Money is requested to begin work on three new Polaris missile submarines and to buy some equipment for three more now in the planning stage.

Fast-Growing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fastest-growing item in the budget is the interest the government must pay on the national debt.

Interest will cost the taxpayers more than $1 1/2 billion dollars in the fiscal year starting July 1, or nearly one-eighth of all budget outlays.

In making that estimate in his budget message today, President Eisenhower is counting on a much lower rise of interest rates than in the past year.

When he sent the fiscal 1960 budget to Congress a year ago, he calculated interest at $8,096,000,000. He boosted that today to $9,385,000,000 because of tight money and rising interest rates.

The cost will go to $9,585,000,000 in fiscal 1961, he told Congress, even though the debt itself will be reduced by about 4 1/2 billion dollars in the course of the year to a total of 280 billion.

Bids Accepted On Post Office At Grimesland

GRIMESLAND — The Post Office Department has accepted the bid of C.R. Arnold of Grimesland to provide post office quarters at Grimesland.

The quarters are located on Pitt St., approximately 400 feet east of the present quarters. There are 800 square feet of interior space, 30 square feet of platform space, plus 1,200 square feet of parking area.

The estimated date of occupancy is Feb. 1 and the monthly rental agreement is for a fixed term of three years.

Announcement of the new Grimesland Post office came from Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield. It was contained in a release from the office of W.L. Crawford, regional operations director in Atlanta.

Bonnie M. Godley is postmaster of the Grimesland post office.

In connection with this announcement, the release pointed out that the Grimesland post office is one of 189 such projects in North Carolina which are now receiving attention either from the Postal Inspector-in-Charge or the Regional Real Estate Manager or are awaiting departmental action.

It was explained that this does not mean 189 new buildings, since many of the projects call for enlargement, remodeling, lease renewals, driveway paving, and the installation of new equipment.

However, it was said that all of these improvements are in line with the Postmaster General's modernization program.

Voice Of America Plans Include 400 Steel Towers

A total of 93 antennas, hoisted aloft by 400 steel towers, and a total power of nearly five million watts will be included in the Voice of America's Consolidated East Coast Facilities Project scheduled for construction soon in a triangle surrounding Greenville.

Scheduled for completion in 1962, the elaborate project that will give the Greenville area one of the largest and most powerful radio transmitting installations in the world should be under construction soon after some 4,000 acres of commercial pine forest have been cleared.

The U. S. Information Agency has called for bids to be submitted by next Friday for clearing two-thirds of the total 6,000 acres to be used in the project.

The new facilities, including two transmitter stations and a receiving center, will be built on three sites located approximately 18 miles apart in a triangular arrangement around Pitt's County Seat. This arrangement will permit transmitting and receiving operations to take place without mutual interference.

The two giant transmitter buildings will be situated on 2,700-acre sites while the receiving station will be built on a 650-acre tract. All three will be linked by microwave circuits and telegraph lines, and in turn will be linked with broadcasting studios in Washington, D. C., by means of long-distance telephone lines.

The outstanding feature in each of the two transmitting buildings, both essentially the same, will be the giant transmitter bays. These will each house three 500-kilowatt transmitters, three of 250 kilowatts, three of 50 kilowatts, and two of five kilowatts. The transmitter buildings will also contain offices, storage areas, workshops, and garages.

The elaborate receiving center will contain short-wave radio receivers, tape recorders, and teletype equipment. It will serve as headquarters for the facilities, and will relay broadcasts to the two transmitting stations. There they will be channeled to the antennas by a complex electronic switching setup.

The 400 antenna towers, requiring some 3,000 tons of steel and more than 1,500 guy anchorages, will be arranged in a horseshoe-shaped pattern. They will range from 50 to 375 feet in height and each will be beamed at a specific target area.

Specially designed to withstand hurricane winds up to 120 miles per hour, the towers will be of the rhombic, curtain, and log periodic types. All metal in the three buildings will be electrically bonded together and grounded to protect against unusually high RF (radio frequency) current that will result from the five million watts of power.

The Austin Company, an engineering and construction firm of Cleveland, Ohio, designed the mammoth radio facility in its Cleveland offices. Smith Electronics, Inc., also of Cleveland, is responsible for the electronic design of the transmitting and receiving stations.

Inauguration Of ECC President Set For May 11

Inauguration of Dr. Leo W. Jenkins as President of East Carolina College will take place Friday, May 13. Ceremonies will be held in the College Stadium at 11 a.m. President William Friday of the Greater University of North Carolina has accepted an invitation to make the inaugural address.

Plans for the event have begun by a committee headed by Mrs. James L. Fleming and Dr. James L. White of the college faculty. Twenty-seven other members include representatives of the faculty and administrative staff; the student body; the alumni; the public schools; and the press, radio, and television.

The inaugural program will extend over the week of May 9-13. Included among events will be athletic contests, programs of music and drama, and various social affairs.

Further announcement of plans for the inauguration will be announced at an early date. Dr. Jenkins was elected to the presidency of East Carolina College by the Board of Trustees January 5 and assumed his new duties at once. He succeeds Dr. John D. Messick, president of the college from 1947 to January 6, 1960, who resigned to accept a position in Washington, D.C., as assistant director of the National Committee on Special Education and Rehabilitation. Dr. Jenkins joined the college staff as dean in 1947 and became vice president in charge of instruction in 1955.

READY FOR LAUNCH NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Six Newport based destroyers are scheduled to sail today to take part in the launching of the world's biggest cosmic ray research balloons.

Four Deep Space Shots Scheduled

WASHINGTON (AP)—The civilian space agency plans to launch four deep space probes and eight scientific satellites during the next fiscal year.

The plans were set forth today in President Eisenhower's budget message to Congress. It said the spending program of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration will be nearly doubled next year, to a new level of 600 million dollars.

To finance this and long-range projects of future years, Eisenhower asked new appropriations of 802 million. He proposed also a supplemental congressional reduction in the space program last year.

The launching of four probes toward the moon or the planets, along with the eight satellite ventures, is not a great advance in numbers from the current program. It is a rate NASA hopes to continue for the years ahead.

But the new satellites and probes will be more complex and will be designed to gather more advanced information.

"The areas receiving primary emphasis in 1961 are the manned space flight program — Project Mercury—and the development of very high thrust boosters... under the Saturn and related projects," Eisenhower said.

"In Project Mercury, if the preliminary tests and experiments continued to be successful, actual manned space flights may be attempted in 1961."

'Yank' Stewart Thwarted In Two Escape Tries

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—Charles (Yank) Stewart, 53, awaiting prosecution here on federal charges stemming from his escape from North Carolina's Ivy Bluff Prison, has been thwarted in at least two attempts to break out of the city jail.

Authorities said the latest attempt was discovered early Saturday when jailer Jasper Jones found the Wilmington, N.C., convict and three other prisoners sawing in their cell. Jones and detectives recovered five pieces of hacksaw blades in a mattress and elsewhere in the cell.

Police said the inmates were trying to saw a commode from the wall and gain access to a jail corridor.

Last Thursday a jailer found a commode lying in a passageway between cell tiers. This attempt was attributed to Stewart and two other Ivy Bluff escapees who since have been sent to prison in Atlanta.

Thousands Of Britons Join In Anti-Semitism Protest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS long column paraded silently to the West German Embassy, where a delegation delivered a letter describing the manifestation as a reflection of British public opinion "which holds anti-Semitism in abhorrence."

They got a sympathetic reception from the charge d'affaires, Dr. Joachim Ritter, who promised the Bonn government would crack down on hate mongers "until this evil is eradicated."

Rallies against anti-Semitism, with youth movements of various political parties taking part, also were held in several Italian cities. The biggest were in Turin and Florence, where hundreds paid tribute at memorials honoring the victims of fascism and nazism.

West Berlin police rounded up three right-wingers freed by a magistrate last Thursday when they were brought before him on charges of advocating anticonstitutional acts. The prosecutor's office got new arrest warrants from another court.

The three, officers of the German Union, were charged with supplying of a bust of Hitler and Nazi literature to a banned group calling itself the "National Youth of Germany." A 23-year-old student also surrendered when he learned police had a warrant for his arrest.

In New York City, two six-footers were charged Sunday with attacking a party of six Jews—including two women—in a diner. The melee broke out after the young men reportedly made anti-Semitic remarks. The two, Peter Askeland, 22, and Anthony Huskins, 27, said in court they would file counter charges of assault against the Jews.

Mass Diphtheria Innoculations

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP) — Health officials launched mass inoculations for an estimated 19,000 students and adults today after confirmation of Pocatello's first case of diphtheria—the 10th in eastern Idaho in less than three weeks. The outbreak brought a week-end warning that diphtheria germs may have been carried into six other states by people who attended a funeral in Soda Springs, Idaho, last week.

Traffic Traps In State Criticized

RALEIGH (AP)— Gov. Hodges told the State Board of Conservation and Development today the problem of "traffic traps" in North Carolina "is a disgrace and should be stopped."

"As long as we have the type of justice (justice of the peace) courts and inferior courts we now have," Hodges said, "you will have this thing."

He added that in 99 of 100 cases involving out of traffic or speed traps "you will find that the justice court is trying to make money."

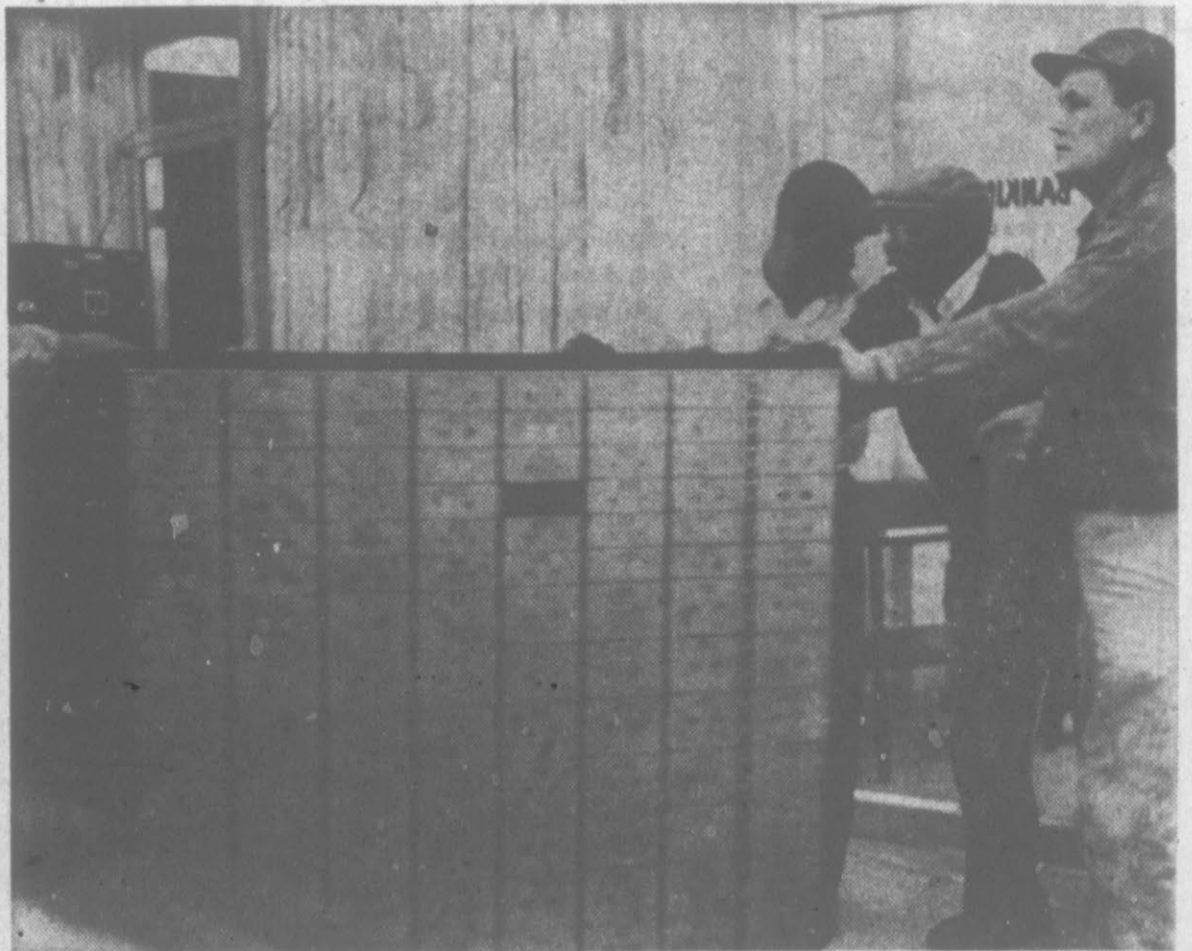

Hodges made his remarks at the annual mid-winter meeting of the board. Charles Parker, state advertising director, told the board that criticism arising from traffic traps is impairing North Carolina's travel industry.

Parker cited a recent letter to his office in which a Massachusetts woman complained strongly about being halted by an officer on U.S. 301.

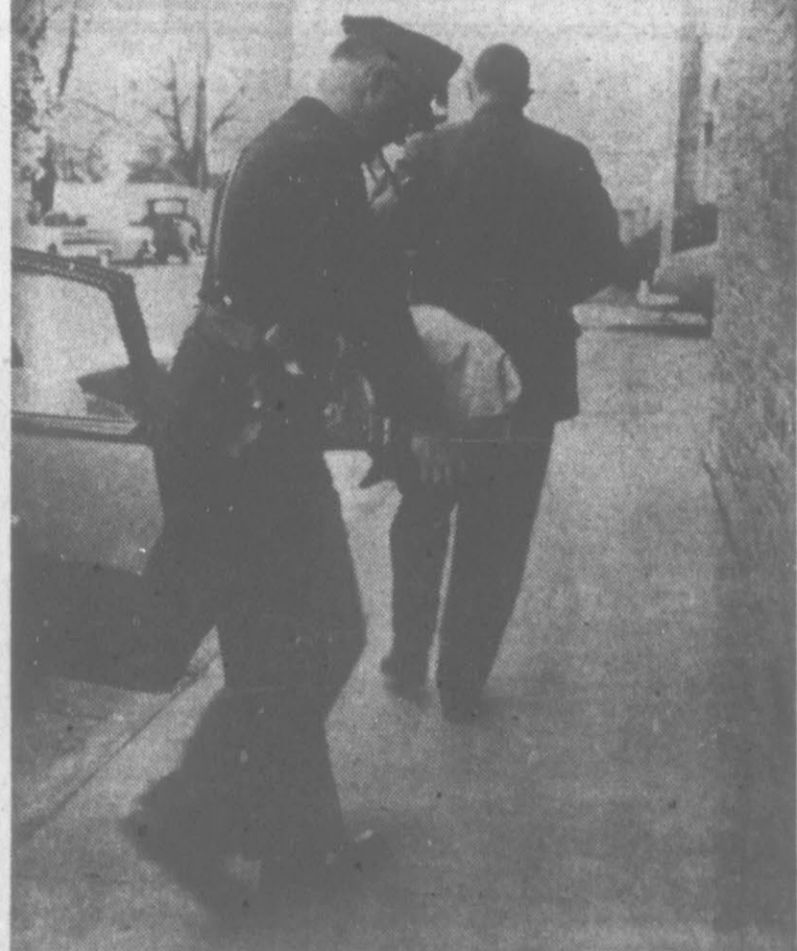

"It is obviously foolish," Parker told the board, "for us to spend money advertising, 'Welcome to North Carolina,' and then have the investment impaired by bad public relations on our highways."

Swim Suits Reduced To Minimum

TOP HITS . . . The woolknit Bikini and the form-fitting mallet are two of this season's most popular swim styles. The button-trimmed Bikini suit pictured has tiny camisole bra and brief shorts with elasticized legs, in black or hot colors. The knit mallet, in orange and taupe stripes, has deep V neckline frons and back, fits the figure like a second skin.

By DOROTHY ROE Associated Press Women's Editor Dangerous curves are ahead for the 1960 beach season. New swim suits often are reduced to bare minimums, with the two most popular styles the brief bikini and the figure-hugging woolknit mallet. Mermaids with perfect figures had the new trend, while the not-so-perfect resort to the more concealing dressmaker suits. The new suits are designed for serious swimming, with no unnecessary frills or furbelows. The popular knits fit like a second skin, with elasticized straps and legs insuring snug comfort. Bikinis come in varying degrees of brevity, some with adjustable bras and shorts to permit more or less coverage. Colorful cover-up beach shirts or jackets also are an aid to modesty when the wearer is out of the water. Many of the new mallets have deep-plunge backs. They come in stripes, jacquard patterns or solid colors. In addition to the always-popular black and white, there's a full range of high colors, such as flame red, hot orange, purple, yellow, poison green, turquoise, royal blue and shocking pink. These colors often are used in exotic combinations, such as pink and orange or purple and turquoise.

Romans Show No Daring Changes

By ALLYN MOSS FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — The Italian fashion spotlight shifted today to this central Italian city of art for five more days of showings of new spring and summer styles. Buyers and fashion writers moved north from Rome, where four days of showings concluded Saturday. The designers showing in Rome came up with beautiful clothing and stunning fabrics, but there were no daring changes to stimulate real interest. Most of the Roman couturiers left the female form pretty much alone. They focused on the waist and hips. They lengthened skirts. Fontana made news with colorful sarah silks from Liberty of London. She worked out bright color schemes for the British fabrics, and Liberty revived and modified floral prints the manufacturer used in the 1890s. Only 27-year-old Patrick de Barenzen sought to tamper with the prevailing silhouette. He pushed shoulders and sleeves backward. He de-emphasized the bust by building out the waist. The result was a slanting line. He also was one of the few Roman designers to keep skirts very short. The general impression among many buyers was that the Italian designers so far had shown little of the dynamism which captured foreign interest after the war. The buyers felt it was up to Florence to supply the punch.

Fountain Club Hears Humber

FOUNTAIN — "Our world is shrinking each day. Its people are coming closer together," Dr. Robert L. Humber told members of the Fountain Woman's Club when he spoke to them on World Peace. At a recent meeting, he spoke of the potentialities of North Carolina and mentioned the fact that our children and grandchildren may well be the leaders of tomorrow.

Mrs. Edwards Is Hostess

AYDEN—Mrs. Mac Edwards entertained at two tables of bridge for her club members recently at her home here. A double deck of bridge cards was won by Mrs. Wilbur Dunn, club high, while earnings were given to Mrs. Clarence Hart, runner-up. Low, a roll basket was won by Mrs. Chester Hart. A pin cushion was given to Mrs. Raymond Cox for floating prize. Tallies were passed by Miss Julia Mac Edwards. The hostess served a sweet course to the following: Mesdames Dunn, Hart, Cox, Hart, Bonnie McCormick, Harry Mumford, Preston Dunn and Lelise Stocks.

By MAIDRED MORRIS SERVE VITAMIN C FOODS — As a follow-up of the nutrition survey made in Mitchell County, showing the homemakers did not serve adequate amounts of vitamin C foods, a demonstration was presented on "Let's Serve Vitamin C Foods." Using canned tomatoes during the winter was emphasized and the homemakers were surprised that so many good vitamin C foods could be grown right at home. Mrs. Mary Margaret Deyton, home economics agent, stressed the importance of preparing and cooking vitamin C foods so the food value would not be lost through improper handling and cooking practices.

FURNITURE ARRANGEMENT — Is furniture arrangement a problem at your house? Do you have trouble with balance, traffic laws, furniture grouping, and family activity? Using miniature furniture, Mrs. Bobby English, home economics agent in McDowell County, showed her club women how to solve various furniture problems. To supplement the demonstration, a tour of a furniture showroom was made with emphasis on buymanship, new trends and new finishes. TAILORING WORKSHOP — Mrs. W. P. Pulley, clothing lead-

Pitt Medical Group Meets

The Pitt County Medical Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Frank Longino, Thursday. Co-hostesses were Mrs. F. P. Brooks, Mrs. S. M. Crisp and Mrs. Howard Gradis. A short business meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Earl Trevathan. Mrs. Gradis, district auxiliary president, gave a report of the district Medical Auxiliary Meeting recently held at the Washington Country Club, in Washington, N. C.

Committee chairman reported on work done and on future plans, at which time it was learned that a tribute of honor had been bestowed upon a member, Mrs. S. R. Bartlett. Because of her untiring efforts and help, from the time the group was first organized, the Future Nurses Club of Rose High School named their club "The Marion Bartlett Chapter in honor of their advisor.

Rev. Drake Guest Speaker

The Rev. John W. Drake, Rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, was guest speaker at the meeting of the American Home Department of the Greenville Woman's Club Friday afternoon. His subject was "Taking Inventory of Ourselves."

In taking inventory of ourselves, the Rev. Drake said the first requirement is to make it fearless—be honest and admit what we are, not just list good deeds we have done. It is magnificent therapy to confess publicly or declare your soul before human beings (which used to be a requirement of church membership), he said. Too often we present a certain face or pose to the world which may be a far cry from what we actually are. It is difficult to admit actuality, he continued.

The beauty of the New Year is that we can make a new start. "Search inwardly" said the Rev. Drake, and when we make a fearless, honest and sincere inventory, interpret it in the light of God and of eternal principles. This should be the heart of any resolution.

Our hopes for 1960 and for eternity are how we may stay in the sight of God, he said. If we see His will as all important and have learned the Christian virtue of humanity, we will be given our dreams and expectations. There is "no better resolution than this," Mr. Drake said. In the absence of the chairman of the department, Mrs. H. R. Rogers, vice-chairman Mrs. J. A. Piver took charge of the business meeting following the program.

Mrs. Piver thanked Mrs. M. W. Maxwell for the use of her home for the meeting, and the following women who were hostesses: Mrs. P. E. Wells, chairman, and Mesdames C. C. Hilton, Banks Cozart, A. A. Hines, C. M. Respass and J. C. Riddick. The chairman welcomed Mrs. Thelma Harris and Mrs. Beulah Staples as guests, and Mrs. Clara M. Schackell as a new member of this department.

Mrs. Ed Ricks, chairman of the County Home Committee, reported 28 gifts were taken to the County Home at Christmas. The Home Department Club voted to send a case of condensed milk to the County Health Office after Mrs. Ricks told of the need for milk for emergency use.

The date for the canasta and bridge party to be given by the Home Department has been set as February 18. Mrs. Wells, Garden Club chairman, said Garden Club calendars are still available, and that the meeting of the Greenville Garden Club will be at 3 pm, on Friday at the club-house.

N.C. Ballet Company Formed; Mrs. Humber Member Of Board

RALEIGH—The first board of the North Carolina Civic Ballet Company has been formed, with Philip C. Schinhan of Chapel Hill as the first president of the recently chartered, non-profit dance group. Members of the board are Mrs. Luther Hodges, the Governor's wife; Dr. John Caldwell, chancellor of State College; Edwin Gill, State treasurer; Mrs. Louis Sutton, James Poyner, E. N. Richards, Archie Lynch and John Lehman, all of Raleigh.

Miss Margaret Carmichael and Schinhan of Chapel Hill; Dr. Gordon Blackwell of Greensboro, chancellor of Woman's College; Mrs. Robert Lee Humber of Greenville; Mrs. Charles T. Wilkinson of Wake Forest; William Alex Rawls of Rocky Mount.

Additional board members will be named in early spring. The ballet company will present its first full length performance, the entire two acts of "The Nutcracker," on Saturday, Jan. 23, in Chapel Hill. The performance is sponsored by the Chapel Hill Music Clubs and will begin at 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall on the University of North Carolina campus.

Dancing members of the group are both professional and non-professionals. They were chosen for the Company in auditions held in the fall by the Auditions Committee headed by William C. Fields of Fayetteville, Pittman C. Corey of Atlanta, Ga. headed the selections jury.

Membership in the company is open to all qualified dancers residing in North Carolina. Auditions will be held again in the spring. At that time the three companies within the Company will be increased. "The formation of the North Carolina Civic Ballet Company has attracted national attention as the first dance group supported entirely by the people without the aid of a financial grant or institutional support," Schinhan said in announcing future plans of the group. "We hope with continued support from the people the Company can progress to the point of carrying ballet, presented by Tar Heel talent, to every section of our State."

Music Auditions Set Up For February And March

Auditions for national and state scholarships and awards in music are scheduled for February and March, according to Mrs. C. E. Jefferson of Chapel Hill, state president of the N. C. Federation of Music Clubs.

Membership closes February 1 in junior and student club. All applicants for any Federation scholarship or award must be a member of a local club or special member.

Mrs. Lib Bodkin, president of the Greenville Music Club, and Mrs. James Rodgers, junior counselor for the Northeastern District, will be glad to help local young people and those in the 19-county Northeastern District secure necessary information.

There is a scholarship, the Williamson Scholarship in Piano, available in the district, and Prof. George Perry, E.C.C. Music Department, district director, is anxious that there be many applicants this year for that scholarship. The Greenville Music Club also offers a scholarship program.

Red Banks H. D. Club Has Meeting

Twenty-two Red Banks Home Demonstration Club members, their husbands and guests met in the Eastern Pines Community Building for their club's January meeting.

A covered dish supper was served and coffee was served by Mrs. S. B. Tucker. Mr. E. H. Boyd gave the blessing. Guests, who were received by the president, Mrs. Karl Hardee, were Mr. and Mrs. Milton May, Mr. S. C. Winchester and Mrs. Stanley Braxton.

Mr. Winchester presented a program on "Money In Your Pockets." He stressed the importance of farmers making the most out of what they have. He said this could be done by better farm management.

Mrs. May presented a program on "How To Save." She demonstrated the different types of lunches that can be served. She showed how one could contain as much food value and yet be less expensive.

A recreational period followed. Mrs. R. B. Starling led the group in games.

LUNCH Team Salami with Eggs Salami Eggs Bread Tray Fruit Salad Beverage

SALAMI EGGS Ingredients: 6 eggs, 3 table-spoons water, salt, 1/2 pound semi-hard salami (sliced thin).

Method: Beat eggs, with water and a pinch of salt, until yolks and whites are combined. In a 10-inch skillet, lightly brown salami on both sides. There will probably be enough fat in skillet in which to cook eggs; if not, add a little butter. Four eggs over salami; cook gently and as edges set, draw toward center and tip pan so thin mixture can cook. Remove portions with wide spatula. Makes 3 servings.

Church Circles

FOUNTAIN — Circle I of the Fountain Presbyterian Church met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hardy Johnson. Mrs. W.R. Harris read a poem "The New Year." Mrs. Edwin Newton conducted the Bible Study "Christ, the Unifying Center — In Personal Experience," and Mrs. Carter Smith, chairman of Christian Education, gave current information on the Christian action work of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.

Following a brief business session, the meeting was closed with prayer. Cake and coffee were served to the eleven members present.

Louise Beasley The Louise Beasley Circle of the Fountain Baptist Church met Monday in the Social Room of the church, with Mrs. E.B. Beasley as hostess. Roll call showed 12 members and Mrs. Jack Speight, W.M.U. president, present.

The meeting was called to order by the circle chairman, Mrs. W.W. Walker, and the group sang "The Woman's Hymn." During the business session, Mrs. Speight asked for volunteers to help in the transportation problem for the youth organizations and urged each member who was not already doing so to subscribe to "Royal Service" magazine, which carries the regular programs of this organization as well as much other interesting information. It was noted that Mrs. Morris Rose has returned to Fountain.

Following the business session, Mrs. Sim Weisner, program chairman, assisted by Mrs. E.B. Beasley, presided at the meeting.

Mrs. E.G. Thompson, Mrs. J.W. Gay, and Mrs. Alan Parker gave a most interesting and informative program using as her topic: "Render Unto Caesar."

Members were strongly urged to censor the mail coming to their children and destroy any obscene or otherwise undesirable literature which might fall into the hands of our youth.

The meeting was adjourned and a social hour was held during which Mrs. Beasley served refreshments to members and the guest.

Semi-Centi Book Club Has Meeting

The Semi-Centi Book Club met Tuesday night with Mrs. C. B. Taff at her home on Forest Hill Circle.

Mrs. H. A. Hudson Jr., president, presided at the meeting.

Mrs. Taff gave a demonstration lesson in sewing. She illustrated the correct way of putting in zippers, pockets, button holes and other useful ideas that would help a person sew well.

After a desert course was served, book were exchanged and the meeting adjourned.

Dr. McNeil And Students Visit Bell 4-H Club

FOUNTAIN—Dr. Bessie McNeil and a class of 24 Home Economics students from East Carolina College were visitors at a regular meeting of the Bell Community 4-H Club held recently in the Fountain Community Building. Mrs. Helen Mohan, assistant Pitt County home agent, and Mr. R.T. King, assistant farm agent, were special guests. This was part of a plan whereby the class of Home Economics students have been observing various phases of extension work in Pitt County. The session was presided over by Eve Hobgood, president, who called the meeting to order. Following a short business session, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Albert Bell, adult leader, and Miss Lill Dilda, junior leader, who welcomed guests and presented a program emphasizing the health phase in all 4-H projects. Mrs. Bell urged members of the club to be alert and look for these health phases as they work on their projects. Miss Dilda explained "The 4-H Health Guide," which is a guide to the health project book, and urged members to turn in their completed record books on time. Using hand puppets, Mrs. Bell and Miss Dilda presented a skit designed to help interest 4-H Club members in health improvement. A question and answer period followed the demonstration, during which time the college students asked questions of the extension agents, the 4-H leaders and the club members. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Sim Weisner and Mrs. J.W. Gay, members of the local home demonstration club, who sponsor the 4-H club. Roll call showed 16 members and one visitor present, making a total of 50.

Book Club Has Musical Program

BEHEL—The first meeting in 1960 of the Round Table Book Club was held Tuesday afternoon, in the home of Mrs. S. C. Whitehurst. Mrs. W. R. Hunnicutt and Mrs. C. G. Garrenton presented the program on music. During the business session, 1959 books were distributed among members and books for this year were put into circulation. The committee on collecting clothing for Christmas boxes for needy families reported response was good. Mrs. Whitehurst, the hostess, introduced Mrs. Hunnicutt and Mrs. Garrenton, who gave a condensed history of music. Mrs. Garrenton, accompanied by Mrs. Hunnicutt at the piano, sang two selections: "The Sun O'er the Ganges" by Scarlotti and "Song of Ruth" by Gounod. At the refreshment hour, a salad course with pecan pie and hot coffee was served to members and invited guests.

Hodges May Yet Be Drawn In Fracas

Gov. Hodges' repeated assertions of neutrality in the forthcoming gubernatorial race adds weight to previous speculation by The Daily Reflector that the governor may find himself in the position of defending his administration against all comers in the next few months.

Last week Gov. Hodges repeated emphatically that he intends to maintain a neutral position in the gubernatorial race this year, but that he will feel free "to defend the policies of the administration during the last five years." With the statement the governor sought to spike rumors that events were moving toward an alliance between Hodges and John Larkins of Trenton, expected to be in the gubernatorial race.

It should be remembered that in the past Gov. Hodges has had his differences with all three of the major contenders for the office he will vacate next year. Terry Sanford of Fayetteville, a top man in the organization of the late governor and senator Kerr Scott, has never been on the list of Gov. Hodges favorite persons. Even though the campaign has not yet officially opened, there have been sufficient indications from the Sanford forces and Sanford himself to draw the conclusion that certain portions of the administration program in the past five years will be campaign issues.

Political differences between John Larkins and Gov. Hodges date back several years to the time when Gov. Hodges was successful in removing Larkins from the chairmanship of the Democratic organization in the state. The two men have been less than close political allies since that time.

In the case of the third major candidate, Addison Hewlett of Wilmington, Hewlett defeated for the House Speakership last year by Carl Venters of Jacksonville who was generally regarded as a Hodges' man. As speaker, Hewlett was not regarded as in the Hodges' camp during the session, and it is difficult to imagine his being taken under the wing of the administration during the coming campaign.

Although Gov. Hodges may wish to preserve his position of neutrality in the gubernatorial race, there can be little doubt that he will be drawn into the campaign... at least to defend his administration. While his defense of the administration may not place him in the position of endorsing a particular candidate, it is probable it will place him in the position of being more "against" one candidate than the other.

If all of the candidates make certain administration policies issues in the campaign, Gov. Hodges may ultimately have to resort to picking the "lesser of the evils" at least for indirect support by the forces at his command.

It must be remembered that as governor, he is still perhaps the most influential single person in the Democratic Party in North Carolina. A number of persons and factions at least will look to him for leadership and guidance during the campaign as has always been the case in gubernatorial campaigns in this state.

Govm't Also Owes More Than It Owns

Friday's Daily Reflector carried an Associated Press story reviewing the annual inventory report issued by the House Government Operations Committee which pointed out that every U. S. citizen, as a stockholder in the government, would own about $1,472 of the $264 billion in real and personal property owned by the government.

The figure is rather impressive. And the 398-page report reviews the millions of acres of land, public buildings, warehouses, typewriters, lighthouses, libraries, military equipment as well as some six and one-half billions in cash owned by the government.

While the listing is not complete, and while some of the book values shown probably are considerably below the actual value since all are based on purchase prices, government holdings of $1,472 per citizen represent a considerable sum of money.

There is another side of the coin, however, that should be considered before the collective citizenry decides to sell out the government holdings and take their $1,472 apiece.

The inventory of real and personal property of the federal government shows a value that is some $26 billions below the national debt that is owed by the government, and therefore is owed by its stockholders, the people. While the individual citizen may, so to speak, "own" $1,472 worth of government property, he also "owes" individually about $1,673 as his pro rata share of the national debt.

If the government sold its real and personal property on the basis of the official inventory, each citizen, instead of getting $1,472, would have to cough up an additional $201 out of his own pocket to pay off the national debt after all government holdings had been sold and the proceeds applied against that debt.

On the basis of the official inventory, considering the real and personal property of Uncle Sam, and his debts, the government has a dollars and cents "net worth" of minus $201 per citizen.

In addition to counting how much they "own" individually in government holdings, citizens should also give serious thought to how much they "owe" individually on the government debt.

Business Likes Debt-Retirement

By RALPH ROBEY From the viewpoint of business the most important statement in the State-of-the-Union message by President Eisenhower probably was that on retirement of the public debt.

Back of this was a projected surplus of $200 million for the current fiscal year ending next June 30 and an estimate of $4.2 billion surplus for the following fiscal year.

The project for this year is another revision by the Mid-Year Administration. In the mid-year review by the Budget Bureau it was predicted that there would be a surplus of $100 million. Then, a few weeks later, Budget Bureau Director Stans, said that the chances were we would have a deficit this year.

Since the historical record shows that within a short period a reduction of taxes brings more revenue to the government, might we not be better off if we started on tax reform immediately?

Finally, in as much as we have a shortage of venture capital, and that is holding back the growth of the nation, would it not be wise to aid the accumulation of such capital by tax rate reform?

In my judgment a surplus of $4.2 billion is more than enough to justify a tax-rate-reform program this year. Further, there already is a program before the House Ways and Means Committee that is particularly suited for the present situation.

It is the five year program of the Herlong-Baker bill. This reduces taxes across the board by using the revenue which comes from economic growth for this purpose rather than increased government spending. It is a genuine tax-rate-reform measure, and involves no shifting of taxes from one group to another.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS HANDS STRONG AND WILLING Believing in God and trusting God are two entirely different things.

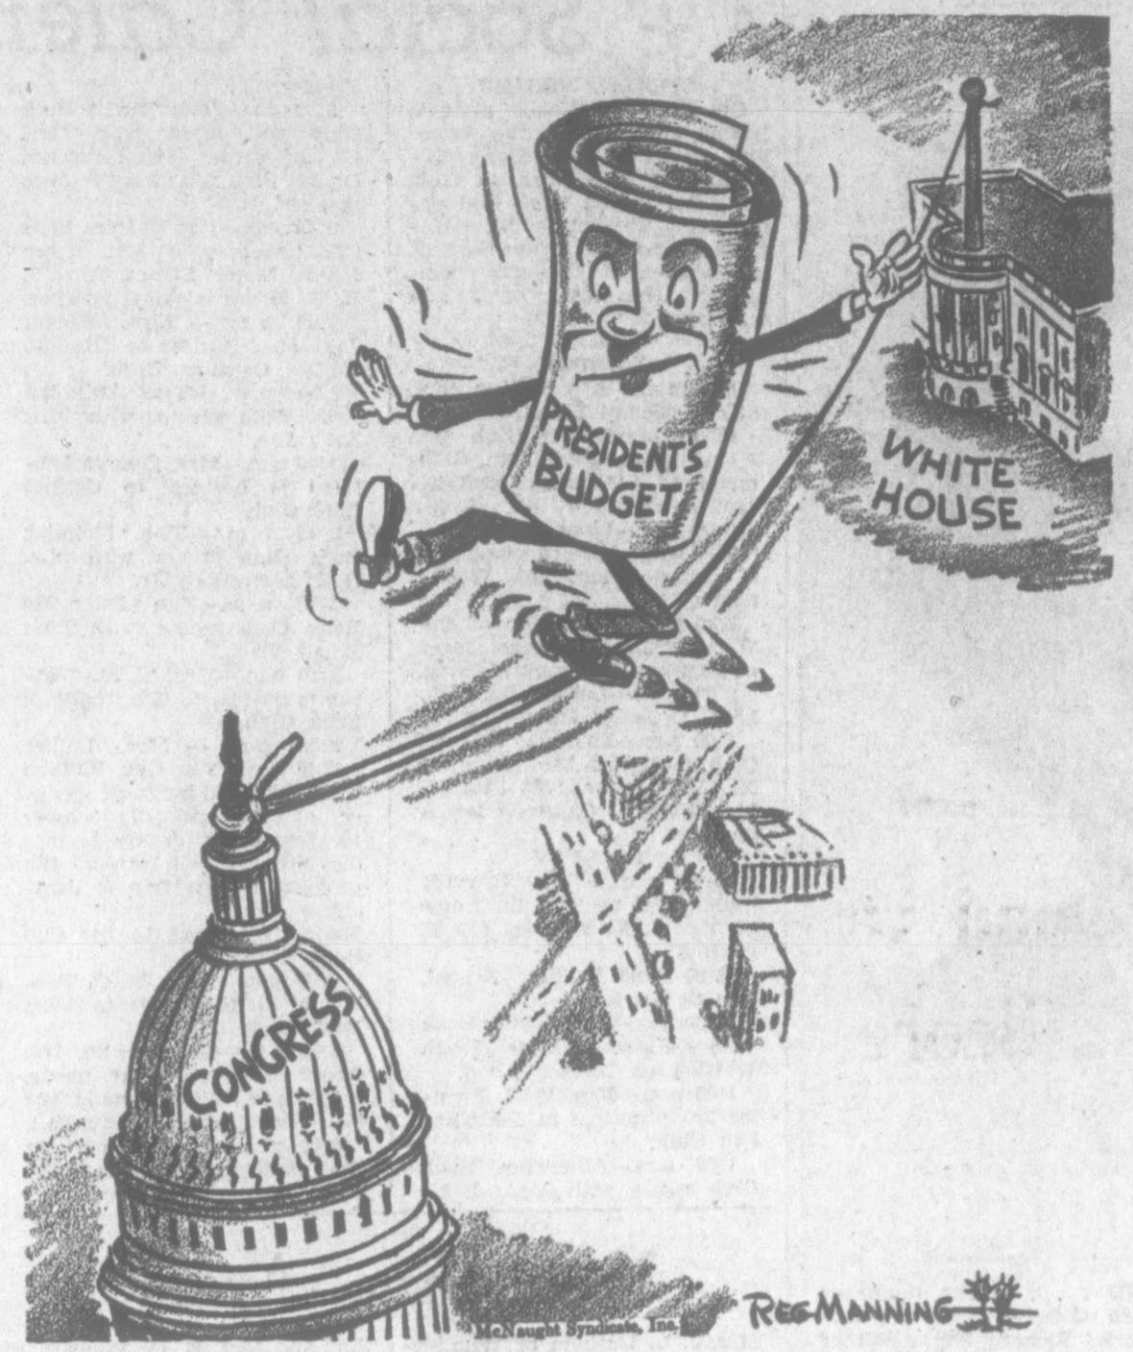

The Bible tells us that the demons believed in Christ. No one, probably, is more theologically sound than Satan himself. He knows Christian theology as no seminary professor or Christian scholar knows it.

People can sometimes be absolutely orthodox in their belief and yet have no religious faith whatsoever. For religious faith is rooted and grounded in trust. It is not only what we believe about God that redounds to our advantage but the extent to which we can implement that belief. We may believe with our minds that all things work together for good to them that love God, yet frequently when we confront hard problems we find ourselves in a perfect dither. The last thing we think of doing is using our religious faith. We yell for the doctor, the marriage counselor, the psychiatrist, the money lender—but we are silent about God.

Let God do the worrying about your affairs. Your duty and privilege is to do the trusting. Put things in His hands and let them remain there. He is big enough and strong enough to handle them.

You don't need an enormous vocabulary to be a literary to be a literary genius. Shakespeare used only about 15,000 words, and the authors of the Old Testament fewer than 6,000. It's how you put the words together that counts.

Men believe they spend most of their lives in hot water, but doctors say women not only tolerate but enjoy a bath temperature five degrees or more higher than most men prefer.

Public Forum

To the Editor—

From living here for a year and a half, I conclude that Greenville would be a delightful place to live if it could be cleansed of fantastic quantities of neglected, yelping dogs. There appear to be two dogs every resident and four dog owners for every one dog lover.

Perhaps old Greenville inhabitants among your readers could help an embattled newcomer. How do you keep going when dogs wake you early every morning, keep you awake late every night? How do you do your work properly over the erratic barking of dogs all day long? How do you treat a neighbor who maintains a public nuisance year in and year out?

These questions seem awkward. I know, since the dog in the United States, like the cow in India, has long been a sacred animal. But perhaps it is time to re-examine our faith. In the long run might we not properly put a higher value on the man than on the mutt?

Sincerely, Francis R. Adams, Jr.

Atheist Soviet Outlook

By ROGER BABSON Babson Park, Mass., I rather hesitate to write this column because some people may think that I am getting favorable toward Russia; but let me first assure you that I detest many things Russia is doing and was glad to get out of the country. Nevertheless, I can always learn something wherever I go, and from any nationality. Those who keep their eyes shut and their ears plugged are getting more ignorant every day and are only fooling themselves. WHAT RUSSIANS MEAN BY SAYING THEY ARE "ATHEISTS"

Although I visited a church in Russia where, on the previous Sunday morning, there had been 4,000 people standing on their knees (these churches have no seats), yet 95 per cent of the one million people in Moscow and two million in its suburbs will tell you they are "atheists." Some of them say they do not believe in "God"; but the majority will tell you they do not believe that Jesus was the "Son of God." They say that Jesus was the great leader and founder of Christianity, just as Buddha was the founder of Buddhism, Mohammedanism, and Confucius the founder of Confucianism.

I am not acquainted with all the church denominations in the country; but I am told that the Unitarian branch and some of the Pacific Coast branches of the Protestant churches may feel about the same toward Jesus as the Russian leaders. (I cannot speak authoritatively on Russia as a whole, as Moscow was the only city which I visited.)

JESUS' SERMON ON THE MOUNT

When I was talking with some prominent Communists in Moscow about Christianity, they first made the point that a very small portion of the Bible consists of Jesus' own words. They realize that the Old Testament is a history of the Jewish people and may be found in many Moscow libraries translated into Russian. They, however, would substitute the teachings of Nikolai Lenin, the founder of Communism, in place of the writings of St. Paul. When a Russian does this, he feels justified in calling himself an atheist, although this is not the description which Webster's Dictionary gives for an atheist.

I had no personal talk when in Moscow with Nikita Khrushchev, the Premier, he being in Peiping at the time; but I met people who claimed to know his thoughts. They told me that Mr. Khrushchev has said that if we Christians in the U. S. followed the teachings of Jesus in the Sermon on the Mount, Communism might have had no opportunity to develop. This is a very important statement to be remembered when we celebrate Christmas as Jesus' birthday.

THE BIG DIFFERENCE BETWEEN JESUS' TEACHINGS AND COMMUNISM

Seldom do I ask followers of my column to read anything; but I do ask you to read today Jesus' Sermon on the Mount as found in the fifth chapter of Matthew and relate it to our present mode of life. It agrees pretty well with the Communists' goal of taking care of their less fortunate people and seeing that all are fed, housed, and clothed, and that those who are qualified have a proper education, etc. Jesus also warned against wealth as a handicap to proper living. Certainly, Jesus would heartily approve the desire of President Eisenhower to help backward nations and unfortunate people.

But, Jesus insisted that these changes should come about voluntarily and not by force. The wicked massacres by the Communists in Hungary and other countries, merely to eliminate private property, would certainly be considered outright murder by Jesus. I repeat that Jesus would insist that the reforms be voluntary and that men should let God (who, he said, is a Spirit) do the punishing. In order for me to take Premier Khrushchev seriously in his purported "respect for the Sermon on the Mount," he

The Guest May Prove Surprise

By LYNN NISBET

ANGELS—The author of the Biblical Epistle to the Hebrews admonished his readers to "Be not forgetful to entertain strangers; for thereby some have entertained angels unawares."

Clifton Blue, veteran legislator from Moore county, editor-publisher of the Sandhills Citizen weekly newspaper at Aberdeen and author of a column appearing in a number of other papers, recalls one instance in point. In a paragraph about the upcoming Jefferson - Jackson dinner on February 6, Clif backs back to the 1952 J-J dinner.

He recalls that on that occasion none of the political big shots paid much attention to a relatively unfamiliar and unobtrusive guest, who was a candidate for what was then regarded a minor office. Inquiry disclosed that he was a retired business executive, who had been born in Virginia, rose to prominence in North Carolina industry—and had the temerity to run for the office of Lieutenant Governor. His name was Luther Hartwell Hodges.

TEMPUS FUGIT — Time is running short for the folks who have been thinking for years about running for big political office to make up their minds. The books for filing notice of candidacy for statewide and district offices will close at noon Friday, March 18, 1960. That is less than nine weeks from now. And, as one who observed the other day, nine weeks can seem like a long time when you are just waiting around for something to happen. It can be a mighty short time for folks who have been playing with ideas for years to make something happen.

DEFERRED — Prosecutive candidates customarily wait as long as possible to pay the filing fee, so they will not be without use of the money. New candidates make a big to-do about formal announcements, and frequently open working headquarters long before they become "legal" candidates by checking in at the State Board of Elections. Incumbents seeking re-election make less dally-hoo about formal announcements. They just assume that everybody knows they want to keep their jobs, and that they are campaigning all the time. So they just quietly slip into the State Board of Elections office, pay the required fee—and let Raymond Maxwell make their announcements.

BROADENED — There is more involved in the appointment of Judge Raymond Mallard of Whiteville to the board of trustees of Pembroke State College than just filling a vacancy occasioned by the death of James R. Lowry. It is significant of the broadened scope of the institution.

Originally established as an institution of higher education for the Indians of Robeson county, Pembroke College a few years ago opened its doors to other applicants. Presently the student body is more than half white, with students from several counties. Until two or three years ago all trustees lived in Robeson county. Governor Hodges is broadening the base of trusteeship to correspond with expanded enrollment. Indications are that Pembroke State College is on the road to becoming an important unit in North Carolina's higher educational system.

Valid Forecasts For Every Week

By ELMER ROESSNER Each week this department offers a number of forecasts for various periods ahead, most based on analyses of developing trends. To save space and time, and to avoid repetition, let's set down two forecasts that will be valid for every week in 1960:

1. More inflation. No matter what happens, no matter what speeches are delivered or promises made, inflation will continue to shrink in purchasing power. Legislation, elections, Federal Reserve decisions will have no significant influence. The explanation for this is long and complicated but take this department's word for it, this will happen. Cut this column out and put in in your safe, and on January 18, 1961, check the U. S. Government figures on the purchasing power of the dollar for December, 1959, and December 1960. And you will find, not that I am eating my hat, but that you are earning a little bit less for your $1.

AND ON TAXES
 2. Higher state and local taxes.

There may be a few communities and even a state or two that will wind up the year without the prospect of higher taxes, but in most of the Fifty—especially in the two new ones—citizens will be paying more.

The reasons are as inescapable as they are simple: The public demands more services on the state and local level, especially for schools, roads, unemployment benefits, welfare, juvenile programs, medical aid and recreational facilities. The public can have all of these benefits if it insists upon. Its children need never swim in bare concrete pools if it insists on sea-green tile pools—and is willing to pay the costs in taxes.

Now for some short-range forecasts:

Cancer insurance. A big insurer is planning to offer medical care insurance for single women as well as families in the next few weeks.

No Federal tax cuts. The promised Federal budget surplus will cause many Congressmen to propose tax cuts. Congressmen coming up for election will be most vociferous. But White House attitudes, reinforced by a threat of a veto, will block them.

OTHER LOOK-AHEADS
 No Keogh-Simpson bill. This bill would permit self-employed persons to deduct, for tax purposes, the cost of future pensions. It has a lot of support, because incorporated businesses get such a deduction. But because it would be a tax cut, it will be beaten.

Costlier pepper. The Singapore corner on pepper has been broken partially, but it still has enough control of the market to force higher prices in the United States.

Anybody who thinks otherwise is under six years of age.

CUTS OUT TIPS—AND SERVICE BEGINS

The Old Promoter was in today with the story about a friend—and his definition of a friend is one who loans him money—who is a tenant in building with a staff that expects Christmas gifts, and expects them in cash.

Every year the superintendent hands each tenant a list of names of employees, and the tenant is expected to hand out checks or currency to all elevator operators, watchmen, furnace men and so on.

The Promoter's friend happened to be tied up in a new venture at Christmas and pushed the list aside.

Since then, he reports, he's never had it so good. Elevators are held for him, he gets heat when he phones for it, and all employees bow. He can't figure whether employees are respecting him for his stalwart independence, or whether he is the objective of a campaign to show him the error of his ways.

Russia Far Behind On Most Industry Scores

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev boasts of great industrial gains in the last 12 months as impressive only in the light of the Soviet Union's avowed aim of giving the United States a run for its money sometime in the future.

The Soviet Union is still way behind on almost every industrial score except population on which to draw. And even with its announced plan of releasing 1,200,000 men from the military forces to do factory and farming work, it's still a question how many of these have the skill that modern industrial technology requires.

The Soviet Premier's recital of great percentage gains in production must be viewed in the light of where the Soviet Union started and what he is comparing today with. If you begin with very little, as the Russians did after the war, any gain looks good in percentages. If you start from fairly adequate industrial capacity, as the United States did after the war, percentage gains are impressive because they reflect the growing needs of an expanding economy. And in almost every instance U.S. capacity is equal to current tasks and is expandable for future ones.

Take steel as an example. The Soviet Union says it increased its production last year by 5 million tons to turn out 65 1/2 short tons. Even with a steel strike of 116 days, American steel production increased eight million tons last year to 93 1/2 tons. It has the capacity to turn out 14 1/2 tons this year, and many steel men think demand will call for 130 million tons. Khrushchev's touted mills can scarcely challenge that.

He cites increased oil production. It runs around 2 1/2 million barrels a day. The United States produced around seven million barrels a day, and the flow was strictly held in check to tailor it to actual demand. Its capacity was about three times that amount, when and if needed.

The Soviet Union says its national income went up eight per cent in 1959. Ours gained by about 6 1/2 per cent. The Soviet national income is put at 1 1/4 trillion rubles. The ruble at the Soviet-fixed rate is worth 25 cents. In exchange circles 10 cents is considered a more realistic figure.

That puts Soviet national income at 125 billion dollars, while ours is more than 404 billion dollars. Or, if the Russians mean by national income what we call gross national product — the total value of all goods and services — then ours is 485 billion dollars.

All along the line it's hard to tell just what the Soviet Union includes in its figures, and just what it compares them with. And always there is the problem of starting with scarcity and straining to build up to adequacy, while we start with adequacy and build up to even higher standards of living or to meet increased needs of a growing population.

But the challenge is definitely there.

Law Degree For A Blind Student

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — A blind student who received international attention in 1957 when British quarantine laws forced him to do without his guide dog will receive a law degree Jan. 30.

Davis Duty, 24, and three members of his family will receive degrees from the University of Arkansas the same day. His sister, Carolyn Banks, will receive a bachelor's degree in government. Her husband will get a master's degree in business administration. And Susan Duty, Davis' sister-in-law, will receive a bachelor's degree in education.

Davis, of Rogers, Ark., was studying in England on a Fulbright scholarship when he was carried use of his dog because of quarantine laws.

Fireman Plucked Boy From Ledge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Boy, I sure was scared," said Ricky Powell, 9, son of Dick Powell and June Allyson.

A fireman plucked him from a narrow ledge halfway up a 100-foot cliff in suburban Bel Air Sunday.

Two police officers climbed to the ledge to comfort the boy while firemen raised a ladder.

Ricky and a friend, Steve Dart, 8, were climbing the cliff at the rear of the Dart home when Ricky became frightened. He couldn't go up or down. Steve scrambled down and summoned help.

Castro Busy Creating Largest Armed Force In Cuban History

By HAROLD K. MILKS
HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro is turning this country's fortresses into schools. But at the same time he is creating the largest armed force in Cuban history.

Just how many soldiers this new people's force will have is not clear, but its strength is believed to be more than double that of ex-President Fulgencio Batista's military machine at its peak. Instead of fortresses, air centers and mechanized units, Castro and his revolutionary supporters are trying to develop a people's army in which every loyal worker student and farmer will be given a gun and taught how to use it.

Minister of Education Armando Hart recently invited other Latin American countries to follow Cuba's example of turning its military centers into schools.

"The idea may be a good one, but if we follow Castro's program all the way through, Latin America would be the heaviest armed area in whole world," said one Latin envoy who heard Hart deliver his invitation at a ceremony in which a former Batista police station in Havana was turned into school.

Late in 1959 Castro announced plans for cutting down Cuba's formal armed forces. But at the same time he approved an idea he had rejected earlier last year for the formation of a people's army.

The result has been a vast expansion in the number of Cubans under arms or undergoing military training as civilians. As a starter, more than 55,000 sugar workers have volunteered as guards to assure that anti-Castro saboteurs do not damage the cane fields by fire. Photos of these men in action show they have been issued rifles or carbines.

Every Cuban trade union will have its quota of militiamen. Every agricultural cooperative created by Castro's new land reform program will contribute men and women. Every school and college will have its defense cell.

Thousands of men and women in all walks of life, are marching and countermarching in public streets and parks, learning close-order drill and how to handle weapons.

Where do the arms come from to equip a citizen's army which some estimates say may reach 200,000 men and women?

Castro has large reserves of arms, many of them half a century old, captured from Batista. But he is buying more as fast as he can find a source.

At the end of 1959 at least one ship unloaded substantial stocks of new arms including semiautomatic rifles and other small arms at a navy dock.

Castro's agents are trying to strengthen the weak link in his so-called citizens defense force, the Cuban air force. Down to an absolute minimum in both pilots and warplanes, Castro has been unable to buy replacement aircraft in the United States because of an embargo.

His agents have succeeded in bringing into Cuba at least one new plane recently, an American propeller-driven trainer, and are trying to buy and take delivery on at least 20 more.

Other agents are said to be interested in buying some Meteor jet fighters available in Canada, obsolete by modern standards but of vital use to an island country down to its last two or three jets.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Greenville Municipal Recorder's Court Friday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found John Randolph, Negro, 1615 S. Pitt St., guilty of possession of non-tax-paid whiskey and gave him 30 days on the roads.

The sentence is to be suspended on condition that Randolph present himself at "Jesus Only Church," South Greenville, at noon for three consecutive Saturdays with scrubbing brush, soap and water and scrub steps of the church and pay court costs.

In another case, John Randolph Jr., 1615 S. Pitt St., was charged with assaulting a female. The court found the prosecuting witness guilty of mischievous and frivolous prosecution, and she is to serve three days in jail.

James A. Forbes, Negro, 609-A Vanderbilt St., guilty of possessing lottery tickets, was sentenced to 12 months on the roads.

Clinton Burnett, Negro, 1012 Mack St., was found guilty of public drunkenness and given 30 days, suspended on payment of costs.

Sally W. Murphrey, R-3 Williamson, was found not guilty of failure to yield right of way. Speeding: Davis C. Evans, R-city, not guilty; Bertram S. White, 522 Colonial Ave., Elizabeth City, costs; Kenneth E. Roberson, R-city, costs; Mack G. Ross, Bridgeton, costs; Harvey L. Langley, Negro, 1815 Pitt St., costs; Martin M. Hardison, Arapahoe, costs; Louis S. Redd, 957 E. 10th St., costs.

Louise P. Carter, ECC, failure to stop at a stop sign, costs.

Richard L. Spivey, 207 Milbrook St., littering the highway, paid $9 on court costs.

Failure to stop at a stop sign: Norman W. Gray, 206 N. Library St., $10 on costs; Levin M. Ward, 1106 Ragsdale Rd., costs. James R. Minton, R-2 city, assault on a female, continued to.

Carrying concealed weapon: Linwood R. Hardy, R-1 Stokes, 30 days, suspended on payment of $50, costs deducted. The weapon is to be confiscated and sold. Leo T. Shuitse, Cherry Point, 30 days, suspended on payment of $50, costs deducted. The weapon is to be confiscated and sold.

Ray Smith, Negro, 306 Elk St., was found guilty of disorderly conduct and given 30 days, sentence suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted.

Improper equipment, William Stancil, Negro, R-2 city, costs; Elliott D. Fortie, 405 S. Railroad St., costs.

Cornelius J. Harris, city, failure to yield right of way, withdrew his notice of appeal and paid court costs.

Pittman Stocks, 809 Washington St., drunk, two charges, 30 days in each case, suspended on payment of costs.

NEW CENSORSHIP
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — New censorship laws in South Africa are likely to clamp down on advertisements using scantily-clad girls to attract readers' attention. For instance, an advertising girl in a swim suit will have to be an ad for swim suits, not for automobiles. The proposed legislation is likely to come up this year.

Bad Moment For Edgar Allen Poe

DETROIT (AP) — Edgar Allen Poe, 25, had the sort of experience his poet namesake might have written about — a horrible few minutes.

Poe was in a tavern when two men held up the place. One put a pistol against Poe's head and said: "I will kill this man unless you will do as you're told."

The man fled with about $287, leaving a shaken Poe.

SNAP Produces Power For Year

BALTIMORE (AP) — Scientists at the Martin Co. say SNAP, a little atomic gadget expected to produce electricity without maintenance for 140 days or so, is still going strong after a year.

SNAP stands for "System of Nuclear Auxiliary Power." The device has no moving parts but produces heat by the radioactive decay of 1-40 of an ounce of polonium-210. The heat is converted directly into electrical energy by a series of thermocouples.

Minnesota Mining and Mfg. Co. collaborated with Martins in development of the generator.

The word "blarney" is derived from Irish Lord Blarney who was famed for his "fair words and soft speech."

South Africa's Education In 'New Phase' This Year

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — A new phase in South African education starts this year as the government opens three state-controlled colleges for Negroes.

This means the end of independent higher education for non-whites and the end of integrated education. From now on non-whites will be barred from the two universities — Witwatersrand in Johannesburg and the University of Cape Town — which had previously accepted them.

The government will allow only Negroes in the three new colleges — at Alice in Cape Province, Ngoya in Natal, and turfloop in the Transvaal. A separate college for Euraficans, or mulattoes, will be opened in Cape Town later.

African students will be sent to the college which caters to their ethnic or tribal grouping. The effect is not only to segregate whites from nonwhites but also to separate the various nonwhite groups.

The end of independent education was most strikingly marked with the transfer to the government of the University College of Port Harle at Alice, 150 miles north of Port Elizabeth. It was established 40 years ago and had graduated hundreds of Negro students from all parts of the continent. Its academic reputation was outstanding.

The principal, Raymond Burrows, was told he would not be retained. The government followed this by firing 11 members of the staff. Fourteen other members resigned in protest. Of 28 members of the college senate, only 9 will remain under the new regime.

Babson . . . (Continued from Page 4) would have to raise the iron curtain full length and stop persecuting any people. However, because Khrushchev is not consistent is no reason why we should be lax in practicing the teachings of Jesus in his Sermon on the Mount.

He holds the Silver Beaver Award of Scouting, is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, a professional journalistic fraternity, and is a Methodist, teaching a men's Bible class in the First Methodist Church of Siler City.

Resch is married to the former Alice Louise Lamb of Winston-Salem. Mr. and Mrs. Resch have one son, now serving with the Raleigh bureau of United Press International, and a daughter who is a sophomore at Duke University.

Questions Raised Over Airliners' Fall In Gulf

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Was a Dallas naturopath with a criminal record on a National Airlines plane which crashed into the Gulf of Mexico killing all 42 aboard? Or did Dr. Robert V. Spears persuade — perhaps hypnotize — a Tampa man into taking his place? Or were both aboard the ill-fated plane which plunged into the water on Nov. 16? The Tampa, missing since the day of the crash, was William Allen Taylor, 60, who was sentenced to prison with Dr. Spears in 1936 for operating a confidence scheme.

Taylor's divorced wife, Alice Steel Taylor of Tampa, said Dr. Spears was a hypnotist.

"I'm sure my former husband got on that plane instead of Spears," she said Sunday night. "It's even possible that my ex-husband was hypnotized to get on that plane."

But in Dallas, Mrs. Spears said she's sure that if her 65-year-old husband were alive "he'd be here with me and the babies."

The mother, in her mid-30's, has a 10-month-old daughter and a 2-year-old son.

Spears was listed as one of the passengers who died in the crash. Taylor bought flight insurance just before the takeoff from here but was not on the passenger list. Only a few of the bodies and a portion of the wreckage have been recovered.

An FBI investigator has suggested the plane might have been sabotaged and Spears may have had someone else take his seat so his wife could collect on a large insurance policy. Mrs. Spears said her husband had $50,000 or $100,000 worth of flight insurance—"I don't remember which."

Police Surprised Trio Of Robbers

SANFORD, N.C. (AP) — Police surprised three men attempting to rob an estimated $4,000 from the American Legion club here early this morning. One of the men, with $2,650 of the loot in his pocket, was shot in the leg as he tried to escape.

The wounded man, 29-year-old James W. Nobel of Burlington, was taken to Lee County Hospital and kept under heavy guard after being charged with feloniously breaking and entering and larceny.

In jail on the same charges is Thomas "Doty" Faucette, a Burlington native with several aliases, among them T. O. Faison. Police said he was the ringleader and admitted skipping a $9,500 bond in an Alamance County robbery case nine years ago. Alamance police confirmed Faucette was wanted there.

Also in jail is Hughie Thomas, 33, of Sanford, charged with aiding and abetting in the theft. Officers said Thomas acted as lookout while the others broke into the club. He fled the scene and was captured at his mother's home a few hours after Faucette and Nobel were taken in custody.

Police said the three drove to the club in a pickup truck, then broke a lock to enter the club. Then, police said, Thomas put a new lock on the door to camouflage the robbery and waited nearby. When police stopped to check on Thomas and the truck, he fled. Officer N. S. Johnson chased him.

Sgt. J. M. Mason was outside the club while Nobel and Faucette tried to break their own lock. As they broke out, Mason collared Faison but Nobel tried to get away. He was shot.

Two boxes and a sack of money were found at the door, estimated at between $2,000 and $3,000.

Thomas said he had served time in the Atlanta Federal prison on a whisky-making charge.

Urge Completion Of Basin Survey

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Corps of Engineers and the Soil Conservation Service have been urged to complete and submit to Congress a survey on North Carolina's Cape Fear River Basin.

Sen. B. Everett Jordan (D-NC) told the two agencies in a strongly worded letter Saturday the legislators' hands are tied until they receive the report.

Jordan charged that the report, which he called vital to the development of Eastern North Carolina, was not made last year because of what he called "indecision and dissension" on the part of both agencies.

The senator also wrote that the indecision is causing costly and undue delays in work on the Neuse River Basin survey.

REFUGEES HOMELESS

HONG KONG (AP) — More than 700 Chinese refugees were left homeless in two "squatter village" fires today. Flames destroyed shacks on hillside overlooking Hong Kong harbor where thousands of refugees from Communist China live. A woman and a child were injured.

Vermonters Will Speak Tonight

The Hon. William H. Meyer, Congressman-at-Large from Vermont, will speak tonight at 8 p.m. in the Joyner Library auditorium at East Carolina College on "The Possible Price of Peace and Progress." The meeting will be sponsored by the Danforth Foundation Project on the campus and will be open to the public.

Tomorrow night Meyer will discuss "The Problem We Face with the U.S.S.R." The lecture will take place at the same time and place as tonight's talk.

Meyer, first Democrat to be elected to the House of Representatives from Vermont in more than 100 years, has spent most of his life in work related to soil and forest conservation. He has been connected with the Wildlife Society, the Soil Conservation Society, the Society of American Foresters, and other organizations of similar nature.

As a member of the U.S. House of Representatives, he belongs to the Foreign Affairs Committee. He also serves on the Far East Subcommittee and the International Organizations and Movements Subcommittee.

Meyer is the sixth lecturer to be presented on the Danforth Lecture Series at East Carolina during the present school year.

For The March Of Dimes

"TACKY PARTY" — Saturday night at the local Moose Lodge netted the current March of Dimes campaign nearly $200. Above, Mrs. Louise Carrigan, chairman of the drive, collects contributions. Some 150 Greenvilleites attended the party, sponsored by the local Women of the Moose, whose proceeds went to the 1960 March of Dimes. Mrs. Carrigan reports total collections thus far are nearing the $1,000 mark. "Coffee Day," when local drug stores and restaurants allow receipts from cups of coffee to go to the March of Dimes, is scheduled for Thursday.

Society Chapter Gets Charter Over Weekend

Chartering of the newly organized East Carolina College Chapter of the Society for Advancement of Management took place at a luncheon in the New South Cafeteria Saturday, January 16.

Lester F. Zerfoss, Director of Industrial Relations and Management Services for the American Enka Corporation at Enka, N. C., presented the charter to Bobby R. Setzer of Raeford, N. C., president of the campus chapter.

At the ceremony Zerfoss, Vice President for Seminars of the SAM, represented Harold Fischer, Vice President of the University Division of the SAM, in extending good wishes from the national organization to the 36 members of the East Carolina chapter.

In a talk to chapter members and their guests, Zerfoss emphasized the increasing importance of professional management in the dynamic challenge which this field of work presents to the person interested in management problems.

"Once management bought manual dexterity," he told his audience. "Now it buys knowledge." The capacity to "keep on learning" he stressed as a prerequisite to entrance into the field of professional management.

He mentioned some of the difficult tasks of management and the new opportunities which it offers.

"The job from which you will retire," he told student members of the SAM, "is probably not in existence today."

President Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina welcomed guests at the luncheon meeting and extended the good wishes of the college to the new SAM chapter.

"The field of management," he said, "provides vast opportunities in Eastern North Carolina." He advised the members of the chapter to use at home the benefits which they derive from membership in SAM and the training which it offers in management.

Officers serving in the chapter were presented to luncheon guests by President Setzer. They are Vice President Ronald L. Hary, Kingston; Secretary Floyd A. Smith, Grifton; Treasurer Dee Bryson, Unaka; and S. W. Dry and W. S. Hart of the college business department, faculty advisors.

Among special guests at the luncheon were Dr. E. R. Browning, director of the East Carolina department of business, and the Rev. Terry W. Agner of the United Lutheran Mission in Greenville.

Dr. Josiah Bartlett, a physician, was first governor of the state of New Hampshire, taking office in 1792.

East Carolina Upsets Lenoir Rhyne Cagers 67-60

CHAMPS—ECC swimming coach Ray Martinez is shown presenting the Championship trophy to Coach Gus Purcell and the Myers Park team captain. The Mermen from Charlotte scored 126 points to lead the field of teams represented and to cop the championship trophy for the second consecutive time in the Fifth Annual East Carolina High School Invitational Swimming and Diving Championships. Charlotte Swimmers Triumph

Records fell, fast and furious in Memorial Gym Pool, Saturday, as the swimmers of Charlotte's Myers Park successfully defended their title in the East Carolina College Invitational High School Swimming and Diving Championships.

THEY'RE OFF . . . as swimmers prepare to hit the water following the bark of the starting gun in the 100 yd. freestyle event. Bill McGinty of Charlotte's Myers Park, termed the nation's fastest high school swimmer, is among this group as they compete in the East Carolina Invitational High School Swimming and Diving Championships held in Memorial Gym Pool Saturday. (Reflector Sports Photo by Roy Martin)

The Myers Park mermen, led by national 100 yd. freestyle champion Bill McGinty, swept by the entire field of opponents to post a winning score of 126 points. Locked in a tie for second place were Raleigh and Chapel Hill, with 57 points each, while Greensboro followed the leaders with 25 points.

Myers Park, rated as the pre-meet favorite, showed their power throughout the swimming competition, coping first place in almost every event. Their national champion, Bill McGinty, was the principal attraction of the water-combat as he broke pool records in both the 50 yd and 100 yd freestyle.

McGinty set two new pool records as he led his team to their win. The lanky speedster broke the record of 24.5 seconds for the 50 yd freestyle, which he set himself in 1958. In breaking his own record, McGinty set a new pool record of 22.9 for the event. McGinty also broke the old record of 55.3 for the 100 yd freestyle, with the posting of a 51.0 winning time.

400 yd. Freestyle—Adams (MP) (4:45.0), Bensch (R), Gray (MP). 100 yd. Butterfly—Alexander (CH) (1:04.5), Goodson (MP), Cockerham (MP).

200 yd. Freestyle Relay—(1) Myers Park (1:44.9), (2) Chapel Hill, (3) Raleigh.

200 yd. Medley Relay—(1) Myers Park, (2) Raleigh, (3) Chapel Hill (1:56.1).

200 yd. Freestyle—Adams (MP) (2:07.4), Gray (MP), Bensch (R), 50 yd. Freestyle—McGinty (MP) (23.0), Stapleton (CH), Langrad, 200 yd. Individual Medley—Gullette (R) (2:25.7), Goodson (MP), Alexander (CH).

1 Meter Diving—Sullivan (MP) (245.50), Charnley (R), Tracy (CH). 100 yd. Freestyle—McGinty (MP) (50.5), Stapleton (CH), Levine (MP). 100 yd. Breaststroke—Darby (G) (1:09.09), Young (R), Scott (MP). 100 yd. Backstroke—Norwood (CH) (1:07.0), Halbein (MP), Gullette (R).

Wolfpack Bouyed By First Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS North Carolina State, its morale bolstered by its first Atlantic Coast Conference basketball victory of the season and the return to action of Capt. Dan Englehardt and two others, goes after number two tonight. The Wolfpack faces Maryland at College Park.

Wake Forest, upset 51-45 Saturday by Englehardt and his crew entertains Tennessee tonight.

The Wolfpack, Maryland and Wake Forest are the only ACC teams in action this week due to mid-year exams.

Wake Forest will be host to Clemson Tuesday; Maryland plays at Wake Wednesday, and N.C. State entertains Eastern Kentucky Saturday.

The combination of Maryland's 56-48 victory over Duke Saturday, and North Carolina's 76-57 trouncing of Virginia, boosted the Tar Heels to the top of the ACC standings with a 4-0 record. North Carolina is 9-3 in all games.

Duke (4-1 and 8-4) fell to second place, and Maryland (3-1 and N.C. State entertains Eastern Kentucky Saturday.

Duke (4-1 and 8-4) fell to second place, and Maryland (3-1 and 7-3) is third. Wake Forest stands fourth at 5-2 and 9-4.

South Carolina, beaten 74-69 Saturday by Clemson, remains fifth with a 2-5 ACC mark and a 5-10 record in all games. Then come Clemson (1-3 and 7-8), Virginia (1-4 and 5-7) and N.C. State (1-5 and 4-10).

There's no doubt that N.C. State will have a fight on its hands tonight, but Coach Everett Case will be trying to get another performance from his team like the one in the Wake Forest game.

Englehardt and two other players were reinstated by Case after a 10-day suspension for disciplinary reasons, and Englehardt responded with 17 points.

Maryland Coach Bud Millikan tabbed his team one to watch. "We're gonna fool a lot of people," he commented after the Duke game.

Duke Coach Vic Bubas had this observation: "You can't play 20 minutes of basketball and expect to win—especially against a good team like Maryland.

He was referring to Duke's poor first half showing, in which the Blue Devils scored only 19 points to Maryland's 30. "I can't think of a thing we did well in the first half," Bubas moaned.

Tar Heel Coach Frank McGuire, commenting on the jump to first place in the conference, remarked, "We certainly hadn't expected to end the first semester with a record (9-3) like ours and leading the conference."

McGuire, incidentally, hopes to have Doug Moe, his sharpshooting junior, for the next game. Moe has been sidelined because of scholastic difficulty. The Tar Heels meet Maryland Feb. 3.

Virginia Coach Billy McCann said, "They (North Carolina) have a great team and we just couldn't keep pace in that second half. They were hot and we were cold." Virginia hit on only 11 of 30 shots from the floor in the second half, after hitting 11 of 23 the first half.

throughout the second half but had to weather a Lenoir Rhyne rally in the final eight minutes before preserving their fifth conference win of the season.

Clayton and Don Smith bagged a couple of field goals early in the second half to keep a distance between the Bears that varied usually from eight to eleven points.

The Bears opened their final bid for victory with about eight minutes left on the scoreboard clock. Dave Starrett, EC center, fouled and Ike Riddick and Clayton were both in danger with four personal.

The Bears started whittling away at the EC margin and it looked for a while as if the tide had completely changed. Clayton Norman bucketed a field goal with 6:29 left to gash the ACC lead to 53-49. A free loss by Riddick and a field goal by Clayton made it 55-49 but the Bruins were still not out of it.

Baskets by Eddie Goodnight and Norman sliced the lead to four points once again, 58-54.

Playing it cautious, East Carolina sweated out the last two minutes but matched the Bears in field goals and added a couple of charity tosses to gain the victory and a seven point bulge, 67-60.

Eating their pre-game meals in silence amidst the chanting of "bear meat" by Lenoir Rhyne students, the Pirate basketballers were keyed for the game.

Clayton finished the night with 21 points and Riddick was next with 18. High-scoring Ken Norman found the Buc defense a little selfish and netted only 15 points.

There's no doubt that N.C. State will have a fight on its hands tonight, but Coach Everett Case will be trying to get another performance from his team like the one in the Wake Forest game.

Englehardt and two other players were reinstated by Case after a 10-day suspension for disciplinary reasons, and Englehardt responded with 17 points.

Maryland Coach Bud Millikan tabbed his team one to watch. "We're gonna fool a lot of people," he commented after the Duke game.

Duke Coach Vic Bubas had this observation: "You can't play 20 minutes of basketball and expect to win—especially against a good team like Maryland.

He was referring to Duke's poor first half showing, in which the Blue Devils scored only 19 points to Maryland's 30. "I can't think of a thing we did well in the first half," Bubas moaned.

Tar Heel Coach Frank McGuire, commenting on the jump to first place in the conference, remarked, "We certainly hadn't expected to end the first semester with a record (9-3) like ours and leading the conference."

McGuire, incidentally, hopes to have Doug Moe, his sharpshooting junior, for the next game. Moe has been sidelined because of scholastic difficulty. The Tar Heels meet Maryland Feb. 3.

throughout the second half but had to weather a Lenoir Rhyne rally in the final eight minutes before preserving their fifth conference win of the season.

Clayton and Don Smith bagged a couple of field goals early in the second half to keep a distance between the Bears that varied usually from eight to eleven points.

The Bears opened their final bid for victory with about eight minutes left on the scoreboard clock. Dave Starrett, EC center, fouled and Ike Riddick and Clayton were both in danger with four personal.

The Bears started whittling away at the EC margin and it looked for a while as if the tide had completely changed. Clayton Norman bucketed a field goal with 6:29 left to gash the ACC lead to 53-49. A free loss by Riddick and a field goal by Clayton made it 55-49 but the Bruins were still not out of it.

Baskets by Eddie Goodnight and Norman sliced the lead to four points once again, 58-54.

Playing it cautious, East Carolina sweated out the last two minutes but matched the Bears in field goals and added a couple of charity tosses to gain the victory and a seven point bulge, 67-60.

Eating their pre-game meals in silence amidst the chanting of "bear meat" by Lenoir Rhyne students, the Pirate basketballers were keyed for the game.

Clayton finished the night with 21 points and Riddick was next with 18. High-scoring Ken Norman found the Buc defense a little selfish and netted only 15 points.

Giving the Bears an edge in height, Coach Earl Smith got throughout the second half but had to weather a Lenoir Rhyne rally in the final eight minutes before preserving their fifth conference win of the season.

Wolfpack Bouyed By First Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS North Carolina State, its morale bolstered by its first Atlantic Coast Conference basketball victory of the season and the return to action of Capt. Dan Englehardt and two others, goes after number two tonight. The Wolfpack faces Maryland at College Park.

Wake Forest, upset 51-45 Saturday by Englehardt and his crew entertains Tennessee tonight.

The Wolfpack, Maryland and Wake Forest are the only ACC teams in action this week due to mid-year exams.

Wake Forest will be host to Clemson Tuesday; Maryland plays at Wake Wednesday, and N.C. State entertains Eastern Kentucky Saturday.

The combination of Maryland's 56-48 victory over Duke Saturday, and North Carolina's 76-57 trouncing of Virginia, boosted the Tar Heels to the top of the ACC standings with a 4-0 record. North Carolina is 9-3 in all games.

Duke (4-1 and 8-4) fell to second place, and Maryland (3-1 and N.C. State entertains Eastern Kentucky Saturday.

Singapore Reappraises Its Future; Chinese Dominant

By JOHN GRIFFIN
SINGAPORE (AP) — Singapore — a Chinese-dominated island city without a country — has started a painful reappraisal of its future. In Southeast Asia Chinese are facing tougher times. Singapore must buck economic trends and walk a racial tightrope. Last June Singapore moved to semi-independence from British rule. The rolling People's Action party seeks eventual merger into the big, rich Federation of Malaya just over a short causeway to the north. Leaders here have wooed the ederation, but the Malayan reaction has been cool. The Malayan capital of Kuala Lumpur thinks any link with Singapore is not in the foreseeable future. The reason is that only 40 per cent of Malaya's six million inhabitants are Chinese. The country is run by the Malay majority, and they want to keep it that way. Singapore, with 80 per cent of its 1 1/2 millions Chinese, could upset the delicate racial balance. Malaya has been making economic plans that leave out Singapore. Budget Includes $1 Billion Hike For Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A billion-dollar boost in U.S. foreign aid money was asked today by President Eisenhower. The increase is needed to help provide free world allies with advanced weapons and equipment, he said. In his message to Congress on his budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1, the President asked $4,175,000,000 in new appropriations for U. S. mutual security programs. This is about 950 million dollars above current appropriations, he said. He had asked $3,500,000,000 last year, but Congress cut the amount sharply. "This increase in the program," his message said, "is needed to accelerate economic and technical assistance, chiefly through the development Loan Fund, and to strengthen free world forces, in particular the forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, with advanced weapons and equipment."

Specifically, the President asked for two billion dollars in new money for military assistance, and $2,175,000,000 for various forms of economic aid. The military assistance request accounts for 700 million dollars of the total increase. The message estimated actual foreign aid expenditures in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1961 at $3,450,000,000 or 100 million over the current period. This includes 1 1/2 billion for military aid spending.

Eisenhower said the Development Loan Fund would need 700 million dollars in new lending authority in 1961. Actual outlays during the year will be 300 million, he said.

In asking two billion dollars for military assistance, the President said that due to the long production time needed for many items, "procurement must be started in 1961 in order to provide the necessary deliveries in future years." During recent years, he said, deliveries have been maintained only by drawing on a backlog of appropriations. The two-billion-dollar military aid figure had been recommended by a special committee which studied the program last year.

Marching Band At Grace Rites

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A marching band, surging crowds and a new $19,000 hearse greeted the arrival Sunday night of the body of Negro spiritual leader Bishop C. M. (Sweet Daddy) Grace. Husky uniformed members of the Grace Guard lifted Sweet Daddy's casket from the train which brought it from Los Angeles where he died Jan. 12. The body of the 78-year-old religious leader of three million persons was placed in the hearse and a police escort led a 10-car motorcade to Grace's Charlotte temple. As the motorcade neared Daddy Grace's House of Prayer for All People, an imposing $350,000-structure in Charlotte's alum area, the press of the crowds became tighter. A block from the temple, a smartly uniformed Negro band briskly moved into position in front of the motorcade and struck up a march. Then the Grace Drum and Bugle Corps took its place in the procession and struck up with the band. When the motorcade stopped at the temple, colored red, white and blue as are other House of Prayer churches throughout the nation, police estimated a crowd of 10,000 jammed the streets. The casket was opened inside the temple and an orderly line of people queued up in the dimly lighted church. The brass band played marches as the mourners paused to look at the Negro leader, dressed in a black suit with inch-wide gold piping. The body will lie in state until Tuesday when it will be taken by motorcade to Newport News, Va., Washington, Newark, N.J., where it will lie in state one day each, and then to New Bedford, Mass., for burial. Inheritance Ends Relief Status

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Everett Moody, 84, and his wife, Blanche, 78, returned their January relief checks to the county welfare office after learning they had inherited $123,000. The couple had been on relief 17 years. They were advised Friday they will receive $80,000 as the residue of the estate of Mrs. Moody's half-sister, Mrs. Alma A. Crowley, Oakland author, and $43,000 additional will be to them by Mrs. Crowley's son, Robert.

Japan's Premier Realizing Dream

By KENNETH ISHII
TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi will perform one of the most important acts of his political career Tuesday when he signs in Washington a new security treaty binding Japan and the United States.

His fight for the treaty reveals something of the man. Since assuming the premiership in February 1957, he has weathered storm after storm. Supporters say his tenacity is reminiscent of his courage in defying wartime Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo's orders to resign because of a difference in views. Kishi, then munitions minister, thought Japan should surrender after the fall of Salpan. Born Nov. 13, 1896 in Yamaguchi prefecture, southern Japan, Kishi was one of 10 children of a government official named Sato. He changed his name upon adoption at 15 into the Kishi family. Kishi's younger brother, Eisaku Sato, is finance minister.

Kishi graduated from Tokyo University in law in 1920 at the top of his class. He first attracted attention when he led a group of officials of the Commerce and Industry Ministry in opposing a 10 per cent salary reduction for all government officials. By 1941 Kishi had a Cabinet post, the Commerce and Industry portfolio in Tojo's government. For his wartime activities Kishi was jailed three years, but never tried, as a war crimes suspect. When released he got a job from Aichiro Fujiyama, now foreign minister who is with Kishi in Washington.

Governor Cites Successful Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Luther Hodges says 1959 "from all indications, has been one of the most successful and significant years" in North Carolina's history. "In most categories," the governor told a North Carolina State Society dinner here Saturday night, "the totals of industrial development for 1959 exceeded, by large margins, the totals recorded during the record-shattering year 1958." Hodges and his wife attended a society reception and dinner honoring them and members of the state's congressional delegation.

Budget Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fiscal 1961 budget proposes— Taxes: A 1/4 cent a gallon increase in gasoline tax. All other tax rates continued. Postal: First-class postage boosted to 5 cents. Other unspecified increases. Spending: Up $1,400,000,000 from this year, to $79,800,000,000. For defense, 41 billion dollars. Income: Up $5,400,000,000 to $5 billion dollars, assuming record prosperity. Surplus: About $4,200,000,000, all to be used to reduce the 292 billion national debt.

Strict Control Of Welfare Aid Funds Is Asked

GREENSBORO (AP) — More strict control of welfare funds for aid to needy children has been asked by directors of the North Carolina Assn. of County Commissioners.

A resolution was sent to Dr. Ellen Winston, head of the state Welfare Department, seeking reversal of a federal ruling which overrode a bill passed by the General Assembly last year. The bill, authored by Rep. Hubert Humphrey of Greensboro, authorized a superintendent of county departments to supervise the spending of welfare money by parents or guardians meant for children. The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare ruled that welfare payments are matters of right and thus not subject to state control. The federal agency said if the North Carolina law was enforced, federal welfare payments would be withheld from the state.

Notice To Gas Customers Served Off Mains

To Those Living West of A.C.L. Railroad from Fleming Street north to Tar River and west to the end of the Gas Mains.

Beginning this morning the addition of Natural Gas in your area will be a reality. Because of the higher heat units of Natural Gas, space heaters, range burners and other flames which the user can observe by adjusting the gas control valves should be used in the lower burning position until the appliances can be converted. We suggest that you use the oven of your stove as little as possible especially those that are thermostatically controlled. Non-vented space heaters should be kept cut back as much as possible.

THERE IS NO DANGER IN YOUR APPLIANCE IF THE FLAME DOES NOT BURN PROPERLY. All utility personnel plus some additional help will assist in making these conversions and they will be made as promptly as possible with as little inconvenience as our efforts will allow.

If there is any question with reference to your appliance please call our dispatcher at PL 2-7166. If after your units have been converted several days you notice additional burner adjustment is needed, do not hesitate to notify our dispatcher and such service will be rendered promptly at no cost to the customer.

Improper flame does not indicate any danger!

Your co-operation in assisting us with this conversion will be appreciated as it is another step in bringing another modern commodity to our community.

The above does not apply to bottle gas consumers.

CHAPTER 33

I pressed my damp hands together and bit my lips to keep my teeth from chattering. Dear God, I prayed, please take care of Maggie! I must have said it aloud, because Don said: "That's right, Mrs. Colhoun—you pray, and I'll drive!"

And all the time over and over in my mind the question kept going around: My daughter Maggie and Stew Burnside? The wind slammed my hair into my eyes and roared in my ears. And the pinpoint of light ahead gradually grew larger.

Then suddenly above the sound of rushing wind the wall of a siren came in behind us. "Good!" said Don. "That patrolman finally tied onto us!"

It was odd how comforting that walling siren was right then—even to me with my driver's license practically worn out from being told to pull over, lady.

Suddenly, then, the glow of Stew Burnside's taillights disappeared. "Turned off!" Don said. Then, "Tell Old Speedy to hold on!" he said, and pushed the accelerator pedal down to the floorboard.

"Dear God," I said again. "Please get us there in time!"

Then I said, "Oh, God, if you won't let him hurt Maggie, I will give all the egg money to the Sunday school building fund instead of buying that suit at Themas Allen's, and that hat at Mrs.

"Skipper's."

I opened my eyes and Don said, "Here's the road. Hold tight!" and he swung sharply off onto the dirt road.

We almost didn't make it right side up, but I figured God must have needed that egg money because the minute we straightened up we saw them.

In the glow of the headlights we could see Maggie and Stew standing by the car, and something glittered in his hand.

Don squealed his brakes and was over the side of his old car before I knew what had happened.

Maggie screamed, "He has a knife!"

Don went for Stew with his head down like a bull, and the two crashed together and rolled over in the road.

I found a wrench on the seat of Don's car and I picked it up and went to Maggie.

We stood there and clung together and watched while Don tried to get Stew's knife, because, he said later, a fellow like Stew was a dreadful coward without it.

Don got the knife and was just starting in to give Stew Burnside the beating he deserved when the patrolman caught up with us. He separated the boys and said what did they think this was—the Southern 500?

Maggie was trembling. I said was she all right?

Maggie said of course, but she clung to me.

Don was all right too, we saw, but the patrolman was pretty unreasonable when all of us tried to explain. He said he would have to run us all in.

I thought if things kept on this way, pretty soon I would have a number with my picture on post-office posters.

When we got to jail Maggie explained in a quiet intelligent fashion to the sergeant behind the desk how Stew Burnside had threatened her at the point of a knife not to divulge knowledge she had got quite by accident one day in the cloakroom at school.

Maggie said she was cleaning out her locker behind the coat racks when Stew Burnside and another boy, whose name she did not know, came in and started discussing a service station holdup they had pulled before they realized Maggie was hearing the whole thing.

They had threatened her about telling—had even said they would hurt her mother and father and the other members of her family is she said a word, Maggie said.

Every day or so Stew would call her on the telephone and threaten her again. And it was only tonight, on the way to the Junior-Senior, that she had finally told Don all about Stew, and they had decided that during intermission they would go together to the police and tell them the whole thing. But Stew had got to her first, she said, and had forced her to leave with him when she told him what she and Don were going to do.

So that was why Maggie had got so upset about those telephone calls, I thought.

"Remember those times I got sick at school?" Maggie said to me.

I nodded. "That was because of Stew too?" I said.

Maggie nodded. "He said he would kill me if I didn't go with him tonight," she said. "I don't really believe he would have, though," she said gravely, "because he isn't really brave enough."

The sergeant went to call Stew's parents. "We're booking him," he said.

The officers all shook hands with Maggie and Don and then the sergeant shook my hand too, and said I must be very proud of my daughter, and I said I was. And I thanked the patrolman for helping us.

Maggie was still white, and I would feel much better about her when her color came back, I decided. I was just on the point of suggesting coffee or ammonia or something for her when Don looked at his watch and said, "Gosh! I sure did get late quick, didn't it?" And what did I think of stopping by that drive-in out on the highway and getting us all some coffee?

Don looked at Maggie and said was she sure she was all right?

Maggie said of course she was all right.

I said well, I wasn't, and the coffee sounded wonderful.

When we got home Rutledge was backing out the station wagon.

I said where in the world was he going this time of night?

Rutledge said he was going out to look for us, and Brantley got in hours ago and did I know what time it was?

I kissed Don and said how grateful we were and we couldn't ever thank him enough and was he sure he was all right?

Don said he was fine. Then he turned to Maggie and cuffed her gently under the chin with his balled fist. "You've got quite a girl here, Mrs. Colhoun," he said.

Tears stung my eyes. "I know," I said.

Don turned to Maggie. "I'll call you," he said. Then when he got to the bottom of the steps he turned. "And take it easy," he said.

Maggie smiled and when I put my arm about her I saw that her color was not only back—it was flaming. And when Rutledge came in from the garage I told him to come on back to the kitchen and we would tell him how we spent the night in jail.

When we had finished the story and the pie and the coffee Rutledge turned to Maggie. "This boy Don of yours sounds like quite a boy!" he said.

Maggie said, "He's all right," but her color burned like the sun when it drops back of the pines.

It is a good thing it's Saturday was the first thing I thought when I woke up and saw what time it was. My husband Rutledge had already gone to the farm, and the coffee was made on the kitchen table with my cup all set out.

I carried a tray to Tilghman and found that Rutledge had already told her about last night. Rutledge had also got up for Colhoun's four o'clock feeding, Tilghman said.

"He die?" I said "I must have been dead. I didn't even wake up!"

Tilghman said it was a dreadful thing for all of us, and she hoped Maggie would bear up all right.

I smiled. "Oh, she's bearing up

Church To Hold Healing Mission

On February 7-9, the Rev. Edward Winckley, O.S.L., will conduct a preaching and healing mission at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

The Rev. Mr. Winckley is warden and founder of Kearsney Healing Home, Natal, South Africa. Having been healed from a serious illness through the agency of the healing ministry of the church, Mr. Winckley went into the ministry as a missionary to the Africans. He founded Kearsney Healing Home in 1944, offering the ministry of spiritual healing to the people of South Africa.

The home is concerned with making sufferers whole and not merely with treating the inescapable results of ignorance, folly of misfortune. The new and more realistic outlook on illness of those in charge of the home concerns itself with the treatment, not so much of diseases as of people. It concentrates increasingly on the understanding and removal of all factors which lead to ill-health.

The Rev. Mr. Winckley will conduct services at 7:30 p.m. February 7 - 9 and will hold Instruction Session for the ladies on February 8 - 9 at 10 a.m. Members of all church denominations are cordially invited.

Hit Jackpot, But Not For Money

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Miss Ora Ashwell hit the jackpot but it wasn't for money.

Oklahoma Tax Commission authorities say the odds are 150,000 to 1 for a person to come up with an auto license tag with the last four numbers exactly like their telephone number.

Miss Ashwell's license number is 1 8389 and her telephone number is Windsor 6-8389.

Family Sworn In By 3-Year-Old

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Three-year-old Patrick Henry swore in the other eight members of his family Friday as U.S. citizens.

Pat was born in this country. The others were Canadian-born.

U.S. Judge William C. Mathes performed the ceremony over again a few minutes later.

Those who took the oath were Sarah and Joseph Henry and their children: Colin, Gordon, Joseph Jr., Donna, Cynthia and Susan. They are from Toronto.

the electric lineman:

rough weather warrior

When winter weather is at its worst, the electric lineman must do his best—to keep essential electricity on the lines to you. Bad weather is bad news for your electric system, because sometimes it overcomes all the modern devices used to keep power flowing. That's when the electric lineman must put on his "climbers" and go up the poles to correct the trouble. He's your rough weather friend, working under tough conditions so you can have electricity at your command, night

Lawford And Chums Making Own Movie

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Peter Lawford looked offended when I asked if he and his chums were simply making a home movie. "We have a budget of $1,700,000," he retorted.

So if it is a home movie, it would be one of the most expensive of all time.

The whole thing has sounded like a clambake, this project known as "Ocean's 11." It involves most of the members of the so-called Clan. The Clan claims they don't call themselves that, but everyone else does. It's the tight little group that operates socially—and sometimes professionally—with Frank Sinatra as its focal point.

Sinatra, Lawford and others have long been talking about "Ocean's 11," and it's hard to believe that they're actually starting to film it in Las Vegas this week. Also in the cast are such insiders and outsiders as Dean Martin, Sammy Davis Jr., Akim Tamiroff, Ika Chase and, among the guest stars, Tony Curtis and George Raft.

"The whole project started on the beach four years ago," Lawford related. "I was sitting down at Santa Monica one day when a fellow told me about this story. It was dreamed up by another fellow who worked at a gas station nearby. The plot sounded terrific to me, and I asked him to put it down on paper."

The gimmick is that 11 ex-soldiers pull a mammoth heist on six Las Vegas casinos. The leader, played by Sinatra, is named Ocean. Hence the title. Lawford commissioned a script and sewed up the rights for $10,000.

"I had the idea of trying to interest some top name like Bill Holden in doing it with me," Lawford said. "I never dreamed of Frank because—well, because we hadn't been speaking for nine years. We had been good friends once but got involved in some hokey misunderstanding."

Lawford tried hard but could interest no one in the project. Word of it reached Sinatra, and he was interested in the story. One night at a party he broke the frost and asked Pete about it. As their enthusiasm mounted, their friendship revived until they became close buddies again.

What do the casinos think of the project?

"They haven't seen the script," Lawford said slyly. "We did have a meeting with the chief of police. He was pretty shook up. The fact is that such a heist could be pulled off there, merely by switching a few wires."

Fellow-Convicts Marked Birthday

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—Tony Di Tardo was 85 Sunday and cried happily when his fellow convicts presented him with a cake with 85 candles.

Sentenced to life in 1920 in the slaying of his wife, Di Tardo has no interest in leaving after 40 years behind bars.

"I'll turn down every offer of parole," he told prison mates who helped him blow out the candles. "Here I am and here I'll stay."

He lives in a private cell in the hospital block because, guards say, he keeps his radio turned up so loud.

He Just Yelled, Gunman Fleed

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—Apparently the racket is mightier than the rod.

A young bandit entered the office of a Salt Lake motel just before midnight Saturday.

The robber produced a nickel-plated pistol and told Howard Fox, 35, "this is a stickup."

Fox leaped into a storeroom, grabbed a tennis racket and yelled "Go get him!" to no one in particular. He just yelled it.

The holdup man fled.

Books & Stuff

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG
 Around this time of year we always get nostalgic because it's anniversary time. It was almost exactly six years ago that we first began writing "Books and Stuff"—the first column appeared on Saturday, January 9, 1954, and has been running steadily every week ever since, except for occasional vacations and other lapses. We can't tell you the exact date of the second column, oddly enough, because we just noticed, on looking back through the old file, that the issue of the REFLECTOR it appeared in had two dates on the page with the Column the date is Friday, Jan. 15, 1954. Turning it over on the other side—which was the editorial page on that day—we note to our amazement that the date at the top is Thursday, Jan. 14. Maybe the old press— which still was putting out the Reflector at that time—made a little mistake. Anyway, we've enjoyed putting out the Column and it doesn't seem so long ago that the first one came out. We could tell you how many books we've reviewed but we won't—it would make us feel too old.

"... but I saw it on TV."

Last week we had a shattering experience in one of our freshman classes. We asked if any of the 20-odd students in it had read "Little Women," by Louisa May Alcott. Nobody raised a hand except one girl, who said, "I never read it—but I saw it on TV." The implication, of course, was that seeing it on TV was a substitute for reading it—like seeing it in the movies used to be. Now, apparently, "seeing it on TV" is just as good a substitute for reading a book as the movies, so there are two good reasons for not reading rather than just one. Our comment is that neither experience displaces that of sitting down with the book, all alone, and just plating reading it all the way through—something which very few people have time to do these days, especially the people who need to read most, those who go to school and college.

Local Scene
 We hope you've seen the news notices of the coming of grand opera to Greenville—the date is Tuesday, Jan. 26, curtain is at eight at McGinnis Auditorium, and the selection is "Carmen," which Tarheelia's own Grass Roots Opera Company will be performing. We hope you get there. . . . Over the last weekend in the month the E.C.C. Playhouse will be giving also at McGinnis, "The Diary of Ann Frank," based on the best-seller about Nazi persecution of the Jews in Germany and one of the truly meaningful plays to come out in recent years. . . . One of the important novels to be issued recently was "They Came To Corvura," which has just been turned into a top-flight movie. It comes to the local cinema next week. . . .

Today's Reviews
 One of the many compensations of reviewing is the right to say exactly what you think about a book. We always encourage our reviewers to be completely frank—no matter how bad their opinion might be, we want them to express it. Here are two reviews by two very honest and outspoken ladies, both of them faculty wives at E.C.C. and both very adept at saying what they mean. . . .

HAVE PEN, WILL AUTOGRAPH.
 By Harnett T. Kane, Garden City: Doubleday & Co., 1959.
 Mr. Kane, self-confessed Paul Revere of the ladies' luncheon club circuit, has written an account of his experiences touring the U.S. to autograph his books. The publisher describes this latest volume as "chuckle-ome." The author certainly tried to write a funny, witty report, and to turn out yet another book that will sell. He has succeeded in turning out a labored, contrived, hokey podge of faintly amusing incidents.

One can't help doubting that a perfectly strange female really asked Harnett T. Kane to inscribe "In memory of that night in lower 12"—even a female from Texas.

If you have a complete set of Mr. Kane's works, twenty volumes, by all means add "Have Pen, Will Autograph." This book is at least as funny as the others are historically accurate.

By Elizabeth Williams

THE FIERY FLOWER. By Paul J. Wellman, Garden City, N. Y.: Doubleday & Co., 1959.
 This is one of the most disappointing books I have ever read, its only redeeming feature being the fine acknowledgment the author gives to his father for assistance rendered.

The story has little to offer in plot, or anything else for that matter, except for a lewd treatment of sex. Actress Elsa Meade finds herself marooned on a tropical island after a plane crash, and is cared for by Jon and Vera, two superhuman beings who may have been either unusual physical specimens, or gods of Greek mythology (Jon's ears were slightly pointed). Also on the island is a colony of lepers who are restored to health by Jon and Vera. How Elsa Meade fits into the scheme of things on the island where Jon holds absolute rule over all perhaps might have been an intriguing plot, but to my notion, under handling of author Wellman, it becomes nothing but trash.

At the risk of hurting someone's feelings I refrain from further comment.

River Of Lava Continues Flow

HONOLULU (AP)—A fiery river of lava continued its flow to the sea from Kilauea volcano today after hard-working bulldozer crews prevented it from engulfing Warm Springs resort Sunday.

The crews pushed up a 20-foot dike to divert the molten rock shortly before a new fountain from the main lava flow shot lava and pumice to 1,700 feet. The main flow is near the evacuated village of Kapoho, three miles from Warm Springs.

Guided tours to the Kapoho area were permitted again Sunday after fumes and pumice fall stopped. Kilauea is on Hawaii Island, largest in the archipelago and 200 miles southeast of Honolulu.

The retired carpenter and his wife, 93, were asked whether they had ever thought about age. "No," said Roth, "and now is no time to start."

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

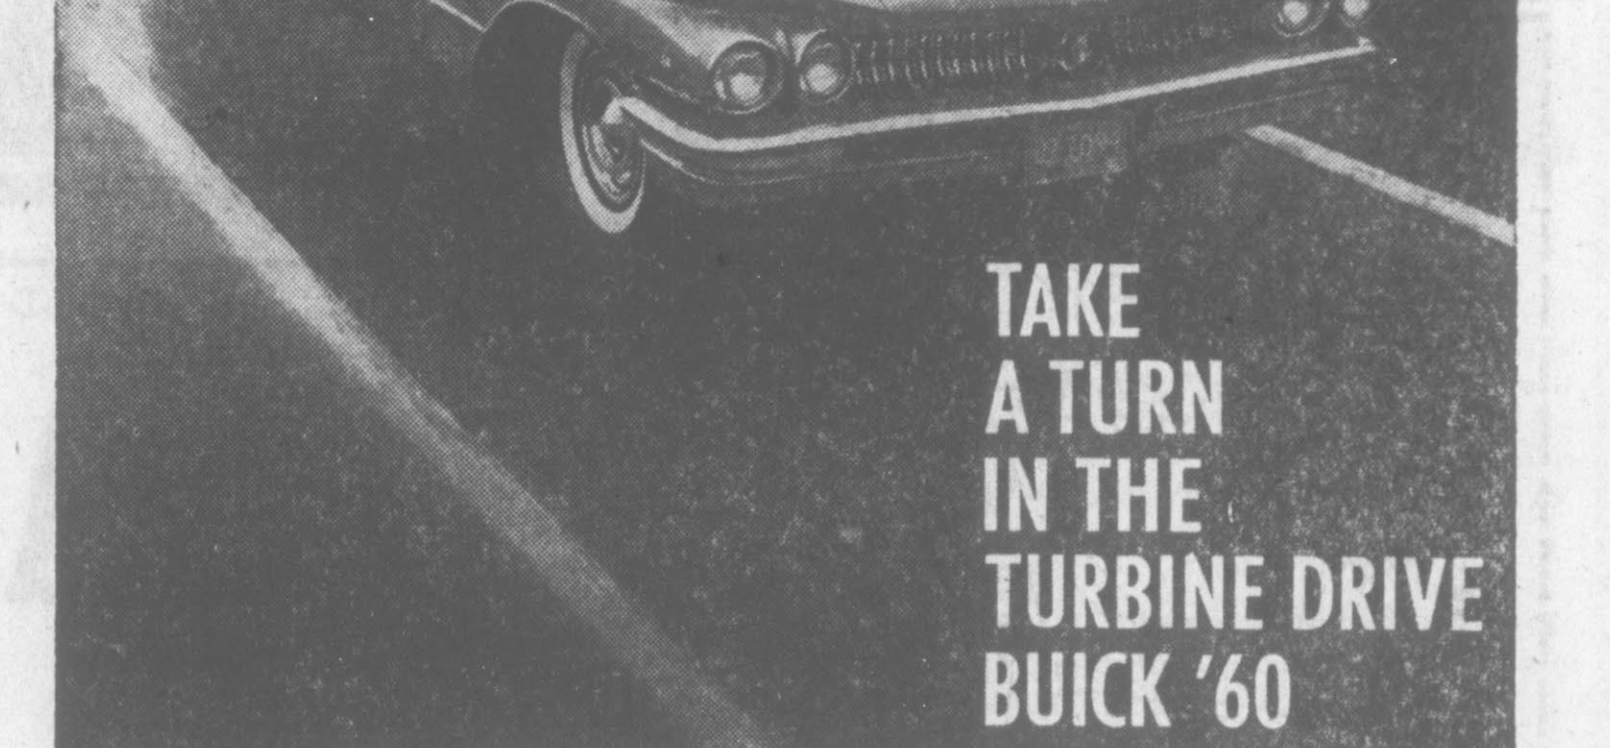

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dynex)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H. At your druggist. Money back guarantee.

WALL STREET — NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market backed away listlessly in moderate trading early this afternoon.

Key stocks took losses running from fractions to a point or more. A few specially situated issues ran counter to the trend, some posting gains of 2 or 3 points.

The decline among key industrials and rails was on a broad front, the market seeming to lack incentive for buying. At the start, prices were mixed but the number of losers increased gradually.

Tight money and comment that a consistent policy of that kind usually ends business booms remained a preoccupation in Wall Street. Hesitation also was linked to the awaiting of President Eisenhower's budget message.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 80 cents to $225.80 with the industrials down $1.10, the rails down $1 and the utilities down 10 cents.

Corporate bonds were mixed in moderately active trading.

U.S. government bonds improved.

Ulysses Webb Sr., 65, of 104 Evans St., died at Pitt Memorial Hospital Sunday at 11 a.m. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. at Flanagan & Parker's Funeral Home. Burial will be in Brown Hill Cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mattie Webb of the home; three sons, William Webb, Ulysses Webb Jr., and Talmadge Webb, all of the home; a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Hattie Webb.

The Christian Youth Fellowship of Philippi Christian Church will meet at the church tonight at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is expected.

Last Rites Set For Mrs. C. T. Munford

Mrs. Caroline Savage Munford, widow of Charles T. Munford, died at her home, 514 Evans Street, Sunday afternoon at 1:30.

Funeral services will be held at the home Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. W. M. Howard, her pastor, assisted by Rev. R. W. Bradshaw of Wilson, a former pastor. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Munford, a native of Leggett, spent all of her adult life in Greenville. Her husband operated a store in Greenville many years. She was a member of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church and was the first president of Women's Missionary Society of the church; a past Worthy Matron and charter member of the Order of Eastern Star, Greenville Chapter No. 149, past Worthy High Priestess and charter member of Greenville White Shrine No. 7, and a charter member of the Round Table Book Club.

Surviving are a grandson, Dr. Richard Munford of Baltimore; two great-grandchildren; two daughters-in-law, Mrs. C. T. Munford Jr. of Baltimore and Mrs. Robert E. Lee of Burbank, Calif.

ECC Extension Center Slated

MURFREESBORO—East Carolina College will operate an extension center on the Chowan College campus during the 1960 Summer School Session.

Courses offered may be used for renewal of teaching certificates and for advance degree credit.

The 1960 Summer School session at Chowan College will be held from June 13 through July 21.

Director of Admissions Ross Cadle said course work will be offered on three levels: high school, college and graduate.

For college students, Chowan will offer classes in English, mathematics, biology, history, business administration, and graphic arts (printing), as well as other courses for which the demand is sufficient. The college will also offer certain courses for high school students.

Cadle also stated that a second six-weeks term would follow the June 13-July 21 session provided there is sufficient demand for it.

Traffic Toll Will Spends 10 Days Behind Iron Curtain

RALEIGH (AP) — The Motor Vehicles Department's tally of highway deaths and injuries for the period from 4 p.m. Friday through 10 a.m. today:

Killed	4
Injured (total)	94
Killed this year	38
Killed to date last year	58
Injured to Nov. 1, 1959	20,000
Injured to Nov. 1, 1958	17,253

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's crusade of world travels to promote peace and freedom will take him behind the Iron Curtain into the Soviet Union for 10 days starting June 10.

Dates for the President's trip, planned since last summer, were announced Sunday by the White House and the Soviet government.

The U.S. announcement was made in Albany, Ga., shortly before Eisenhower flew back to Washington after a weekend of quiet hunting.

In going to the Soviet Union Eisenhower will be returning the two-week visit which Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev made to the United States last September.

The President will go first to Moscow. He also will visit a few other cities in the Soviet Union, but there has been no final decision as to which ones.

There were no immediate announcements as to whether the President will be accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower and their four grandchildren. Khrushchev invited the youngsters when he met them at the President's Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

Diplomatic sources in Moscow said Eisenhower will stay in a guest house in the Kremlin rather than the Kremlin palace.

Eisenhower's trip will be part of his campaign of worldwide travel in behalf of what he terms "peace and friendship — in freedom."

Khrushchev's two weeks in this country seem to have made no basic improvement in relations, and now he is pushing a new pressure drive to force the Western leaders to give up protection of West Berlin.

That will be a main issue at the Paris summit conference starting May 16, less than a month before Eisenhower's arrival in the Soviet Union. The President, Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French President Charles de Gaulle will meet with Khrushchev at the Paris session.

Funeral Held Today For Harry F. Lucas

AYDEN—Harry F. Lucas, 54, died at Alamance Hospital in Burlington Saturday morning. He was an employee of the N. C. State Highway Department in Burlington. He was a member of the Elizabethtown Baptist Church.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 Monday at Britt's Funeral Chapel. Rev. Bennie Pledger officiated. Burial was in the Ayden cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, the former Fannie Reid Worthington; a sister, Mrs. C. C. Cole of Lumberton, and a brother, Allen Lucas of Elizabethtown.

Funeral Held Today For J. Sam Fleming

Funeral services for J. Sam Fleming, 69, World War I veteran, were held at the Greenville Funeral Home Chapel Monday at 3 p.m. Rev. C. W. Kimbrough officiated. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Fleming was born in Pitt County, son of the late John and Fannie Gainer Fleming. In 1928 he was married to Mary Cannon. He was a member of Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church and American Legion Post No. 39. Before his retirement he operated a farm and the J. Sam Fleming Salvage Co.

Surviving in addition to his wife are one son, J. Sam Fleming Jr. of the home; two daughters, Mrs. George Fuller, Grifton, and Mrs. Harry W. Boney, Decatur, Ga.; three grandchildren; and one sister, Mrs. W. C. Chancey of Grifton.

Midwest States Chilled By Blustery Snowstorm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A blustery snowstorm swept into the Midwest today from the West, leaving a heavy blanket of white across areas from the eastern Colorado plains to the Mississippi Valley.

The storm, which dumped up to a foot of snow in parts of Colorado, curtailed travel, blocked roads and closed many schools. The Weather Bureau posted warnings of hazardous driving conditions.

The storm was blamed for at least nine deaths, eight of them in accidents on ice-slicked and snow-covered highways. Five were reported in Colorado and three in Illinois. One woman froze to death in Amarillo, Tex.

Heaviest snow during the night, two to four inches, was in southern Iowa and extreme northern Missouri. The fresh falls made a total four to eight inches on the ground. The snow moved into southern Wisconsin, lower Michigan, northern sections of Illinois and Indiana and headed northeastward.

Snow diminished westward from Iowa and Missouri, with light falls from Kansas into the Dakotas, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado. Strong winds caused much drifting in some areas.

Strong northerly winds fanned cold Canadian air southward across the plains, with temperatures dropping in the Dakotas and Montana southward through Colorado and northern New Mexico and Arizona. It was below zero in some areas, with the mercury near zero to about 10 in most of the snow-covered sections.

In Colorado, two main highways, U.S. 24 and U.S. 40, were blocked by huge drifts and many rural roads were blocked.

Up to nine inches of snow fell over the weekend in the Texas Panhandle. Ice slicked roads in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Racing Driver To Talk On Safety

Duane Carter, well-known auto race driver and veteran of the famed Indianapolis 500-mile Memorial Day race, is slated to speak to Junius H. Rose High School students tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 on highway safety.

Carter, a native North Carolinian, is currently on a tour of towns and cities sponsored by the Champion Spark Plug Company of Toledo, Ohio. The campaign was instituted in efforts to help reduce the traffic accident and fatality rate.

The veteran race driver has never been involved in a wreck during his 27 years on the track.

In other talks around the state, Carter's talks have pointed out this theory: safe driving depends on courtesy, attitude, and condition of the car.

Grimesland Youth Charged After Accident

HIT PARKED CAR . . . An estimated $450 damage resulted when the car on the left, which was parked, was struck by the other vehicle on Cotanche St. near Fifth, Saturday night.

A 22-year-old Grimesland youth was charged with careless and reckless driving Saturday night by Greenville police after his car collided with a parked vehicle on Cotanche St. near the intersection of Fifth.

Alfred Cleveland Evans of Route 1, Grimesland was charged after his car struck a vehicle owned by Danny Lee Long, 20, of Winterville, Ohio.

Damage to the Long auto was estimated to be about $150 while damage to the Evans car was set at $300.

Rescue Squad where he was treated for a cut on the head and released.

The collision occurred about 10:09 p.m. A passenger in the Evans car, Alton Hodges, 24, of Route 2, Greenville, was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital by the Greenville

Arrest 2 Boys After 100-MPH Road Chase

GRIFTON — Two 16-year-old boys were arrested early Saturday morning after a 100-mile-an-hour race that ended at a Highway Patrol roadblock east of Grifton.

The boys, identified as Daniel Edward Hill of Route 1, Kinston, and Joe Francis Rhem of Route 6, Kinston, are charged with speeding in excess of 100-miles-per-hour and pre-arranged racing.

Arresting officer, Ptl. R. E. Tayloe of Grifton, said he first observed the two cars, one a 1956 Oldsmobile and the other a 1956 Ford, "acting peculiar" in Grifton about 11:45 p.m. Friday. Tayloe said he then went out N. C. 118 four miles east of Grifton and drove his car into the woods, and walked back to the roadway to watch.

The two vehicles came into sight and stopped, then each made a "test run down the highway, first going slowly, then speeding up." The cars then allegedly lined up side-by-side and took off, heading west toward Grifton about four miles away with the officer in hot pursuit.

"The Ford, driven by Rhem was in the left lane all the way," Tayloe commented, "except for one time when he had to drop back to avoid a head-on collision with an oncoming car." Speeds during the three and three-tenths mile chase were well over 100-miles-per-hour, Tayloe noted.

As the two racers and the pursuing patrol car rounded a curve, a bright red light loomed out of the darkness and the three speeding autos came to a screeching halt. Two Lenoir County patrolmen, S. H. Newman and C. E. Edwards, had set up a roadblock at Tayloe's request to stop the racers. Newman's car was standing in the middle of the highway with its bright red warning light gleaming. The speeding autos stopped only a few yards short of the patrol car. The time: 12:05 a.m.

Tayloe quoted the boys as saying they had planned the race while at a grill south of Grifton, "because Rhem did not like Oldsmobiles and Hill did not like Fords."

A third youth, Robert Derring Phillips, 17, of Route 2, Grifton, a passenger in the Rhem car, was charged with aiding and abetting, speeding in excess of 100-miles-per-hour and pre-arranged racing. The boys were placed under $300 bond each and are scheduled for trial in Grifton Recorder's Court Wednesday.

If convicted the boys stand to lose their cars as well as their drivers license.

The cars were registered in their parents' names.

Chairman For Farmville Drive

Mrs. Russell Britt of Farmville, North Carolina has been appointed Farmville Community Chairman for the New March of Dimes for 1960, it was announced today by Mr. William A. Creech, Smithfield, North Carolina, State March of Dimes Chairman, and Mr. J. H. Rose, Pitt County Chapter Chairman.

The Farmville March of Dimes will consist mainly of Mothers' March or House-To-House canvass at a date, or dates, to be announced later. The funds will be used to help support the New and expanded program of The National Foundation, which is now attacking the crippling diseases of birth defects and arthritis, just as it attacked the problem of polio.

Mrs. Britt teaches Science and Math at the Walstonburg School in Greene County. She is a past president of the Pitt County Home Demonstration Clubs and a member of the North Carolina Education Association and the National Education Association. She and Mr. Britt are the parents of five children, one of whom contracted polio in 1952.

"The people of Farmville who helped make the Salk vaccine possible by previous March of Dimes contributions," Mrs. Britt said, "have an even greater stake in this New March of Dimes, because one out of four families is affected by these three diseases—the nation's biggest cripplers."

Slightly Injured In Car Collision At Intersection

A Negro woman was slightly injured Sunday night when two vehicles collided at the intersection of U.S. 13 and the Belvoir Highway just north of Greenville. Patrolman H. R. Winslow, investigating officer, said the woman, Mrs. Novella Harrell, of Battle St., received minor head injuries when a car, driven by her husband, Jonny Harrell, collided with a car driven by Clyde Daniels of Fairhill, N.C.

Damage to the Harrell car, which was headed south on U.S. 13, was set at $150 while damage to the Daniels vehicle, headed east on the Belvoir highway, was placed at $125.

Daniels was charged with failure to stop for a stop sign as a result of the investigation.

Mrs. Harrell was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital and released.
