U.S. Gov't Assures India Moral Backing In Dispute

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States swiftly assured India of its moral backing today in a border dispute with Red China. India says the Chinese forcibly seized some of her territory.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, who first told a news conference this country was taking no sides, later issued a statement saying the Red Chinese, in using force, were "wholly in the wrong." This word was given to the Indian Embassy here and dispatched to the U.S. embassy in New Delhi.

President Eisenhower is scheduled to go to New Delhi on a goodwill mission within a month. Officials were afraid that unless Herter's remarks were clarified, resentment against the United States might sour the President's visit.

Replying to news conference questions, Herter said the United States has no way of knowing directly whether India or Red China is right in the disputed territorial claims, and has taken no sides on the issue.

But 35 minutes later he issued a formal statement saying: "The questions asked me on this subject seemed to me directed at the legal rights along the borders, and my answers accordingly related only to the legality of the rival claims. There is the further and more important point that, whatever may be the merits of a dispute, force must not be used to settle it. The Chinese Communist regime has clearly used force and, in this respect, is wholly in the wrong."

In taking this position, Herter put the United States more in line with Indian Prime Minister Nehru's policy which calls for settlement by negotiation and condemns the use of force.

At issue is 57,000 square miles of territory which has long been in controversy as to its real ownership although for many years it has been under Indian administration.

Last month the Chinese Communists killed nine members of an Indian police patrol and captured 10 others in what was described at the time as a Red Chinese ambush.

Herter's statement was limited to what his associates called the "moral issue" of the use of force. Nehru has made clear that it is not seeking Western military backing and has rejected all suggestions within India for making some kind of alliance against Red China.

It appeared that Herter deliberately avoided any kind of political commitment to India even by implication in view of Nehru's attitude.

Herter's first reply to questions on the India-China border problem was that "Neither side has appealed to us in any way whatsoever."

He noted that Nehru has stated he may raise the problem with Eisenhower when the President visits there Dec. 9-14.

He was then asked which side "looks right" to the United States in the dispute and replied that "I don't think we have taken any sides in that at all."

He said the border had been badly defined for many years and the United States lacked "first-hand knowledge of where the line should run."

Near the end of the news conference he was asked, "Do you wish to leave the impression that the United States has no view whatsoever as to the rightness or wrongness of this issue between the two governments?"

"I think you are probably correct," Herter replied. "We naturally presume that the claims made by the Indians are entirely valid claims, but from the point of view of what you might call an objective reading, we have no basis to go on. We have only the word of a friend."

The formal statement criticizing Red China's use of force came later, after a series of quick State Department huddles.

Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming's announcement Monday that the government was confiscating two shipments of contaminated West Coast berries has virtually halted sale of cranberries at the peak of the Thanksgiving market season.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass) said at Pawtucket, R.I., Thursday: "The cranberry mess is a good illustration of what happens when a stupid bureaucrat wanders into a field about which his knowledge is limited."

And Rep. Thomas M. Pelly (R-Wash) said at Seattle he would demand "a thorough investigation of the cranberry mess" when Congress convenes in January. "This appears to be a classic example of bureaucracy at its worst."

Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore) had no harsh words but joined others who have aid the government has a responsibility to protect innocent cranberry growers from financial damage due to the scare. Neuberger proposed that the government buy up the untainted parts of the 1959 crop.

The cranberry scare started when Flemming announced that traces of a weed killing compound had been found in two shipments of cranberries grown in Washington and Oregon. Laboratory tests of the weed killer, he said, indicated that it could cause cancer of the thyroid in rats. It was assumed, but not proved, it might affect humans.

He said there was no indication of trouble with cranberries grown in Massachusetts, New Jersey and Wisconsin, which produce much more than the Western states.

But Flemming did not say how to tell the difference between Eastern and Western berries. He said housewives who couldn't be sure should avoid buying any.

Flemming stood his ground Thursday at another news conference. He said he learned of the danger only last Sunday and added, "It is that kind of information that I believe we have no right to sit on."

And he said he would stand by his word that he would eat no cranberries until the whole situation is straightened out. He hoped that could be done by Thanksgiving, but said he could not be sure.

In taking this line he appeared to be reflecting U.S. concern over the possibility that if tests are delayed too long without the protection of an international inspection system the Soviets may secretly resume their own testing and get ahead of the United States in nuclear weapons development.

Negotiations for an international agreement have been under way at Geneva for more than a year among the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union. The United States and Britain stopped testing when the negotiations started. The Soviets did so a few days later.

The U.S. delegation to the United Nations, apparently acting on last-minute instructions from the State Department, voted Thursday night against a resolution urging France to call off its forthcoming A-bomb test in the Sahara.

The U.N. Political Committee approved the resolution 46-26, but the vote was short of the two-thirds majority needed for approval in the General Assembly and was regarded as a victory for France.

In addition to his comments on nuclear testing, Herter said in his news conference:

1. Red China was "wholly in the wrong" for using force in its border dispute with India. (He clarified his views on the frontier quarrel in a written statement to newsmen released hurriedly after the news conference.)

2. He hopes an East-West summit meeting will be held sometime between March 1 and mid-April.

3. He has been disturbed by anti-U.S. statements and incidents in Cuba and Panama but does not view them as a general anti-U.S. trend in Latin America.

4. He is studying a Soviet protest against any move by West Germany to set up a special radio transmitter in West Berlin.

5. West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will be a full participant in the Allied pre-summit conference in Paris Dec. 19.

Blame Mess In Berries On Bureaus

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Republican congressmen from cranberry-growing states blame "a stupid bureaucrat" and "bureaucracy at its worst" for the present cranberry mess.

Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming's announcement Monday that the government was confiscating two shipments of contaminated West Coast berries has virtually halted sale of cranberries at the peak of the Thanksgiving market season.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass) said at Pawtucket, R.I., Thursday: "The cranberry mess is a good illustration of what happens when a stupid bureaucrat wanders into a field about which his knowledge is limited."

Consider Nuclear Ban Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States probably will make a limited extension of its ban on nuclear weapons testing if negotiations with the Soviet Union for an international test prohibition continue to make progress.

This was indicated Thursday by Secretary of State Christian A. Herter at a news conference. He said in response to a question that "I would personally favor the extension, if it were a matter of weeks only while we were still talking."

He added that he had serious doubts about any longer suspension beyond Dec. 31, the current expiration date.

In taking this line he appeared to be reflecting U.S. concern over the possibility that if tests are delayed too long without the protection of an international inspection system the Soviets may secretly resume their own testing and get ahead of the United States in nuclear weapons development.

Negotiations for an international agreement have been under way at Geneva for more than a year among the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union. The United States and Britain stopped testing when the negotiations started. The Soviets did so a few days later.

Moncure Wreckage 'Safe' As Chemicals Are Moved

MONCURE, N.C. (AP) — A phosphorus was flown here to help in removing the tanker loaded with the chemical.

Fumes escaping from the tank car, in which the phosphorus was transported under water, gave crews their chief concern Thursday night. On contact with air, the phosphorus could ignite. Its fumes can produce third degree burns on the skin.

With the area roped off, crews worked to clear the tangled mass of boxcars, scattered fresh grapefruit, canned goods, and other products.

Railroad officials indicated it might be a day or two before they would have an estimate of damages. There were no injuries.

The cause of the mishap was undetermined. The 112-car freight was enroute from Hamlet to Richmond.

Until the scene was cleared, Seaboard rerouted its trains over the Norfolk-Southern line between Colon and Raleigh.

N.C. Governor Discovers Former Tar Heel On Tour

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The traveling North Carolina governor, Luther H. Hodges, met High Point's Mary Hutchens — now the wife of a Belgian — here today and commented: "A lovely girl has been North Carolina's best export so far."

Hodges, currently with a party on a European trade tour, met Mary at a reception given in honor of his group by Belgian businessmen.

Mary is the bride of Belgian Jean Souweyne. They met in 1954 at the University of North Carolina, from which both were graduated.

Their fathers had mutual interests. George Hutchens was president of the Big Bear Food Stores in North Carolina. Souweyne was a director of the big Belgian Sarmis Store chain, which invested in the Big Bear company.

"It's that kind of affair we came over here for," said Gov. Hodges.

Hodges flew to Europe a fortnight ago, with a group of 68 North Carolina businessmen, Port Authority representatives and newspapermen, on a tour to boost North Carolina's economy.

The group visited Europe at the pace of a city a day, and is flying back to the States Saturday.

They met hundreds of European industrialists, businessmen, newspapermen, government officials, listened to problems, and got accustomed to the now rising common market economy.

"In each one of the states visited," Hodges declared, "we discovered that at least one exchange or another existed with North Carolina, whether it be tobacco, food, chemicals, electrical appliances or just lovely girls."

"The way is open for further exchanges. As long as the common market does not become a super cartel, we can but expand our respective trades, invest in each other's countries, and try to solve together our unemployment problems. Belgian commercial initiatives will always be heartily welcomed in North Carolina."

Negro Rapists Executed In Fla.

RAIFORD, Fla. (AP)—Two Negroes were executed at state prison today for raping two white women.

One of them admitted five rapes and the other three additional. Prison Supt. DeWitt Sinclair said, but they went to the electric chair for one each.

Both lost last-minute pleas for commutation.

John Edward Paul, 24, was pronounced dead at 8:42 a. m. by Dr. H. H. Schweem, the prison's chief medical officer.

Paul made no statement. He had been convicted of raping a 47-year-old grandmother at Clearwater while her 3-year-old grandchild slept in the same bed and her husband slept in an adjoining room.

Willie George City, 22, who Sinclair said admitted five other rapes, was pronounced dead at 8:58. He had pleaded guilty to raping a white widow at her home on the outskirts of Largo.

Space Research Aid To Surgeons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy scientists working on space ship problems have developed as a by-product a device they say makes heart surgery safer than ever before.

The apparatus warms or cools a patient's blood quickly and without damage — an essential step where surgery involves opening the heart and working inside it.

Surgeons at the Naval Medical Institute in Bethesda, Md., have used the device successfully in more than 30 operations. It is used in conjunction with a heart-lung machine.

Mixing Said Harm To Social Life

LITTLEFIELD, Tex. (AP) — Negro leaders here say integration is hurting their children's social life and works a hardship on them. So the adults asked for a school in the Negro district again.

The Rev. Walter Griffin, pastor of a Negro church in this West Texas farming center of 9,000, said a group of citizens in the Negro district asked if he would find out whether it would be feasible to build an elementary school in the Negro section.

Griffin said the integration in 1956 "was nicely carried out. There has been no trouble. It's just that the people I speak for feel it would be better for the Negro community if we had a school in the community."

Delay In Wilson Strike Hearings

WILSON, N.C. (AP)—Postponements were taken today in preliminary hearings for two men charged with violence stemming from a strike at the Swift & Co. meat packing plant here.

The cases postponed were those of Eddie Sutton Jr., a non-striker, and Grady Godwin, a striker, both charged with carrying a concealed weapon, speeding, and reckless driving. The cases were docked for trial Nov. 20 in County Recorder's Court.

Solicitor Silas Lucas said he wanted to await the outcome of trials of Sutton and another in a next Tuesday in City Recorder's Court on charges of secret assault.

Officers quoted Godwin as saying that shots were fired at his home near here; that he leaped from bed and chased down a car.

Deputy Sheriff W. R. Pridgen said Sutton, his wife, and Harman Parham, 32, also a non-striker, were in the car.

Sutton and Parham also were charged with shooting at the home of James Whitley Nov. 4. He said a bullet passed through a door and lodged in a chair.

Former FBI Agent New 'Watchdog'

By NORMAN WALKER WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's new labor racket watchdog is a former FBI agent named Daniel L. O'Connor.

His appointment hasn't been announced yet but O'Connor already is busy at work in a Labor Department office as enforcement chief of the anti corruption provision of the new labor law.

O'Connor is assembling a staff to insure fair elections in labor unions, honest handling and reporting of union funds, and elimination of Communists and convicts from union leadership — as required under provisions of the new law.

Some of the 90 investigators formerly employed by the Senate racketeers probe — the group that turned up the labor corruption story that led to passage of the new labor controls — are being interviewed for jobs on O'Connor's staff. There will be more than 100 such sleuths.

Selection of O'Connor, a veteran Washington lawyer with a half dozen years' service with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, came as key sections of the new labor control law went into effect today.

Some sections of the new law became operative on Sept. 14, when President Eisenhower signed the new legislation. Others became effective today and still more will go into effect in mid-December.

Today's new provisions are amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act dealing with changes in the rules for labor-management relations — rather than provisions aimed at curbing labor union corruption.

Awards Presented To Pitt Scouters

Scouting "definitely builds character," according to Dr. Robert Gilbert, president of the East Carolina Council of the Boy Scouts of America, and adults make scouting possible.

Dr. Gilbert, of Kinston, spoke at the Annual Pitt District Recognition Banquet held last night in the North Dining Hall at East Carolina College.

"It is up to each scout to make scouting go," he told the adult leaders present last night but, he added, "parents and adult leaders should not shirk their responsibilities."

Dr. Gilbert concluded by saying, "with the cooperation of scouts and adult leaders alike, next year should be a banner year for scouting."

Following Gilbert's talk, Dr. Robert E. Wilfong of Greenville was installed chairman of Pitt District for next year. Vice-chairman installed last night include Dr. John Mewborn of Farmville, Wilber Ormond of Ayden and W.

B. Hunnicutt of Bethel. Dr. H. R. Billica of Greenville was installed as District Commissioner.

Also at the scouter's banquet, Green Band Awards were presented to Dr. John Mewborn; Dr. Robert E. Wilfong; and Mrs. Francis Worsley of Greenville. The awards were given for at least three consecutive years of outstanding service as a scout leader.

NEW YORK (AP) — Based on the largest amount of the weed-killer Aminotriazole found on any cranberries, and the amount required to cause cancer in rats, Dr. Boyd Schaefer, toxicologist of American Cyanamid Co. which makes the herbicide, says:

"To cause cancer in man, an average adult would have to eat an equivalent of 15,000 pounds of these cranberries in his daily diet for the rest of his life."

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

The old saying "A rose by any name is just as sweet" or words to that effect is correct poetically, but to the botanist a rose is rose beauty, fragrance and all. To know the meaning and origin of his plant names should be of interest of the gardener. To Carolus Linnaeus, a Swedish botanist who spent many of his seventy-one years in seeking, classifying, and naming of plants should go the credit for many of our plant names.

A plant name is usually the description of some characteristic of the plant itself. Usually the habitat, the part of the world from where it was first found, or some person identified with it, is found in the plant name.

The name is the individualizing of the members of a family. As in humans, this applies to plants.

As Latin is the accepted scientific language, most names are in Latin. To know that the small leaf holly you have growing under your window bears the name Ilex Crenate microphylla won't add any glamor to its compact neat growth, but it does set it apart from the tall American Holly (Ilex opaca) growing as a specimen in your lawn area.

The meaning of the name is the interesting part. What does Ilex mean? Wouldn't "trees with needles on its leaves" seem to fit perfectly? To complete the name, how about the second word "opaca"? How about the thick opaque leaves? But this word Ilex doesn't seem to fit the rounded teeth on the small leaf (microphylla) holly. But their flowers make them kinsmen. Both hollies have the same kind of flowers. Both are dioecious (male and female plants).

However, it is the plants with names that tell little stories adding a bit of whimsy and intrigue that are most interesting.

From the French word pensee (thought) came the plant whose flower has many faces. It has been known by many names. We called it the pansy; have you ever heard it call "Kit run in the street"?

The Mexican plant first found in the mountains of that country had to cross the sea to get a name. A Swedish botanist, Andreas Dohln, became interested in it and worked on its development. It is known to us as the Dahlia. To that aristocrat of the garden, the peony, is added a touch of mythological divinity as it was named after the physician of the gods.

Had Narcissus returned the love of Echo, he would not have fallen in love with his own image and pined himself to death. At any rate, this is what he did. So his namesake, narcissus, these bright welcome of spring, have become a part of gardens and naturalistic plantings.

Did the marigold get its name because the Virgin wore it on her bosom?

Because of its fondness for water, the rosemary was named ros marnium or seaweed.

Had Lonfellow been in a botanical instead of a poetical mood and penned "the murmuring pinus and the tsuga" you would have never had to read "Evangeline" in school. Our longleaf pine comes from two words, Pinus palustris (pinus - a raft) (Palustris - grows in marshy ground). How about those that grow on high land?

Hemlock means (yew legued from the Japanese word tsuga).

Without the oak our woodlands and home grounds would seem quite bare. Its shade is a summer comfort and its wood once a winter necessity. Its botanical name, quercus, is Latin for beautiful tree. This indeed is an apt name for a tree that could inspire a poet to write a poem called "Trees."

BISSETTE'S

PICTURE TALK

By CHARLES BISSETTE

AUTOMATICALLY WONDERFUL

Have you ever stood patiently waiting to take a picture while the sun played hide-and-seek behind some clouds? It's one of life's minor trials but one you can forget when you own a Brownie still or movie camera with electric-eye lens control.

The electric eye is probably the best friend a snaphooter ever had. Instead of squinting at the sky and trying to decide whether it's cloudy-bright or cloudy-dull, you let the electric eye make the decisions.

It measures the amount of light reaching the camera and sets the lens automatically to give you the correct exposure. Shoot one picture in bright sun, the next in the shade. Two different lighting conditions, but the electric eye instantly adjusts the lens to get each picture.

You get all the convenience and accuracy of electric-eye lens control in the Brownie Starmatic Camera. This handsome handful of a camera not only is automatic—also takes color slides, color snapshots and black-and-whites. All this for just $34.50.

Or you can have an electric eye working for you in a Brownie Automatic Movie Camera. You just follow the action with this camera, and the electric eye keeps your exposure right on the nose. It's a real buy at $74.50. Just decide how you'll have your automation. Then drop in. Soon.

Miss Mamie Chandler, director of Methodist Student Center, installed the following: Mrs. Clara Moyer Shackell, president; Miss Bert Quinerly, first vice president; Mrs. Luther Moore, second vice president; Mrs. C. A. Bowen, secretary; Mrs. L. L. Rives, treasurer; Mrs. Milton White, corresponding secretary; Miss Martha Lee Coe, treasurer of the building fund.

The program was presented by Mrs. Mickie Savage and Mrs. Aneta Reynolds of the Young Women and Men's Department, Patient Circle No. 11. Mrs. Savage gave the history of the Young Women's Dept., and Mrs. Reynolds outlines some of the Circle's accomplishments.

Mrs. C. A. Bowen presented highlights of the North Carolina Branch Convention of The King's Daughters and Sons held in Raleigh in October.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. Harley were Mr. W. L. Best, Mrs. J. K. Spivey, Mrs. J. C. Galloway Sr. and Mrs. S. T. White. Refreshments were served.

Durer Woodprints Now On Exhibit

INSPECTION OF WOODPRINTS . . . by Albrecht Durer and Margie Ruth Clark on the right, Sherry Ann Rowe, left in gallery in connection with present studies. They are viewing the this one from Revelations 17:3-5 . . . "So he carried me away in Sixteen woodprints by Albrecht Durer, famous German artist of the fifteenth century, are on exhibition through November and December by courtesy of the Greenville Art Society at Sheppard Memorial Library.

The woodprints represent the entire series from the Biblical Book of Revelations. They come to the Art Society through the courtesy of the North Carolina Museum of Art.

In connection with the current exhibit, Dr. Bruce Carter, instructor in the Art Department of East Carolina College, will present a discussion on the Durer woodprints on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Carter, who has won numerous awards for his art work, received both his Master's Degree and his Doctorate from Pennsylvania State University. He won the first purchase prize in prints at the university in 1958.

Assisting him will be five students who will demonstrate the making of woodcuts and show how prints are made. Students participating are Emily Neale, Nelson Dudley, Tom Mims, Larry Blizard and Rose Marie Gornio.

The woodcuts were originally done from the Book of Revelations and were bound in folio form. Passages of scripture, for which they were designed, accompanied the respective cuts. The wood blocks were preserved and later electrotyped.

The 16 prints in this exhibit, although not early prints, were made from original blocks, possibly 100 years ago.

Durer, known as a painter, but even more famous for his woodcuts, was born in Nuremberg, Germany in 1471. He died in 1528.

The Revelation series were given by Mrs. Forbes Hawkes of New York City to Mrs. Howard Manning of Raleigh with the request that they be presented to an art gallery of Mrs. Manning's selection. She gave them to the North Carolina State Art Society Collection in 1949.

GREEN PEAS FRANCESS

Ingredients: 1 bunch (about 8 large) scallions, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1/2 cup boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 packages (each 10 ounces) frozen green peas, pepper.
Method: Cut root ends from scallions; remove leaf tips and any blemished leaves. Wash in cold water; drain. Cut scallions (including green leaves) into slanting thin 1-inch lengths; there should be 3 cups. Melt butter in 10-inch skillet; add scallions. Cook gently, stirring often, until wilted; remove with rubber spatula to retain butter. Add boiling water, salt and both packages of peas to skillet. Cover and boil gently until tender—no more than 5 minutes. (If peas are in block, break up before covering.) Drain peas; add onions to them in skillet along with pepper to taste and, if desired, extra butter; reheat. Makes 8 servings.

Too Eager To Accept Inferiority?

The idea apparently held by a good many Americans that the Soviet educational system is superior to that of the United States has been conveyed again by the student newspaper of the University of Missouri where 12 Soviet students have been visiting.

Says the student newspaper, the Soviet students are making monkeys out of their American colleagues. "American student minds here met the Russian minds and were defeated," the newspaper reported.

The conclusion apparently was based on the fact that Soviet students were much better informed on Soviet policies, both foreign and domestic, and in some instances American policies also than students at the University of Missouri. In this day and time when many Americans seem eager to concede that the Soviet system of education is superior to our own, the basis used by the student newspaper seems to be sufficient grounds for making such a concession.

But is it? In the United States we are seeking to educate not only the very talented young people, but the less talented as well. Our public school system touches every child . . . not just a selected few. Our system of higher education is open to all, not just to those who prove themselves to be well above average in intelligence.

Also to be taken into consideration is the fact that the Soviet students sent to the United States for display have been carefully hand-picked in Russia for that particular purpose. They have been well schooled from their early days in the Soviet philosophy as well as the propaganda line. And we'd bet our bottom dollar they were given an intensive refresher course concerning American and Soviet policies, history and government structure before they made the trip to the United States.

Perhaps some few Soviet students are much better informed in this particular field than the mass of American students. On the other hand, it is also a good bet that the United States could hand-pick and train a small group of students that could more than hold their own against the dozen Soviet visitors.

When the Russian Sputnik sailed aloft, there was a sudden cry in this country that the event was absolute proof the Soviet educational system was developing more good scientists, more good minds, more intelligent citizens than the American system. Since then a portion of the American public has appeared anxious to assert on every possible occasion that another isolated incident further proves the point that the Soviets are educating their youngsters better than we are.

The point is that we fail to look at the entire picture. We are prone to pick tiny specks of the overall picture and say, "Well, this proves it again."

On the whole, unfortunately, we're falling for this Soviet educational bait hook line and sinker. If they can persuade us to believe their educational system is superior to ours, they will persuade us to believe their citizens as a whole are more intelligent than ours. And if they succeed here, they will soon have us convincing ourselves that we are inferior in every way . . . and then they'll have us where they want us.

It's time we stopped selling ourselves short — educationally and otherwise — not overlooking our own shortcomings, but not magnifying out of proportion what the Soviets themselves are accomplishing.

More Material For Red Propaganda Machine

It is difficult to imagine that Americans, individually proud of their individual freedoms and adamant in their assertions of these freedoms would suggest that they are "slaves" to anyone.

Some members of the Steelworkers Union showed their resentment this week for the back to work order by wearing arm bands that proclaimed "USW of A lke's Slaves". The steelworkers themselves didn't believe the message conveyed by the arm bands, else they would have stayed away from their jobs just to assert their independence and exercise their individual freedoms. The people of this nation who saw the arm bands and read about them didn't believe what they said because they know that Americans are free to work or not as they please and exercise all the other privileges of free citizens of a free society.

In all probability, however, people of some foreign lands — particularly those behind the Iron Curtain — will believe the propaganda approach which will be taken to the incident by the Soviet government. We could hardly expect Moscow officials who have preached to their captive audience the sermon of Wall Street capitalists enslaving the American workers, of official Washington being overlords against the will of the American people, to pass up such an opportunity to make propaganda gains by this American incident.

As a steel company spokesman in Wheeling, W. Va. said concerning the arm bands, the union members are free to work or give up their jobs as they see fit. Certainly the matter is not that simple, but at least the statement gets down to the brass tacks of the situation.

In seeking to express their own side of the story, the steelworkers have afforded the Communist propaganda machine another golden opportunity to paint for the rest of the world a completely distorted picture of life in the United States.

It is an unfortunate incident for the steelworkers, the nation and the free world.

de Gaulle Role More Impressive

WASHINGTON (AP) — French President Charles de Gaulle, iron-willed at 68, acts like a man determined, if he has to, to take over the leadership of the West. He has already asserted this week the Frenchman, so proud he dislikes using reading glasses in public, dictated to his Western partners and the Soviet Union the time and conditions for a summit conference.

At an extraordinary news conference De Gaulle, who heads a second-rate power but persists in thinking of it in terms of grandeur, put on an amazing show of memory, calmness and strength.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's attitude toward a summit meeting has been: The sooner the better. President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev have seemed to favor such a meeting sooner rather than later.

But De Gaulle, after taking over a sagging France and giving it more stability than it has had since World War II, decided by himself that haste was unwise. He even put a stiff "if" on any summit conference at all.

Before there's a summit, he said, he must meet with Khrushchev in March; there must be an improvement in the international climate and the Western partners must be agreed on how to deal with Khrushchev.

And, just to be sure, he told Eisenhower and Macmillan his pre-summit get-together with them in December should be followed by another after he talks with Khrushchev in March.

This is only part of his statements at the news conference. They ranged from pensions for French veterans of World War I to a prediction the Chinese Communists would ultimately be

In the end De Gaulle may have proved extremely wise in insisting upon complete preparations for the summit. Otherwise, he even put a stiff "if" wise, he warned, the summit may turn into disaster.

B. J. Cutler, the New York Herald Tribune's Paris reporter who attended the news conference, said that because De Gaulle does not want to use reading glasses in public, he memorized 45 minutes of statistics-packed answers to questions he had anticipated. It was a fantastic memory feat, as you will have noticed if you read the text.

What De Gaulle said, and the way he said it, had a sweep, a nobility, and an absolute kind of articulateness which this writer has not seen in the text of a news conference by the head of any government in years.

The use of the word extraordinary to describe the news conference was justified by the word picture of it given by Crosby Noyes, writing from Paris for the Washington Evening Star.

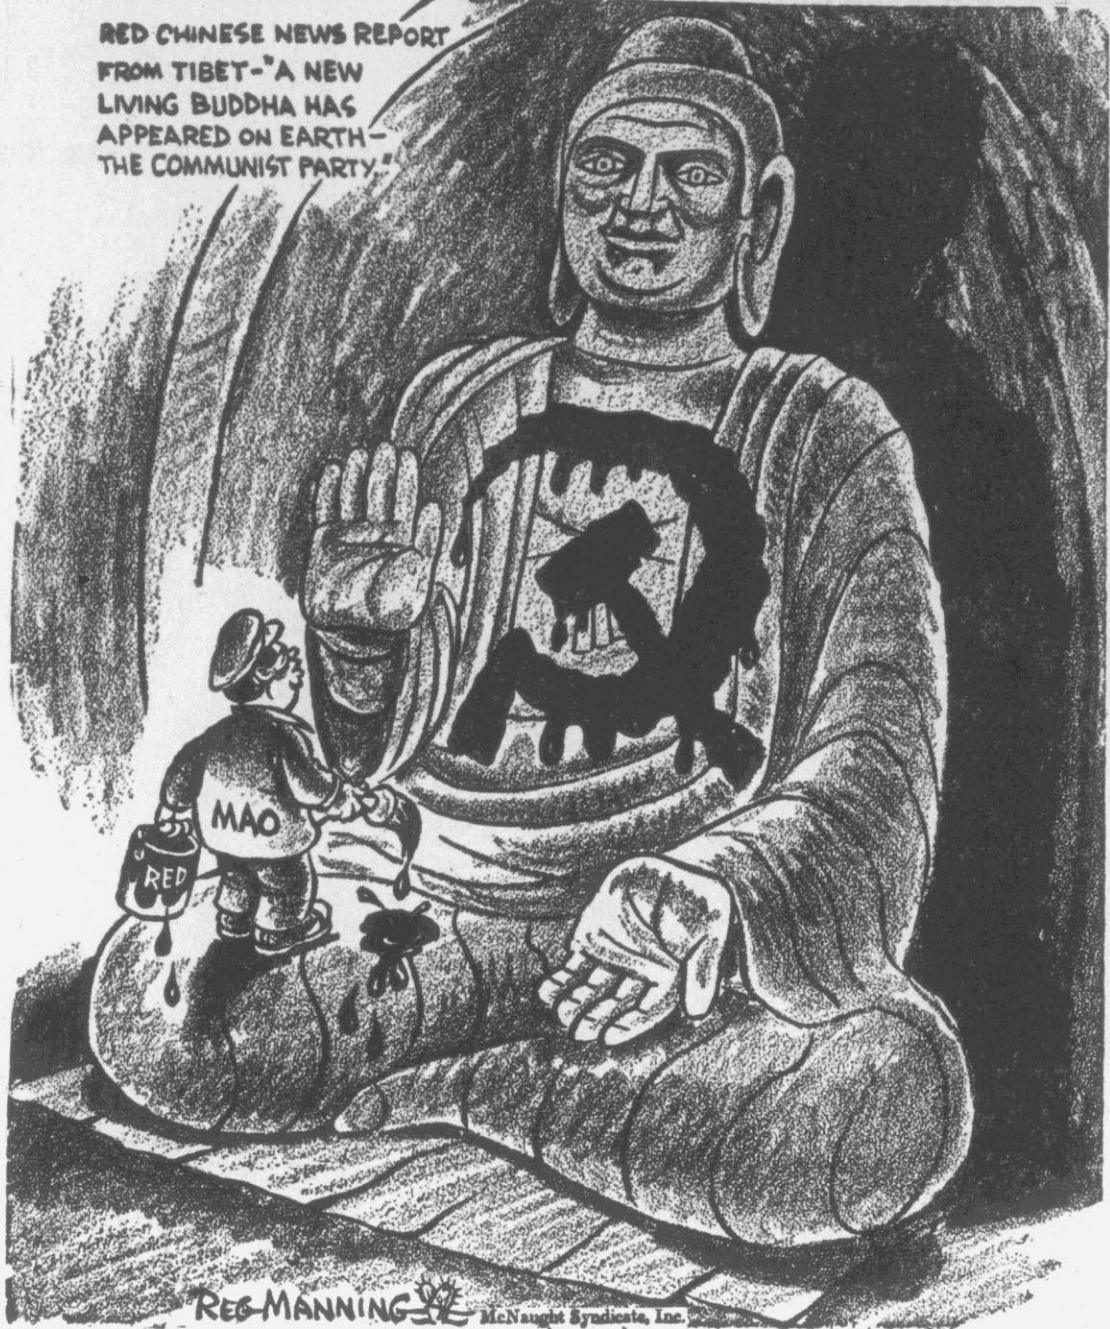

It was held in the great hall of Elysee Palace with its fantastic gingerbread ceiling, crystal chandeliers, and gobelin tapestries, he said. The 700 invited newsmen settled themselves on gilt Louis XV chairs with pink seats.

Most of the diplomatic and literary world was there, as were members of the President's household and the Cabinet.

Exactly on time the gold brocade curtains parted. De Gaulle

Wreck Was Undetected

A friend, who would probably wring our neck if we reveal the name, finally broke down and told of a wreck he had a year or so ago which never got in the papers.

Seems this man made a short turn at a corner attempting to sneak into a parking space.

In doing so, he clipped the fire hydrant on the corner.

"It made so much noise, I thought everybody down town heard," he said.

But he pulled his car into a parking space and got out. Luckily, no one was paying much attention to it except one lady who stopped at the hydrant as the driver walked up.

The hydrant was undamaged but there was some car paint on it and a piece of chrome was hanging from it.

"Look," said the lady to the driver. "Somebody has hit this hydrant."

"They sure have," replied our friend. "Here, I'll just take this piece of chrome and throw it in my car."

With that he got in his auto and headed for a garage and repairs for the vehicle.

Today, of course, is Friday the 13th and everybody knows that that means—bad luck all day!

If this has been an unusually unlucky year there's a reason for it.

There have been three Friday the 13ths during 1959.

The first one came in February. The world had hardly recovered from that one when they were hit another. This one came in March. We've had a rest since then, but here comes November and another such day.

Last year wasn't half as bad. There was only one Friday the 13th during 1958.

And the prospects for 1960 are much better. A look at the calendar shows one Friday, 13th. In case you want to make your plans early, the hard luck day comes in May of 1960.

But for 1959 there was just no avoiding them. Friday the 13th just came too often for the average superstitious soul.

Oh well, if it weren't that it would be black cats or ladders in your path.

Many folks don't realize that firemen make lots of runs to which they are not summoned by the fire whistle atop City Hall.

We spotted a truck at Third and Evans St. yesterday on just such a run.

Someone had seen smoke coming from a car parked there. The truck was called by telephone.

The fire fighters pulled a smoldering quilt from the front seat of the car and extinguished it with water from the truck's tank.

They also had to extinguish the smoldering front seat of the car which had caught from the quilt.

Best guess was that a cigarette started the fire.

The President at a news conference this summer said any decision about taking an apartment in Washington when he leaves office would be up to Mrs. Eisenhower. He suggested "You had better get some of your lady reporter friends to go and talk to her about it."

A lady reporter tried, but couldn't get through by phone to Mrs. Eisenhower.

But Mollie Parnis, New York dress designer who has provided clothes for Mrs. Eisenhower since pre-White House days, says she gets through without any trouble.

Mrs. Eisenhower likes to discuss her personal things, says Mollie, and "she gets on the phone herself" to talk over the dress problems.

As a customer, Mollie Parnis finds Mamie the "easiest, kindest, most considerate, and least temperamental."

Mrs. Eisenhower is protected, too, by her social secretary, Mary Jane McCaffree, an ex-New Yorker who got her training as executive secretary to top businessmen. Every inquiry about Mrs. Eisenhower has to go through Mrs. McCaffree, who brushes off virtually every one of a personal nature.

Mamie Retains Privacy

By FRANCES LEWINE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Mamie Eisenhower, who will be 63 Saturday, has managed to keep a private life of her own during the seven years she has been in the White House.

By the time her birthday rolls around next year, her successor as first lady will have been named.

From all indications, Mamie won't be sorry to relinquish the role.

She has not sought, as Eleanor Roosevelt did, to be a national figure in her own right.

Nor, like Bess Truman, has she openly evidenced dislike for the social and public appearances that go with being first lady.

She has kept her own public appearances to a minimum. She never makes speeches, she holds no news conferences or press interviews and accepts few outside invitations.

Her unofficial White House comings and goings are not disclosed. During the Eisenhower administration, the traditional White House social season has been whittled down and finally was eliminated entirely this year.

This elaborate entertaining for Congress, Supreme Court, diplomats, military and officialdom once brought thousands to the White House for receptions and formal dinners. It probably won't be revived in the remaining years of the Eisenhowers' tenure.

For the entertaining she has done, Mrs. Eisenhower has gained a reputation as a gracious hostess at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. She charms guests and visitors with her ready smile, just the right inquiry, pleasantries and flattering comment.

Ceremonially, Mamie has appeared with the President and has gone out on her own for such things as the christening this year of the atomic-powered passenger-cargo ship Savannah.

Beyond these public and semi-public appearances, though, the world of Mrs. Eisenhower is private.

Secrecy and security have been employed through the years to give Mrs. Eisenhower some privacy. Everyone from chauffeurs to chefs at the White House is under a no-talking rule.

Mrs. Eisenhower has found a private and secluded vacation spot at Elizabeth Arden's Maline Chance health and beauty resort near Phoenix, Ariz. She went there in February 1958 and 1959 and may go again early in 1960.

Mrs. Eisenhower's only other trips without the President have been to Denver to visit her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, 81.

Her most frequent companion—traveling and at home—is her only sister, Frances (Mike) Moore, wife of businessman-broker, ex-Army officer George Gordon Moore.

Mrs. Eisenhower is protected, too, by her social secretary, Mary Jane McCaffree, an ex-New Yorker who got her training as executive secretary to top businessmen. Every inquiry about Mrs. Eisenhower has to go through Mrs. McCaffree, who brushes off virtually every one of a personal nature.

Mrs. Eisenhower likes to discuss her personal things, says Mollie, and "she gets on the phone herself" to talk over the dress problems.

As a customer, Mollie Parnis finds Mamie the "easiest, kindest, most considerate, and least temperamental."

Mrs. Eisenhower is protected, too, by her social secretary, Mary Jane McCaffree, an ex-New Yorker who got her training as executive secretary to top businessmen. Every inquiry about Mrs. Eisenhower has to go through Mrs. McCaffree, who brushes off virtually every one of a personal nature.

The President at a news conference this summer said any decision about taking an apartment in Washington when he leaves office would be up to Mrs. Eisenhower. He suggested "You had better get some of your lady reporter friends to go and talk to her about it."

Other Editors Saying . . . Too Easy On Robbers

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

It may startle some of us to realize that bank robberies now are far outstripping those in the years generally associated with the John Dillinger era when public enemies and gangsters were on the rampage. FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says such crimes have recently been running far ahead of the gangster era of the 1930s.

During the fiscal year ending last June 30, banks and savings and loan associations were victimized by robberies or thefts on an average of more than twice daily. And says Hoover: "There is every indication that we are well on the way to witnessing in 1960 an even more appalling record of violations."

Before 1958, the previous high year for this type of crime was indeed in the days of Dillinger—1932, when some 600 robberies and thefts occurred. In 1958, however, there were an alarming 631 such crimes, and 1959 far surpassed that figure when there were 764 violations.

What to do about this problem? Well, the FBI director advocates maximum penalties for bank criminals. There's a good reason for wanting this. A recent FBI survey shows about 50 per cent of some 200 bank robberies were committed by hardened, experienced criminals and another 25 per cent by persons with minor police records. Obviously, then, the punishment meted out to these criminals had no effect whatsoever, or was far too lenient, insofar as length of sentence was concerned.

In this respect, Hoover points out: "The amateur bank robbers and thieves, from every social class from every walk of life, assuredly are not discouraged from lusting for so-called 'easy money' if some professional robbers are given a slap on the wrist by courts after committing one of the most vicious of crimes."

To a potential bank robber, Hoover continues, the crime is a gamble—he gambles his freedom or his life for sudden wealth. Then he sees the professional hardened criminal make a strike and escape severe punishment. The odds, he may conclude, are higher in his favor.

Until the inveterate "gamblers" are made to pay maximum penalties, we can see no abatement in these crimes, Hoover warns. In other words, we can accomplish a two-fold purpose by being tough on bank robbers. First, by long sentences the tough pro is put out of circulation. Second, an editorial from the Washington Daily News, an editorial which is ludicrous in, in so far as it is taken seriously, dangerously inimical to the purposes of higher education. One can suppose that the Daily News has followed the advice of its editorial writer and rewarded incompetence, but why did you choose to follow his example?

Corporation Income Increases

By ELMER ROESSNER

The net income of 785 major corporations in the July-September period was $10,786,000 higher than the corresponding quarter in 1958, a National City Bank study shows.

This is a small gain, being less than 1 per cent of the 1958 figure of $2,558,122,000, and is actually $27,123,000 less than the second quarter total of $3,596,031,000.

The second-to-third-quarter dip is partly due to the steel and other strikes. On this basis, profits for the last three months of the year will probably show an even greater drop from the second quarter. The total decline may be around 50 per cent.

Even though the steel strike has been temporarily suspended, there will be little or no profits for steel companies and steel users between now and the end of the year. And other strikes persist and more are brewing.

COMPARISON BY INDUSTRIES

Of the 785 corporations reported upon, only one group—32 iron and steel companies—reported a net loss. It was $108,366,000.

However, net income of many other industries declined from the second to third quarters.

Thirty-one auto and parts companies showed a decline of 65 per cent; 19 other transportation equipment companies showed a drop of 60 per cent, and 54 railroads registered a 52 per cent decline.

Other drops: 23 mining and quarrying companies, down 39 per cent; 109 companies making metal products other than machinery, down 15 per cent; 8 tire and rubber products companies, down 14 per cent; 17 service and amusement companies, down 12 per cent; and 35 retail and wholesale trade corporations, down 9 per cent. A number of other groups had smaller declines.

Only six groups showed gains. They were: 31 drug, soap and chemical companies, up 35 per cent; 36 electrical equipment, radio and TV companies, up 12 per cent; 29 petroleum products and refining companies, up 10 per cent; 56 miscellaneous manufacturing companies, up 11 per cent; 10 tobacco products companies, up 7 per cent, and 39 food products and beverages companies, up 1 per cent.

NINE-MONTHS COMPARISONS

A comparison of net profits for the first nine months of the year compared with the same 1958 months was more impressive. The total gain was 36 per cent. The biggest gain was by the 31 auto and parts companies; up 233 per cent; that is, from $384,692,000 to $1,241,936,000. Twenty-eight textile and apparel companies registered a gain of 110 per cent.

Other large gains: 8 tire and rubber companies, up 70 per cent; 37 chemical products, up 62 per cent; 52 cement, glass and stone companies, up 44 per cent; 109 nonmachinery metal products, up 39 per cent; 32 iron and steel companies (the same ones now taking a licking) up 32 per cent. Only one group showed a decline. Nineteen transport equipment corporations other than autos, were down 44 per cent.

REFRIGERATORS GAIN POPULARITY IN ITALY

The refrigerator, once a rarity in Italy, is now a hot item (excuse the metaphor). Production last year was 420,000 units, double that of 1957. At the Milan Fair this year, models carried price tags about a third lower than three years ago. Most refrigerators are made domestically under licenses of American firms.

NEW IDEAS THREATENING PUBLIC SALES RESISTANCE

The celebrated fashion writer, Marian Rahl, is applying for a patent on a man's tie with a built-in eye-glass wiper on the underside of the tie point. . . The proprietors of the Cheese Joint in Sodas, N.Y., have registered the trademark, "Heluva Cheese."

Faithful Unto Death

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 6-7.

The number of the disciples of Christ multiplied. Some Greeks among them complained that their widows were not fairly treated.

Among the seven chosen was Stephen, "A man full of faith and of the Holy Ghost." After praying, the apostles laid their hands upon these men, consecrating them.—Acts 6:5-6.

There were certain men in the synagogue who "were not able to resist the wisdom and spirit by which Stephen spake." They hired wicked men to swear he blasphemed.—Acts 6:9-14.

These men stoned Stephen. Before he died he "kneeling down, and cried with a loud voice, Lord, lay not this sin to their charge."—Acts 7:59-60. MEMORY VERSE—Revelation 2:10.

Faithful Unto Death

THE CHARACTER AND DEATH OF THE FIRST MARTYR OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Scripture—Acts 6-7.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

"AND IN those days, when the number of the disciples was multiplied, there arose a murmuring of the Grecians against the Hebrews, because their widows were neglected in the daily ministration."—Acts 6:1.

This complaint disturbed the good apostles, and they decided to do something about it, and they asked: "Wherefore, brethren, look ye out among you seven men of honest report, full of the Holy Ghost and wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business. But we will give ourselves continually to prayer, and to the ministry of the word."—Acts 6:3-4.

This pleased the whole multitude, and they chose Stephen, a man full of faith and of the Holy Ghost, and six others, whom they set before the apostles: and when they had prayed, they laid their hands on them.—Acts 6:5-6. "And Stephen, full of faith and power, did great wonders and miracles among the people."—Acts 6:8.

"Then there arose certain of the synagogue, which is called the synagogue of the Libertines, and Cyrenians, and Alexandrians, and of them of Cilicia and of Asia, disputing with Stephen. And they were not able to resist the wisdom and the spirit which he spake. Then they suborned (to induce to commit perjury) men, which said, 'We have heard him speak blasphemous words against Moses, and against God.'—Acts 6:9-11.

Christ told us to "love our enemies, do good to them that hate you. Bless them that curse you, and pray for them that despitefully use you."—St. Luke 6:28.

We read in our newspapers sometimes about someone who has a grievance against another and takes a terrible revenge, even causing death to this "enemy." Let us search our hearts to see if we hold vengeful thoughts against anyone, and kneel down and ask God for strength to turn our thoughts to blessings for that person.

This, I think, is the important lesson to be impressed on both small children and older ones in our classes, striving always to follow Christ's teaching. We will thus be much happier ourselves, and become the type of people that the world today needs badly.

Will Push Fight To Share Estate NEW YORK (AP)—Blonde Beverly Aadland, teen-age companion of the late Errol Flynn, arrived here Wednesday night to continue her fight for part of the actor's estate.

She arrived by plane from the West Coast clad in tight-fitting cardi pants, a black velvet jacket and open-toed sandals. The shapely 17-year-old said she would try to find what she called the missing page of a document bequeathing her a third of Flynn's $1 1/2-million-dollar Jamaica property. She was not mentioned in his 1954 will, which left the bulk of his estate to his widow, actress Patrice Wymore, and his children.

Noyes contrasted De Gaulle's idea of a news conference with that of some Western political leaders. "There's no question who is in control," he said. "For De Gaulle it is simply an opportunity to say exactly what he wants to say with the enormous precision of a man who has memorized the answers down to the last detail."

Something Need Repairing? The Yellow Pages of Your Telephone Directory TELL WHO CAN DO IT! Leder Bros DEPARTMENT STORES

Cooperation Gives Local Boys Rifle Club

Under the strict supervision and painstaking instruction of a Greenville machinist and a local U. S. Army Reservist, the local Optimist Club has begun a sponsorship of a local rifle club for boys between the ages of 12 and 18, inclusive.

The machinist, Gene Ward, was a major factor in the origination of the group last June. Since that time, Ward has been on hand at each weekly meeting to help with instruction.

Sgt. John H. Schnauffer, a Chattanooga, Tenn., native and Small Arms Advisor at the local Reserve unit here, has cooperated with Ward in holding the weekly gatherings at the Reserve armory near the Greenville-Pitt County Airport.

Ward and Sgt. Schnauffer work closely together in providing adequate time and equipment to permit every boy to get his shooting in every week. In addition to the actual target practice, both the sergeant and Ward agree that the most important phase of handling firearms is that of safety.

Safety Stressed

After establishing confidence that he is capable of handling a rifle, the club members are completely versed on safety "muzz" when using firearms. In the near future, according to Ward, plans are to divide the amount of time spent by the young marksmen usually between actual target practice and classroom instruction stressing safety measures.

"Safety," says Sgt. Schnauffer (and Ward wholeheartedly agrees), "is the all-important requirement for persons handling firearms."

Membership Grows

After a mediocre beginning during the last month, attendance and membership has begun to climb rapidly for the local marksman club. Ward says the group plans to join the National Rifle Association (NRA) as soon as membership has reached "about 25 or 30." Ultimately, the membership goal of the club is 50 boys.

Upon NRA affiliation, the group will be furnished a rifle (the ones being used are .22 calibre pieces) for each 10 members. A membership of 50 would, of course, provide the club with five additional rifles.

Four Burned In Hospital Blaze

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Four persons suffered burns and 18 patients of one ward were evacuated today when fire broke out in the offices of Doctors Hospital here.

The fire, which sent smoke hundreds of feet into the air and visible in downtown Columbus, was caused by an accident during a repair job.

Three workmen were welding a copper pipe in a small space above a false ceiling of the first floor, and above the telephone switchboard room. Fumes from a can of adhesive material caught fire from a torch, the torch overturned and kept spreading the fire.

Eighteen children in a pediatric ward on the second floor, ranging from 6 to 16 years of age, were moved to a newly completed wing and a fire door was closed to keep the flames from spreading. Some of the patients had to be carried.

Mae Mondox, 50, a telephone operator; George E. Ridgeway, 25; Wilbur Miller, 25; and Stoner Hatton, 30, the workmen, were taken to the hospital's emergency room for treatment of burns.

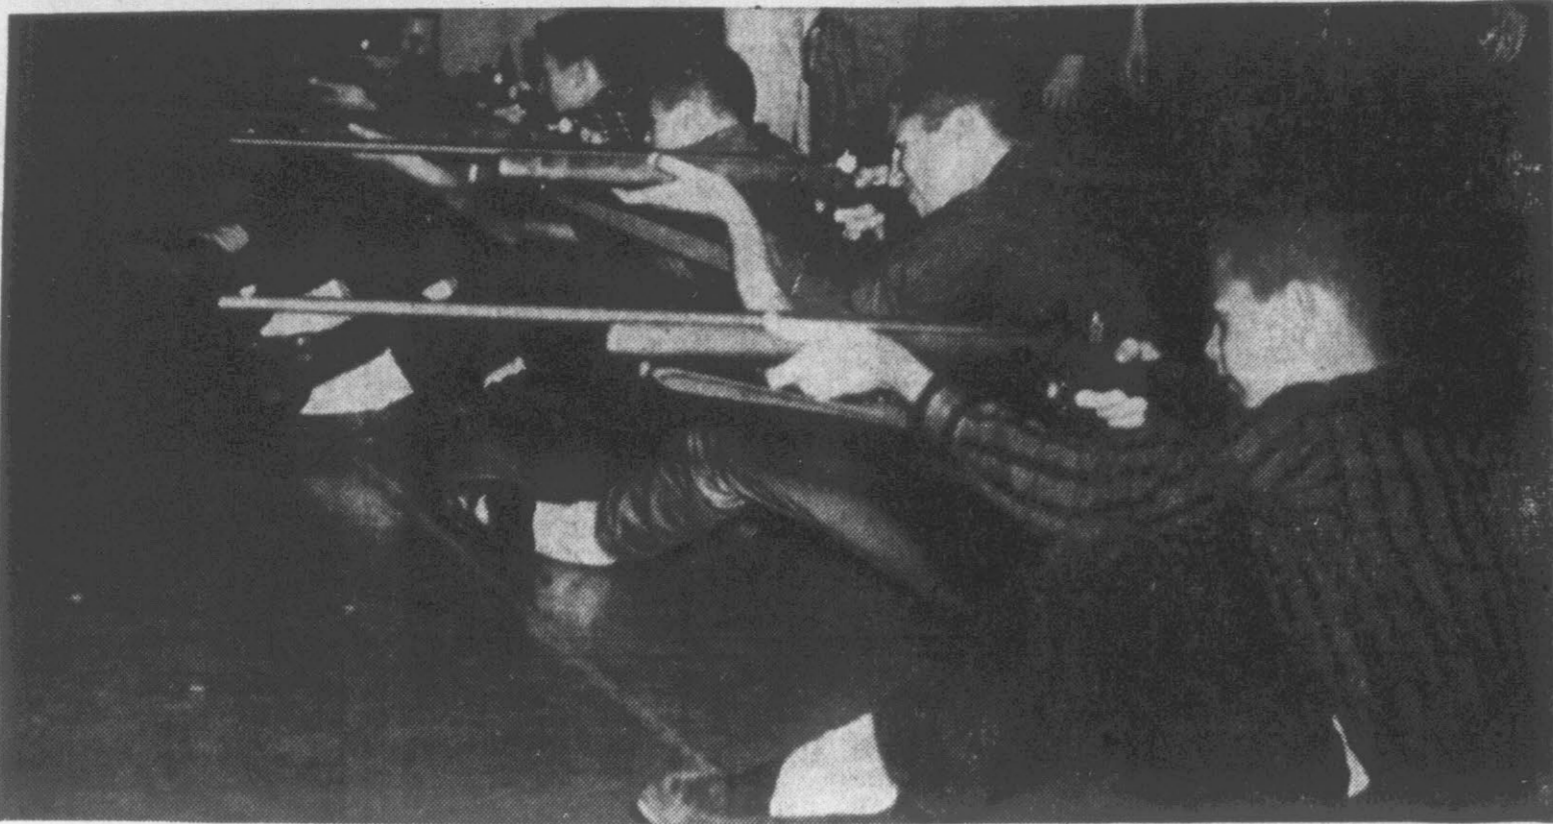

The fire broke out shortly after 9 a.m., and was placed under control in 20 minutes.

Great-Grandma Is Only Aged 47

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Isabel Costa, a great-grandmother although only 47, cuddled 8-day-old Thomas Preston Jr. at a four-generation family get-together Wednesday.

Tommy's mother, Wanda Jean Preston, is the 14½-year-old wife of Thomas Preston, 25.

Tommy's maternal grandmother, Beatrice Wiesner, now 31, became a mother at 15. Her mother, great-grandmother Costa, was a mother at 16 and a grandmother at 28.

TEENAGE MARKSMEN . . . draw a bead on targets 50 feet away. Shooting five at a time, each club member gets an opportunity weekly on the "firing line".

Other plans for the fledgling organization include the institution of competitive shooting matches with other towns having similar NRA clubs (such as Rocky Mount, which has a highly-organized group).

The local group will elect its own officers and will operate its own organization, adopt its own by-laws, assign its own dues (if any), and other such activities.

Reserve Cooperates

An acute problem faced the young riflemen at the outset. Where could they get rifles, ammunition, and targets? The local Army Reserve had the answer.

With the cooperation of Sgt. Schnauffer and Greenville area Commander Lt. Col. Beverly B. Brockdorff, the Reserve unit furnished the armory for the meetings, the rifles, the ammunition, and the targets and traps.

Since its origination, with combined efforts of the Reserve, Ward, Schnauffer and the Optimist Club, the club has held a meeting each and every Thursday.

Optimist-Sponsored

Following affiliation with the NRA, which will be backed up by the local Optimists, the young riflemen will be formally organized and ready, after sufficient practice, to begin competition.

The Optimist group will then begin to supply targets and ammunition and plans to provide shooting jackets and gloves (a type of uniform for the "varsity" to wear in competitive matches).

Top Supervision

The two instructors are well qualified for the job. Ward has been a sportsman for a number of years and is personally affiliated with the NRA. Sgt. Schnauffer, during his career with the Army, has been a member of several crack service rifle teams to compete at Camp Perry, Ohio, the site of the national rifle matches each year.

Both men are devoting several hours every week to the program and the fruits of their efforts are beginning to rapidly mushroom.

Both are highly optimistic over the way the youngsters have responded and neither regrets "a single minute of the time we've spent with the boys."

Amputated Arm After Mishap

ALMA, Ga. (AP) — "I cut a little bit at first just to see how bad it would hurt. All the feeling was gone, and it didn't hurt a bit. So I started working away."

Thus did Henry Ahl, 47, tell how he began amputating his left arm between the wrist and elbow when it became entangled in a corn-picking machine at his farm near Alma. The accident occurred last Thursday, and Ahl described his 30-minute ordeal from his hospital bed Wednesday.

Ahl rode a tractor part of the way to his farmhouse, a half-mile distant after his pen-knife surgery. A neighbor met him and carried him to the Bacon County Hospital where his condition was reported as good.

CLOSE SUPERVISION . . . by Ward (left) and Sgt. Schnauffer (right) make the valuable training unerringly safe as two junior riflemen fire away at targets in background.

Marlene Dietrich Finally Gives In To Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Marlene Dietrich, a television hold-out all these years, finally has given in. She has signed for a one-hour color special called "Dietrich in Paris," to be filmed in an opening night of her forthcoming appearance in the French capital.

"It has been very difficult to find a vehicle," confided the glamorous grandmother. "But in this case, I'm playing my show anyway. This prevents a lot of complications."

"Usually, when you are signing to do something in television, everybody hopes for the best and is full of ideas. Then later, the ideas are forgotten, even if intentions are still the best. That is particularly true when you are involved with music and singing. This way, I know what I'm doing."

Miss Dietrich feels she has insured her show by inviting Orson Welles to produce it.

Film cameras will cover Miss Dietrich's opening night performance at Paris' Etoile Theater while she sings many of the songs with which she is associated — "Falling in Love Again," "The Boys in the Back Room," and her nightclub opener, "Look Me Over Closely."

"I wouldn't have agreed to it if Orson hadn't been free," she says. "Because a show like this is going to need a lot of imagination."

Actually, Miss Dietrich has signed with a TV producing company and negotiations are under way for a sponsor, who shouldn't be hard to find.

If Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell's hat-eating performance this week was any indication, what the administration now needs is Ernie Kovacs, a great practitioner of the sight gag. The cake hat made a good photograph for the newspapers, but the sight of the secretary cutting up a mocha confection while making a serious speech about the effects of the steel strike was a sight TV advisor Robert Montgomery might have vetoed.

Sports Scope

It may be superstition, black magic, or witchcraft, but its a proven fact that a rainy Friday brings with it a Saturday night football defeat for East Carolina gridders.

Ironically enough, it has rained five Fridays during the fall season and the Bucs have tasted defeat on each occasion. Their four victories have come as the results of dry weather on the eve of their playing date.

Rain or no rain, the Bucs are expected to junk the season-long "jinx" Saturday night when they run up against Newport News. Despite their loss to Lenoir Rhyne, the game proved to be a morale-builder for the club and they are eager to take their bitterness out on the Virginia visitors.

Field Two Top Backs

The 1959 season has produced some exciting moments for fans and East Carolina's halfback duo of James Speight and Glenn Bass will rank along side with the greatest of Pirate halfbacks.

Boasting lightning speed, the two have paced the North State Conference in rushing all season and are strong candidates for All-Conference honors. Bass, a junior, is also one of the top scorers in the conference.

Speight, although not ranking as high in total touchdowns, has had his best season as a Pirate. The Greenville native has not only excelled as a runner but has been a standout blocker and defensive back. He was weak in both phases of the game prior to this fall.

One of the Pirate's "feared twosome" has all but clinched the conference rushing title and the final two games will just see them add to their total which could near the 1,000 yard mark.

Greenville Has New Hope

Developments during the week and announcement this morning has given the Greenville Phantoms new hope for a possible conference title.

Tarboro, the newest member in the conference, was unable to schedule Kinston this season and their games with loop opposition was ruled out. The decision erased Greenville's loss to Tarboro and elevated them into second place, breathing hard on the neck of pacesetter Washington.

The Phants will need a victory over Roanoke Rapids tonight and also at Kinston next week to stay in the title picture. However, Washington could wrap up the title tonight with a win over Jacksonville in their season finale.

If the two clubs finish in a tie, a play-off game would be necessary and nothing could please Greenville fans any more. Washington caught the Phants (Continued on page eight)

HE RE-GREW HAIR

Before Erickson Treatment

A Few Months Later

Kenneth Fryer shows that he not only saved his hair but that he re-grew it in only a few months as a result of Erickson Home Treatment method.

Scalp Specialist Here Tomorrow; Will Show How to Save Hair and Prevent Baldness

Now is the time to carry out that long delayed resolution to "Do something about your hair." Tomorrow only, November 14, in Greenville, N. C. at the Proctor Hotel, Staff Director J. L. Cannady, representing the famous Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists, will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1:30 to 8:30 p.m. Now in its seventh consecutive year, the Erickson organization makes regular visits to your city throughout the year.

CHECK YOURSELF

- Make this simple test
() Excessive dandruff
() Itchy scalp
() Excessive oiliness
() Excessive dryness
() Too much hair in comb
() Too much hair fall in shampoo
() Hair thin at temples or crown

If you have checked even ONE of these items, make plans now to see Mr. J. L. Cannady.

Don't Put It Off
Now is the time to act while results of this simple test are fresh in your mind. Don't be misled by the old wives tales about no prevention for baldness being possible; baldness being hereditary; maturity being the age of baldness. Modern research has turned up methods of helping tens of thousands to prevent baldness—methods so simple that you can put them in practice at home.

Examination Free

You incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination. Your only obligation is to yourself. We'll tell you frankly if there's no chance of helping you. We do not accept helpless cases. Less than 3% of those who used the Erickson home treatment requested a refund. In fact, last year alone, over a quarter-million Erickson treatments were used.

12 Month Guarantee

You will be given a written guarantee for the length of treatment or 12 months, whichever is greater.

For your FREE hair and scalp examination, go to the Proctor Hotel between 1:30 and 8:30 p.m. Saturday only, November 14, and ask for the room number of Mr. J. L. Cannady. He does not make appointments, so come at your convenience. Examinations are all given in private. You will not be embarrassed in any way.

Greenville Still In Battle For Loop Title; Journey To Roanoke Rapids Tonight

x-Tarboro's games against conference teams do not count in standings.

Greenville's Phantoms may have their heart and soul at Roanoke Rapids tonight but their eyes may well be focused at Washington and the outcome of the Pam Pack-Jacksonville contest.

Overnight activity saw a Greenville conference less erased and the Phants emerge in second place and the only team remaining with a chance to overtake pacesetter Washington. That lone breath of life in the Greenies camp was dim and hinged on a lot of "ifs" as Coach Bud Phillips and his squad boarded the bus for Roanoke Rapids and a rugged night game with the Yellow Jackets.

Greenville (3-1) has games remaining with the Jackets and Kinston but would need victories in both to gain a possible tie for the crown. Washington (5-0) could wrap up the title tonight with a victory over stubborn Jacksonville (3-1-1).

Since overcoming an almost "team-wrecking" flu epidemic, Coach Phillips has rallied his club and only a 13-9 defeat by Wilson, defending 4-A champions, has blocked the badly burnt comeback trail.

In a losing cause, the Greenville outfit outplayed their larger and more experienced neighbors from Wilson last week but it was in vain. Yet, the defeat came to one of the state's best prep football clubs and should have gone a long way in preparing the Phants for the remainder of the conference season.

Alan McArthur, the little sophomore halfback who continues to amaze foes with his triple-threat ability, will be steered to pace the locals attack tonight. Hard-running Wayne Sumner and Robin Wilfong will round out the Phantom backfield which is listed as "full of power and speed".

Erskine Duff, becoming better each game, will direct the attack. Past games have unveiled Duff as a passing threat with such receivers as McArthur, Skip Wright, and Bert Aycock making good targets.

Phillip's will rely on another good effort from his stout defensive linemen, Louis Dail, Lawrence Davenport, Bill Wade, Jeff Fountain, Reggie Johnson will be just a few called on to plug up the center of the Phant line tonight.

With interest building up to a boiling point in tonight's contest, a bus has been chartered for the out-of-town clash and Greenville is expected to be well represented in Roanoke Rapids by the 8:00 kickoff.

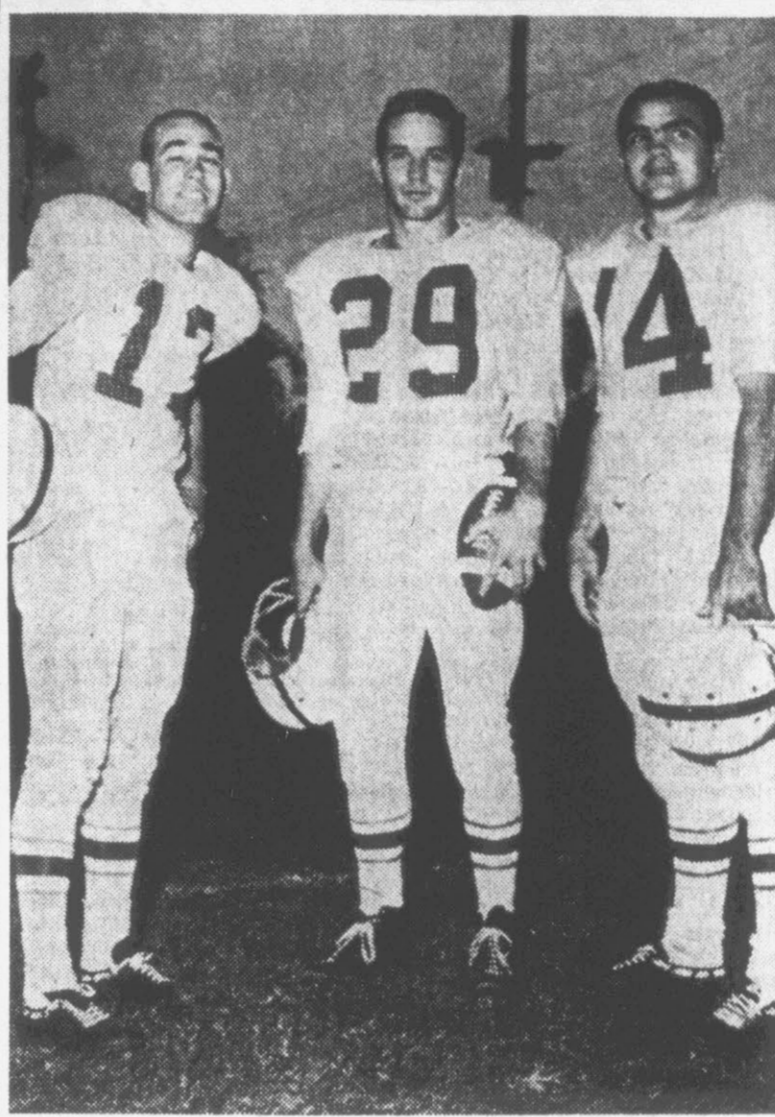

Little activity is called for in the Northeastern loop tonight with only the Greenville-Roanoke Rapids and Washington-Jacksonville drawing any attention. Kinston will be at New Bern and Elizabeth City at Ahoskie in other games.

Navy Schedules Grid Revision

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) - Navy plans to revise its football recruiting program and shift the emphasis from quantity to quality. Asst. Athletic Director E. E. (Rip) Miller said Thursday night.

"We've got to cut down on the number of boys we've been working on and concentrate harder on those top level ones we know can make the grade scholastically as well as athletically," said Miller, who directs Navy's recruiting program.

The Middies have a 3-4-1 record so far in Wayne Hardin's first year as head coach. They have games remaining with George Washington and Army.

ECC SENIORS . . . Quarterback Ralph Zehring, halfback James Speight, and quarterback Jerry Carpenter will be playing their last home game for the Pirates tomorrow night. The Bucs close out their home season against Newport News.

Seniors Play Last Game

Wommack To Be Featured At ECC-Newport News Tilt

By JOHNNY HUDSON Reflector Sports Editor

Greenville and East Carolina College will have the distinction of having one of the top notch southern entertainers in town Saturday night when East Carolina College plays host to Newport News Apprentice School in the final home football game of the season.

The added attraction to the final home game of the campaign is Jim Wommack, a leading expert in fireworks. Wommack works out of Greensboro and has gained recognition for his shows throughout the south.

The name Wommack is no complete stranger to East Carolina fans, having performed here last year. Despite a rainy Saturday, Wommack put on a fireworks display that shook Pitt County and sent spectators home with the name of Wommack and his production still on the tip of their tongue.

For his show this season, the Greensboro visitor is hoping for a dry night so he can "really show the fans something". In correspondence with East Carolina's Coach Jack Boone, Wommack has promised a spectacular and explosive display of fireworks.

His most conspicuous performance has been at the annual prep East-West game which is held in Greensboro. He has helped in making the All-Star Game one of the top drawing cards in North Carolina football.

The East Carolina Athletic Department has worked hard during the week, preparing for his show and getting state-wide publicity of his appearance. Athletic officials have stated that a large crowd is expected for the final game of the season since the attendance at the last two games has been cut short due to rain.

The performance by the Pirates last week against the nation's number one small college, Lenoir Rhyne, has also given the interest in ECC football a shot in the arm. Only a small flock of students and fans turned out for the expected one-sided contest which was played in mud and cold weather. Radio Station WOOW was carrying the play-by-play of the game and by halftime several more hundred had turned out for what developed into one of the best games in the history of East Carolina football.

Like birds in the wilderness, East Carolina is hungry for victory and is expected to take their bitterness out on Newport News Saturday night. Adding to what could be a terrible fate, Newport News runs from the single wing. The visitors boast one of their stronger clubs although rating a two-touchdown underdog to the revamped Pirate eleven. Newport enters the ECC game with a season record of 4-2-1.

Coach Jack Boone got three of his "cripples" back in action last week and it was all that was needed to give the Bucs a potent two unit squad which went right to work against the "big, bad and lucky Bears".

The results produced by the "stop-um" unit, which consisted of several freshmen, were rewarding Gametime for the final home game at ECC is scheduled to begin at 8:00.

to Boone and his staff and made the future look a little brighter. With the "stop-um" eleven able to play noteworthy defensive ball, Boone has a chance to give his explosive offensive unit a shot rest.

Tomorrow's game will mark the final home appearance for the 1959 EC contingent and no less than twelve seniors will be performing before the home crowd for the final time.

The "darling" to Greenville fans, James Speight, will finish up what will go down in history as a phenomenal career — both as a prep star and grid performer for the Buccaneers. Last week, he established an individual rushing record at the college and tomorrow will be trying to add yardage to the mark which should stand for years to come.

Other backfield stars that will hear the tune of their alma mater for the last time will be quarterbacks Jerry Carpenter and Ralph Zehring and halfback Walkie Hanford.

The losses in the line will be heavy and will leave a strenuous recruiting problem for the Pirate coaching staff in 1960. Co-captains Ed Emory and Bill Cain head the list of senior lettermen but others of equal value include Lynn Barnett, David Thomas, C. J. Browne, Howard Beale, James Gordon, and Johnny Wake.

Another football season with all its color and memories will draw to a close for East Carolina fans tomorrow night but the game will be a big one in the eyes of the seniors and eager yearlings who have just been promoted to the varsity squad.

State Faces UCLA On Coast Tonight

Two Atlantic Coast Conference teams opened the football weekend tonight, playing in the tourist meccas of Florida and California.

But there will be no time for rubbernecking for North Carolina State, which faces UCLA in the Coliseum, and South Carolina, which meets Miami in the Orange Bowl.

Three conference games are set Saturday. They pit up-and-coming Maryland at Clemson, Wake Forest at Duke and Virginia at North Carolina.

South Carolina (5-2) and Miami (4-3) appeared a tossup. The Gamecocks present a stout defense which has yielded only 628 yards in seven games; a steady ground offense which has averaged 221.7 yards per game; and the ability to break out with the long touchdown plays.

Miami operates around quarterback Fran Curci, a 152-pound sparkplug who may have to take to the air to get by the rugged South Carolina defense.

North Carolina State, its trip to the coast the longest in the school's history, enters the game with a 1-6 record which includes six straight defeats. State, plagued with bad luck and injuries, could be called one of the best losing teams in the nation.

UCLA, with a 2-3-1 record, apparently began to find itself last week in its 55-13 drubbing of Stanford.

The six ACC teams involved in Saturday's games tapered off Thursday.

Clemson Coach Frank Howard, figuring if his opposition can't score it can't beat him, again stressed defense for the Tigers, who have shutout five of their seven opponents for a 6-1 record and No. 11 national ranking.

A victory over Maryland would give the Tigers at least a tie for the ACC title, and coupled with a Wake Forest defeat, would cinch things for them.

Maryland romped through a rounded drill with continued emphasis on its tricky I formation.

Duke, which missed two scoring chances within the 15-yard line last week in its 6-0 loss to Clemson, worked on scoring plays close to pay dirt, and practiced its passing attack, thus far woefully lacking.

Norman Snead, Wake Forest's ace quarterback, was announced fit and ready for action against the Blue Devils. The Deacons reviewed their game, then viewed movies of a recent Duke game.

North Carolina concluded its practice for the Virginia game and Coach Jim Hickey said the Tar Heels "are ready to play a good game." Virginia, meanwhile, continued to sharpen up its passing game with Stan Fischer, Arnold Dempsey and Wayne Ballard doing the tossing.

Grid Picture Expected To Be Clearer

Associated Press Sports Writer
The scrambled college football picture should get a little clearer this weekend and set up some terrific showdown battles next week. But these showdowns are going to be preceded by a lot of tugging and pulling tomorrow as teams like Louisiana State, Northwestern, Wisconsin, Texas, Georgia and Washington battle for prime bowl spots or conference titles, and in some instances both.

The weekend gets off to a rousing start tonight with South Carolina (5-2) meeting Miami (4-3) in the Orange Bowl, and Atlantic Coast Conference member North Carolina State (1-6) traveling to Los Angeles' Coliseum to face UCLA (2-3-1).

Buried beneath the wealth of top games Saturday is the nation's No. 1 team in the current Associated Press poll, Syracuse, who faces upstate New York rival Colgate, with a 1-6 record. Syracuse (7-0), a prime bowl participant, tops the nation in offense, defense and scoring.

Texas (No. 2), with its 8-0 mark, can fall down at least a tie for the Southwest Conference title, and put a foot in the door as the Cotton Bowl host, if it gets by tough Texas Christian (5-2). Just in case Texas fails, Arkansas, ranked 20th, could take the conference lead with a victory over Southern Methodist.

Third-ranked LSU, 7-1, shorn of its top rating last Saturday by Tennessee's 14-13 victory and relegated to a contender for the Southeastern Conference and Sugar Bowl race, faces weak Mississippi State (2-5). LSU will be without quarterback Warren Rabb and halfback and place-kicker Wendell Harris.

The SEC will have two other whopping good games as 5-ranked Mississippi (7-1) gets its chance at Tennessee (5-1-1) (No. 9). LSU Ole Miss and Tennessee are tied for third in the SEC with 3-1 records. The runnerup, eighth-ranked

Baylor Sets Torrid Pace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Elgin Baylor, the former All-America at Seattle, is setting a torrid scoring pace with Minneapolis in the National Basketball Assn., but he still has a long way to go to better Bob Pettit's feats just a year ago.

Pettit, a former All-America at Louisiana State, almost single-handedly rewrote the NBA record last season with his performances for the St. Louis Hawks. He set six records: (1) most points scored with 2,105; (2) the highest average 29.2; (3) most field goals scored 719; (4) most free throws attempted 879; (5) most free throws scored 667; and (6) most 50-point games in a season, 3.

So far Baylor has set one NBA mark with his record 64 points against the Boston Celtics last Sunday. In addition he leads in total points with 398 in 11 games on 149 field goals and 100 free throws.

Baylor came up with 33 points Thursday night against Detroit, but it wasn't enough to keep the Lakers from losing to the Pistons 107-93 in the first game of a doubleheader at New York's Madison Square Garden before 9,247.
The Syracuse Nats blew a 25-point lead in the second game against New York, but forged ahead again in the final minutes to beat the Knicks 113-104.

Predictions Of The Week

With the exception of UNC-Miami, our week of forecasting proved to be very successful in the midst of the nation's contagious "upset fever". Much to our dismay, we hit the Greenies almost on the head-picking Wilson by three points. Southern Miss. made us dead right on their touchdown victory over State.

Let's return to the local bandwagon this week and throw our support to Greenville and East Carolina. The Phants still have a breath of life in the Northeastern Conference and should keep it. It's Greenville by 13.

Smarting from four straight defeats, East Carolina will be steamed up Saturday night and Glenn Bass and James Speight should give the crowd more than their money's worth. It looks like early season again with ECC winning by 28 points.

Carolina over Virginia by 12; Here's hoping that having Peahead Walker as a spectator will spur Tar Heels. Nothing else seems to.

Duke over Wake Forest by 6; Injuries are hurting Duke but they still have one of the best teams in the conference.

UCLA over State by 13; Western sunshine doesn't produce miracles but look for State to make a good showing.

Lenoir Rhyne over Elon by 13; Improving Christians may find the Bears still evaluating their victory over East Carolina.

Jacksonville over Washington by 8; This is our upset of the week. Let's hope it holds true.

PLENTY OF EXCITEMENT—Fireworks and more fireworks is expected to be the order of the night at College Stadium Saturday night. Jim Wommack, noted fireworks expert, will be in town and will perform at the ECC-Newport News football game.

Aburn, 6-1 overall and 4-1 in the SEC, is ineligible for a post-season bowl, but hopes to derail first place Georgia's title ambitions. A Georgia (7-1) victory gives it the SEC title with a 6-0 record, and the inside to the Sugar Bowl.

Things are lively in the Big Ten too, with Northwestern (No. 6) tied for the conference title with Wisconsin (No. 7) after losing to the Badgers last week. Wisconsin, 6-1 in the conference, meets tough Illinois while Northwestern (6-1) takes on upset-minded Michigan State. A slip by either spells disaster in the march to the Rose Bowl.

The other two members of the top ten, Southern California (No. 4) and Penn State (No. 10) have formidable opposition. Southern Cal (7-0) meets Baylor. Penn State (7-1) knocked from the unbeaten ranks by Syracuse last week but still prime bowl material, takes on tough Holy Cross (6-1).

Here's how the other conference races stack up:
Ivy: Penn (4-1) can clinch a tie for the title by beating Columbia (1-5). Yale (3-2) plays Princeton (3-2) in a renewal of their ancient rivalry.

SOUTHERN: The Citadel (4-0) faces VMI (3-1) and Virginia Tech (2-0) meets West Virginia (2-0) in a battle of the loop's top four.

ATLANTIC COAST: Clemson (5-0) can win its second straight title against Maryland (1-2), and then wait for the bowl representatives.

BIG EIGHT: Leader Oklahoma (4-3) meets Army (4-2-1) in a prime intersectional game. The Sooners can't return to the Orange Bowl as hosts but the three contenders — Iowa State, Kansas and Colorado — are putting up a lively battle. Only Colorado (3-2) faces conference competition, meeting Nebraska (1-3).

FAR WEST FIVE: With leader Southern Cal meeting an outsider, runnerup Washington (2-1) hopes to advance its Rose Bowl hopes against California (0-2). Southern Cal is banned from post-season competition by the NCAA.

SKYLINE: Wyoming (5-0) can clinch its title against New Mexico (4-1), but can't go to a bowl because of last month's NCAA action.

MISSOURI VALLEY — North Texas State (3-0), and one of a tion's unbeaten at 8-0, goes after the title against Tulsa (1-1).

Television viewers can watch Notre Dame at Pitt and Illinois at Wisconsin both over NBC.

Other top Saturday games include:
Boston College at Boston U; Harvard at Brown; George Washington at Navy; Villanova at Rutgers.

South: Georgia Tech vs. Alabama at Birmingham; Wake Forest at Duke; William & Mary at Florida State; Xavier (Ohio) at Kentucky; Virginia at North Carolina; Vanderbilt at Tulane; Furman at Richmond.

Midwest: Marquette at Cincinnati; Michigan at Indiana; San Jose at Iowa State; Oklahoma State at Kansas; Kansas State at Missouri; Iowa at Ohio State; Minnesota at Purdue; Drake at Wichita.

Southwest: Texas A&M at Rice; Houston at Texas Tech.

Far West: Arizona vs. Air Force at Boulder, Colo.; Brigham Young at Arizona State; Utah State at Denver; Hardin-Simmons at New Mexico State; Stanford at Oregon State; Colorado State U. at Utah; Oregon at Washington State.

BILBRO WHOLESALE

Iowa State Back Leading Rusher

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Fullback Tom Watkins is the leading ground gainer in college football this fall and at a position he didn't want to play.

The 182-pound junior, who reached Iowa State by way of Chicago and Los Angeles, has run for 707 yards in eight games. He should add to that appreciably in Saturday's game here with San Jose State.

Watkins, who has played five positions in football, had to be sold on playing fullback.

"We realized last spring that Tom's greatest potential was at fullback," said Coach Clay Stapleton. "We used persuasion and a little psychology—we did a selling job."

The quiet Chicagoan was overlooked in early games by opponents who concentrated on the Cyclones' tough tailback Dwight Nichols, the country's No. 2 total offense leader.

The outstanding inside and outside running of Watkins and Nichols has brought Iowa State a 6-2 record and a tie for second place in the Big Eight Conference.

Watkins has good speed but he lacked the desire to play fullback because of the spinner play—so vital to the Iowa State single wing offense.

The 22-year-old native of Arkansas started his football career as a guard at Chicago Wonder High. He later played halfback there and at a Los Angeles Junior College.

Former Cyclone Coach Jim Myers induced Watkins to come to Iowa State with him in 1957. Myers was an assistant at UCLA at the time.

Two years ago when Watkins was serving out a year of residency here, he was the only capable player Myers had who could handle the role of the opposing teams' stars during practice all season.

CHAPTER 15

It was an extremely hot night, unusual for Mesa Encantada where even during the most torrid of the summer months the temperature moderated to a pleasing coolness after the sun went down. It was powder dry and there was a lot of electricity in the air. Gauzy veils of haze hung motionless in the velvety darkness of the sky, blurring the face of an enormous, yellow, pock-marked moon. Far to the east, heat lightning showed vaguely over sharp distant peaks. The atmosphere was oppressive and the world seemed to wait in tense silence for some terrible catastrophe. Birds chirped weakly in all the bushes as if unable to sleep. Bud and Lolita were skirting the northeastern edge of the Camp, riding in silence. Finally Lolita pulled up her horse. "I don't like the desert to night," she said. "Let's go back."

"I told you to fix up a dummy in the bed." "I couldn't do that." "Why not?" "It—it's like cheating." Bud laughed to himself, sneaking out this way? "Yes, I do," said Lolita. "So I'm not going to do it any more. This is the last time." There was a long silence. The lights of Mesa Encantada were drawing closer. "Well," said Bud, sighing, "maybe you're right. It's hardly worth the trouble to you, is it, Lolita? Taking a chance on getting yourself into a fix with Mrs. Etheredge and all. Tell you what. We won't do it no more. It's not fair to you. On the way in, we'll stop by my room so I can give you that shawl and them combs I got in old Mexico. I want you to have something to remember me by." "But Bud," said Lolita, "I don't need anything to remember you by. You're around here all the time." "Maybe I won't be much longer," said Bud. "But why? Why?" "Oh, I get fed up. Been drifting since I was a little kid. Nothing for me to stay for anyway."

that deadly stretch of country known as the Basin or Sink. Hurrying footsteps brought him out of his memory and he turned toward the sound. In a moment he saw a thick black figure, silhouetted against the distant parade-ground lights, coming in his direction. He stared, then reached for his boots and began to pull them on hurriedly. It was Maria. What could she be doing out this time of the night? And why was she in such a hurry? Once his boots were on, he stepped inside and lit the lamp, leaving the door open. Maria stopped at the threshold, gasping for breath, her face white as chalk. "What's the matter, Maria?" asked the Sergeant. "Something wrong at the Major's?" Maria put her hand to her heart and began to wheeze. The Sergeant helped her in at once and made her sit in a chair beside his bed. To Maria this was all highly improper and even in her present state she resisted feebly, and protested. "Sergeant, I mustn't. It's not right. Your room . . . !" "Now, now," said the Sergeant. "Never mind about that. Catch your breath." Her face was so white and she was having so much trouble breathing that he was very much concerned about her and finally mixed some whiskey in a cup of water and made her drink it. Little by little color came back into her cheeks and her heavy breathing began to ease. "Sergeant," she gasped, grasping his arm. "Lolita! She's gone." "Gone?" cried the Sergeant, staring. "Where?" "I don't know where or I'd go there," gasped Maria, beginning to wheeze again. "You've got to find her, Sergeant. You've got to find her."

Board Bows To Orders Of Court

FLOYD, Va. (AP) — The Floyd County School Board, acting under a federal judge's order, has assigned 13 Negroes to two all-white high schools. They will enter at the start of the second semester Jan. 25. It will be the first public school integration in Southwest Virginia. James Combs, county school superintendent, announced the action in a prepared statement this morning. He declined further comment. The statement noted that Federal District Judge Roby Thompson on Sept. 23 ordered the admission of the 13. "The board acted under duress of the federal court order and with full knowledge that failure to comply with the order would result in an immediate citation for contempt," Combs' statement said. Nine of the Negroes were assigned to Floyd High School and four to Check High School. The County also operates another high school at Willis, but does not have a Negro high school. Negro pupils from the county attend Christianburg Institute, a regional high school for Negroes operated in Montgomery County and attended by children from several Southwest Virginia areas. The 13 assigned to the white county schools now attend the regional school. Some public schools in Arlington, Alexandria, Charlottesville, Norfolk and Warren County are integrated now. JUST VAGRANTS TOKYO (AP) — Tipped that seven husky men were gambling in public, police rushed to round them up today. Police were charged to discover they were all vagrants seeking free food and lodging. "Just now. Not ten minutes ago. Sergeant, where do you suppose she is? Has somebody kidnaped her?" There was a brief pause, then the Sergeant asked: "Have you told anybody about this? Does Mrs. Major know?" "Oh, no; I wouldn't think of bothering her," said Maria. "She'd . . . She'd just go all to pieces." "Then nobody knows but us. All right, Maria. Tell you what. You go back. Stay there. I'll get Bud. We'll find her. Don't worry. I promise you, Maria. We'll find her." Hope showed for the first time in Maria's dark eyes. "Yes," she said. "I know. You'll find her, Sergeant."

Doctor Cures Alcoholism With Hypnotics

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN
Associated Press Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — A psychotherapist reported today he used hypnosis successfully to make chronic alcoholics violently ill from the sight, smell or taste of liquor.

Dr. Michael M. Miller of the Howard University Medical School, Washington, D.C., said he had only four relapses among 24 patients treated by hypnosis. One of the early failures so far has responded well to additional treatment.

He also reported hypnosis has been successful in correcting such conditions as overeating, compulsive cigarette smoking and certain instances of drug addiction.

In all instances, the technique involved stimulating unconscious aversion reactions—causing the subject to hate or be disgusted or nauseated by the substances he once craved.

The duration of alcoholism among his drinking patients range from 3 to 34 years. The average number of treatments was two and the average length of time the group has remained away from alcohol has been six months.

Writing in the Journal of the American Medical Assn., Miller said:

"No claims are being made for this treatment as a cure-all for alcoholism. It represents only a procedure for attempting to control drinking so that constructive psychotherapeutic, social and economic rehabilitative steps can be taken. Alcoholism is symptomatic of deeper underlying disturbances of the personality, and there are probably as many diverse causes for alcoholism as exist for human unhappiness."

Most of the patients were urged to undergo psychiatric treatment after they stopped drinking to resolve the underlying personality disturbances that drove them to drink to excess.

In treating the alcoholics, the patients were put into a deep trance and then made to relive the worst hangover they ever experienced, including headache and vomiting. At the same time they were permitted to taste and smell liquor. They were advised they would have those same symptoms again whenever they ever tasted, smelled or even looked at alcoholic beverages.

"About half the patients made attempts to test themselves with alcohol, and all of these developed prompt aversion reactions and discontinued further such attempts," Miller said.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—A few electronics advanced while the stock market drifted along irregularly this afternoon. Trading was comparatively dull.

Gains and losses of most key stocks went from fractions to a point or so. Some of the favored "Science" stocks rose several points.

The space age group as a whole, however, was spotty, a number of these issues backing away as profits were taken.

The market as a whole was said by brokers to have nothing to spark a renewal of interest, either on the buy or sell side.

A drop of more than a point by U.S. Steel was a depressing factor among the major industrials. The rails perked up just a bit, as they will reap the immediate harvest when carloadings increase on the full resumption of steel production.

The shutdown of car production at General Motors because of steel shortages continued to have a dampening effect. GM common was easy.

The major steels and automakers drifted listlessly to the downside.

Aircrafts were fairly steady. Oils were off.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 10 cents to $222.70 with the industrials down 10 cents, the rails up 10 cents and the utilities down 10 cents.

Corporate bonds declined. U.S. government bonds were steady.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog markets steady. Tops of 13.50 to 15.00 at Wilson; 14.00 to 14.50 at Nabunna and Rocky Mount; 13.75 to 14.50 at Kinston. New Bern, Benson and Mount Olive; 13.25 to 13.50 at Bethel, Murfreesboro, Edenton, Sunbury, Grimesland, Ahoskie and Harrellsville; 14.00 at Clinton, Fayetteville, Elizabethtown and Goldsboro; 13.75 at Lillington, House's Mill, Burgaw and Castle Hayne; 13.50 at Clarkton and Rich Square; 13.25 at Dunn, Clayton, Four Oaks and Siler City. Others unreported.

Wilson cash cattle prices, steady; steers and heifers, choice 24.50 to 26.50, good 21.00 to 24.50, standards 17.00 to 20.00; cows, beef type 15.00 to 16.50, heavy cutters 13.00 to 15.00; bulls, light-weights 13.00 to 17.00, heavy-weights 18.00 to 20.00.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina poultry market: fryers and broilers, farm prices mostly undetermined, few sales at 14 to 15, mostly 14.

Eggs—Prices paid for clean, sized, graded minimum 80 per cent A quality; Charlotte and Raleigh steady, large 38. Prices paid on graded out basis: Asheville about steady, A large 35.

Women Escape Injury In Fountain Train Wreck

FOUNTAIN — Three women narrowly escaped death or serious injury North of Fountain yesterday afternoon when their car collided with an Atlantic Coast Line Railroad train, causing heavy damage to the car.

The driver of the car, Mrs. Lilly Thomas Owens of Route 1, Fountain was treated by a Fountain doctor for a cut on her forehead and released, according to investigation officer Patrolman D. L. Minshew of Farmville. The two passengers in the car were not hurt.

Minshew said the train, Engine number 58 from Tarboro was headed north at about 15 miles per hour. The conductor, W. H. Brown of Tarboro, was quoted as saying when it became apparent the car was not going to stop the train's brakes were applied. The train traveled 170 feet from the point of impact, Minshew added.

Mrs. Owens told officers she was going east at about 15 miles-per-hour on a rural dirt road just off U. S. 258 when she saw the train but was unable to stop.

Damage to the car was estimated to be about $350 while only slight damage resulted to the train.

The collision occurred about 4:25 p.m.

ABC Officers Nab Man After Chase

Pitt County ABC officers J. M. Ward and H. B. Lilley arrested a 42-year-old Greenville Negro yesterday following a footrace for several blocks on charges of possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale.

According to Ward, Theodore Wilson of 106 Cotanche St. was seen walking down Pamlico Ave by the officers with a bag under his arm. When the Negro saw the officers he started running and went up West Fifth St. to Latham, from Latham down Ward to Elizabeth, and from Elizabeth into the yard of 409 Elizabeth St. where he threw the bag into some bushes just before officers stopped him.

Ward said the bag contained two half-gallon jars of illegal spirits.

Wilson was released under a $200 bond and is scheduled for trial December 1 in County Court.

Women Escape Injury In Fountain Train Wreck

Dr. Fitzgerald, who grew up in Greenville, pointed to the slogan of a sister Elks Club, "Isn't It Nice to be An Elk?"

"Do you enjoy being an Elk to the extent that you are willing to bring something as well as take something away?" he asked.

"Can you say you were there giving and working in what we hope we can say will be Elksdom's finest hour?"

The district deputy told the local Elks he was "happy to see the lodge has moved along in its youth program."

Exalted Ruler of the local lodge Jack Nobles presented an award from the North Carolina Elks Association to Curtis Perkins.

The award cited Perkins for his "loyal and dedicated service" as president of the association during the 1943-44 term.

The certificates said that under Perkins' leadership "valuable contributions were made to the public welfare and the association became a stronger and more effective force for good in North Carolina."

It was issued Oct. 23.

The club last night voted to send four students to Williamsburg, Va. at a cost of $12.50 per student. The action was done at the request of Mrs. Ellen Carroll, supervisor of elementary instruction for city schools.

L. T. Showell and Ed A. Tugle were initiated into the lodge. Participating in the ceremonies were Exalted Ruler Nobles, Esteemed Leading Knight W. H. Watson, Esteemed Loyal Knight John Collins, Esteemed Lecturing Knight Fred Sauve.
