Eisenhower Tells Indian Parliament U.S. Is Seeking Peace, Will Help Friends

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—President Eisenhower reminded India today that weakness in arms invites aggression, and said a strong United States is ready to come to the aid of its friends.

He told the Indian Parliament the United States is committed to a search for genuine disarmament but is maintaining strong forces against aggression.

"They serve not only for our self but our friends and allies, who, like us, have perceived this danger. They so serve for defensive purposes only," he said.

The members of Parliament applauded frequently. But there was not a sound when the President spoke of the fruits of weakness.

With the threats of Red China in mind, it was possible they were shaken by his remarks.

Nor was there any audible reaction when the President made clear American determination to provide adequate forces to resist aggression, though it seemed plain he was referring to the threat to India from Red China.

Eisenhower spoke to a joint meeting of the Indian Parliament, which for weeks has been discussing what attitude India should take toward China.

This week it upheld Prime Minister Nehru's policy, which is a go-slow attitude of firmness and preparedness.

There were 17 interruptions for applause but some were mere ripples. At the end the applause and desk thumping lasted only 20 seconds.

Eisenhower got his biggest hand when, his voice rising strongly, he declared:

"In the name of humanity can we not join in a 5-year or 50-year plan against mistrust and misgivings and fixation on the wrongs of the past? Can we not apply ourselves to the removal or reduction of the causes of tension that exist in the world?"

"All these are creations of government, cherished and nourished by governments. Nations would never feel them if they were given freedom from propaganda and pressure."

The President declared the United States is committed to a ceaseless search for disarmament and that "controlled universal disarmament is the imperative of our time."

But, he said, "Weakness in arms often invites aggression or subversion or externally manipulated revolution."

The speech, possibly the most important he will make on his 22,000-mile journey to 11 lands, was delivered after he had talked with Prime Minister Nehru for more than four hours.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty and Indian spokesmen refused to disclose anything about the talks. Hagerty said there would be further talks and it is too early to say anything about them.

Exhilarated by the colossal welcome in New Delhi, the President appeared chipper as he began the rounds of a crowded day that started with a wreath laying and tree planting in honor of Mohandas K. Gandhi.

Indian authorities, alarmed by the overpowering demonstration by perhaps 1 1/2 million people who turned out to greet the President Wednesday, called in thousands of extra police to handle crowds during the rest of the visit.

The President spoke in a strong, clear voice, often departing from his text.

He was most eloquent and unequivocal on the problem of disarmament.

"The demand for it by the hundreds of millions whose chief concern is the long future of themselves and their children will, I hope, become so universal and insistent that no man, no government can withstand it," he said.

He pictured disarmament as the only alternative to a "stumbling from crisis in one place to crisis in another, forever fearful that inevitably some aggression will blaze into global war."

"Must we continue to live with prejudices, practices and policies that will condemn our children and our children's children to live helplessly in the pattern of the past, awaiting possibly a time of war-borne obliteration?" he asked.

"We all fervently pray not. Indeed there can be no statesmanship in any person of responsibility who does not concur in this worldwide prayer."

As the President strode down the aisle to address the 600 legislators, he was flanked by Vice President Sarvapalli Radhakrishnan and the House speaker, A. A. Ayyangar, both wearing white achkans or tunics.

Nehru listened intently from the right of the vice president and occasionally fingered a rose that was tucked in his brown achkan.

At no time did the President directly mention Red China or the dangers of communism. But these were clearly in his mind.

He said a long series of alarms had caused anxiety and suffering.

Planning-Zoning commissioners began work on further residential area building restrictions last night after they received a petition protesting the construction of an apartment house in the Emul and Eighth St. area.

The commissioners are considering changes which would allow only single family houses in residentially zoned areas unless the proposed structures are approved by the Planning-Zoning Commission.

City Attorney R. B. Lee was asked to draw up a proposed amendment to the zoning ordinances for the commission's consideration at its next meeting.

Any changes thus made and approved by the commission would have to go to the City Council for final approval.

Action was taken after a number of residents appeared before the board to request that the city take action to halt the construction of an apartment dwelling in the area.

The property owners presented a petition signed by 41 persons in which it was pointed out that $408,750 in property valuation is involved in the area.

The petition asked the board "to restrict the building construction" in the area "to one-family unit residences only, all other residences thereby prohibited."

City Manager Leonard Bloxam explained to the group that under the present law, construction of multiple family units in residentially zoned areas is legal.

Many of the newer subdivisions have restrictive covenants which prohibit multiple family units, he noted.

However, under the present zoning ordinances, the city would have no power to prohibit apartment dwellings in residential areas.

The commissioners began working on proposed changes in the ordinance to prevent the re-occurrence of such a situation following the discussion.

An ordinance will be prepared by the city attorney and presented to the Planning-Zoning Commission for approval. It will then go to the City Council for final approval before it becomes law.

However, City Attorney R. B. Lee said this morning that before the zoning ordinance changes could be finally approved a public hearing would have to be held.

Such a hearing would be advertised in the newspaper over a period of 30 days prior to the actual hearing date.

Subdivision Approved A preliminary plat of Stratford subdivision received the approval of the commission last night.

Commissioners asked for one street to carry a 60-foot right-of-way and the changing of a street intersection. The changes will be worked out with the city manager and city engineer.

Thirteen Of Ivy Bluff Escapees Back Behind Bars; Seven To Go

IVY BLUFF, N.C. (AP)—Thirteen of North Carolina's toughest convicts, who staged a nervous escape Tuesday and took an arsenal of weapons with them, were behind bars today.

All surrendered without resistance. But seven others were at large and presumed carrying 11 weapons, including a sub-machine gun.

Twelve surrendered in Virginia and Ohio after hardly 48 hours of freedom. Another prisoner was retaken near Ivy Bluff the day of the breakout from the maximum security prison here.

The FBI said the captures yielded two rifles and four revolvers of the 17 weapons taken from Ivy Bluff.

Meanwhile, a huge manhunt focused on an area 20 miles west of Roanoke, Va., where several of the escapees were believed surrounded. The FBI said Charles W. Stewart, one of the desperate ringleaders in the daring breakout, might be in the pocketed group.

Local officers and the FBI, working in tandem, corralled eight of the original 20 in Virginia, seven yesterday and one this morning. He was Robert Lee Council, 39-year-old Fayetteville, N.C., Negro who was serving 20-25 years for armed robbery.

Council was taken as he walked along a highway near Rustburg, Va., 15 miles south of Lynchburg, about 70 miles north of Ivy Bluff.

Earlier, four others were captured in Cambridge, Ohio. In quick succession, authorities captured two of the escapees near Ruckersville, Va., three near Pilot, Va., and two near Lynchburg, Va.

Taken near Pilot were James W. Strickland, 24, of Columbia, S.C., serving life for burglary; William Vaughn, 9, Halifax County, Va., serving life for murder; and Douglas Anderson, 24, Atlanta, Ga., serving life for kidnaping.

James Edward Christy, 25, of Concord, N.C., and Ralph Byers, 27, of Winston-Salem, N.C., were picked up near Ruckersville, Va. Christy was tabbed by North Carolina prison authorities as a ringleader in the mass breakout. Both he and Byers were armed with 38 caliber pistols but offered no resistance.

Christy was serving 19 1/2 years for breaking and entering and manslaughter; and Byers 35-42 1/2 years for robbery with firearms and auto theft.

Taken in the Lynchburg area were Walter Brown Spears, 30, Greensboro, N.C., negro serving 15-35 years for larceny; and Harvey Murchinson, 26, Willow Springs, N.C., negro, serving 21 years breaking, entering, armed robbery and escape.

The trio captured at Pilot, the FBI said, had held Jonas Soares hostage in a vacant house. He was freed unharmed when police swooped down on the men.

Earlier, Leslie Gautier, 23, Faison, N.C.; Hillary Inman, 24, Kings Mountain, N.C.; Grady Stone, 23, Lumberton, N.C.; and Glenn Hensley, 35, Asheville, N.C., were captured at Cambridge.

Charles Edwards, 28, Gastonia, N.C., was captured only a few hours after Tuesday's smoothly-handled escape at Ivy Bluff.

Stone, after his capture in Ohio, said the men fled the institution because "they just couldn't stand it down there. When I escaped, I got my first coke and candy bar in 19 months."

Meanwhile, reports flowed in from Memphis, Tenn., South Norfolk, Va., and New York that broadened the search over the eastern half of the country.

At Memphis, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wortham said four men—who indicated they might be among the 20—entered their home at knifepoint Wednesday. The woman, who is 53, said she was raped, but police Capt. W. Wilkinson said hospital tests showed no evidence of rape. He said he was puzzled over parts of the couple's story.

Petition Spurs Work On Residential Area Building Restrictions By City

Planning-Zoning commissioners began work on further residential area building restrictions last night after they received a petition protesting the construction of an apartment house in the Emul and Eighth St. area.

Subdivision Approved A preliminary plat of Stratford subdivision received the approval of the commission last night.

Commissioners asked for one street to carry a 60-foot right-of-way and the changing of a street intersection. The changes will be worked out with the city manager and city engineer.

The subdivision is to be located on the west side of N. C. 43 just south of Greene Mill Run. The preliminary plat included 135 lots.

Vanoca, Inc. was listed as the developing company represented by N. O. VanNortwick Jr.

A preliminary plat of a new subdivision to be located between Evans St. Ext. and U. S. 264 was approved. The Blount subdivision had been presented at an earlier meeting and was returned for changes requested by the commission.

Commissioners changed the designation of commercial areas in each of the two subdivisions to "for future development."

This was done at the suggestion of Chairman Frank Little. He pointed out that if the commercial areas are approved with the over-all plans they would not have to be changed to the commission for approval when the commercial areas are finally developed.

Quota Up For Blood Program

Pitt County Red Cross Chairman Dr. Howard H. Gradis sounded the warning today that Pitt County may be in danger of losing the Red Cross bloodmobile program unless blood donors come to the rescue tomorrow at the Moose Lodge here.

His statement came this morning in an attempt to bolster the current two-day visit of the Bloodmobile to the county. The mobile unit collected only 25 of a 120-pint quota in Ayden Tuesday.

Dr. Gradis urged persons in and around Greenville to become donors tomorrow between 10:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at the Moose building when the Bloodmobile will again be after an 120-pint original quota.

Mrs. Walter Taylor of the Pitt Chapter pointed out this morning that, since the Ayden visit fell 95 units short of the goal, the Greenville quota is increased to 215 in another, forever fearful that in an even keel for this pair of visits.

Dr. Gradis had advised earlier that the Pitt program was lagging behind by nearly 50 per cent. He said annual Pitt needs correspond to the yearly quota of 1,440 units, while donations from the county are currently averaging around 700 pints per year.

The Pitt chairman placed extra stress on the urgency for persons who have filled out donor cards to keep their appointments tomorrow. He sent another special message to Pitt families who have used blood from the program to make adequate replacements.

Tomorrow's visit is one of 12 bloodmobile visits annually to Pitt.

Army Units Will Leave Iceland

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department announced today that all U. S. Army troops will be withdrawn from Iceland. Some 4,000 U. S. Air Force and Navy men will remain.

The force to be pulled out consists of an Army battalion combat team of about 1,200 men.

The Army troops will be redeployed during the first six months of 1960.

"Army units stationed in the United States will continue to maintain their capability for immediate deployment to Iceland in case of emergency," the headquarters said.

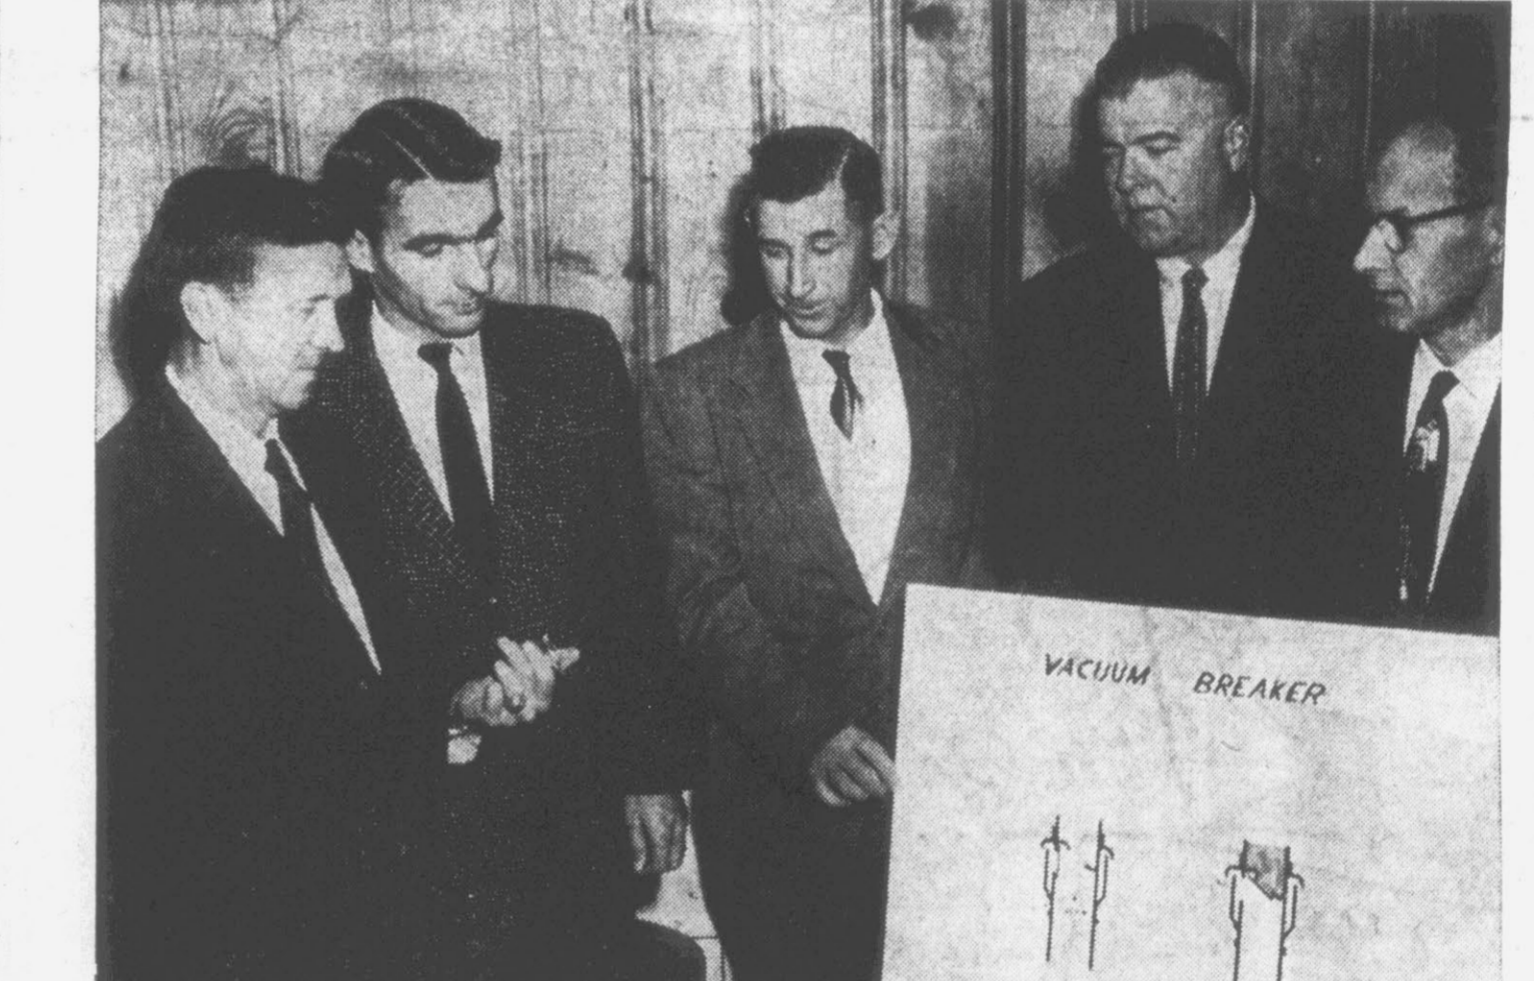

These emergency troops would be from the Strategic Army Corps—units of the 82nd and 101st Airborne divisions from Ft. Bragg, N. C., and Ft. Campbell, Ky., and of the 4th Infantry Division, Ft. Lewis, Wash.

An Army spokesman said troops could be rushed to Iceland within a matter of hours if necessary.

The Army said the transfer is part of the normal redistribution of forces, and has been under consideration for 2 1/2 years.

A spokesman said the withdrawal will have no effect on United States commitments to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Sanitarians Discuss Problems At Greenville Meet

Seawell Mission Gets Nowhere

RALEIGH (AP)—Rebuffed by the U.S. Health, Education and Welfare Department in his attempt to validate a state welfare law, Atty. Gen. Malcolm Seawell says he now may try Congress of the courts.

Seawell, Asst. Atty. Gen. Ralph Moody and Guilford Rep. Hubert Humphrey of Guilford, a co-sponsor of the new law in the last Legislature, were in Washington Wednesday to discuss the bill with federal officials.

The U.S. agency restated its plan to cut off federal welfare funds if the state enforces the law which calls for tighter supervision of payments under the aid to dependent children program.

"We got nowhere," Seawell said of the visit. "They were talking sociology and we were attempting to talk law and we never did get together. We feel their ruling is not based on law or any provision of the Social Security Act."

The law would give county welfare boards authority to make sure that parents spend dependent children welfare money for the children.

The Health, Education and Welfare Department says such payment may carry no restrictions whatsoever.

Sanitarians From 23 N.C. Counties Hold Meet Here

Some 75 sanitarians from 23 Northeastern N. C. counties met here yesterday to discuss current drainage, water supply contamination, back-siphonage, and water pressure problems at the Northeastern Section of the Thirteenth Special Education Program of the Sanitation section of the North Carolina Public Health Association.

State and district sanitation engineers and authorities gathered at Respass Bros. to lead the discussion-type meeting that consumed most of the day.

The meeting here was the fourth in a series of five such sectional gatherings during December. The remaining four were scheduled for other strategic cities throughout North Carolina in a NCPHA effort to canvass the entire state.

Here, as at all the meetings, current problems facing local health departments dealing with sanitation conditions at public facilities were aired before the group and corrective opinions were voiced from the instructors and attending sanitation officers alike.

Yesterday's discussion revolved around a recent water-contamination problem in a nearby city that caused illness for some 600 people. W. J. Stevenson, sanitation engineer from the State Board of Health, led the discussion and coordinated causes of the recent outbreak of water-borne gastroenteritis.

Stevenson presented elaborate details to the group concerning the water piping systems of the buildings where the water-contamination occurred and recommended corrective measures that could have prevented the outbreak.

Kinston Man Is Killed In Wreck

KINSTON, N.C. (AP)—Glenwood Davenport Jr., 27, of Kinston, was killed early today when the car in which he was riding crashed into a bridge on Highway 55 near here.

The driver of the car was listed as Ronald Davenport, the victim's cousin. Authorities said he told them he was blinded by lights on an oncoming car.

Apprentices Get Guaranteed Base

RALEIGH (AP)—New employees in six industries have been guaranteed a beginning wage of at least 65 cents an hour while they learn their new skills.

The State Apprenticeship Council approved the regulation Wednesday along with others controlling employment of learners under the state's new minimum wage law.

The council, composed of three employe representatives and three management men, also limited the learning period to 160 hours. The rulings go into effect Jan. 1, the same day the minimum wage law becomes active.

The affected industries are hotels, motels, laundries, and dry cleaning establishments, restaurants, sandwich and pastry manufacturing firms and beauty parlors.

Labor Commissioner Frank Crane approved the new regulations which were offered by a management representative and seconded by an employe man on the Apprenticeship Council.

The council specified that learners may be employed for only one learning period in any one industry and they must be inexperienced.

The employers must certify to the commissioner of labor the names of hired learners. They may not employ more than one for each 10 workers covered under the 75 cents an hour minimum.

Rep. Sam Burrow, who opposed the learner hearing in the first place, told the council he objected to what he called "the trend in thinking in Raleigh," made apparent, he said, by recent rulings of the attorney general's office.

One held that state government employes were not to be covered by the minimum wage and the other prevented the Council of State from tapping the contingency and emergency fund to keep from cutting welfare payments.

Burrow was one of the sponsors of the minimum wage law in the 1959 General Assembly. He said the learner's section of the new law was being invoked "by the same crowd that opposed the bill in the Legislature."

Shattered Ships And 109 Dead In Wake Of Storm

LONDON (AP)—Europe's worst storm in 23 years was blowing itself out today, leaving shattered ships and 109 dead in its wake.

But coastguardsmen, weary after a five-day battle, warned the tempest might still have a deadly sting in its tail.

A little Dutch motor freighter sank in a collision in the Elbe estuary, some seamen remained in trouble and blinding blizzards blanketed parts of Scandinavia.

The toll in lives and shipping was the heaviest since the great storm of February 1936, in which more than 200 died.

The 44-ton Dutch freighter Flamingo went down after a collision with the 128-ton German freighter Brunsvick. All members of the Dutch crew were rescued.

In all, a half dozen vessels have gone down.

Four others flashed distress calls today.

A flooded engine room forced abandonment of the British trawler Janet Helen in the North Sea. Its crew was taken off by another British fishing vessel.

In the Baltic, the Finnish Vessel Borneo, 346 tons, reported it was drifting with a 25-degree list. It called urgently for a tug.

The Danish fishing cutter Stornoway, wallowing in North Sea swells with a broken rudder, called for assistance. Then its radio went dead.

Three other Danish fishing boats with a total of at least 12 men aboard also were missing, but officials said possibly they had lost their radio antennas and could not report in. They were the Nilan, 50 tons; Jytte, 47 tons, and Lynvrig, 46 tons. Two Danish salvage vessels and planes of the Danish and British air forces were looking for them.

In the Baltic, rescue ships put out and aid the crippled Swedish motorship Birgitta. That 850-ton craft, with nine men aboard, had engine and propeller trouble, but reported it was in no immediate danger.

Snowy gales whipped across Sweden for the sixth straight day. The air-sea hunt for crewmen of the Norwegian freighter Elfrida and the German ship Merkur was abandoned when darkness closed in Wednesday night. All 29 men aboard the Elfrida and the seven who manned the Merkur were assumed lost.

The 1,619-ton Norwegian vessel turned turtle off the south coast of Norway Wednesday. The Merkur, 995 tons, was found wallowing and abandoned in the same general area by the British trawler Benella.

The German crew apparently had been washed overboard.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN
Now that you have taken care of, or at least decided on what gift to give your gardening friend, take a good look around your garden and grounds.

There may be chores left unattended; or things you might like to do before real cold weather sets in. Are your plants really ready for cold weather? Are the newly planted trees well staked so they can stand the rough winds of winter? That new bed of azaleas and the camellia you have planted—have they had enough water?

They are evergreens and will suffer if the ground freezes before there is enough moisture in it to take care of them.

Have you sprayed those plants with Wilt Prof—the ones that get a lot of winter sun and wind? If not, be sure to do this. Follow directions on container with this or any like product.

Your bulbs should be in by now, but if you have been tardy, you might slip them in right away.

Look through the roses and flowering shrubs for diseased limbs or twigs. Cut them out and burn them or get them on the trash pile.

Is the tea scale still on your camellia leaves? If the weather isn't too cold, give them a spraying with Volck. Follow directions as to amount of spray to use and wear cautions on containers.

Are your plants well mulched? If you haven't mulched some of them, hold off until the ground freezes. Then you can apply mulch. This will keep some of the enemies of your plants, such as field mice, from having a nice warm cover and loose earth to dig into. They get down to the roots where they cause real damage.

Did you forget to hill up over that bed of newly planted roses? Each plant should be covered with soil to prevent the tender canes from drying out or freezing.
If you didn't have time during the summer to edge the grass along your sidewalks or curbs, get it done now. A little exercise, now, should be helpful. You won't get much in the next few months—that is, in the out-of-doors.
You had better get these things done right away; you will be too busy getting ready for Christmas in the following week or two. And after Christmas, the weather is liable to have a lot to say on the subject.

Freeze Coconut The Way You Want To Use It

RALEIGH—With the addition of two new states, our thoughts turn to customs of other people. In Hawaii we think of the many fruits available.

But even in Hawaii, fruits are seasonal and the necessity for freezing fruits in season is evident. They can be frozen in season for out-of-season eating with their color, flavor, and food value practically unchanged.

With fresh coconuts now found in plentiful supplies on our markets, Miss Nita Orr, frozen foods specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, advises homemakers to "freeze the makings" for a variety of coconut dishes.

Fresh coconut may be frozen, shredded or grated, or processed into coconut cream. Grated coconut has a variety of uses as toppings or as nuts in cookies, cakes, and pies. Coconut cream is used primarily for sauces and making ice cream.

It is good management to grate and pack the coconut from a number of nuts at one time and package the product in containers of several sizes for future use. When packaging coconut, pack it tightly because there is usually still enough air entrapped to allow for any expansion which may occur.

Because of low moisture content and the small pieces, grated coconut thaws very quickly and usually can be broken apart and used as soon as it is removed from the freezer. Frozen coconut can be kept at zero degrees storage satisfactorily for a year.

Thick coconut cream freezes well. Add 1-4 to 1/2 cup coconut liquid or boiling water to 3 cups of coarsely grated coconut. Allow to stand 15 minutes. Knead with the hands and squeeze through two thicknesses of cheesecloth, removing as much cream as possible. If the cream shows separation on thawing, after freezing, stir vigorously with a spoon to put it back into a smooth liquid.

Freeze Coconut The Way You Want To Use It

RALEIGH—With the addition of two new states, our thoughts turn to customs of other people. In Hawaii we think of the many fruits available.

But even in Hawaii, fruits are seasonal and the necessity for freezing fruits in season is evident. They can be frozen in season for out-of-season eating with their color, flavor, and food value practically unchanged.

BELK-TYLER'S OF GREENVILLE

Chapter Receives New Members

Greenville Chapter 1308, Women of the Moose, enrolled two new members during chapter night proceedings Tuesday evening.

The new members are Mrs. Olive Morrill and Mrs. Joyce Buck. Ruth Sutton, social service chairman for the chapter, had charge of the program. She introduced Mrs. Joyce Smith and Mrs. Carrie Oakley as speakers for the evening; together they reviewed public welfare work in Pitt County.

Mrs. Smith opened the subject by reminding there were four programs of public assistance: Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Blind, Aid to Dependent Children and Aid to the Permanently and Totally Disabled. Conditions for receiving aid in each of the four programs were also given.

Mrs. Oakley cited services the agency offers, such as getting work permits for children between ages of 14 and 18, work with alcoholics, taking parole reports, writing social histories for patients admitted to state hospitals, certifying persons under the school health program, the certifying of persons who are medically indigent for hospitalization.

Other services, she said, are also offered in placement of children in licensed boarding homes and foster homes. "We also cooperate with law enforcement agencies in working with adult mental cases."

Mrs. Smith noted that as of October 1959, the Pitt County Welfare office had 800 old age assistance cases, 300 aid to dependent children cases, and 300 aid to permanently and totally disabled cases, and there were 170 aid to the blind cases.

Refreshments were served by the social service committee following the close of the program.

Knit A Cap For Christmas

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

The most popular Mrs. Santa is the one who gives personal Christmas presents to the important people on her list — gifts made especially for someone dear or selected with individual attention.

High on the list are handknit garments, planned with the needs and tastes of the recipient in mind.

There are many small accessories, quick and easy to knit, which will delight everyone on the gift list. These include knit ties or socks for men, new bulky sweaters or scarfs for teenagers, hoods and mittens for children.

Luncheon Given For Book Club, Guest Speaker

Bethel Friday, in her home, Mrs. William C. Whitehurst Jr. was hostess at a luncheon honoring Miss Hilda Apple, guest speaker, and the Sally Tucker Book Club.

In carrying out the Christmas motif, greenery and red berries were used throughout the tooms.

From the dining table, centered with a three-tiered server filled with a Christmas arrangement and flanked by silver candlesticks holding green tapers, the guests served themselves to a ham luncheon, coconut balls and hot coffee.

Following the luncheon, Miss Apple, a home economist, gave a talk on Christmas decorating, stating, "The keynote for success is by use of simplicity in design."

By using pictures and slides, she gave the group a vivid description of how to decorate in order to gain best results.

At a business session, the Christmas Decorating Contest was discussed.

Foreign Foods Add Variety

RALEIGH—With the arrival of fall and winter weather, we know it is time to start thinking about holiday meals. Why not try something different during the holidays this year.

According to Mrs. Rachel Ferguson, food and nutrition specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, foreign dishes always add something special to a meal.

Chinese Chop Suey

- 1/2 lb. lean pork
 - 2 tablespoons fat
 - 1 cup dried celery
 - 2-4 cup sliced onions
 - 1 cup chicken bouillon
 - 1-4 lb. mushrooms, sliced
 - 1 tablespoon cornstarch
 - 2 tablespoons water
 - 1 can (No. 2 1/2) bean sprouts, drained
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - Dash of pepper
 - Dash of paprika
 - 1-4 teaspoon sugar
 - 3 cups boiled rice
- Cut pork in small pieces and brown in fat; add celery, onions and bouillon, cover and simmer 20 minutes; add mushrooms and smooth paste made of cornstarch and water, and cook 10 minutes, stirring until thickened. Add bean sprouts and seasonings and heat thoroughly; serve hot with boiled or steamed rice. If desired, 2 tablespoons soy sauce may be added to chop suey and chicken broth or bouillon cubes substituted for chicken bouillon.

Ablekage (Denmark—Applecake)

- 2 cups dry bread crumbs
 - 1 tablespoon sugar
 - 1/2 cup butter
 - 2 cups applesauce
 - 1 cup whipping cream, whipped
 - 2 tablespoons sugar
- Saute bread crumbs and sugar in butter until browned. Place in serving dish in alternate layers with applesauce. Serve topped with whipped cream sweetened with sugar. Decorate with red jelly. (Macaroons may be crushed and blended with toasted crumbs, if desired.) 1 1/2 cups bread crumbs and 1-3 cup butter may be used for less bread texture.

Note to new cooks: green peppers are cleaned by cutting in half and removing seeds and white fibers with fingers and a small sharp knife.

Foot hygiene starts with keeping your feet clean. Open cut shoes that allow grime to seep in, perspiration that causes discomfort, and tight shoes — or wearing the same shoes every day — can lead to unhappy feet. The remedy is frequent foot baths.

Street-h-ing Dollars

RALEIGH—Fill the fruit and nut bowl for "extra" good eating during the holiday season.

Mrs. Ruby P. Uzzle, consumer marketing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, says oranges, grapefruit, apples and bananas are the lowest cost fresh fruits. Announcement of lower prices on all frozen, and canned orange and grapefruit supplies—some as much as 2 to 4 cents per can—is expected.

Cranberries are on the market again in good supply and attractively priced. There's a big nut crop, plenty for consumer demand.

Pork prices dropped to their lowest level in nearly four years under heaviest marketing of the year, reports the Agricultural Marketing Service. Pork continues to be the better red meat buy.

Economical cuts include loins, both fresh and cured hams, and bacon. Beef prices turned steady to slightly higher this week. Look for "specials" on roasts, ground beef and steaks during December. Lamb prices remain low for this time of year.

Broiler production is running lower causing prices to rise 2 to 4 cents per pound. Hens are in good supply at bargain prices. Large size eggs remain the better value for your money. Turkeys are available in sizes to suit your holiday needs.

Fresh green vegetables will likely be higher due to recent heavy rains in southern growing areas. Better fresh vegetable values will be cabbage, sweet potatoes and onions. Sweet corn, tomatoes, carrots and green beans will likely carry higher price tags. Lettuce and celery are improving in quality and price.

Try A New Frosting For Applesauce Cake

RALEIGH—Do you like applesauce cake? If so, you'll want to try this new frosting on it. Mix equal parts of ground raisins and walnuts, combine with cream cheese and a little thick sour cream. Spread on applesauce cake and serve big squares while still warm.

According to Mrs. Ruby P. Uzzle, consumer marketing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, there are many ways to use apples now while they are plentiful.

On a recent check of the grocery shelves, there were 21 different apple products available. Many of these were prepared for eating. For the homemaker, this insures a year round supply of ready-to-use canned, dried, or frozen apple products.

The label on canned apple products is the food shopper's best buying guide. The law requires that the label list the name of the product, the net contents, name and address of packer and all ingredients in the container in order of importance.

To supplement winter menus, Mrs. Uzzle advises, stock up on a varied assortment of canned and packaged apple products.

Applesauce is excellent for desserts, for relish, and as a sauce for puddings or cake. Apple-cranberry and apple-raspberry sauces are eye-appealing variations of applesauce. They are usually priced slightly higher than applesauce.

Other apple products include apple pie filling, apple slices, apple juice, baked apples, spiced apple rings and apple butter.

A good business center for both farm and home records is a "must" in today's home.

THREE IS A FAMILY

By EDNA PETTIGREW

Copyright © 1959 by Edna Pettigrew. From the novel published by Doubleday & Co. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED
"Well," I said to loudly, "no use to make all this fuss. People have babies every day after all. Which fooled nobody." And, as Fanny Colhoun continues her chronicle, it is apparent that there is a lot more to the story than just what happened as a result of the news that her daughter Tilghman is coming home to have a baby.

CHAPTER 2

I decided to stop by Mother Colhoun's and tell about Tilghman's coming home to have the baby. Mother Colhoun and Maria, Rutledge's sister, lived in a modern ranch-style house near the junior high school where Maria had taught for the past nine years. Mother Colhoun opened the door and kissed us all around. She is seventy-five, but it doesn't show at all. Punch our cooker, was making dizzy circles about the room, insisting loudly that Mother Colhoun was one of his favorite people too, and where was the T-bone she always saved for him?

I think she should use more blue or pink on the bassinet? Brantley said, "Oh, blue, of course!" And I said twins, maybe. For once Mother Colhoun was speechless. Then she said with alarm: "Twins! In the Colhoun family!" But presently she located some twins tucked away in one corner of her mind and quickly recovered. "Your great-aunt Cella Layne had twin girls back in 1892!" she said triumphantly. "Twin girls!" said Brantley, horrified.

Rutledge was late, as he had business in Columbia, and we had supper on the table by the time he came in damp and weary. We told him about Tilghman's coming home and the weariness dropped from his face like a mask. Why, that was great! he said. And what was for supper? After supper Brantley departed with Poo to play records at somebody's house, she said, leaving amidst a series of souped-up explosions from Poo's old red car that was a curious mixture of past and present. An magnificent Confederate flag surmounted the radiator—reminiscent of the War of Northern Aggression—known as the Civil War up North.

Why didn't we do something together tonight, Maggie said, instead of just watching the Farm Program on television? She said how could anybody be interested in Varieties of Small Grain and Artificial Insemination, whatever that was? I agreed heartily with Maggie, but Rutledge turned the volume up to indicate we were interrupting something sacred, like the Baptist Hour or the Democratic Convention, or Cotton Ed Smith. To law Rutledge is pledged; but to farming he is dedicated. Maggie sighed and returned to the couch with her Writer's Handbook, and I went out to the kitchen to make my list of things for Old Beck to do in the morning. By the time the Farm Program went over I had finished, so I went back to the living room with a fine sense of achievement. Rutledge asked did I see that thing on the Farm Page about tobacco allotments, and what did they think they were doing up there anyway? "Up there" in Washington.

I said yes, and I didn't think they knew half as much up there as Rutledge, and had they finished the crop dusting yet? Rutledge said that reminded him he had to run down and see Elliott Jameson and why did anybody ever farm anyway? Jameson is our farm manager and Rutledge always comes back from seeing him fit to be tied, as farming to Elliott is a grim business. The combine couldn't last out the season, Rutledge said when he came back, unhappy and wet. And Elliott said that Guernsey cow sure looked bad. And how could they finish up the crop dusting if only Rutledge could give all his time to the farm instead of having to spend so much at that law office.

Rutledge gave me the look that said for three generations his family had been lawyers. So I hushed because you can't argue with three generations of lawyers. The telephone rang one morning while we were having breakfast. It was Mother Colhoun. She said she had heard from Tilghman exactly when she was coming because she wanted to have a little homecoming party for her. I said no, and the party was a grand idea.

"Just the family," Mother Colhoun said. Just the family in South Carolina meant half the county. "An Easter party," said Mother Colhoun, "and I can dye some eggs." I said I'd call her the minute I heard anything, and didn't think it had turned a lot warmer? Rutledge and I had just settled down after supper when the telephone rang. It was Tilghman. She would arrive, she said, Tuesday night, leaving Denver in the morning.

I said how lovely, and we couldn't wait and to be careful. Tilghman said she would get in around dark, and she would be careful.

I called Mother Colhoun and said we would pick her and Maria up when he went out to Gilbert Field Tuesday night to meet Tilghman. "She's coming by plane!" Mother Colhoun said in alarm. But she quickly recovered and said, my goodness, planes were just as safe as cars today, the way some people drove.

Suddenly for no reason I wanted to cry. There was a pause while I tried to pull myself together. Then Mother Colhoun said for me not to worry about a thing and everything was all right, wasn't it? I said of course. I just felt like I was coming down with something.

Mother Colhoun said I just hadn't got used to feeling like a grandmother yet, and she and Maria would bring the bassinet over tomorrow. That night I couldn't sleep because the moonlight was so bright and the goodnight that was ringing in the Van Fleet rose the window sang straight through. Just like the night before I had Tilghman, I thought.

Tilghman couldn't be having a baby! I thought fiercely. Because it seemed only yesterday that I had her! She is such a baby herself. I told myself, she would never be able to go through it all. And my heart began to pound so hard that I was afraid the noise would wake up Rutledge. I must be coming down with something. Maybe that dreadful Asian flu they were having up North. We must all get the shots, I decided, at once.

Tobacco Group Plans Establish Office In Europe

RALEIGH (AP)—Tobacco Associates plans to establish an office in Europe next April to assist in promoting overseas sales of United States flue-cured leaf. Directors of the agency voted Tuesday to go ahead with earlier plans toward setting up the European outlet around April 1. The office will assist in supervising market development projects, keep in touch with developments in the European Common Market and the other seven countries of Europe and confer with tobacco tradesmen. Tar heel flue-cured farmers voted last year to assess themselves between 10 cents to $1 an acre to finance the European office. In other developments, Tobacco Associates directors recommended that growers use only recommended chemicals on their crop and continue producing a mixture of varieties to meet the needs of the trade. The group also voted to join with other farm groups in urging federal laws stabilizing tobacco support prices. Roughly one-half of the world's cargo vessels are controlled by Greek shipowners.

Water Is Required For Most State Progress

By LYNN NISBET
 RALEIGH — Col. John W. Homewood of Greensboro, chairman of the "Keep North Carolina Beautiful Committee," has broadened the objectives of his group far beyond the "Anti-litterbug Campaign," which was its lineal ancestor. The primary purpose of keeping highways clean of debris, and making roadsides attractive, remains a major item in the total program.

There is cooperation between the Travel Council of North Carolina, which sponsored the Anti-litterbug and KNCB programs, and the forestry people who sponsor the roadside signs urging citizens to Keep North Carolina Green and to Prevent Forest Fires.

Col. Homewood points out in a memorandum prepared for the Guilford County Farm Bureau, another co-operating agency, that water is a sine quo non requisite for success of all these programs. He observes that streams originate on land, mostly farm land, whether from ground springs or rainfall and snow.

He admits surprise to find that agriculture was not once mentioned in the 1959 Water Resources Act enacted by the General Assembly, and the word "Farmer" does not appear, although municipalities are mentioned 21 times. No farm representative is required on any of the advisory committees. No safeguards are provided for the farmer who spends time and money for irrigation facilities on his farm.

He proposes amendments to the Water Resources Act to afford more recognition of the landowners vested rights in water, more emphasis on conservation of water at its source. Proper attention to this phase of the overall problem will go a long way toward solving the problems of downstream users. Tailored banks of streams.

State 4-H Recognition Day To Be Held Saturday

The State Negro 4-H Recognition Day Program will be held in Greensboro Saturday.

Forty-four 4-H girls and boys from among 52 counties will be recognized during the program.

The meeting is designed to give recognition to the boys and girls who have done exceptionally outstanding work in their projects at the state level. They are winners from their local club, county and district.

Pitt County has five 4-H girls and boys receiving honors or recognition as state winners.

Dorothy Mae Mobley of Stokes, (above) a graduate of Bethel Union High School, will receive her second State Recognition Award.

Union High School, and now a Freshman attending N. C. State College, Durham, will receive her fourth State Recognition. This year's award is for "Health."

Iris Jean Patrick, a Graduate of Robinson Union High School, Winterville, has completed a year of study at A. and T. College, Greensboro, and will receive her first State Recognition. This year's award is for a "Clothing Project."

William Council Senior at Bethel Union High School, will receive his second State Recognition. This year's award is for "Boys Achievement."

William Smith, a graduate of Bethel Union High School, will receive his fourth State Recognition. This year's award is for "Boy's Agriculture."

Crosby Brothers Will Resume Act

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The four Crosby brothers will put their singing act together again in January, says Lindsay Crosby.

Bing's sons broke up their act in Montreal last week and canceled an engagement tonight at Palm Springs. Lindsay denied they were feuding. He conceded they had a "beef in Canada, but nothing serious."

He said the reason for tonight's cancellation is that Gary, oldest of the four, has a throat ailment. The brothers plan to open in Miami Beach, Fla., in January, in the Theatrical Agency in Miami.

Unable To Leave Accident Victim

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP)—Abbie Lelah Howland is beginning her ninth speechless and bedfast year, nursed by the conscience-stricken driver of the auto in which she was riding when she suffered permanent injury.

Abbie, now 39, was with Doris Wilson, her best friend and a co-worker at the San Joaquin County General Hospital, when their car collided with another Dec. 4, 1951.

The law said the accident was not nurse Wilson's fault, but she never forgave herself.

Tears fill her eyes when she recalls the accident. She lost a knee cap.

Abbie suffered a brain injury and fractures of an elbow, a foot and both hands. She remained in a critical condition, completely comatose and immobile for three months. Her condition was so poor her broken hands were never set.

She finally opened her blue eyes and began to move her limbs a little.

Mildred Coyle, day nurse supervisor, said: "After Doris' knee got well and she came back to work, she began spending two to five hours a day of her off-duty time with Abbie. Abbie has been her whole life."

Dr. Duane D. Deakins, medical director of the hospital, holds little hope for Abbie's further improvement.

In answer to simple questions, Abbie will smile yes or shake her head no.

Doris said Abbie's airman son Ralph, 19, visited his mother four months ago before going on assignment to Guam. The nurse said Abbie put up her arms and hugged him. "I just know she remembered him," Doris added.

Doris did not know where Abbie's husband is now.

Season Is Here For A Rally In Stock Prices

By SAM DAWSON
 NEW YORK (AP)—The time is near for the year-end rally in stock prices—if this December follows the tradition.

The upswing usually follows the end of the period of selling to establish losses for tax purposes, which depressed stock prices. That should be over soon, if it isn't already.

The optimistic are looking for the rally this year for several reasons.

Chief is the reviving of confidence after the gloomy last weeks of the steel work stoppage. Almost without exception the predictions now pouring forth in volume call for booming months of industrial activity ahead.

There is growing belief that labor problems can and will be solved. Steel's fast rebound is a big pepper-ump. The mills expect this week to see the greatest output of tonnage in their history.

One result of that is that the auto companies are calling their workers back. Most auto payrolls are expected to be well fattened out in time for Christmas shopping.

That, in turn, is one of the reasons that merchants as a whole look for the biggest Christmas trade ever.

JUNE IN NOVEMBER

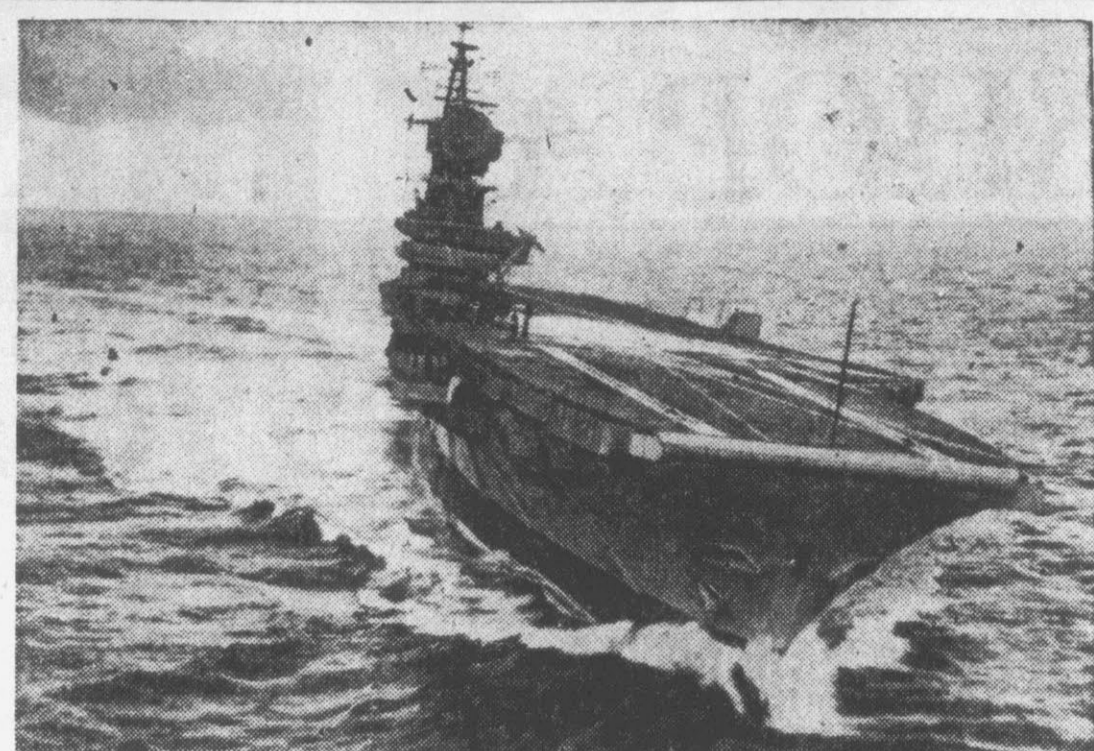

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—E. Linwood Sutherland has a green thumb and five yellow apples to prove it. He picked the apples in November from a tree which bears apples in June and isn't supposed to bear again for 12 months.

The Census Bureau counted 1,123 private detective agencies in the United States in 1958.

The auto companies also are planning their greatest rate of production for the first months of 1960. If sales live up to expectations—helped along by the trend of Americans more and more toward installment buying—general prosperity seems certain for the winter and spring.

Other such pressures are the increasing wage scales in labor contracts already signed, the expectations of more to come. Through all this year's optimism, however, runs a threat of caution. Many brokerage houses are warning their customers that the industrial rebound from the steel strike could be of short life. And the threat that the strike could be resumed would knock the props from under too much confidence.

NEW BRITISH WARSHIP—The 22,000-ton aircraft carrier Hermes turns into the English Channel during full power trials before being handed over to the British Royal Navy. The powerful ship later was commissioned at Portsmouth, England.

Local SPEBSQSA Chapter Receives License At Meet

RECEIVE LICENSE . . . Local SPEBSQSA officers accept "license to operate." They are (left to right) Treas. Leslie Garner, Asst. Director Bill Lloyd, Pres. Frank Hill, and Sec. Bill Ellington. Director Donald Hayes was not present when the photo was made.

The official "license to operate" for the Pitt County Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc., was presented to the chapter's officers and members Tuesday night at the groups weekly meeting in Whichard Hall on the East Carolina College Campus.

Chapter Secretary, Bill Ellington, extended "a warm invitation to all men who love to sing to attend the weekly meetings of SPEBSQSA" at 8 p.m. in Whichard Hall.

Their Drive Is Rabbiting Along

According to Chapter President, Frank Hill, the group will operate under the license for about one year before formally applying for a national charter. He added, however, that the Pitt chapter will benefit from "practically all the privileges" accorded an officially chartered chapter.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The Junior Chamber of Commerce drive for new members is rabbiting along in high gear. Here's the gimmick: A rabbit, which will become many rabbits soon, was given to Richard E. Glenn, chapter president. When he got a new member he passed the rabbit along to another member who must hold it until he gets a new member. The member who doesn't get a new member—and quickly—can go into the rabbit business.

Big Problem In TV Eisenhower Tour

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP-TV Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In Rome, the rain poured steadily, fogging the cameras' lenses, washing out yards of film, reducing crowd sizes and putting President Eisenhower — most of the time — inside a closed limousine from which only a waving hand showed.

viewing as the trip of the unpredictable Soviet.

As William McAndrews, NBC vice president of news and public affairs, said, "You shoot what you can shoot — the crowds and the people, because the hard diplomatic news just isn't there."

These are typical of the problems over which television news men are losing sleep during the 11-country goodwill tour of our President.

Both NBC and CBS scheduled in advance a number of special 30-minute shows on Ike's progress and these are the ones that are giving the networks their headaches.

The regular news shows are able to handle the story with more journalistic flexibility.

Of the three networks, ABC — which has only gone slightly overboard on trip coverage — is in the most enviable position.

The Eisenhower tour, unfortunately for the TV men, is turning out to be more like Queen Elizabeth's state visit to the United States than like Khrushchev's. So far, the news shots have been like waving from the back of a limousine, wreath-laying, inspecting lines of soldiers, watching local pageants and shaking assorted hands. It has been formal, scheduled and, frankly, not as exciting

Pitt County Tobacco Agent The word change is being used in many phases of our economy today. Its use is not limited to industry but is being used when discussing agriculture and agricultural products. Both the tobacco farmer and manufacturer are faced with the problems of making changes.

The foreign competition, homogenization of tobacco stems, filter cigarettes and health scare campaigns all are problems that the tobacco farmers face.

One of our important competitors for the foreign market is the tobacco farmers in Rhodesia. In 1958 Rhodesia exported 90 per cent of its 194,000,000 pound production of flue-cured leaf. At the present time the quality and yield of the Rhodesian tobacco are lower than the tobacco produced in the United States.

The Rhodesian farmer also has an advantage in some of the world markets. The United Kingdom provides British Commonwealth tobaccos.

There are several production practices that can be used that would help many farmers to reduce the cost of production. Our tobacco experiment station is constantly conducting research work that will show us how we can grow a more profitable crop.

Bloxam Happy In His Work, Proud Of City Utilities

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

"Dealing with the public, coming in contact with people and helping them resolve their problems is what I like most," says Greenville's City Manager Leonard P. Bloxam.

"People are most interesting. Some are coniving and try to get something for nothing while the majority have genuine problems," Bloxam stated.

As City Manager, Bloxam is the administrative head of the city with the responsibility to see that all policies adopted by the governing body are carried out. In addition to the City Manager post, Bloxam is Superintendent of Utilities of Greenville. This, Bloxam said, is his "first love."

Here again he enjoys working with the people of Greenville, and receives satisfactions from knowing you have done a good day's work and accomplished something." Bloxam's day starts early, about 6:30 or 7 a. m. One of the first acts on the daily agenda is to make a trip to the utilities plant to check on any problems that might have developed during the night.

With four telephone lines running to his office, much of his business is carried on by phone. Business is rushing when the four lines are "all ringing at the same time" which has happened, Bloxam said.

A native of Salisbury, Bloxam was graduated from State College and held jobs with the Duke Power Company and Carolina Power and Light Company. Bloxam came here in 1954 as Superintendent of Utilities from Bennettsville, South Carolina where he was Superintendent of Utilities for four years. Bloxam accepted the added post of City Manager in February, 1956.

Commenting on Greenville's utilities, Bloxam said the local utilities are "the best operated utilities in the state and have been that way for years. Load-wise the local utilities rank fourth in the state with city owned utilities but have the largest service area of any city-owned plant."

"Planning to stay ahead of the city's growth is the biggest problem," according to Bloxam. You almost have to be a "crystal ball gazer" because "we have to plan 15 to 20 years ahead."

In addition to his "daily duties" Bloxam attends an average of three night meetings per week which deal directly or indirectly with the management of the city's affairs.

Bloxam's hobbies include work, radio, photography and fishing." Radio plays an important part in the management of Greenville. Bloxam has five radios, on different channels, in his car in order to keep in contact with vital departments in the city and other important units in the state.

In addition to his hobbies and his work, Bloxam represents North Carolina municipalities on the North Carolina Utilities Coordinating Committee, is vice-chairman of the North Carolina Section of the American Water Works Association and the Federation of Industrial and Sewage Waste Association, and Chairman of the Pitt County Development Commission. He is also a member of the board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce and the Committee of 100 and holds membership in many other state and national professional organizations.

Terming Greenville the "Best city in the world", Bloxam concluded by saying the people here are the "most gracious and most considerate people he has ever worked with."

Biological Find For Researchers

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP)—Marine biologists believe a tiny, shrimp-like creature they call Tigriopus may come to rival white rats in usefulness for scientific research.

They have already found, by selective breeding, that Tigriopus can be made to produce 100 per cent all male or all female offspring.

The creature, no larger than the head of a pin, has been found to have the necessary adaptability to change for experimental purposes—something lacking in other forms of marine life.

Thus far the research on Tigriopus has been largely confined at The University of California's Scripps Institution of Oceanography to reproduction in the laboratory and a study of its distribution and life history. It is found in tidal pools around most of the world's oceans.

Tar Heels Swimmers Gain 48-47 Verdict

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Sports Editor

A packed house gathered at Memorial Pool last night to see Atlantic Coast Conference champion, the U. of North Carolina, shade NIAA champion, East Carolina, 48-47, in a swim meet. It was the first meet of the season for both teams.

East Carolina was at a disadvantage all night due to their lack of depth but the swimmers of Coach Ray Martinez still came within a hair of handing the Tar Heels their second setback in the last four years.

The Pirates were not too keen in individual honors but copped both relays to stack up 14 big points. Jack McCann copped a first place in the 200-yard breaststroke and Bob Kingrey, a newcomer, took a first place in the diving.

After falling behind on the first relay, Carolina pulled ahead on the third event—the 50 yard freestyle—and stayed in front the rest of the way.

Harry Bloom, outstanding freestyler, plunked individual honors during the night as four new pool records were established.

The Carolina junior set several records last season and opened his attack on record books in tip-top fashion last night, taking a first place in the 50-yard freestyle, 100 yard freestyle, and the 440-yard freestyle.

His time of 23.7 in the 50-yard freestyle set a new pool record, bettering the 23.5 record of Dave McIntyre of N.C. State in 1956.

Bloom swam the 100-yard freestyle in 52.8 to eclipse the mark of 53.2 set by Jake Smith of East Carolina and Jim Woods of the U. of Miami in 1959.

Bob Briggs set a new record in the 200 yard individual medley—an event that has just been re-added to the agenda. Briggs turned in a time of 2:23.4 to erase the old mark of Bob Sawyer's 2:31.7 which was established in 1956.

Bob Kingrey became the only East Carolina performer to gain a pool record as the former Marine diving champion accumulated 274.55 points in the diving event to win in a walk. His total points exceeded those of former NAI diving champion, Ken Midyette. Glenn Dyer also broke the old mark and finished in second place.

Bob Bilbro, a Greenville native, was a member of the Carolina squad and copped a couple of important third place points for the Tar Heels.

"It was a real good meet," related Buc coach Ray Martinez this morning. "We came as close as we could and the boys did their best. We are not disappointed and the boys should be proud of their performance. Carolina looked about as strong as last season and some of their boys turned in surprising times." Martinez cited Vince Simonton as one of the strongest improvements on the Tar Heel squad.

Queried about his squad, Martinez pointed out diving as being "exceptional." Others gaining special attention were Tommy Tucker, Jake Smith, Jack McCann, and freshman, Butch Edwards.

East Carolina will have their second meet Saturday afternoon when it plays host to the V.M.I. Southern Conference champions.

Summary:
440-yard Medley Relay—1. ECC—Jeff Faucette, Jack McCann, Tommy Tucker, and Jake Smith, T—4:11.6
220-yard Freestyle—Simonton

Diving—Kingrey (EC), Dyer (EC) and Birkenstock (NC).

Pirates Prep For Unbeaten Bears

East Carolina, out of action for over a week now, will return to conference warfare Saturday night and the Buc of Coach Earl Smith will have their hands full when they entertain the undefeated Bears of Lenoir Rhyne.

The Pirates, a club that is expected to become one of the stronger quintets as the season progresses, have been working steadily since their 69-60 loss to High Point and appear to be geared for their encounter with the defending NIAA district champions.

The Bears roll into town undefeated and ranked as a pre-season favorite along side High Point and Appalachian. Ken Normal and Joe Ladd are a couple of returnees expected to carry the scoring burden for the shooters of Coach Billy Walls.

Smith indicates that there will be little change in his lineup which tallied 109 points against Guilford and then dropped a nine point decision to High Point.

Captain Ike Riddick, averaging 25 points in the first two games, will man a guard post along with Sonny Baker, a junior college transfer. Cotton Clayton and Don Smith will open at the forwards and either Dave Starrett or Lacy West will be in the pivot slot.

Since their last contest last Tuesday night, East Carolina has held a scrimmage game against Newport News, easily swamping the Apprentice School.

East Carolina's junior varsity, coached by Wendell Carr, will open the Saturday agenda with a game against Frederick Junior College. The "Baby Bucs" are undefeated in four contests thus far. Tip-off is slated at 6:15 with the varsity game expected to start at 8:00.

Rose High Battles Tough Wilson Club Here Tonight

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Greenville will be trying to recover from their opening-season defeat tonight when it goes up against the Cyclones of Wilson High in their second home game of the season.

Rose High opened the cage season last Tuesday night against Rocky Mount and sported an entirely new lineup from the one that ripped its way to conference laurels during the campaign of 1958-59.

The Phants opened on the short end of a 65-50 score but showed spurts of a dangerous offensive attack in their losing cause.

Coach Bo Farley is having to sacrifice height for speed this season with only one man, Layne Jorgensen, able to compete in the rebounding department. This is Jorgensen's first season as a regular but he could become a big man in the Phants' bid for a Northeastern title.

The rest of the Greenville lineup is composed of Erskine Duff, Charles Taft, Alan McArthur, and Billy James. None of the four measures over six feet but all have a good shooting eye and speed.

Kroghe Andresen may be the "sleeper" for Farley this season. A reserve, the flashy guard came on to score 18 points and lead Greenville Tuesday night.

The veteran coach is hoping that his 1959-60 club will follow the pattern of last season's title winners—a slow start and strong finish.

This season than in past years. "We know we can't end up any worse this season," relates Marklin in referring to last season's eighth place finish in the Eastern 4-A Conference. Wilson only posted a couple of victories but had the loop's number one scorer in guard Frankie Elliott who averaged 20 points per game.

Wilson dropped a decision to Roanoke Rapids earlier this week to rate tonight's game as a toss-up. The visitors might have a slight advantage in height.

A junior varsity game at 6:30 will precede the varsity encounter which is on tap for 8:00.

Greenville Wilson
McArthur (5-9) F Morgan (6-1) Taft (5-11) F Hanchrow (6-1) Jorgensen (6-4) C Lamm (6-3) James (5-10) G Elliott (5-9) Duff (5-10) G Fridgen (5-11)

Final Showing Gives Atkins A Couple Of Titles

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A big final spurge against the University of Mexico carried Peris Atkins of New Mexico State to two major college individual football championships—scoring and rushing.

The junior halfback rolled up four touchdowns and 237 yards in a 55-0 rout of a poor Mexican team and wound up the season with 107 points and 971 yards.

Atkins, a transfer from Santa Ana Junior College, also scored the most touchdowns (17) and had the highest rushing average per game (97.1 yards), according to final NCAA Service Bureau statistics released today.

Atkins' rushing mark was the lowest winning total in 15 years, however, and it's the first time in 21 years the rushing leader failed to average at least 100 yards a game.

In scoring, three tied for the runner up post with 100 points apiece. They were Skip Face of Stanford, Nolan Jones of Arizona State and Ger Schweds of Syracuse's national champion Orange.

Tom Watkins and Dwight Nichols, Iowa State's one-two punch, finished second and third respectively in rushing. Watkins romped for 845 yards while Nichols rolled up 746.

Dick Bass, last year's triple winner (total offense, rushing, scoring) for College of Pacific, was fourth in rushing (742) and 27th in scoring this season. New Mexico's Bill Brown was fifth in rushing with 740, but his average of 7.79 yards a carry was tops.

Atkins was second with 7.47. Oklahoma's Prentice Gault gained the most yardage without a single loss—397 in 109 carries.

Yankees Seek Aid From Athletics

By FRANK CRAWFORD
Associated Press Sports Writer
KANSAAS CITY, Mo., (AP)—It looks as if the Kansas City Athletics and the New York Yankees are about to do business again with Roger Maris moving his locker to Yankee Stadium.

The popular lefthanded outfielder is coveted by Manager Casey Stengel of the Yanks.

The Yankees and the A's didn't announce any barter agreement at the major league meeting just ended but the signs are unmistakable. Casey is lamenting the fact that no one in either league will offer enough for some Yank veterans. He wants a lefthanded pitcher, he says, as well as a lefthanded hitting outfielder.

"We didn't make a deal," Casey told newsmen Wednesday. "But we certainly tried. We talked with every club in the two leagues. We made some pretty good offers but you should have seen the players the other clubs wanted to give us in return."

The state of affairs isn't new to Casey and his employers. They haven't made a trade with any major league club except the Kansas City A's since September, 1957.

Ernest Mehl, sports editor of the Kansas City Star, who was at the winter meetings, reported both the Yanks and the A's had been probing other sources of supply. The Yanks haven't found anything. The A's had only limited success in deals with Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and Boston.

In their latest swap Wednesday, the Athletics sent veteran catcher-infielder Hal Smith to Pittsburgh for two minor leaguers, pitcher Dick Hall and shortstop Ken Hamlin.

"It is entirely possible that the Yanks are prepared to make the A's a strong bid for Maris, who would fit in ideally with their plans of regaining prestige next year," Mehl wrote.

Mehl speculated that the Yanks would trade pitcher Don Larsen and outfielders Hank Bauer and Norm Siebern for Maris.

Mehl's predictions have been almost 100 per cent accurate in the trading department. He reported Stengel as saying the A's and Yanks, having exhausted all other channels, may turn to each other for a big swap.

Reserved Seats

East Carolina Athletic officials reported this morning that 109 reserved seats have been set aside for Saturday night's East Carolina-Lenoir Rhyne basketball game.

Last week in East Carolina's opener, there was no standing room available and this prompted the move to reserve seats in order to help accommodate local fans.

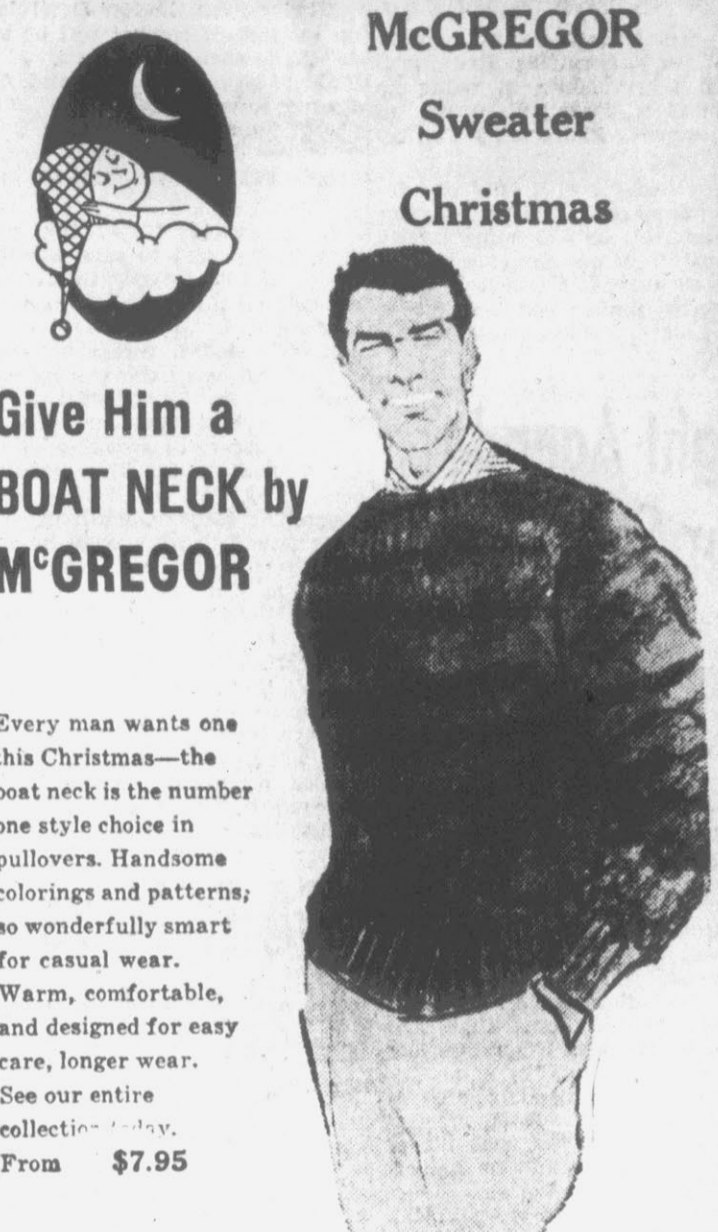

Anyone interested in obtaining tickets for the Saturday night game should contact the ECC Athletic Office immediately.

One Veteran Back As Red Devils Prep For Cage Wars

"Inexperience is our main problem," says Farmville Red Devil coach Elbert Moye, in sizing up Farmville's basketball future in this season's Pitt County Conference play.

Coach Moye, with only one returning starter from last season's quintet, will be depending largely upon J. Y. Monk, the lone returnee, and a host of relatively inexperienced juniors and sophomores, which are predominant in his squad.

Light Agenda For Southern

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — A light agenda apparently faced committees of the Southern Conference as members gathered here today to prepare work for Friday's annual conference meeting.

In addition to whatever the committees come up with, The Citadel has up for action a proposal to eliminate conference mileage payments for minor sports tournaments and meets.

Attention at the meeting probably will center on the new commissioner, Lloyd Jordan, former head football coach at Harvard. Jordan, elected some time ago, succeeds retiring Commissioner Wallace Wade Jan. 1.

Awards to outstanding athletes of the conference will be presented tonight at the annual dinner meeting of the Southern Conference Sports Writers Assn.

The 9 a.m. call to order Friday for the formal meeting will find faculty athletic representatives, athletic directors and coaches on hand.

The Citadel's proposal, to be voted on, would eliminate a 5 cents a mile travel allowance for each athlete sent by a member school to conference tournaments or meets in swimming, tennis, track, cross-country, wrestling, golf and rifle shooting.

Approval would eliminate a burden on the conference treasury.

Member schools are The Citadel, Furman, West Virginia, William & Mary, George Washington, VPI, VMI, Richmond and Davidson.

Missing from the Red Devil lineup for 1959-60 combat will be two All-Conference performers, J. S. Flake, All-County center and All-County forward Gene Grey. Also absent from the 1959-60 Red Devil is Walter Jones, a former Farmville stalwart now attending prep school.

According to Moye, the performers expected to carry the scoring load for Farmville along with J. Y. Monk, the Red Devil mainstay.

Coach Moye, in speaking of his squad's future for this season's play, states, "We will be slow moving until after Christmas, but after then, I think we will be able to play on a par with the other teams in the conference." Moye further comments, "We have plenty of height, but we lack physical strength and experience. I don't think we will be in contention for the conference crown."

Coach Robert Bruce's Farmville girls will also be fielding a host of untried performers, according to their coach. Bruce cites that his squad has only three returning Harold Sargent of Atlanta was re-elected to a third one-year term as president. Delegates also re-elected Lou Strong of Chicago, secretary and Warren Cantrell of Lubbock, Tex., treasurer.

Tom Mahan Sr., Beverly, Mass., Jack Mitchell, West Orange, N. J. and Don E. Fischesser, Evansville, Ind., were elected to three-year terms as vice presidents.

Terps Edge Virginia Behind Big Al Bunge

Big Al Bunge, who packs 225 pounds on his 6-foot-8 frame, has Maryland's Terps off winging in their Atlantic Coast Conference basketball schedule.

It was the senior center's 34 points, coupled with 11 rebounds, that helped Maryland down Virginia's Cavaliers 70-62 at College Park, Md., Wednesday night. It also was Virginia's first conference test.

The victory gives Maryland a 2-0 overall record, and Bunge has counted 54 points in those games. Last season he managed only 255 over a 23-game schedule.

Virginia stayed abreast the Terps in the first half, and the score was 41-41 with 13 minutes to play. However, a three-point play by Bunge put Maryland in front to stay.

The loss was Virginia's second in three games. A 5-foot-11 sophomore, Anthony Lazquiniano, led Virginia's scoring, pushing through 18 points. Paul Adkins, a senior, contributed 17.

Maryland's superior rebounding, with 6-foot-7 Bob McDonald leading the way with 14, was a telling factor. The Terps topped Virginia on the boards 45-22.

The Virginia-Maryland contest was the only action last night involving ACC teams.

Mississippi State Finds Loss Of Howell Too Much

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

No more All America Bailey Howell and no more winning streak for Mississippi State in major college basketball.

With Howell, the 6-7 scoring ace who led the way to a Southeastern Conference crown, now graduated and playing pro ball, State's unbeaten string ended at 18 games with a 71-62 upset by little Louisiana Tech Wednesday night.

A tight zone defense and a hot, 43-point second half did it for Louisiana Tech, which had a three-way scoring punch in Ray Germany, with 17 points, and Jackie Morland and Joe Daigle, each with 16.

It was only the second defeat in 34 games, stretching back to the 1957-58 campaign, for the Maroons, who had a 24-1 record last season but passed up the NCAA tournament because of racial issues. State won its last 15 games last season and breezed through its first three games this season.

Mississippi State wasn't the only team jolted with a first defeat Wednesday night, however. Once-beaten New Mexico State, trailing by 10 at halftime, spilled Colorado (3-1) from the unbeaten list 77-69 with 6-7 George Knighton scoring 20 points. And little Hofstra spoiled things for Army 58-56 on Stan Eibender's driving layup at the final buzzer.

Among unbeaten who stayed that way, Dayton whipped Miami (Ohio) 61-45, Oklahoma defeated Texas Tech 56-43, touring Miami of Florida rapped Houston 72-63 and Maryland beat Virginia 70-62 in an Atlantic Coast Conference game. The East's top-flight four also rolled with NYU whipping Rutgers 82-56, Dartmouth defeating Rhode Island 74-65, St. Joseph's (Pa.) smacking Gettysburg 75-54 and Providence beating Brown 84-53.

Once-beaten Notre Dame defeated Northwestern 93-88 in double-overtime on the Wildcat's court. Three baskets by John Tul-

'Let Chips Fall' In Escape Probe

RALEIGH (AP)—A top prison department official has been ordered to "pull no punches" in his investigation of Tuesday's mass escape from the state's Ivy Bluff unit for incorrigibles.

Prison Director W. F. Bailey said he told Field Assistant W. M. Lilly "to let the chips fall where they may. He said Lilly is a competent investigator.

Bailey, who said Wednesday he has been thinking of requesting more guards for some time, plans to take his recommendations to the 1161 General Assembly.

The department employs about 1,000 guards at its 86 field units. They work in shifts of 60 hours to 72 hours a week.

After a spot investigation of the fantastic prison break Tuesday, Bailey fired three guards, two for negligence and one for admitting a newsman to the prison.

Whether any more will be fired or transferred, Bailey said, depends on Lilly's investigation.

The escape, quarterbacked by Charles W. (Yank) Stewart, Wilmington desperado who recently engineered a two-man break from Raleigh's stern Central Prison, went off like clockwork.

By the time it was over, the ringleaders controlled the prison, once believed to be escape-proof. All the on-duty guards were locked up and the gates were opened. Fifteen of the camp's 35 inmates declined to leak.

The escapees had to get through six doors to leave the prison. No single guard carried a complete set of keys. These were obtained as more and more guards were captured by the fugitives.

Still She Wants An Itemized Bill

LOS ANGELES (AP)—If the Pacific Telephone Co. had itemized its monthly bill, Julia Nye could have saved $100, she told the Public Utilities Commission Wednesday.

One of several witnesses protesting phone company billing procedures, Mrs. Nye said her daughter had been placing toll calls on the sly to a suitor of whom she disapproved.

"The utility refused to render itemized bills," she complained, "and I went on paying the phone bills but protesting every one of them."

Finally, she said, the company monitored her line and told her the calls were made by her daughter. The calls ceased forthwith. Mrs. Nye was asked for her daughter's name.

"Goodness, is this necessary? She married the guy. She is very happy."

Gov. Jarvis Adopted Greenville As Home

(Editor's note: This is the first of a series of articles telling the background on a number of historical markers in Pitt County.)
By HENRY HOWARD
Reflector Staff Writer

Rated by man as one of North Carolina's more outstanding governors, Thomas Jordan Jarvis is Pitt County's only contribution to a string of 91 men spanning the years since 1585 that have occupied the state's gubernatorial office.

Jarvis was not actually a native son, but rather adopted Pitt County and Greenville as his home during the latter half of his life. He was a descendant of Thomas Garvis, deputy governor of Albemarle in 1691.

Today, the Jarvisburg (Currituck County) native is remembered for his active interest in his state's public education system, mental hospitals, racial difficulties, and transportation.

He set the precedent for succeeding governors of the party leadership responsibility of the state's top officer. North Carolina industrial development was of prime concern to Jarvis.

A memorial marker, erected in 1948 by the state Archives, Conservation and Highway Department, stands on the southwest corner of Greene and W. Second Streets in Greenville indicating the Jarvis residence and burial locations.

The lawyer-politician came to Greenville in 1872 after receiving a master's degree from Randolph Macon College in Virginia in 1861, serving as a captain in the Civil War, and engaging in elective politics on the state level for four years.

Jarvis had been a representative to the "Andrew Johnson" state constitutional convention of 1865. He was licensed to practice law, following five years of self-instruction in legal matters, in 1866.

In 1868, he was a Seymour-Blair candidate for state elector, as well as a state legislature candidate. The school-teacher-turned-politician elected to the legislature in the lower house and was Constitutional Convention of that year. Observers and colleagues noted that Jarvis "exerted great influence on its work."

A year later, the adopted Pitt Countyman was elected Lieutenant Governor on the ticket with Zeb Vance. He served efficiently in that capacity until Feb. 5, 1879, when Vance was elected to the United States Senate. Jarvis immediately took office as the state's governor.

Jarvis' governorship lasted six years as he was elected to a full term in 1880 after serving the two years left him by Vance's senatorial election.

Exercising intense interest in the "fate of the unfortunate," Gov. Jarvis fostered the building of state mental hospitals at Goldsboro and Morganton — one for Negroes and one for Whites.

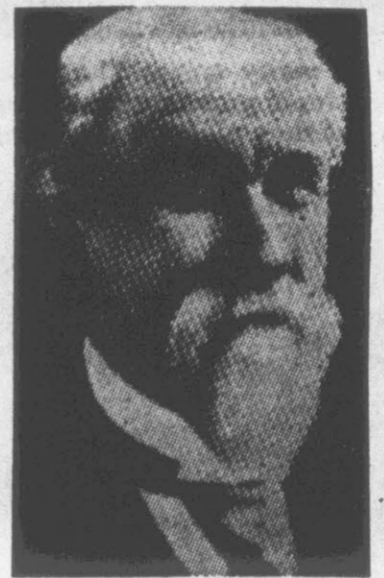

Jarvis was disturbed at the racial tension existing in the state and sought to lessen these often rabid antagonisms.

The Pitt resident began executive leadership in North Carolina by assuming responsibility as chief of the Democratic party while governor. Setting himself in this unprecedented position, Jarvis sought, and successfully, to direct the work of the legislature during his tenure.

Fond of all types of material improvements for the state, Jarvis began construction of the present governor's mansion in Raleigh during his six years at the North Carolina helm.

Beth T. Crabtree's "North Carolina Governors" describes Pitt's gubernatorial contribution as: "An unassuming man, lacking in pretension but essentially human, Jarvis was regarded as a capable and honest, if not brilliant, statesman."

At the age of 79, Jarvis died in Greenville June 17, 1915 and was buried in Cherry Hill Cemetery here.

New Labor Law Forms Go Slow

RALEIGH — Union report forms required under the new labor law are not going exactly like hot cakes, even though there's less than two weeks to the deadline.

This was the observation of Julian E. Parker, departmental field officer of the U. S. Labor Department office here which is handling inquiries concerning the Labor Department office here which is handling inquiries concerning the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act.

The report forms, made available over two weeks ago, are to be used by unions in making official reports required by December 14. The law requires that every local union supply certain information about membership, assessments, benefit plans, selection of officers and certain other information.

Parker said the report forms available at his office, contain full instructions for use as well as appropriate number of copies for filing. Parker's office is located in the Labor Building, Salisbury and Edmonson Streets, Raleigh.

re-elected for another term in 1870. That year his fellow lawmakers chose him Speaker of the House.

In that position, Jarvis attracted attention of the state's political masterminds by leading the House in the reform legislature that all but ended Carpetbagger rule in North Carolina.

While Speaker, the tall politician showed himself to be as constructive and restrained as he had been bold during his first years as a state lawmaker. Democratic leaders perked up their ears.

No longer hindered badly by a useless right arm that came from a severe wound at the Civil War battle of Drewry's Bluff, Jarvis moved into Greenville, set up a law practice here, and ran for elector on the Greeley — Brown ticket.

In 1875, the Greenville resident, along with W.M. King, was elected to represent Pitt County in the Original One-Act Plays Set Tonight

Original one-act plays by Lucy Cobb of Raleigh and James Ferrrell of Lucama, East Carolina College alumnus, will be presented tonight by the East Carolina Playhouse. The performance of the two plays by North Carolina authors is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Band Room of Whichard Music Hall and will be open to the public.

Cobb treats an incident in the life of Governor Eden's stepdaughter, who found herself the object of unwelcome attentions by Edward Teach (Blackbeard). "Penelope" has a surprise ending of the hair-raising Grande Guignol variety.

"October Wife" by James Ferrrell is a slice-of-life tragic-comedy with an unusual setting and a mordant theme. The author writes in the Tennessee Williams tradition.

Ferrrell, whose home is in Lucama and who is now teaching in the Farmville public schools, was for two years editor of the college newspaper the "East Carolinian." His "October Wife" was published last year in the campus literary magazine the "Rebel" and is the second of his plays to be staged by the East Carolina Playhouse.

The plays will be presented free of charge. Those who wish to contribute to the 1959 project of the East Carolina Playhouse, publication of a volume of one-act plays by East Carolina students and alumni may do so.

'Hardrock' Racing Against Age

By DON BOLDEN
Times-News Staff Writer
Written for The Associated Press

BURLINGTON (AP) — A man who has raced against time most of his life, now is racing against age—and he's far ahead.

Paul (Hardrock) Simpson passed his 55th birthday in September. How did he celebrate it? By running 55 miles.

Last year he ran 54 miles, and the year before, 53 miles, and so it has been since he was 47 years old.

Hardrock is Burlington's famed running postman, who, since age 15, has been churning out miles of running distance and taking on all comers, including horses, and beating them on sheer endurance.

It was in 1927 that Hardrock, on suggestion of the late Mayor Earl B. Horner of Burlington, entered a race from here to Morehead City in competition with a horse.

On Sept. 1 of that year, the horse, owned and ridden by Owen Faucette, left the starting mark here at 9 a.m.

The next night, the horse dropped out of the race, due to stiffness, three miles east of Goldsboro. And Hardrock? He was 25 miles out in front and still going strong.

His last big race was against another horse in the summer of 1958. The course covered 157 miles from Salt Lake City, Utah, to Roosevelt, Utah. This time the horse won by some two hours, but it dropped dead when it crossed the finish line. At that time, Hardrock was the only one of several men who had started still in the race.

These races were not out of the ordinary for Hardrock. They were "old stuff" to him, as the distances were much shorter than some of his earlier feats.

It was when he was 47 years old that he felt the need for something new in his colorful running career, so he added his annual birthday run. Each year since then, he has run one mile for each year of his age on his birthday.

His best mark in this annual event came in 1958, when he covered 54.9 miles in nine hours.

Hardrock is a native of Burlington where he now lives and works as a postman. For the last 17½ years, he has carried a mail route which is 12 miles long. This work helps keep him in shape for his running.

A grandfather, he began his running as a boy, speeding back and forth to the store from his home, and when he entered the Army at age 15, he began to realize he had endurance beyond normal. In his spare time from Army duties, he trained by running with a boxer, and as he ran more and more, his interest in physical endurance increased.

It was in 1918 that his work began to pay off. Someone bet him he could not run 18 miles. Hardrock won the bet.

After he left the Army, he began training with more strictness as he returned to complete high school. He was a member of the Burlington High School track team, and upon graduation he entered nearby Elon College. He was captain of the cross-country team there his freshman year, and in the following years he added many laurels to his running record.

While he attended Elon College, he lived at his home in Burlington and commuted nine miles—running the distance every day.

In 1928 a cross country race was organized, with the course extending from Los Angeles to New York City. Hardrock was one of 199 runners to enter the super-marathon, and he covered the distance in 84 days, the 36th man to finish.

The next year, only 62 entered a race from New York to Los Angeles, a distance of 3,625 miles which Hardrock covered in 78 days, finishing in fifth place that time.

After running across the North American continent twice, Hardrock turned to other races. At the Toronto, Canada, Exposition in 1931, he and a racing companion formed a team which finished a 30-mile race in second place.

In 1933, still in Canada, Hardrock established two world records which still stand. He raced the clock a distance of 470 miles from Montreal to Quebec and back in nine days. In one stretch he covered 90 miles in 12 hours.

That same year he ran from Toronto to Hamilton, 45 miles, in five hours, seven minutes and 20 seconds.

In the years that followed, Hardrock continued to pile mile on mile to his running record, appearing at fairs, ball games, at festivals and celebrations all over the nation.

Merchants, newspapers, radio and television stations sponsor him in special promotional runs.

Baseball teams often seek him for promotions. Hardrock starts running with the first pitch, and he runs around the ball park until the final out is made. When games go into extra innings, he just keeps running and running.

Hardrock is still going strong, walking 12 miles a day on his mail route and running eight to 10 hours a week to keep in shape.

At an age when most men are beginning to slow down and favor their age, Hardrock can look back on a year in which he has run over 1,000 miles in events from the East Coast to Texas. And the year to come will not be too different. He has many events already lined up for 1960, and he says it appears he will be in training most of the year. This should make his 56th birthday run in September a snap.

On December 2, he ran for 10 hours in Anderson, S.C., in a special promotion. He worked all day the day before, drove to Anderson, ran 10 hours, and then returned to Burlington to carry his mail route the next day.

"We're beginning the rush season at the Post Office" he says, and he finds it hard to take much time off right now.

And the tremendous physical feats of this man have not gone unnoticed. On Sept. 29, Hardrock was featured as the central figure in Ripley's "Believe it or Not" cartoon.

Comedian Bob Hope Says Network Tried Bar Skit

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Did NBC have to use them to get the point over?

"In the skit," he said, "Kovacs finally pounds his gavel on the desk, picks up this watch and says: 'My Timex is still running'."

Hope said NBC "went to everybody on the show and tried to get the payola spot off. They put the pressure on the producer and everybody else to get it off. They went through the (sponsor's) agency—but the sponsor okayed it. They have backed down since."

Hal Kemp, an NBC program director, denied the network tried to delete the skit.

"It was just that there were more plugs than were good for the show," he said. "Our general policy always has been that if there are plugs unrelated to any comedy incident we want them out."

State Farms' Popularity Up In Russia Today

By DICK HANSON
Editor, Successful Farming Magazine
Written For The Associated Press
Soviet agricultural production today stems from two vines—the shrinking vine of the collective farm, and the growing vine of the state farm.
I visited both types in about equal numbers during my recent visit to the Soviet Union. There is a sharp difference in organization. Collective farms represent the pooled holdings of formerly independent peasant farmers. On a collective farm, the workers elect a manager to supervise the entire farm. Workers on the collective receive part of their pay in money and part in kind. Also, the collective farm worker receives what is called a household allotment.
The household allotment ranges from about a half acre to three acres. On this land the worker can grow vegetables, keep a cow or two, a sow, goat, anything he wants to raise. He can either feed his family with what he raises or he can sell his produce in the city at the farmer's market and keep the cash. There is still a little "capitalistic incentive" in Soviet agriculture.

It is estimated that the total number of collective farms has decreased from more than 250,000 at the beginning of 1950 to 80,000 or 70,000 today. The average sown area per collective increased accordingly. In 1956 it was about 4,500 acres. Today, the average collective is more than 3½ times its prewar size. The Soviets still appear to associate bigness with increased production.
The state farm system has expanded remarkably in the past few years. State farms differ from collectives in that they are owned by the state. The director of the farm is a state appointee. The workers receive regular wages and have no other source of income.
This, of course, would appear to be the reason why the state farm idea is the popular one today in official circles. It gives the government complete control over the entire agricultural organization.
State farms reportedly contained about 10 per cent of the total sown acreage in the Soviet Union in 1952. In 1957, they contained about 25 per cent of the sown acreage and had increased in number from 4,740 to almost 6,000. The average size of a state farm is about 60,000 acres.

Although there is a definite difference in the organizational set-up between the state and collective farms, the farms themselves look the same. Living conditions, by American standards, are pathetically low.
A three-room house will shelter four, five, or even six people. Plumbing frequently consists of merely a cold water faucet; more often there is none at all. Many of these houses have electricity which is used strictly for lighting since electrical appliances are high priced and hard to get.
Each farm, however, has a "palace of culture" or meeting house. Here the workers are presented lectures, movies, or radio programs—all government-controlled. This is the sum total of leisure time activity available to Soviet farm workers.
I found the people on both types of farms to be very friendly to ward Americans. However, it seemed to me that the people on the collective farms were a happier group. I couldn't help but wonder if this wasn't because collective farm workers have more reason to do a good job since the harder they work, the larger their payment in kind can be.

Talking with Soviet farm workers is an enlightening experience. On the average these people have only the haziest idea of what life in the United States is like. I doubt if many of them believed me when I tried to explain our agricultural system.
Farm workers, as well as city workers, seem to be aware that they are extremely short of consumer goods. They seem to know that if the armament race could be stopped, or at least slowed down, they would benefit by an increase in consumer goods.

Young Sprouts To Rise In '60?

By LYNN NISBET
RALEIGH — Will 1960 be the year for the uprising of "Young Sprouts" in State and National politics? Some astute observers think it might be, especially in Democratic party circles.
One of the elder statesmen, once a potent factor in State affairs but long since retired from public office, was talking about this trend the other day. He said it would be different from the upsurge of the "Young Turks" some two decades ago.
The Young Turks knew what they wanted—and got most of it. The 1960 Young Sprouts don't know what they want, only that they don't like what they've got. The issues are not as clearly drawn now.
But—he also reminded that the Young Turks of a generation ago (and a political generation is only 10 to 20 years) are now the Old Guard, and just as reluctant to

Wants Her Home — As Promised

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP)—The cop who married Martha Raye last year has gone to court in a case against her. He wants her $60,000 Nassau County Home.
Robert O'Shea said in State Supreme Court Wednesday that the comedienne promised it to him if he married her.
The 31-year-old former policeman from Westport, Conn., did marry her after abandoning his first wife and child to become Miss Raye's bodyguard.
After nine months of marriage, Miss Raye, 42, called it quits and said she was considering divorce. O'Shea subsequently brought a separation suit.
Decision was reserved in Wednesday's action.

The one-time unwanted stepchild of the forest industry—sawdust—has now become a useful product in millions of American homes.

Sawdust at one time was considered commercially valuable only as a fuel to power sawmills. More often than not, surplus sawdust has presented a disposal problem. But slowly this leftover of lumbering has been finding its way, in various disguises, into our homes.

Did you know, for instance, that the briquette, used so extensively for fuel, is nothing more than compressed sawdust? Producing plants, public buildings and power plants are utilizing sawdust in combination with other wood wastes to provide heat. Sawdust alone, it has been found, also can be used to fuel special home sawdust burners.

Ever use plastic wood? Its chief ingredient is sawdust. Graded sawdust is used as fiber for building products. Combined with resin, it makes a subflooring for linoleum, house sheathing and as core stock for furniture doors. It is used a filler for saturating felt, asphalt shingles and the like, and as low-grade pulp for container liners.

Stuccos and plasters in composition form contain sawdust. Clay products, such as porous clay bricks and tile, are produced by combining with a dry, finely-sifted sawdust during the baking process. Sawdust is used in gypsum compositions and cast products, as a fertilizing agent and as a substitute for sand, in special cases, in the making of concrete.

Forest industry researchers and enterprising tree farmers expect to find many more new uses for sawdust in the years ahead. Government reports show a sharp drop in private housing starts—that is, private homes on which construction has started. While part of this decrease no doubt is the result of the interruption of steel production, it is equally evident that tight money has played a vital role in holding down new construction.

Letters to this department made it evident that many persons are not quite sure what the term tight money means and, more important, how it got that way.

Tight money merely means that financial institutions are making less of their money available for mortgage loans. Without these mortgages, builders cannot proceed with construction at as fast a pace as they would like and as they feel is necessary to meet the demand.

The reasons for tight money are so many, so varied and so complex that an entire book could be written about it—and many have. But to attempt a brief explanatory version, tight money in the mortgage field is caused when lending institutions make it more difficult to obtain mortgages by being more "choosy" and by charging higher interest rates. A prime factor in this situation is the fact that many persons are drawing their money out of banks to invest in commitments where they can obtain higher interest than the banks give them. The banks thus have less money available for mortgages.

Aged Physician Severely Beaten

NEWTON, N.C. (AP)—Police sought today to piece together details of a severe beating administered to Dr. Fred Y. Long, 85-year-old Catawba physician, by an assailant who demanded money.

The elderly doctor, who still practices medicine, told police that a white man entered his office alone about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday and wanted money. Dr. Long said he started to comply, but the man began beating him with what appeared to be a "short baseball bat." Before he was battered unconscious, the doctor said he handed over $10, but the man continued to strike him. The physician, who notified police when he regained consciousness, suffered severe cuts on the head.

The elderly physician, who fills his own prescriptions, confines his practice to office patients.

Police said the man apparently escaped in an auto parked in front of the office occupied by two others. The car was found at Maiden.

Officers said a suspect was jailed in Newton, but they refused to identify him. No charges were placed.

Unlocked Door Awaiting Thief

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP)—The Rev. Frank N. Johnston, director of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, wrote an open letter Wednesday to the would-be thief who entered his study last Sunday and tried to break into his desk.

"You found the door open, and I would like you to know that the door will remain open day and night, that all may enter and worship and for guidance in personal problems.

"Had you come to me I would gladly have helped you," the letter said in part.

Loan Companies Facing Inquiry

RALEIGH (AP)—Two Elizabeth City loan companies and their parent firm will be investigated this month by Insurance Commissioner Charles Gold.

The probe was ordered by Superior Court Judge Chester Morris of Coinjock after a trial involving the Security Loan Corp. Also to be investigated are Fidelity Finance Corp. and the parent firm, the First Provident Co. Judge Morris asked state authorities to look into the operations of the firms after a case in which Melvin E. Barrington, a Negro man, was charged with passing a bad check.

Testimony indicated Barrington was charged $87 in interest on a $200 loan from the Security Loan Corp. This included $15 for insurance which, the judge said, Barrington never saw.

The judge said the fees "are shocking to the conscience."

They See In Ike An 'Incarnation'

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—One Indian family considers President Eisenhower an incarnation of Vishnu, a benevolent god sharing worship in the Hindu trinity with Brahma, the creator, and Shiva, the destroyer.

A 70-year-old grandmother named Kanthi gave her reasons from her seat in a bullock cart:

1. Eisenhower, like Vishnu, has the might to destroy the world by a mere wish, but keeps it in check as a final defense against evil.

2. Like Vishnu he is a great benefactor—"Did he not send us wheat when we needed it and build us dams?"

Kanthi's daughter, Shanthu, added: "Does not this avatar (incarnation) also smile like Vishnu—a divine, radiant smile?"

"The emperor of America is like our own Emperor Asoka," said Radha Piyari, 50, "preaching the same message of love, peace, nonviolence and truth."

Asoka renounced war at the peak of his glory in the 3rd century B.C. and devoted the rest of his reign to the propagation of Buddhism.

Barbara Eisenhower, the president's daughter-in-law, developed a mild coughing attack while at exhibits at the Indian Red Cross national headquarters.

She was rushed downstairs for emergency first aid—a cup of hot black coffee with one lump of sugar.

"That helps," Barbara said. "It comes on you all of a sudden." "Probably dust," commented Mrs. Ellsworth Bunker, wife of the U.S. ambassador.

President Eisenhower. It's an oil painting of Ellhu Yale, the Boston-born patron of Yale University who served for a time in the late 1600s as governor of Fort St. George College in Madras, India. The painting is from the college museum.

Eisenhower's gift for Nehru is a bust of Abraham Lincoln, whom the Indian leader admires greatly.

Indian President Rajendra Prasad presented a number of gifts today to President Eisenhower after they had tea together in the garden of the presidential palace. Chief among the gifts was a magnificent carving of sandalwood, rosewood and mahogany featuring a horse-drawn carriage in ivory.

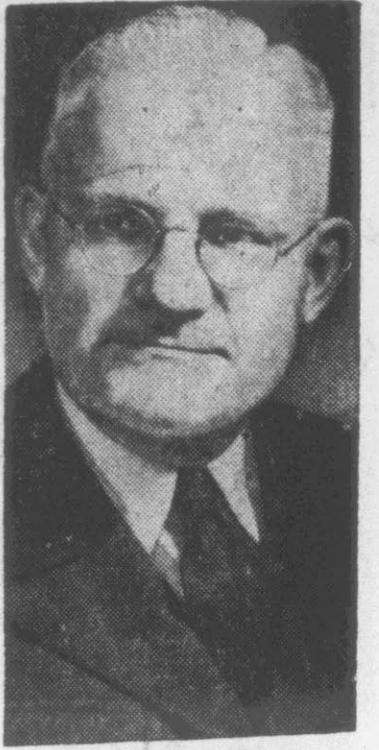

The two Presidents sat on a sofa beneath a large blue and white canopy, flanked by aides.

Rockefeller Rooters See Economic Qualifications

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's rooters have come up with a new appeal they hope will offset Vice President Richard M. Nixon's identification with the peace issue.

As it was spelled out by Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.), the new challenge boils down to the contention that the New York governor is better equipped than the vice president to deal with the Soviet Union's economic threat to the West.

Javits told a news conference Wednesday he expects Rockefeller to develop the economic theme in speeches during a midwestern tour beginning Saturday. If the public reaction is good, Javits indicated this might be a compelling factor in getting Rockefeller into the race against Nixon for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination.

Rockefeller's supporters regard the economic issue not only as an attractive one but as very nearly foolproof politically.

It is founded on the assumption that the infiltration and military aggression stage of the cold war is over — a condition Javits said he is confident has been attained. It accepts military peace as an accomplished fact and something the voter doesn't have to worry about any more.

This peace, of course, would be credited directly to the efforts of President Eisenhower, thus establishing a link to the administration and its record. Nor would Nixon's part in helping attain the peace be demeaned in any way.

The Rockefeller people would simply be saving in effect: Look, the Republicans have worked hard and brought you out from under the threat of military attack. Eisenhower and Nixon have done a fine job, but now you need a man who — in the words of Javits — has "a special capability" of dealing with an even more serious threat.

Rockefeller would be presented as a business man with special training in international trade and the sort of technical assistance for under-developed countries he has pushed in Latin America with government and private enterprises.

If the Rockefeller backers are right this would have a double-barreled appeal. It would be attractive to business men and conservatives. It also would have the forward looking aspects they

Purse-Snatcher Was Still Groggy

BALTIMORE (AP) — A purse snatcher came out second best Tuesday when he tried to get Helen McCarthy's money.

Miss McCarthy, 39, told police the man tried to grab her purse on the stairway of her apartment house. They struggled halfway up the stairs, lost their balance and crashed through the banister.

They fell eight feet to the floor, and Miss McCarthy landed on top, knocking the unidentified man unconscious. He was still groggy when police arrived several minutes later.

think would hearten liberals. As they see it, about the only drawback to the issue is that, in explaining what he would do about Khrushchev's boast that the Soviet Union will outproduce the United States by 1970, the New York governor will have to take some positions not universally popular.

They have no illusions, for instance, that organized labor was enchanted by Rockefeller's recent suggestion on the work week. He said that if labor would forego further work week reductions, the rate of national economic growth could almost be doubled.

Report Concrete Lions Are Stolen

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Somebody stole two concrete lions from contractor William Matteson's garage in Arcadia. They weigh 1,200 pounds each and are valued at $3,500.

A 500-pound safe, containing $3,180 in cash and $60 in stamps, disappeared through the back door of the Sanitary Plumbing Co. at Long Beach.

In a third case, police booked Allen Charles Shenette, 24, a transient from Texas, on suspicion of burglary. They said he took a 150-pound safe from the Rocket Messenger Services office. It contained $147.

Funeral services will be held at the Wilkerson Chapel at 3:30 Friday afternoon by his pastor, Rev. Irby Jackson, assisted by Rev. A. Hartwell Campbell, a former pastor. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Clark, son of the late Absolom F. and Emma Butler Clark, was born in Granville County near Oxford and came to Pitt County in 1895. He was married to Miss Lena Dare Ross in 1896. He operated the Clark Construction Company until his retirement in 1953. He was a member of the Immanuel Baptist Church.

He is survived by his wife; two sons, James W. Clark of Greenville and Ollie H. Clark of the U. S. Air Force, now in Omaha, Nebraska; two daughters, Mrs. Leroy P. Spell of Roseboro and Miss Lelia R. Clark of Durham; seven grandchildren; and three brothers, John G. Clark and W. C. Clark, both of Greenville, and Ollie F. Clark of Bayview.

Cuban Soldiers Hunting Escapee

PNAR DEL RIO, Cuba (AP) — Hundreds of soldiers and pro-Castro peasants searched mountainous western Cuba today for American fugitive Frank Austin Young.

Young escaped from the Pinar Del Rio army headquarters prison Wednesday less than 24 hours after a military tribunal gave him a 30-year sentence for counter-revolutionary activity against Fidel Castro's government.

The 38-year-old flier-of-fortune had boasted he would not serve more than 30 weeks of his sentence.

Sergio Hernandez Reyes, a former Cuban soldier awaiting trial, made the break with the Miamiians. They got away by cutting a hole in their jail cell.

The pair presumably made a dash for the mountains in hopes of contacting anti-Castro elements active there.

Police also were reported watching the U.S. Embassy in Havana to prevent any attempt by Young to take refuge there.

It was reported that several soldiers charged with guarding Reyes had been placed under arrest.

Young, a native of Indianapolis, was among 38 persons tried by a military tribunal for operating in an armed band opposing Castro's regime.

Young's wife, who works in Miami as a waitress to support their three children, said she had no idea he would try to escape.

The Other Ten Will Miss School

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Ten-year-old Michael Sopher is unhappy. He has to go to school today while 10 brothers and sisters have their tonsils removed.

The family doctor, who delivered all 12 of the children of Mr. and Mrs. James Sopher, will perform the operations.

He examined the children when the oldest, 15-year-old Cheryl, came home with a sore throat a week ago and decided the tonsillectomies were needed.

"We could have strung the operations out until spring, but we decided it would be easier to do 'em all at once," said Mrs. Sopher.

Three-months old Pamela will be spared.

And Michael? "He had his tonsils out five years ago and he feels completely left out now."

"He told me he wished he could stay at the hospital with his brothers."

Midwest Support For Nixon Seen To Be Stronger

CHICAGO (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon appears to have stronger Midwest support for the Republican presidential nomination than Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, say several state GOP chairmen.

The party leaders said, however, that the New York governor is not completely without support.

The Nixon vs. Rockefeller question has not yet appeared on the agenda of this meeting of the Midwest and Rocky Mountain Republican State Chairmen's Assn. But delegates to the 22-state group indicated it has the No. 1 spot or the unofficial agenda.

The association is made up of chairmen from Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Utah, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Abandon March On Parliament

TOKYO (AP) — Ultra-leftist Japanese students today abandoned a march on the Japanese Parliament to protest Japan's military alliance with the United States.

The demonstration collapsed after other leftist organizations boycotted it because of public indignation over a similar march Nov. 27 in which 700 persons were injured.

One Apalachin Visitor Cleared

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge has dismissed conspiracy charges against one visitor to the 1957 Apalachin underworld gathering, deciding the man showed up after the alleged conspiracy took place.

Acquitted was Frank Cucchiara, 64, of Watertown, Mass., who calls himself a cheese manufacturer and has been called by a federal agent a "Mafia courier" who brought the word from deported Charles (Lucky) Luciano and Joe Adonis to the Apalachin meetings.

Twenty other defendants are now putting on their defense before a U. S. District Court jury to charges that they conspired to conceal the purpose of the meeting, which was raided by police.
