Heavily Insured Ex-Con, Presumed Dead In Airliner Wreck, Turns Up Alive

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A grey-haired, heavily insured ex-convict presumed dead in a mysterious airliner crash has turned up alive here. Dr. Vernon Spears of Dallas was the focus of investigation into bizarre circumstances surrounding the Nov. 16 crash of a commercial airliner into the Gulf of Mexico. Federal authorities are investigating the possibility that the crash may have resulted from a bomb. Spears was seized by two FBI agents Wednesday as he hurriedly checked out of a Phoenix resort motel. He was jailed on a charge of interstate transportation of a stolen car, but the FBI was more interested in his answers to these questions: What was the 65-year-old natural path up to when he took out $100,000 in travel insurance? Why was he listed as a passenger on the ill-fated flight? Did he prevail upon William Allen Taylor of Tampa, Fla., a former prison acquaintance, to take his place on the plane? If so, why and how? Was there any connection between Spears and Julian Andrew Frank, New York lawyer insured for $900,000 and named as a possible suicide bomber on another airliner which crashed in North Carolina Jan. 6? If Spears has given any answers, the FBI won't say. News-men have not been permitted to talk with him. The extent of the FBI's interest is indicated by the $35,000 bond it asked for Spears at his arraignment on the theft charge before

J.S. Commissioner Carey B. Wilson Spears waived preliminary hearing and was held in lieu of bond. "I doubt if I could make it if you knocked $30,000 off of it," he said when the bond was set. Investigation into the two crashes—both of National Airlines planes—is continuing by the Civil Aeronautics Board and the Senate Aviation subcommittee in Washington. So far, their probes have not established that a bomb was responsible for either crash. The crashes claimed 76 lives, 42 in the Gulf and 34 near Bolivia, N.C. A reporter asked Spears Wednesday if he had bombed the plane. He laughed and replied, "No. I may make a statement tomorrow." He is accused of driving Taylor's car from Dallas to Arizona, while he had permission to drive only from Tampa to Dallas. Testimony at a CAB hearing showed Taylor, 60, a Tampa tire salesman, served time with Spears in 1936. The two were said to have talked in Tampa before the Gulf of Mexico crash. Only 10 bodies—none of them Taylor's—were recovered. Alice Steele Taylor of Tampa previously had said she believed her divorced husband was on the plane under Spears' name possibly hypnotized. "I am waiting for Dr. Spears to tell me what happened to Mr. Taylor," she said in Tampa early today after learning that Spears had been found at Phoenix. Mrs. Taylor told the Tampa Tribune "my first thought was 'Thank God they've found Spears,' but then I realized what must have happened to Mr. Taylor. I think they will prove that Mr. Taylor was on that airplane. "I do thank God that Spears has been found. Without Spears, the finger of scorn has been pointed at Mr. Taylor and in all the years I have known him he was not a bad man." The Taylors, wed 18 years, were divorced three years ago. Mrs. Taylor said Spears kept occasional contact with Taylor during the marriage. "He used to send Mr. Taylor clothes, although Mr. Taylor seldom wore the gifts," she said. Spears is no stranger to trouble with the law. He calmly admitted as much as his arraignment. The record shows that since 1927, he has been convicted of mail fraud, forgery, larceny, false pretenses, violation of immigration laws, false personation and robbery. He served prison terms in Kansas, Missouri, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Florida, Oklahoma and Maryland. He was free under a $2,500 bond on a California indictment for abortion when he disappeared, a codefendant in that case said Spears told him he knew New York lawyer Frank. The FBI declined to say how they learned Spears was in Phoenix. The manager of the Ball Hi Hotel said Spears, registered as George Rhodes, obviously was in a hurry when he checked out. Two FBI agents grabbed him as he was climbing into a taxicab.

Bank Held Up

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—A Negro gunman held up the Pendleton Street branch of the South Carolina National Bank about noon today and escaped with an estimated $14,000. Alex McCullough, a vice president of the bank said the bandit poked a gun at Mrs. Evelyn Wood, a teller, and ordered her to fill a brown paper sack with money. "He couldn't have been in the bank more than a minute or two," McCullough said. The bank officer said he learned that passersby saw a man matching the description of the bandit drive off in a taxicab, that had been parked outside the bank. McCullough said there were about seven employees and eight customers in the bank at the time of the robbery. Only Mrs. Wood was aware of the robbery, he said, until the gunman fled. Mrs. Wood described the unmasked bandit as in his late 20s. She said his gun was a small, silver-plated weapon.

Larkins Is Officially Candidate

RALEIGH (AP)—Trenton Attorney John D. Larkins Jr., who wants to solve the state's money problems by raising the income level of its people, is 1960's official candidate for governor. Larkins, 50, the state Democratic national committee man, told a news conference and a statewide television audience Wednesday he was in the running for the state's top executive job. His campaign, he said, would be based on a program of expanding industrialization, aiding farmers in their search for higher income, providing better highways and schools, and providing an improved prison system, an adequate welfare program and a new agency to help cities clear their slums. The final decision is up to North Carolina Democrats who vote May 28 in the primary election.

Larkins, legislative veteran and long-time party leader, is expected to be followed into the race by Fayetteville Lawyer Terry Sanford. Sanford said this week he will make his candidacy official early next month. Other unofficial, but potential, candidates include Speaker of the House Addison Hewlett of Wilmington, State Treasurer Edwin Gill, State Sen. O. Arthur Kirkling of Greensboro and former Assistant Atty. Gen. I. Beverly Lake of Raleigh. Larkins, who said he intends to open a state headquarters within the next two months in Raleigh, plans to carry his campaign into every county. In response to newsmen's questions, Larkins said he has no plans to resign as Democratic National committeeman. Asked if he were expecting Gov. Hodges' support, Larkins said he would remain neutral. On another subject, he commented, "I pledge myself to the job of providing an adequate welfare program for North Carolina." He called recent cuts in certain welfare programs "heartbreaking."

Find Woman Dead Of Pistol Wound

A 64-year-old woman apparently committed suicide at her home on Eighth St. shortly after 9 a.m. today. The victim, Mrs. Hallette Williams Hooker, 510 East Eighth St., was found shot in the head by her husband, F. Bruce Hooker about 9:30 when he returned home. He had left the house about 9 a.m. Investigators said the weapon used was a "light caliber pistol." Coroner E. W. Harvey said Hooker called a physician when he discovered his wife lying on the bedroom floor. The doctor, who pronounced Mrs. Hooker dead, said she had been ill for some time and was "despondent."

Shows Map Values In Pitt Development

Using a dozen or more examples, Dr. Robert E. Cramer of the East Carolina College School of Geography explained how detailed maps of Pitt and surrounding counties can be of "invaluable assistance" to the Pitt County Development Commission before the commissioners at their regular meeting last night at the court house here. The EOC professor exhibited several different types of maps turned out by the department. Types included population, market proximity, topography, and natural resources maps. He told the commissioners his department has already furnished some maps to the commission. Economic Consultant L. A. Weston had previously stated, "Dr. Cramer's work has been very helpful in exhibiting Pitt County's physical attributes to prospects."

Monkey Survives Rocket Ride In Space 'Rehearsal'

WALLOPS ISLAND, Va. (AP)—A little monkey named "Miss Sam" today survived a 48,900 foot rocket flight in rehearsal for human space travel. The animal, a female, rode more than nine miles up in a replica of the chamber that will carry the first mercury astronaut. The capsule was separated from a Little Joe booster rocket by means of an escape mechanism designed to save the astronaut if something goes wrong at the launching. With its 7 1/2-pound passenger in a special compartment, the capsule was parachuted to the surface of the sea 12 miles off this Virginia Eastern Shore island. Then the capsule was recovered by helicopter. Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the animal appeared to be in good condition on the basis of preliminary examination made by remote control while the animal was still inside the one-top capsule. They said that it would be about two or three hours, however, before they could open the capsule and the 125 pound chamber in which the monkey rode.

It was announced that the Little Joe booster rocket which carried the capsule aloft rose to a height of 36,500 feet. At that point a smaller rocket mounted above the capsule was fired. The latter rocket boosted the capsule to its ultimate height of 48,900 feet. The second rocket was part of the device intended to free an astronaut from the main vehicle in case of trouble. Space agency officials said that on the basis of preliminary study it appeared the test was completely successful. The main object of today's test was to test the escape mechanism.

under rigorous air load conditions. Scientists will analyze data recorded on board to determine the operation of the escape mechanism. The capsule, in which the monkey rode in its own chamber, was subjected to air load pressures of about 1,000 pounds per square inch at the time the escape rocket was detonated. Other monkeys have been rocketed higher and farther than today's animal, but this was the first time a living creature had been in a capsule at a time when maximum air load conditions prevailed.

Big Colombian Airliner Explodes; Seventeen Americans Among Dead

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—A Colombian airliner bound from New York to Colombia buckled its landing gear and exploded in setting down at the Montego Bay airport early today, killing 37 of the 46 persons aboard. Seventeen of the dead were Americans, among them a son and daughter-in-law of Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.). They were Thomas C. Capehart and his wife, Nancy, both 36, of Indianapolis, on a business trip to Bogota, Colombia.

Two Dutch and two Australian passengers and five members of the seven-member Colombian crew lived through the crash and the resultant fire that ravaged the two-million-dollar Super Constellation for two hours. The plane, operated by the Avianca Colombian National Airline, had made an unscheduled stop at Miami for repairs to a faltering engine. It was 10 hours overdue when it reached Montego Bay, a popular Caribbean resort on Jamaica's north coast, 550 miles south of Miami, about 2:35 a.m. A rainstorm was over Jamaica, but the moon was shining as the plane headed in for a landing. Witnesses said the left landing gear collapsed as the plane hit the runway and there was a terrific explosion, followed by two other blasts. The plane skidded into a sheet of swamp water, perhaps eight inches deep, north of the runway. Two of the four engines were ripped loose and landed 100 yards from the fuselage. Removal of the bodies began in mid-morning. The plane captain, J. Duque, was among the survivors. None of those who got out appeared to be seriously injured. This was the fourth fatal crash of a commercial airliner in 1960 and raised the airliner death toll for the first three weeks of the new year to 163. At least 16 others have died in the United States in private plane crashes since Jan. 1. Some of the passengers aboard the Colombian plane flight 671—were booked for vacations or business pursuits in Jamaica, Popular with winter fun-seekers. Others were heading on to South America. All 42 persons aboard died when a Scandinavian jet liner crashed on a hill near Ankara, Turkey, on Tuesday. Last Monday, a Capital Airlines plane crashed in Virginia, killing 50 persons. On Jan. 6, a National Airlines plane exploded in the air near Bolivia, N.C., killing 34 persons. Major military air crashes have claimed 29 lives—27 American and two Canadian—this year. The latest was the crash Tuesday of a U.S. Navy plane on snow-capped Karanfil Dag—Pink Mountain—15 miles northwest of Adana, Turkey. All 16 aboard perished.

Pitt Countian Killed By Falling Tree

RESCUE WORKERS bring out body of accident victim.

A 26-year-old local man was accidentally killed yesterday when hit by a falling tree while logging in a wooded section near Bell's Fork, south of Greenville. The victim was identified by Coroner E. W. Harvey as James Lee Baker of Route 1, Greenville. According to the coroner, Baker and a Negro, Cleveland Sherman of Route 3, Greenville, were logging in a wooded area about a mile west of Bell's Fork on the Ralph Tucker farm.

Sherman said he was pulling a large pine log with a tractor when the log struck a dead tree. The impact caused the rotten tree, about 15 inches in diameter, to break off at ground level and strike Baker on the head, instantly killing him. The Greenville Rescue Squad was called about 2:55, almost an hour after the accident occurred, to remove the body from the woods. Baker's father, Leland Baker of Route 2, Greenville, was working

The injured included three other Negroes, James Cobb, 32; Clinton Brown, 18; and Arcola Bryant, 39. RALEIGH (AP)—The State Hospitals Board of Control voted overwhelmingly today to locate a new $1 1/2-million dollar training school for mentally retarded children at Morganton. The board voted after a lengthy discussion of the advantages of locating the new school at Morganton, Salisbury or Asheville and after hearing delegations from the three cities.

Says Some Jails In Bad Condition

RALEIGH (AP)—A recent preliminary survey showed a number of jails in North Carolina are in "deplorable condition and need immediate attention to remedy improvements." This was reported today by J. M. Jarrett, head of the sanitary engineering division of the State Board of Health. He said a sanitary inspector, C. R. Brown, had visited many jails in a recent tour around the state. Jarrett pointed out that his department has no authority to order the defects corrected. It may only advise the local governing boards of its finding. Brown said the Granville County jail at Oxford is "not fit for human habitation, and I could not get the jailer to let me in the Negro cells." Brown said jails at Elizabethtown and Moore county should be renovated or new ones built. He reported he found dirty beds in the Asheville jail. He added Police Chief A. R. Sluder wanted to know the statutory authority for Brown's inspection. Brown said other jails needing improvements included those at Windsor, Southport, Caldwell County, Yancey County and Cleveland County.

Kennedy Faces Humphrey In Wisconsin Demo Test

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) announced today that he will run against Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey in Wisconsin's presidential preference primary April 5. His decision sets up the first direct test between the two major candidates for the Democratic nomination. Kennedy, who had said earlier that any formal declaration would be made in Wisconsin, flew to Milwaukee from Washington to address a news conference this morning. His decision, made against recommendations expressed both publicly and privately by some of his top advisors, amounts to a challenge to Humphrey in his back yard. And the race may be for higher stakes than Wisconsin's 31 convention delegate votes, since Humphrey already has said that if he loses in Wisconsin he may withdraw from the race. Losing, he said, means getting fewer than 16 delegates. Kennedy greeted the news conference with a statement that began, "I shall run in the Wisconsin presidential primary. "I am fully aware of the risk and difficulties that course involves. No other candidate, real or unannounced, has indicated a willingness to enter any primary adjoining the home state of another contender—including New Hampshire, which is next to my own state of Massachusetts. "Nevertheless, the people of Wisconsin should not be denied their right to help select the Democratic presidential nominee merely because their state happens to adjoin Minnesota. "The Republicans of Wisconsin have frequently in the past been given a wide choice of presidential contenders. In 1960 they will not have such a choice. The Democrats must. "Even though my chief competitors in the convention remain safely on the sidelines, hoping to gain the nomination through manipulation of the convention, I cannot follow the advice of those urging me not to enter this or other representative primaries." Humphrey immediately welcomed Kennedy's entry into the Wisconsin primary and repeated his invitation to the Massachusetts senator "to meet me on the same platform in a series of informal debates to clarify our respective positions." Humphrey already has entered the Wisconsin contest and left the state only Tuesday after a two-day visit in which he made major television speeches. He also challenged Kennedy to a series of debates in the Wisconsin presidential campaign. The Kennedy campaign in Wisconsin was expected to be based on the contention that he would have an uphill battle against Humphrey in a state where the Minnesota senator has campaigned frequently and hard. (7,760 miles) from the takeoff spot—not named in the announcement—and traveled at a speed of 26,000 kilometers (16,150 miles an hour, the announcement said. At a height of about 80 to 90 kilometers (49 to 55 miles) the next to last stage of the rocket "disintegrated and partly burned out" on entering the dense strata of the atmosphere," Tass said. "The nose cone of the last stage of the rocket was tracked in flight in the atmosphere, and its entry into the water was recorded by the (Soviet Navy) ships' radar, optical and acoustic installations," Tass added. "As a result of the measurements it was established that the rocket fell less than 2 kilometers (1.24 miles) away from the predetermined point, which confirms the high precision of the rocket's guiding system. "The rocket was started sharply on appointed time. The flight of the rocket as a whole and the functioning of all its stages corresponded with the outlined program."

Russians Report First Pacific Rocket Accurate

MOSCOW (AP)—The Russians announced today they fired a rocket 7,760 miles into the central Pacific which fell less than 1.24 miles from its calculated target. The multistage ballistic missile "was the first in the series of planned launches" for producing rockets to put heavy earth satellites into orbit and for space flights toward other planets of the solar system, Tass news agency said. The Tass announcement said the point of fall of the rocket "confirmed the high exactitude of the system of rocket control." It landed at 8:05 p.m. Wednesday, Moscow time (12:05 p.m. EST) at a point 12,500 kilometers

The captain of an Australian jet airliner reported from Sydney that the Soviet rocket had exploded at least 200 miles from its designated target area. Capt. R. A. Gray said he had seen a "huge bright orange flash bulb going off" 12:05 p.m. EST Wednesday. This was the same time the Russians said the rocket landed and may have been the next to last stage which Tass said had disintegrated upon entering the atmosphere.

Guaranty Bank Had Its Highest Earnings

Another record breaking year was reported to stockholders of Guaranty Bank and Trust Co. by President J. H. Waldrop yesterday afternoon. He said the bank's earnings were the highest in its history. Waldrop reported at the 59th annual meeting of stockholders held yesterday afternoon in the new main office building at Fifth and Washington Sts. Approximately 90 persons attended the noon luncheon. Approximately 125 stockholders attended the stockholders meeting which was held in the bank's community room on the third floor of the new building. Around 80 per cent or 80,000 of the 100,000 shares of stock were represented at the meeting, either in person or by proxy. In reporting on the bank's record, Waldrop said that in addition to $203,790.06 transferred to undivided profits from the 1959 earnings, $240,000 was reserved 80

Hewlett Readies Announcement

RALEIGH (AP)—Addison Hewlett is to hold a news conference here today amid speculation he will court himself out of the gubernatorial race, but leave the door open to a senatorial campaign. The 50-year-old Wilmington attorney and 1959 House speaker has given no hint as to what he will say at the 5:15 p.m. conference. The Raleigh News and Observer and the Charlotte News said Hewlett will announce himself out of the race to succeed Gov. Luther Hodges, and will loom as a strong possibility to run against U.S. Sen. B. Everett Jordan this year.

Hewlett Readies Announcement

After explaining how the maps are made and the wide range graphical presentation of specific information can cover, Dr. Cramer offered the services of some of his students if the need should arise. He described the work done for the Commission as "fun to the students since this type thing deals with serving a useful purpose. Some EOC students, he said, would "welcome the opportunity" to produce needed maps. The Commission would be asked to pay a small amount for the extra services. Spokesmen for the Commission expressed appreciation to Dr. Cramer for his presentation and told him the Commission, following proper recommendations would probably request the services of the EOC geography department when the need arises.

Egg Shells Can Be Used In Mosaics

FIRST, Miss Jones paints some of her egg shells with water colors.

THEN, after sketching a picture outline on cardboard or plywood, she uses an upholsterer's pin in gluing egg-shell pieces in place. Figures are done before background.

FINISHED product is the result of a lot of planning, work and patience. This woodland scene numbers some 24,300 pieces, and took nearly two years to complete.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Bernice Jones has a hobby that's about as delicate as walking on eggs. She makes mosaic pictures out of egg shells.

Nothing to it, says Miss Jones — provided you've lots of time and patience.

Her third and most recent production, a woodland scene measuring 18 by 27 inches, took nearly two years to complete. It consists of 24,300 pieces of egg shell, give or take a few hundred.

Here's how she does it: Sketch a picture outline on cardboard or plywood. Clean all the egg membrane out of the shells and paint them with water colors in the shades desired.

Break the shells into pieces and glue them in place, picking them up with a bit of airplane cement on an upholsterer's or corsage pin. Spray the finished picture with clear plastic to keep the shells from chipping.

"In time, you get so you can tell approximately what shape piece of shell you want and what shape will fit its neighbor," Miss Jones explains.

"The best procedure is to mask the large shell, then chip the smaller pieces with a needle to fit."

Mrs. Peele Is Hostess

Circle No. 2 of the Fountain Presbyterian Church met in the home of Mrs. Bob Peele recently. The meeting was opened with Mrs. Paul Burnette reading a New Year's poem. To begin the Bible Study for the year, Mrs. Edwin Newton led the program on "Christ, the Unifying Center." Mrs. Carter Smith gave a talk on this month's emphasis, "Christian Emphasis."

Following the business session, the hostess served refreshments to the 14 members present.

Stretching Dollars

RALEIGH — There'll be plenty of bargains at the meat counter this week, according to Mrs. Ruby P. Uzzle, consumer marketing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service.

Red meats, with the exception of veal, show steady to lower prices. The downward trend in pork continues, supplies are plentiful. There are lower prices on loin roast, fresh picnics, bacon and sausage due to present supplies.

Pork is widely featured in both fresh and smoked cuts at below-average prices. Some lamb cuts are off a cent a pound, while beef remains about steady.

Good supplies of eggs offer economy in "extra use" at this season of high production. Large size is the best buy on a per pound basis. The U. S. Department of Agriculture suggests the use of eggs for meals other than breakfast. Attractive prices continue on broilers and fryers.

Oranges, grapefruit, apples, and bananas make up the best buys at the fruit counter. Oranges and grapefruit are excellent values. Check tangerine quality; supplies are down with prices up. Both cooking and eating varieties of apples are available with little change in price. Bananas remain steady. For variety and a tasty fruit treat choose from fresh pineapple or Anjou pears now in good supply.

Quality and quantity of vegetables from Florida are increasing each week, and they are carrying a lower price tag. In best supply and price are cabbage, onions, potatoes, celery, carrots, and rutabagas. Head lettuce is up in price due to heavy frost in growing areas. Cauliflower remains a top quality vegetable. Tomatoes, greens, cucumbers and green beans are in limited supplies and at slightly higher prices.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN
"A thing of beauty is a joy forever," says the poet. To the gardener, this means three things — anticipation, realization, and memory.

A thing is beautiful only to those who can appreciate the thing beautified. The beauty of a sunset or the twilight's last touch of a rose would be lost on a dyspeptic. To him, it would only be the end of a day and the beginning of a night's bout with misery. The unfeeling cannot appreciate beauty; they haven't the capacity.

The gardener (in his best frame of mind) appreciates beauty — for it is the thing he is striving for. He anticipates the color and fragrance of his garden as he plans and prepares for it. The trowel, spade, fertilizer, and packages of seed or plants are rungs in the ladder to the final summit — beauty. Pictures from the seed catalogues, places and gardens visited, help form a mental picture of what he hopes for.

The anticipation period is very important. This is the time of the dream and the spade. Winter dreams are ideas, forming; spring, the spade turning the soil — the planting time — the actual placing in motion of accumulated ideas.

After days of work, feeding, watering, spraying — the picture deepens. Sometime, overnight, the colors come, timid at first — a river flows. Your garden then is a colorful cushion for the wind and a fragrant bed for the sun. Your day of realization is here. Your ideas and dreams are crops of beauty. Each flower does what it is meant to do — please the eye and sweeten the air.

Then they go — each according to its season — some brief — some linger a little longer. They become food for thought on a tomorrow — of art of memory. As the entire picture fades, and frost and chill come, all that is left for you is the memory.

And memory, perhaps is the better part of beauty. For it creates a longing for more beauty. And this leads to dreams, and dreams lead to ideas. Ideas tend to make you anticipate. Anticipation is a step to realization.

So, after all, beauty is an endless thing. And Keats must have been right. "A thing of beauty is a joy forever" — to some of us, at least.

Members and guests enjoyed a covered dish supper served buffet style and prepared by members of the club. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Albert Bell, acting president, who welcomed the guests and made a few announcements. The invocation was given by Mr. Milton May. Following the program, bingo was led by Mrs. Beasley Bell and Mrs. Sim Weisner. Approximately 30 members and guests were present for the occasion.

Belvoir Club Entertains

The Belvoir Home Demonstration Club members entertained their husbands and special guests at the Belvoir Home Economics College for the regular January meeting.

Thirteen members and 15 visitors attended. A covered dish supper was served by the refreshment committee, Mrs. J. T. Dupree, Mr. Clarence Barnhill and Mrs. L. A. Clark. Coffee was served by Mrs. H. L. Lewis.

Guests were greeted by the president of the club, Mrs. R. F. Clark, who presented the welcome address. Mrs. C. D. Clark gave the devotion.

Mr. Bob King presented a program on "How to Make Money." He stressed the fact that farmers could make money by better management and better care of their farm work and farm supplies.

A demonstration on "How to Save Money" was given by the home agent, Mrs. Milton May. She showed the group that money could be saved by careful shopping for food supplies that have the right food value at the lowest cost. The recreational period was led by Mrs. McAlvin Turner, who directed a few games.

Patsy Lewis, Debbie Turner, Janice Whitaker, and Tommy Harris entertained the group by pantomiming three songs.

The February meeting will be held with Mrs. Clarence Barnhill.

Two-Fold Problem In Enforcement

North Carolina's problem with the so-called "speed traps" is two-fold and the sooner the state recognizes it as such and seeks to resolve the problem, the better off it will be.

For a law enforcement officer to diligently do his duty in arresting and bringing to trial persons who violate the traffic laws of the state—be they tourists or home folks—is one thing. For an officer, in league with a magistrate or other court official, to intentionally try to trap for personal gain tourists who violate traffic rules in North Carolina is another.

North Carolina can ill afford to tolerate this latter kind of "trap" being set for tourists who visit this state. It can tolerate it no more than it can tolerate any other kind of usurpation of authority by law enforcement or court officials for their own gain. If such traps are being set in the state with personal profit as the primary aim of those doing the setting, every effort of the state should be directed toward breaking up the operations.

On the other hand, North Carolina must not close its eyes to flagrant violations of traffic laws by tourists any more than it would overlook the same violations by its own people. For the protection of Tar Heels and tourists alike, the traffic laws of the state must be enforced diligently and legitimately. A tourist who drives down our highway at 75 or 80 miles an hour should be no more immune to prosecution in our courts than a North Carolinian who does the same thing. After all, when an accident occurs the car of a tourist can cause just as much damage, kill just as many people as a car of a native Tar Heel.

If North Carolina is to make its highways safer, it must enforce its traffic regulations where tourists are concerned just as it enforces the same regulations where local people are concerned. If North Carolina loses tourist business by following such a policy, it will just have to stand the loss. We can stand the loss of a bit of tourist business better than we can stand the loss of more lives on our highways.

At the same time, the state must be careful that it does not gain the reputation of preying on tourists to boost the income of its jaypee or traffic courts. The tourist traffic violator should be penalized no more than the native violator. Neither should the tourist receive more lenient treatment by the officer or the court just because he is a tourist.

The matter of resolving this two-fold problem is not simple. So long as our court system is constituted in its present form the battle against special traps for tourists will have to be continued. At the same time, we must not let our desire for tourist dollars cause us to ignore the traffic violations of those who would turn our north-south highways into north-south speedways.

National Defense Not For One-Man Review

President Eisenhower's assertion several days ago that he knows more about defense than almost anyone else in the country has given rise to a number of editorial cartoons and statements pointing up the apparent advantage the Soviet Union has gained over the United States in missiles and space probes.

While the President may well know more about defense than anyone else in the nation, it doesn't mean that he or anyone else individually knows all there is to know. Neither does it mean that a one-man defense program or a one-man space program is sufficient today for the United States or any other nation.

Certainly there must be a top figure to make final decisions. But a man in the President's position must necessarily rely on the recommendations of others who specialize in particular fields. It may well be that the defense position of the United States today is a result of the President's feeling that he knows more about defense than almost anyone else in the country. It may be that during the years in the White House he has overlooked the fact that many military changes have taken place while his attention has been divided between defense, foreign affairs, economic problems, domestic issues and all of the other facets of important responsibilities which rest upon the shoulders of a president.

A little more than a year ago Gen. Van Fleet severely attacked the nation's lack of a modern positive approach to its military problems in a book published shortly after his retirement from active duty. More recently Gen. Maxwell Taylor has likewise pointed out severe gaps that he says exist in the nation's defenses.

The opinions of military experts such as these cannot be ignored, and indeed their views should not be ignored even though they later may be overruled.

The nation's defense posture, it seems to us, needs a careful examination in the light of today's conditions . . . and not by just one man who asserts he knows more about defense than almost any other person in the country.

History To Tell The Final Score

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower took office seven years ago yesterday. So, now that he has only one year to go, it can be asked: How has he done?

People generally at home and abroad seem to think he's done extremely well. As the polls show, he's immensely popular. But the judgement of history, as usual, will take time.

One thing is sure: He has provided a presidency different from what the country has grown used to under the emphatic aggressiveness of Harry S. Truman and Franklin D. Roosevelt, both of whom willingly made enemies to get things done.

Eisenhower has plenty of critics but it's difficult to think of one person who could be called his enemy. That is perhaps the most amazing feature of his presidency. But it's no wonder. He was made a White House career of restraint.

He has avoided conflicts and name-calling. He has tried to get things done without leaving scars. Is that the way to run the presidency? There'll be arguments over that for years.

Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Massachusetts Democrat who wants to be president, says Eisenhower is a weak leader, that in effect he has pushed problems under the bed, leaving them to his successor to struggle with.

But Vice President Richard M. Nixon, anxious to be that successor, only last weekend called his boss a strong leader with a different technique. Nixon says Eisenhower simply gets things done by persuasion instead of tablethumping.

One thing history will have to decide: Did this happen to be a period when Americans, happy in many other ways with their prosperity, were perfectly content with the soft approach? How else explain Eisenhower's popularity if the people felt he was ignoring their needs? There has been no great public clamor to get done the things he has left undone.

One historian, Clinton Rossiter, knowing time alone can give the final appraisal, took a cautious stab at sizing up Eisenhower.

In his book, "The American Presidency," Rossiter noted: "No observers could fail to be troubled by the gap that often exists between what the President says and what he does . . . But his character, like his life, is an amazingly accurate projection of what is best in the American dream . . . He is charming, manly, brave, honest, capable, democratic, fair-minded and incredibly lucky."

Eisenhower began under sour circumstances. The Korean War was on and the country was split by McCarthyism. He got the war ended. His administration, by finally refusing to let Sen. Joseph McCarthy shove the Army around, finally set in motion, with the Army-McCarthy hearings, the wheels that ground McCarthyism out of the American scene.

Yet, Eisenhower himself avoided personal conflict with the senator.

Only the years ahead will show whether the Korean truce was really a settlement or only a preliminary chaos in Asia.

One of Eisenhower's first acts was a kind of Madison Avenue empire gesture—pulling back the 7th Fleet from around Formosa so Chiang Kai-shek could attack the Red China mainland.

Without American help Chiang couldn't attack his grandmother. And Eisenhower didn't give him that kind of help. Still, he backed up Chiang pretty solidly when the Red Chinese tried to pick on him.

Among other things, Nixon said, history will consider Eisenhower a strong leader for his part in ending the Suez crisis and in going into Lebanon when communism threatened. Even this, which seems factual enough on the surface, may be disputed.

History may decide Britain and France would never have begun the Suez adventure if the Eisenhower administration had backed France and Britain against Egypt beforehand. As now for Lebanon, no one seems sure how close communism was.

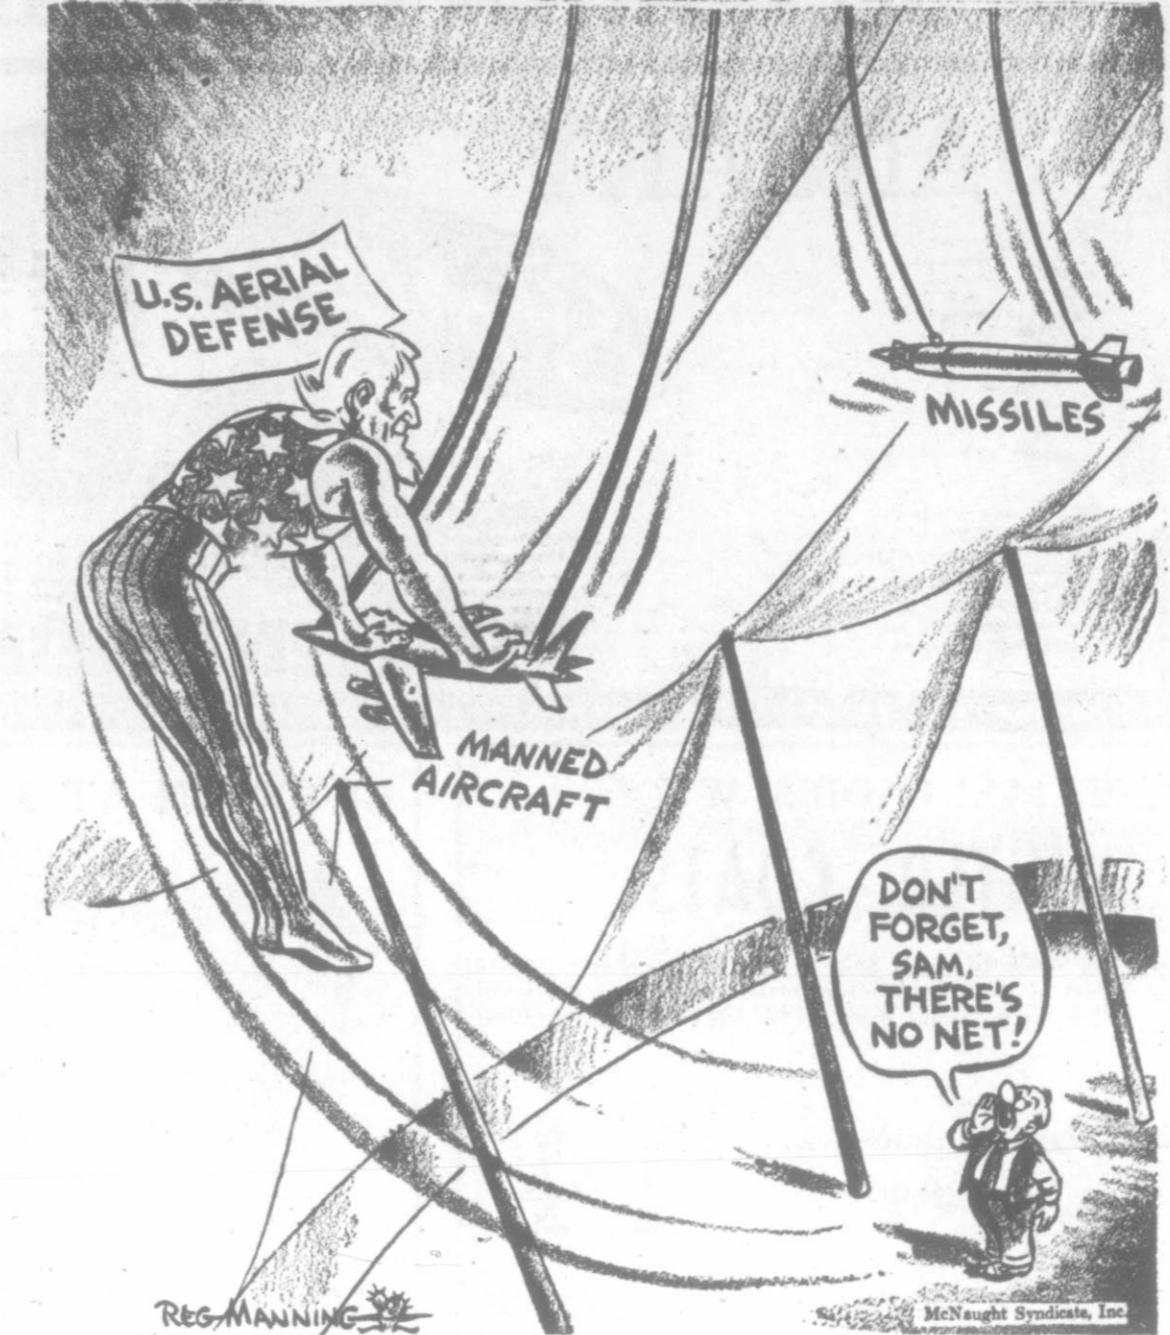

During Eisenhower's administration the Soviets got ahead of America in missile and space development and confidently threatened to overtake and surpass the United States economically.

Yet, if Eisenhower hadn't been the kind of man he is—patient and exuding good will—Premier Nikita Khrushchev might have tried to work out a peaceful settlement with America.

Still the Soviet peace offensive seemed to be strictly a Soviet idea, to which Eisenhower simply reacted favorably. This above all—whether peace results from his efforts—may prove the supreme test of his presidency.

No Margin For Error

Items From Here, There

From McGraw-Hill publications we learn that the Soviets claim to have produced a dual-carburator system which reduces fuel consumption by 20 percent.

The news release doesn't say where you can order one. However, it does say that the system was originally designed for an engine for cold climates where diesels are hard to start. The Soviets claim this system exceeds even the diesel in economy.

We presume dealerships may be obtained by writing the Kremlin. We'd advise interested persons to act in a hurry before the oil companies find out about it.

From the same publication we also learn that some company has come out with a paint which you apply just like adhesive bandage. The developer says his product is "pure paint" that comes sealed in a sandwich between two layers of paper. To use, a person strips off the bottom, sticks the paint down and then removes the protective cover.

All we can say is, we hope the strips are well-labeled. Otherwise the use might wind up with a striped room.

Mayor S. Euren West wore a bright blue sports coat as he entered the corner drug store the other morning.

Needless to say, that portion of the electorate who happened to be there at the time, was quick to notice it.

No one actually called the coat loud, but several of them did say it certainly was noticeable.

Your columnist didn't say anything. He just snickered.

A couple of days later we reached the bottom of the sock pile and all we had left was a bright red pair.

You have to wear socks these cold days so reluctantly we donated them. Who was first to spot them? The mayor, of course.

The moral of this story is: People who wear red socks shouldn't snicker at folks who sport bright blue coats.

Guaranty Bank and Trust Co. took the wraps off its new bank with an open house yesterday and probably broke all records for attendance.

During most of the four hours that the building was opened to the public the main floor was absolutely jammed with people wishing to view the place.

The second floor, where the Trust Department and book-keeping department are located was just about as packed with sightseers.

And the same was true of the third floor where the showplace of the beautiful building, the director's room, is located. Refreshments were also served on the third floor in a room which is to be reserved for public meetings.

The new structure is without a doubt Greenville's most elaborate building. We don't believe anybody who saw it last night came away disappointed.

Living In The Big City

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — "Why would anyone live here unless he had to?"

Wondering tourists in Manhattan, worn out by the fast-paced tempo of a visit here, often ask that question. If suddenly told they had to become permanent residents of New York City, they would regard it as a form of punishment.

They think of America's largest metropolis as a civic madhouse inhabited by eight million moles who don't know what real living really is.

At times the thousands upon thousands of people who have come here from other parts of the country to carve out a career feel that way, too. They get homesick for the old home town.

What do they miss most from their old life? Well, it's usually something simple. They miss driving to work in the morning and drifting home at night.

They miss walking down streets canopied by green-leaved trees. They miss the easy informality you enjoy when you live in a town where you can at least recognize every 10th person you meet. Here you won't know one in 10,000.

They miss the easygoing and friendly politeness people have in towns less crowded and in which life is less hurried.

They miss a sense of being a real person in a real community. Here, no matter how big and important a man is, he is merely another bee in a mighty hive.

After living here 23 years, however, the thing I miss most from my native Midwest is a simple old-fashioned dining room, such as I knew in my youth.

I still can't get used to eating dinner in the living room of my apartment.

When then, considering all the inconveniences, does anyone want to live here by choice?

Well, it's hard to put into words. But it is certainly one of the best places in the world to enjoy two of mankind's greatest pleasures — window-shopping and girl-watching.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
MYSTERIES OF OUR FAITH
A great English scholar has said that in the New Testament the center of gravity lies beyond the grave.

There is a profound and very earnest attempt on the part of many people today to put practically all their emphasis on the necessity of making the world better. Such people are tied up with every known scheme to improve human life.

That most of these people are honest, no one can deny. Furthermore, the necessity for making the world a better place in which to live becomes more apparent the closer modern living conditions press in one against the other. Our Christian faith has largely come to be considered only in the light of social reconstruction and betterment. But there is a lot more to Christian faith than that.

Individual morality does not disappear or have to take second place because of the pressing necessity of social morality. But after we have done everything we can to make ourselves and the world a better place in which to live, there still a lot to our religion which deals not with life here on earth but with life beyond the grave. In the New Testament the center of gravity lies not here but there—not in what we are or in what we can cause our world to become, but in eternal life, in heaven, in fellowship with the angels, the heavenly host, our departed loved ones—with God.

Our faith deals with many mysteries. Let us try to understand and utilize these vast mysteries.

Over-65 Group Will Hold Power

By ELMER ROESSNER
The over-65 age group may, for the first time in American history, achieve political power greater than that of the farm bloc this year.

This political ascendancy will influence business planning. This is a census year, but the nose count will not be ready for the public, despite the new batteries of electronic counters, until long after the election.

Nevertheless, Census Bureau projections are available and they provide some idea of where the votes are—and the business is.

For many years the farm vote has been regarded as a monolithic factor in American politics.

That concept is something less than sound. Farmers vote Republican or Democratic regardless of occupation. However, the politicians usually have adopted the policy of giving the farmer everything he wanted. THE BIG CHANGE

But new figures may revise this idea.

The farm population in 1940, according to Census records, was 30,547,000. In 1950, it was 25,058,000, a drop of 5,489,000. There has been the same drop in the last decade, the April 1 farm population will be 19,569,000.

The population of those 65 and over was 12,287,000 in 1950, and it will be an estimated 15,779,000 this year.

That still leaves the farm population almost 4,000,000 higher than the over-65 group.

But that 19,569,000 farm population includes around 9,000,000 under voting age, whereas the 16,779,000 over 65 are all voters, except those unable to get to the polls.

oulnumber the farm group by three to two in votes. VARIABLES
However, the strength of the bloc can't be determined as easily as that. The farm population over 65 belongs to both groups; a 66-year-old farmer might want higher crop supports and fatter Social Security benefits. Furthermore, many farmers are working in urban jobs, and tend to vote with the city fella.

On the other hand, as it has been contended here many times, the farm vote includes more than farmers; the noisier and most aggressive campaigners for more farm benefits are the rural merchants and small-town enterprises that profit with farm prosperity.

But even this group is diminishing. With good roads and fast cars and planes, farmers are doing more shipping in the big centers. And even in rural areas, much of the trade is being captured by branches of the big mail-order and department stores.

In general, it would appear that the political power of the farm vote—whether by farmers or by their suppliers—is waning and that the power of the over-65 group is waxing. PAPER MULCH TIES BACK PLASTIC COVER

There was great excitement a few years ago over the use of black plastic film as a mulch in farming. The plastic prevented weeds from growing, and held moisture around the roots of the plants.

Now tests at the University of Illinois farm at Urbana indicate that an improved kraft paper mulch is as good or better. The paper costs less and is easier to dispose of at the end of the season, it is found.

Sunday School Class For Deaf In Its 3rd Year

A special Sunday School class for deaf persons at the Grace Free Will Baptist Church here is beginning its third year under the leadership of Charlie C. Vestal of Greenville.

The group met at the local church last Sunday to celebrate the beginning of its third year since organization. Vestal, deaf himself, taught the class as usual. All the members have learned the sign language and finger spelling. They "listen" as Vestal teaches the lesson of the day with his hands. They even sing hymns.

Vestal says his class uses the same song books other classes use. "The signs have a certain degree of 'tune-like' movements just like the voice of normal hearing singers can be tuned up and down," he says.

A total of 24 class members and visitors were present at Sunday's meeting.

The special class meets twice each month — on first and third Sundays — at the Watauga Ave. church. Walter Weathington of Winterville serves the group as treasurer.

Attending the anniversary celebration Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Needham, Miss Helen Dunbar, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Matthews, and Miss Teresa Needham, all of Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weathington of Winterville; Mr. and Mrs. Grady Spence, Mrs. Lucile Watson, and Mark Taylor, all of New Bern; Mr. and Mrs. George Kennedy of Kingston; Bruce Stokes of Stokes-town; Graham Bowers of Bethel, Miss Sue Meyers and Vestal of Greenville; Richard Shackelford of Walstonburg; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Balkum of Goldsboro; and Johnny James of Grifton.

Members of the Junior Woman's Club with sewing ability are busy planning and making "The Ideal Costume for the Clubwoman." It is again time for the annual Vogue Sewing Contest, in which club women all over the nation participate. All who are eligible have hopes set on the grand prize, a trip to Paris. The grand prize winner will be announced in New York during May.

Mrs. Kenneth E. Wilson, Fine Arts chairman for the Junior Woman's Club, has announced February 3 is the date set for the local competition to be held at the Woman's Club at 8 p.m. Judges will be Miss Bert Sutton, manager of ladies' ready-to-wear department of a local clothing store; Miss Mabel Dougherty, home economics instructor at East Carolina College; and Mrs. Ada Briley, sewing instructor at a local sewing center.

Garments will be judged on fashion, workmanship, becomingness of color and style to the wearer, fit and versatility.

The winner of the local contest will compete in the district competition to be held at a later date.

To Launch Huge Manned Balloon

ABOARD CARRIER VALLEY FORGE EN ROUTE TO CARIBBEAN (AP) - The Navy is considering launching manned balloons almost a half mile tall to an altitude of nearly 30 miles for studies of human reactions to space environment. Such a structure would be five times as tall as the two unmanned balloons expected to be sent aloft from this carrier off the West Indies about next Monday. Plans for some years ahead were disclosed in a shipboard lecture on the balloon program by Lt. Cmdr. Victor Prather, of the Aviation Medicine Division, Navy Medical Research Institute, Bethesda, Md. Prather said plans call for a balloon of 50 million cubic feet to carry a 3,000-pound gondola with four or five men to about 150,000 feet. He said tests to date have shown the value of balloons, since in no other way can space flight be simulated with such roominess and efficiency. The men aboard will experience physiological effects of real space flight, knowing they cannot panic and jump out unless they want to endure a 110,000-foot free fall to a parachute opening at a livable altitude. On next week's flights, unmanned balloons of 20 million cubic feet, almost 500 feet high, will carry photographic emulsion sheets to about 120,000 feet to record primary cosmic ray impacts. The data is expected to shed significant light on the nature of high energy radiation in space.

CHAPTER 36 Tuesday morning, after breakfast I went upstairs and opened the door of my daughter Tilghman's room. It was dreadfully neat and straight. And empty. I thought, my eyes turning automatically to the corner where Colhoun's crib was. But the crib was empty too. I closed the door hastily and decided this would be a good day to wash woodwork. Old Beck and I had just got started when the phone rang and it was Mother Colhoun. "Fanny?" she said. "How do you feel?"

go see Dr. Scarborough right away. You probably just need a good course of vitamins like Julia had that Johnny said had her singing tra-la-la all over the house for a month." I said I was just up in Tilghman's room and it made me feel like a death in the family. And I really was all right, but maybe I would go to see Dr. Scarborough if she thought I ought to. Mother Colhoun paused and I knew there was something else she wanted to say. Finally she said had I noticed that Dr. Wingate and Maria seemed to be getting really - well, interested in each other? I said they had? Mother Colhoun said well, after all, Dr. Wingate did have some good blood in him, as his Aunt Wingate came from a good old Southern family. And she had decided not to stand in the way if Maria and Dr. Wingate should decide to get married.

For a moment I was speechless. "It has to be your decision as much as mine," Rutledge went on, "because at first it will probably be a lot less money." At last I found my voice. I said he knew that was what I had always wanted for him, and who cared about money? Rutledge said he knew I hadn't noticed it, but he and Hohny hadn't been hitting it off at all for a good while now, and it was Johnny in face who had suggested the whole thing, as he had always know how Rutledge felt about the farm. I said, "Oh?" Rutledge said that as a matter of fact Johnny had been doing some things that he couldn't go along with. I was shocked. "You mean-dishonest things?" I said. Rutledge said certainly not. But a lawyer that knew how could get just about all the money from an estate when he settled it. Rutledge said that Johnny couldn't see the difference between being "morally" honest and "legally" honest and he finally had to tell Johnny that when they settled estates they would just have to do it Rutledge's way or not at all. "And Johnny wouldn't agree?" I said. Rutledge said now, and they had almost come to blows over the last estate they had settled in Sumter. Rutledge said, when Dr. Wingate wanted them to settle his aunt's estate, he had told Johnny that they would not do it at all unless they could do it his way, and Johnny had finally agreed because Dr. Wingate was really Rutledge's client. Rutledge said he and Johnny might never have got things straightened out if Johnny had not come to dinner Sunday and they had not gone out to the farm together. He said that when he decided that shutting Johnny out of his life was not the answer, Johnny was just the answer. Maybe someday, some way, he could get Johnny to see how morally dishonest it was to take advantage of people legally. "You don't mind-about my being just a plain dirt farmer?" Rutledge said anxiously. "You are sure?" I said I was sure. And now, I thought, it is my time, and how do you tell your husband? As soon as we got home and inside the front door I had a bad moment of panic. If I only knew how he would take it! I thought. I swallowed and said in a rush, "I went by Dr. Scarborough's office for some of Julia's vitamins this morning." I paused because Rutledge was just standing there looking at me like I had said I was at Jake's Saloon. He was really alarmed, so I just blurted it out in the worst way possible. "I-I'm going to have a b-baby!" I said, and burst into tears. For a second Rutledge didn't say a word, then suddenly he let out a loud "Wa-hoo!" three times in a row like the time he and and Johnny were practicing Rebel yells down at the pond. "You're glad too?" he said, suddenly anxious. I said next to his being a full-time farmer I couldn't be gladder about anything in the whole wide world! And the way Rutledge gathered me up in his arms, I didn't feel in the least like a grandmother. "He'll be a sturdy little fellow with a blond cowlick and a penchant for cows," I said against Rutledge's ear. "She'll be a beautiful little girl with green eyes and a flair for pot roasts," Rutledge said. I had to smile when I thought how Mother Colhoun would probably react to the news and say, "Yes, I know, Fanny, and isn't it lovely!" Most important of all, perhaps, Rutledge would be a real farmer now, the way he had always wanted to be. "Dear God," I said, "I am so

Veteran Husband Likes Teen-Age Wives; Had 12

HOLLYWOOD Calif. (AP) - second husband Monday, the other three and Wolfe went along to volunteer as corroborating witnesses. One Wolfe was called to testify, however, and Shirley Lou Espy, 23, was free by default from her radio executive husband, William D. Espy. Another ex living in the hotel is Peggy Lou Spencer Wolfe, 29. He gave her half interest in the hotel, Wolfe said, and she is going to manage it when he moves to Las Vegas. The Nevada gambling spot has less traffic and smog, Wolfe explained, and it might be an easier spot in which to find his 13th mate. His parade of wives began in 1932 in Vincennes, Indiana. By 1936 he had been married and divorced four times and a judge asked him not to turn Vincennes into a Hollywood, Wolfe said. "So I went to Hollywood," Wolfe said he considers each trip before a justice of the peace to recite marriage vows his last. "But it's awful easy to get a divorce," he added, "and they're a bad habit, believe me."

Arrest Boy For Murder Boasts

ATLANTA (AP) - A ninth-grade pupil was arrested in a classroom at North Fulton High School after boasting to classmates that he intended to kill the school principal. Police said the 14-year-old boy was carrying part of a dismantled .32 caliber pistol Wednesday and an empty .22 caliber ammunition clip, but had no live ammunition. Officers said the youth had an IQ of 122, above average, and an amazing knowledge of guns, ammunition and police operations. The boy admitted telling fellow students about the plot, but said he just intended to impress them. "I don't know why they would take this attitude and go to the principal," the youth added. "I really didn't mean to hurt anyone."

Ask Helicopter System In City

CHARLOTTE (AP) - Rotor Flight Corp. of Charlotte has asked the city for permission to begin a helicopter transportation system next year. But the plan, which also would involve 23 surrounding towns and cities along with the Charlotte Municipal Airport, cannot be approved by city officials until the Civil Aeronautics Board acts on a 13-month old city application for such a helicopter arrangement. The CAB feels such a service would not be profitable. Norman Bagwell, chairman of the board of the new firm, said with a 6-passenger helicopter-augmented it could supply service from Charlotte to these towns on a twice-daily flight schedule: Chester, Rock Hill and Gaffney, S.C., and Mooresville, Statesville, Salisbury, Blowing Rock, Kannapolis, Concord, Albemarle, Wadesboro, Monroe, Gastonia, Lincolnton, Marion, Lenoir, Montsant, Hickory, Spruce Pine, Kings Mountain, Shelby and Cherryville. property is worth $295,000 and the criminal courts and jail property $100,000. Best bids previously were $88,000 and $12,001. Sitting Rights Won In Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) - Negroes have won the right to sit wherever they please in the Atlanta airport restaurant. The policy of the restaurant, operated by Dobbs Houses Inc., had been to serve Negro patrons behind a screen, setting them apart from white customers. U.S. Dist Judge Boyd Sloan issued a decree Wednesday which permanently prohibits the restaurant from discriminating against persons because of race. H. D. Coke, a Birmingham, Ala., Negro insurance executive, brought suit after being refused service in the restaurant when he would not yield to the segregation policy. FINED HIMSELF NEWARK, N.J. Proposed Limit For Campaign Giving Is Argued

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal to impose a $10,000 limit on individual campaign contributions stirred a fresh round of Senate controversy today over a bill to regulate spending in federal elections.

The measure already has been strengthened in two major respects by amendments covering primary elections and state and local political committees which support candidates for federal office.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), who fought both amendments, told a reporter he would not be surprised if the bill now is pigeonholed in the House.

From the start of Senate debate last week, the bill never has been rated much chance of House passage. No action has been taken there looking toward a comparable measure.

The bill, revising the 1925 Corrupt Practices Act, would require more detailed reporting of campaign contributions and expenditures in federal elections and raise legal spending ceilings to reflect cost increases.

The amendment to put an overall limit of $10,000 a year on any individual's contributions to or expenditures for federal election campaigns was offered by Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo.).

Under present law, an individual is limited to contributing $5,000 to any one candidate or campaign committee but there is not limit on the number of candidates or committees to which he may contribute.

Hennings said a Senate investigation of campaign spending showed that in the 1956 election members of 12 prominent families contributed $1,153,000 and one family alone gave $248,423.

He said that these contributions were within the letter of the law as it now exists, but he said "it must be admitted that the possibility of influencing candidates or the results of an election is clear in the light of such heavy contributions."

The amendment provides that violators of the proposed limitation would be subject to a $5,000 fine or five years' imprisonment, or both.

Eisenhower May Keynote GOP Convention

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower apparently will sound the keynote of the Republican National Convention opening July 25 in Chicago.

Although Eisenhower is not likely to take over the duties of temporary chairman, who usually delivers the keynote speech, Republicans generally expect the President to set the tone for their campaign in a major address.

GOP National Chairman Thurston B. Morton said it has been left up to Eisenhower to decide which day he wishes to speak.

"The President will have a major part in the convention," Morton said. "His speech may well furnish the keynote for the convention."

Eisenhower's appearance would be calculated to give a lift to a convention that may lack crowd and television appeal because of the absence of any contest for the party's top nomination. Vice President Richard M. Nixon is almost certain to be named to head the ticket.

Some Republicans have been worried about the contrast between their potentially cut-and-dried affair in Chicago and the dramatic battles Democrats may put on in Los Angeles two weeks earlier.

Nixon himself is not unmindful of this. He will welcome Eisenhower's appearance not only as a temporary stimulant to the Republicans but because there is every indication the President will strongly endorse Nixon as a candidate.

Morton said the convention arrangements committee will wait until late in April before canvassing the field of potential convention officers.

Although Morton did not comment, there were reports in other quarters that the national chairman and Nixon hope Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller might be persuaded to accept a more active role than that of head of the New York delegation.

Rockefeller, however, apparently has given no encouragement to any such plans. He quit as a potential rival for the top nomination with the statement that those who controlled the convention didn't want a contest. He hasn't praised Nixon since.

Nixon, who is regarded as likely to have the final say in the matter, has indicated he wants Robert A. Taft Jr., son of the late Ohio senator, placed in an important convention job.

Young Taft, who has dabbled in Ohio politics, may head one of the major committees. He called on Nixon Wednesday and was reported to have been informed of the vice president's plans for him.

With Eisenhower sounding the keynote and young Taft sharing in the limelight, Nixon's friends think it will be relatively easy for Republicans to forget the differences that marked Eisenhower's convention victory over Sen. Taft in 1952. But they haven't sewed up the seams split by Rockefeller's exit from competition.

Mother Of Seven Has Quadruplets

MATAMOROS, Mexico (AP) — A local farmer's wife, already the mother of seven, gave birth to quadruplets here Tuesday night.

The births of three boys and a girl at Civil Hospital are believed to be this border city's first quadruplet births.

Hospital attendants said the mother, Mrs. Francisco Rodriguez, and the quads were in fine condition. She and her husband's other children range in age from 15 months to 15 years.

The mother is 44, the father 48. Dr. Porfirio Gutierrez, who was in attendance at the births, said the quads weighed about four pounds each.

Infant Survived A Slow Start

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — Johnny Paul Stewart's parents hope to take him home Saturday. But last Sunday there was a time when it didn't look like the infant would ever get to go home.

He was four days old and was undergoing a complete blood transfusion because of an RH blood factor. His heart stopped. He quit breathing.

Caffeine and adrenalin failed to revive the infant, so a doctor opened his chest and massaged his heart. The heart resumed, but the lungs had collapsed and had to be blown up.

But doctors said Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart now have a husky infant and probably can take him home Saturday.

His Reputation Cost Him $7,140

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — His neighbors know Charlie McVea, 72 and blind, as a friendly man quick to lend money if a friend is in need.

Two soft spoken, well-dressed strangers appeared at his home Wednesday. One produced a long-barreled .22 pistol, he herded Mrs. McVea, 66, into a bedroom where her husband lay in his bed.

At gunpoint the intruders took a key from a foot locker where he had cached $7,140 — most of his life's savings before he retired as a janitor at Kelly Air Force Base after losing his sight a year ago.

McVea said ruefully: "I guess that's what I get for being nice to people."

Ammunition For Alaskan Politico

ANNETTE ISLAND, Alaska (AP) — State Rep. Earl Hillstrand, leader of a movement to shift Alaska's state capital from Juneau to his own home town of Anchorage, had some new ammunition for his campaign today.

With the legislative session opening next Monday, Hillstrand and 17 other Democratic lawmakers have been trying all week to fly to Juneau. They haven't been able to because Juneau has been fogbound since Monday.

Hillstrand is chairman of the Anchorage Capitol Site Steering committee. One of the committee's arguments: Juneau is too hard to get to.

As the end of his presidency approached, Eisenhower began asserting a leadership far more energetic than he had shown in the previous years.

One of the most astonishing facts of his White House terms has been that, confronted in the declining years of his presidency by an overwhelming Democratic Congress, he made the Democrats eat out of his hand. History may decide this was less a tribute to Eisenhower than it was a savage commentary on the inadequacy of the Democrats as a party and their congressional leadership.

What the nation seemed to want most during his time in office was peace and prosperity. The prosperity they have, after some sickening setbacks, Peace is what he is aiming at, and working most for, now.

Turn In Marchathon Funds

BLISTER BRIGADE'S CONTRIBUTION—Mrs. Carrigan (right) accepts from cadets Needs and Winstead the proceeds from a "marchathon" staged by AFROTC drill team for March of Dimes.

Proceeds, amounting to $620, from last week's marathon march by the East Carolina College Air Force ROTC drill team, were last night presented to local March of Dimes chairman Mrs. Louise Carrigan.

The precision drill team performed for something over twelve hours at a 120-pace-per-minute tempo, taking only brief rests on the hour.

Simon Moye Elected Vice President Of Eastern Golf Assn.

W. S. Moye Jr., noted Greenville golfer, was elected vice president of the Eastern Carolina Golf Association at its annual meeting held in Kinston Tuesday.

SIMON MOYE New V-P

Moye served the Association in other executive offices prior to 1947 when Greenville dropped out of the Eastern Carolina Golf Association to become a member of the Coastal Golf Association.

Greenville came back into the Eastern Carolina Golf Association in 1956. Tuesday Moye became the first Greenville to hold an office in the Association since local re-entry.

The election of Moye assured Greenville of the annual tournament in 1961 as the current procedure is that the vice president automatically steps up to president the following year.

Moye stated over the phone this morning that he had appointed Joe Exum as secretary and treasurer for 1961.

The Association, which has been in operation for more than 25 years, is composed of six members. They are Fayetteville, Rocky Mount, Kinston, Wilson, Raleigh, and Greenville.

Pastrano Wins Decision Bout From Luedee

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Willie Pastrano's hopes for a title bout with light heavyweight champion Archie Moore soared today on the heels of a unanimous 10-round decision over Jerry Luedee.

Bidding farewell to the heavyweight division, Pastrano showed Wednesday night his speed and elusiveness would serve him better in the light-heavy division.

His trainer, Angelo Dundee, said "I am certain Willie can beat Moore right now."

"We were very satisfied with Willie's first important fight at 175 pounds," he added. "We are now convinced that he can fight the best at the light heavyweight limit."

Pastrano has felt his lack of a knockout punch makes him a poor heavyweight prospect while his speed and fast fists would do better in the light class.

Pastrano completely baffled Luedee with swift footwork and a fine assortment of jabs. His jab opened a cut alongside Luedee's left eye in the fourth round and bloodied and puffed his nose in the eighth.

There were no knockdowns. Referee Jim Peerless gave the fight to Pastrano on the 10-point must system 98-94. Judge Eddie Thal scored it 98-93 and Judge Stu Winston saw it 98-93.

The Associated Press scored it 98-97. Pastrano, a native of Miami Beach, weighed 177 1/2. Luedee, from New Haven, Conn., weighed 174.

Villanova Smothers Seaton Hall

By JACK CLARY Associated Press Sports Writer

That Villanova club is for real just as Coach Fred Schaus of West Virginia said last week when his Mountaineers knocked it from the unbeaten.

"Villanova is the only team I've seen yet to be in a class with California," Schaus said. Cal handed the Mountaineers their only defeat and is ranked fourth in the latest Associated Press poll.

The Wildcats didn't show any signs of a lull after the West Virginia defeat as they smothered a good Seton Hall five Wednesday night, 94-65. This was the same Seton Hall team that surprised St. Joseph's (Pa.) 89-88 a little over a week ago, and St. Joe's was picked as the class of the East before the season began.

It was another light college basketball schedule with only a handful of major games, two of which resulted in upsets.

Penn upset Temple 50-47 in the second half of the Palestra doubleheader that Villanova opened. Maryland edged Navy in the last few seconds 51-50 while Memphis State rode over Tennessee Tech 95-65.

Army ended Ithaca's seven-game winning streak 76-62; Manhattan beat Adelphi 80-59; Louisville defeated Murray (Ky.) 78-72; and Xavier (Ohio) had an easy time with Western Kentucky, 76-66.

Villanova, eighth-ranked, held Seton Hall without a field goal for the first six minutes of the game, gaining a 9-0 lead at the three-minute mark and never letting the Pirates get closer thereafter.

Villanova, now 11-1, was paced by John Driscoll's 24 points and George Raveling's school record of 29 rebounds.

Penn held Temple's ace Bill (Pickles) Kennedy to only seven points while Bob Mikvy and Dave Kwiat scored 17 and 16 respectively.

Temple lost its fifth in 15 games as Penn evened its record at 7-7, and avenged an earlier defeat by the Owls.

Bob Wilson's only goal — a hook with 20 seconds to go — gave Maryland its upset over Navy.

Navy finally blew it a few seconds later when Dick Brown missed a 16-making foul shot that would have given him another free throw had he made it. Both teams are 9-3.

Memphis State did a fine job of holding 6-foot-10 Jim Hagen to only 13 points before he fouled out in the final six minutes. He was averaging 23 per game until then.

Lowry Kirk paced Memphis State with 19 points as the winners effectively kept control of the backboards to stifle the favored Tennesseans.

Lee Sager's 21 points and Stu Sherrard's 20 were the big factors in Army's victory as the Cadets broke open a tight game midway in the second half.

Soph Jack Thobe scored 31 points in Xavier's victory to help the Musketeers to an 11-5 record.

Grid League Continues Search For New Head

By WHITNEY MARTIN Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—National Football League owners will resume today where they left off late Wednesday night — crunching along the road to nowhere in their quest for a new commissioner to succeed the late Bert Bell.

The progress, if any, was the increase of the number of names submitted from two on the first ballot to a total of five during the six hours of deliberation.

The original candidates, as expected, were Acting Commissioner Austin H. Gusek, and Marshall Leahy of San Francisco. The original ballots showed Leahy in front 7-5, and at one point he polled eight votes, one shy of the nine necessary for election.

Through a succession of these ballots the names of Paul Schissler, special events director of the Los Angeles Times; Edwin J. Anderson, president of the Detroit Lions; and Don Kelleet, general manager of the Baltimore Colts were added to the list.

As midnight neared the weary owners, obviously seeing no break in the deadlock, adjourned until 1 p.m. today. The eighth and final ballot showed Leahy with seven votes and Kelleet with four as the names of Gusek, Schissler and Anderson disappeared entirely. One owner did not vote on the last ballot.

The fadeout of Gusek and the emergence of Kelleet as a candidate were distinct surprises.

Leahy, who ran ahead on every ballot despite the fact that he had said emphatically that he would not leave his San Francisco home because of family ties, kept his margin through a block of eastern votes. He was prevented from getting the required nine of 12 votes by the determined opposition of Washington's George Preston Marshall, Baltimore's Harold Rosenberg, and the Chicago's Bears' George Halas, all of whom supported Gusek at first, then switched to Kelleet when it was obvious Gusek's cause was hopeless.

Just how serious were the nominations of some of the candidates is problematical. The Schissler and Anderson nominations were reported by one source to be diversionary moves to block Leahy's election.

It was a 16-point output by the Camden, N.J., native Wednesday that helped Maryland to a thrilling, last-minute 51-50 victory over Navy.

The game was the only action scheduled for Atlantic Coast Conference clubs, who are now idle until Saturday when Eastern Kentucky visits Raleigh for a non-family battle with North Carolina State's oft-labeled Wolfpack.

Jelus, labeled a future star at Maryland in pre-season prognostications, has been a key performer in helping the Terps win six of their last seven games. With the Navy conquest, Maryland has a 9-3 season record. In the ACC, Bud Millikan's crew is 4-1 and tied with Duke in second place — just a notch behind North Carolina (4-0).

Although he scored only seven points, Bob Wilson's hook shot with 20 seconds left in the game was most important as it pushed Maryland to its one-point margin over the Middles.

Maryland's next action comes Feb. 3 when the Terps encounter North Carolina in a crucial ACC test.

Riddick Third In NS Loop Scoring

GREENSBORO (AP)—Danny Sewell, High Point's main offensive weapon, continues to pace North State Conference scorers.

Although his average showed a slight decline from the previous week, Sewell, is out front among the conference individual point-getters with an average of 25.5 points for 10 games.

Don Lineberry of Guilford continues to rank second with an average of 24.1 points per contest for a team which has won only once in 12 starts.

The Riddick of East Carolina at 23.2, Ken Norman of Lenoir Rhyne at 21.4 and Dave Jones of Western Carolina at 19.3 round out the top five.

Gales And Rain Mark Start Of Crosby Tourney

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Whistling winds and the probability of rain today heralded the opening round of the $50,000 Bing Crosby Golf Tournament with its bulky field of 150 pros and 150 amateurs.

Gales up to 30 m.p.h. Wednesday whipped the three courses to be played in the tourney — Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and Monterey Peninsula.

Jay Hebert, the Louisianian who topped the tourney in 1957, a year that also saw wind and rain, is back.

Defending champion Art Wall Jr., shoots to defend the title he won here last January. He pairs with 1958 U.S. Amateur champion Charlie Coe, a two-handicappper here. Wall and Coe are defending champs in the pro-amateur. Former Crosby champs include Billy Casper, the current U. S. Open champion; Lloyd Mangrum, Gary Middlecoff and Byron Nelson, all former national champions.

Furman Loses Close Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Supporters of Furman's basketball team point out unhappily the Purple Paladins could have a 9-9 over-all record today instead of a 6-9 mark if only they scored seven more points in their last three games.

The first of those was a 59-55 defeat by The Citadel, a Southern Conference rival. The other two were also setbacks — 87-85 to Clemson in double overtime and 70-59 to Wofford in an extra period.

It would have taken five more points to beat The Citadel, one each against Clemson and Wofford — if they'd come in regulation time.

"We aren't playing so bad — just had enough to lose by one point," says Furman Coach Lyles Alley. Noted as a running, scoring team the past few seasons under Alley, Furman this year has turned to a zone defense and a slow, deliberate offense aimed at setting up good shots.

There are reasons, naturally. At one point the Paladins were down to just seven men on the squad — Gordon Blackwell has come back out for the team to boost its membership to eight. Also, Alley figures he doesn't have the rebounding power or the speed to play a running game.

Blackwell, who played in just four games last season, quit at the start of the 1959-60 campaign because there were "so many people out for the team" and he didn't figure he'd get to play. That was before Furman lost one player through injuries and three more who left school.

Because of the zone defense and lack of depth, Furman has been careful about personal fouls. The Paladins have committed an average of just 13 per game, one of the best records in the nation.

There are indications the Paladins' next year might return to the run-and-shoot pattern of the past. Furman has one of its best freshman teams ever, headed by Jerry Smith of Corbin, Ky. The small Kentucky town — population 48 — also was the home of one of Furman's greatest, Frank Selvy.

There were no games Wednesday night involving conference teams, and all are idle again tonight and Friday.

Sox Stronger By Winter Deals

By AL LOPEZ Manager, Chicago White Sox

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—I feel definitely we have strengthened the Chicago White Sox with our winter deals.

As I look at it we have increased our offense by some 30 per cent and did so without sacrificing any of our defense.

By adding Minnie Minoso and Gene Freese we have two men who hit a total of 44 home runs and drove in 160 runs. Our entire team drove in 620 runs in winning the American League pennant last year.

True, we had to give up some talent to add Minoso, Freese and company, but we gave up "futures" who did not figure too greatly in our 1960 plans.

The regular we parted with was Bubba Phillips and we replaced him at third with Freese. The latter will do a good job defensively and we always have Billy Goodman and Sam Esposito to fill when needed.

I believe Minoso, Jim Landis and Al Smith will be far superior to any outfield trio we were able to field in 1959.

Our pitching will be even better in 1960. We have added left-handers Frank Baumann, Don Ferrarese and Jake Striker and right-hander Mike Garcia, as well as a number of outstanding farm hands. The most promising of the farm hands appears to be Ed Hobaugh, a young right-hander who had a fine season at Indianapolis.

Our starting staff is headed by Early Wynn and Bob Shaw and includes Billy Pierce, Dick Donovan and Barry Latman. Add our bullpen twins Gerry Staley and Turk Lown and we have an even more impressive pitching staff than last year.

It's difficult to predict that Wynn, who will be 40 years old, will duplicate his 22 victories of 1959. Knowing his talent and determination, however, I wouldn't bet against it. Shaw should be even better than his 18-6 record of last year and could very well be the best pitcher in the league. Latman also should be a bigger winner with a full season of major league pitching under his belt.

Two youngsters who came up last year, Ken McBride and Joe Stanka, may also be heard from.

I can't say enough about my "down-the-middle" boys. It used to give me a wonderful feeling whenever I'd go out on the field at the start of the game and see Sherm Lollar behind the plate, Nellie Fox and Luis Aparicio around second base and Landis in center field.

Last year I said we could win the pennant. The players bore out my belief with a great season. I feel we are considerably stronger and see not only a White Sox first-place finish, but also a World Series flag flying over Comiskey Park by mid-October.

In relation to other matters, NBA President Podoloff said present plans are to staff the Chicago team with players from a pool.

Each of the other eight NBA clubs would put three players into the pool, from which Western Division Chicago could choose a maximum of one from each team.

Chicago, headed by Max Winter, formally of the Lakers, would get the rest of its personnel from the draft or on its own. The new entry will be active in the 1960-61 season. It was admitted last September.

There will be no games tonight as the league will play its 10th annual all-star game in Philadelphia's Convention Hall Friday night beginning at 9 p.m. (est). The East is a slight favorite over the West.

'Bravest And Ablest' Contribution To Confederacy

(Editor's Note: This is another in a series of background articles on historical markers in Pitt County.)

By HENRY HOWARD
Reflector Staff Writer

"At the Confederate leader," Bryan Grimes is probably one of North Carolina's most outstanding and almost certainly Pitt County's bravest and ablest contribution to the Confederate States of America for the War Between the States a century ago.

Grimes was born in 1828 on a Grimesland plantation established by his grandfather, William Grimes, in 1788. The huge plantation house, which still stands one mile southeast of the present town of Grimesland on the banks of the Tar River, was for a long while a hub of activity for the eastern section of Pitt County.

BRYAN GRIMES
... as major general

In that atmosphere, young Bryan Grimes was reared. As a young man, he was sent to Nash County and Washington Academy for formal education. Later, he attended Bingham's School in Hillsboro and was graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1848.

His rise to state-wide prominence was rapid. Already a member of one of Pitt's best-known families, in 1861, at the age of 33, he was a representative, to the secession convention.

In 1860, upon returning from a visit to Europe, Grimes had found himself a candidate for the convention called by Gov. Ellis along with F.B. Satterthwaite. As a member, he voted for secession May 20, 1861. A few days later he resigned and accepted the appointment by Gov. Ellis as a major of the state's fourth regiment.

Young Grimes had had no military training and, consequently, accepted the commission as major in preference to a simultaneous second offer of that of lieutenant colonel of the eighth regiment. His choice was influenced by the fact that George B. Anderson, a West Pointer, was colonel of the fourth.

Grimes' courageous military career began when he joined his regiment at Garysburg and proceeded to Richmond and then Manassas. At the latter battle, the young officer was placed in command of the regiment — Col. Anderson being made commandant of all Southern forces at that battle. Upon returning to Richmond, Grimes was commissioned lieutenant colonel.

At Yorktown, the fourth regiment was instrumental in successful evacuation activities. At Williamsburg, Lt. Col. Grimes was again in command of the fourth as Col. Anderson was placed in charge of the brigade.

On May 31, Grimes again commanded the fourth and, of 25 officers and 520 men, every officer except himself, and 462 men were either killed or wounded. The Pitt County native led the charge and it has been said he shouted: "Forward! Forward!" when a cannon ball decapitated his horse and the dead animal pinned Grimes to the ground until help came.

Henry T. King's "Sketches of Pitt County" reported: "Upon being freed from his dead horse, he seized the flag then lying on the ground, all the bearers and guards being killed or wounded, led the charge and captured the works."

King's book relates an even braver battle story of Bryan Grimes: "At Chancellorsville, May 1, 1863, Colonel Grimes commanded his regiment, which with a Mississippi regiment, successfully charged up to the main body of General Hooker's army. . . . On the third day, a brigade refused to make a charge when so ordered. Colonel Grimes and General Ramseur volunteered to make the charge, climbed the breastworks, formed, charged bayonets and captured the works. . . . In this charge, Col. Grimes and his regiment trampled on the brigade that had refused to charge, Colonel Grimes trampling upon the commanding officer, putting one foot on his back and the other on his head, grinding his face in the dirt. In this fight, Colonel Grimes' sword was broken by a ball, his clothing perforated by bullets, one lodging in his belt, and he was wounded in the foot." The report continues that out of a total 327 officers and men in Grimes' regiment, 46 were killed and 157 wounded.

The young colonel continued his heroic feats through battles at Boonsboro, Fredericksburg, Harrisburg, Cedar Creek, Winchester, Petersburg, Cedar Creek, Winchester, Petersburg, Sailor's Creek, Appomattox, and Gettysburg. Upon recommendation by Gen. Rodes, Grimes was commissioned brigadier general May 19, 1864. In July of that year, he returned home on sick furlough with typhoid fever.

Gen. Grimes returned to action in September at Winchester where his brigade "did severe fighting." During the winter, his division was on duty in the Richmond area. On Nov. 23, his command routed some 4,000 of Gen. Sheridan's cavalry.

Following a series of daring triumphs, Grimes was commissioned major general Feb. 8, 1865. In the spring of that year, upon being informed of Gen. Lee's surrender, Gen. Grimes wanted to cut his way into North Carolina to join forces with Gen. J. E. Johnston. Other general officers in the division convinced him that such action, even though successful, would be looked upon as a violation of the truce and shared the fate of Lee's surrender.

He accepted his parole and returned to his plantation and family at Grimesland to help in rebuilding his homeland.

He lived in Raleigh for a couple of years before finally settling down again to his large farm where he lived the life of a successful planter and honored citizen until his death.

A highly-respected citizen of Pitt County, Grimes was a prominent figure in local civic activities. It is reported that some of his enemies hired his assassin.

On Aug. 14, 1880, Grimes was returning from Washington, across the river, with 12-year old Fennel Bryan Satterthwaite — the son of Beaufort line. . . he was shot from top of his buggy, but none hit them were not then successful. It was found that the assassin stood behind a tree in the creek, had cut out an opening to the road, through the bush tops, and by this means got a good aim."

Some years later, William Parker was arrested for the crime but acquitted after a long trial. After his acquittal, it has been said Parker "Practically boasted of the crime."

Then, in 1888, the Washington draw bridge tender discovered Parker hanging by the neck from the draw early one morning. He had been lynched.

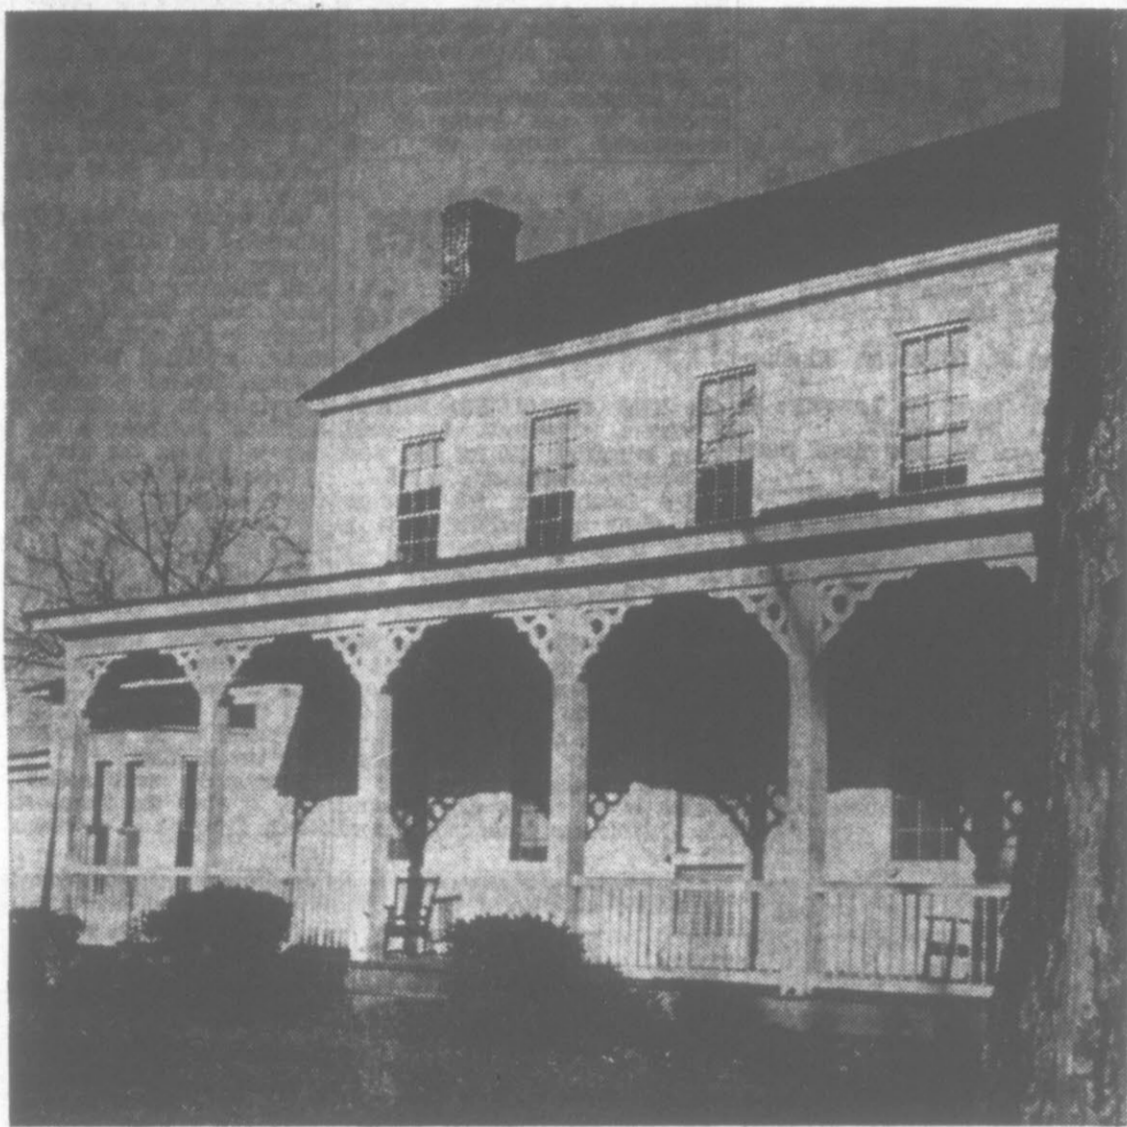

Gen. Grimes was less than 52 years old at the time of his death. It has been said that "in devotion to duty, in faithfulness to every trust, in sincerity of purpose, in dauntless courage, in unselfish patriotism—in everything that constitutes a noble, generous, true man — North Carolina has never honored a son superior to Bryan Grimes."

Coins made of pure platinum were issued by Russia in the early part of the 19th Century.

Castro Orders Spanish Ambassador To Leave Country

Tobacco Tips

By S.J. Weeks, Pitt Tobacco Agent

During the past 70 years the yield of tobacco in North Carolina has increased 1272 pounds per acre. The yield per acre in 1888 was 451 pounds, 845 pounds in 1938 and 1724 pounds in 1958. This increase in yield could not have been accomplished without the well balanced tobacco research program that has been conducted through the years in North Carolina.

Research workers are constantly working to improve the potential yield and quality of tobacco varieties. Varieties with high yield potential alone is not completely responsible for this tremendous increase in yield. Nutrition studies are being made that help improve the yield and quality. In these studies any fertilizer treatment which produces either deficiency or disease symptoms is rejected. An application rate of a fertilizer which resulted in a smaller yield would likewise be impractical.

Since such a large percentage of our good tobacco soils are infested with one or more diseases it is imperative that plant breeders continue to strive to improve the yield, quality and disease resistance when developing new varieties of tobacco. In order to make a definite contribution to the tobacco production program these plant breeders screen their potential strains very closely for plants that are off in type, quality, yield and resistance to diseases. Work is being done to develop varieties of tobacco that will be resistant to one or several of the following diseases: black shank, Granville wilt, Fusarium wilt, nematodes, Mosaic, blue mold, and brown spot.

The final product of the tobacco produced on our farms is the smoke consumed by the smoker. Therefore, laboratory tests are made to analyze the desirability of smoke produced. These smoke tests may determine whether a variety is released for growers use or not.

Tobacco production owes a great deal to the men conducting research on tobacco which helps the farmer to improve his yield and quality.

Set Inquest Into Airliner Deaths

SOUTHPORT, N.C. (AP)—An inquest into the deaths of 34 persons in an airliner crash near Bolivia will be conducted here next week.

But Brunswick County Coroner Lowell Bennett said the exact day and time has not been set, pending receipt of some reports from Washington. He declined to discuss the nature of the reports.

The National Airlines DC6B came apart in the air on a New York to Miami flight Jan. 6.

The cause of the crash has not been determined, but there has been speculation that a suicide bomb may have been responsible. Julian A. Frank, a New York attorney who was one of the victims, had taken out about $900,000 worth of insurance in the 10 months preceding the crash. His body was found near Fort Fisher, about 15 miles from the other 33 victims.

Bennett said the death certificates for 33 victims attributed death to "multiple injuries due to the crash." Frank's death, investigated by New Hanover County Coroner Gordon Doran because the body was first thought to have been recovered in New Hanover, was reported on the death certificate as "a victim of airplane crash."

The inquest will be for all 34 victims.

Expert To View Strange Find

NEWTON, N.C. (AP)—A Naval Reserve official from Charlotte was expected here today to inspect an instrument—believed to be a bomb sight—found half buried in some woods by Carson Lineberger, a Catawba County farmer.

Sheriff's officers said the instrument may have fallen from a Navy A3D-1 Sky Warrior twin-jet bomber that crashed last August in neighboring Iredell County. The pilot was killed in the crash and two other crewmen bailed to safety.

Enters Race In 12th District

ASHEVILLE (AP)—A Black Mountain attorney, Roy A. Taylor, says he will seek the Democratic nomination for North Carolina's 12th District seat in the U.S. House of Representatives.

The 49-year-old Taylor, who has represented Buncombe County at four sessions of the State Legislature, revealed his intentions here Wednesday.

Incumbent David M. Hall, also a Democrat, recently underwent two operations for cancer, but has said he will seek reelection to the congressional post.

Norwegian Company Highly Entertaining

By GEORGE E. PERRY

It was an evening of refreshingly different and delightful entertainment which the Festival Company of Norway staged in Wright Auditorium last evening. It was not a concert in the true sense of the word, and so it cannot be reviewed against standards of the concert world; but it was an evening of genuine pleasure, for both performers and audience.

(And, by the way, it was encouraging to see Wright virtually full as it has been for outstanding events in the past.) The most engaging quality seemed to be an infectious love which the performers had for what they were doing, a quality which couldn't help but spill into the audience. Actually, the performers were doing something which they came by naturally, for the most part: dances and music native to their Norway. But as contrast the program also included selections definitely ballet in character; for instance the "Marie Fiddle" or the "Troll Woman"; numbers which were Norwegian by nature, but which were not strictly speaking in the folk category. Whatever the group did, however, there were certain qualities which were to be consistently noted. First there was the naturalness of everyone's movements, an inherent grace and ease (even in the more boisterous numbers). There was an agility in everyone —not like that of a premier dancer or danseuse, but rather that which comes from doing something as natural as dancing is to this race. There was a noble, virile dignity to the men's movements, and a simple, charming, and distinctly feminine air about all the women did. And after all, this is about the way it should be. In Norway, for the most part, the male is still the dominant figure he was created to be, the woman his complement, and the dancing last evening demonstrated this fact more clearly. Then, too, there was the charm which old world customs cannot help but possess—those which have become traditional with the various races and peoples. It was not difficult to imagine one's presence in Norway, with the mountains in the background, the fjord in the distance, and the country people celebrating in a manner which has been theirs since time began. All of this was beautifully enriched by the authentic costumes, and by native music. It was for most of us the first time we had seen and heard the Norwegian Hardanger fiddle, the Norwegian Dulcimer, or the willow flute, plus two strange horns whose names did not appear on the program. In the musical line, the solo voice of Erna Skaug was a delight to hear. She was consistently on pitch, and the clear wholesome quality of her voice was demonstrated to excellent advantage several times.

While mentioning personalities, attention must certainly be called to Aloysius Valente, the principal male dancer of the group. His work was the nearest thing to the ballet seen during the evening; his movements were agile, smooth, and consistently well-timed. While Italian by birth, this young man has lived in Norway all his life, and by virtue of this fact is fittingly performing with this group.

Everyone, though, figured importantly in the success of the performance. All the men were of equal capabilities, as were the ladies. No one, with the exception of Mr. Valente, seemed to out-dance anyone else. It was as analogous a group as I have seen assembled for this purpose, and it is no wonder that Ed Sullivan chose them for an appearance on his show not many Sundays ago. It is a unique and outstanding attraction, and I for one was glad to be given a glimpse into something about which our Western world knows very little.

Lonely Oldsters Advised Try A Proven Formula

By RENNIE TAYLOR

Associated Press Science Writer SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Lonely oldsters should try the boy-meets-girl formula and look forward to the prospect of love and marriage long after the normal retirement age, say two doctors who deal with the problems of aging.

The senior citizen should live it up, moderately at least, and forget about taking it easy, they added.

And the medical profession might justifiably speed up the application of some of its new drugs and techniques to benefit oldsters now, rather than waiting for some degree of perfection which might take years or generations, one of them said.

These ideas were put before a regional conference on aging and in a news conference Wednesday by Dr. Theodore G. Klumpp of New York City and Dr. Alfred Auerback of San Francisco. The conference was sponsored by the American Medical Assn. and the medical associations of Washington, Oregon and California.

Dr. Klumpp, a member of the AMA committee on aging, said that if medical science has drugs and methods which are reasonably sure to help the aged but haven't been proved 100 per cent, they should be used, even if occasional mistakes are made.

And he advised oldsters to "use all of your functions as long as you can; get as much mileage out of your body as possible; forget talk about slowing down, because inactivity means atrophy, or wasting away, of both mind and body." Dr. Klumpp told of a Dane who did very well by himself for more than 140 years.

This fellow, he said, was Christian Jacobsen Dragenberg, who was born in 1628 and died in 1772. At the age of 70 he was taken prisoner by Algerian pirates. He served as a slave for 15 years, then escaped, and participated in a war against Sweden.

At the age of 111 the Dane married a woman of 60 and outlived her. At 130 he proposed to several women but was rejected. He lived another 16 years, during which his conduct was "far from blameless," but he simmered down at the age of 141 and died at 146.

"If one man can live a life as full as this," said Dr. Klumpp, "there is no reason why science cannot make it possible eventually for many of us to marry at 111, propose and be accepted at 130 and live to 146."

Dr. Auerback, a psychiatrist, said senior citizens' centers, dance clubs and hobby clubs are good places for lone oldsters to meet people.

In many of these organizations, he said, the common interest of the club overshadows age differences, and the older can meet young and old alike on an equal footing.

"Middle aged people should prepare to become old, not to be old," Dr. Auerback added, "then they can take the aging process as it comes instead of hurrying toward it."

More than 11,000 persons in 350 establishments in New York State are engaged in the manufacture of dolls.

FOUND AT LAST TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Twenty-seven years after she lost her wedding ring at her former farm home near New Bavaria, Mrs. Mary Thomas was notified it popped up while the present occupant of the farm, Erford Oedy, was plowing a field.

East Berlin and West Berlin have separate laws and separate money. But, they share the same water supply and the same elevated railroad system.

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro today gave the Spanish ambassador 24 hours to get out of Cuba after a face-to-face midnight row before a nationwide television audience that threatened to develop into a riot.

Fuming with rage, the bearded Prime Minister announced he was immediately recalling his own ambassador to Madrid, Jose Miro Cordona. He said it was uncertain whether a complete diplomatic break with Generalissimo Francisco Franco's government would follow.

Police and soldiers grabbed the Spanish ambassador, Juan Pablo de Lojendio, Marquis of Vellisca, and hustled him out of the TV studio after he had rushed in through a side door and accused the Prime Minister of slandering him in the broadcast. Castro had said the embassy was "in contact with war criminals and has ties with them." He accused the U.S. Embassy of similar activity against his regime.

The Prime Minister refused the ambassador's demands to be heard and shouted angrily: "You are not in Spain now. You are in Cuba."

After the ambassador was whisked away to safety from the menacing crowd, Castro brought cheers from the studio audience with the assertion: "I will give the Spanish ambassador 24 hours to get out of Cuba. We are going to recall our ambassador immediately, there is no other remedy."

While Castro was speaking, a crowd of about 1,000 gathered outside the TV studio shouting "out with the Spanish ambassador."

The middle-aged Marquis was taken away under the protective custody of Cuba's army chief, Maj. Juan Almeida. They slipped out a side door, and the ambassador was rushed to his home in suburban Mariano. A military guard was placed outside to keep newsmen and other visitors from entering, but the ambassador presumably was free to leave if he wanted to.

By telephone, the ambassador said he would make no plans to leave Cuba until he received official orders from the Cuban government.

The envoy said he was listening to Castro's broadcast and "I heard with true surprise his affectionate statements which affected me. Therefore I immediately went with my press adviser to the television studios for the purpose of asking the moderator of this station to authorize me to immediately deny before the people of Cuba those calumnies."

Castro denounced the Spanish envoy as a "holdover of fascism," and declared:

"The diplomat's attitude was shameful and surprising, as if he had established new diplomatic rules here. The only thing he lacked was a blackjack."

Had No License For 20 Years

GREENFIELD, Mass., (AP)—Wilbur M. Gardner, 36, has admitted to police he's been driving an automobile for 20 years without a license.

He explained that every time he takes the oral examination for a driver's license he gets so nervous he flunks.

A district court judge filed an unlicensed driving charge against Gardner Wednesday on his promise he'll try the test again next Tuesday.

SHP Lieutenant Kennerly Has A New Job To Learn

WATCHING . . . secretary make out a report.

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Highway Patrol Lt. C. Frank Kennerly has a task before him . . . learning about his new job. Kennerly became Executive officer of Troop "A" of the patrol January 1, replacing Lt. T. B. Brown who was transferred to Fayetteville and made captain and commanding officer of Troop "B". Kennerly, a native of Statesville joined the patrol in 1934 and trained for four months here in Greenville.

From his first duty station, in Morganton, the officer was transferred to Boone, then moved to Lenoir in 1946 and promoted to corporal. From Lenoir, Kennerly moved to Morganton again in 1949 and was stationed there until promoted to sergeant in 1951 when he was transferred back to Lenoir. He lived there until January 1, of this year, when he moved here.

According to the veteran patrolman, Greenville has "changed a lot but the friendliness of the people has not changed", as he thought back to his early days with the patrol.

Some of the major advances in law enforcement work according to the new lieutenant are the change from motorcycles to cars; the installation of three-way radios; and the use of electronic speed checking devices.

As the troops new executive officer, Kennerly's duties are to assist the troop commander in any way possible and to visit the different district offices and inspect the districts.

He is a member of the Presbyterian church, a Mason, York Rite Mason and a member of the Oasis Temple of the Shrine and The Knights of Pythias.

Kennerly is married and has a daughter who is a junior at Appalachian State Teachers College.

Rev. Winckley Spoke At Phila. Event

The Rev. Edward Winckley, O. S. L., who will be at St. Paul's Episcopal Church February 7-9 to conduct a preaching and healing mission, was keynote speaker at the recent International Convention of the Order of St. Luke held in Philadelphia.

Since September he has been visiting Episcopal churches all over the eastern half of the country, as well as in Canada, holding Christian Healing Missions. He has been at parishes in Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and at Ottawa, Montreal, Orillia, Hamilton and Toronto, in Canada. During 1960 he will go to Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Washington, Georgia, Florida, Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and California. Hundreds of parishes and missions will share in these services with him.

Princess Margriet, 16-year-old daughter of Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands, was born in Ottawa, Canada, during World War II.

Portugese Macau, settled four centuries ago by Portugese traders across from the spot now occupied by British Hong Kong, was Christianity's first foothold in China.

Just To Make Sure Of Plans

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A 12-year-old girl was being questioned in court about some letters she had written to her boy friend about their plans to run away together.

One of the letters ended: "I don't know for sure but I think I love you."
"P. S.: How do you spell your last name?"

AT BOTH POLES

TROY, N.Y. (AP)—Leonard Le-

Shack corresponds with friends from the ends of the earth. Last January, LeShack, a geologist, sent Prof. Joseph L. Rosenholtz of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute a picture of himself at the South Pole. This year LeShack, a 1957 RPI graduate who is assigned to the Office of Naval Research, wrote from the North Pole.

There's nothing like a new car—and no new car like a Chevrolet. This is the Impala Sport Coupe!

GO '60 GO CHEVY!

NOW—THE CAR THAT STARTS THE SIXTIES WITH SO MUCH THAT'S NEW, SO MUCH THAT'S DIFFERENT ...AND SETS THE PACE WITH LOWER PRICES!

Chevrolet speaks of the Sixties like no other car—with a broad accent on spaciousness, stirring new concepts in styling and strong emphasis on spirit and thrift.

Step inside this superlative '60 and look at the worlds of room around you: head room, hip room, shoulder-squaring room. Note how Chevrolet's engineers have further flattened and narrowed the transmission tunnel to give the middle man more foot room. Chevrolet's greater roominess is inside where you want it—not outside in useless body overhang.

You'll find economy teamed with performance in a new standard V8, engineered to deliver up to 10% more miles for every gallon, or the strapping Hi-Thrift 6.

And riding comfort in the new one is a never-ending treat, thanks to Full Coil spring suspension. There are also thicker, newly designed body mounts that filter noise and vibration to the vanishing point, more rigid frame and many other engineering advances.

But you'll have to drive the Sixty sizzler yourself—that's the clincher. Why not see your Chevrolet dealer now—for a drive and the happy details on Chevy's new lower prices.

Now—fast delivery, favorable deals! See your local authorized Chevrolet dealer.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Paced by electronic - missile - rocket shares, the stock market staged a fair recovery in moderate trading early this afternoon.

The rocket launchings by the United States and Russia drew attention once more to the "science" issues involved in the national effort.

Brokers saw ample grounds for a technical rebound since the market has risen only twice this far in 1950. Many stocks, including the space age issues, were down well enough below their high to attract speculative demand.

U.S. government bonds took small losses.

A crowd estimated by Guaranty Bank and Trust Co. officials at "well in excess of 6,000 persons", attended open house in the bank's new building last night.

Pres. J. H. Waldrop and Vice Pres. J. S. Moye estimated the crowd. They said the building was packed with visitors from the time the open house began at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon until it ended at 9 o'clock last night.

Favors were presented to the visitors and they were invited to tour the entire three-story building. Refreshments were served in the bank's community room on the third floor.

There were also displays of American and foreign currency and a coin collection display. The first floor of the modern building contains the teller windows, vault with safe deposit boxes, note tellers, separate installment loan department, officers' platform with private offices.

On the second floor the bank's trust department, audit and general books, individual ledger bookkeepers and proof and addressograph departments are located. The community room and the board of directors room are included in the third floor. Room for expansion was also left on this floor.

by the growth of business. He stated that during the year 1950 Guaranty Bank handled more checks, deposits and loans daily and maintained a higher deposit position than in any previous year in the history of the bank. At the year-end, because of market conditions for tobacco and other crops, and shortages in the crop, there was a slight let-up in deposits in some of the bank's branches resulting in year-end deposits three percent less than a year ago. He expressed appreciation to the officers for the fine work and thanks to the stockholders and customers for the banner year in the growth and progress of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Co.

J. H. Moye, vice president and trust officer, reported that trust assets had increased 33 1-3 percent during the year 1950, and now total in excess of $10 million. These figures are not included in the bank's statement of condition, he said, but do indicate that an active trust department is rendering efficient and satisfactory service to more and more people.

F. L. Blount, chairman of the bank's examining committee for 1950, read the committee's report and praised all phases of the bank's operation.

P. Richard Atkinson, vice president, and J. W. Overton, vice president and comptroller, commented on the bank's activities.
