Parties Pay Off For Petticoat Tycoon

By DOROTHY ROE
 Because she likes to give parties, Irene Jessup of San Francisco is today one of the country's highest-paid saleswomen.
 You might say Irene is a typical American wife and mother—except for her income. Smart, slender, blonde and pretty, she is the wife of a house painter and mother of two children, 19-year-old Gary and 4-year-old Mary Anne. Before she discovered the possibilities of salesmanship, she was a beauty operator, earning $40 a week. Today her income is more than $30,000 a year, and expected to hit $40,000 in 1960.
 How does she do it?
 "Well," says Irene, "one day I went to a football game in San Francisco with my husband, and the man behind me dropped a hot dog into my lap. While he was apologizing and helping mop up the mustard, we got acquainted. He turned out to be Daniel O'Farrell Zermeno, executive vice president of a big costume jewelry company, and he asked me if I would like to show the jewelry to some of my friends.
 "Well, one thing led to another and the first thing I knew I was giving a party, and we had a fashion show of this jewelry, designed by Sarah Coventry, which is sold only this way, in homes. Since these women were all my friends and neighbors, I felt at ease, and before the evening was over I'd sold a lot of jewelry.
 "Then I started getting the other women to hold parties and fashion shows, and before I knew it I was area manager for the company in northern California."
 This was about five years ago. Since then Irene has become a busy executive, in charge of some 1000 sales people throughout her area, traveling 600 to 700 miles a week, showing women how to give fashion show parties in their homes.
 "It's really a natural thing," says Irene. "The women just invite their friends in for an evening, and the jewelry is there, and the guests themselves act as models. Many women who would feel self-conscious about trying on things in a store just love the chance to do it in an informal, friendly atmosphere."
 Irene gave her first fashion show party just to earn money to buy a new sewing machine. She got the machine, but she never had time to use it since.
 Nowadays Mrs. Jessup works principally with supervisors in the various towns of her area, instructing them in how to recruit new saleswomen and give fashion shows. Says she: "Most women love jewelry, and when they have a chance to try it on at leisure, and have a personal contact with the representatives of the company, it makes all the difference."
 "The women who give the parties can make as much as they want to and have time for. Some just do it for a short time, to earn money for some specific thing, like my sewing machine. Others go on to become supervisors and often find a new full-time career."
 Irene finished high school, but never went to college. A brief course in cosmetology was her only professional training. But because she likes people, enjoys her home and family and knows how to make friends, she has become a petticoat tycoon. Says she: "It has all happened so fast, I'm still amazed when I stop to think about it. But I'll always be glad that I went to that football game that day, and that my various towns of her area, instructing them in how to recruit in my lap."

IRENE JESSUP . . . She just loves jewelry.

Save The Old Pie Safe

RALEIGH — Why discard the old pie safe? It can be converted into a handsome piece of furniture, or maybe two pieces.

Miss Pauline Gordon, house furnishings specialist for the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service, suggests the old safe be sawed apart, just above the drawer. The upper part can be made into a television table.
 Miss Gordon says it is necessary to reinforce the legs with angle irons when converting the lower part into a table.
 Since many old safes have grease on them, it is advisable to scrub them with tri-sodium phosphate or a commercial cleaner that is recommended for removing grease from wood before refinishing them. The tin paneling may be replaced with machine woven or pressed canvas.
 Another way to restyle a safe is to saw off the legs, build a new base, place the safe on the base up-side down, add a new top, and replace the tin panels with cane.
 The finish to be used depends on the kind of wood from which the safe is made. A poor quality wood should be finished with a pigmented paint; while on the better quality, you may use an oil stain and then apply an oil or varnish finish.

Romans, Greeks Contribute Much

ROBERSONVILLE — "The Romans made the unique contribution of establishing law and order in a world of petty tribes. . . . The Greeks went far in the fields of philosophy, science and the arts."
 These facts were told by Mrs. Claude T. Smith at the bi-monthly meeting of the Ex Libris Book Club at the home of Mrs. Otis Woolard on No. Main St.
 Her topic, "The Roman Civilization Contrasted With The Greek Civilization," gave informative notes to the group.
 The Apollon Way was an example given of the Romans' practical policies in building roads which are still in use today.
 In pointing out the contrasts between the Greek and Roman cultures, Mrs. Smith explained that the Greeks were great builders or creators. The Parthenon is still a model for architects . . .
 Greeks were thinkers who saw beyond the world of what the mind sees to the unseen world of the spirit. Socrates, Plato and Aristotle saw around them physical reality and dealt with it.
 They perceived spirit. They balanced these in human affairs. The Romans balanced these to make only one permanent contribution to civilization—law and order.
 Adding, Mrs. Smith said the Greeks were the first people to ask, "What is the world made of? Why is it the way it is?" The earliest philosophers sought the one basic thing from which the whole world is made. One philosopher, Democritus, suggested an atomic theory that is surprisingly similar to scientific views today.
 Following the program, the hostess served homemade pound cake, gingerale float and nuts to twelve members and one guest present.
 Mrs. Glen Norman, president, presided.

Be Sure To Read Your Child's School Books

Children thrive when parents are interested in their activities. If you want to encourage your youngsters to do well in school, know what is going on — in the school building and in your child's head.

From the beginning read his books so you can talk about what interests him. You may not find the contents of the pre-primer very stimulating. Maybe you don't really care whether Jane sees Dick or not but the very idea that those little straight and curved lines of print can mean things is a most exciting concept to a child. Share his excitement and you will help him discover the world between the covers of books.

As your child grows older his textbooks become more interesting. Read them, ask your child if you may borrow his book because you are interested in the subject. Talk about what he is studying. Often you can elaborate on the subject matter, and open up new areas. If it is a subject in which you do not have much knowledge, here is your chance to broaden your own horizons.

Go to the library and get some books related to his subject matter. Read them yourself, especially if the books are too long or too difficult for the child. Prime yourself with extra stories and tell them at the dinner table. Encourage your youngster to bring home books from the school library, books which he will be able to read himself.

When American history is being studied there is a wealth of material to be had. You probably know a good deal about American history, but there is always more to learn. The recent bestseller "The Winthrop Woman" is a fascinating book which may well give you some new insights into the Pilgrim Fathers. The "Cod Fish Musket" is an exciting story of early American Life. When it comes to English history, "The Brief Gaudy Hour" is a thrilling tale of Anne Boleyn, Henry VIII's second wife. Round out your own education as your children go through school. Your interest in their subject matter will stimulate your children to learn.

As you read your children's text books, take a look at the date the books were written. There has been a great deal of time work, money put into the writing of American textbooks. Some of them are the world's finest — well-written, well-illustrated and up to date.

Are your children getting the advantage of new books? Many school systems try to save money by not buying the new books. Looking into the school budget for books is a worthwhile PTA function.

If you find your children are using antiquated textbooks, or the school library is ill-equipped, get a committee started in the PTA to investigate. Often a little pressure from parents can do a lot to persuade school boards to allocate more money for books. There is no better way for a PTA

Fashions For Travel

Planning a trip or vacation soon? Fabric designers are with you all the way—as far as your clothing is concerned, that is.

From tennis to teatime, the latest fashions are lightweight, packable, and washable, too! Just immerse them in soap or detergent suds in your hotel lavatory, then rinse and let them drip dry. This will keep your wardrobe as crisp at the end of your trip as when you ventured forth.

Gay Caps, Capes

Gay, decorated shower caps and make-up capes have all but replaced the drab, strictly utilitarian ones of a few years ago. And that's the way it should be, because it's just as easy to suds powder stains from a pink-and-white flowered plastic cape as it is from a plain one; and a shower cap twinkling with jewels keeps hair just as dry as a less attractive one while milady takes her leisurely bath or shower.

Slippers Relaxing

Snug little slippers are just the thing for relaxing at home, or toting on trips. One cushiony variety is made with knit nylon uppers and buoyant, flexible vinyl soles. And they're as relaxing to launder as to wear. Just hand- or machine-wash them in soap or detergent suds often, to always enjoy the special comfort of cleanliness.

to use money collected in dues or earned in fund raising activities than to supplement the school library.

Elmhurst Garden Club Officers Installed By Outgoing President

Lyman Edwards and Mrs. Luther Cratt were introduced as guests by the president.

Committee reports were heard, and Mrs. Pair called attention to the Japanese arrangements brought by members of the club, and reminded club members to decorate a hat for the April meeting.

Mrs. W. L. Green Jr., a club member, gave the program on the Elizabethan Garden at Manteo. She showed slides and gave facts about each.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses following the program.

Keeping Sickroom Clean Imperative

It is imperative to keep the sickroom clean, because germs live for some time in the dust which collects in any room. According to the New York State Department of Health, it's advisable to use soap and water and an oiled dust cloth or mop to scrub down a room in which you are nursing an ill member of the family. After this cleaning, wash your hands carefully with soapsuds.

Sentiment Is Against Concessions

It should be clear by now the vast majority of North Carolinians are opposed to giving further tax concessions or other costly incentives to new industries interested in locating plants in North Carolina.

From throughout the state there has come adverse reaction to such an idea since last week when it was announced that the Commission on Reorganization of State Government would consider the advisability of some such program.

The reaction has caused Governor Hodges, and Bill Henderson, chief industry hunter for the Department of Conservation and Development, to reiterate the fact that they do not favor further concessions, taxwise, to industries as bait for locating in North Carolina.

In spite of the furor which has been raised over the study proposal, it has certainly clarified the position which North Carolina takes toward its industrial and economic development. With overwhelming popular sentiment apparently against special concessions to new industries, there is little likelihood that the state will in the near future go farther than it already has in offering new industries special treatment.

It points up the fact that citizens of the state feel that North Carolina can stand on its own feet in the industrial development competition without offering more special concession to prospects. It re-emphasizes the feeling throughout the state that North Carolina has a great deal to offer industry without having to "buy" new plants and new industries through special concessions of taxes and other items as other states are doing.

These factors should strengthen the effort by North Carolina's communities to sell new industries on the natural resources, geographic advantages and progressive atmosphere that prevails in North Carolina. It will strengthen the effort to sell North Carolina on its merits rather than by special give-away gimmicks dangled before industrial prospects.

The reaction should also assure industries which have located in the state in recent years that North Carolina will not now do more for new industries than it did for them when they decided to settle here. It will also show future prospects that North Carolina intends to offer all the help it can to new industries looking for locations, but that the state expects new corporate citizens locating here to assume their fair share of the total citizenship responsibility.

If the initial announcement concerning what Gov. Hodges and Henderson proposed was misinterpreted, it was fortunate. The resulting reaction, however, appears to have had a wholesome rather than an adverse effect on the total effort of the state toward further economic development.

Our Own System Has The Proof Of Success

Sometimes we wonder whether the United States in its competitive efforts with the Soviet Union, is not prone to lose sight of the great progress made in every field under our democratic system compared with that under the Soviet totalitarian system.

Sometimes we appear tempted to throw away our own proven method of doing things in order to adopt Soviet methods which apparently have brought considerable progress to Russia in recent years.

If such a strategy is adopted by the United States in an attempt to compete with the Soviet Union, we can not hope to do more than play second fiddle. We are masters of our own methods of operations and have clearly shown that following our own methods we can maintain a superiority in practically every field. For us to abandon our own methods of doing things and adopt methods used by the Soviets would be granting an advantage to the Soviets because they are much more experienced with their methods than we are.

Our public education system would be completely disrupted if we should abandon our own methods of operations and the philosophy behind them in order to copy the schools of the Soviet Union. Our industrial production methods have been developed and proved under the most pressing circumstances. If we were to suddenly alter them to copy Russian operations in our industry, we would falter into chaos.

It may appear from time to time that Russia is achieving greater accomplishments in some fields than the United States by using different methods. It should be realized, however, that under the Soviet totalitarian system, the state controls completely, and therefore what the state needs it may have on a limited scale, regardless of the cost in money, material, lives and anything else. It is highly questionable, however, that such a system will prove superior in the long run to the method of operations which are fundamental to democratic life in the United States.

Before the United States begins to pattern any of its systems, institutions or methods of operation along lines used in the Soviet Union, a long, careful look must be taken at the goals sought and the success achieved in reaching these goals.

New Needle For Emotional Jag

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — For more than a year Cuba has been on an emotional jag personally conducted by Fidel Castro. Now the United States is trying to give him both a sedative and a needle.

The sedative is American Ambassador Philip Bonsal. Last January Bonsal was pulled out of Cuba because of Castro's insulting attacks on the United States. This past weekend Bonsal was sent back.

The purpose is to try to work out some reasonable relationship with Castro. This is in line with the Eisenhower administration's apparent intention to handle Castro's anti-American rantings with patience.

But starting Monday night the United States began nightly Spanish-language broadcasts to present the American story to the Cuban people who have heard nothing but denunciations of this country from Castro.

Since the broadcasts will be shortwave, and only about three percent of the Cubans own the type of set which can receive them, the audience will be small. Nevertheless, judging from Castro's past performances, this may set him screaming.

Castro has been on an emotional jag ever since, at the start of 1959, he threw out one dictator, Fulgencio Batista, and under the name of democracy set up a dictatorship of his own.

His TV appearances before the Cuban people, sometimes involving speeches and tirades lasting for hours, have become notorious.

His whole performance—particularly his anti-Americanism—raises some questions which no one in authority in this country so far has attempted to answer.

Does he have any idea of what he's doing and where he's going? Sometimes he acts like a man moved from by impulse than reflection, thinking up plans as he goes along. Is he being used as a front man by Communists in the background?

Are Cuban Communists just waiting till he gets the country sufficiently disorganized to shove him aside and take over?

Over the weekend Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said there are Communist sympathizers high in the Castro regime.

"Some of the acts," Herter said, "look like they were following the Communist pattern."

One thing which has this country burned up is that Castro's government has not compensated Americans whose property has been seized as part of the Castro land reform program.

Herter said this country is sympathetic to the aims of the Cuban revolution and has no objection to the land reform program but does think Americans should be paid promptly and adequately for the properties taken from them.

The American broadcasts are about the first sign of Castro's army's fighting back at Castro's abuse. Things will probably get worse before they get better.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
Human life is full of mystery. Just about the time we think we have everything figured out and the pattern of a satisfactory life well established, something previously unheard of sweeps across the landscape and we find ourselves wondering whether we are insane or just plain stupid.

How can we believe for a moment that five senses—such as each of us possesses—can lead us to a full apprehension of truth? Undoubtedly there are realities in the universe which none of our sense can pick up. Did you ever stop to think much about angels? Well, they exist. People much more level-headed than ourselves have had visions. Some of the world's greatest figures have fallen into trances and seen sights which they could only partly describe.

Science describes to us the working of natural law. But can one believe that our knowledge of natural law explains the whole of the universe? If you will collect for yourself books written by many honest people of penetrating intelligence which describe mysteries of stupendous nature, you will be amazed to find how much reality lies out there which we are not only ignorant but which we do not have the capacity to understand.

Let us be big enough to confess that mysteries exist. Let us not ally ourselves to ignorance and pass judgment on many things we do not understand.

Decorated Special For You, Nikita

By DON SCHLIENZY

Just Too Doggone Eager

"Yes SIR", he said, "isn't there something more I can do for you?"

Well, the heartiness of it kind of shook me; but I figured that in every supermarket there was at least one eager beaver who worked at public relations.

Drifting down the aisles, a woman pushing a basket cart in front of me paused to ask a clerk about an item she hadn't been able to find.

That young man dropped some merchandise he was putting on shelves and leaped to another section where he promptly located her sought-for item.

"Here you are, MA'AM! Is there any other way in which I can help you MA'AM?" Again, it was said with all the heartiness and enthusiasm of a campaigning politician.

It gave me pause. Off and on through the years I've gone to market and enjoyed the inconspicuous efficiency of clerks who quietly served the public with no phony effusiveness.

As often as not, the store manager would be walking his beat and he might stop to inquire if I was finding everything satisfactory or engage in some small talk. Other than that, nothing to jar the contemplation of grocery lists except that surveying of shelves. One not only felt "accepted" but more than that; almost as though this as a part of his own domain.

This reverie was broken by a booming voice in another aisle; "Yes SIR! Right over here, SIR! Is there ANY other way in which I can be of help SIR?"

My mind's eye could see the accompanying wide and cordial smile of the speaker. Obviously it was all part of a be-friendly-with-the-public campaign, probably instituted at a meeting of employees and managers at the start of the week.

At this point another stock clerk was approaching with his arms full of cartons. I watched him warily, and he was watching me. You could tell he was bursting with a barely-suppressed impulse to climb the highest mountain or swim the widest ocean (with a hearty smile) if such was my whim. I averted my eyes and stepped up my pace. Unnerved by the thought that if I even looked as though I were going to speak he'd drop all that merchandise and stand at attention.

This sort of thing was not for me. The impulse to avoid people, especially store clerks, was foreign to me. Yet, there was that feeling of being watched.

On checking out, the tensions began to relax and I was fumbling for some coins when the lady, radiating with noisy courtesy queried "Is there NOTHING else we can do for you SIR?"

I mumbled a negative reply and hurried out. That was almost a week ago; and unless I miss my guess, that big effusive spirit has begun to wane by now and things are pretty well back to normal. . . . so I'll be going back. It's really a fine place.

Public Forum Opinions In Brief

To The Editor: A well-known business man was arrested recently. According to later testimony, he was treated like a murderer. He was frisked, stripped of his watch, ring, wallet, glasses, overcoat and jacket, thrown into jail and ordered to remove his shoes. He pleaded that he would like to retain his jacket because he was recovering from bronchial pneumonia, but the request was denied.

Do you think this account came from the Dark Ages? Or from behind the Iron Curtain? No, the place was New York State; the time, about a year and a half ago. What, then, was this man's crime? He sold toys on Sunday.

Crime depends on the nature of the act, not the day on which it is committed. Sunday laws make a perfectly legitimate business, like selling groceries, a crime one day a week. In Asheville, Judge Sam M. Cathey called it "ridiculous that a man can buy an unnecessary luxury like a cigar on Sunday but can't buy a necessary like a can of beans for a hungry family."

The Reflector reported a few days ago that Chief Gibbs and the local police force were going to begin a "crackdown" upon those breaking Greenville blue laws. Are our authorities and our community — acting with discretion when they wish to make a man a criminal for carrying on an honest business that is perfectly proper on days other than Sunday?

Jesus never used political force to gain a religious end. He made this clear with "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's." He recognized that true worship comes out of love, not legislation. Can we safely go beyond His wisdom? The framers of the Constitution carefully avoided any church-state union by providing in Article I of the First Amendment that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

Sunday laws are attempts to legislate the dogma of the church. Furthermore, they seriously curtail the religious freedom of minorities such as Jews, Seventh-day Baptists, and Seventh-day Adventists. Is it not clear that such laws are anti-constitutional? Christians who observe the Seventh-day Sabbath (Saturday) are merely trying to keep the law that God blessed (Exodus 20:9-11) and that Jesus kept (Luke 4:16). Are they now to be persecuted for buying or selling a loaf of bread on Sunday, or for painting the porch steps?

I propose not only that we stop enforcing these unfair laws, but that we remove them from the statute books.

Yours truly, Robert R. Morrison

"At times we are derelict in political action. Therefore, I soon will propose to the international executive board that we subsidize union members to run for state legislatures."

David J. McDonald, President, United Steelworkers of America.

"We as American trade unionists have much to learn from the European experience as regards mobilizing our labor political strength for social gains at the political level, if we want to benefit by the experience of our European colleagues."

Walter Reuther, President, United Automobile Workers.

"We are in business to make money—not for profit; we are a non-profit organization—but to expand. We are out for every quarter we can get."

Jimmy Hoffa, President of Teamsters Union.

"I want to urge devotion to the fundamentals of human liberty—the principles of voluntarism. No lasting gain has ever come from compulsion. If we seek to force, we bear apart that which, united, is invincible."

Samuel Gompers, first President of the AFL.

Fraud In Using Terms

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
COPYRIGHT, 1960, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

Words influence ideas and actions. The incorrect use of words produces incorrect ideas. It used to be that Soviet Russia was called Soviet Russia; that the satellites were called satellites; that the complex of Communist countries was referred to as Communist countries.

All of a sudden, the Communist nations are called East; the free nations are called West. For the Soviet complex, one might use the term, the Soviet Universal State, but that has not taken with the general public which has an insufficient grasp of history to recognize what it means. It is a good term because it is what Marxism seeks to establish, a single state based on one ideal of life and utilizing one technique of government of production and distribution.

The use of "East - West" is strictly fraudulent because it covers up a multitude of facts. For instance, are Greece, Turkey, Israel, Iran, West? Geographically, they are East but not West. If we call the West if representative of the NATO powers, is Nationalist China East?

Where is the line of demarcation? Is Cuba East or West? Is India East, West, or nowhere? In the struggle for the control of men, there is no geographical line. The word, East, surely fits West Berlin as it fits East Berlin, but one is anti-Marxist and the other is Marxist.

The present struggle for survival is not geographical. It is essentially a struggle over ideas, over ways of life, over philosophies of existence. The struggle transcends geography, as President Eisenhower discovered in Uruguay, if nowhere else. The terms, "East - West", are propagandistically employed in the United States and elsewhere among our allies for the purpose of avoiding the constant use of the term Communist or Marxist. It is amazing how skillful the Russians have been in inventing self-serving words and phrases which become current in countries where they serve Russia's purposes.

The "Spirit of Camp David," a new device of confusion, apparently requires the avoidance of dirty words. But what is the "Spirit of Camp David"? It applies to a private conversation between President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev at a Presidential retreat called Camp David. What they said to each other is a secret. Therefore we have no idea as to what the spirit is. Perhaps it is a kind of political ectoplasm that floats about catching Strontium 90 until we all suffocate by it. The phrase was not first employed in the United States.

Although we do not know what the "Spirit of Camp David" is or means, we do observe that it has certain characteristics. It ushered in a go-go-on quarrel with Soviet Russia; created an atmosphere favorable to the Summit Conference, Khrushchev seems to take kindly to this atmosphere personally, but Mikoyan came to Cuba to stimulate antagonism to the United States in Cuba, 90 miles off the coast of Florida; the Berlin question was raised to the state of a brink; the Arab-Israel crisis was elevated from a flicker to a flame; the Communists in South America have President Eisenhower as an unpleasant reception wherever they could. In a word, the deed did not quite follow the spirit.

The "Spirit of Camp David" is not altogether a smooth and kindly poltergeist laboring for the peace of the world. It looks more like one side has fallen for gentle talk while the other side does the same kind of business at the same stand—only a new sign-board has been put up.

Instead of the misnomer, "East-West," designed to mislead, let us use the simple terms, Soviet, Communist, Marxist for the euphemism some now call East, and for West, let us use the synthetic term, "Free World." This term is sufficiently descriptive although it is a misnomer, but it is our (Continued on page five)

Quitting Parcel Post Business?

By ELMER ROESSNER
The government is taking steps to get out of the parcel-post business, say many shippers and the Parcel Post Association.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield has proposed that parcels moving between first-class post offices be limited to 40 pounds and a maximum length and girth limit of 100 inches. In addition, length alone would be limited to 34 inches.

At present, the maximums are 40 pounds and 72 inches between first-class offices in the first three zones, but 20 pounds and 72 inches in the remaining zones. Parcels moving between second, third and fourth-class offices can weigh up to 70 pounds and can be up to 100 inches in length and girth.

GOOD FOR RAILWAY EXPRESS
These new restrictions would divert a lot of business from the Post Office to Railway Express and truckers.

For that reason, it is a curious move at the present time. Mr. Summerfield, with White House backing, has been calling for higher postal rates on other classes of mail on the grounds that the Post Office deficit is mounting. Shunting this freight from government to private hands would tend to increase the deficit and that, in turn, would call for higher parcel-post rates.

That, in turn, would drive more shippers to private transportation, which would require still higher parcel-post rates and eventually parcel post would go through the roof and then fall into private hands.

One reason behind the new size limitations is that the Post Office is experimenting with mechanized handling of parcels with equipment that will take parcels up to only 34 inches.

This makes sense in a governmental sort of way. If parcels are too big for the machine, change the parcels, not the machine. If the man is too long for the bed, don't lengthen the bed; but off the man's head. And restricting the size of parcels unduly may cut off the head of parcel-post operations.

WHY NOT MODULAR PACKAGES?
During the war, the Army Post Office had considerable success with a standard-sized overseas parcel. It reduced handling operations greatly. By adopting the methods it developed itself almost 20 years ago, and establishing a series of standard sizes on a modular basis, the Post Office might cut costs considerably. The standard sizes could be handled with almost complete automation. Higher rates could then be assessed against parcels that required more extensive handling.

Meanwhile, Sen. Mike Monroney (D., Okla.), who has been resisting the Post-Office's efforts to get out of the parcel-post business, has proposed a 50-pound, 100-inch limit for all parcels moving between all post offices. If you feel strong enough about it, send him a card at the Senate Office Building, Washington D.C. He'd like it—and you'll be helping to cut the postal deficit.

Can Desegregate, But Integration Is Slower

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP)—A school can end racial segregation overnight. But it will take years to bring about racial integration in which Negroes are accepted and able to compete on even terms with white pupils.

It was the consensus of educators who appeared before the U. S. Commission during a two-day fact-finding conference on problems confronting schools with mixed classes of Negroes and whites.

George R. Miller, state superintendent of schools in Delaware, put it this way: "If the matter of desegregation is completed, the matter of integration is just beginning. It is a problem of acceptance among one's fellows, with human dignity."

Dr. C. Taylor Whittier, Montgomery County, Md. school superintendent, drew laughter from both Negro and white educators by observing, "We have not yet figured out how to run a cosmopolitan class on an integrated basis." Cosmology is the use of cosmetics.

absorbed in integrated schools, but in most other areas Negro teachers lose their jobs when schools become desegregated.

3. Desegregation as a policy but segregation as a fact. Virtually all school administrators said that even where integration is general, white and Negro students tend to stay to themselves on playgrounds and at social functions.

Dr. John A. Hannah, the commission chairman, summed up the commission attitude: "The problem of civil rights of minority groups — all minority groups — is one which should seriously concern all Americans. The best solution in each community is that solution worked out by the people in that community."

All Came True For 5-Year-Old

Basically, the conference touched these general areas:

1. Educational standards. Most educators appearing before the commission said Negroes' scholastic attainment lags behind that of white students—primarily because of cultural differences and the quality of segregated Negro education. It was suggested that there be wider use of educational television, grouping of students according to ability, and biracial committees to help work out local problems.

2. Negro teachers. In the Baltimore and Kansas City areas, Negro teachers have been ab-

RALEIGH (AP) — Helen Dean Williams, a 5-year-old charmer with long, blonde curls, knows that dreams come true.

The daddy she longed to see for weeks came home Tuesday, and there'll be daily visits for the next 10 or 12 days.

What Helen doesn't know is that daddy is on temporary parole from federal prison. He came home to be with his daughter, a leukemia victim who doctors say has only a short time to live.

Thebert Williams, 28, serving a four-year sentence for white slavery, received a temporary parole from the federal prison at Petersburg, Va., after Rep. Harold D. Cooley (D-NC) took a hand in making Helen's dream come true.

Raleigh City Council members also added their pleas. Lawyer George Anderson had told them Helen was crying herself to sleep each night because she missed the father she hadn't seen since he entered prison in January.

Chief Deputy Marshal John D. Dixon said Williams will remain under guard during his stay in Raleigh, with a special escort for the daily visits to his home. Expenses for transportation and the special guard must be paid by Williams.

Warm, Wonderful Day For Patient

NEW HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP)—Life must have seemed a warm, wonderful thing Tuesday to Leonard Costa, 44, an auto mechanic who lives in East Northport, Long Island.

For one thing, he was released from the Long Island Jewish Hospital, 49 long days after drastic open heart surgery.

Without the surgery, he wasn't expected to live. Now he'll be able to have a normal life.

Ladies Campaign Wows Wisconsin

By RELMAN MORIN
MILWAUKEE (AP) — The trim little woman with wavy grey hair gripped the microphone in both hands and cooed into it. "My candidate, my senator—my husband."

Everybody loved it, especially the ladies.

This was Mrs. Muriel Humphrey on the campaign trail in Wisconsin, working to put Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota in the White House.

Elsewhere in Wisconsin, a slim, dark-haired woman with a girlish expression, stood before another audience. She looked shy, confessed to a touch of jitters, and said in a low voice. "My husband couldn't be here today, and of course I can't really substitute for him—not really."

Everybody loved it, especially the men.

This was Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, pinch hitting for Sen. John Kennedy of Massachusetts, who also wants to move to the White House.

Kennedy and Humphrey are vying for votes in the highly significant Wisconsin presidential primary, April 5.

Their wives are helping them with a "petticoat campaign." It's a queen-size success.

It brings a gleam of glamor to the smoke-filled room, the country social, the wayside tavern, and even the cow shed.

Both are attractive women. Mrs. Humphrey, 47, is petite, gray-haired, with an out-going personality. Mrs. Kennedy, 30, is taller. She has cascading dark hair, almond-shaped eyes, and a shy, girlish manner. Both are carefully, but not too obviously, chic.

They have been the excuse for cozy little feminine gatherings, receptions, socials, innumerable kaffe klatsches. (The "petticoat campaign" has been a big boost to the countries with a coffee economy.)

For the most part, they talk about hearth, home and husband, eschewing politics and campaign issues.

"I have a hard time comfortably telling people why they should vote for Humphrey," says Mrs. Humphrey. "But I feel his ideas should be working in government now."

She refers to him as "Hubert," "the senator," or just plain "Humphrey."

In her first time out, Mrs. Kennedy put in a 13-hour day, which is just average for a campaigning candidate. She told her audiences Kennedy had to be in Washington for the debate on the civil rights and that she was merely trying to meet his commitments.

"He told me to go out and meet the people and to express his regrets," she said. "It's my first time and I can't really substitute for him. I guess I'm pretty nervous."

She shook about 2,500 hands and made eight stops, the last at 10 p.m. Along the way, she was taken to a dairy man's farm and dutifully walked out to the cow shed to admire his herd.

Both wives followed the tack their husbands are taking in the campaign.

Kennedy doesn't talk much about himself in his appearances. His wife didn't talk about him.

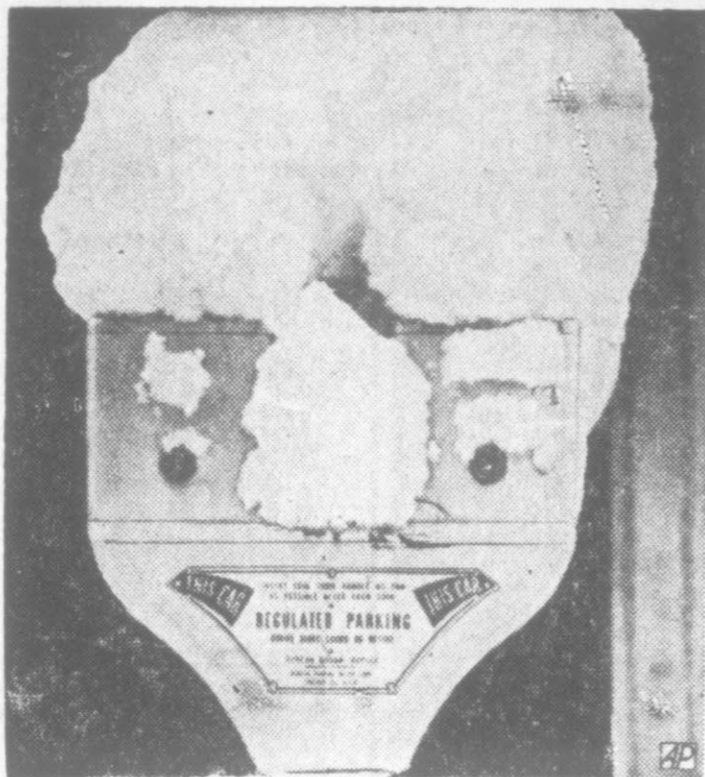

Humphrey takes the folksy approach in his discussion of issues. "If I were president," he says, "the White House would become a great American home, not just a house."

Similarly, Mrs. Humphrey said, "I want to help people know my husband as a whole man and to know his family."

Mrs. Kennedy, when asked what she thought of her husband as a campaigner for the presidency, replied, "He's terrific."

Mrs. Humphrey says that she has been so impressed by her husband's political idealism that "I would be for him for president even if he weren't my husband."

The "petticoat campaign" is wowing Wisconsin.

Delete Question On Privacy Basis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anyone wanting to know whether Air Force officers prefer twin or double beds after marriage will have to find out on an individual and private basis.

The Air Force deleted such a question Tuesday from a list submitted to young, unmarried Air Force officers who have volunteered as escorts for some of the 53 princesses at Washington's annual Cherry Blossom Festival April 5-10.

"It's an insult, an invasion of privacy," said Chaplain Lt. Col. George J. Brennan as the boom was lowered on the question.

The scientific approach was what brought the official blushes. Each year the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines and Coast Guard provide escorts for the princesses. Heretofore, the sponsors have made up the pairs mainly on the basis of height.

This year Clarence Arata, executive director of the Washington Convention and Tourist Bureau,

Detective Also Is Her Banker

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP) — Detective Thomas Brennan was keeping bankers' hours at the Elizabeth police station today.

Brennan said Lillian Oye Louie, a Chinese woman who speaks no English, first appeared a year and a half ago and left him a tin can crammed with $3,800 in cash, her husband's earnings.

Tuesday she came to headquarters again, waited for Brennan and gave him another $2,380. He has deposited the money in a bank account for her.

Child Seriously Hurt By Truck

GRIMESLAND — A six-year-old Grimesland youth suffered "serious head injuries" yesterday when he was struck by a truck in front of his home just north of Grimesland on the Grimesland-Pactolus road about 4:15 p.m.

The child, Donnie Washington Connor, was hit by a Pitt County school bus service truck, according to Investigating Patrolman R. E. Tayloe of Grifton.

Tayloe said the youth apparently ran into the path of the vehicle which was being driven by William James Mizzell, 33, Winterville.

There were 72 feet of skid marks "where the truck tried to stop," officers noted, adding that the child was knocked 25 feet by the impact.

According to the officer, the child was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital by Patrolman J. B. Surles after a Greenville Rescue Squad emergency truck was involved in a wreck in Greenville while answering the call to Grimesland.

No one was hurt in that collision, officers said.

Doctors this morning said young Connor was "semi-conscious . . . suffering from head injuries." They added that the child was still in serious condition but is "improving."

No charges were placed by investigators.

PICKED WRONG CAR
FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP) — Three teen-agers picked the wrong car to steal for a joyride Tuesday. The auto belonged to Monmouth County Undersheriff Fred G. Brown. The youths were picked up a few hours later.

Has Memory In Her Fingertips

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP) — A 17-year-old girl who memorizes with her fingertips is being hailed as an extraordinary pianist.

Susan Small, almost totally blind since birth, has studied piano for 12 years at the Halifax School for the Blind.

"It's very rarely one finds a talent like this," says Guy Jonson, professor of piano at the Royal Academy of Music in London and examiner for the Royal Scottish and Royal Irish conservatories.

"Maybe this is the best I have ever heard. Given the right conditions she will become one of the great pianists of Canada, possibly of the world."

Gordon MacPherson, Halifax concert pianist who has been Susan's teacher for a year, said, "There's no doubt she's got what it takes."

She must memorize music by reading it in Braille but MacPherson says teaching her is no problem. If something is wrong, "all I have to do is play it the right way and she's got it."

She has played several times with orchestras. MacPherson said he had no trouble conducting her with orchestra on a radio program last year.

Sir Ernest MacMillan, former conductor of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, presided at another radio performance.

Does she feel she is playing under a handicap?

"No, I don't think so," Susan says. "Music is tremendous fun all the time. Even when it's hard work it's fun."

Susan began playing at 2½.

Titan Rocket Is Again Success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Titan has passed its second long-range flight test and the Air Force expects to accelerate its test program to make up for time lost because of a series of failures.

One of the 98-foot intercontinental range giants successfully flew a 5,000-mile course Tuesday. This was the second Titan flight over this range in a month and raised Air Force hopes the missile has licked its problems.

A rash of explosions and other mishaps in a 10-month period dating to last May have left the program several months behind schedule.

Officials said Titans probably will be fired at a one-a-week clip to close the gap.

The Titan has a potential range of 9,000 miles. Missiles launched in the current phase of the test program are not fully fueled.

Good Marks Require Good Vision

The first step in back-to-school preparation is to be sure your child sees well. Anything less than good vision is a handicap that even the brightest young mind has trouble overcoming.

A thorough eye examination now may save years of heartache. Stop in with your school-agers. Enjoy the peace of mind that comes with knowing they see well enough to do well.

Children "outgrow" glasses just as they out-grow clothes. If your child's prescription has not been checked recently—or his glasses adjusted . . . be sure and stop in before school starts.

Speaker Discusses Imperialism Of China

Thinks Humphrey Leads In W.Va.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP)—The Republican governor of West Virginia thinks Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) has the edge over Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) in the West Virginia Democratic presidential primary May 10.

Gov. Cecil H. Underwood said at a news conference Tuesday that Humphrey is better known in West Virginia because of his support of aid to distressed areas. West Virginia has a high unemployment rate.

Underwood is serving a week's stint as a politician-in-residence at the Eagleton Institute of Politics, Rutgers University.

Accidents caused 91,000 deaths in the U.S. in 1958. Motor vehicle deaths took the greatest toll—37,000.

Lord Lindsay of Birker, professor of Far East Studies at American University, continued last night's discussion of "China: A Dilemma in World Affairs" at East Carolina College's Seventh World Affairs Institute.

At the second session of the Institute which began a two-day program this morning, the noted

Say Strontium Level Is Rising

LONDON (AP)—The level of strontium 90 in the bones of some British children almost doubled after the last big series of nuclear tests in 1958, a research group reported today.

Five government scientists of Britain's atomic energy authority said the concentration has not yet reached danger level but said it still is mounting.

In big enough doses, strontium 90 causes leukemia and bone cancer.

British authority on Asia addressed approximately 400 people from the city and the campus. He centered attention on Tibet and Taiwan as he considered the question "How far has China revived as an imperial power?" Dr. Francis R. Adams of the college faculty acted as chairman of the meeting.

As background to his discussion of the problem of expansion by China today, Lord Lindsay gave a brief summary of the development of China in the past as a great imperial power.

The restoration of China as an important power, he said, has created there the sentiment that China should control those countries which in the past were within its borders. The attitude, he stated, is irrational and emotional.

Nationalist feeling tends to attach itself to areas which China once controlled, he said. He described this feeling as dangerous and pointed out that if other countries adopted a similar point of view, the boundaries of a large portion of the world would be in dispute.

Tibet, he said, has a complex background in its relationships with China and a long history of non-independence and independence. Some sort of Chinese control has existed there for many years, he said, though Tibet has been largely independent.

He traced recent developments in Tibet and resulting difficulties between India and China to this background.

Taiwan, Lord Lindsay stated, came under the influence of China in the Seventeenth Century and its people and culture are Chinese. In 1895 it was ceded to Japan and remained under Japanese control until 1945, he said. There is now 99.9 percent agreement among the people there, he stated, that they do not want to come under control of the present Chinese government. Though they may not favor Chiang Kai-Shek, he said, they refer him to the Communists.

A discussion of ideas presented by Lord Lindsay followed his address. Participants were Owen Lattimore, director of the Walter Hines Page School of International Relations at the Johns Hopkins University; Lt. Col. George W. Carrington, Second Marine Division, Camp Lejeune; and Dr. George Pasti of East Carolina College, who returned to the campus from Harvard, where he is doing post-doctoral work in Chinese affairs, to attend the Institute.

Today's (Wednesday's) Institute Program will include addresses by Lord Lindsay and Mr. Lattimore.

Lord Lindsay's topic at an assembly at 11 a.m. in the Wright auditorium will be "The Chinese Communist Party, the Chinese People and the Non-Communist World." Mr. Lattimore will speak tonight at 7:30 in the Austin auditorium on "China Reactions in the End of Empires and the beginning of Revolutions." The public is invited to attend.

Participants in the World Affairs Institute at East Carolina College yesterday and today are shown (left to right): Owen Lattimore of Johns Hopkins University; Dr. George A. Pasti, director of the Institute; Lt. Col. George W. Carrington of Camp Lejeune; Lord Lindsay of Birker; Dr. George Pasti of East Carolina College; and Dean Robert L. Holt of the college, who acted as moderator at yesterday's assembly in the Wright building.

Pascual's Relief Stint Gives Nats Win Over Orioles

Maris Moved To Left For Yanks

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Roger Maris, a blond kid with a quick grin and a ready bat, has played fewer than a dozen games in left field.

But left field is where the New York Yankees have him planted. Maris, 25, heretofore has been a hitter who played right or center through four years in the minors and three with Cleveland and Kansas City.

"I've played maybe 10 games in left field," Maris admitted, "and that was with Cleveland a couple of years ago."

"What's the difference? Well, the ball usually curves away from you to the right, instead of to the left like it does when you're playing in right field."

"I just try to lob it in," said Maris, "but when you pick up a ball and see guys running around the bases, you want to haul off and throw it."

"The arm will be all right but my shoulder will hurt all season. It always does."

"I hurt the shoulder at Keokuk in 1954. I went back for a ball and caught it, but dove right into the wall."

"A year later, when I was playing for Reading, I hit a wooden fence in Williamsports, too."

"Hit it hard? A guy wondered. 'Hard?' Maris asked. 'I went right through it.'"

Tar Heels, Tigers Bounce Back For Impressive Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS That first baseball game under the belt must have helped Clemson and North Carolina of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Both teams had opened their seasons Monday, neither impressively. Tuesday, it was another story. North Carolina rebounded from a humiliating 19-0 loss Monday to Florida to stop the Gators 3-1 and Clemson pounded Georgia Southern 15-4 (after a 7-7 tie Monday).

Both teams had been well regarded in pre-season ACC baseball outlooks and Monday's results were stunning. However, the Tar Heel got 11 hits—against only one Monday—and four-hit pitching from Wayne Young.

Meanwhile, Clemson collected 16 hits and pounded three Georgia Southern pitchers in a game halted after eight innings by darkness.

No other games were on tap Tuesday. Today's schedule has Dartmouth at North Carolina State in the Wolfpack's first game and Florida and North Carolina meeting again in Gainesville, Fla., in the rubber game of their three-game set. Colby's contest at Wake Forest was canceled because the Winston-Salem field isn't in playing condition at the present.

Young, a senior from Mooresville, N.C., faced only 32 batters and threw but 63 pitches to the Gators. Florida's only score was on Dale Landress' fourth inning homer. A walk and infield hit gave Florida two on in the ninth, but Young retired the side on a pair of easy infield outs.

Pitching wasn't Young's only forte. He also had three hits, including a triple. Carroll Bollick also had a triple and a double for the Tar Heels, now 1-1 against non-conference foes.

Clemson sewed up its win in the first inning, scoring five runs. A homer by Bailey Hendley and a bases loaded triple by Toby Bradshaw were big blows for the Tigers against their outside foe.

Dave Sprouse started on the mound for Clemson and was relieved in the seventh by Charles Pasqualini. The hurriers held Georgia Southern to six hits.

Rose High Golfers Meet Cards Here On Thursday

By ROY MARTIN Reflector Sports Writer

Greenville's Rose High golfers, with one win already registered in the 1960 competition play host tomorrow afternoon to Jacksonville on the links of the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

The Phantoms, who defeated Williamston last week by a score of 11-7, in their first match of the season, will be attempting to take Jacksonville in their march to the 1960 conference crown. The Greenville golfers are the defending Northeastern champions.

Coach Bo Farley, whose spring duties include a dual role as golf and track coach, is relatively optimistic about the prospects for the golf season which lies ahead.

"I don't know of anybody who can beat us," said Coach Farley. Farley also remarked, "I don't see why we can't win the conference championship again this year."

As far as talent is concerned, Farley seems to be overloaded with promising young golfers. For example, returning for his fourth year on the Phant golf team is Buddy Murray, a senior, the defending individual conference champion this year, and has his eyes set on making a repeat of his last year's performance.

Bobby Thomas is another Phant golfer who is expected to show Greenville followers quite a display of his golfing skill this season. Thomas, son of Greenville pro Harold Thomas, has already established himself in state circles as one of the most promising young golfers on the Carolina scene.

Thomas is a winner of several junior titles in past years. Chappy Bradner, Dallas Clark and Rick Saue round out the Rose High link squad. These three performers are all veterans of past Greenville golf teams, and should lend much support in the efforts to retain the Northeastern Conference championship.

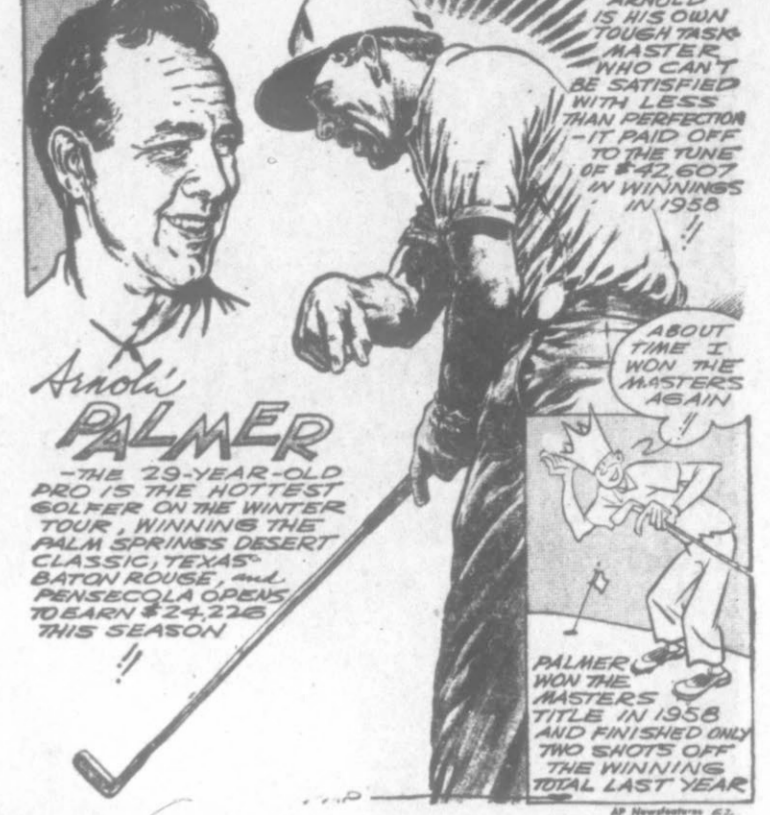

The meet between Greenville and Jacksonville tomorrow marks the first time that these two clubs have clashed. The tee-off is slated for 1:00 p.m.

past Greenville golf teams, and should lend much support in the efforts to retain the Northeastern Conference championship.

TOUGH CUSTOMER—Bobby Thomas, a freshman, is the new addition to the Rose High golf team this spring but the newcomer is expected to lead the defending Northeastern champs to greater heights this spring.

SPORT SLANTS by Pap

M. F. (Deacon) Palmer raised his son, Arnold, to be a golfer. The veteran professional who has been at the Ladbroke, Pa., Country Club since 1921 endowed Arnold with a natural talent for the game and then proceeded to develop a solid style that has served to make him an outstanding performer on the pro tour.

Since turning professional after winning the National amateur crown in 1954, Arnold has won 16 major tour events, including the 1958 Masters Tournament. He has been one of the leading money-winners on the tour and in 1958 topped the field with official earnings of $42,607. He's off to a flying start this year with four triumphs—the Palm Springs Desert Classic, Texas, Baton Rouge and Pensacola Opens—to win $24,226.

Called Off

The two-game series between East Carolina and Springfield College was called off today according to Pirate coach, Jim Mallory.

Reasons for the cancellations were cold weather and injuries on the Springfield squad.

Springfield is currently playing at Camp Lejeune and Mallory did not receive word of the postponement until last night.

The cancellations will move ECC's opening home date to March 28 when Yale is here.

Clippers Win

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—The Charlotte Clippers, blanked 2-0 by New Haven Tuesday night in the semifinals of the Eastern Hockey League, hope to do better on home ice.

The clubs meet in Charlotte Friday in the second of their best-of-seven series with the Clippers one game down. The third game will be played in New Haven on Sunday.

NO RUNS LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Right-hander Ray Hebert has pitched 11 innings of exhibition baseball for Kansas City this spring and still has not allowed a run. Herbert, who has allowed only 6 hits, compiled an 11-11 record last year.

Yankees, Braves Early Favorites

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The New York Yankees and the Milwaukee Braves are favored by Las Vegas oddsmakers to wind up in the World Series this year. The favorites when the nation's top golfers tee off in the Masters at Augusta, last year, Palmer appeared to be headed for a repeat in the Masters until he missed a couple of short putts on each of the last two holes and let Art Wall Jr. sneak through to win the title.

Arnold won the Masters title in 1958 and finished only two shots off the winning total last year.

Palmer must be rated one of the favorites when the nation's top golfers tee off in the Masters at Augusta, last year, Palmer appeared to be headed for a repeat in the Masters until he missed a couple of short putts on each of the last two holes and let Art Wall Jr. sneak through to win the title.

No Track Meet

Iness on the part of both Elizabeth City and Jacksonville's coach has caused postponement of the triangular track meet originally scheduled for this afternoon.

Coaches in the two Northeastern schools were reported ill yesterday afternoon, bringing cancellation of Rose High's first competition in track this year.

May Carry Big Stick For Tigers

By JOE REICHLER SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) "Be kind to Bilko," Jimmy Dykes said today. "Write something nice about him. He's working real hard and it looks like he's my first baseman."

Bilko—Steve, that is—beamed when the words of the Detroit Tigers' manager were relayed to him.

"I'm happy for the first time in years," said the good-natured giant who must be biggest man in baseball. "I'm getting a new chance with a new team in a new league. Also, I'm with a manager who has my welfare at heart. That Dykes is a wonderful guy. He makes me feel at ease."

More important to Bilko than the change of scenery is the absence of such old opposition as presented by such standouts as Stan Musial and Gil Hodges.

"Don't think that hasn't eased my mind," said the big fellow who is getting his eighth major league trial. "Every year I came up, I found I had to beat out guys like Musial and Hodges. I was licked at the start."

One of the most feared sluggers in the minors, Bilko has had previous trials with St. Louis, Cincinnati, Los Angeles and the Chicago Cubs. He has hit as high as .350 in the minors and as low as .220 in the majors. He has a career total of 344 home runs but 305 of these have been hit in the minors. The Tigers drafted him from Spokane.

Craig Feels He Can Still Win With Dodgers

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—"I'd rather pitch again at Mays, Ceylan, Kirtland or McCovey anytime," said Roger Craig today.

"I'm not as bad as in '58, though, when I lost those 17. Things didn't look good then at all. I always had been a fast ball pitcher with a curve. But I didn't have any stuff so I picked up a sinker and a slider."

"I wasn't a control pitcher. When I pitched for Spokane, my arm felt good. And I had control. I felt that if I got to pitch I could still win in the majors."

"I pitch 100 per cent different than before," he said. "I used to try and over-power the hitters, and maybe once in four starts I'd get away with it. Now I can throw to spots. And I wouldn't trade what I know now for the old fast ball or curve."

Craig had an 11-5 record last season and became the clutch guy on the staff, winning five in a row at the end, and half of the Dodgers' last six victories.

Hirsch Joins Ram Executives

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Old football players don't necessarily lose touch. Sometimes they come back as Elroy (Crazylegs) Hirsch did as the newly named general manager of the Los Angeles Rams.

Hirsch, whose fantastic catches of 1958 thrilled Ram fans for nine years until his retirement in 1957, signed a three-year contract Tuesday. He succeeds Pete Rozelle, who moved up to become commissioner of the National Football League.

Salary terms were not divulged but a good guess is that Crazylegs will earn $75,000 for the three years.

Hirsch, a hero in his native Wisconsin since his playing days at Wausau, the University of Wisconsin (1941-42) and Michigan (U.S. Marine wartime program, 1943), has been active in radio and television since his playing career ended.

Baylor, Chamberlain Pull Clubs Through

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Will Chamberlain and Elgin Baylor are lifesavers in every sense of the word for the championship playoff hopes of the Philadelphia Warriors and Minneapolis Lakers in the National Basketball Assn.

Philadelphia and the Lakers having a home court advantage. The latter had the same situation a year ago and eliminated St. Louis, only to lose four in a row to Boston for the NBA title.

McLish, Henry Carry Cincinnati Hopes

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Freddie Hutchinson counts on Cal McLish and Bill Henry to bolster a weak Cincinnati pitching staff that last year gave up more runs than his sluggers could drive home.

Willie Jones (.257) and Eddie Kaske (.283) probably splitting the work at third. Young Elio Chacon (.255 at Havana) can fill in any place.

Hutchinson sacrificed a brilliant second baseman and a strong bat. He sent Johnny Temple to Cleveland but he got McLish, second baseman Billy Martin and rookie first baseman Gordon Coleman.

The bullpen will be in the capable hands of Henry (9-8 in 65 games with the Cubs), Cuban Raul Sanchez (11-5 at Havana) probably will do the right-handed relief work along with Brooks Lawrence (7-12).

Home Run Boom May Lift Nats From Familiar Cellar

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Cookie Lavagetto, a man who has known deep trouble, thinks he can see some sunlight ahead for the Washington Senators. Despite the home run boom of 1959, it takes a real optimist to look past an 18-game losing streak and three straight years in the cellar.

The Senators did show marked improvement last year, winning the mid-summer headlines with home run chieftains by Harmon Killebrew, Bob Allison, Jim Lemon and Roy Sievers. They had the shutout king of the American League in Camillo Pascual who also led the pitchers with 17 complete games.

ter fields. The rightfielder could be rookie Dan Dobbek who hit 23 homers and batted in 73 runs while hitting .265 at Chattanooga. The catching is weak. Even Clyde McCullough, a Veteran spring training coach, is under serious consideration.

At the end of the year the club was second to Cleveland with 163 home runs but last in club batting average at .237. All the power was right handed and leaky defense was guilty of the most errors in the league.

On Friday night the muscular, 23-year-old from Santa Clara, Cuba, faces Argentina's Federico Thompson in a 12-round bout at Madison Square Garden. The winner will get a title fight with welterweight champion Don Jordan at Las Vegas, May 27.

Ed Bailey (.264) is the No. 1 catcher with help from Dutch Dotterer (.267) and Frank House (.236 at Kansas City).

That's a giant step forward for a fighter who was unranked and unheralded only three months ago. Until he met Charlie Scott of Philadelphia for the first time last Dec. 18, Paret was what the dashed beak business called an "opponent"—a good, willing fighter who put on a show. Although he was a legitimate welterweight (147 pounds), he had to take on middleweights (160 pounds) mostly and his fights—win or lose—were lively affairs.

Hutchinson's starting pitchers figure to be Don Newcombe (13-8), Joe Nuxhall (9-9), Bob Purkey (13-18) and McLish (19-8 at Cleveland). Claude Osteen (8-12 at Seattle), Jay Hook (5-5) and Jim O'Toole (5-8) are fighting for the other starting job. Ed Palmquist (9-12 at St. Paul) is also highly regarded as is Orlando Pena (5-9). Jim Brosnan (9-6) will do double duty spot starting and relieving.

Then came his chance at Scott. The lithe, hard-hitting Philadelphia had won six straight, was the No. 1 welter contender, and was headed for a title fight with Jordan. Paret was a 3-1 underdog but he didn't even know the odds. And, of course, he couldn't read newspaper reports about Scott's speed, skill and punching power.

Ed Palmquist (9-12 at St. Paul) is also highly regarded as is Orlando Pena (5-9). Jim Brosnan (9-6) will do double duty spot starting and relieving.

But the Cuban again dumped Scott and won the decision. This earned the silent man a No. 4 ranking and an elimination fight with Thompson. The 32-year-old Argentine came out of no where himself in just one fight. Thompson knocked out Jordan in the fourth round of a non-title bout in Buenos Aires, last Dec. 12.

Ed Palmquist (9-12 at St. Paul) is also highly regarded as is Orlando Pena (5-9). Jim Brosnan (9-6) will do double duty spot starting and relieving.

Paret is the 9-5 favorite. But he doesn't know it. Nobody has told him.

Dissension In New Grid Loop

By ALAN CLINE
Associated Press Sports Writer
OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Dissension, minor perhaps but still a rift, smoldered in the American Football League today over drafting players for the Oakland club.

Y. C. Soda, general manager for the club and last club to get an AFL franchise, said his beef was mainly over principle.

Spring Sports Revise Slate

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—Executive Secretary L. J. Perry of the North Carolina High School Athletic Assn. announced the following revised schedule for spring sports championships because of recent bad weather:

His troubles, first show of internal dissension in the new league, began Monday when the seven other clubs presented him and Coach Eddie Erdelatz with a list of 11 "untouchable" men Oakland couldn't draft. The Los Angeles Chargers and Houston Oilers, however, lacked on several names of nontransfers, men who wanted to stay with the two clubs.

One-Sided Win For McIntire

CHAPTER 17
 When I reached Barbara Coleman's apartment I was surprised to find the whole clan gathered there, waiting for me. Victoria Dodd looked severe in mourning black. Gil Dodd sat beside her, his square brown face sober and thoughtful. When Coleman was prowling the room and he moved toward me, his eyes intense under a shaded brow. "I had a call from Lorraine's lawyer, Scott. Chap named Bradford Cornell," he told me. "He said they were having trouble locating Dad's will, and did I have any suggestions. I told him no. Then his voice changed. It suddenly grew sharp and tough. He said you had a copy in your office, but you were suppressing it, probably at my request and for my benefit. He said he intended to learn the truth and take measures."

"What kind of measures?" I asked. "A criminal prosecution against us if necessary," he said. "On what grounds?" "Conspiracy to defraud. I could hear Lorraine's voice in the background, railing at him and egging him on. She sounded half-hysterical." "I know. They were in my office this morning." "Cornell advised me to reconsider. You know what I did? I hung up on him."

"Tude," I said. "But effective." "Anyway, I thought the family ought to discuss it with you. When I called Barbara she told me you'd be here this evening. So I got in touch with Vickie and Gil and asked them to meet me here."

Veteran Police Chief Counting On Home Folks

TEMPLETON, Mass. (AP)—A veteran police officer who long had reason to believe he had lived down a crime of his youth has thrown wide the door for all to view the skeleton in his closet. Police Chief John L. Whipple, 55, was given indefinite leave by the Board of Selectmen of this town of 5,450, pending investigation of undisclosed charges. Tuesday night Whipple issued a statement which left little to investigate. "Thirty-eight years ago, as a boy of 17, he said, he and a younger brother while employed on a Rindge, N.H., farm attempted a grocery store robbery. They were armed with pistols, but he 'had no stomach for it' and threw down his weapon. Whipple said he pleaded guilty to larceny and was given a one to three years suspended sentence. That was in 1922. Whipple returned to Templeton, a mid-Massachusetts town, married and brought up a family of six. "My fellow townspeople knew of the holdup," he said, "and found it unimportant and forgot it." Subsequently he was nominated by 43 friends and elected constable, by a one-vote margin. For a time he was known as "Johnny One Vote."

Hal Roach, Sr. Back In Harness

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Hal Roach Sr., a producer who gave a helping hand to many of Hollywood's early-day stars, is returning to the film business at 68. Roach has been in semi-retirement since his son, Hal Jr., bought him out several years ago. But Tuesday he was back in his own studio at nearby Culver City. He told newsmen he plans 80 one-hour comedy TV shows and four feature-length theatrical comedies in the next year. The Roach Studio passed into receivership recently, Roach Sr. said, he had obtained financial backing and, subject to court approval, worked out a lease-purchase agreement.

Anti-Communist Ideas Said Appealing To Young Russians

WASHINGTON (AP)—A youth subcommittee on Jan. 22. His testimony was made public today. "They don't want to live like their fathers," he said. "They want to live useful lives, to become masters of their lives and not slaves. "It is not surprising that anti-Communist ideas appeal primarily to young people and that open actions are taken against the regime."

Death Climaxes Her Misfortunes

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Death climaxed a long series of personal misfortunes Tuesday for actress Lynne Baggett.

The 32-year-old blonde was found dead in her bed, clad in a pink shorty nightgown and white panties. There was a quantity of pills nearby. Police attributed her death to an overdose of medication pending an autopsy.

Her nurse, Darlene Jones, told police the actress had asked her not to come to her Hollywood apartment until late Tuesday because "she wanted to get a lot of rest."

Her death ended a career once considered promising but marred by a broken marriage, court battles, personal tragedy and illness.

She came to Hollywood as a 19-year-old starlet from Wichita Falls, Tex. She never became a star although she appeared in supporting roles in many films.

Miss Baggett married producer Sam Spiegel in 1948. Four years later, she filed suit for divorce and accused him of adultery.

Spiegel countered with his own suit charging her with similar misconduct. They were divorced after a bitter and costly court battle.

She served a 50-day county jail term in 1954 for hit-and-run driving after her car hit a station wagon, killing a 9-year-old boy and injuring four other young passengers.

The actress narrowly escaped death last June 7 from what police described as an overdose of sleeping pills. Two months later she was found lying beside her bed too weak to get up. A doctor said she was suffering from malnutrition. She was admitted to a hospital psychiatric ward.

At issue is the actors' demand for a share of profits from the sale of post-1948 movies to television.

The producers offered to revive talks Tuesday after the Guild accused them of stalling negotiations in the 17-day-old strike.

Divorce Granted Mamie Van Doren

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Actress Mamie Van Doren won a divorce Tuesday from bandleader Ray Anthony.

"He would stay away for months without telling me where he was. Our marriage became impossible," she testified.

Anthony was ordered to pay $1 token alimony plus $300 a month for the couple's son, Perry, 4, Miss Van Doren, 26, and Anthony, 39, married Aug. 28, 1955, and separated June 15, 1958.

Texasaco was an oil pioneer in 1914, was off for awhile and now back. First permanent oil member was California Standard, in 1924, followed by Jersey Standard in 1928.

Hudson Motors and Studebaker came and went on the list. The two motors there now are General Motors, since 1925; and Chrysler, since 1928.

Besides the changing fortunes of individual industries, substitutions have been made when the price of a particular share was rising so fast and going so high that it carried too much weight in the averages.

Other industries have made an entrance as they grew in stature in the nation's economy. The first chemical, Du Pont, appeared in 1924. There are three chemicals now. Allied joining in 1925 and Union Carbide in 1928.

The Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks contains only two survivors from the first list of 12 set up in 1897. They are General Electric and American Tobacco.

Three companies on the first Dow-Jones average no longer exist: Distilling & Cattle Feeding, U. S. Leather and North American—a utility holding company.

Tennessee Coal & Iron is now a division of U. S. Steel on the present list but not the original, and Chicago Gas is now part of Peoples Gas Light & Coke, now listed on the 15 utility stock average.

The other five members of the 1897 team, dropped in the readjustments along the way as the stock market's aspect changed, were: American Cotton Oil, American Sugar, Laclede Gas, National Lead and U. S. Rubber.

Whole industries once represented on the list have disappeared for various reasons. They include steamship, manufactured gas, motion pictures, cordage, beet sugar, leather and tanning, steam locomotive and railroad car companies.

Cherry Blossoms Need Warm Spell

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wanted: 10 days of warm weather to bring Washington's famed cherry trees into full bloom during the Cherry Blossom Festival April 5-10.

T. Sutton Jett, associate superintendent of National Capital Parks explained today it takes weather with temperatures up in the 70s just about every day for 10 days or two weeks to bring out the blooms.

"Should this unusually unseasonable weather we have been having for three weeks turn springlike, the blooms should be open in all their glory in 10 days or two weeks," he said.

"The trees have most often bloomed during the first week in April. They have bloomed as late as April 17 and as early as March 15, but those are unusual extremes."

Changes In U.S. Industry Is Mirrored By An Index

By SAM DAWSON NEW YORK (AP)—A popular index of stock price averages is designed to tell you the daily changes in market sentiment—the urge to buy vs. the urge to sell.

But a side benefit of a long-time one is the mirror it holds up to the changes in U. S. industry itself over the years.

The make-up of the older averages have been changed many times. Whole industrial groups have disappeared from the lists, outmoded by the restless interests of Americans. Industries unheard of, or scarcely noted, at the time an index made its debut have wormed their way onto the list and then expanded to commanding positions.

The Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks contains only two survivors from the first list of 12 set up in 1897. They are General Electric and American Tobacco.

Three companies on the first Dow-Jones average no longer exist: Distilling & Cattle Feeding, U. S. Leather and North American—a utility holding company.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rose a little in moderate trading early this afternoon. Steels, oils, motors and electronics contributed limited gains which pushed a somewhat uneven list to the upside.

Turnover remained at the approximate daily rate of 2 1/2 million shares where it has been lingering for the past three sessions. Caution was apparent. Wall Street drew some encouragement from the latest indications of an easier money policy of the Federal Reserve Board. The news that national production in the first quarter was substantially above 1959's final quarter also helped.

Overall industrial and economic news, however, was not of the best and technical position of the stock market was no spur to enthusiastic buying.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.03 to 619.12. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon were up .50 to 214.40 with the industrials up .60, the 20s up .60 and the utilities up .20.

Government bonds advanced on the further evidence of easier money.

High grade corporate bonds also rose.

A total 230 pigs brought growers $3,030.28 in Monday's Pitt County Livestock Development Association sale here.

Total poundage of 14,865 sold averaged 20 cents per pound, according to Pitt County Farm Agent figures today.

C. J. Goodman of the county office termed Monday's sale better than the auction two months ago.

"We thought they were an exceptionally fine lot of pigs, especially considering the cold weather we have had," he said.

Of the total sold, 74 pigs of over 70 pounds each were sold by the pound and brought $1,041.93. Poundage totaled 6,125 and average price per pound was figured at 17 cents.

The remaining 156 animals were sold by the head and brought 24 cents per pound or $1,988.35. Each pig in the 40-70 pound class averaged 52 pounds and $12.75 per head.

The local sale, Goodman said, was consistent with the overall hog market. Pitt pig-raisers saw an increase here comparable to the overall rise to $16 per hundred pounds from $12 in January.

PCLDA sales are held each third Monday in alternate months beginning in January.

All pigs in Monday's sale ranged from 40-125 pounds.

Goodman pointed out the sale's capacity has not yet been approached. "We could handle more than 1,000 head each sale if they were available," he said. He added sale officials have received several offers of state bids for large numbers of pigs.

Growers from Pitt and surrounding counties are invited to enter their pigs in the sales. Goodman emphasized any pigs may be sold that have passed the inspection.

The inspection involves the animals' vaccination by a licensed veterinarian, castration and healing, and inspection by county officials that will show the presence of no infectious or communicable disease on the premises within the 90 days prior to the inspection.

Goodman added the county farm office should be notified of a grower's desire to enter his pigs in the sale at least 10 days prior to the sale to allow time for the required inspection to be conducted.

State Supervisor Impressed By Elementary Science Fair

The Third Annual Pitt County Elementary Science Fair that opened here yesterday "greatly impressed" State Supervisor of Elementary Instruction, Dr. Homer Lassiter, a judge in the competitive event for Pitt pupils.

"Some of the exhibits we've seen here are as good as or better than pupils' projects in other areas of the state," Dr. Lassiter said.

The state supervisor teamed with State Science Supervisor Dr. Edgar J. Morris and Dr. Grover Everett of the East Carolina College department of science in selecting winners from the near-200 entries to be announced at the fair's open house tomorrow night.

The judges, after arriving here yesterday, decided to award honorable mention tags in addition to first, second, and third place ribbons "since so many of the projects are of such high quality and merit."

According to Pitt school officials, the science promotion event was in the planning stages some eight years ago before it became a reality in 1958.

The caliber of work done on respective grade levels (fourth through eighth grades are included in the elementary program) has "improved tremendously" since the first fair, spokesmen said.

Earlier, each elementary school in Pitt County staged a local fair to select its top projects to be displayed during the current event. Each of the county's 94 elementary classes was allowed two entries in county competition.

Fifteen winners, first, second, and third places from each of the five grades involved, and a number of honorable mention projects have been selected for presentation tomorrow night.

The three top displays have been chosen as first, second, and third place winners for the overall fair. Eighth grade entries are eligible for the District Science Fair to be held here next month for high school entries.

Pool Project Discussed At Meeting Last Night

Six Greenville men met with a Sanford pool contractor here last night to discuss the possibility of construction of a swimming pool in Greenville using private capital.

He added another meeting is being planned within the next two or three weeks to attempt further organization.

A list of 12 names has been compiled that, according to Grier, is expected to produce a 10-member prime committee to further study the possibility of building a pool.

A municipally-financed pool on E. 5th St. was closed in the early 1950's when a broken sewer main complicated sanitation conditions.

Later, in 1958, a bond issue that would have provided two municipal pools—one each for Greenville's white and Negro populations—was defeated by local voters. The issue was presented to the city vote shortly after the U. S. Supreme Court ruling on public school integration.

Grier said this morning Howell presented a plan to the group describing methods used in other areas to raise the necessary funds and to build pools from locally-formed corporations.

Grier said the six local citizens attending represented some 25 area men who have expressed "considerable interest" in the project.

The campaign officially is open between March 17 to April 17.

Mallory commended the Jay-C-Ettes for doing "an outstanding job in helping our society." He said the Jay-C-Ettes take part in the crippled children's work and visiting the clinic regularly, where they furnish fresh milk and cookies.

Benefit Dance Slated Saturday

A dance for the benefit of Pitt County's crippled children will be sponsored by the Pitt County Society for Crippled Children and Adults Saturday night from 8 to 12 midnight.

The Moose Lodge is providing their hall and donating a band for the cause. Dean James Mallory of East Carolina College, who is in charge of publicity, said "We hope to have a big crowd since this is a worthy cause."

Proceeds from the dance will be utilized for braces, artificial limbs, shoes, hearing aids, X-ray equipment and hospital transportation.

The Pitt County Society for Crippled Children and Adults raises money in three ways: through letters containing the Easter Seals; through an Easter lily sale; and through special events such as the dance Saturday night.

The campaign officially is open between March 17 to April 17.

NEW YORK (AP)—A survey reported in the current Catholic Digest finds that six out of every 10 children of Catholic-Protestant marriages eventually reject all religions. The survey also found that children whose parents have different religions "are much less likely to finish high school than those whose parents are of the same faith."
