Stork Outpacing The Grim Reaper

Statistics compiled by the Pitt County Health Department show that during the month of October, the birth rate in Pitt is running along three-fold higher than the death rate.

According to figures tabulated by Pitt Deputy Registrar of Vital Statistics Mrs. Mary Lily Parker, there were 176 live births during the month as compared with a total of 52 deaths.

Of the 176, 70 of the new babies were White and 106 Negro. Of the 106 Negro births, 25 were illegitimate. There were no illegitimate White births.

Death figures showed an even split between White and Negro. There were 26 of each.

According to Pitt Health Director Dr. Georgia Y. Mills, the situation "that in concerning the State Board of Health most is the death rate of infants under one month old.

During October, Pitt recorded four deaths of Negro babies under one month of age. Another six Negro infants under one year old accounted for the deaths in that department. There were no White deaths in either category during the month, according to the records.

Dr. Mills expressed the opinion that a lack of prenatal care was a prime factor in the high rate of deaths in the two categories.

The report also revealed that Pitt marked down a single death, a Negro, from tuberculosis; and recorded six, two White and four Negro, Cancer deaths.

Child Is Killed By School Bus

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A 7-year-old girl was killed Tuesday when she ran in front of a school bus she had left a few moments before, the Highway Patrol reported.

Highway Patrolman G. W. Brown said Donna Delores Hobbs, 7, disembarked, ran back to check the family mailbox beside the road, and then ran in front of the bus.

The bus was driven by Helen Carol Byrne, 16. The accident occurred on a rural road seven miles from here. Investigation was continuing.

Gov't Experts Begin Check Cranberry Crop

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government fanned out 100 inspectors and 60 chemists today to test cranberries for possible contamination by a dangerous weed-killer.

Only limited quantities of berries from Washington and Oregon have been found to be contaminated, but checks will be run also on those from other producing areas.

Cranberry producers howled for the scalp of Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of health, education and welfare, who set off the gigantic cranberry scare at a news conference Monday.

Ambrose E. Stevens, executive vice president of Ocean Spray Cranberries, Inc., said in New York Flemming's action would wipe out the 50-million-dollar industry.

He wired Flemming asking that "you take immediate steps to rec-

Stop Trying

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has told Panama to stop trying to pick a fight.

The U. S. government is also trying to find out whether it is true that Panamanian police were ordered to stay away from the American Embassy when demonstrations were being made there Nov. 3 and 4.

The U. S. statement, given Tuesday to the Panamanian charge d'affaires, Arturo Morgan-Morales, said Panama should end "inflammatory public allegations" arising out of the demonstrations.

Panamanian extremists have been agitating for taking over the canal, which is operated by the United States in "perpetuity" from Panama.

Pause For Veterans' Day Salute

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation paid tribute today to veterans of past wars and heard a warning from a former top commander that freedom could be lost by default to Communism.

The warning was sounded by retired Gen. Albert Wedemeyer in a talk at the Arlington National Cemetery Amphitheater after a wreath was laid at the Tomb of the Unknowns as a climax of the national observance of Veterans Day.

Throughout the nation and at military posts around the world similar ceremonies were held. There were parades, talks of glory and of death and services in memory of the dead of past wars in most cities.

"We could close our freedoms by default simply because we take them for granted," Wedemeyer told crowds gathered at the Tomb of the Unknowns where Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, Army chief of staff laid the wreath of memory.

"Every informed American knows that communism has infiltrated in varying degrees into our schools, labor unions, churches and some branches of government," Wedemeyer said.

"This could never have happened were it not for false concepts of Americanism—and the apathy of many of our fellow citizens."

STILL ALIVE 3rd pgh 143 delect. Still alive to receive the tributes of one Confederate veteran of the Civil War, 60 veterans of the Indian wars, 42,000 Spanish American War veterans, 2,750,000 veterans of World War I, 15,230,000 veterans of World War II, and 5,456,000 Korean War veterans.

Honored as well are the millions who fought for their nation and died.

Under a rotation system, this year's Washington ceremonies are in charge of the American Legion. Other veterans' groups have picked these other cities as sites for their main services: The Amvets at Chicago, the Army Navy Legion at Philadelphia, the Disabled Veterans at Dodge City, Kan., the Marine Corps League at Harrisburg, Pa., and the Veterans for Foreign Wars at Birmingham, Ala.

In New York two parades were scheduled. Veterans organizations march down Fifth avenue to the Eternal Light at Madison Square and to the Veterans Monument in Union Square. Brooklyn's American Legion parades in that borough.

Full-Time Nixon Office Opened

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—The nation's first full-time "Nixon-for-President" headquarters will be opened here Thursday.

Both New Hampshire's Republican senators, Styles Bridges and Norris Cotton, are expected to attend.

Those berries were destroyed, not because we know they contain a chemical which would cause cancer, but on the merest chance the chemical might be found on them.

Dufort, Oregon manager of Spray Cranberries, Inc., said at Brandon, Ore., the cranberries were a month ago were from the 1957 crop and those moving into storage are from the 1959 crop.

Dufort said sprayed berries will not go to market until the Federal Food and Drug Administration approves. He said the harvest was nearly complete in the Oregon coastal bogs.

Some fresh berries are going to market in Oregon, but they are from unsprayed areas, he said. The federal agency said aminotriazole, a chemical used to kill weeds in Washington and Oregon cranberry bogs, was found to cause cancer in a rat.

ALBANY, Ore., (AP)—Three million pounds of Oregon cranberries are moving into storage. Another million pounds were buried here because they may have been sprayed with a weed killer that produced cancer in a rat.

Sec. Mitchell 'Eats Hat' Over Unemployment Tally

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell today ate his hat—a fedora made of cake—because unemployment failed to fall below three million last month as he had predicted.

But Mitchell sent a slice apiece to the leaders of the steel strike which kept joblessness high, President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers Union and the industry's top bargainer R. Conrad Cooper.

"I was a couple of hundred thousand off in my predictions, due entirely to the steel strike, not to any weakness in our economy," Mitchell said.

Unemployment in October was 3,270,000 though employment was 66,800,000, a record for the month. Mitchell in April predicted that by last month employment would rise to 67 million and joblessness would drop below 3 million.

When AFL-CIO President George N'any accused him of talking through his hat, Mitchell promised to eat his headpiece on the front steps of the Labor Department if he were proved wrong.

Aides to the secretary had a hat made of cake so the boss wouldn't get indigestion paying off.

The detailed figures given out by the Labor Department after the symbolic hat eating showed that employment rose 484,000 in October to 66,831,000. Unemployment rose 42,000 to 3,272,000.

The proportion of unemployment to the work force rose from 5.6 per cent in September to 6 per cent in October. The ratio was 5.3 per cent last April when Mitchell made his prediction.

Seymour Wolfhelm, deputy assistant secretary of labor, estimated the layoffs due to the steel strike rose to the neighborhood of half a million before the strikers went back to work under a Taft-Hartley law court injunction.

Officials calculated that unemployment in October would have been in the neighborhood of 2,900,000 or nearly a half million less than the actual figures, if there had been no steel strike.

Average hourly earnings of factory workers declined slightly to $2.21, lowering average weekly earnings to $89.06.

Mitchell made his forecasts in a speech last April to a giant AFL-CIO rally here. Over 5,000 union members, many unemployed, demanded more government jobs aid and job-making moves.

Mitchell said then the nation already was well on its way toward recovery from the 1958 recession without much need for federal action. Neither the administration nor Congress went along with the AFL-CIO suggestions.

The latest prior job and jobs totals, for September, were announced a month ago. They showed 66,347,000 employed and 3,230,000 unemployed. The steel strikers and others idled in labor walkouts are not counted as unemployed, but those furloughed as a result of strikes are included.

Actually, Mitchell's prediction of 67 million employed by October came true much earlier—June, July and August all showed working totals topping that figure. Because of the steel strike the figure since has slid back below 67 million.

Unemployment is still serious, even though the September total of 3,230,000 was the lowest tide figure this year. This is an unusually high number for that month. Only in the recession years of 1949 and 1953, since the end of World War II, has unemployment in September topped three million.

Steel Mills Step Up Activity Pace

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steel mills throughout the country hummed with activity today as the giant industry gradually stepped up operations following a court-ordered end of the 116-day nationwide steel strike.

More than 50 per cent of the basic steel industry's 500,000 workers are back on the job. The rest are expected to be back at work by the weekend.

Mills are turning out fairly large tonnages of new steel. Only five days after the U.S. Supreme Court upheld a Taft-Hartley injunction ending the strike, the big U.S. Steel Corp. reported mills producing above 25 per cent of capacity. The firm said it may hit 60 per cent of capacity by the weekend.

Jones & Laughlin Steel said it expects to produce at 40 per cent this week.

Although the long-idled mills swung into production relatively fast, industry sources say it will be four to six weeks before the mills can produce at the normal rate of about 90 per cent.

Still hard-hit by the effects of the strike are the approximately 335,000 workers who were idled in other fields because their jobs depend on a going steel industry.

About 20,000 of these—mostly railroaders and coal miners—have been called back to work. But for thousands of others, particularly those employed in industries that use steel, there will be a longer period of idleness until fresh steel supplies become available.

General Motors Corp. announced it would close the 11 of its passenger car assembly lines today, idling 7,100 more workers. Chrysler Corp. said it has enough steel for only two more weeks.

Iron ore, one of steel's raw materials, is being moved by iron ore fleets from the upper Great Lakes to the mills. The ships normally stop operating in mid-December when the lakes freeze, but the Army Corps of Engineers announced the usual Dec. 15 closing of the Soo Locks between Lakes Superior and Huron will be postponed indefinitely so the badly needed ore can continue to move to mills.

Although steelworkers went back to work when called, Wheeling Steel employees showed their resentment. Hundreds at Wheeling's Yorkville, Ohio, plant wore arm bands that said "USW of A. Ike's Slaves." At the Beech Bottom, W. Va., plant some men carried a sign that stated: "We shall return as slaves of Ike."

In Los Angeles, United Steelworkers officials charged that U.S. Steel violated the intent of the court's order by laying off 20 per cent of the workers at the Maywood plant.

The issues that started the strike remain unsettled.

No negotiations are scheduled between the unions and top industry firms, and the Federal Mediation Service says it plans to be about two weeks. President David J. McDonald of the Steelworkers said the union is negotiating with about 10 or 15 smaller steel firms.

The union seeks a wage increase and fringe benefits. Industry has rejected a wage hike as inflationary unless it is given the right to change work rules in plants to economize. The union, however, says it will not yield to the industry's work rule demands.

Spain, Tunisia Placed On Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today added Spain and Tunisia to his previous-ly announced nine-nation goodwill tour starting Dec. 4.

The White House said the President will meet with President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia aboard the U. S. cruiser Des Moines off Tunis Dec. 17. At that time he will be en route from Athens, Greece, to Toulon, France.

James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, also announced Eisenhower's acceptance of an invitation to visit Generalissimo Francisco Franco in Spain.

After the Western summit conference in Paris, Eisenhower will fly to Madrid the afternoon of Dec. 21. He will leave the next morning for Rabat, Morocco, en route to Washington.

Hagerty said at the present time no negotiations are going on for stops in any other country.

Commenting on a report from Bangkok that Eisenhower has accepted an invitation to visit Thailand on some indefinite date, Hagerty said he knows of no plans to visit Thailand although invitations to visit that country and others have long been on file.

Crop Forecasts Are Announced

WASHINGTON (AP)—Crop production forecasts issued by the Agriculture Department Tuesday, included these forecasts for the Carolinas.

The yield per acre and production, respectively: Corn: North Carolina 43 bushels per acre and production 86,731,000; South Carolina 28 and 26,152,000.

Peanuts (picked and threshed): North Carolina 1,775 pounds per acre and production 315,950,000. Soybeans for beans: North Carolina 21.5 bushels per acre, and production 10,256,000; South Carolina 16 and 6,256,000.

Tobacco: North Carolina 1,534 pounds per acre and production 722,065,000; South Carolina 1,725 and 141,450,000.

Apples (production only): North Carolina 1,400,000 bushels.

Pecans (production only): North Carolina 950,000; pounds; South Carolina 3,000,000.

Sweet potatoes: North Carolina 77 hundred weight per acre and production 2,387,000; South Carolina 48 and 576,000.

FAIR WARNING ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Residents of the Augusta area have been given fair warning not to hop across the river to buy their liquor in South Carolina where taxes are lower. Revenue Commissioner Dixon Oxford said the state may station revenue agents on a bridge linking Augusta, Ga., and North Augusta, S.C.

Swiss Are Told Of School Policy

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina told Swiss business leaders today his state's moderate approach to school integration has shown satisfactory results.

Addressing more than 130 bankers and industrialists at a luncheon, Hodges said school integration was a difficult problem in North Carolina's 100 counties because the Negro population varies from a fraction of one per cent in one county to 67 per cent in another.

"But we have worked diligently to bring about a reasonable solution," he said.

"So far, our approach of moderation has operated satisfactorily and several cities have voluntarily accepted Negro applicants to white schools although the majority of Negro children prefer attending their own public schools."

Europeans know little about the complexity of the problem and have followed racial difficulties in the U.S. South for several years with great interest and not without disappointment. Hodges apparently had this in mind when he closed his remarks with the assertion:

"Switzerland, landlocked in the heart of Europe, operates a merchant marine on the seven seas as tiny as it is efficient. But foreigners have dubbed it the Swiss navy and enjoyed needing Swiss with that term."

"I have heard about your Swiss Navy—we have two ports so your Navy can go in," he said.

The Swiss newsmen roared with laughter.

The governor said the touring North Carolinians are mainly interested in the machinery and metal working industry and the highly reputed precision instruments of this watchmakers' country.

DURHAM—Leonard P. Bloxam, superintendent of Greenville Utilities, was elected vice chairman of the North Carolina Section meeting of the American Water Works Association which closed here today.

Raymond E. Ebert, water supply superintendent from Winston-Salem, was elected chairman.

Other officers elected included: Thomas Z. Osborne, assistant director of Public Works, Greensboro, secretary-treasurer; and Charles E. Smallwood Jr., associate professor of Sanitary Engineering, State College, trustee.

Bloxam, A. B. Goodson and J. L. Whitchard attended the meeting.

buted through Chamber members. It will also be given to newcomers and visitors to the city.

Board members approved an annual membership dinner to be held sometime after the beginning of the new fiscal year in February.

The awards would be presented for outstanding managerial ability and efficiency in farming during 1959. The awards would be presented for the 10 principal crops of the county.

Also recommended was the continuation of co-sponsoring of the Pitt Fat Stock Show and Sale during the coming year.

The chamber would sponsor again next year the Junior Purebred Swine Show judging contest and it would again offer cash prizes for the Negro 4-H Swine and Poultry Chain Projects.

The recommendations have to receive final approval from the new board which takes over Feb. 1. The Chamber board also approved a committee recommendation that a "Guide to Greenville" be published.

Included in the guide will be a directory of all Chamber members, information about civic organizations, historical data about the city, along with other information. The publication will be distributed through Chamber members.

"Racial problems, prejudice and discrimination . . . are not confined to the Southern region of the United States nor indeed to the United States—all these problems are world-wide and need attention and understanding of people everywhere."

Hodges described North Carolina's economic boom and said the state wants to keep the boom going by improving trade relations with Switzerland and other European countries.

And to that end, Hodges is leading a delegation of Tar Heel business leaders on a tour of Europe. The visit here is part of the tour.

Hodges caused some amusement in a press conference earlier today.

Switzerland, landlocked in the heart of Europe, operates a merchant marine on the seven seas as tiny as it is efficient. But foreigners have dubbed it the Swiss navy and enjoyed needing Swiss with that term.

"I have heard about your Swiss Navy—we have two ports so your Navy can go in," he said.

The Swiss newsmen roared with laughter.

New Jersey Detectives Flush Wanted Man Here

Four Hoboken, New Jersey detectives returned home early this morning after flushing a wanted fugitive from hiding here yesterday with the aid of local and state peace officers.

Capt. Patrick Ricciardi of the Hoboken Police Department said last night that a car belonging to John Bruchman, 49, wanted by the officers for investigation in connection with a shooting in a Hoboken tavern November 1, was found here at the home of relatives. According to the officer, Bruchman is alleged to have boarded a plane in Norfolk about 5 p.m. yesterday on a flight back to New Jersey to give himself up.

The officers said Michel Mazzoni, 26, of Hoboken was allegedly shot by Robert Hancock in company of Bruchman. All three were trucks drivers and had worked together.

Hancock was caught in Kingsburg, N. J. Monday.

Mazzoni, though not killed, is paralyzed for life, the officers said.

A large quantity of merchandise, believed stolen and transported across state lines, was also recovered in connection with the shooting.

Capt. Ricciardi, in expressing his thanks to local city and county state officers, told Police Chief S. G. Gibbs he has never had the cooperation "on every enforcement level" that the officers here in Greenville and Eastern North Carolina gave.

Miss Fordham Marries Here

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Boyd Williams

Miss Janie Fordham became the bride of Roger Boyd Williams Friday night in the First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Richard Gammon officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Fordham of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. and Mrs. Robert Boyd Williams of Kansas.

Nuptial music was presented by Mr. Frederick Salter, soloist, and Mr. Ralph Mills, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a ballerina length gown of white lace over taffeta, trimmed in satin at the bodice and around the skirt. Her veil was attached to a crown of white flowers and she wore white lace gloves. She carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Ushers were William L. Lloyd and Frankie Hardee, both of Greenville.

The bride's mother chose for her ensemble a blue suit with black accessories. She wore a white carnation corsage.

After the ceremony, the couple received in the vestibule of the church.

For a honeymoon trip to Kansas, the bride chose a flowered sheath dress with black accessories.

Mrs. Williams is a graduate of Junius H. Rose High School in Greenville, and has been attending East Carolina College.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Othal High School, Kansas, is now serving with the United States Navy.

The couple will reside on Second Street in Greenville.

His Quick TV Fortune Didn't Come From Quiz

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Here's a TV figure who has made a quick fortune—but not from a phony quiz show.

His name is Peter Gilman, and he made the mint with his trusty typewriter. He wrote a hefty novel about Hawaii, "Such Sweet Thunder," that has been swept up for $100,000 by Columbia Pictures.

Pete has been laboring in comparative anonymity as publicist for the film subsidiary of NBC, touting such series as "Not For Hire" and "The Lawless Years." That job ends Friday.

Variety reported that he is quitting because of "an embarrassment of riches." That's nonsense. What writer—or anybody else—was ever chagrined by too much money? The fact is Pete is leaving to write another novel in Europe, and is being paid a tidy sum for his trouble by the publisher.

"It's all pretty amazing," says Gilman, a well-spoken, firmly built man of 31 years.

Sgt. York Sees Nothing Special

PALL MALL, Tenn. (AP)—Today is Veterans Day but it's nothing special to Sgt. Alvin York, the World War I hero who is ill, partly blind and not too prosperous.

However, the 71-year-old veteran, sitting erect on the edge of his bed, said his outlook could be worse.

Despite a stroke which left him paralyzed on one side and sightless in one eye, his health is improving to the point he dreams of fox hunting again.

He hasn't heard from the federal government lately on the $85,000 in taxes he allegedly owes on income from the movie "Sergeant York."

"We differ, the way all men do," he said in an interview. "They claim I owe 'em so much, I say I don't owe 'em a dime."

As for Veterans Day: "Armistice Day is just another day. Every war is to end wars—and we've still got 'em going on or coming up."

At dawn on an October day in 1918, York killed 25 Germans and almost singlehandedly captured 132 prisoners. For that he received the Medal of Honor.

Fewer Employees Are Paid More

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government's executive branch has 3 per cent fewer civilian employees than it had five years ago, but pays them 30 per cent more.

This was reported today by the Senate House Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures. It said the bulge in payroll costs is explained by pay raises voted by Congress, and raises granted administratively from time to time by federal agencies to match local prevailing wages.

The report said civilian agencies had an average of 1,266,566 workers on their payrolls in the fiscal year ended last June 30, and paid them $6,564,000,000.

The military agencies employed an average of 1,085,876 civilians in 1953-54, and paid them $5,768,000,000, the report continued. It said the employe total was 13 per cent below the 1953-54 average, while the pay total was 26 per cent, or $1,179,000,000, higher.

Only Available Runway Blocked

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP)—The only available runway at Malmstrom Air Force Base here was blocked by a crash-landing T33 jet trainer when a flight of Air Force fighters was scattered by a blizzard early Tuesday.

Unable to find refuge in the blinding snow, three of the twin-jet F89 Scorpions plunged to earth, killing four airmen.

Other planes in the flight used their last reserves of fuel to find safe landings at fields and airstrips as far distant as 250 miles. A Malmstrom spokesman said he believed fewer than 20 craft were involved.

The spokesman declined to blame the T33 trainer for the crashes. The trainer sheared off its landing gear when it apparently landed short on an 11,000-foot runway where some construction work is in progress.

The Air Force here left unanswered many questions concerning the flight of Scorpions, all-weather interceptors capable of speeds up to 700 m.p.h.

It refused to say to what base or bases the planes were destined, or the nature of their flight.

Report Shift In Lunik's Orbit

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio today reported that the sun's gravitational attraction is shifting the orbit of Lunik II—in such a way that the Soviet moon rocket will burn up in the earth's atmosphere about next March.

The Lunik, which the Soviets say took the first photographs of the moon's far side, was fired on Oct. 4. It now completes one circuit of its orbit around the earth in 15 days.

Report 200 Killed In African Riots

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Official reports today said at least 200 Africans have been killed in fighting between tribes in the Ruanda trust territory.

Fighting between the Bahutu and Watusi tribes broke out last week. The Bahutus, once slaves of the Watusi, were taking revenge on their former masters.

EDITOR'S NOTE — Spreading

suburbs and an influx of new industry have created shortages of water in many parts of the United States. Here's the first of three articles on the national water problem.

By JOHN R. MORGANTHALER SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — From Texas across 1,200 miles of high plateau and desert to the Pacific, one common question haunts thoughtful leaders in growing Southwestern communities: Where can we get more water? "This fall there is no shortage. But it's coming. Right now most people don't seem concerned. Two and a half years of good rains have built New Mexico's ground water supply nearly back to its level before the searing drought of 1950-56. If the rains of recent years continue, Texans don't fear a water shortage in the immediate future. Arizona has had enough water since 1957. But all across the arid Southwest and West, where average annual rainfall is under 20 inches and in some regions under 10, town planners are worried about water and the politicians and special interests are fighting over it. The reason: the population boom.

Kitchen taps are multiplying at a fantastic rate. Housing tracks are pushing farmers out into the desert. New industries are using millions of gallons of water. In a few years, unless more water is forthcoming, the boom must fizzle. California has 15 million people today. It expects 28 million by 1980. Texas uses three million acre-feet of water a year for its homes and industries. It expects an urban demand of eight million acre-feet 40 years from now. Texas farmers now use four times as much water as the cities. Will their demands nearly triple too? In New Mexico, Arizona and Nevada the problem is less pressing, because those states are not yet swarming with people. But water is the key to their growth, and their turn will come. In California, the water issue has dominated state politics for years. Last spring a bare majority of the Legislature finally agreed on a water plan, and put it up to the people. November 1960 is the time of decision. The people will vote on the plan to issue 1 1/2 billion dollars in state bonds to finance the Feather River project, first unit of the California water plan. A year before election, the outcome is not at all certain. There is strong opposition, and a threatened fight over the proposal's omission of guarantees against "unjust enrichment" of corporation farms and private utilities. But Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown and his followers, who fought the program through the Legislature, are girding for an all-out promotion campaign. Brown says time is running out. It will take years to complete the Feather River project's dams, pumping plants and 600 miles of aqueducts running from water-rich Northern California to the south. Los Angeles is expected to be using all water presently available from its Colorado River and apathy toward water development in wet years. They warn that future droughts are possible, and that the state isn't equipped to counter them. Some people hope for a scientific solution to the West's biggest problem. They see it in sea water conversion, possibly by atomic energy. The federal government recently announced plans to build an experimental plant at Point Loma near San Diego. California will contribute $1,600,000 toward its operation. director of water resources, warns that sea water conversion is still a dream. "We must recognize the fact," he says, "that science has yet to discover a method of desalinating sea water in sufficient quantities and at a price to even begin meeting the pressing needs for water in California."

Officials complain of public

Logical Item For Congress In '60

Whether you're talking of the still unresolved steel dispute or the rumblings of a threatened railroad strike, the fact remains that each individual American is directly concerned over his own stake in the matter.

It's no longer an alignment of individual steel magnates versus the downtrodden working man; it isn't a case of tycoon versus union. Three days it's a matter of national welfare . . . impinging on the lives of each private citizen . . . that comes to the fore.

When David J. McDonald, president of the steelworkers' union, called his workers out on strike he was not fighting the conditions set by an individual firm but of an entire industry. That industry, in turn, is actually owned by many thousands of stockholders. Likewise, that industry (railroads, coal mines, the automobile manufacturers, the petroleum industry) serves the entire nation. And when they are crippled the nation is crippled. In essence, therefore, there are areas in which an industry-wide strike is damaging to America as a whole.

And for what? Well, despite the fact American working people are the highest paid in the world, there is a seeming necessity among union leadership to press constantly for more, more, more and more.

Busiest Year Of Court Activity

By LYNN NISBET

COURTS—The General Assembly did not abandon its efforts at remodeling the court system of North Carolina until about two weeks before end of the fiscal year. But for more than a year, including nearly five months in the legislative committees, the condition of the courts was fully debated.

Although advocates of court reform failed to accomplish their legislative objective, apparently the public discussion of the problem occasioned substantial improvement. Superior court judges worked more days and disposed of more cases during the period from July 1, 1958, through June 30, 1959, than in any previous year. Clean-up activities among Justices of the Peace, especially in Columbus and Wake counties, was made easier by the public display of the general inefficiency of these courts.

In connection with his annual report Bert M. Montague, administrative assistant to the Chief Justice, notes that the past year was the busiest in history, that each superior court judge spent an average of ten days more on the bench and disposed of 97 more cases. The number of pending cases was reduced 10 per cent, leaving the smallest caseload in years. The criminal dockets are current throughout the state. Despite an increase of nearly 7 per cent in new cases filed, the pending caseload was reduced 16 per cent. The civil dockets show improvement, but continue to present a challenge. The civil caseload was reduced only 8 per cent. However, there were 47 counties in which more civil cases were pending at end of the year than were disposed of during the year. In a majority of these counties the available courts were not used to full extent.

FAULT—Montague's report indicates that a large part of the blame for overcrowded court dockets cannot be attributed to the system. It is due to failure of judges and lawyers to make full use of facilities at hand. "It is apparent," he says, "that the serious congestion in the civil dockets reported from many jurisdictions does not exist in the superior courts of North Carolina; and that delay in the trial of cases which does exist here does not generally appear to result from the lack of opportunity for trial."

Breakdown of data by districts and counties shows wide difference in utilization of available courts, and in attitude of court officers and lawyers to the clean-up problem. The counties with the largest accumulations of civil cases are not necessarily the ones which create the greatest problems. The big counties are in better shape, percentage wise, than many of the small units. Wake county (10th district), for example, disposed of 1307 cases and had 448 pending at end of the year. New Hanover disposed of 766 and had 404 left untried.

On the other end of the line, the fourth district (embracing Duplin, Jones, Onslow and Sampson counties), disposed of 537 cases and had 1053 hanging over at year's end. Bad as that looks, it was 26 cases less than were on hand at the start. This district utilized less than two-thirds of the court days which had been allotted.

Inescapable conclusion from analysis of the Montague report is that while numerically there are fewer cases filed and tried in the small counties, a high percentage of the much publicized "congestion" in civil dockets occurs in small rural counties, mostly in the east. The pattern of criminal cases populated widespread solicitor districts and in two or three big cities.

ORGANIZATION—Regardless of how the blame for court "failure" is rationed between a faulty system and failure of the officers to use available courts, there can be no doubt that the archaic system of courts needs revision. Montague prefaces his report with a listing of 1400 or more separate courts in North Carolina, many with concurrent or overlapping jurisdiction.

There is the Supreme Court, or appellate division, with a chief justice and six associate justices. There are 100 Superior Courts (one in every county) presided over by 32 regular judges, four special judges and four emergency judges, plus a clerk in every county with some judicial powers. There are general county courts in five counties, with varying jurisdiction and criminal jurisdiction for all offenses below the grade of felony. There are six county-wide domestic relations courts, with varying jurisdiction. And each of the 100 counties has a juvenile court, over which the clerk of Superior court presides where there is not a domestic relations judge.

There are 60 county recorders' courts, 57 municipal and township recorders' courts, and nine county criminal courts with varying jurisdiction—basically up to $500-$1,000 civil and up to felony criminal cases. Somewhere between 900 and 1,000 justice of peace courts actively operate, with criminal jurisdiction over minor misdemeanors and civil actions involving not more than $200 on contract, $50 on open tort actions. Add to all this list 145 mayor courts and eight special police courts with criminal jurisdiction comparable to J.P.'s. As a finale, Montague whimsically comments that "there are four or five other varieties of local courts which are not shown because of their small number"—but some of them have civil jurisdiction up to $5,000 and the right to grant divorces.

As a natural result, costs and prices keep rising. It has reached such a point that one can name a great number of products Americans today can buy from foreign lands at a lower cost than is possible if American-made.

There's a limit as to how far the country can allow the trend of pricing ourselves out of markets at home and abroad to continue. The constantly rising costs of production are manmade; there's no getting away from it. The question remains what to do?

We can't turn the clock back, but Congress has its work cut out for it in 1960.

Some kind of deterrent to industry-wide strikes has long appeared to us as one logical and necessary step in labor legislation. Certainly the public is entitled to a measure of protection from monopolistic practices; certainly the country at large is entitled to protection from elements of economic self-destruction now in the air.

Labor unions do not gain by insisting on conditions that reduce individual productivity or otherwise increase costs. Everybody loses.

Morally Obligated To Meet New Minimum

Although the state was not specifically covered by the minimum wage law passed by the 1959 General Assembly, it is clear that the state is morally obligated to abide by the minimum wage if it is to force other employers covered by the statute to do so.

Apparently only a small minority of state employees are now receiving less than the 75 cents per hour that will become the legal floor for wages of most people employed in North Carolina. This group of workers, although it may be small in number, need the extra few cents per hour the minimum wage may mean to them. And after all, the big reason for legislators voting for the minimum wage was in order to afford more income for those at the bottom of the economic ladder in the state.

If the state is unwilling to pay the legal minimum wage even to a few of its employees, how can it justify the demand that individual employers of the state pay at least the minimum wage to all their employees?

Certainly there should be a careful review of the state's pay scale for its lowest paid employees between now and January 1 when the new minimum law becomes effective. If the state is paying some of its employees below the new minimum wage, the situation should be rectified. It would indeed be a poor show of good faith if the state were unwilling to do for even a small percentage of its employees what it will require other employers operating in North Carolina to do for their employees.

Foreign Policy Changes Noted

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles died 170 days ago. In less than six months American foreign policy has undergone a kind of convulsion.

Dulles was rigid. Eisenhower foreign policy he made President Eisenhower look like a secondary figure in this branch of government. Now Eisenhower dominates it and Dulles' successor, Christian A. Herter, looks secondary.

Dulles and rigid. Eisenhower seems more receptive to give and take. Dulles was almost Jovian in his thunderous threats. Eisenhower talks softer.

Stiff-arm communism by ringing with bases. That was the basic policy laid down by President Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson. It was followed out the window by Dulles. It still is basic American policy.

But there has been a change in the way this policy is handled. Eisenhower appears more willing to consider the notion that perhaps containment is not the only course in dealing with the Soviet Union.

But this change itself is the product of two profound changes:

1. The Truman-Acheson policy was created to stop the mad-dog tactics of Stalin who pushed and probed for weaknesses. For example, The Korean War. The Soviet Union under Premier Nikita Khrushchev has become infinitely more dangerous, potentially, than under Stalin but now it is far less reckless and militarily aggressive.
2. Truman and Acheson and even Dulles for a brief period could rely on the containment program — bombers with atomic weapons — in the period while the U.S.S.R. was still trying to develop that means of destruction.

Containment became less a sure bet as the Soviet Union produced not only the same weapons as America but pushed ahead with missiles to a degree which startled the world.

So as the time Dulles died the Communist world around which he sought to keep a fence of bombers had changed in both its tactics and its strength.

Dulles was the most active of all secretaries. In time historians — like some of Dulles' contemporaries — may wonder whether his amazing activity was not sometimes a substitute for thinking.

What was true in Dulles' time is still true now: there is a lack of initiative in foreign policy and dealing with the Soviets. The Dulles-Eisenhower actions have been pretty much reactions to Soviet actions.

A whole series of recent and upcoming events — Khrushchev's visit here, Eisenhower's promised trip to Moscow, the summit conference next year — all had their origin in Soviet, not American initiative.

Khrushchev last November demanded the Allies get their troops out of West Berlin. The Allies were forced to face an unpleasant fact they hadn't been compelled to look at until the Soviets got truly strong.

They were in a bad spot if they had to defend Berlin, 10 miles inside Communist East Germany. Even Eisenhower admitted at a news conference it would be practically impossible to match the Soviets with ground troops.

Therefore, unless some peaceful settlement could be found, any show of Soviet force to push the Allies out would have to be endured or else met by aerial retaliation. That might mean another war.

No wonder the Allies were willing to make concessions on Berlin. A desire to reach some peaceful understanding with Khrushchev, who instigated the rumpus, was one of the reasons for inviting him here. Everything which followed stemmed from that.

Strength For Today

UNDERSTANDING SPIRITUAL THINGS

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

Justin Martyr, a famous figure in Christian church history, who lived and worked about the middle of the first century, has left us this helpful and penetrating statement, "Without God, God cannot be known."

Can we not pick up the Bible and read about God and understand what the Bible teaches about Him? No. All the world's wisdom will not enable us to understand. In fact, we can be sure that no matter how broad our knowledge or how deep our understanding, we shall not be able to understand adequately anything we read in the Bible unless God gives us the gift of understanding. The Bible is not like other books. This is demonstrated in many ways, but in none more clearly than in the complete unwillingness of the Bible to yield the secret of its message to anyone who fails to meet its spiritual requirements.

But this is neither a hard doctrine nor a hopeless one. Any man who desires to understand the Bible can do so, provided he meets the requirements for understanding spiritual truth. Regarding it when we understand it. But in the field of the spiritual, we never understand a truth until we accept it. It doesn't seem to make sense, but it does.

Not Just Being Stubborn

By HENRY HOWARD

What Is A Teacher?

(The following is an excerpt from a teacher description written for a national magazine, the "Spotlight," by a mother recently. It came to the attention of this desk yesterday afternoon and seemed a timely inclusion in the current American Education Week program.)

"What is a teacher?" "A teacher is a godmother in a navy blue crepe dress, wearing glasses and with a red-lead pencil in her hair. She is the guardian angel of the six-year-old during his tears as he leaves his mother for the first time, just as she dries the tears of the teenager whose mother doesn't understand her.

"She is a banker to the grade-school child who just his lunch money on the playground before school, but wisely denies a request for a loan from the sophomore all set to see a movie after school without his parent's blessing.

"She is a great statesman, a diplomat, as she listens tactfully to the parent reluctant to accept any 'credit' for his delinquent child and wonders who got HIS child into trouble!

"A teacher is a great athlete as she referees the games and sometimes plays right field or catches flies. She is a disciplinarian fully expected to make polite ladies and gentlemen of the little cherubs entrusted to her care, knowing all the while that their parents just 'hadn't the heart' to give them the pat on the back—low down—which they so badly needed.

"A teacher is a quasi-dictator who weighs and measures children, takes temperatures, gives aspirin, bandages cuts, even sometimes washes faces and ties shoes for little boys and hair-ribbons for the little girls. She ministers to the physical hurts of the little child and puts salve on the emotional wounds of the grown-ups — the high schoolers — and on top of all this, a teacher teaches!"

During this week, dubbed A E W (American Education Week), parents would be spending time well to visit some of the local schools.

The usual invitations have been extended by all the schools to attend "open house," or some special program.

Perhaps, many persons are aware of, and greatly appreciate the wholesome welcome.

"I would be nice if more parents would take a greater interest in what the youngsters are doing. A visit during the current opportunity would consume a small portion of "valuable time," and would very likely be a greater joy and inspiration than many might think.

(Washington Daily News)

is college work becoming so difficult that many boys and girls cannot hope to gain a higher education?

That question is worrying a great many people these days. And it is only right that it should worry them. Particularly here in North Carolina we ought to be worried.

The sad aspect of the story is that far too few high schools in our state are preparing our boys and girls for the rigorous college curricula that they must tackle in later years after high school graduation.

There is no more pitiful person in the world than an "educated fool." A boy or a girl might make all "A's" in college and still be a moron when it comes to practical common sense. But it seems that our colleges, while making an effort to induce well rounded students to enroll, are actually in many cases contributing to this so-called "educated fool" society.

In no way do we say here that because a boy or a girl might be an "A" student is he or she necessarily an "educated fool." That is certainly not the case, we do say that far too many average students are finding the college curricula too difficult to pass their work requirements.

The real trouble is this. There just aren't enough colleges to take care of all the students wishing to enroll. As a result, colleges seem to be hepped on the subject of "standards." Raise standards, they say, and we'll eliminate the weak brothers and sisters. And that is exactly what is happening.

There used to be a time when colleges had public relations directors who went around to the high schools in an effort to encourage seniors to think about enrolling in this or that college. That day has long since passed. And it seems almost as if a fad had hit us. Instead of telling seniors about the glories of "dear old Siwash college," the personnel of so many colleges are saying "don't come here unless you have made up your mind that you can pass, or "your high school grades are too low for entrance here."

It is almost a sad commentary on everyday living. There are far more average students in America today than there are students who belong to the genius type. Yet the appeal is being made to the genius and the average student is being passed too often and with tragic results at times.

High schools in North Carolina certainly know that college curricula are most difficult for the students. Yet, high schools throughout our state continue to pay too little stress to English as a subject. Few high school students graduating today can write a theme with the correct punctuation, correct spelling, and correct sentence structure which would merit a passing grade in college.

It is a sad awakening our boys and girls are having when they reach college. It is sad because so many become quickly disillusioned and even reach defeatist personalities.

Privately endowed colleges and universities are catering more to the smart students than are the state-owned institutions. But even in state operated colleges and universities the trend is toward catering to the smart ones and eliminating the weaker students.

If the present trend continues, there is a good possibility that within the space of a few years, it will be impossible for the average student to find a college where he can attend. It is our contention that the average students deserve greater consideration today than they are getting.

An educated society made up only of those above the master educational opportunities at the highest level will ultimately create a society composed of two classes—the educated intelligences, and the uneducated masses. There will be no middle class, and America will have moved far away from the concept that "education belongs to every boy and girl." This is a serious matter in our country and state today. And it deserves the best thinking we can give it.

Time Of The Blues

By HAL ROYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Sidewalk scrawls of a Pavement Plato: America's most common ailment today isn't the common cold. It's "the blues"—the 20th century blues.

There are certain periods of history more given to melancholy than others, and this is one of them.

How often do you hear people complain, "I've got the blues," or "I'm down in the dumps"? The only ones who don't are hermits. Hermits often are the happiest people in civilization because they are out of it. They escape its spiritual malaise.

Why should this generation be particularly cursed with that periodical darkness of the spirit, that aching mental void, that heart-tearing emptiness of the soul we know colloquially as "the blues?"

Is it merely the reflective shadow of the threat of atomic annihilation that hangs over us all?

This could be the answer except for one fact—man is usually least melancholy when his days are most perilous. Ironically, he is less given to sadness when he is in danger than when he is at his ease.

Man has never been more comfortable, more free of privation, than is the present generation of Americans. We aren't worn out with work. We're worn out from the pursuit of pleasure and trying too hard to enjoy ourselves.

Chasing joy is in many ways our leading industry. As a child, when it has played too hard, suddenly breaks out in tears, so are grownups overcome by the melancholy that comes from seeking too ardently the false rainbow of cheap delights and self-indulgence.

Wise old Samuel Johnson gave one prescription nearly 200 years ago: "Employment, air, and hardships, prevent melancholy." Of course, melancholy isn't altogether an unhealthy thing. An old English proverb says, "He is a fool that is not melancholy once a day." Victor Hugo observed: "Melancholy is the pleasure of being sad."

Melancholy also separates the men from the women.

If there is hell upon earth it is to be found in a melancholy man's heart," wrote Robert Burton.

You will note he said nothing about a woman's heart. A woman is too intelligent to be long overcome by melancholy. She is a few tears, takes a nap, trips to the nearest store, buys herself a new hat or girdle, and comes home feeling fine again.

Women have a wonderful ability to lift their own spirits in small ways, and to change themselves from Catherines to Cinderellas in three hours.

Men don't. They lack this internal lever of the spirit to pry their soul from black despair. They mope longer because, unlike women, they don't have the common sense to do something about it immediately. They sit in a pool of melancholy and refuse to move.

High Prices Lure Outside Meat

By ELMER ROESSNER

The high price of meat in the United States is tempting Australia and New Zealand producers. The attraction is so great that New Zealand is considering sending meat to America by air. A bill now before the New Zealand Parliament would empower the Meat Producers' Board to control negotiations for the export of meat by air. It already controls export by sea.

The plan is not as reckless as it sounds.

Air transport operators have calculated that Canadair C-144 turboprops could carry 32-ton cargoes from Auckland to Los Angeles for 3.69 cents per ton mile, if they could get return loads equal to at least 60 per cent of the plane's capacity.

That, of course, would be difficult. New Zealand imports only a limited amount of American goods and most of the total moves by sea. However, a rise in meat sales in the United States would give the country more dollars for purchases here.

12 CENTS A POUND

If return cargoes could be found, the cost of air shipment would be about 12 cents a pound, or three times the sea rate.

This would still allow Down Under producers to compete handsomely in American markets. New Zealand lamb is not very popular at present, because most of it is frozen and American buyers do not find it acceptable. Some lamb has been sent over chilled, but a boat trip takes about 20 days and that's about the maximum time chilled lamb is attractive.

BEEF FROM AUSTRALIA

Meanwhile, Australia's export of beef—which ships much better than lamb—is increasing. Shipments by sea to the United States and Canada during October and November will total 12,801,000 pounds. The Northumberland was scheduled to have left last week with 4,300,000 pounds. It will arrive in time for the annual holiday rise in meat consumption.

Not all of the Australian beef is of top quality. Some has been "cutter" quality, suitable only for sausages and canning or cheaper grades of chopped meat. Some is reported to have been buffalo, but the Australian buffalo is related to the water buffalo and not the American bison.

And speaking of Australia, researchers there are developing a sheep with a lustrous, yellow fleece. The "golden fleece" sheep, as they are called, are mutants of pure-bred Merinos.

The lambs' fleece is bright yellow and very straight. The mature fleece is also very light. The fibers are quite light, about half the weight of ordinary wool fibers. The wool felts rapidly and may be useful in felt hats.

Experiments in breeding the mutants and developing uses for the fleece are being conducted at laboratories at Prospect, Australia.

Previously, yellow-colored sheep were regarded as freaks and culled out as lambs—that is, used for meat.

MILLION ALUMINUM TREES MADE FOR CHRISTMAS

This will be an aluminum tree year, the aluminum industry hopes.

Aluminum Christmas trees have appeared on the market in limited quantities in the past few years. But this year they are in quantity production and more than 1,000,000 will be made. They are fireproof, reusable, and the bright aluminum creates brilliant effects when lighted.

DeGaulle Dictates Summit 'Terms'

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — More than any other single leader, President Charles de Gaulle of France is dictating the terms and timing for an East-West summit conference.

In the process he is building up his own prestige and the power of the French position within the Western Alliance.

In the 10 months since he has been president—he had become premier in June 1958—De Gaulle probably has done more than anyone here really thought possible to give his country a decisive voice in the formulation of Western plans and policies. He has done it by exploiting French weaknesses as well as strengths.

United States officials are less annoyed than amazed at his operation. They have displayed privately some slight irritation at his disregard of President Eisenhower's wishes on summit timing. But many feel that De Gaulle's views are very close to those which the United States has traditionally held about getting to a summit: walk, don't run.

Latest evidence of Gaullist diplomacy is to be found in his news conference at Paris Tuesday and the comparison of plans he laid out there with the known wishes of other summit participants.

De Gaulle announced that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will visit Paris March 15 and De Gaulle hopes he will stay about two weeks. He also said he wants another Western summit gathering in advance of the East-West meeting.

Almost simultaneously, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, advocate of the hasty summit technique, was explaining to the House of Commons in London that he wanted the East-West meeting at an early date. But no one in Washington thought he had any chance of getting it.

Macmillan, Khrushchev and Eisenhower all more or less favored an East-West summit before Christmas. De Gaulle killed that by insisting that the meeting not be held until next spring.

One of Eisenhower's basic conditions for East-West talks is that the Western Allies be satisfied, so he went along with De Gaulle's technique. Macmillan had no choice unless he was willing to split the Western front.

De Gaulle laid down three conditions for going to a summit. He said that first he must have his meeting with Khrushchev; second, there must be a relaxation of international tension; and third, the Western leaders must understand each other in advance of their negotiations with Khrushchev.

U.S. officials do not question De Gaulle's sincerity in making these requirements. But they do think his stated reasons only partially reflect the real pressures operating on him to slow down the summit process. They analyze these as follows:

1. De Gaulle is determined to meet Khrushchev before sitting down in a four-power conference with him because Macmillan and Eisenhower have had private talks with the Soviet leader.

2. The French president wants to explode the French nuclear weapon before the negotiations open. Otherwise, he will be at a great disadvantage in talking about disarmament.

3. De Gaulle hopes to have brought about a much more stable political situation in Algeria. Particularly, he is said to feel that Soviet good behavior with respect to Algeria is a necessary pre-condition for a summit meeting.

Generally, these considerations do not reflect French positions of strength but rather of weakness. Yet, De Gaulle has used them with a determination and skill that so far have won him more respect than annoyance in official Washington.

In fact, in the highest quarters here the word is that Eisenhower is pleased to have a show of strength and firmness in the Paris government rather than the vacillation and lack of leadership which formerly constituted a serious weakness in the Western Alliance.

Dr. Jenkins Heads Ass'n Of North Carolina Deans

Vice President and Dean of Instruction Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina College has assumed his duties as president of the North Carolina Association of Academic Deans. Elected to the position at a meeting of the organization at Duke University, Friday, November 4, he succeeds Dean John Shirley of State College, Raleigh.

The association is composed of the academic dean of each institution in the North Carolina College Conference and the deans or directors of separate schools or divisions within member institutions of the Conference.

The purpose of the organization is to provide opportunity for academic deans of colleges in North Carolina to explore their common problems and to consider possible means of solving them.

Serving with Dr. Jenkins as new officers of the association are Dean Ralph M. Lee of Mars Hill College, vice president, and Dean Ivy M. Hixson of Salem College, secretary.

Dr. Jenkins has been dean of instruction at East Carolina College for the past twelve years. He has served during this period in a number of key positions in education in this state. His services include work as a member of the Executive Committee of the North Carolina College Conference, of the Governor's Committee on Better Schools, and of the Co-operative Study of Teacher Education Curriculum, State Board of Higher Education; and as state chairman of education for the N. C. Parent-Teacher Association and of the Division of Higher Education of the N. C. Education Association.

Sorely Tempted To Give Him One

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — A visitor told Donna Torgeson, a parking meter maid, here Tuesday, "I don't know what you are giving away, but if it's free I'll take one."

Mrs. Torgeson said she was tempted to give the man one of the overtime parking tickets she dispenses, but didn't.

Only Six Crabs As Season Opens

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California crab season opened Tuesday but the only one who got any was President Eisenhower.

Six fresh crabs—the only ones caught—were flown to the White House. The crab fleet stayed at the docks in a half-cent-a-pound dispute with dealers over transportation costs.

"MI AMIGO"

By W. R. BURNETT. The novel published by A. S. Knopf, Inc. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 13
One morning, an uproar woke Sergeant Desportes out of a sound sleep. Swearing to himself, he jumped out of bed, flung open the door, and then started back as what seemed like a huge bear leaped on him, grabbed him in a bonecrushing hug, then banged him about the room, roaring.

Natty Bugworth!
"Pretty soft," roared Natty. "Asleep in bed like a tenderfoot at six-thirty of a fine desert morning. Wake up, conarn you!"

"I made it, without a cent to my name and only one mule left. You a-going to grubstake me for Lava Rock, Soldier?"
"No, damn it, you ain't," cried Natty.

The Sergeant took Natty down to Almon's big Mexican cafe for breakfast. Natty looked about him in awe at all the new buildings in Mesa Encantada, and when at last they were seated at a window-table eating, he said: "Damn, this is good food. You do yourself pretty well."

"And then, as he ate, he began to tell the Sergeant all about his protracted carouse in Agua Prieta, sparing him none of the intimate details."
"Finally, in order to get Natty off the subject of Salzedo's, the Sergeant asked him about his trip across Big Sheep Range."

"Oh, nothing to it," said Natty. "There've been some big rains and the deer are all back. I killed me a buck, butchered him and cooked me a pile of meat. On account of my financial condition, that is. But from now on I figure to eat on my own."

Natty leaned back in his chair, stretched comfortably, and then laughed. "Great having friends, eh, Soldier? I'd do the like for you any day. Any day!"
"I know, Natty," said the Sergeant. "We'll see what we can do."

"Speaking of Gig Sheep Range," said Natty. "How did you come out? I kind of got the jim-jams over that almost went along. With that drought and all, they tell me the cougars were real bad."
So the Sergeant told Natty all about his trip across the Range and about how the cougar had tried to attack his horse, Mickey; and then how the next morning he'd rescued Bud Smith from the canyon and a good deal about the circumstances of Bud's predicament.

As the Sergeant went on at some length an odd look came into Natty's eyes and then he puckered his brows and began to scratch his beard reflectively as if trying to remember something.

"He's some boy," the Sergeant said, with a complacency that somehow grated on Natty; and then the Sergeant told Natty all about the expedition to the border and how Bud had outfoxed and killed the bandits who had set a deadly ambush for them.

"H'm," said Natty, feeling a stab of jealousy—because in the old days Soldier was always telling tall tales about him, and not about some beardless boy! "Sure you ain't a-making this all up? Why, damn, sounds like one of them Wild West dime novels!"

And at this point, all of a sudden, Natty recalled what he'd been trying to remember and it gave him a pleasurable shock and when a slim young boy in a blue print shirt, clear blue denim, and a big sand-colored plaid came up to the table with a platter of boot heels, grinned, and said: "Hi."

"Hi, Bud," said the Sergeant, smiling. "Shake hands with my old friend Natty Bugworth. Been telling him about you."
"Just some coffee over at the mess shed. I was looking for you."

Bud pulled up a chair and sat down; then a waitress came and he ordered, paying no attention to the girl who stood close to him with a hand on his shoulder, and bent over him deferentially but familiarly.

"When she'd gone, Natty said, 'Reckon you know that pretty Mex. kid, boy?' He dug Bud in the ribs, and Natty returned the prospector's bear-like grab with a whipcord grip of his own, causing Natty to glance at him speculatively. But the blue eyes showed nothing but a rather naive friendliness.

"Sit down," said the Sergeant. "Had your breakfast?"
"Just some coffee over at the mess shed. I was looking for you."

"Just some coffee over at the mess shed. I was looking for you."

But there were times when Soldier's mask slipped a little and Natty could see that he was bored and irritated with his old friend of twenty years. All Soldier seemed to think about was that blasted boy.

Little by little Natty hardened his heart. First, he'd ask for his promised grubstake; then, when he'd got it, he'd tell Soldier what he suspected about this "Wonderful boy."

"Friendship is friendship," Natty thought, justifying himself. "But when an old friend turns against you, he's asking for raw treatment, damn it!"

So one morning when the Sergeant opened his door, yawning and stretching, having been awakened by the camp bugle sounding reveille, much to his surprise he saw Natty squatting on his heels outside like an Apache, sleepily smoking a cigarette.

"Come on in!" said the Sergeant.
"Well, we're going to miss you," Natty looked at him sardonically, then lowered his eyes. Miss him hell!

"Wait till I dress," said the Sergeant, "and we'll go up to Almon's for breakfast and then we can settle this grubstake business."
Natty felt heartened. After all, Soldier was still a real friend; hadn't made him ask about the grubstake; had brought it up himself as if it was all agreed on and no argument about it one way or the other.

"I'll make you rich yet, damn your eyes, Soldier," said Natty, with a return to his old manner.

Desportes is impelled to confront Bud, and how can the Sergeant be convinced that a lie is the truth? Continue the story tomorrow.

Minor Fires In City Reported
Firemen were called to 309 West 12th St. yesterday about 1:05 p.m. when Box 221 at the intersection of 12th and Clark Sts. was turned in.

Upon arrival, firefighters found a mattress in a vacant store ablaze. No damage was reported by fire officers and the cause of the fire was undetermined.

A hot heater sent firement to the Street Department Maintenance Shop on New Street about 3:05 p.m. today. No damage resulted, firemen said.

At 5:05 a.m. today a truck was sent to 321 Boyd Ave. to extinguish a small fire that had kindled in a mattress which was removed from the house Monday when the house was heavily damaged by fire a short time before. No further damage was reported.

Pamlico Topic Of Monday Talk
Dr. R. E. Cramer, faculty member of the department of geography at East Carolina College, discussed agricultural development on the Pamlico Peninsula at a meeting of the Albemarle Schoolmasters Club in Hertford Monday night.

More than a hundred principals, superintendents, and teachers from twelve administrative units in the northeastern section of the state were present. J. T. Biggers, Superintendent of Perquimans County schools, introduced Dr. Cramer.

Consider Buying Desilu Control
BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — A theater company is investigating the possibility of buying control of Desilu Productions, Inc. The talks are only in "the most preliminary stage," said board chairman B. Gerald Cantor of National Theaters & Television, Inc., parent company of Fox West Coast Theaters.

Martin Leeds, Desilu executive vice president, said Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Desi Arnaz (Lucille Ball) have told him to listen to any proposals involving their 565,600 shares of stock. They own 49 per cent of Desilu.

They Visit Hitler's Beer Cellar

(Another in a series of articles written exclusively for members of N. C. Afternoon Daily)

By W. E. HORNER
MUNICH, Nov. 7 — Today and tomorrow are week-end respites for the 67 North Carolinians on the trade tour to Europe, Hector McLean having reduced the number by one when called back home on account of the death of his mother.

Quite a number of the Tar Heels made a trip to Englischer Garten this morning to see the operations of Radio Free Europe, this being its focal operational point.

This afternoon, most toured the cathedrals, city hall and public squares of the city and in the end wound up, as if by some sort of magnet, in the Hofbrau Hof, run by the Bavarian state, and containing the beer cellar where Hitler led meetings which resulted in the putsch against Bavarian authorities Nov. 8, 1923.

It was in the same cellar an attempt was made on Hitler's life in 1939 on the anniversary of the putsch, a bomb explosion occurring shortly after he left it. This city, nearly a million population, is steeped in history preceding World War II, during and after it. Nearly half its buildings including historical landmarks dating from the 14th century, were destroyed or badly damaged in air raids. Most of this damage has been repaired although here and there stand bombed out buildings and gaunt skeletal walls.

Carolnians who visited the Hofbrau after a city tour for a 16-ounce stein of beer got introduced to a German student drinking custom: namely, that of passing a huge stein around the table, with each person drinking his fill in turn, and with the next to the last fellow finishing the stein having to buy the next round for the table.

After one round of 16-ounce steins, a six quart stein was introduced into the festivities, this being supplanted later by a 12-quart ditto. Nobody wants to pay. It was great fun for each of the Tar Heels to see if he could down enough so the fellow after him couldn't finish off the contents.

At one time or other participating in this game were Roland Jobb, Louie Woodbury, Robert Higgins, Harvey Hines, P. K. Buchanan, Julian Murphy, Voit Gilmore, Alex Andrews, Frank Alspaugh, N. P. Hayes, Earl N. Phillips, Griswold Smith, C. M. Vanstony Jr., and yours truly. Among those who had to pick up tabs were Higgins and Andrews.

Call Themselves 'Ike's Slaves'

(Another in a series of articles written exclusively for members of N. C. Afternoon Daily)

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP) — Arm bands and a sign describing themselves as "Ike's Slaves" illustrate the resentment of some steelworkers in this area to a government injunction halting their strike.

The armbands and sign appeared Tuesday as workers returned to two Wheeling steel plants.

A company spokesman said the workers were free to work or quit as they wished.

Something Of A Medical Marvel

(Another in a series of articles written exclusively for members of N. C. Afternoon Daily)

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Paul Thomas Mullins, just 12 days old, is something of a medical wonder.

He has had four complete exchange blood transfusions. He probably is one of the youngest infants ever to have his heart stop beating and survive.

Paul's mother, Mrs. Thomas Mullins of Peck's Mill, has RH negative blood. Paul's blood is RH positive. One complete blood exchange is common in such cases.

Paul born five weeks premature and weighing 5½ pounds at birth, had four transfusions and was undergoing a fist when his heart stopped Oct. 31. His chest was opened, and his heart was massaged into functioning.

He is in an incubator at Charleston Memorial Hospital.

FIREWORKS SHOW—Jim Wommack, noted fireworks expert from Greensboro, will perform during halftime of the ECC-Newport News football game this Saturday night.

Grifton Gains Split With Maury

MAURY — The Grifton girls, considered prime contenders for the Pitt Conference title this winter, showed their form last night, coasting past Maury 76-21. The Maury boys led most of the way to edge past Grifton, 71-60, and gain an even split of the basketball doubleheader last night.

Coach Ed Bright was able to substitute freely in the one-sided girls contest. His lassies poured in 21 points during the first quarter and were out front 40-14 by halftime.

Veteran Jane Newborn led her club in scoring with a 25 point effort. John Smith was close behind with 16 points.

Maury was unable to solve the Grifton defense and never scored over seven points in any one quarter.

The triumph was the second of the young season for Grifton. They defeated Wheat Swamp in their first game of the season last Tuesday night.

Oak City Downs Stokes-Pactolus

OAK CITY — Big Larry Worsley, 6-5 Oak City junior, was held to a "low" 22 points last night but his teammates took up the scoring slack and Oak City swamped Stokes-Pactolus 65-38 last night. The Pitt County girls won the preliminary game, 54-45.

Coach Zeke Coggins put full concentration on stopping the big Oak City center, considered a top college prospect, but didn't expect the trouble that he ran into from the other Oak City gamers.

Worsley still figured in the victory with his 22 points but his value as the top rebounder proved to be the big factor in the Oak City win. Benny Leggett, S-P's biggest man at 6-0, never had a chance on the backboards against the Oak City star.

Donald Hardison kept his club in the game during the first half and finished the night with 21 points to lead his club in scoring. It was the second consecutive defeat for the Blue Jays while Oak City remained undefeated.

Rita Bullock poured in 29 points to lead the defending Pitt County female champions to a 54-45 victory. Bullock pushed her club into a 20-7 first quarter lead but Oak City came back to cut the margin to seven points, 29-22, at intermission.

The Blue Jays wrapped up the game in the third quarter with Bullock and Carrie Lee White, hurt burning the nets with consistency.

Stokes-Pactolus will open their home season Friday night against Bear Grass in a non-conference contest.

Orange Bowl Heads Review Top Prospects

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Orange Bowl officials called a special meeting today to review talent prospects for their New Year's Day football extravaganza.

University of Syracuse could have had a bid by now. But its trustees, meeting two hours, postponed a decision Tuesday. Spokesmen said first they wouldn't meet again until Sunday, then indicated they would confer within a couple of days.

"I don't think our committee would wait until Sunday," said Van C. Kussrow, chairman of the group which lines up opponents for the annual Orange Bowl game.

Kussrow already had told Syracuse it could have an Orange Bowl invitation by quick acceptance.

Syracuse, never a winner in two Orange Bowl appearances, currently is No. 1 in the Associated Press Poll. Its players voted in favor of the Miami date but Syracuse officials said this would not be a vital point in their decision.

"There are plenty of directions in which we can turn for a team to meet the Big Eight's host Eleven," Kussrow said. "We had figured quick acceptance by Syracuse would have paid a publicity dividend."

Kussrow said Georgia Tech, Kussia, Tennessee and several other teams he wouldn't name were live prospects for a bid to the 1960 Orange Bowl game.

The Big Eight's representative can't be designated yet, Oklahoma — which defeated Syracuse 21-6 last Jan. 1 — is ineligible because of a conference rule against two consecutive Orange Bowl game appearances.

Kansas (a Syracuse victim this season), Iowa State and Colorado are deadlocked in Big Eight run-off spot with 3-2 win loss record. Neither may emerge by Nov. 21 when, if a tie still exists, the Orange Bowl committee can make its own choice.

Syracuse reportedly talked with the Cotton Bowl and Liberty Bowl at Philadelphia as well as with the Orange Bowl.

"The boy that never quits" could be the handle given to David Thomas, the Greenville Touchdown Club's "Athlete of the Week."

An end on the East Carolina football squad, Dave was selected as the top lineman and player in the Pirates' near-upset over Lenoir Rhyne last Saturday night. Listed on the ECC roster from Lawrence, Kansas, Thomas came to East Carolina after playing a year of junior college ball under Coach George Tucker at Wingate.

He was a reserve his first year here but nudged his way into the starting lineup mid-way of last season. This year, he has flourished into a top-notch flanker and is a strong candidate for post season All-Conference honors.

Branded with a personable smile, Dave accepted his awards at the Touchdown Club meeting last night and with his mid-western drawl praised the East Carolina coaching staff and his 1959 squad. "I would like to thank Coach Boone and the rest of the coaching staff for their confidence in me. . . .", he concluded.

The club members had supper at the East Carolina College cafeteria last night and then viewed film of the Lenoir Rhyne-East Carolina game. The disputed play which cost the Pirates an upset victory over the nation's number one club was not on the film but it was the topic of discussion of the weekly meeting.

Coach Jack Boone, still hot under the collar over the call, had high praise for his club's performance. "It was one of the greatest team efforts that I have seen since coaching at East Carolina," he remarked. "It was just a shame that we had to lose the way we did."

The Buc mentor indicated that a "formal protest" had been filed but was uncertain as to what could be done. "The only chance would be for one of the officials to reverse his decision," noted Boone.

Coach Earl Smith, head basketball coach, was a guest at the meeting and gave a short preview of the coming hardwood season. The new Pirate boss singled out defense as being one of the weak links in his club. "We have a lot of freshmen and sophomores that we are counting on and it just takes time for them to develop as real good defensive players," Smith explained.

Lou Colie, club president, reminded the club that East Carolina would close out their home season this weekend against Newport News Apprentice School. A special halftime show is planned which includes Jim Wommack, a noted expert in the fireworks field.

In other business last night, Dr. Doug Jones was awarded a pair of shoes from Larry's Shoe Shop. The former ECC athlete and current professor in the Education Department won the club's weekly football contest.

Brown Leads Pro Scorers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Fullback Jimmy Brown of Cleveland, who has led the National Football League in rushing all season, now has taken over first place in scoring.

The bulldozing Brown, who has been a one-man show for the Browns, scored two touchdowns Sunday against Philadelphia to bring his season's total to 10 for 60 points.

He is trailed by Tom Davis, San Francisco, 55 points; Bobby Joe Conrad, Chicago Cardinals, 53; and Bobby Layne, Pittsburgh, 51.

Meanwhile, Brown has gained 862 yards on the ground in 183 carries for a 4.7 average. Second in rushing is J. D. Smith of San Francisco, who sows 696 yards in 139 carries for a 5.0 average.

Ollie Matson of Los Angeles is third with 687 yards in 116 tries for a 5.9 average.

Quarterback Ralph Guglielmi of Washington, who has been sidelined the past two weeks with injuries, backed into the passing lead as last week's leader, Billy Wade of Los Angeles, failed to maintain his average gain. Average gain determines the leaders in passing.

Guglielmi has completed 26 of 60 pass attempts for 515 yards and an 8.38 average. Wade, has 85 completions in 137 attempts for 1,133 yards and an 8.27 average.

Ray Barry, Baltimore, caught only four passes Sunday against Washington but his 44 catches for the year gives him a wide edge in the receiving department. He has gained 643 yards, more than a third of his team's total.

Behind Barry are Billy Wilson, San Francisco, 31-412; and Frank Gifford, New York, 28-531.

New York's Don Chandler continues to be tops in punting with a 47.7 average. Second is Tom Davis of San Francisco with a 45.6 average.

Nagasaki, a Keio University student, found his touch after dropping the first two sets and whipped Franks, a U.S. Navy ensign, 4-6, 6-8, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4, in a three-hour struggle.

MacKay, stepping up the pressure only when it became necessary, pounded out his easy victory over Dungo.

In other quarter-finals, Japan's atsushi Miyagi subdued Johnny Jose 5-7, 6-4, 7-5, 3-6, 6-2, but Raymond Deyro kept the Philippine's hopes alive with a 10-8, 6-1, 6-0 triumph over Japan's No. 1 player, Susumu Matsura.

Old Miss Picked To Defeat Tenn

By HAROLD CLAASSEN Associated Press Sports Writer

NANDI, Fiji Islands (AP)—This is the romantic island where the cop on the corner wears a skirt and his wife wears a dress. The confusion is terrific. So how can we be certain of picking the correct winners in the college football dress parade?

Syracuse over Colgate: With hardly a deep breath. Northwestern over Michigan State: Ron Burton gets the Evansville Wildcats back on the winning side.

Louisiana State over Mississippi State: Billy Cannon and his LSU playmates are snarling after that loss to Tennessee.

Washington over California: That Washington defense and George Fleming's kicking may carry the Huskies into the Rose Bowl.

Texas over Texas Christian: Another step to the Cotton Bowl.

Oklahoma over Army: The Sooners need this victory to salvage what has become for them a dreary season.

Elsewhere: Georgia Tech over Alabama, Wisconsin over Illinois, Notre Dame over Pittsburgh, Mississippi over Tennessee, Ohio State over Iowa, North Texas State over Tulsa, Southern Methodist over Arkansas, Auburn over Georgia, Air Force over Arizona.

Friday night: Miami over South Carolina, UCLA over North Carolina State, Saturday: East: Boston College over Boston University, Harvard over Brown, Penn over Columbia, Dartmouth over Cornell, Havy over George Washington, Penn State over Holy Cross, Princeton over

Randy Bass, shifty halfback, has upheld the name of Phantom all year by seeming to appear from nowhere to intercept or break up passes. Bass's defensive skills will be called on if the Jacks take to the air Friday.

Andrew Kilpatrick has been looking good and coming along nicely in filling one of the tackle slots. According to Coach Phillips, The students of Rose High School have chartered a bus for the trip to Roanoke Rapids to lend support to Greenville's invasion Friday night.

Two other backfield regulars, Robin Wilfong and Wayne Sumrall, have been outstanding on the field when extra yards are needed.

Greenies Prep For Loop Tilt

Mighty and ready, the Phantoms of Greenville journey to Roanoke Rapids Friday for a grid tilt with the R. R. Jacks. This test of the teams could mean the difference between third and fourth place in the conference for Greenville.

Coaches Bud Phillips and Odell Welborn have been drilling the boys on defense in the perfect practice weather this week. The team boasts good spirits and physical condition and appear ready to tangle with the Jacks, who have a 3-2-1 conference record.

Richard Taft, promising freshman, will be the only player sidelined this game. Taft probably will be out the remainder of the season due to an arm injury.

Roanoke Rapids, primarily a ground attack team, faces the Phantoms with a line averaging 200 pounds. The Jacks are expected to pull a little razzle-dazzle that may prove to be a threat to the defense of Greenville. Bill Wade, Lawrence Davenport, Norfleet Felton, Louis Dail, Jeff Fountain, Reggie Johnson, and Larry Roberts, the Phantoms outstanding linemen, could be the stumbling blocks to spring a few surprises.

Ends Skip Wright, Burt Aycock, Layne Jorgensen, and Edward Moore prove to be the key to Greenville's aerial attack with Erskine Duff, quarterback, and Alan McArthur, halfback, doing the passing.

Two other backfield regulars, Robin Wilfong and Wayne Sumrall, have been outstanding on the field when extra yards are needed.

Good news for asthmatics

Specialist's discovery now makes it possible for bronchial asthma sufferers to quickly relieve choking, coughing, gasping spasms and, do it without use of internal drugs or painful injections. So safe you can get Dr. Gold's Green Mountain in either cigarette or compound form without prescription. Ask your druggist for it.

Top U.S. Golfers Arrive Too Late

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Absence of two ailing American stars made South Africa's Gary Player and the man he supplanted as British Open champion, Peter Thomson of Australia, co-favorites in the Sydney Open Golf Tournament which opens here Thursday as a prelude to the International Canada Cup matches.

The international trophy and Canada Cup competition, which has drawn top professionals from 30 nations, will be played Nov. 18-21 over the Royal Melbourne Golf Club in Melbourne.

Sam Snead and Cary Middlecoff, Uncle Sam's representatives in that event, will be on hand in Melbourne, but they failed to arrive in time for the tournament here. They remained in California to receive treatment for mild ailments.

The two ACC teams with Friday night games held long head-banging sessions Tuesday before taping off today. They are North Carolina State which flies to the coast to meet UCLA, the longest football trip in the history of the school, and South Carolina which meets Miami.

The work was long and hard at both Clemson and Maryland which play on the Tigers' home field Saturday. The Terps emphasized passing while the Tigers scrimmaged.

North Carolina, which plays host to last place Virginia, got notice that two of its top halfbacks will not see action. They are Gib Carson, still out with a broken hand, and Moyer Smith, injured in the Miami game. The Cavaliers received a briefing on the Tar Heels and were warned of their power and running and passing ability.

At Duke, both tackle Jim Swoford and center Ted Royal apparently are doubtful starters because of injuries. Meanwhile, Amen announced that N'ok Zarella, his fine guard and place kicker, had recovered from a leg injury.

Passing ace Norman Snead will be kept out of heavy action during practice this week because of a muscle bruise suffered in the Virginia game. "Even if Snead isn't ready, we don't feel we are a one man team. The loss of one man doesn't put us in an untenable position," said Amen.

Amen called the final three tough games "an opportunity to see how far we have come along in rebuilding our football program. We are at the point of seeing just how good we are."

The game will be the 41st of the series and Wake Forest hasn't beaten Duke since 1951. The Dukes will be fighting to win their last two games and end with a 5-5 season. Not since 1929 has a Duke team lost six games in a season.

The game is a must for Wake Forest for a Clemson victory coupled with a Wake Forest defeat would give the title to Clemson for the second year running. A Wake Forest victory over Duke would set the stage for a battle royal between Wake Forest and Clemson the following week.

Johnson-For-President Wave Spreads Over Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Formation of Johnson-for-President clubs is spreading like a prairie fire across Texas, an Associated Press survey shows.

The spark that touched it off came less than a month ago, Oct. 17, from House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.).

The most remarkable feature of the statewide survey is not so much the number of clubs—now more than 50 and growing every day—but the variety of backing and the hefty local and state political muscle shown.

The senior senator from Texas on the record is running for reelection only. He says it is a long time until the 1960 convention and it's too early for him to take the plunge as an open candidate for the Democratic nomination.

But Rayburn and other backers such as Texas' Democratic national committeeman Byron Skelton of Temple, Gov. Price Daniel and state Democratic executive committee chairman Ed Connally of Abilene, shrug off Johnson's disavowals and keep up the big push.

Johnson's renomination for a new six-year term is regarded by his backers as in the bag. There has been no sign of an opponent.

The survey shows that local leaders pushing the Johnson-for-President clubs include mayors, county judges, state and county Democratic committeemen, elective and appointive officials on all political levels, business and professional leaders, farmers, ranchers.

At Brownwood, state Democratic committeeman J. H. Shelton and C. C. Woodson, president of Southwestern Dailies, are organizers. Woodson's Brownwood Bulletin is one of the newspapers endorsing Johnson for president.

At Bryan in Brazos County the club includes conservatives, liberals and middle-roads. Backing the original club was county Judge W. C. Davis, county Democratic chairman Glynn (Buddy) Williams and Jack H. Bowen, city editor of the Bryan Eagle. The president is a farmer and rancher, John Stockton.

"We don't care about past squabbles. What we are interested in is seeing Lyndon Johnson has the backing of his native state at the national convention," Stockton said.

Sends Thanks For Gift Chapel

LONDON (AP)—President Eisenhower says the American chapel in St. Paul's Cathedral, dedicated to fallen U. S. servicemen of World War II, inspired in him "a renewed dedication to do everything possible to promote the cause of peace."

The President wrote to the English Speaking Union to express his appreciation to the Britons whose contributions built the chapel in London's great cathedral.

Beauty Winner Pleased About 'Rigging' Complaint

LONDON (AP)—Corine Rottschaffer, a blue-eyed Dutch blonde who won the 1960 "Miss World" title by a 54 vote Tuesday night, is pleased over charges that the contest was rigged.

"I'm a model and I need publicity," said Corine after her selection prompted waves of protest from the American and Canadian contestants. "Now I'll be able to charge higher prices."

Corine edged Miss Peru, Maria Rossel, 17, to take the crown, which ranks with Long Beach's "Miss Universe" and Atlantic City's "Miss America" in the upper bracket of beauty contests.

Both Loretta Powell of Bridgeport, Conn., representing the United States, and Miss Canada, Huguette Demers, charged that padding was responsible for the 37-inch bust that topped the winner's 22 waist and 37 hips.

They also claimed that Corine is engaged to one of the judges—Frenchman Claude Behr, a beauty contest organizer who sponsored Corine in last year's Miss Universe competition.

"We don't think it right that a friend of the winner should be one of the judges," asserted Loretta, 24, who was eliminated after the 37 entries had been narrowed down to 16.

"I've heard this talk but believe me there's nothing to it," Behr declared. "Some of the girls apparently believe Corine is my fiancée but that's impossible—I'm already married."

Corine denied the padding charge, asserting, "I had no support, no wires, no padding."

"You can have a look at my bathing costume to see for yourself," she added to newsmen.

Corine's prizes included $1,400, a movie screen test and a small car. A car also went to Miss Peru. Third prize ($280) went to Ziva Shomrat, 18, a private in the Israeli army. She was followed by Anne Thelwell of England, 22, and Kirsten Olsen 20, of Denmark. They got smaller cash prizes.

FCC Announces More Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Television and radio figure in a new investigation. It could mean a government crackdown on rigged quizzes, paid-off disc jockeys, and offensive commercials.

In a surprise turnaround Tuesday, the Federal Communications Commission announced it would begin hearings soon to find out whether it has power to punish fakery in broadcasting.

If it lacks the power, the commission said, it might ask Congress for new laws.

Until now, the commission has ruled it lacks authority to check program content, except to keep out obscenity and lotteries. The new policy came after a unanimous vote of five members. The two other commissioners are out of the country.

The commission will handle its new study as part of an inquiry it already has under way into network policies relating to program selection.

It said it was acting as a result of disclosures by a House investigating subcommittee that producers have rigged quiz shows by feeding answers to contestants. Other irregularities also were disclosed.

Ex-Pastor Sentenced For Blackmail, Larceny

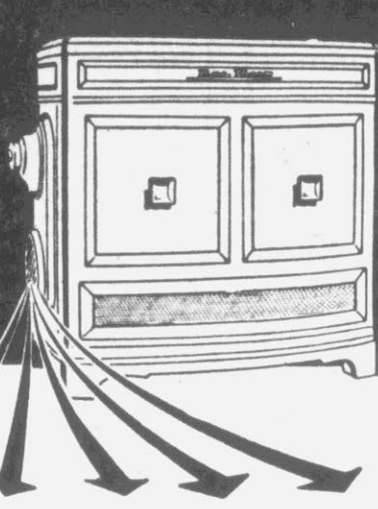

YANCEYVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A chubby middle aged minister charged with photographing his nude wife in bed with a fellow minister was convicted here yesterday of blackmail, conspiracy and larceny.

The Rev. J. T. Swinson, 51-year-old Baptist minister who since has resigned from his church, was given prison sentences totaling four years, but since they were to run concurrently amount to only two years. He appealed and was released under $2,000 bond. He also was bound over for trial in Superior Court on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill.

Swinson's 38-year-old wife, an attractive dark-haired woman with a mature figure, was sentenced to 18 months in prison for aiding and abetting in blackmail, conspiracy and larceny. But Caswell County Judge Earline L. Poteat suspended the sentence because she is the mother of two children. She also appealed. There was no defense testimony.

The Rev. G. A. Hamby, 58, a Baptist minister of Tuxedo, N.C., who brought the charges, said Swinson, a friend of 10 years, in-

Officers Named By 4-H Club

FOUNTAIN — New officers were elected when the Bell Community 4-H Club met in the home of the leader, Mrs. Albert Bell, in regular session last week.

New officers are: president, Eve Hobgood; vice president, Gaston Bass; secretary, Hazel Price; recreation, Lynette Manning; refreshment committee, Dianne Bell and Edwin Ellis.

During the business session, presided over by retiring president, Janice Abrams, Mrs. Bell announced the annual 4-H Achievement Night and urged all who could to make a special effort to be present.

Jimmy Dilda, member of the Busy Beaver and Fountain School Clubs, aided the group with the lamps which they are making.

During the demonstration period while working on the lamps, refreshments of punch and homemade layer cake were served to the fourteen members present and three guests.

About 16 Local Delegates Going To Circuit Meet

According to a statement made here this week by Phillip Lacy, presiding minister of the Greenville Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, about 16 delegates from Greenville Congregation will attend the three-day circuit assembly being held in Rocky Mount, Friday through Sunday, November 13-15, at the Community Center on Albemarle Avenue.

About 600 delegates from 19 towns and communities in North Carolina and Virginia will be there.

Sessions will begin Friday evening, November 13 at 6:45 and continue through Sunday, November 15, until 6:00 p.m. The program is especially designed to give Jehovah's Witnesses and their friends a greater knowledge of God's Kingdom and the Divine Will, Phillip Lacy, who will head the local delegation, will appear on the assembly program.

The featured event of this convention will be a public talk Sunday at 3:00 p.m. by James A. Thompson Jr., the district supervisor and assembly chairman, on the subject: "When Is God's Will To Be Done On Earth?"

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Electronics spurred in a mixed stock market early this afternoon. Trading was fairly active.

Gains running to about 6 points for Motorola featured a list in which the pivotal stocks made fairly narrow moves while some of the more volatile issues stepped ahead sharply.

Turnover was quite good considering the semi-holiday conditions prevailing in observance of Veterans Day. Banks and many business concerns were closed.

General Motors was down a fraction as steel shortages forced the big automaker to halt passenger car production by tonight.

Steels were mixed while rails had a slight edge to the upside as the steelworkers continued to return to their plants and the process of restarting the furnaces was under way.

Aircrafts, drugs and most chemicals were higher. Oils, motors, nonferrous metals and airlines were mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at $224.10 with the industrials down 10 cents, the rails up 20 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Corporate bonds were slightly higher.

Most banks and brokerage houses dealing in U.S. government bonds were closed for Veterans Day so there were no reports on trading.

Drama Group To Raise Curtain On November 19

The Pioneer Players, the newest addition to Eastern North Carolina's cultural arts, will make their first appearance in Greenville on Thursday, Nov. 19, at the C. M. Eppes High School, and will move to McGinnis Auditorium on the East Carolina College campus for performances on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 20 and 21. Curtain time for performances at all three places will be 8 p.m.

As its first major production, the newly-organized touring company has chosen the Broadway comedy hit "Janus," which was first presented at the Plymouth Theatre in New York in 1955, and starred Robert Preston, Margaret Sullivan and Claude Dauphin. The romantic comedy centers around a famous pair of authors, using the pen name of Janus, who turn out to be best sellers annually. The pair, a quiet Massachusetts teacher and his paramour, the respectable wife of a midwest tycoon, come to New York every summer ostensibly to study. The first time the husband decides to drop by and see his wife in her metropolitan digs, he arrives just as the teacher is coming in through the plumbing with provisions. This situation, arising from the visit of an inquiring Revenue Department agent, provides comedy that kept the New York theatre audience laughing for months.

To be first with the best in drama and entertainment is the primary aim of the Pioneer Players. The company, professional in scope, boasts a nucleus of talented and professional performers. Cathy Gillikin, former San Francisco fashion model, studied drama at the Pasadena Playhouse, appeared in films at RKO Studios in Hollywood, and was chosen by New York talent scout for the leading role in "Sable Brush," a new play which is being produced in Baltimore. Lois Garren, a veteran of NBC-TV in New York, appeared on the Good Year Playhouse and the Mr. Peepers program, and was an assistant to Fred Coe at NBC-TV for two years. Jim Gillikin, ex-UNC drama student, studied with the June Taylor School of Dance in New York and the Pasadena Playhouse Associates, and appeared in productions on the Shell Playhouse, at the 4th Street Playhouse, and at the Rye Music Theatre. Claude Garren, East Carolina College faculty member, and Bob Whitting, East Carolina College student, both well known in drama circles in this area, complete the core of the new company.

Garren, the company manager, states that performances are already scheduled for a number of schools in this part of the state. "Our schedule from now until Christmas is completely filled, especially since we are doing a production of Sophocles' "Antigone" on the ECC campus in mid-December. However, we are now in the process of scheduling performances for after Christmas." Any school or organization interested in sponsoring the Pioneer Players may obtain information by writing Claude Garren, Box 86, East Carolina College, Greenville, N. C.

Making Annual Visit To Lodge

Rites Thursday For John N. Hopkins Sr.

WILLIAMSTON—John N. Hopkins Sr., 79, of Williamston died at his home on Tuesday following several weeks of illness. Funeral services will be held Thursday at 3 p.m. at Riddick's Grove Baptist Church in Williamston. The Rev. Thurman Griffin will officiate. Burial will follow in the Hopkins family cemetery.

Surviving are seven sons, Norman and Gilbert of Greenville, Harold of Cary, Henry of Oak City and Gordon, Ben and Frank of Williamston; two daughters, Mrs. Clyde Robertson and Mrs. Jimmy Tyre of Williamston; his wife, Estelle, of the home; several grandchildren and great grandchildren.

RIVALS WIN
LANDER, Wyo. (AP)—An automobile dealer held a birthday anniversary and as door prizes gave free wheel alignment.

The winners: Two employees of rival auto firms.

Wrangle Expected Over Board Change

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—Rural and city Baptists were expected to wrangle today on a proposal to change the makeup of the Baptist State Convention's general board. The rural Baptists were expected to win.

Also on the agenda as the convention's 129th annual meeting reached the controversial stage was election of a new president to succeed Dr. A. Leroy Parker of Greensboro.

Indications were that C. B. Deane, a layman, former congressman and for 27 years the convention's recording secretary, would win over three others who have been nominated.

Deane would be the first layman to head the convention since 1951, when the late Grover Jones of High Point was elected.

A committee of 25 presented the proposals to change the general board's makeup. Under the committee's recommendations, board membership would be reduced from 85 to 63.

The state would be divided into 12 districts with four general board members from each and 12 elected at large. There would be three ex-officio members — the president and two vice presidents of the convention.

This proposal, barely passed at a special convention last May, was opposed by rural members. To become effective it must receive two-thirds of the votes at the annual meeting here.

The Rev. Fred A. Mauney of Forest City offered a substitute to the committee's plan. His idea would be to keep things pretty much as they are.

The convention also was to consider a cooperative program goal of $4,300,000 next year, with a cooperative program budget set slightly lower at $4,110,000. This would represent a half-million dollar increase over 1958, the sharpest increase in convention history.

Other resolutions to be acted on would permit the borrowing of $193,000 for construction of an infirmary at the Baptist Home for the Aged at Winston-Salem, $500,000 for a science building and $500,000 more for an addition to the Medical School at Wake Forest College, and $500,000 for a general expansion program which ultimately would total $5,600,000 at Meredith College in Raleigh.

The general board presented a bright report on the convention's financial standing at Tuesday's session. It said contributions by Tar Heel Baptists to support causes of the State and Southern conventions are expected to total $6,000,000 next year. The 1959 total is expected to reach $5,900,000.

Seek Avoidance Of Road Hazard

AYDEN — The Ayden School Board, at its last meeting, passed a resolution requesting the State Highway Commission not to place the new four-lane N.C. 11 by-pass between the Elementary School on N.C. 102 and the town limits of Ayden.

The resolution also requested the commission to make the new road overpass N.C. 102 if it was impossible to re-route it.

According to E. F. Johnson, principal of the local High School, the resolution was passed because it was felt the four lane highway between the school and town would create a hazard to children going to and from the recently constructed school.

Both the Ayden Rotary and Lions Clubs have endorsed the School Board's action in the matter and a letter has been sent to the Board to District Highway Engineer C. W. Snell of Greenville requesting action on the matter.

Copies of the letter have also been sent to the Ayden Town Board, County Board of Commissioners and the County Board of Education.

Scout Banquet

The annual Recognition Banquet of the Pitt District of Boy Scouts of America will be held in the North Dining Hall at East Carolina College tomorrow night at 7 o'clock.

All scouts and wives and den mothers and their husbands are urged to attend the supper.

Tickets for the banquet are $1.50 and can be obtained from any unit leader or from James Mallory at East Carolina College.

All 1959 Eagle and God and Country winners are invited as guests.

The Green Band and the Compass awards will be given to winners of the honors at the meeting.

Butler Speaks To Fountain Club

FOUNTAIN — The Fountain Ruitan Club held its annual "Ladies Night" at the Community Building recently. President L. P. Yelverton presided. Guest speaker was Dr. James Butler, alumni secretary from East Carolina College. He was introduced by D. Calvin Stokes, secretary of the club.

The musical portion of the program was rendered by Misses Peggy and Brenda Moyer, accompanied by Mrs. Irene Tyson. Serving on the arrangement committee for ladies night were G. E. Trevaathan, Floyd Turnage and John Fountain.

The Fountain Home Demonstration Club served turkey dinner.

Funeral Thursday For H. C. Coward

Mr. Henry C. Coward, 64, died at St. Luke's Hospital in New Bern Wednesday morning at 12:30 following several years of illness.

Funeral services will be held at the home, 1306 Broad Street in New Bern, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 by the Rev. Sam Worthington, Free Will Holiness minister of Vanceboro. Burial will be in New Bern National Cemetery. Military honors will be accorded at the grave.

Mr. Coward, son of Sabe and Elizabeth Jones Coward, was born and reared in Lenoir County and for the past 25 years had made his home in New Bern. He was a member of the Vanceboro Free Will Baptist Church and Donerson Hawkins American Legion Post No. 24 at New Bern.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lula W. Coward; two sons, James Henry and Leslie B. Coward of New Bern; four daughters, Mrs. A. L. Crews, Mrs. Wilbur Ketchum and Miss Patricia Coward, all of New Bern, and Mrs. Cecil Swindell of Stonewall; 14 grandchildren; and three sisters, Mrs. Herman Sutton of New Bern, Mrs. Will Fillingame of Vanceboro, and Miss Maude Coward of Ayden.

Predicts Return Of Yellow Fever

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—An Army insect expert predicts yellow fever will creep back from the jungles and reach the United States next year.

Maj. Alvin A. Therrien said in a press statement that investigations show the deadly virus is advancing northward from South and Central America at an average of 13 miles each month.

Until it was almost wiped out years ago, yellow fever was the scourge of southern states, causing devastating epidemics.

Maj. Therrien, an entomologist for 4th Army headquarters here, reports a mosquito variety, haemagogus, which can transmit the virus was found in the United States in 1955 around Brownsville, Tex. So far the variety is free of the virus.

Staging Sketch At Annual Meet

In celebration of the organization of the American Home Economics Association 50 years ago, student members of the East Carolina College Home Economics Club will present a dramatic sketch "Ellen H. Richards' Challenge" at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Home Economics Association in Rocky Mount Friday and Saturday, November 13-14. The play will be a special event of a dinner meeting of the association Friday night.

Written several years ago by Mrs. Gwendolyn Williams Willis, East Carolina graduate and now home economics teacher in the West Mecklenburg High School, the play outlines the career of Mrs. Richards, founder of the American Home Economics Association and its first president.

A series of short scenes presents Mrs. Richards' career as a student of chemistry at Vassar and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; her management of her own home; and her pioneer work in the scientific study of food, sanitation, and other aspects of the home and in the introduction of the study of home economics in the schools.

Says 'Startling' Fire Facts Found

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A Coast Guard officer said Tuesday some "startling facts" have been uncovered about the fire and explosion Sunday that destroyed the tanker Amoco Virginia with a loss of eight lives.

Cmdr. Charles F. Kaminski, heading the Houston portion of the probe, said "We spent yesterday getting a line on those we propose to interview. But I have already come across some startling facts."

Kaminski would not elaborate on the findings pending a formal hearing.

An attorney for American Oil Co., which owned the ship, said it was not known if the six-million-dollar tanker would ever sail again.

"The ship is substantially damaged but we are a little more encouraged than we were Sunday as to her condition," said Eugene Spitz.

Seven crewmen, including the captain, died when the tanker caught fire and exploded. A Houston fireman died the next day while trying to cool the ship.

The Coast Guard has banned all open flames along a six-mile strip of the ship channel as gasoline and fumes continued to seep from the grounded and leaking tanker.

"The condition is probably more dangerous than it ever was," said Lt. Cmdr. R. J. Evans, Coast Guard port captain.

The tanker still contains 65,000 gallons of gasoline. Tides carried pockets of gasoline upstream and fumes spread.

Evans said all channel traffic will be halted for three to five days.

J. C. Lanier To Address Club

Mr. J. C. Lanier, local attorney will speak on his recent experience in Poland at the regular meeting of the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club Thursday night. As executive secretary and general counsel of the Tobacco Association of the United States and Leased Tobacco Exporters Association, Mr. Lanier represented tobacco interests in public relations work recently in Poland. Dr. Bessie McNeil, chairman of the International Relations Committee, will be in charge of the program.

Funeral Thursday For James M. Smith

James Madison Smith, 75, died Tuesday afternoon at 4:30.

Funeral services will be held at Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church Thursday afternoon at 3 p.m. by the pastor, the Rev. Henry Melvin, assisted by the Rev. R. B. Crawford, pastor of the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church. Burial will be in the Church Cemetery. The body will remain at the Wilkerson Funeral Home and will be taken to the church one hour prior to the time of service.

Smith, son of the late Henry Bryant and Octavia Dail Smith, spent all his life in the Winterville Community until he moved to Greenville nine years ago. He was a retired farmer and a member of Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Carrie Hines Smith; four sons, J. Wilbur and Norman P., both of Bell Arthur, Bernice and Linwood of Greenville; seven daughters, Mrs. Zeb Morrill of Maury, Mrs. Ben Thomas, Jr., Mrs. A. T. Grimley, Jr. and Mrs. T. L. Byrd, all of Greenville, Mrs. Mark Moring of Farmville, Mrs. Marvin Moore of Portsmouth, Va. and Mrs. William L. Griffin of Bethel; 27 grandchildren; five brothers, Frank and Dan of Washington, C. D. of Robertsonville, B. T. of Fayetteville, and Herber of New Jersey; a sister, Mrs. Nina McGlohn of Winterville.
