Old School Serves As Crooks' Haven

By BOB POOS
ST. LOUIS MO. AP—The Rev. Charles D. Clark glances around the old school building and remarks: "You can see more crooks here in 10 minutes than you can in a month on TV."
The old school is Dismas House, a haven operated by Father Clark for burglars, stickup men, murderers and other felons recently released from prison.
Dismas House, named for the good thief who died on a cross next to Jesus, is one of the few places of its kind in the United States—a halfway house between prison and the outside world.
In it, paroled convicts get meals, a bed, recreation, a change of clothing and, more than likely, a new lease on life.
Father Clark, a 57-year-old Jesuit, has devoted himself to helping criminals for the past 23 years. He rather enjoys his informal title, "Hoodlum Priest."
Since October, Dismas House has turned out more than 300 rehabilitated criminals. They have jobs and homes and are on the way to becoming useful members of society.
Before Dismas House, Father Clark helped countless other convicts. Some slipped back to the guns and blackjack.
"I don't kid myself," says Father Clark. "I play the percentages. But you can almost sense it if a man really wants to go straight."
Before the men are paroled in his custody, they are carefully screened at the prison. Then Father Clark takes a long look at them himself. He will not accept rapists, homosexuals or narcotics addicts.
The idea for Dismas House started working in Father Clark's mind 23 years ago when Judge David Fitzgibbon invited him to attend some sessions of the Court of Criminal Correction.

"I was shocked by what I saw," he recalls. "Men with no hope in life. No home, family, friends. Men who returned to crime because they couldn't see any other way to go."
At first, he visited prisons all over the country, trying to bring some comfort to the inmates. During his travels the idea of a halfway house grew in his mind.
One day last year Father Clark walked into the office of his law-yr-friend, Morris A. Shaker, an Orthodox Jew and sometime benefactor. The lawyer looked at the priest and reached for his wallet.
"OK, father, how much this time?" he asked.
"Forth thousand ought to do," answered Father Clark.
Shaker put down $2,000, signed a note for the remainder and soon an 87-year-old abandoned school, located in a grim section of downtown St. Louis, became Dismas House.
The old school rooms have been converted into dormitories. The kitchen and dining rooms are in the basement.
There is a chapel on the third floor, but, says Father Clark, "if they want to pray, OK. If not, that's OK, too." Getting Catholic converts is not the aim of Dismas House.
About 30 men currently are residents of Dismas House. It can handle 60. A released convict usually stays about two weeks.
Dismas House employment service is run by Don Oliver, who formerly worked for a professional agency. He is the only non-exon at Dismas House.

The Golden Time

When Mom and I got married, golden weddings seemed just as remote to us as they probably do to you. Matter of fact, folks celebrating them seemed like museum pieces!

Now here we are, posing for our fiftieth anniversary picture! Funny part of it is that we don't feel a bit like "old folks!"

Still, a couple can't be married for half a century without putting in a lot of living. Mom and I have. There were times when we were so happy we thought we'd burst . . . other times when it didn't seem as if we could find the strength to keep going another minute.

Through it all, we've had our church. It's hard to put into words how important that's been. Maybe you'll get an idea when I tell you this. When Mom asked me what I'd like to do to celebrate our anniversary, I said, "First of all, let's go to Church. I want to say a little prayer of thanks."

Mom smiled at me. "So do I," she told me.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

From Rose High

Mr., Miss Courtesy Mamed At Twirp Dance

By CRAIG WORTHINGTON The Rose High Student Co-operative Association last night presented its annual 'Twirp Dance'...

MR. AND MISS COURTESY . . . Billy Goodwin and Myrtle Moon Bilbro.

Clark Brewer, president of the Student Co-operative Association, served as the master of ceremonies. The girls' trio, composed of Ruth Clark, Ann Averette, and Carol Riddle, opened the program with 'In the Still of the Night'...

The highlight of the evening was the announcement of the new Mr. and Miss Courtesy, Billy Goodwin and Myrtle Moon Bilbro, by Orren E. Dowd, principal. He announced as first runners-up Frances Cozart and Burt Aycock, and as second runners-up Melinda Coleman and Erskine Duff...

Three freshmen, Gayle Hunning, Anne Daniels, and Donna Whitney, did a modern Beatnik dance. Josephine Verjes, better known to the students as 'Pina,' did the 'Espona cono.'

The combo, composed of Mac McKenzie, Ed Peaden, and Craig Worthington, presented a medley of tunes centered around 'Blue Moon.' Ann Nichols and Ruth Johnson did a comical pantomime of the Charleston.

The trio also sang 'Getting to Know You' and 'Young and Foolish.' George VanNortwick and Wayne Sumrell pantomimed 'I Got Along Without You Before I Met You.'

'Pina' returned to do a Cuban and a Puerto Rican dance, the latter which she had presented in a Puerto Rican theater.

Jane Reynolds and Brenda Harris served as chairmen of the Twirp week activities, aided by Gigi Guice and Myrtle Moon Bilbro. Betsy Bryant served as chairman of the coffee hour, sponsored by SCA, for the teachers Friday morning.

Madge Stancil and Lois Tunnell served as chairmen of the foods committee. Those decorating included Sara Collins, Millie Overton, Mary Harrington, Linda Dadds, Goldis Starling, Jake Gaskins, and Barbara Berryman.

Gigi Guice and Myrtle Moon Bilbro were in charge of the crowns. Burt Aycock took charge of the concession stand. Those attending the door included Ginger Melton, Alvane Bass, Jimmy Jenkins, Jeri Sue Clark, Johnny Reynolds, Mary Goodwin, William Allen, Janice Laughter, Jane Reynolds and Brenda Harris.

Several members of the Rose High Future Homemakers of America will attend the state FHA convention next Saturday in Raleigh.

leigh. Meetings will be held at the Memorial Auditorium. Those planning to attend from Rose High include Mrs. Rachel Welborn, adviser, her two practice teachers, and Betsy Bryant, Peggy Stubbs, Kay Kennedy, Lynda Hunning, Kathryn Winchester, Mary Goodwin, Virginia LeConte, Anne Joyner, Lynda Gaskins, Sylvia Edwards, and Glenda Hardee.

FHA Presents Fashion Show The Senior Future Homemakers of America presented their annual Spring Fashion Show Wednesday morning. Boys and girls in the high school modeled fashions from local stores.

Frances Clark modeled a combination sports costume of green and white waffle weave cotton, suitable for sports, school, or dates. Ray Spears wore white Bermudas with a green knit sports shirt.

Linda Harris showed a sports outfit of green plaid-slacks, blouse, weskit, and jacket. Norflet Felton wore madras Bermudas and a beige shirt. Donna Cain modeled pedal pushers of waffle weave cotton with a shirt and matching sweater.

Billy Goodwin showed white deck pants with a figured shirt and slides. Sylvia Edwards and Ronnie Williams exhibited the latest beachwear. Ronnie wore the latest fashion on sale this year—knee-length knitted bathing trunks and beach coat.

Ann Hunt modeled a sports outfit consisting of a skirt, blouse, and sweater. Wayne Sumrell wore green slacks, green checked shirt, and an off-white woven belt. Barbara Brooks exhibited a two piece plaid dress with a white top. Alan McArthur wore ivy league slacks of Shino cotton with a figured shirt.

Mary Goodwin modeled a multi-colored dress while Ben White showed green corded slacks, a green figured shirt, plus Bermudas. Janice Laughter showed a navy sheath with white collar with red trim. J. B. Surles wore plaid madras jacket, olive shorts, green tie, and a green cap.

Peggy Stubbs modeled a light blue cotton; Lynda Hunning a green madras print; and Kroehie Andressen a madras jacket, green pants, and paisley tie. Myrtle Bilbro wore a royal blue dressy cotton. Rita Griffith modeled a white arnel skirt with print blouse while Burnie Morris showed a green wool coat, charcoal pants, a striped tie, and green belt.

Jane Reynolds wore an orange suit of nubby cotton while William Allen showed an olive green 3-piece suit with paisley vest and tie. Sue Allen modeled a black and white dotted chiffon with a black top. Erskine Duff wore a charcoal continental suit.

Lynda Morrison wore a green cotton print while Billy Stocks modeled a grey wool light-weight wool suit. Barbara Allen wore a pink chiffon over taffeta cocktail dress with taffeta roses at the back waistline. John Bynum modeled an olive green suit of dactron and corval.

Sara Collins showed a white organza trimmed with lace while Scott Smiley wore a tuxedo with plaid cummerbund and bow tie.

IF YOU'LL LIKE IT If your family likes roast chicken with a lot of white meat, give them the tender and flavorful capon!

According to Mrs. Ross, the Holy Bible is the most read book published; and is the most read book in the South, to the extent that this section is called the 'Bible Belt.'

The United Daughters honor Sidney Lister as perhaps the most outstanding poet and musician prior to the War Between the States. The speaker told of the various ways in which the chapter showed observances in his name. Prior to the program, Mrs. Sal-

Five tables of players entered the competition at the meeting of the Faculty Duplicate Club last evening. North-South winners were: Mr. and Mrs. Eustace Conway, first; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Capwell, second.

East-West winners were: Mrs. M. L. Wright and Mrs. Percy Scott, first; Mrs. L. L. Rives and Miss Christine Smith, second.

'A Cry in the Night,' a missionary film showing the dramatics of missionary life, will be shown Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the Seventh Day Adventists Church located in Colonial Heights. The film is open to the public and there is no admission.

One of our expert hair stylists, Janet Carr and Ruth Pridden, will return to Greenville Saturday from New York where they have been attending the National Beauty Convention. We invite you to visit them soon and let them show you the newest hair styles to compliment your loveliest features.

Speaks On TV Program Planning

John G. Clark, a member of the sales division of the local television station, was guest speaker at the Theta Book Club meeting Tuesday when Mrs. Charles W. Crone entertained at her home on Evergreen Dr.

Mrs. Joe O. Clark, president, conducted a business session at which time the club elected Mrs. Marshall Whitehurst as vice-president to fill the vacancy left by Mrs. Murray Lynch.

Clark spoke to the group on "Television Program Planning." He said that the station steadily receives letters from viewers giving their ideas of the programs shown. Program ratings are determined by audience survey. If their ratings drop, then they are replaced by a higher rating program. Continuing he said sponsors have to be notified at once when there has been a program change.

Mrs. Crone invited members and guests to the appointed table where they were served a dessert course. Mrs. Clark, the president, assisted in serving. Arrangements of early spring flowers decorated the living room and dining area.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Harold R. Hoke, Mrs. Charles B. Lewis, and Mrs. Warren Robbins.

Emphasizes Reading

BETHEL—Since March has been designated as the month for special emphasis on magazine reading by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Mrs. J. L. Gurganus spoke on "Official Paper Skyway."

She stressed the importance of reading and remembering the facts. Using a chapter from the study book entitled, "Are Alcoholics Sick People", Mrs. Gurganus pointed out that the writer, Edward J. McGoldrick, Jr., thinks "alcoholics are not sick, but can be helped."

According to Mrs. Gurganus, they need information and not merely reformation. Mrs. J. S. Moore and Mrs. W. J. Taylor acted as co-hostesses for the meet. Thirteen members and two visitors were present.

UDC Members Told Of South

lie Irons was welcomed as a guest. Mrs. P. E. Wells reported on the district meeting held at Westminster Methodist Church in Kinross recently.

Only Child Tells Troubles

By VIVIAN BROWN "Parents seem to expect more of an only child than they should," writes a 16-year-old Midwestern girl who says that up until now she has been "performing like a trained seal for them."

She doesn't object to their affection and interest, but she thinks that when there is just one child at home, the parent has nothing else to do but worry about her.

"Why can't my mother let me enjoy friendships, without trying to control my every move?" she asks. "She hovers over me when boys are around and acts like I'm not appreciated if the boy doesn't fall all over me."

"My father sometimes sits in his car, watching from a distance to make sure that the boy leaves a dance with me. Then he hurries home and tries to get the car in the garage before we drive up to the house. This really puts a crimp in an evening because the boys always know what he is up to."

"My parents take offense if I am not invited to every party that goes on in town. They can't imagine anyone not loving me as they do, I guess.

Gilded Cage "What bothers me is the prospect of this sort of thing continuing. They don't want me to date steady, so I don't, just to please them. I must go on every vacation with them. I must go to visit friends on Sunday when they go visiting. I must go to my grandmother's, if they decide it is a good idea. My mother will not let me buy a hat, dress or shoes unless she is along to help me select them. Lately I have gotten the feeling that my family keeps me in a cage, and that even when they let me out briefly, they are hovering over it awaiting my return."

"I don't want to hurt their feelings, but they are making me very nervous by their attitude. Should I tell them?"

Your problem is a double one at the moment, of course, and it may very well ease up later. Parents are likely to be overly protective toward a girl in her early teens, especially when she begins to date. They worry about her, and they should, until she displays signs of maturity, and being able to cope with situations that are new to her because of her age.

Parental Love They love you, and want other people to love you, and in that sense they are not different from parents who have more children. The difference is that the mother of a large family cannot worry about small details such as whether her offspring are popular enough to go to every party in town.

Boys will never resent your father's indulgence toward you, and a good type will respect your father for his protective instinct. It is the way a boy who likes you should feel about you. The fact that it cramps his style as far as necking goes, does not enter into it. If you want to be cozy with him, invite him to your own living room. Chances are your parents will let you sit up with him there, so that he may get all the sweet nothings off his chest. Your parents will be delighted to have you at home with your friend.

Prescription: Patience When you do go out with a boy you can trust, and get to know well, they probably will be less demanding about your presence every time they go visiting. Some parents do this because they want to show off their darling daughter to the relatives. It is nothing more than pride in many instances. Other parents may not like to leave a young girl at home alone. No doubt your mother loves the companionship of shopping with you, and you shouldn't deprive her of it at this point. Then, too, many mothers want to guide their young daughters in the choice of wearing apparel, an-

Evelyn Jane Murray of Roxboro, senior student of music at East Carolina College, will study in Germany during the coming summer months on a scholarship of $650 just awarded to her by the Greenville Branch of the American Association of University Women.

V. Karen McLawhorn of Vanceboro, sophomore specializing in art, was named as alternate. The AAUW award is the third to be made to an East Carolina College student by the local organization. Miss Murray is the second student of music to receive it.

A student of voice, Miss Murray is planning tentatively to study at the State Academy, Munich, Germany. At East Carolina she is studying with Mrs. Gladys R. White of the department of music. At the college here, Miss Murray a contralto, has taken an outstanding part in activities and organizations of the music department. Early this month, as one of the few seniors to receive special recognition as a solo performer, she was presented by the department in a graduating honors recital.

She has appeared as soloist with the East Carolina Orchestra, and with the East Carolina Concert Band. In productions by the college Opera Theater she has had leading roles in Sometona's "The Bartered Bride" and Menotti's "The Medium" and has twice been a soloist in the annual performance on the campus of Handel's "The Messiah."

In East Carolina music organizations she has acted as president of the campus chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota, international professional music organization for women, and as student director of the College Choir, and represented the local Sigma Alpha Iota group at its national convention in San Francisco last summer.

Her excellent record in academic work is evidenced by the frequent inclusion of her name on the college Dean's List and the Honor Roll. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Murray of Roxboro.

Miss McLawhorn has a superior record as a student of art at East Carolina. She is specializing in the graphic arts and plans to become a teacher. In the student art society at the college, she holds the position of treasurer. She has appeared in short talks and demonstrations before the East Carolina Art Society and at the Rocky Mount and the Greenville art festivals. Her work has been entered in several state and national print shows. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. McLawhorn of Vanceboro.

"First Aid" was the topic presented to the members of Cannon's Home Demonstration Club Wednesday by Mrs. Roy May, club health and safety leader. The meeting was held at Mrs. Luther Stocks' home. Ten members were present.

Mrs. May said first aid is the immediate and temporary care until the doctor arrives. It is important that people learn to do the right thing at the right time in order to prevent added injury or danger. The general points in caring for a patient are unknown by the untrained, especially in cases following serious accidents or sudden illnesses.

She gave members a booklet, "101 Questions and Answers on First Aid." The first aid medicine chest should be out of reach of small children and should contain the sterile gauze and simple remedies devotional.

Mrs. J. H. Satterthwaite who has been in Edgecombe General Hospital for the past six weeks, is reported to be improving. Mrs. W. C. Whitehurst has returned to Duke Hospital for a ten-day physical check and treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Harris Sr. and children, J. C. Jr., Richard and Dorothy, of Wilson were supper guests of his mother, Mrs. Z. T. Harris Wednesday night. Mrs. D. C. Carson has returned from Grifton where she spent some time with her son and family. Dr. and Mrs. Jack Carson and children.

Mr. F. L. Blount, Jr., Mrs. R. P. Michaels, J. C. Wynne, Jr., Mrs. R. J. Whitehurst, Mrs. Walter C. Whitehurst and Mrs. Clayton Carson attended a recent luncheon and fashion show, sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club in Wilson.

Mrs. Lucy Whitehurst is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Faust Johnson and family in Ayden. Mrs. C. J. Wilson of Stokes is spending some time with her sister Mrs. W. S. Brown.

The Sunday School Worker's Council meeting of Johnson Memorial Church will be held in the church Tuesday night with Mrs. S. L. Grimes as hostess. Mrs. W. A. House who has been confined to Bethel Clinic for one month is now at home.

Mrs. Sadie Gardner Crownsville Md. is returning home tonight following a two month's visit with her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jessie C. Gardner. Mrs. J. L. Gurganus is visiting her brother, Claude House, who is a patient in Park View Hospital, Rocky Mount.

Miss Lila N. Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, became the bride of Jimmie Roberts on March 17, 1960. Justice of the Peace Frank Harrington officiated. Mr. Roberts is the son of Mrs. Paul Jones and the late Simp Roberts. The couple will make their home in Greenville.

Lakewood Pines Club Makes Plans For Spring Garden Fair

Thursday, April 14, is the day selected for this year's Spring Garden Fair by the Lakewood Pines Garden Club.

Co-Chairmen Mrs. R. P. Heller and Mrs. K. G. Harris announce that the fair will be held in the Heller yard and will be open to the public from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. with a luncheon to be served from 11:30 until 1:30. In case of rain the fair will be held in the basement of the J. T. Barnhill home.

Exhibits will be divided into five groups: Attic Treasures, Plants, Gardening Materials, Baked Goods and Easter Handicrafts.

Mrs. W. M. Reading Jr. is chairman of the Attic Treasure Exhibit. She will be assisted by Mrs. G. E. Trevathan Jr., Mrs. R. G.

Culbertson, Mrs. S. A. Sewall, and Mrs. R. G. Hunt. Mrs. H. R. Billica is in charge of the Plant Center, and she will have the help of Mrs. J. H. Harrell, Mrs. J. W. Stell Jr., Mrs. L. C. Tebeau, and Mrs. F. F. Hendrix.

At the Gardening Materials Exhibit Mrs. R. L. Lowe is in charge, assisted by Mrs. A. L. Whitehurst. They will feature birdhouses and bird feeders. The Baked Goods Center will be under the direction of Mrs. W. E. Roseveare, and will feature homemade cakes, cookies, pies, chill, relishes, etc. Serving with her will be Mrs. W. A. Wright, Mrs. A. T. Bilbro, Mrs. S. L. Wilkerson, and Mrs. J. T. Barnhill. A special feature of this year's Fair will be the Easter Handicraft Center. A sugar plum tree will be the center of attention surrounded by various handicraft articles including aprons, party favors, stuffed animals, etc. Mrs. R. E. Wilfong will be in charge, assisted by Mrs. N. C. Pierce.

This year the Grab Bag will again be a popular feature, especially for the young folks. Mrs. N. C. Pierce, garden club president, announced that the proceeds will go toward Therapy and Civic Beautification Projects. The project for this year has been to place eight bird feeders at the County Home and keep them supplied with bird feed.

Last year the club placed planted window boxes and bulbs in the school for Trainable Children.

'Buying' Industry Is Not For Us

Before North Carolina takes another giant stride toward offering tax concessions and other give-away inducements to attract industry, it should take a long and careful look at American industry and at our own state's economy.

Governor Hodges and the Department of Conservation and Development have called for consideration of additional tax concessions and perhaps other gimmicks—at public expense—to help attract industry to North Carolina. The Commission on Reorganization of State Government has decided to study the matters.

The move was prompted by the fact that other states, according to the officials, are using give-aways to industry as stiff competition to North Carolina's quest for further industrial development. According to Bill Henderson, C&D's industrial head, 80 to 90 per cent of the industrial prospects are asking for buildings and property. Even the large corporations, according to officials, have come to expect special concessions of various kinds in return for locating a plant in a community or a state.

Certainly the give-away programs other states offer industrial prospects is affording competition for North Carolina. But if the state has to begin "buying" every new industry it gets on a highest bidder basis, maybe we'd be better off just to forget about the whole thing.

We find it difficult to believe that the large industrial firms of the nation that have been built on the system of free enterprise and have gained their reputation by paying their own way, have now adopted policies whereby they expect special concessions for locating plants in new areas. We find it difficult to believe that even smaller companies have altogether embraced the philosophy that they should be paid by a state or a community for locating a plant in a specific area.

The major tax revisions adopted by the 1957 legislature afforded out-of-state corporations operating plants in North Carolina $5½ millions worth of concessions in the past biennium. If similar tax concessions or other give-away programs are again adopted, it will not be long before many more millions in potential state and local revenues will be slipping out of the hands of North Carolina.

We are confident that North Carolinians want to do everything within reason to treat new industry fairly. They want to use every reasonable method to insure a continuation of the high rate of economic development the state has enjoyed in recent years. We seriously question, however, the wisdom of North Carolina giving large and small companies huge premiums for locating new plants within our borders.

If the state can afford to give tax concessions, land, buildings or anything else away, on a wholesale basis, why not give it to the people already here? How long could we expect to keep the plants or corporations which select North Carolina because it offered something-for-nothing enticements? How would it help the long range economic growth of the state to off-set new investments and new payrolls by giving similar amounts back to corporations in the way of concessions?

Citizens of a state or community, whether individuals or corporations, should expect to assume their proportionate share of the burdens—tax and other—of the area in which they reside. Otherwise they become, in the long run, liabilities rather than assets.

State Political Races Now Ready For Voters

Lines of competition in state races in North Carolina were finalized yesterday as the filing period ended for state offices subject to the party primaries in May.

With perhaps one exception—the tenth district congressional race—those who win the Democratic nomination in May will be virtually assured of election in November to the posts they seek.

State-wide, attention will focus on the election of a governor, lieutenant governor and a United States Senator, but of the 12 congressional districts of the state. And before the mid-April expiration date for filing for local offices and the state legislature, there doubtlessly will develop more local races throughout the state than are now in evidence.

The four-way race for governor between Terry Sanford, John Larkins, Malcolm Seawell and I. Beverly Lake promises to be one of the most spirited in North Carolina in recent years. The bid of House Speaker Addison Hewlett for the U. S. Senate seat held by Sen. B. Everett Jordan is likewise expected to provide some political fireworks before election day. The three-way race for the post of Lieutenant Governor may not evoke much excitement in political circles of the East, but it will add to the activity of the Piedmont area since all three candidates come from that section.

Closer to the local level in many areas of the state, the races for seven seats in the U. S. House of Representatives will add more than the normal activity in this political field. In addition to our own First Congressional District where Walter Jones of Farmville is challenging veteran Congressman Herbert C. Bonner of Washington, there will be nomination races in the Third, Fifth, Sixth, Ninth, Tenth and Twelfth districts. It promises to be a busy political year in North Carolina.

Sore Spot For Years To Come

WASHINGTON (AP)—At this moment the Soviet Union and the West are trying not to touch West Berlin with anything longer than a 10-foot pole. They will have to get a lot closer soon. That city is potentially the hottest spot in Europe. It will be at the heart of the summit conference in May. No one is predicting the conference will produce a solution on the city satisfactory to both sides. Perhaps the most that can be hoped for in the foreseeable future — say for a couple of years anyway — is a reluctance by the Soviets to push too hard in their drive to shake West Berlin out of the Allied camp.

If they do push — by trying to force the Allied troops out of shutting off the city from the West — shooting may follow. And that kind of shooting could hardly be limited to one city. It is the belief of the Eisenhower administration that there can be no limited war in Western Europe—such as was possible in such a faraway spot as Korea—and that any war there will mean general war. It was almost 16 months ago that Premier Nikita Khrushchev told the West to get its troops out of West Berlin which, although tied to West Germany, lies 110 miles inside Communist East Germany.

The departure of the troops no doubt would weaken the will of the West Berliners to resist the encroachments of the Communists all around them. The loss of the city would not be fatal to the West. All the heat now being generated about Berlin may evaporate a bit—because for reasons of their own the Soviets are willing to let it evaporate—but it is unbelievable they will subside permanently. To have the free and prosperous city of West Berlin deep in the heart of Communist Europe is like permitting a capitalistic cancer to flourish in the body of Marxism. In short, West Berlin should continue to be both a hot spot and a sore one for years to come, even though nothing violent happens in the meantime.

But it would be a psychological disaster. This week West Germany's 84-year-old Chancellor, Konrad Adenauer, came here, talked with President Eisenhower about the stand the Allies would take on Berlin at the summit, and went away feeling reassured. He and the President issued a joint statement that they were agreed any settlement with the Soviet Union on Berlin must preserve the freedom of the West Berliners. But when the Allies—including Eisenhower—sit down with Khrushchev in Paris next May their firmness in standing together against damaging concessions to the Soviets will be tested. At this moment Khrushchev—following pretty much the peaceful line he took at his Camp David meeting with Eisenhower here last fall—is quiet. But there is absolutely no indication he intends to back down on Berlin.

These latter, the article goes on, must be content with the second best. Attending college is virtually out of the question. They usually enter the ranks of labor at 16. Britain's famous "public schools"—which are in reality private schools, with tuitions running to $1,500 a year—are hints for collectors and an illustrated stamp catalog for 10 cents and three candy bar wrappers. Under a Tax Court decision, petitions must be filed within 90 days after receipt of a notice of deficiency or your case is lost—even if you were in a coma. A novelty company is offering business firms gag newsletters to send to prospects. A New York company is offering prospects a new Peugeot and a round-trip flight to Europe for the price of the car alone. It's bunk that business dips in Presidential election years. Business was up in 1860, 1864, 1872, 1880, 1888, 1892, 1900, 1912, 1916, 1929, 1944, 1948, 1952 and 1956; down in 1876, 1884, 1896, 1904, 1908, 1932, 1936 and 1940, and mixed in 1868, 1920 and 1924. The U. S. exported 19.6 billion cigarettes last year, 8 per cent more than in 1958. Although citrus fruits are Israel's largest export crop, it is importing 50,000 gallons of Florida orange juice a year. . . . Televis-

We ventured into the local movie house the other night to inspect what had been heralded everywhere as another smash hit.

Though sensational descriptions don't seem to really move us any more, since practically all Hollywood releases are played that way, this particular flick was quite a thought-provoking bit of entertainment.

I said entertainment. Well, you could call it that, but by the time we left, there was hovering over our heads the gloomiest, spookiest atmosphere imaginable.

Rather than having been entertained, we had been horrified. Not by what we'd seen on the screen, but by the possible reality suggested.

From the outset, it was obvious the entire thing was pure fiction. In fact, the setting was up-dated to 1964.

However, as the story unfolded with its catastrophic finale, it was electrifying to suddenly realize that the fictitious plot COULD become a reality. And maybe tomorrow.

It's funny how Hollywood can affect people.

It's a strange thing how modern advertising techniques affect individuals, isn't it?

During the past quarter-century, advertising agencies and affiliated groups have invested countless millions of dollars in discovering the correct approach through the correct media in the proper language to reach John Q. Public.

The results of these intensive studies have pointed out to large-scale advertisers alike the necessity of instilling the proper psychological frame of mind into the prospect before requesting him to buy the product advertised.

Here in town several days ago, an interesting thing happened. In response to a radio ad, a lady dropped by a local short term loan office.

The radio ad had installed its basic psychological message. It emphasized the simplicity and ease that accompanied securing cash money from the office. But maybe it was a little too effective.

This lady walks briskly through the front door and wants to know: "Say, mister, is this place where they give away free money?"

Lamentations of a poetic, young husband seen scrawled on a crumpled sheet of note paper recently:

She took me home to dine last week

The food, I think, was bait; I then returned to see her.

She never made me wait; Our "courtship" was a whirlwind, She'd been only a date;

But when I woke this morning, She smiled, "Good morning, mate."

Weak Cuban Policy

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

In a world where power has replaced justice and where war are constant, it is not surprising that the American attitude toward Castro is regarded as weakness, as cowardice, as accepting insults because the courage is lacking to reject them.

But there is more to it than that. Some American companies have operated in both the United States and Cuba. The principal companies with interests in Cuba are the Cuban American Sugar Refining Company, United Fruit Company, and American Sugar Refining Company.

It is to be noted that a part of the two cents a pound subsidy which Cuba's sugar receives from the United States goes to American companies growing and manufacturing Cuban sugar. Cuba has a quota which currently amounts to 375,000 tons.

Whatever goes to the Castro government from this subsidy, is used to purchase arms for Castro's army, to support revolutionary movements in Latin America, and perhaps eventually to demonstrate an ability to strike at some American spot at a time when it may be inconvenient for the United States to engage in a mopping-up of Cuba.

The weakness of American policy is based on three theories:

1. The United States is morally a better nation than Soviet Russia and therefore will not treat Cuba as Soviet Russia treated Hungary;

2. Whatever action is taken against Castro must be taken by the Organization of American States (O.A.S.) and not by the United States alone;

3. The United States does not wish to irritate Soviet Russia prior to the Summit Conference and therefore it is sound to let Russia or Russian satellites get away with crimes during the present ticklish period.

Unfortunately the formulation of this policy has been left to weak hands. Obviously, it makes no sense and will ultimately lose for us leadership in the Americas as it has lost leadership for us in Asia. Nobody wants to follow a weak leader. John Foster Dulles pulled this country over many hurdles by moving from strength. He prevented the Russian from choosing the time and place for strained relations. The Suez Canal incident must be judged from that standpoint.

The present policy of the United States, which some attribute to the thinking of Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, is an idealistic concept of international relations based on the assumption that if nothing is done, Fidel Castro will come to his senses. It reminds one of the ideas of Col. Raymond Robins, way back in 1917-18, who believed that if the Communists were not interfered with they would ultimately come to their senses.

By 1960, we know, for sure, that Soviet Russia has become the objective enemy of the United States with industrial and military strength beyond our imagination in 1917.

The same kind of thinking is going into our attitude toward Castro and we shall probably not wake up to our necessities until this bearded devil throws a bomb on the Panama Canal or on Miami just to show us that he can spit on us. For once and for all, the United States must show that it does not need to take guff from anybody.

The Eisenhower policy of weakness, after he had himself for so many years pursued a policy of strength, is frightening because so much of what is left of freedom in the world depends upon the United States for leadership against Soviet Russia's imperialism. Upon whom are the free and hopeful people to depend if the United States continues its policy of weakness?

Many used to criticize Dean Acheson, when he was Secretary of State, for pursuing a policy of weakness, but, in retrospect, Dean Acheson was a giant of strength compared to what we have now. He, at any

Local Interest In Our Schools

(During absence of Lynn Nisbet, each candidate for Governor, Lieutenant Governor and United States Senator has been invited to write a guest column, stating his views.)

By ROBERT L. GAVIN,
Republican candidate for Governor

In the year 1900 a source and topic of heated debate was the issue of "White supremacy". Charles Brantley Aycock, the nominee of the Democratic party for Governor, skillfully turned what was headed for a heated political campaign into an almost universal campaign for public education.

Aycock, in his speech of acceptance delivered to the Democratic Convention declared, "The man who seeks in the face of these provisions to encourage illiteracy is a public enemy and deserves the contempt of all mankind. . . . With the adoption of our amendment, after 1908, there will be no state in the Union with a larger percentage of boys and girls who can read and write and no state will rush forward with more celerity or certainty than conservative old North Carolina. The miserable demagogue who seeks to perpetuate illiteracy in the state will then have happily passed away forever." And later, during his campaign he stated, "If you vote for me, I want you to do so with the distinct understanding that I shall devote the four years of my office to the rebuilding of the public schools of North Carolina. I shall endeavor for every child in the state to get an education."

It took the people of North Carolina a long time to come around to the support of public education and now in the year 1960 we are still faced with the thought that there are some in this state who would abolish the public school system and substitute in its stead a system of private schools supported by contributions from organizations, churches and individuals.

It would be the darkest hour in North Carolina's history should the state abandon and shut down its public school system in any section of the state. I would favor at any and all costs a system of public education that will keep the schools open to the children of North Carolina.

We need at this time to strengthen and support our public schools in the state. One step which should be taken immediately is a 50 per cent increase in teachers' salaries. In North Carolina a college graduate with an "A" certificate can expect a teaching salary in our schools in the amount of $322 per month. After 12 years experience as a teacher the most he or she can earn is $450 per month. A teacher with a masters degree from an accredited college can expect to earn $365 per month as a starting salary and after 13 years experience in the teaching field can make only $498 per month. These salaries compared with salaries offered by industry, science and other professions are woefully inadequate. And yet we depend on the teachers of our schools to instruct, guide, and lead our children for nine months of the year! Is it any wonder that a State survey released just Friday, March 11, and appearing in Saturday's Newspapers, shows that North Carolina teaching graduates are turning to other states and other fields for non-educational jobs? The teaching profession must be made attractive financially and otherwise if it is to compete with business and industry in securing the best brains in North Carolina.

Another boost and more support could be given our public schools if we could revive local interest in our schools. I believe local interest could be aroused and increased if the legislature would return to the counties the right to choose and elect the members of the county boards.

At present time the county elections serve only as recommendations to the legislature and the legislature can follow or ignore this recommendation as it may see fit. In making these appointments the legislature has seen fit in every instance to appoint school board members who are registered as Democrats. The result is that 35 per cent to 40 per cent of the voters of this state who are registered and vote as Republican are ignored and have no voice in school affairs. Although these people pay their taxes and send their children to public schools they have absolutely no voice in the affairs of, nor do they participate in, the control of the schools. At a time when all candidates for office agree that the primary issue is public education in the state of North Carolina, it would appear that the state could ill afford to forego the use of the talents and energies of any of its citizens. With all of our people working together in a common interest we can have an educational system unsurpassed in this nation, and there are no problems which an educated and enlightened people cannot solve.

Rose High Golfers Post Win

WILLIAMSTON — Rose High's golf team opened their 1960 season by defeating the linksters of Williamston High, 11-7, here, yesterday at the Williamston Country Club.

Bobby Thomas of Greenville was medalist with a score of 75. Thomas, considered one of the most up and coming young golfers in the state, fired a first round 37, while on the back nine he posted a 38 to defeat Williamston's club champion, Carroll Brown by two strokes.

Buddy Murray was another individual winner for the match, posting a winning score of 79 to his opponent, Peppin's 87.

Rounding out the field, Dallas Clark of Greenville lost his individual match against Ross of Williamston. Clark shot a 79, while Ross fired a 76.

Chappy Bradner of Greenville was an individual winner, posting a final score of 78, while Whit of Williamston fired an 89. Bradner and Clark won their team match.

Scores:

Thomas (G)	37	38-75
Ross (W)	37	39-76
Brown (W)	38	39-77
Bradner (G)	39	39-78
Murray (G)	38	41-79
Clark (G)	41	38-79
Peppin (W)	44	43-87

Reporting Today On 4-A Tourney

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—A special three-man committee was to report today on details of a new plan to stage a 15-team Class 4-A high school basketball tournament next year.

Under the proposal adopted here Friday by members of the 4-A conference, the tournament would be staged here next year on two successive weekends.

The special committee includes Bill Lundy of Rocky Mount, Tony Simeon of High Point and Hank Madden of Charlotte's Garinger High.

Five teams of each conference—the Central, East and West—would participate in the tournament. The team with the best record would draw a first round bye. The other teams would play three first round games Friday night, two Saturday afternoon and two that night.

The seven winners and the bye team would return the following weekend for games Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

Because of playoffs leading up to this year's tournament, many school officials had complained about excess time lost from school.

Playoffs for baseball were announced as May 16-20; golf May 16-17; tennis May 19-20 and track May 20.

The football playoffs for next fall will remain the same as for last season.

Exercises Fail Help Chisox

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Training camp exercises have failed to remedy an old "rakeness" of the Chicago White Sox — lack of batting power.

As of today, the Chicagoans have won five exhibition games while losing only one. But they are batting .181.

However, their pitching has been pretty good and they have yet to make an error.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—California's Golden Bears aim for a second straight NCAA basketball title against an underdog Ohio State club tonight after turning back Cincinnati and its great Oscar Robertson.

The Bears won their semifinal 77-69 Friday night. Earlier Ohio State romped to a 76-54 triumph over the Violets of New York University.

NYU and Cincinnati meet in a consolation game tonight. Only three times before have teams won two national collegiate cage titles in a row—Oklahoma A & M in 1945-46, Kentucky in 1948-49 and San Francisco in 1955-56.

California went into the Cincinnati game as three-point favorites and will be the choice by that much or more tonight at the Cow Palace despite the high scoring Buckeye offense that led the nation with a 91.6 average.

Friday night Cincinnati and California played a near repetition of their semifinal last year when the Bears limited Robertson to 19 points. This time he scored only four field goals but added 10 from the free throw line for a total of 18 — far below his 34.3 season average.

California's 6-foot 10 center, All-America Darrall Imhoff, turned in one of the greatest games of his life. He scored 25 points and led the comeback after Cincinnati held a 20-11 lead early in the game. Teammate Bill McClintock tallied 18 and like Darrall proved a demon on defense.

Tandy Gillis was the man guarding Robertson, but Coach Pete Newell said later all of his team watched the big O when he had the ball.

"I'm glad we don't have to play against Oscar anymore," said Pete. "His assists must have set up at least 35 points. We jammed up on him in the first half. We had to overplay Oscar so much they got a man loose."

Newell made no predictions on his game against Ohio State tonight except to say the Buckeyes had "one of the best Big Ten teams I've seen in a long time."

They showed it in jumping to an 8-0 lead against NYU and never falling behind. All-America Jerry Lucas and unsung playmaker Larry Siegfried led the attack with 19 points each.

Lucas is further along than Cincinnati's sophomore Paul Hogue on both moves — and shots," Newell observed. "He has all the shots that a senior center has."

Lucas at 6-8 made the All-America team this season as a sophomore.

NYU closed to within two points late in the first half, but with Lucas showing the way, the Buckeyes pulled to a 37-28 halftime advantage.

California proved exceptionally hot at the free throw line sinking its first 21 attempts and finishing with 25 of 32. Cincinnati sank 17 of 23. Both clubs hit 26 field goals.

"It's like I said," commented Cincinnati Coach George Smith, "the game would be decided by fouls, free throws and breaks. We got the fouls and they got the free throws and breaks."

Hogue fouled out with nine minutes to go but even then the Bears led 60-50. Robertson, Gillis and Imhoff finished with four personal apiece.

The triumph was the 19th straight for California.

Lause - Basilio Match In The Making As 'Natural'

NEW YORK (AP)—An Eduardo Lause-Carmen Basilio midweight "natural" was in the works today following the Argentine's sensational return to the U.S. ring.

The 32-year-old South American champion celebrated his first fight in the United States in four years Friday night by stopping strong Willie Greaves, the Canadian ruler, in 1:33 of the fourth round of a television thriller at Madison Square Garden.

Only a few minutes after Referee Ruby Goldstein intervened to save Greaves from injury, matchmaker Teddy Brenner proposed the Lause-Basilio match.

"It would draw over $100,000 off TV," said Brenner to Charley Johnston, Lause's American co-manager. "It's as good as any title fight."

He didn't need any selling job on Johnston who promptly said "let's make it. I'm offering $100,000 to either the winner of the Ray Robinson-Paul Pender and the Gene Fulmer-Joey Gardello title fights to take on Lause. Eddy wants one more fight before fighting for the championship and Basilio would be fine."

(Pender is the New York-Massachusetts champion and Fulmer is the NBA-recognized champion.)

"I might just take it," said Basilio. He was in the Garden to handle his lightweight protégé Dick Diveronica of Syracuse. Dick outpointed Tommy Pacheco in an eight-round prelim.

Lause was a little rusty and wild at times Friday but he kept swinging away with his potent left hook. One of them finally turned the trick early in the fourth round. The punch caught Wilfie on the head and staggered him. That was the beginning of the end.

A right and left to the jaw then dropped the husky blond for eight.

When he arose on wobbling legs, Lause let him have it with both barrels. He was about to fall again when Goldstein stopped the bout.

It was the first time Greaves, 24, had been stopped in 45 pro fights. Lause, who had won 11 of his 13 fights in the United States from 1953 to 1956, racked up his 15th straight victory and his 65th knockout.

Place Third

MUNCIE, Ind. — East Carolina's defending champion swimming team placed third in the fourth annual National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' swimming championships concluded here yesterday at Ball State Teachers College.

Southern Illinois, posting ten firsts, while accumulating a final score of 150 1/2, was crowned the new NAA champion. North Central of Illinois, with a final total of 87 1/2, copped runner-up honors. East Carolina College was third with a total of 55 points.

Bob Kingrey was top man for East Carolina, taking firsts in both the three-meter, and the one-meter diving events.

With No Drug Scare, Bradley Is Given Edge

NEW YORK (AP)—Bradley, ill during the game with the Bonnies.

"I expect Walker to play, but I probably will have to use him in a limited capacity again," said Orsborn. Tired, weak, and nauseous during the semifinal, Walked played only 23 minutes but still led the scoring with 27 points.

Bradley, the 1957 NIT champ but beaten in an overtime final by St. John's last year, may have to be at its peak to stop this unseeded, sometimes erratic but always enthusiastic, Providence bunch. The Friars have only one big player, 6-10 Jimmy Hadnot, and depend on their backcourt pair of six-footers Len Wilkens and Johnny Egan.

Coached by Joe Mullaney, they got to the semifinals last year before losing. They became the gallery favorite this year while edging Memphis State 71-70, then outting third-seeded St. Louis 64-53 and second-seeded Utah State 68-62 in running their winning streak to 11.

Bradley beat Providence 57-55 at Peoria, Ill., Dec. 14 after trailing by 12 points with 8 minutes to play, but both coaches say not to put much stock in that result.

Kansas City's Hope Is Keyed To Hamlin

By JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Kansas City will go to the post with its usual new crop of former Yankees, plus a rookie manager, Bob Elliott, who must get acquainted with new league and a new ball club.

"Right now I would say the key to my plans is Ken Hamlin," said Elliott. "If the kid can make it at shortstop, we'll be able to go along with our other plans."

"I want to leave Jerry Lumpe on second because I think he is a better second baseman than shortstop. That would put our kid, Lou Klimchok, on third base. He has been a second baseman but I want to make that switch if Hamlin stands up, because I want Lumpe on second."

The latest cargo from New York includes Hank Bauer, Norm Siebern, Don Larsen and Marv Throneberry. Nine former Yankees are on the club.

Except for Bob Cerv and Bill Tuttle, the lineup of last spring has departed.

If Hamlin (.251 at Columbus) makes it, Lumpe (.241) will be on second and rookie Klimchok (.315

Wilt Got Mad, Can Cost A Title

By RALPH BERNSTEIN PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain finally got mad and it could cost the Philadelphia Warriors their chance to win the National Basketball mad and it could cost the Philadelphia Warriors their chance to win the National Basketball Assn.'s Eastern championship.

The 250-pound Chamberlain left for Boston Friday night, his right hand swathed in bandages. It injured in a fist fight with Boston's Tom Heinsohn after the two collided in the first period of Friday night's 115-110 Philadelphia victory.

"It hurts and it's swollen," said the 7-foot-1 giant.

The two teams, now tied 1-1, meet in Boston in the third of the best-of-seven game series.

In the Western Division, the St. Louis Hawks are at Minneapolis this afternoon trying to recoup from a defeat Thursday night on their home court. The Hawks-Lakers series also is tied 1-1, but the Lakers have the advantage of winning that all important road game. They could upset the Hawks in the playoffs for the second straight year merely by winning their three home games in the best-of-seven series.

The fight between Chamberlain and the 6-7, 220-pound Heinsohn was the highlight of a rugged battle between the two Eastern rivals before a record Convention Hall crowd of 12,581.

Chamberlain charged after the former Holy Cross flash, his fists flailing. They stood toe-to-toe and slugged it out until players of both teams, the officials and police broke it up.

Chamberlain has charged all season he was being roughed. His coach, Neil Johnston, has shouted himself hoarse to the Stilt to fight back. He finally did and it may be the most costly fighting back of the year for Johnston and his crew. It's no secret that without Chamberlain, the Warriors resemble the last-place team of 1959.

Heinsohn charged that Chamberlain was as guilty of roughing as anyone else in the league.

Friday night's game was the Warriors' most of the way. Except for five lead changes in the first period, and a 41-41 tie in the second quarter, Philadelphia led all the way.

Chamberlain collected 29 points. Heinsohn's 26 were high for the Celtics.

Kiddie Wagon Is Rocket-Powered

ORANGEVALE, Calif. (AP)—Dr. E. R. Mertz and his son, James, 10, Friday had what they believe to be the first rocket-powered kiddie wagon in the country.

Dr. Mertz, who heads the Aerojet rocket solid fuel plant in nearby Sacramento, tested the wagon before science students at the Twin Lake School here.

The little red wagon was equipped with two giant, pressurized carbon dioxide bottles. These propelled the wagon up to 25 miles an hour.

Can't Pitch In The Spring? Cal McLish Can Be Wrong

By JIM KENSIL Associated Press Sports Writer

Who says Cal McLish can't pitch in the spring? Well, Calvin Coolidge Julius Caesar Tusakahoma McLish for one.

"I just hope the Reds stick with me," the big right-hander was saying. "I have to learn all the hitters in this league all over again. I'm just not a good pitcher in the spring."

But that was before Friday when McLish, a 19-game winner for Cleveland in the American League last year, scattered five hits in five runless innings against the Philadelphia Phillies.

Cincinnati lost the exhibition 1-0 to the Phils at Tampa, but Reds' Manager Fred Hutchinson had reason to be pleased.

"Spring training is for working out the kinks," he was saying the same day McLish did his talking. "If he (Cal) is going to get knocked around, now's the time for it to happen."

It didn't. And even more impressive was that McLish didn't give up any runs in his first spring game. He just doesn't pitch shutouts, recording only one (in 1951 with the Chicago Cubs) in a major league career that began with Brooklyn in 1944 when he was a skinny 18-year-old.

Lefty Joe Nuxhall finished up for the Reds and lost it when rookie Jim Coker touched him for a run-scoring double in the eighth inning.

Only two other games were played in Florida where rain has been forcing exhibition cancellations for several days. The Milwaukee Braves whipped the New York Yankees 7-4 at St. Petersburg, and Detroit beat St. Louis 7-6 at Lakeland.

In Arizona, the Cleveland Indians slammed six home runs to defeat the Boston Red Sox 11-6 at Tucson, and the Chicago Cubs homered twice in a 5-2 victory over San Francisco Giants at Mesa.

Hank Aaron homered off Bob Turley for two runs in the Braves' three-run fourth and Milwaukee wrapped up the win over the Yanks with three more runs in the eighth.

The Cardinals ripped into Jim Bunning for all six runs in the fourth inning. But St. Louis rookie Jim Donohue failed to hold off the Tigers, who scored five times in the sixth and seventh.

Rookie Walt Bond and Norm Cash each homered twice for the Indians. John Romano and Gene Leek had the other homers. Boston got three home runs, by Marty Keough, Lou Clinton and pitcher Bill Muffett.

Frank Thomas and Cal Neeman provided the Cubs' power. Neeman homering for two runs after Thomas broke the ice in the Chicago three-run fourth.

Stiffer Round Due Today In Women's Tournament

By KEN ALYTA PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—The competition should be stiffer in today's second round of the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament for Women.

The favored players methodically mangled the high handicap entries in a generally lack-lustre first round Friday. Not one of the 16 matches carried beyond the 16th green and only two went more than 14 holes.

Barbara McIntire, national amateur champion from Lake Park, Fla., drew Patsy Hahn, Delaware champion from Wilmington, in the first of today's eight matches, set to start shortly before noon.

Following them were Polly Riley, from Fort Worth, Tex., and Gail Harvey of Toronto, Canada, at 16 the "baby" of the tournament.

Next was a match between Judy Bell of Wichita, Kans., and Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore. Rounding out the upper bracket were Phyllis (Tish) Preuss of Pompano Beach, Fla., and Carol Benbrink of Islip, Long Island, N.Y.

Topping the lower bracket were Joanne Goodwin of Haverhill, Mass., and Lanny Cranston of San Marino, Calif. Miss Goodwin, runnerup here last year, also was the runnerup in the National Amateur won by Miss McIntire last summer.

Other lower bracket pairings: Mrs. Avery Rockefeller, Jr., Greenwich, Conn., vs. Doris Phillips, Belleville, Ill.; Barbara Williams, Richmond, Calif., vs. Mrs. Joseph Nesbitt, Greenwich; Marge Burns, Greenboro, N.C., vs. Katherine Helleur, Thorhill, Ontario, Canada.

Pep Talk Paid In Big Dividends

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A pep talk during a first-half timeout paid big dividends for California's defending national champs, finalists in tonight's NCAA basketball title game.

California was behind 20-11 against Cincinnati Friday night when Coach Pete Newell called time and told his crew:

"We've got to stick our chins out a little. We need more initiative on offense, more aggressiveness on defense.

The Bears responded, led 34-30 at halftime and won 77-69.

A Quiet Revolution Noted In Fire-Fighting Methods

FOG NOZZLES USED IN MODERN FIRE-FIGHTING . . . less water damage with this type nozzle.

There has been a quiet revolution in methods of fire fighting, in recent years.

Only a few years back, firemen hooked up heavy hose lines to fight even the smallest blazes. Often the water used on the fire did more damage than the flames themselves.

Now, however, times have changed. All sorts of modern devices are owned by the Greenville Fire Department to hold damage to a minimum.

Perhaps the most important of these is the high pressure fog nozzle. With this firemen can send a blanket of smothering fog into a fire area rather than a full stream of water. There is less water damage and the fog extinguishes better.

Smoke masks have also been added which allow firemen to move in close on the blaze and also act as a safety device for the fire fighters.

The modern fire truck carries covers which firemen can place over furniture to prevent damage. And, of course, there are hand extinguishers on the trucks. Often these are used to extinguish small fires.

A recent addition to the local department are two exhaust fans which can be mounted in door ways to pull heavy smoke from burning buildings. This helps prevent smoke damage and makes the fireman's job easier.

Two way radio has been added to the fire trucks, as well as walkie talkie units. This gives better control of the equipment in case of a major fire.

Finally a rigorous training program makes the fireman himself more efficient than in olden days.

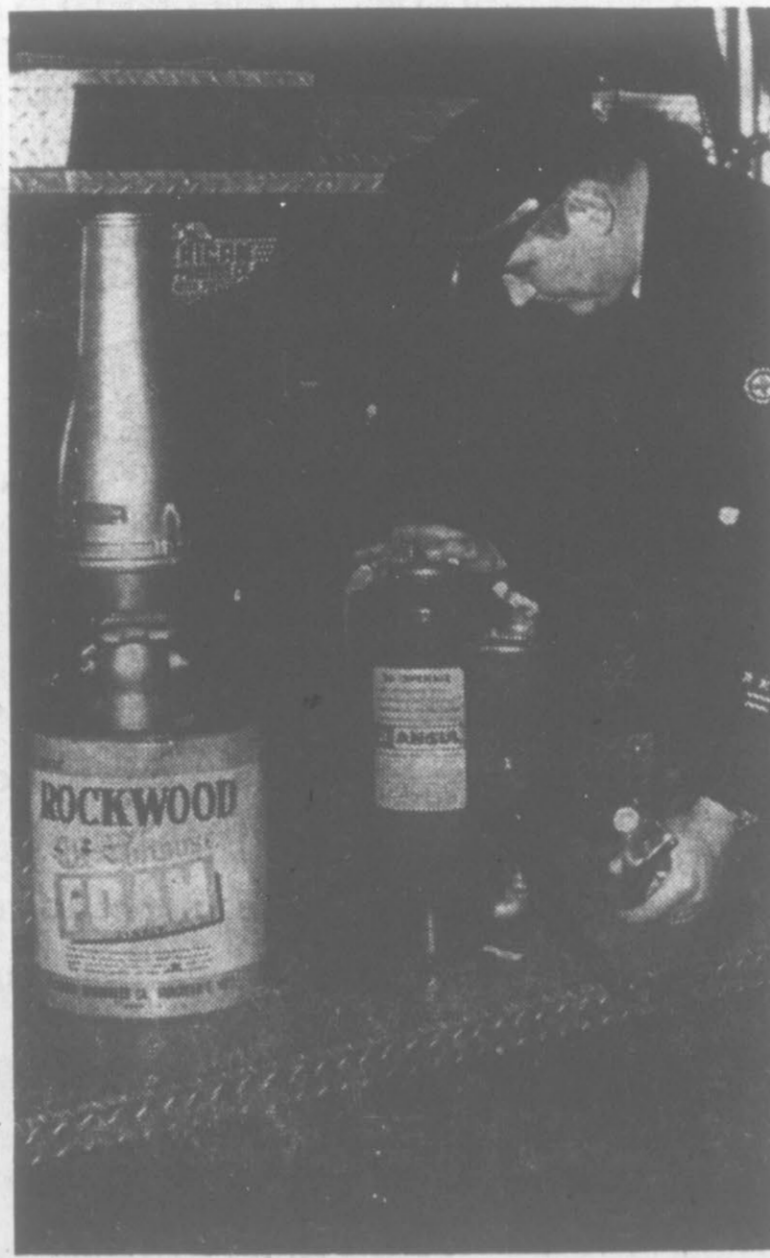

It all adds up to better fire protection for local property owners.

By GEORGE W. GARDNER
Chief, Greenville Fire Dept.

The origin of the American fire departments was in the Colonial days and it is said that Benjamin Franklin organized the first in Philadelphia.

In those days they started with a ladder, leather buckets and red helmets to signify their organization.

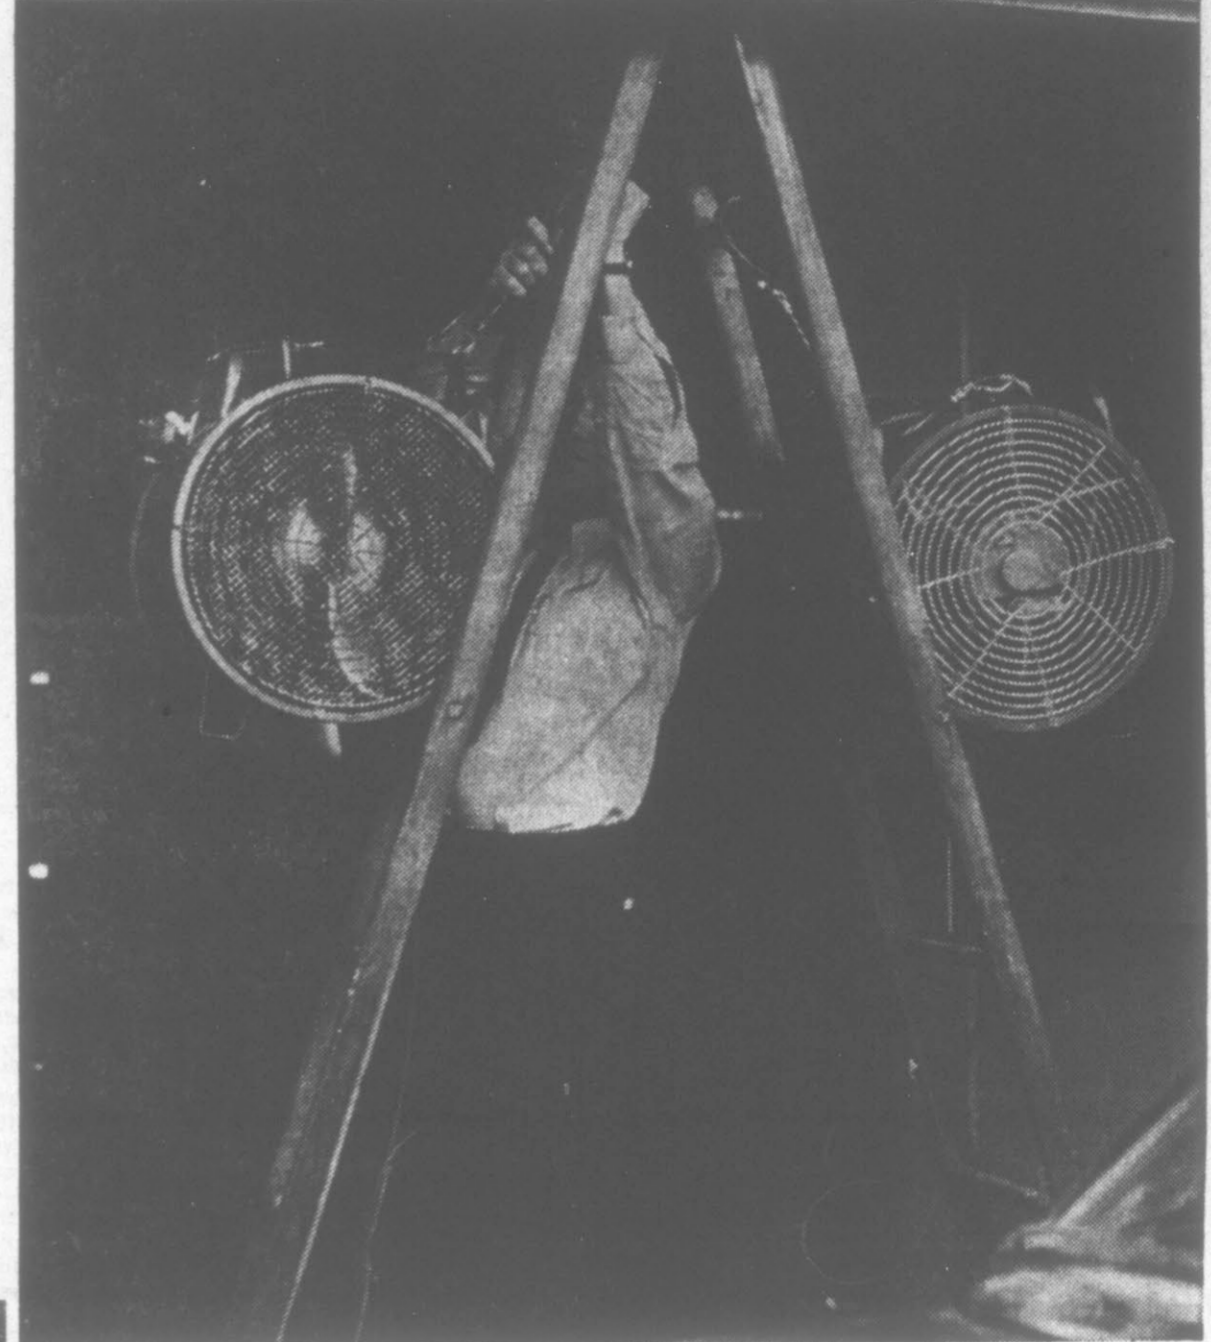

When the fire bell rang, which was pulled by hand, every fireman would stop his work, grab his bucket and helmet and run to the fire and form a bucket brigade. They would do their best to extinguish the fire the same as people in the country who have no fire protection now do.

Then came the small hand pump mounted on solid wooden wheels and pulled by firemen to the fire. They were filled with water by the bucket brigade.

Later cisterns were dug and water draughted from them which, with a small nozzle mounted on the pumps, was the first nozzle in fire service.

Next came the first fire hose made of leather. Then came the old steam fire engine that operated a small 500-gallon-per-minute pump. It was drawn by horses. Also at this time came a type hose similar to that used today. This, of course, was a great improvement over what they had had before.

After 1900, companies began making a few fire trucks similar to those of today, but not perfect and modernized as the ones we have now. In addition the fire hydrants and water systems were being installed in the cities, towns. In communities where they didn't have fire hydrants and water systems, large water cisterns were used in various sections of town. The fire engine or pumpers would draught water from these.

EXHAUST FANS . . . 16 inch blades make 1,750 rpms to pull thick smoke from burning buildings.

We had one here but it has since been filled with dirt at Fourth and Evans Sts.

We operated the same here in Greenville as above stated in 1916 Greenville purchased her first fire truck, in 1922 the second. In 1923 I was hired as a truck driver to replace one of the two men who were then driving the two trucks.

Some today refer to the oldtimers as the wrecking crew, as what was not torn up was drowned by water and your water damage was terrific.

I must take a stand for them and say that with the tools they had to work with, they did a good job. As they had one and sometimes two pumpers (or trucks), a small amount of fire hose and large nozzles, they had to sacrifice one building to stop the spread of the fire beyond their control and then a conflagration.

If they had had the advantages of training, the many, many improved tools that we have today, they could have done a much better job the same as we.

Remember as you look at these pictures of the many types of equipment in your department that since 1928 a continuous training program with training manuals has been going on. There is the drill tower which was given by Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Minges to the city and to others from out-of-town who care to use it. Because of these things we should be able to do a better job.

We have two instructors who attend every training and fire school the state offers to bring back the latest and most modern methods to our men. They have classes in the meeting hall and practices at the Minges Drill Tower every week throughout the year.

We today have building inspectors, fire inspectors, zoning and building codes that the oldtimers didn't have.

Fire fighting is one of the top most hazardous professions, which brings us to a verse in the Bible that says: "Greater love hath no man than he layeth down his life for a friend." This has been done many times, not only for a friend or buddy but for a stranger he never knew.

They, the oldtimers, gladly did this just as the modern day fireman. So I proudly salute the oldtimers who have passed on and the very few who are now living for a job well done.

Director Named For Tour Into Mexico

NEAL AND MEMENTOS of past trips into Mexico.

An East Carolina faculty member who on trips to Mexico has developed a keen interest in the arts and crafts of the country and who had made a large collection of interesting examples of work done South of the Border will direct the college's travel-study tour to Mexico June 2-30.

Francis Lee Neel of the college art department is pictured in his home near Greenville on Highway 264 surrounded by some of the souvenirs and art objects which he has acquired on five visits to Mexico.

Some of the crafts for which the country is noted and to which students will be introduced on the tour are shown glass blowing, wood carving, pottery making, basketry, lace making, and work in leather and silver.

The Mexican tour, now being organized at the college as a special event of the 1960 summer term, is sponsored by the East Carolina department of art. In addition to sight-seeing in places of interest throughout Mexico, students taking the tour will have an opportunity to study under Mr. Neel's direction.

Students will have a chance to observe and study also paintings, including murals; architecture; native dance and music; and other aspects of the culture of Mexico.

Response to the announcement of the tour has indicated a widespread interest. Inquiries have come from as far away as Texas.

For the past twelve years Mr. Neel has been a member of the art faculty of the college. He has taught many students who are now teaching in public schools of the state. A specialist in the crafts, he has also won recognition as a painter through exhibitions in this state, Georgia, New York, and Missouri.

Actor Talman To Fight For Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor William Talman plans a legal fight to save his role as the district attorney on television's Perry Mason program.

His attorneys say Talman was fired without a hearing and they charge Columbia Broadcasting System with bad faith in invoking the morals clause of his contract.

Talman, three other men and four women who were arrested in a raid on a West Hollywood party. They were accused of gambling, wearing obscene clothing, but Talman maintains he is innocent of any crime or immoral act. His trial is April 25.

"We hope CBS reconsiders its decision," said Atty. Harold Rhoden. "Otherwise we will have to take legal steps."

FARMVILLE—Mrs. Mollie King of Farmville, who will be 103 years old this November, comes from an age in the past.

A native of Warren County, she attended a "pre-school" which was a little country school located "in the corner of the woods." There weren't any public schools then.

When she was about 15 years old, Mrs. King married Rufus King, a farmer and a carpenter. That was so long ago that Mollie King has forgotten the exact date she was married. She has been a widow since 1930.

During her long lifetime, Mollie King has mostly farmed and done housework. "That's all I was ever interested in," she said. But in the days when she was bringing up her children—she had 11 in all—women performed varied duties in addition to regular housework.

She has done spinning, carpet weaving, made all the children's clothes and made blankets. She learned to make clothes before she was 12 years old. Women of her day mostly stayed in the house, she said. She says she couldn't count the carpets she has woven.

Today Mollie King has outlived some of her children. She now makes her home with her son, Richard, in his home on the Stanfordsburg highway just outside Farmville. She came to Pitt County in 1955.

She has 30 grandchildren. In the past, when she was able to be more active, Mrs. King says her favorite pastime was farming. Her father was a farmer all his life. She has worked at raising everything, she says, including cotton, tobacco, peas, corn and potatoes.

Though she enjoyed sewing and knitting, Mrs. King said she always preferred getting out in the fields to work. Her children say that she had "to try" anything anyone else tried to do.

Mrs. King, a member of the Methodist Church and a former pie choir member, doesn't have a philosophy on how to live a long life. She says she has tried to live "a good life," to be good to herself and to everybody else. She can't recall ever having an enemy, mostly reels and enjoys talking to visitors.

Lost Needle Is Dangerous Item

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—A needle containing radioactive cobalt 60 is missing from the General Hospital safe.

Dr. John W. Barry, radiologist, warned that exposure to the needle could result in burns, illness and even death. It is used to treat cancer.

Dr. Barry expressed belief the needle was dropped somewhere in the hospital treatment area. Its disappearance was noted Thursday.

Analyst Expects Economic Gains

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The 1960s will bring "economic growth such as has seldom been seen before in our entire history," says a New York economics analyst.

Murray Shields, senior partner in Mackay-Shields Associates, Inc., made that prediction to 1,000 banking executives from Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa and Oklahoma Thursday.

Shields forecast a work force of 78 million persons and an average annual income of $8,750 by the end of the decade.

HERE OUGHTA BE A LAW! By FAGALY and SHORTEN

Suggested Boy Build An Artificial Heart; He Did

FARMINGTON, Mich. (AP)—Why don't you build an artificial heart? a surgeon jokingly asked a 16-year-old acquaintance.

So David Randolph scratched up a plastic umbrella handle, parts of an old fire extinguisher, little chunks of plywood and other odds and ends and built a working model.

The idea was sparked by Dr. James D. Fryfole, a prominent heart surgeon in nearby Detroit. But he says he was only half serious when he suggested that David undertake the project.

First, David buried himself in "The Surgical Clinics of North America," a book which illustrates a mechanical heart for humans.

His next step was a study of a rat's anatomy. He read the "Transactions of American Philosophical Society." Then he scouted for materials.

A length of stainless steel became the crank for his hand-operated blood pump.

Rollers, made from sections of an umbrella handle, squeeze the blood along a plastic tube. The blood is warmed in a tube wrapped around a steel cylinder immersed in 98-degree water.

A carbon dioxide cylinder holds oxygen for the blood.

David used a hypodermic needle to trap any bubbles which might develop. The blood is supplied with a saline solution to keep it from coagulating.

As it passes through the apparatus, you can see blue blood taken from a rat's vein turn a healthy crimson.

Dr. Fryfole examined the device and said it is truly a working model of an artificial heart and blood oxygenator for open heart surgery.

Until now David himself has shown more interest in sports than biology. He is captain of the track team at Our Lady of Sorrows High School here.

His last biology grade was a "C."

Lived It Up To His Credit Cards

NEW YORK (AP)—A fellow can do wonders with credit cards these days, and Charles Gregory Cannon did.

Furthermore, Cannon found a way to improve on the system—he started making his own cards.

They got him a $45-a-day hotel suite; they also got him a more modest room in the local jailhouse.

There he sat today, doubtless reflecting that his style of living hereafter will be on a scale reduced from his previous $10,000-a-month clip.

He was a real man of distinction as he reached the detention quarters. He wore a dark blue jacket, Sedate gray trousers, vest and ascot made a neat contrast. A neatly clipped mustache, homburg hat, silver topped cane and gray gloves added to his air of a fine gentleman.

FBI agents took him in custody—along with an array of do-it-yourself devices including a printing press, a check-writing machine, engraving tools and other materials for forging credit cards, checks and identification slips.

Cannon, said authorities, though only 35, had spent about nine years in jail for various crimes. Last November he broke out of jail at Miami, Fla., where he was serving a one-year term for using a fake credit card.

Soon he was roaming the countryside—and living off the fat of it—from Florida to Canada. It was estimated that he had obtained $15,000 through hot checks and another $20,000 worth of the niceties of life with his phony credit cards.

Girl To Receive Hero's Medal

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Blind, 17-year-old Theresa Hayes will receive Philadelphia's first medal of honor for heroically remaining at her telephone switchboard to warn others during a fire at the Overbrook School for the Blind. More than 300 pupils were evacuated safely but one fireman was killed in the blaze last week.

Castro Building Up A Powerful Military Force

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro is building up a powerful armed force in a nation confronted with economic headaches and a shortage of foreign currency.

The revolutionary regime has launched a fund-raising campaign for arms, trumpeting that they are needed for defense against foreign aggression.

But some Cubans believe Castro, mindful of the island republic's turbulent history, is taking precautions against potential enemies at home.

"If Castro felt certain of his hold on the people, he wouldn't be calling for arms," these Cubans say. "But he knows from experience that the same crowd who cheers him today will turn upon him as they did on other popular Cuban leaders when the situation gets difficult."

"He needs arms to supply not only the regular army but the militia as well. If trouble comes, he'll have ready the large armed force Cuba has ever seen."

The government has used the explosion of the French freighter La Coubre while delivering munitions in Havana harbor to spur a funds-for-arms campaign that began more than six months before.

By official estimate, some two million pesos (equal to dollars in Cuba but worth much less on the world market; were raised before the La Coubre tragedy which took between 80 and 100 lives.

The Castro government has officially identified the United States as the chief aggressor against Cuba. The pro-Castro radio and press whipped up antagonism against the United States with pleas for more defense contributions.

Today in Havana's streets, people sound more concerned with who blew up the arms than what the arms were for.

"Ask a Cuban today if he actually believes the United States would invade Cuba and the answer is likely to be an unqualified 'yes.'"

Some anti-Castro Cubans wonder out loud why American Marines don't come here to "straighten things out."

Reaching the Public Mrs. May said the home agents try to reach people in three ways: by individual contact; by group contact, such as the home demonstration meetings and leader training schools; and by mass media, such as newspapers, television and radio.

Individual contact often takes place when citizens go to the home agent's office in the agricultural building for information. Telephone calls are another means of personal contact. Sometimes information is given out by telephone, or if it is too detailed, bulletins are sent. Letters and conferences are other means of individual contact.

The most effective means of personal contact is through home visits, when the home agents might assist in plans for remodeling or redecorating a home, planning for a new home, for example.

Activities Of Home Agents Office Have Very Far - Reaching Effects

By PATRICIA MOORE

Though everyone is familiar with the term and office of the county home economics agent, few realize the far reaching effects of the activities of her office.

They affect the whole family not just women. Their activities may range from a home demonstration club meeting to landscaping a churchyard. Their advice may alter the plans for redecorating a house or refinishing a piece of furniture.

In the words of Mrs. Sue May, Pitt County home ec. agent, the purpose of her office is "to try to improve family living throughout Pitt County by reaching families with the latest home economics research and techniques, and further encouraging these families to put these techniques into practice."

The program is primarily one of education. They are not social functions nor are they considered civic work.

Assisting Mrs. May in the home agent's office are Mrs. Lois Freeman and Mrs. Helen Mohan. Mrs. Betty Alford is secretary.

The home agent's office itself is an extension of the North Carolina Extension Service, with well trained and informed personnel equipped to carry out programs of education helping in many areas of family living.

At the Extension Office at State College in Raleigh are experts trained in all fields of home economics. All their information is based on the latest research, Mrs. May said.

The services this office renders are free to teach people and to help them to help themselves. Some, of course, pass information on to their neighbors.

Reaching the Public Mrs. May said the home agents try to reach people in three ways: by individual contact; by group contact, such as the home demonstration meetings and leader training schools; and by mass media, such as newspapers, television and radio.

Individual contact often takes place when citizens go to the home agent's office in the agricultural building for information. Telephone calls are another means of personal contact. Group contact naturally reaches more people at a time. The major part of the home agent's program is to improve home life through the 21 home demonstration clubs in Pitt County which meet monthly, Mrs. May said.

The programs are built around their current needs and interests. Each club member has the opportunity to suggest topics for programs when the year's schedule is compiled. She takes her suggestions to her club meeting, and from there the club sends suggestions to the home agent's office, where trained personnel and a program committee make final decisions on what program topics will be scheduled.

Local officers preside at the meetings, but representatives from the home agent's office present the educational demonstration. Actually, Mrs. May said, the programs belong to the community.

Certain months out of the year home agents do not attend the meetings. In those cases, leaders of the club give the demonstration, but as a means of preparing them for that, the office has training schools. Local home agents may do the training, or experts from the extension service at N. C. State College or experts in the chosen field may be called in to train.

A third area of the group meeting is a special interest meeting, when one of the agents or an expert gives a demonstration. An example is a demonstration on teas and receptions which will be held late this month. Anyone is welcome to this type meeting, Mrs. May said.

Workshops, held in community buildings usually, are another method of reaching people through groups. A recent workshop held near Greenville concerned furniture refinishing. Club members took pieces of furniture, and under advice of an expert from State College, learned how to take off the original finish and replace it with a newer and unscratched one.

Occasionally home agents reach other homemakers by visiting a garden club, for example, and presenting a demonstration. Sometimes tours are made through homes in the county to observe improvements in a home.

Reaching people through mass media would include the distribution of bulletins; exhibits, such as on National Home Demonstration Week, which may be in several different locations in the county; circular letters—at least one circular letter is published a month which goes to all women on home demonstration rolls.

At the present time Mrs. May said her office is in the process of trying to begin a service to young homemakers who are non-club members. A newsletter also may be started to reach those club women who cannot attend the club meeting but who would like information which would be of help in their homemaking.

Radio and television programs are other examples of reaching the masses.

First Presbyterian Announcements "The Comforting Christ" is the title of the sermon to be delivered by the Reverend Richard R. Gammon at the First Presbyterian Church, Sunday morning.

Sunday week, March 27, the Reverend David H. Burr, pastor of the Royster Memorial Presbyterian Church, Norfolk, Virginia will be the guest minister for a Week of Spiritual Enrichment which will be conducted at this church, March 27-31.

The Youth Choir will meet at 5:15 p.m. Sunday for rehearsal. At 6:00 o'clock the Senior High and pioneer Fellowship groups will meet for supper and Vespers. "How the Bible Helps Us Today" will be the program for the Pioneers. Gammon will talk to the Senior High group on The Doctrine of Predestination.

Monday, at 12:15 p.m. The Women of the Church will meet in Fellowship Hall for a covered dish luncheon. Immediately following the luncheon, the business and program of the General meeting will be conducted.

Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock, Gammon will conduct the pre-Circle Bible Study.

On Friday night, March 25, at 7:30, the Sunday School personnel will meet for a planning session. An nursery is maintained at this church during the morning worship hour and parents of small children are invited to use this service.

Wife To Divorce 'Gunsmoke' Star HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jim Arness, who portrays Matt Dillon in the TV series "Gunsmoke," is pictured by his wife as a man who has no interest in his marriage.

Virginia Arness told newsmen Thursday she plans to divorce him.

"I'm just drifting," she said. "There doesn't seem to be any hope. I have no other choice but divorce."

The couple has been separated for some time. Mrs. Arness has the three children in Pacific Palisades, and Arness occupies an apartment here.

Arness declined comment except to say he has not heard from his wife's attorney.
