'State For Man' Declares Pope In Yule Message

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII declared in a Christmas message to the world today that "things and institutions—the state—are primarily for man; not man for them."

The Communist way of life was an obvious target of the 78-year-old Roman Catholic pontiff, though he did not mention communism by name, in a speech devoted to peace and the obstacles in its path.

Broadcasting a new call for world leaders to fashion a true peace, he said social peace "is solidly based on the mutual and reciprocal respect for the dignity of man."

"The disturbances which unsettled the internal peace of nations trace their origins chiefly to this source that man has been treated almost exclusively as a machine, a piece of merchandise, a worthless cog in some great machine, a mere productive unit," he said.

Obviously referred to President Eisenhower's 11-nation peace tour and other recent international developments, he said "the most recent events have caused an atmosphere of so-called disengagement which has caused hopes to blossom anew in many minds."

He described the international basis of peace as "above all, truth."

The pontiff said the Roman Catholic Church "looks with favor on every initiative which can help spare humanity new conflicts, new massacres, new destruction beyond calculation."

"There is not a state of war," he said, "but neither is there peace."

The Pope spoke in Italian in response to Christmas greetings from the College of Cardinals. His message was broadcast by the Vatican radio and various European networks. The Mutual Broadcasting System planned to carry an English-language translation in the United States from 11:05 to 11:30 a.m.

President Ends Long Peace Tour

Shivering, Enthusiastic Crowd Welcomes Eisenhower To White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower relayed a "Merry Christmas" from major areas of the free world today as he returned from his historic peace mission to light a Christmas tree in his own backyard.

A shivering but enthusiastic crowd shouted greetings as the President drove into the White House grounds shortly after midnight. Thus ended a 22,000-mile trip, mostly by jet plane, that started Dec. 3 and took Eisenhower to 11 nations on three continents—the longest ever by an American president in office.

The welcoming delegation, estimated by police at close to 4,000, was far short of the millions that greeted the President on his 19-day tour of personal diplomacy. They waited in windy, 20-degree weather to cheer Eisenhower on his return.

They waved giant sparklers that brilliantly lit the Pennsylvania avenue as Eisenhower nodded his appreciation. Then, after the chief executive had entered the White House, he burst into a serenade of Christmas carols.

Half an hour earlier, a smaller official delegation met the President at Andrews Air Force Base 15 miles away in nearby Maryland. Waiting as the big jet plane touched down after a one-stop flight from Morocco were Mrs. Eisenhower, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Cabinet officers, members of the diplomatic corps and other officials.

At Andrews the President spoke briefly, saying that everywhere he went he was given a message of Merry Christmas to convey to the people of the United States.

He promised a fuller, though still brief, report on his travels when he formally lights the national Christmas tree late today.

The President appeared to have withstood the rigors of his pilgrimage better than many of those who accompanied him.

"He's in better shape than we are," commented James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary.

After Christmas at the White House with Mrs. Eisenhower, the President probably will leave this weekend for his Augusta, Ga., vacation cottage, to remain at most until time for the session of Congress starting Jan. 6.

Between now and then, and for months afterwards, diplomats and politicians will speculate on the effects of the President's talks with leaders of Italy, Turkey, Pakistan, Afghanistan, India, Greece, Iran, Tunisia, France, Spain and Morocco.

There seemed no disagreement that the President had boosted his own stock as a world leader and enhanced his nation's prestige as the champion of freedom.

First concrete results of the presidential peace mission may flow from the East-West summit meeting tentatively scheduled in Paris next April, and from his later face-to-face sessions with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in Moscow.

On the home front, politicians already are weighing the impact of the President's travels on next November's national elections. The old pros of both major political parties agreed privately that if there is a marked easing of world tensions as the elections approach, the President will receive the credit and his party the benefits at the polls.

Welfare Dept. Appeal Bringing Quick Response; Outlook 'Good'

Contributions were rolling in this morning at the Pitt County Welfare Department offices to finance Christmas food baskets for 113 Pitt County families.

Supt. J. S. Grimes, III, reported at noon today that "about 90 more dollars would do the trick." He expected the goal to be reached before the welfare offices closed at 3 this afternoon.

Grimes was pleased at the quickness with which area citizens answered the last-minute call for contributions issued from the welfare offices yesterday.

After an organized program, involving civic and church organizations and private individuals, had provided Christmas food and toys for nearly 300 families throughout the county, welfare officials learned 113 families had not been included.

Immediately Grimes announced welfare staffers had agreed to work overtime delivering food baskets to the families as soon as contributions came in and baskets were ordered.

The Welfare Department delayed its closing for the holiday weekend by three hours to allow time for all contributions to reach the office.

"Response has been most gratifying," Grimes told the Daily Reflector this morning. "If today's lunch hour turns out as we feel it will, we'll have enough for all the families."

Plans at the department were to begin delivery immediately after 3 p.m. today—as soon as the offices are officially closed until Monday.

Grimes indicated that some workers will still be on the job tomorrow morning in efforts to provide at least one food basket to each of the 113 families.

He pointed out that the Salvation Army unit here had "readily agreed" to help with the distribution.

In addition to the contributions, Grimes reported that the local Optimist Club had offered to contribute its surplus Christmas trees to families without the traditional evergreens. Persons desiring to deliver a tree to a family may pick them up at the Optimist tree sale lot at Elm St. Park.

The food baskets to be bought and delivered have been packaged by local grocery stores at the request of the Welfare Department. Average prices of the baskets range from $2.50 to $3.50.

Troops Escort Aged Veteran To Final Tributes

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Green-cad Army infantry troops escorted the body of Civil War veteran Walter W. Williams through downtown streets today to a Baptist church where he was eulogized as one of mankind's immortals.

Thousands stood in silent tribute as the military procession left the City Courts Building where the body of the 117-year-old Confederate lay in state.

Williams, last survivor of the War Between the States, died Saturday. Doctors said death followed complications arising from old age.

Two platoons of picked 4th Army troops marched behind the gleaming black hearse bearing the old soldier to the cream-colored brick South Main Baptist church.

Behind them marched a firing squad and a 25-man file and drum corps from Mount Vernon, Ohio.

Eight uniformed military pallbearers accompanied the body on foot. Honorary pallbearers rode in a limousine leading the procession.

The Rev. Dr. McKenney, retired Methodist minister, and the Rev. Dr. E. H. Westmoreland, pastor of the church, officiated.

The procession was to leave the church immediately after services for Franklin, Tex., 125 miles north of here where military rites were to be administered at graveside.

Williams farmed near the small town for many years upon moving to Texas from Mississippi after the close of the Civil War. He served as a forage master in Hood's Brigade.

"He has achieved an honor to which each of the millions of veterans of our War Between the States earnestly aspired, but never reached, and never can," the Rev. Dr. McKenney said.

"He alone in the providence of God has survived the vast multitude that has gone down into the silent chambers of death before him."

President Eisenhower, who ordered the nation's flags flown at half-staff for four days, was represented by Maj. Gen. C. Stanton Babcock, commander of the 8th U.S. Army Corps.

Joy In Taking?

For somebody in Greenville, the joy of Christmas is in taking, not giving.

The worker on duty at the Salvation Army hut on Evans St. checked the amount of money in the kettle before he went to lunch yesterday.

There was a dollar and a dime in the pot when he went to a nearby lunch counter.

When he returned he checked the kettle again. This time it was empty.

Overrule Decree Of Martial Law

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A panel of three federal judges today upset an order by Gov. Orville E. Freeman and ruled that Wilson and Co. is entitled to reopen its strikebound Albert Lea, Minn., plant.

The plant was closed Dec. 11 when Gov. Freeman declared martial law.

Freeman and the National Guard were enjoined from interfering with the company's right to have "free and unlimited access to an egress from the plant and property."

The court, however, granted a stay of the injunction until midnight Sunday. Its ruling was unanimous.

Freeman ordered out the National Guard after two days of violence involving striking pickets and non-union workers.

"At the time the governor declared martial law," the court said, "the local government of the City of Albert Lea and the County of Freeborn was functioning. The courts were open, the citizens were moving freely in and about their daily pursuits without danger, except those who desired to continue with their work to plaintiff (Wilson and Co.)."

Brigitte's Baby Is Expected Soon

PARIS (AP) — Brigitte Bardot expects her baby next week, the Paris newspaper France-Soir said today, quoting her physician.

In the past few days, an entire nursery as well as hospital equipment needed for a delivery has been installed in the film star's Paris apartment, indicating she will have the baby at home.

Brigitte's husband, Jacques Charrier, is still recuperating from a nervous breakdown which led to a provisional discharge from the army.

Holiday Schedule

In accordance with a long-standing custom, offices of The Daily Reflector will be closed Thursday and Friday. The Christmas greeting edition of the paper will be published Thursday morning.

Regular office hours and publication schedules are to resume Saturday morning.

Numbing Cold Follows Big Snowstorm In Northeast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A numbing arctic blast hit the Northeast today in the wake of a heavy snowstorm which marked winter's official arrival Tuesday.

Many below-zero recordings were listed throughout the region during the early morning hours.

As the storm moved out of the Northeast, a fresh wintry outburst plastered the upper Mississippi Valley with up to seven inches of snow.

The temperature dropped to a minus 34 at Wanakena in northern New York and 29 below at Saranac Lake in New York State's Adirondack Mountains.

Montpelier, Vt., reported a reading of 8 below and Burlington 2 below. Boston's mark was 12 above.

Maine's lowest was one below Greenough, but the Weather Bureau warned that the temperature was expected to fall as low as minus 20 in northern Maine tonight.

Tuesday's snowfall, ranging up to 10 inches and setting records for the date in some spots, snarled highway, rail and air traffic.

At least 19 deaths were blamed on the storm and highway accidents caused by slippery roads.

Up to 10 inches of snow fell in areas just north of New York City. New England had 2 to 7 inches.

Commuters and Christmas shoppers bound for New York City were delayed by slow-moving buses, subways and trains. More than 200 flights were delayed or rerouted at La Guardia and Idlewild airports.

Many schools, including 100 in the New York metropolitan area, closed.

Herds of wild deer came out of the woods near Yorktown, N.Y., to forage for food. The animals halted traffic in some spots.

The 16-hour snowfall in New York City was the worst since February 1958. Seven inches was reported in Manhattan.

The Midwestern storm moved slowly eastward from Iowa and Minnesota through Wisconsin and northern Illinois.

It headed into northern Indiana, Michigan and northwest Ohio, with snow, freezing rain and sleet indicated. A belt of sleet or freezing rain appeared likely to precede the snow storm into western New York and Pennsylvania.

Wisconsin and northeast Iowa were hit by the heaviest snow covering in the Midwest, from four to seven inches. Falls in Minnesota and Illinois were more than two inches.

It was cold in most areas from the Rockies to New England.

Bonner Reveals Pitt Appointees To Academies

WASHINGTON, N. C. — Six young men from Pitt County and three each from Farmville and Greenville have been nominated for appointment to the nation's service academies for 1960. It was announced today by Congressman Herbert C. Bonner of Washington.

Two nominations were for the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., two were for West Point — the Army academy in New York. One was nominated for the Merchant Marine Academy and another for the Air Force Academy in Colorado.

James Sidney Jenkins, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Jenkins, Jr., of 1046 E. Rock Spring Rd. in Greenville, and William Earl Tyson, Jr., grandson of Mrs. R. L. Matthews of Farmville, were nominated for appointment to the Naval Academy.

David Carlyle Wade, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Wade, Jr., 1103 W. Rock Spring Rd. in Greenville, and Burke Henry Stancill, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Burke H. Stancill, Sr., of 414 Latham St., Greenville, received nominations for appointment to West Point.

Johnny Robert Thorne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard M. Thorne, of 405 E. Pine St., Farmville, received a nomination for appointment to the Merchant Marine Academy.

Another Farmville youth, August MacLeod Freeman, Jr., grandson of former Farmville Fire Chief Haywood Smith, was nominated for appointment to the Air Force Academy.

Continue Search For 3 Fishermen

MANNING, S.C. (AP) — The bodies of three fishermen still have not been located in big Lake Marion despite continuing efforts of scores of searchers.

The air and water search, now in its fourth day, has resulted in two bodies being found. Deaths apparently came to all five men, comprising two separate fishing parties, who set out from fishing camps Saturday as high winds swept the 35-mile-long lake.

One body from each of the two groups have been located. The twin search is concentrated in two broad areas on each side of the lake, located about 13 miles south of here.

Navy skin divers, an Air Force helicopter and a state-owned airplane have joined law enforcement officers and dozens of volunteer boatmen in the hunt.

Clarendon County Sheriff T. J. Jackson said today he does not know if efforts to locate the three missing bodies will continue Thursday, which is Christmas Eve.

Still missing are the bodies of Dave Thomas, 31, and James Funderburk, 38, both of Concord, N.C., and Benton Blackwell, 51, of Darlington.

Mailmen Given Another Burden

RALEIGH (AP) — Christmas cards are not the only load on the mailman this holiday season.

The Motor Vehicles Department today dropped in the mails another form of greetings—1960 registration cards for some 1,750,000 cars, trucks and other vehicles which must have license plates.

Owners have until Feb. 15 to buy the tags. For car owners, the cost generally will be $11. The price goes up to $30 for a 63,000-pound, four-horse tractor-trailer.

Family Affair In Making Arrest

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—A car blocked a cross walk at a downtown intersection Tuesday night so pedestrian Herbert Williams, 38, climbed up a fender, walked across the hood and stepped down on the other side.

Indignant driver Claude Hayes summoned a policeman, who arrested Williams on a charge of damaging private property.

The policeman was Bob Hayes, the son of driver Claude, and also owner of the car.

May Be Invited To Visit Japan

TOKYO (AP)—President Eisenhower, already dated up for two trips abroad next year, may get an invitation from Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi soon to work in a visit to Japan.

Cabinet secretary Eisusaburo Shima told newsmen Tuesday night Kishi may extend the invitation when he goes to Washington next month to sign a revised U.S.-Japan military agreement.

Sen. Bell Claims 'Snafu' In Raleigh Over Point System

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—State Sen. J. Spencer Bell charged today that hundreds of North Carolina's "point system" violations are going unrecorded in Raleigh because of poor supervision in courts of the state.

Many of the state's leading traffic experts are disturbed by this and believe "30 to 50 per cent" of violations are not being charged against Tar Heel drivers, an insurance company spokesman, who declined use of his name, said.

At least one insurance company—Allstate—has asked that the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill study the situation and come up with a solution, the insurance man said.

"Hundreds of convictions are not being reported to the motor vehicles department by the clerks of our varied courts," Sen. Bell said.

"There is no person charged with the responsibility of supervising these clerks or checking on them or showing them how to make these reports—or even, for that matter, providing forms on which to make the reports."

Sen. Bell said he was not criticizing Mecklenburg County's traffic courts, which he characterized as "the finest in the state." But he spoke of JP courts and mayor's courts in some of the state's more remote counties.

The state's point system, adopted by the 1959 General Assembly, allows the state to revoke a driver's license if the driver picks up 12 points within a period of two years. Various offenses bring different numbers of points.

Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt was en route to New York and unavailable for comment.

Wallace Hyde, director of the driver education division of the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles, said, "On the basis of procedures followed in North Carolina, it's impossible to say what percentage of violations are not being turned in."

"There is a possibility that all are not being turned in, but this is purely an assumption. We have no way of knowing that this is a fact. We are at the mercy of the courts in all cases, except for violations charged by the State Highway Patrol," Hyde said.

Hyde continued, "If there were a uniform traffic ticket in use by all law enforcement agencies, then a copy of this would have to come to Raleigh from every police agency and the state would have a way of following up the disposition of the case."

Said Sen. Bell: "I've seen these uniform traffic tickets. They have three or four carbons—one goes to the person charged, one to the local court, one to the central administrative office of the court. Thus they are like certified checks. Every one is accounted for."

Sen. Bell, who headed the State Bar Assn. committee for court reform, said, "A uniform ticket is the only way to stop ticket fixing. But, again, a uniform ticket will not work unless you have a unified system of courts."

Iran Alerts Its Defense Forces

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Iranian authorities today dispatched air and army reinforcements to the Abadan region and placed all armed forces on full alert. They said they acted against a possible Iraqi attack.

A squadron of jet planes was sent to Dezful Airbase in Kuzistan province, in which Abadan is located. Abadan is the site of Iran's prime economic asset—the sprawling national owned petroleum refineries.

Honesty Wasn't An Easy Quality

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Orange County Deputy Sheriff Ferrell says he intends to remember Pearl D. Gould on Christmas. Thanksgiving and several other times during the year.

Why?

Because:

Gould found Ferrell's wallet containing identification cards and $70 in cash, then endured several hardships in returning it.

The 75-year-old Orlando man set out walking to Ferrell's house nine miles away, but got lost and paid a man to take him home. The following night Gould started walking again. This time he got caught in a rainstorm, but finally arrived at Ferrell's house soaking wet. The deputy gave him a substantial reward.

Ivy Bluff Prison Policy Tightened

RALEIGH (AP) — Maximum security measures have been tightened at Ivy Bluff Prison where 20 hardened convicts escaped Dec. 8.

Prisons Director W. F. Bailey said Tuesday the security steps include two new guards, 24-hour manning of one of the guard towers that was not manned at night and a new lock on a master door.

In addition, procedures for guarding the inmates have been reiterated, Bailey said. Following the mass escape, two guards were dismissed for what Bailey termed laxity. Another was dismissed for permitting a newsman to enter the prison without authorization.

Eight days later, Ivy Bluff Supt. J. D. Meadows was fired and replaced by Mack Hubbard, former major of the guard at Central Prison.

Bailey said Hubbard is carrying out procedures to tighten security. He added an investigation by Harold Lilly of the Prison Department's Raleigh office has turned up a hacksaw blade in one of the closely guarded cells at Ivy Bluff. It was not the blade used by the prisoners to cut the bars in making their escape, Bailey said. The blade was found hanging on a string behind a wash basin in one of the segregation cells.

Eighteen of the 20 Dec. 8 escapees have been recaptured.

Bailey said an investigation by Lilly showed that the last shake-down of the prisoners' cells at Ivy Bluff was on Nov. 19, almost three weeks before the escape. Policy calls for a daily shake-down, he added.

Lilly's probe, still in progress, also showed that contraband, including tobacco and food, had been smuggled to the segregated cells, apparently by honor-grade prisoners working at the prison.

Five guards have been moved to Ivy Bluff from other camps. Three of them replaced the dismissed guards.

Salvation Army Reports More Calls For Help

The Salvation Army still needs funds to take care of needy families during Christmas, Lt. Walter Norris said this morning.

There have been more appeals for assistance this year than ever before, Lt. Norris said.

Two years ago 70 baskets were supplied to needy families, he pointed out. Last year 130 baskets were delivered. This year it is expected that 200 baskets will be distributed by Christmas day.

Lt. Norris said the Salvation Army plans to take care of all requests for assistance.

Persons wishing to make a donation to the Army's Christmas fund may call the Salvation Army headquarters in Greenville.

To Mrs. Eisenhower The President's Stamina On Tour Amazed Others

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dear Mrs. Eisenhower:

You were somewhat worried three weeks ago about your husband, the President, taking on the arduous 11-nation tour from which he returned Tuesday night.

Now that he is safely back with his family for Christmas, perhaps you would like to know—from one of the newsmen who accompanied him all the way—how well he seemed to stand up during a grueling three-continent journey that sometimes had us reporters almost on the ropes.

In short, Mrs. Eisenhower, his performance from a physical standpoint amazed us. At 69 years of age, he wore us younger fellows to a frazzle.

We're sure, of course, that he is tired. No man could go through what he's been through without being weary.

But on the second last day of the 19-day tour we saw him come down the ramp from his jet airliner at Madrid, Spain, with the bounce of a man just home from a month at the beach.

And Tuesday at Casablanca in Morocco, this reporter rode alongside the President's car on that wild drive from the airport into town. As he was in every other nation on arrival, he was on his feet for miles—waving, bowing, smiling to the huge crowds which jammed the roadside.

We were close enough to see thousands of veiled women trilled a strange bird-like call of welcome, and as fierce Berber tribesmen fired charges from ancient flintlock rifles.

That 18-mile triumphal procession would have left the President down-right fatigued. Yet his step still had spring in it when—hours later he walked to his plane for the long ride back to Washington.

Frankly, Mrs. Eisenhower, all of us along the trip shared your concern for the President's well-being.

We remember how, right at the start, he got off the plane in Rome in a downpour of rain without a raincoat or even an umbrella. We remember how he removed his hat for the playing of the national anthems — and how all of us thought he surely would catch a cold.

During the next 19 days — in cold, in rain, in bone-chilling wind — there were many of us who had no doubt you would have wanted us to yell: "Ike, put your hat on. Nobody expects you to stand bareheaded in this weather."

Miss Albritton, Mr. McCracken Wed

FARMVILLE—Tuesday evening the First Christian Church was the scene of a military wedding when Miss Theodora Little Albritton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Little Albritton, became the bride of Lt. Henry Emmett McCracken Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Emmett McCracken of Bluffton, S. C.

The Rev. Jack Daniel officiated. A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mr. Russell Roebuck of Wilson, organist, Mrs. Bernice B. Turnage of Farmville, and Lt. Douglas N. Campbell of Savannah, Ga., soloists. In candlelight, the vows were spoken before an altar banked with greenery and basket arrangements of white chrysanthemums and gladioli.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of pure silk candlelight satin peau fashioned with a re-embroidered imported alencon lace bodice with scalloped neckline, bracelet length sleeves embellished with tiny seed pearls, a shirred fold empire midriff, and impressed pleated skirt that extended into a chapel train.

Her two-tiered fingertip veil of French illusion was attached to a crown of double-scalloped matching lace. She carried an heirloom linen and lace handkerchief of her great grandmother. Her bouquet, sprays of cymbidium orchids outlined with tulle, topped a white Bible.

Mrs. Harry H. Albritton of Dillon, S. C., sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Jane Russell of Jamestown was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert T. McGaughey of Newark, N. J., and Miss Claude Leitner of Columbia, S. C., a cousin of the bridegroom. Misses Laurie Fiser, Farmville, and Allison Duke of Glen Rock, N. J., cousins of the bride, were junior bridesmaids.

They wore street-length dresses of American Beauty red velvet with satin trim fashioned with sweetheart neckline, slant cap sleeves, and satin fold midriff falling into flying panels. Their headresses were matching hats of velvet leaves with circular veil. They carried cascade bouquets of white chrysanthemums tied with white satin ribbon.

Mr. McCracken was his son's best man. Groomsmen were Mr. Harry H. Albritton of Dillon, S. C., brother of the bride; Col. Charles M. Duke of Glen Rock, N. J.; Lt. Douglas N. Campbell of Savannah, Ga.; Lt. J. Frank Campbell of Dunn, and Lt. H. H. Renaldi of Quinton, Va. They wore the dress blue uniforms of their selected service.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Albritton chose a gown of romance blue silk chiffon with a softly draped bodice and elbow sleeves. A matching bandeau framed her face. Her corsage was of pink cymbidium orchids.

The mother of the bridegroom wore an imported sheath of peacock blue peau de sole fashioned with a draped midriff and V-neckline. Matching accessories and a white camellia corsage completed her attire.

The arch of four sabers was formed in the church sanctuary at the close of the marriage rites and again on the steps outside the church.

Reception
Following the wedding, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception at the Moore House.

Decorations of pink floral arrangements formed a background for the receiving line, while elsewhere in the house the traditional bridal motif was used. Candles from silver candelabra lighted the bride's table, which was covered with a white embroidered and lace cloth with miniature bridal bouquets at the corners and on the cake.

Receiving at the door were Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Fiser, Col. and Mrs. Charles M. Duke introduced guests to the receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. Albritton, Mr. and Mrs. McCracken, the wedding party, Mrs. Nannie Moyer Humphrey and Mr. William Humphrey. Mr. and Mrs. Cooper Grizard directed guests to the dining room where cake was served by Mrs. Lillian Turnage, and Mrs. Frances Harper poured punch. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lang of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lang of Kinston, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Albritton, Mr. and Mrs. James Y. Monk, and Mr. and Mrs. Sanders Albritton assisted in receiving.

The bride is a graduate of Marjorie Webster Junior College of Washington, D. C., with an Associate of Arts Degree in Speech, and is a member of the Delta Psi Omega National Honorary Division January 1.

matic fraternity. She was a sponsor at the 1953 North Carolina Governor's Inaugural Ball and made her debut at the 1956 Debutante Ball in Raleigh. Prior to her marriage she was employed as Director of Continuity for TV Station WITN, Washington, N. C.

Lt. McCracken attended Clemson College and was graduated from the United States Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., in June of this year when he was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the U. S. Army. In 1953 he served as president of the South Carolina Future Farmers of America, and in his last year at West Point, he was Supply Officer on the Brigade Staff and chairman of the 1959 Honor Committee.

For travel, the bride wore a light blue wool suit with matching accessories and orchids lifted from her Bible. After a southern wedding trip the couple will be at home at Fort Campbell, Ky., where Lt. McCracken will assume his duties with the 101st Airborne Division January 1.

See 'Revolution' In Harvesting, Curing Of Tobacco

By REESE HART
RALEIGH (AP)—A new method of harvesting and curing flue-cured leaf may revolutionize tobacco production.
 North Carolina State College agricultural engineers and scientists are so enthusiastic about the results of experiments that they predict their methods will be commercialized within five years.
 In the new process, tobacco is harvested mechanically and bulk cured without being touched by hand. Dr. Kenneth Keller, in charge of tobacco research at State College, said the method "has the potential for reducing harvesting labor needs by 90 per cent."
 Prof. G. W. Giles, head of the State College Department of Agricultural Engineering, said, "to this system is a must in reducing labor costs. With it we ought to be able to produce tobacco at considerably less than the present cost."

 "The aim of our research program," he added, "is to reduce the cost of production while maintaining an acceptable quality of tobacco. We feel that we are well on the road to accomplishing this."
 Giles said the new process allows tobacco producers to meet competition brought on by foreign production, the cost-price squeeze and synthetic products.
 Two State College agricultural engineers, Dr. William E. Splinter and Charles Suggs, devised a machine that harvests one row of tobacco at a time, and can be operated by two men. It has a potential capacity for harvesting five or six acres a day.
 The harvester has two sets of metal fingers, one for each side of the plant, which pluck the leaves from the stalk. These fingers can be raised or lowered, Splinter pointed out, to remove the desired number of leaves from the stalk.

 The plucked leaves are dropped on a conveyor belt, which carries them to a platform and from there to a bin by another conveyor. Splinter said no attempt is made to keep the stem butts even as they are placed in the bin. However, the leaves are all placed in the same plane.
 In the curing process, the bins are set on hot air chambers, where air from a furnace is forced through them.
 Splinter said a bug still to be ironed out is the lossage of leaves. Some leaves are knocked from the plants by the harvester guides. Other leaves fall from the conveyors. He feels confident, however, this problem can be solved. The lossage is estimated at 10 per cent or less.

 As in mechanical harvesting, the bulk curing process was designed to greatly reduce the labor bottleneck in flue-cured production. In the new process, tobacco is placed in frames by the armfuls, thus eliminating the costly need to string leaves on sticks.
 The tobacco is placed evenly in a form, then clamped between two members of a rack. One man can load what amounts to 12 sticks of tobacco into a rack in less than five minutes. After the racks are set in the barn, air from a furnace is forced through the leaves.
 F. J. Hassler, in charge of tobacco curing research at State College, explained that the air enters the bottom of the barn and moves through the leaves. It then flows through an air duct and back to the furnace. Fresh air can be provided when needed.
 Curing time is about the same as for the conventional curing process, but the uniform air distribution is an improvement over the present method.
 A special barn is needed for bulk curing. However, State College officials say the cost of the barn is not expected to be much more than the present type barns.
 If the bulk curing method is accepted, the kind of barns that dot North Carolina's farmland would likely become a thing of the past over the years.
 Hassler said some tobacco companies like the bulk curing tobacco-co, but others are dubious because the leaf has a pressed appearance instead of the crinkled effect as in the present curing method.

 However, tests have indicated that intact bulk cured leaf compares favorably with normally cured leaf, Hassler said.
 He added bulk curing will be evaluated on at least two North Carolina farms next year in co-operation with growers.
 State college officials pointed out that bulk curing offers several advantages over the present curing process:

 —Closer control of curing and drying conditions produces a more uniform leaf; L—Ease of unloading tobacco from racks speeds up preparation of marketing;
 —Barn size is much smaller than the conventional type—bulk tobacco requires about one-sixth the space needed by conventional-ly-strung tobacco;
 —Fire hazard is reduced considerably since the heating plant is separated from the curing compartment; and —Fuel efficiencies compare well with conventional curing.
 Splinter said the mechanical harvester would not be feasible for farms with fewer than about 10 acres because of the cost of buying a harvester. But small producers with a labor problem could reduce their production costs by using the bulk curing method.

 Splinter said two commercial companies are interested in marketing the mechanical harvester. Declared Giles: "Tobacco mechanization has lagged behind other crops. Bulk curing represents a positive approach to reducing the present high cost of producing tobacco while maintaining a quality product."

New Withholding Tax To Soon Face N.C. Employees

By REESE HART
RALEIGH (AP) Beginning Jan. 1 employees in North Carolina will find their pay checks a little smaller.
 The reason? The new state income tax withholding plan goes into effect then.
 Employers will collect the tax and turn it over to the state every four months. Revenue Commissioner James S. Currie said it will cost employers $750,000 a year to collect the tax. The employers will not be compensated.
 Despite this, Currie said, the "revenue department's field men have run into excellent employer attitude" in distributing withholding exemption certificates (form RC-4) to employers.
 The employers must give each employee one of the blue certificates. The employee must put his name and address on it, plus his social security number and marital status. This will be used in computing exemptions.
 The new withholding plan was described by Currie as a "modernization of tax collecting that fits into our modern living." He added, "The state is going out of the credit business in income tax and is going on a pay-as-you-go basis. It amounts to that."
 Currie said an estimated 32,000 persons who have escaped payment of state income taxes will be brought under the new plan.
 It is estimated that about three million dollars more will be collected each year because of better enforcement and better compliance," he declared.

 The state anticipates making about $500,000 in rebates to taxpayers each year under the withholding system, Currie explained.
 The plan, enacted by the 1959 Legislature, was strongly backed by Gov. Hodges' administration as a means of balancing the budget. The system is expected to provide the state a windfall of 27½ million dollars the first year of operation. This will come about because taxpayers will be paying two years' taxes in one year. Taxpayers will have to file before April 15 their income returns for 1959.
 When 1961 rolls around, state taxpayers will have to file with the State Revenue Department before April 15 a withholding form showing the amount of their yearly salary for 1960 and the amount of state tax withheld. If they are due a refund, this will be made by the state. If the State is due any money, this must be paid.
 The exemptions under the withholding system are the same as heretofore. A married man living with his wife gets a $2,000 exemption plus $300 for each dependent, excepting the spouse. A $1,000 exemption is allowed for a woman, either married or single, and $1,000 for a single man. A blind employee is allowed an additional $1,000 exemption.
 A blue booklet supplies to employers outlines the new withholding system. The tax rate is the same as it has been. This is 3 per cent of the first $2,000 or fraction thereof of taxable income, 4 per cent on the next $2,000 or fraction thereof, 5 per cent on the next $2,000, 6 per cent on the next and 7 per cent on the remainder.

If you salary is $80 a week and you are married and have three dependents, your weekly withholding tax will be 69 cents. For a single man making $80 a week, $1.76 will be withheld.
 Under the plan, employers will be required to file returns and payments of taxes every four months.
 Self-employed persons, such as doctors and lawyers, will continue to file their returns as in the past. They must also file an estimate of their expected income. This must be done before April 15. Currie said payments under this category must be made every three months.
 Farm laborers and domestic help, such as maids and butlers, are exempt from the withholding, but must file an estimate of their income and send the tax in every three months if they owe anything.

Caudle To File Another Appeal

ST. LOUIS (AP)—T. Lamar Caudle of Wadesboro, N.C., former chief of the Justice Department's Tax Division who is facing a two-year prison sentence for conspiracy, is expected to file a new appeal to the Supreme Court today or Thursday.
 Matthew J. Connelly, White House appointments secretary to former President Truman, filed an appeal Tuesday. He also faces a two-year term in the same case.
 The U.S. Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals recently denied the men a rehearing on a motion for a new trial. Thursday is the deadline for appealing to the Supreme Court for a stay of mandate on the Circuit Court's ruling.
 The two men twice have lost out on bids for a new trial. An earlier appeals to the Supreme Court for a review of their case was turned down.
 They were convicted in 1956 of trying to block prosecution of Irvin Sachs, St. Louis shoe wholesaler and convicted tax evader. Connelly and Caudle were sentenced to two years in prison and fined $2,500 for conspiring to defraud the government.
 Caudle's attorney, Arthur Anderson, said Tuesday he would ask the Supreme Court today or Thursday for a stay of mandate.

ACL Is Leaving Big Memento

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—The Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, which is moving its headquarters to Jacksonville, Fla., next summer, is leaving behind a memento worth $1½ million dollars.
 ACL President W. Thomas Rice said Tuesday the railroad's four general office buildings and the land on which they stand will be given to the city of Wilmington.
 "It is the strong desire of both the company and the employees that there be left behind a memento to show our appreciation for the harmonious relationship which has existed between the railroad and the city for so many years," Rice said.
 There are three 3-story buildings, and one 6-story structure, all of brick. The oldest was built about 60 years ago, and the newest was built in the 1940s.
 About 1,000 employees and their families will make the move to Jacksonville. The line has had its headquarters here since 1840. Its predecessor was the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad.
 Rice said the move to Jacksonville was based "on business logic and dictated by many economic factors as being in the best interest of the railroad."

Residents Were Pelted By Pelts

SAN MARINO, Calif. (AP)—Residents were pelted by pelts Tuesday.
 Officer Martin Boyle said he heard of it raining cats and dogs, but never Persian lamb and muskrat pelts.
 The furs, packaged in sacks, fell in a three-block area. There was no identification on them. Police were unable to estimate their worth.
 Some residents reported seeing a plane circling the area when the furry flurry started. But no one is sure where the pelts came from.

Find Fragments Of An Old Crash

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Burned fragments of a military plane which crashed about 15 years ago provided meager clues for an Air Force salvage team trying to identify the wreckage.
 The salvage crew dug the fragments out of its grave in a swamp 20 miles east of here Tuesday. In the cockpit were the remains of the unnamed pilot who went down with the plane.
 H. A. Brock, executive officer in charge of the Tallahassee chapter of the Civil Air Patrol, said the plane had blue markings but it was not determined whether it was Air Force or Navy.
 J. D. Roberson, Tallahassee sawmill operator, found the crater while on a hunting trip Sunday.

Farmers Plan Cut Pig Crop

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers plan a sharp reduction of 11 per cent in the 1960 crop of pigs, influenced apparently by a big drop in prices this year.
 The Agriculture Department reported today a survey shows that a crop of 52,000,000 head is in prospect compared with 58,607,000 produced last spring.
 The reduction will be reflected in marketings for slaughter—and in prices—during the late summer, fall and early winter of 1960.

'Enlist Now, Report Later' Plan Is Pushed By The Marine Corps

The Marine Corps has shifted the new 120 day delay program into high gear, according to Sergeant Smith.
 Sgt. Smith said the 120 day program permits young men to join now, and have up to four months to wait before reporting for active duty and recruit training. The enlistee can even select the date he wants to leave for active duty.
 By enlisting in advance, a man has time to get his personal affairs in order, and he already knows that he has been accepted for enlistment.
 It can also mean more money and better promotions because a young man who enlists under this program will accrue service time from the date of enlistment.

 Though the enlistee may be finishing high school, or staying at home working, his service time is still mounting up. Draft exemption is another feature of this program.
 This program will be available to high school seniors beginning Feb. 10 and thereafter, depending on their graduation dates. Other qualified persons are eligible now.
 More information on the Marine's 120 day delay plan can be obtained by visiting Sgt. Smith at the County Court House in Greenville on Tuesday or by writing him in care of the P. O. Building in Wilson.

Overall Advances Are Apparent

How much is North Carolina's year-to-year industrial growth helping to boost the economy of the state?

Many officials are able to cite various means of computing the benefits North Carolina is receiving year after year by its growing economy, but without special effort at least a portion of the picture is revealed in the monthly report of Labor Commissioner Frank Crane on non-farm employment in the state.

The report for the month of November, issued this week, shows that 16,300 more Tar Heels were engaged in manufacturing operations in the state this year than was the case for the same month of a year ago. While business conditions in North Carolina and throughout the nation may have some bearing on this increase, in a large measure the higher figures are attributable to the fact that there are more manufacturing plants and more manufacturing jobs available in the state this year than there were a year ago.

Assuming that the average weekly wage for those engaged in manufacturing in North Carolina last additional 16,300 manufacturing employees represented an additional $1,026,000 in weekly wages. That means somewhere between $4,500,000 and $5,000,000 in additional monthly payrolls for the state because of the increase in the number of people engaged in manufacturing operations.

Such an increase over last year has an important impact upon the overall economic conditions in the state. These new jobs and new payrolls in turn increase the number of other jobs and the amount of other payrolls in other phases of business throughout the state. This is evidenced by the fact that total employment in the state during the month of November this year was some 33,800 over the same month a year ago.

Bit by bit as North Carolina increases the number of jobs available to its people, it is enhancing the economic development of the state as a whole and likewise creating a situation where further development is assured. If the next 12 months the state realizes progress in manufacturing operations equivalent to that made in the past year, there will be in November 1960 some 33,000 more Tar Heels engaged in manufacturing than they were in November 1958. If total employment in the state enjoys a corresponding growth, there will be a total of more than 65,000 more gainfully employed people in the state in November 1960 than there were in November 1958.

For the individual community, it is sometimes difficult to see the direct results of efforts to promote economic development. But when community efforts are considered as an important part of the overall development of the state, the results may be more easily recognized. Furthermore, economic development in the state as a whole brings its benefits—either directly or indirectly—to every community of the state.

Long-Range Results In Presidential Tour

President Eisenhower's 11-nation tour which ended with his return to the United States last night will be recorded as one of the great triumphs of his administration and possibly the greatest single stroke for enhancing the international friendship of the United States while he has been in the White House.

How much real progress was made between the President and the heads of the 11-nations he visited toward resolving basic international problems may remain a moot point for months and perhaps years. The fact that the President created an enthusiastic response from the citizens of the nations he visited has not been in doubt since his first stop on the 19-day journey. As a good will gesture on the part of the United States, its chief executive and its people, there are few single incidents in recent times which can compare with the globe-trotting jaunt of President Eisenhower.

Literally millions of people in the 11 nations turned out to show their respect for the President and their gratitude for his personal visit. He was accorded almost everywhere he visited one of the most spectacular public responses ever received by a visiting dignitary.

The opinions and attitudes of many of these millions of world citizens have been influenced by President Eisenhower's visit. Perhaps more than any other single factor it helped to overcome the widespread opinion that the United States is a powerful, wealthy and aloof nation which is more inclined to send its dollars than its high officials into troubled areas of the world in an effort to alleviate pressing problems of other peoples. The President's tour, we believe, helped to impress upon the world the genuine concern of the United States for peace and for the welfare of the citizens of other nations.

One such tour by the President of this nation cannot overcome all the problems the United States faces in its relationship with other nations, but there can be no doubt that the journey of President Eisenhower is one which will stand the United States and the free world in good stead in the months and years ahead.

Traditions Are Being Discarded

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The year 1960 should become known as the time of the big switch—when foreign affairs became a little more human and a little less snarled in what is called diplomacy.

Western leaders—brushing aside the ancient tradition of letting foreign ministers dicker and deal and dicker on details—have proposed not one but a series of summit conferences with the Soviet Union.

Even if they don't accomplish much, or anything, at least they will be brief and direct and save the world from that gruesome frustration of the long-drawn-out hairsplitting, minutiae—dancing of the ministers.

Many forces—both men and events—have brought the West to this startling development in world affairs.

The wartime meetings of President Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill occasionally with Joseph Stalin—broke for a while the old reliance on foreign ministers to find the answers.

The tradition took over again after 1945 when the cold war set in and the sullen, inscrutable Stalin poked for weak spots in the West; pressure on Greece and Turkey, Communist seizure of Czechoslovakia, the Berlin blockade, Korea.

The years between 1945 and Stalin's death on March 5, 1953, were hardly a time for talking peace. He seemed to want no peace. The foreign ministers never solved a major East-West problem.

Ministers began to seem out of date in this new age when the new planes could take the top men anywhere in a few hours and there was less and less reason for them to stay at home. It took them a long time to realize it.

Shortly after he took office, on Feb. 25, 1953, President Eisenhower was asked at a news conference whether he would be willing to meet with Stalin. He said he would, if he thought it could do good.

Nevertheless his underlying feeling about meeting the Soviets then and for years afterwards, was extremely cautious, and hedged around with requirements that preliminary conditions be met. This was also the attitude of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Eisenhower's chief foreign policy adviser.

On March 2, 1953, Churchill said he would be willing to meet with Stalin and Eisenhower. Three days later Stalin died. A transformation began. His successors began talking of peace. But perhaps more impressive than that was the fact that the Soviet Union began to show astonishing power—with the hydrogen bomb, missiles, and Sputniks.

The nuclear development in the United States and the U.S.S.R.—with all that it meant in devastation if war came—began to make all others look as simple as the Fourth of July. It increased the reason why the West and the Soviet Union should try to find some settlements.

While Churchill was willing to go to the summit without assurances it would produce agreements and even with an agenda—prior agreement by both sides on what should be discussed—Dulles took a different line. So did Eisenhower.

They wanted the Soviets to show by deeds a meeting would be worthwhile. Time passed. The war in Korea ended, at least in armistice. The U.S.S.R. let Austria have freedom. The Soviets kept talking peace.

On May 11, 1953, two months after Stalin's death, Churchill called for a summit conference. This government was cool, laid down its condition of deeds, not words. Time passed and with it enough talk on this subject to fill a book.

Finally, on March 20, 1955 Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.), dead but then chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, suggested it was time for a summit conference. This was a big nudge to Eisenhower.

Soon the United States, Britain and France proposed a summit meeting to the Soviet Union. It was held in July 1955. Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev, and later Khrushchev by himself, repeatedly called for the West on Berlin.

He argued: Letting foreign ministers meet is a waste of time; only the heavyweights can settle anything. British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan visited Khrushchev early this year, came away convinced a series of summit meetings is needed.

Eisenhower didn't buy until Khrushchev visited him in September. Now Eisenhower goes along on the series, too, without an agenda or prior conditions.

Library Has It For You

It may be news to some, or an old story to others; but Sheppard Memorial Library has an extra service available to local groups, organizations and clubs. In addition to books and recordings, the library also has a wide assortment of films to be loaned out.

You may have seen occasional listings of new and available motion picture films in the paper, and for one reason or another it didn't immediately impress you as something you could use. The writer looked into it. . . not so much with the idea of borrowing some film but to see what they had to offer.

It's really something! Not only does the library lend out film (both in black and white and in color, and sound), but they also loan out a screen and a projector if the borrowers don't have such a necessary item. And where the projector goes, a projectionist goes too. His services are likewise free of charge.

Again, the film-lending plan isn't open to individual borrowers; but to clubs or similar groups. Librarian Elizabeth Copeland tells me they haven't gotten around to really promoting the film sideline very much, but "it's been growing up like Topsy."

She showed me a catalogue of available film. I didn't attempt to count them, but we guessed there was between 400 and 500 movies on a wide variety of topics, to be had for the asking. There were films on child study and development, the family, mental hygiene, health and medicine, religious films, church studies, teen-age social problems, the fascinating subject of "the world around us."

Films of interest to business and industry groups were there on salesmanship, the economic system, employee programs, group leadership and discussion techniques.

Garden clubbers would be happy with a number of subjects provided; and there were films on science, travel, history, safety . . . you name it.

While a number of films are kept on hand at the library, with a few days' advance notice they can send to the central office at Chapel Hill for any subject specifically requested.

How is it a library in a small city can provide this kind of good thing?

Miss Copeland tells me the libraries have pooled their resources from a state appropriation, and it follows that with the passage of time their supply of material is going to keep growing.

These movies are selected by the librarians at "preview" sessions held four times each year. They are for adults.

As I said, a number of people are aware of all this. One club was to have a showing of an automobile safety film on the evening of the day I was asking questions. At the same time I suspect a number of people didn't know about the service or at least its extent.

Now They Know.

LET'S GET CIVILIZED

There are some historians who believe that the reason why Christ's birthday is celebrated the latter part of December is because this season was the old Saturnalia among the Romans, and Christians with their desire to improve public morals replaced the violent, drunken customs of the Saturnalia with the beautiful customs of the Nativity.

But there is plenty of Saturnalia—conduct even today. More liquor is drunk between the night before Christmas and the night before New Years than at any other period of the same length throughout the year. One of the alarming things is that splendid, upper-middle class people whose homes are a model of correctness throughout the year think nothing of setting up the bar and encouraging whoopee during the Christmas and New Year season.

It is also well for us to remember that it is not the thoroughly drunk person who gets into trouble and gets other people into trouble but more often the person who has had just a few drinks. The drunken driver is soon taken off the road. It is the drinking driver—the man who has had a few beers or cocktails—who causes most of the fatal accidents. Boys and girls who have taken a few drinks are the ones most likely to fall into sexual misbehavior.

There is plenty of the Saturnalia spirit in modern society. Let's grow up. Let's get civilized.

Social Security Fight Coming

By ELMER ROESSNER

Nineteen—sixty may be the year of the big battle over Social Security. The issue will be: Should Social Security continue as is, or should it be broadened?

Broadening it will be another step toward socialized medicine, another step toward complete socialism.

Because 1960 will be an election year, and because more benefits seem politically popular, the chances are that a stride will be taken toward socialism. The groundswell has been laid this year. Liberal Congressmen, labor and others have been clamoring for the addition of medical and hospitalization benefits for those over 65.

Sen. Estes Kefauver and his Congressional committee have planted poonies in this fertile ground. They created the impression that the large pharmaceutical houses have been taking outrageously high profits. POSSIBLE CONSEQUENCES

The automatic public reaction to this might be, "Let the government take over the big drug companies!" From there it's only a waltz to, "Let the government take over medicine!"

At the Kefauver hearings and elsewhere, the emphasis has been on need for cheaper drugs for the aging, which means those on Social Security.

Out of this there is likely to be a broad plan for incorporating health and medical benefits into Social Security.

At the same time, bills are pending to extend Social Security to persons not now covered. There will undoubtedly be plans to increase present Social Security payments, perhaps tying payments into the cost of living.

They are taxed, but collect half-value dollars when they retire, due to inflation.

ANOTHER PRESSURE

More than half the nation's 15,000 union-management health and welfare funds show deficits, due to rising medical costs. These funds cover more than 18,000,000 workers. Several of these smaller funds have merged to keep solvent.

Any sharp downturn in business, or any new rise in medical costs, might make these funds incapable of meeting their liabilities. This situation would surely generate pressure for more assumption of health and welfare costs by the government, especially through Social Security.

Still another pressure is the rising number of voters in the older ages. Senior citizens are now in command of political power that is overtaking that of the farm bloc. Senior voters may be able to influence Congress greatly. They tend to form tighter organizations than young whippersnappers, who may be off in the Army, off in college, are little concerned about Social Security.

All this adds up to the likelihood that, despite opposition, Social Security will be broadened in 1960 and that the economic trend will be toward socialized medicine and socialism.

AUT SALES RISE

DESPITE STEEL STRIKE

November retail sales showed a gain over November, 1958, heartening those who expect a new record at retail this December. Commerce Department's preliminary total for last month was $17,902,000,000, compared with $17,039,000,000 a year earlier.

Despite the cutback in auto production because of the steel strike, the automotive group showed a gain, from $2,756,000,000 in November 1958, to $2,890,000,000 in November 1959.

Navy Overhaul Jobs Criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy overhauls ships being transferred to foreign allies until they are in better condition than those in the U.S. Fleet itself, the General Accounting Office said today.

GAO, Congress' financial overseer of operations in the executive branch, said the Navy has overcharged the mutual security program for some of the material going into foreign aid. It's pretty much a matter of bookkeeping, all within the government, but GAO said refunds from the Navy were in order.

The Navy contested the GAO criticism, which was contained in a report to Congress.

GAO cited repair bills of $590,000 to $635,000 for LST's going into military foreign aid. The last overhaul of the same ships while they were part of the U.S. Fleet, it said, cost from $149,000 to $172,000. It gave no dates.

The Navy said, however, the comparison was not accurate because it was hampered by shortage of maintenance funds while it still held title to the ships.

It cited several reasons for doing an especially thorough job on ships going abroad. These included the increased age of the ships, the probability that they would be operating at greater distances from yards and parts depots and would not be overhauled as often, and a desire to keep the receiving country from feeling that it was getting inferior or worn-out material.

Additionally, the Navy said, Navy said, labor costs rose about 50 per cent between the times of the overhauls compared.

GAO said the Navy had charged standard prices for various items which should have been discounted because they were obsolete or surplus. Such discounting, the agency contended, is required by law. The Navy challenged this interpretation, although it said it has revised its procedures in some respects.

The Navy reply contended it charged appropriate prices for items delivered in first-class condition and entirely usable militarily, even though the United States may have substituted other items in its own current inventory.

Buried Alive, He 'Really Prayed'

This is what Robert French, 14, said after he was pulled from a cave where he had been buried alive for seven minutes Tuesday.

Many Mistakes For Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Film history in the past decade is littered with mistakes that could have been fatal to another industry.

Some of the mistakes were unavoidable, thrust upon policy makers fighting for the industry's life. Others were made out of ego or ignorance.

Using the benefit of hindsight and 15 years of watching the movie world turn from boom to near-bust, I would cite these as the seven cardinal sins:

1. Firing contract players. When panic set in, major studios dropped their big contract lists. They figured it would be cheaper to buy actors by the picture instead of paying weekly salaries. But they didn't realize a few stars would become powerful enough to dictate their demands.

2. Abdicating production control. By slicing their overhead of contract creators, the studios put themselves at the mercy of the independents.

3. Failure to develop new talent. A few stars became all-powerful because studios wouldn't nurture new ones. Just as important, the hard-driving studio bosses refused to groom successors.

4. Lack of attention to quality. Producers and stars seem more interested in making deals than good pictures. Without the discipline of studio bosses, they too often turned out sloppy work.

Both Murdered Before Being Burned In Shop

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The charred bodies of a dry cleaning shop operator and his employee were found Tuesday in an apartment. Police said both men apparently were murdered before their bodies were drenched with kerosene and set afire.

The victims were Vernon (Red) Elgin, 39, and Ernest (Slim) Steinert, 55.

Elgin operated the business and lived above it. Acquaintances said it was common knowledge in the neighborhood that he frequently carried $200 or more in cash. The bodies were found by real estate agent Charles Petty in Steinert's apartment adjoining the cleaning shop. The men had been dead about 36 hours.

Police Sgt. John Walsh said an empty kerosene can was found in the apartment. A bullet hole was found in a window of the dingy apartment and the spent slug was found embedded in a board outside.

The American citizen dominates the marketplace as he does the polling place, and his decision is final.

Plant Closed By Poultry 'Scare'

CONCORD, N.C. (AP) — The manager of a poultry plant here says the plant has closed down because of a recent government announcement that a cancer-producing hormone (stilbestrol) was used to fatten some poultry.

Harlee Barbee, manager of Priebe & Sons, Inc., says the plant, which employed 180 persons, closed last week.

He blamed the closing on the announcement early this month by Arthur Flemming, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. The announcement said the hormone, which has been used in other states to fatten chickens, is known to cause cancer in animals and could be dangerous to human beings.

North Carolina, however, prohibits the use of the hormone on poultry.

Barbee says that prior to the announcement, the plant was processing about 140,000 head of poultry a week.

"Immediately after the announcement, the orders were nil," he said Tuesday.

Poultry growers across the state also have said the government announcement hurt the poultry industry. The poultry industry in North Carolina ranks second only to tobacco. North Carolina is the only state that prohibits the use of stilbestrol on poultry.

Trying To Trace Threat Against Actor's Bride

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The FBI is trying to trace a letter in which the writer threatened to shoot or disfigure the bride of movie actor Victor Mature.

Mrs. Mature, the former Adrienne Joy Urwick, 25, daughter of a London physician, Tuesday said the letter was received by Mature from a woman in Chicago. It was signed "Mrs. Violet Mature."

Mrs. Mature said at her home at suburban Rancho Santa Fe that the woman threatened to come to the home Christmas Day to carry out her threat.

Asst. U.S. Atty. George W. Kell said he had advised the FBI to try to locate the Chicago woman. He said she should be examined by a psychiatrist.

Mrs. Mature said the woman has been writing to Mature for two years.

Mature, 54, and his wife were married at Tijuana, Mexico, Dec. 12 following an earlier marriage at Capri, Italy, Sept. 27.

asks to be with his family because of Christmas, his request is granted. The star, which can't be washed off, is invisible except under ultra-violet light.

From now until Christmas, every defendant holds his hand under Magistrate Kolodny's lamp. If a star is there, he gets 90 days.

Tuesday was called off by Federal Mediation Director Joseph F. Finnegan after Steelworkers Union President David J. McDonald stayed away from the talks. A union spokesman said McDonald was expected to attend today.

R. Conrad Cooper, top industry negotiator, told newsmen his side did not intend to raise the "last offer" it made to steel company employees a month ago.

Finnegan avoided any direct criticism of the union president in cancelling the afternoon session Tuesday.

But the mediation director said he saw no point in going ahead without McDonald and Arthur J. Goldberg, the union's chief counsel. Finnegan added "This is not my strike. I don't have people out on strike."

Representing the union were Vice President Howard Hague and Secretary-Treasurer I. W. Abel.

A union spokesman said McDonald and Goldberg were concentrating on two key upcoming events: the separate company talks scheduled to start Sunday and the resumption Monday of the hearing before President Eisenhower's fact-finding panel.

It was obvious from statements of union officials they were placing their hopes on splitting the industry in the company-by-company talks.

Cooper discounted this strategy. He said industry already had conducted such talks five times this year, and was willing to do it again since the union insisted, but that he saw no chance the Sunday meetings would be any more productive than the others.

It appeared, on the other hand, the companies were putting their emphasis on the vote on their last offer which must be held under the Taft-Hartley Act in January. They issued a formal statement Tuesday night calling this offer

The panel will report the terms to the President. The National Labor Relations Board then will conduct a vote of the 500,000 Steelworkers on its acceptance or rejection, unless a settlement is reached before then.

Abel said the union was conducting an advance post card poll of all its members to find how they stand on the offer. He gave no results.

The companies estimate their offer provides gains amounting to about 30 cents an hour per employee over three years; this counts both wage and fringe benefits. The union says it is 22 to 24 cents. The workers averaged $3.11 an hour before they went on strike.

Marley was dead to begin with . . .
... or so the story began. And Dickens reminds us each year of the real meaning of Christmas in its finest sense.

Scrooge loved to accumulate (as who doesn't!) but it took a ghostly visitation to beat it through his thick old head that man has a common destiny.

Scrooge finally came to understand that Tiny Tim . . . and all men, for that matter, were his brothers. He learned, at long last, that making money was only one part of life, that making friends and sharing blessings were greater pleasures.

We like to make money, too! We now have 7113 accounts who have helped us to do it. But of course that is not the whole story. These accounts are not just numbers . . . they represent people, people with problems, people we see and serve day after day.

This realization confirms the lesson we have learned . . . that our destiny is interwoven with that of all the people we serve, and with all who live in our community . . . which is why we often say in our advertising: when you do business with us, we are not doing you a favor, you are doing us one.

And so we wish for our friends and associates all the joys of Christmas. May the New Year bring you success and happiness, may it bring progress to our state, and peace throughout the world.

Cincinnati And Robertson Still Hold Cage Spotlight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati's No. 1 rated Bearcats and their "Big O", Oscar Robertson, continue to be the scourge of the college basketball courts.

The powerful Ohioans, called by some the greatest college cage team ever assembled, faced their biggest test of the young season Tuesday night and came through with their sixth straight victory.

The victim was previously undefeated Bradley. The Braves, ranked fifth nationally, gave it a good try. Trailing only 38-35 at the half, Bradley trimmed Cincinnati's lead to a point, 44-43. But the Bearcats surged back with nine straight points and were never threatened again as they registered an 86-71 triumph.

As expected, Robertson was the big gun. He hit with 42 points to match his season's scoring average. The high-scoring All-America didn't really get going until the second half. Held to 18 points in the first half, Oscar stormed the basket for 24 markers after intermission. Bobby Joe Mason led Bradley with 21 points.

Other teams in The Associated Press top ten fared well. Ohio State's third-ranked Buckeyes rebounded from Monday night loss to Utah with a 91-79 triumph over Brigham Young. St. Louis, ranked seventh, whipped Kansas 66-59. Eighth-ranked Georgia Tech, topped from the unbeaten list by SMU Monday, edged out Texas Tech 63-60 for its seventh victory in eight starts. Ninth-ranked Indiana defeated a stubborn Butler team 91-85 in the opening round of the doubleheader played at the Butler Fieldhouse in Indianapolis.

In other major games, Kentucky won from Temple, 97-92. Marquette turned back Stanford 63-50. Santa Clara beat Connecticut 54-47. Fordham drubbed Pittsburgh 80-68. Oklahoma City whipped TCU 74-63. Iowa conquered Loyola of New Orleans 68-60. Dayton flattened St. Mary's of Texas 79-53 and Mississippi won in overtime from Tennessee Tech by the low score of 37-36.

Bob Nordmann scored 20 points to lead St. Louis to its seventh victory in nine starts. The 6-10, 270-pound center was held without a field goal for nearly 10 minutes as Kansas, trailing 29-21 at halftime, tied the score 42-42. Then Nordmann stuffed in two field goals within one minute and the Fillikins opened a six-point bulge as they handed the Jayhawks their third loss in eight games.

Indiana's Hoosiers roared to their fifth victory in six starts despite a 36-point performance by Ken Pennington of Butler. Huge Walt Bellamy and Frank Radovich had 45 points between them for the winners. Notre Dame's victory over Purdue was highlighted by 31-point performances by Mike Garney of the Irish and Terry Dischinger of the Boilermakers. Notre Dame meets Indiana in the final game tonight.

Temple overcame two Kentucky leads—one of 11 points and one of 15—but an uninterrupted 14-point spurt by the Wildcats gave them a 68-55 second-half lead which they protected to the end. Kentucky's Bill Lickert scored 27 points but lost scoring honors to Temple's Bill Kennedy, who tallied 29. It was Kentucky's fifth victory in eight games.

All-Stars Prep For Coming Tilt

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — With only three days of drill behind them, the North and South All Star football squads were beginning to look like teams. They continued preparation today for their Shrine game at the Orange Bowl Saturday night.

Both Dale Hall of Army, in charge of the North squad, and Wade Walker of Mississippi State, coaching the Southerners, continued to emphasize passing in their drills Tuesday.

"We'll have to pass a lot," Hall said. "We can't match the South's runners."

Walker has a different reason for going to the air. He has two classy throwers in little Fran Curci of Miami and tall Jack Cummings of North Carolina.

Cotton Bowl Is All Sold Out

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Texas-Syracuse Cotton Bowl football game is a complete sellout. The big Dallas stadium seats 75,504 fans. Secretary Howard Grubbs of the Cotton Bowl Assn. said the University of Texas sold 17,000 tickets and Syracuse University 6,500. The public brought 30,000 and bondholders 20,000. The rest of the tickets will go to bonds.

Elliott Can Look For Long Stay

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Pete Elliott has a one-year contract as football coach at Illinois but the former Michigan star who has coached at Nebraska and California can look forward to a long tenure.

Elliott will be Illinois' third coach in 47 years. During that time the university has had a half dozen presidents.

The late Bob Zuppke—painter, wit and upset master—held the reins from 1913 through 1941. Ray Eliot did the coaching from 1942 through last season.

Zuppke, a great coach, in his first two decades, failed to win a Big Ten championship following the departure of Red Grange. In fact, from 1930 to the end of his coaching days Zup never came close to a title except for a third-place finish in 1934.

Elliott had an 81-74-11 mark in 18 seasons, which included two championships, one tie for the title and two Rose Bowl victories.

Like Zuppke, Elliott could bring his boys up for that one big upset victory just when disaster appeared on the horizon.

Pete Elliott, 33, a native of near-by Bloomington, Ill., inherits a team which finished with a 5-3-1 record and was regarded one of the strongest in the conference when the season ended.

Ray Elliott, who becomes assistant athletic director by choice, said "He'll have veterans at some positions and some others may be weak."

Probably the most interesting factor concerning Pete's appointment as Illinois coach is that he and Michigan's Bump Elliott make up the first brother head-coaching act in the Big Ten.

Pete, now the youngest coach in the Big Ten—Bump is 34—does not come to Illinois with any "boy wonder" tag.

In four years as a head coach in top college jobs, he has an unimpressive 14-27 record. His 1956 Nebraska team was 4-6. In 1957 he was 1-9 at California.

The following season he compiled a 7-3 record only to get crushed by Iowa 38-12 in the Rose Bowl. Last season his team finished with a 2-8 mark.

Buffalo Appears In Line For New Loop

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Buffalo appears to be in line for the eighth spot in Branch Rickey's proposed Continental League, observers who talked to the baseball man here today believe.

Rickey and Bill Shea, the original organizer of the Continental, granted Dallas-Fort Worth the seventh franchise Tuesday.

The development came after a three-hour meeting between J. W. Bateson, owner of the American Assn. Dallas Ranger franchise; Amos G. Carter Jr., president of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram; Rickey and Shea.

New York, Toronto, Atlanta, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Denver, and Houston, Tex., previously had been granted franchises in the embryo league.

"Now that we have the heartland portion of the league formed with the four great midland centers of Minneapolis-St. Paul, Denver, Fort Worth-Dallas and Houston," Shea announced, "We are ready to finish the eastern wing."

It was obvious that Buffalo is ahead in the race for the eighth franchise.

Rickey, Shea and representatives from five of the other six cities in the league Monday held a meeting at Arlington, Tex.—Midway between Dallas and Fort Worth—with 200 Dallas-Fort Worth leaders.

After that meeting, Rickey, Shea and Allen Russell, owner of the Austin franchise in the Texas League, started holding conversations in Fort Worth with smaller groups. Bateson and Carter became the key men in the problem that had to be settled before Jan. 10.

"Things took an explosive turn," Rickey said. "The thing came to a head quicker than any of us expected."

Shea said Russell, who arranged the meetings with Rickey and Shea as a Continental League liaison man, is not in the franchise picture.

"We have dealt only with Mr. Carter and Mr. Bateson," Shea said. "They have, in effect, accepted responsibility of meeting financial requirements for granting a franchise."

Carter and Bateson did not disclose the amount of money for which they are committed. But it is known that the standard price of a franchise is $150,000 with $1,500,000 available and another million dollars in reserve.

Billy Cannon Made Offer By Houston

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — All-America Billy Cannon of Louisiana State said today he had received a "very nice offer" from Houston of the proposed American Football League but denied he had discussed it with a television station newsmen.

Cannon, college football's most honored player, made the denial in a seven-way telephone hook-up with wire service newsmen and reporters from Baton Rouge and New Orleans newspapers. LSU arranged the interview.

Cannon declined to say what the offer included. He said he has not decided whether he will sign with Houston or the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League. He will make his decision and sign a contract after he returns from Hawaii, where he will play in the Hula Bowl Jan. 10, he said.

At the moment, Cannon said, he is concentrating on preparing for LSU's Jan. 1 Sugar Bowl date with Mississippi.

In Los Angeles, Gen. Manager Pete Rozelle of the Rams said he was surprised. He said Cannon, the No. 1 choice in the professional draft, had stated unequivocally he would play for Los Angeles.

Cannon said he had received the latest Houston offer Tuesday from K.S. (Bud) Adams, owner of the Houston franchise. He said he had not talked with anyone from the Rams since.

Rozelle made his comment after Mel Leavitt, director of special programming for WDSU-TV in New Orleans, said Cannon told him Tuesday he had received such a tempting offer from Houston he might not be able to resist it.

According to Leavitt, Cannon said the contract would be a three-year personal pact. Leavitt said he got the impression that it was a tremendous offer.

Cohn Plans Talks With Johansson

NEW YORK (AP) — A group headed by Roy Cohn, a New York lawyer, plans to leave for Sweden Sunday to confer with heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson for a proposed title fight with ex-champion Floyd Patterson.

The group, which hopes to get a license to promote the fight in New York, Tuesday acquired 100 per cent control of the contract for the Johansson-Patterson rematch. Johansson won the title from Patterson last June on a three-round knockout.

The new group, which had previously bought the 66 2-3 per cent interest of Rosenzohn Enterprises held by Vincent Vellella, completed the transaction by purchasing the remaining 33 1/2 per cent from Bill Rosenzohn.

No sum was mentioned but Rosenzohn said he had received a "substantial payment." He had been asking $75,000 for his interest.

Humbert (Jack) Pugazy, 72-year-old promoter of the 1920's, will head the promotion of the 10-man syndicate. He will be accompanied on the trip to Sweden by Cohn, former lightweight champion Tommy Loughran and Bill Pugazy, Jack's nephew.

Pitt Falters Due To Bribe Scandal

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pitt basketball team, rocked by a reported bribe attempt in shades of the black cage scandals of nine years ago, may be feeling the ill effects.

Only Monday Dick Falenski, who had been averaging 17 points a game for Pitt, and John Fridley, the team's top rebounder, reported they had been offered a bribe.

Tuesday night the jittery Panthers suffered an 80-68 defeat at Fordham with Falenski scoring just 7 points, and Fridley 9.

A hearing for Dr. Edward H. Sebastian, 43, a nearby McKees Rocks dentist, has been postponed from today to next Tuesday because Fridley and Falenski were playing in New York.

The players had stated that Dr. Sebastian, a former dental instructor at Pitt, offered them a guarantee to enter dental school and 50 per cent of winnings if they would keep Pitt's scores within bet-winning range.

"I was nervous during the afternoon, but when the game started I was OK," said Fridley after the defeat at Fordham. Falenski said only, "I wasn't nervous."

Pitt coach Bob Timmons explained it this way: "They waited two days before they reported it (the alleged bribe). You know how kids are. They want to be accepted by the bunch. That's more important to them than anything."

"I told them not to worry about him (Sebastian), that he wasn't worried about them. They seemed to be relieved by it all and the way it was handled."

Perhaps Fridley and Falenski weren't worried. The Panthers have a road jinx. Their three losses have been on the road, their four victories at home.

Dr. Sebastian has denied the bribery charges.

McChesney Will Succeed Baugh

BBILENE, Tex. (AP) — Howard McChesney, 36, Tuesday night was named head football coach of Hardin-Simmons University to succeed Sammy Baugh.

McChesney has been Baugh's assistant for two years. His new contract is for one year. The salary was not divulged. Baugh resigned recently to become head coach of the New York Titans of the new American Football League.

Giants Dominate All-Pro Team; Brown Leads Field writers today.

The explosive fullback of the Cleveland Browns, who led the league in rushing for the third successive season, was named to the first team on all 37 ballots.

Ray Berry, Baltimore's brilliant end, and Sam Huff, New York's redoubtable linebacker, missed out on one ballot.

The Colts and Giants, who meet for the NFL championship in Baltimore Sunday, captured 12 of the 22 positions on the offensive and defensive squads. Baltimore landed seven berths and New York five. Cleveland, San Francisco and the Chicago Bears took two each and Los Angeles, Green Bay, Detroit and Pittsburgh one apiece.

Brown's backfield mates included Johnny Unitas, the peerless

Drazenovich To Hang Up Shoes

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — College football standouts from both sides of the Mason-Dixon Line girded for more rough drills today before easing off for the annual Blue-Gray game Saturday. Head North Coach Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue and Vanderbilt's Art Guepe, chief mentor for the South, scheduled the fifth day of jarring, two-hour practice sessions for their 24-man squads.

For the second straight day, passing got most attention at Tuesday's sessions. Clemson's quarterback Harvey White performed ably as the chief Rebel passer. Carroll Dale, Virginia Tech end, looked good on the receiving end.

The starting quarterback slot may go to White, although Charlie Misteard of Texas A&M is another first-rate South passer.

passer; Lennie Moore, his Baltimore teammate, and Frank Gifford, the Giants' superlative triple threat.

Del Shofner of Los Angeles, who vied with Berry for league passing honors, won the other end berth on the offensive squad. Jim Parker, the 270-pound Colt tackle, headed a devastating line that included Rosey Brown of the Giants in the other tackle position. Green Bay's Jim Ringo at center, and guards Stan Jones of the Bears and Jim Ray Smith of the Browns.

The defensive line with Huff as the spearhead included Gino Marchetti of Baltimore and Andy Robustelli of New York at ends. Gene (Big Daddy) Lipscomb, Baltimore's man mountain, and San Francisco's Leo Nomellini at tackles. Bill George of the Bears at middle guard and linebacker Joe Schmidt of the Lions.

The defensive backfield consisted of Jimmy Patton of the Giants, Andy Nelson of the Colts, Jack Butler of the Steelers and Abe Woodson of the 49ers.

The second team included such outstanding performers as Alan Ameche and Art Spinney of the Colts; Ray Wietecha, Chuck Conerly and Rosey Grier of the Giants; Mike McCormack and Walt Michaels of the Browns; Bobby Layne, Dean Derby, John Reger and Jimmy Orr of the Steelers; Tommy McDonald and Tom Brookshier of the Eagles; Forest Gregg and Paul Hornung of the Packers; Frank Fuller of the Cards; Les Richter and Lou Michaels of the Rams; Yale Lary of the Lions; and Bruce Bosley and J. D. Smith of the 49ers.

The starting man on the first team is Lipscomb, the only member of the squad who didn't go to college. He joined the Colts after graduating from Miller High in Detroit. At 6-6 and 288, he is the bulwark of the Colts' defensive line. Nomellini, Lipscomb's counterpart, is a mere 255. The former Minnesota great, 32 is the veteran of the squad. Shofner, Brown and Woodson, 23, are the youngest. Patton and Nelson, at 180 pounds, are the lightest.

CHAPTER 13
I asked Rutledge what time Elliott Jameson and Johnny Calhoun were coming to help with income tax forms.

Rutledge said, oh, Johnny wasn't coming. I said but Johnny always had, and I didn't see how they could do the law forms, without Johnny.

Rutledge said he and Johnny had already worked all those out at the office.

I said, "Oh, but I didn't really see at all. Johnny Calhoun and Rutledge had grown up together just like brothers, with Johnny living right on the next plantation, and they had always done everything together. Johnny always brought Julia along for the income tax sessions, and we visited until the men were through."

I said, "Maybe if I call Julia—"

Rutledge said, "Why?" again. I said, "Because."

Rutledge looked so frustrated that I hoped he didn't have to examine many witnesses like me in court as I went to open the door for Elliott Jameson, our farm manager.

I thought how different it was going to be this year without Johnny's gay jokes and loud laughter. Elliott wore his usual dejected look, and began at once on how the best he could figure the government would have everything by morning.

Along about ten I brought in apple pie and coffee and we ate and drank in a strained sort of way. Nobody said, like Johnny, how after pie like that he could understand how Rutledge married a hag like me. Elliott Jameson cleared his throat loudly twice and said that was real nice, and I threw him a grateful look.

We were through all the forms by eleven, so we had more coffee and I turned on the late show to fill in the silences. Elliott left at eleven-thirty, and Rutledge said he was beat.

He looked it, too, but I could tell it was more than just income tax forms that made him look so sort of stricken.

Wednesday was our daughter Tilghman's day at Dr. Wingate's, and I knew she was planning to ask about having the baby by 'appointment.' She had explained it carefully to all of us and added that the method was highly approved by all leading obstetricians.

By the time we arrived at Dr. Wingate's office I had whipped myself up to such a fine fury that I was determined to "speak to" him personally about this monstrous thing.

Tilghman was not long this time, and she came out flushed with anger. "He is just an old-fashioned quack!" she said hotly.

"You mean he wouldn't do it?" I said.

Tilghman said, "Yankees!" the same my Mother Colhoun said. "Carpetbagger!" Tilghman went on to say she should have had Dr. Brunson in the first place, as everybody knew he had all his babies by appointment so as not to interfere with his golf game.

My opinion of Yankees went up like a space rocket, and I decided to tell Mother Colhoun right away.

Tilghman said she would show Dr. Wingate, and I thought Dr. Wingate might know babies, but he didn't know Tilghman when she made up her mind.

I had called a final committee meeting for the Garden Tours at the museum so I dropped off Tilghman at home and picked up Mother Colhoun, as she always headed up the garden entries. I told Mother Colhoun about Tilghman and Dr. Wingate and she threw in Dr. Brunson and his golf same, as his mother is president of the Ellison Capers Chapter of the U. D. C.

Mother Colhoun was impressed, I could tell, but all she said was, oh well, those stories about Dr. Brunson were probably exaggerated.

I said they probably were. We had decided on the current weekend for the Garden Tours—late this year because of the hall damage—and agreed to set up a booth on the grounds of the public library where we hoped to trap unsuspecting Yankees midway between New York and Florida with free soft drinks and colored posters.

We never charge for the Garden Tours, as our sole purpose was to acquaint Yankees and other foreigners with the culture and beauty of our land. Mother Colhoun's job was to decide which gardens would be included in the Tours—a tricky maneuver at best—as feeling sometimes ran dangerously high.

I got home just in time to help Old Beck put dinner on the table before Rutledge came in at twelve. He looked tired, and I said had it been a hard day in town?

Rutledge said no worse than usual, and added bitterly that I wouldn't understand, just sitting around home all morning the way I did.

We had to pass up prayer meeting that night, as Rutledge had been invited to outline, step by step, Sherman's march through South Carolina at the monthly dinner meeting of the Florence County Historical Society. Rutledge is president and naturally feels his responsibility.

Besides, he has a letter written by a Confederate soldier to his grandmother when she was a young girl and he was in camp near Cheraw that begins: "The great shells are bursting around me while I write, and this must account for the want of the usual ease and the freedom apparent in my writing, for I must dodge a little sometimes. The truth is we can whip General Sherman's army, and he knows it."

Rutledge is very proud of this letter and shows it at the least provocation.

Tilghman was not feeling well, so I decided not to go along with Rutledge. Besides, I had already heard Rutledge's speech, as he had been practicing it out loud in the shower for days.

The telephone rang just as Rutledge was getting off in the station wagon, and Maggie answered. When she did not come back I went to see what was keeping her so long.

Maggie was just standing there looking at the telephone, and when she saw me she went sort of gray and turned away.

I said who was it? Maggie said, "Nobody—at least, nobody that matters—just one of the—and her breath caught—"kids," she said, and went upstairs.

I went up to rub Tilghman's back, and she wanted to know where everybody was.

I said Rutledge was marching through South Carolina with Sherman, and Maggie was making like a counterespionage on the telephone, and Brantley was in the living room with a term paper.

Tilghman said Maggie was afraid of something, wasn't she? I said of course not, how could she be?

Tilghman said oh, she didn't mean physically afraid like you are of gunmen and bombs, but maybe she was falling something at school?

I said that was probably it, but I knew that it wasn't because Maggie didn't fail things at school.

Rutledge came in about nine-thirty in a fine glow. The Historical Society, on the strength of his talk, had passed a resolution making Sherman's march through South Carolina a technical victory for the Confederates. (To Be Continued Tomorrow)

Asking Sum For Cranberry Loss

BOSTON (AP) — The National Cranberry Institute will seek federal government payments of 15 to 20 million dollars for damages the industry says it sustained through a Food and Drug Administration announcement last month.

The Food and Drug Administration's pre-Thanksgiving announcement that some berries were thought to have been contaminated by a weed killer caused heavy damage in the marketing of the 1959 crop, and may cause losses in the 1960 crop, Institute President Orrin Colley said Monday.

"Cranberry growers are asking the government for indemnification," Colley said, "because of the unprecedented action by Welfare Secretary Arthur S. Flemming who deviated from accepted policies of his Food and Drug division and publicly singled out the cranberry industry at the peak of its marketing season without giving the industry opportunity to defend itself against the charges."

He made the announcement after a seven-hour meeting of industry representatives from Massachusetts, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Washington and Oregon.

More than 100 million people in the United States are indirect owners of corporate stock through savings in insurance companies, pension funds and the like.

We have examined the balance sheet of the Pitt County Memorial Hospital, Inc. of Greenville, North Carolina as of September 30, 1959. With the exception that we did not verify accounts receivable nor inventories our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion the assets (with the exception of accounts receivable and inventories which we did not verify) and liabilities are fairly presented by the above balance sheet of the Pitt Memorial Hospital, Inc. at September 30, 1959 in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year. We are unable to express an opinion on the balance sheet as a whole as we did not verify accounts receivables and inventories.

Shimmy Dancer, Gilda Gray, Dies Suddenly

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gilda Gray, the shimmy dancer of the 1920s who gave America more shakes than bootleg whiskey, is dead.

She died of an apparent heart attack Tuesday while visiting a friend. The petite blonde always had been coy about her age. Estimates ranged from 59 to 68.

Her death closed another chapter of the dizzy decade which acclaimed F. Scott Fitzgerald, jazz, near beer and raccoon coats. She was a top star in the golden era of vaudeville which produced Al Jolson, Will Rogers, Gallagher and Shean, and Sophie Tucker.

Years later she said of her fabulous heyday: "They might roar more today, honey, but we had more fun."

The girl with the wiggly hips, who thrilled tired businessmen with a wicked Charleston atop a speakeasy table, faded into obscurity with the depression. She reputedly made millions but was living in a furnished room at the end.

As recently as five years ago, she talked of a comeback: "It will be a big act, honey, something big." But it never materialized.

She was born in Krakow, Poland. Her real name was Maryanna Michalska. Her parents were killed during a revolution and she fled to America with her foster parents.

She sang and danced in Milwaukee saloons at 14. She could hardly speak English but her slithering dances needed no translation.

She said the word "shimmy" was coined when: "I shook my chemise like this and tried to pronounce the word, but a customer thought I was saying 'shimmy' and that's how it all began."

She graduated from speakeasies to George White's Scandals, Shubert musicals, Ziegfeld's Follies and the silent screen.

She married and divorced three husbands—John Gorecki, a Wisconsin politician; Gaillard Boag, a New York night club owner, and Hector Briceno, a Venezuelan diplomat. She had a son, Martin, by Gorecki.

She filed a million-dollar suit against Rita Hayworth, alleging theft of her dance in the 1949 film "Gilda." The suit was dropped in 1954.

Despite ill health in recent years, she retained her trim figure. Two years ago, she expressed pleasure that skirts were becoming shorter.

"Perhaps men will again be eyeing pretty girls' legs," she said hopefully.

Fishing Access Rules Changed

RALEIGH—Users of State-owned fishing access areas are no longer required to have a fishing license in order to launch their boats, according to a new Wildlife Resources Commission regulation.

Previously persons using the areas were required to have either a valid North Carolina fishing license access area use permit. The Wildlife Commission maintains nearly fifty areas where sportsmen may launch their boats without paying a fee. The facilities are located on popular lakes and rivers, and are financed with fishing license funds.

Wildlife Protection Division Chief Bob Hazel stated that very few prosecutions had been made under the regulation, but stressed that a number of violations have occurred in improper parking of cars and boat trailers using the facilities.

Hazel said, "We will continue to prosecute persons who inconvenience others by leaving cars and trailers parked on launching ramps. Adequate parking has been provided at every area, and there is no reason why one careless boatman should deny others the use of the ramps."

"We want to point out that throwing trash and garbage on the grounds is also a violation," Hazel continued. "Although we try to keep the grounds free from litter, we will appreciate the cooperation of the public in order that the time of commission personnel can be spent on more important and more productive work."

Pitt ABC Officers Help Raid Big Still In Craven

Pitt and Craven County ABC officers and Federal ATU agents had the Christmas spirit in more than one way last night as they destroyed a large still in Craven County.

The still, according to J. M. Ward, Pitt enforcement chief, was located on the South bank of the Neuse River in the Pitchkettle section of Craven County.

Ward said the officers waited on the North bank of the river and could hear him at the still, which was in operation, at work. When the two, identified as Grover White, 24, and Wright Chapman, 31, both Negroes of Route 1, Dover, finished the night's run, they started back to the North side of the river and fell victims of the long arm of the law which awaited them. Their boat and motor, and 39 gallons of Christmas "spirits" were confiscated by the lawmen.
