Despite Big Moon Rocket Failure, U. S. Preparing Payload For Venus

Huxley Predicts 'New Thinking' Dooms Religion

CHICAGO, (AP)—A new order of thinking will doom all religions, Sir Julian Huxley of London, internationally famed biologist, has predicted. Huxley, grandson of Thomas Huxley, noted biologist who defended Charles Darwin against attacks, made the prediction Thursday at convocation exercises at the University of Chicago. The meeting was in conjunction with ceremonies commemorating the 100th anniversary of the publication of Darwin's "Origin of the Species." Some 2,000 scientists are attending. Huxley said "there is no longer either need or room for supernatural beings capable of affecting the course of events in the evolutionary pattern of thought. "The earth was not created," he said, "it evolved. So did all the animals and plants that inhabit it, including our human selves, mind and soul as well as brain and body. "Evolutionary man can no longer take refuge from his loneliness by creeping for shelter into the arms of a divinized father figure whom he has himself created, nor escape from the responsibility of making decisions by sheltering under the umbrella of divine authority, nor absolve himself from the hard task of meeting his present problems and planning his future by relying on the will of an omniscient, but unfortunately inscrutable, providence. "A religion of some sort is probably necessary, but it is not necessarily a good thing."

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States pushed ahead with plans for another stab at space today while still seeking the reason for the failure of its biggest moon rocket. In about two weeks an attempt will be made to propel a payload toward the vicinity of the planet Venus and into orbit about the sun. The launching vehicle will be a Thor-Able rocket. The nation's latest space effort ended in disappointment Thursday when a mammoth Atlas-Able rocket fizzled shortly after it was fired in an attempt to put the first satellite into orbit around the moon. The Atlas-Able, 10 stories high and the most powerful rocket ever assembled by this country, was on its maiden flight. It crashed hundreds of miles out in the Atlantic Ocean after its second stage failed to ignite. Scientists are studying telemetry data and launch movies to learn the cause.

Focal point of the investigation was a mysterious piece of material that fell from the rocket about 30 seconds after launch. The chunk, which appeared to be on fire, spiraled slowly into the ocean a few miles off shore. Officials theorized it was part of a protective fibreglass fairing that covered the third stage and the 372-pound satellite. The fairing was to split in two and blow away when the rocket was outside the earth's dense atmosphere. It is believed the fairing may have broken prematurely, exposing the upper stage and payload to intense friction. Had it been successful, the American satellite would have whirled into a lunar orbit and transmitted back crude pictures of the moon's surface and other information on its environment. Representatives of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration conceded that the failure leaves the Soviet Union with a wide lead in the space race.

Dr. John Lindsay, chief of NASA's solar physics program, said that unless the space agency can find extra money somewhere, it probably will not try another moon shot for several months. He said a duplicate payload is available but no Atlas-Able. The next lunar attempt may have to wait until the powerful Vega rocket now being developed is ready next fall. Otherwise, the only deep space shot on the schedule is the December Thor-Able probe toward Venus. The payload is not expected to come anywhere close to that distant planet, but is designed to travel a course that a later package could follow when Venus moves into a favorable position in January 1961. The forthcoming shot primarily will be a test of the ability to receive radio signals from as far out as 50 million miles in space.

Storm Carries Snowfall To East; New York Hard Hit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A snowstorm swept into the East today and dumped up to 8 1/2 inches of snow in New York State. The heaviest fall in New York was in the Adirondack Mountains and foothills. Boonville was burdened with an overnight topping of 8 1/2 inches and it thickened the blanket of snow on the ground there to one foot. The storm skipped the lower Hudson Valley and Long Island, but left 3 to 4 inches of snow in Syracuse, Utica and Rome and 2 inches in Buffalo and Rochester.

Vermont had its first widespread snow of the season. It reached a depth of three inches in the central and northern sections of the state. The snow area extended from the upper plains area eastward through the upper Ohio Valley into the North Atlantic states. Many areas had only flurries. Farther south, rain fell. Cold air engulfed virtually all of the country except the north, eastern and southwestern corners. The mercury shivered to -6 in Leadville, Colo., -5 in Trinidad, Colo., -4 in Bemidji, Minn., and -3 in Lone Rock, Wis. A storm also struck in New Mexico. Snow ranged up to 6 inches in the mountains in the northern part of the state. A low of 3 below zero was registered in Estancia Valley. A Thanksgiving Day storm dropped up to 14 inches of snow in some sections of the Rocky Mountains. Strong winds drove the storm eastward into the Plains and Great Lakes states. The Weather Bureau said the snow would move farther eastward today through New England.

Authorities added, however, that negotiations will begin with the lowest bidder with the hope that a satisfactory building cost figure will be agreed upon. Farmville's proposed new post office will be erected on the present parking area between Fitzgerald's Medical Clinic and the Haywood Smith Fire Station. The proposed structure will be a modern building with adequate parking and loading areas behind and mail-loading platforms. Although the project has been delayed, local leaders remain optimistic that negotiations will be successful and prevent Farmville from missing a new post office for the third time in the past three decades. According to records at the Farmville Enterprise, Lindsay Warren, in the 1920's, sent word to the town that prospects "are bright". Ten years ago, Farmville was again on the proposed list but failure of property owners and officials to agree upon a site and price caused that effort to fall short. In 1957, the current drive for a new office in Farmville was begun by Director T. W. Willis of Farmville Economic Council. He visited postal officials in the National Capital and has kept the matter alive since that time.

Fourth Of Five N. C. Escapees Is Captured

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. (AP)—A dozen police officers waited outside a hotel room here until an escaped convict walked out wearing the hat and pistol of a work gang foreman slain in North Carolina. The officers were local, federal and state officers who had hoped to catch two of the five fugitives who fled the work gang just over the state line near Jefferson, N.C. Monday. They caught only John W. Burgess Jr., 33. He offered no resistance Thursday. Officers had hoped another escapee, James T. Waller, 35, would show up. "We'd been sitting outside his room for four hours waiting for him to come out," an FBI agent said. "When he came out he had the guard's gun and was wearing the guard's hat." Burgess told the officers he separated from Waller at Princeton, W.Va. The other three fugitives were captured near Jackson, Ohio. They are accused of shooting Fields Absher, 55, a work foreman, in escaping from the North Carolina work gang. Burgess waived extradition when arraigned on a federal charge of flight to avoid prosecution for murder. He was jailed in lieu of $25,000 pending removal to North Carolina. Burgess was serving 25 to 30 years for murder and 18 months for previous escapes.

Urge Russia To 'Clarify Views'

GENEVA (AP)—The United States and Britain urged the Soviet Union today to clarify its views on the functions of the seven-nation control commission proposed for a nuclear test ban organization. Little progress is expected at the test ban negotiations while nuclear scientists from East and West continue their separate review of methods for detecting underground blasts.

President Plans Christmas Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will broadcast Christmas greetings to the nation and the world on Dec. 23. He will read his greetings at 4:30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time after throwing a switch to light the White House tree and open the annual Christmas Pageant of Peace. This year's White House tree, a 70-foot silver spruce, is a gift from the State of Maine.

No Cranberries At White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhowers had a cranberry-less Thanksgiving dinner. Applause was served instead. That word came from actress Rosalind Russell and her husband, producer Frederick Brison, who dined with the President and his family at the White House. Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming and his family had government-approved cranberries with their holiday dinner. Flemming touched off a cranberry scare earlier this month when he reported some berries were tainted by a weed-killer which had produced cancer in rats.

Smoking-Cancer Warning By Public Health Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Public Health Service has issued a strong warning on tobacco: The weight of evidence implicates smoking as the main cause of the rising rate of lung cancer. The statement was issued Thursday by Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney in an article in the Journal of the American Medical Assn. It was the government's strongest statement to date linking smoking and cancer. Burney said it was based partly on new evidence. Burney's warning immediately was attacked by tobacco interests as a warmed over rehash of old statistics. Dr. C. C. Little, scientific director of the Tobacco Industry Research Committee, said in New York the points in Burney's article were "first advanced some years ago in statistical studies that admittedly are not supported by experimental evidence." At Appomattox, Va., Rep. Watkins Abbitt (D-Va.), who represents a major tobacco growing district, said, "It is shocking that a supposedly responsible government official would castigate the entire tobacco industry on such flimsy statistical evidence." Burney's article took note of frequent criticism of the evidence linking smoking and lung cancer. He cited Little's previous criticisms specifically. But Burney noted that by law the Public Health Service must tell the medical profession and the public about anything affecting public health. After reviewing the presently available evidence in detail, he said, "The Public Health Service believes that the following statements are justified by studies to date: "1. The weight of evidence at present implicates smoking as the principal etiological (causative) factor in the increased incidence of lung cancer. "2. Cigarette smoking particularly is associated with an increased chance of developing lung cancer. "3. Stopping cigarette smoking even after long exposure is beneficial. "4. No method of treating tobacco or filtering the smoke has been demonstrated to be effective in materially reducing or eliminating the hazard of lung cancer. "5. The nonsmoker has a lower incidence of lung cancer than the smoker in all controlled studies, whether analyzed in terms of rural areas, urban regions, industrial occupations, or sex. "6. Persons who have never smoked at all (cigarettes, cigars, or pipe) have the best chance of escaping lung cancer. "7. Unless the use of tobacco can be made safe, the individual person's risk of lung cancer can best be reduced by the elimination of smoking." Burney said recent scientific studies also point to air pollution—from car exhausts, industrial smog and so on—as additional causative factors in rising lung cancer. Since non-smokers also get lung cancer, he noted, it is obvious that other factors are involved. The link between smoking and lung or mouth cancer "has been supported largely by statistical evidence until relatively recently," Burney said. "This in itself has seemed conclusive to many investigators, although the mechanism of cancer growth in the lung has never been demonstrated. "If the smoking hypothesis is valid it should be possible to show a sequence of events, started by cigarette smoke, which leads to the development of lung cancer.

The same course could be initiated by the inhalation of carcinogens (cancer-causing agents) from polluted air. "Several recent investigations lend support to such a concept." As footnotes to his article, Burney cited 81 scientific studies in the field to support his conclusions. In rebuttal, Little's statement said within recent months, new evidence has been presented that: 1. People described as the world's heaviest cigarette smokers have low lung cancer death rates compared with people who smoke less but have been long exposed to urban air pollution. 2. Long inhalation of smoke by laboratory animals has not resulted in causing lung cancer in these animals. 3. Lung tissues may be perfectly healthy in heavy smokers, while they may undergo suspicious changes in both young and old, smoker and non-smoker. 4. Lung cancer occurs more frequently in people who have a medical history of previous serious lung ailments.

Post Office Bids At Farmville Found Too High

Word came to Farmville officials yesterday, after investigation by Congressman Herbert Bonner, that bids are too high on the proposed post office for the town. After a Sept. 24 deadline for filing bids, Farmville was notified no further, except a renewal of the option on the building site until Bonner visited the town yesterday to inspect progress of the project. Upon learning that government officials had failed to notify Farmville about the new building, Bonner contacted post office officials in Atlanta, Ga., and discovered that Farmville's bid was not consistent with those submitted from other towns in circumstances comparable to Farmville's. Authorities added, however, that negotiations will begin with the lowest bidder with the hope that a satisfactory building cost figure will be agreed upon. Farmville's proposed new post office will be erected on the present parking area between Fitzgerald's Medical Clinic and the Haywood Smith Fire Station. The proposed structure will be a modern building with adequate parking and loading areas behind and mail-loading platforms. Although the project has been delayed, local leaders remain optimistic that negotiations will be successful and prevent Farmville from missing a new post office for the third time in the past three decades.

Two N. C. Tobacco Leaders Demand Proof Of Charges

RALEIGH (AP)—A new scrimmage on the issue of smoking and health erupted Thursday over an article by U.S. Surgeon General Leroy Burney linking cigarettes and lung cancer. Two North Carolina tobacco leaders said it looked like Burney was rehashing statistics. They called for "scientific or medical proof" that smoking is a cause of cancer. In an acid comment, Fred S. Royster of Henderson, managing director of the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn., said it seemed "that the more fantastic claims that can be made on the part of some federal agencies in the areas of health, the larger appropriations they seem to think can be justified from the Congress."

It would be, he added, "only a matter of fair play that before sensational claims are made, detrimental to one of the great industries in the United States, that at least some scientific or medical proof should be available." Carl T. Hicks of Walstonburg, president of the Tobacco Growers Information Committee, called Burney's statements "a matter of grave concern to all of us in the tobacco economy." He said smokers and the millions of people in tobacco areas want to know "how the surgeon general can issue such strong conclusions against smoking on the basis of the same old worn-out statistical studies." Hicks said it was hard to understand Burney's statements when "his own review of the research findings clearly states there still is no experimental proof to back up the conclusions of the statisticians." Other factors, such as air pollution, which may be a factor in lung cancer, were noted in Burney's article in the Journal of the American Medical Assn., Hicks noted.

Indian Parliament OKs Nehru Policy

NEW DELHI (AP)—The Indian Parliament's lower house overwhelmingly endorsed Prime Minister Nehru's handling of the border crisis with Communist China today after India's veteran leader told it to either support him or replace him. Only one or two "nos" were heard in the thunderous voice vote which approved Nehru's policies. The Prime Minister declared his policy of seeking a settlement by mediation is not appeasement and bluntly told Parliament he was ready to resign if it wanted another leader. The packed house rang with cheers as he asserted: "But if, in balance, this house feels this government, this Prime Minister has got to face the challenge; then help him, and stand by him." Earlier in the debate Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon rejected opposition demands that he resign and Nehru took the floor to support his Cabinet officer. Menon, who has been accused of too close friendship with the Peking regime and with treating the border trouble too lightly, declared all necessary troops movements consistent with India's resources have been made to defend the country's border with Red China. The vote for Nehru ended a three-day debate on the border dispute during which some opposition members demanded military measures to drive back the Chinese occupying territory India claims along the northern frontier.

Holiday Traffic Toll Found Slow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Traffic 163 Fires 34 Miscellaneous 34 Total 213 The nation's extended Thanksgiving holiday weekend was marred by fatal traffic accidents. Whether the reason was unusual weather or the American tradition of staying close to home on this holiday, the death count was slow. Snow, sleet, powerful winds and rain raked many sections of the country from 6 p.m. Wednesday onward—when the count of deaths from unusual causes began. The count will end at midnight (local time) Sunday. The Associated Press made a survey of fatalities during a recent four-day non-holiday period. Traffic deaths then totaled 423, fires 49 and 100 from miscellaneous causes. This totaled 582. Last year's four-day Thanksgiving holiday produced 454 deaths involving automobiles, 54 in fires and 118 from miscellaneous causes. The National Safety Council did not make an advance estimate of traffic deaths over Thanksgiving. This holiday, the NSC maintained, does not compare with other major holidays of the year when drinking and pleasant weather contribute to the death toll.

Quiet Holiday For Greenville

Yesterday's Thanksgiving holiday was described as "generally observed," a very quiet holiday, and "a day of little commercial activity" by officials in Greenville and around Pitt County this morning. The Merchant's Association reported that Greenville business operations, for the most part, came to a virtual standstill. School children took the first of a pair of holidays from their classes, and county officials and employees vacated county offices and operations for the day. Pitt Memorial Hospital's emergency room saw little activity. The Highway Patrol reported a single minor traffic accident from "very light traffic." Greenville's policemen and the Pitt County Sheriff's Department reported a quiet day. The Fire Department here reported no fires or calls. Pitt County Superior Court, with Greenville's Judge William J. Bundy presiding, concluded its term of hearing cases two days early in observance of the Thanksgiving holiday. A large crowd of Greenville worshippers of all denominations nearly filled the 800-capacity auditorium of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church at 9:30 yesterday morning to hear a Thanksgiving address delivered by the Rev. Mr. John W. Drake, rector of the St. Paul's Episcopal Church here. Reports from Greenville people seemed to contradict investigators in the recent "cranberry scare." Apparently the investigation had little effect on Greenville and Pitt County appetites as many Thanksgiving dinner tables declined to eliminate the tradition of serving cranberry sauce with the Thanksgiving turkey.

No Relaxing Of UN Interest In Hungary

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—A special United Nations representative reported today there was no visible change in the Hungarian situation which would warrant relaxation of U. N. interest and concern. This declaration was made by Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, former president of the General Assembly. He was named last year to use his influence to end alleged repressions which started in Hungary after the 1956 uprising. Munro said that, although he had been denied admission to Hungary, there had been substantial information that trials and executions were continuing. He also asserted there was an "imminent possibility of further executions." The report was made public amid a flurry of excitement over the death of Fovl Bang-Jensen, former U. N. political officer, who was fired last year in connection with a U. N. inquiry into the Hungarian problem. One of the reasons for his dismissal was his refusal to turn over to his superiors a list of Hungarian refugees who had given in-

The bridegroom is stationed in Puerto Rico where the bride will join him after graduation in May.

PICTURE TALK

By CHARLES BISETTE

EVERYBODY SMILE!

Thanksgiving ranks on our list as one of the top "family-get-together" days of the year. Everybody's under one roof with nothing on the agenda but a hearty meal.

All of which leads us to suggest: Wouldn't Thanksgiving be a great day to take those pictures your whole family will treasure in later years?

If you don't have a camera able to handle the job, put us on your shopping list. We'll be glad to show you the new Brownie Flash 20 Camera that's ideal for snapshooting on Thanksgiving—or any day.

The Brownie Flash 20 has a built-in flashholder that makes indoor pictures every bit as simple as sunny-day shots. It also has a "zone focusing" system that makes all kinds of pictures extra easy. Just turn a dial, and you can take big close-ups of the small fry. Dial again, and you can take a big family group. (For outdoor pictures, there's still another setting for taking sharp scenic views.)

Best of all, this camera lets you concentrate on your snapshooting. Once you take your first picture the film automatically locks into position for the next shot. No little red window to watch. And no chance for annoying double exposures either.

Sound good? So will the price—just $13.95.

Castro Regime Swings Farther To The Left

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's revolutionary regime swung farther to the left today with Maj. Ernesto "Che" Guevara, Red-leaning critic of the United States, taking over as head of the Cuban National Bank.

Many businessmen expressed shock at the appointment of the 31-year-old Argentine born soldier of fortune to a job that puts him in a position to dictate Cuba's foreign trade and possibly to oversee the nationalization of private banks.

The National Bank grants import-export permits, allots foreign exchange to finance imports and collects foreign exchange produced by exports.

Guevara is a staunch advocate of closer economic ties with Europe, especially the Communist bloc, and less dependence on trade with the United States, hitherto the mainstay of the Cuban economy.

As head of the National Bank he succeeds Felipe Pazos, a financial conservative, who becomes ambassador at large for Cuba's economic affairs with Europe.

Just prior to announcement of Guevara's appointment, the Cabinet announced an issue of popular low-price savings bonds which it said would be redeemed in 20 years at four times their purchase price. This was viewed as a government drive to compete with the private banks, and possibly the prelude to taking over those institutions, a step Castro himself advocated at his trial in 1953 after he led an unsuccessful revolt in eastern Cuba.

Castro named two government ministers, giving military veterans of the revolution 11 Cabinet posts against 7 held by civilians. It was the fifth major Cabinet shakeup of the 11-month-old revolutionary regime.

Capt. Osmany Cienfuegos, brother of army commander Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos, who was lost in a plane flight, becomes minister of public works to replace Manuel Ray.

Navy Capt. Rolando Diaz Azarain is the new minister for the recovery of stolen public property, replacing Faustino Perez.

Ray was appointed president of the army's Superior Institute of Science and Technology, apparently a new post. A government announcement said Perez will be assigned to "other revolutionary duties."

The younger Cienfuegos was formerly in charge of "cultural indoctrination" of the revolutionary army and adheres to the same leftist line as Guevara. As minister of public works, he will be in a position to schedule projects in areas where unemployment is a headache for the regime.

Meanwhile, prisons director Jose Luis Galbe said approximately 5,000 common detainees will get reduced sentences under another new law, but it will not apply to political prisoners or anyone serving more than 30-year sentences.

Military tribunals go into action again Monday with two Americans among 39 persons facing trial on charges of conspiring against the Castro government. They were arrested last month after a clash with an army patrol in which one soldier was killed.

An army prosecutor has asked for the death sentence against Austin Frank Young of Miami, Fla., and a 30-year prison term for Peter John Lambton of Nassau, Bahamas.

Young and Lambton denied the charges. They have hired Cuban lawyers to defend them.

WOOD-BURNING FIREPLACES are reviving the informality of pioneer living and adding to the enjoyment of family entertaining in many modern homes. With Thermopane insulating glass walls making open-plan recreation and family rooms an integrated visual part of the outdoors, and the fireplace doubling as a barbecue grill, the atmosphere of a patio cook-out is maintained indoors during unpleasant weather.

Now Almost 85, Winnie Is Still A 'Quotable Notable'

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Three days before his 85th birthday, Sir Winston Churchill is one of the most amazingly healthy ailing men in the world.

He is still one of the most quotable.

"I am ready to meet my Maker," he told a friend not long ago. "Whether my Maker is ready to meet me is another matter."

Victim of two major strokes, two bouts with pneumonia and numerous other ailments, his strength is remarkable.

For at least 16 years he has been fooling people who dared predict he was near the end.

In 1943, Field Marshal Lord Alanbrooke wrote in his diary that he was afraid Churchill was at last beginning to run down hill.

The last scare about Churchill came last week.

Because of a sudden indisposition, he had to cancel a meeting with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

London editors stationed reporters on a "death watch" at Churchill's front door.

It was the same old story. The next day Britain's wartime leader was up and about, feeling fine, he talked 40 minutes with Adenauer.

Even so, Sir Winston hates birthdays, for he knows he can't go on forever. At 85 he is undeniably feeble.

He has trouble getting in and out of chairs and automobiles.

When he reads his speeches, he often loses his place, or stumbles over familiar words.

Yet, during that same fumbling speech, he will suddenly galvanize the audience and bring unashamed tears to many eyes with fleeting moments of his magic way with words.

Words, spoken and written, have always fascinated him.

"Short words," he once said, "are the best, and the old words—when short—are best of all."

A poor scholar as a boy, he developed his scholarship relatively late.

"No one has ever passed so few examinations and received so many degrees," he once said.

During one of his illnesses, Churchill turned to his doctor, Lord Moran, and asked whether a drink was permitted after lunch.

"Do you want it," asked the doctor "or do you need it?"

"I neither want it nor need it," came back Sir Winston, "but I should think it pretty hazardous to interfere with the ineradicable habit of a lifetime."

During his adult life Churchill has always liked alcoholic drinks, particularly champagne and brandy.

His likes and dislikes are strong. One of his pet hates is automobiles. He steadfastly refused to learn to drive.

Once he observed: "I have always considered that the substitution of the internal combustion engine for the horse marked a very gloomy milestone in the progress of man."

He has ridden horses, bred them, trained them, raced them and bet on them.

Only once did he admit he was at a loss for words.

Someone asked what he thought of Pierre Laval, the French politician who collaborated with the Nazis.

"I am afraid," sighed Churchill, "that I have rather exhausted the possibilities of the English language."

As an old man he made one of his touching comments on youth, saying: "As long as you are generous and true and also fierce, you cannot hurt the world or even seriously distress her. She was made to be wooed and won by youth. She has lived and thrived only by repeated subjugations."

Perhaps that philosophy contributes to his loathing of his own birthdays.

Forgotten Man Sits In An Empty Mansion

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood's forgotten man sat on the bare floor of his big, empty mansion, Jay Robinson was alone with the posters of his past.

Not long ago filmland called him a genius.

He made $3,000 a week then. Friends and rich furnishings filled the house. There was laughter and music.

His life may well have ruffled that of the Emperor Caligula, whom he played in "The Robe." He was also a featured actor in "Demetrius."

But on Thanksgiving Day, at 29, he was left with memories.

Last June he was convicted of sale and possession of narcotics. He insists he was innocent and has appealed the case.

"But since then I haven't been able to get work," he said.

His Thanksgiving guests

dropped in by accident. A telephone operator said he dialed her Thursday, then stopped talking in mid-sentence. She called police and firemen.

They found the great rooms empty except for a box springs and mattress on a bedroom floor. A lamp stood beside the mattress, a bath towel for a shade.

He has been selling his furniture.

"I sold the last thing yesterday, a bedspread," he said.

He pulled a few bills and some change out from under the mattress, which has jelly rolls and potato chips on it.

"This is it," he said, "$17.67."

He is about to lose the house, he said. He is three months behind on the payments. Robinson said he didn't know whether his father, a wealthy shirt manufacturer, will come to the rescue.

He opened a closet door and said: "I hit my peak at 23."

In the closet were a few scripts, several photographs, some reviews and posters.

"That's what's left of my career," Robinson said.

L.E. Reusch To Be Key Speaker

Lyle E. Reusch (above), a world headquarters representative of the international Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, is in Greenville as convention chairman and principle speaker for the convention of Jehovah's Witnesses starting Friday at Austin Auditorium.

Reusch has been a special representative for the Watchtower Society for the past 11 years during which time he has traveled over most of the United States and Alaska. Prior to going into the missionary work he served at the world headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses in Brooklyn, New York, for 13 years. He is married and lives in a mobile home. His wife travels with him and assists him in the ministry. Mr. Reusch is a district-minister supervisor in the states of North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky and southern Indiana.

"Do the Divine Will," Mr. Reusch's welcoming address at 7 p.m. Friday, sounds the assembly theme to be developed by more than 16 visiting speakers and officials during the conference.

"This is not a religious revival nor a church crusade," Reusch announced. "The program presents four to five hours a day of solid public Bible instruction assigned to make Christianity such a meaningful force in our lives that everyone, young and old, can share its message intelligently with his neighbor."

"All program sessions Friday through Sunday are public and free with no collections ever taken," the Watchtower Official announced.

Find Deposed UN Official Shot To Death In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Povl Bang-Jensen, 50, deposed United Nations official who had been missing since Monday, was found dead Thursday in a Queens park. Police called it "an obvious case of suicide."

The body of Bang-Jensen, dismissed from the U.N. in a controversy over releasing the names of Hungarian refugees, was found by a man walking his dog along the bridge path of Alley Pond Park.

A 25-caliber revolver was in his right hand. He died of a bullet wound in the right side of his head. Police said a note in his possession was identified by handwriting experts as that of the Danish national.

The note, addressed to his American-born wife Helen, begged her forgiveness and suggested funeral arrangements.

Authorities said the body had been in the wooded area more than 24 hours. This left about 48 hours of Bang-Jensen's disappearance unaccounted for. He was not seen alive after leaving his home Monday at Lake Success on Long Island—about two miles from where he was found.

Bang-Jensen, former senior political officer at the U.N., was fired from his $17,000-a-year position in July 1958. He created international furor for refusing to divulge the names of 81 Hungarian refugees who had given secret testimony before the U.N. committee on Hungary.

Bang-Jensen said he had promised to keep the names secret to protect the refugees' families from possible communist reprisals. The sealed list of names was burned on the roof of the U.N. building in the presence of officials.

Bang-Jensen first was suspended from his U.N. post, accused of insubordination, and then discharged by U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

At the U.N. the secretary said there would be "no comment" on the death. However, Hammarskjold sent a note of condolence to Mrs. Bang-Jensen, who went into seclusion when told of her husband's death.

She at first refused to visit the Queens morgue to identify the body, requesting the family attorney to do so. She was expected to go there today.

She said her husband, who had a part-time job with CARE, had seemed in good spirits when he left their home Monday. She admitted he had been despondent over his U.N. dismissal but said he had been quite cheerful of late.

He was engaged by CARE last April for a six-month stint evaluating certain aspects of its overseas work. CARE officials said he had been rehired for another six months and that he was being considered for another post in the relief organization.

The Bang-Jensens had been married 17 years and had five children ranging in age from 4 to 16. Mrs. Bang-Jensen is the former Helen Nolan of Port Jervis, N.Y.

Bang-Jensen, born in Copenhagen, attended the University of Copenhagen and practiced law in the Danish capital from 1934 to 1938. He joined the U.N. in 1948 after serving 10 years in Washington as counselor and chief assistant in the Danish Embassy. He was in Washington with the Danish government-in-exile during World War II.

Bang-Jensen recently took out his first papers toward becoming an American citizen.

He has been described as a high-strung but quiet and friendly man. Police, however, said he recently had been under the care of a psychiatrist.

When he disappeared there was concern that he might have been kidnapped or harmed by Communist agents. Reports circulated that he recently had received fresh information dealing with the U.N. Hungarian investigation.

Asking for a further investigation of Bang-Jensen's death were Robert Morris, former chief counsel for the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, and Dr. Bela Fabian, chairman of the Federation of Hungarian Former Political Prisoners.

The FBI in Washington said it is not investigating the death.

Amputated One Of His Fingers

MILWAUKEE, (AP) — A 39-year-old farmer of Oak Creek was recovering in a Milwaukee hospital today after amputating one of his fingers with a pocket knife.

George Schubert was operating a corn picker when his right hand got caught in it Wednesday. The thumb was sliced off and the index finger cut partially through.

"I knew I couldn't tear loose," Schubert said. "I was too far from anywhere to expect to get help before I'd bled to death."

Schubert's knife was in a pocket on his right side, but he was able to reach it with his left hand. He got the knife opened and cut off the rest of the right index finger.

Part of his left index finger is missing. It was cut off in an onion slicer 12 years ago.

Tangible Evidence We Want Them

Greenville Industries' purchase of the Dail farm on the outskirts of the city to be used for industrial sites is a significant move for Greenville in furthering its industrial development program.

Aside from assuring the availability of property suitable for industrial sites, the purchase signifies the interest of Greenville citizens in furthering the development of their own community and their willingness to put up cash when necessary to promote that development.

The sale of more than $60,000 in stock by Greenville Industries, Inc. to local citizens in order to acquire the property is proof that local citizens were willing to accept the challenge providing an area to be developed industrially when the proposition was presented to them. It will indicate to industrial firms looking for new plant sites that Greenville citizens are interested in the development of their community and that there exists in Greenville a climate favorable to industrial development and progress.

Had Greenville failed to meet this challenge, it would have been a major set-back to the growing enthusiasm which efforts to promote the community's development have received in the past year.

Now that the property has been acquired, Greenville is in a position to offer worthy prospective industries tangible sites for the expansion of their operations. The fact that the move has been made by Greenville in all probability increases the interest of prospects in coming to Greenville. In the past the availability of sites for industrial prospects has been one of the major obstacles faced by Greenville. To a large degree, that has now been overcome.

The people of Greenville are to be commended for their response to this important challenge that will certainly have a bearing on the future development of this community. Moreover, those local citizens who accepted the responsibility of spearheading this effort deserve the appreciation of other citizens of the community.

For Greenville it is another evidence of major progress that will stand the city in good stead in achieving its development goals. In terms of developing additional industries, additional payrolls and additional jobs in this community, it is a step that promises to pay appreciable dividends to local citizens.

It is a step for which all Greenville should be grateful, and one in which all the residents of the city can take justifiable pride.

No Easy Answers To Aerial Safety Problem

How will the experts go about solving the problem of low-flying aircraft over heavily populated areas adjacent to major airports?

The question has been pondered for years, but it now has been projected into keen focus by the tragedy near Chicago's Midway airport in which a cargo plane plunged into a housing area three blocks short of the runway, causing the death of 11 persons.

Midway, when it was constructed years ago, was located in a sparsely settled area just as other airports were at their beginning in other cities, and just as new airports are today when they are constructed. But like other airports—large and small—throughout the country, Midway is now surrounded by heavily populated areas. The city has grown out to and around the airport. Planes coming into and leaving the airport have to fly low over congested areas.

To assure that regulation glide paths for planes at even new airports in sparsely populated sections would not some day take the planes over heavily populated areas would require many square miles surrounding the airport property. The acquisition of such an area would further complicate the already difficult financial problems involved in the construction of costly air facilities. Where major facilities already are surrounded by developed areas, it would be next to impossible to acquire sufficient area to remove the necessity of planes flying low over populated areas.

As certainly as a major air facility is constructed, it will draw many kinds of businesses and other facilities into its immediate area because it becomes a transportation hub for a large area.

Perhaps future developments in aviation engineering will offer some solution to the problem, but for the time being at least, the experts be hard pressed to find an immediate and workable solution.

Firm Believer In Hard Work

Neither the NLRB itself nor the courts can overrule Rothman's decisions on going ahead or dropping such complaints. Rothman is administering not only the Taft-Hartley law provisions but the labor-management revisions contained in the new labor law just passed by Congress. These include tougher anti picketing and boycott bans. Born April 14, 1914 in St. Paul, Minn., Rothman was graduated at the head of his law class at the University of Minnesota. He received his master's degree in law at Harvard and studied public administration. He was Minnesota housing director and then served nearly a decade in various federal housing agencies.

He became solicitor, or chief attorney, in the Labor Department early in Eisenhower's administration, and headed the Wage-Hour Administration simultaneously for a short period. It was in his Labor Department jobs that Rothman irked some management representatives. He began enforcing various federal labor laws like they'd never been enforced before. He blacklisted many employers from doing business with the government because of their violations.

His vigor carried over to the NLRB with his transfer last summer. "Too much inertia around here," Rothman said, and since then he has got his 1,242-man staff jumping. It used to take 120 days to process an unfair labor practice complaint. Rothman's rule is 45 days—or less.

Why Was He So Mad?

By DON SCHLIENZ

Pennies, Nickles, Dimes

It's really surprising what pennies, nickles and dimes can add up to, and I'm not referring to the piggy bank either. Remember this past Halloween and how some young Greenville people gave an extra lift to the trick-or-treat routine by appealing for the United Nations Children's Fund? Something around 200 young solicitors gave of their own time and efforts to circulate throughout Greenville that night. When it was over, they had $311.57 to send in to headquarters. Several days ago the paper received a letter from the publicity director of UNICEF telling just what that $311.57 was capable of doing. Thought you'd like to know just how far those pennies, nickles and dimes would go; so here's a list of what they can buy:

- Enough vaccine to protect 31-157 children from tuberculosis; or 153,785 glasses of milk; or
- The penicillin to cure 6,231 children of yaws, a crippling tropical disease; or
- 124,638 vitamin capsules for children suffering from malnutrition; or
- The sulfone to treat successfully 311 young leprosy victims for three years.

That is Greenville's contribution to UNICEF, translated from the dollars-and-cents signs. Fifty-five million children and mothers will be helped through the program, in 106 countries and territories. Greenville's contribution comprises a minute portion of the sums collected by young people last Halloween across the country.

As compared with the need, ours was a small contribution. But by combining all the small sums, you have funds to put a modest dent in the plagues of disease and hunger. Now aren't you glad you gave?

Does Greenville take Thanksgiving Day seriously as a holiday? I hope to tell the world it does! Driving home from office around noon yesterday, the business section was almost deserted. I've seen more traffic on Sundays. Out in the residential sections you'd see many homes apparently "closed down"; and others with three, four or five cars parked in their drives or in front of them. (Company for dinner.) Our Neighborhood Philosopher, after overeating in the approved manner, loosened his belt and leaned back to reflect on the day. "If all the turkeys, hams, and chickens consumed in Greenville today," he said, "were put together in one big pile... we'd have a mess on our hands."

"The networks are in the best position to police the programs. That they devise methods of doing so is the clear challenge presented by the disclosures of quiz-show monkey business. And when the networks begin harmonizing on this note, the public can hum along with them contentedly." — Winston-Salem Twin City Sentinel.

Other Editors Saying Railroad Trouble Ahead

(Rocky Mount Telegram) In the midst of a virtual smog of charges and counter-charges, railroad management and labor negotiators in Chicago are conducting what are technically new contract talks. But present indications, with the sides so far apart, point strongly to a strike. A showdown is due when the National Railway Act processes for settlement have been exhausted, in February at the earliest.

And a nationwide railroad strike could easily come on top of a resumption of the nationwide steel strike. The nub in both disputes is the question of union work rules, identified particularly in the railroad industry with the practice called "featherbedding." The case of rail management is directed mainly against the "firemen who don't fire"—the fireman required by contract provisions on diesel freight and yard locomotives.

The railroaders assert that featherbedding cost the industry over $500 million a year, or the equivalent of 10 per cent of an annual payroll of $5 billion. Of this sum, management assesses $232 million in wasted wages against the diesel firemen. The figure is for 1958; this year's total would be lower because of reduced rail activity. Labor contends that these firemen perform vital safety duties, that they help to keep the power plant operating smoothly, that they serve as "copilots," themselves training to become engineers.

In all the "featherbedding" arguments, however, one some times is inclined to wonder whether management or labor is to be blamed most. In other words, isn't management, with all its careful nurtured higher echelons, just as guilty as labor?

Brotherhood officials say the findings do not represent the thinking of practical railroad men. Working in their favor is the U. S. fact that there is no Royal Commission. Any new contracts will have to be worked out by collective bargaining.

K's Convictions Shocked Many

(Industrial News Review) If nothing else, Premier Khrushchev, during his visit to the United States in September demonstrated an awesome conviction in the rightness of his cause—Communism. The very depth of his conviction shocked a lot of Americans who have become inculcated with the idea that there are two sides to everything. This idea when carried into political debate with a dedicated communist makes a pretty poor showing. Many eminent authorities in government, business and other walks of life are speaking of the great need for a resurgence of faith in the principles and institutions of the United States.

One of the most respected and able of these is J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Mr. Hoover has spent the better part of his life delving into the philosophy of communism and the machinations of communists in the United States. No one is more qualified to speak on the subject. He is not only an expert on communism, but he is a man with unbounded faith in our own capitalist society under representative government.

Mr. Hoover recently wrote a treatise entitled, "Communist Illusion and Democratic Reality." It is a penetrating analysis of the basic concept and methods of communism and the responsibilities of citizenship of every American. Mr. Hoover starts his paper with a blunt warning: "The United States is involved in a world crisis. We did not create the crisis. The communists in Russia began it in 1917. It was their intention then, and it has been their goal ever since... to establish a world dictatorship."

Mr. Hoover describes methods by which dedicated party members seek to indoctrinate non-communists while weakening and confusion opposition. They offer unquestioned support to the Soviet Union and serve in effect in effect as "conspiratorial agents of this foreign power." Every communist unhesitatingly sacrifices his personal life to advance the cause of communism. He is not bound by any traditional moral or ethical scruples. One may wonder how any civilized nation of the twentieth century can meet a challenge of this nature. Mr. Hoover goes into that, too. The challenge must be met at the local community level. "It is there that social understanding and growth take root. It is there that education, business, labor and religion take on form and substance... to give direction to our national life." That this challenge can be met, Mr. Hoover does not doubt, for the simple reason that Marxism—Leninism are actually an "extremely flexible hodgepodge of half-truths and errors used by a tyrannical clique to suit immediate political needs."

Communism is an illusion because its basic tenets are contrary to the nature of man. It has become a threat, because as Mr. Hoover observes, "Our way of life is so far superior both spiritually and materially to communist totalitarianism that until recently we assumed that our citizens did not need any specialized knowledge or training to withstand communist psychological pressure."

The first requisite of meeting the communist challenge is a better understanding of our own country and a better understanding of the communist's illusion. This understanding must start in the home, in the local community and local schools. It must come through a thorough grounding in the basic principles of our individual freedom under law.

In conclusion Mr. Hoover says, "Our response and the response of free men everywhere will determine whether or not freedom itself survives. American reality is morally superior to the communist delusion. It is superior not because it is ours, but because it expresses the universal qualities of human nature. We possess the true legacy of man's age old struggle from slavery to freedom... A demonstrated faith in a heritage of democracy is our mightiest weapon in the struggle for the minds of man."

Many Ways To Check The Flood

This will be down only in very special cases for the simple reason that we couldn't persuade other nations to reduce restrictions on American goods if we raise restrictions on theirs. 3. Insist that almost all foreign aid funds be spent for U. S. goods. Most of it is spent for American products and more will be in the future. The Administration has decided that loans granted by the Development Loan Fund should be used for American goods whenever possible. At the same time, some projects financed by the International Cooperation Administration, which usually allows receiving countries to buy materials where they wish, will be transferred to the more restrictive Fund. CURB SPENDING ABROAD 4. Require foreign nations receiving American surpluses to pay for them in dollars instead of local currencies. The trouble is that most nations short of food are also short of dollars. 5. Limit spending by military personnel abroad.

This would destroy a major reason why U. S. bases are welcome in many parts of the globe: the personnel perks up local sales. However, the program to reduce the bases may cut spending. 6. Limit foreign travelers, or restrict the amounts they may spend. Unthinkable. Despite an occasional ugly American amid our tourists, the networks begin harmonizing on this note, the public can hum along with them contentedly." — Winston-Salem Twin City Sentinel.

Even more unthinkable for the same reasons. An embargo would be temporary. A cut in the gold equivalency of the dollar would rob every foreign holder of dollars of part of their value. There are some minor ways, such as limiting U. S. investments abroad, subsidizing exports, taxing dividends paid foreign, and limiting cash and Social Security payments sent abroad. But all of these seem charged with more trouble than benefit. Best bets at the moment are to export more and be a little more canny in grants of aid.

ONLY 431,224 MORE CARS ON ROADS IN A YEAR
Although the auto industry 4,651,002 new cars in 1958, the total increase was only 431,224. That was because more than 4,000,000 were scrapped. That's the highest scrapage since 1938, when more cars were scrapped than sold. However, that many cars traveling 75 feet apart would fill about 3,750 miles of double-lane highway.

Trying Create A Star

By HAL BOYLE
NEW LORK (AP)—Has rock 'n' roll music passed its peak? Can cash build a 19-year-old unknown singer into an explosive stardom eclipsing even that of Elvis Presley, still a top idol of the teen-age set?

The career of Rod Lauren may hold an answer.

Rod, picked from a field of 300 aspirants, was signed by RCA-Victor to a seven-year contract to springboard a trend among teenagers toward music with "a soft sound."

According to Variety, the show business weekly, the firm is spending $100,000 to try to make a star of Lauren—the largest sum ever budgeted by a recording company on a young unknown.

The theory behind the massive buildup is that many teen-agers, who buy about 90 per cent of single records, are beginning to weary of the raucous monotony of rock 'n' roll after five years.

What is he like, this moody young man from Fresno, Calif., who was tapped for stardom before he even made his first real record?

Well, he has a ballad-type voice, hazel brown eyes, dark tousled hair, and the same look of suppressed, sleepy-eyed excitement that stirred girlish hearts to thunder over the late James Dean.

"I enjoy rock 'n' roll music myself, but I don't sing it well," said Rod, who is launched on a nationwide 20-city tour.

His mother plays the piano and his father sings in church choirs. He plays both the piano and trombone. He started out to be a dentist.

Rod is a mixture of Spanish, German, French and Irish. He is 5 feet 11, weighs 165 pounds. He is modest about his prospects.

"I realize what a great opportunity this is. So many people struggle and struggle all their lives for this chance—and here it is laid at my feet," he said.

Strength For Today

HONESTY AMONG NATIONS

There is no easy road to the settlement of international problems. These problems have perhaps in the past been as pressing as they are now. But we cannot deny that the disposition of the world to become a neighborhood has changed the character of international discussion.

Yet there are some things which remain permanent and of Supreme value. Many people think that diplomacy is nothing but fancy lying. This, of course, is not true. It has always been the case that many of the finest statesmen of each generation have been diplomats, and this is true today just as always.

As a matter of fact, honesty enters a great deal more into diplomacy than most people think. The truly successful diplomats have been men who took their stand on issues and were able factually, but forcefully, to press their points. The idea that diplomats are a group who huddle together and hatch skulduggery and dirty work at the crossroads is a caricature that some misinformed and evil-minded person thought up.

We need always to remind ourselves that force of moral character counts tremendously, in fact, is of the greatest importance in every situation one confronts. Kings, presidents, prime ministers, as well as common folk like you and me can take a stand for honesty, knowing that, because we live in a spiritual universe, it is indeed the best policy.

And the best policy everywhere—not only in office, shop, and home, but in the council chamber of the world.

Saul Confronted By Christ

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 9:1-9.

Saul (Paul), breathing out threatenings against Christ's disciples, went to the high priest asking for letters to the synagogues, to bring Christians captive.—Acts 9:1-2.

As Paul journeyed to Damascus, there shone about him a light from heaven, and he heard a voice saying unto him: "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me?"—Acts 9:3-4.

Paul fell down, asking, "Who art Thou, Lord?" and the voice said: "I am Jesus whom thou persecutest." Paul asked: "Lord, what wilt Thou have me do?"—Acts 9:5-6.

Christ told him to go to Damascus, so he arose, but he was blind. His companions led him by the hand into Damascus.—Acts 9:8. MEMORY VERSE—Acts 16:31.

Saul Confronted by Christ

THE PERSECUTOR OF CHRISTIANS MEETS THE RISEN LORD

Scripture—Acts 9:1-9

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
THE SCRIPTURE assignment for today's lesson is brief, only nine verses, but it is filled with incidents of interest and drama, as Saul (whom we know as Paul) is converted from a persecutor of the Christians to one of the most prominent of the Lord's followers.

told thee there what thou must do." The men who were with him stood speechless, hearing a voice, but seeing no man.—Acts 9:3-7. "And Saul arose from the earth; and when his eyes were opened, he saw no man." He was blind. "But they led him by the hand, and brought him into Damascus. And he was three days without sight, and neither did eat nor drink."—Acts 9:8-9.

Like every Jewish youth he learned a trade. He was a tentmaker.

"And Saul, yet breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went unto the high priest, and desired of him letters to the synagogues, that if he found any of this way, whether they were men or women, he might bring them bound unto Jerusalem."—Acts 9:1-2.

MEMORY VERSE

with the 18th century English statesman, George Lyttelton, that the conversion and apostleship of St. Paul alone, duly considered, was of itself a demonstration sufficient to prove Christianity to be a divine revelation."—F. Bruce. In "A Truth For the Class to Carry Away" the Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith wrote: "All souls are precious in the sight of God. Christ died for all men. It has often been true that men who were once strongly and vigorously anti-Christian in their convictions and influence, when converted, became equally strong and vigorous in their proclamation and defense of the faith. This is one reason why the Lord wanted this man Saul for Himself. Ought we not more often and more earnestly to pray for the conversion of some of the more influential enemies of the Christian faith today?" Grandpa Conrad Rests After New Airplane Record

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Flying Grandpa Max Conrad took a well deserved rest in this desert resort today after flying a light plane to a non-stop distance record from North Africa to Texas. Conrad, 55, landed Thursday at El Paso—6,911 miles from Casablanca, where he coaxed his gas-heavy Piper Comanche into the air more than two days before. The 56-hour 26-minute flight in the little blue and white monoplane was a record for planes weighing under 3,900 pounds.

Then, after a bottle of pop and a walk to shake out the kinks, Conrad climbed back into his plane and took off again—this time for his home in San Francisco. He landed shortly before sundown at Las Vegas. Conrad flew the same plane in which he set a 7,668-mile record for heavier aircraft last year from North Africa to Los Angeles. On this flight, he replaced the Comanche's six-cylinder engine with a four-cylinder model and put it in a lighter class.

In El Paso, a lean and thirty Conrad swung his long legs out of the cramped cockpit and told waiting reporters the story of his record-shattering hop. He took off from Casablanca with 360 gallons of gas and three vacuum-sealed containers of coffee, tea and water, but no food. During daylight hours, he flew at 100 feet or less and went up to 150 feet at night.

He leaned the throttle back to save gas and flew at about 130 miles an hour most of the way. The weather? Near perfect, as he skimmed across the Atlantic and parts of two continents. He ran into 30-mile an hour headwinds in the Caribbean between Cuba and Haiti, but soon outran the adverse weather.

Just before landing at El Paso, he opened up the engine "Just to blow out the sparkplugs." He had 60 gallons of gas when the small plane's wheels hit the runway. When Conrad breezed over Florida, he broke the 10-year distance record of 4,957 miles set by the late Bill Odom. The record is for planes between 2,204 and 3,858 pounds.

Reporters at the El Paso airfield were surprised when the veteran ferry pilot popped out of the cockpit clean shaven. He explained that 15 minutes before landing he had shaved with an electric razor.

Terrorist Band Took 121 Lives

JAKARTA, Indonesia. (AP)—A terrorist attack by 500 armed men, women and children took at least 121 lives in the West Java village of Tjibugel Tuesday, according to reports reaching Jakarta today.

The terrorists, believed to be members of the fanatic Darul Islam sect of Moslems, swooped down on the village after overrunning a small army post on the outskirts.

They burned more than 400 houses and the village school. At least 65 other villagers were wounded. About 4,000 fled to the nearby town of Damaradja.

The reports said more persons were killed and wounded in an attack on the neighboring village of Balubur Limbangan.

Extra Reasons For Celebrating

BETHLEHEM, Ky. (AP)—There was a bit of extra celebration Thanksgiving Day for the Bryant Stivers family. It was the 19th birthday of Judy Ann Stivers and the 3-month birth date of her twin daughters whose premature birth in an airplane over the Atlantic Ocean last Aug. 26 drew wide attention.

The youngest twin, Pamela Louise, arrived in Kentucky last. Sister Julie Ann arrived three weeks ago from a hospital in Newfoundland.

Continue Search For 2 Hunters

HOPEWELL, Va. (AP)—The search was resumed today for two duck hunters missing since Wednesday on the James River. Bodies of their two companions were recovered Thursday.

Missing were George Mickels, 31, of Richmond, and Morris Hynst, 25, of rural Chester. The drowned men were Maxie Martin, 28, and David Blankenship, 20, both of rural Chester. All four left their Richmond-area homes early Wednesday.

Louis Martin, a cousin, found the body of Martin about nine miles east of here, 20 miles southeast of Richmond. Blankenship's body was found nearby by members of the Hopewell emergency crew.

The body of Martin, a grading contractor, was found tied to an empty gasoline can floating near shore. His wife told authorities that all four men were experienced hunters and familiar with the James River.

The 14-foot boat from which the men hunted was equipped with a 35-horsepower motor. Ferald Goynne of Hopewell, who was to have hunted with the four but overslept and later went out alone, said he was forced to beach his boat because of rough water. He said the river became very choppy and his boat started taking water.

Goynne said each of the hunters was a good swimmer. However, it was reported that they all wore heavy hunting gear.

S. Ayden Class Hears Speaker

AYDEN — T. G. Worthington, Ayden businessman and member of the Board of Education, addressed the Senior Class of South Ayden High School Tuesday. He spoke under the auspices of the Senior Class' latest unit, "Vocational Exploration." After the address members engaged in an informal discussion with the speaker.

The Guidance Department of South Ayden High School is cooperating with the Senior English Class, especially in the line of helping the students to explore the world of work.

County Supervisor F. D. Sledge, after viewing some of the class' related activities, deemed the project worth while.

Other speakers have consented to share information and helpful experiences with the class. J. W. Ormond is principal of South Ayden High School.

Eight Times Out On False Alarms

LENEXA, Kan. (AP)—The volunteer firemen of Lenexa tumbled from their beds and rushed into the sub-freezing weather eight times Wednesday night on false alarms.

Thursday morning the fire-fighting citizens sped to the fire station seven times before a telephone lineman finally brought peace to Lenexa, a suburb of Kansas City.

In Saturday's Opener

EC STARTER—Dave Starrett, 6-6 sophomore, will be in the starting lineup tomorrow night when East Carolina opens their 1959 basketball season at Guilford.

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—"We've had games this year where we couldn't seem to do anything right. Today we just couldn't do anything wrong." So said happy Jim Hickey, coach of the North Carolina Tar Heels minutes after his team drubbed Duke 50-0 in a nationally televised Atlantic Coast Conference game.

season today. Their line out-charged us and drove us back." Jack Cummings, the North Carolina quarterback, called the game "the big one. Hickey told us this was the one for Coach Tatum—this is the one he would want. This is also the one we wanted for Coach Hickey and ourselves."

Duke ended its season at 4-6. Never in the game, Duke backs continually were thrown back, there were four Duke passes intercepted and fumbles at crucial moments, including one on North Carolina's goal line.

step closer the end of football activity in the conference. On tap Saturday are games matching Wake Forest and South Carolina in Charlotte, and Clemson at Furman.

A four-point underdog for the game. Fullback Don Klochak, a 234-pound senior from Fairhope, Pa., accounted for two touchdowns, one a 93-yard kickoff return.

Season Opener

East Carolina opens its 1959-60 basketball season when it faces Guilford in a North State Conference game tomorrow night on the Quakers' home court.

The Pirates boast a new head coach and several new cagers as the new hardwood season gets underway. Coach Earl Smith is at the Pirate helm this season. Captain Ike Riddick is the only returning starter from a year ago.

The basketball Bucs are slated to leave Greenville early tomorrow morning for the North State scholastic near Greensboro. The conference opener for both clubs is set for 8 p.m.

Expected starters for East Carolina are: Norman "Sonny" Baker and Riddick at the guards, Lawrence "Cotton" Clayton and Don Smith at the forwards, and Dave Starrett in the pivot spot.

Virginia Tech Places Three Players On All-Southern Conference Squad

By ED YOUNG RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Virginia Tech's Gobblers, who struck the blow that ended West Virginia's 30-game reign of terror in Southern Conference football, were rewarded today with three positions on the 1959 All-Conference team.

End Carroll Dale, halfback Alger Pugh and guard Mike Zeno, the most obvious reasons Tech snapped the Mountaineers' eight-year victory streak inside the league two weeks ago, were the Techmen honored.

All told, seven of the nine conference teams were represented on the All-Star squad. It was chosen by The Associated Press after voting among conference coaches, newspaper sports writers and radio-TV sportscasters.

Virginia's fallen champions; another of their conference conquerors, The Citadel; William and Mary and George Washington contributed one apiece.

The 1959 All-Conference team: Ends — Carroll Dale, Virginia Tech, and Paul Maguire, The Citadel.

It's an all-senior team except for Zeno and quarterback Dyer, who are juniors. Dale, Lopasky and Horner are repeaters from the 1958 All-Conference.

The All-Conference line averages 208 pounds from end to end, tilting slightly to starboard because of the 230-pound Zeno. The brilliant backfield, combining speed, power and passing ability, averages 181 pounds.

Though the beef and mobility of the line would guarantee the All-Conference team a rugged defense, unquestionably it would be most formidable on attack.

In Dale and Maguire, the honor squad boasts two of the finest pass receivers in the nation. And in Dyer the team has just the passer to keep them busy. Pugh, who also passes effectively, and Ames are swift breakaway runners. Horner has power and speed to burn, and punts for an average of better than 40 yards per kick.

VMI's Dick Evans, a late season sensation, gave the versatile Maguire a terrific battle for a first-string berth. Several other ends—Davidson's Danny House, George Washington's Bill Smythe, and Furman's Hicky Horton—also did well in the balloting.

Another nip-and-tuck scrap was at center, where Richmond's Chuck Boone barely lost out to De Melfi even though he missed nearly half the season because of injuries. The Citadel's Jerry Nettles just missed a spot in the No. 1 backfield.

The backfield is the only part of the team with a Southern accent. Dyer (6-1, 183) hails from Mississippi; Pugh (5-11, 179), Ames (5-10, 170) and Horner (6-0, 191) are from Virginia.

Pageantry Proves Big Game's Lure

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—For the first time in many years it appears the pageantry, not the football, is luring some 100,000 fans into Philadelphia Stadium for Saturday's 60th meeting of Army and Navy.

In recent seasons this traditional clash of cadets and midshipmen has had an important bearing on the national or sectional football picture. Several times, a victory meant a bowl bid for Navy. Last year Army assured itself of Eastern football honors with a 22-6 win.

Such has been the picture—color, excitement and prestige. But not this year. The cadets and midships have naught at stake but personal pride.

Army's 4-3-1 record is the worst for the cadets since the years of the cribbing scandal. In 1951, the cadets won 2 and lost 7. The following year, as former coach Earl Blaik rebuilt his shattered forces, the mark was 4-4-1. Both years Navy won the service game.

AS for the midships (4-4-1), you have to go back to 1951 for a poorer Navy record. That year Navy brought a 2-6-1 slate into the Army game, but laced the decimated West Pointers 42-7. Two years later, with a 4-3-2 log, Navy won the Army game 20-7.

However, those making the trip to South Philadelphia to see the cadets and midships parade, for a glimpse of some celebrities, for the social prestige, just might see a darn good football game.

Both teams are believed better than their records. Injuries have hurt the midships and cadets this frustrating season. If the lame and the halt are ready, the big crowd also may be treated to a thrilling contest.

Each team has a new coach, Wayne Hardin replacing Eddie Erdelatz at Annapolis, and Dale Hall succeeding Blaik at West Point. By official proclamation, the city has changed the name of the Municipal Stadium to Philadelphia Stadium.

The Philadelphia area also has provided both captains. Navy Capt. Jim Dunn Jr. hails from nearby Rutledge, while Bill Carpenter, the Army leader, makes his home in suburban Delaware County. Navy's athletic boss, Capt. Asbury (Red) Coward, is a native Philadelphian.

Both coaches have indicated they feel it will be an aerial battle with quarterbacks Joe Tranchini and Jim Maxfield pitching for Navy against Joe Caldwell of Army. Hard running Joe Bellino is the ground power for the Navy. Bullet Bob Anderson is the Army's big infantryman.

Lenoir Rhyne Whips Catawba By 50 To 6

HICKORY, N.C. (AP)—It was a big Thanksgiving for the Lenoir Rhyne Bears.

Lenoir Rhyne crushed Catawba 50-6 to win its 17th straight victory and its ninth of the season. The victory gave the Bears their fifth straight North State Conference title and shot them into the post-season playoffs of the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Lenoir Rhyne will play host to Southern Connecticut here Dec. 5 in the eastern NAIA playoffs. Hillsdale, Mich., College and Texas College of Arts and Industries at Kingsville, Tex., will meet in the western playoffs. The two winners will meet in the Holiday Bowl at St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 19.

Again the Bears were led by their tailback Lee Farmer, who scored one touchdown, ran over three extra points and passed to end Adam Maples for two touchdowns. The Bears scored seven touchdowns, five in the first half.

The day's longest run was turned in by fullback Tommy Simmons who went 74 yards in the third period. Second string tailback Tony McClamrock tossed two touchdown passes, one to end Ronnie Frye and the other to end Dick Lage. The Bears opened the scoring with two minutes gone in the first quarter when halfback Dickie Foster dashed 32 yards.

A pass accounted for Catawba's score with halfback Ronnie Ball tossing to end Grover Smith. The victory was the 100th for Coach Clarence Stasavich during his 14 years here.

Groza Back In Basketball As Coach At Small College

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—"Everything about Mr. Groza has impressed us very much, and we think he's the kind of man we want for our team," says the Rt. Rev. Alfred F. Horrigan, president of Bellarmine College.

Mr. Groza is Bellarmine's new basketball coach. Alex Groza, All-America and two-time All-Pro professional whose career was cut short by point-shaving scandals.

The small Catholic college opens its season here Saturday night against the Cleveland Pipers of the AAU National Industrial Basketball League.

Groza is the first person implicated in the scandals to return to the college sport in any capacity. "Everybody is entitled to one mistake," he says. "I'm a lot more conscious now about right and wrong than I was before it happened. My past is my best safeguard for the future."

In 1952, Groza and two former Kentucky teammates admitted taking money to hold down the point spread in games in 1949. The disclosure forced the Marvins Perry, Ohio, native to sell his partnership in the now defunct pro Indianapolis Olympians.

"As far as we were concerned, it was something that happened a long time ago," Msgr. Horrigan said. During Groza's illustrious college career, the 6-foot 7-inch pivot man led Kentucky to NCAA championships in 1948 and 1949 and was All-America in 1949.

Kentucky's "Fabulous Five" and the Phillips Oilers combined to take the 1948 Olympic Games basketball competition for the United States.

Russian Cagers Said Improving

NEW YORK (AP)—Russian basketball is improving but it still has not reached the stage where the United States needs worry too seriously about superiority in the Olympics.

That was the word from Bob Jeangerard, veteran member of the Bartlesville, Okla., National Industrial League team which spoiled the Soviet's debut in the United States Thursday night with a 70-59 victory at Madison Square Garden.

Jeangerard was a member of the pick-up air force team which lost to the Soviets in the 1959 world championships in Chile and of the Peoria Cats, who whipped the Russians six straight on their home soil a year ago.

"It's practically the same team," said the former Colorado ace. "They have improved in their dribbling and shooting but I can't see them threatening our best in the Olympics."

The Russians presented a hard driving team that looked well in spots. They fought back from a 40-25 deficit at halftime to within three points, 56-53, with six minutes to play. They were deadly ball hawks from the start and repeatedly beat the Americans off the boards in their second half spurt.

Detroit Lions Fumble Way To Another Loss

DETROIT (AP)—True, Thanksgiving Day comes but once a year, but Detroit football fans have had a turkey on their hands all season long.

The Lions, playing give-away while the opposition plays football, made it seven defeats against only two victories and a tie Thursday by dropping their annual Thanksgiving Day contest to the Green Bay Packers 24-17.

The Lions fumbled themselves into three Green Bay scores before the 49-21 rout. The faithful and hearty and a nationwide television audience that saw all the scoring, and most of the excitement, crammed into the first half.

The futility of the season was illustrated in the second half when the Lions, trailing by one touchdown, could not get inside the Green Bay 25-yard line although they had the ball for twice as many plays as did the Packers.

This was the ninth game in the holiday series and the first time in a dozen seasons the Packers have scored a season sweep. They beat the Lions earlier this year in Green Bay 28-10.

This time, they had so much help from the Lions they could hardly miss.

The Lions moved in front 3-0 on Jerry Perry's 22-yard field goal that followed a Green Bay fumble on the opening kickoff. The Packers drove 65 yards in six plays for one score, got another 95 seconds later following a Detroit fumble, added a field goal and led 17-3 before the Thanksgiving stay-at-homers started to work on the second drumstick.

The Lions fumbled again in the second period and the Packers promptly moved 49 yards in eight plays for a 24-3 lead.

Wilt Reaches New Milestone

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Towering Wilt Chamberlain has reached another milestone in his thus far sensational National Basketball Assn. career.

The Philadelphia Warriors' 71 star broke a Convention Hall record for individual scoring Thursday night by dumping in 49 points to boost his club to a 143-130 victory over Boston, trimming the Celtics' Eastern division lead to one game. The Warriors' total points also established a new club record.

In other games the St. Louis Hawks defeated Syracuse 112-95 to move into first place in the Western division by a half game over Detroit, and Cincinnati swept by Minneapolis 114-95.

Chamberlain, whose 43 rebounds against New York Nov. 12 set a new Convention Hall record in that department, wiped out the 1956 hall scoring mark of 46 by Bob Pettit of St. Louis. Chamberlain's highest output this season was 55 points on the road Nov. 12 against Cincinnati.

A record 12,343 fans came to watch Chamberlain hook up with 6-10 Bill Russell, but were somewhat disappointed when Russell had to sit the game out because of a recurrence of an ankle injury.

Duke's Varsity Wallops Frosh

DURHAM (AP)—Center Carroll Youngkin hit for 27 points as the Duke varsity basketball team trimmed the freshmen, 95-73, in the annual blue-white game Thursday.

The frosh kept it close for a half, holding the varsity to a 49-39 lead at intermission. The Blue Devils sharpened up in the second half to end with a roaring.

Coach Vic Bubas, making his bow as Duke mentor, say his team hit 46 of 90 field goal attempts for a 51 per cent accuracy.

Play Tonight

Beaufort High's Seadogs, Coastal Conference football champions, take on an undefeated, untied Norlina High eleven tonight at East Carolina's College Stadium in a playoff battle that will decide the Eastern North Carolina Class A football champ.

The Beaufort gridgers, boasting a 9-1 record, are coached by Curtis Lancaster, a member of last year's graduating class at ECC.

Leading the Seadog's attack will be Butch Hassell, outstanding at quarterback for the Coastal Conference powerhouse all season. Hassell is rated by many coaches as a top college prospect.

Norlina brings a sparkling 10-0 record into the clash that will decide the eastern representative to the state championship playoff.

Coach Bob Price's Norlina eleven has run roughshod over most of its foes this season. Game time is 8:00 o'clock.

Oak City Loses 3 To Bethel

BETHEL—Bethel boys, girls and junior varsity teams won their games over Oak City for the Bethel Homecoming here Wednesday night.

Bethel boys won by a score of 53-43, the girls by 27-25 and the Jayvees 42-12.

The win was Bethel boys' fourth consecutive victory. The boys now have a 5-1 season's record and a three win-no loss record in Pitt County Conference play. They have lost only to Pantego.

Bethel Jayvees won their sixth straight game Wednesday. The team is coached by S. D. Dewar.

Eppes All-Stars Take 12-6 Loss

The semi-pro New Town Bears defeated the Eppes All Stars 12-6 in the annual Thanksgiving Wine Bowl game at South Greenville Recreational Field yesterday.

A crowd of 400 spectators watched the game. The Eppes All Stars received the opening kick-off and drove 80 yards for the score. Luke Williams scored from one yard out. The extra point try failed.

Late in the second period quarterback Shelton Wilson of the Bears passed 40 yards to his end William Underwood for the score. The half ended in a 6-6 deadlock.

With minutes remaining in the last quarter, halfback Ed Weathington of the Bears went around his left end for 32 yards and a first down on the All-Stars 18 yard line. Woodrow Wilson, a former Eppes High star playing for the semi-pro Bears, went the remaining distance for the winning touchdown.

Woodrow Wilson and Ed Weathington were voted the game's most outstanding players.

Gastonia Midget Team Wins Title

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP)—Thanks to Tim Francis, a sparkling little halfback, Gastonia's midget footballers are champions of the fifth annual Lil Pumpkin bowl.

Francis scored both touchdowns for the locals in a 14-0 victory over Johnson City, Tenn., Thursday. One of his touchdowns came on a 57-yard sprint in the opening quarter. He scored the other on a 5-yard smash in the fourth quarter, capping a 36-yard drive. The two extra points were scored by Denny Austin and Phil Emmett.

Gastonia's Donnie Oaks was named the best all-round player and halfback Mickey McCurry of Johnson City earned the sportsmanship trophy. Twenty-two boys selected from across the country as midget league All America players were awarded jerseys at halftime.

CHAPTER 27

As Sergeant Desportes stripped off his shirt in the infirmary, he noticed that Doc Grayson seemed more thoughtful and withdrawn than usual.

"What have we got here?" asked Doc, indifferently, as the Sergeant displayed deep scratches and brush-burns all over his back and shoulders.

"Manuela fainted," the Sergeant explained. "We'd stopped and I was looking at one of Mickey's hoofs, as he was going kinda ouchy like he'd picked up something. I grabbed the girl, got her back on the saddle, then I lost my footing and fell down a little hillside. Bushes broke my fall."

Doc got out the iodine and a big swab. "This may sting some," he said, negligently; and as he worked, with the Sergeant silent and trying not to wince, he went on: "Sergeant, you've got a lot of gray in your hair—even in the hair on your manly chest. How long do you think you can keep going like this?"

"Like what?" asked the Sergeant, after a moment. "Hell, it's a picnic now since the Apaches settled down."

"You know what they call you around here behind your back? The Iron Man. Now, Sergeant, you're no iron man. There's no such thing. You are just a conglomeration of bones, flesh, blood, and nerves, like the rest of us. Don't ever do it."

The Doc was through with him now. The Sergeant smiled slightly as he put on his shirt and lit a cigarette. "Never felt better in my life."

"Famous last words," said the Doc; then after a pause: "Better go see the Major . . . the General, I mean."

There was a note in Doc's voice that bothered the Sergeant and warned him. "Something wrong, Doc?"

"That is one of the wildest understatements I have heard lately," said Doc. "Poor old General Etheridge. You know, Sergeant, it's a funny thing. By the time a man gets what he wants it's either too late or the price has been too high. Am I boring you with my philosophical remarks this lovely dry dusty hot stinking desert fall day?"

"No, Doc. No," said the Sergeant, staring. He'd never seen the Doc quite like this before. "What's wrong? Tell me!"

The Doc thought it over for a moment, then he said: "Well . . . the General didn't give me any specific orders about keeping my mouth shut and as you'll hear it anyway, I'm sure, from him . . . Mrs. General's going to leave him."

The Sergeant was staggered.

uncomprehending. "What!" he cried. This was utterly impossible! Why, the General . . . Mrs. General . . . they both belonged here now at Mesa Encantada, like the mountains, the desert, and the Apaches. What would it be like without Mrs. General? The Sergeant just couldn't picture it. "Are you sure?"

"Dead sure," said Doc. "I still can't get over the fact Bud is none other than Jamie 'The Kid' Wiggan. And it was all his doings."

The Sergeant paled slightly. "Bud! What do you mean, Doc? Why is he involved?"

The Doc smiled to himself with some complacency. It pleased him to see the usually unshakable Sergeant so disturbed. "It seems that our friend, little Lolita, had been having a secret love affair with Bud, even slipping out and going to his room at night."

The Doc now noted with satisfaction the Sergeant's shocked face. "After the shooting and Bud's escape and all the rest of the uproar, both Mrs. General and Lolita had hysterics. Then Lolita broke down and told Mrs. General the whole story."

The Sergeant reached out for a chair and sat down heavily, dropping his cigarette in his distress. It smoked on unnoticed, charring the old pine floor.

"I can't believe it!" said the Sergeant. "Lolita!"

Mrs. General threw a fit. "The doctor went on. 'You know how she feels about Lolita—there's something odd or almost to the fact that she never had a daughter, or any child, of her own. Well, Mrs. General now claims that this is no place to bring up a superior girl, like Lolita; and I must say I agree with her. So she's taking her East to school. New York. Maria's going along.'"

The Sergeant did not know what to say. He just sat there, Mrs. General, Lolita, Maria—all going away. Bud gone, too! His family!

"If that boy had just not fallen down the mountain . . ."

The Sergeant nodded slowly. He was gripped by a sense of loss, of emptiness, and tried to hide even from himself his dismay at the thought of the future.

The "estates" consisted of two horses, two saddles and some other gear, two gumbells, four guns, two Winchesters, two sets of Mexican silver spurs, and about eighteen hundred dollars in paper money.

Later the Sergeant had a stirrup-cup with Mike at El Toro. To his surprise the Sergeant found that he rather liked the young Nations and La Paz gun-fighter.

Mike stood shaking his head over his whiskey. "Five of us come to La Paz together, all partners. I'm the only one left, and I'm getting out of this here country and going back. Jamie got four of us, and I'm next on the list. You see, we tried to take him once before. He never forgets. No, Jamie never forgets."

"Where's Jamie from?" asked the Sergeant, unable to control his curiosity.

"Up Pueblo way. I hear. Was a saloon kid, no folks. Did he get caught? He just ain't human. Men all over La Paz and Sundown trying to take him. All got shot. Some of 'em died. He's killed around twenty-odd, I hear." Mike sighed and scratched his mop of black hair thoughtfully. "You been mighty kind, Sergeant. Thank you, sir."

Mike sold the extra horses and gear at the Ortega livery barn and the guns to a gunsmith and left. Two days later a Mexican woodcutter found Mike's saddled horse wandering loose on a hillside; and a little bit later he found Mike. He was lying face down in a gully, dead of a bullet in the back.

The death was immediately chalked up to Jamie Wiggan. But after all, Mike had been robbed, and it was possible that somebody from one of the saloons of Mesa Encantada, knowing that Mike was carrying quite a wad of money, had stalked him out of town and killed him at a conveniently remote place.

The Sergeant took charge again, brought the body back, and saw to the burial. Now Mike, Slim and Eddie were all lying in a row in the little Mexican cemetery. As there was nothing left of the "estates" now except one horse, a saddle, two guns, and a set of Mexican silver spurs, the Sergeant considered the books closed on this matter.

A day or so later he ran into Doc Grayson at El Toro. Doc had had a few.

"Sergeant," said Doc. "I takes about all your time mopping up after that damned boy. Right, Sergeant?"

"There's no proof he killed Mike Donovan, Doc," said the Sergeant.

Doc merely laughed at him and ordered another drink.

"The trouble is starting again at La Paz, apparently as a result of that boy," the Sergeant is told as the story continues here tomorrow.

As representative of the Army, the Sergeant took charge of the burial of Slim McHan and Eddie Reeb in the Mexican cemetery on the northeastern edge of town.

Wild Mike Donovan, very subdued, did what he could to help paid for the burials out of his own money, then took charge of the "estates" of Slim and Eddie, signing half a dozen necessary papers as "executor."

Merchants Count On Biggest Yule Business

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The biggest Christmas yet is what the nation's merchants are counting on. They hope—and seem pretty sure—that you won't let them down.

Today is the traditional date for the start of Christmas sales promotions. But many retailers jumped the gun and began decorating their stores and placing Christmas ads in the newspapers well ahead of Thanksgiving.

They report considerable consumer buying already. Some of this is for relatives overseas. And much of the rest is under lay-away plans.

The average of estimates of increased dollar volume in the nation's stores between Thanksgiving and Christmas is 5 per cent better than last year.

But an executive of the National Retail Merchants Assn. believes sales will rise by 6 per cent or more in most sections of the country.

Even merchants in the steel districts are feeling better now that the men are back in the mills, although some expect the workers to use current paychecks more for settling bills run up during the long work stoppage and for replenishing nesteggs against the chance the strike might be resumed late in January. High-price goods may move slowly.

The problem is more acute in those communities where steel-shoort factories are still shut and many workers either payless or working short hours.

But in the garment district here there are reports of orders for apparel now coming in even from stores in the strike-hit areas.

And merchants and manufacturers alike are counting heavily on the use of various credit plans to help move merchandise into the hands of consumers who may be hard pressed for extra cash now but look for plenty of work when the strike's effects wear off.

As for the cash itself, banks report large payments going out to members of Christmas clubs, putting them in a position to be generous with gifts if they choose.

Retail prices on a number of things are a bit higher this year, reflecting the steady rise in the cost of living in recent months.

But many merchants report there is less consumer price resistance now than a few years back—maybe folk are getting resigned to prices always seeming to know only one way to go: up.

Hodges, Brass Holding Reunion

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Gov. Hodges joined retired admirals and generals living in North Carolina at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base today for an annual reunion.

It will be the first time an Air Force base has played host to the gathering, being held for the third time.

Expected for the affair, which will continue until Saturday afternoon, are 20 or 30 retired flag and general officers and their families.

By Dr. ED HIRSHBERG

Last week we called your attention to an article by John Clardi, poetry editor of the Saturday Review, condemning TV and TV viewers—which means most of us—for putting Charles Van Doren in the position to perpetrate the deception that recently has caused such violent reactions against TV programs. In last Sunday's Times a follow-up appeared by Hans Morgenthau, a political science professor, concerning the implications of the Van Doren affair as it affects the academic profession

This week's Saturday Evening Post features an article by an outspoken and eloquent critic of modern education, Vice Admiral Hyman Rickover, USN. Called "The World of the Uneducated," the article goes into the differences between education and training and provides Admiral Rickover's followers with considerable ammunition. He claims that modern progressive education does not educate in the true sense, but merely trains youth in superficial skills without really exercising their minds or stimulating their spirits. "We have talked about American education long enough," he claims. "It is time we take steps to improve it, so that prevailing misconceptions of what the school should do will cease to keep our children from becoming educated persons." We second his motion, and recommend his Post article heartily.

and as it reveals the moral weakness of society. Called "Reaction to the Van Doren Reaction," the article takes the people to task who condone Van Doren's position — again, most of us. Morgenthau deplors the fact that nobody judges him from the standpoint of straight morality—that he did something wrong and should be blamed for it. Our society can't do that because in doing so it would condemn itself. Instead, "it tends to absolve him by confusing the virtues of compassion and charity for the actor with the vice of condoning the act." Thereby it "convicts itself of a moral obtuseness which signifies the beginning of the end of civilized society." If we're as "morally obtuse" as that—and it looks as though we are—maybe we'd better start taking stock of ourselves and begin to think about what's right and what's wrong. A cheat—even for $29,000—is still a cheat and not a hero.

Beaufort Poet

Recently published and here for review is a new book of poems by Beaufort-born Rev. Alex C. D. Noe, well known and well respected throughout eastern Tarheelia as rector of North Carolina's oldest house of Christian worship, the Episcopal Church at Bath. His book is entitled "Above the Rim and Other Poems," and is an anthology of Rev. Noe's poetic effusions on life, nature, the family, patriotism and religion. We found many of his poems inspirational as well as pertinent—and we'll quote the one he wrote to his mother in her eighties, because this week your columnist's mother has a birthday. It's called "Life's Harvest Time":

Old age is but the harvest time,
With autumn-tinted leaves,
When fully ripened faculties
Bring in the golden sheaves.

The ripened sheaves in plente
To life's great threshing floors;
Old age is but the harvest time,
Such fine old age as yours.

Today's Review

A newcomer to The Column criticizes a recent book about a man who valued education—and certainly made use of his own. . . .

SIR WINSTON CHURCHILL, Master of Courage, by Princess Marthe Bibesco. The John Day Company, Inc., New York, 1959. $3.50.

This unusual character study has none of the earmarks of biography as expected by the reader. Instead, the author has taken various facets of courage and through them viewed her subject in the best possible light from many angles. The book is divided into three main sections, each signifying a different period in Churchill's life. The sections are composed of chapters with such headings as "The Courage to Defy His School Masters," "The Courage to Be a Liberal," and "The Courage to Step Down." Princess Marthe discusses Churchill as only one can who knows him, giving much insight into the ideals which inspired this man to become one of the great leaders of our time.

It appears that some of the meaning has been lost in translation, and for this reason the book would probably prove more enjoyable in the original French. Princess Marthe uses words as beautifully as a painter uses color, but at times seems so carried away by the sound of them that she loses contact with her subject. She has a strange way of creating a beautiful, poetic passage and then completely shattering the illusion by dropping a trite comment about her own self. This book would be of most interest to those who are familiar with the life and works of Churchill.

Could Happen In A Saloon, Or Cocktail Bar

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "In a decently written and well-researched Western, anything that happens in a frontier saloon could just as well happen in a modern cocktail bar," says veteran actor Joel McCrea who has spent his entire working life before film cameras. McCrea is star of a Western series called "Wichita Town," (NBC Wednesday, 10:30-11 p.m. Eastern Standard Time) and was in New York for a few days plugging his show, which comes on pretty late of a weekday night to catch the family small fry.

"I don't feel you should pay too much attention to the people who are doing all the complaining and demanding different types of programs," says the actor. "The people who don't write are certainly in the majority and they aren't complaining and demanding because they are getting what they want from television."

What most people want from television, McCrea is convinced, is "relaxation."

"Most of us refuse to sit down to see some serious problem explored in the evening after a working day in which we've been coping with problems," he continues. "We want to relax and be entertained, and we find these things in Westerns, comedy shows, variety shows, mystery and adventure stories."

McCrea insists that the qualities which make a good Western are the ones which go into any entertaining drama—except that in a Western the surroundings are different.

"We have 11 writers, and not one of them is a specialist in Westerns," he says. "They write the stories, and we supply the research and the touches which transform them into Westerns."

Had Baby Shower While At Jail

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—The young mother, expecting her third child, got a baby shower just like anybody else—only here was held in the Madison County jail.

The woman was awaiting transfer to the women's prison following her conviction on a charge of forgery. "We felt sorry for the girl even though she committed a crime," said a jailer.
