Sen. Humphrey Running Harder Than Any; Faces Impressive Odds

Short On Campaign Money. Wears 'Radical' Label; Keeps Plugging

Editor's note: Presidential politics is away to an unprecedented early start. Candidates whirl about the land. The Associated Press, has been looking over and analyzing this abundant crop. Here Arthur Edson, who in his 15 years on the Washington staff has kept a lively, questioning eye on politicians, makes his report on his travels with Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

By ARTHUR EDSON LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Officially the temperature was 13 degrees, but a fierce wind kicked up the snow, swirled it across the unprotected airport and made it seem far colder.

The hatless man in the salt and pepper overcoat, his high forehead a brilliant pink, ran full speed across the snow and ice toward the waiting plane.

This reporter, skittering alongside managed to ask: "It is always like this?"

"Yep," said Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.). As usual, he was the last man up the ramp, arriving seconds before the plane took off.

This scene coldly illustrates what Humphrey is up against in his efforts to convince Democrats he is their logical choice for the presidential nomination at their Los Angeles convention next summer.

Since he's short on money, he has to run pretty much on his own.

The political climate also can be frigid and forbidding.

But no one is running or trying harder than Hubert Horatio Humphrey Jr., 48.

He knows the odds he faces. They're impressed upon him almost every moment of his day.

It's no accident that nearly everyone else who is making much of a pre-season stir either is well heeled or has well heeled friends.

"It takes a lot of money," Humphrey says. He reads with envy the stories about, say, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) traveling in a chartered plane, preceded by publicity men beating drums to herald his coming.

Humphrey has been traveling with one man, Lt. Gov. Karl Rolvaag of Minnesota, on regularly scheduled flights, which often means getting up early or leaving at inappropriate times.

One can stumble on the two of them, long before sunup, struggling with luggage in a cold and cheerless hotel corridor.

On this Humphrey is philosophical. "I don't need any personal valet," he says. "I can hang up my own suit." But he looks around the little feeder line plane, gamely fighting its way through harsh Dakota weather, and says wistfully: "Man, wouldn't I like to be able to charter this baby!"

Here's Humphrey's schedule for successive days last week: He was in Iowa to talk to a state teachers convention. His speech was, in theory at least, non-political, and he was paid for it.

He was in North Dakota for a farmers union meeting. He was here in Lincoln for the Nebraska Democratic convention dinner.

This was but a minor part of the story.

Usually he breakfasts with Humphrey supporters, and gives them, at the drop of a napkin, what sounds like a major political address. During the day he may hold two news conferences, and go cheerfully into the cold to pose for pictures.

And there are those most important meetings of all. In Des Moines he was up until 3 a.m., while his old debating partner at the University of Minnesota, Newton L. Margulies, put the bite on friends to keep Humphrey in political orbit.

Considering the weather, the crowds have been good. More than 2,000 heard him in Bismarck, N.D. Only the seats high up in the rafters remained unfilled. Here Saturday night a capacity dinner crowd of 468 donated $7.50 each to the party to hear Humphrey talk.

In this area Humphrey dwells on the farm problem. But he also stresses this contention: that the Republican party has failed to develop forceful, imaginative leadership, that as a result we're losing our advantage in our race with the Soviet Union, that Republicans are more interested in public relations than public service, and that if the Democrats are to win they must have a liberal who has real and drive, "a real scrapper."

He never says so, but the picture he paints of an ideal candidate looks astonishingly like Hubert H. Humphrey.

At this stage reactions are hard to gauge, and maybe meaningless to boot.

A Long Way To Go

CHAIRMAN HARDY—reports less than one-fourth of expectations.

Pitt United Fund Campaign Drags

After some three weeks of campaign activity, Campaign Chairman John Ray Hardy reports that the current Pitt County United Fund drive is "lagging."

Of a goal of slightly more than $107,000, the drive has turned up a total of $25,768—less than one-fourth of expectations.

"Practically all of what we have raised to this point," says Hardy, "has come from Greenville. We have had very little from outside the county."

The campaign chairman expressed deep concern for the future of the Pitt United Fund. "If we don't do a lot better than this, we won't have a county-wide United Fund next year."

He added that, unless the quota is reached, each participating agency is authorized, under the UF contract, to conduct its individual solicitation campaign.

The fund's president, Dr. Ray D. Minges, had this to say: "Even though each township is included in the budget for a set amount for community services, under Pitt County United Fund by-laws, each one will receive a maximum of 75 per cent of the amount raised in that township."

This means, of course, that each township must raise more than its allotted quota in order to receive the amount budgeted for its community services.

Hardy stresses the urgency of completing the campaign. "Many of our solicitors have failed to report, so we have no way of knowing our progress. It is my feeling that many of them have not taken the time to contact the persons in the areas assigned to them. We have scheduled a 'clean-up' operation, but, until we hear some sort of initial report, our hands are tied from any kind of follow-up for the campaign."

The chairman prevailed upon solicitors to urge the monthly and quarterly payment plans. "Many persons and firms can more easily contribute if the payments are spaced periodically. That's why we have the monthly and quarterly payment plan in the first place."

Commenting on progress noted by other areas, Hardy said, "We have heard reports from Rocky Mount, Wilson, and other surrounding towns and counties that show goals there are nearly reached. We believe that Pitt County can do the same."

On the lighter side, Hardy indicated that, when more solicitors begin to send in reports, it is likely that the total figure will be "substantially increased." "I do not believe," he said, "that the small amount raised so far is an indication that we'll fail to reach our goal . . ." but added, "the existence of our Pitt County United Fund is at stake."

The Pitt Fund supports (since its organization last year) the following agencies: American Red Cross, Pitt's Boy Scouts of America, Pitt County Mental Health Association, Pitt County Association for the Blind, Pitt's Association for Retarded Children, the Salvation Army, and the Carolinas United Fund.

The County has been divided into 14 campaign districts. Each township comprises a division with Chicod and Swift Creek Townships combined into a single unit for solicitation and budgeting purposes.

Chou's note proposed that the two sides still maintain civil administrative personnel and unarmed police there.

But the Chinese Premier warned that if an appropriate solution is not worked out, clashes on the border may occur again.

The note said Communist China regards that India disregards the "basic facts" of the boundary question and "adopts an attitude extremely harmful" to the two countries. Red China contends that India has been trespassing on Chinese territory. India claims Chinese soldiers have been attacking Indian forces on Indian soil.

The note sent to Red China last week was the sharpest attack Nehru has ever made formally against the Communist regime. He accused Peking of aggressive attitudes "reminiscent of old imperialist powers" against whom both India and China struggled in the past.

6 CELEBRANTS DIE BAR LE DUC, France (AP)—A station wagon loaded with celebrators en route from a wedding to a party plunged into a canal near the village of Savoy Sunday night. Six persons were killed. Three passengers were thrown clear and escaped.

IN ORBIT, BUT—VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—For the sixth time, something has gone wrong in the Air Force plan to make a flying catch of a space package over the Pacific.

The Discoverer VII satellite, launched here Saturday, was supposed to eject a heavily instrumented capsule Sunday after circling the earth 17 times.

Planes equipped with trapezoidal catching devices were set to take off from Hawaii and try to snatch the 300-pound capsule as it came down on a parachute.

Discoverer VII achieved orbit, but the Air Force said power failure occurred in the electrical supply system that was to eject the capsule.

Houston Tanker Blaze Claims Its Eighth Life, A City Fireman

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The tanker Amoco Virginia, its plates buckled and ripped by fire and explosion Sunday, claimed an eighth victim today when city fireman D. H. Chandler drowned aboard the ship. Twenty-five persons suffered injury.

The fire aboard the 12,000-ton tanker threatened the heart of the nation's largest oil refining and petrochemical center for 19 hours Sunday.

The vessel's captain, R. R. Combs, and six of the 40 crew members perished.

Chandler, 28, apparently stepped into a hole in a submerged portion of the ship.

Investigators climbed over the buckled plates in search of clues as to the cause of the fire.

Groups probing the destroyed hulk were the FBI, Coast Guard, the American Oil Co., and Hess Terminal, where the ship is tied up.

The fire broke out less than four hours before the American Oil Co.'s 12,000-ton tanker was to sail for Albany, N.Y.

The flames, feeding on 135,000 barrels of high test gasoline and fuel oil in the vessel's bunkers, threatened the heart of the nation's largest oil refining and petrochemical center for 19 hours before firemen brought it under control.

"It spread like a prairie fire," said seaman Joseph R. Daley, 37, Seattle. "As it spread, a solid wall of flames 100 feet high swept the ship."

More than 300 firemen who came from as far away as Lake Charles, La., battled the blaze. A blizzard of foam finally smothered a main fire in the tanker's forward bunkers—which had held 90,000 barrels of aviation gasoline.

Small fires continued to flicker on the vessel's superstructure and a pier alongside. The blackened hulk's deck plates buckled and its seams ripped.

Firemen found the body of Captain R. R. Combs of Kill Devil Hill, N.C., at the foot of a ladder leading to his quarters. The bodies of four crewmen were found in their quarters. Two others were found on deck.

Memories of the 1947 Texas City disaster that killed more than 500 persons prompted civil defense officials to alert the Texas State Guard and order evacuation of the immediate area.

Fire fighters ashore and aboard a lone fire boat applied water in early stages before chemical extinguishers arrived. There would have been no hope for them if the ship had exploded with force enough to touch off dozens of big oil storage tanks lining the north shore scant yards away.

Five explosions did rock the 540-foot tanker docked at the Hess Terminal in suburban Galena Park. The first came about 12:30 a.m., only minutes after the fire broke out.

Flames towered more than 200 feet high. Black, oily smoke mushroomed over the vessel and cast a pall over this Gulf Coast city of more than 900,000.

The final blast almost 12 hours later shot flames skyward just as firemen appeared to have it under control. It pushed heat waves around the storage tanks on shore containing more than a million gallons of highly explosive fuels.

The night watch when the fire broke out included seaman Daley; Robert E. Dippel, 40, Brooklyn, N.Y., and Edward John Wells, 37, Houston.

Daley said he first noticed the fire on the surface of the channel. He reported it to Chief Mate George Davis and ran toward a hatchway to sound the alarm.

Then came the first explosion. "I went over the rail between the deck and the dock," Daley said. Then came another explosion.

"That's when the steel began bombarding. Steel was flying all around me," Daley said.

He got away with only minor burns but left his life savings of $3,400 in a locker aboard ship.

"I don't think I'll be sailing tankers again," Daley said. "I'm going back to freighters."

The first thunderous explosions hurled some crewmen into the oil-covered, chilly waters. Others slid down lines or leaped overboard.

A 72-year-old crewman said he was forced to swim for the first time in his life.

Steel Producers Stirring To Life

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Major producers edged the first small shipments of finished steel into delivery pipelines today—two days after an 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction halted the longest strike in steel industry history.

Thousands of the half-million strikers were called back to work over the weekend. Thousands more expected recalls early this week. Steel firms were reluctant to state figures—changes occurred too fast.

Most big companies began heating ironmaking blast furnaces and steelmaking open hearts 24-hours after mill gates swung open. Some expected to get iron from blast furnaces yet today.

Throughout the industry there was a gigantic effort to get all facilities producing as quickly as possible. Customers—many closed because of steel shortages—pressed for speedy deliveries.

Producers could count on only 30-days of operations. If the labor dispute is unsettled when the injunction expires Jan. 26, workers could renew the strike.

The U.S. Supreme Court figuratively struck the match that rekindled mill fatalities. The court by an 8-1 vote Saturday upheld the injunction that had been stayed more than two weeks by United Steelworkers appeals.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, in a television appearance, Sunday said it will be up to Congress to keep the mills operating beyond Jan. 26 if a labor agreement still is beyond reach.

Mitchell said President Eisenhower would be ready promptly with recommendations to the lawmakers if the strike is resumed. He refused to hint what the recommendations might be.

There was no indication that either the industry or the union was in a mood to make major concessions. No negotiations were scheduled.

The union continued to press for wages and fringe benefits that steel executives said would be inflationary. Workers were earning an average of $3.11 an hour when the strike started.

The companies held on to demands for contract changes that would give management more say over working conditions in the mills. The union has fought this proposal since it was first made by Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation Service, said he soon would contact both sides regarding new negotiations. The injunction specifies collective bargaining must be continued.

Probably the biggest delay in getting mills back to peak production would be damaged equipment. Brick linings in some furnaces easily could have cracked during the long shutdown. It would take time to make repairs.

Most steel companies expect to be at least six weeks getting mills up to pre-strike production levels.

For the miners and railroads among the 350,000 furloughed workers in allied industries, the work resumption was good news. They almost are assured of being recalled quickly. Many already have returned.

Prisoner In County Jail Is Found Hanging In His Cell

A prisoner in Pitt County Jail as he was being taken from his cell for a hearing on the worthless check charges.

The prisoner was found hanging by his own belt from the bars of the cell block which he occupied. Night Jailer Herman Wilson found him around 6:30 this morning as he was making his rounds. Wilson said he had last checked on the prisoner around 1 p.m.

Vandiford was the only prisoner in the cell block.

Vandiford had been placed in Pitt County Jail last month on the worthless check charges. As he was being taken from his cell on Oct. 13 for a hearing he broke and ran, making good his escape.

Yesterday he was spotted riding in a car by Deputies Ralph Tyson and Gerald Davis and Constables Levi Wilson and Pennell Burnette.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said Vandiford jumped from the car and ran when the officers stopped him. However he was chased down by Deputy Tyson and taken into custody.

The sheriff said Vandiford was booked at the jail at 2:55 yesterday afternoon.

The cell block opposite the one in which Vandiford was lodged is occupied by Emory Joseph Roux, who is awaiting appeal from conviction in the Lautares Bros. safe robbery case.

Roux told officers he heard nothing from Vandiford's cell block during the night. Roux said he talked with Vandiford through the cell walls yesterday, however.

"He didn't give any indication he would take his own life," Roux stated.

Sheriff Tyson said worthless check warrants against Vandiford had been issued through Magistrate Luther Moore. There were other worthless check warrants against him in Craven County.

The sheriff said there would have been a hearing for Vandiford today. Escape charges would have also been brought against him.

Vandiford was married and had several children. His wife lives in Pitt County and his parents are residents of Greene County.

With The Farm Women

By MAIDRED MORRIS

Care of Household Linens
Homemakers in New Hanover County learned recently how to buy and care for linens. In buying sheets, look for thread count, breakage strength, finish size, weight, workmanship, and price.

Miss Verna Belle Lowery, home economics agent, gave five tips for helping to prolong life of sheets: never yank sheets from beds because hard pulling is damaging to a fabric; reverse sheets; remove spots and stains before laundering; do not fold a slightly damp sheet because mildew may form which weakens the fabric; and rotate sheets for longer wear.

Quit Block Exhibit
Have you ever seen a quilt block exhibit? Well there will be one in Clay County at the Fall Federation meeting in November.

According to Mrs. Mena Woodie, home economics agent, the exhibit will show favorite old patterns of the Home Demonstration women. Some of the blocks are pieced and quilted and all are remarkable examples of color selection and stitchery.

Native Trees and Shrubs
"Beauty is as close as the nearest tree, so look at it the way you look at a painting," says Mrs. E. L. Griffin, Spawboro. As home beautification leader in Currituck County, Mrs. Griffin encourages the use of native shrubs in landscaping. She says when planting trees keep in mind berries for the birds, fruits, nuts and leaves that will be colorful in the fall.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sanderlin, home economics agent, says the 1960 project is for each family to plant a watermelon red crepe myrtle tree in their yard.

Better Meals For Your Money
If your budget is limited would you buy calves liver at $1.39 per pound, beef liver at 49 cents per pound, or pork liver at 39 cents per pound?

As the dollar value decreases and food cost increases, it becomes more important to plan and buy carefully to keep the family well fed and stay within the budget. According to Miss Catherine Millsaps, home economics agent in Alamance County, suggestions were given recently to Home Demonstration Club members on buying less expensive items with high food value when price is important.

Home Grounds Beautification
Mr. and Mrs. Luther Currin are beginning to beautify the surroundings of their new home in Granville County.

Mrs. Dorothy C. Wilkinson, home economics agent, reports that the Currins have graded the grounds and located and graveled the drive in readiness for foundation and screen planting. They have a complete diagram of plantings which will help in buying and locating shrubs in the future.

Better Breakfast Ideas
"Five Minutes More and Your Breakfast Will Score" was the theme of a Stany County fair booth this year. The booth consisted of two breakfast tables.

According to Miss Elizabeth Watson, home economics agent, one table was set correctly with a nutritious breakfast menu. The other table featured a jar of instant coffee, pot of hot water, bread in a wrapper and a jar of jelly. How does your table look at breakfast time?

Don't Forget Your Complexion And Hair

RALEIGH — Although your most important feature, and you want to wear colors which will bring the most and make the color in them seem stronger, you can not forget about your complexion and hair.

According to Miss Mary Em Lee, clothing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, your complexion and hair must also be counted in the color scheme. For example, purple will emphasize blue in blue-gray eyes, but it has a tendency to add yellow to the skin, so a woman with a complexion inclined to shallowness must avoid it.

Your hair is generally thought of as your most important feature. It is good to drape swathes of colored fabric about your shoulders and notice the effect each has on your individual coloring. Some colors will give life to your hair and sparkle to your eyes.

Miss Lee says regardless of your hair color there is a wide range of colors to choose from. Difficulty in individual color selection lies in the fact that not everyone coming under a certain color classification can wear the same colors. It is always important to try various colors before selecting your basic wardrobe color.

Remember—before you buy yourself from a family of color make sure you consider all its many tints and shades.

Church Women Have Banquet

BETHEL—The Women's Missionary Union held a banquet recently in the recreation room of the Baptist Church. Mrs. W. O. Grimes gave the invocation.

After the banquet, a business meeting was called to order by Mrs. C. E. Brown, president. Devotional services were conducted by Mrs. W. O. Grimes.

Others participating in the program were Mrs. J. H. Andrews, who gave an outline on the leadership course; Mrs. B. C. Chesson, circle plans; Mrs. J. H. Weeks, duties of circle chairmen; Mrs. Julian Smith, mission study plans; Mrs. Fred Mazingo, stewardship; Mrs. W. W. Taylor, meaning of enlistment according to the yearbook; Mrs. Frances Rowlette, G. A. director's duties; Mrs. Bert Carson, responsibilities of Sunbeam director; Mrs. J. P. Harris, outline of community missions; chairman, Mrs. Roy C. James, duties of prayer chairman; Mrs. J. Irvin Taylor, Y.W.A. director's duties.

Mrs. Brown closed with prayer.

W.M.S. Meet

A meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society held in the Baptist Church was conducted by Mrs. J. Irvin Taylor and Mrs. Bert Carson. Scripture used was taken from Proverbs and Psalms.

Mrs. T. L. Craft gave the program, "O Worship the King in Korea." She said there are 38 Baptist missionaries, 147 churches, over 6,000 members, and 39 preachers in Korea. She also told of schools, hospitals and orphanages that are supported by Baptist missions.

The meeting was dismissed with a prayer of dedication by Mrs. Height Weeks.

BETTER FRUIT CAKES

You have probably discovered that storing fruit cakes definitely improve their flavor; refrigerate them and they will slice without crumbling if they are cut when they are cold.

TRY IT SOMETIME

Like an elegant way with fresh pineapple? Peel like an apple, remove most of the core and fill the core hole with sauterne; wrap pineapple and chill in refrigerator overnight; slice as desired for serving.

RE-USE IT

When you wish to re-use a piece of transparent plastic wrapping, spread it out on a flat surface and rub briskly with a clean dry cloth to restore clinging power.

Sunbeams Meet

BETHEL—At a regular meeting of Sunbeams in the Baptist Church last week, the hostesses were Mrs. Height Weeks, who served the primary group, and Mrs. Hilda Alexander, who served the beginners.

Leaders of the beginners were Mrs. Fred Mazingo and Mrs. Evelyn Mortz, who gave a talk on "The Children of China."

Primary children were directed by their leader, Mrs. Dalton Whitehurst, who gave them their last story in a series on China. During actively period coolie hats were made. The blessing was asked by Mary Alice Mortz.

Literary Sorority Now Open To Clubwomen

Within the framework of the General Federation of Women's Clubs is a sorority whose sole purpose is culture. The sorority is Epsilon Sigma Omicron, which stands for the motto and aim, "Enlighten Your Own Pathway." Its object is to foster and encourage literary interest among clubwomen.

While ESO has a simple goal, it is not a simple idea. It represents the combined efforts of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the state universities. From the former comes the interest and call for guidance; from the latter, a background of learning, educational procedures and standards.

This cooperative venture in adult education leads toward wide horizons and the ability to live more broadly for those who take advantage of the opportunities it offers.

Basically, Epsilon Sigma Omicron membership entails a planned program of reading for clubwomen under the guidance of the extension service of the University of North Carolina. Members of federated women's clubs who enroll in one of the reading courses shall be considered pledges of the sorority, and completion of four of the home reading courses is required for membership.

Each reading course consists of completing satisfactory book reviews on ten books chosen from the lists supplied by the Extension Service. The Interlibrary Center

A Matter Of Perjury Is Involved

Although major public attention has been focused on Congressional hearings in the TV quiz show scandal, it is also of importance to the people of this country what New York officials decide to do about those who committed perjury in giving testimony to the New York Grand Jury which looked into the rigging of the quiz shows.

Before the Grand Jury, as well as before the congressional committee, witnesses were sworn to tell the truth in giving testimony. In recent days it has developed that Charles Van Doren as well as others who appeared before the grand jury did not tell the truth even though they were under oath to do so.

Will they be called on to answer for their perjury offense, or will the matter be overlooked by court officials?

Of the two matters involved—the rigging of quiz shows and lying under oath to a grand jury—who can say that the fact the quiz shows were rigged is the more important?

The very basis of our judicial system—which includes grand jury investigations as an important part—is the fact that witnesses are required, under oath, to give truthful testimony when they take the stand. If these people who have now admitted that they lied to the grand jury are allowed to go unpunished for the action, how will it affect future testimony before grand juries in New York and elsewhere in the country? Does the fact that they have become well-known people exempt them from the requirement to give truthful testimony under oath? Does the fact that they have now given truthful statements concerning the rigging of the quiz shows excuse their early action in which they lied under oath to the grand jury?

While it is important that television quiz shows be conducted fairly and honestly, certainly it is of greater importance that the courts of the nation continue to receive honest testimony and that the public's confidence in the courts and in grand jury investigations not be undermined. If these people who have committed perjury before the grand jury are excused for their action, it will only encourage others who want to cover up something to also give false testimony to the grand juries and to the courts. It will say to the public, in effect, honest testimony before the courts is no longer of paramount importance. If you give false testimony, you may get by with it as those involved in the TV scandal did.

Unless our judicial system is to be placed in jeopardy, those who have perjured themselves before the grand jury must be called on by the courts to answer for their action. Just because they are now famous people does not give them the right to disregard the cardinal requirements of our judicial system.

Justice, after all, is supposed to feed every individual, regardless of station in life, out of the same spoon. It is the responsibility of the courts to see that justice is done.

Some Sidewalks For Our Younger Citizens

Official note taken by Greenville's City Council Thursday night of the need for sidewalks in the areas of some of the city's schools should lead to a positive program to provide these needed facilities.

Parents spend literally years trying to teach their youngsters the dangers that lurk in the streets, and train them not to play in the streets. Then, when the kids start to school, they have to walk in the street because there is nowhere else for them to walk. Particularly for the younger children, it is probably difficult to understand why it is all right to walk to school in the street, yet it is not all right to blindly chase a ball when it rolls into the street.

There are a number of problems which must be resolved before the needed sidewalks can be provided—particularly along the more heavily traveled streets in the vicinity of some schools. Nevertheless, the fact that these particular streets carry a heavy volume of vehicle traffic is all the more reason the children should be provided sidewalks on which to walk rather than having to walk in the streets.

We trust the City Council will exercise all deliberation in seeing that the needed sidewalks are provided for the protection of the youngsters of the city.

Little To Be Gained By Federal Activity

Federal legislation prohibiting rigging of TV quiz shows and similar schemes to deceive the public via the broadcast media would mean little indeed if the networks themselves did not shoulder the primary responsibility for seeing that such deceptions did not take place.

And if the networks are going to take sufficient steps to prevent such activities in their own industry, what purpose would be served by federal laws of the nature that have been proposed?

While the public was deceived by the rigged TV quiz shows, the television industry has suffered much more from the scandal which came from those practices than the public which viewed the rigged shows. The result has been a tremendous loss of prestige for the television industry, which the industry probably will be most anxious to regain if at all possible.

There is every reason to believe, therefore, that the industry itself will impose stringent controls to prevent a re-run of the quiz show scandals. It is probable, too, that the controls will go far beyond the realm of quiz shows. As The Reflector has said before, the burden rests upon the industry itself, and little is to be gained by attempting to project federal laws into this particular field.

Suppose Arms Outlays Slashed

By RALPH ROBEY
Although there is little possibility that we may get a reduction of major proportions in federal spending within the next year or so, there is much discussion of what the effect of such a cut would be upon our economic trend.

Benefits of Reduced Federal Spending
This problem usually is posed in terms of a reduction of our military spending of, say $10 billion because of an end of the cold war. But there would be the same type of problem if the reduction of spending came in the nonmilitary part of the budget.

In other words, in the discussion it is assumed that the spending itself, regardless of its purpose, is an essential element in the present volume of business. So, for the purpose of argument, let us assume that we had reduction in government outlays of ten billion dollars. What would the results be?

If the reduction was in the non-military part of government it would mean that the public would have just that much more to spend as it saw fit. This would be true regardless of whether the taxes were cut by an equal amount. The difference between a reduction of taxes and the alternative of the same amount paid off on the public debt, would be solely in the distribution of the proceeds.

And there could be a difference according to the type of tax reduction made, and the portion of the public debt paid off.

One other possibility needs mention. If the reduction were made in business taxes, it would reduce the cost of production, and prices would be lower. That would be assured by competition.

If the proceeds of the lower spending were used to pay off part of the public debt there also could be a variation of its effects according to the owners of the obligations repaid.

If the owners were commercial banks it would mean that their reserves would be increased by the amount of the payment, and they could increase their loans and investments by an equal amount, or actually provide a somewhat larger amount since reserves do not have to be 100 percent. If the owners were private citizens there would be the same variation as in tax reduction.

The same situation would prevail if the reduction in spending was in the military, except in this instance some companies, and some industries, would feel an immediate impact. These would be companies and industries dependent to a greater or lesser degree, on military orders. In some instances the readjustment probably could be made without too much trouble; in other instances the readjustment would be severe.

Things Learned In Mail

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Wearing red clothing in woodland areas during the deer hunting season is no guarantee you won't be mistaken for a buck and shot. It is estimated that eight per cent of America's 1,200,000 hunters are color blind.

You cover your mouth when you yawn out of politeness, but in the superstition-ridden past people did so out of fear. They were afraid an evil spirit might enter their bodies.

One of the world's greatest shortages today is in doctors. In some countries there is only one doctor for every 180,000 inhabitants.

Our quotable notables: "Our liberty depends on freedom of the press," said Thomas Jefferson, "and that cannot be limited without being lost."

How far do you drive your car each year? The figure for the average motorist is 9,571 miles. If you want to get kicked by a cow, one of the surest ways is to try to milk it from the wrong side. Cows are traditionally milked from the right side.

On the political front: Could a Jew be elected president of the United States in this general election? Of 47 Republicans and Democratic party leaders asked this question by the Jewish Digest, 31 replied yes.

The Old West isn't altogether tamed. Some 6,000 wild horses still roam the mountains of Nevada, but it's now against federal law to hunt them down on public lands with jeeps or other motorized vehicles.

A thought for the elderly: "To be 70 years young," said Chief Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. "Is sometimes far more cheerful and hopeful than to be 40 years old."

It was Willa Cather who observed, "No one can build his security upon the nobleness of another person."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS THE ONLY WAY OUT

"Be ye reconciled." Saint Paul was writing to the Corinthians and urging them to be reconciled to God. But the words have a mighty message for us moderns also. Not in centuries have nations stood glaring at one another across international boundaries more viciously and sullenly than today. If newspapers cared to confine themselves to reporting acts of violence and domestic disorder, they could fill their pages every day with this type of "news."

The juvenile delinquent is not just a bad boy—he is a horrifying reminder that we are bringing up a certain portion of our youthful population amid circumstances which encourage crime. Think of the number of divorces each year. One-fourth as many people seek divorces each year as enter into the marriage relation. People are appearing as enter into the marriage relation that they just can't live with each other. Incompatibility, mental and physical cruelty, general hatefulness—these are given as causes.

The world is full of torrential disorder. With all our talk about peace and modern refinement, millions of people are at bitter enmity one with the other.

"Be ye reconciled." It needs to be said to millions of married couples. It needs to be said to those who were once friends and now are vengeful enemies.

The words are brief and simple: "Be ye reconciled."

A Visit To See Russia

By ROGER BABSON
MOSCOW, Russia. — After traveling two days from Warsaw, Poland through Russia, we have remained about one week in Moscow. It certainly is a wonderful city, with 5,000,000 people plus 2,000,000 in the suburbs; but, of course, to comment on Communism after such a short visit would be foolish.

FREEDOM TO INVESTIGATE
Many Americans report that they are compelled to tour with "Communist guides" who show them only what the Russian rulers wish them to see. This I do not believe. First, because of the language difference, guides who can talk English are absolutely necessary. English-speaking persons are very scarce here. Second, I can testify that our guide—a woman—took us everywhere we asked to go. She had no prescribed route; also, every question we asked, she answered frankly. Furthermore, tourists from the United States are well treated, especially since Mr. K's visit to the U.S.A.

Unfortunately, the weather has been against us. It seemed very cold to us; two days it snowed hard, which made it impossible to see much from our taxi; but the guide took us into every building we asked to see. Let me add that our U. S. Embassy here was most helpful.

Russia Now Is Materialistic

Russia was in wretched condition when the Revolution came in 1917. Moscow had narrow, poorly paved streets and mostly wooden houses. The new government's first act was to widen greatly the streets of every large city and build five-story cement apartment buildings. As these were built the old houses were pulled down, and this is still going on today. This rebuilding, naturally caused the people to worship Stalin, accepting blindly the new Communist form of government. In the course of 20 years this has succeeded in giving every family a good home in a modern modern apartment building and—through the collective farms—plenty to eat,—with free hospitals and other comforts. There are now no slums in Russia such as are in our large cities!

At the same time, all church worship was discouraged. The old Russian churches under the Tsars had done nothing for the people; so Stalin decided to wipe them out. Almost all the people you meet state proudly that they are "atheists." We, however, insisted on visiting one of the beautiful remaining open Orthodox churches. Our guide stated that she had never been in a church before, although we found that this one was attended each Sunday by over 4,000 praying people, all of whom must stand since there are no seats. True worship is coming back in Russia gradually; but first everyone who is willing to work is being given shelter and food.

Education Now The Goal
During the years Stalin, and now Khrushchev, have directed great efforts toward free education. Most beautiful school and college buildings have been built. Everyone must attend school from the age of 7 to age 14. At 14, they are given competitive exams and those who pass are admitted free to high school for three years. At the age of 17—directly after high school—everyone must go to work in a factory, or on a farm, or in construction work, or in the army. During those two years they are carefully watched to see whether they deserve a college training in science, mathematics or "inventions."

Of the million children attending school in Moscow, about 50,000 are now in colleges or universities. They are constantly checked and about 5,000 are given the very advanced work which results in development of space missiles and other remarkable inventions. Certainly there is much that we in the United States can learn about educating our young people. Moreover, if any of the Russian students feel they were overlooked in the "sifting" described above, they have the opportunity of studying under the

Other Editors Saying ... Advertising Good News

(Hertford County Herald)
The reporters, correspondents, columnists and editorial writers are responsible for only a small part of the most important information your newspaper brings to you.

Equally important to you, the reader and subscriber, is the news furnished you in the pages of your newspaper by the advertiser. Often the business news contained in advertising columns is employed to more direct benefit than the general intelligence of the reportorial and editorial output for it is a guide to savings at the budget level. And the advertisers are mighty important to the reporters, columnists and editorial commentators also, for it is the advertisers who support and expand free enterprise in a land where freedom of expression can be maintained, without government control or subsidy.

Advertising within itself is good news. Often it tells the readers for the first time of some new product that will make the users healthier and happy, how to save labor and money and how to enjoy more fully, the American way of life.

Were it not for the demand created by advertising, the limited number of many products would place them out of the reach of the person of an average income.

Advertising is educational information which is necessary for progress. Advertising has brought about healthy competition which has made America great.

So powerful and vital a factor has advertising become in the general scheme of things that cities, towns, states and other community advertising programs now flourish on national and even international scales.

Wise advertisers have always known that truth pays and that misrepresented products will result in more harm than good. This is why advertising not only tells the truth, but gives a liberal education in scientific developments for a better way of life.

Demand causes mass production, advertising creates demand, and competition is the force eternal behind the story American industry has to tell through the medium of advertising.

In countries where there is little advertising, newspapers are by necessity subsidized and as a result are so slanted they can never put up a fight for your right to know. Advertising is not only news about progress, but it enables a newspaper to remain free and independent. Without advertising there would be little progress in this land of ours and newspapers would be like those in many of the have-not countries of the world.

Is There No End To Inflation?

By ELMER ROESSNER
There is no end to inflation if one is to accept Peterson's law.

Peterson is Prof. William H. New York University economist. The law is:

"History shows that money will multiply in volume and divide in value over the long run. Or, expressed differently, the purchasing power of currency will vary inversely with the magnitude of the public debt."

Professor Peterson expounds his law in the November issue of Challenge magazine. By happy coincidence, the magazine is published by New York University. Professor Peterson has frequently been seen in the University cafeteria with Dr. Haig Babian, the editor of the magazine. This is interesting in connection with Roessner's law, which is: "One of the best ways to get published is to know an editor."

And while Professor Peterson seems to write with a twinkle in his typewriter, his conclusions appear as sound as the Swiss franc.

Professor Peterson introduces law with "some deference to Sir Thomas Gresham (Gresham's Law: bad money drives good money out of circulation) and Prof. C. Northcote Parkinson (Parkinson's Law: Bureaucracy tends to expand)."

Professor Peterson proves his point empirically. He takes coins at random throughout history and shows their value has constantly been reduced. He points out the English penny was originally struck of sterling silver. From 1275 to 1816, the weight dropped from 22.30 grains to 7.27 grains. He might have added that the symbol for the penny is "d," which stands for denarius, a gold coin reputed to be worth the price of a cow.

Debts Rise Proportionately
Professor Peterson points out that national debts rise as the value of currencies falls.

"By now you may be getting the idea that public debts were made to be increased and currencies made to be devalued, and this is precisely the point of the law at hand. Consider: originally the pound, lira and peso referred to certain monetary weights; now all have been eroded by time, their original meanings lost in the dust bin of history."

He concludes: "The investigations will go around in circles. The people will exercise no restraint, the government will exercise no restraint. The public debt, handmaiden to inflation, will wing onward and upward; prices and wages . . . will continue to rise, money could continue to multiply in volume and divide in value.

"Peterson's law is a purely scientific discovery—a fact of history, a part of human nature. Lorelei may be on the rocks, and our sailors are human. The law makes no moral judgments. It stands removed from politics. It poses no solutions. After all, it is not the business of the scientists to shut off the tap water. Enough for him to tell us the tub is overflowing." And it is, indeed.

OLD OFFICE DICTIONARIES HEADING TOWARD DISCARD

The language of modern business is being tangled by the terms introduced in the electronic data-processing field.

At the recent National Business Show in New York were exhibited pdp-Mek-a-Punch and pdp-Data Integrator machines. Pdp stands for peripheral data processing and that means the handling of data that flows into the central office from the periphery. The periphery is where the branch offices are located.

A description of one machine is: "All the data inputs are automatically combined and punched out on tape. The tape output can be fed directly to a computer, or to a tape-to-card converter for use in tabulating machines and systems." Hereafter, don't sneer at the language of the beatniks. Some of them are pdp-beat, too.

Not Everybody Happy Over Stock For Unlucky Village

SAN MARCO D'URRI, Italy (AP)—This out-of-the-way mountain hamlet has no phones, no automobiles, no policemen, only a single radio and 284 stockholders in the world's biggest bank.

That's every man, woman and child in San Marco D'Urri, a village in the barren Apennine Mountains 33 miles south of Genoa.

Sunday each resident was given 25 shares of Bank of America stock, a block of stock worth about $1,200.

Bank of America representatives hiked over a twisting mountain trail—the village's only link with the outside world—to deliver the $340,000 worth of stocks for Victor and Joseph Saturno of Reno, Nev.

Their parents were natives of San Marco D'Urri. Although Victor and Joseph had never seen the village, they wanted to do something for it. Their father, Leopoldo Pietro Saturno, left the hamlet in 1878 when he was almost 20. He made a fortune in real estate in Reno before dying in 1919.

San Marco D'Urri has known little but poverty for years, and the gifts of stock suddenly made all the villagers rich in local terms.

The Avanzini family, which raised Leopoldo Saturno after he was orphaned as a small boy, still lives in the unheated stone farmhouse where he grew up. The family has five acres of barren farm land and four cows.

Now the seven Avanzinis have $3,400 worth of stock, a nest egg they could not have built in years of hard work. Last year each share of Bank of America stock paid a dividend of $1.80. For the Avanzinis that would have an income of $315, probably enough to take care of their meager needs for most of the year.

The arrival of good luck in the hard luck village did not make everybody happy. An aged woman and her two sons suspected "Someone wants to make fools of us." They refused to collect their shares.

Aurelio Gandini, the bank's director for Italy, said the stock would be held for them until they changed their minds.

Some former residents of San Marco were angry that they were left out. The Saturno brothers specified that shares should go only to those living in the village last Feb. 1 and continuing to reside there up to the delivery of the stocks.

Piro and Ernesta Schiaffitto, a couple in their 80s, journeyed to San Marco D'Urri to complain to bank officials they had been deprived of stock "because we were forced to move to Genoa so as not to starve to death."

The presentation of the stock was witnessed by four officials from the bank's headquarters in San Francisco and by Anne Giannini, granddaughter of the founder of the bank, Amedeo Giannini, himself a native of this Apennine Mountain area. Fireworks greeted them.

Gandini handed out the stock certificates in the village church. The first block went to 16-month-old Orietta Perazzo, whose father signed a receipt for her. Parents signed for 54 other children. Six of the oldest residents signed their receipts with an X.

Gandini advised the villagers to hold on to their stock, but if they decided to sell, to consult first with his office.

After the presentation, Stefano Tacchino, 60, bellringer at the church since he was 12, expressed

Russian Government Finance
I was given excellent opportunity to learn how Russia raised the money to build these thousands of apartment houses and beautiful highways and to give such excellent free education.

This is the answer: Instead of selling bonds to the banks as we do in the U. S., the Russian government, which owns all the property, prints money to pay the workmen, teachers, professors, etc.—and also to provide old-age pensions, etc., direct. Every worker in Russia receives newly printed rubles for his or her work. This both reduces the cost of financing and immediately circulates the money among the consumers.

"But how does this prevent inflation?" you ask. Here is the answer: The government collects rent from all its apartments; it makes a profit on all goods—including foods—sold in its government-owned stores. In addition it makes a profit on its vast electrical power distribution, its railways, buses, telephone-telegraph, and factories; also from the collective farms and fisheries. These profits are used for depreciation charges on all property. Hence a percentage of the rubles which were issued to construct are annually destroyed. Large amounts of currency are therefore constantly being retired. If these profits are not sufficient, small taxes are collected, although the goal is to have no taxes.

INCENTIVE OR FEAR
We who are fortunate enough to live under a free-enterprise system wonder how Russia can achieve efficiency and progress without giving rewards in the form of increased salaries or gold-braid uniforms. Such rewards are being given in Russia to a certain extent; but as there are no labor unions or strikes, there are no wage increases except to those who produce more. In fact, the motto is: "Those who do not produce cannot eat unless disabled." Furthermore, since the government owns everything and no one gets private profits, the factory and farm workers are told "the factory or farm in which you work really belongs to you."

Although I speak without authority or actual knowledge, I feel that fear is an economic factor. Certainly the fear of this great economic machine. This fear may percolate through every family and worker. How long this universal fear can continue without a blow-up, only the future can tell. This is well discussed by Eleanor Roosevelt in her recent book "On My Own" published by Dell Publishing Co., Inc., 750 Third Avenue, New York 17, N. Y., price 50 cents. Every reader of this column should own a copy.

91-Year-Old Says His Life Largely Was A Quiet One

Joseph Williams

(Another in a series of interviews with Pitt Countians who have passed their 80th birthday.)

By PATRICIA MOORE

GRIMESLAND — Joseph Leafort Williams, 91, of Grimesland, says his biggest hobby now is going to Sunday School and church at the Proctor Memorial Christian Church near his home.

Williams, a retired farmer, has led a quiet life these 91 years. He was born on the "Old Plank Road" near Greenville now the main highway leading from Greenville to Farmville.

The one time he has really lived out of Pitt County was a seven-year span when his father went to South Carolina to work in the turpentine business. By the time J. L. Williams was 11 years old, the family came back to North Carolina, Pitt County and farm life.

He remembers coming by way of mule cart to the old Nobles Farm near Greenville where his family settled for many years. Later the family moved to the John Stanley Smith farm near Greenville.

When J. L. Williams was young, his father planted cotton right where East Carolina College is now. His family lived in a two-story house across from the college site. Now, of course, the cotton fields and that old two-story house are replaced by bustling class buildings and homes across the street.

He also remembers going to a school in Greenville, a private school in a private home, when he was young. That home, also, is remodeled now, Williams said.

And when he was about 15 years old, J. L. Williams can remember one of the first real printing presses in Greenville. He says he volunteered to help print the paper between school hours. "I helped roll the ink-saturated roller across a box with dies," he recalled.

In his adult life, Williams farmed "the usual" products — cotton, corn, tobacco and peanuts.

He lives now with a daughter, Julia, and her husband, James Mauray, on what is called the River Road in Grimesland. He occasionally visits his other children, both sons, Carlton Williams in Charlotte and Justus L. Williams, in Gainesville, Fla. He used to make his trips by bus, but now his children take him in automobiles.

Williams spends most of his day reading the newspaper, watching baseball on television or in visiting. A frequent visitor at his home is his sister, Mrs. Annie Moore of Grimesland, who is 80 years old.

He says his favorite pastime is going to church and Sunday School, where other members say he says a "beautiful prayer" when called upon. Until this year, Williams had been treasurer of his Sunday School.

His church has played an important part in his life. He says he believes life may be prolonged "by living a good Christian life and living on a square as the Masons say." He has been a long-time member of the Masons.

Williams added that being honest and truthful and treating everyone with respect have been essentials in his 91 years of living on this earth.

Disputed Decision Costs Bucs Upset Win Over Bears

Sports Scope

by Johnny Hudson

One Of The Greatest 'Efforts'

"Great" would be the only word to identify the tremendous effort put out by the East Carolina football team Saturday night against the nation's number one small college club, Lenoir Rhyne.

East Carolina completely dominated the game on the muddy turf of College Stadium and a visitor would have had trouble identifying which club was ranked number one. The Pirate "team effort" against the Bears will go down in record books as one of the all-time great performances by an East Carolina eleven. It will probably be many a day before the Bucs get another crack at a top-ranking club such as the Bears.

The game and tremendous effort of the Bucs was marred by what many called "the poorest call" they had "ever seen in football". It all came about in the final minute of play when Lenoir Rhyne drove to within a single point of the underdog Pirates—21-20. The Bears elected to run for the vital two points and Lee Farmer was hit behind the line of scrimmage.

Officials Blow Pirate Victory

One official tooted the whistle which would have killed the play, but Farmer, in a desperate attempt to get rid of the ball, threw an underhand toss straight into the air with no intended destination. A mud-soaked Lenoir Rhyne player, later identified as Marcus Midgett pulled the ball in and one official ruled the points were good.

Fans on the sidelines had heard the whistle and immediately stormed on the field in protest, contending that the play was dead. The ruckus was to little avail and East Carolina was penalized 15 yards on the kickoff.

Coach Jack Boone, usually mild as a lamb toward officials, also rushed onto the field in protest and was highly upset over the call and with good reason.

"The officials bugged me," he stated. They had a call to make and they didn't make it. It was the worst call I've ever seen in football. Our kids didn't lose a football game. They may have lost a score, but they didn't lose a game."

Linemen Spotted In End Zone

The controversial play could have been ruled void for three different reasons: 1. The play was stopped cold and the whistle had blown. 2. At least three Lenoir Rhyne linemen were spotted in the end zone which meant that the Bears had illegal receivers down field. 3. The pass was thrown with intentions of grounding the ball.

The game will go down in the record books as an East Carolina defeat but the crowd, which braved the chilly weather to see the two teams clash on the rain-soaked field, may never be convinced that the Pirates lost the hard-played game.

Bucs Take Defeat Hard

The Pirate dressing room was full of gloom following the game. The officials' decision was like taking a punch to the gut.

East Carolina gridders turned in a spectacular performance on the muddy turf of College Stadium Saturday night only to have a bitterly disputed decision deny them a victory over the nation's number one small college, Lenoir Rhyne. The Bruins scored in the final minute of play to capture the game, 22-21.

Playing on a field that had soaked in 20 hours of hard rain, the fired-up Pirates completely outclassed their visitors from Hickory but took a heart-breaking loss in the final minute of the game.

East Carolina led the entire second half until the final minutes of play when the Bears drove 64 for a touchdown. Lee Farmer scored from the three. With the score 21-20 in favor of the Pirates, Farmer tried to circle his right end for the two pointer but Sonny Basinger and Ed Emory came in to apparently put the clamps on the Bear tailback.

The play was seemingly dead when Farmer made a desperation underhand toss into the air and Marcus Midgett grabbed it in the end zone. One official ruled the points were good and fans came pouring onto the field in high protest.

Cocky Bears
Cocky over their top perch in the national rankings, Lenoir Rhyne looked like they would turn the game into the expected one-sided affair as they scored the first time in possession.

It took only seven plays for the Bears to march 54 yards for their opening touchdown with Farmer scoring from the two. The Bruin tailback cut off his right tackle to add the two points and sake LR into a quick 8-0 lead.

LR kicked off and Jerry Carpenter fumbled when hit and the Bears took over on the Pirate 25. The East Carolina line stiffened and stopped the invaders on the eight.

James Speight, playing the best game of his career, almost went the distance, as he cut off the right side of the Bruin line and raced 42 yards. The Buc threat came to a close with two consecutive penalties but George Turner's punt was bobbled on the 17 and East Carolina recovered.

The Bucs drove to the 12 in three plays but a fourth down field goal attempt by Henry Kwatowski failed and put an end to ECC's first scoring opportunity.

The hard-charging Pirate line caught Farmer unprepared and forced the ball loose several plays later on the LR eight. From there, it took the Bucs four plays to score but the scoring play was a brilliant one. Sonny Basinger and Ralph Zehring carried it to the three and then halfback Tommy Matthews made a deceptive move to get clear in the end zone and take a pass from Zehring for the score. Sonny Basinger threw a ball pass to Matthews in the end zone to tie the score.

Lenoir Rhyne went ahead once again late in the quarter, driving 48 yards for the score. A 26 yard pass from Farmer to Dick Lage climaxed the drive. The extra point attempt was no good.

East Carolina came right back with the home run play to go ahead at halftime. Ralph Zehring threw a perfect strike to Glenn Bass and the elusive halfback zig-zagged away from three would-be tacklers for the score. The play covered 54 yards and tied the score at 14-14. Jerry Carpenter came in to boot the extra point and it was 15-14 at intermission.

The Pirates didn't lose much time in scoring their last touchdown. Threatening earlier in the period but failing to score, the Bucs once again turned to the home run play. Glenn Bass tallied his second score of the night as he cut off his left tackle and raced down the sideline for 56 yards. Several members of the Bruin secondary made a stab at the conference's number one rusher but it was a futile attempt. Carpenter's attempt for the extra point was wide.

Playing like champions, East Carolina dominated most of the fourth period and came close to scoring another tally. Wobbling through the Bear defenders like an early morning drunk, James Speight led a 48 yard march.

Speight ripped off gains of 16, 11, and 13 yards in the drive. The Bucs offense stalled and a fourth down field goal attempt was fumbled and the Bears took over on their 36 with less than two minutes showing on the scoreboard clock.

Lee Farmer was once again the sparkplug for the Bears as he paced their 64 yard touchdown march. Farmer clipped off 24 yards to the EC 42 and then passed 19 yards to Adam Maples. Two more stabs at the ECC line netted 18 more yards to Farmer and put the ball on the ECC five.

Simmons picked up two yards and Farmer cut off his left tackle for three yards and a touchdown. After bitter discussion, the extra points were ruled good and LR had come from behind to remain undefeated 22-21.

The big discussion over the final extra points came when Farmer had been stopped and one official had sounded the whistle. The Bear tailback threw the ball after the whistle had sounded. The other argument over the play was complaint that several linemen were already in the end zone when the pass was completed and should have been ruled as ineligible receivers downfield.

James Speight and Glenn Bass ripped the Bear defense to shreds all night and added yards to their number one and two positions in the conference rushing department. Speight clipped off 132 yards in 13 carries and Bass picked up 105 in ten attempts.

Apps Clinch NS Second Place

Lenoir Rhyne's undefeated skinn of 15 straight still was intact today, thanks to an almost one-man effort by tailback Billy Farmer. The Bears won their seventh straight of the season and their fourth North State Conference game without a defeat Saturday with a final score 22-21 victory over East Carolina.

Farmer, outstanding in every Lenoir Rhyne game, ran for two touchdowns, passed for a third, and accounted for 187 yards total offense.

But his big play came with 35 seconds remaining, after he personally engineered a drive and plunged for a touchdown. That left Lenoir Rhyne still down 21-20 and the Bears decided to go for a two-point conversion and victory.

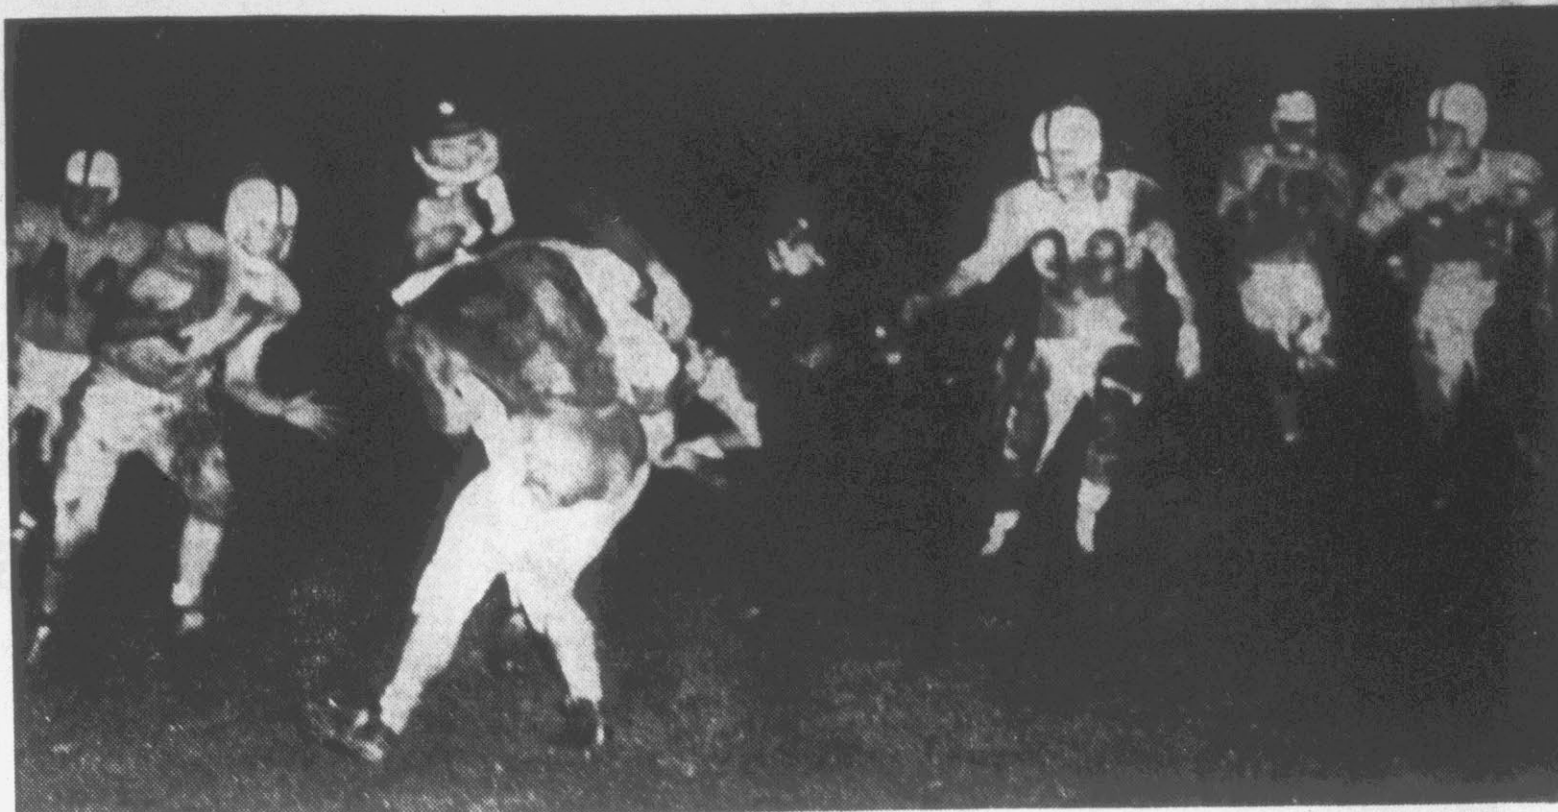

Farmer attempted to run the extra points, but found himself trapped. In desperation, he flipped an underhand pass to halfback Marcus Midgett who grabbed it for the game-winning points.

The Bears will have two games remaining, with the league's bottom two clubs. This week they face Elon and then have their traditional Thanksgiving Day game with Catawba.

Other results Saturday saw Appalachian defeat Guilford 20-9. The victory clinched second place for the Apps, who completed their league schedule with a 5-1 record. They still could win the championship—if the Bears drop their last two games.

In two non-conference games, Western Carolina defeated Emory and Henry 36-20 and Newberry stomped Elon 56-21. Catawba had an open date.

This week's schedule has Elon (0-5 and 1-8) at Lenoir Rhyne, Guilford (1-3 and 2-5) at Catawba (1-3-0 and 1-6-1), Presbyterian College at Appalachian (5-1 and 6-2), Newport News Apprentice School at East Carolina (3-3 and 4-3) and Western Carolina (3-2 and 6-2-1) has an open date.

UPSY-DAISY—Lee Farmer (41) is picked up by a couple of East Carolina tacklers. The Pirate defenders racked the LR backs most of the night only to fall short 22-21 in their upset bid.

Paper Suggests That Virginia Drop From ACC

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP)—The Winchester Star suggested editorially today that the University of Virginia withdraw from the powerful Atlantic Coast Conference and seek membership in the Ivy League.

The newspaper said Virginia's dismal football record in the ACC—four conference games won, 25 lost since the league was formed in 1953—"indicates a change is needed."

"Great emphasis on football seems incompatible with the general atmosphere of scholarship prevailing in Charlottesville," the editorial by Associate Editor Rufus Josey said.

"The only real disadvantage" to affiliation with the Ivy League would be geographical "and even this is not too serious a problem in the age of air travel," the Star said.

Virginia hasn't had a winning football season since becoming a charter member of the ACC. The Cavaliers now have lost 16 consecutive games, eight this year, and are 0-3 in conference play thus far in 1959.

"We believe the record indicates a change is needed," the Star editorialized, and the future is dismal "if Virginia remains in a conference where big-time football is solidly entrenched and the strong are getting stronger."

The Star said the university might remain an independent if it withdrew from the ACC "but this would entail serious schedule difficulties and public interest might wane." Or, it said, Virginia might rejoin the Southern Conference—from which it resigned in 1936.

On the other hand, the newspaper said, "Virginia football fans and those in nearby states would be very much interested in games with Harvard, Cornell, Columbia, Yale, Princeton, Brown, Dartmouth and Pennsylvania. Big crowds would mean financial success."

Citadel Knocks Off Unbeaten Foe

By ED YOUNG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Any of four teams may win the Southern Conference football championship this year, but if you heed the advice of a fellow who's seen them all at close range, you won't pick against Virginia Tech.

"You have to like Tech's chances," says Carl Wise, the astute, much-traveled assistant to head Coach Ed Merrick at Richmond. "When Tech is in good form, it can play against anybody—and I mean anybody."

Richmond is the only team in the conference that has met all four of the title hopefuls—Tech, West Virginia, The Citadel and VMI. The Spiders tied VMI, 14-14, but lost to West Virginia by 10-7, to The Citadel by 8-7, and to Virginia Tech by 51-29.

Though Tech gave Richmond a much rougher afternoon than any of the other contenders, Wise thinks the Techmen should be favored "only by an eyelash" in the championship showdown starting this week.

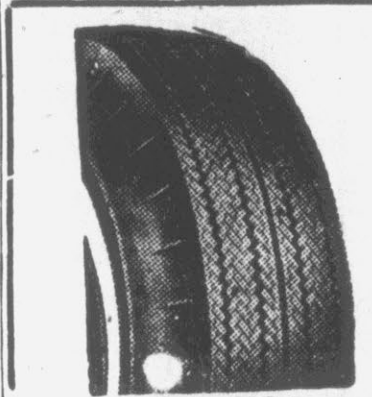

The crucial games that will decide the 1959 conference championship begin this Saturday with The Citadel, leading the league with a 4-0 record, visiting VMI (3-0-1) and Virginia Tech (2-0) at West Virginia (2-0).

Other pivotal games come up Nov. 21, when The Citadel is at West Virginia, and Nov. 26, when Tech and VMI collide at Roanoke.

From an all-games standpoint the league's only winning clubs are The Citadel (7-1), VMI (6-1-1) and Virginia Tech (5-3). Each won last Saturday.

The Citadel nosed out previously unbeaten Presbyterian, 8-0; VMI nudged Lehigh, 7-6, and Virginia Tech squeezed past West Texas, 26-21.

West Virginia acquitted itself well for three periods before

Baker's Field Goal Wins Game For 'Skins'

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer
San Francisco's 49ers are the surprise club of the National Football League and no doubt about it. But the most surprised bunch has to be Baltimore's world champion Colts, who now have dropped two in a row.

A 46-yard field goal by Sam Baker with 12 seconds left gave the Washington Redskins a 27-24 upset over the chilled champs Sunday, sinking the Colts two games behind the 49ers in the race for the Western Conference title.

San Francisco swept to its fourth straight success, nixing a jinx as Abe Woodson took off on a 105-yard kickoff return in a 24-16 decision over the Rams at Los Angeles. The game at the Coliseum, usually a tough spot for the 49ers, drew the day's largest crowd—94,376.

In the Eastern Conference, three field goals by Pat Summerall carried New York (6-1) to its fifth straight victory. It was a 9-3 job or the Chicago Cardinals that retained the Giants' one-game edge over Cleveland. The Browns (5-2) broke a tie with Philadelphia for second place by whipping the Eagles 28-7.

The Chicago Bears tied Green Bay for third in the West by handing the Packers their fourth straight defeat, 28-17. Pittsburgh tied Detroit 10-10 on Bobby Layne's touchdown pass in the final 3½ minutes. It was the first deadlock of the season in the NFL.

Baker's winning field goal against the Colts, set up by Tom Bratz' interception of a Johnny Unitas pass, was his second of the game and was held by Eddie LeBaron—the little guy who had a finger in all of the Skins' scoring.

Now that Cotton Letner's foot and Dale Hackbart's arm have booted and tossed the top echelon into a tizzy, what's next for this crazy, mixed-up pastime called college football?

Seventy-two hours ago, Louisiana State was rolling monotonously along with 19 straight victories, 14 weeks of domination of The Associated Press poll, and speculating on just who might be its

Stokes-Pactolus Loses Couple In Season Opener

JAMESVILLE—Stokes-Pactolus opened their 1959-60 basketball season by losing a couple of thrillers to Jamesville last Friday night. Jamesville took the girls game, 67-48, and then eked out a 44-42 decision in the boys fray.

Coach Zeke Coggins was initiated into the coaching fraternity the hard way as he saw his young club scramble from behind several times only to lose in the dying moments to the more experienced Jamesville boys.

The Blue Jays trailed most of the way although by only a small margin. Stokes-Pactolus surged ahead by two points by the end of the third quarter but then fell behind by six points and had to hustle to get back in the game.

With less than a minute remaining, Donald Hardison fired a shot that would have been the tying two pointer but a traveling violation was called and the points made void.

Jamesville took over and chose to play possession ball over the final thirty seconds of action.

Hardison made a spectacular performance in the Stokes-Pactolus loss, dropping in 24 points. Sammy Whitehurst, a freshman, followed in the scoring column with 11 points.

Terry Randolph, a lanky 6-2 lad, proved to be the downfall for the Pitt county club as he dumped in 14 points and controlled the backboards on most occasions.

"I thought we looked pretty good," stated Coggins. "It was a lot better than we had expected. Our boys hustled all the way and never gave up. We made our opening game mistakes but that was expected."

The Jamesville girls used the height and scoring ability of Billie Sue Holliday to swamp the defending Pitt County female champions, 67-48.

Holliday, boasting bushels of ability and capable of playing a boy's brand of ball, carried the load for the winners by scoring 48 points to equal the total output of the Blue Jays.

Veterans Carrie Lee Whitehurst and Rita Bullock scored 19 points each for the losers. Freshman Lillian Crisp had 10 points.

Stokes-Pactolus will play at Oak City tomorrow night and then open their home season against Bear Grass Friday night.

opponent in another Sugar Bowl appearance. Right behind was Northwestern, whipping everything in sight in the Midwest, looking toward the Big Ten title and the Rose Bowl.

Then Letner kicked—two conversions and LSU fell to Tennessee 14-13, and Harkbart passed—a pair of touchdowns and Wisconsin spilled Northwestern 24-19.

Now mighty LSU is no better off than in a three-way tie for third place in its own league, the Southeastern Conference. Three of the four, either tied or ahead of the Tigers are bowl eligibles of and Wisconsin, both 6-1 and tied for the Big Ten lead; Clemson, and Georgia Tech, with Tennessee another half-length behind as a result of a tie to go with its single loss. Auburn, second at 4-1 to leader Georgia (5-0), is out of it because of NCAA probation.

Northwestern now faces the challenge of winning a couple of tough road games, at Michigan State and at Illinois, in an attempt to grab back the roses from Wisconsin.

And when you consider a national leader, look at this partial roster:

Texas, with an 8-0 record and the Southwest Conference lead after a hairbreadth 13-12 escape over three-time beaten Baylor; Syracuse, 7-0 after holding off previously unbeaten Penn State's rally, 20-18; Southern California, 7-0 after thrashing much-thrashed West Virginia 36-0; Tennessee, Georgia, Mississippi, Auburn and LSU in the SEC; Northwestern and Wisconsin, both 6-1 and tied for the Big Ten lead; Clemson, the Atlantic Coast Conference leader, and others as dictated by your sectional preference.

It promises to be a wide-open scramble to the end of the season. If there's one thing last weekend seems to have proved it's that the old equalizer has been at work and there isn't a dominant team or even a dominant two or three

It's a field day for the top ten pickers, and a case of supply far exceeding the demand for the plush spots in the major bowls.

Rose Bowl — Northwestern and Wisconsin tied for the Big Ten spot; Washington, Oregon and UCLA scrambling on the West Coast (Southern Cal is ineligible).

Cotton Bowl—Texas leading for the Southwest Conference host; pick your opponent from a dozen eligibles — Syracuse, Mississippi, LSU, Georgia, Tennessee, Georgia Tech, Clemson, etc. etc.

Sugar Bowl—Georgia, Tennessee, LSU, Mississippi from the SEC, which doesn't commit its champ but usually sends it. For an opponent there is any of the four that don't win the SEC title, plus Clemson, possibly the Southwest runner-up, or Syracuse.

Orange Bowl — The Big Eight representative, could be Colorado,

Iowa State, Kansas — just about anybody but Oklahoma (ineligible since it went last time) against: Syracuse, Penn State, one of the SEC teams, Clemson, or one of the Southwest clubs.

ing candy from a baby and the players could not hold back the tears of their heart-breaking defeat. They had given the game 100% effort and had upset the nation's top ranking small college. They had been beaten in score but it had taken the LR squad plus the help of the officials to do so.

Although disgusted and mad, East Carolina students poured on the muddy turf following the game and lifted head Coach Jack Boone to their shoulders shouting "We won the game" and Boone was quick to agree.

Elsewhere around the state the game will be looked on as just another victory, but for Greenville folks and East Carolina students it will be long remembered as "the game that East Carolina upset the nation's number one small college."

CHAPTER
At Pauley the Sergeant was a little disturbed to learn that the money recovered from the bandits had shrunk to fifteen hundred.

shamed of yourself, Sergeant Desportes, for taking a young boy like that with you when you're chasing such brutes!
The Sergeant glanced over at Bud, who was still leaning against the grain bin.

strange, with her pale, tense face, her wasp waist, her beautiful clothes, her great brooches, her antique earrings, and her queenly bearing.
It was not that she was beautiful, or even pretty, and she was certainly not young—maybe forty; but to the Sergeant she just seemed like a being from another world, completely beyond his experience.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Dr. Arthur H. Compton, one of the developers of the atomic bomb, is hospitalized for the second time in less than a month.
The physicist was admitted to Barnes Hospital Sunday for what a hospital spokesman termed a check-up. The spokesman said Dr. Compton was in good condition.

Average Cuban Unperturbed By Big Turmoil

By ROBERT BERELLEZ

HAVANA (AP)—Weaned on political turmoil over the last half century, the average Cuban appears to be taking the present unrest in stride.

Jails are filled with "counter-revolutionaries" awaiting trial or investigation.

The atmosphere is thick as government radio commentators spew anti-Americanism and hate for vested interests, for imperialist exploiters, for the large landholder.

Military tribunals and their firing squads have been restored.

But like a cork at sea, the average Cuban seems to sail well through storm and calm.

Movie houses are filled. Dance halls do a brisk business. The seawall drive is crowded every night by Cubans seeking respite from heat. Attending them is an army of peddlers of coffee and refreshments.

The casino belt and luxury hotels are hurting, but Joe Cuban doesn't go there anyway. He can be found in the East Havana bistros, dark, gay and jumpy. The city's two biggest department stores report "business slightly better than last year."

By official estimate, some 700,000 Cubans are unemployed, nearly half of them chronically jobless. Private capital investment is virtually nonexistent. A decline in dollar and gold reserves has resulted in sharp restrictions on imports.

But today, when he isn't cheering Fidel Castro at some public demonstration or looking at him on television, the average Cuban is cheering his favorite baseball club. An overflow crowd at the 30,000-seat Gran Stadium cheered the Havana Sugar Kings' triumph over Minneapolis in the Little World Series.

With hardly a break at the end of the International League season, the winter baseball league went into action. League officials report increased attendance.

Although not heavy bettors, Cubans love horse racing. The local plant is undergoing a face lifting. A vastly improved program outlined by a Florida racing syndicate headed by lawyer Dan Chappello of Miami, Fla., has been launched.

Challenging Castro for top video ratings are two boxing heroes: welterweights Luis Manuel Rodriguez and Florentino Fernandez.

A bond selling scheme on a lottery basis which replaced the national lottery after Castro came to power is gaining momentum. It is operated by the National Institute of Housing and Savings. The lottery director, Pastorita Nunez, says the institute has under construction 3,591 apartments and 522 houses in lowcost projects in Havana. An applicant pays what he can afford over a 20-year period at a declining rate of interest. He pays nothing down.

The average Cuban seems to be for Fidel Castro. He makes $85 a month, his wife works for somewhat less. They have one or two-bedroom apartment costing, unfurnished, $35-$50 a month.

He sums it up this way: the rent reduction law, which is blamed for paralyzing the private construction business, gave him what amounted to a healthy wage boost. Cuts in gas and electricity rates added to his savings.

Does this "average man" think there is any justification for Castro's attacks on the United States? "There are some and they are agitating. But they were never a success even at their peak 20 years ago. They'll get out of hand one of these days and Fidel will slap them down."

That, at least, is one point of view.

Nervous Bride Killed In Wreck

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A bride who nervously delayed her wedding half a day was killed with her groom and mother in a traffic accident less than two hours after she finally said "I do."

A fourth member of the wedding party, the father of the bride, was critically injured. All are from Flagstaff, Ariz.

Killed Sunday were the newlyweds, Gayle Welch, 24, and Christine Helen Welch, 20, and the girl's mother, Irene Sneed, 36. Winford Sneed, 45, suffered facial cuts and possible internal injuries.

The wedding ceremony began, but Christine found it impossible to say "I do" when the time arrived. She waited four hours before deciding to go through with it.

Sheriff's deputies said the party was returning from a sightseeing trip after the wedding when Welch's car drifted off a highway northeast of Las Vegas, hurled a creek bed and plowed into an embankment.

Only Irate Over Air Raid Siren

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Civil Defense officials are wondering.

Air raid sirens wailed for 45 minutes Sunday because of wiring defect.

Hundreds of irate callers complained to authorities.

For a moment that there was an "But not a one of them," said a Civil Defense official, "thought air raid going on."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market celebrated the resumption of work at the steel mills today with a vigorous advance. Gains were trimmed in quiet trading early this afternoon.

Key stocks held advance of fractions to more than a point while more volatile issues were up 3 to 5 points.

The ticker tape was as much as 3 minutes behind transactions for a 37-minute period when the buying wave was at its height.

The Supreme Court's action over the weekend in sending the steelworkers back to the mills for an 80-day cool-off period brought a rush of buying to the steels, rails and motors.

Rails, which have been lagging behind industrials in recent sessions, made an especially strong recovery.

The advance took in most major sections of the list. Losses began to appear after the first enthusiasm wore off and traders took profits.

Corporate bonds advanced. U. S. government bonds eased.

Terry Sanford's Announcement Set In February

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Fayetteville lawyer Terry Sanford says he will not make a formal announcement of his gubernatorial candidacy until "some time in February."

"I feel and the people who are working with me feel that the people of North Carolina should not be subjected to a long campaign," he said here Saturday.

Sanford's remarks came after his long-time friend, Bert L. Bennett Jr., resigned as Forsyth County's Democratic chairman to take an active role in support of Sanford.

Others who have indicated their willingness to run are Addison Hewlett of Wilmington, veteran member of the House and its speaker in 1958, and John D. Larkins of Trenton, former State Democratic chairman and present national committeeman.

Large Number Of Traffic Accidents Over Weekend

A series of wrecks in Greenville Saturday and Sunday resulted in heavy property damage and kept officers on the run.

Eleven fifty-eight Saturday night cars driven by Linwood Earl Tripp, 26, of 119 West 12th St., and John Alexander Jr., 1905 East 4th St., collide at the intersection of Third and Summit Sts. with the Tripp car striking a parked car owned by George Salle of 706 West Fourth St.

Police set damage to the Tripp vehicle at $300 while estimated damage to the Alexander car was placed at $1,000. Damage to the Salle vehicle was placed at $20.

Following investigation by officers Tripp was charged with failure to stop for a stop sign.

No charges were placed by officers Saturday when cars driven by Gus Hardee Jr., 1218 South Pitt St., and John Henry Corey, Negro, of 1300 Ward St., collided at the intersection of Boyd and Dickinson Aves., causing an estimated $5 damage to each car.

At 12:12 p.m. Saturday cars operated by Wilbur Earl Williams, 35, of 1306 Cotanche St., and Fred Thomas Edwards wrecked at the intersection of 14th St. and the National Carbon Company driveway.

Damage to the Williams vehicle was set at $200 while damage to the Edwards vehicle was placed at $150.

Edwards was charged with failure to yield the right of way as a result of the investigation of the mishap.

No arrests were made by police in an accident at Eighth and Cotanche Sts. at 4:58 p.m. Saturday involving cars driven by James C. Lyndell, 23, of 1220 South Evans St., and Ralph Owen Bumgardner, 47, of Granite Falls.

Damage to the Lyndell car was estimated to be about $250 while estimated damage to the Bumgardner car was $200.

Investigators said a third car was parked on the street, obstructing Bumgardner's view of the stop sign at the intersection, and was not involved in the collision.

No charges were placed by police Sunday about 10:35 a.m. when two cars collided at the intersection of Fleming and Mack Sts., causing total damage estimated at $400.

Traffic officers identified the drivers of the two cars as Clinton Burnett, 31-year-old Negro of Rt. 1, Grimesland, and Willie Isaac McLawhorn, 40-year-old Negro of Rt. 1, Winterville.

As the result of an accident at the intersection of 10th and Forbes Sts. about 10:55 a.m. yesterday, warrants were issued for Dennis Roberson of Rt. 1, Winterville, charging him with leaving the scene of an accident and failure to report the accident.

Officers said the Roberson car struck a church sign at the intersection, causing an estimated $35 damage to the car and $15 damage to the sign.

The car, which was left at the scene, was stored at a local garage.

Roberson, 24, was arrested last night by Pitt County sheriff's deputies.

In an accident at 3:39 p.m. yesterday a car being operated by Mrs. Bruce Suggs of 10 Middleton Place was allegedly struck by a truck driven by Albert Russell Baker of 2306 East Fifth St.

Begin Observing Education Week

Greenville's city schools began a week-long participation in American Education Week this morning by special displays, open house at most schools, and other methods. The special week began yesterday and winds up Saturday.

Using the theme: "Praise and Appraise Your Schools," AEW is aimed at arousing added interest from the American public toward school operations, facilities, capabilities, and accomplishments.

Following the national program, the special week is broken down into special topics—one for each day. Today's theme is "World Affairs Are Everybody's Affairs." The program stresses learning to get along with people next door.

In cooperation with the national design, the participating schools are requested to emphasize the daily topics. Today's program included such phases as learning to work on common problems, learning to enjoy artistic differences, learning to communicate, and learning how parents and other citizens can help.

Outside the schools, arrangements have been made for two local radio programs and a pair of television shows during the week. Restaurants are using place mats printed especially for AEW. In addition, posters and leaflets have been distributed throughout the county and city.

Gov. Hodges 'Satisfied' By Reception Given His Party

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Gov. Luther H. Hodges today expressed complete satisfaction for the reception given his trade delegation by the North Carolina mission in western Europe but said interest in his group has been keener in West Germany than anywhere else.

Hodges and his party of business and industrial leaders came to Munich, capital of Bavaria, after visiting London, Hamburg, Amsterdam, Rotterdam, Stuttgart and Frankfurt.

The governor said his home state is rapidly changing its economic outlook "from cotton and tobacco to poultry, cattle and industry."

He said last year over 150 million frozen chickens were exported from North Carolina, and 5 million went to West Germany via Hamburg.

Hodges invited West German traders to make more use of Carolina's port facilities.

He said his state could not offer any preferential taxes for foreign importers, but "our local state taxes are very low compared with those in other states."

Hodges also invited German businessmen to set up branch offices in North Carolina.

Hodges and his 66 companions rested and went sightseeing Sunday. Several went up the 9,719-foot Zugspitze, Germany's highest Alpine peak, and visited the village of Oberammergau, site of a passion play. Others flew to Vienna for the day.

At a luncheon for Bavarian industrialists Hodges praised Germany's economic recovery after World War II. He said he still recalled the country as it was in 1950 when he served on the staff of the Economic Cooperation Administration in Europe.

"Since then the progress in your country has been enormous," said Hodges.

In reply the Bavarian state economics minister, Otto Schedl, termed the Marshall plan "one of the highlights in human history. It helped an enemy to get back on his feet."

After the luncheon Hodges appointed Miss Jutta Schaller, an employe of the American Chamber of Commerce in Germany, to the rank of "ambassador of good will of North Carolina" for introducing each of the 200 guests to the governor by name.
