

Hundreds Feared Dead As Dam In France Collapses

FREJUS, France (AP)—A massive torrent released by the thundering collapse of a dam left a sluice of death, silt and destruction today along the rich Revrain River Valley in the French Riviera.

At least 150 persons are dead, and 160 missing.

Millions of tons of water backed up behind the 185-foot high Malpas Dam by five days of heavy rain were loosed upon the peacefully-sleeping farm valley Wednesday night. The water smashed houses, uprooted trees, rolled over trucks, derailed trains and broke telegraph and telephone poles.

Hours after—as rescuers began arriving and the waters subsided into the Mediterranean—the full range of disaster became apparent. The four-mile wide valley, 18 miles southwest of Cannes, was a jumbled canal of wreckage and silt.

The rushing waters partly flooded this town of 13,500 which was founded by Julius Caesar in 49 B.C., and was one of the landing points in the Allied invasion of southern France in 1944.

The old Roman amphitheater, the town's main tourist attraction, was under water. Lines of bodies lay in the morgues of Frejus and nearby towns.

Pierre Seraud, watchman at the dam, was picked up with his wife by helicopter this morning.

"About 9 o'clock I heard a terrific cracking," he said. "I screamed to my wife. 'We must save ourselves—the dam is breaking!' Forty-million cubic meters of water (nearly 10 billion gallons) broke loose at one blow, carrying everything with it. My wife and I were able to get to high ground where we spent a horrible night."

Many bodies were discovered in a sea of mud in Frejus.

Fifteen persons, including two children, clung to a shuddering old mill through the night and were saved just before the building collapsed.

The French aircraft carrier Lafayette, formerly the USS Langley, served as a floating hospital and flight deck for 15 rescue helicopters. The U. S. Air Force offered to parachute aid if necessary.

Top French officials rushed to the scene to assess the need for relief. The navy prepared initially to feed 10,000 people. Army engineers loaded equipment on boats to get emergency housing started. The French radio appealed for money for relief.

The navy prowled the shore of the Mediterranean, which was strewn for miles with wreckage, seeking survivors. It was feared many victims had been washed out to sea.

The disaster disrupted rail and telephone traffic throughout southern France. The coastal rail line was swept more than a mile from its roadbed.

The 22-foot thick dam was erected for irrigation six years ago. "There is nothing left," said a rescue worker. "The neighboring farms were carried away with their occupants. The road which led to the dam through the valley is no longer passable. Everything has been swept away and what remains is covered with mud."

A policeman was decapitated by the blades of a rescue helicopter he was directing to a landing.

Although the valley is set in the midst of the luxurious Riviera vacationland, it has been mostly uninhabited by farmers and by fishermen living along the rocky coast. It was seldom visited by tourists.

Terrified families were swept downstream, struggling to stay in dazed silence. Together, many had just gone to bed when the flood struck. One 85-year-old woman floated seven hours on her bedroom dresser. An old man walking his dog was swept away in a second.

The hospital at Frejus—luckily on high ground—was jammed with injured and survivors suffering from shock and exposure. The morgue at the hospital was lined with bodies.

No help was immediately available for the villages upstream. It took many hours to get the first rescue teams there. Rescuers found survivors often wandering together. Frejus, about four miles below the dam, suffered less than the isolated villages up the valley. It was feared no houses were left standing along the upper reaches of the river. The water was six feet deep when it reached the town. Upstream it may have towered 40 feet in narrow stretches.

The dam was sorely strained after the very heavy rains. The spillways were opened wider after the survey warned engineers of impending danger. But at 9:45 p. m., the dam burst.

Four Local Blood Donors Honored By Red Cross For Two Gallon-Mark

Social Security Forum Slated Here Tuesday

The second annual Pitt County Social Security Forum will be conducted on Tuesday, December 8, in the Court Room, third floor, City Hall in Greenville. Two sessions will be held at 2:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. The meeting this year will be of particular interest to farmers, who are urged to attend. The public is invited.

Four local men who have reached the two-gallon mark in the Red Cross blood donor program received pins of recognition last night at the annual board of directors meeting of the Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross in the educational building of St. Paul's Episcopal Church here.

Ed. W. Ratcliff, Beverly T. Joyner, Howard L. Creech, and Jim A. Taylor received the "two-gallon" pins. Thirty-eight more pins were awarded to donors from the Greenville and Pitt County area who have donated at least one gallon of the life-giving fluid.

During a business session, it was pointed out that Pitt County has been falling behind in the bloodmobile program. Dr. Howard J. Gradis reported that each civic organization in the county has been urged to provide at least seven donors when the Bloodmobile visits Pitt Dec. 11.

Board Chairman Dr. W. H. Pott reported that the chapter's budget quota for fiscal 1958-59 was reached by the Pitt United Fund drive. He noted that there is a slight increase in the budget this year and that the United Fund drive for this fiscal year is not yet complete. He urged all possible assistance to the UF drive.

Annual reports were heard from the various Red Cross services and Field Representative Lem Davis presented an appreciation certificate to Richard Atkinson for his service as Regional Director of the 1958-59 fund campaign for a five-county area.

Receiving "one-gallon" pins were: Les Turnage, Frank Steinbeck, Jessie T. Worthington, Mrs. Jessie Lee White, James E. Maurey, John R. Messick, Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, Hoyt L. Naron, Paul Scott, D. B. Shackelford, Leon Smith Jr., Thomas Webb, Francis J. Whelham, David J. Whichard III, John W. S. Biggs, William Lester Bunting, John Ray Hardy, Miss Florence Holland, Lyle G. Gagnery, Charles Blanchard, David Barnhill, Dr. Stephen Bartlett, Mrs. Clara D. Baker, Charles K. Beatty, Gordon B. Berry, Miss Cora Midyette, James Anderson, James A. Elks, Joseph C. Dudley, and Erskine Duff. (Others listed in photo).

Stokes pointed out that all entries must be cleared by the Entry Committee of the Association in order to participate in the event.

Due to the lack of interest shown by children last year, bicycles and pets will not be included in the parade this year.

All Brownies, Girl Scouts, Cubs, and Boy Scouts are invited and are scheduled to line up at McGowan Warehouse.

Plans To Drop Use Of Reserve Ships Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Long range plans to stop use of national defense reserve fleet sites at Astoria, Ore., and Wilmington, N.C., are disclosed in a report to Congress.

The proposal was in a report by the comptroller general on a review of the government's reserve fleet of some 2,100 merchant vessels built for use in World War II.

The report said the examination disclosed conditions which suggest serious doubt that many vessels in the reserve fleet will ever be useful.

It added the maritime administrator and assistant secretary of the Navy decided last May to reduce the reserve fleet to about half its size.

This is to be done mainly by scrapping 1,030 Liberty vessels determined no longer suitable for defense or commercial requirements.

The report states that Maritime Administration is planning deactivation of the Astoria and Wilmington sites "as a long range goal." No time schedule was mentioned.

The value of the sites was reported at over 90 million dollars. "Since reserve fleet expenses, exclusive of preservation materials, average about $750,000 annually at each fleet site, a reduction in the number of such sites could result in significant recurring savings," the report stated.

President Will Leave Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower takes off for Rome tonight on the first leg of a jet-propelled goodwill tour of 11 nations.

His departure, immediately after a radio-television speech to the nation, will follow a full day's work schedule. It includes a series of conferences and the second meeting this week of the National Security Council, with which Eisenhower has been discussing budgetary and other matters.

The 15-minute broadcast, starting at 7:15 p.m. EST, was expected to include both a new plea for settlement of the steel dispute, and an explanation of Eisenhower's purposes in making his extraordinary journey.

Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday he wants to prove to the people of the world that the United States is a "good partner" with other nations in the quest for a just peace.

His travels have one other major objective, apart from the individual problems he will discuss with such leaders as India's Prime Minister Nehru. That is to lay the basis for future summit negotiations with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. To that end he will meet in Paris Dec. 19-21 with French President Charles de Gaulle, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The presidential party of 21 persons, traveling by Military Air Transport jet liner, will take off from Andrews Air Force Base, Md., about 8 p.m. tonight. It is due in Rome at noon, Italian time, Friday after a fueling stop at Goose Bay, Labrador.

In the group will be the President's son and his wife, Maj. and Mrs. John Eisenhower; the President's personal physician, Dr. Howard M. Snyder; two speech writers, Malcolm Moos and Kevin McCann; and Robert D. Murphy, Eisenhower's chief diplomatic adviser for the tour.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter is staying behind in Washington to make detailed policy preparations for the Paris meeting. He will be on hand in Paris when the President arrives there late on Dec. 18.

In addition to Italy, he is to visit Turkey, Pakistan, Afghanistan, Spain, Iran, Greece, Tunisia, France, India and Morocco. He is due home Dec. 22.

Payola Reports Ordered By All Broadcast Stations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission today ordered every broadcasting station in the country to report promptly whether any payola practice has figured in its operations during the past year.

The directive went out to 5,236 stations. It covers both commercial and educational outlets in the standard radio, FM radio and television fields.

The FCC order requires that the stations file sworn statements not later than Jan. 4, covering station operations since Nov. 1, 1958.

Payola is a term covering payments for promoting records. Officials said the object of today's order is to trace down the handling of "sneaky commercials"—spots on the air which are paid for but not so identified.

The officials noted that the Federal Communications Act specifically requires that all matter put on the air for which a remuneration has been paid to anyone must be identified as a commercial.

Penalties for violations could range from a commission reprimand to a license revocation proceeding. In addition, the Communications Act provides for criminal penalties up to $10,000 fine or one year imprisonment, or both for "willful" violations of any of its sections.

The new FCC action growing out of investigations into rigged TV quiz shows, payments to disc jockeys to plug records, and honesty in TV advertising, precedes hearings the FCC will begin Monday on its powers to regulate the content of broadcast programs.

Another agency, the Federal Trade Commission is making an extensive investigation of alleged payoffs by recording companies to disc jockeys to promote their records.

The Communications Commission order for a report on payola practices directs each station in the United States to say what considerations, direct or indirect, have been received by the station or any employe for broadcast material not identified as paid for.

In addition, each station was directed to report "what internal controls and procedures" it has established to provide station management with information concerning payments to employes in connection with program presentations.

The order was sent out to 3,525 commercial standard radio stations, 816 commercial FM stations, 166 educational FM stations, 669 commercial TV stations and 60 educational TV stations.

The commission last Monday announced it is reviewing the license of Hollywood, Fla., radio, owned by Jack Barry and Daniel Enright, the original owners of the TV quiz shows "Twenty-One" and "The Tac-Dough," which have been identified as having been rigged.

The Trade Commission chairmen, Earl W. Kintner said its investigators are checking on possible law violations by record firms in payments to television and radio disc jockeys. He said investigations are being made in several sections of the country, including New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Chicago.

Police Preparing For Traffic Load

Visitors to Greenville's annual Santa Claus parade are urged to come early in order to reduce the traffic load prior to the parade and to be assured of securing a desirable parking space.

Police Chief S. G. Gibbs said this morning that the Police Department "is doing everything in its power to provide speedy and efficient handling of traffic for the event."

Gibbs pointed out that no parking will be allowed on Evans St. from Five Points to First St. after 2 p.m. No parking will be allowed on Washington St. from First to Third Sts. after 2 p.m., he added.

Cars parked in restricted "no parking" areas will be towed away by wreckers, Gibbs noted. In explanation, the Chief said, "It is not our intention to make our visitors angry, but instead to provide clear streets and intersections, both for the movement of emergency vehicles during the parade and for the speedy movement of traffic following the event."

Gibbs warned drivers it is "imperative that they not abandon cars at intersections," adding that if a driver stops at an intersection and leaves his car, officers will place a ticket on the vehicle and it will be towed away. The intersections must be kept open so, if needed, emergency vehicles can get through.

Concluding, Gibbs urged all drivers to give the local department their cooperation in order to avoid traffic jams and to expedite the movement of traffic following the parade.

Agents Raid, Destroy 2 Stills East Of Calico

Pitt County ABC officers, assisted by Federal ATU agents, destroyed two illegal distilleries east of Calico in Chicod Township yesterday afternoon.

The two units, a 200-gallon submarine type still and a 100-gallon copper still, were found by the officers near the Sutton Road with fifteen 55-gallon mash barrels and 750 gallons of mash, one 55-gallon doubler and a 60-gallon cooler with copper condenser.

The still, according to the officers, was not in operation and no arrests were made.

Eighteen sticks of dynamite were used to destroy the illegal units, officers added.

Participating in the raid were Pitt officers J. M. Ward, H. B. Lilley and Walter Taylor and Federal agents Jim Sanders and Don Alpine, both of New Bern.

Local Man Dies Of Gun Wound

W. C. Craven, manager of a local heavy equipment company, died this morning in the Beaufort County Memorial Hospital in Washington as a result of a gunshot wound received while deer hunting November 13.

According to authorities, Craven was accidentally shot through the stomach by Herschel Williams, an employe of the same firm, while the two men were hunting deer in the Bonneron section of Beaufort County, near Aurora.

Craven was said to have been struck by a bullet from Williams' 30-06 rifle as Williams fired at a deer.

Williams ran about two and one-half miles to his car, returned and picked up Craven, then drove 40 miles to Washington and the hospital.

Doctors said the bullet entered Craven's right side, passed through his stomach and emerged through his left side.

Beaufort County officers terminated the shooting accidentally, saying that Williams did not know Craven had left his stand when he fired at the deer.

Seaway Closing Up For Winter

MONTREAL (AP)—The St. Lawrence Seaway, opened last June by Queen Elizabeth II in her yacht Britannia, closes for the winter today after two tugs haul through a disabled straggler.

The Norwegian freighter Saltvik will be tugged into Montreal harbor at the eastern end of the seaway, the last of more than 6,500 vessels passing through the locks in the 475-million-dollar waterway's first season of operations.

The Seaway officially opened last June 26 amid the blare of trumpets, 21-gun salutes, band fireworks.

President Eisenhower joined the Queen on her sleek royal yacht for a 31-mile cruise at the start of the 185-mile waterway opening the Great Lakes to oceangoing shipping.

The 1,680-ton Saltvik lost her electrical power on Lake Erie. The tugs James Battle and Simmac took her in tow and began a race to beat the seaway's closing deadline, originally set for midnight Monday but pushed back when good weather held.

Felding L. Fry of Greensboro told the society that Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Benjamin of Greensboro had deeded 1.65 acres to the society.

Fry said, "We hope a bronze tablet will soon mark the site of this seat of learning." Dr. David Caldwell and his wife operated a log college near Greensboro during the Revolutionary War period.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

What can you give a gardener for Christmas—a wish for a greener thumb, or a greater capacity for indifference to bad weather and the bugs?

But speaking in the tones of tangibility, there are many gifts for the gardener.

You could surprise him with a good shrub or tree, a good start on a rose garden, maybe a spray tank (leak proof), a new lawn mower (this thank you, might be hiding a frown). These are bulky things, and don't wrap well—so stick to books, or a subscription to a good garden magazine.

A gift that is sure to please is one year subscription to quarterly publications by the Brooklyn Botanic Gardens. It costs $2.00 for one year. These publications are full of useful and interesting information.

A good book on pruning is always helpful. Edwin F. Steffek's, "Pruning Made Easy," by Henry Holt & Co. New York—costs $2.95 and well worth it.

A classic is H. Harold Hume's, "Camellias In America," published by J. Horace McFarland Co. of Harrisburg, Penn. The cost is high, $25.00, but any gardener would treasure this gift.

If you don't have time to go book hunting—here are a few illustrated Garden and Horticultural Handbooks from one source. These are handbooks put out by the Brooklyn Botanic Garden, whose address is 1000 Washington Ave., Brooklyn 25, N. Y. If you care to order any of these books, be sure to order by name and number.

These are listed according to number, name and price:

4. Selected Perennials, $7.5; 5. Flowering Shrubs, 7.5; 6. Diseases that Kill Trees, 7.5; 12. American Gardens, 7.5; 14. Vines & Ground Covers, $1.00; 16. House Plants, 1.00; 17. Plant Pests & Diseases, and Their Control, 1.00; 18. Roses, 1.00; 19. Flower Arrangements, 1.00; 20. Soils, 1.00.

21. Lawns, $1.00; 28. Pruning Handbook, 1.00; 29. Handbook on Gardening, 1.00; 30. Birding For Handbooks, 1.00 (Holds 4 issues).

There are many good books on gardening that you can give for Christmas. These make lasting gifts that never lose their usefulness. Make some future Burbank happy this year—give a book on something close to his heart—Gardening.

Must We Lag In Production, Too?

Assertion by retiring secretary of defense Neil H. McElroy that the United States will lag behind the Soviet Union in intercontinental missiles for three more years is a matter which should concern top government and military officials as well as other citizens of this country.

This lag in the defenses of our nation poses a two-fold problem. How to catch up with the Soviet Union in this particular phase of military weapons, and how to prevent a similar lag on our part in some other weapons categories.

It is significant that the secretary of defense asserted that at the moment the United States and the Soviet Union have about the same number—a small number—of intercontinental missiles, but Soviet production in the next few years will surpass that of the United States. That in itself is a major concession to be made by a nation which has a major portion of its strength from its ability to produce in quantity the things it needs for both war and peace. Is the announcement to be interpreted to mean that we are allowing ourselves to be relegated to a secondary position in our ability to produce as well as in our ability to develop new weapons?

Government and military officials of the United States must, for the sake of the future safety of the nation, carefully evaluate the circumstances which have resulted in the predicted three-year lag behind the Soviet Union in the development and production of missiles. If the cause or causes for this lag can be pinpointed, it is probable that such a situation can be prevented in the future. If the causes are not found, and solutions are not provided, we may well find ourselves continuing to lag behind the other major world power in the development and production of new defense weapons. Such a situation would in a very real sense place the position of this nation and that of the free world in jeopardy.

Bringing the gap in missiles with other weapons

Demo's Dinner Date Changed

By LYNN NISBET
J-J DINNER — Discovered conflict of dates with other events and difficulty in obtaining a desired speaker for January 30 has made it necessary to change the time of the 1960 Jefferson-Jackson Dinner. This big annual money-raising and political-planning affair for the Democratic party was scheduled to be held at the Sir Walter Hotel on January 30. Probable new date will be the following Saturday, February 6. The date will be nailed down within a few days, depending upon availability of a speaker. Tentative announcement has been the speaker was to be a member of the United States Senate who is not a candidate for President. Failing that and since there are no Democratic cabinet members, an outstanding Governor will be sought.

The date for the dinner has lost its historic significance and is adjusted on basis of convenience. There are several historically appropriate dates — January 8, the battle of New Orleans; March 15, Jackson's birthday; or April 13, Jefferson's birthday. Traditionally the dinner is held on a Saturday night, and is the big annual Democratic affair, exceeded in party significance only by the biennial state convention.

PRESTONE — Ralph Moody, assistant attorney general, says the State will attack chiefly the non-signer clause in the Fair Trade Act when it intervenes in the case brought by Union Carbide Company against John T. Davis, a Winston-Salem dealer, for selling Prestone antifreeze for less than the company established fair trade price. It is the hope of the Attorney General to have the whole act declared unconstitutional, but main effort will be to outlaw the provision that if one dealer signs a fair trade agreement that binds every other dealer in the state to maintain the same price.

GASOLINE — Moody says the approach with respect to Prestone will be different from that planned against oil companies before they abandoned fair trade under fire of Attorney General Malcolm Seawell. It is impossible to identify brands of gasoline, and the purchaser had no way of knowing exactly what he was getting.

Prestone is packaged under a trademarked label, and can be easily identified. The manufacturer admittedly has a property right in that trademark and is justified in trying to protect it. On the other hand, Moody says when a dealer buys outright and pays for the product instead of handling it as a commission salesman, the manufacturer should have no right to fix the price except by agreement with each individual dealer. Moody concedes that Prestone is the type of product originally contemplated for "protection" under the Fair Trade Act.

ORIGIN — The Federal act was born out of the depression, sponsored chiefly by reputable druggists and manufacturers of pharmaceutical supplies to combat the inroads of "cutrate" drug stores. The original act did not have the non-signer clause, and sponsors had difficulty getting enough cooperation to make the plan effective. So the later bill provided that if just one dealer signed a fair trade agreement that would bind all dealers. The Federal act was applicable only in states which had similar statutes. Eighteen States now have abandoned or repealed the non-signer provision. The Attorney General hopes that if the courts do not throw out the act as unconstitutional the next General Assembly will repeal it in its entirety, and if not that, certainly the non-signer phase.

ANTI-TRUST — The Federal act exempted fair trade agreements from the general anti-trust laws, much as big labor unions had been exempted by earlier statutes. Abuse of the privileges is giving rise to popular demand that the exemptions be eliminated, both for labor unions and manufacturers of trademarked products.

When labor unions were given authority to make blanket contracts covering employer-employee relations throughout an entire industry, business firms found themselves hamstrung by requirement for individual dealing. Fair trade laws were intended to remove that discrimination. Both manufacturers and labor have abused the concessions, in opinion of Attorney General Malcolm Seawell and his staff.

The present attack on fair trade practices is consistent with the prosecution for conspiracy of the Henderson textile strikers. The goose and the gander are being given the same kind of feed.

is something which must be done by the United States, and of equal importance, we must exercise every effort to see that a similar gap does not occur in the future where the balance of military strength between the United States and the Soviet Union is concerned.

Polio Statistics Are Reminder Of A Need

Statistics on polio in North Carolina during 1959 should prompt those who have not taken advantage of the polio vaccine to reconsider their attitude toward the vaccine before another year passes.

So far this year 277 cases of polio have been reported in the state compared with only 69 cases for the entire year of 1958. Of the total number of cases this year 232 were paralytic, and of the 232 paralytic victims only 32 had received the prescribed three shots of vaccine.

The polio vaccine has been available for several years now, affording ample time for the public to take advantage of this means of immunizing themselves from the disease. Moreover, physicians, health departments and state officials have placed emphasis on the importance of the vaccine and have continually urged Tar Heels to take the vaccine. Earlier this year the state legislature re-emphasized its importance to public health by requiring that all children entering public schools of the state receive the vaccine.

In spite of all this, 200 of the 232 paralytic polio victims so far recorded in North Carolina this year had not received as many as three shots of the vaccine. If the dreaded polio is to be stamped out as a menace to public health in this state, it is essential that the public cooperate by taking the polio vaccine. The fact that a vaccine to prevent the disease is available is of little consequence unless people take the vaccine.

The state's experience with the disease this year should serve as a warning to those who have not yet completed their series of immunization shots against the disease.

Pageant Site Swap Could Be Good Thing

Although the Roanoke Island Historical Association ignored at its recent meeting the suggestion that the outdoor dramas "The Lost Colony" and "Horne In The West" swap sites for a couple of seasons, the idea is one that should not be forgotten entirely by the association.

If the financial picture of the dramas continues to darken, it may well be that the sponsoring organizations may give consideration to the swap another year.

There can be little doubt that both dramas would draw more paying customers for at least a year or two by swapping sites, and that fact could well provide an answer to the financial problems faced by the productions. The declining attendance figures for 1959, together with the operating loss of $8,000 shown by the report on "The Lost Colony" suggests that in time something must be done to increase the income of the drama if it is to continue. And certainly the drama should be continued in North Carolina even if its site is temporarily changed.

WASHINGTON, (AP) — As one of his last acts in office, Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy conceded the Soviets will be ahead of this country in missiles for another three years.

Since the Democrats have hampered at the Eisenhower administration for months—complaining that it lacked a sense of urgency in meeting the Soviet missile challenge—next month's opening of Congress should be a fiery one. McElroy made his statement Tuesday shortly before leaving office to go back into private business and just a few hours after Premier Nikita Khrushchev boasted in Hungary the USSR now has enough nuclear rockets to flatten all its foes. But McElroy made these two points:

1. As of today, he said, the Soviet Union and the United States have about the same number of long-range missiles and the number is "quite small" on both sides.

Last July he estimated the Soviet Union had fewer than 10 intercontinental ballistic missiles capable of hitting the United States. He said then that over all the United States could more than match Soviet ICBM capabilities.

But only recently Khrushchev said one Soviet plant was turning out 250 missiles a year, which would be a lot more than the 10 McElroy said the Soviet Union had.

2. McElroy said the administration will ask Congress for money so that bombers capable of carrying nuclear weapons can be maintained on an airborne alert.

The money would go, he said, to buy additional engines for B52 strategic bombers and to train Air Force crews so that some degree of airborne alert can be ordered when the Joint Chiefs of Staff conclude the Soviet Union has a substantial ICBM lead.

The B52 is a jet bomber capable of making 650 miles an hour and with a range of over 6,000 miles without refueling. Soviet jet fighters which would try to intercept the bombers can do up to 900 miles an hour.

This country is going in for B52 model jet bombers which can fire the Hound Dog missile. This weapon, carrying a nuclear warhead, can be fired from the bomber at a target 500 miles ahead.

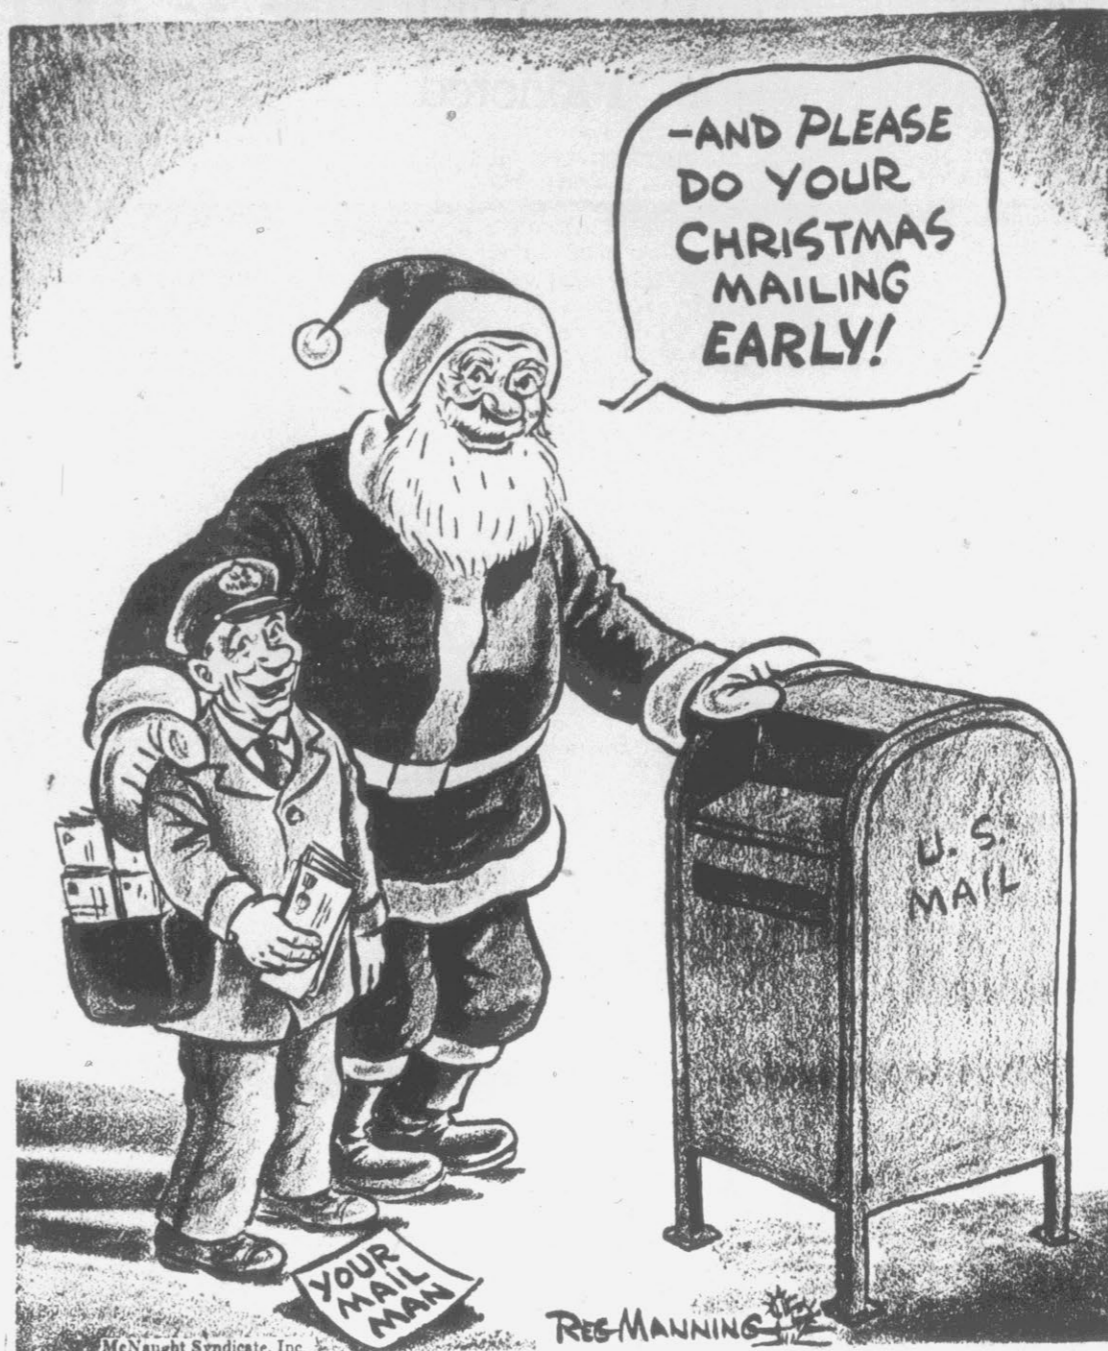

McElroy explained: If the Soviets build the number of ICBMs they are capable of building the number it now intends to, the Soviets will have more missile capability over most of a three-year period.

McElroy was defense secretary 26 months. Under his direction this country developed its first intercontinental ballistic missile, the Atlas, and worked toward perfecting more advanced weapons.

But as time went on and the Soviets inflicted one embarrassment after another on this country in space development, plus their missile boasting, the Democrats protested the administration wasn't doing enough to keep up or get ahead.

Last winter McElroy finally said this country didn't plan trying to match the Soviet missile for missile.

Do Us Both A Favor—

By HENRY HOWARD Big, Day For Parades

Tomorrow, parade-minded Pitt County folks will likely be treated to about as much Santa Claus parade as a body can take in at once.

A trio of them, all staggered at different hours so everybody can see them all, are on tap in the county.

Grifton leads the way tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Carrying the festivities on through the daylight hours, Greenville's parade takes over at 4:15. Farmville's Santa Claus train applies the nightcap, after a brief recess for supper, as it gets underway at 7:30.

It's a good thing the parades are scheduled for different hours. That way Santa Claus can make the scene at each.

A basketball referee confided in me recently: He declared that he'd had about as close a call as he could remember during the fast and furious action of a recent high school basketball game near here. It would have been the height of embarrassment, he said.

He'd just tossed the ball to a player out of bounds to put it in play again. Naturally, he'd just tooted the whistle loudly and was in the process of changing directions quickly. This thing happened as he was verbally indicating who was to have ball possession.

"What'd you do," I asked, "give the ball to the wrong team?"

"Nope," he said quite decidedly.

Embarrassing? That ain't the word for it!

Youngsters out at Elmhurst School here will soon benefit from a beautiful, new library.

It's a part of the new four-classroom addition to the modern plant. Classes in the new classrooms began last Monday and, according to City Supt. J.H. Rose, the library will be ready for use about the first of the year.

Conditions have been so crowded out there that the hallways have been used for library facilities during past school terms. The new library has a large reading area with plentiful book cases and a pair of glassed-in conference and research rooms.

The Elmhurst PTA has been getting outstanding results from a drive to supplement the school's book supply. We understand the goal of "one book per family" has nearly been reached.

Alert and interested parents and teachers have made certain there'll be plenty of books on the shelves that aren't even completed yet.

Other Editors Saying An Old Bromide

(Greensboro Daily News) We see by the papers that an N.C. State College farm expert has been taken in by an old bromide.

In a speech at Salisbury Dr. George Hiatt, head of the animal husbandry department at State, says the press is responsible for the cranberry mess. By this he means the country's newspapers have blown the cranberry crisis all out of proportion to its news value — all in the interest of "selling newspapers."

Let us straightaway admit that newspaper editors are interested in selling newspapers; that's their business. But Dr. Hiatt should take another look if he thinks the cranberry crisis has been given undue attention.

The story did not originate with the press. It originated with the Food and Drug Administration and Arthur Fleming, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. The newspapers would have been irresponsible and discriminatory if they had deliberately downgraded Secretary Fleming's warning.

They evaluated it, regardless of scientific corroborations, as front-page—not back-page—news. As a matter of fact, that is what it was. Their coverage has thrown public attention on an area too long dark: The divided authority between the Agriculture Department, which certifies and encourages certain types of sprays and insecticides for farm use, and the Food and Drug Administration, which must then come along and evaluate their potential harm to crops and people who consume them.

Dr. Hiatt would do well to investigate some of the alarming reports now sifting out of Washington about the danger of insecticides to certain crops. Last year, for example, Agriculture Department agents sprayed large areas of Alabama and Georgia from the air with dieldrin and heptachlor in a drive to kill off the imported fire ant. This month the Food and Drug Administration reported that heptachlor forms a dangerous derivative on crops treated with it, and severely restricted its use.

Maybe it is true, as Dr. Hiatt claims, that the amount of certain chemicals being used is so small as to have no effect on human beings who consume the products. That remains to be seen.

The point we are making is this: The press did not pull the Flemming announcement out of thin air. He is a responsible public official. If anybody needs to be castigated in this case, it is not the newspapers, which served to inform the public, but the government officials who made the news.

We do not expect government officials to blame the substance of Dr. Hiatt's statement on the newspapers simply because they reported what he told the Salisbury Kiwanis Club.

The press makes errors aplenty without being saddled again with this old bromide.

"Well, then," said I, "what was so terribly embarrassing?"

He painstakingly explained that as he'd allowed the whistle to fall from his mouth and had opened his mouth wide to shout instructions concerning ball possession, he'd nearly dropped his upper plate!

Embarrassing? That ain't the word for it!

We thought when peace was declared that we had put all the venomous reptiles back into their baskets. We had, it is true, succeeded in forcing the huge serpent known as armed conflict into a place of safe-keeping—for the time being at least. But what we failed to realize was that there were other serpents still at large. Suspicion was still slithering through the counsel rooms of state departments. Desire for rule was still coiled in a dark corner, waiting to sink its fangs into society when famine and desperation had weakened populations. When strikes suddenly hit our own economy, we were startled to find that there were a lot of snakes which were not back in their baskets.

We need constantly to be awake to our danger. There will always be venomous influences lying in wait to inflict injury on a weakened humanity. But government exists for the purpose of protecting society against such persons and influences. All the snakes are not yet back in their baskets. But let's get them there as quickly as possible.

"Regrettably, if all the Fair Trade companies desert the sinking ship, Seawell—with no further cause of action—will forego a court test that might have ruled invalid the North Carolina law that permits price-fixing, not only on gasoline products but on any retail item."

—Charlotte Observer

"Because it is always the consumer who suffers whenever prices are fixed—legally or illegally—we deplore laws that tend to reduce competition or protect inefficient producers."

—Charleston (S.C.) News and Courier

"People work harder and harder so they can get more and more that they will have less and less time to enjoy."

—Memphis Press-Scimitar

"Whether Congress will do anything about this situation largely rests with the House Ways and Means Committee, which will recommend changes—or perhaps a stem-to-stern overhaul of our mish-mash of tax laws."

Citizens who have ideas on tax laws might do well to write to their own Congressmen now, in advance of the January reconvening. Or they can write to Congressman Wilbur D. Mills (D. Ark.), chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Mr. Mills wrote a masterful resume of the ways in which the government of the United States of America is cheating its citizens to get money to squander in Life magazine of November 23, 1959. "Cheating" can't be an exaggeration, for the cover title was "Our Taxes: A Mess and a Gyp," and if they are a gyp, your own Uncle Sam is picking your pockets.

Mr. Mills' article is worth reading by every American taxpayer. The magazine is available in most libraries and dentists' offices.

Reading leaves two impressions: Mr. Mills is material for the Presidency. But before being considered, he should be doused with sorghum and feathers because, as Congressman and as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, he has so far failed to keep our government from cheating us.

GREETING CARD INDUSTRY COMES OF AGE

How far Americans have gone in letting George do it when it comes to sending greetings to friends is evidenced by the fact that a greeting card trade magazine will appear next April. It will be published by Mackay Publishing Corp., New York, and will circulate among retailers of greeting cards, manufacturers and suppliers.

Desert Fox No Hero

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Field Marshal Erwin Rommel of Germany was Britain's favorite enemy — perhaps America's too—in War II.

But after a 10-year study, author Cornelius Ryan has concluded the Allies were a bit over-kindly in their estimates of the dashing Nazi armor genius.

"Rommel has been sometimes portrayed as a high-minded military idealist who played war as a big exciting game," said Ryan, author of an account of the Allied invasion of Normandy on June 6, 1944.

"The truth is he was a Hitler favorite bitterly resented by the career officers of the regular German army.

"Actually, Rommel was a very ambitious man willing to trample on anybody to get ahead. He was an utter politician. He was a fine tactician, but he simply didn't have the depth of training to handle the defense of Europe against the invasion."

His study convinced Ryan that Field Marshal von Rundstedt, who nicknamed Rommel "Marshal Wubi"—the baby marshal — was the superior soldier.

He feels that the Allied beach-head would have been in dire peril—perhaps even thrown into the sea—if Von Rundstedt had been allowed to carry out his plans for a massive counter-attack on the third day of the landings, instead of attacking piecemeal on D-Day itself, as Rommel ordered.

But both sides bungled their own intelligent reports badly, and says Ryan: "Plans were tossed out the window on that day, and in the final irretrievable moment when the soldiers met face to face, history voted for the Allied guy."

It is impossible to get a completely clear view of what goes on in a major battle. But Ryan gives as clear a picture as we ever will get of what actually happened in those first few mighty hours as an Allied armada of 5,000 ships bearing 200,000 troops hit the Normandy coast.

STAND BY WITH THE BASKETS

A snake charmer on the streets of a city in India was surrounded by the customary crowd of curious and fascinated people. After his performance he picked up his snakes and put them back in the baskets; but, as he was about to leave, someone reminded him that he had missed a reptile or two. Then after diligent search, one was found coiled beneath a nearby bush and another was lying beneath a bolt of cloth.

We thought when peace was declared that we had put all the venomous reptiles back into their baskets. We had, it is true, succeeded in forcing the huge serpent known as armed conflict into a place of safe-keeping—for the time being at least. # Big Captive Shark Taught How To Swim In His Tank

SHARK TEACHERS—John Hawthorne (top) and William Sykes, employees of Sydney's Taronga Park Zoo, go about their daily duty—teaching a shark how to swim in his confines.

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—They're teaching a shark to swim in Sydney. It's not a baby shark either, but a 9 1/2 foot grey nurse—a variety recognized as a man-killer. The shark is receiving its swimming lessons in the pool of the Taronga Park aquarium. Teachers are zoo employees John Hawthorne, 28, and William Sykes, 29.

Two fishermen caught the 500-pound shark in the ocean south of Sydney, and offered it to the zoo. The zoo put it in a salt-water tank, but the shark was listless and stupified, and now must be "walked" back to activity. Hawthorne and Sykes spend about five hours a day in the pool giving the shark swimming lessons. They put their arms around the shark, walk with it for a few paces, then propel it forward. This forces the shark to swim and to breathe normally. The zoo hopes that after a few weeks of this treatment the shark will recover its senses and swim normally in its new home. Says Hawthorne: "The shark has been pretty quiet. It hasn't shown any sign of aggression. But you can never tell what will happen."

Rockefeller To Check South, Border States

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is planning now to sweep into border and Southern states before disclosing his presidential intentions around the turn of the year. Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas and Florida are being added to a final pulse-taking tour which already included Indiana, Minnesota and Wisconsin. A fellow Republican governor, who didn't want his name used, said he has a hunch that Rockefeller's decision will be against trying to snatch the Republican presidential nomination away from Vice President Richard M. Nixon. And from a Nixon rooster, Gov. Harold W. Handley of Indiana, came this political appraisal: "There is no question that if he'll bide his time, Rockefeller will be president of the United States. But this isn't the time." About a dozen governors, off and on, are here for meeting of various committees of the National Conference of Governors. The number keeps changing, as some leave, others arrive, and still others cancel out because of poor flying weather. With Rockefeller, it was only an overnight stay, for a session of the executive committee of the governors' conference. Rockefeller put in a belated, dramatic appearance here late Wednesday and promptly held a news conference. The main point of it was that he now is planning visits to four extra states on an aerial expedition that takes him first to South Bend, Ind., Dec. 12. It winds up Dec. 18 at a spot in Florida which still is to be determined. The definite dates after South Bend are St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 13; Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 14, and Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 15. Then the plan is for Rockefeller to move into Oklahoma Dec. 16, Texas the next day, and Florida on the 18th—details to come later. The governor said he wants to "get the feel of things," as he did on his recent visit to the West Coast, by meeting ordinary people and Republican party officials and discussing problems and issues. Since he already has been in New England and the East, he also will be rounding out his political travels geographically. Rockefeller met late into the night with other members of the executive committee. How much of a political dent he made on other governors here was a question. Both Democrats and Republicans unquestionably like Rockefeller, the man. They all talk about how friendly and personable he is. Several of them say he is likely to go higher politically. But many of both parties say, with Handley, "and I haven't found a single one that he may have to wait a bit. This is a factor of political importance because governors often control their state delegations at the national political conventions where candidates are picked. "I've been talking with these Republican governors," said one of their Democratic colleagues, "and I haven't found a single one with."

Not Too Old To Believe In Santa

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—State Auditor Edgar B. Sims will be 78 next month but he's not too old to believe in Santa Claus. Sims filed today for Democratic renomination to his eighth consecutive four-year term in office. He attached a letter to his certificate of candidacy. "Dear Santa: I have given $110 to Joe Burdett, secretary of state. Please send me another certificate of election for auditor. I'll try to be a good boy. Yours, Edgar B. Sims."

Medical Care Cost Is Up; Calls For Adjusting

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Many American families are having to adjust to rising health bills. And medical costs have been one of the steady pressures causing the cost of living index to creep higher. How much of that is due to: Higher fees and drug and hospital charges? To people seeking more medical attention than they used to? To new, more effective, but costlier drugs and treatments? Figures supplied by the Social Security Administration and analyzed by the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York put the nation's annual bill for personal medical care at about 22 billion dollars—double what it was in 1950, and 6 1/2 times what it was in 1929. But the big jump—as every family knows—has been how much more individuals spend for medical care than they did 30 years ago. In 1929 medical expenditures came to $27 per person. Today they are $124. These are average figures. Plenty of people have to spend many times that in the course of a year. And a few lucky ones escape with less or none.

The FTC investigation was revealed as another government agency, the Federal Communications Commission, was preparing to open a hearing Monday into radio and TV program practices. The hearing is aimed at finding whether the FCC has authority to regulate program content, or whether new legislation is needed. The inquiry stems from House committee disclosures about fixed TV quiz shows.

Class Challenges 10-Month Term

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—A class of seventh graders has challenged the Kentucky Education Assn.'s proposal for a 10-month school term. In a letter to the "State Legislature of Kentucky" the 31 students at Martin School in Floyd County put it this way: "If some of America's great leaders such as Abraham Lincoln attended school only three months or less a year, why should we attend 10 months?" The pupils said the extra money which would be involved could be used for other things—even for Today they are $124. These are average figures. Plenty of people have to spend many times that in the course of a year. And a few lucky ones escape with less or none.

Two other factors enter into the rising total of costs. One is that research has enabled doctors to treat a wider range of illness. And more people take advantage of this. It is estimated that today about two thirds of the population see a doctor during the year. Thirty years ago less than half did. And the number of visits per patient has risen 40 per cent. The second factor is that increasing visits have been spurred by rising incomes and by the spread of health insurance now held by three families out of four.

CONFIDENCE VOTE
ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Parliament gave Premier Constantine Karamanlis a 170-117 vote of confidence today on his general policy.

FTC Confirms Payola Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission says it is making an intensive investigation of alleged payoffs by recording companies to disc jockeys to promote their records. FTC Chairman Earl W. Kintner said investigators are checking on possible violations of the law by record firms in payments made to television and radio disc jockeys. Several sections of the country are being checked, he said, naming New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Chicago as among them. Kintner said "commercial bribery" has been recognized as a violation of the FTC Act in several court cases. FTC sources said privately that action was likely against several record firms under a section of the act which bans deceptive and unfair trade practices they did not name any companies. The FTC investigation was revealed as another government agency, the Federal Communications Commission, was preparing to open a hearing Monday into radio and TV program practices. The hearing is aimed at finding whether the FCC has authority to regulate program content, or whether new legislation is needed. ## Startled When He Answered

GREELEY, Colo. (AP)—A witness startled principals at a District Court trial Wednesday when he was asked: "Were you born in the United States?" # Thousands Of American Tourists Are Avoiding Cuba

NEW YORK (AP)—Thousands of free-spending American tourists are bypassing Fidel Castro's Cuba for other Caribbean countries, travel officials here say. The loss to Cuba runs into millions annually.

The decline in Cuba's tourist trade is blamed upon anti-American statements by high Cuban officials and reports of incidents in Havana.

"You can't blame the tourist," one travel agent said. "He doesn't want to go where he's not welcome."

Travelers have said: "Why should we spend our money in a country where we're not wanted?" All of the major steamship lines have canceled Havana as a port-of call on their winter cruises.

These lines in the past have carried an estimated 30,000 tourists to Havana each year. One line, the Holland-America, alone carried 10,000.

Hotels in Havana have been badly hurt by the drop in tourist visits. The Hotel Havana Riviera, built in 1957 through a federal loan, was taken over last week by the Cuban government. The hotel was losing $10,000 a day, officials said.

The Havana Hotel Assn. recently announced it would appeal for government subsidies.

The Cuban Tourist Commission office here said that in 1957—the latest reporting year—2,804,112 tourists visited Cuba and spent $81.3 million dollars. There were 381,600 American visitors, 31,000 of them on cruises. A commission spokesman admitted that 1958 and 1959 "have been very bad years."

An official of the "Call Mr. Foster" travel bureau was more explicit: "The tourist trade in Cuba is practically nil," he said. "I don't see how you can get any comparative figures when you don't have any tourists to speak of."

In Washington, a Cuban Embassy official has denied that the tourist situation was bad. He said European lines have included Havana in their Caribbean cruise itinerary, thus boosting tourist trade.

A spokesman for the government-owned Cubana Airlines said the firm's New York-Havana business is better than ever. He estimated it will be 25 per cent higher in 1959 than last year.

However, he did admit an estimated 75 per cent of the passengers are Cuban, the rest Americans. In 1957, he said, it was just the reverse—75 per cent were Americans, 25 per cent Cubans.

He said attacks on Prime Minister Castro by the American press were the reason for the drop in tourist business. "Many people—and other countries—are taking advantage of the situation in Cuba," he said.

Television actor Victor Jory was born in the gold rush town of Dawson in Canada's Yukon Territory.

Open Mailbox, Find Old Letters

Santa is the Wilmington Businessmen's Assn., which sets up a special mailbox each year for children's letters.

Christmas is coming and Wednesday the association got out the old mailbox—the one with Santa's mustache for a lid—and opened it.

There were 452 letters from last year, some of them not just addressed to the "North Pole." Apparently some people mistook the box for a real mailbox. Thirty-four friends of one man didn't get their cards.

He'll get them back. Other letters, lacking return addresses, will be forwarded, with an explanatory letter from the post office. The association might get some curt replies.

"Our faces are red in retrospect," said a businessman. "This year we'll check it daily. It's only intended for Santa and it was put away last year unopened."

John Adams, the second president, was the first chief executive to live in the White House.

Murdered While Cohen Watched

SHERMAN OAKS, Calif. (AP)—A bookmaker, described by police as the biggest in the San Fernando Valley, was shot to death at a restaurant Wednesday night while Mickey Cohen and about 20 other patrons looked on.

Jack F. Whalen, 41, was shot twice in the head. Police said he slumped to the floor and rolled over on his side as his slayer calmly walked out of the restaurant.

Inspector Ed Walker said Whalen's assailant was eating when the bookie walked in, approached his table and then punched him in the top. Walker said the man then drew a gun, fired point blank at Whalen and left the restaurant before anyone could stop him.

Police have not yet identified the killer. None of the patrons were able to describe the slayer, they said.

Cohen, who also has a lengthy record of brushes with the law, was apparently just a customer at the time of the shooting.

But he has been periodically described as having a part-interest in the restaurant, located about 15 miles northwest of Los Angeles.

Hospital Administrator's Job Just Keeps Growing

By STUART SAVAGE

C. D. Ward, as administrator of the 120 bed Pitt Memorial Hospital, heads up one of the most important public owned facilities in the county.

Ward, originally from Elizabeth City, began his life of public service work here in Pitt when he accepted a job in school administration. After serving as principal of four schools in the county for 16 years, he took over the job as superintendent of the Pitt General Hospital in 1942 where he served until being made administrator of the then-newly-constructed Pitt Memorial Hospital in 1950.

Ward's main duties as administrator of the medical facility are to administer the policies set by the board of directors of the hospital and, as he put it, to "keep patients, medical staff, personnel, trustees and the general public happy." "That's a big job," he added.

In addition to keeping everyone happy, Ward is charged with seeing the physical plant of the hospital is kept clean and in good repair, and now, with the construction of three new additions to the building underway, he spends much time working with the contractors to coordinate the work of the different trades in order to assure that the construction will not interfere with the regular operation of the hospital.

The most outstanding feature of the hospital, according to Ward, is the increased service the new Pitt Memorial unit has given as compared with the old Pitt General Hospital. Records show that for the last year Pitt General was in operation, the hospital had a 44 patient per day average for the year. Pitt Memorial Hospital has averaged, during the past year, 101 patients per day.

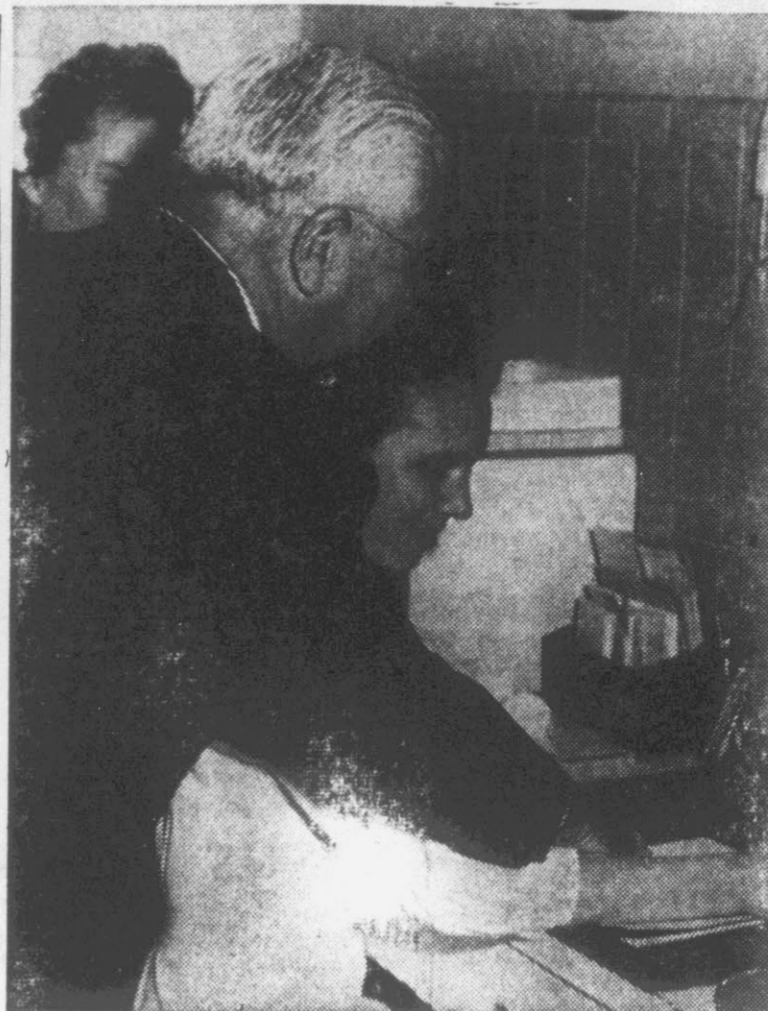

The staff has doubled and more special services are now being offered in the nine-year-old medical institution also.

Ward pointed out that with the completion of the three new wings, 80 beds, improved operating, emergency, laboratory, x-ray and food services and additional office space will be added to the present facilities. In addition to the added facilities the entire building will be air-conditioned and new parking areas will be provided, Ward concluded.

During his "spare" time, fishing and hunting rank high of Ward's list of enjoyments, but, "very little spare time" is available with the construction program underway, he said.

Woods Become Full Of Actor-Authors

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The woods are full of actor-authors these days as book publishers seek the gold already discovered with best sellers by Lillian Roth, Pat Boone, Art Linkletter and others.

The volumes multiply. They range from the sensational to the inspirational. Some are fairly intriguing. Some should never have been written. Nearly all have the same sound—the tinkling of ego orchestrated by a literary aide. The ghost is always present, either sharing billing on the dust jacket or lurking in the misty background.

"The Autobiography of Cecil B. De Mille" is a good view of the public face of the great movie-maker. It is written with the same outward dignity with which C. B. spoke, yet he is able to tell stories on himself. The book gives an interesting account of the film industry's beginnings and workings of the De Mille machine. If the man himself fails to emerge, perhaps it is because he was more devoted to legend than reality. "Godness Had Nothing to Do With It" is an almost incredible account of Mae West's man-to-man conquest. "The various men in my life can claim a great many things," she writes, "but never that they had a dull time." Readers may so complain, especially if they reach the entrance of the latter-day musclemen—"The pattern of my life continually kept little groups of men conveniently at hand."

"Ed Wynn's Son" is one of the better versions of the now standard professional type of autobiography. The reason is the intriguing relationship between Keenan Wynn and his "Perfect Fool" of a father. The younger Wynn tells frankly of his lifelong fight to escape the shadow of his father—"For most of my life, I resented him beyond reason."

Cosmopolitan party giver Elsa Maxwell was born in Keokuk, Iowa.

Offense Leader On Third Team Of Little A-A

GREENSBORO (AP)—Lenoir Rhyme halfback Lee Farmer, who helped his team to an undefeated season and earned a third team berth on the Little All-America football team, is the North State Conference's total offense leader for 1959.

Conference records, released here Wednesday, show Farmer, only a junior, accounted for 1,178 yards to edge Western Carolina's Bobby Cooper, who had 1,152 yards during the regular season. East Carolina's Glenn Bass was the individual rushing leader, picking up 833 yards for an 8.3 per-try average. Charlie Maidon of Elon, meanwhile, won passing honors—hitting 76 of 160 for 908 yards.

Western Carolina's Tom Broadwater led in pass receptions, 24 for 413 yards; Cooper's 39.1 punting average was tops; and Farmer the scoring leader with 110 points.

WOULD SET LIMITS

BOSTON (AP)—Drivers under 18 years of age would be barred

New Rule

NEW YORK (AP)—Starting Jan. 1, the Columbia Broadcasting System will eliminate from television shows commercials advertising products other than the sponsor's.

The ban—latest CBS cleanup move—strikes at a little-publicized but profitable practice of charging manufacturers for having their products used as show prizes.

The new rule, issued Wednesday by Joseph H. Ream, CBS vice president in charge of standards and practices, ordered that all prizes be paid for out of a show's budget.

Also barred are free plugs for airlines and other transportation facilities.

The new rule is also expected to stop television personalities from using their programs to promote other commercial activities in which they have an interest.

A main program affected by the CBS policy will be Art Linkletter's "House Party," which identifies donors of gifts, from Massachusetts highways between 8 p.m. and 7 a.m. under a bill before the legislature.

GREENVILLE, N. C.

Old River Boat To Have Steam Rainbow Gadget

CINCINNATI (AP) — A jet propelled steam rainbow will spread from the famous old river boat, Delta Queen, next year as its mighty calliope blasts the warning that it is approaching.

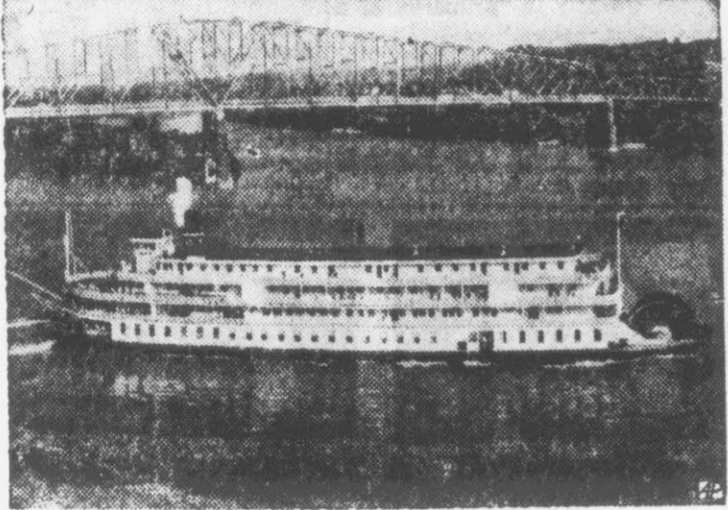

The big passenger boat, a legend on the Mississippi and Ohio rivers, thus will combine a part of old river travel with electronics. When the calliope sounds off, all the colors of the rainbow will accompany it.

It will come about because E. J. Quinby, project engineer at Shepard Laboratories, Summit, N. J., is a part-time calliope player and is trying to revive the old "steam piano" and give it new glory.

Quinby also is board chairman of Greene Line Steamers, Inc., operators of the sternwheeler. A few months ago he bought a 70-year-old calliope that had been salvaged from the sunken showboat, Water Queen.

According to Quinby, the old-time calliope player sweated out his music in a steam bath, almost breaking his knuckles shoving the valve opening keys. That kind of operation should be improved, he thought.

THE DELTA QUEEN—With the aid of electronics, the famous old river boat will give off a steam rainbow as it plies the rivers next summer.

Ayden Christmas Parade Saturday

AYDEN — Ayden's Christmas parade, to be held Saturday at 3 p.m., will feature Santa Claus and about two dozen decorative entries.

Spokesmen for the Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the event, said at least four bands and nine floats are scheduled to appear in the parade along with other entries including local beauty queens, scouts and fire and police equipment.

The parade is based on a non-commercial theme and only local entries will be admitted. All floats have been decorated locally by townspeople.

Artificial Reef Idea Is Proposed

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A group of men interested in fishing have proposed that an artificial reef be created in the Atlantic Ocean about five miles off Jacksonville Beach by dumping old automobiles and other scrap in a place where the water is about 60 feet deep.

The Beach Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the idea as a feasible one for providing a good fishing spot.

PARTICULAR POOCH
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Willard Ferguson no doubt have the cheapest food bill of any dog owner in town.

Rex, their 9-year-old Eskimo dog, spurns meat, instead thrives on ice cream and spaghetti.

Following the parade, which will travel down Lee St. to First, turn and go South to Third then proceed West and turn South on Pitt, Santa Claus will park downtown and pass out goodies to the children.

In the event of rain, the parade will be held Monday at 4 p.m.

Bands taking part in the festivities include the Ayden-Winterville and the Junior Band, the South Ayden Band and the Grifton Band. Organizations taking part include: the Red Men, Boy and Girl Scouts, local churches, the Lions Club, the Rotary Club, the Jaycees, the Women's Club and the local high schools.

Sets Deadline For Removals

BEAUFORT, N.C. (AP)—County sheriff Hugh Salter has set next Sunday as the deadline for removing cattle and ponies off Carteret County's Outer Banks. All animals not removed by that date will be sold at the courthouse here at noon Monday, the sheriff said.

Sheriff Salter will make a final inspection flight over the banks Sunday. A recent flight revealed approximately 18 cows and two or three ponies still on the banks.

Sculptor Stuck With A Statue

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Joseph (Sepy) Dubrony, the sculptor of nude actresses, has an 18-inch gold statue of Beverly Aadland in the nude and is wondering whether he can collect for it from Errol Flynn's estate.

Dubrony said Wednesday Flynn commissioned the statue of his 17-year-old girl friend before his death but made no arrangements to pay for it. He said he may sue Flynn's estate to recover the $5,000 he says is due him.

CHAPTER 32

It was afternoon, and Natty Bugworth lounged rather forlornly in the corridors of the old La Paz courthouse, waiting for Sergeant Desportes to get through with his work so they could go uptown and have a drink or two together.

Natty was anxious to renew the warm companionship of the night before. Soldier was himself again. "It was just that damned boy, Jamie Wigan," Natty thought. "By jiminy, I guess I put that spoke in the kid's wheel after all!"

But the minutes turned to hours and the door to the Sergeant's office remained closed. It was guarded by a big burly trooper, Evans, now. Occasionally Natty would pass a word or two with him.

Finally Natty lost patience. "When the Sergeant gets through," he said, "tell him I'll be up at that big Mexican place, waiting for him."

"El Picador," said Evans. "Yes, sir."

The time passed pleasantly enough for Natty. The place was big and comfortable. The food and drinks were good, and there were three or four very pretty waitresses.

There was one full-blooded Navaho girl who especially took Natty's fancy. She was tall and straight, with shiny black hair and dancing, slanted black eyes.

A big Texan named Hood who'd passed the time of day with Natty on several occasions, now came to sit with him.

with a couple nods; then he said: "Mr. Bugworth, you like these here clothes better?"

"Looks more natural," said Natty. "I packed the others I figure to ride out of town shortly and I might have to keep going. There's a little matter I got to attend to first."

"That so?" said Natty. "You going to say good-by to the Sergeant?"

"Oh, I don't think so," said Jamie. "He calls me Wigan now, and I'm just one of the gunslungers he's after. I mean he's running us all out. La Paz—she's all done."

"And about time," said Natty. The Texan began to feel very uneasy, but he could not have told anyone why. There was nothing in the conversation particularly to disturb any one.

"Yes sir," said Jamie, after a long pause. "La Paz—she's all done. I never should've left, but I got this idea of making big money selling horses down around the Mesa Encantada district where they're kind of scarce. Money! Hell—what money? You spend it, lose it, a girl steals it off you—gone! And every poor varmint I know sweating for it. Like you, Mr. Bugworth, and how you sweat and stink!"

Natty flushed with rage. "Now let's not start that again, or I'll..."

"You'll what? Grab me, break my neck?" asked Jamie, mildly. "But the thing is, Mr. Bugworth, if you try to shoot your guts out because I'm holding a gun under the table aimed right at your big fat greasy belly. Go ahead. Jump me." Now Jamie grinned exuberantly.

The Navaho girl passed and glanced at Natty. "Paquita," called Jamie, and the girl turned. "Don't serve this man any more to drink or eat. He's got leprosy—and it's catching."

Paquita screamed wildly. Why was the big hairy man writhing on the floor? Why was Mr. Wigan shooting at him like that?

Now there was a sudden quiet. Jamie had put up his gun and stood looking down at the great bulky body of Natty Bugworth.

"You stink," he said, and spat. Then all at once there arose confused yells and screams in the front vestibule, but one shrill voice dominated the others, causing Jamie to jerk around. "Sergeant! Sergeant! In! Fast!"

Sergeant Desportes appeared suddenly in the big arched doorway. Behind him was a wall of massed, white, terrified faces.

Jamie took one look, then, running hard, he crashed out through a floor-length window at the back and hit, still running, in the middle of Rincon Street.

The Sergeant rushed to the shattered window and tried to get a shot at the frantically running Jamie, but there were too many people on the street and he couldn't take the chance. Jamie disappeared around the corner of an adobe wall.

The Sergeant went back and stood looking down at the body of Natty Bugworth, his friend of twenty years.

"No matter how violently he flinched from the thought, the Sergeant duty was clear: Jamie Wiggins must be caught and publicly hanged," the story continues tomorrow.

"You'll what? Grab me, break my neck?" asked Jamie, mildly. "But the thing is, Mr. Bugworth, if you try to shoot your guts out because I'm holding a gun under the table aimed right at your big fat greasy belly. Go ahead. Jump me." Now Jamie grinned exuberantly.

Hailed To Court For A Paint Job

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—The city may not paint its own crosswalks, but it doesn't want anybody else doing it either.

Dr. Louis J. Friedman, 48, a dentist, was directed Tuesday to appear in municipal court to answer charges of violating the vehicle and municipal codes.

Friedman painted his own crosswalk across busy Ventura boulevard. He said he lost patience after trying for two years to get the city to paint it.

Bank Employees Irked By Theft

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A robber got only $2.43 but it irked the bank's employees.

The theft at the West Oakland branch of the Bank of America wasn't discovered until coffee break time Monday. Entering through a skylight, the thief didn't touch a thing except the desk drawer containing the coffee pool.

Decries Lack Of Practical Work

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet exchange student who studied electrical engineering at the University of California today said Soviet students are "head and shoulders" above American students whose training is "primarily of a theoretical nature."

Writing in the journal "Moscow Youth", O. Bondin said "there is not a single day of practical work in industry during the four-year study course."

Convicted For A Mynah Offense

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For a rather mynah offense—stealing a mynah bird—Richard Anaya was convicted of second degree burglary Wednesday.

Police said he stole the valuable East Indian bird from a pet shop. Anaya, 23, a laborer, protested his innocence.

"My perro (Spanish for dog), he is very jealous when I am kind to someone else," Anaya replied gravely as the jury convulsed with laughter.

Anaya said he kept the bird in his pocket while wrestling, playing pool and drinking.

He'll be sentenced Dec. 23. The bird? A deputy said it died of fright.

Singer Engaged To Disc Jockey

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singer Anita Bryant says she's engaged to a Miami, Fla., disc jockey.

The 19-year-old singer who commutes between shows in Hollywood and Chicago said she and Bob Green, 25, of radio station WINZ plan to marry sometime next summer and live in Miami.

Local Police Polish Up Their Shooting Eyes

AT 50 YARDS . . . the target looks mighty small.

"We realize, in this business, the ability to handle fire arms may well be the determining factor in living to a ripe old age," according to Police Chief S. G. Gibbs.

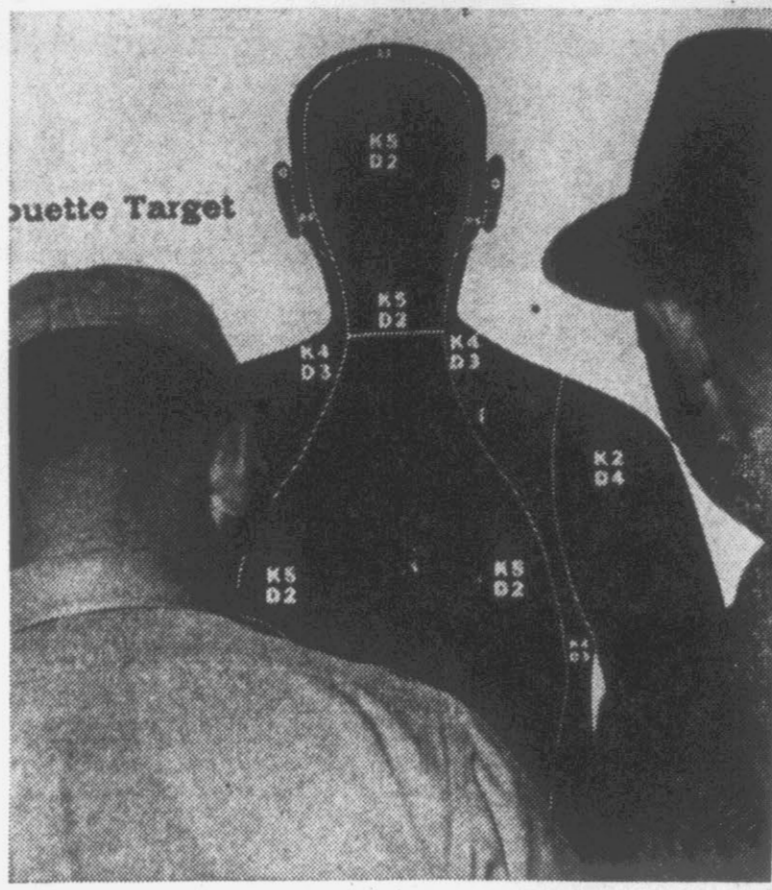

"Greenville officers have shown quite a bit of improvement in their ability to handle firearms since the Police Department's range has been in operation," Gibbs said.

The department holds regular training sessions periodically for the officers and in the spring of the year, the department's pistol team competed with teams from four neighboring departments.

The Greenville team, composed of the top five marksmen in the department with two alternates, has "come a long way" in the past year and it is hoped the shooters will come out on top this year, Gibbs stated.

The department hopes, in the near future, to be able to construct a club house at the range and make other needed improvements at the site. If the improvements can be completed, "we hope to have some matches here this year," Gibbs commented.

It was pointed out that, not only is the officer's gun carried for his personal protection, it also serves to protect the law abiding citizens of the community from lawbreakers who threaten the lives or safety of the public.

Tobacco Tips

By S.J. Weeks.

Pitt County Tobacco Agent Each year the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station conducts an official tobacco variety test. This test is conducted at five different locations in the flue-cured tobacco growing area in the state. These locations are at Whiteville, Rocky Mount, Clayton, Oxford and Rural Hall. A very complete set of data is taken from each of these locations. In addition to yield and value of the different varieties such factors as height of plant, number of leaves per plant, days required for the plant to flower after it is transplanted in the field, suckering habits of the plant, disease resistance and chemical analysis of the cured leaf, are noted.

The per acre value and price per hundred weight is based on three year's (1957-1958 & 1959) average from all four flue-cured belts in the state.

In this year's test NC 73 produced an average of 2,013 pounds per acre with a per acre value of $1145 and $56.35 per CWT. NC 73 has a high level of resistance to black shank.

McNair produced an average of 2,054 pounds per acre with a per acre value of $1102 and $53.44 per CWT. This variety has a high level of resistance to both shank and Granville wilt.

Vesta 5 produced an average of 2,065 pounds per acre with a per acre value of $1208 and $58.32 per CWT. This variety has a moderate level of resistance to black shank only.

Bell 15 produced an average of 2,050 pounds per acre with a per acre value of $1239 and $59.98 per CWT. This variety is susceptible to both black shank and Granville wilt.

Bell 16 produced an average of 2,061 pounds per acre with a per acre value of $1159 and $55.83 per CWT. This variety has a moderate level of resistance to both black shank and Granville wilt.

First Meeting Sees Items On AC Agenda

GREENSBORO (AP)—Several knotty problems, none apparently calculated to touch off an explosion, confronted the Atlantic Coast Conference at its annual fall meeting here today.

Closed committee sessions from early morning until far into the night were scheduled in advance of the open general meeting Friday morning.

Two items on the usual lengthy list of proposed rules changes stood out as of more than passing interest. Another conversation piece was the future of regionally televised football and basketball, suspended for a year by the conference last spring to permit a study of the overall picture.

Clemson College and Duke University have offered two interesting proposals for consideration.

Clemson would move to Feb. 1 the effective date for grants-in-aid signed by prospective athletes. May 15 is the current date for honoring such agreements in football and July 1 in basketball.

Duke has advanced a proposal that would do away with the so-called "red-shirting" practice whereby an athlete's eligibility is spread over a five-year period by holding him out of competition for one season.

Duke would restrict eligibility to four years from the date of first matriculation at an ACC school.

The television committee last spring was instructed to evaluate the regional television structure and report at this meeting.

Concern by some schools over a drop in attendance at their televised games led to the year's dropping of the conference-santioned program. However, individual schools were free to set up their own telecasts provided they did not interfere with games at other ACC schools.

As a result, the schools, acting on their own, have set up a nine-game basketball telecast series starting with Saturday afternoon's South Carolina at North Carolina game. Each ACC school will be seen at least once in the series.

Under the new plan the schools involved retain the receipts. Previously all such money was turned over to the ACC for later distribution equally among all eight schools, regardless of the extent of their participation in the basketball series.

Commissioner Jim Weaver has suggested that perhaps this feature of the arrangement was the prime factor in the dropping of the program as operated by the conference.

He plans to suggest that the receipts formula be restudied to determine whether the schools want to return to the old plan of the conference operating the program under the money formula the schools have adopted for their independent operation this season.

An item of old business concerns ACC participation in the National Invitation basketball tournament at New York. Conference coaches have been pressing for several years to have the tourney sanctioned for ACC members, presently restricted to the NCAA tournament. The matter was tabled last spring for action at this meeting.

Bob Elliott jumped at the chance to return to the major leagues as a manager. But the former National League batting star has no illusions about putting the Kansas City Athletics into pennant contention overnight without some additional strength, particularly in the pitching department. He's taking over a club that finished seventh the past season and has never placed higher than sixth since it was moved to Kansas City from Philadelphia following the 1954 season.

Elliott has 14 years of service as an active major leaguer, plus three as a minor league manager, to recommend him as a successor to Harry Craft who had piloted the Athletics in 1959. He managed San Diego in the Pacific Coast League in 1955 and 1956. Last season, Bob piloted the Sacramento Solons to fourth place in the Pacific Coast League race and had been signed for 1960. In the PCL, Elliott earned a reputation most of his players. A stern boss, yet one who was able to get close to his players and have their respect.

As a player, Elliott was a strong competitor and a clutch hitter. He joined the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1939 and played with them eight seasons before he was traded to the Boston Braves in 1947. In his first season with the Braves, Elliott batted .317 and drove in 113 runs to earn the National League's Most Valuable Player Award. After five seasons with the Braves, he moved on to the New York Giants for a spell before winding up his major league playing career with the White Sox in 1953. At his peak, Bob was an outstanding third baseman but he also played briefly at shortstop and in the outfield.

For a starter, Elliott would like to have four 20-game winners. "Good pitching is the primary basis for any successful ball club," Elliott points out, "as a manager who could get the

Fullmer Has Many Strings Attached

By JACK STEVENSON, Associated Press Sports Writer

LOGAN, Utah (AP)—Bigger pay days loom for NBA middleweight champion Gene Fullmer if he successfully defends his crown Friday night against the challenge of Chicago's Spider Webb.

For although the Mormon Sunday school teacher twice has ruled the 160-pound boxing class, there always have been strings attached.

When he beat Sugar Ray Robinson on Jan. 2, 1957, contracts called for a return match and Gene lost. For the first fight, Fullmer received just 12 1/2 per cent of the gate with an even split on the second.

He collected $80,000 for his victorious battle with Carmen Basilio for the NBA crown last Aug. 28 after the association took its title from Robinson for failure to defend. Still Basilio received more.

The string this time was an NBA requirement that Fullmer meet its No. 1 challenger in his first defense. That's why he fights Webb.

"If we get over this fight there will be more strings attached as far as the NBA is concerned," says Manager Mary Jensen. "Another string might be Robinson for the undisputed title but truthfully, I don't think he'll ever fight Fullmer so we might as well eliminate him from Gene's plans."

Should Fullmer lose to Webb, a contract already is signed calling for a return match in Salt Lake City on June 10. Promoter Bennie Ford has offered a $250,000 guarantee for a return bout in San Francisco.

"If I win, we'll be on our own and ought to be able to do a little better financially," observed the 28-year-old Fullmer who hails from West Jordan near Salt Lake City.

Gene has hopes of fighting Archie Moore for the light heavyweight title although the middleweight king's next bout may be against Bobo Olson in San Francisco early next year.

"Gene would like one fight against a light heavy to show the deserves a shot at Moore," Jensen observed.

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Coaches Slick Moore and Choppy Wagner have on today and Friday to finish preparing the Shrine Bowl high school football stars for Saturday's annual North and South Carolina classic in Memorial Stadium here.

Moore, who is coaching the South Carolinians, continued to avoid contact work Wednesday. He ran his squad through a two-hour drill revolving mainly around the passing of his three quarterbacks, Jack McCathern of Columbia, Francis Wilson of Moncks Corner and Jimmy Sustare of Lancaster.

Sentors And LA Seek Big Trade

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Los Angeles' refusal to include outfielder Don Demeter stalled a six-man player trade parley between the Dodgers and the Washington Sentors today.

The Dodgers had offered shortstop Don Zimmer, outfielder Ron Fairly and pitcher Danny McDevitt or Clem Labine for slugger Roy Sievers, pitcher Russ Kemmerer and second baseman Reno Bertoia. The Sentors insisted that Demeter be substituted for Fairly and were rebuffed by the Dodgers.

Consequently, the Sentors still searching for a shortstop and center fielder, turned to the Chicago White Sox. They offered the same trio for Chicago's Sammy Esposito, Johnny Callison and a catcher, either Earl Battey or John Romano.

Not a single deal was completed Wednesday although every club reported trade talk. The feeling was that no deal would be engineered until the major league meeting in Miami beach next week.

Big Devine, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, said talks with the San Francisco Giants of a trade involving John-

Panthers Try For Second Win

High Point College tries for its second North State Conference basketball win of the week tonight, entertaining Guilford. Two other games also are carded involving North Carolina small colleges.

Pfeiffer plays Appalachian in Boone and Wofford of South Carolina's Little Four tangles with Lenoir Rhyne at Hickory.

Elon, thanks to Herby Hawks' field goal with three seconds left, tipped Pembroke State 85-84 Wednesday night. Pembroke, the home team, trailed by 13 points at intermission, but rallied and went ahead 84-83 with 17 seconds left. Frank Winfree had 32 points for Pembroke.

Frick said, "I have three great obligations. One is to the public another is to the players and the third is to the minor leagues. I must guard against players being sold down the river or the minor being sold down the river."

"They (the Continental League) must comply with the conditions they agreed to at a meeting with the majors in New York. Where they have eight clubs, a pension plan for the players and have satisfied the minor leagues for their territorial loss, then they will get favorable consideration."

"I will even go a step further. I will be their biggest and best rooster. I will carry the torch for them. If they comply with these conditions, they will find that the best friend they have is the commissioner of baseball."

Sooners Expected To Advance In Hardwood

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

Oklahoma's Sooners, who used to have as big a name in basketball as they now have in football, may be on their way back to challenge the rule of Kansas State and Kansas in Big Eight cage competition.

Not since 1949 has Oklahoma had even a share of the conference title. It was a distant second to Kansas State last season. But in opening the 1959-60 season Wednesday night with a 76-58 victory over Texas Western, Coach Doyle Parrack displayed a wealth of sophomore talent to back up a big crop of holdovers.

A highly-praised sophomore was unveiled as Seton Hall opened to have an easy 84-47 victory over the University of Toronto. Art Hicks has been called the Hall's best prospect in ten years and he justified Coach Honey Russell's high opinion of him by netting 19 points and taking 15 rebounds in 24 minutes of play.

Pittsburgh, minus All-America Don Hennon this season but with Dick Falenski pouring in 23 points trounced Michigan of the Big Ten 73-57. Villanova turned back Princeton, last year's Ivy League runner-up, 66-64. St. Joseph's (Pa.) whipped West Chester State 91-69. Navy edged out touring Kentucky Wesleyan 48-47 and Army beat little Rider 58-52.

Opening the doubleheader season at the Philadelphia Palestra LaSalle defeated Millersville (Pa.) State 76-60 and Penn outscored

Washington and Jefferson 63-44. Three other Ivy League teams were in action Wednesday night. Yale started with an 84-62 victory over Springfield, Cornell beat Buffalo 60-53 and Brown whipped Tufts 93-70.

The principal surprises turned up in the south where Georgia Teachers upset the University of Georgia 82-73 and favored Richmond barely edged Randolph Macon 76-75. Florida easily defeated Tampa 76-62, Mississippi State trimmed Troy (Ala.) State 66-50 and Loyola (La.) beat Florida State 71-64.

Some Are Enjoying High Rates

NEW YORK (AP)—With interest rates still rising, a lot of individual Americans are benefiting. The pinch on borrowers isn't the entire picture.

The federal government alone is paying out more than nine billion dollars a year to those from whom it borrows and you may be among the millions getting some of that as a partial offset to the taxes you pay.

Individuals are getting more of that nine billion dollars than you might suspect. They also are collecting on state and municipal bonds, as members of savings and loans associations and credit unions, as holders of corporate debt securities and on savings accounts in the banks.

Millions of Americans also expect sooner or later, one way or another, to get returns on investments in life insurance, mutual funds, and private pension and retirement funds. Some are getting such returns right now.

The banks and other financial institutions may be getting a smaller portion of the increasing total of interest payments than you think.

The U. S. Treasury says it pays out 1 1/2 billion dollars a year in interest to the 40 million persons who own U. S. savings bonds. It pays another half-billion to individuals holding other forms of its securities.

The next largest volume of interest goes to various government investment accounts, like Social Security, which put their idle funds in Treasury securities; and to the commercial banks, each getting 1 1/2 billion a year on their holdings.

Federal reserve bank holdings of the U. S. debt bring in 800 million dollars a year, according to the latest available figures. Nonfinancial corporations get 600 million a year or more at latest count.

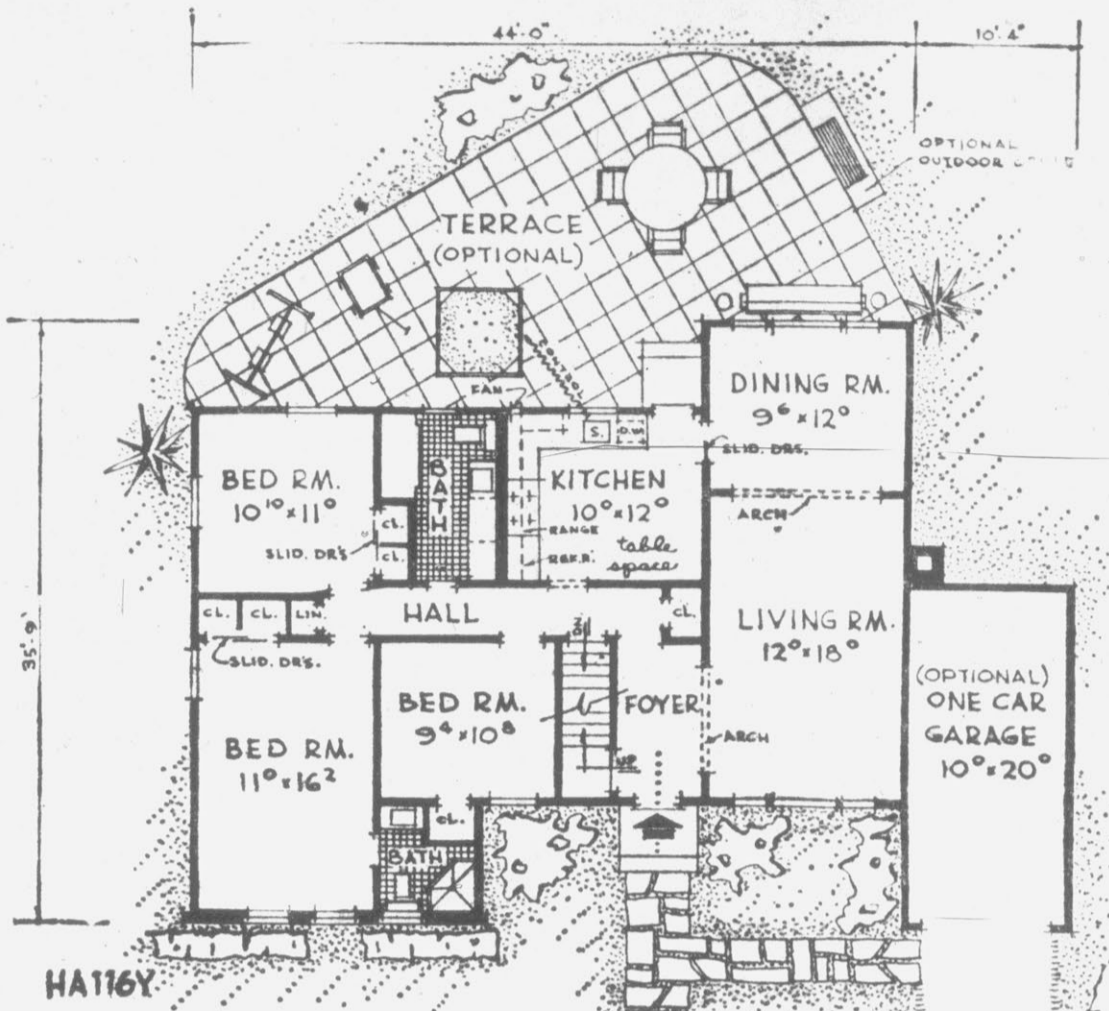

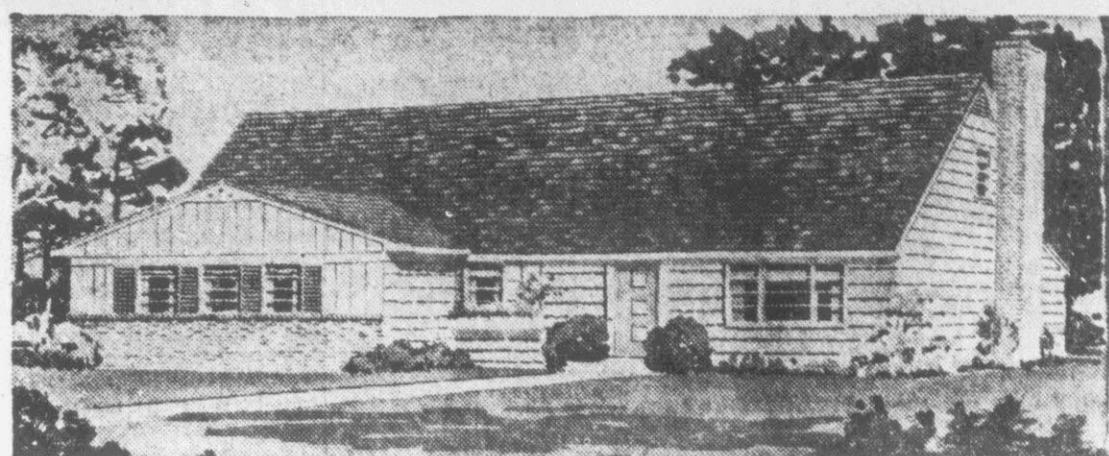

State and local governments also get interest from Uncle Sam, about 400 million dollars a year. Insurance company holdings are good for 300 million dollars and mutual savings banks for 200 million. The Treasury lists the rest as going to miscellaneous investors.

Paar, Rooney Again Coo At Each Other After Spat

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mickey Rooney and Jack Paar cooed at each other like lovers after a spat broke off long enough for some furious new cries of foul, and then started cooling louder than ever today.

The acrobatics of the two seasoned showmen weren't hurting either one—or their publicity.

But had to be on your toes to keep up with it.

Paar smilingly told his television audience Wednesday night: "Mickey Rooney is a helluva nice guy. I'm darn sorry, Mickey."

That satisfied the actor. Happy too, was Rooney's personal manager, Red Doff, who announced that tonight's show will go on as originally planned in a kiss-and-make-up session between Paar and Rooney Wednesday. Rooney once more will be his guest on the show.

"The whole thing is smoothed over now," Doff said.

That wasn't the way he felt a couple of hours earlier after hearing secondhand accounts of Paar's comments on the air. At that time Doff furiously declared he would not let Rooney appear with Paar.

It all started Tuesday night. Paar accused Rooney of being drunk on his show. Rooney walked out—by invitation.

They patched it up in a tense hotel room drama—in which four sides on each side eyed one another cautiously outside the door, the way Paar tells it.

It's doubtful the publicity at-

Organizational Meeting Called

Charles P. Gaskins, who will take office as president of the Greenville Kiwanis Club at the first meeting in January, has called an organizational meeting of officers and directors and committee chairmen to meet at the Elks Club at 6 o'clock tonight.

Other officers are W. O. Moore, vice-president, and J. T. Snowden Jr., secretary-treasurer. Hold-

Rifle Club Will Hold Meeting

The Optimist Rifle Club will hold its regular meeting tonight at 7:30 in the U. S. Army Reserve Armory here.

Half the membership of 32 will view a movie giving instructions concerning breathing and trigger squeezing while firing a rifle. The other half will be practicing on the range inside the armory.

Gene Ward and Sgt. John Schnauffer will serve as instructors both in the classroom and on the firing range.

Tonight's meeting presents the last chance to local boys to join the club in time to become charter members. Ward plans to contact headquarters of the National Rifle Association following to night's meeting and obtain a charter for the local club.

Ward pointed out that the group of boys who will do classroom work tonight will alternate to the shooting range at next week's meeting while tonight's target practice will be in the classroom next week.

"This method allows us to cut down on the length of the meetings," said Ward, "and still permits every boy to get in his shooting and classroom work every two weeks."

Happy Customers Piano Wire For

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Oklahoma's two toll roads don't make music but it takes a lot of piano wire to keep customers happy.

Turnpike Manager W. D. Hockback explained it when he was questioned about a $35 expenditure for piano wire.

"We use it to make those little rods that stick up from the pavement when you roll into a toll booth," he said. "They touch the bumper and cut static electricity so you won't get shocked when you hand the attendant your money."

"It's an invention of our own—I'd call it a de-irritant."

Raiders Destroy 2 Bootleg Stills

Pitt ABC officers destroyed two stills Tuesday located about two miles north of Winterville between N.C. 11 and the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad tracks.

The two stills, one a 150 gallon unit and the second a new, 300 gallon submarine still were destroyed along with eight 60-gallon mash boxes, four 55-gallon mash barrels and 500 gallons of spent mash.

Also destroyed was the 200 gallon, wood-fired boiler, two 35-gallon doublers and one 200-gallon cooler box.

According to J. M. Ward, Pitt ABC enforcement chief, the 300-gallon submarine still had never been used. Ward added "the boiler and still were made of converted fuel tanks."

Twenty sticks of dynamite were used in the operation.

The still was in operation at the time, Ward said, and no arrests were made.

Participating in the raid were Ward, H. B. Lilly and Walter Taylor, all of the Pitt ABC office.

NOGALES, Ariz. (AP)—Sheriff's officers kept spectators and their vehicles at a safe distance when Columbia Pictures blew up a movie set with seven tons of explosives.

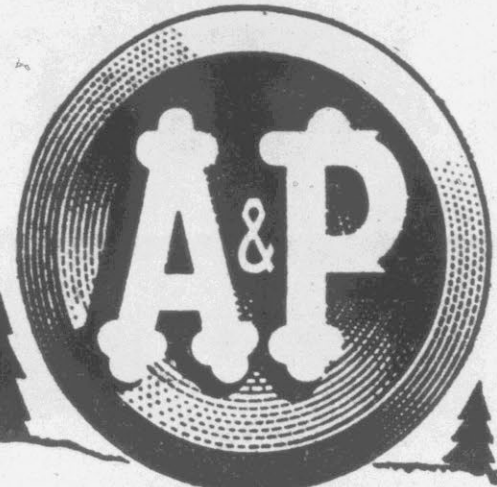

Except for the set, the only damage was to the sheriff's patrol car, a quarter mile away. A large boulder ripped off the car's windshield and hood,

Sprightly Dr. Snyder Keeps An Eye On Ike

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON (AP)—A sprightly man 78 years old has an important assignment among those accompanying President Eisenhower on his grueling trip abroad. Eisenhower takes off Thursday night on a 23,000-mile tour to three continents, and at his side will be Maj. Gen. Howard McCrum Snyder. As personal physician to the President, Snyder seldom is far from Eisenhower's side—even when off duty. He and his wife live in an apartment not far from the White House.

Called from retirement three times since 1945, Snyder still is on active duty in the Army. He has been a doctor and a soldier for half a century.

For years he was a crack surgeon, but no longer wields a scalpel.

Snyder will be 79 Feb. 7 and still is as lean and erect as a young cadet.

A handsome man with a crop of white hair, Snyder is a popular favorite around the White House—with the Eisenhower family and all the others. Eisenhower's 19-day goodwill mission to 11 nations in Europe, Asia and Africa adds up to perhaps the most wearing journey any president has ever undertaken. And at 69 with a history of three major illnesses in the last four years, Eisenhower is not a man about whom any doctor could rest easy on this trip.

Snyder and other Army physicians gave the President a head-to-toe physical examination just a few weeks ago and pronounced him in excellent health except for chronic bronchitis.

That's a generally comforting finding for Snyder. But he and his colleagues never forget that previous medical checkups flashed no warning in advance of Eisenhower's 1955 heart attack, the surgery he underwent for it in 1956, and the minor stroke he suffered late in 1957.

On this tour, as in the case of all other Eisenhower trips away from Washington, it can be taken for granted that Snyder has arranged all along the three-continuous route for any emergency medical care Eisenhower might need.

Snyder or the assistant White House physician—Air Force Col. Walter R. Tkach—accompanies Eisenhower on every trip he makes. They always are on duty or on call when the President is in Washington. One doctor or the other also always is available for any care Mrs. Eisenhower may require when she is not with the President on his travels.

The two physicians have no outside practice, but they sometimes advise and care for top members of the White House staff.

Snyder and Eisenhower became acquainted during the early days of World War II and now are close friends. Snyder directed care of the President through the heart attack, itleitis and stroke sieges, but in each case the doctor called in teams of top flight specialists.

Friends of Snyder marvel at his vigor at 78. Not a man to retire early, the doctor nevertheless can be up at the crack of dawn—and frequently is—to keep pace with the early rising Eisenhower.

Snyder doesn't play golf, but he has walked probably hundreds of miles around courses with Eisenhower. In fact, the doctor usually trots part of the way, shunning the electric cart which he insists that the President use between shots.

Snyder first retired from the Army in 1945. He returned to active duty to serve as an adviser during the period Eisenhower was chief of staff. The doctor came out of retirement again in 1951 to join Eisenhower's staff when he was supreme commander of North Atlantic forces, and again when Eisenhower became President.

A native of Cheyenne, Wyo., Snyder got his medical degree at Jefferson College, Philadelphia, in 1905. Three years later he was appointed a first lieutenant in the Army Medical Corps. From the start he specialized in surgery and had graduate training at the famed Mayo Clinic among other institutions.

Woman-Hater's Tummy Won Out

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Woman-hater Elmer (Jet) Simrell's tummy got the best of him.

His "fast until death," aimed at forcing newspapers to publish his lengthy views on the "over-emanicipation" of women, is a thing of the past.

Simrell, 48, broke down Tuesday night and ended his fast by taking an order of beef, soup, salad, coffee and bread.

His weight fell from 128 pounds to 112 pounds after he started his fast by turning up his nose at Thanksgiving turkey.

He is held in the county jail on a federal charge of threatening the lives of several judges involved in his divorce case.

More than half the population of the state of Delaware lives in Wilmington and its suburbs.

Sid Caesar Regains His Comedy Touch

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP-TV Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Sid Caesar, who hung his first show of the season on an automobile theme, devoted his attention to the institution of marriage Wednesday night. And this second special was a more disciplined and funnier show.

Caesar usually has fine comic ideas. Two often he goes great guns with one for the first five minutes but he rarely knows when to quit. For the most part he avoided this trap in "Marriage—Handle With Care."

The first sketch, in which he was aided by Audrey Meadows, was a satire on modern housewifery and push-button living and was pretty effective. Then there was a spoof of a television audience participation show that went on for much too long and was vastly overdone.

Best sketch of the show, however, was the finale—a wild and wonderful burlesque of Italian opera with a plot based very loosely on Faust. Everybody sang and talked in fractured Italian.

Jose Ferrer, Marge and Gower Champion helped out here and there through the whole show.

After the other night's Jack Paar broadcast, it appears that the only really new trend in broadcasting this season is the bibulous interview. Mickey Rooney's appearance, however, didn't cause much of a storm in New York—NBC headquarters received only 17 calls on the subject. Five complained about intoxication; one

Killing Admitted By 15-Year-Old

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP)—Fifteen-year-old Clifford Fortner, admitting Wednesday night that he stabbed and killed Lorna Lux in the 12-year-old girl's fig tree hideout, told police:

"I don't know why I did it. Something just came over me."

Booked on a charge of murder, Clifford was held in the Marin County Youth Guidance Center. He will be arraigned today.

Lorna's body was found Monday morning, Nov. 15, by Clifford's younger brother, Norman Jr., 13, in the Kentfield Grove hideaway about 200 yards from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Lux.

Young Norman's discovery touched off the investigation which ended with Clifford's statement to two sheriff's inspectors in the principal's office at Kentfield Elementary School Wednesday.

Inspector Marco Mellovich said Clifford re-enacted the crime at the scene and gave this account:

After a Saturday night high school football game, Clifford slipped from the house after midnight and met Lorna. They had intercourse and "then something came over me."

Clifford smashed at the girl's head with a flashlight. He knocked her unconscious and then attempted to hang her to a big tree. Then he picked up a steak knife and stabbed her to death, Mellovich said.

Future Atomic War Horror Seen

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—A Japanese radiation expert believes a future atomic war would be "too terrible even to imagine" and 1,000 times more terrible than the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki during World War II.

Yasushi Nishiwaki, newly appointed professor of radiation protection at the Tokyo Institute of Technology, spoke Wednesday night at St. John's College.

Nishiwaki, a research fellow at the California Institute of Technology, said "in order to prevent a total nuclear war, everyone must work very hard for its prevention."

"We must assume there is a great possibility of a nuclear war," he added.

MAJESTIC. Billowing sails make an impressive sight as the "Gorch Fock" gets under way.

Sea rovers and landlubbers who thrill at the sight of a big sailing ship at sea have something new to stir them — the West German navy's training windjammer "Gorch Fock." With her sails unfurled, she presents a truly magnificent picture.

The "Gorch Fock" recently returned to Hamburg, her home base, from her first big 6,000-mile cruise. Her commandant, Commander Wolfgang Ehrhard, was full of praise for the white three-master. "We got our chance to test her during storm, rough sea and fog, and she has turned out just fine," he said.

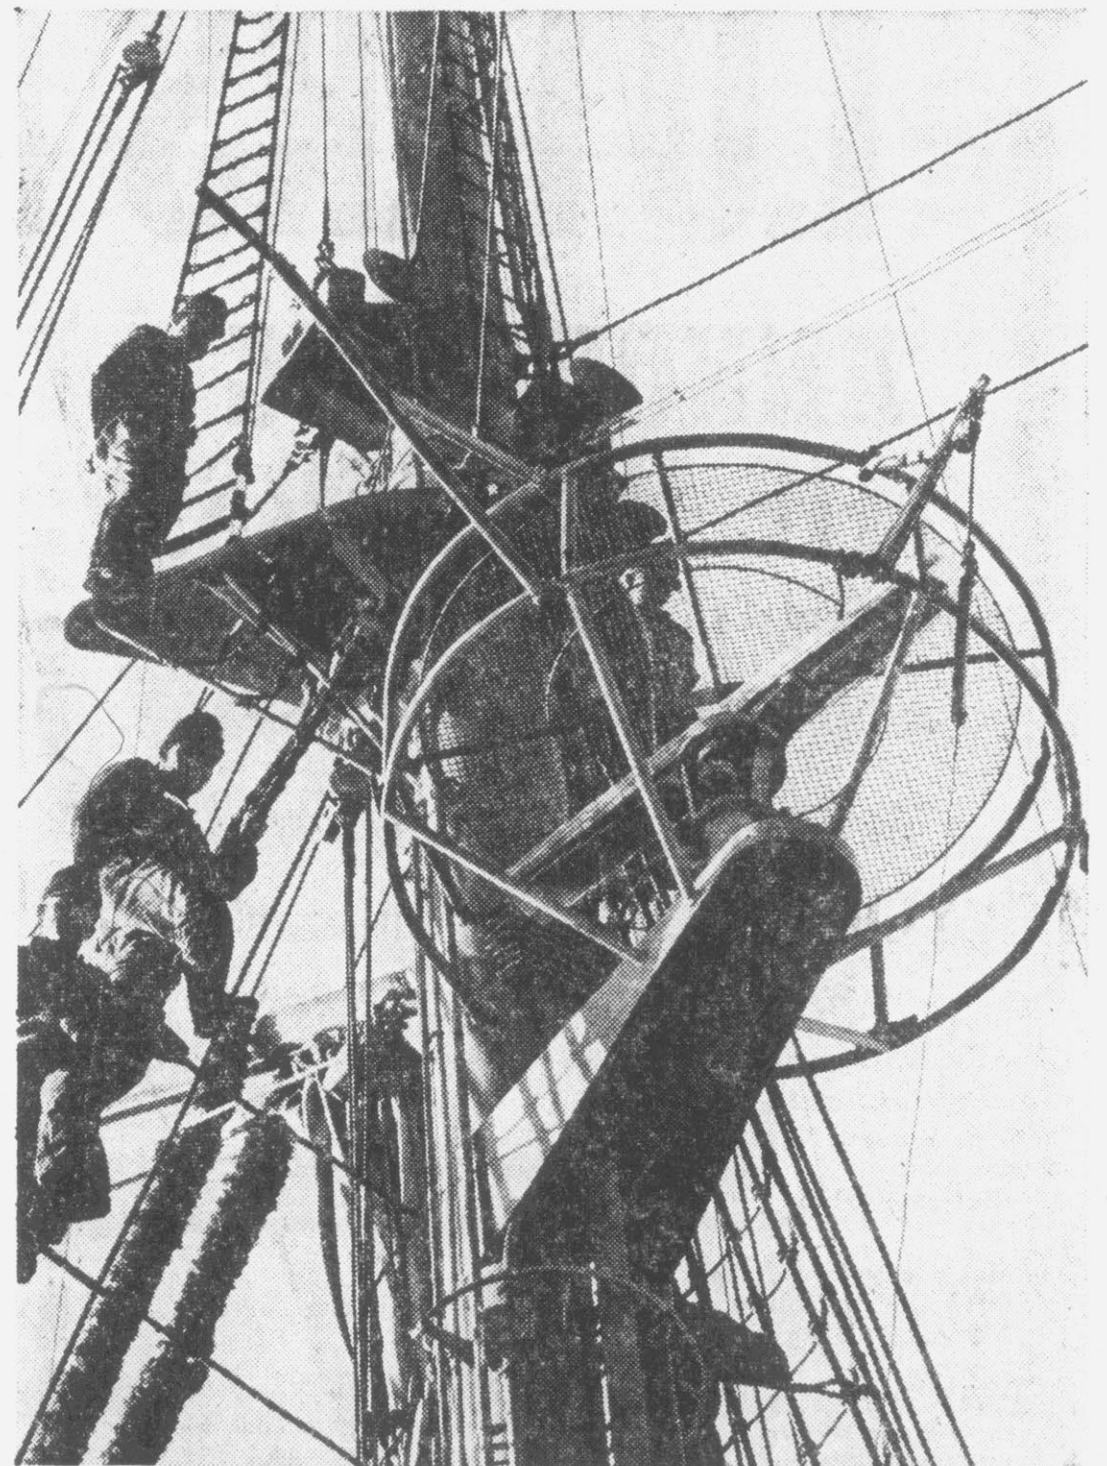

On her 52-day voyage to Santa Cruz de Tenerife in the Canary Islands where she stayed in port for a week, the "Gorch Fock" had aboard her permanent crew of 75, plus 156 trainees. The youths, all about 20 years old, returned full of enthusiasm.

West Germany's fledgling navy has decided to give all its future officers and a good part of its non-commissioned officers a three-months training aboard its only windjammer.

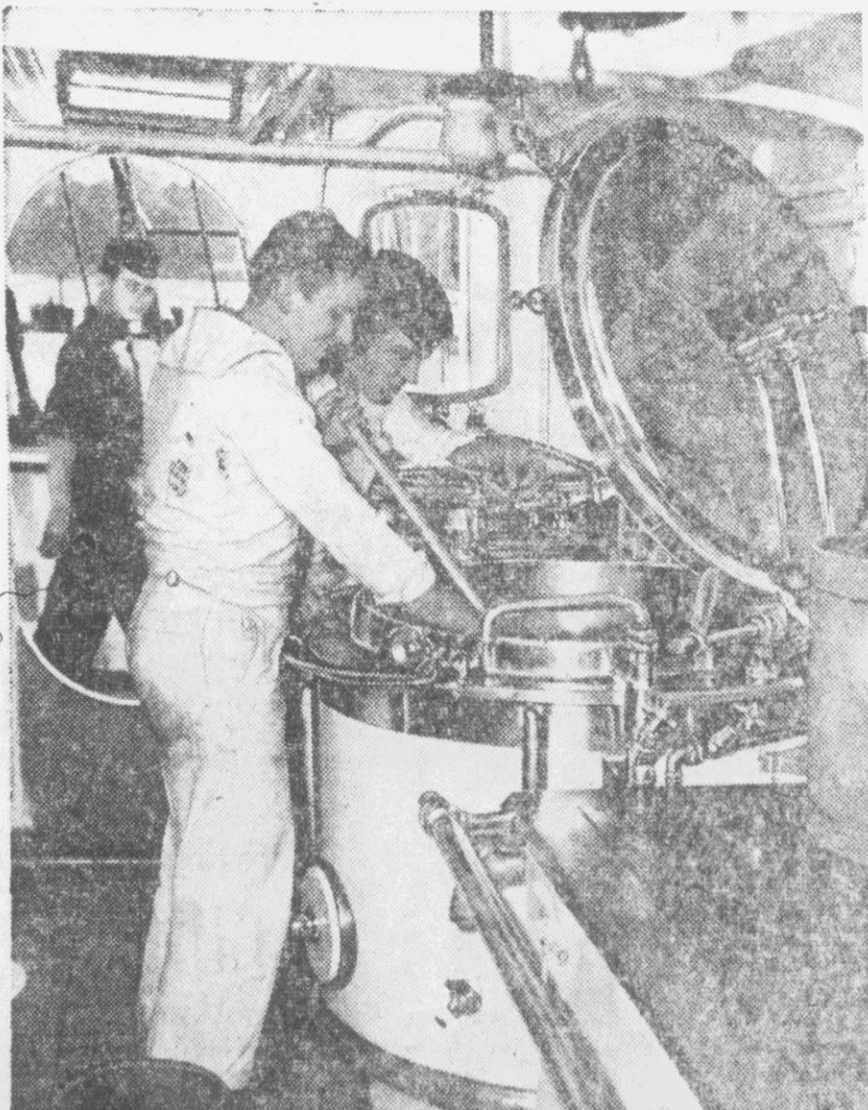

Windjammer though she be, the ship has the most modern equipment. It carries unshiftable heavy ballast to protect it from capsizing, and can bend as much as 90 degrees without taking in water. In addition to the customary lifeboats, the "Gorch Fock" has large self-inflating rescue rafts with canvas tops. She is equipped with radar.

A brisk polishing makes the "Gorch Fock" bell shine like a mirror.

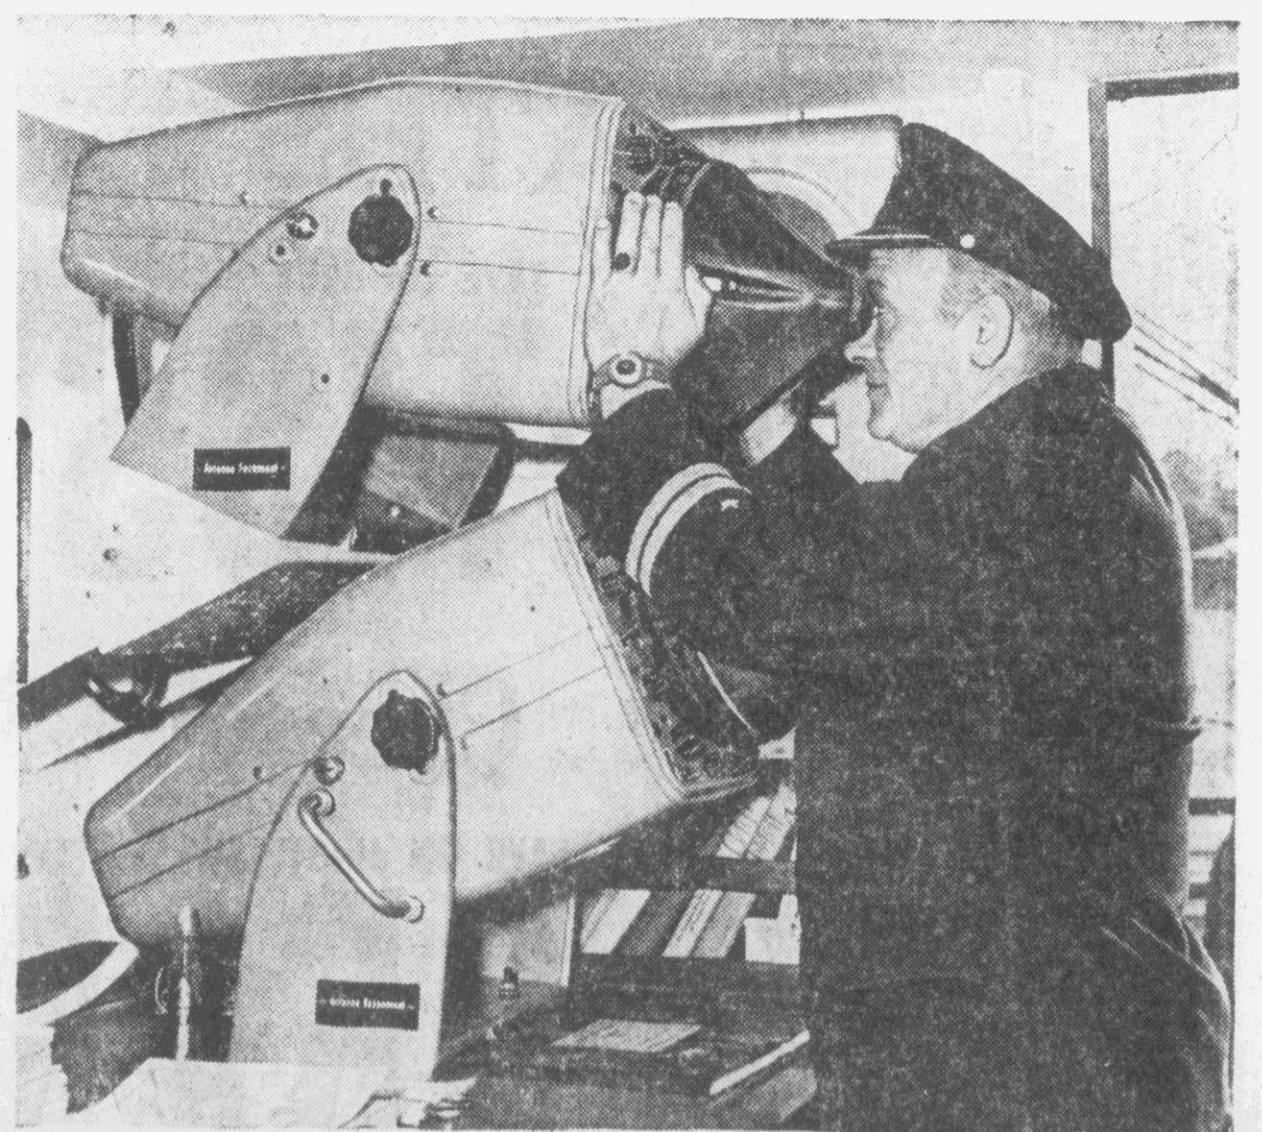

Radar antenna on the foretopmast is part of ship's modern equipment.

Giant kettle for cooking is used in ship's modern galley.

Sailor operates the "combimet" which contains a barograph, two barometers, one water and one air thermometer, one hygrometer and a windspeed meter.

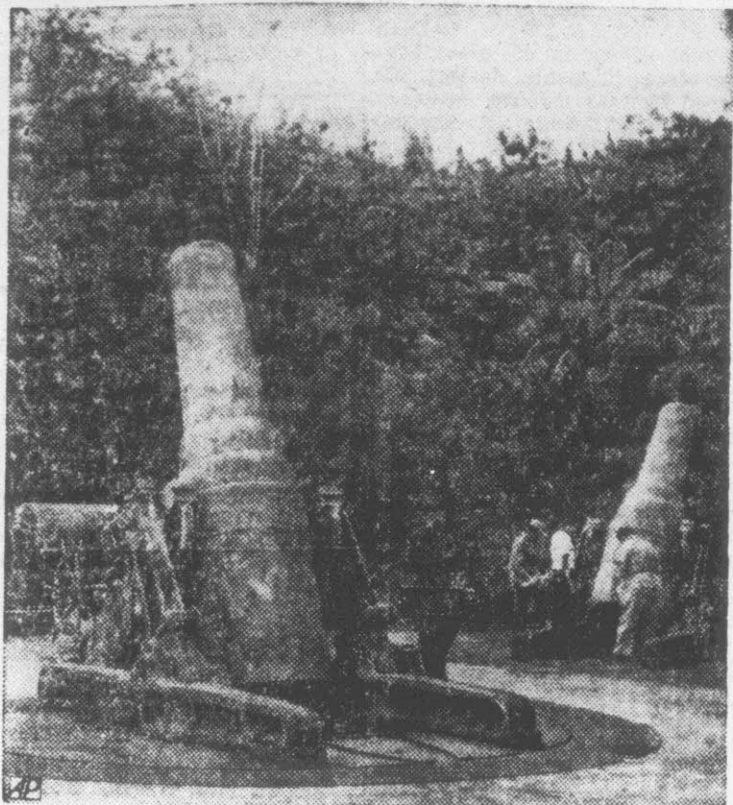

Lt. Cmdr. Hermann Zander views radar screen aboard the "Gorch Fock."

Battle-Seared Corregidor Tourist Attraction Today

A SHOWPLACE TODAY—Tourists inspect 12-inch American mortar barrels rusted in their last firing position—toward Bataan.

By TONY ESCODA

CORREGIDOR ISLAND, Philippines (AP)—Sunday visitors splash in the surf, sun themselves on the beach or fish from the shell-seared docks on this tadpole-shaped island guarding Manila Bay.

Alpha Flag For USS Randolph

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The angled-deck aircraft carrier Randolph, recently redesigned as an anti-submarine warfare ship, has taken over the flag of ASW Task Group Alphas. She replaces the straight-decked carrier Valley Forge which will go into a naval shipyard for extensive overhaul.

Lengthen Lines To Play It Safe

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Because of little low-slung cars, Nebraska is lengthening some of its yellow "no-passing" lines on highways. State Engineer R. L. Cochran explains that drivers in the small foreign cars and new American makes can't see as far over a hill.

Elsewhere on Corregidor all is quiet. The jungle has grown back over tunnels and gun emplacements in the hills. Often the only sign of life is an occasional snake slithering through the tall grass. A newly built tourist lodge sits on a rise a half mile from the spot where Japanese troops swept ashore in May, 1942, to stamp out the last spark of Allied resistance in Southeast Asia.

Before that, Corregidor and Bataan Peninsula, across the bay to the north, were the only allied outposts left in the wake of the Japanese juggernaut.

The ragtag army of 12,000 Americans and Filipinos on Corregidor had already beaten back one major onslaught and were fighting on despite the rain of bombs and shells that spattered the island daily.

For a time the Free Philippine government ruled from gloomy Malinta tunnel and its network of laterals dug out of Corregidor's bedrock, and from here a lonely "Voice of Freedom" broadcast each day.

But by April, Bataan — with Corregidor, the key to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's defense of the Philippines—had fallen. Ammunition for Corregidor's big guns had run out. So had food and medicine. The hospital wards inside Malinta were crammed with sick and wounded, many of whom were to die later during the Death March to concentration camps on Luzon.

The Philippine government, with Gen. MacArthur and his staff, escaped to Australia. The big Japanese push finally came, and this time there was little to stop it. It ended on May 6 when Gen. Jonathan Wainwright surrendered. The "Voice of Freedom" went off the air and the big Rock fell silent.

The silence today is more humdrum, punctuated by the laughter of tourists who come over on the Sunday excursion boats. They are shown around by the only soldiers left on Corregidor—a handful of Philippine mariners on routine security duty.

The island is technically a memorial ground, but only a few tablets and markers have been erected. Few are needed. The site of the Japanese landing is clearly marked by trees and shrubbery, torn by shrapnel, which haven't bloomed since. The 23 batteries still have their 12-inch coastal guns and mortars, with rusted barrels in the same position as when they were last fired. A third of Malinta tunnel's 825-foot length has caved in, but there's room enough for sightseers and a sign that reads, "Headquarters, United States Forces in the Philippines."

On the hill called "Topside," MacArthur's old command post still stands, an empty shell gutted by Japanese artillery fire. Scrawled in charcoal on one wall is this message from an unknown soldier: "Never say die."

Doctor Defends 'Nip For Nerves'

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—You may be a problem to the wife and kids, but you're not necessarily an alcoholic if you take three or four stiff drinks every night after work.

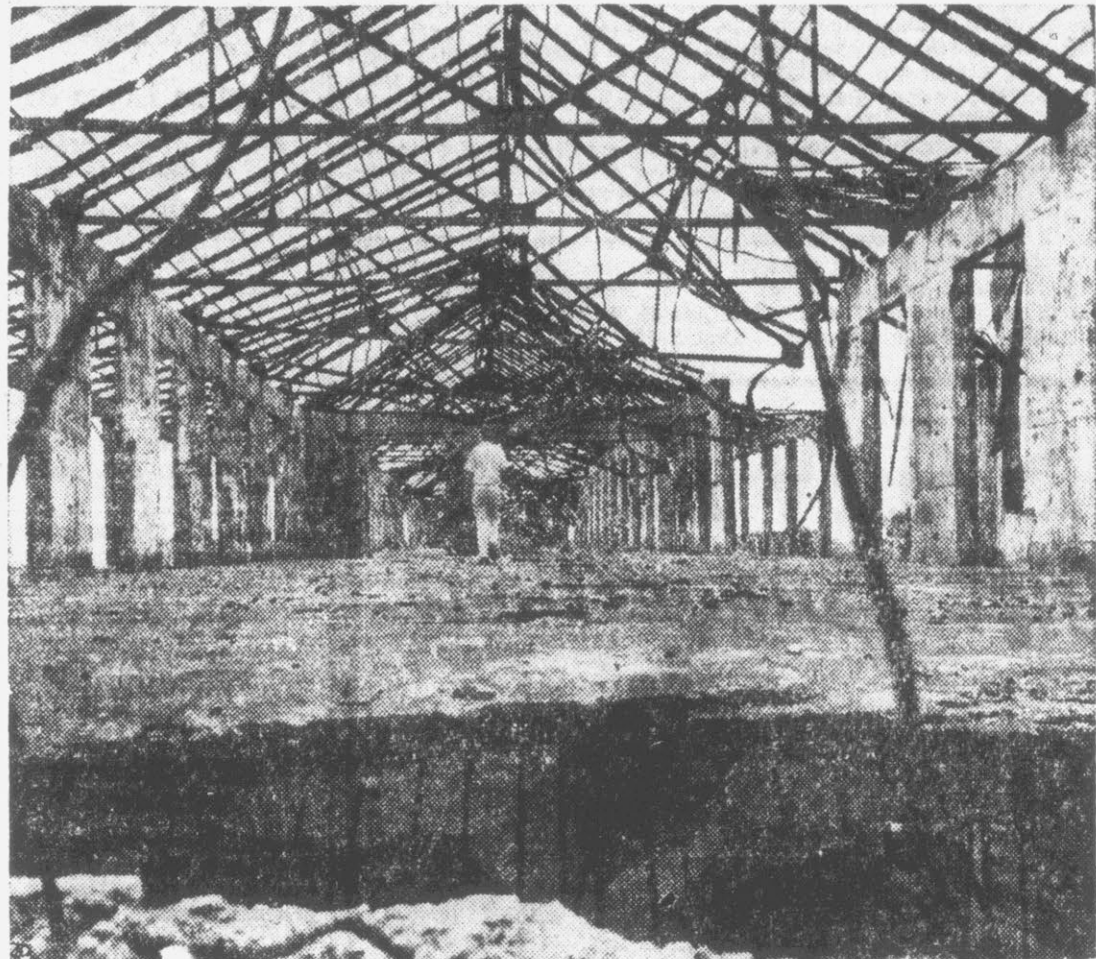

That's the view of Dr. Selden D. Bacon, who has studied the problems of alcoholics for nearly 20 years.

Bacon, director of Yale University's Center for Alcoholics Studies, defines an alcoholic as, "A person who uses alcohol excessively, inappropriately and without control, so that he hurts himself."

That, says Bacon, rules out the family man who takes those stiff drinks to relieve the tensions of the day's work.

"To his Aunt Tessie, a member of the WCTU, he's a drunken slob, a danger to America," Bacon adds. "But somebody may tell him to cut-down — and he will. He's not dependent on alcohol."

"Every so often the true alcoholic might go on a three-week binge — which the family man wouldn't do—and this would make the difference between them."

Marching Bands To Europe Is His Goal

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Meredith Willson has a mission. His goal sounds a little improbable, but then Willson is an expert at the improbable. Such as creating "The Music Man" and getting it produced in the face of discouragement from nearly everyone of importance in show business.

"I thought I would quit after that," he said. "I believe in quitting when you're ahead. But then I got involved in two other shows that intrigued me—"The Unsinkable Mrs. Brown" and "For 2 Cents Plain."

"When I finish them up, I'm going to devote all my energies toward a project that I think will be of inestimable value to this country. America has been very good to me, and I want to do something in return.

"I want to send 200 young marching bands to the capitals of Europe. I want to see them playing down those great streets—yes, even right into the Kremlin —in the most fantastic musical spectacle the Old World has ever seen.

"Oh, it will be marvelous. These fresh young people—the best of America, marching in intricate patterns and playing their hearts out—will show Europeans the real face of our country. This would make us more friends than anything we could ever do."

Willson is admittedly a partisan of band music. A one-time clarinetist with John Phillip Sousa, he has led upwards of 10,000 players at 76 Trombones.

"Now I see the State Department is going to send over the Marine Corps. Well, that's all right. They play a good march. But Europeans aren't going to be too impressed by professional musicians employed by a government agency.

"They will be impressed by thousands of youngsters, all of them amateurs, who are playing for the pure joy of it."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market resumed its upward push early this afternoon in fairly active trading.

Oils, steels and motors were actively traded with gains running to a point or more. Elsewhere movements in both directions were largely held to fractions. The slight uptrend developed from a mixed early trading. Favorable outlook for retention of the controversial depletion allowance helped the oil group, along with the feeling in Wall Street that tax loss selling in this group now has been exhausted.

Richfield, up nearly 2, and California Standard, up almost a point, benefited from a published report of a new producing well in their joint Alaska operations.

Chemicals, aircrafts and airlines were easy, while other groups showed a crumble of plus and minus signs.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 50 cents to $225.60 with industrials up 80 cents, rails 20 cents and utilities 10 cents.

U.S. government bonds had an easier tendency. Corporate bonds were irregular.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — Hog markets steady to 25 higher. Tops of 12.75 to 14.25 at Wilson; 13.25 to 14.00 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson and Mount Olive.

Hoffa Union Told Ignore Picket Lines

CHICAGO (AP)—James R. Hoffa says Teamsters Union members in the future will ignore—with one exception — all picket lines set up by other unions. "All Teamsters locals will have orders," Hoffa, the Teamsters president, told newsmen Wednesday, "to drive through recognitional, organizational and primary picket lines.

"The Teamsters will make an exception on primary picket lines if the striking union will guarantee the Teamsters against any possible loss through lawsuits, government action or any other expense incurred by the Teamsters."

A primary strike is one called by a union recognized under law as the collective bargaining agent for workers at a specified company.

Thus, under Hoffa's order, Teamsters members would cross lines set up by a union fighting for recognition as the bargaining agent for workers at a company.

Last month, John T. O'Brien of Chicago, a Teamsters vice president, ordered Midwest Teamsters to cross all picket lines until he and the union's strategy board decided on its interpretation of picketing provisions of the newly passed Landrum-Griffin labor law.

The new law forbids picketing when used as a weapon to shake down an employer for personal gain.

It also prohibits an outside union to picket in an attempt to organize workers where another union has already been lawfully recognized, where the outside union has lost a collective bargaining election in the past 12 months, or where picketing has been conducted for a period of not more than 30 days and no election has been requested.

Bonner Guest Of Oil Jobbers

Wholesale oil jobbers and distributors from the First Congressional District had Representative Herbert C. Bonner as their guest at a dinner meeting Wednesday at The Rendezvous Restaurant in Washington.

Purpose of the meeting was to answer questions and explain new laws affecting wholesale oil distributors. In the course of the discussion, Bonner touched on recent Congressional action relative to increased gasoline taxes, Federal highway program, mandatory oil imports, labor reform, wage and hour requirements, and agriculture and other economic factors and influences.

The meeting, sponsored by the N. C. Oil Jobbers Association, was attended by the following from Pitt County: Charles P. Gaskins, James E. Sutton, Ralph Sullivan, J. C. Clark, W. L. Allen, R. H. Roberson, W. S. Stafford, W. F. Haynes Jr., J. C. Wynne Jr., R. C. Young and R. E. Reddick.

Music Program For PTA Meet

GRIFTON — A Christmas music program was presented the local Parent-Teacher Association meeting here Monday night by the Grifton High's chorus and band. Eighteen different selections were included in the program—10 by the chorus and eight by the band. Mrs. Alma Buck directed the singing group while Boud Elliott directed the band. Piano accompaniment was furnished by Miss Bette Jo Gaskins.

During the evenings business session, Mrs. Margaret Hudson, reporting for the membership drive, told the group that the current drive had netted a total of 263 new members and $134 for PTA funds.

George Lehman reported the net profit figure from the recent Halloween Carnival as $1,192.

Reporting for the Library Committee, Mrs. H. C. Gravelly urged parents and friends to visit the Book Fair now in progress.

Grifton Principal, E. B. Bright, explained the new Pitt County honor roll system. He pointed out that only high school grades are included in the periodical listings of honor students.

Firemen Respond To Two Alarms

Greenville firemen responded to two alarms this morning, neither of which resulted in damage. The first call was to Box 148 at the intersection of West Fourth and Ford Sts. when a grass fire was discovered in the yard of 1310 West Fourth St.

The second call came from Box 136 two blocks away at the intersection of Colonial Ave. and Ford St. Here firefighters found a pot of meat burned on the stove at 1303 Colonial Ave.

Yesterday fire trucks were dispatched to 1305 South Cotanche St. when a washing machine caught fire. Only slight damage to the unit was reported, fire officers said.

Five Bidders On Renovation Job

Discusses Challenges Of The Trainable Retarded

A group of 38 members and guests heard Dr. Frank Scott of East Carolina College discuss limitations and challenges of trainable retarded children and problems of the parents of retarded youngsters last night at the regular meeting of the Pitt County Chapter of the Association for Retarded Children.

Meeting at the Trainable School on the Rose High School campus here the group listened as Dr. Scott, director of ECC's child study center and child testing program, explained how far and in what direction a retarded child may be trained. He also offered suggestions for parents of retarded children to help with their training.

Following the meeting, the group inspected the Christmas displays and decorations at the school and had refreshments at an "open house" session.

The local school is one of 180 throughout North Carolina that have been organized since 1952 when the state General Assembly provided appropriations of $300 per child for the program.

Twenty-one children are now in the school here under the principalship of Mrs. M. E. Cavendish, who has been associated with the school since its beginning three years ago.

Association member Dr. Kenneth Quiggin, Greenville optometrist, told the Daily Reflector this morning, "We have just begun to scratch the surface in this project, but we're proud of the progress we've made."

Governors Invite Russians To U.S.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—The American governors who went to the Soviet Union last summer have invited their counterparts to repay the visit. The invitation, not yet made formally, suggests the trip be made early next spring, but leaves the time open.

Gov. J. Caleb Boggs, of Delaware, chairman of the National Governors Conference, said the chairman of the Soviet districts would be expected to pay their own way.

He said formal invitations are to be issued through the State Department and the Soviet Embassy.

Boggs made the announcement Wednesday night. He said he had no idea what portions of the country the Soviets would want to see.

The governors gave unanimous support to a proposal by the roads committee that the governors ask President Eisenhower and congressional leaders for a conference early next January to discuss beefing up the cut-down federal superhighway program.

The roads committee, headed by Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, protested that allocations to the states under the 1956 program had been cut drastically below earlier estimates, and that the states have been left out on a financial limb. The conference was proposed to work on a mutual solution.

Balanced Budget Versus Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—It will be budget-balancing vs. the missile gap in the center ring when the presidential election year Congress meets next month.

President Eisenhower signaled his awareness of the forthcoming conflict between Republicans and Democrats with news conference comments Wednesday outlining the administration's position on both issues.

Eisenhower told the reporters that everybody who is a taxpayer ought to be thinking about what would happen if the government doesn't curb inflation by balancing its budget.

The President also cautioned against giving way to any "tremendous hysterical urge" to abandon manned bombers and immediately put all the country's defense eggs in the missile basket.

This advocacy of balanced forces in a period of defense weapon transition seemed certain to be seized upon by Republicans in Congress to combat Democratic efforts to blame the administration for space failures and the lag behind the Soviet Union in military missiles.

Republicans will be on the defensive in the space and missile argument. But they are happily looking forward to the chance to boom the drums for the balanced budget they contend is necessary to prevent inflation.

Rescued After Collision At Sea

BERGEN, Norway (AP) — Between 70 and 80 passengers of the Norwegian coastal ship Sunnfjord took to lifeboats in stormy seas and were rescued today after the ship and a freighter collided.

The 103-ton Sunnfjord, bound for Bergen, was badly damaged in the crash with the Norwegian coastal freighter Diana. Both ships reached port.

Honor Pupils For Period Named

FARMVILLE — Principal Sam D. Bundy announced this morning that three high school freshmen have been named to the "Honor Roll" for the second grading period.

Bobby Bass, Dottie Newton, and Louise Speight were listed as receiving grades of "A" on all courses taken. Bundy included 21 names on the "Principal List." Requirements for that select group are grades of "A" on at least half the courses taken and no grade less than "B."

The "Principal's List" included: eighth grade—Win Donat, Bobby Fiser, Melvin Gay, Irene Baker, Madeline Deal, Su-Su Dixon, and Becky Young; 10th grade—Jean Allen and Jimmie Everette; 11th grade—Noel Lang, Eva Mae Lewis, Monty Pickett, Junior Cannon, J. Y. Monk, Eddie Thomas, and Billy Walker; 12th grade—Carolyn Lewis, Elmer Flake, Howard Moye, Jr., Earl Tyson, Jr., and Rod Williams, Jr.
