RECALLING PAST YEARS . . . Mrs. J. W. Higgs of 1112 Dickinson Ave., only charter member, looks over the first yearbook of the Round Table.

By PEGGY SMITH
Reflector Woman's Editor

Today the Round Table becomes one of Greenville's three golden book clubs.

The end of the Century Book Club and the Sans Souci have passed their 50th anniversary mark.

On Friday, April 15, 1910, 20 women met at the home of Mrs. G. W. Baker, W. Fifth St., for the purpose of organizing a literary club.

At this meeting the motto, "To be rather than to seem," colors, white and gold; emblem, the lighted torch; and the flower, the daisy, were chosen.

The first lady principal of the local college, Mrs. Kate Beckwith, was selected as the club's president. Their club program was a correspondence course of study at the University of Chicago.

Early recognized on December 20, 1910 was the value of the social aspects of club work for the promotion of closer fellowship when the late Mrs. E. B. Higgs entertained in her home.

The only Round Table active charter member is Mrs. J. W. Higgs of 1112 Dickinson Ave.

Recalling the "early days" of the club, Mrs. Higgs said she held the first meeting with invited guests, January 3, 1911.

What has the club meant to this book club veteran?

"Association of meeting with one another over a period of years. . . We feel like sisters. . . Now that people don't visit, it's about the only way we get to see each other—with all the electric push-button items and types of transportation, it seems people still can't find time to visit!"

Another club value to Mrs. Higgs is the program given at each meeting. Besides reading and passing books, the group studies various topics such as Southern literature, shrines of the U. S., and N. C. History.

Each member is allowed to present a program, "which benefits everyone in the long run."

Types of books read include religious, biographies, high class fiction, historical novels and for relaxation.

At the end of the year, books not needed by Sheppard Memorial Library are given to the Medical Auxiliary. This organization in turn lends the books to patients and personnel of Pitt Memorial Hospital.

In its 25th year, the Round Table was the inspiration for the organization of the Bethel Round Table Book Club.

During the past 25 years, the club has made "contributions to such projects as clothes to Belgium during the war, to New Bern after the fire, to Florida and Cuba after the hurricane, chairs to the Woman's Club, Red Cross, Community Christmas tree, Hospital Fund, war work, American and Chinese relief. . . ."

These gifts have amounted to over $1000 since 1935.

Celebrating their 50th anniversary, a luncheon for the Round Table will be held Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. in the Parish Hall of St. Peter's Episcopal Church.

Among the members attending will be the first elected member of the club, Mrs. J. E. Winslow.

SANS SOUCI HONORS ROUND TABLE . . . Mrs. C. C. Abernathy, left, presents the book, "19th Century Glass, Its Genesis and Development," to the Sheppard Memorial Library in honor of the 50th anniversary of the Round Table. Mrs. D. L. Moore, right, president of the club, receives the gift.

City Sister, Country Cousin Dress Alike For Easter Parade

RALEIGH—You won't be able to tell the difference between sister Sue and her country cousin Jane when they step out Sunday to join the Easter paraders. That is, if both are 4-H Club members and have concentrated on making their own Easter outfits. Right now nearly three-quarters of a million young seamstresses enrolled in a 4-H project in every state are engaged in sewing. Some even make their own hats. Of course they start out with easy things like full gathered skirts, but they work up to making dresses, suits, coats and even formals.

Benson was the clothing achievement and clothing demonstration winner. Miss Mary Ross Hensley of Chapel Hill, Rt. 3, was honored as dress revue winner.

Easter might well serve as a preview of the ensemble the girls will model later on in the county and state 4-H dress revues. This annual event is a sort of elimination contest to find the best made, best suited, best modeled outfit in the state.

The lucky winner will be the state's dress revue delegate to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago early next December. All her expenses will be paid for the week-long event where she will model her prize creation at the national 4-H dress revue before an audience of some 1800 club members, state leaders and other guests attending the congress.

Every day she will be entertained at fabulous dinners, breakfasts, luncheons and will wear her best dancing frock at a spectacular "friendship" party which highlights the social side of the congress.

Miss Mary Em Lee, clothing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, reports that last year over 42,000 4-H girls in North Carolina were enrolled in the clothing achievement project. Rebecca Parker of Benson

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN
Man had his beginning in a garden.

Man went through his darkest hour in a garden.
Man's greatest hope was reborn in a garden.

In the brightness of a new creation, among the fragrance and beauty of man's dawn, Easter really began in Eden. It was man's rejection of God, and of himself, that placed his Pilgrim feet upon the brambled high roads of the world; and the sweat upon his brow.

In the multiplication of himself, man found it difficult to reassemble his initial perfection. Eden became as remote to him as the galaxies of the heavens. When man found, with his many identities, his inability to reassemble the conception of himself as pictured by God, God acted and Christ came.

Time brought him to the garden at the wine press in Kidron Valley, outside of Jerusalem's golden gate. Here, among the olive trees, the light, born in the straw of a Bethlehem stable, flickered; then man betrayed himself again, turning from God.

But it was on the morrow, in the courts of Pilate, that he was offered Eden again, and man chose Barabbas. The blackness of that Friday, with its denied light, burned out its hours.

In that hillside garden of Joseph of Arimathea, in the lent tomb, there came a Holy Awakening. Among the new flowers of a Judean Spring, Hope became alive again. To those that could believe, the tomb was no longer a stopping place, but a thoroughfare.

Couples Say Wedding Vows During Easter Season

The marriage of Miss Rose Janette Loftin and Tony Lorinza Mills was solemnized Thursday evening in the First Pentecostal Holiness Church. The Rev. C. C. Dribb performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Loftin of Ayden, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Mills of Greenville.

Music was presented by Mrs.

Berkley Rutledge, organist, and Frank West, soloist. West sang "Whither Thou Goest," "Because," and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a formal gown of embroidered tulle with a fitted bodice and scalloped neckline.

The skirt featured tiers of ruffles down the front with one extending around the full chapel train. The fingertip veil of French illusion was attached to crown of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of roses with lilies of the Valley.

Miss Jessie McLawhorn of Ayden was maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown of blue lace and net over taffeta with matching bandeau and circular veil. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Bridesmaids dressed also in gowns of blue lace and net and matching head pieces were Miss Lois Plaster, Martinsville Va.; Helen Flowers, Rockingham; Mrs. John David Cannon, Greenville; and Mrs. Floyd Hardee, Ayden. They carried bouquets similar to that of the maid of honor.

The bride had as honorary bridesmaids Miss Grace Edwards, Fountain; Miss Mary Louis Hudson, Miss Kay Mills, Greenville; and Mrs. Walter Loftin, Jr., Ayden. They wore pastel dresses and carried long stem carnations.

The flower girls, Miss Karen Mills of Greenville, and Miss Sharon Morris of Vanceboro, wore identical full length dresses featuring lace bodices and skirts of net ruffles.

Kenneth Mills, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers for the ceremony were John David Cannon, Johnny Harris, Grady Bailey, and Dan Byron, all of Greenville.

The mother of the bride wore a blue lace dress with matching accessories and her corsage was a purple orchid. The mother of the bridegroom wore a pink lace dress and matching accessories. Her corsage was also a purple orchid.

Following the ceremony the couple received in the vestibule of the church. For traveling the bride wore a green suit with matching accessories. The couple will be at home in Ayden following the wedding trip.

Cake Cutting
A cake cutting was held at the home of the bride's parents immediately following the rehearsal where the attendants were presented gifts by the bride and groom.

Wedding cake, punch, nuts and mints were served to approximately 40 guests.

Reception
Proceeding the wedding the bride was entertained by Mrs. Marion Claybrook and Mrs. W. Z. Loftin at the Ayden Community Building, which was decorated with palms, magnolia leaves, and candles.

The bride's table was covered with white net over green, scalloped with orange blossoms and wedding bells. The table featured a center piece of white bridal flowers and silver candelabra.

The bride was also entertained by Mrs. John David Cannon, at her home in Colonial Heights, Mrs. Lester Mills of Greenville, and Mrs. Hubert Morris of Vanceboro.

KINSTON—Miss Patricia Bradshaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Luther Bradshaw, Sr., and Walker Reid Perkins, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Perkins of Greenville, were married yesterday afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Thomas H. Hamilton officiated at the double ring ceremony and music was presented by Mrs. Sidney Dunn of Greenville, cousin of the bridegroom, soloist, and Buford Goodman, minister of music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an original formal-length gown of white peau de sole, designed and made by her mother.

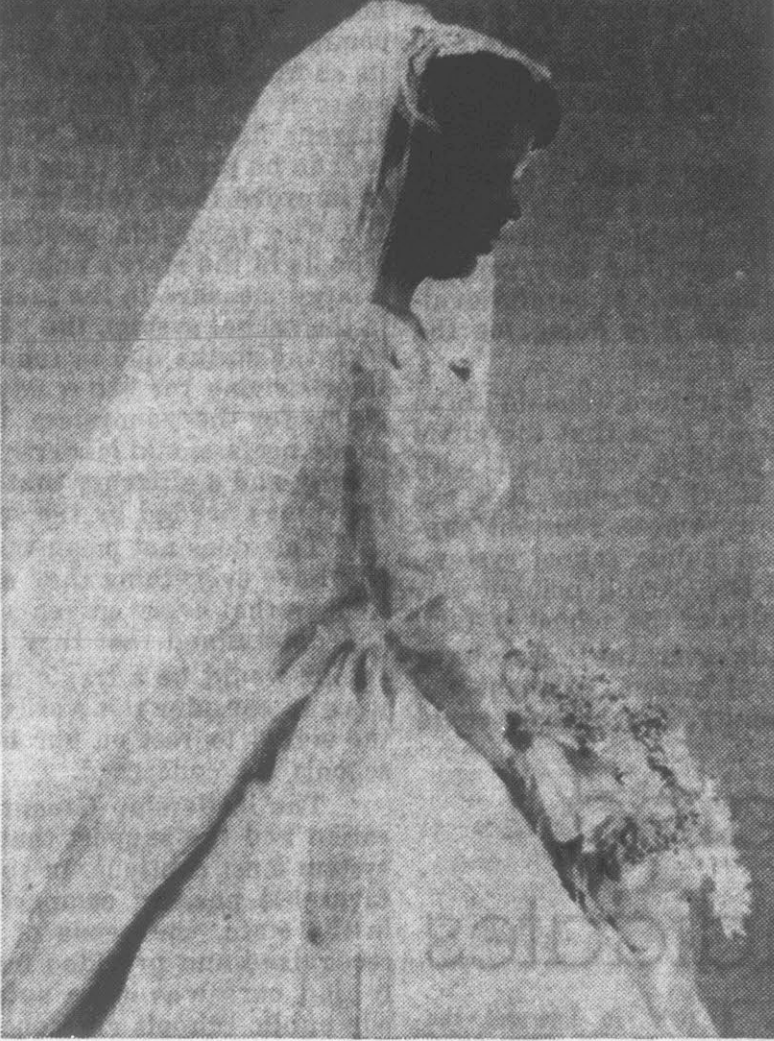

It was fashioned with a basque bodice, portrait voluminous skirt featured a bustled back, and wide tiered streamers accented with seed pearls and iridescent embroidered on lace was repeated on neckline and sleeves.

Her full veil of silk illusion carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums, stephanotis, and lilies of the valley centered with a white orchid.

Miss Ruby West Bradshaw, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina length sleeveless sheath of pink florentine lace over taffeta, featuring a detachable belted tulle overskirt. Her headpiece was of swiss braid designed on a crown. She carried a bouquet of flowers shaded from pale to deep pink.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Edward Luther Bradshaw, Jr., of Kinston and Mrs. Burwell Temple, Jr., of Chapel Hill. Their dresses and flowers were identical to that of the honor attendant.

The bride's mother chose a sheath dress of Empress blue lace over taffeta, featuring a satin trim and matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a champagne clipped chanelly lace sheath dress. Her hat was made of matching petals. They both wore white orchids.

Walter Reid Perkins, Sr., was his son's best man. Ushers were Edward Luther Bradshaw, Jr., brother of the bride, Lawrence Perkins, brother of the bridegroom, James Vance Perkins, Jr., of Raleigh, cousin of the bridegroom, Guy Vernon Smith, Thomas Smoot, and Charles White of Greenville.

Mrs. Perkins is a graduate of East Carolina College and at present is a member of the faculty at Harvey School. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. C. B. West.

The Greenville Branch American Association University Women will meet on Tuesday, April 19, at 6 o'clock in the Flanagan Bldg. Parlor at East Carolina College.

ALL OUT FOR THE EASTER PARADE

You've tied the last shoe lace. Patted the last ribbon into place. Brushed off the last piece of lint. There! It was a struggle but the entire family looks its dazzling best at one and the same time. You're sure to steal the spotlight at the Easter Parade.

But—how long will that state of perfection last? The answer depends on whether you're planning to take pictures or not.

We hope you are. For Easter Sunday is a wonderful chance to snap the family at its handsomest. And since you've got such an all-star cast to work with, do them justice. Take more than one or two shots. Shoot enough to be sure you caught everyone at his or her best.

You can improve your results by posing your family against a simple, uncluttered background. And try to keep everybody in a relaxed mood. It will help you avoid that "firing-squad" look. You know—everybody in a straight line, scowling into the camera.

Because you'll be anxious to see your results, drop your exposed film with us and we'll give you an extra measure of our fast, expert photo-finishing service.

But first things first. Better make a note to drop in tomorrow for several rolls of film. It makes picture-taking so much easier.

His Praise Is Not Empty Words

It should be encouraging to the people of a community when one of the recognized state leaders in public education makes it a point to praise the community's school system and those who have contributed to its well being.

Dr. Charles Carroll, state superintendent of public instruction, is not a man who says nice things about a school system just to make the people involved feel good. If he praises a school system, one may rest assured that his statements are the result of careful evaluation of the system and the job it is doing for the youngsters of the community.

Citizens of Greenville, therefore, should take pride in the fact that Dr. Carroll feels that the city's schools occupy a favorable position compared with other local school systems in North Carolina. It is not only a tribute to the community whose constant support has made possible a good public school system, but it is likewise a tribute, as Dr. Carroll pointed out, to the administrators and faculty of the school system.

The citizens of Greenville over the years have taken pride in the local school system. Without the public support of the community, the schools could not have progressed as they have. Too often, however, community pride in a thing closes the public eye to its shortcomings. Greenville is fortunate that over the years it has not been complacent about schools. Its citizens have not said "the schools are good enough, we can be proud of them and therefore we do not have to improve them further."

The favorable position occupied by Greenville's schools in the state's public education system is due in a large measure to the fact that in spite of local pride in the school system, the people have not been content with the status quo in schools. There has been a constant striving for better educational facilities and programs for the youngsters. It has been fostered by dynamic professional leadership, a dedicated and capable faculty and a citizenry that has been willing to provide the things needed by the school system.

This does not mean that the public schools of the city have everything they need or desire. Neither does it mean that every citizen is keenly aware of the needs and determined that they should be met.

It would be a tragic mistake indeed if Greenville were to consider the words of praise of Dr. Carroll as the signal to rest on our laurels so far as our public schools are concerned.

The leadership Greenville has had in public education and the support that has been given the school system must continue. In spite of the fact we occupy a favorable position compared with other communities in the state, the needs of the local schools must be recognized and provided for. Otherwise we will quickly find ourselves in an unfavorable position so far as our public schools are concerned.

Little Cleared By 5 Candidates

By LYNN NISBET
CANDIDATES — The appearance of all four candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor, plus the Republican nominee, on one program in Raleigh this week failed to clarify the somewhat confused situation in the gubernatorial primary campaign. Public schools, particularly the racial and tax phases, were given major attention by all of the candidates.

Republican Gavin reiterated his party's demand for popular election of county school boards, and his personal belief that the schools should be financed by taxes on so-called luxuries—soft drinks and tobacco, with increased levies on alcoholic beverages. Gavin had both an advantage and a marked disadvantage in his position. However good his ideas, and whatever portion of them may be adopted, he knows he will not have a chance to administer the laws. He faces the usual prospect of his party in the November election — the short end of an approximate three to one vote.

Democratic hopefuls Lake, Larkins, Sanford and Seawell each knows there is a chance he might have to make good on his promises. Actually, nothing new came out of the joint appearance. It did serve to focus public attention on the similarities and the differences in their several approaches to greater degree than had previous separate statements. All candidates stand on the common ground that the public schools must be maintained for the best interests of the pupils. There is agreement that more money will be necessary to meet this demand for better service. Also there is agreement that the North Carolina pupil assignment law is soundly based and should be utilized to the limit.

DIFFERENCES — While endorsing the pupil assignment law and by implication, at least, favoring larger appropriations for public schools, Larkins and Sanford deal mainly in generalities. Lake and Seawell are more specific.

Lake would use the pupil assignment act to prevent any degree of racial integration in the classrooms, and would invoke provisions of the supporting "Pearson Plan" to permit the people in any community by majority vote to close the schools rather than allow any racial integration. He would solve the money problem more by cutting down on what he terms "non essentials" and frills, rather than by seeking new tax money. That idea appeals to conservative business men, many of whom do not fully share his views on other points.

Seawell has contended all along that the pupil assignment act should be used to reasonably effectuate the Supreme Court decisions rather than thwart them. He cannot accept the Lake idea that every individual has a right to interpret the constitution and to ignore court interpretations with which he does not agree. Seawell also is more specific than any other Democratic candidate in stating where he thinks the needed school money should come from. He expressly opposes discriminatory tax levies on special items like soft drinks and tobacco. Rather he would broaden the coverage of the general sales tax and other levies which fall with equal weight on all the people, not a particular segment of taxpayers.

The total effect of these stated positions of the candidates is to put Larkins and Sanford in position of advocating progress along traditional lines and within the framework of tried and proven policies; and to pit Lake and Seawell against each other with almost extreme ideas in dealing with conditions developed since the 1954 U. S. Supreme Court decision on integration.

ISSUES — That is another way of saying that Lake and Seawell are responsible for injecting lively issues into the campaign—and not alone in the racial integration area. Larkins and Sanford have been critical of many of the Hodges administration policies. Sanford has been much more positive and has outlined several particular points of difference and proposed change in government organization. These proposals have struck a popular note, because there is much in the Hodges centralization of authority program that is unpopular. Lake has made a broadside attack on the Hodges administration as businesslike and in some instances almost irresponsible. Seawell has consistently defended the administration objectives, although disagreeing with numerous specific items in the program.

These developments present some very interesting possibilities which a few weeks ago would have been regarded as utterly absurd. The degree to which popular attention has been regarded as utterly absurd. The degree to which popular attention has been focused on Lake and Seawell raises the possibility, maybe even a probability, that these relative late comers into the race might emerge as the high men in the May 28 voting. Although most experienced political observers are disposed to hoot the idea, it is not difficult to find people who think a run-off primary might involve Lake and Seawell.

Such a suggestion is regarded as utter heresy by old time politicians who have played the game for years according to established rules. Inescapable conclusion is that many of the old rules do not apply, and reluctant as the oldtimers may be to admit it, a new crowd has moved into the lines that form at the ballot boxes.

Nuclear Plant Adds To Southern Progress

Authorization by the Atomic Energy Commission for Carolina Virginia Nuclear Power Associates to construct a nuclear power plant in South Carolina is another important step toward the development of new sources of energy to be utilized by the South in its growth.

The fact that four power companies of the Carolinas and Virginia have undertaken the ambitious program to construct the 43 million dollar nuclear power plant is of importance to the states served by those companies. It bespeaks of the forward-looking attitude that prevails in this section of the nation that long has been viewed by others as rather backward, under developed and passive toward its own progress.

As plans for the new plant move toward completion it will attract more nationwide attention to these states of the South and to the leadership they are providing to the nation's economic progress. It will add emphasis to the growing recognition that the South is not backward so far as progress is concerned. It will help dispel the misconception that the area is content to follow lazily in the tracks of other areas of the nation that have forged forward up the economic ladder.

The one nuclear power plant to be constructed as a joint venture in South Carolina will not change the whole picture throughout the South, but it does represent another significant milestone of progress for the section. The fact that two North Carolina companies—Carolina Power and Light and Duke Power Company—are among the four that have undertaken the projects adds prestige to North Carolina's leadership in the South.

Political Tinge At Summit, Too

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will have United States politics to consider when he has his summit meeting May 25 in Paris with Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Just because of that there's good reason to believe nothing much will come of the meeting and that the problems discussed will be put in the freezer until later.

This year's meeting with Khrushchev will come just a few months before the presidential election in this country.

If Eisenhower makes any concessions, which look like yielding to Soviet Union pressure or giving Moscow an advantage, the Democrats will wrap them around the Republicans' necks in the political campaign.

They're already building up a campaign issue over their complaint that Eisenhower's defense program is inadequate. Against this possibility Eisenhower will have even more reason to be cautious with Khrushchev this time than he had in his first summit meeting in Geneva in 1955.

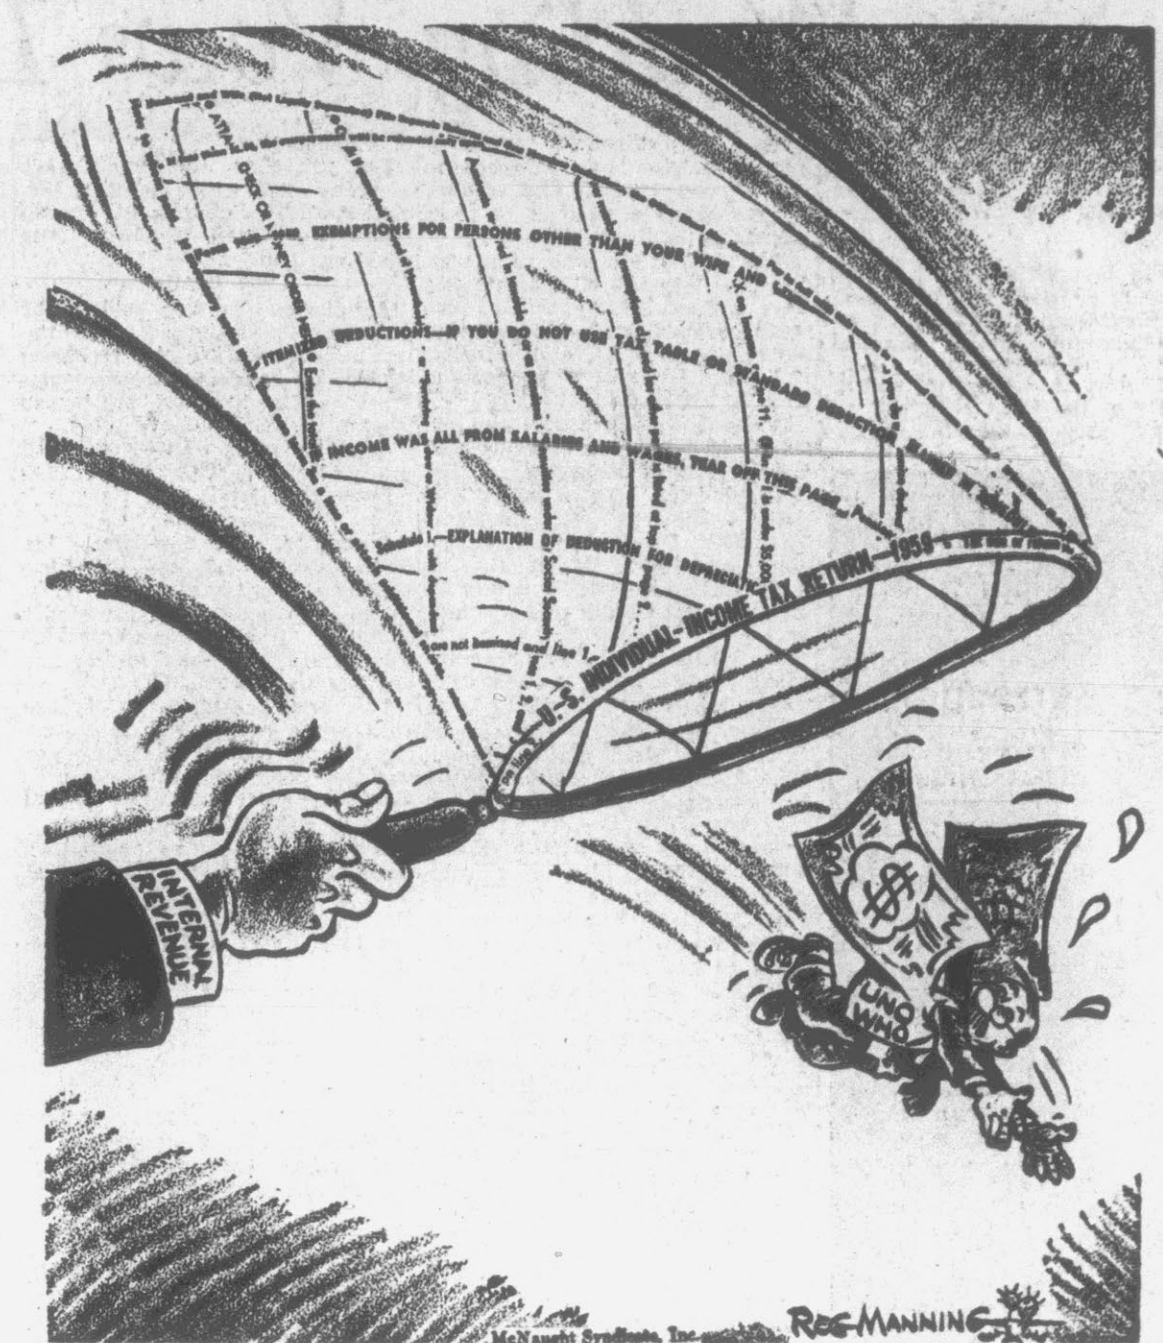

The stand-pat announcement Wednesday of the foreign ministers of the Western Big Four — the United States, Britain, France, West Germany — may be a forerunner of the American position down the line at the summit in May.

There's an opposite side to the coin, of course: If Eisenhower could come away from his meeting with Khrushchev with some kind of sensational settlement, it would boost the Republicans' hopes at home.

But this would almost certainly require some big concessions from Khrushchev. He's shown no signs of being in such a mood. It's no skin off his nose who wins the American election since Eisenhower, with whom he got along well, won't be the man. Eisenhower can't run again. Further, although Khrushchev has appointed himself an apostle of peace, he's no Santa Claus.

For example: After meeting Eisenhower here last year at Camp David Khrushchev took some of the heat off his demand that the Allies get their troops out of West Berlin and sign separate peace treaties with the two Germans.

The Gifted In Flowers

We don't know L. Royal, one of the teachers in town. All we know is that she is a teacher in one of the Greenville schools.

But she's a bit artistic, creative, original — you know. We attended a meeting of some educators the other night, including Greenville teachers and teachers from the college. And on each corner of each table, and there were plenty of tables, was a hat made from colored paper, with little decorative flowers. We sometimes call them fleurs foretimes.

The hats were signed on their insides, and ours was initialed L. Royal. So we want to thank L. Royal for her successful efforts and her participation in the decorating for the dinner-meeting.

These days, the teachers seem about the most versatile people around.

Back to the subject of flowers, there is a term "Green Thumb" applied to the person with the ability to make things grow. There's a lot of talk about this being some inherent gift, and a lot of people call it rubbish—or hog-wash (whatever that is).

However, we agree with the former: that the person with a "Green Thumb" is gifted. It's like this. We think we have a black thumb. You will note that the black thumb is not capitalized nor is it in quotes. It is not the type thumb you would be proud of. So we are "playing it down," as the saying goes.

We rushed home the other day to plant our late spring flower seeds, as well as some plants well-meaning friends gave to us. Those flower boxes looked lovely that evening and even the next morning. By lunchtime, one of the plants looked wilted (we did water them) and one had been broken off.

We wouldn't accuse anyone of this plight, and we don't want to offend the bird lovers, bird watchers, bird feeders and etc., but it is a well known fact that local birds swarm about our little flower boxes and play in the nice dirt. You see, we are trying to find a scapegoat—but at the same time we are quite aware of the fact that we have a black thumb. Green stands for life and growth, you see. Black usually symbolizes the opposite.

Perhaps you can call it a thumb lifted from the typewriter of black keys. From the bright colors of the dinner meeting hats, to the green and black colors of gardeners, we are disgracing to the single color red. Red is the color of firetrucks, as everyone knows. The town of Grimesland just this week acquired their first firetruck, brand-spanking new. The Town Board has appointed L.A. Moore as fire chief, assisted by Larry Tetterton, both of Grimesland. They will work with a volunteer fire squad.

And it might be that one day the Grimesland fire truck will come here to assist in fighting a fire, as the local towns cooperate in the matter, and will gain some experience. The people are mighty proud of that firetruck—and to prove their prowess, they might build a fire department in the near future.

Other Editors Saying... Go Home, Young Man

(The Augusta Chronicle)

Ever since "juvenile delinquent" became popular a few years ago as a phrase to be applied to any youngster engaged in mischievous pursuits, normal or otherwise, the cry has been for more and more recreational facilities as a means of "keeping youngsters off the streets." The plea was echoed in Augusta, as elsewhere, and for a while "healthy recreation," as a panacea for the emotional disturbances of youth, was more popular than politics as a discussion topic.

There has never been a doubt in our mind that "healthy recreation" was not to be desired, or needed. But it struck us at the time—and we said so—that "work facilities" for youngsters would reduce "juvenile delinquency" far more effectively than would recreational facilities. Now, Judge Philip P. Gilliam, a nationally known juvenile judge of Denver, Colo., had made the point most eloquently. It is a brutally frank declaration, but one well worth the reading by every parent and by every boy in his teens. He said:

"Always we hear the plaintive cry of the teenager: 'What can we do... Where can we go? The answer is GO HOME. Hang the storm window, paint the woodwork. Rake the leaves, mow the lawn, shovel the walk. Wash the car, learn to cook, scrub the floors. Repair the sink, build a boat, get a job. Help the minister, priest, or rabbi. The Red Cross, the Salvation Army. Visit the sick, assist the poor, study your lessons, and then when you are through—and not too tired—read a book."

"Your parents do not owe you entertainment. Your city or village does not owe you recreational facilities. The world does not owe you a living... You owe the world something. You owe it your time and energy and your talents so that no one will be at war or in poverty or sick and lonely again. In plain, simple words, GROW UP; quit being a cry baby. Get out of your dream world and develop a backbone, not a wishbone, and start acting like a man."

"You're supposed to be mature enough to accept some of the responsibility your parents have carried for years. They have nursed, protected, helped, appealed, begged, excused, tolerated, and denied themselves needed comforts so that you could have every benefit. This they have done gladly, for you are their dearest treasure. But now you have no right to expect them to bow to every whim and fancy just because selfish ego instead of common sense dominates your personality, thinking and requests. In Heaven's name, GROW UP and GO HOME!"

China Lobby Spirit

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Alfred Kohlberg was an American merchant who traded with Nationalist China. His specialty was textiles. His business grew to fair dimensions and he joined the various organizations which concerned themselves with Far Eastern affairs. Among others he joined the Institute of Pacific Relations and found there in something which contradicted his experience. He was not particularly interested in politics and his discoveries surprised him, for he had heretofore respected great names.

He thereupon set out to investigate the Institute of Pacific Relations not knowing especially what he would find. This one event set off a whole series of Congressional investigations including those of the McCarran Committee and the McCarthy Committee. Kohlberg had stumbled on a truth, which rarely happens to any of us. He found that many public organizations of the American people, private organizations with high-sounding names and headed by distinguished men, were infiltrated by Communists, on the administrative level, who formed each organization's policies and determined its goals. Kohlberg took up the fight and never stopped until he died last week.

Naturally Kohlberg was called many ugly names. These he accepted as labels of distinction, but the one that pleased him most was "China Lobby." He proclaimed himself to be the "China Lobby," and challenged all and sundry to investigate him. I do not know how many thousands of dollars of his own money Kohlberg spent advertising himself as the "China Lobby" and demand an investigation. A man of means and integrity, he, of course, would not have accepted a cent from Chiang Kai-shek or Mao Tse-tung or anyone else to support his opinions. He was a fan of strong convictions with enough cash on hand to back them up.

A merchant, not a scholar, he was without any interest in the sectarian attitudes of the various anti-Communists. He was really not so much a doctrinaire anti-Communist as he was pro-American. He did not split the fine hairs of definitions; it was sufficient for him that he had witnessed what the Communists did to China and he did not want them to do the same to the United States. For Kohlberg, it was sufficient that he regarded the Communists as indecent and profane.

A Jew, he organized the American Jewish League Against Communism. He insisted that he could not understand how a Jew could possibly be a Communist or sympathetic to Communism. He expected the entire Jewish people to rally to his organization. They did not.

This disappointed Kohlberg but until the moment he died, he continued to finance various organizations and groups in the battle against Soviet Russia. Blows Against The Price-Fixers

By ELMER ROESSNER
With the nullification of Minnesota's so-called Fair Trade Act, there are 29 states left to do so would be to yield to Khrushchev's pressure. It would discourage the West Germans and their will to resist Communist pressure.

The Minnesota Supreme Court ruled that the state's law is unconstitutional because it "delegates to private persons to prescribe a rule governing conduct for the future which is binding on those who do not consent."

This refers to the "nonsigner clause," without which it is almost impossible to make a "fair trade" law effective. This clause provides that if a manufacturer and one retailer sign an agreement to fix a price, all other retailers are bound by that contract.

Price-fixing took another blow last month when the United States Supreme Court ruled in the Parke, Davis & Co. case. The court held that the drug firm had violated the Sherman Antitrust Act by threatening to withhold its products from stores in the District of Columbia and Virginia which did not charge minimum prices. The District has never had a "fair trade" law; Virginia has one with an effective nonsigner or clause.

Presumably, Parke, Davis could have enforced its prices in Virginia through the use of that clause, although not in Washington. However, that would have harmed northern Virginia druggists because their customers could readily buy at cut prices in the District. That is probably why the company used the threat to withhold products instead of proceeding under the law.

"Fair trade" laws with nonsigner clauses are effective in: Alabama, Arizona, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Virginia, Wisconsin, and Wyoming.

AMPUTATED LAWS
In fourteen states, nonsigner clauses have been found unconstitutional, although the rest of the law stands. Manufacturers can fix prices only when every outlet will sign an agreement to maintain them, and few manufacturers try.

These states are: Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan, New Mexico, Oregon, South Carolina, Washington, and West Virginia.

Top state courts have found "fair trade" laws completely unconstitutional in Nebraska, Utah and, now, Minnesota.

Children of the Resurrection ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Mark 16:1-15; Colossians 3:1-15.

Very early in the morning after Christ's crucifixion, Mary Magdalene and Mary, mother of James, and Salome went to the tomb with sweet spices to anoint Him.—Mark 16:1-2.

They said among themselves, "Who shall roll us away the stone from the door of the sepulchre?" When they looked, they saw that it was already rolled away.—Mark 16:3-4.

There a young man was sat, clothed in a long white garment. He said, "Be not affrighted: Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified: He is risen."—Mark 16:5.

Mary told the apostles, but they did not believe her. Christ later appeared to them as they ate, and rebuked them for their unbelief.—Luke 16:14. MEMORY VERSE—II Corinth. 5:17.

Children of the Resurrection

THE INEVITABLE ETHICAL IMPLICATIONS OF OUR BEING IDENTIFIED WITH THE RISEN CHRIST

Scripture—Mark 16:1-15; Colossians 3:1-15.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL THE REV. DR. WILBUR M. SMITH begins his commentary on today's lesson by writing: "The title given to this lesson is an interesting one, 'Children of the Resurrection.' It would not be surprising if many readers of this volume have forgotten that this is actually a phrase found in the New Testament, in Luke 20:36."

He also writes: "The events recorded in the passage taken from Mark's Gospel occurred outside the walls of Jerusalem. Colosse was a city in the Roman province of Asia."

"And when the sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, had brought sweet spices, that they might come and anoint Him. And very early in the morning the first day of the week, they came unto the sepulchre at the rising of the sun."—Mark 16:1-2.

GOLDEN TEXT

"Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new."—II Corinthians 5:17.

As they walked toward the tomb they were worried and talked among themselves. "Who shall roll us away the stone from the door of the sepulchre?" they asked. And when they looked, they saw that the stone was rolled away; for it was very great. And when the three women entered the tomb, instead of the body of the Lord, they saw a young man sitting on the right side, clothed in a long white garment; and they were affrighted. And he saith unto them, Be not affrighted: Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified: He is risen; He is not here: behold the place where they had laid Him."

which had seen Him after He was risen."—Mark 16:14. "If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God. Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth."—Colossians 3:1-2. The Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith ends his commentary on the lesson by writing that "we are living in an hour of moral decline." We feel that may be so when we read in our newspapers of crimes committed by youths of both sexes. But was there ever a time when so many devoted people sent food to the hungry and clothes for the destitute of our world?

He told them to go and "tell His disciples and Peter that He goeth before you into Galilee."

Just A Short Drive

It's just a short drive on the outskirts of Greenville. Take the newly-constructed Kinston highway for a couple of miles, turn to the right just as you approach the Greenville Golf Range. A few more hundred yards and you're there.

It's the place with the manicured clearing and is tabbed as the Greenville Golf Course—the nest of golf lovers and a "second home" for many.

It's the place that lures men and women of all fields in the spring of the year. With them comes another challenge to the game of golf, bringing satisfaction to some and prompting others to moods of melancholy.

It's the place where the suckling youth and the retired old-timer compete in a sport on near-equal ground. This is one place where Father Time never takes his toll.

Game Is Never Mastered

It's the place where one may observe the greens with their treacherous crooks and hillocks, hurling a challenge to anyone who might attack them. Challenged often, they are seldom mastered.

It's the place with the modern-looking pro shop and a fellow named "Sam" answers the questions of golfers and visitors alike.

It's the place that supplies conversations of all types—from the political struggle of native sons to the downfall of the New York Yankees.

It's the place where bag-toters with their backs like bulls and eyes of first class vision trip the soft turf on the heels of the golfer, offering advice here and there.

It's the place where Reynolds May and W. L. Allen are considered the "Sam Snead and Ben Hogan" of the Pitt County area. May won the first club championship and Allen has won the title six times. Don Conley Jr. might rate the tab of "Arnold Palmer" in the same category.

History Is Long One

It's the place that was first started in 1922 and took pro Harold Thomas into its bosom in 1946. The local Pro has found a home in Greenville and has become an asset to the thriving community.

It is the place where Tommy Bolt, winner of the U. S. Open and noted golfer in the professional ranks, has played a couple of rounds. Other pros such as Art Doering and Jack Issacs have also played the course.

Another Test For Golfers

It is the place that is currently in a busy stir over the 22nd annual match play tournament. The contest (Continued on page eight)

Play For Club Championship Slated To Start This Weekend; Record Field Seen

Three Rank As Favorites In Match Tourney

By JOHNNY HUDSON Reflector Sports Editor

College student, coach, or local merchant? Take your pick for the future champion in the 22nd annual Greenville Golf and Country Club Tournament which officially opened yesterday afternoon.

Don Conley Jr., East Carolina College student, Boley Farley, coach and athletic director of Rose High, and Erceel Webb, assistant manager of Carolina Dairies, have been placed on the top pedestal in Greenville's number one tournament of the year.

The three head a record-breaking field of 96 golfers who have signed up for the 22nd playing of the match tournament and jump off the tees within the next week. The tournament will be drawn out over a period of one month.

Bob Powell, chairman of the 1960 tournament, announced the pairings yesterday afternoon but the first matches were not expected to be played before this weekend.

Golfers have until April 25 to complete their first round of play. According to Powell, extra time was allotted the first round of play due to the possible interruption of the Easter holidays.

With the record-breaking number of entries, 32 golfers have been placed in three flights by the tournament committee. Losers of first round matches will drop one flight lower.

Boley Farley rides into the -960 tournament as the defending champion and a good bet to finish with the title again.

Farley, the "grey fox" of Rose High, slipped into the finals of last year's tournament after a tough struggle and swept by dark horse Bob Masten in the finals with a sizzling finish.

For Farley, it was his second club championship—the first title coming in 1956.

Conley, the youngest winner in tournament history, and Webb have also grabbed titles in past years. The former won the title in 1957 and Webb was the title winner in 1951 and 1958.

A powerful swinger from the tees, Conley has become a mainstay among pre-tournament favorites in the past three years. The Greenville linkster enters the tournament after success in recent North State matches and a victory in the medal play tournament last fall.

Webb, who prefers match play over medalist, is one of the strongest golfers in the field and close observers consider the husky belter a good bet to regain the title.

W. L. Allen, a six-time winner of the trophy, is included in the 32 golfers paired in the championship flight. Allen won the first flight last year with a spectacular finish in a "sudden death" play-off.

All former club champions, including initial winner Reynolds May, are entered in the 1960 match play event.

Other former champs ready to try for added prestige are Simon Moye Jr., Dr. M. B. Massey, and Molt Massey Jr.

The "Club Championship" has been divided between only eight members in past years and outsiders are given only a slim chance this spring.

Considered as top-ranking golfers outside of the elite include Marvin Blount Jr., Bob Masten, last year's finalist, Harry Rainey, and Doug Jones.

It will be a long grind before the 1960 champion is crowned but the championship field will be narrowed to 16 after this week.

Pairings for all flights are now posted at the Pro Shop. Interested fans of this area are invited to follow the golfers as they tread the local course.

Pairings in championship flights: Bob Farley vs Howard Waldrop Bill Davenport vs J. B. Boyd Ben Harrison vs Rick Sauve Bob Masten vs Ed Rhoden Don Conley Jr. vs Topsy Smoot Henry Coleman vs John Proctor Buddy Murray vs Harry Rainey Molt Massey Jr. vs Hunter Keck Erceel Webb vs Ray Masten Simon Moye vs Dr. Massey Joe Exum vs Percy Ashby W. Major League Stars Batting — Gil Hodges, Dodgers, drove in tying run with a one-out triple, his second hit, and then scored on a wild pitch in two-run ninth inning that beat the Cardinals 3-2.

Pitching — Vern Law, Pirates, scattered seven hits, struck out two and didn't walk a man for 13-0 victory over the Reds.

Terps Edge Tar Heels; Play Deacons Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A surprising strong Maryland baseball team invades Wake Forest today with the Tarps out to show their sweep of their first three Atlantic Coast Conference games was no fluke.

Maryland got a 10th inning home run from Lawrence Kupper Thursday to edge North Carolina 5-4 and keep their ACC record unblemished.

Wake Forest, meanwhile, came to life in the seventh and eighth innings to blast Virginia 10-6 in the other ACC game Thursday.

Navy shut out Duke at Annapolis 5-0 in a non-conference game. Duke, which has a 1-0 conference record, returns home to play host to Virginia today, defending champion Clemson was scheduled at North Carolina and South Carolina at North Carolina State to put all eight teams in action.

Maryland grabbed an early 4-0 advantage over the Tar Heels who got a singleton in the eighth and three more in the bottom of the ninth, tying the game and setting the stage for Kupper's homer in the 10th.

Wake Forest battered two Virginia pitchers for 12 hits but it wasn't until the seventh when Aubrey Currie singled home two runs did the deacons go ahead 7-6. Walt Lang, who was touched for six hits in 7 1-3 innings before he was relieved, was the winning pitcher.

Ed Ettinger gave Duke only five hits in pitching Navy over the Blue Devils. It was Navy's fifth straight victory and left Duke with a 5-3 overall record.

Snead Two Strokes Behind Two Leaders

By KEN ALYTA

GREENSBORO (AP)—Two rank outsiders, Thorne Wood and Len Woodward, led the way as the $17,500 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament's second round got underway today.

Wood, a lefthanded professional from nearby Asheboro, was on top the pack of 128 after a first round 66, five under par.

Woodward, a hungry 27-year-old Sydney, Australia, pro, was one stroke back, tied with Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., last year's winner here and a major money maker in recent years.

Only two shots away in fourth place was Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., who has won here six times, including the initial Greensboro tournament in 1938.

Another former winner here, Bob Goalby from Crystal River, Fla., was fifth at 69.

Then came the following, tied at 70:

Tom Nieporte, Bronxville, N.Y.; Julius Boros, Southern Pines, N.C.; Gary Player, Johannesburg, South Africa; Johnny Pott, Shreveport, La.; and Al Bessellink, Grossinger, N.Y.

Ten men broke par and 10 more equalled it on the 6,651-yard Star-mountain Forest Country Club course. Wood, who has demonstrated before he can shoot occasional hot rounds with the best of them, won the Carolinas PGA title two years ago.

Last spring in this tournament, he fired a second round 66, then faded to a tie for 22nd money in the last two days.

He putted very well Thursday, using 30 strokes on the greens, 15 on each nine.

Finsterwald's third place finish in the Masters last Sunday marked his third successive third place win in recent weeks. His putter, after a three-putt third green, was a well-behaved instrument the rest of the way and he gave it the major credit for his fine round.

B-F Win Streak Is Snapped 9-6

BELVOIR—Winterville snapped a three game winning streak for Belvoir-Falkland here yesterday afternoon, 9-6.

The loss was the first for the Eagles and dropped them into a tie with Winterville. Both have 3-1 conference records.

Mack Worthington and Gene Weathering had two hits each for the winners. Worthington drove in five of the nine Winterville runs.

Steve Cobb and Joe Jenkins had two hits each for B-F, driving in five runs.

Belvoir-Falkland will lay Bethel here next Tuesday.

Miteff Faces Warner Tonight

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Alex Miteff, the No. 8 heavyweight contender, faces unranked Don Warner of Philadelphia tonight in a 10-round match at Convention Hall. Miteff, a sturdy Argentine is substituting for Eddie Machen who withdrew because of his mother's illness.

The scrap gets the usual Friday night network (NBC) radio and television treatment, starting at 10 p.m. Eastern Standard Time. The referee will be the only official.

Despite his solid ranking, Miteff had some troubles in 1959 when he lost three of six. In his last two starts last year he was stopped by Billy Hunter and lost a decision to the same man. However, he has won two fights this year, both by knockouts for a 21-5-1 lifetime record.

Warner, 20, never has been in with a ranked opponent. Fighting only since 1958 he has a 10-1-2 record with nine knockouts. In his only 1960 bout he fought an eight-round draw with Lee Williams in a Madison Square Garden semifinal Jan. 1.

Miteff normally weighs about 205 pounds. Williams came in at 185 pounds in a recent match.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — This could be the season a couple of guys with great potential finally blossom into major league stardom — outfielder Bobby Del Greco and pitcher Don Cardwell.

The Philadelphia Phillies have been consigned to last place by most of the experts, but Del Greco and Cardwell could help fool them. Both were off to great starts Thursday night as the Phillies whipped the Milwaukee Braves 5-4 in 10 innings.

The 27-year-old Del Greco is no newcomer to the major league scene. He's had four chances in the big leagues, with Pittsburgh, the Cardinals, Cubs and New York Yankees. The cry was always the same: good field, no hit.

Last season at Buffalo in the International League, Del Greco hit .286 with 21 homers and 72 runs batted in.

Golfers Win

The Rose High golf team won its fifth straight match yesterday afternoon, defeating Roanoke Rapids 18-0 on the Greenville course.

Bobby Thomas was medalist with a 71. He defeated Gower who finished with an 81.

Buddy Murray, Dallas Clark and Chappy Bradner won their matches with little trouble.

Murray fired a 75 while his opponent, Akers, had an 86. Clark shot an 78 in defeating Carson (90). Bradner won his match over Eure of Roanoke Rapids. Bradner had an 83 while the latter shot a 91.

Leggett Winner In S-P Victory

STOKES—Righthander Dickie Leggett went the route here yesterday afternoon, pitching a four-hitter and 6-1 Stokes-Pactolus win over Bethel.

The winners scored a single run in the first inning on sharp base-running and Donald Hardison's bases-loaded single scored two runs in the third, wrapping up the game.

Mike James had three hits for the winners. His last single drove in two runs in the sixth inning.

Stokes-Pactolus pulled off a triple play in the first inning — the first in the county this year. Shortstop Billy Roebuck made a running catch of a line drive, stepped on second base for the second out, and relayed the ball to first baseman Carroll Fleming to catch the third man.

The win gave the Blue Jays a 2-2 conference record.

So it's early yet and it may not mean a thing, but Duke Snider and Gil Hodges, too old to do it again, and Ed Roebuck, a forgotten reliever, have the Los Angeles Dodgers in first place at the moment.

Snider belted a home run, his first hit of the season, and Hodges triggered a two-run ninth that gave Roebuck his first victory since 1957 in a 3-2 decision over winless St. Louis Thursday night.

That hoisted the world champs into a share of the National League lead with San Francisco and the Chicago Cubs, who handed the Giants their first loss, 6-5, with a walk and wind-blown double in the ninth.

The Milwaukee Braves blew a three-run lead and lost 5-4 in 10 innings to the Philadelphia Phillies, left without a manager when Eddie Sawyer called it quits earlier in the day.

The Pittsburgh Pirates walloped Cincinnati 13-0 behind Vern Law's seven-hit pitching. A bases-loaded wild pitch by losing reliever Bob (Och) Dulliba won it for the Dodgers.

The Giants, who overcame Ernie Banks' third-inning grand slam homer with home runs by Willie Kirkland and Willie McCovey, were beaten when reliever Billy O'Dell walked Bob Will in the ninth and Thomas lofted a two-out fly ball. The ball dropped for a double behind short and Will was home. Don Elston, second of four Cub pitchers, won it in relief of starter Seth Morehead, who gave up a third Giant homer to Orlando Cepeda.

The Phillies, directed by coach Andy Cohen while awaiting the arrival of new manager Gene Mauch from the Minneapolis Millers of the American Assn., chased Milwaukee starter Carl Willey with three sixth-inning runs on homers by Bobby Del Greco and winning reliever Don Cardwell. In the 10th, Del Greco walked, stole second against losing reliever Juan Pizarro and scored on Joe Koppe's single.

Hank Aaron and Joe Adcock hit home runs for the Braves in a three-run first against left-hander Curt Simmons, trying for a comeback with the Phillies. Al Dark put away the 2,000th hit of his career with an infield single for the Phils.

Law, Pittsburgh's top winner last year, didn't walk a man and struck out two. The Bucs, rapped Cal McLish, a Cleveland ace last season, for five extra base hits and a 5-0 lead in three innings. Bob Clemente, 3-for-3, drove in five runs and Bill Mazeroski, who homered, drove in four as Law won his fifth in a row against the Reds at Forbes Field since 1956.

In the American League, still playing exhibitions, Baltimore beat Kansas City 3-0, Cleveland defeated Boston 5-1, Detroit smacked Washington 8-3, and the New York Yankees out-slugged their Richmond farm club in the International League 15-10.

Was Handwriting On Wall For Sawyer?

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Did Eddie Sawyer quit because he was tired of managing or because he read the handwriting on the wall? This was the question inquiring reporters tried to get answered Thursday night before the Philadelphia Phillies, under acting manager Andy Cohen, met the Milwaukee Braves at Connie Mack Stadium.

The unexpected resignation of the 49-year-old Sawyer and immediate appointment of Gene Mauch as his successor landed on the Philadelphia sports scene like a bombshell.

"I just don't care to manage a major league club, or any club," asserted Sawyer Thursday in giving up one of the 16 coveted major league managerships.

Phillies owner Bob Carpenter and General Manager John Quinn said they were shocked over Sawyer's decision.

"He'd still be managing if he wanted to," Quinn said.

"I'm disappointed in Eddie," commented Carpenter who was brought Sawyer back in mid-season of 1958, for his second term as manager. Carpenter at that time expressed the hope Sawyer could take the youngsters budding in the Phillies' farm system and develop them into a pennant winner in the same manner he did in the late 1940s.

Asked point blank if Sawyer gave up the ghost because he was being told from the front office whom to play, Quinn said, "I never told a manager whom to play, and I never will."

"Sawyer has a free hand on the field. Certainly we discussed the merits of players, their condition, etc., but I never interfered with him."

It has been widely speculated that although Quinn and Sawyer were good friends, the one-time college professor was not Quinn's type of manager. It has been felt in some quarters that Sawyer wouldn't last the season in this graveyard of managers. The 34-year-old Mauch will be the Phillies' sixth skipper since 1950.

The speed with which Quinn brought in Mauch from Minneapolis indicated he had been thinking in terms of the American Assn. manager as a possible replacement for Sawyer. Quinn says he had several men in mind, but Mauch was the first he asked to take the job. It was Quinn incidentally who recommended Mauch for his first managerial post at Atlanta seven years ago. Mauch reported here today.

Home Runs Can Be Hit In New Park Of Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Take it from the Chicago Cubs, especially Ernie Banks, home runs can be hit in the San Francisco Giants' new Candlestick Park.

"They told me no home runs here," said Cub Manager Charley Grimm, "and then I see balls flying out like aspirin tablets."

Banks hit a grand slammer in his team's 6-5 triumph Thursday night, and the Giants' Orlando Cepeda, Willie Kirkland and Willie McCovey also cleared the fences.

McCovey tied it at 5-5 in the eighth with a three-run 400-foot blast.

The Cubs won in the ninth when Bob Will walked and scored on Frank Thomas' sky high double that mixed up both the Giant infield and outfield.

Will kept running as the ball dropped in field field between Cepeda and shortstop Eddie Bressoud, who threw wild to the plate. Thomas was credited with a run batted in. Bressoud was charged with an error.

"I just quit running," Bressoud said later in taking the blame.

Until Thursday night only Kirkland had homered in the new park. Cepeda, who hit a towering shot which was caught at the 420-foot marker in deepest center opening day, said he couldn't hit a ball any harder. Some fans wondered then if they would ever see one hit out of the lot.

Cepeda ended that talk in the third when he drove a Seth Moorhead pitch over the 397-foot mark in left center.

In the fourth, starter Jack Sanford loaded the bases. Banks, for two years the league's most valuable player, swung at a two-out, 2-2 pitch. The ball landed in the field field seats, 365 feet away.

JOHN CALLISON Philadelphia Phillies

Thursday night he doubled home a run in the second inning off starter Carlton Willey and belted the same right-hander for a two-run homer in the sixth, the inning the Phillies tied the score 4-4 with a three run rally.

In the decisive 10th, he waited out relief pitcher Juan Pizarro for a walk, then stole second. Moments later, he scored from second on Joe Koppe's single to win the game.

Cardwell came out of the bullpen to replace Rube Gomez who had relieved starter Curt Simmons. Cardwell gave up only one run in six innings, striking out five and walking none. In addition he smashed a home run in the sixth to tie the score 4-4.

GREENSBORO (AP) — Ronald Green of the Charlotte News is the new president of the Carolinas Golf Writers Assn.

Green was elected here Thursday night when the group met in conjunction with the Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament underway here.

Earle Hellen of the Greensboro Record was reelected secretary-treasurer and Ken Alyta of the Associated Press was elected vice president.

Touring pro Mike Souchak, former Duke football and golf star, was named the winner of the Greater Greensboro Open trophy.

Named winners of the Carolinas Lefthanded Golfers Assn. for the top golf stories of the year were Smith Barrier and Irwin Smallwood, both of the Greensboro Daily News.

Feeble Image Of Former Champs

By CHARLES MAHER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers so far have presented a fairly feeble image of a world championship club, but they apparently haven't lost their touch for taking the tight ones.

They have been out-hit in all of their first three games, yet have won two of them — the latest through the rare fortune of a bases loaded wild pitch in the ninth inning.

"I don't mind saying I'm disappointed," Manager Walt Alton remarked Thursday night after the Dodgers dropped St. Louis 3-2 on a curve ball delivered by Cardinal reliever Bob Dulliba.

"I'm pretty well pleased with the pitching," Alton said, "but the hitting has been awful."

In 29 innings, the Dodgers have scored just six runs and have accumulated only 18 hits, an average of less than six per nine innings.

Trailing 2-1 after 8½ innings Thursday night, they got a lead-off single from pinch hitter Chuck Essegian — the man who won the opener against Chicago with an 11th inning homer. Gil Hodges drove in Essegian with a triple and scored himself after two walks when Dulliba flung a curve ball into the dirt with pinch hitter Carl Furillo at bat.

Greatest Team In Pro Hockey

TORONTO (AP) — The Montreal Canadiens were hailed today as the greatest all-round team in the history of professional hockey following the winning of the Stanley Cup for an unprecedented fifth straight year.

The power-packed Canadiens wrapped up the National Hockey League's postseason competition Thursday night with a 4-0 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The triumph gave the league champions a sweep of the two playoff series — a feat accomplished only once before. That was by Detroit in 1952.

En route to the finals, the Canadiens eliminated the Chicago Black Hawks four games to none with goalie Jacques Plante turning in two shutouts. Thursday night's shutout was his only one in the four games with Toronto.

PAUL GALLICO'S Bestseller TOO MANY GHOSTS

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

"I feel like a fool for saying so," Sir Richard told Alexander Hero, "but we are hastily and visibly haunted down at Paradine Hall."

Sir Richard Lockerie, a friend and guest of Lord and Lady Paradine related the happenings at Paradine Hall to Hero, the private investigator of ghostly phenomena. The latter immediately recognized the pattern of an old legend, "The Phantom Nun of Paradine Hall."

Accepting a commission to investigate, Hero consulted his stepister, Meg, a photographer with a royal and high society clientele. She discussed with him the Paradine and the paying guests lodged in the east wing of the hall. Thus Hero was prepared to meet some extraordinary people when he arrived at the hall in time for a rite of exorcism.

en and she had difficulty speaking. She gasped, "I went into the young lady's room, and—" The memory of what she had seen apparently overcame her and she suddenly sank to her knees with her face in her hands.

Hero snapped, "Come on!" to Sir Richard Lockerie, picked up Mark Paradine with a nod of his head, and cried to Susan Marshall, "Miss Marshall, will you lead us please to your room—at once, quickly!"

Susan stared at him uncomprehendingly. "My room?" she said. "But why? I don't understand."

Hero said peremptorily, "Never mind understanding, do as I say. Immediately, please."

She had caught the urgency in his voice now and hesitated no longer but ran with him, Sir Richard, and Mark. Close in their wake was Mr. Wither- spoon, still clutching his as- perge. Lighly Susan took the stairs two at a time, her dark hair streaming out behind her. At the top she raced down the cor- ridor to the left until she came before a closed door, the one which had been slammed shut by the maid in her fright. She paused before it uncertainly.

"All of you stand back," or- dered Hero. He turned the knob of the door, pushed it open, and went in.

Inside the door the room was a shambles. At first sight it looked as though a tornado had struck it and whirled the con- tents about almost beyond recognition. Covers and bedclothes had been ripped from the four- poster bed, pillows removed from pillowcases and piled helter- skelter on the bare mattress.

The floor was a mass of fem- inine belongings, disorderly heaps of frocks, dresses, tennis cloth- es, evening gowns, mixed up with nightgowns, negligees, and tangle- s of nylon stockings.

Coats, shoes, and hats were jumbled in another pile, and there were open suitcases, van- ity bags, and a hand trunk lit- tering the floor.

Susan Marshall stood in the doorway for a moment next to the distressed and frightened clergyman, tears of anger glisten- ing in her eyes and her fine col- or heightened. She was filled with a kind of irate shame that her intimate garments and posses- sions so closely related to her personally had been touched and were now exposed to view. Mark Paradine was white with rage, his hands opening and clos- ing into convulsive fists for which there was no earthly use.

"Oh," lamented Susan miser- ably, "all my things!" She went to the dresser, where her jewel- ry collection of innocent brace- lets, bangles, a few rings and brooches, and a string of pearls lay in a heap of spilled powder, and Hero said sharply, "Wait, if you please, Miss Marshall—and everyone. Do not touch anything."

The Rev. Harry Witherspoon had managed to recover some of his composure. He now should- ered his way through the press of those at the doorway staring in- to the room with horror, saying, "Allow me. Allow me. I must go in. This is terrible — terrible. The exorcism—must be continued immediately."

"No," said Mr. Hero positive- ly, "no more. Another time per- haps, but not now. It has failed."

A harsh, scathing voice made itself heard from the press at the door, savage and mocking: "Oh, come, you aren't going to tell us that you believe in all that mumbo-jumbo stuff!" The attack came from the sardonic elderly soldier, Major Wilson.

Hero replied, "No, I do not, but it ought to be quite apparent to you something does, and has reacted violently."

Lord Paradine gave an irrita- ble snort. "Something — you mean 'someone,' don't you? Someone's been after something in Susan's room."

Hero answered him with only a kind of half attention, for his eyes and the rest of his mind were still intent upon what had happened to the room and what it suggested to him. "Some- one," he said, "would seem to call rather for a police officer than a psychical investigator."

Wool Production Is Encouraged

In contrast to several programs operated by federal Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation offices in North Carolina to reduce production of certain farm commodities, ASC operates a program designed to increase the production of wool.

J. Lyman Edwards, chairman of the Pitt County ASC Committee, explained today that wool is an essential and strategic commodity which is not produced in sufficient quantity in the United States.

For this reason, he said, Congress passed the Wool Act of 1964 directing the secretary of agriculture to provide an incentive program to encourage U. S. annual wool production of 300 million pounds.

According to Edwards, every year this program has been in effect it has served its purpose by increasing the nation's wool production. Should the national average price reach the 62-cent level, subsidization would be discontinued.

Cross Burned On Detroit Street

DETROIT (AP) - A cross was burned on a street corner in a Detroit Negro neighborhood Thursday night.

Police said a witness told them a white man drove up, took the five-foot wooden cross from his car, propped it up, set it on fire and then drove away.

Red Oak Christian Announcements

Attendance and interest at our Pre-Easter Revival has been good. A different minister has preached each night on what Jesus did during that day of Holy Week.

Tonight's guest speaker will be the Rev. Harold Tyer, pastor of the Stokes Christian Church and a former pastor at Red Oak Christian Church from 1949-1956.

Sunday school will be held at 9:45 a.m. with classes for all age groups. The Sanctuary Choir will present an Easter Cantata, "No Greater Love," by John Peterson, at the 11 o'clock morning worship service.

Members of our church will join this year in the Union Easter Sunrise Service, sponsored by the Greenville Ministerial Association, which will be held at 8 a.m. at Cherry Hill Cemetery.

Youth meetings will not be held Sunday night. Circle No. 2 will meet Tuesday night at 8:00 with Mrs. George Haddock.

Boy Scout Troop 398 will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Sokolsky Col.

(Continued from page four) strove their short-cuts to the truth, in his last years recognized his short-cuts to the truth, in his last years recognized the intuitive patriotism of Kohlberg. He knew no divided loyalties. The United States was his country; he rejected affinity for any other.

And now Alfred Kohlberg is dead. He will no more trouble bureaucrats with his investigations or his wit. He, who burst the blubber of many puffed up officials, is no more to plague them. But what Kohlberg started will never die. It caught the fancy of many younger men and women that truth is not a fallacy and courage is not a sin.

$50 Gift Toward Smoke Training Center Is Made

A $50 gift from the E. B. Ficklen Tobacco Company has been added to the fund for the construction of a smoke training center at the Greenville Fire Department's drill tower on Chestnut St.

In presenting the check to the department, L. S. and J. S. Ficklen said, from talking to people who were at the scene of a recent fire which damaged the firm's Cooper Shop and from an examination of the structure after the blaze, they did not see how firemen "were able to get it under control and extinguished." They added "It certainly speaks well for the training which they have been given and the outstanding caliber" of the men. "Greenville should certainly be proud to have such a fire department."

A fire of undetermined cause damaged the tobacco company's hothouse factory on Ficklen St. Sunday night about 6:30. Company spokesmen said the contents of the building, which consisted of hothouse material, was a total loss due to fire and smoke damage.

Fire Chief George W. Gardner, in thanking the company for the gift, said by giving the money the firm was helping further better fire protection in Greenville, "because through the use of a smoke training center, firemen and rescue men can get excellent practice in the use of gas masks and receive good training in combating confined fires."

Chief Gardner noted that the department already has $475 for use on the one-story masonry building, and pointed out that $50 was given by Rose's Store for the training facility following a destructive blaze in the Rose's Store here in Greenville last year. Three hundred and seventy-five dollars was given to the department by the Greenville Saddle Club, the gate receipts from the group's horse show held here two weeks ago.

M. O. Minges gave $5,000 toward the construction of the present drill tower, which was built in 1941, with the Federal Government bearing the remainder of the cost, according to Chief Gardner.

Fire Chief Supports New Sub-Station Plea

Construction of a sub fire station in the East Greenville area will mean trucks will arrive at fires in the section more quickly than at present, Fire Chief George Gardner told Jaycees last night.

This will mean small fires will have less chance of becoming big fires, he stated.

"Having a piece of equipment in that area will mean that it can be at the scene and have the truck out before the main station truck can even get there," Gardner said.

The Jaycees recently adopted as a project working for construction of the substation in East Greenville. The station is in the works since the City Council Wednesday night included $65,000 in a proposed bond issue for constructing and equipping such a station.

"You fellows have already done the work and all I can say is thank you for a job well done," Chief Gardner told the Jaycees last night.

"All we've got to do now is see that it goes through and I'm confident it will."

City officials are thinking of a location in the 14th St.-Elm St.

YOUTH CHARGED IN BOMB HOAX

RAMSEUR, N.C. (AP) — A 14-year-old student, overheard on a rural seven-party telephone line, has been arraigned on charges of making a hoax bomb call to Ramseur High School.

Lionie Ransom Carlton, a tenant farmer's son, was quoted by police as saying he got the idea for the prank from a recent Charlotte TV newscast that had reported on a hoax bomb call.

The school was emptied of 400 students just before noon Thursday, 10 minutes after a caller told police three bombs had been planted to go off at noon in various rooms, one of them occupied by a brother of Carlton.

A police search produced no explosives.

Sheriff W. W. Wilson made the arrest after a housewife on the party line heard the call and later alerted police.

Carlton faces juvenile court trial April 21 on a misdemeanor charge under a 1959 General Assembly anti-bomb-hoax act. The boy was released in custody of his parents.

Fear Rockslide At Niagara Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Large cracks at the crest of the American Falls have stirred fears of a third major rockslide that could crumble a section about the size of a football field.

The first slide, in 1954, tumbled 185,000 tons of rock over Prospect Point. In 1956, a 120,000-ton slide destroyed most of a power station, killing one man.

Wisconsin has an area of 56,066 square miles.
