Lawmakers Challenged To Improve On Farm Program

By OVID A. MARTIN WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower presented the Democratic-controlled Congress today with an election year challenge to come up with something better than his plan to lower price supports and relax controls to solve the wheat surplus problem.

supports and eliminating controls. This approach is designed to discourage high-cost producers and to encourage greater use of the grain as a livestock feed.

production control. Eisenhower said it must be recognized that the higher the support the more the farmer must be regimented.

constructive proposals," Eisenhower said. "I will approve legislation which will eliminate production controls, or make them really effective, or allow the farmers themselves to choose between realistic alternatives.

with both parties bidding for the often crucial farm vote—was to put it squarely up to the Democratic-controlled Congress to do something about solving the problems the President outlined.

act is designed to help stabilize prices and supplies through a system of import and domestic marketing quotas.

Neither did it mention a proposal made by Eisenhower in his budget message to raise the interest charged to rural power and telephone borrowers by the Rural Electrification Administration.

said it costs the government more than $1,000 a minute the year round to stabilize wheat prices and income.

House To Act Today On Tobacco

WASHINGTON (AP)—An industry supported tobacco bill designed to stabilize prices comes up for House action today.

Backers of the legislation in both the House and Senate moved for early approval of the new program which they predicted will pass and be signed by President Eisenhower.

The House Rules Committee promptly cleared the measure at a hearing Monday.

Meanwhile, the Senate Agriculture Committee approved a companion bill offered by Sens. John Sherman Cooper (R-NY) and B. Everett Jordan (D-NC).

Jordan said he immediately requested the Senate Policy Committee to schedule early consideration before the Senate becomes involved in wheat and civil rights measures.

The legislation, approved by the department of Agriculture, would fix this year's support prices at the 1959 level in direct proportion to changes in prices the growers must pay.

Chairman Watkins M. Abbott (D-Va) of the House Agriculture Tobacco subcommittee predicted the bill will pass in Congress and be signed by the President.

To Inspect Base

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will fly to Cape Canaveral, Fla., Wednesday for an inspection of the missile launching base there.

Announcing this today, the White House said Eisenhower plans to spend three or four hours at the big base, then return immediately to Washington by jet airliner.

In response to questions, press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower will not witness any missile firings during his brief stay.

The President intends to travel by helicopter late this afternoon to his farm at Gettysburg, Pa., where he will have dinner with his wife, who is spending the week there.

Wednesday morning, Eisenhower will fly by helicopter to Andrews Air Force Base near Washington to board his jet plane. The takeoff is scheduled for about 8:30 a.m. EST.

Births In County Run Nearly 3-1 Over Death Toll

Pitt County births outnumbered deaths again in January by 142 to 52—nearly 3 to 1—according to figures released yesterday by Pitt County Health Department.

Of the total births, 67 were White, 75 were Negro. Thirty Negroes died; the White death total was 22. Six deaths were attributed to cancer—two White and four Negro. Eight stillbirths were recorded.

While no deaths under one month of age were recorded, six Negro infants under one year became statistics in the January death column.

Of the birth total, 16 or more than 11 per cent, were listed as illegitimate. Fifteen of these were Negroes.

Lanier Says Georgia Move To Label Tobacco Carries No Penalty For Outsiders

By PATRICIA MOORE Reflector Staff Writer

If the tobacco labeling bill now in the Georgia legislature becomes a law, North Carolina tobaccoists would have to tag each pile of their own tobacco as North Carolina tobacco.

Local farmers expecting to get the premium price paid in Georgia for Georgia-grown tobacco, therefore, would probably receive less money, but all tobacco sold in Georgia would still have the tobacco price supports they have always had.

J. Con Lanier, executive secretary and general counsel for Leaf Tobacco Exporters Assn. and Tobacco Assn. of the United States, said the Georgia House of Representatives has passed the measure, and the Agriculture Committee has reacted favorably to it.

Lanier said the law is intended to benefit the Georgia tobacco growers, who produce a better type tobacco than North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia.

Georgia and Florida now have government price supports for sale of untied tobacco, and the Carolina markets do not.

Some of the tobacco, therefore, has been sold under a misleading label, Lanier said.

He explained the Georgia grown tobacco is better than local tobacco because the Georgia soil is newer and without disease infestation. They can grow the old varieties of tobacco which North Carolina farmers cannot grow, he said.

The demonstrators appeared at the white-patronized lunch counters of the F. W. Woolworth Co., S. H. Kress & Co., McLellan Stores Co., and the W. T. Grant Co.

Woolworth, Kress and McLellan closed their lunch counters and Woolworth later closed the store. The Grant store kept its luncheon counter staffed but served only white patrons, ignoring the Negro students.

The McLellan store's lunch counter for Negroes continued to do a booming business.

The Negro demonstrators, students at Johnson C. Smith University here, appeared to be taking their directions from, and reporting to, Joseph Charles Jones.

name a few diseases. They mist- of necessity, plant disease-resistant types of tobacco.

Lanier said, "This law does not provide any penalty whatever against any tobacco grower who wishes to sell his tobacco on a Georgia market. All tobacco sold in Georgia will have tobacco price supports the same as heretofore.

The only change is that the bill requires that tobacco produced outside Georgia areas be identified as such at the time of sale."

About 23 million pounds of tobacco sold on the Georgia-Florida markets last year were grown outside that area, Lanier said. A lot of North Carolina tobacco was sold.

The bill, if passed, would benefit buyers as well as Georgia farmers.

Lanier said there is another important factor regarding the bill, and it might have far reaching effects on local and other tobacco growers.

Georgia and Florida now have government price supports for sale of untied tobacco, and the Carolina markets do not.

If the labeling law stops the sale of untied tobacco in the Carolina, Lanier said, he thinks it would be a good law. Otherwise, he indicated the law wouldn't be of much value.

undoubtedly would spread to North Carolina and Virginia, he said.

This would prove harmful to North Carolina, which has a large foreign business. The foreign buyers who patronize North Carolina and other markets are not equipped to handle tobacco in loose leaves, Lanier said.

The competitors in Canada and Southern Rhodesia sell all their tobacco in tied bundles.

A government price support program for untied tobacco would probably please some farmers, who wouldn't have to go to the trouble of tying up their tobacco in bundles. But there is the danger of losing a "substantial portion" of the foreign business, here, according to Lanier.

An underlying purpose in the Georgia tobacco labeling law is to stop the spread of selling untied tobacco, Lanier said. The price support program for untied tobacco as well as premium prices for their own tobacco have made Georgia an attractive market for outside growers.

If the labeling law stops the sale of untied tobacco in the Carolina, Lanier said, he thinks it would be a good law. Otherwise, he indicated the law wouldn't be of much value.

ence. He said it might be unwise to have some parts of the world "thinking we are second" in national defense and military strength.

Fifteen of the nuclear-powered missile submarines now are in the works in one stage or another, including proposals in Eisenhower's new budget. The first operational undersea missile launchers are expected to be ready late this year.

Burke told a House committee earlier that a fleet of 45 Polaris subs would give the United States a tremendous retaliatory force, but at the present building rate it would take 10 years to produce a fleet that size.

Burke's request for more money for submarines followed a similar complaint last week from Air Force Gen. Thomas S. Power, head of the Strategic Air Command.

Twining reminded the senators that it is his responsibility to advise the President, the secretary of defense and the National Security Council.

He also said that he believes U. S. intelligence estimates are reliable and that they and resulting plans are revised almost daily.

Twining said that it always is natural for each military commander to "like to have just a little more" than he receives, adding that he respects their views even if he disagrees.

Sen. John D. Stennis (D-Miss), presiding in the absence of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, said the senators wanted Twining's advice as the JCS chairman, former Air Force chief of staff and as a citizen.

Stennis commented that President Eisenhower soon would be participating in a summit conference.

Expecting Many Shoppers In City For Dollar Day

Large numbers of shoppers are expected to take advantage of the great savings available at Greenville's semi-annual Dollar Day, to be held Thursday.

Over 1,000 free parking spaces will be available to shoppers who attend the event, through the cooperation of the City of Greenville.

The day, sponsored by leading merchants and businessmen in town, is designed to supply the needs of their customers at great savings. Many bargains and discounts will be offered during the one-day "value-shopping" event.

Merchants participating in the Dollar Day program will display "Dollar Day" window trims.

According to W. L. Deavors, chairman of the Merchants Association committee working on the trade event, "If the weather holds up, we are looking forward to one of the biggest events that we have ever had."

Slight Decline In Tobacco Stocks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today that stocks of leaf tobacco in this country and Puerto Rico on Jan. 1 were about 2 1/2 per cent smaller than a year earlier.

Gen. Twining Confident In U. S. Deterrent Strength

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining told senators today he is convinced that no nation could attack the United States now or in the future "without receiving unacceptable damage."

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff voiced this confidence in the U. S. defense program—and the deterrent authority it carries for any enemy—in testimony to the Senate Space and Preparedness committees.

These groups have heard a parade of high military figures urge multimillion-dollar additions to President Eisenhower's 41-billion-dollar defense budget.

Only Monday, Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, said the Navy wants six more Polaris missile submarines and would ask nearly a billion dollars for them. But he also said he didn't know whether the Defense Department would back this Navy view, and that he supported the President's budget.

Twining reminded the senators that it is his responsibility to advise the President, the secretary of defense and the National Security Council.

He also said that he believes U. S. intelligence estimates are reliable and that they and resulting plans are revised almost daily.

Twining said that it always is natural for each military commander to "like to have just a little more" than he receives, adding that he respects their views even if he disagrees.

Sen. John D. Stennis (D-Miss), presiding in the absence of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, said the senators wanted Twining's advice as the JCS chairman, former Air Force chief of staff and as a citizen.

Stennis commented that President Eisenhower soon would be participating in a summit conference.

Red Boss Again Demands A Treaty

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev brushed aside protocol at an Italian diplomatic reception Monday night to make another public demand for a peace treaty with Germany and an end to the occupation of West Berlin.

Visiting Italian leaders, drawn into an impromptu debate with the unpredictable Khrushchev, reiterated the Western position that Soviet terms are unacceptable.

Khrushchev launched into his views on the German question following a toast at the crowded reception, given for himself and Soviet President Klementi Voroshilov by visiting Italian President Giovanni Gronchi.

"If we don't resolve these (German) problems now," the Premier warned, "sooner or later someone will try to change the existing situation by force."

"A situation which has been changed by war generally can only be changed by another war," he said. "Czechoslovakia and Poland will not have their frontiers changed. They are our allies. Prayers are not enough. We must face problems with realism. (West German Chancellor Konrad) Adenauer does not agree, but I asked Adenauer for his opinion."

Italian foreign minister Giuseppe Pella interrupted: "I must say that we do not share your point of view on Berlin and Germany." Khrushchev: "Life will teach you. Life is such a good teacher."

at all times.

The cry for more money for defense got new backing from Democrats in Congress Monday.

Rep. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo), usually one of Congress' most vocal critics of high spending, called in a House speech for increasing the President's 41-billion-dollar defense budget. His main concern was the airborne bomber alert advocated by Power.

"Every city in the United States is subject to direct attack and our enemy has the weapons to launch such an attack now," Cannon said. "By 1963 he will be able to destroy every major city on the face of the earth."

Cannon's outburst brought retorts from Republicans that he was trying to "scare the American people to death." Rep. John J. Rhodes (R-Ariz) said statements like Cannon's increase the danger that the Soviet Union could misjudge U. S. strength and start a war.

that even the slowest pupils learn their lessons. I trust in man's mind. You say you are for peace. Then, why don't you want a treaty with Germany?"

Pella: "I think we have nothing to add to the picture drawn by President Gronchi this morning."

Khrushchev and Gronchi apparently had covered the same ground at the Kremlin earlier in the day.

The Italians and the Russians concluded their talks before lunch. No conclusions were reached and none were expected, an Italian official said. He added, however, that the conversations this morning reflected none of the tension which developed Monday night.

Flu And Virus Type Infections Appear Waning

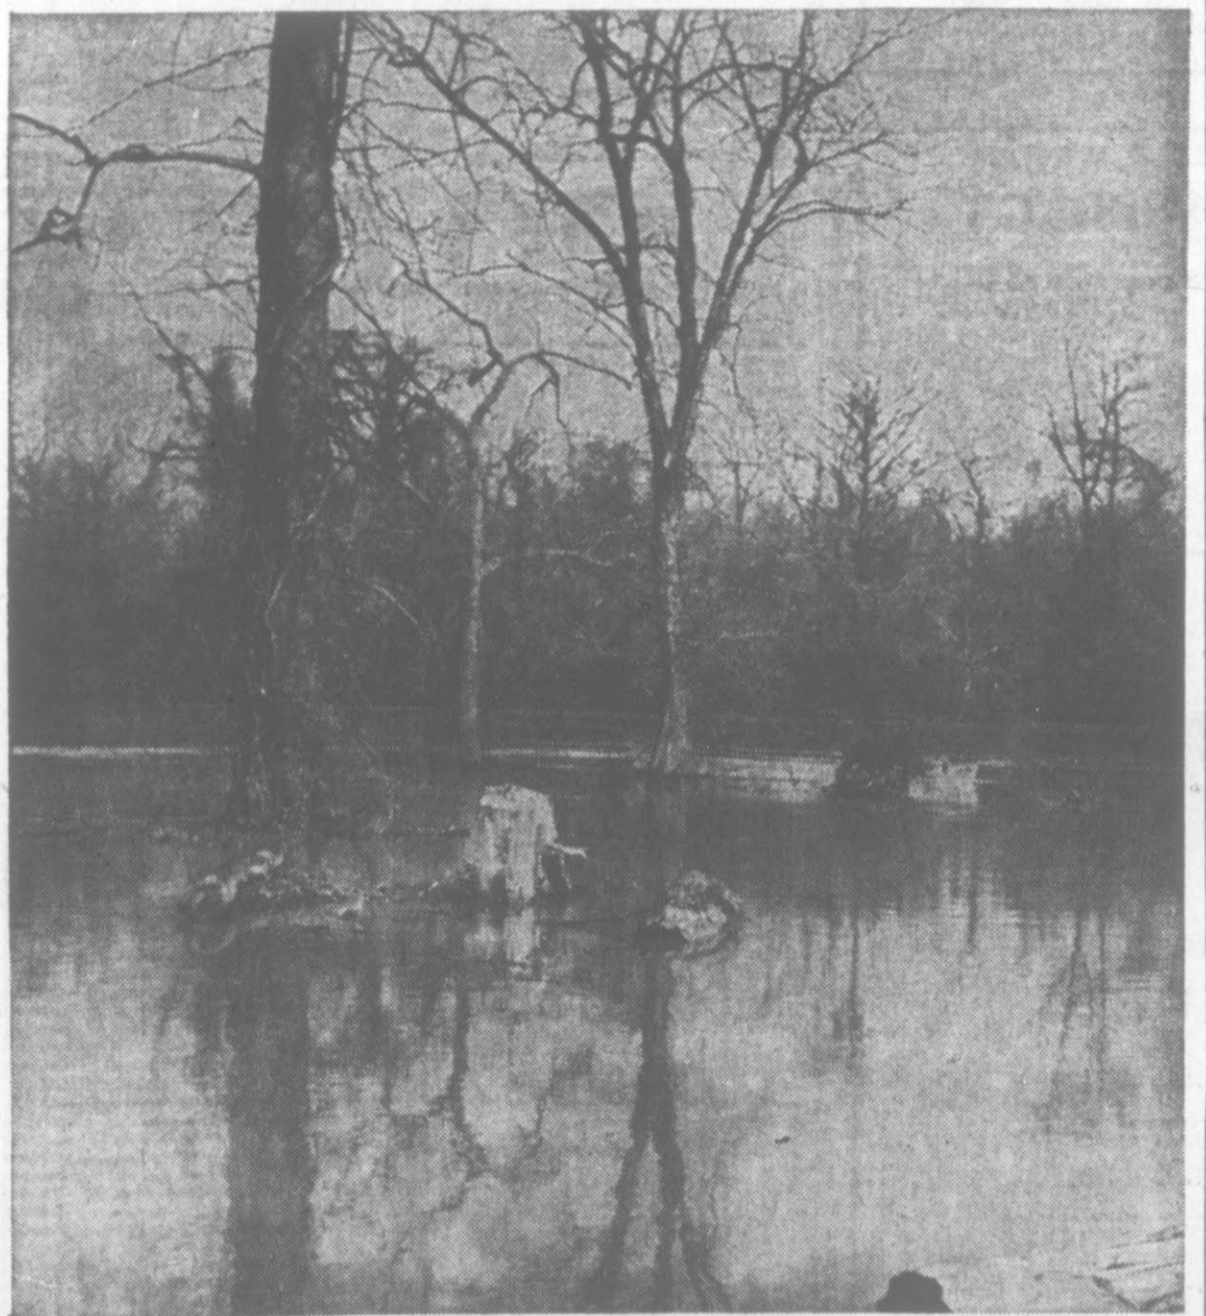

Flu and the virus-type infections seem to be on the decline here, according to a spokesman for the public relations committee of the Pitt County Medical and Dental Society.

Local doctors are not seeing quite as many patients with these infections as in previous weeks, the spokesman said. But there still is a prevalence of the respiratory infections.

There seem to be less complications developing from the respiratory infections in regard to children than there have been in previous flu epidemics, the spokesman said.

In regard to other illnesses, the Agnes Fullelow School has reported a number of measles cases in the lower grades. These are red measles, which a person has only once. Cases of chicken pox and scarlet fever are declining.

River Receding, But More Rain Possible Tomorrow

TAR RIVER RECEDING . . . waters now stand at 14.5-foot level in Greenville area.

The weatherman says it might rain again tomorrow, and has forecast considerable cloudiness and mild today for most of the state.

Scattered light rain is likely Wednesday, possibly beginning in the west portion tonight. High today was predicted in the 60s, with low tonight around 50. Here in Greenville, J. M. Fleming of the Utilities Plant said the high here yesterday was 54, with a low Sunday night of 29. Monday night's low was 41, and at 8 a.m. today the local temperature was still 41 degrees.

The Tar River was at 14.5 feet as of this morning, and was reported falling. An earlier release from the U.S. Weather Bureau in Raleigh said the Tar might rise to 15 feet by Wednesday or Thursday.

However, the local river level has fallen off 7 feet since yesterday, Fleming said. Twelve or 13 feet is the average bankful for the Tar River in Greenville, ported falling. An earlier release from the U.S. Weather Bureau in Raleigh said the Tar might rise to 15 feet by Wednesday or Thursday.

C-of-C Program And A Budget Adopted By Board

Committee appointments, a program of activities and a budget for 1960 were approved by the Chamber of Commerce board of directors last night.

The directors meeting was the first meeting of the new board for the present year.

Highlighting the activities for the year will be the Star Farmer awards "to recognize and reward outstanding managerial ability and efficiency in farming."

The chamber's board voted to refer the matter to its Transportation Committee. It was instructed to consult with the city and county which also have the proposal under consideration.

Letters are to be sent to chamber members calling attention to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce Aircade for Congressional Action. The Aircade will visit Greensboro Feb. 17 as one of 12 stops to be made across the nation. Its purpose is to give the businessman "a close-up meaningful picture of the Second session, 86th Congress."

The total this year was 4,854,000,000 pounds compared with 4,977,000,000 a year ago.

Local National Guard To Test Readiness In A Surprise Alert

Greenville's National Guard unit, along with all North Carolina's local outfits, will test its mobilization readiness sometime between Feb. 10-25 in a combined alert test called "Operation Hornets' Nest," according to an announcement yesterday by Maj. Gen. Capus Waynick, adjutant general of North Carolina's Guard.

For the test alert to be a true test of readiness for all units, the only advance information furnished Guard commanders is that the alert will be called during the two specific dates. Only Gov. Luther Hodges and Gen. Waynick will know the exact date and time. When the alert is sounded, it will set in motion the machinery that will bring the largest test mobilization in this state since World War II.

"Operation Hornets' Nest" will incorporate a mythical situation in which an "aggressor" nation has broken relations with the United States and has begun "aggressive" operations to include secret landings along the eastern coast of the United States.

In order to meet this force, to protect vital communications, and to secure strategic objectives, the local batteries, as well as other local units, will move to pre-arranged destinations in compliance with their existing regulations after the alert has been sounded.

The special alert is timed to coincide with Muster Day activities observed each year during February and participated in by Army and Air National Guard units throughout the United States commemorating the birthday of George Washington, the nation's founder of the militia concept.

"At the present time, the N. C. Army and Air National Guard has a strength of 11,300 officers and men," Gen. Waynick said. "We hope that this alert will acquaint the people of this state with the full potential and readiness of the National Guard and its ability to mobilize on short notice."

Politics Will Stay In Government

For years there has been talk in varying degrees about taking "politics" out of this or that agency of the state government, or taking the agency out of "politics".

Over the years, there perhaps have been some decrease in the political activities of appointive officials and employes of the state, fundamentally there appears little hope of taking the state government out of politics or politics out of the state government.

In this election there will be considerable political activity throughout North Carolina. Many citizens who normally do not consider themselves politicians will find themselves helping with the campaign for this candidate or that because they are interested in seeing a particular individual elected to a particular office.

It is a good guess also that many employes of the state government—and many appointed officials—will also take an active interest in some of the political campaigns. Because of the very nature of their work they are more closely associated with the political situation and with politics than the average citizen. It would be next to impossible for them to remain entirely aloof from, and uninterested in who gets elected to offices.

The government, after all, is based on politics. Under the democratic system, the man or men who can attract the largest followings and get the greatest number of votes at the polls are those who gain the responsible seats in government. Taking politics out of government, therefore, might be compared with taking religion out of the churches, news out of newspapers or entertainment out of TV.

State employes, like other citizens, will have their preference of candidates. It would be unnatural for them not to put in a good word for their favorites when the occasion arises. What should be guarded against is the using of state government resources by state officials or employes in behalf of the candidates they favor.

As political campaigns gain momentum, Tar Heels, regardless of their preference for candidates in any race, should keep a sharp eye to see that none of the resources or facilities provided by tax funds are used for the benefit of any candidate for any office. The public is always the loser when such a thing happens.

No Easy Task To Cut Investigative Money

How much should congressional committees spend for their investigations that have reached into almost every phase of American economic and social structure?

There are those who contend considerable government money is being wasted in investigations which have produced no legislation. There are others who assert considerably more money should be devoted to investigations to enable Congress to better do the job expected of it.

At present congressional committees are spending millions annually conducting investigations into everything from labor racketeering to the prices of products. It is highly probable that the nation would have been just as well off without some of the investigations. Some of the investigations, although they may not have resulted in corrective legislation, have exposed conditions that otherwise might have remained unknown to the public had not a congressional committee taken an official look.

When it comes to deciding how much should be spent for each committee or subcommittee in its investigations, it must be remembered that various Senators and Congressmen head these committees. Each of them has his pet projects, and each probably feels that his is just as important as the next fellow's. Added to that is the fact that an appropriation, once made, is difficult to cut out in year-to-year budget considerations at any level of government.

It would be a mistake indeed for Congress to eliminate the funds it provides for congressional investigations covering a broad field. In the public interest, however, it would be wise for Congress to take as an objective view as possible of its investigations and their cost before increasing the amount of taxpayers' money being spent in this field of endeavor.

Keep Your Eyes On That Texan

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Keep your eye—both eyes, in fact—on Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson all the way up to next summer when the Democratic convention picks its presidential candidate. He wants the nomination all right but until this past week-end he's been as coy as Alice-blue-gown.

Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Huber H. Humphrey of Minnesota, both out-and-out candidates, can butt heads in state primaries and cross-country, looking for support, until their tongues hang out.

That's not Johnson's way. This tall Texan is a real, behind-the-scenes operator. He is one of the best maneuverers and compromisers who ever served as leader of the Senate Democrats.

The reason he can get so much legislation through the Senate with a minimum of brawls and nosebleeds is that he is a master of detail who knows exactly how many votes he can count on before he moves.

There is one other factor in his smooth operation: Like President Eisenhower, he seems committed to the belief that name-calling is a hindrance, not a help, in getting what he wants. It just creates enemies and opposition.

But until this weekend Johnson was like a man working out quietly in a political gymnasium to build up his muscles. While he denied he was a candidate, his supporters were busy bees, trying to line up support.

Then, suddenly, Johnson apparently thought his muscles were strong. He stopped being completely coy about his candidacy.

So he finally came out with it, to the surprise of nobody. The only question about this was when he'd admit it.

There's good reason to believe that Johnson will try to build up in this session of Congress a record of legislation that will offset some of the Northern liberals' opposition to him as a conservative and Southerner.

The evidence is in the almost astonishing performance of the Senate in the past week.

Within a couple of days the Senate approved two highly controversial issues—a federal aid to education bill and an anti-poll tax amendment, probably a Southern filibuster. This year a Southerner introduced the amendment.

Johnson, however, is faced with an almost magical tight-rope act: how can he get through legislation that won't turn the Southerners against him and will still please the Northern liberals?

Introductions In Order

The Reflector's editorial page yesterday carried its first column by George Sokolsky. We can expect to see his by-line with us for some time to come, and readers may be interested in some of this writer's background.

It's quite a story. From time to time, Sokolsky writes of little-known incidents and personalities in revolutionary Russia and in pre-revolutionary China. His intimate knowledge of these things, as well as a name ending in "sky", might make you think he was born in Russia.

For the record: he wasn't. Sokolsky is a complete American, by way of his native Utica, N.Y.

His familiarity with the Russian revolution came honestly. Just as the lid blew off in Russia in 1917, George finished college, and went to that country as a correspondent for the "New Republic News Service" to cover the revolution. Mail service was impossible, however, and the young writer found himself in Petrograd without a job. He finally joined the "Russian Daily News", an English language paper, as editor.

As a writer, our new columnist has a firsthand knowledge of anarchism, Communism and other radicalisms as well as a conservative personal outlook that has won him many readers. He is recognized as a sound-thinking commentator on the national scene.

Turnabout is fair play. So, Mr. Sokolsky, meet some Pitt Countians. They have some traditions you mustn't fool around with in your writings... cornbread, chitlins, barbecue, fried chicken, greens and fatback. They have a love for political infighting down on the local level. All of them are imbued with a heritage of traditions that date back to before the Republic was born.

In relatively recent years there has been an influx of families from other parts of the country. They made their homes here for a number of reasons, mostly business; but they have also absorbed a lot of Pitt County in their blood and in a manner of speaking they've been adopted by their communities. This "adoption" has worked two ways, their new communities adopted them, and they have adopted their new surroundings. It has made for a better neighborhood. They're mostly Democrats down our way. Not many of the so-called "liberals", but so conservative that you'd wonder about that.

I think you'll like them, too.

"The miraculous invention that most offices still need is a typewriter that will spell correctly."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

In 1918, Sokolsky made his way across Siberia to Peking and there started work for the North China Star. His intentions were to make money for passage to America. As it turned out, he married his first wife there, English-educated, Chinese-born Rosalind Phang, who died in 1933 after bearing him one son, Eric.

The China years were busy ones for Sokolsky; he was a foreign correspondent, editor of an engineering magazine, advisor to Chinese officials, political advisor to American business firms and many other things. Once he held as many as six jobs.

His background suggests George was almost a prodigy. At the age of 10, he was—believe it or not, stumping for the Republican party (in a Tammany Hall hotbed) as an inspired young orator.

As a writer, our new columnist has a firsthand knowledge of anarchism, Communism and other radicalisms as well as a conservative personal outlook that has won him many readers. He is recognized as a sound-thinking commentator on the national scene.

Needed A Will To Win

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

King Features Syndicate, Inc. Just plain citizens are not experts about strategic airplanes, rockets, missiles, A-bombs and H-bombs. When they read big headlines announcing that respected generals disagree with the program of President Eisenhower and that the President calls the generals parochial, the citizen wonders whether anybody knows what he is talking about. The citizen becomes worried about his own future. He wonders whether anybody knows what he is talking about. The citizen becomes worried about his own future. He wonders whether this is campaign-year politics or whether his country is really falling behind Soviet Russia.

Then when responsible Senators such as Lyndon Johnson and Stuart Symington say that the Russians have a three to one lead on the public knowing what it costs the American taxpayer every year to keep up the national defense, becomes anxious not only about our civilization and our country but about our sons. What are those responsible doing about our defenses?

President Eisenhower is a professional military man who is highly respected not only for his success as a soldier but for his personality and his character. One is not likely to believe that the President would deliberately not tell the truth or that he would imperil his country. On the other hand, it is also not likely that responsible generals would lie about the armed services or imperil the defense of our country. Senator Lyndon Johnson has shown, over the years, that he is capable of putting country above party and although he is a candidate for the Presidency, he would not endanger his country in pursuit of opportunity.

This then presents a very confused picture to the layman, because it is not just a difference of opinion among honest men. It is a difference of judgment based on knowledge, upon a complete possession of all the facts. If all these men, from the President down, who are providing data and judgment on the national defense present so confusing a picture, what is the citizen to believe? Whom is the citizen to believe? We are not favoring a prize-fight to decide on a favorite: we are facing the future of our country.

This is very important as a military fact. Clausewitz, the world's classical authority on war, pays great attention to the will to victory, the will of a whole people not to be defeated. The Russians have done a double job, not only of what we call propaganda, but of achievement, which is having a notable effect everywhere:

1. They have created doubt, uncertainty and even fear in the United States and among the Western nations. Sputnik had nothing to do with the International Geophysical Year. Sputnik told the military men of the world that the Russians could land a missile anywhere; Sputnik told the American people that the Russians were ahead of us. Subsequent to Sputnik, the Russians have continued to devote themselves to breaking the morale of the American people with a frequency of events not presently calculable in the rest of the world.

2. At the same time, the Kremlin by these identical events and activities has established a confidence among the Russians and the various peoples of the Soviet Universal State in the inevitability of Russian victory. The word, inevitability, has taken on the force of religious power, producing an assurance as strong as religious faith. It stresses for the individual Russian the doctrine that the Marxist dogma and the Soviet method cannot fail.

This, then, is the current situation. Instead of our government devising a policy based on military and moral essentials, we are still quarrelling about what we should do and why we should do it, and we are wasting unbelievable quantities of money, manpower and materials in the process. Our failures have been colossal and our duplications of effort have been inexcusable. Now the generals confirm what the citizens have long wondered about: we have lost time, effort and money.

And the question is: Why? There is no reason for the current Senate hearings to be held (Continued on Page 6)

Cost Problems And Road Sites

By LYNN NISBET

LAND USE — In a speech delivered to the highway conference at State College a few days ago Chairman Melville Broughton of the State Highway Commission voiced concern over the cost of land for public roads.

Others besides the highway chairman are worried about the price of rights of way and the amount of land being required for modern roadbuilding. The base requirement for an interstate super duplex highway right of way is 360 feet. One mile of that means about 44 acres—a fair sized farm. Minimum width for any State highway is 60 feet, and the average for primary routes not on the interstate system is more than 100 feet. A mile of 100-foot right of way takes more than 12 acres.

It often happens in the mountains and in coastal marshlands that the only suitable place for a road is most productive land on the farm. In such cases it is unfair to put an average farm acre value on the right of way tract. There are factors of accessibility and divided fields adding to the real value to the owner of country land.

More acute problems arise in connection with widening or locating new streets in cities. Not only must the buildings there be paid for but they must be removed. There are instances on record where demolition costs for clearing rights of way approximate purchase price of the buildings.

Highways may be the most obvious but they are by no means the only claimants for taking land out of production of food and fiber. Economists are also worried about the acreage taken for industrial plants, parks and playgrounds.

Worried—these economists are not interested in the price of the land. They are worried about whether there will be enough left on which to grow crops to provide food, clothing and shelter for the fast increasing number of people in the world. The problem is real, it may even be serious. But it is not new.

More than a century ago the same type of economists were predicting that future peoples would starve to death because there was not enough land to produce feed for farm work animals and all the machines would have to eat. Machines have replaced horses and mules, and improved methods have increased production per acre to the point where, in this country at least, the problem is a surplus of foodstuffs rather than scarcity. It must be recognized, however, that there is somewhere a limit to the degree that land can be taken out of producing food and fiber.

Which reminds of the facetious comment by the late Bill Somers of Wilkes county, business man, sheriff, State senator, U.S. marshal. The secondary road program was at its zenith and there was prospect of a big flood control dam on the Yadkin river (a prospect recently revived). Somers quipped: "It looks like all farm land in Wilkes county that Kerr Scott does not want to cover with asphalt, Charlie Deane wants to cover with water. If this trend keeps up Wilkes county folks will have to import corn to make our liquor."

PLANNING — The highway commission presently is placing major emphasis on planning. Chairman Broughton intimated in his speech that if adequate planning had been done some years ago, current conditions would not be so troublesome. There are others, outside the Highway set up, who are wondering about the distinction between planning for the future and designing for the present.

The same week that a national magazine featured an article about economists worrying over the excessive amount of land acreage being taken out of production of crops for clothing, food and shelter, another magazine told of that trend toward toward smaller compact automobiles that would require less highway and parking space. Nearly all the big American car makers are meeting European competition with new designs, changing production quotas in mid year to supply the demand for small cars.

Another national magazine had a story about the trend toward narrow streets in suburban residential developments, to save paving costs and still accommodate the small cars that are becoming so popular. Public demonstrations have been given of cars without wheels but riding on air. Advancement in electronic engineering, radar control and other scientific progress raises serious question whether 360-foot wide rights of way, clover leaf interchanges occupying 50 acres or more, and other problems currently worrying highway engineers represent "planning for the future" or mere "designing" facilities for needs proven in 1956 and being authorized in 1960 for building in 1962.

It is obvious that highway engineers cannot plan now, any better than they could 25 years ago, without taking into consideration the planning that automobile manufacturers and real estate developers may be doing at the same time.

Strength For Today

LET US BE REALISTIC
A visitor to Russia was telling recently of how much the Russians are interested in knowing to what race Adam and Eve belonged. An American with a twinkle in his eye said: "Undoubtedly they were Russians." "Oh," replied the Russian very much pleased, "I am glad to hear you say that. But why do you say that Adam and Eve were Russians?" "Because," said the American with a grin, "they had no clothes and they were so poor that they had only an apple between them—but still they thought they were in paradise."

When are we going to understand that the thing called communism is neither an economic system nor a government. It is a criminal conspiracy which has taken over a number of governments. What they call the socialist dialectic is economic hocuspocus. Their government is what we would have in this country if we emptied our prisons, killed our statesmen, and invited the prisoners to run things.

Moskvich Cars Raise Questions

By ELMER ROESSNER

The deal by which Robert Castle, up-state New Yorker, has agreed to sell 10,000 Russian Moskvich autos in the United States in the next two years raises some interesting questions.

The Moskvich is a four-door, four-seat sedan with a 45-horsepower motor with a top speed of 72 miles an hour. It is expected to sell for under $2,000. Gas consumption is said to be comparable to that of a Volkswagen or Simca.

The agreement represents car sales at an aggregate retail of almost $20,000,000, and about $16,000,000 at wholesale.

Russian prestige? Will there be acts of violence on the cars by refugees with unquenchable hatred of the Russians? Will owners of cars be picketed by Hungarians?

Will garages and service stations boycott the Moskviches, or increase repair and service charges? In fact, what happens if the driver of a Moskvich, short of gas, pulls into service station operated by, say, a Lithuanian or a Ukrainian?

What will happen when drivers of Moskviches run afoul of traffic laws? Will cops imbued with the sense of equal justice for all, give them the same fair-handed treatment bestowed on drivers of American-made, or allied-made cars? They may.

Next time you see a traffic cop, ask him. What will be the action of organized labor toward these cars, made by labor that costs only a fraction of the cost of labor in Detroit? Will union men be allowed to service, repair and sell these cars built by what amounts to slave labor? Sure, secondary boycotts are against the law, but wouldn't autos built by controlled Russian labor constitute a juicy case on which to challenge the constitutionality of the law?

THE BIGGER QUESTION
Most important of all, won't American manufacturers ask Congress to check the importation of these red gas-buggies? The Russians would appear to be vulnerable to anti-dumping laws, largely because of their phony exchange value for the ruble.

In terms of official exchange, a Russian must pay about $2,500 for a Moskvich. But since these cars are expected to sell at under $2,000 here—and the price includes trans-Atlantic shipping and duty—the Russians would have to admit dumping, or confess that the ruble's valuation is false.

There's still another question: Will all the other questions become moot if the Russian government permits the importation of some 10,000 American cars in the next two years?

BINGO IS BINGO, NOT ENTERTAINMENT, SAYS IRS
The Internal Revenue Service has ruled that the amount paid for bingo cards in a night spot are not subject to the cabinet tax. (Rev. Rul. 60-30.) The amount paid for bingo cards is in the nature of wagers, and no payments for service or merchandise, the IRS concludes, and the playing of bingo is not a "public performance for profit."

The ruling was made in the case of a cabaret that staged bingo games between floor shows and dancing. The IRS may have been influenced by the fact that a person playing bingo never hears music of floor shows anyhow.

Interest In People Nets 50 Pen Pals

By MAIDRED MORRIS
Have you ever had "snake" beans for dinner? If not, you may be missing a treat.
Mrs. D. V. Andrew, Snow Camp, Rt. 1, is fond of snake beans she raised in her garden. She has grown beans 37 inches long. Similar to green beans in appearance, the beans are mild in taste, Mrs. Andrew says. "It takes seven yards of beans to have enough for an average meal."
If you are wondering why Mrs. Andrew grows snake beans, the reason is simple. She received the beans from one of her pen pals in Australia.
In 1952, Mrs. Andrew, who is a devout believer in Home Demonstration Club activities, attended a national Home Demonstration meeting in Raleigh. Serving as a hostess, Mrs. Andrew arranged to eat with women from 38 states during the week. Mrs. Andrew says, "I found out that people in other states live almost as differently as people in other countries."

With 50 persons from other states and countries on her correspondence list, Mrs. Andrew stays busy.
When Mrs. Andrew gets an extra dollar, she sends a subscription of "Green 'n' Growing," the Home Demonstration Club magazine, to her pen pals. Copies now go to France, Canada, Puerto Rico, Australia and several states. Mrs. Andrew does not write her friends regularly but just on special occasions. She says, "When I feel low and need a word of cheer, I just write someone else a cheerful not thinking they may feel as I do."

Names and addresses of pen pals have been secured in different ways. Mrs. Andrew says, "My sister toured the Carlsbad Caverns near Mexico and wrote me a letter. She left it on a table in a hurry to get on the elevator. A woman from British Columbia picked up the letter from a name and address on it, stamped and mailed it. I have been writing to the lady since then."
Magnolia leaves, home grown flower and vegetable seed, bulbs American holly and bakery products from the kitchen are often packaged and mailed to her friends. Mrs. Andrew now has several magnolia trees growing in other countries with the seed planted from her tree. She recently had a letter from a pen pal in Indiana requesting some magnolia leaves to use in decorating for a golden wedding anniversary.
While a little girl, Mrs. Andrew attended Home Demonstration Club meetings with her mother. Later, she became an active club member. Serving as international relations leader, Mrs. Andrew has shared her knowledge of traditions and customs of other people with her local club members and neighbors.

On a large map of the United States, Mrs. Andrew has placed a gold star on states where she has friends who are farmers, fruit growers, ranchers, makers of maple syrup and others who have interesting occupations.
Miss Katherine Milaspas, home economics agent in Alamance County, says, "Mrs. Andrew is not only interested in foreign friends but excels in other homemaking activities such as upholstery, refinishing furniture, and leadership. Just last year, she was the winner of the A&P leadership award."
Mrs. Andrew says, "With the help of my husband and four boys, I have tried to create mutual understanding between people of different countries which can bring peace to all our hearts." Ask yourself this question, "Have I made any new friends recently?"

Children Must Be Encouraged To Study Music--Dr. Hjortsvang

ROBERSONVILLE--The McDowell Sr. Music Club met Friday afternoon with Mrs. J. M. Kilpatrick at her home on North Main St.
Guests from East Carolina College were presented by the hostess, who furnished the program on "North Carolina Musicians." Dr. Carl Hjortsvang of the Music Dept. had three of his students render numbers.
Michael Kilpatrick, accompanied at the piano by Dr. Hjortsvang, sang "The Kashmir Song," "Beautiful Dreamer" and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." Miss Patsy Roberts sang "Summer Time" from "Porgy and Bess," "Puccini" from "Madam Butterfly" and "You'll Never Walk Alone," accompanied by Mrs. Nancy Harris.
Dr. Hjortsvang was asked to speak to the club about "North Carolina Musicians." He appealed to the parents to urge their children to spend more time studying music or there would be no North Carolina musicians.
He continued by saying that today's school programs are so crowded with academics that there is little time left for cultural things.
Students spend six hours in the classroom and as many hours at home preparing for the next day's work, plus time given to athletics. Scant time is left for music, art and the cultural things which enrich life and make it more pleasant. Dr. Hjortsvang said that so much emphasis is being put on science and technology that there is a danger in our neglecting the cultural and spiritual in education. Today's student must start music in primary grades in order to fit it into an increasingly busy schedule. After reaching high school, there is little time, if any, left for the cultures. This is a problem for parents and educators to correct, he concluded.

Following the program, a social hour was held. The hostess invited the guests into the dining room where Mrs. Mayo Little, club president, poured hot tea. Cookies, sandwiches, cheese straws, pickles, salted nuts and mints were also served from the dining table. Twenty-three members and guests were present.

Home Furnishings Is Demonstration Topic

This month's demonstration, "New Home Furnishings" was presented to the members of the Belvoir Home Demonstration Club by Mrs. J. T. Dupree Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Clarence Barnhill was hostess.
Reports were heard from Mrs. D. M. Hollowell, Mrs. Peter Brown, and Mrs. C. D. Clark.
Mrs. R. F. Clark presided during the business session. She reminded the club members of the district meeting to be held April 23 at 10 a. m. at East Carolina College.
Mrs. Barnhill was elected as the club's personal service worker to replace Mrs. J. T. Dupree, whose resignation was accepted during the meeting.

The recreational period was headed by Mrs. McAlvin Turner. Mrs. Eason Graham Clark was awarded the door prize.
Refreshments, consisting of cake, strawberries with cream, peanut straws and coffee were served by the hostess. The Valentine motif was used in the decorations.
Mrs. C. D. Clark will be hostess to the group at their next meeting, March 3.

India Eagerly Awaits Khrushchev Arrival

By WATSON SIMS
NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indian officials eagerly await the arrival Thursday of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. They consider him the only person who might induce Red China to retreat in the bitter dispute over the border between India and Tibet. India's leaders attach about the same importance to Khrushchev's four-day visit as that given to President Eisenhower's visit last December. Eisenhower's coming was regarded by many as a veiled warning to Peiping against using force to seize 50,000 square miles of border territory claimed by both India and Communist China. The President did not disappoint his Indian listeners when he told parliament that the United States is ready to come to the aid of its friends in the event of aggression. Khrushchev is viewed more as an "honest broker" — one who might use his top Communist position to persuade Red China to ease its claims.

Nehru will get an opportunity to reiterate that position in talks with Khrushchev Thursday and Friday. The Soviet leader's reaction could profoundly influence future Indian attempts to negotiate the dispute. It also may provide the outside world with some insight into the often enigmatic relations between Moscow and Peiping.

Khrushchev undoubtedly will find a noticeable change in India's international outlook in the nearly five years since he spent two weeks junketing through the country with then Premier Nikolai Bulganin. In 1955 Western observers complained that India's nonalignment policy was set in the direction of communism. Communist observers feel India now is nonaligned.

Textile Workers Asking Pay Hike

NEW YORK (AP) — Textile workers have served notice they want a bigger share of the profits from Northern cotton and rayon mills.

About 300 delegates of the Textile Workers Union of America voted Saturday to invoke wage reopening clauses in their contracts this year.

Just how much pay increase they'll seek from 200 mill owners, mainly in New England and the Middle Atlantic states, will be worked out later.

Union President William Pollock said the mills are "operating in the black and are in a good position to raise pay." He said the workers deserve to share in the good times.

"Misunderstanding is precisely what it is not," declared the influential Hindustan Times in a recent editorial. The newspaper pointed out that India has explained its position in scores of notes and letters over the past five years—that the disputed territory is India's legally and historically.

Awaiting Story Of Poison Death

BRYSON CITY, N.C. (AP) — Authorities waited today for improvement in the condition of Mrs. Patricia Cumming so that she can relate details leading to the death of her novelist husband. He died apparently from the effects of a poison at their mountain cabin near Whittier.

The 27-year-old Mrs. Cumming had regained consciousness, but Swain County Hospital authorities said Monday she still was unable to speak coherently. She became violently ill after driving two miles to a telephone Friday night to call an ambulance for her ill husband.

Because of her condition, she had not been told Monday of the death of her husband, 29-year-old Edward Chandler Cumming, son of professors at Davidson and Woman's colleges.

Meanwhile, Jackson County's coroner, Dr. Phillip E. DeWees, said it would be several days before the nature of the poison can be determined. He also said an investigation is under way to determine how it was consumed, although it is believed it became mixed with food.

Cumming, who was graduated with honors from Harvard University, moved to the cabin last September to work on a novel. The couple's two children did not become ill.

Rolling In Clover; The 4-Leaf Kind

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Tom Henry is rolling in clover — the four-leaf kind.

Since last April 13, Mrs. Henry claims she has found more than 1,500 four-leaf clovers in the yard at her home. In one day, she says, she found 175.

She also found one six-leaf and one seven-leaf clover which she put in her freezer for safe-keeping.

And five leaves — they're a dime a dozen. But Mrs. Henry never picks them. Bad luck, she says.

Haircut Changed Her Personality

LINDEN, N.J. (AP)—You know how hair is. Like Topsy it just grows and grows.

With Felicia Jo Deraska it grew for 12 years—the length of time she's been around—untouched by barber's nippers.

She got a haircut recently. The whole family showed up to watch it.

After it was over, Felicia explained: "It's wonderful!"

Says her mother: "The haircut has changed her whole personality."

Only the American people do not know why there is so much confusion and they are deeply hurt by the curious conduct of those to whom they entrust their defense and the future of their country. This ought not to become a campaign issue. It ought to be considered without partisanship.

LONG LIFE

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A pintail drake found dead near Martins Ferry, Ohio, was a Methuselah of wild ducks, the State Natural Resources Department says. It was still wearing a band put on at the Bear River Migratory Bird Refuge near Brigham City, Utah, on Aug. 25, 1941.

Opera star Geraldine Farrar also was writer of lyrics for many classical songs.

Homemade Mushroom Soup
Double-Pleasure Sandwiches
Chocolate Brownies Beverage

DOUBLE-PLEASURE SANDWICHES
Ingredients: 2 slices bread, butter, sweet brown mustard, 8 thin slices baked ham (size of bread slices), 2 or 3 medium-size tomatoes (thinly sliced), salt, pepper, 1/2 cup (or more) loosely-packed medium-grated cheddar cheese, 4 tablespoons mayonnaise, sweet gherkins.
Method: Toast bread lightly; spread with butter and mustard. Place ham on bread making sure edges are covered. Arrange sliced tomato over ham; sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper. Sprinkle cheese over 4 of the built-up bread slices; spread 1 tablespoon of mayonnaise over tomato on remaining 4 bread slices. Broil slowly so toppings are lightly brown and tomatoes and ham hot. Serve at once—1 cheese-topped and 1 mayonnaise-topped sandwich for each serving. Makes 4 servings.

Orange Necessary For Good Health

RALEIGH—Do you remember when an orange in the toe of a stocking at Christmas was a luxury treat? Today, the majority of the people in our country consider an orange to be a necessity fruit for good health.

Mrs. Ruby P. Uzzie, consumer marketing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, reports that December, January, and February are the most popular citrus fruit months. Supplies are at their peak, quality is highest and prices are most attractive during this season.

Citrus fruits offer an easily available and inexpensive source of the essential nutrient, vitamin C. Average and low-income families can afford citrus fruit in their grocery buying each week.

Size does not affect the quality and grade of citrus fruit. Select oranges and grapefruit by their weight as to size.

When shopping for oranges and grapefruit, look for the following characteristics: firm fruits that are heavy for their size—for best flavor and excellent juice; fruits that are free of soft or mold spots to avoid spoilage and to insure fresh flavor and tight-fitting skins—a sign of plenty of juice.

BETTER SEWING

You'll sew better if you adjust the stitch to the fabric. Deep pile and heavy weight fabrics call for about 12 stitches to the inch, medium and light weight fabrics require more, shorter stitches.

HD Agent Gives Demonstration

Mrs. Lois Freeman, assistant Pitt County home economics agent, presented a demonstration to the members of the Red Banks Home Demonstration Club concerning the new fabrics for the home at their February meeting recently.

When choosing materials for the home, she said it is important to select material that will not sag, shrink, fade, deteriorate in the sunlight and that can easily be cleaned.

Mrs. Freeman stressed the need to read the labels and know how to care for the materials one buys. A display of materials was shown.

During the business session under the direction of Mrs. Karl Hardee, a new secretary, Mrs. E. H. Boyd, was elected. Mrs. Glenn Hardee, past secretary, recently resigned.

Mrs. Worth Hardee, Mrs. Charlie Hardee, and Mrs. S. B. Tucker gave reports to the club members.

Hostesses, Mrs. Worth Hardee and Mrs. Noah Hardee, served fruit cake topped with whipped cream and red cherries and coffee.

HEIRS TO MURDER

CHAPTER 16
Walt Hollenger had thought that Johnny Hume's hurt leg would slow him down so that he could catch up with him before he reached the Sombbrero Ranch. But Johnny had out-foxed him, and taken the only fresh horse in the corral.

Riding the fagged horse Rusty McGowan had ridden all afternoon, Walt wasn't making much time. There was a light in the living room of the big ranch house, but it had been several hours since Pete Rayburn's body had been found, and by now most of the excitement had died down. Johnny's horse was tied in a grove of pines on a little knoll a dozen yards from the front gate. Walt reined up alongside and stepped out of the saddle. He stood for a moment eyeing the dark mass of buildings. He had a hunch that Johnny could be walking squarely into a trap originally intended for Walt Hollenger.

Everybody in the whole damn country knows Rayburn wrote it! "Okay, Walt!" Johnny's voice was shaky, and Walt feared the kid had been badly hit. Evidently Dwight Mitchell believed himself covered, for the next moment Walt heard a dragging, scuffling sound as Johnny limped unmolesed across the room. The front door was within finger-tip length of Walt's arm. He swung it open and put his arm around Johnny's waist as he came out. Walt flung one hurried glance around the room and saw Judy Rayburn standing at the foot of the stairs, her face horri-stricken. Hurriedly Walt backed away from the circle of light. He looked quickly around the yard. It was darkness there. His arm was still around Johnny as they jumped off the terrace and broke into a run.

He approached the house stealthily. If his hunch was right, he would let Johnny get in the house and actually get the letter in his possession before they sprang the trap. His eyes travelled over the big, dark building. Rayburn had been killed while he was writing. That probably meant in his study, and the chances were good that the letter would still be there. Walt stepped up on to the wide stone terrace. Then as he took the first long, noiseless step across the porch, it happened. There was a shot from inside, and then the grunting sound of a man who had been hit. But even in that moment of shock, Walt Hollenger had time to realize that there was no sound of a falling body, and he knew that Johnny Hume was still on his feet. "Put 'em up!" It was Dwight Mitchell's voice hoarse with excitement and triumph. "You're skylighted against that window and I've got you!" Another shot broke his throat in the middle, probably from Johnny's gun this time, for he heard the kid cursing his luck for missing.

The study cornered the house, and there was another big window on the other side of the room. Both were open, and this front one at least didn't have a screen. Walt threw a leg over the sill. He heard movement inside. He could see nothing, but now he thought he had their approximate locations. "I've got you skylighted, Mitchell," he said crisply. "Don't move! Johnny—for heaven's sake throw that damn letter down if you've got it. It's no good to us!"

Walt helped Johnny into the saddle, and handed him the reins. The kid leaned hard against the horn. "I was a fool, Walt," he said, as he turned his pony towards home. "It was a trap! He was in there, hiding, waiting for me! If you hadn't showed up when you did I'd sure be a gone cowboy now!" "Maybe not necessarily waiting for you!" Walt told him grimly. "Maybe anyone from the Circle H would have suited them just as well—or it would likely have suited them if I had spooked and quit the country. They need somebody to lay the blame for a murder. That's my guess."

Judy Rayburn had watched as if hypnotized as Walt Hollenger appeared in the open doorway of Pete Rayburn's study. She saw him swing an arm around the wounded cowboy. His eyes swept the room, lifted, and for the space of a heart beat his gaze met hers squarely. Then the next instant he was gone. Judy wanted to call out to him, but her throat muscles seemed paralyzed. She opened her mouth and sucked air in sharply. Her tight clasp on the stair slackened. Her knees gave way suddenly and she fell in a little crumpled heap. She was dimly aware of Bella Gamel running down the stairs, screaming again, and Dwight Mitchell rushing towards her from the study. Then everything blacked out. She awoke to find the sun shining bright through her bedroom window. Rosina was bending over her wiping her forehead with a damp, cool cloth, and Bella was standing at the foot of the bed. Judy's head ached dully and her tongue felt big and thick. Bella came swiftly around and knelt beside Rosina. "Judy darling—are you all right now?" Judy twisted her head on the pillow. "I think so," she said with difficulty. "Have I been sick?" Bella looked ready to cry. "It's all my fault, darling. I—I put some sleeping medicine in your tea last night. You looked so tired and upset, and I didn't think it could hurt you. I was afraid I have given you too much. You just slept and slept. It's nearly noon now, and we've all been so worried."

leather holster and a short-barreled .38 with an ivory handle faintly yellowed with use and age. When she went downstairs a few minutes later, the feel of the gun neatly snuggled against the hip of her blue corduroy riding skirt gave her courage. She went on through the empty living room to the kitchen, where Rosina was just finishing the last of the breakfast dishes. Her head was still aching too much for her to have any appetite, but she drank a cup of coffee, then went outside. Dwight Mitchell appeared to have been waiting for her. He looked at her anxiously. "Are you all right this morning, Judy?" "Fit as a fiddle," she said, lying a little. "Sleeping powders seem to agree with me." He bit his lip. His eyes met hers briefly, then slid away. "Judy, about last night. You liked Walt Hollenger, didn't you?" "I do like him," she corrected him quickly. Dwight frowned. "You don't believe he killed Uncle Pete?" Judy shrugged. "I don't think so—no. But then I don't really know much about Walt—or Uncle Pete—or the trouble between them."

Wright Auditorium was bulging at the seams last evening for the appearance of the American Ballet Center Company, and justifiably so. In the first place, Greenville hasn't seen a ballet company since 1947, and in the second place, this was an excellent company in nearly every sense of the word.

Voter Qualification Laws Vary In Nearly Each State

Wisconsin Republicans In Enthusiastic Nixon Salute

MILWAUKEE (AP)—With Vice President Richard M. Nixon as the central figure, Wisconsin Republicans kicked up their heels Monday night in the most wildly enthusiastic GOP gathering in the state in years.

MASK MAKERS—Master craftsman Tu Ching-Cheng and helper work on masks in Hong Kong workshop. He bases creations on characters in Chinese operas.

crowd accorded Nixon and his pretty wife, Pat, a tremendous ovation at a Lincoln Day dinner.

Nixon responded with a speech in which he called upon his listeners to work in the coming campaign "not just for a Republican victory but for the United States of America and the freedom it represents."

The crowd of nearly 3,000 jammed the Eagles Club main ballroom and balconies. Several hundred more overflowed into a smaller hall downstairs.

State Republican Chairman Claude Jasper got a rousing response when he praised Mrs. Nixon and asked, "Wouldn't she make a lovely first lady?"

Nixon reiterated that this country's armed might is sufficient to deter any potential aggressor from attack. He said the United States has a program adequate to maintain that position in the future and added "there is no gap in our over-all strength."

The vice president said the Eisenhower administration had established a record that Republicans are proud to run on next fall.

Under President Eisenhower's leadership, he said, the American people "have enjoyed the best seven years of their lives and they want more of that leadership."

He said the President "got us out of one war and today we have peace without surrendering any territory and we are ready to stand on that record."

Republicans have "restored to the White House honesty and integrity and dignity," Nixon said.

His speech climaxed a busy day which included a conference with state GOP officials on whether he will enter Wisconsin's April 5 presidential preference primary. He promised to announce his decision this week.

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Persons desiring to vote for the first time this year will find as many different registration and other qualifying requirements as there are states.

And politicians looking for a national trend will not get much help from official registration figures. Only 14 states collect registration figures on a statewide basis. A similar number provide for registration by party affiliation, but in many cases the voter may decline this information. If he declines he will be ineligible to vote in primaries in some states.

Studies by the Library of Congress and national political committees show that the nearest thing to uniformity in state laws covering qualification of voters is found in provisions relating to age, citizenship and residence. But even these vary.

You must be 21 to vote in 46 states, but only 18 in Georgia and Kentucky, 19 in Alaska and 20 in Hawaii.

You must be a citizen, but a few states fix citizenship minimums at from one to three months.

State residence laws specify six months or a year in most states, with three states—Alabama, Mississippi, and South Carolina—requiring two years' residence. County residence provisions range from 30 days to a year; precinct or ward, 10 days to six months.

Seventeen states make a voter pass some kind of literacy test. Usually it is ability to read and write in English an article of the Constitution. Some Southern states say a prospective voter must be able reasonably to interpret the state constitution.

Five states—Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia—still require a poll tax, although there is a move in Congress to repeal it.

Six—Alabama, Connecticut, Florida, Idaho, Mississippi and North Carolina—make citizens take a loyalty oath by swearing allegiance to the federal or state Constitution. Alabama also requires a statement disavowing belief in or affiliation with any group advocating overthrow of the federal or state government by unlawful means.

All states disqualify idiots and insane persons and those guilty of felonies or other crimes unless their civil rights have been restored. Nine states make paupers ineligible, Alabama turns voters away from the polls, and Delaware disenfranchises for 10 years persons convicted of election offenses.

Nearly all states have full or partial registration for both primaries and general elections. North Dakota has no registration except that cities may require it for municipal elections. Arkansas and Texas have no registration, but rely mainly on the poll tax. In Vermont, registration is not required, but persons taking a free-man's oath are placed on a check list of qualified voters.

Most states have permanent registration, at least in the larger cities and towns. Some cancel registrations where the voter fails to cast a ballot in the preceding primary or general election.

Ohio, one of several states requiring registration in only certain areas, limits registering to cities of 16,000 or more, although some counties may have countywide or partially countywide registration.

Registration is required in Wyoming in cities and districts casting a certain number of votes in the preceding election.

One of the most recent changes in law qualifying voters for primaries occurred in Texas. This requires that the poll tax receipt be stamped by the election judge "Democrat" or "Republican" when the voter casts his ballot in primaries. This makes for better nose counting and prevents voter from casting a ballot in primaries of both parties.

In this connection, surveys show nine states have open primaries in which Democrats may vote in Republican primaries for state offices and vice versa. These states are Idaho, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin.

In Washington, a voter may participate in the primaries of both parties, but not for the same office. Nebraska has open primaries in towns below 7,000. Wisconsin is the only state having an open nose counting and prevents presidential primary.

DOW SOIL FUMIGANTS

NOW—INCREASE TOBACCO YIELDS
25% to 100% with Dow Soil Fumigants!

You've invested in the best seed . . . the right fertilizer . . . complete weather insurance, but you may not be protected against crop failure and low cash profits unless you insure your tobacco against nematode damage! In "allotted" tobacco acreage, you can't afford to rotate crops, let your land lie fallow, or plant "trap crops". But even if you could, none of these methods control nematodes as effectively as Dow Soil Fumigants—the best crop insurance you can have!

You'll be amazed at the results! A 25% to 100% increase in yields is not uncommon. And every dollar spent to protect your tobacco crop can return up to five dollars in extra profits!

Here's what to do. If root knot, sting or stunt nematodes are present in your soil, apply Dowfume® W-85 as directed. If meadow or root lesion nematodes are causing the trouble, use Telone®. If you don't know which species is doing the damage, or if several types are present, your best bet is Doriol®—a combination of Dowfume W-85 and Telone.

The Dow Soil Fumigants—Dowfume W-85, Telone, Doriol—are the largest selling fumigants in the South. They have been tested and proved by use on hundreds of thousands of acres. See your Dow dealer today for your supply, and look for this Dow Soil Fumigation display in his store.

Pre-Registering For New Quarter

Students at East Carolina College are pre-registering this week February 8-13, for courses which they will take the spring quarter of the current school year.

All students now attending the college and planning to enroll for the spring quarter are holding consultations with their faculty advisors and planning their schedules of classes in advance.

Those who will enter East Carolina at the beginning of the quarter as well as those who have pre-registered will officially enroll at the college for their spring courses Wednesday, March 2. Class work will begin Thursday, March 3.

Final examinations in winter-quarter courses will be administered February 24-27. An interim of three days during which no classes will be in session will be used by instructors to prepare grades for the office of the college registrar.

The spring quarter at East Carolina will close with commencement exercises for the Class of 1960 Sunday, May 22. The inauguration of Dr. Leo W. Jenkins as President of East Carolina is scheduled for May 13 and will be a major event of the quarter.

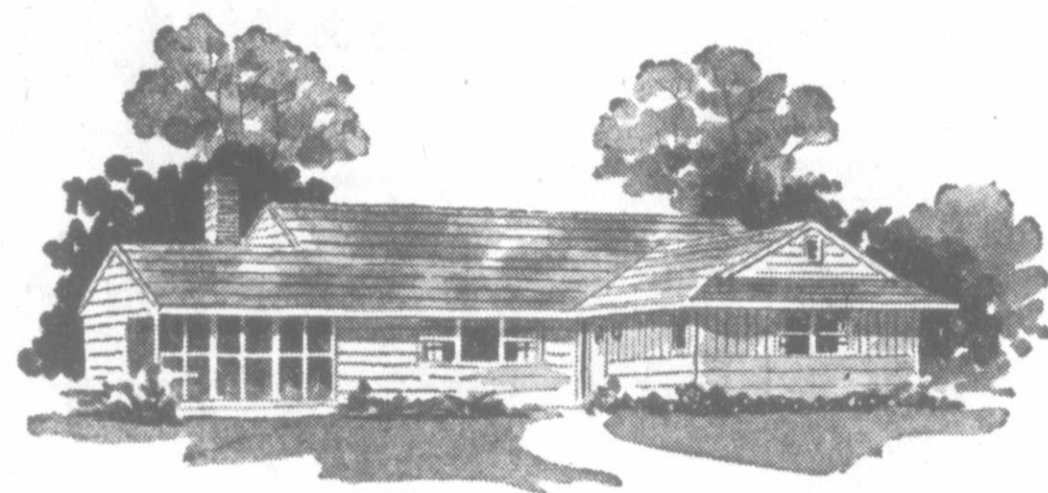

The summer session at East Carolina will begin Monday, June 6. The session will be divided into two terms as follows: first, June 6-July 12, and, second, July 13-August 18.

Student's Work In Art Displayed

An exhibition by Barbara Lounsbury of Wilmington is now on display in the Kate W. Lewis Art Gallery, Rawl building, at East Carolina College. It will be on view until February 15 and is open to the public.

A senior at East Carolina, Miss Lounsbury is specializing in commercial art. Included in her exhibition are examples of layout and lettering in this field.

In academic work at East Carolina, Miss Lounsbury is a candidate for the liberal arts degree with a major in art and a minor in business. Her name has frequently appeared on the Lean's List of superior students.

Small Rim Helps St. Bonaventure

By TOM BENTON

OLEAN, N. Y. (AP)—The youngster trying for a place on the St. Bonaventure freshman basketball squad took aim from center court and let fly with a set shot.

The ball curved in a flat arc, apparently hit home, but spun wildly off the rim instead of swishing through the cords.

The youngster's mouth fell open. It was his first brush with Eddie Donovan's fiendish "tightener."

The regulation basketball ring is 18 inches. But Donovan, successful young coach of the Bonnies, devised a 12-inch interior ring to fit over the basket for practice sessions.

It takes a real eye to put the ball in a 12-inch hoop. The varsity quickly dubbed the gimmick "the tightener."

Four Smiths In Their Lineups

BOSTON (AP)—When it comes to the name Smith the American League is in good shape. Al Smith, Chicago White Sox outfielder, is the only Smith in the league. Philadelphia has Bobby Gene Smith, an outfielder obtained from St. Louis; Pittsburgh has Hal Smith, a catcher-third baseman obtained from Kansas City, and St. Louis has Hal Smith, also a catcher.

HALFBACK GAINS WEIGHT

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Quarterback Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State is up to 220 pounds and may play at that weight for the Wolfpack next fall. He weighed 207 pounds last season. He's 6-foot-3 and lifts weights and plays intramural basketball in the off season.

By CASEY STENDEL Manager, New York Yankees

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)—Well, I've been reading this series and I see where each manager in the American League thinks his ball club is better balanced for the 1960 season than it was a year ago. Quite a few managers expect to win the pennant.

Last year I thought we had the strongest team in the spring and I was looking for a fifth straight pennant. But that wasn't to be. We got off to a bad start and never fully recovered. Our pitching was below par and so was our punch.

That shouldn't happen again this year, for this is still a young ball club and only a partial recovery would put the Yankees in a much more favorable position.

Last year's second division clubs probably will have to be reckoned with. Baltimore gave up pitching to get some outfield power. But the Orioles still have good young pitchers and should be a better club this year.

"It's helped sharpen our shooting," he says. "It makes the boys put a little more of an arc to their set shots. They really have to hit the bullseye. We've used the smaller rim three seasons. I like to think it helped Tom Stith."

Stith, a junior from St. Francis Prep of Brooklyn, set a Madison Square Garden Holiday Festival scoring record, netting 48 points in the recent tournament. Two nights later, Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson, made 50 points against Iowa.

"I like to see a high arc on all shots," says Donovan, now in his seventh season as Bonnie coach. "The smaller target also improves layups. You can't ram the ball up against the backboard any old way; you must lay it up softly."

Donovan doesn't pretend the thing is his own idea, although he has refined the ring so that it can be installed and taken down quickly.

The Bonnies can put the ultimate blame for their frustration on Dolph Schayes of the Syracuse Nationals. Donovan says he saw the original "tightener" last summer at Schayes' basketball camp.

McLish Defeated Top Rival Teams

CINCINNATI (AP)—After checking Cal McLish's record against the stronger teams in the American League, the Cincinnati Reds are more elated than ever. McLish, obtained in a trade with Cleveland, last year beat the White Sox four times in five decisions. Against the third-place Yankees he was 6-1 while the rest of the Cleveland staff was 5-10.

McLish won 19 games for Cleveland. In 1958 he won 16 games.

At first, Bill Skowron looked like he was going to have one of his best seasons when he got hurt. Our doctors say he's 100 per cent now. Bobby Richardson, our second baseman, was our only regular to hit .300. Tony Kubek improved his hitting and he is developing into a good shortstop.

Andy Carey is a good third baseman and he's back in shape. Gil McDougald is sure to hit better. We have some other young infield prospects and I feel we're strong here with real major leaguers right down the line.

The outfield is improved with the addition of Roger Maris from Kansas City. Mickey Mantle had an off year, but there's no reason why he shouldn't come back. He's still young (28). Hector Lopez gave us a lot of big hits last year and he's a good RBI man.

I purpose left pitching for last year. We think we've got the makings of a good staff with fine young prospects coming up from the minors, headed by lefty Bill Short, top pitcher in the International League last year. Art Ditmar did a good job as starter and relief pitcher last year and should continue to improve. Bob Turley was way off but his arm is sound and he should come back. Whitey Ford is still a winner and if he's sound he could be our big man again.

Before I finish, I want to mention youngster like Deron Johnson, Jack Reed and Ken Hunt who could add punch and speed to the outfield.

SPORT SLANTS by Pap

Bill Skowron is willing to try anything that might help forestall the muscle injuries that have plagued him throughout his baseball career. Even swimming. And he's scared to death of water beyond his depth. The Moose was advised to take swimming lessons when he visited the Mayo Clinic for a check-up. It seems the doctors came to the conclusion that the muscular Yankee first baseman was prone to injuries because his mighty muscles lacked elasticity. They simply will of stretch as they do in the average athlete. When strained, they rip and the healing process takes weeks instead of days as do ordinary pulls.

Just looking at the brawny Moose, one wonders how he could possibly get hurt. He's a solid 6-footer weighing 203 pounds. At 29, he should be at his peak. Since joining the Yankees in 1954, Skowron has enjoyed only one injury-free season. That was in 1956 when he played in 134 games, hit 23 home runs, drove in 99 runs and batted .308. Last season he was injured five times and played in only 74 games. The season ended for Moose on July 26, when he suffered a fractured left wrist. If the Yankees hope to bounce back this season, Moose will have to remain in one piece and lend his potent bat to their cause.

Skowron put in ten days at Gus Mauch's school for trainers at Kissimmee, Fla., and worked out every day. He is satisfied that his wrist has healed perfectly. His back didn't bother him a bit, either. And to keep things that way, Bill makes a daily trip to the Ridgewood (N.J.) YMC pool for his swimming chores. He's so desperate to prevent the crippling injuries that he is willing to do anything. Even risk his life in three or four feet of water. You can't ask him to make a greater sacrifice.

 Greenville's Phantoms will be out for blood tonight as they entertain Elizabeth City, whose only win of the current season was over the Phants, earlier in the year.

Greenville, locked in a three-way tie with Washington and Jacksonville for third place, will also be attempting to return to the win column against the visiting Jackets, after having suffered a mild upset at the hands of New Bern, Friday night, 64-47.

Coach Bo Farley of the Phantoms, reported yesterday afternoon, that he was uncertain as to what his starting line-up would be tonight. "We haven't practiced since Friday night's loss, and at this time, I am unsure as to who will be in the starting line-up against Elizabeth City," the Phantom mentor said.

Farley, veteran of many North-eastern Conference games, has been experimenting with his team throughout the current season. There have been several shifts concerning the Phant's Layne Jorgensen. The 6-3 Jorgensen has played at center, and forward, and it may turn out that Farley may return him to the center position for the tonight's encounter with Elizabeth City.

Coach Bob Brooks is another man with a questioning air about him as far as the tonight's clash of action due to influenza, and various injuries.

Among these players, whose performing is somewhat in question, is Monty Ross, a starting forward for the Jacket quint. Also out, but injured with a shoulder separation is another Elizabeth City starter, Nate Caddy.

Top gun for the Jackets, and the cager expected to spearhead the Jacket attack against Greenville is forward Charlie Smith. Smith has posted a 13 point average thus far this season. Following right on his heels, is another Smith, this time Charlie, whose average for the season runs about 10 points per contest.

Grifton Can Cinch Its First Title Tonight

By Johnny Hudson
 Reflector Sports Editor
 Grifton will be in quest of asserting itself of the 1960 Pitt County basketball title tonight when it meets a tough Farmville quint on the latter's home court.

Coach Alon Burke, tutor of the loop-leaders, has his fingers crossed when speaking of tonight's game. "We rank Farmville as one of the top club's in the county and had a real tough time with them on our home court," stated Burke.

If Grifton is able to get by Farmville, it will be the first county title in the school's history.

Grifton suffered early season losses to Bethel and Chicod. Along with Farmville, Burke cites the above mentioned as the "toughest in the conference."

Other than the Farmville-Grifton clash, two other games will draw billings as the 1959-60 races nears the finish line. Ayden (9-5) is at Belvoir-Falkland (3-11) and Winterville (7-7) plays at Grimesland (4-11).

In the girls race, Stokes-Pacolus has wrapped up another title. The dandels of Coach Jack Edwards have now won 42 consecutive games within the league and will move into the tournament as heavy favorites.

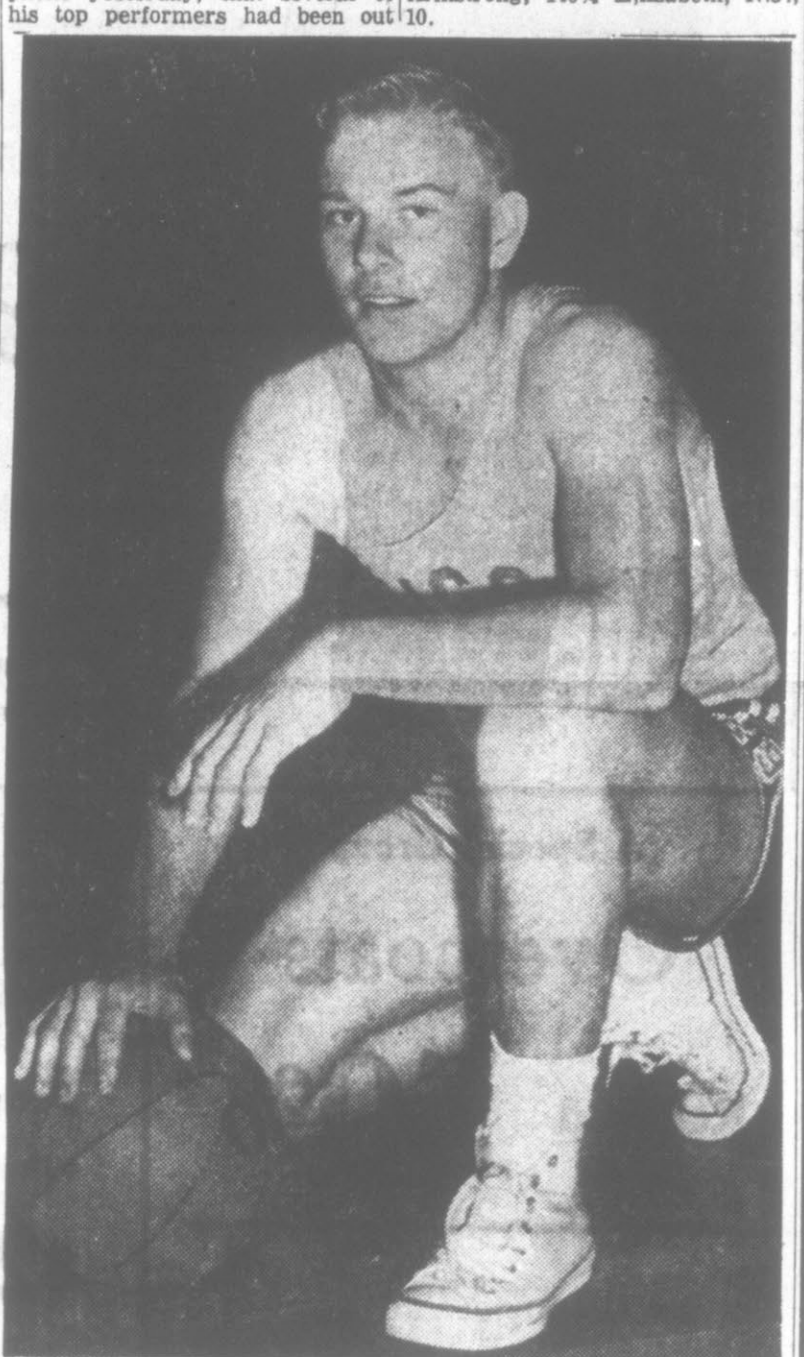

Chicod, defending champions in the boys division, is still clinging to a meek chance for a tie. With three defeats, the Hornets go outside the loop for action tonight, meeting Bath. In case of a Grifton loss, Chicod could tie the race with a victory over Belvoir-Falkland Friday night.

Saban To Coach Boston Entry

BOSTON (AP) — Lou Saban, former college and pro star, has been named head coach of the Boston entry in the American Football League.

Saban, 38, was signed Monday to a three-year contract at what Boston General Manager Ed. McKeever called "very satisfactory" terms.

Saban played for Indiana University and the Cleveland Browns of the defunct All-America Conference and held coaching posts at Western Illinois, Case Institute, the University of Washington and Northwestern.

Big Roberson Hits All Time High In Cincy's Win Over North Texas

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

There's one thing about Cincinnati's Oscar Roberson—he just doesn't know when to leave the record books alone.

Take Monday night. The Big O, who already is college basketball's all-time scorer, hit a personal all-time high with 62 points against North Texas State, as the top-ranked Bearcats now 18-1, easily won, 123-74.

That raised his career total to 2,662 as he continues to improve on the old mark of 2,587, which he broke last Saturday night. Now he seems intent on seeing to it that no one is going to break his for a long time.

The Big O's giant-sized output also broke the Missouri Valley single game mark of 57, by Oklahoma State's Bob Kurland in 1946. In addition, Roby's 23 field goals improved his own personal record by one and his total points broke his previous high of 56 against Arkansas in 1958.

Roberson's tremendous performance overshadowed another fine job by West Virginia's Jerry West, who scored 35 points in leading the Mountaineers to a 98-99 victory over a fine New York University team for their 42nd straight home victory.

Bradley, still ranked second in the latest Associated Press poll, coasted to a 78-57 Mo Valley victory over Houston, while fifth-ranked Ohio State made its Big Ten lead almost untouchable with a 106-69 triumph over Wisconsin.

Georgia Tech, No. 6 and the only other top-ranked club in action, defeated Louisiana State 78-56.

During one six-minute span Roberson scored 21 points. He hit a torrid 23 of 29 field goal attempts and 16 of 19 free throws, and pulled in 19 rebounds.

West scored 12 field goals and 11 of 13 fouls, and snagged 19 rebounds. He helped propel the Mountaineers (19-2), from a neat 42-33 halftime edge to an untouchable 68-51 lead midway in the second half. Tom Sanders, with 21 points and 15 rebounds, paced the Violets.

Elsewhere in the Big Ten, Michigan State defeated Illinois 78-77, Northwestern swept to a 66-64 victory over Minnesota overcoming a 13-point halftime deficit; Indiana won its fourth straight Big Ten game, 87-74 over Iowa; and Terry Dischinger got 29 points in pacing Purdue to a 79-65 win over Michigan.

Oklahoma kept a glimmer of hope for a Big Eight title with a 63-54 win over Nebraska and Colorado won its sixth straight, 48-40, over Oklahoma State in another Big Eight game. St. Louis, which meets Cincinnati Friday night, defeated Oklahoma City 73-59.

North Carolina, idle last week hustled past Clemson in an Atlantic Coast conference game, 73-54, Virginia Tech tied West Virginia for the Southern Conference lead with a 82-66 victory over William & Mary.

In other games, Auburn defeated Florida 89-51, Tennessee beat Mississippi 81-71. The Citadel edged Furman 84-81, Texas won over Texas Tech 72-66, Vanderbilt downed Tulane 68-64, and Alabama slipped by Georgia in overtime, 64-60.

Olympic Site Is In Serious Shape

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Snow at a critical hour averted possible disaster at this site of the Winter Olympic Games. Yet a threat remained today.

Should temperatures climb above freezing, flood danger could return.

A blizzard raged through Squaw Valley Monday, but shortly after the danger of flooding and damage to ski race courses became critical, rain turned to snow and the threat subsided. Temperatures had dipped just enough—to 32 degrees, the freezing point. Rain melts snow with a resulting runoff of both.

Early in the day H. D. Thoreau, managing director for the games, stated, "The Squaw Valley site of the VIII Olympic Winter Games is now in serious condition because of the continued unprecedented rain storms in the Sierras.

All possible measures are being taken to protect the Olympic facilities from the potential damage."

Protective measures helped but nature provided the real answer when temperatures dropped in early afternoon and snow fell.

Still the compacted snow parking pad was nearly washed out and some ski runs were damaged. Trees crashed down in winds ranging from 50 miles an hour in the valley to 100 miles per hour on the peaks.

Located in a relatively isolated area 200 miles east of San Francisco and 40 miles west of Reno in the High Sierra, Squaw Valley is surrounded by 9,000-foot mountain peaks.

Tar Heels Swamp Clemson; State Meets Duke Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina's fast-flying Tar Heels bopped Clemson 73-54 Monday night warming up for two important Atlantic Coast Conference basketball tests later this week with Wake Forest and Duke.

The Tar Heels, now 6-0 in the ACC, play second-place Wake Forest (8-2) Thursday and Duke (5-2), the third place team, Saturday. However, both games are on the UNC court in Chapel Hill.

Meanwhile, in tonight's lone game, Duke tries to pickup some ground at rapidly improving North Carolina State. The Blue Devils, 10-5 overall, own a 47-34 win over N.C. State, but the Wolfpack has won four of its six games since then and scored 87 and 90 points in its last two outings.

Also, the contest will mark another matching of the teacher, N.C. State's Coach Everett Case, and the pupil, Duke Coach Vic Bubas, who took over this year after working and playing for Case.

N.C. State, fifth in the ACC at 3-6, takes a 7-11 overall record into the fray.

Lee Shaffer, North Carolina's 6-foot-7 ace from Pittsburgh, scored 29 points to shoot the Clemson Tigers. He hit on 12 of 19 tries from the field and five of seven from the free throw line. The output tied Shaffer's previous seasonal high, 29 against Minnesota in the Dixie Classic in December.

Harvey Salz added 16 and Doug Moe, playing his second game since rejoining the team for the second semester, added 10 as the Tar Heels wrapped up win No. 11 in 14 games.

Playing before 4,500 at Clemson, Shaffer popped in nine straight points to ice the contest in the last half.

Clemson, seventh in the ACC with a 2-6 slate (and 8-11 overall), lead briefly 10-9 midway through the first half. However, UNC quickly rallied and led 36-28 at intermission.

Choppy Patterson, Clemson's sophomore from Piedmont, S.C., continued his hot-shooting, leading the Tigers with 21 points. It marked the sixth straight game Patterson has scored 17 or more points for Coach Press Maravich's crew.

First Pitt County Government Seated At Farm Home

(Editor's note: This is another in a series of stories about historical markers in Pitt County.)

By HENRY HOWARD
Reflector Staff Writer

On Nov. 25, 1760, under the leadership of John Simpson of Beaufort County, the Assembly of North Carolina, meeting at New Bern, passed a petition creating Pitt County from the eastern regions of Beaufort County and thereby created the need for Pitt's first court house.

There had been considerable opposition to the proposal of Simpson, a native of Massachusetts, to split Beaufort into two counties and parishes. The petition asking for the division stated the county was "in extent of one hundred miles or more and divided by a loiterous and tempestuous river (the Tar)." A second petition declared the first untrue, but a ma-majority vote in both the Upper and Lower Houses and the new political unit was created.

Effective Jan. 1, 1761, that portion of Beaufort County to become a new county was declared to begin its existence and was named Pitt County and St. Michael's Parish.

Immediately, the Assembly realized the need for the new county's governmental headquarters and commissioned Simpson, John Hardee, William Speir, George Moy, and Isaac Buck to build a court house, prison, pillory, and stocks on the lands of John Hardee on the south side of Tar River.

A tax of two shillings on each taxable poll in the new division was levied for two years to provide necessary funds for the construction.

Meanwhile, the Assembly ordered all county courts were to be held in the house of Col. John Hardee until the new facilities could be completed. The property owners of Pitt were to meet at Col. Hardee's home, on the south bank of the Tar, Easter, 1761, to elect a dozen vestrymen for the new county.

Col. Hardee was one of the area's most prominent and best known citizens. He had achieved a formidable degree of distinction for his part in the government and public affairs of Beaufort County.

The site of his home—where Pitt County's first government was seated—is marked today by stone and bronze monument erected in 1930 by the Greenville Patriots Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution about one mile east of Greenville's present city limit on the north side of U. S. Highway 264.

Hardee's home served the county for a brief time, until the new buildings could be erected in that same vicinity.

Capably handling its own affairs, Pitt County began a period of prosperity and growth that has yet to lose its momentum. As the county gained more citizens and wealth, there was a demand for a more centrally-located county seat. So, in 1771, Richard Evans, a member of the Assembly, introduced a bill in the state legislature to establish a new town on his lands.

During the '71 session, the bill failed to gain approval, but, finding favor from Governor Martin the following year, Evans' proposal passed the Assembly and a new town was born in Pitt County—Martinborough, later to be named Greenville.

After the new town had begun to grow, in 1774, the Assembly appointed George Evans, Charles Forbes, Henry Ellis, Benjamin May, and William Roberson commissioners to negotiate contracts with workmen for the moving of the Pitt courthouse, prison, and stocks to Martinborough. Courts were ordered held at the home of John Leslie in the new county seat until the removal could be completed.

The courthouse in Martinborough was the hub of Pitt County activity and was frequently visited by the county's citizens. Still, the popular growth demanded a larger facility, both for holding court and for keeping records of the county's business. The jail, too, became outmoded and, in 1789, an act was passed providing for the construction of a new courthouse, prison, and stocks at Greenville. A special tax was levied for the initial construction and the upkeep of the county's new government center. The levy included an assessment of "not exceeding eight pence on every hundred acres of land and not exceeding two shillings, like money, on every taxable person, and a tax of two shillings on every hundred pounds value of town property."

James Armstrong, Shadrach Allen, John Moye, Arthur Forbes, Samuel Simpson, Benjamin Bell, and William Blount were appointed commissioners to have charge of the money collected from the taxes. These seven Pitt leaders also had the responsibility of erecting the new buildings and of sealing the old courthouse and prison.

Greenville, now the center of a thriving agricultural section, rapidly became a leading Eastern North Carolina trading center, utilizing its port on the Tar River. In 1790, the year of the first national census, Pitt County boasted a population of 8,275—a good-sized share of the national population of just under four million. By 1910, Greenville had grown with Pitt County until both were well-known names throughout the area. Pitt's population had swelled to above 40,000. The county's 20-year-old courthouse was serving adequately, and, according to Henry T. King's "Sketches of Pitt County," was a splendid building of its kind.

Then, about 1 a.m. Feb. 23, 1910, a disastrous fire broke out in the John Flanagan Buggy Shops. A stiff wind, blowing into the northeast, spread the blaze until every building on the block in front of the courthouse was burned to the ground.

The inferno made the leap across Evans Street easily and set ablaze the Pitt County Buggy Shops. From there, the fire spread quickly to the courthouse and jail and on to the local Masonic Temple.

A final count set the property loss at over $100,000. Fortunately, vaults had been installed in the courthouse and only a small quantity of permanent county records were lost. Still, the building itself was a total loss and a new courthouse was an immediate necessity.

As soon as possible, construction was begun on the present courthouse here that has served Pitt for nearly half a century.

OAS Considers Rights Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The general committee of the Organization of American States meets today to consider charges of widespread violations of human rights in the Dominican Republic.

The question of what, if anything, can be done about the situation was handed to the 11-member committee Monday after the full OAS Council had debated in public the charges lodged by Venezuela.

There have been reports in recent weeks that as many as 2,000 Dominicans from leading families have been put in a concentration camp, accused of plotting the overthrow of dictator Rafael Trujillo.

But the fiery three-hour debate in the OAS Council left nothing decided. For one thing, the OAS charter specifically forbids intervention in the internal affairs of any country.

Venezuela charged there have been "patent, flagrant, ugly violations of human rights in the Dominican Republic recently, and over a period of many, many years."

The Dominican Republic denied the charges, and said Venezuela made the accusations to distract attention from its own internal problems.

Ambassador Enrique Perez Cisneros of Cuba said his government gives "complete backing to the grave accusation" made by Ambassador Marcos Falcon Briceño of Venezuela. But the revolutionary Cuba government, at bitter odds with the Dominican regime, urged that the principle of nonintervention not be overlooked.

Humphrey Says Phony Program If Nixon Elected

HERMISTON, Ore. (AP)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) told a farm county audience Monday night "if Nixon is elected president the Republican farm program will be as phony as $3 bill and worth less."

Humphrey said Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who seeks the GOP presidential nomination, is preparing a new farm program of "big promises that will last only through the first week after the November election."

The Minnesota senator, who is stumping Oregon as a candidate in the May Democratic presidential primary, said Nixon had helped draft the current farm program. This program, said Humphrey, has resulted in fewer farms, fewer farmers, lower income and higher prices.

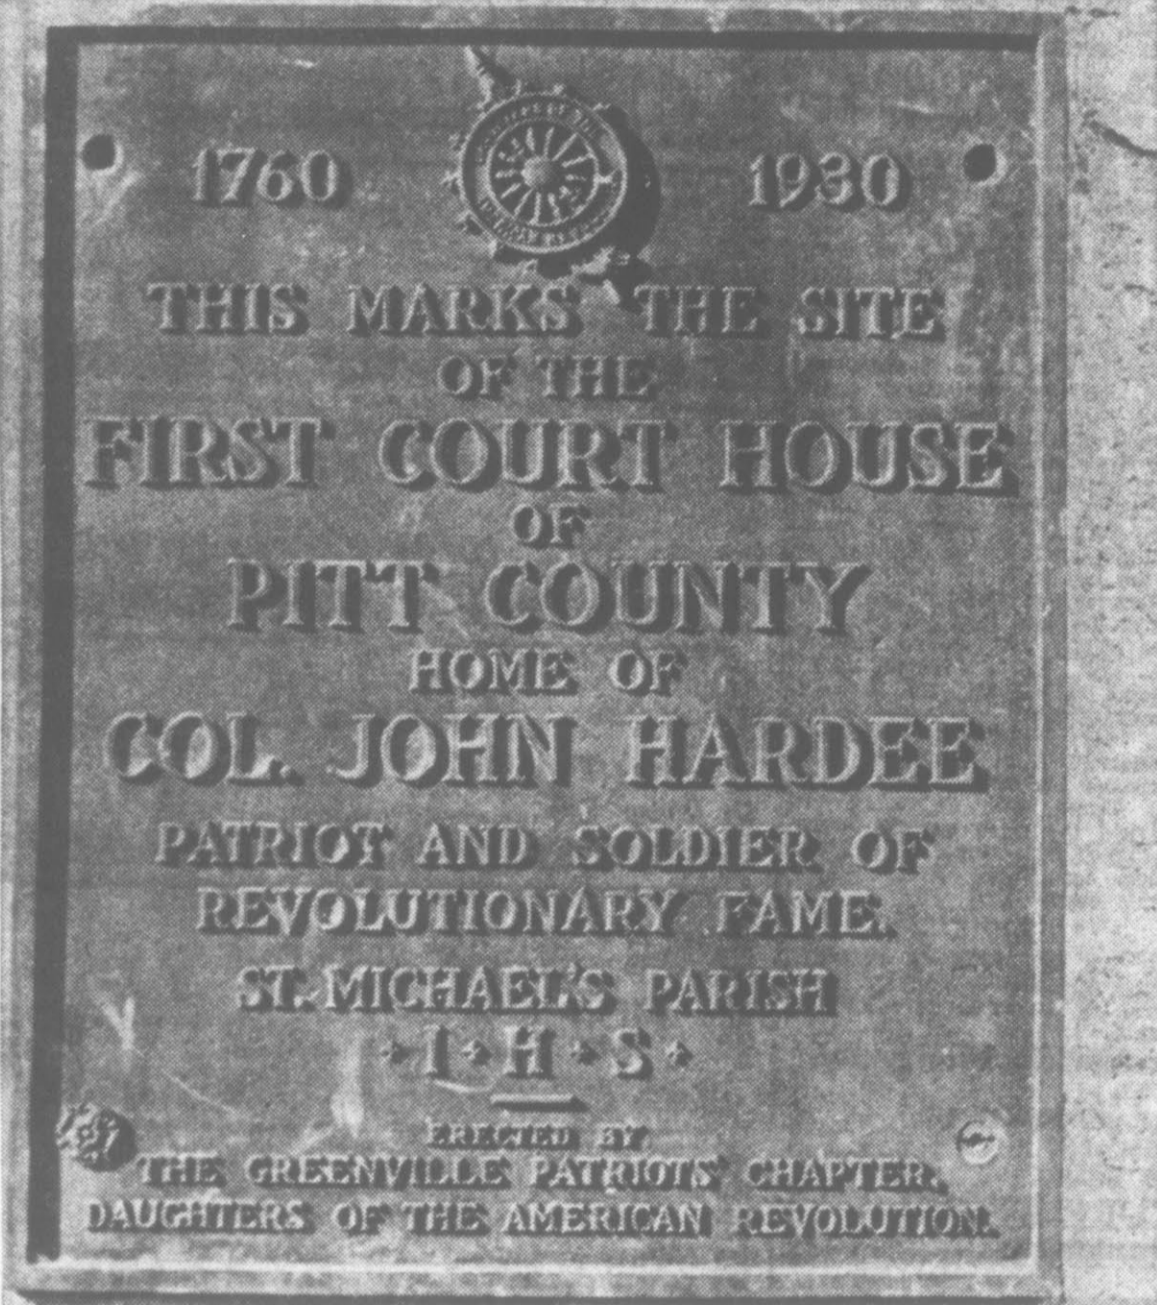

Later, Humphrey told newsmen that if any other candidate for the Democratic nomination enters California's primary, "I will be there." Humphrey made the statement after learning that Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass) was thinking about entering the California primary, in which Gov. Edmund G. Brown will run as a favorite son.

Report Sighting Rare Gray Wolf

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP)—The first sighting of a gray wolf in Wyoming in more than 20 years was reported this winter.

Martin Crowe, Casper, and A.E. Baugh, Venice, Calif., reported sighting the wolf north of Jackson about 500 feet from where three elk had been chased into a clearing.

The last known gray wolf was reported in Wyoming in 1936.

Science Groups Hear Jeweler

George Lautares, Greenville jeweler, spoke to the East Carolina Science Club and the college chapter of Chi Beta Phi, national honorary science fraternity, on "Diamonds and Precious Stones" at their February meeting.

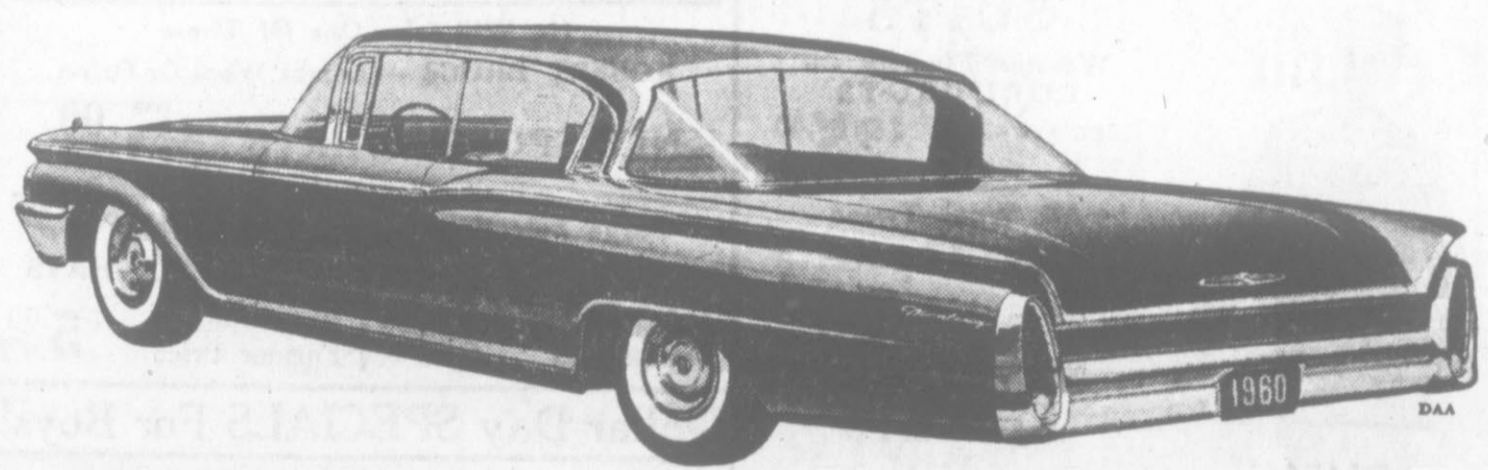

Mr. Lautares told of his experiences gem hunting around Franklin, N. C., and showed the club several rubies he had found there. He also discussed classes of precious stones; differences between genuine, synthetic and imitation stones; and various tests for stones. He elaborated on diamonds. His talk was illustrated with various types of visual aids.

Mr. Lautares is a graduate of East Carolina and Duke University. He is the only certified gemologist in Greenville, and one of fifteen in North Carolina.

Herter Less Hopeful Over Avoiding Berlin Showdown

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter apparently is less optimistic than he was a few months ago about avoiding a new showdown with the Soviet Union over Berlin.

But he doubts that Premier Nikita Khrushchev will confront the Western powers with an ultimatum in this dispute in the summit conference in Paris in May.

He foresaw the need for further negotiations and perhaps a second summit conference to settle the dispute.

Herter's views of the critical Berlin dispute came out Monday in a news conference at which he also:

1. Discussed the possibility that Khrushchev may be building a tougher, more aggressive foreign policy on the Soviet Union's growing power in nuclear missiles.

2. Conceded that Soviet achievements in space have made a greater impact on world opinion than those of the United States, increasing Soviet prestige as a scientific and military power.

Herter was reminded at his news conference that last November he had said that the Soviets had come a very long way on the Berlin issue since November 1958.

At that time they threatened to try to squeeze the Western powers out of the city unless West Berlin was made a free city in six months.

He was asked whether he felt that recent statements by Khrushchev on the Berlin issue meant that his position had become tougher since his September talks with President Eisenhower at Camp David.

"Yes," Herter replied. "I think that is the only way one can interpret the statements that have been made since that time."

Herter cited specifically a Soviet bloc declaration last week that unless the Western powers agreed to a German peace treaty the Communist countries would make a separate peace treaty with East Germany, covering the Berlin problem. Khrushchev had made similar statements recently.

However, Herter said that as far as the United States knows Khrushchev is still standing by the letter of his agreement at Camp David not to impose a deadline on negotiations with the West over Berlin.

"It is very hard for me to visualize an ultimatum being put up at a summit conference," he said, "in which the participants would have only a few days to make up their minds or even discuss the matter." Herter declined to discuss the extent of any missile gap but said it is possible that the Soviets feel that their increased strength from a military point of view "has given them greater assurance in what they are saying in the international field."

He qualified this by saying he was talking about a Soviet concept of defensive capacity, not of ability to attack the United States.

But his guarded language clearly reflected a view held by many diplomatic authorities here that Soviet power grows in relation to that of the United States. Khrushchev may be expected to become more and more insistent on what he wants from other nations.

On other questions Herter made these main points:

1. Soviet attacks on the new U.S.-Japanese security treaty constitute unwarranted interference in Japanese affairs and about relaxing international tenground explosions but to accept small underground blasts which are difficult, perhaps impossible to police.

3. If and when the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union negotiate a test ban, other nations, notably Red China, should be brought into the agreement by adhering to it. The same thing holds true for any broader disarmament deal. This would not necessarily mean U.N. membership for Red China.

4. The Castro government of Cuba has in recent weeks diminished attacks on the United States and there is some evidence of a more conciliatory line. But Herter has not yet decided to send Ambassador Philip Bonsal back to his post at Havana.

Whether Censors Like It Or Not, Doing Film

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Lolita" will reach the screen whether or not the censors approve, says movie maker Stanley Kubrick.

Kubrick and his partner, James B. Harris, own film rights to the controversial novel about a middle-aged man with a passion for little girls. They have hired the book's author, Vladimir Nabokov, to write the script and hope to start filming in a few months.

I asked Kubrick how the Johnstone office feels about the project. "We haven't discussed it with them," he replied. "We will try to get a (production code) seal. But if it isn't forthcoming, we'll go ahead without it. The seal doesn't seem to matter much nowadays."

Kubrick said he has spoken to Laurence Olivier and David Niven about playing the deranged Humbert and "both are interested."

Many on the inside and outside of the film industry are alarmed about putting "Lolita" on the screen. Kubrick said he had no opinion about whether it should be played with an "adults only" tag. He added: "I do think that parents would judge by the title that it is not a Walt Disney presentation."

When Kubrick dropped out as director of Marion Brando's "One-Eyed Jacks," it was explained that he had to prepare "Lolita." That was over a year ago. Kubrick has spent the year directing "Spartacus." And Brando is still re-making "One-Eyed Jacks"

Apparently Kills Family And Self

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—A federal agriculture worker, his wife and two girls were shot to death Monday.

State investigator Frank Vigil said Theodore R. Baker, 38, apparently killed his family and then shot himself.

Ruth Baker, 35, and Carol, 3, were lying on one bed. Kathy, 10, was dead in her crib in an adjoining bedroom. Baker was on the floor near the crib. A pistol lay nearby.

Vigil said it appeared the mother and children died in their sleep, possibly early Sunday. All were dressed for bed. Each was shot in the head.

Baker was an assistant program specialist for the U.S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office.

Teen-Age Bandits Shoot Minister

CHICAGO (AP)—A white minister, described by his wife as "a walking Mr. Brotherhood," was shot and seriously wounded Monday night by a gang of teen-age Negro robbers.

The Rev. Leo K. Bishop, 48, vice president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, was attacked when he and his wife resisted an attempt to rob them.

He was shot once in the groin and a second bullet grazed the back. His condition at Illinois Central Hospital was reported fair this morning after four hours surgery during which the bullet was removed.

Police said a gang of five boys and two girls, all Negroes, had terrorized three South Side districts in a series of holdups and robbery attempts. At least two of the boys, police said, carried rifles.

Police said they believed the same gang also fired at an electrical engineer as he fled them and later robbed a doctor and his wife of $15. The Rev. Mr. Bishop and his wife, Pauline, 47, were returning to their home in the South Shore district when a car carrying seven teen-agers drove up alongside.

Mrs. Bishop told police two of the boys got out of the car, walked past her and her husband. Then, she said, they came up from behind and one stuck a rifle in the minister's back.

Mrs. Bishop told police she grabbed the rifle and pushed it away, but a third boy got out of the car and shook her free of the rifle. The boy with the rifle then fired, wounding her husband.

'Ceiling Of Mediocrity' Is Claimed By Lecturer Here

Dr. Gerhart D. Wiebe of New York City, partner in Elmo Roper and Associates, began last night at East Carolina College the first of three lectures on "Obsolescence in American Culture." He spoke under the sponsorship of the Danforth Foundation Project at the college. Special guests were members of the Greenville Council of Parents and Teachers.

DR. G. D. WIEBE

Dr. Wiebe last night contrasted our national progress in the "outer life," that is, in material and technological advancement, with our tendency to "cling to old ways, to erect barriers against progress in matters relating to emotions, traditions, feelings, beliefs, and social relationships among men."

In this country, he said, we have made "marvelous achievements in the outer world." But, now that civilization is threatened by the weapons that cause us to live "15 minutes from doom," he pointed out, "the more subtle contest for men's minds and hearts moves to the forefront. And we have no such agility and creative-ness in the realm of human relationships and ideology as we have in the outer world of technology and the production of material things. On the contrary we face the danger that the rank and file of our society, clinging to obsolete ways in the ordering of relationships among men, will set a ceiling of mediocrity on the intellectual and social armament with which we join the battle for freedom and against tyranny."

Three Boys Face Car-Theft Count

MANLEY, N.C. (AP) — Police Chief C. E. Newton says three Alamance County 13-year-olds likely will be taken before juvenile authorities on charges growing out of a car stolen here.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Gale Garringer of Manley said Monday their car had been taken from their driveway sometime during the previous night. Newton said the boys, all Boy Scouts, had driven a car belonging to one of their fathers to Manley where it was wrecked on a railroad track.

The youths, he said, secured another car and were picked up by South Carolina patrolmen Monday at Georgetown, S.C. The officer said three "boy-sized" footprints were visible in the Garringer yard.

The parents of the three youths, all of Rt. 4, Burlington, went to Georgetown Monday night for the boys, Newton reported. No names were released because of their ages.

Newton said the trip, which spanned 200 miles, began after the boys attended church services which signaled the start of Boy Scout Week in Alamance County.

Begin Alamance Museum Work

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Construction has begun on a museum at the Alamance Battleground which will contain historical items from the period of 1750-1776 involving the War of Regulation. The museum is on the site where Gov. Tryon battled in 1771 with the Regulators.

W. Sam Tarlton, superintendent of state historic sites, represented the state in Monday's groundbreaking. George Colclough, manager of the Burlington Chamber of Commerce, also turned a first shovel of earth.

The modernistic brick and cement-block building, 30 by 70 feet in size, is to be ready in June for the first of an estimated 35,000-50,000 annual visitors.

On May 16, 2771 militia of Royal Gov. William Tryon and forces later called the Alamance Regulators met in what some historians call the first battle leading to the American Revolution.

The 1957 General Assembly appropriated $15,000 for the museum, provided that matching fund be furnished within Alamance County. By early 1959 the Burlington Chamber of Commerce had solicited sufficient donations.

Nikita Planning To Visit Africa

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is planning his first trip to Africa.

Moscow papers today published an exchange of letters between Khrushchev and the president of newly independent Guinea, Sekou Toure. Khrushchev accepted Toure's invitation to visit "with great pleasure." The date will be arranged by their diplomatic representatives.

Toure visited Moscow late last year. Guinea, a former French territory in West Africa, voted for independence in 1958. The Soviet Union quickly extended economic aid and technical help to the new nation.

On The Turbit Front, It Seems America Leading

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans apparently have forged ahead of the British in a field where they once ruled the roost — turbits.

A turbit is a pigeon. But it is not an ordinary sort of pigeon. The new variety is reared by foster parents. Because the turbit normally has a very short beak, the young bird can't insert its beak into that of its parent to get food as the ordinary pigeon baby does.

So breeders mate two turbits and two long-beaked birds of another breed at the same time. When the eggs are laid, the breeders switch them. Thus long-beaked parents bring up the turbits and short-beaked turbit parents bring up the long-beaked youngsters.

The turbit, a hard bird to breed, got started about two or three centuries ago and was highly developed in England in the last century.

But according to the top turbit breeder in the country, in the last 50 or 60 years the Americans have changed the bird, using different standards from the English.

"We feel we've gone way ahead of them," said Philip L. Roof of nearby Hyattsville, Md.

Roof is executive assistant to the architect of the United States Capitol, a building with a few pigeon problems.

Roof isn't exactly enthusiastic about the common old type of pigeon. They're the same the world over, he said, from the U.S. Capitol dome to the sun-baked village squares of India.

But show birds—that's another matter.

Roof has been breeding rubits for 20 years and has won the grand national championship for the last 10 or 11 years except one year when he was a judge.

He raises about 100 young birds a year and says he knows them all individually, even from their coos if he can't see them.

Oil Industry's Stocks Retreat, But No Trouble

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil stocks have been taking their drubbings, but in most cases the companies have been showing up well in the earnings reports.

Their big trouble has been from sliding prices on the stock exchange. This sprang from the well-realized fact that the world at the moment has more oil production and refining capacity than people really need.

And it hasn't helped any that the big investment funds — until recently — have shown up as sellers of oil stocks rather than buyers.

Yet some of the biggest companies are showing increased earnings over last year.

The oil industry isn't running scared. It's just running cautious. Some of the biggest companies are tightening up their operations. They have consolidated bookwork, so that one executive's signature can now do the work of two, or more, executives.

However high their stocks may have been bid, the oil companies' potentials aren't being overlooked in Wall Street. The industry goes on selling a little more each year, and expects to go on that way.

It brags that each year it has found a little more oil than it has sold. If it gets into political trouble in one part of the globe, it always somehow seems to come up with new wells in another.

By and large, this has been quite profitable.

The 26 oil companies reporting 1959 earnings to date show that only four made less money after taxes than in 1958. Combined their profits show a 12.6 per cent increase over the previous year.

And yet 1959 was a year in which they were supposed to be having particular difficulties. The international ones were having trouble with governments' over-seas.

At home, there was the problem of having more oil that could be pumped than could be sold.

But oilmen note that year by year the demand for oil rises in the world.

Hundreds Want To Hunt Buffalo

TORONTO (AP) — With seven months to go, more than 300 bids already have been received for the 100 licenses expected to be issued for Canada's second wild buffalo hunt this century.

Ed Olson, superintendent of Wood Buffalo National Park in the Northwest Territories, said Monday the bids probably will be awarded on a first-come, first-served basis.

Last September 30 hunters, all from Canada and the U.S., each shot one buffalo during the first hunt ever allowed on the 17,300-square-mile game reserve's borders. The buffalo were overflow from the reserve.

Some Union Officials Fear Meany's Words Will Hurt

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Some AFL-CIO officials expressed fear today that President George Meany's criticism of a Negro congressman may boomerang against achieving organized labor's political and legislative goals.

These officials said privately they are worried that Meany's remarks may tend to harden Negro workers' feelings against the AFL-CIO and result in even more difficulty in getting labor-wanted measures through Congress.

Meany said Monday that Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-N.Y.), due to become chairman of the House Labor and Education Committee next year, is a "terrible person" to head the committee.

The AFL-CIO chief said Powell has a poor congressional voting and attendance record and stirs up racial hatreds. Powell is in line to head the committee because the present chairman, Rep. Graham Barden (D-NC), is retiring from Congress.

There was no comment from Powell but one of Meany's colleagues on the AFL-CIO executive council, A. Phillip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, said Powell is no racist and deserves the chairmanship.

Randolph, also a Negro, said Powell's congressional attendance may need improving but his voting record on labor and civil rights is good. Other AFL-CIO chiefs said Meany's criticism was correct but he could have been more discreet.

Randolph clashed openly with Meany at the AFL-CIO convention in San Francisco last September over Randolph's proposal that the federation end racial segregation and white-only membership restrictions in some unions. Meany angrily inquired how Randolph had become a self-appointed guardian over Negroes.

Meany argued then for consistent persuasion toward compliance with AFL-CIO non-discrimination policies. One railroad union, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, has since eliminated a ban on Negro members.

Only one other national AFL-CIO union, Meany said Monday, still has a white-only rule. This is the Brotherhood of Firemen and Engineers. Meany said the union will be allowed a reasonable time to effect a change, but the federation eventually may have to act.

End 100 Hours Prayer Service

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—Students at a little Bible college here completed 100 hours of praying, singing and confessing their sins Monday night.

Outside the chapel at the Central Bible Institute, Dean of Women Lottie Rieckhoff told a newsman: "this is doing them more good than two or three years of classes."

The institute president, the Rev. J. Robert Ashcroft, said the marathon prayer service "is a practical demonstration" of his theory of religious education.

The institute is operated by the Assemblies of God, a fundamentalist denomination which makes its world headquarters in Springfield. The 350 students are studying for the ministry.

The spontaneous prayer meeting began Thursday night after a special service by the Rev. Warren Litzman of Waxahatchie, Tex. The evangelist, who has been conducting campus services for more than a week, remained in the chapel most of the time.

Class work has stopped at the school. There was an attempt to hold some classes Monday but, as a student said, "they weren't really classes at all."

Faculty members joined the students in the chapel, where the crowd varied from 200 to 350.

Many of the students serve as pastors of tiny rural churches in this Ozark Mountain area.

Two students, the dean said, had confessed to cheating on tests.

A newsman approached a coed as she left the prayer service and asked: "is there so much to pray about?"

"Are you kidding," the girl replied. "It's a wonderful experience."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market made a mild and unconvincing recovery today with trading light early this afternoon. Gains of fractions to a point or so among key stocks outnumbered losers.

The list was higher from the start in a continuation of the rebound from sharp losses which began Monday afternoon. After about an hour of fairly broad advance, however, the upward drive weakened and a number of stocks replaced gains with losses.

Steels canceled early gains and were mostly lower. Auto stocks were mixed at best.

Rails, airlines, tobaccos, chemicals and mail order-retails kept a generally higher tone.

Magma Copper, which reached a 1959-60 low Monday, rebounded about 2 points then shaved the gain. Aldeus Inc. met demand rose more than 2.

General Time and Bell & Howell rose more than a point apiece.

U.S. Steel, Republic Steel and General Motors were down about a point each. Jones & Laughlin and American Motors were up slightly.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .60 to 215.90 with the industrials up .60, the rails up .70 and the utilities up .30.

U.S. government bonds were lower.

Report Of Plane Crash Results In Search Of Area

Greenville Rescue Squad personnel joined in a search with members of the Washington Rescue Squad and Beaufort County Deputy Sheriffs last night for a plane which was reported to have crashed several miles south of Washington, near highway U.S. 17.

According to reports, a burning plane allegedly crashed south of Chocowinity about 9 p.m. Searchers covered the area by car and were unable to spot any wreckage.

Later, a search plane from the Cherry Point Marine Air Base was sent to the scene and discovered a small blaze in a wooded area about two miles south of Black Jack. Investigators said the blaze was set by farmers who had burned a ditch bank during the afternoon and not a crashed aircraft.

No plane had been reported missing and the search was called off about 4 a.m. this morning.

Quiz Suspects In Algiers Uprising

ALGIERS (AP) — Police accompanied by hooded witnesses questioned suspects in several sections of Algiers today as they sought more persons responsible for the abortive Jan. 24 uprising of right-wing French settlers.

The witnesses hid their identity to avoid reprisals.

Sixteen persons, including a number of prominent Algiers residents, already have been charged with attacks against the state.

Adlai Going To Latin America

CHICAGO (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson leaves on a two-month tour of Latin America today, a trip he says he is making as a learner who hopes to return "a better citizen of the hemisphere."

"As we all know, some (Latin American) countries have suffered from dictatorship and corruption," the twice-defeated Democratic presidential candidate said in a state. "I want to understand these problems better."

English engineer George Stephenson invented the locomotive. His son, George, invented the tubular bridge.

Gales, Rain And Snow Take Lives

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Howling winds slammed sheets of rain and snow across Northern California Monday, killing at least three persons and forcing 1,000 others from their homes.

Another storm was reported on the way.

In the Sierra Nevada, a storm disrupted preparations for the Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, 200 miles east of here.

The storm flooded highways, knocked over power lines, ripped trees from the ground, closed rural schools, and left six to seven feet of water in small Eel River Canyon lumber towns.

The Eel River Canyon, near Eureka and 350 miles north of San Francisco, was hardest hit by the storms. More than 750 residents left the tiny lumber and eastern communities of Weath, Pepperwood and Myers Flat and fled to higher ground.

Stormy weather, with snow and strong winds, also hit other parts of the West.

Snow, with gusty northerly winds, was general in the northern and central Rockies and in parts of the plateau region.

Winds up to 69 miles an hour lashed Evanston and Rawlins, Wyo.

More than a foot of snow fell in Hailey, in south-central Idaho, while falls measured a half foot in the mountains near Salt Lake City. Winds up to 50 miles an hour swept the Salt Lake City area.

Heaviest snow amounts during the night were in Wyoming. The snow belt extended eastward into South Dakota, with snow flurries from the northern and eastern Great Lakes region into the central and northern Appalachians.

It was below zero in sections of North Dakota as the arctic air mass moved across the North Dakota-Minnesota borders.

Live Virus Polio Vaccine Tested

NEW YORK (AP) — Sabin live-virus polio vaccine has been given to 400 newborn infants at Bellevue Hospital in the past two months. All are reported well.

Purpose of the program at the large municipal hospital is to learn if newborn babies can be immunized for life.

Dr. Morris Greenberg, director of the city Health Department's Bureau of Preventable Diseases, said Monday that while the live-virus vaccine has been taken orally by millions of persons, the Bellevue programs is the first large test at such an early age.

Greenberg said parents of the babies consented to the tests.

Bellevue researchers believe that if the tests prove successful and if infants develop their own antibodies against polio within two or three months, the simplest means of immunizing will have been found.

Weakened polio virus strains, developed by Dr. Albert B. Sabin of Cincinnati, were given to the babies orally within 24 hours of birth. A few drops of the vaccine were placed on the tongue, or the throat was swabbed with it.

The Sabin vaccine has not yet been licensed by the U.S. surgeon general's office for general use.

The widely used vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas Salk of Pittsburgh is made of dead viruses of three types of paralytic polio.

Kinston Lawyer Files For Race

KINSTON, N.C. (AP) — Attorney Thomas J. White, who has served several terms in the House, announced today as a candidate for the State Senate.

White, who is chairman of a commission charged with directing the construction of a new legislative building in Raleigh, had been mentioned earlier as a possible candidate for lieutenant governor. However, he decided several weeks ago not to enter that race.

He followed up today's announcement by filing a senatorial candidate with the Lenoir County Board of Elections, the Seventh District, of which Lenoir is a part, is now represented by Sens. James O. Simpkins of New Bern and Luther Hamilton of Carteret. However, Simpkins is expected to run for Congress in the Third District.

Suggests Space Invasion Theory

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet scientist suggested today Sodom and Gomorrah might have been destroyed by a nuclear explosion set off by invaders from outer space.

M. Agrest, identified as a master of physicomathematical sciences, advanced the theory in the Literary Gazette rather than a scientific journal.

Agrest declared that the Biblical account of the destruction of the wicked cities of Sodom and Gomorrah takes on a new meaning when read in the light of modern science.

"In modern language," he said, "this legend says that the people were advised to leave the area of the future explosion, not to linger in the open and not to watch the blast. Those of the fugitives who looked back lost their sight and perished."

According to the Bible, Lot and his family were warned to get out of town by two divine messengers. As a hail of fire and brimstone devastated Sodom and Gomorrah, the Bible relates, Lot's wife looked back and was turned into a pillar of salt.

Agrest said the fire and brimstone really might have been a nuclear fuel dump blown up deliberately by the outer space people.

He cited the glassy bodies known as tektites found on various parts of the earth's surface. Existence of these small objects has never been satisfactorily explained by science. Agrest said they may have been formed by the impact of probe rockets sent to the earth before the raiders risked a landing.
