Win Honors In Science Fair

FIRST PLACE WINNERS . . . Sherby Everett, left, and Edward Tosto, right are examining Sherby's exhibit on "Identifying Molds." Other first place winners were absent when the picture was made.

Rose High Science Fair Is Concluded; Said 'Best Yet'

Five hundred Rose High School students participated in the Science Fair held in the school gymnasium this week, termed one of the best yet by Principal O. E. Dowd.

The exhibit closed today at 3:30 p.m. after visits from Rose students, parents and school children from throughout Greenville.

Judging of the exhibits took place Wednesday. Judges were Prof. J. O. Derrick, Mrs. J. M. Wheelless Jr. and Dr. R. Y. Meelheim.

First place winners were Tommy Henderson and Burt Aycock in the physics division; Jane Reynolds and Brenda Harris in the chemistry division; Andrew Kilpatrick in senior biology; Edward Earl Tosto in junior physical science; and Sherby Everett in junior biology.

Second place winners were Lawrence Behr, physics; Anne Briley, chemistry; Gigi Guice, senior biology; Bill Aldridge, junior physical science; Frances Harvey, junior biology.

Third place winners were Steve Redd, physics; Bobbie Newman and Jeanette Taylor, chemistry; Esther Johnson and Jimmy Eastmon, biology; Donald Buck, junior physical science; Roy Jones, junior biology.

Winning honorable mention were John Behr, physics; Janice Bentley and Melinda Coleman, chemistry; Edward Hooks, biology; Jeff Allen, Larry Dunn and Ray Hooks, junior physical science; Barbara Minges, Donna Whitley, Franklin Jolly, Mac Harris and Mac Davis, junior biology.

The Science Fair at Rose High School was sponsored by the Science Club, advised by James Nicholson, instructor in chemistry and physics. Mrs. Christine Tripp, biology instructor, and Odell Welborn, physical science and biology instructor, assisted in advising.

A student committee representing the Science Club helped in coordinating the project: George Mayo, club president; Lawrence Behr and Frances Cozart, executive committee members.

The Science Fair is sponsored nationally by the National Science Foundation. Science Clubs of each school stage the local fair and winners enter their projects in a district contest. Those winners go on to the state contest.

First and second place winners are eligible to enter the Science Fair projects in the district contest, which will be held at East Carolina College. The purpose of the Science Fair is to stimulate and create an interest in science, Dowd said. These projects also encourage and help discover talents and create hobbies.

The entire gymnasium of the school was filled with the projects of 500 students, some of them working together. Subjects ranged from a study of the "Eastern Carolina Waters Under the Microscope" by Andrew Kilpatrick, first place biology winner whose work was among the best, to an electric computer, which was built by two students, Thomas Henderson and Burt Aycock. The latter's machine, also called an electronic brain, is capable of addition, subtraction, multiplication and division. Another first place winner was "How Stainless Is Your Steel?" by Brenda Harris and Jane Reynolds. It was notable because of the quality of art work involved.

Work was judged on the basis of research and creativity, with art and other factors considered, Dowd said.

Truman Asserts He Meant It

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman says he meant every word of his recent statement about Negro sit-downs in Southern lunch counters.

At Louisville, Ky., last week Truman said, "If anyone came into my store and tried to stop business, I'd throw him out. The Negro should behave himself and show he's a good citizen. Common sense and good will can solve this thing."

Two Detroit officials of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People sent Truman a telegram saying the statements "if accurately reported are shocking and deeply disappointing."

Truman said Thursday he sent a reply to Detroit:

"Your telegram regarding the statement which I made about sit-downs in the restaurant is correct. I would do just what I said I would. NAACP is an organization which has been working for good will and common sense in this situation with which we are faced. When they do things that are friendly to them, as I have been to feel that they are doing the wrong thing, they are losing friends instead of making them."

"If I were in Detroit I would say the same thing to you personally."

The telegram went to Edward M. Turner, president of the Detroit NAACP branch, and Arthur L. Johnson, its executive secretary.

Tourist Catches Rare 'Oarfish'

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—A tourist caught a strange-looking fish at the beach. The creature, called an Oarfish, turned out to be one of the marine rarities of the world.

Dr. Victor Springer of the State Marine Laboratory said the fish was a sea serpent, the second officially reported on Florida's coast and one of the few recorded in the world.

Itor from Milwaukee, Wis., went wading at Treasure Island Beach Thursday. He spotted what looked like a long coil of tin foil lying in shallow water. It was a six-foot Oarfish which died a short time later.

Springer said the creatures roam the oceans of the world and few have ever been caught. The serpent has a coral-colored crest extending from its head to dorsal fin.

UN Security Council Will Discuss S. African Issue

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. Security Council will be called into a special session early next week to discuss the explosive South African racial conflict.

The Asian-African bloc called for the meeting. They planned to present a formal request later today for the council to take up the situation arising from the killing of some 80 Negro demonstrators by South African police. The Asian-African letter reportedly said the South African situation was a potential threat to international peace.

U.S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge, Security Council president for March, told newsmen he would convene the 11-nation group "within a few days"—probably on Tuesday. He said the killings in South Africa this week were "very distressing."

Diplomats said the Asian-African bloc countries were considering asking the council to condemn the killings and to create an investigating committee.

Only seven votes are necessary to put the issue on the council's agenda, and the Asian-African request seemed certain to muster that many.

Lodge would not say how the United States would vote. But he noted that in the past the United States has held the South Africa's segregation policy—the root of the present trouble—was "a proper subject for discussion in the United Nations."

The South African government has protested and boycotted all previous U.N. debates on its white supremacy policy. The 82-nation General Assembly ruled then that it could discuss the issue but was not competent to intervene.

In Tokyo, meanwhile, U.N. Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche said there may be need soon of a United Nations "presence" in troubled Africa. He did not say whether it should take the form of a military force, as the U.N. has stationed between Egypt and Israel, or a diplomatic mission, such as it sent to Laos last fall.

The American Negro winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, in a speech to the assembly of the International Press Institute, compared the situation in Africa to the Negro problem in the United States. But he said, "I don't doubt in the least that democracy will prevail over all other votes in my country."

Acute tension still gripped South Africa but no new violence was reported. Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's government has banned all public meetings in large towns throughout the nation in an effort to forestall demonstrations.

But he is lifting the ban for his own Nationalist party so he can address a big political rally Saturday in Meyerton, only 10 miles from Sharpeville, the bloodiest area in the riots Monday and Tuesday.

Negro absentees from work continued to increase in South Africa, producing a creeping industrial paralysis. The stay-at-home movement was organized after the earlier demonstrations ended in bloodshed.

The Negroes' immediate aim is to get rid of the identification passbooks which all Negroes are required to carry outside their homes. The militant Pan-Africanist Congress first tried to flood police stations with Negroes who had left their passes at home and who demanded they be arrested.

The Negroes hoped this would fill the jails to overflowing and cause a breakdown in economic life by drastically reducing the labor force.

The police have refused to arrest most of such demonstrators. And a Johannesburg court Thursday found a way to punish Negroes without passes and still keep them out of jail. It sentenced five to be caned, a common punishment in South Africa. Two of the offenders were sentenced to 10 strokes, the others to 8.

Protests against South Africa's racial laws and the shooting of Negro demonstrators continued in far corners of the world.

Three Tots Die In Ahoskie Fire

AHOSKIE, N.C. (AP)—Three Negro children burned to death and 21 others fled to safety along with one adult when fire destroyed a six-room farm house near here Thursday night.

The victims were identified as Marion Sessoms, 7; Alfonso Morris, 2, and a six-month-old girl, Dallas Sessoms.

The fire broke out shortly after 11 o'clock at the home of Colerain Sessoms, a tenant farmer two miles south of Ahoskie. Twenty-five children were asleep at the time.

The Sessoms have 14 children, 13 of whom were in the house when the fire broke out. The other 11 children belonged to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Morris who were visiting the Sessoms.

Shortly before the fire was discovered, Mr. and Mrs. Sessoms, Mrs. Morris and one of the Sessoms' boys went to Ahoskie to get some aspirin for the boy. They left Morris watching television.

Morris said he smelled smoke shortly after they had gone. He opened the door of the room where his son, Alfonso, and Marion Sessoms were sleeping "and the flames jumped at me." He attempted to enter the room but was unable to do so.

Morris' cries alerted the other children, all of whom got out except the Sessoms baby. A newsman reported that "they forgot the baby until after they had all reached safety and then it was too late to rescue the child."

A fire truck from Ahoskie sped to the scene, but the roof was caving in by the time it arrived. The fire of undetermined origin apparently started in the bedroom where the Morris boy and Sessoms girl were sleeping.

Hertford County Coroner Ed Williams said an inquest would not be necessary.

Wilson Woman Is 'Mother Of Year'

RALEIGH (AP)—Mrs. Kenneth Wilson Fernald, 52, of Wilson, a school teacher and mother of four children, today was named North Carolina's 1960 Mother of the Year.

The announcement came during a coffee hour at the executive mansion, where Mrs. Fernald and eight other nominees for the coveted title were honored.

Mrs. Fernald, whose husband is a supervisor in a textile mill, is a teacher in the Woodard School at Wilson. Her four children are: Jerry, a senior at the University of North Carolina; Jane, who is married and lives in Rochester, N.H.; Jack, a freshman at North Carolina State; and David, a junior at Pike High School in Wilson.

The coffee hour was the first of several social activities to be climaxed by a banquet tonight at the Sir Walter Hotel.

Mrs. David M. Hall of Sylva was the 1959 winner.

Mrs. Fernald, whose childhood desire was to be a school teacher, was born on a dairy farm near Methuen, Mass. She graduated from Haverhill, Mass., High School and Plymouth (N.H.) Teachers College.

She began teaching several years ago at Enfield, N.H. Since 1957 she has been a fulltime teacher in the Woodard School.

School children whom she has taught and parents nominated her for the Mother of the Year honor.

Mrs. Fernald has been very active in church, social and civic work in Wilson. George Adams, chairman of the Wilson Board of Education, said "never have I seen any one who loved teaching any more than she or was more dedicated to her profession."

Adams noted that the Fernald home exudes much welcome and hospitality. He added, "Every time I visit, I feel the warmth and sincerity of her gracious welcome. There is always a group of young people around who unanimously agree that Mrs. Fernald is the perfect hostess and mother."

Brewer Named Jordan Manager For County

Greenville's James W. Brewer yesterday afternoon accepted the appointment as campaign manager for Pitt County for N. C. Democratic Sen. B. Everett Jordan.

Brewer said, "I consider it an honor to be asked to fill this position." He continued, "Having observed the way in which Sen. Jordan has represented North Carolina in the Senate since his appointment by Gov. Hodges, and after discussing this possible appointment with several of his friends in Pitt County, I was happy to accept the appointment."

Brewer said Sen. Jordan, appointed April 19, 1958, to fill the vacancy left by Sen. W. Kerr Scott's death, telephoned him from Washington yesterday morning and offered him the appointment.

Jordan, a Saxapahaw resident and Ramseur native, was elected in the November, 1958, election to his current term that expires Jan. 3, 1961. He is seeking reelection this November.

The Greenville insurance man told the Daily Reflector he talked with Jordan supporters in Pitt County after receiving the phone call and then called Jordan to accept the position.

Jordan also phoned the Reflector: "I would have come down in person to announce his (Brewer's) appointment and meet with the group, but I am tied up here in Washington on this civil rights matter and am having to handle this by telephone."

The senator continued, "I am very happy to have him as my campaign manager in Pitt County. I am expecting a fine program there."

Brewer, a Pitt County native and a Greenville resident for 40 years, is the son of former Greenville Chief of Police Warren Brewer. He has been associated here with Hooker and Buchanan General Insurance Agency for the past 14 years.

Prior to joining that firm, Brewer was connected with the City of Greenville for nearly 11 years. (Continued on page 12)

Big Manhunt For Wake County

RALEIGH (AP)—More than 100 officers with bloodhounds, an airplane and a helicopter staged one of the most intensive manhunts in Wake County history today. They sought an escaped Negro convict wanted in connection with the butcher-knife murder of a white woman.

Mrs. Clyde Farnell, 45, wife of an employee of the Camp Polk Prison, was slain in her home near the prison Thursday afternoon. Her body bore 17 stab wounds, and officers said there was evidence she has been raped—they waited final word from the doctors on this.

Shortly after Mrs. Farnell's body was discovered by her 16-year-old daughter, officers spread pickup orders for Robert Tyson, an honor grade prisoner serving a term for attempted rape.

The search was concentrated in the Millbrook area, just north of Raleigh, after the Farnell's stolen car was found abandoned. Officers said Tyson's bloody shirt was near the car.

The Highway Patrol said two break-ins had been reported in the Millbrook area over night and that a Negro boy had seen a Negro man who ducked into the woods. One man whose home was entered reported a .22 caliber rifle was missing.

Tyson, 41, was a butcher at the prison slaughter house. Almost daily, he carried meat scraps to the nearby Farnell home to feed dogs. Farnell is in charge of the prison kitchen.

Mary Elizabeth Farnell, 16-year-old high school student, discovered her mother's bloody body in a storage shed behind the house when she returned home from school.

The slaying touched off a new wave of terror in the neighborhood, where residents have organized a drive to have the Camp Polk unit moved. In a suit now in the courts, they claim prisoners are not closely guarded at the unit.

The drive to move the camp, which has made little headway with prison officials, gained momentum last fall when Trent Ragland, wealthy Raleigh businessman, was slain at his cabin in the area.

Unruffled Over Disagreement

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Luther Hodges is unruffled by criticism from some North Carolina State College professors. They disagreed with his position on students taking part in protests against lunch counter segregation.

The Executive Committee of college's chapter of the American Assn. of University Professors Thursday asked Hodges to reconsider his stand. The committee said his stand tended to curb the freedom of choice for students at state-supported colleges.

Hodges told a news conference he was not disturbed by the letter. He also repeated support for Chancellor Gordon Blackwell of Woman's College in Greensboro, who advised students there not to take part in lunch counter demonstrations.

The army commander, Gen. Carlos Toranzo Montero, said a majority of those arrested were supporters of ex-dictator Juan Peron.

Argentine Army Arrests Many

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The Army has arrested about 500 persons, smashing what it called a terrorist plot to disrupt congressional elections Sunday.

The army commander, Gen. Carlos Toranzo Montero, said a majority of those arrested were supporters of ex-dictator Juan Peron.

Bounced Back

WASHINGTON (AP)—Living costs bounced back to a record level in February after declining for two straight months.

Reporting this today, government agencies said rising interest rates on home mortgages and increases in costs of health insurance contributed to the February rise.

The Labor Department's consumer price index rose two-tenths of one per cent from January to February to reach 125.6 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

This took the price level to the record reached in November.

There was every indication, too, that living costs have started another upward trend.

"Things are likely to get a little better, I'm afraid," said Deputy Commissioner Robert J. Meyers of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Meyers said he thought it would be two or three months before prices may stop going up.

Formica Plant Employees Vote 'No' On Union

FARMVILLE — A three-to-one majority vote by 72 Formica Flakeboard employees here yesterday and this morning denied labor union organization a foothold in Pitt County's growing manufacturing plant.

Plant Manager Thomas J. Canning reported this morning the possibility of a labor union here was killed by a 54-18 secret ballot vote. One ballot was voided of the 83 cast from the plant's eligible voters — production, maintenance, and laboratory personnel.

Ten votes were challenged. The election, supervised by company, union, and National Labor Relations Board officials, ended this morning at 7:30 and the tally was made. Results were announced shortly after 9 a.m.

Canning told the Daily Reflector "We are happy our employees have voted to remain free." He praised the work of interested groups and individuals in conducting a successful campaign opposing an affirmative vote for the union. "Support we had was welcomed and very, very effective," he said.

"The secret ballot results," Canning continued, "is interpreted by the plant management as strictly a vote of confidence."

The election was called by District 50, a branch of the United Mine Workers that includes all types of manufacturing industries. Two union officials, along with two company representatives and one NLRB officer, conducted the election.

Asked about existing labor conditions at the local plant, Canning pointed out wages at the Flakeboard plant were over 32 per cent higher than the North Carolina average for industry in 1959.

Dominican Flier Flees Trujillo

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—A Dominican Republic air force officer was free on parole today after fleeing from what he said was imminent arrest by Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo's regime.

Roaring into the U. S. Air Force's Ramey Base in a Vampire jet Thursday, Capt. Otilio Aquino requested political asylum.

Pitt Cancer Campaign Plans Are Prepared

Volunteer Cancer Society workers met at the Greenville Woman's Club last night to receive their instructions for the 1960 Crusade which will take place during the month of April.

John Zeh, Pitt County Campaign Manager, talked to the group and outlined plans for the campaign this year.

Dr. Howard Gradis, Medical Advisor for the Pitt County unit, reviewed the history and progress of cancer research on the state and national levels.

Dr. Gradis pointed out that, while 32 million dollars were collected in 1959 for cancer research, three times that amount was spent for chewing gum in the United States during the year.

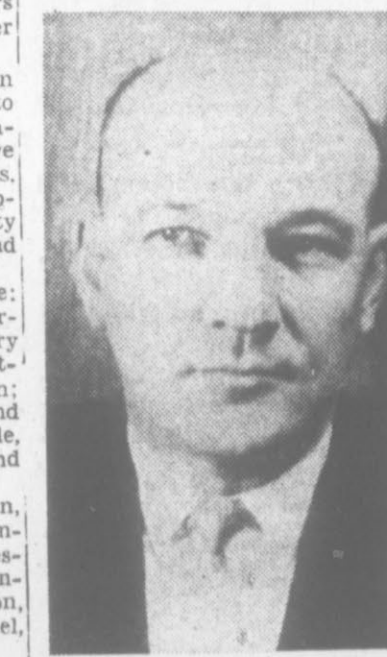

Mrs. Ruel Tyson, District Cancer Worker, told the members that 51 citizens died of cancer last year in Pitt County.

Mrs. Tyson noted that the main objectives of the Society are to save more lives through education and research and to relieve the suffering of cancer patients.

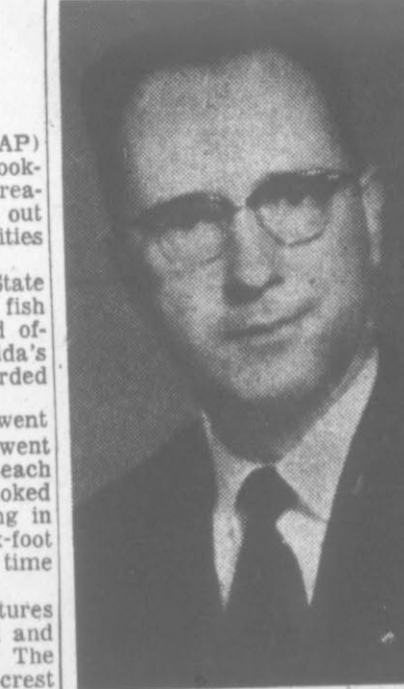

John Zeh announced the appointment of area and community chairmen for the educational and fund raising crusade.

Community chairmen include: Ayden, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Worthington; Farmville, Mrs. Cherry G. Esley; Pactivus, Mrs. Ed Switzer; Stokes, Mrs. Harold Watson; Falkland, Mrs. Frank Peaden; Mrs. Ralph Stokes; Winterville, Mrs. Wayland Hunsucker and Mrs. Rommie Mallison.

Greenville, Mrs. C. L. Lupton, Eunice Conway, Frank Steinbeck and Louis Collier; Grimesland, Mrs. Elmore Hodges; Fountain, Mrs. R. A. Gardner; Grifton, Godfrey L. Little and Bethel, Mrs. Dennis Hardy.

Jones-For-Congress Campaign HQ Is Opened This Morning

Official campaign headquarters for First Congressional District candidate Walter B. Jones were opened in the lobby of the Hotel Proctor late this morning.

Jones, potentially Pitt County's first congressman since 1898, will keep the offices open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day except Sunday.

Jones has entered the race opposite Herbert C. Bonner of Washington and is seeking to end the Beaufort County representative's 20-year tenure in office.

Bonner has held the First District seat since he was appointed to succeed fellow-townsmen Lindsay Warren in 1940.

The Jones Campaign Committee has leased the area it occupies in the local hotel. Equipment and campaign materials were moved in this morning.

A banner will mark the location of the Farmville resident's campaign operations hub.

Mrs. E. C. Wilkerson, along with volunteer workers in the Jones campaign, will be in the offices to greet visitors and work on campaign materials.

Jones, a Saxapahaw resident and Ramseur native, was elected in the November, 1958, election to his current term that expires Jan. 3, 1961. He is seeking reelection this November.

The Greenville insurance man told the Daily Reflector he talked with Jordan supporters in Pitt County after receiving the phone call and then called Jordan to accept the position.

Jordan also phoned the Reflector: "I would have come down in person to announce his (Brewer's) appointment and meet with the group, but I am tied up here in Washington on this civil rights matter and am having to handle this by telephone."

The senator continued, "I am very happy to have him as my campaign manager in Pitt County. I am expecting a fine program there."

Mrs. Wilkerson New President Of Book Club

Mrs. Lindsay Wilkerson was elected president of the Inter Se Book Club at its recent meeting at the home of Mrs. Robert P. Thompson.

Other new officers selected were Mrs. Wyatt Brown, vice-president; Mrs. W. H. Taft, secretary; Mrs. Edgar Willford, treasurer; and Mrs. M. P. Hoot, librarian.

The afternoon program was presented by Mrs. T. H. Henderson who told of a trip to Dearborn, Mich., "where American history comes to life."

She said that Henry Ford's antiquarian interests were aroused during World War I when he restored his own birthplace. He continued collecting and restoring in Greenfield Village, the Henry Ford Museum, and before his death more than 100 homes and workshops of famous Americans.

Mrs. Henderson said that his hobby helped recreate the atmosphere of the "horse and buggy days" and had preserved a cross-section of American history.

Prior to the exchanging of books, a salad plate and Russian tea were served.

Mrs. Hoover Taft was welcomed as the club's guest.

Rev. Hadden Tells Of R. Burns

BETHEL—Rev. William J. Hadden was guest speaker at the Round Table Book Club meeting Tuesday when Mrs. T. R. Andrews Sr. entertained in her home on James Street.

Rev. Hadden was born in New Jersey. He received his A. B. degree at Lynchburg, the Bachelor of Divinity degree at Vanderbilt University and later a Master's Degree at Austin Peary College. Then he studied in Edinburgh, Scotland.

While studying in Scotland Hadden became interested in the life and poetry of Robert Burns. He visited the birthplace of Burns at Dunreels, Scotland and learned the nature of his background and people.

Bobby Burns lived 37 years but his spirit has lived in his poetry over 100 years. Hadden said that Robert Burns was a humble man, raised up in strict religious principles and severe manual labor as a humble plowboy on the rough farming land of the Scottish hills. He loved "the bottle," women, beautiful things in nature and freedom of thought and actions, and these "loves" are brought out in his poems.

Rev. Hadden read several of the love poems and other works characteristic of "Bobby Burns," closing with a poem by Alexander Anderson written to eulogize Burns.

Story-Telling-In Pictures
Comes spring, and picture opportunities seem to crop up almost as fast as tulips. Picnics, garden projects, week-end trips—all call for pictures. But this spring why not go a step farther and try some picture stories?

It's not as formidable a job as you might imagine—if you're armed with one of the new Brownie 20 Cameras. These new cameras give you versatility and control to help you shoot an interesting variety of pictures that tie together to tell a flowing, easy-to-follow story.

For example, a Brownie 20 can give your picture story variety because you can quickly dial-focus it for interesting close-ups, group shots, and scenic pictures. You can take pictures in different kinds of light, too. For any Brownie 20 lens can be adjusted to take good, clear pictures in bright sunlight or in the shade.

Best of all, a Brownie 20 lets you concentrate on your picture-taking. After your first picture, you don't have to watch that little red window. You just wind the film, and it locks into position for the next picture. You also have automatic double-exposure prevention—a real trouble-saver!

All these features are built into three Brownie 20 Cameras: the Brownie Twin 20, the Flash 20, and the Reflex 20. Drop in and make your choice. Prices start at an easy-to-take $10.95.

Pres., Mrs. Jenkins Entertain Departments

President and Mrs. Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina College entertained the members of the Education and Psychology Departments and their wives at their home last night.

Special guests included: Superintendent and Mrs. J. H. Rose, Superintendent and Mrs. D. H. Conley, and Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Irons.

The home was decorated with spring flowers in keeping with the season.

Dr. Keith Holmes of the Education Department furnished the program which consisted of selections on his electric guitar, group singing and dancing. Superintendent Rose presented a story also.

Mrs. Ed Carter and Mrs. Clinton Prewett assisted in serving the refreshments. Good-byes were said to the guests by President and Mrs. Jenkins.

Stewardship Discussed

BETHEL—Mrs. J. L. Gurganus opened the March meeting of the W. S. C. S. reading the prayer from the Prayer Calendar for the Week of Dedication.

"How Total Is My Stewardship?" was the program topic presented by Mrs. S. C. Whitehurst. She said that the purpose of stewardship was threefold: first, to challenge every woman of the W. S. C. S. and the Wesleyan Guild to re-evaluate her personal stewardship; second, to remind everyone that everything one possesses is a trust from God to be used for the greatest good of all mankind; and third, to inspire every Methodist woman to dedicate herself to total stewardship, anticipating the ultimate joy of hearing the Master say, "Well done thou good and faithful servant."

What is a steward? A steward is trustworthy, a person entrusted with estate not her own. She has a faithful fulfillment of loyalty to Christ and His church. She gives of her time, talent, possessions, and in doing this she gives them continuously and systematically.

Mrs. Walter C. Whitehurst conducted a short questionnaire period on facts about the World Federation of Methodist Women. This federation was organized in 1956 at Lake Junaluska.

It establishes a United Methodist Lay Movement ready for Christian action wherever Methodist churches are found. Each member was given a pamphlet.

The guests were entertained by a series of games led by Clay Stroud. The contestants were selected from the audience.

The door prize was won by Mrs. T. G. Worthington.

Newcomers Meet For Cards

The Newcomers Club met Thursday for cards and lunch as guests of the management of Greenville Country Club.

Mrs. D. A. Fleming won high score at bridge, and Mrs. R. W. Williams at canasta. At bridge Mrs. J. M. Grukke won second high and Mrs. W. E. Harbin low. Mrs. W. M. Thomas won second high at canasta and Mrs. T. W. Agner low. Mrs. C. A. Pope drew the door prize.

Mrs. W. Clyde Hollowell, president of Newcomers, welcomed the following new members: Mrs. W. P. Biggs and Mrs. F. L. Davison, formerly of Cincinnati, Ohio; Mrs. A. E. Chambers, formerly of Wilson; Mrs. Jerry Powell from Raleigh; Mrs. F. A. Martin from Asheboro; Mrs. J. C. Hollers and Mrs. C. A. Pope, formerly of Charlotte; Mrs. J. L. Bishop from Ervin; Mrs. Fred Blackburn and Mrs. Margie Seneidiver, who came to Greenville from Okinawa.

Chicken Supper Given SS Class

BETHEL—The Charles Wesley Class, better known as the Couple's Class, of the Bethel Methodist Sunday school had a meeting Monday night when the men entertained with a fried chicken supper.

The occasion was the result of a contest held over the past several weeks with emphasis on attendance.

Walter Latham, one of the teachers, presided and gave the welcome. Mrs. Clayton House gave the response.

Wiley Clark, pastor of the local Pentecostal Holiness Church, led in some songs and also rendered a vocal solo. He was accompanied at the piano by Dan Nicholson. Rev. Carl Barbee gave the invocation.

L. G. Manning, president of the class, and E. E. Dennis headed up the event and reported that some 65 were in attendance at this meeting and that approximately 100 per cent response was experienced. John L. Watson gave the benediction.

The door prize was won by Mrs. T. G. Worthington.

Revival Services To Open Mar. 27

Revival services will be held at Immanuel Baptist Church, Greenville, March 27-April 3. Services will begin at 7:30 each night through the week.

The pastor, the Reverend Irby B. Jackson, will preach at both services next Sunday, and he will be assisted through the week by the Reverend Archer V. Turner, pastor of First Baptist Church, Scotland Neck. Turner will preach each night and he will appear on WNCN Television Station on the "Morning Meditations" program about 7:30 a.m. Tuesday through Friday.

REV. ARCHER TURNER

Turner is a native of Virginia. He received his college education at V.P.I. in Blacksburg, Va., and his theological training at the Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary in Philadelphia, Pa.

He has served as pastor of several churches in Virginia, and has conducted many evangelistic meetings in the southland. He has been pastor in Scotland Neck for about four years.

The music for the revival services will be under the direction of J. C. Thomas, minister of Education at Immanuel Church. He has been serving on the staff of the church for eight months, coming from a similar position with First Baptist Church, Rutherfordton.

A cordial invitation is extended by Immanuel Baptist Church to the public to join in the worship services through next week.

THE REV. HENRY VAN KLUYVE, of Davis, will be evangelist for revival services beginning Sunday night and continuing through April 2 at the Winterville Free Will Baptist Church. The song service will begin each evening at 7:45. The pastor, Rev. Adam Scott, will bring the message Sunday morning on the fifth saying of Christ from the Cross, "I Thirst a Word of Suffering."

Bike Threw Him, No Serious Hurts

Eleven-year-old Danny Griffin of 1014 West Third St. did a take-off on the old cowboy and Indian routine of "biting the dust" yesterday afternoon and was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital by the Greenville Rescue Squad for a checkup.

Investigators said Danny was thrown head-over-heels by his "bucking broncho" bike when he rode the two-wheel vehicle into a low wire fence while chasing a baseball near the intersection of Third and Contentnea Sts.

Officers, who investigated the incident, said Danny received a bruised left leg and a dirty face from the "run-in."

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

Temperatures will average 4 to 8 degrees below normal for the next five days. Cool Saturday, warmer Sunday night and Monday. Warm again Tuesday and Wednesday. Precipitation in south portion late Saturday and Sunday and all portions Tuesday night or Wednesday.

Triple Celebration Is Planned By Lambda Chia Alpha Chapter

Spiritual Thinking Is Held Vital To Mankind

The open door to lasting peace, health, and well-being is a door that leads away from the satisfaction of selfish interests, declared Robert Dolling Wells, of Seattle, Wash. in a lecture here last night.

Mankind's basic need is not the fulfillment of material wants, but spiritually enlightened thinking, that righteousness taught and practiced by Christ Jesus, Wells said.

In his lecture entitled "Christian Science Lifts the Burden of Mortality," he described healings, through wholly spiritual means, of influenza and cancer.

A Christian Science teacher and practitioner, Wells is currently on a nationwide tour as a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

He spoke under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, in the edifice at the corner of Meade and East Fourth Streets. He was introduced by Mrs. Regina Ethel Ruyle, second reader for this church.

"Primitive Christianity met the outer and legitimate wants of men by turning them away from primary interest in those wants," the lecturer stated.

He pointed out that the idea that mankind will respond only to appeals to their selfishness was challenged by Christ Jesus who wanted none of it for his own ministry.

Wells noted that of the multitudes which came to Jesus only a few were more interested in the

Officers Chosen By Toastmasters

Frank Robinson has been elected president of the Greenville Toastmasters Club.

He succeeds Howard Wilson who served as the club's president during its first year. The Toastmasters was organized locally April 1, 1959.

Other officers elected for the coming year include: Sherrill Bryant, educational vice president; Merrill Bynum, administrative vice president; William Brewer, secretary-treasurer; Sam Credle, sergeant-at-arms.

The new officers will take office April 1.

The Toastmasters Club meets each Wednesday night in the auditorium of the State Highway Building.

the chapter's observance of undergraduate rituals Friday evening will open the three-day calendar of events, to be followed by the faculty ritual on Saturday afternoon and a banquet commemorating the Golden Anniversary of the fraternity's founding on Saturday evening. The brothers of the fraternity will attend Sunday morning worship services at St. James Methodist Church, at which the Rev. C. F. Hirschi, minister of the host church, will deliver the sermon.

The chapter house on Cotanche Street in Greenville is adjacent to the west campus. Invitations have been issued to college administrative officials, faculty members, and student organization leaders, as well as to citizens of the community throughout Eastern North Carolina, to the formal opening of the fraternity house from 2 until 5 o'clock.

The anniversary banquet, to be held in a Greenville restaurant, will feature student musical entertainment, the fraternity message by Mahlon J. Coles, chapter advisor, with Dr. James Butler, assistant director of public relations, serving as toastmaster.

Watson Elected To Head Elks

W. H. Watson (above) last night was elected exalted ruler of Greenville Elks Lodge No. 1645 for the coming year.

Watson, an attorney, will take office April 14. He will succeed Jack Nobles who has served as exalted ruler for the past year.

Other officers elected by the Elks last night include: John A. Collins, Jr., esteemed leading knight; Fred P. Sauve, esteemed loyal knight; Charles M. King, esteemed lecturing knight; W. G. Norman, secretary; David Proctor, treasurer; R. A. Smith, tiler and W. O. Moore, trustee, three years. Installation ceremonies will be held at the next Elks meeting on April 14.

A Major Stake In New ECC Bid

For several years now many friends and supporters of East Carolina College have looked forward to the day when the college might move up from the North State Conference to the Southern Conference. Such a move is again underway in behalf of East Carolina College, and with sufficient support, it might be that 1960 will be the year that ECC becomes a part of the Southern Conference.

As in any effort of this sort, supporters of ECC must show effectively their interest in the progress of the college and its athletic program, and put forth an active effort if the goal is to be reached.

Admission to the Southern Conference would enhance considerably the standing of ECC's athletic program, and put it in a conference with some of the other major colleges in this state, South Carolina and a new plateau which could be used for broadening the influence of East Carolina College.

To produce an athletic program of the calibre which would justify its being a part of the Southern Conference, East Carolina must have from the people of Greenville as well as from its friends and alumni in other parts of the state more financial support for its athletic program. In order to compete successfully in this faster conference, ECC would have to produce more powerful athletic teams with more consistency than has been the case in the past. Its scholarship program for athletics would have to be broadened, and its cost of operating a more expensive athletic program would have to be off-set by greater revenues from athletic events, and other financial resources.

In addition to boosting the prestige of ECC, the college's entry into the Southern Conference would also bring to the local campus bigger name teams on a regular basis for sports events. And these bigger and better sports attractions would in turn bring more people to East Carolina and to Greenville. It would help the community as well as the college.

Greenville and its people have a major stake in every effort that is made to build a better institution of East Carolina College. Therefore Greenville and its people have a major stake in the current effort to have ECC accepted as a member of the Southern Conference.

In terms of enrollment, East Carolina is a large enough college to be a member of the Southern Conference. In terms of location and size it could prove an asset to the Southern Conference now and in the years to come.

In its own interest and in the interest of East Carolina College, Greenville should exert every possible effort to assist the college in making a successful bid for admission into the Southern Conference this spring.

Senator Symington Is No Longer On Sidelines

Sen. Stuart Symington's official entry into the Democratic presidential nomination race dispels any previous notions that the Missourian is willing to sit idly on the sidelines in hope of being chosen as a compromise candidate by a deadlocked convention.

Although his official entry into the competition for the Democratic nomination comes late compared with that of his fellow Senators Kennedy and Humphrey, it is not too late to gain considerable voting strength prior to the convention. It must be assumed now that Sen. Symington will go into the convention with first-ballot votes pledged to him. It should also be assumed that he will seek commitments for late ballots—should the convention become deadlocked—from delegates already pledged to other candidates on the first few ballots.

Until now there has, of course, been no large bloc of votes pledged or tentatively pledged to Sen. Symington for the nomination. At the same time, neither is there any large bloc of opposition to Symington anywhere in the country as there is in the case of Senators Kennedy and Humphrey. Although both the other avowed candidates appear to have more pledged strength now than does Sen. Symington, both of them also face formidable groups that do not want them to receive the nomination.

Sen. Symington's active entry into the nomination campaign will alter the picture of pre-convention activity. It could well alter the outcome of the convention's decision. Although Sen. Symington's best chance of getting the nomination still appears to be as a compromise candidate, his active campaign for support could send him into the convention as a candidate who will have to be reckoned with by the others.

Cooperation For Industrial Drive

By WADE LUCAS
Information Officer, Department of Conservation & Development.

MEDALS — If Governor Luther H. Hodges should decide to award individual medals or letters of commendation to all those who have taken part in the North Carolina industrial development program since the current drive got under way in high gear in 1955, he would, indeed, be a very busy man for a long, long time.

Generally acknowledged to be North Carolina's No. 1 salesman and a man endowed with seemingly endless energy and drive, Governor Hodges has made industrial development of North Carolina to its greatest potential one of the major objectives during his unprecedentedly long tenure as the State's Chief Executive.

Governors, who steered the good ship North Carolina from the southwest corner of the State Capitol before Governor Hodges took over the helm of the Ship of State in November, 1954, following the death of Governor William B. Umstead, have long recognized that if North Carolinians are to raise their per capita income they must, or plain necessity, do something to help themselves.

Rather rapid mechanization of North Carolina farms and the steady advance of automation in many of the State's industries have made the State's lieutenant-governor, who pinch-hit at several of the ten North Carolina industrial development forums for Governor Umstead, who had originated the idea for the forums as part of his program to step up the industrialization of the State from the coast to the mountains.

It was a natural pinch-hitting role for the free-swinging, retired industrialist who, to a great extent, amazed veteran politicians by winning the Democratic nomination for lieutenant-governor in 1952 when but few apparently realized he knew much about the rough and tumble game of politics that is so frequently played in North Carolina.

After succeeding Governor Umstead, Governor Hodges began to put increased emphasis on the need and necessity for providing more industrial jobs for North Carolinians.

He began to call for increased activity at local as well as State level for greater industrial development of the State to help it supply the services its people want and demand. He was not content with mere lip service from those who openly agreed with him that North Carolina simply must have more industrial plants to provide jobs for so many of its people in growing need of employment.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS — He quickly began to show more than a casual interest in the work of the Department of Conservation and Development, the State's principal development agency, and the Board of Conservation and Development, which makes policy for the C & D Department.

With all due respects to all North Carolina Governors who have followed Governor Angus W. McLean, the one-time Lumberton banker and businessman who asked the 1925 General Assembly to create the Department of Conservation and Development and its governing board, it is the opinion of this guest columnist for the ailing Lynn Nisbet that no chief executive of the State since 1925 has shown a greater personal interest in this department than has Governor Hodges. Incidentally, this opinion is based on personal observations of the scene for more than 30 years as a reporter and in our present capacity.

This column is not written as a paean of praise for a man because he happens to be the present Governor of North Carolina and the very active chairman of the Board of Conservation and Development. Others far more capable have done that in newspaper editorials or by the spoken words.

But as a matter of fact the cold statistics prove that Governor Hodges has been the leader of an ever-growing number of North Carolinians who have translated thoughts and words into real action in providing for the late Governor O. Max Gardner like to call "the more abundant life" and the late Governor Umstead "a better tomorrow" for North Carolinians.

Governor Hodges has time and again praised the efforts at the local level as well as at the State level of those who have done so much to help make North Carolina a better place in which to work, live and play. He knows and quickly asserts in most understandable terms in most understandable language that what has been accomplished during his administration is not due to the efforts of one man, namely Luther H. Hodges, Director William P. Saunders of the Department of Conservation and Development, or any other individual.

It has, indeed, been a great team effort. Plain citizens have given of their time, their money, and their efforts to promote further industrialization of North Carolina. Bankers, utility executives, transportation officials, and others in the field of big business have marched shoulder to shoulder with Chambers of Commerce, the State's now more than 200 industrial development organizations, the Department of Conservation and Development's Division of Commerce and Industry, the State Department of Agriculture, N. C. State College, the State Revenue Department, and countless others in letting industry know that it can find what it wants in the Tar Heel State.

Old Incident Is Retold

FROM THE HELPLESSLY, EMBARRASSINGLY RIDICULOUS DEPT.: One of the attorneys in the defending circle surrounding the Pitt County Court-house described a two-year-old incident recently.

As persons familiar with the structure of and the goings on around the county's official hub know, there are wooden railings guarding the stairways at each end of the building.

Supporting these railings are vertically fixed square-shaped iron rods — spaced about four or five inches apart.

During court sessions here, it's long been a custom for lawyers, witnesses, jurors, and spectators to gather on the second-floor staircase landing at the west end of the courtroom and review pending decisions, etc., during brief recesses.

A limited number of the participants in the discussion that sounds something like a autumn Monday morning quarterback session, occupy positions leaning against the six feet of level railing exposed so conveniently on the second landing.

This particular incident of two years past began with one of those recesses. As usual, the group gathered on landing No. 2 to smoke and discuss the court's actions.

Being one of the first on the scene, the lawyer referred to above immediately perched himself upon the short length of railing. Being a cautious man, however, he carefully inserted his right foot through a pair of those little vertical irons to maintain his balance.

At the time, this seemed the most logical thing to do since a person losing his balance and falling backward could only expect a speedy, 25-foot descent climaxed by a very sudden stop on the stone floor below.

As the recess conversation wore on, this attorney carefully slipped his foot further and further through the narrow opening and soon was indeed confident he could not possibly fall.

After a quarter of an hour or so, the call went out to resume court.

The second-landing delegation fled once again into the courtroom to hear cases that had captured each one's respective attention.

All the delegation, that is except our lawyer. He didn't budge. He just sat there perched atop that narrow railing — one foot firmly lodged behind an iron support and the other dangling toward the floor.

He vainly tried to loose his foot gently. Gently enough to prevent his falling abruptly to the floor on either the short or the long and deep side.

He thought he'd just fall forward onto the second landing's floor, catch his weight with his hands, then wriggle his foot free and re-join the delegation.

"No," he decided. "What if somebody'd come by and see me? They'd think I was crazy."

So there he sat. Totally helpless and with no one aware of his plight.

After a few long moments, a late-comer climbed the stairs and gave the lawyer a quical once-over.

The lawyer solemnly, silently pointed to the securely lodged right hoof and shoe. "Please," he begged.

Nimble fingers untied the shoe-laces and slipped the shoe off. Then the lawyer easily retrieved his foot.

Wiping perspiration from his forehead and uttering a grateful "Thank you," the lawyer rejoined the delegation.

"We spend great sums of interest charges on our public debt, but we do not reduce the principle. We carry on massive federal programs which state and local governments could do better. We devote large amounts of money to benefit special groups at rates below those the government must pay its own creditors. We perpetuate federal programs which have long since met the objectives for which they were created." — Geneva (Ohio) Free Press.

have yet seen of this process is a little pamphlet written by Mme. Suzanne Labin, a French journalist. Her work is entitled, "The Technique of Soviet Propaganda," and has been issued by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

Mme. Labin recognizes and describes the techniques of destroying thought. The basic idea is to fix ideas in the minds of opponents to that they repeat clichés instead of thinking things out. For instance, the use of the term, East-West, instead of the Communist world and the Free world. Another is the twisted definitions given the word Liberal, which in the 19th Century meant the extension of the rights of man but in the middle of the 20th Century means the expansion of the power of government.

Mme. Labin says this: "Weak or strong, CPs are characterized everywhere by the following specific features: "1. They are strictly controlled by the Kremlin, whose orders they blindly carry out, whatever zigzags or disavowals that may mean. "2. They are not organized as parties, but as totalitarian states. They are fanatical, monolithic, intolerant. The top rules and manipulates the bottom, which only serves as a striking force. "3. Its apparatus, in proportion to its membership, is 50 to 100 times better equipped with material and means of propaganda than that of any other party. Thus a CP has on the average 1 permanent (e.e., a paid activist) for 25 to 50 members, while other parties have 1 per 1,000 or 5,000 members. Its turnout of printed matter — newspapers, magazines, pamphlets, leaflets, posters, home bulletins, books — is also on the average 100 times greater per member than that of any other party, however rich it may be. The same proportion holds true for premises, card files, printing presses, and a still higher one for study groups, party

Not Much Hope In Summit Talk

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—In time the world-if relations between nations turn sour and savage again—may look back wistfully upon these days as the happy period of conversation without progress.

For months now the United States and the Soviet Union have been pretty much soft-pedaling their differences to avoid wrecking ahead of time the summit meeting May 16 between President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Whether they accomplish anything, besides talking, is doubtful. But at least while East and West are talking they're not hissing.

With the summit meeting still almost two months away Secretary of State Christian A. Herter already is trying to prepare the American people against disappointment. He told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee this week: "I'm very frank to admit that I'm not optimistic that the summit will produce very great results."

Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) said it appears Eisenhower and Herter are going to the summit "without purpose, without plan, without hope of success." And Herter replied: "It's a gamble."

Herter summed up what seems to be the attitude — at this particular moment in history—when he said in a period of pushbutton war like this one it would be too risky not to sit down and talk.

Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, denied Wednesday that Gore was right in complaining the President and Herter were going to the summit without purpose, plan or hope of success.

But unless Eisenhower does go to the Paris meeting with some clear-cut ideas he may get a rude, shock from Khrushchev. The Russian seems to know ahead of time what he wants.

He can turn the summit into a propaganda victory for the Soviet Union if he makes proposals which have broad appeal and all the American government can do is hem and haw.

Khrushchev sounds like a man who has no doubts of what he wants at the summit. Within no time at all after arriving in France Wednesday he told President Charles de Gaulle the West must back down and sign a peace treaty with Germany.

This would require the West to recognize Communist East Germany as an independent nation. The West has stalled on this ever since the war. Its ally, West Germany, wants a unified Germany—not recognition of the Soviet idea that Germany should be permanently divided.

Khrushchev in France harped on another old theme: He wants an end to NATO and the Western European Union, both of which include West Germany as a member.

Since this is the last thing the United States wants, the Eisenhower-Khrushchev summit talks should be lively. But only a country boy with stars in his eyes at this moment can hope the talks will produce any solutions.

Other Editors Saying... But Don't Tell Steve

(The Dallas Morning News)

When Steve Allen, California lad of 18, was a little tyke, he assembled radios before he could read. He began building color television sets at the age of 12. Electronics fascinated him. He was deep in that study by the time he was in the eighth grade.

In his junior high school year, Allen found himself so far beyond his classmates that he quit school, started his own company. Now he has 11 employees, did $100,000 worth of business last year and hopes to make it $600,000 this year. He has one post-graduate engineering student on his staff.

They will tell you that the last frontier has been passed, with nothing for the little firm or the little man any more. But don't tell it to Steve. He won't understand you.

Husband Is An Easy Mark (The Shreveport Times)

The executive head of one of the big national chain grocery companies says that all up-marketers would like to see husbands do more of the family shopping. Let the wife make out the list, he says, but let the husband do the marketing. Why?—Because, the grocery executive explains, a husband always will throw in half a dozen or so extra items, where the wife will stick to the list. It's the husband, not the wife, who is the "compulsive buyer."

We believe the market executive is right. Husbands always seem unable to resist nicely packaged and attractive appearing items. We recall earling a man say when the first of the self-service, push-your-basket grocery stores opened several decades ago: "My idea of heaven is to be turned loose in one of these places with a hundred dollar bill!"

Ever browse around one of those really top grade hardware variety stores and fight yourself to keep from purchasing at least a dozen items which you know you can't use and don't want? Every man does it. Yet, watch the women in such a store. They barrel their way straight to the counter containing the item they want. There they may paw and waste a lot of time, but they don't pick up unneeded items.

The head of a woman's clothing store tells us the same thing the husband do the marketing, company the wife to buy a new dress or coat or both, and the bill will be 50 to 100 per cent more than if the women bought alone — all of which knocks to pieces the old stories about the wife running up big clothing bills and the husband being tight.

Probably a lot of soul searching is true there. Let the husband act out just why men are this way — as to women's clothing, groceries, hardware and variety items or anything else. The grocery chain executive gave his reason in four words: "It's man's inherent vanity."

Even The Budget 'Ready-Mixed'

By ELMER ROESSNER

When I was a little boy, the ladies magazines dwelt extensively on household budgets. In the days when I was "Stinky" to my friends, the second concern of the magazines was budgets. The primary concern was the evils of demon rum.

The magazines stressed this theory that if a housewife carefully budgeted her income—then likely to be $23 a week—all problems would be solved.

The magazines stressed this point so strongly that the idea of family budgeting has prevailed for a generation. Drop into any book or stationery store and you'll see an array of little budget books in which women, formerly ladies, can plan the division of their husbands' income. And you still see articles in magazines on how to budget income to have enough left over for the things the magazine advertisements offer.

EVERYTHING READY-MIXED

This has erroneously been called the do-it-yourself age. True, with the shorter work week, there's a lot more tinkering and putting going on. But much stronger is the you-do-it-for-me trend. Pastries come ready-mixed. No housewife even peels an onion today; she uses onion salt, onion flakes or something called instant onion. More and more of the frozen foods are coming ready-cooked; whole dinners come frozen to a tray. So it is with budgets. Each family works under a ready-mix-budget. The government and creditors have prescribed the budget and the family had jolly well live up to it.

Let's take the Boscage C. Johnsons. Daddy—he's Bosco down at the office—earns $179 a week. That's what they tell him. That's what they tell him. Before he gets his coffee-stained fingers on his pay, there are hefty deductions for Federal and sometimes state withholding taxes, Social Security, and hospitalization and medical care, participating life insurance plans, retirement fund contributions, union dues, stock purchases, Christmas club payments and other despatching items.

MANDATORY OUTGO

When Bosco gets home, there are the imperative checks to be sent out: for rent or mortgage payments; utility bills; the fuel bill; church, charity and club pledges; tuition payments for the children; the car payment and the installment payments.

After that come the rigid cash demands. There must be so many dollars and cents for commutation, lunch money, laundry, dry cleaning, television repairs, gas and oil, parking fees, the newspaper boy, the maid, if any, and meat and potatoes.

What's left over is also earmarked for, say, liquor, Posters, movie tickets, books and magazines and savings for new clothes.

In short, the homemade budget is no more. The government, the money-changers and the customs of the day have taken the budgeting process out of the hands of the family. Americans are captives of a way of life and should not feel too sorry for the slow under communism.

STRANGE AND CURIOUS BUSINESS NEWS BIT

New rubber expansion joints for airport taxiways can expand up to three inches, keeping surfaces always smooth. The average cost of having a baby in Cincinnati is $114, in New York, $183, according to the Health Insurance Institute. The Soviet Economy will still be behind America's in 1970, Marvin Frankel calculates in Business Horizons, an Indiana University quarterly. Losses by fire in January and February were less than in the same months of 1959 and 1958, the National Board of Fire Underwriters reports.

A Witness in Chains

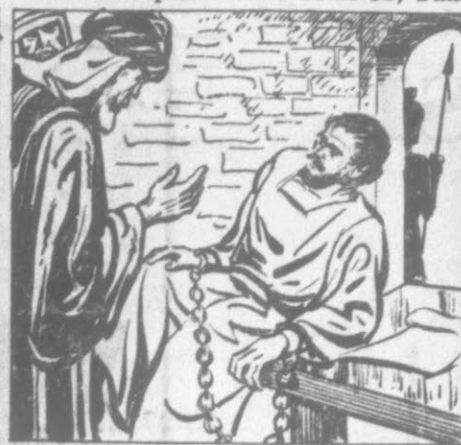

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 28:16-31; Philippians 1:12-13; Colossians 4:3-4.

When Paul and other prisoners arrived in Rome, the centurion delivered the other prisoners to the captain of the guard, but he allowed Paul to dwell by himself with a soldier to guard him.—Acts 28:16.

After three days, Paul called the chief of the Jews together, telling them that he had been found innocent of any wrongdoing, after he had appealed to Rome; he was let go, but in chains.—Acts 28:17-20.

The chiefs told him they had received no letters about him, but desired to hear what he had to say, "for concerning this sect, we know that everywhere it is spoken against."—Acts 28:21-22.

They appointed a day for him to be heard, but could not agree among themselves, so Paul told them he would thereafter preach to the Gentiles.—Acts 28:23-28.

MEMORY VERSE—Romans 8:37.

A Witness in Chains

CONTINUED ACTIVITY OF PAUL AS A PREACHER OF THE GOSPEL IN SPITE OF HIS BEING UNDER ARREST IN ROME

Scripture—Acts 28:16-31; Philippians 1:12-13; Colossians 4:3-4.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

PAUL, still a prisoner, was brought to the great city of Rome with other prisoners. The centurion delivered the others to the captain of the guard, but Paul "was suffered to dwell by himself with a soldier that kept him."—Acts 28:16.

Did this man realize that Paul was not an ordinary person, and should be given more consideration than the rest? We do not know, but it is written that he was treated better than the other prisoners.

"And it came to pass, that after three days Paul called the chief of the Jews together: and when they were come together, he said unto them, Men and brethren, though I have committed nothing against the people, or customs of our fathers, yet was I delivered prisoner from Jerusalem into the hands of the Romans. Who, when they had examined me, would have let me go, because there was no cause of death in me. But when the Jews spake against it, I was constrained to appeal unto Caesar; not that I had ought to accuse my nation of."

"For this cause therefore have I called for you, to see you and speak with you: because that for the hope of Israel I am bound with this chain."—Acts 28:17-20.

"And they said unto him, We neither received letters out of Judea concerning thee, neither any of the Brethren that came shewed any harm of thee. But we desire to hear of thee what thou thinkest: for as concerning this sect, we know that everywhere it is spoken against."—Acts 28:21-22.

"And when they had appointed him a day, there came many to him into his lodging; to whom he expounded and testified the kingdom of God, persuading them concerning Jesus, both out of the law of Moses, and out of the prophets, from morning till evening."—Acts 28:23-24.

Some of his listeners believed the things Paul said and some did not believe them. When they could not agree among themselves they went away, after Paul had said: "Well spake the Holy Ghost by Esaias the prophet unto our fathers, saying, Go unto this people, and say, Hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing ye shall see, and shall not perceive: For the heart of this people is waxed gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes have they closed; lest they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heal them."—Acts 28:25-27.

"Be it known therefore unto you, that the salvation of God is sent unto you the Gentiles, and that they will hear it. And when he had said these words, the Jews departed, and had great reasoning among themselves."—Acts 28:28-29.

"And Paul dwelt two whole years in his own hired house, and received all that came in unto him. Preaching the kingdom of God, and teaching those things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ, with all confidence, no man forbidding him."—Acts 28:30-31.

The Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith suggests that the younger classes be introduced to this lesson by asking them what would happen if gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay and stubble were cast into fire. When the fire died out the first

Council Approves Richmond Game

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Sports Editor

The eight-man East Carolina Athletic Council went on record yesterday morning underwriting a football game between East Carolina College and the University of Richmond this fall.

The council, recently appointed by President Leo Jenkins to assist in the college's drive to become affiliated with the Southern Conference, unanimously favored underwriting the game which, in effect, will make possible the requested guarantee asked by the University of Richmond to play in College Stadium.

Dr. Neph Jorgensen, East Carolina Athletic Director, attended the morning meeting to discuss the game possibilities with the council, composed of non-alumni businessmen in Greenville. According to Jorgensen, no contracts have been signed with Richmond but favorable negotiations have been made between the two schools and a football game would be possible for Nov. 19. The game would be a night contest.

East Carolina had earlier planned to meet Wofford on this date but plans were not definite. Jorgensen related this morning that if Richmond was added, it would give the Pirates a nine-game schedule.

East Carolina still has an open date for September 17, but college officials hope to fill it, giving ECC an attractive 10-game card.

Following the action at the council meeting, President Jenkins remarked, "All of us are very grateful to these businessmen for the loyalty and confidence they have in East Carolina College. We feel certain that our faculty and student body will do all they can also to make this venture an overwhelming success."

The ECC-Richmond game will provide eastern North Carolina fans with high-caliber football. It will be a chance for people in this area to demonstrate whether they want Southern Conference athletics to come into this vicinity.

According to council members, this is considered the first step in helping East Carolina become a member of the larger conference.

Summing up the council's move, Jenkins stated, "Richmond has shown its willingness to give us opportunity to demonstrate we are strong enough to support a team in its conference. From all that I have gathered in talking with people of this area, we are ready for the Southern Conference and will receive from people of eastern North Carolina the support needed for the big step."

White Remains Unchanged On Trade Dispute

BOSTON (AP) — Sammy White remained unwavering today in his decision to quit baseball but admitted uncertainty about the procedure of filing the papers which close the book on a nine-year major league career.

On this bit of paper work hinges the final verdict on the baseball trade in which White is the key figure.

Only when Commissioner of Baseball Ford Frick receives the veteran catcher's retirement papers can he void the deal which sent White to Cleveland along with utility man Jim Marshall for catcher Russ Nixon.

Huddling with bowling business partner George Page over the voluntary retirement notice Thursday, White said:

"I've got a problem. I'm getting the papers ready but I don't know where to send them. I've heard three or four different versions of what the proper procedure should be."

"I'll mail the papers within a day or two if I can find out where to send them."

Meanwhile White had his fourth telephone conversation with Cleveland General Manager Frank Lane since arriving in Boston Wednesday. He also talked to American League President Joe Cronin who phoned from Scottsdale, Ariz.

"Lane is a very understanding man," White said. "We had a long talk and at the end of it we both decided that I still was retired."

From Scottsdale came Cronin's version of his talk with Sam:

"I told him I thought that at 31 he is too young to retire. I told him he had many years of good baseball ahead of him, that Cleveland has a chance to be a contender and that he would be doing his bowling business good public relations by being on a top contender in the American League."

Action Starts In Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Action was scheduled here today in three divisions of the 13th annual North Carolina Negro high school basketball tournament.

The semifinals in the Class 3-A division paired Rocky Mount against West Charlotte and Oxford against Wilmington.

Rocky Mount eliminated High Point 58-52; West Charlotte defeated New Bern 50-45; Wilmington defeated Concord 60-43 and Oxford dropped Winston-Salem 67-66 in Thursday's first round games.

In the Class 2-A division, Burlington met LaGrange and East Spencer will meet Fayetteville tonight.

CHAPTER 19

I faced Detective - Lieutenant John Nola squarely and said, "Do you recall the name of the man who was guarding Ben Keller the night he supposedly fell out the window?"

"Yes," Nola said. "Ernie Strobe."

"And the name of the men working that detail with him?"

Nola's brow furrowed. "Refresh my recollection, Jordan."

"Glad to. Fred Duncan was one of them."

Silence for a moment. "I am still listening, Counselor."

"The book Fred Duncan wrote, the one my client sold to the movies, was a fictionalized version of what really happened that night at the Essex Hotel. According to Duncan, there was a pay-off. Two of Jackel's torpedoes were passed into Keller's room. The witness had to be silenced. When he refused to cooperate, they helped him over the sill."

The lieutenant's narrow face hardened into a set expression. "Strobe's palm was greased?"

"So Duncan claimed."

"And Strobe knew about the book?"

"He not only knew about it, he threatened an injunction against the movie company."

"But the book was already sold. What could he gain by Duncan's death?"

"Plenty. If he sued the film company, they would need Duncan's testimony. With Duncan dead, they might think twice about shooting the picture at all."

"Have you spoken to Strobe?"

"Yes. I was in Coleman's office when he stormed in and demanded to see a copy of the manuscript."

Nola slapped his palms on the desk. "Keller's death left a stench in the department. It tainted every cop on the force with the stigma of corruption. I felt it in my guts and asked to be assigned to the case. But they turned me down. It was out of my jurisdiction, they said. We couldn't step on anybody's toes."

"What were they afraid of?"

"The truth, maybe. How would it look if we proved bribery, corruption, obstruction of justice in the very agency charged with law enforcement? It was an election year and the orders came from City Hall. They were afraid of political repercussions."

"Could they muzzle the District Attorney, too?"

"Indirectly. By not co-operating."

"So Keller's death was fobbed off as a suicide?"

Nola kicked his chair back and stood up. "Let's have a talk with Ernie Strobe right now."

"At this hour?"

"Why not?"

Why not, indeed. I thought. Something might slip out before the sergeant could clear the cobwebs from a sleep-drugged brain.

It was a modest, middle-income neighborhood. If Strobe had an additional source of revenue, he was sage enough not to let it show while he was still on the force. And he slept like a man with a clear conscience.

It took five minutes to rouse him out of bed. He answered the door, ruffled and puffy-eyed. But when he recognized his visitors he came sharply and watchfully awake.

"Lieutenant Nola!"

"I have some questions, Strobe. He stepped aside. I followed Nola into the living room. No mass-produced, overstuffed, cut-rate items here. These furnishings would fit nicely into classier quarters when he finally retired.

Strobe excused himself, went into the next room, and came back shrugging into a terry-cloth robe. His eyes spared me a brief glance and came to rest on the lieutenant.

"Been sleeping long?" Nola asked him.

"Since about midnight. I got in about eleven."

"When did you go off duty?"

"Yesterday at five o'clock. Today was my day off."

His mouth tightened. "I seem to be on the grill for something, Lieutenant. Why? What's all this sudden interest in my activities?"

"We'll get to that in a moment, Strobe. Just answer my questions."

"No, sir. With all due respect to your rank, Lieutenant, I'm on the Rackets Squad, not under your command. You happen to be in my apartment. It's four-thirty in the morning. I have a right to know what you're after."

Nola stared at him frostily. His voice was abrasive. "You're a police officer, Strobe. At-though I have some personal opinions on the subject."

He paused to let the comment sink in. "You know my job. You know I'm attached to Homicide. I'm here because a murder has been committed and it's my job to find the murderer. To do that I have to ask questions."

"So I'm starting with you, Strobe, and sure as you're standing here you're going to answer everything I put to you—with deference if not with candor. Balk and I'll have you hauled over the coals on departmental charges. If you think that's an idle threat, test me."

Strobe kept himself under white-faced control. But I saw a vein bulge in a blue diagonal across his forehead. He spread his hands and managed a clumsy smile.

"Somebody was murdered?"

"Why didn't you say so, Lieutenant? I have nothing to hide."

"That's better. Much better."

"Do I know the victim?"

"You know him. Fred Duncan."

Strobe's face closed up against us in a sudden withdrawal. He stood, guardedly silent.

"Did you see Duncan last night?" Nola asked.

"No, sir."

"Yesterday at all?"

"During the afternoon."

"Where?"

"At his place of employment, the Merchant's Trust."

"And before that?"

"Not for a good many years."

"I understand he worked under you on a detail assigned to the District Attorney's office some time back."

"That's right."

"You knew him when he was pensioned off the force?"

"Yes, sir. After a bullet wound incapacitated him."

"And except for yesterday you had not seen him since that time."

"That is correct." Strobe's eyes were veiled and wary.

"Would you tell me why, Sergeant, after all these years of separation, on the afternoon of the day Duncan was murdered, you suddenly decided to renew your acquaintance?"

Strobe threw me a poisonous look. He knew that I had linked his name with Duncan's. He knew, too, that it would be pointless to squirm around known facts. He spoke evenly, choosing his words with care. . . .

MEETINGS BANNED

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—South Africa's Nationalist government today banned all public meetings of all races until June 30 in the major cities of Johannesburg, Durban and Capetown as racial tensions increased in the wake of this week's bloody riots.

Many of these people have gone with Governor Hodges to New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Western Europe, and throughout much of the United States to help "sell" the advantages and opportunities North Carolina has to offer industry. Their efforts have not been in vain as the record below will show.

THE RECORD — Let's take the five year period, 1955-59, for example and see just what has been done to promote further industrial development of North Carolina.

During this period records compiled by the Department of Conservation and Development show that a total of $1,037,000,000 was announced for investment in 1,337 new plants and plant expansions in North Carolina. These new and expanded plants provided jobs for more than 109,000 workers and payrolls annually of almost $341 million.

It is a matter of growing gratification to Governor Hodges and all others who have had a hand in making this record. It is also noteworthy that during each of the past five years gains have been made each year over the preceding one in the number of new and expanded plants, additional jobs created, and payrolls added.

Little wonder, then, that the present Governor of North Carolina is proud of what has been accomplished during the first five full years of his administration. He knows—and he never hesitates to say—that the record is due to work of all and not just a few.

Next January Governor Hodges will revert to the role of a private citizen. Historians of the future will weigh what was done during his unusually long tenure as the State's chief executive.

But if North Carolina's most traveled chief executive could have his say in what these historians will write he would insist with characteristic Hodges vigor that whatever credits are given are bestowed upon the thousands of North Carolinians who believed as he did and who worked instead of talking about what should be done.

SLEEK & SOLID

Sleek describes what meets the eye. Solid covers the hidden virtues. For sure, you want the beauty. For sure, you want the brawn. Add the Fury V-8 power plant and you get the best of all in the sleek, Solid 1960 Plymouth.

Sleek means several things about the 1960 Plymouth. The neat, trim lines. The styling that says "no wasted metal, no wasted motion." The sure way this car daggars through the wind.

Solid fits, too. It means the strength and durability built into Plymouth's one-piece welded Unibody. It means the steady stance of Torsion-Aire Ride. It means the surging V-8 power up front.

This just might be your car. Best way to find out is to see your Plymouth dealer. This week's a good time. He'll supply the Solid Plymouth for your once-over. You can supply the rest of the words.

Recession Is Not Seen Before 1961

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP) — The next recession won't come before 1961 at the earliest, government economists predicted today.

Officials reported privately that national output in this quarter has reached the rate of about 500 billion dollars a year, the largest gain in any quarter since 1950.

This was an advance estimate of the actual figure, but officials said the preliminary studies indicate the final report won't be far off the half-trillion dollar mark, one way or the other.

This would represent an advance of roughly 16½ billion dollars since the last quarter of 1959, when the economy was still beset by the steel strike and its after effects. The gain, largest since the outbreak of the Korean War, was accomplished without price inflation and in the face of a February slowdown in steel and auto production.

Much of the first quarter gain was attributed to industry's race to replace inventories depleted during the 115-day steel shutdown which ended early in November. This inventory replacement took less time than was expected and a slower rate of accumulation is expected from now on.

Nevertheless, continued gradual production gains through the year were foreseen by government experts interviewed privately. They did not share the uncertainty in financial circles which has been reflected in recent stock market slumps and a rapid easing of credit.

The government analysts are relying on a substantial rise in industry's outlays for new plants, machinery and equipment to keep the economy expanding.

Corporations have notified the Commerce Department and Securities and Exchange Commission of plans to increase such outlays this year by 14 per cent over 1959. The rate in the second half of the year is scheduled to reach a record 33 billion dollars annually.

Some officials believe it will go higher. They think expansion and modernization outlays may rise to a rate of 39 or even 40 billion dollars annually by fall.

This buoying force may diminish in 1961, as the companies taper off their expansion outlays to let demand catch up with their new capacity.

Then would be the time to look for a recession, one highly placed official said. But as for 1960, he continued, "a recession is conceivable this year only if the automobile industry goes sour."

The Washington economists profess to be unworried by the recent sharp slumps in stock prices, the simultaneous rise in prices of government bonds, the general easing of credit and the decline of interest rates.

Although these are symptoms which frequently have indicated that business expects a recession, the government men found three explanations which they consider sufficient to account for the shift in business psychology.

The first is the indication of price stability, discouraging market speculation. The second is that the government, running a good budget surplus, is paying off debt instead of borrowing new money, thus leaving substantial amounts of private funds seeking other investments.

The third is that corporation profits are breaking records. Companies therefore can finance their plant and equipment expansion very largely by using retained earnings instead of borrowing for that purpose.

As Your Congressman

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY

MAY 28, 1960

Here is what his colleagues say about your congressman!
Here's the proof! It's on the record!

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENTS HAVE BEEN MADE ON HIS BEHALF IN WORTHY RECOGNITION AND HIGH REGARD FOR HIS CONSCIENTIOUS SUPPORT TO AGRICULTURAL PROGRAMS!

THESE ACCOUNTS ARE TAKEN FROM A RECENT HEARING BY THE SUB-COMMITTEE ON AGRICULTURAL APPROPRIATIONS OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES HELD IN THE NATION'S CAPITOL!

AT WHICH TIME A PITT COUNTY DELEGATION OF FARMERS AND BUSINESSMEN APPEARED.

"He has always been a strong supporter of Agriculture, and particularly the Soil Conservation Service, and the Agricultural Conservation Program."

—JAMIE L. WHITTEN, REPRESENTATIVE FROM MISSISSIPPI—
Sub-Committee Chairman

"I don't know of any man in the Congress more dedicated to the welfare of our Nation, especially agriculture, than Mr. Bonner."

—H. CARL ANDERSEN, REPRESENTATIVE FROM MINNESOTA—
Sub-Committee Member

"I would like to associate myself with the remarks uttered by the chairman and Mr. Andersen about our colleague, Mr. Bonner. As a former member of the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, I enjoyed the chairman's inspiration and guidance that he gave."

—ALFRED E. SANTANGELO, REPRESENTATIVE FROM NEW YORK—
Sub-Committee Member

"We are very proud of the representation that Mr. Bonner has given us in the First Congressional District of North Carolina. We think a lot of Mr. Bonner, and he rendered us a service."

—DR. PAUL JONES, PITT COUNTY, FARMVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA—
Chairman of Your Local Committee

"I want to compliment the gentlemen from North Carolina on their wise choice of a good Representative in Congress. We like Herb Bonner around here. He is a hard worker, too."

—WALT HORAN, REPRESENTATIVE FROM WASHINGTON—
Sub-Committee Member

"Mr. Bonner is always dependable. We have never lacked his support in a program of this kind."

—FRED MARSHALL, REPRESENTATIVE FROM MINNESOTA—
Sub-Committee Member

"I consider him one of the outstanding Members of the House."

—WILLIAM H. NATCHER, REPRESENTATIVE FROM KENTUCKY—
Sub-Committee Member

HE HAS BEEN INDUSTRIOUS AND ENERGETIC IN SUPPORTING SUCCESSFUL FARM PROGRAMS! HIS SERVICE HAS BENEFITED THE FARMER! YOU OWE HIM A VOTE OF CONFIDENCE!

Experience Is Your Safest Investment!

Two Convicts Give Selves Up After Dramatic Siege

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Two mean, armed convicts who had threatened a mass murder of 19 hostages walked quietly from a captured office at the Tennessee Penitentiary Thursday, ending a dramatic 25-hour siege.

In a sudden and almost anticlimactic ending, Robert Rivera and Raymond Farra handed over their two pistols and four knives and surrendered after state officials agreed to their scaled-down demands.

The hostages, three women and 16 men, were released unharmed. Warden Lynn Bomar said the pistols might have come from a guard, not identified, who was fired last month for smuggling guns into the prison. He said the former guard was not prosecuted, but charges may be filed against him now.

Farra, 25, a native of Borderland, W. Va., is listed on prison records as insane and capable of murder. He is serving a life sentence for kidnapping. He was committed to the prison after escaping from a mental institution.

Rivera, 24, from Temple, Tex., was called by officials "one of the most dangerous prisoners ever to enter this penitentiary." He is serving 40 years for armed robbery.

The pair grabbed 21 hostages at the deputy warden's office shortly after 3 p.m. Wednesday as prisoners were being paid scrip for work done.

"They poked a gun in my face and I knew they meant it," said J. W. Trousdale, 57, one of the five prison guards they seized. "I don't think I ever spent a worse day."

One hostage, inmate Sam Broyles, was released during the night because he was ill. Another, Jack Warrick, a telephone operator-guard, was turned loose several hours later for the same reason.

Rivera and Farra first demanded a car and three state employees as shields to accompany them on a run for freedom. This was flatly refused.

After a tense night and day of negotiating with state and prison officials, they finally came out under this signed and notarized agreement:

They would be taken to the Davidson County Jail here "unharmed, unmolested and unharassed" to stay until the courts act on their petitions for writs of habeas corpus. They would not lose their good behavior time as a result of the rebellion.

The agreement, signed by Corrections Commissioner Keith Hampton, three lawyers and the convicts, was contingent upon it being published in Thursday's afternoon's Nashville Banner. It also stipulated Farra and Rivera would not be placed in solitary confinement or in the prison's maximum security unit.

The Banner published an extra edition to carry the agreement.

Mrs. Jerry Tarpy, an accounting clerk at the prison and one of the women hostages, said on her release, "We never were really terrified. They didn't threaten us. But they had those guns. We didn't sleep."

The first break in the protracted negotiations came shortly after noon when Rivera emerged from the deputy warden's office, accompanied by Clifton Cotton, an inmate who often acts as a legal adviser for fellow prisoners.

Rivera was given a notarized statement by Charles Moss, the Banner's executive editor, promising to publish the agreement as soon as the hostages were released.

The hard faced Texan took this back, saying he thought he could talk Farra into giving up.

But nearly three hours passed before Farra came out alone to talk with Hampton. The commissioner said Farra wanted assurances he would not be harmed if he gave up.

Five High Schools To Be Represented In Debates

Ten debating teams representing five high schools in Eastern North Carolina will compete at East Carolina College Tuesday, March 29, in a district contest sponsored by the N. C. High School Debate Union. Dr. Rachel Kilpatrick of the college department of English is chairman of arrangements.

Participating in the debates here will be an affirmative and a negative team from each of the following schools: Bath, William R. Davie of Roanoke Rapids, Gatesville, Havelock and New Bern. These teams were winners in contests preliminary to the district debates here. Only schools with both affirmative and negative winning teams were selected to compete on the district level.

After rounds of afternoon debates at the college, two affirmative and two negative teams will be chosen to compete in finals to be conducted Tuesday night. Judges will be college faculty members. The winning team on each side will enter the State High School Debate Contest later this spring. This year's query is "Resolved, That the federal government should substantially increase its regulation of labor unions."

High school students who will debate at East Carolina are: affirmative teams—Kay Burbage and Juanita Cahoon, Bath; Connell Shearin, Edward Morrison, Davie; Paulette Wester, Douglas Freeman, Jr., Gatesville; Charles denham, Patricia Shea, Havelock; Marshal Ball, Richard McNally, New Bern; negative teams—Christine Waters, Lois Waters, Bath; Shirley Bullington, Carolyn Pearson, Davie; Rebecca Taylor, Richard Freeman, Gatesville; Carol Joy Miller, Alton Ray Lanier, Havelock; and Mary Lynn Kelso, David Zach, New Bern.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW! By FAGALY and SHORTEN and told the 1,200 members: "That was a freshly laid egg. When I first came here the eggs were rotten."

The outburst was touched off by a resolution introduced by Charles H. Robinson, president of Local 234. Robinson refused to hear a motion from the floor on an amendment to the resolution.

He then tried to introduce Quill, but Quill said he would not speak unless the members had their say.

That's when he was splashed with the egg. Another one missed him.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market's three-day rally foundered on mild profit taking early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point peppered the list of key stocks. Steady issues made wider moves up and issues made wider moves up or down.

The market was higher at the start and it looked as if stocks might carry the advance through the fourth straight session. Demand slackened, however, and as trading diminished prices softened, leaving an irregular pattern with a drag toward the down side.

Evidence of an easier credit situation continued to come from Federal Reserve Board statistics. Although auto makers were cutting back production this week, there was a sharp pickup in new car sales in mid-March.

Drugs and airlines had a slightly higher edge. Rails, coppers, aircrafts and the big three motors declined.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.33 at 622.27. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down .20 to 216.10 with the industrials down .40, the rails down .20 and the utilities unchanged.

Corporate bonds were narrowly mixed. U.S. government bonds drifted lower.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog markets steady to mostly 25 higher. Tops of 15.25 to 16.75 at Wilson; 15.50 to 16.25 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Newton Grove and Mount Olive; 15.25 to 16.25 at Smithfield; 15.50 to 16.00 at Bethel, Murfreesboro, Sunbury, Eden and Nahunta; 15.00 to 15.50 at Rocky Mount; 15.75 at Tarboro, Enfield, Scotland Neck, Castle

Bootleg Charges Facing Woman

Pitt County ABC officers filed two charges against a local Negro woman involving possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale as a result of finding the woman with a half-gallon par-of "white lightning" on Pamlico Ave. yesterday morning.

ABC Chief J. M. Ward said Edna Corbett was arrested following a short foot race when officers saw her carrying a half gallon jar of non-taxed booze down the street.

Ward said after the Corbett woman was arrested a search warrant was secured and officers searched her house, finding three and one-half gallons of booze in the attic of the dwelling and one-half gallon of illegal spirits in the living room.

She was released under a $300 bond for appearance in court here Monday.

ABC officers H. B. Lilley and Walter Taylor also took part in the arrest.

Not Pessimistic On Area Outlook

BETHEL—John Winfield of the State Department of Agriculture told Bethel Rotarians Tuesday that though there has been a sharp decrease in income as related to economic conditions since 1950, he is not pessimistic about the situation in Eastern North Carolina.

Winfield said, "We have in this section the type of soil that will produce many things and is good for diversification." He noted that Eastern North Carolina is one of the most progressive sections of the state.

Pitt County is high in production of tobacco, he said, and is one of the top five counties in the state in production of corn, hogs and chickens. He called attention to the fact that Pitt is a large county with much cleared land and opportunities are in abundance.

Winfield, head of the Markets Division of the State Department of Agriculture, was introduced by Rotarian Bob Cullifer, who was in charge of the program.

Club President Bob Martin presided at the weekly Rotary meeting. Harold Staton, program chairman, announced that Vance Bunting is in charge of the next meeting.

Heavy Loss In Auto Collision

Over $1,000 damage was reported by Greenville officers yesterday when two cars collided in the 1200 block of Evans Street about 8:30 a.m.

According to officers, Maebell Reese King, Negro of Route 2, Greenville was charged with failure to yield the right of way when she allegedly pulled from the curb into the path of an oncoming car being operated by William Arthur Gladson, 36, of 1306 North Pitt St.

Damage to the Gladson car was set at $500 while $550 damage was done to the King auto.

An estimated $90 damage resulted to a car being driven by Mrs. Beverly Joyner of 1804 East Third St. about 4:36 p.m. yesterday when it was involved in a collision at the intersection of Fourth and Meade Sts.

Driver of the second car involved was listed by officers as Mrs. M. D. Jolly of Route 1, Ayden.

Officers who said no damage resulted to the Jolly vehicle made no charges in the case.

Last Rites Set For Mrs. Earl Crawford

VANCEBORO — Mrs. Lanie Crawford, 43, wife of Earl Crawford of Vanceboro, died enroute to St. Luke's Hospital in New Bern from her home Thursday afternoon. She had been ill for the past four months.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Vanceboro Christian Church at 11 a.m. Saturday by the pastor, the Rev. Henry Speight, and burial will be in the Vanceboro Cemetery.

Mrs. Crawford, daughter of Mrs. Zedie Parker of Vanceboro and the late Richard Parker, spent all her life in the Vanceboro community. She was a member of the Vanceboro Christian Church and the Woman's Betterment Association.

Surviving are her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Bettie Harris of the home and Mrs. Alton Ray Gaskins of Vanceboro; a son, Richard Earl Crawford of the home; two grandchildren; her mother; a brother, Harry R. Parker of Indio, Calif.; and two sisters, Mrs. H. L. Forrest and Mrs. H. D. Forrest of Vanceboro.

Wins Promotion In Nat'l Guard

The promotion of Allen Taylor, Greenville radiologist, from major to the rank of lieutenant colonel in the North Carolina Army National Guard, was announced today by N. C. Gov. Luther H. Hodges.

Lt. Col. Taylor was born in Greenville where he now resides at 102 S. Harding St.

Taylor received his medical degree from Duke University in Durham in 1947.

He served with the United States Army Reserve from March, 1946, until August, 1946. He joined the Maryland National Guard in July, 1949, and served with that organization until September of that same year.

At that time, he joined the NCG with the Medical Company, 119th Infantry, in Wilson and served with that unit until March of last year.

Due to reorganization of the 30th Infantry Division last April, Taylor was transferred to Headquarters Company, 2nd Battle Group, 119th Infantry, in Rocky Mount, the unit of his present assignment.

Bonner Making Political Swing

Congressman Herbert C. Bonner appeared on a program on television station WNCN this morning. At noon today he was scheduled to be in Washington, N. C. for a Belles for Bonner meeting.

The congressman has a speech scheduled before the Bethel Rotary Club next Tuesday night.

Conley Talks At S. Ayden School

AYDEN — South Ayden and Grifton School representatives listened to Pitt County Schools Supt. D. H. Conley describe the county's promotion system at a joint professional meeting in the South Ayden library here Wednesday.

Demonstrations on the value of numbers in arithmetic and reading were presented by Mrs. A. E. Jackson of the Grifton faculty and Mrs. N. B. Jackson of South Ayden.

Demonstrations were followed by a question-and-answer period in which the teachers shared their classroom experiences.

S. Ayden Glee Club Entertains

AYDEN—Members of the South Ayden High School Glee Club traveled to Wilson yesterday to entertain patients at Eastern Sanatorium with a musical program.

SAHS Glee Clubbers staged their program in the hospital's auditorium in front of a large gathering, while other patients listened via the plant's intercommunications system.

The program was presented at the request of Chaplain Westmoreland of the sanatorium.

Included in the one-hour production were solos by Shirley Coward and Nelda Ormond and selections by the NFA quartet. Mrs. C. E. Davis, choral director, accompanied the group.

He is a member of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church where he serves on the Board of Stewards. He is a Mason, a Shriner, and a local Kiwanian.

The campaign manager attended the Greenville City Schools and East Carolina College.

He said campaign plans for the county will be announced later.

CAT-ASTROPHE

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A cat jumped at some birds perched on a bank of electrical transformers. He lost all nine of his lives via 13,000 volts, missed his prey and put 4,000 homes without electricity for half an hour.

Meet the New Members of this New Furniture Store

Their supreme sincere efforts will be directed to giving good values, pleasant, understanding service.

Each member of this organization is experienced in the fine art of home furnishing; each has special training in his particular line; each knows that the purchase of good furniture represents a sizable investment; each knows that the selection of furniture should be for a long service period and is therefore very important; each knows that almost every individual has different ideas as to what they want and need; each well knows the importance of selecting the type furniture you want and would appreciate in establishing your home exactly as you want it. You will certainly enjoy shopping in this new, recently redecorated store—a store featuring only the smartest in styles and the utmost in values.

A New Redecorating Service . . .

Some customers will call this redecorating service, and it really is. However, we at Collins like to think of it as a consultant feature; it means simply this: when needed, we will be delighted to give you our views as to proper styles, correct colors, plus the elements of room association. It is much easier and far less expensive to have your furnishings selected with a view of each piece showing its proper relation to other pieces in the room. This is particularly important when colors are involved. We will enjoy discussing these very important features with you regardless of what you need.

Complete Room Ensembles Displayed . . .

Our visual displays will enable you to picture from a practical standpoint exactly how your furniture would look in your home. In these displays you will see an abundance of evidence indicating the importance of proper style and color combinations.

You Will Like Our Plain Customer Policy . . .

You will recognize quickly the keen and sympathetic interest of any member of our sales organization. You will truly appreciate the sincere efforts in helping you select the correct pieces. If necessary, they will gladly visit your home, study your architecture and get from you your ideas of what you want. This is a no-charge service at this store. You will really like our manner of doing business and we do hope to serve you any time.

T. B. LUPTON . . . Manager
Aurora Store

We also plan extensive improvements in our Aurora store. This store will be maintained for the purpose of serving our customers and friends in that fine community. The full assets of our main store in Greenville and our warehouses will be available to any and all our Aurora customers.
