

Architect's Drawing Of New VOA Transmitter Planned In Pitt Area

CLEVELAND, Ohio—Above is a model of the transmitting stations to be constructed for the Consolidated East Coast Facilities of the U. S. Information Agency's Voice of America near Greenville. The 25-million dollar Greenville project, being designed here by The Austin Company, will include two such transmitting stations and a receiving center. The 50,000 square foot transmitter building consists of three divisions. The division at the left will house garages, warehouses and shops. It will have a limestone facing on the entrance side, with brick walls and high windows on the remaining sides. The two-story adjoining division will also have a limestone facing with aluminum louvers and fins over a recessed front of glass and brick. The upper level will contain mechanical equipment, while the lower level will house offices, dining facilities and lounges. The tower adjoining it will contain an observation room. The main section at the rear will house the transmitters. Entirely shielded, it will have a precast concrete roof deck and aluminum siding, with the lower part louvered to provide ventilation of transformer rooms and cooling for transmitters. At the rear of the building can be seen part of the framework for the elaborate switching station which will feed the antennas. Auxiliary buildings shown here include a brick and concrete guard house (extremely lower left); two well houses, a pump house and reservoir (center foreground); an emergency generator building (center background), and emergency generator station (upper left). Roadways will have blacktop surfacing, and the building area will be enclosed by an eight-foot high chain-link fence.

Western Planes To Resume Use Of Higher Lanes

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The United States, Britain and France have decided to resume flying the air corridors between West Berlin and West Germany at altitudes above 10,000 feet. This is a practice with which Soviet fighter planes have interfered in the past.

The Soviet Union is being notified of the decision, it was reported here today, so there can be no misunderstanding on Moscow's part of what is involved.

The three Western powers, with about 111,000 troops to maintain as a protective force in West Berlin, have long insisted that there is no limitation on the altitude at which their supply and transport aircraft can fly into and out of West Berlin. The air corridors traverse the territory of communist East Germany.

The Soviet Union, by contrast, has claimed a 10,000-foot ceiling was established by agreement between Soviet and Allied authorities years ago. Moscow, contends that any flight above that limit is a violation which can subject the high-altitude aircraft to the attention of Soviet fighter planes.

The issue was sharply drawn last March 27 and April 15 when several U.S. turboprop planes flew above 10,000 feet in the assigned corridors over East Germany. Soviet fighter planes made passes around the U.S. aircraft. After an exchange of accusations between Moscow and the Western capitals, the practice of flying above 10,000 feet was halted although the right to do so was firmly asserted by the U.S., British and French governments.

The Western nations called off the flights as a precaution lest it look like the west was deliberately seeking an incident.

Addison Hewlett Files Today For Senate Race
RALEIGH (AP)—House Speaker Addison Hewlett filed with the State Board of Elections today as a candidate for U.S. senator. Seven supporters from Masonboro Sound, where the 47-year-old New Hanover County attorney makes his home, accompanied Hewlett to the elections board office. Hewlett said the $225 filing fee was contributed by his friends in the Masonboro area. Hewlett said the money was collected in a "boat to boat canvass" in the fishing and shrimping community five miles from Wilmington. In his campaign for the senate, Hewlett is seeking to unseat incumbent Sen. B. Everett Jordan, who was appointed by Gov. Hodges to fill the unexpired term of the late Sen. W. Kerr Scott.

Senate's Civil Rights Debate Turns Into Drawn-Out Endurance Contest

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate battle over civil rights legislation turns into an endurance contest today with the start of around-the-clock sessions. Leaders called on senators to meet at noon for the start of the third week of the bitter election-year struggle, and planned to keep going nonstop until something or somebody gives way.

In this manner they hoped to break the resistance of Southern foes and force the legislation to a vote.

The outnumbered Dixie forces were ready to strike back with every parliamentary resource at their command. Their leader, Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), said Sunday they are determined to talk the bill to death.

The Southerners have no detailed campaign plan, Russell said in a television interview, but will "play it by ear from day to day."

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) conceded in a radio interview the Southerners have a chance of killing the bill or watering it down. The outcome depends, he said, on how "the uncommitted group in the Senate will act."

He said he referred to some Western and border state senators. Much of the Senate's other business was inevitably grinding to a halt; cots were being set up in the Capitol for use by senators through the long, weary nights ahead; clerks, doorkeepers and other employees were going on overtime shifts.

Not since July 1954, in a fight over public vs. private development of atomic power, has the Senate been up against a comparable situation. In that battle, extending over 11 days, the Senate had four all-night sessions. The longest single nonstop Senate session shown in records of the Senate press gallery ran for 54 hours and 10 minutes. That was in February 1915, during a fight over a bill for the purchase of German ships interned in American harbors.

How long the Senate session starting today will last no one knows, but behind-the-scenes maneuvering is going on and will continue in an effort to find a way out of the impasse.

One move initiated by Senate leaders, and backed by Southern Democratic senators, is to try to speed House action on a civil rights bill.

This strategy is based on the hope that the House bill will pass a more moderate bill than the seven-point administration measure now before the Senate. But the move involved a gamble for the Southerners particularly, and could backfire if the House adds to its bill some of the features most opposed by the Southerners. One especially obnoxious feature of the Senate bill, from the Southern senators' standpoint, is that it would give congressional backing to the Supreme Court's 1954 school decision.

called Eisenhower administration economic failures. Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn.), senior Republican senator on the committee, denounced the majority report as "a campaign document for the 1960 elections."

Bush accused the majority of following "the party line" laid down by the radical wing of the Democratic party.

Sen. John M. Butler (R-Md.) said the majority report reveals "a completely closed mind and preconceived views."

The majority report said that the 510-billion-dollar cross national product forecast by Eisenhower for 1960 would be 20 to 30 billion below the economy's potential output.

It forecast that unemployment will average close to 5 per cent for this year but insisted that this could be cut to 4 per cent with adequate policies.

The Republicans countered with the contention that Eisenhower's program "will achieve reasonably" the employment, growth and other objectives of the 1946 Employment Act.

The nation's output has increased an average of 3.6 per cent a year over the last six years, they said, compared with what they called the historical average of 3 per cent a year.

Navy Band May Fill Tour Dates
WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Navy Band tour of 11 Southern and Southwestern states scheduled to start March 15 probably will proceed as planned notwithstanding the deaths of 19 members in a South American plane crash last week. The tour is scheduled to begin in Hampton, Va., with later appearances in cities as far south as Pensacola, Fla. and as far west as Lubbock, Tex.

John Dillinger's Nemesis Is Dead
FLORENCE, S.C. (AP) — The man who led the capture of gunman John Dillinger in the 1930s — former FBI agent Melvin Purvis — was found dead at his home today of a self-inflicted pistol shot. Coroner William T. Eady ruled it was a self-inflicted wound under the jaw.

Purvis, in his early 50s, was found dead in the landing of an upstairs hall in his home by his wife, Mrs. Rosanne Purvis said she was in the yard when a shot sounded.

The Purvis' physician, Dr. Walter Meade, said Purvis had been depressed and in bad health recently.

Purvis, president of the Florence Broadcasting Co., operating WOLS in Florence, had been home ill with what had been diagnosed as flu for the past week and a half.

His office said he came down with the flu in Washington three weeks ago. He had been there, his office said, in connection with work with the chief counsel of the U.S. Senate judiciary committee on recommendations for improvement in the administration of federal justice.

Nehru And Chou Set April Meet
NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indian Prime Minister Nehru and Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai today agreed to an April meeting in New Delhi to discuss their border dispute.

Both leaders made clear they regarded the talks as exploratory with the prospect of setting in motion negotiations for settling the frontier feud which has brought bloodshed.

Nehru's announcement that he was agreeable to meeting Chou "sometime in April" drew applause in Parliament.

GOING TO CALCUTTA
RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Former Prime Minister U Nu will fly to Calcutta Tuesday to join Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Indian Prime Minister Nehru in talks about a high-level conference of Asian and African leaders, the usually well informed newspaper the Guardian reported today. The proposed conference would be similar to the 1955 Bandung conference, the paper said.

Separate Pact With East Germany Linked By Nikita To Summit Talk Outcome

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev today said the Soviet Union will sign a separate peace treaty giving East Germany control of West Berlin if the Big Four summit talks in May fail to reach agreement on an over-all German settlement.

Khrushchev spoke at a news conference following his return from Bogor, where he agreed to lend Indonesia a 250-million-dollar credit in an effort to check this Southeast Asian nation's slow drift Westward.

The Soviet threat to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany never has been abandoned, and in recent weeks has been repeated at intervals. But this was the first time Khrushchev had tied it to the outcome of the May summit conference.

"The question of Berlin is one of eliminating vestiges of World War II," the Soviet leader declared. "We cannot talk about peace without eliminating these vestiges."

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union is trying to convince the West of the need for a peace treaty on all Germany. If this is not concluded, he said, the Soviet Union will sign a separate agreement with East Germany.

If that happens, he continued, all agreements of World War II will cease to be valid and West Berlin automatically will become a part of East Germany.

Khrushchev also rejected the idea of a German plebiscite to determine whether the Soviet or Western plan for unification of that divided country should be accepted. U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter has been reported considering proposing such a plebiscite.

"We are not going to take part in such a plebiscite and we are against the participation of any other country in such a plebiscite since this would be interfering in the internal affairs of another country," Khrushchev declared.

The Western plan calls for establishment of an all-German government by free, U.N.-supervised elections in both parts of Germany. The Soviet Union proposes unification negotiations between the West and East German governments.

"A plebiscite in this or that state is the sole concern of the countries involved," Khrushchev said. "We are not neighbors of Germany. If they want to the two German governments can come to agreement on this."

The Soviet leader said he would

"exert all efforts to bring the (summit) conference to a successful conclusion."

"I do believe in the good intentions of President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Macmillan, and President Charles de Gaulle," he declared.

Khrushchev dodged the delicate question of Communist China and its current dispute with Indonesia over the resettlement of Chinese traders in rural Indonesian areas. He referred to Peiping only once and in a way designed to please his Indonesian hosts more than the Red Chinese.

Asked if Communist China did not rate participation in the Paris summit conference, Khrushchev replied: "Not only China but India, Indonesia, Japan and other nations will be brought in eventually."

Welfare Payment Issue Is Brought To Political Fore

RALEIGH (AP)—Recent cutbacks in welfare payments to the aged and disabled is the subject of the first major debate of the young gubernatorial campaign.

All three candidates—Malcolm Seawell, Terry Sanford and John Larkin—have had their say on the issue, but it came to a head over the weekend with Seawell and Sanford on the firing line.

Seawell and Larkin have advocated special sessions of the Legislature to appropriate money and increase the welfare payments to their original level. Seawell suggested the grants be restored on a retroactive basis.

Then Sanford issued a blistering statement in which he noted it was Seawell, as attorney general, who ruled last fall that the deficit could not be overcome through use of contingency and emergency fund money.

"Mr. Seawell alone is responsible for the cuts," said Sanford, an attorney from Fayetteville. "His effort to appear the knight in shining armor whose election is necessary for helpless old people to be protected, is as ridiculous as it is tragic."

Sanford added, "It is totally unnecessary to call a special session of the Legislature to restore welfare cuts. All we need is a proper interpretation of the law."

He said Seawell's decision was based on "unrealistic hairsplitting and some case law from Oklahoma and Arizona."

Seawell, reached at his Raleigh apartment Sunday night, stuck to his guns in his belief that the Legislature is the only agency which can legally restore the welfare cuts.

"It should be apparent to anyone," said Seawell, "that the ruling which I made was not based upon political consideration, but was based upon the law."

The attorney general, who steps out of office officially Tuesday, added, "Despite all political repercussions, I am not going to play politics with the law."

Boycott Planned To Push Protest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The effectiveness of a Negro boycott against white merchants who refused to give them integrated lunch counter service is expected to get its first test this week.

Negroes in Winston-Salem announced last Friday they planned to boycott stores which do not offer them sit-down eating service.

Sunday, apparently every Negro minister in the city spoke for the boycott from his pulpit. Additionally, several white ministers dealt with the controversial subject in their sermons.

Several demonstrations were held in North Carolina cities Saturday and one incident of violence was reported at Shelby where three white youths grabbed a placard from a Negro picket, stuck the Negro with it and kicked him.

About 50 Negroes appeared in downtown Shelby, were refused service at two drug store lunch counters, and then demonstrated outside peacefully until a crowd of whites gathered.

At a conference held in Shelby last Thursday, drugists refused a request by Negroes for integrated service.

At Winston-Salem, Police Chief

James I. Waller said lunch counters at downtown stores will remain closed until a "policy of procedure" is worked out. Waller said he has no legal authority to order lunch counters closed, and that the closing is the result of a "gentleman's agreement."

The Rev. E. S. Hargde, president of the Winston-Salem chapter of the NAACP, said Sunday, "We don't feel we can tell our people to stay away from a store. We are just explaining the situation to them and letting them make up their own minds. This is a matter for each individual to decide for himself."

Hargde said the Negro Ministers Alliance there will meet Tuesday to judge the effectiveness of the boycott, which he called a protest.

Other demonstrations Saturday were held at Charlotte, where 300 Negroes picketed, at Durham, and at Raleigh. Lunch counters affected in Durham and Charlotte were closed immediately.

The wave of demonstrations began at Greensboro Feb. 1, spread throughout the state and into Virginia, South Carolina, Florida, Tennessee, Alabama and Kentucky.

'Well Pleased' By Convention

BETHEL—Pitt County Republican Party Chairman X. E. Manning of Bethel said this morning he and three other Pitt delegates were "very well pleased" with the State GOP Convention held in Raleigh last Saturday and Sunday.

Representing the Pitt GOP were Manning, Mrs. Frances Butterworth of Bethel, John Scarborough of Grifton, and H. R. Mumford of Greenville.

Manning said the re-election of William Cobb as State Republican chairman Saturday was agreeable to Pitt delegates.

The Pitt delegation arrived in Raleigh Friday and checked into the Sir Walter Hotel. They then attended the convention meetings in the city's Memorial Auditorium.

Miss Sybil Dudley, Bobby Wilson Marry

GRIFTON—The Grifton Methodist Church was the scene Sunday when Miss Sybil Marlene Dudley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Paul Dudley, and Bobby Sherrill Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Wilson, spoke their wedding vows in a double ring ceremony. The Rev. R. I. Eppes officiated.

Preceding the entrance of the bride, a prelude of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Milton Hart, organist. Mrs. Frederic Cox, soloist, sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," "Whither Thou Goest I Will Go," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length original gown of imported peau-de-soie. The bodice, designed with a fitted basque waist, featured a sweetheart neckline heavily encrusted with flower designs of iridescent crystals and seed pearls. The long sleeves featuring bridal buttons formed points over the hands. The voluminous skirt featuring a three dimensional effect panner in front, embellished with flower designs of the re-embroidered alencon lace, fabric rosebuds, crystals and seed pearls and bustle in back, extended into a cathedral train.

She carried a bouquet of hyacinths, English ivy, and French carnations, centered with a purple-throated white orchid. Her headpiece was a fingertip mantilla of imported French Chantilly lace, which fell from a fitted headband trimmed with orange blossoms and seed pearls on each side.

Miss Phyllis Dudley was her sister's maid of honor. Mrs. Donald Whitfield, sister of the bridegroom, attended the bride as matron of honor. They wore dresses of Nile green nylon with a border of frosted flowers. They were designed with scooped necklines, puffed sleeves, and full skirts with a double pouff sash in back. They wore picture hats and carried cascade bouquets of white mums with green centers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Patricia Burney, cousin of the bride, of Grifton; Mrs. Clyde Cannon, aunt of the bride, of Ayden; and Mrs. Bobby Wells of Greenville. They wore dresses and hats identical to the honor attendants and carried similar cascade bouquets.

Miss Leticia Alonzo of Mexico City, Miss Vivian Lockhart and Miss Patsy Porter of Greenville, and Mrs. Thomas Tunstall of Lynchburg, Va. were honorary bridesmaids. They wore yellow dresses made like the honor attendants and carried long stemmed white mums with yellow centers.

The miniature bride was Miss Mary Kay Manning. She was dressed identical to the bride and carried a basket of flower petals, while Master Worth Wilson, nephew of the bridegroom, served as miniature groom. He was dressed identical to the groom, and carried a white satin pillow bearing the rings.

Braxton Wilson assisted his brother as best man. Ushers were Owen Wilson Jr. of Calypso and Norwood Wilson of Goldsboro, brothers of the groom; Speight Burrus of Greenville, and John Fillick of Raleigh.

The mother of the bride and the groom's mother were dressed identical in copen blue dresses of alencon lace over taffeta with taffeta sashes and matching hats. Their corsages were red roses.

The wedding party received in the vestibule of the church after the wedding which was directed by Mrs. David C. Hardee, aunt of the bride.

For travel the bride wore a white flannel suit with matching hat and navy blue accessories. Her corsage was the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will make their home in Wilmington after a wedding trip to unannounced points.

The bride will graduate from East Carolina College with a B. S. Degree in Business Education in May. The groom graduated from East Carolina College and is an accountant for Reigel Paper Company.

Elmhurst Club Officers Named

The Elmhurst Garden Club held its February meeting Friday night at the home of Mrs. Marshall Whitehurst on Oaklawn Avenue. The president, Mrs. Howard Wilson, opened the meeting with the reading of the club collect in union.

Mrs. O. C. Noble, Mrs. H. D. Rowe, and Mrs. Paul Jackson were introduced as guests for the evening.

Various committee reports were heard, and the nominating committee presented the following slate of officers for the coming year: president, Mrs. Jackie Goodson; vice president, Mrs. Rachel Kinlaw; secretary, Mrs. Betty Parr; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Fannie Gilbert; treasurer, Mrs. Mary Orier. These officers will be installed at the March meeting.

Mrs. Dave Fowler gave a program on flower arranging. She illustrated her talk with colored pictures. The members learned many points on arranging flowers in the home.

Mrs. Whitehurst served cherry pie topped with ice cream and coffee to the members present and their guests.

Proposals Made To Consolidate 20 Counties Into G.S. Council

Definite proposals have been made to consolidate 20 counties into one inclusive council for the Girl Scout organization in eastern North Carolina.

Mrs. W. M. Reading Jr., president of the Pitt County Girl Scout Council, has attended a series of meetings since November to discuss the effectiveness of a consolidated organization.

Miss Alice Sulter, member of the Girl Scout National Field Staff in Atlanta, Ga., recently released the following information concerning the proposed Coastal Carolina Council.

The 20-county council would be a Group I Council, the largest population grouping of councils. Approximately 50 councils throughout the country are of this size.

Among advantages expressed were the conservation of manpower, more professional talent, sharing of resources, expanded Senior program, and an increased and greater variety of training.

The pattern of organization of a Group I Council makes for direct operation on a neighborhood level, insuring democratic participation of all in council business.

Miss Sulter stated the number of councils in the U. S. A. has decreased from 1809 in 1946 to approximately 1090 in 1960. During this period membership in the Girl Scout movement has increased from approximately one million to about 3 1/2 million.

CARB-LOBSTER NEWBURG CHRISTINE

Ingredients: 2 packages (each 11 1/2 ounces) frozen lobster newburg, 1 can (6 1/2 ounces) king crabmeat, 4 tablespoons finely grated Parmesan cheese, paprika.
Method: Turn lobster newburg into top of double boiler; thaw over simmering water, stirring gently occasionally. Drain crabmeat; remove cartilage but leave large pieces of crab intact. Gently mix crab with lobster newburg; some of crab will be in shreds. Spoon into scallop shells; cover and refrigerate. At serving time sprinkle with Parmesan and paprika; place in moderate (350 degrees oven) until extremely hot—about 20 minutes. Serve at once or keep hot briefly on electric tray. Makes 6 to 8 servings, depending on size of scallop shells.

On March 10, presidents and organizational chairmen of the councils involved in the proposed change will meet in New Bern and Cherry Point with Girl Scout officials to discuss the long-range plans of a re-organizational schedule.

Auxiliary Gives Party At Caswell, To Honor Gold Star Mothers, Fathers

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars will honor the Gold Star mothers and fathers of Pitt County at a dinner on March 17, according to Mrs. Ruth Garner, chairman of the Gold Star committee.
The plans for the annual event were presented to the organization at its meeting on Thursday evening. The affair will be held at Memorial Baptist Church. Invited guests will include persons connected with veterans affairs. Special guests will be the husbands of auxiliary members.
The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Homer Compton.
Mrs. Ralph Bailey, president, reminded members that election of officers would be held at the March meeting. A joint installation of officers of the Post and Auxiliary is scheduled for April. Mrs. C. B. West Jr. termed the dance party held at Caswell Training School on February 22 as a success. "It was obvious that the children appreciated the special attention given them," she said. The party was sponsored by the local group. Auxiliary members who accompanied Mrs. West include Mesdames Ralph Bailey, L. E. Meeks and Alice Ayers. J. A. Joyner, commander of the Greenville Post, also attended the affair.
Notes were received from the children in the North Carolina Cottage at the VFW National Home expressing their thanks for the homemade cookies and candies sent them recently. Mrs. Elbert Bullock reported that notes had been received also from two of the children who were remembered on their birthdays.
A donation was made to the VFW Cancer Fund which made contributions total $50 for the fiscal year.
Fifty bingo prizes have been sent to the Oteen Veterans Hospital since the last meeting.

Mrs. Bailey gave a report on the recent visit of members to the County Home. Refreshments were served to the inmates and special gifts were provided.
Mrs. H. L. Vincent won the attendance prize.
During the social hour, Mrs. Compton, hostess of the evening, served coffee, cake and nuts.

Major Fashions Have Free And Easy Look, Kneelength Hemlines

By NADEANE WALKER
PARIS (AP)—Paris fashion designers today lifted the wraps from their new spring creations, to permit publication of the first 1960 high fashion photos.
Buyers and manufacturers have had a month to exploit the new styles before copyists get a chance to make what they can of pictures and sketches.
The public can now take its choice between Dior's somewhat shapeless "Silhouette of Tomorrow," Nina Ricci's swirling gypsy line, Heim's conical Eiffel tower, Balmain's tubelike Corinthian column, Lanvin-Castello's "free and easy" fashions, or half a dozen others.
The "free and easy" claim and a hemlength that just covers the knees, incidentally, are the two things that all the major fashion collections have in common.
The waistline wanders from normal to low to high, jackets are long, or short, or medium, and the new colors make up a whole

With Farm Women

Home Demonstration Club women in Rowan County have found it is important for them to take soil samples too.
At recent club meetings, the garden leaders gave reports on the 1960 recommended seed varieties for gardens. Miss Edith Hinzshaw, home economics agent, reports that soil sample boxes were given to the women so they could test their soil for proper fertilizing.
The magic powers of transformation in color was discussed with Home Demonstration Club women in Surry County. Neckline blocks of many different colors were used in workshop groups to aid a person in finding colors that were good selections.
Mrs. E. C. Evans of Franklin Club said, "I am glad to find out that personality and color should always be considered when buying clothes."
In Perquimans County, 4-H adult leaders are really on the move. For several years they have assisted with 4-H activities giving of their time and service.
According to Mrs. Palee L. Underwood, home economics agent, the leaders have been recognized as one of the six outstanding organizations in the state. The group will receive special training in several areas which will better equip them to train the youth.
Lamm's Home Demonstration Club members in Wilson County have finished a special landscaping project. They worked with members of the Milbourne Baptist Church in landscaping the church grounds. Many dollars were saved by getting a discount on plants and doing work themselves.
Mrs. O. P. Humphrey, home economics agent, reports Mrs. J. Stanley Moore, Mrs. Loomis Daniel and Mrs. Virginia Hayes served on the planning committee.
Carolyn Kidd, a 4-H Club member in Moore County, is always glad to share her 4-H experiences with other people. Carolyn attended the local Rotary Club meeting and gave the highlights of her past five years in 4-H work displaying her medals, record books and ribbons.
Mrs. Elizabeth Barringer, assistant home economics agent, reports that a $25 savings bond was presented to Carolyn for placing third in the state with her dairy calf project.

Importance Of Buying Stressed At Home Demonstration Meeting

A special interest meeting on selection of large electrical equipment was held for Pitt County Home Demonstration women Tuesday afternoon in Williamston. Thirty-five women representing eight different home demonstration clubs attended.
Miss Hilda Apple, home economist of an electric power company, conducted the meeting. She began her discussion by saying that the first rule to follow in choosing electrical equipment is to make sure the appliance meets the individual family's needs. For example, if a family has need for

Pancake Supper In Parish House

The carnival atmosphere of Shrove Tuesday will be observed at a traditional pancake supper in the Parish House of St. Paul's Episcopal Church Tuesday, March 1, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.
This festival supper preceding Ash Wednesday, the first day of Lent, is being sponsored by the Young Churchmen. Tickets are available from any of the members or may be purchased at the door.
A program of entertainment will be provided throughout the evening.

Election Of Officers Set

A regular meeting of Greenville Chapter No. 149, Order of the Eastern Star, will be held at the Masonic Hall in Greenville at 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 1st. Officers for the coming year will be elected at this meeting.
The Worthy Matron urges members to attend this important meeting. Visiting Stars are cordially invited.
Meeting Postponed
The Greenville Music Club will not meet Tuesday night, March 1, as scheduled because of the college holiday, but will meet on Tuesday, March 8, at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Moye Dall on Orton Drive.

They'd Re-Raise A Proven Failure

The showdown battle over the emotion-charged issue of civil rights which began in the Senate today has become so paramount in the public eye, it is probable that a large majority of Americans have completely overlooked the central proposals around which the debate is centered.

The label "civil rights" attached to legislation seems to be sufficient to draw the line between proponents and opponents without weighing the merits of what is being proposed. Such a situation, it seems to us, is not without its fundamental danger if the traditional democratic system is to be preserved.

Of major concern should be the proposals themselves and how they would affect the nation, the states, the communities and the individual citizens . . . not whether they are tagged with "civil rights" or some other label.

The current debate in Congress centers around proposals which would set up a system by which federal referees or officials would supervise elections not only in the South, but anywhere in the nation. In effect, federal officials would have charge of the election machinery which has traditionally been under state and local jurisdiction.

During the days of reconstruction, a similar plan for election supervision was approved by Congress and put into operation for a number of years. In time, however, Congress recognized the error of its action, and killed off the supervision machinery it had created. The system bred such corruption in elections—primarily in metropolitan areas of the North—that it could no longer be tolerated.

And there are no guarantees that such a situation would not again result if control of elections in every precinct of the country is concentrated in the hands of the federal government.

What is being proposed is being proposed under the name of civil rights legislation. In sharper focus, however, it is legislation which would overthrow completely the traditional division of powers under which jurisdiction over elections has been left to the states.

It would afford the federal government broad new powers for controlling the election machinery of the state, if indeed, not taking entirely out of the hands of the states any jurisdiction over elections. With such a centralization of power over elections in the hands of the federal governments, the election machinery of all the states might well become a rubber stamp to the will of a very few people.

We trust citizens of the nation, as well as their representatives in Congress, will look beyond the civil rights label to actually what is being proposed in legislation now being debated in the Senate.

Extra Interest In The Managers

By LYNN NISBET

MANAGERS — Because Malcolm Seawell's entry into the gubernatorial sweepstakes was rather sudden, as contrasted with the prolonged preannouncement campaigning by Terry Sanford and John Larkins, there was more than common interest in the personnel he would choose to direct campaign activities. Selection of C. A. Dillon Sr. and Armistead Maupin as co-managers, based in Raleigh, with assistants to be named for the East and West later, made news. Dillon heads a machinery supply and engineering firm with statewide connections, and has been active in church and civic affairs. Maupin is a lawyer with family and political connection long identified with State and local government.

Terry Sanford chose Bert Bennett, Winston-Salem businessman with experience on the political front, to be his general manager, and Henry Hall Wilson of Monroe, scion of families long powerful in the business and political life of Union and adjacent counties, a former legislator and State YDC president, as assistant manager, directly in charge of the state headquarters offices in the Carolina Hotel.

At time this is written Larkins has not announced his top managerial staff, but the names of leaders in his women's auxiliary group and of known active supporters, assure that he will rely strongly on the element in the Democratic party which was closely allied with the Gregg Cherry and William Umstead group.

These managerial selections, perhaps to greater degree than the "platform declarations" of the several candidates, indicate the general division of factional alignment. Personal and immediate loyalties overlap, but basically the Sanford organization comes from the Kerr Scott faction, the Larkins staff will carry on the Cherry-Umstead philosophy, and the Seawell organization will more nearly represent the ideology of the present Hodges administration.

CAMPAIGNERS — The "Women for Sanford" started the ball rolling for distaff campaign organizations. It was picked up by Ladies for Larkins and the less cohesive group facetiously called "Maidens for Malcolm." Some of the younger women friends of Wade Bruton, recently appointed attorney general and candidate for the nomination, are talking about forming the "Babes for Bruton" club.

PRECINCTS — The Democratic Party Plan of Organization for North Carolina provides for the State committee to set a common day for precinct meetings in each of the more than 2,000 voting precincts. Usually that date has been early in May, some two weeks ahead of the State convention. This year some of the precincts in Charlotte decided they did not want to wait so late to name new committees and set up a Macklenburg county organization. They obtained permission to hold the precinct meetings in Mid-February. Now a number of local party leaders are displeased with the results of these meetings, and have appealed to State party officers for relief.

Col. Wade Bruton of the Attorney General's office, who served as chairman of the committee to revise the Plan of Organization two years ago, has advised the Charlotte folks that there is some doubt about the validity of the February precinct meetings, and suggests that the matter be taken up at the State committee meeting here Friday of this week with a view to legalizing the earlier action or declaring it of no force and effect.

There have been other instances where eagerness of local factions to gain advantage in the party organization by changing the regular schedule turned out to be disappointing.

ROLLMAN — Heinz Rollman, the non-conformist Republican candidate for Congress in the 12th district, has come through with another digression from the usual. He is running advertisements in all the papers in his district seeking applicants for the job as chief administrative assistant—in event he gets elected to Congress. Rollman says if he can find the kind of man he wants, he will pay his salary of about $10,000 a month until the November election. If he should be elected, the Government will take over the salary payment; if he is not elected, the man will be out of a job. Meantime, in order to earn the $10,000 monthly salary, the applicant must prove his knowledge of and love for Western North Carolina, be willing to work 16 hours a day discovering the resources and the needs of the area.

This is a novel approach to campaign publicity and will probably add some $7,000 to $8,000 to the expense account of the candidate. This, however, will not be reportable expense required by Federal and State corrupt practices acts.

No where in any of his political advertising has Rollman referred to party affiliation. He filed as a candidate in the Democratic primary two years ago, and when he was defeated subsequently changed his party registration. So he had to file this time as a Republican. In the 1958 primary he received 18,794 votes out of total of 50,332. The general election Democratic majority in the 12th district has for some years been at the approximate ratio of 62 to 38. In view of this voting record the applicant for the job which Rollman has to offer can hardly be confident about tenure beyond November.

You're Taking The Wrong Attitude

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Caryl's Crimes Ignored

COPYRIGHT, 1960, KING Features Syndicate, Inc.

The most astonishing item in the Chessman case is the general avoidance of mention of the crimes that Caryl Chessman committed. In all that is said about this man, little comment is upon the fact that he committed rape, was a sex pervert, a robber, a kidnaper, a sadist and was arrested for these crimes. Mrs. Ruth Shaw, mother of one of the girls he raped, had this to say:

"My daughter, Mary Alice, was only 17 when he kidnapped her, tore her clothes off of her and for four endless hours terrified her, hurt her, sadistically abused her and caused her to lose her mind and live among normal human beings." Chessman's criminal record started in 1937 and ended with his apprehension in 1948. Why the State Department should violate the Constitution of the United States to seek a reprieve from the judgment of the courts for such a person can only be explained by a total negation of the sanction of law in our civilization. The excuse that the rapist, Chessman, has become a hero to certain elements in South America, only reflects upon those elements; it must not be permitted to serve as a precedent for dictatorial judicial procedure. Else, our courts crumble into dust and our laws become the whim of our rulers.

Governor Pat Brown of California has raised an altogether false issue, namely, capital punishment is morally correct or not is a matter of private conscience. If the Governor said that it is against his conscience to permit anyone, even a murderer or a rapist or a kidnaper, to be given the death penalty and that as a moral sanction, he, the governor, will pardon or reprieve such persons, that is his privilege and he must accept the consequences of his decision. But Governor Brown did not say that. What he did say was:

"I was informed that there could be concern in this matter in view of President Eisenhower's trip. That moved me more than anything else."

The history of the reprieve seems to be that Richard R. Rogan, Chief Deputy Attorney General of California, solicited the support of the Federal government for aid for a reprieve for Chessman. This was done despite the fact that Chessman was tried in California courts and he is a California convict. Roy R. Rubottom, Jr., in charge of the Inter-American Desk of the State Department, sent a telegram to Governor Brown suggesting the reprieve.

It is not usual in State Department procedures for a man on Rubottom's level to send such a message, with its political connotations, without the approval of an Under Secretary of State or the Secretary himself. It is to be presumed that Rubottom submitted his telegram to his superiors and that they approved. Lincoln White, press officer of the State Department, is reported to have said that Under Secretary Douglas Dillon approved the Rubottom telegram and that a copy was sent to the White House.

The Constitution of the United States in no place authorizes the President or the State Department to dictate the course of judicial procedure of any State. On the contrary, the Constitution specifies in the Tenth Amendment:

"The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution (Continued on Page 5)

Presidential Tour Is Succeeding Its Goal

President Eisenhower's visit to Latin America has not been without its discordant notes, but on the whole there seems no question about its helping to solidify the relationships between the United States and its neighbors to the south.

The President so far has received an enthusiastic welcome from residents of the cities he has visited. Moreover, there is every indication that the personal reception he has received from officials has been most cordial.

From all indications, the President is succeeding in getting across to top officials, as well as the public in the countries he is visiting, the two key points of his message: 1. The United States seek a just and lasting peace; and 2. desires a mutual help and friendship with Latin American nations rather than a big brother, little brother relationship.

In past years as well as at present, the United States has been accused of seeking to exploit other less powerful nations of the Western Hemisphere to its own advantage. The President in his current tour has re-emphasized the desire of the United States to aid Latin American development, but on a mutual basis in which each nation would share the responsibility without the United States dominating the decisions. The Latin American response to the reiteration of this U. S. policy has been most favorable.

Positive proposals to effect and expand such a program have been made during the President's tour. There is every indication these will be put into action without undue delay.

Although President Eisenhower is nearing the end of his term of office, we trust the current tour is the beginning of a more positive U. S. approach to its relationship with Latin American nations. If, following the President's tour, continued emphasis is placed on cementing stronger relations between the United States and the nations of Central and South America, greater hemispheric solidarity, so vital to the free world, will be assured.

If, on the other hand, U. S. policies toward Central and South American nations are allowed to drift back into a passive attitude, the weakening of hemispheric solidarity is the only possible result.

Sure Recovery By Stock Prices

By RALPH ROBEY

Well over ten million persons own publicly-issued stocks of American corporations. Other millions indirectly own stocks through various forms of savings. To all of these, the recent behavior of the stock market has been of concern, and all of them are interested in whether the decline is going to continue.

The measure most commonly used for stock prices is the Dow-Jones industrial average. This is not the best index of the market as a whole, but Dow-Jones is the only organization that reports each individual stock transaction, and its tickers are found in brokerage offices from one end of the country to the other. The average is calculated on an hourly basis, for the high and low of the day, and, of course, for the closing. Taking the latter, the high for this year, and for all time, was last January 5 at 685. Recently the market has been flirting with 600.

This is too much of a decline to be shrugged off. In the old days it was said that anything up to a ten per cent decline was a technical reaction. This has gone beyond ten per cent.

No one ever can explain with positiveness what causes a market decline or a market advance of significance. But unquestionably the following have had an influence:

1. The market had attained an extremely high level—high not only in relation to historical standards, but high in relation to earnings and the return one could receive from bonds. Even U. S. bonds were selling at prices which returned a substantially higher yield than one got on good stocks.

2. Corporate profits were headed up, but it could not be assumed that they would go much higher. This meant that dividends would not be raised enough to lift the yield appreciably, and in many instances there was no basis for hoping for any increase of dividends.

3. Many persons began to revise downward their predictions for both the extent and the duration of the present recovery. And these revision appeared to get support by a fairly continuous flow of news that was not too favorable.

4. Foreign holders, who in the aggregate own between $10 billion and $15 billion of American securities, began a light liquidation and the market is thin enough to be adversely affected by such selling.

5. The fear of inflation has subsided to a marked extent. This fear had been a powerful factor on the upside. Now, with many investors of the opinion that inflation is not inevitable, there is less urge to hold stocks.

6. In the minds of numerous persons, there is uncertainty about the political situation and the recognition that the current Congress may enact legislation which will hurt business and the growth of the economy, with the danger that the next Congress may be even worse.

How much farther will the decline go, and is there a chance of a real recovery? There is no reason to assume that the decline will continue either much farther or much longer. We are not faced with a recession, and we certainly are not faced with a depression. This means that a recovery of stock prices, as measured by the Dow-Jones average, is inevitable. How soon it will start, and whether it will go above the old highs, are matters of judgment. My personal opinion is that we shall see a new high, but that will be some months hence, and one must buy his stocks with utmost care.

Other Editors Saying Free Gov't Disappearing

(Henderson Dispatch)

Senator Byrd of Virginia pays his respects to parliamentary procedure now being followed in the Senate in the handling of the civil rights measure. He says he has been in Congress twenty-seven years and has never before seen such irresponsible disorder as now, and which he declares "merits national censure." Object of his attack is the effort to enact by legislative rider a so-called civil rights law virtually affecting the lives of millions of people; that is to say, tacking it onto a minor measure which has no bearing on the issue.

No civil rights bill has been reported by any Senate committee, and parliamentary chaos is predicted. The purpose, according to the senator, is "in the confusion to enact punitive, vindictive and unconstitutional legislation."

Byrd charges that the proposed amendment would call upon Congress to recognize Supreme Court decisions as amendments to the Constitution; to amend the Constitution by statute; to make resistance by State and local officials, and the public generally, to Federal court school orders a felony punishable by both imprisonment and fine; appropriate funds for use in attempts to bribe State and local officials to accept the Warren Court school decision; to authorize Federal agents to determine who is qualified to vote in any local, State or Federal election, and police the polling places and the counting of votes; and "to press toward enforcement of the old FEPC proposals that a Federal agency should control hiring and firing employees in private business."

The senator plainly characterizes the legislation as political, as every unbiased appraisal of it must conclude. To oppose any of these things, Byrd argues, "would be punishable by two years imprisonment and $10,000 fine, but it would be all right for NAACP to oppose an order disapproving a local plan."

In a lengthy speech in the Senate, Byrd said scores of proposals offered would write new meaning into the Constitution of the United States; accept the Warren Court's interpretation of the Constitution as the supreme law of the land with respect to education; make it a felony to resist Warren Court decrees; bribe State and local officials to conform with Warren Court orders; open local and State election records to a politically appointed Federal attorney general and his representative; authorize Federal agents to decide qualifications of voters in local and State elections as well as Federal, and police voting and counting of the votes.

Utterances by statesmen like Senator Byrd are of no consequence whatever to leftwing, politically minded lawmakers. Their primary concern is winning an election by appealing to minorities regardless of what the Constitution provides.

The organic law of the land is no longer of significance to these honorables when it stands in their path. Rights of the States are thrown to the winds in an effort to establish strong centralized control, which can be manipulated by politicians in a manner of their own choice and for their own purposes. When the Constitution was written in 1787, Benjamin Franklin told questioners that "you have a republic if you can keep it."

All indications today are that it is rapidly slipping through the fingers of honest-to-goodness, patriotic citizens and headed to ward a bureaucracy or dictatorship, between which there is very little difference. It is happening before our very eyes with scarcely an eyebrow lifted in opposition.

Rare Buys Now On Auto Market

By ELMER ROESSNER

Move fast for auto bargains. As predicted here recently, there are some rare buys now. Both dealers and manufacturers overestimated the early-1960 demand, and there is a small but uncomfortable amount of unordered cars on the market. Buyers now can wangle below-list prices.

But not for long. Cutbacks of assembly lines are reducing the surplus, production will soon be even with the rising demand, and discounts will vanish.

One reason for the winter lag-offsetting the effects of mild weather in most areas—is the public's indecision over compact cars. Once the public mind is resolved on that point—and weather warms—auto sales will jump.

OTHER FORECASTS
"And here are more business predictions, based on analyses of developing trends:

Consultant boom: Top management is worrying itself more than ever over wage trends, computers, automation and other modern innovations. This has prepared a rich field for various consultants: specialists who will tell management how to deal with unions, how to automate, and how to cut expenses.

The "efficiency expert" of a couple of generations ago has been succeeded by the specialist who will consider only a slim phase of efficiency. Specialization has gone on to the point where management is willing to pay fees to specialists who will tell companies that they should not go into electronic computation.

Stick-up battle. Minnesota Minn-Gen Manufacturing has long been dominant in sales of celophane tape. Now a bitter fight for the market is brewing. Le Page's, a division of Johnson & Johnson, has been testing the market with its own adhesives, and is now ready to challenge 3-M. Massive advertising campaign is being prepared, and the attack will be launched on 3-M's most vulnerable point: price. The Le Page's campaign calls for underselling its competitors.

Observation: Le Page's is just as good and cheaper, but its dispensers don't work as well as the Johnsons think.

COSTLIER FABRICS
Higher textile prices. An earlier prediction here is under-scored: prices for cotton and synthetic textiles will go higher.

Unions are getting higher wages in organized mills throughout the South, and are intensifying organization efforts among the rest. Pay increases won so far look like a 5 per cent rise in textiles.

Air-conditioner bargains. Recent predictions that bargains will be found are coming true. This is to predict that still better prices can be obtained by sharp buyers from now until July. There is a sizable carry-over of 1959 conditioners, (good ones, too) and soon the 1960 models will be flowing into stores. Thus it is possible to get advantageous prices on 1959 models and, soon, fine bargains can be driven on prices for 1960

Hedges Against Strikes

By ROGER BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — In previous columns I discussed hedging against inflation. I said that the best "hedge" is land—that the government can print more bonds; that corporations can print more stocks; but that only God can make more land. This means that as population increases, as woodland grows, or as more minerals, oil, gas, etc. are discovered, properly located land will increase in price as inflation increases.

TAXES MUST BE PAID
Of course, either the corporation owning the land or the investor must pay the annual taxes. As investors do not like to do this, even in the case of orange groves, then it is better to buy stock in a corporation like Minute Maid, which will pay the taxes and which, when fruit is plentiful and sales are good, can also pay a dividend on the stock. Taxes, however, must be paid by some one and taxes are sure to slowly increase each year.

Big companies like the Weyerhaeuser Company (largest timber owner in the U.S.) do this by selling lumber, corrugated paper and containers of all kinds through their manufacturing divisions. Even the great owners of woodlands are subject to strikes in their manufacturing divisions, but the labor continues to grow while the labor is on strike. The steel, iron, and coal supply, however, does not increase when a big steel strike is on.

WAGES WILL CONTINUE TO RISE

I have recently been reading an Economic History of England. The frightful long hours and low wages of the coal miners of 150 years ago seem almost unbelievable. Even little children were obliged to work in the mines for a few cents per day. The coal miners have been forced to continual struggle during these 150 years up to the present time. The same is true of the wage-workers of most every great industry.

Investors must not think that labor troubles will ever be over. After securing the highest wage that the traffic will stand and the shortest practicable working hours, labor leaders will fight for representation on boards of directors and ultimate government ownership. Only competition from European and Asian countries can check price increases or higher tariffs. High tariffs work for a while but ultimately will "kill the goose that lays the golden eggs."

WISE INVESTORS WATCH LABOR LEADERS

Some industries are more vulnerable to labor troubles than others. This means that investors should constantly watch the labor trends and switch their investments from the more vulnerable industries such as the steel, coal, motor, electrical, railroad, bus companies, etc., into the less dangerous ones where labor is not yet in such a powerful position that it does not care whether or not stockholders get any dividends. Moreover, remember that Congress will vote to help labor, whether or not their claims are just.

The labor leaders find it most difficult to organize the more intelligent workers, especially sales forces working on a commission; also merchandising companies—where there is a large turnover among the sales clerks. This now applies also to drug stores.

BE PREPARED TO SWITCH

Insurance companies may temporarily be free from labor troubles. The insurance premiums would continue to be paid into the home office whether or not a strike should occur. Settlement of claims would be delayed until the State Insurance Commission forced an agreement and granted higher rates to offset any wage increase. The same protection could apply to the owners of bank stocks.

There will always be some group of stocks that will be least subject to dangerous labor demands; the groups may, however, change from time to time. There are always some stocks which, for a time, are freed from labor troubles; but to hedge against such troubles investors should constantly be willing to switch out of one (Continued on Page 5) models where retailers see them coming into their warehouses while last year's models are still eating rent.

OLD PROMOTER WANTS PHONE FIRE ALARMS

It was a smirk, not a smile, on the Old Promoter's puss when he dropped in today.

"Phone companies all over are going crazy about my idea of a red alarm button on all telephones," he said. His idea, reported last week, was for such a button that would flash an alarm on police station boards.

"I'm improving it," the old one declared. "I'm working on a plan whereby every room in the house can be connected with the phone, and whenever the temperature rises above 135 degrees in any room, an alarm sounds on a firehouse board. Sure, the phone company can charge extra for this alarm service, but the customers can more than offset the charges by paying less fire insurance."

Okay, AT&T, take it away. Take the Old Promoter, too.

Checking Up On Absentee, He Found 8 People Dead

THOMSON, Ill. (AP)—An auto dealer trudged through heavy snow along the banks of the Mississippi River to reach the secluded house of an employee Sunday and found him and seven other members of his family dead.

The frozen bodies of Leroy C. Hensel, 59, his wife, Dora, 53, and their six children were discovered by Eddie Shuler, for whom Hensel worked as a mechanic. The Hensel children, four daughters and two sons, ranged in age from 7 to 17 years.

Dr. L. B. Hussey, Carroll County deputy coroner, said the eight apparently died of asphyxiation a week ago in the four-room house the family was building. An oil burner in the house was extinguished and the oil tanks were empty.

Shuler said he decided to drive to the Hensel home to see if Hensel was sick as he had not been to work at Shuler's garage in nearby Morrison since Feb. 9.

Shuler said Hensel had told him not to worry if he didn't show up for work. Sometimes because of severe snowstorms it took him two or three days to dig out. The house is a mile southwest of Ebner, a small railroad switching station south of Thomson in northwestern Illinois.

"But I decided to take a look and see if he was sick," Shuler said.

His car became stuck in a snow drift as he drove near Thomson.

But Shuler, leaving his wife, their daughter and his son-in-law in the car, started to trample through the heavy snow to the little Hensel house.

He was greeted by a barking dog.

He said there was no response to his knocks on the one door or to his shouts. So he pulled the door off the hook.

"When I opened the door I was shocked," Shuler said. He found Hensel and his wife dead in folding cots in the living room.

Shuler said he left the house but returned in a few minutes to see if any of the children were alive. He found them all dead. They were Judy 17, Billy 14, Leroy 12, Susan 10, Patricia 8 and Jane 7.

Shuler notified Sheriff Harry Miller. A Civil Defense Corps amphibious duck got stuck in the snow but a power wagon finally broke through to the little house. The bodies were removed to a funeral home in nearby Savannah for an inquest.

stock into another. This means that wise investors will employ an experienced investment counselor to watch these changes or else will invest money in mutual funds which do not have to fear legislation.

Frugal Bachelor Host To Eisenhower Today

By THOMAS J. STONE

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The President of Chile, President Eisenhower's host today, is a frugal 63-year-old bachelor. Instead of living in the ornate presidential palace he resides in a modest fifth-floor apartment whose entrance is in an alleyway in the center of town. He owns a 1954 Oldsmobile but prefers to walk to work.

Jorge Alessandri, son of a former president, entered politics late in life—after making a fortune as a businessman. He is slowly pulling Chile out of economic straits. The copper rich country is traditionally friendly to the United States. As for Alessandri, George Washington is the man in history he most admires.

Alessandri spent most of his youth in Europe where his father was in exile for many years, and his only foreign language is French, which he speaks fluently.

Fire Truck Bogs Down, Burns Too

RICHLAND, Tex. (AP) — The Richland Volunteer Fire Department's truck bogged down in soft ground and burned along with a six-room frame home Saturday night.

The fire truck was used to haul water to fight fires because the city has no central water system. Firemen were unable to move the truck to safety after it became stuck at the rear of the Raymond Livingston home.

Alessandri was born in Santiago, May 5, 1896. He is a handsome almost bald man with a jutting jaw. He likes to wear pin-striped double-breasted suits. He is fussy about his food and worries constantly about his health. He frowns on smoking and drinking. His sister, Ester, married to Arturo Matte, a former senator and one-time presidential candidate, lives in the same apartment building. They often dine together. Otherwise the president does not go out much and does almost no entertaining. He likes to spend his evenings at home reading or listening to classical music. In the summer he likes to go to the ocean, two hours from Santiago by car.

As president, he spends more time at his desk than he does trying to make friends through public appearances. He shuns publicity. Few persons know him intimately.

He is a Catholic, although his father fought the church as a politician and is responsible for the separation of the church and state in Chile.

His father left him some money, and with it he made a fortune and became a member of Chile's wealthy aristocracy. He was president of a paper company and held other business interests.

His apartment is decorated with reproductions of Renaissance masterpieces and Japanese and Korean antiques, which he collects as a hobby.

Since going into office in November 1958 he has set about putting Chile on its economic feet.

New Recruiter Is Assigned Here

Master Sergeant John C. Holler (above), a veteran of 13 years active service in the United States Army, has been assigned as Army Recruiter for the Greenville-Pitt County area succeeding Master Sergeant George R. Moore who is moving to Goldsboro to assume duties as Zone Commander.

Sergeant Holler began his duties this week.

A native of Lenoir, Sgt. Holler entered the service in 1945 and has seen overseas duty in Korea, Japan, Italy, and Germany. He served his first tour of duty in the Air Force from 1945 to 1948. Sergeant Holler's decorations include: American Defense Medal, World War Two Victory Medal, Good Conduct Medal with 3 knots, Korean Service Medal, United Nations Medal, National Defense Medal, Korean Presidential Unit Citation (3), and the Presidential Unit Citation (3).

He is married to the former Edna Earl Arnold, a native of Rock Hill, South Carolina. In addition to Greenville and Pitt County, Sgt. Holler will serve as Army Recruiter for Beaufort, Martin, and Washington counties. He is in Greenville on the second floor of the Post Office on Wednesdays and Fridays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 12 noon.

His New Home Became A Target

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A Negro man moving into an all-white neighborhood toll police someone fired a shotgun into the front door of the house and smashed a window Sunday.

James Anderson said the blast hit his house while his son, James, 17, was in the rear of the small frame building.

A neighbor, Simon Sosa, 37, told officers he saw one of three white men in a car fire at the house and drive off.

Consider 'Unconfusing' Public On Defense

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to "unconfuse" the public on America's military posture and improve the defense policy-making machinery was under study today by Senate investigators.

The Government Operations subcommittee headed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) which last week heard top-run Republican businessmen criticize the government's decision-making process, weighed proposals affecting the State and Defense Departments and other agencies.

Some bills will be offered for congressional action this session, committee sources predicted. Touchier proposals may be delayed, to avoid having them considered in the politically charged atmosphere of an election year. Sen. Jackson disclosed, in a television interview Sunday night, that he is considering a resolution calling on the secretary of defense and armed service secretaries "not to participate in partisan politics."

One of the Jackson committee's witnesses last week, former Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett, testified that civilian as well as military officials of the Defense Department should be nonpolitical and nonpartisan.

Military men should contribute to national policy but not make it, said Lovett, a Wall Street banker and a Republican who served in the cabinet of former President Harry S. Truman.

Jackson, agreeing, said on the "Meet the Press" TV program that defense issues should not become tangled in politics.

"I think President Eisenhower now has a fine opportunity to announce that the defense secretaries will not engage in partisan politics," he said.

It was doubtful that Eisenhower would oblige. He recently declared that members of the executive branch have enjoyed the right to speak at political meetings since the beginnings of the nation.

Another Republican business executive, Thomas J. Watson Jr., head of International Business Machines Corp., appealed in his committee testimony last week for curbs on the debate over military issues. "Something must be done to 'unconfuse' the public," Watson said. "He and other witnesses contended the government's leaders have no and to impress on the nation the true gravity of the Soviet threat."

Demo Presidential Hopefuls Loose Shafts At Variety Of GOP Policies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Scattered over the country today, Democratic presidential hopefuls aimed their barbs at a wide variety of Eisenhower administration policies. Money, farm, and defense policies were among the targets.

Former President Harry S. Truman added another. "Beware of political budget cutters," he told a Conference for Israel Bonds in Miami Beach, Fla., Sunday night. In the case of farm policy, however, there was an indication Democrats might be attacking something unsupported by the Republicans if Vice President Richard M. Nixon, as expected, became the GOP candidate for president.

In a radio interview from Washington Sunday, Sen. Karl E. Mundt

(R-SD) said he was certain Nixon would come out with a new program, "which will be entirely independent of past programs."

Mundt disagreed with Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson's view that the Eisenhower farm program would be supported by Nixon or any other Republican candidate.

A Democratic attack on Benson and the Eisenhower farm program was made Sunday by Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), an unannounced candidate touring northern Illinois.

He told a luncheon group in Elgin that the present administration "will bequeath some 10 billion dollars of surplus farm commodities to haunt the farmers and the taxpayers until a Democratic administration can bring order out of the present chaos."

Financial policy was stressed by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) who winds up a tour of northwestern Wisconsin tonight. He and Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) are entered in the state's presidential primary April 5.

At a rally in Wisconsin Rapids Sunday night, Humphrey said that the administration's "tight money policies" had cost the small home owner and farmer millions in increased interest payments in recent years.

The administration's defense policy was criticized by Kennedy, in a speech prepared for the Senate today.

If Eisenhower's program is allowed to stand, Kennedy said, the United States faces a missile gap "on which we are gambling with our survival."

Kennedy urged Congress to vote more money for missiles, air alerts, and ground forces before the President goes to the East-West summit conference.

Few Birthdays, But Big Family

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP) — For a man who has had but 25 birthdays, Roderick P. Lewis has quite a family.

There are six daughters, four sons, 36 grandchildren and 68 great grandchildren.

Lewis, a retired contractor, was born on Feb. 29, 1856. Though he is 104, he has celebrated a birthday only on each leap year.

Lewis shared a cake with a hundred relatives Sunday.

Kennedy Urges Defense Outlays Prior To Summit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) called on Congress today to vote increased missile, air-alert and ground force spending before President Eisenhower goes to the summit conference.

A candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, Kennedy said in a prepared Senate speech this "investment in peace" would cost less than Eisenhower's estimated $4,200,000,000 budget surplus.

Kennedy said he agrees with Eisenhower that, with its present mixture of forces, America's defenses are superior to the Soviet Union's at the present time.

But if the administration's defense program is allowed to stand, Kennedy said the United States faces a missile gap "on which we are gambling with our survival."

Such a situation, he said, not only creates doubt among U.S. allies but leaves the enemy in doubt "and such doubts are tempting him."

"While those doubts persist, he will want to push, to probe and possibly to attack," Kennedy said

NEW CAPITAL — Work is pushed on Senate Building in Brasilia, controversial new capital of Brazil. Upper stories resemble a bowl resting on a table, with ramp leading to lower floor. City, located in wilderness, is scheduled to become capital April 21.

Leaves Today To Attend President's Conference

Robert C. Paysinger, East Carolina College industrial arts instructor, was scheduled to leave Greenville today to attend the President's Conference on Occupational Safety beginning tomorrow in Washington, D. C., and lasting through Thursday.

President Eisenhower invited five members of the ECO industrial arts faculty—Paysinger; Dr. Kenneth L. Bing, department chairman; Dr. Thomas J. Haigwood, Robert W. Leith, and Carroll W. Smith—to attend the conference. Due to the conflict of spring quarter registration at the college here, however, Paysinger alone has been asked to represent the department at the conference.

The conference will bring together in the Nation's Capital more than 3,000 leaders from American industry, labor, agriculture, Federal, State, and local governments, insurance, education, health, and private safety organizations from all parts of the nation.

Their purpose is to devise and apply voluntary, cooperative means for reducing the 13,300 deaths and nearly 2 million disabling injuries occurring annually because of on-the-job accidents.

Under the general chairmanship of Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell, the Washington meeting will come to grips with the problem of how to minimize the country's losses in manpower, technical skill, human suffering, and financial waste that job accidents are causing.

Program emphasis is upon broad functional topics pointed toward new hazards during the decade of the 1960's, rather than the industry-by-industry approach used in many safety conferences.

Marriage Licenses

The Pitt County Register of Deeds during February issued marriage licenses to the following 15 White couples:

Earl Lester Lindager, Winston-Salem, and Lula White Winstead of Greenville; Leroy Byrd and Beatrice Van Wageningen, both of Greenville; James Earl Cox, R-4, Greenville, and Linda Walston, R-1, Hookerton; William Roy Phelps Jr., and Marie Turbeville Scott, both of Greenville; James Earl Corbett of Farmville, and Dorothy Joy Wilson of Greenville; William Larkins Moore of Selma, and Mary Elizabeth Carr of Farmville; Levi Henry Faulkner, R-1, Ayden, and Brenda Maxine Horton, R-1, Fountain; Edward Earl Hudson and Shirley Ann Branch, both of Ayden; Richard W. Chalk Jr. and Kay Wanda Braxton, both of Greensboro; Dennis Robertson Jr. of Winterville, and Anna Joyce Wingate, R-5, New Bern; Howard Lee Smidley, R-1, Winterville, and Mary Elizabeth Hite of New Bern; William Bright, R-2, Ayden, and Shirley Gray Ayers, R-1, Robersonville; Ronald Gene Jones, R-6, Greenville, and Betty Jane Warren, R-5, Greenville; Bobby Sherrill Wilson of Wilmington, and Sybil Marlene Dudley, R-1, Grifton; and Bobby Gene Adams, R-1, Winterville, and Judy Jean Harris, R-1, Greenville.

Fifteen more licenses were issued to the following Negro couples: Cecil Williams, R-2, Bethel, and Dolly Mae Brown of Bethel; Herbert Jones and Mamie Ruth Whitfield, both of R-1, Fountain; Wiley Gray Best and Emily Williams, both of Bethel; Walter Sutton, R-3, LaGrange, and Olene Whitfield, R-2, Seven Springs; Thomas Cleo Roberson, R-2, Greenville, and Annie Pugh, R-1, Grifton; Daniel Phillips and Mary Elizabeth Blount, both of Greenville; Carlton Wooten, Falkland, and Pauline Carr, R-6, Greenville; David Henry Hucker and Martha Jane Short Fleming, both of Greenville; Henry Lee Chapman and Shirley Gilbert, both of Ayden; H. B. Dall and Alma Rene Harper, both of Ayden; Frank Humphrey and Laura Walker, both of Greenville; Larry Ellis of Ayden, and Hannah Hunter, R-1, Ayden; John Thomas Artis and Vency Jean Harper, both of R-1, Ayden; Josephus Clark of Greenville, and Margie Atkinson of R-6, Greenville; and Charlie Tyson and Cenie Moye, both of Farmville.

No Balkanization Plan Acceptable

TUNIS (AP) — Ferhat Abbas, premier of the Algerian rebel government-in-exile, today rejected any peace plan which would "balkanize" Algeria into separate ethnic or religious states. "Such solutions are not workable," Abbas said in a statement. "The Algerian people reject them."

The statement was prompted by indications from Paris that French President Charles de Gaulle was considering some kind of ethnic or religious division of Algeria as a solution to the five-year rebellion there. France would retain control of areas largely settled by the French.

SECRET AGENT

BETHANY (AP)—A straw vote taken in a Democratic precinct meeting here on presidential hopefuls showed all but one was for Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.). The one vote was for Vice President Richard Nixon, cast by a Republican who slipped into the meeting.

Regular Champ Fails Again

North State Notebook . . .
Another North State Conference tournament is history with the only remains being an elated convoy of Catawba students and some disappointed souls.

The regular season champions' failure to capture the tournament trophy is a continuation of the trend which has been built up in the past. Few times has the regular season champ gone on to win the title . . .

Although Catawba was picked in a pre-tournament poll as one of the favorites, its victories came as a surprise to many, especially the ones over Appalachian and Lenoir Rhyne.

The Apps looked unbeatable against East Carolina but only so-so against Catawba. Lenoir Rhyne and Catawba are a couple of bitter rivals but prior to Saturday night, the Bruins had always won when the clips were down . . .

Regular season play saw East Carolina defeat Catawba twice—the only North State club to do so. The Pirates won here, 74-59, and raced to a comfortable lead at Salisbury only to have to fight off a last half rally for a 73-71 second victory . . .

No Plans To Add Football

President Lem Stokes of Pfeiffer and other athletic officials of the college attended the tournament which was held in Lexington.

Stokes stated that Pfeiffer and East Carolina has the same type of problem conference-wise. ECC has been trying to enter the Southern Conference while Pfeiffer is seeking entrance into the North State Conference.

Pfeiffer had been turned down earlier because it does not compete in football. Stokes stated that they had intentions of adding the grid sport to their program . . .

Most of the press at the Lexington tournament expressed sentiment toward East Carolina's bid for entrance into a larger league. The feeling was that the largest North State school would hold its own in most of the sports.

Pointed out in conversation were a couple of factors not new to the college administration—the need for money and a stronger alumni . . .

Panthers Have Team Problems

The collapse of High Point questioned many followers of the North State race. There seemed to be some signs of dissension amidst the High Point squad during the latter stages of the season.

Coach Virgil Yow's public blast on scoring star Danny Sewell following High Point's upset loss to Atlantic Christian didn't gain the Panther general many new friends.

Yow explained that Sewell was too weak, always giving out late in the season. He noted that this could be revealed now that Sewell was a senior. The article unjustly lowered Sewell and his capabilities . . .

Charlotte Observer staffers covering the tournament were in high esteem of the job that Coach Earl Smith had done at East Carolina College. Selectors of the "Coach of the Year" in the North State, the Charlotte Observer should consider the merits of Smith well in their selection this year.

The other coach expected to be high on the list is Coach Earl Ruth of Catawba. Ruth had a veteran club but the way he brought them along was a tribute to his coaching ability. . . .

NAIA Play-offs To Start

Catawba joins Appalachian and Wofford in the NAIA district play-offs beginning this week. One more team will be added and it will be either Lenoir Rhyne or the winner of the Little Four tournament in South Carolina.

If Wofford wins the tourney as expected, Lenoir Rhyne will get a shot at the district title. The winners of the two tournaments qualify for the district play-offs and two clubs boasting the best regular season record are added. The winner advances to the NAIA national play-offs . . .

The North State tournament seems to have found a home in centrally-located Lexington. The Friday night games drew 3,900 and Saturday's final also presented a packed house.

Friday's crowd was the largest basketball attendance for the Lexington YMCA and the third biggest crowd. The other two bigger crowds were for Elvis Presley and Argentine Rocca . . .

Slow 4:11 Mile Was Enough To Take Easy Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Ordinarily a miler who hopes to become a member of the 4-minute club, would be agast over the thought of winning a race in 4:11.8.

But not Ed Moran or his coach, Chick Werner.

The big Penn State graduate student was so far in front at the finish of the mile in the Knights of Columbus games in Madison Square Garden Saturday night that it was practically a walkaway.

"I know the time was slow," shrugged Moran today, "but Chick is pointing me toward the Olympic trials. I'm just staying in shape. I hope to hit my peak in the trials."

Wer was happy with Moran's performance. He looked beyond the clocking.

"Ed had loads to spare," he observed. "I think he is capable of four minutes or better by the trials. He is on a solid schedule of building strength to stand up to a very fast pace."

Mantle Refuses Meet Officials

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Outfielder Mickey Mantle said Sunday he received long-distance phone calls from two Yankee officials last week. He said he refused to meet them at St. Petersburg, Fla., to discuss his contract for the 1960 baseball season.

The Yankee slugger said he received calls from the club's general manager, George Weiss, and his assistant, Roy Hamey.

Kinston Wins Northeastern 3-A Title

Kinston's Grainger High, a school well familiar with state play-offs in the cage sport, salted away another Northeastern Tournament title and a berth in the state play-offs Saturday night, pounding tourney darkhorse Jacksonville, 58-48, before a packed house in East Carolina's Memorial Gymnasium.

Washington won the consolation crown, outrunning Roanoke Rapids, 55-43, in the opener.

Trailing 11-0 during the early minutes of the game, Jacksonville could never draw even with its stronger rivals but made a battle of it, never releasing the pressure from the shoulders of Coach Paul Jones and his Red Devil five.

On the strength of Tommy Matlock's nine points, Kinston was out front 17-8 in the first period and left the floor at intermission with a 28-16 bulge.

Like in its first two games, the command of Coach Tom Pritchard knitted itself into a competent machine in the final half, drawing as close as six points. The score at the end of the third period was 42-34.

Fouls eliminated Don Rhyne and Fred Beacham in the final period and the Cards were unable to close the eight point gap with a full court press.

Jerry Rice, All-Conference forward, had a radar beam in the second half of play, netting 13 points to finish the night with a total of 22—high for both teams.

Running mate Matlocks hit for 17 points. Bill Hargett, a hot-handed guard, led the Cards with 13 points and reserve Mike Crawford bucketed 12.

The victory was the third of the season for Kinston over Jacksonville, 58-48, before a packed house in the first round of the conference tournament last year, the Red Devils will return to their regular role as a contender for the state title next week at Durham.

Playing the consolation game like a couple of old gents in a chess game, Coaches Bill Sweel of Washington and Wimpy Johnson of Roanoke Rapids matched wits for some 32 minutes before the Pam Pack eked out a 55-43 victory.

Choosing to play the Jackets race-horse type of ball, Washington moved out front 30-19 at half-time but relied on semi-freeze tactics in the second half to sew up the consolation title.

Russ Knowles led Washington with 14 points and Larry Windley and Adrian Waters tallied 12. Tommy King was the only Jacket player to break into double figures, collecting 11 points.

EC Fails To Put Man On All-Stars

GREENSBORO (AP)—Catawba's champion Indians and Lenoir Rhyne's runner-up Bears monopolize the all-star selection from the North State Conference's annual basketball tournament at Lexington.

Earl Ruth's Tribe, which won the crown on a 59-57 victory over Lenoir Rhyne in an overtime Saturday, placed three on the first all-tournament team selected by the press and news men covering the games. The Bears claimed the remaining two berths.

Bob Flynn, Doug Chalk and Larry Forbis are the Catawba players named, while Ken Norman and Bill Reece are chosen from Lenoir Rhyne.

"Why aren't you guilty?" asked the judge. "This officer caught you."

"Your honor," said Suchow, "I was on a death call."

"Are you a doctor?" asked the judge.

"No, I'm an embalmer."

"No, I need for you to hurry," said the judge, and fined him $25.

Tar Heels Draw First Seeding In ACC Tourney

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina, which won its last three games to close in a first-place tie with Wake Forest, drew top seeding Sunday for the three-day Atlantic Coast Conference championship basketball tournament opening Thursday at Raleigh.

The drawing by the conference basketball committee matched the Tar Heels against last-place Virginia. Wake Forest, left with second seeding, thus will face seventh-place Clemson in the first round.

Wake Forest and North Carolina both ended the season with 12-2 ACC records. The Deacons played their last conference game more than a week ago.

Other tournament pairings were set automatically by the conference standings at season's end. Here's how the first round program looks:

Third-place Maryland (9-5) vs. sixth-place North Carolina State (5-9) at 2 p.m. Thursday; Wake Forest vs. Clemson (4-10) at 4 p.m.; North Carolina vs. Virginia (1-13) at 7:30; and fourth-place Duke (7-7) vs. fifth-place South Carolina (6-8) at 9:30.

Quarterfinals and semifinals will be played Friday, the finals Saturday night.

Before a capacity crowd at Durham, the Tar Heels hit for 65.2 per cent accuracy in field goal shooting during the second half to wind up with a 50 per cent clip for the game. Lee Shaffer of UNC headed all scorers with 26 points. Teammate Doug Moe had 19 and Doug Kisler led Duke with 17.

Duke's defeat and Maryland's 72-66 victory over South Carolina gave the Terps undisputed third place. South Carolina led all the way until about four minutes remained. Al Bunge led the winning push, ending up with 22 points and 20 rebounds. Jerry Bechtel had 16 and for South Carolinian Bobby Robinson had 17 and Art Whisman 14.

Virginia, playing non-conference Washington & Lee, won 86-59 to end its season with a 6-17 overall record.

NAIA Play-Offs To Start Tues.

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP)—The four-team District 26 NAIA basketball play-offs open Tuesday with Catawba at Wofford and Lenoir Rhyne at Appalachian.

The District 26 committee met here Sunday with Chairman Clarence Sasavich athletic director of Lenoir Rhyne to make the pairings.

The winners of Tuesday night's games will play either at Statesville Hickory or Spindale. The district champion will play in the NAIA national tournament at Kansas City March 8-12.

Appalachian (15-5) and Lenoir Rhyne (16-6) were selected on the basis of their season records against NAIA teams. Wofford and Catawba earned berths as their conference champions.

Catawba won the North State Conference tournament Saturday night in Lexington with a 59-57 overtime victory over Lenoir Rhyne. Wofford grabbed the South Carolina Little Four tournament crown Saturday with a 63-55 victory over Newberry.

Three district players also were nominated for consideration in the NAIA national All-America basketball team. They were Danny Sewell of High Point, Ken Norman of Lenoir Rhyne and Trap Hart of Wofford.

Invitational Set For March 14

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP)—The second annual Boys Home Invitational All-Star basketball game, to match a team of Big Four seniors against a team of North State Conference seniors, is scheduled for the night of March 14.

Invitations to play in the benefit game, for the Boys Home of North Carolina, have been sent to the 14 senior basketball players at North Carolina, Duke, N.C. State and Wake Forest.

The North State team won 89-78 last year.

Coaches and a North State roster will be determined later.

Indians Gain First North State Title In Overtime

By KEN ALYTA

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—A "determined, unselfish and aggressive" basketball team has given Catawba College its first North State Conference tournament title in the 17-year history of the post-season event.

That's how Coach Earl Ruth described his Indians after their 59-57 overtime victory over Lenoir Rhyne in Saturday night's finals.

Ruth said he didn't think the boys had played their best basketball, but added, "They never lost their poise out there. They like each other and play well together."

Lenoir Rhyne Coach Billy Wells, keenly disappointed over missing a chance to win Lenoir Rhyne's third tournament in four years, observed, "That Catawba team's deliberate style eats up so much time the other team tends to relax and then they pop through on you. They have a good ball club."

It was the second overtime game the clubs have played this season. Lenoir Rhyne edged Catawba 64-57 in overtime at Hickory in mid-January. Catawba won the return game at Salisbury 73-68 a month later.

A crowd of 3,200 saw Catawba clinch a berth in the District 26 NAIA tournament opening tomorrow.

Doug Chalk, whose 21 points led the Tribe, was named outstanding player of the tournament by newsmen covering the event. The stocky senior from Youngsville

NCAA To Check UNC Recruiting

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Basketball recruiting practices at the University of North Carolina will be scrutinized Tuesday by the Infractions Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

North Carolina Chancellor William B. Aycock said Saturday he and other university officials will go to Kansas City to attend the hearing of the Infractions Committee which asked the school to provide certain information.

Aycock said "We will supply all the information requested at that time. I would like to emphasize that we are giving our wholehearted cooperation in providing all facts and figures desired in the investigation."

Aycock said no violations of NCAA rules were found in the university's own investigation.

Aycock added, "Now that we have made public that an inquiry is in progress, I invite any sports-writer, coach, college official or the public—having any verified facts indicating violations of either Atlantic Coast Conference or NCAA rules, to supply them in order that the matter may be fully and finally explored and the truth ascertained."

Hildebrand Will Join Deacons

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—A junior college line coach will join the Wake Forest College football staff, says Coach Bill Hildebrand.

Hildebrand said Saturday that Ray Thornton, 32, line coach at Itawamba Junior College in Fulton, Miss., will replace David (Dixie) Howell.

Howell, who had been signed by Wake Forest, will remain at Fulton.

Thornton was graduated from the University of Mississippi in 1953 and was a defensive line coach there for four years before moving to Itawamba.

who shot at a 52 per cent pace for the regular season, clinched the game with three foul shots in the overtime period. Bob Flynn was a key man with 18 points for Catawba.

Ten times in regulation the score was tied. Catawba never led by more than five points and was on top at the half 28-26.

Ken Norman swung into action in the second half to score 13 of Lenoir Rhyne's 15 points in a seven-minute period to give the Bears a 53-50 lead with 4:30 to play. Norman led all scorers with 23 points.

But Chalk's basket and a foul by Cliff Hood tied it up. After Norman's hoop regained the lead for Lenoir Rhyne, Hood added two free throws with a minute to go to tie it at 55-all and bring on overtime. Hood was a late replacement for 6-6 Horace Medford, tallest Catawba player, who fouled out.

With 10 seconds left of overtime and Lenoir Rhyne down 58-57, soph Eddie Holbrook's foul shot hit the rim and bounced off. Four seconds later Holbrook fouled Roger Snow who added the final Catawba point. Holbrook had the last Lenoir Rhyne shot just before the buzzer and missed.

Dave Jenkins To Stress Schooling

CLEVELAND (AP)—"It was great to get the medal, but never again," says Dave Jenkins, Olympian figure skating champion who is back from Squaw Valley to renew his studies today at Western Reserve University Medical School.

"School instead of skating is the big thing for me from now on," the slight, blond and balding champion said Sunday night when he arrived at snow-blown Cleveland Hopkins Airport.

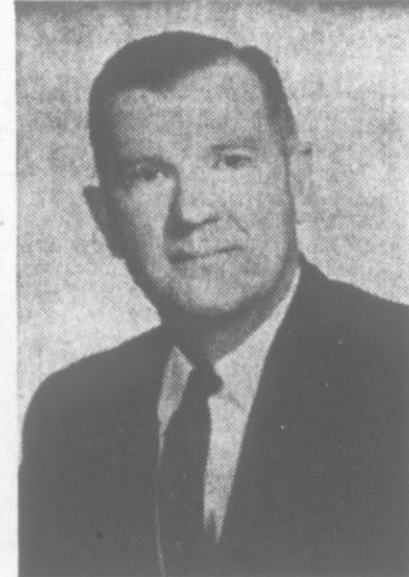

"It was great to win, but really a terrible three days," said the 23-year-old Jenkins. "It really was agony and I never would want to go through it again."

U.S. Hockey Team Captures First Medal

Yanks Stage 3rd Period Rally To Defeat Czechs

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—America's Cinderella hockey team capped the climax of a 1960 winter Olympic games that opened amid criticism and closed with high praise.

Coach Jack Riley's Yankees won the first hockey gold medal in this nation's history Sunday by staging a third-period comeback for six goals and a 9-4 victory over Czechoslovakia after trailing 4-3.

That rally brought the United States its third goal medal of the games and a third-place finish behind the Soviet Union and Sweden. The Swedes were one-half point ahead in the unofficial standings.

Four years ago at Cortina, Italy, the forces of Uncle Sam finished sixth with two gold medals—both in figure skating. They captured the same two this time as Carol Heiss and David Jenkins proved victorious. Then came the surprising hockey triumph that included victories by 2-1 and 3-2 over the favored forces of Canada and the Soviet Union.

The Americans were sitting disconsolately in their dressing room between the second and third periods of Sunday's hockey game. In walked Soviet Capt. Nikolai (Solly) Sologubov, who suggested they all take a whiff of oxygen to offset the 6,200 foot altitude.

They followed his advice and crashed home six goals in the final period, three by Roger Christian of Warroad, Minn.

The Squaw Valley facilities were lambasted nearly continually since the games were awarded to this area in California's High Sierra four years ago. Criticism ranged from the downhill ski course to holdout prices.

As the games ended Sunday there were congratulations from European sports officials and from Avey Brudage, president of the International Olympic Committee.

The Soviet Union scored 16½ points with big showings in the men's and women's speed skating. In men's skating Eugene Grishin won gold medals at 500 and 1,500 meters while Lidija Skoblikova took a pair in women's skating.

The Soviets didn't get a gold medal in cross country skiing or successfully defend their Olympic hockey title, but they led in gold medals with seven.

Sweden tallied 7½ points with three gold medals while Uncle Sam's forces had 71 and Germany 70½. Germany took four gold medals.

East Germany's Helmut Recknagel captured the final one Sunday in the special ski jumping with a best jump of 93.5 meters, or 307 feet. Second place went to Finland's Nillo Halonen, 19-year-old student, who had a leap of 92½ meters or 303 feet as his best. The best the United States could do was seventh by Ansten Samuelstuen of Steamboat Springs, Colo. He had 211.5 points.

Riley Says Happy Big Strain Over

By PATRICK MCNULTY.

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—"No one figured us for better than third place—but we beat 'em all," said Jack Riley, mastermind of the U.S. Olympic hockey triumph. During the winter games, the 39-year-old American coach kept repeating in his crisp Boston accent: "we hope to be the first American hockey team to beat the Russians and win an Olympic gold medal."

Self-styled experts told Riley he could build a snowman on the equator easier. The American players hadn't much more than met each other before last Christmas. Riley's irregulars were a pickup team from hither and yon—Boston insurance salesmen, Minnesota carpenters, servicemen, a television salesman from Wisconsin, a husky fireman from Brookline, Mass.

Riley, an ex-Dartmouth star who had been coach at the U.S. Military Academy for 10 years, took a gamble on the Yank squad and won. Eleven players threatened to quit when he added Boston's Cleary brothers—Bill and Bob—just an hour before the player deadline on Feb. 4.

The 11 resented that the Clearys, busy with their insurance business, hadn't been practicing with the squad.

"I told them if they wanted to come to Squaw Valley as the second best team, O.K.—I didn't. I said we'd go as the best, or not at all."

The Clearys turned out to be stars on the Yank team that swept five games for the first U.S. Olympic hockey gold medal.

The world champion team that Riley pulled together is scattered in the winds today—players have gone back to their Army camps, jobs, wives and kids.

Riley is happy the hectic tension is over and he can resume life at West Point with his pretty wife, Maureen, and their four sons—Jay 9, Mark 7, Robert 5, and Brian, 8 months.

Riley, who looks younger than some of his players, was as Ivy League hockey standout at Dartmouth where his brothers Joe and Bill also starred.

He was a Navy pilot during World War II—cruising the Pacific in a twin-engine PBM patrol bomber. After the shooting was over, Riley went back to a Boston insurance business and his first love—hockey.

Riley was a high scorer in the 1948 Amateur Hockey Assn. and on the U.S. team that went to the Olympics at St. Moritz, Switzerland in 1948. He was player-coach on the American team that finished third to Czechoslovakia and Canada at the 1949 world's championship at Stockholm, Sweden.

Riley took the job at West Point on a temporary basis—and fell in love with it. He is also assistant athletic director and has just signed a three-year contract.

"Riley doesn't drink or smoke. He lives quietly—except when in Olympic competition."

"I've never been under such tension," said Riley. "I'll certainly be glad to get back to the Point and play M.I.T. and some of those others schools."

Twenty Vacancies Remain For Two Major Tournaments

By DON WEISS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Major college basketball moves into its final 10 days of regular 1959-60 season, still with 20 vacancies to be filled in the two big postseason tournaments — The NCAA and the National Invitation.

Only four conferences of 14 that send automatic qualifiers into the NCAA have been settled, and NCAA officials have announced only five of 11 or 12 at-large selections that round out the first round play beginning March 8.

The NIT, which opens March 10 in New York, still has four vacancies in its 12-team line-up and what happens in the conference races will decide how soon it can get its full field. The NIT habitually takes the runners-up from several of the major conferences, including the Missouri Valley, the Skyline and this year, the Middle Atlantic.

So far, New York U., Miami (Fla.), Notre Dame, Navy and Idaho State have won at-large berths in the NCAA, with defending champion California — having clinched the first Big Five Conference title—certain of a place and unconfirmed only because the NCAA hasn't yet made the announcement.

Ohio State from the Big Ten, Ohio U. from the Mid-American, Georgia Tech from the Southeastern, and West Virginia from the Southern have wrapped up automatic conference places.

In the NIT, the eight named are Villanova, Detroit, Dayton, Memphis State, Providence, St. Bonaventure, St. Johns and Holy Cross.

The four vacancies will go to either Cincinnati or Bradley, running one-two in the Missouri Valley with two games to go; Utah or Utah State, one-two in the Skyline race with two games left; St. Joseph's (Pa.) or La Salle in the Middle Atlantic; and probably St. Louis, nationally rated although it will finish no better than third in the Missouri Valley.

The job of getting the other tangles straightened out begins tonight for many of the conferences.

Winter Games Sidelines

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Sidelights on the Winter Olympics:

Top Star — The weatherman, who provided perfect conditions for the athletes and spectators after first threatening to wipe out the games with floods and heavy snowfalls.

Formful Winners — U.S. figure skating champions Carol Heiss and David Jenkins, Canada's pair figure skaters of Bob Paul and Barbara Wagner, Russia's speed skaters, Russia's female cross country skiers, and Sweden's mighty Sixten Jernberg in cross country skiing.

Biggest Thrills — American hockey victories over Canada and Russia; the ski jumping; Carol Heiss' free skating, a ballerina on ice; David Jenkins, in figure skating, a whirling top on ice.

American Disappointments — Failure of the girl skiers to take a gold medal.

Gamest Athletes — The Japanese and Australian hockey goal-tenders, who deserve purple heart.

Oddity — All three U.S. victories were scored in Blyth Arena, making the Yanks the indoor champions in the games.

Biggest Suckers — Several would-be spectators who admitted they paid $25 apiece for stolen tickets for the top hockey games and then couldn't be seated. The regular ticket-holders were provided with duplicates by the officials.

Ivy League (gets at-large berth if wants)—Princeton 9-3 and Dartmouth 8-4 (twice loser to Princeton) with two games to go apiece.

West Coast Athletic — Pepperdine and Loyola of Los Angeles both 8-3, with one game left, Santa Clara 7-3 with two left, Santa Clara plays San Francisco Tuesday and St. Mary (7-4) Friday. Pepperdine has showdown at Loyola Tuesday.

Palmer Takes First In Texas Open Tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, winning money on the golf tour at the rate of $2,500 a week, went on to Baton Rouge, La., today to see about bagging another jackpot.

The broad-shouldered young man from Ligonier, Pa., took $2,800 first money in the Texas Open Sunday, winding up with 276 and a 2-stroke lead. It was his third tournament victory in the last 10 starts and at the rate he's now going he could even surpass the $72,835.83 Ted Kroll socked away in 1956.

Palmer's total official winnings this winter are $18,999.86. Counting money in pro-amateurs he has totaled $20,211.86. He has taken in more cash on the winter tour than any golfer in history.

Arnold didn't exactly finish in a blaze of glory in winning the Texas Open. He limped home with a 3-over-par 75 and had he not held such a long lead starting the final round would have been in deep trouble.

Doug Ford, the Crystal River, Fla., veteran, made a closing rush to get Palmer a little jittery.

The two played together in the final threesome. Palmer said it was cold hands—the tournament was finished in bitter cold and high winds—that caused his trouble.

Ford wasn't worried by the weather. He romped in with a 2-under-par 70—the lowest round of the day — to finish two strokes back of Palmer and in a tie for second place with Frank Stranahan, also of Crystal River, Fla. Stranahan, who started the final round in second place, four strokes behind Palmer, had a closing 73 for 278.

Wesley Ellis of West Caldwell, N. J., who won the Texas Open in 1958, finished fourth with 284. Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., was fifth with 285.

Rodriguez Moves Into Fight Scene

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fourteen years ago, Kid Gavilan swept into the United States from Camagney, Cuba like a heat wave. Latin-Americans took to the Kid's bolo punches and exciting rallies like they did to the rumba and the samba. Five years later, in 1951, Gavilan became the world welterweight champion.

Now, another welterweight boxer from Camagney, Luis Rodriguez, has moved into the boxing picture. Unbeaten in 27 bouts, Rodriguez gets a chance to climb further up the 147-pound ladder Wednesday night when he takes on veteran middleweight Chico Vejar in a televised (ABC, 10 p.m. EST) 10-rounder in Miami Beach, Fla.

In his last start, Rodriguez stopped Cal Hubbard in four heats at Miami Beach. Until then, the Cuban had shown little power and relied mostly on his boxing skill.

Victor Zalazar was an outstanding soccer player in his native Argentina a few years. Then he switched to boxing because it beats working and "I was too ugly," Zalazar turned in a handsome performance in his last start, beating Johnny Hegerle in an exciting eight-rounder.

This triumph earned him the Garden feature Friday against Yama Bahama. Zalazar has had only 14 pro bouts to 67 for Bahama. However, the Argentine fighter had 75 amateur bouts before he turned pro, winning 70 with two draws. The garden middleweight bout will be televised and broadcast (NBC-10 p.m. EST).

Now comes the big decision. The time has come to turn in your uniform and call it quits. Your club, to which you've given many years of loyal service, makes it easier for you by offering you a job as a coach. What is your reaction?

"It was a tough decision," answered Andy Pafko. "I thought about it a long time. I hate to quit as an active player. I felt I still could have played another year or two. For the past five years I've been only a part time player with Milwaukee."

Before coming to the Braves in 1953, Pafko starred for the Chicago Cubs and Brooklyn Dodgers, helping each to a pennant. His lifetime batting average includes 213 home runs and 967 runs batted in.

"The Braves have been wonderful to me," he said. "They gave me a real nice break offering me a coaching job with the club. It certainly softened the sting that comes with the knowledge that you're through as a player."

W. Virginia Had Rough Tourney

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—West Virginia's Southern Conference basketball empire remained intact today after a tournament that may have made the Mountaineers inestimably tougher for the NCAA playoff wars ahead.

When West Virginia downed muscular Virginia Tech, 82-72, for its sixth straight conference championship here Saturday night, both Tech and the Mountaineers made a discovery of singular importance.

The discovery was that West Virginia, which has risen to seventh ranking nationally largely on the exploits of All-American Jerry West, is still quite a team even when the fabulous West is riding the bench.

"They played better after he left," said a disconsolate Chuck Noe, the cagy little Tech coach who guided the Techmen to a 20-6 season. "We relaxed too soon."

West Virginia coach Fred Schaus, too, thought West's departure had a lot to do with the outcome of the title struggle.

The Mountaineers now will take things easy until Thursday, when they start practice for the bout with Navy in Madison Square Garden. West Virginia will carry a 24-4 record into the game, Navy a 16-5 record that shows a loss to the Tech team which West Virginia licked Saturday night.

Andrew Carnegie, who donated fortunes to build free public libraries, had two favorite authors whom he read time and again — Robert Burns and William Shakespeare.

Favorite amusement of Henry Ford, as a boy, was taking a watch apart and putting it together again.

West Virginia coach Fred Schaus, too, thought West's departure had a lot to do with the outcome of the title struggle.

The Mountaineers now will take things easy until Thursday, when they start practice for the bout with Navy in Madison Square Garden. West Virginia will carry a 24-4 record into the game, Navy a 16-5 record that shows a loss to the Tech team which West Virginia licked Saturday night.

Sloan Named To Florida U. Post

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Norman Sloan, named basketball coach of the year in South Carolina three times in the past nine years, is going to coach University of Florida basketball teams.

Selection of the 33-year-old Sloan for the Gator post was announced Saturday by Athletic Director Ray Graves.

Sloan succeeds John Mauer, Florida basketball coach for the past nine years who has stepped out to devote full time to his job as assistant football coach.

Under Sloan's leadership the last four seasons The Citadel has risen from one of the last place teams in the Southern Conference to one of the leaders.

After graduation from North Carolina State College where he was a standout basketball player, Sloan in 1951 became coach at Presbyterian College. In four years at Presbyterian, his teams won three SIAA crowns and his record was 70 victories and 30 losses.

Thomas, Coles Win Tournament

Carolyn Thomas and Monty Coles came in two stroke ahead of Errol Webb and Joyce Williamson yesterday afternoon to win the nine-hole Scotch Foursome Tournament played in benefit of the Heart Fund at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Thomas and Coles had the best ball score of 41. The team of Webb and Williamson was in second place with a score of 43.

Thirty-eight members of the club participated in the tournament which raised approximately $50 for the Heart Fund. The tournament was supervised by a committee composed of Simon Moye Jr., Evelyn Warner and Jack Gates.

Biggest Thrills — American hockey victories over Canada and Russia; the ski jumping; Carol Heiss' free skating, a ballerina on ice; David Jenkins, in figure skating, a whirling top on ice.

American Disappointments — Failure of the girl skiers to take a gold medal.

Gamest Athletes — The Japanese and Australian hockey goal-tenders, who deserve purple heart.

Oddity — All three U.S. victories were scored in Blyth Arena, making the Yanks the indoor champions in the games.

Biggest Suckers — Several would-be spectators who admitted they paid $25 apiece for stolen tickets for the top hockey games and then couldn't be seated. The regular ticket-holders were provided with duplicates by the officials.

Ivy League (gets at-large berth if wants)—Princeton 9-3 and Dartmouth 8-4 (twice loser to Princeton) with two games to go apiece.

West Coast Athletic — Pepperdine and Loyola of Los Angeles both 8-3, with one game left, Santa Clara 7-3 with two left, Santa Clara plays San Francisco Tuesday and St. Mary (7-4) Friday. Pepperdine has showdown at Loyola Tuesday.

Ivy League (gets at-large berth if wants)—Princeton 9-3 and Dartmouth 8-4 (twice loser to Princeton) with two games to go apiece.

Wesley Ellis of West Caldwell, N. J., who won the Texas Open in 1958, finished fourth with 284. Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., was fifth with 285.

CHAPTER 33
Jogging along beside Dwight Mitchell, Judy Rayburn was beginning to be nagged with doubt. When she had made her tickler with Dwight and ridden away from Walt Hollenger, she had thought she was doing the right thing. Sheriff Embury represented the law, and she thought that ought to mean that Walt was assured of safe escort to jail.

It occurred to her now that possibly Dwight had given in too easily. She hadn't really promised him anything. She had let him infer that she liked him, and that she would like and admire him more if he would leave Walt in the hands of the sheriff. She had told him she thought she knew where her uncle's papers were hidden, and she had agreed to help him look for them. But if Don Luis Morales was still home, he would never consent to turning them over to Dwight. If he was gone—they might not be able to find them.

She reined up her horse and waited tensely when they came to Don Luis' little house. Dwight looked at Clint Barrow and Miguel Pineda.

"All right, boys. This is as far as I need you. Go on back to the ranch. Miss Rayburn and I will be along after a while."

After they had gone, if she turned to Dwight, "You'll keep your promise! If we find these papers—and I let you have them without even looking at them—you'll stop hounding Walt? You won't try to kill him again?"

He spurred his horse close alongside hers and caught the hand that was resting on the saddle horn. "I promise, Judy," he said earnestly.

Judy thought it would have been easy to believe him if she hadn't heard him cry, "What are you waiting for? Let's string him up!" only a few minutes before.

His hand tightened on hers. "Judy—I want to know now—if you—"

Fearing then what he was going to ask her, and not wanting to anger him by her answer, she drew her hand away. "We'd better hurry, Dwight. It is going to be dark before long."

She started to step out of the saddle, but Dwight was too quick for her. He swung down and caught her as her foot touched the ground.

"Judy—you've got time to listen a minute. There's no hurry now."

She tried to move away but his hands tightened.

"Dwight, please! I—"

"You don't have to give me an answer now. I know you haven't known me long. Maybe it's too soon for you to make up your mind. But you've got to listen."

The girl tried to listen down her anger at being held.

"All right," she said, standing very still. "Please be quick about it!"

It wasn't exactly an encouraging opening for a proposal, and she hadn't meant it to be. Dwight flushed.

"I don't know whether Uncle Pete made a new will or not. If he did I've no idea what is in it. Maybe he left everything to you, maybe he left it to both of us. Possibly there isn't a new will and the old one leaving it to me still stands."

"But whatever we find when we look through those papers—I want you to know this—that I love you and I want to marry you. It doesn't matter a damn to me whether you're the heiress to the Sombbrero or not."

Judy realized that Dwight wasn't risking much. If he was heir to the Sombbrero he could afford to marry a poor girl. If she was the heiress, she could certainly afford to marry a rich one.

She made herself smile at him. "I understand, Dwight. My answer may hinge on whether or not you were honest in your promise that Walt Hollenger would not be harmed."

She was watching him closely, and she felt her heart leap with fear at the startled look that came momentarily to his eyes.

"But, Judy—you can't blame me if—"

"Were you lying to me?"

"No, of course not! I swear the Sombbrero hands won't touch him!"

Suddenly a woman's shrill, horror-stricken scream cut through the air like a knife, seeming to come from the Morales house above them.

"Bella!" Dwight said, and ran up the stone steps to the house. Judy hurried after him.

After that one scream there was no sound. They found Bella Gamel in the kitchen, slumped in a chair, staring at the body of her father.

"Bella! My Gosh—it's Joe!"

Dwight stopped in the doorway. Judy dropped to her knees and put her arms around the other girl. She wanted to tell Bella she was sorry, but knowing what she did about Joe Gamel, the words stuck.

Bella's slim body was stiff and resisting. After a moment she pushed Judy's hands down and stood up.

"Maybe—it's better this way," she said, and then her voice choked. "Only it was such a shock, coming on him like that—I—"

She broke off, suddenly ran across the room and lifted her arms to Dwight's neck. Sobs shook her shoulders.

Dwight looked embarrassed and pitying. He put one arm awkwardly around her, and patted her shoulder with the other hand.

Judy looked at Joe Gamel's body and then her eyes drifted to the gun on the floor by Gamel's outstretched hand. A gun with a swelled barrel and burst breech!

Stepping round the body she picked the gun up and turned it over in her hand. She rubbed her finger over the beautiful walnut butt with its delicate silver inlay, the flowery entwined initials "L. M."

She touched the end of the barrel and a little clod of clay dropped off in her hand. She laid the gun down again and caught her breath sharply.

Bella drew back from Dwight. Now we've got to hurry. You take the horses and tie them in the pines back of the house where they'll be out of sight, yet so we can get to them quickly if we need to. That's where I left my horse."

She put her arms around him again and smiled triumphantly, as if she had already forgotten her devastating grief for her dead father.

"The papers are here, darling. In this house!"

Dwight moved back, away from her. "I know," he said. "Judy told me. She came back to help me look for them."

"Judy told you?" Bella repeated softly.

She turned, smiling faintly towards the other girl, and Judy was suddenly frightened, more than she had been at any time today. She fought for self-control, but it seemed to her that the room was full of danger.

Bella was watching her intently. She made herself return the gaze steadily, and then she spoke.

"That's Don Luis' gun there on the floor, the one that killed your father."

She drew in a deep breath, and tried to steady her pounding heart. "I saw him cleaning it not more than two hours ago. But the barrel was plugged when it was shot—like mine was the other day. Bella—you knew Uncle Pete's papers were in this house!"

Judy heard her voice rising, the words filled, almost incoherent jumble. "You must have been here and talked to Don Luis after Walt and I left. He told us then that nobody else knew about the papers. You—you stuffed that gun full of clay. You meant to kill Don Luis just like you meant to kill me!"

Walt Hollenger faces the hard, cold fact that "They were offering him this scant chance to make a break, and they meant to shoot him—a prisoner trying to escape." Continue the story tomorrow.

Among Great Britain's losses in World War I were 750,000 killed.

Proud Of Their Muscles; Silent On Their Brains

By G. K. HODENFIELD

AF Education Writer

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—American youngsters are proud of their muscles, but they seem ashamed of their brains. And that, a college president said today, is a situation that must be changed.

What this country needs, said Dr. Lee A. DuBridge of the California Institute of Technology, is "open, honest intellectual competition throughout our high schools and colleges."

"We have always been perfectly frank about athletic competition, about a boy's ability to make the football or basketball team," he said. "But we have been reticent to talk about differences in intellectual ability."

In a speech prepared for the National Assn. of Secondary School Principals, DuBridge said the nation's high schools must create an atmosphere in which intellectual achievement is recognized, admired and respected.

By 1970, DuBridge said, at least 65 per cent of the high school graduates will be going on to college or university. The competition for admission is going to be so rough, he added, that the prestige schools, both public and private, will have to raise their standards and accept only those at the very top in ability and achievement.

DuBridge said that, in addition to creating the proper intellectual climate, the high schools must:

1. Provide a solid base of academic subjects and see to it that college-bound students devote all or nearly all their time to them. Extra-curricular activities are important, but should not take up school time.

2. Do much more to encourage the exceptionally able student to go far beyond the limits of the classroom and the textbook, and to undertake special studies, special reading and special projects.

3. Work more closely with colleges and universities to insure that high school courses keep abreast of the latest advances in every field.

4. Somehow impress on students of all academic levels more of the love of learning and the adventure of learning.

At the end of 1957, a total of 326 common stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange had paid cash dividends consecutively for 25 years or more.

Sailor Bob Dennison Flies His Flag As NATO Admiral

By C. YATES MCDANIEL
WASHINGTON (AP) — "Bob Dennison, sailor" achieves a big ambition today as he runs up his four-star flag in Norfolk, Va., as chief of the U.S. and NATO naval forces in the Atlantic.

The sailor is Adm. Robert Lee Dennison, 59. The self-composed identification of sailor appears on a sign that has hung for years behind his desk. He was born in Warren, Pa.

The new commander in chief of the Atlantic Fleet and "Supreme Allied Commander, Atlantic" is aptly described by former shipmates as a "smart gent," an "astute citizen" who has not lost his sense of humor in the 37 years since he was graduated from the Naval Academy.

A good look into sailor Dennison's career also shows him to be an engineer by education, a strategist by virtue of study and the fortunes of war, and an authority on international politics and relations.

Junior officers who have served under Dennison add another important qualification. They say he is a good man to work for despite the stern impression reflected from his strong, weathered visage. He will need all of these attributes to handle all of the men, ships and aircraft of the Atlantic Fleet and to mastermind the multinational headquarters of the naval forces of all the Atlantic Allies.

During his early naval career, Dennison appeared destined to rise to the top as an engineer. He holds a master of science degree in engineering from Pennsylvania State College and won a doctorate in engineering from Johns Hopkins University.

In between acquiring this top flight technical education, however, the future admiral was learning the submarine business ashore and afloat. This led him to successively bigger ship commands, ranging from skipper of a tug-rescue vessel to captain of the mighty battleship Missouri.

From his earliest years in the Navy, Dennison has been known as a voracious reader of heavy books on strategy, military and international affairs.

This reading served him well during World War II when he served in succession as: a staff officer with the Asiatic Fleet, chief of staff of Allied naval forces operating off eastern Australia, chief of staff for the Aleutian campaign, member of the war plans committee of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Though only a captain at the end of World War II, Dennison's global thinking had made such an impression on the Navy that he was authorized to establish and head the Navy's first office of politico-military affairs.

Other assignments followed in this order: Command of the Missouri, naval aide for four years to former President Harry S. Truman, commander of a cruiser division, chief of naval operations, director of strategic plans and policy, command of the First Fleet, and deputy chief of naval operations.

As a four-star admiral Dennison took over last March as commander in chief of U.S. naval forces in the eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean. He had headquarters in London.

The admiral's daughter, Lee, 15, and son, Robert Lee Jr., 11, were left behind in England to complete their school terms when their father was called home for his bigger job.

Great Grandma's 20th Birthday

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A great-grandmother who likes TV Westerns and rock 'n' roll celebrates her 20th birthday today.

Allie Dee Gilbert actually is 84. But she was born on Feb. 29 and the date of her birth thus comes around only every four years.

"I'd advise parents not to have their children on Feb. 29," she says. "They'll never know when it's their birthday."

Mrs. Gilbert's three daughters plan a small party. Many of her 9 grandchildren, 20 great-grandchildren and 2 great-great-grandchildren will attend.

Prefers Arms

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman says it is a lot better to have a strong national defense than a balanced budget.

"Beware of political budget cutters," Truman told delegates to the 1960 Inaugural Conference for Israel Bonds Sunday night. "Beware of people who belittle the dangers to the security of the free world, and use the smiles of the Russians to justify slashing our defenses. They may be leading us into deadly peril."

It is more important, Truman said, to have a secure nation than it is to have a good campaign argument.

The dinner Truman addressed formally launched the 10th year of the Israeli bond campaign. More than 424 million dollars have been raised since 1951.

Japan, Russia Sign Trade Pact

TOKYO (AP) — Japan and the Soviet Union today reached a 400-million-dollar trade agreement, Foreign Office sources reported.

The two nations have been negotiating in Tokyo since Dec. 16. Sources said the agreement, to be signed Wednesday, is understood to provide for a three-year trade program of more than 200 million dollars worth of business each way.

Special Survey For Small Cars

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The City Council has ordered a survey to give compact cars additional parking area.

Councilman Harold Henry said many small cars are damaged in rear-end collisions while parked because big cars scoot into a space the driver thought was empty only to find a small car already there.

Just Lectures, Veiled By A Very Scanty Story

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP-TV Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Poet-playwright Archibald MacLeish and the National Broadcasting Co. presented Sunday night a lengthy lecture on the American Way, facing the future and the need for higher teachers salaries.

Nobody can quibble with the sentiments expressed in "The Secret of Freedom." They were indeed fine and lofty. But they were just a series of long speeches thinly disguised as a drama.

The plot—it was no more than a shadow—was that the townsfolk voted down a bill to increase teachers salaries. This so upset one young couple (Tony Randall and Kim Hunter) that the husband walked all over town to find out why the bill had failed to pass. At each stop, somebody climbed on a figurative soap box. The intentions were good but it was extremely dull dramatic fare.

Trapped In Fire, Three Are Dead

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A mother and two sons were trapped and killed Sunday by a blaze described by Fire Chief George Hink as "another one of those cases of a delayed alarm."

The bodies of Rose Ann Rilling, 26, and sons John, 7, and George, 3, were found in their second-floor bedroom. Firemen said she had her arms around the boys, trying to shield them from the flames.

Hink said the fire had started in a sofa on the first floor.

Investigators said Mrs. Rilling, after apparently trying to save her children, called a telephone operator who then summoned the fire department.

One of Jackie Gleason's spring TV appearances will be leading an orchestra playing his own songs on a forthcoming Kate Smith show. A new game show goes into syndication to start with the opening of baseball season: "Home Run Derby," with 20 top baseball stars in a batting contest for prizes ranging from $3,000 to $10,000. First of the filmed home run contests feature Mickey Mantle and Willie Mays.

The Perry Como Show is the one with the easiest, most relaxed manner, but the Garry Moore Show is the one where all the performers seem to be having such a wonderful time.

Two sponsors, who have been jointly sponsoring a number of special shows, reportedly are dropping these occasional one shots next season in favor of buying themselves weekly, half-hour series. General feeling inside TV is that the "specials" fad has just about run its course, although hour-long shows have held up well in the season's ratings.

Current issue of the National Parent-Teacher, official magazine of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, gives the green light to "My Friend Flicka," "Hennessey," "Perry Mason," but calls "Hawaiian Eye" a "mess of mildewed leftovers from the private-eye blue plate."

Recommended tonight: Bing Crosby Show, ABC, 8:30-9:30 — with Perry Como and three of the Crosby brothers: "Paris à la Mode," NBC, 10-11, couture clothes from Paris worn by the top French models, plus music and song and dancing.

Manti Temple (Mormon church of Latter-day Saints) in Utah cost one million dollars. It was built in 1879 on a foundation of solid rock.

Consumers Saving But Buying Habits Continue

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — American families are spending whatever additional money they may come by today. The rate of their savings is changing little.

And it is this buy-and-buy attitude—without either a rush to unusual spending as in some previous years or a tendency to hoard as in others—that makes some economists confident that the qualms of a month ago were overdone.

These qualms were born of the break in stock prices and the signs that the big boom that some had looked for was unlikely to get going. Instead the belief is growing that a calmer but steady advance in business activity will last for some time and that the shake out in the stock market has made it a more realistic affair.

The extra income that many families are getting may come from a rise in wage scales or from longer work weeks. It may come from higher dividend or interest payments. It may come from higher fees received by those in the service trades and professions. Or it may come from increased benefit payments either from the government or such private institutions as insurance companies.

But the families are putting away in savings about 7 per cent of their incomes, just as they have been for some time.

Most of the new money—after taxes—slips right through their fingers. It goes for higher priced goods and services, for increased recreation, for longer vacation trips, for expensive hobbies.

This steady spending is keeping most of the American economy humming. It offsets such bubbles as occasional layoffs where earlier sales predictions proved overoptimistic and led to production beyond demand that didn't soar as expected.

The calmer pace may stretch the good times through the entire year, with only the normal summer lull.

But the consumers are selective in their buying. They aren't buying anything and everything as they tended to do in 1955, encouraged by unusually easy installment payment terms then.

They are watching prices closely. And they are more quality conscious. Services are getting a larger percentage of individual incomes these days and manufactured goods less. And last year's status symbol may be this year's old hat item.

STOP PAYING BIG MID-WINTER HEATING BILLS!

Order your season's heating oil supply on our convenient budget plan...

... with automatic delivery service

We'll divide your total estimated heating bill for a normal season into equal monthly payments, eliminating the problem of large fuel bills during the colder winter months. This makes good sense—particularly by easing the strain during the holidays when other expenses are apt to be heavy. At the end of the payment period, we tally up. If you have paid for more fuel than delivered, you'll receive a prompt refund. If you burned more oil than anticipated, you are billed for the balance. And, when you need fuel, metered delivery is made automatically without reminder or effort on your part. Think of an easier way to buy the cleanest heat-comfort available for your home?

4 out of 5 homes need a wiring checkup!

It's a fact: the wiring system in most homes (even many newer homes) is out-of-date. You use electricity in many more ways than you did just a few years ago... and you may be overloading your wiring system. Here are some symptoms of overloading: fuses blow frequently... TV picture shrinks... lights dim when your refrigerator starts to run... you have to unplug one appliance to plug in another. If your home has these symptoms, it needs a wiring checkup. Your electrician can tell you whether you need more modern wiring—for safety, for convenience, for better living, electrically.

HOW DO YOU LIKE IT?

AREN'T YOU COMING UP TO BED, LADIES?

NOTHING DOING—I'M SLEEPING DOWN HERE TONIGHT.

SO? WE MUST ALL JUMP?

TAINT THAT...NOWS YOUR TIME TO POP THE QUESTION TO FREMOUNT, THE BOY BUS...CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT.

FREMOUNT?

SURE...AFTER HE'S ELECTED YOU'RE GONNA HAPTA LOOK HARD TO FIND HIM AT THE ALTAR...

WE MUST LOOK HARD TO SEE THESE GENTLEMEN BEFORE BESIDES, NO?

UM...HOWDY, MIZ BEETLE...

HOWDY, FREMOUNT?

O'YOU REALIZE, MISS MAMMELLE, THAT THIS IS LEAP YEAR?

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Electronic and other speculative stocks were in demand as the stock market moved irregularly early this afternoon. Trading was routine. Gains and losses of fractions to about a point were the rule among pivotal issues. The "science" stocks and other wide movers had gains going to 2 or 3.

The market was mixed at the start, managed a moderate gain in the morning and then lost its edge as prices turned uneven. Electronics benefited from additional recommendations by advisory services. The general business news background, however, was mixed.

Steels, coppers, oils and rails were mostly lower. Tobacco, drugs and rubbers advanced.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .51 to 631.49. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .10 to $18.50 with the industrials unchanged, the rails off .50 and the utilities up .10.

Corporate bonds showed a tendency toward the downside.

U. S. government bonds were firm in quiet dealings.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices steady to 25 lower. Tops of 14.00 to 15.50 at Wilson; 14.25 to 14.75 at Rocky Mount; 14.00 to 14.75 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Newton Grove and Mount Olive; 14.00 to 14.50 at Nahant; 13.25 to 13.75 at Hillsboro; 14.50 at Clinton, Fayetteville, Elizabethtown, Greensboro, Castle Hayne, and Scotland Neck; 14.25 at Bethel, Murfreesboro, Sunbury, Eden, Harrellsville, Ashok, and Rich Square; 14.00 at Albion, Lillington, Goldsboro, Siler City. Other markets unreported.

Wilson cash cattle prices steady: steers and heifers, choice 23.00 to 27.00, good 21.00 to 25.00, standards 18.00 to 21.00, cows, beef type 14.50 to 17.50, heavy cullers 13.00 to 15.50; bulls, lightweights 13.00 to 16.00, heavyweights 17.00 to 20.00.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina poultry markets: fryers and broilers, farm price 18 to 18½, mostly 18.

Eggs — prices paid by distributors for clean, graded, sized, minimum 80 per cent A quality: Raleigh and Charlotte weaker, large 30; prices paid on graded out basis: Asheville, steady, A large 30.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG

AP Newsfeatures

What's new?

An "open house" demonstration of a new kind of unified wall proved so successful in a suburb of Lansing, Mich., that other concrete block houses are under construction for demonstration purposes in other areas. The houses, like the first, are being built on slab, with post and beam construction and concrete block walls.

Home builders who looked over the Michigan project think that the wall concept will increase the use of masonry for both exteriors and interiors. The plan permits the use of cement blocks, with insulation provided by a water-repellent vermiculite masonry fill which is poured directly into the cores of the blocks. Its supporters say that the insulation is capable of reducing heat loss by more than 50 per cent.

Last year, a new idea was introduced in the hanging of interior residential doors. It involved hanging the doors over the wall openings rather than in them. The latest thing in this line is bi-folding door hardware for closet openings. This hardware allows the door to be folded back so that the entire closet archway is clear, resulting in easy access to the entire interior.

Adjustable wall-shelf units now are being put out in special kits, so that even the not-so-handyman will have no trouble with them. Included are hardwood shelves, wall channels, adjustable brackets and brass retaining pins. The only tool required is a screwdriver.

Exhibited at the recent convention of the National Assn. of Home Builders was a central home ventilating unit. It permits central ventilation of kitchens and bathrooms in new or already constructed homes. Based on the idea that today's construction located bathrooms and kitchens as close together as possible, the new product uses a compact central blower to pull air from as many as three different areas.

Fencing material is being made from a new plastic material similar to the translucent fiberglass sheeting used in patio roofs. It comes in colors and is said to retain its high gloss without painting or other maintenance costs. Used up to now only for industrial fencing, it is expected to reach the home market soon.

An Even Bigger Tree Is Found

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin, which already is credited with having the nation's biggest jack pine tree, may have broken its own record.

A Conservation Department employee has found a jack pine in the northern part of the state that measures 6.2 feet in circumference, is 67 feet high and has an average crown spread of 27 feet.

The tree that holds the American record is on the Menominee Indian Reservation. It has a circumference of 5 feet 10½ inches, is 67 feet high and has a crown spread of 42.2 feet.

President Arrives In Chile For Third Stop Of His Tour

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — President Eisenhower today flew into friendly Chile to see a nation prospering by economic belt-tightening. It was the third stop of his four-nation Latin-American tour.

The first U.S. President ever to visit this country, Eisenhower was assured a warm welcome during his two-day stay with Chileans noted for their hospitality.

Greeting Eisenhower on his arrival, from Argentina was Chile's 63-year-old bachelor President Jorge Alessandri, who is spearheading a campaign to end the armaments race in Latin America.

The ceremonies at Santiago's modern Los Cerrillos Airport were brief with Eisenhower reviewing the honor guard and then setting out for an hour's drive through the capital in an open car.

Crowds lined the route to the U.S. Embassy residence along broad, tree-lined Alameda Bernardo O'Higgins, named for Chile's national hero.

The capital under the snow-capped Andes Mountains was gaily decorated with flags of both nations and bunting.

The enthusiastic Chileans went all out to match with hospitality the welcomes accorded Eisenhower by their richer and bigger neighbors, Brazil and Argentina.

Eisenhower, who has begun to show at times the physical strain of his grueling tour in tropical temperatures, was to lunch privately at the embassy before setting out on an afternoon of official ceremonies.

The afternoon schedule included the placing of a wreath at the monument to O'Higgins and then a formal call on Alessandri in the Presidential Palace to be followed by a private talk between the two Presidents.

Chile and the United States have long enjoyed friendly relations, and no political issues confront the two leaders.

Chile, with about 7½ million people crowded into an area of less than 300,000 miles, has been plagued with one of the worst cases of inflation in Latin America. The Alessandri government has won the support of the U.S. government and banks by instituting an austerity program that has brought good results.

But the cost of living is still very

Will Confer, But 'No Conditions'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States told Cuba today it is willing to talk over differences between the two nations but not under conditions proposed by Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

In a formal note again expressing friendship for the Cuban people, the United States invited Castro's regime to discuss through diplomatic channels, the time, place of such talks and the subject to be discussed.

The State Department note, delivered to the Cuban Foreign Office at Havana today, specifically rejected Cuba's insistence that the United States promise no one-sided action against Cuba pending conclusion of the talks.

As set forth in President Eisenhower's statement of Jan. 26, the note said, "the government of the United States must remain free in the exercise of its own sovereignty to take whatever steps it deems necessary, fully consistent with its international obligations in the defense of the legitimate rights and interests of its people."

"The government of the United States believes that these rights and interests have been adversely affected by the unilateral acts of the Cuban government."

Share Birthdays For Ten Years

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Each year for the past 10 years a birthday party has been held for four children whose mothers shared the same room at St. Anthony's hospital when they were born.

The mothers are Mrs. Norman Obermoeller of Dellwood, Mrs. Glennon Bopp of Cahokia, Ill., Mrs. Norbert McGahan of Lemay and Mrs. Julian Sonnenschein of St. Louis.

Sharing the ice cream and cake at the latest party were the four 10-year-olds plus 10 other children in the four families.

At Least Seven Violent Deaths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Violence claimed at least seven lives in North Carolina during the weekend.

There were at least five deaths in automobile accidents.

Marshall Dan Francis, 22, a Marine sergeant from Camillus, N.Y. was killed in a collision on U.S. 258 near Como.

John Haywood Wooten, 24-year-old Negro who lived at Bethel, was killed when his car overturned near Saratoga in Wilson County.

A 17-year-old Charlotte paper carrier, Jimmy Lafew, was struck by a car and killed at Charlotte. Jacob Roy Bowsher, 26, of Orange, Tex., died in a wreck on U.S. 17 near Williamston.

A taxi driver was killed Sunday when his cab and another car were involved in a collision at Rockingham. The victim was Edgar Mellon of Rockingham.

In other violence, a 61-year-old Negro widow, Carrie Stevenson, was shot and killed Sunday at her home in Kings Mountain. Police charged James Brown, 53-year-old Negro, with murder.

Ben Wall, 25, of Wingate, a trustee at the Harnet County prison camp, was stabbed to death during an argument with another inmate, 42-year-old L. B. Thompson of Fayetteville.

Frank McCoy Hemingway of Bethel was among 36 candidates for pharmacy license who passed the North Carolina Board of Pharmacy examinations recently. The exams were given in Chapel Hill at the Institute of Pharmacy and at the University of North Carolina School of Pharmacy.

Wilhelmina is the Teutonic word for "a resolute helmet."

Arrest 10 Or 12 Demonstrators

DENMARK, S.C. (AP) — Denmark police said today a group of "ten or twelve" Negro junior college students were arrested on charges of disturbing the peace after demonstrations at segregated drug store lunch counters.

Police said the youths visited on drug store, left when asked, went to a second store and also left when asked to leave the premises.

They then returned to the first store, and the arrests were made.
