

Public Hearings To Be Held Over Annexing Tracts

By HENRY HOWARD
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville City Council voted to authorize the advertising for public hearing of two tracts for annexation into the city at its February meetings last night in the Council Room of the City Hall.

After hearing petitions regarding the White Chevrolet property and the Garner-Wynne-Manning property, the Council voted to allow advertising of both tracts.

The Council directed City Manager Leonard Bloxam to contact the property owner of the Julian Shell Station property to determine whether that tract could be advertised concurrently with the White Chevrolet property, since the two are adjoining.

Included in the Garner-Wynne-Manning petition was a request to install a fire hydrant "within 500 feet" of the company's building. Bloxam pointed out the hydrant is already a part of the city's long-range planning for hydrant distribution and the Council voted to install the fire-fighting facility.

A third annexation petition was tabled pending further investigation. A total of 36 property owners from the northeastern section of Greenville's outlying area signed the petition requesting their property be advertised for annexation as a new subdivision. Due to lack of drainage situation, street condition, and division information, the Council delayed action on the petition until a later meeting when such information can be made available.

Councilman M. W. Aldridge pointed out paving of Hudson St. scheduled previously, had not yet begun because a majority of property owners had not signed the petition.

Bloxam reported additional signers had been obtained since the last official count and indicated a majority of property owners representing a majority of linear feet in street frontage, both prerequisite to assessment of the minority, have signed the petition.

The Council voted to proceed with the Hudson St. project provided adequate signers have been obtained. Two other streets were included in the vote—Cadillac and Ford.

Other Council action provided for a new traffic light to be installed at the corner of Fifth and Elm Streets. Bloxam reported a traffic count had been made to determine the need of the stop light there. He also mentioned three other intersections checked, but pointed out the new widening project on 10th St. may avert the necessity of traffic.

fic light installation at those three intersections

The Council tabled a request for installation of a part-time stoplight at the main entrance to East Carolina College on Fifth St. pending further investigation. A letter from the ECC Student Council assured the Councilmen the college would bear the cost of installation and would be responsible for operation of the light proposed to operate only during school hours and evening events that create heavy traffic.

Upon recommendation of Mayor Eugene West, the Council delayed action on the request until a definite plan regarding the light's operation is submitted.

Bloxam read a letter to the Council from Second Highway Division Engineer C. W. Snell Jr. requesting permission to remove the tenders of the Grimesland drawbridge.

The letter pointed out the bridge, if relieved of its full-time tenders, would still be opened by the State Highway Commission upon 24-hour notice.

The Council decided to concur in a joint motion with the Pitt County Commissioners regarding the matter. Bloxam was instructed to notify Snell an answer would be available by the Council's next meeting if possible. The Council moved to create a uniform electrical inspection fee for Greenville and Pitt County under the new electrical ordinance. It voted unanimously to begin charging an inspection fee identical to that charged by the county. All fees collected are turned over to the Pitt government.

Another letter to the Council requested a joint meeting of the Greenville PTA's Safety Committee with the Council, mayor, and city manager regarding the installation of sidewalks around each of Greenville's schools.

After discussion, the Council decided to investigate the cost of such a project and have exact figures available when it sets the requested joint meeting, probably in April.

National Guard Inspection

INSPECTION TEAM . . . combs equipment for defects.

High Rating Given Local Guard Unit

Unit commander, 1st Lt. Charles Camp, was "well-pleased" with the results of the annual equipment inspection of the National Guard here yesterday.

Battery "A" received 10 "superior" ratings and two "Excellent" markings is yesterday's inspection termed by the battery's Chief Warrant Officer, Mayo E. Allen, the "hardest inspection we have ever stood here."

A crack National Guard inspection team from Butler, N.C. Guard maintenance headquarters, spent the entire day combing the local armory for equipment defects.

According to Allen, yesterday was the first time in three years Battery "A" has failed to received top ratings in all categories. Still, the CWO was pleased at the grading since the unit was changed from a service to a firing battery last April and its members had to learn to operate and take care of entirely new equipment.

Capt. Arthur E. Ferrel, chief of the Command Maintenance Inspection Team out of Butler, indicated the local unit "compared favorably with the best in the state." He pointed out many North Carolina units are receiving lower grades than were handed out here yesterday.

The eight-man team also inspected Battery "B" but results were not reported this morning. Allen said he thought the other battery received grades comparable to the Battery "A" rating. Allen reported this morning the local unit has completed its enlistment campaign. After authorization last fall, the local Guard accepted recruits until it now stands at full strength.

Bulletin

HAVANA (AP)—Intense gunfire broke out today in the vicinity of the Fine Arts Palace as Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan and Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos prepared to open the Soviet trade exposition there.

Wild shooting broke out from a balcony across the street from the Fine Arts Palace just as Mikoyan and Dorticos stepped inside its doors.

There were no signs anyone was hit in the crowd of about 300 outside the exposition building.

The Havana police radio quickly announced the arrest of two men on a charge of attempting to sabotage the appearance of Mikoyan at the exposition.

Senate Approves School Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has passed a $1.834,000,000 school aid bill to provide federal grants both for classroom construction and for teachers' salaries.

But there were indications today that the House would not approve the salary provisions, and that President Eisenhower would veto the measure if Congress passes it in its present form.

The 51-34 vote by which the Senate passed the measure Thursday night is far short of the two-thirds that would be needed to override a veto.

House Democratic leaders say that they expect to pass school legislation before the 86th Congress quits. But they assert their branch is likely to limit the funds to school construction, omitting teacher salaries which were included in the Senate bill.

The Senate vote was the latest move in a long fight running back to 1871 to win congressional passage of general federal aid for public elementary and high schools.

Warsaw Pact Countries Favor German Showdown

MOSCOW (AP)—The Warsaw Pact powers have lined up behind Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for a showdown on the German problem at the East-West summit talks in May.

The eight-nation Communist alliance wound up a one-day conference Thursday night by threatening again to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany "and to solve on this basis the question of West Berlin as well."

The Soviet-led bloc backed the policies already laid down by Khrushchev—including the offer of a nonaggression pact with the North Atlantic alliance, universal disarmament, a ban on nuclear weapons and conversion of West Berlin into a "free city."

But the Red alliance seemed to show impatience on the German issue.

"Under present conditions a peace treaty can be signed only by both German states," said a communiqué. "We cannot agree that the solution to this question be delayed endlessly."

"This can only encourage the militarist and revenge-seeking forces of West Germany. It efforts directed at signing a peace treaty with both German states will not meet support, and the solution to this problem still faces delay, then the states represented at this conference will have no way out but to sign, together with other states which will be ready for that, a peace treaty with the (East) German Democratic Republic, and on this basis to solve the problem of West Berlin as well."

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's West German government was accused of stalling in the hope "that an opportune moment may arise for altering the frontiers established in Europe as a result of the rout of Nazi Germany."

This, the communiqué continued, "means a policy of preparing a new war," because neither Poland nor the Soviet Union will surrender the lands they took from Germany at the end of the war.

Khrushchev signed for the Soviet Union as both head of the government and Communist Party Chairman. Both premiers and party leaders signed for the other countries—East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Albania.

Delegates from the four Asian Communist nations—Red China, Outer Mongolia, North Korea and North Viet Nam—looked on but did not sign the communiqué at a glittering ceremony in the Catharine Room of the Kremlin Palace.

Western diplomats suggested that secret decisions may have been reached which were not disclosed in the communiqué. They said it was unlikely that Khrushchev had brought party and government leaders from all over Europe and Asia to repeat formally what all had declared repeatedly before.

The communiqué echoed the call already made by the Soviet Premier for the West to follow the Soviet lead in cutting down armed forces.

But the communiqué said that the alliance, since its organization in 1955 as a military counterpart to NATO had reduced its armed forces by 2,596,500, and this before Khrushchev's recent promise to cut Soviet armed forces about the level of America's.

Communist East Germany was reported to have demobilized 90,000 men. No other figures by countries were given. However, Khrushchev announced last month that the Soviet armed forces between 1956 and 1958 had been reduced 2,140,000 men.

Looking forward to the spring summit conference in Paris, the communiqué expressed hope that it "will be a turning point in East-West relations."

Army Didn't Get Approved Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Much of the special additional funds voted by Congress to provide new equipment for American soldiers has been tied up by the Budget Bureau or has been used to help allies, says Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer.

Lemnitzer, Army chief of staff, told the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee and Space Committee Thursday that Army modernization is one of his principal problems.

Asked if the additional funds voted last year for that purpose are being fully used, Lemnitzer replied:

"The answer to that question is no."

Why not?

"I can't answer that — you'll have to ask the Budget Bureau," he said.

Lemnitzer said part of the $386,200,000 appropriation was used to assist allies and 175 million dollars were placed in reserve by the Budget Bureau to meet "future contingencies."

President Eisenhower's new budget provides about 1½ billion dollars to continue the Army's modernization program at its present rate. The Army originally tried to get five billion dollars a year for three years for modernization.

Lemnitzer was told Thursday that the Senate committee had testimony that the Soviet army had been highly mechanized, made highly mobile and provided with rockets, tanks and guns that "can outrange and outgun ours."

He replied "we do know the Russian army has been completely reorganized at least once since the last war."

He added he didn't know the degree to which it may have been reorganized since. Some U.S. equipment is better than that in the hands of the Soviets, he said.

Lemnitzer differed with some of the opinions expressed to the committee earlier in the day by Gen. Maxwell Taylor. Taylor, now retired, was Lemnitzer's predecessor as Army commander.

Taylor said the Joint Chiefs of Staff should be replaced by a single chief of staff. Lemnitzer said the JCS is "the proper organization for this country."

While Taylor questioned the ability of the United States to fight a limited war, Lemnitzer said "there is no doubt we could do a very good job."

Lemnitzer said he agreed with the concept of an around-the-clock airborne alert for Strategic Air Command bombers, but said he was opposed to such a precaution "under the current circumstances and the situation as it exists today."

The Senate inquiry groups headed by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) will continue their hearings next week.

Holding Down Federal Payroll For Next Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today started fulfilling the promise of its leaders to hold down the federal payroll next year.

In the first 1960 money bill, it refused to finance 809 of the 1,070 new jobs requested for the Commerce Department for the fiscal year starting July 1. At the same time, it cut $39,927,765 from the $799,615,000 in new funds President Eisenhower asked for the department and related agencies.

Shortly after the President sent his annual budget to Congress last month, Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.) and Rep. John Taber (R-N.Y.), senior minority member, complained of proposals to increase federal personnel.

Taber said an estimated 40,000 of the proposed 42,500 new jobs weren't necessary and joined Cannon in calling for an over-all appropriation cut of at least two billion dollars.

Heaviest hit by the committee's action was the Weather Bureau, which requested money for 200 new positions, most of them for proposed new aviation services.

The committee refused to approve the jobs or funds for the new services. It said many aspects of the rapidly expanding aviation weather services "have yet to be resolved."

Real Safety Problem, Asserts Speaker, Lies In Ignoring Law

"One-hundred and sixty-eight persons have died needlessly on Pitt County Highways since January 1, 1945," according to Major Charles A. Speed, Director of the Highway Safety Division of the North Carolina Highway Patrol who spoke to the Pitt County Safety Council yesterday.

"This fatality rate," Maj. Speed noted, "is directly due to the technological advancement of man, by producing the automobile." Comparing the advancement of man-and-automobile to man-and-space, Maj. Speed pointed out that, while everything is being done to make man in space safe, nothing is being done to promote safety on the highway.

It is ironic that "the auto is a product of our ingenuity . . . our greatest genius. To say we do not have the ability to control it does not make sense. Or is it that we do not have time, in this fast-moving world, to be safety-conscious while driving?"

"The real problem, I think, is the fact we lack the moral courage to obey the law. We pay tax to support law enforcement agencies and sit back and ask why they do not stop all of this killing on the highways. The answer is that we, who are so complacent and indifferent, are the ones who cause the accidents and the deaths."

"Even though the highway patrol has a program of education coupled with control, three persons died every day as the result of abuse and misuse of motor vehicles in North Carolina."

"People have a responsibility to obey the law. In the state last year, patrolmen arrested 240,000 citizens. Our drivers license program is rated tops by the National Safety Council, but it cannot make the driver drive the way he should."

"About 12 to 15 per cent of the drivers are socially maladjusted people and will become willful violators of the law. They can be stopped only through fear of a rigid enforcement program. It is the only thing they respect. The other violators just do not realize that they are violating the law. They are too intent on other things. They are just accidents looking for a place to happen."

"The most dangerous and despicable driver is the drinking driver. Fifty per cent of the fatal accidents in the United States last year were caused by drinking drivers."

"Curves are not quite so sharp to these drivers. Hill crests are not quite so steep."

Scouts Parade Here Tomorrow

Local Boy Scouts will begin their observance of National Boy Scout Week with a parade of over 20 floats here tomorrow morning at 10 a.m.

The parade will start at Dickinson Avenue and Ninth Street, and from there will move up Dickinson and Evans Street, breaking up at the corner of Evans and Second Streets.

Over 500 scouts will march in the parade, led by the Farmville High School band. Rudolph Alexander, district scout executive for the county, said it should be "one of the best parades we've had." He said their branch is built around scenes of scouting skill and activities. Scouts and their leaders made the floats.

A prize will be awarded to the best float in both district and division. Every boy in the unit with the largest unit of participants will receive an American flag kit.

Scouts will come from all over the county, Alexander said, with participating floats from county areas, such as Grifton, Farmville and Bethel.

The parade will kick off National Boy Scout Week which begins Sunday. This is the fiftieth anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America.

Diana Died From Alcohol, Pills

NEW YORK (AP)—Diana Barrymore died from a combination of alcohol and sleeping pills, a medical report says.

An official finding on the cause of death of the 38-year-old actress was released Thursday by the chief medical examiner, Dr. Milton Helsen.

Dr. Helsen said in a statement: "Death was caused by an acute alcoholic intoxication enhanced by the effect of ingested barbiturates."

"A large amount of alcohol in the system makes a person acutely susceptible to the effect of barbiturates. Apparently the effect of one enhanced the other," he said.

ECC Sororities Go National

Eight sorority chapters at East Carolina College will be installed this weekend and will receive their charters from the national organizations with which they are affiliated. Events beginning Friday afternoon will include installation ceremonies, initiation of members of the college chapters, and a number of social affairs.

The national sororities to be installed during the weekend are Alpha Omicron Pi, Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Phi, Alpha Xi Delta, Chi Omega, Delta Zeta, Kappa Delta, and Sigma Sigma Sigma.

Also visiting will be members of Epsilon Beta Chapter of Chi Omega at the University of North Carolina and Theta Gamma Chapter at Queens College.

Chi Omega Sorority was founded at the University of Arkansas April 5, 1895. Two students at the university, Jean Vinceneller and Ina Mae Boles, called upon Dr. Charles Richardson, a regent of the University of Arkansas and a national officer in Kappa Sigma, to ask about starting a woman's fraternity.

Men's fraternities had recently entered the university and Dr. Richardson had been instrumental in bringing the first chapter of Kappa Sigma to the campus. He was asked to prepare a constitution, ritual, and plan of organization. When he had completed these, he met with the founders including Alice Simonds at the home of Jobelle Holcomb. His plans were approved and adopted April 5, 1895.

The sorority was organized from the beginning to be a National and in a few years had chapters in the Northwest, the Northeast, the Middle West and the North as well as the South.

Chi Omega has grown progressively and now has 124 chapters. Rho Zeta Chapter at ECC which will be installed Saturday afternoon at St. James Methodist Church will number the 125th chapter.

Miss Brown Council Treas.

Miss Mavis Brown, a member of the Winston High School faculty, was elected as treasurer of the N. C. Business Education Council last weekend at its semi-annual meeting in Winston-Salem.

Mrs. Guylla D. Clark of Ayden High School and Dr. James L. White, associate professor of Business Education, ECC, are also members of the Council and attended the meeting.

The Business Education Council, an organization made up of representatives of business and education, is aimed at promoting higher standards in its field—that is, typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, economics, etc.

Music Club Meets With Couple

The Greenville Music Club held its monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Atkinson. The meeting opened with the National Collect, and the minutes of the past meeting were read and approved.

It was stated that the stereo record player which was voted to be purchased and given to the Junior Club had arrived and had been properly delivered.

Discussion was held as to whether the club would sponsor the Grass Roots Opera next year; it was decided to investigate both the North Carolina Symphony and a National Young Artists Winner as an alternative to the Grass Roots Opera for next year's presentation.

Dr. Stanley Walter gave a report pertaining to the operatic presentation of last week, stating that the club realized a profit of approximately $100 which will be turned over to the Department of Music of East Carolina College to be used for scholarships.

The program for the evening was in charge of Mrs. Dink James, who presented a paper summarizing the principal composers of the Romantic period, concluding her talk with phonographic examples. Following this a refreshment course was served by hostesses Mrs. Richard Atkinson, Mrs. Catherine Barnhill, and Dr. Mildred Southwick.

Bethel Bridge Players
Bridge players were entertained Thursday night by Mrs. Edward Hart at her home on Dupont St. During the dessert hour the hostess served pie with coffee.

Mrs. Walter Patrick and Mrs. Roy Jackson were high scorers for the evening and awarded prizes.

Others playing were Mesdames Milholl Hart, Ben G. Tucker, Clay Burney, Julius Chaucer, Roger Johnson, G.L. Tucker, Sam Nelson, Mark Phillips, W.E. Raspberry, and Woodrow Smith.

Card of Thanks
The family of Mrs. Lizzie Crandall wishes to thank everyone for the kindness and sympathy extended to them throughout the illness and death of their mother.

STATE BANK and TRUST COMPANY

Greenville, North Carolina

A Statement Of Policy

In response to many inquiries, we hereby state our position with regard to the type of operation we plan for the future.

On December 14, 1954, the Board of Directors of State Bank and Trust Company adopted the following Statement of Policy: "WHEREAS it is the judgment of this Board that it's for the best interest of the Bank and our city and community that this Bank remain an independent Bank, believing that it can better serve the people of the community and its stockholders generally as an independent Bank; and

WHEREAS this bank and its predecessors have for more than half a century served this city and community, building up goodwill and the friendship of many persons,

IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED AND AGREED that this Board of Directors go on record as being in favor of retaining the State Bank and Trust Company as an independent banking institution."

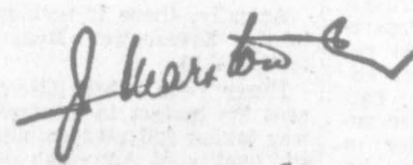

On February 4, 1960, the following resolution was presented and unanimously adopted: "WHEREAS it is the judgment of this Board also that it is for the best interest of this Bank and our city and community that this Bank remain an independent Bank, believing that by so doing, it can better serve the people of Eastern North Carolina,

IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED AND AGREED that this Board of Directors go on record as ratifying and reaffirming the Board's resolution of December 14, 1954."

We prefer to maintain our independence. Our policies will be determined by our local Board of Directors, which represents no individual or group but acts now and in the future proposes to act solely for the best interest of our customers and friends.

Look For Parallels In Campaigns

With official announcements of Addison Hewlett Tuesday as a candidate for the Senate and yesterday by Terry Sanford that he will seek the post of governor, races for North Carolina's two top political posts seem fairly well set.

While there are others still being mentioned as possible gubernatorial candidates, the passage of each day without an official announcement appears to lessen the chances that the governors campaign will be more than a two-way battle. The same may be said of the Senate race.

One interesting aspect of the races as the official campaign lines are being drawn is at least the appearance that places Sanford and Hewlett on one side of the political fence and Larkins and Sen. Everett Jordan on the other.

Without exception, the candidates will endeavor to stay out of races other than their own, and will try to avoid any connection with a candidate in another race so far as political alliances is concerned. Under the circumstances, it will be surprising if they succeed completely.

Because of their long association in Democratic party affairs and their close personal friendship Larkins and Sen. Jordan would each naturally be expected to look favorably upon the other's candidacy.

Sanford, on the other hand, severely criticized the appointment of Jordan to succeed the late Sen. W. Kerr Scott, and has not gone out of his way to mend the open break with the senator or with Gov. Hodges which appeared at that time. It is no secret that the Sanford forces in recent months have shown keen interest in a strong candidate opposing Sen. Jordan for the nomination. Hewlett, in withdrawing from the gubernatorial race, intimated the promised sources of campaign funds had suddenly dried up, and in so many words intimated Sen. Jordan and perhaps Gov. Hodges might have had a hand in the sequence of events.

These factors point to the conclusion that Sanford and Hewlett each would be favorable to the other's candidacy.

It is highly improbable that either of the gubernatorial candidates will openly plug for his favorite senatorial candidate or vice-versa, but as the campaigns develop it will be interesting to watch for parallels in the campaigns of Larkins and Sen. Jordan and those of Sanford and Hewlett.

This year of 1960 promises lively and interesting campaigns for the top state-wide political offices.

They All Favor State Control

By LYNN NISBET

WELFARE—Every member of the North Carolina delegation in Congress wants the State to have more control over the use of money paid out for the aid of dependent children. There is considerable difference in suggested methods of approach and in the degree of optimism for alleviating the rigid Federal administrative order depriving State and local authorities from any voice in the matter.

Your reporter accompanied Attorney General Malcolm Sealwell and Assistant Ralph Moody on the rounds of congressional offices Monday and Tuesday. We missed several members who were attending committee meetings or the regular session of the House which was devoted to memorials for Dave Hall. The secretaries of those missed said their bosses had received and studied the advance brief prepared by Moody, and were in hearty accord with its objectives. Those whom we talked with were chiefly concerned at this stage about strategy.

Results of the trip can be summarized about as follows: Sen. Sam Ervin will get from the Library of Congress a complete history of the enactment of social security and welfare legislation, including of the enactment of social security and welfare legislation, including the original reasons, if any, for providing supervision and court review for other types of expenditures, such as veterans' aid, but none at all for the money allotted to benefit dependent children.

When this data has been compiled Rep. Harold Cooley, dean of the delegation, will call a conference to consider best use to be made of the information. It is contemplated to bring in to the conference representatives of other States with similar problems. It is recognized that it is not regional, but nationwide in scope.

Rep. L. H. Fountain, chairman of the subcommittee on intergovernmental relations, which developed some facts on this point during a series of public hearings in 1958, suggests that his group and the advisory committee set up by the President on governmental relations might dig further into the matter.

The congressmen, like the North Carolina General Assembly, to along with the concept that welfare aid should be in money payments rather than in bags of potatoes or orders on a grocery store for food. They cannot accept the idea that there should be absolutely no check or supervision of funds paid to adults for benefit of children in order to see that the children get the benefit.

NON-PARTISAN—Although North Carolina has gone further than any other State in enacting a law providing for local supervision, the resentment against bureaucratic dictatorship is not limited to one State or region or one party. The members of congress have no sympathy with the welfare agency interpretation of the statutes, but they have a wholesome respect for the ability of the bureau to make its regulations stick. That's why they are planning carefully before acting.

TRAVELERS—Majority of the delegation had just gotten back to Washington from attending the funeral of their late colleague, Rep. Dave Hall of the 12th district. And all of them were planning to come to the Jefferson-Jackson dinner in Raleigh Saturday. Everywhere our little party went we found others waiting to see their congressman. In view of this necessary travel, and a great deal more for those who have primary opposition, and the constant flow of visitors, Ralph Moody wondered when a congressman finds time to work.

GREEN STAMPS—A neat illustration of the impact of minute auditing and enforcement of regulations in very minor details is the confusion in Washington over green stamps. The budget office has just decreed that green (or any other color) trading stamps given in connection with purchase of gasoline or other merchandise paid for by the Federal government are the property of the government and must be accounted for and turned in with the purchase ticket. It seems employees have been taking the stamps home. Some clerk (probably on government time) has figured that it would take a staff of 25 or 30 persons to lick the stamps, paste them in the little books, and credit the appropriate agency. It is unthinkable in government operations that a staff of 25 or 30 could operate without a director and a supervisor.

The next and perhaps more serious problem is what the government would do with the stamps obtainable upon surrender of the stamps—such things as electric toasters, magazine stands, radio and television sets, fishing tackle, etc. Another agency would have to be set up to rent a warehouse to store this material and maintain an inventory, perhaps ultimately to hold an auction sale—and make sure that each department got the amount of money derived from the sale to which its own quota of stamps was entitled.

A simpler way, suggests this clerk, would be to put the stamps themselves up for sale at public auction, and distribute proceeds back to each department pro rata. That might require specific congressional authorization. What if the employee making the purchase refuses the stamps in order to save all this trouble? Then he becomes guilty of failure to get full value for government spending. And that, says the clerk, is a heinous offense when ten or fifteen cents worth of green stamps is involved, but doesn't seem to bother on billion dollar contracts.

Rose To Leadership Despite Afflictions

Congressman David M. Hall to whom death came last week, provided his contemporaries with a brilliant example of what a man can do when he is determined not to let physical handicaps stand in the way of what he wishes to accomplish.

Afflicted by a bone infection at the age of 12, Dave Hall spent the remaining 30 years of his life in wheel chairs and hospital beds. For most men, the fight for survival which Dave Hall waged would have been an accomplishment in itself. But not for this man who was to rise in spite of his afflictions to a place of political leadership in North Carolina.

From his wheel chair, Congressman Hall ran a service station, was an automobile salesman, attended college and earned a law degree, served in the North Carolina Senate, practiced law and was chosen by voters of the 12th district of this state to represent them in Congress.

The wheel chair, which to many is in itself a symbol of inactivity and dependency upon others, to Hall was a vehicle which would enable him to accomplish at least some of his goals in life. Few of us will ever really appreciate the handicaps under which he realized his achievements. During the last 30 years of his life, this 42-year-old man underwent surgery more than 200 times. He estimated his illnesses kept him in hospital beds a total of almost eight years.

And yet, during his 42 years, he was able to accomplish more than most men do, blessed with all their physical strength and a longer life span. Men like the late Congressman Dave Hall have a special kind of courage that commands the admiration and respect of other citizens of our society.

Narrowed Field Of The Debate

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has reduced the argument between the Democrats and his administration over American defenses to a question of how to defend the country.

So hereafter, when Democrats question this country's power to discourage or overcome a Soviet attack, the public will have to choose between Eisenhower's knowing what he's doing and the Democrats' knowing what they are saying. Eisenhower recently said he thinks he probably knows more about the defense problem than anyone else.

Actually, there is nothing new in this Eisenhower-Democratic relationship.

Every year, when Eisenhower sent his budget to Congress, he was taking full responsibility for the quality of American defense when he asked for just so much and no more money.

But this year the tangle between Democrats and the administration got off to a clumsy start because of the language Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates used in telling Congress this country is strong enough to discourage attack.

Instead of saying simply that this country's combined strength—with missiles, planes and men—is enough to deter a Soviet attack, he chose a more technical approach.

He talked about American knowledge of Soviet intentions through this country's intelligence information. What was he doing? Saying he could read the Soviet's mind? That was the kind of question he raised.

So he had to go back and clear up his language. Some of the top military leaders, mainly Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, backed up Gates.

But by the time the confusion over Gates' language quieted down, along came Gen. Thomas S. Power, commander of the U. S. bomber force which would be the country's principal weapon of retaliation if the Soviet Union attacked.

He told Congress that the years immediately ahead—because of the Soviet Union production of missiles—would be dangerous and that, lacking a missile warning system, a 24-hour airborne alert by his bombers was essential for the nation's survival.

What he meant was that if the Soviets tried a surprise attack the only safe place for our bombers would be upstairs so they couldn't be destroyed by a Soviet missile assault on the ground. He said that by the middle of the 1960s this country will have so many missiles of its own no one would dare attack. But until then he felt the airborne alert was a must.

To emphasize his point, Power said that with 300 missiles the Soviet Union could knock out this country's strikeback ability in 30 minutes.

And Power told senators, Eisenhower's military budget submitted this year falls short of providing enough money to get ready for the airborne alert.

Gates told senators the Joint Chiefs of Staff don't think it necessary to start an airborne alert now. And he said Power was unrealistic in talking of 300 Soviet missiles knocking out this country's defenses in 30 minutes. But Power told Congress he stood by what he said.

Things were getting pretty gummy by this time, a situation made to order for the critical Democrats in this campaign year. So Wednesday at his news conference Eisenhower rushed Power aside, back to Gates, and took on the Democrats.

Power chose not to comment further.

Basic Role In Our Lives

By SCOTT SMILEY

Immaculate Baptist Church
The average American will agree that religion plays a basic role in our lives. The young person builds within himself while he's a teenager an original person. He's the first one; there's never been another person like him. He establishes his habits, morals and sets the pattern for his future life. Religion should enter during this period to help lead and direct the person in the future.

Religion helps us in many ways. Our characters are developed by attempting to lead a good Christian life. Our personalities benefit too, because it helps us learn to show consideration of others, and thus to get along better with them. Religion also brings our families closer together. Last, but not least, it gives us a plan for eternity.

The definition of religion in the dictionary reads: "The service and adoration of God or a god as expressed in forms of worship." When I think of religion, the word "faith" stands out more than any other word I know. Faith in God (barring your life there is a God) is my personal definition, because it seems to answer every question concerning religion.

In many cases you can discuss or compare two different denominations. Sometimes we disagree very much in our beliefs, but I think the main point is not WHAT you believe but THAT you believe. The thing that really counts is that you stand up for and live by your convictions.

I think Greenville has a wonderful atmosphere for religious growth. We give devotionals each day at school. We have Christian teachers and civic leaders. We have forty different churches representing practically all major denominations. For the teenagers we have the United Christian Youth Movement (UCYM) which serves as a connecting link between all denominations. When we get together we don't consider ourselves as being of different denominations, but as being Christians worshipping together.

We sometimes hear people referred to as full-time religious workers, whereas others are referred to as part-time religious workers.

If by full-time we mean professional religious workers, and by part-time we mean voluntary then, of course, the idea of full-time and part-time religious work is valid. But unfortunately, a great many people are part-time religious workers for the simple reason that they only work at the project of serving God when it meets their convenience, when it does not interfere with their pleasure, when it does not restrain their avarice.

Some people make a distinction between lies and white lies. Lies, according to this classification, are really bad. But white lies are pleasant little ways of disengaging

A Will Has Its Angles

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Have you made out your will yet?

If not, you ought to. Otherwise after you're gone your relatives will wind up squabbling over who gets your new two-pants suit and the gold fillings in your teeth.

Millions of Americans postpone making out a will because the mere thought depresses them. Actually, it is rather an enlightening experience.

"I'll go along with you—just so you won't feel nervous," says your wife, when you tell her you are going to a lawyer to make out your will.

You have a deep inner conviction that this isn't her real reason at all. But what can you say? So along she comes.

"Have you decided just what you want to do?" asks the lawyer.

"Yep," you tell him. "The first thing I want to do is disinheriting mankind. That's only what it deserves."

"Heh, heh, heh," laughs the lawyer coldly. "Now what about your material possessions? Do you own any stocks, bonds, country homes, yachts or old grain elevators?"

Any other chattels?" "Just her," you reply, pointing to your wife.

Well, it turns out after further questioning that about all you have to leave is a few sticks of furniture, your life insurance, and your clothing.

In a burst of husbandly generosity, you say: "Just make everything over to my wife. After all she is a good woman, and she has given me the best years of her life—she says."

The secretary types out the will. For some reason, no matter how little you have to leave the document always runs to three or four pages.

But after disposing of all your worldly goods—and paying the lawyer—you find you have just $2.63 in your pockets.

"I'm worth more dead than alive," you complain on the bus going home.

Suddenly you remember something.

"I forgot to ask the lawyer who I should leave my credit cards to," you exclaim.

"Never mind, you can take them with you," says your wife, patting your hand again consolingly. "Where you're going you'll need all the credit you can get."

The term "a part-time religious worker" is an unfortunate one. In fact, the only word God wants us to do requires our full-time. And this full-time employment is not the least interfere with our daily employment or with a career we may have wanted to establish for ourselves in the world. A man who only works part-time at his religion might just as well stop working at all and give his time and energy to something more profitable.

All people cannot be professional religious workers—nor should they be. But all people should recognize the fact that unless the religion works all the time it really does not work any of the time.

Versatility Among The Inventors

By ELMER ROESSNER
America's inventors have gone versatile. Inventing a gadget that will do one thing isn't enough these days; a do-hickey must have two or more purposes.

These conclusions come from a quick look at the entries in the Versatility in Design and Use Contest, an annual promotion by Hess Brother, Allentown, Pa. Awards will be made in mid-March.

Here are some of the more unusual entries:

AIRPLANE CRASH DEATH

POSES TAX PROBLEM
If a man is suspected of blowing up an airplane so his heirs can collect his insurance, a curious legal result follows.

"Suppose a man dies owning an $850,000 insurance policy... and that he may have been a suicide," Prentice-Hall's "Information" says. "Naturally, the insurer will investigate and probably contest. The outcome could be that the decedent's family will get either $850,000 or nothing. How do you value the policy?"

"Logic dictates you await the result of settlement. But the courts say no. They strictly follow the Code which says the asset must be valued 'at the time of death.'"

What would the value be? About the only way to determine it would be to find out how much a speculator would pay for the claim.

Perseverance in Christian Work ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Acts 18:1-23; I Corinthians 1:26-2:5.

Paul left Athens and went to Corinth. He found a Jew named Aquila and his wife, Priscilla, and because they were tentmakers as he was, he lived with them.—Acts 18:1-3.

Every Sabbath Paul talked with the Jews and Greeks in the synagogue. They blasphemed, so he shook his raiment at them and said he would preach to the Gentiles.—Acts 18:5-6.

Then the Lord spoke to Paul in a vision, telling him, "Be not afraid, but speak, and hold not thy peace, for I am with thee, and no man shall set on thee to hurt thee."—Acts 18:9-10.

After teaching in Ephesus, Paul left, saying he must keep the feast in Jerusalem, but that he would return if God willed it.—Acts 19:1. MEMORY VERSE—I Corinthians 15:58.

Perseverance in Christian Work

AN ILLUSTRATION OF THE AMAZING FOUR-FOLD ACTIVITY OF THE APOSTLE PAUL—TENT-MAKING, TRAVELING, PREACHING AND WRITING

Scripture—Acts 18:1-23; I Corinthians 1:26-2:5.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
THE REV. DR. WILBUR M. SMITH introduces today's lesson by reminding us of the differences in cities in our own country—Boston with its shipping and historical sites, for instance, and Denver, Colorado, with a much shorter history, but with such wonderful scenery, which awes travelers who visit. "What a difference between New Orleans and another city in the nation, directly north of the Mississippi river, with its sturdy Scandinavian element, its large evangelical churches and Bible Institutes—Minneapolis. So in the days of Paul did the great cities of the empire, more or less, have their own separate individuality, and Paul was marvelously gifted in being able to adapt himself to the mood of any city into which he entered for the preaching of the gospel. The one that concerns us in this lesson is Corinth, situated in northern Greece, the residence of the governor.

"As Athens was the intellectual center, so Corinth was the political and commercial center of Greece." There he "found a certain Jew named Aquila, born in Pontus, lately come from Italy, with his wife Priscilla; (because that Claudius had commanded all Jews to depart from Rome)."—Acts 18:1-2. Because he was a tentmaker like himself, he lived with them, "and he reasoned in the synagogue every Sabbath, and persuaded the Jews and the Greeks. And when Silas and Timothy were come from Macedonia, Paul was pressed in the spirit, and testified to the Jews that Jesus was Christ. "And when they opposed themselves and blasphemed, he shook his raiment, and said unto them, Your blood be upon your own heads; I am clean: from henceforth I will go unto the Gentiles."—Acts 18:3-6. So Paul departed, and "entered into a certain man's house, named Titus, one that worshipped God, whose house joined will be no judge of such matters." And he drove them away.—Acts 18:12-16. The Greeks then took Sosthenes, chief ruler of the synagogue, and beat him. Paul stayed there a "good while" before leaving his brethren and sailing to Syria, taking Aquila and Priscilla with him. He left them there and went to Ephesus, where he taught in the synagogue. They wanted him to stay there, but he bid them goodbye, saying that he must keep the feast in Jerusalem. However, he said, "I will return again unto you, if God will." So he sailed from Ephesus, and when he had landed at Caesarea, and gone up, and saluted the church, he went down to Antioch.—Acts 18:19-22. So we see in our lesson how God protected Paul from his enemies. He will do the same for us if, when we are in trouble, we need His help and rely on Him.

In Preaching, Healing Mission

THE REV. MR. EDWARD WINCKLEY, O.S.L., who will conduct a preaching and healing mission at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Greenville on February 7-8-9, has issued the following statement: "Our Mission is to proclaim the healing power of the Risen Master to all people. Our work is a special and unique Christian enterprise and is being carried out in harmony with the work of the medical and nursing professions, and this relationship will doubtless continue until men learn the higher laws of the spirit, both in the art of living and in the art of healing. At the same time we believe that it is our duty to uphold and to emphasize the distinctive nature of Divine Healing: that it is spiritual and sacramental, and that, as ministered by our Lord, it is destined to supersede the ways and methods of material science."

The Rev. Mr. Winckley will conduct services at 7:30 p.m. daily and will hold instruction sessions for the ladies February 8-9 at 10:00 a.m. Members of all church denominations are invited.

ECC Topples Atlantic Christian Phantoms At Home In Loop Battle Of Mighty Rivals Against New Bern

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Sports Editor

Like the Greeks in their Trojan horse, East Carolina basketball players and students alike converged on Wilson's Community Center last night and completely swamped Atlantic Christian in all respects.

In the basketball action, which took a backseat to the night's activity several times, East Carolina continued its surge of late by mowing down the pesky arch-rivals from Atlantic Christian, 70-57, before a packed house that didn't even present standing room.

A tremendous rebounding performance by junior forward Don Smith plus the keen shooting eye of all five starters carried the Bucs to their fourth straight and seventh win in the last eight games. It gave Coach Earl Smith's club an 8-4 conference mark and a half-game bulge over fourth place Appalachian.

Smith, a Portsmouth native, hauled in 18 rebounds in the tight-and-tough scrap which saw tempers flare several times. The rebound of Smith—his best this season—drew lauds from both coaching staffs.

Steady Ike Riddick was a wee-bit off from his usual 50% accuracy from the floor but was still the hottest thing on the court, tallying 23 points for high scoring honors.

A couple of freshmen, Lacy West and Cotton Clayton, were right behind Riddick with 15 points each. Clayton showed most of his scoring punch in the first half while West gathered most of his points in the final twenty minutes.

Two quick baskets by Cotton Clayton and single goals by Riddick and Smith pushed East Carolina into an 8-1 lead after three minutes had elapsed. Although unknown to the roaring cheering section which mocked each other continuously, the Pirates were out front to stay.

East Carolina built its lead to as much as 12 points but the spunky Bulldogs kept fighting back on the shooting of Dick Knox. A late scoring spurt by ACC cut the halftime margin to 34-28.

A field goal by Knox, following the intermission, cut the lead to four points, 34-30, but it was as close as the aroused Bulldogs were to get. Buckets by Riddick and West moved ECC into an eight point lead and after Oden netted a basket, Riddick hit two more quick ones.

With a little over seven minutes left on the scoreclock, Riddick and West netted a couple of two-pointers to give East Carolina its biggest lead of the night, 58-43.

The Pirates' high-gear scoring machine was unable to stretch their lead to more than 15 points but ACC was unable to lose the gap to less than 11 points in the final minutes.

Riddick, with 23 points, was high for the night while Knox, of Atlantic Christian, had 20. Bobby Atkinson, a reserve, scored 12 points in the final half to become the only other ACC ager to hit in double figures.

East Carolina, averaging 81 points per game and hitting at 47% accuracy from the floor, fell a little bit off its gait last night but still recorded a respectable mark. The chargers of Coach Earl Smith made good on 29 of 70 shots from the floor for a 41.4 mark.

The game, which ended in a riot over the "Bohunk Trophy," an old wooden-token bucket passed back and forth between the schools, saw a total of 29 fouls called by officials. Joe Mills and Lou Bello, had their hands full keeping the rough action to a minimum.

East Carolina also won the junior varsity game, edging the yearlings, 65-60, in double overtime. Mel Boyette and Jim Hall had 13 points each for ECC. Nolan Respass had 12 and Sherwood Adcock netted 10.

Greenville's Phantoms return to their home court tonight, after a successful three game road series to meet New Bern in a Northeastern Conference cage battle.

Coach Bo Farley's Phants, riding on the crest of three game winning streak, will be seeking to turn in a repeat performance in defeating New Bern for the second time this season. The Phants posted a 66-49 win over the Bears in the two club's previous meeting.

When game time rolls around tonight, the Phants are expected to be at full strength, with the exception of forward Charles Taft, who will be missing the encounter. Wayne Jorgensen, Phantom stalwart throughout the season, is back in action, after a bout with the flu bug, and Allan McArthur will also be in the line-up, concluding a lay-off due to illness.

In their last outing, the Phants defeated Tarboro by a score of 61-60 which boosted their conference record to 5 wins against 4 losses.

Coach Bob Lewis's Bears, defeated by Jacksonville Tuesday night, to the tune of 53-39, will be attempting to break their present losing streak when they lock horns with Greenville tonight. The New Bern record now stands at 3-6 for conference play.

Kroghie Andersen, Billy Neal James, and Erskine Duff will be expected to carry the burden for the Phants in tonight's fracas. All three of these cagers, according to coach Farley, have shown up well in recent Phantom games, and how they perform may tell the tale as far as another Phantom win is concerned.

New Bern's Bears will be invading the Phantom stomping grounds without the services of one of their top performers, Glenn Dunn. Dunn, boasting a seasonal scoring average of 12 points per game, had been bothered with a knee injury for most of the present season, and with the advice of his physician, decided to drop from the squad for the remainder of the season.

Top gun for Coach Lewis's crew is 6-1 forward, Mark Dunn. According to Lewis, Dunn has been a steady defensive player, while posting a 14 point average for the season, up to now.

Texan Posts Lowest Round In Golf Tourney

By JAMES BACON
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — A comparatively unknown pro was plying the name players today as the world's richest golf tournament went into its third round.

One stroke in front approaching the halfway point in the 90-hole event was Wes Ellis Jr., steady-nerved Texan who Thursday put together the tournament's lowest round yet—65—over the Tamarisk course, toughest of four layouts in the $100,000 Palm Springs classic. His 65, paired with a first round 70, gave him 135—just one stroke in front of Bill Johnston, a Provo, Utah, public links pro, and 24-year-old John McMullin of Fair Oaks, Calif.

Johnston shot a 67 at Thunderbird to go with his previous 69 while McMullin scored 68 two days in a row.

As the pressure grew, some of the top money winners were close enough to move in for the kill. Veterans Al Bessellink, Jackie Burke, Jr., and Johnny Palmer were only two strokes off at 137, as was Bob Goalby.

Palmer, the 41-year-old Tulsa shot a 70 Thursday to go with his first round 67.

Dutch Harrison was three strokes behind at 138. Also at '38 was Tony Lama, who shared the first-round lead with Johnny and Arnold Palmer, Goalby and Mason Rudolph.

Rudolph was among a dozen pros bunched at 139. Others included such top money winners as Mike Souchak, Julius Boros, Billy Maxwell and Bo Wingler. Arnold Palmer was at 140.

Although there is keen interest in the front runners, the real crowd and pro-pleasing gimmick is the $50,000 prize for a hole-in-one.

Souchak' almost got it on Thunderbird's 148-yard eighth when his tee shot dropped in and then bounced out of the cup, winding up six inches away.

Had the flag been leaning in the other direction, the ball probably would have stayed in the hole. A few foursomes later, Hugh Royer Jr. of Columbus, Ga., put one eight inches away on the same hole.

Becerra Gains Ninth Round KO

By PATRICK MCNULTY
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The sun rose today on this happy affair, math of Memorial Coliseum's championship boxing doubleheader.

Champions Jose Becerra, the bombing bantamweight, and Carlos Ortiz, kingpin of the junior welterweights, still had their titles.

Promoters who lured 31,830 fans for the first fight card in the huge outdoor stadium were busy dividing the $363,890—a record California gate.

Even the losers—bantamweight Alphonse Halimi of France and Mexico's Raymundo Torres—managed smiles. They picked up a pocketful of change and ringing bravos for a gallant, if unsuccessful, try for their divisions' highest honors.

Becerra could easily be elected president of his Mexican homeland after his stunning, one-punch knockout of Halimi in their sixth round.

And Ortiz, sharpshooting New Yorker, added another strong argument to his case for a crack at lightweight champion Joe Brown's title with his 10th round knockout of 18-year-old Torres.

Halimi, 117, boxing deftly, kept the hard-socking Mexican champion from Guadalajara at bay for eight rounds. He was leading on all cards when he ran into a corking left hook early in the ninth.

"I hit him right on the point of the chin," said the 118-pound Becerra in a dressing room crowded with jubilant Mexicans.

Ortiz, 137, wore down the strong but inexperienced Torres with savage counterpunches. The coup de grace was a barrage of lefts and rights followed by a jolting right to the jaw.

Teen-age Torres, 138, admitted later that he just couldn't take in his dressing room, the 23-year-old Ortiz said "now I want a shot at Brown. I've beaten the best lightweight around. I deserve a title shot."

The championship doubleheader was the first bona-fide fight card in the 100,000-seat Coliseum. However, former heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey fought an exhibition in the Coliseum as part of a 1928 sports festival.

The record gate eclipsed the $236,521 for the Carmen Basilio-Art Aragon battle outdoors at Wrigley Field two years ago.

Robinson Leads Pitt Conference

W. H. Robinson of Winterville has a firm grip on both races in the Pitt County Negro Athletic Association.

The Robinson boys are undefeated while the girls have lost only one conference game.

The tournament, which will be held at the South Ayden School, has been set for February 23, 25, and 27th.

Local Matmen Lose Final

Kinston defeated Rose High last night, 20-18, in the final regular season match of the year.

The final standings in the conference saw New Bern finish first, and Greenville second. Kinston and Washington were next in order. The conference meet is set for next Wednesday in New Bern.

Tourney Sites Set For Preps

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina High School Athletic Assn. Class A basketball tournament will be held March 9-12 at High Point, L. J. Perry, executive secretary, announced today.

Tournaments in the three other classes, on the same dates, were assigned previously. The 4-A tourney will be at Greensboro, the 3-A at Durham and the AA at Winston-Salem.

The championship wrestling meet is scheduled Feb. 18-19 at Page High School in Greensboro. Wrestlers must be certified in the association office here by Monday.

Split Twin Bill Wednesday Night

BELVOIR—Fountain and Falkland Elementary Schools split a basketball doubleheader here Wednesday night, the Falkland boys taking a 39-29 victory and the visiting girls walking off with a 26-21 win.

Eugene Tripp topped the Falkland lads' scoring with 17 points. Eugene Hudson and Roosevelt James, with 13 and 4 points, respectively, gave Tripp enough support to allow Falkland to win its second contest against a single loss.

Leading the way for Fountain's girls was Mary Burnette with 15 points. It was the second straight win for the visiting lassies with out a loss.

Falkland's sextet, still trying for its first victory of the season, was paced by Andrea Wooten's 11-point performance. Falkland absorbed its third straight setback.

Teammates Honor McFadden

GREAT FALLS, S.C. (AP) — Clemson football Coach Banks McFadden, All-America 1939 and Great Falls High School 1936, came home to acclaim Thursday night.

His senior class teammates of Great Falls also came home from communities throughout the state, North Carolina and Florida to honor him.

Among the 450 crowding into the high school gymnasium were members of another Great Falls High squad, the 1934 championship eleven on which McFadden played.

The affair was organized to honor McFadden for his recent selection to football's National Hall of Fame.

McFadden received a certificate for a motion picture outfit—cameras, screen and projector.

Otto Harbach, librettist and lyric writer for scores of Broadway musical hits, was first a professor of English, then a newspaperman.

CHAPTER 13
Things had quieted down again by the time Judy Rayburn got back to the Sombbrero Ranch. Not even a dog barked at her as she rode into the yard, or when she turned her horse loose in the corral.

She went up the stone steps of the big house, walking as easily as she could. The light was turned down low in the living room, but it was enough to guide her way.

From the shadowy corner where the porch swing hung, a figure moved.

"Judy?" It was Dwight Mitchell's voice, and he was speaking low as if he didn't want to be overheard. He crossed the porch and put a hand on her arm.

Judy moved so that the light from inside fell full on his face. She saw that he still looked as white and unnerved as he had earlier in the evening when Pete Rayburn's body had first been found. There was a wild look in his eyes, as if he had been drinking, although she couldn't smell it on his breath.

"Where have you been? You had me scared out of my wits," Judy said quickly. "I'm sorry," Judy said quickly. "I wanted to get out of the house for a while. I went for a ride and—"

She hesitated, then came out with the rest of the truth. "I went to see Don Luis. I thought he ought to know about Uncle Pete."

His hand tightened on her arm. "Don't go away again without telling me. Promise. You shouldn't ride unless someone is with you."

A shadow moved across the light in the living room. Dwight's hand fell away from Judy's arm. "Bella's waiting for you. She's been worried too."

Bella Gamel moved into the doorway. Her gaze swung from Judy to Dwight and back again. She held open the door and Judy went. Dwight Mitchell followed.

He put a hand on each girl's shoulder.

"You girls go on to bed. I'm not sleepy. I'm going to stay down here for a while."

Bella pulled abruptly away from his hand. She bit her lip sharply, and looked at Judy.

"Run on, Judy. I'll be up in a minute. I want to tell Rosina, if she's still in the kitchen, not to wake you up too early in the morning. If she has any hot water, I'll bring you up some tea. It will help you get to sleep."

Judy knew that the brief flash of annoyance she felt was unreasonable. What she wanted, more than anything now, was the quiet sanctuary of her own room.

A cup of tea would be warming after her long, chilly ride, but she hated the thought of more talking tonight. Bella would want to know where she had been and why. Bella would likely disappear.

She turned away from them. "Good night," she said. "Don't bother with the tea. I don't want anything."

But she knew, even as she walked across the room with Bella's hurt eyes following her, that she would not get off so easily. She knew by the feverish, excited color in the other girl's normally pale cheeks and the restless, jerky way she moved, that Bella had something on her mind.

When Bella came in with the tea tray a few minutes later, Judy had got over her momentary feeling of impatience.

"Thank you. You're good to everyone, Bella," she said.

The other girl gave her a brief look that seared through Judy like an electric shock and then she dropped her eyes.

Judy stared at her. "Why do you look at me like that—as if you hated me, Bella?"

The other girl set the tea tray down. She went over to the window and stood for a moment looking out into the darkness.

Then she said slowly: "I don't hate you. I'm afraid of you."

"Afraid? Of me?"

"Yes." She turned slowly, and now her pretty face was twisted with bitterness. "How long are you going to stay here?" she asked harshly.

Judy was taken aback. "Why I don't know. When Uncle Pete wrote me to come, he said I could make it my home if I liked it. But now, since he's gone—"

I haven't had time to think about it. Bella, why are you afraid of me?"

"Look in the mirror if you want to know," Bella said bitingly. "How old are you, any way? Eighteen? Twenty? Well, I'm twenty-eight. You're a Rayburn. You've always had every thing. And me—I'm just plain dowdy little Bella Gamel. My mother dies when I was born and my father is a peddler who travels around the country peddling medicine and ribbons to the poor Mexicans and Indians."

Judy stared at her, appalled. "But Bella, I—"

she began, then checked herself. "Is it Dwight you are worrying about?"

Judy swung groggily out of bed, opened the door and ran down the stairs. The light was still on in the big living room, but it seemed to be whirling hazily before her eyes. She reached out a hand and clutched hard at the newel post at the foot of the stairs.

Her head was whirling dizzily, and she felt sick.

A cowboy was backing slowly out of Pete Rayburn's little study. He looked just a kid. Blood was marking his path with a steady drip from a widening stain on his shoulder, and he walked with a painful, dragging limp.

Young Musicians Gather At College

The Eastern Division of the All-State Band Clinic, beginning a two-day session at East Carolina College today, brought to the campus more than a hundred high school musicians, band directors, and teachers of music.

Herbert L. Carter of the East Carolina music faculty is chairman of the clinic.

Organization of a band of 75 selected high school instrumentalists began this morning. The ensemble will rehearse today and tomorrow under the direction of Earl Slocum of the University of North Carolina and Saturday night will appear in a concert, open to the public, at 8 p. m. in the Wright auditorium.

During the clinic, sectional rehearsals will be conducted for performers on the various band instruments. Twelve instructors from various high schools in the state will meet with these groups for intensive study and practice.

Members of the department of music at East Carolina and the sections of the band which they will teach are Beatrice Chauncey, flutes; Lewis Danfield, oboes and bassoons; Thomas Miller, cornets and trumpets; James Parnell, horns and Andrew Preston, percussion instruments.

Visiting instructors who will lead sectional rehearsals are William Adecock of Wilmington and Harry Shipman of Kinston, B-flat clarinets; William Glasgow of Farmville, alto and bass clarinets; Raymond Babelay of Wilson, saxophones; James Rodgers of Greenville, cornets and trumpets; Frank Hammond of Rocky Mount, trombones; and Robert Watson of Windsor, basses.

Mr. Slocum will conduct the Clinic Band tomorrow night in a program which will include compositions by outstanding composers and arrangers of band literature. Former director of bands at the University of North Carolina, Mr. Slocum is now director of the symphony orchestra there and is a widely known flutist and clinician.

Selections chosen for the concert by the Clinic Band include Verdi's Nabucco Overture, the first Movement of Schubert's Unfinished Symphony, Studio One by Glenn Osser, and Lucien Callie's Our United States.

Other special events of the Clinic include a concert by the East Carolina Concert Band tonight at 8 o'clock in the McGinnis auditorium; a dance in the Wright building after tonight's concert; and a luncheon and business meeting for band directors tomorrow in the New South Cafeteria.
