Steel Strike Injunction Upheld By Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today upheld an injunction ordering 500,000 striking steelworkers back to the mills for an 80-day cooling-off period.

Industry and union spokesmen both said steps will be taken immediately to get the mills rolling again, halting the 116-day strike.

A spokesman for the United Steelworkers Union said telegrams were sent today to union locals instructing the men to return to their jobs.

From the industry's chief negotiator in the long strike came the word: "The steel companies will move immediately to reopen the plants."

There was a possibility, the union spokesman said, that some men will get back to work today. They probably would be those responsible for putting the mills back into production condition after the long shutdown—a task of days to weeks.

Arthur Goldberg, who unsuccessfully waged the union fight in the high court against the injunction, at first withheld comment then later told the National Broadcasting Co. news service he was "naturally disappointed with the decision but a decision is a decision."

"From the Supreme Court," he continued, "the only appeal is to God."

The court's ruling was given under the injunction provision of the Taft-Hartley law which provides for an 80-day cooling-off period in prolonged strikes. The court ruled only on that emergency provision of the law.

The high tribunal's action was announced in a five page unsigned opinion handed to newsmen in the court's press room shortly after 9 a.m. EST—a highly unusual hour for announcement of any court action.

Justice William O. Douglas wrote a 14-page dissenting opinion. The court's vote was 8-1.

The majority opinion said the cooling-off provision of the Taft-Hartley law "as applied here is not violative of the constitutional limitation prohibiting courts from exercising powers of a legislative or executive nature, powers not capable of being conferred upon a court exercising solely the judicial power of the United States."

The opinion noted that the union contended that the Taft-Hartley section involved was constitutionally invalid because it did not set up a standard of lawful or unlawful conduct on the part of labor or management.

"But the statute does recognize certain rights in the public to have unimpeded, for a time, production in industries vital to the national health or safety. It makes the United States the guardian of these rights in litigation," the opinion added.

The majority opinion said that the court had concluded the Taft-Hartley Acts "entrusts the courts only with the determination of a 'case or controversy,' on which the judicial power can operate, not containing any element capable of only legislative or executive determination."

"We do not find that the termination of the injunction after a specified time, or the machinery established in an attempt to obtain a peaceful settlement of the underlying dispute during the injunction's pendency, detracts from this conclusion," it said.

At another point in the opinion the majority said they thought the judgment of the lower courts in upholding the injunction to stop the strike for 80 days is "amply supported on the grounds that the strike imperils the national safety."

The court said the majority felt they did not need to pass on the government's contention that national safety in this context should be given a broader construction or application.

As to the union's suggestion that some mills, but not all, should be reopened because a few could meet specific defense needs, the court said the Taft-Hartley law

"was designed to provide a public remedy in times of emergency; we can not construe it to require that the United States either formulate a reorganization of the affected industry to satisfy its defense needs without the complete reopening of closed facilities, or demonstrate in court the unavailability of such a reorganization."

"There is no room in the statute for this requirement which the petitioner (United Steelworkers Union) seeks to impose on the government," it said.

The court took note of the union's argument questioning propriety of the District Court's exercising equitable jurisdiction to enjoin the strike once it had made its findings.

The court said the union arguments ranged widely into broad issuess of national labor policy, the availability of other remedies available to a President, the effect of a labor injunction of the collective bargaining processes, consideration of the conduct of the parties to the labor dispute in their negotiations, and conjecture as to the course of these negotiations in the future.

"We do not believe that Congress in passing this statute intended that the issuance of injunctions should depend upon judicial inquiries of this nature. Congress was not concerned with the merits of the parties' positions or the conduct of the negotiations," it added.

"Its basic purpose seems to have been to see that vital production should be resumed, or continued for a time, while further efforts were made to settle the dispute. To carry out its purpose, Congress carefully surrounded the injunction proceedings with detailed procedural devices and limitations. The public report of a board of inquiry, the exercise of political and executive responsibility personally by the president in directing the commencement of injunction proceedings, the statutory provisions looking toward an adjustment of the dispute during the injunction's pendency, and the limited duration of the injunction, represent a congressional determination of policy factor involved in the difficult problem of national emergency strikes.

"This congressional determination of policy factors is of course, binding on the courts."

Plan To Expand Radio-TV Probe

By JOHN H. AVERILL

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee is ready to sweep its searchlight on the tainted world of TV quiz shows to another phase of show business — disc jockeys and song pluggers.

Charges of skulduggery and bribery in promotion of records, particularly on disc jockey shows on TV and radio, have been received by the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee.

"Certain charges have been made to the subcommittee and we shall look into them," chief counsel Robert W. Lishman told a reporter Friday night.

He refused to say whether this is one of the things Chairman Owen Harris (D-Ark.) had in mind when he announced the inquiry will be extended into other television practices.

However, one report — so far unconfirmed — had it that disc jockeys and sales promotion of popular music records will be the chief target of the new inquiry.

Lishman confirmed that, among other things, subcommittee investigators plan to look into allegations of bribing disc jockeys to promote new popular records.

The subcommittee also is expected to take a penetrating look at TV and radio advertising commercials and at the practice of undercover cash payments for plugs of persons or products on TV shows.

Harris said the subcommittee will meet again Dec. 9 to plot its future activities.

The final witness Friday, CBS President Frank Stanton, said "We believe that legislation is not cure-all for these ills and that the primary responsibility lies with the broadcasting industry itself. CBS is moving forward in that conviction."

Before adjourning the quiz show hearings, Harris inserted in the record a letter and memorandum charging commercial bribery in promotion of music. Both came from Burton Lane, president of the American Guild of Authors and Composers.

"There is no doubt," Lane said, "that commercial bribery has become a prime factor in determining what music is played on many broadcast programs and what musical records the public is surreptitiously induced to buy."

"From reports in various publications, it is clear that some of the scandalous facts have come to the attention of both the Federal Trade Commission and the Federal Communications Commission. Yet, neither of these bodies has acted to protect the public or the authors and composers of music."

"The bulk of Lane's 13-page memorandum cited articles in entertainment industry trade publications complaining of such practices as bribing disc jockeys to promote new records."

Lane called this "only a small portion of the entire sordid story."

In New York Friday night, Murray Kaufman, president of the National Council of Disc Jockeys, demanded that the Harris subcommittee apologize for "the statement of your committee which infers dishonest practices by disc jockeys."

"For your information, sir," said Kaufman in a telegram to Harris, "only five per cent of the country's disc jockeys program the music for their shows. It is done by record librarians and dictated by program departments. I respectfully suggest a public statement of apology by your group be made immediately."

Next Move On Laos Is Up In Air

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Speculation mounted today whether Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld will make a mission to the troubled kingdom of Laos, if the Soviets remain opposed to it.

Some diplomats are convinced Hammarskjöld will make the trip in an attempt to ease the unsettled situation, unless the Soviets try to make a major issue out of it.

A spokesman for Hammarskjöld stressed that if he goes it will not be in any connection with the fact-finding report just received by the Security Council.

This was seen as an effort to divorce Hammarskjöld from the fact-finding subcommittee in hopes it would persuade the Soviets to change their mind about his trip. The four-nation subcommittee was set up by the council last September, over bitter Soviet opposition, to investigate the Laotian charges of Communist aggression.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov told newsmen his country took a dim view of a Hammarskjöld visit to Laos. He said any Laotian settlement should be based on the 1954 Geneva agreement setting up an international control commission for Laos.

This was before Kuznetsov met with Hammarskjöld Friday night on the projected trip.

Afterward Kuznetsov told reporters his government opposed any kind of U.N. interference in Laos. He declined to say whether he regarded a trip as interference.

British circles have interpreted Kuznetsov's remarks as a flat turnaround on Hammarskjöld's proposed journey. Other Western delegates feel the Soviet envoy left room for a shift of position.

The fact-finding group told the 11-nation council Friday it had found no proof that North Viet Nam Communists had invaded Laos, but it reported evidence that rebels in Laos were receiving arms and supplies from the Red neighbor to the north.

Kuznetsov declared the report ceased the collapse of the "entire heap of absurd charges advanced by the Laotian government."

Officers Elected By Farm Bureau

FARM BUREAU'S . . . new president, Harry Jarvis, receives congratulations from past-president W. W. Wooten.

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Harry Jarvis of Route 2, Ayden was elected president of the Pitt County Farm Bureau at the annual meeting of the group at the Pitt County Court House last night.

B. Alton Gardner was elected vice-president, while Ralph C. Tucker of Greenville was elected secretary-treasurer for the coming year.

Dr. Emol A. Falls, associate professor of Economics at North Carolina State College, gave the main address, a talk on how to get things done.

According to Dr. Falls, first you must have a desire to accomplish something. "You have got to have an objective."

Second, according to the doctor, you must know how to accomplish the thing. "You must have the facts and know about your subject."

Third, "you have got to want to do it." The key word is "Action," and "you have to be enthusiastic," he added.

Dr. Falls concluded by saying "anything the mind is capable of conceiving," within reason, "the body is able to carry out." "You become what you think about" and nothing more or less.

In addition to electing officers last night, the group passed several resolutions, probably the most important of which dealt with tobacco.

The group recommended the Farm Bureau work for a one-year freeze on tobacco at the 1959 price support level and also recommended a careful study of the acreage-pounding control measure be conducted. The group recommended an investigation of

Atlantic Seaboard Chilled

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Numbering cold air surged over the Atlantic seaboard today in the wake of a deep freeze that stung the mid-continent.

While the mercury plummeted throughout Eastern sectors, some Western points showed an amazing recovery from the season's most intense cold onslaught.

Scattered rain splashed the Atlantic coastline overnight. Richmond, Va., was doused with 2.50 inches during a 6-hour period while Cross City, Fla., caught 1.10 inches.

The advancing cold mass triggered a 10 to 35 degrees drop from a previous early morning period over a wide area from Alabama and Mississippi northward.

The upper Mississippi Valley was the coldest area with readings generally in the teens. The Ohio Valley and Eastern areas showed some improvement.

Traces of rain and a small blanket of snow dotted the Great Lakes region. Bemidji, in northwestern Minnesota, had two inches of fresh snow.

Grand Rapids, Mich., reported a snow accumulation of one inch while Marquette, in the northern part of the state, had more than 11 inches on the ground.

A warming trend prevailed from western Oklahoma to the Dakotas and through Montana.

Douglas, Wyo., which had 4 early Friday, saw the mercury reach 48. Phillips, S.D., went from -2 to 42.

Hodges' Voice Is Beamed To East

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina said today the Soviet Union's politico-economic invasion can change the international trade balance unless the West intensifies its participation in world trade.

In a broadcast beamed to the Soviet satellite countries by Radio Free Europe, Hodges said the "United States now finds itself in a buyers' market and will have to compete much harder for its share of world trade."

The governor is in Europe with 66 members of the North Carolina trade and industry mission. He explained their mission to Europe is the result of his state's great industrial growth.

"We felt it was time to establish strong overseas trade relations," he said.

Hodges, who visited the Soviet Union last summer, said Russia has the advantage of using "political rather than business methods" in her bid for world market.

But he said the Soviet people and the people of the Communist bloc generally are "forcing their rulers to grant them radical concessions — more freedoms, more food, more consumers items."

"I bring you greetings from the West," Hodges told listeners in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria and said he welcomes evidence of improvement in their living standards. He added he also wanted to relay the "earnest hope of the free world that you may one day enjoy complete self-determination."

The Tar Heels will rest here during the weekend. On Monday they will host a reception for Bavarian civic and business leaders.

Later Monday, Hodges and several members of the tour will fly to Switzerland and then go to Paris.

In Frankfurt, Hodges and other members of the trip attended a luncheon arranged by the German-American Chamber of Commerce. Among the Germans attending was Dr. Hans C. Boden, president of the Allgemeine Elektrizitätsgesellschaft.

The governor said the Germans "were completely shocked when they heard that our state is the nation's largest manufacturer of textiles, tobacco and household furniture products."

The Germans suggested an exchange of information booklets as a practical way of further promoting business contacts.

Boys Rob Bank, Return To Give Themselves Up

KRANZ, S.D. (AP) — Four high school boys, dismissed from classes while their teachers attended a convention, interrupted a rabbit hunt Friday and robbed a bank of $1,500.

Thinking it over, they returned to the scene of the holdup 10 minutes later, gave the money back and waited for a deputy sheriff to arrest them.

State's Atty. Dean Sumner of Codington County said the robbery started off as a prank, but turned serious when one of two 16-year-olds "decided to go ahead with it on the spur of the moment."

The boy entered the Farmers State Bank in this northeastern South Dakota hamlet with a white handkerchief over his face and carrying a .22 calibre rifle. Another, 13, stood in the lobby, his face covered by a stocking cap.

The rifleman ordered bank president A. J. Turbak, 60, to "give me some money."

"I didn't think he would shoot, but he had threatened me and, well, you just never know," Tur-bak said.

Turbak's son, Jerome, 37, vice president of the bank, opened a cash drawer and the 16-year-old took a handful of $20, $10 and $5 bills. He and the younger boy ran out the door to a car occupied by the other boys, 16 and 15.

Sumner said the boys told him three of them convinced the one who held up Turbak to return the money. After driving around the block they went back to the bank and gave the money back.

When a deputy sheriff arrived he found the foursome standing outside the bank waiting to be arrested.

Sumner said the boys had been rabbit hunting while schools were closed to permit teachers to attend the South Dakota Education Assn. convention.

Sumner said all four boys were members of "good families" at Watertown, 10 miles west of here. None has a prior record.

The four will be taken to juvenile court charged with "an act of delinquency," Sumner said.

Bank Robbers Brought A Stool

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two bank robbers took a stool to work Friday.

They strolled into a downtown branch of the Security-First National Bank and put the stool beside a teller's cage. Then one of the men climbed on top of the stool, reached over the cage and picked up three sacks of coins.

When a teller tried to stop them, the other man waved a gun.

The pair fled. Loss was estimated at about $330. But it wasn't a total loss for the bank. The robbers forgot their stool.

TRADE PACT

MOSCOW (AP) — Holland and the Soviet Union have signed a new trade agreement calling for the exchange of 750 million dollars worth of goods during 1960.

Dowling Thought Next Ambassador

WASHINGTON (AP)—Walter C. Dowling, a diplomat with 29 years of experience, reportedly has been chosen as the new U.S. ambassador to West Germany.

He will succeed David Bruce, informed sources said Friday, adding that West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has sent word that he is delighted with the choice.

Dowling, 54, served from 1953 to 1956 as Deputy U.S. high commissioner for Germany and later as minister counselor at the American Embassy in Bonn.

Previously he was Deputy U.S. high commissioner for Austria and counselor of embassy at Vienna.

SUGGESTS BIRCH ROD

LONDON (AP) — Lord Chief Justice Parker of England says he is a believer in corporal punishment. He suggested Friday that the government give the courts power to order criminals whipped by a birch rod as a crime deterrent.

$23.5 Millions In Road Work Set

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Ten contracts totaling 23½ million dollars for highway improvements were awarded here Friday by the North Carolina Highway Commission.

The commission, which completed its first meeting here since 1950, also approved requests for $94,003.07 for urban reconstruction. An agency grant of $36,000 was made by the commission to rebuild a 150-foot long bridge over Stony Creek, about eight miles north of Burlington. The bridge was washed out by a flash flood Oct. 10.

Included in the funds for urban reconstruction are $17,000 for Greensboro and $20,000 for Statesville and $4,200 for Mount Gilead.

Action on an ordinance designed to limit the speed of passenger vehicles towing boat trailers or rental type two-wheel trailers was deferred until the December meeting. Commissioner James Mason of Laurinburg said he wanted to rephrase the ordinance so that it will not apply to trucks.

The contracts awarded were those opened Tuesday. Two other contracts were not awarded because the commission said bids exceeded estimates. Both were for small jobs.

The commission will meet next in Raleigh Dec. 9-11.

Actor Victor McLaglen Dies

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Victor McLaglen, one of the movie's all-time rough-tough actors and Academy Award winner, died today. He was 72.

The London-born actor died from heart disease at his home at nearby Newport Beach after an illness of six weeks.

His widow, son, Andy, and daughter, Sheila, were at the bedside when death came.

McLaglen, who won his Oscar in 1925 for one of the screen's classic performances as "The Informer," had been fairly inactive in recent years. His last job was in a "Rawhide" TV show which his son produced.

McLaglen also was nominated for a supporting actor's Academy Award in 1952 for "The Quiet Man," like "The Informer," a story of Ireland.

The son of the Anglican Bishop of Claremont, McLaglen grew up in South Africa where his father was stationed for many years.

After serving in World War I, McLaglen first became a professional boxer, but later went on the stage where he soon developed into one of the top portrayers of rough-talking types.

His stage work brought him into British movies in which he became a star. He came to America during the movies' silent era and made "Beau Geste" and "What Price Glory." Later, he and actor Edmund Lowe teamed up as the raucous, hell-raising soldiers of World War I. Capt. Flag and Sgt. Quirt, they were box office favorites in the late 20s.

Congressman Is Hung In Effigy

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Rep. Peter Mack (D-Ill.) was hanged in effigy Friday in the classroom of a Northwestern University professor he wants fired.

Mack is a member of a House subcommittee investigating the rigging of television quiz programs. He said that Northwestern should fire Dr. Bergen Evans who prepared questions about English on two of the programs investigated. Mack contended Evans participated in the deception.

Northwestern officials said there is no evidence that Evans was aware of any deception and will not be dismissed.

Peace Stressed In Soviet Celebration

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow today celebrated the 42nd anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution in a festive mood with the shortest military parade ever staged for the big holiday.

"The word 'peace' is evident everywhere both in speech and signs throughout the Soviet Union," said Moscow radio as three days of merrymaking got under way.

In the keynote address at a Red Square rally, Defense Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky praised Premier Nikita Khrushchev's world disarmament proposals to the United Nations.

But he also said that the Soviet Union will maintain a state of high military preparedness until the proposals are accepted and all U.S. foreign bases are liquidated.

The 20-minute military parade contained nothing spectacularly new in equipment, according to Western military attaches.

The civilian demonstration that followed included a display of miniature sports cars. This was the first time such cars had ever appeared in a Red Square parade.

Thousands of athletes and other civilian groups participating in the parade cheered Khrushchev and other government and party leaders atop the mammoth mausoleum.

Moscow streets were decked out with red streamers and flags to mark the 1917 revolution.

There was plenty of evidence of recent Soviet scientific advances. A model of Lunik III, which transmitted the first pictures of the hidden side of the moon, hung over Sverdlovsk Square. Huge photographs and models of other Soviet space vehicles were placed in prominent spots in other sections.

In his speech, Malinovsky repeated the claim frequently voiced by Khrushchev that "the correlation of forces in the world arena is changing in favor of socialism."

Commenting on Khrushchev's trip to the United States, Malinovsky said it "opened broad prospects for the establishment of a stable peace on earth."

But in ringing tones, the defense chief put the world on notice that the Soviet Union is not letting down its military guard.

After his references to disarmament, he told the crowd gathered in the brilliantly decorated square in front of the Kremlin:

"As long as our proposals are not accepted, as long as the numerous American military bases surrounding the U.S.S.R. are not liquidated, the Communist party and the Soviet government consider it their sacred duty to maintain the armed forces in a state of high preparedness."

Fear Blizzard Proved Fatal For 32 On Himalayan Climb

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — "My husband has climbed mountains for 20 years," said the wife of Hideo Kato. "He would not lose out to a blizzard."

But while Mrs. Kato refused to believe the worst at the couple's home in Japan, Nepal officials held out little hope for the veteran climber and 31 members of his Mt. Gauri Sankar expedition.

They vanished more than three weeks ago while trying to scale the forbidding face of the 23,400-foot Himalayan mountain named for the Hindu god of destruction.

Mt. Gauri Sankar, which straddles the Nepal-Tibet border 22 miles northeast of this Sherpa village, never has been conquered.

It was feared that Kato, his two Japanese companions and 29 Nepalese porters perished in blizzards and avalanches that swept the mountain last month.

Kato's party has not been heard from since leaving its base camp 18,000 feet up the mountain. Two porters were left at the camp and one of them brought word here Friday of the disappearance.

A ground search got under way immediately but Nepal government officials said it might take 10 days to reach Gauri Sankar.

An air search also is expected to begin shortly. Indian planes probably will not participate, however, because of current border disputes between India and Communist China.

Some in Katmandu suggested that the expedition may have found it impossible to scale the Nepalese side of the mountain—described by experts as unscalable—and tried the Tibetan side. If this happened, the sources said, the party may have been arrested by Red Chinese troops stationed along the Tibetan border.

Kato, 38, a Japanese government statistician, was accompanied by Moriaki Abe and Mitsu-haru Oishi. They started their trek from Katmandu the second week of September.

Kato hoped to reach the top of the mountain to commemorate this year's 25th anniversary of the founding of Fukuoka University, his alma mater.

Mt. Gauri Sankar is about 35 miles west of the world's highest mountain—the 29,022-foot Mt. Everest.

It is part of a semicircle of border mountains that includes Mt. Cho Oyu, which claimed the lives of two European women and two Sherpa guides during an expedition last month.

School Activities Will Mark Education Week

Greenville's city schools join educational systems across the nation next week to observe American Education Week.

Slated nationally for Nov. 8-11, the special week is promoted for the purpose of focusing attention on America's education operations.

In Greenville, leaders and organizations have scheduled a pair of local television programs, two radio programs distributed post-ers and leaflets, and devised a special open house schedule at each school in the city. Local restaurants will use AEW place mats.

All activities are designed to follow up the national theme for AEW — "Praise and Appraise Your Schools."

School activities:

Agnes Fullovo — letters have been sent to parents inviting them to visit the school at any time during the week. Some classrooms have special exhibits and programs.

Third St. — letters of invitation have been sent to parents to attend open house on Tuesday; Wahl-Coates—open house all week; Junior High — open house all week.

Rose High — open house all week.

Elmhurst — open house all week, bulletin boards prepared to carry out the week's theme, PTA sponsors book drive for library with the goal: "One book per family." PTA meets Thursday night to continue study of new math series, and Friday chapel program by third grade will combine AEW and Book Week.

Offering Course In Disarmament

By BILL W. DEAN
OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — We've got the cart before the horse in our disarmament wrangling with the Soviets, says the teacher of what may be the only college course in disarmament in the nation.
There's no use arguing about nuclear warheads, contends the Rev. Edward A. Conway, S.J. We ought to be worrying about the missiles that would deliver them.
"We have let technology get too far ahead of our political accom- plishment," says Father Conway, secluding with a fistful of techni- cal papers in the Jesuit quarters of Creighton University.
"Before long it will be too late to control the missiles. The thing is getting farther out of hand every minute."
The crux of the problem is in- spection, the thing on which America has been standing firm. But Father Conway gives it a different twist.
There are three phases to a weapon: production, possession and use. So far as atomic bombs are concerned, argues the Jesuit priest, "You can't inspect for pos- session any more."
"We would always have the nagging fear they had secreted a sufficient number of nuclear weapons to back up any black- mail."
But you can inspect missiles and their launching facilities, and that's the practical place to try to exercise control, he believes.
"It doesn't matter so much how many atomic bombs you have so long as you don't have the deliv- ery systems."

At 57, white-haired Father Con- way is a specialist but not an optimist about disarmament. If anything will prompt it in these days of the cold war, he says, it is fear — fear and the feeling of each side they are about equal in their weapon development.
"I have a feeling now no serious attempt at disarmament will be made until both sides get what they need; a real stalemate with both satisfied they are not the underdogs."
Milwaukee-born Father Conway started out as a student of Papal disarmament teachings, originat- ed a 1943 "Pattern for Peace" declaration backed by 147 Protes- tant, Catholic and Jewish leaders and later lectured for the State Department on the Dumbarton Oaks proposals which led to the formation of the United Nations.
In 1945 he was a leader in an educational campaign for inter- national control of atomic energy, later an official Catholic observer in the United Nations and for six years was foreign affairs editor of America, national Catholic weekly review.
Father Conway has taught at Creighton, Regis College at Den- ver, Marquette in Milwaukee and St. Louis University.
The first Baptist church in the United States was organized in Providence, R.I., in 1638.

ONE GREAT CERTAINTY

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

We go back to the old homestead, the old home town. Perhaps we have long anticipated that visit, but now we find that the changes are so disillusioning that we don't care whether we ever return. We meet a friend of years gone by and hardly recognize him. He too has changed. We compare the face reflected from our mirror with old photographs and realize that, without knowing it, we have changed. We try to use a map of yester-year only to discover that it is out of date.

We shudder a little as we wonder if there is any thing that remains the same.

The Church tells us that there is. Through the centuries it is the one institution which points to the unchanging God, "the same yesterday, today, and forever." Worship customs may differ, but every Christian congregation seeks to lead men to the one great Certainty, which is God. That is why you will want to start attending church regularly. Here is peace. Here is assurance.

Co-op Association Explained

By CRAIG WORTHINGTON
Rose High School Reporter

Managed entirely by the students of Rose High School, the Rose High Student Cooperative Association serves to develop a democratic school spirit, loyalty, and a sense of responsibility in all school affairs.

It further serves to advance mutual respect between faculty and students, encourage worthy school organizations and initiate projects which will advance the good of the school.

The association consists of two branches—executive and legislative. The constitution also provides for a judicial branch. The officers, who include Clark Brewer, president; Charles Taft, vice president; Melinda Coleman, secretary; Erskine Duff, treasurer; and Johnny Reynolds and Billy Neal James, roving representatives, and standing committee chairmen compose the executive branch.

Eight standing committees aid in carrying out the work of the Co-operative Association. Special committees are formed when necessary.

The Traffic Committee has charge of making and enforcing traffic rules at the high school. Lois Tunnell serves as chairman for this committee.

The Building Improvement Committee promotes and sponsors clean-up campaigns, locker checks, fire drills, and similar projects for the betterment of the school. Bill Clapp holds this chairmanship.

The Welcome and Dance Committee serves as the official student host to all school visitors, when requested, serves as the planning or assisting committee for any convention or meeting in the school, and handles all dances sponsored by the Student Council. Frances Clark leads this committee.

The Judicial Committee, headed by Brenda Harris, interprets the constitution and acts of the council to the students and advises the council and its officers when their acts exceed the limit of powers prescribed by the constitution. In addition, this committee has helped other schools to start student councils and also has sent copies of our Honor Code to other schools.

Jeanette Taylor heads the Open Forum and Assembly Committee, which plans and conducts school open forums and assemblies.

The Orientation Committee, headed by Madge Stancill, helps to acquaint incoming freshmen with the activities, clubs, and curriculum of the school. The Publicity Committee holds the responsibility of publicizing the council work in the school and town papers and by any other possible means. The Citizenship Committee serves to promote good citizenship at Rose High School. Frances Cozart heads this committee.

The legislative branch is composed of one representative from each homeroom. This representative is elected and has an alternate elected to serve in his absence.

Mrs. Nell C. Everett, English teacher, serves as adviser for the Student Cooperative Association.

The main duties of the entire council include formulating and passing new policies pertaining to the student activities of the school and recommending administrative policies and actions to the faculty and principal.

Other duties include supervising all student government elections, passing on the disbursement of student funds, and granting club charters and revoking club charters if a club fails to live up to the standards of its charter.

Representatives of the Rose High student council recently attended the N. C. Student Council Congress at Southern High in Durham. Erskine Duff, Clark Brewer and Johnny Reynolds, along with Mrs. Everett, adviser, attended this congress. The theme of this congress was "The You In Student Council Success." This theme was developed through the discussion of the "U" in Student, Council, and Success.

The Student Cooperative Association now has school jackets and sweat shirts on sale to students.

The Student Council will sponsor an Honor Code assembly November 16. The purpose of this assembly will be to acquaint new students with the Honor Code and to give them and other students a chance to sign it. The Rev. Marvin Vick of Kinston will speak on the four parts of the Honor Code.

Fall flowers of bronze and gold chrysanthemums decorated the home. A white linen cloth covered the dining table, centered with an arrangement of gold chrysanthemums with pale green tapers on either side.

Mrs. Ratcliffe served punch. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Jimmie Griffith, Mrs. Mahlon Coles and Miss Judy Adams.

Miss Ratcliffe was presented a shoulderette of gold chrysanthemums and a gift of a cup and saucer in her pattern.

COMMUNITY DAY FIGURES—Mrs. Karl Andersen, chairman of the committee on Christian World Missions, and the Rev. Terry Agner, speaker on World Community Day here, are shown above in the First Presbyterian Church, where services were held yesterday morning.

The Rev. Terry Agner, pastor of the United Lutheran Mission, addressed World Community Day observers yesterday morning at the First Presbyterian Church.

His topic was "Full Partners for Peace," the theme of World Community Day as chosen by the United Church Women, sponsors of the observance.

The Rev. Agner was introduced by Mrs. Karl Andersen, chairman of the committee of Christian World Missions.

Discussing peace, the Rev. Agner said the present extreme interest in peace, for the most part, has not been motivated basically by men's goodwill to one another, but more by the realization that peace is the only alternative to self-preservation.

He said to achieve peace, he believed men "must be primarily concerned about God's will as it is revealed to them in the gospel."

"More channels of communication on the local level are needed to be kept open if more progress is to be made toward becoming partners, full partners for peace," the Rev. Agner said. He added that there are barriers that still separate men from their fellowmen, and which keep men from being partners for peace.

In closing, the Rev. Agner said men "must be partners in Jesus Christ" if they are to be full partners for peace.

Special music during the World Community Day observance was presented by Paul Hickfang, soloist, of the East Carolina College Department of Music, and Mrs. Guy Smith, organist of the First Presbyterian Church.

The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Richard Gammon, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Members of the Christian World Missions committee are Mrs. Paul Ricks and Mrs. Helen Sermons.

Officers of the United Church Women in Greenville are Mrs. Keith Holmes, president, and Mrs. H. H. Bryant, vice president.

Miss Ratcliffe Is Honored

Mrs. Roy Martin entertained at an informal tea in honor of Miss Cathryn Ratcliffe, bride-elect of November, at her home Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Martin, the honoree and Mrs. Ed Ratcliffe, mother of the bride-elect, greeted guests at the door.

Fall flowers of bronze and gold chrysanthemums decorated the home. A white linen cloth covered the dining table, centered with an arrangement of gold chrysanthemums with pale green tapers on either side.

Mrs. Ratcliffe served punch. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Jimmie Griffith, Mrs. Mahlon Coles and Miss Judy Adams.

Miss Ratcliffe was presented a shoulderette of gold chrysanthemums and a gift of a cup and saucer in her pattern.

Mrs. Perkins Has Birthday

STOKES—Mrs. J. L. Perkins celebrated her 81st birthday with a turkey and ham dinner at her home this week.

Those attending were Julian Perkins and Miss Joy Perkins of Durham; Mrs. Mack Cutchins III of Whitakers; Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Roebuck, Mr. and Mrs. Reid Perkins and son Walter, Rev. H. P. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Vance Perkins and daughter Jane, all of Greenville; Miss Jean Perkins of Williamston; Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Perkins and daughters, Jewell and Marsha, and Mrs. Perkins' sister, Mrs. Cora Page, all of Stokes.

Mrs. Perkins was presented a corsage of white camellias.

The home was decorated with arrangements of autumn flowers.

Corsage Workshop

Mrs. Joe Simon of Kinston will conduct a demonstration workshop on corsage making Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. John T. Barnhill in Lakewood Pines. Those wishing to make corsages are asked to bring their own flowers and greens. A small admission fee will be charged, and the public is invited by the Lakewood Pines Garden Club, sponsors of the workshop.

Carolyn Miller and Jewel Gallahan will greet guests at the door.

The receiving line is composed of Mrs. E. Allen Striplin, resident-counselor of Wilson Hall, and the house officers, Markie Smith, Adrian Walters, Jean Flake and Evelyn Cooley.

Betty Dunn will pour, Jackie Crutchfield and Carolyn Griffin will serve.

The guest book will be presided over by Helen Finley, with Barbara Galloway and Gray Baggett as guide guests. Betty Marsh-bourne, Joyce Byrum, Bernice Baker and Alice Wiggins have charge of refreshments and decorations.

Pilot Club Has Dinner-Program

Mrs. Mary A. Corbett of Rocky Mount, lieutenant-governor of Pilot International District Six (state of North Carolina), paid her official visit to the Greenville Pilot Club at the October dinner-program meeting held at St. James Methodist Church.

She presented convention highlights of interest to members, especially as regards the four recipients of the Ruby Newhall Memorial Scholarship fund, totalling $4,050 since the local group had sponsored the Panamanian friend of Mrs. Ann De La Mater, now studying at Eastman School of Music for an award.

She mentioned Anchor Clubs now organized by 68 Pilot clubs have a high school age girl's group with 85 clubs as an outstanding feeder group for Pilots, with a notable record comparable to the Pilot Code of Ethics.

District Six convention will be held in New Bern April 22-24 and present membership of 22 clubs with 540 members will be increased prior to that time with new clubs organized in Mt. Airy, Goldsboro and Leaksville, she advised.

Anniversary Tea

The Pilot Anniversary Tea at the home of Mrs. Robert W. Fennell commemorated the organization of Pilot International. The colors of green and gold were carried out in candles, mints, punch, napkins and centerpiece. Roses and fall flowers were used throughout the home.

Guests were greeted by the hostess and President Ann Phillips, while goodbyes were said to Dr. Georgia V. Mills and Mrs. Olivera Rouse.

Mrs. W. W. Howell presided at the punch bowl. Assisting in serving were Mrs. James Butler, Mrs. N. M. Jorgensen, Miss Jane Hadley, Mrs. Kenneth Bing and Miss Lella Higgs.

Mrs. Roy Worthy Salmon was entertained at a miscellaneous bridal shower Thursday night by Mr. Archie Nobles, Mrs. Paul Smith and Mrs. Worthy D. Salmon.

Unofficial Candidates Are Active

North Carolina's "unofficial" and "unannounced" candidates for the gubernatorial sweepstakes next May are keeping the campaign trail hot from one end of the state to the other, setting a gruelling pace for the "official" campaign which will begin a few months from now.

Terry Sanford of Fayetteville, the front-runner of the big three, Addison Hewlett of Wilmington, speaker of the House this year, and John Larkin, veteran Democratic leader in the state, all apparently have increased their campaign activity in recent weeks. In the case of Larkins, his activities recently apparently refute the rumors of several weeks ago that he would not officially announce for the top office when the time comes.

It is clear that the three most prominent "hopefuls" for the governor's office are still hopeful of generating sufficient support to put them in the mansion. In addition to the principals themselves, the activities of the supporters of each of the three men has been on the increase in recent weeks. Plans for the staffs which will handle the actual campaigns apparently are falling into place and on the county level throughout the state at least skeleton organizations are becoming apparent.

There is still plenty of time, of course, for the long-tailed-of dark horse from the Piedmont to enter the gubernatorial picture for next year's election, but as each week passes the prospect of a new name being injected into the campaign becomes more remote. There is still time, too, for one of the big three now apparently in the race to drop out; but that possibility also appears more remote with the lapse of time. It may still be true—as veteran political observers have said—Tar Heel interest in politics does not begin to rise until the sap rises in the spring. Current activities of the candidates and their lieutenants throughout the state make it appear that genuine efforts are being made to kindle considerable interest in next year's gubernatorial race before the snows come. Unofficial or not, the major candidates for governor are intent on getting the campaigns rolling early for the coming election. And from all indications they are getting them rolling at a rather brisk pace for so early in the race.

Our Latin American Relations Are Weak

Attacks on the United States in Panama in recent weeks points up again the urgent need for more attention to U. S. foreign policy and foreign relations as they apply to our neighbors in Latin America.

The anti-U.S. outbursts that have occurred in Latin America with increasing frequency in the past few years have largely been brushed aside as isolated incidents by top officials in our government. Though the incidents may be in a sense "isolated", the increasing frequency with which they have occurred should be a primary source of concern to the United States.

Like nations in some other sections of the world, a number of our Latin American neighbors are underdeveloped and in need of considerable assistance from some source to improve the economic stability of the country and the standard of living of the people. The natural geographic ties which exist between the United States and other nations of the Western Hemisphere should make Latin America a primary interest of this country.

Actually, however, it appears that Latin American relations rank low on the priority list with the State Department. Either that or the programs which are being carried out in those countries by the United States are failing to bring the desired results.

While the United States has cultivated a few strong friendships among Latin American nations, it is obvious that there are many weak links in the friendship chain which extends from the Rio Grande to Cape Horn. The weak links must be strengthened while the strong points are kept solid in the face of intensified efforts on the part of other major powers to cultivate friendships at our expense.

The incidents that have come about recently in Panama should be another stern warning to the United States that its policies toward Latin America need a careful review.

Help To Morale Is About Limit

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's December trip to three continents may give a morale boost to some of the nine nations he visits. But it's doubtful there will be any other effect.

In a sense, Eisenhower is making a return visit. Without exception the top or almost top man from each of the nine countries on his schedule has been here in recent years, a number in recent months.

The nine are France, Italy, Morocco, Greece, Turkey, Iran, Pakistan, Afghanistan, India. The President's personality, going back to World War II days, has been of the kind that could quiet some troubled waters and get people to pull together.

He probably hopes his trip to Europe, Africa and Asia will have some of that affect, plus giving his hosts a sense of American goodwill. Beyond that, it's hard to see anything his trip will achieve except in Paris.

There on Dec. 19, at the end of his trip, he sits down for a three-day meeting with President Charles de Gaulle, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, as a preliminary to meeting Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev some time

The Lines Ran Together

On another page of today's paper there appears a feature on the various highways which pass through Pitt County.

It was done by your columnist and results from tedious searching of various road maps. You can believe us when we say that after awhile the little lines begin to run together and the shields or circles which give the route numbers become difficult to read.

Anyway it's all done now. We don't guarantee that all the roads begin or end where we say they do, but we think they all run through Pitt County.

Of all the roads in this area, the most interesting to us is U.S. 264.

This route begins at Zebulon in a populous area, but as it winds towards the coast the country side becomes more and more desolate.

From Greenville the highway goes to Washington, then Belhaven and Swannquarter. It passes by Lake Mattamuskeet on to Englehard.

From there it's a long drive through swampy territory of 40 or more miles. There is only one community in that distance. That is Stumpy Point which is located just off the highway on the coast.

It's a desolate country through that area and it is said that all kinds of animal life exist in the great swamp to the east of the road.

Eventually, however, you reach Manns Harbor and civilization once again. Just ahead is a modern concrete bridge across Croatan Sound to Manteo.

Another bridge leads from Manteo to the outer banks and a resort which has become the playground for millions of people. That would be the Nags Head, Kitty Hawk, Kill Devil Hill area.

Greenville folks think of themselves as being in the coastal area. But taking U.S. 264 to Nags Head is just about as long a ride from here as it is to Greensboro.

Opinions In Brief Other Editors Saying ...

"If government-owned surpluses of wheat and corn etc., were as easy to dispose of,—or had as many places where they could be put without any trouble as is the case with a surplus in a state treasury, crop surpluses would soon cease to be a problem." — Chetopa (Kans.) Advance.

"Many agricultural authorities have pointed to the virtues of animal agriculture as a means of improving the American diet and, at the same time, doing something constructive about the staggering grain surplus problem. Crops that are turned into meat, it is argued, are certainly to be preferred to crops that go into storage." — Sturgis (S.D.) Tribune.

"Vice President H. B. Warner of B. F. Goodrich Chemical Co., predicts that someday we may be able to buy a suit of nonwoven fabric, so inexpensive that we can wear it until it is wrinkled, then throw it away. If so, man will have come full circle. As we recall, Adam and Eve had some such arrangement regarding their attire." — Asheville Citizen-Times.

(Henderson Dispatch) Time was not so many decades ago when an incident like that which occurred in Panama the other day would have sent American soldiers at forced march into the trouble zone to resist and take over. In that era there was no such rising crescendo of nationalism as is rampant in nearly all parts of the world today. Almost everywhere many tiny states and principalities are clamoring for freedom, whereas they wouldn't know what to do with it if they achieved it. Cuba is an example at the moment.

It was not until Communist influences began to penetrate almost every segment of political life in many lands that outrages and insults such as took place in Panama have exploded to the surface. Tearing down and trampling of the American flag have created serious situations more than once in the past. Americans have been taught to believe that the power and prestige of their government would be used to demand respect for the flag, a symbol of sovereignty and the integrity of this nation. But tempers almost everywhere in these latter times have become so sensitive that Uncle Sam fears to tread in danger spots even in small nations.

The United States spent hundreds of millions of dollars — and in days when a dollar was a real dollar—to build the Panama Canal when all previous efforts had failed. The Canal Zone was acquired under treaty for a hundred years, which has a long time yet to run. What was done was legal. Opening of the water route from the Atlantic to the Pacific has benefited all nations, including Panama. Until now there has never been a challenge to American operation and control of the canal and the immediately contiguous territory. There wouldn't be now but for the infiltration of Communism among a group of young upstarts who barely know what they are doing and do not realize the ultimate potentials of their conduct.

The United States is wholly within its rights in building and maintaining the Panama Canal facilities. Nobody's freedom is infringed upon. And of course the existing treaty and policy will be continued with no backing down because of this show of jealousy and hate. It's the old story of letting Uncle Sam spend his money, then local authorities claiming title to what he has done.

"Every once in awhile someone takes a crack at trying to come up with a word picture of the size of the national debt that can be imagined. Latest one is by Rep. Minshall (R.-Ohio): One million dollars is a stack of $1000 bills; approximately four inches high; one billion is a stack of bills 333 feet high. To illustrate the national debt, you'd need a stack of bills more than 18 miles high. We haven't checked the figures, but what's one mile more or less?" — Detroit (Mich.) Retroit.

Auto Sales Slang

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A bazooka with plenty of scorch and good anchors is o.k. if you can come up with the downstroke. And for a little extra scorch, you can have bezel that'll give added class.

That's not five. Nor is it the latest hep-talk of beatniks. It's jargon used by auto salesmen.

"I don't know where or how it started," says car salesman Arnold Bennett. "Perhaps it's a natural progression of such terms as 'heap' for an old car and 'ponies' for horsepower. Every trade has its slang and ours is no exception."

Auto salesmen sling a slang-usage that's guaranteed to baffle the most astute prospect if he ever hears a couple of "crate pushers" discussing a car he's trying to trade in on a new model.

The average motorist would be completely confused and perhaps alarmed if told that his car's anchors were dragging, that it has a played-out organ, and a cold furnace.

"It's not that we don't want customers to know what we're talking about," Bennett assures.

"It's like I said—every trade has its slang."

The chrome strip around a door frame is called "bezel," heaters are called anchors; radios are organs.

Why is a high powered car called a bazooka?

"It's because such a vehicle has plenty of scorch," Bennett replies.

And what is scorch? Horsepower, of course.

Dazzling chrome trim is jewelry.

"Downstroke" is the downpayment on a car.

In the rest of the country a trade-in car that's dirty and beat up is a "pig," but in Tucson it is called a javalina (native Arizona wild pig).

A "wrap up" is a customer who knows what he wants, and gets it.

"Spooks" are people who want to buy a car but are undecided and confused.

A trade-in car with nice upholstery, good rubber and of recent vintage is a "cream puff," while a big old car is a "hunk of iron."

If two salesmen split commission on a deal, it's known as a "halfy-shafty."

How about "June bugs" and "junior flippers"?

They are teen-agers who infect car lots in late spring and early summer. They look at late model crates," Bennett explains, "but they generally buy heaps."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

THAT GLORIOUS GIFT

Every diligent reader of the Bible often fails to note that Jesus was continually talking about "the kingdom of God" (or the kingdom of heaven, for they both mean the same thing).

We generally assume that Jesus came to point out a new way of life, but much of the way of life which He indicated had been pointed out before by prophets and teachers. Jesus made two unique contributions to the religious life of his day and of subsequent generations. The first contribution was the contribution of himself. He was greater than anything He ever said or did. His second contribution had to do with his preaching about the kingdom. This kingdom of God is the rule of God in the world. Jesus said that it began in the individual heart: "The kingdom of heaven is within you." He said that it existed in the world round about, particularly emphasizing this with the parable of the wheat and tares. But above all, He announced that the kingdom in all its fullness and divine glory was ready to come and be established on the earth. When it came, the whole of human life would be altered, stepped up to inconceivable heights of glory.

All we can do with reference to the kingdom is to wait for it and make ourselves ready to receive it when it comes. We cannot produce it or build it. It is God's gift, and when it comes in its fullness, it will be glorious.

Upsurge Of Credit Promotions

By ELMER ROESSNER There will be a big upsurge of credit promotions with a consequent more-than-seasonal rise of consumer credit totals this Christmas season.

Because of the rash of strikes, total personal income is down. It declined in September, for the first time since January, 1958. It was at an annual rate of $37.6 billion in September compared with $38.0 billion in August. The biggest drop was in labor income, down half a billion dollars.

October figures are expected to show a further drop. Strikes have spread, and the income decline will probably include dividends, which rose in September.

Even if all strikes are adjusted in the next few weeks, hundreds of thousands of families will be short of spending money. If merchants are to move their goods (much of them ordered before the steel strike began to hurt business), they will have to sell more of them on credit. And if families of men who have been on strike — and if families dependent on dividend income — are to buy, many will have to buy on credit.

OTHER LOOK-AHEADS

Outstanding consumer credit increased during September—up $485,000,000 to a total of $37.5 billion. A further rise will probably be shown when the October figures are complete.

Despite the fact that the shortage of new cars will delay some borrowing, the November and December consumer credit totals are likely to show further substantial increase, setting a new all-time high in December.

Here are more business forecasts, reached by the same deductive methods used in predicting the credit upsurge: Budget upset: President Eisenhower is calling for budget requests no higher than last year, but Congress will increase totals, especially for guided missiles and space rockets. Congressmen will insist, even at a risk of a deficit, that Russia's will be overtaken. Besides, 1960 will be an election year, and every Congressman would like to see spending upped in his own district.

LIKE TEMPURA, YES

Hibachi boom. The hibachi, the little Japanese charcoal stove which can be used at the table, is catching on faster, now that the cookout season is over. Dozens of new models are coming to the American market, syndicated cooking experts are spewing out hibachi recipes like crazy, and hibachi cookbooks are being written.

These forecasts are based on advance information:

New credit card: American Express, the Diners Club and the rest will be challenged by a new credit card plan being readied. It will offer sellers a better break on costs without charging the users anything. It is being tested in five states and Canada.

Big carpet push: The carpet industry feels it isn't getting as much of the consumer dollar as it might, and is talking about the biggest industrywide campaign ever. A total of $15,000,000 may be spent next year by the industry and individual manufacturers.

OLD PROMOTER PROTESTS MONOPOLY ON HONESTY

A postcard from the Old Promoter came in today:

"Now there's a demand that the public be told in advance if a person on Person-to-Person has been given advance knowledge of what the questions will be.

"The next step will be, to require appliance salesmen to start out saying, 'The following remarks were prepared by the manufacturer and rehearsed with my sales manager. The refrigerator you are about to see...'

Sounds like a good idea. Let's not let TV monopolize honesty

Rose High of Greenville put forth a gallant and spirited effort last night in an attempt to upset 4-A Wilson, but the visiting Cyclones walked off the field a happy bunch of gridders, surviving the brutal treatment with a four point victory, 13-9.

Playing in Indian-summer weather, the Greensies were like a pack of lonehearted warriors going into battle as they fought their larger foes down to the final minutes of the non-conference contest.

Only with less than a minute remaining did the last home game crowd file for the gates with heavy hearts. The tilt was a battle between two of the top clubs in the state and never did the local contingent resemble a two touchdown underdog.

Taking the opening kickoff, the Phantoms settled down to business and marched 73 yards for a touchdown in the first period of play.

Sophomore Alan McArthur and junior Erskine Duff keyed the march, with the former adding the final touches to the inspired drive.

Picking up six first downs en route to paydirt, McArthur made an outstanding catch of a Duff pass for a six yard gain which turned out to be a key play in the march. The spunky halfback was injured on the play but came back later to figure in the score.

With Randy Bass in for the injured McArthur, the Phants found frequent holes in the supposedly air-tight Wilson line. Robin Wilfong picked up the crucial yardage and Wayne Sumrell added his two-bits to the drive with a 16 yard pick-up.

Two plays saw the Phants pushed back from within the Wilson ten to the eleven but McArthur took a pitch-out from Duff on third down and rifled a touchdown pass to Sumrell. Larry Roberts booted a perfect point and it was 7-0 in favor of the Phants.

Not to be denied, the opportunity to show their single-wing, the Cyclones came right back with a battering ground attack that churned out 70 quick yards for a touchdown.

Tailback Frank Galloway cracked several sizable gains in the drive with a 14 yarder highlighting the march.

With a third down situation on the Greenville five, Galloway cracked to the three but a jarring tackle broke the pigskin loose from the ball carrier and it bounced into the end zone. Fullback Lee Horne pounced on the ball to record a score for the Wilson invaders. Horne bucked straight ahead for the tying point.

Greenville took the following kickoff and picked up two first downs before stalling on the Wilson 36.

Backed up deep in their territory by McArthur's punting, Wilson was never able to muster another drive in the first half.

Late in the first half, a Galloway punt was blocked by Lewis Dail and the ball bounced out of the end zone for a safety. A couple of alert Phantom linemen almost recovered the pigskin in the end zone for a touchdown but had to settle for a two-pointer. The safety pushed Greenville into a 9-7 halftime margin.

For the most part, Wilson junked their single-wing attack in the second half and used the "T" to tally the winning touchdown on a 74 yard march. Running the option play with perfection, Henry Rogers sparked the drive.

Rogers completed only one pass during the night's action but it was a vital one in the victory march. The young quarterback found Jack Hanchrow open on the Greenville five. The play covered 22 yards and gave Wilson a first down at that point.

Fullback Johnny Vick piled over for the touchdown on second down from the one. The extra point was no good but Wilson had surged out from 13-9 early in the final period.

The fired-up Phants came back and were knocking on the Wilson scoring gates the rest of the night. The Phants used the running of Wilfong, Sumrell, and McArthur to penetrate into Cyclone territory but a fifteen yard penalty ended the threat.

The Greensies were back in scoring position minutes later as Erskine Duff took to the air and Alan McArthur and Skip Wright made a couple of acrobatic catches. Wright made his grab on a crucial play with three Wilson de-

Boxing News Remains In Court Rooms

NEW YORK (AP)—There appears to be more boxing activity in commission rooms and law courts than in the ring these days.

The New York State Athletic Commission, which Friday suspended the license of Rosensohn Enterprises Inc., has adjourned its hearings until noon (EST) Tuesday.

The commission has been investigating alleged irregularities in the promotion of the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight title fight at Yankee Stadium June 26.

There's no telling how long this inquiry will continue. After the hearings comes the appeals in court.

Nicholas Atlas, an attorney who made a special appearance Friday for REI, said he was going to ask the State Supreme Court for a ruling on the commission's jurisdiction in the REI verdict.

Atlas contends that the commission lost its jurisdiction because REI's promotional license expired Sept. 30 and that show cause order against the firm in this hearing was dated Oct. 26. The commission suspended REI Aug. 14.

The attorney had asked for, and been refused, a two-week adjournment because of the illness of Vincent Velella, president of REI. Atlas produced a letter from Velella's physician saying Velella was suffering from "nervous exhaustion."

The commission made five charges against Cus D'Amato suspended manager of Patterson, and three against REI and Rosensohn.

After D'Amato and Rosensohn were questioned on the witness stand Friday by Julius November, D'Amato's lawyer, November asked for dismissal of three of the five charges against his client. The commission reserved decision of the motion.

fenders battling for the ball.

Duff found McArthur on a 11 yard pass that gave Greenville a first on the Wilson 14. Wilfong picked up one yard on a center buck and McArthur drove for five more to the eight. On third down, McArthur never had a chance as he was hit immediately after taking a handoff from Duff. The play netted a four yard loss and a desperate fourth down pass by McArthur fell incomplete.

Frank Galloway was the big cog in the Wilson offense which clicked off 216 yards on the ground. McArthur led Rose High's offense, picking up 52 yards against the stout Wilson line and making three catches for 26 more yards. The triple-threat sophomore also completed the touchdown pass which was good for eleven yards.

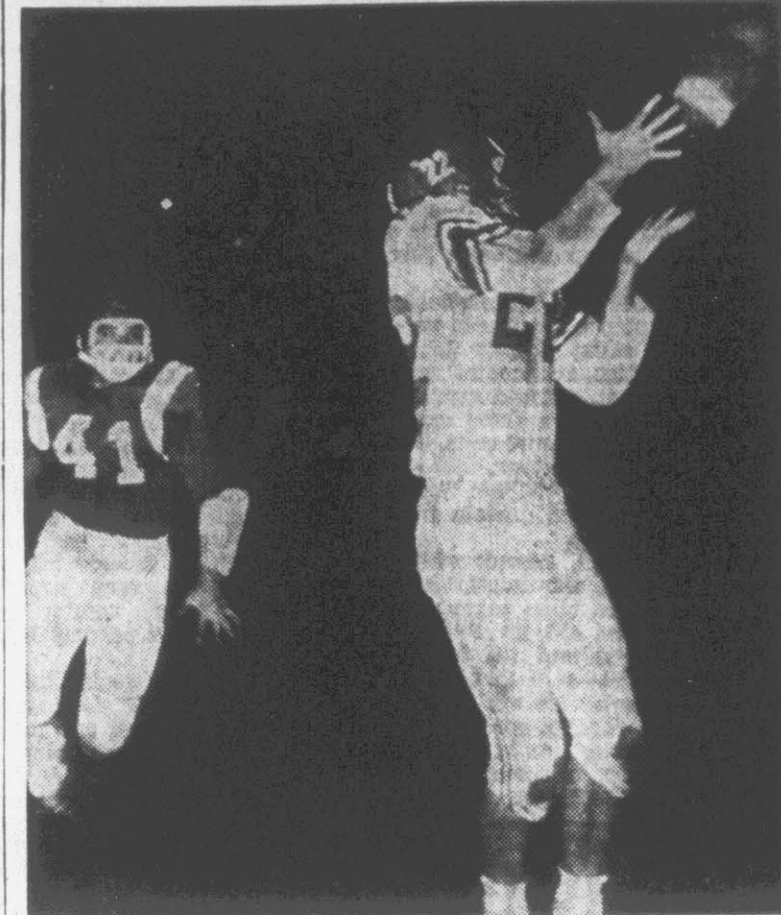

Lewis Dail led the inspired Greenville line but had plenty of assistance from Jeff Fountain, Bert Aycock, Skip Wright, Bill Wade, and Lawrence Davenport.

Wilfong, Duff, and Sumrell joined McArthur in making the Greenville machine click.

Coach Bud Phillips was well pleased with his club's performance. "I thought we played a real good game—a couple of breaks hurt us but as a whole we made a good effort," he noted. The Greenville coach felt that it was one of the best games his club had played this season.

"We seem to be getting back in shape and should be ready for the rest of our schedule."

Greenville will be on the road this week, taking on Roanoke Rapids in a conference engagement.

MAKES CATCH—Alan McArthur is shown making a catch of an Erskine Duff pass in last night's game won by Wilson, 13-9. Johnny Vick (41) comes in to make the tackle.

FRANK GALLOWAY . . . sparked the Wilson Cyclones to their seventh victory of the season last night against Greenville. The lanky tailback was the workhorse in the visitors' single-wing attack. He is shown above picking up a nice chunk of yardage.

Miami Quarterback Paces Victory Over NC

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Quarterback Fran Curci, a sharpshooting passer on offense and a nimble tiger on defense, led the Miami Hurricanes to a 14-7 victory Friday night over North Carolina.

"He's a slick one," said Tar Heel end Al Goldstein. "He's great," said fullback Bob Elliott. "He's very sharp with the short ones," said Carolina Coach Jim Hickey.

Curci scored one touchdown and broke up two Carolina drives to spark the Hurricanes. He got the first Miami touchdown on a one-yard sneak in the first period and his passes set up the other in the third period.

The 152-pound senior stalled one Tar Heel drive by knocking down a pass at the goal line. He stopped another by intercepting a pass.

Curci was at the controls on every Miami offensive play and was on the field much of the game on defense.

New York Still Trying Regain Their Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—New York interests still are trying to recapture the Dodgers, The Examiner reported today.

"I am sure it is no secret that we have been approached by New York people over quite a period of time," the newspaper quoted Dodger President Walter O'Malley. "Other than that, I have nothing else to say on this matter."

Columist Vincent X. Flaherty said it is "more than a coincidence" that New York Mayor Wagner has been in Los Angeles the past three days.

A spokesman for Mayor Wagner laughed off the report, saying Wagner hasn't seen anyone about the Dodgers during his trip and doesn't intend to.

He said Wagner came to Los Angeles primarily to address a series of meetings for the Jewish National Fund. The Los Angeles trip was planned several months ago, he added.

O'Malley was not immediately available for comment.

North Carolina got its offense going in the third period. Jack Cummings hit Goldstein at the Miami 13, then threw 12 yards to the Tar Heel end for the score.

All of Miami's 99 yards gained passing were due to Curci's accurate arm. He also led the Hurricanes in rushing with 53 yards in nine carries.

He was just about the whole game for Miami. Coach Andy Gustafson even had Curci kicking, a chore usually handled exclusively by Stan Markowski.

Curci averaged 35.7 yards in three kicks to 32 yards for Markowski on four kicks.

Gustafson said he played Curci on defense because "I couldn't take him out and then put him back in under these new substitution rules. We don't particularly like to use him on defense."

"If he weighed a few more pounds, we'd use him on defense a lot more."

Hickey said Curci's passing "hurt us most. He hit four or five to keep that second touchdown drive alive. He's very sharp with the short ones."

"You've got to give Miami credit when they had to go, they moved the ball. That's something we didn't do when we were close."

North Carolina, highly rated before the season began, now has won three and lost five. The Hurricanes have a 4-3 record.

North Carolina gained 142 yards through the air with Cummings and Ray Farris throwing. Joe Davies gained 44 yards to lead the Carolina rushers who netted 133 yards.

Early in the second quarter Danny Dilda and Howard Moyer picked up enough yardage for Farmville to place the ball on the Havelock three yard line. A hard running fullback, Clarence Moyer carried for the Farmville TD. The extra point attempt was no good.

Havelock, coming back this quarter, drove to the Farmville one yard line. Hampered by a 15 yard penalty and a strong Red Devil defense, the Rams finally connected with a pass from Sawyer to David Seaton for the TD. James Seaton carried for the extra point. This gave the Rams a seven point margin over Farmville at the half.

Neither team scored in the third quarter. At one time the Rams were only 15 yards from the goal line on fourth and one for a first down when they were stopped cold by the strong Farmville defense.

In successive fourth quarter plays Danny Dilda, Farmville halfback, raced the ball 40 yards and then highlighted his run with a 36 yard pass to connect with J. Y. Monk for a TD. The extra point attempt failed.

The other afternoon game pitted North Carolina State against Mississippi Southern at Mobile, Ala. Maryland's improving forces face Navy at Baltimore tonight. Wake Forest, the other ACC member, is idle.

Duke, with a 3-4 overall record, began to roll in its last two games. Last week the Duke's upset Georgia Tech 10-7 in one of the finest efforts of any Blue Devil football team.

The Duke line features guard Mike McGee, a 220-pounder who was Associated Press lineman of the week for his play against Tech. The backfield, staffed mostly with young backs, can be explosive.

Clemson has more experience and a line equal to Duke's. Sparkplugging the team is quarterback Harvey White, likely the finest signal caller in the ACC.

Clemson's only defeat came from Georgia Tech, 16-6, against other common foes, Duke lost to South Carolina 12-7, beat Rice 24-7 and North Carolina State 17-15. Clemson defeated South Carolina 27-0, N.C. State 23-0 and Rice 19-0.

The Virginia faced a South Carolina that has lost only to North Carolina and Clemson and with three

Following a 30 yard pass from Sawyer to David Seaton, James Seaton, with first and goal, carried the remaining three yards for Havelock's third TD of the game. The extra point attempt failed.

Immediately following this, Havelock kicked off to Farmville and with less than two minutes left in the game the Devils, with a right reverse pass play, picked up the winning TD.

The TD came, following a profitable return by Howard Moyer, when Danny Dilda threw a 40 yard TD pass which was received by J. Y. Monk. Clarence Moyer carried for the extra point. This brought the final score to a 26-20 win for the hard-hitting Farmville squad.

Half time homecoming activities for Havelock included the crowning of Miss Carolyn Williams as Homecoming Queen and music by the Havelock band.

The Red Devils are to be congratulated for their playing in the coastal conference this year. The fine spirited team has shown excellent cooperation as well as good playing ability. Under the capable direction of Coach Howard Moyer, the Farmville gridiron men have chalked up a good record and demonstrated able playing.

Eight of the squad will be leaving the Red Devils this year and Coach Moyer commented last week that the graduating men would be extremely hard to replace.

ACC games remaining, could end up close to the top. Virginia entered the game riding a 15-game losing streak which includes seven straight this season. The Cavaliers also were after their first touchdown at home this season. All of their 48 points had been scored away.

The N.C. State - Mississippi Southern game at Mobile was the afternoon half of a doubleheader followed tonight by Alabama and Tulane. The Wolfpack was after its second victory of the season after five straight defeats. Mississippi Southern, 4-2, was on the rebound after a 21-7 upset loss to Memphis State last week.

Maryland was prepared to spring its I formation against Navy and then set for some wide-open Middle passing by Jim Maxfield who set a new Navy passing record last week with 18 completions for 290 yards.

In Friday night's game, North Carolina and Miami were matched evenly, but the Hurricane's little quarterback, Fran Curci, proved the difference. He plunged over from the one for Miami's first score and his passes set up Miami's second TD in the third quarter. Curci's defensive work helped to stave off two Tar Heel scoring opportunities.

North Carolina's quarterback Jack Cummings' passing was the bright spot for the Tar Heels. He tossed a 12-yard touchdown pass to end Al Goldstein. In the final minutes, Cummings' passing put the Tar Heels on the move but the drive was stopped by an interception.

It seems that the only way he could get one was to order a thousand of them at $5.00 apiece, because a die would have to be made to duplicate the old putter-head, and so it would cost almost as much for one as a thousand.

Probably many of us have known of situations where an old, worn item was so prized, that an identical replacement would be worth many times the original cost. But this cannot be logically true of an automobile, even though some old cars do have excellent value on the antique market.

ACC Headliner At Death Valley

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The center of attention in the Atlantic Coast Conference today was the Duke-Clemson game, expected to be a titanic struggle and the major obstacle facing Clemson's bid for its second straight league title.

Clemson, 5-1 overall and 4-0 in the conference, sought to protect its 10th ranked national standing. A victory would give the Tigers a headlock on the ACC and boost their chances of a bowl bid.

The only other conference game sent South Carolina to Virginia. South Carolina was favored to beat the hapless Cavaliers and in process move into a third place position in the ACC at 3-2 with North Carolina which dropped a 14-7 decision to Miami Friday night in the Orange Bowl.

The other afternoon game pitted North Carolina State against Mississippi Southern at Mobile, Ala. Maryland's improving forces face Navy at Baltimore tonight. Wake Forest, the other ACC member, is idle.

East Carolina is expected to be the last stumbling block between a fifth straight North State Conference crown for Lenoir Rhyne but few experts give the Bucs much of a chance of tripping up the nation's top ranked small college eleven when the two clash on the grid field tonight.

The two North State eleven bout head on tonight at College Stadium in what could be a survival of the best mudders. A continuous rain fell last night and this morning to take much of the offensive glamor away from the meeting.

A good crowd is still expected to see the top-ranked small eleven tangle with the off-beaten Bucs in an important North State contest.

Running the single-wing attack with near perfection, the Bears have bowled over six consecutive opponents and their 65-0 conquest of Maryville last week elevated them into the top perch among small colleges.

East Carolina, trying to get out of a mid-season rut, will have little pressure on them when they pit the conference's two top backs — Glenn Bass and James Speight — against the Bruins. The Bucs dropped out of the North State title picture last week when they lost to Appalachian.

Coach Jack Boone has put in a good week of work and will let his case rest tonight at 8:00 when the two arch-rivals meet. Slammed by one-sided scores in their last three meetings, the Pirates are hoping to change the plot of the story.

Linemen Chuck Gordon, Bob Gregson, and Clayton Piland are slated to be ready for action tonight and the locals may enter the tilt in the best shape since the Elon encounter four weeks ago.

Aside from Speight and Bass, East Carolina will have Ralph Zehring and Mac Thacker rounding out their backfield, Sonny Basinger and Bill Strickland are also slated for plenty of action in the game.

Ed Emory, the Pirates' All-State candidate, and end David Thomas, in the running for an All-Conference berth, will pace the East Carolina line tonight. Other expected starters include Bill Cain, Vernon Davis, Wayne Davis, Johnny Wike, and Lynn Barnett.

Lee Farmer is the big spoke in the Lenoir Rhyne wheel and the lanky tailback is a threat as a passer and ball-toter. Other scabbers for the visitors include Tommy Simmons, Adam Maples, and Tommy Foster.

Kickoff time for East Carolina's last conference game of the season is set for 8:00.

Sunrise Tuesday morning will mark the beginning of another season for goose hunters of North Carolina but those who want to shoot ducks will have to wait until November 20.

The goose season opens at sunrise Nov. 10 with a daily bag of two geese per hunter permitted this season, the same as for the past several years. The open season for geese will continue through January 8.

The hunting season for ducks, reduced 10 days this year because of the poor breeding conditions to the north, will open at noon on November 20. In addition to the shorter season, North Carolina will permit a daily bag limit of three ducks instead of four as has been the case in the past several years. Except for the opening day of the season, ducks may be hunted from sunrise to sunset through January 8.

Duck hunters will be permitted only one canvasback, redhead or rusty duck this year, and the bag limit and possession limit may include only two wood ducks.

The Other Day

We heard about a golfer who thought so much of his old beaten up aluminum putterhead, that he was willing to, and did, pay $5,000 for an identical replacement of it.

It seems that the only way he could get one was to order a thousand of them at $5.00 apiece, because a die would have to be made to duplicate the old putter-head, and so it would cost almost as much for one as a thousand.

Work On Year's Plans For Sugg High School

By HAZEL JORDAN

The Parent Teacher Association, faculty, and students of H.B. Sugg are busily engaged in the assumption of responsibilities delineated to them through their organization of the school program for the ensuing school term.

At present, Sugg boasts an enrollment of more than 1,100 pupils. School attendance has been good; P.T.A. meetings have been well-attended; committees, organized within the school, are functioning effectively.

Completed plans for operation during the first semester have been submitted by the following committees: primary grades; grammar grades; language arts; guidance; safety patrol; athletic; evaluation for the elementary department; evaluation for entry into the Southern Association of Secondary Schools; science and mathematics; and professional meetings.

Two of the planned professional meetings have been held, one of which was led by F.G. Graham, Mrs. A. Gray Pulley, and Miss Hazel J. Jordan. The leaders advanced thinking regarding teacher-teacher relationship. The second presentation concerned the teacher and the community. The next study will be concerned with professional ethics. The teacher and community discussion was led by Mrs. L. Blount Cobb, Mrs. E.C. Frazier, and Mrs. C.P. Montgomery.

Progress reports have been submitted from each committee to principal F.H. Mebane.

That each child in the primary grades may have a better chance to develop to the optimum of his academic ability, a special grouping has been made. The groups are flexible and mobile thus affording an opportunity for any pupil to move from one group to another, depending upon his progress or retrogression.

Fire Prevention Week was observed throughout the school. The Fire chief of Farmville community, C.H. Flanagan, was guest speaker at an assembly program. The speaker advised the pupils about "Fire Hazards". He pointed out the fact that there are three principle reasons for fires: (1) improper heating appliances in the home; (2) carelessness among smokers and campers; and (3) improper and defective wiring in the home.

Each teacher has received written plans from the guidance and language arts committees which suggest means whereby pupils may be better helped to personal growth and academic progress.

The P.T.A., at its first regular meeting, retained the slate of officers of the previous year. Special projects have been assigned to the group.

Progress reports were made at the second regular meeting held Sunday, October 11, 1959.

The Safety Patrol is functioning effectively. Students are cooperating in the administration's desire to make H.B. Sugg one of the best "all-around" schools in the county and the state.

The annual oratorical contest was held Nov. 10 and 11 at assembly. Participants were: Debra Redden, 7th grade, coached by S.E. Selby; Alvin Verence, 7th grade, first place winner, coached by N. Moore; Lorraine Cobb, 7th grade, coached by Mrs. B.V. Dickens; Billy Tyson, 8th grade, second place winner, coached by Mrs. N.J. Jordan; Joyce Ann Blount, 8th grade, coached by Mrs. B.W. Mebane; Suzette Brown, 8th grade, first place winner, coached by Mrs. E.C. Frazier; Dorothy Mae Vines, coached by Mrs. E.C. Frazier. First place winners will represent the school in the district elimination contest.

The high school band was invited to participate in the homecoming parade and half-time activities at Shaw University. This is the second invitation the band has received from Shaw.

United Nations Day was observed in an assembly program presented by the 11th grade. Each initiated organization under the auspices of the United Nations was explained and its functions related to the assembled high school students. Music was rendered by the Choral Club. Mrs. E.C. Frazier and Miss R. Flack were the sponsors of the activity.

Homecoming activities culminated in a pre-game barn fire and a party for the pupils at the school who helped the school to raise $1,842.

At H.B. Sugg "Progress is Our Concern".

Nor is he apt to change anything in Afghanistan which, like India and Morocco, is a neutral.

When Afghanistan's prime minister, Prince Sardar Mohammed Naim, visited Eisenhower here in October, he assured the United States Afghanistan's acceptance of large-scale Soviet aid has not altered Afghan friendship for this country.

Official opinion here at the time was that the Soviet Union was gaining slowly but surely in consolidating its economic and military influence over the neutral kingdom in the Himalayas.

Pakistan, Iran and Turkey are linked with the United States and Britain in a Mid-East defense pact, and this year received almost a half-billion dollars in aid from this country.

Only last weekend Khrushchev talked of this defense organization, set up along the Soviet Union's southern border, as a joke. Nevertheless, the Soviets don't like it. It gives the pact members some feeling of strength against the Soviets.

Turkey is also linked with this country in the North Atlantic Treaty alliance, as are Greece, France, and Italy. Each has problems of its own but none is talking of leaving the alliance.

On his various stops Eisenhower may hear requests for larger American help in one way or another. There doesn't seem much he can do about that since his administration is riding hard on the economy theme for 1960.

Man Draws 3-To-5 Years For Death Of Infant Son

A 29-year-old Greenville Negro drew a three-to-five-year prison sentence yesterday in Pitt County Superior Court for the death of his 11-month-old son last Sept. 6.

Joseph Jefferson Jr. entered a plea of guilty of manslaughter to the charge of murder that had been placed against him. The state accepted the plea.

According to officers, Jefferson struck the infant with a chair during an argument with his wife. The child was rushed to Duke Hospital where he died soon after his arrival. Autopsy revealed death was caused by brain damage and a fractured skull.

In a case against Lee Edward Gaskins for driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor, presiding Judge William J. Bundy issued an order for the defendant's arrest on charges of driving under the influence, $100 fine and court costs; As Jones, assault on female, prayer for judgment continued upon payment of court costs.

Gaskins was given a one-year sentence, suspended upon payment of $250 and costs, the surrendering of his driver's license, for the drunken driving charge.

The order stated that "evidence shows" that Gaskins had paid a witness in the case $300. The charge in the order read, "bribery and subordination of perjury." He was placed under $2,500 appearance bond.

Gaskins gave notice of appeal of the drunken driving verdict and appearance and appeal bonds were set at $500 and $200, respectively.

Other cases disposed of by Judge Bundy during the one-week term of court were:

Heber Ernest Linton, driving under the influence, not guilty; John Eddie Swindell, driving under the influence and no operator's license, (mistrial declared when a juror was withdrawn); John Franklin Shirley, driving under the influence, $100 fine and court costs; As Jones, assault on female, prayer for judgment continued upon payment of court costs.

Soffie Clemons, assault with a deadly weapon, six months' sentence suspended upon payment of court costs and $20 for Pitt Memorial Hospital and $25 for Dr. Howard Gradis—also that she be of good behavior for six months; Carlton Hubert Mills, speeding and driving on wrong side of street, 30 days' sentence suspended upon payment of court costs.

Club Sponsoring Invalid Stickers

The Greenville Rotary Club is sponsoring the issuance of reflectorized invalid stickers to aid Greenville firemen in identifying homes and bedrooms of invalids so, in the event of fire, rescue efforts may be carried out without delay.

Any person who is permanently disabled and who could not escape from a burning house without assistance will be furnished the stickers for his front door and bedroom window. In the event of fire, the house will then immediately be recognized as one in which there is a person unable to attempt escape alone. The additional marking of the bedroom will result in rescue operations starting without loss of time.

According to Fire Chief George Gardner, identifying the homes and bedrooms of invalids, will reduce the danger of loss of life by fire.

It is hoped the survey of the disabled persons, including crippled, paralyzed, blind and other type of bedridden or wheel chair patients, will be completed by November 15.

Persons with temporary disabilities such as fractures or an infant child are not included in the program.

All interested persons are requested to call the Fire Department, giving their name and address, if they have an invalid in their home and wish to have the markers placed on their house.

Rites Sunday For Mrs. Marvin Nobles

Mrs. Minnie B. Nobles, 71, wife of Marvin H. Nobles, died at her home here Friday morning.

Funeral services will be held at the Wilkerson Funeral Home Chapel Sunday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock by her pastor, the Rev. R. B. Crawford. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

A native of Martin County, she had lived in Greenville since 1932. She was a member of the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church.

Surviving are her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Robert J. Walker of Washington, D. C. and Mrs. William Lee Jackson of Jacksonville, Fla.; a son, Taylor B. Nobles of the Navy; three grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. T. L. House and Mrs. J. R. Winslow of Robersonville and Mrs. Ruben Taylor of Bethel, and two brothers, J. T. Brown of Portsmouth, Va. and Raymond Brown of Scotland Neck.

Thanksgiving Day Is Proclaimed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, in proclaiming Thanksgiving Day on Nov. 26, says the past year has been one of "progress and heightened promise for the way of life to which we are dedicated."

In his usual proclamation Friday, the President asked Americans to pray for divine guidance in "the great unfinished task of achieving peace among men and nations."

Noting that this is the 150th year of Abraham Lincoln's birth, Eisenhower said it was fitting to use the words Lincoln did in 1863 when he established the annual observance of Thanksgiving.

Among them were expressions of gratitude for "fruitful fields," for "national strength and vigor" and for "singular deliverances and blessings."

Cost 2 Years To Be Free A Week

RALEIGH (AP)—One week of freedom cost two years in added prison time for two convicts who scaled the walls at Central Prison.

The new time for already long sentences was handed to Charles W. (Yank) Stewart and James Edward Christy in Wake Superior Court Friday by Judge William Y. Bickett.

The 54-year-old Stewart and Christy, 26, of Concord, escaped from Central Prison on Oct. 25. They were captured Monday at a service station near Greensboro.

Stewart, a Wilmington man serving 25 years for armed robbery and highway robbery, told Judge Bickett that brutal treatment by guards at Ivy Bluff Prison on Camp caused him to injure his hand in order to be sent to the Central Prison infirmary.

The infirmary is filled with prisoners, Stewart claimed, who have "eaten their toes off with acid, cut fingers off, broken legs" in order to avoid mistreatment by guards.

It was from an infirmary window that Stewart and Christy lowered themselves with a 66-foot sheet rope in their daring break.

State Prisons Director W. F. Bailey said an investigation by the State Bureau of Investigation proved groundless the complaints made by Ivy Bluff inmates, Stewart and Christy, he added, made no complaints while they were at Ivy Bluff.

Christy was serving 19 to 25 years for manslaughter, breaking and entering and larceny.

Practice Rescue Became 'Real'

HAMILTON AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—A simulated air-sea rescue operation turned into the real thing Friday after an Army helicopter capsized as it was extracting a man from Drakes Bay 50 miles northwest of San Francisco.

The would-be rescuers were rescued by a Coast Guard cutter standing by as part of the maneuver. Within minutes it picked up the pilot, Capt. Charles E. Hamrick, 30; co-pilot Lt. Troy Allen, 27, and Airman G. M. Cummings, 28.

FOR SALE: Beautiful Wooded Home Site and 22 1/2 Acre Farm

1959 Tobacco Allotment: 3.58 Acres

One mile south of Winterville, N. C., facing N. C. highway 11, 250 yards back, is one of the most desirable home sites and small tobacco farms in eastern Carolina.

This farm is well known as the Herman J. McLawhorn farm. It consists of 22 1/2 acres of cleared land, more or less, including 1959 tobacco allotment of 3.58 acres, a nice fish pond, two tobacco barns, packhouse and miscellaneous small buildings, and a beautiful goldfish pool with running water.

Beautiful trees almost a century old surround a building site landscaped with tender care by its former owner for many years with flowering shrubs and flowers of unusual variety. In the Spring of the year the many-colored flowers in bloom and green leaf foliage present a rare sight of beauty.

This magnificent building site, together with the 22 1/2 acres of land, including 1959 tobacco allotment of 3.58 acres, will be sold for cash at twelve o'clock noon, on Friday the 20th day of November, 1959, at the door of the Pitt County Courthouse in Greenville, North Carolina.

The Right Highway To Anywhere

U. S. 258-U. S. 13 . . . leave Pitt County near Farmville, U. S. 258 to Kinston and U. S. 13 to Goldsboro.

N. C. 43 . . . runs from Rocky Mount and Tarboro, through Falkland and Greenville.

U. S. 13 JOINS U. S. 264 . . . highways come together at Greenville, follow same road to Farmville.

N. C. 903 . . . begins at N. C. 11 North of Greenville, passes through Stokes, then to Martin County.

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

It's not like the man said when he was asked directions to another location once upon a time.

"You can't get there from here," he replied.

But from Pitt County you can go most any place you desire, if you know which highway to use.

If you want to go north there's a major highway—U.S. 13 which runs squarely through the center of the county.

That highway ends only a short distance south of Pitt County so you can't go far that way. But to the north it is a major highway running through Norfolk and the Delaware-Maryland peninsula to the northeastern states.

U. S. 13 follows N. C. 11 from Bethel to Greenville, then U. S. 264 to Farmville and U. S. 258 out of the county.

For east-west travelers there is U. S. 64 which runs all the way from Manteo to the western border of the state and then on into Tennessee.

This highway catches a corner of Pitt County passing through Bethel in the northern tip of the county. From there it goes to Tarboro, Rocky Mount, Raleigh. It finally leaves the state at the North Carolina-Tennessee-South Carolina border junction.

Residents of Farmville, Greenville and Grimesland can take their trip to Manteo by U. S. 264 which goes through Washington and Belhaven to join U. S. 64 at Manns Harbor.

In the other direction U. S.

264 finally ends when it joins U. S. 64 at Zebulon.

U. S. 258 enters Pitt County at Fountain, goes to Farmville and on to Snow Hill in Greene County. From North Carolina it goes to Newport News in Virginia. To the south it goes to Jacksonville.

There are nine state highways in the county. N. C. 43 comes to Pitt from Warren County via Rocky Mount, and Tarboro. It enters Pitt at Falkland, goes to Greenville and finally ends at Vanceboro in Craven County.

N. C. 11 bisects the county running from Bethel to Grifton. To the north it goes to Oak City and to the south to Wallace.

N. C. 33 begins at Bethel and goes all the way to Hobucken on the coast. N. C. 30 begins at Greenville and ends at N. C. 33 at Pactolus.

N. C. 118 begins at Grifton and ends at U. S. 17 near Vanceboro.

N. C. 102 begins in Greene County passes through Ayden in Pitt and goes to U. S. 17 in Beaufort County.

N. C. 903 begins at N. C. 11 north of Greenville passes through Stokes and into Martin County.

Then there's N. C. 222 comes from Johnson County, enters Pitt County at Fountain and ends at Falkland.

And N. C. 121 begins at Bruce on 43 and goes to Farmville.

So if you plan a trip, you can take your pick of highways leading from Pitt County. Where these end, others pick up so that only the oceans could eventually end your trek.

N. C. 33 . . . begins at Bethel, goes to Hobucken on coast.

N. C. 11 . . . bisects Pitt County, running from Bethel to Grifton.

U. S. 64 . . . via Bethel it runs from Manteo to the Western N. C. border.

N. C. 30 . . . begins at Greenville, goes to Pactolus where it joins N. C. 33.

(Fifth in a series of articles written exclusively for members of North Carolina Afternoon Dailies)

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 4 (delayed)—The pace of this trip is beginning to tell on some members of the party. Just now, writing this in a car making a 50-mile trip to Rotterdam where ports authority people and farm bureau representatives will be met, there is at least one feller-out: John M. Reeves, Pinelhurst, chairman of the North Carolina ports outfit, who frankly told the leader of the expedition, Governor Luther Hodges, that the pace was too fast for him; he'd have to stay in the hotel and rest.

However, most of the other members of the ports board and W. C. Allen, Farmville, director of the N. C. Farm Bureau, plus news, radio and TV people are aboard a fleet of four private cars riding toward Rotterdam. This happens to have been the first big European city to which Hitler applied his mass Luftwaffe bombing tactics; sort of an Exhibit A to the rest of Europe to listen when he talked and made demands. A great part of the city was destroyed in a noon attack and a lot of the rest burned. One of the most spectacular of European rebuilding jobs has been done in Rotterdam, I've been told.

Way back when I was a student at UNC, I was being initiated into a literary fraternity and Jonathan Daniels was welding a padlock on my rear end and leading a song which said, among some other things, "Oh the Rotterdam Dutch, Are the best damn Dutch. That ever came over the sea. Glor-i-ous! Glor-i-ous! Only one keg of beer for the four of us, et cetera. That's the most I've known about Rotterdam until today. Lots of history about Rotterdam; it's Europe's biggest port, one of the highest in the world; tremendous shipping in and out, it being sort of a gateway to Western Europe. North Carolina hopes to get a share of the Rotterdam business for Morehead City and Wilmington.

It's been a busy day in Amsterdam, starting off with a 9 o'clock briefing, followed by an hour-long boat ride around some of the city's canals and under numerous of its 400 bridges (nearly three times as many as has Venice), topped off by a reception at the official residence of Burgomester Gijbert van Hall. All members signed the guest book under direction of a footman with a cocked hat, fore and after (steak, pronounced stake, he said), and with other footmen in frock tail coats playing trays with orange juice, Sherry and light hors d'oeuvres. Pity the wives weren't there; they'd have enjoyed the glistening marble floors downstairs with long red carpet; a beautiful old stairway; a marvelous marble mantelpiece; Flemish pictures on the walls; lovely china everywhere; parquet floors in the reception rooms upstairs; gold leaf on ornamental plastered sidewalls and ceilings; highly polished brass hardware; and in the rear of the house, a small formal garden to which the group repaired finally for pictures with the mayor and his attractive wife, the only gal present. The Mayor is a former banker and member of the Dutch Labor party, appointed for a 6-year term by the Queen.

At 1 o'clock, nearly 200 Hollanders gathered with the some 35 Carolinians at the Krasnapolsky hotel for a luncheon, this being paid for out a kitty of $11,250 raised in our state from such people as Duke, Carolina Power, Southern Railway, Southern Bell Telephone, Wachovia Bank, and various construction and other firms.

This lunch was led off with a course of smoked eel which the Dutch love and which the Tar Heels mostly toyed over. Then there was roast veal, various vegetables including tiny carrots and peach melba. White and red wine made its appearance; still no water. Toastmaster was Mayor Hall, who after calling for a moment of silence in lieu of a formal invocation, proposed a toast to North Carolina. Like most Europeans, he couldn't say "th," although otherwise he spoke perfect English. These folks get an "s" out of "th" so his toast came out Norse Carolina, and then he referred to what the Governor of NC said to the governor of South Carolina. Governor Hodges told the North Carolina Story and the Burgomaster dined about Amsterdam and Holland. What struck water, let the land lay idle for the Carolinians was how much land had been accomplished here in a country only a fourth the size of our state; whenever Holland gets more land, they dam off a part of the North sea; pump out the few years and then they have a magnificent farming country. At the lunch I talked to two Hollanders who are raising 500 (that's right, 500) acres of cigarette tobacco in Rhodesia, to bulb growers and manufacturers. They were interested in North Carolina; something's going to come out of this trip.

Hodges and his immediate party come back to Amsterdam tonight and fly to Stuttgart. Twenty-five Carolinians remain until Friday in meantime having individual conferences with folks who were

Monument To The Largest Elm

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — The Rathbone elm, reputed hereabouts to be the largest elm in America, is dead.

After the mammoth tree succumbed to old age (estimated at 500 years) and disease, it was dismantled Thursday. Remaining as a monument to the old giant, and a tourist attraction, are the trunk and main branches. The ground circumference is 50 feet. In full splendor the elm towered 99 feet and spread 150 feet.

St. James Methodist Announcements

Beginning Sunday, the Intermediate Methodist Youth Fellowship will meet separately from the senior group. All between the ages of 12 through 14 are urged to attend the Intermediate group. Mrs. Gordon Berry and Miss Rachel Steinbeck are the counselors. Youth Appreciation Week will be November 9-15. Let's cut down the delinquency problem to size. Show the true facts—that 95% of our youth are never in contact with the law. Let the entire congregation join in Optimism Club Youth Appreciation Week and give youth a pat on the back. Sunday, Nov. 15, Sacrament of Holy Baptism will be observed. If there are others to be baptized, please contact Mr. Hirsch. The altar flowers have been placed in memory of Clarence Taylor by his sister, Alya Ray Taylor.

Plan Observing American Education Week At ECC

American Education Week, November 8-15, will be observed by prospective teachers at East Carolina College in a series of three broadcasts over radio and television stations. "Teaching Is Fun," a program of informal discussion among a group of student teachers and several faculty members, will be featured on "Let's Go To College," East Carolina's weekly TV show, at 1 p.m. Sunday, November 8. That afternoon at 5:30 the same program will be broadcast from radio station WPTT of Raleigh. Student teachers who will appear in these programs and their present classroom assignments are: Victor Cornelius of Statesville, sixth grade in the campus laboratory school; William G. Warren of Greenville, English in the Rose High School of Greenville; Virginia Warren of Greenville, French in the Rocky Mount Senior High School; Rena Mae Spencer of Columbia and Betty Hart of Goldsboro, first grade in the Fulledge School in Greenville; and Emily Jo Moseley of Rocky Mount, grammar grades in the Greenville Junior High School.

The East Carolina branch of the Student National Education Association will sponsor a program on "Hospitality House," Station WITN of Washington, Channel 7, Wednesday, November 11, at 1:30 p.m. Members of the organization who will participate are Sybil Swindell of Swansboro, John Watts of Woodside, Ann Blanton of Rose Hill, and Joe Peele of Aulander.

Gift Presented Dr. Kenneth Bing

Dr. Kenneth Bing, director of the industrial arts department at East Carolina College, received Saturday, November 7, from students and alumni of the department a life membership in the North Carolina Industrial Arts Association. The gift, given in recognition and appreciation of Dr. Bing's outstanding service and leadership, was presented to him in Gastonia at the fall meeting of the state organization. Coming to East Carolina in 1949, he has been instrumental in developing the industrial arts program at the college into one of the most effective in colleges of the state. Representatives from East Carolina who attended the Gastonia meeting, in addition to Dr. Bing, include Dr. Thomas Halgwood, Robert W. Leith, Robert C. Paysinger, and Carroll W. Smith, faculty members, and a group of students from the industrial arts department.

No Lisp Left, But He Quacks

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A young boy's slight lisp is almost gone after his parents took the advice of a school consultant and played a record, "Donald Duck Takes a Speech Lesson," over and over for the boy. But now, his parents say, their son talks like Donald Duck.

Youth Charged In Auto Accident

Henry Neal Howell, 18, of Pikeville, was charged by police yesterday with careless and reckless driving following a collision at the intersection of Fifth and Summit Sts.

According to investigators, the driver of the second car involved was Mary Ann Condrey, 18, of Rt. 2, Scotland Neck.

Damage to the Condrey car was set by officers at $200 while no damage was reported done to the Howell vehicle.

James Ray Staton, 20-year-old Negro of 609 Pamlico Ave., was charged with improper passing after the car he was driving collided with a truck driven by K. Woodrow Nichols, 26, address not listed.

Police set damage to the Staton car at $20 while no damage resulted to the truck.

In an accident about 12:25 this morning at the intersection of 14th and Cotanche Sts., cars operated by Mrs. Edna Padgett, 119 A St., and Elsie M. Johnston, of 1104 Cedar Lane, collided, causing an estimated $50 damage to the Padgett auto.

Damage to the Johnston vehicle was placed at $25. No charges were brought by officers following investigation of the wreck.

Sailor Can't Get Enough Of Sea

PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP)—Dayton John Lalonde, 35, can't get enough of the sea.

After a 4-year Navy hitch in World War II, 10 years in the Merchant Marine and another 4-year Navy enlistment, he sailed for Tahiti June 4, the day after he got his discharge at Los Angeles.

This time he was on his own 20-foot sloop, the Craig J. He was alone. He made it to Tahiti in 144 days.

He plans to sail from here for Samoa, Fiji, New Zealand and perhaps Australia.

For Her Mother, A 'Conservator'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Appointment of a conservator for actress Marilyn Monroe's mother is asked in a petition filed in court Thursday.

The petition said the mother, Gladys Eley, 57, is now in a private sanitarium near Los Angeles. The document was presented by Miss Monroe's former business manager, Inez C. Melson.

Mrs. Melson said the petition was filed with consent of the actress, identified in it as Marilyn Miller. She is married to playwright Arthur Miller and no longer lives here.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Sergeant John Desportes might as well have got a rattlesnake out of a trap as to have committed the good Samaritan act he did while returning from a furlough to his Army post at Mesa Encantada. He rescued a youth trapped in a ravine with an injured leg and took the youth to the post hospital. Then, deceived by "Bud Smith's" boyish appearance and adopted demeanor, Desportes befriends the youth and expects to get him into the Army.

The post commander, Major Etheridge, has become more and more dependent on the Sergeant and, trusting Desportes' judgment implicitly, is as unsuspecting as the Sergeant that "Bud Smith" is a killer who is going to upset the whole post.

The Sergeant, investigating reports that Blackpaw, a reservation Apache, is causing trouble, talks to the Indian and hears that "Bud Smith" has a murder in his past. But Desportes discounts the Indian's word. He takes Bud along when he goes out with two Apache scouts—Yellow Dog and Old Bill—to trail two bandits.

CHAPTER 10

In the early spring this section of the border country was often heavily watered, with a fast stream rushing down the draw and joining a sister stream which sometimes roared along the floor of Dead Horse Canyon.

As a result, in addition to the usual gnarled scrub pine and live-oak, immense old cottonwood trees were scattered here and there; and just beyond a razor-back ridge there was a row of them, partly concealed by an upward thrust of grotesque, spire-like rocks.

Bud had been riding with his Winchester across his saddle. Suddenly he raised it to his shoulder and all the horses plunged as he fired unexpectedly three times.

The Sergeant turned in time to see a man in a dun-colored shirt fall out of one of the cottonwood trees and disappear behind the razor-back ridge. Then a rifle cracked somewhere and Yellow Dog grunted, slipped slowly from his saddle, and fell face down in the dirt.

Bud leaped from his horse and lit running, up the razor-back ridge and over it. The Sergeant and Old Bill dismounted quickly and made for the shelter of the ridge.

"Ambush," said Old Bill, sadly. It was a deep disgrace for a scout to be ambushed.

Yellow Dog raised his head and gasped out something in Apache. Old Bill grabbed him by the hand and pulled him roughly through the dust to the shelter of a rocky overhang, then he scrambled up the ridge, wondering in his heart what awful thing he had done that his clan god—the Hunting Hawk—had put him to sleep and allowed him to get ambushed.

But before Old Bill could reach the top of the ridge there was heavy rifle fire beyond, then silence. Old Bill inched up the last few feet cautiously and peered over, glimpsing a sight that he did not understand.

Something was transferring something from a canvas bag to his own pants pockets. A dead bandit was lying sprawled out at his feet. Disturbed, Old Bill slid back down the ridge.

"Bad men dead," he said, sadly. "All quiet."

In a moment Bud appeared at the top of the ridge leading two saddle horses and flourishing a big canvas sack.

"Got the money, Sergeant," he called. "And the horses. Them fellows are both dead."

The Sergeant was too surprised to speak.

They buried the two bandits—Jake Grissom and Three-fingered Jack, both wanted by practically every law enforcement agency in the Southwest.

Then they camped, and Old Bill cooked supper in silence. Yellow Dog had a big gaping wound in the upper part of his right arm, but no blood had been broken and the bullet had passed on.

The Sergeant had got out some coarse bandaging he always carried in his saddlebags and had bound up the Apache's wound.

Yellow Dog showed no expression at all, but sat grunting to himself. Like Old Bill, he was wondering how he had offended the Great Hawk and what he should do to propitiate Him.

Bud, sitting at some distance from the others, was very busy with his big pocket knife and a few sticks of wood he'd cut from a cottonwood sapling.

There was a heavy silence over the camp. The Sergeant felt sorry for the Apaches, knew just what they were thinking.

Bad enough for Yellow Dog, a young man; but for Old Bill, confidant of cavalry officers and veteran of many campaigns against Geronimo and other great Apache leaders of the old days, it was a terrible disgrace, something he would never be able to live down. Ambushed—and by a pair of cheap bandits!

Geronimo had not been able to do it, nor Cochise, nor Victorio. But a couple of ignorant Anglos out of a saloon!

The Sergeant roused himself and turned. Bud had risen and was walking over to the graves of Grissom and Three-fingered Jack. Stooping down, he placed a small wooden cross at the head of each, then he took off his hat and stood there for a moment.

The Sergeant just did not know what to make of this boy!

When he returned to the fire, Bud said: "Them fellows was Christians after all. Mighty lonely to be left out here."

Old Bill gave him a puzzled look, but made no comment.

When they were through with supper, Old Bill cleared away and Yellow Dog lit himself in his blankets and turned his face toward the ridge. He was trying to make up his mind whether to die here and now or return to Mesa Encantada and confront the long faces of the Great Hawk clan.

The Sergeant took Bud aside. "We've got a problem with these Apaches, both good men. We may have to drag 'em back if something isn't done. Yellow Dog's singing to himself right now—and that's bad. No matter what I say don't be surprised. Just accept it."

"Yes sir," said Bud.

Just as the sun was going down and a blue coolness was spreading in from the east, the Sergeant called for a conference and they all sat round the low, Apache fire.

"We're all tired. The horses are tired," said the Sergeant. "We will move on a mile or so up the ridge and camp for the night."

This was a necessary move as the Apaches had a deep aversion to spending a night—the Time of Terror—so close to the recently buried dead.

"Yellow Dog, Old Bill," the Sergeant went on. "I want to apologize for leading you into a trap. It was my idea to try for Dead Horse Canyon in spite of the dangerous terrain. Again I apologize for leading you into a trap. It was my idea to try for Dead Horse Canyon in spite of the dangerous terrain. Again I apologize for putting us all in such danger. I apologize, and I hope you will forgive me."

Hope showed so nakedly in the harsh Apache faces, that the Sergeant looked away quickly, and Bud lowered his eyes and smiled ironically to himself.

"You understand?"

Old Bill and Yellow Dog nodded slowly, still bewildered at this unexpected reprieve, but with new, warm blood running through their chilled veins.

If the Sergeant said so, it was so; and the Great Hawk had not turned his face away from them after all.

On the way to a new camp site, the Sergeant and Bud rode ahead through the falling darkness; Old Bill and Yellow Dog were back away, leading the bandits' horses.

"You surely saved our bacon," said the Sergeant finally. "They had us."

"Oh, just luck," said Bud. "I'm always lucky; you finding me up in the mountains. My medicine is good." He laughed briefly. "We had them fellows pretty well cornered if they couldn't reach the border. So when I saw them big cottonwoods I begin to wonder and I ask myself what I'd do in a like case. I decided I'd climb the cottonwoods and lay an ambush. That's all there was to it."

"You go along with my version in town," said the Sergeant, firmly.

"You're going to really take the blame?" asked Bud, astonished.

"In public," said the Sergeant. "But the Major will get a full and truthful report. He'll hear what you did. Don't worry."

"I ain't worrying," said Bud, mildly. "One way or the other." A long silence then the Sergeant spoke. "Nice of you to put those crosses up."

"Well," drawled Bud, "I just hope somebody does the same for me."

Christian Science

The meaning for today of the book of Genesis will be set forth in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Adam and Fallen Man" at Christian Science services Sunday.

Opening selections to be read from the Bible present these verses: "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them. . . . And God saw everything that he had made, and, behold, it was very good." (Genesis 1:27, 31)

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy this citation will be read (183:21-23): "Divine Mind rightly demands man's entire obedience, affection, and strength. No reservation is made for any lesser loyalty. Obedience to Truth gives man power and strength. Submission to error superinduces loss of power."

Brothers Give Stock In Bank To Italian Village

RENO, Nev. (AP)—This Nevada city, famous for divorces and gambling, often has been remembered with a twinge of regret. But on Sunday, a tiny village in the Italian Apennines receives a gift from two Reno men that surpasses the villagers' fondest dreams.

Joseph and Victor Saturno often heard their father talk of his birthplace—the village of San Marco d'Urri near the seaport of Genoa.

Eighty-one years ago, Leopoldo Pietro Saturno left San Marco and came to the United States.

A young man who was used to hard work and born with a love of the land, Leopoldo worked on a California farm near Truckee and saved his money.

When he moved to Reno, he invested heavily in real estate and bought stock in his friend's bank. The friend, A.P. Giannini, founded the Bank of America. Today it is the Bank of America, largest in the world.

His sons, Joseph and Victor, fought for the United States in World War I. Victor received a purple heart for wounds at Belleau Wood.

Since their father died in 1919, the brothers have administered his estate and continued to build the family fortune, now estimated at more than two million dollars.

Joseph, 71, and Victor, 64, are both retired. They have no children. Joseph was once married, Victor is a bachelor.

About a year ago, the brothers thought their parents would have been pleased to present a gift to their village.

They asked the Bank of America to investigate the possibilities and read intently every word they got of San Marco d'Urri.

Finally they decided: Every man, woman and child in the impoverished village would receive 25 shares in the world's largest bank—a total of a third of a million dollars.

The community has 284 residents. The stock sold Thursday for $48.25 a share.

Victor said, "This is in honor of our parents but it's also to create more good will in Italy toward America. We've never been there but we plan to go to San Marco some day."

Sunday, Aurelio Gandini, a Milan bank official, will walk up the winding mountain road that Leopoldo Pietro Saturno walked

Needs Help To Answer His Son

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Kenneth Lingle has gone to great lengths to answer questions propounded by his 8-year-old son, Dennis.

He managed to satisfy Dennis on these:

"How high is a flagpole?"

"How far is it from here to France?"

He's stumped by this one:

"How many square inches are there in Denver?"

Help, Denver!
