U.S. Launches Weather-Watch Satellite Into Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A robot weatherman was hurled into orbit around the earth today and promptly started sending back signals that may contribute greatly to forecasting.

consisted of photographs of the cloud cover. "We are hopeful that they are pictures," he said, "but whether they are we do not know at this point."

be a circle of about 380 miles from the earth. Silverstein added that the satellite was injected into its orbit at an angle within three one-thousandths of a degree of that planned for it.

stations have interrogated the satellite but it takes time to interpret the results. He said that "all we have yet are some dots, but there's a good chance we might have pictures today."

chief scientist said there is a long-shot chance its findings might contribute to current forecasts. The scientist, Dr. Harry Wexler, said the plan is to check weather indications radioed back from Tiro I against what actually develops a day or so later.

over Santa Cruz, Argentina. Later models, with more instruments, are to be rocketed into polar orbit to survey all earth as the planet spins below.

They said at 8:30 a.m. that the tracing station at Ft. Monmouth, N.J., had picked up signals from both of the satellite's radios but they were not able to determine at that time whether the Ft. Monmouth station had been able to "program" the satellite to turn on its cameras.

stages of the Thor-Able booster rocket performed perfectly, and the satellite separated from the third stage right on schedule. Roaring a steady stream of red-orange flame from its 165,000-pound thrust engine, the 99-foot rocket lifted from its pad and raced into the early morning sky.

Rev. Ottaway Talks On Cancer

BETHEL—The Rev. Richard Ottaway of the Episcopal Church of Greenville was guest speaker Wednesday when the Home Demonstration Club met in the Bethel Home Economics Department.
Choosing the subject, cancer, he showed a film on human cells and their function in the body. Also, how a diseased cell soon effects the whole body. The film showed the progress of a cancerous cell and the necessary steps to control its growth.
The Rev. Ottaway said 4,400 out of 4 1/2 million North Carolinians died of cancer in 1958.
"More lives are being saved through education," he stated, "and Home Demonstration Club members are some of the best informed people and should share their knowledge as much as possible."
Leader reports were heard from Mrs. F. C. James, home beautification leader, who advised pruning non blooming shrubbery and fertilizing jonquils and pecan trees.
In the absence of the education leader, Mrs. R. B. Edmondson, gave a report on the number of books read at The Home Demonstration Club on Tuesday and that the members made bed rest for a project.

Mrs. Lewis Ayers, health leader, gave the demonstration on First Aid. She stated that in case of an accident give immediate temporary care until a doctor arrives, making the patient as comfortable as possible. She stressed the danger of giving liquid to an unconscious person. She also explained the treatment of dog bites.
The president, Mrs. Dennis Hardy, presided at a short business session. The various county meetings scheduled for March and April were discussed.
Mrs. R. R. James led the group in several games after which the meeting adjourned with the club collect.

Gardening Today

JOHN G. DUNCAN
Areas that will not bear grass, such as those under certain trees or on exposed hillsides, or in densely shaded places, present a very hard to maintain spots in our lawns and gardens. These problems can best be solved by the use of adequate attractive ground covers.

Banks and shaded areas can be contained and made attractive by Periwinkle (Violet).

Not only do the roots of these plants hold soil in place, but the evergreen foliage and the pink, white, lilac blue, and purplish flowers seem to change the atmosphere of the entire area.

Vinca Minor or running myrtle is a low growing member of the family; and Vinca Major grows a bit taller. Both, however, have the same tenacious habit of holding the soil.

Pachyzandra or Japanese laurel is a member of the Box family and is efficient ground cover in shady locations. It grows to about 12 inches tall and has white flowers that are borne in white terminal spikes.

The variegated variety of this plant has leaves bordered and variegated with white. It can be used in the shade of taller growing plants such as Holly, Camellias, and others of like habit. It is also useful as edging along wooded paths.

English Ivy (Hedera Helix) is a good ground cover in areas that won't grow grass. They like a rich moist soil. They are useful as edgings along a walk or path. In fact, the use of this plant as a ground cover seems to be a wiser choice than letting it run all over the side of the house where it presents problems as birds nesting in its leaves, rotting of wood, pushing gutters out of place and often causing masonry damage.

Liriope or Lily turf grows as well in sun as it does in shade. It is also good as edgings along walks, under bird baths, or along the sides of garden pools.

It multiplies rather fast and additional plants can be gotten by division of old established plants. The white or small lilac purple flowers are added attraction in the garden or on the home grounds.

As tall growing plants present a traffic hazard when they are used as drive ways that open into city streets or highways, Liriope when used in place of such plants will give you the same attractive appearance to your grounds.

Canby pachistima is a small leaf evergreen with red berries. It makes a matted mass that grows to six or eight inches high. While this may be a bit out of its locale, you might want to try some to see how it works out.

In preparing sights for ground covers, cut in one bale of peat moss on each 250 square feet of area to be used. Spread this on about one inch thick and over-spread this with shredded cow manure of the same dept. Cut this into the ground with hoe fork, spade or shovel.

Ground covers can be made more attractive by interplanting such bulbs as Narcissus in the cover mass. Ground covers should do away with those unsightly spots and help with your erosion problems.

League Gives Dinner For New Members

GRIFTON—The Grifton Service League annual dinner meeting to recognize new members was held Tuesday night in the Educational Building of the Methodist Church. Ladies of the WSCS served a fried chicken dinner. Decorations of daffodils and greenery with lighted candles decorated the tables. The place cards were decorated with the Service League Emblem.

Mrs. W. M. January gave the welcome and the invocation was said by Mrs. Edward Bright. The history of the Service League, begun in 1955, was given by Mrs. John Glenn. Committee reports were heard.

Mrs. January presented to Mrs. Paul Fisher a silver bowl in token of her outstanding work in the Service League for the past year. New members are Mesdames Jack Carson, Billie Cox, Tucker McGlohon, Ed Sutton, Willie Paget, Nick Sustinger, Frank Christopher, Kenneth Waltenbaugh.

Street-ch-ing Dollars

RALEIGH—It's fish and seafood time. Fresh fish will be in good supply and the availability of many popular types of fishery products means that almost every taste can be accommodated.

Mrs. Ruby P. Uzzle, consumer marketing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, says crab meat, fish sticks, mullet, oysters, shad, shrimp, flounder, Spanish mackerel and whiting are some of the more plentiful fish and seafood selling at attractive prices.

Smoked pork products remain the most reasonable priced in the pork line. More high quality beef will be coming to market with roasts, ground beef and some steaks among the better buys.

Mrs. Uzzle says leafy greens and sweet potatoes are rather plentiful this week. Florida cabbage and Georgia green onions are budget buys. Prices are lower on tomatoes, iceberg lettuce, celery, carrots, and asparagus. New Irish potatoes from Florida are higher in price due to this year's smaller crop.

Egg prices are advancing but large eggs remain an excellent choice for protein in Lenten meals. Remember to use plenty of eggs during the Easter season. Prices remain about steady on fryers.

Oranges and grapefruit are still good fresh fruit values. Select those heavy for size for best quality. Pineapples and bananas are very reasonably priced. Consider frozen strawberries and juices, canned fruits and juices for extra savings in fruits.

Bridge Clubs

GRIFTON—Mrs. Roger Johnson was hostess Thursday night to members of her bridge club at her home on McRae Street.

Guests were received in the living room where spring flowers were used as decorations.

Three tables were in play and high scores were held by Mrs. Walter Patrick and Mrs. Woodrow Smith among the club members and Mrs. Clifton Jackson for guests.

Other players were Mesdames W. E. Rasberry, Milton Hart, Julius Chauncey, Glendel Tucker, John Glenn, Willie Paget, Bryan Davis, Ray Jackson, David Parker.

A salad plate with sandwiches and tea was served at the refreshment hour.

GRIFTON—Mrs. Jack Chapman was hostess at a bridge supper on Thursday night at her home on Church Street with 16 guests.

Arrangements of daffodils and other early spring flowers were used throughout the home. A fried chicken supper was served buffet style and later individual lemon pies served as dessert.

Four tables were in play and Mrs. Thurman Williams and Mrs. Robert Mewborn compiled highest scores during the games.

Making up the tables were Mesdames Mewborn, Williams, W. I. Bissette, H. P. Quinerly, Alton Chapman, J. L. Tucker, Dewey Wall, Richard Nelson, Louise J. McCotter, J. L. Quinerly, L. L. Mewborn, Miss Hazel Patrick and Miss Bert Johnson.

Rev. Hadden Tells Of Family Life In A Christian Home

The Rev. W. J. Hadden Jr. was guest speaker at the Cosmos Book Club when it met at the home of Mrs. W. M. Scales Jr. on Tuesday afternoon.

Hadden, who is pastor of the Eighth St. Christian Church, talked to the group on "Family Life in the Christian Home." He emphasized that there are three things that a Christian home needs and they are faith, hope and love. "And the greatest of these is love," he said.

Mrs. Scales introduced Mrs. Hadden, who was also a guest of the club.

A dessert course consisting of chocolate ice box cake and coffee was served by Mrs. Scales, assisted by Mrs. Richard Gaylord, Mrs. Sidney Dunn, and Mrs. V. S. Harrington. Mrs. Scales' daughter, Margaret, also aided in serving.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. James Smith invited the club to meet at her river cottage for lunch for the first meeting in April.

More Than Two Months Of Effort

Governor Hodges' praise for the industrial development effort now being put forth in Eastern North Carolina is in sharp contrast with his words of two months ago in which he severely criticized the section for not trying to help itself to further development.

Speaking to representatives of 35 counties at an industrial development conference in Goldsboro yesterday, Gov. Hodges pointed out that "never before in the history has there been as much activity in Eastern North Carolina as there is at this moment." He cited figures to show that during the first two months of 1960 some 32 industrial projects had been announced in this section of the state.

The implication was that since the governor spoke so sharply to the East that the easterners have waked up and started trying to attract industry. Certainly anyone who has worked with industrial prospects in any community knows things do not start from scratch and develop that rapidly.

If there hadn't been considerable effort in this part of the state toward industrial development prior to the first of the year, it is highly improbable that 14 new industries and 18 plant expansions would have been located in the area in the first two months of 1960. More than likely most of the new industries and plant expansions had been in the works for many months before they were announced, and communities of the East had been working with these prospects long before Gov. Hodges made his January statement highly critical of the East.

The results cited by Gov. Hodges in his speech in Goldsboro yesterday tend to indicate that the governor was not fully aware of just what efforts were being made toward industrial development in Eastern North Carolina when he made his January statement.

Having more carefully evaluated the effort being put forth by the East, perhaps the governor in the future will be more in sympathy with what is being done in the Coastal Plain section to develop new industries. It is to be hoped that this section of the state will be able to continue its economic development on a par with those figures cited by the governor for January and February. In those two months, he said, there was developed in this section a potential for more than 1,000 new industrial jobs that would mean some $3.5 millions in additional annual payrolls.

With this, added to the $12.9 million in new payrolls for the section realized through industrial development in 1959, it appears that the East is off to a good start for 1960.

While the Eastern part of the state is proud of the progress that has been made in its effort to raise the economic level through industrial development, no one knows better than the people of this section that a great deal yet remains to be done. The effort toward industrialization must be continued and intensified throughout the area if the higher economic level is to be reached.

Rep. Doughton Of N. Carolina

(During absence of Lynn Nisbet, candidate for Governor, Lieutenant Governor and United States Senator has been invited to write a guest column, stating his views.)

By C. V. HENKEL
Democratic Candidate for Lieutenant Governor

MR. BOB—When Lynn Nisbet extended me the invitation to write a column during his convalescence, I figured that he didn't want me politicking all over the place so I decided to write about my favorite politician—statesman: Mr. Bob Doughton.

The dictionary says that politician and statesman are synonymous, and that, of course, is the way it really is, but for some reason that is obscure to me the public definition now is light-years different. I believe that the two are still inter-dependent and that a successful politician must be a successful politician or else he would never reach the position from which he can serve the public.

LOST PROVINCES—Mr. Bob's fabulous career as a public servant began when he was elected to the State Senate from little Alleghany County in the mountainous northwest which was then known as the "lost provinces," along with several other northwestern counties. The terrain was so rugged that it was extremely difficult in those days to build roads in and out of the area and these counties were literally "lost."

After one term in the State Senate Mr. Bob ran for the United States House of Representatives and was successful in defeating the incumbent. He ran a total of 21 times and served 42 years in the House of Representatives, longer than any other member in the history of the country, except one. He was Chairman of the all-powerful House Ways and Means Committee longer than anyone else in history.

Mr. Bob went on from this little county in a remote section to be one of the most powerful men in the United States. On the national scene he was regarded as the most important man in Washington with the exception of President Roosevelt and possibly Sam Rayburn. His capacity for growth was phenomenal. To be able to move from a life as a cattle dealer, a mountain farmer and a small country merchant to this position of great responsibility, and keep growing with the assignment all the time took a man of great ability and character and he really has both.

RUGGED—He not only was a politician's politician, he was a statesman's statesman, with a tremendous capacity for work and a great faculty for negotiation and accomplishment. Of all his many qualities I would first list his complete ruggedness. Rugged in every way. His regular schedule in Congress up until the last few years was to arrive at his office about five o'clock in the morning after having walked three or four miles to work. He finished his day at seven o'clock in the evening and usually walked home again. I remember him complaining in his later years in Congress that the world had turned soft, that people didn't want to work any more and he had reluctantly moved the opening hour of his office up until seven o'clock in the morning. He was about 85 years old then. He still wanted the old schedule, but the young people couldn't keep up with him.

Mr. Bob was rugged in his politics as well. In all his Congressional campaigns his majority ranged from less than 1,000 at one time to more than 40,000 at another. His other campaigns carried majorities between the two, and at one time or another (fortunately never all at one time) he failed to carry every county in the Ninth Congressional district except Ireland.

One of the things that I admired most about him was the way he did his campaigning. He realized to a very high degree the simple truth that to have a friend you must be one, and he never hesitated a moment to help a friend who needed it in a campaign or any other way. He never let that interfere with his own problems. Many a time I have seen him facing a tough race of his own, giving even more attention to a friend running for sheriff, Congress, and Legislature, Governor or the United States Senate when most politicians would have been looking after their own hide. But that was not his way of playing the game.

"MULEY"—He was equally rugged as a lawmaker. The national press gave him the name of "old muley." If you have worked mules as much as I have you know just what the nickname means. It means that once he made up his mind, determined his course and set his feet, dynamite wouldn't move him. He was there from then on and everybody knew where he stood. That is the highest compliment that can possibly be paid a public servant.

When Mr. Bob first went to Congress he defeated the Republican incumbent. At that time the Ninth Congressional district was Republican, but it has been Democratic ever since and it was his leadership that brought it about. In all the years when he was supplying the leadership to establish the Democratic party as the dominant one in the district we got to be known as the "Fighting Ninth" Congressional district and still are. In those earlier days we were fighting the other political party, but now when we are not doing that we spend our time fighting among us Democrats. But after all we think it makes for good government. It certainly creates a climate where the candidates get through scrutiny and the voters almost always have a choice between candidates.

Just how far can Nixon depart from Eisenhower's view of things—since too much difference might look like criticism—and still expect vigorous support from the President in the campaign?

2. Just what kind of program is his own? Is he going to think up? He is trying to get a farm program different from the administration's, or so it seems. And he has listed some points he says will be issues in the campaign.

But there is still a haze—although it's too early to expect him to get specific yet, with the campaign still months away—over how he is going to make his thinking look new or different from Eisenhower's.

Nixon himself said last January at a Chicago dinner that, "great as are our domestic problems," national security, and foreign policy transcend them all. Then he proceeded to defend the Eisenhower performance in both fields.

Since the Democrats have been continually critical of Eisenhower's vision in national defense, Nixon should be in a bit different from the President in dilemma saying much that is this field.

He can't join the Democrats in their criticism and he can't very well propose what the Democrats suggest without appearing to agree with them.

He outlined to the dinner five areas of the administration's record which probably will play a

Taxpayers Spared Big Expense In Committee

Taxpayers of the nation were spared a tremendously expensive and completely unnecessary expense when the House Ways and Means Committee refused to include in Social Security revisions a provision which would have provided national health insurance for retired persons.

The provision, known as the Forand Bill, would have cost taxpayers millions upon millions a year and put the federal government another giant stride down the road of credit-to-the-grave program of caring for people. It would have been a step toward socialized medicine and a step toward further socializing the country.

Although the committee turned down the proposal by a 17-8 vote, its sponsor, Rep. Aime J. Forand of Rhode Island said he will try to force a House vote on the proposal.

Certainly the House should follow the example of the committee in rejecting the proposal. In this election year, however, there will be those in Congress who are reluctant to turn down any such proposal which would mean more government money flowing to more people in the form of grants. In the long run, the federal government—and particularly the taxpayers—can ill afford to saddle themselves with such programs that will push us further toward complete socialism.

While the Forand bill is the kind of legislation that might have a better chance of being written into law during an election year than an off year, members of Congress who are interested in sound operations of the federal government surely should oppose the measure.

Nixon Program Isn't Shaped Up

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—At least a couple of things seemed settled last week in this otherwise rather quiet political week. On Monday Vice President Richard M. Nixon told a Nebraska audience he would not run for the presidency on the record of the Eisenhower administration alone but would have an expanded program of his own.

And Wednesday President Eisenhower told a news conference Nixon would be "absolutely stupid" to try to run on his administration's record alone. But what remains unsettled is this:

1. Just how far can Nixon depart from Eisenhower's view of things—since too much difference might look like criticism—and still expect vigorous support from the President in the campaign?

2. Just what kind of program is his own? Is he going to think up? He is trying to get a farm program different from the administration's, or so it seems. And he has listed some points he says will be issues in the campaign.

But there is still a haze—although it's too early to expect him to get specific yet, with the campaign still months away—over how he is going to make his thinking look new or different from Eisenhower's.

Nixon himself said last January at a Chicago dinner that, "great as are our domestic problems," national security, and foreign policy transcend them all. Then he proceeded to defend the Eisenhower performance in both fields.

Since the Democrats have been continually critical of Eisenhower's vision in national defense, Nixon should be in a bit different from the President in dilemma saying much that is this field.

major role in his campaign although exactly what his position on each will be is something he has to figure out. The American system is the best in the world, he said, "but inadequate classrooms, underpaid teachers and flabby standards are weaknesses we must constantly strive to eliminate."

That's all been said before. The question is: How? And right there Nixon seemed to follow the Eisenhower line. He cautioned that federal programs must not infringe upon state and local responsibility.

3. Agriculture: On this he said "there is no higher legislative priority than a complete over-hauling of obsolete farm programs under which the prices farmers receive for major farm production continue to go down and the costs to the taxpayers continue to go up." But Nixon still hasn't come up with his own farm program.

4. Social Security: Nixon said there is need for "more adequate methods for protecting the aged, the unemployed and the disabled."

Wednesday Eisenhower opposed any compulsory insurance system to provide medical care for the aged. In this field Nixon may break away from Eisenhower's thinking. But that's for the future to show.

5. Labor-management disputes: Nixon said these must be dealt with "so that the public interest may be more adequately protected but without controls which would stifle the productivity of our free enterprise system."

This will require some neat doing. Figuring out how on it to take up a lot of Nixon's time.

Stars And Stripes--1918

Millions of armed forces veterans remember "Stars and Stripes," the newspaper published for the services.

The paper followed the nation's fighting men through all the campaigns of World War II and also through the Korean Conflict.

However few are familiar with the original "Stars and Stripes." In fact only those veterans who served with the American Expeditionary Force which fought on the World War I battlefields of Europe can recall its first editions.

Resting on the book shelves of the East Carolina College library is a bound volume embracing a complete file of this newspaper from the day the first edition was published, Feb. 13, 1918, to the last issue, June 13, 1919.

As with so many newspaper files, this volume furnishes an almost complete history of World War I and it does it in a personalized way that the history books can't duplicate.

Unlike the more modern "Stars and Stripes" the WW I version was sold by means of subscriptions to the doughboy.

It also carried advertising and some familiar products of today cropped up on its pages.

Subscription promotion ads urged the soldiers to "let Stars and Stripes be a weekly letter from you to the folks back home. A Wrigley's chewing gum ad told the fighting fan: "It's a grand thing to march on. It makes thirst and fatigue take the back track. A little bit of USA to lighten and brighten a weary day."

"There was a '3-in One Oil' ad "for cleaning rifles" and Colgate Dental Cream was "found in the kits of all soldiers who know," the ads said. One writer, the New York correspondent, let his concern for lackadaisicalness state-side show in a June 14, 1918 article. "He told of the appearance of the Kaiser's U-Boats off New York."

"At night the city darkened itself and did it with neither panic nor objection. The Great White Way went out of business as easily as though the mere blowing out of a candle was involved. "Many of us are almost mournfully announces that it everyone he can think of to share it. When the guests run out of chairs, they sit on the floor.

On a more elaborate scale, he once put on a "baby party," decorating his apartment to represent a French sidewalk cafe, complete with little tables and candles in bottles. The guests, many of whom were well known persons, were asked to come dressed as infants. One young male socialist arrived in a pair of powder-blue rompers.

Mr. Y arranged for his old nurse, wearing starched white uniform, to wheel him into the room in a baby carriage. Decked out in a nightgown he was "rucking a pacifier. His Christmas cards in 1954 showed a trick picture he had taken of himself in three poses—a staid Victorian father, a demure Victorian mother complete with ostrich feathers, and a small boy in a sailor suit.

The question of whether or not the union of these two persons could prove happy is not at all hypothetical. For they are Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones, whose marriage is scheduled for May 6 at Westminster Abbey.

cause the vast aggregation of electric signs that devoured power and fuel disgracefully was one of business temporarily at least.

"The prodigal extravagance in electricity along Broadway has been a source of quiet but ardent objection by many thoughtful men."

"nobody kicked except irrepressible Coney Island which mournfully announces that it will have to go out of business if it is not permitted to set the heavens ablaze nightly.

"The ingenious amusement proprietors of the great hot dog resort proposed to compromise by putting the lights out for three days of each week, but the police suggested that they arrange the matter with the Kaiser. As the Kaiser cannot be reached at present, Coney Island remains doused."

An article on Nov. 8, 1918 announced there would be no turkey for Thanksgiving.

"General Pershing figured that 1,000 tons of TNT would be better for the AEF than 1,000 tons of turkey it would take to go around over here to say nothing of the tons of trimmings that go with the turkey."

But the next edition of the weekly paper, Nov. 15, brought tidings that must have made the doughboy forget the lack of Thanksgiving turkey. It was news of the firing of the last shots in the World War. For in between the two issues, on Nov. 11, the Armistice was signed ending the conflict.

From that day on, or course, it was just a matter of time before publication of "Stars and Stripes" would end.

The last issue, with ample notice in previous editions, appeared on June 13, 1919. It reported that many divisions had already been shipped home and others were slated to leave. The paper also reported that "Stars and Stripes" had made money during its existence and the profit had been turned back to the government.

In the last column of the last page, boxed up like a little inch ad, appeared "30"—The ancient newspaper symbol for the end.

"The Department of Labor has reiterated what many an employer has learned by himself: that office workers show no incline in either the quality or quantity of their work after passing the age of 45."—Breese (Ill.) Journal.

electronic computer operators, telephoneists, cleaning women and on and on.

WHETHER THE PROFITS? But granting and financing consumer credit is not an altruistic project to provide jobs and to assist sales. It is all done for a profit.

In fact, there are retail establishments that make more money on their share of consumer credit interest and fees than they do on their mark-up of goods.

And the money lenders, whether institutions or individuals, make a profit on their lending or factoring. The profits are far from inconsequential. It is this money that does not flow back into the stream of sales quickly if at all.

Take Figo Jones, a factor who finances a store's inventory and nets $100,000 a year. Some of it is spent, of course. What comes part of the money that pays for American goods and services. Some of it may be spent overseas, which does little for the United States economy.

But most of it is probably invested in new factories, or tucked away in safe-deposit vaults. Whatever is so saved is removed from the stream of consumer commerce for a while. And whatever that amount is, from $20,000,000 to $2.2 billion, it is lost by merchants and manufacturers as retail potential.

And if you have written a letter of protest, that's your answer. NEWS TO BE USED IN BUSINESS MANAGEMENT: A leaflet, "Is Your Staff Service-Minded," is free for asking the Small Business Administration, Washington 25, D. C.

A 15-page reference guide for light sources in the home is 10 cents. From Westinghouse, Box 388, Bloomfield, N. J. "A Businessman in Politics" is $3.75 from the American Management Association, 1515 Broadway, New York 18.

I see by the newspapers that you are in a quarrel with my colleague, Bill Hearst. You may imagine that he, in some manner, is my Boss because my articles appear in some newspapers owned by the Hearst Corporation. You believe that I must write what he wants me to and therefore that we have no freedom of the press.

One of your major difficulties is that you are too conservative, too inflexible. If you really wanted to know what a free press is, you should have tried to find out when you were here. Bill Hearst is a pretty good man, as editors and publishers go, but he has yet to tell a columnist what to write or what not to write. Only a fool would try to do that in this country.

For instance, my work is published in many newspapers daily. Some of these newspapers are Republican, Democratic or of no party. Some like what I write and some dislike what I write. Personally I do not know many of my editors.

Can you understand what I am saying to you? Why do they publish what I write or what Drew Pearson or Joseph Alsop or Walter Lippmann writes? It is only because they believe that their readers have the right to read what we say. Obviously when a man such as any one of us has so many editors and publishers, he cannot please all of them. Nor can they tell him what to say. What pleases one, may be hateful to another. So a writer is free as a bird to be wise or stupid, truthful or false, conceited or humble, honest or corrupt. In due course, the voice of the people will determine whether he should continue or not.

This is freedom of the press—part of it. You question whether anyone can write in the Hearst press, what Bill Hearst does not like. To say nothing more about myself, I read much in the Hearst press that Bill Hearst does not like and much in the Scripps-Howard press that Roy Howard does not like and in other newspapers that I am sure the owners are not pleased with.

I hope you grasp what I am telling you. Back in the early days of the Revolution, in 1917 and 1918, I was an editor of the "Russian Daily News" in Petrograd. I attended the Constituent Assembly and as my memory of faces goes, I did not see you there. I saw Lenin, Trotsky, Zinoviev, Kollant, Stalin and many others in the good old days of the Smolny. You must have been a young fellow then in the Ukraine. So the wheel of life turns—they are all dead now and you are on the top of the heap.

My little paper was anti-Bolshevik, even after Kerensky went to Gatchina. So one day, the Red Guards came along and closed the paper down. So, there was nothing to do. So, in due course, I was put on a train which ended its journey at Harbin.

Some Of The Interest Returns

By ELMER ROESSNER
Consumer credit outstanding is $52 billion and, if interest charges average only 10 per cent, $5.2 billion is being paid in interest instead of being spent for more goods and services.

That's what was said here yesterday. Today's mail hasn't been opened, but there are probably a dozen letters saying, "You dope! The money paid in interest is returned to the stream of spending eventually."

That's true, to an extent. The money paid in interest and other credit charges comes back with notable exceptions. The money paid in taxes also comes back, but again the exceptions are strong.

Let's see to what extent that $5.2 billion comes back.

Actually, the total is probably much higher. Revolving credit plans that charge 12 per cent a month on unpaid balances actually cost the consumer 18 per cent. Bank loans that cost 6 per cent of the total and which are paid off in 12 monthly payments actually cost almost 12 per cent on unpaid balances. And various fees, charges, insurance and other add-ons increase the actual rate considerably.

But these rates and charges create employment. If you can get a glimpse of the credit department of a large department store you may be surprised at the number of clerks, typists, accountants, billers and others there. All are employed; all are getting paychecks, most of which is spent for goods and services.

There are many more. There are investigators; there are workers at the local credit bureau; there are detectives; collectors, lawyers and judges; printers, advertising men and mailers, and many others.

Behind this front line are the banks, factors and others who put up the money to finance credit granted by merchants. Here are thousands more workers: accountants, clerks, typists, auditors, investigators, electronic computer operators, telephoneists, cleaning women and on and on.

WHETHER THE PROFITS? But granting and financing consumer credit is not an altruistic project to provide jobs and to assist sales. It is all done for a profit.

SOME OF THE CHARACTERISTICS AND RESULTS OF THE TEACHINGS OF CHRIST

Scripture—Matthew 4:23-7:29; 9:14-17; Mark 4:1-2, 10-13, 32-34

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. WE ARE introduced to this beautiful and helpful lesson by an account of Christ's preachings and healings in Galilee. "And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the Kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people. And His fame went throughout all Syria; and they brought unto Him all sick people that were taken with divers diseases and torments, and those which were possessed with devils, and those which were lunked, and those that had the palsy; and He healed them."—St. Matthew 4:23-24.

In this study of Jesus Christ's preaching we, of course, have not room to include this marvelous sermon which the Lord taught to the multitudes on the mountain top. The first 11 verses begin with the word "blessed"—"Blessed are the poor in spirit, for their's is the kingdom of heaven; Blessed are they that mourn; for they shall be comforted," blessed are the meek, the righteous, the merciful, the pure in heart, the peace-makers, and those persecuted for the sake of righteousness.—Matthew 5:1-11.

As concerns relationships between people, Christ said that if a man has a quarrel with another, he should not place his gift to God on the altar before he is reconciled to his brother. Christ also warned against divorce and the evils of unfaithfulness, of which we hear so much today. He forbade swearing by taking the Lord's name in vain. "Love your enemies . . .

Judea, and from beyond Jordan."—Matthew 4:25. "And seeing the multitudes, He went up into a mountain; and when He was set, His disciples came unto Him: And He opened His mouth, and taught them."—Matthew 5:1-2. "There had been much teaching in synagogues before this, but never man taught as this Man. There had never been any preaching of the gospel of the Kingdom before this. Occasional miracles of healing are recorded in the Old Testament by Elijah and Elisha, but there had never been on earth one continuous ministry of healing as was now undertaken by the Great Physician, nor has there been any like it since." I am quoting from Peloubet's Select Notes, edited by the Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, who also states, "We do not know exactly where the hill was on which Jesus delivered His Sermon on the Mount."

That ye may be the children of your Father in heaven." He said.—Matthew 5:33-48.

Do not be hypocritical, boasting of your charities. Give secretly to those in need, for God knows what you do and will reward you. And "When thou prayest, enter into thy closet and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to the Father which is in secret; and the Father, which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly."—Matthew 6:5-6.

There are 103 verses assigned to our lesson today, which cannot all be covered in the Sunday school lesson period of teaching. I may have omitted some that the teacher may consider more important, and he must choose what he considers so.

Remember that Christ said: "Think not that I am come to destroy the law or the prophets; I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill."—Matthew 5:17.

Baldness, To Men, Is Habit-Forming

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Some men are born bald—and others just get that way later in life. Very little is known about baldness except that, like cigarette smoking or martini drinking, it is habit-forming.

A fellow starts with a little baldness and brags he can take it or leave it alone. But he can't. In time he discovers it has the better of him.

Once a fellow has become a real addict of baldness the only known remedy is philosophy, taken in ever-increasing doses, and this remedy is actually more an opiate than a cure.

Baldness is the sternest test of character known to civilized mankind. If you look around the office or factory where you work, you will probably find a few of these familiar types of baldies:

The brave frontier—"My real name is George, but my friends call me cubell," he tells everyone he meets. His theory is that the best defense is a strong attack.

The frightened amateur—His hair is noticeably beginning to fall out but he won't admit it. "My wife pulled it out in a fight," he lies—the coward.

The eternal optimist—he has spent $6,000 on baldness cures over the last 30 years and still won't give up hope.

The romanticist—"It happened all at once with me," he explains. "During the first World War I had to crawl across a barbed wire barricade and through two miles of poison gas in no-man's-land to rescue a buddy. When I got back my hair had turned white—and the next day it all fell out.

The frantic deceiver—By exact count he has 12 hairs left on top of head. But by letting them grow long and combing them sideways across the great open spaces, he tries to give the impression he is a sheep dog.

The time-shared Romeo—He read somewhere that baldness is really a sign of virility, and since then no stenographer in the office has been safe within 20 feet of him. Behind his back they call him "Lill' ole coldpaws."

The realist—"So I'm bald—and so what else is new," he tells the jeering gang at the office water cooler. "Laugh, clowns, laugh. Tomorrow it will be my turn to laugh."

One thing all guys who lose their hair agree on. Baldness has one consolation—it is the quickest known way to end dandruff.

Vaccines Help Cancer Victims

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Vaccines made from their own cancers have helped and are helping a few cancer patients.

The vaccines tested in Dallas, Tex., and Buffalo, N.Y., mark one hopeful approach to a goal of making humans far more resistant to cancer.

Once in a rare while, people spontaneously recover from cancer. There are numerous other reasons to think the body has defense systems which could be strengthened, if scientists can learn how.

Several new steps toward boosting immunity were described to an American Cancer Society seminar for science writers.

The Dallas research brought some benefits to a few men given vaccines made from their own tumors. Most significantly, nine men treated showed an increase in antibodies, substances in the blood which can attack the cancer cells.

This work was reported by J. W. Finney, Russell H. Wilson, M. D. and Ph. D., and Ernest H. Byers, Ph. D., of the Veterans Administration Hospital at Dallas.

Their new findings support the results of Drs. John and Ruth Graham, husband and wife of Roswell Park Memorial Institute, Buffalo, N.Y., who for several years have used self-vaccines on at least 150 patients.

Some of the 150 patients have benefited, with a few living for three years beyond the time they might expectably have died, the Grahams reported.

"A main goal is: what can we do for patients," Dr. Wilson said, describing vaccine experiments on 15 men, all of whom since have died.

Red Oak Christian Announcements

Fifty-three people participated in the 14 HOUR CHAIN OF PRAYER at Red Oak Christian Church on Wednesday beginning at 6:00 a.m. The Pre-Easter Revival will be held April 10-15 at 7:30 p.m.

More than 200 men are expected to attend The Hookerton District Christian Men's Fellowship at Red Oak Community Building tonight at 7:00 p.m. A total of 212 have been pre-registered to attend the supper and program.

Mark Rutherford, nationally known Layman's Leader of Indianapolis, will speak to the group in the Sanctuary following the Business Meeting, Circle No. 1 will serve a barbecue supper.

The Rev. Howard James will preach Sunday morning on "PREPARE YE THE WAY OF THE LORD." Miss Nancy Allen, chairman of the Evangelism Committee will recognize the following visiting teams who will go out calling Sunday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. and Monday at 7:00 p.m. James Allen and Ed Harris, S. C. Winchester and Hobart Barnes, Milton May and Robert Allen, Amos Evans and Claude Manning, Bill Forbes and Jack Gray, Lyman Eason and R. E. Squires, Charles Jackson and Edgar Denton, Jesse Jomp and Jarvis Allen, Mrs. Hubert Garris and Miss Allen.

Mrs. Howard James will sing "Others." Flowers will be provided by Mr. and Mrs. Alva Worthing, Mrs. Celia Worthing and Mrs. Lucielle Worthing Hahn.

Circle No. 2 will serve a Luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Sunday to the Teams and Circle No. 3 will serve a supper for them at 6:30 p.m. Monday.

Easter Cantata Rehearsals will be held Tuesday and Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

The SCHOOL OF MISSIONS will be concluded Sunday night. At 6:00 p.m. all families will have a covered dish supper. Circle 3 will serve as hostesses, provide the drink and arrange the food.

Following the class period The Christian Youth Fellowship will present a play on Africa, "EDGE OF THE VILLAGE." The play, directed by Mrs. Charles Jackson, includes the following cast: Ami Eason, Charles W. Jackson, Jimmy Wynne, Joyce Jackson, Kathryn Winchester and Sue Allen.

Burglar Alarms But No Phones

PITTSBURGH, Kan. (AP)—The police department's telephone system went out and someone jokingly suggested burglars had cut the wires and were at work in a bank.

The burglar alarm from the State Bank started ringing.

The desk officer sent all cars to the bank and all available men at headquarters headed there on the run.

The burglar alarm from the First National Bank started ringing.

Then the telephone company's test room called to beg pardon for getting the wires crossed.

Only 2 Can Vote On Bond Issue

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — A million-dollar bond election will be held Saturday and only two persons are eligible to vote in it.

The election is open to resident property owners in Galveston County Drainage Dist. No. 4 Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Mendoza are the only residents in the marsh-like, 125-acre area near the Galveston Airport.

The money would be used to build an artificial lake that would drain the area into a bayou. About 25 property owners want to sell their land to a development company.

The election will be held at the Mendoza residence after they get home from work. He's a barber; she's a secretary.

Mrs. Mendoza refused to say how they would vote.

Horse Show Will Benefit Rescue Squad

PROPOSED SMOKE HOUSE . . . to be supported financially by The Greenville Saddle Club with their Horse Show proceeds, will join above tower in further equipping the local fire-rescue training facilities.

An estimated 100 entries from North Carolina and Virginia are expected for a horse show to be held at the Pitt County Fair Grounds Sunday at 1:30 p.m.

Liz Taylor Will Attend Ceremony

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Home from a Jamaican vacation, actress Elizabeth Taylor will attend the Motion Picture Academy Award ceremonies next Monday. She was nominated for the best actress award for her performance in "Suddenly Last Summer."

Miss Taylor arrived by plane with husband Eddie Fisher, who will visit his children by his former wife, Debbie Reynolds. The children, Carrie, 3, and Todd, 2, recently underwent minor surgery.

Grace F. W. B. Announcements

"Prodigal Parents People the Earth with Prodigal Children" will be the subject for the pastor's message in the 11:00 o'clock service. The service is scheduled to be broadcast over radio WOOV. The text will be I Samuel 3:13.

"For I have told him that I will judge his house for ever for the iniquity which he knoweth; because his sons made themselves vile, and he restrained them not."

Proverbs 29:15-18: "The rod and reproof give wisdom: but a child left to himself bringeth his mother to shame. When the wicked are multiplied, transgression increaseth; but the righteous shall see their fall. Correct thy son, and he shall give delight unto thy soul. Where there is no vision, the people perish; but he that keepeth the law, happy is he."

Several new members will be received into the church in the evening service at 7:45. A new deacon will be ordained. The ordinances of the Lord's Supper and Feet Washing will be a part of the service.

The monthly church conference will be conducted on Wednesday night at 7:45.

Christian Science

Overcoming of fatigue and weariness through entirely spiritual means will be a theme dealt with at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Scriptural readings in the Lesson-Sermon on "Unreality" will include the following from Isaiah (40:28,29): "Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? there is no searching of his understanding. He giveth power to the faint; and to them that have no might he increaseth strength."

Along the correlative passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is the following (385:15-18): "Constant toil, deprivations, exposures, and all untoward conditions, if without sin, can be experienced without suffering. Whatever it is your duty to do, you can do with harm to yourself."

The revival is planned in cooperation with a conference-wide endeavor entitled "Operation Evangelism."

Special singing is planned.

The pastor, Rev. T. R. Bradshaw, extends a cordial invitation to attend.

Revival Services

The Meadowbrook Pentecostal Holiness Church on Munford Road will hold a revival April 3-17, beginning at 7:45 each evening.

The Rev. J. Louis Williams is guest evangelist.

Chief Gardner noted that the new 20 by 20 foot one story masonry structure would be located on the grounds of the present fire tower behind the West End Fire Station on Chestnut St. Gardner said "M. O. Minges of Greenville donated $5,000 for the construction of the present tower, which was built in 1940, with the rest of the cost being paid by the federal government."

"The smoke house is a much needed facility which will aid us greatly in our training program," Gardner concluded.

Steinmeyer, who noted local entrants in the show would be announced later this week, said in the event of rain, the horse show will be held April 10.

Fire Chief George Gardner said the smoke house was needed "to give fire department and rescue personnel training in the use of gas masks and interior fire fighting."

Former Yank Supplies Punch To A's Infield

By JIM KENSIL Associated Press Sports Writer Norm Siebern became so sun-stunned in the New York Yankees' outfield his batting began to fade. Now the 26-year-old left-handed hitter is on first base for the Kansas City Athletics, and he's hitting a rosy 373 with team-leading spring total of 4 home runs and 20 RBIs. Manager Bob Elliott put Norm on first for the first time Thursday and the ex-Yankee responded with a homer, a double and three runs batted in as the A's defeated the Baltimore Orioles 5-4 at West Palm Beach. When New York Manager Casey Stengel let Norm out of the doghouse late in the '59 season, Siebern played the final two games at first, fielding 1,000. But his work in Yankee Stadium's treacherous left field was something else. Norm played in 134 games in 1958, his first year as a regular, and carried a .300 batting average into the World Series. Then Milwaukee fly balls, aided by high winds and a beaming sun, began dropping all over left field. Norm was benched. Last year he hoped things would be different, but his outfielding became so unsure that his hitting followed suit. Stengel finally benched him. Then the Yankees traded Siebern to Los Angeles, where he and Jerry Thronberry to the A's for Kent Hadley, Joe DeMaestri and Roger Maris, the left fielder they wanted. Norm promised he would hit again once he was away from the Yankees. If he continues, and he can play the bag, it will cost Thronberry a job that had been virtually handed to him by the A's who had a collection of four unimpressive first basemen last year. Hadley homered for the Yankees Thursday, as did Tony Kubek, but that was all for New York as the Detroit Tigers tore into Mark Freeman for four first inning runs in a 5-2 victory at Lakeland. In other Florida games, the St. Louis Cardinals moved to the top of the exhibition standings with a 7-5 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates at St. Petersburg, and the Milwaukee Braves ledged the Washington Senators 7-6 at Orlando. In Arizona, the Chicago Cubs shaded the Boston Red Sox 4-3 at Mesa, and the Cleveland Indians rallied to whip the San Francisco Giants 11-10 at Tucson. Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and the Chicago White Sox were not scheduled. The White Sox' 12-5 exhibition record still tops the American League, but St. Louis now leads the majors with 12-5. Ken Boyer homered and singled for the Cardinals, but four Pittsburgh errors, good for three unearned runs in the eighth, did the big damage. Mel Roach, battling the comebacking Red Schoendienst for the Braves' second base job, singled across the winning run against the Senators. Russ Nixon, the catcher who didn't want to go back to the Indians, singled home the tie-breaker against the Giants. Nixon had to return to Cleveland when Sammy White of Boston quit baseball and the deal in which they were involved was voided. The Cubs won their seventh straight with Ernie Banks and rookie outfielder Lou Johnson continuing their sharp hitting. Tom Sturdivant pitched seven shutout innings for the Red Sox but was shelled in the ninth.

Altman Hurls Duke To Fourth Straight Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Duke University's hard hitting Blue Devils are rapidly establishing themselves as the team to beat when the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball wars start next week. The Blue Devils knocked off Florida Southern 2-1 in Lakeland, Fla. Thursday night behind the fine two-hit pitching of righthander Don Altman. It was the fourth straight victory for Duke since the Blue Devils opened their season at Rollins Monday. Altman, a top notch passing quarterback on the football team, has shown he can pitch as well as pass. In notching his second victory of the season, Altman fanned 15 batters and didn't issue a walk. Duke meets Florida Southern again tonight. Other games involving ACC teams today had Yale at North Carolina and Princeton at North Carolina State. Altman's fine performance wasn't the only one for ACC pitchers Thursday. Bob Flemmons gave up only three hits in hurling Wake Forest to a 4-1 victory over Michigan State; Wilson Carruthers scattered five hits as North Carolina State stopped Yale 2-1 and Dave Sprouse and Jimmy Roller combined to give Georgia Tech only four hits as defending champion Clemson blasted Georgia played to a 4-1 tie after the game was called at the end of the 10th because of curfew. Maryland scored four runs in the fifth to tie the game which was scoreless from then on.

Greenville Nips Kinston, Roanoke Rapids In Meet

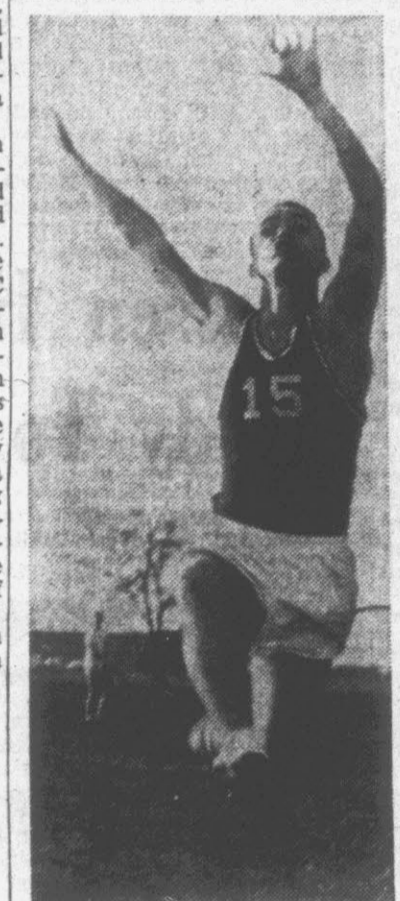

By ROY MARTIN Reflector Sports Writer Greenville's Phantom tracksters surged from behind yesterday afternoon to score a total of 66 1/2 points to top their first win of the season over Roanoke Rapids and Kinston in a triangular Northeastern Conference cinder dash. Roanoke Rapids, running the Phantoms' close second all the way, placed second in the meet, scoring 53 1/2 points while Kinston tallied 17 points for the number three position. The G-Men, who opened the first in the 100 yard dash with a time of :11.15, while Charles Taft took the first position in his specialty, the high hurdles, with a winning time of :17.3. Erskine Duff was another first place winner in the 440 yard dash with a time of :56.1, while Jimmy Jenkins also took a first in the low hurdles with a time of :23.5. The Phantom mile relay team rounded out the first place positions won with a time of 3:53.9.

Greenville Host To Table Tennis Tourny On Wed

The Greenville City Table Tennis Tournament is scheduled to be held on Tuesday, April 6. This will be Greenville's first city-wide table tennis event sanctioned by the North Carolina Recreation Society, and will be open to all Greenville residents and East Carolina students. Site for the event will be the East Carolina College Union Recreation area, located in the basement of the Wright Building at East Carolina College. Interested players may sign up for the tourney between 6 and 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, the night of the tournament. Events scheduled to be held include: Men's and Women's Singles and Doubles, Intermediate and Singles and Doubles, (for persons 16, 17, and 18 years of age as of January 1, 1960) and Junior Singles and Doubles (for persons 15 years old or less on January 1).

The Greenville Table Tennis Tournament is a part of the statewide table tennis program of the North Carolina Recreation Society, and the winners of all events in this tournament will be eligible to represent Greenville in the Eastern North Carolina District Tournament, to be held in Wilmington April 23. Winners of the district events will then go on to the state tourney, to be held May 7, also in Wilmington. Persons having any questions about the city event, which will be played on a round-robin basis in all divisions, may call the East Carolina College Union for information.

Tom Nieporte Takes Three Stroke Lead In Azalea

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP)—Tom Nieporte of Bronxville, N. Y., led by three strokes going into today's second round of the $15,000 Azalea Open Golf Tournament. The 30-year-old Nieporte, playing without benefit of a practice round, buzzed around the Cape Fear Country Club course's 6,651 yards in 64 Thursday's first round. His 32-32 card was eight under par and put him three shots ahead of his nearest rivals, Jerry Barber of Los Angeles; Gray Brewer of Crystal River, Fla.; and Dave

Ragan of Orlando, Fla. Jerry Pittman of Tulsa, Okla., and Ed Oliver of Denver shared fifth place at 69 as 20 players tied for 72 and 12 more equaled it in ideal weather. Nieporte won the National College crown while a student at Ohio State University in 1951. He won the Rubber City Open at Akron, Ohio, last summer, his only victory on the circuit. He needed only 24 putts Thursday and had 12 one-putt greens. Ragan, an interesting case, says he quit smoking a year ago and now feels stronger and in much better condition. His brother-in-law, Carl Dann Jr., an Orlando orthodontist, subjected Dave to hypnosis last winter in an effort to get him to break the cigarette habit and it has worked, says Dave. The resulting improvement in his game stems in part from his better physical condition, he maintains. He put together nines of 34-33, as did Barber and Brewer. In good position with opening round 70s were Larry Mowr, Bonita, Calif.; Eddie Langert, Minneapolis; Bob Hill, Webster, N.Y.; Lee Raymond, Toledo, and Jim Ferree, Crystale River, Fla. A Wilmington insurance firm has offered $1,000 to the first pro to make a hole-in-one, but none of the pros turned the trick Thursday. Oliver hit the strike on the fifth hole and Ed Meyerson of Los Angeles had his tee shot on No. 10 lip the cup. There was one ace, but it carried no payoff because its creator is an amateur, Cecil Thompson of Lumberton. Thompson holed out with a No. 8 iron on the 153-yard 10th hole. It was, he said, his only good shot of an 84 round. The 47-year-old tobacco farmer, who never had scored an ace in 14 years of playing golf, managed to beat only one of his 137 rivals despite his hole-in-one.

Tigers Willing To Make A Deal

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Bill Dewitt, Detroit Tiger president, says he will talk with General Manager Frank Lane of the Cleveland Indians to see if Lane is interested in a trade involving catcher Russ Nixon. Nixon is the left-handed hitting catcher the Indians sent to the Boston Red Sox in the controversial deal that brought on Sammy White's retirement. The Tigers would be willing to part with catcher Lou Berberet and Lane also has expressed interest in rookie third baseman Steve Demter.

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP)—Polo, once the grandiose sport of the golden twenties, is gasping for breath in its U.S. birthplace—Long Island. It is about to become the victim of changing times—leemings housing developments, super highways and 14-handicap golfers who don't like to be disturbed when they putt. Roy Moriarity, a young New York motion picture executive who is an official of the U.S. Polo Assn., said today he didn't know how long he could keep the game going at Meadow Brook, one of the world's most famous playing fields. "We play on Saturday afternoons during the summer," Moriarity explained. "The public address system annoys the golfers who are playing on the nearby course. They are complaining about the noise." "Once the Meadow Brook Club was made up overwhelmingly of polo enthusiasts. Then the golfers came. Now it is 95 per cent golf." Because the polo field at Meadow Brook no longer pays its way, some members of the club are reported anxious to sell it. The present polo field is not the original which once shook under the hooves of galloping ponies and the blows from the sticks of such giants as Devereaux, Milburn, Tommy Hitchcock, Winston Guest, Cecil Smith and the glamorous Cavanaugh brothers from the Argentine. A few years ago a super highway stabbed through the property, forcing a re-arrangement of both the polo field and golf course, which still are adjacent. Once polo enthusiasts swarmed to the field for the matches, which drew worldwide attention. They paid from $5 to $15 for tickets. Today's matches drew less than 1,000 a Sunday. Adults are charged $1 and children get in free.

Tarboro Track Opens Sunday

The 1960 stock car racing season opens this Sunday at the Edgewood Speedway, Inc., six miles southwest of Tarboro. Edgewood Speedway, Inc., gaining popularity with auto racing trials, two drivers will open its 1960 racing program this Sunday with a program of sportsman races. The speedway, located near Tarboro, announced plans for its opening program today and said that the first race of the season will be held at its completely renovated plant. Speedway spokesmen said, "Our plant has been renovated, with safety the prime factor. We believe we now have the safest quarter-mile track in Eastern Carolina, from the standpoint of both drivers and spectators. In addition to the safety features of our track, we also carry full and proper insurance." Sunday's program includes time trials, two 10 lap heats, a 15 lap consolation race and a 25 lap feature event. A good number of entries are already lined up, and additional entries are still being accepted. The early indication is the field will be a strong one. Speedway officials are working on other races to be held in the near future, and state that they assure fans of the finest auto racing to be seen in this area this season. Time trials will get underway at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Johnson Passes Heated Words At Lee Petty

RONDA, N.C. (AP)—Stock car driver Junior Johnson passed some hard words here Thursday as his feud with Lee Petty threatened to become the talk of the tracks. Johnson claimed Petty brushed him in a race at North Wilkesboro Sunday, causing him to spin out. Petty went on to win the race, but his purse of $800 was held up pending a ruling by Bill France of NASCAR's headquarters in Daytona Beach, Fla. France, who held the evidence was not conclusive, said it was reasonable to assume that it was a racing accident. He said the drivers, noted for their determination, likely refused to back off. "I'll take care of Petty when the right time comes, just as he did me," Johnson declared Thursday. "I don't say that Lee deliberately spun me out. But I do say that he was driving unnecessarily rough. You can drive a hard race without running over everybody. Since Daytona doesn't see fit to take action against Petty, I'll just take matters into my own hands. I'll take care of Petty when the right time comes, just as he did me." "I'm not out to hurt him, I just want to put him out of the running so it will hurt his pocket-book." The two will clash in two 100-mile races this weekend, at Columbia, S.C., Saturday night and at Hickory Sunday.

Parry O'Brien's long reign as the world's No. 1 shot putter is being seriously threatened by Dallas Long, a 250-pound, 19-year-old sophomore at the University of Southern California. Recently, Long tossed the 16-pound shot 63 feet 7 inches to surpass O'Brien's listed world record by five inches and launch his campaign to dethrone Parry as the Olympic champion.

Long declines to predict how far he will eventually toss the shot. His coach at North Phoenix High, Vern Wolf, predicts that Long will top 70 feet by the time he reached maturity. This by a youngster who took up shot putting because he was "too fat for anything else in sports."

Tiger Rules As Favorite Tonite

Foreign Fighters Inject Vigor

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — Fighters from the Philippines and Latin America are injecting fresh vigor into the worldwide boxing program. And the rise of the foreign fighters comes at a time when the slumping sport sorely needs an assist.

Elorde won the world junior lightweight-130-pound championship by knocking out Harold Gomes of Providence, R.I. Hernandez broke world featherweight champion Davey Moore's jaw and stopped the Springfield, Ohio, veteran in eight rounds; Thompson knocked out world welterweight champion Don Jordan and then fought a draw with Paret in a fierce 12-rounder, and Lausse stopped Willie Greaves, the Canadian champ, in four rounds.

BOSTON (AP) — Dick Tiger, the British Empire middleweight king, rules an 8-to-5 favorite over Argentina's Victor Zalazar for their 10-round nationally televised fight tonight.

Tiger, Nigerian who is entering the ring for the eighth time in six months — all for video consumption — and Zalazar, meet at the Boston Arena.

Matchmaker Teddy Brenner who has seen the two battle in Stillman's Gym in New York says Zalazar never has taken the worst of it from Tiger.

Wilt Talks With Warriors' Owner

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain, who quit the Philadelphia Warriors after a sensational rookie year, Thursday paid a friendly visit to Eddie Gottlieb, owner of the club.

"I felt I owed him an explanation about why I quit," the 7-2 Negro star said. "He thinks I should see him again. We're still friends."

Gottlieb, who is trying to change Wilt's mind about quitting the National Basketball Assn. team, said he expected to have several more talks with him.

NAIA Cage Stars Whip Ohio State

DENVER (AP) — The NAIA Small-College All-Stars dished up an astounding upset in the opening round of the U. S. Olympic Basketball Trials Thursday night with a 76-69 victory over NCAA champion Ohio State.

The Buckeyes simply couldn't match the all-around excellence of the All-Stars. State's All-American Jerry Lucas scored 12 points in the first half but tallied only a free throw in the second.

Ohio State held a 42-39 lead at the halfway point. Then Jackie Moreland, 6-8 Louisiana Tech ace, turned on the heat and scored 12 points in the small college team's comeback.

Dressen Hints Braves Ready To Take It All

By JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — "I'll tell you what I think about the Dodgers, I'd like to play them 154 games."

Dressen, Milwaukee's new manager, was speaking. As he was a coach for the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers last year, his ideas are worth repeating.

"I thought the Milwaukee club should have won last year," he said. "I thought it was a better club than the Dodgers. But I didn't tell the Los Angeles players that."

"They won only 86 games and took it all. I won't guess how many it will take to win it this year but if a couple of our pitchers wind up 20-8 and 18-6 we'll be better than when they each won 21 and lost 15 last year."

Dressen was talking about Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette who started a total of 75 games last year when the Braves tied the Dodgers and lost the pennant in two straight playoff games.

"I've got four pitchers who ought to win 66 games. No, I'm not going to name them. No other club in the league can put out four starters like that."

Red Schoendienst, making a comeback after recovering from tuberculosis, has surprised everybody, Dressen included.

"I never thought he'd play," said Dressen. "If I had to open the season tomorrow, he would be on second base, although he has had some arm trouble. I'll give him some rest when he needs it because we have young Chuck Cottier (.226 at Louisville) to step in."

Schoendienst, 37, appeared in only five games late last season after being sidelined by TB since the 1958 World Series.

Joe Adcock (.292 at first, Schoendienst at second, Johnny Logan (.291), backed up by Felix Mantilla (.215) at short and Eddie Mathews (.306 with 46 homers) at third are the infield.

Bill Bruton (.289) will be in center and Hank Aaron (.355) in right. Wes Covington (.279) probably will take over his old left field job from Lee Maye (.300). The fifth outfielder is Al Spangler (.297 at Louisville).

The catching is very thin behind Del Crandall (.257 who appeared in 150 games last year, Stan Lopata (.104) hooked on after drawing his release in the fall. The other man is Charlie Lau (.292 at Charleston and Louisville).

Dressen would like to deal for a catcher and outfielder. He has something on the fire that may pop before opening day.

Spahn (21-15) and Burdette (21-15), of course, are the big men of the staff. Dressen is high on Carl Willey (5-9), Juan Pizarro (6-2) among the younger hurlers. He also expects great improvement in Joey Jay (6-11). Those five men and Bob Buhl (15-9) will get plenty of work. Bob Rush (5-6) can handle spot starts. To help Don McMahon (5-3) in the bullpen, Dressen has been taking a long look at Ken Mackenzie (6-2 at Louisville) a young left-hander from Yale who is still on the Louisville roster.

Five Olympics Stars Head Texas Relays

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Five former Olympic performers and seven defending champions headline the 33rd Texas Relays, which send 1,378 athletes into action today and Saturday.

Qualifying events in all classes this afternoon clear the way for tonight's 17 finals. Another 26 titles will be decided Saturday.

The winner of the unofficial championship probably will come from among Kansas, Michigan and Abilene Christian. No official team winners are named, but sports writers keep their own tally of points.

Abilene Christian's Bobby Morrow, a double winner of the 1956 Olympics at Melbourne, will defend his 100-meter dash title tonight against such fleet rivals as Bill Woodhouse, his former teammate at Abilene Christian and a co-holder of the world 100-yard dash record; Jimmy Weaver, who finished ahead of Morrow and Woodhouse in meets the past two weeks and who did his college running at North Texas State, and Orlando Hazley, formerly of Oklahoma State who defeated Woodhouse and Weaver in 1958.

The 200-meter field includes Morrow, Woodhouse, Weaver, Hazley and Eddie Southern, former Texas star and a member of the 1956 U.S. Olympic team.

Southern also will run in the 400-meter hurdles. Cliff Pushman of Kansas is the defending champion in the 400-meter hurdles. Kansas javelin thrower Bill Alley returns to see whether he can surpass his 270-foot, 1 1/2-inch throw which set a relay record last year.

Bill Neider, a Kansas graduate who was runnerup in the 1956 Olympics in the shot put, will conduct a clinic for shot men before trying for a world record Saturday.

Houston's Al Lawrence, who ran in the 1956 Olympics for Australia will run in the four-mile relay and distance medley.

Tom Robinson of Michigan, a member of the Bahamas Olympic team four years ago, goes against an impressive field in the college-university class 100-yard dash. The list includes defending champion Taylor Jones of Rice, and nine others who have run the century in 9.5 seconds or better.

Other defending champions are discus thrower Dick Cochran of Missouri, high hurdler Calvin Cooley of Abilene Christian and distance man Miles Eisenman of Oklahoma State.

It was reported Griffith would go for a package that included Battey and Don Mincher, a rookie first baseman.

Rome was founded in 754 B.C. as a fortified village.

Shakeup Year Predicted For Last Place Phillies

Another in a series on major league team prospects. By JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — This is shakeup year for the Philadelphia Phillies. Manager Eddie Sawyer is toying with a lineup that would include only two of last year's regulars.

"We're going to go with the kids as much as possible," said Sawyer. "We got rid of a lot — Richie Ashburn, Willie Jones, Gene Freese, Ray Semproch, Chico Fernandez, Carl Sawatski. Most of the new players are kids, except for Alvin Dark. You need experience of the right kind in an infield."

One of Sawyer's key experiments has been using Pancho Herrera (.329 at Buffalo) at second base. Although he is 6-3, 225-pound converted first baseman, he hasn't been doing a bad job and is hitting over .400.

Eddie Bouchee (.285) is the first baseman. If the Herrera experiment fails, George Anderson (.218) would return to second. Joe Koppe (.261) at short and Dark (.264) at third will be the infield with Ted Lepcio (.280 at Boston and Detroit) as a spare. Only Bouchee and Koppe were regulars last year with the Phils.

Bobby Del Greco (.286 at Buffalo), who has slunked previous trials with several clubs but still is only 26, may be the center fielder. Johnny Callison (.299 at Indianapolis), the Chicago White Sox's louted rookie of last year, might displace Harry Anderson (.240) in left. Wally Foster (.254) is a third 1959 regular who may have his old job in right field but he has competition from Bobby Gene Smith (.217 at St. Louis), Dave Philley (.291) and Tony Curry (.314 at Williamsport).

Jim Coker (.287 at Buffalo) was farmed out a year ago for steady work with the idea that he would be the No. 1 catcher this year. Coker was the No. 2 at Sacramento, acquired in the draft in 1958 fighting for a job. Valmy Thomas (.200) is the Phils' only experienced catcher.

The Phils' best pitcher, in won and lost percentage, won't join the club until the Boston Celtics finish their basketball season. He's Gene Conley (12-7) the slongated right-hander, Robin Roberts (15-17) is ready to carry a heavy load again. Curt Simmons, who spent part of 1959 in Williamsport after an arm operation, was the best looking pitcher on the staff in the early games. Jim Owens (12-12) and Don Cardwell (9-10) are the other starters with Johnny Buzhardt (4-5 with Chicago) and Ruben Gomez (3-8) possibilities.

Dick Farrell (1-6) probably will head the relief corps with Jack Meyer (5-3), Humberto Robinson (4-4) and rookie Hank Mason (12-3 at Buffalo).

The 1959 Phils were last in the standings, last in batting and last in fielding. No wonder Sawyer is shaking them up.

Next—Milwaukee.

Another in a series on major league team prospects. By JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — This is shakeup year for the Philadelphia Phillies. Manager Eddie Sawyer is toying with a lineup that would include only two of last year's regulars.

"We're going to go with the kids as much as possible," said Sawyer. "We got rid of a lot — Richie Ashburn, Willie Jones, Gene Freese, Ray Semproch, Chico Fernandez, Carl Sawatski. Most of the new players are kids, except for Alvin Dark. You need experience of the right kind in an infield."

One of Sawyer's key experiments has been using Pancho Herrera (.329 at Buffalo) at second base. Although he is 6-3, 225-pound converted first baseman, he hasn't been doing a bad job and is hitting over .400.

Eddie Bouchee (.285) is the first baseman. If the Herrera experiment fails, George Anderson (.218) would return to second. Joe Koppe (.261) at short and Dark (.264) at third will be the infield with Ted Lepcio (.280 at Boston and Detroit) as a spare. Only Bouchee and Koppe were regulars last year with the Phils.

Bobby Del Greco (.286 at Buffalo), who has slunked previous trials with several clubs but still is only 26, may be the center fielder. Johnny Callison (.299 at Indianapolis), the Chicago White Sox's louted rookie of last year, might displace Harry Anderson (.240) in left. Wally Foster (.254) is a third 1959 regular who may have his old job in right field but he has competition from Bobby Gene Smith (.217 at St. Louis), Dave Philley (.291) and Tony Curry (.314 at Williamsport).

Jim Coker (.287 at Buffalo) was farmed out a year ago for steady work with the idea that he would be the No. 1 catcher this year. Coker was the No. 2 at Sacramento, acquired in the draft in 1958 fighting for a job. Valmy Thomas (.200) is the Phils' only experienced catcher.

The Phils' best pitcher, in won and lost percentage, won't join the club until the Boston Celtics finish their basketball season. He's Gene Conley (12-7) the slongated right-hander, Robin Roberts (15-17) is ready to carry a heavy load again. Curt Simmons, who spent part of 1959 in Williamsport after an arm operation, was the best looking pitcher on the staff in the early games. Jim Owens (12-12) and Don Cardwell (9-10) are the other starters with Johnny Buzhardt (4-5 with Chicago) and Ruben Gomez (3-8) possibilities.

Dick Farrell (1-6) probably will head the relief corps with Jack Meyer (5-3), Humberto Robinson (4-4) and rookie Hank Mason (12-3 at Buffalo).

The 1959 Phils were last in the standings, last in batting and last in fielding. No wonder Sawyer is shaking them up.

CHAPTER 25

In the morning, Detective-tenant John Nola called me as I was leaving for the office. "Just some bad news, Scott," he said. "Thought I'd let you know." "I'm immune by now," I said. "What happened, John?" "Max Turner was taken to Roosevelt Hospital two hours ago. He was found in a hallway on Thirty-ninth Street with a possible brain concussion."

"But I wasn't immune at all. My stomach shrank. I hung up without thinking. Max, I thought. Max, too. So the violence was spreading."

When I reached the hospital I found Max in the men's ward. A white bandage circled his head like a turban. He was sitting up in bed with a thermometer in his mouth and a nurse taking his pulse.

Max smiled at me beatifically. "How is he?" I asked the nurse.

She removed the thermometer and held it up to the light. "Almost normal." Her armor was a brisk, business-like manner. She lifted the chart from the foot of his bed, made a notation, and moved on.

"Some dish," Max said, looking down his nose.

I knew then that his skull had absorbed the shock without damage. "How do you feel?"

"Fair. I'll be out of here tomorrow morning."

"What happened, Max?"

"Somebody clouted me from behind and dragged me into a hallway."

"Did Strobe know you were investigating him?"

"It was no secret. I've been all over town making inquiries. I told you about speaking to some of the men who were on duty with him that night at the hotel."

"That was only a warning," he nodded, suddenly sober.

"No point in sticking your neck out. Max. Shall I take you off the case?"

"You kidding?" He regarded me levelly. "Are you getting out, Counselor? After what happened to Cassidy?"

"No."

"Then count me in, too. Hell, word gets around that I scare easy, it's bad for business. Got to expect a little violence. Occupational hazard. Don't worry about me, Counselor. I'll be out of here tomorrow."

I left him and went out to the street and flagged a cab. I told the driver the address of my office, sat back and patted my pocket for the reassuring feel of my Banker's Special.

The driver soon had his eye on the rear-vision mirror. "I thing somebody's following us."

"If it's a private car get his number."

"It's a cab. Shall I try to shake him?"

"No," I said. "Let him tag along."

I had the fare ready when he pulled up. I got out, turned cas-

1960 Census Army On The March; Questions For All

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1960 census army was on the march today, asking questions about the Dwight D. Eisenhower and the John Smiths.

The door-to-door canvass, a vast undertaking that is attempted only once in 10 years, will continue until census workers personally visit each of the 55 million households in the United States.

Washington's most fashionable residence, the White House, was one of the first stops on the schedule. Census Director Robert H. Burgess and the district census supervisor, Louis J. Alexis, were given an early appointment to collect from President Eisenhower the census information about the first family.

Like most Americans, the Eisenhowers prepared their census report in advance, jotting down the information on a questionnaire delivered last week by the Post Office Department.

This is a time-saving innovation of this year's census. It means the census taker merely has to copy down the data onto forms of his own. He doesn't have to ask questions.

Only three persons are considered residents of the White House: Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower and Rose Wood, the first lady's maid.

The 1960 census is the biggest and costliest ever. To count about 180 million Americans and make a detailed study of the way they live and work, the Census Bureau is spending an estimated 118 million dollars.

In the 1950 census, 151 million people were counted at a cost of 90 million dollars.

The Census Bureau maintains a running estimate of the total population on a counting device in the Commerce Department lobby. The estimate as of 8 a. m. today was 179,921,434.

How close this is to the final census figure won't be known until some time this fall. While preliminary population totals for communities will be given out locally starting late this month, state totals won't be published until after the summer.

The Constitution requires a census every 10 years. The basic pur-

Extra $152,250 Will Be Asked For 3 Colleges

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Luther Hodges and the Council of State will be asked to provide an additional $152,250 for three Negro state-supported colleges with enrollments above estimates.

The Advisory Budget Commission Thursday recommended that the money come from the Contingency and Emergency Fund. It will go for instructional services at the schools.

The commission recommended $100,000 for North Carolina College in Durham, where enrollment jumped from 1,450 to 1,800. The college had asked $167,100. An allotment of $32,250 was recommended for Elizabeth City State Teachers, which had asked $55,000. Its enrollment went from 425 to 600, asked for $22,000 and received recommendations for $20,000.

The budget group rejected requests from Western Carolina College and Appalachian State Teachers for increases in tuition charges.

Another Cross Burns In Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—A wooden cross was burned Thursday night in a vacant lot next to a Negro woman's home.

It was the second time in three days a cross had been burned on Detroit's East Side.

The cross, slightly less than three feet high, was burned next to Elsie Simpson's home. Mrs. Simpson, 55, said she had lived in her home for about 35 years without any trouble.

Another cross was burned Tuesday night in the backyard of a vacant home about two miles from Mrs. Simpson's.

Nixon, Kennedy Favored In N.C.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A poll shows Vice President Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) are the leading presidential choices by North Carolinians.

Herbert G. Klein, a Nixon press representative, said Thursday that a poll conducted by the Dick Nixon Clubs of North Carolina showed Nixon and Kennedy each favored by 46 per cent of the voters, others 2 per cent and 6 per cent were undecided.

Klein said the poll, taken in February by Claude Robinson, Inc., of Princeton, N.J., used 581 samples on a statewide basis.

Beatnik Hangout Out Of Business

VENICE, Calif. (AP)—The Gas House is silent today—gone the clinking coffee cups and banging bongo drums.

The controversial beachfront hangout for beatniks has reached the end, man, the living end. In short, it's out of business.

The sad news was relayed Thursday by co-owner Eric Nord, who blamed the closing on pressure from outraged citizens and window-smashing vandals.

He and co-owner Lawrence Lipson are looking for another Southern California site where the beard-and-sandal set can get away from it all.

The closing ended a brief but lively chapter in the history of this oilwell studded beach district on the western fringe of Los Angeles.

After the beats moved in en masse last summer, the squares organized. They declared the Gas House was a gathering place for oddballs and all sorts of improper things were going on inside. Besides, they said, the Gas House was lowering property values.

The beats counterattacked with gestures of civic amiability designed to win over squares. They painted abstracts on sidewalks and offered to decorate garbage cans in similar aesthetic fashion.

As for lowering property values, they claimed Venice long had been a civic eyesore with scum-infested canals and decaying buildings.

The beats said they were giving the town a little class.

Nord summed up the beats' case at a police commission hearing, contending the world isn't ready for the peaceful message of bongo drums.

But whether the world is ready, one thing's apparent—Venice isn't.

Religious Issue Is Raised In Wisconsin, Quickly Denounced

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Rivals in the Wisconsin Democratic presidential primary re-established today at least a temporary truce on the touchy religious issue.

The man who injected it full scale into the campaign battle between Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts said:

"I intended to help Humphrey, but maybe I made a mistake and hurt him."

That was Charles P. Greene, a former Democratic state chairman speaking up. A small ad he had inserted in weekly newspapers across the state set off the biggest uproar of the campaign Thursday.

It sought to muster Protestant support behind Humphrey against his Roman Catholic opponent. Greene said persons in Wisconsin and Florida whom he did not wish to name had put up $1,400 to finance the ad, and nobody in the Humphrey organization was consulted about the matter.

Both Humphrey and Kennedy denounced the ad. Each excoriated the other of bringing the issue into the forefront of the campaign.

Gov. Gaylord Nelson ordered his attorney general to determine whether the ad violated corrupt practices or false advertising laws.

In the first real political showdown of 1960, Kennedy and Humphrey are struggling in next Tuesday's primary for 30 of the votes Wisconsin delegates will cast in the Democratic National Convention in July.

Kennedy is buoyed by widespread impressions that he has a comfortable edge in Wisconsin. But Humphrey thinks he may be slashing away some of Kennedy's strength with challenges of his Senate colleague's voting record on farm and other issues.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon has the Republican side of the ballot, and 30 GOP convention votes, all to himself. The only real Republican worry is whether an unopposed candidate can make a respectable showing in the total, two-party vote.

Except under questioning, both Humphrey and Kennedy have avoided discussing the religious factor—that Kennedy is a Catholic, Wisconsin is more heavily Catholic than the country as a whole, and voters can jump party lines in the primary to vote religious rather than political convictions if they choose.

The reaction was quick and vigorous when the ad appeared in many of the 250-odd weekly newspapers in Wisconsin.

In effect, it appealed for Protestant support for Humphrey on grounds that Republican Catholics might hop into the Democratic primary in sufficient force to "determine who the Democratic nominee for president shall be."

Regards Castro As A 'Scorpion'

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Walter C. Ploeser, former United States ambassador to Paraguay, says Prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba is "the scorpion of the Caribbean."

Ploeser told a luncheon club Thursday that the governments and people of South American countries generally are friendly to the U.S. and "only a freak like Castro gives us major political concern."

Giraffes have tongues up to 18 inches in length.

DR. HENRY E. WALDEN, Jr., of Lumberton, will be the visiting evangelist for revival services at Winterville Baptist Church each evening next week. Sunday evening service will be at 7:30, and weekday services will begin at 7:45 p.m. Music will be under the direction of J. C. Thomas, of Immanuel Baptist Church, Greenville. The public is invited.

First Cuts For Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Foreign Affairs Committee has cut 13 1/2 million dollars from President Eisenhower's foreign aid program.

Although the reductions in the first round skirmish were comparatively small for the $4,175,000,000 program, the big test lies ahead when the Appropriations Committee passes on the actual money bill.

Carry-over congressional authorizations from last year cover two billion dollars in military aid and about 700 million dollars in long-term, low-interest loans through the Development Loan Fund. So only about one-third the total—$1,400,000,000—was under consideration by the Foreign Affairs Committee.

The biggest single cut was 75 million dollars slashed from the 175 million dollars Eisenhower asked for a contingency fund at his disposal. A total of 100 million was voted last year for this reserve.

The committee also voted to abolish aid to Cuba unless Eisenhower specifically directs that it be continued. Cuba gets no arms aid now, and the action would apply only to proposed technical assistance totaling about $350,000.

Congressional sentiment for cutting off aid to Cuba has built up as Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro continued his denunciations of the United States.

Chairman Otto E. Passman (D-La.) of the House Appropriations subcommittee has sent letters to all House members urging them to join in an effort to cut foreign spending. He has said the President's requests should be cut by more than a billion dollars.

Panel Urges Eisenhower Push School Integration

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A panel from President Eisenhower's own conference on youth problems today urged him to throw the full weight of his office behind racial integration of all public schools.

A statement which said he showed a lack of executive leadership in the thorny issue was ruled out of order as editorial. It did not become part of the official record of the meeting.

The White House Conference on Children and Youth prepared to close up shop and go home for another 10 years after its 7,570 voting delegates had adopted about 700 far-ranging recommendations.

Those recommendations were to be summarized for the delegates in a closing general session today. They have no binding force, but become part of the conference record for later discussion by the state and local groups represented here.

The delegates went on record Thursday in warm support of the sit-in demonstrations being staged at segregated lunch counters by Negro students in the South.

They also asked federal and state action to reopen public schools which have been closed to avoid integration—a direct reference to Prince Edward County, Va.

These recommendations for the most part, were passed with little or no objection from Southern delegates—but this was a procedural matter. Most Southerners, by personal choice, did not participate in the forum sessions where such matters were under discussion.

The Arkansas delegation went on record with a statement that it would not necessarily be bound by the conference report. Other Southern states probably feel the same.

The delegates requested a massive infusion of federal funds into the nation's public school systems. At least one group said such funds should go only to those school districts complying with the Supreme Court's 1954 decision against school segregation.

One forum voted that public and private facilities and programs should be available for birth control in order to relieve the deprivation of children, "consistent with the creed and morals of the families being served."

Other groups asked for federal, state, local and private funds to deal with a multitude of youth problems—the retarded child and the gifted student, the halt, the lame and the blind, illegitimate children, minority groups and neglected children of any economic level.

There were numerous recommendations for aiding migrant farm workers and their dependents. One asked that they be brought under the minimum wage law provisions. Another recommendation was that the $1 minimum wage be increased to $1.25 an hour.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market resumed its trendless pattern early this afternoon in moderate trading.

Key stocks show narrow gains or losses, most of them within a 1-point range.

The electronics and other "glamour" stocks which were battered Thursday were irregular and kept their moves within pretty respectable bounds.

Polaroid, which plummeted 14 1/2 Thursday, was off about 5 points for a while then cut the loss to around a point.

Most leading steels and oils showed little change. Motors edged ahead. Rails were up slightly on average.

Lockheed, a heavy loser recently, picked up about a point.

Fractional gains were made by General Motors, Ford and American Motors. Chrysler was about unchanged.

U.S. Steel dipped slightly while other big steelmakers showed scant change.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 214.20 with the industrials up .10, the rails up .30 and the utilities off .10.

U.S. government and corporate bonds were lower.

PARIS (AP)—France today held its second nuclear test explosion under the nose of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The blast in the western Sahara constituted another pointed French rebuff for the Soviet Premier, meeting today and Saturday with President Charles de Gaulle outside Paris for final talks.

Khrushchev leaves for Moscow Sunday.

In the past two days Khrushchev had twice spoken out against further nuclear explosions by any nation, including France.

De Gaulle in effect rejected the Soviet Premier's call, just as he earlier contradicted Khrushchev's contention that West Germany is bent on new aggression to avenge the World War II defeat.

Informed sources said Khrushchev was told in advance the bomb would be exploded and that the test was not timed to coincide with his visit. It was explained to him that the test date would have been after he left France, but his attack of influenza delayed his trip more than a week.

The sources said Khrushchev repeated his opposition to all nuclear explosions but accepted the French explanation.

The explosion also underlined De Gaulle's insistence that the Soviet Union as well as the Western allies recognize France as their equal in world councils.

There was no immediate public reaction from Khrushchev, who was secluded with De Gaulle at Rambouillet, the presidential chateau outside Paris.

Technical, scientific or cultural agreements may be announced before Khrushchev ends his 11-day state visit. But no French-Soviet political accord is expected.

Soviet Premier himself said after his first talks in Paris last week that he and De Gaulle were "at opposite poles" on international matters, and they were likely to remain there.

A terse communique from Rambouillet said only that the two leaders had begun a private session there this morning. Meanwhile, Moscow Radio broadcast the French announcement of the atomic blast but made no comment.

De Gaulle's government announced that the nuclear blast, just before dawn at the Regane test site 1,500 miles south of Oran, was successful and all safety precautions were taken.

A communique said the device exploded was a plutonium bomb of much smaller size than the first French plutonium bomb set off Feb. 13 and of "limited power." The first bomb had a force of about 70,000 tons of TNT, about three times more powerful than the first U.S. atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima in 1945.

The bomb presumably was mounted on a steel tower, as the first one was, and the government indicated France still does not have an atomic device portable enough to be dropped from a plane or propelled by a missile.

The communique said the second bomb "constituted a step toward miniaturization with the objective of preparing an operational weapon." It was further disclosed that a new system was used to create the "critical mass" which occurs when the components of the bomb combine to produce the blast. The government said the quantities used in accomplishing this were considerably less than those used in the earlier bomb.

The second French explosion was certain to arouse a new storm of protest from African and Asian nations contending that it endangered human life and future generations by putting more radioactive matter into the atmosphere.

The French brushed aside such arguments before their first test and a U.N. Assembly resolution last fall urging them to call off the first blast. The French said the test site was well away from centers of population and that radioactive byproducts would be safely dissipated in the upper atmosphere.

Audience Given Insight Into Andean S. America

In a lecture on Andean South America illustrated with colored slides, Dr. Henry J. Warman of Clark University, Worcester, Mass., gave an audience at East Carolina College last night an insight into the people, the countryside, and the problems of the land in Colombia, Ecuador, and Peru.

Dr. Warman is now on a three-day visit to the college. He will speak tonight at 7:45 in the Graham building on "Geography in Education" and will participate Saturday morning and afternoon in a workshop sponsored by the college department of geography. The meeting tonight and the morning session of the workshop will be held in the auditorium of the Joyner Library. The workshop will close with a luncheon in the East Dining Room on the campus.

Dr. Warman's programs at East Carolina are presented under the sponsorship of the Danforth Foundation Project at the college.

The slides used by Dr. Warman last night were made during his extensive field studies in South America. The pictures and comments by the speaker gave the audience a glimpse of South American culture and ways of life from the time of the Incas to the present day. An ancient hill-top Inca city contrasted with such cities as Bogota, Buenaventura, Quito, Lima, and Cuzco.

The life of the people was pictured in photographs of the slums of the land devoted to agriculture and winning, and of the beautiful country clubs and magnificent houses of the wealthy. Dominating most of the scenes were the cloud-and snow-capped peaks of the Andes.

Firemen Answer To Three Alarms

Greenville firemen answered three alarms yesterday, one of which was false.

At 4:50 p.m. a fire truck was sent to the intersection of Fourth and Evans St. to wash down a small amount of gas which had spilled from a gas tank of a parked auto.

A telephone call from a young boy sent trucks to 1718 A. South Pitt St. Responding fire officers said no fire was found at that location and the call was recorded as a "false alarm."

Box 322 at 14th St. and the ACL Railroad was pulled last night at 8:12 when a car at 315 Wade St. caught fire from a shortage in wiring under the dash of the vehicle.

The blaze was "out on arrival," firemen said. No estimate of damage was given by fire officials.

'Not Intended' As Endorsement

Dr. Paul E. Jones of Farmville today asserted the statement he made before an agriculture subcommittee in Washington commending Congressman Herbert C. Bonner "was never intended or contemplated" as an endorsement of any candidate for any office.

Dr. Jones, along with other Pitt Countyans, appeared in Washington recently before a committee to oppose proposed cuts in soil conservation appropriations. A statement made by Dr. Jones during the hearing was used throughout the First Congressional District last week in a political advertisement of Congressman Bonner.

In a statement released today, Dr. Jones said:

"The statement I made before the subcommittee on agriculture in Washington recently commending the record of service of Mr. Bonner was made sincerely and with the approval of our whole delegation of six farmers. It was never intended or contemplated that it was an endorsement of any member of the committee of any candidate for any public office. In my own case I feel that it is my obligation to support our Pitt County candidate for Congress who is my close neighbor and fellow townsman."

Pitt Delegation Attended Meet At Goldsboro

Representatives from the Chamber of Commerce, Pitt County Development Commission and East Carolina College attended the development conference in Goldsboro yesterday.

Attending from the Development Commission were, Chairman Leonard Bloxam, Consultant Leonard A. Weston, James J. Edwards of Chicago, Vernon White of Winterville, W. A. Allen of Farmville, Mayor S. F. Peterson of Ayden and William Stroud of Ayden.

Representing the Chamber of Commerce were J. Howard Moyer, immediate past president; F. R. Atkinson, chairman of the chamber's industrial committee; A. B. Stallworth, member of the industrial committee and Manager W. T. Kyzer.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president of East Carolina College, attended along with Dr. James W. Butler, assistant director of public relations.

In the month of July, 1959, there were 2,190,000 persons on government payrolls.

Funeral Set Sunday For Heber C. Moore

Mr. Heber C. Moore, 78, died at his home, 104 North Pitt Street in Farmville, at 1:40 Friday morning following several days of critical illness. Funeral services will be conducted at the Seventh Day Church of God in Farmville Sunday afternoon at three o'clock by the pastor, the Rev. L. L. Christenson. Burial will be in the Heath Cemetery near Maury. The body will remain at the home and will be taken to the church one hour prior to the time of service.

Mr. Moore, son of the late Alfred and Rosetta Robinson Moore, had lived near Greenville for a period of five years but spent most of his life in the Farmville community and had lived in Farmville for the past 15 years. He was a retired farmer and a member of the Seventh Day Church of God.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lizzie Heber Moore; two sons, Walter D. Moore of Farmville and Alfred Henry Moore of Chicago, Ill.; four daughters, Mrs. Heber Strickland of Baltimore, Md., Mrs. Willie Campbell of Hampton, Va., Mrs. Linwood Hardee of Farmville, and Mrs. Howard Creech of Greenville; 23 grandchildren; and five great grandchildren.

MH-30 . . .

(Continued from page one) has waged a successful propaganda campaign in every township in the tobacco-growing belt," Lanier declared. "Farmers realize they will produce more pounds and, thereby, increase their income for the year."

"What they don't seem to realize," Lanier continued, "is the extreme danger of losing one third of our market. Stabilization will be in serious trouble if it has to absorb that much tobacco. In the long run, the farmer will be paying out two dollars for every one he gains by using the chemical now."

Lanier pointed out, however, the Secretary of Agriculture cannot lawfully require farmers to certify whether or not they have used the chemical. An alternative, though, Lanier added, would be for the official to withhold the benefit of price support pending the certification.

The general counsel expressed great disappointment at yesterday's meeting with the House Tobacco Subcommittee and congressmen from tobacco-growing states. He advised, at this point, it would be better to drop the issue until a future date when the farm population "has been better educated as to the long-range effect of using MH-30 to increase production of inferior quality."

He pointed out Canada and Rhodesia have virtually eliminated the use of the chemical, with the latter having outlawed it. "Our foreign market will swing to countries that produce the type of tobacco they want, if they can't get it here. And once we lose that third of our market, it will be very difficult to retrieve it."
