop records (3-1) and need a victory to stay in the race. Both coaches have indicated that "no blows will be held."

The Appalachian line, the biggest in the loop and currently ranked as the number one rushing defensive unit, will offer the conference's two top backs—James Speight and Glenn Bass—a stern test.

Leading the conference in rushing offense, the visitors will place their attack in the hands of 1958 All-American Ansel Glendenning, a halfback. Running from various formations, Appalachian has a 4-2 record for the season with their only loop loss coming to Lenoir Rhyne.

East Carolina saw their championship hopes take a jolt with Western Carolina supplying the damaging blows. Since that first defeat, the Bucs lost to Newberry last Saturday.

Coach Jack Boone has indicated that he may have some backfield changes this week. James Speight has been moved to the fullback slot and a freshman, Billy Strickland, has moved into the number two slot.

Emory Basinger has moved into the left half slot and Tommy Matthews will open at right half in place of the injured Glenn Bass.

Ed Emory will pace the Pirate forward wall which will be trying to better their performance of the past two weeks. Others expected to share the spotlight with Emory will be Lynn Barnett, Wayne Davis, and Bill Cain.

War Admiral Dies Of Illness

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — War Admiral, the great thoroughbred who met his match in a two-horse race against Seabiscuit 21 years ago Sunday, is dead.

The 25-year-old son of Man O' War died Friday at Hamburg Place here after a two-day illness. No cause of death was announced.

It was Nov. 1, 1938, when War Admiral, voted the previous season's "horse of the year," took on Seabiscuit in the $15,000 Pimlico Special.

Seabiscuit, bought only three years earlier by Charles S. Howard for $7,500, paid $6.40 in winning the mile and three-sixteenths race. His time was 1:56.35.

Store Owner Says He Paid For Quiz Show Entry

Cuban Govm't Padlocks Files Of Oil Companies

By HAROLD K. MILKS
HAVANA, (AP) — The Cuban government, which already has slapped stiff new taxes on mineral production, moved against all foreign oil exploration companies Friday night by sealing their office files.

Agents from the Ministry of Public Works entered the companies' offices without warning. They said the government is preparing to draft a new petroleum law and wants all the technical information in the hands of the oil companies.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro's cabinet passed a resolution providing for fines and prison sentences for anyone hindering access to the files.

There was no indication whether the files would be seized later or only examined.

The surprise move left oil company executives wondering how it would affect their operations since they now have no access to files.

"It's hard to understand this action," said one executive. "Most of the material in our files on the exploration of Cuban oil lands already is duplicated in Cuban government offices."

American company representatives conferred with the U. S. embassy on the situation.

Several foreign company executives said they understood the government also planned to examine the files of Cuban exploration firms.

Although Cuba consumes about 30,000 barrels of oil daily, it produces no more than 600 barrels of domestic oil. Most of the oil is imported from Venezuela.

A number of American, Canadian and British companies established exploration divisions in Cuba in an effort to develop oil production.

Spokesmen for several said they expected to shut down shortly because of increasing difficulties in operating.

Among files sealed Friday were those at the offices of Esso, Texaco, Atlantic Refining, Cuban Kewanee, Cuban Gulf, Cuban California (Standard Oil, California), Union and Shell.

The government action came only a few days after the revolutionary cabinet announced a new law setting a 5 per cent tax on mineral production, plus a 25 per cent levy on minerals exported.

Representatives of several mining companies said the law would virtually put any company out of business since it heaped on higher labor and other costs.

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Max Hess, the owner of a large department store, said Friday night that he paid $10,000 to help get a former employe on the television quiz show, "$64,000 Question."

He explained this to a reporter in revealing that he had been subpoenaed to appear Monday before a House subcommittee investigating the rigging of quiz shows.

"It was worth every cent of the money," said Hess, president of Hess Brothers Department Store, "because it proved to be a highly talked about program which focused the public eye on Hess Brothers and the city of Allentown."

Hess said he was subpoenaed to appear before the Legislative Oversight subcommittee to explain the role he played in getting Kenneth Hoffer on the quiz show.

Hoffer, of Reading, appeared once on the Columbia Broadcasting System quiz show, in August, 1955. He missed his third question — for $512 — and went home without a nickel's winnings.

"This didn't bother us," explained Hess, "because the young man was eager to appear on the program and, attempt to win on his own merits, and as far as we are concerned we had achieved our goal — to once again expose the name of Hess Brothers and the city of Allentown to millions of people."

Hess gave this sequence of events:

Hoffer, a former buyer for the department store, had attempted to get on the "$64,000 Question" by writing letters of application. The letters went unanswered. Finally, through another Hess employe, David Gottlieb of Allentown, contact was made. Gottlieb learned that it would cost $10,000 in cash to make arrangements for Hoffer's appearance.

Hess said he gave the money to Gottlieb — $5,000 in advance, $5,000 after Hoffer's appearance — but never knew who got the money after that.

Gottlieb, a merchandising manager for Hess until his resignation last year, could not be reached for comment. Hess said he had no idea what Gottlieb's connections were. Neither was Hoffer reachable immediately for comment.

Hess went on to explain that it was the common practice or businesses to get prizes through the donation of prizes and the placing of persons on TV shows.

His appearance before the subcommittee in Washington Monday would be on the same day that Charles Van Doren, the big winner of "Twenty-One" is scheduled to appear.

In New York, CBS officials declined to comment on the account of Hess. They eliminated the "$64,000 Question" last year when the first reports of rigging came out.

Besides Van Doren, other former television quiz contestants are expected to be questioned by the subcommittee. But most Washington observers expect Van Doren, the best known of the big money winners, to be the star attraction.

His name cropped up immediately when the subcommittee opened its hearings at the beginning of the month. The first witness was Herbert Stempel, who had been Van Doren's first opponent on "Twenty-One."

Stempel testified that he had reluctantly agreed "to take a dive," flubbing a question on purpose. This gave Van Doren his first victory, the witness said.

In advance of each show, Stempel continued, co-owner Daniel Enright told him what the final score would be.

Other witnesses backed up Stempel's tale of fixed quizzing. This prompted subcommittee members to criticize the Federal Communications Commission for not taking action against the quiz shows.

FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer replied that it had no legal power to do so. He added that any FCC regulation of shows would amount to federal censorship.

Faculty Member To Attend Meet

Peggy Lou Holman, instructor in the department of business at East Carolina College, will attend the National Biennial Council Meeting of Delta Pi Epsilon, a graduate honorary business education fraternity November 5-7 in Gatlinburg, Tennessee. The executive council and delegates will be present representing chapters located at thirty-one colleges and universities across the nation.

Miss Holman is the national council representative from Alpha Chapter of Delta Pi Epsilon at Colorado State College, Greeley, Colorado, of which she is a graduate. She has served as council representative during the past four years and is the past president of Alpha Alpha Chapter.

Pay Tribute To ECC President

Both students and faculty members at East Carolina paid tribute this week to Dr. John D. Messick, who resigned as president of the College last Friday.

The October 29 edition of the East Carolinian, weekly student newspaper, is dedicated to Dr. Messick and features tributes to him from students, faculty members, and trustees of the college.

The faculty at a meeting here Wednesday in the McGinnis auditorium gave Dr. Messick a standing vote of thanks after he completed a report on his twelve years as president and expressed appreciation of his leadership in prolonged applause as he left the room.

"This issue," states the editorial page of the East Carolinian, "is dedicated to a man who struggled through pressure and often heart-breaks to make this College what it is today. To you Dr. Messick we offer these writings in appreciation for all you have done for us, the student body."

After tracing the progress of the College in its academic program and in growth in physical facilities during Dr. Messick's administration, the leading editorial describes him as "one of the smartest, most valuable men in the state." His friendly relationships with students and his value as a public-spirited citizen receive emphasis.

"By pouring himself heart and soul into his work," the editorial states, "he built a little teacher's college into one of the finest places of learning in the state."

"He is a great man because he cared."

Seek Applicants For Census Role

A representative of the regional census office said today that he would like to have more applications from Pitt County townships for employment as census takers.

Mrs. Marguerite K. Fleming, crew leader for the southern part of Pitt County, said response from Greenville had been good.

The bureau is still open for applications from Farmville, Beaver Dam, Winterville, Chicod, Ayden and Swift Creek in the southern part of the county. Applicants in these townships should contact Mrs. Marguerite Fleming at 301 Orton Dr., Greenville, or telephone PL 2-2887.

Townships in the northern part of Pitt County include Grimesland, Pactolus, Carolina, Greenville, Belvoir, Fountain and Falkland. Applicants in the northern section should contact Mrs. Irma S. Carson at Bethel, telephone VA 5-3191.

Requirements for farm census workers are that applicants must be citizens of the U. S., have high school education or furnish evidence of comparable experience, be at least 18 years old, be licensed to operate and able to provide an automobile. Census takers will be paid seven cents a mile for official travel, Mrs. Fleming said.

Gasser Paintings Being Exhibited

Twenty-four water colors by Henry Gasser, N. A., is the featured exhibition in the Rawl Building, third floor, at East Carolina College during the month of November. The exhibition is sponsored by the department of art.

Gasser is director of the Newark School of Fine Arts. He has gained recognition not only as a creative artist but also as an author and teacher. His book "Casein Painting" is considered by experts an admirable contribution to this field of art.

Many of Gasser's paintings deal with everyday tasks, simple pastimes, and unpretentious dwellings. Seeing the beauty in common things around him, he has painted such works as "Homeward," "The Chickenyard," "Track to the Mines," and "Winter Birds", several of which are included in the current exhibition at East Carolina College.

His works are characterized by brilliant color highlighted by the use of stark contrast. Gasser has been described as "an exacting artist" who "has all the technical knowledge of his medium in perfect control."

Painting Custodian

WAYNE, N. J. (AP) — Painting the walls is no chore for school custodian Otto J. Breitenbach, 65. An accomplished artist, he has painted the walls of his elementary school with bright Walt Disney-type murals.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Louvena T. Monk of the home; seven sons, Leonard, Sam, Cleo and Gaston, all of Bell Arthur, Ammie of the home, Henry of Greenville, and Edward of Aoshkie; four daughters, Mrs. Mattie Nobles of Ayden, Mrs. Louvena Graves, Mrs. Mary Henby and Mrs. Lonie Chapman, all of Baltimore, Md.; one step-daughter, Mrs. Maggie Mills Galloway of Shelmerdine; 62 grandchildren and 37 great grandchildren; four brothers, Jule of Camden, N.J., George and James of Goldsboro, and Jessie of Saratoga.

The body will be viewed at Phillips Brothers Funeral Home.

The Odd Fellows Lodge of Greenville will turn out with the Rev. Monk on Monday.

The Bachelor Benedict Club will meet Sunday at 4 p.m. at the City Cab stand for their short trip. The regular meeting will be held Sunday at 6:30 p.m. with Henry W. Payton on Bonner's Lane. All members are urged to attend.

Local Union No. 10 will hold a membership meeting Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Educational Building of Cornerstone Baptist Church. Business of importance will be discussed. Sam Carney, chairman.

Funeral services for the Rev. William Moses Monk, who died in Pitt Memorial Hospital after a short illness, will be held Monday at 2:30 p.m. at the H. B. Suggs High School gymnasium. The Rev. S. Hemby will officiate. Burial will follow in Baker's Cemetery in Bell Arthur.

Local Pastor At Groundbreaking

At the request of the Elizabeth City Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the program, Pastor and Mrs. Howard V. Boling of the Greenville Seventh-day Adventist church presented a special music at groundbreaking ceremonies Sunday for the Winslow Memorial Home.

In spite of the bad weather, more than 300 were in attendance as W. R. Winslow turned the first spadeful of earth and Pastor Boling, accompanied by his wife at the marimba, sang "God Bless America." City officials presented Winslow with an engraved silver platter.

With Winslow's admonition that no comfort or convenience is to be spared because of cost, J. D. Lattimer, Adventist architect from Durham, has completed drawings for a 40-bed home to cost in the neighborhood of $250,000. An expansion program is already under consideration.

In Quandary Over Moving A Ship

HOUSTON (AP) — The Coast Guard is in a quandary over the case of the Pacific Thunder. The freighter's crew refuses to budge without 24 days back pay they claim they have coming.

Houston Port Capt. R.J. Evans Friday ordered it moved. He said the vessel berthed in the channel is a menace to navigation. Two of its mooring lines have broken, he said, and others might break.

The vessel, owned by World Tramping Agency of New York, is loaded with 9,924 tons of rice bound for Ceylon. The owners haven't replied to Evans' order.

Destruction By Savage Storms

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Savage windstorms slashed a trail of costly destruction across northern Utah and southern California Friday as a wave of violent weather raked the West. Estimates of damage ran as high as five million dollars in Utah.

Two children drowned in central Arizona flash floods which were described as the worst in that section since 1951. A fast-moving storm dumped from 6 to 15 1/2 inches of snow along the eastern slopes of the Rockies and in the Western Plains states.

The tornadic winds in Utah howled off the Wasatch Mountain Range and caused widespread damage in a heavily-populated region from Salt Lake City 75 miles north to Tremonton, on the Utah-Idaho border.

At least 10 people were hurt in Utah as winds of up to 92 miles per hour toppled houses, uprooted trees and smashed thousands of windows. A dozen truck and trailer rigs were flipped over. State police halted truck, bus and small car traffic for several hours on highways.

Winds of hurricane force accompanied a freak weather pattern in southern California. Rain, hail, snow and lightning storms uprooted trees in Los Angeles county. Cotton crops in the lush Imperial Valley suffered damage estimated at a quarter of a million dollars.

High winds fanned a score of fires in northern California forests. An estimated 16,000 acres burned and threatened snow highways, closing U.S. 50. One woman was killed when a tree fell onto a pickup truck in the high sierras.

Skies were clearing today in Colorado and Wyoming, but sub-freezing temperatures during the night left an icy coating of snow.

Fifteen inches of snow fell at Red Mountain Pass in southwest Colorado. Denver had 7 1/2 inches, and 6 inches fell in new Mexico, western Nebraska and at Lander, Wyo.

Heaviest damage in Utah was concentrated in the Ogden area, 40 miles north of Salt Lake City. Nervous Hill Air Force Base personnel abandoned the control tower when their instruments clocked winds of 92 m.p.h.

November Seen A Chilly Month In Much Of U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — November weather is going to be colder than usual for much of the nation.

The Weather Bureau reported this Friday in its long-range forecast, saying:

The 30-day outlook for November calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals over most of the area lying between the Appalachians and the Rockies except for near normal along the Gulf Coast and Southeast. Greatest departures are indicated for the central Plains. Above normal temperature averages are predicted for California, near normal for the Pacific Northwest, and below normal for the southern Plateau region.

"Precipitation is expected to exceed normal over most of the nation except along central and northern portions of the West Coast where subnormal amounts are in prospect. Owing to the expected unseasonable coldness selected snow storms are expected to be more frequent than normal over the northern half of the area lying between the Appalachians and the Continental Divide."

BEATS HIS ELDERS

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — It is not silver threads among the gold but just the opposite at the Richmond Chess Club. The gold is the blonde hair of Robin Church, 11, who is not only a regular player but a regular winner. Elders, who do most of the playing, say the youngsters win three fourths of his games.

HALLOWEEN? WHAT'S THAT? — Four identical black kittens investigate the workings of a jack-o'-lantern at Dothan, Ala., with Halloween drawing near. The kittens are owned by Tommy McLennan, 10, of Dothan. Their mother was killed by an automobile the day before this picture was made. (AP Wirephoto)

Every Dime, Dollar Has A Place

STATISTICS . . . show Pitt ranked third among N. C. counties in number of cases last year with 55. The above diagram shows the location of Pitt's larger total this year.

By HENRY HOWARD
Reflector Staff Writer

Likely, many buyers of Christmas Seals each year, in spite of feeling confident that their contributions help fight tuberculosis, pause to wonder how funds are spent and what basic methods are used to combat one of the nation's most dreaded diseases.

Pitt County's TB Association is one of thousands of integral units that combine to form a nationwide fortress against the infectious disease—tuberculosis.

Pitt's association, as in other TB associations, divides its services into four main groups—case-finding, health education, patient rehabilitation, and research—in its efforts to subdue the TB germ's activity in the county.

Often, statistics show that a county boasting an efficient case-finding program has progressively more new active cases of tuberculosis each year. This does not necessarily mean that the disease is more rampant, but that the TB Association and Health Department in that county, working cooperatively, have discovered more cases in efforts to control TB.

Pitt's case-finding program includes the use of hundreds of tuberculin tests and a multitude of chest x-rays each year. Once discovered, a patient immediately begins the treatment process. Pitt patients are now recovering in veterans hospitals, Eastern Sanatorium in Wilson, McCain Sanatorium at McCain, and Black Mountain Sanatorium at Black Mountain.

Pitt has joined with other counties in the presentation (sponsored cooperatively by each county's TB association) of a semi-weekly television show to aid in health education of the public. The half-hour shows have directed attention toward different phases of tuberculosis treatment and research.

The Pitt association sponsors health education workshops in the county's Negro schools each spring. This year's meetings are scheduled for March 7-11. Emphasis this year will be placed upon tuberculosis.

The coordinator for these workshops is chosen each year from applicants throughout the county. The selected director is given a scholarship to attend a health education course at one of the state's colleges.

Rehabilitation of TB victims by Pitt's association begins with visits to patients or their families, sending cards or letters to the stricken; and helping the indigent to secure such necessities as combs, pajamas, tooth brushes, and bedroom shoes.

Upon a patient's termination of treatment and release from the hospital, rehabilitation again swings into action. The TB association, still in cooperation with other agencies, begins orientation of the patient to normal life again. He must be made to "feel at home" again and his friends and relatives must learn that he is perfectly safe for social association.

Last, but far from least, Christmas Seal dollars sponsor a vast and efficient research program. New treatment methods, new preventive inoculations, and new ideas about tuberculosis are the result of constant research throughout the United States.

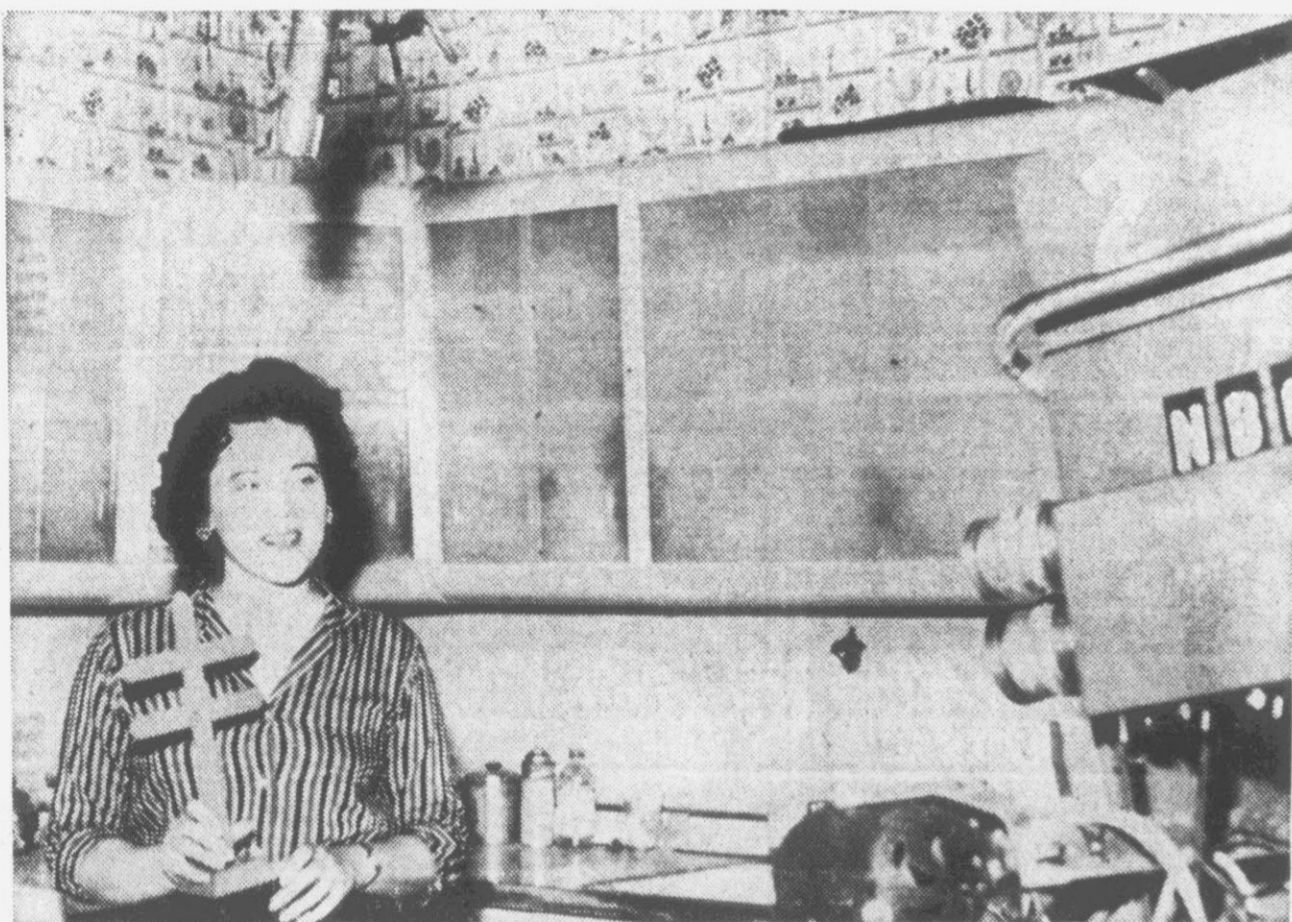

Every dime and dollar has its place.

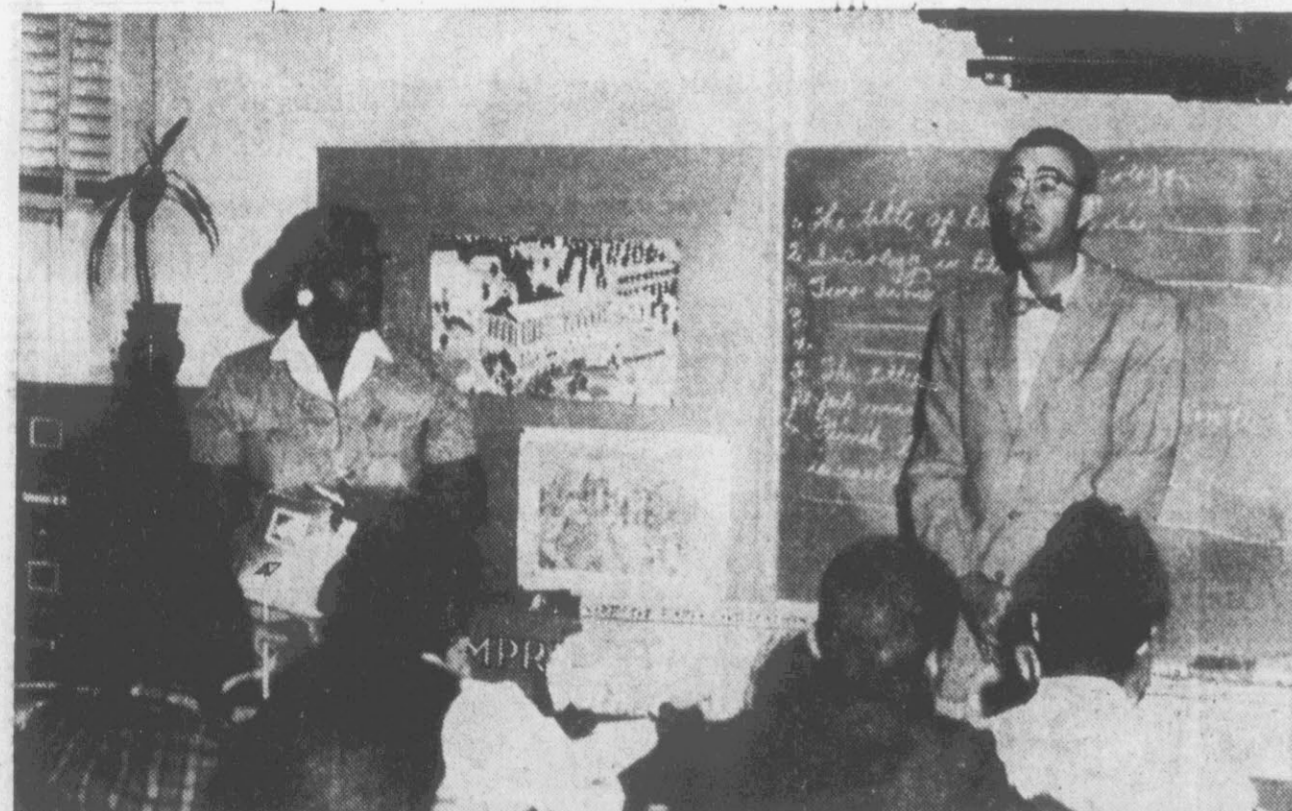

TUBERCULIN TEST . . . an important part of the case-finding program, is shown being administered to Pitt TB Association Executive Director, Mrs. Milton V. Clarke (left).

RESEARCH . . . tremendous aid to TB treatment improvement, includes tests such as the one pictured above. A scientist tests a patient's lung function to determine how the disease will effect her lung efficiency.

ON THE AIR . . . Mrs. Clarke appears, along with other tuberculosis officials and authorities, on semi-weekly television programs sponsored by tuberculosis associations throughout Eastern North Carolina.

HEALTH EDUCATION LECTURES . . . are important in education of the public. Here, Dr. G. Earl Trevathan, Jr., president of the Pitt association, talks to a student group at C. M. Eppes High in Greenville.

SENDING CARDS . . . and magazines to Pitt's TB patients are (left to right) Mrs. H. N. Felton, Mrs. J. D. McGlohon, and Mrs. De Roche Vincent. Many volunteers help with rehabilitation.

Night Of Terror Followed Error

CRESTVIEW, Fla. (AP) — A plumber's error plunged this town of 10,000 persons into a night of terror. Five persons were injured in three explosions Friday night after butane gas gushed into the city water system. Mayor Harry Booth said the plumber got his lines mixed while working at a small Negro cafe and hooked a gas line from a 250-gallon tank onto a water main. Butane gas is used for heating. The cafe was almost destroyed and a 5-year-old Negro boy, Larry Thompson, was injured. A short shile later Carolyn Eiland Kennedy started to brush her teeth at her father's home. When she turned on the water spout, gas fumes reached a pilot light on a heater in the bathroom and an explosion followed. She and father, Arthur Eiland, were slightly injured. The third explosion occurred at the home of Miss Elizabeth Dennis, supervisor of lunchrooms for the county school system. She and a teacher, Miss Lillie Waldron, were injured. Those two and young Larry were hospitalized. After the trouble was found, area television stations and police officers with megaphones warned residents not to turn on their water. The mayor said early Saturday that many thousands of gallons of water had been flushed from all the mains.

Familiar Face In A Texas Court

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A familiar face in court these days is that of Isaac Easley. Easley, 28, was sentenced Tuesday to 7 years in prison on a robbery by assault charge. Another district court jury assessed him a 20-year sentence on another robbery by assault charge Wednesday. Thursday, another jury considered another robbery by assault charge and sentenced him to 15 years. Easley is due back in court Nov. 9 for trial—you guessed it—on two more counts of robbery by assault.

Indian Will Run For Senate Seat

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — A north Idaho Indian has announced as a candidate for U.S. senator. Joseph R. Garry said here Friday he will run as a Democrat for the seat now held by Idaho Republican Henry C. Dworshak. Garry is president of the National Congress of American Indians and is now in his second term as a member of the Idaho House of Representatives. Playwright Tennessee Williams was born in an Episcopal Church rectory in Columbus, Miss.

OUT OF THE PAST

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) —While working on a State Power Authority project in the Devil's Hole area near here, Frank W. Stebbins Jr. found a British farthing dated 1732. Devil's Hole was the scene of an Indian massacre in the 18th Century.

Eight Trapped In Shaft Of Quarry

DANBY, Vt. (AP)—Eight men were trapped two and a half hours in a marble quarry shaft Friday by a fire that destroyed a machinery building at the shaft entrance. They were rescued unharmed. The men, trapped in a 1,500-foot shaft that tunnels into the hillside nearly horizontally, dropping only 25 or 30 feet through its length, moved deep into the shaft as smoke swirled in. They said they were able to stay in clear air under the smoke. The fire burned out the wires of the quarry telephone system, cutting off communication with the trapped men, and also spread to shoring timbers at the tunnel mouth, causing rock and rubble partially to block the entrance. Fellow employees of Vermont Marble Co. started an air compressor on the surface and fed air to the trapped men through a pipe system.

YES, THIS IS LIZZ.

THIS IS MATTY MUNKIE. AS YOU KNOW, THE POLICE HAVE BEEN LOOKING FOR ME, AND I JUST WANT TO SAY I'M OKAY.

I KNOW YOU'RE SURPRISED TO HEAR FROM ME, BUT I HAD TO CALL YOU TO APOLOGIZE FOR WHAT I DID ON MY TELEVISION SHOW THE NIGHT YOU WERE A GUEST.

I'VE BEEN TERRIBLY UPSET OVER YOUR LOSING YOUR JOB IN TV--TERRIBLY! MAYBE I CAN TALK TO THE STATION MANAGEMENT AND--

THANK YOU VERY MUCH, BUT FIRST, WOULD YOU CONTACT MY WIFE AND DAUGHTER AND TELL THEM I'M ALL RIGHT?

THEY'RE IN OUR NEW APARTMENT, BUT THE PHONE HASN'T BEEN CONNECTED YET--SO YOU'LL HAVE TO GO THERE. HERE'S THE ADDRESS--

I'LL BE GLAD TO GO OUT THERE AND DELIVER YOUR MESSAGE.

TELL HER I'M OKAY AND I'LL BE HOME SOME TIME THIS EVENING.

MY CONSCIENCE HAS HURT ME EVER SINCE HE DISAPPEARED! THANK GOODNESS, MATTY MUNKIE IS ALL RIGHT.

I KNOW HIS WIFE WILL BE RELIEVED TO HEAR FROM HIM.

I'M GOING OUT THERE RIGHT NOW.

LIZZ--

AREN'T YOU BEING A LITTLE EAGER? HOW CONVINCING WAS THIS GUY?

HE WAS ABSOLUTELY CONVINCING!--CERTAINLY, HE WAS CONVINCING.

WELL, THERE YOU ARE, FIFTH! NOW HOW ABOUT LETTING MY WIFE, DAUGHTER AND ME GO?

MI AMIGO

The Exciting New Novel By W. R. BURNETT The Man Who Wrote LITTLE CAESAR

WHAT HAS HAPPENED This is a story of the Southwest in the days after the War between the States when the Indian wars had just finished and the time of the outlaw—of cruel, trigger-fingered Billy the Kid, John Wesley Hardin, and their ilk—was just beginning.

CHAPTER 4 The Sergeant had a heavy-duty lariat in his saddlebag. He tied it to the pommel of the saddle, then paid it out gradually to the boy below.

"Hang on and I'll pull you up," called the Sergeant. "Hell, I can climb it," said the boy.

"With a broken leg?" "Hand over hand, mister," said the boy. "Been doing it since I was six. Watch me swarm up."

And swarmed up he did, with the Winchester strapped to his back, and the Sergeant's steady Mickey and forcing him slowly backward to keep the lariat taut. The boy swung himself over the edge, disdaining the Sergeant's helping hand, then lay panting for a moment.

He was wearing a sweated old sand-colored tunic, a pale-blue cotton shirt, faded denim pants, and boots. He looked about sixteen. The Sergeant couldn't make him out.

"You better get that boot off, sonny," he said. "The boy gave him an odd look. 'Can't get it off. My ankle's all swollen.' The Sergeant reached for his belt and unshipped a knife. "What are you going to do with that?" asked the boy. "Cut the boot off."

"Oh, no, you don't. Them boots cost me sixty dollars." The Sergeant bent down and examined the boots; they were brand new and nearly the best money could buy in the Southwest.

"You're mighty careless with your money, sonny," said the Sergeant. "What are we going to do if your ankle's broke, I got to get it into a splint."

"Then what?" asked the boy, with narrowed eyes and a look that was partly suspicious, partly curious.

"I'll get you in to a medico at Mesa Encantada. You've got to lay up some place."

"We got only one horse," said the boy. "I'll walk," said the Sergeant. "There's a little ranch just off the trail a few miles, at the foot of the far slope. I think we can pick up a horse or mule there."

"How far would that be?" "Fifteen miles or so." "You're going to get mighty sick of me before we get there," said the boy with a laugh.

"That's a rough, long walk." "I've had worse," said the Sergeant, indifferently.

The boy was on Mickey's back now, his right leg in a splint and his ruined boot on the ground at the edge of the trail. He looked down at it meditatively.

"Been wanting a pair of boots like that all my life. Now I got 'em, look what happened."

Four Cardinals At Shrine Rites

WASHINGTON (AP)—The four American cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church will take part in the dedication of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception here next month.

The shrine, under construction for the past 36 years, cost about 30 million dollars. It is the largest Catholic church in the country and, measured by cubic footage embraced, is the seventh largest religious edifice in the world.

The church is located on the campus of the Catholic University of America. Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, will dedicate the shrine and offer Mass on the morning of Nov. 20.

Richard Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston, will preside and preach the sermon at a Mass to be offered on the evening of the dedication.

James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles, will celebrate a Mass for priests and members of religious orders on the morning of Nov. 21.

John Cardinal O'Hara, archbishop of Philadelphia, will preside at a Mass for the laity to be offered in the shrine on the afternoon of Nov. 22.

Russia Invites Delegation Of Longshore Union

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An invitation to send a delegation to the Soviet Union for a two weeks visit has been received by the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

The ILWU says it got a letter Thursday from Soviet labor and government officials stating that in return for "a warm and friendly welcome" extended to Soviet Prime Minister Nikita Khrushchev during his visit to San Francisco, the invitation was extended "to develop further mutual understanding and friendship between our countries."

The ILWU did not announce whether it had accepted the invitation, but said it welcomed it in return for "a warm and friendly welcome" extended to Soviet Prime Minister Nikita Khrushchev during his visit to San Francisco, the invitation was extended "to develop further mutual understanding and friendship between our countries."

The letter also invited a delegation from the Pacific Maritime Assn., the West Coast shipowners' group which bargains with the ILWU over wages and other labor issues.

PMA officials could not be reached for comment.

First Presbyterian Announcements

"The Fine Art of Generosity" is the topic of the sermon to be delivered by the Reverend Richard R. Gammon, eleven o'clock Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian Church.

Special music will consist of a solo by Mrs. Alison H. Moss. She will sing "Lead, Kindly Light" by Pugh-Evans.

A meeting of the Session is scheduled immediately following the morning worship service Sunday.

The Senior High and Pioneer Fellowships will meet at 6:00 p.m. for a snack supper and Vesper programs.

Sunday night at 8:00 o'clock there will be an important meeting of all persons who will participate in the visitation program in connection with the Every Member Canvass.

Books & Stuff

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG We've just received a lovely book for review from the American Heritage Publishing Company, called "THE PIONEER SPIRIT."

It's big and beautiful and expensive—$12.95—but worth every penny, full of color pictures, maps, and what-all, along with fascinating texts and documents. James Parton, American Heritage President, wrote us the following about how THE PIONEER SPIRIT happens to be coming out right at this point in our country's history:

"We are publishing THE PIONEER SPIRIT at what seems to me a particularly appropriate time. The world today is ever conscious of the great struggle between individualism and collectivism. Such a book as this reminds us anew that the America we know is the great triumph of individualism. A fresh look at America's pioneers suggests too that there is yet reason to believe that personal initiative and liberty will eventually triumph throughout the world."

On Writing The latest Atlantic Monthly— the 102nd anniversary issue, incidentally, which is a long time full section on "The Teaching of Reading and Writing," a subject in which Your Columnist takes a great and basic interest. There are articles on various aspects of this problem, written from several points of view. Louis Zahner, head of the English Department at Groton School for the past 38 years, writes in "Composition at the Barricades" that English is slipping as a language and as a subject, and defines some of the reasons why. A history teacher discusses "Teaching Writing Through History" and arrives at pretty much the same conclusions that Mr. Zahner does—that as long as objective tests are used instead of essay tests, students won't learn any history either, let alone English. . . . Henry Chauncey, president of the Educational Testing Service, which administers entrance exams for many of the foremost colleges in the country, gets down to a similar conclusion in "The Plight of the English Teacher." All three agree that English teachers should have fewer pupils so that they can grade more themes—and that all teachers should, if possible, get their students to do more writing, because good writing can be learned in only one way—practice, practice, practice. . . .

Out and Coming Tarheel Robert Quark, author of recent best-seller "Something of Value" about the African jungles, has just written another book, this one about financial graces. It's called POOR NO MORE and is the fictional biography of a poor North Carolina boy who grows up to become a successful tycoon in the ruthless world of big business. . . . And out of Bobbs-Merrill next week comes news of how to do it—Don Campbell's LET'S TAKE STOCK is billed as "the book about Wall Street that takes the mystery out of the stock market," and answers such questions as "Why buy stocks in the first place?" "What should I buy and when?" and "How do I read the financial page and keep my sanity?" We'd like to know, too. . . .

Local Scene Next week the E.C.C. Playhouse season opens with "My Three Angels" starting at McGinnis Auditorium on Thursday for three nights. . . . At the local cinema on Tuesday and Wednesday is "Lady Chatterley's Lover," based on D. H. Lawrence's novel. . . .

Today's Reviews Two more Civil War books on The War are briefly appreciated below by two of This Column's experienced critics. . . . LORENA, by Frank G. Slaughter, New York: Doubleday & Co., 1959. Lorena, the heroine, married to a philandering, drunken, war-loving Brad Selby, finds their plantation she has been managing so efficiently in her husband's absence is directly in the path of the plundering Union Army. How she saves the plantation, which is just outside Atlanta, her slaves, and her own life is the central theme of the novel. Suffice it to say the son she consequently bears gives her life a new meaning, and elevates her status in the eyes of everyone, including her husband, who is both foolish enough to believe the child is his, and to return home as the Kleagle in the Klan after he had been declared officially dead.

No doubt many Southern women suffered problems similar to Lorena's, and faced them in equally courageous ways. But the novel lacks a touch of reality, and the characters seem little more than puppets doing and saying exactly the things the reader expects. Lorena seems steeped in mediocrity, and only the time about which it is written is memorable. To sum up: disappointing, but good for a couple of hours of light entertainment.

MR. DAVIS' RICHMOND, By Stanley Kimmel. New York: Coward-McCann, 1959. Here is another item in the torrent of Civil War books which will probably drown us all by 1961. It is a combination of text and more or less related pictures, about two hundred of them) which attempts to capture the feeling of life in Richmond when it was the capital of the Confederacy. The pictures include many long-familiar photos, as well as some fresh ones, and a good many reproductions of cartoons and magazine sketches by contemporary journalist-artists. In spite of the fact that these latter are well-produced, most of them are not very appealing to the modern reader, pampered as he is by the excellence of contemporary photography—or of nineteenth century photography, for that matter. Mr. Kimmel's text, however, is lively and revealing. He wisely quotes extremely from contemporary sources, though generally not identifying them. The Civil War fan will want to look into this book—perhaps even buy it, if he has $7.50 in Federal currency. By James Polidexter
