

President Winds Up Tour In Morocco, Heads Home

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP)—President Eisenhower headed for home tonight, winding up the crusade for friendship and peace in freedom which he carried to 11 nations.

A thunderous acclaim by about 500,000 jubilant Moroccans and a generous send-off capped the President's history-making tour, the most extended foreign trip ever undertaken by an American president.

The 19-day journey, on which the President was cheered by perhaps nine million well-wishers, encompassed visits to Italy, Turkey, Pakistan, Afghanistan, India, Iran, Greece, Tunisia, Spain and Morocco, as well as a Western summit meeting in Paris.

The conclusion of the President's far-ranging venture in personal diplomacy still found him grinning and radiating confidence that he had managed to spread to millions a feeling of trust in the sincerity of American motives and policies. Only time will disclose the long-term effects. But there were many signs of at least a temporary boost to American prestige as a result of the tour.

The President's orange-nosed jetliner headed westward and was due at Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington at 11 p.m. EST. His point of departure Dec. 3. A refueling stop was planned at Gander, Nfld.

The President was received with wild enthusiasm and one of the most colorful welcomes of his three-continent tour when he arrived in this white-walled North African city.

He was fascinated by dashing horsemen, 5,000 strong, who raised their ancient long guns in salute as he rode by in an open car with King Mohammed V past crowds roaring "Yaish Ike" (Long live Ike).

The President was presented with the traditional Arab greeting gift of dates and goat milk. Tens of thousands packing United Nations Square cheered as the president grinned and waved in appreciation of the silver tray of dates and the pitcher of milk.

Then the Eisenhower motorcade continued from the square down the Avenue of the Royal Armed Forces, packed 10 deep with screaming, cheering Moroccans. Thirty motorcycle police escorted the American visitor into Casablanca.

Moroccan women in veils shrilled "Yoo, Yoo," the traditional Moroccan shout of excitement.

The President, arriving from a whirlwind visit to Madrid where his welcome was similarly enthusiastic, rode through the city in an open car beside King Mohammed V. Both were standing.

Wearing a broad grin, the President waved his hat to the shouting thousands of Moroccans, many in the burnouses and colorful robes characteristic of the country.

The president frequently extended his arms in greeting. When he did so, the crowd seemed almost to go wild with joy. It thundered approval when the President clasped his hands above his head in a gesture of friendship.

Morocco's King, who wants more American aid but wants the U.S. to give up its bases here, turned out to greet Eisenhower at the airport.

The dense crowds slowed the motorcade's progress, and the president was about a half hour behind schedule on the trip to the royal palace.

He was due to leave at 11 a.m. EST for Washington, bringing to an end a history-making journey which was a triumph for the President in most of the places he visited.

"We are very happy to greet you," said the King in a brief welcoming address in Arabic before they drove off to Casablanca for talks on Morocco's desire for more U.S. aid and a swift departure of American troops from Moroccan bases.

After a 5½-hour visit with King Mohammed V, Eisenhower was to take off for Washington. "We like Ike" signs bedecked the streets of Casablanca, which Eisenhower last visited in 1943 as a wartime general.

Tens of thousands of Moroccans who came to hail the President dotted the plains southeast of the city. Mutton cooked over hundreds of campfires.

Tribal horsemen in brown burnouses galloped in groups and fired their rifles skyward in traditional salute to visiting dignitaries.

Eisenhower flew from Madrid after discussing the world situation with Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco at breakfast in Franco's Pardo Palace. That was the windup of a visit that drew about a million Spaniards out in raw wind and a cold rain Monday to roar "Viva Ike."

A 582-mile jet flight landed the President 15 miles south of this sprawling Atlantic seaport at the Nouasseur Air Base, one of five big U.S. installations which the State Department has agreed the United States will give up.

King Mohammed V and the head of his leftist-influenced government, Premier Abdullah Ibrahim, welcomed Eisenhower.

In Casablanca, sentries in scarlet pantaloons and blue turbans stood rigidly at the high Moorish gates of the 25-foot walls about the buff-colored palace.

Following his arrival at the palace, Eisenhower was to rest 90 minutes, then join his host for an hour's luncheon. They arranged a private conference from 3 to 4 p.m. Then the President was to return to Nouasseur for his flight home. One refueling stop was scheduled on the way, at Gander, Nfld.

The United States has agreed to surrender the five American bases it built in Morocco at a cost of more than 400 million dollars while Morocco was a protectorate of France and Spain. They are staffed by 12,000 Americans, employ 8,000 Moroccan civilians and pour about 64 million dollars annually into the Moroccan economy.

While this will satisfy a Moroccan yearning for political and military independence, the departure of the U.S. forces will worsen an economic situation that has become grave in the first three unpeaked years of independence.

Industrial Council Reported Formed By Grimesland

GRIMESLAND—In conjunction with the Pitt County Development Commission, Grimesland Mayor

Leslie Elks announced this morning that the eastern Pitt town has organized an industrial development council and has begun to raise funds to help finance the bringing of manufacturing firms to Grimesland.

Living Cost Index Still Going Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Living costs crept upward to another all-time high in November, but the rise was at a slower pace than in other recent months, the government reported today.

Consumer prices advanced less than one-tenth of one per cent to a level 25.6 per cent above the 1947-49 average. A month earlier, prices were 25.5 per cent above the base period.

It was the sixth time in seven months that prices, as measured by the Labor Department's consumer price index, advanced to a new peak.

The November rise was less marked than in September and October, and Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, said he looks for relative price stability until next spring.

A continued downturn in food prices helped check the November rise in the index. The big factors on the upside were increases in charges for services and for durable goods, including new autos.

The November rise in the index will bring pay increases to about 170,000 workers who get cost-of-living increases under union contracts.

Factors affecting the shift in buying power included the return of steelworkers to their jobs, which boosted average hourly earnings, and a drop in the factory work week because of layoffs by makers of autos and other goods affected by a shortage of steel.

The Grimesland Industrial Council, organized Dec. 7, will work closely with the Pitt Commission and its economic consultant, Leonard A. Weston, in seeking to entice industrial firms to the town.

According to Mayor Elks, who is also president of the new industrial group, Grimesland area citizens have already raised more than $13,000 to be used for the erection of an industrial building. Beginning the first of 1960, the town, in cooperation with the State Employment Service, will conduct a labor survey for area lying within a 20-mile radius of Grimesland, Elks said.

The survey project has been delayed, he said, because the mailing permit that must be acquired before the mail survey begins would have expired Dec. 31. The town will wait until the first of January in order to benefit from a full year's service from the permit.

"We're not personally involved in negotiations yet," the mayor told the Daily Reflector this morning. "The county Development Commission is handling that for now."

He indicated, however, that the town is "very much interested" in its industrial development. "We're getting ready," he said. "It's in the air around here."

After letting the contract the last of November, the town expects to have its new $90,000 water system completed within 120 days, according to Elks. The new municipal system, Grimesland's first, will include nearly three miles of two, six, and eight-inch concrete pipe line, a 75,000-gallon storage tank, and 250 gallons of water per minute as maximum output. The new water installation will be used as a strong "sales point" when negotiating with industrial prospects, Elks said. Enhancing the new system's fire protection potential is a new $9,700 fire engine purchased by the town earlier this month.

Last-Minute Appeal Sounded By Welfare Dept. For Food Baskets

A last-minute appeal went out to Pitt County citizens this morning from the Pitt Welfare Department to provide funds to buy food baskets for more than 100 Pitt families who otherwise might go hungry during Christmas.

At least 113 families in the county have not yet benefited from the program sponsored by the welfare department, the county's church and civic organizations, and private individuals that has brought Christmas food and toys to nearly 300 Pitt homes.

Welfare Supt. Julius S. Grimes III announced this morning that the offices in the old hospital building will remain open until 3 p.m. tomorrow in an attempt to fashion some sort of Christmas aid for the 113 families.

He commended Pitt citizens and organizations for their "splendid work already done" but emphasized the urgent need for "our people to go a little bit further."

In the interest of time, he advised, the most efficient means of conveying food baskets to these remaining families is to provide the funds for basket purchases through the department. Staff members, he said, have agreed to work late to deliver the food to the families.

He added, however, that persons desiring to make personal deliveries could do so. After making the contribution, those persons may call the welfare offices and learn where to pick up the baskets and where to deliver them.

Grimes praised the cooperation of Greenville and Pitt County grocers in packing "custom-made" food baskets that border along a specific price range. At the request of the department, the grocers assembled varied food collections at a cost ranging from $2.50 to $3.50.

The welfare superintendent expressed satisfaction that the nearly 300 families already included in the Christmas aid program represented virtually every section of Pitt and added that the remaining 113 "fit the same category."

He prevailed upon Pitt citizens to "act as quickly as possible to allow our workers time to deliver food to the entire 113 families."

He pointed out that, as soon as

Small Nations Voice Fear Of Effects In Summit Talk

PARIS (AP)—Belgium, Greece and Turkey expressed fears today they may be affected by decisions taken at an East-West summit conference in which they had no part.

The three little nations—supported in part by Norway and Italy—spoke up at a closed session of the Atlantic Alliance's Ministerial Council.

The council gave full support to the Western Big Three proposal for summit talks with the Soviet Union but with a proviso for prior consultation among the allies.

Strong hints came from Moscow that Premier Nikita Khrushchev will accept the Western invitation to a summit session this spring with the United States, Britain and France.

U. S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd took pains to reassure doubtful smaller nations.

Herter and Lloyd assured the other ministers that no nation's interests would be jeopardized behind its back. NATO officials emphasized that the issue did not develop to the point of acrimony.

Turkish Foreign Minister Fatih Rustu Zorlu expressed doubts the Soviet Union has the peaceful intentions it professes. This, he said, made firm consultation all round more than ever necessary.

Lloyd said that even on disarmament he did not visualize any final agreements would be made without full approval of any nation concerned. Sources said the allies appeared reassured by these pledges and the meeting closed harmoniously.

It was reported authoritatively that the United States considered the West's proposals for a series of summit conferences as mainly a psychological move in order not to raise false hopes.

The United States does not believe the proposal for a series of summit conferences in any way commits the West to more than the Paris meeting proposed for April, it was reported on high authority.

The test of whether any future summit meetings will be arranged will be the sincerity shown by Moscow at the first conference.

The Ministerial Council of NATO ended its annual policy review meeting after hearing a report from French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville on the weekend meeting of the Western Big Four.

The 15-nation council in a communiqué said it fully supported the invitation the United States, Britain and France sent Khrushchev Monday. West Germany also attended the weekend meeting, but will not go to the East-West summit.

The ministers also endorsed the Western proposal that the new 10-nation Western-Communist disarmament conference start work in Geneva March 15. The council offered the services of NATO's military experts in the disarmament study.

The NATO ministers reaffirmed their year-old pledge to support the United States, Britain and France in maintaining the freedom of West Berlin.

In a news conference the council president, Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvard Lange, predicted a period of extensive negotiations with the Soviet Union.

"Political cooperation, political unity and—I stress the word—effective political consultation are more important than ever," he declared.

Pravda, organ of the Soviet Communist party, said the Paris conference "marked a step forward on the path of easing international tension."

Some Will Be Closed Saturday

Indications are that Saturday will be a "split holiday" for employees in and around Greenville.

The local Merchants Association reported that nearly all retail businesses will open Saturday morning at regular times. City and county, local federal and state offices along with banks and several grocery stores will extend the holiday weekend through Saturday to reopen Monday morning at regular times.

Stores in downtown Greenville are scheduled to remain open until 9 tonight and tomorrow night and to close at 6 p.m. Thursday. They will be closed for Christmas Day and reopen Saturday morning.

A dozen Greenville independent grocers decided to allow their employees an extended holiday weekend by remaining closed Saturday after closing their doors Christmas Eve.

Greenville's municipal offices will close at noon Thursday and reopen again Monday morning at 8:30. City Manager L. P. Bloxam reported, however, that the utilities department will maintain emergency crews throughout the weekend. There will be no garbage pick-up, he added, from Thursday noon until Monday morning.

Pitt County offices will be closed after noon tomorrow and will reopen Monday at the regular time. Local Federal and State offices will be closed Thursday and Friday and will also reopen Monday morning.

Greenville banks will observe regular hours Thursday and then close Friday and Saturday.

700 Prisoners Are Going Home

RALEIGH (AP)—Christmas at home is the prospect for 700 prisoners as a result of action by Gov. Hodges.

Prison gates will open today for the group, covered by the annual commutation of sentences granted by the governor.

Deserted Family In Hospital Care; Husband Jailed

SANTA IN BLUE—Policeman R. I. Haddix entered a tiny South Side Fort Worth, Tex., apartment to find a hungry young Korean war bride, Marie Mackey, cuddling her near naked daughters, Beverly, 2½, and Judy, 1½. The woman said she had not seen her husband for four days and his whereabouts she did not know. "There was no food in the house—they hadn't eaten for two days." (AP Wirephoto)

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—and child desertion and jailed in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Her two small daughters, Beverly, 2½, and Judy, 1½, remained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Somers, who gave them refuge Sunday after policeman R. I. Haddix discovered their plight. The trio was found, poorly clad and starving, after alarmed neighbors reported hearing children cry incessantly in the Mackey apartment.

Her husband, Jack Mackey, 26, an unemployed hospital orderly, was charged Monday with wife

Rocket Is Aimed 560 Miles High

WASHINGTON (AP)—Canadian and American scientists sent a four-stage rocket into space at Wallops Island, Va., today to record radio signals emanating from the stars.

The complicated rocket incorporated a new X248 engine as its fourth stage, and the experiment also was to test how this worked in the vacuum of space.

The rocket was set to reach a height of 560 miles. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration could not say immediately the exact height the rocket reached, but it apparently "went good." The rocket was in flight for about 18 minutes and came down in the Atlantic about 600 miles from the Virginia coastal island.

Radio signals produced by the stars—scientists call it galactic noise—are partly absorbed by the earth's ionosphere. In order to measure them accurately instruments must be sent above 450 miles.

The rocket's 48-pound payload carried a 3-megacycle radio receiver to collect the star signals.

Predict 19 Dead In N.C. Traffic

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The North Carolina State Motor Club predicted today that 19 persons will die in North Carolina traffic accidents during the long Christmas weekend from 6 p.m. Thursday to midnight Sunday.

There were 26 traffic deaths in the state during the 1958 Christmas weekend, which was four days long.

The National Safety Council has estimated 530 people will die in traffic accidents during the Christmas weekend this year.

Eisenhower Given Warm Reception By Spain

MADRID (AP)—President Eisenhower and Generalissimo Francisco Franco agreed today Western talks with the Soviets and the President's visit to Moscow next year will help the cause of peace. But they added "a firm defense posture should be maintained" by the West.

The two chiefs of state after a breakfast conference of two hours and 20 minutes at Franco's Pardo Palace said their conversation strengthened the bonds of cooperation between Spain and the United States.

They issued a joint statement as Eisenhower took off in his big jet airliner for Morocco, the last stop of his 11-nation goodwill tour. His reception in Madrid, the next to last stop, was the greatest ever given a foreign visitor in modern Spain. White House press secretary James C. Hagerty quoted Eisenhower as saying he was completely overwhelmed.

About a million Spaniards roared "Viva Ike" as the President rode through Madrid with Franco, resplendent in his generalissimo's uniform, in cold rain and wind late Monday.

Their communiqué said Eisenhower had given Franco and members of his government a full briefing on the purposes of his 22,000-mile tour of three continents and the results he hoped to attain.

"The talks, which covered a wide variety of other international matters of interest to both countries, were conducted in an atmosphere of cordiality and understanding," the statement said.

Francisco said in toasting Eisenhower at a banquet Monday night Spaniards are well aware "we enjoy the preservation of liberty in Western Europe, without falling under the Communist yoke, (due) to your energy and generosity and those of your country."

Eisenhower, in replying, expressed hope for greater friendship and cooperation between Spain and the United States. He cited the Christmas celebration of the birth of Christ as "the season to rededicate ourselves to these timeless principles for which He gave His life."

Despite the early hour, about 3,000 Pardo villagers turned out to cheer Eisenhower on his arrival at Franco's palace this morning.

Helicopters flew the two government heads and others of their party from a settlement near the palace to the U.S. air base at Torrejon.

Francisco told Eisenhower he had won the sympathy and admiration of the Spanish people.

Eisenhower said he would like to have stayed in Madrid "as many days as I have hours." That would be 19 days.

Host Of Toys Awaiting Christmas Delivery

TOYS—TOYS—TOYS . . . Lt. Walter Norris, of the Salvation Army, looks over part of the 1,200-odd toys collected by the group to be given to children of needy families for Christmas. According to Lt. Norris, about 90 per cent of the toys have come through the fire department where any needed repairs were made. Firemen have been working on the toys every day since the first of December, he added.

Miss Nobles Weds Mr. Rouse

In a ceremony Saturday afternoon at The Bethany Free Will Baptist Church, Miss Elaine Nobles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manning Nobles of Ayden, became the bride of Mr. Robert A. Rouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rouse of Grifton.

The Rev. Bill Fulcher officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Music was presented by Mr. Ralph Mills, organist, and Miss Arlene Cayton, soloist. Miss Cayton sang, "O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," and "The W. C. G. Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was of white tulle lined with glitter. The bodice of French Alencon lace was trimmed around the neckline in seed pearls and sequins.

Her veil was attached to a queen's crown of seed pearls and glitter to complement her bodice. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and tinted mums.

Mrs. Dan Braxton Jr., aunt of the bride, was matron of honor. Miss Faye Highsmith was maid of honor. They wore red velvet sheath dresses with puff sleeves of red net. Their head-dresses were of a short-length veil attached to a red velvet band sprinkled with rhinestones. They carried bouquets of white mums and carnations tinted red.

The brother of the bridegroom, Mr. William Arthur Rouse, was best man. Ushers were Mr. Garland Rouse of Ayden, Mr. Donald Bennett of Grifton, Mr. Ronnie Stallings of Grifton and Mr. Fred Wainwright of Winterville. Little Miss Jeanne Rose Moore, cousin of the bride was flower girl.

Jeffrey Nobles, brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

Honorary bridesmaids were Mrs. Sheila Rouse of New Bern, Miss Sylvia Cunningham of Snow Hill, Miss Brenda McLawhorn, Miss Dawne Rouse, Miss Libby Bennett, Miss Frances Booth, Miss Kay Curry, Miss Sandra Beddard and Miss Carolyn Turnage, all of Ayden, Miss Leafie Ann Caraway of Greenville and Miss Gloria Crawley of Ayden.

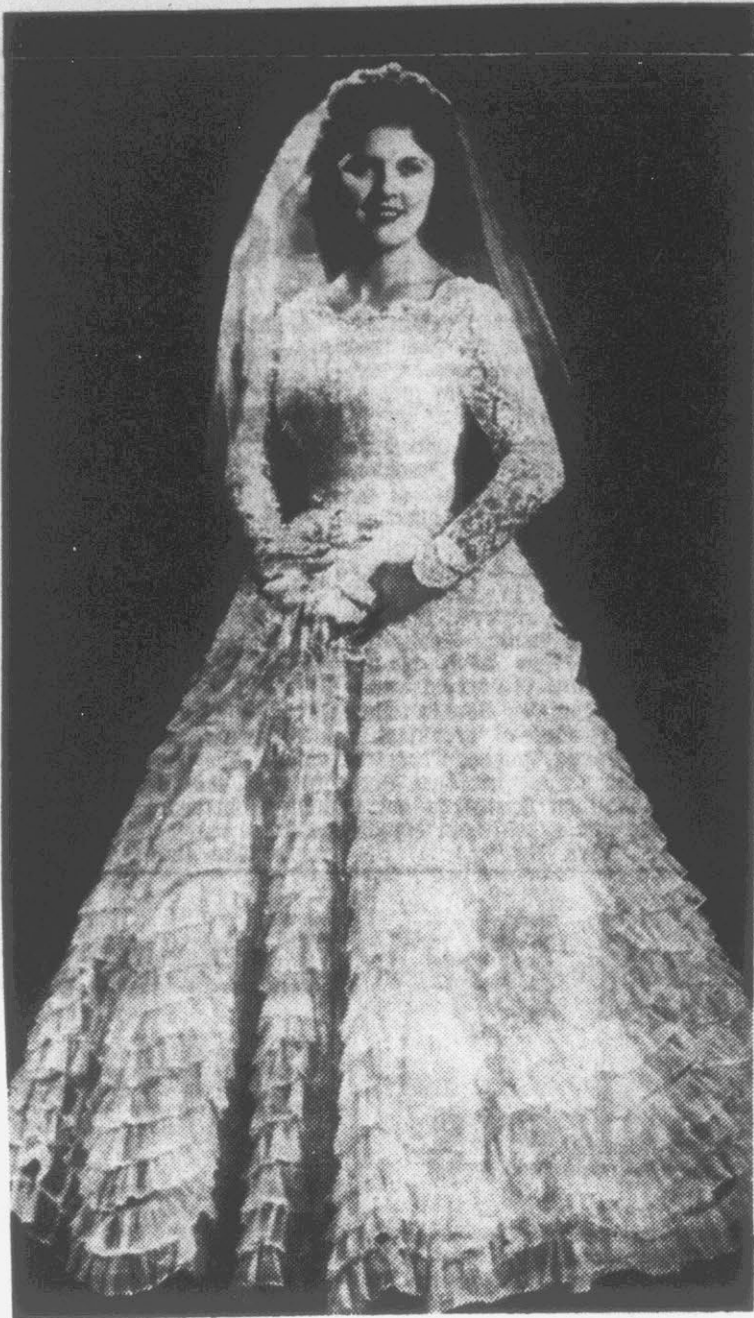

The church was decorated with baskets of red poinsettias and greenery and red candles.

Mrs. Manning Nobles, mother of the bride chose for her daughter's wedding, a cocoa brown lace dress with matching accessories.

Mrs. William Rouse, mother of the bridegroom wore a pale blue lace dress and matching accessories. They both wore corsages of red roses.

Mr. Rouse is now in the United States Army.

Miss Nobles chose as her travel outfit a chocolate brown suit with an attachable fur collar. Her hat was of white and brown dotted feathers. She wore matching accessories.

With Farm Women

By MAIDRED MORRIS

Home Demonstration Club women in Craven County almost had Christmas in October in preparation for the present holiday season. Miss Rebecca Colwell, home economics agent, stressed the importance of remembering the true meaning of Christmas at their club meetings.

Decorations shown featured a Madonna arrangement, a Della Robbia wreath, and a handmade floating candle. Mrs. W. J. Horner, New Bern, Rt. 3, made the Madonna in her ceramic shop. Mrs. Horner's ceramics started as a hobby but now has become a means of supplementing the family income.

Harvest Festival

The annual Harvest Festival in Rutherford County had an added feature this year. Members of various organizations paraded 82 United Nations flags before the group.

According to Mrs. Jean S. Allen, assistant home economics agent, the 4-H Club members presented the fruits of the harvest at the altar. These foods are given to needy county families.

Sock Doll Workshop
Mrs. Maynard Harris, clothing leader in Surry County, recently conducted a sock doll making workshop. Mrs. Harris volunteered to teach the women because she felt dolls would make nice gifts for children of needy families.

Mrs. Evelyn G. Nifong, home economics agent, says that the women planned to put the dolls in Christmas stockings for the children.

Christmas Suggestions Fair
Ideas for Christmas gifts, foods, and decorations were shared recently at the Christmas fair in Forsyth County. According to Mrs. Betty Fiddle, home economics agent, Home Demonstration women in 32 clubs combined their efforts in sponsoring the fair.

Many of the people attending took time to write down recipes as well as sketch off decorations and gift ideas.

Craft Workshops Pay Off
Results from craft workshops held throughout the state this summer will show up in many Christmas gifts this year.

According to Mrs. Elizabeth P. Sanderlin, home economics agent in Currituck County, Mrs. J. P. Morgan, Shawboro, has made 20 Swedish weaving towels for Christmas gifts. Mrs. Ray Morris, Coinjock, has made three pairs of hemstitched pillow cases since developing the skill of hemstitching.

Homemakers' Christmas Workshop
Forty-five Home Demonstration women in Nash County attended a Christmas workshop recently.

Mrs. Ann M. Incoe, home economics agent, reports that 35 wax candles were made at a saving of $87.50 compared with candles bought. Fifty plastic hangers were made for gifts at 15 cents each which would normally sell for 30 cents each.

Miss Stokes Is Entertained

Miss Patricia Stokes, bride-elect, was honored Monday afternoon at a floating tea given by Misses Gladys and Lucy Stokes, and Miss Camille Clarke at their home on Elm Street.

Receiving with the hostesses were the honoree and Mrs. J. R. Stokes, mother of the bride.

The Christmas motif was used in decorating the living room. The mantel featured an arrangement of gold magnolia leaves, reindeer and poinsettia. The dining room table was centered with an evergreen holding white carnations and lighted white candles. A miniature bride and bridegroom were used with the arrangement on the table.

Those pouring tea were Miss Helen Marshbourne, Mrs. Jonathan Overton and Miss Ruth Gardner. About 50 guests called during the afternoon.

The honoree was given salad forks in her pattern by the hostesses, who also presented her with a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

New Ideas Make Man-Pleasing Easier Job This Christmas

Pleasing a man is every woman's problem, but new ideas in the men's department are making man-pleasing an easier task.

The size problem has been solved by gift certificates. The right color and pattern combinations are packaged this year in attractively wrapped ensembles: tie, belt and socks, for example. But let's visit the different counters for some new ideas.

Neckwear: Added color and bolder design are evident this season.

Jewelry: He may like the stark simple modern designs in cuff links and tie holder sets, or free-form abstract models, or replicas come in brilliant sweater shades, some with ski sweater patterns. Mufflers: A new departure is the reversible. Some change color from one side to the other, others switch from silk to wool, while others change patterns. The scarfigan is a wool muffler that razor, a shoe shine kit—a new model comes equipped with electric buffer—a gas fueled lighter with adjustable flame, or—for an off-beat gift—a hand vacuum cleaner for sprucing up the car.

ALWAYS TEST IT!
You need to test a baked product for doneness even though a recipe specifies a definite baking time. Ovens vary! To test a cake, insert a wire tester into the center; if no bits of uncooked batter stick to it—if it comes out clean—your cake is done.

Never store fish in refrigerator without first wrapping in waxed paper of aluminum foil to prevent transfer of odors.

Book Club Has Party; Shower Fetes Hostess

Mrs. Rodney Roberson was hostess to members of the Round Table Book Club recently at their annual Christmas party, held in her home.

During the meeting, members of the club surprised the hostess with a stork shower.

Mrs. D. L. Moore, president, presided during the business meeting. Christmas cards for an absent member and two former members who are shut-ins were signed by all present.

Mrs. Roberson, playing her own accompaniment, presented a program of Christmas music, using both the piano and the autoharp at different times.

She traced the origin of various traditions, customs, cards and folk songs. She sang songs of England, France, Germany, Russia, China, Mexico and America. The group joined her in singing "Silent Night" and "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

Christmas decorations were used throughout the home. In the dining room, at an appointed table, Mrs. D. L. Moore poured tea and members served themselves a dessert with Moravian cookies, sweets and nuts.

Mrs. Roberson's mother, Mrs. J. J. Bell, was a guest for the afternoon, and assisted her in serving.

When Decorating Remember . . .

There are several things it is well to keep in mind when you decorate your home for the Yule season.

1. Decorations should harmonize in color.
2. Decorations should be kept to a size compatible with the size of the room.
3. Simple ones are often the prettiest.
4. Be sure to include some symbol of the season, a Madonna or some religious decoration, or your home decorations will not be complete.
5. Fresh flowers add an extra something to home decorations. Red roses, red carnations or a blooming poinsettia do nicely.
6. Encourage the children to make decorations.

Handkerchiefs: The newest come in oversize squares and carry sporting motif prints. Folded diagonally, these may be worn as neckerchiefs with open collar sport shirts.

Gloves: Some of the new leather gloves are washable. Knits

In Final Analysis, Up To Drivers

Behind the shimmer and glitter of the anticipation of Christmas there hangs the sober backdrop of knowledge that before the coming holiday weekend is over highway accidents will take another fearful toll throughout the country.

Highway Patrol officials in North Carolina and other states already have taken what precautions they can against the expected heavy traffic and highway accident rate that will accompany the holidays. A mammoth campaign designed to warn motorists to exercise extra caution while on the highways already is taking shape across the nation.

In spite of it all, however, the law enforcement officers, the publicists and the officials know the effectiveness of their efforts are extremely limited. In the final analysis the highway death toll during the coming holiday will depend largely upon those individuals who are behind the wheels of automobiles.

If drivers exercise the caution of which they are capable, the death toll could be one of the smallest in history. If, in the rush of the holiday, drivers elect to take chances with their lives and the lives of others, the death toll could be the most staggering in highway history.

The Reflector joins with others in urging drivers in this area particularly to exercise extreme caution while on the highways during the Christmas holidays. Because Christmas falls on Friday this year, the holiday will be longer than usual for a great many people. That will mean more people will be traveling greater distances during the holiday period. Highways will be more congested than usual even during holidays and the driving hazards will be increased.

Every driver knows the hazards he faces when he gets on the highway. He knows that he must watch out for the other fellow as well as for himself. And he also knows that tragic experience has shown that death comes suddenly and often when least expected on the highways. A moment's carelessness can mean the difference between a joyous holiday and one marked by personal tragedy.

If you drive during the holidays, drive carefully. It's the best present you can give yourself, your family and the other fellow as well.

Another Experienced Officer In Command

Appointment of Tom B. Brown of Greenville as the new commanding officer of Troop B of the State Highway Patrol with the rank of Captain brings another experienced and capable officer into command of one of the Highway Patrol units in North Carolina.

During the 10 years he has lived in Greenville and served as executive officer of Troop A of the Patrol, Tom Brown has been highly regarded as a law enforcement official and an administrator. In addition to the duties of his position, he has been active in community affairs.

His background, his years of experience with the Highway Patrol and his specialized training which includes completion of the course at the F.B.I. National Academy well qualify him for his new and more responsible duties as commanding officer of a Highway Patrol Troop.

While we are reluctant to see the Highway Patrol in this immediate area lose the services of an officer with the capabilities of Capt. Brown, his appointment as a troop commander will strengthen the Highway Patrol. The fact that he has been selected for the new post is a credit to him and indeed reflects credit upon the entire Highway Patrol organization.

Last Actor Of Great Drama Has Passed On

The final curtain was rung down on an era of American life last week with the death of Walter W. Williams, a former Confederate forage master who was the last survivor of those who fought in the Civil War.

At 117 years of age, Walter W. Williams has outlived all his contemporaries who fought in Blue and in Gray during the most trying period in the history of this nation. The scars of the battles which were fought in that war a century ago have long since disappeared, save those which remain in the minds of a few individuals. This nation which was torn by the internal conflict has long since emerged from the struggle to take its position as the leader of the world.

In spite of the fact that almost a century has passed since the last survivor of the great war donned his uniform in active military service, there is a feeling of loss that comes with the knowledge of the last survivor of the struggle is now gone.

Signs Of Change In Eisenhower

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — What's changed President Eisenhower?

There's been a big change this past year in the tactics and attitude of this 69-year-old man who has just 13 months left in the presidency.

Some examples: His dealings with Congress; his greater role in foreign affairs; his new attitude toward personal diplomacy.

For most of his White House years he was mild with Congress. This year he used a bullwhip.

As late as last August he took a dim view of personal diplomacy by heads of state at summit meetings. Look what's happened since then.

He's met with Premier Nikita Khrushchev; will meet him at the summit in April; will go to Moscow next summer; has just finished a presumptive meeting in Paris; has journeyed to three continents; and now wants more summit meetings.

Why the change? It could be this simple: With his presidency drawing to a close he wants to extend himself to the utmost on both domestic and foreign fronts. His big push at home has been on less spending; abroad, it's peace.

Although the Democrats overwhelmingly control Congress, Eisenhower kept them meek by continually beating them over the head with the big-spending charge. They trotted along, as he directed.

Eisenhower could crown his double service as soldier and President if, before leaving office, he managed to help bring the world into a new era of peace.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
"GOD IS LOVE"

Yesterday we spoke of hate as the badge of satanic evil. Look across the whole of the created universe to the reality which stands at the other end, namely, love. In this vast stretch one sees the ultimate in evil and the ultimate in good.

The Bible tells us that God is love. It does not just say that God is loving, or loveable, but that He Himself is love. The Creator of the universe by His very nature is committed to the initiating and continuing of a project in harmony wherein all parts serve a definite end. This is the divine enterprise at the center of which is love. And since God is love—since it is the essence of His being—God's enterprise of harmony is given life and power by the presence and guiddance of the loving God Himself.

Satan works against man and against the divine enterprise with the cruel weapon of hate. God is love and because He is love, His presence is irresistibly pushing back all opposition and rendering the universe a decent place for right-thinking people to make their eternal abode. God's project is the project of creating, implementing, and eternalizing love. The satanic rebellion is the evil attempt to impede and destroy this project.

This is the season of the year when we are thinking of God's great love for mankind. It is a season when His love comes down to bless us with indescribable tenderness. Yet, not only at this season but through every season, God is love.

We're Losing Some Friends

Told Him Over And Over

Received a letter from F.R. Adams, Jr. of 104 Park Drive yesterday.

He took former staffer Jimmy Ellis to task for use of the expression "sufficiently strong enough."

Adams was referring to a quote from a letter which Jimmy wrote last week to the Reflector staff. The letter was quoted in this column.

Boy, how many times have we told that Ellis don't use "sufficiently strong enough."

"Jimmy," we'd say, "You've used 'sufficiently strong enough' again. Don't use 'sufficiently strong enough.' It just doesn't sound right."

Jimmy would hang his head and say: "I'm sorry. I'm just not sufficiently strong enough to quit using it."

Well, things would go along all right for a few days and then in would come another story. Buried down in the 18th paragraph, there it would be: "The dam wasn't sufficiently strong enough to keep from breaking." "Jimmy," we'd scream. "Don't use 'sufficiently strong enough.'"

This went on for years and the phrase got to be a passion with Jimmy.

Finally we screamed at Jimmy once too often.

He blew up. "To heck with you," he shot back. "If I can't use 'sufficiently strong enough' around here I'll get me a job where I can use 'sufficiently strong enough.'"

So he is now a public relations man in Charlotte.

We can only shake our head at Jimmy's glaring error.

We'd told him and told him that what he really wanted to say was "strong sufficiently enough."

The world is full of trouble.

We never cease to be amazed at the things which can be used for Christmas decorations.

A week or so ago we learned that the ladies wanted Magnolia leaves which they paint gold or silver. The leaves are then used in door or table decorations.

Yesterday we noticed that staffer Stuart Savage had a phrase pile of used flash bulbs on his desk. He had been asked to save them to be used for Christmas decorations, he told us.

The idea fascinates us. We had always thought there was nothing more useless than a burned out flash bulb.

A flash bulb's life is very brief. In a fraction of a second it does the job it is designed to do and then photographer tosses it away.

So now during the Yuletide season, the flash bulb gets a new lease on life. Decorated so, they are hardly recognizable as flash bulbs they become a part of somebody's Christmas decorations.

Other Editors Saying

Ready, Willing, Anxious

(Henderson Dispatch)

Adlai Stevenson, who twice tried unsuccessfully to capture the presidency for the Democratic party, continues to declare he is not a candidate for a third nomination next year. But he hasn't burned the bridge behind him.

A deadlock as between active candidates for the nomination could well induce the convention to turn to him again as a last resort. In that event, Stevenson will be ready, willing and anxious to imitate the experience of William Jennings Bryan, who tried three times to win the election and each time failed.

It is highly doubtful that the presidency is in the bag for the Democrats in 1960. Prospects are not as bright today as they were some months ago, although still promising. It is reasonably certain that just any individual who might be nominated cannot win hands down. It will be a hard fight at best. At least in the convention it will be a match between liberals on the one hand and the conservatives and middle-of-the-road group on the other. One cannot bring himself around to the conviction that some of the ultra-liberals can be nominated or elected. The trend is toward liberalism, but the American people are not yet ready to embrace socialism as such nor even by some other name.

Stevenson can scarcely be classed as a middle-of-the-road candidate, although is by no means as far to the left as some who are trying for the honor. For the Democrats to select a candidate who is decidedly farther to the left than Stevenson will drive a lot of party people away from the ticket. There are millions in this country who would enthusiastically cheer him up for a man of the Hubert Humphrey type, but many more millions would turn the other way if he were the party's choice.

Senator Ervin says Senator Richard Russell is the best equipped man in the party for president. For our part, we would definitely favor him in preference to any of the others who are most prominently mentioned and who are trying hardest to persuade the convention to take them. Russell is more a conservative than the current leaders in the scramble. And it might be surprising how very many people would be attracted to his standard.

Adlai Stevenson would not be a popular candidate with many Americans. He has two strikes against him at the outset, but would be more acceptable than a lot of aspirants who could be mentioned.

having a little trouble with packaging the FC2-Catawbas, whatever that is. Another trick would be to slip the girls a re ticket on the Irish Sweepstakes. Most bookies carry Sweepstakes tickets as a sideline: some use them for greasing cops.

In this situation, a bookie ought to do pretty well. He is insulated from suspicion. Why shouldn't people call up his stores or large corporations? He escapes both in-coming and out-going phone charges. He pays no rent. Furthermore, he draws a salary, probably more than warranted by the work he does between calls.

This may be something that all managing executives might look into. How about the recent rise in telephone bills? Has personnel fully checked the backgrounds of new employees? Say—how about all those calls the executive secretary makes? Is it reasonable to think that would get so many phone calls

Harboring Bookmakers In Midst?

By ELMER ROESSNER
THE CURIOUS SUSPICION arises that some of our large corporations may be harboring bookmakers and carrying part of their overhead as well.

It springs from the testimony of Harold Lipset, a San Francisco private ear, who told the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights that he was an expert wiretapper.

In one case, the owner of a large chain of furniture stores was suspicious of supposed inventory shortages, and he put Lipset to work. Lipset tapped wires and discovered a betting ring. Whether he also discovered employees who were sending furniture out under phony orders was not disclosed.

Private E. Lipset was one of the few witnesses who defended wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping. In this case, he said the owner was able to break up the ring before the police got wise. If the cops had cracked the case, the owner might have been under suspi-

'Nuts' Meant Fame

Editor's Note: Fifteen years ago today, U. S. Gen. Anthony McAuliffe gave the nation a lift when he replied "Nuts" to a German surrender demand during the Battle of the Bulge. Hal Boyle, who tells of the incident in his column today, covered the battle as an Associated Press war correspondent.

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Fifteen years ago today a U. S. brigadier general became the first soldier in history to win military immortality with a four-letter word.

The word was "Nuts!" and the man who said it—and later came to hate the word—now feels it changed his whole life.

This bit of American slang, delivered as a defiant reply to German surrender demand, infuriated a Nazi army. It set the Allied world rocking with laughter and pride.

Today it is still the best remembered symbol of the greatest engagement fought by American troops in World War II—the Battle of the Bulge in Belgium.

The battle, personally planned by Adolf Hitler in a last-ditch gamble, began at 5 a.m. Dec. 16, 1944, with bombardment by 1,900 German artillery pieces. The Nazis, attacking with 212,000 troops and 1,000 tanks through the Allied "rest camp" area in the Ardennes, achieved complete tactical surprise.

The acting commander, Anthony (Old Croc) McAuliffe and the 101st Airborne Division were rushed by truck to Bastogne. There, strongly supported by elements of the U. S. 8th and 10th Armored Divisions, McAuliffe held the vital Belgium road center against frantic German breakthrough efforts.

The enemy couldn't bypass him. They had to destroy his force to go on. And if they couldn't go on their cause was lost.

It was a bloody battle fought in a frigid hell. The U. S. forces cheerfully gave the map code name "Merry Christmas" to the 20-square mile area they held that blocked the gigantic German advance.

By Dec. 22, McAuliffe and his 10,000 men were surrounded by seven Nazi divisions and outnumbered four to one.

Through the morning gloom for American soldiers carrying a white flag trudged up to an outpost three miles south of Bastogne.

They carried a message which said in part: "The fortune of war is changing. There is only one possibility to save the encircled U. S. A. troops from total annihilation. That is the honorable surrender of the encircled town."

"If this proposal should be rejected, one German artillery corps and six heavy battalions are ready to annihilate the U.S.A. troops in and near Bastogne."

The four Germans, blindfolded by their own truck fog, were handed McAuliffe's quick, scrawled reply: "To the German commander, Nuts! The American Commander."

When one of the Germans who spoke English complained he didn't understand the message, he was told it meant "go to hell." He said he understood this, and the four were blindfolded again and led away.

The battle raged on for more than four days and four nights until an armored column from Gen. George Patton's 3rd broke through and lifted the siege.

"Old Croc," a square-jawed, 5-foot-5 soldier who weighed only 135 pounds, performed heroically before and after the Bastogne siege. After the war he rose steadily in the service until he retired in 1955 as full general commanding the U. S. Army in Europe. He is now a vice president of the American Cyanamid Co.

Although over the years he had to tell the Bastogne story so often he shuddered when anyone at a cocktail party passed the nuts, he now is reconciled to the word "nuts!"

A modest man, he feels it was his spur-of-the-moment choice of this odd one-word classic answer that helped send him later up the Army ladder.

At the time of the Bastogne siege he wore a brigadier's star, but his permanent rank was that of colonel.

Last week, now, handsome

CAMERA Angles

HOLIDAY GREETINGS can be simple yet express personal warmth. Gene Richner of Rochester, N. Y. inked in the message on the negative to simulate a child's writing. The style of writing goes well with pictures showing children.

By IRVING DESFOR

AP Newsfeatures
IF YOUR PERSONAL Christmas card isn't finished or in the final stage by now, you need goading or some last minute advice.

We'll assume you've just taken a special holiday photo or have found a good family picture you wish to use. The simplest way to incorporate a Yuletide message is to combine India ink lettering with the chosen negative. The message can be lettered on clear acetate or cellophane to avoid damage to the negative and to permit moving it around so as to find the most legible area.

Attach the message on the shiny side of the negative with adhesive tape so it reads correctly when printed. The opaque ink will print pure white so it will look best against a dark portion of the picture.

Careful handwriting is apt to show less imperfection than printing but enlargements can magnify shaky handwriting which may not be visible in a contact print. If the original negative is tiny and enlargements are needed, the inked-in message on clear acetate can be placed on the enlargement paper to produce the greeting. The acetate can be attached to the enamel with tape at one side, like a hinge, so the enlarging paper can slip under it in place for quantity printing.

A clear piece of glass placed on top of the acetate or cellophane will prevent out-of-focus lettering.

If you don't want to fool around with hand lettering, your camera store might still have a selection of Christmas folders into which contact prints of your chosen negative can be slipped. Or you might find a choice of negative masks which have the message imprinted and a window into which your negative fits to make a complete card. Add your name, make contact prints and away you go.

Be sure you know the proper grade of contact or enlargement paper that your negative requires, or take it with you to the camera store for expert appraisal. Don't be so original in size or shape of your personal card that you can't get an envelope for it. In fact, after choosing a negative the next step is to get enough envelopes and the proper size and grade of paper to carry the job through to completion.

This gives you the chance of turning over the chore of addressing and stamping the envelopes to the rest of the family while you attend to the artistic side of planning and printing the card.

and graying at 61, "Tony" McAuliffe philosophically told a reunion at the overseas Press Club here: "Except for the word 'nuts' I'd probably have been only as a competent combat colonel. Sometimes you have to have more than competence—you have to have a bit of luck."

Then, paying tribute to the troops under him who halted the baffled German tide in the snow at Bastogne 15 years ago, he said:

"All you can do as a commander is to put the men out there, and hope they'll do their stuff. They are the ones."

Shot To Death By Her Brother

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A 15-year-old junior high school pupil was shot to death Monday night by her teen-age brother who said he mistook her for a prowler.

Police said Calvin Grevenberg, 15, was alone at home and his sister Shirley and a girl friend were outside making noises and attempting to frighten him.

The boy got his father's .32-caliber pistol, walked to a side door of the house, and fired. The bullet struck Shirley.

Morocco's King Is Moderate, Has Tried To Calm Extremists

By STEPHEN HUGHES

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — King Mohammed V of Morocco, host to President Eisenhower today, is a mild-mannered moderate who has spent much of his reign trying to calm the passions of extremists.

He once was shipped off to a two-year exile when the French were masters of the country. His prestige was so great among his people that France finally called him back to the throne and gave Morocco its independence.

Nominally, Mohammed is the absolute civil and religious ruler of his nation, slightly larger than California and its 10 million inhabitants.

In practice he never has been able to wield this authority fully. For many years he could only rubber-stamp decisions by the French. Now he must fight his way through the political intrigue by ill-defined political parties.

As 18th ruler of the Alaouids dynasty, he traces his ancestry to All-son-in-law of the founder of Islam, the Prophet Mohammed.

Now 50, Mohammed was elected Sultan of Morocco at 18, after his father died. The election was by the Ulemas, the learned doctors of Islamic law. The throne stays within the Alaouids family but does not automatically pass to the eldest son.

National elections never have been held. Political leaders gained their stature during their fight for independence from France, and there is little way of telling how much popular support they have.

This leaves the King the delicate task of mediating fierce political infighting.

Through the years of struggle for independence, Mohammed proceeded at an unhurried pace. After his return from exile, Spain also agreed to withdraw from its area of occupation and the 12-power control over Tangier was dropped.

The result has been that Mohammed and Morocco have managed to keep on friendly terms with France and Spain, although conflicts still erupt.

The King—he discarded the title of Sultan in favor of what he considered a more up to date title—has 10 rambling baroque palaces at his disposal. But he seldom lives away from the sprawling palace at Rabat, with its colorful Negro bodyguard, a fleet of 35 American cars, tennis courts, gymnasium and swimming pool.

Mohammed has two of the four wives allowed by Moslem law and is the father of six children of whom the eldest, Prince Moulay Hassan, is crown prince. He also keeps several concubines, but in Moslem eyes this only adds to his stature.

belongs to specialists, like foreign ministers.

He said he preferred the 19th century way of doing things when foreign ministers made the journeys, held the conferences, and heads of state mostly stayed at home.

But that was before Khrushchev came here. Eisenhower suddenly seemed to realize that he not only had an opportunity—thin as it may seem—to achieve some peace but that he alone could seize it and work on it.

The great evidence of the change in his thinking came Sunday in Paris when his press secretary, James Hagerty, told newsmen the President favors not one but several summit conferences with the Soviet Union.

Chief Gibbs Says 'Play It Safe'

Police Chief S. G. Gibbs issued warnings to Greenville shoppers and citizens who plan to be out of town for the holidays.

According to Gibbs, shoppers should lock their cars and check them frequently while shopping to insure against thefts. Another thing to watch for, the officer pointed out, is never lay a pocket-book or billfold down on a store counter when looking over merchandise. "You may walk off and forget it or someone may pick it up while you are not looking," he commented.

For those going away for the holidays, Gibbs suggested that the paper boy, milkman and the like be told and deliveries stopped until return. A neighbor should be asked to take the mail from the box each day. Window shades should be left up, and if possible a light left on in the house.

Business men are urged to make use of night deposit boxes and should not leave a large amount of cash in the store.

'The Music Man' Sold To Movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Meedith Willson's musical, "The Music Man," has been bought by Warner Bros. for what the studio calls one of the top prices ever paid for a Broadway show.

A trade publication said the figure was a million dollars or 10 per cent of the gross, whichever is larger.

Several motion picture studios had bid for the comedy—tale of a confidence man's visit to an early 20th century Iowa hamlet—now in its third year on Broadway.

Willson was unofficially reported in line for 60 per cent of the price as author and composer. The rest would go to Kermit Bloomgarden as producer and representative of investors.

Half Day Each With Children

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Sterling Hayden and his ex-wife each may spend half of Christmas day with their four children, a judge had decided.

The two are fighting over the youngsters' custody. A hearing is set for Jan. 25 on Betty Hayden's demand for permanent custody. Hayden was authorized Monday to take the children to South San Francisco, near San Francisco, after next Monday.

The children are Christian, 11; Thor, 10; Gretchen 9, and Matthew, 7. Mrs. Hayden has them this week.

Selling Plane In Two Pieces

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Brookley Air Force Base planned to open bids today on a military amphibian plane being sold on a "where-is, as is" basis.

The tail section of the SA16 Albatross is at Brookley Field. The rest is under 36 feet of water 27 miles away in the Gulf of Mexico. The plane cracked its hull Nov. 23 while the crew was making practice landings in the Gulf. Only the tail section was salvaged.

The plane costs about $75,000 new but Brookley wasn't saying what it expected to get for this one.

THREE IS A FAMILY

CHAPTER 12
Rutledge said at dinner that if we hadn't planned anything they wanted to work out their income tax forms after supper.

I said no, we hadn't, and all right, and I would look up my checks and receipts and things right after dinner. And my heart sank because when Rutledge does income taxes it is a tossup which he gets madder at me or the government.

When the telephone rang, I answered. The same person was, apparently, not there.

"Who was it?" Rutledge said. I said I didn't know.

"Why didn't you ask who it was on the line?" Rutledge said reasonably.

I explained how whoever it was on the line hadn't said anything at all. He was just there.

Rutledge said then how did I know there was anybody there? You can't get through to a legal mind like Rutledge's that you know somebody is on the line because you can hear him breathing.

So I merely said the phone had been doing that all morning.

Rutledge said the line was undoubtedly out of order and he called Repair Service as soon as he got back to the office again.

I said I was sure the line was not out of order, and why didn't we just wait and see how it did the rest of the day?

Rutledge kissed me absently and said he would be home early. Not too early, I hoped, as I had a whole year's checks and receipts to round up before supper time.

I started with the cabinets in the kitchen, and by the time Tilghman came in later things were pretty well spread out on the floor all over the house.

"Are we moving?" she said, stepping over drawers.

I said I was just making use of the search warrant Rutledge got once and never had used.

Tilghman said did I find anything incriminating in the house?

I said plenty—two letters I forgot to answer, two of her unopened wedding presents from those cousins in Georgia, Rutledge's fountain pen that he had unreasonably accused me of losing, and a book two months overdue at the public library.

Tilghman said, oh, good, she had been wanting to read that, and disappeared upstairs with the book.

Then the man from Repair Service came and climbed our telephone pole out in front, where he spent the better part of an hour.

He rang me a couple of times and said he was testing. And finally he came down and knocked at the front door.

"There is nothing wrong with your line, ma'am," he said.

I said I knew it, and thanked him for sitting on the pole so long.

The telephone man looked confused and backed hastily out, and I discovered later that he had turned his truck around right in the middle of the irls border.

That was also the day Maggie started acting queer.

When I picked the girls up at school at three I didn't like Maggie's color. "Do you feel all right?" I asked her.

Maggie didn't say anything for a minute and I got the impression that she was miles away and not happy about it. Finally she said, "What? Oh, I'm all right, I guess."

Well, I thought, Maggie never used superlatives the way Brantley did. Brantley was always massive, or shpar, or great, when you asked her, but Maggie was always just plain all right.

I drove straight home, as I hadn't finished looking up all my receipts and check and other income tax papers. Brantley went out to the kitchen, as she was, she said, simply famished. Maggie passed up her usual snack and went upstairs.

Well, I simply did not have time to worry about Maggie, I said violently to myself, and began stuffing papers into empty drawers. Rutledge came in just as I was putting away the last drawer.

"Find everything all right?" he said cheerfully.

"Of course," I said brightly, and went to put supper on the table.

It was while we were still at the supper table that the telephone rang. I started to say I would get it, but Maggie was already on the way. When she came back she was dead white and sat down without a word.

"Who was it?" said Rutledge. Maggie said nobody, that there wasn't anybody there.

Rutledge looked fierce. "I called Repair Service," he said, "and they promised to send somebody out right away."

I said the man did come, and he crawled about for hours on top of the pole and said there wasn't anything wrong with our line. "He drove right over elee McGregor, Harriet Thoreau, and Minnie Colquitt," I said with feeling.

Rutledge looked vague, and I said, "He backed over the irls bed."

Rutledge said, oh, and he couldn't understand it.

Maggie made a strangled sort of sound. "I know there was somebody there," she said, "because I could hear him b-breath-ing."

Rutledge said bolly if this was somebody's idea of a joke.

And just then the telephone rang again. This time Rutledge answered. "Hello!" he shouted.

"I you don't get the hell off this line and stay off I'm going to call the police!" And he slammed down the receiver. He had no more than sat down, though, before the phone rang again.

As I did not want Rutledge to burst a blood vessel I said hastily I would get it.

"Fanny!" said Mother Colhoun. "Is Rutledge all right? I mean, he isn't"—lowered her voice in horror—"drunk?" she said faintly.

I explained about the telephone line, and how he didn't know it was her on the line just now, and he always got violent any-way on income tax days.

Mother Colhoun said that things like that happened all the time on party lines in the country, and what did I think Tilghman would rather have for her birthday?

I said Tilghman would rather have little Pete, Jr.

Mother Colhoun said, "But that's Monday."

Mother Colhoun was silent for a moment, then she said, "Well, do you think a gown or a bed jacket?"

I said a gown, as Mrs. Covington had just given her a lovely white bed jacket.

Mother Colhoun said blue, of course, because of Tilghman's eyes and it was going to be a boy?

I smiled and said a blue gown would be lovely, and if I just dropped out of sight tonight, to have them dig in the rose bed, as that would be the most likely spot for Rutledge to bury the body along with my checkbooks.

Mother Colhoun laughed and said wasn't it funny how men got so upset over little things like changing a tire and making out income taxes—just like little boys washing behind their ears—and we hung up laughing.

Fateful Fifties Saw Movies Lose Old Regimes; Try New Angles

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—After years of great prosperity, the film industry started to panic as the 1950s began.

Folks were beginning to stay away from movie theaters in large crowds. They had a new gadget in their living rooms—television. Imagine seeing pictures on a little box right in your own home!

Of course, what they saw was nothing special. It was largely visual radio with the best and worst of vaudeville thrown in. But the novelty was enough to intrigue a public that was fed up with the formula of the Hollywood product.

Within two years after bigtime TV came in, movie attendance had dropped one-third. Foreign receipts were up, but not enough to absorb the shock of the domestic decline. And much of the overseas money was frozen.

The studios were in trouble. There was a wave of layoffs and shutdowns. Then the industry found a new craze to put life back into the theaters—the third dimension.

It started on Sept. 30, 1952, with the New York debut of "This Is Cinerama." The new process aimed three projectors at a giant wraparound screen. It made viewers feel they were really riding the roller coaster they watched on the screen.

Two months later, a quickie called "Bwana Devil" opened in Hollywood. It was a sensation because it featured an almost-forgotten stunt of creating a three-dimensional effect by use of two screen images and polarized glasses.

Inspired by the interest in new screen dimensions, 20th Century-Fox boldly converted all its production to Cinerama. The process used one camera and squeezed a wide-screen image onto normal-size film.

Paramount brought out Vista- vision, Mike Todd came along with Todd-AO and other processes followed. They helped business, but still weren't enough to bring back Hollywood's oldtime economy.

The old regimes began to fall. Louis B. Mayer was eased out of MGM by his old foe, Nick Schenck. Then Schenck himself stepped out as president, and MGM had a bitter proxy fight.

The Warner Brothers sold out to a combine headed by Serge Senen- enko, though keeping production control.

One-man rule at Columbia ended when Harry Cohn died. Darryl Zanuck departed as boss of 20th-Fox and was succeeded by Buddy Adler. Howard Hughes gained full ownership of RKO, let it drift then sold out to General Tire and Rubber Co. for 25 million.

The RKO sale broke the solid front against selling old films to TV. The firm's 740 features were poured into the TV market. Needing immediate assets to bolster their economies, the other major companies followed suit. The '50s began selling off real estate. U-sold its vast lot to Music Corporation of America for 11 million, then leased back space for filming.

These measures helped restore black ink to the ledgers. But they were only stopgaps. Much more was needed to keep the studios on a paying basis.

Favorite Target For Deception

WASHINGTON (AP)—A housewife who would like to earn a few dollars at home is a favorite target of deceptive employment advertising, a spokesman for the Association of Better Business Bureaus said today.

Edwin M. Lockard, who is also general manager of the Baltimore Better Business Bureau, spoke today from a statement prepared for a Federal Trade Commission Conference on Deceptive Advertising.

He cited promotional matter put out by a Baltimore firm speaking of "numerous affiliations" with businesses needing envelopes addressed and chances to earn "$35 or more per week for a few hours a night." Women were asked for two dollars "to cover cost of mailing, listing and registration."

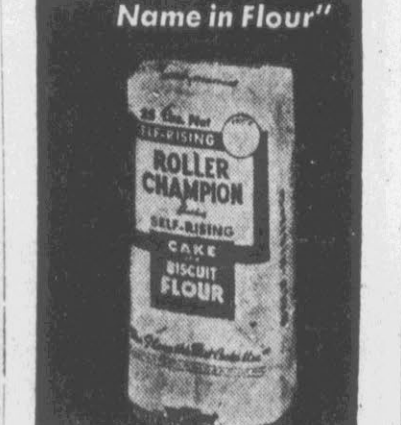

Bureau investigation, Lockard said, disclosed that the advertiser was a newly formed company which could not prove it had work to offer. After a postal investigation, the firm went out of business and the Post Office returned to the senders the letters with the fee. Lockard said.

The FTC concludes today a two-day session for representatives of 47 consumers, civic and other organizations, seeking to strengthen defenses against misleading advertising and other deceptive sales practices.

Lockard applauded the effort but suggested care "to avoid creating a national neurosis that would cause the feeling that all advertising is suspect."

Other than automobile accidents, falls are the principal cause of accidental death in the United States.

Some people are more critical of cars than others, and they are the ones we want specially to drive the solid new Plymouth.

This car is built a new solid way by Chrysler Corporation engineers. It simply doesn't have many parts that work loose and need fixing in some cars. We'd like to answer some questions about this car now:

Q. What is this new way of building?

A. Chrysler Corporation's virtually trouble-free version of unit construction. Body and undersills are joined in a single unit of enormous strength, locked by close to 5400 welds. In Dura-Quiet Unibody, there is no frame and no conventional body bolts, struts, braces, etc., to loosen and rattle.

Q. What about power and performance?

A. There's the new 30-D Economy Six, a new "inclined" six that delivers outstanding economy in normal driving. The standard V-8 is the Fury V-800 which three times in a row topped its class in the Mobilgas Economy Run. Or you may choose the extra-cost SoroRamic Commando V-8.

If you ask us, this is the best built, best performing low-price car of all. Give it a real try soon, won't you?

A Chrysler-engineered product, built a new solid way to give you solid satisfaction.

Texas Backs May Spell Trouble For Syracuse 11

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Texas' swift backs could give national champion Syracuse trouble in the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day, says Hal Lahar, who came from Colgate in 1956 to coach the University of Houston.

However Lahar, host to Syracuse at its training site here, shied from any prediction of the outcome. Nor would he comment on the announced breakup of the Colgate-Syracuse rivalry, other than to call it "unfortunate."

"Tradition and rivalry have made football what it is. This is the real motivation behind college football," he declared.

Lahar saw little difference in Eastern and Southwest styles of play, particularly since the Southwest largely abandoned wide-open tactics about five years ago in favor of possession football.

"We want to get a different type of game here," Lahar said. "They come raring, big-boned, lean, not so heavily muscled as in the East."

Speed is a favorite topic in this football business, Lahar is quick to point out. "I can't see how you can play this game without speed," he said. "The Southwest Conference schools and Houston continually come up with fast backs."

He said a 200-pound offensive line is not a surprise when the Southwest Conference schools and Houston continually come up with fast backs.

Saxton, a frequent runner on the receiving end of the ball, was the only option player with Bobby Layne when Lahar considers a good passer. Jack Collins is a Texas threat at left halfback, although Lahar feels that Ernie Davis, Syracuse's highly touted sophomore half, is just as fast.

Syracuse's 200-pound fullback Art Baker is bigger and quicker than any Texas fullback, Lahar adds.

Syracuse worked behind closed gates Monday, emphasizing its passing attack with quarterbacks Dave Sarette and Dick Easterly doing the throwing. Left halfback Pete Brokaw went on the casualty list with a bruised forearm.

Whether Brokaw, a top sophomore prospect from Nyack, N.Y., would be ready for much service against Texas was a question. Mark Weber replaces him in the second-unit backfield.

Former Golf Pro Succumbs

Work has been received in Greenville of the death of Bob Bailey, former golf professional at the Greenville Golf and Country Club before World War II.

Bailey died suddenly of a heart attack while on a business trip to Michigan. His home was in St. Petersburg, Florida.

According to the golfers in the Greenville area, who knew Bailey, he was one of the best liked professionals in the business, and his talent as an instructor was so highly regarded by other professionals, that many of his teaching techniques were used in recent P.G.A. clinics held in Florida.

Bob Bailey had many friends in Greenville. Simon Moye, one of Bob's pupils, and closest friends here, in paying tribute to Bailey said, "Bob Bailey was undoubtedly the finest golf instructor I have ever seen. He had the ability to take a man who was ready to quit, and quickly renew his enthusiasm."

Moye further declared, "A lot of people here in Greenville owe Bob a lot for the pleasures they have received from the game because of his unselfish help and encouragement. I have lost a very close friend, and golf has lost one of its better instructors."

Burial was in Elizabethton, Tennessee.

Cincinnati Voted Top Team In Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Undeclared Cincinnati, called by some coaches as the "finest college team ever assembled," is the No. 1 team in the nation. Sports writers and broadcasters participating in the Associated Press' first weekly poll of the season, gave the Bearcats a wide margin over the rest of the 120 Monday, giving them 55 of the first place votes. In the point score, the Bearcats received 956 points to 820 for runner-up West Virginia, which drew 30 first place votes.

Following the two pace setters were Ohio State, California, Bradley, Utah, St. Louis, Georgia Tech, Indiana and Illinois, in order. Six of the top ten are undefeated Ohio State and Georgia Tech tasted defeat for the first time Monday night. The Buckeyes bowed to Utah 97-92 and the Engineers were beaten by SMU 80-71.

Cincinnati, averaging better than 100 points a game in five straight victories, meets fifth-ranked Bradley tonight before competing in the ECAC Holiday Festival in Madison Square Garden beginning Saturday. Other top teams scheduled tonight include seventh-ranked St. Louis (6-2) against Kansas, third-ranked Ohio State (6-1) vs. Brigham Young, eighth-ranked Georgia Tech (6-1) vs. Texas Tech, and ninth-ranked Indiana (4-1) vs. Butler.

West Virginia (8-0) won't see action until it goes into the Los Angeles Holiday Festival next Monday but fourth-ranked California (5-0) has a big game against a strong Michigan State team Wednesday. Utah and Indiana also play Wednesday. The Utes will meet College of the Pacific and the Hoosiers will face Butler. Favorites fell by the wayside in Monday night's action but 10th-ranked Illinois managed to keep its slate clean, nipping Oklahoma 60-57 in overtime. The biggest upset was perpetrated by Brigham Young which defeated Michigan State 79-75.

UCLA edged Minnesota 73-72. Wisconsin topped favored Stanford 61-60. Providence took a 62-60 decision from Santa Clara. Denver beat Michigan 71-65. Creighton won over Seattle 77-70 and Miami of Florida beat Miami of Ohio for the first time in four years, 83-70.

Utah, led by Billy (The Hill) McGill, led Ohio State all the way in racking up its seventh victory without a defeat. The sixth-ranked Redskins led at halftime 49-44. The 6,000 fans in the Ute Fieldhouse went wild as the 6-9 McGill scored 31 points. Scoring honors, however, went to Jerry Lucas of Ohio State. The 6-8 sophomore senior scored 29 of the 37 votes cast with four votes going to Jim Lee Howell of the New York Giants and two each going to Weeb Ewbank of Baltimore and Red Hickox of San Francisco. Ewbank earned the award last year.

Lombardi took over as coach and general manager of the Packers last winter after five years as offensive coach with the Giants. He succeeded Ray (Scooter) McLean as head coach and Verne Lewellen as general manager.

Lombardi, who first gained attention in football as a guard at Fordham and was one of the "seven blocks of granite" in Fordham's glory days, made a remarkable metamorphosis at Green Bay. He revamped the team almost completely, instilled morale and buoyed up the spirit.

He traded for or acquired eight players from rival teams. He installed five rookies, and picked up two veterans who returned from the service.

Other results were Louisville 84, Alabama 54, Arkansas 75, Centenary 32, 31.

UCLA squandered a 13-point lead but survived a late scoring spurge by Minnesota's Ron Johnson for its fourth victory in eight games. Four free throws by Bill Ellis in the last 90 seconds won for the Bruins.

Wisconsin had to freeze the ball for the last two minutes to cke out its one-point victory over Stanford and their second triumph in seven starts. John Arrillaga tallied 25 in a losing cause.

Illinois scored nine points in the last four minutes to pull into a 47-47 tie with Oklahoma at the end of regulation and won in overtime on the shooting of Ed Perry, a substitute.

Lenny Wilkins sparked a second-half rally that gave Providence its 62-60 uphill triumph over Santa Clara and ended a three-game losing streak.

Jim Deay's 33 points paced Denver to its victory over Michigan. It was only the Pioneers' second victory of the season.

Brigham Young handed Michigan State its first defeat in five games when Gary Ernest hit two free throws and a layup in the last 34 seconds.

Missouri's once-beaten Tigers scored their sixth victory with a

Players Not Worried, Their Coaches Scared

By DEL BOOTH

CLINTON, S.C. (AP) — Who's afraid of the big, bad Middle Tennessee State football team that Presbyterian meets in the Tangerine Bowl Jan. 1?

The Presbyterian coaches, that's who!

But not the players.

"We let 'em see movies of a couple of Tennessee State games," Presbyterian Coach Frank Jones said of his players, "and they didn't scare too much."

In fact, they just didn't scare at all.

"Now as for us coaches—we're scared," Jones said.

"We're counting on timing, conditioning and versatility to win for us—if it's possible for us to beat a strong team like Tennessee State. You know, they beat Chattanooga, 28-0, and Chattanooga is a team that Alabama had a hard time beating 14-9."

"Now I know that comparative scores don't mean much, but this is one comparison that tells us a Tennessee State is a good team."

Jones said Presbyterian scout Tennessee State in one game, "and it was worse than the movies. Man, they're good! Their line fires out real well, and they've got a fine pair of halfbacks."

"That Ray Purvis, that halfback they have, has been drafted by the pros."

Jones himself is blessed with a couple of backs who have been drafted by the San Francisco 49ers, quarterback Bobby Waters and halfback Bob Pate. Their passing and running are the big Presbyterian offensive weapons this season.

The Presbyterian coach didn't appear too worried about a flock of minor injuries that settled on the squad during pre-holiday workouts after an 11-day layoff at the end of the regular season.

"We think they'll all clear up by New Year's. Our players have promised to work out every day while they're home for Christmas."

A squad of 46 will assemble here for a workout Saturday, Dec. 26, then leave by chartered bus for Orlando on Sunday, Dec. 27.

The team will work out, "probably twice a day at first," Jones says at Orlando's Edgewater High School field. Headquarters for the stay in the Florida City, site of the bowl game, will be the San Juan Hotel.

"We don't plan to scrimmage much. We'll be working on timing most of the time," Jones says. "That, and adding a few fillips to make our defense more versatile, and being in prime physical condition."

"We won our first four games of the season in the last quarter on conditioning," Jones recalled of his 4-1 season, "and there's no reason to think superior conditioning won't help again."

"We'll work up some new defensive stuff, too," he added thoughtfully.

Jones said early ticket sales here indicate between 1,500 and 2,000 Presbyterian students, alumni and friends plan to attend the game from this area.

"We're looking for a good representation," he said.

Packer Coach Wins As Coach Of Year

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Vinnie Lombardi, in his first year as head coach of the Green Bay Packers, today was voted coach of the year by National Football League writers in the annual Associated Press poll.

The 45-year-old tactician, who once served as Red Blaik's backfield coach at West Point, guided his team to a third-place tie in the Western Conference with seven victories against five defeats.

Lombardi took over a team which had won only one game, lost 10 and tied one in Green Bay's poorest season in 40 years of professional football.

The little man with the build of a blacksmith steered his team to victories in its first three games. He was carried off the field by his players after their opening game triumph over the Chicago Bears.

Lombardi won in a landslide. He received 29 of the 37 votes cast with four votes going to Jim Lee Howell of the New York Giants and two each going to Weeb Ewbank of Baltimore and Red Hickox of San Francisco. Ewbank earned the award last year.

Lombardi took over as coach and general manager of the Packers last winter after five years as offensive coach with the Giants. He succeeded Ray (Scooter) McLean as head coach and Verne Lewellen as general manager.

Relates Escape After Big Bomber And Fighter Crash

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A young Air Force lieutenant Monday night told a grim story of his escape from a crippled B47 Stratojet bomber last Thursday after it collided with a jet fighter 30,000 feet over northwest Ontario, Canada.

The battered plane plunged down to 2,000 feet before 1st Lt. Theodore Adams Jr., 24, of Greenville, S.C., was able to parachute from it.

Two crewmen died in the crash. The pilot, Capt. Roy Minor, 34, of Manchester, Tenn., was able to eject from the plane. The fighter pilot still is missing.

Adams and Minor were flown back to Little Rock Air Force Base Monday.

Adams was the co-pilot on the B47 during the training flight. After Minor ejected from the plane, he was left alone in the cockpit. Having turned around in his seat, he could not eject. And the force of the fall held him in the seat.

"I was pretty helpless for ... it seemed like an eternity," Adams said. "I tried to raise my arm but the G (centrifugal) force was too great."

Finally he twisted out of his survival kit, leaving only his parachute, then pushed and pulled himself out of the seat and through the open cockpit, onto the fuselage of the plane.

The wind force on the nosediving bomber held him against the fuselage.

"I looked around to see what I would hit if I pushed loose. I thought the vertical stabilizer (tail) would get me, but it had been torn off by the fighter."

"So I pushed and then I was out in space just falling. My limbs were spread out and I couldn't reach my lanyard (parachute ripcord)."

Finally Adams got his parachute open, but he was falling directly on the burning plane.

"I guided my chute away from the plane but then I was coming down in a river. Finally I landed in a tree."

Asked what he did when he got to the ground, Adams replied: "For a little while, I didn't do anything."

He landed in three feet of snow and kept warm all night by the fire of the burning plane. The bodies of the other crew members were found in the tail section of the plane two days later.

John Barrymore Estate 'In Red'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor John Barrymore's estate wound up more than $31,000 in the red.

A final accounting in court Monday listed assets of $10,812.54, mostly from the recent sale of his interest in three old movies. But he owed more than $40,000 in federal income taxes for 1939, 1940 and 1941. He died in 1942.

Consequently, there was nothing left for his three children, Diana Barrymore, John Drew Barrymore and Dolores Barrymore Bedell.

High grade gold ore was found in 1880 at White Oaks, N. M., by George Wilson who was then fleeing his interest in three old movies. But he owed more than $40,000 immediately sold his claim for $40.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG

Only in a country where population expansion continues at an amazing rate could these two things be true at the same time:—More Americans than ever before are becoming home owners.

—More Americans than ever before are selling their homes to live in apartments.

The values of home ownership in the suburbs are many, not the least of which is the desirability of raising children in more pleasant surroundings than most city areas afford. This and other compensations of suburban life, as well as the undeniable pleasure of having a financial stake in a home, more than offset any accompanying discomforts, chief among them those associated with commuting long distances.

No Longer One-Way

Now, however, the movement between the cities and the suburbs is no longer one-way. Apartment construction in and near cities is proceeding at a record pace. In many cases, an entire apartment house is rented before the building is ready for occupancy.

A considerable portion of this new apartment-dwelling group comes from the ranks of married couples whose children have grown up and married. They no longer have a need for houses with six, seven and more rooms. They may have grown weary of performing maintenance chores. And the breadwinner probably has discovered that, at his age, those morning and evening rides to and from work seem twice as long as in previous years.

It is interesting, and perhaps a little startling, to note how many of the new apartments fall into the luxury class. At first, builders would not dare venture into the luxury housing field except in New York and other large cities, simply because they did not believe there would be enough demand in the smaller cities for swank apartments with high rentals.

Trend Is to Luxury

Recently, however, we have seen evidences of an increasing trend toward the construction of luxury apartments in medium sized cities. And we asked William Shroder, the vice president of a building firm which specializes in this field, to tell us what he knew about it.

It turned out that Shroder was exactly the person to ask, since he had just completed a survey of 20 medium sized cities. The survey showed that luxury apartments now are either available or under construction in most of them, including Trenton, N.J.; Wilmington, Del.; Stamford, Conn.; Lancaster, Pa.; Reno, Nev.; Santa Clara, Calif.; and Phoenix, Ariz.

The big difference is that, in cities such as these, a monthly rental of $60 a room is the upper limit of the high-rental bracket compared with $70 to $100 a room for comparable accommodations in New York and other major cities. Speaking of major cities, here's something that will surprise you: although Los Angeles has built so many apartments that 18 per cent of them are vacant, the most attractive apartments at higher rentals are nearly 100 per cent rented!

Oppose Issuing Giant Sparklers

BOSTON (AP)—A plan to distribute 15,000 giant sparklers to greet President Eisenhower on his return to the White House tonight is opposed as a menace to life by the National Fire Protection Assn.

A spokesman for the non-profit organization said Monday night the association's files contain scores of reports of death and crippling disfigurements caused by the pyrotechnic device.

In Washington, District Commissioner Robert E. McLaughlin said elaborate precautions were planned to prevent injury. Sparkler carriers will be widely spaced, he said.

McLaughlin said he had checked with District fire officials and they would have "no hesitancy" in issuing a license for the kind of demonstration planned for the President.

Like all reptiles, turtles are cold-blooded and must take their heat from the sun or warm water.

New Electronics Plant For State

RALEIGH (AP) — A plant eventually employing 125 to 150 persons will be built at Cary by American Marine Products Inc. of Harrisburg, Pa., an electronics outfit.

Professional and technical talent available in the Research Triangle area was cited as a factor in the company's site selection by S. Wilson Pollock, AMP vice president for operations.

Pollock said the plant, expected to be running by next August, will employ mostly women. It will make modern computer components and other electrical devices.

President D. E. Stewart of the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce and Gov. Hodges extended a welcome to the new industry.

The triangle formed by Raleigh, Chapel Hill and Durham is being promoted as a top choice for industrial research and allied activity because of facilities at North Carolina State College, the University of North Carolina and Duke University. Pollock said his firm was attracted by "the widespread reputation of the Research Triangle."

Houston Robber Given Probation

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A Houston man who got caught robbing a liquor store to get money for his wife, an expectant mother, has been freed on probation.

Michael Cotter, 33, pleaded guilty to a charge of holding up the liquor store Oct. 27. He was released on 10-year probation after the store manager, Ross Clawson, recommended clemency.

A new daughter, Mary Ann, born Nov. 25, was at home when Cotter re-urged Monday. His other five children smothered him with hugs as he walked in the door.

Blanket Of Snow Over Northeastern Ameriac

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first day of winter today found the Northeast shivering under a vast blanket of snow as deep as 10 inches in some spots.

One death occurred during the snowstorm in a traffic accident at Sturbridge, Mass.

Travelers crept along treacherously icy highways. Schools closed in some areas. Emergency crews moved in quickly to keep traffic moving where possible. Some buses were trapped in the snow. Trains were late. Air traffic was slightly delayed.

Heavy winds whipped the snow across a region stretching from the Great Lakes east through Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Maryland, New Jersey, New York and parts of New England. The Atlantic Coast in New Jersey and New York appeared hardest hit.

The Weather Bureau said the storm was expected to end tonight throughout the area.

In New York City, seven inches piled up before the snowfall ended.

All arteries into the city were clogged with traffic during the morning rush hour. The storm knocked out some subways and others were running late.

Taxi Service For Celebrants

TACHIKAWA AIR BASE, Japan (AP)—The U.S. Air Force today announced a special Christmas service for its charges who celebrate too much.

A headquarters announcement to all American personnel at this huge base invited them to telephone the air police for a chauffeur if "at any time during the Christmas holidays you might attend a party and feel you cannot drive your vehicle because you have been drinking."

Cardinal Visits GIs In Turkey

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman arrived Monday night from West Germany to spend Christmas with U.S. military personnel in Turkey.

Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York, is making his annual Christmas tour of U.S. bases overseas as chief Catholic vicar of the armed forces.

The Berlin airlift in 1948-49 carried 2,325,000 tons of supplies to two million people cut off by the Soviet blockade.

Rotary Host To Eight Children

Eight youngsters were entertained by the Greenville Rotary Club as part of the annual Christmas program of the organization.

Following dinner, each of the youngsters were presented a number of gifts by the club.

Lt. Walter Norris, commanding officer of the local Salvation Army post, delivered the Christmas message as part of the program. Lt. Norris explained the meaning of Christmas and the importance of giving as a part of the observance of the birth of Christ.

President's Tour Yields 'Peace Atmosphere'

By JOHN SCALI
MADRID (AP) — President Eisenhower has won new friends and perhaps influenced some very important people in his strenuous peace and friendship tour.

But only time will tell whether the President's venture into personal diplomacy eased any of the bitter disputes which plague much of the 22,000 miles he traveled.

His top aides are convinced that the good will and sincerity Eisenhower radiated, both before cheer-ing crowds and in confidential talks with foreign leaders, will pay impressive dividends later.

In his modern Odyssey, they say, the President created a "peace atmosphere" which will help many nations to discuss their quarrels with others more calmly—and eventually with positive results.

This would be a notable achievement for a journey which, in any event, will go down in history as one of the most adventurous ever undertaken by an American president.

Even the most skeptical of those accompanying Eisenhower acknowledge that his trip already has yielded significant short-term gains for American foreign policy. These appear to be:

1. A boost in American prestige in Asia, particularly in neutral-minded India, which may be the main arena in the East-West struggle for the allegiance of uncommitted millions during the next decades.

2. New luster for Eisenhower's reputation as a world leader dedicated to peace. This bolsters him in advance of face-to-face talks with the Soviet Union's Nikita Khrushchev.

The President made no visible effort to use his added prestige to dominate the Western Big Four summit meeting which ended in Paris Monday. Eisenhower's role was overshadowed by French President Charles de Gaulle, who wound up convincing Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan that Paris should be the site of the proposed East-West summit parley.

This appears to be Eisenhower's record of achievement in each of the 10 countries he has visited thus far in his unprecedented three-continent journey.

Italy—Not much, though he won the endorsement of Pope John XXIII for his quest for peace in freedom.

Turkey — A rousing reception which reinforced the close Turkish-American military partnership in the anti-Communist struggle.

Pakistan — A million cheering Pakistanis hailed him. In confidential talks with Pakistan leaders he preached the value of a reasonable settlement of disputes with India.

Afghanistan — A surprisingly warm welcome from the thousands ordered out to greet him. Eisenhower warned of the dangers of too much reliance on Soviet assistance. Afghan leaders publicly pledged their allegiance to freedom.

India — The most spectacular phase of the tour. Some four million Indians roared their approval while Prime Minister Nehru lauded Eisenhower's visit "at this juncture" in world affairs, a polite reminder to Red China, which has seized border territory claimed by India. The net result of the President's stay was to push India a little further toward the Western end of the neutral tightrope Nehru is trying to balance on.

Tunisia — A firm pledge of support to the Shah at a time when he is under Soviet pressure and is worried about conditions in his country.

Greece—An emotional welcome by three-quarters of a million people. Eisenhower assured Greek leaders of continued American aid and full backing.

Tunisia — More assurances of American economic assistance to a young North African nation which has been one of America's best friends in Africa. Eisenhower and President Habib Bourguiba joined in expressing concern over failure to settle the Algerian war, a statement which annoyed the French.

France — A disappointing welcome by a Paris crowd apparently used to Eisenhower's visits. In private talks with De Gaulle, Eisenhower convinced the French leader that the United States supports his Algerian policy but failed to persuade him to commit French forces to the unified military command of the North Atlantic Alliance.

Spain — Eisenhower's mere appearance boosted the standing of dictator Francisco Franco. Eisenhower stressed the people-to-people aspects of his visit, but Franco seized on it as a sign that Spain and the United States are destined to forge a common front.

Has Confidence In D. S. Weaver

RALEIGH (AP) — President William C. Friday of the Consolidated University of North Carolina says an uproar in Mecklenburg County has not shaken his confidence in Extension Director Davis S. Weaver.

His comment came Monday after reading a resolution from Mecklenburg Home Demonstration Club women asking for dismissal of Weaver. They based their case on the forced resignation of Miss Helen John Wright Last Nov. 25 as home demonstration agent for the county.

Friday said the affair was handled "in accordance with established personnel procedures . . . and I was fully informed of all actions taken. David Weaver has had and continues to have my complete support and confidence."

Weaver said he had nothing to say. "I haven't seen the letter or anything, about it," he explained. The extension service is operated under North Carolina State College, one of the branches of the university.

Private Colleges Raise A Question

RALEIGH (AP) — Two privately owned colleges have questioned whether their employees are covered by the state minimum wage law which becomes effective Jan. 1.

Atty. Gen. Malcolm Seawell said Monday that requests for a ruling have come from Flora Macdonald College at Red Springs and Salem Academy and College at Winston-Salem.

Seawell offered his belief that such colleges "are not exempt under the act," but he said he would study the issue for several days before giving a formal opinion.

A minimum wage of 75 cents an hour is set by the law passed last May. However, legislators wrote in a number of exemptions. One of these applies to "any person engaged in the activities of an educational, charitable, religious or non-profit organization where the relationship of employer-employee does not, in fact, exist, or where the services rendered to such organization are on a voluntary basis."

It is this part of the law which has puzzled the private college officials.

KIDNAPPED
NEW YORK (AP)—During recent Christmas seasons, an electric Santa Claus who waves from his sleigh atop the marquee of a hotel on Lower Fifth avenue has become a landmark. The sleigh is empty today. Police said two men early Sunday mounted the marquee with a stepladder and kidnapped Santa. They also took a reindeer.

Forage For Food In The Snow

Ford's Daughter Makes Debut

DETROIT (AP)—Charlotte Ford, eldest daughter of Henry Ford II, made her debut Monday night at a dazzling party attended by high society and leaders of business and industry.

The 18-year-old great-granddaughter of the late Henry Ford was introduced to society at a night-long coming-out party at the Country Club of Detroit.

The party was estimated to have cost the Fords $100,000.

The club was decorated by Jacques Frank of Paris in an 18th century French motif. Imported French tapestries, insured for $150,000, lined the walls. Flowers and fountains were everywhere. A formal French garden had been reproduced on the spot.

Charlotte, a willowy blonde, wore a strapless white-satin gown designed by Yves St. Laurent, the Parisian successor to Dior. The ankle-length gown was trimmed with bands of embroidered flowers, pearls and tourmalines.

Charlotte was escorted by a cousin, Peter Sullivan of Glen Head, N.Y. Her father, president of Ford Motor Co., got the first dance.

Wrappings, Ribbons, Cards Are Big Business

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The late Christmas shopper — and how many of you could cast the first stone? — probably is all tied up or snowed under today in millions of yards of decorative ribbons and string, wrappings, seals and stickers and Christmas cards.

And the some 50 factories across the land that make these things are already taking in new carloads of raw material and starting production for next Christmas's multimillion-dollar outpouring.

The makers of these things say that spending on colorful wrappings that go only with Christmas is a strong clue that this Christmas will see the greatest change of gifts in the nation's history. The clue may be better than the big retail sales volume now setting a record, since so much of the buying at the stores can be for other things.

Those in the gift embellishment business say this also has been a big year for technological advances, with science and automation invading the field.

Once paper and common twine ruled almost a necessity. Now you find mylar, nylon, laminates, polyethylene film, synthetic adhesives, glass fiber, aluminum.

The Christmas seal business is blooming as never before. The Tuberculosis & Health Assn. of New York reports mailing 378 million seals, or 22 tons, to persons living in three boroughs of New York City alone.

Hallmark Cards Inc. says card sales average four million a day and that Americans will spend close to 200 million dollars this year for cards, paper, ribbon, seals, tags and decorations.

One big boost has come from business concerns themselves. They have been competing in gift wrappings and cards to attract shoppers in the nation's stores. Increasing stress on help-yourself buying, as in a supermarket, has increased the rivalry.

Bing And Perry Will Reciprocate

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bing Crosby and Perry Como have agreed to exchange guest TV spots — with Bing's four singing sons appearing on both shows.

Como will come west to tape his spot on Bing's show the week of Jan. 11. It will be seen Feb. 29 on the ABC-TV network.

Crosby will reciprocate March 26 when he and his sons will travel to New York to appear on Como's NBC-TV show.

Returning To Role As Hostess

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
A new goal for ambitious career girls of the 1960s might be to quit the career cold and marry a rising young politician, Washington-bound.

There's a growing trend these days for women to revert to their traditional role of wife, mother and hostess, instead of beating their brains out in the competitive business world. This is seen in the spiraling number of youthful marriages, the return of big families, the importance placed by corporations on the social abilities of the wives of their executives.

The most powerful women throughout history have been the girls behind the thrones, such as the Pompadours and the du Barries. And in modern times we have our own Duchess of Windsor and Princess Grace of Monaco, not forgetting such Washington hostesses as Perle Mesta, Mrs. Morris Cafritz, Marjorie Post May and the late Evelyn Walsh McLean. Often the course of history is shaped at a Washington cocktail party or dinner, where an astute hostess brings together skittish ambassadors and heads of state, who shy from formal discussions across a conference table but are willing to discuss their differences over a dry martini.

A young congressman's wife, with the proper financial and social assets, could become the new "hostess with the mostest" of the new generation in Washington. She would have to cultivate a flair for the unusual and a talent for selecting the proper inflammatory guests.

The scope of the next top hostess of Washington will be far greater than any of her predecessors. With the new vogue of personal diplomacy, world travel and forays into space, the universe will be her apple. She can send invitations for tea to all the world capitals, and have her guests arrive by jet, with plenty of time to spare. She'll be at home in the courts of all nations.

She may give a party on a space ship, taking her guests for a weekend on the moon. She may cultivate the astronauts, as the ambassadors of outer space.

No office job could offer the scope that will be available to the next famous international hostess. In the 1960s she will literally hitch her wagon to a star—and maybe get there.

We've had our Martha Washingtons, our Dolly Madisons, our Mestas—all potent and charming additions to the trend of their times. But look out for the hostess of the space age.

Ankara was chosen as capital of Turkey because the climate is drier and more invigorating than the day heat of Istanbul's summers.

To Begin Work On Alterations

Work will begin "immediately" on the alterations to the Flanagan Building at East Carolina College here, William M. O'Neal of Dunn Building Supply Co., Inc., said today.

O'Neal said the $17,893 three-story building will be completed in approximately two months. The removal of the old partitions and patchwork will be the first phase of the work to get underway.

Dunn Building Supply Co., Inc., as the general contracting firm is responsible for the actual construction of the building designed by the architectural firm of Dudley and Shoe of Greenville.

C. B. West III of Greenville will be the superintendent in charge of the project which will provide employment for approximately eight to 10 workmen.

Despite Clean Bill, Poultry Growers Feel Industry Hurt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The consensus among North Carolina's poultry growers and producers seems to be that a recent statement by U. S. Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Arthur Flemming that some chickens have been fed a cancer-producing hormone has hurt sales across the state.

And the irony of it, growers and producers say, is that the hormone—known as stilbestrol—is forbidden by law in North Carolina. It is used in some other states in the diet of chickens to fatten premium-priced birds.

Lighthouse Held Up By A Robber

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"The Line Point Lighthouse has just been held up, sir," Coast Guardsman Dick Breckel reported to San Francisco headquarters Monday night.

Breckel, 19, and his fellow lighthouse keeper across the Golden Gate bridge in Marin County, said he apparently drunkenly manhandled in waving a gun. For emphasis he shot the neck of a cat-suit bottle and drilled another bullet into a wall telephone.

Breckel said the man then ordered him to hand over a .45 caliber automatic in a desk drawer—and fled.

San Francisco police arrested a suspect they identified as Willard Salberg. They said he fired a shot with a .45 caliber automatic to emphasize an argument in a San Francisco bar.

been determined how much Flemming's statement hurt the state's No. 2 revenue crop—after tobacco. Wholesalers and retailers first pushed back orders, he said, and some delayed "the time they'll take delivery. Some orders have been canceled."

Dennis Ramsey of Rose Hill, one of the state's larger growers, said, "We don't know yet how much we have been hurt. The chickens have stopped moving, but they are slow anyway this time of year."

Growers report that the Thanksgiving-Christmas holiday period normally is a slack period for chicken sales.

A producer, E. T. Watson of the Watson Seafood and Poultry Co., Raleigh, said his business—largely in states to the north—had fallen off 1-3 to 1/2.

A processor, Austin Williams of Robersonville, closed his plant until after Christmas. It is the first year he's ever closed more than one day during Christmas week. Williams, who does 98 per cent of his business out of state, put it this way:

"This cancer scare has completely stopped the movement of poultry in Philadelphia, New York City and Boston."

Some poultrymen feel the economics of the business enter the picture rather decisively. Growers during the current season normally cut back flocks, thus hiking prices during the Thanksgiving-Christmas period.

This year, producers say, the price of live chickens has slumped 16 to 18 cents a pound since Flemming's announcement Dec. 11.

Play Santa To Typhoon Victims

NAGOYA, Japan (AP)—U. S. forces played Santa Claus today for more than 5,000 children in this central Japanese city devastated by a typhoon last September.

A caravan of U. S. Army and Navy trucks toured day nurseries and kindergartens, and American servicemen distributed toys and other gifts collected by U. S. servicemen in a "Toys for Tots" campaign throughout Japan.

Thirty Americans also passed out well filled stockings and toys to beaming children at a leading department store.

Play Santa To Typhoon Victims

NAGOYA, Japan (AP)—U. S. forces played Santa Claus today for more than 5,000 children in this central Japanese city devastated by a typhoon last September.

A caravan of U. S. Army and Navy trucks toured day nurseries and kindergartens, and American servicemen distributed toys and other gifts collected by U. S. servicemen in a "Toys for Tots" campaign throughout Japan.

Thirty Americans also passed out well filled stockings and toys to beaming children at a leading department store.

Watchman Shot At 2 Prowlers

BERLIN (AP)—A watchman in front of West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt's house fired four pistol shots Monday night at two unidentified men lurking in the vicinity.

Both escaped, a police spokesman said.

Guards around Brandt's house have been on a special alert since Dec. 18, when the mayor got an anonymous threatening card:

Typhoon Gilda Has Left Twenty Dead

MANILA (AP)—Typhoon Gilda said 27 towns were badly hit and one of the worst storms to hit the Philippines in recent memory. It left at least 20 persons dead, 27 missing and some 60,000 homeless, official reports said today.

The typhoon also dealt a staggering blow to the Philippines' coconut industry, the largest in the world. The 120-mile winds ripped through coconut plantations in the rich, thickly populated central islands 150 miles south of Manila.

Authorities said it might take four years for the coconut industry to recover.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE OF REAL PROPERTY

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in that certain deed of trust executed by John A. Parsons and wife, Pauline F. Parsons, to R. B. Lee, Trustee, dated April 7, 1959 and recorded in Book X-30 at page 551 of the Pitt County Registry, default having been made in the payment of the note thereby secured and the owner of the note having called upon the Trustee to foreclose thereon, the undersigned Trustee will, on Monday, the 28th day of December, 1959 at 12 o'clock noon at the courthouse door in Greenville, North Carolina, offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash the following described real property, to wit:

That certain lot or parcel of land situate, lying and being in the City of Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina, on the south side of Tenth Street Extension and being Lot No. 3 in the division of lands among the heirs at law of Hinton Fornes, as shown on map of said division recorded in Map Book 3 at page 144 of the Pitt County Registry, and beginning at a stake on the south side of Tenth Street Extension at the common corner between Lots 2 and 3 in said division and running thence South 15 deg. West, 201.7 feet to a corner in the line of Lot 6-A; thence South 89 deg. 45 min. East, 175 feet to the west side of the Fornes Road; thence with the west side of the Fornes Road North 15 deg. East, 201.7 feet to the south line of Tenth Street Extension; thence Westwardly, with the south property line of Tenth Street Extension, 175 feet to the point of beginning, and being one of the lots allotted to Pauline F. Lee (now Pauline F. Parsons) in the division of record in Book T-23 at page 291 of the Pitt County Registry.

The successful bidder at this sale will be required to deposit with the Trustee 10% of his bid pending confirmation of the sale.

This 25th day of November, 1959.
