Red Carpet Rolled Out For Ike On Arriving In France

EN ROUTE WITH EISENHOWER (AP)—Fit and cheerful after his three-day Mediterranean cruise, President Eisenhower landed in France today for a Western summit meeting that may need a peacemaker.

An echoing 21-gun salute greeted the U. S. heavy cruiser Des Moines as she brought the President into Toulon harbor, and French sailors snapped to attention as the President stepped down the gangway to French soil. Brightly decked small boats in the harbor and the sailors of the French fleet lined the rails of each for the other has never stopped.

"I am once again privileged to visit the lovely country of France and privileged to meet so many of her citizens," Eisenhower continued.

"Under General de Gaulle," the President said, "France and the United States are part of a great coalition and we are determined from a position of strength to pursue peace as much as we possibly can. We are sure that one day we shall win out."

With Jacquinet, the President entered an open car. Officers' shining sabers flashed in salute as the President drove out of the historic naval base. Eisenhower doffed his black homburg in reply.

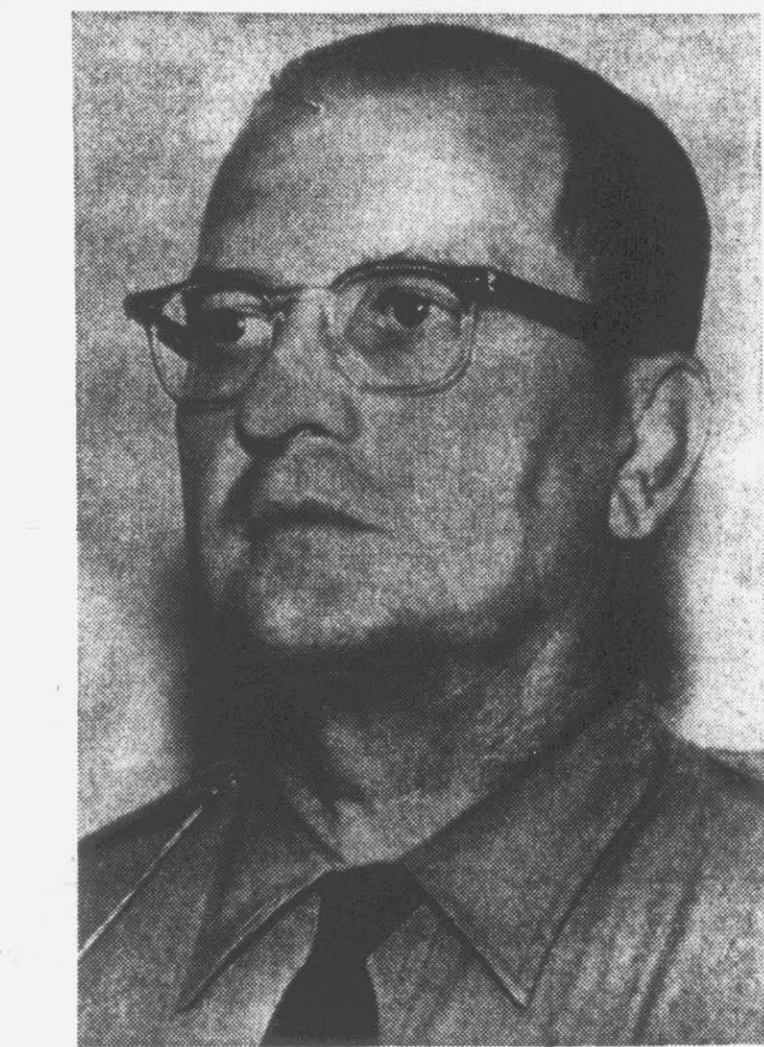

Just before stepping ashore, Eisenhower told newsmen he was feeling fine and remarked, "Sleep, oh boy, that's what I've done best."

His voyage from Athens, beginning Tuesday, was broken only by a brief visit to Tunis Thursday.

The presidential convoy sped out of the naval base for a brief ride through the city—which the residents had insisted upon when they heard Eisenhower might take a helicopter instead.

Crowds were banded the depth of the sidewalk all along his route, and the President showed his appreciation with a big smile and repeated waves of his hat as he

Local Patrol Officer Promoted, Re-Assigned

PROMOTED . . . Lt. T. B. Brown has been promoted to captain and Commanding officer of Troop "B" of the State Highway Patrol.

Lt. Thomas B. Brown, Executive Officer of Troop "A", has been promoted to Captain and Commanding officer of Troop "B" of the State Highway Patrol at Fayetteville.

Brown, stationed in Greenville since 1949, joined the Patrol in 1934 and has served in Washington, Plymouth and New Bern.

A native of Kinston, he graduated from Oglethorpe University prior to joining the Patrol and in June of this year, graduated from the F.B.I. National Academy in Washington, D. C.

Lt. Brown is a member of the Board of Stewards of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, Crown Point Lodge 708, a 32nd Degree Mason and a member of the local Shrine Temple.

Brown's promotion was one of four announced by Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt, in Raleigh. The changes, all effective January 1, resulted from the retirement of Col. James R. Smith as patrol commander, and the appointment of Lt. Brown.

Czech Is Accused In Poisoning Plan

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP)—The U. S. Army charged today that the Czechoslovak vice consul at Salzburg, Austria, provided a Communist agent with the poison found in salt shakers at the cafeteria of Radio Free Europe in Munich.

"The Army counterintelligence investigation shows that Jaroslav Nemec, a vice consul at the Czech consulate in Salzburg, Austria, on Nov. 16 gave a Communist agent salt shakers containing atropine for placement in the RFE cafeteria in Munich," an official Army statement said.

"The agent was told that the shakers contained a 'mild laxative,'" the Army said.

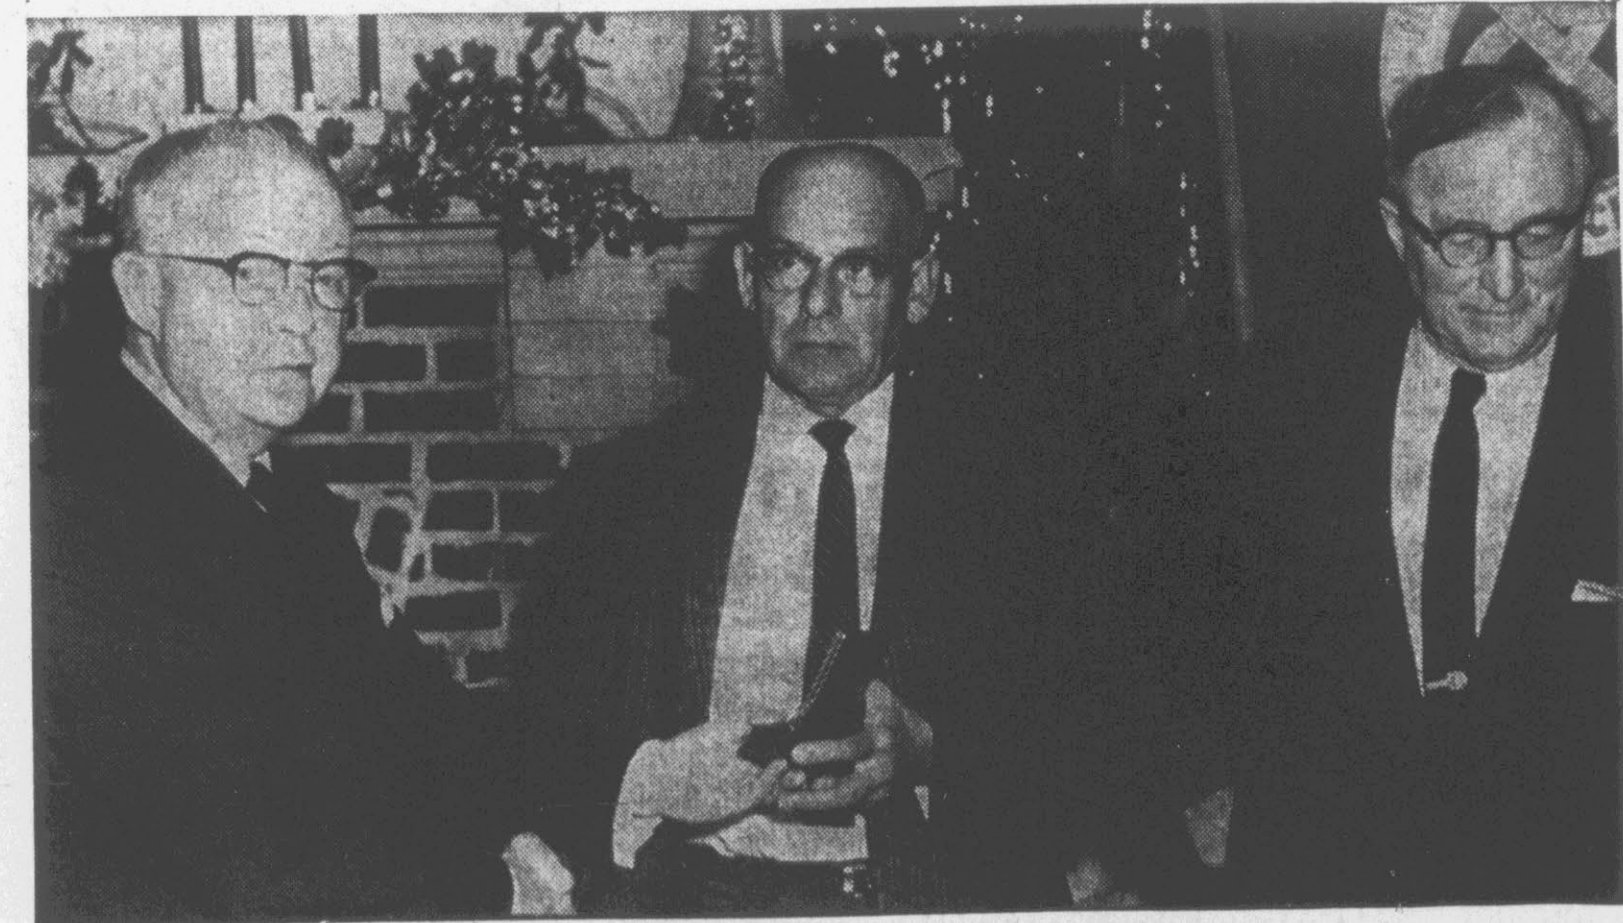

"Clinical analysis, however, proved that they contained atropine in sufficient quantity to cause serious illness, the degree of which would depend upon the age and physical condition of the individual and the amount of salt consumed."

Disclosure of the plot against the private, American-financed station, which broadcasts anti-Communist propaganda, was made Wednesday by its European director, Erik Hazelhoff of Mount Kisco, N.Y.

He said he had notified U. S. and West German authorities after being tipped that the poison had been put in salt shakers at the station's cafeteria Nov. 21.

U. S. Army and West German officials at first denied they knew

'Book Of Golden Deeds' Awarded To 'Neely' James

A local rural mail carrier—exponent of Greenville's youth athletic program for a decade—was honored last night by the local Exchange Club when he received the Exchange sixth annual Book of Golden Deeds award as the climax to the club's annual Ladies' Night dinner meeting at the Greenville Country Club.

W. C. "Neely" James, credited by many Greenville citizens with developing the local Little League and Teen-er League to its present status, was momentarily at a loss for words as last year's recipient of the award, Junius H. Rose, announced the presentation.

James, a Greenville native for a quarter-century, has reputedly borne the chief responsibility that has elevated the local Little League program to its high-ranking national spot.

The athletic supervisor for the city's Recreation Supervisor, according to general feeling around Greenville, has devoted countless volunteer hours to developing a wholesome recreation program here for local boys.

James took active interest in the Little League baseball program in the late 1940's after its organization here after World War II. His constant leadership and painstaking understanding of local youngsters caused the program to gain momentum and grow into a well-organized and adequate system.

Besides Little League baseball, James has been a consistent follower and helper of midget foot-

Thieves' Night

WALSTONBURG — Seven Walstonburg businesses, including the U. S. Post Office, were entered early this morning, according to Greene County Sheriff Clifton Barfield.

Barfield said the thieves gained entrance to the buildings through the front doors in each case and attempted to open four safes without success. Only about $20 in small change was reported missing from the firms.

The thieves attempted to open two safes located in the post office but succeeded only in knocking the dial from the strong boxes.

In addition to the Post Office, two grocery stores, the Greene County ABC Store, a filling station, drug store and a hardware and auto supply store were the victims.

Sheriff Barfield said it was believed the break-ins occurred about 3 a.m.

Greenville-Pitt County Identification Officer Walter Thomas and the Pitt County Sheriff's Department is assisting Greene County officers in the investigation as well as officers from the Kinston Police Department.

No Clues To Touhy's Slayers

CHICAGO (AP)—Slim clues, many theories and an apparent dead end marked the early police investigation for motives in the slaying of Roger Touhy, prohibition era gang chief.

As police intensified their search today for the killers of the 61-year-old ex-convict Wednesday night, there appeared many motives that might have prompted the assassination. There were not many clues.

Touhy was shot down by two men with 12 gauge shotguns only 23 days after he finished serving more than 25 years in Stateville Prison for kidnapping.

He was assassinated from ambush, in typical gangland fashion, as he and a companion, a retired policeman, mounted the steps of Touhy's home on the West Side.

The ex-policeman, Walter Miller, 62, was seriously wounded but before he collapsed he fired at the fleeing gunmen. He was in critical condition in a hospital.

Some investigators theorized that the remnants of the old Al Capone gang may be responsible for Touhy's murder. They were certain he became a target for crime syndicate vengeance.

Veteran policemen, who recalled the days when the rival Touhy and Capone mobs engaged in open gang war, said the killers waited more than 25 years to prove that the crime syndicate never forgives an enemy.

Touhy definitely could have been shot in vengeance by surviving members of the Capone gang," said Virgil Peterson, former FBI agent and now head of the Chicago Crime Commission. "They had a grudge against him. Nobody except Touhy ever stood up successfully to Capone."

Robert Tiekens, U.S. district attorney, blamed the Touhy slaying on the Mafia.

"This killing fits into the Mafia pattern of keeping members' lips sealed," Tiekens said. "Touhy must have talked, at one time or another. They killed him to impress other members that no matter how long it takes, they will seal your lips with death if you talk."

Richard B. Ogilvie, assistant U. S. attorney general on a special assignment to investigate organized crime in Chicago, said the killing undoubtedly was the work of organized mobsters.

Federation Has Tobacco Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—American Farm Bureau Federation officials believe that a new tobacco program that growers will like will be put in law next year.

This development, a Farm Bureau spokesman said today, has come about because of a new tobacco plan formulated at the federation's convention that just ended in Chicago.

As he put it, the bureau's tobacco state members want it. Congress will buy it, and President Eisenhower will sign it.

Such a prediction was just about out of the question a few months ago.

At that time, tobacco growers were at odds with Farm Bureau leaders for persuading Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson to get President Eisenhower to veto their tobacco bill.

Now the atmosphere is quite different. The federation has come up with a new proposal that the leaders believe will be acceptable all around.

This is it: Freeze tobacco support prices in 1960.

Then in 1961, use a new formula to figure price supports. This formula would be based on the average price for 1958-59-60 that the farmer had to pay for things he was buying—like machinery, fertilizer, clothing.

The farm bureau believes this would mean, in 1961, a price support slightly higher than the one now in use.

Highway Patrolman Killed In Hit-Run Case; Alarm Results In Arrest Of Trio

DUNN, N.C. (AP)—A rookie state highway patrolman died early today from injuries sustained late Thursday when a hit-and-run vehicle knocked him some 60 feet.

Patrol Sgt. Roy Provo said three white men had been arrested in the death of Pvt. Harry T. Long, 22, a native of Tabor City, N. C.

Provo said the owner and driver of the car, Frank Washington Thornton Jr., of Benson, N. C., would be charged with manslaughter and hit-and-run. He added he would confer with Dist. Solicitor Archie Taylor to determine whether to bring charges against the other two occupants of the car, Oliver Creech of Benson and Lee Junior Dunn of Benson, N. C.

Capt. C. R. Williams said Creech had admitted the car struck Long. He quoted Thornton as saying he didn't know whether it hit Long.

Long was rushed to Rex Hospital in Raleigh, where he died several hours later. He suffered a fractured skull and two broken legs.

Williams said Long, who had joined the patrol June 5, had stopped a car containing three girls from a routine check on U.S. 301 about 3 1/2 miles north of Dunn.

Long checked the driver's license and the girls were looking for the registration card in the glove compartment.

"The girls' car was on the shoulder of the road with its lights on," Williams said. "Long's car was parked behind with its red blinker light on. Long was standing just on the edge of the pavement and was flashing his light across the seat toward the glove compartment when the car struck him."

Williams said the girls saw Long's body hurtling in front and to the right of their car. The other vehicle continued on at a high rate of speed, they said.

The girls stopped a motorist driving a pickup truck and he summoned an ambulance.

The accident occurred about 9:25 p.m. and Long died at 3:27 a.m.

"An alarm was put out and a search began," Williams related. "Three men in a car answering the description had stopped at a service station near Coals. Two had gotten out, the other was in the back seat asleep. Patrolman Lacy Smith saw the car, stopped and arrested the men."

The trio was taken to Dunn and later to Fayetteville for questioning. Williams said they would be transferred to the Harnett County jail in Lillington.

Long, a graduate of Nakina High School in Columbus County, formerly worked as a repairman for the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co. at Tabor City. He was a bachelor.

Long is the first highway trooper to be killed in line of duty since Nov. 5, 1957. On that date two patrolmen were shot and killed. Frank Edward Wetzel is now serving two life sentences for the slayings. One patrolman was gunned down near Ellerbe and the other near Sanford.

Pitt ASC Manager Leaves Post; Wang Replacing Him

Walter A. Hasty Jr., Pitt ASC manager, has resigned effective today to accept a position with a local firm.

He is being replaced by Wayne L. Wang, chief clerk with the local ASC office, who will begin his duties as manager Monday.

J. Lyman Edwards, chairman of the county ASC committee, announced the office changes. He said Hasty submitted his resignation to the committee last week. The committee hired Wang as his replacement.

"The committee accepted Mr. Hasty's resignation with much regret," Edwards said. "We hate to lose Mr. Hasty but we realize that a man of his high caliber is going to be offered opportunities that exceed the position of manager of the ASC."

"We are happy that Mr. Hasty is going to remain in Greenville and has pledged to this committee and the farmers of Pitt County his continued cooperation and support."

"We are deeply grateful for the excellent manner in which he has discharged the duties of his office and served the farmers of Pitt County."

Hasty said he had accepted a position with Blount-Harvey Co. He will participate in all phases of the business, including farm implements, fertilizer plant, department store, farms and other holdings.

WALTER HASTY, JR.

Hasty became manager of the ASC office Oct. 9, 1957. Since then the local office has been chosen as having made the most improvement of any county office in North Carolina. Certificates and cash awards were made for this in 1958.

"I've enjoyed my work here a great deal," Hasty said yesterday. "However, I feel I'm being offered a greater opportunity, not only for personal reasons, but I feel I will be able to serve the farmers of Pitt County."

"I would like to personally thank every farmer and agriculturalist in Pitt County for the wonderful cooperation they've given me. They have certainly made my tenure of office a pleasure."

Wang has been chief clerk with the local office for the past year and a half. Only this week he completed an eight week office managers training school course at the State ASC office in Raleigh.

Wang served as a SAC tanker pilot on a tour of duty with the United States Air Force. During that time he was stationed at Stallings Air Base in Kinston and later at Lake Charles, La.

Upon discharge in May, 1958 he returned to Kinston and worked for three months with the Lenoir County ASC office. Then he came to the Pitt office as a manager trainee. He was later named chief clerk for the local office.

Wang is married to the former Betty Lou Dawson of Kinston. They have one child three years old.

Wang, who is 29 years old, holds a BS degree in agriculture from the Minnesota State. He has been working toward a masters degree at East Carolina College along with his regular duties at the ASC office.

The Wangs live at 115 N. Woodlawn Ave.

Chinese Premier Proposes Talks

TOKYO (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China proposes that he and Prime Minister Nehru of India begin talks Dec. 26 aimed at settling their border dispute.

Chou, in a letter to the Indian leader, suggested the meeting be held "any place in China" or at Rangoon, Burma, and added: "If you wish to suggest any other date, I am also willing to give it consideration."

The text of the letter was broadcast today by Peiping radio.

It called on India to withdraw its armed forces from 10 places on the disputed border and accused India of an unreasonable attitude in not listening to Peiping's views.

The letter was in reply to one Nehru wrote Chou in which the Indian leader rejected Chinese Communist proposals for troop withdrawals along the Himalayan border of Tibet, and for an immediate meeting with his Peiping counterpart.

Nehru had said careful preparation should be laid before a New Delhi-Peiping summit meeting could take place.

Chou, in his latest letter, urged New Delhi's acceptance of his proposal for withdrawal of armed forces of both countries 20 kilometers (12 miles) respectively along the entire border.

Jets Mark Wright Flight Anniversary

KILL DEVIL HILLS, N.C. (AP)—Air Force jets streaked over the sandy beach of Kill Devil Hills Thursday, marking 56 years since man made his first powered flight there.

It was Dec. 17, 1903, when Orville Wright, with a push from his brother Wilbur, piloted their trail craft 120 feet for 12 seconds. It was the first time an engine had pulled a man aloft.

The jets that flashed over the historic spot Thursday were in sharp contrast. Able to fly faster than the speed of sound, they took off only minutes before the fly-over from bases in Ohio, Florida and Virginia.

The traditional First Flight ceremonies were held at the foot of the Wright Brothers Monument.

The featured speaker at the First Flight luncheon was Rear Adm. Peter V. Colmar, commander of the 5th Coast Guard District at Norfolk, Va.

Colmar said a Coast Guardsman, John T. Daniels, was allowed by the Wrights to take a flight in their machine that memorable day.

"Daniels seems to have gotten really involved that day, after the fourth flight," said Adm. Colmar. "A sudden gust of wind turned the machine over. Orville and

Mrs. Latham Reviews Book

BETHEL—Mrs. Henry Rogerson entertained the Book Exchange Club in her home with Mrs. Ralph Highsmith as co-hostess last week.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Herbert R. Brown, Mrs. Raymond Whitehurst presided and introduced Mrs. W. C. Latham as guest speaker for the hour.

"Fifty Years as a Southern Lawyer" by Aubrey Lee Brooks. He was considered North Carolina's most outstanding lawyer, she said.

He participated in such outstanding cases as The Reynolds-Cannon-Holman suit and also he represented the Presbyterian Mission Board in their law suit against the Vick Chemical heirs.

At his death he left a large endowment fund to be used for scholarships for the needy men at the University of North Carolina.

Librarian, Mrs. Willard Whitehurst, conducted the exchanging of books.

At the social hour the hostess served a sweet course with coffee.

Christmas Party Fetes Husbands

BETHEL—Honoring their husbands, members of the Ladies Bible Class had their annual Christmas party in the recreation room of the Baptist Church Tuesday night.

Throughout the room and the dining room the Christmas theme was expressed in the decorations.

As the guests arrived, they congregated in the recreation room where all joined in singing Christmas carols with Mrs. F. E. Price at the piano. This was followed by a Bible quiz led by Mrs. T. N. Cooper.

From the recreation room they went into the dining room and were served chilled tomato juice.

The table covered in white, was centered with an arrangement of greenery and red flanked on either side by burning red candles.

Guests helped themselves to a full course turkey dinner and were seated at auxiliary tables which were also centered with arrangements in keeping with the buffet table.

Mrs. Moody Is Guest Speaker

BETHEL—The Hilma Country Club in Tarboro was decorated with a lighted Christmas tree and other decorations Wednesday when Mrs. W. A. Moody entertained the Sally Tucker Book Club at a luncheon.

Mrs. W. R. Hunnicutt was guest speaker.

As guests arrived, they were greeted by Mrs. Moody and served iced tomato juice by staff members. From there they were directed to the luncheon table, which was centered with a red and white arrangement including reindeer. This was flanked on either side by burning red candles.

Mrs. Hunnicutt gave a talk on the opera "Amahl and the Night Visitors." Selections from the opera were played by records.

The speaker opened her program by giving the background of Menotti, the composer, who was an Italian. Since 1951 this opera has been presented each Christmas Eve by the National Broadcasting Company.

After books were distributed by the custodian, goodbyes were said by Mrs. Moody.

Farm Income Loss Is Heavy Blow

From the economic standpoint, North Carolina has taken a heavy blow with the estimated $50 million reduction in farm income for 1959 compared with that of a year ago.

Although the reduced farm income was attributed to a number of crops, the big loss came in tobacco income which was cut considerably by poor growing conditions and low yields from the 1959 crop. Had not the quality of tobacco been in line with demands of purchasers to a greater degree than in other years, the financial loss to farmers might have been considerably greater.

In considering the loss of agricultural income this year one must also consider the loss in other segments of the economy that depend on agriculture.

Throughout a broad area of the state where tobacco forms the primary source of farm income, the direct loss of farm income from tobacco is only a part of the picture. In Pitt County, for example, the per acre yield for tobacco was approximately 22 per cent less in 1959 than in 1958. In addition to the resulting decline in income to tobacco producers, this lower production tended also to lessen the overall income of those who work with tobacco on the farm, in the warehouses and in the factories.

Biggest Puzzle In Hodges' Role

By LYNN NISBET

HODGES—The most fascinating, intriguing and puzzling factor in the upcoming election of a Governor, other State officials, United States Senator and members of the General Assembly, is the role that may be played by Governor Luther Hodges. Maybe the question should be as to what role he wants to play, because as of now he is in position to make the choice. He is by all odds the most dominant figure on the North Carolina scene, political and otherwise.

He has not indicated his role, except to say that he will take no part in selection of his successor unless his administration policies are attacked. That, of course, was an empty promise—because at the time he first made it he knew that some of the prospective candidates for Governor already were attacking the highway get-up and some other departmental reorganizations which he had sponsored.

There have been rumors that Hodges was throwing his weight to support Addison Hewlett for Governor. Only basis for these rumors seems to be that as among the three most often mentioned candidates—Terry Sanford, John Larkins and Addison Hewlett—there wasn't anywhere else he could go. Other rumors, with even less foundation, have it that Hodges has told some of his friends not to be too quick committing support, because "somebody else is likely to go in the race."

On the surface there might be question whether the endorsement or active support of Governor Hodges would help or hurt a candidate. Certainly it would be a liability in some areas, a definite asset in some others. Majority opinion is it would help or hurt a candidate. Certainly it would be a liability in some areas, a definite asset in some others. Majority opinion is it would help or hurt a candidate.

COUNTERPART—Governor Hodges likes to compare his administration with that of Governor McLean. Both put prime emphasis on the business aspects of government. McLean gave very little attention to practical politics. He relied on Senator F. M. Simmons and A. D. Watts to handle that phase. Many students of political history see the Hodges administration and philosophy much more like that of Governor Max Gardner—who skillfully combined practical politics and attention to social services. Gardner, like Hodges, had periods of high and low popularity, and was equally undisturbed by the fluctuations of public opinion.

Gardner came to office at a time when the old Simmons "machine" was breaking up and there was no organization to take its place. Hodges came on the State scene when conditions were comparable. Embryonic organizations which had begun to form under rival leadership of Senator J. M. Broughton and Joe Blythe never reached maturity because of the sudden deaths, within a few weeks of each other, of the two leaders. Since then no really cohesive political organization has been built.

Gardner attained his greatest influence after leaving the Governor's office, and became the recognized leader of the dominant factor in the Democratic party. Will Hodges continue the analogy? Most observers think he will, even to the extent of moving his base of operations from North Carolina to Washington.

For that reason it is unthinkable that he will not exert considerable influence in the 1960 primaries, from the legislature up. NATIONAL—Opinion prevails, with substantive evidence to support it, that Hodges' plans call for moving into the national picture. He already has attained more nationwide recognition than any Governor of North Carolina during his incumbency.

CONVENTIONS—To enhance national prestige it is necessary that he control the State delegation to the National Democratic convention, which means he must control the State convention which selects the delegates. He also must guess right on whom to support for President.

For those reasons, and on both state and national levels, he is like the sick man whom the preacher was urging to renounce the Devil. The sick man answered to the effect that "I ain't in position to make any body mad."

The date for the 1960 State convention has not been fixed. For many years it has been held about two weeks before the primary, and it is likely that policy will be followed next year. Traditionally the outgoing Governor has less influence in the convention than the favored candidate to succeed him, and after the nomination the new Governor-to-be takes control and dictates party organization. The Hodges personality is not susceptible to being shoved aside to such extent. Since the State convention will come nearly three months before the national, which is the forum on which Hodges is expected to have a major role, chances are he will seek to retain control before the after the state meeting.

To do that he must be in influential position with the newly nominated Governor. That gets back to the original premise, that he cannot afford not to take a hand in selecting his successor. Whether his activities are in the open or behind the scenes will depend upon developments as the campaign progresses.

With 22 per cent less yield, fewer man-hours were required to house the tobacco crop this year, which of course mean less total work for field hands that normally work in green tobacco. The shorter crop required less warehouse handling, and it also meant a shorter season in the tobacco redrying plants throughout Eastern North Carolina.

Added to these direct losses from the decline in farm income are other indirect losses which have occurred or will occur throughout the economy.

For a state which depends as heavily on agriculture as North Carolina does—and particularly in the Coastal Plain where agriculture is the mainstay of the economy—the $50 million loss in farm income this year will be felt throughout the economy.

It Might Have Meant Killing Off The Law

About a million Tar Heels received a deserved and a welcomed pre-Christmas gift from Insurance Commissioner Charles F. Gold Wednesday when he denied the proposal by the North Carolina Automobile Rate Administrative Office that would have increased the cost of auto liability insurance about $8,000,000 or 19.9 per cent.

In rejecting the proposal, Commissioner Gold acted in the best interest of the citizens of the state. The one-year experience rating on which the proposal was based was a change from the three-year experience formula that previously has been used in arriving at such rates. In addition, the Department of Motor Vehicles says that according to its records the accident frequency rate in the state has not increased appreciably during the past three years.

Aside from what the increase in auto liability insurance rates would have cost North Carolina motorists had the decision been affirmative, the decision likewise would have immediately opened the door for killing off the compulsory liability insurance law which the state recently enacted.

That law was long overdue in North Carolina when it was passed by the 1957 General Assembly. Since it became effective it has proven its worth in providing greater protection for the people of this state. It would be a grave mistake indeed for North Carolina to junk the law without giving it a reasonable trial period in which it will prove its merits beyond a shadow of a doubt.

Commissioner Gold is to be commended for the decision he rendered.

Ike's Real Test To Be In Paris

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's journey to three continents is just a pleasant canoe trip compared with what he faces in Paris this weekend.

Everywhere he went this month he talked in generalities about high ideals. In Paris—particularly in dealing with French President Charles de Gaulle—Eisenhower will have to get down to cases. It may be unpleasant.

He will meet with De Gaulle at a time when his government is angry at biting American criticism of the French for shirking their obligations to the 15-nation military alliance, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Then, together with De Gaulle and the heads of the British and West German governments, Eisenhower will have a pre-summit meeting to decide the date for a summit conference with Premier Nikita Khrushchev. But that's not all.

The Allies must decide also what they'll discuss with Khrushchev, especially what stand they'll take on Berlin. The Soviet has demanded the West get its troops out of the city.

The French and West Germans are jittery that this country and Britain will be willing to make concessions to Khrushchev. They are all for standing pat. Under Eisenhower agrees with them, he's in for trouble.

As for the NATO quarrel: The United States and some other NATO members are fed up with the French and De Gaulle. Last week the military leaders of the NATO countries, meeting in Paris, reached this kind of conclusion:

"We are going to hell in a hurry unless something is done soon." The military men were particularly disturbed by the failure of most NATO governments to carry out 1957 agreements in principle to accept U.S. atomic weapons and stockpiles on their soil and to integrate their air forces into one air defense structure for Europe.

De Gaulle has stalled both steps. He has declared publicly that integration of France's forces into the NATO structure is unpalatable to him and a dead issue so far as he is concerned.

And he has refused to accept American stockpiles of atomic weapons on French soil unless he gets more control over them than the United States is willing to give. As a result, American Air Force units are being shifted to bases in Britain and West Germany.

Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff, put his finger squarely on France as the major offender. This accusation was made in a private meeting of the military leaders in Paris.

The fact that it was said at all was bad enough—from the French view. But then it was leaked to the press. Then the French really got mad. But Secretary of State Christian A. Herter this week in Paris called for integration, too.

So did U.S. Secretary of Defense Thomas Gates Jr., who backed up Twining.

This all sets a troubled stage for Eisenhower, when he arrives. He is famous as a peacemaker. And maybe he can pour oil on these troubled waters, too. But the military leaders say the future of NATO is at stake.

And, in dealing with De Gaulle, Eisenhower is dealing with a temperamental, strong-willed individual who was hard to get along with in World War II and doesn't seem to have changed.

And the French have a gripe of their own: That this country hasn't backed them up enough in their troubles in Algeria.

But it can't be denied that De Gaulle has deliberately knocked a hole in NATO.

Since he took office in 1958 he has removed the French air-warning system, and one-third of the French Mediterranean fleet from NATO's integrated command.

The Season For Patience

As reminded in this space yesterday, you can't escape the spirit of Christmas.

The bright colored lights, the store displays laden with I'd-like-that-one-Daddy merchandise, the Christmas trees to be seen in passing the homes, the carols in the air . . . it happens every year at this time, but always welcome.

For almost a week, now, a Christmas tree has been waiting in our carport for the proper time to be put in its stand and adorned with glittering finery. Our small boy was present when it was purchased, and his impatience at the time made prospects of any holding out on the tree-decorating seem futile.

"If we fix it now," his mother told him, "it won't be so pretty when Christmas really is here." But even that didn't completely satisfy him.

He was interested in the wrapping of the branches with twine, and the trimming off of a small piece of trunk, and leaving the tree in a bucket of water. Just having a tree around satisfied him for a couple of days.

Then, on seeing Christmas trees appear in other houses he became restless again. "Let's wait until Aunt Grace and Uncle Art come to Greenville," he was urged, "you want them to help decorate the tree, don't you? They'd really like to help."

And again the infrequent miracle of childish patience came to pass; he was willing to wait a little longer.

His young sister, whose memories of any Christmas in her past must be extremely weak, goes along with her brother. If he wants the tree set up "now," she's right with him; if he's coaxed into waiting, she is also willing to wait. So, this year we can count ourselves as fortunate in not having to wage a debate on two fronts simultaneously.

Well, yesterday the long-awaited visitors to Greenville arrived; and the first thing the boy brought up was the tree-decorating bit.

You'd have thought the world was coming to an end when he learned there would be nothing doing until today. Little sister was briefly perturbed, too; but again, some inner resources of patience came to the fore.

(Sometimes these little people display a surprising quality that makes even parents think their offspring aren't too bad.)

So today's the day our little tree will be brought indoors, affixed in the stand, garnished with strings of lights and shining globes, the angel will be clamped to the top, and the Guardian Of The Tree will be content.

For him, a long-awaited dream will have been accomplished. For his parents, I suspect we'll have to convince him several times during the next week that Christmas Day simply cannot be moved up to suit his whims.

All of which goes to show that Christmas wouldn't mean nearly so much to a great many people if there were no children to mark it as something special.

I know a lady to whom the use of an "X" in spelling Christmas is absolutely unthinkable. She is appalled on seeing it, even when used in hastily written notes.

"It really is no great trouble to spell it out three or four times," she says. And of course

"Alterations may be made in the Taft-Hartley Law in the next session of Congress—debates will be about whether it will be done with union labor."

Not All Words Spoken

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Life has many languages. You learn some of them as you go along.

How many languages are there in the world? Maybe 1,000, one might guess. Another would say 5,000.

It partly depends on what you call a language.

A language is a method by which one living thing by an effort, deliberate or not, brings or exchanges a message to another living thing.

Actually there are millions of languages, or variations of languages.

Every two people who approach each other in the world speak two different languages, and they get along only as their languages mesh—or stiffen in silence and retreat into individualism unexpressed.

So it is with nations, as it is with persons.

Language is a marvelous arsenal made up of words, grunts, smells, gestures, sighs, movements—and pauses. It can be eloquent in each or all of these ways, and other ways.

Sight, for example. How often is a falling tear a human battlefield. What two people in love in all history lacked a separate kind of signal for being together?

People being as various as they are, no dictionary could possibly sum up all the varieties of human languages though learned scholars do make periodic appraisals. Their efforts remain a reach, not a conclusion.

Shakespeare seized and shook the English language and made of it an arrow to his own meaning. So do, in their own ability, all individuals in all languages.

Grammar is a roadblock only to the false—educated, language itself is the real hurdle.

The only real rule of language is to force it to say exactly what you want it to say, no more, no less. And if you do this you can well afford to break every other rule in doing so.

The true majesty of language, as Shakespeare knew, is not to be a prisoner of a previous grammar and a limp, inherited vocabulary but to assail old and vigorously with both old and new words that create a fresh meaning—both for yourself and the other fellow.

As you stretch your language, you stretch yourself. Anyone can be in his own way his own Shakespeare.

it's true. It wasn't so many years ago when seeing Christmas so spelled was commonplace; but people are now more conscious of that "X" than they ever were before.

Quite possibly it all began when a sign painter or a headline-writer was caught with limited space, and so began a period of X-ing out the most important part of Christmas.

As a headline-writer, myself, I've sometimes wished Christmas, as a word, required fewer letters. There's just so much space, for so many letters, in headline-writing.

Of course The Reflector's policy has long been to "take the X out of Christmas," so we who work here heed the rule as much as for the sake of "policy" as for personal convictions.

You really don't see many X's in the word any more; but when you do, it stands out like a sore thumb.

ESCAPING DISASTER

The shipwreck experienced by the Apostle Paul on his way to Rome to be tried before Caesar constitutes one of the most succinct adventure stories of all literature. It is found in the 27th chapter of the Book of Acts. When the ship was run around and "the hinder part was broken with the violence of the waves," the commander of the ship ordered those who could swim to cast themselves into the sea and try to reach land. And this they did, "some on boards and some on broken pieces of the ship. And so it came to pass, that they escaped all safe to land."

This is what often happens, is it not, when we find ourselves confronting the dire crises of life. We grasp at anything to escape disaster. And it usually comes to pass that, just as Paul and his companions got to land "some on boards and some on broken pieces of the ship," so we manage somehow to escape disaster by using any means at hand which offers hope.

You may either now or later be confronting a situation so overwhelming that you feel there is no hope. But there is always hope. No situation we confront is ever hopeless unless we give up hope. Disaster is not so much a matter of circumstances as it is the attitude we take toward circumstances.

There will always be some "boards and . . . broken pieces of the ship" which we can grasp and perhaps escape disaster. At least, let us not fail to make the attempt.

1959 CHRISTMAS GREETINGS 1959

Use Christmas Seals

By ELMER ROESSNER
With a scant five more shopping days, the big question of the day is whether Christmas sales will top last year's high mark.

It's a hard question to answer, because no one knows what the base is. Government figures cover all retail trade on a monthly basis. But all retail trade includes the necessities of life as well as the presents. And on a monthly basis, December does not include Christmas shopping in November or the Christmas refunds in January. Furthermore, it takes in the Christmas-to-New Year's week which—in retailing terms—often rolls over and dies.

The December sales are therefore a shaky base, but it is the only base business has.

Last year, December sales were $21.2 billion. This was about $4 billion more than the October-November average. That $4 billion is therefore a close approximation of the "gift" part of the December total.

MARK TO SHOOT AT

For practical purposes, most economists will compare the December 1959 total with the total for the current month. A slippery yardstick, again, but the only one we've got.

More retailers say they'll top last year's record. In many areas, the crowds of shoppers are so thick there isn't room enough to swing a Santa Claus. A Business Week survey found sales are running from 2 to 15 per cent ahead of last year.

This showed optimism in Pittsburgh and Chicago, both badly hit by the steel strike. Less enthusiasm was reported on the West Coast and in New York, but since the Business Week survey, sales appear to have picked up on both sides of the continent.

LOCALIZED DIPS

The Eastern seaboard is somewhat removed from the steel strike; it is more largely influenced by weather.

Federal Reserve Board figures on department store sales do not completely bear out hopes for a major gain. Department store sales are very significant in this situation, because they closely reflect the gift purchases—much more so, for instance, than an ice and coal dealer sales.

But while the gain through October was 7 per cent nationally, the gain in the week ended November 28 was only 3 per cent above the corresponding week last year, and the gain in the following week, ended December 5, was only 2 per cent. Since auto production has barely regained full volume, total auto sales this month will probably be less than a year ago tending to drag the gain down.

The Fed's figures showed considerable spottiness. In the last week for which figures are available, there was no gain in department store sales in the Philadelphia district, which includes significant parts of the steel industry. The Cleveland district registered a 4 per cent gain, but Canton, Ohio, and Wheeling, W. Va., showed 5 and 6 per cent losses.

The Richmond district, which includes Washington and Baltimore, showed a 4 per cent drop, with downtown Baltimore 12 per cent below the corresponding week a year ago.

The biggest gains were in the Miami metropolitan district, up 21 per cent; and the Augusta, Ga., district, up 15 per cent. It would look as if more spenders had gone south for the winter if it were not for the fact that Cambridge, Mass., also showed a 15 per cent rise.

As the sales checks now stack up, it looks as if Christmas gift buying may push total December sales up to the record, but not very much above it.

GARNISHED WORKERS CAUSED MORE ACCIDENTS

Businesses have often been criticized for suspending employees whose wages were garnished or attached for taxes. But a survey in one Chicago factory showed that workers whose pay was impounded caused 50 per cent more accidents than others.

This is our Christmas Column—since Christmas will be over when you see our next one—so we'll give you some Christmas poetry to help you celebrate the season. . . . Here is one by Rev. Alex. C. D. Noe, out of his recently published book of poems, ABOVE THE RIM, which we have mentioned before. Rev. Noe is a retired Episcopal minister whose latest charge was the oldest house of worship in North Carolina, the Episcopal Church at Bath. Out of several of the poems in the book on various aspects of the holiday, we picked this one, because we thought it was an appropriate and beautiful expression of the underlying sentiment of the season:

He Who Came on Christmas
Back of the light, we have today
Back of the best, in every way,
Back of the hope, the joy, the love,
Is He who came from Heaven above

To Bethlehem, on Christmas,
Came to a manger bleak and cold,
Came to a world sin-sick and old,
Came down from love, to love reveal,

THE ONE BIG PRESENT

There seems to be two schools of thought when it comes to Christmas giving. One school says swamp 'em with a bushel of little things. The other declares, dazzle them with one big present that will make this "the Christmas I got the (you me it)." For instance, this might be the year you give the slide projector that finally puts him in show business. We recommend the Kodak 300 Projector. It treats an audience to a crisp, colorful performance of slides they see "big as life."

Or this might be the year you give the family the movie camera that will save all your good times together. Your best buy: the Brownie Automatic Movie Camera. This new Brownie has an electric eye that makes sure the exposure is always right, no matter who is handling the job of cameraman. Or again, maybe this is the year someone gets the 35mm camera they have been so slyly hinting for. No better way to fill that bill than with a Pony II Camera Outfit. It's everything they'll need to shoot and view color slides, all beautifully packaged.

To show we can straddle an issue as well as the next fellow, we can also help you fill up a Christmas stocking with a lot of useful photo aids that any photo hobbyist will love to get. Maybe our position is: drop in and shop around. You'll be glad you did.

Queen of Scots' execution, her final years as a near-deity—are told with the verve of a first-rate novelist combined with the scrutiny of the scholar. Touches of her personal life—such as how she dressed and ate and spent her leisure time—finish off a picture which to most of us has been incomplete. Miss Jenkins converts her from the cold, queer virgin of the historian to the vibrant, high-strung, intensely intelligent woman she really was.

My only reproach to Miss Jenkins is that the mention of William Shakespeare is never made in her book. That the greatest English dramatist could live out their years simultaneously and yet never have an important association is to me inconceivable. Shakespeare scholars know that there were many such associations, and Miss Jenkins, I'm sure, knows too. If this biography has a defect, it is in the omission of any attempt to correlate the lives and influence of these two giants of the English Renaissance.

Sen. Johnson In Favor Of Unified Missile Effort

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) says America's civilian and military space efforts should be combined. "One man to be accountable, one man with powers to accomplish," he said.

"We thought we had done this in the space act when we put the President in charge of it," the Senate Democratic Leader said Thursday night.

"If the executive department cannot or will not meet this responsibility," he added, "then the Congress must act."

Johnson, a possible contender for his party's presidential nomination next year, blasted President Eisenhower without mentioning him by name. "It is not our technology that has failed," he said. "Our leadership has failed."

Johnson spoke at a dinner commemorating the 56th anniversary of the first airplane flight by the Wright Brothers.

"Our national survival," said Johnson, "could depend upon our being first in the space race—and soon. An effort to catch up sometime in the indefinite future will not do."

He added, "from a military standpoint, our failure to take decisive action now to win the space race has not penetrated certain Washington levels."

"We certainly would not take unilateral action and demobilize our Army, sink our Navy, or scrap our Air Force in the hopes that we might later reach a disarmament agreement with the Russians."

"Clearly," he said, "the impression that we must win the race for space has not penetrated certain Washington levels."

At present space probes and other primarily scientific rocket experiments are under the civilian space agency. The military retains control of missile weapon development.

Fair Trade Law Is Again Issue

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—North Carolina's Fair Trade Law was at issue again today, and a retailer ordered to comply with the law apparently intends to press his case to the State Supreme Court.

The Union Carbide Corp. of New York was granted a temporary restraining order Thursday against John T. Davis of Winston-Salem, who operates the D and J Market.

Davis had been selling Prestone antifreeze at $2 a gallon when the fair trade price set by the company was $2.39 a gallon. Under the order, Davis must sell at the company price.

Davis, in his reply to the restraining order, contended when he bought the antifreeze from a distributor it became his exclusive property and he could dispose of it anyway he wished. He also said he signed no contract to sell the product at a fair trade price.

If Superior Court Judge Walter E. Johnson Jr. makes the temporary restraining order permanent, Davis' lawyers indicated they will appeal to the State Supreme Court and challenge the constitutionality of the law.

The Fair Trade Law has been criticized by the attorney general's office during the past months in connection with price fluctuations of gasoline. However, most of the major oil companies operating in North Carolina have dropped fair trade prices.

Fresh From Triumphal Tour, Major Problem Awaits President In Paris

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

PARIS (AP) — Fresh from triumphs among peoples and leaders of eight nations on three continents, President Eisenhower now faces his biggest test in France.

Can the Eisenhower personality enchant stubborn President Charles de Gaulle into easing his resistance to the wishes of the rest of the partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization?

France's refusal to put more of her forces under control of the central NATO command presents Eisenhower with a real problem. At the Western alliance's ministerial meeting this week, the French gave not an inch on an issue which the Americans made clear they feel is supremely important to the alliance.

There were even hints that the United States might pull its forces out of Europe if the French didn't come around.

Eisenhower and De Gaulle, two old soldiers, sit down in private Saturday to discuss this military problem. But more than that is bothering the French.

French officialdom has been hurt by what it obviously considers a lack of American support for France's efforts to end the Algerian rebellion. The French also appear to suspect that their British allies, in joining a European trade bloc outside the six-nation common market to which France belongs, are trying to repeat the old tactic of dividing the European continent to maintain Britain's position.

De Gaulle also is determined to re-establish the age-old glory of France. He wants France to have a voice in setting NATO policy equal to that of the United States and Britain, heretofore the dominant members of the alliance.

The Soviet leadership, of course, is highly pleased with the crisis facing the Western alliance.

Despite Eisenhower's triumphs abroad, there has been no serious attempt by the Soviets to steal the show. Moscow seems to have been waiting with smug satisfaction for what it hopes may happen in Paris.

Pravda, the voice of the Kremlin, has pictured NATO as facing an insoluble problem. It has called NATO's troubles a crisis of "the line toward maintaining international tension."

It seems likely that Moscow hopes to extract some gain from Eisenhower's tour, in this fashion which now, in the Soviet view, threatens to boomers.

The Soviets claim that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev took the initiative in relaxing world tensions. They purport to welcome

Eisenhower's world peace mission as a result of Khrushchev's initiative. But they are claiming that, because of the Soviet peace initiative, NATO finds itself in a crisis. Possibly the Soviets even believe this and are waiting eagerly for a gradual disintegration of Western solidarity.

So the Soviet propaganda tone is soft almost to the point of tolerance. This, in the Muscovite view, would hardly be the time for noisy threats or boasting when the soft approach has given them some promise of pulling the Western alliance to pieces.

Instead, the Soviets continue to picture Eisenhower as a man in search of peace, and by inference tell the Asians that the Soviet Union is the source of that promise of peace.

But at the same time, U.S. insistence that NATO strengthen its defenses permits the Soviets, despite Eisenhower's successes, to picture the rest of U.S. leadership as dedicated to a policy of tension which now, in the Soviet view, threatens to boomers.

The Soviets are not rocking the boat at this moment. They still want an East-West summit meeting and probably still want Eisenhower to visit Moscow. But Eisenhower's term ends in January 1961. The man the Soviets have portrayed as an earnest seeker for peace will be out of office then. They have no such commitment toward any incoming administration. Should it become advisable or necessary for the Soviets to pull the rug from under those who took the promise of peace seriously, any new administration without Eisenhower could fill the bill as an alleged new champion of continued cold war.

France is a keystone of NATO and some evidence of renewed solidarity between her and her allies seems necessary if Soviet calculations are to be upset. But it will take considerably more than the famed Ike grin to warm the chill which has descended on the Allied talks in Paris this week.

Castro Declares U.S. Newsman Will Stand Trial

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro Thursday night told a nationwide television audience that American newsmen James Buchanan would stand trial before a Cuban court.

Castro asserted that Cuban authorities have proof of the complexity of Buchanan, a correspondent for the Miami, Fla., Herald, in the case of Frank Austin Young.

Young, an American soldier of fortune, escaped from a jail in western Cuba after he was sentenced to 30 years in prison for anti-Castro activities. Buchanan interviewed him during his brief period of freedom, and the reporter was arrested a week ago, shortly after Young was recaptured in Havana.

Castro attacked the Inter-American Press Assn. for its request that Buchanan be released, saying "what they want is that he not even be tried."

"It will be the courts who give the final word," the Prime Minister declared.

Castro gave no indication, however, whether military or civil courts would try Buchanan.

Pictures Taken Of Polio Virus

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Polio viruses have been photographed for the first time inside the human cell where they were manufactured, the American Cancer Society reported today.

The photographs were made by Drs. D. C. Stuart, Jr., and Jorgen Fogh of the New York State Department of Health, supported by Society funds.

Contrary to current belief, the scientists said, polio viruses are not formed in the nucleus or heart of the human cell.

When the virus invades the cell and takes over the cell's mechanisms to manufacture more virus particles, it apparently does the manufacturing in the pool of liquid matter between the nucleus and the cell wall, the scientists said.

One single human cell can produce something like 100,000 virus particles in only a few hours, they said. These particles are so small that they occupy only about one or two per cent of the cell space.

Polio virus, one of the smallest viruses known to infect man, are so tiny that it would take almost a million of them end to end to make an inch.

The technique by which the polio viruses were photographed is important to the American Cancer Society because of the possibility that some kinds of cancer may be caused by viruses.

The researchers grew the polio virus in laboratory dishes in cells taken from a human placenta. Then it sliced some of the placental matter into extremely thin slices, and photographed these slices under an electron microscope.

Fishermen in the Mediterranean Sea use bright lamps as fish "bait." Anchovies are attracted by the lights and fishermen just scoop them into their boats.

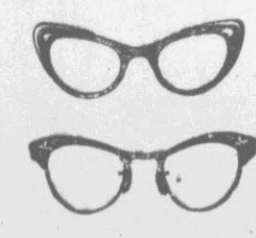

OFF TO JAIL—Dr. Willard Uphaus, prominent Methodist layman and lecturer, waves to friends as he is led off to prison at Concord, N. H. to serve a one-year term for contempt of court. Uphaus, 69-year-old self-styled "Christian pacifist," refused to give to the Communist-hunting New Hampshire attorney general a list of guests at Uphaus' World Fellowship Summer Camp at Conway, N. H., in 1953-54. (AP Wirephoto)

CHAPTER 9
Thursday was so warm that I decided we would clean the back porch. Rutledge has a long-handled brush that screws onto the hose for washing the cars which we also use for windows.

The only way not to mind water pouring down your neck when you use the brush is to wear a bathing suit and go barefooted, I have found.

I went ahead with the brush, and Old Beck followed with her scrub broom.

I said I would do the high places, and started with the back wall where the fuse boxes were. I gave these a good going over along with the part of the ceiling where I could reach.

We were almost through when suddenly it began to sound like Christmas morning. Those fuse boxes starting popping and spitting fire and Old Beck screamed and ran.

I yelled for Tilghman and dashed inside to call the electrician. I grabbed wildly for the telephone before I remembered it would be a fuzzy blur without my glasses.

I headed for the stairs and almost ran into Tilghman coming down. "The fuse boxes on the back porch!" I gasped as I climbed.

When I got the electrician's number a sweet young voice answered. "Good morning! We-Fix-It Electric Shoppe, specializing in home appliances, heating units, and air conditioner. May I help you?"

I said grimly that was the general idea, and explained about the fuse boxes.

The secretary said sweetly that all the boys were out just now, and would I like to leave a message?

I told her how this was an emergency, and the fuse boxes were spitting fire like space rockets, and how our house was made of long-leaf fat pine that would go up like a matchbox if it caught.

"Really?" she said with interest. Then she said she would try to get somebody out there after lunch.

Greenville F. W. B. Announcements

This Christmas Sunday everyone is urged to be present in Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. and learn anew the story of the birth of Jesus Christ.

At the 11 a.m. worship, the Senior Choir will sing the Christmas anthem "The Adoration", by Lorenz. The pastor's sermon topic will be "The Christ Centered Christmas" (Matt. 1:21).

At 4 p.m. there will be a special service of "Christmas Carols and Candles" rendered by the choir, congregation and the pastor. The public is invited to attend. There will not be any meetings of the Free Will Baptist Leagues.

Monday at 7:30 p.m. the Intermediate boys Sunday school class will meet in the Church Annex basement.

Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. cottage prayer services will be held at the following homes: Mr. James Adams, 1500 Ragdale Road; Mr. J. T. Worthington, 322 Clairmont Circle; Mr. William Cayton, 205 E. Tenth St.

Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. the pre-Christmas prayer services will be conducted by the Woman's Auxiliary for the entire church membership.

Mrs. Durwood Hawkins and Mrs. J. W. Allen will be in charge of the nursery at the 11 a.m. worship service.
December 31, 9 p.m.-12:05 a.m., there will be a Watch Night prayer service at the church.

Grace F. W. B. Announcements

"Good News For The World" will be the theme for the Sunday school at 9:45. "Why Jesus Came" will be the subject for the pastor's message on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Patsy Jones will render a solo.

A special Sunday school class for the deaf will be conducted at 2:30 p.m. Robert Leggett is director.

"Star Light, Star Bright" will be the theme for the League at 6:45 p.m. The Sunday evening service at 7:45 will feature a Christmas Cantata sung by a 25-voice choir under the direction of Bill Lloyd with Ralph Mills as accompanist.

Monday night at 7:30 is visitation time.
The Youth Choir, Y.P.A. and Senior Class will have their Christmas Fellowship and go Christmas caroling on Tuesday night.

Prayer meeting and choir rehearsal will be conducted at 7:30 on Wednesday night.

COMING EVENTS: January 1, Watch Night Service. January 2, Prayer Meeting.
January 3-10, Evangelistic service conducted by Rev. Raymond Riggs.

Red Oak Christian Announcements

The Annual Benevolence Offering for the Children's Home in Atlanta, Ga. and the Florida Christian Home, Jacksonville, will be received in each class Sunday morning. The basic support of these two homes is received through the Christmas offerings of Disciple Churches in the states of the Southeast area.

At the morning worship service the Rev. Howard James will preach on the topic "The Prince of Peace." The Sanctuary Choir will sing "The Song of Angels" by Forrest Walter with Miss Joyce Jackson and James Sydney Allen as soprano and tenor soloists, respectively.

Flowers will be provided by Mr. and Mrs. Roland R. Cannon and Mrs. Esther Cox. A nursery is provided for the 11 o'clock service.

Mrs. B. Leon Tyson is serving as publicity chairman for the Christmas Cantata, "Good Tidings of Joy," which will be presented by the Sanctuary Choir Sunday at 5 p.m. There will be a candle-light procession by the 35-voice choir. A color filmstrip, projected by Jimmy Wynne, will portray the panorama of the birth of the Christ Child as it is sung by the choir.

On Monday night from 7-9 the Christian Youth Fellowship will go caroling at Pitt Memorial Hospital and selected homes of sick and shut-in members and friends. Student Recognition Day will be observed on December 27.

Postal Clerks In Giving Mood

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Postal clerks in Worcester are adding their bit to the Christmas spirit of giving.

Persons mailing cards to Mexico and Canada apparently don't realize that four-cent stamps are required rather than the customary three-cent stamps.

The National Federation of Post-Office Clerks, with the blessing of their superiors, agreed "it would not be in the proper Christmas spirit to forward mail bearing a one-cent postage due stamp."

So they are adding the needed stamps.

Expenditure up to Thursday night was 1,000 stamps.

WHAT COOPERATION?

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A Norfolk Ledger Star reporter sent to cover a lecture for rookie cops on "the cooperative function of the police department with the newspapers" came back empty handed. The police barred the press from the meeting.

Centenarian Has Plans To Vote

WOODBURGE, N.J. (AP) — Catherine Lorimer celebrated her 100th birthday Thursday night and announced that she would vote for the first time in next year's presidential election.

She became a naturalized citizen last April at 99. A native of Stirling, Scotland, Mrs. Lorimer came to this country in 1928.

Divorce Granted Grace's Sister

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Margaret (Peggy) Kelly Davis, sister of Princess Grace of Monaco, has been granted a divorce from George L. Davis Jr., president of the Philadelphia Ramblers of the Eastern Hockey League.
The action was disclosed Thursday. Grounds for the divorce were not disclosed. The suit was not contested.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Luke 2:8-14; Acts 11:19-30.

After the angel had told the shepherds about the birth of Jesus, the Christ, they said to one another, "Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which... the Lord hath made known unto us."—Luke 2:15.

They went, found Mary and Joseph, and the Babe lying in the manger. When they had seen this they told everyone they met the saying which had been told them, "And all they that heard it wondered."—Luke 2:18.

When persecutions of Christ's followers began, Stephen traveled to Phenice, north of Palestine, Cyprus and Antioch, preaching the word to the Jews only, and converted many to the Christ.—Acts 11:19-21.

A great famine fell on Judaea. The disciples determined to send relief to the brethren who dwelt there, and they sent it by Barabas and Saul. —Acts 11:28-30. MEMORY VERSE—Luke 2:10.

Good News for the World

CHRIST'S BIRTH IS ANNOUNCED FIRST TO SHEPHERDS BY AN ANGEL

Scripture—Luke 2:8-14; Acts 11:19-30.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

IN HIS introduction to today's lesson, the Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith writes in Peloubet's Select Notes, "We believe this is the first time in these assignments that a passage on activity in one of the early New Testament churches has been combined with the Christmas story—and it is a very good selection."

He suggests also that the younger classes' teachers may find it rather difficult to introduce the subject of the church at Antioch with the nativity narrative.

"There is a connection however. In the angelic announcement to the shepherds, the phrase, 'Good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people,' is a missionary message, and the account of the church at Antioch represents a fulfillment of the announcement of the angel at the time of Jesus' birth."

"And there were in the same country (where Mary gave birth to her Son) shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone around about them; and they were sore riches and most precious gifts" but was also celebrated "for its wicked pre-eminence amid the awful corruption which then overspread the cities of the world."

"The lesson begins with a reference to that early period of persecution, so vigorously carried out by Saul of Tarsus and described in the opening verses of Acts 8, which scattered abroad many of the followers of the Lord Jesus."

"Now they which were scattered abroad upon the persecution that arose about Stephen, traveled as far as Phenice, and Cyprus, and Antioch, preaching the word to none but Jews only. And some of them were men of Cyprus and Cyrene, which, when they were come to Antioch, spake unto the Grecians, preaching the Lord Jesus Christ. And the hand of the Lord was with them; and a great number believed, and turned unto the Lord."—Acts 11:19-21.

"Then tidings of these things came unto the ears of the church which was in Jerusalem; and they sent forth Barnabas, that he should go as far as Antioch. Who, when he came, and had seen the grace of God, was glad, and exhorted them all, that with purpose of heart they afraid."—Luke 2:8-9.

MEMORY VERSE

"I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people."—St. Luke 2:10.

"And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David (Bethlehem) a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

"And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the Babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."—Luke 2:10-14.

The Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith asks, "Why did the angels choose the shepherds as the recipients of this divinely sent message? They were not sent to a palace, nor to the religious leaders of Jerusalem, to the kindred of Mary in Nazareth, nor to any well-known and well-educated persons. 'No doubt the message came to them... because they were ready to receive it. And another possible reason may have been the fact that the One born was the Son of David, who himself was a shepherd lad.'"

Now we must turn from the beautiful story of the birth of Christ to the city of Antioch, which, to quote again from the Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith's Peloubet's Notes was "blessed in situation and in Nature's favor on copyrighted outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of Churches in the U.S.A., and used by permission. Distributed by King Features Syndicate would cleave unto the Lord. For he was a good man, and full of the Holy Ghost and of faith; and much people was added unto the Lord. "Then departed Barnabas to Tarsus, for to seek Paul. And when he had found him, he brought him unto Antioch; where 'it came to pass, that a whole year they assembled themselves with the church, and taught much people. And the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch.'—Acts 11:22-26.

Prophets from Jerusalem came to Antioch and one named Agabus foretold that there would be a famine throughout all the world, which really came to pass. "Then the disciples, every man according to his ability, determined to send relief unto the brethren which dwelt in Judaea; which also they did, and sent it to the elders by the hands of Barnabas and Saul."—Acts 11:27-30.

In his "Truth for the Class to Carry Away," Dr. Wilbur M. Smith says: "One truth underlies the entire lesson: Christ is come, and by His coming we have peace, and joy and everlasting life." Men in that time began to spread the Gospel to all they met. "This is the task of the church, and the Christmas season is the opportune time of all the year for speaking to others about the Lord."

Career Revived Again
For Fred MacMurray

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How many careers can an actor have? In Fred MacMurray's case, there seems to be no limit.

The call for Fred's services is strong again, thanks in large part to a supernatural pooch named "The Shaggy Dog." The hit comedy not only revived Fred's career; it brought him a whole new audience.

"It was surprising for me to get out of town and have little kids ask for my autograph," he said.

MacMurray is one of those stars who has made his success the hard way: through performances alone. He has never had a knack for publicity, and scandal has never touched his name.

Fortunately, he has come up with a big hit every few years in his quarter-century in films. He had several during the '30s, when he started with Carole Lombard

Claudette Colbert in sophisticated comedies. Then he took a turn for the dramatic with "Double Indemnity."

Right now he's playing another heavy for Director Billy Wilder—the part of a wolfish office boss in "The Apartment." But he returns to comedy for Walt Disney again next year. He'll play "The Absent-minded Professor."

Fred made four and five films a year during his decade at Paramount and still averages two or three. He's content to do less and choose instead of working any harder.

"Some actors can't stand not working," he remarked. "Not me. There are too many things I like to do, like getting up to our ranch in northern California. And June and I are getting a big kick out of our twins, who are three and a half years old now."

He told of how he almost got trapped into working harder. He and Randolph Scott dreamed up a TV series over a golf match. They entered into negotiations with a network and the deal was hot. Then Fred went up to his ranch and felt remorse. He called Scott and asked, "Do you really want to work that hard?"

"No," Scott admitted, and they managed to wriggle out of the deal.

Prefers Savings
To Status Mark

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Here is a state official who is more interested in saving public money than he is in status.

Charles A. Kilvert, Rhode Island director of administration, said Thursday night he will turn in his expensive car for one in the low price field to save the state money.

"I just don't see any sense in assigning expensive cars to directors," he said. "Low priced cars can get us around just as well and a lot cheaper."

Choir Will Present Cantata At Church Sunday Evening

The 30 voice choir of Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church, Route 2, Winterville, will sing the cantata, "Love Transcending," Sunday night at 7:30. The choir is under the direction of Rev. Henry Melvin, pastor. Mrs. Paul S. Braxton is organist. Mrs. William C. Little will direct the seven scenes from the Nativity that will be given by a cast of 14 youths in connection with the cantata.

Wants That Old
Clock Removed

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Why would anybody want to own a 52-year-old clock standing on a 20-foot pedestal in front of a downtown store?

Jeweler Homer L. Carroll, who owns the store, would like to know. Mr. and Mrs. Dean Black, who own the clock, say they just like owning it—that's all.

The three took their dispute before the Board of Public Works here Thursday.

"That clock is just an old junker," said Carroll. He demanded it be removed because it doesn't fit in with his shiny new optical store.

"I've tried," said Carroll, "but I can't understand why he likes the clock so well. And why does it have to be on the street? Why doesn't he take it home and put it up in his back yard?"

Said Black: "Different people put values on different things."

Black, an electronics firm worker, said he and his wife bought the clock six months ago "for the simple pleasure of owning it." They paid $25 to a former jeweler, who had tried earlier to sell it to Carroll. Carroll wouldn't buy.

Once a week, the Blacks pack their two children into the car, pick up a friend, and drive downtown to wind their clock.

"We're just sentimentalists," said Mrs. Black. "It's a lot of fun."

The worst earthquake on record struck Shensi, China, on Jan. 24, 1956, taking 830,000 lives.

Good Health Is Also Rewarded

HACKENSACK, N. J. (AP)—By not missing a day in 36 years, Angelo Pirrotta piled up a year and a half of unused sick leave when he retired recently from the Bergen County Road Department.

The 63-year-old worker was given 90 days paid leave by the county in appreciation for his 536 unused sick days.

Three Bowl Games On Tap Lenoir Rhyne Plays On TV

By SHELTON SAKOWITZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

Three college football bowl games — the Liberty, Bluebonnet and Holiday — are on tap (Saturday) with a national television audience getting a look-see at the post-season action.

Alabama (7-1-2) opposes Penn State (2-2) in the Liberty Bowl at Philadelphia. Clemson (8-2) meets Texas Christian (8-2) in the Bluebonnet classic at Houston. And Lenoir Rhyne (10-0) of North Carolina plays Texas A&I (11-1) in the NAIA Holiday bowl at St. Petersburg, Fla.

CBS will telecast both the Holiday attraction, which starts at 12:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time and the Bluebonnet, beginning at 3:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time. The Liberty Bowl will be seen at 1 p.m. Eastern Standard time on NBC.

The Liberty and Bluebonnet bowls are newcomers to the postseason events. The promoters of the games, hoping for financial successes and good weather, have lined up four top teams despite keen competition from the established bowls.

TCU was the nation's seventh ranking team in the final Associated Press poll. Alabama was listed 10th, Clemson 11th and Penn State 12th.

The Holiday bowl, sponsored by the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics, has been billed for the small college title. It matches the survivors of a pair of preliminary playoffs.

The Liberty bowl is expected to draw a crowd of 50,000 to Philadelphia Stadium. Both Alabama and Penn State are reported to be in fine physical shape and the game shapes up as a test of Alabama's strong defense against Penn State's productive offense, headed by Richie Lucas. The Crimson Tide, of the Southeastern Conference, fourth best defensively this season, have allowed only 95 points in 10 games. The Nittany Lions, an Eastern independent, accumulated 255 points in their 10 games.

TCU, the co-champion of the Southwest Conference, rules an eight-point favorite to defeat Clemson, winner of the Atlantic Coast Conference. Some 70,000 fans are expected at Rice Stadium.

Lenoir Rhyne eliminated Southern Connecticut 47-20 and Texas A&I ousted Hillsdale (Mich.) 20-0 two weeks ago to gain the NAIA finals. Lenoir Rhyne, placing an 18-game winning streak on the line is a slight choice. A turnout of 10,000 is expected at Al Lang Field.

A couple of teams plagued with early season problems kick off their Northeastern 3-A Conference competition tonight at Washington.

Greenville, badly feeling the effects of its graduation toll, and a veteran Washington five square off tonight in the first conference game for both clubs.

The Pam Pack had an overlap in football and their practices prior to the opening cage game were limited. Yet, they have the edge on Greenville in the won-lost column and will rate as heavy favorites over their arch-rivals.

After going to the finals in the conference tournament last winter, Washington has been tabbed their entire starting club depart through graduation. Replacements have resulted in a young, inexperienced club that is capable of making more mistakes than a first year typist.

Parley has little height on his starting five but the lack of experience seems to be most prevalent factor in early season combat. Rose High is winless in their first three starts which has been against 4-A opposition. The Greenville general has substituted freely in his first three games, hoping to come up with a winning combination, and this could prove advantageous as the Phants turn their sights to conference action.

Probable starting lineup for the Phants tonight will have Charles Taft and Alan McArthur at forwards, Erskine Duff and Billy James at the guards and Layne Jorgensen at center.

Spunky Krogie Andresen has been Greenville's leading scorer in two of their first three games and is slated for plenty of duty along with other Phant reserves. Going into tonight's game, Greenville has taken it on the chin from Rocky Mount and Winston twice. Washington, 2-2 for the season, dropped a couple of games to Goldsboro, 50-42 and 53-46. The Pam PPack captured a 50-44 decision from Williams and swamped Edenton 57-38.

Probable starters: Greenville (5-10) Taft (5-11) Grimes (6-1) McArthur (5-10) Knowles (6-3) Jorgensen (6-3) Pittman (5-9) Duff (5-10) Waters (5-11) James (5-10)

Winning Cage Coaches Still Not Satisfied

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Basketball coaches, the psychological war is on.

The perennial crying towels got their first workout here Thursday. Now it's a battle down to the wire to see which coaches can outcry the others with dry eyes.

Take Ducey Moore of LaSalle, for example. Pity the poor man. His team is 5-0.

"There might be a poorer looking undefeated team in the nation than LaSalle today but it would have to be one that hasn't played yet," he laments.

And to top it off Ducey told a basketball writers' luncheon he "stayed up all Wednesday night trying to figure out what's wrong" after being "lucky" to beat Lafayette.

"We've been using three defenses right along," bemoaned Moore, "and we've shifted from good to bad to worse."

But save a little sympathy for Al Severance of Villanova. His Wildcat, too, are undefeated with five victories, including an impressive 68-56 triumph over arch rival North Carolina State.

"We're still not entirely satisfied with our defense," said Severance. "We held them (State) to 19 shots in the first half but they got 20 in the second half."

Next spoke Harry Litwack of Temple (5-1). He addressed his remarks to Severance.

"I don't know what you're holding about defense for. Maybe we've been lousy on defense because we don't have the big, rugged boys to battle for rebounds."

St. Joseph's coach Jack Ramsay said the club's failure to contain Cincinnati on defense last week "has been the story of our season."

Charley Scott Is Strong Contender

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Charley Scott is the No. 1 contender, winner of six straight, and anxious to get a little crack at welterweight champion Don Jordan.

But he doesn't intend to sit idly by and wait while dust gathers on his money mitts.

So tonight, the sleek, stiff-necked Philadelphian guns for his seventh in a row in a television (NBC 10 p.m. EST) 10-rounder with middleweight Benn (Kid) Paret of Cuba at Madison Square Garden.

Scott, 23, 148 pounds, is a 5-2 favorite to whip Paret, 22, and 154.

"Gotta keep busy and let the people hear about you," said Charley. "I may have a couple of more fights while Jordan is making up his mind."

Jordan was unexpectedly flattened in the fourth round by Federico Thompson of Argentina in a non-title fight to Buenos Aires last week. Philadelphia promoter Herman Taylor has offered Jordan a $75,000 guarantee to risk his crown against Scott.

The champ may not have too much time to make up his mind, either. The NBA has given him until Jan. 15 to sign for a title defense. On his record and rating, Scott deserves the shot. Unbeaten in 13 months, he has whipped, among others, Ike Logart, Ralph Dupas and Sugar Hart. He stopped Hart, then the top contender, in the ninth round last Oct. 19 and became top banana himself.

Scott was a so-so fighter until he started to put the latest streak together. He credits a new manager, Norman Henry, and the easing of home problems with making him a better fighter.

His record is 24-0, including 13 knockouts. Paret's record is 28-6-2 including eight kayos.

Paret is just the opponent but he could make it a lively show. The muscular Cuban shoots his punches in bursts of four and six at a clip. His punches look good but lack the power Scott fires in short, devastating left-right combinations.

Two other interesting ten rounders are on the card. Middleweight Phil Moyer of Portland, Ore., makes his New York debut against Willie Greaves of Detroit. And unbeaten welterweight Eddie Jordan, a tall Brooklynite, faces short, squat Walt Byars of Boston.

Scoring will be by rounds. A supplementary point system also will be used to help break draws.

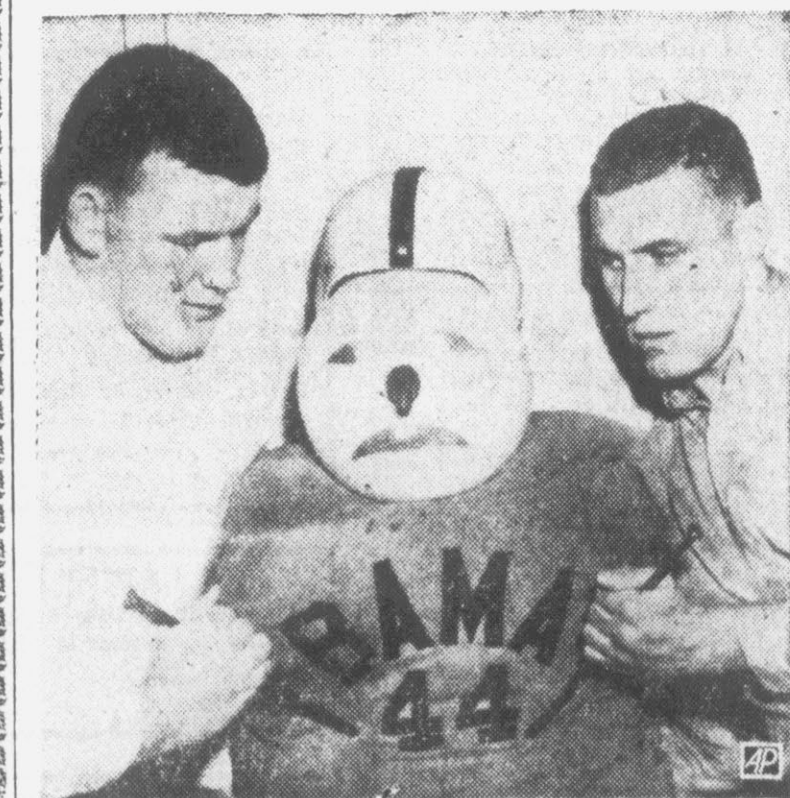

KROGIE ANDRESEN

as one of the 1959-60 favorites. A trio of seniors — Russ Knowles, Billy Pittman, and Adrian Waters — head the veteran club but have had to make the switch from football to the indoor sport.

Kent Denton and Sam Grimes, a couple of juniors, have gained the other two spots. Both saw service last season and are expected to blossom this winter.

Coach Bill Sweet doesn't have any problem when it comes to depth either. Cecil Cherry (6-4) and I. B. Paul (6-4) give Sweet a couple of touring prep giants that could make a smaller foe live hard. Billy Francis, Larry Windley, and Alan Foyner are the other boys that Sweet is banking his title hopes on.

On the other hand, Greenville is on a complete rebuilding stage. The Phantoms, regular season champions of the year past, saw

Blue Bonnet Tilt May Be Decided On Pass Offense

HOUSTON (AP)—The inaugural Bluebonnet Bowl winner probably will be determined on passes Saturday, if the predictions of the opposing Clemson and Texas Christian coaches are correct.

Both say the defense will be double tough on running plays.

Coach Frank Howard and Abe Martin exchanged their appraisals prior to sending their championship squads through final limbering up drills at the 70,000-seat Rice Stadium.

"TCU is a big, strong football team," said Howard. "They are a hard running, hard blocking team. They are so big they hold their ground."

Clemson's secondary is tough against running plays," Martin said. "Their tackles are real good. They will be hard to run against."

TCU will be an 8-point favorite as Houston makes its debut among major post-season bowl game sponsors. A crowd of at least 60,000 is expected and the game will be televised nationally (CBS, 3:30 p.m., EST) with the Houston area blacked out.

Both teams own 8-2 season records. TCU, the nation's No. 7 team, moved to a Southwest Conference title tie with Texas and Arkansas after early losses to Arkansas and Louisiana State. Clemson, ranked No. 11 nationally, won its second straight Atlantic Coast Conference championship while losing only to Georgia Tech and Maryland.

Martin brought his Horned Frogs into town today by train, some 24 hours after Howard and his Clemson squad arrived by plane.

Neither coach has seen the other team play but the schools exchanged game film after accepting their Bluebonnet invitations.

Two unidentified Clemson players cut loose with a few punches at each other during an hour-long drill Howard directed late Thursday.

Troubles Galore At Stokes - Pactolus

By ROY MARTIN
Reflector Sports Writer

The old adage, "When it rains, it pours," may well apply to the troubles that have been plaguing Stokes-Pactolus coach Zeke Coggins as his Blue Jays move along in another season of Pitt County Conference cage battles.

Coggins, embarking upon his first year as head boy's coach at Stokes-Pactolus, was first beset by difficulties when his mainstay, and All-Conference guard, Donald Hardison, was injured in a farm accident in the early part of the 1959-60 season. Hardison, a steady performer for the past three years, was the top scorer of the Blue Jay quintet, and was expected to carry much of the burden for the Stokes-Pactolus cause. Coggins says that he hopes that Hardison will be able to return to action by the first of January.

Without Hardison, Coach Coggins has the problem of building his team with inexperience freshmen. Carroll Fleming, one of the freshmen, and first-team center, is one of the S-P cagers which Coggins hopes will develop and be capable of sharing a good part of the scoring load for the Jays.

Billy Roebuck and Sammy Whitehurst are a couple of guards, upon which Coggins will be depending this season. Also forwards Joel Jinkins and Jimmy Roebuck will be sharing many of the scoring chores, as the season rolls on.

Coggins, in commenting on his team, summed his views up in one short sentence, "If these freshmen develop, we'll be alright."

Veteran girls coach Jack Edwards will be missing three All-Conference performers of his last year's championship team as Stokes-Pactolus moves into another cage season. Billy Angle, Lilly Turner and Linda Johnson, were the stalwarts of last year's Pitt County Conference Championship sextet, lost to Coach Edwards via the graduation route.

Returning for another year in the Blue Jay line-up, are what coach Edwards terms as "two excellent forwards," Rita Bullock and Carrie Lee Whitehurst. Lillian Crisp is another forward that may carry much of the scoring load for the female Blue Birds.

Coach Edwards, in speaking of the chances for repeat performance of last year's good fortune says, "I don't think we'll do too well, we are lacking in experience." "We have four seniors, but primarily the team is made up of freshmen."

The 1959-60 schedule of games to be played by the Stokes-Pactolus team includes:

Dec. 18—Farmville, home; Jan. 5—Farmville away; Jan. 8—Grifton, away; Jan. 12—Chicod, away; Jan. 15—Bethel, away; Jan. 19—Winterville, home; Jan. 22—Ayden, away; Jan. 26—Belvoir, away; Jan. 29—Beargrass, away; Feb. 2—Grimesland, away; Feb. 5—Grifton, home; Feb. 12—Bethel, home.

William And Mary Set For Rival

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

William and Mary's depth-shy Indians, a darkhorse contender for Southern Conference basketball honors, go against their first league foe tonight since they lost the biggest of their three big men.

The Indians invade George Washington minus 6-10 Chuck Sanders, who quit the team last week-end after a disagreement with Coach Bill Chambers. The loss of Sanders makes even more acute the Indians' depth problem, which was bad enough with him in the lineup.

William and Mary, however, still has the two smaller members of its big trio—Jeff Cohen and Bev Vaughan — and they could be more than a match for the Colonials' Dick Markowitz and company.

The Indians are unbeaten in their only conference start, while GW is 2-3 after absorbing defeats in Richmond last week at the hands of The Citadel and Furman. William and Mary is 5-2 overall, GW is 3-4.

West Virginia's champion Mountaineers, unbeaten in six starts and in their last 54 conference games, face St. Louis in the Kentucky Invitational Tournament at Lexington, Ky. North Carolina and Kentucky tangle in the other game of a tourney being billed as a battle for national rankings.

Last-place Virginia Military Institute, 1-4 in overall competition, also will take part in a Kentucky tourney, the All-American Tournament at Owensboro. The sophomore-studded Keydets meet Kentucky Wesleyan, while Middle Tennessee faces Southern Illinois.

Richmond's Spiders, now 3-4 overall after winning their last two starts, play host to touring Rhode Island in another non-conference clash that rounds the slate.

All conference teams were idle Thursday night.

Ayden Five Has Pre-Holiday Edge In Pitt

By ROY MARTIN

As the respective teams of the Pitt County Conference take a break from action for the Christmas holidays, Coach Stuart Tripp's Ayden Tornadoes hold the number one spot in the conference standings, with a record of five wins against one loss.

Right on the heels of the Tornadoes, and in second place are the Chicod Hornets of Coach Bob Powell, posting four wins, while having only one loss charged to their credit.

In the third position are the Grifton Bulldogs, coached by Alton Burke. The Bulldogs, thus far this season, have accumulated a record of five wins, while losing four games in conference play.

On the female side of the Pitt County Conference standings, defending champions, Stokes-Pactolus, and Grifton are tied in a tie for first place, posting records of five wins and no losses each.

In the third position, the Belvoir-Falkland girls show a record of four wins against only one loss, while Winterville's feminine basketballers are closing the gap with a record of three wins and two losses.

Catawba Wins Opening Round

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (AP)—

The Parris Island invitation basketball tournament continued here today with Wofford, Catawba, Newberry and Troy State in the winner's bracket.

Two of Thursday's first round games were settled in overtime. Newberry bumped the host Parris Island team 73-70 in overtime and Catawba eliminated Chattanooga 69-66 in overtime.

The other results saw Wofford top Erskine 78-57 and Troy State top Presbyterian College 98-74.

The higher scorer in all four games was Wofford's Bill Barbee who hit 30 points. Ronnie Rice led Erskine with 23.

Catawba had to come from behind to tie the score at 66-all and then defeat Chattanooga in overtime. Roy Clark with 26 points led the winners while Shirley Elliot with 17 sparked the losers.

Newberry got a 21-point effort from Charlie Gallagher in his win over Parris Island.

Carolina Coach Fears Wildcats On Home Floor

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Kentucky may not be No. 1 in the nation, but at home the Wildcats always can be ranked No. 1."

So says Frank McGuire, coach of the North Carolina basketball team which meets Kentucky tonight in the opening round of the Kentucky Invitation basketball tournament. St. Louis and West Virginia meet in the first game.

McGuire, who has had some bad nights at Lexington, warned his team before it left for the Blue Grass state: "Everyone's nice to you there. Before the game starts, they play 'My Old Kentucky Home' and everyone begins to feel mellow. Then, wham! The game starts and Kentucky tries to see how bad they can murder you."

Kentucky (3-2) and North Carolina (3-0) should be a good match. With two of last year's Tar Heel starters—Doug Moe and Dick Knappe—sidelined, McGuire has had to work in new men.

"We're not a great team," says McGuire. "My boys this year have worked harder than any team I've ever handled. With Moe and Knappe out, we've stressed defense. And we respect Kentucky—especially at Lexington. Basketball is a home game. Having the stands full of your own rooters gives the home team a big lift."

The Lexington tournament shapes up as one of the finest ever. West Virginia is 6-0 and St. Louis, which has defeated Kentucky this season, is 5-1. The winners and losers tonight are paired Saturday night.

Duke (2-1), another Atlantic Coast Conference team involved in a weekend tournament, plays Alabama (2-3) in the nightcap of the Birmingham Classic tonight. Navy (5-0) meets Auburn (4-0) in the first game. The winners and the losers are paired Saturday night.

Wake Forest, which edged Virginia 67-64 in Thursday night's only ACC game, moves to Maryland tonight for an important conference game, and Florida State is at Clemson in a non-conference go.

South Carolina of the ACC took its third straight loss Thursday night, a 94-80 beating from Tennessee in a game in which a total of 67 fouls were called. South Carolina dropped in 28 straight free throws in one stretch. The Gamecocks also had the night's high scorer in Mike Callahan who dropped in 34 points.

Adlai Says He Sees New Hope For An End To Big Arms Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson says he sees new hope for an end to the arms race with the Soviet Union.

"Once a revolutionary regime leaves behind its adolescent fanaticism," Stevenson writes in the quarterly magazine, Foreign Affairs, "risk and cost become powerful considerations. I believe they exercise genuine influence in Moscow today and that we should do what we can to encourage the trend."

The former Illinois governor and two-time Democratic nominee for the presidency has said he is not a candidate for the 1960 nomination. But Foreign Affairs says Thursday's 7,500-word article is his most comprehensive discussion of foreign affairs since his 1956 campaign.

"I am much encouraged by evidence from many quarters that the Russians are genuinely worried about the political and technical dangers and the cost to the USSR of continuing the arms race indefinitely," he wrote.

He said it appears that "controlled disarmament" was back at the top of the world's agenda "where it belongs." But, he added, the West must maintain a balance of military power with the Communists—for its own safety and to strengthen its hand during disarmament talks.

Stevenson also suggested that the Free World pool its resources for a 200-billion-dollar investment program for underdeveloped nations.

He said the program would last 40 years and "we shall have to coordinate all aspects of the effort with other nations—not only investment but opportunities for trade, international liquidity and so forth the developed nations must all cooperate."

"To me," he added, "the two most dangerous realities we now face are the multiplication of nuclear weapons and the disparity in living standards between the rich nations and the poor."

He said the Eisenhower administration has lost the initiative to the Soviets by giving priority unnecessarily to budgetary considerations.

Rockefeller Favors Early Segregation End

By RELMAN MORIN
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says, by implication, that the Eisenhower administration could have done more to speed up desegregation of the public schools.

He expressed this belief in Texas as he neared the end of a political fact-finding tour through seven states today.

"I won't be satisfied until we achieve our goal," he said. He defined the goal as "ultimate equality for all."

In news conferences in the South, reporters questioned Rockefeller closely about his opinions on the bitter controversy over the schools.

He said he is not satisfied with the pace of desegregation. At the same time he counseled patience and said "understanding" is needed. He said parties of interest should be brought together. "A great deal can be done by a group sitting down informally, not in the glare of public attention."

The following was an exchange in one press conference.

"Q. Do you feel that progress made since the Supreme Court decision has been at a satisfactory rate?"

"A. I suppose satisfactory would depend on somebody's definition of the word. It's not satisfactory in terms of our goals of ultimate equality for ALL."

"Q. Are you satisfied then with the progress?"

"A. No. I won't be satisfied until we get our goal but I understand why in many areas why the pace hasn't been faster and I think understanding is a very important factor in this field."

Answering another question, Rockefeller said "I think the executive, wherever it can, can bring together parties in cities and states, citizens who are in touch with these questions, educators and so forth."

In such conditions, he said, "people can jointly seek the ways to achieve what I think we all have accepted as a national objective."

The next exchange in the press conference went as follows.

"Q. Has the Eisenhower administration done this effectively?"

"A. I suppose you can say that when you haven't achieved a goal there is always room to do more."

"Q. Do you think the rate would have been more satisfactory if President Eisenhower at the outset had personally become involved in this?"

"A. I think it's always easier to look backwards on what you could have done that you didn't do to make it better. Therefore, I think one might say that had he called certain groups together it might have been very helpful. But that is hindsight and I don't see any sense in looking backwards. It's a question of where do we go from here to facilitate the achievements of these objectives."

In another question he was asked about the "propriety" of the Supreme Court decision of May, 1954, outlawing segregation in the public schools.

"Is there any question about the Supreme Court decision?" Rockefeller shot back.

"The president, for one," said a reporter, "has always refused to state his position."

Rockefeller replied, "That is up to the President if he wants to express himself or not. I have expressed my opinion that I thought it was a very constructive decision."

Rockefeller headed for Miami today on the last leg of a tour that has taken him through Indiana, Missouri, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Oklahoma, and Texas.

He says the purpose of the trip is to talk with Republican leaders to discuss issues—and to help him decide whether to try for the Republican nomination for president.

Along the whole route, he passed through areas where the majority of Republican officials and party workers are considered favorable to Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the nomination. Many of them told him so.

However, he told reporters after leaving virtually every one of the states, that he received promises of support from other Republicans.

That was true, he said, in Oklahoma on Wednesday and in Texas Thursday, although both states are considered strongly favorable to Nixon.

Arriving in Houston, a number of Republican leaders met him at the airport. They included Thad Hutcheson, GOP state chairman, Oveta Culp Hobby, former secretary of health, welfare and education, and Albert Pay, state finance chairman.

Hutcheson told a reporter later that Nixon is the favorite of the great majority of Texas Republicans for two reasons.

"He is known in Texas," Hutcheson said, "Also, we are pretty conservative people here and the fact that Rockefeller raised taxes in New York, along with the talk that he is a liberal, didn't set well with a lot of people."

Some 400 people attended a reception for Rockefeller and applauded frequently—and with enthusiasm—when he made an impromptu talk. Although all the guests had shaken hands with him as they entered the room, crowds massed around him after he finished speaking.

One man said, "Governor, you make up your mind and make it up to run. You've made a lot of friends here tonight."

Three Injured As Train Hits Car

MEBANE, N.C. (AP) — Three Negroes were injured, two of them critically, when their automobile was struck by a Southern Railway freight train near here Thursday night, the Highway Patrol reported.

Hospitalized at Chapel Hill were Othie Lee Dixon, 20, with severe head injuries and lacerations; Oren Arden Enoch, 23, severe head injuries; and James B. Dixon, multiple fractures and possible internal injuries. Their condition was described today as poor.

James Dixon was the least seriously hurt, authorities said. It was not determined whether the Dixon were related. All three men are of Rt. 3, Burlington.

Daniel Reeds Hoskins of Spencer, the engineer, said the vehicle stopped at the crossing as his train approached, then pulled onto the tracks. The car was demolished. The train was damaged about $200 worth, Hoskins told authorities.

Highway Patrolman C. W. Oakley said the car was owned by Othie Dixon, but it was not determined who was driving since all three were thrown clear.

Convict Nine Of Plot To Defraud

DENVER (AP) — A U.S. District Court jury Thursday convicted nine men associated with the International Union of Mine, Mill & Smelter Workers Inc. of conspiring to defraud the government.

Judge Alfred A. Arraj allowed the defendants to remain free on $5,000 bond each pending defense motions.

Telford Taylor, chief defense lawyer, said he will ask that the verdict be set aside. Failing that, he said, he will appeal the case to the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here. Judge Arraj set Jan. 18 as the deadline for any defense motions.

The convicted men each face a possible maximum penalty of 5 years in prison and a $10,000 fine. They went on trial here Oct. 26 on charges of conspiring to file false non-Communist affidavits with the National Labor Relations Board in order that the union could make use of the agency's services in labor matters.

The convicted men are Maurice Travis of Richmond, Calif.; Irving Dichter of Denver; Raymond Dennis of Cleveland; James Durkin of Chicago; Chase Powers of Spokane, Wash.; Albert Skinner of Salt Lake City; Jesse Van Camp of Danville, Ill.; Charles H. Wilson of Columbia, Tenn.; and Harold Sanderson of Denver.

Dichter is the union's secretary-treasurer while Travis formerly held that office. Sanderson is union comptroller, and Powers, Skinner and Dennis are members of the union's executive board.

Attained Dream Of Taking Vows Before Death

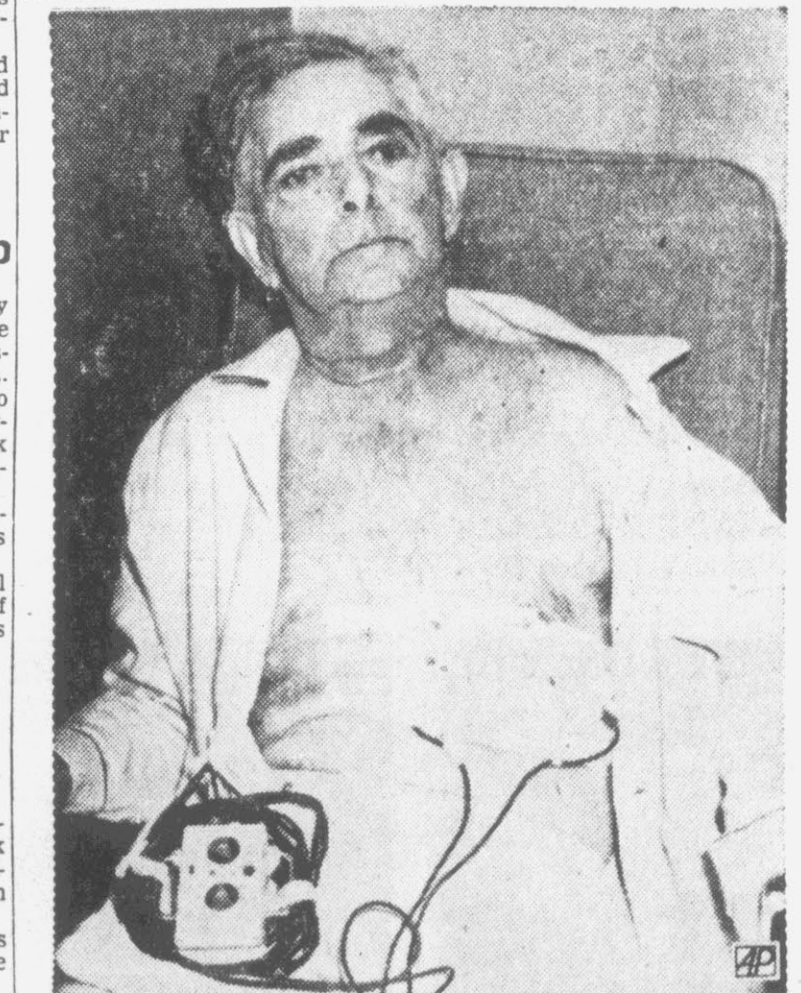

HAMDEN, Conn. (AP) — Four years ago, when Antoinette Galati was only 14, she had set her heart on becoming a Roman Catholic nun.

Thursday she got her wish. Antoinette entered Mt. Sacred Heart Convent here four years ago and started the long years of study that end in the nun's final vows. She realized she would be 20 before her studies were finished.

But last week the girl was taken sick. Doctors found that she had cancer. It would take her life soon, they said. They arranged for an operation, but they had little hope that it would help.

The doctors operated Thursday morning. Because the operation was so delicate, the girl was allowed to take her final vows as a nun beforehand, two years ahead of time.

When Antoinette came out of the operating room, she was Sister Mary Benjamin. And a few hours later the 18-year-old nun died. She will be buried Saturday in the Sisters plot at St. Lawrence Cemetery.

ELECTRIC SHOCKER WORKS HEART—Michael Fairman, 78, is having visitors and enjoying life at a Brunswick, Ga. hospital because an electric shocker device wired into his chest triggers his heart action. Long hollow needles, inserted without surgery, grip Fairman's heart tissues in the first application of the shocker. Doctors hope his heart will develop its old ability to trigger its own beats and the device can be discarded. (AP Wirephoto)

Recover Three Watches In Hunt

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Three wrist watches of a type thought to contain possible radioactive strontium were located Thursday in El Paso by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The watches are Rolex GMT-Master wrist watches and also bear the marking Oyster Perpetual on the face. They are manufactured by a Swiss company.

The AEC and the distributor are trying to get back all of this type watch because of the possibility that some may contain dangerous amounts of the radioactive material.

Two of the watches were located in an El Paso jewelry store, and the third was from a radio listener who heard of the search over station KROD in El Paso.

Ethel Merman Admits Break-Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway singer Ethel Merman admits she and her airlines executive husband, Robert F. Six, are at odds.

"We have amicably agreed to go our separate ways," Miss Merman said Thursday. "I don't think there is going to be any reconciliation."

Friends believe that long separations due to their work are factors in the parting.

Six is president of Continental Air Lines, which operates west of Chicago. They married six years ago in Mexico.

Train Ran Into Dynamite Truck

TOKYO (AP) — A crowded passenger train crashed into a truck loaded with 5,000 sticks of dynamite today at Yokokawa City, in central Japan.

Twenty Japanese passengers were injured, but the dynamite didn't explode.

The origin of all life on earth is believed to be the sea.

College Christmas Art

Bob Jones University's Museum of Religious Art at Greenville, S. C.

Visitors stop to admire the Old Masters exhibited in the museum.

ADORATION OF THE MAGI—by Bonifazio Veronese (1487-1553)

ADORATION OF THE SHEPHERDS—by Pier Francesco Sacchi, an Italian painter of early 16th century.

Culture, art and religion thrive on the campus of Bob Jones University, at Greenville, S. C., an institution which combines secular and religious training. Among its many fine buildings is a museum devoted exclusively to religious art of the Old Masters. It is said to be the only college museum of its kind in the country.

The paintings in the museum are the representative works of such Renaissance masters as Veronese, Donato Creti, Francisco de Zurbaran, Gerard David, Murillo, Giuseppe Chiari, Pier Francesco Sacchi, David Ghirlandaio, Ribera, and Van Dyck. They are displayed in a series of 15 magnificent galleries including several authentic wood-paneled Gothic chambers. The collection was assembled in less than 10 years by Dr. Bob Jones, Jr., president of the university. More than 20,000 visitors go through the museum each year.

Originals in Bob Jones University's Collection of Religious Art, which beautifully tell the Christmas story—the Nativity, Madonna and Child, and related themes of the Birth of Christ—are pictured here.

Burly Police Officer Is Finding Help In Prayer

NEW YORK (AP) — A burly, high-ranking police officer, kneeling in prayer with a pair of teenage boys. This is a common scene at offices of the man who supervises law enforcement today in one of the city's toughest neighborhoods.

Deputy Inspector Conrad S. Jensen does the job—not just with a strong arm — but with spiritual stimulation. The Bible is his handbook.

"It's the only real answer for any situation," he says.

Big, muscular, 48-year-old Jensen for 3½ years has commanded the 23rd Precinct, embracing Manhattan's discordant, racially variegated, gang-ridden East Harlem.

"What most of these people need," he commented in an interview, "is a little love and attention."

On the force 23 years, Jensen this month was promoted from precinct captain to divisional deputy inspector.

"I try to discharge my duties first as a Christian, then as a policeman," he said.

"When a person comes to the place that he realizes the word of God does have the answers to the problems of society, it is amazing what happens."

In motley, jumbled East Harlem with its Italian-Negro-Irish-German-Puerto Rican population and the biggest concentration of youth gangs in town, the high crime rate has declined during Jensen's tenure.

He urged his force to make friends with residents, to help them with their troubles. Officers are sent into schools to make talks.

"We try to latch on to every opportunity to do good," he said. Jensen's office door is always open to any kid that wants to see him.

Jensen keeps a Bible on his desk. In discussions with upset families or worried teen-agers, he often reads pertinent verses, sometimes kneeling with them in prayer.

The 230-pound, 6-foot-1 man, one of the police department's ace pistol shots, comments: "The only time to use force is to overcome resistance. In that case, a policeman has a legitimate right and a duty to use any method to protect himself. If a hand is laid on me, I'll fracture as many skulls as I can reach."

Even so, he says, neither the nightstick nor jail is the real solution. As a Baptist lay evangelist, he spends his spare time and days off speaking at about a dozen meetings in settlement projects and elsewhere each month.

He has written numerous tracts about juvenile delinquency and moral regeneration.

"I don't believe the answer is in new houses and new playgrounds, but in new people. They can be changed, and only the gospel can change them. The gospel of Christ can change anybody."

Not Much Time Left, So Dr. Dooley Going Back

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Thomas Dooley believes a chest cancer makes his chances for a long life, bleak, but he is heading back to jungle hospital work in Laos avowedly "the happiest man alive."

"I'm not worried about dying," the boyishly handsome St. Louis physician, 32, told reporters at London airport Thursday night. "I figure what I have crammed into my life makes me really 65. I aim to die quietly in my home town."

Dr. Dooley left his Laotian work last August to go to the United States for removal of a tumor on the chest wall and a lecture tour that raised $400,000 for ailing Laotian children.

"Not long ago I was given 18 months to live," he said. "I recently underwent surgery in New York and the results showed the cancer has not spread further. That's why I am going back to the jungle."

"But I am afraid that records of people who have suffered from this type of cancer make my prospects very bleak. It's the fastest growing cancer there is."

Five years ago Dr. Dooley was a medical officer on a U.S. naval ship assigned to help hundreds of refugees fleeing from Communist North Viet Nam. Touched by their sufferings, he resolved to do something more to help after leaving the Navy.

He helped to found Medico Medical International Cooperation and established a three building hospital at Muong Sing, near the China-Laos border. The 30-mat hospital (we don't have any beds") handles 100 patients a day and babies day and night.

Dr. Dooley has published two best-selling books and his life is being made into a movie.

Deaths Declared Murder-Suicide

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. (AP) — A Fayetteville, N.C., evangelist and a woman were found shot to death Thursday at a Johnson City rooming house, and police said it was a murder-suicide.

The Rev. Frank L. Hughes, about 77, and Miss Dovie Markland, about 66, were found shot with a .38-caliber pistol. Police said Hughes shot Miss Markland three times and then shot himself.

The officers said Hughes left four notes, one of them accusing another preacher as "the cause of all this."

WIDOW DIES

ROME (AP) — Antonietta Pirandello, widow of the Italian dramatist and novelist Luigi Pirandello, died in a Rome hospital Thursday after years of illness. She was 87. Pirandello, winner of the 1934 Nobel Prize for literature, died in 1936.

Crew Saved As Freighter Sinks

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The freighter was sinking fast. Radio operator Audrey Corbett sent a last-minute SOS.

The distress call was heard in San Francisco. Then silence. A section of the ship's hold had been flooded.

Fifteen crewmen of the Guam Pioneer scurried into two lifeboats and rowed desperately to escape the sinking ship's deadly whirlpool.

They watched the 3,500-ton freighter, laden with scrap iron, slip under the water. They were about 340 miles southwest of Los Angeles.

The crew, including Americans, Cubans, Greeks and Spaniards, drifted in lifeboats for eight hours. A heavy fog hung low, but two low-flying Coast Guard planes pierced the mist and sighted the lifeboats.

Another Navy vessel, the USS Pickett, took the seaman aboard for the long trip back to San Francisco.

Demo Nat'l Committee To Meet January 22 On Convention Program

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic National Committee will meet here Jan. 22 to discuss 1960 national convention and campaign plans.

While the meeting's agenda has yet to be decided, several state leaders have indicated they will fight National Chairman Paul M. Butler's proposal to penalize states behind in their campaign donations.

Some committeemen also have spoken up in favor of the Butler proposal which would assign convention seats and hotel rooms on the basis of state records of financial support of the National Committee in the 39 months up to April 1, 1960.

The Democrats have been having difficulties meeting current operating expenses at national headquarters while at the same time raising money to pay off a huge deficit from the 1956 campaign.

A spokesman for the ship's agent, Transmarine Navigation Co., said the rescue was "a miracle."

Aboard the freighter were Capt. Mahlon Boese and three other Americans, Capt. Harry Drew, one of the ship's owners; Hubert McCall of Honolulu, chief engineer; and Corbett, believed to be from Texas.

Collapsed Over Payment Demand

LONDON (AP) — A letter from the Battersea City Hall arrived for 19-year-old Victor Brooker on the day after his funeral.

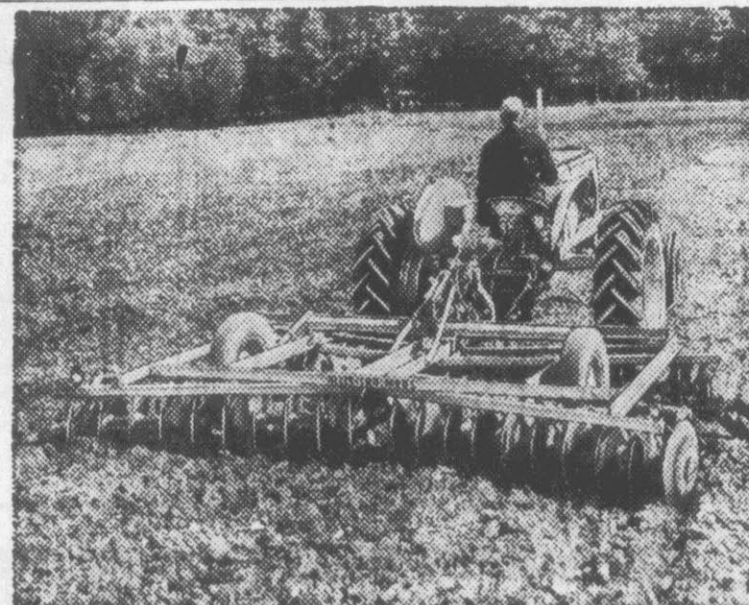

It demanded payment for sand used in cleaning up bloodstains after an auto smash.

A heavy fog collapsed when she read it. Her husband was killed in the accident.

Another scrap that may materialize at the Jan. 22 meeting is a proposal which Illinois Commit-

Arvey would give each state the same number of votes in the committee as it has in the national

Special Trips To Bring His Mail

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — Postal workers have been making special trips to deliver Christmas cards to Jeffrey Baczuk, 6.

Jeffrey, a leukemia victim, is on the critical list at the Navy Hospital here. A newspaper story about him was published this week.

He has received about 450 messages so far. His mother, Mrs. John Baczuk, says she's "amazed that so many people would take time out during this busy season to write to a little boy they don't even know."

"His father and I read every card to him. He's so thrilled. He says he feels the cards and prayers will help him get home again for Christmas, but of course he's not sure."

Neither are Jeffrey's doctors. They have told his parents not to count on his return.

convention instead of the traditional two votes each. On the basis of the 1960 convention vote apportionment, this would give New York 114 votes and Illinois 69 votes, with only 9 each for Vermont and Hawaii. All these states now have an even voice in the committee.

Committee officials see little chance of the Arvey proposal getting committee approval because many of the smaller states would refuse to give up the equal power they now enjoy with the larger states.

Arvey could take the fight to the national convention for a showdown vote, but he has not indicated he would take that step. Some committeemen see the Arvey proposal as an attempt to trim Butler's wings or possibly to oust him. Butler has withstood ouster threats in the past by overwhelming margins.

The Jan. 22 meeting will precede a $100 a plate fund-raising dinner the committee will give the next night at which former President Harry S. Truman and seven Democratic presidential possibilities are listed for speeches.

Singer Fails To Break Contract

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Annette Funicello has failed to get out of her seven-year contract with Disney Productions Inc.

Miss Funicello, 17, contended Thursday the 1955 contract was "inequitable" and that she signed it without the advice of an agent or lawyer.

Judge Benjamin Landis ruled he had no jurisdiction to set aside the earlier approval of the pact.

She got $160 a week to start. Her pay has risen to $325 and will increase to $500 in 1962 if all options are exercised.

Her current record, "First Name Initial," is among the top hits.

Wholesale Prices Fall But Living Cost Rise

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Wholesale commodity prices—as measured by some government and private indexes—have been falling. But the cost of maintaining your standard of living—as measured by official figures—has risen to new highs.

This seeming paradox confuses many who ask: How come? Part of the answer is in the many costs that beset the progress of a raw material on its way to its final retail price.

And part of the answer is in the nature of the various indexes themselves—how they are made up and what they are expected to tell.

The daily wholesale commodity price index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics is near a 10-year low, well below the base 1947-49 average. It covers 22 items regularly sold in commodity markets and susceptible to frequent price changes due to the many cross currents of trade.

The Associated Press daily index of 35 commodities also is trailing six points below its 1959 high and is now the lowest since May 1950. Not all the commodities are selling at their low point for the year, by any means. But big drops in individual ones for reasons peculiar to themselves bring the index down.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics also has a monthly index covering close to 2,000 items. This one is slightly above its year ago mark.

In the AP commodity index the livestock and grain components are at their lows for the year. Foods hit their low point in April and then rose, but have been weak of late, especially butter.

Industrial raw materials hit their high for the year in October, but have been dropping since. The consumer price index of BLS, popularly known as the cost-of-living index, is the one to which many workers' pay scales are tied. It has gone to a record. Price of raw materials have played little part in setting the new high.

For one thing, it takes a time for changes in the cost of materials to work through the chain of production. More important is that the cost of living now is made up of many things carrying increasing weight in recent years.

One is the labor cost of turning scrap steel, say, into steel ingots, and then into processed steel for autos, and finally into cars on the dealer's floor.

But even more potent is the rise of other items in the cost-of-living index. Services steadily become more expensive and make up an ever increasing share of expenditures.

What production of raw material price changes, other than food, is reflected in the final cost of living index probably not even the slide rule boys in Washington could say.

PUBLIC NOTICE
NOTICE OF COMMISSIONER'S SALE OF REAL PROPERTY

Under and by virtue of the power and authority conferred upon the undersigned Commissioner by an order of the Superior Court of Pitt County duly signed and entered by Honorable D. T. House Jr., Clerk of said Court, on the 23rd day of November, 1959, in that certain Special Proceeding, being S. P. No. 6522 and entitled "Gatsy Williams Hyman et al. versus Pattie Williams et al", said Commissioner will, on Thursday, the 24th day of December, 1959, at 12 o'clock noon at the courthouse door in Greenville, N. C. offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash the following described parcel of land, to wit:

That certain lot or parcel of land situate, lying and being in the City of Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina, on the west side of Washington Street between First Street and Tar River, and beginning at a stake located at the southeast corner of Lot No. 1 and running thence with the eastern lines of Lots Nos. 1 and 2 North 19 deg. 5 min. East, 180 feet to the northeast corner of Lot No. 2; thence South 72 deg. 52 min. East, 88 feet, more or less, to the west property line of Washington Street (not open); thence with the west property line of Washington Street South 18 deg. 15 min. West, 180 feet, more or less, to a stake in the fence line; thence North 72 deg. 38 min. West, 88 feet, more or less, to the stake at the beginning, being Lot No. 3 allotted to Barbara Williams Carr et al. by the Commissioners in the division of the Henrietta Williams heirs land.

Said property will be sold subject to confirmation by the Court and the successful bidder at this sale will be required to deposit 10% of his bid with the Commissioner pending confirmation of the sale.

This the 23rd day of November, 1959.
R. B. LEE, Commissioner

Last Recruit Will Be First

CHICAGO (AP)—Hugh O'Connor 25, son of Chicago's police commissioner, was the last police recruit on the list but now he's first.

But political pull played no part in the switch.

When his father asked the civil service commission for 200 replacements, Hugh was No. 201.

Now Hugh will have to wait until the next time around. Then he'll be first in line for sure.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to move unevenly early this afternoon with most trading activity centered in specially situated issues.

Turnover continued at Thursday's moderately active pace. The market had a slight edge to the upside at the start, but as trading slackened there was slight change in prices. The overall pattern was hardly better than mixed.

Rails managed to gain somewhat on average.

The Big Three automakers managed only small gains while the independents barely changed. Oils were firmer as the Interior Department proposed to let West Coast companies import more unfinished oil.

A 4-point jump by Texas Instruments evoked a spotty electronics group.

Alcoa added more than a point as the higher price situation in the industry attracted renewed buying.

Moderate gains were made by Fruehauf Trailer, Texaco, Northern Pacific, Allied Chemical, Ford, Woolworth, Douglas Aircraft, Radio Corp. and American Telephone.

Lower included Phelps Dodge, Liggett & Myers and American Airlines. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 10 cents to $228.70 with the industrials up 10 cents, the rails up 40 cents and the utilities up 10 cents.

U.S. government bonds were unchanged to a bit higher.

Praises Pupils In Postal Study

AYDEN—On a recent visit to South Ayden School, Postmaster W. C. Ormond commended the Third Grade B pupils and their teacher, Mrs. M. J. Albritton, for excellent services being performed by the South Ayden Miniature Post Office. The project is in its eighth year of operation.

The post office project serves the school and community by selling all types of stamps, postal cards, and envelopes; sending packages, securing money orders, and having letters registered at the main postoffice.

Each year since the beginning of this project, the Ayden Postmaster has made two or three visits a year to the Third Grade B classroom where the miniature postoffice is located. His first trip was an orientation visit at which he explained the function of the postoffice. He also stressed the importance of the return address on a letter, along with the correct outgoing address.

On his second trip this year, the postmaster brought junior membership cards for each pupil in the Third Grade B class.

Each year the pupils take a trip to the Ayden postoffice. Here they gain knowledge in the handling of all types of mail—outgoing and incoming.

Ormond will make his third visit to the Third Grade B classroom at the end of the year to inspect accomplishments from operation of the postoffice during 1959.

Graveside Rites For Infant Son Today

Graveside services for Timothy Mark James, infant son of Rev. and Mrs. Howard Glenn James of the Red Oak community, were held at Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church Cemetery Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. Henry Melvin and Rev. W. J. Hadden conducted the services.

Surviving are the parents; a brother, Howard Glenn James Jr. of the home; and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. M. B. Garrison of Weidon.

Holiday Season Could Hike Loss In Forest Fires

RALEIGH — While losses from forest fires in North Carolina last month totaled only $1,183, there is no indication they will remain at this low figure during the coming holiday season unless people are extremely careful in handling fire in or near wooded areas.

This warning was sounded today by P. W. Tillman, assistant State Forester for the Department of Conservation and Development, as he announced a total of 74 fires occurring during November in areas under state and county protection. The fires burned 325 acres.

Tillman said there are signs the moisture content, heavy for the most part during much of the fall season, is gradually getting lower in many forested areas, thus making them more likely to burn.

Safe rules to follow in handling fire in any form in or near wooded areas were listed by Tillman as follows:

1. Hold your match till it is cold—then pinch it to make sure.
2. Crush out all your smokes—dead out.
3. Drown your campfire and warming fire, then stir and drown again.

Tillman also pointed out that setting fire on lands of another person without permission is a violation of State law and is punishable by fine or imprisonment.

Permits are required for brush burning. They can be obtained without cost from county foresters or rangers or at places designated to issue them, the foresters added.

Chicod Students In Exam Week Trials

By BETTY PURSER

Exam Week is here, a fact well-known to the students. This is the week when pupils reported to class with dark circles beneath their eyes and heads crammed full of facts. Studying until the wee hours, they try to learn all they are supposed to know about gerunds, polynomials, history dates, science laws, and French idioms.

Fortunately, Exam Week is followed by the Christmas holidays during which the students will have a chance to recover from the ordeal they are presently going through.

Senior Honored Bedecked in holiday array, the shelter of the Chicod Presbyterian Church was the scene of festivities honoring the Senior Class December 8. Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Brunson, the Seniors' chaperones for the New York trip, were the hosts.

Macbeth Vanquished Long sighs of relief were breathed by the Seniors when they finished studying Shakespeare's immortal tragedy, "Macbeth." The tests had been taken, the summaries handed in, and the projects completed. Among the projects were booklets, a bulletin board display, a portrait of Shakespeare, dolls dressed as characters from the play, as well as an excellent reproduction of an Elizabethan theater. Their relief was short-lived, however, as it was announced to the class that the first thing awaiting them upon return of the holidays will be a research theme.

Class of '59 Do you ever wonder what happens to a senior class after graduation? A survey of last year's alumni has been made to determine where the different paths have led.

Five are now enrolled in college, four in business school, three in barber school, one in beauty school, and two in nursing. Some, however, are already employed. Two are telephone operators in Jacksonville, two are clerks in Norfolk, one a clerk in Greenville, two are secretaries, and one is a carpenter. One has chosen the Air Force and five are at home. Six are married.

Student Teachers Ready to put what they have learned about teaching into actual use, Miss Janice Stallings and Miss Linda Hines of East Carolina College have reported to Chicod to begin their practice teaching. Both will teach in the English Department under the supervision of Mrs. Kathryn Edwards.

Girls Football? Never let it be said that the girls at Chicod lack either originality or initiative. Last Friday, they could be seen busily engaged in a game of football, supposedly a man's sport. That is, they said it was football. An innocent by-stander would never have guessed it. Not knowing the difference between two-hand tag and tackling didn't hinder these girls. They just made up new rules as they played. Who knows—their efforts might revolutionize football!

Revenue Plan By Michigan Solons

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A revenue plan which would pump $7 million dollars into Michigan's debt-ridden treasury was passed Thursday night by the State Senate and sent to the House.

The measure, pushed through by the Senate's Republican majority, drew immediate, if somewhat reluctant, support from Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams who told newsmen "having something is better than having nothing."

One part of the proposal would liquidate the state's veterans trust fund, worth about 40 million dollars, as a source of quick income. Another 34 million dollars would be raised from new or higher taxes on liquor and beer, tobacco, telegraph and telephone bills.

The remaining 13 million dollars would come from a one-mill boost to the four-mill corporation franchise tax.

Passage by the House, where membership is divided 55-55 between Republicans and Democrats, would end an 11-month legislative wrangle over ways of replenishing the state's depleted treasury.

Recent Initiate Into Fraternity

Sam C. Winchester Jr., son of Pitt County Farm Agent S. C. Winchester and Mrs. Winchester of Greenville, was among a group of 38 North Carolina State College students recently initiated as new members of Tau Beta Pi, national engineering fraternity.

Election into Tau Beta Pi is considered the highest honor that can be bestowed on an engineering student. "Membership in the honor society is extended on the basis of a high scholastic standing, character, integrity, adaptability and personality."

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mae Norville Baker; a daughter, Jessie Mae Baker of the home; three sons, Mack, Bobby, and Thomas Baker, all of the home; three brothers, Noah Baker of Fountain, Graham Baker, Rocky Mount, and J. T. Baker of Jacksonville; two sisters, Mrs. Leslie Peaden, Falkland, and Mrs. Jep Moseley of Fountain.

NEW SWEEPER . . . for Farmville streets is exhibited above by Streets Supt. Eddie Carraway (in driver's seat), Town Clerk Harold M. Allred (standing, left) and Street Committee Chairman Howard D. Moye. On its first run, the new machine swept Farmville's entire street system in a day and a half. The modern machine cost the town $9,838 and is expected to do the work that has consumed the time of five town employees in the past. Dual rotary brushes mounted beneath the huge, bright-orange machine rapidly sweep dirt and trash into a four-cubic-yard-capacity container. An included sprinkler device eliminates dust as the sweeper moves along. After the new machine's first trip, Allred described Farmville's streets as the "cleanest they've been for some time."

Plane Vanishes With 6 Aboard

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — A plane bound for San Francisco, Calif., with six persons aboard vanished Thursday night after radioing it was in trouble.

The craft, a P6 amphibian piloted by Philip Gray of San Lorenzo, Calif., disappeared somewhere between here and Annette Island, 300 miles to the south, a stopover on the flight.

The Coast Guard station at Annette Island said it received a radioed message from the plane that it had lost one engine. Radio contact was lost after the pilot said the craft was in trouble.

Also aboard the plane were Co-pilot Carl Scott, identified only as from the San Francisco area; Burras Smith, an engineer from Corte Madera, Calif.; Bob Meath, a veteran Alaska bush pilot, and a man and woman, both unidentified. The Coast Guard said two cut-rescue headquarters here said the plane was operated by the Stanford Research Institute of California. It was reported carrying a load of electronic equipment. The Coast Guard said two cut-
