School Bus Safety Is Stressed

Conley Cites Accidents In Urging Vigilance; Board Approves Budgets

By PATRICIA MOORE Reflector Staff Writer

D. H. Conley, superintendent of Pitt County Schools, distributed a memorandum concerning operation of school buses in reference to a series of accidents at the Pitt County Board of Education meeting today.

The memorandum has been sent to all county schools, Conley said, stating that "It seems that there has been some relaxation of vigilance all along the line on this matter of taking necessary precautions in the operation of school buses."

The accidents, which have not resulted in serious personal injuries, have caused considerable property damage, Conley said. Reports filed indicate that four of the accidents were due to the driver's failure to keep a proper lookout and a failure to make the proper stop entering a main highway, Conley said in the memo.

L. C. Forlines, in charge of school bus maintenance, appeared at the meeting to discuss settlement of several cases of accident damages. He said records indicate that second year and third year drivers are more apt to make mistakes in their driving. Failure of a driver to make a proper stop at a railroad crossing caused derailment of a train in the Grimesland area, Conley said.

The board approved Good Friday, April 15, as the final make-up day for school youngsters, who missed several days due to bad weather during the winter. Conley said this would have been the first year Pitt County school children had Good Friday with Easter holidays.

The Board of Education approved budgets submitted by 11 county schools this morning. Farmville, The Ayden schools and Stokes school were the only districts not submitting budgets at today's meeting. The budget totals were generally the same as they were last year.

Schools submitting budgets, their total capital outlay and valuation are as follows: Chocow, total of $2,717, capital outlay the same and valuation of $3,019,484; Pactiville, no total given, capital outlay of $1,288 and valuation of $2,863,704; Farmville, total of $12,393, capital outlay of $9,262 and valuation of $9,180,344; Belvoir-Falkland, total of $3,745, capital outlay the same, valuation $4,162,176; Grimesland, total of $3,423, capital outlay of $2,282 and valuation of $2,535,786; Fountain, total of $1,453, capital outlay the same, and valuation, $1,615,006; Arthur, no total, capital outlay $1,854 and valuation $1,726,338.

Bethel, total $7,663, no capital outlay given, valuation $4,257,567; Winterville, total of $6,991, capital outlay of $4,661 and valuation of $5,178,819; Grifton, total of $4,957, capital outlay of $3,305 and valuation of $3,672,383.

An inventory as of March 1 of the Pitt County Schools Maintenance Department showed an increase of about $9,000 over last year. The total for March 1, 1960 was $42,768 compared to about $33,000 for last year on the same date.

The board members approved a request from the Farmville school board that steps be taken through legal procedures to acquire the necessary title for land in Farmville for the use of the school there.

Three county school teachers, who have reached the age of 65 and past, were approved to teach another year: Katherine H. Adams, Luvenia E. Latham and C. M. Sugg.

In other business, a request from the Belvoir-Falkland School for $7,500 from surplus funds to be used for a library and two additional classrooms was approved. The board discussed a recent special study of the Ayden School committee to determine whether there is a need to improve the educational program in the high school.

Results submitted in the area of students desiring to attend college, based on interviews with former students and college requirements, were that there are inadequacies in mathematics, science and foreign languages.

The study committee suggested that more course be offered with full teacher-time utilization; that teachers be placed in areas where they are best trained, that there be a consolidation of physical facilities; more effective grouping program (concerning physical education); and recommendation of a full time guidance counseling program. No action was taken by the board of education.

Sea Scouts 'Fine' After Experience

Boys Safe After Boat Was Netted

WASHINGTON, N. C.—Twelve Greenville Sea Scouts and four adults were found safe and sound early this morning after their new sea scout boat snarled in fishing nets near Broad Creek.

The scouts were located by Greenville and Washington Rescue Squad boats around 1:30 a.m. The two squads had been called out to search for the boat around 10 o'clock last night. The Sea Scouts had been expected to arrive in Greenville about 6 o'clock last night.

State Rescue Squad Association Commander Roy Hardee, said another boat was used to remove the scouts from the anchored craft. They were brought to the Washington Yacht basin where sandwiches were waiting for them.

Hardee said the group had anchored when the boat snarled in the net and the scouts had planned to spend the night at the spot if help didn't arrive. It was understood that the new boat had been brought as far as the Yacht basin last week where it was tied up. The sea scouts went to the basin yesterday planning to bring the 40-foot craft back to Greenville.

Hardee said a check was made with the Washington bridge tender when the scouts were reported overdue. He had not seen the boat.

Personnel from the two rescue squads put in boats at Port Terminal and at the Washington bridge and they worked toward Grimesland. Two boats were put in the Pamlico at Washington and they headed east in the search. The Pamlico was choppy due to the windy, stormy conditions of last night.

When the Sea Scout craft was found the scouts were taken off a few at a time in a private boat and brought to shore. Hardee said the rescue operation took about an hour and a half.

County Accepts Low Bids For Sheriff's Cars

By HENRY HOWARD Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Commissioners this morning accepted the low bid on a transaction that will provide the Pitt Sheriff's Department with two new automobiles.

Three bids were opened and read to the board this morning at the Commissioners' April meeting. The contract was awarded to White Chevrolet Co. of Greenville with a low figure of $2,830.40.

The figure quoted by the low bidder will furnish two 1960 model four-door sedans with the trade-in of two 1958 sedans now operated by the Sheriff's Dept.

The bid accepted was an alternate offered by the local auto firm. In a cash sale, the company offered the same two vehicles for $4,630.40.

Other bidders were: Bright Leaf Motors—$4,250 (cash) and $2,650 (trade-in); and Jenkins Motor Co.—$4,749.10 (cash) and $2,758.10 (trade-in). The Bright Leaf bid, though not the low figure, was unacceptable because it was not accompanied by a certified check.

The two cars to be purchased are standard with the exception of heavy duty battery, heavy duty generator, 15-inch wheels, and heavy duty springs and shock absorbers. They are powered by 230 horsepower engines.

Commission Chairman J. Vance Perkins proposed the county pay half the cost of a paving project at the new Pitt County school vehicle maintenance garage. The county Board of Education has agreed to finance the remaining 50 per cent.

The entire paving project will cover some 850 feet, but the State Highway Commission will pave the first tenth of a mile leading west from Memorial Drive. The county-school board project includes some 300 feet of 18-foot-wide paved roadway with wider paving adjoining the garage's south side.

Dr. A. A. Best, Greenville physician, appeared at this morning's session to request the Commissioners to consider hiring a full-time health education instructor for Pitt County's Negro schools. The Commissioners voted unanimously to add the proposal to the agenda to be considered in preparing the budget for fiscal 1960-61.

Gores was convicted and fined in 1948 for mailing obscene material, investigators said.

Khrushchev 'Firm' On E. Germany

Tells Moscow Greeters His Views Unchanged On Separate Treaty

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev said today the Soviet Union will do "everything for the solution of the question of a German peace treaty on a basis acceptable to the Western powers."

But at a Moscow homecoming rally reporting on his visit to France, Khrushchev once more insisted on signing separate treaties with East and West Germany, a proposal repeatedly rejected by the West.

Khrushchev said the German question had bulked large in his talks with President Charles de Gaulle and he expressed belief those talks had clarified the Soviet position for the French. The Soviet Premier returned Sunday from an 11-day visit to France.

Khrushchev once more lashed out at Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany. He said on his visits to the United States and Japan, Adenauer tried to mobilize "the cold war champions" against a German peace treaty.

Khrushchev said on his return Sunday that he was "greatly satisfied" with the 11-day journey. He scheduled a formal report at a French-Soviet friendship rally in the Sports Palace.

In a brief comment after his arrival at Vnukova Airport, Khrushchev said he was touched by the welcome he had received in Paris and elsewhere. He voted hope his visit would strengthen French-Soviet friendship.

Today's speech, to be broadcast to the nation on radio and TV, was expected to strike a harmonious note on the eve of the Big Four summit talks in Paris next month.

(Khrushchev impressed the French people during his visit with an attitude of massive confidence in himself and his country, according to Preston Grover, Associated Press chief of bureau in Moscow, who covered Khrushchev's visit. But Grover reported the French were not overly affected by the Soviet leader's insistence the Soviet Union would make France a safer ally than West Germany.)

Hundreds of Muscovites cheered Khrushchev as he stepped from his IL18 prop-jet plane at the flag-festooned airport outside Moscow. The diplomatic corps and many Soviet leaders were on hand to greet him.

Mrs. Khrushchev, carrying a huge bouquet given her in Paris, also greeted the people at the airport.

Driving into Moscow, Khrushchev smiled and waved to the hundreds of thousands of Soviets lining the route. At spots the crowd was so thick his limousine had difficulty pushing through, although the highway has eight lanes.

Khrushchev and De Gaulle wound up their talks Saturday with a joint communique declaring that disarmament is the "most important problem of our era."

Pitt Pond Yields Body And Story Of Highway Fatality

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer

A 35-year-old Jacksonville man, missing since Friday, was counted as Pitt County's second highway fatality after he was found floating in a farm pond on the Hooker Road Saturday about 3 p.m.

Josephus Daniels Waters was found floating upright in a pond on the Hugh Winslow farm a mile and a half south of Greenville at the intersection of Fairlane Drive and Hooker Road by J. P. Gaskins and J. A. Brath, both of Greenville, who were passing the small lake in a car.

Waters was employed by Honeycutt's Beauty Supply Company of Greenville. Law officers, who said the body was recovered by members of the Greenville Rescue Squad, noted a search was started for a vehicle in the pond when tire tracks were found leading from the paved roadway to the lake.

Rescue Squad personnel aided workmen from a local construction firm retrieve a van-type delivery truck from the bottom of the pond.

Investigators said a search had been started for Waters Friday when he and the truck were reported missing. According to officers, the last person known to have seen him alive was Ben Adams of 2603 Jefferson Drive, also an employee of the beauty supply firm.

Adams was quoted as saying he ate supper with Waters Thursday night, had gone to a local drive-in with him, and left him at a motel about 11 p.m. and went home. Waters had registered at the motel about 6 p.m.

His bed had not been slept in Thursday night, officials noted, adding that they believe Waters left the motel after Adams left, drove East on Fairlane Road and being unfamiliar with the area, ran into the lake.

Pitt County Coroner said an autopsy was being performed today to determine the exact cause of death. When found, Waters had a severe cut over his left eye.

Construction workers and rescue personnel worked for over two hours retrieving the vehicle, which was under about 15 feet of water. A large mobile crane was used to hook onto the truck and bring it from the lake.

Today, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower received the Kennedy note last Wednesday and replied to it promptly.

Twenty-Six Are Convicted On Trespass Counts

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP)—Twenty-six Negro high school students were convicted today in Recorder's Court no trespass charges in connection with recent sit-downs at lunch counters here.

Judge C. E. Hancock Jr., sentenced each to 30-day suspended sentences and fined each $10 and court costs. All filed notice of appeal to Superior Court. Most of the morning session of court was taken up by the trials, and Judge Hancock said he would set appeal bonds Wednesday.

All defendants were arrested March 17 when they sat at counters at Clark's Drug Store and the S. H. Kress & Co. store.

Judge Hancock deferred further sentence of two of the defendants, who are on probation. Court officials said that James E. Benjamin was under a suspended sentence for breaking, entering and larceny, and that Shelton Kirkman Jr., is on probation after conviction on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Vandals Smeared Home And Car

DURHAM (AP)—An unordained white minister who holds integrated church services in his home here says vandals smeared his home and car with swastikas and obscene words.

Police said the Rev. A. C. Thomas complained Sunday that he discovered the vandalism Saturday night.

Thomas lives in a 10-room home in an all-white middle class neighborhood. Officers said he referred to his home as a "church."

Thomas said he has been holding services in his home since Jan. 3 and that attendance has ranged from 10 to 15 persons, with as many as eight or nine Negroes present.

Spring Is Signal For Green Thumbers

RALEIGH—The punctual arrival of spring is a signal for "green thumbs" to get out the seed catalogs and dust off the garden tools. For 4-H girls and boys, spring also marks the beginning of a gardening project that could bring rich rewards next fall. Among them are a $400 scholarship, a wonderful week at the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, and a handsome wrist-watch.

The specific 4-H award programs are gardening and beautification of home grounds. Either one may be carried on in town or on the farm. Any boy or girl between 10 and 21 years old may enroll in the program, according to the Cooperative Extension Service.

Last year, 6,892 4-H'ers in North Carolina were enrolled in gardening, and 3,945 girls and boys were enrolled in home grounds beautification.

The grounds beautification work includes learning about landscaping, how to plant and care for flowers, shrubs, lawns, and to otherwise enhance the exterior of the home surroundings. Usually the entire family lends a hand on this project because it often involves painting and building.

In the garden program, club members not only learn how to plan a useful and nutritious garden, but also something about insect control, soil conservation and marketing. Club members find that a well-planned and cultivated garden contributes substantially to the family year-round food supply and therefore adds dollars to the food budget.

The projects are supervised locally by the volunteer 4-H Club leader and the County Extension agents. Members keep individual progress records, and each year enter them and their products in competition with other 4-H gardeners in the state. County, state and national winners are then named by the extension staff.

While the Cooperative Extension Service supervises the program work, the awards are donated by leading business concerns and private individuals. Awards in the garden program come from Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Co., Milwaukee, Wis. The home ground beautification awards are given by Mrs. Charles R. Weigreen of Chicago, a noted horticulturist.

Shower Honors Miss Stokes

Miss Carol Sue Stokes was honored recently at a miscellaneous shower held in the Chicod cafeteria. Hostesses were Mrs. William Earl Adams and Mrs. Bruce Stokes. Wearing a flowered chiffon dress, the honoree was presented a white carnation corsage upon arrival.

The 60 guests were entertained by games of bingo. The prizes were homemade by: Mrs. William Earl Adams, Mrs. Bruce Stokes and Mrs. Wilbur Stokes, mother of the bride-elect. The door prize was won by Mrs. Kathleen Porter.

After opening her array of gifts, the bride-elect and the bridegroom-elect, Troy Dennis, led the way to the refreshment table.

The centerpiece was an arrangement of white chrysanthemums and gladioli. The table was covered with a white, cut work, linen tablecloth.

Lime punch was poured by Mrs. Jesse Jones, cousin of the honoree. The guests were served white bridal cakes decorated with pink flowers, nuts, lady fingers and cheese straws.

Miss Stokes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Stokes of Rt. 2, Ayden, and will marry Troy Dennis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Dennis, also of Ayden, April 15.

Linen Determines Table Attractiveness

RALEIGH—What homemaker doesn't like an attractive table? For a table that is flattering to the hostess and enhances the beauty of the food, the selection of table linens will deserve some careful planning. These can be simple and economical when selected with care because good quality table coverings will last a long time.

"The term 'linen' is used to describe any fabric used for the table whether it is actually made of linen or not," says Mrs. Lillie B. Little, house furnishing specialist for the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service. "With the many new materials available, many types are used."

"The needs for a family cannot be grouped into a standard list. With the informality with which most families serve, the need for elaborate and expensive tablecloths is very little. Unless a family does a lot of entertaining, one white tablecloth is sufficient."

Mrs. Little says a linen table damask is still considered the most desirable of all table coverings. It is very durable, beautiful and can be used as a handsome background for any china.

When buying a tablecloth, look for a label. This is important because of the care which is necessary. An inferior fabric may be heavily sized and after laundering will be sleazy. Rub a corner briskly between the hands to see if a white powder comes out. Examine hems to see if they are hand or machine sewed. Mitered corners and neatly done hems are an indication of quality. The weave is important—a firmly woven fabric should be selected. Know what size you need. A cloth should cover the table and hang over the sides 12 to 15 inches.

Seamstresses Have A Ball!

BEATTYVILLE, Ky. (AP)—When Mrs. Elmer Pfeiffer goes into a store that sells sporting goods, the first thing she does is to examine the baseballs. "I just have to look and see if they're stitched right," she says. Automation hasn't extended yet to the stitching of baseballs and each one must be painstakingly sewed by hand. Mrs. Pfeiffer is one of a number of Eastern Kentuckians who do the sewing. She and Mrs. Leonard Rogers get together almost every day at one of their homes at Leeco, near here, and do the work. They use two needles threaded with waxed string and turned and crossed swords position away from them. The ball is held in a clamped rack with the dampened cover material held on by glue and staples. After the sewing, the ball is finally shaped in a press. Mrs. Pfeiffer and Mrs. Rogers average one finished ball every 12 minutes. The two of them sew 24 dozen covers each week. Do you know that Lawrence Welk's bubble machine uses soap, not champagne?

Issue Of Chemical Sucker Control

Tobacco farmers of the broad tobacco producing region of Eastern North Carolina should consider carefully the long-term as well as the short-term economic effects of the use of chemical sucker control on their 1960 crop.

There apparently is general agreement among officials that the use of the disputed chemical on tobacco increases production and enables the farmer to make larger yields per acre. It also follows that the larger yields per acre would tend to increase the income of the farmer when he sells his tobacco crop next fall unless there is some change in the price support structure that would penalize tobacco on which the chemical has been used.

What seems to concern a good many people in the tobacco industry, however, is the long-range economic effect widespread use of the chemical could have on the tobacco producing areas and the U. S. tobacco industry.

Traditionally the tobacco farmers of Eastern North Carolina have depended to an appreciable extent upon foreign purchases of their leaf to keep up the demand and price on tobacco. Approximately one-third of the flue-cured tobacco produced in the United States finds its way into export trade and overseas sales. In recent years American producers have faced increased competition from other foreign producers have cut into U. S. tobacco sales abroad.

A few years ago American tobacco producers found themselves in dire circumstances because of the amount of undersirable tobacco on hand which could not be moved into the export market. Huge stocks of this tobacco on hand tended to depress the demand for new production and threatened the entire structure of the tobacco support program.

In the past two years this situation has improved greatly. Stocks on hand have decreased, foreign purchasers have found U. S. flue-cured tobacco production more to their liking, and progress has been made toward regaining some of the lost U. S. sales in the world market.

Now, however, the problem has come to the fore again with the assertion by foreign purchasers that they do not intend to purchase American leaf which has been treated with the chemical sucker control.

If use of the chemical is widespread this year, and the foreign purchasers decline to purchase American leaf, the amount of tobacco which goes to Stabilization is bound to increase.

If no change is made in the support structure, farmers who realize greater production through use of the chemical may benefit financially for this one year.

But what about 1961 and the years to follow? Will the groundwork be laid that will virtually end the foreign sales of U. S. tobacco? Will foreign purchasers who have brought about one-third of our annual production look elsewhere for their purchases? If we suffer another serious setback in tobacco exports, will we be able to regain these markets in the future, or will they be lost for good?

In agriculture as in any other business, the success of product sales depends upon the ability of the producer to furnish the purchaser with the kind of product he wants. If the purchaser cannot get what he wants from one producer, he will look to another and buy where he can get the quality and kind of product he wants.

American flue-cured tobacco producers can ill afford to risk losing one-third of their sales potential by producing tobacco that will not be purchased by foreign consumers. The problem faced by every segment of the tobacco industry now over use of chemical sucker control is one which must be evaluated on more than a one-year basis.

McConnell And Industrial Drive

(During absence of Lynn Nisbet, each candidate for Governor, Lieutenant Governor, and United States Senator has been invited to write a guest column, stating his views.)

By DAVID MCCONNELL
Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor

CHARLOTTE—During the past few weeks I have walked more, talked more and seen more than a youngster at his first county fair. And during these weeks of travel about North Carolina, I have been confronted with one question more than any other: What about industrial development?

I hasten to explain the term "industrial development," lest I convey the impression it applies only to spinning, sprawling mills—it must include any plant, however small, which may be used in processing our raw products and our farm produce, to the end that our native-grown products are processed for market as near as possible to the source of supply.

Certainly people are interested in welfare, schools, roads, mental institutions, penal institutions, taxes and other matters—but industry seems to be the key, at this time, to the future. A richer state can help provide improvements and secure the needs we have in these other fields of needed progress—and fairly quickly.

"Dave", a man in a far western county said the other day, "you are just like every other candidate who has come around here looking for votes. You're spoutin' off about the need for industry and what industrial development can do, but no one has told us what to do. What about that answer?"

My frank friend is right. We have been spouting off, all of us, and I for one am looking for votes.

Seriously, the complaint is justified. I do not have the answer, but I have an answer—and I think I can offer at least a good workable plan.

First, let me say that I am delighted that both the Umstead and the Hodges administrations have done such a vigorous job in seeking industry for our state. I am proud of the small part I have had in it and I encourage the continuation of the program and the continual strengthening of our fine Conservation and Development Board.

Everything can't be done on a statewide level, nor should it be. However, counties and small communities have gone about as far as they can go. Some have reached a dead end. Therefore, I have come up with this plan, which is a variation on several ideas used elsewhere which I have studied in detail for months, and I think it workable.

I propose that counties in this state group themselves in County Development Districts. At least five or six of these districts may be organized—under state statute—and would embrace most of the non-industrialized areas of the state.

The plan is, simply, this: 1. Smaller counties would set up Industrial Development Districts under legislative action—a general enabling act.

2. The Industrial Development District—the counties participating—would levy a tax of up to three cents ad valorem per one hundred dollars evaluation, or an amount sufficient to give the development district an income of from $20,000 to $30,000 annually.

3. This money would be used to hire a professional engineer to design and first rate in the job.

4. The first order of business would be an analysis of the human and natural resources of the region. This information—spelling out what is available and what the district offers—would be used for the District's own recruitment of industry, and even more important, the development of home grown industries.

With the area team functioning properly, the section has a chance to really compete. The District has a real and personal stake in the negotiations, and will not just pick up what prospects happen that way, or are channeled from other sources. There are today about 30,000 plus industrial prospects in this country and about 7,000 municipalities, Chambers of Commerce, State Development Commissions and others seeking those industries. Obviously a small county or non-organized area can hardly compete with areas which have their resources carefully analyzed and presented—and done so by a professional. The odds are too great.

Similar plans have worked for the Tidewater, Va., Development Council, and Union County has been most successful on its own. Smaller counties could band together, and in the spirit of teamwork could advance with sure and steady stride.

My plan was discussed in the Goldsboro News-Argus and the editor wrote: "We believe that close study will show it is no more pipe dream."

Now to work.

Not So Much Gap In So-Called Space Race

With an experimental weather satellite orbiting in space some 450 miles from earth, U. S. space scientists have shown again that their efforts and achievements cannot be discounted in the international tug-of-war for space supremacy.

While this latest achievement of American scientists is truly remarkable, there are several factors which point up the preciseness with which the Tiros I was launched and is operating. The satellite, according to scientists, went into orbit within three one-thousandths of a degree of that which was planned for it. Designed to circle the earth at 450 miles out, the satellite's orbit varied only 20 miles from that prescribed distance. The pictures sent back by the satellite of cloud formations around the earth show remarkable clarity and evidence a new breakthrough in space achievement.

American successes in space achievements in recent months have shown without question that the gap which exists between U. S. and Soviet space development is not nearly as great as initial successes by the Soviets led some people to believe. The pace at which the American program has moved ahead recently further suggests that the United States in many ways has not relinquished space leadership to the Soviet Union. The Soviets apparently still hold the upper hand in the ability to send up larger satellites, but the American space probes show considerably more advanced information-gathering equipment that is vital to future space successes.

In the new weather satellite the United States has demonstrated again its ability to put into space advanced vehicles superior to those of the Soviets. Less spectacular from a propaganda standpoint, perhaps, than the Soviet shots, the American space probes are now more significant from a scientific standpoint.

Weather Hits Business Level

By RALPH ROBEY

No nation in the world collects as many business statistics as the United States. In terms of volume the most important is our federal government. It collects the figures with great care and then subjects them to the most up to date methodology of processing. In the latter is an allowance for seasonal variation whenever there is a significant pattern of this character.

A seasonal variation usually is determined by calculating the average change on a monthly basis over a period of years. Such a change may be caused by attitudes of the public, by supply, by the weather, or by any number of other factors. But it is not possible to make a correction for abnormal weather alone. The best that can be done from a statistical viewpoint is to include changes in the weather with everything else that varies from one season to another.

The reason for going through all of this is that we have just had an extraordinarily bad late winter and it has had a direct effect upon many of our business statistics. A few examples will bear out this statement.

Because of the weather retail sales have not come up to forecasts. The proof that weather has been the culprit is shown by a section-by-section study of such sales. In those areas where the snow and cold have been the worst, sales have been lowest. In areas which have had more normal weather conditions, sales have been much better.

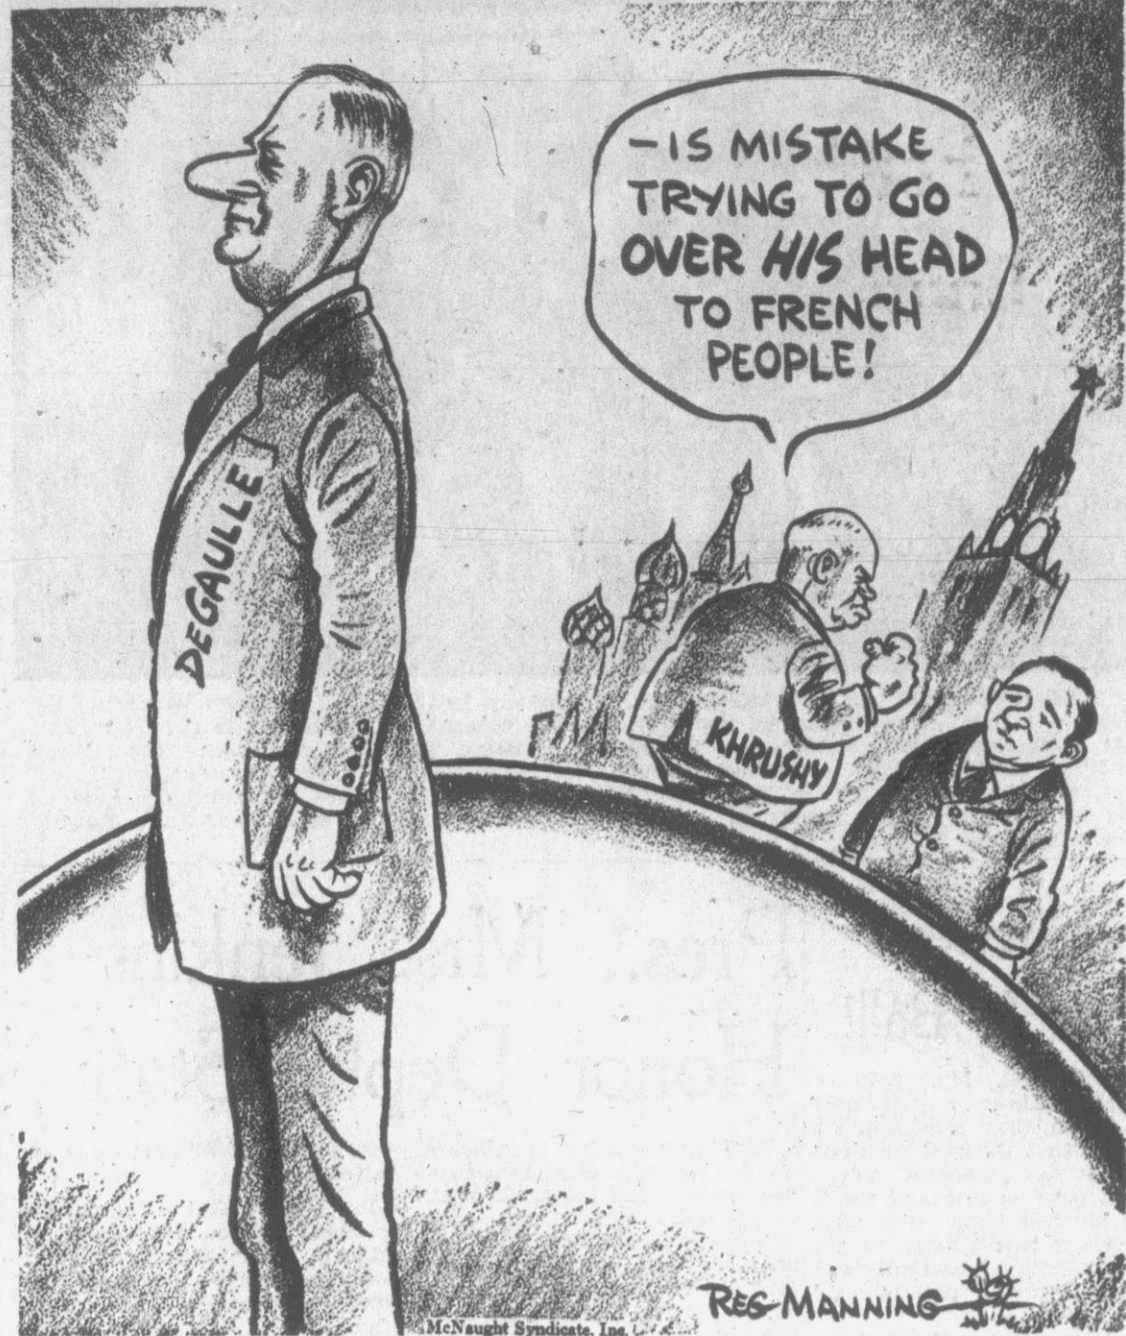

Construction also has been delayed by the weather. In many areas it simply was not possible to start projects. This has been true in road building; in industrial construction, and in housing starts. As a result of lower activity in these fields there has been less buying of machinery, of office furniture, of household appliances and home furnishings, and so on.

The bad weather has hurt automobile sales because in much of the country it has been almost impossible to drive over the roads. This has caused a piling up of inventories in the hands of automobile dealers and a curtailment of automobile production. This has backed up to the steel producers and is one of the reasons we have had an easing in this field.

Production and Employment. Production overall has been held down and it may well be that the one percent decline in the Federal Reserve Board index of production in February was caused by the bad winter. That employment has been held down goes without saying, and increased absenteeism probably was the cause for the slight decline in the average hours worked per week in manufacturing. And profits, of course, have been hurt.

Those are just some of the obvious parts of the business picture which have been adversely influenced by the bad weather. What the total amounts to is not measurable. Now, with the coming of spring, the weather is certain to get better. It will take time for this to be reflected in the business statistics published by the government, but before too long we should see appreciably more encouraging figures. With these better reports, business and public confidence will improve, and the upturn will be less subject to question.

One Thing I Found Out—

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

A Positive Side Of Life

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

And Samuel told all the words of the Lord unto the people that asked of him a king. And he said:

"This will be the manner of the king that shall reign over you: he will take your sons, and appoint them for himself, for his chariots, and to be his horsemen; and some shall run before his chariots. And he will appoint him captains over thousands, and captains over fifties; and will set them to ear his ground, and to reap his harvest, and to make his instruments of war, and instruments of his chariots.

"And he will take your daughters to be confectioners, and to be cooks, and to be bakers. And he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, even the best of them, and give them to his servants. And he will take the tenth of your seed, and of your vineyards, and give to his officers, and to his servants."

This is politics. It was actually spoke in the course of a political campaign, for Saul had set out to be a king, and the Prophet was advising the tribes of Israel that it was an unwise political decision to have a king. Samuel was a Prophet. I thought of this passage in the Bible as I continued to read about the quarrel within Protestant churches as to the role of the Ministry. Some contend that it is not the function of a minister to take a political position, to advocate a political cause or to associate himself with a political movement.

In the history of the United States, the clergy have played a consistently important political role. The Congregationalists of Massachusetts, the Baptists of Rhode Island, the Roman Catholics of Maryland, the Quakers in Pennsylvania are a few of the numerous religious groups who settled here and whose leaders participated in our earliest political life. Neither the Elder Brewster nor Cotton Mather nor Roger Williams can be disregarded as political figures in their day, nor can it be said that Henry Ward Beecher did not play an enormous role in the politics of his day. Dr. Lyman Beecher (1775-1863), in his great sermon on dueling, said:

"When we intrust life and liberty, and property to the hands of men, we desire some pledge of their fidelity. But what pledge can the duelist give. His religious principle is nothing; his moral principle is nothing. His honor is our only security. But is this sufficient? Are the temptations of power so feeble, are the public and private interests so inseparable, are the opportunities for fraud so few, that, amid the projects of ambition, the cravings of avarice, and the conflicts of party, there is no need of conscience to guarantee the integrity of rulers..."

Certainly such men as Thomas Hooker, the great Congregational cleric of the 17th century, played an enormous role in the political development of colonial America. Many of Hooker's ideas of freedom and tolerance became foundation stones of the eventual American Constitution.

I could go on and on citing the political activities of individual ministers as well as clerical groups in the political life of America. It has always been held in our history that this is a moral society, based on the Natural Law, as is stated in the Declaration of Independence. Ministers are personally and professionally concerned with morals. The assumption that a man becomes a secondary citizen because of his religious beliefs is a general view.

vest, and to make his instruments of war, and instruments of his chariots.

When we look at the four candidates, we see differences between them, from our judgment, we'd say that Terry Sanford and Malcolm Seawell are more liberal in their overall views than are John Larkins and Beverly Lake. We are not trying to attach any liberal or conservative tags to any of the candidates, but we are expressing our opinion here that in the matter of personal thinking, there are differences of opinion here that in the servative tags to any of the candidates, but we are expressing the opinion here that in the matter of personal thinking, there are differences of opinion in this matter of liberal or conservative approaches to the problems confronting the voters of North Carolina today.

There seems to be differing opinions among the candidates on how to handle the matter of school integration as laid down by the United States Supreme Court. And as time goes on, we are satisfied that on many issues before the people, the candidates will use different approaches and offer differing solutions.

We are among those people who believe that voters today in North Carolina not only look at what a man stands for but they also look at the possibility of the candidate realizing success in his program.

Within the next two months the campaign tempo will pick up considerably. And candidates probably will be offering many differing views on a wide variety of subjects.

Already we see many differences in the candidates as in individuals if not a great deal of difference at this time in their general views.

Already we see many differences in the candidates as in individuals if not a great deal of difference at this time in their general views.

Trees For The Future

By ROGER BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — Every March, I go to the local nursery and purchase two sugar-maple trees about five feet high at a cost of about $12 each. I like to get them in March before the new buds come out, and set them out on my grounds. I believe they are the best investment I could make for my grandchildren.

BOOKS VERSUS TREES
In my winter home in Florida, I have a private library of 8,000 books. These books were issued by the publishers during the past fifty years at about $1.00 a copy. I doubt if any second-hand book dealer would today pay twenty cents a copy for the lot.

On the other hand, a sugar-maple tree constantly increases the value of your estate. In addition to the shade which they supply in summer and the ground moisture which they hold, children enjoy tapping the trees in the spring to get a little maple syrup. Hence, while most books are constantly decreasing in value, most trees are constantly increasing in value.

I do not expect that there will be a nuclear war for many years unless it starts by accident. We know that direct bombing could result in the death of millions of people. As to the effects of the "fallout," the experts are undecided. Fallout could contaminate all except underground water and the matter of most trees. And if agricultural products should be contaminated and hence dangerous to eat, people in some sections would be forced to live on water, wood pulp, salt, and certain oils. Thus, theoretically trees have a possible defensive value to keep civilization alive.

With the large amounts spent on missiles and other forms of armament, I cannot understand why so little attention is given to protecting us from the eruptions of World War III. I urge each of my readers to write the Governor of his State and ask the name and address of the State Director of Civil Defense. Then write a letter to this Director asking him what he personally is doing in his home to protect his family in case of a nuclear war.

Probably the largest owners of forest lands in the United States are the Weyerhaeuser family. The stock of the Weyerhaeuser Company sells at a high price and pays a small cash dividend. When, however, your wife buys a package of "Ready-Mix" at a supermarket, the pasteboard box was probably made from trees which the Weyerhaeuser family set out forty years ago. Your wife's dress was probably made from rayon manufactured from the timber of Rayonier, Incorporated, which has vast holdings in the Southeast where trees grow more rapidly than in the North.

Timber growth is not circumscribed by labor union regulations. Trees do not observe Sunday holidays, vacations, coffee breaks, etc. They are protected against fire, earthquakes, and freezes, but are subject constantly to increased taxation. The Kimberly-Clark Corp., is a large producer of cellulose and a leading manufacturer of book and printing paper. It is said to control (not necessarily own) over 10,000,000 acres of timberland. It stock sells, however, around $68 a share and yields only about 2 1/2 per cent. Another favorite is the St. Regis Paper Co.—third largest paper manufacturer in the U.S., holding over 5 million acres. Your telephone book was probably printed on their paper. The stock sells below $50 a share, but yields over 3 per cent.—plus stock dividend.

A third favorite of mine is Scott Paper, which owns 1,500,000 acres of timberland that is being carefully protected and replanted as cut. The stock sells in the seventies and yields around 3 per cent. Readers will think these yields are low, but it's the old story: "We can't have our cake and eat it, too." The assets of these companies are growing every day and night of the year—which is not true of the assets of such popular stocks as General Electric, American Telephone, Union Carbide, and most of the "blue chips."

Look-Aheads In Business World

By ELMER ROESSNER
Here are more look-aheads in business, based on study of developing trends and sparked with bits of advance information:

Retail sales boom: Late Easter is shifting some retail sales from March to April, but other factors may add more to the month's volume. Fashions have more sales-lift than usual this spring; employment is high and rising; consumer confidence is sturdy.

Higher trade barriers. The Administration is deeply concerned about the unfavorable balance of trade and the consequent flow of gold out of the U. S. It is currently encouraging more exports, but is not yet ready to curb imports to obtain a balance. However, the situation will change between now and election day. American manufacturers, often joined by unions, will make shrill demands for higher tariffs and quotas and vote-minded Congressmen and Administration leaders will harken and grant temporary, at least, relief.

Housing upturn. Housing starts started slowly this year partly because of unexpected weather set-backs, partly because of high mortgage rates. But demand shows signs of loosening up. Mortgage rates stopped rising and some bargains can be struck now; income is increasing and public confidence is again strong.

MUSIC TO DRIVE BY. Easier car radio tuning. A fingertip radio control mounted on a steering wheel has been demonstrated. The next move is up to auto manufacturers, some of whom may adopt the gadget for 1961 cars.

More intangibles vending. Such as insurance policies, securities, franchises, etc. The success of selling insurance policies—at fancy markups—with coin machines at airports is attracting other promoters. Auto insurance from vending machines at service stations has been tried and may spread if some legal quirks are ironed out. Sales of low-price securities and Saving Stamps are possibilities, as are many other kinds of insurance.

More coupons. Grocery manufacturers are testing out a new coupon plan, with more coupons and more restrictions to prevent the cashing in of coupons by people who do not buy the specified items. According to the present timetable, distribution of coupons will be stepped up in May.

OLD PROMOTER SLICES FAT IN POLITICS
"You haven't worked for a long time," we reminded the Old Promoter. "If we cut off the small touches, how will you survive?"

"I'm making Dutch book on the candidates until election," he said. "It's a fat living."

"What's that?" we demanded. "A Dutch book is a posting of odds at which the bookmaker can lose," he said. "Sometimes bookies post a Dutch book at country races. If he does, a sharp mathematician can wager certain amounts on every horse so no matter which one wins, he gets back more than he bets."

"I'm doing that with the candidates. The enthusiasts for Kennedy, Johnson, Symington and Humphrey will lay 6 to 5 on their man. By balancing my bets, I can take in $24 in every $5 I will pay out. Of course, I can shave the odds. Even if I lay 3 to 2 on each man, I can take in $8 for every $3 lost."

WW II Vets Have Four Months To Get Loans

About four months remain in which World War II veterans may apply for GI home, farm or business loans, E. C. Elliott of the New Bern VA Office, reminded veterans today.

Under present law, July 25, 1960 is the cut-off date set for World War II veteran participation in the post-war program that has seen more than 5 million World War II veterans take advantage of the GI bill loan provisions since June 22, 1944.

Veterans who submit applications for VA guaranteed loans on or before the deadline of July 25, 1960, will be allowed an additional year, or until July 25, 1961, in which to have the loan processed and actually closed.

Elliott pointed out that these dates do not apply to Korean conflict veterans who have until January 31, 1965, to make applications for VA guaranteed loans. World War II veterans who also served during the Korean conflict period are considered Korean conflict veterans for the purpose of GI loans.

Under the GI loan program, qualified veterans are offered the opportunity to obtain VA guaranteed or insured loans to (a) purchase, build or improve a home; (b) buy a farm or farm supplies; and (c) buy or expand a business venture.

Veterans in rural areas and in small cities and towns where guaranteed loans are not generally available are eligible for VA direct home and "rimhouse" loans. The direct loan program for both World War II and Korean conflict veterans is due to expire on July 25, 1960.

Since the GI loan program was launched in June, 1944, and up through December, 1959, a total of 5,125,000 loans have been guaranteed or made to World War II veterans for a total face value of $40.8 billion. Of the total, $22,000 were home loans; 229,000 were for business ventures; and 74,000 for farm purposes.

Approximately one-third of the eligible World War II veterans and one-eighth of the Korean conflict veterans have taken advantage of the loan program to date.

Of the home loans made to date (World War II and Korea) more than one out of every four has been paid in full and only one out of every 100 has resulted in foreclosure.

Reviewing the tremendous scope of the GI loan program as used by both World War II and Korean conflict veterans combined, Elliott said it was the equal of financing one out of every 10 dwelling units in the United States, including apartments and single-family rental properties.

Nearly one out of every 4 mortgaged single-family dwelling units in the United States has a VA-guaranteed mortgage, Elliott said.

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackets committee, reviewing three stormy years of investigation, figures the taxpayers got their two million dollars' worth.

Looking back on its revelations of scandals in the labor-management relations field, the committee claims credit for:

1. Enactment of the new anti-corruption labor law.
2. The downfall of former Teamsters Union President Dave Beck.
3. A long string of federal and state indictments of labor racketeers and others.

Baby-Sitter Is Assault Victim

ST. CLAIR SHORES, Mich. (AP)—Police sought a Negro man today described by a 14-year-old white baby sitter as the man who broke into a home and raped her early Sunday.

The girl told police the man, about 22, broke into the home, threatened her with a pair of scissors, tied her with neckties and raped her.

The home owner, Clarence R. Payne, 31, and his wife returned while the man still was there. They told police he robbed them of seven dollars, cut the telephone wires and fled.

The Payne children, a boy, 2, and a girl, 3, were unharmed.

cause he joins the Ministry is false in the American theory of life and government, first because we do not accept classes, and secondly because we do not deprive a citizen of his rights because of his job.

There are those who insist that because a man devotes his life to religion, he should have no voice in the immorality of political life. Way back in the beginnings of our country, John Wise (1652-1725) wrote:

"... The end of all good government is to cultivate humanity, and promote the happiness of all, and the good of every man in all his rights, his life, liberty, estate, honor, etc., without injury or abuse done to any."

This is politics—good politics, the kind we need today. It is necessary to have a constructive, positive ideal of life in order to negate an evil. The clergy, of all faiths, can still contribute much to these days.

teamsters officials had schemed with Seattle mobsters to take over the vice rackets in Portland, Ore.

In its final report, the committee said William Langley, the Portland (Multnomah County) district attorney, was forced out of office and faced with disbarment as a sequel to his disclosures.

The committee listed among its big achievements the indictment of Beck, now under prison sentence for alleged huge thefts of Teamsters funds, and the removal from office of Tennessee Judge Raulston Schoolfield. It charged Schoolfield took payoffs to fix criminal charges against teamsters goons.

The committee's investigations shook organized labor to its foundations, and brought some stern steps by the labor movement to police its own ranks. But the report said the Teamsters refuse to clean up and still is infested with criminals and racketeers.

The hearings brought out scandal after scandal in affairs of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers, Hotel and Restaurant Workers, United Textile Workers, the Operating Engineers, Meatcutters and Butchers, Sheet Metal Workers, and various construction trades union groups.

The independent Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union of New York and vicinity was another. A Barbers Union group in New York, the Boilermakers Union Local 74 in Houston, Tex., sections of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and of the Retail Clerks International Assn.

were among the other unions, large and small, that came under scrutiny.

The Anheuser-Busch brewery, the big mail order houses of Sears, Roebuck & Co., and Montgomery Ward & Co.; big food chain stores including the A&P stores and Food Fair; Morton Frozen Foods; Englander Mattress Co., and Fruehauf Trailer Co. were among employers the committee criticized for their dealings with union officials.

The committee charged that some big metropolitan newspapers made payoffs to labor racketeers a price for labor peace.

On all of this the committee was unanimous. But its members got into partisan fights every time they tried to investigate Walter P. Reuther's United Auto Workers Union, which usually supports Democrats politically.

Scores of gangsters and hoodlums paraded to the witness stand, laying down a frustrating barrage of Fifth Amendment pleas in refusing to answer questions about their deals with labor union figures. Unionist after unionist also invoked the Fifth Amendment.

Printed and bound copies of the testimony and seven committee reports issued since 1957 nearly fill a four-foot book shelf. The committee figures the 45,150-page transcript of testimony totals between 20 and 23 million words, taken from 1,526 witnesses.

It said 343 witnesses invoked the Fifth Amendment.

Chairman McClellan said federal grand juries have handed down 34 indictments as sequels to committee hearings, and that more are in prospect. He wasn't sure how many state court actions have resulted.

Mrs. Aadland Is Taking A Stand

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—From now on, vows Florence Aadland, she's going to see to it that her daughter, Beverly, dates only doctors and lawyers.

Mrs. Aadland checked into a hospital to have her jaw examined. "I think it's broke," said the mother of the late Errol Flynn's teenage protegee. She said Beverly's latest admirer, age 19, "back-handed me when I told him to keep his hands off my baby."

"This new guy," she mused, "he's trying to be in love with my baby, but this is a lot of silly stuff. He couldn't afford to buy Beverly toothpaste for a month."

Plan Converting Heating Plant

The heating plant of the local Post Office will soon be converted to a "cold storage" plant, according to a city announcement.

Request for the change was made by Congressman Herbert C. Bonner, who was informed by the U. S. Post Office Department that the change was desirable.

Heating facility changes at the Greenville Post Office will be a part of a Post Office Department conversion program and will be accomplished during the first quarter of the 1961 fiscal year.

'Connoisseurs' In Snake Hunt

OKENEENE, Okla. (AP)—Connoisseurs with a taste for rattlesnake meat joined hunters and curious spectators Sunday at the annual Okeneene rattlesnake hunt.

The people numbered 19,000 and they turned this wind-swept northwestern Oklahoma town of 1,100 into a carnival.

The snakes bagged by hunters in heavy boots weighed 2,044 pounds—before those hungry lovers of barbecued snake meat went to work.

Chamber of Commerce President Anthony Feider said 500 pounds of the delicacy was sold right off the griddle. Without barbecue it tastes something like chicken breast.

Feider said the price of rattlesnake — down from 50 cents a pound last year to 20 cents this year—probably prevented a record catch.

On all of this the committee was unanimous. But its members got into partisan fights every time they tried to investigate Walter P. Reuther's United Auto Workers Union, which usually supports Democrats politically.

Minister Says 'Air Of Fear' In S. Africa

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

An air of fear hangs over the white people of the Union of South Africa.

And it was there long before the bloody white-Negro riots of the past two weeks.

So says the Rev. Dr. Everett C. Parker, a Congregational Christian minister who was in South Africa last fall filming a motion picture on missionary work.

The white population of South Africa is divided into two parts—those of British descent and those of Dutch extraction, both of whom favor white domination.

"The British I talked to feel that a Negro uprising and eventual Negro rule is inevitable," says the Rev. Dr. Parker. "They fear it; they worry about it; but they feel sure it will happen sooner or later."

"One businessman of British descent told me he is getting out of South Africa, moving to Australia or some other country in the British Commonwealth. Others are thinking the same thoughts."

"But the Dutch—the Afrikaansers—appear to believe that they can go on indefinitely separating the Negroes and the whites, with each race developing to its fullest extent in its own areas."

"Some Afrikaansers sincerely believe that whites are superior to Negroes."

"A minister of the Dutch Reformed Church opened his Bible for me and turned to Genesis 9:25—'Cursed be Canaan; a servant of servants shall he be to his brethren.' Canaan, of course, was the Negro race."

"That minister was not an unkind man; he was not out to destroy the Negroes. But in his heart he just did not believe Negroes are competent to control things in modern society."

The greater part of the Dutch Reformed Church in South Africa strongly backs apartheid, the South African version of strict segregation of the races. Most other South African churches have spoken out against it.

American Congregational missionaries have been in South Africa since 1835, working in schools and hospitals for the native Negroes, particularly the Zulu tribes.

"Neither the church nor the government objects to our working with them," says the Rev. Dr. Parker. "But some of the important things the missionaries do gradually are being cut off."

"We've had to close our 100-year-old Adams College, where we trained Negro ministers and teachers. We were not forced to close it but conditions made it legally impossible to operate."

There are about 20 Congregational missionaries operating in South Africa. The denomination has more than 100 schools and 390 self-supporting congregations with 1,500 ministers.

The Rev. Dr. Parker readily admits that "I'm prejudiced in favor of the Negroes but being in South Africa has taught me a compassion for the white South Africans."

"They were born and brought up in South Africa. They have no other country. But they will never agree to being ruled by the Negroes."

"The British South Africans can go elsewhere in the Commonwealth without too much strain."

"But the Afrikaansers would be strangers everywhere."

Gen. MacArthur Out Of Hospital

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur is out of the hospital and says he feels fine.

MacArthur had a big smile for photographers Sunday as he left Lenox Hill Hospital accompanied by his wife, Jean.

"One of the most striking stories in the Bible is that of Lazarus, who was raised from the dead," he said. "I feel very much like a modern Lazarus, whose resurrection is due to the extraordinary skill of Dr. George W. Slaughter and his able assistants."

Mrs. Roosevelt Struck By Car

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt suffered a sprained ankle when she stepped off a curb Sunday and was knocked down by a backing car. But she showed up for three speaking engagements despite her injury.

Mrs. Roosevelt, 75, was treated by her physician. She said she did not get the driver's name and did not report the incident to the police.

She said she was much too busy to think about her sprained ankle. She used a crutch when she showed up for her engagements.

TV Weekend Saw Lots Of Politics, Grim Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Sunday afternoon TV watchers certainly had a dose—even an overdose—of Wisconsin politics.

Presidential hopefuls Hubert H. Humphrey and John F. Kennedy will have their Wisconsin primary mates decided Tuesday when the state's Democratic voters will choose 31 delegates to the party's national convention.

CBS and NBC each presented a candidate in closeup. "Face the Nation" had Kennedy, who looked well-groomed, well-tailored and earnest and answered the questions—even the tough ones—in a forthright manner. "Meet the Press" had Humphrey, suffering from a touch of laryngitis but still highly vocal and articulate.

I missed much of the Kennedy interview because I was dialing over to ABC's "Campaign Round-up." This is a sort of chalk talk by network reporters on pollicking in various sections of the country, with emphasis, of course, on Wisconsin.

Earlier CBS devoted its Sunday morning "FYI" show to Wisconsin trends. Then NBC's "Time Present" came along with a feature about the way the two candidates' friends and relatives were helping to campaign.

All this public service programming is very enlightening, but it can be overdone. By the time we've gone through the conventions and have a couple of real candidates, their campaigns may seem a bit anti-climactic.

Jasper Smith Speaks At Annual Supper For Sunday School Teachers

The Bethel Methodist Sunday School Teachers held their annual supper meeting in the social room of the church Friday night.

Jasper Smith of Rocky Mount, formerly of Bethel, was speaker for the occasion.

Smith called attention to the great influence of Sunday School life and of the need to give ourselves to this great Christian movement.

He pointed out that one could easily overlook and treat with indifference this great responsibility by allowing a Sunday to go by in a careless way, but that the Sunday School remained one of the greatest character building agencies in the world.

Smith was introduced by Sunday School Superintendent, Winfred P. Thigpen welcomed the teachers for this occasion and spoke words of appreciation for faithful services being rendered. John L. Watson, chairman of the Commission on Christian Education, presided. Rev. Carl W. Barbee, pastor, gave the invocation.

The group was served fried chicken dinner prepared by the Sallie Tucker Circle of the Woman's Society of Christian Service with Mrs. D. H. Jenkins, leader.

White Sox Remain As Pick In 1960 American League

By JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The Chicago White Sox don't scare you. They just beat you. They slash, dash, bunt and eke out runs while the other fellow waits for the long ball.

Playing with Clark were Bill Clark, Bob Powell, and Bill Clark III.

However, the Yankee pitching staff is questionable. It depends, to a great extent, on the ability of Bob Turley to bounce back from an off year and the untested ability of rookie Bill Short.

Democrats Planning Big Political Show

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The greatest political show on earth—that's what the show biz wing of the Democratic party promises for the national convention in Los Angeles this July.

Climax of the five-day spectacular may be the biggest rally of American politics. The two candidates will make their acceptance speeches following a lavish show at the Memorial Coliseum, capacity 102,000-plus. Present plan is to put chairs on the field and raise the total to 116,000.

All this, plus entertainment at convention sessions in the Sports Arena next door to the Coliseum, is being planned by the Party's Committee for the Arts. Entertainment chairman is film producer-director-writer George Seaton. But since he will be filming a picture in Germany this summer, screen writer Allen Rivkin has shouldered most of the burden.

Rivkin, as national director of the arts committee, has scores of entertainment figures in his group. Among the more noted names: Marlon Brando, Myrna Loy, Robert Ryan, Frank Sinatra, Sammy Davis Jr., Mercedes McCambridge, Jan Sterling, Claire Trevor, Ralph Bellamy, Lauren Bacall.

Basing his lectures on the 1960 theme of the Danforth Lectures at East Carolina "Risks and Responsibilities in a World of Revolutionary Changes," Dr. Caldwell will discuss "Education for Our Risks and Responsibilities." Arrangements for the two programs have been made by Dr. George A. Douglas, director of the Danforth Project at the college.

Republicans Map Major Effort In North Dakota

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are preparing for an all-out effort in a special North Dakota senatorial election which could influence the whole presidential campaign.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said that so far as the June 28 North Dakota balloting is concerned "this is it."

"If we Republicans lose this special election in the Midwest just prior to the convention, it will influence the whole campaign this year," he said. "If we can't win in a key pivotal state like this, we may lose the presidential election."

Republicans have nominated Gov. John E. Davis to fill the remainder of more than four years of the term of the late Republican Sen. William Langer. Democrats are expected to nominate Rep. Quentin N. Burdick at their state convention Thursday.

Because the farm issue is likely to be paramount, Goldwater said he has been urging Vice President Richard M. Nixon to go into the state and make a farm speech.

Goldwater thinks this program may prove to be something of an antidote to the policies of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson. Benson's ideas are under heavy attack from Democrats and many Middle Western Republicans are considerably less than charmed with them.

"We know that Nixon doesn't agree with Benson," Goldwater said in an interview. "But we don't know the extent to which he doesn't."

Thus far Nixon has said no to Goldwater's pleas for a North Dakota speech.

Arrangements have been made for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to make a two-day tour in North Dakota. Rockefeller has sent word to the senatorial committee to hold down on bookings for formal speeches.

The New York governor wants to try out his smile on North Dakotans. So he'll take to the streets, the supermarkets and the roadside farm stands to pass the republican word.

Goldwater indicated the Republicans will try to hang a radical label on Burdick. He said Burdick will get help not only from the Democratic senatorial and national committees but from Americans for Democratic Action, the Farmers Union and the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Action.

"If Burdick should win, I'm afraid it will influence both parties to go left," Goldwater said. "And if the Republicans get into a 'me too' position, we're going to lose the election."

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

Temperatures will average near normal for the next five days. Cooler Tuesday and Wednesday, warmer Thursday and Friday, cooler again Saturday. Showers Tuesday, mostly over the east portion, and showers again about Friday, will total one-half to one inch in the east.

Teenagers Crash In Plane Joyride

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A plane taken for a joyride by a couple of teenagers developed engine trouble and crashed Saturday night. One of the boys was injured seriously.

The two were identified by police as Bennie Abernathy, 18, who suffered only minor injuries, and Bobby Howard Presley, 16, who suffered a broken back, a broken leg, and possible internal injuries.

Police said Abernathy, a mechanic for Southern Flight Service, told them he and Presley had been drinking and discussing flying, and they decided to take an airplane ride.

They went to the airport at 10:30 p.m. and took off in a single-engine plane owned by Richard R. Washam of Charlotte. Abernathy said he flew the plane.

When it developed engine trouble, he radioed for landing instructions. Then the radio went dead. Officers quoted Abernathy as saying, "I decided just to ride it down."

The plane crashed in woods near a residential area two miles from the airport.

Abernathy was picked up by police at 1:45 a.m. Two blocks from the crashed plane, the wreckage, however, could not be located by police until nearly 6 a.m.

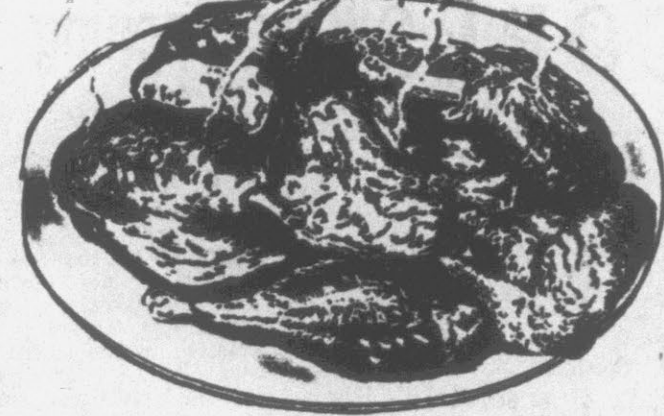

Presley was found unconscious in the wrecked plane. Police said Washam knew the boys and was undecided about pressing charges against them.

CHAPTER 27

I deflated instantly when I received the notice from the Bar Association, directing me to appear before the Executive Committee for a special hearing next Wednesday on the complaint of Mrs. Lorraine Coleman.

All my rhetoric had been useless. Alfred Seward had not been impressed. And now, in addition to everything else, I would have to marshal some kind of defense. It was a serious charge and I felt like a longtailed cat in a room full of rockers.

I sat for a moment at my desk, gloomy and thoughtful. Then I stood up and walked out of the office and hailed a cab to the Merchant's Trust.

I sat beside the desk of Mr. William Chalker, one of the bank's executives, and handed him my card.

Sunlight pushed through the vast window front and glinted on his spectacles. "What can I do for you, Mr. Jordan?" he asked.

"I need some information," "Yes?"

"Concerning the account of M. Parker Coleman?"

His bland smile became one of polite withdrawal. "You understand, of course, Mr. Jordan, that banks seldom disclose the affairs of their clients living or dead, to anyone. Except," he added with a wry twist of his mouth, "to government officials, when necessary."

"Naturally. But the information I want breaches no trust and violates no confidence. Of course, I would expect you to be the exclusive judge of that."

"Of course."

I said, "I represent Mr. Coleman's children. We know that he drew a last will and testament, but so far no trace of the document has been found."

"Most odd, Mr. Jordan. Have you searched his safe-deposit box?"

"The widow did, yes."

"And it is not there."

"No, sir."

"Then I don't see how I can be of any help, Mr. Jordan."

"It would help us to know the last time he had access to his box. There is always a chance that he withdrew the will himself and destroyed it."

Mr. Chalker wavered perceptibly. He considered it and found no violation of the bank's ethics. "That is all you want to know, when Mr. Coleman last visited his box?"

"Yes."

He sighed deeply and reached for the phone. He got through to the proper extension and issued instructions.

After a moment a messenger arrived with a slip of paper.

Mr. Chalker took it and thanked him. He examined the notation and said, "Ah, here it is. Mr. M. Parker Coleman visited his safe-deposit box on the fourteenth of this month."

I stared at him. Blinking. And then expelled one astonished word.

"What!"

Mr. Chalker was taken aback. The unexpected volume and force of my voice had startled him. He swallowed apprehensively and slunk into his chair.

"The fourteenth of this month?" I demanded, slow and deliberate.

"Er... yes, that's what it says."

"Impossible." Flat and emphatic.

"I—I beg your pardon, sir."

"The fourteenth of this month was a week ago. A week ago Mr. M. Parker Coleman was in St. John's Hospital, suffering a severe coronary occlusion, flat on his back, under oxygen, and completely immobilized."

William Chalker turned pale. Sudden anxiety wrenched at his face. He shook his head. "There must be some mistake."

"There is, Mr. Chalker. There certainly is. A very grave mistake. Made by the Merchant's Trust."

"How so?"

"Somebody else apparently got into Mr. Coleman's safe-deposit box. Now how in hell could a stranger do that?"

"He couldn't. I assure you, Mr. Jordan, it's a physical impossibility. We have a foolproof system here. Our safe-deposit boxes are absolutely inviolable."

"Not if somebody else signed Mr. Coleman's signature and was given access. Who was the custodian on duty that day?"

But there were no further disclosures from Mr. William Chalker. He squared his shoulders resolutely. "I'm afraid that will be all for today, Mr. Jordan. I'm sorry. I just can't spare any more time. Now, if you will excuse me."

"Sure," I said. "I understand. There may be evidence of laxity or dereliction and the bank wants to cover itself. Please remember to take good care of that slip of paper. And thank you for your time and trouble. Good day, sir."

I found Ruth Duncan waiting for me in the office. She looked up from the client's chair where she sat, patiently clasping her purse. Peter was standing at the window, wide-eyed, awed by the panorama below. He turned shyly at my entrance.

"How do you do, Peter," I said. "Good to see you again."

He was dressed for the occasion, wearing a suit and striped tie, knotted slightly off center. He took my proffered hand with an air of grave dignity.

"I left Linda with a neighbor," Ruth Duncan explained. "I wanted Peter to tell you something."

I looked at him with interest.

"He's an imaginative boy," she said, "but he never makes up stories. It's something he heard. Something his grandfather said. I'm not sure if it means anything, but it may be helpful."

She turned and smiled at him encouragingly. "Peter, you remember that last evening you were playing with Grandpa?"

"Uh-hun."

"Would you tell Mr. Jordan what happened?"

The large solemn eyes met mine. "Grandpa didn't stay long. He had to leave. He was going to see his daddy."

I frowned and glanced at Ruth Duncan. She shrugged helplessly, looking bewildered.

"Well, now, Peter," I said. "Did Grandpa tell you he was going to see his daddy?"

"No. But he spoke to him on the telephone."

"You heard him?"

"Yes. We were playing with my coloring set and Grandpa kept looking at his watch. Then he said he had to call somebody and he went to the telephone and took a piece of paper out of his pocket and he dialed a number."

"Try hard, Peter, and see if you can remember everything Grandpa said."

"Well, I don't remember the exact words. Grandpa spoke a little funny, you know."

"Try, Peter. As near as you can remember."

He fidgeted, scuffing a shoe at the leg of a chair. "Grandpa told his daddy he had to see him, it was important. And then he said, 'All right, I'll be there.'"

I felt a surge of excitement. An acceleration of my pulse. But I kept my voice level and my face blank and I looked at Ruth Duncan. "Where did Fred live?"

"Three blocks from where I do," She gave me an address.

"Would you mind if I had a look at the place?"

"Not at all." She opened her purse and began rummaging. She found a key and held it out to me.

From evidence he has found, Scott Jordan tells the Colemans "I think we can offer the D. A. a much better candidate for the murderer than Adam." Continue the story tomorrow.

Scientists Begin Search For Life Among The Stars

EDITOR'S NOTE—Is there life on other planets? Some astronomers think so, and today for the first time they are turning the earth's ear to try to catch sounds of faraway life. In this first in a three-part series, AP science writer Alton Blakeslee explains the quest of Project Oma.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer
GREEN BANK, W. Va. (AP)—Earthling today begin a search to hear signals from intelligent life somewhere else in our universe. Many scientists are convinced somebody is out there, somewhere among billion times billions of stars, and probably billions of other planets.

Seeking contact, young astronomers here first are pointing the giant ear of a radio telescope at two fairly nearby systems which may have planets, and perhaps intelligent life.

Just conceivably, those planets may be beaming "Is anyone there?" Signals at earth, explains Dr. Frank D. Drake, 29-year-old associate astronomer of the National Radio Astronomy Observatory perched in this mountainous hamlet of only 100 souls.

Or perhaps new and sensitive equipment here can pick up commands they are sending to their own space probes, as we are sending signals out to our recent Venus probe.

Today Dr. Drake and associates are installing the special equipment in the 85-foot radio telescope pointing a shiny, cup-shaped ear out into space.

Tonight or Tuesday if all goes well, they will actually begin list-

Announce Plans For Alumni Day At East Carolina

Alumni Day at East Carolina College, scheduled for Saturday, May 21, will include a varied program of events just announced by a planning committee appointed by ZW. Frazelle of Kenansville, president of the college Alumni Association.

Registration will be held in the Alumni building from 9:30 a.m. until 10:30 a.m. A business meeting of the entire Alumni Association will be held at 10:30 a.m. in the auditorium of Austin building. The annual alumni luncheon will take place in the New South Dining Hall at 12:30 p.m. President Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina will be principal speaker.

Reunions will be held at 2:00 p.m. for the following classes: Class of 1959, Class of 1955, Class of 1950, Class of 1945, Class of 1940, Class of 1935, Class of 1930, Class of 1925, Class of 1920, Class of 1915, and Class of 1911. Presidents and members of these classes have been asked to contact their classmates and have a good crowd for these reunions.

Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins will entertain the alumni and other friends at a tea from 3:00 p.m. until 5:00 p.m. at the president's home.

President Frazelle urges all alumni to make their plans to attend this occasion and remind them that May 22 is Commencement Day.

Awoke To Find Elephant In Yard

SAFFORD, Ariz. (AP)—George Morris got out of bed Friday, glanced out of his bedroom window, blinked his eyes and looked again.

There, in his backyard, was a full grown elephant—eating lilies. It wasn't an April Fool joke.

Seems that when a circus pulled up stakes Thursday night Dumbo walked off in the confusion and got left behind.

Morris telephoned the sheriff's office. After several long minutes he persuaded skeptical officers he was telling the truth.

Deputies caught up with the circus in Globe, about 100 miles away, and a van was sent back to fetch Dumbo.

Sees Liberalism On Wrong Track

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Roman Catholic prelate says he believes misguided liberalism is departing from fundamental principles of right and wrong.

"There is nothing as stubborn as a fact—principles of truth, integrity and honesty," James Francis Cardinal McIntyre told a meeting of Knights of Columbus Sunday.

Commenting on recent court decisions on so-called obscene literature the cardinal said: "The efforts of legislative and judicial agencies to depart from these principles are ludicrous. No matter how thin you slice it, it's still smut."

A Church of England bishop is addressed as "my lord."

You May Be Glad You Were Counted

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP)—You may be glad you were counted in April 1960.

People who can't locate a birth certificate often find that the Census Bureau can furnish an acceptable substitute—a copy of the information listed about them in census files.

Nearly one billion names, together with identifying data, are filed in an agency warehouse at Pittsburg, Kan. The billion names include many duplications, of course, since a census is taken every ten years.

You can find out what the files say about you by paying $3-$4 if you want the information in a hurry. Before sending any money, you should get an application form by writing to the bureau's Personal Census Service Branch, at Pittsburg.

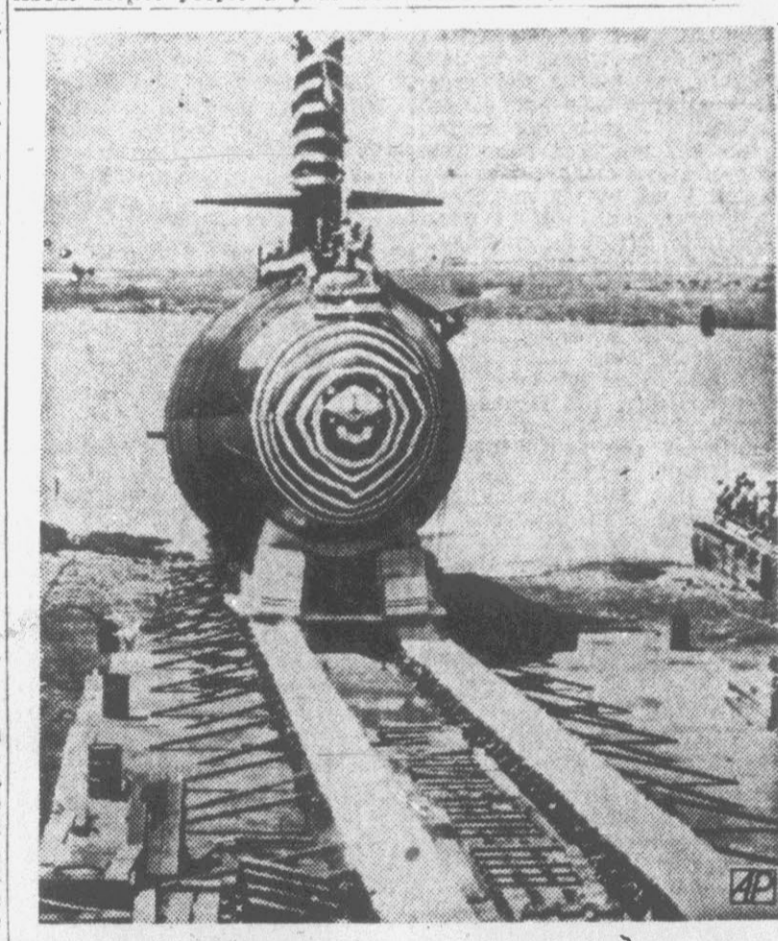

Use of the census files spurred in the late 1930s with the advent of the Social Security program. Many people had to supply proof of age in order to get coverage. About 200,000 people a year now use the agency's special service and 3½ million have done so since 1936.

Proof of age is not the only help the bureau can supply. Some people have to establish their relationship to someone else in order to claim their share of an estate. Such questions often can be settled through census records.

If you were counted in 1880, 1900 or 1920, finding your file should be a simple matter. WPA workers during the depression filed all the reports for those years in alphabetical order.

For other years, records are filed according to the communities in which people were counted. When you send in an application, you must give your address at the time of the census involved and the names of the people you lived with.

You can only apply for information about yourself. However, you can have your report sent to someone else. Even then, you will be notified if the record shows something that might embarrass you. Some people, for instance, are counted in jail.

NUCLEAR SUBMARINE LAUNCHED ON GULF—The first nuclear-powered submarine built on the Gulf Coast, the USS Sculpin, slides down the ways of the Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp. at Pascagoula, Miss. The speedy attack craft cost almost 25 million dollars exclusive of its atomic reactor. Ingalls is building three more of the submarines. (AP Wirephoto)

Two Voters OK Big Bond Issue

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—The two persons eligible to vote in a million-dollar bond election both voted for the measure.

They were Jesse Mendoza, a barber, and his wife, a secretary. The couple voted in their home Saturday when Mendoza got home from work.

The only persons eligible to vote were residents of the Galveston County Drainage Dist. 4—the Mendozas. The marshy area that comprises the district will be drained with the funds approved in the election. Other persons owning land in the district plan to build up to 300 homes as soon as water can be diverted and the low areas filled.

The election was called by the drainage district. Costs of the election were reduced by directors of the district acting as vote counters.

The printed ballots will be sent to the Capitol at Austin for certification.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market resumed its desultory course in quiet trading early this afternoon.

The market was irregular with a slightly lower tendency.

Gains and losses of most key stocks were fractional. Here and there was a move of a point or so either way.

Selected chemicals and electronics made some progress. Steels, motors, rails, nonferrous metals, tobacco and drugs were mixed. Oils edged off.

The over-all background was drab. Reports were of more cutbacks in steel production, reflecting order cancellations.

The approach of the April 15 income tax deadline was one factor mentioned as a brake on stock market commitments.

Magnavox reported a sharp increase in earnings and the stock advanced more than a point. A similar gain was made by Texas Instruments.

General Electric and Jones & Laughlin fell about a point.

Union Carbide added a couple of points. Ahead around a point were Air Reduction, Eastman Kodak and International Paper.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .10 at 214.10 with the industrials down .20, the rails down 20 and the utilities unchanged.

At noon, the Dow Jones industrial index was up .10 at 616.08.

Corporate bonds were irregular. U. S. government bonds rose slightly.

VISITORS LISTEN . . . as E. B. Bright dedicates new library building.

GRIFTON — This library "is a monument to the energy of the people . . . community spirit" and to "the generosity of the citizens," E. B. Bright, principal of the Grifton Consolidated School, said at the dedication of the new Grifton Public Library, Saturday afternoon.

Bright said, the library is dedicated to serve the community and serves both young and old.

The new building, completed January 1, was opened January 18, with 3,000 volumes.

It was announced that over 170 people had contributed to the library building fund and that the 25 by 32 foot concrete block masonry structure "is completely paid for." The lot was given by Mrs. Jean Williams and Mrs. Murie Nelson, in memory of their late husbands.

'Grade A' Rating By Health Dept.

For the period ending March 31, Dr. Georgia V. Mills, Pitt County health director, announced today the following distributors delivering milk and milk products in Pitt County were rated as Grade "A":

- Carolina Dairies, Greenville;
- Southern Dairies, Wilson; Maola Milk and Ice Cream Co., New Bern; Wayne Dairy, Goldsboro; and Gardner Dairy in Rocky Mount.

E. L. Kilpatrick, sanitarian at the local health department, in charge of milk sanitation, inspects the 12 producer dairies located in Pitt County three times each six months for cleanliness and proper milk handling.

Samples of milk and milk products are collected monthly from each distributor in the county. Complete tests are made on these samples to assure the public that the Milk Ordinance and Code 1953 recommendations of the Public Health Service are complied with.

Little Change In Boy's Condition

"Little change" has taken place in the condition of William Reide, nine-year-old Negro of 513 Ford St. who was struck by an auto at the intersection of Fifth and Tyson Sts. Thursday night, according to the youth's doctor.

The boy's condition is "still critical," the physician noted. Reide suffered severe brain injuries, multiple fractures of his right arm and leg and other injuries when hit by the car about 9:25 p.m.

Investigators, who identified the driver of the vehicle as Edgar Bryan Jenkins of 407 Eastern St., said the youth allegedly ran from the side of the street into the path of the oncoming car.

'Unemployed' On Display Tonight In Oscar Awards

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Tonight is Oscar night and the nation, via television, will get a look at the prettiest bunch of unemployed workers in history.

The month-old actors strike will put a pall over the 32nd annual Academy Awards but the public won't see it. The 90-minute show—NBC-TV 10:30 p.m., EST promises to be as gay and glamorous as ever.

If more time is needed, an extra 30 minutes will be tagged on the end. Last year the two-hour show found itself with 20 minutes of embarrassing dead air.

Fourteen of the 20 acting nominees will be on hand, including the two favorites for best actress—Elizabeth Taylor and Simone Signoret—both wearing gowns by the same Parisian designer.

Audrey Hepburn, also a potential winner, is kept in Europe by pregnancy and Katharine Hepburn, who seldom appears at industry functions, will be home in Connecticut.

Doris Day, nominated for a comedy performance in "Pillow Talk," is not listed among favorites but will be present.

Of the top actor nominees, only veteran Paul Muni will be absent. Favorite is Charlton Heston who is expected to win on a "Ben-Hur" sweep but James Stewart and Jack Lemmon could take it.

Lemmon, who won the supporting Oscar with a comedy portrayal a few years ago, could repeat in the top acting category. It would make him the first actor to ever win in both divisions and comedy is the hard way to do it.

Laurence Harvey, the Britisher, also is rated an outside chance for his "Room at the Top" performance.

Halls Of Chicod School Hummed On A Saturday

By BETTY PURSER

CHICOD — On a Saturday morning the halls of Chicod were not the deadly quiet they are during usual weekends. Instead, there was all the noise and activity of an ordinary school day; for the students were making up one of the unscheduled holidays produced by the snows.

The same students who had so wildly rejoiced over those holidays dragged themselves wearily out of bed and to school. One student said just before he collapsed from this overdose of school, "Six days of school in one week! Why, it's a regular nightmare!"

Decisions

Most of the seniors are very preoccupied these days trying to decide what lucky college or job is awaiting them.

A few of them, however, say that they are having too much trouble with high school right now to worry about anything else. They recently received their graduation invitations—a very definite sign that graduation is just around the corner.

Wins Contest

Mary Lathan Smith, a sophomore at Chicod, won the amateur talent contest held recently at the Paramount Theater in Farmville, sponsored by various merchants of Farmville.

Congratulations, Mary!

Spring Training

The boys have swapped basketball shoes for spikes and have begun spring training for baseball. We hope the baseball season will be as successful as the basketball season. The Chicod boys' team finished second in the Pitt County Tournament, and three players—Nancy Jo Dixon, Raymond Fomes, and Murray Porter—brought home All-Conference medals.

Junior Journalism

The English Department is undertaking a rather thorough unit in journalism with the junior class. Since Chicod High does not regularly publish a school paper, one of the projects for the Juniors is to get out an edition.

The study will be culminated by a visit to the "Daily Reflector."
