Wisconsin Popular Vote For Kennedy; Captures Six Of Ten Districts In State

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Victory over a formidable opponent in the Wisconsin primary election put new punch and power today behind Sen. John F. Kennedy's bid for the Democratic presidential nomination. The result was clear-cut, but not as big as his aides had hoped. Kennedy said, however, "I would think the Democratic leadership would find it very helpful." The election demonstrated, he claimed, that he can attract votes among the farmers, labor unions, and non-Catholics. Kennedy, a Massachusetts Catholic, defeated Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, a Protestant. For years, Humphrey has championed the Midwest farmers. In Tuesday's election, he was supported by top leadership of the Wisconsin AFL-CIO. Vice President Richard M. Nixon, unopposed in the Republican primary, did not come into the hard-fought campaign. He ran third. With 3,428 of 3,446 precincts reported, unofficial tabulations showed: Kennedy 474,023; Humphrey 369,442; Nixon 342,851. This gave Kennedy slightly more than 56 per cent of the Democratic vote and victories in six of the 10 congressional districts. It also allocated 20 Wisconsin delegate votes in the Democratic National Convention to Kennedy, 10 to Humphrey. Each also will receive a half vote from the ballot shared by the state's two national committee members, who split their support. Even before the final count was in, the vote broke the previous record, set in 1952, of 1,018,149. Coming on the heels of his spectacular sweep in New Hampshire last month, this was Kennedy's second straight victory in an important presidential primary. Wisconsin was not a spectacular triumph for him. He had said that winning six district races, plus a majority of the popular vote, would constitute a victory for him. "Anything else would be gravy," Kennedy said. There was no "gravy." But Kennedy said he was delighted with the result. He added, "I never took the view that we could win all 10 districts despite the pollsters. If we end up with 57 per cent of the Democratic vote we will be doing very well." Humphrey said the election caused him no pain. "I suppose numerically I'm the defeated candidate," he said, "but if I'm defeated I certainly don't hurt. In light of the predictions made, we have every reason to believe we did well." The vote for Nixon also was open to interpretation. He had no opposition to stir GOP interest and he did not campaign in Wisconsin. Four years ago, 438,000 Republicans cast ballots for President Eisenhower in a virtually uncontested election. In 1952, the late Sen. Robert A. Taft rolled up 315,000 GOP votes to 262,000 cast for Earl Warren, then governor of California. Kennedy minimized the part played by his religion—he is a Roman Catholic—on his victory. "We carried Janesville, for instance, which is only 12 per cent Catholic. I also believe the people had pretty much made up their minds before the religious issue came up." The size of the "cross over" ballot, in which Wisconsin Republicans may vote in the Democratic primary, and vice versa, will never be known. Kennedy's aides cited several areas as proof of his vote-pulling power among non-Catholics. In Sheboygan where Catholic voters constitute 22 per cent of the total, he had 55.3 per cent of the vote. He took 44.3 per cent in Madison which has 22 per cent Catholics, and 48.3 per cent of the vote in Lacrosse where the Catholic vote is 23 per cent. As for his draw with the farmers, Kennedy pointed to his victory in the 7th District, an agricultural area. He was a big winner in three of Wisconsin's major industrial areas, Milwaukee, Racine and Kenosha. The AFL-CIO leadership in the state opposed him and urged union men to support Humphrey. Both Humphrey and Kennedy took the occasion to comment happily on the vote for Nixon. "Nixon did come in a wobbly third, just as I predicted," Humphrey said. "This certainly shows it doesn't pay to play tricks with politics." "I didn't think Nixon would do as badly as he did here," Kennedy said. But in Washington, GOP National Chairman Thruston Morton saluted the vote for Nixon. He said it was the greatest ever given an unopposed candidate in the Wisconsin primary.

Social Security Clarification Step Requested

Congressman Herbert C. Bonner reported to the Daily Reflector last night he proposed yesterday the House Ways and Means Committee include in its report to Congress clarification of the term "material participation" in the Social Security Act amendment of 1956 affecting farm owners. His report indicated the committee, under the chairmanship of Rep. Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark.), would include in its report the measure to spell out what constitutes material participation by land owners in farm production. Pitt County Attorney W. W. Speight telegraphed Bonner yesterday by telegram "urgently recommending that the Social Security Act be amended to clarify" the term in question. The telegram called for an "amendment to provide that the operation of a farm by the owner through tenants, sharecroppers, agents, partners, or managers on any basis other than straight cash rental shall constitute material participation within the meaning of the act, and that the amendment shall be retroactive for the years 1956, 1957, and 1958." Speight said this morning a resolution requesting the change resulted from a movement begun in Pitt County about a year ago. The resolution has been unanimously adopted by the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, several boards of commissioners of other Eastern North Carolina counties, and the N. C. Association of County Commissioners. Speight, Robert L. Martin of the Pitt Commissioners, and the North Carolina congressional delegation appeared before the Ways and Means Committee last year and presented the resolution. Because of limited time, Speight said today, the committee delayed action on the proposed clarification "to see if Social Security administrative agencies could correct the inequity." During last year, the local attorney continued, incidents arose which denied Social Security benefits to farm owners who could not satisfy the administrative agencies their farm production participation had been material. Speight pointed out Mid-Western interests would rather retain a status quo in the amendment to allow large land-owners to collect passive (designated annual rent) income from their ranches and farms after reaching age 65 without being classified as participating materially in the farms' production. Passive income is not included (Continued on page 16)

Miss Greenville Contestants To Be In Parade Here Thursday Afternoon

A parade featuring Miss Greenville Beauty Pageant contestants, Miss North Carolina, 1960, bands and floats and Betty Lane Evans will be held tomorrow afternoon preceding the pageant of tomorrow night. Co-chairman of the Jaycee project, George Coffman, said the parade will form on the college campus at 3:30. It will move through the business streets of the city. The pageant itself, featuring 10 beauties, will begin at 7:30 tomorrow night in Wright Auditorium. Both reserve and general admission tickets will be on sale at the door, Coffman said. A highlight of the evening will be the appearance of Judi Klipfel, Miss North Carolina of 1960. She will make a talk during intermission and sing a number. Coffman said each of the contestants will make appearances in three phases of competition. They will appear in evening dresses, swim suits and finally for their talent presentations. Jaycee president Brooks Beddingfield will welcome guests and Robert Ray, manager of WOOV, will act as master of ceremonies. "The contestants participating will present quite a variety of talents which we think will make an enjoyable evening for people of all ages," Coffman said of the pageant. Included in the numbers are a modern jazz dance, singing, baton twirling, dramatics and a modern art talk. Three semi-finalists will be chosen by the judges from the ten contestants and Miss Greenville of 1961 will be chosen from that group. Following tomorrow afternoon's parade, a tea for contestants, judges and dignitaries will be held at the home of Mrs. Roy Hardee in Lakewood Pines. Judges will have the opportunity to meet the contestants and for informal conversation at that time. Judges will be Miss Klipfel of Asheboro, Sam Whitehurst of New Bern and Dr. Sidney Christian of Williamston. Co-chairman of the pageant along with Coffman is Dick Jones. S. African Officials Push Drive

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Government officials served notice today they will press their police drive against Negro "inciters and intimidators" until South Africa's work boycott is crushed. Brig. C. J. Els, assistant national police commissioner, warned in a newspaper statement: "We will not rest until we have rooted them all out." Police moved into an African hostel at Lamontville this morning and confiscated clubs, axes, picks, sharpened pieces of steel and three guns. Negroes—the police called them "agitators and intimidators"—had held the hostel near Durban on the east coast since Monday night. The takeover was accomplished without violence. Tuesday night in Lamontville one African was shot dead and four wounded as police battled a crowd of 1,000 who were trying to take reprisals against Negroes returning from work. Appeals for the government to negotiate with responsible Negro leaders and to moderate its strict racial policies came from leaders of business, church and the opposition United party. M. D. de Wet Nel, national minister of Bantu (Negro) administration, said in a speech that "South Africa's present racial policy is the right one and it will continue to be followed by the government." Underlining its determination to give no ground, the government won overwhelming Senate approval of a bill to outlaw the two leading Negro political organizations, the Pan-Africanist Congress and the more moderate African National Congress. The only two votes in opposition were cast by the two white members of the Senate representing Africans.

More Men Mobilized To Hunt Outlaw Tyson

RALEIGH (AP)—The state mobilized more men today to press its manhunt for outlaw Robert Tyson, an escaped Negro convict wanted for murder and rape. Prisons Director George Randall said he has requested the help of 12 Wake County National Guardsmen "who are trained and experienced men with knowledge of the area being searched or who have special technical qualifications." But, he added, "after a careful review of the situation this morning, I am not recommending that the governor call out full units of the National Guard at this time." Randall said the State Wildlife Resources Commission is furnish an airplane for observation purposes and to assist in the search in a rugged, heavily-wooded area in northern Wake County near Falls of the Neuse. Randall added that the State Highway Patrol is adding 30 more troopers to a force of 50 men in the area and that he has asked the Wildlife Commission to furnish as many of its rangers and others similarly trained to help in the search. "They say they have 12 men ready right now and are going to check and see how many more they can furnish," said Randall. Gov. Luther Hodges remained in close touch with the search, and stood ready to order out the guard if requested to do so. Prisons Director George Randall said law enforcement agencies in on the manhunt agreed it would be best to wait the results of a systematic search before asking for guard troops. Tyson, 40-year old High Point negro, walked away March 24 from the Camp Polk prison unit near Raleigh, where he was a butcher. Soon after, Mrs. Clyde Farnell, wife of the camp steward, was found in a shed back of his stable

Farmville Board Delays Hiring Sales Supervisor

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade at its annual meeting yesterday delayed selection of new sales supervisor until the Board's directors have met with local Chamber of Commerce officials to discuss the "possibility of having previous and present employment policies of the two groups continue." Charles S. Edwards, sales supervisor for the past five years, has announced his resignation effective May 1. His resignation was read to the 10 members present at yesterday's session. In the past, the Tobacco Board of Trade and the local Chamber of Commerce have jointly employed one man to serve as supervisor for the former organization and secretary to the latter. The Board expressed official appreciation to Edwards for his services. At yesterday's meeting, Pres. W. C. Monk appointed a nominating

Snow Flurries In Western Carolina

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — The calendar says it's April 6, but you'd never know it in some parts of mountainous Western North Carolina. Light snow flurries fell in scattered areas of the mountains Tuesday accompanied by high winds—estimated at 60-80 m.p.h. atop Grandfather Mt.—and some rain. Observers said, however, the snow was sticking only in the higher elevations. The Highway Patrol recommended that chains be used on highway 321 in the Blowing Rock area, hit by almost two inches of snow.

Chancellor Caldwell Sees Dangers In Obsolescence Of Ideas

Chancellor John T. Caldwell of East Carolina College last night, North Carolina State College stressed the idea that "the most dangerous obsolescence in the world today is that of ideas" at a series of lectures on the campus. Dr. Caldwell addressed an audience of students and faculty members at the college, and of townspeople of Greenville. He based his topic on the Danforth theme "Risks and Responsibilities in a World of Revolutionary Changes" and discussed "Change and Obsolescence" as an aspect of the subject. Tonight Dr. Caldwell will continue his discussion with a talk on "The Elusiveness of Certainty." The lecture is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the Joyner Library and is open to the public. "Change and obsolescence," Dr. Caldwell said last night, "occur in the realm of things, in the realm of social arrangements, and in the realm of ideas. They are most observable in things and in social arrangements," he continued as he gave examples ranging from the better mousetrap which makes the old one obsolete to colonial arrangements which have oversteered "their constructive usefulness." In all the business of change and obsolescence, he pointed out, "the really important thing... is that ideas are at the root of it." Ideas, he said, are basic. Obsolescence in the realm of ideas, he declared, presents great danger in man's life today. "Some of the ideas men live by are merely illusions," he said. "In many cases these illusions are derived from obsolescence of what was once 'true' or 'somehow thought to be true.'" From the illusions of American omnipotence and of American self-sufficiency, he said, are derived "many errors in dealing with allies, with competing systems, even with ourselves." Such ideas as that our allies are unimportant, that it is unimportant to help the people of Africa, and that mediocre schools operating for nine months are sufficient for our needs he cited as obsolete and dangerous. Discussing the various reasons why men cling to obsolete ideas, he pointed out that while we are usually objective about the obsolescence factor in the case of things, understanding of obsolescence in the realm of social and political affairs is more difficult to arrive at. "Even in the field of education," he said, "we indulge in endless discussions and polemics largely because proof of obsolescence is so hard to come by and change is more difficult than not changing." He advised students and teachers that such of what they learn and teach soon becomes obsolete and challenges them to keep their thinking "critical and unfettered." The most precious of human rights, he declared, is "the right to know and learn and criticize." The true college or university, he continued, is "dedicated to conserving this right" and to "passing on to each generation the heritage of the past." In addition to performing this conservative role, he said, institutions of higher learning must also devote themselves to serving "the most radical of all ends: the discovery, formulation and speaking of whatever lays claim to being true. They will do this, understanding that tomorrow its specifics may be marked and shelved as 'obsolete.'" Concluding his address, he advised, "You can defend yourself and your country against obsolescence of ideas. This defense must be made in your own consciousness. It requires the energetic and honest effort of your mind to advance its frontiers continually." An informal discussion of the ideas advanced by Dr. Caldwell followed the lecture, with Dr. George A. Douglas, director of the Danforth Project at the college, as chairman. In answer to questions, based largely on education, Dr. Caldwell again emphasized the teaching of creative thinking as the foremost duty of the college and the university. He charge that institutions of higher learning in this country tend to "become vehicles for granting degrees" and that to some extent "we have denuded our educational process of the exciting creativeness" which should characterize it. On the other hand, he said, we have a growing recognition that "brains count." Farmers, he pointed out, "are the most research-minded people in the country." Students excelling in music and art as well as in academic work are receiving greater respect than in the past, he said. Comparing higher education in Europe and in the United States, he defended the American ideal of giving each student the type of education which best meets his needs, which is best suited to his talents and abilities, and which will best prepare him for a useful and satisfying life. President Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina College introduced Dr. Caldwell to his audience last night.

Miss Lily L. Harper, recent graduate of Flora Macdonald College, has assumed her duties as assistant home economics agent for Pitt County.

Jennie, Get Your Gun

KAREN CARTEN . . . A 14-year-old rifle champion draws a bead on target.

Target practice is a safer recreation than square dancing, say young people who have taken to the gun. And, shades of Annie Oakley, it's becoming a feminine sport. Pop, pop, pop, went the guns of girls as they competed with boys for trophies at the 29th Annual Connecticut State Championships, the world's largest indoor .22 caliber gallery meeting.

"I always pass," she laughs. Some of the advantages of this sport, as Karen sees it, include the challenge of competition, the fun of meeting new people, particularly when you compete in other states, (she has competed in Ohio, New York and New Jersey) and the fact that it can help straighten out off-beat types. Says she:

"Dad is head of the youth board in our town and feels that often a bad youngster is one who needs to compete at something, to prove something, to get a feeling of satisfaction or pride in himself. He has taken over a few boys like that, handed them a gun, and made them into good types."

Karen's 17-year-old beau, whose name she wears, doesn't shoot—he prefers swimming. But that presents no conflict. "It's better that way," says Karen. "I watch him compete, and he watches me, so we do not compete against each other, and enjoy the other's success."

Safety is an obvious factor on the range where every gun is treated as if it is loaded at all times. At the Winchester Gun Club ranges in New Haven where the competition was held, the competitor stands behind a glass enclosure, shoots at his target through an aperture. Bullets fall into sand after they hit the target. Then the target is brought back by a pulley arrangement to the shooter where it is then removed, tallied, and the score put up on the big board. All the while no one's presence is required between the glass enclosure and the target.

"Why shouldn't girls be interested in shooting? It's a natural for them, if they can just persuade their parents that it is safe," says Karen. "One way is to invite parents to go to a range and see safety in action."

Convention Wives Have Fun Now

By MARY CAMPBELL
 CHICAGO (AP)—The day when Pop left Mom at home while he whooped it up at a convention is fading fast.
 Nowadays he works hard at a convention and he brings along his wife who has a lot of fun.
 Making sure the little woman has the best time possible in Chicago while her husband listens to speeches is the job of Miss Josephine Mutter.
 She operates a one-woman business dedicated "to providing a program for the women which I would like were I the wife of a visiting postmaster."
 Miss Mutter mentions postmasters because, in arranging for their convention in Chicago several years ago, they were the first to ask, "What do you have planned for the girls?"
 A hotel gave her the job of entertaining the postmasters' wives and from that on, in letters soliciting conventions, the hotel advertised itself as the only one in Chicago with a woman on the staff to direct entertainment for the ladies.
 For the last 14 years, Miss Mutter has been on her own, taking care of distaff groups in all Chicago convention hotels.
 A typical schedule for a three- or four-day convention where the ladies are under Miss Mutter's direction would include a sight-seeing tour of Chicago or a yacht ride on Lake Michigan, a fashion show, a tea, a matinee and lots of time for shopping.
 Breakfasts are late, letting the wife nap after her husband has left for his first meeting, and luncheon menus are all planned by Miss Mutter. She counts calories, mindful of banquets on the convention schedule.
 Miss Mutter always sees that a matronly model appears in the fashion shows, provides a map of the shopping areas and has tickets to radio and television programs. She often is called on to provide courages and favors for the women.

Raisins Team With Sweetpotatoes

RALEIGH — Raisins team up well with many foods, and it's not unusual therefore to find southern cooks using them with one of their favorite foods — sweetpotatoes.
 Sliced, cooked sweetpotatoes, for example, take on extra taste appeal when served with a cream sauce to which plumped raisins and black walnuts have been added. The same dish may be made into a casserole by topping the cream sauce covered potatoes with a layer of miniature marshmallows and baking until the marshmallows are brown-tipped.
 Another pleasing way of combining sweetpotatoes and raisins, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is to mash sweetpotatoes into balls, using glazed raisins for the "centers." Roll the balls in crushed cornflakes or finely chopped nuts. Chill and bake in a moderate oven until thoroughly heated.

Glazed raisins may be prepared by placing the plumped raisins in a frying pan containing melted butter or margarine and heating over a low temperature until the raisins acquire a butter-like glaze.
 USDA reports that supplies of both sweetpotatoes and raisins continue plentiful.

WEEKDAY DINNER

 Fruit Turnovers Beverage
QUICK POLISH BEET SOUP
 Ingredients: 1 can (13 ounces) onion soup, 3 beef bouillon cubes, 3 cups water, 1 can (1 pound) julienne beets, 1 medium-sized carrot (pared and grated medium-fine), ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon white pepper, 1 whole clove, 2 small bay leaves, 2 pinches thyme, 1 or 2 large cloves garlic (crushed), 2 tablespoons light brown sugar, 1 tablespoon cider vinegar, red food coloring, sour cream or sour cream substitute.
 Method: In a saucepan (about 2 quarts) put onion soup, bouillon cubes, water, beets (including liquid in can), carrot, salt, pepper, clove, bay leaf, thyme and garlic. Heat very slowly to allow flavors to develop — about 25 minutes — but do not boil. Remove bay leaves. Stir in brown sugar and vinegar and simmer about 5 minutes. Add a little red food coloring. Top with sour cream as soup is served. Makes almost 1 ½ quarts.
 Note: Make soup several hours before serving, or refrigerate overnight, to allow flavors maximum blending — then reheat.

Pastel Paintbrush Is Pretty and Practical

Perk up with a pastel paintbrush! That's right—brushes for every household painting job now boast colored nylon bristles in such surprising shades as aqua, beige, yellow, pink, and red.
 Besides being unexpectedly attractive, these paintbrushes have great utilitarian value. They last longer than ordinary brushes, spread paint evenly, wash and dry exceptionally fast, and reveal any paint or varnish residue that needs further cleaning off. After each use, swish your pretty brush through thinner, wash it in hot soap or detergent suds, rinse, and hang it to dry.
 Washmanship is the art of good thundering.

New Life Given Old Furniture

By MAIDRED MORRIS
 "It takes patience, time, and a lot of energy to refinish furniture," says Mrs. Carl Heath of Harmony, Rt. 1.
 Although Mrs. Heath has only been a Home Demonstration Club member for a few years, she is following recommended practices of the Agricultural Extension Service and she is also teaching others.
 Mr. and Mrs. Heath moved back to Iredell County in 1957 after he retired from the Navy. They are now in the process of remodeling and adding on to their home. Mrs. Heath has refinished several old pieces of furniture and is interested in renovating old picture frames.
 "My trouble is that I have more old frames than I can use," says Mrs. Heath. "Sometimes it is hard to get pictures suitable to the type of frames I have." Mrs. Heath enjoys experimenting with different types of finishes on her frames. She says to be sure you get all the old finish off and be sure the frame is clean and smooth before applying a new finish.
 Mrs. Heath has painted several frames to match the paint on the walls. She uses a rubber base or flat oil paint. She has also applied gilt finishes and enjoys antiquing frames.
 In a distinctive place of honor in the Heath home, hangs a beautiful old clock which belonged to Mrs. Heath's grandmother. Since refashioning her clock, Mrs. Heath has refinished several old clocks for other people.
 The foster father of Mrs. Heath's mother was a shoemaker. Mrs. Heath now has the "lap board" that he used when working on shoes. She refinished the board and attached legs to it to be used as a coffee table. She refinished the "shoe last" to be used as a decorative object on the table. The shoe last is a wooden object in the shape of a shoe, that he fitted the leather over in making the shoes. The shoe last still has the pegs in it which were used to hold the leather.
 Mrs. Heath says her husband doesn't actually help with the refashioning too much but does give his "advice." She has recently refashioned a pulpit chair which used to be in their church and an old sewing cabinet. With all her experience, Mrs. Heath now helps in conducting workshops in refashioning picture frames and furniture.
 Heath spends much of his time gardening. Mrs. Heath says, "I tell him what to plant and he does the work." Last year they had at least 26 different kinds of vegetables in their garden including brussel sprouts, broccoli, winter squash and parsnips for the first time.
 Heath said, "We planted brussel sprouts for the first time. They raising "a square meal around were not good until after frost home."

 With her leadership ability, Mrs. Heath will probably be der the snow." Although the teaching many more of her Heath's have to work clay soil in some areas, they believe in refashioning furniture.

Secondary Roads Need Attention

The inescapable link between good transportation and further economic development is of considerable concern not only in eastern North Carolina where the issue has been raised time and again, but in other sections of the state as well where more attention is being focused on improving secondary roads.

A major network of secondary roads throughout the state developed under the leadership of the late Governor W. Kerr Scott has contributed a great deal to improving economic conditions in many areas of North Carolina by providing better means for farmers to get their products to market. These same secondary roads have likewise provided an attraction for industries which have in recent years sought locations away from the more highly industrialized areas of the state.

It is becoming increasingly apparent, however, that from the standpoint of the farmer as well as from the standpoint of industry, more attention must be given to secondary roads in many parts of North Carolina. The chairman of the industry committee of the 11-county Northwest North Carolina Development Association this week asserted the condition of secondary roads in that part of the state is holding back industrial development.

Three rough winters in that section, he said, have left the secondary roads in poor condition and that this poor condition of secondary roads poses the area's biggest problem in attracting new industry.

Though many secondary roads in the eastern section of the state have suffered less damage from severe winter weather over the years, there is on every hand evidence of the need for improving existing secondary roads as well as providing more good, paved secondary roads in the area. From the broad viewpoint of economic development of the area, it makes no difference whether the added dollar income stems from industrial plants or from agriculture. If it can come from a combination of these two, so much the better.

The smaller Highway Commission of North Carolina, in its effort to develop a state-wide viewpoint on highway improvement, has of necessity given less attention to the secondary road needs of many sections of North Carolina. The commission, being farther removed from the needs of the local area than before, has not been as keenly aware of the need for improved feeder lines to the primary highway system that has held most of its attention.

These conditions point again to the need for bringing the Highway Commission back into closer contact with the people of the state and the needs of individual areas throughout North Carolina. There are highway needs on a state-wide basis to be sure, but of equal importance are the highway needs of the many individual areas that make up this state of North Carolina.

For further development of our agricultural as well as industrial potential, secondary roads must be given more attention throughout the state.

Something For All In The Public Libraries

It is highly fitting that the town of Grifton chose the eve of National Library Week for the dedication of its new municipal library which was recently completed and opened after a community-wide volunteer effort to provide a public library.

Pitt County is fortunate indeed in having a number of public libraries throughout its area, with their stores of information readily available for citizens who desire to use them. Our only regret is that more use is not made of the public libraries throughout the county.

During this National Library Week it is well that citizens of every community consider the importance of the public library as an institution in this country, and the asset of having a public library for community use. Every citizen, from the children to the aged, can find in the public library the source for knowledge of any subject, the means of continuing his education after school days are only memories, the facilities for a lifetime of entertainment in books.

Pitt County is fortunate indeed that most of its communities, large and small, have public libraries to which the people can turn. Citizens of Pitt are fortunate that through these libraries, and through the bookmobile program, the resources of our local libraries as well as the resources of many larger libraries are at their disposal for the asking.

Like other public institutions, the libraries must look to the public for support. Their value to the community and to the county cannot be overestimated, and yet, if these institutions are to reach their potential value to the people, they must be used by the people.

If you haven't visited a public library recently, make it a point to acquaint yourself with your local public library during this National Library Week. We think you'll be pleasantly surprised and pleased with what you find.

Prosperity And Peace Campaign

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has made only a few political speeches so far in 1960 but they were enough to show:

1. Critics of his defense program get under his skin.
2. In this election year his main theme will be peace and prosperity.
3. He is going to plug for Vice President Richard M. Nixon.
4. Back in late January, in his first political speech of the year, he started banging at the critics—mainly Democratic would-be presidential candidates—of his administration's defense efforts.
5. His answer, repeated again in February and once more Monday night in a speech to Republican women, is that this country is the strongest on earth. He thought the criticism tough enough to require answer at least three times.
6. But Democratic charges that the American economy has been stunted during his seven years in office also irritate him. He has fought back on that, arguing his administration's aim was to preserve the stability of the dollar.
7. Monday night he returned to a justification of the way his administration has handled the economy.
8. This time he returned to an idea which he has used a number of times before—and attributed to Lincoln—that the government should only do what a citizen can't do for himself.
9. But the Democrats argue in essence that Eisenhower has simply failed to do enough.
10. As for Nixon: Eisenhower fired his opening gun in support of Nixon's presidential candidacy at a news conference last month. Monday night he expounded on Nixon's virtues as he sees them.

The list of his administration's accomplishments which he recited off seemed clearly the foundation on which he will campaign this year to get a Republican president elected, with his own record as a base for his successor.

If all the points in the list could be bundled into one sentence they would carry the label peace and prosperity. This was pretty much his main theme in his 1956 campaign for his own re-election.

He hit hard on the reminder that it was in his administration the war in Korea was ended and that no American has died in battle since.

He repeated his belief in the need for a balanced budget although through most of his administration he has been unable to achieve it. He summed up in the following paragraph the various stops on the political organ he and the rest of the Republicans will play this year.

"The record is filled with such advances as improvements in the health and welfare of our people, the greater soundness, freedom and growth of our economy, increased modernization and strengthening of our defense, greater prestige abroad, and the initiation of a road-building program that dwarfs anything of its kind in all history of all nations."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
NOT BY CHANCE
"When shall I attack?"

The officer in charge of several hundred men had been given a dangerous assignment and told to use his own judgment. Communication with the main forces was now cut off. He must make his own decision. For hours he walked the floor as the hour approached when he knew he must take decisive action.

He put his best thought into the overwhelming situation. He prayed fervently. Now and again he looked at a card he had tacked up on the wall some months before: "Battles are never won by indecision." Sentiments like that were not very helpful in an hour when the very thing he wanted to do but could not do was to be decisive. "When shall I attack?" he kept asking himself.

Suddenly he glanced in a mirror opposite the motto. Read backwards, the word "won" became "now." It was as if the finger of destiny suddenly pointed to the answer he sought with such agony. He gave orders for an immediate charge, and victory was his reward.

Coincidence? Good luck? Answer to prayer? Each will have his own answer. But let it never be forgotten that we live in a world where forces seem to operate after a well-defined pattern. Have you really ever known anything that Nature (or God, if you please) left to chance? Think about it.

Another Flood Victim

By HENRY HOWARD

Unexpected Assignment

Yesterday, an unexpected assignment fell to this desk.

It seems there were several overlapping events around the area tomorrow night that would require personal-attention coverage from our staff here.

In fact, there were more happenings than our staff could accommodate, so, the unexpected assignment showed itself.

Along with everything else, there was the matter of a beauty pageant on top around here tomorrow that CERTAINLY deserved personal attention.

With about 10 of the areas most delightful young ladies competing for top honors, it was definitely a "must" that we plan adequate coverage.

Our city editor, usually the staff member who handles the annual beauty events by virtue of his position as publicity agent for the Jaycees (the pageant's sponsor), was sadly detained by the prospects of a Thursday night City Council meeting.

He mentioned several of the council members had purchased ring-side tickets for the occasion. He thought they might even change the council's meeting date a night or two, but no such luck.

Maybe they're planning a real short one.

Things as they now stand, though, will deposit us at ring-side tomorrow night to give personal attention to the beauty-talent parade.

Maybe a few plans were slightly upset, but actually we really didn't mind at all.

Still on the pageant: Since an unexpected reporter will be on the scene tomorrow night, the wheels of logical reasoning began to turn yesterday.

We figured, since we would be covering the initial beauty competition, it would be only logical to continue to follow through, to Atlantic City if necessary.

Naturally, we thought, the reporter covering the first one would be more familiar with the winning contestant here in her endeavors in further competition. Not to mention a wealth of background knowledge as to how she won the local event, etc., etc., etc.

Such a possibility was mentioned yesterday as part of our long-range planning program: "I guess I'll be going to the state pageant and then to Atlantic City," we said hopefully.

That's about as far as that went. No such luck. It seems we're strictly, and I do mean strictly, a substitute.

But we still don't mind at all.

Arizona Voice In Gop

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
COPYRIGHT, 1960, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

There is a little wind blowing in from the West and its name is Barry Goldwater. It will probably not become a tornado, but it is interesting just the same. Nobody expects Senator Barry Goldwater really to run for President or even Vice President on the Republican ticket. But the amount of talk on the subject in Republican circles tells something. It is that a sufficiently large body of Republicans will not attempt to out-liberalize John Kennedy or Hubert Humphrey.

There were two objections to Governor Nelson Rockefeller; one was that in Party history, he lacked the seniority to run for President; the other was that he had built his career as a Roosevelt-Truman liberal and really belonged in the Democratic Party. Richard Nixon has always acted like a Republican. After all, did he not serve on the House Committee on Un-American Activities and did he not uncover the Alger Hiss Pumpkin Papers? And did he not knock out Helen Gahagan Douglas in a fierce fight against the liberals? And did he not say that the Democrats were soft on Communism?

It was generally assumed within the Republican Party that Richard Nixon was a conservative and would be old to conservative principles staunchly. However, the picture is not that clear and the Republican conservatives are not sure. When they are not sure, they sit on their hands. Wendell Wilkie once and Thomas E. Dewey twice met defeat because they could not stimulate conservative Republicans to come out to vote. Many stayed at home. How many has variously been estimated, but any group of voters which refrains from sticking by its party can cripple a candidacy. Barry Goldwater represents Republican conservatism. It can be said that Barry Goldwater represents American conservatism. His voice on this subject is loud and clear and he accepts no compromises. Goldwater is a man of considerable private means and is fearless. He has built his own career and is under no obligations.

He takes his position on public questions entirely as his conscience dictates. Therefore conservatives, who have been leaderless for two decades more and more look to Goldwater for leadership. Many of the opportunistic Republican fear Goldwater's rising influence because of the logic of his attack which is that we do not have a two-party system unless each party represents a distinct philosophy of American life. If we all believe in the same ideas and processes why bother about two parties and two candidates? Why not let the election go by default?

And so, he tries to state a Republican philosophy based, in the field of economics, upon traditional American private enterprise; in the sociological field, on the freedom of the individual; in the constitutional field, upon the concept of a federal union of sovereign states instead of a centralized welfare state dominated by an overpowering professional bureaucracy.

Thus, Barry Goldwater, not campaigning for the office of President or Vice President or anything else, suddenly finds himself with a national following and in some areas he is even being selected as a favorite son. It is a curious phenomenon. It could develop into a grass roots opposition to Nixon that might do him considerable harm. He does not say that it will do anything because it is much too soon to measure the strength of the conservative disappointment at Nixon's not standing up to make himself an early target for Democratic attack and mud-slinging. That, of course, is what could happen. On the other hand, Republican conservatives and many other elements in the American population are tired of opportunism.

They have seen de Gaulle and Adenauer stand strong and courageously for what they believe to be true and they wonder why they have to sit around and listen to the same tweet-tweet

Other Editors Saying... Politics As Unusual

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

Gubernatorial candidates in North Carolina are sticking pretty much to the accepted patterns in their campaign. Since there seem to be few glaring issues for them to chew on, they are for the most part sticking to the traditional tried-and-true subjects which are supposed to whet the interest of the voters. Education is one of the favorite subjects on the stump.

For example, three of the four Democratic hopefuls and Republican candidate Robert Gavin were on hand last week for an education forum in Albemarle.

The audience was the 11th District meeting of the North Carolina State School Board Assn. There was general agreement that salary increases are in order. Everyone agrees on that. There also were notes of caution that spending must be gauged by available tax money. And that caution is commendable, for in this era few citizens are going to listen to promises of grandiose schemes without wondering where the money's coming from.

It is heartening to note that our candidates are not making wild promises, for they all know their activities in office will be governed by the amount of dollars available for the work projected. Gavin injected the issue of politics in the school system.

He called for free election of school board members to open the way for Republicans to serve on local school boards.

Terry Sanford, in a speech at Goldsboro, attacked hold-the-liners he claimed "have misled the public as to the desperate condition of our educational system." Well, most parents nowadays take keen interest in their local school systems. True, some things need improving, but we don't think those in responsible places have deliberately misled the public. Most of us, in fact, are only too aware of the state school situation, how it should be improved, expanded and broadened.

Thus far, the Democratic candidates—and in the final analysis, they are the ones North Carolina voters heed, though this practice isn't necessarily right—have more or less schooled each other's thoughts. None has offered a platform startlingly different from his opponents'. Each is a respected man in the state, each has his ardent supporters. There has been no mud-slinging, and all indications are that there will be none—to the credit of the candidates. It hasn't been exactly the candidates. It hasn't been exactly an entertaining campaign, but the voters can be fairly certain they will go to the polls and select a competent man for the post.

New Career And Success At 55

By ELMER ROESSNER

Venice E. Mark has just moved into the black and that proves, he says, that a man at 55 can move into a new and different career and make a success of it.

Three years ago Mr. Mark was president and general manager of a metal working company. He had worked for others all his life, usually in metals.

The owner called him in. "I want your resignation," he said. "I want to make my son president and general manager." Mr. Mark was dismayed and, perhaps, a little frightened. "But it was the best thing that ever happened to me," he told me.

All his life he has been spinning ideas for others. At 19 he invented an improvement on a farm machine. Sometime later, he invested the first magnetic seal for refrigerator doors. He gets no royalty; he invented it for someone else.

THAT RADIO-TV KNOB
If you recall, radio knobs used to be fastened to shafts with a little screw. It was costly to thread the knobs and—you may remember—it was the devil's own job to get close enough to the screw to replace a knob. So Mr. Mark invented the snap-on knob, probably the kind you have on your radio or television set today. Again, no royalties. The patent belonged to his boss.

Mr. Mark got into metal working, again developing no-royalty ideas. So when he resigned, he decided to start all over again and propagate ideas for himself.

His was no instant success. He did quite a bit of thinking and much work in the cellar of his home at 1576 Flisk St., Grand Rapids, Mich. until he came up with what he thought would be a successful product. He calls it a "little home office." It consists of a lamp table in which a typewriter is concealed. By moving certain sections and parts, a typewriter emerges and the table becomes a space for supplies and files to justify the name.

IN NEW MATERIAL

When he started designing the item, he knew little about wood. He had always worked in metal. "All I knew there were hard and soft woods," he said. So instead of trying to build his own product, he contracted for parts and does his own assembling. He has a warehouse and salesroom in Grand Rapids. The rest of the business is conducted from his own home and that of his daughter. His son is a graduate engineer engaged in critical work in Southern California. His father is intensely proud of him. "I had to leave school in the eighth grade to help support myself," he said shyly.

He financed his own venture. The first year he lost money. "We moved from the red into the pink, then into the pinkish gray and now we are in the black," he said.

He's got distribution as far away as Saudi Arabia. He won't disclose his volume but says orders are piling up. He's just won a Hess Versatility in Design Award.

"I think I have my idea protected," he said. "I realized that any good new product will be quickly imitated. So I started to figure how I would imitate the mechanism of the little office without infringing on my own patents. I developed seven ways, and I've now patented each one of them. My patents attorneys never saw anything like it, but they say I'm imitation proof."

Mr. Mark has now introduced (and patented) a "little home theater" in which a television set and movie projector pop out of what serves as a lamp or end table.

"But the best is yet to come," he said. "It'll be an item for every home! It's so necessary and so obvious everybody will say, 'Why didn't I think of that?' But they didn't, and I'm getting the patents."

"Of course, I can't tell what it is just yet."

Wisconsin Victory No Decisive Step Up For Kennedy

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) took a measured—but not decisive—step toward the Democratic presidential nomination by winning Tuesday's Wisconsin Democratic primary.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon favorably surprised some of his closest supporters by his ability to draw a party vote in an unexciting, unopposed Republican primary in which he refused to campaign.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) kept himself politically alive in the Democratic contest. He pointed his future campaign toward a bone-crushing showdown in the May 10 West Virginia primary. The political ingredients that go into the crucible there may be far different from those in Wisconsin.

Republicans there had an air of resignation when he said, in response to a question as to what his Wisconsin victory means in terms of a presidential nomination: "All you can do is win." He expressed hope his mounting popular vote "will be helpful toward the nomination."

Colleagues for the worst. He told them at a party policy meeting Tuesday to be restrained in their comments on the Wisconsin outcome.

Morton said in an interview he doesn't think Nixon's third-place showing in Wisconsin means anything as far as the November count is concerned.

Morton said he thinks Nixon will repeat the 11 8 performance of former President Harry S. Truman. Truman barely got his head up in an unopposed primary that year when the Republicans were piling up record-breaking vote totals. But in the general election Truman carried Wisconsin.

The following places do not prepare food and, therefore, are inspected annually and a narrative sent to the Medical Care Commission. These were inspected in 1959 and were found to be in excellent condition: Bethel Clinic, C. G. Garrenton, M.D., Bethel; Fitzgerald Medical Center, Charles Fitzgerald, M.D., Farmville; and Williams Clinic, R. T. Williams, M.D., Farmville.

But it was not the sweep that Kennedy would have liked. Humphrey ran behind, but respectably so. Humphrey proved he is the champion of the kind of farmers who inhabit the western areas of Wisconsin which adjoin his home state of Minnesota.

Kennedy got the industrial First Wisconsin District, a tribute to his apparently superior pull with organized labor. He took the eastern side of Wisconsin where the Roman Catholic vote is strong. He ran well in normally Republican areas.

Vaccination Day

WASHINGTON (AP)—Polio vaccine supplies are at a high of 26,400,000 doses although more than 90 million Americans still need to be vaccinated, the Public Health Service said today.

Every year for the past four years there has been a surplus of vaccine in the spring and winter followed by a shortage in the summer, when the occurrence of polio cases reminds people they should get vaccinated," Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney said in a statement.

President Eisenhower has called for observance of April 12 as Vaccination Day against polio. He noted that April 12 will mark the fifth anniversary of the clearance of Salk vaccine for use against polio.

Many Factors In Seeking Life On Planets

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer
GREEN BANK, W. Va. (AP)—On behalf of Planet Earth, U.S. astronomers are placing the first bets in a great guessing game of the universe.

Just how would intelligent life on other planets go about trying to contact us? Can we pick up and decode their signals?

The first attempt to hear from anybody out there stars this week with a radio telescope ear cocked at two stars 11 light years away, though it's not known whether they have planets, or life on any planets.

Perhaps nobody knows about us, or is trying to reach us, says Dr. Frank D. Drake, directing the listening quest at the National Radio Astronomy Observatory.

But we might pick up signals they were beaming to their own space ships or satellites—and thus discover there are intelligent planets somewhere, even if we couldn't tell exactly where. Such radio signals can travel tremendous distances.

Another guess is that someone is trying to reach us.

Dr. Philip Morrison and Giuseppe Cocconi of Cornell University speculate that intelligent civilizations long ago arose around other stars in the Milky Way, and some of these already are in touch with each other and exchanging valuable information.

Members of this galactic club might be beaming signals steadily at us and many other stars that they think might have planets.

But beaming for years at hundreds of stars would be tremendously expensive, costing too many dollars, francs or zlotys or whatever unit of value, even in a super-civilization that had licked inflation.

More likely, Dr. Drake thinks other planets may be trying one distant star after another, beaming out a signal at each one may be only once every year or few years.

Contact by us might require luck to be listening at the right time.

Or maybe they improve their bets by beaming just toward areas from which—granted super-receivers—they overheard some of our early and ordinary radio conversations back on earth in the 1930s. Some of those signals might have zipped out into space.

Overhearing, they'd know that we had developed radio, and would have advanced in radio technique in the years it took for those signals from earth to have reached them.

What frequency would they use to beam a "hello, there" to us? They could well use a frequency which earthling scientists recently learned is a very important source of radio noise or signals in the universe. This is a frequency generated by hydrogen atoms when they collide or become excited from gas collisions out in space.

This, at least, is a bet for us to go on, Drake adds, and the radio ear is being tuned to frequencies in this range. The new equipment here can be tuned to listen for frequencies in this range, while being deaf to other radio sources from space.

The search is for signals that would come in pulses or some code, and be clearly distinguishable from all other events in the universe.

How would they say hello? Probably just by stating some mathematical or physical fact which would be true any place in the universe, and has been learned by now by us.

Suppose it were the atomic weight of the uranium atom. Their way of writing or expressing numbers could well be different. But the signal could be recognized as something coming from intelligent minds. And earth has many skilled cryptographers who can break codes.

We probably would simply beam back the very same signal—just to say we got the message, come back again—thus starting com-munications.

In time, Drake speculates, we might exchange TV signals to create pictures of objects, and the names for them, or receivers on the other planet. This would establish mutual language much as a child learns to talk.

Is there a dangerous risk in answering life on another planet? How do we know the somebody out there isn't mighty warlike as well as superior? Maybe hungry, to whom we earthlings would be delicious morsels, or farm animals? Or squeezed by population pressure, or wanting to quit a planet whose sun was dying?

Drake and others take the view our galactic cousins would be altruistic, and be as efficient in solving local problems as they were in scientific knowledge and prowess. And that they would be as thrilled as we would to know we are not alone.

"Besides, if they had it in for us, they could know we were here anyway, and could already be on their way."

Unless their space ships could travel faster than light—which seems unlikely by all earth-known scientific principles—we probably have plenty of time yet, since there hasn't been time since the 1930s for them to get here.

We may well have to await far better and more powerful equipment to establish contact with any other planet. But such equipment is coming.

This search, Drake believes, "will never be over until it is successful."

Growers, Buyers Don't Agree On Using MH-30

WASHINGTON (AP)—A chemical spray called MH30 is causing a controversy in the tobacco industry. Growers want to use it. Buyers object.

Use of the chemical saves labor costs by stopping the growth of suckers on the tobacco plant. More important, this spray stimulates growth and increases the yield of tobacco by perhaps 200 to 300 pounds an acre.

In a period of limited tobacco acreage and good prices, it can be seen why a lot of growers want to continue using this product.

The trouble is that the cigarette companies don't want to buy tobacco treated with MH30. They say it spoils the taste and the aroma of the smoke.

But the buyers complain they can't always spot the treated tobacco on the warehouse floor.

So last week a group of tobacco leaders came to Washington to ask congressional support for a government directive ordering that all tobacco not treated with MH30 be so labeled.

They received no encouragement at all from tobacco state congressmen, all of whom had been hearing from growers who want to use MH30. Furthermore, the Agriculture Department won't help them without support from Congress.

This is not the first time leaders in the trade have been rebuffed in an attempt to discourage the use of MH30. They tried to outlaw it in North Carolina but failed when growers turned up before the Legislature to protest.

On the other hand, a situation involving increased yield was resolved just about four years ago to everyone's satisfaction.

This concerned the widespread use by flue cure growers of three varieties called Coker 139, Coker 140 and Dixie Bright 244. The companies disliked the quality. The growers liked the big yield.

In this case, the growers went along and a 50 per cent price support cut went into effect on the three varieties.

The result has been a reduction in plantings of these tobaccos from a high point of 70 per cent of flue cure acreage to a negligible 60 acres in the past season.

Consumer Spending Is Being Closely Watched

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Have money, will spend. That's been the consumer's slogan for so long that many businessmen take it for granted it will never change.

And if the money isn't at hand, buy now and pay later has been the slogan of many consumers at the urging of many industries.

But consumers do change their spending notions now and then.

Sometimes the change is the idea of somebody else. Outside forces pare individual incomes, and hence in a measure lower their credit ratings.

Sometimes it's just a feeling that consumers get—a lack of confidence in the future that makes repaying odd debts seem better than contracting new ones.

And that is why consumer spending is being watched so closely today. This is a period of leveling off in business. All hands are trying to decide if it's a breather before another rise, or the start of a slide from the peak.

The consumer has a leading role in the center of the stage.

Consumers are still spending as far as can be determined from latest statistics.

Retail trade has remained high —with any hesitancy in recent weeks explainable perhaps by bad weather and the lateness of Easter.

On-the-cuff financing has gone its traditional American way—higher. The total of consumer credit has climbed to record highs. The total of personal debt—installment, charge accounts, mortgages and so on—has never been greater.

Those who wonder how high this could go for the general health of the economy are usually treated as spoil sports.

Consumers who buy on time argue with reason that otherwise they could enjoy fewer of the things that make American living standards the world's highest.

Those who finance installment buying and those who make the goods that are sold that way point out with reason that this method, in the process of raising living standards, has kept industry expanding and workers on the job.

Finance executives point out that consumers show little interest in the fact that it costs them more in the long run to acquire what they want by consumer loans with their interest charges. They accept the charges as part of the American way of life.

Now, Sons Of Italy Object To Portrayal

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—First the Indians were on the warpath over how they are portrayed by Hollywood.

Now come the Sons of Italy with a similar beef. The group's Grand Council of Pennsylvania blasted the broad use of the term "Mafia" in films and TV, especially "The Untouchables" series.

An official was quoted in Variety: "If they are afraid to say 'Italian' or use Italian names for criminals, they say 'Mafia.' This is the same thing. By saying 'Mafia' they are saying crime is controlled by Italian-Americans. This is a dastardly attack and it is not warranted."

The complaint gets support from a famous son of Italy, Ernest Borgnine. Yet he is in the curious position of having to defend himself on the same score.

Borgnine told of receiving a letter of protest from a New York editor for his participation in a film about the beginnings of the Mafia in this country, "Pay or Die."

"I explained to him," said the actor, "that I was portraying an Italian-American whose very heroism almost stamped out the Mafia in this country."

"He was Joe Petrosino, a New York cop who was a friend of Theodore Roosevelt and was honored by the King of Italy. He was the first one to suspect there was a criminal hierarchy and he convinced the commissioner to create the Italian squad. He also got permission to go to Italy to seek the real leader of what was then called the Black Hand. He was shot down in the streets of Palermo in 1909."

There is another side to the argument. Hollywood has always gotten protests over how Indians, Italians, Negroes, dentists and lawyers are portrayed. It reached the point where the only safe villain was a white Protestant American—or a Russian.

Borgnine's answer: "I don't think you should go too far in the other direction, either. If a gangster is Italian, Jewish or Irish, play him as an Italian, a Jew or an Irishman. But don't overdo the character. Too often it becomes a caricature."

Smog Device For California Cars

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—California, with well over seven million vehicles, is going to require anti-smog devices on cars throughout the state.

The Legislature made that certain Tuesday night in taking the biggest single step yet against the eye-smarting pall of air pollution.

The heavily rural Senate, faced with a reapportionment drive in smog-irritated Southern California, passed the bill 34-3. A few hours later the big city Assembly concurred in Senate amendments, 57-10.

The bill now goes to Gov. Edmund Brown for his signature. He vigorously supported it.

In Los Angeles, the director of the County Air Pollution District declared the enactment means Southern California will be rid of smog within five or six years.

"There is no question," said Sfrith Griswold.

Who will have to install smog suppressors?

Every new car sold in the state within a year after two or more devices are certified by a state board.

How about used cars and commercial vehicles?

That will be up to each county or air pollution control district. The devices will be required unless excluded by the county or district.

Unless exempted, used cars which change ownership would have to have the devices within one year, used commercial vehicles within two years, and all used cars within three.

How much will the devices cost? Nobody can say for sure yet. Estimates range from $60 to $200. Best guess: $100 to $150.

The bill appropriates $500,000 to a state board within the Department of Public Health. The board will contract with private laboratories to test the suppressors.

Los Angeles' Sen. Richard Richards called the measure a "giant stride forward" in the war against dirty air.

Truman Happy Demos Boasting Able Candidates

CHICAGO (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman says he doesn't think the Republican presidential candidate is competent, but he is happy the Democrats have so many capable candidates.

Truman, in remarks at a new conference Tuesday, did not mention the Republican candidate, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, by name.

The former chief executive said he likes all of the Democratic candidates but declined to express a preference. He said he would announce his endorsement of a candidate in the near future.

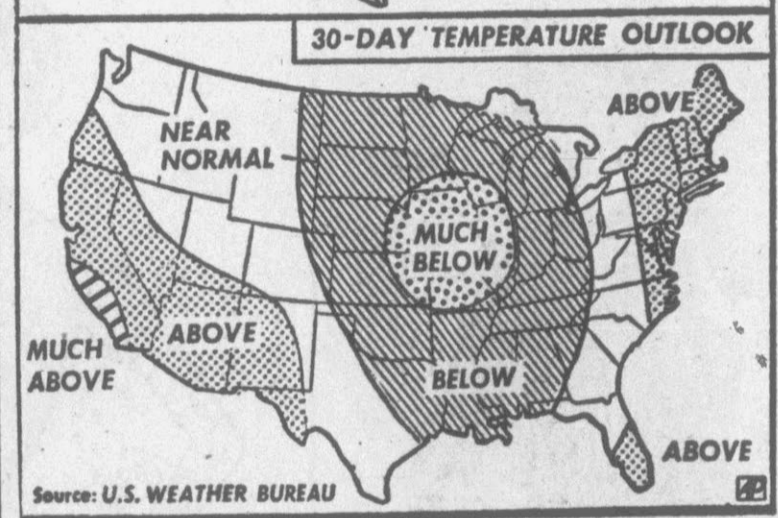

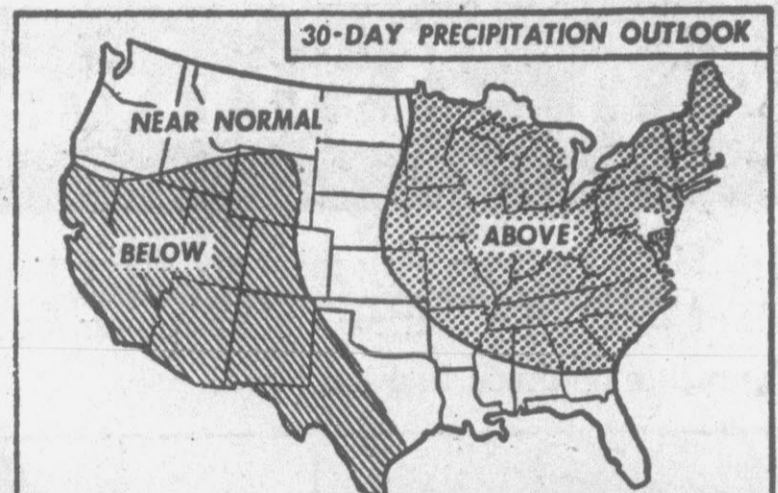

He laughed off a suggestion he might be a dark horse himself saying, "I'll be 76 years old next May 8 and that's too late to start all over."

The ex-President received the distinguished service award of the Broadcast Pioneers meeting in conjunction with the National Assn. of Broadcasters.

The broadcasters also presented Truman with a complete tape library of speeches broadcast during his presidency.

Giving Piano Recital Thursday

Theodore K. Fountain Jr., senior at East Carolina, will be presented by the college music department in a recital of works for the piano Thursday at 3 p.m. in the Austin auditorium. The program will be open to the public.

Selections chosen by Fountain for his senior recital include Brahms' Ballade in D Minor, opus 10, No. 1; a Mozart rondo; three preludes by Chopin; and Leschetizky's Intermezzo in Octaves, opus 44, No. 4.

An outstanding student at the college, Fountain is majoring in music. He has studied piano for four years under Elizabeth Drake of the faculty. He is historian of the college chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, music fraternity, and a member of the College Choir and the East Carolina Orchestra. His name has frequently appeared on the Honor Roll and the Dean's List of Superior Students at the college.

Mr. Fountain is the son of Mrs. Dora Fountain and the late Col. T. K. Fountain.

Cool In Night; River Is Rising

Cool temperatures and a rising Tar River are the weather news around Greenville and Pitt County today.

Temperatures dipped down last night to a low of 42 degrees, rising to a cool 47 at 8 this morning. Yesterday, the low was 46 degrees, with a high of 66 degrees, Kent Gilson of the Greenville Utilities Plant said.

The weatherman has predicted sunny and cool weather for today, with generally fair and not quite so cold inland tonight. Tomorrow's forecast is partly cloudy and somewhat warmer.

The Tar River, still rising, was as high as 12 feet this morning, Gilson said. The average level is four feet. Rains yesterday measured 1.17 inches around Pitt County, Gilson said.

CHAPTER 29

Victoria Dodd was frowning. "I don't understand, Scott," she said to me. "An ordinary secretary. What possible motive could anyone have for murdering her?"

"Far from ordinary," I said. "And the motive was substantial. Come to one million dollars."

"Three sets of eyes stared at me in silence. Then Gil Dodd gave a short, skeptical laugh. 'You mean Cassidy had a million dollars?'"

"No. But she was the key that meant a million dollars to someone else."

"How do you mean, Scott?"

"It all turned on your father's will. Oliver Wendell Rogers drew the document. Cassidy was his secretary and she typed it. So she knew what it said and could testify to its contents. I told you that a missing will could be probated by the testimony of two witnesses."

"Of course. Rogers was one and Cassidy would be the other."

"Correct. But the law makes a further provision. A correct copy can replace one of the witnesses. So in order to nullify your father's will, to prevent its probate under any circumstances, two measures were essential, two measures were essential. All copies had to be destroyed and one of the witnesses had to be killed."

A faint tremor ran through Victoria's long, austere body and she stood watching me in a kind of hypnotic trance.

Barbara had grown a little formal. "There's an unpleasant implication here, Scott. You say Cassidy was murdered to prevent the probate of Dad's will."

"Correct."

"But only his children would benefit by that — Adam and Vickie and me."

"That's right." I met her lofty stare without budging.

"And you say Adam is innocent. That leaves only Vickie and me. Which one of us are you accusing?"

Gil Dodd tried to break the tension with a feeble laugh. "Come now, Barbara. He doesn't mean anything of the kind."

She ignored him. "I want an answer, Scott."

"And you're entitled to one. But it needs a little background. Please indulge me." I drew a long breath. "You all know about an ex-cop, Fred Duncan, who wrote a book. He took his manuscript to Adam. And a movie sale was made which exceeded his wildest expectations. The fifty thousand dollars would fulfill a dream, to make a better life for his two grandchildren."

"And then disaster struck. Dan Varney absconded with the money. You can imagine Duncan's reaction. Frenzied and desperate, he went to a lawyer. The lawyer told him that Adam, as Varney's partner, was legally responsible and would have to make good. But Adam was broke."

"Along came someone with a solution to Duncan's problem. Adam needed money to cover the debt. Duncan could help him get that money."

"How?" Barbara demanded.

"Easy. Adam's father was dying. He would leave a large estate. By the terms of his will, Adam got nothing. If he died without a will, Adam would inherit close to a million dollars. But a will did exist. And it was locked away in your father's safe-deposit box. That will had to be removed and destroyed."

Barbara shook her head. "I don't understand. It isn't possible to rob a man's safe-deposit box."

"You're wrong," I said. "It not only is possible, but it has been done. And it was done by your father. The records at his bank show that he went to his box only a week ago. It took a moment to register and then she blurted. 'But Dad was in the hospital then.'"

"Precisely."

She was staring at me, lips parted. Victoria, fists clenched at her sides, looked ill. Dodd threw his hands out.

"Good Lord! I'm an accountant. I never heard of such a thing."

"All it needed," I said, "was a duplicate key and the cooperation of the custodian. He would accept a forged signature slip and open the box. Duncan may have had scruples. I don't know. If he did, they were easily overcome."

"But they key. How could anyone get possession of a man's key?"

"But the key. How could anyone get possession of a man's key?"

"Would that be so difficult? Where does a man generally keep his safe-deposit key? In a desk at his office or a chest at home. Available to a business associate or any member of his family who suspected that it might come in handy some day. You, for example, Dodd. You, as chief auditor of the chain, might have picked up that key and struck a duplicate."

Victoria managed to speak. Her voice was harsh and strangled. "Is this the man we hired as our lawyer? I think he's a little insane. Do we have to listen to him?"

I felt sorry for her. But not sorry enough to back down.

"There's insanity here, all right," I said. "On Duncan's part for accepting the proposition. For thinking he could pull it off safely. For not destroying the record of that visit to the bank. Habit, I suppose, prevailed. He followed the same procedure he'd used hundreds of times in the past. He filed the signature slip along with the others."

Victoria said grittily, "I don't believe it."

"That may be. Nevertheless it still exists and is available. Proof that the box was opened and the will destroyed. But the conspirators were not yet clear. A copy of the will was on file in my office. And that copy, if corroborated by only one witness, would admit the will to probate. So it too had to be destroyed. Cassidy was lured out of the office and the copy stolen. Now no documentary trace existed."

"Then why kill Cassidy?" Barbara asked.

"Because there were two witnesses alive who could testify to the will's provisions. Rogers, who was unavailable, and Cassidy, who was here in New York."

There were wrinkles in Barbara's brow. "If Duncan was so co-operative, why did he have to die too?"

"Because he posed a constant threat of exposure. Then, too, he might become unmanageable after Cassidy was murdered. Robbing a safe-deposit box was one thing. Murder was something else. His reaction when that happened could not be assessed. And I suspect he made demands. Maybe he wanted a substantial donation

RALEIGH — Dr. Harold D. Chope of California, member of the Advisory Committee to the Community services branch of the National Institute of Mental Health, will be featured speaker at the annual meeting of the N. C. Mental Health Assn.

The meeting will be held at Scandia Village, near here, Friday and Saturday of this week. The two-day meeting will emphasize community health programs as a means of preventing mental illness, according to the preliminary program announced by Mrs. J. B. Spilman is executive director of the N. C. Mental Health Assn.

Harold A. Smoak of Charlotte, president, will preside at the opening session Friday afternoon. The afternoon program will consider program needs for mental health in North Carolina.

Dr. Chope, banquet speaker Friday evening at 7 o'clock, will discuss prevention as a part of the community mental health program. He is a lecturer in Administration in the School of Public Health of the University of California and a clinical professor of preventive medicine in the School of Medicine of Stanford University.

Also an author of many published articles, Dr. Chope holds the A.B. and M.D. degrees from Stanford University. He received the Master of Public Health and the Doctor of Public Health degrees from the Harvard School of Public Health.

Same Job He Had Fifty Years Ago

GAINESVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Tom Hickman is doing what he did 50 years ago — taking the census.

The ex-Texas Ranger, now 74, said Monday he got the job partly so he could say he took the census 50 years apart and partly because his wife doubted he could get the job.

In 1910 he was paid $11 a day plus $1.50 a day for use of his horse. This time he is using a car and gets $13 a day.

Delaware Plays EC Here On Thursday

Slender Johnny Ellen will try to make amends for his poor showing of last week tomorrow afternoon when East Carolina continues to warm-up for their conference season with non-conference foes, hosting the U. of Delaware in a two-game series.

ECC STARTER—Righthander Johnny Ellen is slated to start on the mound tomorrow afternoon when East Carolina plays host to U. of Delaware in a non-conference game.

Yale shelled Ellen last Tuesday after four innings of play and hung a loss on the young Garner native. Control trouble bothered Ellen considerably, who walked four men in the six-run first inning. Mallory feels that his chunker has had ample time to work on his control in the past week and expects him to be much sharper.

Delaware, an annual visitor to the southlands, opened its swing through North Carolina yesterday afternoon in a losing cause to the U. of North Carolina, 5-2. The Hens met the Tar Heels again Tuesday before moving into the eastern part of the state.

Larry Crayton, who claims both EC victories to date with his most recent win a nifty one-hitter, will probably be ready to start against Delaware on Friday afternoon.

Other hurlers Mallory may call on in this final non-conference series prior to the opening of the conference campaign are Harold Brown, Kenny Snyder, Nathan Green, and Ted Chappell.

Last season, the first of a two-game series between ECC and Delaware was rained out and the second game ended in a 1-1 tie when it was called at the end of 13 innings due to darkness.

Burly Gary Pierce is off to a quick start once again in the hitting department. Leading the conference last season with a .431 mark, Pierce slammed out six hits including a homer, at-bats last week. His average is .600 going into the Delaware fray.

Shortstop Glenn Bass apparently regained his hitting touch against Washington and Lee Friday, collecting a pair of doubles.

Other early season free-swingers for the Bucs have been Jimmy Martin, Spencer Gaylord, Wilbur Castellow and Wally Cockrell.

East Carolina opens its conference bill next Monday and Tuesday with games against visiting Western Carolina. The locals will be working on a 14-game winning streak within the league.

Game time for tomorrow's contest will be at 3:00. It will be played at the college field.

Jacksonville Here For Golf Match Tomorrow

Greenville's Rose High golfers, with a 2-0 record for the season's play thus far, will play host to Jacksonville, a club that they have defeated once before, in a Northeastern Conference link match which will be played on the Greenville Golf and Country Club, tomorrow afternoon.

The Phantoms, playing in their first home meet of the young season, defeated the Cardinals once before in Jacksonville by a score of 15½-2½.

In the previous two meets from which the Phantoms have emerged as winners, freshman Bobby Thomas has topped honors as medalist. Thomas is expected to pace the G-Men in their return match with the Cardinals.

Buddy Murray, playing his last year for the Greenville links force, is another leader in the Greenville camp. Murray, who was one of the top men in the Northeastern tournament last season, has been the number two man in scoring thus far this season, and stands with Thomas as the backbone of the Phant attack.

Dallas Clark, Rick Saive, and Choppy Bradner are the other young golfers who will be competing tomorrow afternoon against the Jacksonville swingers, Clark, Saive, and Bradner have all posted victories in the two previous Phant meet, and should lend much support to the Greenville endeavors towards the 1960 conference championship.

Tea-off time is slated for 1 p.m.

Rookies Start In KC Infield

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Unless the Kansas City Athletics pick up infield reinforcements in a trade, they'll open the American League baseball season with rookies at third base and shortstop.

General Manager Parke Carroll said Tuesday there's little chance of the A's making such a trade. "We've talked with every club in the league," he said, "but as of right now we are not close to a deal."

This is a sad situation for Kansas City fans, who have suffered from poor baseball for five years. For the first time since the team moved to Kansas City from Philadelphia, it appears on the verge of respectability.

"Look at our club right now," said Carroll. "Our outfield is good enough for a contender. Our catching is the best we've ever had and our pitching looks better."

Cousy Leads Celtics To 127-102 Victory

By BOB GREEN Associated Press Sports Writer BOSTON (AP)—"Cousy's back. That's the story."

Boston's Bill Russell was talking about the great performance of teammate Bob Cousy, who led the Celtics to a vital 127-102 playoff victory over the St. Louis Hawks Tuesday night.

The decision gave Boston a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven series that shifts to St. Louis for the sixth game Thursday night. The seventh game, if necessary, will be in Boston Saturday afternoon.

Cousy was the key to the decision that gave the defending champions the whip hand in the playoffs. The long-time star had been in one of the worst slumps of his 10-year professional career. He had announced that if he didn't break out of the doldrums he would bench himself for the good of the team.

There was no need to. The Boston Garden crowd of 13,909 gave him a standing ovation when he took a breather midway through the second quarter. By that time he had engineered a drive that broke the game open, giving Boston a 48-30 lead.

St. Louis was only one point back, 25-24, when the big push started. Cousy scored on one of his dazzling layups, worming his way past three defenders. Then he struck on a long, one-hand push shot. Then he set up Tommy Heinsohn for another and Boston was in front to stay. Cousy wound up with 21 points and 10 assists.

"I wouldn't say Cousy was the difference," St. Louis Coach Ed Macauley said. "But he's the quarterback. When he's up, the team is up. He gave them the momentum and when a great club like that has momentum they're just hard to stop."

Cousy had to share a bit of the spotlight with Heinsohn, who pumped in 34 points for scoring honors. "I thought Heinsohn played a fantastic game," Macauley said. "He's the most underrated player in the league."

Rose High Cindermen Seek Second Win Against New Bern And Kinston

By ROY MARTIN Reflector Sports Writer

Greenville's Rose High track team, with their first win registered last week over Roanoke Rapids and Kinston, take to the cinders once again, when they meet Kinston and New Bern tomorrow afternoon in a Northeastern Conference dual affair on the Guy Smith Stadium track.

In their initial win last week, the Phantoms showed power in the closing events of the meet, gradually slipping by the visiting teams from Kinston and Roanoke Rapids. It could be a different story this week, as the Phantoms lock horns with the defending Northeastern champs from New Bern. New Bern, known for fielding athletic teams of great size and strength will come to Greenville with what is perhaps one of the top track squads in the state. The Bears are reported to be especially strong in field events, while also excelling in the mile and 880 yard running events.

Kinston is a team that was low on the scoring totem pole in last week's triangular affair in Greenville. Kinston failed to score until about halfway the meet, but then, in the remaining events lapsed far behind their other two competitors. According to Phantom cindermentor Odell Welborn, the Greenvilleites are in pretty good shape except for the fact that they will be missing the services of three of the top performers, Joe Waldrop, Phil Coleman, and Bill Clapp. Coleman has been suffering from a knee injury, and Welborn is uncertain as to whether or not his top miler can compete tomorrow afternoon.

In their preparation for the meet tomorrow afternoon, the Phantoms have been somewhat hampered by the bad weather which has kept the Guy Smith track in a mire. "We haven't practiced much this week," said Welborn, "therefore, I can't tell much about the shape of the club."

Erskine Duff, who was the leading scorer for the Phantoms in their win last week, is expected to be the leader once again, while the fleet Charles Taft and John Adams, another speedster, will add support in the spring events.

In the field events, Taft will be the chief man on the shot put for the Greenville, while Louis Dail will try his hand at throwing the disc. The meet is slated to begin at 1 p.m.

Long Traded To Giants; Grim Goes To Cleveland

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

The San Francisco Giants, stepped in front-line talent, but weak on the bench, are doing their best to shore up their shortcomings.

Short on pinch hitters, the Giants Tuesday bolstered their major league weakness with the purchase of slugger Dale Long from the Chicago Cubs.

It was the second deal in a week for the Giants and the fifth player transaction completed by major league clubs in the last nine days as activity reached a peak with opening day six days away for the National League and less than two weeks off for the American League.

The Giants, beaten by St. Louis 9-5 Tuesday as their exhibition record dropped to 10-11, also have strengthened their bench with the trade that brought Jim Marshall from the Boston Red Sox.

Long, a left-handed hitting outfielder-first baseman, as is Marshall, hit 236 for the Cubs last season with 14 home runs and 37 RBIs in 110 games. Marshall, for whom the Giants gave up pitcher Al Worthington, compiled a .252 mark in 108 games during the 1959 campaign while hitting for 11 homers and accounting for 40 RBIs.

In another trade Tuesday, the Kansas City A's swapped pitcher

Bob Grim to Cleveland for relief specialist Leo Kiely. The A's, boosted their spring record to 13-10 with a 13-5 victory over Washington and the Indians defeated the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers 8-4.

In other games, New York drubbed the Chicago White Sox 9-3. Detroit clubbed Baltimore 14-4. Pittsburgh edged Philadelphia 7-5. Boston beat the Chicago Cubs 12-9 and Milwaukee turned back Cincinnati 5-3, in a night game.

Daryl Spencer ploughed his former Giant teammates, homering in the ninth inning for the Cards to break a 4-4 tie and ignite a five-run rally.

Ray Herbert became the first Kansas City pitcher to hurl nine innings and also smacked a grand slam homer in the A's 13-hit attack against the Senators.

Vic Power and rookie Walt Bond each drove in two runs in the sixth inning as the Indians came from behind to overhaul the Dodgers by chasing World Series pitching hero Larry Sherry.

The Yanks broke it open in the first inning with a four-run outburst, a pair scoring on Mickey Mantle's triple. Al Smith smashed his fifth homer in four games for the White Sox.

The Tigers scored 12 unearned runs in the first inning against the Orioles and that was it.

Support Building For Souchak In Masters

By WILL GRIMSLEY Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Golf's grandest extravaganza, the Masters, opens here Thursday with a leather-tough young pro named Arnold Palmer the 6-1 favorite and strong support building up for ex-footballer Mike Souchak.

Palmer, the year's leading money winner with more than $26,000 in earnings, himself places the barrel-chested Souchak at the head of the half-dozen or so whom he regards as players to beat for the title.

"I figure the men who are tough on the tour will be toughest here," said the 30-year-old Ligonier, Pa., professional, winner in 1953 and loser by two strokes last year. "I have to go with fellows like Souchak, Ken Venturi, Dow Finsterwald and Gene Littler."

Bookmakers have a slightly differing and a more definite view of the outcome of the four-day, 72-hole medal play over the Augusta National course.

They have made Palmer the solid favorite at 6-1, followed by Venturi, who blew the championship as an amateur in 1956, at 8-1. Cary Middlecoff and three-time winner, Sam Snead, are bracketed at 10-1. Then comes an out-of-shape Ben Hogan and Souchak, 12-1, and Finsterwald and South Africa's Gary Player, 15-1. Other prices range from 20-1 to 100-1.

Player, the young British Open champion, heads the strong foreign delegation which includes Stan Leonard of Canada, and leading players from Australia, Spain, Brazil and England.

No foreigner ever has won this event and neither has an amateur. Jackie Nicklaus, the blond, 20-year-old slugger from Columbus, Ohio, who holds the U.S. Amateur crown, and Deane Beman, the British amateur king from Bethesda, Maryland, head the simon-pure threat.

The weather ceased to be a factor. The 6,850-yard, par 72 course, drenched by a week of rains, was whipped Tuesday by strong, biting winds and warmed by a benign sun. The weather man promises clear, cool weather—temperature in the low 70s—for the rest of the week, but indications are the course still will play the heaviest it has in history.

Homer By Jones Gives B-F Win

BELVOIR — Roy Jones smacked a two-run homer in the bottom half of the seventh inning here yesterday afternoon to carry Belvoir-Falkland to a come-from-behind 7-6 win over Chicod.

Trailing 6-5 and with two men out, the Eagles came to life in the seventh when Alan Witherington collected a single to set the stage for Jones' blow.

Jerry Little, also of Belvoir-Falkland, clouted a four-bagger in the fifth inning with one man on. Witherington had two singles and a triple in four trips to the plate. Gurkins and Cashion had three hits each for the losers who outhit Belvoir-Falkland 11-9.

Cobby Dean got credit for the victory after relieving starter Joe Braxton in the third.

It was the conference opener for Belvoir-Falkland. They play their second league game Friday against Primesland.

Finals Set For Table Tennis

William Stancil claimed the Greenville Intermediate Singles championship by defeating Sam Watson of East Carolina College 17-21, 21-19, 21-15 in the Greenville City Table Tennis Tournament held last night at the East Carolina College Union.

The 18-year-old Greenville player was unable to penetrate the close-to-the-table blocking defense of Watson for the first game and a half, had lost the first game of the match, and was trailing 12-16 in the second.

At this point Stancil opened up with a series of backhand spin shots and forehand drives, which finally allowed him to rally and take the critical second game 21-19. Stancil then used a series of steady forehand drives and kill shots to break through Watson's well-angled push defense, to take the championship with ease.

Stancil had had a very hard time in his semi-final match, and had to use his spin serves and backhand chop defense to come back to defeat East Carolina's Ray Watson 14-21, 21-15, 21-9.

Meanwhile, Sam Watson was forcing Andrew Kilpatrick's backhand attack off-balance in the other semi-final match, with his blocking defense, by scores of 21-16, 21-11.

In earlier play, East Carolina's Edward Joyner had won a close match from Jack Foley of Greenville, 21-9, 16-21, 21-18. The finals of the Intermediate Doubles, to be played today at 4 p.m. in the East Carolina College Union, will see Andrew Kilpatrick-William Stancil of Greenville facing Sam Watson-Ray Watson of East Carolina for the championship.

The Men's Doubles title was captured by Greenville's Norman Kilpatrick and Charles Holliday of East Carolina, who defeated East Carolina's Albert Davis and Nelson Tugwell 21-18, 21-14 in the finals.

The Women's Singles was won by Mrs. Rosalie Blankenship, who won a match from Mrs. Ramona Kilpatrick of Greenville, 21-14, 21-23, 21-18. In the tense second game Mrs. Blankenship was leading 18-13, only to have Mrs. Kilpatrick use a series of looping forehand drives to come back to take the game 23-21. However, in the close final game Mrs. Blankenship's backhand defense proved to be just enough to control Mrs. Kilpatrick's backhand and forehand drives, and take the title.

Final play in the Junior Singles and Doubles event (for players under 16 years old) will be held from 8-7 p.m. tonight, with Robbie Fowell and Denny Hardy favored to meet in the singles finals. Spectators are invited to watch the final matches being held at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m., in the College Union Recreation Area, in the Wright Building of East Carolina.

Tar Heels Whip Delaware, 5 - 2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Junior Bob Plemmons of Wake Forest, a 6-foot righthander, has sounded a warning to rival Atlantic Coast Conference batters — he's skippy when it comes to dishng out his hits.

The hurler, who won more than half of the Deacons games last spring as a sophomore, has chalked up two of unbeaten Wake's three wins to date, including Tuesday's 10-2 win over South Carolina in the ACC family inaugural.

Thus far Plemmons (7-3 last spring) has allowed but five hits in pitching victories over Michigan State and South Carolina. His conquest of the Gamecocks was a 2-hitter. The win gives Wake a

Two games are on today's card — both non-conference affairs. Delaware is at North Carolina again and Virginia entertains touring Harvard.

Plemmons, who struck out 11, received hefty stick support from his mates. The Deacons blasted two South Carolina hurlers for 13 hits including three by second-sacker Bobby Brown.

Large Entry For Virginia Race

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Thirty-four entries have been received for the fifth annual Virginia 500 late model Grand National Circuit stock car race here Sunday afternoon. Race directors expect another 20 will be in the fold before the deadline.

The latest entries came from Glenn Wood of Stuart, Va.; Bobby Johns of Miami, Fla.; G. C. Spencer of Inman, S.C.; Bob Welborn of Atlanta, and Bob Duell of Warren, Pa. Time trials will be held Saturday from 1 to 3 p.m. with a new twist being added to the qualifying day's activities. Immediately after the trials, the top modified and sportsman drivers will take over the half-mile Martinsville Speedway for a three event program that includes two 25-lap heats and a 100-lap feature.

Wood holds the all-time speedway record qualifying here. The Stuart ace circled the track last year in qualifying for the Virginia Sweepstakes 500 in 25.91 seconds.

Winners of all three 500 events here last year already have filed their entries — Lee Petty of Randleman, N.C., victor of the Virginia 500; Tiger Tom Pistone of Chicago, winner of the Old Dominion 500 convertible race; and Rex White of Spartanburg, S.C., winner of the Sweepstakes 500.

Cpl. Jenkins Assumes Patrol Duties In Pitt

CPL. JENKINS . . . discusses operation of Patrol in Pitt with Sgt. Martin who was promoted Friday.

Cpl. J. T. Jenkins assumed his duties here Friday, replacing T. M. Martin who was promoted to Sergeant and placed in charge of District V, Troop "A" of the North Carolina Highway Patrol with headquarters in Kinston.

Cpl. Jenkins was transferred here from Rocky Mount to replace Martin who was promoted as a result of the formation of a sixth highway patrol troop in the state. The new troop is Troop "G" with headquarters in Raleigh.

Martin will be in charge of Lenoir, Greene and Jones Counties, which form District V.

Since the new troop changes became effective, Pitt and Edgecombe Counties will form District III. Formerly Pitt was included in District V.

Cpl. Jenkins will have the job of supervision of the patrol in District V, Troop "A" of the North Carolina Highway Patrol with headquarters in Kinston.

Jenkins, a native of Warren County, joined the patrol in 1947 and served 12 years in Craven County. He was promoted to corporal October 1, 1959 and transferred to Rocky Mount. He is married and has one daughter, 11.

Sgt. Martin replaces Sgt. John Laws, who was promoted to lieutenant and made executive officer of Troop "B" with headquarters in Fayetteville. R. H. Chadwick, former executive officer of Troop "B," was made Captain and commanding officer of the new Troop "C."

Stokowsky Plans On Retirement

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — "Anyone who has children will understand my decision," Leopold Stokowski said in disclosing he will retire as director of the Houston Symphony Orchestra after the 1960-61 season.

Stokowski told a concert audience of his plans at the final performance of the season. He has been under contract here since 1955.

"Purely personal problems make it necessary for me to make this sacrifice," he added.

Stokowski said earlier he will appeal a New York court decision granting custody of two young sons to his former wife, Gloria Vanderbilt Lumet.

Heiress In Love Is Again Pursued

DILLON, S.C. (AP)—An American heiress and her Romanian-born chauffeur who fell in an effort to wed in Paris last Christmas have come to the Carolina tobacco country seeking to seal their love in marriage.

Gamble Benedict and her dark-haired, smiling sweetheart, Andre Porumbeanu, filed their application for a marriage license Thursday. The license will be available late today under South Carolina's 24-hour waiting period.

In New York, the Benedict family's lawyer said: "This time he will not set away with it. All necessary measures will be taken to effect her return home."

The 19-year-old heiress to the Remington typewriter fortune and her 35-year-old suitor, now a hair stylist, vanished Monday from New York City. A Brooklyn magistrate issued a warrant for her arrest.

Miss Benedict is charged with being a wayward minor. She already was a ward of the court as an outgrowth of her trip to France last December aboard a small oil tanker with Porumbeanu.

The couple took an oath here that they were legally eligible to marriage.

"I read that to them," said Probate Judge Walter E. Allen, who received the application. "I told them, now you young people have had a lot of publicity and I want you to realize what you're swearing to."

After leaving the courthouse, they disappeared.

Judge Allen said the boyish-looking Porumbeanu showed him divorce papers that had been translated into English. "I only read far enough to see that it was a divorce," the judge said. "I think it might have been a Mexican one."

Officials at Juarez, Mexico, across the border from El Paso, Tex., confirmed that Porumbeanu obtained a divorce there March 15. A civil court secretary said he filed the petition Feb. 18. The secretary said Porumbeanu appeared in person. Judge Miguel Gomez Guerra granted the divorce on the ground of incompatibility. The secretary said Mrs. Porumbeanu had been notified of the action.

A South Carolina Police source said officers would not attempt to arrest Miss Benedict unless New York authorities request it.

Judge Allen said he doubted that the couple would return to his office to pick up the license, which may be used anywhere in South Carolina.

"They could have someone else do it for them," he said.

The couple's romance began last summer on Long Island. Soon they were frequenting clubs and beaches.

Porumbeanu said later that he and his wife, Helma, 33, and a daughter, Gigi, 10, were estranged and that his wife had consented in 1958 to a divorce.

The Benedict family opposed the love affair. When Katherine Benedict, Gamble's grandmother, tried to break it up, they sailed for France. The girl's brother, Douglas, flew to Paris and tried to persuade her to give up Porumbeanu and return home. He failed.

Then French police took a hand and the heiress was flown back to New York to face charges of waywardness. Porumbeanu came back shortly afterward.

The girl was made a ward of Brooklyn Magistrate Court on Jan. 27. She pledged herself in State Supreme Court not to see Porumbeanu so long as he was married.

On Feb. 4, Mrs. Porumbeanu sued for separation—an action to end the marriage without leaving Andre at liberty to remarry. The wife described Andre as a faithless husband and the affair as brazen.

On Feb. 29 Porumbeanu promised the court he would cease trying to see Gamble until she became 21.

Fewer Students In Classroom Is Said Major Step

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP)—Reducing the number of pupils in the classroom is more important than pay raises for attracting and holding good school teachers, a candidate for governor said Tuesday night.

Dr. I. Beverly Lake, Raleigh attorney and former law school professor, said North Carolina "must live within its income and we cannot, at this time, do everything we should like to do for the improvement of our schools." He talked to the Lumberton Rotary Club.

Lake, an outspoken advocate of racial segregation, charged the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People has for its goal "the destruction of our social order."

"Our children's educational opportunity rests upon that social order and we must not allow it to be destroyed," he said.

Calls Cable Car Medical Expense

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Roy Puckett's cable car rumbled into court Tuesday, figuratively speaking.

Puckett wants Uncle Sam to hand back a $5,460 refund on his 1954 income taxes because of the cable car, which Puckett claims is a deductible medical expense.

The refund claim, filed in U.S. District Court and scheduled to be heard April 26, came about in this manner:

In 1954, after Puckett had developed asthma, his doctor advised him not to use the 100 feet of steps and trail which connects Puckett's waterfront home on Puget Sound to a road on the steep bluff above the house.

Puckett, a Seattle labeling firm operator, installed an electrically powered cable car between his home and the road, at a cost of more than $10,000.

Puckett, asking for the refund, claimed the cable car was a medical expense, that the steep walkway gave him no trouble until he became an asthmatic.

The Internal Revenue Service claims the cost of the cable car is not deductible because it increases the value of Puckett's 27-year-old home.

Red China Said Giving Land To Tibet's Peasants

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China's top representative in Tibet today reported that 470,000 peasants in 35 of Tibet's 78 counties now own the land they farm as a result of the Red redistribution program.

Gen. Chang Ching-wu wrote in the Peiping People's Daily that only a year ago, before the Tibetan uprising against Red rule, all Tibet's farmland was owned by only 2 per cent of the population of 1 1/2 million, and 90 per cent of the people were serfs.

Reporting on communism's progress in Tibet, Chang said agricultural production is "riding a high tide," but "Tibet still remains in an extremely backward state politically, economically and culturally."

He bared this on "the protracted domination of the system of feudalistic serfdom."

"At present," Chang reported, "the revolution in Tibet is developing favorably."

Demo Candidate Aids Republican

CALDWELL, N.J. (AP) — William Large, Democratic candidate for mayor, has an eye for bright, young political talent — even when it belongs to the Republicans.

Large is campaigning for James Van Dessel, who is in a three-way contest for the GOP mayoralty nomination in the April 19 primary.

"We appreciate each other's ideas," said Large.

Bow And Arrows For Guardsmen

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — The Utah National Guard has issued bows and arrows to specially trained archery units.

"Unconventional warfare demands unconventional weapons," says Maj. Gen. Maxwell E. Rich, Utah adjutant general.

The archery units will be trained to drop behind enemy lines to organize guerrilla fighters.

ORDERS INQUIRY MANILA (AP)—President Carlos P. Garcia today ordered an investigation to find out who recommended that he pardon four prisoners who had already died in jail. The President pardoned the dead men last week, on recommendation of the Bureau of Pardons.

The garnet is the birth stone for persons born in the month of January.

Store Restocked And Remodeled By New Owner

A completely remodeled, redecorated, and restocked Western Auto Associates store with a new owner-operator, H. Ted Smith of Greensboro, is scheduled for a three-day grand opening beginning tomorrow morning at 9:30.

Smith, a Greensboro native, said this morning all is ready for the new opening of the store, one of over 4,000 across the nation. City dignitaries, including Mayor S. Eugene West, are scheduled to put in appearances kicking off the grand opening.

Tomorrow, Friday and Saturday at the store will feature three top prizes. Persons visiting the store will sign tickets and drop them into the hat for a drawing early next week to produce three winners—a child, a woman, and a man.

A bicycle goes to the winning child. The winning lady will receive a sewing machine, and the lucky man will win two automobile tires. In addition to the top prizes, small favors will be passed out to customers during the three-day event.

Smith, currently residing at a local motel, formerly owned and operated a Greensboro finance company. He purchased the local business concern Feb. 1 and began preparations for tomorrow's opening.

Two former employees of the local store will remain to assist Smith. Walter Bunch and Carlton Roebuck, both of Greensville, will be retained as Smith's employees.

Smith is married to the former Pat Boyles of Thomasville. They have one daughter, Belinda, 19, a student at Averette College in Danville, Va.

The Smiths plan to reside in Greensville as soon as accommodation arrangements are complete.

Attended Annual Meet Of ACE In Raleigh Saturday

Representatives of the Greenville City Schools, Pitt County Schools and East Carolina College attended the annual meeting of the N. C. Association on Childhood Education held in Raleigh Saturday.

The meeting consisted of morning and afternoon sessions and was held at Josephus Daniels High School in Raleigh.

Those participating from Greenville included Miss Sue Lassiter, East Carolina College student, who gave "The Spirit of A.C.E." Miss Carolyn Elam, another E.C.C. student, entertained the group at the noon luncheon with several vocal selections.

Miss Janice Langston, E.C.C. student, presided at the afternoon meeting of the Student Branch, A.C.E.

Teachers attending from Greenville were Mrs. C. B. West III, president of the local A.C.E.; Miss Annie Mae Murray, past State president of A.C.E.; Dr. Lois Station; Mrs. Sally Klingenschmitt; Mrs. Linwood Worthington; Mrs. Vance Perkins; Miss Trilby Smith; Mrs. M. C. Stocks; Mrs. Dennis Warren; Mrs. Carroll Smith; Mrs. Carter Studdert; Mrs. Clinton Smith; Mrs. E. K. Forrest; Mrs. Sam Crede; Mrs. T. S. Womble and Mrs. E. L. Wolff.

Dr. Lucile Lindberg of Queens College, Flushing, N. Y., and Dr. Charles F. Carroll, superintendent of public instruction in Raleigh, were featured speakers. Dr. Lindberg, speaking on "Using Our Resources," urged teachers to become more aware of the process by which their students learn. Dr. Carroll spoke on the needs of education in North Carolina.

Estimated $600 Damage In Wreck

An estimated $600 damage resulted last night from an accident involving two Greenville drivers, about seven miles south of Greenville on N. C. 43, about 10:55.

A car driven by Thomas Edson Carawan of 1900 East Sixth St. was struck in the rear, according to investigating Patrolman W. E. Williams of Greenville, by a car operated by Thomas Ireddell Moore, 205 Paris Ave., when the Carawan vehicle stopped to give assistance to a third, unidentified vehicle which was stopped on the side of the road.

Damage to the Carawan car was set at $200 while damage to the Moore vehicle was placed at $400.

Williams, who charged Moore with following too closely, said Carawan and Moore were headed back to Greenville together after visiting in New Bern.

No one was injured.

Two More Entries In Miss Pitt Event

AYDEN—The "Miss Pitt County" beauty pageant has two new entrants, Beth Wainwright and Jeanne Hope-Loftin, which brings the total to 11 contestants.

Miss Wainwright, 19, is from Farmville and has been P.F.A. Sweetheart in the past. She has attended East Carolina College and her talent is baton twirling.

Miss Loftin, 20, is also an East Carolina College student. Her home is located on Rt. 2, Ayden. Her talent will be pantomime.

The beauty pageant, which will be held Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Ayden High School Auditorium, will feature "The Collegians," Jimmy Burns' Combo from East Carolina College.

Other entertainment is planned between acts. Ann McLawhorn Collins, "Miss Pitt County of 1959" will sing and crown the new queen. The recently chosen "Miss Wilson of 1960" will make an appearance and present her talent.

An Emmet Kelly skit starring Jerry Britt is also on the agenda. Other entertainment features Kay Kite and Margaret Miller in an Easter dance routine.

The Miss Pitt County beauty pageant is sponsored by the Ayden Jaycees, with help from the Jay-C-ettes. A Variety Show will be held Friday night, sponsored by the Jaycees and P.T.A., with assistance of the Jay-C-ettes.

The theme of the Ayden pageant is "Springtime."

Seventy-Five At Pre-Camporee

Seventy-five Negro boys from four Greenville Scout Troops participated in the Pitt Division Pre-Camporee held on the Alf Forbes Farm North of Greenville on N. C. 43 Friday afternoon and Saturday.

Demonstrations in tent pitching, water boiling, knot tying, rescue relay, silent hand signaling and table building were given by the different troops and each troop was allowed to practice the events.

The purpose of the demonstrations was to give the boys a chance to practice the events before going to the Council Camporee.

Troops 131, 191, 282 and 412 participated in the outing.

NEW YORK (AP)—Motors and steels paced a rallying stock market early this afternoon. Turnover was at the heaviest rate since early March.

Gains of fractions to well over a point among key stocks gave the list a good rise on balance. Profit taking once again afflicted some of the fast-stepping electronics issues which have made big gains recently.

The sharp upturn in March auto sales which inspired the market late Tuesday continued to encourage buyers.

Auto stocks celebrated the un-

Farmville C-of-C Has Applicant

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Chamber of Commerce, at its April meeting Monday, accepted one application for the Chamber's secretary post to be vacated May 1 by Charles S. Edwards.

The Chamber set April 11 as its next meeting date "in order that there will be time to consult with the Tobacco Board of Trade regarding the possibility of securing a person who would handle the duties of sales supervisor in connection with and in addition to those of Chamber secretary, as has been so successfully accomplished in the past."

Pres. Joe D. Joyner was welcomed back to his position after a three-month leave of absence. E. N. Petteway served as acting president for the Chamber during the three months.

The Chamber voted to go on record as expressing "appreciation to the secretary for his activities during the past five years as Chamber secretary." Edwards announced his resignation, effective May 1, on March 31.

Ell Joyner Jr., chairman of the Trade Promotions Committee, reported on the recent Spring Festival, a cooperative promotion sponsored by several members of the organization.
