CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States launched a navigation aid satellite into successful orbit today.

The space messenger, a device with highly important military possibilities, was fired from this missile testing center at 7:03 a.m.

The Johns Hopkins University receiving station in Howard County, Md., one of the first to pick up the satellite's voice in its upward flight, got good signals on all four of its frequencies on the first orbital passage.

That was taken by the Navy, which sponsored the trial, as a sign that all the experimental equipment was working well.

The 265-pound spherical payload, called Transit 1B, is designed to study the feasibility of using satellites as global, all-weather navigation stations.

Utilities Plan Awarding Contracts For Sewage Disposal Plant June 28

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector City Editor

A new schedule for Greenville's proposed sewage disposal plant was announced to the Utilities Commission last night calling for awarding of contracts June 28.

Superintendent Leonard Bloxam said the new schedule was set up by the engineering firm handling the project.

Carroll Praises Growth In Schools

By PATRICIA MOORE Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville "has been a favorable community" school-wise over the years, Dr. Charles Carroll, state superintendent of public instruction, told Greenville teachers last night.

Dr. Carroll, speaking to a combined meeting of the Greenville units of Classroom Teachers Association and N. C. Education Association, praised Junius H. Rose, superintendent of Greenville City Schools.

Rezoning Work Slated In Ayden

AYDEN — The Ayden Town Board will utilize the services of the N. C. League of Municipalities in rezoning the town, according to Cleveland Paylor, town manager.

The League of Municipalities has agreed to assist in the rezoning, which probably will begin the latter part of May. A zoning committee was appointed Monday night, composed of Wilbur Ormond, J. Whitaker, J. Ray, J. Nobles and G. Smith.

The rezoning will restrict building in certain areas. The town will be classified as residential, commercial and industrial districts, Paylor said.

In conjunction with the projects, the board adopted a plumbing code and a building code for Ayden.

Members also decided to enforce the town ordinance which requires full utilization of the new sewage line which was installed, recently, Paylor said. Residents must be using the new lines six months from the date of Monday's Town Board meeting.

philosophy, not just in education, but in life.

Carroll devoted his address mainly to an examination of evidences of growth of the Greenville school system.

One of the first evidences of progress he mentioned was a stable administration over the years. Carroll said the community, secondly, was fortunate in its proximity to East Carolina College.

He particularly commended the educational philosophy as the basis of the local school system and the "soundness of the community." Carroll said every teacher in Greenville had at least four years of college preparation, and some, of course, have more.

and use of school funds as further signs of progress in the Greenville schools.

He told his audience that more and more towns are evaluating their school systems and comparing them to others as a means of finding evidences of growth and as a means of progressing.

Rose introduced Carroll after dinner was served to the Greenville units of the N.C.E.A., C.T.A. and their special guests, who included prospective legislators, the City School Board, and also the East Carolina unit of the teachers' association.

Following the address by Carroll, new officers of the N.C.E.A. and C.T.A. were installed. Officers of the N.C.E.A. are as follows: president, James D. Nicholson; vice president, Joyce Costner; and secretary-treasurer, Frances Smith.

Nuclear Power Plant Ok'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission today authorized Carolinas Virginia Nuclear Power Associates, Inc., to build a 43 million dollar nuclear power plant at Parr Shoals, S.C.

CVNPA is a non-profit organization with headquarters at Charlotte, N.C. Its partners are Carolina Power & Light Co., Raleigh; South Carolina Electric & Gas Co., Columbia; Virginia Electric & Power Co., Richmond; and Duke Power Co., Charlotte.

The construction permit is provisional until CVNPA produces evidence "there is adequate protection to the health and safety of the public."

The plant is to be built on property leased from South Carolina Electric & Gas Co. The steam produced by the nuclear plant will be purchased by South Carolina Electric & Gas for use in its steam electric generating plant nearby.

The reactor would employ heavy water as a coolant and moderator. It is designed to produce approximately 17 net megawatts of electric power in a nearby conventional steam electric generating plant. The thermal power capacity is estimated at 60 megawatts.

The examiner said "there is almost no chance that any radioactive liquids which might escape during a severe accident would seep into the river." He said the radioactivity of liquid wastes emptied into the river will be kept below levels specified in federal regulations.

Seawell Speaks Here Tonight

Gubernatorial candidate Malcolm Seawell is scheduled to speak at Austin Auditorium on the East Carolina College campus tonight at 8 o'clock.

Seawell is the second candidate for North Carolina's governorship to appear on the ECC campus under sponsorship of the college's Young Democrats Club. Previously, candidate John Larkins spoke here.

Preceding the 8 p.m. address, Seawell is slated to attend a dinner meeting at the Cinderella Restaurant, also sponsored by the ECC YDC.

His evening address is open to the public.

Nuclear Warhead Rocket Too Costly For Britain

LONDON (AP)—Britain is abandoning her program to build fixed-site rockets capable of delivering nuclear warheads to an aggressor's soil.

Defense Minister Harold Watkinson told the House of Commons today the military is discontinuing development of the Blue Streak, a 2,500-mile-range missile which so far has cost 182 million dollars.

Watkinson made clear that Britain might still try to stay in the world space race.

The program had been largely based on the production of fixed-site rockets which have been out dated by scientific developments. In particular, Britons consider that the Soviets recent firing of rockets into the Pacific exposed the vulnerability of fixed-site missile bases. The Soviets claimed to have hit less than 1 1/4 miles from their target over a range of 6,500 nautical miles.

Beyond the mid-1960s, when manned bombers are likely to be outdated, any British nuclear weapons would have to be delivered in a major war only in vehicles bought from the United States or jointly produced with other Allies.

Macmillan is understood to have discussed with President Eisenhower recently prospects of buying new American H-weapon vehicles as they are delivered. The British for some time have been eyeing the submarine-borne Polaris and the airborne Skybolt, which still is in the blueprint stage.

Decorated Ham Good At Easter

RALEIGH—With the Easter holiday season quickly approaching, we think of tempting festive meals. Just as we think of turkey at Christmas, we visualize a beautifully baked and decorated ham for Easter.

Miss S. Virginia Wilson, food and nutrition specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, says some of the boned cooked hams are real buys when you consider the convenience—no bones or waste.

Most people still like, however, the idea of bringing a whole or half ham to the table. It is so easy to cook that it lends itself well to busy holiday means. Just place the ham on a rack in an uncovered pan in a 325 degree oven. Let it cook about 25 minutes per pound of meat, or until a thermometer inserted in the center of ham reaches 160 degrees.

If ham is to be glazed remove from the oven 30 minutes before done. Peel off the skin and score the fat into one or two inch squares down to the meat surface. Stick long stemmed cloves into the squares. Cover ham with your favorite glaze and return to oven for 30 minutes or until browned and glazed. Miss Wilson says she likes to use peach pickle juice as a glaze, basting the ham with it two or three times during this last half hour of cooking time.

To give the ham platter that special Easter look, garnish it with Easter eggs. First, hard cook the eggs in the shell. Then peel eggs and slice crosswise. Remove the yolk and dip the whites in pastel shades of food coloring added to water to get just the right tint. Mix the yolks with salt, vinegar, mustard to taste and enough mayonnaise to moisten. Fill the colored whites with this mixture. Cut a thin slice from the bottom of each half of egg to make it sit up straight. Place these Easter eggs around the ham on beds of parsley.

Instead of a whole ham, Miss Wilson suggests you might like to try this ham loaf that is good, and pretty as a picture.

Upside Down Ham Loaf
½ cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, ¼ cup vinegar, 2 cups (1-lb.) smoked ground ham, 1 ½ lbs. fresh lean pork ground, 1 cup dry bread crumbs, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 3 slices pineapple, drained, Marachino cherries.

Blend together the brown sugar, mustard and vinegar. Spread in the bottom of a greased loaf pan. Press drained pineapple slices into the sugar mixture. Place a marachino cherry in the center and between slices of pineapple. Mix together the ground ham and pork, bread crumbs and salt. Add the eggs and milk, then mix well. # Decorated Ham Good At Easter

RALEIGH—With the Easter holiday season quickly approaching, we think of tempting festive meals. Just as we think of turkey at Christmas, we visualize a beautifully baked and decorated ham for Easter.

Miss S. Virginia Wilson, food and nutrition specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, says some of the boned cooked hams are real buys when you consider the convenience—no bones or waste.

Most people still like, however, the idea of bringing a whole or half ham to the table. It is so easy to cook that it lends itself well to busy holiday means. Just place the ham on a rack in an uncovered pan in a 325 degree oven. Let it cook about 25 minutes per pound of meat, or until a thermometer inserted in the center of ham reaches 160 degrees.

If ham is to be glazed remove from the oven 30 minutes before done. Peel off the skin and score the fat into one or two inch squares down to the meat surface. Stick long stemmed cloves into the squares. Cover ham with your favorite glaze and return to oven for 30 minutes or until browned and glazed. Miss Wilson says she likes to use peach pickle juice as a glaze, basting the ham with it two or three times during this last half hour of cooking time.

To give the ham platter that special Easter look, garnish it with Easter eggs. First, hard cook the eggs in the shell. Then peel eggs and slice crosswise. Remove the yolk and dip the whites in pastel shades of food coloring added to water to get just the right tint. Mix the yolks with salt, vinegar, mustard to taste and enough mayonnaise to moisten. Fill the colored whites with this mixture. Cut a thin slice from the bottom of each half of egg to make it sit up straight. Place these Easter eggs around the ham on beds of parsley.

Instead of a whole ham, Miss Wilson suggests you might like to try this ham loaf that is good, and pretty as a picture.

Upside Down Ham Loaf
½ cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, ¼ cup vinegar, 2 cups (1-lb.) smoked ground ham, 1 ½ lbs. fresh lean pork ground, 1 cup dry bread crumbs, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 3 slices pineapple, drained, Marachino cherries.

Blend together the brown sugar, mustard and vinegar. Spread in the bottom of a greased loaf pan. Press drained pineapple slices into the sugar mixture. Place a marachino cherry in the center and between slices of pineapple. Mix together the ground ham and pork, bread crumbs and salt. Add the eggs and milk, then mix well. Pack in loaf pan on top of pine-

Physician Calls For Restricting Sales Practices

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Princeton, N.J., physician called today for tough new federal laws to curb what he denounced as vicious sales practices by drug manufacturers.

Dr. A. Dale Console said the pharmaceutical industry is foisting many "relatively worthless" and costly drugs and medicines on doctors and their patients with high pressure sales programs. He said some of the medicines are dangerous to the patients.

His testimony was prepared for public hearings by the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee into pricing and other practices of drug firms.

Console said he knows what he is talking about, because he himself is a medical director of a large pharmaceutical house which his statement did not name. The subcommittee said the firm was Squibb Laboratories.

"Restrictive legislation is necessary," Console said. "I suggest with hesitation," he concluded, "the consideration of a central agency empowered to approve or disapprove the sale of drugs on the basis of objective evidence of efficacy and to ban misleading and ambiguous advertising and promotions" of drug preparations.

He said he could see dangers in this, too, but added: "I know of nothing more likely to generate the pressure necessary to persuade the industry to clean its own house."

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), is investigating allegations of profiteering, monopolistic practices and other abuses by the drug industry.

Dr. Hans Popper, pathologist at Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York City, testified Tuesday that some new drugs have had unexpected side effects which have cost the lives of some patients.

He knew nothing about the manufacturers' advertising practices, because this is outside his field. But he said one drug firm helped him to inform doctors that one of its preparations could have dangerous effects on some patients.

Console alleged there are widespread abuses and misleading advertising claims that fool the doctors so thoroughly they are reluctant to accept evidence that some preparation isn't what they believed.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN AP Foreign News Analyst

CAMAGUEY, Cuba (AP)—"The class will," says the teacher, "the morning will."

A student interrupts: "Gomez says no school tomorrow." "Gomez has declared a holiday," shouts another.

Who is Gomez? (The name here is fictitious). Allegedly he is a student, although he may be years over age for the school.

He can tell teacher or principal whether there will be classes on any given day. He can, when and if he chooses, declare a holiday.

If students do not like what the teacher is saying, or do not agree, they shout her down. The student leader usually is in the forefront of this curious activity.

Some teachers have stopped fighting—resigned rather than go on under such conditions.

Gomez, or his counterpart anywhere in Cuba, is the representative of ambitious, opportunistic Rolando Cubela, a brown-haired, good-looking former revolutionary army major who resigned the promising job of deputy interior minister to take over the presidency of the Union of University Students. He is Prime Minister Fidel Castro's agent in the important field of direction and propagandizing of students. Many support him, but a large number of students—and teachers—detest him.

Under Cubela, all levels get an indoctrination in hate, principally for the United States. It reaches all the way down to the ranks of children just learning to read.

And there is indoctrination in a cult of Fidel. Children now sing songs these lines: "Si las cosas de Fidel son la vista, pues yo estoy con el."

It means: If the things a student sees Fidel doing are Communist, I am with him.

New textbooks, required for primary schools, have been published. These make an undisguised attempt to focus young hatred on the United States.

One such book is "Geography of Cuba," by Antonio Nunez Jimenez, rebel army captain who now as executive secretary heads the extremely powerful and often oppressive National Institute of Agrarian Reform.

On page 16, he writes: "In 1898, Cuba was able to gain her independence in the struggle which began Feb. 24, 1895. Then the North American soldiers disembarked at Santiago de Cuba and the United States took over the country, seized the sovereignty in struggle and sacrifice, and later imposed the Platt Amendment on the newborn republic, meaning the right of intervention."

The Platt Amendment was abolished 25 years ago. But Nunez says it really was in effect all the time until January 1939 when Cuba, for the first time, won economic and political liberty.

He suggests, echoing the current official line, that the United States itself sank the battleship Maine in 1898 to provide an excuse to declare war on Spain and seize Cuba.

This book tells children the United States plundered Cuba for half a century in a manner typical of colonialism throughout the world; if Cuba is under-developed now, that is the United States' fault. All Cuba's troubles are blamed on Washington and "Yankee imperialism."

History is being rewritten industriously. Writers support their theses by the texts of Jose Marti, Cuba's George Washington, quoting his criticisms but never his appreciations of the United States.

In Camaguey province, a cartoon book is being distributed under the title, "Cuba, a Heroic People." The cover shows an octopus wearing a dollar sign, its tentacles labeled "traitors" and "monopolies" being cut off by the machete of a heroic-looking revolutionary.

The cartoon story goes back to the discovery of Cuba and the conquest of the Indians by wicked Spaniards, overlooking the obvious fact that today's Cubans are of Spanish—not Indian—descent. It jumped to the Spanish-American War and depicts the United States as seizing Cuba, saying "The people began to be enslaved again."

The face of Fulgencio Batista, the former dictator who has some Negro blood, is pictured unnecessarily dark as he accepts bombs and guns from the United States to battle the Castro revolution.

After glorifying the revolution, it continues with the story, attacking United States press media, listing The Associated Press first. The AP is pictured as one of the claws on a horrifying beast labelled with a dollar sign. Uncle Sam is shown trying to take over Latin America. A Cuban with a machete stands alert, ready to defeat this design.

Another textbook just issued is a second-grade Spanish language reader, an ordinary one until the last four pages. These are devoted to an extravagant glorification of Castro. Teachers are required to read it daily. Unfortunately for the publishers, this panegyric includes among the heroes surrounding Castro the name of Maj. Huber Matos, since sentenced to 30 years as a traitor for opposing Communist influence. Teachers have been told to skip that name.

Schools remain a problem for the Castro government. Rural schools are being built, similar to those constructed under the Batista regime, but teachers for them are scarce. A beginning teacher gets 67 pesos monthly, from which she must pay her own transportation and expenses. New teachers last, often, only three months.

Some areas now have schools for the first time. Some have adult education for the first time, and many a peasant is learning the thrill of writing his name. But the program is slowed for lack of money.

Castro promised to turn military barracks into schools. He has done that in Camaguey and Oriente province, in the rosy flush of the first months of revolutionary victory when Castro was saying there would be no more need of arms and soldiers. Now his army is bigger than Batista's ever was. He is spending enormous sums for arms. But the barracks had been changed into schools. There was only one solution.

Castro built new barracks. Next: The hurricane in agriculture.

Near Harvest-Time In Great U. S. Meadows Of Learning

By HAL BOYLE CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—It's about harvest time in the meadows of learning.

America's greatest spring crop is its college graduating classes—matured and ready to seek its own place in the golden granary of time. The 1960 crop looks like a record one in terms of both quantity and quality.

Critics of our younger generation might feel better about our nation's future if they would take the trouble right now to go and see how these "hopes of tomorrow" really measure up.

I did just that the other day during a visit here to the University of North Carolina, which has won over the years an enlarging recognition as one of the great pastures of the mind and spirit.

Chapel Hill has always had a tradition of relaxed freedom and wide culture, and the late Thomas Wolfe was only one of many creative minds that have found inspiration here.

For any middle-aged man his return to a college campus is always a kind of journey into Australia. But it can teach him a few things, too.

The campus at Chapel Hill is beautiful. The walks are shaded by trees so old they are like shrines in leaf. The buildings, a mixture of many architectures, blend in a friendly weathered warmth.

But on this walk upon this day it was the students, not the hallowed atmosphere of the campus, that kindled in me a reverie of comparison.

One does not like to be unfair to his own youth, but on the other hand it is not wise ever to get the idea that all that was best in the world died with it.

Looking around at the students I passed, pausing now and then to listen to them, I had the feeling they were superior to the college students of my own generation.

It wasn't only that they had more height and perhaps more health. They had an air of easy assurance and self-confidence visible even to an outsider.

In my depression-haunted generation the fear of being unable to find a job after graduation of ten made the last two years in college miserable. We hated to leave alma mater because we feared the world had no place for us. At one bull session I can recall a group of seniors deciding that if they could sign up right then for a guaranteed income of $200 a month for life they would be glad to do so.

These students here would strike no such frightened bargain. They are not fearful. They are hopeful, and they believe in themselves.

Many educators defend this college generation as perhaps the best in our history, and I am inclined to go along with this view rather than with those doom-criers who hold we have raised a generation of spoiled milksons.

Returning from my stroll I had no desire to relive my own college days. One time of youth is enough for one life.

Man Left Free By Wrong Word

EL RENO, Okla. (AP)—County Atty. John V. Whelan used the wrong word Tuesday and Willie Tom Walker, 48, left District Court a free man.

Whelan was addressing the jury with his opening remarks in Walker's murder trial in the fatal beating last Nov. 30 of R. C. Smith, a transient.

He told the jurors, "We don't believe there was design and scheme to kill the man." He conceded he meant to say, "We do believe."

Defense Attorney Hugh Rinehart immediately asked for acquittal on grounds Whelan had contradicted the state's case.

Judge William L. Fogg agreed and directed the jury to acquit Walker.

Six Trespassers Appeal Verdict

CONCORD, N.C. (AP)—Six Negroes are appealing to Superior Court convictions on charges of trespassing. They were given $25 fines and 30-day suspended sentences in City Court here Tuesday.

The trespassing charges were made March 25 following a demonstration protesting segregated policies at a drugstore luncheon counter here. The suspended sentences were on the condition they not violate trespass laws for six months.

A seventh student arrested in the protest was not present in court and the case was continued. Appeal bonds of $50 each were placed by the six convicted. They are Myrtle Lee Brayboy, Millen, Ga.; Rudolph Scott Jr., Concord; Yvonne Joanne Eaddy, Greenville, S.C.; James Luther Roach Jr., Pinehurst; Candetha Green, Ocean Drive, S.C.; and Edythe Mae Rush, Norwood. All are students at Barber-Scotia College for Negroes here.

Scott, Roach and Miss Rush testified. They said store owner Harry A. Barringer did not tell them to leave. However, Barringer testified he told them to leave five times, calling the police when they did not comply.

Six Negroes were arrested Monday in the continuing series of sit-down protests in Concord. That group, also accused of trespassing, was arrested in four downtown Concord stores.

In Charlotte, Johnson C. Smith University students continued to picket downtown stores refusing lunch counter service to Negroes. The group trooped slowly in front of Ebel's, Ivey's, Kress, Woolworth's, McLellan's and Grants for about two hours. None tried to secure service at counters.

Signs reading, "Justice, do you know the meaning? Why do you deny Americans equal service?" and "Mr. X, why don't you want Negro trade?"

Missing Man Is Home; Distraught

One Of 'Unfriendly Ten' Still Refuses To Answer Question

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Nedrick Young is a well-groomed man with steel-gray hair who is good looking enough to be an actor. Indeed, he was an actor until 1953. Since then, he has been tool firm operator, luggage salesman, junk man, barboy and bartender. He is now a screen writer, well paid and well honored. Last year he and collaborator Jacob Smith won Oscars for their original screen play, "The Defiant Ones." They have since written "Inherit the Wind" and "My Glorious Brothers," all for producer Stanley Kramer.

Young has written under the pseudonym of Mason E. Douglas "for obvious reasons."

The cause of Young's disparity of occupations is a political storm that has hung over Hollywood for 13 years and is still raging.

Young grew up in depression-years Philadelphia, a time and place which he admits were conducive to liberal political thinking. He had to quit Temple University in 1931 when his father died.

Young got into acting, had some success on Broadway and in films before his wartime Army service. After the war, he did some leads opposite Anna May Wong and Mary Castle in B pictures, also wrote some scripts. Warner's signed him to an acting contract.

One day Young was served with a subpoena to appear before the House Committee on Un-American Affairs in Los Angeles. He admits he was "a very unfriendly witness." He cited the Fifth Amendment in refusing to tell if he had been a Communist.

Young did two more pictures at Warner's. His contract over, he was dropped. He says he could not find a job as an actor or writer in movies—"my agents told me the doors were shut everywhere."

With a wife and two children to support, he sought jobs in other industries. He says he even helped a man pick up junk for charity until a kid recognized him from an old movie on TV. "The man was scared and let me go," says Young.

Young, who had earned $600 weekly from the studios, took a job as barboy at $60. He worked up to bartender, meeting an MGM producer one night. The producer reported the studio was planning to refurbish a Young script that had been written for Gene Kelly. It was designed for Elvis Presley and called "Jailhouse Rock." The writer asked for and got screen credit.

No great furor arose, and he was encouraged to write "The Defiant Ones" with Smith. Kramer bought it immediately and signed both for two more pictures.

Was Young a Communist? "Do you really want to know?" he asked. I said I did.

"On the day when my answer makes no difference to whether or not I can get work, I will buy you a drink and tell you," he said. "I have been asked many times why I don't make things easy for myself and 'recant.'"

"I simply won't do it just to secure an economic advantage for myself. Others can. I'm not made that way. A man has to live with himself."

Young was more explicit in his feelings about blacklists.

"I think the Hollywood blacklist was horrible, wasteful, stupid and idiotic. I think the nation suffered because of it, in that the quality

Sponsored by the East Carolina College department of art, an exhibition of paintings and drawings by Mrs. Marilyn F. M. Gordley of Greenville is now being shown in the Hallway Gallery of the Rawl building on the campus. The art show is open to the public and will continue through April.

Mrs. Gordley is the wife of Metz T. Gordley of the art faculty at East Carolina. She has appeared on the Art Appreciation Lecture Series at the Greenville Community Arts Center and this spring is chairman of the Sidewalk Art Show to be presented as an annual event of the Greenville Arts Festival later this month.

A graduate of Washington University, St. Louis, Mo., and of the University of Oklahoma, she has done work toward the doctorate at Ohio State University and has had several years of experience as a teacher of art.

In Missouri Mrs. Gordley has exhibited her work in the Washington University Student Show at the St. Louis City Art Museum, the Shady Oak Theater Exhibition in St. Louis County, and the Religious Art Show at the St. Louis City Museum. At the Theater-in-the-Round at Oklahoma City, Okla., her pictures were included in a two-man show in 1956. This year in the Fifteenth Irene Leache Memorial Exhibit in Norfolk, Va.

REV. THOMAS MONEY will be guest speaker tonight at Red Oak Christian Church's Pre-Easter Revival. Rev. Money is pastor of Hooker Memorial Christian Church in Greenville. He will preach on "The Day of Silence and Meditation." Special music will be provided by the Piney Grove F.W.B. Church choir. On Thursday night the Rev. Howard James will preach.

Winners Are Announced In Typewriting Contest

Winners in the Pitt County Typewriting Contest sponsored by the East Carolina College department of business have been announced by Mrs. Thadya Dewar of the college faculty, contest chairman. Top scorers among schools and among individual students will participate in a district contest to be held on the campus April 21.

The contest, an annual event, is planned to improve typewriting skills among public school students in the eastern section of the state. Preliminary contests have been conducted in 25 counties in this area and will be followed by the district contest at the college.

Cooperating with the department of business in staging the event this spring are the college chapters of student business organizations on the campus, Pi Omega Pi and the Future Business Leaders of America, and the East Carolina Department of Public Relations.

Pitt County schools which won first, second, and third places, respectively, in the division of beginning typewriting are Winterville, Farmville, and Grimesland. In the division for advanced typewriting winners are Winterville, first; Ayden, second; and Farmville, third.

Tommy Oglesby of Winterville, beginning typist, and J.H. Loftin of Winterville, advanced typist, received top honors among individual contestants.

Others who became eligible to compete in the district contest are: Beginning Division—Alice Jean Allen, Farmville; Irma Sue Worthington, Winterville; Emmitt Edison Gibson, Ayden; Melissa Whichard, Grimesland; Alice Louise Garris, Winterville; Nevada Jean Harris, Winterville; Sally Wynne Donat, Farmville; Thomas Parker Dunn, Ayden; Phyllis Nichols, Belvoir-Falkland; Julian Mack Worthington, Winterville; and William Masters Edwards, Ayden.

Advanced Division—Linda Carol Williams, Ayden; Edna Earle Adams, Grifton; Angela Brown James, Stokes-Pactolus; and Betty Ruth Alexander, Stokes-Pactolus.

The contest in which Pitt County students participated included typing from straight copy, typing from rough draft, setting up tabulation problems and typing them, letter writing, and typewriting theory.

Car Just Kept Hitting Things

NAMPA, Idaho (AP) — James Agnew, 73, tried to pass another car which was making a left turn.

His car struck the fender of the other vehicle, sideswiped a third car, bounced off a pickup truck, ran through a hedge, over a small irrigation ditch and ran into a parked car shoving it into another one.

"I was afraid if I kept hitting things, I'd get hurt," said Agnew.

Only one person was hurt — slightly — in the six-car accident on U.S. Highway 30.

The Chessman case has already had international significance. Some South American students made an issue of it and the State Department, which withdrew from the Hungarian murders, communicated with the Governor of California, violating the Constitution of the United States. Why would the State Department violate the Constitution on behalf of a rapist?

My correspondent says that I am a tolerant person. Actually, I preach and practice intolerance of many things. Particularly, as a husband and a father, I am intolerant of rape and believe that when it occurs in a family, the menfolk should go out and shoot down the mad dog on their own — as was done in this country in its up-going era.

Set Pre-School Registration

Pre-school registration will be held at Agnes Fullilove School Thursday night at 8 o'clock. Parents are requested to come without children.

Parents who have children who will enter Agnes Fullilove School next September are urged to be present. The child must be six years old by Oct. 15 in order to enter. Miss Agnes Fullilove, principal, said parents who have not received letters may call the school for further information.

If any have missed registration at other schools, they may attend the program Thursday night and the necessary transfer will be made.

MORE VIOLENCE

MASAN, South Korea (AP) — At least four persons were burned by a police tear gas shell today during this port city's third straight day of violent demonstrations against the March 15 elections that gave Syngman Rhee a fourth term as president. A crowd of 2,000 students and adults surged through the streets for several hours shouting antigovernment slogans. Police finally dispersed them.

of films started to decline about the same time as the blacklist started.

"It was wasteful not only because certain writers wouldn't be hired. There was such fear in the air that working writers didn't consider what was real and true, but asked themselves, 'What is safe?'"

Young's views, of course, are violently opposed by many in Hollywood. Through the years, no one has been able to prove that Communists were able to put across their messages on the screen.

Says Ronald Reagan: "The danger is not what is on the screen. It is what these people do behind the scenes to gain power in organizations to further their beliefs."

WHAT HAS HAPPENED CHAPTER 5

Slowly at first, and then increasing in tempo as memory of every incident seemed to come flooding back to him, Sir Richard launched into his narration, which did not interrupt. Nor did he even take notes, which might have distracted.

The ex-soldier was a vivid narrator and, concluding, he showed Hero Isobel standing dramatically in the minstrel's gallery, arms outstretched, flinging the curtains aside and crying, "There's nothing here—no one, or anything at all."

"She was right," Sir Richard concluded. "There wasn't anything either that we could see. But elsewhere there was something far worse."

"What was that?" Hero asked.

"When the lights came on Susan Marshall was staring horrified at her plate, at something which was there which hadn't been there before. It was a dead rabbit. There was a strangling writ about its throat."

"Ah," said Mr. Hero. "I don't like that at all."

"Then I'm not mad," Sir Richard said. "You don't think we have all gone out of our minds?"

"No, you have got."

"And you think you may be able to help us?"

"Perhaps," Hero said. "Who were the other guests present at the dinner?"

"I have brought a list," Sir Richard said.

Hero scanned the meticulously written paper which Sir Richard had handed him, and read:

Members of Country Club: Major and Mrs. Howard Wilson, Mr. Horace Spendley-Carter, M.P., Mrs. Spendley-Carter, and daughter Noreen (aged twelve), Mr. Alfred Jellicot, retired draper from Manchester, Mr. Dean Elison, engineer, Dr. Everard Paulson, scientist.

Extra guests at dinner: Rev. Harry Witherspoon, Vicar, Dr. Samuel Winters, General Practitioner.

Only two of the names meant anything to Hero. He recalled Spendley-Carter, the Member of Parliament, as a windbaggy politician, and Dr. Paulson as a well-known atomic researcher. He said to Sir Richard, "In what capacity would you wish me to come to the Hall? For the Society for Psychological Research, or as a private investigator?"

"Oh, private by all means, Hero. We are desperately anxious that there be no publicity, as you can well imagine."

"Hero tapped Lockerie's list. "Are any of these likely to get in contact with the press?" he inquired.

Sir Richard reflected, "I wouldn't put it past this fellow Spendley-Carter, if he thought he could gain any political benefit from it. As for the rest, they are ladies and gentlemen—with the exception of little Jellicot."

Hero raised an eyebrow. "Oh?"

He said, "Who is Mr. Jellicot and how did he get in?"

Sir Richard said at once, "He's not a bad little chap, you know. Sort of fat and bustling and frightfully eager to please. He was something in lineas, from Manchester, and I gather was able to prevail upon a friend of Lord Paradine's who was obligated to him for something or other to speak up for him. He appears to be something of an expert—or at any rate is well read upon the subject of psychical phenomena. At least he is voluble upon the subject and seems highly pleased, although last night he panicked with the rest of them."

Mr. Hero said, "H'm. Is he now?"

Sir Richard pulled at his lower lip and underlined Mr. Jellicot's name on the list, adding, "There always seems to be one about, doesn't there?"

Lockerie rather evaded the question and replied, "You will find Lord Paradine a straight-forward man who speaks his mind. He is sufficient of a businessman to see that if this gets out it will be ruinous. In this I had some assistance from his sister Isobel. It was in her room it all began, you will remember."

Hero smiled at him amiably and said, "Very well then, my fee if two hundred and fifty guineas, plus expenses incurred, and there are several conditions attached to my taking this case. Have you the authority to accept them?"

"Yes, Lord Paradine has agreed to leave it to me."

Hero knocked the ashes from his pipe, reloaded it, and got it going. He said, "You realize, of course, that I have so police powers whatsoever. Hence no one is compelled to give me any information whatsoever, to answer any questions, or even tell me the truth. I therefore have to conduct the investigation upon my own lines. I gather since Lord Paradine, through you, is agreeing to a stiffish fee, I will be able to count upon some cooperation from him and the members of his household."

"Oh yes, yes," Sir Richard assured him. "I am quite sure that you can. There will be no difficulty about that. We will all do our best."

Hero said, "Very well then, I am to be given the free run of Paradine Hall at all hours; my instructions when I give them, are to be obeyed without question, and once this investigation has begun, it must be carried through to the finish—no matter how unpleasant it may turn out and for whom."

Lockerie repeated, "Unpleasant? I don't quite understand, Hero. When the safety of innocent young girls is being threatened in a revolting and disgusting manner, what further unpleasantness..."

Hero dropped another card into his mental filing cabinet: "Girl" had now become "girls."

Who was the other?

Sir Richard continued, "Your conditions are unusual, but I do think I see your point. I will accept your terms on my own responsibility and try to make the necessity clear to Lord Paradine."

Hero nodded. "Very well, then. I shall be finished with some work I am doing today; tomorrow is Sunday—I will arrive at the Hall by car sometime tomorrow evening before dinner. Oh, and one thing more—before you return I suggest you pay a visit to an ironmonger and secure a number of strong, old-fashioned bolts. Fasten one to the inside door of Miss Marshall's room, and the room of anyone else you consider threatened or about whom you are anxious. It might not be a bad idea to put bolts inside all the rooms."

"A bolt?" cried Sir Richard. "Would a bolt be of any use against a ghost or poltergeist or whatever it is that is loose in the Hall?"

"No," replied Mr. Hero, "but it would confine things strictly to that element, and at least halves the possibilities for further unpleasantness."

When Hero opened the door to permit Sir Richard to leave, Mrs. Harris, Hero's daily woman, practically fell into the room. She was not a bit put out and merely said, "Oh, is the gentleman going? I was just coming to see if you mightn't be wanting a spot of tea. I'll just get on with me dustin' then."

Trips Affect Eisenhower's Ideas

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's epochal globe-trotting the last few months has focused his attention on a colossal problem of many free nations: grinding poverty as a threat to liberty.

Eisenhower is known to feel more strongly than ever before that there is urgent need to improve living standards in such lands in this day of preying communism and danger, too, of right-wing dictatorships.

Associates of the President say he is convinced the great yearning everywhere he has visited is for better living conditions as the best way to safeguard what Eisenhower calls peace in freedom.

These reported views of the President after 47,500 miles of travel abroad since last August are said to highlight his conclusions.

So they come prominently into the picture in any attempt to find out what impact all this travel — to 18 countries on four continents — has had on the President.

One thing is certain: Eisenhower started his travels last August already convinced that most of the world's free nations continue to need outside help safeguarding their liberty. His perennial advocacy of foreign aid spending by the United States — and, lately, by other countries in a position to help — underscores that conviction.

His first hand look at terrible poverty in many of the lands he has visited — and at undeveloped potentialities for healthier economies — has sold him beyond all question on need to bolster living standards in free lands struggling to remain free.

During his travels Eisenhower hammered constantly at the theme that the United States must help substantially. But at the same time he always emphasized that the line of financial aid must be drawn short of the point where this country's own economy would be jeopardized.

He is convinced the free world cannot be floated on a sea of well-being by a flood of U.S. dollars.

In that respect the President's travels haven't changed him one iota. He still is a middle-of-the-road man, particularly when it comes to spending.

What about the cultural effect of all this touring on Eisenhower? That's difficult to answer. His aides aren't willing to speculate. In fact, they are inclined to scoff at such an inquiry. They say culture isn't something you measure with a yardstick, and that there is no way of gauging within a few months after a man's journeys.

However, even Eisenhower's close friends won't give you an argument on this: He could travel from now to doomsday and never be a deep intellectual — in the sense of an egg-head who cloisters himself with high-toned books.

Actualities in his reading tastes have not changed. He loves paperback Westerns, saying they help him relax. He also enjoys history of all kinds and biographies of the world's prominent men, past and present. He reads the newspapers and a good many government papers.

As for government policy, so far there is no evidence that the President's travels have brought about any basic change in the foreign or domestic fields. No such change is likely.

But on the matter of emphasis in the area of foreign aid, that is a n o t h e r matter. Eisenhower's greater stress on need for such aid is reflected, for example, in the foreign aid message he sent to Congress in February.

"My recent travels impressed upon me even more strongly the fact that free men look to us, not with envy or malice, but with hope and confidence that we will — in the future as in the past — be in the vanguard of those who believe in and will defend the right of the individual to enjoy the fruits of his labor in peace and freedom," he said.

That translates into a call, in some cases, for specific aid programs to relieve some of the stark poverty Eisenhower saw on his travels.

He has asked Congress, for instance, to provide more help for South Asia, including India and Pakistan. He isn't likely ever to forget the tattered millions who greeted him from the roadsides in New Delhi and Karachi as "the prince of peace." His visit to India was against the background of Chinese Communist threats along the Red China-India border.

Eisenhower also has recommended creation of a special fund to help newly independent nations of Africa, another continent he visited in December.

As for South America and the tour he completed there, Eisenhower said repeatedly during his trip that the United States has no thought of decreasing aid to that area where the dangers are both Communist penetration and rightist dictatorships.

Where warranted, Eisenhower added, U.S. aid actually will be increased to whatever extent can be afforded.

The fact that such programs are being developed for both Asian and Latin American countries is significant when it is recalled that Eisenhower said in advance of his journeys that he had no specific aid programs in mind. He simply wanted to find out how the U.S. could promote world peace.

Now the President obviously has decided that cause can perhaps best be promoted by helping to improve living standards in poverty stricken free lands, and by spurring development of natural wealth resources.

On the personal side, everywhere Eisenhower went in Europe, Asia, Africa and South America he was lionized. His visits were great triumphs of personal popularity.

But there is little doubt that whatever good the President did accomplish, in South America and elsewhere, is likely to go down the drain unless there are concrete U.S. aid programs to nail down any gains.

As for his own evaluation of his travels, Eisenhower has said on return from all three trips abroad that he found great reservoirs of deep and genuine affection for the United States. In every case he has interpreted the enthusiastic tribute paid to him as tribute to his country. Some observers — even some as personal acclaim of a great war hero who now has dedicated himself to the building of an end that way. They see it primarily during peace.

90-Minute TV 'Course' To Cover Mentally Ill

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Playhouse 90 viewers will get a 90-minute course on mental illness April 22 with the presentation of "Journey to the Day."

The CBS drama is concerned with the treatment of six patients in a mental hospital, each suffering from a different type of illness. And, because the general public knows so little about the subject, the show will open with an outline, couched in layman's terms, of the problems of each patient.

The actors and actresses who will play the patients have been engaging in psychiatry supplemented by field trips to prepare themselves for their roles.

"I play a hebephrenic—a schizophrenic of the hebephrenic type," explained James Fulle. "That's one of the rarest forms of mental illness. That's the happy, giggling, charming type whose mood changes suddenly and who winds up trying to kill himself or somebody else."

She said all of her acting colleagues had plunged enthusiastically into research.

"We were all interested—most of the cast had had some little experience with psychiatrists or psychoanalysts. I read books. Then I went out to a state mental hospital and talked over the script with one of the doctors and looked at motion picture films they had taken of schizophrenic patients."

All the research was pretty much wasted in the case of co-medienne Elaine May, who withdrew from the cast last week after a difference of opinion about the handling of her role. She was to play a schizophenic of the catatonic type—so withdrawn she was almost immobile and had only four lines to speak.

Bucs Have Fifth Inning Rally For Second NS Win, 9-3

Martin Cracks Big Single In ECC Win

East Carolina copped its second 1960 North State win and 16 consecutive victory within the league yesterday afternoon by scoring six runs in the fifth inning and defeating Western Carolina, 9-3.

The Bucs collected only two hits in the six-run inning but spaced the frame with six base on balls and a WCC error.

With two outs, Wilber Castellone reached first on an error. Wally Cockrell drew a walk and Gary Pierce had a scorching single to lead the bases.

Jimmy Martin, with only one hit in his last 18 times at the plate, slapped a single into left field, scoring two runs and tying the game. Dixon loaded the sacks with walks to Mass and Carpenter.

Ellen walked to load the bases again and retire Dixon. Tony Daniels, the new WC pitcher, issued a walk to Spencer Gaylord, forcing in another run, before retiring Castellone and the side.

East Carolina scored single runs in the third, sixth and seventh innings. Two walks and an error accounted for the first run off Dixon in third inning.

The Cats added their final run in the top of the fourth on one hit and a ECC miscue. After reaching base on a fielding choice, Ken Waddell scored on Wilber Castellone's error.

Johnny Ellen hurled the win for East Carolina—his second of the season—and struck out nine batters while walking five. The Cats touched Ellen for eight hits.

The victory gave East Carolina a 6-1 record for the season and 2-0 within the North State Conference. They will play a doubleheader against Appalachian in Boone on Friday afternoon and will meet Catawba in Salisbury on Saturday.

Coach Jim Mallory stated this morning that Johnny Ellen and Kenny Snyder will pitch the Friday doubleheader and Larry Crayton will work on Saturday.

Scoreboard for East Carolina vs Western Carolina. Includes columns for AB, R, H, and individual player statistics.

Major League Stars. By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Batting — Joe Adcock, Braves, drove in three runs and beat Pirates 4-3 with the breaking, two-run homer in eighth inning, his third hit.

Pitching — Sam Jones, Giants, checked the Cardinals on three hits and walked but one for 3-1 victory.

KEY HIT—Jimmy Martin, suffering a mild batting slump, cracked the key hit in East Carolina's come-from-behind 9-3 win over WCC yesterday. The EC first-sacker hit a single with the bases loaded to score two runs and tie the game in the fifth inning. He led the club in hitting in 1958.

B-F Takes Win On Three Hits

STOKES — Belvoir-Palkind collected only three hits off two pitchers yesterday afternoon but took advantage of every scoring opportunity in downing Stokes-Factolus, 4-2, in a Pitt County Conference game.

The Eagles sewed up the game in the first inning, sending starter Jamie Riley to the showers with a three-run outburst.

B-F loaded the bases and Roy Jones slapped a triple to clear the sacks.

The other run for the winners came in the fifth inning. Stokes-Factolus outbit the visitors 8-3 but had four scoring opportunities fall through. The winning Eagles pulled off four double-plays in the afternoon game.

Franklin Conleton, a freshman, led the losers with three hits in four official trips to the plate. Billy Roebuck had two hits.

The four games drew 179,782 fans, an opening-day record for the NL, which beat the American League, still playing exhibition games, to the punch by six days. Chuck Essegian, a record maker with a pair of pinch-hit homers as the Dodgers beat the Chicago White Sox in the World Series, broke it up for Los Angeles with a two-out, pinch blast in the 11th off reliever Don Elston.

Kalingo Seeking New Rank Tonight

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN. CHICAGO (AP)—Rocky Kalingo of Manila is a fighter with a mission.

"I want fight fans of this country to like me and I want to beat Hart tonight very much to make a good impression and get a ranking," says the 24-year-old Philippine welterweight champion.

Kalingo five months ago stopped the then undefeated Cuban, Flor-entino Fernandez, in the first round and gained international attention. Kalingo will be making his national television debut in Chicago Stadium.

His foe for the 10-round-ABC 10 p.m. EST—is seasoned Sugar Hart of Philadelphia, loser of his last two bouts. Hart, slumping to the ranking of No. 7 contender, can hit with either hand and has scored 21 knockouts in 28 victories. He has fought two draws and lost five, the last two to high-ranking Charley Scott and Luis Rodriguez.

Pitching Aces Used In Braves First Victory

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves elected to do it the hard way — but are off and running in the National League pennant fight.

The Braves, dethroned after two-straight championships in a playoff with Los Angeles last fall, called upon their pitching aces Tuesday to edge the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3 before an opening day crowd of 39,888.

The old sidekicks, southpaw Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette, and relief artist Don McMahon had to team for the triumph decided by big Joe Adcock's two-run homer in the eighth inning.

"We played heads up ball and that's the way it's going to be all season," said Charlie Dressen after his debut as Milwaukee manager.

Spahn, the ageless veteran who will be 39 on April 23, hurled four-hit shutout ball for seven innings before weakening in the eighth when the Pirates put together a couple of doubles and a single for two runs to bring McMahon from the bullpen.

When McMahon surrendered a run on a pair of doubles and only one out in the ninth, fidgety Lew was summoned. The 33-year-old righthander promptly got the next two batters on three pitches to preserve the triumph.

Adcock, who drove in the first run in the opening inning with a single and then had a hit in the sixth, picked out the first pitch from reliever Elroy Face and sent it soaring over the right field fence. Hank Aaron had opened the eighth by beating out a topped to third and taking an extra base on a throwing error.

"I was trying to go to right with a man on second," Adcock said. "It was luck. I hit a breaking pitch on the outside. I probably won't hit another out there all year."

The Dodgers tied it on a pair of walks and a two-out double by Wally Moon in the fifth against starter Bob Anderson, who fanned nine in his eight frames.

Eleven Amateurs Qualify For GGO Standings

GREENSBORO (AP)—Eleven amateurs have qualified for the $17,500 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament, which begins here Thursday.

The amateur group qualified Tuesday over the par 35-36-71 Starmount Forest Country Club course, scene of the 23rd renewal of the 4-day tournament.

Four amateurs — Don Cherry, Denver; Dale Morey, Morganton; Bill Harvey, Greensboro; and Bobby Harrell, Wilmington—were exempt from qualifying.

A pair of 73s by Ronnie Thomas of Wake Forest College and Ralph Complano of Des Moines, Iowa, paced the amateur group. It took a 76 or better to earn a spot in the tourney for the amateurs.

Professionals have begun checking in for Thursday's first round. Among Tuesday's arrivals were Gary Player, British Open champ, and Stan Leonard, the Canadian PGA titlist.

Winds At New Giant Park Will Be Tough

By JACK STEVENSON. SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Winds at Candlestick Park are going to be tough," declared San Francisco Giants Manager Bill Rigney, "but it's like the rain—there's nothing you can do about it."

After the Giants inaugurated the 15-million-dollar edifice with a 3-1 victory over St. Louis Tuesday, agreement was general that Candlestick will be great for pitchers and left-handed hitters.

"There's a lot of room out there," said winning pitcher Sam Jones, referring to the vast expanse of outfield. "That's good for the pitcher."

The toothpick man allowed only three Cardinal hits, one a 400-foot homer over the right field fence by left-handed swinger Leon Wagner, a Giant last year.

Rigney commented, "There's going to be some doubles and triples hit in the park. We're not going to play for so many big innings. With winds like that there will be a lot of low scores."

Orlando Cepeda knocked in all three San Francisco runs, with a first-inning triple to center and a third-inning single in the same direction.

In the eighth, the right-handed slugger put all the wood to the ball but Bill White hauled down the drive in deep center field that measures 420 feet to the fence. "I can't hit a ball harder than that," declared the 210-pound Puerto Rican.

San Francisco's largest baseball crowd — 42,269 paid admissions — watched the initial game. Because most came early and many by bus, the anticipated traffic jams didn't materialize.

About 200 or 300 came by yacht and power boat to the new stadium on San Francisco Bay. Vice President Richard M. Nixon helped dedicate Candlestick and termed it "the finest baseball park in America."

Didn't Complain

By CHARLES MAHER. Associated Press Sports Writer. LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Dodgers think they might have neglected Chuck Essegian this spring. But the muscular outfielder's first performance of the regular season suggests he had no inclination to return the discourtesy.

Essegian, best remembered for the two pinch homers he hit in the 1959 World Series, came up for the first time this season in a pinchhitting role Tuesday night. His homer broke up the game in the 11th and brought Los Angeles a 3-2 victory over the Cubs before 67,550 — the largest night game crowd in National League history.

Essegian had practically nothing to say about his 400-foot shot into the left field seats. "I hit the ball well," he acknowledged.

"We kinda neglected Essegian in Florida," Dodger Manager Walt Alton said. "We were using Wally Moon, Duke Snider and those other guys we figured would be playing the outfield regularly and we wanted to take a look at the kids."

"He probably thought he should have been playing more, but you've got to give the guy credit for not complaining. He never said a word."

Phants Remain Undefeated With 13-6 Win Over Jax

Andresen Has Three Hits In Phant Victory

Greenville scored nine runs in the first three innings yesterday afternoon to trounce Jacksonville 13-6 at Guy Smith Stadium. For Greenville, it was its fourth conference win of the season.

The Phants broke a 4-4 tie in the third inning with five runs against two Cardinal hurlers.

Two Jacksonville errors and two singles opened the gates for the third inning rally. Kroghie Andresen punched an inside-the-park homer with two men on base to highlight the Greenville uprising.

The Phants scored a single run in the first on Alan McArthur's double and Billy James' single.

Three more runs crossed the plate in the second inning on doubles by Kenny Joyner and Ed Smoot and singles by Harrington and Andresen.

The winners climaxed their free-swinging exhibition in the fifth frame with four more runs. The big blow of the inning was Billy James' bases loaded single.

Andresen had the only other hit of the inning.

Malcolm Griffith hurled his fourth conference win of the season for the Phants.

With only three games remaining on the schedule, Greenville is sailing along with a 4-0 record in conference play. Today's game with Roanoke Rapids was postponed until after the Easter holidays.

Rite Services Set For Parker

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—Funeral services for Ernest R. Parker, father of Duke Coach Ace Parker, will be held today at 3:30 p.m. Burial will be in Oak Grove Cemetery here.

Parker, 80, died in a Portsmouth hospital Monday after a long illness.

He was an ardent follower of his son's sports activities. Ace, All-America at Duke in 1936, is backfield coach and head baseball coach of the Blue Devils.

N.C. State Pins Loss On Unbeaten Deacons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A fierce 14-hit attack by lowly North Carolina State has knocked Wake Forest from the ranks of the Atlantic Coast Conference's unbeaten.

The Wolfpack, tied with Virginia for last place in the ACC with an 0-2 record, shakked three Wake Forest pitchers in Raleigh Tuesday in a 16-4 pasting of the Demon Deacons. The loss was Wake's first in six games overall and its first in three conference starts.

Maryland (2-0) and Duke (1-0) moved to the fore in the conference baseball chase while Wake Forest, now 2-1, dropped to third place.

The Wake - N.C. State contest was Tuesday's only conference activity.

The program today is limited to one non-conference game, last place Virginia (0-2 and 0-3) tries for win No. 1 against state-rival Virginia Military. The game is set for Virginia's home diamond at Charlottesville.

Five run outbursts in the fourth and fifth frames proved Wake's downfall. Starter Jerry Galehouse, charged with the loss, was knocked from the box by N.C. State in the fourth.

Outfielder Jim Story's long two-run homer over the right - field barrier paced the fifth inning scoring spree. The Wolfpack collected four hits in each of the big innings.

Three more runs were added by N.C. State in the sixth, one in the seventh and two in the eighth. Jim Cox blasted a pair of doubles and a single to bat in two Wolfpack runs. Two singles by Stacy Wells chased home three runs.

Big Joel Gibson, N.C. State's 6-foot-4 righthander, was the winning hurler. He held Wake Forest to six hits over the nine inning stretch.

The win gives N.C. State an overall mark of 4-5.

Montreal Seeks Stanley Cup

TORONTO (AP)—The Montreal Canadiens are on the verge of winning the Stanley Cup for the fifth straight year, an unprecedented feat in the National Hockey League.

The took a 3-0 stranglehold on this year's cup by outclassing the Toronto Maple Leafs 5-2 Tuesday night. They aim to sweep the best-of-7 final playoff series by winning the fourth game here Thursday night.

The scoring explosion by the Canadiens' almost-forgotten third line of Phil Goyette, Andre Proovost and Marcel Proovost and the solid work of goalie Jacques Plante stymied the Leafs' desperate effort to get into series contention.

Goyette, with two goals, was a standout on offense. Don Marshall and the dynamic Richard Brodeur — Maurice and Henri — got the other Montreal goals.

Johnny Wilson and Bert Olmstead handled the Toronto scoring.

Fighter Remains In Bad Condition

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Charlie Mohr Jr., a young University of Wisconsin boxer who suffered a brain hemorrhage shortly after his final bout in the NCAA tournament last Saturday, continued to day to hover between life and death. He has been unconscious since shortly after the fight.

The 22-year-old senior from Merrick, N.Y., remained in critical condition at University Hospital where he was taken and underwent a brain operation shortly after he lost his 165-pound NCAA crown to Stu Bartell, Brooklyn, N.Y., of San Jose State in the finals of the tournament.

Kefauver Will Ask For Ruling

SHELBY, N.C. (AP)—An official of the proposed Western Carolina League says Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) has agreed to ask baseball Commissioner Ford Frick for an explanation of his ruling withholding recognition of the Class D circuit.

William M. Andrews, president and general manager of the Shelby club, said Tuesday he contacted Kefauver a few days ago. Kefauver heads the Senate's committee on anti-trust monopolies.

Frick wouldn't approve a proposed "player pool" planned by the Continental League, which plans to begin operations in 1961 as a third major league.

Meanwhile, in another development yesterday, President John Moss of Kings Mountain called a meeting next Monday of Western Carolina officials. He said the proposed April 29 opening may be set later if the clubs feel the time is required to prepare for the opening.

Moss said President Branch Rickey of the Continental League had been invited. Moss revealed that Rickey had informed him that the Continental may require the remainder of the week to complete action on its proposed alignment with the Class D circuit.

Opening Games Set New Record

The National League set an opening day attendance record Tuesday, attracting 179,782 fans as the 1960 season got under way.

A crowd of 67,550 at the Los Angeles Coliseum, a league record for a night game, supplied better than third of the total as the National opened a week ahead of the American League.

The San Francisco Giants, inaugurating their 15-million-dollar Candlestick Park, drew the second largest crowd of the day with a sellout of 42,269 for their game with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Los Angeles crowd that sat in on the world champion Dodgers' game with the Chicago Cubs eclipsed the old NL night game standard of 67,037 set at the Coliseum for a Los Angeles-Milwaukee game last Aug. 8. The major league high is 78,382 for a Chicago-at-Cleveland game Aug. 20, 1948.

Tigers Swap Off Rookie Infielder

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers have acquired first baseman-outfielder Norm Cash in a trade which they hope will strengthen their second line troops.

In a straight player swap, the Tigers gave the Cleveland Indians rookie third baseman Steve Demeter for Cash.

Smith, Nelson Receive Honors

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP)—Walter (Red) Smith and Lindsey Nelson were honored here last night as sportswriter and sportscaster of the year. They received plaques at banquet, which also recognized 43 state winners.

Nelson, of the National Broadcasting Co., said he was impressed at witnessing "something done that I felt could never have been done." He praised the organizing of the banquet, and said he "felt the sincerity and warmth of the hospitality."

Smith, New York Herald Tribune sports columnist, with tongue in cheek said the banquet was "an utterly audacious idea." But, more seriously, he added, it is "the most gracious and generous thing that has ever been done for" the men in the two fields.

Meanwhile, Salisbury backers of the affair indicate they are considering establishing a national Hall of Fame for sports reporters and sportscasters. It would be on the campus of Catawba College.

Sportswriters and sportscasters were honored all day. They played golf or went fishing before the banquet.

The program included no formal speeches. Presentations were made by North Carolina's Gov. Luther H. Hodges.

Nelson and Smith were selected in a vote of their colleagues. The various state winners were selected in statewide ballots.

The late Pete Dimizio, Salisbury restaurant owner, originated the plan for the national banquet. His death, however, ended previous plans until a civic group decided some months ago to hold the dinner.

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Branch Rickey was reiterated that the Continental League, despite lack of support from organized baseball, will begin operations in 1961 on schedule.

The 79-year-old head of the would-be major circuit said he was more certain than ever that the Continental League would not only become a reality next year but will surpass the currently constituted majors in four years.

Rickey's optimism was voiced during a special ceremony in City Hall Tuesday when a model of the proposed stadium for the New York entry was unveiled to newsmen.

Among those who gave the stadium his blessings was Mayor Robert F. Wagner who said the Board of Estimate will vote in favor of its construction at a meeting April 27.

"I assure you," he said, "the City of New York is behind this and we are going to see it through to a successful conclusion. There is nothing in the way now for New York to have a second major league team."

Present plans call for a $5,000-seat stadium with movable sections for conversion to accommodate 60,000 for football. A proposed parking lot will accommodate 5,500 automobiles. The stadium also will feature two sections of rotating seats, the absence of pillars and columns or any other obstruction, escalators and continuous lighting.

The city will build the stadium and lease the structure to the baseball franchise owners. The venture, according to the mayor, will not cost the taxpayers a penny. It will be self-liquidating, on the basis of a 30-year-bond issue. Rental would be $900,000 a year.

"I have said all along that the Continental League will operate in 1961," said Rickey, "and I feel more strongly about it now than ever before. That despite the fact that baseball has not seen fit to support us, I have not given up that hope—even now."

"I'm not saying all of our cities will have their own parks by 1961, but we will open even if it means we will play somewhere else. Eventually, we all will have our own paying sites. That is no problem, as I see it."

"Neither is player availability a problem. Right now the Contimental League has no players but it has almost uncontested access to the free agency field. No one league will have predominance of players at the end of three years.

"What does this mean? It means that during the first two or three years our league would not be able to compete with the two major leagues. But during the fourth year we would not only be in a World Series but we would win it."

Missile Missed By One Month CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—The Shark ICBM may be accurate up to 5,000 miles, but one missed its Chattanooga target by a month. Due to a mixup in plans the 69-foot Air Force giant arrived Tuesday on the right date, but in the wrong month for an Armed Forces Week display in May.

His 'Baby,' A Million-Dollar Helicopter

An H-37 'copter, same as one which Sgt. Kinchen bosses, is capable of lifting great loads. This one, with plane in sling lift, takes off from Post Field at Fort Sill.

If you had a million-dollar helicopter, how would you take care of it? That's the everyday problem of Sfc. Otto Kinchen, a flight engineer with the Army's 54th Transportation Company at Fort Sill, Okla. His job is the care and feeding of the giant 15-ton H-37, No. 646, the free world's largest helicopter. It cost the government a million dollars.

Kinchen gets his ship ready for flight, checks its operation constantly while in flight and sees to normal maintenance and repairs. His men are SP6 Boyd R. Slater, crew chief; SP4 Ben H. Walden, non-flying mechanic, and Pfc. William P. Brown, non-flying mechanic's helper.

A veteran of World War II and Korea, Kinchen has over six years experience in helicopters. He was among the first groups trained for H-37s when they were introduced a little over a year ago. After a six-week intensive course, he was assigned to the 54th Transportation Company and to No. 646.

Sgt. Kinchen has been caring for No. 646 ever since.

Sgt. Kinchen draws circle in air with finger to indicate to pilot ship's rotors are clear and ready to be engaged prior to takeoff.

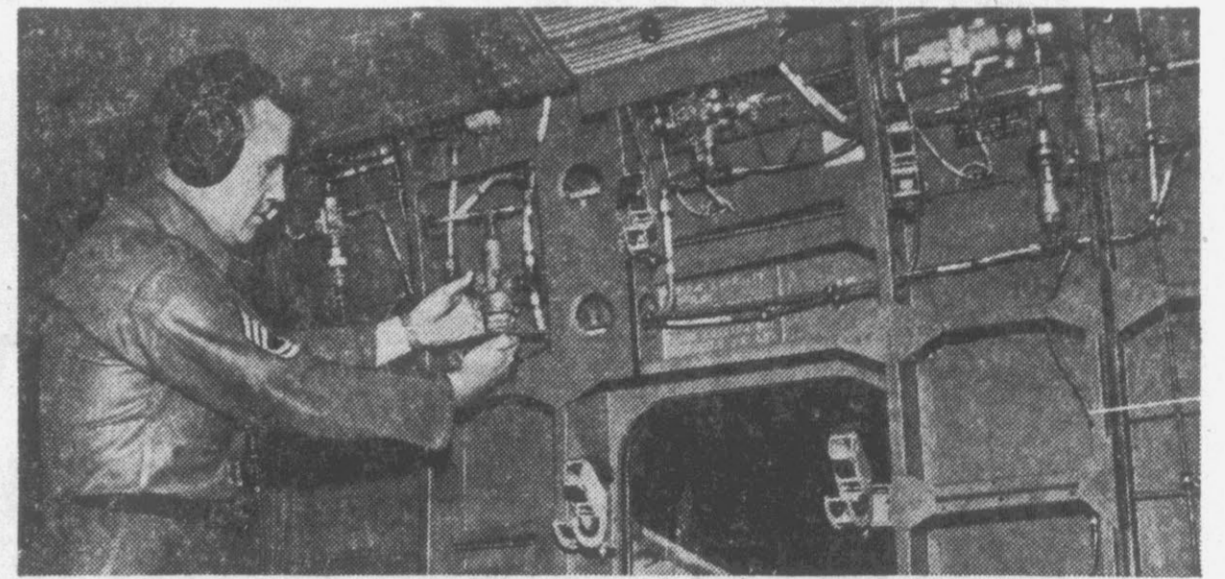

Sgt. Kinchen glances out window in cargo-passenger compartment to check the port landing gear before takeoff.

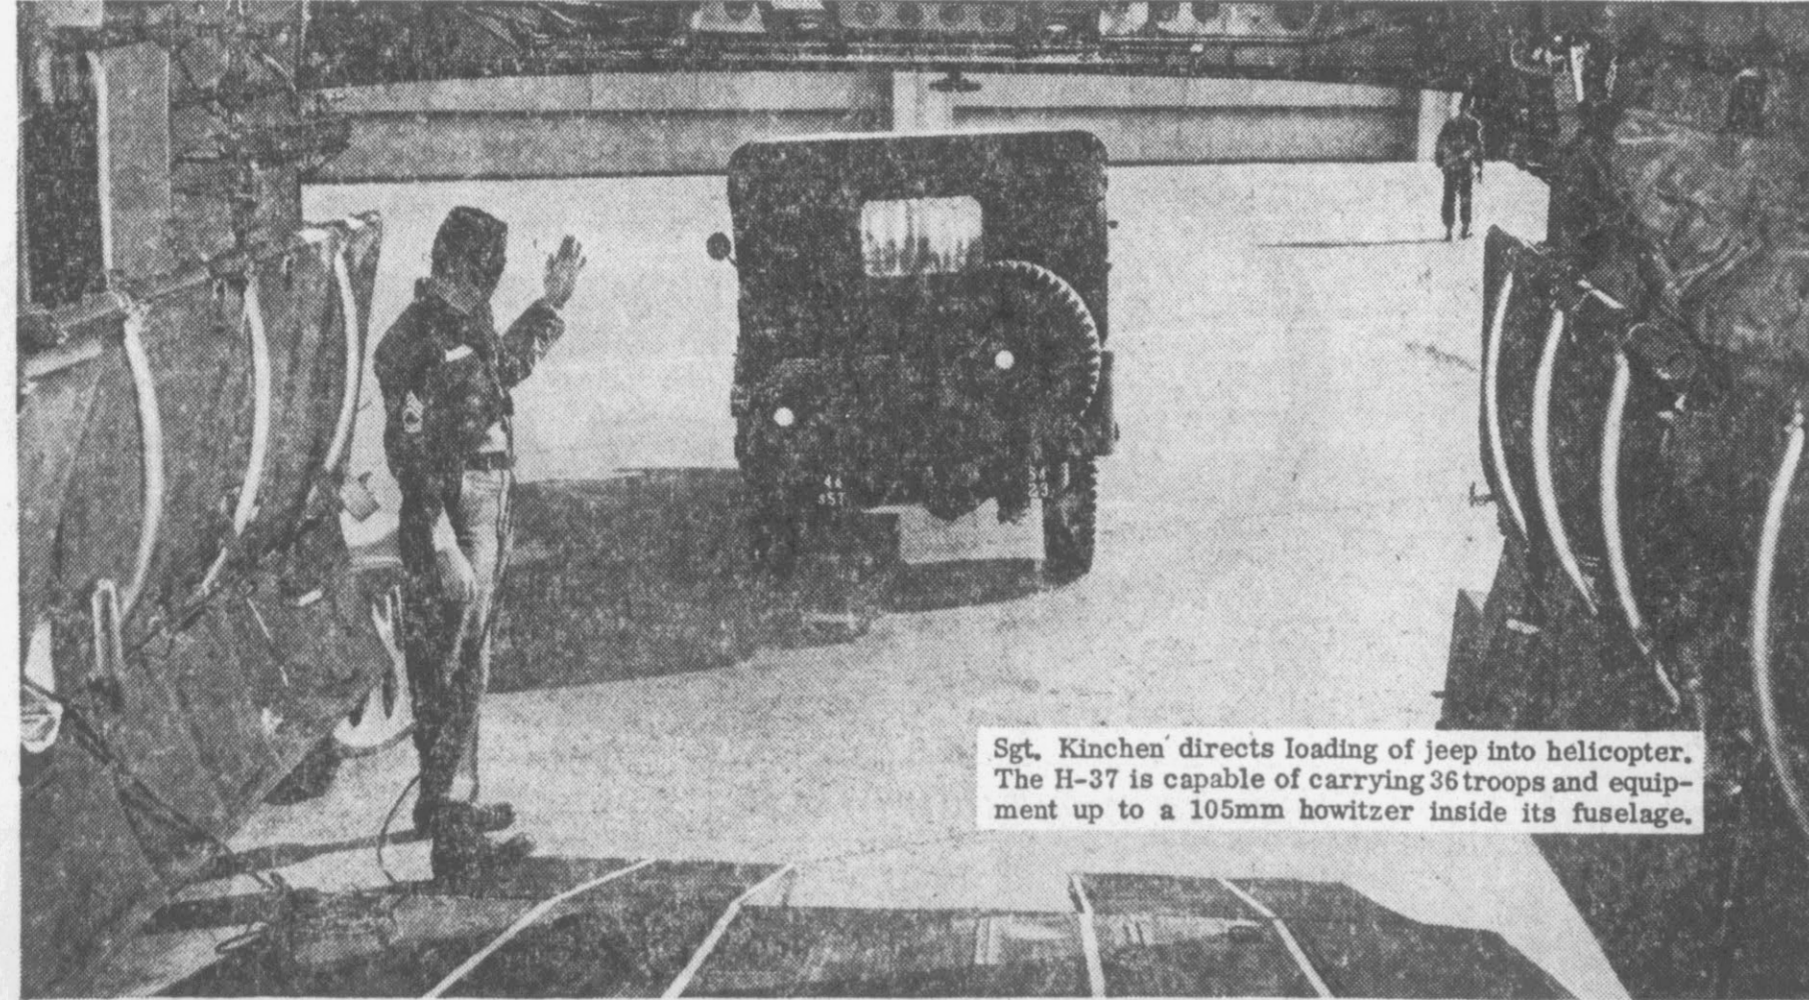

Headset keeps Sgt. Kinchen in constant contact with other crew members as he checks main transmission located over the cargo-passenger compartment in belly of his helicopter.

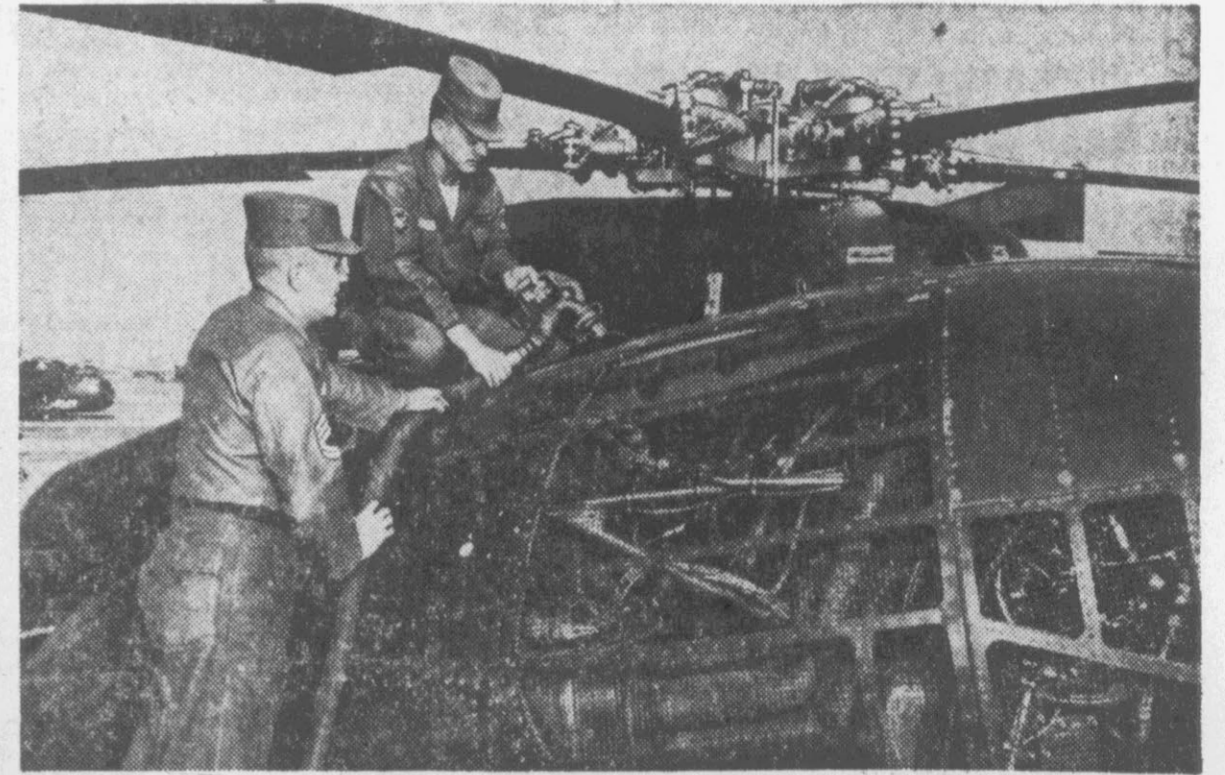

Sgt. Kinchen removes main rotor blade "shoe" during preparations for takeoff. The shoe protects the rotor blade ends and aids in tying down the ship.

He checks one of three hydraulic systems on H-37 during flight. Transmission, electrical and hydraulic systems must be checked constantly while aloft.

Sgt. Kinchen directs loading of jeep into helicopter. The H-37 is capable of carrying 36 troops and equipment up to a 105mm howitzer inside its fuselage.

Specialist Boyd Slater fuels starboard gasoline tank as Sgt. Kinchen watches.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Wide moves by some of the "science" stocks and selected issues featured a mixed stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

Gains and losses of fractions to a point prevailed among key stocks as the market averaged went nowhere in particular. Trading interest moved some specially situated stocks from 1 to around 5 points.

Trading was dampened by the withdrawal of funds to meet income tax payments by the scheduled April 15 deadline and the long Easter weekend, including Good Friday, a market holiday.

A rise in the U.S. Treasury bill rate was ascribed by some to expectations that quickening business activity later on would bring about increasing competition for funds.

Steels and motors were mostly lower. Electronics and some of the chemicals advanced. Most major groups were uneven.

Motorola and General Time gained more than 2 points apiece. Universal Match, Radio Corp. and Texas Instruments were up more than a point apiece.

Beech Aircraft was a 3-point gainer as a stock split was declared a possibility.

Steels backed away from Tuesday's gains, most of the leaders dropping fractions. Lukens, which reported a leap in earnings, rose more than a point.

General Electric dropped a point. The firm reported lower sales. Eastman Kodak advanced about 2. Liggett & Myers more than a point.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .75 to 627.25. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 216.10 with the industrials off .20, the rails unchanged and the utilities up .10.

Corporate bonds were firm in fair turnover. U.S. governments advanced.

Says Communities' Fire Safety Laws Inadequate

J. S. CHAPMAN . . . speaking at firemen's association meeting in Kinston last night.

KINSTON—The average community fire safety legislation is inadequate and incomplete," according to John S. Chapman, Educational Director for the Fire-Fighters' Association of Ohio, who spoke to several hundred Eastern Carolina firemen at the second quarterly meeting of the Eastern North Carolina Firemen's Association held in Kinston last night. Chapman, who encouraged the group of firefighters to get public sentiment behind them to help prevent fires, said there were over two million fires in the United States last year and noted that about 1,950 persons lost their lives each month as a direct result of fire. "Careless smoking and defective heating and cooking equipment" accounted for 193,000 home fires in the nation last year, Chapman commented. He added that smoking was the leading cause of fire in the nation. Praising firemen for their "great service to their fellow man," Chapman pointed out that over 50 per cent of the firemen in America are strictly volunteer with about 40 per cent being part paid. Only 10 per cent of the firefighters are full-time paid men, he said. Joe T. Halley, Fire Chief of Kinston, welcomed the visiting firemen and introduced the speaker, who also gave a talk on the importance of being able to size up a fire when "you first arrive on the scene" and gave technical instructions to the firemen attending.

Four Attended Library Meeting

FARMVILLE — Four Farmville High School students, with Mrs. Beverly Batchelor as advisor, attended the North Carolina High School Library Association convention last Friday and Saturday in Greensboro. Representing Farmville at the 13th annual convention were Melba Dixon and Shirley Ellis as official delegates, Lil Dilda as a member of the Scholarship Committee, Louise Speight, and Mrs. Bachelor. A feature of the convention was the annual election of state officers. Elected by the 350 delegates from 45 North Carolina school libraries were: Pres. Nikki Wilson of Goldsboro; Vice-Pres. Belle Todd of Asheville; Sec. W. L. Smith of Roseboro; Treas. Linda Dockery of Enka; Editor Bill Fuquay of Raleigh; and Reporter Cherylan Ann Jackson of Dunn. The program included reports from two past NCHSLA presidents; an address from Dillard Gardner, marshal-librarian of the N. C. Supreme Court Law Library; a business session; and a banquet and dance.

High Court Reverses Death Case Verdict

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Supreme Court today reversed the manslaughter conviction of a Pitt Bragg paratrooper accused of killing a pretty Raleigh waitress. The court ruled the evidence against Sgt. I.C. Harry Hugh Pope was insufficient to submit the case to the jury. The opinion means Pope, who was sentenced to three to five years when tried in Wake Superior Court last October, will go free. Pope, 30, of Jackson, Mich., was charged with murder in the slaying of a 19-year-old girl friend. On the morning of Aug. 9 Pope stopped a Raleigh police car and showed officers the girl's body in his car. He said he did not know how she met her death. The couple had been dancing and drinking at a Raleigh night spot.
