Political Guns Thundering Loud

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Political guns are thundering surprisingly loud in advance of next year's presidential season.

Presidential hopefuls now beating the bushes are Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. None of these men actually admit they are running for presidential nominations next year.

A Democratic elder statesman, W. Averell Harriman, and a possible Democratic presidential dark horse, Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California, conferred at Sacramento, Calif., and took the occasion to throw a few bricks at the Republicans.

Nixon, speaking at Indianapolis, Friday, said the farm issue "will very possibly be the major issue on the domestic scene in 1960." He said he's not ready now to outline a specific farm program, but it must be one that gives farmers their full share of prosperity without sacrificing their independence.

Nixon said it is "out of the question" that he would run again as a vice presidential candidate but that "I still feel it's too early" to announce 1960 plans.

The vice president patted Rockefeller, his main Republican rival, on the back for being a "very effective" campaigner. But Nixon added that the New York governor "does not have the experience at campaigning nationally that some others have had."

Kennedy, at Milwaukee, borrowed a phrase from Sir Winston Churchill in saying a new administration is needed to overcome the gains made by the Soviet Union in the past seven years while "the locusts had eaten."

The Russians, said the Massachusetts senator, have beaten us into outer space, around the sun, to the moon, and surpassed us in rocket engines and new fuels. They have more military manpower, he said, and are putting more resources into education.

"All this they have done," Kennedy said, "while we for seven years have cut our forces, reduced our budgets, held back our missile programs, wasted our money and time and scientific talent."

He likened the situation to that which confronted England 23 years ago. He quoted Churchill as saying then the British government had been blind to the menace of the Nazis in "the years the locusts had eaten."

Rockefeller, at San Francisco, said: "We must clearly see the conflict between American and Soviet objectives and principles as only one grave struggle upon the wide scene in this age of revolution.

"We need . . . some sort of greater and larger political arrangement. Concretely, this means the growth of regional groupings of nations so that the traditions of culture, the needs of economy, and the nature of politics — all are enlisted to serve the defining new and stronger and healthier relations among the nations."

Rockefeller, at several appearances during the day, dodged saying he was in the running for the GOP presidential nomination. Told that Nixon expects him to run, he said: "That's his opinion. I haven't made up my mind."

Harriman and Brown at a joint news conference in Sacramento said the Republicans have failed to recognize the nation must grow, resulting in a tight money policy which stifles adequate credit for schools, homes, and small business.

"And," said Harriman, "Republican peace is about the same as Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence. There's a cessation of hostilities but no real peace."

Harriman predicted a Democrat will be the next president but wouldn't say who he favors at the moment. Kennedy, Adlai Stevenson, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, and Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota all have supporters in New York, said the ex-governor of New York.

"How about Pat Brown of California?" asked a reporter. "Gov. Brown hasn't told us yet whether he will be a candidate," said Harriman, "but we've been watching his record in California, and he's highly thought of."

Brown shrugged and said offhandedly: "I find the problems of state (California) just as confining now as when I was elected."

Actress Denies Suicide Attempt BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — TV actress Mary Castle denies a police report that she tried to hang herself in a jail cell after being arrested on a drunk charge Friday.

Police said they found the 28-year-old actress hanging from the bars of her cell with a noose fashioned from her dress. They said a doctor revived her.

Might Have Labor Law Nixon Says

By IRWIN J. MILLER

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Legislation to curb the power of both steel companies and the United Steelworkers may result if no strike settlement is reached within the 80-day cooling-off period, Vice President Richard M. Nixon predicted Friday night.

He warned that if the dispute remains unresolved, it will land in the lap of Congress in an election year when "political considerations will have far more effect than they should have."

"We have hopes that within this 80-day period both the steel companies and the union will recognize that if they go to the end of the period without settlement, there will be a possibility of congressional action detrimental to both," Nixon said.

The vice president gave his views in a question-and-answer session at the banquet of the 50th anniversary convention of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

He said also that the farm income problem looms as possibly the major domestic issue for the 1960 campaign and the administration is studying recommendations to Congress to solve it.

Nixon said that expansion of foreign markets is not the answer if it means dumping of surpluses abroad. He said this hurts foreign relations.

The vice president again refused to commit himself as a presidential candidate next year, saying it's too early to discuss his plans. But he called running for a third term as vice president "completely out of the question."

Mail Jettisoned To Save Plane SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — If you sent any first class mail to military personnel in Hawaii, the Philippines or Formosa which would have reached San Francisco on Nov. 7 and 8, you might as well do it all over again.

The Navy says mail accumulating here on those two days was jettisoned by a Military Air Transport Service Globemaster Nov. 6 after it lost two engines and turned back to Hamilton Air Force Base. The big plane tossed overboard 11 tons of cargo to enable it to limp back on its two remaining engines.

Ike Moves Toward White House Confabs On Strike Settlement

By STANLEY MEISLER WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has taken a step toward calling a White House conference of management and union leaders. The agenda: new ways of settling strikes as crippling as the steel walkout.

A labor spokesman said Friday night that the President had asked President George Meany of the AFL-CIO to discuss the matter with Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell.

Meany had proposed the conference in a letter to the President. Excerpts from the letter and the reply were released by the spokesman, Al Zack, public relations director of the AFL-CIO. "I am asking Secretary Mitchell to confer with you as to your specific ideas on time, place, and composition of the conference you suggest," Eisenhower wrote.

"He will also explore with representative management leaders their ideas on the subject. "When I have before me the results of these explorations I shall communicate with you further."

The White House had no immediate comment after Zack released some contents of the letters.

Meany had written Eisenhower that "our country must avoid drifting by statute into rigid and arbitrary rules for collective bargaining. Such drifting can only lead to a serious weakening of the underpinnings of our whole democratic way of life."

The AFL-CIO president said he hoped a White House conference would induce labor and management to "talk out their problems and come to some solution — particularly of those problems testified by the attitude of both sides in the steel strike."

The prestige of the White House, Meany said, would put both sides at the conference "under public pressure to come to some kind of accommodation."

Meany said he hoped the conference could produce some voluntary way of ending a strike before it becomes as critical as this year's steel strike. The labor president, however, did not detail any method he might have had in mind.

Zack said the President, in the letter dated Nov. 11 and received Friday, had replied that his goal and Meany's proposal are exactly the same.

"We regard the President's letter," Zack continued, "as a very encouraging response."

"As we see it, the only thing that could block a conference now would be a refusal by management to participate."

Hodges Says Businessmen Underestimated By U. S.

PARIS (AP) — The United States tends to underestimate the European businessman, says Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina.

After a two-week European tour in which he talked to hundreds of the continent's business leaders, Hodges declared: "The European businessman is an intelligent but more conservative than the businessman in America. But make no mistake, the European is an capable and smart as we are. Once they realize the potentiality of mass marketing as the German is doing and as others are starting to do, they can do as well as we."

The governor headed a North Carolina trade and industry mission which visited six European cities to investigate possibilities for increased trade and business with Europe. The group left for home today by plane.

Hodges said the European Common Market represented a competitive challenge to the United States but it could benefit all people "provided it does not become a supercartel."

In summarizing his impressions of the European business scene Hodges said that it is obvious that the United States must readjust its thinking toward Europe. "Europe has fully recovered from the war," he said. "It is no longer just looking to supply its own needs but looking outward for more markets."

"Business and trade is becoming a two-way street between the United States and Europe. America must change its attitude toward Europe. We tend to think we can do things best. But we should not overlook what Europe has in the way of products to offer. Many of them can be manufactured and sold in the United States."

The governor said he felt that there were many European firms that could profit by opening branch plants in the United States.

Hodges said today his visit to Europe soon will be followed by visits to North Carolina of European businessmen.

"I am delighted to report six to eight Europeans have already made specific agreements to visit North Carolina in months ahead," Hodges said just before leaving for New York.

The visitors will include representatives of two chemical firms and an industrial research official and furniture maker who are interested in setting up branch plants in North Carolina.

The other three visitors will be importers and exporters interested in using North Carolina ports. The 68-member mission headed by Hodges left by air for New York after a two-week tour of Europe.

Members of mission talked with over 1,000 business leaders in London, Amsterdam, Munich, Stuttgart, Zurich, Paris and Brussels.

Hodges, obviously pleased with results of the trip, said he expected additional inquiries into North Carolina business opportunities in the future.

There also will be grandchildren and great-grandchildren present for barbecued pork ribs and stirring band music. Williams, blind and partially deaf, has been bedridden for about two years.

His daughter, Mrs. Willie Mae Bowles, said the old veteran had made a four-point request for his birthday party: "Lots of people, lots of singing, lots of music, and lots of barbecued ribs — and he'll get all four," she said.

An American Legion band will play "Dixie" and "Cotton-Eyed Joe" — two of Williams' all-time favorites. An honor guard will come from ROTC units at Houston's Lamar High School.

But the onetime member of Hood's brigade hasn't talked much about the coming party, his daughter said.

His diet has been confined to soft foods and coffee. But perhaps, his daughter says, he'll get to nibble on a rib and drink a little fruit juice at party time.

The N. C. State Highway Commission in Raleigh has requested permission to abandon constant attendance of drawtenders at the drawbridge across the Tar River near Grimesland.

The commission desires to open the bridge to navigation upon 24-hour advance notice.

Col. R. P. Davidson, district engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers, said the drawbridge was opened only five times during the first nine months of this year.

Objections to this proposal may be lodged with Col. Davidson at the U. S. Army Engineer District, Wilmington, Corps of Engineers, 308 Customsuse, Wilmington, N. C.

Col. Davidson said objections, if any, will be received at that office until Dec. 14, 1959.

Panama Consul Back To Capital PANAMA (AP) — Panama's ambassador to the United States, Ricardo Arias Espinosa, is hurrying back to Washington as a result of current tension between the two countries over the Canal Zone.

Espinosa has been on leave for several weeks to prepare for his campaign next year as the presidential candidate for the administration's National Patriotic Coalition party.

Ike Will See Capital City Moved

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — When President Eisenhower visits Pakistan next month he will find the country in the midst of moving its capital from Karachi 700 miles northeast to Rawalpindi. He is expected to be the first chief of state to visit the new capital.

Karachi grew in a decade into a major city after establishment of the national government here. "Karachi will continue to be the business and commercial center of Pakistan after the government is gone," says W.A. Khan, a municipal commissioner. "The economic factors that made it great will remain."

The British who ruled India found a small Arabian Sea fishing village on the edge of the Sind Desert near the mouth of the Indus River. To handle commerce of the Indus Valley they turned Karachi into a Victorian colonial city, complete with English-style churches and public buildings.

An uncounted number of camels and about 300,000 persons lived in Karachi when British India was partitioned into two free nations in 1947. Some 80 per cent of the people were Hindu, but Moslem areas surrounded the city and it went to Pakistan.

Almost all the Hindus left. Moslem refugees from the new India flooded in to take the Hindus' places and then some. The city swelled to some two million residents, many in squalid slums.

Karachi became the temporary capital of Pakistan. Last summer President Mohammad Ayub Khan decided to move away from the extreme heat and commercial influences of Karachi.

The move to Rawalpindi, near the Himalayan foothills, was officially made Oct. 27. Actually, it will be a couple of years before all government departments are gone.

Government officials say approximately 150,000 people will be shifted to Rawalpindi. Commissioner Khan says possibly 400,000 to 500,000 persons may move, but "there will be no mass exodus of businesses."

Agri. Census To Begin Here

Field work in the 1959 Census of Agriculture gets underway locally on November 18, when a force of Census takers will start visiting every farm in the area, it was announced by Field Director Joseph R. Norwood of the Census Bureau's regional office at Charlotte.

The current census will yield information on the number and size of farms, acreage and harvest of crops, livestock production and inventories, selected farm facilities and equipment and selected farm expenditures.

The field director emphasized that all information about individuals and their farm operations furnished to the Census Bureau is held in absolute confidence under Federal law. It is used to provide summary figures such as totals, averages and percentages.

The farm census questionnaires are being mailed from Chicago, Ill., with the distribution timed so that the report forms will reach farmers about a week ahead of the date when census takers will begin the field canvass. The advance mailing is for the purpose of giving farm operators time to complete their records before filling in the answers required by the questionnaires and getting them ready for the census takers to pick up.

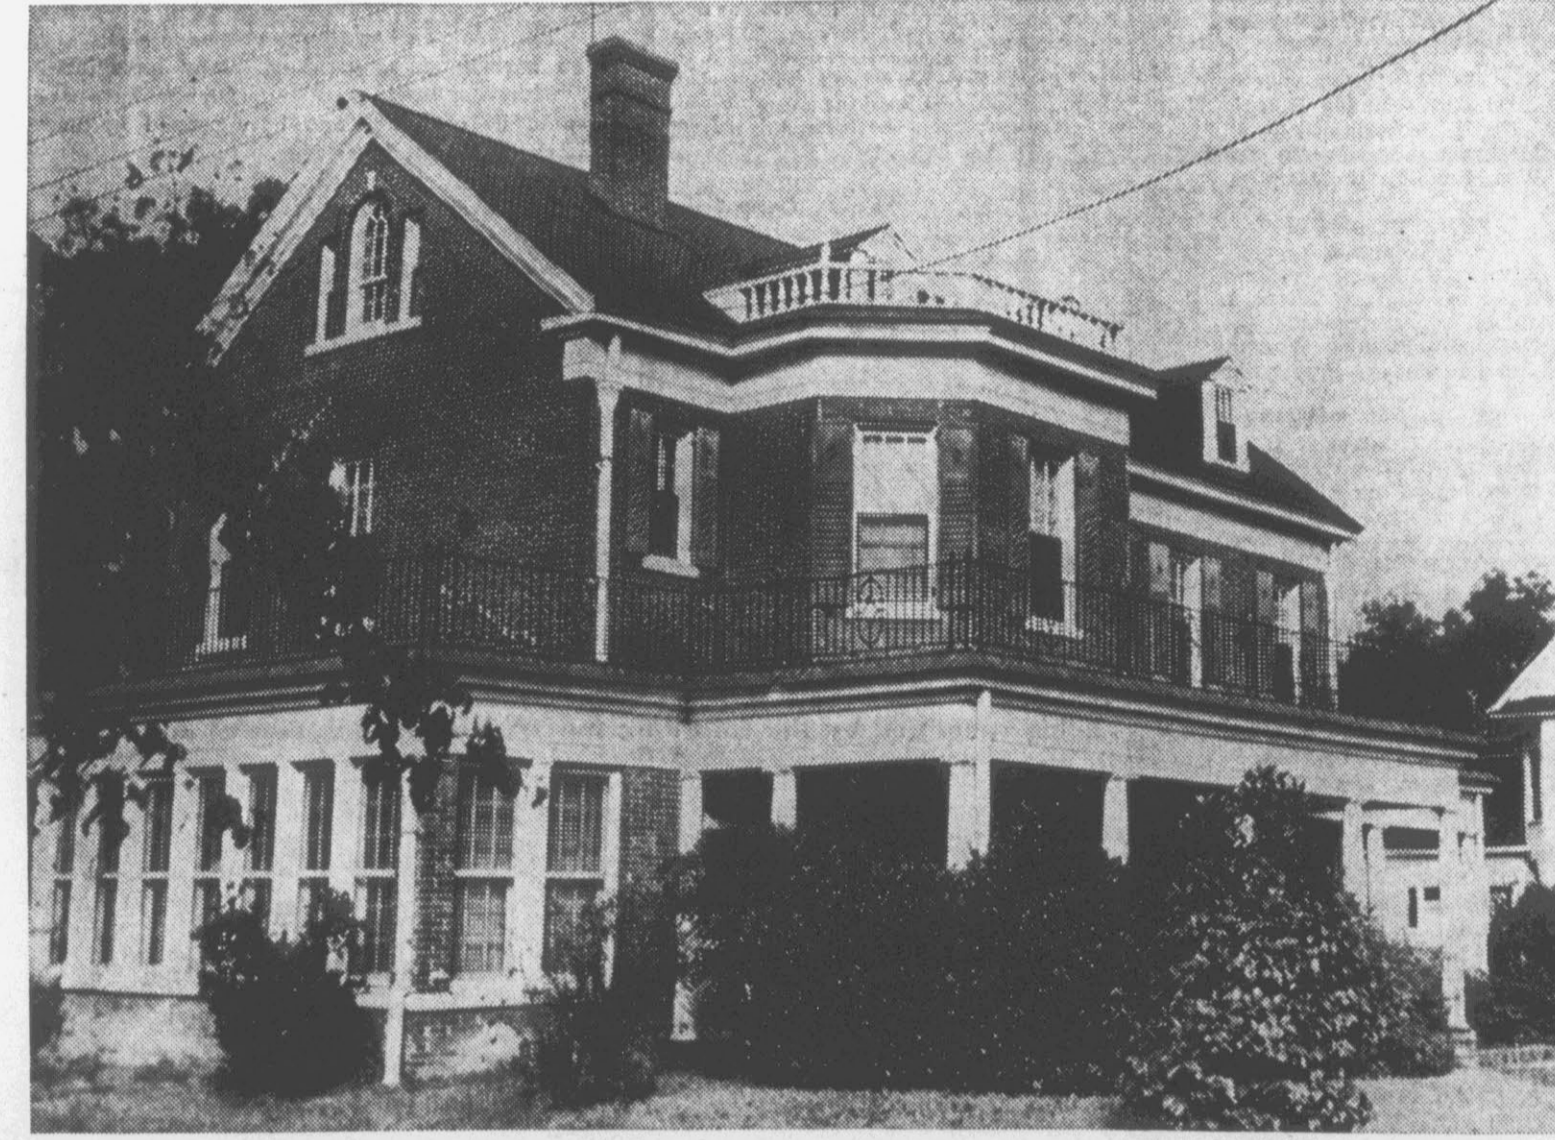

Girl Injured In Fall From Car

A two-year-old girl escaped with only minor injuries last night about 10 o'clock after she fell from a moving car on East Wright Road.

The child, identified as Melody James was riding in a car driven by her father, E. J. James, 24, of 1612 East Wright Road when she apparently fell from the car when it rounded a curve and the door came open.

She was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for minor abrasions to her forehead and left leg and released.

Art Society Begins Drive To Buy Home

NEW HOME . . . for Art Society on Evans Street.

Outgrowing its limited space in Sheppard Memorial Library, the East North Carolina Art Society has voted to purchase a home of its own.

Originated in June of 1939 under the federal Works Progress Administration (WPA), the cultural organization was known as the Greenville Community Art Center. In 1956, the ECAS was formed to embrace aroused and increased cultural interest in Eastern North Carolina.

After a brief location on the corner of Cotanche and E. Fifth Streets here, the organization moved its headquarters to the local library late in 1939 where it has remained to date.

Due to expansion at the library, however, the necessity has arisen for the Society to relinquish its space there. First, it was allowed to occupy the library's auditorium, but recently, it has become imperative that the library retain its entire facility.

When Dr. J. D. Messick, president of the ECAS, called a special meeting on Oct. 1 and presented the problem to the group, the Society members voted to purchase a home for its activities.

Last spring, President Messick had appointed a committee—L. P. Bloxam, Hartwell Campbell, and Mrs. T. I. Wagner—to study the possibilities of securing such a building.

Situated on the corner of S. Evans and Eighth Streets, the object of the Society's interest is the former home of E. G. Flanagan. The three-story brick structure will provide adequate space for ECAS activities such as exhibits; art instruction in weaving, rug-making, and ceramics; and planned art programs for both adults and children.

A fund-raising campaign is now underway and the Society urges everyone to take part, since it feels that every interested person in the area should benefit from its activities.

Tobacco Prices Hold As Season Nears End

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Prices were steady to slightly higher Friday on flue-cured tobacco markets of North Carolina and Virginia, despite the approach of the end of the season.

Three markets closed Friday and six others set closing dates for next week.

Friday's sales by belt, reported by the Federal-State Market News Service:

Old Belt—prices increased $1 to $4 a hundredweight with a few grades holding steady and others showing declines; quality was poorer; volume was mostly light.

Middle Belt—Primmings and non-descript grades declined 75 cents to $5 a hundred pounds, but most grades held fairly steady; volume was light.

Thursday's sales: Old—3,060,330 pounds averaging $52.86 a hundredweight, up 65 cents from the previous day. Virginia markets sold 1,732,402 pounds averaging $53.94 and North Carolina, 1,327,728 averaging $51.45.

Bandit Failed By Victim's Husband

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — A bandit dashed from a market and jumped into a parked car, gun in hand, thinking it was his getaway car.

Sitting in the car Friday was the husband of a woman the bandit had just robbed. They grappled, and the husband, Homer McAfee, 34, disarmed Joseph Williams.

Tour Termed 'Resounding Success' By Hodges

PARIS (AP) — Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina issued a statement today declaring his belief that the state's trade and industry mission to Europe, just ended, "has been a resounding success."

The statement continued: "As we conclude our good-will tour of seven cities and six countries of Europe, I am convinced that this mission will result in a stronger trade with Europe through our two state ports, will provide added industrial development for North Carolina through European-financed plants or European-controlled franchise agreements, and certainly will bring about a deeper and better understanding between our nations."

"The three groups which made up our mission of 68 men told a story of economic opportunity to more than 1,000 European business and industrial leaders through luncheons, dinners and personal visits. While the basic purpose of our mission was long range development of our state, I am delighted to report six to eight Europeans have already made specific agreements to visit North Carolina in the months ahead.

"We can expect additional inquiries, calls and visits in the future as more businessmen over here look to America for production facilities and investment opportunities. Europe is definitely increasing its industrial activity and the future holds great promise for increased and profitable trade between our countries if business and industrial leaders in each country will demonstrate the imagination, energy and courage necessary to meet this challenge.

"We in North Carolina and America need to know more about our state, and the great South-eastern section in which it is located.

Readings from the Bible will include the Apostle Paul's exhortation to the Colossians: "Lie not one to another, seeing that ye have put off the old man with his deeds; And have put on the new man, which is renewed in knowledge after the image of him that created him" (3:9, 10). A correlative citation to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states: "By putting 'off' the old man with his deeds, 'mortals' put on immortality" (262:7). The Golden Text is from Romans (8:30): "They that are in the flesh cannot please God. But yet are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you."

Mrs. Messick, Gracious Hostess

Mrs. John D. Messick, who has been hostess to thousands of people since her arrival here 12 years ago, loves to entertain, and she loves people.

Her graciousness begins at home with her own family. Every Christmas, the four Messick children, with their families—which now includes four grandchildren—come home for a family celebration.

Mrs. Fred Willis Jr., her husband and three children come from Wilmington; Mr. J. Lyman Melvin Jr., art instructor at Meredith College, come from Raleigh; and Norval Messick comes from San Francisco, Calif. The John Messick's Jr. and child are from Greenville.

An 18-foot tree in the rear of the reception hall adds to the holiday spirit, which is complete with a stocking for every member of the family. This includes every member of the household too, Mrs. Messick says.

Mrs. Messick, who plays the piano both by note and by ear, begins the popular "sing fest." She frequently plays the piano when guests visit the home.

Every year, the Messicks entertain at an open house. And like occasions with family and close friends, there is singing and laughter.

The largest receptions held at the Messick home here were soon after the Messicks completed renovating their present home at 605 East Fifth Street, and when Lauritz Melchior, Metropolitan Opera star visited Greenville. She explained that trees and bushes obscured their home when they first bought. After landscaping the lawn and remodeling the inside of the house, so much interest was displayed by townspeople, that Mrs. Messick decided to have open house.

A blanket invitation was printed in the newspaper, and as part of the mammoth undertaking Mrs. Messick engaged a caterer to prepare for 1,000 guests.

The food ran out—and the hostess had to send out for more. "So I am sure there were at least a 1,000 guests in our home at that time," Mrs. Messick recalls.

There were 1,000 guests, also, present for the reception in Melchior's honor.

As a hostess, Mrs. Messick has entertained incoming and outgoing college classes, visiting dignitaries and others at receptions, dinners, open houses and varied social functions.

With the ability to entertain is the ability to prepare for the occasions. Mrs. Messick numbers among her favorite hobbies gardening and arranging of flowers. Flowers decorate the home with or without company.

In the musical line, aside from the piano, Mrs. Messick plays the organ. She often accompanies her church circle at the organ, but says she has had "too much else to do" since she came here to actively pursue the organ playing.

Among her other hobbies are crocheting, mat making and rug weaving. Mrs. Messick took a rug weaving course from East Carolina College and has made four rugs. She also hooks rugs.

She said she is now working on her fifteenth luncheon set. She works on handwork constantly, as she loves to work with her hands.

Her latest undertaking is art. Mrs. Messick says she is currently taking oil painting at the college. In the past, Mrs. Messick says she has done china and figurine painting.

Mrs. Messick was born in Mercer County, Mo., but has lived most of her life in Washington, D.C., where her four brothers live now. She attended a boarding school in Cumberland County, where she met Dr. Messick. The school now is nonexistent.

She also attended Fayetteville Conservatory, where she obtained her musical education. Mrs. Messick taught piano from the age of 16 until she moved here, she said.

She was instrumental in organizing music clubs here and at Eion College, and both were organized in her home.

The present time, Mrs. Messick is president of the Sans Souci Book Club; chairman of a circle at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church of which she and her husband are members; member of the Faculty Wives Club and is on the Service League Board.

She has been a member of the Music Club, Garden Club and the Woman's Club in the past.

Mrs. Messick helped organize the Eastern Carolina Art Society about four years ago and served on the board for several years.

MRS. JOHN D. MESSICK is the wife of Dr. Messick, resigning president of East Carolina College. She and her husband will leave Greenville after the first of the year for Washington, D. C., where they plan to make their home.

Jay-C-Ettes Have Dinner

Mrs. Roy Hardee was named as top seller in the recent candy sale sponsored by the Jay-C-Ettes Wednesday night at their monthly dinner meeting.

She thanked the club for the gift she received and members for their participation in the annual money-making project, of which she was chairman.

During the business session, the Jay-C-Ettes decided to buy two shares in Greenville Industries. Mrs. Richard Briley, president, presided over the session.

Mrs. Bob Smith was selected to represent the club at a meeting held later that evening concerning the Red Cross Bloodmobile.

It was announced that a Christmas party for the Crippled Children would be held Nov. 27. The party will be given at the same time Jay-C-Ettes usually serve milk and cookies to the patients.

The party committee is composed of Mrs. Bob Winkle, Mrs. Roger Mann, Mrs. Joe Clark, Mrs. Brooks Beddingfield, Mrs. Graham Quinn, Mrs. James Lanier, and Mrs. William Howard.

Church Choir Is Entertained

An "appreciation dinner" given this week at the First Presbyterian Church honored the members of the choir. Their husbands and wives were guests.

The pastor, the Rev. Richard R. Gammon, presided at the informal occasion and introduced a "barber shop" quartette, who sang several selections. The quartette, recently organized, was composed of Leighton Clark, Mitchell White, Carl Denton and Norwin Pierce.

Following a turkey dinner, served by the Women of the Church, the group adjourned for choir rehearsals.

Belvoir Club Has Meeting

The Belvoir Club met at the home of Mrs. W. K. Clark Jr. Thursday. Nine members and five visitors were present.

Reports were given by Mrs. C. D. Clark on Home Beautification and by Mrs. D. M. Hollowell on gardening.

The demonstration was given by Mrs. Clarence Barnhill on "Buying Coats and Suits." She stressed the importance of knowing good material.

Welcomed as new member was Mrs. Claudell McCoy.

Games were led by Mrs. Barnhill.

Later, the hostess served lime ice, cheese straws, peanuts and sandwiches.

Local Teacher Attends Session

Mrs. Robert W. Fennell of 609 Oak St., Greenville, fifth grade teacher in the local public schools, was among 400 teachers attending the Classroom Teachers Regional Conference in Washington, D. C. this week.

The conference, sponsored by the National Education Association Department of Classroom Teachers, was the biggest regional conference in 19 years, according to an announcement. Teachers from 10 southeastern states and Puerto Rico attended.

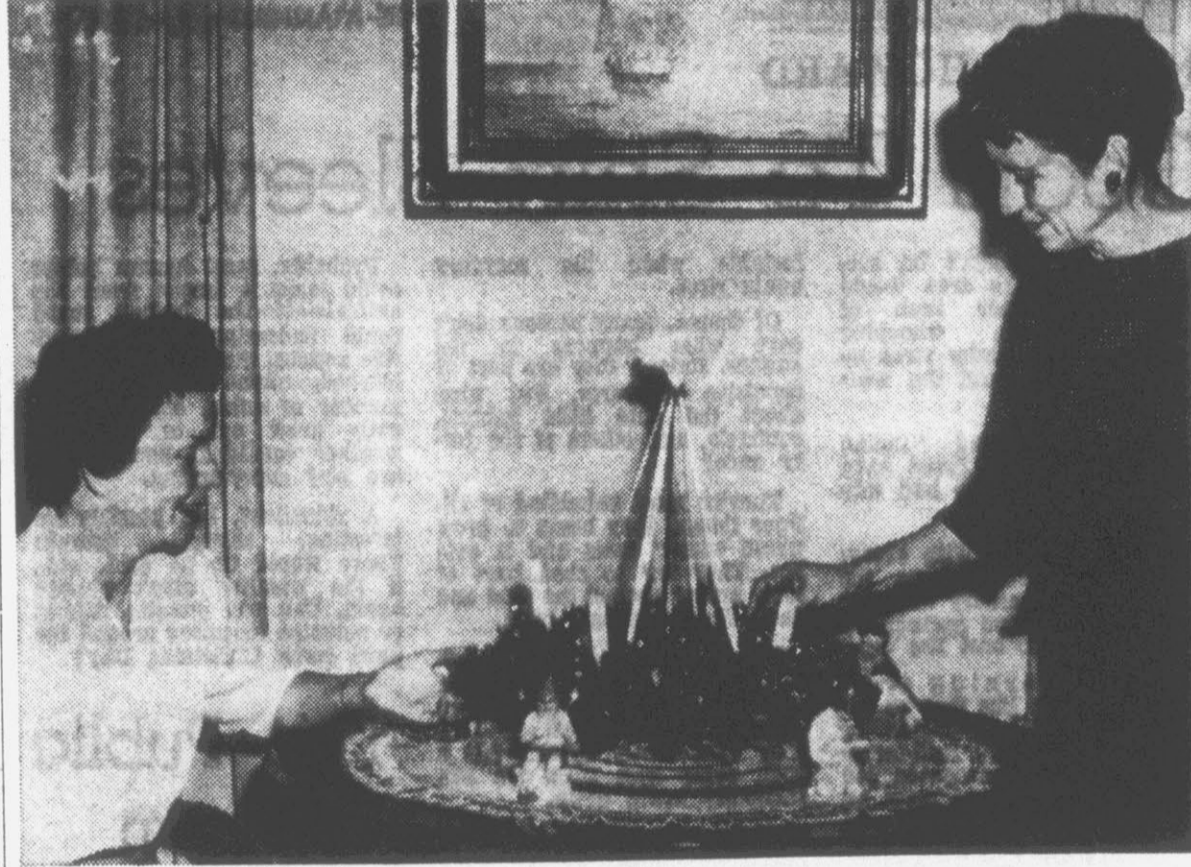

Among problems tackled at the conference were how to be better teachers, how to tackle some of the tricky problems blocking a fight for better working conditions and more time for teaching.

Mrs. Fennell is district canvass chairman.

Moose Buffet

The menu for Sunday buffet at Greenville Moose Lodge No. 885 is veal cutlets with sauce, baked ham, fried fish, grout cheese potatoes, garden peas, green beans, slaw, ham salad, celery hearts, pickled beets, pickles, olives, cornbread, rolls, butter, fruit jello, cookies, milk and coffee. There will be movies for children. The time is 6:30 to 7:00 p.m.

Home Tour Will Be Dec. 9

By PEGGY SMITH

On Dec. 9, a Christmas Home Tour, sponsored by the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the St. James Methodist Church will be held in Greenville.

Six homes will be decorated completely by local florists. Besides the traditional holiday decor, each home will feature an Advent wreath and worship center, made under the direction of Mrs. Connor Merritt Jr.

Residences to be viewed during the hours of 3 to 5 and 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. include Mrs. Alton Clapp, 1613 Beaumont Rd.; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Fennell, 609 Oak St.; Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Harrington, 1900 S. Elm St.; Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Honeycutt, Middle Place in Brookgreen; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Horton, 519 Longmeadow Rd.; and Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Willis, 1748 Beaumont Rd.

A tea is planned at the Harrington home during the appointed hours.

Personal guides may be obtained at St. James Methodist Church, located on Sixth St. and Forest Circle.

A donation will be expected by the tourists.

Decorators taking part are John Causey, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Jefferson, Mrs. T. W. Rivers, Mrs. Ina Whitchard, Mrs. Lena Tyson, and Mrs. Minnie J. Honeycutt.

From Rose High Thanksgiving Plans Are Underway

By CRAIG WORTHINGTON

The Rose High Student Cooperative Association recently announced plans for its Thanksgiving project this year.

According to Clark Brewer, president of the association, all students have been asked to contribute canned goods through their homerooms. The Student Cooperative Association plans to use these canned goods plus perishables they purchase in order to fix a basket for a needy family.

This week members of the National Honor Society prepared a Thanksgiving display in the showcase near the store.

This display consists of an open Bible, fruits and vegetables pouring forth from a horn of plenty, and a dried flower arrangement. Fall flowers add extra color to the display.

Jane Reynolds, senior, had charge of the display. Miss Frances Smith, math instructor, advises this group.

Last night thirty Rose High students rode to the Roanoke Rapids football game in a bus chartered by the cheerleaders. These students witnessed the 28-0 defeat of the Roanoke Rapids Yellow Jackets.

The Rose High School band and drill team will perform at the Kinston game next week. This game, which was postponed earlier because of sickness, is the Phantom's last game of the season.

Schools Need Support Every Day

American Education Week should afford citizens in every community an opportunity to take stock of the responsibility they have in the problem of public schools and higher education.

The public is prone to look to education officials for vitally needed leadership in this essential field. In too many instances, however, the public fails to follow the leadership afforded by qualified and dedicated educators. For too many citizens say with a shrug that the little school problems are problems of the school officials and they should find the answers.

But let the little problems grow over a period of time because of public apathy—because the citizens have failed to heed the words of their educators—and suddenly the public is vitally interested in the situation. Far too often their energies are directed toward blaming school officials for allowing the situation to develop rather than carefully evaluating the situation to see why it developed.

Education officials and faculty members of our public schools and colleges cannot by themselves de-

Minimum Wage Bill Reviewed

By LYNN NISBET

MINIMUM WAGES—Recent ruling by the Attorney General that the 1959 minimum wage act does not apply to employees of the State or any county or other political subdivision has the effect of adding another implied exemption to the thirteen specifically set out in the act. The surprised resentment voiced by Rep. Sam Burrow of Randolph, one of the sponsors of the act is understandable. So is the attitude of the State Departments of Labor and Personnel, that the ruling is moot for the simple reason that no employees of the State are currently on the payroll for less than the specified minimum of 75 cents per hour.

(Personnel admits that since the State does not pay overtime wages for overtime work, that some workers may receive less than 75 cents an hour for certain periods of time. The rule is to give compensating time off, rather than extra money, for the over hours.)

The furor over this matter, as well as the over the welfare cuts and the legislation which does not accomplish what sponsors thought it would, further emphasizes a point made in this corner during the session—that in many instances the eager-beavers were outsmarted by the old foxes in legislative process.

In that connection a bit of history about the minimum wage act may prove interesting. Bills of similar import were defeated in the legislature in 1953 in open voting. A like bill passed the Senate in 1957, which had voted down the previous offerings, but bogged down in the House committee by use of a parliamentary device which was widely criticized at the time. Governor Hodges expressed regret at defeat of the measure and immediately after the 1957 session adjourned he let it be known he would support another effort in 1959.

1959 BILLS—The first bill introduced on the opening day, HB3, which followed two resolutions, was a minimum wage bill. The source surprised many people, in and out of the Legislature. It was sent up by Rep. Dwight Quinn of Cabarrus, who is connected with the Cannon Mills and who had been a bitter foe of minimum wages in previous sessions. HB3 called for a minimum wage of 75 cents per hour, but specifically exempted from application all Federal, State and local governments, along with a list of other exemptions—in agriculture, domestic service, salesmen on commission, recipients of tips and gratuities as part of their compensation, workers in non-profit organizations, etc.

More than two weeks later, on February 20, HB121 was put in the hopper by Reps. Sam Burrow of Randolph, Frank Patterson of Stanly and Steve Dolly of Gaston. It called for a minimum wage of $1.00 per hour and listed about the same type of exemptions, without specifically mentioning governmental units. It also provided more detailed procedure for enforcement.

Both bills were referred to the Committee on Manufacturers and Labor, of which Ed Wilson of Caswell, a former and vocational agriculture teacher, was chairman; Radford Powell of Rockingham, a labor union official, was vice chairman, and which included among its members Burrow, Dolly, Patterson and Quinn.

The committee amended the Burrow bill by reducing the wage to 75 cents and adding a few other features of the Quinn bill, including January 1, 1960, instead of July 1, 1959, as effective date. It was further amended in immaterial points, passed both branches and was ratified into law on May 8, becoming Chapter 475, Session Laws of 1959.

Jubilant of minimum wage sponsors was somewhat dulled by side comments from opponents to the effect "you've got a law, but it don't mean much."

EXEMPTIONS—Burrow and his group contend that when they struck out specific exemption of governmental agencies they meant to include them in provisions of the bill. However, the specific exemption of "any person employed in or about a public or private nursing home for aged and/or infirm, or in or about all hospitals of every kind and character both public and private, or in an ezymosynary institution primarily supported by public funds", and any person confined in any penal, corrective, or mental institution of the State or any of its political subdivisions," left very few employees in the lower wage brackets. The Personnel Department says it has been unable to find any employee drawing less than 91 cents per hour, based on minimum annual salaries and a 40-hour week.

Traditionally, mental workers around hospitals and prisons put in longer hours for lower pay than most others. That situation if being improved. Anyway, hospitals are exempt in the bill. It requires no wide stretch to classify all public schools and colleges as "ezy-mosynary institutions," also exempted in the act.

The argument that the State could not be covered because it is "sovereign" will not hold up. To all intents and purposes the General Assembly is the State. And the General Assembly which fixes the salary of the Governor and all executive authority; and fixes compensation of its own members by voting expense allowances, certainly has the power to fix the wages of a janitor.

What the composite General Assembly intended may never be known. Each member knows what he intended to accomplish by his vote. It might just be that the old foxes, who didn't want a minimum wage law, out-smarted the eager beavers who thought they had enacted one. The one certain fact is that, with all the specific and implicit exemptions, it ain't much of a law—so far as the people who really need its protection are concerned.

termine the course of education. They must look to the public served by education for the support that must be had not just year after year, but day by day. And support in terms of tax dollars is not enough. There must be more.

There must be the genuine interest of the public in improving the programs offered by the schools. There must be greater interest shown in how well the students learn their lessons just as there is interest in how well the teachers teach their classes. There must be just as much interest in how much each student gains from a day in school as there is in how much it costs the taxpayers to provide the school for that day. There must be just as much interest in providing the youngsters with adequate tools for learning as there is in providing them with classrooms in which to learn.

The list could go on and on. The fact is that school problems don't develop suddenly. Classroom shortages seldom develop overnight. Serious teacher shortages do not come about in a single year. They develop usually over a long period of time . . . a period of time in which school officials, teachers and others are constantly issuing warnings that fall on deaf ears of a passive public.

If the public is to see the calibre of education it desires on the public school and on the college level, it must give constant support to our educational systems. It is not enough that attention be given to education at tax time or budget time. It is not enough that attention be given when there are too many students for the number of classrooms at the beginning of a new term, or when there are not enough teachers to man the number of classrooms available.

Education is a daily process and as such it needs the daily support and the daily attention of the citizenry if it is not to falter.

Gov. Hodges' Record Supports His Point

There are those who will take issue with Gov. Hodges' European statement that the attitude of government is the most important single factor in the growth of business and industry.

If he is called on to defend the statement, Gov. Hodges certainly will point to the industrial growth of North Carolina in recent years and the efforts put forth in that direction by his own office.

In the case of North Carolina, the attitude of Gov. Hodges' administration toward industrial development has added a tremendous impetus to the state's development effort. At every opportunity the governor has sought to make conditions favorable in North Carolina for further industrial development. He has placed the influence of the governor's office—which is always important—squarely behind development efforts of all kinds from the state level to the community level.

As a result of this, North Carolinians have become more development conscious in recent years than at any other time in the history of the state. At the state level an impressive program designed to attract industry has been developed and carried out. Of equal importance is that communities which a few years ago gave little thought to industrial development are now investing considerable sums of money in an effort to bring new industries to their communities.

While it may be difficult to determine where the attitude of government ends and other factors in the total development effort begin, it is safe to say that the attitude of Gov. Hodges' office has been responsible in a large measure for positive attitude toward industrial growth which now prevails throughout the state.

Without the influence and prestige of the governor's office behind the development program being carried on in North Carolina, it is reasonable to assume that the state would not have made the industrial progress it has in recent years.

Strike Problem Faces Congress

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Most of that basketful of suggestions for preventing big strikes will remain in the basket. But Congress will probably consider some, and even act on them, if the steel strike starts up again.

They range from compulsory arbitration to giving the President a whole arsenal of methods for stopping shutdowns which endanger the national welfare. The government already has a number of devices.

One of the most successful—at least in the sense of preventing railroad strikes—is the Railway Labor Act which applies to railroads and airlines but not the rest of American industry. It has worked better with rails than airlines.

This is the machinery when railroad unions and the companies can't agree:

Either side can call in a federal mediation board whose job is getting both sides to see the light. The mediation process alone delays a strike. If this fails, the board can suggest both sides submit their case to arbitration.

If both sides did, the arbitration board's findings would be binding on both. But this isn't the same as compulsory arbitration. Either side or both could refuse to accept arbitration.

If arbitration is rejected, the mediation board can notify the President who, in turn, can appoint a board of fact-finders who would examine the case, make their findings public, and make recommendations for a settlement.

While the fact-finders work, a strike is delayed 60 days. Although the fact-finders' recommendations aren't binding, they have the support of public pressure on both sides to accept.

There's a nationwide rail dispute going on now with three unions. It's a pretty good test for the Railway Labor Act. If it doesn't work in this case, the country faces a big strike early next year.

A different law—the Taft Hartley Act—covers that part of the American economy which is called big industry, has big unions, and is vital to the nation. This is the T-H machinery.

When the President thinks a strike if continued, or allowed to start, imperils the national health or safety, he appoints a board to look into the dispute. It reports on facts and issues, but doesn't make recommendations.

The President then can ask a federal court order to stop the strike for 80 days, as he did in the steel case.

At the end of that time—if there is no settlement, the union is free to strike again. That may happen in the steel case. The workers are back at work, under injunction, but no settlement is in sight.

Labor and management both despise the thought of a federal law providing compulsory arbitration. Under this a federal board, after hearing both sides, would give a decision which both would have to accept.

This would mean the government was fixing wages. In fairness to the workers, thus shackled by federal law, the government in time would probably have to fix prices, too. Then the American free economy would not be so free any more.

If the President were handed a new arsenal of weapons under a new law—ranging from government seizure of a struck industry to fact-finding and compulsory arbitration—it might work better than anything now on the books.

But, since there is so much dispute on everything proposed, the whole subject will get a tremendous kicking around if Congress ever reaches the point of going beyond what it has enacted so far in the labor field.

Woods Full Of 'Em

By HENRY HOWARD

Coats To Shirt Sleeves

It certainly wouldn't be surprising now if the area would experience another rash of colds, influenza, whooping cough, and other pesky virus infectious diseases with the weather like it is.

After an extended "Indian Summer," ole Jack Frost gave all indications that he had taken over for a spell.

So what happens? With everybody still shivering from the cold snap, the mercury in every thermometer around springs up like it's going to bust the top.

Yesterday morning everybody bundles up like they're going on a polar expedition or something. Then, by mid-morning, enough heat has descended from Ole Sol to drive them all into shirt sleeves.

This weather has its effects, too, on the animal life. The poor snakes, cold-blooded as they are, get dizzy from running in circles trying to find something warm enough to limber them up when it's cold, and something cool enough to keep them comfortable when the mercury again rises.

Of course, many persons don't care what happens to the snakes. Indeed they are sort of repulsive creatures. But what about the cute little rabbits, squirrels, and others of the furry race?

They're most befuddled of all. Poor things, they begin to grow warm winter coats and it gets hot. They try to shed part of their armor against the cold and Jack Frost suddenly bites.

With unsatisfactory regulation of their furs, the little creatures scurry here and there seeking shelter from the cold or else they exhaustedly search for a cool, damp spot when the sun suddenly bears down.

Likely, the wildlife world is nearly as confused about the uneven weather as we are, but the so-called inferior creatures are not likely to be victims of a virus epidemic. That's probably because they know how to take care of themselves, and do their best at it.

Probably, most human beings could learn a lesson from the animals—if the human mind could understand the instinctive actions. Such a lesson, well-learned, might cut down the number of colds, etc., that usually grow out of unnatural weather conditions such as we are now experiencing.

A ridiculous, but possibly interesting, thought, though: There would be no cold, etc., if the weather didn't change again. Can you imagine daisies or petunias blooming around the yard come Christmas Day?

The world is ruled by a dictator (Big Brother), who can watch you through a two-way TV screen. (Allman's sub-title: "A singing commercial for totalitarianism.")

Then there's one entitled "Com' Out Through the Fallout, Baby." In it, Allman says, he's simply headed for President's call to interest teenagers in science by communicating with kids in the language (rock 'n' roll) they understand. The lyrics: "Crawl out through the fallout, baby, when they drop that bomb."

"Crawl out through the fallout with the greatest of aplomb. "When your white count's getting higher, hurry, don't delay. "I'll hold you close and kiss those radiation burns away."

But Allman, a native of Chicago who spent his early years in Western Canada, doesn't seem sick-sick-sick when you talk to him.

He says it isn't Allman that's sick—it's the rest of us as we patter about our trivial tasks in a world on the edge of total destruction.

"Hydrogen bombs and the threat of worldwide radiation occupy the same place sex did in the Victorian era," he says. "We know it's there but we just don't talk about it. This is bad."

But he insists he isn't trying to bring the rest of us a message: "I don't want to raise anyone's standards but my own."

Is he worried about the future? "Well, Earth isn't a very important planet, anyway."

New In Record Trends

By JOE LEWIS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Is your record collection suffering from malnutrition? Tired of a steady moon-spoon-June drone from Tin Pan Alley?

Well, there's a new album entitled "Folksongs for the 21st Century"—and it should hit most record fans right between the woofers and the tweeters.

It's written and sung by Sheldon Allman, a composer-actor-night club comedian and opera singer, whose songs sound like a musical version of Edgar Allan Poe's horror stories.

In Allman's fertile, but pessimistic mind, there's a bleak new world ahead where:

Visitors from other planets run into parking problems on Earth.

Everyone can read everyone else's mind—to everyone's discomfort.

Television horse operas are dry gulched—and supplanted by space operas. (Same plot: just switch sombreros and stardust for space helmets and satellites.)

Allman has used rock 'n' roll, Elizabethan rounds, Bach fugues, ballads and blues to spoof what he terms:

"Tin Pan Alley's banalities, its insistence on musical clichés even in the face of nuclear warfare, interplanetary travel and, conceivably, visitors from outer space."

He also admits borrowing liberally from such diverse sources as Lewis Carroll (the 19th Century British satirist and author of "Alice in Wonderland") and television's Jack Paar.

The album's 14 songs include these preposterous situations: Some has the misfortune to fall in love with a girl who pops in and out of a fourth dimension.

A mathematician is so wrapped up in his work that he even proclaims his love in equations: "X squared plus 7X plus 2, minus 11 thirds."

Other Editors Saying . . . A Threat To Remember

(Henderson Dispatch)

Refusal of tobacco growers in Southern Rhodesia to impose limits on their production intensifies the threat to American flue-cured leaf in world markets. J. B. Hutson, president of Tobacco Associates, says the situation could necessitate still further reduction in the United States crop, and warns growers here that their one hope of salvation is to produce the best possible quality of leaf that is demanded by overseas buyers.

The tragic angle to this situation is that the more the American crop is reduced the more the Rhodesians will grow. This might in time eliminate U.S. leaf from world competition, in view of high prices here under the support program and the fact that South African farmers work for much less than our people here do, and hence can sell their offerings in world markets.

No one here wishes to see tobacco prices drop below their present level. Since he has to pay fabulous prices for what he buys, the American farmer can ill afford, if at all, to cultivate a crop for less than what he is now receiving. To do so, would upset the whole economy of the area where he operates.

There is reason to question the policy of this country in going all over the world to train other people to become competitors of our system. That is what has happened and is happening in Southern Rhodesia. Both money and know-how have been sent abroad by the United States since the war to finance and demonstrate the means of crowding products of farm and industry here out of the export field. The chickens are coming home to roost now after these years of give-aways. Tobacco is only one example. Textiles is another. There is tungsten also.

No developments are in sight to indicate an easing of the Rhodesian competition in world tobacco markets. That threat had as well be recognized once and for all. As Mr. Hutson says, the only hope of conserving advantages now possessed is to make the finest tobacco produced anywhere, so good indeed that it will command a better price wherever it is sold. From here on, year in and year out, our growers must strive to safeguard what they have, or risk losing it entirely, or largely so.

Analysis Of Business Trends

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here are more look-aheads in business, based on analyses of developing trends and a few bits of advance information:

Biggest booze year: Holiday liquor sales are starting off strong; distillers' advertising budgets are highest ever. In consequence December sales will push the year's total to a new high mark.

Costlier white pepper: A Chinese syndicate in Singapore is reported to have cornered the white pepper crop, and prices have started up. Black pepper is so far unaffected.

Still higher salmon: Despite current high prices, canners' stocks of salmon are being depleted. It will be scarce next year, causing a rise in retail prices.

Bargains in air conditioners: Because of the new Federal excise tax effective December 1, dealers have bought ahead. As storage and insurance charges mount, many will be offering goods beyond what it has, expected so far in the labor field.

A new appliance finish: By bonding vinyl to steel, a finish that looks like fine wood is now produced. It will be tried out on washers, dryers and other large appliances soon, replacing the more common hospital white.

Instant jelly: A British inventor has perfected a ready-mix jelly that can be prepared at the breakfast table. It will be tested on American markets soon.

Brighter rugs: In this country a new process has been developed which adds luster carpeting will be in stores next year.

Tire sales boom: Tire companies' prospects glow. For one thing, there are more cars than ever; for another, because of delay in 1960 production resulting from the steel strike, more old autos are being re-tired instead of retired.

Higher royalties will naturally result in higher prices. European markets will first be affected; American markets later.

Still more cigarette brands: With more than 100 brands and sizes now on the market, the cigarette manufacturers are working on still more types. Since menthol has been a new stimulant to sales, several companies have laboratories working on other additives. Some are experimenting with the addition of dried leaves of other aromatic plants.

MUSICAL HITCHHIKING HELD ILLEGAL

The New York Supreme Court has enjoined a record company from selling a long-play record with the title "In the Glenn Miller Mood." The music, while in imitation of the Glenn Miller style, was by another orchestra whose name appeared only in fine print. The action was taken on suit by the Glenn Miller estate.

Most profitable way to pass on: When the Old Promoter dropped in for his weekly visit, we remarked that he was looking poorly.

"I'll be getting myself to the doctor," he said. "When I die, I don't want it to be from the ague. When I have to go, I want to be killed by an auto, preferably driven by a wealthy man."

"How macabre!" we exclaimed.

"Yes, but how practical!" he replied. "Mind you, I want to live. But if I pass on under an auto, my heirs will get double indemnity on my insurance policy. And the way juries are handing out awards in auto accident cases, they would get thousands more from the driver and his insurance company. And note this, son: both the insurance and judgment would be free of income tax!"

Phantoms Stun Roanoke Rapids Homecoming, 27-0; Wommack And Pirates At College Stadium Tonight

ROANOKE RAPIDS — Greenville's Phantoms became a "homecoming spoiler" last night as they marched back and forth over the turf of Roanoke Rapids High stadium for an unexpected easy 27-0 triumph.

Looking sharp as tacks, the Greensies took the opening kickoff and marched 59 yards to set up the game in the opening minutes of play. After that one touchdown, Roanoke Rapids was never able to come back as Coach Bud Phillips' Phants scored almost at will.

The victory tightened Greenville's grip on second place in the Northeastern AAA loop but all hopes of finishing in a tie for the title and another crack at Washington was washed down the drain with news of the Pam Pack's second half 13-6 victory over Jacksonville.

Last night's win all but assured the Phants of a second place finish and their most successful season since the James Speight high school era.

Opening like a ball of fire, Erskine Duff directed his club to a quick touchdown before many of the standing room only homecoming crowd had a chance to find a seat. Mixing his plays well, Duff took the Phants on a 59 yard march following the opening kickoff.

Robin Wilfong bucked straight ahead from the Greenville 41 to midstrip and Alan McArthur picked up a first down with a six yard plunge. McArthur took a pitchout from Duff and hit Wayne Sumrell with a pass covering 19 more yards.

A 15 yard penalty carried the ball to the Roanoke Rapids' ten. Sumrell bulled to the five and Wilfong smashed over for the initial touchdown. Larry Roberts booted the point and it was Greenville out front, 7-0.

Greenville had another scoring opportunity early in the second period after recovering a Yellow Jacket fumble on the RR 33. The Phants drove to the three but a jump pass by Duff was intercepted by Johnny Daughtry.

Roanoke Rapids were unable to move and Greenville took over again—this time on the RR 31. Pushed back a yard in two stabs at the jacket line, Duff took to the air on third down and found Bert Aycock with a perfect strike. The senior co-captain sprinted in to the end zone for the second score of the night. Roberts booted the point and it was 14-0 at halftime.

The Yellow Jackets showed their lone offensive spark after taking the kickoff in the second half. With Johnny Daughtry and Ken Running finding plenty of daylight, the Jackets drove from their twenty to the Greenville seven before stalling.

Greenville's defense became air-tight when pushed in their own back yard and four downs netted only six yards for the Jackets. The unsuccessful drive broke the backs of the host club and they were never in the game again.

Three plays for Greenville carried the ball out to the 16 and Duff elected to gamble on fourth down. Wilfong made the call look good as he bulled through the center of the line for three yards and a first down.

It was a crucial play for the Greensies but they made it good and were off to the races again. Duff found Aycock open again for gains of 35 and 16 yards. McArthur climaxed the drive by going over from the three. Roberts booted the point and it was 21-0.

The final Greenville touchdown took some patience but after two touchdowns were called back because of penalties, the Phants finally went over for their final score.

Duff dived over from the three but a penalty was called, moving the ball back to the eight. Duff took to the air and hit Randy Bass with a touchdown toss but another penalty was called and Greenville had to start all over from the 23. Wayne Sumrell, running at his best, picked up 15 yards in two carries and Duff added six more. Sumrell scored the touchdown by driving over from the two yard line. The point was no good and the final score stood 27-0.

"I thought our boys looked real well," stated Coach Bud Phillips. "We got a real good performance from Wayne Sumrell, Bert Aycock, and Louis Dail. We just wish we had another shot at Washington."

Coach Don Curtis of Roanoke Rapids ranked the Greenville squad on equal terms with Washington. "I think if they had met at a different time and Greenville was at full strength, it would have been a different story," noted Curtis.

Winterville Wins Fourth

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville girls made it four straight last night, trouncing Hookerton 63-29. The Winterville boys made it three straight since an opening season loss with a 55-47 decision over their visitors.

Carolyn Cayton pumped in 30 points to lead the Winterville girls to a one-sided decision. Her point total was one point more than Hookerton's entire production. Marie Nichols added 17 points for the winners.

James Braxton was the big gunner for the winning boys who had to scrap all the way before claiming victory. Braxton netted 19 points and Mac Worthington scored 13.

Oak City Takes 2 From Chicod

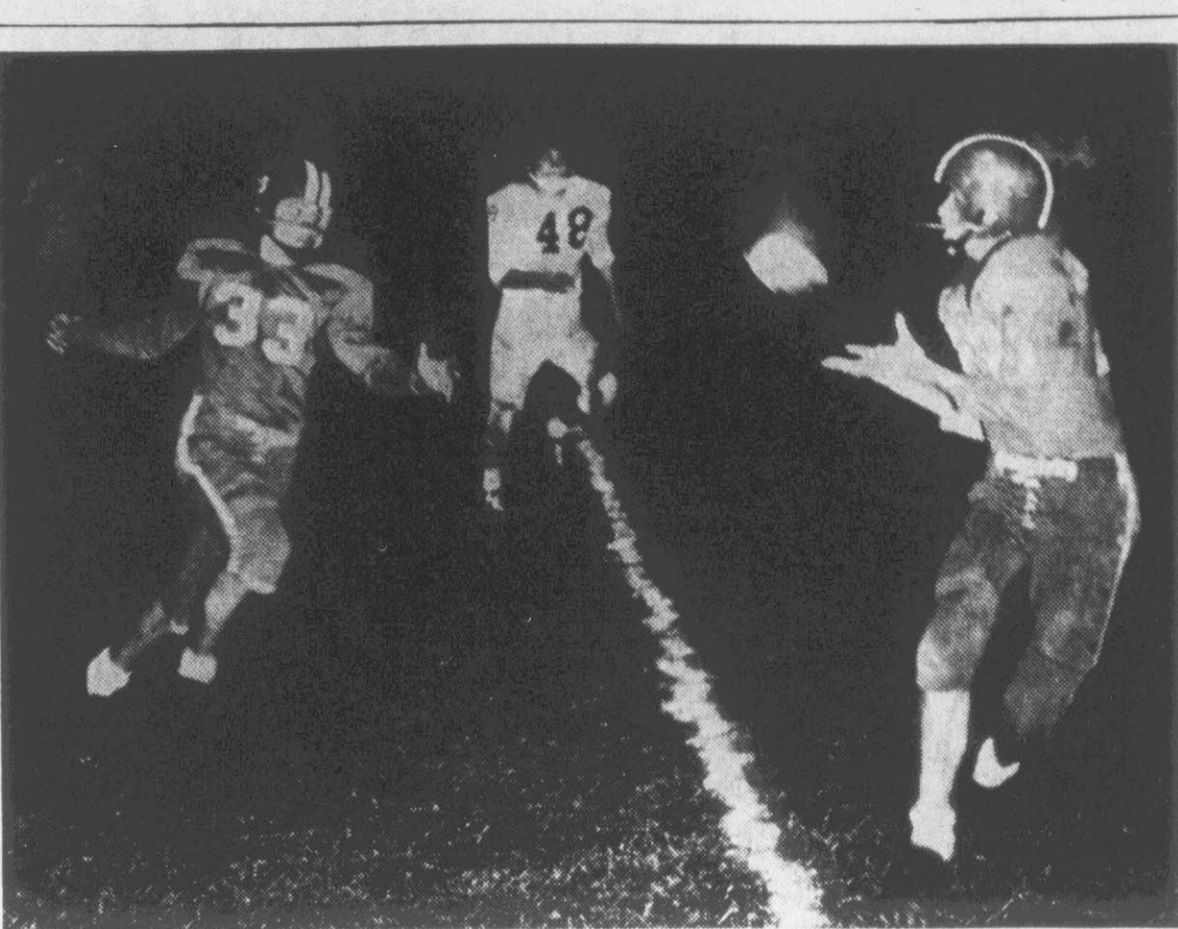

CHICOD — Oak City's rampaging basketball squads continued to bowl over Pitt County opposition last night, downing Chicod in a doublebill. The girls finished out front, 54-46, and the Oak City boys cruised to a 62-54 decision.

Tempe McCrocker proved to be too much for the Chicod girls, burning the nets at a constant pace for 30 points. Mary Louisa Hudson was the big scorer for Chicod with 23 points.

Oak City jumped into an 18-10 lead in the first quarter and were never headed in chalking up an impressive victory over the defending county male champions.

Raymond Fornes poured in 18 points for Chicod but it was no avail. Mosley of Oak City was high for the night with 22 points.

UCLA Holds On For 21-12 Over State Win

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

With only three major college football teams remaining on the unbeaten-untied list, the wheel of fortune stopped in the niche marked "Syracuse" today.

The Orangemen—No. 1 team in the nation—drew powerless neighbor Colgate as their opponent. The Red Raiders, once a power to be reckoned with—and many times conqueror of Syracuse—have hit lean days, and Ben Schwartzwalder's operatives figured to have no trouble winning No. 8.

It is a perfect spot for Colgate to score the upset of the season, however.

UCLA beat North Carolina State 21-12. Miami (Fla) smashed South Carolina 26-6, and Kirksville (Mo.) drubbed Bradley 38-8 in Friday night's games.

The other two members of the Big Three — Texas and Southern California — could be in trouble.

The Longhorns, ranked No. 2 in the current Associated Press poll behind Syracuse, have been showing signs of weariness, and Texas Christian, their opponent, is no pushover.

If Texas can pull it out, the Longhorns are virtually in. If they lose, and Arkansas should lick Southern Methodist in another Southwest Conference game, the razorbacks go into first place in the league and the favorite's spot to act as host in the Cotton Bowl comes New Year's Day. That's how precarious Texas' position is. Southern Cal, ineligible for a bowl game, had a date with dangerous Baylor, an in-and-out club, which barely lost to Texas a week ago. The Trojans are in the NCAA's doghouse, so their interest in the year's work is strictly academic — to keep their record clean.

Other conferences also are down to the put-up-or-shut-up stage. Here's how they shape up:

Big 10—Northwestern and Wisconsin tied for the lead, play, respectively, Michigan State and Illinois. Both the leaders are favored, but if one falters it's curtains.

Southwestern — Georgia, the leader, faces a toughie in Auburn. But if the Bulldogs are in an unenviable spot, imagine how Mississippi must feel. Ole Miss, still in the running, goes against Tennessee, the club that ended both Auburn's and Louisiana State's streaks. LSU plays Mississippi State.

Atlantic Coast — Clemson, unbeaten, tangles with Maryland. Wake Forest, still in the race, could be knocked out of it against Duke. Clemson and Wake Forest meet next week.

Ivy—Penn., in first place, is the heavy favorite over Columbia. But this won't settle anything. Cornell, Princeton, Yale, and Dartmouth all are still in it.

Big Eight—Oklahoma, weak but still conceded the title, plays Army in an intersectional game. But that doesn't interest the others. The Sooners can't return to the Orange Bowl, so the runner-up makes the trip. At the moment three teams are tied for second—Kansas, Colorado, and Iowa State. Kansas plays Oklahoma State, and Nebraska clashes with Colorado. Iowa State is involved in a nonleague game against San Jose State.

TWO MOST WANTED MEN . . . East Carolina's touchdown twins, Glenn Bass (15) and James Speight (29), have ripped enemy lines to ribbons this fall and lead the North State Conference in rushing. The speedy duo will close out the Pirates' home schedule tonight when they strut their stuff against Newport News.

HIGH SCHOOL SCORES

S-P Loses Two

STOKES — Bear Grass took a couple of close decisions from Stokes-Pactolus last night in non-conference activity. The girls game was 48-47 and the visiting boys won in the final seconds, 57-55.

Donald Hardison fired in 38 points for Stokes-Pactolus but it was in vain as Bear Grass came from behind to cop the contest in the final seconds of action.

Tigers Can Win ACC Title Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mathematically, Clemson could win its second straight Atlantic Coast Conference championship today. But the game is football, not mathematics, and it hardly can be called an exact science.

To cinch the crown today, the Tigers (5-0 in the ACC) must defeat Maryland (1-2) and Wake Forest (3-1) must lose to Duke (1-2). Otherwise, it will be next weekend, or the next, before the title is settled. In today's other ACC game, Virginia (0-3) is at North Carolina (3-2).

Two league members played non-conference foes last night, South Carolina losing to Miami by a 26-6 score and North Carolina State losing to UCLA by 21-12.

A 152-pound quarterback named Fran Curci and a 200-pound fullback named Frank Bouffard made Miami too much for the Gamecocks. Miami scored on drives of 31, 80, 76 and 69 yards. Two of the TDs came on passes from Curci to Bob Rosbaugh and Bill Miller and two on power runs by Bouffard.

South Carolina's only effective offense came in the second period. Joe Gomes intercepted a Curci pass in Miami territory. Gomes caught a 17-yard pass from Ken Norton in the drive and then Steve Satterfield scored for the Gamecocks on a one-yard sneak.

N.C. State, in its first meeting with the West Coast school, was unable to cross UCLA's 45 yard line until the second half and by then the Wolfpack was trailing 14-0.

Quarterback Roman Gabriel, who has missed much of the season because of an injury, directed N.C. State on a 66-yard drive in the third period, climaxed by Ron Podwika's 28-yard run for a TD. UCLA also scored in the third period and then State put the cap on the goal crossing as Gabriel added 6 yards to John Morris for a touchdown in the closing minutes.

Clemson Coach Frank Howard plans to start against Maryland the same lineup that has shut out the last four opponents. The Tigers, 6-1 for the season, rank fourth nationally in scoring defense, having yielded an average of 4.9 points in seven games.

Maryland can test that defense with several varieties of the "T", spread and "T" formations.

Wake Forest needs to win the Duke game, next week's date with Clemson and then beat South Carolina to gain at least a tie for the title. And Clemson must lose both its remaining ACC games for the Deacons to win.

The Deacs have the top total offense mark in the ACC, having averaged more than 282 yards per game. But Coach Paul Amen figures his team hasn't faced the likes of Duke's defense, second best in the league. Amen said his ace passer, Norman Snead, appears recovered from a back injury.

It will be "Dad's Day" at Durham. Should Duke, now 3-5 overall, lose, it will be the worst Blue Devil season for losses since 1929. The team has been hurt badly by injuries.

Grifton Cops Couple In Pitt Competition

GRIFTON—Pitt County Conference activity last night saw Grifton snatch a doubleheader from Grimesland in the first conference tilt for both schools.

The Grifton girls got scoring power from their three veterans to down Grimesland and its touted star, Mabel Singleton, 78-65. The Grifton boys had little trouble in streaking to an easy 56-37 win in the nightcap.

John Smith poured in 34 points to pace the girls victory for Grifton. Sandra Price and Jane Newborn followed with 26 and 18 points respectively. Singleton was high for the night with 35 points. Billy Mahler and Kenny Rogers paced the male victory for Grifton with 16 and 13 points, respectively. Bruce Cayton supplied Grimesland's lone threat, scoring 10 points.

Winning Streaks At Stake Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The two longest winning streaks in Southern Conference football competition went on the chopping block today and the odds-makers said the lengthier of the two was due to be snapped.

West Virginia's Mountaineers, bidding for their fifth league championship in six years, played host to Virginia Tech with the Gobblers a three-point favorite to end the Mountaineer streak — longest in the nation in conference play—at 30. Both teams carried 2-0 circuit records into the clash.

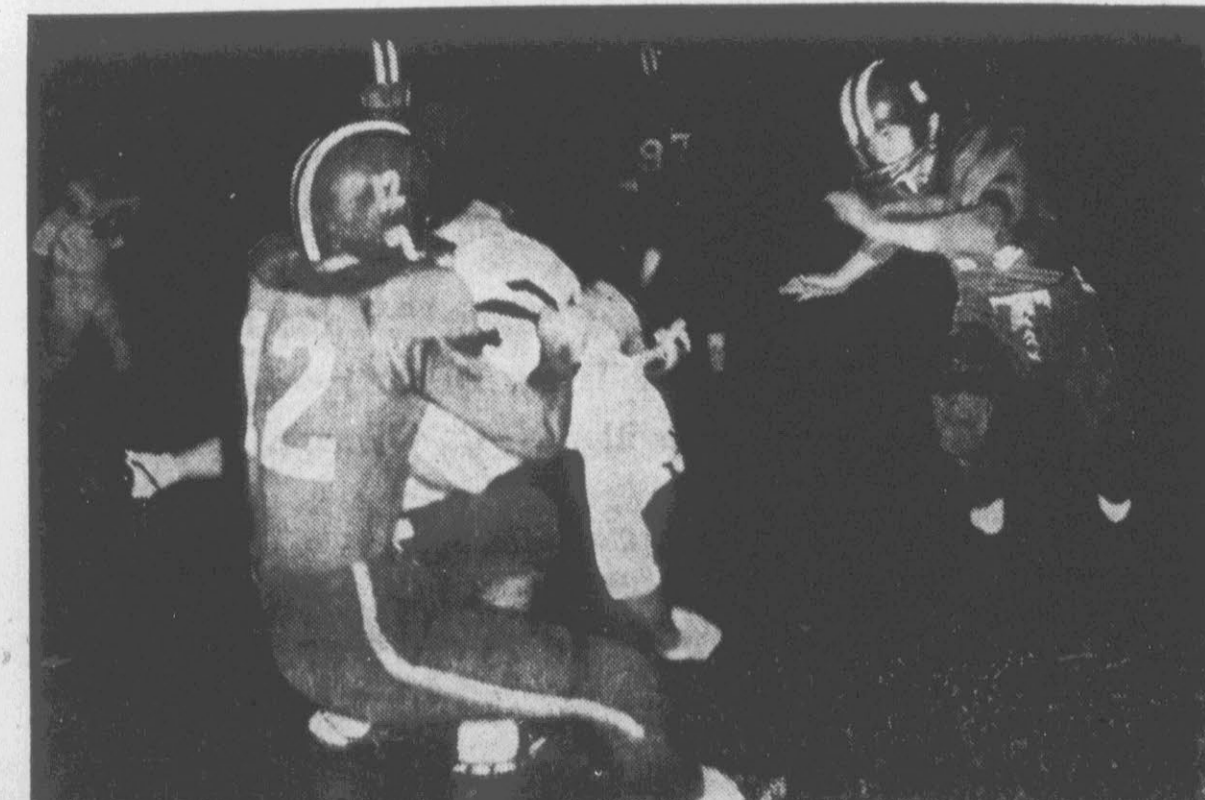

In another game equally as important in the final determination of a conference champion, front-running The Citadel (4-0 in league play) was at Virginia Military Institute (3-0-1). The game, featuring expert aerial attacks by both squads, was rated even.

Richmond's Spiders, boasting a 2-1 record with all the victories coming at home, were four-point choices—at home—over Furman's Purple Hurricane (2-1). Richmond would tie Furman for fifth place with a triumph.

The other winning streak, a modest eight, belongs to a non-conference team, Florida State. The Seminoles—who haven't lost to a Southern-Conference team since 1955 and hold victories this year over Virginia Tech, The Citadel and Richmond — were 11-point choices to whip William and Mary's Indians.

George Washington was a 28-point underdog against Navy at Annapolis, Md., in another non-conference scrap today, while Davidson was a slight underdog at home against Lehigh—beaten only 7-6 by VMI.

The results of today's Tech-West Virginia and The Citadel-VMI battles determine the significance of the last two games involving the four teams in the scrap for conference honors.

THAT'S ALL, FRIEND—Billy James (12) grabs hold of Roanoke Rapids' Ken Running and Randy Bass is about ready to apply the finishing touches. The Greenville defense was superb last night in their easy win.

East Carolina will be seeking to snap a four game losing streak tonight when it plays host to Newport News Apprentice F' hool.

Jim Wommack, an expert in the fireworks profession, will put on large fireworks show before the expected capacity crowd.

ECC's halfback duo of Glenn Bass and James Speight will be striving to add to their conference leading rushing totals. It will be the final home game for Speight, senior and Greenville native.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lenoir Rhyne, the nation's No. 1 ranked small college and gunning for its fifth straight North State Conference championship, is host to Elon tonight in the conference's top game.

The only other all-conference action sends Guilford to Salisbury. Appalachian entertains Presbyterian of the South Carolina Little Three while East Carolina is host to Newport News Apprentice. Western Carolina has an open date.

A victory over Elon, loser of five straight games, would sew up a title tie for undefeated Lenoir Rhyne. Lenoir Rhyne's Bears are 4-0 in conference play and have one conference game remaining after today. Appalachian, which has finished league competition with a 5-1 record, is assured of at least second place.

Bethel Boys Win As Smith Leads

BETHEL — The Bethel boys build up a 29-11 halftime lead and then fought off a last half rally to edge past Aurora, 4-35. The visiting girls captured the initial contest, 54-26.

Smith led the winning boys with a 22 point production and Keel followed with 10. Deal was high for the losers with 14 points.

The Aurora had little trouble registering a victory behind the 25 point effort of Brantley. Mazingo was high for the losers with 16.

Patterson Visits Home State

SHELBY, N.C. (AP) — Floyd Patterson, former heavyweight champion, came home Friday night to dedicate a Negro community center because, in the words of his lawyer, "boxing has been good to him and he'd like to repay it in some way."

And the 24-year-old Negro fighter promised his racially mixed audience:

"If it's God's will that I should win back my championship, I would like to come back here right after the fight and celebrate with you."

The visit was Patterson's first to Cleveland County since his parents moved north when he was one-year old.

The Other Day

we were reading where collectively we Americans have assets worth more than a trillion dollars, not including our personal things, such as our home appliances, fur coats, automobiles, and the like.

And that figure doesn't include the wealth of our nation, our town, state and Federal governments. A trillion dollars is a thousand billions: $1,000,000,000,000, which is really an inconceivable sum and the figure is authentic, for it was compiled by the Institute of Life Insurance, from reports of the Federal Reserve Board and other such agencies.

These assets included only the holdings of individuals in stocks, bonds, mortgages, securities, bank accounts, shares in savings and loan associations, credit unions and savings bonds, pension funds, home and farm ownership, etc.

This figure does not include all the wealth invested in unincorporated businesses, which means much of all small business, which must be another trillion.

How in the world can Communism get an ideological leg to stand on when confronted with such American facts? Only by twisting the truth, can they have any argument.

This reminds us that you'll be treated like a millionaire in our service department and like a wise man in our sales department. Let us demonstrate what we mean.

Back Taxes Called For

AYDEN — Ayden Commissioners went on record Monday night as favoring the collection of several thousand dollars worth of back taxes due the Town of Ayden from its citizens.

Plans are to be formulated in the near future to collect the taxes or sell the property for the tax. It was reported some $20,000 in back taxes is due the town.

It was also decided at the meeting that all water and light bills must be paid by the 10th of each month. If not paid, water and light service will be cut off.

ECC Prof Speaks To NCEA Group

FALKLAND — Dr. Elsie Dotson of the psychology department of East Carolina College spoke on "Mental Health" at Wednesday's meeting of the local unit of the North Carolina Education Association. Principal Ed Warren introduced the speaker.

The speaker declared that "self is the best mental hygiene plan we have today. Individuals are continually trying to realize themselves to know their potential. Too often our American heritage is over protective, which results in the capabilities of our school children," she stated.

Dr. Dotson suggested that teachers should broaden their perception of children's capabilities. "A genuine love for children and a sincere desire to understand them were noted as basis essentials in successful teaching," she declared.

An open discussion followed Dr. Dotson's talk. Refreshments were served. Mrs. Dorothy Hardy presided.

SANCTUARY REMODELED — The Rev. Henry Melvin, pastor of Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church, stands in the pulpit of the recently-remodeled church. Consecration services will be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. The church will be observing its 159th anniversary and homecoming tomorrow. Reedy Branch Church is located near Winterville. FORTY-ONE YEARS SERVICE . . . Mrs. Elizabeth Savage with her student teachers at Wahl-Coates Laboratory School.

MISS CHRISTINE JOHNSTON . . . has helped students in Greenville for forty years.

VETERAN INSTRUCTOR . . . Mary Greene has served ECC for over 30 years as a member of the English Department.

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

During American Education Week it is only fitting for us, as citizens of these United States, to take stock of our education system, how it has changed and what the teachers, who form our leaders of tomorrow, feel toward it.

Pictured on this page are teachers from Greenville, Pitt County, and East Carolina College whose combined experience totals almost 200 years. How do they, the ones who have seen many changes in education, feel?

As a whole, these teachers feel the educational system has completed a circle. Mrs. Savage, a veteran of 41-years service here in Greenville puts it this way!

"In 1918 we were teaching the three R's, stressing drill and accuracy in arithmetic; phonics was our main tool in teaching spelling and reading. Children were grouped according to ability.

"In 1928 educators came to the conclusion that this perhaps was not good. So "modern" educators began to recommend other groupings and other methods of teaching. As a result of this "modern thinking" we began dividing the children alphabetically, rather than by ability. We threw phonics and drill out the window in favor of "free activity."

Miss Bertha Johnson of Grifton said this was a period when teachers were asked to teach by projects. Here the children, through their activities learned "incidentally". In too many instances the children just didn't get the fundamentals."

"After a period of a few years" progressive education took over and more changes were made," according to Miss Estelle Greene of Greenville's Rose High.

The pendulum has begun to swing back, she continued, "and once again we are teaching the three R's, plus languages, science, social studies, music and art." This completes the circle.

Change has not been limited to the school "subjects" or the way a child is taught or learns. There has been change in the school buildings themselves, both in number and in type of construction.

Forty-one years ago here in Greenville there were only three white schools and one Negro. The Model School on Colaniche Street had one first, second, third and fourth grade and was run by the college, then called East Carolina Teachers Training School, for practice teaching. Evans Street School, which was located where Sheppard Memorial Library now stands, had grades one through seven. The high school, which was on the site of the present junior high had grades eight through 11 then. There was no 12th grade.

The Model School was replaced by Wahl-Coates Laboratory School in 1928 and both Evans Street School and the old high school were destroyed by fire.

The Negro school, a wooden structure built in 1903 on the site of the present Fleming Street School, burned in 1923 and was replaced by the present building in 1924.

Now in Greenville there are six white schools, including a junior high and senior high and three Negro schools.

East Carolina has also grown, from the original six buildings to the present 30-or-more. Likewise Pitt's county system has progressed from the small schools to the large consolidated units.

The number of students who attend these schools has also changed and increased as the number of schools and buildings has grown.

According to Miss Mary H. Greene, an English instructor at ECC, only 800 students, all women, were enrolled in classes at the college when she began teaching there. Now, over 4,000 students (men out numbering the women) are enrolled on campus with many more taking extension work in off-campus classes. Twenty-four courses were offered by the English Department then as compared to 44 now.

In commenting on the changes in education, Miss Exam said "I am proud of the improvements in our schools that today give to all children the special, wider education once reserved for those of privileged groups."

Teachers change too, but Miss Christine Johnston feels a teacher should "help each individual child live a full, happy life and to watch him grow into a successful student. To take a child as he comes to you and help him grow — to me — that is teaching."

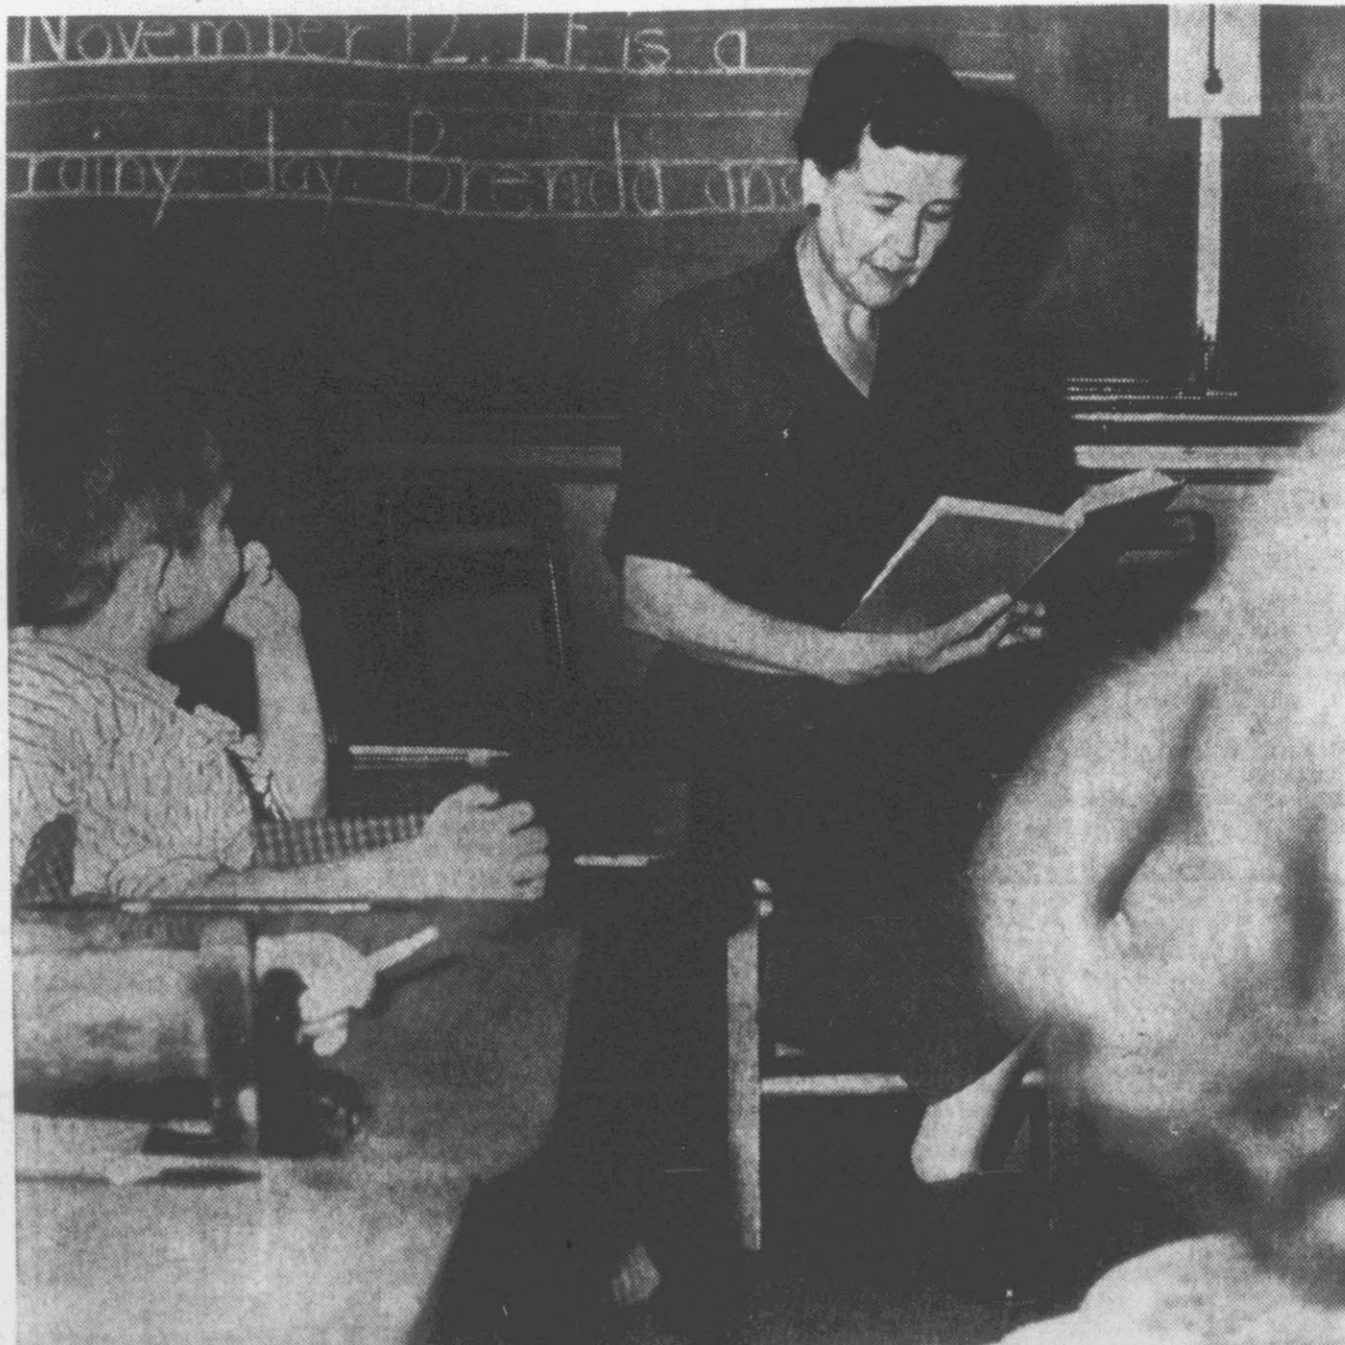

Mrs. Savage has this to say about teaching. "There is no profession which provides more joy, amusement, and satisfaction than teaching, nor one that requires more work and dedication, nor has more heartaches. Each day is a new adventure with many young lives looking to you for guidance. A teacher never knows what small act or work will make the lasting impression on some child."

What of the future? These "old masters" of the profession are looking forward to a future in which the educational institutions of Pitt County and North Carolina will continue their development in service and in prestige and in continued and increased emphasis on higher standards. Will they ever reach their "goal"? Will they change and go down-hill?

GREENVILLE MATH TEACHER . . . Rose High School's Miss Estelle Greene has taught in Greenville for 40 years.

STOKES' MISS BRUCE EXUM . . . has taught in Pitt County for 35 years.

A VETERAN . . . of over 35 years in Pitt County, Miss Bertha Johnson of Grifton has taught many children.

Scientists Nearing Production Of Nuclear Heat Electricity

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Writer

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP)—Los Alamos scientists appear to be on the verge of a breakthrough in efforts to produce large amounts of electric power directly from the heat of atomic reactors. From a piece of metal the size of a .22-caliber rifle cartridge, they produced on their first test a few months ago enough current to keep a 30-watt light bulb burning constantly.

S. C. Committee To Study Prison

COLUMBIA (AP)—A Richland County grand jury and a special legislative committee have been asked to look into charges of improper practices at the state penitentiary.

These developments occurred Friday as M. S. Stackhouse of Dillon, a member of the State Parole Board, was issuing a bitter reply to criticism leveled at him by the prison superintendent, Col. Wyndham Manning.

In his statement, Stackhouse declared that Gov. Hollings and Manning would "abhor" a probe into charges of dope and liquor dealing in the penitentiary.

Sol T. Pou Taylor gave the grand jury a report on these matters despite a statement by Gov. Hollings earlier this week that the issue probably wasn't worthy of such scrutiny.

In a letter to the grand jury foreman, L. K. Walton, Taylor said: "I feel this is a matter for you and your fellow jurors to determine."

The solicitor said his office would investigate if the grand jury wishes. The grand jury meets here Dec. 14.

Meanwhile, Hollings asked a special legislative committee, headed by State Rep. Horace Benjamin of Greenwood, to make a complete investigation of the charges relating to alleged improper practices.

Credit Group To Meet Next Week

The annual Stockholders' Meeting of the Greenville Production Credit Association will be held in the Courthouse in Greenville at 10 a.m. Friday morning, Nov. 20.

F. L. Little Jr., manager of the association, announced today.

This organization has 1,700 stockholders and it is believed that there will be stockholders attending from all sections of Pitt and Greene counties at this meeting. An interesting program has been arranged, Little said.

city on a power plant scale. Their real goal is to develop a reactor designed to convert the maximum possible amount of heat directly into electric current.

The system was explained recently to newsmen touring the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, birthplace of the atom bomb. The laboratory was built by the government and is operated by the University of California Radiation Laboratory.

Dr. George M. Grover, scientist in charge of the project, said the reactor being used in the experiment is theoretically capable of producing 2,000 kilowatts in this way. This would be equal to the output of a power plant in a small town.

The little device is called a plasma thermocouple. It is a complicated relative of the thermocouple on your furnace.

Conventional thermocouples consist basically of two strips of dissimilar metals touching each other. When one of them is heated they produce a tiny electric current. They are used mainly as thermometers and other measuring instruments. Their electrical output is very small.

N.C. Airports Included In Federal Grants

WASHINGTON (AP)—Airports in the Carolinas were included in $37,076,702 for 288 airport construction projects in 49 states approved Thursday by the Federal Aviation Agency.

The allocations for the 1960 fiscal year were made only for projects on which matching funds are assured. Local sponsors are required to match the federal money on a 50-50 basis.

The allocations include: North Carolina—Asheville Municipal Airport, $72,000; Douglas Municipal Airport, Charlotte, $110,000; Gastonia, $22,225; Greensboro—High Point, $144,012; Hickory, $99,000; Raleigh-Durham, $520,500; New Hanover County Airport, Wilmington, $16,250.

South Carolina—Columbia, $36,000; Hartsville, $32,500; Newberry, $17,500; Orangeburg, $50,000.

Party Uncovers Searching Man

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Fred Stevenson and his Beagle hound went hunting Thursday in a wooded area of northwestern Pennsylvania.

Stevenson, about 72 of Lakewood Ohio, failed to return at 5 p.m. to a home where he had been staying. A search party was formed.

Five hours later one of the party spotted Stevenson walking along a country road. As it turned out, Stevenson wasn't lost.

His first question was, "Have you seen a Beagle hound around? I've been looking for him all night."

At last report the hound was still lost.

sists of the little cartridge, which acts as one of the metals, and a gas which takes the place of the other metal. The gas is cesium, which at normal temperatures is a light metal. This assembly, which formed a part of one of the fissionable fuel elements, is lowered into the reactor core where it is heated to about 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

The heat gasifies the cesium atoms and strips them of their electrons. The result is a mishmash of atomic cores and electrons called plasma.

Although the gas at 3,000 degrees is hot, it is cold compared with the little cartridge, which is made of uranium, carbon and a metal called zirconium.

In the reactor the uranium undergoes fission, which raises the cartridge temperature to about 4,000 degrees. The fission process produces enormous numbers of electrons from the zirconium. The electrons rush into the relatively cold plasma and come out of the assembly as electric current.

Dr. Grover foresees the use of this process not only for power, but also as a propulsion system for interplanetary vehicles. Hot plasma of this kind might constitute jet fuel for a space ship that has gone beyond the pull of the earth's gravitation.

Pitt Students To View Film

The Pitt County Insurance Exchange will sponsor a safety film to be shown to the high school students of Pitt County.

The color film, made by Lt. Kenneth Sutton of the Rocky Mount Police Department, is composed of scenes of automobile accidents taken only minutes after they occurred, in and around Rocky Mount.

According to spokesmen, the Exchange hopes, by showing the film to high school students, it will create more safety minded drivers.

Guests of the Insurance Exchange last night included: Lt. Sutton; Mrs. Herman Baker of the Pitt County Board of Education; O. E. Dowd, Principal of Rose High School; Bill Corbett and J. Roy Martin.

President Bill Stroud of Ayden presided.

Damage Light As Local Car Blazes

Greenville Firemen were called to Third St. in front of the Pitt County Court House Thursday about 12:45 when a car, owned by Lloyd Coward of 303 Church St., caught fire.

Fire officers said only the front seat of the car burned and damage was described as light.

MUNICH, Nov. 9—Tar Heel European tour today passed its half way mark in time; only Zurich and Paris remain before the 68 Carolinians head home Saturday, due to arrive Raleigh-Durham 6:45 Saturday evening.

Today's luncheon in a vaulted dining room of Bayerischer (Bavarian) hotel, had an even 200 guests subtract the Americans and that leaves 132 Europeans who heard the message to increase trade relations with North Carolina and its ports.

Governor Luther Hodges told the group there were a half dozen good prospects, with two slated for rather immediate action, from firms this side of the Atlantic who plan to expand North Carolinaward. At least a thousand individuals controlling that many or more businesses have been contacted personally by the visitors.

Hodges believes in the salesman's maxim if you make enough calls, etc. He said Dr. Boden of the German American chamber of commerce told him our state was five years ahead of the rest of the United States in its solicitation effort.

At the Munich luncheon, toastmastered by Dr. Jutta Schaller, Munich representative of the American chamber of commerce in Germany, this personable German showed a show of hands revealed 30 blew a whistle to get the meeting under way, after a reception by Pan-American with sherry, vermouth and orange juice.

Hodges, who made his talk before the lunch was served, referred to his "country boys" bringing the state's invitation to European business. He praised our people as folks who don't know any different than to give a full 2-man team monthly to Chicago, Philadelphia and New York to follow up contacts made there in away except the will and desire of its people and the fact, he said, that North Carolina is the new industrial frontier of America. This lunch was different in one way; it started with smoked trout instead of eel.

In a talk to members of his group prior to the lunch, Hodges revealed Lord Rotes, London, head of the Dollar Export Council, told him this trip would result in good things for North Carolina.

The Governor cited favorable publicity in New York, London, and European newspapers and added the News and Observer (Raleigh, N.C.) "is the only paper in the civilized world that hasn't given favorable publicity to this effort of 68 citizens to better their own state at their own expense."

A show of hands revealed 30 members of the group had never been to Europe before. He said the American consul in Stuttgart had the opinion this was the best disciplined large American group he'd ever seen in Germany.

Plans to capitalize on contacts are being talked but have not been firm. It was explained that the state's C&D department sends a 2-man team monthly to Chicago, Philadelphia and New York to follow up contacts made there in similar prior visits, and that among other things, M. A. Arnold, sang American songs including Alexander's Ragtime Band, No Business Like Show Business and even Joshua Fit the Battle of Jericho. And you never saw the like of sauerbraten and goulash and weiner schnitzel consumed.

Weekend found Tar Heels at several places besides Dachau and Munich. Dr. Henry Jordan and Louis V. Sutton went to Berlin. Others named previously were at Garmisch. Vienna attracted Henry Link, B. C. Young, W. A. Allen, Holmes Plexico and Jack Pait; they did the sights all the way from one act in the opera to the Spanish riding school (horses know worldwide), the Vienna woods and the Danube river, birthplaces of Beethoven, Schubert, Bach and Johann Strauss, and winding up with the Lido Marin. They admitted they saw it all in a hurried fashion. Pait's observation was the Viennese women were the most beautiful in the world, barring those of Robeson county. Norman Coker, J. N. Pease and Howard Holderness toured stretches of nearby Bavaria including Oberammergau.

With Roland Jobb, I attended the German Evangelical Lutheran church; others were at Catholic cathedrals. Evenings there were visitors to the Hofbrau Inn, and night clubs where entertainers

Men Convicted Of SS 'Fraud'

Two Negroes, Deator Davis, 41, formerly of Greenville, now living in Tarboro, and Willie Wilson, 48, of Ayden have been convicted of violating employment security laws by accepting unemployment compensation checks while working and drawing pay.

According to C. S. Barnes Jr., Claims Deputy from Raleigh, Davis was working for a Durham company here and at the same time drawing unemployment insurance. Wilson was employed by two different firms, one of Grifton and one of Lumberton, and still collecting his unemployment check.

Both men were sentenced to 30 days on the roads, suspended upon payment of court costs and will be required to repay the amount of overpayment of unemployment claims, which in Davis' case amounts to $11. Wilson will be required to repay $680.

Barnes pointed out that any person convicted of violating the employment security laws becomes automatically ineligible to receive benefits for one year from the date of violation.

Rabbit Bears Artist's Name

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Leonardo da Vinci is a happy albino rabbit who finds his carrots with the aid of contact lenses.

Leo is on display at a pre-convention meeting of the Delta Regional Optometric Contact Lens Conference which begins Sunday.

The contact lenses give Leo's eyes a bright blue appearance instead of the normal albino pink.

Officials here said the rabbit was named after the man, who among other things, discovered the principles of contact lenses in 1508.

To Have Homecoming
The Farmville Pentecostal Holiness Church will have its annual homecoming Sunday.

Dinner and a singing convention will follow the 11:00 Sunday morning worship service. The public is invited.

Archaeologists are using aerial photography to locate crypts in the Middle East and Mediterranean areas.

Toastmasters Get Charter

Greenville Toastmasters officially received its charter in recent ceremonies.

The charter was presented by Dr. F. W. Smith of Burlington, district governor.

Pres. Howard Wilson presided over the meeting.

Merle Bynum and Sherrill Bryant gave two minute talks and Bill Brewer gave a five minute talk.

Jack Calvert evaluated the talks. James Joyner gave the invocation.

Guests from Kinston and Goldsboro were present.

The aim of Toastmasters is to teach club members to become proficient in public speaking.

Leo is on display at a pre-convention meeting of the Delta Regional Optometric Contact Lens Conference which begins Sunday.

The contact lenses give Leo's eyes a bright blue appearance instead of the normal albino pink.

Officials here said the rabbit was named after the man, who among other things, discovered the principles of contact lenses in 1508.

To Have Homecoming
The Farmville Pentecostal Holiness Church will have its annual homecoming Sunday.

Dinner and a singing convention will follow the 11:00 Sunday morning worship service. The public is invited.

Archaeologists are using aerial photography to locate crypts in the Middle East and Mediterranean areas.

Toastmasters Get Charter

Greenville Toastmasters officially received its charter in recent ceremonies.

The charter was presented by Dr. F. W. Smith of Burlington, district governor.

Pres. Howard Wilson presided over the meeting.

Merle Bynum and Sherrill Bryant gave two minute talks and Bill Brewer gave a five minute talk.

Jack Calvert evaluated the talks. James Joyner gave the invocation.

Guests from Kinston and Goldsboro were present.

The aim of Toastmasters is to teach club members to become proficient in public speaking.

Men Convicted Of SS 'Fraud'

Two Negroes, Deator Davis, 41, formerly of Greenville, now living in Tarboro, and Willie Wilson, 48, of Ayden have been convicted of violating employment security laws by accepting unemployment compensation checks while working and drawing pay.

According to C. S. Barnes Jr., Claims Deputy from Raleigh, Davis was working for a Durham company here and at the same time drawing unemployment insurance. Wilson was employed by two different firms, one of Grifton and one of Lumberton, and still collecting his unemployment check.

Both men were sentenced to 30 days on the roads, suspended upon payment of court costs and will be required to repay the amount of overpayment of unemployment claims, which in Davis' case amounts to $11. Wilson will be required to repay $680.

Barnes pointed out that any person convicted of violating the employment security laws becomes automatically ineligible to receive benefits for one year from the date of violation.

LOOK OUT! THAT'S MY SHOTGUN AND IT'S LOADED!

AND YOU WERE CUFFED WITH YOUR OWN HANDCUFFS, COPPER! HOW COME?

I ALWAYS CARRY A SPARE KEY, PAL— AND NOW YOU'RE WEARING THE CUFFS! ANYTHING ELSE YOU WANT TO KNOW?

THAT SHOT?

I JUST SLAMMED A COUPLE OF LIGHT BULBS ON THE FLOOR. NOW GET UP AND MARCH!

YOU WERE SO ENGROSSSED WITH YOUR BOOK YOU DIDN'T PAY ANY ATTENTION TO ME.

CRIMINAL LAW AND THE PAROLE SYSTEM

MEANWHILE, A POLICE TRAFFIC COPTER ON A ROUTINE CHECK MAKES A REPORT.

THERE'S A BAD SMOKE VIOLATION AT ERIE AND JONES STREETS.

IT'S MAKING TRAFFIC OBSERVATION IN THIS AREA DIFFICULT. CHECK AND REPORT.

IO-4. CAN YOU GET THE NAME OF THE FIRM?

WILL DO.

WE'RE DROPPING DOWN NOW. WE CAN SEE LETTERING ON THE SIDE OF THE BUILDING. STAND BY.

WHILE ON A NEARBY ROOF— THAT SMOKE IS SAVING MY LIFE BY CUTTING OFF THE SUN'S RAYS FROM THAT GLASS.

MIRACULOUSLY IT CAME UP RIGHT AFTER FIFTH AND HIS GANG LEFT. ANOTHER FIVE MINUTES AND I WOULD HAVE BEEN FRIED TO A CRISP.

BUT HOW LONG WILL IT LAST? AND WHAT HAVE THEY DONE TO TRACY? HOW CAN I POSSIBLY SIGNAL ANYONE?

DISPATCHER TO TRAFFIC COPTER—A TELEPHONE CALL REVEALS THERE IS STOKER TROUBLE AT THAT ADDRESS. WORKMEN ARE PROCEEDING TO REMEDY THE TROUBLE.

MY LIFE DEPENDS ON THAT SMOKE. IF ONLY SOMEONE SHOWS UP BEFORE THE WIND SHIFTS.

Group To Study Death Penalty

RALEIGH (AP)—The 19 member organizations of the State Legislative Council will be asked to look over a six-point program headed by a proposed study for eliminating the death penalty in North Carolina.

The program to present to the 1961 General Assembly was adopted by the Council Thursday. It also elected James A. Glover of Nashville to a new term as president.

In addition to the study aimed at eliminating capital punishment, the council listed these goals for 1961:

- 1. Safe transportation for migrant workers; 2. An increase in the widow's allotment during the period of settling the estate of a husband who died without a will; 3. An income tax deduction for dependents by a mother who works outside the home; 4. Licensing of day child care facilities; and 5. Modernization of public welfare residence laws.

Smoking Said Not Linked With Heart Disease

CHICAGO (AP)—Tobacco smoking, linked by some statistical studies to higher than average incidence of heart disease, appears to have no effect on blood cholesterol levels, a Cleveland heart specialist reported today.

Cholesterol is a fat-like substance in the blood. Many investigators believe there is a relationship between high cholesterol of blood levels and hardening of the arteries, a condition that precedes most heart attacks.

Dr. Irving Page and two associates tested the blood cholesterol levels of 20 laboratory personnel, 15 regular smokers and 5 non-smokers. They checked their blood samples before and after they smoked two non-filtered cigarettes within a 10-minute period.

Writing in the Journal of the American Medical Assn., the doctors reported the cholesterol levels remained essentially unchanged during the tests.

Immigration into the United States reached a peak in 1907 when 1,235,349 persons were admitted.

MIL AMIGO

By W. B. Burnett, 1958. From the novel published by A. Knopf, Inc. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 16

Although Bud could have lived in barracks at the post, he preferred to have a place of his own in Mesa Encantada. It was a bare room above a feed store, on the far eastern edge of town, just beyond the Mexican settlement, and it was reached by way of a rickety old outside stairway.

Sergeant Desportes bounded up the stairs and hammered abruptly on the door. After a moment, Bud's voice called: "Yes? Who is it?"

"It's me." The Sergeant tried the door, but it was bolted.

"Just a minute, Sergeant," called Bud. He sounded sleepy.

There was a short wait, then Bud appeared in the doorway fully dressed. "What's the trouble, Sergeant?"

"Lolita's gone and I want you to help me look for her." He explained briefly what had happened.

"Well, I'll be damned," said Bud; then he reached inside for his hat. "Sure. Let's go." He came out and shut the door behind him on the dark room.

As they went down the stairs together, the Sergeant said: "We'll separate. Don't question anybody till we have to. Just look around. I'll meet you in front of the Mexican arcade in half an hour."

"Yes sir," said Bud. "Anything you say."

Half an hour later, the Sergeant, waiting impatiently in front of the arcade, saw Bud coming leisurely down the street toward him, accompanied by a small Mexican boy.

"Here's Luis, Sergeant," said Bud, as they came up. Luis was one of Lolita's many cousins, who often hung around the back of the Major's house, looking for pickings from the kitchen. "Tell him, Luis."

"Aunt Maria sent me out to find you," the little boy explained. "She said to say everything was all right. That's all she told me to say."

The Sergeant heaved a long sigh of relief, gave Luis a quarter, and sent him on his way home with a pat on the back.

"Whew," said Bud. "I'm glad that's over. I was getting worried."

The Sergeant made no comment on that score; he was busy trying not to remember the thoughts that had been going through his mind when he'd been searching frantically for Lolita. Dangerous riff-raff had been drifting through the Mesa Encantada district ever since the trouble at La Paz. He'd even had wild suspicions of Blackpony. And now, disgusted at his womanishness, he felt like apologizing to the young Apache.

"Well, I guess we might as well go to bed," said the Sergeant.

"Yep," said Bud. "Guess so. Sure is hot, ain't it? Feels like earthquake weather. I was in one once in California. Weather was just like this. Moon just like that. She sure did shake. Well, good-night Sergeant."

"Goodnight, Bud, and thanks."

"Anytime I can do anything, just let me know."

To the Sergeant's surprise Maria was waiting outside his door when he got back.

"Just thought you'd like to hear about it," she said, "since I put you to all this trouble. After I left you I went back and made myself some coffee. While I was drinking the third or fourth cup and just sitting there waiting and hoping, I thought I heard something, so I went to Lolita's room and looked in. She was in bed. I asked her where she'd been and she said she couldn't sleep so she went out and walked around the Camp."

"That's a strange thing for her to do," said the Sergeant.

Maria hesitated for a moment; then she said: "Sergeant, I'm worried. Lolita's changing. I don't know what's got into her lately. She won't read her books. She don't like to play the piano any more for Mrs. Major. She . . . she talks back to me. Oh, I know girls her age get flighty and all . . . but, Lolita! She's always been such a . . ."

Maria bent her head down and began to weep. Talking to her soothingly, the Sergeant took her by the arm and walked her back to the kitchen door of the Major's house.

"Won't you have a talk with her, Sergeant? Maybe you can find out what's wrong."

But the Sergeant recoiled from this task. "No, Maria. I couldn't. I don't know anything about young girls. She'll be all right. I'm sure."

But he wasn't sure at all and lay tossing on his bed, hour after hour, unable to sleep while the heat seemed almost like a physical presence in the little room, and the moon set, and coyotes yapped beyond a ridge to the north.

"Now where in hell could she have got to?" he wondered to himself. "She shouldn't be running around at night like that."

Finally he got out of bed, lit a cigarette, and leaned on the window sill; then he gave a start. A dark figure was squatting in front of his door.

"Blackpony?"

"I just stay here. Wait for dawn," said Blackpony.

"Why?"

"Trouble."

"What trouble, Blackpony?"

"You know trouble. I see you look all over town. You find?"

"What was I looking for?"

"Bud, too. He look. You find?"

"Well, we quit looking, didn't we?"

Blackpony laughed sardonically in the darkness. "Maybe you no think right place to look."

"What do you mean? We found."

Okay then—you dins. Must look right place."

The Sergeant smoked in silence for a long while, wondering what the cunning young Apache was getting at; something, you could bet. Now Blackpony scratched a match and lit a cigarette. The Sergeant noticed that he was wearing an expensive new yellow shirt.

"Yes," said Blackpony, chuckling. "Cost much money."

"Where did you get the money?"

"Maybe Blackpony steal horse."

The Sergeant felt a sudden irritation. "If you've got something to say to me, say it. Otherwise, get on out of here to talk Sergeant. Sergeant good man. Very good man. Blackpony like good man. Blackpony more good man you think. But not foolish good man. Blackpony got eyes."

"And you think I'm blind."

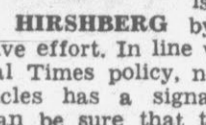

"Sometime man too good-blind."

"Go on—get out of here," said the Sergeant, fed up. Apaches could carry on conversations like this for hours at a time. Contrary to what most people thought, Apaches were very talkative. The trouble was that they seldom said what they meant; but would go round about and round about obliquely till the listener's head began to buzz. Geronimo had been a genius at such talk, and had bored and irritated negotiating American cavalry offic-

Important international cultural event of the month is publication of THE AMERICAN IMAGINATION, a special issue of THE LONDON TIMES LITERARY SUPPLEMENT devoted to American creative genius. In 1954 The Times put out "American Writing Today," still regarded as a fine estimate of what writers were amounting to five years back THE AMERICAN IMAGINATION now does the same thing for all aspects of creativity—theatre, music, art, education and, of course, literature. We think that reading this substantial and thorough book—for that's what it is, in magazine form—will give you one of the best judgments we know of as to just what contemporary America is accomplishing by way of creative effort. In line with immemorial Times policy, none of the articles has a signature, but you can be sure that the people who have written the articles are knowledgeable and capable. Now on our first trip through the issue, we can let you know that we've already read more stimulating comment about American culture than we've come across in many months—looking at us from across the ocean, maybe those Britishers have a truer view of us than we can get of ourselves. . . .

HIRSHBERG

Important local cultural event is the launching of the Pitt County Art Society's campaign to finance a new Art Centre here in Greenville. Sparked by the indefatigable and indomitable Mrs. Rachel Moore, the Society is now raising enough money to buy a building to house its many activities—something that has been needed here for a long time. Anyone wanting to know more about the projected Art Centre can call Mrs. Moore or This Column—and ditto for anyone wanting to make contributions, any and all of which are welcome.

Education for Business

With business in some form or another dominating most elements of life in the U.S., questions about the proper education of businessmen are becoming more numerous and urgent. Trying to answer some of them, two recent books have just been published—HIGHER EDUCATION FOR BUSINESSMEN, by Robert Gordon and James Howell, and THE EDUCATION OF AMERICAN BUSINESSMEN, by Frank Pierson. For those who can't read both of them, we recommend a brief but revealing commentary on what they have to say in the latest—November 14—Saturday Review, entitled "Are We Really Educating Our Business Leaders" by a three-man panel of outstanding businessmen and educators. . . .

Boswell Again

Many of you have read or at least heard of the famous series of books now in the process of being edited at Yale and published by McGraw-Hill, based on the famous Boswell papers. They're a complete journal of the life of James Boswell, once famous as Samuel Johnson's only biographer but now rapidly becoming famous in his own right as the hero of BOSWELL IN LONDON, BOSWELL IN EUROPE, BOSWELL IN SEARCH OF A WIFE, and—coming out November 25—BOSWELL FOR THE DEFENSE. It concerns the years just after his marriage, when his journal lapses, probably because he was too contented to worry about writing it, according to the book's editors. Biggest episode is Boswell's defense of a convicted sheep-stealer in 1774—though many other things happen besides this, including his first meeting with Johnson and the birth of his two daughters.

Local Scene

Coming soon is the initial presentation of a new theatre group, the Pioneer Players, which will put on JANUS, a comedy, later this month. . . . Over the weekend at the local cinema is the movie version of Bernard Shaw's DEVIL'S DISCIPLE, billed as something special in film fare. . . .

Today's Review

A new member of the ECC English Department offers his comments on a recent satire about money raising. AND THE ANTIC ASSEMBLY, by Dorothy Erskine. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1959.

The essence of humor, so Aristotle wrote, is in the picturing of human beings at their worst; in demonstrating deviations from accepted or normal patterns of behavior. Dorothy Erskine has written a very funny book, indeed, and one in complete harmony with this classical definition.

The town of Dorset, Delaware, has need for a wing to the Lister Memorial Hospital. The money raising campaign provides the focal point for satire on the medical profession, hired fund raisers, and the whole social structure of a community. Nothing is sacred; every phase of activity points up human hypocrisy and degeneracy. And yet the effect is achieved with no underlying note of bitterness or cry for reform. Rather, everything is reduced to the ridiculous, leaving no illusions about people in any walk of life. Yet all of the characters somehow have an appeal for sympathy and understanding.

In many ways the novel presents an almost eighteenth century approach: in its series of character vignettes bordering on caricatures, in the nature of its satire, and in its clever pattern of tying all loose ends so that no one gets hurt except the bad guys, and they not too badly, and everything works out beautifully for the good, except that they have learned very little from their experiences, and will continue their lives virtually unchanged.

The novel is remarkably vigorous, and at times simply audacious; further, it offers beyond the surface humor, the pleasures from effective satire.

On June 25, 1921, Samuel Gompers was elected president of the AFL for the 40th time, defeating John L. Lewis 25,022 votes to 12,324.
