Fire Destroys Store In Scotland Neck

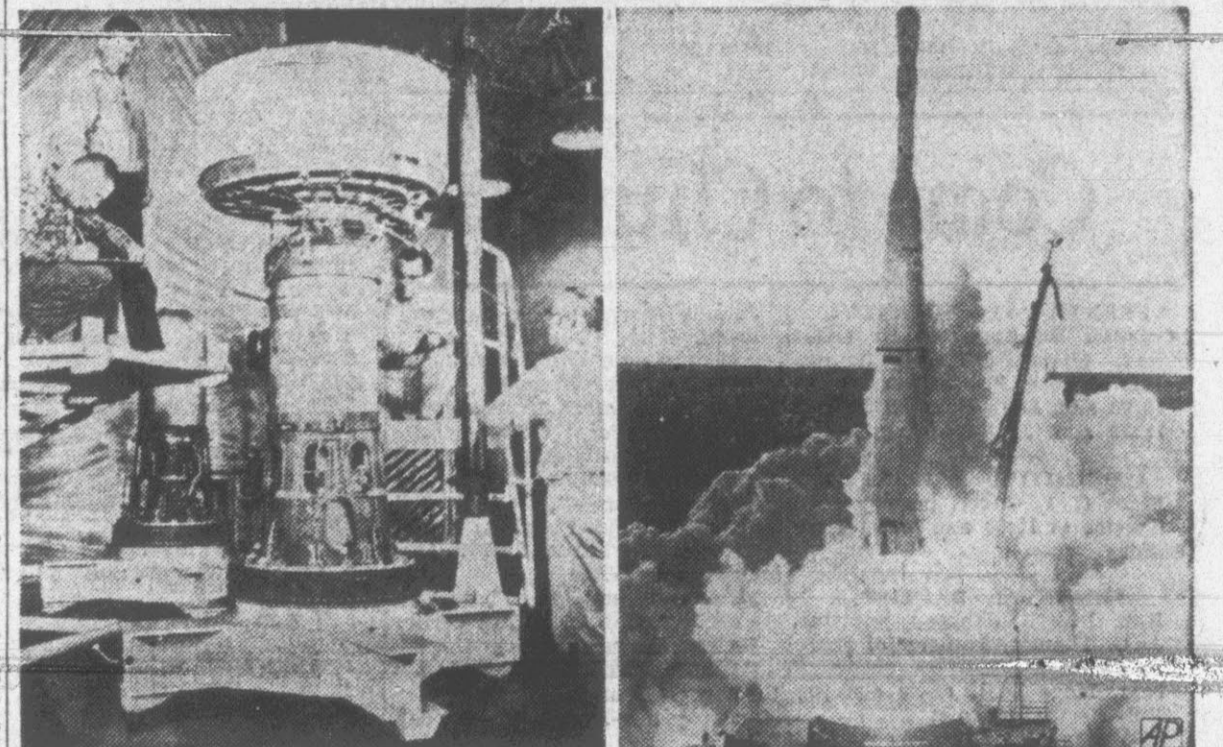

WHITE'S STORE . . . destroyed by fire in Scotland Neck last night. (Reflector Photo by Stuart Savage).

SCOTLAND NECK — Fire departments from four near-by towns aided Scotland Neck firemen battle a blaze that destroyed White's Store here last night. Firemen worked for several hours before the blaze was finally extinguished in the two story structure. The fire was confined to the White building but smoke damage resulted to a furniture store located beside the destroyed firm. The store, one of six in a chain with offices in Greenville, was covered by insurance, according to a store official this morning. The official said it was not known what started the blaze but voiced the theory it may have been caused by faulty electrical wiring. Fire department officials, who noted the blaze was discovered about 10:20 p.m., said fire units from Lewiston, Rich Square and Tarboro aided them in combating the fire. No estimate of the loss was given.

First Weather-Watch Satellite In Most Perfect Orbit Achieved

Tiros I Satellite Launched To Study Weather

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first weather-eye satellite raced on today in one of the most perfect global orbits ever achieved, ready to feed back more pictures of how clouds cover the earth. The first cloud pictures radioed Friday by the new U.S. satellite brought an expression of "marvelous" from President Eisenhower. They delighted the scientists who had fired Tiros I into its round-the-world orbit. Taken 450 miles up, the first photographs were remarkably clear for such an experimental forerunner of what may be a network of weather watchers that could forecast big storms all over the world. The look in an enormous quadrant of the earth, centered on the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Fleecy clouds spread over much of the U.S.-Canadian area. Everything about the Thor-Able launching rocket and the 270-pound satellite worked in fine style after they rose on a thunderous tail of orange flame from Cape Canaveral, Fla. All three stages fired with split-second precision. Tiros was supposed to go into a circular orbit 450 miles out. When the checking was finished, scientists found it varied from this ideal by less than 20 miles at its high and low point. The angle of inclination from the equator was off less than three one-thousandths of a degree. "I think it's a marvelous development," said President Eisenhower when the first pictures were shown to him at the White House by T. Keith Glennan, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Another achievement Friday evening also buoyed the spirits of U.S. space scientists. For the fourth time, NASA scientists at Wallops Island, Va., rocketed a 100-foot balloon up several hundred miles, where it caught the rays of the sun and was visible over most of the Eastern seaboard. "This has been a very successful day," exulted Dr. Hugh Dryden, NASA deputy administrator. The balloon is a forerunner of a space age communications network. Tiros sounds like something out of Greek mythology, but it isn't. The name stands for television and infra-red observation satellite. The infra-red sensors, which can detect differences in temperature in the earth's atmosphere, were not ready in time to go into Tiros I. They may go into Tiros II this summer. But the two television cameras were both ready and working. They can snap up to 32 pictures on command, a few seconds apart. These can be relayed instantly to earth stations, or stored on magnetic tape to be sent back on command. When the tapes are full, they can be erased clean to start all over again. Although Tiros, shaped like an oversized bathtub, is covered with solar energy cells, its batteries probably will play out in about three months because of the heavy demands on them. Because of its near-perfect 100-minute orbit, Tiros I may continue to orbit decades.

Workers make a final check of Tiros I, a 270-pound weather satellite, before its installation on a Thor Able rocket which was launched at Cape Canaveral, Fla., Friday. The round satellite, carrying cameras and other devices for studying the weather, is on top of the frame which fastened it to the third stage of the rocket. At right, the rocket takes off from its launching pad in a cloud of smoke. Two hours later it was announced the satellite separated from the third stage of the rocket on schedule and was in orbit. Hammarskjold And South Africa Delegate To Talk

By WILLIAM N. OATIS UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Dag Hammarskjold calls in South Africa's chief U.N. delegate today in his first direct move to persuade the nationalist government to scrap its harsh racial laws. The secretary-general set up a meeting with Bernardus G. Fourie after the 11-nation Security Council voted 9-0 for a resolution calling on South Africa to live in peace with its millions of Negroes. Britain and France abstained on the measure which blamed that nation's white supremacy policies for the mass shooting of Negroes. Fourie, who warned the Security Council before the ballot that South Africa would regard it "as a serious light" any interference in its internal affairs, said he would await instructions from his government before making any move. The resolution asked Hammarskjold to consult with the South African government to see what could be done to uphold U.N. charter provisions dealing with racial discrimination and human rights in general. African and Asian delegates who brought in the charges against South Africa, hailed the council's action, but some expressed regret the resolution did not go further. Sir Pierson Dixon of Britain and Armand Berard of France said they abstained because they felt the council was exceeding its authority in dealing with what South Africa regarded as a domestic issue. JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Several thousand Negroes demonstrating against South Africa's white supremacy laws massed outside Cape Town today and marched on the city. Police met them and ordered them to turn back. The armed forces then tightened cordons around the Nyanga and Langa Negro settlements outside Cape Town, South Africa's legislative capital and second largest city. The marchers came from Nyanga. It was reported the marchers had slipped out of the guarded settlement on the pretext of returning to work. The Negroes have virtually paralyzed Cape Town with a stay-home work stoppage in support of their campaign against the passes all nonwhites are required to carry. Police were intent on heading off another march into Cape Town like that by 30,000 Negroes Wednesday. A similar march on Durban Friday resulted in a clash with police. Four Negroes were killed and 18 wounded. The big Nyanga and Langa Negro settlements near Cape Town have been cordoned off by thousands of soldiers, sailors and police. Each district houses about 20,000 Negroes. The South African Press Assn., reported arsonists early today burned down a primary school for white children near Cape Town. Trouble was reported elsewhere in South Africa. Bands of masked Negroes roamed through Negro settlements near Fort Elizabeth during the night calling on residents to destroy their pass books. Holding Airmen In Arms Inquiry LONDON (AP)—Three U.S. airmen were being detained today after British police discovered an arms cache in a house in Manchester. "The men have not yet been formally charged," an Air Force spokesman said. "Investigations are continuing and we are cooperating with the civilian police." The spokesman said the investigations concerned the apparent theft of arms and ammunition from the armory at the big Sculthorpe U.S. Air Force Base in Norfolk.

No Lunch Counter Compromise By Greensboro Firms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A committee in Greensboro, N.C., seeking a solution to segregated lunch counter service says managers of two variety stores there blocked efforts toward a compromise. The report by the Greensboro Mayor's Advisory Committee on Community Relations and the Greensboro City Council said the stores, F. W. Woolworth & Co., and S. H. Kress & Co., would not accept a compromise for economic reasons. Lunch counter picketing resumed in Greensboro and other North Carolina cities Friday. In at least two cities, white men joined Negroes protesting segregation. E. R. Zane, chairman of the advisory committee, presented his report to Greensboro Mayor George Roach Friday. The committee said it recommended that general merchandising businesses with lunch counters operate a section "for service to all races on an integrated basis" and reserve the rest of the counter for white customers only. Zane said Negro adult and student leaders agreed to the plan as "a workable compromise." Managers of the two stores declined to accept the proposal, the report continued, "because they are extremely sensitive to public reaction and merchants engaged in general merchandising business who also have food departments are fearful that if they serve all races on an integrated basis in their food departments, they will lose a sufficient percentage of their present patronage to the non-integrated eating establishments in our city to cause presently profitable food departments to operate at a loss." Mayor Roach called on the managers to operate their places in a manner "to eliminate racial tension." Clarence L. Harris, manager of the downtown Woolworth's, said he resented being "singled out from other food merchants." He said the Woolworth policy was to operate according to local custom. The lunch counter protests began in Greensboro Feb. 1 by students from Greensboro A&T College. About 1,200 of the students met Friday, then ended a month-long truce by picketing the Kress

Further Major Changes In Civil Rights Bill Unlikely

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key Senate vote strongly indicates the buffeted civil rights bill is unlikely to undergo any further major changes. Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas teamed up Friday to defeat efforts to write into the House-passed measure provision for an anti-job discrimination commission. They took the position that the bill as it now stands is about the most that can be hoped for and that any far-reaching revisions might scuttle it altogether. "It will be a forward step," said Johnson, who called it neither a Republican nor a Democratic bill. The measure falls short of what President Eisenhower asked for, providing chiefly for protection of Negro voting rights. But Dirksen said that "when you can't get a whole loaf, you get as much as you can." He also quoted Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers as saying its passage would mark "meaningful progress in the field of civil rights." Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) bitterly protested the leadership stand against additional amendments to broaden and strengthen the bill. "This is a weak Republican bill, watered down by Southern and Southwestern Democratic votes," he told the Senate. "We know we are being sold a bill of goods—a sham." The stormy arguments broke out when Dirksen called up the amendment to create a 11-member commission to seek the elimination of racial discrimination in the hiring of workers by federal contractors and employers generally. Although the commission proposal was part of the administration's civil rights program, Dirksen promptly announced he would move to table and thus kill it. Johnson backed him to the hilt. When the roll was called, the amendment was killed by a 48-38 vote. Twenty-seven Democrats and 21 Republicans voted for the tabling motion, while 27 Democrats and 11 Republicans voted against it. The amendment was introduced by Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.), but he said he had decided not to call it up at this time after he learned that a summary procedure had been agreed on to kill it. But Dirksen, anxious to force a showdown on the issue, moved in and called it up himself. Dirksen said he realized it put him in an awkward position, but he told the Senate "I am interested in enactment of a civil rights bill." Before voting on the anti-job discrimination amendment, the Senate broke a deadlock over the last of the amendments to the House-passed bill that had been recommended by its Judiciary Committee. Most of the committee amendments stirred little dispute, but one sponsored by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) aroused a sharp controversy over the registration procedures to be followed by the federal voting referees provided for in the bill.

Filing Deadline For Candidates In Final 2 Weeks

As time allotted for candidates to file for Pitt County elective offices swung into its final two weeks, a total of 18 have joined a field seeking election or re-election to 17 different county offices. The filing deadline is Friday, April 15 at noon. During the past week, Pitt's single race has developed on the constable level. Joe E. Joyner Jr. filed for re-election as Greenville Township's constable. W. Randolph Harris had previously filed for the post. The remaining 16 candidates are, to date, alone in seeking their respective Democratic nominations to office in the May 28 Primary. Pennell Burnette filed during the week for the Farmville Township constable post. F. C. Owens and C. G. Moore filed for justice-of-the-peace offices in Fountain and Ayden Townships, respectively. In addition to constable and justice posts to be filled by Pitt voters in November, are two county commissioner posts, Pitt's Senate seat, the county's pair of House seats, the Recorder's Court judgeship and solicitor position, and the county register of deeds. At least one candidate has filed for each office.

Derailment, Fire For Big Freight

RODUCO, N.C. (AP)—Twenty-nine cars of a 102-car Southern Railway freight train plunged off the tracks near here early today. Fire spread from a gasoline tank car to five other cars. But officials of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, whose tracks the freight was using, said the fire was quickly controlled. The cars were prevented from traveling off the right of way by a high bank of dirt and sawdust along the tracks. No one was injured. The train, bound from Portsmouth, Va., to Rocky Mount, N.C., was moving at 40 m.p.h. when the derailment occurred at 6:45 a.m. near the railroad station of this northeast North Carolina town. Some 500 feet of limited-use track was torn up. Cause of the derailment was not known immediately. The fire threatened no dwellings or other structures, the ACL said. Gen. Mgr. L. T. Andrews of the ACL operating division in Wilmington said the derailed cars contained fertilizer, feed, pulpwood and gasoline. He said the tracks, used for two freight trains daily, would be in operating condition Sunday. Fire fighting equipment from the Portsmouth, Va., naval installation was sent to the scene to help firemen from nearby towns.

BARBARA JEAN JONES talent for the pageant will be a dramatic reading. She was freshman class secretary and in the freshman play, Miss Jones has been Lambda Tau Homecoming sponsor and Delta Zeta Homecoming sponsor. She is a member of Delta Zeta sorority and its secretary. A graduate of Garner High School, she was named Miss Congeniality in the Miss Wake County Pageant of 1957. The brown haired, brown eyed contestant weighs 115 pounds. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene M. Jones of Raleigh.

Overworked?

ROCKY MOUNT (AP)—Those faithful, hard working mules of eastern North Carolina are literally being worked to death. Scores of the animals have been reported dead since the arrival of springlike weather. Farmers attribute the deaths to heart attacks. They say the animals are in poor physical condition after being penned up during the long, hard winter. James Glover, manager of a firm specializing in the removal of dead animals, says his trucks have picked up at least 100 dead mules since March 28 in a 25-county area in the northeastern part of the state. Glover said today he received 15 calls for mule removals before 8 a.m. The bad weather during March caused farmers in the area to fall behind in plowing.

Bonner To Open Campaign Office Here

BONNER HEADQUARTERS—Slated for opening early next week is the Pitt County campaign headquarters office for Rep. Herbert C. Bonner of Washington, seeking re-election to an 11th consecutive term as congressional representative from the First District. Bonner's spokesman, James S. Jenkins, said, this morning the office will open as soon as finishing touches are applied to interior. Mrs. Charlie Bishop will be the headquarters hostess, Jenkins said, and the Pitt campaign manager will be named soon. The office is at Five Points on Dickinson Ave.

Building A New Life

Quite a thrill — building a new home! Day by day you watch it take shape. And somehow, you have the feeling that this new house will bring new life for you and your family.

But building a new life isn't as simple as building a new home. One just can't move out of the drab past into a sparkling future.

The life to which conscientious men and women aspire is built on foundations that cannot be laid in a week or two. Character, courage, consecration — these are concrete evidences of faithful years in the worship and service of God.

Today, where there are new houses there are new churches — and where there are old houses there are old churches. And through the portals of all the churches pass the millions of earnest families who are serious and happy about building a new life.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Please go to church regularly — and read your Bible daily.

Mrs. Clara M. Shackell Outstanding 1959 Woman

Suggestions Given By Decorator

Guests and members of the Thetis Book Club heard Jack Thomas speak on interior decorating at their Tuesday afternoon meeting at the home of Mrs. W. M. Howard on Slay Drive.

Thomas attended the University of Kentucky and the New York School of Design.

He reviewed the traditional contemporary and modern styles. Suggestions include: in deciding upon a color scheme, choose the color of the floor covering, then the color of the walls and draperies. Then decide where the largest piece of furniture is to be placed; choose accessories that have a purpose. Two or three predominant colors may be used throughout the home.

The new trend in home decorating is to the Egyptian style, which may be mixed with the contemporary styles. The new color scheme trend is to strong colors on floor and subdued wall and draperies.

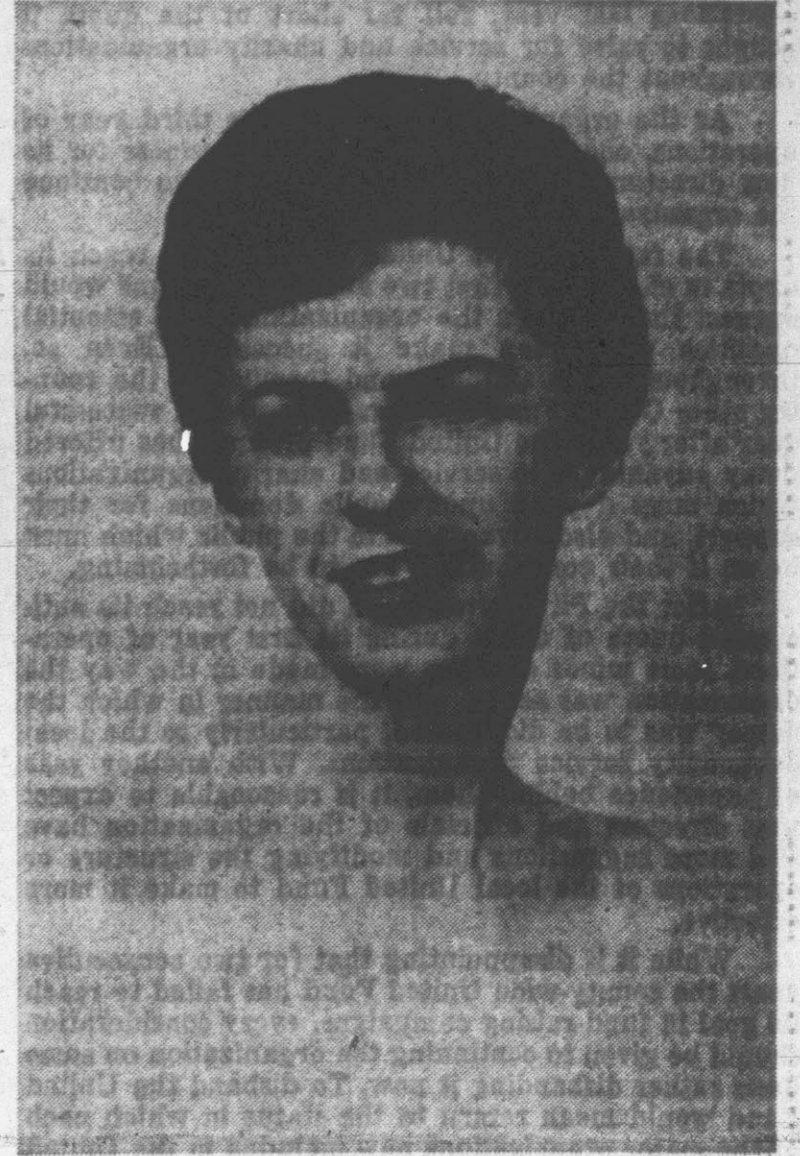

Prior to the program, Mrs. Joe Clark, president, presided over the business meeting, during which books were exchanged.

Mrs. Howard's invited guests for the afternoon included Mrs. Carlton Taylor, Mrs. Charles Worthington and Mrs. Cletas Jackson Jr.

MISS NORMA ANNE HARRELSON . . . is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Danuis Harrelson of Southport, S. C., who announce her engagement to Wade Thurman Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Thurman Ward of Bethel. The wedding will take place June 11.

Students Attending Meet; Jr.-Sr. Underway

By CRAIG WORTHINGTON
Four Rose High National Honor Society members are attending the state convention today and tomorrow at Lenoir College.

At a recent meeting, the society voted to send juniors so they could use the knowledge that they gain in next year's work. Three delegates, Louis Jones, Erskine Duff, and Ben White, and one unofficial delegate, Ruth Clark, made the trip with Miss Frances R. Smith, adviser.

society chapter is serving as host for the convention.

Juniors Begin Work
Juniors have begun work on their annual Junior-Senior by selecting the committees in charge of the affair. The banquet and prom is scheduled for May 6 at the Moose Lodge.

Ruth Clark and Melinda Coleman, co-chairmen; and Betsy Bryant, Steve Humbert, and Craig Worthington serve as the steering committee for the floorshow. Mrs.

Nellie R. White advises this committee.

Barbara Allen and Margaret Greene serve as co-chairmen of the banquet committee. Mrs. Ruth T. Bing serves as this group's adviser. Arlene Harrington and Jan Coward, co-chairmen, will plan entertainment for the banquet.

The various decorating committees and their chairmen include stage decorations, Louis Jones; foyer, Ginger Melton; sides and back wall, Carol Barlow and Emily Standell; lighting, J.B. Sur-les; and ceiling, Jack Barnhill. Miss Frances R. Smith and Mrs. Lucy M. Worsley serve as advisers for these committees.

Science Club Meets
The Rose High Science Club met Wednesday morning in the science laboratory. The program, presented by Jane Reynolds and Brenda Harris, included a demonstration of their chemistry project, "How Stainless Is Your Steel?", which recently won first place at the high school Science Fair.

The project demonstrated the effects various substances and chemicals had on stainless steel flatware. They ran approximately 12 tests with various substances in order to determine the chemicals which cause steel to corrode.

Rose Speaks
Junius H. Rose, superintendent of Greenville City Schools, spoke to the student body yesterday in assembly. Reggie Johnson opened the program by reading from the Bible the parable of The Talents.

Rose then spoke concerning this parable. He stated that much attention had been focused recently on the "Gifted Child" and the importance of educating him properly. He stressed that desire to learn was just as important as being "gifted."

Continuing he said, that it is the person of average ability, like the majority of people, whom he wishes not to get trampled in this worshiping of bright youth. He stressed the importance of common everyday people in society. He also praised America for giving everyone a chance for an educated instead of just the "gifted."

Bryant To Attend Convention
Margy Bryant, junior, will attend the first annual Youth Fitness Convention in Raleigh next Saturday.

North Carolina State College will serve as host for the convention. Juniors and seniors throughout the state will attend. "Youth Speaks Out on Fitness" will serve as the theme. Those attending will discuss this theme as applied to home, school, church, and community.

Mrs. West To Serve 6th Term

Mrs. C.D. West, Jr. will head the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars during the ensuing year. She was elected president of the organization at its March meeting held last Thursday evening.

Her election makes the sixth term which Mrs. West has served in this capacity. The members of the auxiliary consider her election as a tribute to her outstanding work, interest and leadership in the group.

Other officers who will serve with Mrs. West are: Mrs. L.E. Meeks, senior vice-president; Mrs. Ralph Bailey, junior vice-president; Mrs. Kenneth Brown, treasurer; Mrs. Ruth Garner, chaplain; Mrs. Elbert Bullock, guard; Mrs. J.A. Joyner, conductress; and Mrs. Kathleen Whitfield, trustee.

A joint installation of officers of the post and auxiliary has been scheduled for Thursday evening, April 7. Mrs. Ralph Bailey will serve as installing officer for the auxiliary.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. West with Mrs. Ralph Bailey, president, presiding.

who brought to the attention of the group state and national communications.

The members favored a contribution of $25 to the Health and Happiness Fund for use at the VFW National Home in Eaton Rapids, Mich.

Following the business session, Mrs. West and Mrs. Bailey, hostesses of the evening, served refreshments during the social hour.

Easter Customs Symbols Told

Mrs. Vance Perkins spoke on "Easter Customs and Symbols" before the Inter Se Book Club Tuesday afternoon.

She said, "The story of Easter is not simply a Christian story but the name Easter came from a non-Christian deity. The season itself has also, from time immemorial, been the occasion of rites and observances having to do with the mystery of death and resurrection among peoples differing widely in race and religion."

As a result the full or whole story of Easter is a complex story of history and mythology, said Mrs. Perkins.

The greatest of historical facts is the death and resurrection of Christ.

Mrs. Perkins explained the many symbols and customs of Easter as the egg, the rabbit, the lamb, the cross, sack cloth and ashes, pre-Lent and the Carnival Maundy Thursday, Lent, Good Friday, Saturday and Easter celebrations in many lands.

In keeping with the program, the refreshments in yellow and green were all Easter symbols. The table was covered with a white linen cut-work cloth centered with an arrangement of yellow and white spring flowers. On either side of the arrangement were nests of yellow and green eggs guarded by yellow rabbits.

Mrs. Melvin Hoot, Mrs. Bob Thompson and Mrs. Tom Henderson assisted in serving.

Proceeding the social hour a business meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Perkins.

United Fund Too Good To Give Up

Pitt County's United Fund, in its second year of operations last year, fell far short of the quota it sought to raise for service and charity organizations throughout the county.

As the organization moves into its third year of operations, one of the first matters of business for its new directors will be to decide whether to continue the organization or disband it.

The fact that Pitt United has failed to reach its quota in either of its first two annual campaigns would suggest that perhaps the organization lacks essential qualities which can make it successful. Even so, throughout North Carolina and throughout the country other United Fund chapters have proved successful year after year. The United Fund program has offered many advantages to service and charity organizations which must depend upon public donations for their support, and also advantages to the public which must be on if their contributions are to be forthcoming.

After the Pitt United Fund did not reach its anticipated quota of funds during its first year of operations, some minor changes were made in the way the organization was set up and the manner in which the money was to be distributed, particularly to the local community service organizations. With another year of experience behind them, it is reasonable to expect that directors and officials of the organization have still more suggestions and modifying the structure or operations of the local United Fund to make it more effective.

While it is disappointing that for two consecutive years the county-wide United Fund has failed to reach its goal in fund-raising campaigns, every consideration should be given to continuing the organization on some basis rather than disbanding it now. To disband the United Fund would mean return to the status in which each of the major organizations now included in the United Fund would conduct individual fund-raising campaigns every year. On top of that each of the numerous community organizations represented by the community service committees in each of the townships of the county would also have to have individual campaigns to secure the funds needed for their worthwhile undertakings.

The result would be many campaigns, much duplication of effort on the part of solicitors and considerable more trouble to those who customarily give service and charity organizations.

Before abandoning the idea of a United Fund, we trust the directors of the county organization will diligently seek structural revisions in the program, together with necessary reorganization which might afford Pitt a successful United Fund organization. If the

Thinking Behind Industrializing

(During absence of Lynn Nisbet, each candidate for Governor, Lieutenant Governor and United States Senator has been invited to write a guest column, stating his views.)

By CLYDE EGGERS
Rep. Candidate for Lieut. Gov.

With appreciation of the opportunity of writing a guest column for Lynn Nisbet, under his generous plan to have all candidates for State office to do this, I am glad to fill this space with some of my opinions.

As is generally known I am a Republican candidate for the office of Lieutenant Governor, have served in the House of Representatives for four terms, and have certain clear-cut ideas about our State.

Being a native of the vaulted northwestern section, where the tourist industry is such vital importance, I am of necessity concerned with the continuing and increased emphasis on this phase of our development in North Carolina. This industry which brings so much money into the State is of importance from the Blue Ridge to the Atlantic Ocean and pours into the coffers of our general welfare fantastic sums of money. I believe in the increased advertising of our tourist attractions, and the promotion of them through every feasible effort of the State government.

I believe in an improved public school system, staffed by better paid teachers, and the appropriation of additional money to bring our State-supported colleges and the University into even better positions of leadership, and to provide them teachers of national stature. In other words our institutions of higher learning should be able to go into the national market, so to speak, and compete with other great institutions for the top talent.

I believe in the continued effort on the part of the State to attract new industries to this area, so as to raise the per capita income to the point where our people will be enjoying an income to permit a living standard comparable with other sections.

I am anxious that our fine highway system be expanded and constantly improved to pace our continued growth and prosperity.

Here in North Carolina we have been greatly blessed with a wide variety of climate, from the cool breezes of my own native hill country to the busy manufacturing Piedmont, the productive lands of the east and the Atlantic strands. It is truly a land of variety—a State where industry, farming, the tourist business, churches and schools, may thrive in a friendly environment.

What I seek, and have sought through my public career is a faster development of our resources and of our latent talents. I am not an "anti," so to speak, but shall continue to work for what I believe to be the best interests of our people and of our institutions.

It is in the belief that I can continue to offer something constructive to my region and to my State that I again go before the voters.

fund-raising efforts of the county can be channelled through one annual United effort, it will certainly be much better for the organizations and the people than a multiplicity of individual drives every year.

Out On A Limb, And Public Picks Up Bill

More times than not when a high government official goes out on a costly limb and the limb gets sawed from under him, its the taxpayers throughout the country who eventually picks up the tab for damages.

Such is the case with the $10 million Uncle Sam is going to pay cranberry growers who were unable to sell their crop last year after the cancer scare precipitated by Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of health, education and welfare.

Flemming's explosive statement that chemicals used on the cranberry crop might cause cancer caused the bottom to drop out of the berry market just before Thanksgiving. As it turned out, Flemming's statement about the connection between cranberries and cancer hardly seemed justified. There was no proof of any connection between cancer even in the case of berries sprayed with the chemical.

But those facts didn't come out in time to save the berry farmers from heavy losses. The fact that the farmers were done a grave injustice by the head of that important government agency was more or less conceded in subsequent statements. Now, belatedly, the government is going to reimburse the farmers for the losses caused by the statement of the high officials.

The government is reimbursing the farmers, but when the government does something with money, they are doing it with taxpayers' money, which means money that came from the pockets of the man on the street.

The cranberry-cancer statement last year may have caused Secretary Flemming some embarrassment, but now it is costing the taxpayers of the nation a cool $10 million. He made the miscue, and the public has to pick up the bill.

Three Forces In Nixon's Thinking

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Only last Monday Vice President Richard M. Nixon, a clinch for the Republican presidential nomination, looked out upon a political sea which for him appeared completely untroubled. Not a ripple in sight.

And there was no reason to believe it wouldn't stay like that until the rough weather of the political campaign set in late next summer. Later in the week there was even a burst of sunshine from President Eisenhower.

Then suddenly there were whitecaps, blown up by one of the most conservative of all Republicans, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. What Goldwater told him in effect was:

"Don't get giddy with liberal ideas. You'd better stay conservative, or else."

Calm as the water was early in the week, Nixon seemed to realize people were wondering: Would he try to ride into the White House on Eisenhower's shoulders, standing on the administration's record and philosophy, shouting "me, too?" Or would he have some ideas he could call his own?

So Monday night he announced he wouldn't stand pat on what Eisenhower had—or hasn't—done but would develop his own program by expanding on the Eisenhower program.

This was a deft touch: It implied no criticism or repudiation of any of Eisenhower's thinking while holding out the promise of some different kind of thinking, or at least new thinking.

Still, there was a bit of a dilemma involved: Nixon has the conservative Republican backing. But he can't win unless he also attracts the liberal Republicans and the independent voters, too.

This reduced his problem to a simple question: How can he please all three groups without alienating any of them?

Goldwater got the point fast. For Nixon to attract the liberal Republicans and the independents might require him to move to the left of the conservatives. If he tries it, Goldwater said, he may lose the conservative Republicans.

Since Goldwater is a vigorous man, who doesn't mind saying what he thinks, Nixon is now alerted to the realization that he is going to be watched even before the campaign begins, and is being watched by conservatives.

One of the people close to Nixon tried to explain what the vice president has in mind: "That in carrying forward the Eisenhower program he will reflect conservative thinking while being progressive in the sense of offering constructive solutions for national problems.

This kind of explanation isn't going to have much meaning until Nixon begins spelling it out in detail.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
BREAD OR ADMONITIONS

Has the church lost its power over the hearts of men and women today?

The story is told of two church leaders who were discussing the fact that religion is big business. One leader remarked, "The time has passed when church leaders say as the Apostle Peter once did, 'Silver and gold have I none.' His friend replied, "Yes, and the time has also passed when the church can say as Peter did to the lame man, 'In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk.'"

The church, meaning the people that make up the church, is full of power; but the church, meaning the organization and the leaders of the church, is full of weakness. There has never been a time in generations when people were so hungry for spiritual truth as they are right now, and yet often the ecclesiastical brass attempts to appease this hunger with mere morality, rationalism, and, at best, the secondary gospel truths.

It is as if a great multitude stood before their leaders crying for bread and instead of giving them bread, the leaders lectured them on food values, overeating and undereating, soil conservation, and agricultural policy. Today the spiritually hungry often get only the admonition to be a good neighbor, to stand for world peace, and to be tolerant of all races and to work hard for church union.

The church will have power when it avails itself of the power always offered to the believing heart through the gospel of God's forgiving love in Christ.

Adaptation Of A Story

Curiosity and a mild case of anticipation is in order (privately, that is) as to Sunday night's Playhouse 90 presentation of "Alas, Babylon."

Yes. I've read the book; and my current preoccupation lies in how the script writers have adapted a story which offers a multitude of facets for development.

For instance, it could be an out and out love story; or the theme could be one of character development, in which the stresses and strains of prolonged crises bring out the best and worst in people or it could even prove to be a simple lesson in civil defense.

The story has all of that and more in its makeup, and the adaptation—with so many possibilities—sounds like a challenge for the television people.

Aside from the program's general reputation for producing good entertainment, the viewing public has no guarantee of a good show.

Pat Frank, the author, is no Hemingway or Leon Uris; though I bet he's a money-maker. "Alas, Babylon" was for awhile on the best-seller list. Pat Frank has done a certain amount of writing on military subjects and novels to his credit include "Hold Back The Night," "Mr. Adam," "An Affair of State" and "Forbidden Area." In a foreword to "Alas, Babylon" he says the story resulted from some after-thoughts to the question of what would happen to America and Americans in the event of a full-scale surprise nuclear attack.

It isn't a pleasant subject to contemplate. But the story largely overlooks the scope of war and deals with a little community which miraculously was spared radiation contamination, and how the people reacted to immediate problems of survival.

Their situation is made more tenuous by being almost completely isolated from the outside world, and therein are the elements which are used for the developing of characters in the story.

One sidelight: after "The Day" townspeople found a goldmine of entertainment and knowledge in their hitherto little-used library.

With this somewhat wordy sketch as a background, you can understand some of my Sunday evening anticipation.

The adapters for television could do some good... aside from, and in addition to entertaining... by some subtle lessons in survival and instilling a sense of "insurance" in the public mind.

Civil Defense authorities have pretty well distributed information on what to do, but few people take it seriously enough to do anything.

We spend hundreds of dollars each year on various types of insurance, and ignore even the most modest kind of insurance for personal survival in the event of war.

Perhaps this attitude of turning away from a dreadful subject, and by ignoring it in hope it will never come to be, would make producers of "Playhouse 90" shun the preparedness theme and dwell on more theatrical material. For, after all, they are in business to entertain and to hold the audience in order to sell merchandise. Sunday night we'll see.

Stu Is A Strong Runner

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The declaration by Senator Stuart Symington that he is a standard-bearer for the Democratic nomination for President surprised no one. Symington has been a candidate, lo! these many years and a very active one. His future depends upon the influence and power of former President Harry Truman, which has been growing steadily in the Democratic Party.

It is now obvious, by mathematical as well as political calculations, that Senator John Kennedy must be nominated on the first or second ballot or he will not be nominated at all for President. What that means in political terms is that if Kennedy does not reach nomination by the second ballot, his pledged votes will dissipate. This is always a peril to the candidate way out in front. From now on to convention time, it is Kennedy's task to arrange to have more delegations up to at least the fourth ballot. This politically is a formidable task.

Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri steps into the race as a middle-of-the-road compromise candidate. Senator Hubert Humphrey must, at this moment, be regarded as having passed his peak. The Democratic Party is not apparently in a mood for A.D.A. radicals. Hubert Humphrey has chosen that position; he need not have done that. He is too intelligent a man to accept the sociological poppycock represented by the A.D.A. But he made his choice and he is stuck with it. Politics can be unmerciful.

Stuart Symington is a handsome, affable personality. He has been successful in business. He entered public life on the administrative side. He was Secretary of the Air Force in the Truman Administration. In the Senate, he has been one of the outstanding experts on military affairs. He has a black mark on his record in his relations with Senator Joe McCarthy, but that will not cost him any votes because the McCarthyites would not vote for him anyhow.

Symington's attitude toward Soviet Russia is sound and realistic. He is not likely to be tricked by a slight Russian smirk, to say nothing of a smile. He would not be influenced even slightly by Park Avenue intellectualism, the disease from which Adlai Stevenson suffers.

(For those who do not know, Park Avenue intellectualism is the substitution of conservation for knowledge, of loose theories for certainties. In fact, the Park Avenue intellectual regards the expert as a bore and any reference to history or fact as a vulgarity.)

My earlier reference to Harry Truman means more than appears on the surface. What has happened to Herbert Hoover also happened to Harry Truman. Many who believed that Harry Truman was called in the Presidency have come to respect him since he left that office. His judgment has been sounder, less compromising. He has not been surrounded by those who "made him." He has not only applied his self-proclaimed common sense to public problems but, even more, he has displayed considerable evidence of precise knowledge and sound judgment.

Whereas Adlai Stevenson, because he is the most recent defeated Democratic Presidential candidate, has the right to assert himself as the nominal leader of the Democratic Party, the tendency among an increasing number of Democrats is to prefer Harry Truman who possesses greater qualities of leadership.

At any rate, in the struggle between Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Carmine DeSapio for control of the enormous New York delegation to the Democratic Convention, Harry Truman is becoming the principal factor. Whenever he comes to New York, he is treated as though he were a visiting potentate and when he takes his morning walk, newspapermen and others join him until it looks like a miniature parade.

In the smoke-filled room where the Democratic candidate will

Implications In Horse Parlors

By ELMER ROESSNER

The New York Mayor's Committee on Off-Track Betting, seeking new revenues for the city, has proposed that the state allow it to run a chain of horse parlors where citizens could make legal bets on races around the country. One feature would be a "gamble now, pay later" arrangement.

Other cities and states will be watching this plan if put into effect, and you may even hear it proposed for your home town. This column is not to say that the plan is good or bad, but it is to point out some of the business implications of the situation. These are some factors:

1. The scheme will spread. People across the country will find ways to lay bets through this honest system, perhaps by sending money to friends to wager for them. The flow of money into New York (more money flows into a horseparlor than flows out because of the odds, breakage, etc.) will scare other cities and they will set up horseparlors to keep the cash at home. WILL AFFECT RETAIL SALES

2. The difference between the money lost and the money won, about 10 per cent, will represent a loss in consumer buying power. This, in New York, could mean $10,000,000 a day. It will be argued that this buying power will simply be transferred to other people, and much of it will flow to people who won't spend it, or who live out of the areas.

3. Patterns of buying will be influenced. Losers will buy less of staple food and clothing; winners will buy furs and Bentleys.

4. The credit provision will also disrupt trade. Those applying for credit will be investigated. But department and other stores, which support the credit bureau, will want to know which of their customers has been checked for credit by the city gambling agencies. Whether a store will continue credit accounts for customers betting on credit is one each credit manager will have to decide.

5. Dangers of defalcations will rise. A large part of defalcations and inside thefts today are caused by persons who have lost money gambling. With gambling easier, tapping the till for $2-0-$2 bets may lead to a rise in losses and eventually a rise in theft insurance rates.

6. The scheme will create many new jobs: political appointees to run the bet agencies, communications people, bank workers, investigators, prosecutors, judges, inspectors, auditors, tipsters and on and on. Much of the net betting losses will go to these people, who will spend it no less readily than the people who lost the money. The rest would go to the city, which would also spend it. In total, there would be only a slight diminution of total, except as noted under foregoing points.

7. It would result in a loss of manpower, as many workers would take time out—even though bets by phone are proposed—to place bets, get results and dope tomorrow's runs.

8. Businesses would hesitate to locate in areas where employees could gamble because of the possible losses of working time, of defalcation and gambling atmosphere.

of business, may help it. It has been proposed to close city gambling depots at 8 P.M., which would leave the excited bettors no place to make a bet unless they found a scowling bookie or a gambling hideaway.

9. The system would grow on the local economy like mistletoe. Any opposition would be confronted with the facts that abolition of the plan would throw thousands out of work, and that the professional gamblers would take over the gambling operation.

There are moral, psychological, ethical, police and other problems involved, but the foregoing covers the main economic questions.

LET'S NOT WORRY ABOUT THE INDICES
Statistics for the month and the quarter ended yesterday will have less-than-usual significance. Total retail sales will tend to be down because of the unusually severe weather in March, and the late Easter, which has pushed much buying over into April. Furthermore, February had an extra shopping day this year, which will distort sales figures unless diminished by 1-2%.

ECC Blanks Washington And Lee, 7-0

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Sports Editor

Larry Crayton was at his best yesterday afternoon, striking out 16 men, and hurling East Carolina College to a 7-0 triumph over Washington and Lee.

The Greensboro southpaw had a no-hitter going for five innings, but lost it in the sixth, when Park Gilmore beat out a scratch single. With the exception of Gilmore, only four other runners reached base and Crayton picked off two of them.

It was the second win of the season for East Carolina with Crayton hurling both victories. Last week, he pitched ECC to a 7-2 win over Yale, allowing the Bulldogs only five hits.

Sharing the honors with southpaw Crayton was Gary Pierce, last year's batting champion. The chunky left fielder pushed East Carolina in front to stay with a towering two-run homer in the first inning and went on to have a perfect day at the plate in three official trips.

Righthander Roy Carpenter kept ECC hitters under control until the seventh when the locals tallied three more runs.

Pierce was hit by a pitched ball, Jimmy Martin fled to left, and Glenn Bass collected the first of his two doubles, scoring Pierce.

Jerry Carpenter kept the rally alive with an infield bingle and Burl Morris drove across another run with a line-drive single down the third base line. A long fly by Larry Crayton enabled Carpenter to tag up and score from third for the final run of the evening.

In the eighth, ECC pushed across two more runs on three base knocks. Castellone opened the inning with a walk, Wally Cokrell-doubled and Pierce hit another single. Jimmy Martin bounced into a double play but Cokrell scored from third.

Glenn Bass had his second double of the game in this inning but came with the bases empty.

Bass and Cokrell each had two hits for the winners while Pierce contributed three safeties to his mounting average.

Minnie Minosa Caught In Trap

Minnie Minosa of the Chicago White Sox tries to crawl out of the trap as first baseman Glenn Nelson (14) of the Pittsburgh Pirates tags him out between first and second base in exhibition game at Sarasota, Fla. Bill Mazeroski helped close the trap in a rundown. Joe Hicks grounded to Glenn Nelson to start this double play after Nelson touched first base, then threw to Mazeroski to trap Minosa. ## Phantoms Collect Second Victory; Topple Tarboro

TARBORO—Greenville's Phantom baseballers collected their second win of the season in Northeastern AAA competition here yesterday afternoon, by passing Tarboro 8-1.

Righthander Malcolm Griffith handed the mound chores for the Phantoms, giving up only four hits. Griffith struck out five men, and allowed only two walks as the Phantoms took their win.

Big men at the plate for Greenville were Allan McArthur who collected one hit in two trips to the plate, and Billy Neal James, who had two hits in four attempts.

The Phantoms of Coach Bo Farley were held to only six hits throughout the contest, but their win came on the strength of errors committed by the Tarboro diamondmen. The Tigers committed nine field errors, and managed to let two wild pitches get by them, which provided the Greenville visitors means for scoring.

Nieport Holds 5-Stroke Lead At Wilmington

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Tom Nieport was in a new and pleasing position going into today's third round of the $15,000 Azalea Open Golf Tournament.

The Bronxville, N.Y., professional, had a five-stroke lead after 33 holes on a 64-68-132 performance through the first two days.

His five-shot edge over runner-up Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., was the biggest halfway lead of the year on the PGA circuit, in 13 tournaments old.

Nieport, who is not invited to play in next week's Masters Tournament at Augusta, Ga., had nine on-par greens Friday, bringing his two-round total to 21.

In third place at 138, six hosts of the pace after a second day, was Gay Brewer of Crystal River, Fla.

Steve Ragan of Orlando, Fla., and Jerry Barber of Los Angeles, tied for second only three shots behind after the first round both dropped to par 72 for 139 total and a tie for fourth with Ed Oliver of Denver and Jerry Pittman of Tulsa, Okla.

Akron's Wingfoots Are Smothered; Peoria Gains Olympic Trial Finals

DENVER (AP) — Peoria's tournament-wise AAU champions and the NCAA university area, bristling with Oscar Robertson and three other All-Americans, battle tonight for the championship of the U.S. Olympic basketball trials.

To the winner will go at least five places, and possibly seven, on the 12-member team that will wear the Stars and Stripes in Rome this summer.

Robertson and All-America Jerry West poured in 51 points between them to bury Akron, Ohio's AAU Wingfoots 103-88 in Friday night's second round before 8,500 at the Denver Coliseum.

Peoria, winner of the 1952 Olympic trials, broke out of a 9-9 tie on the shooting of 6-6 Tom Meschery of St. Mary's (Calif.) and never trailed the rest of the way in beating the NAIA small college stars 68-66.

Ohio State's NCAA champions, spilled by the NAIA club 76-69 in the first round, bounced back with an 89-79 consolation victory over the NCAA All Stars coached by Arad McCutchan.

Bartlesville, Okla., champion of the AAU's national industrial league, conquered the Armed Forces Stars 88-74 and will play Ohio State in a consolation match this afternoon. The other afternoon contest sends the Armed Forces against McCutchan's NCAA crew.

Dick Tiger Has Split Decision

BOSTON (AP)—Rugged middleweight Dick Tiger wants a crack at Gene Fullmer, Paul Pender and Sugar Ray Robinson but it looks like he'll have to defend his British Empire championship first.

So said Jersey Jones Friday night after the Nigerian battler hammered out a split 10-round decision over Argentina's Victor Zalazar at the Boston Arena.

Jones, who identifies himself as Tiger's "representative," said in the dressing room "Tiger hasn't defended in just over two years."

"Jones added he had received a cable from Mickey Duff, manager of Terry Downes, for a Liverpool title match "and we may have to go over and take it."

Tiger, shorter, stockier and more muscular than his lanky South American opponent, finished strong Friday night. He dominated the first half of the fight, then had some trouble from the jabbing Zalazar before taking the offense again.

Tiger is the eighth-ranked challenger according to the National Boxing Assn. while Zalazar is unranked.

Referee Jimmy McCarron and Judge Tom McNeely Sr., scored the fight for the winner, 99-95 and 98-94, while Judge George Platte had it even 96-96 on the Massachusetts 10 points must system. Both fighters weighed 161.

Negro Elected Co-Captain Of State Net Team

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina State College tennis team has elected a Negro its co-captain.

Senior Irwin Holmes, No. 5 man on the Wolfpack net team, and James Spence, a white youth from Greensboro, were named co-captains in recent team balloting.

Holmes, of Durham, thus became the first Negro to captain an Atlantic Coast Conference athletic team.

Coach John F. Kenfield said having a Negro on the squad has presented a problem only when the schedule calls for a visit to one of the conference's two South Carolina teams.

This has been resolved, Kenfield explained, by having South Carolina and Clemson come to Raleigh.

Under South Carolina law, Holmes would not be allowed to play there. "I wouldn't go down there without him," Kenfield said.

Reds' Righthander Easily Paces Victory Over Yanks

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees, with a feverish spring record of 6-14, need something, but a psychologist isn't the answer.

Jim Brosnan, witty writer, professional pitcher and amateur psychologist, proved that Friday. The Cincinnati Reds' righthander pitched the front seven innings of a 3-0 victory over the Yanks at St. Petersburg. He allowed only four hits.

Brosnan, a five-year major league veteran, has always been a good seven-inning pitcher. But against the Yanks he could have easily worked nine. If Reds Manager Fred Hutchinson hadn't wanted to take another look at Bill Henry and Raul Sanchez. They completed the shutout, the Yanks' sixth loss in their last seven exhibitions.

Brosnan, who has written humorous magazine pieces, is readying his arm for the long game.

He went the route last Sunday in a six-hit, 4-3 victory over the Milwaukee Braves. But with the St. Louis Cardinals and Reds last year he started 10 times and finished only once. His won-lost record was 9-6 and his ERA 3.80 in 116 innings.

Much of that work was in relief, but continued strong outings could move Brosnan alongside Cal McLish, Don Newcombe and Bob Purkey as a starting righthander. Joe Nuxhall and Jim O'Toole are the top Cincinnati left-handers.

The Yanks' Casey Stengel must have been envious of the Reds' pitching. His left-handed ace Whitey Ford, gave up one run in three innings, then had to retire because of a head cold.

In other Florida day games, the Detroit Tigers defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 10-5 at Lakeland and the Kansas City A's stopped Pittsburgh 4-3 at Fort Myers. In night games, Baltimore defeated Washington 3-2 at Miami and the Philadelphia Phillies outslugged the Chicago White Sox 12-11 in the opener of their Puerto Rican series.

The Milwaukee Braves were idle, and Los Angeles was rained out of a game with the dodgertown All-Stars at Vero Beach.

The hits continued to fly in Arizona where the Boston Red Sox beat the San Francisco Giants 8-6 in 10 innings at Phoenix, and the Chicago Cubs outdid the Cleveland Indians 13-12 at Tucson.

The Tigers shocked the Cards with 10 runs in the third inning, and St. Louis Manager Solly Hemus let his ace Harry Jackson, suffer through it all. The strong righthander worked two shutout innings before the three after the explosion in which 15 men batted.

Bob Cerv, the A's power man, hit a ninth-inning, tie-breaking homer to hand the Pirates their fourth straight loss. Cerv also batted

Pittsburgh Going Like House Afire--In Spring

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Pittsburgh had the world by the tail in spring training. Not even Manager Danny Murtaugh expects the Pirates to keep up that dazzling winning pace. But he does not concede a thing.

"We were only three games out last Sept. 1," he said. "They can't write us off. A few people picked us last year but we lost the first five and had a hard time getting started again."

"Basically, we are the same ball club, our fortunes lie in the boys who had a bad year coming back to their full potential."

"Bill Mazeroski (.241) dropped from 19 home runs to 7. Dick Groat had what most shortstops would consider a good year (.275). We had to rest him a little but he came back at the finish. Bill Virdon (.254) tumbled way down there in batting and Bob Skinner (.280) dropped off more than 40 points."

"On the pitching side, Bob Friend fell all the way from 22-14 to 8-19. We think he will be back on the beam this year."

"Lack of power hurt. We had only one consistent long-ball hitter. That was Dick Stuart (.297 and 27 homers)."

Stuart will be on first with Mazeroski at second, Groat at short and Don Hoak (.294) at third. Gene Baker, disabled all last year after a knee operation, has been the talk of the camp. He will fill a utility job and Dick Schofield (.234) will have another. Rocky Nelson (.291) is the reserve first baseman, left-handed pinch hitter and part-time outfielder.

Murtaugh hasn't decided on his regular outfield. Skinner will be in left. He has been working Virdon; Roberto Clemente (.296) and Gino Cimoli (.279 at St. Louis) in both right and center. The man with the hot bat has been rookie Joe Christopher (.301 at Columbus) who seems to have won a job.

Smoky Burgess (.297) and Hal Smith (.288 at Kansas City, who also can play third base, are the first two catchers. Bob Oldis (.294 at Denver) or Danny Kravitz (.253) will be No. 3.

Friend, Vern Law (18-9), and Harvey Haddix (12-12) are the sure-fire starters. Bennie Daniels (.79) looks like No. 4.

Clemson And Ga. Tech Set Slate

ATLANTA (AP)—Georgia Tech and Clemson College have agreed to a new four-year football contract.

Jacket Athletic Director Bobby Dodd announced the renewal of the colorful series Friday.

The series will be held each season on Grant Field, beginning Sept. 22, 1962. The other dates are Sept. 28, 1963; Oct. 3, 1964, and Oct. 2, 1965.

Clemson has lost to Tech for the past two years, but each season went on to win the Atlantic Coast Conference championship.

The Department of Defense was established in 1947 as the National Military Establishment.

Sportsman Stock Cars To Race At Tarboro Sunday

TARBORO—With the first Sportsman Stock Car Race of the 1960 season less than 24 hours away, the Edgcombe Speedway, Inc., was a beehive of activity today.

The first of five events will get underway at 2 p.m. tomorrow afternoon.

Starting with time trials, in which each driver and his car will race solo against the clock and the track, then 10 lap heats, a 15 lap consolation heat and the feature 25 lap race, to round out a full afternoon of stock car racing thrills.

Among the entries for tomorrow's events are three of the fastest cars on the track last year. Bill "Bo" Daniels of Goldsboro has entered the same Chevrolet he drove to win last season's 50 lap championship race. Bill Duff of Seven Springs will be driving the same Ford number 169 in which he won many of the events, and Edsel Beard of Bailey will be driving the Lane-Hall entry from Rocky Mount.

A spokesman for the track stated today, "We expect the greatest season in the history of the track this year. Several special races, including at least two memorial programs, have been planned. Several alterations have been made in the track's fencing which we feel will make this one of the states safest quarter mile dirt tracks."

He also stated, "Although we understand some tracks are presenting racing programs without insurance coverage as a protection for both the spectators and the racing competitors, the Edgcombe Speedway, Inc., feels it is duty bound to provide its fans proper coverage."

The Edgcombe Speedway, Inc., is located 11 miles east of Rocky Mount and 6 miles west of Tarboro on the Old Tarboro-Rocky Mount highway.

Thompson Sets Darlington Mark

DARLINGTON, S. C. (AP) — Speedy Thompson of Charlotte is the holder of the new track record for Darlington Raceway.

In a high speed tire test run Friday, Thompson toured the mile and three-eighths asphalt speedway in his 1960 Pontiac at 125.553 m.p.h.

The former record was 124.842 m.p.h. set by Fireball Roberts of Daytona Beach, Fla., in a qualifying run for last Labor Day's Southern 500.

Thompson was uninjured when his car crashed into a guard rail in an effort to hit 130 m.p.h.

USIA Executive Speaks To Local Exchange Club

Robert M. Pilcher, United States Information Agency executive stationed in Greenville, outlined the Voice of America's engineering projects in Pitt County by last night at the regular dinner meeting of the local Exchange Club. Pilcher began his comments by giving brief biographical sketches of the VOA directors here and explaining the duty of each. He told club members that VOA plans to have approximately 110 persons employed in its activities in Pitt and Beaufort counties within about two years. Sixty-five of these are to be on the engineering staff with some 45 on the custodial force. He said the VOA project will consume approximately 6,600 acres in its three sites—Leggett's Crossroads, Shelmerdine, and Bell Arthur.

Funeral Sunday For William Silas Smith

Mr. William Silas Smith, 61, died at his home in the Spring Hope Community near New Bern Saturday morning at seven o'clock after several months of illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Church of God in New Bern Sunday afternoon at three o'clock by the pastor, the Rev. Hugh Sauter, assisted by the Rev. Albert E. Wingate, pastor of the Church of God in Vanceboro. Burial will be in the Morris Cemetery near Vanceboro. The body will remain at the Wilkerson Funeral Home and will be carried to the church one hour prior to the time of service.

Mrs. Smith spent most of his life in Craven County in the Vanceboro Community and had lived in the Spring Hope Community for the past year. He was a member of the Church of God in New Bern and was a farmer.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Merle Smith; a daughter, Shelby Jean Smith of the home; eight sons: William R., Earl, James Ray, Leroy, Edward, Kenneth, and Dalton Smith, all of near the home, and Ruel Smith of Ft. Myers, Fla.; 10 grandchildren; two sisters: Mrs. John Waters and Mrs. Levy Morris of Vanceboro; and two brothers: Charlie and John A. Smith of Vanceboro.

Plan Observing Nat'l NFA Week

Pitt County's two chapters of the National Farmers of America will join more than 51,000 N.F.A. members in 16 Southern states in celebrating National New Farmers of America Week.

The event begins Sunday and lasts through the following Saturday. Pitt County's two chapters are the South Ayden School and the Pitt County Training School, with 150 members in the N.F.A.

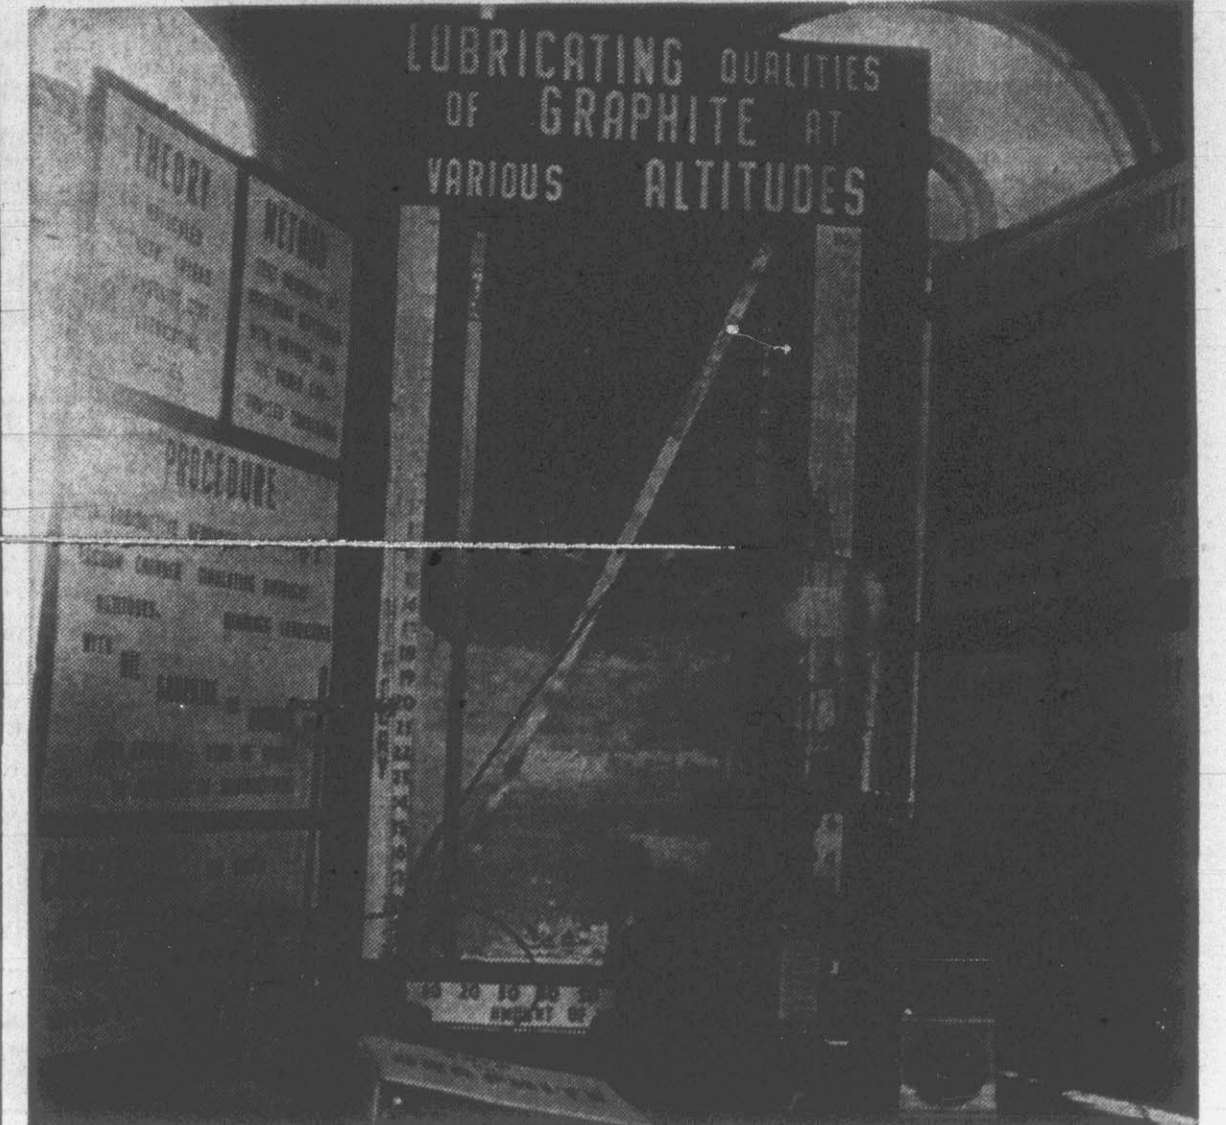

To be an active member of the N.F.A., a boy must be a student of vocational agriculture in high school, where he studies the science of agriculture production, receives training in marketing, farm management, soil conservation, farm mechanics care and maintenance, the operation of modern farm machinery and other jobs that are required on the farm.

The Methodist Men's Club of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church will meet Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall.

Painters Asked To Volunteer Day Of Work For Community Art Center

A request for painters to volunteer one day for painting the new Greenville Art Center has been issued by M. K. Blount, president of the East Carolina Art Society, and Dr. K. B. Pace, one of the directors. Blount and Pace are asking that all painters who have not already given their services on the project meet Wednesday at the Greenville Art Center, located at the Flanagan house on Evans Street, to help ready the gallery for an Easter Sunday opening.

Pace commented that the request is an effort to do something for Greenville. All the paint has been donated for the inside of the home by various individuals and firms, while one firm contributed all the paint necessary for the outside of the art center. Already, many painters have given their time, and have completed the third floor, or children's gallery, and have finished painting necessary rooms on the second floor, which will furnish quarters for the studios and workshops. Most recent volunteers are Johnny Edwards and Clyde Sauls. Work is now concentrating on the first floor, where the main exhibition galleries will be located. Most of the roofing work has been completed, also, Mrs. J. H. Moore, director of the center, said.

Number Of Local Entries In Sunday's Horse Show

"A good number of local horses" will be among the entrants in a horse show here tomorrow, according to Greenville Saddle Club president Charles Steinmeyer. Steinmeyer, who said 100 horses from North Carolina and Virginia are expected for the show, listed nine local people who are among those who have horses entered. They include Roland Mayo, Frank Craft, Sidney Johnston, Jane Marston, Millie Overton, Regan Jones, Dale Steinmeyer, Bruce Clark and Red Forbes.

Bonner Speaks To Bethel Rotary

BETHEL—Congressman Herbert C. Bonner of Washington was guest speaker at the Bethel Rotary Club meeting Tuesday night and spoke on the subject of "Community Responsibility." Bonner pointed out that in civic and religious life, citizens must see that a town is properly represented and that each person has a responsibility. The congressman paid tribute to Jim Butler, a Rotarian from East Carolina College making up his attendance here, and paid high tribute to ECC for the "great work being done there."

Humber To Talk In Edenton Event

EDENTON — Dr. Robert Lee Humber, state senator from Greenville, will be a featured speaker during Library Week observations here next week. Sen. Humber will speak at the Hotel Joseph Hewes Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. The observance of National Library Week will be held during the week of April 3-9. Governor Hodges has issued a proclamation calling upon citizens of the state to observe the week. The town of Edenton has planned numerous activities, including giving a dollar bill to every 100th person entering two libraries in town.

Little Change In Injured Child

Little change has been made in the condition of a nine-year-old Negro youth who was struck by a car and critically injured Thursday night at the intersection of Fifth and Tyson Sts. Doctors this morning said William Reide of 513 Ford St. was still in "critical condition", suffering from severe brain injuries, multiple fractures of his right arm and leg and other injuries. Investigating officers said the youth allegedly ran into the path of the car, driven by Edgar B. Jenkins of 407 Eastern St., which was headed East on Fifth St.

Estimated State Tax Required

E.R. Carraway of the N.C. Tax office here pointed out this morning persons should be aware of the fact they are required to file a declaration of their estimated state income tax. He emphasized persons receiving at least $200 during the year that will have no taxes withheld under the state's new system are required to file a declaration. Further information can be obtained by contacting Carraway. He also reminded the local office, on the Pitt County Courthouse's third floor, will remain open each day, except Saturday and Sunday, until April 15 from 8:30 to 5:30 for the purpose of helping taxpayers file taxes correctly.

Christian Church Announcement

Guest speaker this Sunday at the Eighth St. Christian Church will be the Rev. Frank Leggett of Rocky Mount's First Christian Church. Pastor of the local church, Rev. William J. Hadden, will preach at the Rocky Mount church during next week at evangelistic services.

Greenville and Pitt County high school students grabbed nine of 16 top awards at the Northeastern North Carolina District Science Fair at East Carolina College yesterday. Students from 22 counties in Northeastern N. C. were represented by projects in two specific categories—biological and physical science. The two top winners came from Grainger High School in Kinston and Washington High School, but students from Rose High in Greenville, Bethel High, Grifton, Ayden, Farmville, and Winterville accumulated nine of the remaining 14 honor ratings. In the Physical Science Senior Division (including grades 10-12) Charles Lee Kling of Kinston was presented a slide rule for his top award-winning project showing the lubrication qualities of graphite at various altitudes. Behind Kling came Jerry Causey of Grifton, Tommy Henderson of Greenville, Anne Briley of Greenville, and Robert Foster Jr. of Kinston. All five top winners will enter their projects in the State High School Science Fair set for April 15-16 at N. C. State College in Raleigh.

In the Junior Division of physical science (including grades seven through nine) top winners were Robert Triplett of Grifton, Sammy Dewar of Bethel, and Chuck Wright of Washington. These projects will also be entered in state competition. In the Senior Division of biological science, Kinston's Jerry Atkinson topped honors with his display showing the importance of gibberellic acid in the growth of plants. He was awarded a microscope. Behind Atkinson came Ben Moore of Farmville, Alice Skinner of Ayden, Andrew Kilpatrick of Greenville, and Julia Ann Doolittle of Kinston. These five projects qualified for entry into state competition.

In the junior biology division, Mary Langston and Corrine Jackson of Winterville, Jack Cummings and Neal Adams of R. M. Wilson Junior High School, and Wilson Clark Jr. of Kinston took top honors. The projects were assembled for display during yesterday morning and the judges decided winners announced yesterday afternoon by Dr. Grover Everette of ECC, director of the fair.

(Continued from Page 4) finally be chosen, Harry Truman's voice will be determining. He is likely to favor Stuart Symington or Lyndon Johnson. This will not be based on personal emotionalism but upon Harry Truman's judgment as to which of these two can most surely defeat Richard Nixon. His opposition to Nixon is not only personal; it is ideological. Truman hates the Republican Party. He will never forgive references to the Democratic Party as the Party of Treason or to himself as soft on Communists. He is a formidable enemy and whoever ignores him does so at his peril. Thus the Symington candidacy takes on great significance.

He Always Gets Off-Brand Gifts

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Bill Taylor says he always gets an off brand gift for his birthday because it comes on April Fool's Day. Friday, his 40th, was no exception. He found a large box on his front porch and inside was a 40-pound pig draped in pink ribbon and bow. But he figures he got the best of the deal.

Library Serving As A Center Of Opportunity

READER'S INDEX . . . is being explained to a patron by Mrs. Linda Stan-cill. This index is used in search of past magazine articles.

FIRST PERMANENTLY FILED 'REFLECTOR' . . . Assistant librarian, Mrs. Jane Smith, is threading a microfilm of the first filed Eastern Reflector, now the Daily Reflector, published January 26, 1882.

FILM FOR OPTIMIST CLUB . . . Mrs. Juanita C. Gardner is previewing a film on Rifle Safety to be shown to the Optimist Club.

"To provide an opportunity for every individual in the state to develop to his maximum capacity by making available to him appropriate library services and materials."

This is the goal of all North Carolina public libraries, including Greenville's Sheppard Memorial Library, for National Library Week, April 3-10.

Today the Sheppard Memorial Library is one of the city's major centers of activity. Varied types of service extend throughout Pitt County to include patrons from every walk of life.

Consisting of all ages and types, these people not only use the library for recreational reading, but chiefly as an information center.

In order to meet these demands, the public library does not limit its collection to books only. For in recent years many new services have been added so that this institution might be better qualified to meet the increasing needs of today's modern society.

Planning a program for your club? Sixteen millimeter films in black and white or color with sound can be borrowed free of charge.

Miss Elizabeth Copeland, local librarian, says that films available include subjects from "child welfare to atomic energy, nature studying to city planning, and fine arts to plant diseases."

On microfilm the public library has some of the first editions of the Daily Reflector, known then as the Eastern Reflector which was a weekly. Many past publications, dating back to January, 1882, of the Pitt County paper can be found. Also the Pitt County census records from 1830-1880 are filmed.

If one desires to become better acquainted with classical and semi-classical music, the library has a collection of more than 500 long-playing records.

Types include symphonies, operas, chamber music, historical speeches, Shakespearan drama, and poems read by their creators.

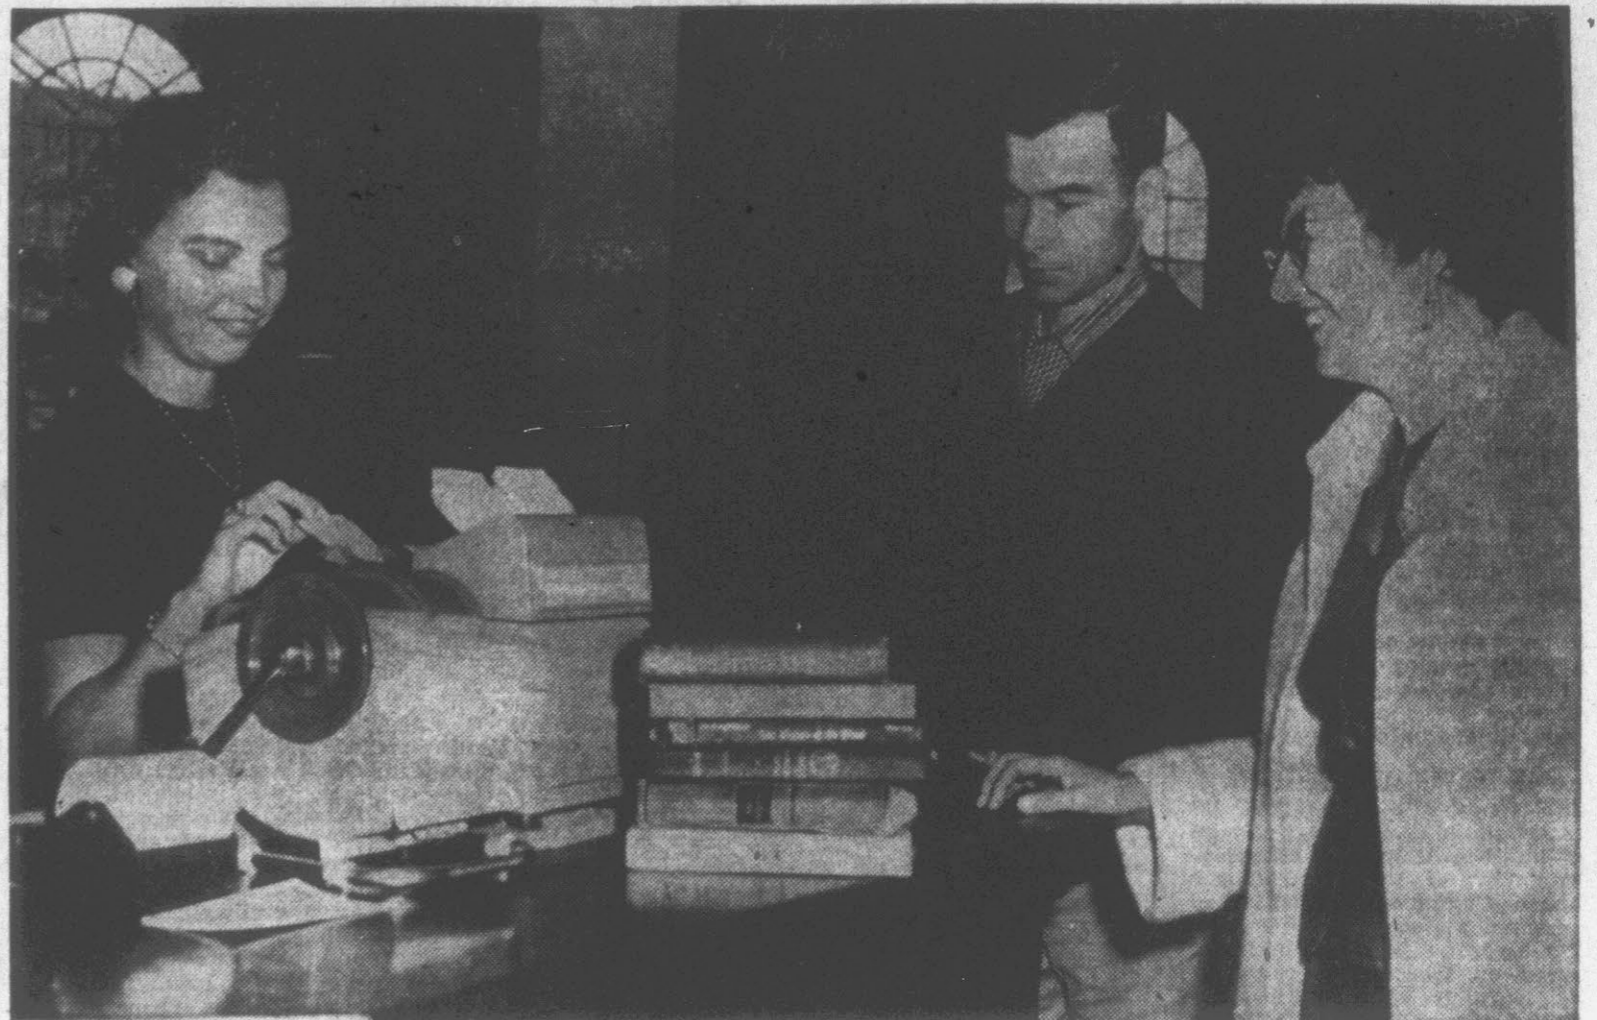

Interested in a magazine article five years old?

The Reader's Index at Sheppard Memorial Library enables the reader to find a magazine article with only the knowledge of the subject. If the patron knows either the author, title, or subject of the article, a library staff member is able to locate it within minutes.

The local library keeps on file such information of articles in approximately 150 popular magazines as old as 10 years. This institution also subscribes to eight widely-known papers.

A small collection of pictures (reproductions of masterpieces) and maps may be borrowed from the library.

For those looking information,

USING ELECTRIC CHARGING MACHINE . . . In order to speed up checking books out, the library has purchased an electric charging machine being operated by Mrs. Helen Rollins, a staff member.

a reference service is offered.

Inter-library loan service system is used. Students attending out-of-town colleges who are required to read certain books during the summer may consult the local librarian. If this library does not have the book, it may be requested from any other library in the state.

A bookmobile operates daily from the Sheppard Memorial Library serving patrons who find it difficult to visit the main library.

The Board of Trustees of the library establishes its policies and maintains its financial support.

Members are S.B. Underwood, Jr., chairman; Mrs. Ficklen Arthur, vice-president; Joseph S. Moye, treasurer; Miss Elizabeth Copeland, secretary to the board.

Others include Mrs. Bancroft Moseley, Mrs. Badger Johnson, W.H. Watson, Charles King, J.H. Rose, Woodrow Woolen of Falkland, D. H. Conley, and Mrs. Milton May of Winterville.

The book and other resources of the public library constitute the open door by which each individual can escape his limitations.

It helps people to make constructive use of leisure time, to educate themselves continuously and to become better members of home and community.

Sheppard Memorial Library is not just a building, but a service organization.

SHEPPARD'S MUSIC ROOM . . . has a collection of more than 500 long-play records, classical and semi-classical. Miss Mary Grace Gaylord is checking recent phonograph records before shelving.

SHEPPARD MEMORIAL LIBRARY BOARD OF TRUSTEES . . . Members of the board establish the library's policies during their monthly meeting.

West, 260.13 feet along said property line to the point of beginning, containing approximately 13.1 acres, and known as the Warren Street Subdivision.

Tract No. 4. Beginning at a point in the old city limits line, said point being in the eastern right-of-way line of Greene Street, if Greene Street were extended, and said point also being located approximately 135 feet south of the southern right-of-way line of Deck Street, and running thence from said point southwardly along the eastern right-of-way line of Greene Street, if Greene Street were extended, to the center of Green Mill Run; thence in a general southwestwardly direction along the various courses and distances of Green Mill Run to a stake, the northeast corner of the J. E. Winslow tract, said point also being northwest corner of Lot 14, Block "D" of the Lakewood Pines Subdivision; thence South 1 deg. 30 min. East, 1800 feet to a stake, a corner, said point also being the northwest corner of Lot 1, Block "D", of the Lakewood Pines Subdivision; thence southeastwardly to the eastern edge of a branch, said branch being the western boundary of Sherwood Acres Subdivision; thence up said branch in a southwestwardly direction to a ditch; thence along the northern edge of said ditch, which is the southern boundary of said Sherwood Acres, to and across Evans Street Extension, to the eastern property line of said Evans Street Extension; thence along the eastern property line of Evans Street Extension, approximately 5365 feet to a point in the old city limits line, said point being at the intersection of the southern right-of-way line of Brown Street, if extended, to the eastern right-of-way line of Evans Street Extension; thence along the old city limits line to the point of beginning, containing approximately 84 acres, and known as Lakewood Pines and Sherwood Acres Sub-

All interested persons are requested to be present at the hearing to be held at the time and place aforesaid when they will be afforded an opportunity to be heard.

By order of the City Council. H. H. DUNCAN, City Clerk.

R. B. Lee, City Atty. Mar. 12-19-28 Apr. 2

NOTICE TO BIDDERS Sealed proposals will be received by the East Carolina College, Greenville, North Carolina, in the office of Business Manager up to 2:00 o'clock P. M., April 21, 1960, and immediately thereafter publicly opened and read for the furnishing of labor, material and equipment entering into the retiling of two (2) bathrooms in Fleming Hall. Complete specifications and contract documents will be open for inspection in the office of F. D. Duncan, Business Manager, or may be obtained by those qualified and who will make a bid.

Only such bids will be considered as are submitted by those principally engaged in the contracting business and who have successfully performed contracts of equal size during the past five (5) years.

Each proposal shall be accompanied by a cash deposit or a certified check drawn on some bank or trust company insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, of an amount equal to not less than five per cent (5%) of the proposal or in lieu thereof a bidder may offer a bid bond of five per cent (5%) of the bid executed by a surety company licensed under the laws of North Carolina to execute such bonds, conditioned that the surety will upon demand forthwith make payment to the obligee upon said bond if the bidder fails to execute the contract in accordance with the bid bond, and upon failure to forthwith make payment, the surety shall pay to the obligee an amount equal to double the amount of said bond. Said deposit shall be retained by the owner as liquidated damages in event of failure of the successful bidder to execute the contract within ten (10) days after the award or to give satisfactory surety as required by law. (General Statutes of North Carolina, C. 143, Art. 8, § 129)

Payment will be made on the basis of ninety per cent (90%) of monthly estimated and final payment made upon completion and acceptance of the work.

No bid may be withdrawn after the scheduled closing time for the receipt of bids for a period of thirty (30) days.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive informalities.

Performance Bond will be required for one hundred per cent (100%) of the Contract Price.

F. D. DUNCAN, Vice President and Business Manager, East Carolina College, Greenville, North Carolina, Apr. 2-11

NOTICE To whom it may concern: You will hereby take notice that B. B. Sugg, owner of that certain tract of land in Falkland Township well known as the Onan Allen farm, with the approval of the Board of County Commissioners, will remove one grave of an unknown person buried thereon to a suitable plot in Greenwood Cemetery. All work will be done under the supervision of the County Health Officer. This notice is given in compliance with GS 65-15.

This the 24th day of March, 1960. B. B. SUGG, Owner, March 26 Apr. 2-9-16

Jones Speaks At FFA Banquet

FARMVILLE—Walter Jones was the speaker at the annual Father-Son Banquet of the Future Farmers of America Farmville Chapter.

He was introduced by School Principal Sam Bundy, John Tugwell, president of the 63-member Farmville chapter, president. The invocation was given by Ray Brock. The address of welcome was by Howard Moye Jr. and his father responded, expressing a hope that the boys would remain farmers and that they would utilize the advantages offered them in the form of education and training.

Donald Fulford introduced the other guests: Ben Lewis, member of the school board; Ted Vandiford, a former student who donated the Ted Vandiford Award at commencement; to an outstanding agriculture student and J. B. Hockaday of the Farmville Enterprise.

Officers serving with Tugwell are: Jerry Wiesner, vice president; Douglas Gay, secretary; Owen Joyner, reporter; Alton Hedgepeth, treasurer; Eimer Flake, sentinel; Ray Brock, chaplain. E. P. Bass is advisor.

Pre-Registration For 3 Schools

Pre-school registration will take place at three Greenville schools in the next few weeks.

Third Street School has set its pre-school registration date and time for Friday, April 8, at 1:30 p. m. Wahl-Coates School's pre-school registration will also be on April 8, at 2 p. m.

The date and time for Agnes Fullilove School is April 14 at 8 p. m.

The purpose of pre-school registration is to register as many children as possible in order to estimate the number of children who will be attending school, as well as to obtain necessary information, according to Mrs. Ellen Carroll, of the City Schools office.

Letters have been mailed to many prospective parents of new school children advising that the law requires every child to be vaccinated for smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough and polio before he starts school. These immunizations may be obtained at the health department clinic every Monday from 9 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 4:30 p. m. or at the family doctor's office.

There will be no physician present on registration day to give immunization shots. Parents have been asked to take immunization certificates to the pre-school clinics in order that school officials obtain dates of the shots.

SEND ANOTHER HEARSE

CHAPTER 26
The man sat utterly motionless. Under the homburg, his face glistened with moisture as I aimed his gun between his eyes. "You understand that carrying a gun is a violation of the Sullivan Law," I said. "I hope you have a license. Otherwise you're guilty of a felony."
"So are you," the man said. "Am I?"
"Yes, sir. Kidnapping. Abduction."
"Add another one," I said. "Assault and battery. I don't like being shadowed. Not by a man with a gun. Especially after somebody tried to kill me last night. I intend to find out why."
His hands rested on his knees and the flat eyes regarded me without expression.

"Who are you working for?" I asked.
"The City of New York."
I narrowed my eyes at him. "That's right," he said. "The City of New York. I'm a police officer."
It set me back a moment. I had a sudden pang of misgiving. He could have been detailed to keep an eye on me by Lieutenant Nola.
"Where's your shield?"
"In my pocket."
"Take it out with your finger tips, slowly and carefully."
He bent forward, shifting his weight, and reached into his hip pocket. A black-leather wallet appeared. He flipped it open, displaying the blue and gold shield of a city detective.

"Satisfied?"
"Who assigned you to tail me?"
"You're mistaken, Counselor. I wasn't tailing you."
"Do you know my name?"
"No."
"And this whole incident is a misunderstanding."
"Seems that way."
"Boy!" I said regretfully. "I wish I had you on a witness stand. You're a bad liar. If I'm a total stranger, why did you call me Counselor? How do you know I'm a lawyer?"
He lifted his hand and deliberately scratched his chin while watching me, his face deadpan. I sidled over to the desk and reached for the telephone. I dialed a number and asked for Lieutenant Nola. He came on at once.
"There's a gentleman here I'd like you to meet," I told him. "He's been tailing me about town. I deceived him to my apartment and let him see my gun. He says he's a city detective and has a shield to prove it. I thought he might be working out of your office."
"What's his name, Scott?"
"Just a minute. I called to my visitor. The lieutenant wants to know your name."
"Suchak — Gus Suchak. Detective second — grade."
The name rang a bell. And more, in fact. It struck a loud, resounding gong. I'd run across it twice before. Once on the list of men working with Sergeant

Books & Stuff

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG
We again contribute our mite of publicity toward celebration of National Library Week, starting this Sunday, April 3. Hitherto this event is being greeted with an unusual amount of silence—perhaps because it's being overshadowed by publication later this month of ECC's Ovid Williams Pierce's second novel, ON A LONESOME PORCH, to come out of Doubleday as one of its favorites of the current season. We've seen a pre-publication copy of the book and will be reviewing it in this column at the earliest possible moment. Meanwhile, you'll be able to buy a copy right after the launching luncheon—which will be quite an affair, climaxing our annual Community Arts Festival. . . . But we still want to remind you not to forget National Library Week, April 2 to 9. Its avowed object is "For a better-read, better-informed America." And its motto is "Wake Up and Read." We'll second the motion. . . .

Local Scene
Rehearsals for the annual Shakespeare production, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," will be starting this week. Let's hope the weather warms up so the Dream can take place in the Planagan Outdoor Theatre, where it's supposed to. . . . This year's SGA musical will be "Annie Get Your Gun," scheduled for production later this month. . . . Coming to the local cinema April 8 is film-dom's latest Biblical epic, "Solomon and Sheba," starring Yul Brynner and Gina Lollobrigida. . . .

Today's Review
One of our keenest critics — a Faculty Wife from Mississippi — comments on a recent book about the Deep South. . . .
DEEP IS THE SHADOW. By G. Arnold Haygood. Garden City, New York: Doubleday, 95¢.
Since the reign of Huey Long in Louisiana writers have speculated in print about the rise of another southern dictator. In this novel Mr. Haygood introduces a strong man who works secretly, playing upon racist hatred and using planned violence to become virtual dictator of a state in the deep south (probably Mississippi). As a reflection of the south today or as a shadow of things to come, the book is a disappointment. The author writes with no understanding of southern psychology or political motivation. He seems to have read a great deal about the south, and the most commonly printed editorial clichés are faithfully reproduced in dialogue. . . .
Mr. Haygood's basic premise is valid and stirs the imagination. The reader may find himself silently arguing with the book, "It could happen here, but it wouldn't be for these reasons—it couldn't happen this way." This reviewer cannot accept the characters or situations as real because the book is carelessly written—almost juvenile in style. . . .
There is a great novel in the situation in the south today, but Mr. Haygood has not written it. . . .

Several Sites Contending For Conversion Plant
WASHINGTON (AP) — Several sites in the Carolinas will be considered when a special selection board will meet here April 27-28 to begin a study of proposed East Coast sites for a government sea water conversion plant. . . .
Two staff engineers have begun personal inspection of the proposed sites for the government conversion plant, which will operate on a freezing process for conversion of sea water to fresh. . . .
The plant is slated to have a rated capacity of 100,000 to 350,000 gallons per day. . . .
The 46 cities and communities which have bid for the plant include Brunswick and Savannah, Ga.; Beaufort, Belhaven, Braxton, Cape Hatteras, Carolina Beach, Elizabeth City, Greenville, Morehead City, Wilmington and Wrightsville, all in North Carolina. . . .

On Mediocrity
Along the lines of waking up and reading, we'll call your attention to a piece in the March 26 Saturday Review, "The Retreat from Excellence," by Claude M. Fuess, former headmaster of Phillips Andover Academy, one of the best prep schools in America. Mr. Fuess says we're living in an age where mediocrity, not excellence, is the big objective of most people's lives. And the weakest spot in our educational system — emphasis is placed on everything else but intellectual activity, in most schools: vacations are too long, bands are too big, dances are too frequent, and there is too much emphasis on athletics— which are not mediocre, Mr. Fuess adds. Our generation, he feels, has established a cult not of genius but of mediocrity, by its approval of conformity, and orthodoxy and the kindred colorless virtues that keep a social organism staid. "We certainly agree there too—in an age in which it's criminal to be different, it is rapidly becoming criminal to be intelligent. . . ."

On the South
UNC Press out of Chapel Hill informs us that SOUTHERN TRADITION AND REGIONAL PROGRESS, a book by William Nicholls, will come out on April 30. Nicholls is President of the Southern Economic Assn., Chairman of the Business Administration Dept. at Vanderbilt, and a native Southerner. His book focuses on the race issue as a "key element in the distinctly Southern tradition that hampered regional progress, and maintains that if the South expects to prosper as it should and can, it must effect fundamental changes in its outmoded traditions. Here's a quote directly from the book about this very controversial matter: . . .
"The race issue dominates all other elements of Southern tradi-

Get out of my sight."
When he reached the door, Suchak closed it behind him softly and carefully as if it were made of very fragile glass. . . .
"Somebody else apparently got into Mr. Coleman's safe-deposit box. . . . how could a stranger do that?" Scott Jordan must answer his own question as the story continues tomorrow.

"Research," I said. "From a back copy of the New York Times. A record of the men on duty with Strobe at the Essex Hotel that night. Here he is, Gustaf Suchak, fourth from the top."
Nola's face turned to granite. "The gentlemen are beginning to sweat," I said. "I wouldn't be surprised if one of them ambushed Max Turner this morning and put him in the hospital."
Nola's voice was tightly controlled. "Jordan made no mistake, Suchak. You were following him. Just remember, a woman was killed here last night. You're a police officer. If I find you guilty of suppressing evidence helpful to the solution of a homicide, I'll crack down. I'll haul you up on departmental charges. I'll put you behind bars. Do you read me, mister?"
Suchak's cheekbones were stained red in an otherwise gray face. . . .
I have always admired Nola's self-control. This time I didn't think he was going to make it. I watched him, holding my breath. Suddenly he wheeled to ward the phone and began dialing with hard, angry movements. He waited impatiently, squaring the instrument in his white-knuckled fist. . . .
"Central Office Bureau," he grated when someone answered. "Hello. Get me Insp or Frank Connelly. Tell him Lieutenant John Nola. Homicide West wants him." There was a brief pause. "Hello, Frank. I need your help. I'm having a little trouble with one of your men, Gus Suchak. On the Rackets Squad, yes. I want you to call him in and hold him at Headquarters. I'll be down personally to explain. No, sir. He's here with me right now." Nola swiveled and extended the handset. "Inspector Connelly has some instructions for you."
Suchak walked heavily and took the phone gingerly. He cleared his throat. "Suchak speaking, Inspector." He listened, stolid and blank-faced, and hung up. . . .
"You hear him," Nola said with acid precision. "Beat it."

"I rectified. I told him how Suchak had stuck to me through a taxi ride and a winding promenade all the way to my apartment. And for a clincher I produced the list of names and held it up. . . ."

GRIMESLAND — Construction of a new water system here may be complete within the next 60 days.

Following completion of the well, the distribution system is being installed. Parts of the water tank are being hauled in, so that workers may be ready to erect it in a week or two. . . .
The water system will service between 75 and 100 residents of Grimesland, a town of about 414 at the last census. Cost of the project is estimated at about $70,000, according to William Heard of Rivers and Associates, Inc., consulting engineers. . . .
The tank will be located on a lot purchased by the town, between River and Beaufort Streets, on First Street. The major part of Grimesland will be covered by 10 fire hydrants. . . .
The project has been brought about largely through the efforts of Mayor Leslie Elks and the members of the town council, who have been working on it for some time.

ROBERSONVILLE — The city of Robersonville will receive open bids on a sewage disposal and distribution plant on April 21, at 2 p.m., in the Town Hall. . . .
Work will consist of four contracts, including construction of a filter sewage treatment plant, electrical work, plumbing and laying of sewer pipe. . . .
Specifically, Contract 1 calls for construction of 0.3 million gallons a day, trickling filter sewage treatment plant; Contract 2, electrical work; Contract 3, plumbing; Contract 4, 872 feet of 12-inch sewer pipe, 6,652 feet of 10-inch sewer pipe, 5,990 feet of eight-inch sewer pipe, one sewage pumping station and 47 manholes.

DISTRIBUTE CONTAINERS—Alice Bailey and Martha Ann Davis, members of Tri Sigma sorority at East Carolina College, are shown talking with Jim Malory, Dean of Men, about the sorority's plans for distributing Easter Seal donation containers on the campus, to help with the fund raising drive which started today. Malory is a director of the Pitt County Society for Crippled Children and Adults, the organization which sponsors the Easter Seal sales in the county each year.

North Carolina on the Board of the organization. At the meeting she will act as chairman of a sectional meeting on "Let's Improve Our Schools." . . .
The conference will take place at Miami Beach, Florida, April 20-23. It will bring together representatives from thirteen states for discussion of the education and welfare of the pre-school child.
