State President Talks To Club

Mrs. J. B. A. Daughtridge of Rocky Mount, state president of North Carolina Garden Clubs, was guest speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Greenville Garden Club on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Daughtridge attended the National Convention of Garden Clubs in St. Louis last spring. It was her first such convention, she said, but of special interest because the Permanent Home of National Garden Clubs was dedicated. She said she was happy to see the plaque and pillar bought by the North Carolina Garden Clubs, and to see that the chest, also given by North Carolina donors, had a prominent place on the floor. The next National Convention will be in Houston, Texas. Chartered buses will take members to Houston and back. Anyone interested can write Mrs. Daughtridge. Mrs. Daughtridge was also a representative when the National Board met in Albuquerque in the fall. It was at this meeting, she stated, when she realized how important the program chairman of a club can be. Good programs keep up the interest of the members and "the more you know about state and national work, the more interest you have."

Speaking about the national state, and local work of garden clubs, Mrs. Daughtridge explained that the Garden Clubs of the United States are divided into seven regions. Greenville is in the South Atlantic Region, the largest in territory and having one-third of the membership of the United States. North Carolina ranks near the top of states in membership. The National Board has recommended that this large region be divided, putting North Carolina in a region with Virginia, West Virginia, South Carolina and Kentucky. "We should be able to get a better regional director and better representation on the National Board," Mrs. Daughtridge said. "A great deal of work is involved, and one who has time, means, and ability is needed for your representation."

Mrs. Daughtridge's primary interest in state projects is the Elizabethan Garden in Manteo which she hopes to have finished during her reign of office. Other state projects are another Flower Show School in Raleigh this week, and plans for a landscape design school to be held in the spring. A "Visiting Gardens" book, listing gardens in North Carolina and the days and hours when they are open has been revised and is ready for the press. Histories are for sale "worth time to read and buy for libraries." Elizabethan stationery, post cards and calendars are projects of the state clubs. A State Convention will meet in Asheville in April. Special awards and Life Memberships will be given at this time. This year Life Membership money goes to the Elizabethan Garden.

Mrs. J. R. Bennett was also a guest and gave more details of the Elizabethan Garden Project. She said that the Elizabethan Garden is "the biggest project North Carolina Garden Clubs have ever undertaken and the most ambitious project any state Garden Club in the United States has ever undertaken." This was recognized at the National Convention.

"The Elizabethan Garden is exquisitely designed," said Mrs. Bennett. It is a "formal garden in the Elizabethan manner surrounded by a park that is a natural area." It is not a botanical garden. Features of Elizabethan Gardens of that era, such as mounds, terraces, mazes and sunken gardens are features of this garden. There is something in bloom or show each season in the garden.

(bulbs, camellias, azaleas, day lilies, dogwoods and others), but one of the most interesting of the natural features is an old oak tree that has been there since the old colonists were there.

Since this is an educational project, any gifts are tax exempt. Though much has been done, and all basic shrubbery planted, there is still money needed for items such as a spraying machine, furnishings for the Gate House.

Mrs. Bennett stated they have been asked why build a garden to a "lost cause," but she feels it is a "memorial to the daring, courage, and faith of the Lost Colonists." Daring, courage and faith are just as necessary now to build North Carolina. Mrs. Daughtridge and Mrs. Bennett invited the Greenville Club to "become a member of a group that can say 'This is my garden.'" During a question and answer period following the talks, stressing the courses that are given, the club was told "if you can learn to make good flower arrangements, you can do anything," as one learns balance, color besides and horticulture.

The president of the Greenville Garden Club, Mrs. F. E. Wells, welcomed other guests at the luncheon: Mrs. L. E. Ward, president, and Mesdames Walter Whitehurst and Gordon Goodman of the Druidian Garden Club; Mrs. Troy Dodson, president, and Mrs. P. E. Lansche of the Forest Hills Garden Club; Mrs. Ray Masten of the Brookgreen Garden Club; and Mesdames Charles Howard Sr., R. R. Ross, Guy Ev-

Mrs. Margaret Roberts was initiated into the Gamma Delta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority at a dinner meeting of the chapter Wednesday night. Mrs. Bill Goin officiated at the initiation.

Mrs. A. D. McArthur, Jr., president, opened the meeting with the ritual. She announced that the Executive Board had appointed Mrs. Ernest Cassick to replace Miss Bernice Cahoon as Recording Secretary. Miss Cahoon is moving to Englehard.

The members voted to send a contribution to the State Scholarship Fund. This fund is used for scholarships for teachers working with handicapped children. The Service Chairman reported that two visits had been made to the School for Trainable Children since the chapter last met. Refreshments and gifts were taken for the students.

Mrs. Goin, Mrs. B. C. Branch and Mrs. Cassick represented the local chapter at the Executive Board meeting in Fayetteville. A report was given by Mrs. Cassick and Mrs. Goin on this meeting. The next Board meeting will be held in Burlington in March and the members of the local chapter were urged to be present.

Hilton.

The April meeting will be on "Gardens of the Bible" by the Rev. Wm. M. Howard Jr. The date of the April meeting will be a week later than usual.

Mrs. P. E. Wells was nominated by the Greenville Garden Club as its candidate for outstanding club-woman for 1959.

Mrs. M. P. Hoot Uses Harvard Botanical Museum As Subject

BETHEL—Miss Camille Staton was hostess to the Round Table Book Club Tuesday. After the business meeting, the program chairman, Mrs. C. G. Garrenton, introduced Mrs. M. P. Hoot of Greenville as the speaker.

Mrs. Hoot gave a talk on the Harvard Botanical Museum. This museum contains over 3000 glass models and plants. There are 847 species of plant life and 164 families of flowering plants.

These delicate and intricate flowers and plants are the work of Leopold Blasker and his son, Rudolph Blasker, of Dresden, workers in glass. Their love and knowledge of botany and their patience and skill in shaping glass into forms of planting could not be passed on to others, so their collection has never been equalled. Mrs. Elizabeth E. Ware and her daughter authorized and financed this collection as a memorial to their father and husband, Dr. Charles Eliot Ware, a graduate of Harvard.

After her discussion, Mrs. Hoot showed colored slides of these glass flowers.

Mrs. John Staton read a poem appropriate to the thoughts of nature's beauty.

Assisted by her mother, the hostess, Miss Staton, served a mixed salad of Hawaiian fruits, sandwiches, coffee, and homemade strawberry cream in crisp megringues.

Eggs, Pork Plentiful

RALEIGH—Eggs and pork are among a long list of foods which foodshoppers will find plentiful during March, says Mrs. Ruby P. Uzzie, consumer marketing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service.

Egg production will continue high until April and storage supplies of pork are heavier than last year. Pork from the fall pig crop, third largest on record, also is due to reach food markets.

Other foods on the plentiful list will include: cabbage, carrots, celery, oranges and frozen orange concentrate, canned freestone peaches, cranberry sauce, shrimp, rice, peanuts and peanut butter, almonds, filberts, raisins, milk and milk products, and lard. Shrimp, long a favorite, is plentiful, particularly frozen shrimp.

Food stores also have generous supplies of rice to go along with shrimp dishes.

March supplies of fresh oranges from Florida will be chiefly Valencia. Supplies of canned freestone peaches are at a new high because of a record pack in California.

Cabbage, carrots, and celery top the plentiful list of fresh vegetables. Florida and Texas have larger winter cabbage crops, and carrot production in Texas and California is expected to run a fourth larger than last year.

Use nutritious peanuts and peanut products often because 236 million pounds of peanuts have been used for these products and are available on the market in good supply.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

Magnolias move best when blooming or just after they finish blooming. Move them with a good ball of earth and plant in a well drained area where soil has been enriched with cow manure. Soil should be slightly acid (pH. 5 to 6).

The old favorite is the magnolia grandiflora. It should be used as a specimen in the lawn area, and makes an ideal plant to frame the house. Let its branches grow clean down to the ground.

Never prune off these lower limbs unless they interfere with walking or present a traffic hazard. If planted where they belong, this will not happen.

Magnolias seem to resent being transplanted and fall to bloom until they get over the shock of moving. Much them with rotten cow manure and keep them watered well and they will come around. You never have to prune these plants, if placed correctly, with the exception of the removal of dead wood when it appears.

It is the deciduous magnolias that you must get a variety of color. The magnolia stellata (Star Magnolia) grows to about 12 feet in height. When everything works in its favor, it is a beautiful sight. It has a habit of blooming early and late frosts, sometimes, ruins its crop of white flowers. This is its main drawback.

Other star magnolias are the magnolia S. rosea, with pink flowers, and the magnolia S. rubra with dark pink or purplish red flowers.

The saucer magnolia, magnolia soulangeana, sometimes reaches a height of 20 to 30 feet and have a spread almost equal to its height. They start blooming at the age of 3 to 5 years. Their large waxy flowers come before the leaves. Magnolia s. alba is almost white, the lami is rosy purple outside and white inside the flower.

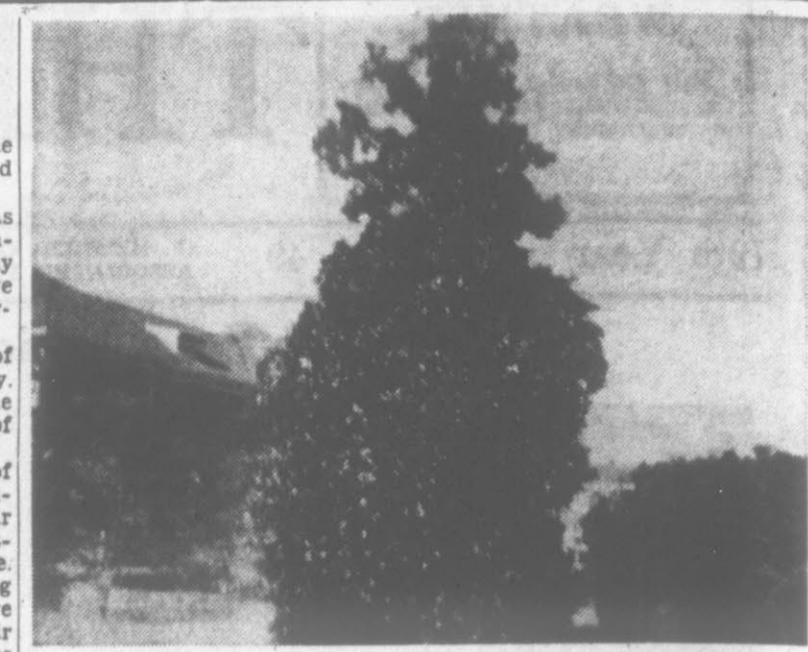

If your early flowering deciduous magnolias run into frost trouble too often to suit you, try some of the late flowering types. Wilson Magnolia grows to about 10 or 12 feet in height. Its creamy white flowers should come in about late May or June. The Chinese Magnolia has flowers similar to the above, but they are larger and sweeter.

Plant these deciduous magnolias where they can grow without interference. Their shrubby bushy habit of growth are not conducive to being used as shade trees. Never trim off their lower limbs.

All magnolias need plenty of moisture. Don't let them get dry. Magnolias are, said by some botanists, the true aristocrats of the plant world.

They range from the height of 12 feet to the height of their tallest kiteman, the Tulip Poplar (Liriodendron tulipifera) which often shoots up a 100 feet or more. They have been with us a long time. Some say they thrived before the ice age. As interesting as their past, their future in our gardens seems very bright. Plant one and enjoy its beauty.

MAGNOLIAS do grow into tremendous plants of beauty. Some are known to be 20 to 30 feet high.

There Could Be Saving In Paving

Have you traveled over a dirt street in the past few days?

If you have, you are well aware of the fact that Greenville, like a good many other communities, could do with more miles of paved streets to replace those that become lanes of ruts and mudholes in periods of rainy weather such as we have had lately.

As soon as the rainy weather ends, countless hours by machines and employees of the city's street department will be invested in putting the dirt streets back in as good condition as possible. The ruts will be smoothed over, the holes filled, and the trenches left by water running into the ditches will be no longer visible... until the next wet spell, that is.

Then the whole process will begin all over again. In the course of a year, Greenville, and other cities as well, spend thousands upon thousands of dollars seeking to maintain its dirt streets in reasonable passable condition. In the course of a few years the city will spend on some dirt streets many times the amount it would cost to install curb, gutter and paving and thus eliminate the street maintenance problem.

Greenville has made progress in this direction in recent years, but there is still a great deal of work to be done before the city can relax its efforts in this direction. In spite of the fact that Greenville has paved many miles of streets in recent years, there are still many miles of dirt streets within the corporate limits which require almost constant maintenance work week after week, month after month, year after year.

Revamping The Highway Patrol

By LYNN NISBET

HIGHWAY PATROL — The highway patrol is in process of being reorganized for administrative purposes, in order to make it more mobile and readily responsive to calls for service. No immediate increase in personnel is contemplated, but the present five troops will be re-organized into six troops—each under command of a captain and the appropriate number of lieutenants and non-commissioned officers. This will mean promotions for some 20-odd members of the patrol, and in most instances promotion will entail transfer to another area. The positions of captain, lieutenant, sergeant and corporal in existing troops are already filled.

The highway patrol is a statewide organization and promotions go by seniority over the state rather than in particular troops. For this reason it is necessary to move some older men into new areas. Ed Scheidt, commissioner of motor vehicles, and Col. Dave Lambert, commander of the patrol, say that no transfers have been made against the will of the men being moved.

There have been two unfortunate inferences in news stories about the pending patrol reorganization. One emphasized the fact that the plan had been approved by the Advisory Budget Commission. Implication there was that the budget group was invading the legislative field. Truth of the matter is the law vests in the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles full authority to organize, reorganize and adjust the patrol to best meet the needs of the public for its services. The budget group was involved only because of need for authorization of transfer of certain funds. It was further necessary to get approval of the Personnel Department for additional job classifications. This all was routine and of no newsworthy importance.

FUNCTIONS — There was, however, a one disturbing element in the list of reasons given by the patrol command for desirability of making it more immediately responsive to calls for duty. Buried deep in the list was the suggestion that increased labor and racial tensions made it desirable, if not necessary, to have the highway patrol more mobile and available for duty on short notice.

Even the casual reference to the general police functions of the patrol is disturbing to those who have thought all along it should be dedicated to policing highway traffic. The original act setting up the highway patrol assigned primary obligation to regulate highway traffic, but provided for the patrol to come to the aid of sheriffs and other peace officers upon official call and to perform certain general police functions upon assignment of the Governor.

From establishment of the patrol in 1929 until now there have been those who thought it ought to be a general State police force, with jurisdictional power of arrest paralleling, and in some instances exceeding, that of local law enforcement officers in all criminal violations. This idea has never been generally accepted, and is not popular now.

But there can be no doubt that the free use of patrolmen in connection with the textile strike at Henderson last year and assignment of patrolmen to study the problem of adequate confinement of inmates in units of the State prison system, represents use of the patrol in areas other than highway safety. So it is that, although buried deep in a list of activities, the reference to labor and racial tensions as one reason for needing mobility and facility in patrol assignments is somewhat disturbing.

IVORY TOWER — A friend called the other day and said he was involved in an argument about the meaning of the term "ivory tower." He thought it ought to be "ivy lower," on the theory that ivy sort of separated the elite from the common folks, in the sense of the "ivy league" in social and athletic circles.

We had recourse to the recognized authority in this office, "Brewer's Dictionary of Phrase and Fable." There we found that ivory tower is defined as a "place of refuge from the world and its strivings and posturings." We found also, that the term was first used by Saine-Beuve, a French newspaperman and philosopher of the early 19th century, and has since come into common usage as a symbol of seclusion from the everyday worries that beset mankind.

There is definite implication that the ivory tower does not afford complete protection. A cross reference is to the Gates of Dreams, and the notation that dreams which pass through the Gates of Ivory delude, while those which pass through the Gates of Horn come true. There is further explanation that the word "ivory" derives from a Greek word meaning to cheat.

All of which may mean that the dwellers in ivory towers, who rate themselves as above and apart from the common run of folks, are not as fine as they like to think, and may be fooling themselves more than they are fooling the rest of the people.

A major effort to hardsurface as many dirt streets as possible would necessitate a considerable outlay of city funds in a short period of time. But in the long run taxpayers probably would invest less dollars than they now do by paying for the constant repair work our dirt streets require.

And aside from the long range savings, think of the added convenience if most of our dirt streets were paved.

It Just Goes To Show What Can Be Done

Pitt County need have no fear of losing its membership in the regional blood bank so long as its citizens respond to the program as they did this week.

Pitt lacked only one pint of contributing its 240-pints of blood for the two-day visit of the bloodmobile here this week. The response was in sharp contrast to the meager showing the bloodmobile has received in Pitt on some of its visits in the past.

In Farmville on Tuesday 97 pints of blood were donated by residents of that community, and on Wednesday in Greenville the bloodmobile received 142 pints of blood.

Such response clearly indicates the interest of the citizenry in Pitt County's continuing a member in good standing in the program. It is evidenced that the people of these communities recognize the tremendous advantages which are offered by the county's participation in the program.

Through its affiliation with the Red Cross blood bank, Pitt County has available to it not only an unlimited supply of blood to be used in treating its ill, but it likewise has a ready supply of even rare types of blood on short notice without the necessity of seeking out special donors on the spur of the moment.

Over the years Pitt has participated in the program, there have been many periods in which the county withdrew from the blood bank more blood than its citizens donated. Obviously, that situation could not continue indefinitely if Pitt were to continue its participation in the program. Now, the response in the county to appeals to donate blood when the bloodmobile visits here has greatly improved.

Pitt County, in its own best interest, should continue to support the bloodmobile program, and see that it remains a member in good standing in the program which has meant so much to citizens of this county in recent years.

All Involved In New Conditions

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are two methods of treating a headache. You can use drugs to suppress the pain or you can tackle the underlying cause.

The current debate over the adequacy of U.S. defenses seems to be concerned with nothing more than temporary relief from pain.

For the one defense issue seems to be: Is the administration's reluctance to increase military spending reducing this nation to a second-class power? Broadly speaking, the Republicans hold that defense spending is adequate, while the Democrats take an opposite view.

Apparently lost in this election year argument is the possibility that the United States is spending enough money, but is not spending it wisely. Why?

From the time men first employed sticks and stones in battle, new weapons have introduced in warfare so slowly it became an axiom that each new war was fought with weapons developed late in the last.

That axiom no longer applies. It is true that long-range missiles were introduced by the Germans in World War II. The United States introduced nuclear weapons.

But there is no one alive who has any first-hand knowledge of a war in which missiles would deliver thermonuclear warheads at 16,000 miles per hour.

All the military experience accumulated over 5,000 years of recorded history is now obsolete, if not altogether obsolete, where this new weapon is concerned.

Yet each participant in the current political defense debate must rely on military men, the supposed experts, for guidance. Each can turn up a military man who can support his point of view.

And that points up the underlying cause of the headache. The United States is trying to cope with defense problems that are totally new by employing a military machine designed to fight World War II.

The military men themselves, accustomed to thinking in terms of service, Army, Navy and Air Force, cannot agree on what needs to be done.

In principle, many of these uniformed advisers agree that enough money is being spent, but they disagree on how it should be spent and the priorities assigned to the spending. Each thinks his service should have more to meet certain contingencies.

In the current defense debate, few men of major public stature have yet raised the question whether the entire defense structure shouldn't be overhauled and streamlined.

Briefly, few have raised the question whether new means should not be found to cope with an entirely new situation, a situation unprecedented in all history.

Strength For Today

NEW TOWN TO THINKING

Do you have a complaining spirit? If you do, snap out of it and come to. For you are truly in a nightmare. You are skirting the encircling of hell whereas God intends that you walk through the Elysian fields.

There are genuine causes for complaint in this life. We often pay large amounts for service we do not receive. We purchase goods and find them shoddy. We trust certain people and they prove false. We look out over the whole of human life and see in it a tremendous amount of evil and selfishness. If we want to chew our pills and linger unwholesomely on the bitterness of them, we have plenty of opportunity to do so.

But what an unhappy state of mind! How much better to accept the fact that there is imperfection in the world and in all of us and agree to get along—as God appears to get along—by overlooking a lot of human imperfections and cherishing the things which spring from love and good will. And let no one tell you that the amount of goodness in the world is inconsequential. It is tremendous. It is divine in origin and significance. It is immeasurable in quantity.

Snap out of the complaining spirit. Get yourself away from it as rapidly and with as much determination as if you were fleeing a house which is about ready to collapse. For the complaining life will collapse if indeed it has not already done so.

"If there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things." (Philippians 4:8)

The Money-Tossing Game

By ALVIN TAYLOR

Notes On This & That

The National Guard had instructions to place guards on all public buildings during its "Operations Hornet's Nest" last week.

The Army Reserve Training Center on the U.S. 13 bypass is a public building.

So a National Guardsman was posted there. We didn't learn whether he hailed any reservists.

We spotted a young man coming out of an Alcoholic Beverage Control store in Greenville, package in arms, Wednesday.

Suddenly the package slipped. He caught it before it ever hit the ground, regained his composure and proceeded on the way.

If we had been a scout for the New York Yankees we would have signed him up. What a short stop that boy would make.

Speaking of pints—blood we're referring to now. Your columnist took the plunge and donated his first one when the Bloodmobile was in town Wednesday.

As we went through the various steps leading to the blood letting, a sweet young thing popped a thermometer in our mouth. Then she turned to something else.

Suddenly she whirled around. "You just went through the line," she exclaimed.

Turned out Brother Bill Taylor, a red head as is your columnist, had just been through. Well, I always tell my brother Bill, make a good name for the two of us.

It took your columnist a long time to get up nerve enough to donate blood. We went through several steps and finally got to a nurse. By that time we were ready to back out.

She went through a list of various diseases and finally got to the flu. We seized upon it. "Yep, we sure did have it," we replied, "about three weeks ago."

The nurse studied the matter for a moment and then went over to ask Dr. Potts if your columnist was suitable material.

The doctor peered at us and we hoped for a reprieve.

"What, that great big boy?" he said. "Send him on through."

So then it was behind a curtain where somebody directed us to a table. Standing by was a cute little brunette nurse and we felt better.

We don't know whether it was the nurse or not, but from then on it was easy. We hardly felt the needle and it only took a few minutes to fill the bottle hanging at our side.

After that, we had free coffee with Dr. Ray Minges who had also just donated.

Believe me, it's a snap.

Opinions In Brief

"The country has come a long way since former President Grover Cleveland vetoed an appropriation of $25,000 to buy seed corn for drought-stricken Texas farmers. On that celebrated occasion Cleveland contended that 'though the people support the government, the government should not support the people.'" —The Daily Oklahoman.

"A Mid-Western utility, ressed by higher costs, is seeking a rate increase of $2 million. It doesn't need $2 million, but this is where the money goes: State sales tax, $60,000; U. Other Editors Saying May Again Do Impossible

(Goldboro News-Argue)

The story of how Duplin citizens rebuilt and revitalized and consolidated their schools still brings amazed comment. With complete agreement from every community, the school patrons moved as one without a single voice raised in angry opposition. They had before them a study showing how their too many small high schools had failed their children.

Now those thoughtful Dupliners seem well on their way again to doing the impossible with reference to their schools. The county to complete its modernization and improvement program needs facilities which will cost $2.2 million. The items are not pressing emergencies but they must come.

So Dupliners propose to save the $1.2 million in interest which a bond issue of that total would cost over 20 years. Instead they are favoring the levying of a special tax of 25 cents on the $100 valuation over a period of six years to meet the needs. It is a pay-as-you-go plan and also it is a save as you go plan.

There long has existed in Wayne a thoughtful group of citizens who wanted some such plan set up for capital outlay needs for schools. These would add say 10 cents or whatever sum, more or less, would be required and accumulate a fund for buildings. It would save taxpayers big money by advanced planning.

Most simply and logically Duplin has shown how money is saved taxpayers by their plan. Here is their explanation:

The average taxpayers in Duplin County, not including corporations, pays $45.37 in County taxes per year. If the rate is increased .25 cents on each hundred dollars assessed valuation, he will pay $53.01, or an increase of $7.64. If the proposed school building plan of the Board of Education is adopted and put into effect it will cost the average taxpayer $45.84 over a six-year period.

The annual additional cost of $7.64 amounts to less than three Cents per week. A package of cigarettes per week cost $1.44 per year, so the increase in taxes would amount to about two-thirds of a package of cigarettes per week, roughly two-thirds of a bottle of beer per week.

A package of chewing gum per day for one year would pay the average taxpayer's increase in taxes for almost three years.

The cost of a ten-cent cigar per day for a year would pay the average taxpayer's increase in taxes for almost 5 years.

It will cost the average taxpayer .0209 cents per day — just a fraction above 2 cents per day to implement this plan.

Business Will Have To Be Good

By ELMER ROESSNER

The public may be fooled by the Administration's $84 billion budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

According to the Presidential budget message, receipts are expected to be $84 billion, expenditures $79.8 billion, leaving a surplus of $4.2 billion.

But the $84 billion receipts depends on many things, including a gross national product (the total production of all goods and services) of $50 billion, a personal income of $402 billion, and corporation profits of $51 billion.

Here is how those figures compare with last year, in billions:

Gross national product	$479.5	$510.0
Personal income	380.2	402.0
Corporation profits	49.8	51.0

*Estimated

Therefore, 1960 will have to be much lustier than 1959 to provide the taxable income and corporation profits necessary for a $84 billion intake.

The $84 billion total is also based on the assumption that Congress will extend the present corporate tax rate and postpone scheduled cuts in excises (which it may do, except for the cut in the cabaret tax); that it will repeal the reductions in transportation and telephone taxes (which it is unlikely to do); that it will increase the tax on aviation fuel (which it is unlikely to do); and that it will increase postal rates (which it almost surely won't).

These items could reduce budgeted receipts by more than $1 billion.

And if business does not rally—or if inflation does not flourish—the 1960 income and corporation taxes may be far less than expected.

"LET'S SPEND IT!"

Even if business is as prosperous as expected, there will be a conjectural surplus of only something over $3 billion.

But plans have already been made to shoot these billions for various projects.

The Armed Forces have mounted one of the greatest scare campaigns in history to get more money for missiles, planes, anti-missile missiles and other spending. Liberals are forming ranks behind plans to use billions to finance housing. Voters are massing behind proposals to lend billions more for building schools. And few indeed are the Representatives and Senators who have not plans and bills to seize some of that expected surplus and wait it over their election districts.

The budget may fool the people in another way. It causes the casual observer to think that the government takes on-

Their Weak Basis

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

COPYRIGHT, 1960, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

Recently one of the really authentic leaders of anti-Communist activity in the United States wrote to me, "God help us from the anti-Communists."

There are so many varieties of them and some of them are so mixed up. They have a "feeling" against Communism, against Russia, against many things, but they do not know why. They have an emotional antagonism to Communism but they refuse to do the homework required to know of a force that came into the world more than a century ago and now dominates the lives of close to a billion human beings. Instinctive opposition to so colossal a force is not good enough.

The pamphlet prepared for the Air Force by Homer H. Hyde is supposed to indoctrinate members of the Air Force against Communism. But Hyde does not know where his data about clergymen infiltrating the Protestant churches came from. He says that he got it from Circuit Riders, Inc., of Cincinnati, from Dr. Billy James Hargis, a radio evangelist of Tulsa, from an editorial in the San Antonio "Light" and a pamphlet issued by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Actually this data appeared originally in the "American Mercury" in an article signed by Dr. J. B. Matthews, a well-informed student of the American Communist problems, whose records on the subject of the American Communist problems, whose records on the subject are perhaps the most complete. At the moment Dr. Matthews' article appeared in the "American Mercury," he was to have been appointed in charge of research for the McCarthy Committee. The article created such a furor that Matthews withdrew from the post. However, Matthews never properly defended himself. He could truthfully have said that a paragraph had been "edited" into his material which made it more sensational than it would have been had it been left as it was.

An issue at stake in this controversy is the Revised Standard Version of the Bible. Be it remembered that the Bible was originally written in Hebrew, Aramaic and Greek. Each English version is a translation direct or indirect from these languages. The first English translation of the Bible from the Hebrew and the Greek was that of William Tyndale, who was burned at the stake in 1536 for doing it.

There have been a great many translations of and commentaries upon both the Old and New Testaments. One of the major difficulties about the King James version is that English is a changing language. Words have different meanings and different weights in a fluid language such as English is.

I recall once being pestered by a member of one of the sects that base themselves upon the Book of Daniel which they accept as final. This fellow insisted upon converting me to his point of view; I preferred my own wickedness. Finally, in arrogant anger, I told him to learn how to read Daniel in its original tongue and I shall discuss it with him. Of course, I was wrong. It is not essential for one to know every language but it is to be assumed that translations will be improved as scholarship is sharpened and it is also to be assumed that each era will translate works of significance into its own idiom.

When all of the Dead Sea Scrolls shall have become available, additional alterations in some texts may be made and scholars will quarrel about them for a century.

The who are not scholars may be very embarrassed when they find themselves confronted by very early texts in original languages which they cannot read. As regards the Old Testament, a scholar must be fluent in Hebrew and Aramaic; he must have studied the Five Books of Moses (the Masoretic text), the Samaritan and Syriac versions, probably the Coptic text, the Targum, the Midrash, and much more. It is a life-time of devotion but there are Jewish and Christian scholars who are at work all the time. Dr. Nelson Glueck, of the (Continued on Page 5)

A Prisoner for Christ

THE CIRCUMSTANCES WHICH LED TO PAUL'S UNEXPECTED AND UNWARRANTED ARREST

Scripture—Acts 21:17-22:29.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

IN OUR last lesson we said that the narrative carried the apostle Paul to the end of his third missionary journey, and as far as we know, this was the last missionary journey of the apostle, although he probably lived at least six more years. The reason we do not speak of another missionary journey is because Paul, in coming to Jerusalem, is unexpectedly set upon, arrested, and then tried for one reason or another (five trials in Jerusalem, and three in Caesarea—and a sixth one in Rome of which we have no record). These five trials carry us down to the 26th chapter.

"Paul was not only advised to join in the purification rites, but to pay the expenses of all offerings. By this, said the elders, the whole multitude of Jerusalem believers and the rest of the population will see for themselves that you conform to the law of Moses and the ancestral customs."—F. F. Bruce. "He was also advised to take the vow, which was an ancient custom to thank God for some special blessing, like recovery from sickness, some piece of good fortune, and the like, or in order to obtain some blessing from God. These vows meant that a person would live priest-like as one for the time especially dedicated to God."—R. C. H. Lenski. "When the seven days had almost ended, the Jews which were of Asia, when they saw Paul in the temple, stirred up all the people, and laid hands on him, crying out, Men of Israel, help! this is the man, that teacheth all men everywhere against the people and the law, and this place," and they dragged Paul out of the temple and closed the doors.—Acts 21:27-30.

"There was a time when Paul was in favor with the Sanhedrin in Jerusalem, which now attempts his death; there was a time when the Jerusalem church feared the persecutions of Paul of Tarsus, but they now welcome him with open arms, recognizing him to be the greatest of all the Christian apostles of their century."—I am quoting from the Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith's Peloubet's Notes. "And when we were come to "Endure hardness, as a good soldier of Jesus Christ."—II Timothy 2:3.

Jerusalem, the brethren received us gladly. And the day following Paul went in with us unto James; and all the elders were present. And when he had saluted them, he declared particularly what things God had wrought among the Gentiles by his ministry.

As they were about to kill him, word of the uproar came to Jerusalem's military chief. He "immediately took soldiers and centurions, and ran down unto them; and when they saw the chief captain and the soldiers, they left beating of Paul."

"And when they heard it, they glorified the Lord, and said unto him, Thou seest, brother, how many thousands of Jews there are which believe; and they are all zealous of the law."—Acts 21:17-20.

"Then the chief captain came near and commanded that he be bound with two chains; and demanded who he was, and what he had done."—Acts 21:31-33.

"When Paul came to Jerusalem, the elders of the church frankly told him that among the thousands of Jews who had become Christians, many were still 'zealous for the law' and desired Paul to join with them in purification, with four men who apparently contracted some ceremonial defilement and had to undergo a purification rite in the temple.

"Paul answered: 'I am a man which am a Jew of Tarsus, a city in Cilicia, a citizen of no mean city (Rome); and, I beseech thee, suffer me to speak unto the people.'"

"Seven days had to elapse before a Nazarene who had contracted such defilement could be purified; such a man shaved his head on the seventh day and brought his offering on the eighth day.

"And when there was silence, he spoke to them in Hebrew.—Acts 21:39-40. "When the chief captain heard he was a Roman citizen, he said, 'With a great sum obtained I this freedom.' Paul said, 'I was free born.'—Acts 22:29-30.

"Then straightway they departed from him (Paul) which should have examined him; and the chief captain also was afraid, after he knew that he was a Roman, and because he had bound him." The next day he freed him.—Acts 22:29-30.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate subcommittee said today prompt changes are needed in the administration of U.S. foreign aid to Viet Nam. The subcommittee headed by Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), assistant Democratic leader, said a lengthy study convinced it the aid program has served a highly useful purpose. But it said the nonmilitary aid program lacks a clear-cut plan with specific integrated goals, while such goals do exist in the military aid program.

Urge Changes In Aid To Viet Nam

The report said that about 60 per cent of U.S. aid to that nation goes to support nearly 100 per cent of Viet Nam's military budget. Pentagon figures showed this week that Viet Nam military aid from 1954 to last June 30 amounted to $496,285,000. Contributions this year will total $74,482,000. In calling for "a new positive premise for aid to Viet Nam," the subcommittee asked that nonmilitary grant aid, which topped 182 million dollars in the year ended last June 30, be cut progressively. It said that as soon as the country is on the way to reasonable economic self-reliance all grant aid should be stopped. Loans and technical help would be continued. The investigation was launched off by newspaper charges last summer that the U.S. aid program had been a "fiasco" in Viet Nam. The report said "the specific charges do not generally lend themselves to proof or disproof by a legislative body." The report criticized "top-heavy" control of the aid program in Washington and urged more initiative be taken by U.S. aid officials in Viet Nam. The report said between 1,400 and 1,500 Americans are directly or indirectly employed in Viet Nam by the U.S. government. It said the rents paid by the United States for personnel in Saigon are excessive by American standards—some of them running as high as $645 per month.

Ghost Writers' Books Seized In Probing Charges

NEW YORK (AP) — The district attorney's office has seized the books of four ghost writing agencies in a probe of charges that college students and professors have had these and term papers written for them for a fee.

After gathering up the records of the four unidentified agencies Thursday, Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said the investigation started about three weeks ago on information from the New York World-Telegram and Sun.

Alex Benson, 32, a staff writer for the newspaper, began an investigation two months ago posing as a ghost writer. His activities were known to Hogan, the newspaper said, and the money Benson earned was turned over to the district attorney.

Benson said his investigation disclosed: Cheating scholars pay up to $3,000 to agencies for writing theses necessary for doctorates, and smaller amounts for master's theses.

College students pay from $50 to $350 for ghost-written term papers.

Benson said he was paid $40 to substitute for a student at a final exam at Teachers College, an affiliate of Columbia University.

Dr. Hollis L. Caswell, president of Teachers College, expressed deep concern at the charge, and said the college has its own probe under way.

Benson also charged that one college professor at a southwestern university — not identified — paid $1,250 for reworking of his doctoral thesis. He added that the professor later sent a thank-you note to the agency and said he had received his Ph. D. on schedule.

Officials said that the ghost-writing agencies also provide legitimate ghost writing of speeches and articles, typing, editing and composing letters.

But, said Hogan, sections 224 and 225 of the state education law makes it a misdemeanor to fraudulently obtain academic degrees or college course credits. Such violations are punishable by imprisonment up to three years, a $500 fine, or both.

Conscience Costs Him Lengthy Prison Term

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — For 21 years Edwin Barnett, 49, was plagued with a guilty conscience for his part in a strange murder plot.

His conscience caused him to slash his throat and make what he thought was a death bed confession. He later lost his leg and Thursday he lost his freedom.

Mecklenburg County Patrolman E. B. Baucom testified that Barnett told this story:

In 1938 Barnett took out a life insurance policy of less than $500 on the life of Leroy Massey, 21. Dec. 3, 1938, Barnett, Massey and a man known only as Slick went to a race track at nearby Pineville where Slick struck and killed Massey with a tool. All are Negroes.

Barnett telephoned police the following day and told them where to find Massey's body. Officers were unable to locate the body. Then Barnett went to the insurance company and attempted to collect. He was told he couldn't collect without a body. When the insurance man went into a back room, Barnett thought he was going to notify police and he fled.

Eight days after the slaying, rabbit hunters found the body.

Finally, on June 6, 1959, Barnett was arrested in South Boston, Va., on a burglary charge. However, Barnett thought he was being arrested for the 1938 murder. He slashed his throat on the spot and believing himself mortally wounded, related his part in it.

Barnett was taken to the Virginia State Penitentiary where he fell from the third tier of the cell block, resulting in the loss of a leg. Guards there said he jumped. Barnett maintained he fell.

Barnett pleaded guilty to second degree murder in Mecklenburg Superior Court Thursday and was sentenced to from 20-25 years, to be served after completing a term in Virginia.

Patrolman Baucom said if Barnett had not made his admission he likely never would have been connected with Massey's death.

Won't Help Set Execution Date

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker, accused of prejudice by Caryl Chessman's attorney, has disqualified himself from setting a new execution date for the convicted sex-terrorist.

The move was interpreted as an effort to avoid further legal entanglements in the complex case that could lead to another appeal. Walker disqualified himself Thursday after Chessman's attorney, A.L. Wirin, filed an affidavit of prejudice against the jurist.

Wirin said the disqualification was "a significant victory in Chessman's struggle to secure fairness from the California courts."

Chessman's counsel had criticized Walker for conferring with the district attorney's staff. Walker said the meetings were on strictly procedural matters and did not reflect upon his judicial behavior.

Chessman was to have died in the gas chamber last Friday but was given a 60-day reprieve by Gov. Edmund G. Brown. He has been on San Quentin's death row for 11½ years.

Training Cubans Costly To U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six Cuban cadets being trained at the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station in Texas are costing American taxpayers $249,000 this year. That figures out to more than $41,000 per cadet.

Last year, $543,000 in Cuban military aid was spent to train the six cadets and other Cuban military personnel and to buy some equipment. The equipment did not include weapons and ammunition.

Another $1,089,000 spent last year on the Dominican Republic, went for "training ammunition required by a Dominican vessel during training exercises with the U.S. Fleet," and for equipment and spare parts for ships.

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, listed the expenditures Thursday for newsmen. A recent Defense Department report included the military aid allotment to Cuba.

White said he wanted to emphasize that no inference should be drawn that the United States was sending arms and ammunition to the Dominican Republic and Cuba in violation of its own policy of banning arms shipments into the Caribbean area.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) said Thursday in a Senate speech that military aid to Latin-American nations apparently has been increased in what he called a flagrant violation of the Mutual Security Act.

Morse said Congress last year specifically provided that military aid funds to Latin-American nations should not be increased. He said he had been led to believe that military aid to Cuba had ceased in March 1958 and to the Dominican Republic about the same time.

Suspend Guards In Prison Escape

WEST JEFFERSON, N.C. (AP) — Five guards at the Ashe County Prison Camp, blamed for the getaway of five prisoners, will be suspended from their jobs for 10 to 15 days.

Freedom was short for the convicts, who crawled out a hole in the camp's bathroom roof between 2 a.m. and 5 a.m. Thursday. All were caught before the day was over.

Prisons Director W. F. Bailey said in Raleigh that all five guards at the close security camp for tough felons were to blame in some degree for the escape. The suspended guards were: Fred Howell, guard sergeant; Garrett Hardin, Austin Lyles, Charlie Jones and Judge Jones.

The recaptured convicts were: Ray H. Jessup, 28, Greensboro, serving 9 years for breaking and entering and assault; Samuel M. Wilson, 42, Troy, 20 years for breaking, entering and assault; Larry James Mauldin, 20, Concord, 4 years, larceny and escape; James R. Puckett, 35, Greensboro, 6 years, breaking and entering; and John H. Reed, 28, Johnson City, N.Y., 6 years, robbery and escape.

ECC Faculty Artist Is Honored In Va. Show

John Gordon, faculty member of the department of art at East Carolina College, has just received notification that he is winner of a purchase prize in the Leche Memorial Exhibition of Contemporary Virginia and North Carolina Painting, being shown currently at the Norfolk, Va., Museum of Art. The exhibition has been staged annually for the past eleven years.

Mr. Gordon's entry in the art show was announced earlier this month as winner of a prize award in the exhibition.

"Still Life with Oyster Baskets," a recently completed oil painting by Mr. Gordon, was chosen for the two prizes from 502 paintings entered in the Norfolk art show.

Mr. Gordon's work is a large semi-abstract painting executed in warm colors. Both realistic and imaginative in conception, it pictures an interior with baskets of oyster shells as a central motif.

The jury awarding Mr. Gordon's painting the purchase prize was made up of Reginald Poland, director of museums of the Atlanta, Ga., Art Association; Herman Maril, instructor in painting at the University of Maryland; and Theresa Fulton, associate professor of art history at the University of Southern California.

Mr. Gordon, a faculty member at East Carolina since 1952, was a prize winner last fall in the Fourteenth Southeastern American Exhibition, Atlanta, Ga., and in 1958 in the North Carolina Annual Artists' Competition at the State Museum of Art, Raleigh.

In this state he has exhibited his work at the University of North Carolina, Duke University, the Rocky Mount Art Center, and the Sheppard Memorial Library Art Gallery in Greenville. His paintings have also been shown at art centers in Ohio and Kentucky and are included in a number of private collections and in the art collection of Centre College in Kentucky.

Appalachian Tops East Carolina In Tourney Opening

App Flurry Rolls Up 87 79 Win Phants Fall, 40-38, To Jacksonville In Tourney

LEXINGTON—Wayne Proffitt, hitting 11 straight points, ignited a torrid Appalachian flurry of points after three minutes of the second half that buried East Carolina here last night in the North State Conference Tournament's opening round, 87-79.

With the count standing 51-48 for the Mountaineers, ECC's Bucs could net only five points while the Appalachian sharpshooters burned the nets with 23 and took a commanding lead that was too much for East Carolina to overcome with a late rally.

Appalachian, in brushing the Pirates aside, advanced into tonight's semi-final round against Catawba, 60-39 conqueror of Atlantic Christian in last night's game.

Coach Earl Smith's Pirates played the Apps on even terms for a half and trailed by only three points as the teams left the floor for the half-time rest period.

Appalachian employed a four-man box-type zone defense for the game's duration with one man assigned to Pirate Ike Riddick. The ECC star finished with 17 points but was held to only two for the first half. The tight App defense, termed "a very fine job" by Coach Smith, forced East Carolina to settle mostly for shots from the outside.

Lawrence "Cotton" Clayton led the Pirate attack with 20 points, but was disqualified on five personal fouls and left the game with three minutes to go, in the midst of ECC's late rally.

Scraping all the way, the Bucs cut the margin from 21 points to eight with one minute remaining on the clock, but could get no closer as the Mountaineers connected on four tosses.

Don King, hitting a perfect 12 for 12 from the charity line, led the Apps with 26 markers. Lonnie Thomas netted 10 and Willard Swift 11.

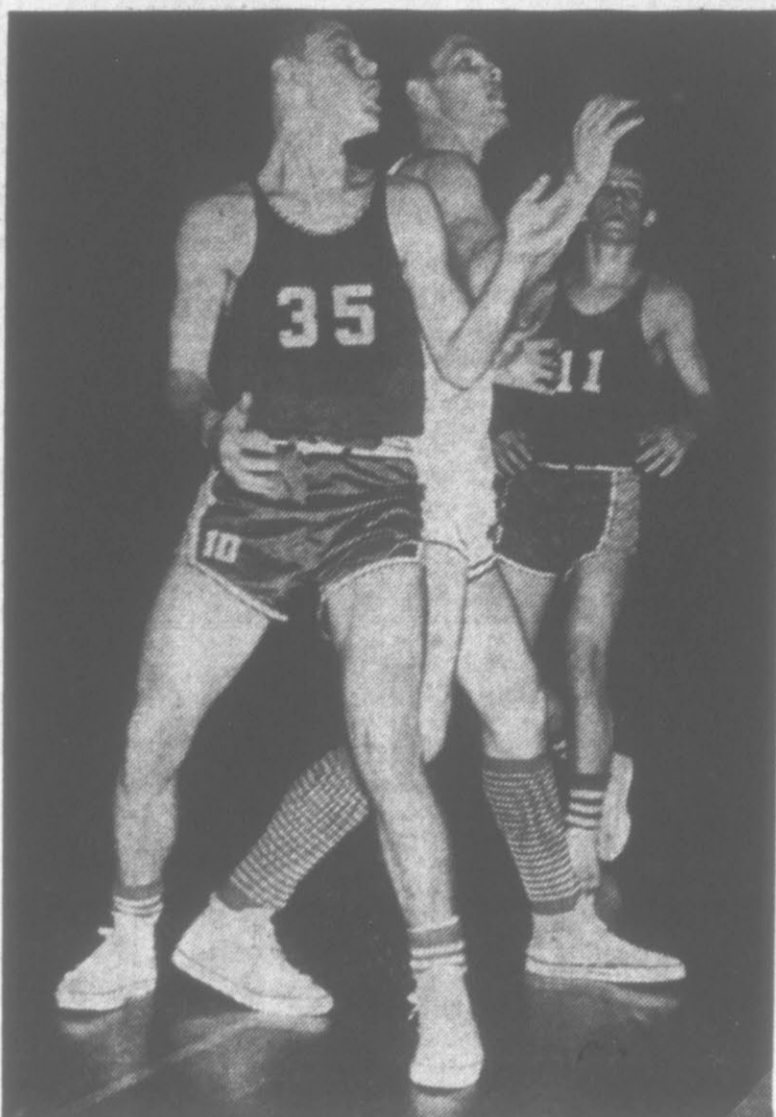

Appalachian Coach Bob Light said, "Proffitt broke the game open in the second half and King played good steady ball. We got good performances from Thomas, (Jim) Archibald, and Swift. I was pleased with our game and it feels good to win. I thought EC would play a bit better. They had an off night and made a lot of mistakes." The Mountaineers played without the services of All-Conference Rick Howe, in bed with flu.

Smith praised the App defense and cited ECC's inexperience as a major factor in the eliminating loss. "Appalachian did a fine job of defending us, and our inexperience showed up tonight," he said.

BIRDS SCORE . . . as Stewart Ellington (14) fires away over outstretched arms of Phants Jan Vincent and Alan McArthur (15).

A last-ditch rally fell short as Billy James' layup refused to drop with 10 seconds remaining last night in East Carolina College's Memorial Gymnasium and Greenville's Rose High Phantoms bowled out of Northeastern Conference Tourney action, dropping their opening round battle to a determined Jacksonville five, 40-38.

James picked off a loose ball at midcourt with the Phants trailing 38-36 and drove for the layup. Phant forward Charles Taft was charged with a holding foul in the scramble for the rebound and Cardinal guard Don Rhyne dropped in a pair of free tosses, running Jacksonville's lead to four points.

Erskine Duff connected for Greenville at the horn, but the two points were not enough and the Cardinals advanced into tonight's semi-finals against Roanoke Rapids.

After a slow start, Roanoke Rapids had little trouble racing to a 65-63 victory over Tarboro's Tigers to gain a semi-final berth tonight. The Yellow Jackets pulled into a five-point lead as the first quarter ended and virtually coasted to victory over the scrappy Tarboro cagers.

In the opener, Greenville and Jacksonville played on even terms in the first period, winding it up with the score tied, 10-10. Led by center Lane Jorgensen, however, the Phantoms had opened up a three-point bulge by half-time, leading 23-20.

Some nifty passing and shooting by the Greenville cagers had built a nine-point margin midway of the second quarter, but three successive Cardinal baskets brought the Onslow County five back into contention as the first half ended.

Jorgensen tallied all five points registered by Greenville in the third period that saw the Cards add only four more. Leading by four as the final stanza opened, Greenville saw a pair of Cardinal substitutes ignite the rally that eliminated the Phantoms from the tourney.

Gregg Steele and Philip Harris entered the Card line-up and accounted for eight of the 16 Jacksonville points in the last period. Greenville could get only 10 and fell victim to the Birds' surge.

Jorgensen copped scoring honors for the opening round's only close battle with 11 points. James and Kroghie Anderson tallied six each for Greenville.

Guard Bill Hargett was high for Jacksonville with nine markers. Fred Beacham aided the Birds' cause with eight.

Greenville outscored the Cardinals by 18-14 in the field goal department, but were badly outclassed at the foul line. The Phantoms could connect on only two of nine chances while Jacksonville was cashing in on 12 of 18 charity tosses.

After Tarboro's underdog Tigers opened the last game of the tourney's opening round with four minutes of possession tactics, the tempo picked up rapidly and Roanoke Rapids quickly jumped into a 15-10 lead by the end of the first quarter.

Led by forward Arthur Davis' 22 points, the Jackets' fast breaking offense was too much for the smaller Tigers. Davis and Tommy King sparked the Roanoke Rapids five to a 12-point lead at intermission.

The Jackets added six more points to their margin by the end of the third stanza, running the count to 49-31. Coach Wimpy Johnson emptied his bench during the final quarter and his reserves hung on to allow the Jackets the 12-point victory margin.

Badly outscored from the floor, the Tigers were impressive on the foul line, picking up 23 points in 28 chances. The Tarboro five could get only 15 baskets while the Jackets poured in 28, 10 of them on layups.

Behind Davis, the Jackets' sharpshooting southpaw, came Steve Taylor with 16 points. King and Johnny Daughtry with 11 and 10 points, respectively, gave Roanoke Rapids four men in the double figures.

Tiger forward Ben Brown paced the Tarboro effort with 17 points, connecting on nine of 11 free tosses and four field goals. Billy Freuler dumped in eight buckets for 16 points. Mac Fountain and Gus Andrews finished the night with seven each.

Last night's doubleheader completed first round action and set the stage for tonight's semi-final twin bill. In the opener, Kinston's Red Devils and the Washington Pam Pack clash to decide the opponent in Saturday's title game for the winner of the Roanoke-Rapids-Jacksonville scrap at 9 o'clock tonight.

Kinston advanced into tonight's round by thumping Elizabeth City, 88-39, Wednesday. Washington's Pack eliminated New Bern's Bears, 42-27, in the other opening-day tussle.

Time Running Out On U.S. In Gold Olympic Medals Quest

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Uncle Sam's nieces and nephews went prospecting for gold medals today with time running short in the 1960 Winter Olympic games and Carol Heiss this nation's only winner to date.

The surprising U.S. hockey team that upset favored Canada 2-1 to grab the lead in the round-robin competition got the day off.

The Soviet Union, with six gold medals and 137 unofficial points credited, was expected to pick up more in both the women's 15 kilometer (9.3 miles) relay and the men's 1,500 meter speed skating. The United States had its biggest chances in the other two events.

Penny Pitou, with two silver medals, took her final shot at a gold one in the women's slalom ski race already virtually assured of winning the world combined title of the International Ski Federation (FIS).

The pony-tailed blonde from Gilford, N.H., leads the U.S. girls' team that so far hasn't come up to the pre-Olympic predictions.

Dave Jenkins, 23, the Western Reserve Univ. medical student, goes out for the free-skating wrap.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Bob Allison, 1959 American League rookie of the year, says he won't report for spring training unless the Washington Senators give him a $20,000 contract.

The Senators were scheduled to start drills today in Orlando, Fla. At his home in suburban Raytown, Mo., Allison said Thursday night the Senators offered him a raise but it was too small. Allison received an estimated $7,500 plus a bonus for his slugging last year. He batted .261 and hit 30 home runs.

Billy Hunter Is Slight Favorite

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Hunter, the sweet swinger from Detroit, is an 11-10 favorite to defeat Eddie Machen, one-time top ranked challenger, in their 10-round heavyweight bout tonight in Madison Square Garden.

Although Machen is ranked No. 5 and Hunter No. 7 in the latest National Boxing Assn. ratings, the odds-makers apparently are being swayed by the fighters' most recent efforts. Hunter is unbeaten in his last four starts while Machen, from Redding, Calif., dropped a 12-round decision to Zora Folley Jan. 18, his last time out.

Hunter, who has won 15 of 23 matches with two draws and eight knockouts, came out of nowhere last year to climb up the ring ladder.

Machen, 27, will be making his first Garden appearance. Eddie ran into the now celebrated right hand of Ingemar Johansson and the big Swede knocked him out in one round on Sept. 14, 1958. That ended Machen's streak of 25 undefeated fights and, at the same time, set up the first Patterson-Johansson bout. Machen rebounded from his Swedish debacle in 1959, winning seven in succession until Folley handed him his second setback.

The first round was reset for today, cutting the $7,500 event from 72 holes to 54. Officials gave the 35 professional entries and 100 amateurs the same starting times as Thursday. And the weatherman promised sunny skies and cooler temperatures for the remainder of the tournament.

Bob-Tailed Golf Tourney Begins

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A bob-tailed version of the Tampa Women's Open Golf Championship gets underway today for 185 entries who got soaking wet in a futile effort to start the tournament on time.

Officials decided to disregard Thursday's play after an afternoon rainstorm pelted the Palma Ceia course.

The victory gave the United States a 3-0 record while the Soviet Union, tied on Wednesday by Sweden, swamped Germany 7-1 for a 2-0-1 record. That sets up Saturday's meeting between the challenging United States and the Soviet's defending Olympic champions.

Giants Against Giant-Killers In Southern Conf. Semifinals

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—It's the giants against the giant-killers here tonight in the semifinals of a Southern Conference basketball tournament that suddenly looks like anybody's show.

Top-seeded Virginia Tech squares off against George Washington in the opener at 7:30 p.m. at the Arena; West Virginia's champions, second-seeded, meet eager William and Mary in the 9:30 nightcap.

Tech and West Virginia will be favored, but two more nervous favorites could scarcely be found. Both were beaten during the regular season by the clubs they face tonight.

West Virginia, seventh-ranked nationally, was the only one of the four survivors to get a genuine fright in Thursday's opening round. And the fright was provided by lowly VMI, which carried the proud Mountaineers right down to the wire before yielding 90-83.

Tech's bully boys clouted Richmond 78-58. George Washington dumped The Citadel 74-60 and William and Mary licked Furman 82-74 in the other first-round bouts.

The individual player who caused the most excitement wasn't All-America Jerry West of West Virginia, but 6-6 Chris Smith of Virginia Tech. Leaping phenomally and sinking a variety of shots from around the basket and the foul line, the tireless junior pumped in 34 points and hauled down 27 rebounds in 33 minutes of action.

West led West Virginia with 29 points, 16 rebounds and six assists though he played with a face mask to protect a broken nose.

George Washington's twin 5-foot-9 terrorists, Jon and Jeff Feldman, personally conducted the impressive Colonials to their romp past The Citadel. Each of the Feldmans had 23 points. Sophomore-Gary Daniels led The Citadel with 16 points.

William and Mary simply had too much bench and too many tall players for shorthanded, wounded Furman, which stayed in the game for about 30 minutes.

The Indians hit an even 50 per cent of their shots with Bev Vaughan (6-5) getting 24 points, 6-7 Jeff Cohen 20, 6-10 Chuck Sanders 17. Dag Wilson had 23 and Byron Pinson added 24 for Furman.

Explorer Scout Event Is Scheduled At Langley AFB

An Explorer Rendezvous for explorer scouts in the East Carolina Council has been scheduled for April 8-10 at Langley Air Force Base, Newport News, Va.

Pitt District Executive Rudy Alexander announced yesterday explorers interested should register with the Wilson office no later than Saturday, March 26. Cost for the trip will be $12.50 per explorer and leader. An adult leader must accompany each 10 explorers.

Chartered-bus transportation will be provided. Buses will load at the following places and times in Pitt County: Point No. 2 — Farmville, 12:30, April 8, Duke's Puck Co.; and Point No. 3 — Greenville, 1 p.m., April 8, East Carolina College gymnasium.

Scouts planning to attend this year's National Jamboree should send in the $75 payment immediately, Alexander said. He pointed out the payment is now overdue and only three of the local scouts planning to make the trip have paid this installment.

First-Aid-O-Ree

Another First-Aid-O-Ree has been scheduled for the Presbyterian Church in Farmville Saturday night at 7:30.

Alexander said this one will provide an opportunity for scouts prevented by adverse weather conditions from attending the Greenville session to benefit from the

Auditorium May Be Needed For Trespass Trials

RALEIGH (AP) — Raleigh City Court officials may go to Memorial Auditorium next Thursday to try 43 Negro students on trespass charges stemming from a demonstration for lunch counter service with whites.

Postponement of the trial to March 3 was ordered by Judge Albert Doub Thursday when a crowd estimated at upwards of 700 jammed the courtroom, halls, and stairs at City Hall.

Fire Chief Jack Keeter called it a fire hazard. The City Courtroom has seats for fewer than 100 persons, and only one public entrance.

Solicitor Pretlow Winborne promised the crowd, dominated by young Negroes, "We'll try to have room so everyone can be accommodated." Later, he said an effort will be made to use Memorial Auditorium, which seats 3,000 or so.

Also postponed was the trial of David Price, a 19-year-old white youth accused of assaulting a Negro college student. His trial, set for today, was delayed to March 11.

A request by a group of Negroes for service at a Henderson variety store was reported Thursday.

In Durham, two variety stores opened lunch counters that had been closed since Feb. 8. At one, a group of Negroes asked for service, but left quietly when refused.

In Greensboro a serious study of issues involved was recommended by the Executive Board of the Department of United Church Women of the North Carolina Council of Churches. A directive from Ruth Wilson of Charlotte, state chairman of Christian Social Relations, asked local council to consider problems of equal service at lunch counters and to report in majority and minority viewpoints.

Since the mass arrests in Raleigh Feb. 12, there have been arrests at High Point, Winston-Salem and Charlotte in connection with the protests against segregated eating facilities which began in Greensboro Feb. 1.

Philmont Ranch

Resulting from popular demand from District scouts, Alexander said another trip has been planned to Philmont Ranch in Cimarron, New Mexico, this summer.

Seventeen scouts from the district made the three-week trip last summer, and many have expressed the desire to return, Alexander said.

The trip to the ranch, owned by Boy Scouts of America, is limited to senior scouts or explorers. The age requirement is 14 years. If a scout's 14th birthday is on or before Sept. 1, 1960, he may attend.

Cost of the trip is $175. A $25 registration fee must be paid at the time of application. The remaining $150 may be paid May 1 ($75) and June 1 ($75) or the entire fee may be paid at the time of registration.

Alexander said 37 places have been reserved for scouts in the East Carolina Council and urged scouts desiring to make the trip to register immediately. Other details concerning the Philmont trip may be had from Alexander.

Cadet From Beaufort Is Appointed Group Commander Of ROTC Unit

Robert L. Needs of Beaufort, N. C., senior at East Carolina College, has been appointed group commander of Detachment 600 of the Air Force ROTC at the college. Needs will hold the position during the spring quarter, beginning March 2.

He will be the first group commander at the college to hold the rank of full cadet colonel.

During his four years at East Carolina College, Cadet Colonel Needs has commanded the Honorary Drill Team of the campus AF ROTC. Because of its outstanding performance, the team has appeared at Kitty Hawks, N. C., at the memorial celebration for the Wright-Brothers; at the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D. C., and at other events.

Recently the twenty-one members of Honorary Drill Team conducted a Marchathon for the March of Dimes Campaign in Greenville. Twelve hours of drill in the business section of the city, during which contributions were received netted approximately $500 for the fund drive.

At East Carolina Cadet Colonel Needs served during the 1959-1960 winter quarter as Group Administrative Officer of the AF ROTC and now acts as Operations Officer for the Arnold Air Society and as Liaison Officer of Angel Flight, co-ed auxiliary of the campus Arnold Air Society.

'Hound Dog' Is Again Launched

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force has successfully fired another GAM77 Hound Dog missile.

A Hound Dog sped several hundred miles down the Atlantic test range Thursday night after it was launched from a B52 bomber over Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The Air Force said the 51-foot missile impacted in a predetermined area.

The missile was the eighth to be launched in a series of tests conducted from Eglin.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

Temperatures will average 4 to 8 degrees below normal for the next five days. Cold over the weekend, and warmer Monday. Colder again Tuesday or Wednesday. Precipitation about Monday may total three-quarters of an inch.

Training Course

March 5-8 will give scoutmasters, cub leaders, explorer leaders, and commissioners an opportunity to participate in a basic training instructors' course at Cherry Point Marine Air Base.

Alexander said the two-day event is designed to prepare leaders to give basic training instructions to scouts.

The Pitt executive has registration blanks available to interested leaders.

HEIRESS TO MURDER

By E. M. BURKER

CHAPTER 31

When Don Luis Morales reached the Circle H. ranch, Rusty McGowan had a horse tied to a post of the yard fence, and was replacing a couple of nails in a loose shoe.

When he saw the old Spaniard's bruised face, he dropped his hammer. "Trouble?" he asked.

Don Luis nodded, his face white from the punishment he had taken.

Hopefully he looked around the yard for some sign that Joe Gamel's wagon had been here.

"Walt and Judy Rayburn haven't been here yet?" he asked.

Rusty shook his head.

Don Luis sighed, and quickly told his story. Rusty reached for his saddle. "Where do you think I'll find 'em?"

"On the wagon road — somewhere between my place and here. He's driving Joe Gamel's wagon. And hurry!"

Rusty nodded. He gave a sharp look at the old man's sick face. "You able to ride on down the valley for more help?"

Don Luis drew his shoulders straighter. "I can do what has to be done!"

Walt Hollinger on the wagon seat, flinched with surprise at the sound of a shot. It still lacked over an hour until the time set for Joe Gamel to escape and he didn't expect Mitchell's gang to catch up with him for at least two more hours.

In that time he had planned to have Judy safely parked with his mother, and to be well down in the cliffy walls of El Muertito where he could fort up for a fight.

Judy Rayburn, half lying, half sitting in the wagon bed directly behind his seat, raised her head. "Walt — was that a shot?"

"Yes — a rifle, I think," he said over his shoulder. "Keep down, Judy. It couldn't have been meant for us. It isn't even time for Gamel to escape yet. None of Mitchell's crowd knows we're in this wagon — and they wouldn't shoot at Gamel. Besides that bullet didn't hit anywhere close."

"Can you see anyone?"

"Not yet."

"I'm going to crawl back to the other end of the wagon. There's a good peep-hole there."

"Keep down behind the wagon bed."

Walt scanned the timber closely on both sides of the valley. On the high piny ridge point to his left he saw the swift shuttle of movement behind the trees, then a quick gleam of sunlight on metal.

The next instant a rifle up on the hill cracked, and this time the bullet glanced whining off the iron tire of a wagon wheel.

"Damn!" said Walt under his breath, and knew that something had gone wrong with his plan.

He felt a stab of guilty fear for gentle old Don Luis, for rifle shots at Gamel's wagon could only mean that Gamel was loose, and that somebody knew the old peddler was not driving the wagon.

He spoke sharply to the startled horses, and levered a shell into his own .30-30. He took quick aim and fired, and was rewarded by a quick flurry of movement up on the ridge that told him his bullet had been close if not actually a hit.

Judy was directly behind the seat again now, holding up a crude, grimy wig of long, black hair. "Look, Walt! There's a whole boxful of these back here!"

Walt had time for no more than a glance. "Comanche war feathers, huh?" he commented.

"Get back inside, Judy. Behind some of these boxes, I'm going to turn our tail to 'em so they won't be so likely to hit the horses. The timber isn't far. Up there we'll have a chance."

Judy paid no attention to his warning as he reined the horses round and changed direction. She crawled over the seat and reached for the reins.

"You keep warming them up," she said. "I'll drive."

Walt resisted her pull on the reins and tried to push her down closer to the floor of the wagon.

"You can't drive a four-horse team!"

"The dickens I can't!" she said scornfully.

Reluctantly Walt released his hold on the reins, then saw how competently she kept reining the lead team round.

He levered in another shell and fired again. He spoke over his shoulder. "You're full of surprises. Where'd you learn to drive like that?"

She laughed. "Circus and Wild West Show. The Rawhide Rayburn family. Ever hear of them?"

Walt kept his gaze on the timbered ridge. "Nope. You're hurrawin' me!"

"Like fun!" she retorted, breaking the double team into a laboring run. "Jimmy, Jane and little Judy. Exhibition shooting and riding. This is just like our show. State — coach act with Injuns. After Dad lost his money in mining stock, we Wild-West-ed all over the country!"

Walt levered in a shell and took a quick pop at the ridge-top.

Judy half turned her head. "Walt, are you disappointed in me?"

"Disappointed, h-m-m-m!" He sounded amused. "Well — it would have been nice if you could cook."

"I can make good coffee," she offered. She waited a moment then went on. "No — I meant disappointed because I pretended to be something I wasn't. I didn't talk about the Wild-Westing because I didn't want to embarrass Uncle Pete."

She had been keeping the four horses at a steady trot while she talked.

Now she broke off suddenly as new gunfire from up on the ridge dropped the near horse of the lead team in a convulsive, kicking pile. The other horses reared in fright.

Another bullet spat into the wood of the wagon bed, Judy's small hands held firm on the lines.

"That really tears it, Walt," she said bitterly. "In another minute we'd have made it! Whoa, boys! Easy! E-easy!"

Walt slipped out low over the wheel to the ground. "I'm going to cut 'em loose, Judy. If they spook again they'll turn us over!"

Judy slid over and picked up his rifle, fired a couple of quick shots up the hill. This time there came no answering fire.

"Walt," she said judicially. "I don't believe they've got more than two rifles and they don't shoot like they had much ammunition. Maybe we can hold them off till dark."

Walt finished with the horses, turning two loose and tying one to the front wheel opposite the direction of the attack, then crawled up into the wagon.

"It's two hours till dark, Judy, and there's not more than a couple of dozen shells left for the .30-30."

Judy looked at him in exasperation. "Have you got a better idea?" she asked sharply.

"Yes. I left the black horse tied to the front wheel. You slide over and be ready to get on him in a hurry. When I start peppering them, you get going. It's not far to the timber."

"You hold a direction that will keep the wagon between you and them as far as you can."

"Nothing doing," Judy said firmly. "I'm staying here as long as you do."

"Judy —"

She laid her hand quickly over his. "Walt, you know that's no good. Somebody tried to kill me twice. As I see it — my chances are about even, staying here or making a run for it. I choose to stay with you."

No Leave When 'Sister' Died

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Pfc Robert Randolph, St. Louis soldier stationed at Fort Bliss, Tex., got a letter from home that said: "Sister has died."

In short order he:

1. Tried unsuccessfully to reach his family by telephone.
2. Asked the Red Cross for help.
3. Tried to arrange an emergency leave.

When a Red Cross worker reached the Randolph family by phone and explained the problem, she was greeted with a shriek of laughter from the soldier's mother.

You see, Pfc. Randolph's nephew, William Jarrett, 12, wrote the letter. He wasn't talking about the GI's sister, Odelia.

"Sister" was William's late pet parakeet.

Man has been exterminating other mammals at the rate of one species a year since 1900.

Heart Broken By Dog With Tricks

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A dog did some tricks and 11-year-old Johnny Ray Clark went home with a broken heart Thursday.

The happy world he had known for six months with a flop-eared Beagle hound named Bruno fell apart in a Dallas courtroom.

Justice of Peace W. E. Richburg, bound by the weight of evidence, ordered Bruno restored to Dr. Howard H. McClure Jr., who claimed ownership.

D. C. Howard, grandfather of the schoolboy, testified the dog, lean and starved, showed up last September on his farm, 70 miles northeast of Dallas in Van Zandt County. He brought the dog to Dallas for Johnny.

McClure spotted Bruno in the Howard yard five days ago and claimed him.

Can you prove this is your dog? Does he know any tricks? Richburg asked McClure.

The doctor gave a series of routine dog trick commands. Bruno obeyed.

McClure produced a piece of dog candy. He put the tidbit on the dog's nose and ordered Bruno to toss it in the air and catch it in his mouth. Bruno complied.

Richburg was convinced. At his suggestion, McClure paid the grandfather $35 for the dog's keep. Tears streaking his face, Johnny gave Bruno a tender hug—and walked quietly from the courtroom hand in hand with his grandfather.

Students Elect Hindu President

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Kash Baharia, an 18-year-old Hindu from Assam, India, has been elected president of the student governing body at John Carroll University, a Jesuit school.

Baharia, a junior majoring in business management, was elected Thursday over Edward Parks of Detroit. Baharia attended St. Xavier High School in Jaipur, India, and when he told the Jesuit fathers there that he wanted to attend an American Jesuit college to study business, they suggested John Carroll.

"I didn't think then that I would be president of the Carroll Union," said the slight, bespectacled Indian.

Urge Speed-Up In Surplus Sales

WASHINGTON (AP)—Expressing concern over the staggering cost of storing government-owned surplus commodities, the House Appropriations Committee today urged a speed-up in sales of the surpluses.

It made the request in a report sent to the House floor for debate next week a bill providing $229,195,864 in supplemental funds for a score of government agencies for the current fiscal year.

By selling its surplus commodities at competitive prices, the committee said, the Commodity Credit Corp. could provide additional capital and reduce its warehouse costs. The group estimated that for 1960 the cost of warehousing, transportation and interest would be $1,262,000,000.

The CCC had requested 675 million dollars additional to provide it with a greater margin of working capital between now and June 30. The committee rejected the request, pointing out that there is a 441-million-dollar margin forecast which is not expected to be used before that date.

Rejection of that item accounted for most of the $789,202,400 cut out of the omnibus bill.

Heavy Damage Results In Two Car Collisions

Heavy damage resulted in two collisions in Pitt County yesterday, one about a mile east of Stokes on N.C. 903 and the second north of Greenville at the intersection of U.S. 13-N.C. 11 and the Belvoir Highway.

In the collision near Stokes, William Dare Boone, 68, of Winterton, N.C., sustained fractures of his jaw, collar bone, skull, ribs and pelvis when he was thrown from his vehicle by the impact of the collision.

Investigating Patrolman H. P. Wintlow is the driver of the second vehicle as Willie Mark Boone, 40, of Route 4, Greenville.

According to the officer, Nelson was headed west on Rural Road 1951 and Boone was headed south on N.C. 903 at the time of the mishap, 11:40 p.m.

Boone was charged with failure to yield the right of way as a result of the investigation. Damage to his car was set at $1,200 while damage to the Nelson truck was placed at $300.

Doctors this morning, who described Boone's injuries as "serious", said he was doing "good."

About $800 dollars damage resulted when cars driven by Annie Monk Ellis, Negro, of Bell Arthur and Bernice Harris Clark of Route 4, Greenville collided at the intersection of U.S. 13 and the Belvoir Highway about 3:45 p.m.

Damage to both vehicles was set at $400 each.

Bernice Clark was charged with failure to yield the right of way by investigating Patrolman W. K. Chapman of Greenville.

According to Chapman, the Clark vehicle, headed west on the Belvoir road pulled out in front of the oncoming Clark vehicle which was headed south on U.S. 13.

Mrs. Clark was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries received when she was thrown partially out of the auto and dragged a short distance. She was suffering from multiple abrasions and lacerations to her face.

Included in the program were a solo by Hardy Wooten, a school progress report from Mrs. Annie Johnson, and a tribute to teachers as community leaders from Mrs. Herman Gay.

The group also heard a tape recording emphasizing Negro History Week.

Other guests included D. H. Conley, Pitt County Schools Superintendent; Arthur S. Alford and F. D. Sledge, county instruction supervisors; Principal E. N. Minor Injuries In Car Collision

Two Washington, N. C. women received minor injuries today when their vehicle was involved in an accident at the intersection of 10th and Cotanche Sts.

They were identified as Nancy Williams Boyd of 405 East Main St., driver of the car and Mrs. J. A. Wallace, 71, of 402 Waters St., a passenger.

Operator of the second auto involved was identified as Adrian Adams of Route 2, Greenville.

Officers said the Boyd auto was headed West on 10th St. while the Adams car was traveling North on Cotanche.

Mrs. Boyd, who was charged with failure to yield the right of way, suffered a dislocated right thumb in the collision.

Mrs. Wallace received a slight chest injury. Both women who were taken to the hospital by the Greenville Rescue Squad, were treated and released.

Damage to the Boyd car, a small foreign-made vehicle was set at $500. Damage to the Adams car was estimated to be $350.

World Day Of Prayer Will Be Observed Here March 4

On March 4, church women of Greenville will join United Church Women throughout the United States in observance of the World Day of Prayer. The 24-hour prayer vigil spans 145 countries on six continents.

The Rev. William J. Hadden will be featured speaker at the observance here, to be held at 11 a.m. at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. Mrs. Keith Holmes is president of the local United Church Women.

For a number of years now, the Greenville Merchants Association has requested merchants to close their business houses from 10:45 until 12 noon so that business people may attend the World Day of Prayer service. This service, although sponsored by all Protestant churches of Greenville, is held annually at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church because of its size and location. The church is usually filled to capacity.

The United States observance is sponsored annually by United Church Women, a general department of the National Council of Churches. Each year, the national organization representing some 10 million women in American churches, asks church women of a different country to prepare the service.

The Women's Inter-Church Council of Canada has prepared the service this year, the 74th observance, around the theme from first Corinthians 3:9, "Labourers together with God." Canadian church women joined in World Day of Prayer 39 years ago.

In the around-the-world services, there will be a special supplication written by Mrs. Nellie Jacobson of Ahusat, B.C., for her people. Mrs. Jacobson is an Indian woman well known throughout British Columbia for her preservation of the art of making nootka baskets.

Offerings, which are equally divided between Home and Foreign Missions, aid agricultural workers in this country as well as Indian-Americans.

Abroad, among other things, they help develop Christian leaders in the new African and Asian countries; provide new literates with reading materials; aid women students in 11 Asian Christian colleges; set up pilot projects for village children; support French Cameroon orphanages; bring overseas students to the Student Volunteer Movement Quadrennial Conference, December, 1960; and aid a Bolivian church women's conference.

Mrs. James Evans, national director of the Day for UCW, said, "Through these projects, which our yearly observance makes possible, we demonstrate to the world the unlimited power of prayer and the depth of our concern for God's children everywhere."

Alarm Turned Automatically On

Greenville firemen responded to the Export Tobacco Company this morning when Box 17 was turned in.

Upon arrival, firefighters found that a pipe in the plant's sprinkler system had broken, causing the alarm to be turned in automatically.

No damage was reported by fire officials.
