

President Urges DeGaulle Reversal On NATO Unity

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

PARIS (AP)—President Eisenhower today urged French President Charles de Gaulle to give ground in his opposition to integrating France's military forces with those of its Western allies.

This was confirmed by authoritative sources after Eisenhower and De Gaulle met for 55 minutes following the opening session of a three-day Western summit meeting.

Eisenhower was reported to have supported Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, Herter earlier this week told the 15-nation NATO alliance ministerial meeting that an integrated European defense system was the basis on which the United States keeps troops on the Continent.

De Gaulle's reaction was not outlined. Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty, however, described the De Gaulle-Eisenhower talks as "very frank and friendly." He said they might get together again this weekend.

Despite the differences, a highly placed source said there has been a marked improvement in the atmosphere of U.S.-French relations. The informant said the Americans have convinced the French of Eisenhower's sincere support for De Gaulle's program for ending the Algerian rebellion. The French still have ruffled feelings because they had expected stronger U.S. support for their Algerian plan. But they are beginning to play down the disagreements, he said.

The change was in marked contrast with the situation only a few days ago when it was being said freely that Eisenhower's stock never had stood so low in France. Earlier, De Gaulle, Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer opened their summit meeting in general agreement that an East-West summit session should be held.

Their talks ranged over hopes for unifying Germany and the question of divided Berlin as well as East-West negotiations on nuclear disarmament.

The four leaders took up the drafting of specific negotiating proposals to be laid before Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev at an East-West summit meeting next year.

A working group of diplomats from the four nations is expected to be set up to polish these proposals and to iron out differences.

In their meeting in De Gaulle's office, Eisenhower and the French President also took up Algeria, another sore point in relations between the two countries.

France is unhappy because the United States abstained recently in the United Nations on a resolution—opposed by Paris—urging the French and Algerian rebels to negotiate.

France also feels the United States should have given stronger support to De Gaulle's plan to give Algeria the right of self-determination after peace is restored in that North African territory.

Later they took up a communique Eisenhower signed in Tunis on his visit to Tunisia two days ago. In the communique Eisenhower and Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba agreed the continued nationalist rebellion against France in Algeria constitutes a disturbing element in the world situation. The French consider this was stepping on their toes on an issue which they regard as their own affair.

The main issue between the two leaders, however, is the French attitude within the NATO alliance. De Gaulle opposes the incorporation of French forces in NATO. Eisenhower is the obvious spokesman for the 14 NATO allies of France, all of whom are in favor of defense integration.

Eisenhower and De Gaulle started their private meeting after two hours and 12 minutes of four-power conversations at Elysee Palace, which included Adenauer and Macmillan.

The four resume their talks this afternoon, accompanied by their foreign ministers who met separately this morning.

Adenauer, returning to his hotel for a brief rest, told newsmen he was satisfied with the progress of the opening session. He would give no details.

"This is only the first day," Adenauer said.

In the conflict over NATO defense forces both Adenauer and Macmillan strongly supported the majority view that the absence of it is a dangerous weakness.

Into the presidential home of De Gaulle went Macmillan, Adenauer, and finally Eisenhower. They posed for photographers before going inside.

The blare of music from the colorfully uniformed military band could not dispel the cold bite in the air or the underlying differences which lurk behind the vital meetings.

De Gaulle stepped forward to the steps of Elysee Palace to greet Eisenhower.

The four statesmen met in an old gilt and white chamber once used by Napoleon. It looks out over formal gardens. Although the palace is in the heart of Paris, it is walled and shut off from the city's bustle.

Inside the conference room as interpreter was Eisenhower's old friend and aide, Lt. Col. Vernon Walter.

The three-day Big Four talks have been spliced in the middle of the 15-nation Ministers' Conference of the NATO powers here in Paris. The NATO ministers will meet again for one day at the end of the Big Four talks.

Shortly after the government chiefs began their talks, the four foreign ministers started more detailed discussions across the Seine River in the Foreign Ministry Buildings on the Quai d'Orsay.

Accompanying U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter was the State Department's Soviet expert, Charles E. Bohlen.

Jury Convicts Twenty Underworld Figures At Apalachin Convention

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal court jury Friday convicted 20 delegates to the 1957 Apalachin underworld convention of conspiracy to hide the real purpose of the convlave.

The conviction was hailed by Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers as "a landmark in the government's fight against organized crime and racketeers."

The verdict was returned by a jury of eight men and four women after more than 15 hours of deliberation to climax the 53-day trial. Some of the well-dressed defendants slumped in their seats, several sobbed. One moaned in Italian: "I'm innocent."

Judge Irving R. Kaufman commended the jury for its "intelligent verdict." He set Jan. 14 for sentencing. Each of the convicted men could get up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

It was understood defense attorneys would begin immediately to prepare motions for an appeal.

"You deserve the thanks of the community and the nation by your patience in sitting through this trial," Judge Kaufman told the jury. "This will show the country that grand juries and other federal agencies cannot be defied or sneered at by people who consider themselves above and beyond the law."

The defendants had explained the meeting of more than 60 underworld figures Nov. 14, 1957, at the Apalachin, N.Y., hillside estate of the late Joseph Barbara Sr. as a visit to a sick friend or a social affair. Some said they were there because they had auto trouble nearby.

Throughout the trial, the government conceded that it did not know the secret purpose of the meeting. However, Arthur L. Reuter, one-time acting commissioner of investigation, said in a report for former Gov. Averell Harriman that the convlave was believed to have been called to split up territories, divide proceeds and discuss extension of racketeering in labor unions.

From all over the country and even Cuba and Italy, the gangsters had converged on the mansion of Barbara, a 53-year-old beer and soft drink distributor who died of a heart attack last June. The meeting never got under way. State police began recording the license numbers of their expensive cars and a roadblock was set up at the entrance to the estate.

Many delegates scrambled into their cars and sped straight into the roadblock. Others fled on foot into the nearby woods. John C. Montana, 66, a usually dignified former Republican councilman in Buffalo and one-time man of the year there, was caught when he hopelessly tangled himself in a barbed wire fence.

A few delegates got away, but the others were held for questioning. In the months following the raid, the delegates were interrogated by state and federal agencies. A result was the federal charge of conspiracy to give evasive and false answers. A federal grand jury indicted 27 of them last May as defendants and named 35 others as co-conspirators.

The defendants were reduced to 20 because four were fugitives, two had their trials severed because of illness, and one, Frank Cucciaro of Watertown, Mass., was acquitted for lack of evidence by Judge Kaufman during the trial which started Oct. 26.

The conviction gives the government a new lever with which to pry from the defendants the real purpose of the convention. As the defendants left the courthouse, seven were served with subpoenas to appear before the State Investigation Commission Monday. Cooperation with the commission could lessen a defendant's sentence.

None of the defendants are considered underworld kingpins but they are believed to represent some of the top echelon gangsters. None of them took the stand during the trial, which consisted mostly of the prosecution's presentation. Only Montana called character witnesses. Most of the defendants have indicated they prefer prison to taking.

Defense attorneys charged during the trial that the raid was the result of anti-Italian prejudices and smacked of police state tactics.

Judge Kaufman had special praise for New York State Police Sgt. Edgar Crosswell, who led the raiding party. He also praised the prosecuting attorneys and the news coverage.

Meanwhile, Joseph M. Barbara Jr. son of the Apalachin adventurer, received a suspended sentence Friday on his plea of guilty to contempt of court. General sessions Judge Mit hell D. Schweitzer put Barbara, 23, on probation for a year.

The convicted delegates were released in bail that ranged from $10,000 to $100,000.

No Clues For Police To Use In Hunting Touhy's Killers

CHICAGO (AP)—A piece of glass, some shotgun shells and a vague accusation against the Chicago crime syndicate were virtually all police had today in their efforts to bridge the years between Roger Touhy's heyday and his violent, gangland-style death.

With these slender threads, police hoped to tie Touhy's unknown assassins to the Prohibition Era when Touhy, the slight little man known as "The Terrible," ruled Chicago's Northwest Side and fought off the encroachments of Scarface Al Capone.

Backing this theory was Walter Miller, 62, a retired police sergeant who was wounded with the 61-year-old Touhy last Wednesday night when two or three men opened fire on them with shotguns.

From his hospital bed, Miller told reporters that Touhy actually died of fright—the fright of Touhy knew before he was sent to prison in 1934 for the kidnaping of John "Jake the Barber" Factor.

"Let me say it this way," said Miller. "Somebody might have to make adjustments in their lives since Rog is out. Some people may not be able to live as comfortable as they were before this."

"Miller said later he didn't know who the assassins were or who ordered Touhy's death. 'I just can't say,' he said.

But Ray Brennan, Chicago Sun-Times reporter and co-author of Touhy's biography, said that Miller believes the syndicate would try to kill him next.

Miller's accusation against the "syndicate" could give police little help, for it is a term that loosely describes organized crime in Chicago.

Detectives sought the source of the shotgun shells found at the scene of the shooting. The shells, which contain just eight balls each and each a third of an inch in diameter, are primarily used for riot guns and are rarely sold within the state.

Police hoped to find fingerprints on a piece of glass removed from a window of a room across the street from Touhy's sister's apartment building, the scene of the shooting.

Factor, for whose kidnaping Touhy spent nearly 26 years in prison, returned to Los Angeles, cleared of any complicity in the slaying by the results of a lie detector test.

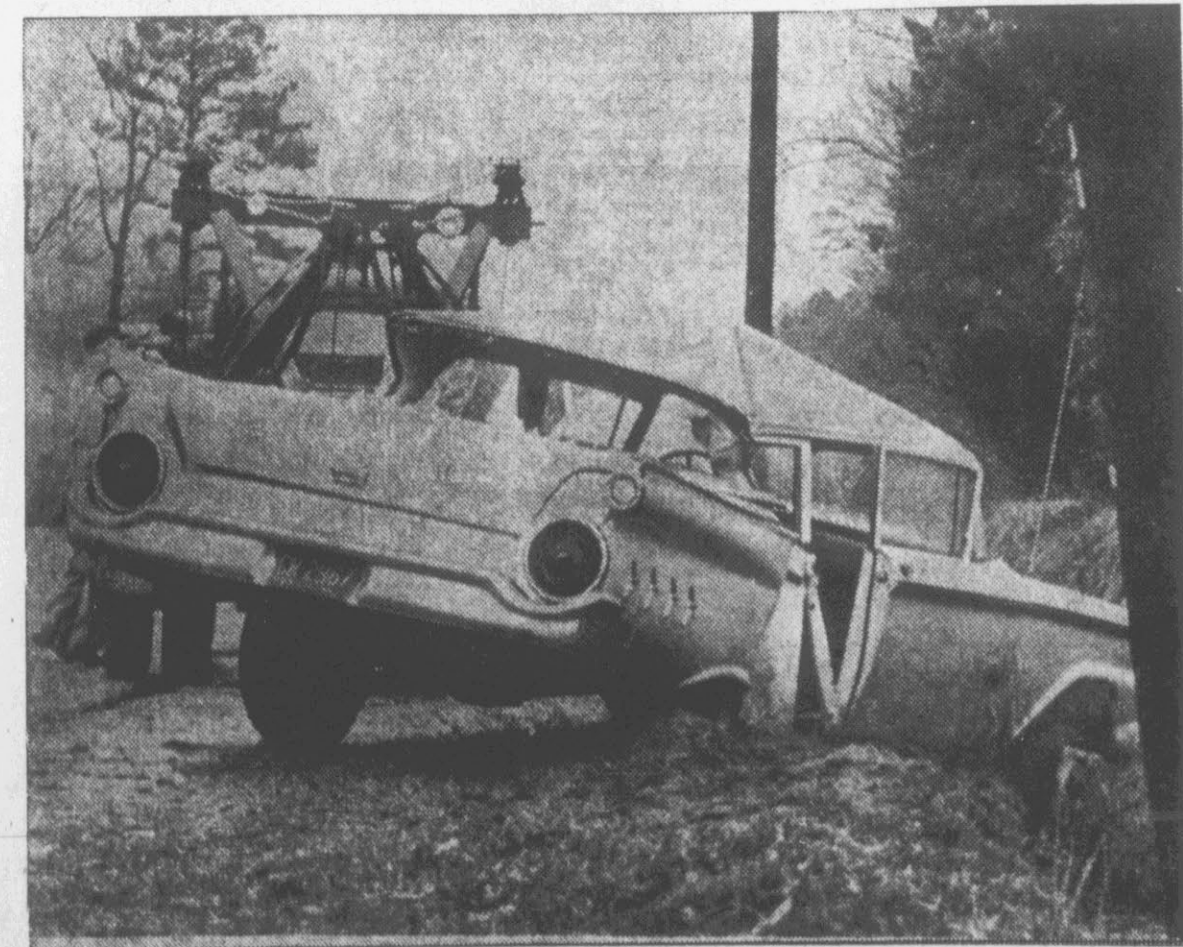

Touhy, only 25 days after he was paroled from prison, was buried Friday in private services that took only seven minutes.

Killed were Linda Marie Bisdgen and William Henry Cosman, both 16, of Hendersonville. Robert Morris Lee, 18, also of Hendersonville, identified as the driver of the car, was reported in fair condition at a hospital near today.

He suffered a possible concussion and a possible broken neck.

Fast Rise In Soviet Armament

PARIS (AP)—Authoritative informants said today the Western alliance has been given a secret intelligence report showing Soviet military might is increasing at an enormous rate.

These informants said the report was presented to the foreign and defense ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Wednesday by U.S. Adm. Walter P. Boone. He represented the American-British-French military Standing Group which plans NATO strategy.

"The delegates were alarmed and shocked," one informant said. "Exactly what Boone said could not be learned, but he was reported to have presented a pessimistic view of increasing Soviet power in conventional as well as nuclear arms."

Among the things Boone reportedly told the ministers:

1. The Russians have a missile which can fire a 1,000-pound atomic warhead up to 5,000 miles.

2. The Soviet Union has operational missiles of relatively short range which can be fired from submerged submarines. These missiles are relatively inexpensive and are being stockpiled quickly.

Boone was said to have expressed concern that while they were preaching peace, disarmament and relaxation of tensions, the Russians were building their military machine at an ever increasing rate.

Car-Train Crash Kills 8 Persons

FLOWERVILLE, Mich. (AP)—A train-car collision killed eight persons in this southern Michigan village late Friday.

Witnesses said the car occupied by five adults and three children drove onto a Chesapeake & Ohio Railway crossing just as the streamlined passenger train "Pere Marquette" sped through at 65 miles an hour.

The crash at 5:44 p.m., wiped out all the members of one family—Clyde E. Ballar, 22, his wife, Berntha, 24, and their son, Keith, 8 months of Fenton, Mich.

Others killed were Albert Simpson Sr., 29, of Fenton, driver of the car, and his son, Albert Jr., 2 months; Mildred Cameron, 26, of Howell, Mich., and her daughter, Dawn, 9; and George Copeman, 36, of Fenton.

The big diesel engine of the Grand Rapids-to-Detroit luxury train crushed the car and tossed the bodies alongside the track.

New Allied Difficulties On Berlin Said Building

PARIS (AP)—New Allied difficulties on Berlin were reported developing today as the Western Big Four assembled for policy talks.

Sources emphasized that the differences have not yet crystallized—especially since the American position has not been worked out.

Allied leaders count on at least several months grace to work out a policy on the divided city before meeting Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev at the summit some time next year.

The United States has raised the question—without taking a specific stand—whether the Allies should be ready, if pushed by Khrushchev, to negotiate a new status for Berlin.

In any case the Americans hold that existing Western rights in West Berlin, surrounded by Communist East German territory, must remain intact.

Britain is known to favor a stopgap deal for Berlin pending a final German peace settlement.

France, with fervent West German backing, is resisting any temporary deal. The French argue that any change would jeopardize the Allied rights in Berlin. The French contend that if Khrushchev really wants a political accommodation with the West he will make no trouble over Berlin.

Accordingly they insist that the Allies go no further in offering concessions to Moscow than those put forward at last spring's Geneva conference.

In the unsuccessful Geneva meetings, the Western powers indicated a readiness to cut their Berlin garrisons to curb propaganda activities in West Berlin if the Reds would do the same in East Berlin, to accept East German control along the routes into the city from West Germany. They also offered to look at the situation again after five years.

The Soviets stood firm on Khrushchev's original demand that Western troops get out of Berlin, but they dropped Khrushchev's six-month time limit, which already had expired without incident.

They continued their threat to sign a separate peace treaty with the East German Reds, whose government the Western powers refuse to recognize.

Recent exchanges, France and Britain are reported to have agreed on two things:

1. A long-term Berlin solution can emerge only from a final German peace settlement.

2. Unless the Soviet Union comes up with something new, the West must stand on its final Geneva offer.

Another American For Cuba's Prison

HAVANA (AP)—Another U.S. citizen faced a long prison sentence today for alleged counter-revolutionary activities and two condemned enemies of Fidel Castro's regime were ordered before a firing squad today.

John W. Martino, an ailing Miami, Fla., businessman accused of serving as a link between anti-Castro forces in Cuba and Florida, was handed a 13-year sentence Friday. The prosecution had asked for a 20-year term.

Martino, 49, joins two other Americans convicted by revived military tribunals—pilot-adventurer Frank Austin Young, sentenced to 30 years; and Peter John Lambton of Nassau, Bahamas, given 25 years.

A fourth American, Miami Herald reporter James Buchanan, is being held for trial on charges of aiding Young in his brief escape from a Pinar del Rio prison last week.

Two Americans arrested last week when they came to Havana to join the Caribbean Legion were released Friday night. Military intelligence headquarters said the two—Edwin R. Ekersley, 26, of Portland, Ore., and Monty Mulph, 21, of Eden, Idaho—boarded a plane for Miami. The Legion is a loosely organized group of adventurers with the announced objective of overthrowing dictatorships.

Scheduled for execution today were two former soldiers of ex-President Fulgencio Batista, Luis Lara and Jose Morfi. They were convicted of plotting a military uprising against Prime Minister Castro's government.

Martino was convicted of attempting to smuggle the wife of a former Batista army officer, Col. Esteban Ventura, out of Cuba and of carrying a bond of the White Rose Society, a counter-revolutionary group operating in the United States.

Martino was arrested and our after his arrival in Havana July 23 and has been under prison hospital treatment since for a kidney stone condition.

Iron Curtain To Lift For Them

CHICAGO (AP)—A Chicago couple was overcome with emotion Friday when they learned an appeal to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had lifted the Iron Curtain and they soon will be reunited with their two children after 15 years.

Soviet officials in Moscow told the U.S. Embassy the two Lithuanian children, Regina Leonas, 20, and her brother, Tomas, 17, will be sent to Chicago to join their parents some time next month.

Mr. and Mrs. Paulius Leonas, who had made a personal plea to Khrushchev for reunion with their children when he was in Des Moines last Sept. 23, were thrilled.

"I thought we would have to wait longer," said Leonas, 43, a real estate dealer. "This is a big shock, but oh, what a good one."

Mrs. Leonas, 41, was so excited she could hardly talk to a reporter.

Two Executed By Firing Squad

PINAR DEL RIO (AP)—Ex-Cpl. Luis Lara Crespo and ex-Sgt. Jose Morfi Reyes were executed by a firing squad this morning at a shooting range at Rius Rivera Army Camp here.

Both men were sentenced to death Monday for promoting an uprising against Prime Minister Fidel Castro from hide-outs in the mountains of eastern Pinar del Rio Province. They were the first to be executed in Cuba since last June.

Lara, 21, had been under an earlier death sentence as a war criminal. He escaped but was recaptured.

Morfi was 34-years-old.

The executions, first since suspension of firing squads last summer, brought the unofficial total of such shootings by the Castro regime to 557.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Christmas Party Will Be Sunday

BETHEL—On Sunday, a Christ- mas party will be given in Johnson Memorial Presbyterian Church at 7 p.m. with a special program, Christmas tree, gifts for everyone, and Santa Claus himself.

A special feature of the program will be the Joy Gift Offering for relief of aged ministers and/or their families. Those of the com- munity who do not usually wor- ship with this church are invited as well as members.

Is Hostess

BETHEL—The Fellowship Hall of Johnson Memorial Presbyterian Church was the scene of the De- cember meeting of the Women of the Church, with Mrs. Carl Doughtie, hostess, recently.

The 1960 officers of the Women of the Church were installed by the pastor, the Rev. W. D. Morton.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Murray Doughtie. The group sang the hymn, "It Came Upon the Mid- night Clear," after which Mrs. W. D. Morton led in prayer.

Mrs. G. F. Whitehurst was mod- erator, leading the women in a Circle Bible Study taken from I Peter 5:1-14. The subject was "Shepherds of the Flock."

For the December Emphasis, Mrs. Jack Tripp gave a brief pro- gram on the Joy Gift for Presby- terian aged ministers and their families, after which an offering was received and announcements made of a church-wide Joy Gift Offering to be received at the De- cember 20 Christmas program in the church.

The president reminded the women of the privilege of re- membering those who are sick or shut-in during the Christmas sea- son.

During the Fellowship hour, the hostess served a sweet course to the circle members and the Dea- cons and Elders of the church who were meeting at the church at that hour.

Christmas Assembly Held Thursday At Rose

By CRAIG WORTHINGTON

Rose High School students began their Christmas holidays yester- day. They will report back to school January 4.

Bill Clapp, senior class president, be- gan the program by reading The Christmas Story, taken from Luke 2:8-14. Reggie Johnson, senior and president of the Bible Club, then spoke to the students and faculty, telling what The Christmas Story should mean to everyone.

The Glee Club, directed by Miss Ona Shindler, sang "Carol of the Bells" and "Glory in the Highest." On behalf of the senior class, Bill presented a gift to Miss Claudette Wilson, secretary to the principal. He also presented food baskets and turkey gift certificates to the four custodians and maids of the building.

Miss Shindler led the entire group in singing their hymns, in- cluding "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," "O Little Town of Bethle- hem" and "Joy to the World."

Mr. Junius H. Rose, superinten- dent of Greenville city schools, spoke to the group. He said he had come to give his annual wish for the group to have a holiday of health, happiness, and safety. Mr. Orren E. Dowd, principal, dis- missed the group with the same thought.

More Great Strides Lie Ahead

Thursday's celebration at Kitty Hawk commemorating the 56th anniversary of the Wright brothers' first successful airplane flight points up forcefully the tremendous progress man has made in air travel in the span of little more than a half century.

From the 12-second flight of the Wrights over the Dare Dunes, man has reached the place where he maintains airplanes in constant flight, spanning the globe, refueling high above the clouds. Nations which were days and weeks apart in travel time when the Wrights made their first flight are now minutes and hours apart as the progress of aviation has made the world a much more tightly knit community.

From airplanes man has now gone to missiles and space vehicles which promise even more advanced air travel about the globe and eventually into space and to other planets of the universe.

Today we look at the peculiar flying machine of the Wrights and wonder how they ever got the thing off the ground. The progress that has been made in airplanes and aviation is almost more than man can comprehend. Compared with the half century ahead of us, however, what has been done up to now may seem puny indeed to those who look back from the year 2010.

Today we contemplate man's first successful flight to the moon as something sure to come, but an event that is yet a few years away. Even so, talk of man's flight to the moon does not sound as absurd to the people of today as talk of an airplane flight

Benefits From European Tour

By LYNN NISBET

TRIP COST — Arguments are likely to continue for years about the benefits North Carolina has received and will receive from the recent industry promotion tour of Europe. The total cost of the trip also continues a topic of discussion, despite the report made public by Governor Hodges at his latest news conference.

That report listed the aggregate cost at $29,817.39. (As always in such financial statements that 39 cents intrigues.) Breakdown includes $70,400 transportation and lodging costs paid by 64 members of the party; $11,250 paid by North Carolina business firms for luncheons and dinners; $17,101.39 paid out of C&D funds for promotion and management, and $1,066 paid out of Ports Authority funds for expenses of the director. The C&D item includes $7,300 ($100 per day) for 73 days, paid to John Harden for organizing and directing the tour. The Harden expenses were included in the item of more than $5,000 for the advance planning trips by Harden and Wills, operation of "headquarters" in Europe, extra, clerical aid, etc.

On the face of his report it would appear that the project cost North Carolina taxpayers only $18,167.39. Actually, the total cost runs to $29,817.39 or more, when all the items are counted in. Preponderant majority of North Carolinians think it was a bargain at that price.

Capitol newsmen have been surprised at apparent efforts to minimize the cost, to omit certain obvious matters. Such as the salaries of regular State employees who devoted almost full time for two months or more to this project; income tax reductions for business expense by the men and the firms which participated, and other indirect costs.

RELATED — The whole drive for industrial promotion in North Carolina, including the European and other safaris, is directly related to the drop of $50 million in farm income this year from the 1958 figure, announced this week by L.Y. Ballentine, commissioner of agriculture.

RELATED — The whole drive for industrial promotion in North Carolina, including the European and other safaris, is directly related to the drop of $50 million in farm income this year from the 1958 figure, announced this week by L.Y. Ballentine, commissioner of agriculture.

The Governor told newsmen that continuing decline in farm income may be expected. He conceded that 1958 was a phenomenally good year, and the fifty million drop from that was perhaps not a true indication of the long range rate of decline. It does accentuate the need for industrial payrolls to take the place of farm income. The continuing drop in income from farm work must be replaced by wages from other sources if the state expects to hold its position—much less move into higher per capita income brackets. "We have got to run fast in order to stand still," said the Governor.

AGRICULTURE — Analysis of Ballentine's report on farm income shows that diversification does not afford the full answer. Losses were experienced in livestock and poultry operations, as well as in the old line basic row crops of corn, cotton, peanuts and tobacco.

The fact that farmers experienced losses in nearly every phase of agricultural production, while prices for processed items of clothing and food were up, further emphasizes the need for North Carolina to do more processing of its raw materials.

There can be differences of opinion as to the desirable type of industry, and about the dangers of importing industrialists, but there can be no question about the fact that some other source of income must be found to replace dollars lost from farming.

CROW MEAT — Crow meat doesn't taste good, but it is often sold as a delicacy to a fellow to have to "eat crow." Your reporter is in that fix. In an article here the other day it was written that W. Jack Hooks, long time solicitor and newly appointed special judge, entered the primary for renomination as solicitor last year and resigned before the primary because of his health.

Jack Hooks did not enter the primary. He stated before filing time he would not seek reelection. His law partner, William R. Britt, did file and it was Britt who withdrew before primary election ballots were printed, assigning the state of his health as the reason. Apologies are here by tendered to Jack Hooks and to all the readers of the articles emanating from the Raleigh Bureau of the afternoon newspapers for the error.

Personal note: That crow was tough to chew, and if this reporter ever gets into court he hopes it will not be one over which Judge Jack Hooks is presiding.)

WORKERS — Most folks will be taking it sort of easy for the next week on account of Christmas. Let's get in the usual annual request that those of us who are not working regular schedules remember to be kind to the policeman and fireman, the bus drivers and sales girls, and all the other harried peoples who find the Christmas season perhaps the most trying period of the year.

from New York to Paris to the people of 50 years ago.

Air flight has raised man's horizons immeasurably since the Wright brothers' successful attempt 56 years ago. Man's initial probes into space have further expanded horizons in the past few years, but in this category we are just beginning to scratch the surface. If travel achieves in the next 50 years the rate of progress achieved in aviation in the past 50 years, who can say to what point man will have advanced with his probes into the yet unknown world of outer space?

Danger Of Underworld Powers Again Evident

The gang-style slaying of Roger "The Terrible" Touhy in Chicago this week points up again to the American public that organized crime is still powerful in this country and that the gang-busting of the roaring '20s did not eliminate the big-time crime syndicates from the American scene.

Touhy's slaying is the most recent of a series in which big names and former big names in racketeering and crime have been victims. Coming just 23 days after his release from an Illinois prison after serving 26 years, the slaying of Touhy undoubtedly has a bearing on his former underworld connections. The presence of an armed bodyguard with Touhy at the time of the slaying suggests that the former beer king-pin of prohibition days did not feel entirely secure in his recently won freedom.

The slaying brings up again old questions: How deeply entrenched is organized crime in the American society? How vulnerable is it? Will law enforcement agencies be able to root it out of its shadowy places and stamp it out before it gets a firmer hold than it already has?

If it does nothing else, the Touhy slaying focuses public attention again on the problem of crime that is faced by this nation. It should revitalize the public demand that greater efforts be put forth to stamp out this cancer of organized crime that eats away daily at our society. . . . that one day may gain the upper hand unless it is stopped in time.

Deserving Tribute To Ten Years Of Service

Awarding of the Exchange Club Book of Golden Deeds to W. C. "Neely" James was a much deserved tribute to a man who has contributed significantly to the youth of Greenville through the city's athletic programs over the past decades.

For some 10 years now there has hardly been an afternoon on which Neely James could not be found working with Greenville youngsters, teaching them the fundamentals of baseball, football or basketball, instilling in them the spark of interest that would lead to a wholesome love for sports and good sportsmanship. And on the afternoons when he wasn't working with boys he was spending his time preparing programs or arranging for facilities for them to use.

Over the period of years Neely James has been a leader in providing sports programs for many of the young boys of Greenville. He has given most generously of his time and energies to help the youngsters of Greenville and certainly his efforts have left a wholesome imprint on many hundreds of boys who have participated in the city-wide sports programs.

The Book of Golden Deeds is an award richly deserved by Neely James, for his work with youngsters has enriched the lives of many Greenville boys and has helped make Greenville a better community.

Positions Taken By Rockefeller

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the past few weeks New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has taken a stand on a number of issues ranging from labor to farmers to foreign affairs. On some he's been direct, on some fuzzy.

On and off for weeks he's been whisking around the country to figure his chances if he ran against Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the Republican 1960 presidential nomination.

Since Nixon has had years to line up Republicans on his side, and Rockefeller admits the vice president has a big edge—this has been a little like looking for Santa Claus. So he has had to identify himself by taking a stand.

He has had to give Republicans some reasons—beyond a big smile—why they might prefer him to Nixon. Nixon, being in front, has stayed quiet.

In this past week in the Midwest Rockefeller has been banging into Nixon strongholds. But he's kept up a cheerful look. He said he will announce early in January whether he will try to take on Nixon.

Probably the most controversial thing he has said yet—because it ran head-on into President Eisenhower's policy—was his stand on nuclear weapons testing.

The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union have suspended the tests while they try to work out some fool-proof agreement to end them altogether. Rockefeller said he would resume the tests.

His reason: To keep the United States from falling "behind in the advanced techniques of nuclear materials."

Here are other positions he has taken:

Labor:

He suggests labor forego further reductions in the work week as a help to the country's economic growth; the President should have legal power to compel compulsory arbitration when a long strike threatens the country's welfare.

On public school segregation: He said: "I regard it as necessary and historic affirmation and clarification of the essential liberties and the abiding principles by which America must live."

This was a more direct stand than Eisenhower has so far taken on the decision which was handed down May 17, 1954.

Federal aid to education: He's for such aid—for school construction and scholarships—"where there is proven need."

Birth control: He said: "If the people of a country requesting technical assistance from the United States in an area where it had knowledge (as in birth control) it would seem to me that the United States would want to cooperate with them if it was in the interest of the other country."

Health insurance: He favored a system of health insurance which would preserve the private kind but supplement it with government action where needed.

Non-Communist affidavit: He called for repeal of the non-Communist affidavit required of college students seeking loans under the National Defense Education Act but he said he thought they were willing to take the loyalty oath required by law.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson: He doesn't agree with suggestions by some Republicans that Benson should quit. He said "we are not going to solve problems by seeking scapegoats."

Farm program: He outlined a 4-point one, based primarily on long-term rentals on farms by the federal government. This was a pretty sketchy proposal. But he said the present price support systems don't meet the needs of the farm problem.

Foreign affairs: He outlined a 7-point program. This was extremely vague, except for saying the United States should retain maximum military power.

Oil depletion: In response to a question he said he was favorably disposed toward the oil depletion tax allowance because it has a stimulating effect on industry.

Time To Make Your Move, Rocky!

One In Every Christmas

Somebody was saying last night that it seemed extra difficult this year to "get the Christmas Spirit."

Things just didn't seem like the year's most important holiday of the year in many respects and he was beginning to worry about it.

He raved on and on about how this Christmas would be just another day for him if things didn't "perk up a little in the next few days." He was right about the next few days partly because it really ain't long now.

The trouble, he said, was that people in general just seemed to lack the enthusiasm that usually accompanies the Yule season. He hadn't even seen the shopping rush.

What's more, he hadn't seen a Christmas Parade; he'd failed to hear any Christmas carols; he hadn't seen Santa Claus. In short, he was confronted with missing his "usual Christmas."

Several others were standing around listening to him and wondering silently where the heck he'd been for the last few weeks. It seemed like he'd been around most of the time. Maybe he just hadn't looked or heard any Christmas goings on because he didn't want to.

He continued to feature the conversation and every breath he uttered complained about "missing Christmas."

Apparently, one of the boys got pretty fed up with this character. After hearing such a string of senseless comments, he attacked the pessimist: "Christmas is still Christmas," he said, "and Scrooge is still Scrooge."

Thursday night at the Country Club here, the Exchange Club honored a man familiar to every young boy in Greenville. The Book of Golden Deeds award came as a complete surprise to Neely James. His emotions choked back words of gratitude for nearly 15 minutes.

Exchanges could hardly have selected a more deserving person for the honor. James' untiring efforts with Greenville's boys in the local athletic program have been outstanding and have shown results.

The Little League baseball program here is slightly over a decade old. It has progressed as rapidly and as effectively as any. Some reports rank Greenville's Little League organization with the best in the nation.

Any such organization is a tremendous aid to the curbing of juvenile delinquency. In Greenville, practically every boy has an opportunity to spend his spare time participating in a supervised athletic program. Through Greenville teams may not win the Little League World Series, they are helping win the battle against juvenile delinquency. That's the important thing.

Thursday's award to James was a timely one and indicates that thinking persons realize such a program as exists here is not built overnight by undevoted citizens.

tion. Insurance companies were not asked to assume bad insurance risks without compensation. Under the assigned risk system bad eggs were broadly distributed among many companies; they paid far higher rates than normal drivers.

If insurance rates had been hiked by $8,000,000 following only the first year's experience, insurance companies could have expected the kind of outraged public squawk they would have gotten. Fortunately Insurance Commissioner Gold carefully weighed his public responsibility. He did not allow pressure from the rating bureau, which can be strong indeed, to deter him from a decision which considered the public he serves.

Only one citizen appeared at the Raleigh hearing representing the public (although Insurance Agent Schenck also qualified). He was J.B. Long, Burlington department store operator and Alamance County commissioner.

One question Long asked—deserving full consideration as Commissioner Gold ponders a request for lowered rates on commercial vehicles: Personally, I would like to hear the reason why the sharp drop in commercial vehicle rates while private passenger rates climb. Is it because the public is unorganized and have no paid spokesman?

Many citizens of North Carolina join Commissioner Long in that question.

In the meantime let the state take pride in the public servant it has representing its interests in the state insurance commissioner's office.

find itself paying more than 100 per cent of its income in taxes. SMALL COUNTER-ATTACK In 1960, higher levies on out-state businesses is certain. There will be a small counter-attacking action. Some bills will be introduced in Congress to limit states' levies on out-state companies, reaffirming Congress' Constitutional right to regulate interstate commerce.

These moves are not likely to get anywhere. Pressure from back home—where fellow politicians are hungry for added state revenues—will cool off many Congressmen. But if state levies keep on rising next year, then perhaps in 1961 some Federal legislation will apply brakes.

Record Scotch year. Imports of foreign alcoholic beverages are high, and with that brought in for holiday consumption in the last few weeks, a new record seems certain this year. And since Scotch is a major factor in foreign imports, that means a new Scotch high, or a new high Scotch. With Soda.

TAKE OVER STEEL? More steel trouble. Public anger is rising over the fact that neither industry nor the Steelworkers will hammer out a steel peace. As a result, the first days of the new Congress will see proposals for the government to take over the steel industry. There may be other bills, for nationalization of the industry, for freezing steel prices and wages, and for generally tougher legislation.

Note also that as soon as Congress reconvenes, both labor and management will assume more conciliatory attitudes. Both labor and industrial leaders know as much as I do about the danger of a government take-over, and neither side wants it.

End of cart-napping. The loss of carts prevents lower prices in many supermarkets; the loss is so costly that markets are being forced to act. Four Philadelphia chains now prohibit the taking of carts from stores. It has a double effect: it ends the costly theft of carts; it creates sales of folding two-wheel tote carts to customers. This strategy will spread.

Camel Corps Is Tops

By WILTON WYNN

JEDDA, Saudi Arabia (AP)—Saudi Arabia has two kinds of armies — one flies jets and the other rides camels. Right now, the camel riders look like the better fighting force.

For the last dozen years the Saudi government has been slowly building up a modern army, trained and equipped very much like armies of any other countries. They wear khaki uniforms, fly planes and ride tanks, and are mastering modern means of communication and supply.

This modern army's total strength is around 13,000.

Alongside the modern army is the traditional Arab army of tribesmen, who wear their flowing white robes and scream Koranic slogans when they plunge into battle. These are the kind of desert warriors which old King Ibn Saud led to victory all over the Arabian Peninsula.

Number Unknown

The number of desert fighters is impossible to estimate, because the size varies according to need. Whenever the king calls for them, the tribes produce the number of men needed. In normal times, they are dispersed throughout the country, under the command of the various provincial governors.

Because of their white dress, these fighters sometimes are called the "White Army." The Arabic name for them is "Majahadin," meaning those who fight in "Jihda," or Moslem holy war. The Majahadin are intensely religious and pledged to fight for Allah.

In recent years the Majahadin have been given some motorized transport and modern light arms. Otherwise, they move and fight just as the Arab army did a thousand years ago.

In 1947, a British military mission began training a modern army in this country. After a few years, the British were replaced by Egyptians. Today, the Egyptians have gone, and Saudis are being trained by Americans.

Flyers Graduated

Two classes of Saudi pilots trained in Sabre jets already have graduated under American training. Saudi pilots also are training in Vampire jets, T-33s, and T-28 propeller driven craft. They use C-123 cargo-type planes for support of their airborne battalion and for supplying units in the desert.

The young Saudi army has modern infantry, artillery, and anti-aircraft units, a few tanks, and one armored company cadre.

The army's pride and joy is its airborne battalion. In this desert country of few good roads and generally poor communications, the airborne battalion will be an ideal unit for maintaining internal security.

The Saudis in training learn quickly, but they admittedly are a long way from being a really good modern army.

This means that the old White Army still is probably the best fighting force in Saudi Arabia. It can fight its kind of war much better than the modern army can fight its type. Under old King Ibn Saud, the White Army fanned out from Central Arabia in all directions, conquering the Hejaz area on the Red Sea and later occupying almost all of Yemen.

It will be many years before the modern army gets that mobile.

Strength For Today

STAINED GLASS WINDOWS

We appreciate the beauty of a stained glass window only when we look at it from the inside. Viewed from the outside, it usually looks dull and devoid of any kind of rich coloring. But when we get on the inside of a church or cathedral and see the light streaming through a stained glass window, then all its variegated beauty is revealed to us.

It is much the same with the life of the spirit. Those who are on the outside never understand what it is all about. Men and women of faith talk of the glories of spiritual things, of the help they receive of the illumination which comes to them through God. They realize the need of forgiveness in their lives and believe that God has accorded them this through Jesus Christ.

Most people who pay but slight attention to religious truth regard all such belief as pious, sentimental, and inconsequential. Scientific research is everything to them. "Education is the handmaid of science," "Money talks." "We live only once—let us enjoy life while we do." "Pie in the sky and by" These are inside say: "Eye hath not seen nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man the things which God hath prepared for them that love him."

Later Look At Business Trends

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here is another weekend round-up of business forecasts, based on analyses of underlying factors, and reinforced with bits of advance information:

More Balkanization. With convening of many legislatures early next year, many states will strengthen efforts to increase tax levies on out-of-state business firms. Decisions of the last term of the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the right of states to levy on companies with headquarters in other states. The basic idea is sound: if a New York company doing business in California wants the protection of California laws, it should pay to support those laws.

However, states will always try to collect more from out-state companies than from local companies, owned by voters.

Rapidly rising costs of state government compel states to resort more to income taxes, and levies on out-state income is always more attractive. Many companies fear that if states continue present tax policies, a multi-state corporation may find itself paying more than 100 per cent of its income in taxes.

Record Scotch year. Imports of foreign alcoholic beverages are high, and with that brought in for holiday consumption in the last few weeks, a new record seems certain this year. And since Scotch is a major factor in foreign imports, that means a new Scotch high, or a new high Scotch. With Soda.

TAKE OVER STEEL? More steel trouble. Public

Four Philadelphia chains now prohibit the taking of carts from stores. It has a double effect: it ends the costly theft of carts; it creates sales of folding two-wheel tote carts to customers. This strategy will spread.

Three-channel stereo boom.

After Christmas sales reduce inventories, many electronic manufacturers will plug three-channel equipment and records, but it will be a mild one. Hovering over it will be the Federal Trade Commission, already warned that much of the so-called three-channel systems aren't exactly that.

OLD PROMOTER PLANS TO CAPITALIZE ON 'PAYOLA.'

"I've got a great idea for a new disc jockey program," the Old Promoter said on his way today. "I want to spin an Old Payola Program. This will be completely honest. I'll announce that there's payola for every record, and just how much it is. "Imagine an announcement like this: 'The Old Payola Promoter is about to spin The Morning After Cha-Cha, by the Stinker Quartet. The publisher is paying $50 for playing this record, he's betting real cash it will be a hit!' Wouldn't that be more effective than a sneaky plug?"

He may be right. Even the Payola name might attract a lot more listeners.

NAIA Title At Stake Today For Hickory's Bears

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Lenoir Rhyne and Texas A&I, a couple of small college football powers, met in the annual Holiday Bowl game here today to decide the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics champion.

The Bears from Hickory, N.C., ranked No. 1 in the nation in the final NAIA poll, ruled a slight favorite.

A crowd of 10,000 was expected for the national televised game at Al Lang Field.

Lenoir Rhyne went into the game with the best record, 10 straight victories this year and 18 over the past two seasons. The Texans had a 10-1 record the past season, and were No. 5 in the final poll.

One theory frequently advanced was that the Texans would have to stop the passing of tailback Lee Farmer, who completed 45 of 80 this year, if they hoped to win.

Farmer also is a fine runner, averaging nearly 5 yards a carry. The Javelinas' passing is not their strong point. The team completed only 49 of 139 during the season. Mainly, they rely on the power rushing of fullback Butch Pressley, who averaged 7 yards a carry during the season. Three other backs averaged 5 yards a carry.

Lenoir Rhyne Coach Clarence Stasavich says the Texas team "has the best line we've faced this year."

The Javelinas haven't faced a single wing attack such as that employed by Lenoir Rhyne, another point in the Bears' favor.

Grifton Takes Two Wins Friday Night

GRIFTON — Jack Groat came off the bench early in the first quarter to lead his Grifton basketball team to a 54-40 victory over visiting Belvoir-Falkland here last night.

Runner-up for scoring honors was Center Jimmy Rogers, who bucketed a total of 16 for the night's play. Mahler added 11 points to the winning effort.

For the visitors from Belvoir-Falkland, it was Wallace, scoring 14 points to top high scoring honors for the losers. Smith was runner-up for scoring honors with a 7 point tally for Belvoir-Falkland.

In the female encounter, Grifton again proved superior as the Grifton girls soundly thumped the Belvoir-Falkland girls by a score of 53-37.

High scorer for Grifton was Mewborn with 19 points, while Price added 16 points for the winning effort.

For the losing visitors from Belvoir-Falkland, it was Nichols as high scorer for the night with 26 points. Harris was runner-up for scoring honors with a 7 point tally for the contest.

Sammy Baugh Returns; Prefers Pro-Game Rules

NEW YORK (AP) — Sammy Baugh, back in pro football after a seven-year stint of ranching and college coaching, would like to see college football adopt the pro rules.

"I think everyone really prefers pro football. There's no doubt it's the best," the lean, 45-year-old Texan said Friday after he had signed a three-year contract as head coach of the New York Titans of the new American Football League.

"I'd like to see the colleges take every rule in the pro book. It would make a better game. We've been fighting for that down at Hardin-Simmons."

Baugh joined the Hardin-Simmons coaching staff while he still was an active player with the Washington Redskins and he was persuaded to become head coach after Murray Evans quit in 1955. He said he took the job only because it was near enough to his 6,000-acre ranch at Rotan, Tex., that he could drive back and forth daily.

In recent years, he said, the ranch has become less important to him. When the Titans approached him he decided that as long as he was going to be in football he should be where football is best.

Baugh feels there's plenty of room for expansion in pro football and that the game as a whole has advanced in recent years.

"Financially they've made a lot of progress," he grinned. "My contract calls for quite a bit more than I ever made as a player."

"There are more good players on every team now than when I was playing."

"How long do I think it will take the American League to reach parity with the National? Well, I'll say three years, but I really have nothing to go on. I don't know what players we'll have."

Baugh played 16 seasons with the Redskins—one more than any other NFL player—and set some records the new league can't equal until it reaches a ripe old age.

Among other things he had a career mark of 1,709 pass completions on 3,106 attempts for a total distance of about 13 miles. He was league leading passer six seasons, completed more than 70 per cent of his passes in 1945 and had an overall efficiency record of 56.7 per cent.

He retired as a player after the 1952 season and had rejected all approaches by pro clubs until the Titans' offer was made last week.

Rickey Says New Loop To Be Late

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Branch Rickey, president of the newly formed Continental Baseball League, says that a lack of co-operation from the major leagues will probably force his circuit to open in 1962 rather than in 1961.

"Three months ago I felt we could get under way in 1961," Rickey told newsmen Friday. "But recently we have not received the cooperation we need from the major leagues."

Rickey cited the following roadblocks as reasons against the new circuit's opening in 1961:

1. The monopoly of players and territories by the two present leagues.
2. A lack of foresight on the part of the National and American leagues. Rickey asserted that the major leagues cannot foresee that such expansion as the new league is the only salvation for baseball, since the minor leagues are dying off.
3. The American League's talk of expansion. The Continental League, said Rickey, can't get membership because baseball people feel their city may be taken into one of the current leagues.

Despite the problems however, Rickey was optimistic about the prospects of the third league. He said that once the circuit got started, it would be ready to compete in a World Series in three years.

CORRECTION

Through an error in games won and lost in the Pitt County Conference standings Grifton's boys were credited with five wins and four losses thus far in Conference play, placing them in third place in the Pitt County Conference standings. Grifton's record, however, is 6-1, placing them in a two-way tie with Chicod for the conference lead.

Wilson Considers Changes In Staff

DETROIT (AP) — George Wilson, with a new contract to coach the Detroit Lions again next season, may do some shuffling on his coaching staff for the 1960 National Football League campaign.

The Associated Press learned today Wilson is contemplating a change involving one of his assistants.

Wilson has a vacancy on his staff. Buster Ramsey, Detroit defensive coach for eight years, resigned Wednesday. He became head coach for eight years, resigned Wednesday. He became head coach of the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League.

The Lions' board of directors gave Wilson a contract for 1960 at a meeting Friday. Edwin J. Anderson was given a vote of confidence as president-general manager.

Stasavich Named To Hall Of Fame

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Lenoir Rhyne football coach Clarence Stasavich is one of nine new members to the Football Hall of Fame of the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Stasavich, whose team plays Texas A&I here today in the Holiday Bowl to decide the national small college championship, received the award Friday night.

Receiving the awards were nine persons, three coaches, three players and three contributors to the sport.

Stasavich, whose team has a string of 18 straight victories, has captured the North State Conference title five years running. He played football at Lenoir Rhyne. Then became head coach in 1946. His teams have lost only three games since the 1954 season.

The 40-hour week, part of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, went into effect on October 24, 1940.

Jerry West and his rough, tough West Virginia Mountaineers get a chance at sweet revenge tonight when they meet Kentucky in the final of the University of Kentucky Invitational Basketball Tournament in Lexington.

Last year, the same two teams met for the championship and the Wildcats won 97-91.

This time, though, the Mountaineers will be the favorites. They cleared their first big obstacle Friday night in the first round of the tourney by edging St. Louis, 87-86, to run their record to 7-0.

Kentucky, slow starting, advanced at the expense of North Carolina, 76-70.

In the other big tournament on tonight's card, Navy goes against Duke for the title in the Birmingham Classic in Birmingham, Ala. The Middles turned back Auburn, 68-61, and Duke trounced Alabama, 78-60, in first-round games.

All-America West was the big man in the West Virginia triumph scoring a record 37 points, 25 of them in the first half. He fouled out with 22 seconds left in the game.

West Virginia had an easier time than the score would indicate. The Mountaineers piled up a 51-36 bulge at halftime. It wasn't until late in the game that St. Louis pulled up close.

With one second to go, and West Virginia ahead, 87-85, Jim Warren fouled Jim Dailey. Dailey made good on the first throw to cut the deficit to one point, but missed his bonus toss.

Kentucky didn't take the lead until 10:05 of the first half, but then pulled away until the Tar Heels rallied late in the second half.

Bennie Coffman was high man for the winners with 23 points. Lee Shaffer led the Tar Heels with 22.

In the Birmingham Classic, Navy, now 6-0 had to come from

Furman's Squad Cut To Shreds

By KEN ALYTA
GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Furman University faces the prospect of playing the 17 games remaining on its basketball schedule with an eight-man squad.

Coach Lyles Alley has lost four men, three slated for starting roles, from his original roster of 12—and there are no replacements.

But neither Alley nor the team is panicky. Since adversity hit, the Paladins have whirled through to three victories after dropping their first four games when more fully stocked with manpower.

Alley, who has had four rough years since the palmy days when Frank Selvy and Darrell Floyd Furman national recognition for five successive years, is proud of his current crew.

"I think when you are real down, when things get tough, trouble brings a team closer together," he commented. "Instead of falling apart at the seams, the boys dug in harder to show what they are made of."

Ironically, Alley began practice two months ago looking forward to a season with more depth than he's enjoyed in years.

His first job came when Ed Berryhill, figured to be a starting guard, dropped out of school a week before the season opener. Berryhill, who'd averaged 23 points a game to lead the freshman team five years ago, had returned after four years in the Air Force.

On the night of the first game, senior forward Dave Shepard, tabbed for a starting forward role, complained of a back injury during the pre-game warmup. He's through for the year and may undergo surgery.

Conard Chambers, who moved into a starting job following the early personnel problems, withdrew from school for personal reasons. He had not played last year due to illness, after leading the freshman scorers the year before.

Gordon Blackwell, a senior with limited experience, decided to pass up basketball and concentrate on his studies and numerous other activities. He may come back to lend a hand, but Alley is behind at the half to overcome Auburn. Jay Metzler, a 6-6, 225-pound senior, scored 27 points for the Middles.

Duke (3-1) had little trouble with sophomore-studded Alabama. The Blue Devils trailed by one point, 17-16 midway in the first half, but the rest of the way in, they were in command.

Ohio State, terror of the Big Ten, and Bradley, another Midwest power, remained undefeated. Ohio State blasted Butler, 96-68, with soph star Jerry Lucas pitching in 20 points. Bradley took the measure of Boston University, 94-69, with the second and third stringers playing most of the second half. Ohio State and Bradley both are 6-0.

Maryland and Texas were dumped from the unbeaten ranks. Wake Forest cut down the Terps, 54-47, while Oklahoma City turned back the Longhorns, 98-90.

Elsewhere, Notre Dame made it six victories in seven starts with a 67-45 decision over Loyola of Chicago. Kansas rolled over San Francisco, 73-42. Purdue nipped UCLA, 75-74. Kansas State walked over Brigham Young 86-55; Richmond vanquished Rhode Island, 82-71; Southern Methodist downed Tulane, 86-61; Texas Tech beat Louisiana State, 72-65; George Washington rolled over William and Mary 98-71 and California came from behind to nip Colorado 51-47.

In the Murray State Invitational Tournament at Murray, Ky., Memphis state and Mississippi State moved into the final. Memphis State topped host Murray, 70-57, while Mississippi State defeated Baylor, 70-61 in overtime.

Manhattan and Portland reached the final of the City of Roses Tourney at Portland, Ore. The New Yorkers drubbed Gonzaga 91-73 and the Pilots thrashed San Diego State 63-46.

'So-So' Fighter Booms After An Upset Victory

NEW YORK (AP)—What a difference just one fight can make! Friday afternoon Cuba's Benny (Kid) Paret was a so-so fighter hoping to make good against Charley Scott, the top-ranked welterweight contender, in order to get a few more paydays in the ring.

Friday night, following his decisive upset decision over the 3-1 favored Scott in the television 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden, Paret was hoisting for a shot at welterweight champion Don Jordan.

Scott, a 23-year-old Philadelphia, had won six straight and was clamoring for a shot at Jordan. Now he's hoping to get a return fight with the unranked, 22-year-old Cuban.

"No more Scott," said Manuel Alfaro, Paret's manager. "Benny beat the No. 1 once, that's enough. We want Jordan, title fight if we can, or not title."

Matchmaker Teddy Brenner said he would try to get him Jordan. Scott, middleweight Jose Torres or Freddie Thompson, the Argentine champion who knocked out Jordan in a non-title fight recently. A return bout with Scott, despite what Alfaro said, probably is the most likely.

"I just couldn't get off," said Scott, victim of his first defeat in 13 months.

Paret rarely gave him a chance to get off. The muscular Cuban stayed on top of the hard-hitting favorite all the way, rarely giving him much punching room.

Benny the buzzsaw pinned Charley to the ropes or in corners and belted him to the body and head with both hands. He climaxed a sweep of the closing rounds by dropping the bewildered Scott with a left and right to the jaw in the 10th. Scott got up at seven, was given another second under the mandatory eight-count rule, and then absorbed a neat not applying any pressure. He told Blackwell it's a decision he must make for himself.

As a result, Alley is down to eight players, three seniors, three juniors and two sophomores—with only four lettermen in the group.

The Pinson brothers from Henderson, Ky., Byron and Bobby; gangling Dag Wilson (6-5, 185) from Williamston, S.C.; Pete Carlisle from Calhoun Falls, S.C., and Tom Conard from Miami, Fla., will carry the starting load. The nonlettermen make up the "reserve strength."

This is the squad that whacked Richmond and George Washington on successive nights in Southern Conference road games a week ago and added a third victory at Davidson, coming from behind in the last half.

After the Jan. 1-2 Poinsettia tournament here the team hits the road for a Jan. 5 game with what Alley calls the best West Virginia team he's ever seen.

He'd rather not talk about what would happen should four players foul out of a game, leaving Furman with only four to continue.

"I'd hate for a thing like that to happen, it would be embarrassing for both teams," he said with a shudder.

WASHINGTON — A 40-point second half surge by Washington's veteran Pam Pack broke a close game wide open last night as Rose High's Phantoms absorbed their consecutive fourth defeat, 65-35, in the Northeastern Conference basketball opener for both clubs.

Sparked by All-Conference Billy Pittman, Coach Bill Sweet's Pack stretched a 4-point halftime advantage into a 13-point bulge by the end of the third period and went off to completely subdue the Phantoms by dominating the fourth quarter scoring 22-5.

The Phantoms, scrapping all the way, jumped into an early lead before the Washington club gained its balance and began a steady scoring attack that had outpointed Greenville by halftime.

Guard Erskine Duff was the only Phantom to score in the double figures with 11 markers as the Greenville lads had difficulty shooting over the taller and more experienced Washington quint.

Second half fouls hampered Greenville's attempt to close the gap as the Pam Pack connected on 13 of 16 free throws after intermission.

Phant Coach Bo Farley shifted center Layne Jorgensen to a forward post and started junior forward Phil Bynum in the pivot spot to give the Greenville club added height, but the strategy could not make the difference needed.

Following Duff in the scoring were Billy Neal James with 6 points and Jorgensen and sophomore Kroghie Andersen with 5 each.

Last night's action closed out the Phantoms' pre-Christmas contest without a victory. The local quint had previously dropped a non-conference game to Rocky Mount and a pair to Wilson.

In the opener of last night's doubleheader, Greenville's junior varsity absorbed its third loss in four games.

Case Finds Self In 'Unusual Position'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Coach Everett Case, known as the "Old Master" in Atlantic Coast Conference basketball circles, takes his North Carolina State team to Georgia Tech tonight and finds himself in an unusual position. N.C. State is down and Georgia Tech is up.

State has won but two of six starts, the poorest early season record for any Case-coached team.

Tech, on the other hand, is undefeated in five starts.

Before leaving for Atlanta, Case said things were so bad he couldn't name his starters. "Bob DiStefano is a sure starter, but after that, it's anyone's guess."

"I might draw names out of a hat," said Case. "Actually, the boys are about that even."

"We will have our hands full against Georgia Tech. They have a sound, solid team which will be hard to beat. I believe Whack (the Yellow Jacket coach) is going to make things rough for everybody this year," observed Case.

There were a few surprises for ACC teams Friday night. One was the ease by which Duke topped Alabama 78-60 in the opening game of the Birmingham (Ala.) Classic; another was Kentucky's 76-70 defeat of highly regarded North Carolina in the opening round of the Kentucky Invitational tournament; and still another was Wake Forest's 54-47 victory over Maryland in the final ACC game until Jan. 4. Clemson edged Florida State 68-64.

Tonight's schedule pits North Carolina against St. Louis in the consolation game.

Urges Hunters To Play Safe

RALEIGH (AP) — Fire safety rules for hunters and other persons going into wooded areas during the holidays were offered Friday by Asst. State Forester P. W. Tillman.

He warned extreme caution should be used to avoid disastrous fires.

Here are his safety suggestions:

1. When you light a match, hold it until it is cold, then pinch it to make sure it is out.
2. Crush out all your smokes, dead out.
3. After using a campfire or warming fire, drown it; then stir and drown it again.

Tillman reported November forest fires numbered only 74 and burned over 335 acres under state and county protection. The dollar loss was estimated at $1,183.

Affected by competition between discount houses and regular outlets, prices of television sets declined almost 7 per cent between December 1952 and the end of 1958.

The Other Day

A friend was talking about Christmas, how it is celebrated in every far country of the world, with slightly varying customs, but that basically it is a time which generates peace in men of good will wherever they are.

How right he is . . . it has often been the cause of a truce between bitter foes on the battlefield, as though man were pausing in his destruction to acknowledge that he sees, darkly, as through a glass, that other men, somehow, are not really his enemy. But he tells himself he can't figure it out, that for other than this brief Christmas time, he can't improve the situation.

Our friend said that perhaps nations, or even groups, cannot find the answers; that they can be found only by each individual by himself, and that a starting point is in the way he relates himself to all other individuals and to God. We read something that might help us keep such an idea in mind: it's a thought worth repeating quite frequently, silently to ourselves: "Be kind, for everyone you meet is fighting a hard battle."

It's a thought worth thinking about. A permanent spirit of good will, given out all year long, cannot get back anything but more good will, ever growing, and enduring as long as the giving lasts, which can be a whole lifetime. How true it is, that it is better to give than to receive!

To you, our heartfelt good wishes!

Piecemeal Tax Relief Measures Said Dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury says piecemeal tax relief measures now could jeopardize a future general reduction for all taxpayers.

Acting Secretary of the Treasury Fred C. Scribner Jr. gave that advice Friday in a letter to Rep. Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark.), chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

The committee had just completed five weeks of hearings on the federal tax structure. Mills said taxes are too high but there is no likelihood of tax revisions during the next session of Congress. Scribner said the Treasury will welcome the chance to cooperate with the committee to improve tax laws. He noted that most witnesses had agreed lower taxes would foster economic growth but also said tax revision should not cut revenue needed for "responsible financing of government."

Fat Market In Frozen Chickens Said Awaiting

RALEIGH (AP) — A fat market for frozen chickens is waiting for North Carolina farmers in Europe. State Farm Director D. Leon Williams said Friday.

The market could be tapped, he said, if dockside cold storage facilities costing around half a million dollars were built at one of the state's ports—Morehead City or Wilmington.

The European demand for Southern style chicken was shown on the recent tour by Tar Heel businessmen, Williams said. "They just don't raise the nice, plump birds over there that we do here," remarked the ports director, one of those on the trip.

While the cold storage facilities would cost about a half a million, he predicted it would open up what could become a multi-million dollar poultry market for North Carolina farmers.

Much Paperwork In Trimming Old Age Aid Checks

RALEIGH (AP) — Welfare workers are plowing through a mass of paperwork to prepare for a cut in old age assistance checks, due to go into effect Jan. 1.

"Most persons just have no conception of how much paperwork is involved in reducing the payments," Public Welfare Commissioner Ellen Winston said Friday. "Dr. Winston estimated that 50,000 man hours of administrative labor, on both the state and county levels, are going into the shift. Normal operations are being delayed to place in effect the average reduction of $2.55 for each old age assistance check."

Although each man hour involved is valued at well over one dollar, she continued, the cost to the state is not that great because the hiring of additional workers has been held to a minimum. The state has hired two temporary workers. At least one county, Mecklenburg, also has added temporary help.

Utilities Hold Christmas Party

Approximately 150 Greenville Utilities employees and guests attended the organization's annual Christmas party at the Country Club last night.

A turkey dinner was served and Sen. Robert L. Humber spoke following the meal. Superintendent Leonard Bloxam was master of ceremonies. Utilities commissioners and city councilmen and their wives attended the Christmas party.

The Kiwanians held their annual Christmas party last night. Kiwanian J. G. Proctor was master of ceremonies and distributed gifts to Mrs. Lena Tyson, the "sweetheart of Kiwanis," Mrs. J. K. Spivey, who supervises preparation of meals, and Mrs. Bertha Savage, her assistant, and the waitresses.

Guests of the club were Miss Jane McGlohon, Mrs. H. S. Strickland and Dr. H. Glenn Haney, retired Christian minister.

Elbert Bennett led the singing of Kiwanis songs and Mrs. Tyson was accompanist.

Kenneth Hite, Alex White and Dick Atkinson had birthdays and donated a dime for each year of their age for a club fund. Jarvis Allgood won the attendance prize.

Underprivileged Child Committee Chairman J. G. Proctor announced that plans for providing Christmas cheer for worthy families were about completed. The club's next meeting night comes on Friday—Christmas night. Instead of the usual meeting at the Rotary building, the Kiwanis will have an informal "open house" meeting at the Elks Home, on the Falkland highway. President Collins stated.

Only 2 Missing In Family Circle Come Christmas

RALEIGH (AP) — The state's first family will gather around the tree for Christmas in the Executive Mansion here.

Only one daughter and one grandchild will be missing from the family circle when Gov. and Mrs. Luther Hodges observe the holiday.

Mrs. Nancy Hodges Finlay, her husband, John, and an infant son will be unable to make the long trip from their home in East Pakistan. They will be represented by twins Vivian and Vary Finlay, students in an English boarding school. The girls will fly to join their grandparents for Christmas.

Luther Hodges Jr. and his wife, Dorothy; Mrs. Betsy Hodges Bernard and her husband, Donald, and their three children will round out the group. The Bernards live in Anacostia, Wash.

A weekly news conference Wednesday at 4 p.m. is the only item on the governor's schedule for the holiday week.

Find Migrant's Body Buried In House Basement

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A migrant steeplejack with a record of five arrests in Burlington, N.C., was found slain in the basement of an empty house here Friday.

Officers said Donald W. Newman, 36, of Philadelphia, apparently had been shot with a small caliber pistol and then buried in the basement of a row house. The body was under six inches of dirt beneath a rug.

Newman had a record of arrests in Burlington and had been arrested here in 1956 on burglary, larceny and receiving of stolen goods.

Newman was last seen alive Monday. Police found the body after receiving an anonymous telephone tip.

SHOOT REAL BIRDIE

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Dr. Ford Bridges bagged a real birdie on a Tulsa golf course. The bird was perched on a tree limb when Bridges' fairway shot nailed it.

William Shakespeare enlivened the dialogue of his plays with slang expressions.

READY TO GO—Members of Mrs. J. E. Bynum's seventh grade in Farmville sat impatiently yesterday waiting for the bell that began the Christmas holidays. Public school students throughout the entire county packed up their books yesterday and left classrooms empty until Jan. 4 when schools open again. Note the varied facial expressions of the students seconds before the last bell in two weeks sounded.

Mercy Wasn't Recommended In Verdict Of Guilty

COLUMBIA (AP) — An all-white, male jury Friday convicted a 29-year-old Columbia Negro for the criminal assault of a white mother.

A Richland County General Sessions Court jury did not recommend mercy thus making the death penalty mandatory for Walter J. Outen.

Circuit Judges James Hugh McFadden probably will pass sentence Monday when he also will hear a motion for a new trial.

The assault victim testified that Outen assaulted her in a clump of bushes off a road in the Dentsville area while threatening her with a knife. She said she was walking from a bus stop to her home when the attack occurred last month.

Outen admitted in a written statement that he had had relations with the woman.

Outen, who did not testify, remained impassive while the jury's verdict was read.

The big plane stopped in Boston after a refueling stop at Gander, Newfoundland, on a flight from Moscow to Washington. Three Soviet agricultural experts and the plane crew spent the night in a Boston hotel.

The Khrushchev gifts consists of 40 trees and shrubs destined for the President's farm at Gettysburg, Pa. The shipment will go first to the U.S. Plant Introduction Station at Glenn Dale, Md., to comply with U.S. plant quarantine regulations.

Time Out

For Play

THESE YOUNGSTERS . . . playing on the jungle-gym are mute (?) testimony to the fact that eating "the lunchroom food" in no way retards their "vim, vigor or vitality". On the contrary, the boys and girls eating in the other pictures are "hurriedly" enjoying their meal so they too can join their friends on the playground.

THIS LAD . . . seems to be more interested in what is taking place across the room than in his food.

Just as "children" goes with "school", "play" goes with "lunch-time".

In Greenville, an average of 2,000 children are fed each day in the school-operated lunchrooms. Immediately following the meal these children and the few who go home to lunch or bring their lunch to school get together and work-off, and out, some of the recently acquired vitamins and energy.

On the average, according to a school official, about 30 to 45 minutes of the lunch period is devoted to play after the hastily-consumed meal, the exact amount of time depending on the appetite of the youngster, the size of mouth and the speed with which he can chew and swallow.

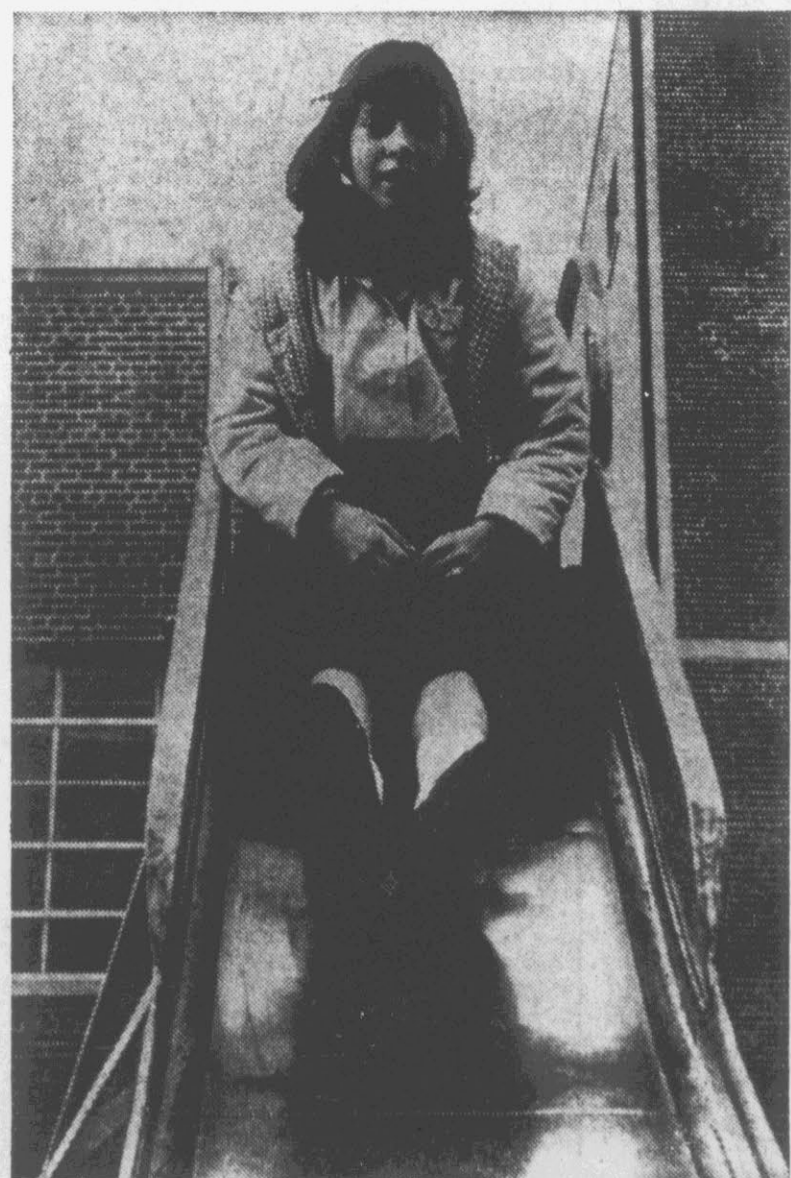

The seven school cafeterias, all under the direction of Mrs. Louise Rush, serve the same thing on the same day, according to a master menu. Wahl-Coates School, with 475 students feeds from 320 to 390 children per day. About 75 bring their lunches from home with the remainder, who live near-by, going home to eat.

When the lunches have been "downed" the "eaters" can be seen running, jumping, yelling, sitting, . . . doing almost everything imaginable to have fun. Their activities are limited only by their imagination. Their imagination almost equals their appetite.

WAITING . . . in line for lunch is a very time-consuming but rewarding activity for the children who eat at school.

Shah's Future Bride Receives Her Gown

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Farah Diba, the 21-year-old former art student who becomes the bride of the Shah of Iran Monday, has received the final item in her trousseau — her Dior wedding gown.

She tried it on as soon as it arrived by plane from Paris Friday. The other dresses, coats and accessories that she selected on a recent Paris shopping spree were already in the Queen Mother's palace, where Farah is living temporarily. They fill about 60 pieces of luggage.

The wedding gown is a princess satin in a light blueish, pearl gray shade which designer Yves Mathew Saint Laurent selected for the bride. It has a veil to match and a cape-like bolero.

The setting for the wedding will be the Hall of Mirrors in the Marble Palace, where last week Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi entertained President Eisenhower with a lavish luncheon.

Raw Steel Production Not Able To Build Up Stockpile

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Raw steel is pouring out of the mills at a record rate. And now some finished products are on their way to users.

But they are being used up as quickly as received. Steelmen doubt that much, if any, stocks can be built up by the end of January, when the court-imposed strike truce expires.

This is why pressure is building up to find some settlement—privately if possible or publicly if not—to the labor-management dispute over wages and work rules. The effects of a new stoppage could be swift and much more widespread than before. This possibility has been all but forgotten.

CURE FOR DIVORCE
CHICAGO (AP) — Parents could cut America's high divorce rate if they'd take a lesson from India, and help their children choose mates, says Dr. Marine Finger Bale. The Methodist missionary educator has spent the last five years in India, where matches are made by parents and divorce is almost unknown.

In the elation over the big Christmas trade the merchants are enjoying.

The fear is that a resumption of the strike would cripple other industries right from the start, instead of from two to three months later, as was the case last summer and fall. And the hundreds of thousands in other industries laid off as a side effect of the steel strike might be multiplied many times if the strike is resumed.

The steel workers have hammered out contracts with some copper companies. They say they hope to do the same with aluminum companies shortly.

But in the big dispute, steel management and labor seem—as far as the public can tell, at least—to be as far away as ever.

The 600,000 increase in unemployment in November over October reported by the Labor Department could be only a drop in the bucket if the strike resumes, observers point out.

One of the most startling of the predictions along this line comes from the Research Institute of America. This industry-supported private business advisory organization says that by the first of March one American industrial worker in four stands a chance of being laid off if steel supplies stop flowing again.

It says that nearly five million in the metalworking industries would be quickly jobless.

Quite a number would be hundreds of thousands of rail and truck workers and 2½ million in the construction field.

Some industries could hold out longer but in time would be affected. These include industrial chemicals, coal mines, paperboard, canneries, tires, and glass.

More remotely affected would be businesses losing customers because the laid-off workers couldn't buy. In time there could be lay-offs in these consumer industries, too, to an extent that can only be estimated.

Add in the three million unemployed for reasons other than steel shortages, and guessing at how many might be laid off in the remotely affected industries, the institute says that the total figure could quickly rise to 10 to 15 million. That's why the pressure is on for a settlement in steel. It really is basic to the economy.

Pilgrim Heritage Fades When U. S. Begins Its Yule Season

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

Less than a month ago, while preparations for Thanksgiving were at a height, the air was filled with praises for the spiritual qualities of the Pilgrims, who conceived the holiday.

But now with Christmas, one of the two great holy days of Christendom peeping around the corner of the calendar, the pious Pilgrims disappear so thoroughly they might never have existed.

The reason: The Pilgrims of Plymouth, and their brethren, the Puritans of Boston and England, took note of Christmas only long enough to pass laws suppressing it.

The festive Christmas season which could get pretty riotous in England seemed a time of almost pagan revelry to the straight-laced Pilgrims and its religious rites smacked strongly of the Catholicism they abhorred.

Besides, they would argue, no one really knew Jesus' birth date, anyway, so the whole celebration was dubious.

Their first Christmas in the new land, Dec. 25, 1620, was just another work day for the Pilgrims. They spent their time building a storehouse. There is no evidence anyone protested.

But Christmas 1621, there were enough newcomers around the colony to protest the austerity. They were recent arrivals aboard the good ship Fortune.

Pilgrim Father William Bradford recalled in his journal: "On the day called Christmas Day, the Governor called them out to work as was usual. But most of this new company excused themselves and said it went against their consciences to work on that day.

"So the Governor told them that if they made it a matter of conscience, he would spare them until they were better informed; so he led away the rest and left them.

"But when they came home at noon from their work, he found them in the street at play, openly, some pitching the bar, and some at stoolball and such like sports.

"So he went to them and took away their implements and told them that it was against his conscience that they should play and others work.

"If they made the keeping of it matter of devotion, let them keep their houses; but there should be no gaming or reveling in the streets."

"Since which time," Bradford added with obvious satisfaction, "nothing has been attempted that way, at least openly."

The Plymouth governor was more lenient with his Christmas heretics than the Puritan government of the nearby Massachusetts Bay Colony.

It passed a law in 1659 which read: "Whosoever shall be found observing any such day as Christmas, or the like, either by forbearing of labor, feasting in any other way, shall be fined five shillings."

The law was on the books for nearly a quarter of a century. The spirit of Christmas crept slowly into the Puritan culture. Resistance crumbled in the face of an influx of immigrants, chiefly the Irish and Germans in whom the Christmas tradition was strong.

Today, one of the most deeply rooted American Christmas traditions is the singing of carols on Beacon Hill in Boston—the very heart of a Puritan land that once banned Christmas.

Humphrey Raps Money Policies

MERRILL, Wis. (AP) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) assailed the administration's money policy Friday calling it "a benefit for the big banks, insurance companies, and other lending institutions."

He is making another two-day trip in Wisconsin, apparently to strengthen his possible bid for presidential delegates to the National Democratic Convention. He talked Friday at Ashland, Rhinelander, Marathon and Merrill and planned additional speeches in Madison and other southern Wisconsin cities today.

"The administration's tight money policy," he said, "only makes it tight for you and me."

Humphrey said that the Republicans did not keep their promise to keep interest rates down. He said "the greatest single failure of the Republican party is its farm policy, their farm policy is based on one theory. It is that lower prices and price supports will result in less production and this will enable controls to be removed. This theory does not work."

But Cheryl Maloney of Honesdale, Pa., loves the drums and Sunday she'll get a new set at the Hasbrouck Heights Hospital Christmas party.

Cheryl, who plays drums in her junior high school band, was born without arms and returns periodically to the hospital to have new artificial limbs fitted as she grows up.

Non-Striker's Home Is Target

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Two shotgun blasts struck the home of a non-striking employee of the Standard Oil refinery at nearby Sugar Creek Friday night.

Mrs. A.H. Kilpatrick was alone in the home, watching television, when the shots broke a storm door and a storm window. Her husband was at work at the refinery.

It was the second time Kilpatrick's house was a target. Eight 22-caliber bullets hit the home Oct. 25.

The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union has been on strike at the refinery since July 8. Kilpatrick, a non-unionist, was one of 24 men who returned to work Aug. 20.

Rockefeller Says Trip 'Fine'; Returns Home

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has wound up his 5,636-mile six-day tour that took him into seven states. He says he has done all the traveling he is going to do in researching his presidential possibilities.

Rockefeller called the trip "wonderful."

He arrived here by plane Friday night from Miami after a three-hour delay caused by a broken water hose in one of the plane's engines and air traffic congestion in the New York area. He left immediately by car to spend part of the weekend with relatives and friends in Millbrook, N.Y.

Rockefeller told newsmen in Miami that the trip winds up "all the fact-finding I'm going to do by traveling." The governor has indicated that public opinion polls also will influence his decision as to whether he oppose Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the Republican presidential nomination next year.

"I'm neither optimistic nor pessimistic," Rockefeller said when asked whether the trip had shed any light on his national political possibilities. He said he wants to make up his mind before the New York Legislature meets Jan. 5. He received a warm welcome in Florida, although GOP leaders there overwhelmingly favor Nixon.

Asked if he had been asked to enter the Florida presidential primary, Rockefeller replied: "Well, I haven't been crowded on it."

Besides Florida, Rockefeller visited Indiana, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Republican officials were friendly to him in each state—with a few exceptions, he said. He declined to specify the exceptions.

The trip "contributed very much to a better understanding of the interests of the people and the structure and attitude of the party," he said.

Those TV Specials Have Come To Pose 'Lessons'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Now that the super-special TV season is well along, it seems time to assess the rights and wrongs of the system.

The 1959-60 TV year must be a source of satisfaction to Pat Weaver. It was he who conceived the idea of the special, he called "em spectaculars" during his brilliant, brief career as NBC chief. He theorized that viewers would suffer boredom from the weekly diet of series.

What a blessing the special has been this year! Never has the program of series been so lackluster—the steady, violent outpouring of gunslings, both in chaps and blue serge. The season has seen no truly original series introduced to weekly programming.

The specials have saved the day. Some were bound to be good—there are so many of them. There is still plenty of room for improvement. Perhaps we can devises 10 commandments for special makers, drawing from the hits and errors of the season thus far:

1. Don't be name-crazy.
2. Strive for a different combination of names.
3. Take Time. If it's special, it deserves special care, not sloppy work.
4. Spend for writing.
5. Make sure it's something special.
6. Don't rely on tape or film.
7. Don't underestimate your audience.
8. Don't get carried away with scenery. The play is still the thing.
9. But beware of underdoing scenery.
10. Don't be afraid to repeat a good thing. The best specials warrant re-plays.

Perhaps we should add another commandment—for networks to lavish some of the same thought and care on the pallid weekly shows that they do on specials.

Michigan's Long Tax Fight Ended

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan's marathon tax fight was over today and government heads waited anxiously for an 87-million-dollar revenue package to start pouring cash into an ailing state treasury.

The Legislature, in a sudden burst of energy, wrapped up the new money program Friday and called it quits on the 175th day of the session, longest in state history. Weary lawmakers scattered quickly for home, leaving only a token force behind for final adjournment today.

Urged by Gov. G. Mennen Williams, reluctant House Democrats gave Republicans votes to spare in pushing through the Senate-approved, six-billion package in 40 minutes.

Williams branded the program "inadequate and miserable" but promised he would not veto it.

"There is no choice but to accept it since the alternative is utter financial chaos," he said.

Republican and Democratic leaders agreed the plan is only a stopgap.

Lawmakers will run head-on into tax and money problems again when the 1960 session convenes Jan. 13.

Biggest and most hotly debated feature of the new program is liquidation of the state's 50-million-dollar veterans trust fund program, worth about 40 million dollars on the current bond market. The fund, used to aid needy veterans, will be restored piecemeal by 1971 and the $1,200,000 which it yields annually will be appropriated from the general fund.

Organized veterans fought the proposal. But the governor and leaders in both parties considered liquidation necessary to meet the state's most pressing obligations. The general fund treasury currently is about 15 million dollars in the red.

Other bills passed Friday will raise 34 million dollars a year starting Jan. 1, from new or increased taxes on liquor, tobacco, beer and telephone bills. Another will add one mill to the four-mill corporation franchise fee, retroactive to last July 1, for an annual increase of 13 millions.

All the taxes will expire June 30, 1961.

By then, Republicans hope voters will approve a constitutional amendment to raise the sales tax from three to four cents.

A proposition to put it on the November 1960 ballot carried the GOP-controlled Senate but died Friday in the House, evenly split 55-55.

Prisoners Stage 'Worst' Riot

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Prisoners staged one of the worst riots in the history of the Jackson County Jail Friday night.

They were subdued after 40 minutes with a fire hose and tear gas. The 33 prisoners broke four or five bullet-proof windows with a metal mop wringer, stuffed paper in the broken windows and set it afire, smashed their television set, flooded the bullpen, shouted and banged their metal plates on the bars of their cells.

They complained about the food, but sheriff Arvid Owsley said they may have been aiming at a mass escape from the jail, on the 12th floor of the courthouse.

"They raise these ruckuses when they try to escape. You open one of those doors at the wrong time and somebody may stick something in your back," he said.

The first successful gun silencer was invented in 1909 by Hiram Maxim of Hartford, Conn.

CHAPTER 10

Brantley floated down to supper in a robe with her hair still rolled in bobby pins and calling everybody "Darling" in a new, low husky voice. "I couldn't eat a thing really, darlings," she said. "Just black coffee."

Rutledge followed her into the kitchen. "You think she's all right?" he said, alarmed.

"I said yes, of course, and didn't recognize the great Tallulah," Rutledge said. "You mean she's trying to sound that way?"

"I said certainly, and that he would understand if he had ever been in a play himself."

Brantley left with Poo in a vast confusion of bags and clothes on hangers and shoes and mechanical explosions. It was rather like Christmas morning without the presents.

I was not actually worried about the play. Dear Ruth, as Brantley was perfectly at home on any stage. But there was a tightness wound up inside me like a spring—the way I felt when Rutledge talked about his prize Guernsey cow at the State Farm Auxiliary banquet, and when Tilghman read the valedictory at commencement.

We sat down near the front with the other parents of the cast where we could boast without censure and compare offspring. The band, very splendid in purple and gold, played before the play and during intermission. They had been trained to play loudly, and we screamed madly back and forth to each other.

Brantley looked lovely in the new outfits. I thought, and Rutledge led the applause whenever she entered or left the stage. And he laughed so hard at the scene where the girl's mother and father and ex-boy friend were waiting for Brantley to get in with her new boy friend that I had to whisper to Rutledge that people were looking at him instead of the play.

But when Brantley sent the Lieutenant away I found my own throat choking up, and two little girls on the front row cried out loud.

Rutledge informed everybody within hearing distance between the acts that the leading lady was his daughter, and all the parents of the cast agreed that Dear Ruth was the best play the school had ever done.

We went backstage and kissed Brantley and told her the play was wonderful.

Brantley said in a luminous sort of way yes, wasn't it?

And the prop chairman went about ramming into everybody with curtain rods and floor lamps. Brantley said she wouldn't be late, that they were not having a real party, just going to the Chicken Basket and have coffee and talk over the play, and wait for the reviews—the way they did in the legitimate theater.

On the way home we all agreed that Brantley did look lovely, and the play was indeed a big success, and the band certainly was loud.

Rutledge and I sat up with the television and talked about the play and how we hoped Brantley wasn't serious about marrying Poo instead of going on to college until Brantley came floating in at twelve.

"Golly!" she said—not like Tallulah. "I'm starved!" And she headed for the kitchen.

Saturday morning I woke to the drip of rain from the eaves, and my first thought was that my husband would be like a caged lion. He and Elliott had planned to put in the day beans, limas, snaps, watermelon, cabbage, peppers, and cucumbers.

I had planned to wash sweaters for the girls and help Old Beck wax woodwork and maybe try that new recipe for caramel chews that Brantley brought home from her home economics class.

I left Rutledge huddled gloomily in the kitchen with coffee and a look that was about as cheerful as an unexploded A-bomb and went for Old Beck in the station wagon.

The dirt road was a real mess, and it took longer than usual to get there. Old Beck informed me bitterly that the Lord only knew what was going on in all this slop would do to the misery in her back. I didn't argue because I found that Rutledge had gone to the farm anyway with his cold.

The girls drifted down about ten and fixed toast and coffee then drifted back upstairs, murmuring vaguely about doing nails and washing hair. About these

Student, Faculty Assembly At College Begins Holiday Season

Closing event of the pre-holiday season at East Carolina College, as Christmas vacation began Friday, was the annual assembly of students and of faculty and staff members in the Wright auditorium.

A Christmas message from Vice President Leo W. Jenkins and a program of music by student ensembles and of group singing by an audience of approximately 1,500 people were presented at the hour-long meeting.

"As we live from day to day," Dr. Jenkins said, "we seek something in which to believe—some thing, some person, some ideal to reveal to us the truths that give significance to our lives. We seek answers to why we are here and where we are going."

"The answers are never found," he continued, "in isms, in political parties, in wealth, in power, in world leaders, in scientific discoveries."

Only in the "unchanging truths," the spiritual values, he said, will be found the answers. The significance of Christmas, he stated, lies in the fact that a Saviour has been born, Christmas means a share of us in eternal life, and in this life it means an understanding of the beauty of living.

The Christmas message, he told his audience, is one of happiness, "Joy to the World" and "Peace on Earth, Good Will toward Men" are expressions of the spirit of the season. As he closed his talk, Dr. Jenkins read a prayer by St. Francis of Assisi.

Dr. Robert Holt, registrar, read to those present a Christmas message from President John D. Messick of the college, who is now in Washington, D.C., and whose recent resignation, effective Jan. 6, will end his twelve years of service to the college.

"My greatest single wish today is that I might be with you people to share in the annual inspiring Christmas program," Dr. Messick's message said. "I have always looked forward to it as a highlight of the year."

"While I can't be with you in person, I am with you in spirit and leave the parting message with you to realize peace on earth and good will toward men. I wish for you the happiest Christmas ever and pray God's blessings upon you—every one. May He bless and sustain you and give you peace."

In the program of music at the assembly the East Carolina Band, directed by Herbert L. Carter, won prolonged applause for its performance of Leroy Anderson's "Sleigh Ride" and repeated the selection for a well-pleased audience. Jane Murray of Roxboro, also, was soloist with the band in the popular number "The Christmas Song."

The Chapel Choir, singing under the direction of Gordon Johnson, presented three carols and folk songs of the Christmas season. From Handel's "The Messiah" the College Choir, with Dr. Carl Hjortsvang as conductor, sang the choruses "For Unto Us a Child Is Born" and "Hallelujah."

Group singing of well-known Christmas hymns, with "Silent Night" as closing selection, was led by Mr. Carter and Dan E. Vornholt.

As the audience left the Wright building, the Brass Choir of the college played from the porch of Whichard Music Hall Christmas selections which peaked out over the entire campus. James Parnell is conductor of the group.

Mediators Plan Resuming Steel Contract Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal mediators plan to get steel contract negotiations started again early next week, probably Monday.

Top leaders of the steelworkers union have been tied up in Chicago with aluminum industry contract talks. They reportedly will wrap up a settlement this week.

Steelworkers are back to work during an 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction period. The injunction halted their 116-day strike, but they could strike again after the injunction expires Jan. 26.

President Eisenhower, who expressed strong hope a settlement would be reached while he was abroad, returns from his tour next Tuesday. Federal Mediation Director Joseph P. Finnegan said he would arrange a series of negotiation meetings before Christmas.

Annual Pesticide School Scheduled January 13-14

With the recent cranberry situation fresh on their minds, dealers who sell pesticides to the consumer, agricultural leaders and representatives of the pesticide industry will be attending the 12th Annual Pesticide School on the State College campus on January 13 and 14, 1960.

S. C. Winchester, County Agricultural Agent, says that farmers, nurserymen, gardeners, warehousemen, housewives and others are compelled to control certain plant diseases, insects, weeds and rodents. If successful protection from these pests is to be accomplished they need to know what chemical to use and how to use it for best results.

"How readily available are the best pesticides for specific jobs and whether or not they are used to the best advantage often depends upon how up-to-date a dealer is on such materials. Dealers who 'hand materials across the counter' to the consumer are constantly confronted with the job of supplying pesticides that will do the job and that will also meet standards of public health and safety. Mr. Winchester continued, "Therefore dealers as well as agricultural workers and industrial workers should avail themselves of every opportunity to keep informed on recommended pesticides and their judicious use so as to promote better and safer pest control and help prevent 'cranberry situations'."

The pesticide school is held annually at State College. Latest research findings and reviews of current problems in the field of pesticides and application equipment are stressed. During the opening session of the 1960 school Wednesday morning January 13, the featured guest speaker, Dr. Emol A. Falls will present an address titled "How Do You Sell Your Product?" This presentation by a nationally recognized economist and orator will involve many implications of special interest of local dealers who handle pesticides.

Current research and other information will be reviewed in the following sections: Weed Control 10:00-12:00, Wednesday, January 13; Insect Control Wednesday Afternoon, January 13; Plant Diseases and Rodent Control Thursday morning, January 14.

The N. C. Pesticide Manual is published by the N. C. State College, Division of College Extension in conjunction with the Pesticide School each year. This manual is designed to give those attending the school as well as others the most up-to-date information available on the selection and proper use of pesticides in North Carolina. Each registrant at the school receives a copy of this manual. Following the school, copies are available from the Division of College Extension at a nominal fee.

Dealers, farm supervisors, formulators, agricultural leaders and others wishing to attend may receive advanced registration blanks by writing to Division of College Extension, Box 5125, Raleigh, N. C., or they may register on Wednesday, Jan. 13, in lobby of State College Union Building.
